A Date Pitt Countians Should Write Down

In these days of fast living, most everyone has found it necessary to make plans several days in advance if they want to make sure of getting an important thing done on a particular day.

For that reason, we'd like the citizens of Pitt County who are of voting age to put a big red circle around the date May 1 on their calendars.

That is the day the registration period opens. On Saturday, for the 14 days which follow, the registration books of the county will be open. Only those people who register during that period will be eligible to vote in the Democratic primary on May 29.

Most of the voters of the county are aware that the redistricting of townships of the county several months ago also made it necessary to redistrict the voting precincts of the county. That in turn meant it was necessary to call for a complete new registration of voters.

The old registration books were put aside and a complete new registration ordered by the county.

Pitt County, with its population of more than 63,000 people should have at least 15,000 to 20,000 registered voters. That is a large number of people to register in the brief two-week period allowed for the chore; but in this instance, it must be done if the citizens are to be able to vote in the coming primary.

Voting is a privilege of each citizen. But with that privilege there are a number of responsibilities which the individual must accept, one of which is seeing that he is properly registered for elections. One citizen can not leave to his neighbor the chore of registering for him. Each must register himself.

The registrars for each of the 25 voting precincts of the county will be at the polling places for three Saturdays during the period: ay 1, May 8, and May 15. It behooves the citizens of the county to make a diligent effort to visit their respective polling place on one of these days and register for the primary.

Many Readings From The Same Barometer

Most everyone seems to be looking at business barometers these days, and they see varying things, depending on which barometers they use, and what they are seeking.

Talk with a dozen businessmen in most any town in Eastern North Carolina, and you are likely to get at least three or four different opinions in present business conditions and predictions for the future.

The North Carolina Research Institute has reported the general level of business in the state for the first quarter of 1954 is below that of the corresponding quarter last year.

"North Carolina Facts" in its latest issue, however, points out that economic indicators point to a level of business higher in March 1954 as compared with March 1953. The publication asserts this may indicate a downward business trend in the state has been stopped.

State Sales Tax reports for March shows collections for March of this year up $37,000 over the same month for 1953. A breakdown of the gross collections throughout the state shows that sales tax collections were higher in March 1954 than in March 1953 in 17 towns in the state, including Greenville. Sales tax collections in Greenville for March of this year exceeded those for March a year ago by approximately $2,500.

Contagious Courtesy On N.C. Highways

The slogan "courtesy is contagious" seen tagged on many automobiles in this part of the state is a statement with more truth than fiction; and it is bringing results on highways throughout the state.

Whether or not it is an official part of the highway safety program of the state, highway courtesy in North Carolina seems to be improving as the state's safety record improves. More people seem to be doing more little nice things for the motorists, and as a result, the motorists are treating each other with more respect.

Between Vanceboro and New Bern there is a 15 mile stretch of road which is being resurfaced. At places in the construction area one-way traffic has been necessary, and at other places, the going has been a little rough under the wheels.

Just beyond the construction zone at the Vanceboro city limits, there is a large sign for drivers which reads: "End of Construction Thank You for Your Patience."

Naturally a good many motorists who have traveled that stretch or road under construction have become impatient before they reach the end of it; but somehow that little sign at the end of the stretch makes going a little easier.

Little things like that are more than apt to leave a good taste in the mouth of North Carolina drivers, and also motorists from other states who are traveling through North Carolina.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
YELLOW SPECKS
You recall as a child, do you not, picking up a pebble and seeing little specks of yellow in it which you thought were gold? You were disappointed when you found they were not. Or perhaps somebody palmed off on you a piece of "solid gold" jewelry which you found was plated or perhaps only burnished brass.

All through life we have our disillusioning experiences. But the worst of all is to seek for a whole lifetime after something which in the end we find is worthless. The derelict of Skid Row who lies motionless among the ash cans certainly never suspected in the beginning that life would treat him this way. The girl who wanted to be popular and was willing to pay any price to get popularity and who later found herself alone and unloved—she could never have believed in the beginning that afternoon and evening would be like this.

The parents who try to arrange their children's marriages, not on the basis of love and romance but on the basis of money and social position, think they are making a brilliant alliance, but when the end comes they wonder how they could have been such fools.

The world is full of children picking up pebbles. It takes fifty years for some of them to learn that the yellow specks are not gold.

Drive For Stand On Indochina

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—Administration leaders on Capitol Hill are seeking Democratic co-operation for passage of a resolution endorsing any "reasonable" program for arresting Communist advances in Indochina, including limited American intervention. Under certain circumstances, the opposition may agree to bipartisan action.

Secretary Dulles advanced the idea at several secret conferences with Congressional groups, but he did not insist upon immediate approval. Since his departure for the Geneva Conference that convened yesterday, GOP spokesmen have renewed the suggestion in cloakroom and informal conversations.

The Democrats will impose several conditions for obvious reasons. First, they demand that President Eisenhower, not Congress, assume the initiative and responsibility for American participation with ground, naval or air units. They figure that this will eliminate the "Korean police action," both Truman's start and Eisenhower's termination of that conflict, from next fall's election.

DULLES PLEDGE—In return, Dulles has given an unwritten pledge. At Geneva, he will not agree to recognition of Red China or its admission to the United Nations. He will denounce any attempt to negotiate a cease-fire arrangement or peace that will give the Communists a political, economic or military beachhead in Southeast Asia.

Despite partisan differences over foreign policy, both Democrats and Republicans are nearer together on defending Indochina than is generally realized. Both deplore the grim thought of fresh sacrifices of lives and treasure. But both concede that permanent loss of our Pacific bastions, China, Asia and possibly the Middle East and Africa, could mean the downfall of western civilization.

This awful prospect sobs and shocks even the most partisan. Asia has supplanted Europe as the chief cause of national concern.

TO FORCE INDO-CHINA PROGRAM—Certain political advantages, however, will accrue to the Democrats from the proposed pact. The "Eisenhower war"

Once, This House Had Order

Searching through the pad to find a piece of paper for writing this column recalled the listless days when everything was in order. The reason: Our 18-month-old son, Don, has scratched up almost all of my paper.

When children first come, you are astounded at the disorder they can create around the house. But in our case we cease to wonder at what they might do next. Nothing would be surprising.

The coming of the Winky Dink TV program almost wrecked television for us. Winky Dink is the Saturday morning CBS show that features Jack Barry. Jack encourages every child to order a Winky Dink kit in such a manner that the parent is just about forced to do it.

The kit includes a Winky Dink magic window and seven magic crayons, along with a cloth for wiping. The window is stuck on the TV screen, Jack Barry tells the children where to draw and they perform wonders.

But the catch is to keep the magic crayons hid from the children during the time that Winky Dink isn't on the air. Otherwise, you'll find them putting a mustache on Perry Como, without the magic window to absorb the colors.

Yesterday I had to laugh at Don, even though it wasn't a bit funny. Of late he has displayed a particular interest in hats. As we were eating home made vegetable soup he fished out a piece of macaroni, placed it on top of his head and said very plainly, "Hat."

That was only the beginning. He then put carrots, potatoes and for a finale he put the soup bowl on top of his head! Remember the movie "Sitting Pretty" with Clifton Webb as a baby sitter? The child pulled the same trick on him, but I had always thought a little fantastic until it actually happened at our dinner table.

"It's a great life if you don't weaken," I said to Wife Rachel when Don pulled that trick.

"Right now I'm weak," W. R. said.

It's a constant fight to keep any kind of order at all. But to get near-perfect order is out of the picture. Those without children probably think parents thrive on a mess. Those with children know that it's unavoidable.

And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

SPEAKING OF BALANCE
(Rocky Mount Telegram)
President Eisenhower in his address Thursday evening before the American Newspaper Publishers Association had some good advice for the Fourth Estate. For example, he challenged the nation's press to make a greater appeal to reader understanding, rather than reader "interest." This is a point well taken since American journalism is still influenced by its earlier environment of bitter competition which nurtured sensationalism.

The President, without quite saying so, implied that the press was partially to blame for McCarthy becoming such a national problem and sensation. "If the day comes when personal conflicts are more significant than honest debate, then the flame of freedom will flicker low indeed," he said.

The newsmen apparently liked the presidential medicine. They gave the President their loudest applause for his most pointed criticisms.

While admitting to our share of sins and human failings, we believe someone should point out to the President that he is more responsible for McCarthy being what he is today than the press. After all, whether the newspapers of the land like it or not, McCarthy is front page news. To minimize what he is doing would violate every journalistic principle and indeed would fall a press responsibility to state facts and warn the people of the danger.

When a U.S. senator attacks the State Department, or the Army or some national figure, it is news. The newspaper's front page is a mirror which reflects daily events in the world. The editorial page is its soul which tries to interpret these events. The President can blame few editorial pages for helping McCarthy!

