Declares Hurried Talks Enhanced Success Outlook Sec. Dulles Satisfied

By OWEN CRUMB SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles returned to the United States today and said he was "well satisfied" with the results of his talks in London and Paris on Indochina.

Dulles said the possibility of a 10-nation alliance similar to NATO, proposed for the Southeast Pacific, "has been enhanced by my talks."

The proposed alliance would aim to stem Communist expansion in Indochina and the rest of Southeast Asia.

Two Former Heads of AEC Plan To Testify At Hearing

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER WASHINGTON (AP)—The two former chairmen of the Atomic Energy Commission plan to testify at the security hearing for pioneer atomic scientist J. Robert Oppenheimer—both of them apparently in his behalf.

Dr. David Hill, chairman of the Federation of American Scientists, and from Dr. Howard Meyerhoff, executive director of the Scientific Manpower Commission, a group set up by eight major scientific societies.

President Ready To Aid Housing Scandal Probe May Order Tax Files Open

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower was reported ready today to order government tax files opened up for the Senate Banking Committee's probe of multimillion-dollar housing scandals.

He said in an interview. He also said he would "probably" confer with Atty. Gen. Brownell, at Brownell's request, on possible indictments which might come out of parallel probes by the administration itself, the Banking Committee and the Senate House Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures, headed by Sen. Byrd (D-Va.).

The Banking committee had planned to start final work on a housing bill next Tuesday. But what senators called "shocking exposures" indicated close scrutiny of both old and new sections in the House-passed bill and grave doubts whether the job could be finished in time for action during this Congress.

Vietminh Holding Edge Of Airstrip

By LARRY ALLEN HANOI, Indochina (AP)—The French High Command announced tonight that Communist-led Vietminh troops succeeded in entrenching themselves in the northern part of the main airstrip of the fortress of Dien Bien Phu, only 2,400 feet from the heart of the bastion.

The earlier announcement said the rebels had been driven off after blowing up the northern end of the airstrip in a night attack.

Says Business Is Awaiting Tax Overhaul Bill Treasury Boss Urges Haste

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey today urged speedy congressional action on President Eisenhower's big tax overhaul bill, saying much business expansion is waiting for it to become law.

personal income and construction contracts are running well ahead of a year ago.

Rep. John W. McCormack (D-Mass), minority whip of the House, took a less optimistic view of the country's economic health.

Get More Funds Than Requested

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department held the distinction today of being the first big federal agency in recent years to win House approval of more money than it asked.

House action in making addition after addition to the bill reauthorized brought an angry declaration from Rep. H. Carl Anderson (R-Minn.) that Secretary of Agriculture Benson sought to circumvent the committee through a secret White House meeting.

President Writes That Results Are Heartening

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower says he is heartened by the governmental accomplishments of the last 15 months.

The President made the statement in a letter made public last night at his vacation headquarters here.

Our efforts to preserve the peace and sustain maximum individual freedom and responsibility in the world have been enhanced by your service in the government.

Edwin Bloxam To Assume Utilities Post On May 1

Greenville Utilities Commission will get a new superintendent May 1 instead of July 1 as reported in yesterday's Reflector, it was learned today.

A call from Roy Martin, chairman of the Greenville Utilities Commission, revealed that Edwin L. P. Bloxam would become the superintendent of Greenville Utilities effective May 1 instead of July 1 as reported yesterday.

French Again Postpone Debate On European Army Plan Issues

PARIS (AP)—France's Cabinet today postponed until May 18 its final decision on a starting date for the crucial European army plan.

rearmed Germany Britain pledged yesterday to keep troops on the Continent as long as West Europe is threatened and offered to integrate ground and air forces with the European army.

There were no such prospects, however, of satisfaction on the Saar issue. West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Bidault have agreed that the status of the coal-rich border valley should be based on a Dutch plan to make it an autonomous, "Europeanized" territory. But each nation demands economic concessions in the area and talks between their representatives recessed last weekend without agreement.

Two Little Girls Found Dead In Old Ice Box

HILL AIR FORCE BASE, Utah (AP)—A pair of roller skates was found lying in the doorway of a vacant Wherry Housing Unit apartment last night at Utah's Hill Air Force Base.

Inside, sitting upright on the floor of the refrigerator, were the bodies of Joyce Mullis, 6, and her 5-year-old sister, Donna. Both had been dead of suffocation for some time after apparently climbing into the refrigerator and closing the door behind them.

Board Is Probing Goldsboro Blast

GOLDSBORO, N. C. (AP)—A five-man board named to investigate the cause of a downtown explosion that took five lives is checking a report that dynamite had been stored in the building of Edwards and Jernigan Furniture Co.

Members of the investigating board are A. F. Carter, chief of detectives; Fire Chief Wesley Howell; Dep. Sheriff Roy W. Percie; Cecil Duncan, deputy state fire marshal; and E. G. Parter, city engineer.

Andersen said he wasn't invited to a secret White House meeting last Saturday, but he intimated some other House members were.

Seek To Bring Red China Into Parley

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union is trying to ram the Chinese Communists into private U.N.-sponsored big-power disarmament talks. The West wants to keep them out—and probably can.

That situation emerged from yesterday's meeting of the 12-nation U.N. Disarmament Commission, the second in six days on the question of setting up a subcommittee for such talks under the shadow of the H-bomb.

N. C. Civil Defense Head Notes State Is 'Woefully Unprepared'

RALEIGH (AP)—State Civil Defense Director Edward P. Griffin says North Carolina is "woefully unprepared" for any kind of enemy attack.

Speaking over a statewide radio network last night, Griffin declared "We are vulnerable to a critical extent."

He added, "Hundreds of our communities have not taken the first step for protection against atomic attack as advocated. Much has been done at state level. Much has been done in a number of our cities and counties. Those places I highly commend."

One-Third Taxed

Pitt's County Commissioners voted to use one-third of the appraised value of real property for tax purposes at a special call meeting yesterday.

This special meeting to discuss the value to use for tax purposes was held so the Pitt Tax Office could go ahead with preparation of the tax records.

Early-Starters In Transplanting Tobacco

It's still too early for most growers, but in a few scattered instances over Pitt County tobacco transplanting time is at hand. Above, workers on the J. A. Mills farm of Greenville Route 3 are shown setting out what is believed to be the first plants of the new season on Tuesday morning. To the right, are tobacco plants from the farm of James F. Elks, also of Greenville Route 3, which are of sufficient growth to be set out Friday or the first of next week. (Reflector Photos)

Garden Club Plans To Enter Flower Show

GRIFTON—The Grifton Garden Club met for their April meeting on Friday afternoon at the school assembly room and were shown a sound film on alicates and camellias by Mr. Harry G. Davis of Goldsboro. Following the showing of the film a question and answer hour was enjoyed. This also proved to be informative.

Mrs. Charlie Gardner presided at the business session and plans were discussed for the participation in the flower show which will be sponsored by the Kinston Council of Garden Clubs on April 28th in the Jaycees building between the hours of 2 and 10 p.m. It was stated that members are expected to have arrangements for the show or enter single specimens. This is not limited to Garden Club members only. Interested persons can get in touch with any member of the club here for further information.

Headliner Kitt Is Still Frightened

By BOB THOMAS
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Six years ago, a frightened little dancer played a night club here as one of the Katherine Dunham troupe. Today Eartha Kitt is the headliner at the same spot—and still frightened.

The Eartha Kitt show at El Rancho Vegas is the top ticket in this fabulous town, meaning that reservations are the toughest to get. The sultry songstress' records are selling in the millions. She is the star of a current movie hit, "New Faces." She has enough offers from TV, movies, and nightclubs and the stage to keep her busy for a decade.

But she's scared.
"It wasn't so bad in the theater in New York, because I was accustomed to the theater," she remarked between shows. "But when I played the Mocambo (where she scored her first big hit), I was terrified. And when I opened here, I was so frightened I didn't think I would be able to go on. I was in a trance during most of the show."

It may be some consolation for her to know that George M. Cohan once said a performer couldn't be good unless he's a little scared before going onstage. And Eartha is good.

She's no beauty, resembling a dusky Spike Jones. But she has a fascinating, alive face which can range from a savage look to one of tenderness. She prowls around the stage with a feline grace. Her songs are as intimate as a wire-tapped boulevard.

For much of her success, she can thank the Los Angeles City Council. Certain councilmen objected to her material at a banquet here for the King and Queen of Greece last November. The mayor also chimed in that the songs seemed too racy for royal ears. The King, on the other hand, said he and his wife were delighted with the evening's entertainment.

"There is no doubt that the council gave my career the big push," said Eartha, who was nevertheless abashed by the whole affair. "People began buying my records to see if this girl was as bad as they said."

This is probably the first time in legislative history that city fathers have established a star. The furor came just in time to plug Eartha's disc, "Santa Baby," a catchy combination of sex and Santa Claus.

Eartha is a gal who refuses to be typed. She started out in show business as a dancer. But after going to Paris with the Dunham dancers, she turned to valeting. She also did a play with Orson Welles.

Last year was the fourth consecutive year of increase in the traffic death toll.

Club Hears Talk By Mrs. Taft

Mrs. Reynolds May was gracious hostess to the Inter Se Club on Tuesday afternoon at her home on Rock Spring Drive. The house was beautifully decorated with Easter lilies and other spring flowers. Mrs. L. B. Garris was a special guest for the afternoon.

After a short business meeting the program for the afternoon was presented by Mrs. Joe Taft, whose subject was "Cherokee and Unto These Hills." "Unto These Hills," presented each summer during July and August at beautiful Mountain-side Theatre at Cherokee, is an outdoor historical drama which portrays the vivid history of the Cherokee nation and its unsuccessful efforts to prevent its removal to Indian lands in Oklahoma. Mrs. Taft also told something about the Cherokee Indian Reservation today, where 3,000 descendants of the Indians who hid in the mountains rather than be driven west now live.

Mrs. May then invited her guests into the dining room where a delicious salad course with tea was served.

Passion Play Production Cast Dazzled Opening Night Audience

Slightly more than 500 people last night attended the opening performance of "The Passion Play" presented in Wright Auditorium on the East Carolina campus.

The production, depicting Christ's final eight days on earth, will be presented each evening through Saturday at 8 o'clock.

Never has a cast of amateur performers here staged a more professional production than the local cast of "The Passion Play" last night. From the striking professional which opened the performance to the final scene before the empty tomb, the religious pageant moved with feeling which kept the undivided attention of the audience for the entire three hours ten minutes of the performance.

There were no discernibly missed lines by any of the cast, and the production moved without hesitation. The superb costumes of the cast and the impressive staging and scenery added appreciably to the authenticity of the production. The music of the choir under the direction of Dr. Kenneth Cuthbert was flawless.

The high quality of the opening performance of the play attested to the diligent work of Director J. A. Withey, assistant director Mamie Chandler and the entire cast of some 100 people.

To pick outstanding characters among the performers would be difficult. Perry White as The Christus, did an outstanding job with his long and tedious role around which the entire production revolved. James A. Vinci as Judas added greatly to the emotional impact of

Grifton WSCS Has Easter Program

GRIFTON—On Monday afternoon the WSCS met in the church for their April meeting with Mrs. John Oglesby, presiding. Mrs. Sam McLawhorn Sr. conducted the devotional and the business followed. Mrs. Oglesby reminded the members of a visit from a district officer at the next meeting and asked for a good attendance. Plans were discussed for the dinner to be served by the group on election day.

The program of the afternoon was presented by Mrs. Cecil Cobb and Mrs. Addie McCotter. The theme was "Who Are the Guilty." This along with an impressive reading, "What Easter Means," was in keeping with the approaching Easter season.

Hostesses for the day, Mesdames J. H. Barwick, Sam Barwick and David Parker, served iced drinks, cookies and salted nuts. The refreshment table was covered with a pale green linen cloth and held a center arrangement of white spiraea.

Take Part In Annual Lions Club Event

Lions And Ladies Hear Dan J. V. Martin in Talk

The local Lion's Club was told last night that they are the world's largest service organization and "should be the world's largest doers" by Dan J. V. Martin, International Director.

Martin was speaking before the Fifteenth Annual Charter and Ladies' Night of the local club which was held in the Woman's Club building.

Martin brought out that there are 11,000 Lions' Clubs in 57 countries at the present time. He said that there are approximately 500,000 members of the civic organization.

Speaking on the subject "An Open Door" the Lion's director stated that the club work is an open door to the home, houses of correction, the church and to education.

"The Lion's exist by living for other people," he said. The speaker cited three of Mahatma Gandhi's principals and applied them to the Lion's work. He said that the three principals which Gandhi advanced were: hard work, equality, and living for others.

In concluding Martin said, "The greatest open door of all is the door to everlasting life."

The program was called to order by President Henry M. Swayne, followed by the singing of "America" led by George Wilkerson. The Lions then recited the pledge of allegiance to the flag and the invocation was given by A. Hartwell Campbell.

Following the dinner Master of Ceremonies A. Hartwell Campbell welcomed the ladies and other guests to the meeting.

Musical selections were then rendered by June Crews accompanied by Miss Martha Pond, both ECC students.

Piano selections were then presented by Jack Williford, also an ECC student.

