

Subcommittee Votes Send Transcript To Justice Department

McCarthy Cries 'Perjury'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy cried "perjury" today at Secretary Stevens and Democratic senators called for prosecutions as a result of what one termed McCarthy's "fraudulent letter" episode in the McCarthy-Army hearings.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell ruled today that neither an FBI report on security risks at Ft. Monmouth, N. C., nor a document from Sen. McCarthy should be made public. He said the senator's paper made "unauthorized use" of secret material in the FBI report.

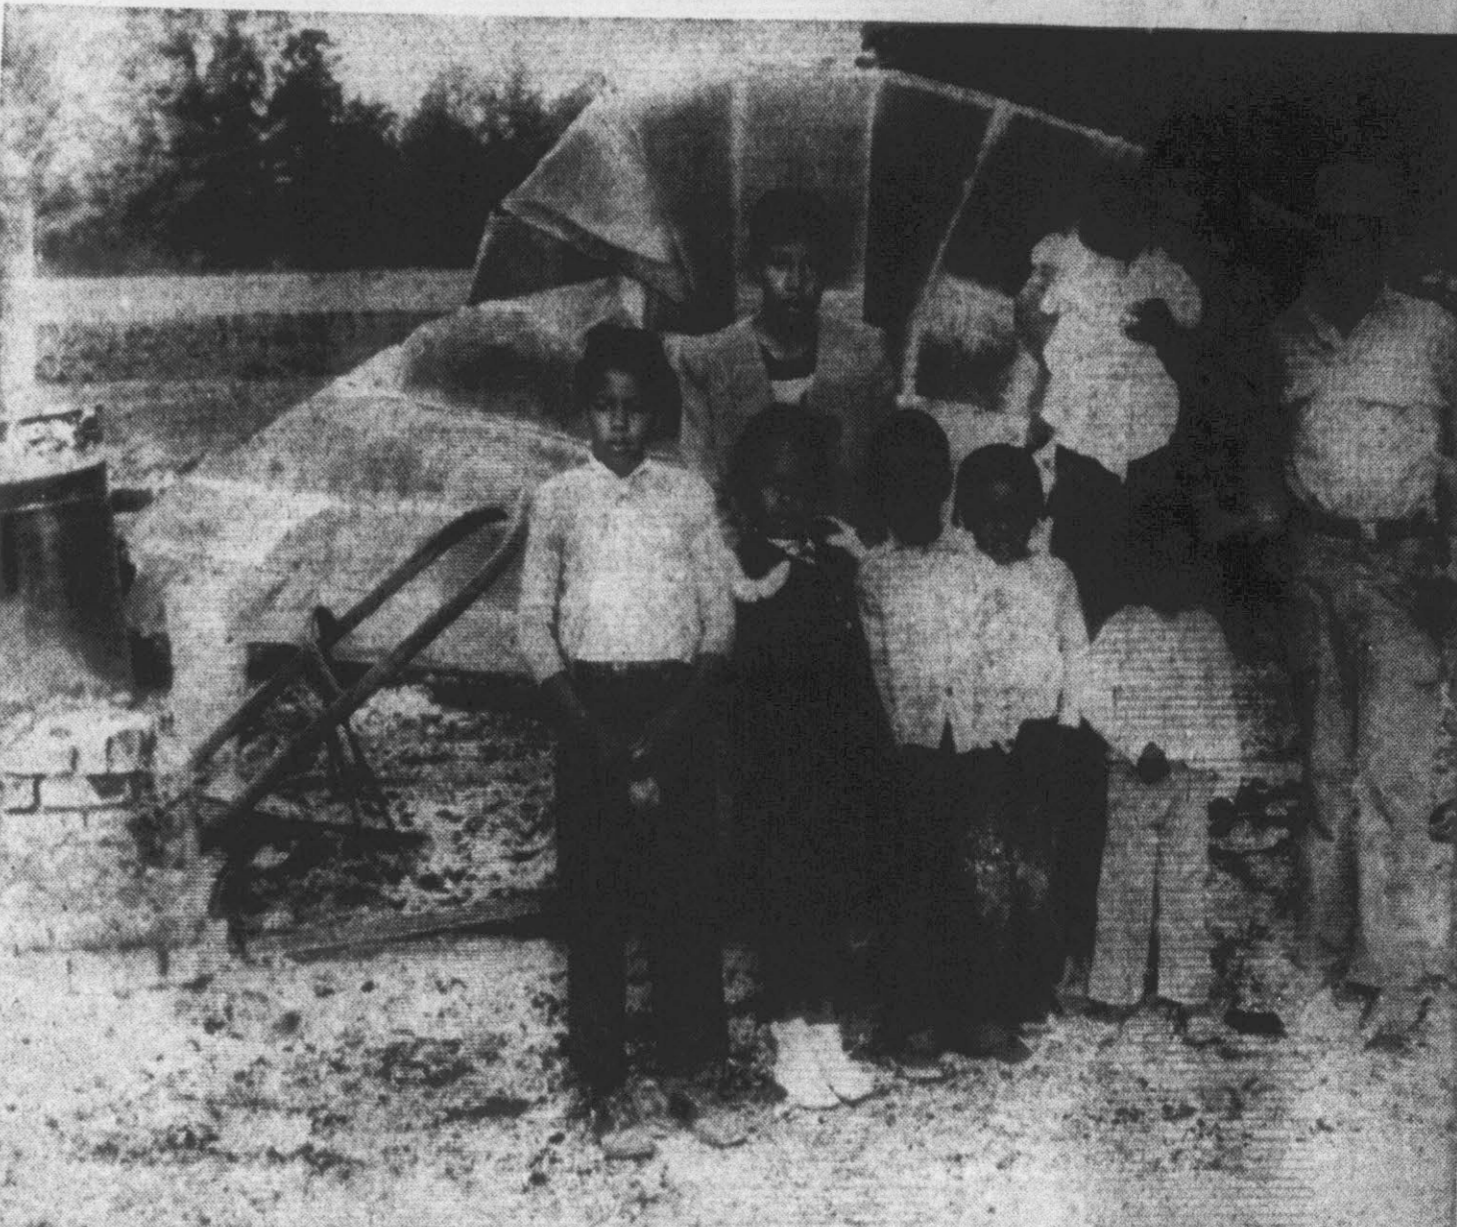

In swift and turbulent sequence: 1. The Senate Investigations subcommittee voted to send a daily transcript of its hearings to the Justice Department. This was on motion of Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) 2. Sen. Symington (D-Mo.), endorsing McClellan's move, said someone was "absolutely guilty" of violating the law in connection with McClellan, ever came back from a secret FBI report. He called McCarthy's document, center of a storm yesterday, "this fraudulent letter."

Washington was "trying to punish those who dare to give out information on espionage in secret radar laboratories" at Ft. Monmouth, N. J. And he charged that Symington and Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) were "part of a secret effort" to hamper his investigation of Communists in the Army. McCarthy said too he was sorry Symington and Jackson, who walked out on his committee last year along with McClellan, ever came back. Secretary Stevens testified he had made an error in earlier testimony to the subcommittee. He said he had been incorrect in stating that after a Feb. 24 meeting with the McCarthy subcommittee he had gone back to the Pentagon and conferred only with his staff. Actually, Stevens said, he had found on checking that he met with 21 uniformed and civilian officials of the Pentagon, including then Undersecretary of Defense Roger M. Kyes, Army Chief of Staff Matthew B. Ridgway, H. Struve Hensel, then Defense Department counsel but now an assistant secretary of defense, and Fred Seaton, also an assistant secretary of defense.

McCarthy hopped on this charge of testimony with a declaration that it appeared to be a "clear-cut case of perjury." Ray H. Jenkins, special counsel to the subcommittee, told McCarthy to confine himself to asking questions of Stevens. McCarthy challenged Stevens to say whether he had decided to change his testimony after he learned that Seaton and "a newsman" had testified last night and this morning at a closed meeting of the subcommittee. "No, sir," Stevens replied. "Are you as positive about this, Bob, as you were about the meeting on the 24th (of February)?" McCarthy asked. "I've answered the question," Stevens snapped. McCarthy asked Stevens, whether his counsel, Joseph Welch, had advised him that Seaton was called to testify this morning. "He did not," Stevens replied. McCarthy said it was an important question whether perjury had been committed or whether someone had induced another to swear falsely. After a whispered conversation with Welch, Stevens said Welch had heard this morning that Seaton was being called but that he knew nothing about any newsman. Furthermore Stevens said, Welch has no knowledge as to the nature of Seaton's testimony. Hensel's presence at the Feb. 24 Pentagon conference takes on significance from McCarthy's charge that Hensel "masterminded" an Army report accusing the senator and his aides of exerting improper pressures for preferential treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine. Schine, wealthy New Yorker, was an unpaid consultant to McCarthy's subcommittee until he was drafted last fall. Denying the Army's charges of pressure in behalf of Schine, McCarthy countercharged that the Army tried to stop his investigation of Communists in the service and sought to use Schine as a "hostage" to that end. He charged also that the Army threatened to issue just such a report as was finally put out and called this an effort to "blackmail" him.

Family Of Nine Lost Home And Possessions To Fire

BURNED OUT—Rosetta Streeter (holding child) and her eight children are shown beside wreckage of their home which was destroyed by fire in the Helen's Crossroads section near Ayden yesterday. The family lost everything except the clothes they were wearing when fire of undetermined origin burned the house to the ground. Members of the Ayden Volunteer Fire Department have launched a campaign to secure food and clothing and a dwelling place for the mother and her eight children. (Reflector Staff Photo)

AYDEN — Volunteer firemen of Ayden last night launched a campaign to secure food and clothing for a Negro woman and her eight children whose worldly possessions were lost yesterday when fire destroyed their home. The woman, Rosetta Streeter, and her eight children lived in a house on the Oscar Stokes farm near Helen's Cross roads about eight miles from Ayden. The Ayden fire department was called to the blaze yesterday afternoon, but the fire was out of control before they arrived, and the house was a total loss.

"That's the only thing we could get out," the woman said as she pointed to a scorched, battered old straight chair which sat near the ashes of the dwelling. Members of the Ayden fire department under the leadership of Tillman Chauncey decided at a meeting last night to secure food and clothing for the Negro woman and her children who range in age from one to 14 years old. Chauncey said contributions will be accepted by any member of the fire department, or they may be left at the fire or police department

In Ayden. On Friday afternoon between 6 and 7 o'clock, he said, members of the department will canvass the Ayden residential areas to pick up clothing which is contributed. Ayden Police Chief J. A. Jones said the woman's husband is serving time on the roads for assault and battery on his wife. The mother said she was working in a nearby field when the blaze was discovered in the top of the house about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. None of the children were in the house at the time the fire was discovered. She could not account for the cause of the fire. She said there was no fire in any stove in the house, and so far as she knew there had been no fire in a stove since she cooked dinner about noon yesterday. Only twisted rolls of tin which covered the roof were visible in the ashes. The family was moved to the house of a neighbor about a mile away where they spent the night last night, and arrangements were being made today to secure a dwelling for the woman and her eight children.

Air Assault On Encirclers Of Dien Bien Phu Bombers Pound Vietminh

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—U.S.-supplied Privateer bombers dropped tons of fragmentation bombs on Vietminh troops crushing in today on Dien Bien Phu. Dive bombers and fighters from an aircraft carrier in the Gulf of Tonkin joined in a massive air assault on the rebel lines.

A French army spokesman said the fragmentation bombs—which burst into thousands of splinters—tore big gaps in the Communist-Vietminh ranks. The Vietminh had regrouped and bolstered their attack positions earlier today but gave no indication when they might unleash their next massive assault.

The Privateers, each carrying four 500-pound bombs, roared over freshly dug Vietminh trenches to drop their deadly load. Other bombers from the carrier Bois Belleau—the former American warship Belleau Wood—concentrated on Vietminh artillery and antiaircraft positions. The French spokesman said there was no important land fighting during the day.

Youths Arrested For Long Series Of Local Thefts

By ALVIN TAYLOR, Reflector Staff Writer. Local police arrested two Negro youths today and charged them with breaking and entering and larceny, solving a long series of thefts which have taken place in the city recently.

Detective Lt. N. H. Byrd said today that Noah Morning, 17, Greenville Route 1, and a 15-year-old Negro youth had been arrested and admitted the break-ins. Morning is being held by police under $250 bond, the 15-year-old boy is being held for juvenile authorities. Byrd stated, the detective said that $418.45 worth of clothing which was taken from local cleaners in nighttime robberies had been recovered by police. He said, however, that a large quantity of clothing was still missing. Byrd also said that a shotgun taken from Stokes' Garage on Monday night had also been recovered. In addition, $1.29 worth of chewing gum and cigarettes had been recovered.

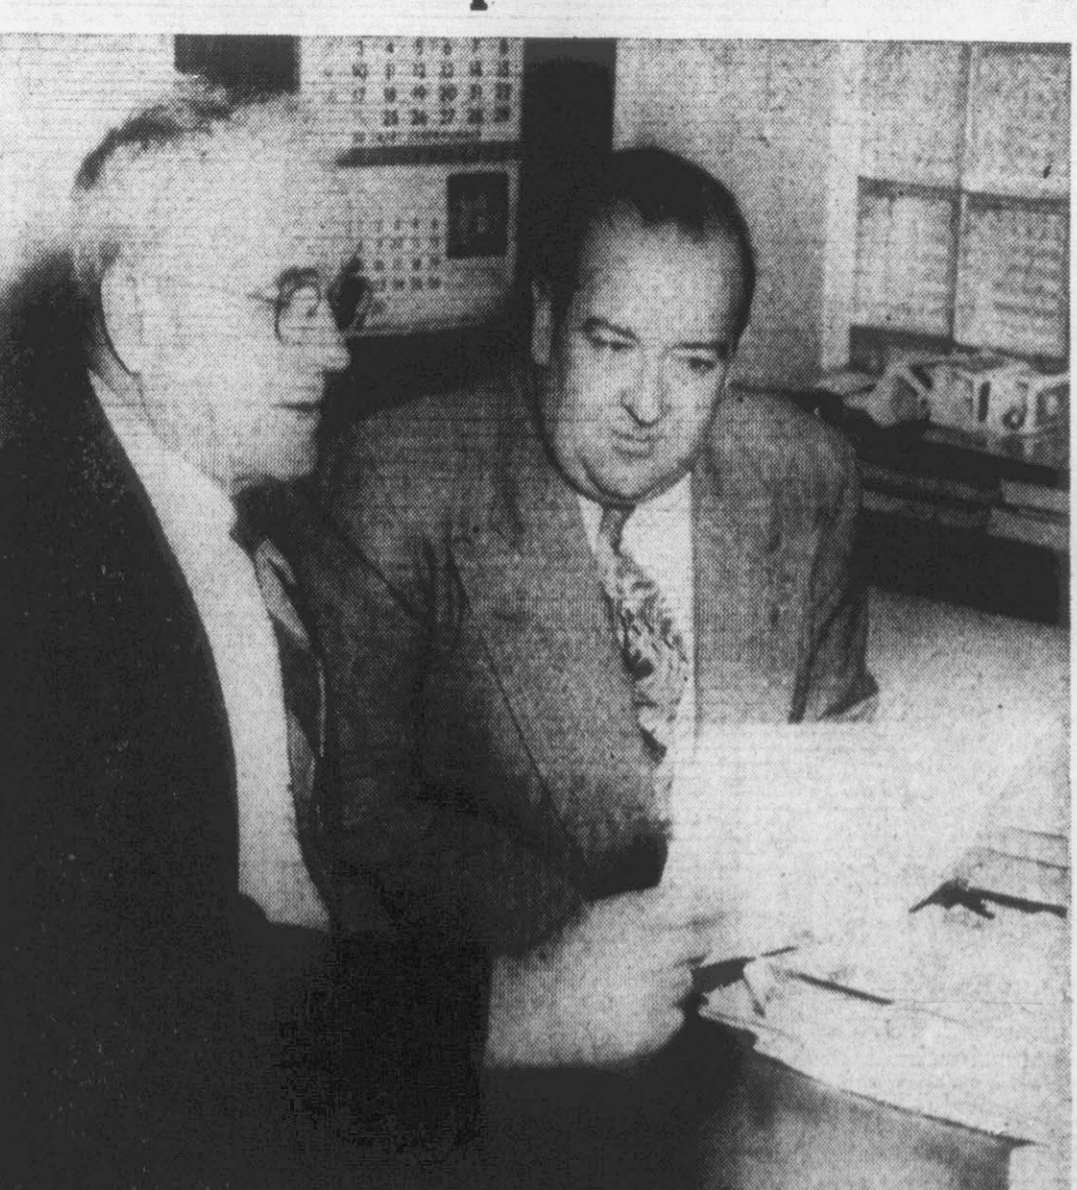

Record-Size Highway Aid Bill Signed Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed a record size highway aid bill and expressed the hope that road construction can be stepped up to an even more rapid pace. With a congressional delegation looking on at a White House ceremony, the President put his name to a measure authorizing 966 million dollars in federal aid for highway building in each of two years. The money will be used to assist the states in the construction. The program will start July 1, 1955. Eisenhower used seven pens to sign the bill. He finished signing his name with the sixth and said with a grin: "By golly, that's about all the pens I can use unless I use one for a period." And he did. Then turning to the members of Congress grouped around his desk, the President laughed and said: "Now we've got a highway bill. Now if you fellows will get that other bill for me today, The St. Lawrence Seaway, we will be improving our transportation." That remark was directed to the House members present. The Senate already has passed a bill authorizing United States participation in construction of the seaway project. The measure is up in the House.

