Democratic Party Demands Rise; Some Rap Allies Foreign Policy Shift Urged

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic demands for a change in America's foreign policy flared anew today in the wake of reports of free world setbacks in Europe and Asia.

Some minority party members criticized this country's allies. Other took swipes at the Eisenhower administration's handling of foreign affairs, which in turn was defended by Republican leaders.

As a result, the Florida senator said, this country should "seek new allies" among friendly Latin-American nations and other countries that have stoutly resisted communism.

Army Counsel Objects To Proposed Terms Hearing Short-Cut Tabled

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new move was launched today to trim down the McCarthy-Army hearings to public testimony by Secretary of the Army Stevens and Sen. McCarthy, but a decision was deferred when Army counsel objected.

Joseph N. Welch, counsel for the Army, contended the proposal would "do violence to justice and equity."

Welch asked that the Senate Investigations subcommittee publicly hear Roy M. Cohn and Francis P. Carr of McCarthy's staff, and John Adams, counselor to the Army, in addition to Stevens and McCarthy.

Utilities Board Meets Tuesday

Greenville Utilities Commissioners will hold their regular monthly meeting tomorrow night at 7:30 in the Superintendent's office in City Hall.

Neither Superintendents Martin Swartz nor L. P. Bloxam said they knew of any business other than routine slated for the monthly meeting.

It will be the first regular meeting since Bloxam came to Greenville as Swartz' replacement as Superintendent.

At-A-Glance Summary Of Hearing's Events

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here is an at-a-glance summary of the Senate Investigations subcommittee's public inquiry into the row between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and high Pentagon officials:

The basic charges—Secretary of the Army Stevens and Army Counselor John G. Adams have accused McCarthy and two subcommittee aides, Roy M. Cohn and Francis P. Carr, of using improper pressures to win favored treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine. Schine was a subcommittee consultant before being drafted last November.

McCarthy's probe, but said the senator's methods subjected the Army to "hammering headlines" giving an untrue picture of alleged subversion. He has said the FBI has praised the cooperation it has received from the Army. Stevens said McCarthy's aides subjected him to threats of an "exceedingly serious" nature in efforts to win favored treatment for Schine, and that he felt the implication was that the more he did for Schine, the easier McCarthy would be on the Army.

Most Legislative Candidates Oppose Secrecy

RALEIGH (AP)—Legislative candidates willing to express an opinion overwhelmingly favor repeal of the controversial "secrecy" law.

An Associated Press poll of 58 of 105 Senate candidates and 133 of 273 House candidates showed that 111 House candidates were in favor of repealing the law, 18 were undecided or noncommittal, and two were against repeal. Ballots were sent to 300 of the 378 candidates. Many candidates who previously had made known their stand were not polled.

Confederate Memorial Day Briefly Observed

Confederate Memorial Day was observed in Greenville today with a parade by the High School Band to the courthouse, where brief ceremonies were held.

George B. Singletary Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy sponsored the program. City School Sp. June H. Rose presided and spoke briefly.

The memorial exercises opened with an invocation by Rev. W. M. Howard. The High School Band played "Dixie. Betsy Karnak sang "Our Nameless Nation." (Jouvenet). Following a selection by the band, Nelson Blount recited "A Tribute" (Longfellow). Henrietta Swayne recited Ryan's "The Sword of Lee."

Reported Plot To Kill President Is Finally Discounted

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower didn't know it, but Secret Service agents spent a busy weekend investigating a reported threat to assassinate him.

he had been approached by two other men who asked him if he wanted to make $500. The police chief quoted his informant as saying the pair showed him a rifle with telescopic sights and told him they planned to shoot the President from a rooftop.

Indochina War Back In Fearful Waiting Phase French Await Blows

By JOHN RODEWICK SAIGON, Indochina (AP)—The seven-year Indochina war was back in the fearful waiting phase again today after the fall of Dien Bien Phu.

In the kingdom of Laos, south of the fallen fortress, there was uneasy speculation that a new invasion toward the Laotian royal capital of Luang Prabang might be high on the war plans of the Communist-led Vietminh.

French planes ranging over northern Indochina yesterday spotted scattered groups of rebel soldiers lining up bands of the captives for the long march over the jungled mountains to concentration camps in the North.

Advices Eisenhower To Straighten Out Ranks Truman Urges Leadership

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL WASHINGTON (AP)—Harry S. Truman urged President Eisenhower today to use vigorous action rather than pious phrases against "political assassins" and a GOP "lunatic fringe" which he said are destroying unity and the basis for a bipartisan foreign policy.

As an alternative to bipartisanship in foreign relations, Truman suggested that Eisenhower at least should provide a clear-cut foreign policy.

It is not made easy when one party officially brands the other as a betrayer in this very field.

FARMVILLE—Dedication ceremonies for Farmville's new public library will be held tomorrow morning at 10:30 a. m. in the Farmville Methodist Church.

The library was donated to the Town of Farmville by Miss Elizabeth Davis with the provision that the town would maintain the building and the library in accordance with accepted standards and regulations of the State Library Commission.

Zhukov Recalls Wartime Accord, Raps New Role

MOSCOW (AP)—Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov, commemorating the World War II victory in Europe, conceded yesterday that Britain and the United States played a heroic role in the war. But afterward, he charged, America turned toward a policy of aggression.

A lengthy article by the first deputy defense minister was displayed prominently in Pravda, the Communist party organ, to mark V-E day. The piece was considered an event because prominent officials seldom write for Soviet newspapers and such praise for the West is rare.

Zhukov paid particular tribute to President Eisenhower tonight at Greenville's Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, saying, "It was under their leadership that the United States and British forces repeatedly routed the German Fascist troops."

Buried A Week, Pet Cat Returns

WEYMOUTH, Mass. (AP)—A week ago Mrs. Butch, pet cat of Roland Tumleri, 7, inadvertently was covered with earth by a bulldozer during a road project.

Grandmothers Do Many Things, But One Makes Living As Clown

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Some grandmothers knit and others are Wall Street tycoons, but Rose Hanlon probably is the world's only grandmother who makes her living as a clown.

Mrs. Hanlon is a sweet-faced, motherly little woman who looks as if her most daring exploit would be trying out a new recipe for creamed chicken—until she gets into her clown suit. Then she's a jovial, roistering comic in white-face makeup and blinding giant polka dots who loves to make children laugh.

Among her most ardent fans when the circus makes its annual call at Madison Square Garden are her three grandchildren, Robert, Anita and Judy Patton, of Teaneck, N. J. The Patton youngsters delight in starting spectators by pointing at their favorite clown and shouting:

"Hi, Grandma!"

Mrs. Hanlon has been clowning with the circus for 10 years. Before that she sang and danced in various Broadway shows and worked out pantomime acts for fun with her husband, William Hanlon and his brother Bill, who used to be in vaudeville.

Now all three Hanlons make up one of Ringling Bros.' most popular clown acts—and often it's Mrs. Hanlon who wears the pants in the act and her husband who is made up as a woman.

Though she is the only woman clown in the Ringling lineup, Mrs. Hanlon doesn't think there's anything strange about her occupation. She says:

"It's show business. And I've been brought up in show business. The art of pantomime is pretty special, and I enjoy it. Most of all I like to see the happy faces of the kids in circus season. If I can make the kids laugh, then I think that's a pretty worthwhile business."

Women In The Church

Church World Service (representing most of the major Protestant denominations) and the National Lutheran Council are planning to have American citizens write "assurances" of jobs, homes, and transportation for about 90,000 of the 214,000 European refugees who are eligible for re-settlement in the U.S.A. under the Relief Act passed by the last Congress. Papers are now being prepared for the individual refugees and their families by the church agencies. Funds raised by American church women on "World Community Day" last November will partially support this undertaking.

"Would you like to see the devil under a microscope?" Miss Alice Strangway, an American missionary in Angola, West Africa, shows devils to her African patients. Many believe that evil spirits bring disease. Miss Strangway is a trained nutritionist and laboratory technician in the Chissamba Hospital. Sometimes she spends a whole year locating the cause of just one disease. "As the African people learn the causes of disease, their belief in witchcraft is gone forever," she says.

"We are convinced that the challenge to the Christian conception of family life springs from (1) a tendency to accept non-Christian or sub-Christian standards and attitudes in home and public life, and (2) a defective understanding of the implications of the Christian faith," said an all-India conference on the Christian home and family life recently held in Nagpur under church auspices. Among the social and economic factors that cause the disintegration of Christian home and of society are caste consciousness, the dowry system and the stranglehold of debt. . . . Proper adjustment of personal relationships — of partners in marriage and of the children in the family — is the secret of a happy marriage and home. . . . The question of planned parenthood has been discussed and the Conference is heartily in favor of it. . . . We would urge the churches and missions to promote wider interest and co-operation with the regional and central Christian home committees and to make the Christian home movement an integral part of the church's whole life and work. At a time when the old order is giving place to a new one, Christian homes have a special mission to fulfill in shaping the basic ideals of society in accordance with the mind of God."

May: Month For Looking At Local Taxes

May is the month when local government officials begin taking a long careful look at the fiscal condition of the locals which they govern.

