A crowd of more than 20,000 jammed Greenville streets today for the Sudan Shrine Temple parade which moved out at 12 noon. The parade, divided into two sections, moved up Dickinson Avenue from the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad. It turned up Washington Street and then down Third Street, moving onto Evans Street at the Post Office-Court House corner. The two-mile parade then moved down Evans Street to Five Points, turning there to go down Fifth Street to East Carolina College. Some units turned in at the College while others moved on to Elm Street, turning there to disperse. Greenville High and elementary school students, numbering in the thousands, were among those viewing the parade as school had turned out at 11:30. Many Floats and Bands Bands and floats were the highlight of the second section of the parade. Floats came from various Shrine Clubs and other organizations and companies. Bands came from various high schools in Eastern North Carolina, many of them sponsored by Shrine Clubs from their towns. Beauty Queens also were a part of the parade with girls also coming from different towns in eastern North Carolina. Shrines in First Sections The Shrine officials and its bands, and drum and bugle corps plus the official car with Potentate J. Ed Rooker, Jr. of Warrenton featured the first section of the parade. In the second section Mayor W. L. Whedbee and City Manager James S. Hughes rode in a convertible. There were many other converts in the parade and also a couple of "old cars." According to Shrine officials there are approximately 6,500 Shrines and their ladies in town today to participate in the various events and to watch the big parade. There are 30 highway patrolmen, and 50 police officers, fireman and National Guardsmen to help alleviate the traffic problems.

Chased Prison Camp Fugitive Fifteen Miles

A fleet-footed escaped prisoner yesterday ran for 15 miles before being re-captured by law officers after he broke and ran from a work gang near Grifton. The escaped prisoner's name is Willie Meyers, 24, who was sent up for highway robbery for six years. He is from Winston-Salem. Captain Paul Crawford of the Pitt County Prison Camp said that the prisoner was free for about three hours before he was recaptured. He said the crew was working on a country road near Grifton when a mule and cart came by. The mule became frightened and Meyers hid in nearby bushes during the commotion. Crawford stated that bloodhounds were used to track down the prisoner and he was taken into custody in Craven County. The man was sentenced last December 3. Crawford noted that he had had no prior trouble with Meyers but that he had an escape record on a prior sentence.

Close Guard On Longshore Vote; Bitter Contest

NEW YORK (AP) — The bitter union fight for the right to represent 25,000 dock workers reached a portwide vote today in a National Labor Relations Board election. Heavy police details patrolled the waterfront to prevent repetition of tactics which caused the results of a pre-Christmas election to be scrapped. Last-minute claims of victory were made by spokesmen for both the International Longshoremen's Assn. (ILA) and the rival AFL-ILA. The count will start at an armory here at 8:30 p.m. and the result will be in by midnight. The NLRB assembled a staff of 191 officials from as far away as Denver to supervise the election. With feelings running high between adherents of the rival unions, Police Commissioner Francis W. H. Adams put 2,500 New York policemen on waterfront patrol. On the New Jersey side of the vast port hundreds of police were detailed on the waterfront. The ILA, which ruled waterfront labor for decades before it was ousted from the AFL for harboring racketeers, took another body blow on the eve of the election. Federal David N. Edelstein placed it in receivership yesterday. Edelstein appointed Raymond J. Scully, an official of the New York State Bar Assn., as receiver. Scully's responsibilities will end if and when the ILA raises the $50,000 needed to pay a contempt of court fine imposed for its recent strike in defiance of a federal injunction. ILA Executive Vice President Patrick J. Connolly said last night that individual members of the union had volunteered to mortgage their homes to pay the fine. Connolly said the union hoped to get the money together before the received actually took control today. The ILA's cash has shrunk to a $12,000 bank account, and even that has been attached by the government in a move to assure payment of the fine. The bitter waterfront campaign for members has been waged at ever-increasing tempo since the AFL established the AFL-ILA after ousting the ILA last fall for failure to clean out racketeering elements. The first test of strength came in an NLRB election last Dec 22 and 23. The ILA was credited with 9,068 votes and the AFL-ILA with 7,568 and 4,399 ballots were challenged.

Plans Reply On Statewide Radio Talk Scott To Answer Charges

RALEIGH (AP) — The U.S. senatorial campaign, nearing Saturday's Democratic primary, gathered full steam today in the wake of several statements and radio talks yesterday. Former Gov. W. Kerr Scott, one of the leading contenders, is scheduled to "set the record straight" tonight in a statewide radio speech over a network of 60 stations. Scott, who has virtually ignored statements and charges by the opposition since he announced his candidacy early in February, is expected to comment on the charges. Terry Sanford, Scott's campaign manager, said last night Scott will "set the record straight" on what he described as "vicious attacks, untruthful statements and charges." John C. Rodman, state campaign manager for Sen. Alton Lennon, issued a statement commenting on Scott's scheduled radio talk. He said Scott "says he intends to answer some whisperings and insinuations. We don't know where they came from but as soon as—and if—he gets through beating around the bush we'd like for him to reply to some positive charges and questions that have been hurled at him." Meanwhile, Lennon will address a political rally in the Wake County Courthouse tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. He will come by plane from Washington to make the speech. Lennon delivered a statewide radio talk early today to farmers. The program originated from Washington. Meanwhile, D. R. Graham of Raleigh, who says he prepared Scott's income tax returns from 1958 through 1962, yesterday described as "absurd" a tax figure cited by Lennon's campaign forces. By way of questions, the Lennon forces implied that Scott paid an income tax of $69.44 in 1952. Graham, state superintendent of credit unions, said that in 1952 Scott paid "many times what they

