Bootleg Car Caught With Cargo

Patrolman Jim Davis nois one of 60 gallons of white liquor which he confiscated after a 70 mile per hour chase in which a patrol car was wrecked. The driver of the vehicle got away but his car was also confiscated along with the liquor. (Photo by Roy Hardee)

A Highway Patrol car was wrecked last night about 7:15 after Patrolman Jim Davis gave chase to a bootlegger on the Grimesland-Black Jack road.

Davis said that he sighted the bootlegger between the Tar River bridge and Grimesland. He started after the car and the driver headed towards Black Jack.

The patrolman stated that about a mile outside of Grimesland the two cars locked bumpers while both were traveling approximately 70 miles per hour. Davis said that the driver of the bootleg car lost control and went across a ditch and into another ditch. Davis' car went into a ditch on the left side of the road.

The patrolman said his door was jammed and that while he was trying to get out of the car two men in the second vehicle jumped out and ran. He could not find the two men after he freed himself from the patrol car, Davis said.

Davis stated that the patrol car received approximately $25 damage in the accident. He said that the second vehicle contained 60 gallons of white liquor.

Both the liquor and the car were confiscated, Davis stated.

Investigation of the affair is continuing.

Two Sentenced, Third Man Cleared, In Theft

Two men were sentenced this morning for the Grimesland ABC store robbery in January, and a third was absolved of charges in the case when Judge Clawson L. Williams ordered a verdict of not guilty.

Charles Ivah of Atlanta, Ga. was sentenced to 16 to 20 years on charges of breaking and entering and larceny and conspiracy, and his 22-year-old accomplice in the case, Rudolph Flynn of Nash County, was sentenced to 7 to 10 years.

Judge Williams sentenced Ivah to eight to 10 years on the breaking and entering charge, and eight to 10 years on the conspiracy charge, the sentences to run consecutively. Flynn was sentenced to seven to 10 years in the breaking and entering charge, and seven to 10 years in the conspiracy charge, the sentences to run concurrently.

Both men entered pleas of guilty to the Grimesland ABC store robbery and to the conspiracy charges. Alfred Denton of Nash County, also facing similar charges, entered a plea of not guilty. At the end of the presentation of state evidence, the defense moved for a non suit in the case. Judge Williams ordered a verdict of not guilty against Denton because of insufficient evidence. The trial of the case began yesterday and was concluded shortly after 10:30 this morning.

Act Tomorrow On Resignation

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP) — The State Board of Conservation and Development will take final action tomorrow on the resignation of its chief industrial development engineer.

Paul Kelly, veteran C&D board staff member, will be relieved of his duties on his physician's advice, the board announced yesterday. He will be succeeded by Dallas Dalley, an industrial engineer with the board for nearly two years.

Board Director Ben Douglas said he intends to name Kelly to a less strenuous post as head of a new unit to be known as the statistics and research division.

From Here To Eternity Cops 8 Movie Awards; Holden, Hepburn Get Oscars

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—William Holden, the movies' favorite average guy, and Audrey Hepburn, his favorite princess won Hollywood's top acting Oscars last night.

The movie "From Here to Eternity," tying the all-time record of eight awards, was named the best picture of 1953 at the 26th annual Academy Awards presentation.

Holden, who played a semi-beel in the movie "Stalag 17," was both bappy and upset about his first Oscar. He was happy, of course, for winning the top honor but said he was "very upset" for having to hurry his acceptance speech due to the television time commitments.

Miss Hepburn, in stage makeup for her Broadway role of a water nymph in the play "Ondine," received her award in the New York portion of the show. Her first movie starring role was that of a princess on the loose in "Roman Holiday."

Visibly touched, the 24-year-old ex-ballerina said, "I am truly, truly grateful." She said it like she really meant it.

"It's too much," she said. "It's like being given something to wear that you have to grow into. Something to work toward."

Someone asked: What next? "I still have the same goal," the excited actress replied, smiling.

"To be a great actress?" "Yes, to be a really good one." The sex and-violence-filled

Atomic Defense Plans Discussed

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON WASHINGTON (AP) — Informed senators said today that rapid mass evacuation of cities and improved aircraft killer missiles are key points in supersecret plans for defense against possible enemy atomic attacks.

Chairman Saltonstall (R-Mass) called members of the Senate Armed Services Committee back into closed-door session today for any questions about the latest plans for continental defense.

With extreme caution, he announced that top-secret details of the defenses had been outlined yesterday at a lengthy closed session by Robert C. Sprague, North Adams, Mass., engineer and electronics manufacturer.

Saltonstall said Sprague had full cooperation of all top defense, intelligence and atomic agencies in making his independent survey for defenses against "the growing menace . . . because of Soviet developments in the nuclear and thermonuclear (hydrogen) fields."

His public statement said the senators got a picture of an "effective" defense which, however, could not guarantee "complete protection."

Other senators who listened to Sprague said rapid evacuation of urban and industrial populations was one of the protective measures advanced.

Another they said, was expansion of the Nike installations now ringed in 10 locations to about 30 or 35. Nikes are high-speed guided missiles designed to search out and destroy enemy aircraft. Locations for Nike emplacements made public through approval of sites by congressional committees include Seattle, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Detroit, New York, Los Angeles, Boston, Chicago, Norfolk, Va., and Ft. Meade, Md., to protect both Washington and Baltimore.

Launched from a platform and able to travel 1,500 miles an hour—far faster than sound—the missiles are controlled by automatic electronic devices to seek out their targets.

Success of their operation as well as any mass evacuation rests upon advance warning through the network of radar, radio and communications equipment expected to detect any surprise air attacks.

Saltonstall said secret reports indicate "a sound over-all continental defense program" is under way with "gratifying cooperation with Canada."

These measures plus prompt action by "our offensive forces, provide an effective defense for the United States commensurate with the threat," he said.

But he warned that "even if every resource of our country were to be put into its defenses and defenses, it would not buy complete assurance that we will not be attacked nor complete protection in the unfortunate event of an atomic attack against us."

He said the nation must "face reality in the fact that the threat of atomic attack introduces a new factor in our way of life."

Mightier H-Bomb Blasts Scheduled For This Spring

By ELTON C. FAY AP Military Affairs Reporter WASHINGTON (AP)—American nuclear weapons, whose predictions about the runaway H-bomb fired at Bikini missed the mark by millions of tons of force, propose to go ahead with their schedule for more and mightier blasts this spring.

For those tests of the spring series which are thermonuclear, or involving hydrogen bombs they will rely on two things:

- 1. An enlarged danger area and improved warning system. 2. A better estimate of the force to be unleashed in subsequent H-bomb tests.

On the basis of comparisons made by atomic authorities in Congress, the March 1 thermonuclear explosion appears to have been upwards of 14 megatons—energy equivalent to that produced in the explosion of 14 millions tons of TNT. (The old atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima had an energy release of 20,000 tons, or 20 kilotons.)

Using information gained from the first, exploratory test of a hydrogen device in the fall of 1952 and adding to it new and intricate computations from laboratory studies, the weapons makers made an initial forecast for the March 7 weapon which was substantially less than half the force eventually attained. This first estimate was revised upward before the test.

WESTERN TOUCH HOBBS, N.M. (AP)—Mrs. Loyse Ann Hicks, teacher of the third grade here stirred up a classroom discussion on regular attendance.

Said one feminine Westerner, aged 8, "I never missed a day from school until I had broncho pneumonia."

shot, it is understood. But even the revised estimate fell several million tons below the power scientists now believe was loosed in the explosion.

President Eisenhower in an understatement, said Wednesday something must have happened that we never experienced before, and must have surprised and astonished the scientists.

Probably not even the nuclear scientists who devised the weapon and supervised its tests know many of the answers yet nor will they until careful analysis of such recordings as could be made of the explosion are worked out on robot computing machines.

A computation from laboratory studies, things as study of the intensity and coloration of light in the explosion as measured against millionth-second timing, must be scrutinized.

Then, too, it seems probable that the scientists will take another look at the fusible material used in the weapon and its triggering device before they predict the power of the next thermonuclear bomb.

Consumption Of Cigarettes Said Showing Decline

FLORENCE, S. C. (AP)—Domestic cigarette consumption has suffered its worst decline since 1933.

That was the report made here yesterday by J.B. Hutson, president of Tobacco Associates, Inc.

"It's a mild decline of only two per cent," he told a statewide tobacco meeting "but it's the worst since the depression."

Hutson said manufacturing leaders are concerned and are planning several actions. One will be national advertising based on studies by medical authorities. He urged growers to stress quality in their tobacco production.

The tobacco producers also hear a prediction that tobacco prices will remain relatively stable in 1954. L.T. Weeks general manager of the Flue Cured Tobacco Stabilization, Inc., said tobacco will continue to receive 90 per cent of parity, which means a price of no less than 47.7 cents a pound.

World Institute Audience Told France Never Going Communist

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector Staff Writer Former French Premier Camille Chautemps, speaking at the World Affairs Institute held at East Carolina College, said last night there was no chance of the French government going Communist.

Chautemps stated, in answer to a question from the floor during an open forum last night: "I can state positively that there is no chance of the French government going Communist."

Chautemps was one of four authorities appearing on the programs yesterday and last night representing four sections of the world—the United States, Europe, the Near and Middle East and the Far East.

Chautemps represented the European point of view; the Far Eastern situation was discussed by Dr. Diego d'Ada M. Yap, editor and publisher of Bataan Magazine; the Middle East by James Boughton, member of the U. S. State Department; and the United States by Peter J. Celliers, associate editor of Pathfinder magazine. The program was moderated by John C. Metcalfe, Washington editor of World-Wide Press Service.

