

Blast Wreckage Searched For More Bodies

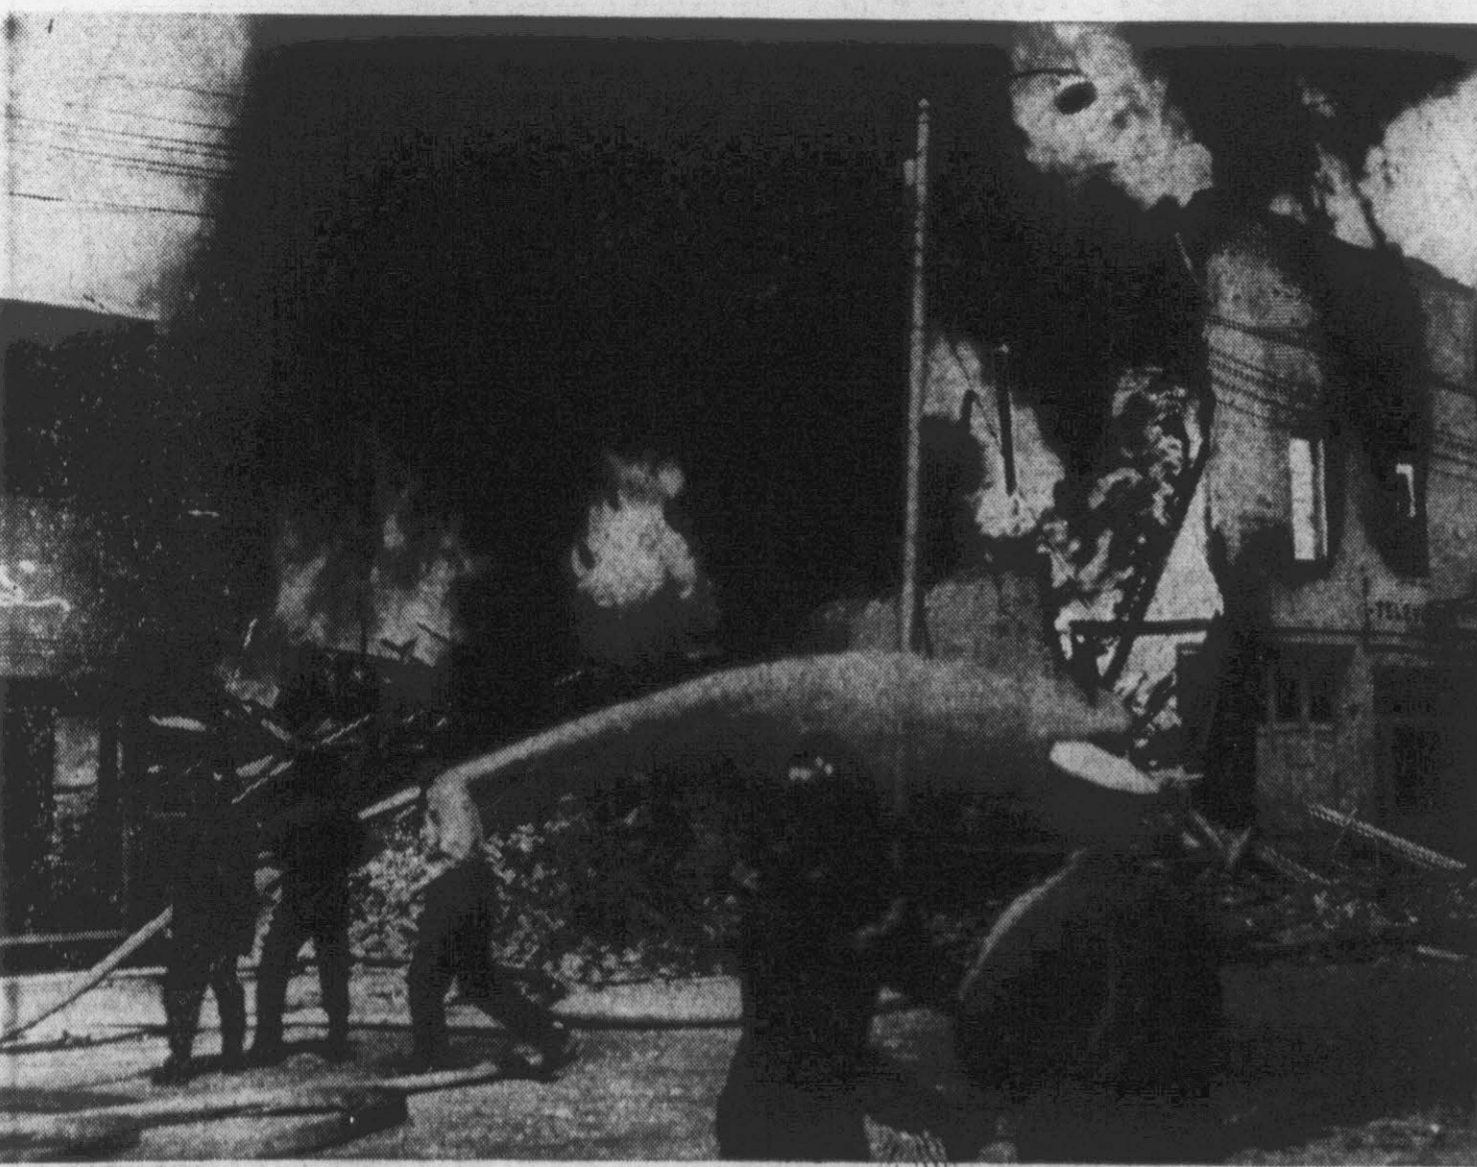

Pictured above are rescue workers as they probe the wreckage of a furniture store which was completely destroyed by a terrific explosion in Goldsboro yesterday. Workmen dug out the third of five bodies which have been found so far just after this picture was taken at 7:00 o'clock last night. The rescue operations went on far into the night with volunteers working by floodlights. Out-of-town fire-fighting units assisted the Goldsboro Fire Department. (Photo by C. L. Perkins Jr.)

Explosion Toll In Goldsboro Climbs To Five; 3 Women Remain On 'Missing' List

GOLDSBORO, N. C. (AP) — The death toll rose to five today in a mysterious explosion which wrecked three buildings in the heart of Goldsboro's business district yesterday. Workers probing the ruins removed two more bodies early today. One was tentatively identified as that of T.D. Holmes, assistant manager of Edwards and Jernigan furniture store, where the blast was centered. The other body was that of a woman, as yet unidentified. The other dead, identified yesterday were M.W. Edwards, 60, owner of the store; Mrs. Eunice Smith Collins, 34, cashier at the store; and Luther Shelton Denning, 16, of Four Oaks, Rt. 1. Three Goldsboro women, who had gone to the store to shop were listed as missing. They were identified as Mrs. Edmund Worrell, Miss Agnes Graham and Miss Carrie Bell Judd. Wayne County Coroner Harry Shumate Jr. said Paul Lancaster, an employe of the store, previously listed as missing, was at home at the time of the blast. Fellow employe had presumed he was missing because he normally was in the store at that time. Mayor Scott B. Berkley estimated damage might run as high as half a million dollars. At least 15 persons were injured by the terrific blast which shattered store windows in a two-block radius. Four persons were admitted to the hospital. None was believed to be in serious condition. The dead were identified as M. W. Edwards, 60 owner of the store; Mrs. Eunice Smith Collins, 34, cashier of the store; and Luther Shelton Denning, 16. An investigation was under way to determine the cause of the explosion, which was followed by fire. N. E. Ruch, license examiner for the North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles, a block away when the blast occurred, said: "There was one great big blast" and the roof "lifted right up about 250 feet and came down with a big crash." "We could hear folks inside hollering for help," he said. It was impossible to reach them because of the fire, he said. The explosion occurred about 1:45 p.m. The three buildings crumbled into their basements in a mass of brick and twisted girders. One of the three buildings was occupied by a radio shop and the other was used for storing furniture. One eyewitness reported that a bright flame spiraled through the center of the furniture store after it buckled and crashed.

Nine of the injured were in a restaurant across the street and were hurt by flying glass. The Wayne County Memorial Hospital reported it treated 15 persons, four of whom were admitted. The others were released after receiving first aid. Two employes in a nearby grocery store, George Register and Don Moore said they rushed to the scene after the blast and heard a man begging to be rescued. They were driven back by the fire, they said before they could offer assistance. Ruch said he ran to the back entrance of the furniture store and helped get bricks off Thomas McKenzie, Negro, who was just leaving the store. McKenzie was taken to the hospital. He reported that his car was damaged by a big refrigerator which was blown across the street from in front of the store. Two cars in an alley near the buildings were covered by debris. William Probeck, an official of the gas company here, said there was "no indication that gas" caused the explosion. No gas lines were running to the buildings, he stated. All gas service in the city was halted after the explosion. In recent months there have been some gas explosions here. Luther Denning's home address was listed as Rt. 1, Four Oaks.

Firemen battled the blaze set by yesterday's mysterious blast in Goldsboro for over three hours before bringing it under control. The explosion completely demolished a furniture store and blew out plate glass windows over a large section of the business district. The above picture was taken a short while after the blast. Cause of the explosion is unknown but all gas service in the town has been turned off until investigation of the affair is complete. (Photo Courtesy the Goldsboro News-Argus)

Dr. Oppenheimer, 'Father Of A-Bomb', Held A Security Risk

Atomic Expert Is Suspended

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer has been suspended as a government adviser on atomic matters for security reasons — including accusations that he sought to block development of the hydrogen bomb. He declared he will fight the accusations. The noted physicist, sometimes called the man who built the A-bomb, disclosed the charges himself today by making public an exchange of letters with Maj. Gen. K. D. Nichols, general manager of the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC). Stories about the charges had been published by New York morning newspapers. There was no immediate comment from the AEC. Nichols' letter said 16 specific allegations of subversive activities had been leveled against Oppenheimer. One was that he battled against construction of the H-bomb even after former President Truman approved it. The letter, dated last Dec. 28, advised Oppenheimer: "It was reported further that you were instrumental in persuading other scientists not to work on the hydrogen bomb project and that the opposition to the hydrogen bomb of which you are the most experienced, most powerful and most effective member, has definitely slowed down its development. . . . "The commission has no other recourse, in the discharge of its obligations to protect the common defense and security, but to suspend your clearance (to have atomic information) until the matter has been resolved. "Accordingly, your employment on Atomic Energy Commission work and your eligibility for access to restricted data are hereby suspended." President Eisenhower and his top lieutenants went over the Oppenheimer case before the AEC probe was launched, the newspapers said. The charges against him reportedly were sent to the White House by the FBI. One charge against Oppenheimer was that he opposed the hydrogen bomb project and lobbied against it even after former President Truman ordered the AEC to go ahead with it.

Oppenheimer was quoted as denying he had urged scientists to boycott the project. He admitted he, along with a majority of the AEC's General Advisory Committee, had opposed the project in 1949, the newspapers reported. However, once the decision was made to proceed with the bomb, Oppenheimer said, the advisory committee, of which he was chairman, helped to solve H-bomb problems and "never again raised the question of the wisdom of the policy." Members of the board which reportedly began hearings on the Oppenheimer charges yesterday were identified as Gordon Gray, former secretary of the Army; Thomas Morgan, New York businessman and retired head of the Sperry Corp., and Ward V. Evans, chemistry professor at Loyola University in Chicago. Reached in Washington, Evans declined to comment on the case and said, "I know nothing about it." The other two men could not be reached for comment. Most of the charges against Oppenheimer were old and had been known to government authorities for many years, the newspapers reported. The charges, as listed by the New York Times, were that he: "1. Associated frequently with Communists in the early forties, including his brother Frank and Frank's wife; that he fell in love with one Communist and married another former Communist; and that he contributed regularly and generously to Communist causes from 1940 to 1942. "2. Hired Communists or former Communists at Los Alamos during the war. "3. Gave contradictory testimony to the Federal Bureau of Investigation about attendance at Communist meetings in the early 1940s. "4. Rejected as 'traitorous' an attempt by an alleged Communist to get scientific information from him for the Soviet Union but failed to report the incident to the government's security officers for months. "5. Strongly opposed the development of the hydrogen bomb in 1949 when he was chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission's General Advisory Committee, and lobbied against it even after President Truman ordered the AEC to proceed with the project."