French firepower was backed by warplanes during a few hours of clear weather yesterday. The fighters and bombers concentrated their heaviest blows southeast of Dien Bien Phu attempting to knock out guns bombarding the isolated southernmost stronghold, "Isabelle."

New Utilities Superintendent On Job

Greenville Utilities Commission's new superintendent, Leonard P. Bloxam, was on the job this morning. Bloxam and his family arrived in Greenville yesterday and the new superintendent began working with outgoing Superintendent Martin Swartz this morning. Bloxam said this morning, "I am certainly glad to be in Greenville and it is my intention to serve the people as ably as possible for as long and, I hope longer, than Mr. Swartz has."

Swartz, who has been superintendent of the local Utilities Commission, for 30 years asked that he be retired due to his health. The present plan is for both Swartz and Bloxam to work together until July 1. At that time Swartz will be a consultant to Bloxam, working with him only when needed. Included in Bloxam's family are his wife, Edith, his mother, Mrs. Percy Bloxam; and two children, Percy George (9) and Joyce Lynn (7). The family reside at 304 South Jarvis Street. Bloxam and his family were members of the Baptist Church in Bennettsville, S. C., where he was superintendent of the Utilities in that town. He said this morning that he does not know which church the family will become affiliated with here. The two children began attending the Training School here today, he stated. Bloxam said he plans to transfer his membership in the Kiwanis Club to the local organization. In Bennettsville he was vice-president of that club.

Runaway GI To Face Army Trial Federal, State, Local Officers In Big Hunt Pushing Search For Bandit

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—A 36-year-old American soldier who asked the Russians for political asylum and then returned to the West will be tried by an Army general court-martial in Salzburg on May 12. Pvt. Carlos P. Johnson, of High Point, N. C., is accused of affiliating himself with a Communist organization advocating overthrow of the U.S. government, and also with violation of the espionage act by urging another U.S. soldier to go over to the Russians and deliver American secrets to them. Johnson disappeared from his unit in Linz, Austria, on Aug. 2, 1953. Soon after, the Russians announced he had asked for political asylum. Last Jan. 15, Johnson returned to West Berlin, saying he had come back "because even if I get put in jail, it will be worth it."

Johnson told U.S. authorities that he had attended a school for foreigners in East Germany, where he had been given Communist instructions. He said he planned his escape by establishing himself as "politically reliable," so that he finally found the opportunity to return to the West.

Former Princess Dies In Sleep

BAD KISSINGEN, Germany (AP)—Former Crown Princess Cecilie of Prussia died here in her sleep early today after a long illness. She was 67. Her son, Prince Louis Ferdinand of Prussia, head of the former German royal house of Hohenzollern, and his wife Princess Kyra were at the bedside. Prince Louis Ferdinand announced yesterday that his mother was suffering from a circulatory ailment. Before her marriage to Crown Prince Wilhelm, son of the last Kaiser, in 1905, Princess Cecilie was the Duchess of Mecklenburg. Her husband died in 1951.

Refuses Argue

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill refused in the House of Commons today to be drawn into an argument on differences between British and American governments on Indochina. A discussion on differences at this moment would be "mischievous," he said. "I hope that when a statement is made on our relations with the United States it will cover not only divergencies on points of policy, but also these great factors of unity without which our survival would be endangered, and theirs possibly endangered too," Churchill said.

Chairmanship Dispute Again Tying Up Talks

By EDDY GILMORE GENEVA (AP)—East and West were reported split today over the chairmanship of the Indochina sessions of the Geneva conference. There were signs the negotiations to bring peace in Indochina may have to be postponed until next week. Delegates had hoped to open the talks tomorrow or Saturday. Vietnamese and Laotian delegates got in today. The rebel Vietminh contingent already was on hand. But the hope for quick action faded with the lack of agreement on the chairmanship and the fact delegates from Cambodia, partner of Viet Nam and Laos in the Associated States of Indochina, have not arrived in Geneva.

Democrats Told U.S. Suffered Stunning Setback At Geneva On Indochina Question

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Guy Gillette (D-Iowa) told a national Democratic conference today the United States suffered "an astounding and unprecedented reversal" at Geneva on the question of Indochina. He blamed it on what he called a "split" Republican administration lacking a foreign policy. He said the 1952 election put one group of Republicans in charge of the executive branch and another group in Congress. The "fiasco" at Geneva he said, is only the most glaring example of what the struggle against Communist imperialism.

Democrats Told U.S. Suffered Stunning Setback At Geneva On Indochina Question

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Guy Gillette (D-Iowa) told a national Democratic conference today the United States suffered "an astounding and unprecedented reversal" at Geneva on the question of Indochina. He blamed it on what he called a "split" Republican administration lacking a foreign policy. He said the 1952 election put one group of Republicans in charge of the executive branch and another group in Congress. The "fiasco" at Geneva he said, is only the most glaring example of what the struggle against Communist imperialism.

Secretary of State Dulles said yesterday the Geneva talks are going about as anticipated and that he knows of nothing that has happened to justify an interpretation that the United States had suffered any defeat. President Eisenhower told his news conference a few hours later he had unqualified faith in Dulles. He said no one loses a battle while the battle is still going on. Gillette said selection of a Democratic Congress in November would not cure "the split in the Republican party, which may well be incurable, but it will heal the breach in our government and allow the President to lead America in the leadership of the free world."

Gillette, a Foreign Relations Committee member, said the country will live to regret the administration's decision not to use the United Nations machinery to halt the Indochina war. "We could have hauled the Red aggressor before the bar of world opinion," he said, "but we preferred to revert to outworn methods of military intervention."

Gillette's remarks were prepared for a panel on "American security" at the second day's session of the Democratic National Committee meetings. The party rally will come to a close tonight with a $100-a-plate Jefferson-Jackson dinner at which former President Truman will be an informal speaker. Late yesterday, Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell of the national committee cautioned Democrats to beware of "political indictments" he said may be instigated by Atty. Gen. Brownell, and of "smear and fear" tactics of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) in the coming campaign. Mitchell urged his fellow Democrats not to be overconfident, even though he said their party holds a "most genuine advantage" over the Republicans "in the basic confidence of the voters and on the major issues of the day."

Aries Book Club Hears Talk By Dr. A. D. Frank

Mrs. W. Z. Morton Jr. was hostess to the Aries Book Club at her home on April 29.

Guests for the evening were Dr. A. D. Frank, Mesdames George C. Martin Jr., E. K. Willis, Wesley Johnston, C. H. Edwards Jr., and Robert Messner.

Dr. Frank, who is head of the Social Science Department at ECC, was guest speaker. His program was divided into two parts: the current situations of North Carolina and the present situation in Asia. He praised the Highway Patrol for the wonderful work they are doing in trying to prevent accidents. He described several accidents which happened to his friends.

He said Indochina is the most dangerous spot in the world at this time. He has been saying that he saw no immediate danger of another World War but is more uneasy now than ever since World War II. Japan is the number one objective of Russia. Indochina is the second objective. He told us that we should always remember that the Communists have one goal—to revolutionize the world. She will never stop until the whole world is communized. If Russia tries to fight us it will be over the English Channel or in our cities and not in the Orient. He is most afraid of submarines releasing small bombs, however we have strong shore defenses.

In speaking of bombs Dr. Frank said the Hydrogen bomb frightened him. "Should one be dropped on a bull's eye, it would completely wipe out New York City. The Cobalt bomb is even more fearful. It is a Hydrogen bomb surrounded by cobalt. This can create a dust around the world and can be made very easily radioactive. Any nation releasing this dust might be affected as much as the nation bombed. It would contaminate our lands and water system. It would take 5 years for one-half of it to disappear.

In closing he said, "Don't worry too much. If you are hit you will not live to know. If you are not hit, you are lucky."
Following this most interesting program the hostess served delicious apple pie a la mode with coffee. Books were exchanged and the meeting adjourned.

Mrs. J. T. Little reported that the Coffee Shop had moved to larger quarters, adding pleasure and comfort to both customers and workers. She expressed appreciation to those at the hospital who had made this move possible, and secured volunteers to help on "Hospital Day" which is to be on May 12.

Mrs. George Lautares was elected second vice president.
May 27th was the date set for the annual luncheon meeting which will be held in the Episcopal Parish House at 11:30 a.m. The provisional members were invited to be the guests of the League at the luncheon, which will be the final meeting until next fall.

Twenty Air Force Reservists and guests attended a fish fry last night near the Tar River Bridge on the Belvoir-Falkland highway.

Jack Russell of 1008 Fairfax Avenue, Greenville, prepared the meal that was served to members of Flight "D" of the 9948th Air Force Reserve Squadron and their guests. Russell is a staff sergeant in the local Reserve unit.

Colonel Roger G. Fuller and his East Carolina College ROTC staff were among the invited guests. Alexander Graham Bell was a prominent guest among the guests was "Cactus Jim" Lafferty of television station WNCT.

Wesleyan Service Guild
Installs Officers For New Year

The Wesleyan Service Guild had its May meeting in the Youth Chapel of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church with Mrs. Dorothy Johnson, vice president, presiding in the absence of the president.

Miss Annie Laurie Askew led in the devotional, using as her theme the 8th verse of the 4th chapter of Philippians: "Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report, if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, and the treasurer's report was given.

Members of the Guild were extended an invitation to attend Harvest Day Dinner, sponsored by the Women's Society of Christian Service, on Monday, May 10.

Two members, Mrs. Margaret Farley and Miss Annie Laurie Askew, were presented life membership certificates and life membership pens for their splendid activities during the year.

Following reports of committees a very impressive installation service was led by Miss Frances Wahl. The following officers were installed for the new year: Mrs. Dorothy Johnson, president; Miss Annie Laurie Askew, vice president; Mrs. Kemp Baldwin, secretary; Mrs. Alene Moore, treasurer; Mrs. Margaret Farley, chairman, Missionary Education; Mrs. Louis Herring, chairman, Christian Social Relations and Church Activities; Miss Helen Perkins, chairman, Supply Work; Miss Jane Hadley, chairman, Membership Committee; Mrs. Hoyle Hendrix, chairman, Literature Committee; Mrs. R. H. Briley, chairman, Publicity Committee; Miss Annie Mae Murray, chairman, Status of Women; and Miss Frances Wahl, chairman, Spiritual Life Committee.

A Pledge Service, led by Miss Mary Thomas Smith and Mrs. Sally Klingenschmidt, was then had, in which each member participated.

Mrs. Johnson gave a brief but interesting report on the meeting recently held at Wilmington. She announced that conference next year will be at Burlington.

The hostesses, assisted by Louis Herring Jr., served delicious homemade cake, ice cream and nuts.

Girl Scout Council Hears Report By Mrs. Proctor

At the April meeting of the Pitt County Girl Scout Council, Mrs. J. Knott Proctor gave a report on the training course which she has recently completed for Executive Directors of Girl Scout Councils.

The course was given at Berea College, Berea, Ky., and required four weeks for completion. Her admission to the school reflected much credit on both Mrs. Proctor and the Pitt County organization, since entrance requirements are rigid. Representatives from 30 areas attended the school, and the Pitt County Council was the smallest council represented.

Mrs. Proctor stated that the course covered every phase of the Girl Scout program from office maintenance to outdoor cooking. There was special emphasis on training for troop leaders, council members and committee members.

Mrs. Proctor is now qualified to give training courses to all adult volunteers working with the Girl Scout movement. This is vitally important to the Pitt County Council at the present time, since during the past year its jurisdiction has been enlarged to include the whole county and new troops have been organized in Bethel, Winterville and Ayden. Membership has increased considerably in the Farmville, Grifton and Greenville troops and new leaders are needed.

A Bad Situation That Should Be Changed

Pitt County, like many other counties throughout North Carolina, finds it has a difficult time when it is called on to take custody of a person suffering from a mental illness while waiting for that individual to be admitted to a state mental hospital.

On a number of occasions in the past—and doubtless on other occasions in the future—it has been necessary for county officials to house mental patients in the county jail for days, and sometimes weeks, while awaiting admittance for them in state institutions.

It is certainly a shame that a county the size of Pitt has to deal thusly with unfortunate people who fall victim to mental illnesses. It is a disgrace to the county and to the state that a mentally ill person has to be lodged in the common jail for a period of time because immediate admittance can not be gained for the person at a state institution.

The $20,000,000 expansion program now underway for the state's mental institutions should alleviate the situation to an appreciable degree by making more room available in the state's institutions. It should mean that jails in many counties throughout the state like the one in our county will not have to house mental patients as long while awaiting their admittance to a hospital.

Yet the completion of that building program is probably a couple of years away at best.

In the meantime some better arrangements should be made in Pitt County for taking care of citizens who now have to be kept in jail because they can not be admitted to hospitals on short notice. Perhaps some arrangements could be made to house these people at Pitt Memorial hospital while awaiting transfer to a state institution; or perhaps another solution to the problem can be found.

A jail is certainly no proper place for a mentally ill individual to have to be housed while awaiting transfer to a state hospital. Pitt could certainly do better.

Let's Look Carefully Before Leaping

North Carolina is finding itself rapidly becoming involved in a debate over whether the federal government or the state government of North Carolina and Tennessee should have the responsibility for and jurisdiction over the Great Smokey Mountains National Park.

Out of the exchange of words has come charges among which is the charge that the federal government has allowed the park to sink to a low state of deterioration. One official has asserted it would take some two million dollars to put the area back into as good a condition as it was some 15 years ago when it was dedicated by the late President Roosevelt.

Certainly North Carolina has a considerable interest in this great national park. The tourist business is one of the greatest industries of the Tar Heel State, and the location and attractions of this great national park in the mountains of North Carolina attracts much tourist business into the state.

On the other hand, it is obvious that the maintenance and upkeep on such a park is tremendous. Should North Carolina and Tennessee acquire the park or the responsibility for its upkeep and administration, the states would be assuming quite a load.

There is certainly a question in our mind of whether the state is in a position to accept the financial responsibility which would be necessary if North Carolina and Tennessee took over the great park.

Progress Appears On Airport Scene

No recent word has been made public from the Eastern Carolina Airport Authority about the selection of a site for the proposed four-city-four-county airport.

Yet the approval this week by the Pitt County Commissioners of a $4,937.50 appropriation to the airport authority for options and administration would tend to indicate something is in the wind.