Throughout Pitt County, municipal officials and county officials already are going over their income and expenditures for the current fiscal year and comparing them with the budgets which were set up for the fiscal year which ends June 30.

At the same time, they are casting an eye at prospects for financing their respective governments through the new fiscal year which begins July 1.

The citizens of the county are also watching with intense interest to see what is in the making in their local governments tax-wise and expenditure-wise for the coming year. The people do not know yet exactly what the county-wide revaluation program is going to do with the property tax evaluations. Most have the idea that the value set on their property for tax purposes will be higher under the new valuations than they have been in the past.

'For America' Revives 'America Firsters'

The strongly nationalistic traits of America's Midwest have again come into prominence with a new "For America" organization.

Initial announcements bearing on the group have already branded it a probable spokesman for reborn American Firsters, whom we thought laid to rest December 7, 1941.

Consider. One of the organization's co-chairmen is a former head of the America First committee; another promoter is Colonel Robert McCormick, widely-known evangelist for a national policy of ignoring ties of human affairs outside our own borders.

Under such guidance, is it any wonder this new organization bears demonstrable failure in terms of plausibility, wisdom and understanding of today's world?

The leadership of For America claims a combative interest against super-

For that reason, they are anxious to see what municipalities in Pitt County and the county government itself are going to do about local taxes.

In most sections of Pitt, taxes for schools this next fiscal year will be higher than during this year because of the increase in bonded indebtedness to be retired by the school districts. Certainly the people are anxious that the local government expenditures be kept at a level which will afford the necessary services in keeping with the needs. Yet they are also anxious that the tax bill issued by the local governments not increase.

The people of Pitt County are more dollar-conscious now than they were a year ago; and well they should be.

It behooves local officials in their planning for the new fiscal year to keep the tax bill free from frills and fancy trimmings in order to assure the taxpayers they will get the most value possible from every dollar spent by local governments.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
WHAT IS MOST PRECIOUS?

Last night a house burned down in our town. It was an old, rambling wooden building which had been converted into several apartments. The people on the third floor—three adults and a child—got out all right, even though they had to climb out a window and on to a porch roof.

But on the second floor, a woman who had come safely down the stairs remembered that she had left some money in her apartment. Back she went for it. And there they found her in the morning, when the fire was over, with the remains of the money still clutched in her dead hands.

If this grim tale were not true, if I had not talked with the firemen and police who were present when, hours later, the smoking, steaming timbers cooled down enough for them to enter—this story would seem like a parable made up to illustrate the love of money. And even though it is true, it is still a parable, a shocking illustration of a tragic misdeed.

Everyone gives his life for something. Most people give their lives, not dramatically among the flames, but by spending them bit by bit, day after day and year after year. How are you spending yours? For something worthwhile, or for a handful of ashes?

Commercial Airlines Ready

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower's "new look" at commercial aviation's map and costs threatens the dominant position which several giant airlines have built up through 20 years of Roosevelt-Truman favoritism. And none regard themselves more menaced by a proposed reorganization than Juan T. Trippe and Eddie Rickenbacker, who head Pan American World Airways and Eastern Air Lines, respectively.

Although these firms enjoy powerful political and legal support at Washington, including present and former Cabinet members and their law firms, Eisenhower has full nonpartisan support in his latest moves in the aviation controversy. In seeking a less expensive, less monopolistic and more efficient domestic and world system, he has the backing of the Supreme Court, the Department of Justice, the Civil Aeronautics Board and many members of Congress.

POLITICAL FRIENDSHIP, LOBBYING—Their survey of commercial aviation development since Lindbergh's 1927 flight warrants the belief that the existing structure was built and expanded on the basis of political friendship and lobbying rather than concern for the national interest.

In urging a reduction of air line subsidies totaling more than $70,000,000 annually, Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts declares that the billion paid out since D-Day has made only an "intangible contribution" to the country's defense. Only 10 per cent of the subsidized air fleet would have immediate military importance in event of war. The Supreme Court recently ordered a restudy and revision of these payments.

Pan Am and its subsidiary, Panagra, receive more than 50 per cent of these annual handouts, approximately $38,500,000 in 1953 and 1952. Pan Am's charge per ton mile of mail is $2.70, while Panagra's is $6.74. The rate for domestic carriers is 46 cents a mile. The domestic lines, of course, do not serve cocktails and champagne on the house.

STARTLING DEVELOPMENTS—Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. first gave meaning to the "new look" when he started an antitrust suit against Pan Am and Panagra after action had been stalled for years. He charged them with monopolizing air transportation between the United States and South internationalism and communism . . . contradictory to a remarkable extent, because the frontline of battle against communism is far from our own shores and requiring the most inspired spirit of internationalism to attain victory, or at least survival of individual freedoms among as many peoples as possible.

Another aspiration of For America is a realignment of political party membership to put lawmakers of similar attitudes together. In other words, Republicans and Democrats of "liberal" persuasion in one basket; Republicans and Democrats of "conservative" outlook in another.

This is even deeper water than it first appears. For while such realignment has obvious elements of simplification in the voters' choice, it also conceivably could result in putting all issues on a black and white basis . . . difficult, next-to-impossible to compromise and probably resulting in the strictest kind of one-party control, coupled with a bitterness engendered by sharply-defined differences.

So the prospect of such realigning deserves more than casual consideration. Contradictory elements within political parties do make for moderation within the actual framework of government, just as they sometimes do bring about party weakness.

In the end, all that Americans want of their elected spokesmen is honesty, efficiency, far-sighted policy-making and close reflection of the majority viewpoint.

We do not see how "For America" can further these aims on the basis of its announced intentions. All that we can see at present is a new organization for deliberate propagandizing of ideas.

Somehow, that rubs us the wrong way.

More Food Surplus?

By ELMER ROESSNER

If America gets reasonably good growing weather this year, the pile-up of food surpluses will become an enormous burden on the government, the taxpayers and the farmers themselves.

On February 28 of this year, the government held, or had granted loans against, wheat sufficient to supply the nation for 18 months at recent consumption rates, according to calculations by the National Industrial Conference Board. In addition, there is more in process, in elevators and held on farms.

The wheat held by or pledged to the government on that date totaled 914,707,000 bushels, compared with 497,868,000 bushels a year earlier. Wheat acreage has been cut back this year and drought and dust storms in the Southwest and Central Great Plains have reduced crop prospects somewhat. But unless weather for the rest of the season is far worse than normal, it looks as if the mountain of grain will pile higher.

Other products held by or pledged to the government are also high. On February 28, they included 8,364,000 bales of upland cotton, compared with 2,064,000 a year earlier; 517,478,000 pounds of dried milk, compared with 78,749,000; 647,320,000 pounds of tobacco compared with 587,247,000; 443,661,000 pounds of peanuts, compared with 203,999,000; 762,745,000 bushels of corn, compared with 181,580,000; 124,370,000 pounds of wool compared with 89,433,000, and 306,949,000 pounds of butter compared with 63,573,000.

Acres planted to cotton and corn, as well as wheat, has been restricted by Federal action, but most of this land will be planted to other crops, mainly soybeans, flaxseed, oats, barley, grain sorghums and rice.

The cost of supporting many of these crops at parity will be a burden on taxpayers, but the task of caring for them may be even more troublesome.

"Agriculture may be faced with its most serious storage problem in history," the National City Bank observes. "Even last year storage facilities were stretched to the limit, and in some areas price support temporarily was permitted on grain piled on the ground or in structures normally considered unfit for storage. Another emergency measure was the use of 123 merchant ships of the reserve fleet to store wheat."

Congress granted accelerated amortization on new warehouse facilities and the Department of Agriculture is lending money for on-farm facilities, but it is doubtful whether much will be completed in time for this year's crops. The results are sure to be worse, paid for by the taxpayers; further drops in unsupported prices and even some of those with parity protection, and continued wrangling in Congress.

SHOE SALES LAG. Shoe manufacturers were cheered by activity at the Popular Price Shoe Show of America in New York this week. Attendance was about 20 per cent higher than a year ago and buying was fairly active. Manufacturers said many dealers had allowed inventories to sag to a point at which a build-up was necessary.

Shoe production has been running about 7 per cent under last year and sales have been lagging 3 per cent industry spokesmen said. However, John E.F. Foote, president of the New England Shoe & Leather Association, and David W. Herrmann, president of the National Association of Shoe Chain Stores, sponsors of the show, predicted a rise in both manufacturing and sales in the remainder of the year.

Wall Street And Today's Foreign Affairs Headaches

By ROGER W. BABSON

NEW YORK CITY. The newspapers are discussing Geneva, London, and Paris in relation to Indo-China. It is interesting to note what the leading columnists and the radio-television commentators have to say. But let me pass along the conclusions of a short, narrow alley in New York City—called "Wall Street." This little street goes haywire sometimes—but not often.

PRESENT WALL STREET PRICES

We cannot go by prices alone when the newspapers headline the financial news: "HIGHEST BOND PRICES OF THE YEAR"; or, "HIGHEST STOCK PRICES SINCE 1929"; or, "COMMODITIES CONTINUE TO ADVANCE." For many investors have stocks and bonds which still show them a loss; while some farmers and manufacturers are selling their products below cost. Why this inconsistency?