Agree To Join U.S. In Seeking Southeast Asia Defense Plan

British OK Asiatic 'NATO'

By SEYMOUR TOPPING LONDON (AP) — The United States and Britain agreed today to seek a Nato-type military alliance of 10 nations, pivoted on Southeast Asia in an effort to safeguard peace from Indochina to New Zealand. They declared Communist aggression, loose in Indochina, threatens to spread over all the rich lands extending to Australia, the Philippines and Thailand. The decision to press for the formation of a new Southeast Asia defense system was announced in a joint British-American communique after a two-day conference between U.S. Secretary of State Dulles and British leaders on a

"united action" program. A top-ranking American official said Dulles was "very satisfied" with the meeting and felt the talks "went far towards establishing the unity of purpose which he sought on Southeast Asia defense." Dulles was leaving by plane for Paris to line up France in what the official said might become a "Southeast NATO." Dulles told airport newsmen: "I have had the best series of had. I think few countries have had. I think few countries have spoken to each other with greater intimacy and friendliness than has been characteristic of these talks we have had here." The communique said:

"We deplore the fact that on the eve of the Geneva conference the Communist forces in Indochina are increasingly developing their activities into a large-scale war against the forces of the French Union. "They seek to overthrow the lawful and friendly government of Viet Nam, which we recognize, and they have invaded Laos and Cambodia. "We realize that these activities not only threaten those involved, but also endanger the peace and security of the entire area of Southeast Asia and the Western Pacific, where out two nations and other friendly and allied nations have vital interests. "Accordingly, we are ready to take part with the other countries principally concerned in an examination of the possibility of establishing a collective defense within the framework of the charter of the United Nations to assure the peace, security and freedom of Southeast Asia and the Western Pacific. "It is our hope that the Geneva conference will lead to the restoration of peace in Indochina. We believe that the prospect of establishing a unity of defensive purpose throughout Southeast Asia and in the Western Pacific will contribute to an honorable peace in Indochina."

Grifton Man To Be New Librarian Of Congress

GRIFTON — L. Quincy Mumford, native of Grifton, is slated to be the new Librarian of Congress. The nomination of Mumford for the post which has been vacant since last July, is expected to be sent to the Senate by President Eisenhower any day. Mumford has been librarian of the Cleveland Public Library since 1950. He served with the library of Congress for one year prior to World War II as head of its processing department, and he had been head of a similar department of the New York Public Library. Mumford is a graduate of Grifton High School and attended Duke University where he received an AB degree in 1925 and a MA degree in 1928. He graduated from the Library School of Columbia University in New York in 1929.

New High School Plans Discussed By School Board

Preliminary plans for a new senior high school in Greenville were discussed for more than three hours last night by members of the City School Board. The board members met with Marvin Johnson, design consultant of the state Board of Education, and J. L. Pierce, consultant of the health and physical education department. At the top of the list of topics discussed were the arrangement and use of auditorium, gymnasium, auxiliary health rooms, cafeteria and lighting and heating facilities for the building. J. H. Rose, superintendent of city schools, said following the meeting, "We have not adopted any final plans, but we got a lot done that is worthwhile to the plan of the building." He said preliminary plans for the new high school are expected to be ready next week for the consideration of the local school board and state school officials. Johnson discussed with members of the board cost figures on a number of similar high schools in North Carolina for which bids have been recently let. He told the board the overall cost on the type of building considered for Greenville had been running from an average of $9.50 to $10 per square foot. Rose said the building now being considered for the new senior high school would contain about 70,000 square feet. "We would like to get the building for $9 per square foot," he said. He added that equipment for the new building probably would cost another $100,000.

Three More Pay Filing Fees To Election Board

Three more candidates have paid their filing fees with the Pitt Board of Elections, it was reported this morning. Walter Jones of Farmville, who announced recently that he is a candidate for the State House of Representatives, paid his filing fee yesterday to officially become a candidate. Also paying his filing fee yesterday was W. C. Cobb of Belvoir, who filed as a candidate for Justice of the Peace of Belvoir Township. The third candidate to officially file with the Board of Elections was Zeb Manning of Grifton, who paid the fee this morning to become the second candidate for constable of Grifton Township. NEW SCHOOL-BUSES RALEIGH (AP) — The State Board of Award yesterday ordered 650 new school buses. Quality equipment & Supply of Charlotte will furnish 350 and Hackney Bros. of Wilson and Perley A. Thomas Car Works of High Point 150 each.

Inquiry Slated Of Possible Long-Time Scandal

Federal Housing Probe Set

By FRED S. HOFFMAN WASHINGTON (AP) — The decks were cleared today for a double barreled probe of a possible scandal in certain of the government's housing operations, evidently stretching back into the Truman administration. The first official rumbling of continuing trouble in the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) came late yesterday when the White House announced the resignation of FHA Commissioner Guy T. O. Hollyday. President Eisenhower at the same time ordered Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole to impound FHA's records "to facilitate the investigations which are being conducted."

Shortly afterward, Cole, Hollyday's boss, announced at a news conference that his agency will investigate "various irregularities and abuses" in the home modernization and repair program. Householders allegedly had been "fleece'd." Cole also said the FBI will check on alleged "illegal or unethical action" in the handling of apartment project financing by FHA officials. Here, he said, investigators will search for evidence of "collusion" between apartment builders and federal officials in the insuring of mortgages on inflated appraisals—something that he said already has cost the government better than 75 million dollars. Cole indicated he expects few criminal actions, but he added that "the great number of these cases indicates there was either gross negligence or collusion."

Allegedly off-color apartment project financing was said to have developed under the post-World War II "middle income" housing program, which died four years ago. But Cole said complaints about overcharges and shoddy work in the home repair field have been coming in for years right up through 1953 when the Eisenhower administration came to power. Announcing acceptance of Hollyday's resignation, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said this step was taken "so that an investigation may be conducted, obviously by another man." At his news conference, Cole paid tribute to Hollyday, 61-year-old former mortgage banker from Baltimore, as "a good Christian gentleman." But he said Hollyday, who was appointed by Eisenhower about a year ago, might be held partially responsible for abuses under the housing repair program because "I believe he has been aware of it and did not act."

Russian Diplomat Unmasks Spy Ring

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies announced today that the Soviet Embassy's third secretary here had fled the Russians and disclosed a widespread Soviet spy network in Australia. Menzies said a royal commission had been appointed to investigate the information supplied by the Soviet diplomat, Vladimir Petrov. The Prime Minister said Petrov had appealed for political asylum in Australia and had been turned over to the nation's security forces for further questioning. Petrov, Menzies said, had given the security forces a great number of documents and oral information listing Australian "contacts or cooperators," some of them under code names. The government chief told the shocked House the royal commission would investigate these listings, as well as activities of agents of the Soviet secret police in Australia.

Petrov's switch to the West closely paralleled that of Igor Gouzenko, the code clerk in the Kremlin's embassy in Ottawa, who in 1945 broke with the Russians and turned himself over to the Canadians. His disclosures broke open the Soviets' wartime atom spy ring in Canada and the United States. Petrov's break came less than three months after the disappearance in Japan of Soviet diplomat Yuri Rastvorov. Although the U.S. government has never officially acknowledged it, American sources in Japan have said Rastvorov asked for and was granted political asylum by the United States. He has been described as Russia's top spy in Japan. He was second secretary of the defunct Soviet mission to Tokyo when he disappeared last Jan. 24, just before he was scheduled to return to Russia under orders. There was speculation in Tokyo that he was flown to the U.S. base at Okinawa.

Greene County Child Poisoned, Dies, On Drinking Disinfectant

A small Negro girl of Greene County died yesterday after drinking an ounce of nicotine sulphate solution used to disinfect chicken coops. Milton Brown, Greene County Deputy Sheriff who acted as coroner yesterday, said the child apparently found a two-ounce bottle of the potent poison in a storage room near the farm house where she lived. He said she was three years old. The child, Lillie Lajune Moye, was rushed to a physician's office in Ayden where it was discovered that she had drunk the poison but died before she arrived. She lived with her parents and grandmother on the J. W. McLawhorn farm in Greene County. Brown said the three-year-old girl and an older child were playing in the yard near the house, and apparently found the concentrated poison in a two-ounce bottle in a storage room. The adults, he said, soon discovered something was wrong with the youngster and rushed her to Ayden to a physician. She died, Brown said, about one-and-one-half miles before she reached Ayden. The other child apparently had also taken some of the concentrated poison in his mouth, but spit it out before swallowing it. He was treated by a physician and released. The poison, Brown said, is so powerful in its concentrated form, that two ounces of poison is mixed with six gallons of water to be used as a disinfectant on chicken coops and fowls. The child was taken to Ayden by a neighbor Jennie Barrett, accompanied by its mother Ollie Bee Moye. The father, John Henry Moye was not at home when the accident happened, Brown said.

I. A. Sugg Dies In El Paso Monday Nite

EL PASO, TEXAS — I. A. Sugg, 75, native of Greenville, North Carolina, died here Monday night in Providence Memorial Hospital. He had been in declining health for the past two years. Funeral services will be conducted at 11 A. M. Friday at Waycross, Georgia, where the deceased made his home prior to coming to El Paso. The family requests that no flowers be sent.

Mr. Sugg was born in Greenville, the son of the late Col. Isaac A. and Mittie Rountree Sugg. As a young man he entered the employ of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, later moving to Waycross where he spent a number of years. While living in Waycross he married Miss Alex Carwell, of that city. More than 30 years ago he and his wife moved to El Paso where they have been making their home since that time. He engaged in the brokerage business until ill health forced his retirement about two years ago.

In addition to his wife, survivors include a sister Mrs. E. F. McCulloch, of Elizabethtown, N. C. and a brother B. B. Sugg of Greenville, N. C.

Saw Two Hands, No Body Or Feet

MERIDEN Conn. (AP)—Patrolman Leo M. Caponigro was walking his beat last night when an excited motorist came to him. "Officer, I just saw a car going down the street with two hands sticking out of its trunk," he said. "Just hands, officer, no body, no feet."

The motorist gave the policeman the registration number of the car and an hour later Patrolman Amos B. Guest located the car and its teen-age driver, who explained he had taken his friends out for a ride.

There were so many friends, he said, he had to put one in the trunk and instructed him to hold it open so he could get air.

Rotarians Hear Editor Discuss Secrecy Trends

Ashley B. Futrell, editor and publisher of the Washington Daily News, addressed the Greenville Rotary Club last night, discussing the "trend toward secrecy in North Carolina."

Futrell, president of the state Association of Afternoon Dailies, told Rotarians, "The fight over the secrecy legislation passed in North Carolina is not a fight between the newspapers and legislators. It should be, he said, the concern of the people of the state to preserve 'their right to know.'"

Futrell asserted, "The right of the people to know is stronger than the right of the legislators to secrecy."

The secrecy legislation, he said, was termed by many as a slap at one particular North Carolina newspaper by some members of the legislature. He stated the secrecy legislation was a slap at all the newspapers, radio and television stations of the state as well as all the people of the state including legislators who were not members of the appropriations committees.

