Goldsboro Rocked By Explosion Stores Wrecked Toll Is Uncertain

A terrific explosion rocked the Goldsboro business district at 1:45 this afternoon killing at least one person and injuring an undetermined number of others.

The explosion occurred in Edwards and Jernigan Furniture Store which was completely demolished. An adjoining TV store was also destroyed.

Bill Justice, reporter of the Goldsboro News-Argus said:

"Every one of the store fronts in the business district were completely blown out. It seemed as if the whole town was going to be blown up and lifted off the map."

It was estimated that some six employees, and probably six customers were in the store at the time of the explosion. The body of one woman who had not been identified was brought out of the wreckage about 3:30, and a Negro man, seriously injured was brought from the demolished building.

Eleven persons in addition to those in the furniture store were listed as injured.

Firemen from Goldsboro, Wilson, and Seymour-Johnson air base are battling the flames which resulted from the explosion.

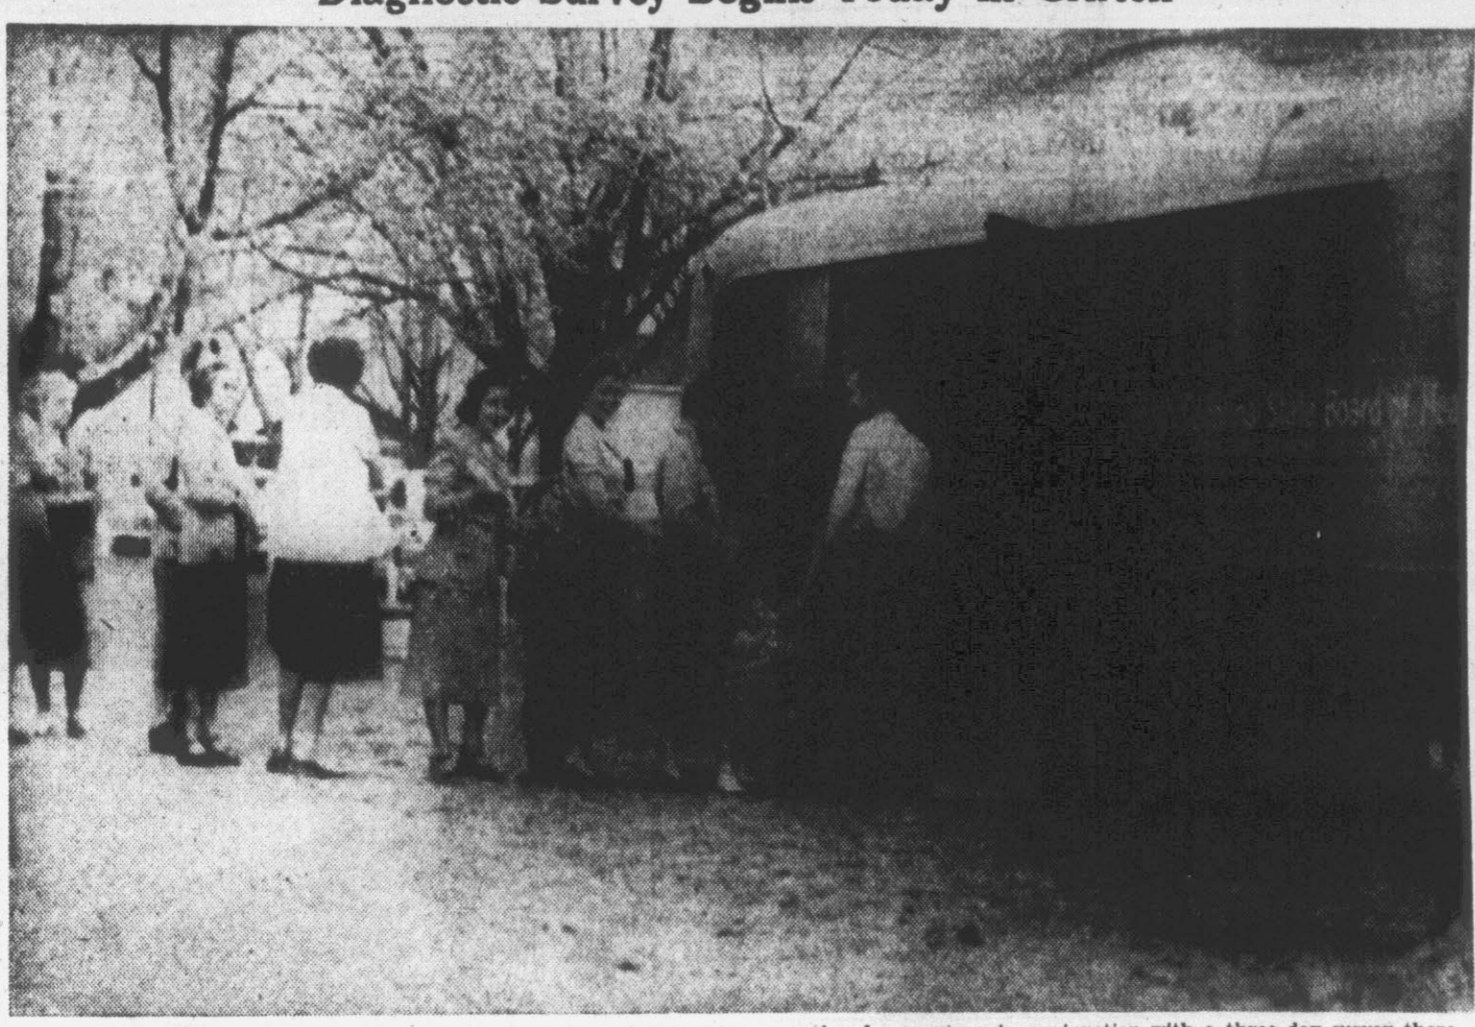

Nine of the 11 people who were reported at first to be injured were in a restaurant across the street from the furniture store at the time of the blast.

Justice said the man who operates a feed store across the street from the furniture store said he was at the telephone at the time of the explosion. "He was knocked down," Justice said, "when he got up he said there was nothing but a cloud of dust. He said he saw a brick wall collapse on a Negro boy, and saw the boy trying to struggle free."

"I just returned from the scene," the reporter said, "and there chairs, and refrigerators blown all the way across the street."

The cause of the explosion has not been determined.

Firemen were continuing to battle the flames and rescue workers were attempting to search the wreckage to find possible victims of the explosion. One report said the shock of the blast was felt as far as 23 blocks away from the furniture store.

Grifton citizens are waiting to enter the State Board of Health's x-ray bus for an x-ray in conjunction with a three-day survey there this week. The survey is being made to determine the amount of blastomycosis in the Grifton area. Skin tests will also be made. Eleven cases of blastomycosis have been diagnosed in the Grifton area, but it is reported that the disease is not contagious and is easily cured if discovered in its early stages. ### Boys Released

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said today Romania has released two young Georgescu boys—once held as hostages in an effort to force their father to spy for the Communists.

The boys, Constantin, 20, and Peter, 14, have been flown to West Germany and have been reunited with their father in Munich.

Their father is Valeriu Georgescu, a naturalized American of Romanian descent who lives in New York.

He charged last May that a member of the Romania legation here offered to help release the boys if he spied for the Communists.

Georgescu, former manager of Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey properties in Romania, rejected the deal.

Spokesmen Dubious Over Military Unbalance Oppose Stressing H-Bomb

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) said today it would be foolish for Congress to place too much dependence on the hydrogen bomb and unbalance the nation's military strength by cutting funds for conventional weapons.

Similar doubts about overstressing the H-bomb were voiced by Sen. Anderson (D-NM) and AFL President George Meany.

Russell, senior Democrat on the Senate Armed Services Committee and a member of the Senate House Atomic Energy Committee, said in an interview he is "uneasy" about the Eisenhower administration's proposal to reduce the ground forces.

Neither, he said, is he satisfied with the amount of funds Congress has been asked to make available for the Air Force.

But he conceded that scattered Democratic protests against a proposed slash of about five billion dollars in over-all military funds are not likely to be effective.

He said President Eisenhower's prestige as a military man probably will defeat efforts to change budget figures.

Eisenhower has told Congress that the "new look" military program of major reliance on air power and new weapons justifies a reduction in defense outlays. He said that while Army divisions might be reduced they would be more mobile, "harder-hitting" and more dangerous to an enemy.

Meany, however, said yesterday that the "new look" should be altered so as to increase, rather than cut down, the number of U. S. troops in Europe and Asia.

Writing in the AFL's monthly magazine, the labor leader said the "new look" itself needs "a most searching look" because "the Democratic countries must spare no effort to strengthen their collective security systems in Europe in the Near East and in Asia."

Anderson's comment about the H-bomb came during a televised panel discussion yesterday in which he declared the mighty new superweapon is not the answer to all military problems.

"Does the H-bomb mean anything in Indochina?" he asked. "It means nothing. It is not suited for that kind of warfare."

"What France does to ward granting freedom to the people in Indochina is more important now than the size of the H-bomb."

Russell said he, for one, believes that the Air Force ought to get more funds. But he said such an increase ought not to be at the expense of the army.

Britons Divided Over Promising Unity In Indochina Dulles Presses Sec. Eden

LONDON (AP)—U. S. Secretary of State Dulles pressed British Foreign Secretary Eden in person today to join him in an immediate public promise of "united action" if Red Chinese troops enter the Indochina war.

As the two statesmen met at Britain's Foreign Office, Prime Minister Churchill's government was reported willing to join in such tough talk—but only if the Russians and the Chinese show at the Geneva conference opening April 26 they are not willing to negotiate a peace in Asia.

The American secretary puts his arguments directly to Churchill tonight, when he dines with the Prime Minister at No. 10 Downing St.

Britain's opposition Labor party, meanwhile, stepped up demands that Churchill tell Dulles not "a single British man or gun" would be used in Indochina.

Across the Channel in Paris, where Dulles flies tomorrow to urge his view on Premier Joseph Laniel and Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, the French Cabinet was reported fearful that strong public words to the Reds now would doom in advance any chance of negotiating an Indochinese peace in Geneva.

That also is the British government's view.

Dulles flew here yesterday from Washington to press his contention that the West can negotiate with the Communists in Geneva only from a "position of strength," and that such a position can be reached only through the strong declaration of united action.

On his arrival yesterday he and Eden displayed no evidence of any rift in their airport statements.

Dulles said he was sure his talks with the British leaders "in great intimacy . . . will prove profitable to both our countries as well as others." Eden remarked:

"I am confident that the work that we shall have to do together will be of service not only to each other's country but to the understanding and peace of the world."

The two diplomatic chiefs began their discussions informally last night at dinner at the home of U. S. Ambassador Winthrop Aldrich.

The labor attack on the U. S. secretary's visit was spearheaded by John Strachey, minister of war in the Labor government, and Jennie Lee, member of Parliament and wife of the party's left-wing leader, Aneurin Bevan.

"For us to agree with America in attacking the Chinese mainland would be insanity itself," Strachey told a party rally. "That would be the royal road to a third world war and a third world war now means certain extermination for the British people."

Miss Lee told another party meeting:

"We must tell Dulles that we cannot take a stand on Indochina . . . If there are certain Americans who are now wondering whether they are going to drop a hydrogen bomb on the mainland of China or in Indochina, they have to be told quite clearly they cannot continue that policy and hope for the continued friendship and cooperation of the British people."

Accused Killer Arrested Sunday

FARMVILLE—Police Chief L. T. Lucas and Deputy Sheriff Jasper Lee Mills last night arrested a Negro wanted on a charge of murder in Baltimore.

