Closet Figures In Fire And Theft

Picture above is the closet which caught fire in the home of W. G. Fussell at 209 East 14th Street last night. Approximately $30 was missing from a box which was kept in the closet on the shelf in the background. Find Money Gone After Closet Fire

A quantity of money was found to be missing from a home on Fourteenth street last night after a fire of undetermined origin gutted the closet in which the money was kept.

The first and theft took place in the home of W. G. Fussell at 209 East Fourteenth Street while the family was away and was discovered less than an hour after the family had left home to visit friends.

The blaze was discovered by a neighbor and the alarm was turned in by a youngster in the neighborhood. Burned through the bottom of the closet and was dropping on the ground when they arrived. They also said that it had burned into the attic by the time they arrived at the scene.

Money Kept In Box The missing money amounted to approximately $30 and belonged to Charles Fussell, 16. It was kept in a box which was placed on a shelf in the closet.

Charles said that he ran in the house during the course of the fire and took the box from the shelf. He said that when he got the box outside he found it to be empty. The wooden box was fastened only with two hooks. Charles stated that the two hooks were in place when he found the box. The boy said that he came home when he heard the alarm and went in and picked up the box as soon as he arrived.

Back Door Open Members of the family told investigating officers and firemen that they left home at approximately 6:45 p.m. The alarm was turned in at 7:37. Fire Chief George Gardner estimated that the blaze had been burning for at least an hour when fire fighters arrived at the scene. Doors and windows in the house apparently had not been forced, officers stated but the family reported that the back door of the dwelling had not been locked.

Vietminh Rebels Still Hold Back From Massive And Costly Drive

Violent Artillery Duel Kept Up On Perimeter Of Besieged Fortress

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—The Vietminh and the French kept up their violent artillery duel at Dien Bien Phu today but there still was no resumption of massed rebel infantry charges trying to overwhelm the French Union's northwest Indochina fortress.

Under a full moon and a star-studded sky and on into the morning the shelling and heavy French air strikes on the rebel positions kept up around the clock.

Some ground contacts yesterday were reported but they were only clashes between advanced French forces and small rebel units on the south and southwest fringes of the French-held plain. Some of these came within 250 yards of French command posts.

The defenders still anticipated another major Vietminh effort on the northern entrance to the heart of the fortress. The Vietminh hold hill positions in the northern perimeter they captured from the French early this week in the battle which began last Saturday.

Some French sources speculated yesterday that the continuing artillery barrage might be covering a Vietminh withdrawal, that Vietminh Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap might have had enough after losing an estimated 12,000 dead or wounded—one fourth of the force he is believed to have in the area.

But a French army spokesman said last night the Vietminh still were rushing supplies by coolie train and truck up to the area, indicating another mass assault was in the offing. The rebels kept off the desperate charges Wednesday night.

As the artillery duel raged, French fighters and bombers strafed, rocketed and fire-bombed the bulk of the rebel forces concentrated just north and northeast of the 6-by-4 mile oval plain.

They knocked out a string of rebel gun emplacements and showered fire bombs on a convoy of trucks moving up to the northern part of the plain, presumably carrying fresh war equipment to bolster the next charge.

Throughout the day the French parachuted fresh troops' ammunition and war supplies to the besieged defenders. They were still confident they could continue to mow down any further mass assaults and wreck what has become the biggest Vietminh effort of the stalemated, seven-year Indochina war.

With guns in every one of the hills surrounding the plain, the Vietminh covered all the vital defense points and shelled the French positions at will. They pumped over thousands of shells.

During yesterday the Vietminh ignored French radio appeals to permit empty transport planes to land on the Dien Bien Phu airstrip and evacuate wounded. They shelled and damaged one transport as it landed, wounding a French medical officer.

House Insured The frame dwelling was owned by Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell. A spokesman for the owner said that the house was covered by insurance. Fussell said that he had some insurance on the furnishings of the house.

Police are continuing their investigation of the fire-theft today. It was investigated by Detective N. H. Byrd and Chief of Police S. G. Gibbs.

Thought Driving Permit Needless EPHRATA Pa. (AP)—It was a little embarrassing when the state policeman stopped 60-year-old Martin L. Sites of Lancaster. Sites had to explain that he hadn't "bothered to get one" for some time—something like 23 years.

Called before a justice of the peace, he explained he began driving 30 years ago and got a license annually for seven years. Then, he said, he decided it "just wasn't worth the trouble" and never got another. He said it was the first time he had been stopped by police.

Chose Jail For The Experience ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Mary Louise McNeerney, 23, hurled a pop bottle through the plate glass window of a Zanesville cafe yesterday.

After her arrest, a matron asked why she did it. "All of my friends have been in jail and I wanted to see what it was like," she replied. Municipal Judge Robert J. Mertry obliged: $35 and costs. She chose to serve it out at the rate of $3 a day.

Even Tougher Fight Shaping Up In Senate Today

President Wins House Tax Fight

By JOE HALL WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower chalked up a big victory in House passage yesterday of a major tax revision bill without a personal income tax cut he opposed, but an even tougher fight was shaping up in the Senate today.

With party lines holding unusually firm, the House beat down 210-204 a Democratic move to slash income taxes $2,400,000,000 a year by raising the personal exemption for each taxpayer and dependent from $600 to $700.

The President went to the country by television and radio Monday night to urge defeat of this proposal. He said it was politically inspired and would be a serious blow to the government's finances, even endangering national defense.

The whole tax issue is certain to be aired at length in the coming campaign for control of Congress. There were sharply varying appraisals of yesterday's House action.

Rep. Kirwan of Ohio chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, said that as a result he has raised from 45 to 60 his estimate of anticipated Democratic gains in the House in November. His Republican counterpart, Rep. Richard M.

Simpson of Pennsylvania, replied that the tax action will bring votes to the GOP. He predicted Republican gains of 25 House seats.

As the battle over the higher exemption proposal shifted to the Senate, the administration appeared to face an even tougher fight than it had in the House.

One GOP Senate leader conceded privately he believed the $100 increase in exemptions would pass the Senate, where there are 48 Democrats opposed to it as compared with 193 who voted "aye."

The lone independent voted for it. The House afterwards passed by a 339-80 vote the 875-page tax revision bill to which the Democrats had tried to attach the reduction in income levies.

This measure would rewrite the entire tax code for the first time in 70 years. It covers such a broad range of subjects that Senate floor consideration of it may not come for two or three months. Senate Democrats believe they have a big asset in that veteran Sen. George (D-Ga.), dean of the Senate, is leading the battle in that branch for the boost in exemptions.

George is the Democrats' leading tax expert and has been considered a conservative in financial matters.

His plan would boost exemptions to $800 for this year, at a revenue cost of 4 1/2 billion dollars, and $1,000 in 1955 and thereafter with an annual revenue loss of 8 billion.

He will seek his ninth consecutive nomination for the post in the Democratic primary May 28.

Asked why he has decided to seek re-election for the General Assembly post, Worthington said, "I never give any reason for running. Most people run because they want to. I guess that's the best answer."

Concerning the secrecy legislation which Worthington supported in the 1953 session of the General Assembly, he commented: "I have never been bothered about letting anyone know where I stand. I am still of that opinion."

He was appointed to the State Utilities Commission last summer by Governor Umstead for a four-year term. The office pays $10,000 a year.

Concerning his post on the Utilities Commission, Worthington said, "If it reaches the point where my running interferes with my work or my work interferes with my running, I'd have to get rid of one of them."

Worthington would not be able to remain a member of the Utilities Commission and serve as a representative in the General Assembly from Pitt County at the same time. If he is elected to the General Assembly from Pitt County, it would not be mandatory that he resign from the Utilities Commission until the General Assembly convenes next January.

Asked if he will seek the post of Speaker of the House if he returns to the General Assembly in 1955, Worthington stated: "If Larry Moore (of Wilson County) is a candidate for Speaker, I am committed to him. If he is not a candidate, I will be a candidate for Speaker."

Worthington has served as a Pitt County representative in the General Assembly for eight consecutive sessions since he first represented the county in that capacity in the 1939 session of the General Assembly.

Final Steps For A German Army BONN, Germany (AP)—West Germany took the final German parliamentary step today to legalize the raising of a 500,000-man army for Western defense. But not a man probably will get into uniform until France approves.

The Bundestag Parliament's upper house, approved amendments to the constitution specifically saying it is legal for West Germany to join the six-nation European Defense Community (EDC) and to raise armed forces by drafting men over 18.

Six of the nine states whose ministers composed the Bundestag approved the amendments, giving the necessary two-thirds majority.

The amendments already had been approved by the lower house, the Bundestag. Before becoming law they need the signature of President Theodor Heuss and approval of the three occupying Western Allies.

The important Foreign Affairs Committee of the French National Assembly already has voiced its disapproval of the constitutional changes, urging the French high commissioner in Germany to veto them.

The Allies presently are working out a formula to give assurances they will not approve such amendments permitting the rearming of this former enemy country unless France and the other countries which still have not done so ratify the EDC.

Belgium completed ratification of the EDC last week and the Netherlands did so in January. France, Italy and Luxembourg still have taken no action.

committee would not restore any of the revenue knocked out by the House.

The permanent revision program in the general tax bill would cost about $1,400,000,000 in revenue the first year. Democrats say the loss would amount to $1.4 billion when all provisions take full effect; Republicans dispute this.

The bill would permit corporations to make bigger depreciation deductions during the first years of use of plant and equipment. It also would cut taxes on dividends paid to stockholders.

Map Plans For Huge Shrine Gathering

There will be many features open to the public when Sudan Temple holds its spring Shrine Ceremonial in Greenville May 25 and 26, it was revealed at a meeting of Pitt County Shrine Club last night.

About 100 local and visiting Shriners were present and there were many expressions of enthusiasm over the approaching ceremonials. The meeting was presided over by the club president, George Smith.

Permission to use facilities of East Carolina College made it possible for Greenville to undertake its first Shrine ceremonial and thousands of visitors are expected for the occasion.

Dragoman C. Mack Clark, of Durham, in presenting the tentative program last night, revealed that much of the entertainment will be open to the general public in order that the people of the community may have the opportunity to learn more about activities of the Shrine. On the opening night of the ceremonial there will be band concerts, songs by the Shrine Chanters, precision drills by the drum and bugle corps and uniformed bodies at the college stadium.

These activities will be followed by a memorial service, an oriental pageant, and inspection of the uniformed bodies in Wright auditorium at the college. The events will be open to the general public.

At noon Wednesday, the second day of the ceremonial, there will be a mammoth parade and early that evening there will again be entertainment in the college stadium for the public. The temple business meetings together with the initiation of candidates, a banquet and two dances will not be open to the public.

L. M. Buchanan, general chairman of arrangements for the ceremonial, stated that all committees are functioning and that much progress is being made. He pointed out that much is still to be done and urged the Shriners as well as the general public to cooperate as fully as possible to make the event a credit to Greenville and Pitt County.

Tom Brown, co-chairman of the parade to be held on Wednesday of the ceremonial, stated that already eight bands have accepted invitations to participate and that several others are expected to do likewise. He said that there would be several uniformed bodies together with many floats to make the parade the largest and most colorful ever held in Pitt County.

Clyde McCauley, of Rocky Mount, member of Sudan Divan and leader of the second section of the ceremonial, promised full support to local committees in the interest of a successful event here.

Jim Tanner, of Jacksonville, chairman of the Oriental Pageant to be presented at the college, to which the public is invited, stated that plans are going forward to make it one of the best ever presented within the jurisdiction of Sudan Temple.

Past Potentate Sam S. Toler, of Rocky Mount, speaking on Shrine activity, pointed out that the first Shrine hospital for crippled children was established in 1922 and that since that time 16 others have been added. Since the first hospital was established he said more than a quarter million children have been helped by the hospitals. He pointed out that it requires over $5,000,000 annually to operate the hospitals.

All the visiting nobles taking part in the program were introduced by Past Potentate W. J. Bundy, of this city.

McCarthy Ill, But Will Talk Tonight

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) was confined to bed with virus laryngitis and a temperature of 103 today but said he still planned to make tonight what he has billed as his reply to a speech by Adlai E. Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee.

Dr. Raulf Hanson, who examined McCarthy at his hotel, said, "The senator has a virus laryngitis with a sore throat and a high temperature. I strongly advised against his working Friday night but he insists he is going to."

"His condition was brought on by overwork, excessive fatigue and exposure. What he needs is a day or two of rest but I don't know if I can hold him down."

Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, charged a March 6 speech in Miami that "political plungers" had persuaded President Eisenhower that "McCarthyism is the best Republican formula for political success."

McCarthy demanded free and equal time to reply from the Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Co. networks which had carried Stevenson's speech.

Instead, the networks gave time to the Republican National Committee, which chose Vice President Nixon to reply to Stevenson. He spoke last Saturday night.

McCarthy continued unsuccessfully to demand network time, declaring Stevenson had made a "vicious" personal attack on him.