The press has made mistakes, he said, and in some instances the press has not kept its coattails clean. "We might have caused the people of the state to lose confidence in the press; but the exasperations of legislators is small when compared with the denial of the people to their right to know."

Futrell traced the developments in the 1953 session of the General Assembly which led to the passage of the secrecy legislation. First, he said, there was the charter for the town of Four Oaks which would have permitted the city council of the municipality to have secret sessions, but the secrecy provision of the charter was removed before the legislation was passed. Scholarships Are Awarded To Five

Five North Carolina high school seniors with excellent scholastic records have been chosen as recipients of scholarships granted by East Carolina College, according to an announcement by Dr. Clinton R. Prewett, chairman of the college scholarship committee.

The scholarships were offered to outstanding students of English, business education, and the social studies. Each student chosen for the honor will receive a scholarship of $100, to be applied to educational expenses at East Carolina. The five young men and women plan to enter college next fall as freshmen.

Recipients and the subjects in which they will specialize at East Carolina are: English, Elizabeth Royce Shearin, Warrenton, and Anne Styons, Jamesville; business education, Kenneth Alan Barlow, Essex, and Mary Grey Tart, Clarkton; and social studies, Joyce Ann Norris, Hampstead.

No Cause For Alarm Over New Disease

Certainly there is no cause for alarm or hysteria over the detection of several cases of blastomycosis in the Grifton area of Pitt County.

Likewise there is no cause for alarm over the survey being made of people in the area in an attempt to see if there can be found other traces of the disease.

So far as we have been able to determine from physicians the disease, while it is not detected as often as some other diseases might be, is nothing to cause alarm among the people of the Grifton community or people who visit the Grifton community.

The survey which is being made, as we understand it, is as much in the way of medical research as anything else. It is the rar-

Still Time To Get Hat In Ring

Just a few more days and all the political candidates for the Democratic primary in Pitt County will have their hats in the ring.

Of course all the hats may already be in the political ring for that matter; but there still remains until Saturday for candidates to file for offices in the May 29 primary.

As usual thing there are several late filers who wait until the final days of the filing period before officially plunking their filing fee on the line to assure their names being on the ballot.

Candidates who already have declared for offices are increasing the tempo of their campaigns daily. So far it looks as if the campaigning in Pitt, while it will be heated for a number of offices, will be kept on a high plane. Indeed we hope so.

In county races, as well as in state-wide races, it is the obligation of candidates and their supporters to keep their campaigns on a high level rather than stooping to mudslinging and back-handed methods which are sometimes employed when the campaigns reach their peak.

Indications already point to a warm political year in Pitt. It may be even warmer if more candidates enter the picture between now and the time the filing period closes Saturday.

IS THEOLOGY OF ANY VALUE?
We often hear people say, "I don't think much of theology. I believe in the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount—particularly the Golden Rule—and I just go along trying to obey them."

One may be pardoned if he fails to work up much enthusiasm over such sentiments. In the first place, keeping the Ten Commandments and practicing the Sermon on the Mount constitute quite an achievement. There is really no possibility of our being able with any considerable satisfaction to live up to such standards unless a Power outside our own enables us to do so.

Theology deals with this Power outside ourselves. The word "theology" means "knowing about God." Theology declares that a loving God rules the universe and that He has shown his love in the ministry and mission of Jesus Christ. The suggestion of theology is that we avail ourselves of the reservoirs of power available to us if we submit to the will of God and trust Him with childlike simplicity. Then indeed we have something in our hearts which will enable us to keep the Ten Commandments. The Sermon on the Mount then becomes a message for us. We can even aspire to loving our neighbor as ourselves if we have the Power of God supporting us—but not until then.

The attempted elimination of James Roosevelt from the Congressional race, according to this widely held viewpoint, is designed to strengthen the candidacy of Franklin D. As evidence of Democratic resurgence and condemnation of the Eisenhower Administration, the Democrats are extremely anxious to return the Empire State to their file.

Dewey also may be influenced by personal considerations. He finds that he can live on the scale which the State provides only if he earns $400,000 a year in private law practice. Finally, he will be entitled to a $25,000 pension after another term at Albany.

ity of the occurrence of the disease rather than the seriousness which has caused the attention to be focused upon the area where it has been detected.

Certainly the detection of the cases in the Grifton area—while not all of them were in Grifton—is no reflection upon the community. The cooperation of the people of the area is indicative of their willingness to aid in the medical research which is going on.

Physicians have asserted that so far as is known the disease is not contagious although the means of infection is not definitely known. Physicians have also ventured the opinion that the discovery of blastomycosis may be due to new diagnostic methods which have made possible the identification of the disease more readily. It could be that as many cases of blastomycosis have been present in other communities as have been discovered in Grifton, only they were diagnosed as other illnesses which have a similar symptoms.

At any rate, physicians have assured the people there is no cause for alarm because of the discovery of the cases.

Study Of Cause May Prevent Recurrence

Goldsboro's terrible mid-town explosion yesterday was one of the worst disasters in recent history in North Carolina.

It is a disaster which might have happened in any of a number of cities in the state. It is a disaster which has shocked the citizens of the state and particularly residents of both large and small cities.

So far, the cause of the blast which has taken at least three lives and possibly several more, has not been announced officially. It may take several days of investigation or maybe a few weeks of intense study of the wreckage to determine the cause of the explosion.

No matter how long it takes or what the expense is, the cause of the explosion should be found. It could be the conditions which caused the so-far mysterious blast in Goldsboro's business section exist in some other community in North Carolina. If the cause can be determined, perhaps the knowledge gained can prevent a similar catastrophe in some other city.

Undoubtedly there is much for other municipalities to learn from the bitter experience which Goldsboro suffered Monday. While the knowledge gained from a careful and minute study of the Goldsboro blast will not bring back the lives lost or repair the damage done, it may be a great aid in preventing a repeat of the disaster elsewhere.

HARDIN, MONTANA, TRIBUNE-HERALD: "We are not trying to prove there isn't unemployment at the present time, or that it is not a serious problem, but it does seem that some groups—for obvious reasons—are overemphasizing the situation. These same groups often are the first to advocate more government spending as a means of curbing unemployment and assuring prosperity. The federal government cannot forever operate with a deficit, increased spending, and then cut taxes. It isn't in the cards."

Somebody Told Me

The Cast Is Really Working

This morning at ten minutes after one the cast of the Passion Play walked out of Wright Building, East Carolina College, after completing the next to the last rehearsal. Tomorrow night through Saturday, at eight o'clock, you will have the opportunity to see the dramatized story of Christ from the time he entered the holy land until his resurrection.

To say the play is worth seeing is the understatement of the year. As Frank Strawn, one of the disciples, put it, "There are several times when Perry White (The Christus) is talking that goose pimples come on my neck. I have learned more from this play than anything I have ever come in contact about the Easter story. The play just gives you something that reading and listening to sermons will not give you."

Frank is also a crap shooter in the play, along with Mitchell White and George Tyndall. These men have the distinction of shooting their first crap in a church play!

If you want to hear me howl like a dog, come to the play. In addition to the job of controlling the curtain, I'm the dog you'll hear howling at the end of one of Judas' speeches.

In the role of the Christus, Perry White shows how impressive the role can be. It's amazing to me how good the amateurs are who take part in the play.

In undertaking the Passion Play there were some in the St. James Methodist Church who thought it was too big a job. Greenville's newest church, St. James has proved that it can handle a big job, although it's a small church.

The answer is cooperation. Several people in the cast have more than one role. Many church members, like Harold Bowers, have worked night after night for weeks. In the case of Harold, it's been five weeks. He's the stage manager and has managed the construction of all the scenery.

It's really unfair to name any individuals that have made the Passion Play what it is. It's been nearly 200 who are participating in one way or the other. It's inspiring to see the spirit with which the cast and supporters have undertaken their tasks.

Please do not miss this play. I cannot impress that upon you too much. Tickets are available at Warren's Drug Store or by calling me at 3440 daytime or 4889 at night. Not only is St. James interested in the financial success in order to aid in building the church, but we are interested in the inspiration you will get by seeing the Passion Play.

And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

ISSUES IN POSTAL INCREASE

(Henderson Dispatch)
Since no final decisions have been reached, it is by no means certain that proposed increases in postal rates will be defeated in the present session of Congress. Arguments have been advanced on both sides for and against. But the strongest contention in opposition is not included.

Hearings are about to be resumed in both houses. The original administration bill would impose a four-cent rate per ounce on first class mail, including letters destined for out-of-town; would place a two-cent rate on bulk third class mail, and a thirty-five percent two-stage increase on periodicals. The four-cent levy is common to both Senate and House versions, with some modifications on second and third class provisions.

The Senate Post Office Committee has shown little enthusiasm for the increases. But a similar situation may arise there as was noted in the hostile House committee. These factors are loyalty to the administration, a search for new revenue to offset some of the tax reductions now being approved, and a desire to vote pay increases for postal workers.

Is it fair, however, to expect users of the mails to make up deficits arising from tax reductions or to come through to provide pay increases for postal workers? No one agency should be penalized for these generosity.

Three factors that operate against a rate increase are hesitancy of Congress to hike first class rates to four cents in an election year, reluctance to raise business operating costs during the present period of uncertainty, and confusion over actual needs of the Post Office Department.

Strongest contention against increases is the fact that the postal service is the servant of all people and that no other department or activity of the government is expected to pay its way, as is argued for the post office. Any shortage there should be treated as costs are viewed elsewhere, namely, to be made up from the general budget. Unfortunately, few congressmen appear to be keen enough to discern the difference. Those who think there should be no increase ought to let their congressman know how they feel.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET

COMMENDATION In the midst of charges and cross accusations of inefficiency on part of incumbents going around in the current political campaign, there were several outstanding commendations for good work around Capitol square. Governor Umstead was almost effusive in his commendation of the way the Stevenson rally was handled by Mecklenburg county folks. The Governor also asked for extra time to say exceptionally nice things about L. Y. Ballentine, commissioner of agriculture, and C.D. Baycom, chief of the weights and measures division, at the dedication of the calibrating station.

Several State Departments which have recently acted as hosts to visiting dignitaries and students from other countries have been complimented by Federal agencies for the excellence of their work. This commendation has another side which bothers the State folks a little bit. The Washington agencies are asking now how many more groups can be accompanied with comparable attention here.

In that connection, too, it might be noted that visitors to the State Capitol, whether from foreign countries, other States or from points in North Carolina, are asking the kind of questions which make the Capitol square people do some studying. Ed Rankin, secretary to Governor Umstead, said he had been asked so many questions he could not answer that he was having to do homework on North Carolina history and geography.

Some questions are very foolish and others are obviously designed to trap the impartial people. Vast majority are sincere and appropriate, but often unexpected. Like what is the altitude of Raleigh? Tow many times has the State constitution been amended? How many governors has North Carolina had? What is the taxable valuation of the 100 counties? Why are the particular portraits on Capitol walls instead of those of other statesmen? Etcetera.

EAST-WEST — There are many people who insist that the east-west alternation of Governors has been discarded. Others think the rule should and does continue in effect, with such dispute as may arise being over the dividing line rather than the policy itself. Senator Alton Lennon, in a speech before the YDC at East Carolina College the other night, argued for maintenance of the east-west distribution of United States Senators and appealed to the people to preserve the policy by nominating him—the first senator to come from east of Raleigh in more than 20 years—rather than some man from Durham or westward.

SECRECY — The fact that practically every candidate for the General Assembly who has announced or filed to date has made some mention of the 1953 "secrecy law" indicates that it will be an influential, if not controlling, issue in most local races.