The four authorities spoke before a college assembly yesterday morning on the topic "Political and Economic Problems in World Affairs."

At noon yesterday they were entertained at a luncheon in the college dining hall.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the group split up, with Celliers and Yap conducting a discussion on "Security Problems of the U. S. and Far East" and Chautemps and Boughton discussing "Security Problems of Europe and the Middle East."

The climax of the day's meetings came last night when the four discussed World Tensions in the sections of the world they represented.

The group was welcomed at last night's meeting by Dr. George Past of ECC, who has served as chairman of the Committee on World Affairs Institute. Chautemps told the audience last

Eisenhower Plans Heavily Slashed By House Committee Housing Program Scuttled

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's plans for a four-year, 140,000-unit public housing program were all but scuttled today by a House Appropriations Committee recommendation.

The GOP-dominated committee asked the House to cut the program to an estimated 35,000 units and to terminate it in two years.

Its recommendation was contained in a $5,566,118,763 omnibus appropriation bill sent to the House floor for debate next week. The total amount in the bill is $363,604,837 less than the President wanted—a cut of 6.2 per cent. It is $375,168,400 below what the same agencies received this year. The bill carries funds for the fiscal year starting July 1.

A deep cut was made in funds recommended for the Atomic Energy Commission, but Rep. Philip (R-Calif.) said no reductions in the AEC's construction and equipments programs are involved. Phillips is chairman of the subcommittee which wrote the bill.

A big reduction was recommended by the Veterans Administration too, plus new restrictions on the Tennessee Valley Authority's activities.

These were overshadowed by the committee recommendations for public housing. No formal explanation was offered, other than that slum clearance is the only justification for the program. Phillips said the public housing program has not worked out satisfactorily.

The Appropriations Committee put a limit of 20,000 on the new units that may be started during the coming fiscal year, and said the entire program should be wound up with an estimated 15,000 additional units in the following year.

The 36,000 units approved, the committee said are those for which the government already has legally committed itself and for which it has made "binding" contracts.

The House normally follows the committee's suggestions, although a stiff fight will be made by Democrats to upset the committee's housing recommendations.

The committee cut the Atomic Energy Commission's budget from $1,342,000,000 to $1,189,960,700, a slash of $152,039,300 but an increase of $132,179,700 over funds given the AEC this year.

Phillips' explanation was that the original budget called for 238 million dollars more for construction than was spent this year, but the AEC will have sufficient money carried over from previous years for the work.

Biggest cut in the Veterans Administration budget was 100 million lopped from the $2,535,000,000 requested for pension and compensation payments. Much of this may be restored later. Only yesterday the House voted to give the VA 315 million of the 300 million cut from the compensation and pension fund for the present fiscal year.

The $3,779,432,800 recommended for all Veterans Administration operations is $113,040,200 below Presidential requests. It contemplates the use of 127,000 beds next year in veterans' hospitals, domiciliary facilities, and institutions under contract to the VA.

For the TVA the committee recommended $103,582,000, a cut of $38,218,000 from budget estimates and $84,964,000 less than the TVA received this year.

The committee recommended that TVA start paying interest on federal money advanced for power facilities, at the same rate the government must pay on money it borrows. The TVA has been paying no interest but has repaid about five million annually on the principal of operating revenues. It still owes the government an estimated 800 million on advances of about a billion dollars.

Pitt Man Dies Of Burns When Clothing Ignites

AYDEN—A Stokestown man was fatally burned yesterday while he was burning trash on a ditch bank near his home.

O. W. Moore, 62, died about 15 minutes after being taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville. He was found by two Negro men on his farm.

Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse said that the man's sweater apparently caught fire while he was burning the trash.

Rouse said that it looked as if he set fire to some brush and his sweater caught fire. He said he had pulled his sweater off but his clothes were aflame before he got the sweater off.

The coroner reported Moore's clothes were completely burned off. Rouse said the two men who found Moore lived on the farm. They told him that the fire was out when they arrived at the scene and that they summoned help immediately.

Coroner Rouse noted that the victim's dog remained at the scene from the time the accident occurred, at approximately 11 o'clock yesterday morning, until 3:30 yesterday afternoon.

He said that the dog apparently followed his master out that morning. Rouse said the dog was there when he arrived at the scene at one o'clock and did not leave until he gathered the burned man's sweater and other belongings about 3:30.

"Before I picked up his belongings the dog would not leave," the coroner noted.

Rouse said that no inquest would be held.

Doctor Praises TLC In Medicine

DENVER (AP)—Delegates to the University of Colorado Medical Center's postgraduate course were expressions of anticipation.

The speaker, Dr. Charles U. LeTourneau of Chicago, praised a medicinal ingredient called "TLC" as a valuable discovery in treatment of the ailing.

"A new drug?" a delegate finally asked.

"No," replied the doctor. "Just 'tender, loving care.'"

Fine And Jail

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — D. Woodrow Worthington pleaded guilty today to 31 charges that he violated Federal Tobacco Inspection Act and was fined $25,000 and sentenced to a year in jail.

Judge Roy M. Shelbourne, in passing sentence, said the jail term will be suspended if Worthington pays $5,000 of the fine by Thursday and $2,500 a month thereafter until the balance is paid.

Worthington, 38, of Winterville, N.C., operates the Farmers Loose Leaf Warehouse Co. at Bloomfield, Ky., and owns two warehouses in North Carolina.

Asst. District Atty. William B. Dones told the court the charges presented a serious threat to the industry, especially in Kentucky, a heavy tobacco producer.

Effective Thursday If No Obstacles Are Met Excise Tax Cuts Probable

By JOE HALL WASHINGTON (AP)—A cut of about a billion dollars yearly on a wide range of federal excise or sales taxes seemed assured today with Senate passage of a $1,034,000,000 reduction bill.

The cuts will take effect next Thursday.

The Senate approved the bill last night 76-8 after two days of lively debate filled with political overtones in a congressional election year.

It was sent to a Senate-House conference, which cannot take place before next Monday afternoon, since both branches are in recess until then.

But Sen. Millikin (R-Colo.), head of the Senate negotiators, said in an interview today he is confident the conferees will act speedily and rush the measure to President Eisenhower. The deadline for the President's signature is next Wednesday midnight.

Both branches voted identical cuts on many items, so they are certain to be in the final compromise.

They include furs, jewelry, handbags and luggage, cosmetics, sporting goods, admission tickets to movies costing over 60 cents, train-bus-plane passenger fares telephone bills, telegraph charges, mechanical pens and pencils, lighters and electric light bulbs.

Millikin and other Republican leaders predicted the President will sign the bill, although the administration urged against the excise cuts.

The billion-dollar loss in revenue will add that much to the $2,900,000,000 deficit already forecast for the new financial year starting July 1.

The bill also extends for a year, to April 4, 1955, a series of 1951 increases in major excises. These will bring in $1,077,000,000 in added revenue. But the President had counted on this in figuring his next year's budget. Involved are automobiles and trucks, gasoline, tobacco, liquor and beer.

As the House passed the measure, it cut a variety of excises by $13 million dollars. The Senate eliminated a few House reductions, but made other big ones of its own.

The House voted reductions for admissions to horse and dog tracks and to night clubs and other cabarets, and for club dues, safety deposit boxes and pistols. The Senate rejected these. They will have to be thrashed out in conference.

The two biggest items in dispute will be a 100-million-dollar slash voted by the Senate on such household appliances as refrigerators, stoves and electric irons and a 65-million-dollar cut through wiping out of the admissions tax on movie tickets and others costing less than 60 cents. The House voted to cut the admissions levy from 20 to 10 per cent.

Some congressional sources indicated one likely compromise on this might be to eliminate the reduction on appliances but to accept the Senate provision on the lower priced tickets.

Two Preliminary Plats Get Planning Board OK

New Subdivisions Approved

Preliminary plats for two new subdivisions were approved by the Greenville Planning Board last night.

The board gave its approval to the preliminary plat for the Andrew Coghill subdivision, which is an extension of the College Court subdivision, and approved a proposed subdivision of the property of the A. M. Moseley estate south of W. Fifth Street in front of Epps High School.

After some discussion, the Planning Board voted to recommend to the City Council that the Planning Board continue to consist of seven members, but that the city manager be made an ex-officio member of the board. The Planning Board also recommended that the Council adopt an amendment already proposed by the board, which would give the Planning Board power to act also as a zoning board.

The board also discussed possible amendments to the city zoning regulations which would provide specific regulations for the distance between buildings and back property lines in residential areas of the city.

Consideration was given a request from J. Fielden Arthur to dedicate streets on his property in the Bama section of the city. The board recommended to the City Council that approval be given the dedication of the streets provided the necessary houses are removed from the proposed street right of way.

After studying the preliminary plat of the Coghill subdivision which lies between College Court and 14th Street, the board approved the plat subject to two changes. The board asserted a recreation area should be designated and dedicated in block F of the proposed subdivision, and that an easement for a street as an outlet to the undeveloped area east of the proposed subdivision be dedicated at lot 18 in block H of the subdivision.

The plat of the Moseley subdivision was approved provided drainage and sewer easements be provided for in the plat.

Norris Still In Custody Of Police; Plan Inquest

Acting Chief of Police H. E. Wooten said that there had been no new developments in the investigation of the death of A. G. Witherington, who was found by police behind the Elks Club Sunday morning.

