Nixon May Enter McCarthy-Army Feud In Talk Tonight

By JACK BELL & G. MILTON KELLY WASHINGTON (AP) - Vice President Nixon states the case for the Republican administration tonight in a radio-television address while a family fight rages within the GOP over Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and some of his investigative aides.

Stevens and John G. Adams, the Army's general counsel retorted that such accusations were untrue. McCarthy had said Adams told him several months ago a report embarrassing to the subcommittee would be made public unless an investigation of the Army were called off.

Before the day was over some Republicans as well as Democrats in the Senate were demanding investigations to determine who is telling the truth in the crossfire of accusations.

McCarthy's retort of "blackmail" was accompanied by memoranda he said came from the subcommittee files and depicted of Army matters.

But Nixon kept his own counsel as to the exact strategy he will use. There was no advance text of his speech. He left it open for any revision deemed necessary up to the moment of delivery.

The administration line that appeared to be emerging was that McCarthy's methods of investigating alleged Communists are only a passing and sometimes unfortunate phase in the overall job of running the government.

Sen. Duff (R-Pa.), one of Eisenhower's original 1952 supporters, said in an interview he believes the President's program is being impeded by the controversy over McCarthy which has cut deep into the Republican party.

Dirksen said he was waiting for the meeting to begin when Sen. Potter (R-Mich.), another subcommittee member, called McCarthy and learned no meeting was to be held.

Navy Planes Attacked By MIG Near Czech Border U. S. Planes Fired Upon

MUNICH, Germany (AP) - Two American Navy carrier-based planes were attacked by a Communist MIG near the Czech-German border yesterday. Czechoslovakia charged immediately that they had flown over its vital uranium-producing center at Jachymov, 35 miles inside the Iron Curtain and fired the first shot.

Bavarian police were the first to report the incident and it was hours before Army, Navy or Air Force came out with an official confirmation of the shooting.

The planes had been flying over the American zone of Austria, just at its junction with the German state of Bavaria and Czechoslovakia.

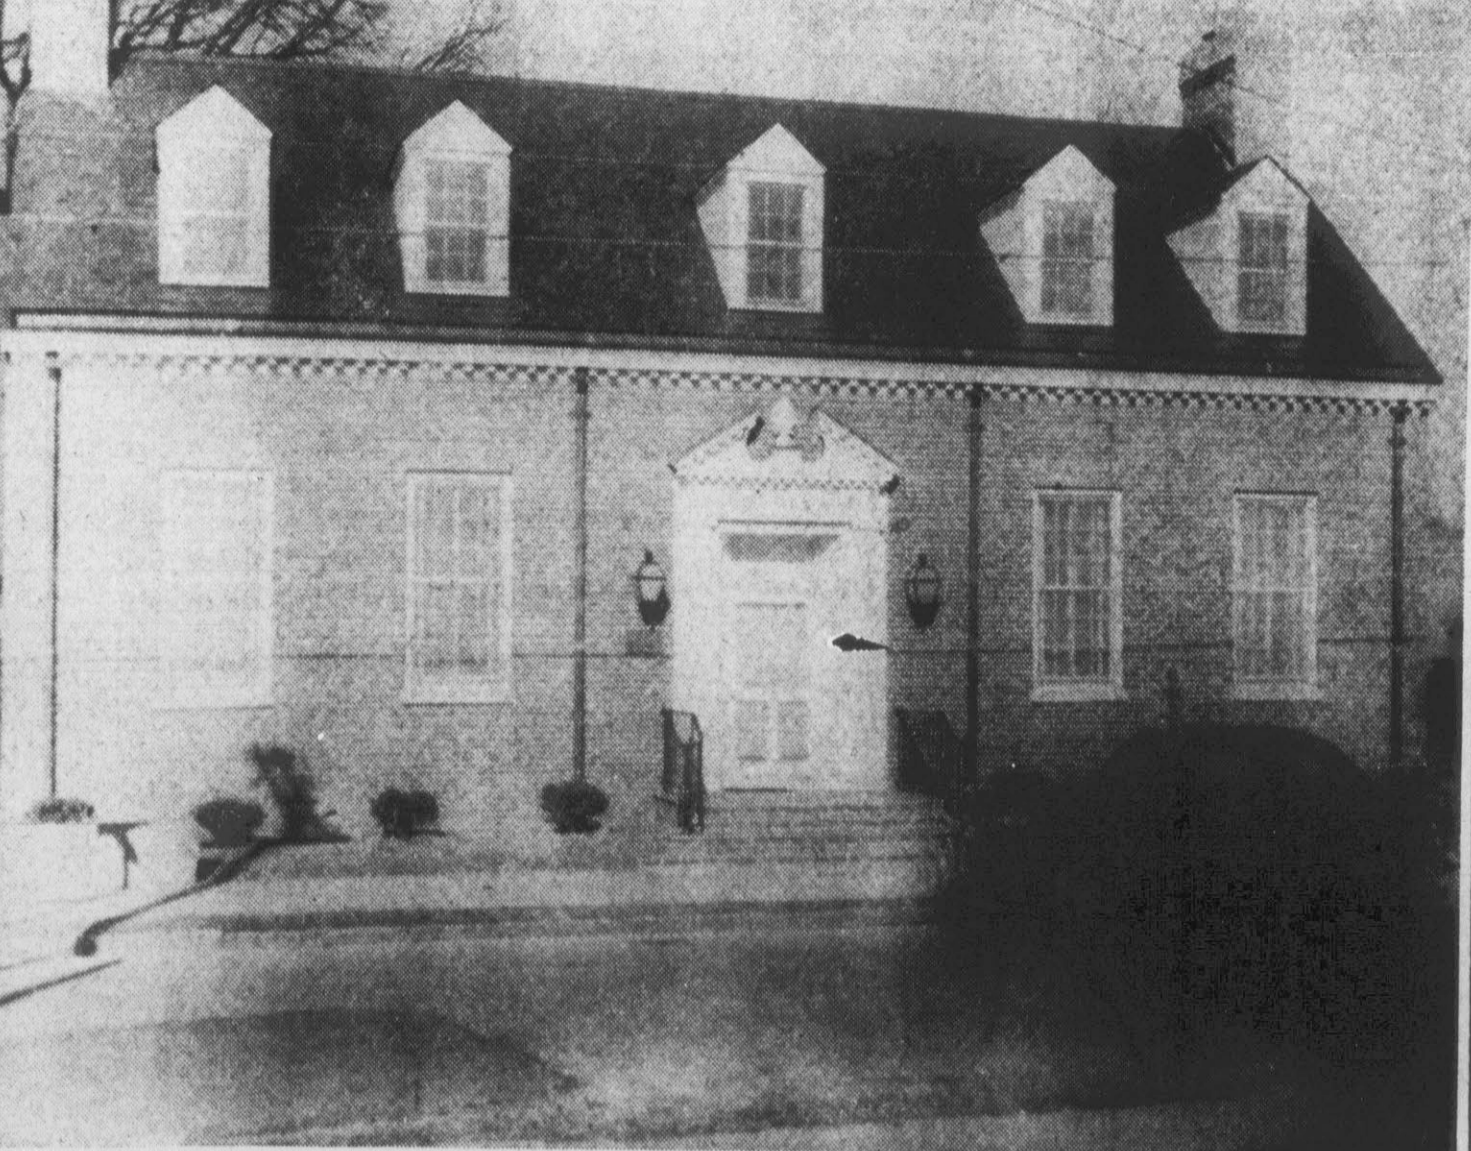

Dulles Virtually Assured of Victory Anti-Red Vote Slated Today

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) - A warning to international Communists to keep their hands off the Western Hemisphere was set for a decisive vote today by the 20 American nations attending the 10th Inter-American Conference here.

The Red issue has been debated heatedly in the political-judicial committee of the conference for a week. Dulles led the fight for passage of his resolution calling on American states to take joint action whenever any one of their number falls under international Communist influence.

They export to the United States—were expected to be voiced loudly here the remainder of the meeting.

New Farmville Library Opens Doors On Monday

Pictured above is an outside view of the $50,000 library which will open in Farmville Monday. The library was presented to the town of Farmville by Miss Elizabeth Davis in memory of her father, F. M. Davis. Formal dedication ceremonies are planned for May 11. The new building replaces the old library which was housed in a few rooms over the city hall. The Doctor Disagrees

CHAPTER THIRTY SIX
THE CARRS looked blankly from one to another, thinking in unison of the telephone message which had come that morning— from Stephen. He was in a hospital in San Francisco and after a check-up would be on his way home; he had not been able to get a call through to Shelly, so he had called his father. "Don't tell Shelly I'm coming. I want to do that when I reach her. I suppose she's gone to see her mother. If I can't reach her down there, I'll surprise her..."

That was how the Carrs had learned she had gone into the city; they had called the hotel where she usually stayed. She was not a guest. They remembered that she had been down to the city a week ago—two, at the most.

All this had happened before and after church; they had been debating their next move when Eleanor paid her visit. Now Willard Maupin said something about damn fool women, but he didn't specify what women, and none present protested his verdict.

"Well, there's just one thing certain!" said Everett heavily. "We must find Shelly and bring her back."

"But, Papa..." May Anna gasped.

"We must," he repeated. "For the boy's sake."

"Well, I'd think," declared Ruth, "that you should let her stay right where she is—for Stevie's sake. The others watched Everett to see how he would react."

"Ruth," said her father sadly, "I'm afraid you are a fool!"

Technically, Eleanor had told only the truth at the Carrs. She had seen Shelly leave—with baggage. If their minds suggested anything else, she told herself virtuously, it was no affair of hers.

Head up, she drove into town and stopped her car behind the blue one parked in the street where Craig Talbot lived. It was thirty; she'd make him come out there to talk. As she went up the steps of the apartment house, she heard him at the piano. Younger than Springtime came the melody, Eleanor's eyes snapped. In answer to her finger on his bell, the music broke off and he came into the hall.

"Who is it?" he called down the stairs.

"It's Eleanor," she answered softly. "Come down—I want to talk to you."

"Won't you come up?"

"Definitely not."

"All right." He came down the stairs, Donald at his heels. Eleanor went back to her car, and the man joined her there, his eyes on his little dog among the neighbors' shrubbery. But quite soon Donald went to the apartment house stoop and lay down.

"He knows what Sunday afternoons are for," Craig chuckled. He had lit a cigarette for Eleanor and himself, and now leaned back in the seat. He was wearing a yellow cashmere slip-on over a dark blue shirt, gray slacks.