As I have said before, the high stock prices are caused primarily by the thousands of Mutual Trust salesmen who are selling their Funds' shares all over the country. The money received for these Investment Trust stocks which you buy goes into securities selected by the Trusts' managers. Most of this money is placed in a few "blue-chip" nationally known stocks, perhaps in only 65 stocks selected from about 1,500 listed on the New York Stock Exchange. These 65 are used by the newspapers as the Dow-Jones stocks. What is said about these is true—they are very high. The rapidly growing Pension Funds are also causing present high prices for these 65 popular Wall Street stocks, even though many other stocks are going down.

ANOTHER REASON FOR HIGH PRICES

There, however, is another reason for high prices. Prices are high because Wall Street thinks that we are to direct a "shooting war" against the Chinese and Already we are supplying the Indo-China patriots and French with airplanes, guns, shells, etc., the same as the Chinese are supplying the Communists of Indo-China with war material without involving Russia. Our Defense Department argues that, as a last resort, we could also supply the Indo-China army with atomic bombs, without involving Russia, or without starting World War III.

Neither Eisenhower nor Wall Street want a World War III or a long Indo-China war. Both dread the use of Atomic bombs by either the United States or Russia against the other. But one wants our foot soldiers involved in another "Korea" fought with our troops. Hence, I believe that we will get the soldiers of Formosa, Korea, the Philippines, Australia, and other bordering nations—directly interested—to do the fighting while we supply the arms.

WALL STREET BELIEVES THIS POSSIBLE

If so, it would cause commodity prices to strengthen. It would increase employment, and it should result in a Republican Congressional victory this coming November. Under such conditions, Eisenhower could not balance the budget, but does Wall Street really want it balanced? Hence, notwithstanding the very high prices at which the 65 Dow-Jones stocks are now selling, Wall Street is bullish today.

I, therefore, make three forecasts:

(1) That Mr. Eisenhower will not ask Congress for permission to send foot soldiers into Indo-China, at least before the November elections.

(2) That the talk of using Atomic bombs may so buck up the French and so scare the Chinese that they will all quit.

(3) That, instead of such a negotiated Peace making the market go up, as Peace should, Wall Street may see its pet 30 Dow-Jones Industrials go down before 1954 ends!

Highway Signs Expensive, But Help Encourage Travel

By LYNN NISBET

SIGNS — What does it cost the taxpayers in North Carolina for the highway commission to erect and maintain the multiplied thousands of signs along the public roads and the center-lining strips of white and yellow for guidance of traffic?

The exact figures are available, because the State departments have to keep itemized records of every dime they spend. When an argument started the other day among a group of folks about the cost of these signs, your reporter promised to get the figures. The departmental accountants said it would require several hours work for two or three people to assemble the data, and participants of the discussion agreed that would largely be a waste of time and energy.

When such items aggregate well over a million dollars there seems no point in spending public money to pin them down to cents just for the sake of settling a friendly argument. Suffice it to say here that the official highway signs and center lining cost the State between a million and a quarter and a million and a half dollars a year.

If that seems an unreasonable figure just watch for signs on your next trip across the State. One party did that on a recent trip over US-64 and NC-49 between Raleigh and Charlotte. In the space of one mile at Ramseur, from the first warning of the intersection of US-64 with NC-49 to the Deep River bridge, were counted 97 signs. The signs told all about the direction and distance to Coleridge, Frankville and Liberty, as well as how to get to the business district of Ramseur, the name of Deep River and the connections with country roads, the legal rate of speed and the unlawfulness of passing standing school buses and crossing yellow lines, along with notice of speed zones. It was estimated that the cost of the individual signs ranged from one buck to $10, with maybe a weighted average of $3 apiece.

EXPENSIVE Admittedly that particular mile of highway is not typical. Neither is it unique as to concentration of roadside signs. Probably the one mile section of highway just west of the Cape Fear bridges near Wilmore, noting highway US-74 and 76, NC-130 and a flock of historic markers, along with speed zone and side-road directional signs, would take the prize.

The point is that these signs, which are accepted as a matter of course by the public—which also demands more signs—do not just happen. They must be paid for and the paying runs into seven figures with some big numerals.

It is recalled that three or four years ago a highway commissioner came up with the very laudable idea that every county road should be named or numbered and be clearly identified by a sign board. Another commissioner thought every school house and church should be identified by appropriate highway signs. When they were advised that such markings would cut into their division maintenance funds to the tune of about $25,000 for each project, they still thought it was a good idea but maybe one that could be deferred for awhile. Five to seven dollars for one sign is not much in a multi-million dollar highway budget, and between five and seven dollars is what it cost to mark one church or one school.

Multiply that $5-$7 by the number of school houses and churches and the result will be high up in the six figure column; or around a quarter million dollars. What the highway commissioners have to decide is the relative value of the requested signs as compared with 10 miles of black top surfacing or 50 miles of all-weather stabilization of public roads. Up to now the commission has decided mostly in favor of roads rather than signs.

LANDSCAPING — Other relatively expensive items in the overall highway budget are landscaping and maintenance of roadside picnic tables and small parks. These operations are directly related to the much bigger item of right of way acquisition, and frequently involve co-operation (or lack of it) on part of local governmental authorities in zoning regulations. They involve, also, co-operation on part of the Board of Conservation and Development and the Wildlife Resources Commission.

A local news story in the Sanford Herald the other day told about activities of the wildlife and fisheries folks in developing a small area near the Avent Ferry bridge across Deep River. One of the main reasons for secrecy with respect to exact location of proposed roads and bridges is the desire of the highway people to obtain options on or to purchase adjacent lands in order to maintain control over its development, before the present owners realize they have something the State "must" have at any price.

Dividends from roadside landscaping, like those from informational and warning signs, are indirect. Top officials in the highway department think they are important. North Carolina highways are built and maintained from proceeds of "use taxes" collected at gasoline stations and sale of license plates rather than at toll gates. The more folks who use the roads and the more miles they travel is reflected in more dollars for further highway improvement.

If the roadside signs and center lining and landscaping and little parks do eat into highway funds to the extent of a couple million dollars or more, if they serve to encourage travel and gasoline tax "tolls" sufficiently to show a profit on the investment, it is money well spent. The main thing to remember is that signs and tables do not come for free.

Woman Runs Fleet Of Taxicabs Worth Noting

By RICHARD J. SINNOTT

BOSTON — When there's an appointment to keep or a train to meet, Emily Rockett never has to worry whether she can get a taxi. She owns a fleet of 90 taxicabs.

Emily has been president of the Boston Cab Co. since 1943. Her father died when she was 23 and Emily inherited the business. Employees of the company, many of them 25-year veterans, took a wait-and-see attitude when one rainy, dismal morning the pretty brunet walked through the Beacon Street doors into the executive offices.

"I didn't know a thing about the taxi business," Emily admits. "My only previous experience with cabs was as a passenger. I had majored in government at Radcliffe and in business at Simmons. Then I spent a year as a social worker. But this was a different kind of business. My father had pioneered one cab into a cab company and it was up to me to keep it going."

Jolted into a world of carburetors, generators and clicking meters, Emily took what she terms a "stop, look and always listen" approach.

"World War II was still on," Emily recalls, "but I began to catalog ideas on how to improve the business, hoping someday I'd be able to put them into practice."

After the war, the two-way radio made its debut in Boston taxicabs. Emily was the first to install it. Her father had always stressed courtesy and reliability as the chief commodities among his drivers, with the result many of his regular customers were women. "But as word filtered through Boston that I was now heading the company," Miss Roberts says, "our drivers began to report that even more than the usual number of women were hiring our cabs."

"It seemed to me a compliment . . . women justifying their faith in a woman. And it was the first real indication I had that my career as a cab company owner no longer was in doubt."

Next in Emily's management policy was a program to cut down highway accidents. It coupled a slogan campaign with a prize award system for accident-free records.

Does she employ women cab drivers? No.

"The law prohibits women from driving cabs after sundown," Emily explains, "and our veteran drivers' seniority takes care of all the day jobs."

Even if jobs were available, I don't think a woman's place is in the driver's seat. The cab driver's seat, that is," she quickly adds.

"However, I think women drivers are just as good and just as careful as the male motorist. But perhaps I'm prejudiced—I love to drive my own car."

Ten years after she took over the business, Emily today owns more cabs than any woman in the country.

Other accomplishments: In 1946 she was the first woman ever to gain entry to the Boston Chamber of Commerce. The same year she was chosen radio chairman of the American Taxicab Assn. and spearheaded a drive to have the Federal Communications Commission assign permanent frequencies to cab owners.

In 1949 the association chose Emily its president, and last year it named her its "Woman of the Year."

Worth Noting

Way back in 1837 this country underwent its first major depression. Many demanded that a program of heavy deferral spending be adopted. That led President Van Buren to make some observations that are as timely now as they were then.