As a result, McCarthy has billed an address here tonight to the Milwaukee County Young Republican Club as his reply. The Chicago Tribune station WGN announced it would broadcast the speech and offered to let other stations carry it if they wished.

McCarthy said he understood enough independent stations would do so to give him "fairly complete coverage."

The speech is scheduled for 9:30 p.m. EST. Stevenson said in his Miami speech that the chief objective of McCarthy and his supporters included "not only the intimidation and silencing of all independent institutions and opinion in our society, but the capture of one of our great instruments of political action—the Republican party."

"The end result in short, is a malign and fatal totalitarianism," he said.

Grifton Resident Is New Candidate For House Seat

Ben G. Tucker of Grifton filed with the Pitt County Board of Elections as a candidate for the state House of Representatives this morning.

Tucker, a native of Pitt County who has been a resident of Grifton since 1919, is a new personality in county-wide politics in Pitt. He sought public office for the first time last year when he was a successful candidate for the town board of commissioners of Grifton.

"I'm not interested in being elected to the House for any personal reason," Tucker said. "If I am elected I shall do my best to decide any issue pertaining to Pitt County or North Carolina in the best interest of all the people at all times; not in the interest of a few people."

Tucker also declared he is against the secrecy law passed by the 1953 General Assembly, and will seek the repeal of that law.

Worthington To Seek Re-Election

Utilities Commissioner Sam O. Worthington today announced he will seek re-election to the state House of Representatives from Pitt County.

His announcement elicited almost six weeks of speculation in Pitt County and elsewhere in the state over whether Worthington would continue on the State Utilities Commission or seek re-election to the General Assembly post.

Concerning the secrecy legislation which Worthington supported in the 1953 session of the General Assembly, he commented: "I have never been bothered about letting anyone know where I stand. I am still of that opinion."

Israel To Ask Action On Ambush

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israel readied a demand today for United Nations action on the ambush slaying of 11 Jews on a desert bus.

The government blamed neighboring Jordan for what it termed an organized attack by armed Arabs from that Middle East country.

Jordan promptly denied any responsibility for the assault, which occurred Wednesday 12 miles from its border at Scorpion Pass in the barren Negev Desert. A spokesman at Amman, the Jordan capital, said his country was ready "politically and militarily to meet any developments that might arise."

The incident was the most serious in Palestine since the 11-nation U.N. Security Council captured Israel for the slaying of 53 Arabs last October in the Jordan border village of Kibya.

Tension over the latest incident mounted amid unconfirmed reports of Israeli and Arab troop movements. Lebanese newspapers said in dispatches from Jordan that Israeli troops were concentrating at the frontier between the two countries. Travelers reported on arrival at the Lebanese capital of Beirut they had seen Syrian military equipment moving southward through Damascus toward that country's border with Israel.

The Arab and Jewish nations still are technically in a state of war, although an uneasy cease-fire ended the Palestine War of 1948.

In Wednesday's incident, a woman and child, seriously wounded, and two Israeli soldiers were the only survivors. Nine men and two women were killed.

Two U.N. observers, accompanied by Israeli army and police trackers and a pack of bloodhounds, trailed the attackers for 10 miles in the direction of the Jordan border but darkness halted them six miles from the border.

Churches of Christ, Scientists
Victory over human limitations comes as we learn that man's true selfhood is spiritual, not material, and that he lives in Spirit, God, not in matter—this is a leading point in the Lesson-Sermon to be heard at Christian Science services Sunday.

In the Lesson-Sermon on the subject of "MATTER" the following Bible verses will be read from Isaiah:
"Seek ye the Lord while he may be found, call ye upon him while he is near: Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon. For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord." (55:6-8)

The following passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will also be read:
"The perfect Mind sends forth perfection, for God is Mind. Imperfect mortal mind sends forth its own resemblances, of which the wise man said, 'All is vanity.'" (29:29)

The Golden Text is from Isaiah: "The grass withereth, the flower fadeth; but the word of our God shall stand forever." (40:8)

Deepest sympathy is extended to his wife and other members of his family. Funeral services were conducted by the pastor in the church on Wednesday morning.

30 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
March 19, 1924

On Friday of last week Misses Marie Hardee, Dot Curran and Ines Van Dyke entertained at a beautifully appointed dinner at the Rotary Club in honor of the high school senior class.

Throughout the elegant four course dinner, delightful music was rendered. The high school colors, green and white, were carried out in the decorations of the rooms and tables, also, in the lovely and attractive favors which were presented to every member of the class at the close of the dinner.

From 7 o'clock, the time which they were greeted at the door by the charming hostesses, until several hours later, every moment was filled with joy and laughter, and the event will long be remembered as one of the brightest spots in the hard life of the Greenville High School seniors.

Inter Se Club Elects Officers

Mrs. Joseph Taft was a most gracious hostess to the Inter Se Book Club Tuesday afternoon at her home.

A brief business meeting was held, presided over by Mrs. Taft, president. At this time the nominating committee presented the slate of officers for the coming year, and it was unanimously accepted. It read as follows: President, Mrs. Ercell Webb; vice president, Mrs. E. H. Willford; secretary, Mrs. Sam Northrop; treasurer, Mrs. Lindsay Wilkerson; and librarian, Mrs. Jack Edwards.

Mrs. Plato Evans, who was in charge of the program, discussed her selected topic for the year, "Bath, North Carolina."

"The people of North Carolina as a whole have been prone to regard their past as not very exciting," stated Mrs. Evans. "Yet one cannot delve into histories, preserved personal documents, or even old landmarks themselves, without reliving some of the glory which was Bath's and the grandeur of its settlers." A vivid description of life in colonial Bath and portraits of its interesting characters followed. The daring exploits of Blackbeard and legends of the Carolina Coast added color to the history of Beaufort County.

In closing, Mrs. Evans mentioned several old historical landmarks that should be visited on a trip to Bath. At the conclusion of the program, a delicious salad course was served by the hostess.

Mrs. Hoover Taft was a guest for the afternoon.

The present London Bridge is still called New London Bridge although it is 123 years old.

News on the juvenile front—not about delinquency—interested us this week with the annual awards by the Children's Library Association for "the most distinguished books for children in 1953." Medals went to Joseph Krumbold for his "And Now Miguel," and to Ludwig Bemmelms for "Madeline's Rescue." Mrs. Scott of the Shepard Memorial Library enthusiastically assures us that both of these books are available on her shelves, and Mrs. Ellington has indicated that she will be glad to acquire them for anyone who wants to place them on order with her. . . .

More good news about the youngsters: Formation of the Teen-Age Book Clubs which are threatening a real invasion on the stupefying effects of TV in many quarters. Usually formed in individual classrooms, the Teen Age Book Clubs now have about 10,000 branches throughout the country, with a membership of some 300,000 teen-age boys and girls who bought over a million books between September and February just passed. That is a lot of books, considering that they were purchased out of teen-age pocket money. . . . Favorites in this age group, according to our informer in the New York Times, have been "Anne Frank: Diary of a Young Girl," about a teen-ager in a German concentration camp, and Louisa Alcott's "Little Women"—both books, we think, show a lot better taste in their readers than, say, "Cactus Jim."

News for Methodists and others interested in religion (and shouldn't we all be?) is the publication of three new books about John Wesley: "The Long Quest," by Harry H. Kroll, issued by the Westminster Press, "Christian Perfection: As Believed and Taught by John Wesley," edited by Thomas S. Keller and published by the World Publishing Company, and "A Compend of Wesley's Theology," edited by Robert W. Burtner and Robert E. Chiles for the Abingdon Press. . . .

Macmillan Company announces the continuation of its efforts in cooperation with the Talking Book for the blind project, now in its 20th year of activity. Recorded by the American Foundation for the Blind, Inc., Talking Books are long-playing records of all types of books from the Bible to the latest mystery story. This year's contribution from Macmillan: Richard Llewellyn's "How Green Was My Valley," Josephine Tey's "The Man in the Queue" and Yuri Suhl's "Cowboy on a Wooden Horse." Talking Books are distributed by the Library of Congress to about 40,000 of America's 314,000 blind citizens. . . .

Important item on the local scene: Commemoration of International Theatre Month by the Teachers Playhouse at East Carolina, with the production this Tuesday evening, March 23, at the College Theatre, of "The Romance of the Willow Pattern," a comic tragedy with a Chinese setting, by Ethel Van Der Veer. . . . International Theatre Month is celebrated in most countries of the civilized world and is sponsored jointly in the U.S. by UNESCO and the American National Theatre and Academy. . . .

And on the same program Tuesday evening, just for the local color: an original drama called "The Web," written by Gladys Daugherty, a senior at East Carolina from Kinston. . . . Also on the international scene, we note that the College is sponsoring a "World Affairs Institute" to be held this Thursday, March 25, at which the students and anyone else interested will have the rare opportunity of hearing speakers from four of the major areas of the world. . . . And on April 1, we remind you again, the annual Author's Luncheon will be served in the College Cafeteria as a part of the Community Art Festival program, which holds forth during the week of March 28 to April 3. Festivities at the Author's Luncheon will start at 12:15 with a cocktail hour (tomato juice) in the Alumni-Faculty Building, sponsored by the Literature Group of the Greenville Women's Club. . . .

Dr. E.D. Johnson's weekly radio book chat over Station WGTC at nine o'clock Sunday evening will be on the following very pertinent subject: "The Inter-American Conference at Caracas." . . .

Today's reviewer is Mrs. Madge B. Allen, the versatile art supervisor of the Greenville Negro schools. She proves that she can write as well as paint in her very interesting appreciation of Ruby B. Goodwin's book about a Negro girl's life in an Illinois mining town. . . .

IT'S GOOD TO BE BLACK, by Ruby Berkley Goodwin. . . . New York: Doubleday and Company, Inc., 1953. . . .

"Some folks say they pity black people. We don't need pity. All we need is a chance. We know how to work an' we know how to have fun—God didn't make no mistake when He made all kinds and colors of people, but He didn't make no race to be masters. He didn't make no race to be slaves.—Honor ain't something to stick yore head up about.—Honor brings along her twin brother, Responsibility. That makes you kinda humble.—There's a sure strength about a humble man that makes everybody stand off 'n' look at him. I wants you to be proud you're black, Ruben. Black is powerful!"

Here is the story that is the recollection of one Negro girl who remembers with pride those words of her father. It is that, simply the recollections of childhood. There are no problems solved, nor any left to be solved. The events are the high lights of memory for a woman who has made a place for herself in the life of Los Angeles. She has five children of her own, has found time to be active in civic organizations, lecture extensively, written two successful volumes of verse, produced two collections of dramatic stories based on Negro Spirituals, and has worked as publicist for Hattie McDaniels and Ethel Waters. . . .