"Talking just enough," he grumbled. "To spoil my golf."

The girl beside him smoked in silence.

"Why wouldn't you come up?" he asked. "I'd have made you a drink."

She looked at him, her eyes shining. "Not today," she said emphatically.

"What did you come to tell me?"

"I believe it is customary," she said slowly, "for the principals of a juicy story to be the last to know there is a story. Eh?"

His head tilted and there was the suggestion of a patient smile in his dark eyes. "Now what?"

"I've just come from Carr Circle," she said blandly. "From Everett Carr's house where the family is in conference. All the family—except Stevie, of course—and—" she glanced at Craig, "Stevie's wife."

SOMEONE HAS A LITTLE LAMB

Youngsters are always "cute"—whether they're the woolly type or the romper variety. Youngsters are appealing because they are fascinating miniatures of the adult of the species. So tiny... yet they look, and soon begin to act, like smaller editions of the grown-ups.

That fact should make human parents deeply conscious of their responsibility. Their own example and influence, and their provision for the child's spiritual needs can make or mar a youngster's character.

Churches are the chief allies of conscientious parents. They provide consecrated Christian teachers, interesting graded lessons and the inspiring worshipful setting for a child's moral and spiritual training.

Will you help some church in this vital phase of its work? Will you attend and support the Church? Will you encourage parents you know to give their children the advantage of the Church's teaching ministry?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor in the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his community and nation. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Old Guns Are His Hobby; Each One Has Own Story

SYMBOLS OF THE ROARING WEST—These four guns represent the most famous firearms ever made by the Colt Company. At top is a .41 calibre Colt, the type gun carried by Billy the Kid Bonney; below it is a single action Colt .45 Lightning 1877 model. The two bottom guns are a pair of Colt Frontier revolvers, a .38-40 calibre patented in 1871, and another Colt .45. The pistols shown at top and bottom in this picture are the Frontier models most sought-after by collectors.

There are many people who collect antiques, but few who collect only antique guns.

H.B. Lilley of Greenville is one of those few people whose hobby centers around the collection of antique pistols, and he has collected one of the most outstanding displays of antique guns in this section.

"Every antique gun has a value and an interesting history if you take the trouble to find out what it is," commented the lanky law enforcement officer. "It's an interesting hobby. I've just been loving it since I was a kid."

In Lilley's collection—the value of which he keeps an undisclosed secret—are to be found famous model pistols dating back to the 1840s. There are several old cap and ball revolvers used prior to the Civil War and during that war; tiny guns carried by ladies of a century ago; large revolvers carried by the law officers and bad men of the old west; and pocket weapons the like of which were carried by gangsters and used to assassinate Presidents.

Lilley began his hobby of collecting antique guns in earnest about 10 years ago, and during that period has accumulated and disposed of three entire collections, and now has a fourth collection even better than the previous three.

In all there are about 30 guns in the collection, 17 of which he says are in A-1 working order in spite of the fact some of them were made more than 100 years ago.

As a law enforcement officer for the Pitt County ABC board, Lilley hoisters a gun practically every day; and on many days chooses a weapon from his collection of antique revolvers in preference to a modern pistol.

"I'm not afraid to use any of the revolvers of large caliber for combat," Lilley commented as he fingered a large, glittering pearl handle revolver. "They are made of better steel than guns today."

But where does one look for antique guns?

That, of course, is one of the secrets of the hobby but Lilley says there are several obvious places from which antique guns can be obtained. There are many antique gun houses from which guns can be ordered; there are pawn shops into which antique guns often find their way; there are old guns handed down in families and which younger members of the family do not care anything for and want to dispose of; and then there are always people who have old guns that they no longer want.

There is more to acquiring a fine collection of antique guns than just finding them, Lilley asserts. The quality of the piece and its value are determined to an appreciable extent by the condition of the gun.

It is often part of the job of a collector to put an old piece back into operating condition once it has been acquired. In some instances necessary parts can be ordered from manufacturing companies to put an old gun back into working shape.

In other instances, the collector may find it necessary to make or have made a particular part for a gun. If that is not feasible, the collector may have to seek another piece of the same make and model and take from it parts with which to repair the gun he first secured.

Lilley does about 80 per cent of the mechanical work necessary on the guns in his collection.

Probably the rarest and one of the finest pieces in Lilley's collection is the .41 calibre, double barreled over-and-under Remington Derringer made in 1865. It was an extremely popular gun of its day because of its power, its design and its small size. Yet it became infamous as the weapon used in the assassinations of Presidents Garfield and McKinley.

The 1865 Derringer in Lilley's collection is in perfect working condition, and has mother-of-pearl handles.

Another of the more unusual small guns in the collection is an 1850 model Sharps four barrel .22 calibre pistol. The overall length of the pistol is four inches, and one barrel is fired at a time by a revolving nose firing pin on the hammer. The model was particularly popular among gamblers during the California gold rush era.

Among the oldest pieces in the collection are several models of revolvers which played an important part in the Civil War. One is an 1849 model Colt percussion revolver .21 calibre with a hinged ramrod. It is a cap and ball gun which in its present condition may be loaded with black powder and fired today.

Another in this group is a model 1851 percussion revolver with a five inch barrel. The model was one of the first Colts to introduce grain, twist rifling in pistol barrels. It is also in working condition. Still a third of this category is an 1851 model Colt navy percussion revolver similar to the one just described except it has a six inch barrel.

A fourth gun of the Civil War period is the model 1858 .44 calibre army pistol which measures 14 inches over all. It is a percussion, cap and ball six shot pistol.

A strong flavor of the old frontier is carried in Lilley's collection by the presence of four of the more famous models carried by lawmen and outlaws alike during the era of the taming of the West.

Among these are the Colt lightning model .41 calibre patented in 1871 which became known as the Billy the Kid model after the gunman who chose it as the primary weapon for the 21 notches he carved on the handles of his six shooters.

A heavier version of the same gun is the .45 calibre 1877 lightning Colt. The one in Lilley's collection was found in the Berlin wreckage during World War II by former Greenville Police Chief Guy Langston, who brought the gun home.

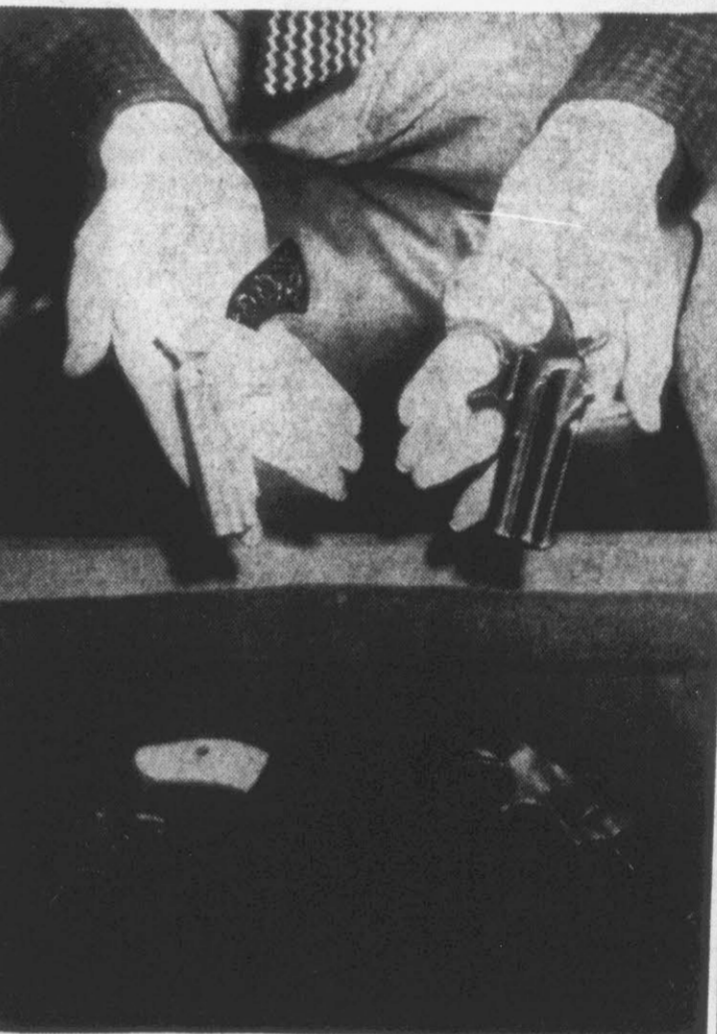

The other two guns of the old frontier in the collection are a .45 calibre Colt and a .38-40 Colt. All four of the frontier models are nickel plated and have either pearl or mother-of-pearl handles.

There are many other interesting guns in the collection, each with a history. "All antique guns tell a story," says collector Lilley, "although many of them can not be identified. No antique gun ever loses its value, instead its value increases daily."

"To really enjoy antique gun col-

One-Legged Skiers Are Learning Difficult Art

By RALPH HOVIS
BIG BEAR LAKE, Calif.—The challenging art of skiing—touch enough for a normal person to learn—is being mastered by a group of determined, one-legged men.

Like other groups in the area they're taking instruction, but there's a difference: the members of this bunch use only one regulation ski, with another on a crutch.

They are students of the American Amputee Ski School, the only one of its type in this country.

Its director, Scobee Smith of Lancaster, Calif., lost a leg in a bout with cancer two years ago.

The school, just started this winter, has about a dozen pupils, including three Army veterans who became single amputees after being injured in Korean combat.

The amputee skiers come from various southern California points to attend weekend classes at nearby Snow Summit.

"The whole idea of an amputee ski school," said Smith, a senior at the University of California at Los Angeles, "belonged to Bob Engelen, a former Army captain and an amputee who died just three months ago."

"Bob saw amputee skiing for the first time in Germany in 1951, and gave it a try. He became convinced there should be an amputee ski school over here. He got it going just before he died three months ago."

Strangely, one of the obstacles in establishing a ski school came from some skiers who said it would be "depressing" to the public to see amputees skiing. Actually, skiers here now marvel at the amputees' great progress.

"We can ride up on the rope tows, make downhill runs, do our turns and traverses like pros,"

Smith reported. "Last week, I even went through the slalom course. And did some airplane turns."

As for the construction of the skis Smith said Engelen brought back a sample crutch ski from Germany and he copied it and made others for the students at his school. "We use a regulation ski plus the crutch ski."