Legislators who voted to rush the law under suspension of the rules last March have realized they locked the doors much tighter than they thought they were doing at the time. Openly designed to exclude certain news reporters from committee sessions, the law actually bans everybody—including other members of the Legislature—except special favorites of members of the subcom-mission. A common position taken by most of the candidates for reelection is they don't mind keeping out reporters but they don't like to be locked out themselves. And the rank and file of citizens are waking up to the fact that exclusion of reporters means also exclusion of all tax payers and voters.

Opinion prevails among many close observers of legislative procedure over a period of years that repeal of the 1953 secrecy law will probably be the first important action of the 1955 General Assembly.

TOBACCO — Pressed plug "chewing tobacco" has long been a favored campaign item with Kerr Scott. Comes now Bob McFarland, clerk of court in Polk county and candidate for reelection, with another kind of campaign tobacco. Bob is handing out to his friends small hunks of native weather-cured "rabbit tobacco." And some friend of Senator Alton Lennon provided him with a quantity of cigars in cellophane wrappers bearing the admonition to vote for Lennon.

ROADS — Folks charged with responsibility for locating roads are continuously faced with opposing ideas of those who want main highways for serving through traffic and local roads to serve mainly the home folks. The Fed-

Shortage In Plenty

By ELMER ROESSNER
There are always shortages in the midst of plenty and right and there are shortages of scientific and professional skills in the midst of considerable unemployment. Precious few of the graduates from engineering, electronics, chemistry and physics courses will not go from commencement to jobs this summer. And many companies are unhappy because they failed to get a satisfactory share of the 1954 college crop.

One solution to shortages of specialized skills is the better utilization of those available.

Sixty-six experts were brought together at Columbia University last October by the National Manpower Council to discuss this better utilization as far as scientific and professional talents are concerned.

When 66 experts on anything get together, the chances are pretty good that there will be 66, if not 67 or 68, solutions. But in this case, Dr. Eli Ginzberg, research director of the Council, without attempting to reconcile all views, extracted recurring approaches. These are included in a report on the conference, which has just been published by Columbia University Press (at $3.50) under the title of "The Utilization of Scientific and Professional Manpower." These suggestions are:

1.—The transference of work from professional persons to technicians and assistants, thereby freeing the professionals for their most valuable work.

2.—The increased use of capital to permit full employment of professional skills. It was pointed out that failure to equip hospitals for maximum efficiency wastes much professional time, etc.

3.—Incentives to prevent the wasteful turnover of professional trained personnel. One such incentive is adequate pay.

4.—New work patterns to improve the total output of professional and semiprofessional personnel working in concert. This means better use of teams.

5.—Reassessing the appropriateness of the education and training of professional persons, recognizing the way persons really work instead of way they might work.

6.—Improved leadership and administration, with a re-examination of old practices and traditions.

It's really unfair to name any individuals that have made the Passion Play what it is. It's been nearly 200 who are participating in one way or the other. It's inspiring to see the spirit with which the cast and supporters have undertaken their tasks.

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—For some years a group of school scientists at Yale University has been studying the problem of what people do to alcohol (and vice versa), and now they are investigating hangovers.

Behind this probe is a merciful idea—the wish to find a cure for hangovers.

It can't be done. Frank Merriwell was unable to find a hangover remedy during the period when he made Yale famous. Tom Swift and the Rover Boys, I have heard, spent their adult years in quest of an electric or atomic cure to the hangover, and found no answer.

Ever Toots Shor, the restaurant owner who collects the more interesting hangovers of his clients and pastes them in his memory book as a hobby, can recommend no morning after remedy better than "Bloody Mary," which is vodka tinted pink with tomato juice. Very popular with advertising men.

But taking another drink, the return to "the hair of the dog that bit you," cannot be classified as either a cure or a remedy for a hangover. It can only be regarded as the compounding of a felony, and the postponement of a just punishment.

There are two reasons why they will never find a real medical cure for a hangover.

First, they started too late. They don't have the material to work on. The 24-karat genuine, double throbbing vibrating hangover is a thing of the past. It went out with prohibition. The present day hangover is just a hangover itions and the elimination of prejudices.

These are reported here because the ideas may have application to almost all businesses, as well as only those needing scientific and professional men. The failure to install modern machinery in a plant can waste as much manpower as failure to equip a hospital for maximum efficiency; transferring minor duties to other people can get more productivity out of a plant manager as well as a surgeon.

SWORN STATEMENT CONVINCES SHOPPEES

There have been so many "at wholesale price" sales recently that the public—often with justification—has become skeptical.

A Rochester, N.Y., appliance and television dealer eradicated all doubts. He staged a "notary public sale" and the advertising featured a copy of an affidavit in which he swore that all prices were the actual cost price plus transportation and warehouse charges.

It produced 250 sales the first day.

PLASTIC PRODUCE BAGS HAVE MULTIPLE EFFECTS

The introduction of polyethylene film bags for prepackaging fresh fruits and vegetables has had multiple effects on business and the American standard of living, T.W. Sharp, Bakelite executive, said at the National Packaging Exposition, now in progress at Atlantic City.

They keep produce fresher longer, they help it sell faster at lower labor costs and they eliminate waste, he pointed out. Before the introduction of the plastic bags, housewives judged the freshness of root vegetables by their tops and, since tops wilt quickly, dealers often could not sell still-prime vegetables. Now tops are cut off at the fields. This not only eliminates waste but it improved the quality since, Mr. Sharp said, tests show that tops draw nutrients out of root vegetables. Cutting off tops also saves shipping weights.

Prepackaging has increased the distances from which produce can be shipped into any locality, thereby giving shoppers wider choices and longer seasons, he added.

Stupidity Always Has Its Price

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—For some years a group of school scientists at Yale University has been studying the problem of what people do to alcohol (and vice versa), and now they are investigating hangovers.

Behind this probe is a merciful idea—the wish to find a cure for hangovers.

It can't be done. Frank Merriwell was unable to find a hangover remedy during the period when he made Yale famous. Tom Swift and the Rover Boys, I have heard, spent their adult years in quest of an electric or atomic cure to the hangover, and found no answer.

But taking another drink, the return to "the hair of the dog that bit you," cannot be classified as either a cure or a remedy for a hangover. It can only be regarded as the compounding of a felony, and the postponement of a just punishment.

There are two reasons why they will never find a real medical cure for a hangover.

First, they started too late. They don't have the material to work on. The 24-karat genuine, double throbbing vibrating hangover is a thing of the past. It went out with prohibition. The present day hangover is just a hangover phrase from the heyday of the real hangover. There were giants in the old days. There aren't any now. No one alive today that I know of could sustain the kind of hangovers the old-timers remember about.

Second, it is against nature that there should be any cure for a hangover except time and the acceptance of common sense. Pleasure pursued too far must always be followed by pain, the penalty for foolishness. This is the iron law of living—that stupidity must pay its price.

Scientists are still puzzled over what a hangover really is. They seek a physical explanation to describe a rebellion of the soul. A hangover is only partly a suffering of the body; it is even more a suffering of the spirit, hag-ridden by guilt, fear, and self-accusations for the sin of self-indulgence. In a hangover the mind harries the body as much as the body harries the mind. A hangover is a form of self-hate; it is the facing of one's self in an interior mirror—and the shock of recognizing the image. The shock must last until one can look back into the mirror and see a fairer image, and this takes time.

Science would be better to look for a magic capsule to prevent stupidity rather than seek for a pill to cure hangovers. The hangover is a nature's built-in barrier to protect a man from his own further foolishness.

It is an alarm clock of the conscience and the body, and anyone who finds a way to turn off that alarm clock is no real friend of the race of man.

Commendations Resound Among Political Complainants

eral super-highway system has absorbed a lot of North Carolina money in matching funds which some people think could have been spent to better advantage in building local service routes.

The folks in Madison county are sore because so much money has been allocated to the Pigeon River route into Tennessee at expense of the French Broad route. Now many Buncombe county citizens are disturbed over reports that proposed rerouting of a Lake Lure bypass will make a fine new road from Rutherfordton to Hendersonville and thence westward by way of US-64, thus diverting a lot of through traffic away from the Asheville gateway to the Great Smokies and the south-west.

For similar reasons some of the operators of travel service facilities from Edenton to Elizabeth City are not too happy about the State spending from two to five million dollars for bridges across Croatan Sound and Alligator River.

Georgescu Boys On Way To Parents Following Release

By OSGOOD CARUTHERS
 NEW YORK (AP)—The two Georgescu boys, held hostage by Red Romania seven years in a fruitless effort to get their father to spy on his adopted America, flew toward New York today for a joyous reunion with their mother.

Their homecoming meal will include steak, said overjoyed Mrs. Lygia Georgescu, 46.

The sons, Constantin, 19, and Peter, 15, were reunited in Munich, Germany, yesterday with their Romanian-born father, 50-year-old Valeriu C. Georgescu, whose bold rejection of Communist spy demands gained wide attention last May and caused recall of the first secretary of the Romanian legation in Washington following State Department charges of blackmail.

Washington had been negotiating for months to get the youths out of Romania. Rep. Francis P. Bolton (R-Ohio) who worked on the case last fall as a delegate to the U. N. General Assembly, disclosed last night that President Eisenhower recently wrote personally to the Romanian government appealing for their release as "the heartful thing to do."

The parents had not seen the lads since 1947, when the couple left the family's native Bucharest for a two-month visit to the United States. The father, branch chief in Romania for Standard Oil of New Jersey, was refused readmittance "as a representative of American capital, and they refused to let our sons join us."

Subsequently Georgescu and his wife became American citizens. Constantin and Peter left Bucharest by train Saturday and arrived in Vienna yesterday morning. They flew to Munich for a tearful reunion with their father, who said he did not know until two weeks ago they would be freed.

Mrs. Georgescu first heard the good news at 2 yesterday morning from two strange voices—her sons'—over transatlantic telephone from Munich.

"It was so wonderful to be called Mama again after so many years," she said. "Their voices were of men. I did not recognize them." The State Department last May disclosed Georgescu's story charging the Romanian first secretary, Christache Zambeti, visited him in New York and tried to blackmail him into spying for the Reds in exchange for his sons' liberty. Georgescu said he refused to "sell my conscience" by betraying his newly acquired American citizenship.

Zambeti was forced to leave the country but protested he had been framed.

During the long separation, the boys first stayed with their grandmother in Bucharest. Constantin was drafted into the Romanian army and attached to a labor battalion. Peter was put into training as an electrician. Their formal education ended in 1950.

Indict 3 Women On Charges Of Kidnaping Girl

SMITHFIELD, N. C. (AP)—The Johnston County Grand jury indicted three women yesterday on kidnaping charges. They were accused of beating a pretty Wilsons Mills girl after luring her from her high school class by saying the girl's mother was sick in the hospital.

The girl, 18-year-old Betty Jean Perry said one of the three accused her of "running around with her husband."

Named in the indictments were Mrs. Louvea Medlin and Mrs. Mary Parrish, sisters and Mrs. Ray A. Lynch, all of Wilsons Mills.

Deputy Sheriff J. T. Smith said the girl gave this account of the incident:

The three women drove up to the Wilsons Mills High School just before classes ended on Feb. 26. They got the girl excused from class by saying her mother was in the hospital.

They said they would take her to the hospital and drove "three or four miles" down the road where they stopped the car and began beating her. One of the three asked the girl if she'd been "running around with her husband." The girl said she denied this.

Miss Perry said that because of the excitement she did not recall which of the women made the accusations, but she denied "running around" with any of their husbands.

Solicitor W. Jack Hooks said the charges against the three women probably will be continued until the June term of Johnson Superior Court. Bond was fixed at $500 each.

Report Of Death Was Exaggerated

ENID, Okla. (AP)—A report of the death of Loby Forres, who claims to be 109, turned out to be greatly exaggerated.