It is the President's responsibility to keep a proper balance in the government. He can't control McCarthy, but he can oppose his excesses and he can make his opposition unmistakably clear. To date, President Eisenhower has failed to oppose McCarthy openly. True, Vice President Nixon was chosen to administer a mild wrist-slapping, but the President himself has avoided tangling with the menace, McCarthy. The nation's press would have been happy to have reflected the "balance" which a little presidential opposition to McCarthy would have afforded.

The President will find very few editorial pages which have tolerated McCarthy and "McCarthyism" as he has. Is not the nation entitled to expect a little more "balance from Washington as well as from the press, Mr. President?

Farm Program Look

By ELMER ROESSNER
Not only farmers, but those of us who eat their crops and sell them manufactured goods, will want to take a long look at the "new look" in farm legislation now being styled by Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson. We need not belabor the point that how the farmer fares directly affects the welfare of urban industrial workers and businessmen, too.

Secretary Benson's contention is that farm price supports at 90 per cent of parity are high and outdated, and have stimulated production beyond normal needs. Too, he says, these supports continue to encourage production of certain crops whose markets have been diverted by technological change, as in the case of cotton, which has lost at least some of its market to synthetics.

Also, our exports of agricultural commodities have dropped—to some extent because we have maintained our prices while some other export countries have enlarged their sales abroad, as in the case of Canadian wheat.

Opposing that view is the new-look group that high parity supports are producing cumbersome surpluses, is the argument that it is not that production is too high, but that consumption is too low. Advocates of this idea hark back to the old Brannan Plan which would allow prices to seek their own level—drop as low as demand dictates—and pay farmers a subsidy when a price on a particular crop drops below a level that allows farmers to continue to farm. Although the Republicans in Congress and in the farm organizations fought the Brannan Plan hard and successfully, the present Administration itself is trying out a similar program of production payments starting with butter.

Quite possibly both groups have a grain of truth to offer, and it may be that we need not only a viewpoint and farm program broad enough to encourage additional consumption of those products where demand is being blocked by high costs, but to quit encouraging excessive production of crops not in as much demand as when present parity price supports were initiated some years ago. Secretary Benson argues that present supports were based on our wartime needs. To get back to one of the most immediate trouble spots, that of surplus milk products, certainly all research figures indicate that there is room for more consumption of milk, especially by adult and lower-income families, if methods can be found to stimulate additional use.

MEANWHILE, RETAIL FOOD PRICES ARE VERY STEADY

As men in the food trades are aware, the wholesale produce indexes have risen sharply in recent weeks. Several weeks ago the Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food price index reached its highest level in almost six years, and has dropped only slightly back downwards most recently.

But despite such dramatic rises as that of the price of coffee, retail food price tags have remained remarkably stable. Of a list of 60 staple food items this reporter checked the other day, 11 had gone up and exactly 11 had gone down in a period of six weeks. And after totalling the price per pound of 20 items now and six weeks ago, we found only 3 cents difference in the totals. In fact, the most recent total was slightly lower one.

YOU CAN'T BEAT EXCISE WITH AN OUTSIDE LEG

An outside leg does not exempt a person from paying the Federal tax on transportation, the Internal Revenue Service has ruled.

An "outside leg" is a segment of a trip made outside the country to gain a tax advantage. Hitherto, a resident of Detroit intending to go to Dallas might go to Windsor, Ontario, buy his ticket without paying the tax and start his journey there. But now, the IRS has ruled, the tax applies to the transportation from Detroit to Dallas.

Is The Dog Giving Up City Life?

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK AP—The dog has been claiming for centuries he is man's best friend, an unlikely story if there ever was one.

But the dog long has been one of nature's most artful salesmen, and he has managed to convince millions of people that he is their top buddy.

This, of course, is not too difficult a feat in a world where a lot of people also believe that if you leave a horse hair in a closed jar of water for six weeks it will turn into a snake.

The current statistics on the canine population of New York City, however, bring a jarring note of fact into the legend of the dogs loyalty to man. Since 1947 the number of legally licensed dogs here (9 out of 10 obey the law in this respect) has fallen from 312,517 to 272,814. During the same period the human population has grown considerably, and S.F.C.A. officials estimate the cat population of the city is between 400,000 and 500,000.

What do these figures really mean? Has the dog rejected mankind at last, and fled the city? I think so. But apologetics for the dog—what dog ever lacked an advocate?—give other explanations. They say there are fewer dogs here because landlords no longer will allow them—and because it costs so much to feed a dog more and more people have decided that it's nice to have a pal, the friendship has become too expensive.

These arguments sound plausible at first glance. But they don't hold water. To begin with, is it fair to blame landlords for the scarcity of dogs as well as the lack of hot water? A landlord is a man, after all, and if the dog is a man's best friend, would the landlord turn his back on him?

Or would anybody who ever was owned by a dog really discard him simply because of the high cost of living? What price friendship—the pleading eye, the wagging tail of love?

No. Nobody who has faith in the race of man could believe a human being's loyalty to his dog does not at least equal his dog's loyalty to him. I prefer to believe dogs are leaving the city not because they have ceased to like mankind, but because their commonsense tells them a modern city is no place for a dog.

The growing traffic jams, the crowding together, the incessant noise, the unhealthy fumes—all these characteristics of city life repel a dog. Man is unfitted for these strains himself, and a dog is even more so. He has simply broken under the strain. He can't take it any more and retain a normal dog's outlook on the world. Cats are tougher. The feline population of the city hasn't fallen for an obvious reason. Cats have a secret sense of humor, and they love to laugh at people. Cats get a real sense of enjoyment out of the predicaments city people get themselves into.

I don't see any reason for criticizing the dog because he is deserting the city. He has done the best he can, and always will. The dog will still hunt birds for man, herd sheep for him, bring him brandy when he gets lost in the Alps, and carry on all his other age old chores.

But the dog's nerves simply no longer are up to the wear and tear of city living. He has had to face up to a commonsense fact—in the last analysis a dog's best friend is himself.

So he is heading back to the green pastures. And who can say Rover is wrong?

Nothing New In Charges That State Contracts 'Used'

By LYNN NISBET
FAMILIAR—The current charges that State building contracts and public roads are being used by the administration for vote-getting purposes do not represent a new approach in political campaigns. Considerations of political expediency were involved in the choice of routes by which Moses led the Children of Israel through the wilderness, and in the arrangements between Solomon, King of Israel, and Hiram, King of Tyre, for building the first temple in Jerusalem.

Julius Caesar, perhaps the greatest road builder of all time, was definitely motivated by political considerations in locating the highways throughout his empire. These ancient incidents furnish precedent, if not justification, for more recent governmental actions and a much larger number of unfounded accusations of misuse of road building authority.

Most North Carolinians have forgotten or were too young for the incidents to make definite impression, about the controversies, the law suits—even the gun battles—surrounding location of the first primary highways built out of proceeds of the bond issues in the early 1920's. More generally remembered are the charges and counter charges involving highway allocations in the 1940, 44 '48 campaigns for Governor. And nearly everybody of voting age has personal knowledge of the accusations of misfeasance and malfeasance of highway "officials" in 1950 and 1952.

Charges now that the incumbent highway commission is using its authority to state "official" meetings at public tax money expense to ballyhoo the candidacy of Senator Alton Lennon for the nomination on May 29 are almost identical, except for names and dates, with the charges made about district highway rallies in 1952 to promote the interests of Hubert Olive for Governor.

DIFFERENCE—A lot of people believed the charges before and many people believe them now, but they have never been proven. In every instance there has been non-political justification (?) for every allocation and every meeting.

The difference is that in other years the charges have been whispered and passed around anonymously. Now they are being openly made and publicized. Maps have been published supported by figures from official records, purporting to show that a former Governor used gross discrimination in putting road money in his own neighborhood. A leading newspaper used a front page story to charge the present Governor with under-the-table dealing with building contractors. A senatorial candidate has called upon the chairman of the highway commission for a report on the extent of tax money used to promote the district meetings which are designated by the protesting candidate as "political rallies" for another aspirant to the office.

Every election campaign brings new candidates and new voters, many of whom really think there is something new in methods used. There are new instruments and new means of disseminating information. Radio, television and wire photography make possible the state-wide distribution of news in minutes as contrasted with days required half a century ago. It took two weeks by horse and buggy to get from Murphy to Manteo; now it takes two hours by plane. Basically, the methods and objectives are the same.

Those in positions of power by reason of occupying high offices in government use that power, with varying degrees of discretion, to retain control. Those on the outside protest violently against such use of public office, despite technical justifications. And it seems not to disturb anybody that the same people take opposite positions when the exigencies of politics put them on the outside rather than on the inside.

OVER-SELLING?—A great many of the complaints coming from out of the State about the treatment accorded visiting motorists by traffic officers originate with motor clubs or associations. A large percentage of out of state violators when apprehended produce membership cards in some association of automobile owners or law enforcement officers, sometimes with the explanation they understood when they joined the groups membership would afford some protection anywhere in the country.