He said: "All communities are apt to look to the government too much. This ought not to be. The framers of our Constitution . . . wisely suggested that the less government interferes with private pursuits the better for general prosperity."

"It is not the government's legitimate object to make men rich or to repair, by direct grants of money or legislation, losses not incurred in the public service."

"What's an 'outboard' price?" the Old Promoter demanded as he barged into the office today.

"Well," we began, "an outboard price is, well — how about a cigar?"

"The old fellow took it and said, 'Go ahead!'"

"I know where you can get a fine outboard motor for $99," we said.

"I said outboard price, not outboard motor," he countered.

"Oh!" we exclaimed. "Yeah—outboard price! Well —"

"Look son," the Old Promoter said, "an outboard price is a price quoted without taxes, insurance, carrying charges, guarantees and other extras. It's usually used to lure people into the shop, and it is only after they have agreed to buy that they are gaffed—"

"Harpooned for the full price. Like I was about to say, son, you have to know the language to talk business these days. Let's you and me go back to college — if we can find one that teaches it."

Let Thermometer Be Clothes Guide

By Dorothy V. Whippie, M.D. AP Newsfeatures
One day last week the temperature rose to 70 degrees, the sun was out, the sky was blue. Mrs. King brought 6-year-old Alice in to see me for a routine check-up. When we took off Alice's clothes to examine her, we found her little body dripping with perspiration. Her undershirt was so wet it left a damp stain on the sheet where it was laid. Her hair hung in wet strings around her neck.

I took a look at the clothes she had on: long sleeved undershirt, and snug warmer panties, slip, cotton dress and sweater. I asked Mrs. King to get her outside wraps which had been left in the playroom. She brought back a wool lined nylon jacket, snow pants and snug wool cap.

I looked at all these clothes and then at the damp little girl, shivering under the blanket I had quickly put around her. Mrs. King was defensive. "But doctor, I'm afraid to take off her winter clothing before May. I don't want her to catch cold. You know how easily she gets a cold."

This is a common superstition—that winter clothing comes off and goes on by the calendar. It's the cause of many springtime colds, because a little body clad in damp clothing chills at the least breeze. It seems like a paradox, but it's very true. A child becomes chilled just as easily by being too warmly dressed as by being too lightly clad.

Dress your child for the thermometer, not for the calendar. When the weather is warm, take off the winter clothes, even if it is February. If there is a sudden cold snap, put on some warm things even if it's July.

Children are constantly on the go, and their activity keeps them warm. Usually a child needs less clothing than a grownup.

By the time a child is 7 or 8 years old he is quite able to decide for himself when he needs a jacket. Have his warm clothing where he can reach it easily. A child doesn't like to be cold. He'll put on a jacket and keep himself comfortable if you don't nag him. But if you make him wear more clothing than he needs, he loses respect for your judgement. Then he is likely to put up an argument when you suggest a sweater because he remembers how uncomfortable he was last time you made him wear it.

Announcement of a number of awards was made during the Academy meeting here.

Charles Benson Childs of High Point, student of physics at the University of North Carolina, won for the second time the John Bewley Derieux Award in Physics. The honor was based on his paper "Theoretical Effects of Primary Cosmic Radiation on Semiconductors Above the Atmosphere."

Carolyn Herring of Richlands High School and Ann Hoyle of Henderson Junior High School were winners of first place awards of $20 each in the annual Academy Contest for high school students. Miss Herring's paper dealt with "Water Foul Refuges in North Carolina," and Miss Hoyle's with "Better Tree Crops by Good Cutting Practices."

Other high school students receiving awards in the essay contests were: for papers on ornithology, Nell Andrews, Lumberton, second place, and Shirley Jean Cole, Cameron, third place; and for papers on forestry, Billy Culbreth, Lumberton, second place, and Wiley Drye, China Grove, third place.

Events of the Academy meeting included the organization of a Collegiate Academy of Science by undergraduates in North Carolina colleges and universities, and presentation of awards to authors of outstanding papers read during the program of the new organization. Joe P. Rowland of East Carolina was chosen as president of the Collegiate Academy; Edyth McCawley

Bucs Win Track Crown; Lose Chance At Diamond Title

Perry Leads Victory In Bucs' First Try

By ANWER JOSEPH

HIGH POINT — East Carolina College's Pirates, novice in the realm of track and field competition, entered their first North State Conference track meet here Saturday afternoon and ran away with top honors despite the efforts of five other schools.

The Pirates, coached by Leon Ellis, rolled up 48 points in the meet to take first place. Second-place Lenoir-Rhyne, defending champion, had only 34 points. Elon was third with 29 1-3 points, Guilford was fourth with 23 1-3 points, High Point fifth with 22 points, and Western Carolina sixth with eight points. The other three conference schools did not compete in the event.

East Carolina wound up with five firsts, four seconds, five thirds, and two fourths for their total of points. They actually had another first place but were ruled out on a technical point of procedure.

The first place the Pirates lost on a technicality was in the mile relay. The Bucs finished the relay in 3:43 but track officials ruled that East Carolina's first man in the race, O'Brien Edwards, cut in front of another runner too soon. The officials made the charge after the first turn had been completed. West Carolina was disqualified, second-place Lenoir-Rhyne was named winner on the strength of its 3:50.5 time. East Carolina's team members were O'Brien Edwards, Tom Thomas, Eno Boado, and Jack Pickett.

No records were broken in the meet but East Carolina's Bobby Perry did tie the mark for the 100-yard dash. The freshman speedster from EOC romped home in 9.9. The record is held by Roberts of Lenoir-Rhyne.

Perry finished as runner-up in the individual scoring for the day with a total of 12 points. Honors in the race went to Elon's John Platt who had 13 1-4 points. Perry finished first in the 100 and 220 and third in the broad jump.

Claude King Wins NSC Golf Crown In Extra Round

GREENSBORO — Claude King, East Carolina College's powerful football fullback, rallied on the second nine of Starmount Forest Country Club's golf course here Saturday morning to win the North State Conference's golf championship.

King won the playoff from Elon's Don Smith after both had finished the regulation 36 holes in the tournament with scores of 151. In Saturday's round, King had a one-over-par 72 compared to the 76 turned in by Smith. King's Saturday round was the best of the entire tournament.

The East Carolina ace, who is seriously considering professional golf after his college days are over, found himself two strokes down at the end of the first nine holes. He came strong to pick up five strokes on Smith on the first four holes of the second nine to wrap up his second successive crown.

King had a one-under-par 35 on the back nine. Smith was able to manage only a 41 despite the fact that he plays the course frequently and is thoroughly familiar with it.

Smith started out fast, being one under par on the first three holes with King going two over. Both players took bogey fives on the number four hole and then equalled par on the fifth and sixth holes.

On number seven King picked up two strokes to trail Smith by only one when Smith took a bogey six while King was bagging a birdie four. King's tee shot and number two iron put him on the green but he two-putted to miss his eagle.

Smith picked up on the ninth hole with a birdie three. That's when King started applying the pressure.

The East Carolinian had a par three on number ten with Smith taking a four. On number 11, he added another par while Smith was taking a five after his tee shot lodged in a clump of trees. That evened the match and when King took a par four on number 12 Smith started folding. He pushed his tee shot across the water and into a clump of trees and wound up with a six. On number 13, King sank a 35-foot putt for a birdie three and a three-stroke lead.

King lost a stroke on number 16, then picked it back on number 17 and then ended with a birdie four on the 18th.

Elon Wins Twin-Bill By 4-0, 2-1 Margins

ELON COLLEGE — Coach Doc Mathis' defending champions sewed up their second consecutive North State Conference Eastern Division championship here Saturday afternoon when Elon College defeated East Carolina College in both ends of a doubleheader.

The Christians defeated the Pirates 4-0 and 2-1 in the twinbill. The losses eliminated East Carolina from any chance at the division title and a sweep of the three major sports title in the conference's athletic set-up.

The Christians came up with a pair of superb pitching performances to sweep the doubleheader. Sherrill Hall came up with a two-hitter in the opener to subdue the Pirates and then Luther Conger, the second part of the Christians' one-two pitching punch, came in for a five-hit performance in the nightcap.

The victories give the Christians a record of 13 wins and only two losses for the season. East Carolina has an 8-7 mark with one game left to play, against Atlantic Christian Wednesday in Greenville. The Christians move into a post-season playoff with the Western Division winner, to be decided today in a game between defending champion Lenoir-Rhyne and Appalachian. Lenoir-Rhyne won the conference championship last year.

Misses No-Hitter

Hall just missed no-hitter in the first game of the day, Paul Jones, the Buc third baseman who usually plays shortstop, was the only ECC batter able to get through Hall's deliveries. He had a double in the second inning and a single in the seventh.

Elon scored twice in the fifth inning on doubles by Alton Myers, Ronnie McIntyre, and Carlton Langston and a walk to Nick Thompson. They got another par in the sixth on a walk to Red McDaniel, a wild pitch, a double by Bobby Greene, and a sacrifice by Myers.

In the second game, the Christians got only three hits off righthander Mack Cherry but they produced two tallies in the fourth without benefit of a hit. McDaniel scored on Myers' fielder's choice and Myers' scored when ECC catcher Ralph Britt threw wild at third base trying to catch the Elon runner.