"I'm not dead," he told officers who came to his home yesterday. They found him sitting in bed.

"He said he intended to live at least until Dec. 17—his 110th birthday. He guessed neighbors reported him dead when they saw him collapse carrying a load of wood."

In 1890 about 20 per cent of the U. S. labor force was in the 45-64 age bracket, but that bracket accounted for 30 per cent in 1950.

McCarthy Aides To Tell How They Will Back Claims

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Senate investigators subcommittee aides go before their bosses today to discuss how they hope to back up the "blackmail" charges they helped Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) level at Army officials.

The two, Chief Counsel Roy M. Cohn and Chief of Staff Francis P. Carr, are key figures in the McCarthy-Army row which the subcommittee plans to explore in public sessions starting April 22.

McCarthy has stepped temporarily from the subcommittee's chairmanship while his fellow members investigate the dispute. He was reported "somewhere in Arizona" nursing a throat ailment.

Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens, a storm center in the dispute, was said to have agreed at a closed meeting with the subcommittee yesterday to give the senators an advance statement "of all the accusations" the Army will make against McCarthy, Cohn and Carr, together with a list of prospective witnesses.

Ray H. Jenkins, special counsel for the inquiry, told a news conference he thought Carr and Cohn would appear as counsel for McCarthy. He withdrew that interpretation however, when Sen. Mundt (R-SD) said McCarthy himself had not made exactly clear whether they would have authority to speak for him.

Mundt, presiding over the inquiry told newsmen the idea of getting the advance statements is to try to prevent either side from gaining an unfair advantage by springing a "surprise package" of testimony.

Claim Man Bit Off Her Finger

BALTIMORE (AP)—Accused of biting off a woman's finger, 38-year-old Benjamin Bell was held in $1,000 bail for grand jury action yesterday.

He pleaded innocent but admitted he and a neighbor, Elizabeth Robinson, fought after she got angry when he stuck his finger into a pot of fish on her stove.

Tied Up Her Dog To The Mail Box

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—When the postman constantly failed to stop by the mailbox of a Galveston woman, she called the post office to find the reason why.

She was told that her dog had driven the mailman away—but that he would deliver her mail if she tied up the dog.

She agreed to this. And so yesterday the postman stopped at her house.

But he wasn't too happy about the situation.

The dog was tied to the mail box.

Junkmen Fined For Making Junk

BALTIMORE (AP)—Two young junkmen were fined $75 each in Northeastern police court yesterday for making their own junk.

It was testified they took three copper rain spouts off garages, mashed them and tossed them into their junk wagon. The spouts were worth $10 apiece.

Removed Pencil From Stomach

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Michael Egan, 8, put a four-inch pencil in his mouth as he worked out a stickler on his fourth-grade arithmetic test yesterday in Southwest School.

"I let go and it went down my throat," he told a doctor. "I tried to cough it up but it went right down."

It took surgery at St. Francis Hospital to get the pencil out of his stomach.

Lab Tests Conclusively Link Suicide To Case

RALEIGH (AP) — SBI Director James W. Powell says laboratory tests "conclusively" linked the suicide of a Chatham County man to the Cochran bombing cases.

"In view of this we have closed the files on the Mount Airy and Edenton bombings," Powell announced yesterday. "However, if any additional clues can be found they will be studied and investigated."

For more than two years the SBI had sought to clear up the booby-trap death at Mount Airy of William Homer Cochran Jr., a young agriculture teacher. He was killed when dynamite wired to the ignition of his pickup truck exploded on New Year's Eve, 1951.

The case flared anew at Edenton last week when an attempt was made on the life of his pretty widow, Mrs. Imogene Cochran. She found a crude bomb in a box under the front seat of her car. The bomb went off at the Edenton police department, injuring Police Chief George I. Dall.

A dramatic climax came Friday when George Henry Smith, 38, who lived near the childhood home of Mrs. Cochran, was found shot to death near his farm home in Chatham County. A .38 rifle was nearby. He had been questioned by SBI agents a short time before he killed himself.

Powell said laboratory examinations showed vacuum cleaner sweepings from Smith's car contained granules of blasting powder. These were similar, he added, to granules found in Mrs. Cochran's car.

Some copper wire found in a shirt worn recently by Smith, Powell stated, was similar to the wire used to rig the Edenton bomb. He added the bomb was contained in a cut-down carton in which a storage battery had been shipped. The same brand of battery, he said, was sold at a service station at Pittsboro where Smith worked.

Powell said his agents reconstructed the Edenton bomb yesterday and set it off in the SBI laboratory.

Mrs. Cochran was quoted by the SBI as saying Smith had attempted to date her once when she was home from college, and that he had called upon her at her Mount Airy office before she married Cochran.

Truman Cautions Against Tactics Of Totalitarians

FULTON, Mo. (AP) — Harry Truman declared last night that in fighting a fifth column in the United States "we should be sure that we do not fall into the trap of adopting the totalitarian tactics of the Communists themselves."

"The nature of the Communist conspiracy is such that in combating it we have had to scrutinize, very closely, the lives of many citizens," the former President said. "This is part of the struggle against espionage. But in resisting the enemy, we must not tear ourselves apart."

He said that demagogues in this country "are playing our fears to further partisan political ends."

Speaking about "political bogymen who proclaim themselves custodians of our freedom," he apparently referred to Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) without mentioning his name when he remarked:

"There is even one among them whose torrent of wild charges is calculated to damage the faith of Americans in the integrity of their government, Army, schools, churches, their labor unions, and the press. Most of all he is threatening to undermine the respect and confidence Americans must have in one another."

"The cause of freedom both at home and abroad is damaged when a great country yields to hysteria," the former President spoke at Westminster College, where he was scheduled to give another talk today on his presidential papers.

He delved into "mass hysteria and witch hunting in American history" and said that witch hunters "are on the loose again, often cloaked with immunity and armed with subpoenas and the cruel whip-lash of unswayed gossip."

He said history is filled with examples of temporary mob excitement, stirred by false or exaggerated charges resulting in injury to innocent people.

"On various occasions, down through the years, mass hysteria has gripped the populace for temporary periods, resulting in a witch hunt," he added. "There is a common pattern in the development of this hysteria."

"Usually it takes root in an atmosphere of war, severe economic crisis or a threat of either. Insecurity is a fruitful breeding ground for such a movement. In an atmosphere of this kind demagogues or other unprincipled individuals can more easily stir up emotional and irrational fear."

College Band To Offer Lawn Concert Tuesday

The East Carolina College Concert Band will give its annual spring lawn concert next Tuesday afternoon, April 20. Herbert L. Carter of the music faculty will direct the ensemble in a program of light popular music.

The concert will take place at 4:30 p.m. on the East Campus on the lawn adjoining the Administration building and facing Fifth street. The public is invited to be present.

Mr. Carter has announced an attractive program for the "pop" concert. Included will be several tuneful selections from the operetta "Blossom Time," which will be presented at the college April 28 and 29 under the sponsorship of the Student Government Association.

Other numbers will be the overture to "Die Fledermaus" by Johann Strauss, the Waltz King; "Serenade,"

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Phillips have returned from a visit with relatives in Florida.

Mrs. Pauline Taylor was a patient last week at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

One Motorist Is Really 'Floater'

NASHUA, N. H. (AP) — A charge of operating an improperly registered motor vehicle in municipal court brought out that the driver had a car registered in Connecticut, held a Maryland driver's license, claimed to be a resident of Maine and was arrested in New Hampshire.

Given a $5 suspended fine, police wrote one word beside the address line on the report — "floater."

CHAPTER TWENTY

Ravel was standing in the middle of the room, her hat in her hand, her hair brushed to a shine, no trace on her face of that sudden, puffy pathetic person she had put to bed last night. No sign in her manner, either of any contrition or uncertainty because of that descent from decency and self-respect.

She was saying brightly as she evenly: "Peter Percy you low dog! Here I was, all festive and dressed up last night, and he brushed me off so I had to go out with an infant like Pierce Albright."

Julia gave her sister a calm, dismissing smile. "Let's have Christmas now," she suggested. "Do sit down, Johnny. You're soaking up all the heat from the fire."

"We put a red suit on him one year," Ravel said to Pete. "The mask slid down and he couldn't see and he fell over a footstool and there was a rain of tea sets and dolls and stuff. The fountain pen we bought for daddy—we had saved our allowances for ages to buy it—rolled into the hot ashes and was ruined. Dooley waited for hours."

"I was only seven," Julia said. "I thought Santa Claus would be mad at us forever."

"I was almost nine and I wasn't fooled at all," Ravel declared. "I knew those tremendous feet. But John-Mark felt so awful about it he sold two pups and bought daddy another fountain pen. It was supposed to be a dark secret to preserve the illusion of the young but I found out."

"How old were you?" Pete asked John-Mark.

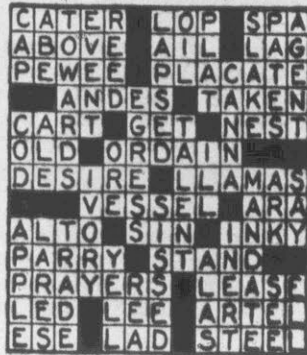

"I was 20. Just a big ungainly loud. Horribly mortified afterward," John-Mark said. "Where's Gale?"

"Stirring something in the kitchen I'll get her," Ravel tossed her hat on the table. "First, though, I'll announce that I haven't a single gift for anybody. I'm broke. All I give in the world is Joachim. Would anybody like a well-trained horse for Christmas?"

Julia frowned to herself. No matter how pressed and worried Gale might be, she had never let her daughters go without money. And Pierce had said that Ravel had cashed a check—signed with Gale's name of course. To buy the "stuff" she hid, so John-Mark had said. A taut anger stiffened Julia so that she clenched her hands in her lap. But she did not speak because Gale was coming in, with her happy Christmas face aglow and Thelma waddling behind her, one expensive, white-toothed grin. But she sat, unappetizingly filled with a tumult of unpleasant thoughts, while John-Mark stalked about, clowning and dumping ribboned packages in laps.

There was the usual gay confusion and babble. Thelma squealing with delight and opening her red umbrella, then cautiously spilling on it because an open umbrella was bad luck inside the house and Gale crying, "Johnny, you angel! I love these!" Ravel blew on the silly brass hunting horn and tried on the waistcoat Julia had bought with Sewell's money, but Julia sat still, her hands drawn back so that they would not touch the little square white package tied with silver ribbon—the package John-Mark had tossed into her lap, after opening the little envelope.

"Yours I think," he remarked. "Nobody else here is a good nurse."

They were all yelling at her then. "Open up your things Dooley. Don't you want to see what Santa Claus brought?"

So with hands that were slightly uncertain she untied bows and ripped loose sticky tape, exclaiming politely over the bottles from John-Mark, the lacy blouse from her mother, the earrings from Mama Harriet, the crocheted collar made by Thelma. Then there was no escape. Pete Marshall's eyes were on her, his mouth quirked into that crooked smile. She read the label first. For a good nurse. No name. No signature. Inside the little box was a pin, the graduate pin of self over him. Then he comes drooling out here and brings you a pin.

"There are," Julia said in a stony voice. "So many things I don't want Gale to know. That you lied when you said you were going to marry Pete—oh, Ravel, such a stupid, useless thing to do!"

"It wasn't a lie. I am going to marry Pete Marshall. Right now I'm more determined on that than on anything I ever did in my life. Pete's an egotistical hood and he needs a grim job done on him; and I'm the woman who can do that."

"But, Rav," Julia cried "if you don't love him—Rav you can't do it!"

"Look, Dooley, let's not fight. I don't even know that I actually want Pete."