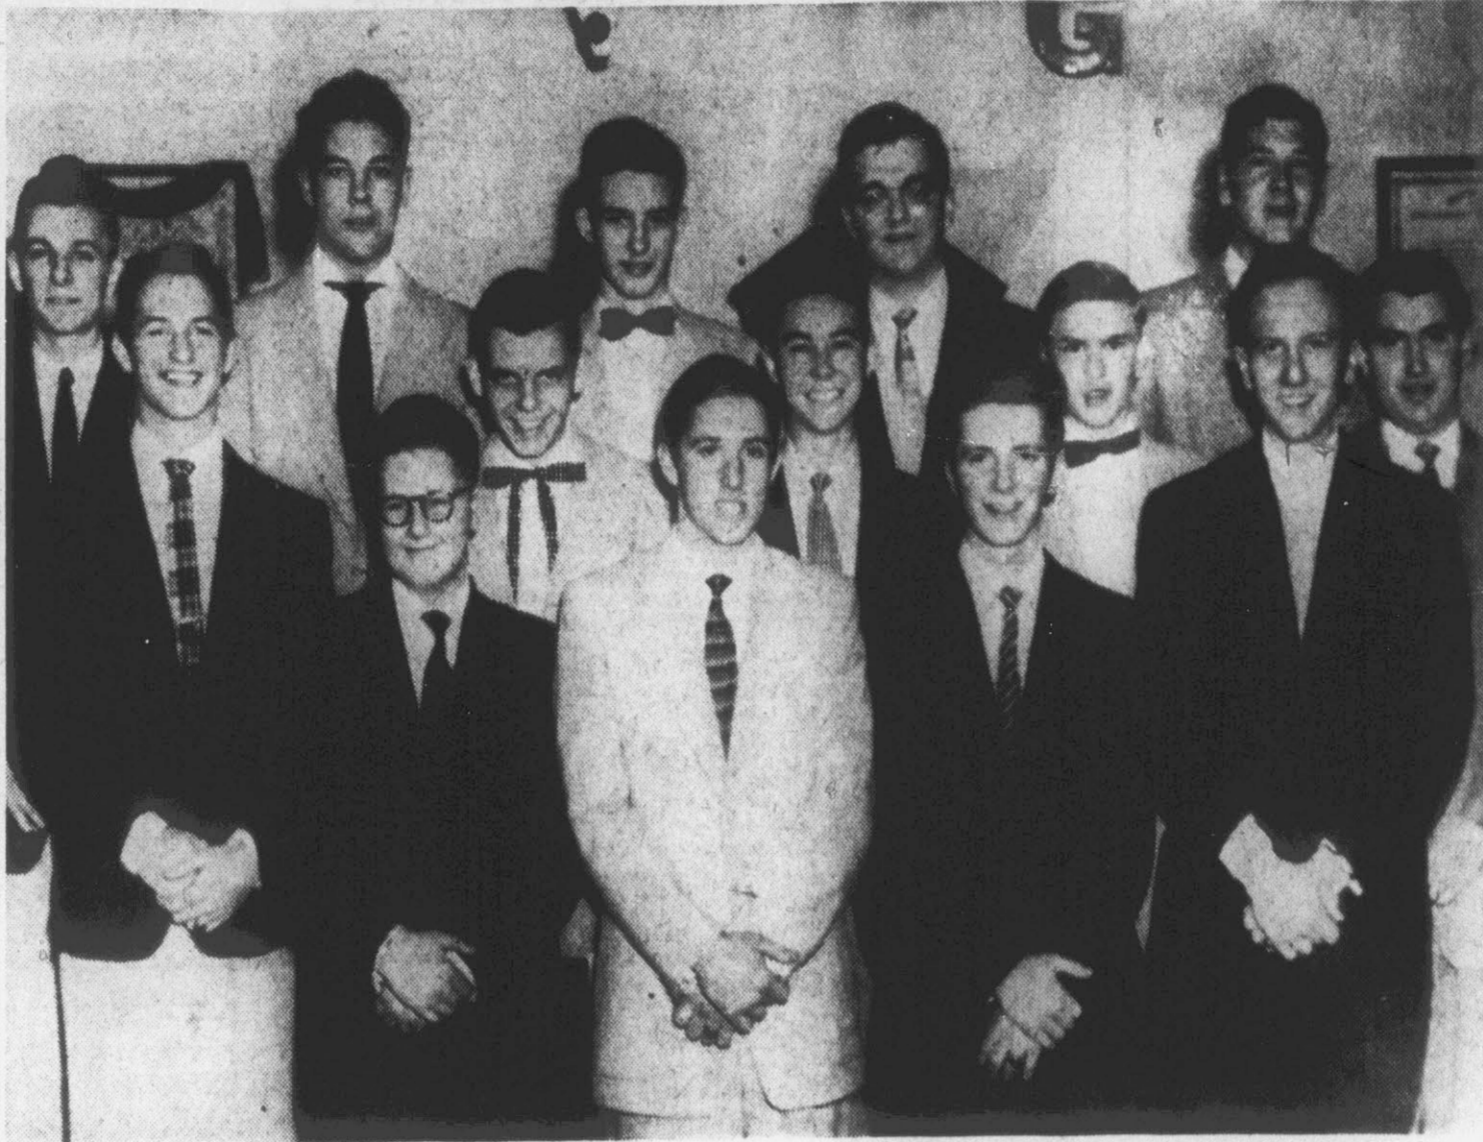

The Berkleys lived in the mining town of Du Quoin, Illinois. As in most mining areas, there were people of various races and nationalities. Life there wasn't for the timid or pampered. The men passed by death a hundred times a day. This fact was a bond between all families. One mistake could mean tragedy for many. When something happened at the mines, everybody went and stood huddled together. They never knew whose loved ones would be brought up the last time. . . .

The happenings were catalogued in the Bottoms by the advent of the Berkley babies. They came regularly every two years. And each had an event that happened "about" the time they were born. There were fourteen births from which events were dated. The first four died in infancy. . . .

In a small home eleven souls lived cramped, but well provided. They knew love and respect. Mrs. Goodwin did not learn that frustrations of race existed until grown. She had to be persuaded that there were children who grew up indoctrinated with the belief that they were second-rate citizens, and only tolerated at home and abroad. . . .

All life is a drama. The actors are destined to play the role assigned to them. Ruby Berkley Goodwin was a sensitive child, living and loving as a child could. She felt the pulse of life without really knowing that she did. She laughed with Cousin Frankie, wondered about Big Chick's illness that could be cured only by Aunt Temple Sims who had strange powers. This was done much against her

Water Code

RALEIGH (AP)—A seven-member committee has been named by Gov. Unstead to draw up a new water code for the state. The advisory group, which will study conservation of the state's water resources, was appointed by the governor yesterday.

The group will work with the state's Water Resources Committee. Unstead said he hoped the groups would work with the Neuse River Basin Authority.

At the governor's request, the advisory group and the water resources committee will meet here Monday to hear a discussion of the water problem from a federal official.

D. S. Weaver, head of North Carolina State College's Extension Service, was named chairman of the committee.

Mail Takes Long Way To Deliver

LEOMINSTER, Mass. (AP)—From Leominster to Fitchburg is five miles as the crow flies—but 115 miles by U. S. mail.

Since an economy move eliminated the mail route between the two cities, this is what happens to a letter:

Mailed after 3 p.m. in Leominster, it goes by truck to Worcester. It is then sent to South Station, Boston, by train.

A truck carries it to North Station, Boston, from which it goes back to Fitchburg by train.

ZIEGFELD HONORED—CHICAGO (AP)—Dr. Florenz Ziegfeld, who organized the Chicago Musical College in 1865 and was the father of the late Flo Ziegfeld of Polka fame, was honored yesterday. A marker with his family name was erected on a court 100 feet wide and 76 feet long running north from Van Buren St., between Michigan and Washburn Aves., in the loop.

New Haven, Conn., claims that it had the first commercial telephone exchange in 1878.

father's wishes. She was humiliated by the children, when they called her Topsy, after seeing "Uncle Tom's Cabin." She fought her battles about that name, worried through a strike when there was not enough food to go around. . . . It was from her experiences, as she looked back, that Mrs. Goodwin realized that her father was a combination of Einstein, Flash Gordon, Sherlock Holmes, and Santa Claus to his children. He was respected by the entire citizenry of Du Quoin. His word and opinion were often sought and acted upon. He had a great influence on "Ruben's" life. He taught her to walk straight and tall and to be proud like a queen. . . .

You will find IT'S GOOD TO BE BLACK easy reading. At first glance it might be called light. On after thought, you find that the book is about normal people living normal lives. And normally in today's world is a little queer. . . .

He Purportedly 'Wed' Sister To Enter The U.S.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Chin Tong Foot, who reportedly married his sister in Hong Kong so she could enter the United States, was arrested by immigration authorities as she stepped off the liner President Cleveland yesterday.

He was held as an alien who doesn't have proper papers for admission into the United States, although for 15 years he has been known as an American citizen. . . . As a sister of a citizen the "bride" could not enter the United States. But as a wife of an American she could. American authorities in Hong Kong said Chin apparently planned to arrange for her entrance after his return. . . . Immigration Commissioner Bruce Barber said, "We have evidence that this man is an imposter and not a citizen at all."

New Haven, Conn., was reopened as a port for large ocean ships in March 1954 after having been closed to them for 50 years.

DuPont Safety Engineer Reports On Grifton School Survey To PTA

The March meeting of the PTA was held on Tuesday night at 7:30 in the school auditorium. Mrs. Robert Levine called the meeting to order and turned the meeting over to the program chairman for the evening, Mrs. Charles Kline, who with Mrs. Mildred Abbott and Mrs. Edna Tracey, first grade teachers presented a play, "The Golden Goose." Children taking part sang a number of nursery songs and were directed by Mrs. Paul Braxton of the school music department. Those having speaking parts in the play were Verna Kay Tucker as Mother Goose; Rebecca Mahler, Miss Muffett; Bo Peep, Brenda Mumford; Jill, Brenda Hart; Betty Blue, Iris Talton; Goose Girl, Jane Gardner Cobb; Fairy, Thressa Houze; Jack, Jimmie Smith; Boy Blue, Frank Davis; Simple Simon, Johnny Buck; Jack of the Bean Stalk, Walter Haddock; Tom, Ronald Garris. . . .

Scene one was in the yard of Mother Goose's home where the children are told the old gray goose is dead and they all show their joy and are chided by Mother Goose for this. . . .

In scene two they go to Hazelnut Wood in search of the Golden Goose to replace the one they think is dead and it turns out that the one they find is their own gray goose who is still alive. The costumes worn by the characters did much to make the play a success. . . .

As a feature of the program Mr. Jack Calvert, safety engineer with the DuPont plant's new chemical lab, gave a report of a survey which he with the aid of Principal E. B. Bright of the local school had made in regards to the safety and hygiene of the buildings and grounds. It was recommended that the doors be equipped with bars that would allow them to open with pressure rather than the use of knobs; that the glass doors as a safety measure be replaced with wire glass; that extra stair rails be installed, loose plaster be repaired and that additional water fountains be needed; playground apparatus be repaired. He urged that parents instruct their children to stay away from the construction of the buildings on the school campus; that they be careful in the crossing of the streets adjacent to the school. He also reminded children to report any injury received on the school grounds or at school to their teachers to be taken care of at once. In connection with this safety talk, Mrs. Levine urged all parents to try to teach the children the importance of the respect for school property. Mr. Bright told the group that many things needed in way of repairs in the old building were things that could come from the county maintenance fund and after this the PTA could do other things that would be needed. It was voted by the PTA to give $75 as a small sum to start with the house and grounds committee in the needed work. The nominating committee appointed Mrs. Paul Bradley, Mrs. Milton Hart and Mrs. Fray Schutte. . . .

The ways and means committee announced plans for a game tournament on April 2 at 8 o'clock at the school. Tickets are now on sale at the local drug stores and are $1.00 per player. . . .

A letter drawn up by the PTA executive committee to be presented to the town aldermen in regards to safety on the streets near the school was read by Mrs. Robert Forney. She was instructed after a vote to present this to the town board for their action. . . . Cakes on count for the attendance were awarded Mrs. Abbott's and Mrs. Hart's grades.

No Use Stopping With The Job Half Done

Now that the dog track at Moyock in Currituck County has been closed and ordered padlocked by a ruling of the state Supreme Court, steps should be taken to determine the status of the track at Morehead City.

The attorney general of the state has not commented officially on the affect the ruling in the Currituck track will have on the Morehead City track. There are some differences in the two local bills which authorized the establishments of dog tracks and pari-mutuel betting in the two eastern

No Place For A Double Role

Now Senator McCarthy is slated for a dual role. He is going to play the part of the investigator and be investigated at the same time, apparently.

McCarthy has agreed to stand aside as chairman of his investigations subcommittee next week, but he will remain a member of the committee while it investigates charges he and the chief counsel of his subcommittee sought to bring undue pressure upon the Army to win favoritism for a wealthy New Yorker who worked with the subcommittee before being drafted.

It seems to us that additional rule changes for the investigation should be made so that McCarthy will not pose as an investigator of himself and the actions of his subordinates.

It is no more proper for McCarthy to be a part of the committee which investigates the questionable actions of McCarthy and his subcommittee's chief counsel in this matter than it is to leave the investigations of any agency, organization or individual to themselves. McCarthy, in addition to stepping down as chairman of the subcommittee for this investigation, should also be removed as a member of the subcommittee.

Unless that is done, it will be difficult for the investigation to actually find the answers to the questions which it seeks to resolve. In our opinion, McCarthy as a member of the subcommittee, will seek to turn the so-called investigation of the actions of himself and his chief counsel in this matter into a proverbial whitewash.

Strength for the Day

THE OPEN MIND

This is an age which puts a great deal of stock in what it calls "the open mind."

Sometimes we wonder whether we really have open minds. It may be that our minds are open too far—rather than they are open at both ends. Ideas seem to swish through some people's minds and keep on going. We happen to be living in an age when the whole idea is freedom, tolerance, and such kindness to everybody that even the most violent criminal need not be roughly handled. People who follow the prevailing style of thought mean by open-mindedness a complete conformity to this style.

We are affected today with a shallow mood of liberalism. The truly open-minded people are to be found among those who never give a thought to open-mindedness one way or another but just go along every day being sensible and kind.

Candidacy Virtually Revealed

WASHINGTON—Representative Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. virtually announced his candidacy for Governor of New York before the Senate Public Works Committee at a recent unreported hearing, and challenged Governor Thomas E. Dewey to run against him. Every politician in the small audience drew this conclusion from Roosevelt's remarks. They also thought that F.D.R. Jr. announced his candidacy for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1956, assuming that he defeats Dewey next fall.

Young Roosevelt revealed his ambitions during a 60-minute attack on Dewey's plan for New York State development of power on the Niagara River. Roosevelt originally favored Federal construction and operation of this project along the lines of TVA, following in the politico-economic footsteps of his father and Harry S. Truman.