Chief Lucas identified the man as Leroy Barnes, about 40, who he said had been living in Baltimore for several years. Lucas said Barnes was a native of Wilson.

Barnes was taken into custody last night at a house in the rural section between Toddy and Fountain. Chief Lucas said Barnes was alone in the house when he and Mills went to arrest him, and offered no resistance.

"He admitted he was wanted in Baltimore for murder," Lucas commented.

Chief Lucas said he was notified by Wilson police officers Sunday that they had information Barnes was in the vicinity of Farmville.

Baltimore officers have been notified of Barnes' arrest, the Farmville police chief said, and they are expected to come to Farmville to get Barnes within the next few days. Barnes is being held in the Farmville jail.

Claim 100,000 Chinese In Area

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Nationalist Chinese government news outlets today carried reports that up to 100,000 Communist Chinese soldiers are in the rebel Vietminh area of Indochina.

A Defense Ministry spokesman said: "It is quite possible but the ministry cannot confirm or deny it."

Charge Shotgun Fired At House

Nelson Ray Floyd, Negro of the Station's Mill section of Pitt County, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Lloyd Manning Saturday afternoon on charges of assault with a deadly weapon.

Manning said Floyd was charged with firing a shotgun at the house of Louis Person, another Negro of the section. Manning said Floyd was placed in jail, but was released under bond.

Brownell Takes Law Program To House Committee Outlines New Security Bills

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell, with an appeal to the nation behind him, today takes to Capitol Hill his program for new laws to destroy the Communist party in this country.

He arranged to meet with a House Judiciary subcommittee which is considering anti-Red legislation, in the wake of his nationwide radio-TV address undertaken Friday night at the request of President Eisenhower.

The attorney general then said the FBI and the Justice Department and the courts are doing a good job in dealing with the Red menace at home. But he declared new laws are needed "to destroy by legal, orderly processes the Communist party in this country."

He proposed statutes to:

1. Do away with Communist control "of any industrial organization or labor union" in vital sections of the nation's economy.
2. Impose the death penalty for peacetime spying as well as wartime, and erase the statute of limitations which now bans prosecution for espionage after a certain number of years.
3. Take away the citizenship of any person found guilty of advocating violent overthrow of the government.

While both Republicans and Democrats in Congress applauded the general objectives in Brownell's report, it remained far from clear whether his requests for legislation would win passage in the form he wants—or whether they would get any action at all.

Early Skirmish Seen Prelude To November Vote Illinois Primary Is Watched

CHICAGO (AP)—The first political skirmish to pick candidates for the crucial November battle over control of Congress, reaches a showdown tomorrow in the Illinois primary.

From the standpoint of national interest, the main result will be to tap a Republican for an attempt to tip Democrat Paul H. Douglas out of his Senate seat. Nine candidates are scuffling for the GOP senatorial nomination.

Joseph T. Meek and Edward A. Hayes are regarded as the top contenders. Between the two, observers are inclined to give Meek a shade the better of it.

Meek heads the Illinois Federation of Retail Associations. Hayes is a former national commander of the American Legion.

The nation's first primary tomorrow will determine, too, whether 10 House members, four of them chairmen of major committees, will get a chance to run again in November.

Over the country, politicians are eyeing the primary for straws in the wind. But they may have to strain to detect any real trends, any significant midwestern sentiment on national issues, or any clear signs of approval or disapproval of what the Eisenhower administration and Congress are doing.

Various candidates have been bringing up such questions as farm and employment problems or thundering against sending any Americans to fight in Indochina. But voters seem to be more interested in local issues, and races involving city and county offices and seats in the state legislature.

Republican rivalries are attracting the major claim to attention since none of the Democratic candidates involves any statewide balloting. Sen. Douglas has no challenger in the primary.

Within the Illinois congressional delegation, nine of the 16 Republican House members are bucking primary opposition but only one of the nine Democrats has any competition.

All 26 incumbent congressmen look like fairly safe bets to win re-nomination. That includes, of course, the committee chairmen, Harold H. Velde of the Un-American Activities Committee, Leo E. Allen of the Rules Committee, Robert B. Chipperfield of Foreign Affairs and Chauncey W. Reed of Judiciary. Plus Sid Simpson of the District of Columbia Committee, who has no opposition.

Reed isn't particularly alarmed about a pair of GOP rivals.

Chipperfield and Allen have been up against somewhat stiffer competition.

Prison Authorities Seek To Fix Blame For Death Row Escape

TRENTON, N. J. (AP)—Authorities today sought to fix blame for the remarkable escape from Trenton State Prison's death row of a condemned killer who later was shot to death by a tower guard.

Two other condemned slayers helped John L. Vaszorich in his Saturday night break—the first from the prison death house in 32 years. But the 24-year-old prisoner was cut down by submachine gun bullets before he could reach the 30-foot walls to freedom.

Vaszorich was scheduled to be electrocuted the week of April 25 for a 1951 robbery slaying. He died early yesterday with three .45 caliber submachine gun bullets in his body.

One guard was suspended yesterday in the wake of a preliminary inquiry. Officials hinted that additional guards might be relieved of duty.

John I. Van Note, 54, of Trenton, a death house guard 15 years, was suspended by Sanford Bates, commissioner of the State Department of Institutions and Agencies, pending completion of the probe.

The guard told authorities he was held captive for almost three hours while Vaszorich picked the lock of the cell. But Bates said Van Note's story contained defects that "just don't make sense."

A tower guard spotted Vaszorich crouching on top of the roof of the prison laundry—about half a city block from the death house—and shouted a warning for him to come down. The Ocean Grove killer refused, and the guard opened fire. Vaszorich fell 15 feet to the ground, with slugs in his arm, leg and side.

Vaszorich made his break from the death house by overpowering Van Note. The prisoner, complaining of a headache, had asked the guard for aspirin Saturday evening.

As Van Note handed him two tablets, Vaszorich lunged at him and pinned the guard's arm against the bars.

Then the two other condemned killers, Silvia de Vita, 23, and Joseph Grillo, 24, both of Newark, pitched it to help Vaszorich.

Authorities said De Vita, two cells away from Vaszorich, hooked a corner of a corridor desk with a mop he had in his cell. He pulled the desk to his cell and got a pair of pliers and a screwdriver from a drawer.

De Vita passed the tools to Grillo in the cell next to Vaszorich's. Grillo in turn handed them to Vaszorich.

Philippines Hesitate In Decision Over Indochina

MANILA (AP)—President Ramon Magsaysay called time out today in the face of an apparent choice between backing the United States in a warning to Red China to stay out of the Indochina war or splitting his troubled administration deeper.

Magsaysay has said Philippines requires it to join "other free nations . . . in resisting Communist aggression in Southeast Asia."

However, the administration's foreign policy spokesman, Sen. Claro M. Recto, has said the question of which way Indochina goes is "none of the Philippines' business."

After a top policy meeting yesterday—with Recto excluded—Magsaysay said he will seek an immediate conference with the United States on the Indochina problem.

He did not say yes or no to the proposal of U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles for a united front against Red domination of Indochina.

However, Vice President Carlos P. Garcia asked for a definite choice before Saturday, when he leaves for the Geneva conference on Korea and Indochina.

Magsaysay obviously was in the midst of a chips-down struggle for power with the Recto faction of the administration Nacionalista party less than four months after his inauguration.

Prosperity, Communist Threat Cited As Keys Hall Undercores 2 Issues

NEW YORK (AP)—Chairman Leonard W. Hall of the Republican National Committee said today the results of November's elections will hinge on two issues—"how we insure prosperity and how we meet the Communist threat."

Continued GOP control of Congress is at stake this year, and Hall said "the voters will turn away from any party or any man who does not face both issues squarely, frankly and unashamedly of the record."

"I say to you the Republican party is the only political organization in this country that has consistently recognized the menace of communism in its proper scope worldwide," Hall said in remarks prepared for a luncheon meeting of the Women's National Republican Club.

"You have an administration which has the will, demonstrated by performance, to keep the initiative we have seized from the global Communist conspiracy."

Hall said yesterday he expects President Eisenhower to be a candidate for re-election in 1956. "I certainly think so," he replied to a question on a radio-television program, without elaborating. The President has repeatedly declined to discuss his plans for 1956.

Today, the GOP chairman said that Communists in this country are a segment of the larger problem, but that the weapons needed to fight them are the same as those which must be employed on the global front: "Awareness, courage and the support of the people."

Hall maintained that the nation's economy is sound and prosperous and said "professional mourners (and) oracles of despair . . . are trying to 'talk' us into depression for their selfish political gain."

He continued:

"We are opening up an era of security, of prosperity with peace—not in the sig-sag, crisis-to-crisis manner of the past generation—but in a long pull program made possible by enlightened leadership."

"To succeed at this noble objective we require a team, and the Congress is a vital element of our team. Failure to produce Republican majorities in this crucial year would be to barely glimpse this new era, then murder it in infancy."

Pre-Easter Services Are Held This Week

Union services under the sponsorship of the Interdenominational Youth Council of Greenville are being held each morning this week at 8 o'clock at St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

The morning services are being held in celebration of Holy Week in conjunction with Youth Week which has been designated in the various Protestant Churches of the city.

Services this morning were under the direction of the youth group of the First Presbyterian Church of the city. Tuesday's services will be under the leadership of the youth group of the Free Will Baptist Church; Wednesday under the leadership of the youth of the Eighth Street Christian Church; Thursday under the leadership of the youth group of Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church.

Each of the daily services will be centered around the happenings of that day recorded in the Biblical account of Holy Week. The theme for the week of services is "So Send I You."

On Good Friday, the services will be held at noon rather than at 8 a.m. On this day commemorating the sacrificial death of Jesus Christ for the sins of mankind, Greenville teenagers will meet in a service of self-denial, "in remembrance of Him."

The week's services will be culminated in a Vesper Service Sunday evening at 6 o'clock at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. After joining together for a bag supper, the youths will hear an Easter message by the Rev. E. Lee Willingham, minister of Hollywood and Chloed Presbyterian Churches. Speaking on the subject, "So Send I You," the Rev. Willingham will speak on the theme of the death and resurrection of Christ.

Curtis Patterson Jr., president of the Interdenominational Youth Council of Greenville, urged all young people of Greenville and surrounding area to "attend these Holy Week services and find a new meaning in the familiar Easter story."

Three Auto Accidents On Pitt Roads Over Weekend

Leroy T. Cherry of 41 Mumford Road was injured Sunday morning when his car crashed into a tree about a mile south of Winterville.

Cherry received a head injury, mouth injuries, possible rib fractures, and lacerations of the chest and knee in the crash.

The injured man was traveling toward Greenville when the accident occurred about 7:15 Sunday morning. His car evidently went off the right side of the road, swerved back on and then went off the left side of the highway, hitting the tree, according to investigating Patrolman James W. Boykin. He said his investigation is incomplete. The car received about $500 damage.

At 4:45 Sunday afternoon a car driven by Charles P. Harrison of New Bern ran off the road on N. C. 48 and overturned in a ditch. Harrison's mother, Mrs. Dannie Mae Harrison, was slightly injured in the crash. She was trapped in the car for about 15 minutes. The accident occurred about one mile south of Greenville and damage to the car amounted to approximately $300.

The accident was investigated by Patrolman Jim Davis and no charges were placed.

About 7:30 this morning a vehicle operated by Silvig Irvin Peresie of Cherry Point went off the road on 25 and traveled 80 yards down a ditch. John Conry, a passenger in the vehicle, was slightly injured and was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital. Patrolman Davis, who investigated, said that his investigation is incomplete. The accident occurred on N. C. 11 about four miles north of Greenville.