Following Martin's speech the meeting was adjourned. Guests of the club at last night's meeting included Lewis Day, International Councilor; Ashley Leggett, deputy district governor; Sam Holton, district governor; Ed Hallford, candidate for deputy district governor; and Norman Trueblood, state secretary. Representing local clubs were John Barnhill, Kiwanis Club; Badger Johnson, Rotary Club; Ed Parkinson, Exchange Club; Ben Rouse, Junior Chamber of Commerce; B. D. Johnson, Merchants' Association; and Tyson Bilbro, Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Hirshburg Club Speaker

Dr. Edgar Hirshburg, professor of English at East Carolina College, spoke to the Literature Department of the Woman's Club Tuesday afternoon on "American Authors of the 19th Century."

This program was a continuation of the theme for the year, "Our American Heritage," and he confined his talk to three of the most important middle 19th century writers, Cooper, Hawthorne and Melville. Dr. Hirshburg stated that he chose these writers because each one wrote one great novel. Cooper's "Leather Stocking Tales," Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter" and Melville's "Moby Dick" are best known and are typical novels.

Excerpts were read and discussed from D. H. Lawrence's book which criticized the works of James Fenimore Cooper.

The "Scarlet Letter" and "Moby Dick" were briefly reviewed showing the greatness of these romantic writers of this period.

Mrs. B. C. Satterfield presided over the business session during the absence of the president, Mrs. Jesse Moye.

The Newcomers Tea and Open House will be held April 29, it was announced.

The next meeting of the Literature Department will be a covered dish luncheon at the club. A musical program will be given by children of the club members.

Mrs. Gladys DuVal and Mrs. Howard Fuller were hostesses for the afternoon.

Rat Poison Said Fed To Husband

WHITESBURG, Ky. (AP) — The Letcher County grand jury yesterday returned an indictment charging a wife with feeding her husband rat poison in a bottle of soda pop.

The true bill against Mrs. Martha Conner, about 35, charged her with "malicious poisoning." Her husband, Willie Conner, a coal miner about 40, became violently ill last October and was in a critical condition for several weeks. He is fully recovered.

Investigating officers said the Conners had been arguing shortly before Conner became ill.

Eighty per cent of vehicles involved in fatal traffic accidents in 1953 were traveling straight ahead.

30 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR April 15, 1924

A beautiful afternoon, an enthusiastic gathering, more than enough of the best to eat and not too much speech-making made the fish-fry at Proctor Seine Beach, near Grimesland, yesterday afternoon, at which part of the first North Carolina District of the American Legion was guest of Buddy L. G. Cooper, an event long to be remembered. The Posts from Beaufort County, Farmville and Belhaven joined the Pitt County Post in the meeting. Col. Wiley C. Rodman of Washington, State Commander of the Legion, made the principal address. W. H. Rogers, Post Commander, opened the meeting and welcomed visiting posts. In response Herbert Bonner of Beaufort County Post spoke for the visitors. This was followed by a short talk by past commander of Pitt County Post J. H. Waldrop, urging all ex-servicemen who are not already members to avail themselves of their privileges not only because of advantages to themselves but because of their duty to their buddies, able or disabled. Next —chow—lots of it and awfully good. Thanks were then voted the host for the entertainment he had given the post, to which Mr. Cooper responded with a short talk.

Easter Motif Is Used At Lunch

GRIPTON—Mrs. Tom Gower was hostess on Tuesday at 1 o'clock at a delightful luncheon for members of her card club and invited guests for three tables of bridge.

The home on Queen Street was decorated with spirea and purple iris. Tallies were of unique Easter design. As guests assembled they were shown their places at the card tables and a delectable luncheon plate was passed followed by individual chess pies.

Four spirited progressions at cards found Mrs. G. L. Tucker and Mrs. Robert Mewborn holders of highest scores among club members and Mrs. Thurman Williams among the visitors. They were remembered with gifts.

Other players were Mesdames L. L. Mewborn, H. P. Quinley, M. B. Hodges, Alton Chapman, S. E. Coffman, W. I. Blissett, Cecil Cobb, Miss Marie Chapman and the hostess.

Belvoir Juniors Entertain Seniors

On Friday night, the Junior Class of Belvoir-Falkland High School opened the gate to its "Southern Plantation Garden" and welcomed in a manner of true Southern hospitality the members of the Senior Class to the 1954 Junior-Senior Banquet. Everyone strolled through the lovely garden walkways and across an arched bridge into the dining section of the garden where a true Southern meal was enjoyed. The program consisted of a lovely musical done by the waitresses, two dramatic monologues rendered by Miss Gale Clapp, and the song "Ole Man River" sung by Willis Peadar. At nine o'clock music from a band came pouring forth from one corner of the garden and from then until midnight everyone danced with the garden breezes. The evening had to end, but the memories of "a thing of beauty became a joy forever."

Greenville Native Is Named Manager For Bell's Atlanta Office

Edward G. Thomas, native of Greenville, was recently appointed information manager in the public relations office of Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company in Atlanta.

He is the son of E. B. Thomas and the late Mrs. Thomas, who formerly made their home in Greenville. The elder Mr. Thomas now lives in Lexington, Ky.

Thomas began his telephone career in 1941 following several years' work in the newspaper and advertising fields in North Carolina and Atlanta. Immediately prior to entering telephone service, he was city editor of the Shelby Star.

Steps Needed To Prevent Costly Delays

The unfortunate experience Greenville is having by the delay in obtaining autopsy reports in the cases of two deaths here, demands some action be taken to prevent a repeat of such a delay in the future.

Two local men met mysterious deaths. More than three weeks ago autopsies were called for on the two bodies. Late yesterday afternoon there was still no word on

Planting Time Brings

Boost In Morale

When the time comes for setting out tobacco, people here in Pitt County are inclined to see things a little brighter.

That time is here now for a few farmers, and it will be here for most of the farmers in Pitt in the next couple of weeks.

First reports of setting tobacco in the fields came this week. Every year, whether earlier or later than the previous year, tobacco-setting time seems to give new life to the economic outlook of the people in Pitt.

In an agricultural community such as Pitt County, the advancing stages of progress of crops gives people more and more confidence in what the harvest season will bring.

During the cold winter months when tobacco beds are sown the farmer has to worry about the cold weather or hot weather on the plant beds, whether there will be sufficient plants to set his crop, what diseases will strike his plant beds. If that isn't enough worry, he can also project his thoughts to the coming growing season, rain and sunshine; the harvest time, and price prospects for the following fall.

When the crop gets in the field, plant bed worries are gone. The fragile tobacco plants are on their way to growing to mature harvest, and the crop is one step closer to the completion of a cycle.

It always helps the morale of the people in an agricultural section such as ours to see the fields shaking off their barren look of winter and turning green with the growing crops; first with the pale green of early shoots, and then with the darker green of maturing plants.

ETERNAL SACRAMENT

"The Lord Jesus the same night in which he was betrayed took bread."

Thus does St. Paul in the eleventh chapter of First Corinthians begin the earliest account of the establishing of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Jesus commanded his followers through the ages to keep this sacrament.

What does this Sacrament mean? In the first place it is a memorial service—"This do in remembrance of me." In the second place it demonstrates the significance of our Lord's death—"ye do show forth the Lord's death till he come." Most significant of all, however, is the fact that in some way beyond the ability of the mind to fathom, the presence of Jesus Christ himself is in the bread and wine and is communicated to us thereby. The gift is ever present for us; it depends upon our state of heart as to whether or not we receive it, for Jesus Christ will not enter a heart that is not prepared to receive Him.

There is a tremendous mystery about Christian faith. Let us never think we can simplify it until we understand its every aspect perfectly and make it fit into our pattern of thought. Far beyond the loftiest thought of man is the thought and purpose of God. The bread and wine which Christ consecrated on the night of his betrayal constitute divine symbols through which truth and power is mediated to the human soul. This is mysterious, but it is none-the-less basically true.

Opposed By Organized Labor

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—In current planning for the critical Congressional campaign next fall, Republican strategists have informed President Eisenhower that the greatest obstacle to control of House and Senate for the rest of his term will be the votes of organized labor.

The GOP leaders are virtually reconciled to the loss of at least four of the six seats they now hold in Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee. They may also lose several Midwestern districts which they picked up on the basis of Eisenhower popularity in 1952. If farm prices fall further, there may be defections in agricultural areas.

Thus, enjoying only a three-man majority in the lower chamber, and suffering from a minority of one in the Senate, the Republicans figure that they must make their gains, if any, in the great industrial cities, and in mining sections where the so-called labor vote usually predominates.

the reports. One of the reports was to come from Durham and the other from Winston-Salem.

It seems to us, in view of the outstanding physicians and many modern medical facilities in Eastern Carolina, it should be unnecessary to send bodies as far away as Durham and Winston-Salem for autopsies. An effort should be made to have such work done closer to home.

If one city or county can not bear the expense of making provisions for autopsies being performed in their own locale, perhaps several neighboring cities and counties in this area could band together in the undertaking. Perhaps one hospital in this immediate section could be designated as the center at which such work should be performed, and the several cities and counties could share the expenses involved.

It stands to reason that the closer to home the work can be done, the more rapidly law enforcement officers can obtain the vital information they need for their investigations. With the medical facilities available in this immediate section, it seems ridiculous to have to depend upon hospitals 125 to 200 miles away for such work and such reports.

In the investigations of the deaths of the two Greenville men, local officers admittedly have been seriously handicapped by the long delay in receiving the autopsy reports. Obviously delay is costly in such an investigation. It is also obvious that officers must lean heavily upon information contained in autopsy reports in cases such as those concerning the deaths of the two Greenville men.

For the sake of better law enforcement, and with the idea of providing officers in Eastern North Carolina the ready medical assistance which they often need in connection with investigations, we believe an effort should be made to have autopsies performed in this immediate area in connection with such investigations.

Investigation Will Be Profitable To Others

It is a wise move that experts from a New York chemical engineering firm are being brought in to help investigate the cause of the disastrous blast in the Goldsboro business district.

It was the third and most devastating explosion suffered in the city of Goldsboro in recent months. The two previous explosions were said to have been caused by gas which escaped into sewer lines. The cause of the third is yet undetermined.

Whatever the cause of this most recent blast in Goldsboro, the findings of the investigating team will be important to all other cities in the state. The findings of the pending investigation should give concrete pointers to other cities in preventing a disaster similar to the one in Goldsboro.

In our opinion, the matter of determining the cause of the blast in order to prevent a recurrence is just as important if not more important than finding the cause in order to fix the blame for the explosion.

staff, and to such nonpatronage-minded men as Secretaries Dulles, Humphrey, Wilson and Benson.

GOP TO ADOPT NEW APPROACH—Despite the need for regaining urban seats with workingmen's and their families' ballots, the GOP will adopt a new approach in angling for this support. There will be no calculated or class appeal in the form of legislative or administrative favors, such as both Parties, especially the Roosevelt-Truman operators, made in the past.