"What you do know is that you can't endure being challenged. You lost your hold on John-Mark and now your vanity won't let you be defeated again."

Ravel dropped on the edge of the bed and buried her chin in her palms. "Maybe I did slip there. It was all so corny, the big lug tramping around and acting as though he owned this place and Gale eating it all up—all that fatherly stuff. Lecturing me, for the good of my soul. Telling me all that guff this morning—what a gentle, helpless creature you were, how you needed somebody to take care of you—why, the big goon!" She sprang to her feet abruptly, her lips caught in her teeth, the silver glitter burning in her eyes. "So, that's what he wants!" By deadly purpose was in the rigidity of her body, her voice was the snick of a whip at the barrier. "Dooley I'm terribly indebted to you!" she cried. "You don't know it yet but you've done something for me. I may not have any heart—that's been suggested—but I do have a brain. Clever enough to know how to get what I want."

She hurried out of the room, and presently Julia followed her downstairs, still bewildered. There was no interpreting Ravel no understanding the swift, disizing changes in her that became instantly apparent at the dinner table.

"What is it? Jewelry. Who gave it to you?" demanded Mrs. Ravel.

"It's my graduate pin," Julia looked straight into Pete Marshall's face. "Thank you for bringing it, Dr. Marshall. And thank them at the hospital for me too, will you, please?"

"Pin it on," ordered the old lady. "It looks expensive to me."

"I can't, Mama Harriet, I'm a registered nurse. Thank you all for a lovely Christmas. She gathered up all her gifts and ran upstairs.

She closed the door of her room, but as she had expected, the door opened again almost immediately and Ravel came in, closing it firmly.

"Good show, Miss Taber," she said acidly. "Pete gave you that pin, didn't he?"

"He had no right," Julia replied. "I shall give it back to him tomorrow."

"Meanwhile you don't want Gale to know that you take expensive presents from doctors? Last night Pete wouldn't even see me—after making wild love to me and leading me along to make a fool of my-

Interesting Season Opens Today In Major Leagues

CARL ERSKINE
Hurling For Dodgers

BOB PORTERFIELD
Pitching For Nats
By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (AP) The major leagues today opened what promises to be one of the most interesting baseball seasons in many years.

Rarely has a campaign started with so many vital questions waiting to be answered. The latest and perhaps the most important is: How much will Enos Slaughter help the New York Yankees?

Did the five-time pennant winning Yankees insure another flag when they acquired the 38-year-old Slaughter from the St. Louis Cardinals on the eve of the pennant race? Or did they blow their chance when they sold star pitcher Vic Raschi to the Cardinals six weeks earlier?

The answer may be a long time coming. The prospects are for close races in both leagues. All last year's runner-ups appear strengthened and eager to take a crack at the defending champions.

For the first time in years all 16 clubs started the campaign on the same day. Some 215,000 fans were expected to see the eight inaugurations.

Slaughter, on hand for the Yankees' opener in Washington, was not in line to see action, but Mickey Mantle, the young outfield star, was slated for duty in center field, apparently recovered from his knee operation of last winter.

A sellout of 30,000 was assured to watch President Eisenhower throw out the first ball. After that either left-hander Chuck Stobbs or right-hander Bob Porterfield was to take the mound for the Senators.

Southpaw Whitey Ford, who holds a 5-0 lifetime record against Washington, already has been named to open for the Yankees.

A battle of southpaws was in prospect in Philadelphia, where Eddie Joost was making his managerial debut with the A's. Mel Farr of the Boston Red Sox and Bobby Shantz of the Athletics were the opposing pitchers. A turnout of 12,000 was expected.

Each team's key slugger was absent. Ted Williams, whose fractured collarbone was reported mending rapidly, is not expected back in the Red Sox lineup until May 15 at the earliest. Gus Zernis was out of the Athletics' lineup with a sprained neck.

Baltimore, returning to the majors after 51 years, hoped to get off on the right foot in Detroit. Manager Jimmy Dykes, who moved from Philadelphia to Baltimore, planned to start either Duane Pillette or Don Larsen on the mound. A crowd of 30,000 was slated to see veteran right-hander Steve Gromek make the first pitch for the Tigers.

A good pitching duel was in prospect in Chicago where Early Wynn of Cleveland and Billy Pierce of the White Sox were scheduled to clash before 30,000.

The National League's largest crowd—some 35,000—figured to be on hand for the renewal of the Dodger-Giant feud at the Polo Grounds. Sal Maglie, who has beaten the Dodgers 18 times in 24 decisions, was ready to test his once-aching back against the Brooks, who had Carl Erskine, their World Series hero, fit and ready.

The Dodgers, except for Manager Walter Alton, presented the same lineup that appeared in the series last October and the Giants had Willie Mays, their rookie star of 1951, back in center field after two years in the Army.

Cincinnati, opening the season at home for the 69th straight year, was host to the Braves, who had rookie Henry Aaron in the lineup in place of the injured Bobby Thomson. A capacity crowd of 30,000 was assured long ago to watch this battle of right-hander, with veteran Bud Poffelbier going for the Redlegs against sophomore Bob Buhl. Making his managerial bow for Cincinnati was Birdie Tebbets.

A revamped Pittsburgh team, which opened at home for the first time since 1893, was set to face Philadelphia's ace Robin Roberts with a lineup composed of such hard-bitten veterans as Walker Cooper and Sid Gordon and fuzzy-faced youngsters as Curt Roberts and Gail Allie. Bob Friend, who pitched sensationally in exhibition games, was the Pirates' nominee. Some 20,000 were expected to be on hand.

Rookie Wally Moon was scheduled for duty in center field, Alex Grammas at shortstop and Tom Alston at first base as the Cardinals played host to the Chicago Cubs in St. Louis before about 16,000. The Cubs, under Stan Hack, who replaced Phil Cavarretta only a couple of weeks ago as manager, also boasted three newcomers in the lineup.

They are center fielder Bob Talbot, shortstop Ernie Banks and second baseman Gene Baker. Harvey Haddix, a 20-game winner for the Redbirds last year, was named to oppose veteran southpaw Paul Minner.

Bevo Expelled From Rio Grande

RIO GRANDE, Ohio (AP) — Tiny Rio Grande College has expelled Bevo Francis, the shy, gangling farm boy who put it on the national basketball map.

Francis, an awkward hill-country lad who speaks slowly when he speaks at all, in two years changed Rio Grande from a school without even a basketball court to one with a big-time basketball program.

Last night the school's Committee on Instruction issued a statement saying Francis had been dropped from the rolls because of "an excessive number of unexcused absences, failure to make up more than one of his missed mid-term examinations and failure to attend any classes in the last two weeks."

The announcement appeared to take everyone by surprise, including Francis' coach and personal friend, Newt Oliver, and Bevo's father.

As for Bevo—his real name is Clarence—he was "out fishing" at the time, apparently unaware of the commotion caused by his expulsion.

Francis, a 20-year-old sophomore who learned his basketball by shooting at a hoop in a hayloft, holds the small college season scoring record. The 6 feet 9 center scored 1,255 points last season for a 27-game average of 46.5.

Local Linksmen Beat Washington

Greenville's Coastal Golf Association team won its fourth victory of the season Sunday afternoon by swamping Washington 88-9 on the Greenville course.

Members of both teams were handicapped by the frequent showers but Reynolds May still turned in a 72 for medalist honors. May's round was par for the course. Ernell Webb, Bo Farley, and Charles Moye followed with scores of 73, 76, and 76, respectively, for the Greenville team. McManos was low for Washington with a 75.

The Greenville team lost its first match to New Bern a week ago despite a sub-par round of 69 turned in by Ernell Webb. Webb's round was one stroke below the par 70 for the New Bern course. New Bern won the match 93-8.

Greenville is scheduled to travel to Kinston tomorrow for another CGA match. All local golfers are invited to participate.

Netters Lose

East Carolina College's tennis team opened its season yesterday by losing, 7-2, to the North Carolina State College team. The matches were played on the ECC courts.

Only number one man Paul Cameron of the Pirates was the only East Carolina player to win in the singles and he then teamed with number two man Bob Williams to win in the number one doubles match.

The victory was the first of the season for the State team. The Wolfpack netters had lost three consecutive matches before yesterday.

Hurlers Available For Bucs' Game

A host of pitchers are available for duty Thursday afternoon when East Carolina College's baseball Pirates move back into North State Conference action.

None of the pitchers have worked since last Friday's doubleheader with Elon. Right-hander Ken Hall, the sophomore ace of the squad, is expected to get the starting nod, however. Hall has not worked since the doubleheader with High Point on April 2.

Backing Hall up will be veterans Jimmy Piner and Clyde Owen and freshmen Mack Cherry, Jimmy Barnes, and Dave Harris. Cherry and Barnes saw action last week against Elon, as did relief hurler Gene Taylor.

The Pirates are still leading the pack in the race for honors in the North State's Eastern Division. They have a 4-1 mark. Atlantic Christian opens its season today at Guilford, the number two team in the circuit.

The game Thursday will be a renewal of the Battle of the Bohunk. The Bohunk Bucket is an old wooden water pail that is the symbol of athletic supremacy between the two schools. East Carolina holds it by virtue of a trio of victories during the basketball season.

The game will be played in Wilson's Municipal Stadium.

UNDER THREE PATRICKS
NEW YORK (AP)—Edgar Larrade, forward on the New York Rangers, has played under three different Patrick's. Edgar came to the Rangers when Lester Patrick was running the club. Later he played for Lynn Lester's elder son. Now he is playing for Muzz Patrick, younger son of Lester.

SAMMY SNEAD, the old pro from White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia, yesterday became the second golfer to win the Masters Tournament three times. He defeated Ben Hogan in a special 18-hole playoff for the title after both had ended the regulation 72-holes with scores of 289. In this shot, Snead chips up on the ninth green at the National Golf Course while an unidentified spectator on the left holds his shoes in his hands. The spectator had followed throughout the practice and tournament rounds of the tournament and had come out of his shoes when yesterday's hot weather got the best of sore feet. (AP Wirephoto)

In Masters Tournament At Augusta: Snead Beats Hogan, 'Yips'

By MERCER BAILEY
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Sam Snead, the drawing West Virginian, made two conquests in winning his third Masters golf championship — he beat Ben Hogan by one stroke in their 18-hole playoff and also licked a bad case of "yips."

"Yips" is a Snead-coined word the Slammer uses to describe putting hitters, and he said before the tournament he was in the midst of the worst case of his career.

But Sam handled his putter adequately yesterday and came home in two-under-par 70 to Hogan's 71. The victory bracketed Snead with Jimmy Demaret as a three-time Masters winner. Hogan, too, was seeking his third Masters title, and had hoped to become the first man ever to capture two in succession.

"It was just a question of who got the breaks," Sam said after defeating the little Texan who swept the Masters, U. S. Open and British Open last year.

One of the breaks in Sam's favor came on the 10th hole, where he chipped in from 50 feet for a birdie-three to go ahead of Hogan for the first time.

He used a six iron off the tee and the ball landed back of the green behind a little hump. He used the same club for his chip shot.

"I told that six iron, 'you put me over here, now you get me outta here,'" Sam commented with a broad grin.

Although Hogan managed to pull even when Snead was trapped on No. 12, Ben acknowledged that Sam's fine chip "was a big lift for him."

This was the third time these two golfing greats had met in man-to-man competition, and Snead has come out on top every time. He beat Ben in a San Francisco match play tournament before the war and again in their 1950 playoff for the Los Angeles Open crown.

It was Hogan's second Masters playoff, and his second defeat. Byron Nelson beat him by one stroke over this same hilly Augusta National course in 1942.

Snead picked up $5,000 for his victory and Hogan got $3,125. Each also got an undisclosed percentage of the playoff gate.