Greenville Is Topic Of Talk At Lector Club

The Lector Book Club met on Tuesday afternoon, March 30, with Mrs. John A. Collins Jr. on Elm St. Beautiful spring flowers decorated the lovely home.

Mrs. E. S. Flanagan, president, called the meeting to order, and roll call was read and the minutes read and approved. Following a brief business session, the program for the afternoon was turned over to Mrs. Burney Warren Jr., who gave the club members an interesting talk on "Our Town of Greenville."

Mrs. Warren reminded everyone that Greenville is now the educational and one of the most important commercial centers in the coastal plain section of North Carolina.

Religious life has been rich in growth, with practically all denominations represented in the 18 churches for whites and 12 for Negroes. It should be mentioned here that Greenville is the birthplace of the N. C. Baptist Convention, organized in the early 1800s.

Educational facilities, which today rank very high, have been acquired by struggle and great effort on the part of pioneer educators.

Greenville is expanding industrially, having over 50 manufacturing and industrial plants. It is not only a highly regarded commercial city, but its cultural and educational advantages, together with its splendid citizens, present to all of us a splendid community in which to live and work together.

After the program, Mrs. Collins served a delicious salad course with coffee.

Books were exchanged and the meeting adjourned.

The United States produced about 513 billion kilowatts of electricity last year.

For More Than 35 Years Has Been Publishing Ozark Newspaper

MISS MAUD ... Still going strong at 80.

By HAROLD HART
AP Newsfeature
WINSLOW, Ark. — The little lady sits huddled at the type case, meticulously assembling the weekly Winslow American with a dexterity belying her 80 years.

Outside a raw wind blows across the face of Boston Mountain, rattling the sideboards of the tiny print shop. A scant 50 feet away U.S. Highway 71 curbs northward to Fayetteville, 20 miles away.

Here on the "top of the Ozarks," highest mountain range between the Alleghenies and the Rockies, twice-widowed Mrs. Maud Duncan has for more than 35 years been publishing "as respectable a paper as possible."

The decision wasn't too difficult to make, she recalls, but circumstances rather than choice resulted in her becoming an editor and publisher.

Mrs. Duncan's husband, who founded the paper, died Nov. 18, 1918. She wrote his obituary and took over as editor, publisher, printer, circulation and advertising manager and "newsboy."

"Sometimes I think of giving up the paper," she says, "but folks say 'Oh, Miss Maud, don't give up the newspaper. We need the paper.'"

The circulation list numbers about 500, paying $1 a year. The sprightly Miss Maud interrupts her type setting long enough to throw another stick of wood into the pot-bellied stove. Nearby stands the ancient, foot-pedaled job press on which the four to six-page tabloid is printed. She says:

"Mr. Duncan was my second husband. He started the paper Sept. 1, 1908. I was a registered pharmacist. He was a newspaperman. We used to joke that he was a flunky in the drugstore and I was the printers' devil on the paper."

"When he thought things were wrong, he did something about it. Any murders? Mountain feuds? 'Oh, no,' she says.

"There's been nothing really distressing except sickness and death to write about."

Mrs. Duncan and the Winslow American have become quite a tourist attraction. On days when a warm summer sun bathes the Ozarks, the great and just average citizens stick their heads in the door, sign the register and marvel that so much can be done with so little.

How does an 80-year-old woman editor feel about any attempts to harness freedom of the press?
"My oh my, it wouldn't do at all! It would be Russia over here. We don't want anything like that in these United States of ours. It just wouldn't be a free country."

April 12, 1924

On last Thursday afternoon from four to six o'clock Miss Novella Moye charmingly entertained at bridge in honor of Miss Hortense Higgs, bride-elect.

The entire lower floor of the home was beautifully decorated with spring flowers. Easter place cards were used. After many interesting progressions, prizes were presented to the guests who cut highest at each table. These were baskets decorated with rabbits and filled with candy. Miss Higgs was presented a dainty piece of lingerie. Miss Snodde Moore was awarded the high score prize and Miss Janie Lyerly the consolation. Mrs. Dall Laughinghouse and Miss Mary C. Howard, of Tarboro, honor guests were presented prizes.

A delicious ice course was served.

Women In The Church

According to a United Nations announcement, that body's Children's Fund is now the means of training hundreds of native young women as nurses—a service that in many of these lands had been in the hands only of missionaries for many years. Says the U.N.: "Bright-eyed Indian women, schoolbooks tucked gracefully under their saris, are crowding Lady Reading Health School these days, while faraway Sao Luis, Brazil, points with pride to the primly-uniformed ladies now passing nutrition and child-delivery exams at Maranhao State Hospital. They are generations overdue. These dedicated young women are the hope of rural areas where the big obstacle to establishing health service for millions of mothers and children has been lack of trained personnel. This year, they and some 4,000 others will enter UNICEF-equipped nursing and midwifery schools in fifteen countries to help fill the ranks. For many, the step means breaking with a traditionally sheltered life, or postponing marriage for years of hard work, frugal pay. The zealots are still far short of the mammoth numbers needed—but their spirit is catching. In 1953, enrollments were up 50 percent, and are still climbing."

Nine work camps, two of them outside the United States are being sponsored by the Methodist Church's Boards of Missions, Education, and Evangelism. For college students beyond their sophomore year, these camps offer summer service project opportunities to young men and women who wish to spend useful summers in an experiment in Christian fellowship. For information on an interdenominational work camp for migrants in California, and Methodist camps in a mining area of Kentucky, the Rio Grande Valley in Texas, rural churches in South Dakota, urban churches in Washington, D.C., Chicago, Ill., and New York, N.Y., write the Rev. R. C. Singleton, Board of Missions, 20 Fifth Avenue, New York 11, N.Y. Application for the Cuba and Mexico work camps should be addressed to Dr. Harvey C. Brown, Box 871, Nashville, Tennessee.

About three-fifths of U.S. men from 65 to 69 years old are employed.

Lung Cancer Deaths In Men Rising Fast
NEW YORK (AP)—The American Cancer Society reports that deaths from lung cancer in men have risen 500 per cent in the past 20 years but it says science has not discovered the cause.
In its annual report yesterday the society said it "takes the position that the causes of this rise have not yet been demonstrated scientifically."

"Perhaps the best way to express the society's attitude," it continued, "is to say that some evidence placed cigarette smoking on the scene of the crime but the evidence is not strong enough to convict it. Other data link air pollution to lung cancer."
An immense study of 204,000 men and their smoking habits has been undertaken the society said, to see "if there is a statistical relation between lung cancer and smoking."

Obscure Bloc Threatens Farm Program

Congressman Herbert Bonner asserted the State Department is not doing right by the farm program in holding vast quantities have pushed their efforts to snatch the selling them at competitive prices in the world market.

That assertion might well be given careful consideration, particularly by the people of an agricultural region who are interested in the continuation of the federal farm program.

Bonner, in his address at Farmville last Wednesday, declared the State department which controls sales of surplus farm goods in this nation, has taken the position that the United States should stand back from the sale of surplus goods in the world market in order to allow other nations which

No Place For Pressure From Washington

Alleged interference from Washington over the calling of a youngster classified 1-A by the Mecklenburg draft board has resulted in the resignation of the entire board.

If, as the resigned members of the board assert, an order from the nation's capital prevented their carrying out their obligation and responsibilities fairly as they believe they should, no one can blame them from resigning their positions.

In spite of the fact that political pressure is exerted at times in the interest of individuals, it is a most undesirable thing whether it pertains to military service or any other matter. The selective service law was passed with the intention that every person, regardless of the amount of political pressure he could muster from various sources, be fed out of the same spoon.

Obviously it is the duty of every local draft board which is conscientious about its responsibilities, to carry out its duties without partiality to any individual. Certainly there is no place for orders from Washington demanding that any local draft board give partial consideration to any person under its jurisdiction.

With public confidence in the entire operations of selective service at stake, the Mecklenburg matter should be cleared up immediately.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
NEW DAY OF POWER

We live in an age in which "power" is the key word. The industrial revolution came about as the result of the release of mechanical power to take the place of man power. First came steam, then electricity, now atomic power.

Yet not a single new power has been added to the physical universe. These powers were here millions and perhaps billions of years ago; we have only recently discovered them. The electrical wizard Steinmetz declared that the next step in discovery would be in the field of the spirit.

Think about this for a moment. Round about us are spiritual forces—and probably personalities—which undoubtedly exert upon us a prodigious influence. The Bible is humanity's spiritual textbook. It tells us that vast reservoirs of power are available and that we tap these reservoirs by means of faith. We cannot see or handle spiritual forces. The techniques of science do not apply to them. These powers are available to us, but only if we will exercise a sixth sense, namely faith, and if we will employ the techniques definitely set forth in the Word of God.

We strive to release more physical power through the breaking of the atom. What the world needs most of all is the spiritual power available through faith and the employment of spiritual disciplines.

McCarthy's Profitable Years

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Senator "Joe" McCarthy began his fairly heavy and apparently profitable stock market speculations four years before he entered the Senate and eight years before wealthy anti-Communist friends began to contribute generously and unquestioningly to his one-man pursuit of Reds in government. Friendly officials in his bank at Appleton, Wis., financed his first known investments.

In 1942, when he was a State Judge earning $7,397 a year, he invested $2,000 on a 40 per cent margin with his home-town broker, Wayne Hummer & Co. A year later, he had realized a net profit of $40,561.67. He did not report this income in 1943, when he was with the Marines, although his profits and dividends gave him a taxable income of $41,854.67.

It was not until 1947 that Uncle Sam caught up with him, and assessed him $3,500 on his 1943 income. As a result of this action, the Wisconsin tax authorities socked him for $2,499.54 and $218.32 in interest. He made no income tax report for 1944-49, inclusive, and his failure to do so may still be under investigation by Internal Revenue.

BANK LOAN OVER LEGAL LIMIT—On leaving the Marines in 1944, he re-entered the market. Again a judge, he borrowed $1,800 in February of 1945. Six months later, the bank loaned him an additional $73,992. He made large security purchases with $15,900 which he withdrew from his brokerage account.

By December, 1945, he had reduced his bank loan to $20,364. But late in that month, the bank loaned him $149,175.08 to buy 4,000 shares of common stock in the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad, which he pledged as security.

On December 21, 1945, he owed $169,540.70 to the bank, although the limit on loans to one individual is $100,000 under Wisconsin law. On December 26, 1945, the bank shifted $69,540.70, the excess over $100,000, to the account of H. F. McCarthy, the Senator's brother.

need to stabilize their economy wider markets for their own sales.

In the meantime, surpluses which have brought criticism on the federal farm program are continuing to pile up.

Someone should be called on to explain why the State Department has not seen fit to spend $6 billion which Congress appropriated in order that surplus farm goods could flow into the world market at competitive prices. An explanation is likewise needed for the unspent $200 million dollars appropriated for State Department distribution of surplus goods.

It is noble of the State Department to foster a policy which will help other nations of the world stabilize their own economies; but should such a policy be carried to the point where it threatens the stability of an important portion of our domestic economy in the U. S.? The answer is an emphatic NO.

The State Department in its policies must concern itself with the welfare of our allies overseas, but it can not divorce itself from concern over how its policies for dealing in the world market affects our economy at home.

To work and work as it should, every phase of the farm program must be carried out properly. The failure of the State Department to carry out its portion of the operations of the program can wreck it just as surely as the failure of the farmers to carry out their part of the program.

No Reason For Another "Compromise War"

Are we on the brink of entering the war against the communists in Indochina by committing troops to battle there?