But when the House passed a bill for Niagara development by five private utility companies at the last session, Roosevelt and Senator Herbert H. Lehman, his partner in this political adventure, shifted to the plan for New York State development. With Dewey, they believe that any kind of state expansion is preferable to private enterprise.

FOUND WAY TO DISAGREE WITH DEWEY—Roosevelt, however, does not appreciate the theory that politics makes strange bedfellows. In view of his gubernatorial and Presidential ambitions, he had to find some way of disagreeing with Dewey, his prospective opponent. He did.

The New York Governor insists that the state power act guarantees preference service to such public power consumers as municipalities and farm cooperatives. Dewey maintains that they have nothing to fear. If Congress passes his bill for New York State development.

Roosevelt argues that Dewey cannot be trusted, and that the public power safeguards incorporated in the Roosevelt-Lehman Bill on Niagara development are necessary. In short, Junior poses as the people's champ.

ROOSEVELT'S PREDICTION—But when com-counties. It is entirely likely that the Morehead City track can not be closed because of the Supreme Court ruling on the Currituck track.

By its action, the Supreme Court has left the door open for a test case on the Morehead City track via the route of either civil or criminal action.

Unless some unforeseen circumstance develops the Currituck track will not operate during the coming summer season. In all probability the Morehead City track will operate unless it is closed specifically by order of the court. If the latter action is to be taken, there is not time to be lost to prevent the track from operating this summer. The legal channel through the lower courts to the state Supreme Court will take some time for such an action to progress, and even if it were started immediately, a ruling might not be handed down in time to prevent the track's operation this summer.

With the closing of the Currituck track, the job of ridding North Carolina of legalized gambling which threatens the entire state is half done. When the Morehead City track succumbs to a similar fate, the state will be much better off.

Warm Days Of Political Campaigns Lie Ahead

In just a few more days, the political races for state offices in the Democratic primary on May 29 will be firmly set.

Saturday will end the filing period for candidates for state offices and for Congressmen from North Carolina, and only the candidates who have officially paid their filing fees to the state board of elections by that time will have their names on the ballots.

For Pitt County offices and for seats in the General Assembly from this county, however, it is a different matter. The filing period for these offices will not end until April 17, which means potential candidates who have not yet put their hats into the official ring have another month in which to make the final decision.

There are sure to be other candidates to file for county offices before the April 17 deadline.

Many people in Pitt County may not have noticed a trend which has appeared in the shaping of political races in the county this year which differs from that of previous election years. There has been a decided movement toward earlier announcements of candidates than has been the case in the past.

Whether that means a more vigorous effort on the part of candidates to win offices in the coming primary, or merely more time for campaigning, remains to be seen.

Whatever the reason for the earlier announcements this year, indications point to a political year which will not lack for heated campaigning for many local offices. The candidates this year will not only be concerned with garnering votes in their own behalf, but with long hours of work to see that the eligible voters of the county get their names on the registration books.

TECHNICALLY, there is a vacancy in the 11th judicial district occasioned by a good deal of speculative comment around capitol square. The only additional information obtainable from Governor Umstead's office was that he has nothing to add to the statement.

The situation may not be unique, but it is unusual. Judge John Clement's as of March 10 leaves a vacancy to be filled at the November election. Actually, the choice of a Judge will be made in the Democratic primary on May 29 or in event of a runoff, on June 26. Superior court judges are nominated in the district, elected by statewide vote. There is not a chance for a Republican to win.

Time for filing notice of candidacy in the primary runs out at noon Saturday. Several men are in the field. The judge nominated and elected by the people, however, cannot take over the office until the November vote has been certified by the State Board of Elections.

Surprise witness—A surprise and devastating witness for the private companies was Representative John J. Dempsey of New Mexico. Former Governor of New Mexico and Under Secretary of Interior during the Ickes regime, Dempsey impressed several members supposedly favorable to Dewey's scheme.

At a hearing through the House Public Works Committee's hearings on this bill. It seems to me that every responsible New York interest except Dewey and Roosevelt want Niagara developed by private enterprise. It is a clear-cut test. The private companies have pooled their financial and engineering resources. No such side issues as irrigation, flood control or navigation are involved.

Somebody Told Me

Bed-Time Has Own Problems

Subject: Children's going-to-bed time.

Many times since we have had children this subject has come up. Wife Rachel and I are not in total agreement about the technique of putting to bed Nancy, three and a half, and Don, 16 months.

My theory is this: let them get thoroughly worn out, so they are ready to flop when the time comes. So I usually try to exhaust them around bed time.

W. R.'s theory is this: when you play with them too vigorously, it gets them keyed up instead of getting them settled down. Therefore, the purpose is being defeated.

Now I might not like to, but I have to admit that W. R.'s plan might have merit. Especially have I thought that since last night when I tried to wear out the two at one time.

We were all on the bed at once when both of them decided that sitting on my head was great sport. They were very cooperative and took turns at the job. The very second one of them let up the other took over. When it was all over both of the children seemed ready for more and it was Daddy who was completely ready to flop in bed.

Many parents let their children stay up until they are literally ready to flop, no matter how late it is. Right or wrong, we are in agreement against this theory. We contend that children do not know when to give up. In fact, sometimes as grown-ups we do not know when to give up. So the time schedule is the hard but correct theory, we think.

This theory, however, adds what seems like a million man hours to parenthood. If you undertake to get them down at a certain hour, it's work and I mean plenty of it. You have to be the type of parent who enjoys 99 per cent of parenthood.

And then the time might come when you want to step out. With both in bed it's a simple matter. Some parents let the baby sitter earn their wages, plus, but others will not leave unless the children are asleep.

There are a thousand different angles for looking at it, but no matter which one you take there's one thing certain: No matter how much Mother might love them, it's a relief to get them in bed. With Daddy, it's usually a little different because he hasn't been taking care of them all day.

And I thank you. JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

AMEN, JUDGE; BUT LEAVE US SOME HOPE (Kinston Free Press)

Judge Henry Grady of New Bern, who is presiding over the current term of Superior Court, got disgusted at the rapid rate of acquittals for drunken drivers this week and said in substance: "I'm not a-gonna try any more drunken driving cases. . . If they (the jury) don't start believing officers of the law, this country is going straight to Hades."

This statement followed two or three unsuccessful attempts to convict persons charged with driving under the influence of intoxicants. One case involved a driver who did not take the stand himself and against whom two officers of the law gave uncontradicted evidence that the defendant was under the influence of an intoxicant when apprehended. Another case found the jury hopelessly deadlocked at 11 to one for acquittal, hence a mistrial was ordered.

Judge Grady's viewpoint is most understandable, especially when studied from the safety point of view. Unless the courts can enforce the laws against drunken driving, the people have no recourse against those who would kill and maim and destroy the property of innocent people on the highways.

But the jury's right and duty to find for the defendant where the evidence is in doubt cannot be questioned. It is in cases where there seems to be no doubt that the action of the jury in turning a potential killer loose becomes such a serious matter as to cause even a judge to despair.

Umstead's Decision Not To Fill Vacancy Found Unusual

By LYNN NISBET
NO JUDGE—Governor Umstead's decision "not to appoint at this time" a resident judge of the 11th judicial district occasioned a good deal of speculative comment around capitol square. The only additional information obtainable from Governor Umstead's office was that he has nothing to add to the statement.

"Dewey says that the Congress should keep hands off and leave me alone. That's just what Dillinger said when he was robbing banks—'leave me alone!'" he can pick an outsider whose tenure would run for eight months at most.

PRESSURE—It is known that the Governor is under pressure from advocates of all three of these alternatives. It is also well known that he does not respond readily to such pressure.

Another important element is Governor Umstead's sincere and wholesome respect for the judiciary. Like all Governors and others with appointive power he is not averse to "playing politics" with administrative patronage. He, like his predecessors, might have to defend certain legislative appointments against the charge of playing politics.

Those who know him well, and a review of his record would seem to justify their appraisal, are convinced he will not "play politics" with the judiciary. Whatever decision he makes, and whenever he makes it, will be what he thinks is for the best interest of orderly non-political judicial process in North Carolina.

ELECTIONS—The State Board of Elections will meet Saturday to name boards of elections in the 100 counties of North Carolina. That is an important function, because the county election boards will meet four weeks later to name registrars and judges in the more than 2,000 voting precincts. The precinct election officials have considerable discretion in ruling upon whether or not any individual citizen has the right to vote, within the limits of the constitutional requirements.

Since the State Board appoints the county boards and the county boards name the precinct officials, and the precinct folks are right powerful, the State Board meeting becomes very important.

UP AND DOWN—While the authority comes down from the State board to the county and then to the precinct, the basis for that authority first goes up from the people to the county and the State.

The law provides for the Governor to appoint the State board of five members, not more than three of whom shall be members of the same political party. The county boards are composed of three members, not more than two of the same party. Precinct officials consist of a registrar and two judges, and the law says not more than one judge shall be of the same party as the registrar.

That means in North Carolina, the State Board has three Democrats and two Republicans; every county board has two Democrats and one Republican; and every precinct registrar and one judge is a Democrat, the other judge a Republican. The county boards are appointed on recommendations of the party committees in the respective counties. These committees are named by the party meetings at precinct and county meetings. So—the situation is that any authority exercised by the State board has its basis in the democratic process starting with action of citizens attending the precinct meetings of their

However, Judge Grady would do well to use his influence for a greater moral blow at the guilty. In cases where there is no contradictory evidence he could well direct a verdict of guilty and make the defendant pay a penalty in keeping with the infraction against society.

We appreciate Judge Grady's sentiment against jurors who fail to see the error of their ways in turning the guilty loose on society again, but we hope he will not give up. Sometimes it is far more important to go back and try one more case and expedite justice therein than it is to withdraw, so to speak, over mistakes of judgment and moral responsibility which cannot then be corrected.

After all a good example is the greatest teacher.

Seek Better Wiring

By ELMER ROESSNER
In cities all over the country, utility companies and appliance dealers are getting together for "adequate wiring" campaigns.

Dealers are finding that existing circuits in millions of homes and apartments are interdicting sales of electric ranges, freezers, air-conditioners and other electric devices. And utility companies, natch, want to sell more electric power. Of the 45,875,000 dwelling units counted in the 1950 census, 20,101,000 were built before 1920 and 8,907,000 between 1920 and 1939. When those units were built, they were wired, if at all, for lights and, perhaps, an electric iron, a few fans and possibly some other small appliances. The home with a television set, three radios, and electric washer and an electric kitchen was still of dream stuff.

Today, these 29,000,000 units, plus many of those built since, are near the limit of their appliance capacity. In some, in fact, the freezer shuts off when television is turned on, or the TV picture becomes squiggly when the washer churns.

When a householder adds one more appliance, it may not work satisfactorily, and he blames the manufacturer or dealer. Or, if the dealer warns the customer that he may have to rewire if he buys a freezer, the purchase may be long postponed. Many landlords now prohibit tenants from using air-conditioners. Not enough power in their lines.

Most of the adequate wiring campaigns have two objectives: first, to have adequate wiring built into new structures and, second, to persuade landlords and homeowners to improve their wiring, not only to insure more satisfactory operation of existing electric devices, but to be ready for wonders to come.

Unless these campaigns can succeed, sales of air-conditioners, ranges, broilers and other booming lines may level off sooner than the industry expects.

PLASTICS INDUSTRY PROMULGATES A CODE
The plastics industry, still trying to purge itself of quick-buck operators, has taken another step forward. Its four leading associations—the Manufacturing Chemists Association, the Society of the Plastics Industry, the Society of Plastic Engineers and the Plastics Coating and Film Association—have drawn up a statement of principles.

These call for the thorough understanding of the limitations of plastic materials, the use of the best plastic material for each specific use, the engineering of consumer items for maximum value and satisfaction, and the avoidance of extravagant advertising claims.

All plastics manufacturers will be asked to sign the statement. So far, there are no plans to identify manufacturers who decline to sign, or punish those who have not yet agreed.

THROWS IN 54 AUTOS
TO SELL VIDEO SETS. . . .

Dealers in various parts of the country have offered used autos free with purchases of television sets—a good proposition for the dealer when he can get satisfactory used cars for less than the amount of discount he might have to offer to move the sets. Dealers in Boise, Idaho, think they have set some kind of a record with such a sale. In one week he sold 55 TV-auto combinations at prices ranging from $250 to $750, and 20 more sets without cars. The autos ranged from a '38 Ford to a '48 De Soto; the TVs were all '54 models. Responses came from as far away as Los Angeles, Washington, D.C., and Karlsruhe, Germany.

Mental Hazard In Pleasure Trip

By HAL ROYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Taking a pleasure cruise is to many people almost as much of a mental hazard as learning to dance.

They like the idea, they think it would be fun, but they are a bit afraid of it, for fear they will do something that will make them look foolish.