Wooten said that Herman Norris is still being held by police on charges of breaking and entering and larceny of slot machines. He is also being held for investigation in the death of Witherington.

Witherington died in Duke Hospital Tuesday morning from what doctors described as a blow on the head.

Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse said today that the results of the autopsy still had not been received. He said that he planned to hold an inquest soon after the results are received.

Rouse also reported that the results of an autopsy performed on the body of William Henry Williams whose body was found in the Tar River near Yankee Hall Saturday afternoon had not been received.

The coroner stated that he might hold inquests for both deaths at the same time.

foreign countries and that there would be no time for retaliation against Russia in case of an attack without bases on foreign soil.

"Your one little vote matters a great deal," he continued. "It kills the vote of the harsh extremists, the super-internationalists."

"Just as Congress is influential with the State Department because it holds the purse strings," Celliers said, "so too are you influential with your congressman."

"Your opinion creates the climate of popular opinion out of which American foreign policy comes.

"If your opinions are grounded on fact and expressed openly, you will force those shrill extremists who play such a large part in shaping our foreign policy today to substantiate the opinions with facts and it may be that they have no facts to stand on," he said.

The forum was concluded with a question period during which individuals in the audience were allowed to address questions to members of the group.

Among the selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be the following:
"What we most need is the prayer of fervent desire for growth in grace, expressed in patience, meekness, love, and good deeds. To keep the commandments of our Master and follow his example, is our proper debt to him and the only worthy evidence of our gratitude for all that he has done. After the show last night, the Kiwanians and members of the cast and others who helped to put on the show, had a buffet supper at the Rotary building that lasted until midnight. An impromptu floor show, with Ell Bloom as master of ceremonies, concluded with moving of chairs and tables for square dancing.

Art Festival Speaker On Monday Will Be Dean Henry Kamphoefner

Dean Henry L. Kamphoefner of the School of Design of North Carolina State College will speak at the Monday night program of the Community Arts Festival on the topic "Designs for Homes for Present-Day Living." The program, to be held at the Woman's Club building at 8 o'clock, will be the second in the nineteenth annual Community Arts Festival sponsored by the Greenville Woman's Club and the Community Art Center.

The Festival will open Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock with talks by Stanley Waugh, Robert Lee Humber, and Lucy Cherry Crisp on various aspects of North Carolina's new Art Museum.

For the Monday night address, Dean Kamphoefner will bring his own large projector and slides on modern architecture in Raleigh, with particular emphasis on homes recently built, to illustrate his discussion of modern design in relation to contemporary life.

He will be introduced by Mrs. J.H.B. Moore, presiding officer of the evening. Mrs. Kamphoefner will accompany him to Greenville.

Dean Kamphoefner is a graduate in architecture of the University of Illinois and Columbia University, and has served as assistant professor, full professor, and acting director of the School of Architecture of the University of Oklahoma, and visiting professor at the University of Michigan. Since 1948 he has been Dean of the School of Design at State College. He is a member of the American Institute of Architects, and is co-author of two books, "Cities Are Abnormal" and "Churches and Temples," soon to be published by Reinhold Publishing Company.

In a current issue the national art publication "Art In America" praises Dean Kamphoefner's work at State College and calls the School of Design there "among the most energetic and experimental in the nation."

The ten winning designs in the recent Concrete Masonry Home Design Competition in the state will be on display at the Woman's Club throughout the Festival. Of the ten prize winners, nine are graduates of the State College School of Design.

HELEN TOPPING MILLER

SYNOPSIS

Gale Taber, a widow, had refused Sewell Albright's oft-repeated offer of marriage, feeling that it would be unfair to insist upon this fine old family friend, her ever mounting debts, even though Sewell could well afford to pay them. She had carried on the business of breeding blooded horses on her farm in Tennessee after her husband's death, but a market for luxury stock had vanished. Then, too, there were her lovely daughters, Ravel and Julia, to be considered in any matter of family plans. Ravel, her older girl, was handsome, red-haired, spirited almost beyond control. She devoted herself passionately to the training of the Taber horses, while her younger sister, Julia, seemed content as a student nurse at their local hospital. One rainy November afternoon, Julia brought young Dr. Pete Marshall home with her from the hospital, to meet her family, and John-Mark Williamson, a neighboring young farmer whom everyone thought to be in love with Ravel. But Ravel lost no time turning her guns of conquest upon the attractive doctor, presumably her sister's beau. Gale favored John-Mark as a possible husband for Ravel. He was level-headed, substantial. He might even tame the restless, fiery Ravel.

CHAPTER FIVE

WHEN the fire crackled successfully Julia piled on some wood and swung the little copper kettle on the crane over the fire. Thelma would expect them all to sleep late on Sunday, but at least she could have a cup of coffee. She gathered up all the abandoned china and carried it to the kitchen, where the big, old-fashioned range stood cold and untended.

When the little kettle steamed, Julia set some to brew in a small tin pot and sat down on the rug before the fire to drink it. A door slammed presently at the back of the house and she heard the swish of a broom sweeping off snow. Julia picked up her empty cup and went into the kitchen.

"Good gracious!" she exclaimed.

John-Mark was bending over the range, putting with the dampers.

"Hi!" He grinned at her. "Thelma had a fall a few minutes ago—nothing busted, I think, but she's shaken up and bruised. 'Bijah ran over to call me, thought you were all asleep. Fortunately she's got plenty of fat to fall on, but it took both of us and two stable hands to carry her back to her house."

"I'll go and see about her right away," Julia pulled down the old sheepskin coat that hung behind the door. "You turn that thing at the back John-Mark, and then the fire will draw. Good of you to come over through all this snow."

"Don't go out in those thin shoes," he protested. "It's six inches deep and soaking wet. Here, step into these." He jerked off his high boots and held them out.

"I'll break my neck in those tremendous things and you'll catch cold on this icy floor in your sock feet."

"No, I won't. Don't try to lift your feet, just shuffle 'em along. Here, step into 'em. I broke a path. Thought I'd better come and tend your fires. Gale and Ravel don't know from nothing in a kitchen, so Thelma says."

He held the door open for her as she maneuvered the heavy boots outside. She was out of breath when she stumbled into Thelma's hot, airless little cabin, where the colored woman lay in a mound on a tumbled bed.

Swift, deft examination convinced Julia that no bones were broken and that the woman could move all her limbs.

"You'll be black and blue probably, but you aren't seriously hurt," Julia consoled her. "I still won't and don't worry about the kitchen. We'll carry on."

John-Mark had the kettle boiling when she returned.

"No damage done," she reported. "Help me out of these things and I'll see about some food."

"Rav's been out since dawn."

John-Mark said. "She came by for a cup of coffee but Tony hadn't got the fire going yet. She wouldn't wait—said she wanted to ride the river road while the snow was on the trees."

Julia said: "John-Mark, I wish you would marry Ravel and tame her."

He looked levelly at her. "Marry Ravel? She doesn't want to marry me."

"How do you know? Did you ever ask her seriously, as though you meant it?"

He said calmly, not looking at her: "I've never asked her to marry me as though I meant it, Dooley—not for years, because I haven't wanted to marry Ravel."

Julia was whisking a tablecloth in the air, but she let it fall in a wrinkled heap.

"John-Mark, you aren't telling me that you've never been in love with Ravel?"

He put the platter of bacon on the table. "Off and on. When I was young and she was younger. Not for a year or two, anyway. I started settling down and Ravel didn't admire that. I've been pretty sure for a long time that Ravel and I could never make a successful marriage."

He pulled out a chair for her, set a plate heaped with hot food before her.

"You look wan. You need nourishment. Don't they feed you at that dump down there? Listen, Dooley this is how it is with me." He sat down beside her and broke a slice of toast.

"There was a time," he said, "when I wanted to find something touchable vulnerable, soft in Ravel. Some tender hidden thing. I gave up. I'm cured. I'm not the kind to pursue a dream forever. Do you know what I've been thinking since last night—what I'm thinking now? I've been thinking that I've wasted a lot of time—that all this time I might have been in love with you."

Julia set down her cup so abruptly the coffee slopped into the saucer.

"John-Mark, you're crazy! You've never really looked at me in all our lives, I was always background, little Sis, uninteresting, commonplace—just a piece of nice scenery against which Ravel did her scintillating. I can't even ride a horse."

"That appraisal is your own," he said soberly. "You put your own valuation on yourself and believe that everybody accepts it. You were doing it last night with that doctor fellow. You're in love with him, aren't you?"

She shook her head. "I hope not, Johnny—I really do. Maybe I am, but I mean to cure myself because it's so everlastingly useless. You'd make a marvellous husband, John-Mark. That's why you should have a woman worth all you can give. I never have thought of you in that way, of course. I was always so sure it was Ravel you wanted. And I'm not in love with you except that I do love you the way I'd have loved a brother if I had had one."

"You'll think about me now, and when you do I'll be around somewhere." Abruptly he changed the subject, sensing her confusion and discomfort. "Dooley, before Gale comes down I ought to tell you that her affairs are in pretty rotten shape."

She felt a clutch of dismay. "I've never known. They don't tell me anything. How bad Johnny?"

"It's like this, Dooley. This is no time to be depending on a luxury product. Not with the world in turmoil and heavy taxes taking so much away from the people who used to spend it on themselves. I saw it coming and I turned to raising cattle. Even if Gale could be persuaded to change, Ravel would block the idea. This year Gale isn't going to be able to turn her three-year-olds quickly. She may not be able to sell at all and she has a lot of money invested in those colts."