The Snow Summit amputee ski school is sponsored by the Los Angeles Athletic Club, which pays the teaching and equipment costs. Snow Summit provides the facilities at no cost. Service clubs handle food, lodging and transportation expenses for the amputees.

Since 1940, U.S. civilian federal, state and local jobholders have increased in numbers about 60 per cent compared with a rise of about 14 per cent in the total number of U.S. jobs.

New Library In Farmville Will Open On Monday

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector Staff Writer
FARMVILLE—One of the most modern libraries in this section will open Monday when the citizens of Farmville begin using their new $50,000 library building.

It is a building given by Miss Elizabeth Davis in memory of her father, F.M. Davis.

The new building replaces the small library which was housed over the city hall until recently. These facilities were closed last February 2 so that books and other materials could be moved into the new building in time for the opening.

The building includes a large reading room and shelves for books and a lounge in the rear. In addition a kitchen has been installed on the first floor of the building.

The second floor of the library is not to be used at the present time but rooms were finished in pine paneling to allow for expansion of the library facilities in the future. Fluorescent lighting is used throughout the building and acoustic tile has been installed to reduce noise. In addition the floor is covered with asphalt tile.

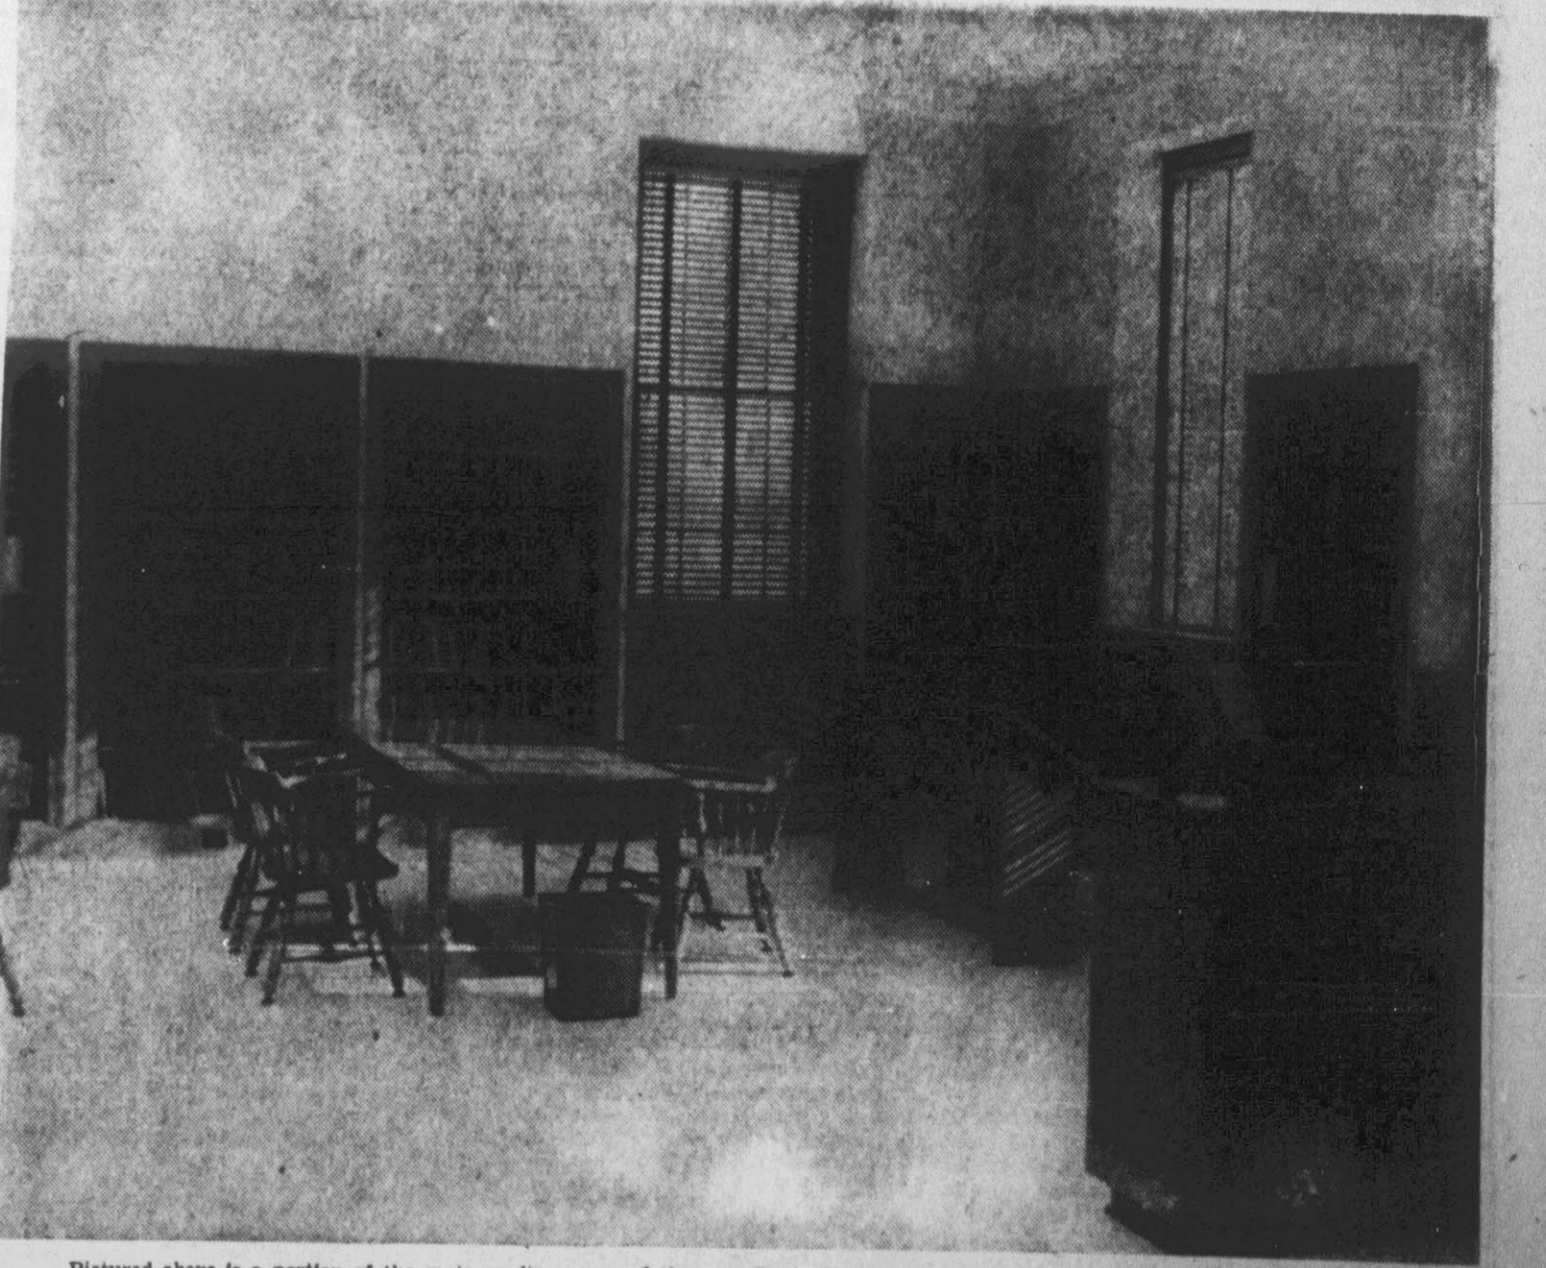

The new library will operate with a staff of two. Mrs. Gray C. Martin has served as librarian at the old library and she will continue as assistant librarian in the new building.

Serving as head librarian will be Miss LaRue McKenny, a recent graduate at East Carolina College. Miss McKenny received a degree in library science at ECC.

The new building will house approximately 500 volumes at the present time.

Formal dedication ceremonies are planned for the building next May 11.

The library will be open from two to five p.m. Monday through Friday and from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday. On Saturday it will be open from 10 to 12 a.m. and from one to five p.m.

Pictured above is a portion of the main reading room of the new Farmville library. The building was given by Miss Elizabeth Davis in memory of her father and replaces the old library which was housed in a few rooms over the city hall.

Good News For Nation's Taxpayers

House action in slashing some 25 federal government excise taxes $912 millions is good news for just about everybody but the Eisenhower administration. The cuts approved by the House in the overwhelming passage of the measure represent the first downward revision in federal excise and sales taxes in two decades. They will mean a loss of almost a billion dollars in revenue for the federal government annually, and will of course mean an equal increase in the 2.9 billion deficit already forecast by the Eisenhower administration for the fiscal year beginning July 1. It is significant to note that the measure which won 411 to 3 approval in the House vote was opposed by the administration. The administration likewise opposes other proposed tax cuts including increased personal exemptions for income taxes. It is to be expected that the President and his lieutenants in Congress as well as in the administrative branch of the government are uneasy about the handwriting which the recent House vote puts on the wall. Should the obvious enthusiasm of members of Congress for the reduction of excise taxes be carried over to other tax cuts for the relief of the public, it could necessitate a complete revision of federal government spending plans or radically increasing red figures on the government books. The President may be expected to exert every ounce of influence he can muster both in Congress and by appealing directly to the people of the nation to prevent further measures which would mean additional drastic reductions in government revenue. The Republicans advocated reducing taxes and spending when they came to power. The public has been demanding reduced government spending and less tax burdens. Apparently the public and Congress want to see concrete results at a more rapid pace than the administration deems wise. At any rate, the reduction of excise taxes approved by the House is encouraging to the rank and file citizens. It renews the hope that further reductions in taxes will be forthcoming in the near future.

State Short Tax Form Is Popular

It looks like North Carolina's Department of Revenue came up with a best seller in its new short form personal income tax return. Reports from Raleigh indicate that approximately 40 per cent of the income tax returns made to the state are being made on the new short form. The payment of state income taxes in a lump sum after most people have gotten used to the federal withholding system is at best a chore undertaken by the people of the state unenthusiastically. The easier and more convenient the state can make it for its citizens to make their income tax returns, the better it will be. The use made of the new short form adopted by the state this year is an indication of what the people think of it.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
INEXHAUSTIBLE
On the island of Trinidad, there is a lake of pitch resembling an ancient volcano crater filled with asphalt. Day by day this asphalt is dug up, loaded on cars, and shipped away. Within seventy-two hours the asphalt that has been taken out is replaced. There appears to be an inexhaustible supply coming from beneath. For sixty-three years this mining has been going on. The supply, to all human calculations, is inexhaustible. This reminds us of the spiritual powers upon which our souls depend every day. We know that there are certain physical powers inherent in the earth which seem to be inexhaustible—or at least immeasurable—but very often we do not realize that we are primarily spiritual beings and that our lives are constantly being supported by inexhaustible spiritual powers. We use up these powers in the struggle of life and yet, behold, as the struggle continues and as we meet new crises, the power is there just as before—sometimes greater than before. The greatest of such spiritual powers is what is known as the grace of God. Just as the people who mine asphalt in Trinidad find that what they have used is replaced, so we find that God's grace—or graciousness—flows continually and powerfully into our lives to sustain and strengthen us.