That question is getting kicked around from the street corner to Capitol Hill.

President Eisenhower, even before he became President, asserted the free world can not afford to let Indochina fall into the hands of the communists, because with it would go a vital part of Asia which so far has been kept outside the communist circle of conquest.

The importance of Indochina has not lessened since that statement was made. Conditions there, however, have begun to look darker for the free world as communists have pushed their efforts to snatch the country from French forces.

American supplies have been flowing to the forces fighting against the communist in Indochina, and there is talk of more goods and materiel being sent. There is even talk of sending American troops into battle there.

If the time does come when it is deemed necessary to send American troops into battle in Indochina, there must be some clearly defined objectives and resolute decisions made by Congress and the American people.

There is no use fighting another "compromise war" in Indochina as we have done in Korea. We have Panmunjom and Munich to look to if we need refresh bitter memories of unsuccessful attempts at appeasing international bandits.

McCARTHY'S BANK ACCOUNTS SOARED—Although McCarthy reported no taxable income for 1945-49, when he was a Judge for one year and a Senator for three, the bank loaned him sums ranging from $50,000 to $70,000. It frequently used funds in the name of his brother or Ray Kiermas, a staff aide and personal friend, as security for these obligations.

But it was not until after his February, 1950, attack on Communists in government that his bank accounts soared. For 1950-52, inclusive, McCarthy banked $117,833.07 at a Washington institution. Kiermas deposited $73,114.53 during the same period. By now, Texas multimillionaires and $5 well wishers were forwarding money to him.

Both McCarthy and Kiermas have refused to discuss their finances before a Senate Subcommittee on Privileges and Elections, which raised the question of whether the Senator had used anti-Communist contributions for private purposes.

DREW SUBCOMMITTEE FIRE—Two McCarthy deals drew the subcommittee's special fire. They questioned his ethics in accepting financial favors from interests over which he had legislative jurisdiction and responsibility.

He took $10,000 from the Lustron prefabricated housing firm for writing a pamphlet advocating their product. He was then a member of the Banking and Currency Committee, which passed upon the lending operations and activities of RFC and housing agencies of the government.

He persuaded Russell M. Arundel to endorse a $20,000 note in 1947. Arundel is a soft beverage lobbyist who was then demanding removal of Federal controls on sugar. McCarthy vigorously supported the Arundel proposal.

At the time of both the housing and sugar transactions, the Appleton bank was urging McCarthy to reduce or liquidate his indebtedness because of complaints from state bank examiners.

Discounts And Sales

By ELMER RIESNER

The importance of cash discounts to retailers is illustrated again by the annual survey of department-store operations by the Controllers' Congress of the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

In general, cash discounts were larger than net profit after taxes.

This does not mean that the typical store would have lost money if it had not taken any cash discounts, but it does indicate that profits would have been impaired seriously without those discounts.

For instance, in one category of store management earned cash discounts equal to 2.6 per cent of sales. In this category net profits before Federal income taxes were 5 per cent of sales and after taxes, 2.4 per cent. Without the discounts, the net before taxes would have been cut in half, and the net after taxes reduced to the neighborhood of 1.2 per cent of sales.

The net of 2.4 per cent of sales was the average of 228 department and specialty stores, as well as the category cited above. This was unchanged from 1952.

This net would have been even less if not for other income, such as from leased departments. As it was, the average store made 3.3 per cent of sales. This was swelled to 5 per cent by other income and then shrunk to 2.4 per cent by Federal taxes.

To the shopper, the Controller's figures mean this: On each $10 purchase, the store paid $6.39 for the goods, $1.85 for wages and salaries, and $1.43 for rent, heat and other operating expenses, leaving 33 cents profit before taxes. To this the store was able to add 27 cents from other income, making 50 cents. Of this it paid 26 cents to Uncle Sam and kept 24 cents.

Labor and all other categories of operating expenses rose during 1953; this was offset by larger mark-ons, so that both net income and physical volume was about the same in 1953 as in 1952.

FEBRUARY HARDWARE SALES UP A BIT

Retail hardware sales were fractionally higher in February than a year earlier, the National Retail Hardware Association reports. The gain was 0.7 per cent and while the Association seems somewhat apologetic about the size, compared with a lot of other industries, the gain was tremendous.

PARKING LOT 'INDUSTRY' RATES AT $3 BILLION

Parking lot business is big-time stuff. The Urban Land Institute reports that providing downtown parking facilities is a $3 billion industry competing with other businesses for the best urban sites.

In a study for the Institute by J.F. Hendon and Howard D. Leake, it was found that most people want to park within at least 3 1/2 or 4 blocks of their destination. Patrons who park from 2 to 4 hours, mostly shoppers provide 84 per cent of the revenue for the typical lot, and overnight parkers provide 20 per cent of the revenue for the typical lot, and overnight parkers provide 20 per cent, the study found. Copies are available (at $1) from the Institute, 1737 K Street, N.W. Washington 6, D.C. FOUR OF TEN MANUFACTURERS SEE BUSINESS RISING

Four out of every 10 companies expect that production in the April-June quarter will be better than in the January-March period, according to a survey of 157 manufacturing companies by the National Industrial Conference Board. Fewer than two out of 10 expect their production to decline.

The Most Important People Of 1954--U. S. Sales Clerks

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — President Eisenhower and his Cabinet will not be the most important people of 1954. The Senators and Congressmen will not be the most important people of 1954.

And this same statement can be made regarding bankers and other big shots. Conditions often make presidents, but presidents cannot make conditions. SALES CLERKS DETERMINE 1954 EMPLOYMENT

The most important people during 1954 will be those now employed as salesmen, and especially the sales clerks in your stores. In previous years these people have not been so important; they served largely as "order takers," wrapping parcels and making change. But, conditions in 1954 will be different. They must create sales.

Fundamentally, prosperity and good times depend upon EMPLOYMENT which supplies the money to buy. But manufacturers cannot furnish employment without ORDERS for their goods. The orders depend upon the men and women at the counters of the stores. Prosperity or depression starts with the salesmen and sales clerks.

WHAT ABOUT ADVERTISING? I am a great believer in honest advertising. A merchant's success is very dependent upon his advertising. Advertising bears the same relation to profits for the merchant as fertilizer does for the farmer. Still, the farmer cannot depend solely upon his seed and fertilizer. He must cultivate, spray, and gather his crops.

The same is true of advertising. Although advertising is absolutely necessary and much more of it should be used in 1954, yet merchants cannot expect it to take the place of hard work. Customers need to be cultivated the same as do crops. Advertising will help get people into the store and interest them in certain products; but the SALE must be made by a man or woman employee.

MY FATHER WAS A STOREKEEPER

My father kept a dry goods, novelty, and sort of "variety store" in Gloucester, Mass. I worked in this store on Saturdays and during winter vacations. My father was very successful with this store, starting with nothing and becoming the leading merchant of Gloucester and vicinity.

He used to say to me: "Roger, when you grow up, either become a merchant or invest your money in good merchandising organizations, rather than in railroads or industrial promotions. A merchant with a fair turnover has nothing to fear and can always make money." But, my father was a good worker, at the store from 7:00 A.M. to 6:00 P.M., six days a week.

KNOWING EVERY CUSTOMER

My father was a deacon in the local church; he had a large Sunday School class. He was very much interested in knowing and helping people. There were no such things as card files in those days; but he kept a book listing the children of each customer and, especially, listing cases of sickness. Then, there were no trained nurses. Neighbors would volunteer to "watch" at night with the sick, accepting, of course, no pay. Every week my father would be away some night watching by the bedside of the husband of some humble customer.

Father trained his clerks to get truly acquainted with everyone who entered his store. He would constantly check on the clerks—not by asking: "Did you make a sale?" but by asking: "How many children has that woman? Is there illness in the family?" He not only was the city's most successful merchant, but at his funeral the church could not hold the people who loved him and who loved all who ever worked for him. He didn't have a private office up a flight of stairs in the back of the store. His desk was by the door so he could say "Good Morning" to all as they came in, and "Good Luck" as they left. Sales are made through FEELINGS rather than through FIGURES.

A SUGGESTION

I forecast that if all the Chambers of Commerce would operate properly led night schools for their local Sales Clerks, national purchasing would so increase that there need be no unemployment, the Federal budget could be balanced, and taxes could be reduced. America does not need more money, but it needs more confidence and friendliness so that the money we have will circulate more freely and more often.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET

STANDARDS — The dedication of the calibrating station of the weights and measures division in the State Department of Agriculture afforded occasion for several officials to review the history and progress of standardized measurement. The new station is primarily for the testing of volume and octane content of gasoline, which is only one of the many functions performed by the weights and measures division. Up to date as it is, the officials confessed the equipment does not meet perfection requirements. A 500-gallon tank, for example, admittedly may vary as much as 10 drops; and there might be discrepancy of three to five pounds in readings on the 30-ton

Standardized Measurement Milestone In North Carolina

Dr. A. V. Astin, chief of the Federal Bureau of Standards, spoke of the continuing efforts to reduce variance in lineal measurement below the presently attained degree of accuracy amounting to a millionth part of an inch. He suggested that the "wave length of light rays emitted by certain atoms under certain controlled conditions" may supply a new standard for length measurement.

HISTORY — LY. Ballentine, commissioner of agriculture, gave a brief history of the development of recognized standards of measurements. Surprisingly enough, the history dates back only 125 years.

The first article of the Federal Constitution, ratified in 1789, authorized the Congress to fix the standards of weights and measurements. It was not until 180 that the Congress got around to doing anything much about it. Then was adopted the avoirdupois pound, the 36-inch yard, and the gallon and bushel measurements as we now have them. Six years later the Congress directed the Secretary of the Treasury to furnish every state a complete set of weights and measures adopted as standard.

STATE — It was not until 30 years later, in 1866, that the General Assembly of North Carolina adopted the Federal standards as controlling in this State. From time to time during the following 60 years additional legislation was enacted, but not until 1927 was a regular division of weights and measures authorized.

Development of commerce and new inventions required more frequent additions to the law, one of the most important being in the field of motor fuels. Also the financing of operations of the division underwent numerous changes from fee basis to public service out of general fund appropriations.

Meantime activities expanded to include such intangibles as measuring electric energy and determining the octane content of gasoline. FUNCTIONS — C.D. Baucom, director of the weights and measures division, who has grown up with it from a two-man proposition in 1928 to its present importance, told something of what is being done now.

He noted that no purchase or sale of trade of any kind could be made without involving weight, measure or numerical count. The suit of clothes you wear, he said, includes wool by the pound, cloth by the yard, freight by the mile, labor by the hour and value in dollars by numerical count. What is being done to see that these measurements are kept true?

During an average month inspectors visit 5510 places of business; inspect 2391 scales; 10,191 gasoline and kerosene pumps; 1662 packages; analyze 9,413 samples of gasoline taken from more than 85 million gallons in storage by use of mobile laboratories and check nearly 5,000 samples of motor fuel at the central laboratory for octane rating, gum, etc.

ENFORCEMENT — The weights and measures folks not only have responsibility for keeping the pumps and scales and other measuring devices in order, but it often falls to their lot to institute prosecution of willful violators of the law. Prosecutions are never based on such insignificant variables as one-thousandth of an inch in measurement, or a few drops in 500 gallon tanks, but when evidence is clear that certain people are deliberately giving short weights the State inspectors take a hand.

PERSONALITIES — Sir Roger Makins, British ambassador to the United States, talked briefly with reporters during a pop-corn at Governor Umstead's office Friday. The distinguished diplomat was enroute to Chapel Hill to address the students that night.