Vietminh Shift Seeming Target In Pincer Move

MANOI, Indochina (AP) — Vietminh troops moving east from captured Dien Bien Phu suddenly veered north today in an apparent attempt to encircle French defenses in the vital Red River delta. The shift of Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap's Communist-led legions was believed designed to form a giant pincer squeezing the delta's northern perimeter while other Vietminh troops threaten it from the west. The French sent out U.S.-supplied B26 bombers and Corsairs to pound the rebel columns. The air strike was concentrated on troops bunched near Nha Phu, about 90 miles southwest of Hanoi. In the delta itself only light action was reported. Twelve rebels were killed as French warplanes pounded Vietminh forces harassing outposts southeast of Hanoi. Meanwhile the airlift of French wounded from Dien Bien Phu continued. The French command said 148 were flown out last night, bringing the total evacuated to 710. The French hope to wind up the shuttle today. The rebels were given permission to evacuate a total of 858. The French command in Saigon said it will build up 13 new military units from the reserves of Viet Nam battalions lost at Dien Bien Phu. A spokesman said, with reinforcements expected from France, the new units will total some 12,000. This is about the number lost at Dien Bien Phu. The spokesman said the new units would be sent in to bolster the imperiled delta.

Schine Story Still Kept In Spotlight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pvt. G David Schine's company commander testified today Schine took New Year's leave from Ft. Dix, N.J., in violation of instructions but was allowed to remain at home after Roy Cohn telephoned the fort. Capt. Joseph J. M. Miller said he reported Schine as "absent without leave" but that no disciplinary action was taken against Schine, and Schine's service record does not show he was AWOL. During his testimony Miller also said he never gave any "preferential treatment" to Schine and that neither Sen. McCarthy nor any of McCarthy's aides ever asked him to do so. Miller's story of the New Year's incident capped earlier testimony that Schine once apparently tried to offer him a trip to Florida, and also told him he was in the service "to remake the American military establishment along modern lines." Miller said he had scheduled Schine for guard duty Dec. 31 and had specifically instructed him he was not to leave the post without Miller's authority. Miller said he also had advised Schine that because Schine had a Christmas pass, he would not be entitled to a pass for New Year's Day. Miller said Roy Cohn, chief counsel to the McCarthy subcommittee called at 3 o'clock that afternoon to say Schine would be working on subcommittee business "throughout the weekend." Under questioning by Sen. Symington (D-Mo), Miller said he considered Schine's absence was "absence without leave" and so reported to his regimental commander, who in turn reported to Maj. Gen. Cornelius Ryan, the fort commander. Sen. McCarthy protested that much of Miller's testimony was irrelevant to the issue of whether he and his aides pressured for preferential treatment of Schine. At one point, McCarthy arose, announced he was leaving until the "drive" was over, and stalked from the room. He came back in about 20 minutes while Miller was still testifying. At one point, Symington said the McCarthy subcommittee had em-

Navy Says 220 Injured On Carrier

QUONSET, R.I. (AP) — The Navy announced today that 79 were killed and 220 injured in a fire aboard the aircraft carrier Bennington. The toll is the highest in peacetime suffered by the Navy since 48 men died aboard the battleship Mississippi off the California coast in 1924. The Bennington was on a routine cruise along the eastern seaboard. The 32,000-ton Essex class carrier, which saw action in World War II, was due at this naval air station shortly after noon. Helicopters already had removed some of the more seriously injured and landed them on a street near the Naval hospital in nearby Newport. The Bennington reported earlier the fire was under control. The Secretary of the Navy was en route to Quonset to board the ship as soon as she arrived. Two helicopters sped from the fire-damaged carrier to Newport and the first patient was carried—swathed in sheets—to a hospital-bound ambulance. First reports, not immediately confirmed by the Navy, said the fire involved high octane gas. The carrier normally carries a crew of 3,800. In Washington the Navy also said it had no details. It said that casualty lists would be compiled and next set of kin notified from Quonset Point as quickly as possible after the ship arrives there. The Bennington is a 27,000 ton vessel. Its full crew totals around 2,900 men. It was built in 1944 at the New York Navy yard. To help assemble and rush out information on the tragedy to newsmen, the Navy in Washington ordered an officer from Boston to Quonset Point to take charge of press and photographic coverage. Medical services were organized immediately here and elsewhere. At the Naval hospital in Chelsea, Mass., four ambulances were manned and equipped. As the carrier approached Brenton Reef Lightship, where she was due at 11:15 a.m., the Navy rushed four extra medical equipment for serious cases. Plans were made for rushing critical cases by small craft to the Newport Naval hospital, if doctors deemed it advisable. Rear Adm. Joseph H. Wellings, Newport Naval base commander, immediately placed the full facilities of the base—small boats, helicopters, doctors and other aid—at the disposal of the fire-damaged carrier. The destroyer Potter stood by at the station ready to evacuate the injured. Additional medical personnel gathered at the base ready to assist.