An Opinion On Sen. McCarthy

By RAY TUCKER
Every Saturday this veteran Washington columnist devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 8308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md. WASHINGTON—"I notice," writes M. L. of Springfield, Mass., "that you have never taken any position with regard to Senator McCarthy's Communist hunt and terrorist tactics. Like President Eisenhower, you seem to be afraid to tackle him." Answer: It is not my job as a Washington newspaper observer to "take a position" on Senator McCarthy. My assignment is to try to analyze and report the impact which his operations have on the national political scene, and the general reaction to his accomplishments at Washington. I do not conceive it to be my responsibility to praise or condemn him. That is the work of the editorial writers, and they have praised and condemned. VIEWPOINT IN A LETTER—However, I recently received a letter from C.Q.S. of Naugatuck, Conn., which discusses McCarthy and the Communist-in-Government problem with clarity and sanity. Since it reflects the viewpoint of so many readers who have written to me on this subject, and of constituents' mail on Capitol Hill, I quote it at some length. C.Q.S. writes: "I feel that McCarthy's aims are admirable. However, his methods stink and cause more harm than good. The serious thing is that he has many fair-minded and intelligent people with him, believing that he is carrying on a tremendous crusade to save the country. He is followed blindly by many of my friends, just as people followed Hitler, Mussolini and other dictators. Certainly, his methods are of a dictatorial character. If you do not agree with McCarthy, he castigates you, although in every other way you may be a fine public servant. I have in mind former Senator Tydings of Maryland and Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine. RESPONSIBLE PERSONS—The most serious

Somebody Told Me

'Forbidden Fruit' Effects

Wanted: An explanation of why the taste of coffee has improved so much since the price went out of reason. Of late when I walk in the house at night, coming in from a meeting, the first question I ask Wife Rachel is, "Is there any coffee in the pot?" When the price was in reason, we didn't especially give a rip about the stuff. Now when people with good judgment should learn to drink something else, we increase our coffee consumption. This forbidden fruit characteristic proves that we aren't too smart. During World War II it seemed that nobody was smart in that respect. Sugar wasn't available so everybody wanted to bake cakes and made fudge. Cigarettes weren't available so everybody wanted to smoke so much more that many people would duck a cigarette to save part of it for later. And how about riding. With no gas or tires available people seemed to have a craving to get out on the open road. The forbidden fruit angle has even been used in selling. Certain snooty manufacturers would say, "We'll check with the main office to see if we want to add a distributor in this area." In order to insure the sale, they think, they will appear not too anxious, therefore making the product seem more desirable. But with the lightning of our economy, this sales approach has gone completely out of the window. Various clubs and organizations really capitalize on this psychology. Some of them require you to fill out a form a mile long, appear before an initiation committee, and then they'll "let you know" if you were accepted. By the time they get through with their routine you think you're a big shot to have been accepted. And that's what they intend for you to feel like. You are charged to make everybody who comes in the club after you feel as though he's a big shot for having been accepted. Scratching my head to recall courtship days, it seems that this approach is used in the love game as much as anywhere else. Many a man or woman, especially man, has been hooked by his partner appearing hard to get. Likewise, many a woman has lost her man by being too readily available. Ticket salesmen have used this approach so much that it has lost its effect. "Better get your tickets now," they say, "every seat will be sold in a few days." So now people say "Phooey." The forbidden fruit approach works almost every time. JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

TOLERANCE CAN LOSE ITS VIRTUE
It appears that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is on the verge of a great diplomatic triumph at the Inter-American Conference in Caracas, Venezuela. Despite deeply ingrained Latin American jealousy of U.S. wealth and power, and despite the memory of dollar diplomacy and U.S. armed intervention in the Caribbean, Secretary Dulles is winning support for an American resolution that would prevent Communism from gaining a foothold in the Western Hemisphere. Stripped to its bare essentials, the U.S. proposal calls for joint-inter-American action whenever "the international Communist movement" dominates or controls a state's political institutions. The wording of the resolution is understandably mild in order to allay the repugnance and suspicions of smaller nations who resent any suggestion of intervention by a larger nation such as the United States. Though mild, the idea behind the resolution is bold and the support which Secretary Dulles is eliciting for it speaks well for his skill and for the righteousness of his cause. Those who picture the U.S. resolution as denying people who want Communism their democratic right are guilty of muddled thinking. In the first place, history has shown that the undeveloped Latin American countries lend themselves to military coups. The fact that armed Communists seize control of a government does not mean the people want a Communist government. Moreover, since International Communist government, since International Communism is the instrument of Soviet policy, we delude ourselves when we regard its establishment by election or coup, in this hemisphere as of no consequence to us. Guatemala's Leftist and pro-Communist Foreign Minister Guillermo Toriello has made quite a splash at Caracas by attacking the integrity of the United States. No doubt some of the applauding delegates enjoyed the spectacle of the would-be David taking on Goliath. However, when the votes are counted, Guatemala will be isolated and the American position will prevail because Latin Americans in their heart of hearts know that Guatemala's voice is not their own but that of the Kremlin. Secretary Dulles will have performed a great service in winning adoption for the American plan to act in concert for the prevention of Communist coups. It would be suicide for the United States to resist Communist aggression in Asia and Europe and then permit it, willy-nilly, to flourish at our very back door. Tolerance loses its virtue, and indeed endangers the democracy which shelters it, when it permits a cancer like communism to gain a foothold by whatever method under whatever name.

Demo Voters Start Political Wheels Turning May 8th

By LYNN NISBET
DEMOCRATS — The Democratic voters of North Carolina will start their party wheels turning with precinct meetings to be held Saturday, May 8, followed by the county conventions on Saturday, May 15, and the State convention on Thursday, May 20. These dates were fixed by the executive committee here this week. In many respects the precinct meetings are the most important in the series. Every registered Democratic voter in the precinct is a qualified delegate to that meeting, which chooses delegates to the county convention, where delegates to the State convention are selected. The precinct voters also elect a committee and the chairman of the precinct committees constitute the county executive committee. The Democratic Plan of Organization declares "The unit of county organization shall be the voting precinct." The opening sentence of the Republican Plan as revised at Charlotte the other day reads: "The unit of party action shall be the election precinct." TIMING — The State convention was set ten days ahead of the primary, which has been the custom for several years. There was debate on the resolution offered by Arch Allen of Wake fixing the dates. Pre-session talk of an opposing resolution setting the date after the primary, with the idea that if Kerr Scott should win the senatorial nomination his faction could more easily take over control of the party machinery, did not materialize. The Umstead-Lennon-Jordan group held tight control over the 167 voting members—81 present in person and 86 by proxy. There was no dissenting vote on any matter presented, and it was apparent that everybody present voted, without regard to membership or proxy holding. RESOLUTIONS — Memorial resolutions were adopted for J.W. Armstrong of Charlotte, Virgil D. Guire of Lenoir and John D. Warlick of Jacksonville, committee members who died since the last meeting. Also for James Y. Joyner, former State Superintendent of Public Instruction; Cameron Morrison, former Governor, U.S. Senator and Representative in Congress; and Willis Smith, U.S. Senator, all of whom died within the past year. An unusual feature was the resolution, sponsored by Governor Umstead, commending Robert L. Doughton, retiring national committeeman, for his service to the Democratic party, the State and the Nation, during the past 60 years—42 of them in the Congress. Oldtimers could not recall another instance of such a resolution in behalf of a living man. SPEECHES — It was not a speech-making occasion. Carlisle Higgins, newly chosen national committeeman, made a bit when he was called upon for a speech and responded by asking the chairman to report he had nothing to say. Senator Alton Lennon used about 45 seconds to bring greetings from the national committee and give assurance of Democratic victory throughout the country this year and in 1956. Governor Umstead made a 10-minute old-time political rally speech. He thanked the Democrats of North Carolina for standing firm in the last general election, when neighboring States were deserting to the Republicans, and designated that party as one of "chaos and confusion, cross-currents and bickering, and unable to get together on anything." He said the biggest mistake President Eisenhower ever made was when "he decided to be a Republican." NEWS? There wasn't much spot news coming out of the Governor's conference with news-men Thursday, but there was interesting discussion of several matters affecting basic governmental policy. One item was the legality of action taken by the board of trustees of the Consolidated University, scheduled for clearance with the advisory budget commission, in adding several new officials and calling for the allocation of some $80,000 or more. One reporter (who, incidentally, is a loyal Duke alumnus) asked if that was not a legislative function. That led to general discussion of the infringement by the executive and legislative branches upon prerogatives of the other. The Governor thought there has been very little of that in North Carolina, although he conceded there has been a tendency for some departments and institutions to inaugurate "temporary" programs financed by available surplus funds or by private sources, and then expect the Legislature to make appropriations for them on permanent basis. He declined to say whether he thought proposed additions to Uni-