A veteran of more than 15 years on the highway patrol was casually talking about the increasing number of instances where such claims of expected "protection" were voiced. He has included that some of the clubs and associations have "over-sold" the idea of the services they can render members. He fears that in their zeal to attract members and policy holders—where insurance features are involved—some of the clubs have perhaps inadvertently created the impression they can do a lot more for their folks than they really can do.

Too much emphasis may have been given, says the patrolman, on facilities for arranging bail, obtaining legal counsel and such physical items as wrecker service and garage repairs; and not enough attention to necessity for obeying the laws, observing safe driving practices and according full respect to the rights of others on the public highways.

That same patrol officer paid high tribute to the intent of the average motorist to obey the law and the high ratio of courtesy among automobile drivers. He figures that less than two percent of the drivers are responsible for 98 per cent of the instances of flagrant violation and demands for special consideration. Preponderant majority of violations are due to thoughtlessness rather than deliberate intent.

Geneva Reflects Uncertainties Of World At Century Midpoint

By James Marlow
 WASHINGTON (AP) — If anyone wants to know the state of the world midway in the 20th century, all he has to do is look at the foreign ministers' conference just getting under way in Geneva. It's a mess.

There is even less hope for peaceful solutions than there was when the Big Four foreign ministers met at Berlin in January. And there were no solutions at Berlin.

At Geneva the foreign ministers of 19 countries, including the United States' Secretary of State Dulles, are to talk about peace in Korea, where there's a truce, and peace in Indochina, where there's war and no truce.

If the truth were known, Dulles probably wishes he was somewhere else. He's in a bit of a box before the meeting starts.

Russia and Red China are there. It's possible they might make some concessions in return for giving Red China a seat in the United Nations and for American recognition of the Communists as the legitimate government of China.

But Dulles has pretty well shut the door on any deal along those lines by stating this country's opposition to recognition of a U. N. seat for the Red Chinese.

The United States wants Red China to do two things:

1. Let Korea be united. This would mean letting North and South Koreans vote, in free elections, for the government they want. The South Koreans, outnumbering the North Koreans 4-1, would win.

2. Withdraw aid from the Vietnam, led by Communist Ho Chi Minh, who are fighting the French in Indochina. That would result eventually, or it should, in victory for the French.

The Red Chinese fought almost three years in North Korea to keep it out of the hands of the West and wound up, under the truce, occupying it.

It's unthinkable they would let North Korea slip into the Allied camp. The Communists, Chinese and Russian, have not in a single instance yielded a foot of ground they took since World War II.

Repeatedly American officials have stated the importance of Indochina to the West, saying its fall would open all Southeast Asia to communism.

By the same token, the Communists know the importance of Indochina to them. It's a little dreamy to think they'd do anything that would result in destroying Ho Chi Minh or losing an inch of ground he took.

Dulles can hardly have any hope that American desires for Korea and Indochina will be fulfilled at Geneva. His more immediate, critical problem would seem to be in keeping the American ally, France, from weakening.

The French are getting desperate in their losing fight with the Vietnam. Over the weekend they reportedly called for American and British help, greater and more direct, than any given them so far.

This hardly gave Dulles and the British a psychological advantage, coming as it did on the eve of the conference.

If the Communists at Geneva offer the French any kind of attractive truce, how can Dulles keep the French from accepting unless he promises American intervention to bail them out?

He'd have trouble doing that without congressional approval, and he didn't go to Geneva armed with that approval. For Dulles Geneva must look more like a sweatbox than a conference.

Discover Man In Woman's Prison

RALEIGH (AP) — A 20-year-old Brooklyn, N. Y., Negro has been exposed as a man after impersonating a woman for three years.

State Prisons Director William F. Bailey said a routine inspection yesterday at Woman's Prison here revealed Margo Johnson actually was Walter Johnson.

In the role of woman Johnson arrived at Woman's Prison Sunday along with five women prisoners. He had been sentenced from Guilford County to 12 months on a robbery charge.

Bailey said Johnson was dressed as a woman and had a neat boyish bob. The six prisoners were placed in separate cells Saturday night to await medical inspections and prison interviews. They underwent inspection yesterday and the secret was out.

Johnson was transferred to Central Prison and placed in isolation. The Guilford County sheriff's office was notified to come and get him. Commitment papers will have to be changed, prison officials explained, before sending Johnson back since he had been sentenced to Woman's Prison.

I. D. Hinton, superintendent of Woman's Prison, said Johnson began playing the role of a female impersonator three years ago in a Negro show. He came South with a carnival. When it arrived in Greensboro about three weeks ago, he got into trouble.

He stayed several nights in the woman's bullpen in Guilford County jail, officers said, until someone noticed something "funny." When he refused to submit to a physical examination, he was locked up in solitary at night but allowed the female bullpen freedom during the day.

Trial Judge George B. Patton ordered Johnson given a "very thorough" examination upon reaching prison.

Panel To Study Smoking Effects

NEW YORK (AP) — A panel of seven experts to direct research into any possible connection between smoking and health has been named by the tobacco industry.

The panel, of which Dr. Clarence Cook Little, director of the Roscoe B. Jackson Memorial Laboratory at Bar Harbor, Maine, is acting chairman, was announced yesterday.

The Tobacco Industry Research Committee sponsored by most of the nation's largest tobacco product manufacturers has pledged financial backing for any study its new scientific advisory board may undertake on the subject.

The pledge was made in view of reports from some sources — contradicted by others — that there is a connection between smoking and lung cancer.

Members of the panel in addition to Little are: Dr. McKeen Cattell, of Cornell University; Dr. Leon Jacobson, of the University of Chicago; Dr. Paul Kotin, of the University of Southern California; Dr. Kenneth Merrill Lynch, of the Medical College of South Carolina; Dr. Stanley P. Reiman, scientific director of the Institute for Cancer Research, and Dr. William F. Rienhoff Jr., of Johns Hopkins University.

Pirates Drop 6-5 Night Game To Wake Forest Deacons

Six-Run First Frame Wins For Demon Deacs

EDENTON—Wake Forest's Demon Deacons rammed through a six-run first inning and then survived a five-run sixth inning by East Carolina College here last night to defeat the Pirates 6-5.

The contest was the third of the year between the clubs and the third straight win for the Deacons. Proceeds from the game went to an Edenton swimming pool fund.

Coach Taylor Sanford's Deacons, the home team in the contest played on a neutral field, wasted no time in going to work on the Pirates. They retired East Carolina in order to the top of the first and then came in to bat for 26 minutes before taking the field again.

Ben Tatum and Dickie Harris started tearing down the roof from over Pirate Gene Taylor's head with successive singles. Luther McKeel then came in and banged a triple into the far reaches of centerfield and Tatum and Harris scored. Len Holt kept the rally alive by drawing a walk and Frank Livengood banded out a single to score McKeel.

Bruce Hillenbrand was hit by a pitched ball and Taylor went to the showers. Clyde Owen came on as his relief but he got a rude greeting when first baseman Bob Waggoner of the Deacons doubled to score Holt and Livengood with Hillenbrand getting out down at the plate on a nice throw from leftfielder Galtier Cline.

Waggoner went to third on a passed ball and held on while Billy Lyles was popping up and Sonny Bloomrox was walking. Tatum then came through with his second base hit, however, to score Waggoner and the Deacons had their runs. Harris got hit by a pitch but McKeel flied out to end the marathon inning.

The Pirates got their big chance in the sixth inning when they pushed across five runs and threatened to take the game away from the Deacons.

Cecil Heath started the whole affair innocently enough by flying out to leftfield. Major Hooper then got hit by a pitched ball and the race was on. W. D. Hux, batting for Paul Jones, drew a walk which was followed by a single by Galtier Cline to score Hooper. W. C. Sanderson then came through with a double to centerfield scoring Hux and Galtier Cline. Bob Penley, batting for Ray Pennington, singled and David Nance then came through a mighty wallop off the centerfield wall which went for a double. Sanderson and Penley scored on the hit. B. Cline reached first on an error by McKeel but Wilbur Thompson and Heath both were retired to end the inning.

Tatum's two first-inning singles gave him batting honors for the Deacons but batting honors for the game went to EOC's Galtier Cline. He smacked out a double and a single in three official trips to partially break a terrific batting slump which has been hampering him almost all of the year.

The game was the first night contest of the year for the Pirates and it launched a full schedule for the week. Tomorrow, the Bucs will meet High Point College in a double-header at College Stadium. Friday, they will meet Guilford here at home and travel Saturday to meet Atlantic Christian College.

Practice for PONY League baseball players will start tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The workouts will be held at Third Street School and will be under the supervision of Recreation Department officials. Workouts will be on a one-day-a-week schedule until next Tuesday when the team managers will start selecting their squad members on a draft basis.