Move To Meet Atomic Disaster

It would authorize state governors to fill House vacancies temporarily if a sudden blow killed 145 or more House members. Signs Point To Run-Off Vote, Lennon Victory

By LYNN NISBET RALEIGH — Developments of the past ten days definitely indicate that there will be no positive nomination for the United States Senate in the first primary Saturday. The same trends indicate that a run-off to be held on June 26 will result in nomination of Alton Lennon, if a second primary is necessary. There is a chance, though less than even at the hour this is written, that Lennon may be high in the first primary. In that event, according to reliable information, there will not be a run-off called. Background for that picture is about this: Kerr Scott has been running for the Senate a long time, certainly ever since his appointment. Frank Graham, was defeated by Willis Smith in the 1950 primary. He was astutely cagey about definite commitment as a candidate until after a year-long survey of sentiment and canvass for campaign funds had convinced him he could win easily. Death of Senator Willis Smith and appointment by Governor Un-stead last summer necessitated change in technique, but not in purpose. The strategy was still to shoot the works for nomination without a second primary. Precedent justified that course. He had won the nomination for Governor in 1948 over highly favored Charlie Johnson in a run-off and his man Graham had lost to Willis Smith under similar conditions. Scott strategy has been to win on May 29 or concede a lost cause. Alton Lennon, appointed to the Senate last summer, immediately began a campaign to hold the seat. He was generally rated, until a couple weeks ago, as the underdog. Neither he nor his campaign advisers will admit it, but their efforts all along have been to get in a second primary, just as Scott's efforts have been directed toward certain victory in the first. Because of his admitted lead all along, Scott and his advisers have based their campaign on the idea of impregnability. The strategy has been to ignore all opposition and create the impression that nobody could bump him off the perch of victory. That idea worked well until two weeks ago, because all the assaults by Lennon forces failed to dent the Scott armor. Lately there has been a change. The continuous pounding of Lennon questions, like a small hammer hitting on an iron ball, and the continual dripping of drops of water on a big rock, have finally made impact upon the self-asserted solidity of the Scott position. The iron and the rock are beginning to crack; and such cracking can come fast once it starts. Not always, and maybe not now; but indications are that the cracks are spreading. The repetition of questions about juggling of road locations and income tax returns, and failure of Scott to answer them or even to recognize the questions had been asked, have aroused doubts in the public mind about some of these matters. Furthermore, every time since that first meeting staged by the Guilford YDC at High Point that Lennon and Scott have appeared together, Lennon has suggested the honor. It is an unprecedented and a screwball kind of thing, but it is true, that the man who is in the office has made a success of attacking the man who is out but wants to get in. A third factor, most screwball of all, is the attitude of Alvin Wingfield Jr., expected to be third man in the running. North Carolina many times has had virtual nonentities on the ballot for high elective office, but never one like Wingfield. An extreme rightist, he opposes government regulation of private enterprise; yet blatantly demanded that government regulation exert itself to give him free radio time to discuss the very system that provided him the vehicle for getting his cussing to the people. Taking advantage of party machinery to file for office as a Democrat, he sought and used the vehicle of a Republican party YRO organization to beat the whole idea of political parties. And yet, largely because of his suggestion that the State abolish its public school system, he had to conside with the Supreme Court non-segregation decision, he probably will get more Democratic votes than most observers had anticipated two months ago. The fact is, the prospective Wingfield vote on that issue is the basis for the second primary forecast. Whereas prior to the court decision it looked like most of Wingfield's votes would be at the expense of Lennon, the indications now are that he will get a lot of votes in the middle eastern part of the state which had been tentatively conceded to Scott. As of now the prediction is that Scott will lead, with Lennon a fairly close second, Wingfield a pretty poor third, and the other four—Bostick, Boyd, Sprinkle and Turner—trailing far behind, but with the margin between Scott and Lennon considerably less than the total for the five minority contenders, thus necessitating a second primary. A second primary will mean that Scott has lost his major objective of victory on the first try, and that Lennon has won his first objective with high odds he will win the nomination on the run-off.

Mrs. Everett Hostess To Bridge Club

ROBERSONVILLE—When Mrs. Pearl Everett entertained the Tuesday Bridge Club on May 18, her home was beautifully decorated with the flowers of which any city florist would be proud. The living room had a bowl of red roses, a low arrangement of deep pink roses, a gorgeous bowl of giant pansies in a very artistic arrangement, a pretty vase of sweetpeas, a bouquet of white shell pink roses. The other front room had an equally attractive bowl of mammoth pansies and vases of huge roses and other spring flowers.

The guests who arrived about 6:45 were greeted at the door by the hostess who invited them into the rooms where two card tables were set for supper. At 7:00 o'clock Mrs. Everett served a salad plate to each member. This was followed by a sweet course. After this delicious meal was enjoyed the players, Mesdames David Grimes Sr., J. Calvin Smith, Edgar Johnson, Sherwood L. Roberson, R. E. Grimes, Claude L. Greene Sr. and W. E. Page and the hostess took their places for the game. When the scores were tallied Mrs. Mayo Little was awarded for her skill. Mrs. David Grimes had low score and Mrs. R. E. Grimes received the guest prize.

Mrs. Hugh Roberson, president, called the meeting to order. After the minutes were read for approval, the chairman of the nominating committee, Mrs. Claude T. Smith, named the following officers for the coming year: president, Mrs. Dennis Roberson; vice-president, Mrs. Glenn Norman; program committee, Mrs. Jim Gray Sr., Mrs. Glenn Norman and Mrs. Charlie R. Gray; yearbook committee, Mrs. Leo Everett and Mrs. John Tyler.

The constitution was read by the chairman, Mrs. Alton Rodgers. After it had been revised, it was adopted by the club.

The Ex Libris Club sponsored a tour this spring to the South Carolina gardens and were co-sponsors in promoting the bird sanctuary in Robersonville. The club attended the opera "Blossom Time" in Greenville.

After the business session the meeting was turned over to the program chairman for the evening, Mrs. Paul Roberson, who had as her topic "Formations Under the Sea." At the conclusion of Mrs. Roberson's talk, Mrs. Hugh Roberson showed moving pictures made on the club's tour to the South Carolina gardens.

The hostess served ice cream, cake and salted nuts.