Do-It-Yourself Toys

By ELMER ROESSNER
The big trend in toys this year is toward more do-it-yourself playthings, judging from the new items unveiled at the 51st annual American Toy Fair now on in New York. Cowboy and space toys are still in good demand but fewer new ones are being brought out. The d-i-y toys ranged from a kit from which a bright youngster can construct a clock that runs to a collection of boards, wheels, angle irons and bolts out of which youngsters can build a wagon, scooter and other vehicles. In between there are such d-i-y items as a kitchen set, several cans of soup and a recipe book; a set of detergents and tools with which a child can set up a toy car-washing service; kits with which youngsters and adults can make their own mobiles, and there are kits with which youngsters can play at dishwashing, housecleaning, baby care, first aid, plumbing and television repairing. The popularity of word games among adults is reflected in new toys for children. There are several spelling games, one game based on puns and a new game of jumbo anagrams. There is a lot of emphasis on education in other ways. One child directs a miniature automobile by means of a steering wheel while another turns a handle that winds a road ahead of the car. The child at the wheel must steer the car correctly and avoid hazards. There is also a miniature planetarium which will project stars and moons in a darkened room, more new coloring and finger-painting sets, and a d-i-y fret saw that cuts in both directions. There is also a new rash of quiz games, many that light up when the correct answer is indicated. There's good news for parents, too. Many of the new toys are being introduced at moderate prices. An outstanding example is an overhead memorial electric train, with remote control, cars that light up and other extras, all for less than $20 retail. One of the reasons that this and other new items are reasonable is the greater use of plastics. Another is the fact volume is an increasingly important consideration in the toy market. CERAMICS BETTER, SAY CERAMIC MAKERS
Ceramic dinnerware makers are fighting back against the inroads of the plastics industry. The United States Pottery Association, East Liverpool, Ohio, is distributing two booklets comparing ceramic and plastic dishes. It's an easy guess as to which comes out better! One booklet is titled, "A Comparison of Plastic and Ceramic Dinnerware," the other, "Facts You Want to Know About China Plastic Tableware." Among allegations: plastics absorb moisture and germs; they lack stability when exposed to bleaching agents, and they do not keep food warm as well as china. IRS SAID TO SLOW BANKRUPTCY SETTLEMENTS
One of the best ways to speed bankruptcy proceedings would be to discourage the Internal Revenue Service from filing unperfected tax claims, a committee representing credit and legal associations has concluded. Committee members, meeting in Washington, said IRS claims were often made tardily and, when made, were often excessive. The trustees in bankruptcy have the responsibility of disproving tax claims. Other suggestions made at the meeting were that a court of bankruptcy be established; that receivers and referees be paid better, and that the Attorney-General put a special assistant or assistants in charge of enforcing bankruptcy laws. One suggestion was that the government be given priority on claims dating back only 18 months from the date of bankruptcy; in earlier claims the government would be only a general creditor. The reasoning behind this suggestion is that earlier claims indicate a laxness on the part of the government.

ABOARD THE MAURETANIA
AT SEA (AP)—My idea of a pleasure cruise is pretty much like that of most married men—it's the journey between the dinner table and the nearest couch. And you make it on foot. Wives have a different idea of a pleasure cruise. They think you have to dress up and leave the House. They think a ship is involved. For 14 years I satisfied my wife's yearning for an ocean cruise by taking her on an annual vacation voyage on the Staten Island Ferry. A round trip cost us a dime apiece. "Smell that bracing sea air," I'd exclaim, coughing in the harbor smoke. "See the Statue of Liberty? Look at that Manhattan skyline: You can't beat travel, can you? But it sure does make you appreciate home. Let's go home." Whenever Frances murmured she would like a longer voyage, I told her there was nothing beyond Staten Island but mountainous waves, dangerous sea monsters, hidden reefs and perilous winter hotel prices. I told her Europe was a myth, Asia a legend. When she inquired about Africa I said there was no point in sailing there as Tarzan had moved on to Hollywood, leaving the place absolutely deserted, except for a few literary lions who chased zebras by day and read the collected works of Ernest Hemingway by moonlight. As Frances, like most wives, never knows when to believe her husband, I got along pretty well or thought I did. But this year, when I remarked it was about time to change a quarter and make the long voyage to Staten Island, I ran into rebellion. "Don't be silly, Rover," said Frances. "We are going to take an 18-day sunshine cruise to the West Indies and South America." Well, at first I tried to tell her the West Indies had been overru-

Services will be conducted at the First Pentecostal Holiness Church of Greenville as follows: Early Sunday morning broadcast at 8:30; Sunday School at 9:45; Morning Worship 11:00; Evening Evangelistic service at 7:30. The pastor, Rev. H. E. Johnson, will preach at both morning and evening services.

The special services begin Monday at 7:45 p.m. at which time a choir from Emmanuel College, Franklin Springs, Ga., will present a program of sacred music. The service will be broadcast over WGTC from 8 to 9, courtesy of the Carolina Broadcasting Co.

Tuesday evening at 7:30, Bishop Joseph A. Synal, Presiding Bishop of the Pentecostal Holiness Church, will be guest preacher. The Rev. W. Edie Morris, superintendent of the North Carolina Conference, will be present and will introduce Bishop Synal.

"Springtime is Revival Time" is the slogan of the revival which begins on Wednesday evening at 7:30. The Rev. E. H. Phillips, an outstanding young minister of Tulsa, Okla., will be the evangelist. The evangelist is not only an able preacher but also a competent musician, playing several instruments. However, on his visit to Greenville, he will play only his electric guitar and sing gospel songs. The First Pentecostal Holiness Church takes pleasure in inviting the general public to attend all these services.

Masonic Notice
Greenville Lodge No. 284, A.F.&A.M., will hold a Stated Communication on Monday at 7:30 p.m. All Master Masons are cordially invited to attend.

Miss Deal Gives Program For Women Of The Church

The Women of the First Presbyterian Church held their General Meeting Monday evening, March 8, at 8 o'clock.

The meeting was opened with prayer. Mrs. T. M. Watson gave highlights of the District Conference held in Ahsokie last month.

Resolutions of respect for Mrs. P. M. Johnston were read by Mrs. N. O. Warren.

The program was given by Miss Elizabeth Deal, using as a subject, "The World Church Explores New Frontiers."

The program is based on the conference at Willingen, Germany. This conference was a meeting of the International Missionary Council for 12 days on the theme "The Missionary Obligation of the Church." After organization of the World Council of Churches with representatives from many countries and nations long considered "Mission Fields," the question was asked, "Does the church any longer have a missionary obligation, and if so, what is it?" Over 50 countries and nations were represented, some of the younger churches being represented by missionaries.

No world-shaking ideas came out of this meeting, explained Miss Deal, but the ideas which were developed have been incorporated in Dr. Ransom's book "That the World May Know."

Miss Deal closed her remarks in prayer, and the meeting adjourned after singing "Lead On O King Eternal."

Late in the Middle Ages it was believed that eating of lions' brains would cause madness.

Choir Of 26 Voices To Be Presented At Holiness Church

A program of sacred music and favorites from the classics will be presented by the Emmanuel College Choir in a recital in the Greenville Pentecostal Holiness Church on Monday evening, March 15.

The choir is representing Emmanuel College of Franklin Springs, Ga. and its fourth annual Spring tour includes appearances in Elizabeth City, N. C., Richmond, Va., Washington, D. C., and Roanoke, Va., in addition to the Greenville engagement. The choir of 26 voices will be on tour for 10 days.

Miss Maurine Synan of Memphis, Tenn. and Franklin Springs, Ga. is director of the choir.

Jackson Presley, member of the Emmanuel College faculty, is tour manager and conducts a musical unit of the choir.

The host pastor, the Rev. H. E. Johnson, is highly complimentary of the choir and its inspirational music. Students in the choir are representative of several Southern states.

The choir will appear in a special radio broadcast on Monday evening from 8 to 9 o'clock over the facilities of Station WGTC and on Tuesday morning between 9 and 10 o'clock will appear on a telecast from Station WNCT.

St. Patrick's Day Motif Used At Jane Austen Club Meeting

STOKES—Mrs. J. I. Gray was hostess to the Jane Austen Book Club at her home on Friday, March 12.

Mrs. J. B. Conleton, president, called the meeting to order. The minutes were read and approved. Ten members answered to the roll call. Guest for the meeting was Mrs. L. H. Roberson. A short business session followed.

The program chairman, Mrs. Gray, introduced Mr. Albert Bennett, popular Greenville auctioneer and insurance salesman. He chose for his topic "Where Are We Going?" In any type of work there's always a goal. In life we want security and to obtain our goal takes planning. Mr. Bennett pointed out that this is a great challenge which takes the building of spiritual character.

During the social hour Mrs. Gray served a salad course carrying out the St. Patrick's Day color scheme of green and white. Club members were delighted with the shamrock favors.

The home was attractively decorated with spring flowers. The books were distributed and the meeting adjourned.

For the month of April Mrs. G. H. Roebuck will be hostess and Mrs. J. B. Conleton will give the program on "Old Clocks."

Mrs. Holbert Hostess To Women's Circle

The Women's Circle of Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church met on March 2 at the home of Mrs. H. M. Holbert. Following the Bible study, led by Mrs. Holbert, the president, Mrs. L. C. Powell, urged the members to contribute old Christmas cards for the use in cerebral palsy schools. Mrs. L. L. Coward suggested the Circle members correspond with missionaries whose birthdays coincide with theirs. The meeting was closed with dedicatory prayers for missionaries by each member present.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Winterville FHA Banquet Hears Dr. Clinton Prewett

"Democracy rests on four foundations, churches, schools, political institutions and the home," Dr. Clinton R. Prewett, dean of men at East Carolina College, told guests at the annual Mother-Daughter banquet of the Winterville Future Homemakers of America Chapter last night.

In speaking on the subject "Our American Homes" Dr. Prewett said, "It's almost old fashioned to talk about the home. Our modern youth have equated progress with 'late models'."

"The best home is built on love, understanding, cooperation and faith," Dr. Prewett continued. "These cannot be bought but they can be developed in the home."

Dr. Prewett spoke to approximately 170 FHA members and parents at the banquet.

The parents were welcomed to the supper at Respass Brothers Barbecue Stand by Shirley Rouse. The invocation was given by the Rev. E. G. Cole. The mothers were toasted by Peggy Mobley and the response was given by Mrs. J. H. Mobley.

Special guests at the banquet were toasted by Rose Waters with a response by Mrs. Rommie Mallison. Maggie Castellone toasted Miss Alya Ray Taylor, club advisor, and presented her with an engraved bracelet on behalf of the club. Miss Taylor responded to the toast.

Following the dinner the speaker was introduced by Joan Averette and after Dr. Prewett's speech music was furnished by a trio composed of Mr. and Mrs. Richard David and Mrs. Virginia Taylor.

The creed was given by FHA members to close the meeting.

Ratings In Piano Events Of Contest Announced

Pianists representing senior and junior high schools who won superior and excellent ratings in the Greenville District Music Contest-Festival held at East Carolina College Thursday, March 11, have been announced. Participants included seventy-eight students from schools in the eastern section of the state.

Judges of performances were Philip Morgan of the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina and Loren Withers of Duke University.