The new method of choosing players by a draft process was one of several items of business attended to last night at a meeting of the PONY League managers and supporters. It is a change from the old method of buying players from an assigned pool of points for each club.

Other business last night included the appointment of several committees. Dick Evans was named chairman of the Publicity Committee; L. O. Hemby was named chairman of the Grounds Committee; and Bob Watson was appointed official scorer for the 1954 season.

All boys who are interested are invited to participate in the workouts.

Top Bracket In North-South Loaded With Golfing Talent

Hurricane Season Over For While

NEW YORK (AP)—The Hurricane season is on the wane in the heavyweight ranks.

Hurricane Tommy Jackson, who climbed from prelim bout to No. 3 contender on three sensational fights, is back in the pack, defeated at the hands of clever Jimmy Slade.

Slade exposed Jackson's weakness for a well-planned retreat with flashing counter - fire while winning an unanimous 10-round decision last night at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway.

Judge Bert Grant had it 7-3. Judge Americo Schiavone 6-4 and Referee Barney Felix 5-4. The AP card also was solid for Slade 7-3.

It was Jackson's second defeat in his 19-bout career. He zoomed to the top by knocking out Rex Layne in his first main event, whipping Clarence Henry and then stopping Dan Bucceroni, all in 1954. On the strength of those scraps he was an 18 to 5 favorite and many among the crowd of 3,500 paying $10,000 went down with him.

Slade tore into Jackson's body in the first round, then artfully retreated to make Jackson miss with wild punches. Only in the fifth, eighth and 10th did Jackson burn with his old time hurricane spirit.

Refuse Discharge For Billy Martin

FT. ORD Calif. (AP)—Army Pvt. Billy Martin, seeking a hardship discharge so the New York Yankees can fatten his assertedly depleted bank account, is encountering opposition from his sports loving commanding general.

MaJ. Gen. Robert McClure told a news conference yesterday he is recommending that the star second baseman's discharge request be denied.

That isn't all. McClure said Martin's name—along with those of many other trainees—is being forwarded to Washington Saturday for reassignment, possibly overseas.

McClure, an avowed sports fan, indicated he doesn't feel Martin is a hardship case. Said McClure: "The draft board investigated the situation before they re-drafted him. Besides Martin came to camp driving a baby blue Cadillac. Anyone with a car like that can't be broke."

But Martin, who got out of the Army after five months' service in 1952 on similar grounds, told a different story. The 1953 World Series star said money earned in past years was "not so much and it's all gone."

As a private, he gets $80 a month and $135 a month for dependents. But he said in addition to supporting his mother, sister and step-father he must—by court order—pay $150 a month to his estranged wife for herself and their infant daughter.

McClure said the final decision on Martin's application will be made by 6th Army Headquarters in San Francisco.

He told of Martin's case while defending himself against charges he and Ft. Ord have overemphasized athletics and "coddled athletes."

McClure termed the charges "exaggerated" but proudly conceded he has retained athletes here after they finished basic training. He justified himself on grounds the Marines do the same thing.

Clemson Pitcher Leads ACC Play

CLEMSON, S. C. (AP)—Clemson's Leonard Humphries, thanks to teammate Billy O'Dell, is leading Atlantic Coast Conference pitchers this week with a perfect 4-0 record.

O'Dell, a southpaw who had led the league the past three weeks, lost his first game of the season last Saturday when Duke shelled him in an 11-0 game. Humphries earned a 5-1 win over Duke the day before after O'Dell had to come in in relief for him. O'Dell's record is 5-1.

However, O'Dell still leads the conference in strikeouts with 56 in 47 innings and led the earned runs department through yesterday with 0.57.

Other unbeaten ACC pitchers are Joe Morgan of North Carolina, Ralph Adams of Wake Forest and Ben Crosland of Clemson, each with two wins. Other leading pitchers are South Carolina's Gene Molnar (4-1), Duke's Hal Turner (3-1), Maryland's Ernie Hemphill (3-2) and North Carolina's Charles Aycock (3-2).

Virginia's Allen Barbee biked his league batting lead to an even 500 last week with North Carolina State's Jack Turney 100 percentage points behind in second.

Leaders in other departments are: hits, Clemson's Roy Coker, 25; runs, Duke's Al Spangler, 22; doubles, Duke's Jake Tarr 6; triples, Coker, 4; home runs, Clemson's Doug Kingsmore, 5; RBI's, Maryland's Tom Baden, 22; and stolen bases, Spangler, 12.

By WAYNE BISHOP

Reflector Sports Writer
Greenville High School's galloping Greenies will put their undefeated string of five dual meets on the line tomorrow against the heralded harriers from Raleigh. The Greenville group has, over a period of two years now, gone through opponent after opponent without tasting the sting of defeat in a dual meet.

The G-men have already downed the Raleigh team by a one-sided margin once this year. Since that time the Capitals have improved considerably, however, and the Green Phantoms may have a fight on their hands.

In the first meet of the season Coach Bill Kittrell's fast-stepping Phantoms defeated Raleigh by a score of 65-46. In the Eastern Regionals at Durham the Greenies also defeated the Raleigh team. The Greenies came in second behind Durham in that meet, with Raleigh third, 11 points behind the G-men.

Keen Rivalry
The Raleigh-Greenville meet should have some outstanding features of it. There will be several rivalries in the meet. One of the most interesting races will be the half-mile event between Raleigh's Regie Ponder and Greenville's Ed-winn Wilkerson. In the first meet between the two schools, Ponder, considered one of the best half-milers in the state, took a lead from the start and couldn't pull away when Wilkerson began his final sprint in the last 200 yards.

The two battled down the straightaway and broke the tape simultaneously. In the Durham meet Ponder was considerably off form due to a stomach disorder and finished fifth with Wilkerson coming in second. In tomorrow's meet Ponder will have a chance to square things up and Wilkerson will have a chance to go

Smith vs. Mangrum
In the shot put Raleigh's Bob Mangrum and Greenville's Tommy Smith are tied at one victory for each so far this year with Smith winning the dual meet and Mangrum the Durham event. Tomorrow should break the tie between the two stars.

In the mile run the G-men are counting on sophomore Pick Arthur to come through with a good performance. He is the only Phantom who

Enos Celebrating Birthday With Yanks' Starting Job

By BEN PHLEGAR
NEW YORK (AP)—Enos Slaughter, who crashed the majors the year Mickey Mantle went to the first grade, celebrates his 38th birthday today with a starting job for the New York Yankees.

A regular with the St. Louis Cardinals since 1938, Slaughter has appeared only as a pinch hitter and pinch runner since coming to the Yankees in a surprise deal two days before the season opened.

However, the best translation of the latest double talk by Manager Casey Stengel indicates the Yan-let-handed hitting outfield against the next right-hander who faces the Yankees.

This has been interpreted to mean Slaughter, Gene Woodling and Irv Noren with Mantle and Hank Bauer going to the bench.

A righthander Don Johnson, was named to start for the Chicago White Sox today against the Yanks.

Although he will stay in his familiar right field, Slaughter actually comes into the lineup in place of Mantle who hasn't gotten a hit in 10 tries this spring against right-handers. The young centerfielder has been hampered by a heavy brace on his right knee.

The problem of how best to use Slaughter has been a puzzle since the deal first was announced. A "do-or-die" type, Slaughter figured to be a powerful antidote to any

Two-up on the Raleigh star.

In the 100 and 220-yard dashes Joe Taft and Bill Taft are expected to pile up the Greenville points. James Speight is almost a cinch to take a first in the 440-yard dash for the G-men. Speight and Mitchell Johnson will lead the way for the Greenies in the broad jump. The two have placed in every meet they have entered thus far this year.

Big Harold Edwards already has five points beside his name in the high jump. Edwards is undefeated for three years except in the State Meet and Duke Invitational. In both of those meets Edwards came in second, which is a highly creditable achievement. Captain Clodith Oakley is pinning his hopes on having a toss like he has been throwing in practice in the discuss event. If Oakley heaves the way he was doing yesterday, he will have no trouble at all this year in placing first.

The G-men and Raleigh have two more events which should prove highly interesting to watch. In the pole vault Raleigh's Johnny Upchurch, the defending state champion, has defeated Greenville's Pete West and Bob Shackelford twice. Both defeats have been by narrow margins, however, and the Greenies are just itching for an upset this time.

Smith vs. Mangrum
In the shot put Raleigh's Bob Mangrum and Greenville's Tommy Smith are tied at one victory for each so far this year with Smith winning the dual meet and Mangrum the Durham event. Tomorrow should break the tie between the two stars.

In the mile run the G-men are counting on sophomore Pick Arthur to come through with a good performance. He is the only Phantom who complacency which might infect the champions, a charge hurled at the players at least twice this spring by the Yankee owners.

"Slaughter would be valuable just to talk to boys clubs," Stengel observed. But the manager also admitted he would like to work the veteran into his playing lineup.