He expressed interest in developments of atom and hydrogen bombs, but also is optimistic enough to think that despite the destructive potency of these devices "some of us will survive." . . . More than 1,000 school children trekked through the Governor's office within a few minutes the other morning. The photographer was a bit late—so Governor Umstead consented to walk out of his office and pose with the group from Oakwood School at Hickory in the rotunda of the capitol. If he's still running for office when those youngsters get old enough to vote he can count on them. . . . Walter Van Riper, former Republican attorney general of New Jersey, was visiting around Raleigh the other day and dropped by the Legation for Senate headquarters in the Sir Walter. He said he just wanted to see how Southern Democrats conduct political campaigns. He found the practices very much like those followed in New Jersey.

Put Your Fizzles On Open Shelf

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK, April 8—(AP)—If you have met with repeated failure in trying to get something from life, do you try to forget your own mistakes?

"Why not, instead, put your fizzles out in the open on a shelf—so you can keep learning from them?"

This theory helped Lloyd Preston Gardner, an RCA electronics engineer, to develop the world's most powerful vacuum tube. It took him 10 stubborn years and 2,000 separate fizzles to fall his way to victory.

The new super-tube—it has 2-937 near-embodies the U.S. Navy for the first time in its history to keep in instantaneous touch by wireless with any of its airplanes, surface vessels, submarines or land outposts anywhere in the world.

It is also used in secret government projects. It is a big step toward the automatic factory of the future, in which electronic equipment will take the place of many human workmen.

The "fizzle shelf" is not just a figure of speech with Garner, who is also a practical philosopher. The story of his own final success is dramatically told by a four-row glass fizzle shelf in his office which still holds the results of hundreds of adverse laboratory experiments.

"If we allow our failures to discourage us," said Garner, "it can only lead us to a mental graveyard. Our failures are our most potent teachers."

In 1933 Garner, who holds some 25 patents, was given a lab in the RCA plant at Lancaster, Pa., and a mission. The mission was to design and build a vacuum tube many times more powerful than any then known, a tube needed in high-speed military projects, a tube far surpassing the power requirements of television.

Most of the nine engineers on his staff were freshly out of college, and that gave Garner the idea for his fizzle display.

"We were heading into uncharted waters, and I knew rough sailing lay ahead—plenty of it," he recalled. "If I could keep my boys from becoming discouraged, from hiding their mistakes under a carpet, I knew they could make better progress."

"So I built those shelves and started with my own mistakes, accumulated over the years. "You'd be surprised how that perked them up. Just getting a look at something that baffled the boss put over the idea, better than words, that in this business your blunders are the stepping stones to success.

"But too often mistakes are sealed up in a box. That's what I wanted to get away from. "It's a darn nuisance to dig mistakes out of a box. It's a lot easier to have them out on a shelf where they can haunt you and stimulate you."

Soon there were a hundred new fizzles on the shelf. The number kept growing, but each time Garner told his staff patiently: "Put your fizzle on the shelf. Then we'll all sit down together and look at it. We'll try to figure out some way we can turn it from a failure to success."

Some visiting engineers shook their heads on seeing the crowded fizzle shelf. They felt almost as unprofessional as if a doctor, for example, should hang photographs of dead former patients in his waiting room.

Their criticism—some of it vocal—didn't dismay Garner. He still has his fizzle shelf, and confidently expects to add to it. It is a guarantee against making the same mistake twice.

"I was taught not to be ashamed of falling," he said. "There is no reason for either shame or humiliation. If things don't turn out as you expect."

"Even in simple experiments I'd say we get what we hope for only about 15 per cent of the time. But we wouldn't have the 15 per cent except for the experiments that are 85 per cent unsuccessful."

"That's why I say failure is our best teacher. If a man doesn't keep a museum of his failures—at least in his own mind—he's hiding from things that could help him most."

Garner, who is 50, is still a bachelor. "That's my biggest fizzle of all," he said, smiling wryly. "And how to turn that mistake into a profit baffles me. I love children dearly."

Is there any girl with shelf room for a pleasant-faced engineer with a steady job, 25 patents and brown eyes?

BOOKLET CHARTS COSTS OF STRIKES

A 16-page pamphlet that may blow down strikes has been published by the Bridgeport Manufacturers Association, 211 State St., Bridgeport 3, Conn. It consists of charts that show exactly how much an employee loses, at wages from $30 to $100 a week, for strikes of any duration, and how long it will take him to regain the total at wage increases of from 1 to 10 cents an hour.

For instance, if a worker earning $65 a week strikes for 14 weeks, he loses $910 in pay which, at an increased rate of 5 cents an hour, he can recoup in eight years, 39 weeks. Copies are 15 cents each, with discounts on bulk orders.

Senator Griswold Dies Early Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Dwight P. Griswold (R-Neb.), three times governor of his state and former director of the American aid mission to Greece, died early today after a heart attack. He was 60.

Death, attributed to a coronary occlusion, came shortly after midnight at the naval hospital at suburban Bethesda, Md. Mrs. Griswold was at the bedside.

Griswold had been in the Senate since January 1953. He was elected to fill out two years remaining in the term of the late Sen. Kenneth S. Wherry. He had not announced publicly whether he would seek reelection this fall but had told friends he expected to be a candidate.

No change in the political lineup of the Senate is likely. The governor of Nebraska, Robert C. Crosby, is a Republican and presumably will appoint a Republican successor to serve until the November election.

The Senate composition is now 46 Republicans, 46 Democrats and 1 Independent.

Sec. Dulles Energetic In His Pursuit Of U. S. Well-Being

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—It seems as if the sole test, John Foster Dulles already would be one of the most successful secretaries of state in American history.

Now 66, and in office less than 15 months, he has traveled more than four times the distance around the earth in pursuit of American well-being since he became secretary.

Now he's on a rush trip to London and Paris to be sure he and the British and French foreign ministers see eye-to-eye when they meet with the Russians and Chinese Communists in Geneva April 26.

Then he will fly back here, report to President Eisenhower and then turn around and fly to Geneva. Dulles' endurance has been impressive. Obviously, he's overworked.

But history, with icy detachment, will appraise him not on his energy or his earnestness but on his vision, his judgment and his backbone. All three face a major test at Geneva's conference on peace in Korea and Indochina.

More than peace in either place is involved. The Communists could consider the whole conference successful if they split the United States and France or, through propaganda, diminished this country's stature a little.

Since last summer there has been a truce in Korea but no peace. And in the eight-year-old war between the French and the Communist-led Vietminh in Indochina there is no sign of either truce or peace.

Peace in Korea seems impossible. The United States wants Korea united in free elections which the South Korean government, an American ally, would be sure to win if only because the South Koreans outnumber the North Koreans. It's hard to see the Communists buying that.

Somehow, perhaps, they might be willing to stop helping the Vietminh against the French, which would mean a French victory. Even that sounds like wishful thinking. But if they did, there's a price tag attached. What price?

The Chinese may have thought they could make a deal for themselves when their Russian ally arranged to let them sit in at Geneva, their first invitation to a conference of the big powers.

The United States doesn't recognize the Red Chinese government, and it has opposed Peiping's seating in the United Nations where Chiang Kai-shek's nationalistic regime sits as the recognized government of China.

The Chinese may have felt—but when anyone suggests this he's guessing—that for some concessions on Korea or Indochina they could get recognition by the United States and a seat in the U. N., replacing Chiang.

In a New York speech March 29 Dulles seemed to close the door on both possibilities, so far as this country is concerned. Even if he wanted to do business on those terms, he's under tremendous congressional pressure not to.

He's been very careful about listening to Congress. What then has he left for horse-trading with the Chinese at Geneva? Or is he only going there with demands that they make peace in Korea and Indochina on American terms?

He has called for "united action" among American allies in Indochina to help the French—apparently before he had discussed it with the allies.

If this is his bargaining point—a warning the Allies may jump into Indochina if the Chinese don't agree to help end the war there—it will work only if the Communists buy it. If not, the eventual result may be war.

The Eisenhower administration is talking of easing trade restrictions on Russia. Perhaps Dulles hopes this will sound attractive enough to the Russians to make them pressure their Chinese ally.

Dulles will have to guard against Communist promises directed at the French in a move to split them away from this country.

If he goes to Geneva so rigidly—and publicly—determined to have his way entirely on his own terms, the Communists may turn his steadfastness against him for their own propaganda advantage by making proposals they know he can't accept but which might sound plausible to American allies.

Principal Issue In Senate Race Is Party Control

By LYNN NISBET
RALEIGH.—The open surface issue in the current senatorial campaign is the record of the administration of Governor Kerr Scott.

Scott and his campaign manager, Terry Sanford, have said they are basing their claims for continued support on the services rendered by the Scott administration to the people in better schools, hospitals and especially more and better roads.

Senator Lennon and his manager, John Rodman, have taken the same record as their main issue but are emphasizing the heavy burden of debt imposed upon the people to build the roads, the continuing burden of maintenance, and especially the fact that in the road-building program Kerr Scott took better care of himself and his family and his own local community than anybody or anywhere else in all of the State.

Behind and beneath this obvious issue is the more important one of factional dominance in the Democratic party, which means the government of North Carolina. In many respects the current race is a continuation of the fight which has been going on for at least a generation between the so-called liberal and conservative elements.

This contest reached high marks in 1932 in the Ehringhaus-Fountain race for Governor; in 1936 with Hoey and McDonald carrying the banners of the respective groups, in the 1948 Johnson-Scott campaign, and in the senatorial race between Frank Graham and Willis Smith in 1950. It was apparent to less degree in the Bailey-Simmons senatorial race, in 1930 and the Olive-Umstead gubernatorial primary in 1962.

Principal Issue In Senate Race Is Party Control

For immediate purposes the contests prior to 1948 can be disregarded, because the Scott victory in 1948 was the outstanding instance of the liberals winning.

Kerr Scott has many times referred to that result as a political revolution in which the liberals permanently ousted the more conservative element in the party. All the force and prestige of his administration, however, could not nominate Frank Graham for the Senate. Nor could the Governor's power and prestige, supplemented by threats of reprisal—later carried out—force the nomination of Hubert Olive for Governor last year.

In the parlance of the gaming table, there are cumulative stakes in the 1954 senate race. Scott bet his chips in 1948 and won. He let his winnings ride in 1950 and 1952 and lost. Now the other side is betting on another win, and Scott is covering the bet. If he wins he will have saved all he won in 1948 and recovered more than he lost in 1950 and 1952. If he loses now, the loss will include all the 1948 gains and multiply the effect of the 1950 and '52 defeats.

On the other side, if the conservatives lose now they will have completely negated the winnings in 1950 and 1952 and find themselves practically "broke" so far as political prestige goes.

The next two Governors will be elected during the tenure of the Senator to be nominated on May 29. No one familiar with North Carolina politics needs to be told that the Senators can exert considerable influence over the selection of Governors.

Reverting to parlance of the gaming table, the chips are down and the game is that the winner takes all.

There are records showing that handkerchiefs were used in Europe as early as the 11th Century.

Bride Walked To Altar Unaided

SANTA BARBARA Calif. (AP)—Susan Ball and Dick Long, whose marriage climaxed Hollywood's nicest love story, today start their honeymoon with a leisurely drive up the California coast.

The striking brunette actress, who lost her right leg to cancer in January made one of the year's most beautiful brides as she and the young actor were wed yesterday at El Montecito Presbyterian Church.

The wedding was intensely dramatic, because everyone expected the bride to come down the aisle on crutches. But Susan had vowed she would walk down the aisle unaided, and that she did.