"She does have a little income from that endowment my father left her."

"Present-day dollar standards it is a little income. It pays Thelma and the upkeep of this house. But it won't pay stable hands nor feed bills. Gale has been borrowing money and she's not going to be able to meet her notes this year unless she has a piece of luck that I can't see coming her way. She's stuck with 20-odd very fine, blooded nags that ought to bring a wad of money while they're in their prime, horses she can't afford to keep or to feed."

"But what can we do?" Julia was distressed. "I'll be earning money after I graduate, I hope, unless I should be drafted into the service. They say some of us are going to be called."

"Not you, likely. You aren't husky enough. As I see it, Dooley—and maybe you won't like this much—I think Gale ought to marry Sewell Albright."

Julia gasped. "For heaven's sake! Gale would never think of it. Sewell was an old friend of my father's, we've always been close friends, but that's all."

"He's asked her to marry him."

"How do you know?"

"She told me. She was a little worried last time, wondering if she oughtn't to consider it."

"Sewell is a dear and we're fond of him and he has money. But he also has Sally and Pierce and they're impossible."

"You could marry me, Dooley. I think I could pull the Tabers out of the hole they're in."

A little flash of tormented anger went over Julia.

"You mean that even if the Taber horses can't be sold that the Taber daughters are still marketable," she said bitterly. Not Ravel, because she couldn't be tamed, because she was a reckless and unmanageable filly, but Dooley—Dooley, the quiet one who could be broken to harness! Then the fury died in her almost as swiftly, shamed by the grave gentleness in his eyes. He had not meant to bargain. His meaning was plain on his face.

She said: "That was a foul thing to say. I'm sorry. I do wish I could marry you, Johnny. I really wish I could."

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's welfare ministry plans to tighten controls on narcotic addiction in a country where the victims are estimated to exceed 1,500,000. The ministry said over 10 per cent of the addicts were doctors, nurses, pharmacists and others working in the medical field.

News From Ballards

By MRS. G. S.

On last Friday evening the Women's Auxiliary of the Pine Grove Baptist Church met at the home of Mesdames Thurman and Cora Crawford.

Mrs. Hubert Crawford, president, presided and the meeting opened with the group singing "More Like the Master," followed with a prayer by Mrs. Myrtle R. Tyson. Scripture was read by Mrs. Mildred Humbles.

Mrs. G. S. Nichols presented the program on "God Speaks Through Books," using four topics, "What Do I Read?", "Be Swift to Hear," "To Get Wisdom Is Better Than Gold," and "Daniel's Purpose Let To His Promotion." The program was closed with a prayer.

At the business session the semi-annual report was filled out to be sent to the auxiliary convention which meets at the Grimsley Church in April. Mrs. Hubert Crawford and Mrs. Mildred Humbles volunteered to go as delegates to this meeting. The group voted to send a flower to a member of the church who is ill at his home.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

There were 24 members present and we were glad to have five visitors. Mrs. C. C. Harris, Mrs. J. S. Elks, Mrs. Noah Barber, Miss Hagar Hart and Mrs. Ray Hart, whose name we were glad to add to the roll.

At the fellowship hour the hostesses served sandwiches, roasted pecans and mints with Coca-Colas. Prayer service was well attended at the community building on last Wednesday evening.

There were good programs at the Youth for Christ meeting on Saturday evening and we were glad to have visitors from Hugo Baptist Church and the girl's trio from there sang two special selections. These services are interdenominational and everyone is invited to them.

Are Buses Going The Way Of Trains?

Bus service to communities in this section of the state appears to be going the way of the passenger trains of a quarter century ago.

In recent months removal of bus schedules and attempts to remove bus schedules serving communities in this section has risen at an alarming rate. Just this week—Thursday—two bus schedules serving Greenville and Washington and communities between were discontinued.

Slot Machines Back In The News Here

Slot machines have bounced back into the news in Greenville.

For the past several years they have been bouncing in and out of the news as one or more of the one-arm bandits is brought into the open.

This time the machines were discovered at the Elks lodge where officers went early Sunday morning to investigate reports of an injured man who later died.

Local police officers have asserted that an indictment in connection with the possession, ownership or operation of the illegal slot machines will be forthcoming although at this writing no indictment has been made.

It is indeed to be hoped that the local officers are successful in their efforts to bring about an indictment and conviction of the person or group of persons responsible for the illegal gambling devices.

The law of North Carolina specifically prohibits the possession or operation of gambling devices in the state. The law does not—and indeed should not—provide special privileges for particular clubs or groups to violate the gambling laws of the state.

It is certainly the responsibility of the law enforcement officers, and officers of the court to prosecute with equal vigor persons charged with possession or operation of slot machines just as they do individuals charged with participation in other gambling.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

WAR AND PEACE
Most of us envy good fortune and prosperity. We look at the man who seems never beset by personal problems, whose material needs are generously supplied from a large income, whose road through life seems smooth and uncomplicated, and think, "If only I could be in his shoes!"

Yet the truth is that the people who have no trials and troubles are never important people. The leaders, the strong and great men of any group or nation are those who have had to struggle, and who in the struggle have proved their worth.

Any military commander prefers to face the enemy not with new troops whose uniforms still boast sparkling buttons, but with seasoned veterans of other battles, whose previous dangers, escapes, and defeats have left them a strong, reliable army. No captain would willingly take his ship to sea with a crew composed of smooth-water sailors who had never survived a storm or been seasick.

Yes, we would all like a serene, peaceful existence. But the only kind of peace worth having is attained through conflict. This kind of hard-won peace brings confidence and security.

So don't curse your hard knocks. Like the ache and exhaustion of the athlete beginning his training period, they are the only way to a state of true well-being.

Seek Higher Liability Rates

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—American aviation authorities are seeking an increase in the maximum amount of money for which international airline companies are liable in the event of death or accident to passengers and damage to freight shipments. Simultaneously, there are Congressional demands for a uniform Federal liability law, for about half the states have fixed pitifully low limits on victims of disaster within their boundaries.

In the current reopening of the Warsaw Convention, which governs in these matters, the Civil Aeronautics Board wants the ceiling for recoverable damages in overseas flying lifted from the present $8,300 to $13,500. An American attempt to boost it to $25,000 was defeated last year by the International Aviation Commission with jurisdiction in this field.

Although the terms or even the existence of the Warsaw Convention are not generally understood or even known, several developments have aroused current interest in the problem at Washington.

A CASE IN POINT—The most dramatic incident was the near-tragic experience of Jane Frohman, the popular television star. On her way to entertain troops late in the war she was crippled badly in the landing gear of a Pan American plane at Lisbon. She returned to television only recently, but still needs braces.

Although her medical treatment, a series of operations and loss of earnings amounted to several hundred thousands of dollars, she was able to collect only $8,300. There would have been no limit to the sum if she could have proved negligence so palpable that it might be termed willful or criminal. The Warsaw Convention provides such a loophole, but it is virtually impossible to make such a charge stick.

The other tragic accident highlighting this hazard occurred on the outskirts of Washington. Several years ago, a Bolivian Army pilot crashed into an Eastern Air Lines plane over the Potomac River, killing more than a score of passengers. The legal aftermath of this disaster developed an amusing situation of which only a few air passengers have ever heard.

CEILING FIXED IN MANY STATES—More than 30 states have laws fixing a ceiling on the amount for

We do not know what the overall plan of the bus companies is in their efforts to remove these bus schedules, but apparently they are trying to get out of the local traffic buses between short distance stops, and concentrate their efforts on the long run express buses.

In our opinion, the franchises under which bus companies operate in designated areas carry with them a responsibility to afford service to those areas. To be sure the bus companies can not be expected to operate all their schedules at a loss; but neither should they be allowed to discontinue schedules which are vital to transportation between communities simply because the schedules are not making as much money as the company might like.

Passenger transportation between small neighboring communities is of vital importance today as it has been in past years. It will continue to be of vital importance in coming years.

Yet, if the bus lines are allowed to discontinue their schedules one after the other and do away with service on the local area basis, this section of Eastern North Carolina is likely to be left without adequate public transportation service between its communities.

Years ago passenger trains served practically every community in this section of the state. Now there are very few cities which have passenger train service. Greenville at one time had the service of 10 passenger trains a day; but one by one the schedules were discontinued by the railroads, and for several years, the city has not had any passenger train service.

Is the same thing going to happen to bus service?

We hope not; but unless something is done to stem the tide of discontinuing of bus schedules, public passenger transportation to serve local communities will be curtailed far below the point of adequacy.

"A great many of the activities of the government and of the people of a country influence the soundness of its money, but it rests most directly upon a sound fiscal and monetary policy."—W. Randolph Burgess, Deputy to the Secretary of the Treasury.

THE RIGHT TO WORK

The story of the fight for human freedom would fill endless volumes. A notable page recently was added in Texas.

Some time ago a small group of railroad workers sued for an injunction to prevent their employer and a union from signing a union shop contract, which would have prevented a man who didn't want to join from earning his living. Judge Nelson of the 10th District Court now has ruled that "Congress has no right to enact legislation making union membership a test of the right to work."

He said further, "That which denies a person the right to work . . . denies him his liberty, the pursuit of happiness, and . . . life itself."

CANADIAN, TEXAS, RECORD: "The small country weekly has as vital a mission in the life of American citizens as the newspaper that has a circulation and reading public in the millions. . . . History shows us that freedom is lost wherever a free press is lost. Would-be dictators cannot stand the full glare of publicity—they cannot tolerate truth. The press is the first attacked, and once that is captured or made subservient other freedoms quickly fall and perish."