"Maybe Mantle ought to be benched," Stengel said last night. "Maybe we're rushing him."

Mantle has managed only six base hits in 36 times up, an average of .167. Two of his hits were homers, one a triple.

Slaughter has appeared four times as a pinch hitter and reached first on each occasion although he has made only one American League hit. He was walked twice, reached first on an error and singled.

Nation's Governors Briefed Today On Major Problems

By NORMAN WALKER
 WASHINGTON, (AP)—Top administration leaders today began secret briefing of the nation's state and territorial governors on major foreign and domestic problems.
 Foreign affairs was first up for discussion at the two-day meeting called by President Eisenhower. It was expected the talks would deal mainly with the critical situation in Indochina.
 Vice President Nixon and Under Secretary of State W. Bedell Smith were to address the governors and answer their questions in closed-door sessions at the old State Department Building, next to the White House.
 Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado, chairman of the Governors' Conference, was designated to talk to newsmen after morning and afternoon sessions today and tomorrow.
 Eisenhower hit on the briefing idea a year ago and the governors liked it so much they asked for a similar fill-in on the nation's problems this year.

 A White House statement said Eisenhower arranged the meeting "to bring the heads of the state governments into closer working relationship with the national administration and to draw upon their background of experience and regional knowledge in shaping federal programs."
 The Eisenhowers entertained the governors and their wives at a White House dinner last night. Earlier, some of the governors held preliminary conferences on special problems. In one, 16 coal state governors considered the coal industry's present economic plight. The other brought together the governors of Texas, Kansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Colorado on dust storm and drought relief problems.
 At the coal meeting, United Mine

Workers President John L. Lewis said Russia could cripple this nation's oil facilities in a matter of days with submarines and bombers "if the Kremlin masters get impatient." In that event, he said, if the coal industry wasn't ready to take over fuel needs, "all Russia would have to do is call on us to surrender."
 Lewis and other speakers, including Gov. John S. Fine of Pennsylvania, said many of the coal industry's ills could be cured if the government would curb imports of residual oil, a refinery waste product used widely on the East Coast instead of coal.
 Governors at the special drought conference urged quick congressional approval of an emergency 15-million-dollar grant for soil conservation measures to stop dust and wind damage in drought-stricken areas. They also recommended additional loans and other aid to guide farmers in proper use of their land.

Observes Business May Be In Upturn

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The eagerly awaited business upturn may have arrived, Dr. Courtney S. Brown of Columbia University said today, but it may prove to be only a temporary rally "in a longer period of slack activity" lasting a year or two.
 Brown, dean of Columbia's Graduate School of Business, said in remarks prepared for the U. S. Chamber of Commerce convention there are encouraging signs that a revival "started a month or so ago."
 And a member of the Federal Reserve Board of Governors, A.L. Mills Jr., said in a prepared talk there is increasing evidence of "resurgent business activity" to which, he said, administration fiscal policies may give added vigor.
 Brown said some economists who formerly believed the business upturn would come this summer or fall now are "beginning to veer to earlier dates."
 "Perhaps the turn around has already begun," he said, but added:
 "There is no convincing evidence that the incipient revival will be more than an improvement of several months' duration. It could turn out to be merely a period of stability at present levels . . . It may be more realistic to regard the present prospect of improvement as a period of rally in a longer period of slack activity. If we are wrong, so much the better."
 Dean Brown questioned whether the nine-month-old business sag had been caused so directly by the adjustment of overloaded business inventories as most administration officials have contended.
 The nation's economy may have passed temporarily from a postwar period of replenishment and expansion to a period that could last another year or two, during which replacement may provide the principal source of new demand," he said.

 This would not necessarily mean "a weak economy growing weaker," Brown added, but it does cast doubt that any revival "will represent a new and sustained movement to new heights of prosperity."
 "It would be nice to think that our worries are behind us, or that they will shortly be behind us, but that is perhaps premature," he said. "Unless there is a major change in international affairs or in domestic government policy, we may have to content ourselves with something less than a full-blown boom."
 Brown voiced doubt that the government should undertake extraordinary action to stimulate industrial expansion and employment. To be really effective, he said, such measures might have to be so drastic as to be "incompatible with the political philosophy of the present administration."

Bus Drivers Out On Wage Strike

TOLEDO, Ohio, (AP)—Some 435 members of the AFL Bus Drivers Union struck Toledo's Community Traction Co. today leaving this city of 320,000 without public transportation.

 Mayor Ollie Gezelus and City Manager Arnold Finch immediately urged residents to form car pools.
 In dispute was the company's refusal to abide by a wage increase award made April 9 by an arbitration board.

 The company said the award was invalid because its representative on the three-man board had walked out before it was made.

Norway Convicts Russian As Spy

VARDØ, Norway, (AP)—A District Court convicted a Soviet citizen of Norwegian descent on charges of attempted espionage today. The court gave him a comparatively light sentence of one year in jail.
 The defendant, Edvin A. B. Hansen, was found guilty in a two-day trial behind closed doors. He was charged with trying to spy on Norway for a foreign power and having entered orway from neighboring Russia illegally on faked identity papers.
 The Hansen trial was the first of a series of related espionage cases scheduled to be heard in Oslo and in the northern province of Finnmark, which borders on the Soviet Union. Five Norwegian spy suspects are slated for trial beginning May 5.
 Hansen was picked up last August as he was trying to get back across the border into Russia during a wave of arrests resulting from information given Norwegian authorities by Soviet Intelligence Lt. Gregori F. Pavlov, who fled to Norway and asked for political asylum.
 The court said it gave Hansen a comparatively light sentence "because available evidence indicated that the convicted had not been able to carry through his assignment in Norway and had abandoned his efforts after his intelligence assignment proved impracticable."

Convict Four Of Giving Shelter To Red Fugitive

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A federal court jury last night convicted three men and a woman of sheltering a fugitive Communist leader. The four, Mrs. Shirley Kremen, 22; Samuel L. Coleman, 43; Carl Ross, 41; and Sidney Steinberg, 39, heard the verdict with no show of emotion. All were found guilty on two counts of harboring Robert Thompson, a Communist party chieftain, after he disappeared in 1951 following his conviction in New York of conspiring to advocate overthrow of the U. S. government. Arrested by the FBI in a Sierra hide-out last August with the four convicted yesterday, Thompson is serving a term in Atlanta federal prison. Mrs. Kremen, Coleman and Ross also were found guilty of harboring Steinberg, a fugitive from a New York indictment charging conspiracy to advocate overthrow of the government. The three face maximum prison sentences of 11 years and fines of $15,000 each. Steinberg faces a maximum sentence of 10 years and a maximum fine of $15,000. There was no indication whether they would appeal. Judge Louis E. Goodman canceled bail for all four and ordered them to jail. He will hear motions for a new trial and pass sentence Monday. The jury deliberated 91 hours. A fifth defendant, Mrs. Patricia Blau, was given a directed verdict of acquittal last week by Judge Goodman, who said the evidence against her was insufficient. Mrs. Blau was arrested on a California highway hours after Thompson and the convicted four were picked up together at the mountain cabin. Steinberg, a naturalized Lithuanian, is a former national secretary of the Communist party, Ross, a native of Michigan, is a former secretary of the Communist party in Minnesota. Coleman a native New Yorker, is a former member of the Communist education department in New York. Mrs. Kremen, a former Los Angeles City College student, was described by the FBI as having Communist affiliations.

Scott Speaks, Visit Cancelled By Lennon

RALEIGH (AP)—The U. S. Senate campaign rolled along today with one of the major candidates, Sen. Alton Lennon, in Washington to vote for a farm parity amendment. Lennon cancelled a scheduled engagement at the Strawberry Festival in Wallace so he could be present to vote on an amendment which would provide for rigid price supports at 90 per cent of parity on all basic farm commodities. Lennon and W. Kerr Scott are scheduled to attend the Strawberry Festival at Chadbourne Thursday. Scott said last night in Goldsboro that the development and employment of atomic power and its related forces rest in the hands of elected leaders who hold "tremendous power over the future daily lives of all of us." He spoke before the Wayne County Livestock Development Assn., composed of 4-H Club members and Future Farmers of America. Unless political leaders get panicky, Scott asserted atomic energy can enrich mankind. He pointed out that cheaper power, revolutionary agricultural practices and extraction of valuable materials from sea water are among developments envisioned. He said the atomic program, being a government monopoly, permits leaders of government to unleash its power for betterment of mankind or its destruction. Meanwhile, activity picks up this week in the campaign for state treasurer. Joshua James, who is opposing incumbent Edwin Gill for the Democratic nomination in the May 29 primary, has a TV speech and an address at Chapel Hill on his itinerary. James will speak tonight over WNAO-TV in Raleigh and will deliver an address at Chapel Hill tomorrow night at a public meeting sponsored by the University of North Carolina Young Democratic Club. Gill spoke at a similar meeting several weeks ago. James' schedule also calls for him to attend the Strawberry Festival at Chadbourne Thursday and campaign in Columbus and New Hanover counties Friday and Saturday.