It is amazing in a supposedly brash country like America how many shy people duck new social adventures for fear they'll break an unknown etiquette rule. One one recent cruise a bashful girl had her meals alone in her cabin for several days because she was terrified at the thought she might use the wrong fork or spoon in the public dining room and be secretly ridiculed. An older woman passenger, sensing the situation, gradually drew her out of her shell and the girl ended up by having, as they say, a wonderful time.

A ship is a strange new world, but the rules of life aboard it are the same as those in ordinary use ashore. After returning from an 18-day cruise to the West Indies, I'm convinced the only two mistakes you can make on such a trip are:

(1) to fall to have fun, or (2) to jump overboard. The first rule on a cruise is relax. Nobody is scoring your errors. The chances are 150,000 to 1 that Emily Post isn't aboard. But suppose you do find yourself with a poised fork in your fist just as everybody else attacks the course at hand with a spoon. There are at least four genteel ways to solve the crisis:

1. Claim you are near-sighted.
2. If you are a lady, unobtrusively drop the fork-handle end first-down the bosom of your gown.
3. Call the waiter over and say your cousin asked you to bring back a fork as a souvenir, and please will he wrap this one up.
4. Stab with the fork whoever is sitting at your left and ask in chill tones of reproach, "gray now, sir (or lady), as the captain says, will you cease pinching me beneath the table?" This will not only get you sympathy—it may win you applause that'll give you time to pick up the right spoon.

Here are a few other general tips, more or less serious, for those planning to take their first cruise:

Q. My husband would like to go on a cruise, but hates to dress up. What should I tell him?

A. Tell him to shut up and dress up. He should wear a tux every evening except the first and last nights out and nights the ship is in port. But after lying out on deck all day under the warm sun, he'll really feel like sprucing up.

Q. Should a man wear a white tropical tux or a gray one?

A. Any color will do. If it is white when he starts, it will probably be battleship gray when he gets back. Tell him not to bother about stiff shirts. Plain white shirts with a clip-on bowtie will get him by.

Q. My wife is afraid she will get bored on a cruise. Will she?

A. Any woman who can't get herself entertained on a cruise probably needs an undertaker, and most ships have a qualified one among the crew. If your wife gets bored, you can always have her embalmed.

Q. I know you can get married at sea, but can a cruise captain give me a divorce?

A. Not until they put a keel under Las Vegas, and float it out to sea.

Q. Can I go into the ship lounge in my bathing suit?

A. Sure. Once.

Q. Can a cruise passenger win enough at cards to pay for his trip?

A. Passengers generally are expected to play with a fresh deck.

Q. Am I likely to find a husband on a cruise?

A. Yes. But the problem is whose.

Q. I hear you have to tip everybody on a cruise. How much do you tip the captain?

A. Nothing. Just drop him a postcard after you get home telling him how much you appreciate the swell way he drove the ship.

The New Commandment

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Beecher

Scripture—John 13-14.

After the Passover supper, Jesus washed the feet of his disciples. Peter protested, but Jesus said, "If I wash thee not, thou hast no part with Me."

After Jesus had washed His disciples' feet, He said, "If I then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet, ye also ought to wash one another's feet."

Jesus told the disciples, "One of you shall betray Me," and when they asked which one He dipped bread and gave it to Judas Iscariot, who left hastily.

Jesus gave His disciples a new commandment: "That ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another."

MEMORY VERSE—John 13:34.

The New Commandment

"BY THIS SHALL ALL MEN KNOW THAT YE ARE MY DISCIPLES, IF YE HAVE LOVE ONE TO ANOTHER"

Scripture—John 13-14.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. IN THIS, our wrangling world, are we who profess Christianity known by our love for one another? At first thought the answer would be No, but when we think about the fellowship we find in our church, the kindness we meet from its members, the love and sympathy we are given if we are in trouble, we begin to see that there are many, many of Jesus' living disciples who do love one another, and it is indeed a happy thought.

All the episodes in our lesson today occurred on Thursday of Holy week, April 6, in the Upper Room where the Last Supper was held, and at the end on the road to the Garden of Gethsemane.

When the supper was ended, Jesus laid His garments aside, girded Himself with a towel, poured water into a basin and proceeded to wash the dust from His disciples' feet—as a slave might have done. When He came to Peter, he said: "Thou shalt never wash my feet," but Jesus answered, "If I wash thee not, thou hast no part with Me." Peter then submitted but said:

"And by this shall all men know that ye are My disciples, if ye have love one to another." Simon Peter wanted to know where his Lord would go that they could not follow Him. "Lord, why cannot I follow Thee now? I will lay down my life for Thy sake."

Sadly Jesus must have answered Peter: "Wilt thou lay down thy life for My sake? Verily, verily, I say unto thee, the cock shall not crow, till thou hast denied Me thrice."

"Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in Me. In My Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto Myself; that where I am, there ye may be also."

The disciples, living so closely with their Lord, never seemed to understand His sayings—or did not until after He had left them. For instance, when He said, "And whither I go ye know, and the way ye know," Thomas said:

MEMORY VERSE

"A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another—John 13:34.

that His hands and his head should be washed also. Then, after Jesus dressed and sat again at the table He said: "Ye call Me Master and Lord; and ye say well; for so I am. If I then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet; ye also ought to wash one another's feet. For I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you."

If we follow His example, no task should be too humble and distasteful to perform for our brethren in Christ, or, indeed anyone in need.

Jesus knew who would betray Him, and told the disciples so, and they asked Him who the traitor was? John, the Beloved Disciple, put the question, and the answer was: "He is to whom I shall give a sop . . . And when He had dipped the sop, He gave it to Judas Iscariot."

Satan entered into Judas, and Jesus said to him, "That thou doest; do quickly." No one knew what Jesus meant, and when Judas went quickly away into the night, they thought he had gone to buy something or to give money to the poor, for Judas, as we know from our previous lesson, carried the bag of money belonging to all.

Jesus said, "Now is the Son of man glorified, and God is glorified in Him"; and then: "Little children, yet a little while I am with you. Ye shall seek Me; and as I said unto the Jews, Whither I go, ye cannot come; so now I say unto you; a new Commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another as I have loved you, that ye also love one another."

"Lord, we know not whither Thou goest; and how can we know the way?"

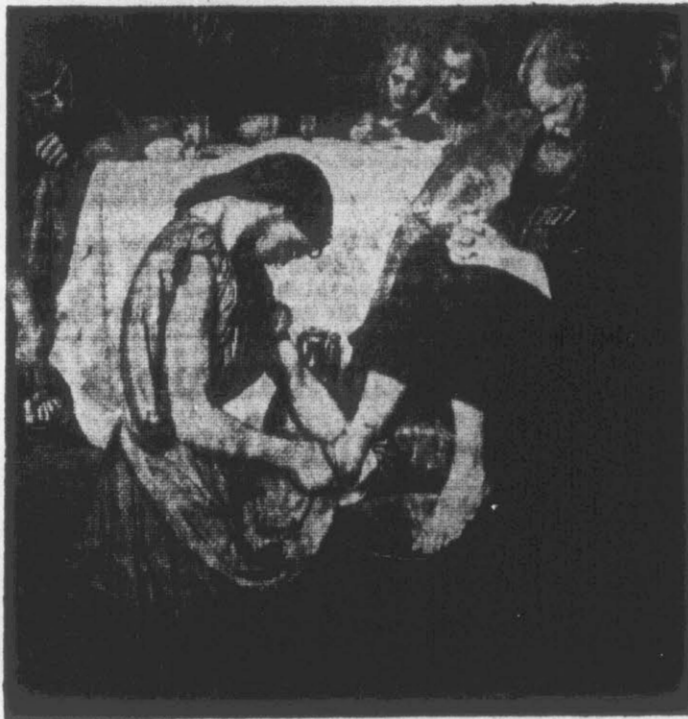

Jesus answered: "I am the way, the truth, and the life; no man cometh unto the Father but by Me. If ye had known Me, ye should have known My Father also; and from henceforth ye know Him, and have seen Him." "He that hath My commandments, and keepeth them, he it is that loveth Me; and he that loveth Me shall be loved of My Father, and I will love him, and will manifest Myself to him."

Why do we, even in our churches—our Houses of God—quarrel, backbite, criticize one another, forgetting these words of Jesus?

You cannot do more for the children in your classes than to emphasize this love that we should bear one another—they with their parents and other relatives, with their playmates and schoolmates. Practicing this love in our daily lives, we will not only please the Christ who died for us, but we shall gain the love of those with whom we associate. Then the Lord promised that while He would no longer be with them on earth, He would send a comforter, the Holy Ghost, "whom the Father will send in My name; He shall teach you all things to your remembrance."

"Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled neither let it be afraid." Facing the cross, the Lord gave us His peace, and then He said, "Arise, let us go hence," to Gethsemane.

Seeks To Forbid Blackface Art

PHILADELPHIA (U.S.)—City Councilman Raymond Pace Alexander has asked City Council to ban "blackface caricatures" from Philadelphia's annual New Year's Day Mummers Parade.

Alexander, a prominent Negro attorney, introduced a resolution saying: "It is an insult and an affront to the intelligence, the standing and accomplishments of the American Negro as well as a degrading influence in the life of the community in which the Negro lives." Harry W. Tyler, director of the parade's comic division, replied: "Why pick on us? Everybody has blackface comedians—radio, television and theatricals."

Pitching Looms As Big Key To Pirates' Baseball Plans

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Sports Editor

Pitching, always a question mark, looms as the number one item in East Carolina College's baseball picture.

The Pirates, with 17 lettermen on hand, will open their 1954 season Wednesday against Wake Forest's Demon Deacons here in Greenville. The game will launch a 20-game schedule which has been drawn up by Athletic Director Dr. N. M. Jorgensen and Baseball Coach Earl Smith.

On paper, the Pirates seem to be rather well-set in the hurling department. There are five veteran hurlers (four of them lettermen) available but there's a question surrounding each of the five.

JIMMY BYRD
... Bue Pitching Ace

Byrd Ailing

First of all, there's a big question mark as to how much Jimmy Byrd will be able to do this year. The senior right-hander from Kingston has been the mainstay of the Pirate mound forces since entering college but he came up with arm trouble last spring that has not disappeared. Byrd hasn't been able to go anywhere near top speed this spring in the workouts at the college and may be hampered considerably.

Jimmy Piner, Byrd's running mate in the pitching department, doesn't have arm trouble but last year he did have some trouble in remaining consistent throughout the year. That trouble may have been caused by insufficient rest between starts, a situation that was caused by a shortage of top-flight pitchers on the 1953 club. Both Piner and Byrd are right-handers.

Kenneth Hall, another right-hander, continues to loom as one of the more promising prospects so far as pitching is concerned. Hall joined the Bucs last year after a tour of duty with the Navy. He had his share of the rough days but still came through with several outstanding games.

The other two veterans, Clyde Owen and J. C. Thomas, are rather unknown quantities. Owen, a junior, has had trouble with his control since entering college. Thomas had an injury last year that kept him out of much action and he never was credited with being in a game although he did see some relief duty.

Good Prospects

Among the newcomers in the pitching department, Coach Smith figures that the Pirates have some outstanding prospects. Perhaps the best-known of the newcomers are left-handers Dave Harris and Jimmy Barnes. Harris is a big boy from Burlington who was a member of the Burlington Class AAA high school champions and the American Legion State Champs last summer. Barnes is originally from Nahant in Wayne County but finished his high school ball at Dover.

He is a small pitcher but he has an amazing variety of pitches and is rated as an exceptional prospect.

Right-hander Mack Cherry might possibly be the "sleeper" in the entire crew of pitchers available to the Pirates. The Robersonville freshman has been looking very good in practice and Smith figures on using him considerably this year.

Leonard Johnson, a military veteran from Newport who has had considerable baseball experience, and left-hander Don Curtis of Gibsonville are the other two pitchers who currently figure in the Pirates' plans.

Lettermen Available

In the fielding positions, the Pirates have at least one letterman available for every position. At first base, All-Conference W. C. Sanderlin is back again. At second, little Cecil Heath is back for his third year. Wilbur Thompson and Paul Jones, alternates at the shortstop position last year, are both back again this season. At third base, both Charlie Cherry and Gaither Cline are available for duty but Cherry is accorded the inside track simply because Cline will probably be shifted to the outfield.

In the outfield, veterans Bob Penley, Boyd Webb, Major Hooper, and possibly Paul Gay will be available. Gay's participation in baseball will depend upon the condition of his back. The football halfback hurt his back sometime ago and has been unable to get back into condition.

Despite the availability of the veterans, the Pirates may go to the baseball wars with rookie players in some of the positions. At least four of the newcomers are rated excellent prospects with good chances of breaking into the line-up.

Rookie Shortstop

Perhaps the best of the lot so far as the rookie infielders are concerned is shortstop Ray Pennington of Greensboro. The freshman, who also plays football and basketball, has already been thoroughly looked over by professional scouts and has numerous chances to join the pro ranks.