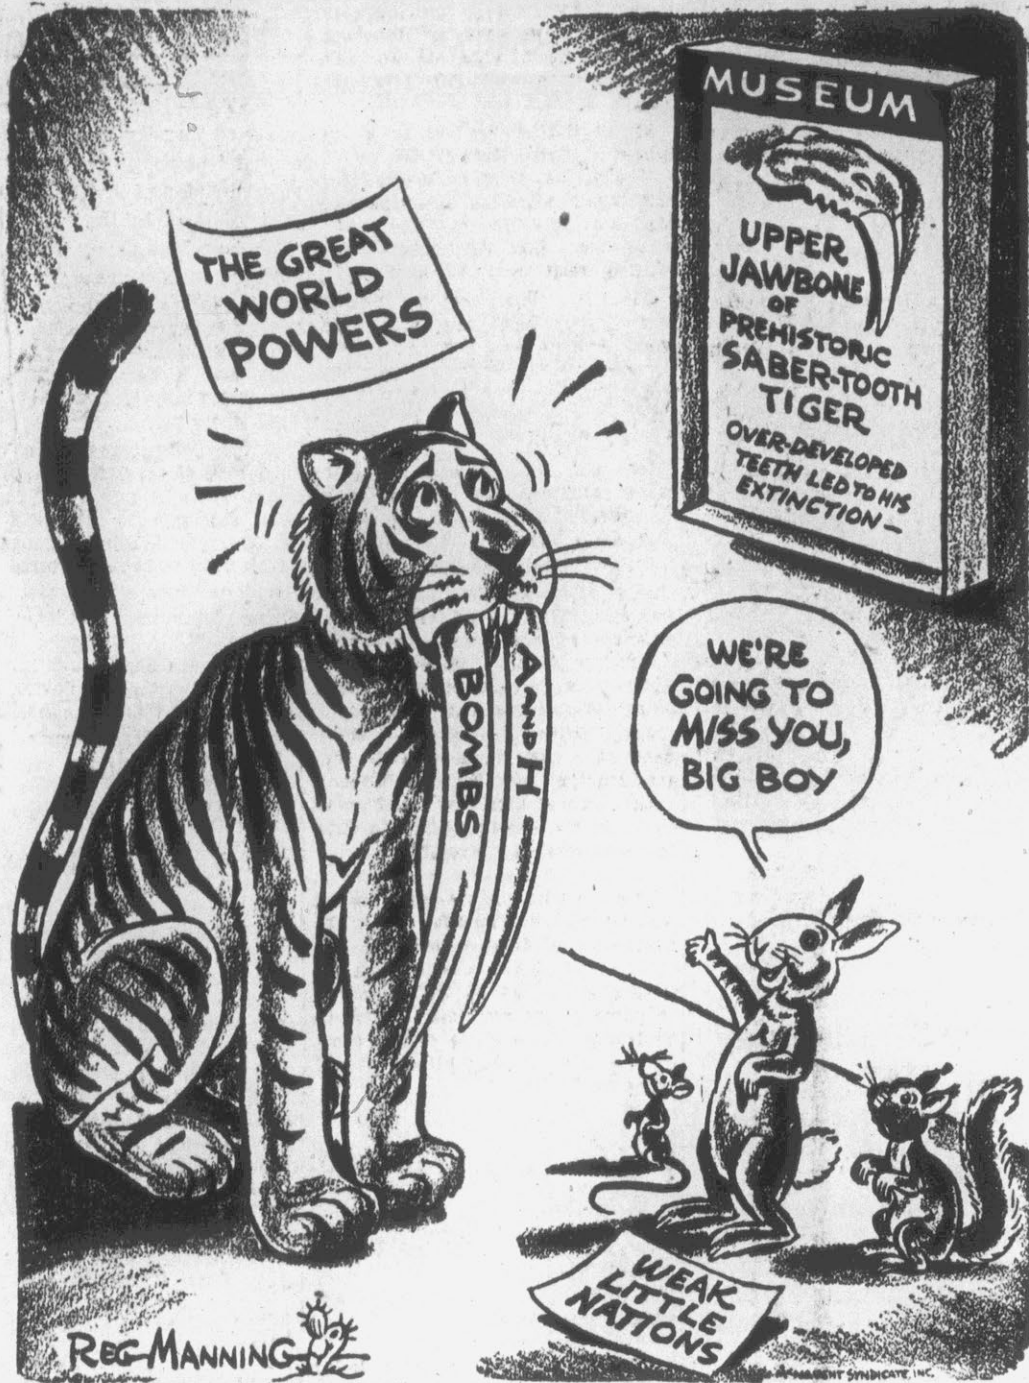

Even more than ever before, the view prevails that labor's rank and file is not anti-Eisenhower, although all three recognized leaders—George L. Meany (AFL), Walter P. Reuther (CIO) and John L. Lewis (UMW)—are hostile. If conditions are fairly good, with high wages and relatively full employment, the Republicans expect to get at least an even break from this element of the electorate.

Experience in recent years supports this theory. For the first time since "Old Bob" La Follette ran in 1924, the "big three" unions backed Adlai E. Stevenson in 1952, but he lost almost every industrial center. The GOP elected numerous governors who did not have the union bosses' backing. The late Robert A. Taft routed them time and again.

REPUBLICANS' RALLYING CRY—Finally, in view of Eisenhower's record, background and personality, the President and his inner political circle do not believe that Messrs. Meany, Reuther and Lewis can convince even their dues-paying members that this is an anti-labor administration.

"I don't hate anybody," Ike's personal proclamation in the 1952 contest, will again be the Party's rallying cry to possibly dissident groups. In fact, although Eisenhower will not participate actively in the campaigns involving Congressmen and Governors, it is probable that he will make several speeches or freestyle chats, Ike style; at opportune moments and places when the political leaves begin to fall.

The Filipinos' New Freedom

(Guest columnist for the rest of this week is Herbert White Lee, former member of the U. S. State Department who has travelled in many continents. Herb is now associated with H. A. White & Sons. In these columns he relates his impressions of his travels. Special note: Be sure to see the Passion Play this week and hear me howl like a dog! Jack Edwards.)

It was my impression that few Filipinos deplored the destruction of the old city. It could well be that it represented to them centuries of foreign tyranny. During the Spanish rule, native Filipinos were not even allowed to live within the walls. During the American military rule, a Filipino rebellion was being quelled in the surrounding countryside. And during World War II, the Japanese tortured hundreds of Filipinos in the dank cells of Fort Santiago. Its fall seems almost synonymous with Philippine Independence. Today in the midst of the shambles of Fort Santiago the Republic has erected its new Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Thus located on soil here-before occupied only by foreigners, it seems a fitting symbol of that long awaited independence.

If my remarks with regard to General MacArthur seemed to smack of disrespect, it was not intended. There is little doubt that the people of the Philippines look upon the General as the great modern liberator. The newest and most impressive bridge spanning the Pasig River in downtown Manila is named after him. On numerous occasions I have heard Filipinos express the opinion that General MacArthur is one of the few Americans who thoroughly understands the peoples of the Far East. From what I have read of the General, I am inclined to agree with them. Certainly his handling of the Japanese occupation was admirable, and it is as the conqueror of and eventual master of Japan that the Filipino likes to think of him.

Of all the peoples of southeast Asia the Filipinos seem to be the most bitterly anti-Japanese. I never engaged in a long conversation with a Filipino that the subject of Japanese occupation did not crop up. I was told how dozens of Filipinos were shot down because they ran out in the boulevard to give food and water to the dying Americans straggling in on the long "death march" from Bataan to Manila. Another man explained to me how he stole food from the Japanese every day for ever a year and sneaked it into the University of Santa Tomas where American civilian prisoners were confined. That is not difficult to believe either. One of the first truisms I heard in Manila was that a Filipino can steal the gold right out of your teeth without interrupting the conversation. Other men told me of their experiences with the resistance movement, and how they prepared for the American liberation. Even today when the sun sets particularly red behind Mount Bataan and Corregidor across the bay, the laboring class Filipinos say to each other (as one of my servants said to me): "The ghosts are walking on Corregidor. It is God's reminder of the evil things the Japs did there."

What Other Editors Are Thinking

THIRTEEN MILLION SLAVES (Rocky Mount Telegram)

One of the most damning condemnations yet made against Soviet Russia's brand of Communism has just been reported by a United Nations committee after exhaustive research. The report informs the world that the Soviet Union has at least 13,000,000 slaves laboring and subsisting on a level below that of farm animals.

The UN committee has carefully pieced together evidence from many sources which adds up to one of the most appalling gradations of humanity in the dark annals of history. Evidence has been secured from refugees, intelligence and other sources indicating the total number of Soviet slaves to be as high as 20,000,000. Some have optimistically set Russian prisoners as low as 2,000,000 but since there are that many war prisoners believed still held by Russia this is obviously too low an estimate. For example, there is proof that on a June night in 1941, 3,322 children under 16, 6,302 women, and 6,447 men were torn from their homes in Latvia and sent to distant slave camps. The same thing has happened in other areas.

Today, throughout the vast Russian empire, no one is safe from the sinister visit in the night which means oblivion in slavery or sudden death. The vast hordes under Russian sway are kept terrorized by ruthless tyranny.

Photostatic copies of regulations in one Arctic slave camp show that prisoners are forced to fill impossible work quotas on diet which had about the same calories as that given the camp dogs in scraps from the guards' quarters.

However, slow death is not always the rule in Russian prison camps. The International Confederation of Free Trade Unions disclosed findings that in a single instance, 1,300 prisoners were executed by the simple process of administrative order at the Vorkuta camps.

This hideous picture of millions being ground to death in slavery is in stark contrast to the siren song of Russian propaganda. In his recent speech, Russian Premier Georgi Malenkov advised the world that Russian Communism for the first time in the history of the world had done away with the "abolition of exploitation of man by man."

America's efforts to tell the truth about Russia have never equalled Russia's success in getting millions throughout the world to believe its lies about America.

With the United Nations committee report now available, the Voice of America need not worry about its program. It need only to repeat this monstrous truth around the clock in every language known to man.

Around Capitol Square

Newspaper Circulation Figures Show N. C. Readership

By LYNN NISBET

NEWSPAPERS — Daily newspapers in North Carolina have just about maintained the total circulation reported two years ago. A few have gained, a few have dropped back a few notches because of increased rates. The aggregate circulation for all morning and afternoon newspapers as reported in the current Editor & Publisher Year Book, the accepted authority on such matters last year was well above 925,000.

Seven morning papers are listed with total circulation of 462,945. There are 29 afternoon papers with aggregate circulation of 464,755. (Editor & Publisher has no figures for three of the afternoon newspapers, but circulation reported in the N.C. Press Association directory makes up the total quoted here.)

The circulation figures are for week day publications only. Sunday papers are classified separately because several afternoon papers have Sunday morning editions, and others are combined with the regular morning papers for dual name Sunday publication.

There are approximately four and a quarter million people living in North Carolina. Counting off out of state circulation for papers published here, and adding daily papers coming in from outside plus the aggregate circulation of weekly and semi-weekly newspapers, it seems certain that an average of one paper every day for one out of four of all the Tarheels is received in North Carolina. The average family is perhaps a little less than four persons, but it requires very little stretching of statistics to justify the claim of one newspaper a day for every family.

Then add the farm and trade journals, the weekly and monthly magazines, and you have ammunition to fire back at the folks who claim that North Carolinians do not read.

WOMEN — Candidates in the current campaign are seeking wide publicity for every instance in which they name a woman as a county manager or on a local strategy committee. Records are not at hand, and the memory of your reporter is not sufficient, to list past campaigns in which women managers have played important roles.

It is recalled that in 1934, just 20 years ago, Mrs. George A. Iseley was the accredited and effective manager of the campaign for George Ross Post for congress in the fourth district. Post lost that contest to Harold Cooley, who has held the position ever since, but it was generally conceded that reasons other than management of his campaign were responsible for the result.

Students of history who know the qualities of effective leadership manifested in the exploits of Miriam and Deborah, Joan D'Arc and Catherine of Russia, Victoria and Elizabeth, are amused by the present attitude of candidates that in naming women to strategic positions they are in some way paying homage to their sex. The women are being chosen because they appear to be the best available persons to do the job and for no other reason.

It is not believed here that women voters as a whole will fall for the chaff handed out by candidates that selection of managers or strategists was for any reason other than believed effectiveness. In social circles American men still yield precedence to women. In the area of hardboiled politics and business they have to make their own way.

The chief mistake that women make is in claiming consideration in these fields because of sex. There are more women than men in this country and in this state, and more women voters than men voters. All they have to do to take over control is—just to take over.

"TIS BEAUTIFUL — Three or four capitol square reporters and two or three others were standing at head of Fayetteville street waiting for the traffic light so they could cross over to the capitol. George Cherry, superintendent of buildings and grounds, came up and had to wait, too. "Just look over there," he said, "that is a beautiful sight," as he pointed to the green grass and budding shrubs, the flowing dogwoods and still colorful azaleas, the ancient oaks and hickories,

Business Today Course Of Business

By ELMER ROESSNER
To the questions as to what business a man's in and how he makes his money, answers may be divergent indeed.

There are many corporations today whose names suggest they're industrial—and once they were—but who are now engaged only in owning or dealing in securities. And there are many other companies that have gone along for years without making any money only to wind up in the black because they were able to sell real estate or a lease hold for a fat profit, or to become involved in a tax-saving merger.

Last week the Controllers' Congress of the National Retail Dry Goods Association reported that the average department earned 2.6 per cent of sales with cash discounts, while net profits were only 2.4 per cent of sales. Because of such factors as other income and taxes, this did not mean that without discounts the average store would have operated at a loss. But because the average shows a wide variation it is very probably that there were a number of stores that would have been in the red if it were not for cash discounts. Certainly, in other lines there have been many stores where the cash discounts have made the difference between profits and losses.

At a recent panel discussion of furniture men, one dealer said that many retail furniture stores make half their profits on their carrying charges. These charges vary, amounting to as much as 9 per cent on small orders and less on large balances. Out of them must come costs of credit investigations, collections, bad debts and money borrowed to finance time payments. What's left over is pure profit. Well, it's profit, anyhow.

The dealer said that carrying charges can increase a store's income from $700 to $1,000 per $100,000 in sales. That brings the net up to a whole penny per dollar.

During the depression, some auto dealers got along by selling cars at cost. They made a living out of insurance fees, carrying charges, kickbacks from finance companies and other charges collectively known as the "pack."

In many other ways, businesses have made their profits from other than their principal endeavors. There have been stories about small-town movies and fairs that have been profitable because local merchants subsidized them to bring shoppers into town.

Some businessmen may feel kin to the author who struggled for years and finally got $200 for a story that had been insured and lost in transit.

MARGARINE PRODUCTION AT NEW FEBRUARY PEAK
Margarine production in February set a new high for that month, according to Census Bureau figures. Production was 124,242,000 pounds.

As it has for some time, margarine production continued above the production of butter. February's butter output: 116,000,000 pounds.

SUMMER FURNITURE MEN EXPECT BEST YEAR YET
Manufacturers and retailers of summer furniture expect this year to be the best so far. They have already increased sales 100 per cent in the last five years, according to the National Association of Summer Furniture Manufacturers.

Principal reason for expecting sales to keep on rising is the fact that what is known as summer furniture are now year-round sellers. It is now being sold for rumpus rooms, closed porches and even for living rooms. Some of the pieces originally created for outdoor use go very well with wrought iron, bamboo and other unconventional indoor furniture. And the increasing popularity of ranch homes and other designs with patios has broadened the market for summer furniture outdoors.