East Carolina's lone run in the game came in the seventh when W. C. Sanderson singled, went to second on an outfield fly and scored on a single by Major Hooper.

Rival Clubs Taking Tigers Seriously For First Time

Rival American League clubs are beginning to take the amazing Detroit Tigers seriously.

Last Sunday, after the Tigers had blanked the Yanks at Yankee Stadium, New York Manager Casey Stengel called them the most improved club in the league.

Yesterday, after the Tigers had whipped the Chicago White Sox 3-2 in the first game of a doubleheader and held them to a 10-inning 0-0 standoff in the second game, White Sox Manager Paul Richards voiced Stengel's sentiments.

Today, the Tigers are in first place with 11 victories against only five defeats, a half game in front of Chicago, a full game ahead of Cleveland and two ahead of the defending champion Yankees.

They return home with brilliant 5-1 record for their first road tour.

Improved is hardly the word for the Tigers. A complete change is more like it. Tight fielding, timely hitting and superb pitching had given them "the new look."

A year ago today, they were buried in last place with five victories and 18 defeats. They were last in fielding. The pitching was atrocious. The staff had completed only three games.

This year's Tigers are second in fielding. The pitchers, headed by veteran Steven Gromek, own 10 complete games in 17 starts (one tie). They have hurled four shutouts, twice as many as they did last year.

Yesterday's victory was Detroit's eighth in nine road decisions. Last year at this time the Tigers had dropped all seven road games.

In other American League games Baltimore defeated Cleveland 2-1 in 10 innings, and the Yankees whipped and tied Philadelphia in a doubleheader. Three home runs gave the Yanks a 7-4 opening-game triumph and rookie Bill Skowron's run-scoring single in the eighth gave them a 1-1 tie in the second game, halted after nine innings on account of darkness. Rain washed out a scheduled doubleheader between Washington and the Red Sox in Boston.

Brooklyn opened up a half-game lead in the National League, nipping the Philadelphia Phils 2-1 while the second-place Cincinnati Redlegs split a doubleheader with St. Louis. The Redlegs came back to win the second game 6-5 after the Cardinals had captured the opener 10-7. The New York Giants walloped Pittsburgh 5-1 and the Chicago Cubs edged out Milwaukee 5-3.

It took Detroit 11 innings to defeat the White Sox in the opener. The winning run crossed the plate when Cass Michaels committed a throwing error with two out and the bases loaded in the 11th. Gromek went all the way, giving up nine hits and walking one for his fifth victory without a defeat.

Virgil Trucks, who relieved starter Sandy Consuegra in the 10th, was charged, with the defeat. Southpaw Billy Hoelt of Detroit and Billy Pierce of Chicago hooked up in the scoreless second-game duel. Pierce fanned 12 to Hoelt's eight.

The Indians missed an opportunity to pass Chicago for the runner-up spot when Turley held them to four hits. Gil Coan's single scored Neil Berry with the run that hung the tough defeat upon Art Houtteman.

Home runs by Andy Carey, Yogi Berra and Enos Slaughter accounted for all but one New York run as the Yankees inflicted the first defeat of the season upon Bob Trice, the A's rookie right-hander.

Trice had won his first four starts. Skowron's single off Alex Kellner scored Mickey Mantle who had doubled to wipe out Philadelphia's one-run lead in the nightcap established by ex-Yankee Bill Renne's fifth-inning home run.

Carl Erskine outpitched Robin Roberts as the Dodgers swept the three-game series from Philadelphia. Erskine permitted five hits but was in constant hot water with nine bases on balls. Five double plays helped him immeasurably.

The Dodgers snapped a scoreless duel in the seventh when Sandy Amoros doubled in a run and scored on Billy Cox's single. The Phils got one back in the eighth but Jim Hughes replaced Erskine with two on and one out and got Johnny Wyrostek to hit into a double play with his first pitch.

Sal Maglie hurled a six-hitter against the Pirates for his fifth triumph against one defeat. The Giants broke a 1-1 tie in the eighth and added two more in the ninth on Willie Mays' triple.

Home runs by Hank Sauer and Ralph Kiner of Chicago helped Bob Rush defeat Warren Spahn and the Braves.

Ted Kluszewski hammered three home runs and drove in eight runs for the Redlegs. His last homer, the second of the nightcap and ninth of the season, proved the difference in the 6-5 Redleg victory. Stan Musial batted in four runs with his 10th homer and two singles to lead the cards to their first-game victory. Vic Raschi picked up his third triumph without a defeat in the first game although he needed help from Al Brazle in the ninth. Musial collected two more hits in the nightcap to take over the league batting lead with .382.

Boros Collecting In Ardmore Open

ARDMORE, Okla. — Former National Open Champion Julius Boros found himself one of the top money winners on the PGA tournament trail today after collecting $7,200 in the rich Ardmore Open Golf Tournament.

Boros shot rounds of 68-69-72-70 for a one under par 279 to cash in the top prize in Waco Turner's golf extravaganza which saw $44,715 distributed to some of the nation's best golfers.

Boros carried away a total of $7,200 as his part of the lost portion by the Turners and became the only man in the history of the event to set the pace from start to finish. The extra money came from bonuses.

History Repeating In North State's Playoff Rounds

GREENSBORO — The history of the North State Conference baseball finals seems destined to repeat itself — for the third consecutive time.

That is to say Elon and Lenoir Rhyne, in their respective Eastern and Western divisions, already have at least one foot in the title finals.

Elon, come what may, is in, while Lenoir Rhyne's fate hangs on a game today with Appalachian. The defending champion Bears, with an 8-3 record can clinch the berth with a win. Otherwise they tie Western Carolina, which already has wound up its season with an 8-4 mark.

If anybody knows what happens in case of such a tie, they've said nothing about it. Nor have any plans been announced for the championship play-offs. Apparently the conference officials are waiting for the final developments.

With an excellent 13-2 record, Elon put the final stamp on Saturday in the usual way — on excellent pitching.

Husky Sherrill Hall, junior righthander from King, assured the Christians of the crown by blanking East Carolina 4-0 in the first game of a doubleheader. Elon also took the second game 2-1.

Lenoir Rhyne moved into its dominating position by winning three games against one loss dur-

Snead Loses Round In Greenbrier Title Playoff

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. — Sam Snead lost to Herman Scharlau of Boca Raton, Fla. yesterday in a playoff for the Greenbrier Open.

Snead lost to Scharlau on the third hole in a sudden death playoff. Up until Snead missed one of his frequent short putts it appeared that the playoff would provide him his fourth straight triumph on the Old White course at which he is the pro.

He had come up from six strokes off the pace in the last round of the 72-hole tournament to tie Scharlau and Jackie Burke Jr., of Klamath Lake, N.Y., at the end of 72 holes. They all had 274, six strokes under par.

Burke the second and third round leader who jumped from 63 to 73 in two days, fell by the wayside on the second hole when he could not equal the birdies by Snead and Scharlau.

Different Light May Shine On Northeastern Flag Race

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflected Sports Writer

After tomorrow night the Northeastern Athletic Conference will have a different light on the pennant race for the 1954 season.

At that time the league leading Kingston Red Devils take on the high-flying Greenville Phantoms in the Kingston park in the second meeting of the two teams for the year. In the other time in Greenville the Greenies rallied to win 7-6.

At the present there are three teams in the conference battling for the league lead. Kingston is on top of the heap with a record of nine wins and two losses. Roanoke Rapids is in second place with a record of seven wins and three defeats, while the Greenies are in third with a record of six wins and three setbacks.

A win by the Greenies would shove them into a three-way tie with the other two schools for first. A loss, however, would just about eliminate the team's chances of winning the pennant and the chance to go to the State Championship.

The G-men will be hoping to be on the rebound from their loss to Jacksonville Thursday after winning five straight conference games. The loss to Jacksonville was one of the season's biggest upsets, and shuffed the conference race even more. It is hardly possible for the Greenies to have a day as bad as the one they had Thursday. In that game they put 12 men on with walks and hit batters, plus making five errors, and giving up seven hits.

Coach Bo Farley will probably go with either lefthander Bill Hendrix or righthander Dave Dickinson at the start. Dickinson has been the most effective hurler of late, but he was shelled for five runs in one inning against Jacksonville. Hendrix was supposed to be the ace of the Greenville staff and is liable to come through with a top performance at any time.

The Greenies will probably start with their regular line-up. That will have Bob Howell leading off and at shortstop, Bobby Conway at third, Dixie Hobgood in rightfield, Jerry Phillips at second, Bobby Nunn catching, Gene Hudson in leftfield, Harold Edwards in centerfield, Billy Bost at first base.

Game time in Kingston will be 7:45.

Maryland After ACC Leadership

RALEIGH — The Maryland Terrapins and the Clemson Tigers tangled last Saturday in a doubleheader baseball game and Maryland emerged the winner of both, 3-2, 3-0, and leading the Atlantic Coast Conference.

But for the many "ifs" the shift in league standings could spell ACC championship for Maryland. The greatest threats are Clemson and North Carolina State, each with an outside chance at the top spot.