We would guess the airport authority would not be calling on Pitt and the other three counties involved and the four cities involved for funds unless the authority is about ready to execute options on the property which will be used as the site for the proposed airport.

Although the selection of the site for the airport will not be announced until options have been secured on the desired property, the recent request for additional funds by the airport authority indicates progress is being made toward the selection of a site.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
HOUSES AND PEOPLE

Most Americans today probably use the word "church" quite interchangeably to indicate both the religious organization itself and the building which houses it. Perhaps this does not seem strange to us, but it would have seemed so to our forefathers. As eighteenth-century parish records often show, in some areas, at least, there was a definite distinction observed between the terms "church"—the corporate body of Christians in communion with Christ—and "meeting house"—the building which housed the activities of the church.

This is a distinction which we would all do well to remember. Too many people, including perhaps some who are proverbial pillars of their congregations, feel that their religious experience is complete when they work for the "church" in the second sense. They have given generously to the building fund and toward current expenses. They have served on the committee for redecoration of the sanctuary. Possibly they have even put on old clothes and helped to paint the Sunday-school rooms.

Such activities are necessary, important, and praiseworthy. But what about the spiritual lives of these people as members of Christ's community? They have done their duty by the meeting house, but how about the "church" in the other sense, most important of all? "And Jesus answered and said... 'Thou art careful and troubled about many things: but one thing is needful.'"

National Whirligig

Stassen Growing Unpopular

WASHINGTON—Harold E. Stassen has become an extremely unpopular and controversial figure on Capitol Hill because of his eagerness to make generous trade concessions and financial grants to hostile or stubbornly neutral nations. The nations are Russia and India, whose neutrality amounts to pro-Moscow co-operation, in Congressional opinion.

Minnesota's perennial Presidential hopeful occupies a difficult and unenviable position as distributor of foreign funds. At executive committee sessions on both sides of the Capitol, the Director of the Foreign Operations Administration has discovered that the legislators oppose any kind of neighborliness toward Moscow or New Delhi. Anti-American developments at Geneva and in Indo-China have intensified this feeling.

STATE DEPARTMENT INFLUENCE—But Stassen is also under the influence and virtual jurisdiction of the State Department, whose attitude on foreign commerce with Premier Malenkov and Nehru differs from that of the majority in Congress. State believes in keeping open all channels of intercourse, despite current friction.

The theory is that cultural and commercial contacts may eventually lead to improved relations in the political and diplomatic fields—in short, to the lowering and disappearance of the Iron Curtain.

COMPLAINT OF ANGLo-FRENCH GROUPS—Moreover, both Stassen and Secretary John Foster Dulles are under extremely heavy foreign pressure for gradual reopening of trade with the Reds. The same Anglo-French groups which resent American military expansion complain that our economic war on the Communists suppresses their trade, creates unemployment and keeps them financially dependent on the United States. They denounce it as "economic imperialism."

To appease these politically powerful groups, Prime Minister Churchill has insisted on at least a 50 per cent reduction of the list of prohibited goods. Britain is selling such things as rubber, textiles and industrial machinery to Moscow and satellite countries. Prime Minister Nehru, a recent recipient of funds forwarded by Stassen's FOA, has never subscribed to the U.S.-inspired ban.

HOPFUL OF UNLOADING SURPLUSES—As a matter of fact, Secretary Ezra Taft Benson is still hopeful that he can unload some of his agricultural surpluses, especially butter and cottonseed oil, on the Russians. Despite several indirect "feelers," he has not had any firm offers from the Soviet through Amtorg, its official trading agency.

Commercial talks founder on two obstacles. The sharp Russian traders are willing to pay only 40 or 45 cents a pound for butter, and Benson anticipates protests by Congress and the public, if he disposes of the product for much less than housewives for the domestic Government-owned supply.

Another objection is that Moscow wants to give us gold for any purchases, and, unlike Britain and France, we also have a surplus of that commodity. We might be able to do business with them, according to Sinclair Weeks, Secretary of Commerce, if they would finance these transactions by sending us such scarce materials as manganese or wood pulp for newsprint.

Although official suggestions for broadening trade with the Communists will be still until after the outcome of the Geneva Conference, Stassen reflects prevailing sentiment in high Administration circles when he defends the Churchill-Nehru attitude.

WARNING TO TRUMAN RECALLED—The West's prospective and permanent loss of the Orient—North Korea, China and Indo-China—recalls a grave but unheeded warning to former President Truman on this problem. It was sent to him on August 8, 1945, only two days after the atomic bombing of Hiroshima, by Edward W. Pauley, California oil magnate. Pauley, as American Reparation Commissioner, had heard ominous reports while in Moscow. As a result, he rushed this hitherto unpublished message to the White House:

"Conclusions I have reached through discussions on reparations and otherwise—I repeat otherwise—lead me to the belief that our forces should occupy quickly as much of the industrial areas of Korea and Manchuria as we can, starting at the southerly tip and proceeding northward.

"I am assuming all of this can be done at no risk of American lives after organized hostilities have ceased, and occupancy to continue only until satisfactory arrangements have been reached between the nations concerned with respect to reparations and territorial rights or other concessions."

When we failed to move in, the Russians did and are still moving.

Somebody Told Me

One Challenge After Another

Parenthood is one constant challenge. Right now we are having trouble getting the three-and-one-half-year-old daughter, Nancy, to eat the right things at the right times.

Yesterday it was delicious country ham that we were having trouble getting into her, if you can imagine. Wife Rachel asked Nancy if she wanted it in large or small pieces, in an effort to have it exactly as she wanted it. Small pieces was the verdict, but there was no response.

Then the brain storm came. If the Baird marionettes on television's Morning Show could do it, maybe I could too. So with a very shrill voice I started one of the pieces of meat talking. "I'm a little piece of meat," I said, "and I want to find out what it's like down in your stomach. Chew me up, real good, and swallow me."

This went over with a bang. The deeper voice came. "I'm the big brother to the little piece of meat that you just swallowed. I want to go down in your stomach and be with my little sister." Sounds silly? Of course, but it works and when a child gets to the point that you can't get them to eat the right things then the parent sometimes gets desperate. Did this get old? Not a chance. But the real fun began when I tried to get Nancy to let W. R. take the part of the voice in the meat. Nancy would pin her down and she would squeeze out of my job. "Daddy can do it better," she knew that if she did it in my presence I would tease her about it for the next month.

The last slip she made was during a conversation we were having as she washed the dishes. Very emphatically, she spun around on her heel, started telling me a story as she calmly tossed the dish cloth in the air. Every guest we had for the next month had to watch my imitation of W. R. tossing the dish cloth. "If you weren't here," she said, "I wouldn't mind talking like a piece of meat. But I know what would happen if you heard it."

Seriously, I often wonder if parents aren't wrong in trying so hard to get their children to eat. It stands to reason that a child will go through spells of requiring less food but the parent usually requires the same amount, making it hard for him to understand the child's situation. But if you want to get something in a child's stomach, just let the food talk and it will probably work.

And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

PARKS SHOULD BE FREE

(Henderson Dispatch)

The States of North Carolina and Tennessee should, if necessary, join hands in opposing suggestions by Federal authorities that the Great Smokey Mountains National Park area be placed on a fee basis for visitors. Who has the power to impose such restrictions, short of congressional action, to that effect, we do not know.

The whole idea is preposterous for several reasons. One is that the government, which spends money finished only by the people has no moral right to charge them a fee to enter areas it has improved and maintains with their own cash. Another reason is that the park area is not a man made region, and still a third is that such an imposition would be resented and would thus in all likelihood drive tourists away, and in a spirit of resentment at that. The parkway, for instance, was constructed in the first place for the pleasure and enjoyment of the public. It should be kept that way and without price or fee from visitors.

How much cash outlay is necessary on an annual basis to maintain the Great Smokey Park we do not know, but it is an insignificant sum by comparison with Federal spending generally. Moreover, revenue from tourists would likewise be a very tiny item in the government pool of abundant money.

If the two States in which the Great Smokies Park lies unite in opposition to this proposal they should be able to defeat it in event serious efforts ever are made to effectuate the idea. The tourist business in North Carolina—and presumably in Tennessee as well—is big business. It means millions of dollars to this State, and almost certainly a large portion of that derived from mountain sojourners would be lost if they were required to pay a fee to enter the park area.

Ever since the highway was constructed along the crest of the mountains it has been free to all comers and it ought to remain that way. But it begins to appear that the States most vitally concerned may have to intervene if revenue-hungry Federal authorities are to be stopped in their desire to get these comparatively few additional dollars from pleasure-bent Americans.

If the government can and if it does impose a fee in the Great Smokies, there is nothing to keep it from doing the same thing in all other national park areas. The threat in our mountain country becomes, therefore, a concern for all the States. If the move should succeed, it would defeat the very purpose that motivated development of the great recreational regions, namely, the pleasure and benefit of the people of the whole country.

BY LYNN NISBET
BAG HOLDERS — North Carolina, along with the other States, may be left holding the bag which has been handed them by the Federal government in connection with many co-operative social programs, according to Governor Umstead. He told reporters at his latest news conference that he got the impression at Washington last week that pending legislation was designed to curtail Federal aid to the States, but without relinquishment by the Federal government of any sources of revenue to finance them.

The Governor emphasized that he did not have sufficient detailed information, upon which to base a positive statement, but he did get the definite impression that the Federal government did not intend to relinquish any control over administration of the welfare program and other co-operative ventures, while proposing to materially reduce appropriations for them.

Most of the welfare policies, such as aid to aged and to dependent children, to the blind and other assistance, were formulated by the Federal government, he said. The States were more or less forced to come in. He said he deems it the duty of any government, Federal, State or local, to eliminate unnecessary expenditures. Assuming that most of the social welfare policies are good and should be continued, the States will find themselves in very difficult situation if they have to carry on with reduced Federal aid and no release of tax sources to the States, and with continuing requirement to meet Federal standards.

Further emphasizing the problem facing North Carolina, the Governor referred to the State revenue report for April which had been released just a few minutes before.

REVENUE — The revenue report showed less collections in the important income and sales tax schedules than were received last April, but a gain in total general fund revenue for the first ten months of the fiscal year. Commenting on this situation Eugene Shaw, commissioner of revenue, said: "In order for us to meet the official revised estimate in the general fund this year, we would have to have a total increase in collections of $7,013,218 above actual collections last year. Although we have an increase of $4,329,644 in collections to date, it appears somewhat doubtful that there will be sufficient increases in collections during the remaining two months of the fiscal year to reach the full amount of the estimate, but I do not believe the difference will be of sufficient size to impair budgetary requirements for the year."

Both Governor Umstead and Assistant Budget Director Dave Coltrane said considerable savings might be made in budget appropriations, but neither would hazard an estimate on what can be saved. The Governor pointed out that such a large part of the total spending was for salaries, no great reduction could be expected.

Declining State revenue at the time Federal aid is being reduced enhances the problem of dealing with social welfare programs. Asked what he learned at the recent Governors' Conference in Washington about prospects for next year, Governor Umstead said he found nobody willing to predict with assurance. He did note that there was general expectation that building, both governmental and private, is expected to hold up. And construction has always been considered one of the most accurate barometers of economic weather.

All of the Governors—and every one of the 48 was there—and most of the Federal officials with whom he had contact manifested some concern over increasing unemployment and shorter work weeks resulting in less take home pay.

LOBBYING — Governor Umstead confessed that he engaged in a bit of lobbying while in Washington. He urged North Carolina congressman to do all they could to have the proposed Air Force academy located in this State; to seek sufficient appropriations for the Great Smoky Mountains National Park and the Blue Ridge Parkway to at least maintain existing standards and preserve investments already made. He also got in some plugs for continued Federal aid to the social welfare programs.

PROFITABLE — Upon the whole, he said, he thought the conference was highly profitable. Many of the matters discussed were strictly confidential, since they dealt with national defense. Admitting some confusion and lack of co-ordination, he feels that Federal and State officials are honestly seeking the best solution to the problems. He singled out Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey for special praise. "He made a very fine impression on me," said the Governor.

Rules For Good Boss

By ELMER ROESSNER
Consistency is the secret of being a good boss, a study of 20,000 of them has convinced Alfred R. Laitener, director of supervisory training courses in the extension division of City College of New York.

The most successful bosses, Mr. Laitener found in his 12-year study of foremen and executives, are neither "bossy" nor "wishy-washy." Most employees, he found prefer their bosses to be firm and fair on all occasions, rather than being too easy at times.

Out of his studies, Mr. Laitener developed (1) a book and (2) 10 questions by which bosses can evaluate their own efficiency. The questions:

1. Do I give my subordinates a sense of privacy? Constantly looking over someone's shoulder destroys self-esteem and creates tension.
2. Do I issue only those orders that are necessary? Too much supervision and order-giving destroys initiative.
3. Do I avoid arguing with employees? Heated discussions create resentment and even if the boss wins his point, he loses good will.
4. When I must criticize subordinates, do I do it privately? Employees appreciate a boss who helps them save face.
5. Do I give praise for better-than-average performance? Pride and satisfaction derived from recognition is necessary in addition to a pay check.
6. Do I show interest in the employee as a human being? A cheery inquiry, without prying, about a worker's family or his health shows him he isn't considered as just so many units of manpower.
7. Do I avoid playing favorites?

The supervisor who is over-friendly with certain employees antagonizes the rest.

8. When I make important changes, do I explain why? An unexplained change in routine creates resistance and a feeling of insecurity.

9. Do I avoid buck-passing? Accepting responsibility sets a good example for employees and creates respect for the supervisor.

10. Do I invite suggestions from subordinates? An employee who is asked for his ideas and opinions feels he is an important cog in the company machine.

The book is "The Techniques of Supervision," in which I. E. Levine collaborated with Mr. Laitener. It is 203 pages and is published by the National Foremen's Institute, New London, Conn. (at $4).

HALF DEPARTMENTAL SALES MADE IN THREE DEPARTMENTS
Department stores' best department last year was the home furnishings department, according to the Federal Reserve's summary of department store business, which has just been released. Home furnishings accounted for 19.5 per cent of all department store sales.

Second was the women's and misses' ready-to-wear accessories, with 18.0 per cent, and the women's and misses' ready-to-wear apparel, with 17.6 per cent. Each other department did less than 10 per cent of the total. Basement stores did 13.1 per cent of the total sales.

December, of course, was the month for highest sales, 15.1 per cent of the total being made then. November was second with 9.9 per cent, January and July were lowest, each with 6.2 per cent, but August topped January, 7.0 to 6.8 per cent.

This Midget KO'd A Big Tiger

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Backstage at the circus:

Paul Horompo may not be the mightiest midget in history, but he is perhaps the only one who ever whipped a tiger single handed.

Paul, a slender 59-year-old miniature clown with the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey circus, scored his one-blow knockout over the tiger here in Madison Square Garden in 1938. The battle since has become a taunt-bark legend.

The tiger escaped from her cage and the first person she met was Horompo, who was dressed as one of snow-white's seven dwarfs and carried a wooden pickaxe on his shoulder. Paul, who is very chivalrous, instinctively stepped aside to let her pass—as he would for any lady, tiger or not.

But the tiger halted, and opened the red furnace of her mouth. It looked like Paul would end his career as a tiger tidbit. The tiger had every advantage of weight, height, reach, strength, speed and age. Paul stood only a little higher than her armpits. It looked like one of the Garden's poorest mismatches.

"It happened so quick I didn't have time to think of all that," Paul recalled. "Tell you the truth, if she had gone on by me, I don't think I would have bothered her at all."

"But she stopped, looked me over, sneered and started snarling. 'I hated to do it, but I felt I just had to hit her. So I swung my wooden axe and caught her square on the nose. No, I wasn't afraid. I was mad.'

"I guess I must have hit a nerve and stunned her. She made a funny noise, and fell on her stomach with a surprised look. I was a little surprised, too."

"I didn't have to hit her again. Some handlers 'came up with nets and chains. She was so dazed she could hardly wobble back to her cage."