Gary Maddox, a military veteran from Southern Pines, figures strongly at second base and Wilson Hux, a freshman from Weldon, also figures highly in the general infield plans. Maddox played with the Fort Bragg baseball teams for the past couple of years.

First baseman Vernon Baker of Colerain a transfer from Campbell Junior College, and David Nance, a military veteran outfielder, both figure rather prominently in the present figuring.

In catching, the Pirates figure to be perhaps the strongest club in the North State Conference. All-Conference sophomore Bill Cline is back again after a great freshman season. Also back are Ralph (Bull) Britt, a highly rated senior from Mount Olive, and sophomore Bill Hardee of Wilmington.

Coaches Flocking To Duke's Clinic

DURHAM (AP)—Football coaches flocked to Duke University today for the opening classes of a two-day grid clinic conducted by Duke Coach Bill Murray and his staff.

A discussion of offensive and defensive strategems in the split-T formation occupied coaches and instructors at the opening session. Similar classes will be held tonight and tomorrow morning.

The clinic will end tomorrow afternoon when the coaches witness Duke's "Blue-White" football scrimmage game. The intrasquad game will end spring football practice for the Blue Devils.

Boros, Harrison Lead First Round In Miami Golfing

By BEN FUNK

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Eagles were a dime a dozen today as 39 two-man professional teams and one amateur duet teed off in the second 18-hole round of the $15,000 International four ball golf tournament.

Julius Boros, former National Open champion from Mid Pines, N.C., and E.J. (Dutch) Harrison, the Ardmore, Okla., veteran, each registered an eagle in yesterday's opening round as they fired a best-ball score of 62. That was 10 under par for the Normandy Shores Course.

They finished the round in a first place tie with Art Wall Jr. of Pocomo Manor, Pa., and Fred Haas Jr. of New Orleans.

Haas also fired an eagle and there were two eagles on the card of Bud Holscher of White Plains, N.Y., and Bob Rosburg of Chicago, two promising young pros who teamed up to shoot a 63 and take third place.

The day's hottest individual round was the eight-under-par 64 posted by the slender Wall, who carried the load for his team on the back nine with five birdies.

Haas got the team away to a fast start by dropping a 25-foot putt for a birdie on the first hole. Wall birdied the 10th and both trimmed a stroke off par at the fifth.

At the 525-yard seventh, Haas' second shot dropped five feet from the cup and he made the putt for an eagle 3. Then Wall took over. His birdie putts on the home stretch included three of 15 to 20 feet.

A 100-yard wedge shot by Boros hit the pin and slid into the cup for an eagle dence at the 380-yard sixth and Harrison canned an 8-foot putt for an eagle 3 at the seventh. Harrison contributed four birdies to the round and Boros two.

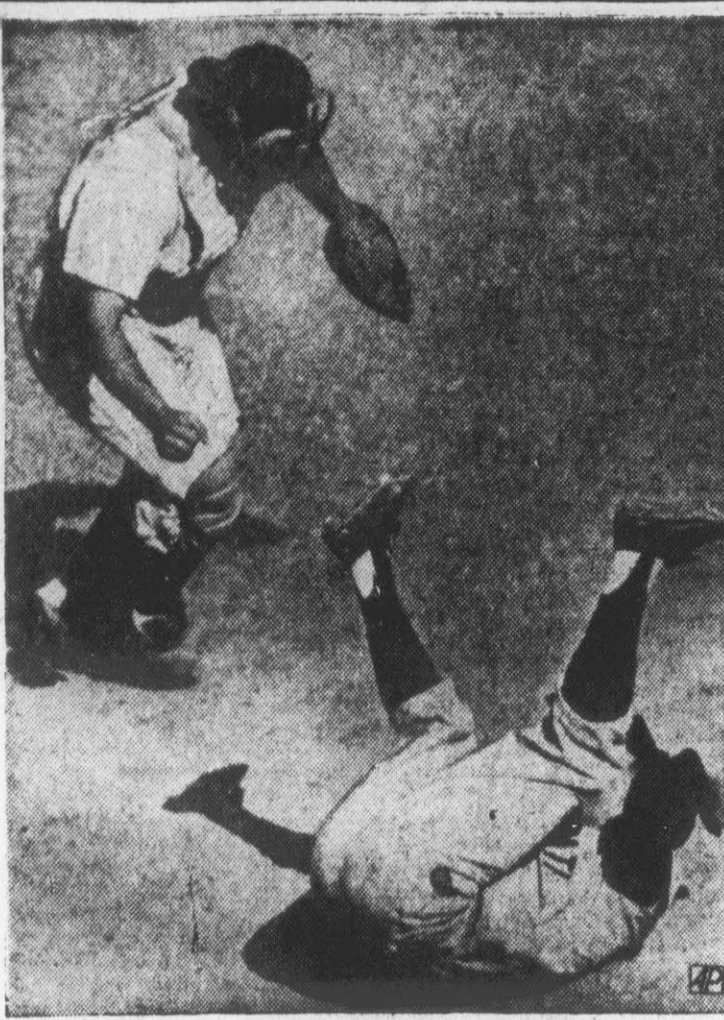

Giardello, Troy Predicting Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Boxer Joey Giardello and puncher Willie (No Clinch) Troy clash tonight in a Madison Square Garden 10-rounder that has most everyone but the fighters puzzled over the outcome.

"I'll take him," said the cocky, 23-year-old Giardello. "That stand-up style of his is my dish. I'll outbox him."

"Giardello is a good boxer and I expect he'll stay back," said confident, 21-year-old Willie. "That's okay with me. I'll go after him. I can beat him."

The two middleweight contenders are practically the only ones making a firm stand. The betting is a tossup—6-5 and take your pick. There has been considerable wagging over this boxer vs. puncher "natural" which has provoked more interest than most recent little fights.

NCAA Championship Is On Line In 4-Team Tourney

By SKIPPER PATRICK

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Basketball's most cherished prize, the National Collegiate championship, goes up for grabs tonight with four long-shot entries squaring off in semifinal games.

"The team that gets hot and stays hot" will become the champion, in the words of Southern California Coach Forrest Twogood. "Everybody has a chance."

Twogood's Trojans, Pacific Coast Conference champions, and the Bradley Braves, an at-large entry, play the first game.

Two Pennsylvania teams, La Salle College of Philadelphia and at-large Penn State, follow.

A sellout crowd of more than 9,800 is assured for both tonight's games and the finals tomorrow in municipal auditorium. The championship tussle will be televised locally and nationally by NBC.

The games are scheduled at 10 p.m. and 11:45, EST.

Each of the teams got in a brisk practice session in the auditorium yesterday afternoon. All of the players were in excellent physical condition.

The Penn State squad was handled by Assistant Coach John Egli, since Coach Elmer Gross became ill en route and was left in Pittsburgh. He was expected here today by train, however.

Because of the presence of Tom Goia, only All America to survive the siege of upsets in the regionals, La Salle (24-4) has been installed a slight favorite over Penn State's (17-5) Nittany Lions.

Bradley (18-12), finalist in both the NCAA and NIT in 1950 and the biggest team in this tournament, is favored over Southern California (20-12).

Penn State has a great competitor in center Jesse Arnette, at 6-4 the tallest man on the Lions' squad. He was voted Most Valuable Player in the Iowa City regionals over All Americas Don Schlund of Indiana and Bob Pettit of Louisiana State.

Tar Heel Wins

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Luther Lassiter of Elizabeth City, N.C., handed Erwin Rudolph of Sayre, Pa., his first defeat 150-116 last night in the world pocket billiards tournament.

Lassiter won in 14 innings running out with an unfinished run of 68.

Joe Canton of Watervliet, N.Y., set a new tournament record for high runs in defeating Morris Perlestein of Atlantic City, N.J., 150-62. Canton recorded a run of 130 in the eighth inning, breaking the old record of 121 set by Willie Mosconi of Havertown Pa., in 1952.

In other matches, Jimmy Moore, Albuquerque, N.M., beat Irving Crane, Binghamton, N.Y., 150-103, in 13 innings. Earlier, Crane beat Mike Eufamia of Brooklyn 150-135.

Drum Jumps 5-10 In Track Workout

Greenville High School's track squad received quite a boost yesterday in the high jump department when sophomore Jerry Drum leaped 5'10" to break the record of 5'9" set by Harold Edwards, the team's leading high jumper, in last year's State Meet.

Drum cleared the bar at the 5'10" mark after several attempts at the height. He had previously been high jumping only in the physical education classes and had not tried his hand at the high jumping as a specialty.

Drum's jumping is expected to greatly aid the Phantom Flyers in that department. His jumping will give Edwards stiff competition in the event.

Coach Bill Kittrell was well pleased with the mark set by the sophomore jumper. "Now we have two fine jumpers in high jump and the competition will probably force the winner to be at his best in every meet," Coach Kittrell stated.

Other team members worked out in a long practice session yesterday in preparation of their meet with the Fayetteville Bulldogs on April 7. Many members were absent because of decorating for the Coronation Ball at the high school tonight.

Several races were run between squad members in the practice. Sophomore Edwip Wilkerson continues to be the number one half miler in workouts to date. Lettermen James Speight and Joe Taft also still are the number one men in the sprints.

"The many members missing practice because of the Coronation Ball has set back our training schedule somewhat, but in the next two weeks we'll round into top shape," commented Coach Kittrell after the workout session.

Senator Johnson Optimistic About Passage Of Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) said today he feels "pretty optimistic" about his chances of pushing through Congress his bill to drive business out of baseball.

Johnson said in an interview that the Justice Department is moving in on baseball right now in an effort to get the Supreme Court to overturn its decision that baseball is not subject to the nation's antitrust laws.

"If my bill doesn't pass," he said, "I feel certain the Supreme Court will take back its protection of baseball."

Johnson, president of the Class A Western League and the leading congressional spokesman on baseball matters, said this is so because the Justice Department now has a clear antitrust case which it can bring against August A. Busch, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Justice Department officials indicated that if Busch is using baseball to help peddle Budweiser beer, nothing in the recent Supreme Court decision prevents the government from moving against him.

Busch is president of Anheuser-Busch, St. Louis brewery which makes Budweiser. He also operates the Cardinals and Johnson said the baseball club is a "wholly owned subsidiary" of the brewery company.

The Colorado senator said the beer company is able to write off losses incurred in baseball for tax benefits in its brewery operations.

Nats Get Warning To Move Negroes

WINTER GARDEN, Fla. (AP)—Washington Senators baseball officials reported a second warning yesterday to remove Negro players from their farm team training base here and said they will do it, although city officials insist they have imposed no racial ban.

The FBI is investigating the incident which began when a man drove up to the camp Wednesday and reportedly told Zinn Beck, general manager of the Chattanooga Lookouts:

"Have those Negroes out by sundown and don't bring them back."

It was first reported the man was a uniformed policeman, but Ossie Bluege, director of the Washington farm system, said that was a mistake, that the man wore no uniform.

Joe Engel, president of the Chattanooga Lookouts, reported the second warning. He said an anonymous phone caller told him: "Get those Negroes out right away."

The seven Cuban Negroes, assigned to Charlotte of the Class A South Atlantic League, were shifted to the parent Washington team's training base at nearby Orlando.

Mayor V. E. Bourland denied the city ever imposed a ban.

"We leased the park to the club," the mayor said. "It's up to them whether they have Negro players there or don't. It's none of our business."

But Bluege said the Negro players will continue to train at Orlando and when the parent Washington team is out of town the full Charlotte team will practice at Orlando.

Edward J. Powers, chief of the FBI in Florida, said an inquiry was started at the request of the Department of Justice to determine if federal law was violated.

Statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. estimate there will be 8½ million widows in the United States in 1960.

Rides 2 Winners

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP)—Jockey Gordon Glisson rode both winners of a $649 daily double at Bay Meadows yesterday.

Glisson, a former national riding champ, scored with Listen Please, $101.20 in the second race and Deerwood Rose $10.10 in the third. Wednesday the double paid $1,035.40.

Giles Getting Bucs' Help In Winning Spring Contests

Class A Tourney Marked By Upsets In First Round

ABERDEEN, N. C. (AP)—An upset-minded Mars Hill team meets King tonight in winners' bracket play during the second round of the North Carolina Class A high school basketball tournament.

Mars Hill furnished the major fireworks as the annual event opened yesterday by spilling Massey Hill, 70-67, in overtime. In other first round games, King beat Ashokite, 69-50; Odell waltzed over Beaufort, 76-40, and Cary had little trouble beating Stanley, 66-43.

Cary and Odell clash in the winners' bracket following the Mars Hill-King game tonight. Earlier today, losers' bracket competition pitted Ashokite against Massey Hill and Beaufort against Stanley.

Mars Hill brought a 12-10 record against Massey Hill's 25-0 mark last night. But Mars Hill pulled into a 61-61 tie at the end of the regulation game and then scored nine points to their foes' six in the overtime period.

The excitement was so intense that a Massey Hill girl cheerleader fainted during the last half of the game. She recovered in time to lead cheers for the losers in the overtime.