The contest is a preliminary to the annual North Carolina Music Contest-Festival held each spring in Greensboro. Those receiving superior ratings in the Greenville District Contest-Festival became eligible to participate in the state event later this spring.

Twelve students judged as superior in the senior-high piano events were as follows: Katherine Richardson, Jasper; Carol Meyers, Pamlico; Carolyn Montgomery, Kinston; Bobby Steelman, Kinston; Nancy Walker, Kinston; Billy Bynum, New Bern; La Marr Hadley, Wilson; Jimmy Baker, Snow Hill; Kathryn Hooks, Wilson; Harriette Herring, Kinston; Jacqueline Grady, New Bern; and Ann Joyner, Enfield.

Winners of excellent ratings in the senior-high group include fourteen students, as follows: Nina Elizabeth Overton, Greenville; Connie Lou Dunn, Ayden; Rachel Lang, Greenville; Kay Batta, Rocky Mount; Carolyn Lowder, Rocky Mount; Minnie Lou Williamson, Rocky Mount; Nancy Hearn, Kinston; Faye Pufford, New Bern; Mattie Lou Harris, Enfield; Jane Winchester, Greenville; Frances Herring, Wilson; Bette Fomirey, Wilson; Irene Collins, New Bern; and Barbara Belangia, Pamlico.

In the junior-high piano contest eleven students received superior ratings. They were Beth Boyette, Wilson; Dolores Stephenson, New Bern; Lollie Hawkins, New Bern; Teddy Gassett, Rocky Mount; Sammy Williams, Enfield; Elizabeth White, Greenville; and Ruby Bradshaw, Rommy Hamilton, Jr., Marie Sutton, Vicki Griffin, Sadie Sue Worthington, all of Kinston.

Junior-high pianists rated as excellent were Julie Kline, Sandra Johnson, Ann McEntire, Cherry Point; Betty Booker, Sue Creech, Selma; Martha Ann Davis, Katie Howard, Scotland Neck; Faye Brinson, Gloria Rice, Arapahoe; Elizabeth Richardson, Karen Midyette, Carol Ernul, Jerry Midyette, Annette Smith, Rose Lee, Richard Smith, New Bern; Lou A. Bryan, Jo Dora Williams, Rocky Mount; Edna Turner, Elm City; Katrina Sutton, Faison; Peggy Roark, Sandra Adams, Connie Schmitt, Virginia Lee Dixon, Susan Rich, Kinston.

Those preparing and serving included Argent Tucker, Beulah Burroughs, Coleen Braxton, Phyllis Haddock, Harriet Stocks, Marjorie Butler, Gertrude Lewis, Edna Lewis, Betty Boswell, Peggy Buck, Bertha Cannon, Geraldine Adams.

New Type Farrowing House Built

Above is one of the three sows and her litter in the new farrowing house built by Henry T. Smith of near Fountain. Infra heat lamps provide heat for the pigs. They are kept in the house for about ten days and then turned out into a pasture.

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector Staff Writer

A new type farrowing house has been constructed by Henry T. Smith of Fountain which should effect a big savings on the number of pigs which are ordinarily lost each year because they are mashed by the sow.

The farrowing house is built with separate stalls for the sow and the pigs so that when the mother lies down the pigs are able to move out of the way.

Pitt County Farm Agent Sam Winchester estimates that with no protection for the pigs a mother sow will mash as many as two pigs out of each litter.

The farrowing house also provides heat for the pigs during the winter months. A 250 infra heat lamp over each stall keeps the pigs from freezing on cold winter nights.

Smith says that the sow is left in the house with her litter each night and turned out in the day time. He notes, however, that the pigs only leave the heat lamp for nursing.

"They don't stay with their mother at night," he says. "They stay right with the light."

Smith had three sows with their litters in the house last week.

"Next week I'll take these three out and put in three more," he said. "I keep each litter in here about ten days."

The pigs will be turned out on to new land or land which has been filled since hogs were on it, after they are taken out of the farrowing house, Smith stated.

Another set of sows and their new born pigs will be brought in after that.

Smith said that the house is cleaned with a lye solution after each set of pigs is removed.

This is simplified, he noted because all the partitions within the building are hinged or bolted in. Everything within the house can be removed so that it can be thoroughly cleaned.

The house is glassed in on the south side so that sunlight can enter the building. In the summer, Smith continued, he will pull out the windows and add a fan to the building to keep it cool.

The building itself is approximately ten and one-half by 16 feet and Smith estimated the cost of construction at around $200.

"It could be built cheaper," Smith says, "but it takes a lot to bolt everything down."

It is built out of cypress, the hog raiser stated.

"Cypress will absorb water quicker than pine and it stays fairly dry," he noted.

"I haven't completed it yet," Smith said. "I'm going to put automatic waterers in the building and feed troughs on the doors for the sows."

The sows enter the house by one door and leave by another.

Smith noted that he drew the plans for the farrowing house himself.

Farm agent Winchester says that assuming that each sow would lose two pigs from each of her two litters per year, Smith would lose 23 pigs in a year's time. At a cost of $6 per pig Smith will have saved $168 in a year's time, almost the cost of the building itself.

Smith is a past president of the North Carolina Duroc Breeder's Association and among the founders of the organization.

He has exhibited his swine at the Pitt County Fair and at other shows in this section.

School Menu

School cafeteria menus for the coming week, as released by the supervisor of city school cafeterias, Mrs. Louise Rush, are as follows:

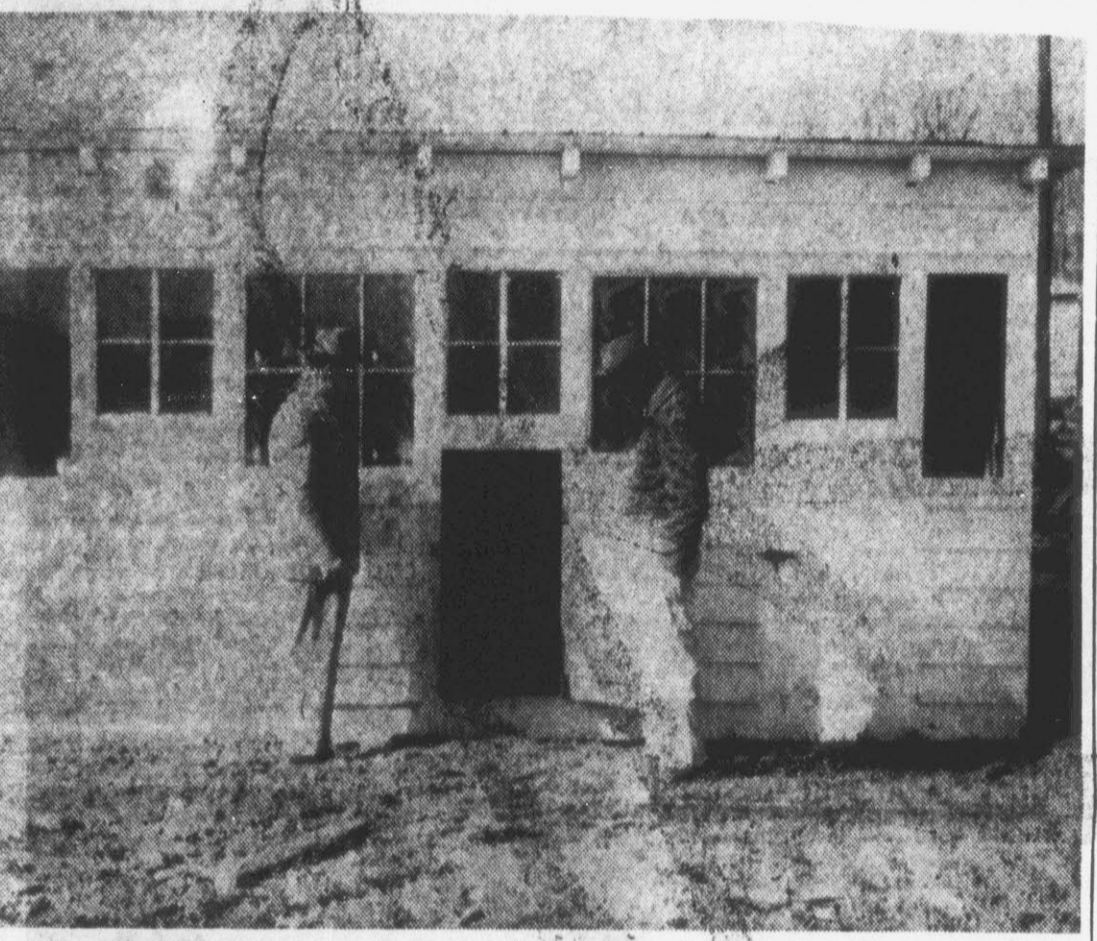

Monday—open-face hamburger, steamed cabbage, celery and pickle strips, bun, gingerbread with honey-and-butter icing, milk;

Tuesday—scrambled eggs with cheese, buttered peas, creamed potatoes, biscuit, butter, grapefruit and milk;

Wednesday—orange juice, dried lima beans, mustard greens, potato salad, carrot strips, corn bread, butter, apricot cobbler, milk;

Thursday—vegetable soup (beef), crackers, ham salad and jelly and butter sandwich, devil food cake, milk;

Friday—oven-fried perch, buttered string beans, slaw, corn muffin, butter, cookie and milk.

Smith shows Farm Agent Sam Winchester his farrowing house. The building is something new for this section, Winchester says. The windows of the building face south. (Reflector photos by Alvin Taylor)

Sales Representative For Area Appointed By Sears' Office

B.H. Green has been appointed outside sales representative in this area. Mrs. Erma Allen, manager of the local Sears Catalogue Sales office announced.

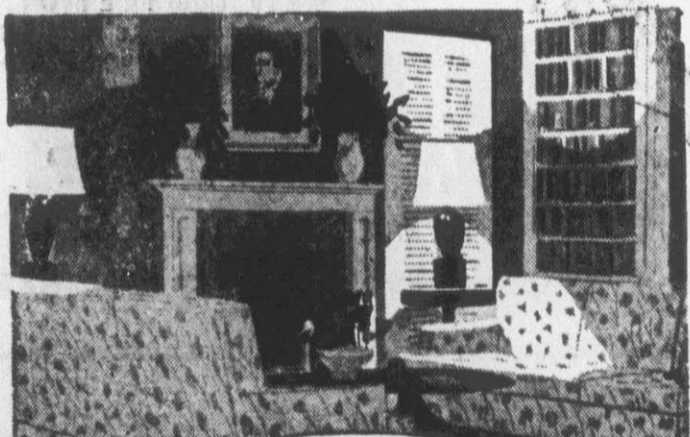

Green, who has lived in Greenville for the past six and one-half years, worked in the appliance line prior to his appointment with Sears. He was with Appliance Sales and Sporting Goods.