Saturday's double take made it eight in a row for the Terrapins and left their league status at 5-2. Clemson is second with an 8-4 record, while Wake Forest is third with 8-6.

North Carolina State's 6-5 was good for fourth place and close behind was North Carolina with 5-8. South Carolina, 3-7, and Duke, 3-8, trail Virginia's late entry into the conference eliminated her chances in the league race.

Maryland, with five games remaining, can keep the leadership by winning four. Of course it would help too if the Terrapins defeat N.C. State in a makeup of a postponed game, tentatively set for next week.

If N.C. State wins all four of its remaining games and if Maryland performs well, the Wolfpack, at best, could tie for championship. Should N.C. State beat Maryland, and Maryland should lose one other game, a three way tie could result involving Clemson.

Clemson had another bad Saturday the third in a row, after a winning streak of eight. It was a bad ending for the Tigers, who played their final game of the season in the league.

The champion team will play a three game series against the Southern Conference leader. A similar series will be played between the Southeastern Conference champion and an independent. Winners will play a best of three series in the NCAA District 3 playoffs.

Wake Forest lost 8-7 to North Carolina State, Saturday in an extra inning game.

Other Saturday action had Navy defeating Duke, 6-3, and Virginia defeating Washington and Lee, of the Southern Conference, 9-2.

Today's games: North Carolina at Maryland, Wake Forest at McCrory Eagles Asheville.

Camera News

A HISTORIC TOUCH for modern camera fans is found in Colonial Williamsburg. A colonial hostess and the town crier pose here for the vacationing Desfor family.

By IRVING DESFOR

A shutterbug vacation got a spring workout when my family toured Washington, D.C. and near-by Colonial Williamsburg. As head of the safari, it was my important job to plan which cameras to take and see that we had enough film. Minor details, like planning and packing enough and the right kind of clothes for five people, were delegated to my beautiful bride. Gosh, she was lucky! There were light, colorful summery dresses for the girls which were ideal for the warm weather we hit and the color slides I shot. There were also dungarees and warm stuff for the shift in the weather at the end. But somehow I ran out of film—though I managed to find some in a gift shop and was glad to pay a premium and accept a different type just to keep shooting.

Since we were driving, I was able to take five cameras. My No. 1 camera is a compact, roll film standby of 15 years' service that takes 2 1/4 x 2 1/4 pictures. My second choice is my latest love—a stereo camera that gives me three dimensional color pictures. No. 3 was my daughter's own box-type camera. Then came my movie camera and lastly a press camera to make certain I'd have some pictures for this column.

The first three cameras were kept on the auto seats and were always handy and in constant use. In fact, they got such a good workout that they interfered drastically with the movie record. Taking good movies is a full time job for one person, I discovered again. "Next trip", I kept thinking as I concentrated on the still cameras. "I must teach the bride in advance how to handle the movie camera all by herself. She has some time, besides herding the three youngsters around to do some of the picture taking."

That usually dependable workhorse, the press camera, chose this trip to become a casualty after a good start. The front shutter jammed while a Williamsburg coach waited till we shifted cameras again. On such an occasion, having a second camera handy proved a blessing indeed.

From previous experience and misfortune that has fallen on friends recently, the cameras and equipment were never left in sight on the car seats when we stopped for refreshments or for parking. In daytime we carried them; at other times they were locked in the trunk to avoid tempting a passing camera collector.

Since many of the nation's camera fans are—or should be—planning their summer vacations along about now, let's not be too subtle about the points I tried to make. For emphasis they are:

Have your camera and equipment in tested, working order. Try out a new, borrowed or unfamiliar camera by actually shooting pictures and see the results before you go away.

If at all possible, have a second camera. Use one for color film, the other for black-and-white. Let the youngsters bring their own cameras.

For best results, a movie camera is a full-time- or a one-person job. If home movies are your main interest, concentrate on it.

Take enough of your favorite film with you—then some more. Figure how many rolls you can shoot per day and the number of days away.

For safety, take out trip insurance on your equipment and use sensible precautions in safeguarding your property. In hot weather do not keep a camera in an automobile glove compartment.

Know something about where you are going, or find out when you arrive, so as not to miss the scenic highlights or the region's best picture possibilities.

Vacation trips are generally short and weather is unpredictable so take full advantage of favorable weather whenever you have it, especially at the very start of any stay. The tendency is to "study it now and take it later."

Don't trust to memory—make written notes about the pictures you snap; the date, names of place and people in it and any other pertinent information. Keep the log in a pocket notebook, not in scraps of paper which will get lost.

Let Us Develop and Print Your Holiday Snapshots

You certainly don't want to take chances with those irreplaceable pictures. Bring in your exposed rolls and we'll see that you get the kind of pictures you want for your Kodak Album.

Gets 30 Days To Oppose Firing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Burton C. Bovard, general counsel of the Federal Housing Administration nearly 14 years, has been given 30 days to show cause why he should not be fired.

Bovard has been on leave since April 16, when he refused to resign in a shakeup of top agency personnel that followed disclosures of alleged multi-million dollar abuses in certain phases of FHA's loan-insurance program.

Acting FHA Commissioner Norman F. Mason said yesterday there was "no evidence of illegal activity" by Bovard, but that he is charged with failing "to carry out the functions of his office satisfactorily."

U. S. Military Aid Plans For Indochina Unchanged

By ELTON C. FAY
 WASHINGTON (AP)—The fall of Dien Bien Phu will leave unchanged the American program of military assistance to the French Union and Associated States in Indochina, a Pentagon spokesman said today.

The sea and air shipment of equipment and supplies and the assistance of aircraft technicians to keep flying the planes turned over to the French forces in Indochina by the United States will continue, the spokesman said.

There was no disposition to minimize the effect if the fall of the fortress should prove a forerunner to the loss of all Indochina. The latter, Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said recently, could be "a prelude to the loss of all Southeast Asia."

The gap in the free world's defense perimeter that would extend from the Chinese Nationalist refuge on Formosa far to the westward near Pakistan. Although some individual states in Southeast Asia might continue to lean toward the West, they would be surrounded by other states either nervously neutral or definitely under Red control.

Whether there is continued fighting in Indochina or a truce, as is now proposed by the French, the United States intends to maintain its air and sea strength in the general Far East area — ready to deal with any violation of the truce in Korea or to be used to implement international policy decisions elsewhere.

Although Army strength is being reduced by at least two divisions in Korea, the White House and Pentagon have stated that overall strength in planes and ships and mobile ground forces will be kept up.

Deployed in the Far East — Korea, Japan, Okinawa and the Philippines — are about 20 wings of the Air Force. These currently include three medium bomb outfits, now equipped with piston-engine B29s but which, under a unit rotation plan announced over the weekend, eventually will be replaced by B47 jet bombers. Also in the Far East Air Force are eight fighter wings, two light bomb wings, a tactical reconnaissance wing and half a dozen troop carrier wings.

The Navy likewise has announced that the strength of the 7th Fleet is being kept at approximately the level of Korean War days. Normally the 7th Fleet includes about two Essex class carriers, two or three cruisers, a number of destroyers, some submarines and various amphibious and command craft for landing operations. There have been no battleships in the 7th Fleet since the end of Korean hostilities and the need for heavy shore bombardment.

American airmen, watching the Indochina conflict, express belief that the troubles of the French and Vietnamese, particularly in the instance of Dien Bien Phu, arose out of three shortages:

1. Of an over-all, comprehensive plan for interdiction—the cutting off by destruction of the flow of supplies.
2. Of an adequate number of experienced pilots.
3. Of planes—although without enough pilots an increase in the number of planes would be useless.

WNCT SCHEDULE

Bill Angle, construction foreman for the Ace High Tower Company, has his crew in Greenville to construct the proposed 800-foot tower for television station WNCT, Channel 9, Greenville.

Last week was spent painting the tower orange and white in accordance with regulations of the Federal Communications Commission. Erection will begin today.

Off-the-air Time

As yet the length of time off the air caused by transferring the antenna from the present 250-foot tower to the 800-foot tower has not been determined. "There are several possibilities," said General Manager A. Hartwell Campbell. "We have discussed the purchase of a new antenna. There is a possibility that new coaxial cable will be purchased or that the present coax will be transferred to the new tower. Until these decisions are made, it is difficult to say how long WNCT will be off the air."

Guy Wires

"I'll take about six weeks to erect the tower," says foreman Bill Angle. He points out the use of guy wires as being a factor in the construction. "It will take as long to fasten one guy wire to an anchor as it will to erect 100 feet of tower," Angle says. "There will be 7,000 pounds pull on each guy wire. The cable is one inch in diameter."

Construction Crew

The Ace High Tower Company has erected towers in Florida, Alabama, Tenn., Kentucky, Virginia and Maryland since constructing WNCT's present tower in Dec. The seven-man crew consists of R.H. Briley, Jr., R.H. Briley, Sr., both of Falcouth; A.J. Thompson of Detroit; F.D. Richardson of Richmond; Jim Edwards of Greenville; "Bolt" Braswell of Baltimore and Arthur Stark of Washington.