Survivors of tonight's play will meet tomorrow night for the state title.

Class A Tourney Marked By Upsets In First Round

By RIP WATSON
AP Sports Writer

President Warren Giles of the National League is getting help from an unexpected source in his plea to the senior circuit clubs to beat the American Leaguers in spring training games.

The league president undoubtedly was confident the Brooklyn Dodgers could do well but who could expect the hitherto impotent Pittsburgh Pirates to win five games in as many starts against American League teams?

Yet that's just what the Pirates can boast of after slamming four runs for an 8-6 victory over the Washington Senators yesterday.

The Pirates' perfect record, combined with Brooklyn's 7-0 mark, is chiefly responsible for the National League's 27-20 edge over the American in interleague battles.

Frank Thomas, the Bucs' leading slugger last year with 30 homers and 102 runs batted in, tagged Bob Porterfield for a home run in the fourth inning yesterday. Before the frame was over, Dale Long and Toby Atwell also had homers, and newly acquired Sid Gordon slammed one out of the park to account for the winning margin in the seventh inning.

The Dodgers recorded their seventh interleague victory— and ninth straight over-all—by making the most of three singles for a 4-1 victory over the New York Yankees. Meeting the Yanks for the first time since their unsuccessful try in last year's World Series, the Dodgers loaded the bases in the seventh and pushed across their runs on a fielder's choice, two bases on balls and Roy Campanella's long fly.

Another winning streak was snapped when Freddie Marsh's ninth-inning home run brought the Chicago White Sox a 5-4 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics, cutting short a string of seven successes. Johnny Thompson blamed the A's over the last four innings as the Philadelphia's suffered their first loss of the spring.

The Baltimore Orioles, like the Athletics regarded as second-division material once the regular season begins, continued to fly high with a 7-6 victory over the Cleveland Indians. Bobby Young was the hero, with a base-clearing triple in the seventh inning.

The New York Giants won their fifth in a row, knocking over the Chicago Cubs 9-6 behind home runs by Henry Thompson and Willie Mays.

The Cincinnati Redlegs beat the St. Louis Cardinals 9-2. Johnny lead the Cincinnati attack.

Earl Torgerson, who no longer has to battle Eddie Waitkus for the Philadelphia Phillies first base job, put on a slugging show with two singles, a triple and a double in the Phils' 12-10 victory over Milwaukee. He also scored two runs and batted in two more.

The pitching was much better in the Detroit Tigers 1-0 victory over the Boston Red Sox, however, as Steve Gromek, Frank Lary and Bob Miller teamed up to blank the Sox with eight hits.

Red Sox slugger Ted Williams says goodbye to nurse Collette McCord as he leaves the hospital in Cambridge, Mass., a week after an operation on his broken left collarbone. Williams broke the bone in a fall in the first minutes of spring training in Florida March 1. The operation to set and pin the break was done to speed mending of the bone. His doctor said Williams probably would sit on the bench for opening day, but he will not be ready to play. (AP Wirephoto)

New Englanders Feel Brunt Of Sag In Nation's Economy

Editor's Note—Sam Dawson, Associated Press business news analyst, is touring the nation to write the story of business today as he sees it.

By SAM DAWSON
BOSTON (AP)—Your New England cousin can explain a "rolling adjustment" to you if you're wondering what this business jargon is all about. He's already had one.

In three years, employment in the soft goods industries (largely textiles) dropped 70,000 in this area. Large numbers of these workers are still out of jobs.

And Yankees just now seem to be rolling with another one.

The hard goods industries, which grew rapidly in New England—adding 72,000 jobs in the same three years the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston reports—now hire a few less workers than a year ago.

Work weeks are tending to shrink a little in almost all industries around here, the regional office of the Bureau of Labor Statistics reports.

But the drop in industrial output in the area seems to be just about the same 10 per cent it is for the nation as a whole.

And March is shyly bringing some slight seasonal gains in employment, although the BLS says not enough to hoist factory work-rolls back to last year's level.

New Englanders tell you that national conditions will call the tune for many of their new metal-working factories henceforth, because most of them make parts or supplies for others elsewhere.

If these outsiders slow down consumer goods production, New England will find orders scarcer. And many here have been doing sub-contracts for defense programs whose days numbered.

Retail trade, however, remains almost as good as a year ago, although the buyer is the unchallenged king. Total savings in the area continue high.

The New England Road Builders Assn. is crowing because the six states have authorized spending of $25 million dollars for new road projects in the next three years—2½ times the amount spent in the last three.

Home building continues around the newer electronics or metal-working centers and in some metropolitan suburbs.

Just as in your state maybe, New England shows some districts while others still ride high.

Expansion plans go on, for the long haul. New factories are under way in some places—while in others textile mills are abandoned, or maybe have a newcomer from electronics rattling around in a corner of their huge structure.

The present turndown in business nationally hit New England while it was still engaged in what the reserve bank calls a long-term transition from a predominantly textile industry to a stronger diversified one, well larded with growth industries like electronics, aircraft and machinery, and with mushrooming ones utilizing atomic materials and by-products.

The bank notes that the newer industries pay higher wage scales than do the soft good ones thus raising the region's level of income. But at the same time, the bank says, Yankees are gaining competitive advantage with the rest of the nation because their new up-to-date metalworking factories pay lower wages than those of similar factories elsewhere.

Their textile mills, however, pay a higher wage scale and fringe benefits than the nation's textile industry as a whole—a major reason for the liquidation of many of them and the flight of others to the South.

Much of New England's recent industrial growth, moreover, has been tied to or inspired by, defense contracts. And some are being canceled or stretched out in the Washington economy drive.

But New Englanders hope that card up their sleeve is a trump. Many of their industries are tied to the "new look" in our military program. They build atomic submarines, jet plane engines, or electronic parts for guided missiles.

Their defense contracts should stick—as long as Russians keep on acting like Russians.

Utilities Report Undue Breakage Of Street Lights

The Greenville Utilities Commission is having difficulty keeping street lights had to be replaced at section in the eastern part of the city.

In the past two days, the Utilities office reports, nine street lights have been shot out or broken out in that section.

Utilities Superintendent Martin Swartz said that on March 17, five street lights had to be replaced at the corners of: Second and Meade Streets; Third and Meade Streets; Third and Library Streets; Third and Woodlawn Ave.; and Third and Harding Streets.

Yesterday the department had to replace lights at the corners of: Third and Oak Streets, Third and Meade Streets; Third and Maple Streets; and First and Maple Streets.

In each of the instances, Swartz said, the street lights had either been broken out or had been shot out, apparently by air rifles.

"It's the taxpayers' money that is being wasted by this unnecessary breakage of street lights," he declared. Swartz urged parents of children who live in that section to seek to prevent youngsters from shooting out street lights or throwing objects at them.

Communism Ban Gains Headway

WASHINGTON (AP)—A determined drive to enact legislation to outlaw the Communist party appeared to be gathering surprising headway in the House Judiciary Committee today.

If approved, there and sent to the floor—as some Judiciary Committee members were predicting—such a bill would be almost certain to House passage. Few if any members would be likely to go on record against it.

Nearly a dozen bills were discussed by a Judiciary subcommittee yesterday, with Chairman Graham (R-Pa) declaring an "all comprehensive" measure would be put through the House "at this session."

Rep. Ruth Thompson (R-Mich.), a subcommittee member, in an interview today predicted favorable committee action and said she foresaw no opposition in the House to passage.

Rep. Celler of New York, senior Democrat on the Judiciary Committee, also told newsmen he favored a bill "to strike a death blow to the Communist party." But he cautioned against hasty or ill-conceived action.

Graham said his subcommittee will hear Atty. Gen. Brownell and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, along with others.

Ski Enthusiasts Wed In Big Snow

TAHOE CITY, Calif. (AP)—Two ski enthusiasts were married in a snowstorm 2,700 feet up on Squaw Peak yesterday.

It was so cold that neither Austin Edward Frodenberg, 25, of Tahoe City, nor his best man, Kjell Rustad, could do much about the wedding ring. Frodenberg's bride, June Louise Drake, 27, of Denver, had to slip the ring on herself.

The bride, on skis, wore a powder blue gown—under ski pants. Frodenberg, also on skis, wore a tux over "long johns." The minister wore street clothes.

After the ceremony the newlyweds sped down the mountainside through an arch of ski poles formed by guests.

Asst. State's Atty. Joseph McGovern had asked the death penalty.

Mrs. Clucci and the couple's three young children, Vincent Jr., 9; Virginia, 8; and Angelina, 4, were found dead in their fire-razed flat Dec. 5. All four had been shot in the head.

One of the state's star witnesses was Carol Amora, 20. She testified she was the mother of a child Clucci fathered, and that she and Clucci had lived together.

Clucci did not testify and his attorneys did not call any defense witnesses. They contended the state had failed to prove its charge that Clucci shot his wife.

Throughout the trial, and even after the jury's verdict, Clucci screamed his innocence. He also is under murder indictments in the deaths of the three children.

No Evidence Peiping Is Endorsed For UN Seat

By MAX HARRELSON
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Although Red China will have a seat at the Geneva conference, there is no evidence that any non-Communist participant is ready to back Peiping's demands for representation in the United Nations.

Among the dozen non-Communist countries which will be at Geneva only Britain and the Netherlands have recognized the Peiping regime—and they have never formally entered diplomatic relations with the Chinese Reds.

They have taken the position that Red China, as a party to the fighting against the U.N. in Korea, has no right in the world organization under present circumstances.

In the U.N. itself only 17 of the 60 members have recognized Peiping. Six of these are Communist—Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, White Russia, Ukraine and Yugoslavia. The non-Communist recognizers are India, Burma, Pakistan, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Israel, Afghanistan, Indonesia, Britain and the Netherlands.

The last real test on the China representation question took place in the U.N. General Assembly Sept. 15—after the Korean armistice—on a U.S. move to bar discussion of the question during the remainder of 1953. On this test the United States was upheld 44-10. Opposing the ban were five Soviet bloc countries along with India, Indonesia, Norway, Sweden and Burma.

Russia has tried more than 100 times in various U.N. organs to have the Chinese Nationalists ousted and the Peiping representatives seated. Recently the Russians merely have protested for the record what they call the "illegal" presence of the Chinese Nationalists.

Secretary of State Dulles has insisted that the invitation to the Chinese Communists to take part in the Geneva meeting does not in any way constitute recognition.

All Pitt Schools Are Represented

All Pitt County schools are represented at the Seventeenth Annual Convention of the North Carolina Education Association being held in Raleigh.

Dr. M. E. Yount, superintendent of the Alamance County Schools and president of the NCEA, is presiding at the three-day convention, which has its headquarters at the Sir Walter Hotel. Exhibits are at both the hotel and the Raleigh Memorial Auditorium.

According to officials of the Pitt Board of Education, at least one representative from each school in the county is attending the convention as well as some principals, Superintendent D. H. Conley, and Supervisors Mrs. Edna Earle Baker and Miss Annie Lee Jones.

General sessions, divisional meetings, and departmental meetings are highlights of the convention.

The convention theme this year is "Emphasizing Moral and Spiritual Values in Public Education."

The Doctor Disagrees

CHAPTER FORTY ONE
 THE ROOM was in immediate uproar. Every doctor was on his feet, chairs tipped and fell. Only one man seemed interested in Dr. Lewis, and when that one, Appleman, saw the trend of majority feeling he contented himself with picking up a couple of chairs. Lewis got to his knees, unassisted, and then to his feet, groggily dabbing at his jaw, and left the room.

Stephen was on his way home. Shelly had met him in Kansas City. They reached Norfolk on Saturday evening, and went directly out to the Circle so that Stevie's family could share him. He showed the effects of his recent illness, which was thin, and tired quickly—but he assured everyone that he was all right, and would be fine. He'd picked up an oriental infection which seemed to have cleared up but the Army had given him his severance because of the trouble.

And, golly, was it good to be home! With his folks and his very own inn! He smiled his nice smile down at his startled wife. "That's good," he murmured. "It means sweetheart."

The family gathered around, and their friends. Shelly accepted a suggestion that they stay at Everett's for a couple of nights; May Anna could not bear to let Stevie go so far as into town away from her. Shelly went in for some clothes, and Stephen's civvies; she talked to Myra, told her to tell them at the office.

"No need," Myra interrupted. "Miss Browne won't look for you." "Tell her we'll be in the first of the week."

"I'll tell her that. You happy, honey?" Shelly laughed tremulously. "I guess so. I mean I'm so excited I can't analyze my feelings. It was—is—a little confusing to have everything wind up so suddenly. The family knew he was coming—but they hadn't told me. I—m—m—still dazed."

It was on Wednesday afternoon that Shelly and Stephen returned to their own home. Stephen explored the house, got acquainted with Agnes and talked so long to Myra out in the garden that Shelly left them to go in and dress for the Service Club's dinner. "At least one of us should have a clean face!"