He also operates a nursery business on the Farmville Highway.

The sales representative began work with Sears this week. He is married to the former Virginia Allen of the Red Oak community. The Greens have three children and reside at 1203 Overlook Drive in Elmhurst.

Wolves Move Into Finals; Win From Scotland Neck

Williams Might Try First In Quick Return To Bosox

By GAYLE TALBOT

TAMPA (AP)—Roy Sievers, whom the Washington Senators obtained in a recent trade with Baltimore, is trying to make a full recovery from a shoulder break similar to that which has Ted Williams sidelined. It will be worth observing how he mak out.

Sievers has been cleared for in-field throwing, but has been warned against throwing long-overhand pegs from the outfield. The thought which occurs, of course, is that Williams might get his badly needed bat back in the Boston lineup much sooner than is now calculated by giving first base a whirl.

Jim Turner, the Yankee pitching coach makes no secret of the fact that he wishes Johnny Sain would forget his car agency for the coming season, at least, and get back in uniform.

"He's been a wonderful pitcher for us," Jim said.

As manager of the Detroit Tigers, Freddy Hutchinson is doing a lot more throwing than he ever did in the years he was doing his control pitching for the same club. He figures he averages about 45 minutes throwing in his batters' box every game.

His control is such that, by actual count the other day, he tossed up 23 consecutive strikes before a batter let one go by. He was tossing mostly curves, too. A bystander asked him facetiously if he still had his fast ball.

"The same one I always had," the manager grinned back.

The Cincinnati club might have fooled some people by changing its nickname from "Reds" to "Redlegs," but it made absolutely no impression on the local hotel which has been its training headquarters for many years.

The greeting signs in the lobby still say "welcome Cincinnati Reds!"

Those fortunate enough to own a copy of the official American League "Red Book" are getting a kick out of reading the "top Oriole marks"—that is, the individuals who set the highest records when Baltimore was last in the American League back in 1901-2.

Iron man Joe McGinnity holds every pitching record, including most games started, 46 in 1901; games won, 26 in 1901, and games lost 21, the same year. The current crop will find it difficult to top Mike Donlin's batting mark of .341 but might eclipse Jim Williams' eight homeruns in 1902.

Nothing that a member of the St. Louis Browns ever did is in the volume. There's a ball club that was lost without a trace.

Seixas Advances

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Vic Seixas of Philadelphia and Kurt Nielsen of Copenhagen, Denmark, who played for the Wimbledon title in England last summer, meet again in a semifinal match of the Masters Invitation tournament here today.

Seixas won at Wimbledon and is top seeded in the Masters.

Nielsen fought back from apparent defeat in the semifinal round to beat Gardnar Mulloy of Miami 6-3, 5-7, 12-10 yesterday.

Arl Larsen, defending champion from San Leandro, Calif., and Sven Davidson of Stockholm, Sweden, meet in today's other semifinal.

Larsen, Seixas and Davidson won their quarterfinal matches Thursday.

The Cincinnati club might have fooled some people by changing its nickname from "Reds" to "Redlegs," but it made absolutely no impression on the local hotel which has been its training head-

AHOSKIE — Winterville High School's Pitt County Conference champions moved into the finals of the District 1 playoffs by defeating Scotland Neck's Halifax County champs, 60-54, last night.

The victory moved the Wolves into the finals tonight against the Ahsokie Indians. The favored Indians defeated Robersonville's Rams 58-56 last night. The game between the squads tonight will decide the District 1 representative to the State Class A Tournament next week in Aberdeen.

With high-scoring Jack Paramore on the bench because of an injury, the Wolves' All-Conference ace, Lex Keeter, took over most of the scoring burden last night. The ace forward dropped in 21 points for scoring honors for the night.

Winterville led all the way in the contest after jumping to a 15-11 lead at the end of the first period. That lead had been built to a 25-23 margin at the half and then extended to 44-33 at the beginning of the fourth period.

Williams led the Scotland Neck scoring with 19 points while McLachorn dropped in 17 and James tallied 14.

Keeter Takes Over

Keeter had to take over most of the offensive burden for Winterville although he got considerable help from Dean Wingate and Ralph Riggs. Wingate, another All-Conference selection, dropped in 10 points from his forward post and Riggs flipped in 12 from his guard position.

Coach Snag Clark's team had moved into the District playoffs by moving to the Regional finals against Robersonville. The Rams won the regional title but rules allow both champion and runner-up to advance to the district playoffs.

Paramore, the outstanding forward of the Wolves who was sidelined yesterday with an injured elbow, will not play any more this year. He chipped a bone in his elbow in Thursday's victory over Hertford. Paramore had been averaging in double figures in tournament play for the Wolves and had scored 17 points against Hertford before being injured. His place in the Winterville line-up has been taken by Graydon Tripp.

Scoring by quarters:
Winterville 15 19 16 16—60
Scotland Neck 11 12 10 21—54

Babe Threatens Augusta Leaders

By MERCER BAILEY

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—"Here comes the Babe."

That cry took on a double meaning today in the 15th Women's Titleholders golf tournament. Not only was it the watchword of the galleries; it also was a warning that Mildred Dirlikov Zaharias had found the range and was gunning for her fourth Titleholders crown and her third successive victory on the winter golf circuit.

Atlanta's Louise Suggs held a two-stroke lead at 144 going into today's third round of the 72-hole tournament, but the Babe was in close pursuit.

Mrs. Zaharias shattered the Augusta Country Club's competitive course record for women yesterday with a 35-35-70, two under men's par for the 6,627-yard course. She had a 146 total, four strokes ahead of defending champion Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill.

Babe broke the old mark of 71 she set in 1947 and tied by Marlene Bauer of Sarasota, Fla. in 1951.

The record round, built with three birdies, a bogey and the rest pars, vaulted Mrs. Zaharias from a five-way tie for fifth into the runnerup position.

Miss Suggs came in with her 36-35-71 just behind the Babe.

Miss Berg, only five-time Titleholders winner and runnerup to Miss Suggs after the opening round, scored an eagle while shooting a one-under 35 on the front nine, but "I just seemed to run out of gas" on the back nine and soared to a 41. Her 36-hole total of 150 was good for third place, one stroke better than Betty Jameson and Betty Dodd, both of San Antonio, Tex., and amateur Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif.

Next came Betty MacKinnon of Mr. Pleasant, Tex., at 152. Betty

Hurdling Handicaps by Pap'

Pittsburgh's Thomas Out To Eclipse Kiner

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Frank Thomas, a 200-pound, six-foot outfielder with power in his bat, apparently is aiming to make Pittsburgh fans forget a pretty fair country hitter by the name of Ralph Kiner once wore a Pirates uniform.

When Kiner was traded to the Chicago Cubs last year, the 24-year-old native of Pittsburgh took over the slugging chores. When the season was over the records showed he had hit 30 home runs, driven in 102 and batted .355.

And now Thomas is at it again. He clubbed two home runs yesterday as the Pirates routed the Milwaukee Braves 25-11 in an exhibition game at Bradenton, Fla. The two circuit blows ran his total for the last three games to four.

Thomas' clouting seems to have been catching for the Pirates, generally picked to finish in the National League cellar the third straight year. The Bucc connected with six homers against the Braves to run their total to 15 in their last three games. Sid Gordon, obtained from the Braves hit one for his second of the week-old exhibition season. And Jerry Lynch, Jack Lockie and Brandy Davis added the others.

Eddie Mathews, Milwaukee's home run king, slammed three triples while Danny O'Connell, acquired in the Gordon trade, and rookie Dick Sinoiv hit homers for the Braves.

Del Ennis' two-run homer gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 2-1 victory over the New York Yankees and circuit drives played an important role in the triumph of the New York Giants and Cincinnati Redlegs.

The Giants snapped a four-game losing streak with a 13-5 victory over Cleveland as Willie Mays slammed his third and fourth homers and rookie second baseman Ronnie Samford and Whitey Lockman contributed one each.

Cincinnati bunched 11 hits effectively to down a makeshift collection of Chicago White Sox rookies 11-7. Rocky Bridges, a .277 hitter for Cincinnati last season, drove in four runs.

The Baltimore Orioles chalked up their sixth victory in seven games with a 4-9 decision over the Chicago Cubs.

Four runs on one hit in the eighth inning gave Brooklyn a 4-3 night victory over the Boston Red Sox and ended the American leaguers' five-game winning streak.

also got an eagle to help her to a 73. Amateur Helen Sigel Wilson of Philadelphia and Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg S.C., had 153.

Two amateurs made the greatest second-round comebacks of the tournament. Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville, Ga., National Amateur champion, and Betty Rowland Probasco of Chattanooga, Tenn., Kentucky state champ and winner of the National Intercollegiate in 1950, fired 74s, 11 strokes under their first-day scores. They were in a five-way tie for 19th.

Gola Leads LaSalle Squad To 88-81 Win Over State

Holy Cross Upset Of Dukes Due In Tonight's NIT Final

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—LaSalle meets Navy tonight in the eastern regional finals of the NCAA basketball tournament and rates a solid favorite role because of a kid named Tom Gola.

Gola, a 6-foot-7 junior, who does everything with a basketball but manufacture it, led his team to an 88-81 victory over North Carolina State last night in the second half of a tournament doubleheader.

Navy won the right to meet LaSalle by beating Cornell in the first half of a twin bill, 69-67, as Ken McCally netted a one-hand push shot with three seconds to play.

Before McCally wrapped up the tense battle with the Ivy League champions, Navy's twin scoring aces, Don Lang and John Clune, collected 50 points between them to repel repeated Cornell challenges. Lang had 29 points and Clune 21. Cornell's scoring star, Capt. Lee Morton, hopped 34 points in a losing cause.

But the star of the night was the tall, talented Gola, a marked man every time he steps on the court as the result of his two-year All-American status. Gola scored 26 points and grabbed 26 rebounds.

N.C. State bottled Gola up in the first half-doubleteaming him out of a sliding zone. He managed only one basket on 13 shots. But Gola came back in the last 20 minutes to rip State's carefully planned defense apart.

Ronnie Shavlik, 6-foot-7 195-pounder from Denver, Colo., scored 24 points to lead the losers in the point column.