The incident left no lasting ill will on either side.

"She never seemed to bear any grudge afterward," said Paul. "It happened so fast I don't think she even remembered who hit her."

Two ASPCA agents watch every performance of the circus to see that none of its 600 animals are abused.

Raymond Mulligan, who has had this job for a quarter century, says the circus cooperates fully with the society and dismisses grooms or handlers who mistreat animals.

Of all the thousands of animals over which he has watched, Mulligan's favorite is Harry, the world's only elephant herding horse. He is the mount of Arky Scott, superintendent of the 27 circus elephants.

"Elephants sometimes get to quarreling and fighting among themselves, and most horses are afraid to go near them," said Mulligan.

"But not Harry. He's been here 25 years, and so have I. Harry used to be a bareback horse, one of the steadiest they ever had. But now all he does is keep peace among the elephants."

"If they start fighting, he goes right in among them and breaks it up. And if they come at him, he doesn't back off. He gives them a nip. He'll really bite them if they don't behave."

"Harry has his own boxstall right by the elephants where he can keep an eye on them. His real name is Harold, and you know what he likes even better than sugar? Peanut butter and jelly sandwiches."

"But don't get the idea he's a sissy. Harry's all horse—and the elephant's boss. He gives Mulligan more respect for Harry than some human elephant handlers."

"The trouble we sometimes run into with elephant handlers," he said mildly, "is that they get an inferiority complex. They'd like to be wild animal trainers, but they aren't up to it."

"So they sometimes get rid of their frustration by punching the biggest thing they can find—which is an elephant."

But nobody picks on an elephant twice when Mulligan's there.

Big Paving Project Is Underway In Ayden

AYDEN STREET PROJECT—Workmen are shown as they work on paving one of the 11 blocks of streets in Ayden which are being surfaced. Workmen began yesterday morning on the paving project in Ayden, and according to Mayor Corey Stokes, are expected to finish the paving work by this afternoon. The town is paying one-third the cost of the paving, and the property owners the other two-thirds. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Mounting Polio Cases Reported

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Public Health Service reported today there have been 424 cases of infantile paralysis since April 3—14 per cent more than the same period last year. But at the present time, the service said, this rise cannot be taken as indicating there will be an abnormally high number of cases in 1954.

The total for the four-week period excluded Indiana for the week ended May 1, but otherwise covered the entire nation. The polio "disease year" starts in early April, normally the period of fewest cases.

"The first four weeks of the 'disease year' in 1953 were about 30 per cent higher than that for the same period of 1952," the Service said in its weekly summary, "but the number of cases in 1953 was more than 20,000 below the total in 1952."

It noted that polio cases begin to increase each year earlier in southern states than in the north. Florida experienced "unusually high incidence" for the four weeks ended May 1, but new cases decreased in the last week of the period.

Hawaii also reported "unusually high incidence," with 98 cases so far in 1954, or a rate of about 40 per 100,000 estimated population on an annual basis.

New Program Rivals Dragnet In Suspense

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The new Night Watch radio show tops Dragnet for realism in the cops-and-criminal department. It's the genuine thing—Listeners to Night Watch on CBS Monday nights will hear the actual nabbing of a criminal. The recording was made during an arrest by the Culver City, Calif., police.

Columbia's answer to Jack Webb is an enterprising young man named Donn Reed. A radio veteran, he dreamed up Night Watch in an effort to find something new in radio.

"I remember one day I came out of a radio conference feeling very depressed," he told me. "I said to another fellow that I was tired of rehearsing the same old things in radio. If only there was something new."

"That day I went over to the place where I play handball. Another person who plays there is Ron Perkins, a sergeant with the Culver City police. He had his uniform on, and I asked him what he had been doing lately. He told me about some of his cases, and they sounded fascinating. He invited me to come along with him some night."

Reed went in the prowl car one night and found a wealth of material. Perkins talked to Chief W. N. Hildebrande of the Culver City police about allowing Reed to record some cases. Permission was granted, and the project got under way.

"Our first problem was the recording equipment," reported Reed. "To get really professional quality meant using about 1,000 pounds of gear. Obviously that was impractical, since much of the time I had to race after police to get my recordings."

"We finally worked it down to a self-inclusive unit that weighs only 16 pounds. That makes me much more maneuverable. We carry an engineer with us, but he stays in the car. It wouldn't be right to ask him to accompany us."

Reed referred to the danger. It

Sentenced For Not Selling Dope

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Selling narcotics without a prescription is unlawful almost everywhere. But in California, under a new law it is also a felony to offer dope for sale and then deliver something else.

Conrado M. Fragoso was sentenced yesterday to serve six months in the county jail, reputedly the first person to be convicted under the new law.

Officers testified they paid Fragoso $10 for three bundles of "stuff" or "junk" and he gave them headache powders.

Boy Fascinated By Fire Engine

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Little Richard Roberts, 3, got his feet caught in the hollow of concrete blocks under a redwood picket fence behind his home yesterday. When the firemen arrived and used hammer and chisel to free him, he didn't cry—he just kept his eyes glued to the fire apparatus. His mother, Mrs. David Roberts, said: "What some kids won't do to see a fire engine!"

Claim 5 Agents Of U.S. Caught

TOKYO (AP)—Red China said today "five armed agents of the American side" were captured April 10 near Tashwa, a Red-garrisoned island off Korea's west coast.

The Peiping radio heard here said the men "admitted they were from the 18th District of Syngman Rhee's army intelligence department." That would, indicate the men were Koreans.

The Red radio quoted the men as saying they had been ordered to infiltrate and conduct hostile activities "on Fy Cho Peninsula."

Peiping said the men, armed with a machine gun, three rifles, grenades and 800 rounds of ammunition, were captured in a boat.

Available maps do not show either a Tashwa Island or Fy Cho Peninsula. A Taewha island is located about 30 miles south of Antung on the Korean-Manchurian border but it is doubtful that a small boat would be that far north.

It was believed more likely here that the island and peninsula referred to by Peiping is in the major Haeju Peninsula area, where the Reds previously claimed infiltrations by Allied agents.

High Russian General Visits U.S. Command

HERSFELD, Germany (AP)—Escorted by U. S. Air Force helicopters and jet fighters and a covey of military police jeeps, a high Soviet army officer crossed into West Germany today and headed for U. S. Army headquarters at Heidelberg.

The officer was believed to be Col. Gen. A. A. Grechko, commander in chief of Soviet armed forces in East Germany, en route to pay a courtesy call on Gen. William M. Hoge, commander of the U. S. Army in Europe.

Hoge paid a "formal courtesy visit" — lasting 15 minutes — to Grechko at his headquarters in East Berlin last November.

Two U. S. helicopters escorted the three big black Soviet limousines across the East-West border here. Shortly after, two American jet fighters joined the convoy. Six MP jeeps fell in line, fore and aft, as the party sped down the express highway toward Heidelberg.

U. S. Army and Air Force officials refused to say who was in the Russian party.

No Soviet officer of Grechko's status has ever visited U. S. forces in West Germany during the nine years of the occupation.

Since the Russians rarely do anything impulsive in their relations with the West, observers considered it particularly significant that the visit today coincided with the East-West meeting now on in Geneva.

No One Voted In Entire Precinct

School Closes In Student Protest

ROLLA, Mo. (AP)—More than 300 Rolla High School students walked out on their classes yesterday in protest over the dismissal of two teachers and the resignation of two more.

The school shut down. The Board of Education voted Monday night to dismiss Mrs. Mae Halley, art teacher, and C. A. Largent, diversified occupation teacher. The board also tabled the contracts of Mrs. Isabelle Estes, music teacher, and three others.

Mrs. Estes and her husband Harry thereupon announced their intention to resign from the school system.

The board gave no reason for its action.

T-H Revision Bill Still Has Trouble

By ROWLAND EVANS JR. WASHINGTON (AP)—Georgia's Sen. Russell said today he would vote to send the Taft-Hartley revision bill back to the labor committee.

Russell, sometimes considered an unofficial spokesman for Southern Democrats said in an interview:

"Denying a minority their rights in committee is no way to run a committee."

The Senate may vote tomorrow on a Democratic move to send the bill back to committee. If the move succeeds it may kill the measure for this session.

Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) of the Labor Committee told the Senate when Taft-Hartley revision debate opened Monday that committee Republicans "reluctantly agreed" to limit the bill to changes in the law specifically recommended by President Eisenhower.

Democrats have charged steamroller tactics were used to block their proposed amendments. The committee measure was reported out for debate along strict party lines 7-6. In the Senate as a whole the Democrats outnumber Republicans by one.

Russell, who is not a Labor Committee member, said no committee of congress should limit its dis-ussion of legislation "to whatever the President happens to recommend," he continued:

"We are not a co-equal branch of government if we can't consider matters beyond the President's recommendations."

The Senate agreed yesterday to limit debate to 90 minutes, starting tomorrow, on each amendment or motion to the committee bill. Debate on the bill itself will be limited to two hours, divided equally between those for and those against.

The motion to recommit is likely to provide the first test of Republican efforts to pass Eisenhower's Taft-Hartley revision program designed to reinforce the "basic objectives" of the present law.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader expressed confidence Republicans can defeat the move and predicted final passage of the bill next week. But Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz) said the vote would be "very close."

Scared Burglar Meekly Marches

SEVEN FOUNTAINS, Va. (AP)—Mrs. Mildred Davison, postmistress walked into the combination post-office and general store here and encountered a burglar. She flashed a beam on him from an electric flash and ordered him to march across the street to her home where her father took charge.

"I was aware from the moment I saw him that he was more frightened than I was," she said. "Besides with the light in his eyes he didn't know whether I had a gun."

Closer Control On Private Eyes

HARRISBURG (AP)—It's getting tougher to be a "private eye" in Pennsylvania.

It used to be under state law that anybody with an anti-crime bent could pay a $25 fee, get a $2,000 bond and take off after criminals.

Under a recent law, however, the would-be detective is required to put up $200 in fees and post a $10,000 bond. In addition he must supply his photographs and fingerprints.

Britain Moving Closer To Indochina Arena; Talks Set

LONDON (AP)—Britain has moved a step closer to the Indochina war arena. American and British sources say she has agreed to join Allied talks on united military action in the Far Eastern battlefield if the Geneva peace parley fails.

The report came as London newspapers voiced fears Britain would drift into a serious split with the United States over Allied action in Indochina. Moscow radio asserted that British refusal to join in "new aggressive plans" had "isolated" the United States at Geneva.

The American-proposed parley is expected to take place within the next three weeks in either Washington or Singapore. Informants said it would discuss plans for:

1. Underwriting any sort of political settlement in Indochina that might emerge from the Geneva parley.

2. Saving Indochina from being overrun by the Communist-led Vietminh if the peace talks fail.

Projected composition of the conference was not disclosed, but the United States, Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand and Canada at least are expected to send staff officers.

Commenting on the danger of an American-British rift, the Liberal News Chronicle declared:

"Unity requires shared readiness to negotiate. But at this moment any American statesman who expresses readiness to negotiate is howled down as an appeaser—before anyone knows what he is proposing to negotiate."

The Conservative Daily Mail said public opinion in either Washington or Singapore. Informants said it would discuss plans for:

"Policy, at least in Washington, seems to have been at the mercy of every prevailing current of opinion."

The independent Daily Express called it "simply mischievous" to say a split now exists.

The baby appeared to be in good condition. (AP Wirephoto)

"A plan to intervene in the Indochina war was never clearly defined," the Express declared, "nor was it probable that the American Congress, let alone Britain, would encourage it." U. S. administration officials have virtually ruled out any direct American intervention in Indochina unless Britain agrees to join as part of a coalition to protect Southeast Asia against Red conquest. Britain served notice she opposed such an alliance in advance of the Indochina negotiations with the Communists at Geneva.

Prime Minister Churchill also told Parliament his government opposes any united military action in Indochina while the Geneva talks are still on.

The British attitude spelled defeat for U. S. Secretary of State Dulles' hopes of confronting the Reds at Geneva with a united front committed to possible intervention in Indochina.

The American proposed parley of air, land and sea force chiefs is expected to seek to overcome some of these differences.

The Moscow broadcast heard here said the "complete and final defeat of colonialism" is shaping up in Asia and "the situation has developed far from what the U. S.

Would you trade a Penny for a Dollar?

You can if you use Natural Chilean Nitrate of Soda for your top-dressing and side-dressing needs. It costs a little more because it's worth more. But the difference in cost usually can be measured in pennies per acre, while the difference in value often amounts to dollars per acre.

Chilean "Bulldog" Soda gives you generous extra value. The nitrogen is 100 per cent nitrate. It's 100 per cent available (quick-acting); 100 per cent dependable. The minor elements make crops stronger, healthier. The sodium—26 pounds in every 100-pound sack—is a key to maximum returns on your entire fertilizer investment. It offsets the bad effects of acid-forming fertilizers...increases the efficiency of mixed fertilizers containing them. It releases "locked-up" potash in the soil...increases the availability and efficiency of soil phosphate...reduces potash, calcium and magnesium losses by leaching...develops larger, deeper root systems.

Sodium builds up the productivity of your land—more each year. It's an essential element for some crops...beneficial to most and necessary for maximum yields of many.

Pennies-per-acre difference in cost may mean dollars-per-acre difference in value to you. Chilean "Bulldog" Soda is the best fertilizer your money can buy. Use it for all of your top-dressing and side-dressing needs.

Motorcade, Radio And TV Talks Top Political Picture

RALEIGH (AP)—While U.S. Sen. Alton Lennon carried his campaign into Cabarrus County today, a 12-car motorcade set out from Wilmington to boost his candidacy in 23 counties.

Lennon's major opponent former Gov. W. Kerr Scott will deliver his first statewide radio address of the campaign tonight. His campaign manager, Terry Sanford, said Scott "will lay it on the line in this speech."

He added, "I don't think there will be any doubt in anyone's mind where the governor stands on everything—and that includes income tax returns."

The talk will originate in Charlotte at 6:30 over Station WBT. It will be re-broadcast over five other stations: WNCN, Asheville, 7:30; WPTT, Raleigh, 8:30; WGWR-FM, Asheville, 8:45; WBIG, Greensboro, 7:15; and WJSJ, Winston-Salem, 8:30.

Lennon plans to leave Charlotte by plane tonight for Washington to present tomorrow in Congress when revisions on the Taft-Hartley Law are scheduled to come up.

John C. Rodman, Lennon's campaign manager said the congressional Democratic leadership considered it "essential" that Lennon be on hand.

Lennon is scheduled to appear on a TV program at Charlotte Friday night. Whether he can get back in time for this is not known, Rodman said. The senator also is scheduled to speak in Charlotte at noon Saturday at the convention of the Accident and Health Underwriters Assn.

The Lennon campaign motorcade, formed by his New Hanover supporters, will tour 23 eastern counties today, tomorrow and Saturday. It is headed by Dan Cameron, mayor pro tem of Wilmington and Lennon's New Hanover campaign manager. Lennon will not be along for any of the tour.

Meanwhile, Alvin Wingfield Jr. of Charlotte a senatorial candidate, replied yesterday to the Young Democratic Club of the University of North Carolina concerning its failure to invite him to speak before the group. In a letter to J. Albert House, the club president, Wingfield said in effect the question of why he was not asked to speak "is a closed matter."

"I did not and do not care who I was not invited," he stated.

"As long as you don't want to invite me, as far as I am concerned it is entirely your own affair."

Lennon and Scott accepted invitations and spoke before the university YDC group.

In his letter to House, Wingfield said, "I expressed a willingness to speak to you if invited."

House wrote Wingfield for the year had been completed when he announced his candidacy. Referring to a newspaper report of a letter by Wingfield House said it stated, "You did not desire to appear on a YDC platform . . . and that you considered the YDC as dominated by 'Fair Deal Socialists.'"

In reply, Wingfield said he declined an invitation from Elmo Lamm of the Nash County YDC to speak at Spring Hope "solely because he neglected to tell me the date and because the three to five minutes he offered me . . . did not justify the expense of such a long trip out of my meager resources."