WALNUT PRODUCTION LOWEST IN TEN YEARS
Walnut production in the United States and the leading nations of the Mediterranean Basin in 1953 was 32 per cent below the 1952 crop, according to the Department of Agriculture. It was the smallest crop since 1943 and was $9,800 short tons.

Worth Noting

"The public business of the nation is the private business of every citizen."—(War Cry)

Private enterprise is the major factor in the "reforestation" of America. Forest tree planting in 1953 was a record 715,548 acres. Of the total acres planted, 77,612 were on federal lands; 63,791 on state and county lands, and 574,145 on private lands.

Twilight Of The American Male?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The other night I heard a man say right out loud that if he ever had a chance for a second life, he would prefer to return to the earth as a woman.

This startled me. Being a woman has always seemed to me one of those unlucky mishaps in life that happen to about half the population.

Whenever I hear a woman bragging about how she enjoys womanhood, I figure she's just being a good sport and is trying to put her best face forward and make the most of a raw deal.

But for a man to want to essay the role of woman? Outlandish! Would a dog want to be a cat?

"Why?" I asked this male traitor.

"Because woman is the sex of the future," he said. "and anyone who wants to keep in step with the times would, if he had a choice, naturally prefer to be a woman."

"This is the twilight of the American male. Men have been going downhill ever since they quit packing swords and started carrying umbrellas.

"In two centuries man has degenerated from cock-of-the-walk to a servile lackey to a lady. Women control so much of the world's wealth today that five out of six husbands have to borrow bus fare from a woman even to go to work in the morning.

"In another generation at the most the process will be completed. Then only ignorant people will be men. But they won't be really men; they'll be abject prisoners. Worse even—slaves."

"Just how do you figure that out?" I asked.

"Well," he replied, "let's look at what is happening. In the old days a man came home tired and hungry and looking for peace. His wife was all worn out, too, from toting in firewood, doing the washing, lugging water from the well, feeding the kids and slopping the pigs—and maybe even milking a few cows.

"Both husband and wife were too exhausted to pick on each other, and marriage was a draw."

"You mean it isn't now?" I murmured.

"Anybody with any sense knows it isn't," he replied sharply. "The husband still comes home all worn out from work. But the housewife has so many gadgets to lighten her labor that she still has some light left in her at nightfall. This gives her a big edge in an argument: the husband simply doesn't have the strength left to defend himself."

"And you think this situation will get worse?" I inquired.

"Worse?" he whined. "Wake up, man, you're facing utter disaster."

"In the pushbutton home of the future, a wife will press one button—and zingo!—The dishes are washed. She plays another small tune on a control panel and the vacuum cleaner will gallop around the house and clean it up in 12 minutes.

"The wife will then have the rest of the day in which to lie down and rest while she dreams up new ways to act as a Monday morning quarterback to her husband.

"Marriage in the future will be strictly a one-way deal—and it'll be the woman's way. Wouldn't anyone with a grain of intellect prefer being a woman in that kind of a civilization?"

Oh, well! I still think that guy is probably as nutty as a pean grove, but on the other hand—hmm, hmm, hmm.

When hornworms show up—be ready for them. Kill them with RHOthane—the original TDE insecticide. That's what experienced tobacco growers do.

RHOthane offers you these important advantages:

1. Fast-acting control of hornworms at lower cost. RHOthane TDE has proved its value during many seasons of severe hornworm infestations. It's the only recommended hornworm insecticide providing 3-way safety: to growers, crop handlers and smokers.

2. It is available as dust or spray—both are equally effective against hornworms.

3. It also controls the budworm and flea beetle.

No More Politics Allowed Former Egyptian Politicos

By ZEIN NAGATI
CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Egypt's military government banished from politics for a decade today all leaders of the nation's three major parties who held office during ex-King Farouk's last 10 years on the throne.

The Revolutionary Council's order stripping the old politicians of their rights to hold office or lead their parties struck at most of the party premiers and Cabinet members who governed the country before the present military junta seized power in July 1952.

It also would keep such former political leadership out of the national advisory council which the military regime has said it would set up to assist in the transition to eventual civilian rule.

The order applied to Egypt's three main political parties—the Wafdists, Saadists and Liberal Constitutionalists. It said nonpartisan ministers would not be affected "unless the Revolution Council rules otherwise."

Newspapers listed a total of 42 politicians affected but government rulings on some whose party party affiliations is doubtful could raise the number to around 60.

A government spokesman said the military council also was drafting a crackdown on Egypt's press syndicate of newspaper owners and newsmen, most of them opposed to the military regime, and on newsmen who had received secret government subsidies from Farouk's governments.

Some reports said the government would dissolve the syndicate and take its assets into custody. Other rumors said "corrupt pressmen" would be expelled and the syndicate reorganized.

The sweeping decision was reached in a marathon council session that started at noon yesterday and ended in a joint meeting with the subordinate civilian Cabinet early today.

It was seen as another major victory for Vice Premier Lt. Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser in his struggle for power within the council against President - Premier Maj. Gen. Mohamed Naguib. The latter favored lifting the present ban on political parties and a return to parliamentary rule following elections in July.

Naguib was forced to reverse his pledges of such a program on March 29 after pro-Nasser street demonstrations protested the return of the old politicians and demanded the Revolution Council continue to rule the country.

FROM MANY LANDS—An Italian Red Cross nurse looks at exhibits in international doll show at Palazzo Venezia, Rome, once Mussolini's headquarters. Dolls were sold for charity.

Naguib collapsed during that crisis and was reported still confined to his bed—too ill to attend the all-night session which reached today's decision. Nasser presided.

Guidance Minister Salah Salem said the order banishing the old politicians aimed to bar a comeback of those "who ruled Egypt under Farouk's corrupt regime and were, through their compliance with Farouk and due to their failure to resist his tyranny, responsible for the corruption of Egypt's political life."

Capitol Square

George Chery manifested almost paternal pride in the scene. He exhibited also the purely human trait of resenting that not many people complimented it. Take, for instance, that perfect carpet of grass around the Washington monument at the south entrance to the capitol—which is not the "front door" but is used probably ten times as much as any other. He said he had a lot of complaints a year or two ago when the mound around the statue was bare—but nary a word of praise since the grass is growing after months of diligent effort on part of his grounds crew.

Whether or not they say anything about it, there is no doubt that multiplied thousands of visitors, including school children at the rate of 20 to 30 bus loads a day, revel in the beauty of capitol square in the spring.

More Blue Laws Than Expected

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP)—City officials, seeking to enforce ordinances against Sunday automobile sales, dug into old statutes and found more than they bargained for.

They dusted off an ancient blue law—still in effect—that permits sale of "vital necessities" only after 9 a.m. Sunday. Specifically banned are groceries, cigarettes, fish bait and automobiles.

Army Disclosed To Have Dropped One Of Lawyers

BOSTON (AP)—Frederick G. Fisher said early today he was dropped as one of the lawyers for the Army in its row with Sen. McCarthy.

He refused to say why he was dropped, but his statement—in answer to a reporter's question—followed publication in the Boston Post of an article saying he admitted being a member of the National Lawyers Guild from 1947 to 1950.

The House UN-American Activities Committee has described the guild as "the legal bulwark of the Communist party."

Fisher, however, stated emphatically that he is not now and never was a Communist and never agreed with anything the Communist party stands for.

Fisher said his discharge was ordered by Joseph R. Welch, chief counsel for the Army in the upcoming hearings to ferret out the basis for charges and countercharges between Sen. McCarthy and his chief counsel Roy Cohn on one side and the Army on the other side.

Welch could not be reached immediately.

Both Fisher and Welch are members of the Boston law firm of Hale and Dorr.

Fisher, 32, is president of the Republican Club of Newton, a Boston suburb.

More Violence In Strike Expected

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Police Department sent 158 officers and patrolmen to the Park Drop Forge Co. today in anticipation of continued violence by CIO pickets.

Trouble broke out at the plant gates yesterday morning as the CIO United Auto Workers pickets tried to prevent nonstrikers from going to work on the morning shift. Quelled temporarily by mounted policemen, the fighting flared up again in the afternoon as the day shift workers left the plant.

One man was knifed and several others were bruised. A number of cars were damaged by rock throwers, and one automobile was upset.

The Cleveland Industrial Union Council last night called on all CIO-affiliated unions in the area to prepare for "sympathetic assistance" to the auto workers. The council said it would be up to the various unions to decide to what extent they would take part in a demonstration of support.

SAE officials said little could be done about the Russians' attendance unless it could be shown they attended "confidential" sessions.

Saturday is the most dangerous day of the week in traffic.

Russians Attend Aircraft Forum

NEW YORK (AP)—Russians have shown up again at an aircraft forum here, buying up exhibition booth literature as well as copies of speeches, technical papers and promotional material.

The four-day forum, which ends today, is sponsored annually by the Society of Automotive Engineers. More than 1,000 U.S. aircraft designers and executives have been attending sessions.

Russian observers have been present in past years. It was learned yesterday that a pair of Soviet military attaches from their Washington embassy have been showing up during the forum.

They were identified as Lt. Col. Bogatyrev, assistant air attache, and Lt. Col. Sergei I. Sokolovsky, assistant military attache.

The men reportedly registered at the meetings without using their military titles, and used Washington home addresses rather than the Soviet Embassy address.

SAE officials said little could be done about the Russians' attendance unless it could be shown they attended "confidential" sessions.

Union Votes To Accept Pay Cut

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—So that their employer can better compete with other auto makers, production employees of Willys Motors, Inc., have voted to take a pay cut of as much as 10 per cent.

The vote was taken yesterday after Richard T. Gosser, vice president of the CIO United Auto Workers, told the employees the cut is necessary to stabilize Willys' economic position. Part of the loss may be recovered if a new bonus pay plan can be worked out.

The new pay plan does not affect basic hourly wages, but has the effect of eliminating incentive pay, awarded workers who produce more than a fixed norm for their jobs.

With Willys current employing about 7,000 production workers at an average wage of $80, a 10 per cent cut could save the firm $56,000 weekly in labor costs. Gosser said the union hopes to reduce Willys' production costs 20 per cent within six months, making it competitive with General Motors, Chrysler and Ford.

Edgar F. Kaiser, president of Kaiser - Willys, described the union's action as a "tremendous step forward" which advances Willys' operations "to a point where it can become competitive with the Big Three from a standpoint of cost in the production of a complete unit."

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

"SHE CAN talk pretty good when she's not excited," Serena blandly took over, seeing that Farrell was too upset to speak. "I guess they fooled you too, Mr. Albright, with all that sickening stuff in the paper. Making out like she did it on purpose."

He looked bewildered. "You mean it was an accident?"

"Don't you know Farrie would never do such a crazy stunt? Not on purpose, not with you laid up in the hospital and all the responsibility on her." She flashed a brief look of warning at Farrell who was tensed in her chair, as though she were trying to drag out a scream. "You know what I believe? I don't believe there ever was a note at all. I believe they just made that up to put in the papers."

Sewell looked vaguely relieved. "Well, if somebody pulled a trick like that we can mighty easily find it out," he said. "What's the matter, Rhody? Don't try to talk now, and don't you worry about a thing. I'll take care of everything. You get well as fast as you can and come back to work. We've got people there to answer the phone, you don't need to say a word if it bothers you. By the way, Pierce sent a picture." He rummaged in his pocket and brought out a snapshot in an envelope. "Looks snappy in that outfit doesn't he? You keep it, Rhody. I've got another one. Help me up with these darn things, Harry. I'll run along. He tottered uncertainly on his supports beaming on them all. "I'll be seeing you every few days. Anything you need, Mrs. Adams?"

Farrell shook her head, desperately, managed to gasp out, "No! No!"

"All right. Don't you worry. You just get well."

Serena followed him to the front door, debated following him out to the car and gave up the idea. When she talked to Sewell she wanted no listeners and that colored boy looked smart. She went back to the living-room, tying her apron with little triumphant twitches.

"Now you see I got you out of that slick as anything. No reason at all you can't go back to work! I was surely glad you got that fit so you couldn't talk—I was scared you were going to blurt out something foolish and ruin the whole thing."

Farrell wept into her pillow late that night. Now it was all begun again. Nothing was ended. She still loved him. She would, she was certain, love him till she died. And they hadn't let her die!

Mrs. Martin Ravel moved the candlesticks a little, turned the crystal pitcher with the three African violets in it so that one posy would present a bright face to each diner, lifted the lid on each of the covered dishes that had been sent up from a restaurant on the corner and sniffed approvingly. Crab meat with mushrooms, asparagus in cheese sauce, little potatoes nestling in a bouquet of parsley, an endive and grapefruit salad.

Her glass percolator bubbled on the hot plate, a basket of hot rolls wrapped in a towel waited on the radiator in the bathroom. Everything was perfect and why didn't those stupid people arrive? She had made sure that Julia would be off duty by blandly telephoning the most important doctor on the hospital staff. After being referred downward through strata of authority to some important character she had finally ascertained that her granddaughter would be at liberty after 5 o'clock. After that Mrs. Ravel had called up John-Mark Williamson and given him his orders to appear, talking down with her bland imperviousness all his excuses.