Although she had practiced only six days with her artificial leg, she laid aside her crutches a few minutes before the ceremony.

Plucky Susan declared: "I always knew I would get married without crutches, although no one else did."

Some 1,000 people crowded inside and outside the quaint little country church, and there was an audible gasp from the assemblage as Susan entered the church without crutches. She walked firmly down the aisle—with but a slight limp—on the arm of her father, H. Dale Ball.

Long, 26 first saw his bride in a movie while he was in the Army in Japan four years ago. He was very much impressed. Later, when out of uniform and back at Universal-International Studios to resume his acting career, he saw the dark beauty sitting in the commissary. He introduced himself. She was on crutches at the time. She told him then that she had a cancer of the leg.

DALLAS (AP)—Dallas is the guinea pig in a study that may help a merchant in Cleveland or Phoenix decide whether to put four more floors on his downtown building or to set up shop on the outskirts of town.

If you're just thinking about getting started in business for yourself, maybe it will help you to decide whether to rent space on main street or find a spot in the suburbs.

That's what the U. S. Census Bureau hopes will be the value of the most intensive retail business survey it has ever made in a single metropolitan area.

The survey was started last Jan. 12 under the direction of Henry Wulff of Washington, chief of the Census Bureau's retail trade section. From time to time he has come here to work on it with James W. Stroud, regional supervisor of the bureau.

Wulff said he expects the results to be published between late June and midsummer. He expects the field work to be completed within a week.

The main object of the survey is to study an apparent trend toward decentralization of retail business—find out what businesses are most affected and why.

Wulff said it's even possible the survey will show the trend has reversed itself—that downtown business centers are becoming more entrenched.

GALE looked up abruptly, listening. "There's a car. It must be the others. Do you have plenty of waffle batter, Thelma?"

The doorbell chimed. "They must be locked out," Julia said. "Let them go around to the back door. Why are they so formal all at once?"

The bell chimed again. "Clowns!" Julia got up. "I'll go."

She flung open the door. Then she drew back startled and said, "Oh!"

On the threshold, debonair in a smart blue suit and topcoat, stood Pete Marshall, grinning at her.

Julia said, confused: "Oh, come in, doctor. We were just having breakfast."

He slipped off his coat and hung it on the rusty deer horns, rubbed his hand over his hair and straightened his tie. He wore no hat and looked boyish and different.

"I'm probably crashing in here," he said, smiling, "but from what you said last night I decided perhaps I was expected—and when Dr. Aiken offered to take over for me today I made up my mind to come out and meet your gracious mother again."

"Ravel will be pleased," Julia said, carefully deliberate. "She isn't here right now but she'll be along presently."

"Implying that you aren't pleased?" he inquired.

"Of course I'm pleased. We're all happy to have you. Mother was asking about you only a few minutes ago, but you'd told me you expected to be busy of course—"

They went through the living-room where the tissue-wrapped gifts were heaped on a table. He took a small package from his pocket.

"I'll just put this here, if I may," he laid the package with the others.

"It's Dr. Marshall Gale," she announced at the door. "He was able to come, after all. Doctor, this is my grandmother, Mrs. Ravel."

Gale said easily: "How nice, doctor. Do sit down and have some coffee with us. Dooley was afraid you'd be busy all day sewing up holiday casualties."

"I patched them up last night," he drew out a chair after making a polite acknowledgment of Mrs. Ravel's brief greeting. "Two fights and a girl who decided to end it all by jumping out of a car—running at high speed."

Mrs. Ravel had fixed a level eye on Pete Marshall. "Do I understand that you are the brash young man who thinks he can keep my crazy granddaughter in horses?"

Julia got up. "If you'll excuse me, I'll go and dress. Ravel should be coming along any time now, doctor."

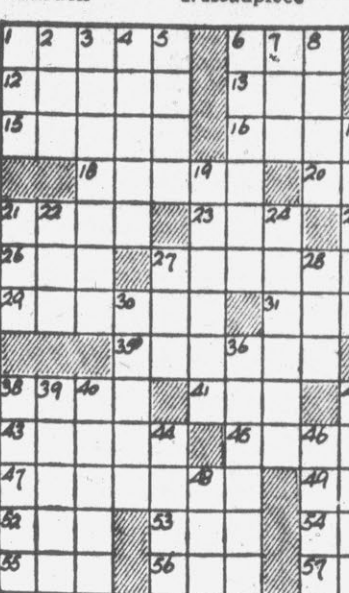

He got to his feet as she went out, and his following eyes made her vaguely uneasy. If he and Ravel were in love, as Gale had told her, he ought not to look at another woman like that. She hoped her grandmother's sharp eyes had not noticed. On the table near the fire lay the small, square package he had brought. It was tied with silver ribbon with a tiny envelope slipped under. A ring, perhaps. But a ring ought to be given in secret, in a romantic setting, moonlight preferred. She wondered if Ravel would be embarrassed when she opened it. Not likely, since Ravel's speciality was embarrassing other people, and usually she had a jaunty and entirely insensitive way of surmounting any situation.

Julia rummaged through her wardrobe. She had had so little opportunity to wear her clothes lately that most of them were dated, limp from long hanging, reminiscent of the mothballs that protected them in summer. For some obscure reason, hardly understood by herself, she wanted to look plain, avoid any suggestion of glamor. She wanted to look like Miss Taber, who would be a good nurse, who might eventually wind up in Navy uniform. Pete had served in the Navy, she remembered, but she had no intention of asking his advice. Definitely, she must keep everything professional and impersonal with Pete Marshall. Whatever was between him and Ravel was for themselves alone, and she wanted no part of it.

All inadvertently, she suspected, she had come between John-Mark and Ravel. In spite of John-Mark's insistence that he had given up trying to understand Ravel, Julia had the unhappy conviction that that snowy Sunday morning had marked the turning point for him. On that morning he had suddenly looked at her plain little Dooley, as though he had never seen her before—and here a kind of consideration reached a cold finger to touch her, for last night and again today Pete Marshall had looked at her in the same surprised way, as though all at once he had discovered that she was worth looking at.

She should be thrilled at being counted desirable, so why did this odd, heavy grimace possess her? Why was she in a mood, this festive day, to distrust all men? Was there a touch of arrogance in her, too, that wanted to be first? That she disdained to be approved on the rebound, labelled a kind of relief from Ravel's imperiousness? Background. She had gone out to carve a place for herself chosen the difficult way, the profession that meant hard, grinding work and study, because she was sick of being a background. But now the background seemed abruptly a safe and unexciting place to be.

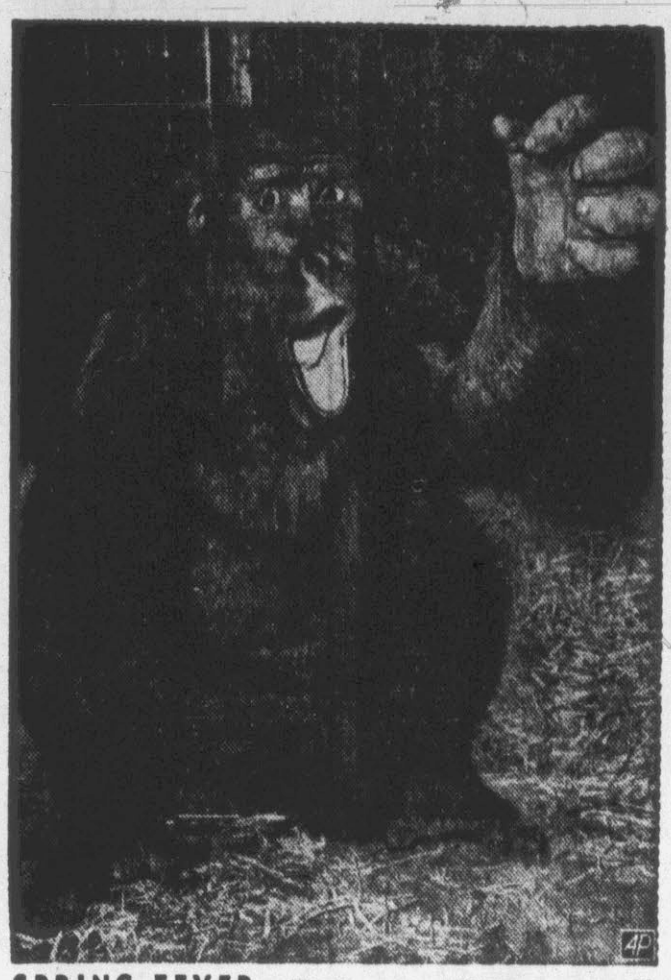

Obedient to this stern urging, she brushed her hair back plainly, anchoring it at her neck with a silver bar. She put on a gray dress that did nothing for her looks whatever, and debated in her mind whether to wear rouge or not. Palor did give her a slightly romantic appearance, she noted, so she scrubbed on a couple of patches of pink and did her lips indifferently. Then through her window she saw the car coming up the lane. John-Mark was driving it with Ravel beside him. Pierce was not in the car.

"Now!" Julia said aloud, giving her belt an admonitory twitch, and pushing her hair back with flat palms. Now she would watch as though she were seeing a play while Ravel maneuvered between two men. Now she could sit, a trifle grimly, in the background she had chosen, nursing the small malicious satisfaction of which she was vaguely ashamed. Knowing that by a gesture by a smile, by any indication of interest at all, she could summon either man, make him forget Ravel.

The idea buoyed her up, so that she walked into the living-room feeling slightly brittle and new, feeling the tingle of power she had no wish to use feeling a little, she suspected, as her grandmother felt when she was debating in her mind to whom she would leave her money.

BEN HOGAN, the defending champion, tees off from the 10th tee at the Masters Tournament on the Augusta, Ga. National Course. Hogan is in an 18-hole playoff round with Sammy Snead today for the championship. The two tied at the end of the regulation 72-holes with one-over-par 289 totals. (AP Wire-photo)

Ben Hogan, Sam Snead Meet For Masters Championship

Augusta, Ga. (AP)—Ben Hogan and Sam Snead, called the "two greatest golfers in the world" by grand slam king Bob Jones, met today in an 8-hole playoff for the 954 Masters championship.

The little man from Texas and the long ball hitter from West Virginia had 289 totals. That is one over par for the exacting 6,800-yard Augusta National course, and the highest score ever to earn first place in this prestige-packed tournament's 20-year history.

The winner will join Jimmy Demaret as a three-time Masters champion. A victory for Hogan would make him the only man ever to win two Masters in succession. Although neither of the keen rivals could break par in yesterday's final round—Snead had a 72 and Hogan a 75—the windup was perhaps the most exciting in Masters' history. Adding an extra touch of drama was the spectacular comeback after a poor third round by Billy Joe Patton, the happy-go-lucky amateur from Morganton, N. C.

Patton, who tied for the lead the first day and moved out by himself the second, finished with a 7 for a 290 total. Dutch Harrison, with a 68, and Lloyd Mangrum, with a 69, tied for fourth. Next came Jack Burke, Jerry Barber and Bob Rosburg at 292.

It looked for a while as if Patton would power his way to victory with his bold, shoot-for-the-pin brand of golf. A hole-in-one had helped him to a 4-under-par 32 on the front nine while Hogan was taking a 37.

Ben had started out with a 3-stroke lead over Snead and a 5-stroke margin over Billy Joe. With Snead sticking to par, Hogan thought Patton was the man he had to beat as he went off the 11th tee. He didn't know that Billy Joe had taken a disastrous 7 and lost two strokes at No. 2 and his second shot landed in a creek.