Miss Branch Is Honored At Tea

Miss Joyce Branch, bride-elect, was honored at a tea on Saturday afternoon, May 22. The hostesses were Mrs. Billy Branch and Miss Dot Branch, mother and sister of the bride-elect.

The home was decorated with arrangements of red roses and potted plants. The honoree was presented a corsage of red carnations and a gift in her pattern of crystal.

Guests were invited into the dining room where Mrs. Claude Thigpen and Mrs. Johnston Dees served refreshments of lime ice, salted nuts, mints, potato chips, and chicken salad sandwiches.

The table, covered by a white linen table cloth, was centered with an arrangement of white carnations. Around 30 guests were present.

Mrs. Smith Hostess To Book Club

ROBERSONVILLE—Mrs. J. Calvin Smith entertained the members of the Book Lovers' Club at her home Tuesday.

After the meeting was called to order by the president, the secretary called the roll. Those present responded with appropriate quotations. The minutes of the last meeting were then read and approved before the exchange of books.

Mrs. Hassell Worsley gave an interesting narration of the history of writing, showing charts to illustrate the beginning of the earliest attempts of writing which began with animals and other pictures. Mrs. Worsley described the contrast between the first writing and that of the present time.

Mrs. Smith served strawberry short cake to the members and three guests, Mesdames Jesse Bullock, William Smith and Worsley.

The club then adjourned to meet next with Mrs. B. L. Stokes.

Immanuel Baptist Church Scene Of Scheller-Tucker Wedding

The Immanuel Baptist Church was the scene of an impressive wedding ceremony at 4:30 Sunday afternoon, May 23, when Miss Lota Anne Tucker became the bride of Rudolf Hans Scheller. The Rev. Leonard Topping, pastor of the church, officiated.

A program of wedding music was rendered by Mrs. James L. White, soloist, and Miss Janet M. Watson, organist. Prior to the ceremony Miss Watson gave a half-hour recital of organ music. Mrs. White sang "Through the Years" by Youmans, "All for You" by Brown, and Dunlap's "Wedding Prayer" as the benediction. Wagner's "Evening Star" was played softly while the vows were being spoken.

The bride given in marriage by her father, Robert Burton Greene, wore a dress of tulle and cobweb lace over gleaming satin. The bodice and sleeves were made of Katz Chantilly lace with insets of the lace encircling the Robbin's nylon tulle skirt and dropping at a point in the back. A very flattering up-standing band of lace softened the wide neckling which was filled in with tulle. The bridal veil of illusion was attached to a tiny tulle-edged lace cap to match the dress. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. John H. Taft and Miss Frances Estelle Greene attended their sister as matron and maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. J. B. Joyner, sister of the bride, Miss Marie Anne Scheller, sister of the groom, Miss Mary Frances Owens and Miss Sonia Mattocks, cousins of the bride. The attendants were costumed alike in gowns of white net over taffeta with tiered skirts and matching capes. They carried bouquets of red roses with red satin streamers.

Mr. R. Hans Scheller was best man for his son. The ushers were J. B. Joyner, John H. Taft, Burt Greene Jr., Floyd F. Hendrix Jr., and William S. Bost Jr., all of Greenville.

Mrs. Robert Burton Greene, mother of the bride, wore a dress and hat of dusty rose with white accessories and a purple orchid. The groom's mother chose an aqua ensemble and an orchid corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the church parlor.

For the wedding trip Mrs. Scheller wore a suit of grey linen with white accessories and the orchid lifted from her wedding bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Greenville High School and is attending East Carolina College where she will receive her B. S. degree in August.

Mr. Scheller was graduated from Greenville High School and attended N. C. State College and East Carolina College. At present he is serving with the U. S. Army and is stationed at Camp Drum, N. Y.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Herman E. Mattocks and Miss Sonia Mattocks of New Bern, Mr. and Mrs. Heinz Blanck of High Point, Mr.

and Mrs. M. F. Mattocks and Miss Emelle Mattocks of Wilmington, Mrs. L. F. House, Miss Lucile Collins and Mrs. George W. Jahn of Maysville, Mrs. L. H. Roberson, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Roberson and Mrs. Joe Tyson of Stokes, and Miss Lucy Smith of Goldsboro.

On Saturday evening prior to the rehearsal Miss Estelle Greene and Miss Frances Estelle Greene gave a buffet supper for the wedding party and out-of-town guests at the home of the former on Rotary Ave.

Following the rehearsal Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Owens and Miss Mary Frances Owens entertained at a cake cutting at their home on Willow St. After the bride and groom cut the first slice, the wedding cake was served by Mrs. Herman Mattocks and punch was served by Miss Lucy Smith.

Since the announcement of her engagement Mrs. Scheller has been extended a number of courtesies.

On Saturday afternoon, May 1, Mrs. Charles Wilkerson and Mrs. Lindsey Wilkerson entertained at a lovely tea at the home of the former on Rock Springs Road.

Mrs. Jake K. Higgs gave a dinner and bride party on Wednesday evening, May 5, at her home.

Mrs. Allan Stokes entertained at a dessert bridge on Friday evening, May 7, at her home.

On Saturday afternoon, May 8, Mrs. P. W. Picklesimer and Miss Frances Lambe entertained at a bridge party at the home of Mrs. Picklesimer.

Miss Virginia Jones entertained at a kitchen shower and bride party on Friday evening, May 14, at her home.

On Tuesday evening, May 18, Miss Janet Watson gave a dinner party at her home.

Here Are Your Answers, Candidate Scott! LENNON HAS NOTHING TO HIDE

Here Are the Questions You Had Planted — And Lennon's Answers.