This is LaSalle's first NCAA tournament appearance. Coach Ken Loeffler's teams have played in the National Invitation tournament the last four years, winning the event in 1952.

of the best defensive teams in America, Duquesne, and one of the strongest offensive aggregations, Holy Cross.

The preliminary third-place game between Western Kentucky and Niagara may also have its bright moments. The Kentucky team tabbed by veteran Coach Ed Diddle as the best in his 34 years, didn't like being beaten for the second time in 31 games. The Hilltoppers were particularly peeved because they thought one bad call by a referee hurt them. Niagara, a smart defensive team like Duquesne, might also find a way to slow down the Kentucky "racehorses."

Tonight's final also will be a replay of the 1952 quarter final game, when Duquesne beat Holy Cross 78-68 after a scoring duel between Togo Palazzi and Dick Ricketts. Ricketts, a freshman then, and Palazzi, a sophomore, each scored 19 points that time.

This year, as leader of their teams, they're rivals for Tournament scoring honors and the most valuable player award.

It is the seventh NIT for Duquesne, which lost to Colorado in the 1940 final and didn't get to the last round again until this year. It's only the second NIT for Holy Cross, which also has played in three National Collegiate A.A. tournaments the past six years.

But the star of the night was the tall, talented Gola, a marked man every time he steps on the court as the result of his two-year All-American status. Gola scored 26 points and grabbed 26 rebounds.

N.C. State bottled Gola up in the first half-doubleteaming him out of a sliding zone. He managed only one basket on 13 shots. But Gola came back in the last 20 minutes to rip State's carefully planned defense apart.

Ronnie Shavlik, 6-foot-7 195-pounder from Denver, Colo., scored 24 points to lead the losers in the point column.

Rolling Along

St. Benedict's the team that eliminated East Carolina College from the N.A.A. tournament in Kansas City, is still going strong.

The Aichison, Kansas, team knocked off Arkansas Tech's wonder boys 63-59 last night to move into the tournament finals tonight against Western Illinois. Western eliminated two-time champion Springfield, Missouri, College 78-75.

The unseeded Ravens have now won four consecutive games in the tournament which requires five consecutive victories to claim the championship. Their first victory in the 32-team tournament was the one which eliminated East Carolina, 68-61.

The finals in the tournament will be played in the 10,500 seat Kansas City Municipal Auditorium tonight.

Loses Prestige Despite Victory

NEW YORK (AP)—His prestige dimmed by a lackluster victory over James J. Parker, big Nino Valdes of Cuba today planned a European invasion to bolster his chances for a September title shot at heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano.

In fact his prestige was dimmed so much that Chairman Bob Christenberry of the New York State Athletic Commission said Valdes' check for $5,000 was being returned. The Cuban posted the $5,000 about three weeks ago as a challenge for Marciano's title.

"Off last night's fight we can't consider him a worthy challenger," said Christenberry, but added, "Things can change by the time Marciano meets Essard Charles in June."

The 29-year-old Cuban champion and the world's No. 3 heavyweight contender will first fight Belgian Karel Sys in Antwerp in April, according to manager Bobby Gleason.

"We're going to get $12,000 for Sys and we're not getting a crack at Marciano or Essard Charles right now so we might as well take the trip," said Gleason.

Valdes scored his seventh straight victory by outpointing the Canadian-born, Paterson, N. J., Parker at Madison Square Garden last night. The decision was unanimous but Nino failed to impress the crowd of 4,173 (gross gate $12,619) and televisioners across the nation.

The officials voted for Nino, 7-3, 6-3-1, and 7-2-1. The Associated Press had Valdes in front, 7-3.

TV Bout Tonight Features Micelli Against Lombardo

CINCINNATI (AP)—Joe Micelli, the New York welterweight who has knocked out all three of his 1954 opponents in five rounds or less, tonight will battle John Lombardo of Mt. Carmel, Pa., in a scheduled 10-rounder.

The 25-year-old Micelli is a slight favorite in the fight to be televised nationally over the ABC network starting at 9 p.m. (EST).

The New Yorker ko'd Bud Smith three weeks ago in the same Music Hall here. He has a good record of 41 wins, 16 losses and 4 draws. His dangerous left hook has piled up 22 knockouts, while he's been stopped three times.

Lombardo, 24 has lost 10 of his 41 professional matches. Lombardo said he is banking on the combination of his solid right with a continuous rushing attack.

Fight Results

NEW YORK (Madison Square Garden) — Nino Valdes, 21½, Cuba, outpointed James J. Parker, 210, Paterson, N.J., 10.
PHILADELPHIA—Emmy Tueci, 146 Philadelphia, outpointed Johnny Cook, 190½, Philadelphia, 7.

Dr. Pingel Talks To Exchangites

Dr. Martha Pingel of Greenville, honored by Freedom's Foundation for her essay on "Democracy and the Challenge of Youth," was guest speaker at the Exchange Club last night.

The assistant professor of English and philosophy at East Carolina College spoke on "The Practical Man." Dr. Pingel recalled that in her first appearance as a speaker on the Exchange Club's program two years ago, she later won second place for her 1952 essay in the Freedom's Foundation's contest.

She said a year ago she spoke at the club on "Luck," and later sold the manuscript to a publisher on her first attempt.

Last night, she divided her subject into three categories—material success, power, and personal pleasure. Dr. Pingel stressed the point that the practical man, to attain his goals, does not depend alone on ability, but upon the application of that ability in the right direction, and to an extent greater than one usually credits to "luck" and the "breaks."

Exchangite Jake Hadley inducted Bill Smith of the Electric Motor Shop into club membership. Leon Moore Jr. and Ed Conway were guests. Public Relations Chairman Jack Wallace reported attendance over 90 per cent.

Past Potentate Will Be Shrine Guest Thursday

The Greenville Shrine Club will hold their regular monthly meeting at Respass Brothers next Thursday, March 18, it was announced yesterday.

At that meeting Noble Sam Toler Jr. of Rocky Mount, past Potentate of Sudan Temple, will be the guest of the evening. He will instruct the local Steering Committee and the members in the handling of the Spring Ceremonial to be held at East Carolina College May 25 and 26.

Such an undertaking as the Spring Ceremonial has never before been attempted in Greenville, it was reported yesterday.

For this ceremonial 1,600 rooms will be needed. Kenneth Phillips and A. C. Tadlock have charge of the housing arrangements and will make efforts to secure the needed rooms.

A luncheon will be served approximately 5,000 Shriners, wives and the parade participants. According to L. M. Buchanan, head of the local Steering Committee, requests are coming to the Parade Committee from other towns in this area for places in the parade for their high school bands, floats, and marching units.

Guy Langston, Lt. Tom Brown, and Sgt. J. B. Boyd of the Highway Patrol will manage the arrangements for the parade.

The Oriental pageant, which has always drawn enthusiasts approval from the public, will be staged in the College Stadium. It will be open to the public free of charge.

The Steering Committee reports that all committees are functioning properly. With the varied activities on the program they believe that the people of Greenville and Pitt County will receive very interesting and delightful entertainment.

STOVE OVERHEATED The local fire department answered a call at the home of Elizabeth Moinz, 208 South Greene Street, late yesterday when an oil stove overheated. No damage resulted.

Woman Injured When Car And Truck Crash At Intersection Near Stokes

One person was injured yesterday about 11:30 a.m. when an automobile hit a truck at the intersection of N.C. 33 and 903 near Stokes.

Injured was Mrs. Lilly Robinson, 51, who received leg and back injuries. She was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital following the accident.

Mrs. Robinson was riding in a car driven by her husband, Roscoe Robinson when he allegedly ran through a stop sign on 903 and crashed into the rear wheels of the truck. The car received approximately $1200 damage in the accident and the truck received about $500 damage, according to Patrolman James W. Boykin who investigated the accident.

Girl Scouts Observe Birthday Of Founder At Party Held In Armory

The local girl scouts celebrated the forty-fourth birthday of Juliette Low, founder of the Girl Scout organization, with a party at the local Armory yesterday afternoon.

The party came as a climax to Girl Scout Week.

The program opened with a flag ceremony which included a Girl Scout color guard. The scouts then sang one verse of "America." Next the Brownies gave the Brownie promise followed by the Girl Scout promise.

Troop 10 then presented a skit and a song "Our Chale!" was presented by Troop 4.

Each troop presented Mrs. J. K. Proctor, executive secretary for Pitt County, with containers of pennies to be used for the Girl Scout friendship fund. Each scout donated one penny for each year of her age to be used for the fund.

Refreshments were then served and the program was closed with the girl scout closing song and taps.

Plans Evicting Man From Jail

DALLAS (AP)—A judge says he'll go to court if necessary to force a man out of jail.

Last December the 46-year-old man was arrested on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. When witnesses failed to appear against the man Feb. 20, Judge Joe B. Brown offered him liberty on a personal recognizance—no-cash-necessary—bond.

The defendant refused, saying he had no place to go. Yesterday Judge Brown insisted the man leave jail. "I am an American citizen," the defendant declared. "And I've got as much right in that jail as anybody."

Judge Brown set the man's case for Wednesday and said if witnesses don't appear he will dismiss the case and if necessary file an eviction suit.

OUT OF THE SHATTERED ERIDANUS FLASK, IN WHICH HE HAS BEEN CONFINED, LOKI SUDDENLY TAKES FORM...

EVER SINCE I CRASHED ON EARTH IN THEIR PREHISTORIC TIMES, I HAVE SUFFERED! NOWHERE COULD I FIND AN ELEMENT IN WHICH TO TAKE FORM! THEN THAT TERRIBLE DAY...

... WHEN I FLOWED INTO A SHEPHERD'S FLASK FROM THE ERIDANUS RIVER, I, LOKI, BECAME THE PRISONER OF WHOEVER OWNED THE FLASK! AND THROUGH THEM I ACTED! MEN LIKE GENGHIS KHAN...

...ALEXANDER THE GREAT... JULIUS CAESAR... THE PUPPETS THROUGH WHICH I CONQUERED AND RULED ON EARTH...

... BUT IT WAS THEY WHO ENJOYED THE FRUITS OF MY TRIUMPHS... FAME... POWER! WHILE I REMAINED CONFINED IN MY TINY PRISON...

UNTIL NOW! YES, MY DEAR BROTHERS, AT LAST I HAVE RETURNED... NOT TO SERVE... BUT TO RULE!