She told herself piously that her one sole purpose was a maternal desire to get Julia out of what she thought of as that horrible hospital.

Mrs. Ravel had seen enough on Christmas day to be convinced that a few clever pokes and nudges were needed if she meant to lure her favorite granddaughter out of that place. A morbid job in Mrs. Ravel's book and definitely no place for a scion of the Ravels and the Tabers.

For assistance on that job she knew she needed a man, and that big, amiable, lumbering creature named after Biblical characters was her candidate. She had watched him, and had seen his eyes following Julia seen a line of bewildered embarrassment tighten between his brows when Ravel began making that obvious, and to her grandmother's mind, definitely disgusting play for his attentions.

The buzzer sounded at last and she jabbed at the latch button, jerked the percolator wire out of the socket, all in one brisk, irritated motion. Then she opened the hall door and stood waiting, watching the top of Julia's head slowly rise along the stair railings. Julia's smile came into view next, but Mrs. Ravel did not mollify her look of affront.

"No hat!" she snorted. "You young things offend me. A worn-an looks unfinished and badly groomed without a hat, besides inviting bronchitis and throat trouble and other things, this weather."

"But it's beautiful weather outside Mama Harriet," Julia protested. "Almost like spring. I simply had to tear off and run. I was so late. I hope you can bear to look at me in this uniform."

"I can't endure it, but it appears I must. Come along in. Don't they have any system in that place? That woman I talked to last said you'd be off at 5 o'clock."

"I was an O.B. It was a slow delivery and you have to stay on if you're already scrubbed up. H'm, something smells wonderful. The table looks lovely, too. Who else is coming, Mama Harriet?"

"I invited that Williamson man. He seems to have a poor idea of time, too."

"It's the cows. They're demanding things and calves take a long time to drink—and John-Mark's house is a wreck, all full of painters and people. Probably he had to wait till they all stopped work and left."

"That was a handsome house once. I went there to Retta's silver wedding. This son was in the Army then. Retta didn't live long after that. The captain died before she did, but he was years older. If this son is doing the whole house over, is he planning to marry someone? Your mother used to think that eventually he would marry Ravel."

"We all thought so," Julia said carefully, "eventually."

"I certainly got the impression at your house that Ravel was operating along that line. Even though your mother did tell me some story about that young doctor, Ravel seems to have little reserve and no delicacy whatever. Though what she'd want with a doctor is past my comprehension. She wouldn't want him, Julia was thinking—she never wants any man till she thinks somebody else wants him! That was why she was letting Peter Marshall think that she, Julia, hadn't got over her naive folly in dreaming dreams about him. She told herself every day that she had cured herself of Pete because now she could smile at him without self-consciousness. He was very sharply aware of her now, she knew and the silly little presents that he brought in were usually slipped into her apron pocket. Candy bars and things like that. Even Miss Fryor and Miss Staats had noticed it. Julia wanted them to notice it; it was part of the plan.

Mrs. Ravel was trimming toast, laying green spears of asparagus precisely on it. "I think," she said abruptly, "that this Williamson man is in love with you. I favor the arrangement and that's why I asked him here tonight. I hope he can forsake the society of his cows long enough to put in an appearance before this dinner is entirely ruined."

"Mama Harriet, please please don't ask John-Mark what his intentions are. After all, there are some things a girl has to decide for herself."

"Good heavens, Julia, I'm not a fool exactly! Do go and wash some of that hospital smell off your hands. That outfit is saturated with it, too. Why can't they give you time enough to at least change into respectable clothes. About time!" she interrupted herself crisply as the buzzer whirred.

Phantoms Second In Durham Meet

Bulldogs Dominate Four-Team Contest

Durham High School completely swamped the field yesterday afternoon at the Eastern Regional Track Meet held in Durham with the Greenville Phantoms coming in second by a comfortable margin over third place Raleigh and fourth place Fayetteville.

Durham's brilliant array of sprinters, hurdlers, weight throwers and distance men ran the other three teams right off the track. Durham finished with a total of 83 points, the Green Phantoms had 28 1-2, Raleigh had 16 1-2, and Fayetteville wound up with 11.

The Greenvies could manage only one first place, that being by ace high jumper Harold Edwards in his specialty. The first place for Edwards allowed him to continue unbeaten by a North Carolina athlete this year. His only loss is to a boy from Virginia Beach in the Duke-Durham Relay Saturday. In that one, Edwards was only three-quarters of an inch short of the winning jump.

Taft, Edwards, Speight Lead
Bill Taft and Harold Edwards led the scoring for the G-men for the day with five points. Edwards got five for finishing first in the high jump and Taft got his in the sprints. Taft placed second in the 220-yard run and third in the 100-yard dash. Both events were won by the twice state champion, Bobby Honeycutt of Durham.

James Speight was the third highest scorer for the Greenvies with four points. Speight finished second in the broad jump and placed fourth in the 440 yard run. Speight qualified for the 100-yard dash finals, but the strain of the day's work slowed him down some and he finished just a step behind the fourth place man.

Pete West tied for second in the pole vault with Greenville's Bob Shackelford and then tied for third in the high jump to take 3 1-2 points. Shackelford was given two points in the pole vault. Other Green Phantoms to place were Clidith Oakley in the discus, where he placed third; Joe Taft, fourth in the 220; Mitchell Johnson, fourth in the broad jump; and Edwin Wilkerson, second in the half-mile.

Wilkerson turned in a highly creditable 2:13.4 half mile to finish behind the winner with 2:12.9. Wilkerson beat out Reggie Ponder of Raleigh who ran a 2:07 half-mile at Durham Saturday. Ponder, one of the state's leading half-milers, tied Wilkerson in Greenville at the first of the year.

The Greenvies have finished their schedule until after the Easter holidays when they will take on Raleigh and Fayetteville at their opponents' tracks.

Bevo Most Unruffled Party In Furor Over Expulsion

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP)—If the weather's good today, you will probably find Bevo Francis on the banks of the Ohio River waiting for the catfish to grab at the bait on his trot line.

Otherwise, he'll probably do some "loafin' around" at the nearby community of Hammondville.

At any rate, you can bet big Bevo, one of the nation's most publicized basketball players, is the most unruffled party in the recent furor that resulted in his dismissal from tiny Rio Grande College.

The college expelled Bevo Monday after he missed mid-term examinations, failed to show up for class and lacked excuses for a number of absences.

Thus ended—at Rio Grande at least—a fabulous, two-year career in which the gangling farm boy set a batch of unbelievable scoring records.

But Bevo, who announced a couple of weeks ago he might have to drop out of school because "bills are piling up," wasn't excited. He planned to "sit back, take it easy and look over some offers . . ."

The offers, he said, have come from colleges, AAU teams, and some professional clubs. He appeared content to "let the boys bid."

Bevo's brash coach, Newt Oliver, plans not to complete the two years he has left on a contract calling for $3,600 annually. He has said repeatedly, "I came here with Bevo, and I'll leave with him." But Oliver—

No Alarm Caused By LaMotta Bout

By BEN FUNK
MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—Former Champion Jake LaMotta gave the middleweight division no cause for alarm about his comeback as he dropped a split 10-round decision last night to unrated Billy Kilgore.

Kilgore, a ham-and-egger fighting for the biggest purse of his career, seemed a bit awed by LaMotta's reputation in the early rounds but quickly gained confidence when he found he could take the "Bronx Bull's" best blows without blinking.

Then the Miamian came on with a stinging left jab and enough good rights to Jake's head and body to win the nod from Referee Pezey Barron and Judge Gus Jacobson.

Barron voted for Kilgore 97-95. Jacobson gave him a 98-94 edge. Judge Carl Gardner thought LaMotta won 96-93.

LaMotta, a 3-1 favorite, had none of the steam in his punches that enabled him to win the middleweight crown in 1949 and defend it for two years. Several times, he landed squarely on Kilgore's jaw with both rights and lefts and the Miamian came off unhurt.

"I don't know if I'll keep on fighting," LaMotta said. "I haven't decided. I felt pretty good and I thought I was ahead all the way."

Jake, who quit the ring here 15 months ago when he was stopped by Danny Nardico, weighed 195 when he resumed training. He had peeled down to 167 1/2 for yesterday's weigh-in. Kilgore weighed 164 1/2.

A crowd of 2,891 which paid a gross gate of $8,739 showed little enthusiasm for the fight and clapped and stamped for more action in the late rounds. The fight was carried on the CBS television network.

The 32-year-old LaMotta carried the fight to Kilgore and three times in the second and third rounds drove Billy into the ropes, but the best stuff he could throw failed to damage his opponent.

Kilgore's sharp counter punches won the third, fourth and fifth rounds and Jake's best efforts couldn't overcome Billy's point advantage.

Nearly 800,000 persons were injured in week end traffic accidents last year.

Games Today

East Carolina College and Greenville High School will send their baseball teams into action this afternoon, weather permitting.

The Pirates will travel to Wilson for a North State Conference (Eastern Division) battle with Atlantic Christian College. Veteran right-hander Ken Hall is expected to get the starting nod for the Pirates.

Coach Bo Farley's Phantoms will entertain Kinston's Red Devils in a Northeastern Conference game at Guy Smith Stadium. The pitching choice for the Phantoms is something of a question mark with either Hudson Miller or John Ed Arnold looming as the most likely prospects.

Both Dave Dickson and Bill Hendrix, the veterans on the club, pitched Tuesday against Jacksonville.

The game today will be the last contest of the week for the two teams.

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Harlem Globetrotters didn't even use their famed "Goose" Tatum last night and still they grabbed a 67-62 victory over the College All-Stars in the 19th game of their cross country basketball tour.

The triumph gave the Trotters a 13-6 record against the collegians. A crowd of 12,725 fans saw the game.

The Globetrotters built up a 37-32 lead in the first half. The collegians rallied and once had the score tied at 57-all. Bob Hall's felder-broke that deadlock and sent the pros into a lead they never relinquished.

Cliff Hagan of Kentucky led the All-Stars with 17 points while Ermer Robinson was high for the Trotters with 15.

Bums Chase Shadow Of Thomson's Homer

By JOE REICHLER
AP Sports Writer
Don Newcombe finally has rid himself of the shadow that hung over him for 2 1/2 years.

The big Brooklyn pitcher may have won the most important game of his career last night when he hurled the Dodgers to a 6-4 victory over the New York Giants at the Polo Grounds.

Although he wouldn't admit it, the triumph must have been in the nature of sweet revenge for the Negro right-hander. It was in this park back on Oct. 3, 1951, that he suffered the saddest moments of his life.

That was the fateful day when the Giants' Bobby Thomson hammered that heard-around-the-world homer in the ninth inning of the final playoff game to snatch a pennant away from Brooklyn. True, the homer was hit off Ralph Branca but it came after the Giants had batted Newcombe out of the box with three ringing hits.

The Giant-Dodger scrap was the only night affair in yesterday's five-game schedule. Homers by Gil Hodges and Junior Gilliam decided that one.

In the afternoon, Philadelphia, behind the four-hit pitching of south paw Curt Simmons, vanquished the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-0. Third baseman Willie Jones moved up from seventh to leadoff in the batting order drove in three Philly runs with a home run, double and two singles.

Bob Lemon threw a three-hitter at Chicago as the Cleveland Indians whipped the White Sox 6-3 to sweep the two-game series. The veteran right-hander ace permitted only one hit after the first inning. Wally Westlake poled his second homer in two days for Cleveland. Rookie left-hander Jack Harshman, first of four Chicago pitchers, was charged with the defeat.

A pair of ninth-inning errors by Washington second baseman Terwilliger presented the New York Yankees with the winning run as the world champions nipped the Nats 2-1 behind Eddie Lopat.

With one out, Johnny Schmitz walked Phil Rizzuto. Lopat topped a ball which Eddie Yost fielded at third and threw to Terwilliger for what looked like a certain double play. Terwilliger dropped the ball.

A moment later he muffed a soft pop by Hank Bauer and Rizzuto scored from third with the winning run.

Baltimore's Orioles achieved their first American League victory in 52 years, edging out the Detroit Tigers 3-2. Righthander Duane Pillete permitted six hits, protecting a three-run advantage his Oriole mates had grabbed at the expense of starter Ray Herbert in the first inning. Junior Stephens' two-run single was the decisive blow.

Willie Mays May Put Spark In Giants For '54 Season
By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK (AP)—This early with the season so very young it's scarcely begun to breathe, there's already a strong suspicion here that a great many of the nation's baseball experts have made a bad mistake in assessing the Giants' chances in the National League race.

If it isn't too late to be legal, we would like to take a flyer on Leo Durocher's lads to beat out the Dodgers.

The trouble was that most of the savants, including this one, have been busy all spring examining the leath of the Dodgers and the Milwaukee Braves down in Florida while the Polo Grounders were getting themselves good and ready out West. None who did not actually see the club play with Willie Mays back in center field quite believed the reported transformation in an outfit that dropped its last 10 games with Brooklyn last season and limped home fifth.

Even the news that the Giants were ripping up their old sparring partners, the Cleveland Indians, failed to make much of an impression on the Florida Brigade. So what? Nobody was going to beat the Dodgers. Least of all a .280 hitting Negro boy who had just finished two years in the Army. The kid from Fairfield, Ala., couldn't make that big a difference if he were tripeless.