In his letter to House, Wingfield said that if elected he will "consider myself the senator of all the people of North Carolina, regardless of their party; and I do not propose to accept any help from the Democratic National Committee which would place me under any obligation to take orders on anything from that organization."

Spring's Return Delayed Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Return of balmy spring weather over the eastern half of the country appeared delayed again today as a small storm center remained over the northern Great Lakes.

There was more cool and wet weather in the Midwest and north eastern sections of the country. Snow flurries and below freezing temperatures were reported again early today over the northern Great Lakes and most of Michigan. There were light showers in Ohio, western New York and Pennsylvania. Another storm off the New England coast brought light rain and drizzle over Maine and New Hampshire.

Only other wet spots early today were the northern Rockies and the Plains states which reported light showers and scattered thunder storms. Temperatures generally were 8 to 15 degrees below normal over most of the eastern half of the country.

The below-freezing readings extended as far south as northern Illinois and over the eastern sections of the northern plains. Temperatures over most of the country were in the 40s and 50s but they were in the 60s over Texas and along the Gulf coast. Readings in the 70s were confined to southern Florida, along the Rio Grande and southern Arizona and New Mexico. It was hot yesterday in the far Southwest with both Thermal and Needles, Calif. reporting readings of 100.

Lowest mark early today was 23 above at Houghton, Mich., while it was 70 at Phoenix.

Guard Exercises Set For Summer

RALEIGH (AP)—More than 7,000 North Carolina National Guardsmen will take part in summer field exercises at Ft. McClellan, Ala., Ft. Bragg, and Camp Stewart, Ga.

In announcing this yesterday, State Adj. Gen. John Hall Manning urged employers to grant military leaves to their Guardsmen employees so they may engage in the field training.

The exercises will be held during June, July and August for different units, Manning said, and will climax 40 weeks of armory training for the Guardsmen.

The schedule is as follows: 252nd AAA Group and 130th AAA Battalion, Camp Stewart July 13-27; Fourth Corps Artillery, 378th Engineer Battalion and 3424th Ordnance Co., Ft. Bragg, Aug. 18-22; and 30th Infantry Division, Ft. McClellan Aug. 15-29.

Manning said Air National Guard units, with the exception of the 263rd Communications-Operations Squadron, will train at Travis Field, Savannah, Ga., June 11-27. The 263rd Communications-Operations Squadron will train at Robins Air Force Base, Marietta, Ga. July 11-25.

Drops Case In Narcotics Suit

CLEVELAND (AP)—The young woman handed the man 31 capsules containing a white powder and accepted $62 in return. Then the man, a federal narcotics agent, arrested her on charges of selling dope.

But Federal Judge Charles J. McNamee yesterday dismissed the charges against Miss Josephine Evans, 24. Laboratory tests showed the capsules she sold contained only milk sugar.

Miss Evans went free, and the agent is was out $62.

Denies Husband Shares In Dog

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Concert violinist Elliott Fisher's wife has countered him for divorce, declaring he has no community interest in Ricky, a 5-month-old Chihuahua puppy.

Mrs. Lisette Fisher, 22, alleged Ricky was a gift to her from her husband before their estrangement.

Fisher's divorce suit, filed earlier, listed the dog as community property along with $1,500 worth of jewelry and $600 worth of household effects.

Order Study Of Negro Admission

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP)—The North Carolina Medical Society wound up its 100th anniversary convention yesterday with the recommendation that a committee be appointed to study Negro membership.

Earlier in the four-day convention the House of Delegates, ruling body of the society, had voted against Negro membership. Yesterday, however, Dr. Joseph Elliott Sr., of Charlotte outgoing president, moved that the house instruct the new president, Dr. Zack Owens of Elizabeth City, to appoint a committee to study the question. The committee would report by next year's convention at Pinehurst.

Other final actions saw Dr. J. P. Rousseau of Winston-Salem named president-elect. Other new officers elected include Dr. George Paschal of Raleigh, first vice president, and Dr. Elias Falson of Charlotte, second vice president. James T. Barnes of Raleigh was named executive secretary.

Queen Reported In Good Health

LONDON (AP)—The British press assured its readers today that Queen Elizabeth II—although somewhat skinny—is in sound health as she nears the end of her long Commonwealth voyage.

Two papers said she lost only five pounds. Another speculated that she had been deliberately slimming.

The Daily Sketch threw some subjects into a tizzy yesterday by remarking that the young monarch had lost weight and "looks fine drawn and tired." It drove home the point with two pictures—one taken before the six-month royal tour began and the other Tuesday at Malta.

In the latter photograph the Queen looked almost angular.

The Daily Mirror reported from from Valletta, however, that at the royal ball last night Elizabeth "looked positively radiant."

"Since the start of her gigantic tour, it's true she lost five pounds in weight," the Mirror said. "And she had a little chill at Aden a few days ago which she has shaken off. But the Queen is not tired in any sense that can cause alarm."

The Daily Herald also estimated that Elizabeth had lost about five pounds, but said this "isn't surprising in view of the heat during her strenuous tour."

The Herald quoted a member of the royal entourage as declaring, "The Queen is feeling perfectly fit."

Did and Junior can celebrate Father's Day together if you fix them up with matching Western shirts.

Making a man's shirt may sound like a tough assignment, but it's simple, if you follow directions on today's standard patterns, which give full instructions for cutting, stitching and finishing.

Local sewing center experts suggest you make the shirts in plaid and solid-color denim, with solid color yoke, in the best tradition of the old West.

With the wide three-button cuffs, the buttoned pockets and the front closure, you'll find the buttonhole attachment on your sewing-machine a real time-saver. When cutting your pattern, mark with tailor's licks the position of the buttonholes. Then try various templates of your buttonhole on a scrap of fabric until you find the right size for the buttons you are using. For extra-firm buttonholes, let the attachment sew twice around the buttonhole area.

For a finishing touch, you can trim the collar edge with several rows of top-stitching, using mercerized thread and a longer stitch than usual.

Queen Reported In Good Health

LONDON (AP)—The British press assured its readers today that Queen Elizabeth II—although somewhat skinny—is in sound health as she nears the end of her long Commonwealth voyage.

Two papers said she lost only five pounds. Another speculated that she had been deliberately slimming.

The Daily Sketch threw some subjects into a tizzy yesterday by remarking that the young monarch had lost weight and "looks fine drawn and tired." It drove home the point with two pictures—one taken before the six-month royal tour began and the other Tuesday at Malta.

In the latter photograph the Queen looked almost angular.

The Daily Mirror reported from from Valletta, however, that at the royal ball last night Elizabeth "looked positively radiant."

"Since the start of her gigantic tour, it's true she lost five pounds in weight," the Mirror said. "And she had a little chill at Aden a few days ago which she has shaken off. But the Queen is not tired in any sense that can cause alarm."

The Daily Herald also estimated that Elizabeth had lost about five pounds, but said this "isn't surprising in view of the heat during her strenuous tour."

The Herald quoted a member of the royal entourage as declaring, "The Queen is feeling perfectly fit."

Says Men Should Cook And Sew

TIME-SAVER. Dr. Lillian Gilbreth, left, shows Anna Stanchek, Newark College of Engineering student, how bins save time and effort in assembling antennae.

AP News Service
MONTECALM, N.J.—It's time husbands started taking courses in cooking and sewing, so they can help out with the home jobs, says Dr. Lillian Moller Gilbreth, time-and-motion expert recently honored as the "world's greatest woman engineer."

Dr. Gilbreth, widely known as the mother in the best-selling book and movie "Cheaper by the Dozen," written by two of her 12 children, says husbands still have to be educated to the idea of careers for women. At 57, she is still active in her own career.

This sprightly old lady believes in coeducation in schools and Scouting, with boys and girls learning and working together, as a foundation for future cooperation in the home.

The successful career-marriage arrangement needs budgeting of time and energy as well as money, in the home.

Such budgeting long has paid off in industry, where Dr. Gilbreth and her late husband, Frank Gilbreth, first put it into operation after trying out their efficiency expert system in their home.

"It was my husband's idea," Dr. Gilbreth points out.

Frank Gilbreth was an engineer, trying out time and motion studies to increase production and efficiency in industry. His wife had been trained as a psychologist.

They worked together in the home and in their careers. When Gilbreth died in 1934, his widow continued their work. Today, she is called in frequently by government and industry as a consulting engineer to help with management problems.

She recently received the annual Washington award from the Western Society of Engineers. The first woman to whom it was ever given, Dr. Gilbreth was labeled "the world's greatest woman engineer" on the award dinner program.

Dr. Gilbreth suggests the family that wants to try this time and energy budgeting should:

Decide first their goals and just what they want out of life.

Make a survey of their assets—in time, energy and money.

Then decide what they want to spend each of these items for.

One big feature of budgeting time and energy is reassessing the household jobs you are now doing.

Farmville Board Given Report

FARMVILLE—The local Board of Commissioners was told that the budget for this fiscal year is in very good shape at its regular monthly meeting Tuesday night.

The commissioners were told that income for this year is running a little higher than anticipated.

The board also received a report stating that the purchase of land for a Negro cemetery had been completed and that the land is being cleared and put in order for use as a cemetery.

The commissioners had voted at an earlier meeting to purchase the land for the cemetery and to operate it municipally.

They also agreed to open the municipal swimming pool on May 30—the Sunday following the close of Farmville City Schools.

Twelve Mental Health Facts Are Under Scored

W.H. Brown, local chairman of the committee in charge of arranging for Mental Health Week observation, released 12 facts about mental illness this morning.

He said that everyone should be aware of these 12 facts when they read or hear anything regarding the observance of Mental Health Week this week.

The 12 facts: (1) At the present rate, one out of 12 children born each year will need to go to a mental hospital sometime during his life because of severe mental illness.

(2) At least nine million Americans—one in every 16—are suffering from a mental or emotional disorder.

(3) About 250,000 people will go to mental hospitals for the first time, this year.

(4) One out of every two patients going to a medical doctor is suffering from an illness which is tied up with mental or emotional disorder. The same is true for one out of every three patients who go to general hospitals.

(5) Mental illness has been costing us over a billion dollars a year in tax funds.

(6) The patients going to mental hospitals just this year for the first time will lose about $1,750,000,000 that they would have earned during the time they are sick.

(7) For each patient being treated for mental illness we are spending less than $4 per year on research to find new ways of prevention and treatment.

(8) Right now there are about 650,000 patients in mental hospitals. This is as many as there are in all other hospitals combined.

(9) More than 80 out of every 100 mental hospital patients are in hospitals run by the states.

(10) Most patients in state hospitals are being deprived of scientific treatment because the hospitals do not have enough trained staff and equipment. For example, insulin shock, which has been found to be successful with certain mental illness, is not being used in all four hospitals out of every ten for this very reason.

Three out of every four state mental hospitals are already caring for many more patients than they were built for—and many have waiting lists. The Federal government says at least 330,000 mental beds are needed.

(12) The average state mental hospital has only about six doctors for every ten it needs—three registered nurses for every ten it needs—two clinic psychologists for every ten it needs.

Items Purchased For Street Work

AYDEN—The Board of Commissioners completed the purchase of a tractor with a mower attachment for use by the street department.

At their regular monthly meeting Tuesday night the board received bids for the tractor and awarded the purchase to the lowest bidder.

The board members also declared the town election which was held recently official.

Robert Harris and Wayland McLawhorn were both re-elected to the Board of Commissioners in the election. They were the only commissioners who came up for reelection at this time. Harris was unopposed and Elmer Z. McLawhorn was running against Wayland McLawhorn.

The Ayden commissioners heard a delegation from a local cleaners protest the fact that outside cleaners are coming into Ayden and picking up laundry without being licensed by the town. The protest was referred to the police department.

The board also heard the police department report for the month, paid monthly bills and discussed routine matters.

Ambulance Stops After Fast Solo

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A runaway ambulance, its brakes useless, rolled more than 60 miles an hour down the main coast highway and came to a stop without injuring the driver or the three occupants.

Fire chief R.A. Jenkins said the ambulance even got a green light at one intersection. Unaware that the vehicle was out of control, the two patients thanked the driver for the fast ride.

The ambulance was towed to a garage for repairs to a ripped brake lining.

Told Worms Are All Mixed Up

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—A woman who wanted to know how to tell male angieworms from female angieworms wrote the Conservation Department. She explained that she raises angieworms to sell as fishing bait but wanted to keep the female worms "for brood stock."

A conservation official told her: "There's no way of telling them apart." Any angieworm may act as either male or female.

Israel, In Seventh Year, Opens Drive To Use Hebrew Language

By ERIC GOTTGREU
 JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (U)—The seventh year of Israel's independence will be proclaimed as "Hebrew Language Year." It starts today.

Though the revived tongue of the biblical Hebrews is the official language of modern Israel, the state leaders consider there are still too many persons who don't know it as well as they should.

So an appeal is to be directed to all having some knowledge of it to teach others. And a bill is to be presented in Parliament obliging local councils to set up additional Hebrew courses, imposing a special language tax if necessary to pay the teachers.

The aim in general is that every Jew in Israel, 20 or over, should have a vocabulary of at least 1,000 words of basic Hebrew. The younger ones have it anyhow.

It's a difficult language by Western standards. But the effort to learn it is expected from every citizen as a kind of civic duty.

A Jerusalem judge a few days ago decided an English-speaking woman who had an ax to grind with the income tax authorities but knew no Hebrew should pay 5 Israeli pounds ($14.05) instead of the 50 ($140.50) demanded. Then he added: "You can use the 45 for Hebrew lessons . . ."

Generally, old-timers speak Hebrew well enough. But even among them a group still has difficulty in reading and writing because of the Oriental characters and the general practice of printing without vowels. This double obstacle explains why there is room for daily newspapers here in English, French, German, Romanian and Yiddish—besides 11 in Hebrew. However, even the foreign language papers print a regular "Hebrew column for beginners."

For the children there is no Hebrew problem. Hebrew is the language of the toddlers in the kindergarten the bigger ones at school, the soldiers in the army. (In addition school-children learn a second language, English, and, in the higher grades, French or Arabic.)

The Histadrut (Trade Union) backs the publication of a Hebrew-printed daily with vowels. The state radio, which is practically all-Hebrew, gives lessons for beginners. There are Hebrew contents of thousands take private lessons.

On a still larger scale, the diffusion of Hebrew has been organized by the Ministry of Education together with the Jewish Agency of the Zionist organization. Throughout Israel seminars have been set up.

Those who cannot pay the tuition board and lodging fee for the regular course of five or six months may get a loan from the Jewish Agency. Others may attend one attached to a kibbutz, a collective farm settlement. There they work half a day in the fields, stables or shops for their keep and Hebrew lessons which they take the other half of the day.

Area Counts On Business Boom In Seaway Deal

By SAM DAWSON
 TOLEDO, Ohio (U)—The St. Lawrence seaway — when and if it shoots all the legal and political rapids and becomes an ocean freighter carrying reality — is counted upon today to stir a wave of activity along mid-America's waterfronts.

It would also be a swizzlestick stirring up many parts of the economy elsewhere.

Already under way along the Great Lakes are plans for port authorities with taxing powers, for harbor dredging and for rerouting of incoming and outgoing goods and farm products. Looming is a scramble among the states and cities to lure new industries.

Opponents of the plan to turn Great Lakes cities into fresh-water seaports have contended the seaway would injure many existing transportation systems give foreign businessmen a chance to land their goods more cheaply in the Midwest and undercut American manufacturers.

The seaway plan calls for a ship canal to eliminate the final bottleneck — a 115-mile stretch of the St. Lawrence between Ogdensburg, N. Y., and Montreal, Canada. It would take about five years to do and would then furnish a 77-foot-deep (at the shallowest) waterway 2,347 miles long from Duluth, Minn., at the farthest tip of Lake Superior, to the Atlantic Ocean. Its advocates say the majority of the world's freighters could use it.

Rivalry along the way will be keen.