"I made my mistake on the 11th," Ben said afterwards. "I thought Patton was the one to play for. So I tried to hook a three iron shot onto the green, but it landed in the water and I took a double-bogey.

"If I'd known he'd shot that 7 I'd have played it safe."

Nervy Syracuse Matching Lakers

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Nervy Syracuse matches its comeback spirit against the fading genius of the Minneapolis Lakers tonight for the National Basketball Assn. championship.

The Nationals forced the NBA finals playoffs into the decisive seventh game yesterday when Jim Neal, an obscure 6-11 reserve center, sank a 27-foot push shot in the last four seconds for a 65-63 victory. It squared the series at three games apiece.

The Lakers, heretofore supreme as money players, now find themselves with confidence shaken and fighting an inability to do things right in the tight spots.

Until this year, Minneapolis is unbeaten on the Auditorium floor here in playoff games. It now has lost two in a row, both on long shots in the final seconds.

Clemson Leading Atlantic Coast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Without batting a single ball in league play last week Clemson jumped into the lead of the Atlantic Coast Conference with four other teams close behind.

Clemson defeated Furman, of the Southern Conference, 5-2 in its only action of the week, and left its conference record of 2-0 on top.

Not far behind, and leading in the all-game standings, was Duke with a 2-1 league record. The Blue Devils took two non-conference games last week as they warmed up for the one-sided 4-3 triumph over Wake Forest. Paced by Gordie Clapp and Red Smith, who homered, the Devils piled up 21 hits.

In third place with a 3-2 record was North Carolina, after the Tar Heels beat South Carolina 2-3 last Saturday with a nine-run third inning. North Carolina also took a Friday game from the Gamecocks.

Tied for fourth place with a 2-2 tally were Wake Forest and North Carolina State.

In out-of-family tilts Saturday, the ACC's youngest member Virginia, met with a 3-6 defeat from the Michigan, while Richmond edged Maryland, 6-5. It was Michigan's second consecutive victory over Virginia. The Terrapins' loss wound up a busy week which saw them win two and lose three. But they got off to a good start by downing Delaware on Monday and William and Mary on Tuesday. Then came Dartmouth, North Carolina State and Richmond, in that order, to whom Maryland bowed.

The biggest jump week came from North Carolina State, winning both games, against sister-jugglers North Carolina and Maryland.

No games were scheduled today. Tomorrow Clemson faces South Carolina, and The Citadel goes to North Carolina State.

Major Leaguers' Questions To Get Answers Tomorrow

Edwards Take Second In Duke High Jump

Greenville High School's individual track stars came back from the Duke Invitational in Durham Saturday with a pair of medals for their efforts.

High-jumping wizard Harold Edwards jumped 5'10" but came in second to a boy from Virginia Beach who came within one-quarter of an inch setting a new record for the Invitational meet. Captain Cleith Oakley took a fourth place in the discus throw for the only other Phantom to place.

The other Harriers from Greenville to enter the meet were dashman Bill Taft and high-jumper Jerry Drum. Taft was eliminated in the third heat of the 100-yard dash, and Drum went out of the high jump at the 5'4" mark.

Edwards was up against some of the best competition in the southeast in the high-jump. The Phantom sophomore beat out all other North Carolinians, thereby proving himself the leading candidate for the winner of the State meet title. Oakley came in fourth of all the entries but was second in the state.

Boys from Waynesboro, Virginia, and Craddock, Virginia, finished first and second in that order. Winston Salem's Bill Grambley had the third farthest throw with Oakley two feet behind him in fourth. Oakley, by virtue of his fine showing Saturday is rated a good chance in the State meet.

The cindermen will have another big meet in Durham on Wednesday when the Eastern Regional will be run off. Durham, the host school for the regionals, will be the favorite but Coach Bill Kittrell's team is shooting for an upset. The Greenville team is rated one of the best teams in the east at the present and has a good chance to finish high up on the list Wednesday.

The Phantoms are planning a hard workout for today with light training tomorrow and then taking the whole team up to the Eastern meet on Wednesday. Coach Kittrell will enter the entire team in the meet.

Bucs Hold One-Game Lead In Eastern Division Play

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Were the major league races decided last March when Boston's Ted Williams fractured his collarbone and Milwaukee's Bobby Thomson broke his ankle?

Can the Red Sox overcome the early absence of Williams, their star slugger and put an end to the New York Yankees' long reign in the American League? Can Cleveland finally do it after finishing second to the Yankees three straight seasons? How about Chicago?

Can the Braves continue their momentum and overtake the Dodgers despite the loss of Thomson, their hard-hitting outfielder, for at least another month? Maybe the St. Louis Cardinals or the New York Giants can do it?

How much will Enos Slaughter help the Yankees? Only seven weeks after astounding the baseball world by selling 35-year-old Vic Raschi to the Cardinals, the world champions pulled off another shocker late yesterday by acquiring the 38-year-old outfield star from the same club.

And what about Baltimore, which returned to the majors after 61 years to inherit the franchise of the St. Louis Browns? Will the Orioles give the same shot in the arm to the American League that the Braves gave to the National last year after they moved from Boston to Milwaukee?

All these answers will begin to take shape tomorrow when the major league baseball season gets underway in eight cities. Approximately 200,000 fans are expected to attend the openers. For the first time in years all openers will take place the same day and all games will be played in daylight.

The opening schedule, starting times and estimated attendance: NATIONAL LEAGUE
Chicago at St. Louis, 2:30 p.m., 18,000.
Milwaukee at Cincinnati, 2:30 p.m., 30,000.
Philadelphia at Pittsburgh, 1:30 p.m., 20,000.
Brooklyn at New York, 1:30 p.m., 35,000.
AMERICAN LEAGUE
Baltimore at Detroit, 2:00 p.m., 30,000.
Cleveland at Chicago, 2:30 p.m., 30,000.
Boston at Philadelphia, 2:05 p.m., 20,000.
New York at Washington, 3:00 p.m., 30,000.

Despite industrious efforts on the part of the 14 other clubs to strengthen themselves, the defending champion Yankees and Dodgers are prohibitive favorites to add to their laurels—the Yankees are even money to capture their sixth straight flag and the Dodgers are 7 to 10 to make it three in a row. Practically every club has altered its "face" either through trades, purchases or advancement of their minor league players. The opening day lineups of the 16 teams will show a player turnover of 40 per cent. Five clubs have hired new managers, one fired his manager during spring training, another fired his pilot even though he won two straight pennants. Even the Yankees and Dodgers have either added or changed something.

President Eisenhower will throw out the first ball in Washington at 3 p.m. tomorrow before a capacity crowd of 30,000. Either right-hander Bob Porterfield or southpaw Chuck Stobbs will hurl for Washington against lefty Ed (Whitey) Ford of the Yankees.

Mel Parnell, who has beaten the Athletics 21 out of 26 times, will open for the Red Sox against little Bobby Shantz.

Southpaw Billy Pierce will oppose veteran right-hander Early Wynn in the Chicago-Cleveland inaugural.

In the Detroit-Baltimore opener neither manager, is decided about his pitcher.

Bob Buhl, a hot pitcher all spring, will get the opening day shot for Milwaukee against Cincinnati's Bud Podbielan.

Pittsburgh, opening the season at home for the first time since 1893, will field a brand new team. Not one was in last season's opening day lineup. The Pirates pitch Bob Friend against Robb Roberts, the ace Philadelphia right-hander.

Carl Erskine will hurl for the Dodgers who oppose their bitter rival, the New York Giants, at the Polo Grounds. Sal Maglie, a Brooklyn nemesis for years, will be on the hill for the New Yorkers.

Harvey Haddix, the Cardinals' 20-game winner last year, will oppose Chicago's Paul Minner in a battle of left-handers at St. Louis.

Slaughter Could Be Yanks' 1954 Pennant Insurance

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Enos Slaughter, the balding old war horse of the St. Louis Cardinals, joined the New York Yankees today and it is history repeats itself he will be just the insurance Casey Stengel needs to wrap up his sixth straight American League pennant.

The 38-year-old veteran of 16 years with the Redbirds was dealt to the Yanks yesterday less than 48 hours before the opening of the season for pitcher Mel Wright and three unnamed players who will be assigned to Card Farm clubs.

Five times before, the Yanks have reached into the National League for players other clubs thought were washed up and almost every time the deal turned out to the advantage of the World Champions.

They obtained Johnny Mize from the New York Giants, Johnny Hopp from the Pittsburgh Pirates, Johnny Sain from the Boston Braves, Ewell Blackwell from the Cincinnati Reds and Johnny Schmitz from the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Mize retired this year after helping the Yanks for five seasons and Sain came back in answer to an emergency call from Stengel. He won 14 games last year, his fourth in a career before he returned to action.

So with Mickey Mantle's bad leg still a question mark, and the Yanks floundering along under their worst spring training record since Stengel took over, Slaughter could be just the shot in the arm they need. He always has been a hustle guy.

For his part Slaughter, who compiled a lifetime batting average of .305, was unhappy over the deal—so unhappy that he broke down and wept when he was told of the trade.

"This is the biggest snook of my life," he said, tears streaming down his face, "something I never expected to happen. I've given my life to this organization and they let you go when they think you're getting old.

"What gets me is that they let you go before you're finished. I've still got some good years of baseball left in me. I'll give Casey Stengel 100 per cent just as I've given every ball club I've ever played for."

Card Manager Eddie Stanky was equally sad, saying:

"It's one of those tough things that managers have to face. If there's any bright side to this, a championship ball player is going to a championship club."

August A. Busch, Card president, explained that Slaughter was traded because of the team's youth movement.

The Cardinals are trying to build a young ball club," he said. "We are looking for an organization that will give us strong teams and pennant winners for years to come and we must look to the future. Although he won't be with us, Enos will always be a Cardinal."

Wolfpack Netters Meeting Pirates

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Carolina State College's tennis team, winless in three starts this season, will be the busiest Big Four team on the minor sports front this week.

The Wolfpack netters were scheduled to meet East Carolina College at Greenville today. They play Wake Forest Wednesday at Wake Forest, Colgate Friday at Raleigh and Notre Dame Saturday, also at Raleigh.

Duke's tennis team has two matches on tap, meeting Presbyterian Wednesday and Maryland Friday both at Durham.

The University of North Carolina's tennis team, which saw its 40-game win streak shattered Saturday by Princeton, 5-4, plays Presbyterian tomorrow at Chapel Hill.

In addition to its match with State College Wednesday, Wake Forest's tennis team plays East Carolina at Wake Forest Saturday.

Coach Jim Weaver's strong Wake Forest golf team, led by Arnold Palmer will see action against Virginia Thursday on the Carolina Country Club course at Raleigh.

The Duke golfers play Ohio Thursday and Maryland Friday. Both matches are at Durham.

The Tar Heel golf team is slated to meet Virginia tomorrow and Maryland Saturday in matches at Chapel Hill.

North Carolina's lacrosse team tangles with Duke tomorrow at Durham. The Tar Heel track team plays host to Maryland's squad Friday.

In other action this week, Duke's track squad meets State College at Durham today and Camp Lejeune Saturday; State College's golfers play Davidson at Charlotte tomorrow and Ohio at Raleigh Friday; State College's track squad engages South Carolina Saturday at Raleigh.

Boxing Notes

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Jake LaMotta is on the way back.

The Bronx fire plug, last seen making like a TV comic with Rocky Graziano, puts his comeback on TV Wednesday night (CBS) at Miami Beach in a 10-round match with Billy Kilgore (Miami).