Early Starters In Conservation

LOUISVILLE (AP)—Interest in Kentucky's Junior Conservation Clubs, is becoming nationwide. The state's program, developed during the past eight years has moved into secondary schools, with the sanction of the Department of Education.

There now are more than 500 school clubs with a membership of 25,000. About 4,000 of these attend one of the two camps maintained by the conservation department, for one week tours that include short courses on various outdoor activities.

Convict Five As Spies Of Soviet

KIRKENES, Norway (AP)—A Norwegian court has found five Norwegians guilty of spying for the Soviet Union. It sentenced four of them to jail terms ranging from four years and ordered them to pay the government the 28,100 kroner (about $4,000) the Russians had paid them.

The fifth defendant could not be sentenced because of the statute of limitations.

All were convicted of spying on civilian and military installations, including air bases and defenses along the border between the Soviet Union and Norway's northern province of Finnmark.

The prosecution's star witness was Soviet Intelligence Lt. G. F. Pavlov, who gave himself up to Norway last summer and obtained political asylum.

Israeli, Jordan Clashes Leave 4 Reported Killed

JERUSALEM (AP)—Three Israeli soldiers and a Jordan farmer were reported killed in clashes along the Israel-Jordan frontier yesterday. Two Israeli policemen were reported missing and believed dead.

Jordan officials said their forces killed an officer and a private from the Jewish nation in repulsing an attack by a band of 90 Israelis on the Jordan village of Illin, in the Hebron area.

The officials said the Israeli band fired on Jordan members of the U.N. Mixed Armistice Commission and its American chairman, U.S. Navy Cmdr. Elmo Hutchison, when they went to Illin to investigate the incident.

The Jordanians also charged that Israelis kidnaped an Arab farmer and killed him near Zababilla, in Jordan's northern sector.

Across the frontier an Israeli spokesman said a force of armed Jordanians invaded Israeli territory near Khirbet Ayallin, in the south Judean mountains wounded two Israeli policemen and took them into Jordan. Later, he said, a Jordan broadcast reported two Israelis — believed to be the policemen — had been found dead on the Jordan side of the frontier.

In another statement the Israeli army said raiders from Jordan attacked an army post in the same area late yesterday with mortars, killing one Israeli soldier and wounding two more before they were driven back across the frontier.

Jordan demanded a meeting of the Mixed Armistice Commission, which Israel is boycotting. The U.N. Security Council also is to meet Wednesday in New York to debate other recent Israeli-Jordan clashes.

new shot in the arm at a special CIO Executive Board session today.

Advances word from CIO informants was that, barring an upset, the board members would decide to ask the AFL to go ahead at once with the labor peace plan negotiated last fall by the rival labor groups.

The agreement would bind a union in one federation against seeking to take over members already organized by a union in the other federation. The pact is regarded as a necessary first step toward any AFL-CIO merger.

The CIO, worried that not too many AFL unions would join the pact, decided last March to delay ratifying it. Later it learned that nearly 70 of the AFL's 110 unions were willing to go along, so today's Executive Board session was arranged to reconsider the March action.

There remained the possibility of some powerful opposition, however. The CIO steelworkers headed by David J. McDonald, one of the CIO's largest unions, may balk at approving. The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette reported yesterday that the steelworkers would balk.

McDonald had a private talk here 10 days ago with Dave Beck, president of the AFL Teamsters Union, one of the AFL groups which is opposing the plan and with John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers.

Lewis is friendly with neither AFL President George Meany nor CIO President Walter Reuther, who are the prime movers behind the "no raid" pact.

Humphrey Hopes For Vote Change

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) says he is "optimistic" that the Senate will approve a proposed constitutional amendment to lower the voting age from 21 to 18 when the measure comes up this week.

The legislation has long had an okay from the Senate Judiciary Committee but there has been no action in the House. Humphrey said yesterday Sen. Knowland of California, the GOP Senate leader, agreed to bring the measure to the floor this week.

Reuther has said virtually all the CIO unions have been ready for some time to go along. But with Beck's teamsters refusing, McDonald's steelworkers may object too.

Presumably if the CIO gives a new go-ahead, Meany and Reuther will be ready to sign for all their unions willing to go along. However, the agreement has no binding effect on unions refusing to sign.

Whatever the CIO decides will be discussed by AFL leaders at their meeting opening in Chicago Thursday. At that meeting the AFL will also consider a separate plan designed to minimize feuds over representing workers between the AFL's own unions.

Lewis, appearing on an NBC TV show last night, adopted a "plaque on both your houses" attitude toward his giant rivals but did not mention the "no raid" plan.

He said his talks with McDonald and Beck did not necessarily herald "bigger things" in labor unity, but declared they mean that "the present leadership of neither the CIO nor the AFL is meeting the requirements of organized labor in protecting the interests of their vast numbers."

"It's obvious that labor is badly organized into respective segments and that the collective strength of labor cannot be exercised on any given matter," Lewis said, making clear also that he sees no immediate prospect of his union rejoining either the AFL or CIO.

The bushy-eyed mine workers' chieftain charged that some labor leaders, whom he did not name, devote more time to their own political interests than to the needs of their union members.

New Justice Dept. Unit To Handle Subversives

WASHINGTON (AP)—A New Jersey prosecutor today will be nominated to head a new Justice Department division charged with speeding the prosecution of spies and subversives.

The White House in announcing last night the creation of the new Internal Security Division, said President Eisenhower will nominate William F. Tompkins of Maplewood, N.J., as an assistant attorney general in charge of the unit.

Tompkins, as U.S. attorney for New Jersey since last June, has been fighting gambling and racketeering. He is 41.

The Internal Security Division, carved from the present Criminal Division, presumably will handle all cases dealing with treason, espionage, sabotage, defense plant security, loyalty of federal employes and allied matters.

Officials said the division will "centralize and fix responsibility" within the department for the handling of national security cases.

Creation of the new unit came a month after the Army, Navy and Air Force set up a joint program aimed at keeping the services free of security risks. Both actions followed criticism by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) of the way the government has handled alleged subversives. However, the actions were not taken in specific response to McCarthy's criticism.

Atty. Gen. Brownell has said the Internal Security Division, while prosecuting cases developed by the FBI will have the particular duty of guarding the "constitutional freedoms" of all suspects.

The division will take over prosecution of cases under the Smith Act, which makes it a crime to conspire to teach and advocate the overthrow of the government by force; cases before the Subversive Activities Control Board, which polices the registration of Communist-front organizations, and cases involving denaturalization and deportation of subversives.

The White House said Eisenhower will nominate as Tompkins' successor in New Jersey Raymond Del Tufo Jr., 34, of Newark, who has been Tompkins' first assistant since last August.

Sen. Wiley Has Praise Of Demos

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.), snubbed last week by Wisconsin's Young Republicans, has received the unanimous commendation of the Executive Board of the Young Democratic Clubs of Wisconsin.

Wiley, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was praised by the Democrats for his key role in putting the St. Lawrence seaway through Congress.

A similar resolution was defeated by a voice vote at the state convention of the Young Republicans last Sunday.

Wiley has been in disfavor with many state Republicans because of his opposition to the Bricker amendment.

IT'S AMERICA'S "BEST SELLER"

Because it's America's Best Buy

Ford has pioneered in bringing the most worth-while things to the most people . . . and more and more people are now buying Fords

FOR A LONG TIME, people have recognized that Ford is the "Worth More" car. And they have been expressing their preference in a great and growing volume of purchases.

The reason is simple. More and more people have found in Ford everything they want and need. They have found that Ford offers exterior beauty that has set the trend for the industry . . . interiors that are so colorful and in such good taste that just sitting in a Ford is fun.

If you're in the market for any new car, you'll be missing something if you don't come in and value-check a Ford point by point. And when you Test Drive a Ford and find out what a brilliant performer it is, you'll really understand why Ford is America's Best Seller and America's Best Buy.

In the first place, Ford offers the two most modern engines in the entire industry: the completely new 130-h.p. Y-block V-8 and the outstanding new 115-h.p. I-block Six.

For comfort—Ford is the only car in its class with Ball-Joint Front Suspension. This amazing new principle provides a degree of handling and riding ease that cannot be equalled in any car without this new suspension system.

Choice, too, is a department where Ford excels. You'll find just exactly the car for you among the 14 body styles and more than 100 body color and upholstery combinations in Ford's three great lines.

And consider these facts, too. Ford is a completely modern car. The advanced fine-car features that make it "Worth More" when you buy it, will also make it "Worth More" to someone else when you sell it.

Why not accept our invitation to Test Drive a '54 Ford. We believe that you've never driven a car in Ford's field that is in any way comparable.

Larger Medical Deduction Near

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee reportedly has decided tentatively to allow income taxpayers a bigger deduction for medical expenses.

The provision already okayed by the House, would permit deduction of medical costs above 3 per cent of income, instead of the present 5 per cent. The committee, now working on a house-passed tax overhaul bill, also was said to have agreed to double the ceiling on medical deductions raising them to $2,500 for an individual and $10,000 for a family.