That was what we said, and that was before we saw the Giants play with Willie Mays back in center and Durocher, breaking every managerial rule, move out of his private boudoir and change his clothes right in the locker room alongside his players. Let us face it, men, this really is a new, fighting ball club and it's got muscles.

Auto Race For Aintree Course

LONDON — Aintree race course, home of the world-famous Grand National steeplechase, will echo the roar of screeching auto racing cars this summer.

The promoters aim to make Aintree as famous for its auto racing as for the tough Grand National. The first international auto meeting is scheduled for May 29.

The circuit runs alongside the historical four miles of the National course. Aintree already can accommodate 200,000 spectators. Special parking lots are being arranged for a total of 12,000 cars. An official claimed the new track will rank with the best in the United Kingdom.

the bias of undue self-interest eliminated. He noted that he felt that most business wrongs can be attributed to sheer thoughtlessness or to outright wrongful intent.

"There are many areas of business activity into which these problems of right and wrong treatment of each other extend their roots—competition, selling and advertising. He stated that competition gives business freedom of enterprise and to eliminate competition is to eliminate freedom of business.

In the matter of selling, he urged that Business study their own service or products industriously and intelligently so that the real value and uses can be portrayed to the customer.

In advertising, he said, business should seek to make advertising bear a worthwhile, truthful, simple, attractive message that is sincere and fair.

In conclusion Howell stated: "We are free to choose our business conduct but we cannot escape the results of that conduct. 'As we sow, so shall we reap', is as true in business as in other areas of conduct.

The meeting was presided over by the association chairman D.E. Ogiesby, Jr.

Weekend Highlights Hams And Turkeys

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Juicy smoked hams and succulent turkeys are the feature attractions in most of the nation's food stores this Easter weekend.

And in general, prices on the two items will be lower than a week ago. Hams will be down from four to eight cents a pound. Turkeys will be anywhere from six cents to a dime cheaper than last weekend.

If you want something other than the "traditional" Easter dinner features, your best bets, value-wise will be veal and prime ribs. Food men say veal cuts continue to be reasonably priced. Prime ribs appear to be resisting the upward trend of other meats.

Legs of lamb and sirloin steaks will be generally higher. Pork chops will be up in some places and off in others. Prices remain high, however.

There'll be scattered other specialties—chuck roast, frying chickens, fresh cod and haddock fillets and codfish and halibut steaks.

Frying chickens show no definite price trend; some stores will hike prices three or four cents a pound while others will offer them at a couple of cents less than a week ago.

Eggs may be higher in your market. Price rises of two to as much as six cents a dozen are planned by stores in various sections. Butter will be the same in most places, but a little higher in some eastern stores.

Celery spinach, onions, potatoes and cabbage remain on the list of extra-special vegetable buys. Rated as good buys are new crop potatoes, corn, eggplant, small-size peppers and squash. Asparagus and lettuce are considered by produce men to be moderately priced. Tomatoes, cucumbers and carrots are up a bit this week.

Some stores will feature pineapples to go with baked ham. Grapefruit continued to be the most worthwhile buy in fruits. Most fruit prices are higher this week.

Produce men are looking forward

Milk Bottle Cap Is Dated Again

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Data on milk bottle caps are coming back to Connecticut. Last year, the legislature abolished a law requiring caps to show the date the milk was pasteurized. Housewives protested that without the date they couldn't keep track of which milk should be used up first. Officials decided to restore the date on caps, but it will be the delivery rather than the pasteurization date. Housewives say they don't care which it is providing it's a date.

Missing Stove Oil Mystery Is Hot Rod Secret

PORTLAND (AP)—The mystery of the missing stove oil in a Portland residential neighborhood has been solved.

His son, who is a hot rod enthusiast, along with half a dozen others in the neighborhood, complained that his car needed a push to get it started. The engine was sluggish. Soon the parent noticed other jalopies were having similar troubles. He asked the owners if the engine trouble could have any connection with the frequent loss of stove oil from the family tank. It had.

Gasoline costs around 30 cents a gallon, stove oil 16¢.

Tanks in the cars to hold the oil and valves permit them to start with regular gasoline. Then when the manifold is hot, they switch to stove oil. And the cars function satisfactorily. Except that ultimately the engines gum up.

Fingers 'Fenced' To Avoid Errors

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP)—When his fingers seemed to refuse to hit the right typewriter keys, Russel R. Potter decided to do something about it.

Potter has invented a gadget that he claims fences errant fingers in so they can't hit wrong keys. Vertical fences block fingers from other key areas and may prove to be of aid in teaching typing to the blind, he says.

Business Ethics Topic At Dealers' Meeting

"Our ethical obligations should always require of us more than the law if we are to progress toward a better order of things," W.W. Howell of the East Carolina College Business Education Department told members of the Greenville American businessmen today that they can be competitors and yet be helpful to each other by coming together in organizations like this to discuss common problems and formulate ground rules by which they will play the game of business fairly," Howell said.

Speaking of business ethics Howell said: "The dictionary defines ethics as the science of moral duty—moral principals. Basically, law may be regarded as ethics, but ethics must be considered as covering a much broader area of human conduct than law. Our ethical obligations should always require of us more than the law if we are to progress toward a better order of things."

He said that ethics could not be considered without considering religion in America.

"Today, it is imperative that we not forget the traditional part that the Christian religions have had in the development of this country and the civilized world," he continued.

The instructor said that considering our credit system and remembering that a very small percentage of people show up as being dishonest when credit is extended that it would be a serious mistake to assume that religious training had not played a large part in developing this great faith.

"It has been said that businessmen have three moral standards," he continued. "The first is that applied to his treatment of other people—his competitors, customers, employees, creditors, and others. The second the standards he expects other to apply to him. The third, the standard which he applied to his treatment of other people—his competitors, customers, employees, creditors, and others. The second the standards he expects others to apply to him. The third, the standard which he applied to other peoples' treatment of each other."

The speaker stated that one of the functions of ethics becomes that of bringing the three-way standard into proper focus, with

TEEN TALK

(Dear Dinky)
 AP Newfeatures
 Do you know how to write a love letter?
 If you do, you're an exception. Few girls and fewer boys hit the love target when they take the pen in hand by their own admissions. So many soldiers at Ft. Hood, Tex. asked the question "How do I write a love letter?" that it is rounding up as many books as possible on the subject. So it seems that even if boys are not experts at love archery, they know "the girl" expects Dan Cupid to shoot a love missile her way occasionally. On the other hand say the boys, girls fall into two categories when it comes to letter writing. There are the drooly, mushy love-sick-fawn types who pour out inmost affection even to once-in-a-while dates, and the prissy, shy type who can't even write an ever-lovin' missive to her fiancé.

 Some of the most saccharin correspondence imaginable is to be found on old Valentines, copied in many instances from love primers that were sold to aid letter writers back in the Gay 80's and 90's. In those days sweethearts and swains were shy and bashful except when it came to expressing their feelings on paper. Then they went all out.
 Here are examples of letters sent at different periods, illustrating how the trend has been from the blunt to the subtle love letter. You might find one here that could be useful today:
 In 1893, boy to girl:
 "Yes, I would gladly die for you. I can't think of anything but your glistening white teeth, the aroma of your lovely locks, your dainty feet and hands. And your laugh — it is so melodious that I can dream only that it is somehow wired to a heavenly harp."
 In 1910 girl to boy:
 "It has only been my own stupid blindness that has kept me from admitting to myself how much I care for you. I am sorry that I have hurt you, and if you should call to see me within the near future, I would be most happy indeed, dear George."
 In 1917 girl to boy:
 (During this war period there was an increase in love letter writing.)

"Oh my darling my heart ache is nothing compared to yours, for I have the benefit of friends and family to distract my thoughts occasionally. But how terrible it must be for you. I hope you will be home soon, very soon, I am miserable thinking of your caresses, and yearn to feel your arms around me."
 In 1927 girl to boy:
 "I am sorry that I was not in when you telephoned. Was it important? I missed seeing you at the dance the other night. Were you ill or just 'busy'?"
 In 1940 boy to girl:
 "This lovely country, I have been playing tennis and hiking and have a gargantuan appetite. Wish you were here."
 A letter typical of the period from 1941 until now, from a girl to a service man is this one written in 1963:
 "... I am sending the socks under separate cover. What will you tell the Army belles when you wear them? Oh, yes, you can always say your mother made them. I imagine you will miss your class reunion and the crowd at the seashore this summer. But perhaps you are enjoying new friends. Are the girls pretty?"
 It would seem the recipe for a successful love letter should be based on how well you know the young man. But in varying combinations should express large doses of friendliness, warmth, liquid sunshine, mystery, sincerity. If a boy has romanced you, he expects a love letter when you write him. There is no point in being amoblish about it. But if he hasn't ever shown romantic interest in you, don't scare him away for good by writing him a love letter.

 A good rule with all letters is to write them, put them away, read them the next day and if you are still satisfied, then put them in the mail.
Want New Route For Old Pipeline
BEIRUT (AP)—Iraq wants a big oil pipeline planned to end in Haifa in Israel to be diverted through Syria to the Lebanon coast. The line was partially built in 1948 but was never finished because of the Israel-Arab war which still is going on despite a cease fire.
 If the line were completed by the new route it would increase by 7 1/2 million tons the 36 million tons now pumped through Lebanon, Iraq officials say.
 Meanwhile, officials of the Iraq Petroleum Co., dominated by the British have denied that the big, idle oil refinery in Haifa will be moved to Lebanon.
 More than half the state income in Connecticut comes from sales and use taxes.

rooms with a minimum of decorating funds. She knows the appeal of sturdy fabrics, imaginatively trimmed, and she knows how to use her electric sewing machine to run up cheery accessories for her home. One bright idea suggested by local sewing center experts is to make kitchen curtains and matching dish towels from linen toweling and a transfer pattern of apples and apple blossoms. Buy a single length of toweling, which costs less than ready-made dish towels, and cut it into the correct lengths for cafe curtains and dish towels. Measure your windows before buying the fabric, to determine amount needed. If you plan to use a transfer pattern to decorate the curtains, it is wise to rinse the sizing from the toweling smooth before stamping on the transfers. The transfers come on a large single sheet, ready to cut. This makes it possible to arrange the design for the best effect. To stamp the transfer pattern, place the fabric on a padded ironing board and set your iron for medium heat, place transfer, printed side down, on fabric and stamp with a heavy downward stroke of the iron. Remove paper pattern as you iron. Remove excess color from fabric by ironing over a clean piece of paper for a few seconds. After the design has set for 24 hours, it may be washed. In laundering, iron on the wrong side.

What part of every prescription weighs nothing at all?

Your pharmacist's scale is so sensitive it will respond to the weight of a hair! But into every prescription he compounds, your pharmacist puts one ingredient that never moves the scale's needle. It is the most important thing you buy whenever you have a prescription filled! It is the professional knowledge and skill of your pharmacist. Without it, no prescription could be properly filled. The physician orders the required drugs in the specific amounts needed, but the compounding of the finished prescription is the sole responsibility of your pharmacist. Before he could fulfill this responsibility, he devoted years to the study of the highly specialized subjects of his profession. To earn his college degree, for example, he had to acquire a fundamental knowledge of many sciences such as chemistry, physics, biology. He mastered, too, the details of compounding and dispensing drugs, chemicals, and other medicinal agents. And after his formal education, your pharmacist's course of study does not end. For there are constant changes and progress in medicine and pharmacy with which he must keep abreast. Get better acquainted with your pharmacist. He's a good neighbor, and a good citizen who works for better community health. Reprinted from a copyrighted advertisement published by Parke, Davis & Company, Detroit 24, Michigan.

Try Avoid Atom Plant Walkout

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP) — Government mediators from Washington and Atlanta meet here today with CIO, AFL and management officials to try to avert a walkout threatened by 9,000 atomic production workers for midnight tonight.

Preliminary talks with each of the three groups separately began last night and continued until almost midnight.