Soviet Re-Elects Presidium Head

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Parliament re-elected Marshal Klementi Y. Voroshilov, President of its Presidium, in effect President of the U.S.S.R.—by acclamation today. The lawmakers also confirmed Premier Georgi Malenkov and his Council of ministers in office. Voroshilov, 73, took over as President (largely a ceremonial office) following the death of Stalin. He replaced Nikolai M. Shvernik, who was named chairman of the All-Union Council of Trade Unions. A number of new ministries were created, bringing the government to approximately the size and shape it had under Stalin. But there were no changes in the top spots held by Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, Defense Minister Marshal Nikolai Bulganin and other leaders. The voice votes on the government came during a 45-minute final session of the Parliament. The members then adjourned—just a week after opening their meeting—without setting a date for reconvening. During the past week, the Parliament has adopted a record size state budget and provided a platform for major speeches by Malenkov and Nikita Khrushchev, first secretary of the Communist party's Central Committee. Both men sharply attacked the "aggressive policies" of the United States, demanded the recognition of Communist China as a great power and warned that Russia will crush any aggressor who attacks her with atomic bombs. When the moon is a crescent, the whole disk often can be seen because it is illuminated by "earthshine" (sunlight reflected from the earth in the same way it is reflected from the moon to make moonlight).

Dulles and diplomats of other countries have been gathering there for the Geneva convention. An informed source said Dulles would "walk out" if the Russians continue to maintain that Geneva is a five-power affair, with Red China an equal nation with the U.S., France, Great Britain and the USSR. ### Faces Trial

GREENSBORO (AP)—A woman charged with blinding one of her stepdaughters' eyes must face trial here during the May 11 term of Guilford Superior Court after probable cause was found in the case yesterday. Judge Pro Tem L. Richardson Freyer ruled that Mrs. Mae Atkins, 38, must face trial on charges she "maliciously maimed" her stepdaughter, Judy Atkins, 11. The little girl, who underwent several operations at Duke Hospital in Durham recently in an effort to save the sight of the other eye, testified yesterday during a special session of Municipal County Court. She said Mrs. Atkins "got me up against the kitchen wall and punched my eyes with her thumbs. I don't know how many times she did it." She also testified to other brutalities. Dr. R. C. Kessler of Greensboro and Dr. A. N. Cosner of Duke Hospital said that the eye trouble suffered by the girl could have been caused by a disease.

Man Held Under Bond For Trial In Assault Case

A 21-year-old Negro was bound over to Pitt Superior court under a $3,000 bond last night after probable cause was found at a preliminary hearing. Eddie Lee Pearson of the Whitehurst Station community appeared before Mayor Bob Martin of Bethel for the hearing. He is charged with breaking and entering and assault on a female with intent to commit rape. The assault was on an 8-year-old Negro girl it was asserted at the hearing. Person was taken into custody Friday following an investigation by the Sheriff's department and the Bethel Police. ### Newcomer In Red Hierarchy Again Gets High Honor

By TOM WHITNEY
NEW YORK (AP) — Nikita S. Khrushchev has been singled out again for an unusual honor, indicating his powerful position in the Soviet setup.

Two outstanding Soviet leaders gave addresses—both important—in Moscow yesterday. One speech was delivered by Premier Georgi Malenkov, the other by Khrushchev, first secretary of the Communist party's Central Committee.

Malenkov's speech attracted more attention in the outside world—because he spoke first and because he mentioned the important subject of atomic weapons.

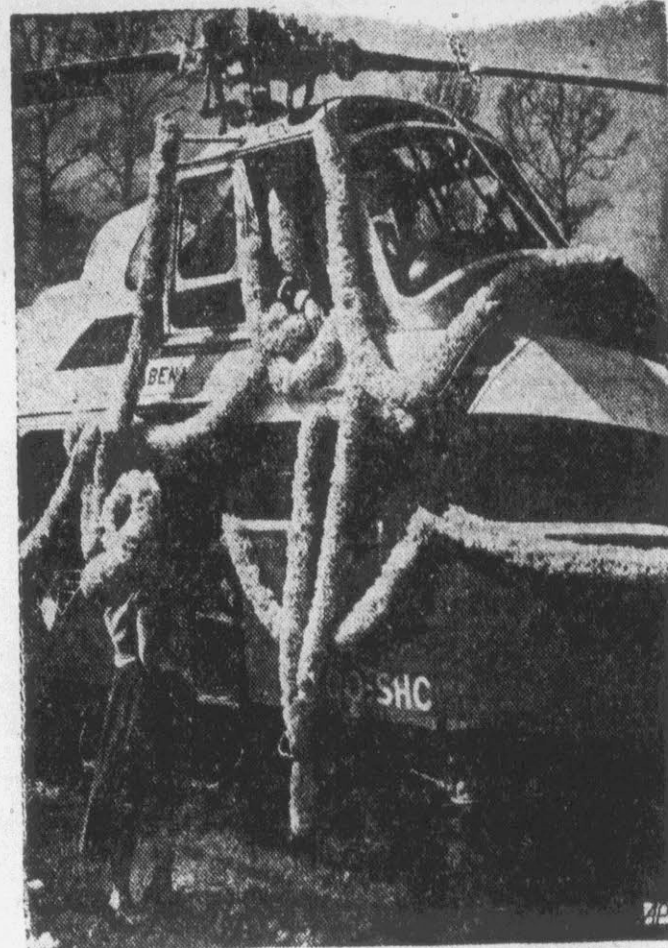

But Malenkov addressed the house of the Soviet Parliament which usually is considered the junior chamber, the Council of Nationalities.

Khrushchev spoke later to the Council of the Union, considered to be the senior house. It is the chamber of which Khrushchev and Malenkov are members and to which Stalin belonged.

Khrushchev's speaking spot would seem to carry the greater prestige. All the Russian party and government leaders present at these meetings will be quick to catch the hint.

At the last meeting of the Supreme Soviet, last August, only Malenkov gave a keynote address. That was when he announced Russia had the hydrogen bomb.

But this position as co-keynote speaker in the Supreme Soviet is not the only sign leading foreign specialists to wonder whether Khrushchev now does not have as Russians believe the much propagandized present system of "collective leadership" — dictatorship by committee rather than by one man — will last long. And right now they are bound to be thinking maybe Nikita Khrushchev will turn out to be the next "khozyn" — the boss.

Reward Assured For Taxi Driver

CHICAGO (AP) — A Chicago taxi cab driver who found a diamond-studded platinum bracelet valued at $15,000 in his cab has been promised a suitable reward. Howard Hannan, 39, had already turned in the bracelet last night when a Detroit couple, Gerald Krandall, 40, an industrial diamond dealer and his wife, Sonja, reported the loss. Krandall said he would reward Hannan if the insurance company doesn't.

Roy Rogers Finds British Go For Western Movies

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Cheerio and head them off at the crossroads! Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, just back from the British Isles, report that the English are wacky for Westerns.

"I must say we were highly gratified," says Roy, who is billed as "the King of the Cowboys."

"We played in Edinburgh, Glasgow, Liverpool, Birmingham, Belfast, Dublin and a week in London with Billy Graham. All the seats were filled at every performance."

"And as much standing room as the fire departments would allow," adds Dale Evans, "the Queen of the West."

"In Glasgow, the manager said we could have played for a month and still sold out. We were there for a week."

"It was the first time we had been to the British Isles," says Roy, "and the people couldn't have been nicer. They love Westerns over there."

"And do they love horses?" remarks Dale. "I don't believe there is any other country that loves horses so much."

I sat down to lunch with the horse opera duo in between recordings of their new radio show. Roy looked as youthful as ever, despite his 10 years in the saddle as the top moneymaking cowpoke of films. Dale was trim and pretty in a pink bonnet and dress. Both spoke glowingly of the work their friend, evangelist Graham, is doing in England.

"The English sort of scoffed when they heard he was coming over there," said Dale. "They thought American revivalists were pretty wild."

"He's a real man of 'fos," said Roy. "Since he has been over there he has changed his delivery entirely. He no longer has the rat-ting, Winchell delivery. Instead, he's slower, more restrained. He's doing a terrific job."

"We were there a week and they had to turn the crowds away," commented Dale. "Every night we had 10,500 people present. We gave our Christian testimony and sang some songs, then Billy took over."

"The results were amazing," said Roy. "At one meeting no less than 534 persons came forward to be saved. That's an amazing demonstration for the British, who are inclined to be reserved. And a friend told me that he noticed they didn't come forward hunched over and sad-faced, the way most folks do at such meetings. They were square-shouldered and proud to accept God's will."

The Rogers did some spreading of the gospel on their own during their vaudeville tour. At every show, she sang some hymns and told of finding God.