AFTON, WYO., STAR VALLEY INDEPENDENT: "There is no such thing as the indispensable product that can coast along on its past laurels."

Somebody Told Me

Fascination Of Radio Hobby

After seven weeks of amateur radio operation I still maintain that it's one of the most fascinating hobbies known to man. During this seven weeks I have talked to close to 400 different people in the United States, Canada, South America and Cuba.

What do we talk about? How do we get in touch with each other? There are two ways to get in touch with another amateur: (1) Put out a general call: CQ, giving your call letters. CQ means for anybody to answer. (2) Answer some other amateur who's calling CQ.

A normal contact starts off with a description of the equipment we are using. For example, I would say that my transmitter is a Viking II, the receiver is an HQ-129X, I'm using a Viking VFO and a half-wave doublet antenna. This lingo is so familiar to any amateur in the air that he would know exactly what my set-up is.

All contacts are not two-way. Quite often I have been in contacts with as many as six amateurs involved. The other day someone in a four-way mentioned kites. By the time each one of us finished telling his experiences with kites you could have almost written a book with the information.

Quite often the various amateur organizations sponsor contests. A few weeks ago the women amateurs were having a contest over the weekend they could make. Often contests are held to see who can "work" (contact) the most distant points in the least time. Personally, the contests do not appeal to me, for I like more casual operation. Some "hams," as we are called, are contest-minded and look forward to each one.

There is a world of subject matter relative to equipment that is of interest to hams. Just take antennas alone, for example. Right now I am planning to build a 20-meter beam type antenna so I can talk half way around the world at will. Many hams I talk to have these beams and have various recommendations to make on them.

After talking for hours on the air, many hams arrange to meet in person. So far, this has happened to me three times. And each time it was a complete surprise to me when I saw the ham in person. We never seem to look like we sound.

Yesterday I heard a girl on the air from the South Sea islands. She had talked to many North Carolina hams from the South Seas and at the time was visiting one in Apex.

Mobile operation is popular among hams. Our licenses permit us to operate with radios from our cars. Quite often, a mobile ham will be in transit and be guided to a fixed station by directions over the air.

It took me about six months of study at odd times to get enough information in my head to pass the test for license. It was well worth the effort.

And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

BOTH SIDES PLAYING POLITICS (Henderson Dispatch)

Democrats are so desperately anxious to regain control of Congress and the Republicans so determined to keep what they have that both sides are playing politics not only with the tax bill now pending but other legislation that has been proposed to the present Congress. Sops are being offered to one group or another of minority blocs, including labor, the farmer and the low-income group.

It appears that the actual welfare of the country is given secondary thought and is being played down in favor of this bid for support in this election year. It is one of the weaknesses of democracy, despite all the benefits that flow from it as the best form of government yet devised. The present situation points up the shortage of statesmanship in Washington, although that is not a new thing, even if more pronounced now than usual.

Whatever of merit there may be in the legislative program submitted to Congress by President Eisenhower, there seems to be small chance of more than a minimum of it being enacted in this session, or even receiving serious consideration. Instead of laboring for the good of the country as a whole, political advantage is being given right of way. Although the administration went into office with a pledge toward economy, and while much of that has been introduced here and there, its actual practice offers little promise of snaring the voters in November.

Mr. Eisenhower is not himself a candidate this year. But every member of the House is and so are one-third of those in the Senate. Even those of the President's own party know they cannot ride into office this year on his popularity, since he is not running. Result is that it is rather a case of every man for himself, and every one grabbing at such straws as he feels may have voter appeal.

Unfortunately, what appeals to the voter is not in every instance the best thing for the country as a whole. That is true of some of the tax proposals now pending. On some of these issues, the chief executive is being deserted even by members of his own party.

Party lines are not holding rigidly in the struggle that is now in progress. There is division in the ranks on both sides. Upshot of the whole business probably will stalemate a great deal of wholesome legislation that might otherwise receive attention. Both sides are playing politics for all they are worth in the hope of reaping a harvest in the end. It is a regrettable situation.

Around Capitol Square

LETOURNEAU — Moore county is on the map in a big way this week. In addition to the public appearance at Carthage of Adlai Stevenson, Democratic candidate for President in 1952 and titular head of the party in the nation, the county will have R.G. Letourneau for four public appearances. He will fly from Longview, Texas, in his own plane Saturday and will speak in the high school gym at Aberdeen that night. In the Methodist church at Carthage at 10 a.m. Sunday, at the Presbyterian church in Southern Pines at 11, and in the Southern Pines high school auditorium at 3 p.m.

Who is Letourneau? Your reporter confesses he did not know until a day or two ago. He is a multi-millionaire manufacturer of earth-moving machinery of the heavy bulldozer type, who devotes something like 90 per cent of his business profits to developing Christian citizenship. A story in Newsweek magazine last December says early in life he made God a partner in his business and in 1952 made over $2 million on aggregate sales in excess of $55 million. Last year he sold his business to Westinghouse for $23 million—and was retained on a salary of $50,000 as a consultant. He finances a degree-giving college, LeTourneau Technical Institute of Texas at Longview, and underwrites numerous missionary and exploration ventures. Currently he is interested in huge physical, social and religious reclamation projects in Africa and South America.

In a telephone conversation Cliff Blue, editor-publisher of the Sandhill Citizen at Aberdeen, said that Letourneau has about the same relationship to Christian laymen that Billy Graham has to the Christian ministry and Adlai Stevenson to Democratic politicians.

Moore county folks may be excused for boasting that they have two of these top men in their county at the same time.

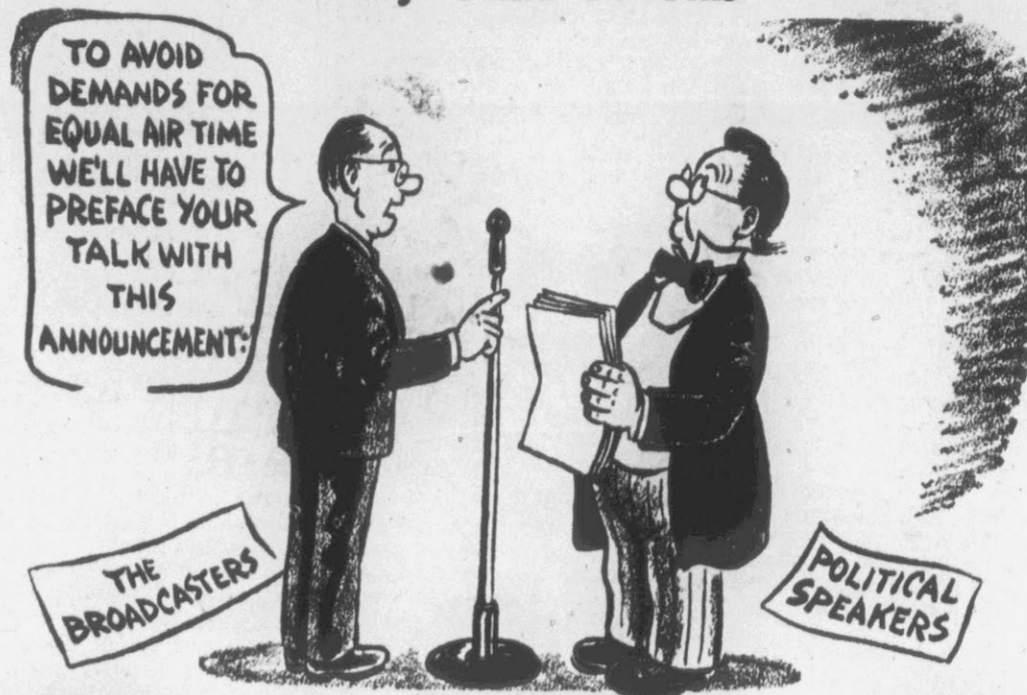

LITTLE LETTERS — "Don't try to ignore him, just spell him down," is the suggested treatment for Senator McCarthy. A high level State official, who asks that his name not be used, says the whole country is pretty well fed-up with McCarthy publicity. He recognizes that newspapers cannot ignore him, but thinks if every time the name is printed it be in all small letters—no capitals—like this "senator mCarthy" the effect would be very salutary. He might have something there, although it is doubted the idea would "snowball" to the extent he thinks it would.

One of the most effective instances of "spelling down" a man was that conducted by the late Tom Bost some 35 years ago when Dr. Henry Quincy Alexander was state president and a controversial figure in the Farmers Union. The Bost writings for the Greensboro Daily News were widely quoted in other papers. He never referred to the Farmers Union president as Dr. Alexander but always as "dochquax"—running the Doctor H.Q. Alexander all together as one word and with no capital letters. Similar treatment of the McCarthy name would call for something like "senjoecarthy"—which quite obviously would not flatter the ego of a publicity seeker. Unfortunately for the suggested program of de-capitalizing the man, there are very few people in North Carolina or anywhere else with the consummate skill of Tom Bost to handle this situation.

Business Today

More Sales Advised

By ELMER ROESSNER
The answer to current economic threats—as so many others have said—lies in more sales, Robert E. Williams, executive secretary of the Association of Consulting Management Engineers, writes in a leaflet being distributed by the Small Business Administration.

"Expense reduction alone is not a good subject for preoccupation in a buyer's market," he states. "In the first place, its application is limited and defensive. You cannot keep on cutting expenses indefinitely without shrinking your business."