Lakers Win

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minneapolis Lakers won their third consecutive National Basketball Assn. title last night by belting Syracuse 87-80 in the decisive seventh game of the final playoffs.

It gave Minneapolis a record of six titles in seven years of operation. Almost all of its playoff supremacy has hinged on indestructible George Mikan and Jim Pollard, who have been with the team since its organization.

NIGHT DEMONS
BOSTON (AP) — The Red Sox compiled a remarkable night game record in 1953, especially on the road. They won 20 out of 27 arc contests in enemy parks. Their over-all night record of 28 won and 14 lost was tops in the American League.

Phants Face Biggest Test In Playing Durham Team

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer
Tomorrow is the testing day for Coach Bill Kittrell's Greenville High School track team as it goes into the Eastern Regional playoffs at Durham. The best schools from the eastern part of North Carolina will be on hand for the Regionals.

Host Durham is the favorite to take the team winning trophy. Close observers of the high school track program this year rate Burlington, Winston-Salem, and Greenville as top contenders for the title along with Durham.

Many of the top performers of the state that will be in the state meet will be on hand tomorrow for the classic held in Duke University Football Stadium. Good showings by individuals tomorrow would indicate a chance for placing in the state meet early in May.

The Green Phantoms will send up their entire team to Durham in an effort to give experience to the boys that do not have much of a chance to place. There also might be a darkhorse in the group who will come up with a surprise and place in the top four.

Coach Kittrell is expected to run James Speight in the 100 yard dash, the 440 yard dash, and in the broad jump. Bill Taft will probably run the 220 yard dash and as a leg of one of the relay teams. Harold Edwards will be counted on to take a first place in the high jump and Cleith Oakley should finish right at the top in the discus throw.

Freshman Edwin Wilkerson has a chance to place in the half-mile run. Wilkerson has turned in a 2:12 time in dual meets and might cut that time with more competition. Wilkerson is one of the outstanding young prospects in the state. Not many freshmen will turn in a half-mile in less than 2:30.

Other boys counted on to score points in the Regionals are Pete West and Jerry Drum in the high jump and Tommy Smith in the shot put and the discus. West and Bob Shackelford are the Greenville entries in the pole vault. Joe Taft will be in the 440 probably for Greenville and one of the boys in the relays. Mitchell Johnson and Billy Sermons will be held out of other races so that they will be fresh for the mile relay.

The Greenies are hoping that their individual stars will come through for first or second places in their events. Instead of running two boys in one event and hoping that one will get a first and the other maybe a fourth, coach Kittrell has decided to just run the best one and let the other rest for his best event.

That seems to be the best method for a team that does not have the reserve strength. The Greenies are rated one of the top teams in the state and they will have their chance to prove it.

At Jacksonville

Greenville High School's baseball team continues its conference schedule this afternoon in Jacksonville when they meet the Cardinals at 3 o'clock.

Left-hander Bill Hendrix is expected to start on the mound for Coach Farley's crew as they go after their second win of the year in league play. Altogether the Greenies have a record of two wins and three losses and a record of one win and two losses inside the family.

Little Leaguers Set Opening Date

Little League supporters in Greenville last night set May 12 as the official opening date for the 1954 Little League season.

The first day's action will be a doubleheader. Immediately following the game, a supper (fried chicken) will be held to raise funds for the Little League program. Mrs. Jack Cobb has been named ticket chairman and will direct the sale of the tickets which are priced at 60 cents and one dollar.

A complete schedule was okayed by the supporters but it will not be available for release until some minor adjustments are completed. Committee reports on the field's condition, grandstand construction, concessions, and umpires were also received.

The system of prisons for punishment of crime is believed by some authorities to have had its origin in Christian belief that solitude is an important factor in penitence.

GASKINS Ready-To-Wear

Starting the Day with an Hour's Rest!

It's about an hour from his home to his office—but he doesn't think of it as a drive at all. He just settles back in the deep, comfortable seat—rests his hand on the inviting wheel—looks out over the hood in the general direction of the office—and starts to relax.

Comes first, the ten-mile stretch in the country. If the car were standing still, it could not be smoother or softer or quieter—as it loafs over the broad, winding highway. There's only the faint sound of the wind, plus the receding trees and posts and buildings, to give him a sense of movement.

Almost before it begins, it seems, the ten-mile stretch is over—and a sign announces the city's limits. The soft pressure of his foot shifts from accelerator to brake—and the big car settles down easily, smoothly and quickly to the prescribed speed.

And then begins the real wizardry of Cadillac performance. Stop and go—in and out—roll and creep... all regulated with the slightest touch of toe and hand. Insofar as the driver is concerned, it's just as easy as the open road—a little slower, of course, but just as calm and relaxing.

And maybe a little bit nicer, in one notable respect—for now there are drivers all about him—stealing glances at his beautiful car, and wondering who's the fortunate person whose name is on the title!

What a car—for highway or street! Owners say the hours behind its wheel are among the finest hours of the day—restful, relaxing and inspiring.

If you haven't as yet driven a 1954 Cadillac—you've been missing something wonderful! Better come in soon—for the most revealing hour you ever spent behind the wheel of a motor car.

Monday's Cases In Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH
 In Police Court Monday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee found three defendants guilty of possession of non-tax paid whiskey for sale and one defendant guilty of possession of non-tax paid whiskey.

Pete Hooks, Negro, 1601 Pitt Street, possession of non-tax paid whiskey for sale, six months on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of $100, costs deducted. The court placed him on probation for two years. The judgment also provides that he is not to possess any intoxicating liquor of any kind.

Dorsey Sparkman, Negro, 606-B Pamlico Avenue, possession of non-tax paid whiskey for sale, three months on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of $50, costs deducted. The court placed him on probation for two years and the judgment also provides that he is not to possess liquor of any kind.

Elias Becton, Negro, 505 West Boyd Avenue, possession of non-tax paid whiskey for sale, three months on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of $50, costs deducted. He was placed on probation two years and the judgment also provides that he is not to possess any intoxicating liquor.

Matilda Bunch, Negro, possession of non-tax paid whiskey, fined $25, costs deducted.

Speeding: James Cuffie, Negro, $20, costs deducted; William H. Carmier, $25, costs deducted, and he is not to drive a car for 10 days.

Driving drunk: Ernest Lee White, Negro, six months on the roads, suspended on payment of $100 and costs. His driver's license will be revoked for a year.

Drunk: J. H. Gibson, $10; John Weston, Negro, 30 days or $10; Wren Lock, Negro, $10.

Mau-Mau Truce Effort Dropped

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—The British say their two-month attempt to negotiate a peace with the Mau Mau has failed. They promise to push their anti-white terrorist organization with new vigor.

Acting Gov. Sir Frederick Crawford, acknowledging that the try at arranging mass surrenders had fallen through, said RAF Vampire jets would aid troops and police in routing out the terrorists.

Planes Diverted To Airlift Task

PUSAN, Korea (AP)—Navy ships today replaced huge Air Force C124 Globemasters in the morale job of transporting American troops to Japan for rest leave.

The Globemasters were diverted last week to the emergency Indochina airlift. The ships will handle only a trickle of troops in comparison with the big planes which transported as many as 1,000 men daily.

FRENCH WOUNDED EVACUATED—French Union troops wounded in the fighting for the battered fortress of Dien Bien Phu in Indochina hurry to board a Red Cross-marked ambulance plane as Vietnam begins to shell the airfield. French sources announced that the Vietminh had pulled back slightly. (AP Wirephoto)

Plane Landed In Street Of Town

LOMITA, Calif. (AP)—Residents of Lomita were surprised yesterday to see a plane skid down the street and come to rest in a front yard.

Rhondo Whettley, the pilot, and James E. Lawrence, passenger and owner of the light plane, were not injured.

The two men, both of nearby

Inglewood, told officers they were making an approach to Torrance Municipal Airport when the plane lost power, hit some wires, crashed into a parked car and continued down the street.

Letter Started Long Marriage

DURHAM, (AP)—Approximately 2,500 persons are expected to attend the annual spring statewide gospel singing convention here April 25. It will feature singing groups from Durham, Greensboro and Winston-Salem.

Letter Started Long Marriage

LOS ANGELES (AP)—When Clovis Johnson proposed marriage he was too bashful to do it in person so he wrote a letter.

The reply was a short note, "I do." Yesterday Clovis and Martha Johnson celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary. Married in Arlington, Mass., they now have 19 grandchildren and 24 great-grandchildren.

Failed To See Store's Window

BALTIMORE (AP)—After an afternoon stroll in Baltimore's 82 degree heat yesterday, the bench at Sears Roebuck & Co. must have looked mighty inviting to 72-year-old Mrs. Serama Crasi.

But before she realized the bench was on display behind the store window, Mrs. Crasi crashed through the 11x11 foot pane.

She was treated for a cut head and hand by a doctor. The store window was demolished.

Health Dept. To Hold Food Service School Next Week

A Food Service School conducted by the Pitt County Health Department and the N.C. Board of Health will be held here April 20, 21, 22, and 23.

The school will be held in the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church's Recreation Room in cooperation with the restaurant operators of Greenville and Pitt County, the North Carolina Association of Quality Restaurants, Inc., and the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development.

The program schedule for Tuesday, April 20 includes a talk on "Germs and Good Food Handling" by Walter C. Lackey, District Sanitarian of the N.C. Board of Health. Dr. Walter C. Humbert, Director of the Pitt Health Department will make the welcome and introduction to the Food Service School. Pitt's Senior Sanitarian W.M. Pate will preside at the two sessions Tuesday.

Tuesday's slate also includes a film on "Food Preparation and Kitchen Habits" as well as a discussion and demonstration on "Petri Dish."

W.A. Broadway, District Sanitarian, State Board of Health will preside at Wednesday's sessions which feature a talk on "Dish Washing Methods and Procedures" and a film on "Company's Coming." There will also be a discussion and demonstration on "Petri Dish Results."

Lackey, District Sanitarian, will preside at Thursday's sessions which will include a talk by Broadway, District Sanitarian. Also Thursday there will be a discussion on "Proper Methods and Personal Hygiene in Food Services" and a film on "Hash-slinging to Food-Handling."

Pate, Pitt's Senior Sanitarian, will preside at the final sessions on Friday. Feature on Friday will be a talk by Fred Whitaker, Director of the State Tourists Bureau, Department of Conservation and Development. Whitaker will talk on "Public Relations as it Relates to the Customer." A film, "North Carolina Travel," will be shown on Friday.

Dr. Humbert said this morning that it is hoped that the school can be held here annually. He added that between eight and nine hundred restaurant owners and employees are expected to attend the school.