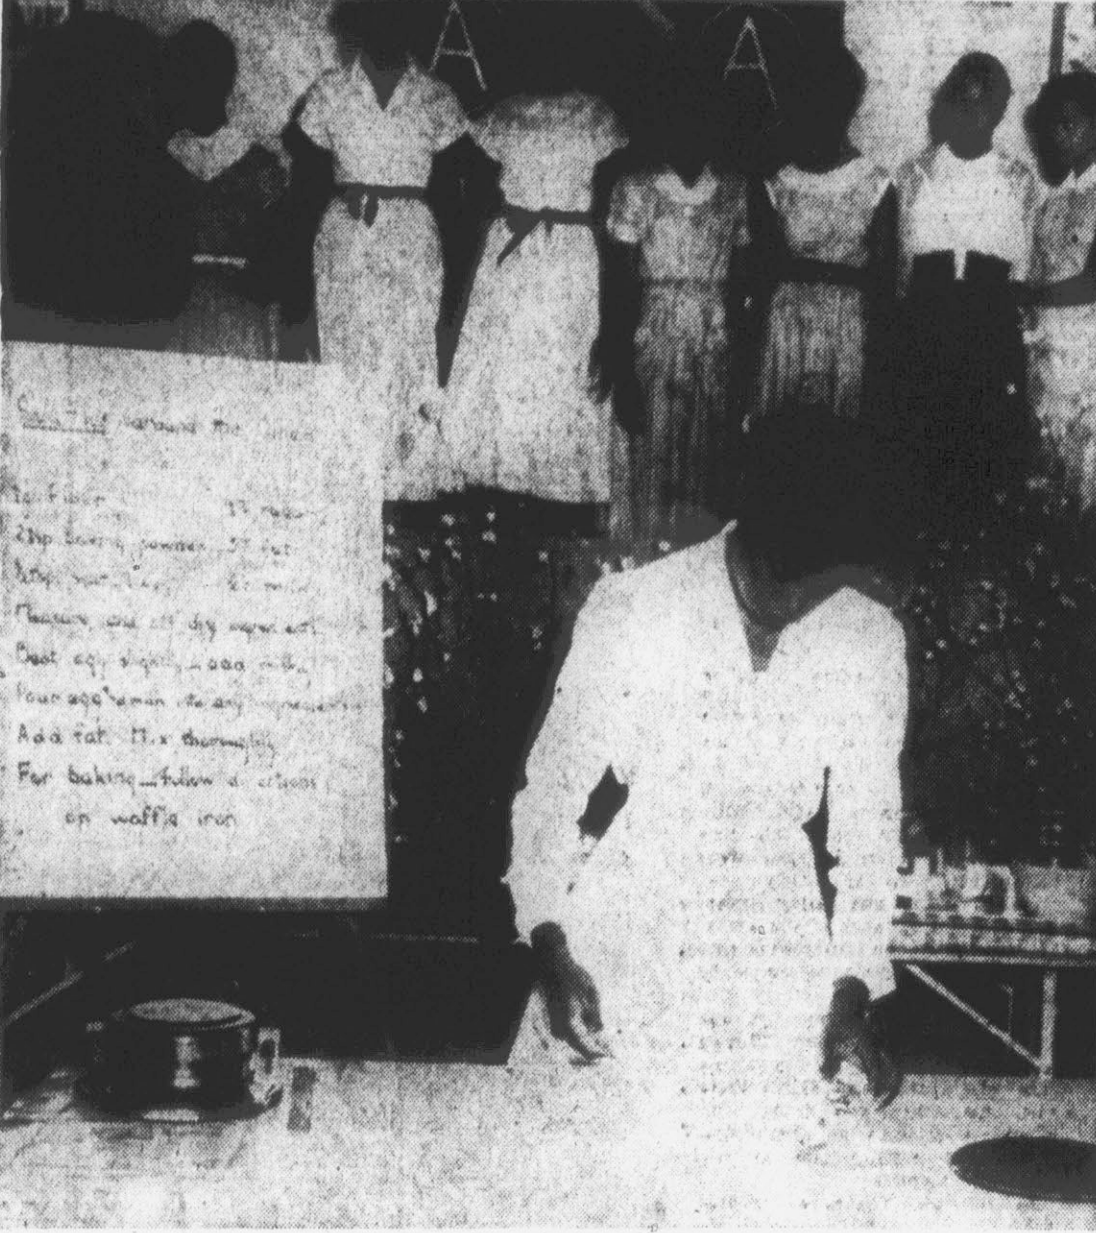

The hourly paid production workers seek what the mediation service termed a "substantial wage increase" at four strike-threatened plants—three here and one at Paducah, Ky.

The AFL Atomic Trades Labor Council, comprising about a dozen AFL unions, represents about 4,500 workmen in two plants here—a nuclear energy research laboratory and a classified production facility.

The CIO United Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers bargains for about 3,500 workers in the uranium separation center here and about 1,000 workers in a similar plant at Paducah.

The plants are operated by Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Co., under contract with the Atomic Energy Commission.

4-H Demonstration Staged

Shirley Fields of the Farmville Negro 4-H Club is shown making her demonstration of "Individual Bread-Making" with "Waffles Around the Clock" at the National Guard Armory last Tuesday night. The Pitt County Federation of Negro 4-H Clubs sponsored the meeting. Members of all Pitt County 4-H Clubs participated in the contests. Mrs. Amelia S. By CHESTER WALSH

More than 450 Pitt county 4-H Club members, parents and leaders and friends attended the annual Negro 4-H Club County Federation demonstration at the National Guard Armory in Greenville Tuesday night.

Mrs. Amelia S. Capehart, Pitt County Negro Home Agent, explained the purpose of the annual event and expressed appreciation of the fact that more than 200 boys and girls participated on the program. She emphasized the value of the training the young people receive in the 4-H Club activities in Pitt county.

Mrs. Mable Wilson, music instructor at the Falkland Negro Elementary School, provided the music for the prelude to the meeting and she played during the dress revue contests.

Main features of the annual event were the team demonstrations by boys and girls, a grooming contest for boys and a dress revue for girls.

Champion teams for Pitt County: Deloris Turnage, Farmville 4-H Club, in a dairy food demonstration, "Do It With Dry Milk Powder."

Second place winner and under champion for Pitt county was Norma Hawkins of the Grimesland 4-H Club, with a dairy food demonstration, "Do It With Dry Milk Powder."

Shirley Fields of Farmville "Individual Bread-making," "Waffles Around the Clock."

Margie and Doris Payton of Winterville, "Raising the Standard of Bread."

Charlie Gooden and Roosevelt Chapman, team demonstration, for Ayden club, "Vaccinating to Control Newcastle and Fowl Pox Diseases."

The Pitt county boys and girls will represent the county in the preliminary contest to be held in Tarboro on April 21, at 10 a.m. Following is a list of winners in the grooming contest for boys and the dress revue for girls:

Sportswear: Ralph Timmons; school, Arthur Council; play, Joseph Hill; church, John Hill, and party, Benjamin Gorham.

Dress Revue: Doris Foreman of Farmville, first; Mary Foreman of Farmville, second, and Helen Barrett of Winterville, third.

Sport: Shirley Fields of Farmville, first; Mildred Clemons of Bethel, second.

Grimesland, first; Dorothy Brown

Dressing: Margaret Griffin of Winterville, second, and Carol Whitfield of Farmville, third.

Tailored: Odessa Barnes of Bethel, first.

Party: Shirley Fields of Farmville, first; Barbara White of Ayden, second.

About 125 junior 4-H Club girls modeled aprons for all occasions and they represented the 18 junior 4-H clubs of Pitt county.

Agent Mrs. Helen Branford presented the various prize awards. Following is a list of the judges of contests in the Pitt County Federation of 4-H Clubs' annual demonstration: Mrs. T. Mitchell of Eppes High School, Greenville; Mrs. Helen Branford, Negro home agent of Wilson; Mrs. Madge Allen of Eppes High School, Greenville; Mrs. Doris Thacker, home economics teacher, and P. Thompson, assistant Negro farm agent of Wilson.

Assistant Negro Home Agent Miss Julia E. Evans; Talmadge T. Mitchell, assistant Negro farm agent, and James M. Goode, Pitt County Negro farm agent were in charge of arrangements for the annual 4-H Club demonstration.

Twenty-five per cent of all drivers involved in fatal auto accidents in the U.S. last year were under 25 years old.

AUDITORS' OPINION

We have examined the books of account and records of Pitt County Memorial Hospital, Inc., Greenville, N. C., and present herewith our report showing the financial position of the hospital at December 31, 1953, and the results of operations for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances, with the exception that we did not confirm the patients' accounts with the recorded debtors, nor were we present at the taking of the physical inventory.

Army's Pride Behind Bitterness In Battle With Wisconsin Red-Hunter

Editor's Note—The current Army-McCarthy controversy goes back to last September, when Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy demanded that the Army produce certain records. The Army refused. The trouble reached a boil when Secretary of the Army Stevens called a McCarthy statement "utterly untrue."

By DON WHITEHEAD
WASHINGTON 13—The bitterness of the Army's fight with Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy is rooted in a conviction of men at the Pentagon that the Wisconsin Red-hunter has damaged the integrity and prestige of the Army.

For them the basic issue is one of honor and pride. They regard as a secondary matter in itself the question of whether McCarthy and his aides tried to get special treatment for a friend and former member of the McCarthy staff, Pvt. G. David Schine.

They contend McCarthy has questioned the loyalty, honesty and truthfulness of Army men to the point of grave embarrassment. That is why Pentagon sources say privately, there has been an unrelenting hardness in the position of the Army's top men against McCarthy. As one officer put it: "You don't compromise when your honor is involved."

From the Pentagon viewpoint it's McCarthy versus the Army, with Secretary Robert T. Stevens as the Army champion. One highly placed civilian in the Defense Department said in an interview:

"The Army's morale has dropped and it has risen in past weeks in direct relation to Bob Stevens' readiness to fight McCarthy. "Morale dropped to a low point in February when the situation made it appear that Stevens had 'surrendered' to McCarthy. But morale climbed again when it became clear that Stevens, with Eisenhower's support, was going to fight back."

An Army officer: "We were shaken pretty badly by the story of Stevens' 'surrender.' But we've come to realize that we no surrender at all because Stevens had never intended to surrender. I know my friends and I are proud of the fact that Stevens was the first one in the administration to fight McCarthy. And he's still fighting."

A good many people in the Army and the Defense Department think McCarthy was "riding" the army in a deliberate program of harassment. Rightly or wrongly, they felt somebody had to call a halt sooner or later.

The sorest points with the Army in all the furor are: 1. McCarthy's tongue-lashing of a general officer, a World War II hero, who McCarthy implied was not fit to wear his country's uniform.

2. McCarthy's charge the Army attempted to "coddle and promote" Communists and then tried to cover up for those responsible.

3. McCarthy's treatment of Secretary Stevens, to whom the senator once referred as "the finest dupe I've ever met."

4. McCarthy's accusation of "blackmail" and the charge that Stevens and Army General Counsel John G. Adams tried to get the McCarthy subcommittee to shift its investigation from the Army to the Navy, Air Force and Defense Department.

But the current controversy reaches as far back as September 1953.

It was in September that McCarthy demanded that the Army furnish him the records showing who approved hiring of Army civilians McCarthy said were suspected of being pro-Communist.

First Army headquarters refused the names on the grounds that such a disclosure would violate a presidential directive issued by former President Truman and never countermanded by President Eisenhower.

received his discharge at Camp Kilmer, N. J.

McCarthy called in Brig. Gen. Ralph Zwicker, Camp Kilmer commander for questioning. In a stormy closed-door session, McCarthy questioned the "honesty or intelligence" of Zwicker and told him "you should be removed from your command." Zwicker contended that in giving Peress an honorable discharge he was acting under orders from higher authority.

This was the situation into which Stevens stepped. He accused McCarthy of abusing and humiliating Zwicker. He ordered Zwicker and another officer not to appear before McCarthy's committee. Stevens said he himself would appear instead.

McCarthy lashed back at Stevens. He accused the Army of an "attempt to coddle and promote Communists" and of claiming "special immunity from legislative investigation and exposure of the malefactors."

The Army acknowledges it handled the Peress case badly. Secretary Stevens made this concession even before Zwicker went before McCarthy to testify.

While Peress was being investigated by one branch of the Army, he was given an automatic promotion from captain to major by another.

An Army officer says: "It was a plain case of a foul-up. There's no doubt about it. This was one case where one hand didn't know what the other was doing. But it was a mistake in administration—not a sinister plot to promote Communists."

As for the discharge, another Army source says: "We wanted to get rid of Peress as quickly as possible. We did not have grounds for a court-martial, because even if Peress were a Communist, it's not against the law. A security hearing could have been held—but that requires a long-drawn-out process. So we took the shortest cut—an honorable discharge."

But, Stevens' friends say, the real issue at stake as far as the secretary was concerned was not Peress but McCarthy's treatment of Zwicker.

Then followed the famous "memorandum of understanding" which since has been tagged by quipsters as the "memorandum of misunderstanding."

Secretly on Feb. 24, Stevens went to the Capitol and met with Republican Senators McCarthy, Karl Mundt and Everett Dirksen. Mundt wrote a memorandum on the meeting for publication. In it, all present, in effect, agreed to McCarthy's demands to supply the names of everyone involved in the disputed case and to see that they appeared as witnesses before McCarthy.

Stevens came from the meeting evidently thinking he had won a victory—assurances that Army officers would not be treated in the future as Zwicker had been. But those assurances claimed by Stevens weren't in writing.

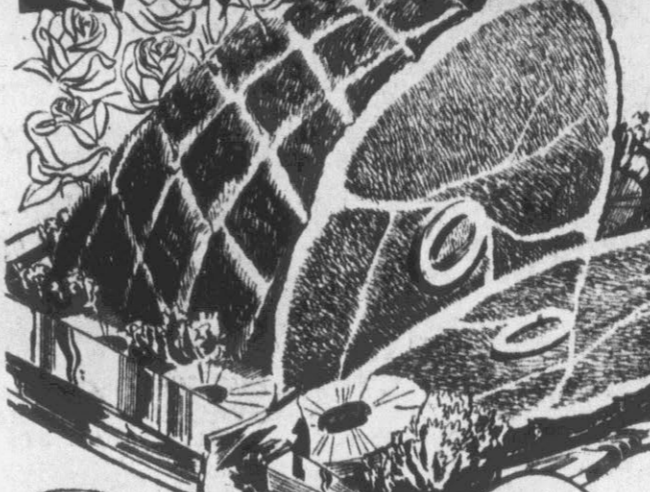

Then came the blowup: the memorandum was almost universally treated as a surrender.