"In the second place, it does not prepare your organization for more intense competition; on the contrary, it tends to stifle new ideas and to foster timidity. It is bad for the morale of the whole company. It is a retreat instead of an attack. It emphasizes doing less instead of doing more."

"A far better plan seems to be to hold the break-even point in line or to make moderate reductions in it, and to go out and get more sales. Theoretically there are no limits on this kind of policy, except the size of the market and your ability to produce and finance."

Competition, Mr. Williams adds, builds morale because "it is dynamic, not static; expansive, not shrinking."

He suggests a number of steps toward more sales, including analysis of markets, stimulating the sales organization and improving advertising.

"Forget any ideas about 'educating the consumer,' he advises. "From now on the consumer is going to educate you."

He also offers a yes-and-no check list of 48 questions, dealing with goals and product lines, market and competitors, the selling organization and helping the salesmen. He adds, "If you can answer 'yes' to all of these questions, keep on doing whatever you are doing."

Businessmen wishing to test their ability to go ahead in a buyer's market can get this self-examination by asking the Small Business Administration, Washington 25, D.C., for "Management Aid No. 44." It's free.

NORMALCY? WE'VE GOT SO MUCH IT'S PAINFUL!

When will business ever be normal again? Well, right now, says Mill & Factory. It points out: "Materials of all kinds are plentiful; allocations and restrictions have ended. There are no price controls or emergency wage controls. There are no manpower restrictions. Government is keeping its hands off labor disputes. The Taft-Hartley law is being administered more in line with its intent. Finally, competition is back in full force."

And, to round out its picture of normalcy, the magazine might have added that people are complaining about taxes, the Republicans and Democrats are having words, economists are disputing about future prospects and everybody is worrying about the younger generation.

HARDWARE SALES DOWN; WEATHER GETS BLAME

The typical hardware store took in 4.5 per cent less money in January than it did a year ago, according to the monthly survey of the National Retail Hardware Association.

The West North Central area, however, registered an 0.7 per cent gain. This includes Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas. The weather was held partly to blame in New England curbed sales of winter sporting goods and too much cold weather in the Middle Atlantic states kept people away from stores. Unemployment was blamed for some of the decline in other areas.

ONLY LINES COUNTER JANUARY DOWNTREND

The few gains over a year ago were: gasoline service stations, up 9 per cent; drug and proprietary stores, up 2 per cent; grocery stores, up 3 per cent; bakery product stores, up 7 per cent; men's and boys' furnishings stores, up 5 per cent; heating and plumbing equipment dealers, up 14 per cent, and fuel and fuel oil dealers, up 12 per cent.

How To Understand A Teen-Ager

NEW YORK (AP)—If there is anything more puzzling than being a teen-ager, it is the problem of being a teen-ager's father. You can't even solve this one by mail. The correspondence schools duck the subject, although they can teach you to understand a jet engine and other simple toys of the time.

But today we bring you a plain rule of thumb way to let Dad feel he at least dwells on the same planet as his teen-age kids: "Since you can't whip 'em, why not join 'em?"

This advice comes from Lester Rand, 28 a retired teen-ager himself, but one who has kept in touch with the field. He is president of the Youth Research Institute.

The organization makes business surveys for firms selling youth products. It has a staff of 1,800 youngsters scattered over the nation who judge about asking other youngsters such questions as, "Junior, what are your buying habits? Why not give this new brand of bubble gum a 30-day test and see if you don't really find it easier on your jaws than the brand you are now using?"

Rand, a specialist in the 5-to-25 age bracket, said it takes a strong man to be the father of present-day teen-agers, and added, "Even the strong will find it a trying period."

But he went on to say that it is a lot tougher to be a teen-ager now than it was when Dad was a boy, and the way for Dad to meet the situation is to climb out of his rut and "get into the groove" with his kids.

"Look young," said Rand. "Anyone over 21 looks ancient to a teen-ager. Many fathers of teen-agers, of course, can't help looking older than they actually are, but they ought to keep a young attitude."

"Instead of acting shocked at the things your teen-age boy or girl may do, just play along as if you thought it were normal. In that way you're acceptable. You're one of the crowd. That can make up for a lot of your parental short-comings.

"Dress yourself. Get out of that old business suit when you come home and slide into a pair of slacks and a sweater or sport shirt. Look like a high school kid yourself.

"If you buy a new car, get a convertible—and your worries are just about at an end. It's a good thing to have even though you may never get to drive it yourself. Teenagers love convertibles."

Here are a few tips by Rand on how to rejuvenate your outlook:

"Forget about Charlie Chaplin or Micky Pickford, or at least don't speak about them in the presence of the young and hopeful. Learn and try to memorize the names of the singers and movie stars popular in the teen-age set—Perry Como, Stewart Granger, Eddie Fisher, Tony Curtis.

"If somebody mentions Shirley Temple, say you're too young to remember her. Don't talk about how things 'used to be.' Those comparisons are sudden death.

"Know the latest dances. Forget about the waltz. Don't even say the word out loud.

"Keep up a few teen-age fads and approve of them heartily, no matter how ridiculous they seem. "Pick up a few teen-age expressions such as 'this tears me up'.

I really like it, 'cast an eyeball' read, 'glurpy' really great, or 'petunias' sissy.

"Otherwise you'll be tabbed 'square,' and that means you're 'kind've not too goodish,' or bad. But don't try to learn too much teen-age talk. Kids resent your intruding on their privacy."

Everything clear now, Dad? To understand your teen-age boy or girl may do, just play along as

Jesus Strengthens His Disciples

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—John 15:16.

"This is My commandment, that ye love one another, as I have loved you. Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down His life for His friends," Jesus told His disciples.

Jesus warned His disciples that they would be persecuted. "They shall put you out of synagogues; yea, the time cometh that whosoever killeth you will think he doeth God service."

The disciples grieved because Jesus said He was going away, but He said: "It is expedient for you that I go away, for if I go not away the Comforter will not come unto you."

They would be sorrowful when He left them, said Jesus, but "your sorrow shall be turned into joy," speaking of His resurrection.

MEMORY VERSE—John 16:13.

Jesus Strengthens His Disciples

WHEN HE HAS GONE THE COMFORTER WILL COME TO THEM

Scripture—John 16:16.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL IT IS PROBABLE that many of us, on hearing of a man condemned to death for a crime, have wondered what such a person thinks about during the last days of his life on earth. Does he repent his evil deed and pray that God will pardon him? Does he live in terror of death, spending his last moments eagerly hoping for a reprieve or pardon?

"Ye are My friends," Jesus told His disciples. Each one of us has a friend—at least one, we hope. Ralph Waldo Emerson said, "The only way to have a friend is to be one."

We cannot be a friend such as Jesus was to His disciples and is to us, but we can try to be, even to be willing to lay down our life, if necessary, for a true friend, as the Lord did for His world and for ours.

This world too, opposes Jesus and His teaching as did His, and persecutes His followers in many countries. Christ warned His disciples that they, too, would be persecuted.

"If the world hate you, ye know that it hated Me before it hated you. If ye were of the world, the world would love his own; but because ye are not of the world, but I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you."

"They shall put you out of the synagogues; yea, the time cometh that whosoever killeth you will think that he doeth God service."

MEMORY VERSE

"When he, the Spirit of truth is come, he will guide you into all truth."—John 16:13.

disciples were on their way to the Garden of Gethsemane, on the lower slopes of the Mount of Olives.

"I am the true vine, and My Father is the husbandman. Abide in Me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except as it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in Me. I am the vine, ye are the branches; he that abideth in Me and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit; for without Me ye can do nothing."

This could be illustrated to the children by a drawing of a great vine, with its many branches. The branches that are separated from the vine wither and die. If they remain attached to the trunk, they bear leaves, then blossoms and, finally, fruit.

Attached to Christ we can do much; but if we allow ourselves to be cut off from the Savior, we can do nothing.

"This is My Commandment, that ye love one another, as I have loved you. Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends. Ye are My friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you. Henceforth I call you not servants; for the servant knoweth not what his lord doeth; for all things that I have heard of My Father I have made known unto you."

"Ye have not chosen Me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain; that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in My name, He may give it you. These things I command you, that ye love one another."

Phantom Track Squad Going Through Timing

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer

Time trials will be the order of the day today for the Greenville High School track team as the coaches are lining up the boys in the events they are most suited for. The sprints will be run off with the best three places running in the meets.

In yesterday's drill the G-men cineremen worked out lightly in preparation of today's intra-squad meet. Only the milers really worked hard. Coach Bill Kittrell put Howard King, Sam Winchester, Pick Arthur, Edwin Wilkerson, and Bennie Perry in the mile run to see which of these boys would run the mile or the half-mile in the meets. Wilkerson took first place with a time of 5:34 minutes. Right behind Wilkerson was Benny Perry with Pick Arthur third. These boys will run the mile in the meets with King, Winchester, and Wade Jordan entering in the half-mile.

Pleasant Surprise

Wilkerson's win came as a pleasant surprise to the Greenville coaches who were worried by the lack of strength in the long distance event. Perry had been considered the number one miler in practice but his time was considerably slower than a winning time in a meet. Wilkerson's surprise showing in the first time he had run the mile gives the Greenies some added strength in that event. Pick Arthur also showed some talent in finishing third and not far behind the leaders.

Winchester is expected to be the leading half-miler as he is the only half-miler returning from last season. King has looked good in practice this week in that event and he and Winchester are counted on to take a big load in that event. The other entries in the half mile will be freshmen and sophomores trying to edge into the first team.