She was getting into her frock when Stephen finally came upstairs. He stood in the doorway of her dressing room, watching her. The dress was a new one of blue-green silk, simple, smart—Shelly smiled at him, then turned to look at him more alertly. "Don't you like it?" she asked. "I got it to wear with those white beads you sent me." His blue eyes twinkled. "Those beads are jade sugar." "I know. That is, I suspected as much."

He still lingered in the doorway. "You're going to be terribly late, Stephen."

"They won't start without the speaker of the evening, Shelly..." "Mmmmm!" Her fingers hovered over an array of perfume bottles.

"Shouldn't you wear—a long skirt?" His hand swept in a circle around his own feet. "This length is smarter."

"Well, I guess you'd know..." "But..." Now she turned to face him, and he grinned. "Oh, I just had an idea—All the time I was away, I thought of you as you looked in a certain dress. It was white—and long—and there was some purple on it—I think—" "Yes," said Shelly. "I know the dress you mean."

It was the dress she'd worn to May Anna's birthday dinner, a dress completely feminine, completely modest. "I'll change to that," she promised. "If you'll run down to the office."

When Stephen came for her help with his tie she was dressed. His eye touched the violets, the single velvet shoulder strap, the half-circle of flowers tucked into the back of her loosened hair.

"That's my girl!" he said contentedly, and Shelly smiled as she reached for the tie-ends. "I can't wear the—beads," she pointed out, slyly.

"They weren't in my dream..." he told her. Her eyes were still thoughtful, but on the whole, content, when she went downstairs and out to the car. Myra watched her. "Do I look as good as I did last September?" asked Shelly.

"You look fine!" said Myra, smiling and remembering last September. "I feel fine," Shelly answered serenely. "And why not? The wife of the guest of honor at the dinner tonight!"

"That works both ways," Stephen assured Myra as he got into his seat. "The guest of honor takes a deal of pride in his wife."

"You should!" Myra told him firmly. As Shelly had expected Stephen brought a group of contemporaries back to the house with them. She had, in fact, warned Myra—and Agnes. At ten, three or four sleek cars pulled up before the brick house, men in white dinner jackets, women in pretty gowns went up the steps and through the white door, into the living room, out to the garden. Shelly moved about, the gracious hostess, the proud wife—no more. Nor less.

Craig Talbot lounged in the hall doorway, ready to assist in serving drinks or anywhere Shelly might seem to need him. Even at dinner he had watched Shelly closely; here in her home, his intent gaze attracted Stephen's attention. He found a chance to ask his friend if anything seemed wrong with Shelly. "Why should anything..." "Your eye has a definitely diagnostic gleam," Stephen told him. Craig sloshed the liquid still remaining in the thick-bottomed glass which he held. "Not diagnostic," he said softly. "It's an I-can't-believe-my-eyes gleam." "Does that mean something?" Others close to the door were listening. Eleanor—and Shelly—half of the group. Craig straightened and his black eyes kindled. "Sure it means something," he drawled. "Over night I find our Shelly sprouting a clinging vine's pale green tendrils."

Stephen looked puzzled. Craig drained his glass. "No trace at all," he continued, "of the sturdy tree I've known this past year."

"And," said Eleanor, from her seat in the corner of the Chesterfield "I might say that Dr. Talbot has come to know Shelly quite well!" he dark eyes smiled, "—this past year."

Stephen laughed, and reached for Craig's glass. "I'd say he hadn't come to know her at all, if he's reached the conclusion that she's a sturdy oak." He disappeared into the hall.

Shelly, by the fireplace, let herself look pleadingly at Craig, whose eyes were inscrutable. Myra's firm little brown hand tugged so hard at Craig's elbow that he had to notice her. "You come help me!" she said fiercely. "I need you in the pantry!"

Craig took his tray of glasses to the dining room, mixed himself another drink, and then went across the hall to the crimson and gold and white living room. Some of the guests had departed. The men in the room now were all doctors—Stephen, Dr. Ward and Dr. Bowser—with their wives. And Eleanor Walsh.

Craig leaned an elbow on the carved mantel, looked down into his glass, and, his face a little pale, he said clumsily to Stephen that he'd been somewhat taken in by Shelly's behavior during the past year. He tasted his drink. "She's been acting something like an oak tree," he growled. "I guess because she had to, and I got tricked into thinking she might be one."

He ventured a glance toward Shelly, who sat serenely in a low damask chair. "If I resembled any sort of a tree," she said gaily, "I did it to fool people like you, Craig, and myself, that I had what it might take to get me through until Stephen came home." She stood up, smoothed her white skirt, smiled at the men—and shook her head. "I just want to show all of you something," she explained. "Craig is such a shy and modest man..."

Ward snorted, and his wife looked at him reprovingly. "First time I heard a horned toad called 'shy,'" growled the big doctor.

"Well," laughed Stephen, "at least Craig hasn't been fooling anyone with camouflage!" "Just the same," declared Shelly, "horned toads can become pretty famous." She went into the "small room" and returned with a magazine in her hand; she opened it and displayed an article, complete with Craig's name as author, a picture of him and Donald. "Gosh, are you still doing that!" demanded Stephen.

Craig grinned. "I can't learn any better. Just as I can't break Donald of chasing golf balls." (To Be Continued)

'Candling' Turns Up Extra Checks

OMAHA (AP)—Carl E. Lundgren has closed his desk at the internal revenue office here to start his annual letter "candling." When the flood of income tax returns sent in by mail hits the office about the tax-deadline time, Lundgren begins a methodical search of empty envelopes for checks and other enclosures which may have been overlooked. Each envelope is passed over a light to make sure it's empty, just the way an egg is examined. So far this season Lundgren's "candling" has turned up $1,600. Missouri produced about 2 1/4 million tons of bituminous coal last year.

The metal that thrives on punishment

Steel serves you better when manganese is added —because the harder it works, the tougher it gets

EVER WATCH a power shovel bite into earth and rock? And wonder how the teeth of the steel bucket can endure such punishment? The amazing answer is that the teeth not only endure such treatment—they actually get harder because of it!

MANGANESE HOLDS THE SECRET—The story behind this remarkable steel is the unusual metal called manganese. The hundreds of thousands of tons of manganese required each year by steel and other metal-making industries are obtained by refining huge quantities of ore that come from mines in widely scattered points across the face of the globe.

ADDED TO STEEL—All steel contains manganese. A small amount "cleanses" molten steel and removes impurities. A larger amount of manganese makes the steel tougher and stronger.

FROM ORE TO ALLOY—Transforming raw ores into a variety of manganese alloys for the metal-producing industries is one of the many important jobs of the people of Union Carbide.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (U)—The stock market moved into new high ground for the year today from the peak levels reached yesterday.

Leadership was good with the best performers found in steels, railroads, motors, aircrafts, and electrical equipments. The rise was not extensive, however, and only occasional stocks pushed their gains past a full point.

Business was at a rate of better than two million shares for the entire day. Yesterday's total was 2,020,000 shares.

Among higher stocks were Southern Railway, American Telephone, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, American Petroleum, Consolidated Vultee, Lockheed, Du Pont, General Electric, Zenith Radio and General Dynamics.

Many brokers feel that a basic cause for bullishness in Wall Street is the easy money moves made this week by New York and other banks in lowering their interest charges on prime commercial loans. And they also drew a lot of comfort from the passage yesterday by the House of the tax bill which calls for easing of the double taxation on dividends.

Freedom Is Topic Of Symposium Held This Week

Freedom in the Twentieth Century was the topic of a symposium held this week at East Carolina College under the sponsorship of the Humanities Committee of the college. Four faculty members presented discussions of the subject applied to politics, science, philosophy, and art.

The symposium was the second in a series offered at the college during the present term under the sponsorship of the Humanities Committee. The first dealt with Romanism. Committee members also gave at a recent faculty meeting a panel on the improvement of college instruction through the use of varied methods and techniques.

Dr. James Foidexter of the department of English, committee chairman, was in charge of arrangements for the symposium on Freedom in the Twentieth Century. Speakers were Dr. Hubert Coleman of the social studies department; Dr. Theodore Eaton of the science department; Dr. Martha Pingel of the English department; and Dr. Paul Rummung of the art department.

One Car Hit Cow And Another Hit Telephone Pole

A car driven by Harold B. Bundy of Farmville Route 2 hit a cow which ran across the road in front of his car on the US 264 bypass last night.

Bundy told investigating Patrolman Delton Perry that he was riding behind another car when the cow ran across the road in front of him. Damage to his car amounted to about $100.

No charges were placed. In a second accident last night a car operated by Larry O. Dennis of Ayden Route 2 ran off the road on a curve on the Piney Neck Road and hit a telephone pole. Investigating Patrolman Perry said that the force of the collision broke the pole. Damage to the car amounted to approximately $100 and no charges were placed against the driver.

Farmer Meeting Slated Mar. 23

A meeting of farmers in the Grifton area will be held next Tuesday in the agricultural building of the Grifton School to discuss the possibility of bringing in migrant labor this summer. It was announced today by Douglas Taylor, farm placement interviewer with the local Employment Security Commission.

The meeting will be similar to one held in Greenville recently, Taylor stated. Farmers in the Grifton area will be told what the employment office has to offer and they will then be given a chance to ask questions about the program, he said.

Two Accidents Reported In City

No injuries were reported and no charges grew out of the accident. Yesterday cars operated by David Morrill of Falkland and Patrick Byrd of Fourteenth Street Extension collided at the corner of Third and Evans Streets. Damage was minor and no charges were placed.

Former Pamlico Judge Piney Grove News Found Innocent By Jury

WASHINGTON, N. C. (U)—After deliberating 2 hours and 14 minutes, a Pamlico County jury yesterday found former Pamlico County Recorder's Court Judge T. B. Woodard innocent of a bribery charge.

It was the second time a jury had acquitted Woodard of the charge. He still faces three other charges of bribery but in view of two acquittals the state is expected to drop at least one of the charges. Woodard said he had not "lost any sleep" because "I knew all along they were not going to find me guilty."

He told a reporter: "The real reason this mess started is they know damn well they can't get me out of office any other way." He said his opponents got sore at him after he managed the 1948 gubernatorial campaign of former Gov. W. Kerr Scott in Pamlico.

Four members of the East Carolina College faculty who will appear as speakers at a meeting of the college International Relations Club next Tuesday, March 23, will give a survey of contemporary events and problems in the United States, Europe, and the Middle East, according to an announcement by Bettie J. Dougherty of Fayetteville, president.

The program is scheduled for 7 p.m. in the Flanagan building. Those who are interested are invited to be present.

ECC Students Elect New Slate Of Officers

Wade H. Cooper, junior from Raleigh, won the position of president of the Student Government Association at East Carolina College in elections held on the campus yesterday. He will hold office during the 1954-1955 term.

Campaigning with the slogan "The Student First," he was opposed by Charlie A. Klutz of Henderson. Cooper now holds the office of second vice president of the Student Government Association. Last fall he represented East Carolina in the House of Representatives at the State Student Legislature in Raleigh and was elected sergeant-at-arms.

As a candidate he advocated improving relationships between college and community, more representation for day students in student affairs, enlarging the college guidance program, better recreational facilities, and publication of an information booklet indicating the locations, activities, duties, and responsibilities of all student clubs and organizations.

Howard Rooks of Turkey was unopposed for the position of student treasurer; and T. Parker Maddrey of Seaboard, for that of historian of the SGA. Barbara Ann Strickland of Clinton was chosen as secretary.

New officers of the Men's Judiciary of the SGA are Edgar H. Matthews, Raleigh, chairman; John Thomas Hayes of Durham, vice chairman; Gene Lanier, Conway, secretary-treasurer; and Bobby P. Thomas, Henderson, and Charles Harrell, Middlesex, members-at-large.

Elected as officers of the Women's Judiciary were Elsie Lawson, Orrum, chairman; Ann Bowles, Wilmington, vice chairman; Shirley Moose, Salisbury, secretary; Minnie L. Turner, Wadesboro, treasurer; and Maxine Case, Roanoke Rapids, member-at-large.

In several elections run-off between candidates are called for and will be held Tuesday, March 23. Students will then choose the first vice.

Pledges Airing Of All Memorandum

WASHINGTON (U—Sen. Symington (D-Mo) pledged today that the public will "get all the facts" that were censured out of an Army memorandum critical of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and his staff, if the Pentagon still has them.

Publication of the memorandum touched off a sharp controversy between Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens and McCarthy and his chief aides. Symington established yesterday that parts of it had been deleted. The memorandum detailed instances in which McCarthy and the chief counsel of his subcommittee Roy Cohn, allegedly sought special treatment for Pvt. Gaud Schine, a former committee aide.

Secretary of Defense Wilson and other Pentagon officials promised the Senate Armed Services Committee yesterday that these missing parts, together with stenographers' transcripts of telephone conversations in the dispute, would be handed to any congressional committee asking them.