For a time there were rumors Stevens would resign. There were huddles in the White House and on Capitol Hill. President Eisenhower let it be known he was supporting Stevens.

On the heels of this, the Army sent certain senators, at their request, a report that McCarthy and his chief counsel, Roy M. Cohn, had from time to time applied pressure to get special treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine, the son of a wealthy hotel man, had been an unpaid consultant on McCarthy's staff before he was inducted into the Army.

The Army report brought from McCarthy a cry of "blackmail." In turn, he released several unsigned memoranda. One said that at a meeting between McCarthy and Stevens and their aides last Nov. 9 Stevens and Adams suggested McCarthy go after the other services rather than the Army in his hunt for Reds.

LOOKING for an Easter picture—and a bonnet?

By IRVING DESFOR

AP Newsfeatures
The Easter season, with the cooperation of the weather man, of course, generally marks the year's first large scale outdoor blossoming of camera runs and cameras. We see around us the fresh beauty of apple and cherry blossoms and it seems to have an irresistible appeal for color film. We shed our winter clothes so our backs and our steps are lighter, more buoyant—and there's hardly any effort to carrying a camera.

The family's new Easter finery is a sure-fire subject. We want it anyway as a yearly record shot for the family album and isn't it time to send off new pictures of the youngsters to Aunt Martha and Uncle Dudley? This year, however, how about a real action shot of the family as though snapped in the Easter parade instead of a stiff, self-conscious pose.

It can be done even with inexpensive and box-type cameras if the following points are kept in mind: 1. Distance. Not too close. About 15 to 20 feet away because any closer might show movement and further away the figures would be too small. 2. Direction. Towards the camera, either directly or at a three-quarter angle. Movement shows to a much greater degree when walking across the picture area in profile. 3. Timing. Even in walking, there's a fractional second of inaction when both feet are on the ground before a new step is taken. This momentary lull or peak of action is found in many fast motions like a golf swing, a tennis serve or a child in a swing. Each of these can be snapped at box-camera speed to show action if timed right.

Walking action pictures should be rehearsed several times and shot several times. The shooting distance should be measured off and noted so that when the subject reaches the spot, you snap. Take note of the background too—it shouldn't interfere. If you crouch low and shoot up, you'll get taller figures and possibly more sky, which is good.

Speaking of Easter blossoms, here's an item about a florist who thought of a simple photographic idea that might develop into a national business venture.

Charles L. Kafer, Mansfield, Ohio, florist, didn't think it right that most people ordering flowers for out-of-town delivery shouldn't see what they paid for. He started photographing floral arrangements in color when an order was wired in. His customers received a color slide along with their statement. What's new? The recent trade show in Chicago unveiled many new photo items that will reach camera store shelves in the next few months. Among them:

An automatic slide projector that operates by itself was shown by Revere. Once started, the changer feeds the machine one slide at a time from a large supply, each for a 15-second viewing time until it is switched off.

Completely packaged outfits were extended to the home movie field for the first time by Bell & Howell. Their matched sets combine in one cardboard carrying case: an 8mm camera, projector, a bar light, reflector lamps, color film, a screen and a cartoon film. A beginner could "take or show" immediately, once he got this outfit home.

In the three dimension field, several companies jumped on the booming stereo bandwagon with new items. Heading the list was Kodak with both a new stereo camera and two stereo viewers. The camera has matched, coupled f3.5 lenses, automatic film advance with shutter setting, a built-in exposure calculator, and much simpler film loading. The Wollensak entry was their Stereo 10 camera with f2.7 lenses with click stops and provision for taking single frame pictures. The TDC banner was behind two new f3.5 cameras: an American made Stereo Vivid and a German made Stereo Colorist. The Vivid features a one-operation-control for all flash pictures—adjustment for distance automatically sets the lens opening.

The lowest-priced, American made stereo projector was shown by Director Products. Its unique feature is a control to neutralize the stereo effect in the usually eye-straining period of adjustment on the screen.

'Hardware Week' Campaign Is Set

An event known as IRHA Hardware Week, one of the biggest advertising and merchandising campaigns ever conceived, will begin all across the nation on April 16.

IRHA means Independent Retail Hardwaremen of America and is the symbol that identifies the member stores.

Hardware Week will be observed coast-to-coast April 16 to 24 by the 23,000 independent hardware stores, all members of the National Retail Hardware Association.

A total of 586 wholesalers and more than 100 manufacturers, including some of the industry's top names, will support the IRHA stores in the gigantic promotion.

Far East Stage For New Films

LONDON (AP)—British film makers are turning to the east these days for adventure movies. Jack Hawkins, star of "The Cruel Sea," is busy shooting a color film "The Seekers" in New Zealand. With him are Laya Raki, Noel Purcell and others from Pinewood studio.

"The Purple Plain" with Gregory Peck and the Burmese discovery Win Min Than is being filmed in Ceylon. It's a jungle story about Burma.

Director Philip Leacock who made "The Kidnappers" is in Aden exploring a hidden desert city for a picture to be called "Ingrams Peace." This also will star Jack Hawkins. They hope to get started soon.

DO IT YOURSELF?
MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP)—A roll-your-own cigarette trend in Vermont was an important factor in a five per cent decline in cigarette tax collections for 1953, state tax commissioner Leonard W. Morrison found after a survey.

For the first time in history, eight cylinder cras outsold sixes in the United States in 1953.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (U) — The stock market was a trifle higher today, but selling created considerable drag on values.

Trading was unusually fast the opening with prices higher all around. That pace soon slackened however and prices began to cut back from their bid in the early afternoon.

Most changes were in the small fractions with an extreme range of around 2 points either way.

Trading dwindled to a pace of around two million shares for the day as compared with 2,300,000 shares changing hands yesterday.

Railroads were higher on balance along with the oils and most steels and chemicals.

The motors weakened in the second hour, and also lower were the aircrafts, coppers, rubbers, textiles and distillers. Other areas of the market were mixed.

Continental Corp. which took favorable dividend action and reported excellent earnings yesterday, jumped ahead 3/4 at 61 1/4 on an opening block of 2,000 shares. It held doggedly to its advantage.

Equitable Office Building hit the tape with a block of 35,000 shares up 1/4 at 9 1/2 and held right around that figure. Webb & Knapp has offered to buy Equitable stocks for $5 cash and $7 in debentures.

A block of 11,700 shares of American Gas sold at 36 off 1/4.

N.C. Coast Will Be 'Target' For A-Bomb Attack

WILMINGTON, N. C. (U) —North Carolina's coast will feel the might of a simulated atomic bomb attack the weekend of April 23 when Marines of the 2nd Division at Camp Lejeune will take part in operation "Landglax-54", designed to test their strength against enemy defenses.

The Marines will embark from the Port of Wilmington Saturday to rendezvous somewhere off the Carolina coast with ships from Morehead City and Charleston, S. C., for the attack. A ship load of troops from Puerto Rico also will join them.

The flagship for the training maneuver is the USS Mt. Olympus with Rear Adm. H. P. Smith, commander of Amphibious Group 11, in charge. Maj. Gen. George S. Goode Jr., 2nd Division commander, will board the Olympus after it docks here Friday.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

In Police Court Wednesday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee found Cecil H. Paramore of Washington, guilty of speeding and sentenced him to 30 days on the roads.

The court suspended sentence on condition that he pay $50 fine, costs deducted. The judgment also provides that Paramore shall not operate a motor vehicle except a public bus for six months, and that he shall remain of good behavior and not violate any motor vehicle law during that time.

David Earl Ebron, Negro, Route 2, Farmville, was given 30 days on the roads for failing to stop and give required information after an accident involving property damage only. The court suspended sentence on condition that he pay $25, costs deducted. The judgment also provides that Ebron shall not drive a motor vehicle on a North Carolina highway for six months unless and until he makes restitution for property damage to McCoy Bonner, Route 2, Ayden.

Johnnie Simmons, assault on a female (his wife), prayer for judgment continued on payment of court costs.

John H. Sumerell, Negro, worthless check, two charges. The court's judgment provides that Sumerell is to serve 90 days on the roads (with sentence he is now serving) in the first case, and 90 days consecutively with sentence he is now serving.

Dallas Webb paid $5 for failing to stop at stop sign.

James V. Woolard paid $5 for failing to stop at a stop sign.

Noel E. Smith, following too close, prayer for judgment continued on payment of $10.

Arthur Midgett, Negro, worthless check, 30 days on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of check ($43.78) and court costs.

Last year's traffic toll of deaths and injuries was the heaviest in history.

Delays Kept N. C. Out Of Polio Vaccine Test

Due to increasing delays in receiving the Salk Experimental Polio Vaccine, North Carolina will not participate in the evaluation study in 1954.

Dr. Walter C. Humbert, Director of Pitt Health Department, said that since the polio season in the South starts about this time of year the polio vaccine will not be used this year. He added that it takes about two months after the immunization for a person to become immunized; therefore, the State Board of Health felt it impractical to use the vaccine this year.

North Carolina was one of several states who withdrew from using the vaccine on first, second, and third grade students this year. The State Board of Health felt that due to the delay in the program, which was originally scheduled to begin in February, the time has passed in N. C. at which a fair evaluation of the vaccine's ability to prevent poliomyelitis can be made.

Dr. Humbert said that difficulties in the processing of the vaccine so it could be manufactured for commercial use was the main reason for the delay which caused this state to withdraw this year.

"We must immunize prior the polio season to see if it really prevents polio," he asserted.

There have been two mild cases of polio reported in Pitt County so far during 1954, Dr. Humbert concluded.

Ayden Rotary Club Raises Sum For Boy Scouts At Recent Auction Sale

AYDEN—The Ayden Rotary Club at its last meeting raised $76.60 for Ayden Boy Scouts at an "auction sale" conducted by Rotarian Frank Peterson.

Rotarian Corey Stokes sparked the auction idea and Wayland McGlohon and Warren Kinlaw assisted in providing the property auctioned off and collecting the cash.

The club agreed to allow the Ayden Parent-Teacher Association to use lighting facilities for the tennis courts on the elementary school grounds.

Wilbur Ormond won the "on time" prize, Elbert Davidson the "fellowship" prize. Bill Moore of Aruba and Courtney Pierce were guests of Rotarian Grady Dixon.

D. G. Modlin Is Next Supervisor At FHA Office

David G. Modlin is replacing Ralph Harris as county supervisor of the Farmer's Home Administration. It was announced today.

Harris also announced that the local office, which covered Pitt and Greene Counties until recently, now covers only Pitt County.

Harris said that he will leave next week and go into private business. He said that the changes came about because of a cut in the state FHA personnel.

Modlin has been working as an appraiser engineer for Eastern North Carolina with the Farmer's Home Administration. He worked for 14 years as an appraising engineer and prior to that he was a county supervisor for five years.

Modlin is married and has one child. His family now lives in Williamson and he does not plan to move to Greenville right away.

Harris will work with the California Spray and Chemical Company in North and South Carolina. He says that he plans to move his family to their new location during the summer or fall.

Doubles Size Of Building; Market Reopened Today

Harris Super Market Number 1 on West Fifth Street was reopened for business today after the size of the building has been doubled.

Durwood Harris, owner and operator of the store, said that 18 1/2 feet had been added to the front of the building. The store is 74 feet long.

Harris stated that the inside of the store had been repainted and that new lighting and new fixtures had been added throughout the building.

The Fifth Street Store reopened today and 30 food baskets were given to customers.

The store is managed by Jesse Pope and the meat market by James Whitaker.

Harris also operates a second food market at West End Circle.

Air Reservists Adding Members To Unit Here

Flight "D" of the 9948th Air Force Reserve Squadron, which meets tonight at 8 p. m. in the Austin Building at East Carolina College, has added three new Reservists to its rolls.

According to 1st Lt. Leonard Briley, unit commanding officer, the three new reservists were added during the past week.

The three new members are: 2nd Lt. Graydon Lyles of Farmville; Sgt. Linwood Tyndall of Greenville; and A-1C Glenn Manning of Belvoir.

At the regular weekly meetings each Thursday night in the Men's Day Room of the Austin Building, members of the unit discuss present day Air Force activities.

Lt. Briley urges all members and interested Air Force Reservists to be present at tonight's meeting.

Leaky Gas Fitting Brings Firemen

Firemen received a call to the home of Jack Corey at 401 East Thirteenth Street at 8:37 p. m. yesterday when a leaky gas fitting caught fire.

Firemen turned off the gas supply and called repairmen to fix the gas line.

Reports Tire and Rim Of Truck Are Stolen

Police received a report from Henry Jenkins who lives on Short Street at 11:45 last night that a tire and rim had been stolen off a truck parked in his yard.

Jenkins said that he operates the truck for W. C. Clark.

The police report stated that the tire was found at 12:30 a. m. this morning under a porch at 128 Wade Street. It was returned to its owner.