In the intra-squad game, juniors James Speight, Mitchell Johnson, and Joe Taft are expected to win most of the events. Speight and Johnson will be the number one candidates for the broad jump with Harold Edwards, Speight, and Jerry Drum, and Pete Weiler leading the high jumpers. Tommy Smith and Bill Taft will throw the shot put with Cleith Oakley the only proven discus thrower on the squad.

Konno Assaulting Own 220 Record In Swimming Meet

SYRACUSE, N. Y. — Ford Konno, the swift Olympian from Ohio State via Honolulu, will make an assault on his own 220-yard record tonight in the NCAA Swimming Championships in the speed-up Syracuse University pool.

He already has applied for recognition of his world record of 2:04.7 and Syracuse swimming Coach Ted Webster said it wouldn't pay anyone to bet against him.

Webster pointed out that the 25-meter pool is one of the fastest rigged for collegiate competition. It has been rebuilt with special overflow pipes to carry off any waves that might hamper the swimmers.

Konno certainly has found the pool to his liking. In last night's 1,500-meter freestyle, he smashed his own NCAA record of 18:15.6 by splashing over the distance in 18:14.4. It was the first event of the 31st annual championships and Konno left no doubt as to his superiority over the rest of the field.

The second-place man, Bill Yorzzyk of Springfield, was clocked in 18:57, the only other man in the four-heat field to get home under 19 minutes.

Dan Osborne of Stanford was third in 19:16, George Breen of Cortland fourth in 19:17.4 and Pete Duncan of Oklahoma fifth in 19:20.

Gavilan Arrives To Open Practice

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
CHICAGO — Ah, for the life of a world champion.

Welterweight king Kid Gavilan, his leathery face creased in smiles, arrived in Chicago last night to begin his final week of drills before trying to dislodge Carl (Bobo) Olson's middleweight crown in Chicago Stadium next Friday.

Gavilan was bundled in a heavy overcoat as he stepped from a New York plane into blasts of cold wind. Reporters whisked him away to a nearby cafe and there the fun began.

Gavilan is one of the few sports big shots who is agreeable for anything. He'll pose for a picture standing on his head and wiggling his toes if asked.

In the cafe, he wandered back to the kitchen and donned a chef's white headpiece and coat. Then he pretended he was carving up a big roast from the oven. Meanwhile, waitresses and kitchen help grouped around him, handing him dollar bills to autograph.

"These people—what won't they think of next for Gavilan," fumed Mundito Medina, the champion's cagey little trainer and a character in his own right.

Medina looked around the kitchen. "Look at Gavilan. They could give him a blank check to autograph and he wouldn't know the difference. Here he is in all this heat signing stuff and posing for pictures. He should be in bed resting."

While all this was going on, the confusion was completed by loud barks and growls from an iron-barred door leading to the office of the cafe's manager.

There inside was a great Dane. Someone was patting the huge dog and whispering in his ear. "He won't hurt no one," this fellow said. "He just makes a lot of noise. Hey, Gavilan, how about this guy—he weighs 160 pounds."

That set off the photographers. They wanted Gavilan to get inside the office with the beast and make like he was going to punch him.

Gavilan peered through the iron grating and the great Dane—called "Chief"—stuck his nose through. Gavilan stroked it. The dog looked up at him.

"Okay," said Gavilan. "I go in—take picture. This dog is just another middleweight to Gavilan."

At this point, Medina was fit to be tied.

"No dogs!" he yelled. "No dogs! How stupid can you people get. One bite and Gavilan lose his arm to elbow and world will be without man who become next middleweight champion. No dogs!"

High School Wins

The High School, regular season leaders in the Greenville Volleyball League, Wednesday night added the league's tournament championship to its record.

The team, composed of high school students and two college freshmen, defeated the Independents in the tournament's final round. Scores were 15-7, 13-15, 15-10, 13-15, and 15-13.

In semi-final play in the tournament, the High School team had eliminated the Nine Lives and the Independents had ousted Carolina Dairies.

Members of the championship team are Bobby Conway, Charles Ray Joyner, Bill Hendrix, Bobby Nunn, Bobby Perry, Smith Worthington, and Donnie Conway.

Members of the Independents are Tom Boyd, Bob Dash, Bill Phillips, Dan Gordon, George McMillan, and J. T. Williams.

Dreaded Home Run Haunting Former Dodger Ace, Branca

By RIP WATSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The dreaded home-run ball, which added Ralph Branca's name to the list of baseball's greatest "goats" in 1951, still is dogging the handsome right-hander.

Branca yielded three home runs—good for a total of six runs—in five innings yesterday against Cincinnati. The Redlegs went on to beat the Detroit Tigers 13-11. Wally Post, a 242 hitter with Cincinnati last year, hit the first with the bases empty, and pitcher Harry Perkowski added to Branca's embarrassment with a similar homer. Then Hobie Landrith (.240 last year) slugged one out of the park with the bases loaded.

It was Bobby Thomson, then with the New York Giants, who victimized Branca with a home run in the final game of the 1951 National League playoff against Brooklyn. The historic blow cost Branca a pennant and just about wrecked what had started out as a promising career for Branca with the Brooklyn club.

At the age of 21, Branca won 21 and lost 12 in leading the Brooks to a pennant. He never reached that figure again, although he was one of Brooklyn's better pitchers until Thomson unloaded against him. He pitched in only 16 games in 1952, winning four and losing two, and was sold to the Detroit Tigers last year after yielding 12 runs in 11 innings of pitching. Ironically, Brooklyn asked Branca to shelled again by the Giants. No National League club wanted him.

Branca wasn't the only pitcher to get his slump yesterday, however.

The Philadelphia Phillies and Milwaukee wound up with a "football" score, 16-13 for the Phils, after a wild ninth inning in which the winners scored nine times and losers six. Del Egan belted two home runs and Stan Lopata one for the Phils, and Sibby Sisti, Jim Fendleton and Hank Aaron homered for the Braves.

Rudy Regalado, Cleveland's rookie sensation, slugged his sixth and seventh home runs of the training season as the Indians whipped the Chicago Cubs 6-3. The 23-year-old phenom also singled twice and now has a .447 batting average and 17 runs batted in.

Pittsburgh took over first place—that's right, first place—in the National League spring standings by choking off a desperate Philadelphia Athletics rally to squeeze out an 8-7 victory. The A's had scored twice and had two men on base when Ed McGhee filed out to end the game.

The Washington Senators slugged

Billy Pierce, the Chicago White Sox' top lefty, for six runs in the second and chased him in the fourth while running up a 9-2 score against the Sox. Connie Marrero and Al Sima teamed up to hold the Sox to six hits, all singles.

Oh, yes, there was some good pitching elsewhere too. Bob Wiesler became the first New York Yankee pitcher to go seven games, and Tom Morgan added two more scoreless innings as the world champions blanked the Boston Red Sox 2-0. Outfielder Hank Bauer batted home both runs in the third inning.

Stan Musial made three hits and scored both runs in the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1 victory over Brooklyn, which shoved the Dodgers back into second place. Gerry Staley went seven innings for the Cards, allowing the only Dodger run, and Tom Poholsky finished up. The Baltimore Orioles got three unearned runs from three New York errors and defeated the Giants 3-1, thereby giving the Birds the best record of the four clubs training in Arizona.

Suitcase Simpson Riding Bench

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. — Fielder Harry Simpson rode the Cleveland Indians' bench today with a broken arm, an injury suffered in the same exhibition in which catcher Mickey Grasso broke his left ankle.

Simpson was helped off the field Wednesday at Mesa, Ariz., after colliding with catcher Bob Murray of the Chicago Cubs but it was not until yesterday that X-rays showed the break.

Trainer Wally Bock said it was a "simple fracture of the left ulna, or forearm" and added that it "will be at least six weeks before he can play again." Simpson broke the same arm last November while barnstorming with a team of major leaguers.

Games Today

East Carolina College's Pirates and Greenville High School's Phantoms both have baseball games scheduled for this afternoon.

The Pirates will travel to Wake Forest to meet the Demon Deacons who defeated them 6-4 Tuesday afternoon. No indication has been given by Coach Earl Smith as to just who will start for the Bucs but it is expected that several of the rookies will get a chance to show their abilities. Most frequently mentioned among the rookies are righthanders Mack Cherry and Gene Taylor and lefthanders Dave Harris and Jimmy Barnes.

The Phantoms will stay here at home to take on the New Bern Bears in the Northeastern Conference opener for both teams. The Phants have split two games, losing a close game to Rocky Mount and then winning 1-0 from Farmville. Leftie Bill Hendrix, the loser in the Rocky Mount game, is expected to start for the Phantoms. The game will be played in Guy Smith Stadium.

Local Ladies In Golf Tournament

Lady golfers from seven towns are expected in Greenville Tuesday afternoon for the second round of the Eastern Carolina Ladies Golf Association Tournament.

The first round of the tournament was played last Tuesday in Wilson with eight Greenville golfers participating. The first round matches, held at the Wilson Country Club, attracted a total of 81 entrants.

Jane Suave of Greenville and Bobbie Ramsey and Jeannette Attomer of Washington tied for low gross scores in the first round of the tournament with scores of 90. Mabel Blount and Mildred Coleman, representing Greenville, also won prizes in the first round of the tournament.

Low net scores for the matches were turned in by Ann Watson of Wilson, first low net; Maggie Holden of Smithfield, second low net; and Lois Wilson, third low net. Mary Phillips was outstanding in the putting with Bobby Ramsey of Washington second.