Toledo says that, granted the port authority law it's asking of the Ohio State Legislature it plans to become the foremost western terminal. It contends it is the first lake port free of ice in the spring and the last to be closed in the fall. Also it argues that the long waterhaul from Toledo to Chicago may not be as economical as the short overland distance between the two cities. Toledo has ordered a survey of harbor possibilities.

Detroit is debating deepening its channel and building dock facilities for the larger freighters the seaway would admit.

Cleveland reports its export business last year came to 500 million dollars. Its businessmen talk confidently of doubling that — some even say trebling it — within a few years after the seaway is completed. They count on cheaper transportation rates giving Midwest manufacturers a sales advantage. They talk of the seaway "pulling" Pittsburgh closer to Cleveland and away from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore or Hampton Roads.

Milwaukee is credited by many of its lake port rivals with having been foresighted in developing its waterfront for the seaway's expected coming.

Minnesota grain traders point out that much of the spring wheat already goes either to Milwaukee or to Duluth and Superior for water transportation to the flour mills at Buffalo. Only grain for export would be affected by the seaway and they think much of it might continue to go down the Mississippi on barges.

Minnesota iron miners, who ship their ore down the lakes to the ports nearest the steel mills, fear the St. Lawrence Seaway would open a cheap way in for competing ore, to be coming soon from Labrador and Quebec — and even from Venezuela.

But the steel companies in Ohio and around Pittsburgh are eager for the Labrador ore. If they can't get it through the St. Lawrence, it might go by water to the Atlantic Seaboard steel mills — and attract more of them there and away from the Midwest.

Visit the ports on the Atlantic and Gulf seaboard (as this reporter recently did) and you'll find most of them, as well as the railroads that serve them, fearful of what the seaway would do to them, their foreign trade and their industries.

New Orleans and Houston shippers, however, think they'll retain most of their present business. They point out they're open while the Great Lakes rivals are closed by ice.

And, right now New Orleans is more interested in getting federal funds for a project to keep the Mississippi from returning to its ancient channel. If it did, New Orleans might be left high and dry, with Old Man River staying away from her door.

The Amazon River was named by a Spanish explorer after a battle with Indians in which a large number of Indian women took part, reminding the explorer of the legend of the Amazons, a warlike race of women.

Says Schizophrenics Can Be Drawn Back To Reality

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
 AP Science Reporter
 ST. LOUIS (U)—The sickest of all the mentally sick — schizophrenics—can be drawn back to reality over a bridge of words and action, a prominent psychiatrist reported today.

Dr. Frieda Fromm-Reichmann of Rockville, Md., told of new successes by psychiatric treatment that give more hope for saving hundreds of victims of this disease once regarded as hopeless. Insulin and electric shock treatments sometimes work. This is another and useful way to save them, said Dr. Fromm-Reichmann of the Chestnut Lodge Sanitarium. Schizophrenics, often called split personality, means escaping into an unreal world of the person's own making.

The same approach which helps other mental illnesses can be used to reach the schizophrenic, help him understand why he is sick, help him get well, Dr. Fromm-Reichmann told the American Psychiatric Assn.

She believes no matter how sick the schizophrenic seems to be, he still has some core of health, some contact with the real world. The psychiatrist can create a bridge of understanding with the patient and eventually help him get well. The psychiatrist becomes a part of the real world for which the sick mind can grope.

Dr. Fromm-Reichmann said schizophrenics are victims of set-up hostility which they can't handle. They withdraw into themselves, and actually are afraid usually of taking out their anger against themselves or against other persons.

She believes they are not really withdrawn from contact with the world but simply have tried to cut off all communication with it. Even patients in an apparent state of stupor are frequently keenly observing what is going on and can remember it. But they give no signs of knowing.

What the psychiatrist says or does therefore can influence the patient and start building the bridge of communication.

Joan Foster, Bride

By Alice Ross Colson

SYNOPSIS

After a long and ardent courtship, Joan Foster and Todd Hunter had set a date for their wedding. It will not be easy to live graciously on Todd's meager school-teacher salary, nor to share the man in New Jersey, with his frail father, the minister, and his gentle though possessive mother. But this simple beginning will mean living their lives together, and that is what they want most of all. Joan and her mother discuss nuptial plans with Joan's old classmate, Betty, who is already happily married and the mother of a lovely little girl. They decide upon a formal church wedding, with Todd's father officiating. There will be a reception and simple buffet tea later at the Foster home. The widowed Mrs. Foster and Todd's parents, too, are well pleased with this impending alliance.

CHAPTER XEN

JOAN woke early on the morning of her wedding, so early that the birds were just beginning to stir in the trees outside her window, and the stars were still faintly visible in the pale sky. From where she lay she could see the dawn break, and the rich glowing beauty of the eastern heavens as the sun rose seemed an augury to her. Not only this day but all the days ahead that she would share with Todd held a promise of splendor.

She could not sleep again. Her mind was too busy recollecting, in this moment of quiet, the whirling activity of the days and weeks that had passed. The hectic days of shopping, of putting into force, her many wedding plans.

Joan's mind went back again to everybody's arrival the day before yesterday—Thursday.

She and Todd had driven first to La Guardia airport to meet the plane on which Elaine and Don were due. How good it had been to see them both after such a long time of separation! Elaine, as young and lovely-looking as ever in spite of motherhood. And as smartly groomed as she had been at college. You would never guess she spent her days on a ranch in the wilds of Arizona and had two bouncing boys at home. Don (Joan had thought) seemed a little older, a little more—what was the word? Settled perhaps. The responsibility of getting his camp established had probably matured him. Joan had greeted Elaine with the warm, affectionate admiration she had always felt for her. "Elaine! Oh, darling! I'm so glad to see you! And how marvelous you look!" "Same to you, Joan. I'd never guess you were a knocked-down, dragged-out bride-to-be." "But I'm not! I made up my mind not to be like that. And I'm not. Everything's going on wheels." Joan had turned toward Don whose bright blue eyes were fixed on her in almost the way they used to be. Almost—but not quite. "Hello, Don."

"Hello, Joan." With a hand in each of theirs she had exclaimed happily. "It's wonderful—simply wonderful—to have you both here." "It's wonderful for us to be here," Don had replied. And then he and Todd had found each other and had grinned and exchanged affectionate thumps on the back and Don was saying, "Hi, Todd, you old super-annuated something-or-other. So you're going off the deep end at last."

"Couldn't get off Joan's hook." Don had wanted to show the snapshots of his two boys right away but Elaine had demurred. After all, she had said Joan and Todd might not be as interested as Don in their progeny. They had other matters of more importance on their minds.

"Nothing could be more important," Don had declared, and he had hauled the little pictures from his pocket anyway. "Great kids, aren't they? I'm telling you! And husky. Boy! Look at this fella—"

"Don, please!" "Let him alone, Elaine. We certainly are interested."

Their tongues had wagged fast and furiously all the way in to the hotel in New York where Pam and Tom Blakelee were awaiting them. And after that the conversation just went wild.

"Joan!" "Pam! How was your trip? Oh, hello, Tom! Hello!"

"Todd had said, 'Hi, you Blakelees! Meet the Bartons. Bartons—Blakelee!'"

"How's Paris, Pam?" "Oh, fine! Same as ever. But after two years away, this looks good."

"I was so afraid you might be held up somewhere."

"Yes in the bay with a fog or—"

"Or maybe in the customs with all the smuggling you've no doubt done."

"Nah—nah! Not us. We declared everything. Hey, Todd, any ideas about a job I might get?"

"Oh, Tom! Not now! Not yet!" "Okay. Okay. Just thought I'd

"Pam, the Bartons are part of the wedding group, too."

"Yes? Nice. I thought they might be. Joan, do you remember that little eating place—"

"Pam broke in. 'Elaine? Is that your name? Oh, now I place you! You're the one on the Arizona ranch.'"

"Right."

"Pamela and Elaine were exactly the same height, Joan had thought suddenly. They would look well coming down the aisle together."

"Did you get my dress, Joan?" Pamela had asked.

"Everything but your slippers. I hope you both brought white ones, as I wrote you."

"So did I. But white, Joan? I thought silver or gold—"

"No, Elaine. There's a little white design of velvety applique all over the lower half of your treat bouffant skirts, so I thought that with white slippers and lacy white mitts and pearls for jewelry—"

"Oh, I see. Sounds darling." "Dreamy, simply dreamy. Aqua did you say they were?" Pam had broken in.

Joan had nodded. "And Betty's is a deep pink. Betty," she had gone on to explain to Pamela, "is my matron of honor."

"Where is she? When are we going to see her?" Elaine was asking.

Apologizes For Fining Two Men

DETROIT (AP)—Harold Mikkelsen and Milton Santwire were arrested for loitering in an after-hours drinking place. The occasion was a membership party of the Civil Rights Congress, which is on the attorney general's list of subversive organizations.

They meekly pleaded guilty and accepted $10 fines and a year's probation. Later the two were revealed as FBI undercover agents when they were surprise witnesses at a trial of Red leaders.

Judge Frank G. Schemanske called the pair before him:

"This court owes you an apology," he said. "For what you did at that Communist trial the country owes you a vote of thanks."

Policy Board Of Steel Union Maps Negotiation

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Policy makers of the big CIO United Steelworkers open a two-day meeting today to draft final plans for the first nationwide labor negotiations of 1954.

The union's 170-man Wage Policy Committee gathered to map strategy and put finishing touches on contract demands to be made on the basic steel industry later this month.

Among the USW's announced objectives this year are a wage increase and improved pension and insurance benefits.

The policy committee said last fall the union would seek a guaranteed annual wage, but observers believe this point won't be pressed.

Bargaining will begin May 18 with U. S. Steel Corp., the nation's top steel producer and traditional leader of the industry. Other firms are expected to set dates for negotiations soon.

The USW sent out formal 60-day notices last week telling basic steel companies it wants to negotiate new contracts to replace pacts expiring June 30 and asking them to set dates for discussion of "wages, pensions, insurance and all conditions of employment."

In its bargaining with U. S. Steel and other basic producers, the USW will be representing some 600,000 workers. An additional 650,000 members will be affected, however, since the contract pattern worked out in these talks is expected to apply in negotiations later this year with fabricating and allied industries.

Last year the USW won an 8 1/2-cent hourly pay boost hiking average hourly rates of steelworkers to between $2.14 and $2.24.

Observers feel the USW will settle for less this year since the industry is in the midst of a business decline.

As for the chances of a strike, observers believe they are pretty slim.

Quicker Checks On Salk Vaccine

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A new test will make possible a quicker check on the effectiveness of the Salk polio vaccine.

Dr. Jonas E. Salk, who developed the vaccine and Dr. J. S. Younger, both of the University of Pittsburgh, explained the new test at a session yesterday of the Society of American Bacteriologists.

They said the test employs color changes to show whether the blood of an inoculated child has developed sufficient antibodies to kill live polio viruses.

Dr. Salk said the new testing techniques has already been made available to laboratories cooperating in the current nationwide field trials of his vaccine.

Briefly, the test consists of placing blood sample from a vaccinated child in a test tube with polio virus and other substances. The test tube is then placed in an incubator for seven days. If the mixture turns from red to yellow, it means the child, theoretically at least, has developed sufficient antibodies in his blood to kill the polio virus.

The test, says Dr. Salk, will help in determining the number of inoculations needed and the best spacing of the shots for maximum effect.

Only Silence Over Revolution Report

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Paraguay was blanketed under official silence today, but unofficial reports trickled out that army elements had staged a revolt against President Federico Chaves' regime. It was unclear who held control.

Government radio stations in Asuncion, the Paraguayan capital, remained off the air, but private sources gave varying accounts of the revolt which apparently broke out yesterday.

A private radio station said loyal government forces succeeded in quelling the revolt. It added that police chief L. Petit was killed in the fighting.

An account from Clorinda, on the Argentine side of the Paraguayan border across from Asuncion, said the insurgents held the capital. It said Chaves and his ministers had taken refuge in Asuncion's military academy after the rebels seized control of communications.

The Clorinda report said the rebels had set up a three-man government in the capital.

Other reports said several government leaders were killed in fighting yesterday, including Gen. Alfredo Stroesner, commander of Paraguay's armed forces.

These reports said a cavalry division, about 500 men, had sparked the revolt and that loyal troops and police had rallied to Chaves' defense.

Paraguay had enjoyed relative calm since 1950. There have been reports of harsh government measures against political opponents.

Wild Turkeys Rode In Taxicab

ATLANTA (AP)—High Park Atlanta Journal columnist, reported tersely that four wild turkeys were seen riding in a taxicab at 2 a.m. Charged with stretching the truth he dug out the facts.

Ed Dod, a cartoonist and naturalist, obtained the turkeys from the state conservation department for experiments on his farm. They were flown in and the man who brought them didn't have time to take them all the way, so he called Dodd.

Dodd, a practical type, told him, "Just put 'em in a taxi. They'll get here all right." And they did.

'Sliced' Bacteria Aids Science In Growth Study

By FRANK CAREY AP Science Reporter PITTSBURGH (AP)—Sliced bacteria, cut something like bologna, offer a new aid in the study of normal and cancerous growth, a Princeton University scientist said today.

Dr. George B. Chapman, describing the first successful preparation of germ slices thin and stable enough to allow real payoff study with an electron microscope, said the technique already has provided new information about the process of cell division, one of the basic mechanisms of all growth.

He told the Society of American Bacteriologists that bacteria only 1-25,000th of an inch around and only three times that long to start with, had been sliced lengthwise as thin as 1-250,000th of an inch.

The bacteria, imbedded in plastic, were attached to a rotating wheel which was brought to bear against a stationary knife. That's the reverse of most butchers' meat slicers, and while, in effect, the bacteria are sliced like bologna, the slicing is done lengthwise instead of crosswise.

Chapman said that studies of these slices with the electron microscope had disclosed such new information as this:

1. When a single-celled bacterium undergoes a kind of pinching-in process which eventually results in there being two germs instead of one, only a single layer of material is involved in the "partitioning" process. Formerly it was believed there were two such layers.

2. Separate particles of cellular substances are involved in the laying down of this "cross-wall" partition.

And the scientist declared such findings represent contributions towards better understanding of the basic nature of the growth process—a process he said holds the answers to such questions as "What makes a cell divide when it does divide and what makes some cells divide faster than others, as in cancer?"

And with the new technique, he added, "we hope to learn more about the bacterial nucleus (central core) so that ultimately there might be better means of attacking bacteria."

Jury Considering Kidnap Charges

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Six men and six women today deliberate the case of two former private detectives charged with kidnaping a San Francisco real estate broker.

If Harold Jackson, 52, and Joseph Lear, 48, are found guilty, they face possible sentences of death or life imprisonment without possibility of parole.

The two former private investigators are charged with abducting Leonard Moskowitz last January.

Moskowitz was rescued 61 hours later by alert police who spotted a man making a post-midnight telephone call from a street-corner telephone booth. No ransom was paid.

First $500,000, then $300,000 had been demanded. The telephoner was Lear, who led police to Moskowitz, who was guarded by Jackson in a rented house.

Jackson's defense was that there was no kidnaping—that Moskowitz, 36, dreamed it all up as a hoax to extort money from his father, Maurice Moskowitz.

Lear testified he was hired by Jackson as a private investigator, and that when he realized he was involved in a kidnaping he stayed with it in fear of his own life and those of his wife and stepson.

The jury got the case yesterday afternoon and deliberated until nearly midnight.

Under California's Little Lindbergh Law, the lightest possible sentence upon conviction is life imprisonment without possibility of parole. Conviction of kidnaping with bodily harm could mean the death sentence.

Pirates Defeat Guilford To Remain In Title Chase

Owen Pitches Victory As Bucs Win 9-1 Game

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina College's Pirates kept alive their slender hopes of winning the North State Conference's Eastern Division championship by defeating Guilford College 9-1 on the College Stadium diamond yesterday afternoon.