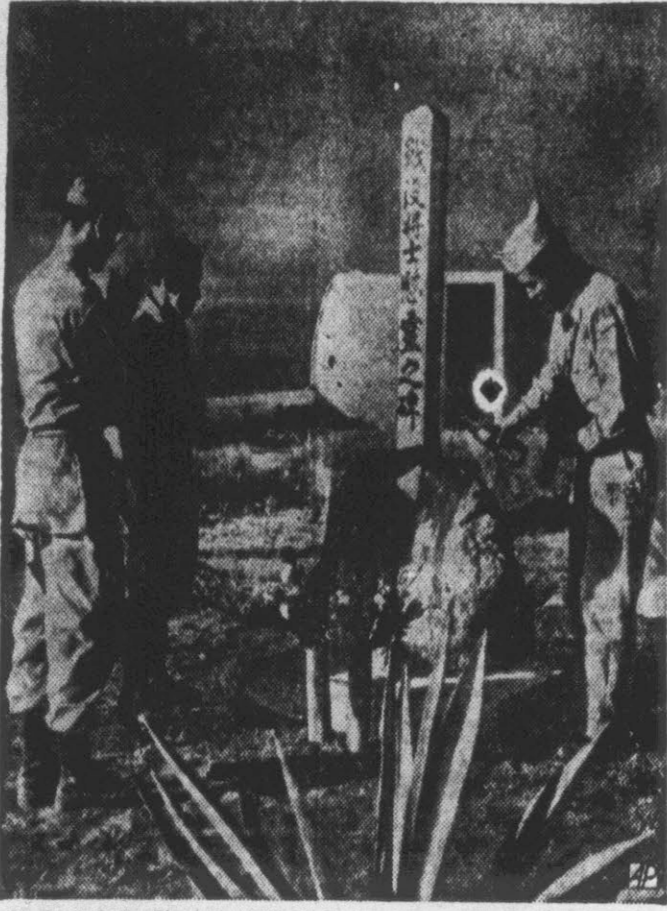

Pate said in reference to the school that, "We are trying to give the people better food service in cleaner, sanitary surroundings." Every person who attends at least one session of the school each day will receive a card stating that he has attended a "Food Service School." Establishments having 100 percent attendance will be issued a special placard for their restaurants.

A CHURCH TRIP
LAPEER, Mich. (AP) Parishioners of Grace Episcopal Church marked the Rev. Canon Charles D. Bradwood's 10th year as pastor with a gift of $500 and told him to take a vacation. Seven altar boys who earned most of their expenses, will accompany the minister on a trip to Europe.

Food From Roof Is Next Goal Of Research Work

LOS ANGELES (AP) Scientists now going to the rooftops to help the world's food supply. Dr. Bruce R. Mead of the University of California at Los Angeles, has begun a research project to trap a tiny one-celled plant known as chlorella.

This plant, built up from sunshine, water and small bits of chemicals, produces tons of proteins and fats in a day. Harvesting will be simple just a matter of scooping off the chlorella floating on the water.

The university's pilot plant has been installed on a building rooftop. It has a small U-shaped trough through which will circulate water and a few chemicals. Sea water also will be used to produce chlorella, because of the abundance of chemicals in it.

Initially, the process will provide rich supplements for cattle feed. When the food is made tasty enough, the scientists promise a "chlorella cocktail for humans."

FIVE LEADING AUTO EDITORS GO OVERBOARD FOR NEW MERCURY!

New 161-horsepower Mercury with ball-joint front wheel suspension gets top marks for performance, efficiency, economy and handling ease

"HOT AS STRAIGHT TABASCO ON-THE-ROCKS"
Tom McCahill MECHANIX ILLUSTRATED

"The place where Mercury really shines this year, aside from its speed-over-the-ground performance, is in its handling and roadability... what a difference ball-joint suspension makes!"

"The guy who buys a '54 Merc will be getting a really new car, not a warmed-over old one. Some of Merc's competitors are... overdue for a change. When these changes come, the buyer of these competitors will be as out-of-date as an Indian-head penny."

"161-HP PUSH, BUT DRINKS NO MORE GAS THAN BEFORE"
Wilbur Shaw POPULAR SCIENCE MONTHLY

"Three years ago a Mercury engineer told us that the men in his department would never be satisfied until they designed an engine that ate up a lot less of its own power than the ones then on the production line. Well, they've done it!"

"When I drove the car on the ever-green-screened test track in Dearborn, Mich., and again on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, I was struck by the smoothness of the power pickup."

"THIS CAR IS A KNOCKOUT! ... AND REAL EASY TO DRIVE"
Walt Woran—Don MacDonald MOTOR TREND

"You'll like the 1954 Mercury, if you like power that'll make you sit back in your seat when you stomp the throttle."

"If there is no other reason for the increase in horsepower (now 161) the added acceleration for passing is enough."

"Lincoln-type ball-and-socket joints eliminate familiar kingpin, reduce much front end vibration, and cut grease fittings from 16 to four."

"EXCEPT FOR LINCOLN—THERE IS PROBABLY NOT A SINGLE PASSENGER CAR ENGINE THAT CAN COME UP TO ITS STANDARD"
Griff Bergeson CARS

"The intake manifold on the new Mercury is definitely one of 1954's engineering highlights. No other manufacturer has produced such a logically correct version."

"One of the best engineered power plants in the industry, regardless of price... May prove to be the last word in postwar passenger car engines."

Local Firm Prepares For IRHA Hardware Week

Beginning April 16, C. H. Edwards Hardware House will participate in one of the biggest promotions ever staged in the nation. It was announced today.

The event will be known as IRHA Hardware Week and will involve one of the biggest advertising and merchandising campaigns ever conceived.

IRHA means Independent Retail Hardwaremen of America and is the symbol that identifies member stores all over the country.

In order to keep in step with such a great nationwide promotion Edwards Hardware House has been remodeled and the entire stock has been rearranged for the convenience of the customers.

For this outstanding hardware event Edwards is offering, as always in the past, only quality merchandise at moderate prices.

At this modern hardware store you'll find a complete line of general hardware in addition to building supplies, paints, wallpaper, sporting goods, and household appliances. Whatever your needs may be you're sure to find just the items you're looking for at Edwards.

In case your building job is on a large scale and you need advice in building hardware then Edwards is the place to go. They have personnel trained in building hardware who will be glad to make an estimate on the work and submit a bid for the job with no cost or obligation to you.

You will also find hardware specialty items at Edwards that will make your building job correct to the finishing lock or bolt. Come in and see this large assortment of building hardware by Corbin.

For the boys and girls, the men and women, who like sports and outdoor fun, Edwards offers one of the largest stocks in sporting goods you'll find in this area. A complete line of fishing equipment, guns and rifles, basketballs, footballs, baseball mitts and gloves, skates, badminton sets and about any other sports item you care to name. They have a large stock of Columbia bicycles in all sizes for boys and girls and a big assortment of parts for all bicycles.

C. H. Edwards Hardware is a well known business in this section and has been in the same location in Greenville for the past 30 years.

The co-owners of the firm are Mr. C. H. Edwards Jr. and Mr. W. S. Whitehurst, both of Greenville.

Mr. Edwards, in addition to his managerial duties, is the building hardware consultant and has many years of experience in this field. Before you build or remodel any structure, contact Mr. Edwards for an estimate on the job.

Mr. Whitehurst, other than being store manager, is in charge of the inside decorating and painting service offered by the company. If you are seeking advice about wallpapering or painting, consult Mr. Whitehurst concerning your problems. Or if you're interested in mill supplies or plumbing, he is also the man to see.

Another salesman in Edwards Hardware who will be glad to help you is Roland Vick Nichols. Mr. Nichols' primary duty is in the sporting goods department, but in addition he handles appliances and general hardware.

Miss Joyce Moringo is the stenographer and bookkeeper for the company and is likewise well qualified in her field of work.

The fifth member of the staff at Edwards Hardware is Alfred Reeves who serves as drayman.

Take advantage of the many services offered. Whatever your needs may be for hardware, appliances, sporting goods or building supplies, accept the invitation of C. H. Edwards Hardware... come in today. You're sure to find the quality merchandise, expert service and courteous welcome that will make your visit a pleasure.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — Railroads and oils were leaders today in a higher movement of the stock market. The market displayed an irregular price front throughout early dealings, but the railroads gained enough support to send the list on ahead into the early afternoon.

Although some gains went to between 1 and 2 points, most changes in either direction were small. Business was conducted on a subdued basis with the pace right around yesterday's 1,790,000 shares.

Ahead with the rails and oils were the steels and motors but their progress was limited. Also higher were the radio-televisions, and some aircraft. Otherwise the list was mixed. There were no depressed areas.

New York Central yesterday's most active issue, was ahead today but quiet. There were few sales for cash and immediate delivery, the only method now available to buy the stock and vote at the annual meeting May 26.

Among higher stocks were Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, Northern Pacific, Southern Railway, Standard Oil (N.Y.), Cities Service, Kern County Land, Argo Oil, U. S. Steel, General Motors, York Corp., Reynolds Metals, and Du Pont.

Realtors Hear Ass'n President

Leon Ham of Greensboro, president of the North Carolina Association of Real Estate Boards, was the speaker at the Pitt County Board of Realtors' supper meeting last night.

The Greensboro real estate executive said "the principal aim of the association this year is continuing its united efforts to raise the professional standards of realty men and provide a greater measure of protection to the public in buying and selling real estate."

Ham said it is important that we secure an adequate license law. In this connection, he pointed out that 40 of the 48 states of the Union now have such a law primarily as a protection, but North and South Carolina and Mississippi are the only southern states without such a law. "The state is wide open to sharp practitioners and inviting trouble for its citizens," the speaker declared. He cited some cases in recent years of "fly-by-night" real estate operators who came into the state and pulled off questionable deals. Ham said the only requirement to be a realtor in North Carolina now is to pay a $25 fee.

"Requirements for becoming a realtor are rather stringent," he said, "as realtors are elected to membership in local realtor boards only on the basis of qualification to properly serve the public interest."

Ham said the association strongly favors an educational course for realtors at the University of North Carolina and reminded that the association strongly favors an educational course for realtors at the University of North Carolina and reminded that the association operates an annual realtors institute at Chapel Hill each summer.

President Sam Nelson, Grifton realtor, presided. He recognized R. Harry Lewis, executive secretary of the North Carolina Association of Real Estate Boards, and Worth Gurley, Raleigh realtor, who is district vice-president of the association.

Silver Dollars, Believed To Be Loot In Recent Home Theft, Are Found

Police said today that 13 silver dollars believed to be part of the money stolen from the home of W. G. Fussell of 209 East Fourteenth Street had been found.

Detective N. H. Byrd said that the money was found in a ditch behind Perkins Lumber Company.

Approximately $30 was taken from a box in a closet in the Fussell home on March 18. The loss was discovered after fire broke out in the house while the family was away. The fire started in a closet in which the money was kept.

Police are working on the theory that the fire was set when the robbery took place. The family had left a short while before the blaze broke out.

The $30 belonged to Charles Fussell. Nothing else was reported missing from the house.

Other Business

The Chamber Board accepted recommendation of the Executive Committee to place a page advertisement in the Shirmer's souvenir program printed for the Spring Ceremonial of Sudan Temple to be held here May 25 and 26.

Manager Kyzer reported on the Newcomers Party and stated that attendance was approximately 150. He added that 23 merchants donated 139 door and contest prizes, and 15 merchants donated gifts, for each Newcomer family. These gifts were assembled in a shopping bag and presented at the end of the festivities.

The Board voted to have a float in the Shrine Parade here on May 26.

Chamber of Commerce President A. Tyson Bilbro presided at the one and one-half hour meeting.

Manager's Report

Chamber of Commerce Manager Willard T. Kyzer made his monthly report to the Board last night.

He reported that upon receipt of complaints from Greenville housewives that Carolina Trailways was discontinuing its bus leaving Washington at 7:25 a.m. he prepared a petition for reinstatement of the schedule and mailed it to the Bus Company and the Utilities Commission.

A letter was received in return, he reported, that new schedules reinstating the bus had been filed with the Utilities Commission.

Kyzer stated that he wrote and furnished a news article on Greenville with pictures to "Southlander" magazine in Dallas, Texas; he provided the daily newspaper in Greenville, Mississippi, with an article on Greenville and an air view picture for story in their paper on the nation's Greenville's.

He also reported providing P. F. Collier and Son with a descriptive article on Greenville for the new edition of the "National Encyclopedia."

Also he provided DuPont Company with 100 maps of Greenville as requested by DuPont's Public Relations Department, and he assisted in the preparation of facts requested by the engineering firm making a survey of the State's Coastal Waterways and water resources, regarding the use of Greenville's port in the past and its potential use for the future.