An estimated 8 1/2 million taxpayers would benefit to the tune of about 80 million dollars a year, committee members said after a closed door session yesterday.

Joan Foster, Bride

By Alice Ross Colson

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

JOAN was in a dream. It was a dream that she wanted to fix in her memory. The church had been so beautiful! In a single flashing moment she had seen it. The walls a pale dusty pink, the windowpanes a deeper rose, with here and there a square of aqua or deep purple. All the woodwork alabaster white save the mahogany pews and the pulpit. And that long scarlet hanging, gold embroidered, suspended above the altar. Diane had been so right to keep the flower decorations white. She had banked potted white rhododendrons at the base of the pulpit. In the windows she had put white roses and up on the altar there had been more white roses against the scarlet hanging, with tall white candles in tall brass holders on either side.

And Todd's father. So dignified and noble-looking in his black robe, his intelligent face showing both frailty and strength, his calm, deliberate voice giving the fullest possible meaning to every word. Joan could hear him now. "—for richer, for poorer. . . in sickness and in health. . . for better, for worse. . . until death do us part." What a promise that had been to make! But they had both made it gladly and without fear. Then the final solemn pronouncement. "With this ring I thee wed."

Joan glanced down at it. Yes, it was there. Michael had not forgotten it. Todd had not fumbled it. And now the narrow circlet of gold told the world of her proud new estate.

"Joan," Betty who had been picking up Joan's scattered clothes, came over to her. "Here's your coin. I found it in your slipper. Aren't you going to take it along?"

"Oh yes, of course," Joan opened her new handbag and pulled her change purse from it. "Drop it in here, please, Betty. I wouldn't forget Annie's gift for the wedding."

On her way down the aisle, she had seen old Annie. There she had been, proud as punch in one of the family pews, a "new" black hat (from an old collection of Mrs. Foster's) perched on her gray head, a spotless white collar around the neck of her best black dress.

"I see Todd coming, Jo-Jo," Betty said now. "Is that a new gray suit he has on? My, doesn't he look nice!"

Joan joined Betty at the window. Yes, there he was, springing up over the bank, wearing the green tie and green socks she had picked out for him.

"Handsome's the word," she corrected Betty.

"Handsome is as handsome does."

"Then I don't worry." "No you needn't. Oh, Jo-Jo!" Betty turned toward Joan and put her arms tight around her. "I'm so happy for you. You know that, don't you? And I'm wishing you the best of everything. Forever."

"Thanks, Betty. Yes I know. And a million thanks for all the help you've given me today and yesterday and the day before."

She gave Betty a quick little squeeze. "If I don't see Diane—and I won't, I guess, because we'll dash for it—do please tell her for me how perfectly beautiful I think she made the church and the table out on the grass, will you?"

"Yes, I will."

"And be sure and save me a piece of my own wedding cake I didn't have a crumb."

"You were too excited. And too busy."

"I know I was. And say goodbye to Elaine and Don for me."

Betty nodded. "I think I hear Todd on the stairs, Jo, so I'll go let him in. Oh, here's your bouquet. You have to throw it, you know."

"Thanks," Joan took it from her and Betty moved across the room to open the door for Todd.

"My wife is here?"

"She is!" Betty replied, and

'HERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

slipped out past him.

"Jo-Jo?"

"Come in, Todd."

She walked toward him, a lovely radiant figure. As she reached him she lifted a hand and touched her little corsage.

"Thanks for this. It's darling."

"So are you," he said, a sudden husky note in his voice.

Just then there came from below the sound of people surging toward the house from the lawn outside.

Betty's appearance must have been the warning signal. There were running footsteps along the veranda, the slam of the screen door opening into the living room, voices.

"Has she gone yet?"

"Did she get away?"

"She couldn't have. All the exits are guarded."

"Someone said she would come down the front stairs, she wouldn't try to run."

"I'm sure of it."

Joan lifted starry eyes to Todd. "They're all waiting. We must go."

He nodded. "They've fixed up our car for fair. Tin cans—old shoes—rice, Johnette did it. She and Don. They found it down in the garage where Mike thought he had hidden it so safely. And they brought it back. Pushed it the whole way. It's out in the drive beside the steps now. It's too late to do anything except take it, but we'll stop later and clean house. Besides—" He grinned down at her. "I'm not proud. I don't mind if people guess you're my wife."

"Well, thanks!"

From the landing where she stood, she could see everybody, but her eyes were searching for just one person. Ah! There she was, away back at the edge of the crowd, keeping her distance. Why? Because, in fact Joan had already begun her separate life? Because, from now on she knew she must never intrude but wait to be invited? Anyway, there she stood, serene and lovely in her purple gown.

"Mother!" Joan called suddenly.

"Yes, darling!"

"Good-by, Mother! Thank you for everything! All the years—"

As she had been in the entry of the church before the ceremony, so now Joan was suddenly overcome by an unexpected rush of emotion. What had she been trying to do, anyway? Make a speech? Crazy! None was needed. Her mother knew. She always knew. Blowing a kiss across the space between them, hearing Todd's, "Steady, Jo-Jo," she grew calm; and lifting her arm, she flung her bride's nosegay out over the heads of those below her. She flung it without plan, not caring where it went. Diane caught it. With a cry she jumped high into the air, captured it and came back on her feet with her small face all a-sparkle.

Joan nodded at her. "I guess you'll be the next, Di," she called. And then she was running, with Todd's hand firmly under her arm, down the stairs, through the throng and out under whirling clouds of confetti to the waiting jalopy.

"Good-by! Good-by everybody!"

Todd started the engine, there was a shifting of gears—and the bride and groom were on their way.

An hour or so later Todd and Joan were still driving steadily northward under a sunset sky. Around them the land had lost its urban look. Cows moved with unhurried deliberation across rich green pastures and frogs could be heard chanting their raucous chor-

Friday's Cases In Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

In Police Court Friday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee disposed of 20 cases, and the cases ranged from speeding to breaking, entering and larceny. Twelve of the cases involved violations of motor vehicle and traffic laws.

In the three cases against Noah Mourning, 17-year-old Negro, charging breaking, entering and larceny, the court found probable cause and bound him over to Superior Court for grand jury investigation.

William H. Whitehead, Negro, assault with a deadly weapon (knife) on Jim Pollard, Negro, was found not guilty. Testimony was that Whitehead acted in self-defense.

"Mm. And the sunset's fading."

"A little. I don't remember eating a thing at our reception. I was too busy talking to people. I did have glass of punch, though."

"Mike stuffed me with sandwiches when I went in to change my suit. They were sure good. But just the same, I wouldn't mind eating pretty soon."

"Any time."

Silence again. They had stopped once within a few blocks of home, to cut off the rattling tin cans and bouncing shoes. They had stopped again, a mile or so farther on, to rip away all the trailing white paper and rags. Except for the confetti and rice that lay in heaps inside the car and still stuck to their clothing, they were quite respectable.

Assault With Car Is Charged To Ayden Driver

Police arrested Horace Eason of Ayden yesterday afternoon and charged him with assault with a deadly weapon, an automobile, and driving without lights in a case growing out of injuries to Patrolman Bill Whitehurst last Friday night.

Whitehurst was injured when Eason allegedly drove off in his vehicle when the patrolman was checking his driver's license. Whitehurst was dragged for several feet and received cuts and bruises about the legs.

Eason was arrested by Chief of Police J. A. Jones of Ayden on warrants signed by Whitehurst. Cpl. Carl Whitfield said investigation showed that Whitehurst was in his patrol car in Winterville Friday night along with Winterville Chief of Police Preston Hardee and Constable Rick Jackson.

May Day Fete Has Record-Size Crowd

FALKLAND—A record-breaking crowd attended the May Day Festival at Falkland Negro School last Friday.

The highlight of the morning program was the address given by J.A. Goode, Pitt county farm agent. He used as a theme, "You Are Important," based on the Biblical character of Moses. Important points stressed were: (1) Spiritual and educational development should be integrated. (2) Faith interested and work enables one to accomplish his aims in life. (3) Even though the world is dark, the opportunities are great, and one shouldn't let greed, malice, envy, etc., make him "sit down." Work is the solution in every problem. (4) Love all people and rely on God. (5) Help others, by so doing we are unconsciously helping ourselves. The final thought, advanced by the speaker was in the form of a question: "How do you rate?" Take a stock of yourself. Did you conclude that you had done anything? If you did, then you, too, are important.

Miss H.J. Jordan, high school supervisor of Pitt county, introduced the speaker. Mrs. M.L. Blount, supervisor of the elementary schools of Pitt County, gave the response to the address. Principal C.L. Bembrey gave the welcome address and Rev. T. T. Shivers the invocation. The music was furnished by the Glee Club. The grand parade was headed by H.B. Suggs High School Band.

Through the sponsorship of the P.T.A., with Alfred Harris, president, Mrs. Annie B. Johnson, secretary, and Mrs. Mabel White, treasurer, dinner was served.

Outdoor activities included wrapping of the maple, folk and square dances, relays, games and calisthenics.

Principal Bembrey expressed his appreciation for making the festival a success.