The Pirates rallied behind right-hander Clyde Owen for the victory. They pounded out 10 hits to back Owen who limited the Quakers to only four singles.

The victory was the first of the year for Owen and it marked only the second time this season that an Eastern Carolina pitcher has started and finished a contest. Jimmy Barnes was the other Buc pitcher to do it but he only went seven innings against High Point on April 2.

Control Trouble

Owen had trouble with his control yesterday and gave up eight bases on balls to the Quakers but he got errorless support from the Pirates plus the 10-hit batting attack. He got the decision from Guy Dowd, the Guilford hurler who went all the way in losing for the second time this season to the Pirates.

The Pirates jumped on Dowd almost as soon as they got a chance to bat. Cecil Heath started the action by dropping a single into left-centerfield that got away from centerfielder Roddy Redfeam. Heath went to second when Bill Thompson played the ball. Wilbur Thompson then went to the plate and proceeded to strike out but the third strike was dropped by Guilford's Dermont Jarrett.

After dropping the pitch, Jarrett attempted to run Thompson down but the fleet Pirate shortstop was well ahead in the race. Jarrett then threw to first but his toss to first baseman Arnold Leary was wild and rolled down the rightfield line. While everybody was trying to catch up with the ball, Thompson went to second and Heath scored. Thompson took third on an infield out and then scored on a single into leftfield by W. C. Sanderson.

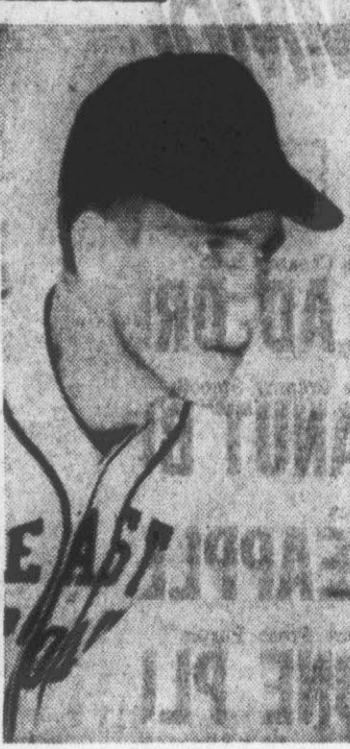

Dowd and Jarrett got out of the first inning without any further trouble but Jarrett had more trouble than that in the second inning. The Guilford pitcher was struck on the middle finger of his catching hand and was forced to retire from the game. Examination of the injury revealed a badly split and jammed fingernail and a cut on the finger. Jarrett will probably be out for the rest of the year.

Cline Injured

Even at that, Jarrett's luck was no worse than that of Bill Cline, the Pirates' top catcher. The sophomore ace was struck on the knee by a foul tip in the sixth inning and forced out of the game. The knee stiffened almost immediately and Cline will be out of action for an indefinite time and probably the remainder of the season. Cline has had trouble with the knee before but had been able to play all of this season without any special pain.

Only right-hander David Nance was able to get more than one hit off Dowd in the parade of players Coach Earl Smith sent into the contest. Nance got a pair of singles. Biggest hit of the day, however, came in the seventh inning when Bill Britt, relief man for Cline, drove a line drive into left-centerfield that got past the outfielders and rolled to the fence for a triple.

Owen had a no-hitter going until the fifth inning when Guilford's Chick Trafford dropped a Texas League single over the head of shortstop Thompson. After that,

CLYDE OWEN

Trafford came back for two more singles to wind up with three of Guilford's four hits. Jim Frye got the other, a single in the sixth.

Showdown time for the Pirates will come this weekend so far as the Eastern Division championship is concerned. They will meet Guilford tomorrow in Guilford and then travel to Elon Saturday for a doubleheader. The Bucs have an 8-4 record for the year and can the Elon for the championship by winning their four remaining contests.

No Investigation

NEW YORK (AP)—District Atty. Frank Hogan insisted today his office is not investigating fights allegedly fixed by a gambling syndicate.

Jimmy Cannon of the New York Post reported in his column yesterday that the district attorney and the State Athletic Commission were probing three suspect fights—two at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway and one at Madison Square Garden.

Hogan's office said: "This office is not and has not in the recent past conducted any investigation of so-called fixed fights."

A spokesman for the DA said a meeting had been held "some time ago" with Robert Christenberry, Commission chairman, but nothing was presented to warrant grand jury action.

Brooklyn Greatly Affected By Loss Of Roy Campanella

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK (AP)—For the past several years there has been a point of keen dispute whether the Brooklyn Dodgers could dominate the National League as they have done, or even stay with the pace, if they suddenly were without the services of their great catcher Roy Campanella.

Numberless times we have heard players and managers of rival clubs express the dogged opinion that without the slugging Negro backstop, the Dodgers would be "just another ball team." This always seemed a little extravagant, considering that the champs possess a number of other hitters of more than local renown, but that's what the boys said.

They said that you could have Duke Snider and Gil Hodges and Jackie Robinson and Carl Furillo, that any or all of them could hurt you at times, but that when the showdown came in an important game the man who murdered you most often was Campanella.

Not alone with his bat either. We've heard managers say that, except for Campanella's deft touch behind the plate—his calling of pitches and the confidence he inspires—Brooklyn's mixed assortment of pitchers might be shown up as the most unreliable group owned by any first division club in the league.

Well the time finally has come when we'll find out whether there was anything in all this talk, for Campanella will not be around for the next three or four weeks while an operation on his catching hand heals. If his absence does prove to be the blow that Brooklyn's opponents fondly hope it will, the National League race won't be recognizable by the time he returns.

This much already has been made abundantly clear: without Roy's explosive hitting the Dodgers do not look like the overwhelming favorites they were made in preseason polls. They have shown absolutely no signs of streaking or pulling away from the field while Campanella was struggling with a .167 batting average through his club's first 16 games.

They have managed to stick with the front runners because Snider, Hodges, Robinson and Junior Gilliam all have been chugging away at a terrific 390-plus clip while their pitching wobbled all over the place. They scarcely could be expected to sustain such an unnatural pace, and when the inevitable slumps do come now it is logical that Campanella's bat will be the more sorely missed.

These four local men will meet in the semi-final round of the Greenville Golf Championship to be held at the local Country Club this weekend. Semi-Final Round For Golf Championship On Weekend

Hinson Fans 18 In Devils' Win

The semi-final round of the Greenville Golf Championship will be played as a foursome at the local Country Club this weekend.

Si Moye, defending champion, will meet Reynolds May in one round of the semi-finals while Bill Allen will meet Molt Massey Jr. in the other division of the round. One round of 18 holes will be played Saturday at 1 p.m. and the other round Sunday at 2 p.m.

Moye, who won the championship in 1946 and 1953, defeated Don Conley Jr. and Ben Harrison to reach the semi-finals.

May, who is also a former club champion, is a well known athlete and is known as a great competitor.

Bill Allen, who has been Greenville champion several times, is known to his golfing friends as "Snip." He won the Fall Classic "Medal Play" tournament held here last year.

Molt Massey Jr. is a newcomer to tournament golf. He is a "long driver" and capable of giving Allen a very tough golf match, according to reports received today.

Tournament Highlights

Moye edged May out in last year's finals on the 34th hole.

Allen defeated Ercell Web last week on a "sudden death play-off" hole after they ended their match all even in the quarter-finals.

Massey's father, Dr. M. B. Massey, was Greenville's top golfer for several years and can still hold his own with the best of them.

The semi-finals also will be played in the first, second and third flights as well as the consolation flights of each.

A foursome was decided on for Saturday and Sunday to permit spectators to witness both semi-final matches at once. The public is cordially invited to attend the event.

Vic Seixas Rallies In Rome Tourney

ROME (AP)—Third-seeded Vic Seixas came from behind in a rain-stalled match today to beat Brazilian P. F. Guimaraes, 2-6, 6-2, 6-3, 6-1 in the Italian International Tennis Tournament.

When rain stopped the encounter yesterday, the second-ranking American star and last year's winner at Wimbledon was trailing the South American, 2-6, 3-2.

Seixas found his game overnight and breezed into the third round of the tourney with his old skill.

Lemon Escaping Jinx With Pitching Shows

By BEN PILEGAR
AP Sports Writer

Bob Lemon looked at his 4-0 record today, doublechecked the date, and began wondering if this is the season he escapes his May jinx.

The 33-year-old Cleveland right-hander busiest pitcher in the American League in 1952 and 1953, has won at least 20 games in five of the last six years. But May has been his hard-luck month.

Last night, in his first May appearance this season, he coasted to a 7-2 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics. It was his fifth start, his fourth complete game.

Two years ago he won 22 and lost 11 but he was beaten in two of his first four starts and really hit the skids when May came. He dropped five out of six in a bad spell that ran into June.

Last season he baffled Chicago with an opening-day one-hitter and ran up a 3-0 mark. Came May 1 and he lost his first game. He was beaten in his next three appearances, all in May. Once June arrived he found his form again and finished with a 21-15 record.

He has pitched considerably better than he did last night, but with a 4-0 lead after three innings he never was in serious trouble. He walked five and the A's reached him for nine hits including a home run by Vic Power. Dave Philley's three-run homer in the sixth clinched matters for the Indians.

The weather put less of a dent in yesterday's schedule than at any other time this week. Only one game—Detroit at Boston—was postponed.

Washington's Bob Porterfield, the American League's biggest winner last season, shaded Bob Keegan of the Chicago White Sox 1-0 for his first shutout. Baltimore's Bob Turley lost a two-hitter for the second time this year, 4-2 to the New York Yankees.

In the National League, Philadelphia made it two in a row over St. Louis 10-3; Milwaukee whipped Pittsburgh 4-1; Brooklyn whipped Chicago 7-0; and Sal Maglie of the New York Giants was beaten for the first time after winning four, 7-1 by Cincinnati.

The pitching duel at Washington was broken up in the eighth inning when Keegan, who had won three in a row, walked Roy Sievers with the bases loaded. Porterfield scattered four hits. Keegan gave up five.

Turley's wildness proved his downfall as Baltimore paid its first visit to Yankee Stadium. The fast-balling right-hander walked the bases full in the fifth watched one run come home on a sacrifice bunt by Eddie Lopat and then after another walk served up a fat pitch that Joe Collins blasted to deep left center for a three-run triple. The hit was the Yanks' first of the game. The victory was Lopat's fourth straight.

Robin Roberts came back 24 hours after being knocked out by the Cardinals and checked the Redbirds on seven hits. His mates solved five St. Louis pitchers for 13 safeties, including four singles by Earl Torgeson.

The Cubs had hit at least one home run in every game this spring until they met up with their old teammate Russ Meyer. The Brooklyn left-hander shut them out on seven hits for his 11th straight over the Chicagoans.

Eddie Mathews hit his first home run in 10 days and drove in another with a sacrifice fly in the first inning. Pittsburgh bunched three of its six hits for its only run off rookie Gene Conley in the fifth inning. The victory was the first in the majors for the 6-foot-8 right-hander.

Maglie couldn't fool the heavy hitting Redlegs, who banged his offerings for six extra-base blows, including consecutive homers by Gus Bell and Ted Kluszewski in the fourth. Fred Baczewski became the second Cincinnati pitcher to pitch a complete game this season.

Demaret Living High, Thank You

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
AP Newfeatures

Jimmy Demaret, that colorful man of golf, used to say: "I don't want to be a millionaire; I just want to live like one."

The way Jimmy's going, he's doing both.

Demaret's flashy clothes, good humor and showmanship have earned him the title of "golf's ambassador of good will."

Jimmy spends like a millionaire and he's building up a bank account to go with it.

Won Oil Stock

Last year Demaret captained an American golf team that played in the Lakes Cup in Australia. The tournament was sponsored by Capt. Bill Walkley, chairman of the board of an oil firm.

When the tournament was over Demaret told Walkley that he would take his prize money in oil stock. Capt. Walkley gave Demaret 2,600 shares.

The first time they tried, the firm struck oil in Australia.

But Demaret has other interests. He's in the real estate business with fellow golfer, Jack Burke, at Houston. They're building 300 homes. Some companies are making sports wear, which Jimmy gets royalties from. He's on the payroll of a golf manufacturing company. His latest venture is making television shorts on golf. He's using such fellows as Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, Ted Williams, Ben Hogan, Sam Snead and Lloyd Mangrum as guest stars. He also has written a book on golf.

Winning Since 1935

All in all, Demaret, now 43 and a pro golfer since 1935, is doing quite well, thank you.

For Once, McCarthy Tied Down To One Special Case

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—For the first time since the Republicans took office Sen. McCarthy is pinned down to one case and can't wander around, getting into the administration's hair from different directions.

McCarthy has thrived on the limelight which he manufactured by making one sensational charge after another over the past four years. He did not pause when his own Republicans began running the government a year ago.

Right now he's not free to skip from sensation to sensation. His time is pretty fully taken up with the Senate investigation into his fight with Army officials. He has to be at the morning and afternoon sessions and must consult with his staff afterwards on what's happened and what lies ahead.

He has repeatedly complained about being nailed down this way. These hearings, he has protested, are not only ridiculous but interfere with his much more important work of hunting Communists. He still gets into the headlines every day, but not as he did before. Before the hearings, he was able to get a headline all to himself with a single statement.

Now any statement he makes is only one among many made at the hearing.

It is questionable that this hear-

Frenchman Sails 14,500 Miles In Boat By Himself

Piloting a 1908 fishing boat equipped only with sails 40-year-old Rene Chabas has just completed a two-year voyage of 14,500 miles alone in the Mediterranean.

Chabas sailed his tiny boat, the 19-foot "Papillon" from Algiers in September, 1951. He lost his rudder in a violent storm soon afterwards. He narrowly missed death on that occasion. Another time he rode out a storm which sank three cargo vessels nearby.

He was becalmed for 18 days and menaced with dying of thirst as his fresh water supply ran out. A passing vessel saved him.

A voyage from Algiers to Cannes took 32 days. Steamboats make it in two.

ing can do the Republican party any good at the polls in this congressional election year. It is strictly a Republican family fight between McCarthy and his aides on one side and Secretary of the Army Stevens and his aides on the other.

In this public washing of dirty family linen someone is obviously lying. That was clear from the start. The Senate subcommittee making the investigation may never give a verdict on who it is. Meanwhile, the newspapers and the airwaves are studded with such words as these coming out of the hearing: lying, dishonest, blackmail, indecent, false and untrue. Many of the words are McCarthy's.

The four Republican members of the investigating committee made it plain yesterday they would like to bring the hearing to a speedy end. McCarthy said he was willing on terms to be set forth.

But the Army, which is part of the Eisenhower administration, bailed at those terms. And the three Democratic senators on the subcommittee said they want the full testimony taken. Unless somehow stopped, the inquiry may go on for weeks.

Even though the inquiry were stopped tomorrow, if McCarthy followed the pattern he set for himself there's no reason to think he wouldn't be back in the administration's hair in a hurry.

He didn't wait long after President Eisenhower took office last year. He opposed Eisenhower's nomination of Charles E. Bohlen as ambassador to Russia, even suggesting Bohlen be required to take a lie detector test.

He raked over the administration's overseas information service and its overseas libraries. He charged there was espionage at Ft. Monmouth N. J., which turned out to be the beginning of his fight with Stevens.

He aimed straight at Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles—at least, they took it that way for they answered him—with criticism of the administration's giving aid to countries trading with the Communists.

All this, McCarthy has said, is part of his determination to root out communism no matter where it is and no matter who is made unhappy by his efforts.

Before the hearing is over, McCarthy may be able to make Stevens and the Army look like dolts. By the same token the Army may make him look pretty bad.

No matter what the outcome, he's up to his neck in this fight. So long as he has to stick to that and take part in the inquiry, he won't have much time for anything else.

The members of the MacDowell Music Club and many others from here were in Greenville Wednesday night to see "Blossom Time." A large group went to the Wright auditorium the following evening to see Miss Frances Smith of Robersonville as Mizzi and Miss Delphis Rawls of this town dance in Franz Schubert's musical.