Towns which are expected to have teams entered in the play next Tuesday are Smithfield, Wilson, Rocky Mount, New Bern, Kinston, Washington, and the host Greenville club.

The players who represented Greenville in the Wilson play were Nettie Herring, Jane Suave, Carolyn Thomas, Mabel Blount, Evelyn Warner, Millie Wright, Francis Larkin, and Mildred Coleman.

Billiard Tourney Winds Up Tonight

PHILADELPHIA — The unofficial world's pocket billiards championship tournament winds up tonight with leader Luther Lassiter of Elizabeth City, N.C., scheduled to meet runners-up Irving Crane of Binghamton, N.Y. and Jim Moore of Albuquerque, N.M.

Lassiter drew a bye yesterday and has an 8-2 record. He meets Moore (8-3) in the afternoon and Crane (8-3) in the evening. In event of a tie, the playoff will follow the latter match.

Crane and Moore both won matches last night, Crane beating Erwin Rudolph of Sayre, Pa., 150-28, and Moore defeating Mike Eufemia of Brooklyn, N.Y., 150-107.

Record Field In Rich Azalea Open

By KEN ALYTA
WILMINGTON, N. C. — The $10,000 Azalea Open Golf Tournament, boasting a record field of about 150, opened its three-day stand here today without a red hot favorite.

Play along golf's winter circuit this year has been wide open, with nine different players winning the nine major tournaments. Five of them were here—Dutch Harrison, Johnny Palmer, Bobby Toski, Chandler Harper and Fred Wampler.

In addition, 16 of the top 20 money winners on the most recent PGA listing were in the field which will be out tomorrow night to low 60 and ties for Sunday's two rounds over the 6,600-yard, par 72 Cape Fear Country Club course.

Cary Middlecoff, the Memphis dentist who heads the money list, although he hasn't won a tournament this year may be ready to crash through this week. Middlecoff has been well up here in four previous tournaments, although never winning.

Last year Cary tied for fifth. The year before he was all alone in fifth. In 1950 he tied for third and in '49 he tied for 2nd. In those four years he's never been worse than fifth and picked up almost $3,200 in Wilmington money. In his last eight tournament rounds over the sandy Cape Fear course Cary has posted four 69s, two 70s, a 68 and a 73.

To date this year he has often threatened to win, but three seconds, one in a playoff, and another a tie for second have been his highest finishes.

From here the touring stars move up to Greensboro's Star Mount Forest Club for the $10,000 Greater Greensboro Open beginning next Friday. Then comes the Aug. 8-11 Masters at Augusta, Ga., winding up winter activity.

It took Studebaker, the great independent, to build the FIRST really modern car!

IT HAD to be done—and Studebaker did it! Studebaker—the great independent of the automobile world—once again has set the pattern for car design for years ahead!

Today's new Studebaker—styled by Raymond Loewy—is Studebaker's answer to America's growing demand for lower cost motoring.

The speedlined new Studebaker silhouette is designed to save gasoline sensationally because it's free from power-wasting excess bulk. Studebaker has no "family" of cars to consider when it introduces a new model. Pace-setting Studebaker builds no other cars. Studebaker is completely independent.

That independence is the reason the far-advanced new 1954 Studebaker has swung on the scene so fast.

Drive the car! Get the proof! Get ahead of the parade—and get a '54 Studebaker. Don't settle for an old-fashioned "new" car this year. Get the out-ahead styling—the stand-out operating economy—of a Studebaker.

You're sure to get more for Studebaker's modern design when you trade.

Stop in at your nearby Studebaker dealer's showroom today. Examine the car. Go out for a ride. Check Studebaker's big visibility—its low-to-the-ground safety—its deep-down comfort—its superb performance and handling.

Slate Of Candidates Is Presented To Jaycees

Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce were presented a slate of candidates for officers in the organization by its nominating committee last night at the regular bi-monthly meeting.

The committee named two candidates for each office to be voted upon by Jaycees members.

Candidates named for president of the organization for the coming year were Walter Whitehurst and J. B. Kittrell Jr. In addition, a petition was presented to the club by Harry Douglas, placing Frank Dall in the race for president. Douglas said that he had 26 names on the petition. Jaycees by-laws require five names to nominate a candidate.

James Lanier and Don Callaway are to be candidates for the office of first vice-president and Sam White and Charles Howard for second vice-president.

In the race for secretary will be Clarence Johnson and Norman Wilkerson and running for treasurer, John Ray Hardee and Bill Hudson.

In the race for state director will be J. B. Smith and Clark Stokes.

The committee also named ten candidates for the five two-year terms open this year on the Board of Directors. They were: Ed Harris, Jack Richard, W. M. Scales, Bill Alden, Richard Briley, Jim Rogers, Charles Hudson, Frank Strawn, Jim Sutton, and Phil Moore.

For the one-year term on the Board of Directors the committee nominated Polly Williams and W. C. Taylor Jr.

The nominating committee's report was given by Charles Horne.

Three persons volunteered to assist J. B. Smith on the scrapbook committee. They were Harry Douglas, Lester Turnage and Polly Williams.

President Ben Rouse requested that a Jaycee volunteer to serve as coach of the Jaycee Little League baseball team this year since Ford McGowan, who has served as coach for the past several years had said that he could not serve this year.

Rouse also announced that the Jaycees would serve a fish stew supper for members on April 15.

In addition the group discussed plans for a minstrel show which the Jaycees are sponsoring and for the annual Ladies' Night.

Guests of the club last night included Herbert Lee, Pat Taylor, Fred Myers and Charles Graves.

It was also announced that Bruce Beddingfield, Allen Alcock and Robert Mesner had been voted into the club and would be inducted at the next meeting.

Scottish Rite Ladies Night Party Staged

By BOB BOYETTE
Reflector Staff Writer

Approximately 250 Scottish Rite Masons, wives, and guests heard a talk on the "Expanding Frontiers of Scottish Rite Masonry" at the Scottish Rite Ladies' Night Party held here last night at the Masonic Hall.

Also featured on the program was a ventriloquist and a banjo player. Ed Blair, Vanceboro High School principal and Knight Commander of the Scottish Rite Masonry, proved to be an able substitute for Rev. Thomas W. Fryer, who was scheduled to speak but could not come due to illness in his family.

Blair told the group that "as a Scottish Rite Mason one sees the peak of free Masonry." A man has not seen Masonry in its beauty unless he reaches Scottish Rite Masonry, he asserted.

In the talk Blair compared the climb in Masonry to the climb one might make on a beautiful mountain, and Scottish Rite as the top of the beautiful mountain.

"The teaching of Scottish Rite," he continued, "makes one recognize the evils of tyranny and oppression. Scottish Rite recognizes the forces of evil."

He illustrated his talk with references to great men in history who were Masons. He stated, "Scottish Rite Masonry is not new. It is the faith our first president knew. Members of the original Boston Tea Party dressed as Indians in their Masonic Lodge prior to their famous act. It was the faith of the writers of the Declaration of Independence, the Bill of Rights, and many others."

He continued by saying that it is woven into the fabric of this nation. "The lines of freedom are lines of Master Masonry," he added, "and the face of Scottish Rite Masons shows lines of freedom. A Scottish Rite Mason has the respect for the public school system and our freedom of religion."

Blair went on to tell the Masons, wives, and guests that "it is time that we go up on the mountain top and expand our frontiers. Scottish Rite unites men with different views and a Scottish Rite Mason sees human equality."

The Vanceboro principal concluded his talk by saying that Scottish Rite Masonry and religion have a definite connection. His last remark was, "There must be something attractive, admirable, lovable, and livable in Scottish Rite Masonry."

Ventriloquist
Young Jimmy Boswell of Wilson and his dummy, "Chuok," got their share of laughs with their ventriloquist act. Boswell and "Chuok," after discussing everything from sports to women, ended their part of the program with the song "I Love Girls."

Happy Sam, The Banjo Man
Happy Sam, the banjo man of New Bern was third featured part of last night's entertainment. Sam, who has a regular radio show on a New Bern station, sang various songs, told several jokes, and with the help of Big Steve Stevenson, also of New Bern, entertained the group.

Sam D. Bundy, Farmville High School principal and Scottish Rite Mason and also past District Deputy of the Fifth Masonic District, was master of ceremonies for the event.

Blair, the featured speaker was introduced by W. J. "Dick" Bundy, a 33rd Degree Mason, and brother of Sam Bundy.

Consultant Talks To Local Dealers

"How to get results out of people" was the topic of a talk given by T. N. Asbury Jr., consultant to the Southern Retail Furniture Association, at a luncheon meeting held by the Greenville Furniture Dealers Association yesterday.

Asbury explained that salary and wages were second only to purchasing in expenditure for the local retail furniture dealers, and it was best to know "how to get results out of the employees."

He explained to the dealers that experienced help cannot always be hired so an important phase is to find someone who has the capacity for the job as a retail furniture salesman.

In the description of what a person has to have in the way of "capacity for the job" Asbury said the salesman must have the right personality, financial habits, moral habits, be the right age, have the right education and should have some experience in the retail selling field.

"Next, after the manager of a store is sure the man has the capacity the proper selection can be made," he continued.

Third, Asbury pointed out that a training program should bring out the ability of the salesman by bringing out his attitude, his knowledge, and his skills. "Training can be continued by having sales meetings and explaining what is expected of the man."

"There must be an effective control over time," he stated, "and by time I mean the amount of time a salesman has to reach a certain goal or quota."

Supervision is of vital importance, the consultant continued, so the manager must know how to get along with people and have the skill of leadership.