"At first the audiences were shocked," said Roy. "They had never heard anything religious from a variety stage. But the reaction was all favorable. We had many people compliment us for what we were trying to do."

Runaway Wished He Could Drive
MIDLOTHIAN, Tex. (AP) — When Constable Perry Aday here saw a strange youngster furiously pedaling a bike through town, questions arose.

Constable Aday knows all the Midlothian teen-agers, and sure enough Jack Rainsberger, 18, didn't live here. He walked away Saturday from the federal reformatory at Seagoville, Tex., hopped for a day in Dallas, and then stole a bike for his getaway.

Asked Deputy Sheriff J. W. Wiseman: "Why a bike? Why not a car?"

"Can't drive," said Rainsberger, who had pedaled 25 miles. "Lord, if I only could."

Sweden's Dock Workers On Job
STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Most of Sweden's longshoremen were back at work today after the biggest dock strike in the nation's history, a wildcat walkout in 16 harbors which started last week.

Most of the 3,700 strikers went back to work yesterday after union leaders threatened to expel any who defied a back-to-work order. The strikers had objected to a new labor agreement the leaders had signed.

Joan Foster, Bride

By Alice Ross Colver

SYNOPSIS
Like any young couple ardently in love, Joan Foster and Todd Hunter are eager to wed. But Todd has not yet been placed in his chosen profession of teaching, and the little money which Joan earns by writing, is not enough to maintain a home.

CHAPTER TWO
A SILENCE fell for a moment in the conversation between Joan and her mother. In it Joan heard a pair of robins filling the air with their twilight chirping. "Lucky birds! Nothing for them to worry about but a few worms!"

"Which they can always find," she said aloud.

"What on earth are you talking about?"

Joan laughed and explained. "I guess it's still too cold to eat out here tonight isn't it?" she asked, changing the subject.

"Well, it's too cold for Gram, anyway. And I wouldn't like to leave her alone at meal time the way she is now. She misses Gramp, you know. Still I'm sure she's not sorry that he slipped away so quickly. He couldn't endure being helpless. He'd have hated to spend the rest of his life on crutches or in a wheel chair. Pneumonia is, indeed, a friend of old people, as the doctors say."

"Well," Mrs. Foster said, rising now, "I must get back to the kitchen. I have a meat loaf in the oven."

"Oh, good. Todd loves a meat loaf. But can't Annie watch it?"

"You forget. This isn't Annie's day."

"Oh yes. You have her only twice a week now, don't you? I do keep forgetting."

"Yes, she was getting too old to work full time. And I had to economize. I planned a six-thirty dinner. Will Todd be here by then?"

"By six, Mums. It's his early night. Can't I help you?"

"No, thank you. You set the table before you went out this afternoon. By the way, did you find anything?"

Joan shook her head. "I walked miles, too. I should have taken Todd's jalopy. No, I didn't find a thing except that room rentals are almost as expensive as apartments. Everybody sees a chance to gouge, so they're gouging. Anyway, I've decided that sharing a bath and a kitchen with people you don't know too well isn't an attractive prospect. I've about given up the idea of living in one room."

"Well, something will work out. The future has a way of taking care of itself, I've discovered. And Mrs. Foster smiled reassuringly down on her daughter before going inside.

Left alone, Joan's thoughts returned to the evening on the boat when she and Todd had planned for a June wedding. It had not seemed unreasonable then. They had agreed that he would surely have a job lined up by this time.

But what, actually, had happened? Todd had spent the winter in study at Columbia University, commuting there daily to continue the work for his doctorate which had been interrupted in Switzerland by his illness. Columbia had accepted his foreign record for the first term but he had learned he could not possibly complete the requirements there for his Ph.D. by the end of the semester in June. He would have to put in this summer and another full year, and after that he would have to write a thesis and pass his examination. He would be halfway to his goal, though, by this coming September, and he had believed that with his Master's degree (which he had secured before going abroad) and almost two years of advanced credit toward the higher degree, he would have no trouble finding a position. Then, later on, perhaps in a year or two, he would finish his doctorate. But this would not be until he had saved up some money for more study and had acquired some experience in teaching.

Having worked out the plan to his satisfaction, he had enrolled in February, quite confidently, in the agency conducted by Columbia to secure teaching jobs for their own students. He had also entered his name in an agency in Philadelphia and in one in New York City, as well. Not content with that, he had obtained a list of colleges, junior colleges and preparatory schools between Maine and Virginia and as far west as Illinois, and had written a form letter to each of them, in which he had given a resume of his background and education, three character references, and information as to where the transcript of his college and foreign study could be secured. At the end of the letter he had asked if there would be an opening this coming fall for a teaching position in German and, if so, would the authorities kindly consider him? Joan had typed these form letters for him all one hundred and fifty of them.

Todd had had the courtesy of replies to more than four-fifths of his inquiries. Almost all of them commended him on his background, which was declared "rich." But almost unanimously the colleges had said that there would be "no vacancy on their teaching staffs" or that they preferred "to engage some one with teaching experience" or that their German department was "shrinking rather than enlarging." They would be glad, however, to put his name in their active files in the event that something opened up later in the year.

"How do you like that?" Todd had said heatedly to Joan. Why are their German departments shrinking? Some of the most famous philosophers and thinkers and writers in the world have been Germans! I think that's crazy!"

The Columbia agency had given him the answer. He was told there that college students were taking up the study of Chinese or Russian or some Middle Eastern language rather than German. That interest in German had never been revived since the first World War. That Spanish had taken its place then and still held greater popularity. And, finally, that German scholars, from Europe, filled many openings in the institutions of higher learning now.

The preparatory schools had not been any more encouraging. Their chief objection was to the fact that Todd planned to be married. "We have no accommodations for married teachers," they wrote. "Our dormitories with the boys." Moreover, some had no German departments at all; some, like the colleges expected no teaching vacancies; and a few were planning to do away with the language "since there is so little demand for it."

In the end, only about six schools had so much as requested an interview. And Todd discovered during his appointments with the different deans of these six that one school was looking for a teacher, not for this coming fall, but for the following one. Another lost interest in him upon learning that he was a graduate of a high school preparatory school where he might have a student following. Two schools wrote him that another prospect, interviewed later had been engaged, and two informed him that, after all, their own instructors had decided to remain.

Some few letters were trickling in, but enough rejections had arrived to make Todd and Joan feel pretty grim and disheartened. (To Be Continued)

Anxious Trout Jumped On Hook

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—An enthusiastic fisherman out to beat time rush at Watoga State Park stretched his line a foot over the lake and waited until the 6 a.m. opening of trout season to drop it in.

It wasn't his fault, he protested, that a trout leaped up and snared the bait 10 minutes before the official opening time last Saturday morning.

That's one of the "facts" the Conservation Department uncovered in its survey of West Virginia fish and fishermen on the opening of trout season.

The story was backed by testimony from four witnesses, said Harry D. Van Meter, acting chief of the Fish Management Division.

Ten Seconds Of Fear As Earth Shock Is Felt

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Ten seconds of fear gripped thousands of persons last night as a "moderately strong" earthquake jarred along part of the New Madrid Fault.

The fault, which runs from Cairo, Ill., to Memphis, was the site of a series of monstrous earthquakes in 1811 and 1812, one of which formed nationally known Reelfoot lake.

The tremor last night was felt here; at Blytheville, Ark., 60 miles to the northwest Jackson, Tenn., 80 miles to the northeast; and Corinth, Miss., 80 miles to the east. Other Tennessee and Arkansas cities closer in to Memphis also reported a thorough shaking.

The only damage reported was in Memphis, where a resident said the plaster in the ceiling of his home was cracked.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — Steels and aircrafts fell back today under profit-taking, and the stock market as a whole drifted lower.

Aircrafts lost fractions to around 4 points. Other stocks posted price changes of about a point either way with minus signs predominating.

The decline was apparent right at the start of trading, and the market with a few exceptions drifted lower into the early afternoon.

Both the steels and aircrafts have been unusually strong in recent sessions. As a consequence, the profit-taking today was not unexpected.

Also lower were the motors, rubbers, mail order houses, radio-televisions, chemicals and railroads.

Westinghouse Electric, which shot ahead 3 1/2 yesterday, stepped ahead briskly today. General Electric was higher with the old stock traded along with the new three-for-one split stock on a when issued basis.

Sperry Corp. was off substantially after company officials threw cold water on rumors of a split or increased dividend.

U. S. Steel yesterday's most active issue, opened today on 5,000 shares up 1/4 at 47. A block of 4,000 shares of Zonite traded up 1/4 and a little later a block of 5,100 shares traded up 3/4 at 6 1/2.

A block of 6,400 shares of Jefferson Lake Sulphur traded off 3/4 at 23 1/2.