Revival services at the First Baptist Church in Robersonville began Sunday morning, May 2, and will continue through May 8. Rev. E. Gordon Conklin, pastor of Williamston Memorial Baptist Church, is the guest minister.

"It is my opinion that 25% RHOthane emulsion is the best control for tobacco hornworms that I have ever used."

J. W. THOMAS
Rt. 2, Snow Hill, N. C.

When hornworms show up—be ready for them. Kill them with RHOthane—the original TDE insecticide. That's what experienced tobacco growers do.

RHOthane offers you these important advantages:

1. Fast-acting control of hornworms at lower cost. RHOthane TDE has proved its value during many seasons of severe hornworm infestations. It's a recommended hornworm insecticide providing 3-way safety: to growers, crop handlers and smokers.
2. It is available as dust or spray—both are equally effective against hornworms.
3. It also controls the budworm and flea beetle.

Ask your dealer about RHOthane TDE. And get your descriptive folder, "Stop Hornworm, Budworm and Flea Beetle with RHOthane TDE."

Superstitions Defined As Sign Person Emotionally Immature

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"Knocking on wood" for luck is one of the most common of 80,000 superstitions, a psychiatrist said today, and here's why:

It can be a call on magic a way of handling anxiety or worry, a defense against envy, a sign that emotionally you're pretty immature.

This analysis was presented to the American Psychiatrist Assn. by Dr. Judd Marmor, University of California at Los Angeles.

Some people knock on wood very seriously, others do it with a wry smile, others say it while tapping their heads jokingly.

It apparently stems from a primitive belief of protective gods inside trees, Dr. Marmor said. Therefore touching wood when making any boasting statement would ward off evil consequences.

Touching or knocking on wood represents a fear of antagonizing some all-seeing higher authority. Along with this, we have many sayings—such as "Pride goeth before a fall"—indicating that we must be humble and submissive.

Dr. Marmor said we apparently assume that pride success or self-confidence will create envy or antagonism by some "authority." This apparently traces back to childish fears of offending such authorities as parents or brothers or sisters, and to the feeling you must be humble and compliant in order to be loved.

In our highly competitive society, "knocking on wood" takes on additional meanings, he said. We try to make light of our good fortunes to avoid envy by our fellows or rivals.

So we knock on wood to indicate we are just lucky, or say our health "is not bad" when it's really excellent, or say business is "fair" when it's quite good.

Knocking on wood can also be a call upon magical powers, or for protection against evil powers to help us out in the competition.

"Many people will discuss intimate aspects of their sex lives sooner than the details of their financial structure, particularly if there are any assets which might arouse envy."

Superstitions like this, he said, represent efforts to deal with anxiety or fearfulness, stemming from man's being aware he is helpless against some things which he doesn't know, or only dimly understands.

He said such superstitions can be expected to disappear not merely by advances in knowledge, but as humans resolve their unconscious feelings of helplessness and insecurity and hence no longer feel a need to depend upon magic.

Term Lean Hog Mortgage-Lifter

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—The porker that will lift the mortgage in the future will have plenty of lean meat under his hide says R.L. Copen, marketing specialist, University of Illinois farm marketing specialist. The demand is strictly for red meat without fat, he said.

The school's College of Agriculture is taking the lead in promoting the hog most in demand. Working with the Departments of Agriculture and Animal Science, Copen has organized marketing conferences at the stockyards for packer buyers, order buyers and commission salesmen. Country-wide meetings will be held for farmers to encourage production of meat-type hogs.

Town Manager's Car Was Stolen

GRIFTON—A car belonging to the town manager of Grifton was stolen by a town employee Monday morning as the town manager was preparing for the election that day.

The car belonged to Robert Wheeler who went to the town hall early Monday morning to set up the poll booths for the election. Wheeler said he left the car parked in front of the town hall about 6 o'clock. He said that when he went out about 6:15 a. m. it was gone.

The town clerk said that he reported the theft to the highway patrol and the car was picked up by them about 9:15. It had been taken by Benjamin Harper, Negro town employee.

He was charged with operating a vehicle with no license, driving while drunk and taking a vehicle without the owner's consent.

Harper was tried in Green County on the charges of no operator's license and driving drunk. He was given a six month's road sentence suspended on payment of court costs and a fine. He is to be tried in Pitt County on the third charge.

Wheeler's car received about $30 damage.

The first foreign salute to American sovereignty was fired in the Dutch colony of St. Eustatius in the West Indies in 1776.

Before steel pens were made, quills from swan, crow, eagle, owl, hawk, peacock and turkey feathers were used to make pens.

Happy Is The Day When Backache Goes Away

Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slow-down of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Miser bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 65 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's gives happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Grifton Pushing Sale Of Bonds

GRIFTON—The local Board of Commissioners instructed Town Manager Robert Wheeler to contact the Local Government Commission in regards selling bonds for a new well at their regular monthly meeting Tuesday night.

The bonds for the new well were voted recently by the citizens of Grifton and the commissioners want to know when the bonds can be sold so that the town can begin negotiations with contractors for the drilling of the well.

The board also received a report on the status of the paving program which was announced some time ago. It was noted that White Construction Company will begin paving operations in a few days.

The commissioners also paid routine bills and handled other minor business at Tuesday night's meeting.

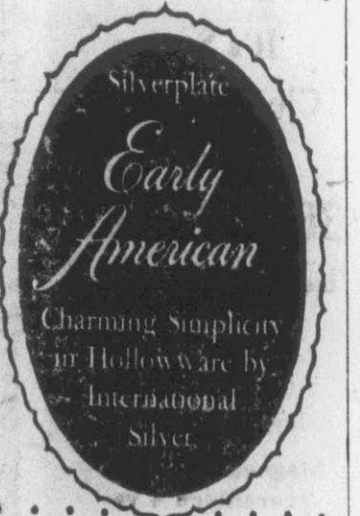

New 'Cities' For Japanese Gov't

TOKYO (AP)—All it takes to create a city in Japan is to sign up 30,000 people. It doesn't matter much where they come from. More than 97 new "cities" have sprung up recently. Since last December 943 towns and villages have been swallowed up.

Newly-born Tamana on southern Kyushu embraces two towns, 10 villages and assorted farms stretching over 13 miles.

The Japanese government is encouraging the move as a step toward greater efficiency and easier administration. Local politicians lost no time spreading the word.

Soon most of Japan's 87,000,000 people may be living in cities. But the cows, pigs, chickens and oxen will hardly notice the change.

To the Ten Million Owners of Hudson and Nash Automobiles... Kelvinator and Leonard Appliances

A Message From AMERICAN MOTORS

TODAY, the merger of the Hudson Motor Car Company and the Nash-Kelvinator Corporation has become an accomplished fact.

This news is of special significance to all who now own Hudson and Nash automobiles, Kelvinator and Leonard appliances—and who will own them in the future.

For the consolidation of these four respected names creates a new and powerful force in American industry... AMERICAN MOTORS, with assets of $350,000,000 and with aggregate yearly sales of $700,000,000.

As Divisions of AMERICAN MOTORS, each benefits by the greater strength of all; in financial resources, in facilities, in dealer organizations, and above all in the imaginative research that will build even greater engineering leadership for these time-honored names.

Moreover, AMERICAN MOTORS provides a network of plants for most efficient production—with its own complete appliance manufacturing facilities, body plants, foundries, forge shops... with its own engine, transmission and axle facilities—including its own plastic plant. These resources mean greater economies and finer products for the American public.

Likewise, AMERICAN MOTORS has plants in many foreign countries, contributing to world trade and the strength of the international economy.

Above all, AMERICAN MOTORS is pledged to continue leadership in value—in the fresh, new engineering concepts that set today's pattern of progress.

Hudson and Nash are great pioneers, great innovators in the Automotive Industry.

Hudson and Nash are the world's largest makers of unitized construction automobiles—the stronger, safer, better way to build a motor car—the one method recognized by domestic and foreign car builders alike as the most advanced of all body construction.

Hudson and Nash are responsible for today's trend towards compact cars to meet current driving needs—with the Jet and Rambler.

You see striking evidence of Hudson and Nash advanced automotive concepts in every car that bears their names.

At your Hudson dealer are cars that lead all others in stock-car performance... the Hudson Hornet and its running mate, the Wasp. And the Hudson Jet—an outstanding compact car at an economy price.

At your Nash dealer you will see the automobiles that set the pace for continental styling and ahead-of-time comfort and safety features—Ambassador, Statesman, Rambler. Here you will see America's lowest price sedan, station wagon, hard- and soft-top convertibles. And here you can find completely air conditioned cars at hundreds of dollars less than others so equipped. At your Nash dealer, too, is the Metropolitan—a totally new and different kind of automobile.

And in the American home, the names of Kelvinator, Leonard and ABC have pioneered a new way of living.

Today, at leading appliance dealers you will find Kelvinator, Leonard and ABC Products that lead in value. Kelvinator: refrigerators, electric ranges, home freezers, washers, dryers, ironers, room coolers, water heaters, garbage disposers, kitchen cabinets, ice cream cabinets and commercial refrigeration products. Leonard: refrigerators, electric ranges, home freezers. ABC: washers, dryers, ironers.

To Hudson, Nash, Kelvinator, Leonard and ABC Owners Past—Present and Future

You, more than anyone else, are entitled to know these facts—

The priceless identity of Hudson, Nash, Kelvinator and Leonard products will be preserved—as well as the sound policies which won your confidence. Your investment is secure—now and for the future.

Hudson dealers will continue to sell and service Hudson automobiles. Nash dealers will continue to sell and service Nash automobiles. Kelvinator and Leonard dealers will continue to sell and service Kelvinator and Leonard products.

And this announcement of AMERICAN MOTORS adds new value to every Hudson and Nash car on the road today—to every Kelvinator, Leonard and ABC appliance in the home.

A Promise for the Future

We pledge we will continue to improve our record of leadership at AMERICAN MOTORS, for we believe that our industries are still young... that the problems of motorizing the world are far from final solution... that new horizons for better living through electrical home appliances lie ahead... and that to reach our goal we must, of necessity, out-think, out-engineer and out-value our competitors.

This, then, is the driving force behind the merger of Hudson and Nash-Kelvinator. You will see it reflected in our plants, in our engineering laboratories, in our dealerships and in the products that bear our honored names.

Near-Automat In Bootleg Sales

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)-Police have found a new wrinkle in the bootleg whisky business in constitutionally dry Oklahoma. Scout car officers noticing "a large amount of foot traffic" entering and leaving a domino parlor got a search warrant and found a door with a sign reading "Please knock or ring the bell."

A slot in the door received money. The lower part had a sliding tray. You paid your money and the whisky was slipped out on the tray. The bootlegger could see the customer through a one-way glass. The officers got behind the door by showing the search warrant; found 6 1/2 pints of tax paid liquor.

Diplomats Lose Status; Charged Menacing Order

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—The Honduran government has lifted the diplomatic status of two Guatemalan consuls. It accused them of practices "contrary to the democratic form of government."

The action was linked with a strike of some 20,000 banana workers employed by the U. S.-owned United Fruit Co. The Honduran press has declared the wage strike was inspired by agents from Communist-tinted Guatemala, where thousands of acres of fruit company land has been expropriated.

A Foreign Ministry communique said the two Guatemalan officials were involved in practices outside normal consular tasks "detrimental to the public order menaced by the strike." They were identified as Jose Maria Aguilar Muniz, consul at Puerto Cortes, and Raul Perez, consul general at San Pedro Sula.

Van Fleet Given Seoul's Welcome

Smart, 60, drew six months on a disorderly conduct charge.

Crop Is Coming Along 'Pretty Good'

PLOWING TOBACCO—Wilbur Hart of Ayden was out early this morning plowing a field of tobacco which he set out a week ago yesterday. The tobacco, Hart said, "is coming along pretty good." Plowing is becoming a familiar scene in Pitt County's fields as farmers begin working their tobacco, cotton and corn crops already in the fields. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Pitt Man Fails To Win In Stray Mule Accident

RALEIGH (AP)—A Pitt County man failed to win a case against owners of a stray mule in the State Supreme Court yesterday.

"Just because a stray mule wanders onto the highway is no reason for a damage suit by the man whose car runs into it," the court said.

The court cast its lot with the Pitt County owners of a stray mule involved in a wreck on the bright, moonlit night of July 5, 1952.

Harold Johnson, the driver who struck it, had done the suing. Clifton Heath and G. K. Heath, the masters of the mule, did the defending. Yesterday the State's highest court sided with the Pitt County jury which had held that driver Johnson was in large part responsible for his own loss.

The evidence was that Johnson had been driving along at between 45 and 50 miles per hour on Highway 264 between Farmville and Greenville. It was 9 p.m.; the moon was shining brightly; it was a straight road for a mile and one-half; no other vehicle was approaching.

It was said that the Heath mule wandered onto the road. She "took her time walking across," the records showed, and when Johnson's car reached her she had only her hindquarters and rear feet on the pavement.

There was testimony that Johnson's headlights had picked up the animal as his car was from 100 to 150 yards away. Yet the plaintiff, apparently without cutting his speed, plowed into her.

There was, said the court in an opinion by Associate Justice R. Hunt Parker, plenty of room for Johnson to have turned to the left and missed the mule. But a collision ensued, and Johnson was knocked unconscious and hurt as his car went almost 100 feet beyond the point of impact. Johnson himself testified that he didn't see the mule and didn't even remember the collision. The first he knew was when he awoke in a hospital.

Of these facts, Justice Parker wrote thusly: "It is the duty of the driver of an automobile to keep a reasonably careful outlook in the direction of travel so as to avoid collision of animals, persons and vehicles on the highway. The plaintiff was operating a car on a straight public highway. It was a bright moonlight night. He was meeting no car; nothing obstructed his view. There was plenty of room for him to turn to the left and avoid the collision. . . . The plaintiff's evidence compels the inescapable conclusion that he was not looking in the direction of travel or, if looking, did not see the mule in time to turn to the left and avoid striking her.

"In either event, his own negligence, as a matter of law, proximately contributed to his injury, and the plaintiff has proved himself out of court."

North Carolina law says that a man cannot collect damages for negligence if there was contributory negligence on his own part, however slight the degree. As for the mule

Nurse Stays In Embattled City

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—This is the 168th day of encirclement and the 55th day of battle for the fortress of Dien Bien Phu—and the 40th day of entrapment for a brave French air force nurse.

Genevieve de Galard Terraube, 29, cannot get out of Dien Bien Phu until the shooting stops between the French and the Vietnamese. She flew into the fortress on the evening of March 27 to check on the needs of the wounded and had intended to fly back to Hanoi the following day.

But Vietnam mortars and artillery fire made it impossible for any plane to land or take off from battered Dien Bien Phu. Since then, the blue-eyed nurse has administered to the 800 wounded trapped in the underground shelters.

Last week she was made a knight of the Legion of Honor and last night fortress commander Brig. Gen. Christian de Castries awarded her the Medaille Militaire.

CORNING, N. Y. (AP)—The Corning Glass Works has on display at its museum what it says is the largest single piece of glass in the world.

The glass—a round, experimental casting of a mirror to be used in the Mt. Palomar, Calif. observatory telescope—is 10 feet in diameter, more than a foot thick and weighs 20 tons.

More than half the babies born in the United States in 1950 had fathers in their 20s.

Zsa Zsa Travels With Rubirosa, And It's Chilly

SHANNON, Ireland (AP)—Zsa Zsa Gabor started out for New York today with Porfirio Rubirosa but landed here complaining "I'm frozen." The dapper Dominican's private plane developed heater trouble en route from Paris.

Zsa Zsa, complaining of the chill, hopped off the plane bundled up in a full-length mink, blue jeans, two cardigan sweaters and white wool ankle socks.

When it appeared it would take some time to fix the plane, a converted B25, Zsa Zsa hurried off to the airport hotel to get some rest.

Rubirosa, who stood by silently while his blonde companion did the talking, wore gray slacks and a blue blazer.