1. DO YOU STILL regard Senator McCarthy as "A Great American," as you said you did last July, and agree with his "twenty years of treason" charge against the Democratic party?

in my office, even on a part-time basis, has been at least $25.00 per week. All Social Security taxes and with-holding taxes have been paid by me.

LENNON ANSWERS:

I have never stated publicly or privately that Senator Joseph McCarthy was "A Great American," and never agreed with any charge he may have made against the Democratic party.

5. IS IT TRUE THAT YOU are the only living man who was able to get the office of Judge of a Recorder's Court classified by a draft board as an essential war production activity?

LENNON ANSWERS:

I sought no deferment and none was granted! —Scott sought and obtained deferment for at least a year? Finally, he served in an army camp in Kentucky for less than three (3) months.

2. HOW WERE YOU able to own and maintain a fine home in Wilmington and at the same time one of the finest homes on Wrightsville Beach on your earnings as a lawyer of $4928.00a year?

LENNON ANSWERS:

(a) Our home in Wilmington was built in 1938 at a total cost of $6,300.00 — with an F. H. A. loan of $5,400.00. My net income each year has averaged approximately $6,000.00 for the past 5 years.

6. CAN YOU truthfully deny that you voted for Republican Eisenhower for President?

LENNON ANSWERS:

I have supported and voted the straight Democratic ticket all my adult life. I made a number of campaign speeches for the National Democratic Ticket in 1952—in Burnswick and New Hanover counties.

(b) Our place at Wrightsville Beach was built by two carpenters and my wife and myself in 1951. Where did the money come from for the materials and help? From the sale of a house, built in 1941, financed by the Cooperative Building and Loan Association of Wilmington and rented until sold in 1947.

3. HOW COULD YOU possibly operate two automobiles on that income?

LENNON ANSWERS:

We have owned one new automobile during our 21 years of married life. We have owned two cars only since July 1953 when I became U. S. Senator.

LENNON ANSWERS:

In 1942 I was employed and paid a fee of $250.00 by the Republican nominee for Judge of Recorder's Court of Burnswick County in his efforts to have the courts of North Carolina review the election in which he was defeated by one vote! This case was tried by then Superior Court Judge, Honorable Jeff Johnson, now a Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina.

4. AND, HOW ARE YOU ABLE to persuade your secretary to work over the years for a salary of $21.09 a week?

More Industry Means More Tax Revenue

Declining or stationary revenues and increasing demands for service are facing government at almost every level.

Certainly that is true of the state of North Carolina and many municipalities within the state.

Apparently we are coming to the end of a period in which marked increases in revenue have been forthcoming to government units without appreciable change in the tax structure. This period, was forseen by Gov. Umstead when he launched a revitalized program in the Department of Conservation and Development to attract new industry to North Carolina.

New industry, when it comes into the state, not only pays taxes to the state government in various forms, but it also boosts tax revenue of local governments. A constant trickle from the turnover of money caused by a new industry, flows off to various levels of government in the form of taxes.

There can be little doubt that demands on the state and local governments will continue to increase in the next several years. There is also the fact that citizens of the state feel the tax burden already is amply heavy and should not be increased so far as the individual citizens and individual businesses already in operation in the state are concerned.

If revenue is to be increased, therefore, there must be sufficient influx of new industry, new citizens, new business and more money in circulation to account for the increase.

Responsibility for attracting industry, while it rests heavily upon the Department of Conservation and Development, is not the responsibility of that department alone. Each community must share in the development program for the progress of the state as a whole and its own future, individually. Whether it is by bringing in new industrial plants, or by aiding in the establishment of expansion of "home grown" business and industry, each community in the state can and should have a part in the program.

Communities which carry out a positive and forceful program toward such a goal are going to be the ones which profit most and find their financial problems of local government easiest to cope with in the years ahead.

No Time For False Hopes

Where is the middle ground for segregation "within the law," in the light of the recent Supreme Court decision?

Such a middle ground has been spoken of by politicians and others; but as yet, no one has attempted to define it. The only thing we have to go on is the assertion that such a plan exists.

In view of the decision and the subsequent rulings handed down this week, we are inclined to doubt there is such a plateau. We must keep in mind that the law, in the final analysis, must read as Supreme Court interprets it; not as individual citizens would interpret it.

Already, the Supreme Court, by its actions, has expanded its original ruling which dealt with public schools, to include colleges, a golf course, a publicly owned amphitheatre. There can be no doubt now that the nine justices will construe their ruling to include any facilities or properties which are constructed or maintained by public

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
Sadhu Sundar Singh, the great Christian of India of a generation ago, when he visited Palestine said that the two seas there were an almost perfect illustration of the Christian life. Into the Sea of Galilee flows the Jordan from the springs around Mount Hermon, and the water flows out again at the other end of the lake. Since the water flows in and out again, the Sea of Galilee is filled with life, and fishermen fill their nets and provide food for all the country around. Then the water goes winding down the course of the river and into the Dead Sea, which has no outlet and which therefore contains no life.

The Sadhu said that if the water of life flows into a Christian and out again to others, he will be living and vital. If he takes all of Christ's blessings and does not give anything out in service to others, he will be as dead as the sea that has no outlet.

There are thousands of people who live only for themselves. They seem utterly unaware of a world of need and completely indifferent to human suffering until it comes their lot. These people are like the Dead Sea into which clear, refreshing water flows only to become brackish. And as the Dead Sea is far below sea level, so these people live their lives far below the levels of satisfaction God intended them to have.

Supreme Court And Politics

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—As extremely interesting and unknown politico-judicial background dramatizes the Supreme Court's historic decision wiping out racial segregation in the public-school system of the United States. The principal figure in the untold drama is Chief Justice Earl Warren, President Eisenhower's only appointee to the high bench.