When Jake quietly knocked over some "nothing" fighter at West Palm Beach a month ago, nobody paid much attention. But the comeback apparently is serious.

Fight of the week probably will be the Carmen Basilio-Pierre Langlois match at Syracuse (ABC-TV) Saturday night. It's a rematch of a Dec. 19 draw in which all three officials split after a fine late comeback by the Frenchman.

Basilio, pride of Canastota, N. Y., is next in line when Kid Gavilan gets around to defending his welter title.

Cleveland shoots the works with a home town talent show Thursday at the Arena, featuring middleweight Rocky Castellani against Pedro Gonzales of Pittsburgh. Nate Jackson, the North American bantam champ, fights a ten and so does his brother, Paulie, a lightweight.

Eastern Parkway finally got the Tommy Jackson - Jimmy Slade match but had to settle for a new date April 26, and 10 rounds instead of the original 12. The New York State Heavyweight title will be at stake.

Jackson, sensational knockout winner over Dan Bucceroni, will meet Charley Norkus in the Garden May 21 or May 28 if he gets past Slade.

Phantoms Travel To Jacksonville

By WAYNE BISHOP

Reflector Sports Writer

Seeking their second conference win of the season the Greenville Phantoms will tangle with the Jacksonville Cardinals in Jacksonville tomorrow afternoon. So far this year the G-men have won one of three games in the conference.

Both teams have been defeated by Roanoke Rapids, the Green Phantoms falling Friday by a 5-4 score with the Cardinals on the losing end by several runs last week.

This is the first year in the conference for Jacksonville after years of dominating class A ball teams for years. The Grexies will be playing them in the dark, not knowing anything of their team. Word has been passed around the conference that the Cardinals have a pretty fair-to-middling pitcher by the name of Church. It is the only thing wrong with a catcher good enough to catch him.

Coach Bo Farley will probably start ace lefthander Bill Hendrix against the Cardinals. Hendrix is the ace of the staff although his record for the year is 0-2. Hendrix lost the game to Rocky Mount by one run and then was the victim of Russell Hastings' three-hit shut out of the Phantoms last Tuesday. Hendrix allowed only two runs in that game but Elizabeth City still won 2-0.

The rest of the Greenville line-up will probably go along as usual with Billy Bost at first base, Jerry Phillips at second, Bob Howell at short stop, Bobby Conway at third, Harold Edwards in right, Dixie Hobgood in center, Doug Morgan in left, and Bobby Nunn catching.

Pretty Marlene Credits Victory To 'Confidence'

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Pretty Marlene Bauer credits her victory in the $5,000 Colonial Country Club PGA golf tournament to "new-won confidence" that enabled her to sink the "putts that count."

The 20-year-old Sarasota, Fla., miss shot a five-under par 70 yesterday over the 6,333-yard course for a four-round total of 297, one stroke ahead of Betty Jameson of San Antonio.

Miss Bauer's 73-77-77-70 was worth $1,200. Miss Jameson, the second round leader, who soared to an 80 in the third round, fired a 72 yesterday. Her check totaled $830.

Advise TV Aerials To Be Properly 'Grounded'

Owners of television sets with outside aerials were warned today to make sure that both the antenna and the lead wires were properly grounded to protect against lightning, by Fire Chief George Gardner.

Gardner said that it is possible that some of the outside aerials had been improperly installed thus creating a fire risk. He said that the TV antennas could work the same as the old lightning rods and if ground wires are not provided to carry off the charge in case the aerial is hit by lightning it is possible to set fire to the house.

Gardner stated that it would be a good policy for individuals with outside antennas to consult a capable electrician to check the ground wires or request the city electrical inspector at the Greenville Utilities plant.

Greenville Utilities Superintendent Martin Swartz said today that the electrical inspector is at the service of the people in Greenville for inspection of the television aerial grounds.

"It is very important that TV

Added Reliance On Waterpower

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Geological Survey estimates that at the end of 1952 the nations of the world had waterpower plants with installed capacity of 118,600,000 horsepower.

The United States, the Survey said in a report made public today, had up to then installed waterpower plants with capacity of 31 million horsepower, or 26.8 per cent of the world total.

Installed capacity throughout the world was estimated to have increased 502 per cent between 1920 and 1952 while capacity in this country increased 413 per cent.

The report said projects now under construction in the United States will add roughly 1,850,000 horsepower annually to the national total during the next three years. It added that the largest plants under construction, on the Columbia and Missouri Rivers will have ultimate capacity of seven million horsepower.

Russia "reportedly has five plants under construction with an ultimate installed capacity of six million horsepower," the Survey reported "in other countries the plants are not so large but almost every country is actively constructing new plants and everywhere the power generated can be used as soon as it is available."

Canada added over one million horsepower capacity in 1952, the report said, and has plants under construction to add upwards of three million more. Australia is adding upwards of a million horsepower capacity.

"The fabulous sites in Africa are being studied with new interest, several large projects have been undertaken, and some plants of considerable size are actually producing electric current, the Survey added.

The preaching resumed. Ten minutes later it began to pour down on this drought-hurt west Texas town. The pastor again interrupted his sermon and asked the congregation to stand and thank the Lord until it rained.

A total of .71 of an inch fell during the services.

Dr. Laurence Hays interrupted his sermon and exclaimed: "That's rain!"

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BARRUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

THE PICKET FENCE is perennially popular. Note rocks under posts for stability. Concrete footings can be used.

BOX TYPE FENCE accentuates horizontal lines of wide claspboard siding. This is a Homograf design, A-7B. A DECORATIVE FENCE with wrought iron strap hinges on the gate. This is a Make-It-Yourself Homograf design, A-6.

(Working drawings for designs A-7B and A-6 are available at 50 cents a set from the Homograf Co., 11711 East Eight Mile Road, East Detroit, Mich.)

A fence around your house can be like a frame around a picture through flower beds, keeping dogs in or out and protecting children. The best way to plan a fence is to cruise around your neighborhood, utilitarian purposes, discouraging look at other people's fences and try to figure out why they built them the way they are. The right fence can do a lot for the appearance of a house.

There aren't any hard and fast rules for fences. Very often a low fence of less than 3 feet will look the best in connection with a one-story rambling type of home, while a 3 to 4 foot fence will seem to be more in proportion to a two-story house. But if there is a utility factor, such as confining or excluding dogs, a 4-foot fence is usually a minimum.

Spacing of pickets also depends on preference and utility. Generally, the spaces between pickets equals the width of the picket. Some people contend that narrower or wider spaces add interest to the design. Narrower spaces naturally provide more privacy behind the fence.

Fence posts for a wood fence should be of 4 by 4 lumber. If your fence is to be 4 feet high, the posts should be 6 feet long to allow for 2 feet underground. The part of the post to be buried should be dipped, painted or otherwise treated with creosote or other wood preservatives to resist decay and the treatment should extend 4 to 6 inches above the ground level.

For the average fence, posts are spaced about 8 feet apart and stringers or rails — the horizontal members of the fence framing—are 2 by 4s. For a picket fence, the bottom rail is about 5 or 6 inches from the ground and the top rail often is set on top of the posts with the pickets rising above this line. A smart precaution in building a picket fence is to slant the tops of the posts, so the top rail will slant and rain will readily drain off away from the fence. The bottom rail also can be slightly slanted in the same direction.

Use rust-proof nails — aluminum nails, for instance, will mean freedom of rust spots on your fence.

Some Clergymen Oppose Rep. Velde's Re-Election

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Chairman Harold H. Velde of the House Un-American Activities Committee is bidding for another term in Congress with tacit but unmistakable disapproval from within the Protestant clergy.

By no means are all the ministers in Velde's district against him. But some of them are, and say so privately. They disapprove of the way the Velde Committee has brought individual clergymen into the scope of its investigations.

The Republican congressman from Pekin also is up against a seasoned popular state representative, Robert H. Allison, when Illinois runs off the nation's first primary next Tuesday.

A veteran of 30 years in state and local politics sized up the contest this way:

"Velde is in the toughest fight of his life. I think he'll win."

That opinion is shared rather widely by many other political leaders in Velde's district and by a lot of ordinary citizens. But not by Allison.

"I'm going to win and you can count on it," he said.

That was in an on-the-fly interview in the midst of a fast round of speeches and appearances that kept the 68-year-old, one-armed veteran of 10 terms in the state legislature on the go all day long and into the night.

Velde is one of three House committee chairmen from Illinois with serious competition in the primary. All are Republicans, of course.

As in the case of Velde, the odds at this point seem to favor renomination of Chairman Leo E. Allen of the Rules Committee and Chairman Robert E. Ongerud of the Foreign Affairs Committee.

And in the Velde congressional district, a majority of political experts picks Joseph T. Meek to top a nine-man field in the Republican senatorial primary. The victor will tackle Democratic Senator Paul H. Douglas in November's general election.

Allison is hammering Velde on all sorts of issues but soft-pedaling the way he runs the Un-American Activities Committee.

It is strictly on committee operations that Velde has opposition from among the clergymen. It goes back to the time Velde first said he thought the committee should search out any subversives, even in the clergy, and subsequently questioned several clergymen.

Velde's own pastor, the Rev. Joseph Albrecht of the First Methodist Church at Pekin, still stands by a statement he made at the time, that it was a "tragic thing to have Representative Velde even suggest such activity for his committee."

The statement is being distributed by an organization backing Allison.

Sobriety Is Also For Bartenders

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Superior Court ruled a bar operator should not be his own best customer.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market sagged today after a higher start.

Prices were up a little on balance at the opening, but from that point onward they retreated slowly. By early afternoon, the market as a whole was off.

Changes went from around a point lower to fractions higher. The overall movement however, was slight.

The pace of trading was rather well maintained at around two million shares for the entire day. It was considerably below Friday's big 2,360,000 shares, second highest total of the year.

U. S. Steel, a major favorite last week, started today on a block of 3,000 shares off 1/4 at 44 1/2, and after that it slipped a little lower along with most other steels.

Aircraft also felt the weight of selling as did many chemicals, electronics issues, special metals, and the building materials group.

Utilities held up well with the radio-televisions, rubbers, oils and some coppers. A few rails were ahead.

Today's market produced a lot of profit-taking on the heels of last week's strength.

Lower stocks included Bethlehem Steel, Douglas Aircraft, Homestake Mining Allied Chemical, General Electric, Carborundum J. P. Stevens, New York Central and Johns, Manville.

Higher were Republic Steel, Goodyear, Bendix Aviation, Radio Corp., Consolidated Edison, Southern Pacific, and Standard Oil (NJ).

Says This Generation To See Civilization End

Despite rain showers, 761 persons gathered in the auditorium of John H. Small school, Washington, N. C., Sunday afternoon to hear W. D. Couch, a representative of the Watchtower Society, give a scriptural answer to the question, "Is Civilization's End Near?"

Couch likened present world conditions and fears to a towering giant about to crush a dwarf. He quoted the words of Jesus Christ recorded in the 24th chapter of Matthew to show that the end of the present world civilization is "within this generation."

"For years," the speaker stated, "people have been dreading the world's end, although in a sense they have been praying for it. Every time they pray the Lord's prayer they ask for God's kingdom to be established throughout all the earth and this means destruction of the present system."

However, Couch pointed out, quoting Ecclesiastes 1:4, "The earth abideth forever" and that the earth was not created to be destroyed. "We never need fear what man is going to do; man could never have brought a watery deluge to cleanse the earth," the speaker continued, referring to the destruction of the civilization of Noah's day.

"Today we have a civilization full-grown, corrupt and headed for destruction... the end of this present civilization will be by God's power, not by men... we are living in the day and this end will come after the