Girl Learning To Drive Had Eventful Wreck

DETROIT (AP)—Barbara Swain, 16, Detroit high school student, wanted to learn to drive. Her boy friend, Arthur Bierschbach thought it a good idea, even though he'd borrowed the car.

Moments later, Barbara wanted to make a left turn. Instead she made a U-turn, leaped a curb, knocked Caroline Roulier, 16, onto the car hood, tore off the side of one garage and plunged halfway through the side of another. Caroline was jolted off her unwanted perch at the first garage.

The three were treated at Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital for cuts and bruises.

Barbara was ticketed for reckless driving and Arthur for permitting an unlicensed driver to operate an auto.

Three Killed, 60 Injured In Train Collision Abroad

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—The crack Scandinavian Express and a local commuter train collided at Hanau, near Frankfurt, today. German railroad officials said three persons were killed and 60 injured.

The dead, all Germans, on the Rome-to-Copenhagen express were two train conductors and a woman passenger who had just entered the dining car when the collision occurred.

No one aboard the local train was reported hurt.

Revising an earlier report that the train crashed head on, officials said the local train had just pulled out of the Hanau station when it smashed into the side of the express at a switch.

Photo Evidence . . .

The two photographs appeared to be the same with the exception that in the picture offered yesterday other members of the group were removed, leaving only Schine and the secretary standing together.

McCarthy, examining the two pictures, said "I can see no doctoring except that 'a Col. Bradley was not shown' in the picture the McCarthy camp had placed in evidence yesterday."

"Mr. Welch was not speaking the truth," McCarthy said.

Ray H. Jenkins, special counsel to the subcommittee, said the photograph had been represented to him by "one of the parties to the dispute, an adverse party to Stevens" as being "a genuine, authentic photograph."

Jenkins had introduced the original picture yesterday, while questioning Stevens as to how close his own relations with Schine had been.

There was no word to him, Jenkins said, that it had been "cut or altered." He added he had presented it in "good faith."

Welch said Jenkins had been "imposed upon."

Welch announced "the official photographer" who took the picture for the Army at McGuire Air Force Base, New Jersey, is being called to Washington to tell which of the two pictures is "the original."

Welch's statement set off an uproar.

McCarthy, Welch and some of the senators all sought to get the floor at the same time, and McCarthy and Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) flared at each other.

"Oh, be quiet," McCarthy snapped at Symington who was pounding on the table with his fist while trying to get a word in.

Angry, Symington retorted that "I haven't the slightest intention" of letting McCarthy shush him.

Welch told Jenkins: "I know you wouldn't want to participate in a trick like this."

Jenkins said the picture had been given to him by one of the parties in the case, "adverse to Stevens" as being "the genuine," authoritative picture with no intimation that it had been altered.

Schine, a wealthy New Yorker, is a former unpaid consultant to the McCarthy subcommittee who was drafted into the Army last fall.

The McCarthy-Army dispute revolves about a contention by Secretary of the Army Stevens that McCarthy and his aides sought by improper means to secure preferential treatment for Schine.

Welch gave Jenkins what he said was an unaltered picture which showed Stevens, Schine and others, rather than Stevens and Schine alone.

McCarthy, examining both pictures, declared Welch had made a "completely false" statement.

The incident stirred a furor with McCarthy demanding to continue on what he called a "point of order." Jenkins tried to silence McCarthy, saying he was making a speech and not a point of order.

McCarthy accepted the new picture submitted by Welch and said he thought Welch's point of order was "appropriate."

Jenkins, however, said he thought both McCarthy and Welch were making statements rather than points of order, and they should be sworn in to testify about the facts some time later.

He tried to end the tempest by suggesting that the subcommittee proceed with the same cross examination of Stevens.

Above the voices of Jenkins and Mundt, McCarthy demanded that "when I start to say something I not be interrupted."

McCarthy further demanded that Welch be called upon to produce the photograph who took the picture, and show where it was altered.

Jenkins cut off McCarthy, saying he was not making a proper point of order, but was making a statement of fact.

McCarthy insisted he had the right to point out wherein Welch was "lying" about the picture.

After some more wrangling, Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) took up the questioning of Stevens.

The row over the photograph launched the fourth day of the nationally-televised hearings which brought another capacity crowd to the marble-pillared Senate caucus room.

With little that was new developed in the first three days, McCarthy had injected something of a mystery element overnight by promising, before the hearings close, to produce "information of tremendous importance" from at least one, and possibly three, witnesses. He declined to name them.

Chairman Mundt, commenting on McCarthy's promise told reporters: "There will be no surprise witnesses before this committee."

By this, Mundt meant no witness would be permitted to take the stand without the committee's being advised in advance of the nature of the prospective testimony.

Public Hearing On UN Charter Slated For N. C.

WASHINGTON — Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) announced today that a Foreign Relations subcommittee will hold a public hearing Saturday, May 15, at Greensboro, N. C., on the United Nations charter.

This is third in a series of "Grass Roots" hearings throughout the nation in an effort to sound out public opinion on proposed revision of the U. N. charter, and U. N. organizations and activities.

Wiley, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, also heads a special subgroup considering charter revisions that the United States may propose next year.

He said Mayor Robert H. Frazier had invited the group to Greensboro. Earlier public hearings were in Ohio and Wisconsin.

"We want to find out what, if anything, should be done to change the charter so that it will better serve the interests and security of the United States and contribute to the preservation of peace," Wiley said in a statement. "That is why we are going out to the country."

Maj. L. P. McLendon has been designated by Mayor Frazier to assist the subcommittee in making arrangements for the hearing in Greensboro. Those desiring to be heard should contact Maj. McLendon by letter. Robert F. Mosely has been named chairman of the committee on local arrangements and Richard L. Wharton is vice chairman.

Senators of the state and the congressmen from the area have been invited to sit with the subcommittee.

Says Evangelist Billy Graham Is More Subdued

CLEVELAND — A "subdued" Billy Graham has preached to nearly a million Britons, and the young evangelist continues to "pack them in" during his London crusade, one of his assistants reports.

"Billy has developed a slower pace and is more subdued. He does not shout and is less dramatic, and it goes over much better with the British," said Dr. Paul S. Rees of Minneapolis, here to preside over the 12th annual convention of the National Assn. of Evangelicals opening today.

Dr. Rees said the crusade has been so successful, Graham has decided to return to England in 1955.

The Evangelicals have described themselves as an interdenominational organization of Bible-believing Christians. They say they represent 36 denominations and 40 individual churches.

communism.

Both governments were understood to have stopped short of a firm "yes" only because of British refusal to adopt a like course until after the current Geneva conference with Red China and Russia.

But Australian and New Zealand interest in the plan put forth by Secretary of State Dulles is reported strong enough that American officials are hoping the two will persuade Britain to join up rather than split the British Commonwealth.

Dulles was said to be pressing his united action plan at Geneva even though informed American officials regard the fall of the Indochina stronghold of Dien Bien Phu as only a matter of time.

The loss of Dien Bien Phu to the Red-led Vietminh, they said, would make all the more imperative united action to rescue Indochina.

Just last night, 12 key members of the Senate and the House, both Democrats and Republicans, were given a State Department fill-in on Indochina and other world trouble points. The briefing by Acting Secretary Walter Bedell Smith was based on messages sent by Dulles from Paris and Geneva.

Coming away from the briefing, several of the lawmakers commented that "things look dark all over."

Says N.C. Needs Optometrists

CHARLOTTE — The president of the North Carolina Optometric Society says that the state needs 767 more optometrists.

Dr. James A. Palmer of Charlotte, speaking at a meeting of the society here yesterday, said there are only 275 practicing optometrists serving North Carolina which has a population of 4,167,000. He said the American Optometric Assn. believes there should be one optometrist for every 4,000 persons, leaving North Carolina 767 optometrists short.

The group, meeting in conjunction with the Southeastern Educational Congress of Optometry, elected officers before adjourning today.

Marines Driving Through Swamps

ONSLOW BEACH, N. C. — Grimy elements of the 2nd Marine Division fought their way through dense swamps using the latest in amphibious warfare tactics today toward Jacksonville, N. C., objective of Exercise Lantalex-54.

Using a two-pronged attack of amphibian tanks and helicopters, the invaders in the Marine-Navy war games called on the combined forces of land, sea and air. Marine officers said it was the first time that the three arms had been used in an amphibious maneuver of this type.

The 2nd Division is considered the foremost fighting outfit of the U. S. forces striking in retaliation against the enemy. War game umpires said yesterday the 2nd Division had captured Montfort Point in its drive toward Jacksonville, which the division hopes to capture by Thursday.

The first casualty of the games involving about 60,000 men occurred yesterday when Pfc. Joseph W. Cook, 18, of Boston was run over by an amphibian tank and killed. A Marine spokesman said an investigation has started.

The 2nd Division stormed ashore from a 100-vessel armada last Saturday in the first landing. Both sides used simulated atomic bombs then. Because of this, both sides have had to employ new tactics during the games.