Litigation on this question has been going on for years and years. The Supreme Court itself had held against segregation in graduate schools several years ago, revealing its general philosophy on this controversial problem. Appeal arguments on segregation in elementary grades had been heard by the Supreme Court when the late Fred Vinson, a Kentuckian, was Chief Justice.

There seemed to be no reason why a decision could not have been handed down before his death or immediately afterward, or before Warren's selection. All the relevant facts had been presented, and argued before the high tribunal with an infinitude of legal social and economic details. There were no new or unexplored issues.

WARREN'S FIRST MAJOR ACT—This was the situation when Chief Justice Warren became Vinson's successor in October of 1953. Warren's appointment did not set well with conservatives in either major party, North and South, in view of his ultra-liberal policies as Governor of California. He had been a civil rights champion.

Despite the fact that the Court could have and was expected to rule upon segregation early last fall, Warren's first major act was to ask Attorney-General Herbert Brownell Jr. to present the Eisenhower Administration's viewpoint on the segregation question. It was a most embarrassing request, also unexpected by the top legal officer.

It is generally forgotten, but Eisenhower did not declare anti-segregation in the 1952 campaign. If he had, he would not have carried four Southern states, and rolled up a heavy vote in Dixieland areas, funds. In the long run, they may even go beyond the realm touched by public funds.

Again we say, we see no grounds for false hopes of such a proposition as "segregation within the law." We believe it unjust to give rise to such hopes on the part of the people.

The Supreme Court has spoken firmly and emphatically. This is no time to beat the pony around the bush with wishful thinking. We must look the horse squarely in the mouth and take cognizance of every tooth.

Lesser Of Evils Must Be Chosen

The United States occupies an unpleasant seat as it sits in the international arena and watches with more than spectator's interest the situation in Indochina.

First and foremost, the U. S., leader of the free world, wants peace, freedom, and security for Indochina. It also knows that those elements will exist only if the little Asiatic territory remains out of the hands of communism.

Out of sympathy or out of tradition, this nation would like to see Indochina have its independence rather than continue under French colonial rule as it has since the mid-1800s. Yet there is the conflict of ideas and solutions.

There is extreme doubt that Indochina could survive and remain in the bloc of free nations as an independent state at this time. Its native leadership has not developed to the point where it could stage off inroads of communism which would maintain its arms to gain control of the vital piece of international real estate. To cut Indochina off from French control now would mean certain domination by communism.

which he did not attach to his electoral bandwagon. WHAT EISENHOWER ADVOCATED—Eisenhower advocated delegation of the racial problem to the states, opposing a Federal FEPC. In his inaugural address, he simply called for elimination of segregation in the Federal government and the District of Columbia, which is Federal territory.

But when Chief Justice Warren—unecessarily, so many Republican officials and politicians believe—hurled the question directly at Attorney-General Brownell, he put Eisenhower on the spot. With arguments in open court, Attorney-General Brownell felt that he had to uphold the Roosevelt-Truman stand against school segregation.

ANSWERS KEPT SECRET—This background recital raises questions which cannot be answered until and unless some literary and uninhibited member of the Court, like Harold L. Tokes, has kept and will write his judicial secrets with them to the grave.

But here are questions which the politicians, especially Republicans, are asking, in view of the "political dynamite" latent in this decision: Did the Supreme Court demand an Eisenhower-Brownell endorsement of non-segregation so that its historic ruling would have a non-political and a bipartisan origin, and thereby carry more weight in disaffected areas—namely, the South? Did the nine honorables seek to remove this question from the realm of angry politics? In other words, was it an act of judicial statesmanship?

JURISTS WERE ONCE POLITICIANS—Or did the Roosevelt-Truman majority—eight of the nine members—seek to pin partial responsibility for this politically disturbing decision on the Republican Party?

If these queries appear to be irrelevant or irrelevant, let it be remembered that every single man on the Supreme Court was a politician before he became a black-gowned jurist, and that every single man was appointed for political reasons.

Somebody Told Me

This Woman Likes Her Work

Sunday afternoon I had a conversation with one of the few women crabbers on the North Carolina coast who captains her own ship and works without male help. Mrs. Forrest Flowers of South Creek operates with one other woman and crabs from May 1st to October 15th.

Does any form of fishing ever resemble work? "Not to me," Myrtle says. "Why, if the weather in the morning (Monday) were too bad to crab tomorrow I would be really disappointed."

For bait the crabbers use bull nose or eels. Bull nose is beef taken from the lips and face of cattle, diced into the correct size for crab bait. Crabs bite eel better, however. The eels are pickled, put up in 200-lb. barrels. Bull nose sells for eight cents a pound, eel for 15 cents.

The line used by crabbers is 1600 yards long, supported at each end by a cork and anchored at each end. Every yard the line is baited, by looping the bait firmly in the line. "The way we bait it," Mrs. Flowers says, "the crab cannot possibly steal the bait. The only thing he can do is to eat it off of the line—and we don't give him time to do that."

The line is baited when the boat comes in each day, so it's ready for setting at four o'clock in the morning, when the boat leaves. The crabbing day is from four in the morning until two in the afternoon, as long as the weather stays cool. When it gets hotter, they have to come in at 11 in the morning, so the crabs will not spoil before they can be taken to the crab factory, which is right in South Creek.

After the line is set, the boat goes to one extremity of the line and positions the dipper. The dipper is made of iron pipe, is about two feet square, and has a large net attached. It is positioned on the line in such a way that as the boat moves along the crabs will be knocked off the line into the net. "Sometimes," Myrtle says, "there will be as many as three crabs fighting over the same piece of bait and we'll get all three of them. But we have to always crab on the shady side. Otherwise, the crabs will see us coming and run off."

Whorton's Crab Factory in South Creek processes the crabs and ship them to distributors. When will the Flowers retire? Very soon, I thought, until Myrtle told me that the crabs sell to the factory for three cents a pound. It'll take a lot of crabs for retirement, but in the meantime Myrtle Flowers is having a good time making a living.

And I thank you.
JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

"UNSELFISH PATRIOTS (Greensboro Daily News)

"We have been amused lately by the outbreak of what we later 'conscientious citizens stung by the call of duty."

We mean the dozens of people suggested to Governor Umstead as candidates for Clyde R. Hoey's Senate seat. Many, of course, had no hand in getting their names mentioned, but other have not been shy.

Ex-Governor Gregg Cherry had a favorite phrase for these folks. Whenever a tempting vacancy appeared in the state government line-up, he always said he was sure there would be plenty of "unselfish patriots willing to answer the call of duty."

There always were; and there still are.

Suggesting candidates is like a game. To be mentioned in someone else's speculation is flattering; sometimes it is an inexpensive way to gain notoriety, and as O.J. noted the other day, not to be mentioned these days is "the last word in political low-rating."

It is not unusual for others to speculate about one's candidacy, but the other day we noticed a new development: A columnist for some of the state papers led off his piece by speculating about himself. He had been approached by friends who wanted to intercede with Governor Umstead, he wrote, and he was flattered, but he didn't believe he would be interested unless it were just to "hold the fort since 'I have no burning desire at this time to live in Washington."

That reminds us of what Senator Estes Kefauver said to Mrs. Ray Jenkins, wife of the McCarthy-Army hearing counsel and mentioned as possible G.O.P. senatorial timber from Tennessee, when he met her on a plane bound for Knoxville. In his casual way, reports Time magazine, "Senator Kefauver allowed that Washington really wasn't a very pleasant place for a senators family. All those social affairs to attend, whether one wanted to or not. And friends moving away just when one has begun to count on them. A hard life, actually."

A hard life all right. But just watch those "unselfish patriots scramble after it."

Hope To Soften Impact Of Anti-Segregation Ruling

By LYNN NISBET

SEGREGATION — There is a vast difference between an attitude of openly defying the Supreme Court and flaunting its decision, and seeking relief from its impact through established court procedure and orderly process. Governor Umstead will meet with the executives of other affected States next month, at call of Governor Stanley of Virginia, to discuss the best methods for easing the effects of the non-segregation decrees.

Attorney General Harry McMullan declined an invitation of Attorney General Cooke of Georgia to meet with other attorneys general and formulate plans to "resist" the court orders. When, at his suggestion, the Atlanta conference was postponed until after the Governors have met, McMullan tentatively agreed to attend—not as a party to resistance, but to help work out a reasonable solution through possible further court action.

Both Umstead and McMullan were displeased with the decision, but they hope to work out some plans that will soften its impact. McMullan thinks this can be done only through legislation at State level and possible constitutional amendments. Efforts to lessen the effect does not constitute resistance or defiance. It conforms to traditional procedure under the constitution.

For three decades after adoption of the 14th amendment in 1868 the anti-segregationists won most of the contests. The historic Plessy v. Ferguson decision in 1896, establishing the "separate but equal doctrine" was a victory for the segregationists. The 1954 decision promulgated last week is a victory for the anti-segregationists but it no more ends the conflict between the two registrants on the "bargain of getting to exercise the privilege of voting on a new-fangled machine."

MONEY — Reports of contributions and expenditures by the major candidates for the United States Senate show heavier spending this year than ever before, although the figures listed are recognized as far below the actual amounts spent.

The preliminary reports filed 20 days ahead of the primary list spending of $24,905.81 by Kerr Scott, $19,969 by Alton Lennon. This is the first senatorial campaign in which there is no legal limit on amount, although requirement for accurate reporting of both contributions and expenditures still apply.

Usually about half the total spending comes during the final 15 days. That would indicate primary day the two leading con-

Worth Noting

FOOD SELLERS: GET WOMEN TO EAT LUNCH
Food markets and downtown eating places can well borrow an idea from New York, where health and welfare authorities are sponsoring a drive to get women to eat regular meals for the sake of their health. The theme of New York's Nutrition Week (May 2-8) is: "Don't munch—Eat lunch." The authorities and welfare workers will try to show women what constitutes a tasty, healthful lunch by suggesting typical menus, and showing sample trays of recommended meals. The careless eating habits and resultant nutritional deficiencies, particularly of younger women, are well known to health authorities if not to the public and food trades.

Business Today

'Gee Whiz' Figures

By ELMER ROESSNER

Total retail sales in March were 4 per cent lower than a year ago, the Department of Commerce reports to no one's surprise. But there is a bit of gee-whiz in the fact that quite a few categories showed gains.

Book stores, for instance, March sales were 14 per cent higher than those of March, 1953. The rise brought the book dealers' sales for the first quarter 4 per cent higher than in the first quarter of 1953. Commerce Department doesn't explain. Perhaps people who have been laid off are reading more. Perhaps more people have their television sets paid for and can afford books again. Perhaps those modern greeting cards are zooming book-store receipts.

The food group showed a 1 per cent gain in March over a year ago, with grocery stores up 5 per cent, meat markets up 2, dairy product stores up 3, milk dealers up , and bakery products stores up 10. Candy stores were off 8 percentage points and delicatessens off 1.

Other gains, in percentage points, were radio stores, 1; fuel dealers, 10; feed, farm and garden supply stores, 2; gasoline service stations, 7, and optical goods stores, 4.

With one exception, the biggest decline was in the apparel group, down 20 per cent, but this was probably due to the late Easter. The April figures will probably show a compensatory gain. The exception was luggage and leather goods stores, 23 percentage points under March, 1953.

Variety stores sold 15 per cent less than a year ago; department stores, 13 per cent less; jewelry stores, 20 per cent less and office store machine and equipment dealers, off 13 per cent. Declines in other categories were less than 10 per cent.

FRENCH FRIED NYLON
French frying nylon is solving some industrial problems, according to the Arthur D. Little research company. Nylon—the solid, not the fiber kind—is used for parts and bearings of many machines. While it is extruded for some purposes, it has been found that by pressing nylon powder into shape, parts of greater strength can be made. Heating at very exact temperatures further improves the parts. And one way to get a precise temperature is to immerse the parts in hot oil—just the way a cook makes French fried potatoes.

COMBINATION AIR FREIGHT
A new type of air freight service is being offered by Emery Air Freight Corp.). Shippers may now combine a number of small parcels destined to one city and send them as a single air-freight shipment. At the city of destination, the air-freight service deposits them in the post office, where they are delivered at the local or first-zone parcel post rates. The service is said to take less than half the time of surface fourth-class mail "without material increase in cost."

DEMAND FOR COLLEGE GRADUATES PERKS UP
Demand for college graduates has stepped up in the last 30 days, Northwestern National Life reports after its nineteenth annual survey. Demand for graduates is now equal to or ahead of the demand a year ago, according to responses from 128 universities and colleges. Engineering and technical colleges say all graduates will have jobs by autumn.

Broadway Toasts Elderly Belle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "I don't mind crying now and then," said the youngest old lady in town, as she cheerfully put on some lipstick. "Tears keep the soul green."

This elderly belle, Georgiana Carhart, now in her 90th year, has become the toast of Broadway.

Five years ago at 84 Mrs. Carhart, a retired concert singer, appeared as a temporary panelist on "Life Begins at 80," a DuMont TV network program. Her sage wit and wisdom made her an immediate hit, and now—an old star in a new entertainment medium—she has become one of America's most widely quoted widows.

Millions of old folk have been cheered and inspired by the gay courage with which Mrs. Carhart jests away time and age. But Broadway show people love her, too—both for herself, and for the late-life success.

After each Friday night show, she likes to go to Lindy's restaurant, where she holds court sometime until 3 a. m., trading quips on equal terms with the fastest minds in show business.

The other day I had lunch with Mrs. Carhart, a serene grande dame with a patrician air resembling the mother of President Franklin Roosevelt. The resemblance ceased the moment Mrs. Carhart, a rose pinned to her ample bosom, sat down and, her sprightly blue eyes twinkling, opened her shrewd Irish mouth and began to paint the world in philosophic wisecracks.

Nobody can picture "Georgie," as her friends call her, better than herself. So, tell us about yourself, Georgie:

"Well, I was born in Baltimore the month after they shot Abraham Lincoln. I've been a widow 35-years—or is it 40? I never was any good on details. My bump of concentration is just a hole in the head.

"Being an octogenarian has been so enjoyable I can hardly wait until I am a nonagenarian—that means you are 90.

"What was the most fun in my long life? Why, just living itself. People are too selfish. They love themselves too much — and too long.

"I try to live from the inside out. Everyday is a birthday to me. I'm like a grasshopper, always ready to jump to something new.

"I feel I am a very practical woman. I even though I do believe in fortune tellers.

"Death? I never think of it. Why am I not afraid? Darling, I am not very religious, but the most important things in the world to anyone are God and good health.

"I cling to my memories, but I am not a victim of them. We worry too much about yesterday and tomorrow. Today is ready cash.

"I've had a rich life, and that sustains me. If I don't bubble any more—well, I can still babble. I've had everything, and I've been down to nothing. But I don't believe in money — or alimony, either.

"You're happier if you get a little bit of everything in life, and not too much of anything.

"I wouldn't turn my hand to go back to where I was—in a big house with five servants. I live in a small apartment and take care of myself.

"I don't take maid service. I do my own cooking and wash my own hair. I sleep eight hours every night, and eat two meals each day. That is all I need. I like a cocktail, but never before I've had morning coffee. A cocktail is no good on an empty stomach. My favorite food is fish.

"God has been good to me. I still have all my own hair and didn't turn gray until I was 75, and it used to be gold. . . as gold as anything you ever saw. It is still gold at the ends.

"What do I think about men? Poor dears, men aren't understood. We women are the aggressors, and this frightens them. Women too often turn love into an ugly thing. A man may have many roots, but only one nest, and he'll usually come back to it. Husbands, like children, should not be crowded too hard — or pushed too far."

Wilmington Negro Newspaper Withdraws Support From Senator Alton Lennon Because Of His Strong, Positive Statement On Segregation Issue

On May 8 the Wilmington Journal said in part:

The Democratic Primary will be conducted on May 29, and we know that you are thinking about the man who will represent you in Washington for the next six years.

We in Wilmington have a friend whose hat is in the ring for the job. He is Senator Alton Lennon, presently filling an unexpired term and wishing to be retained in that office through the vote of his fellow-North Carolinians.

There are many reasons why we shall support and work for Senator Lennon. The most important reason that we are rallying behind the Lennon Standard is that Senator Lennon is a man of great integrity and unusual fairness. Moreover, he has a fighting spirit for the underdog.

Fifteen or twenty years ago, the Negro could not get justice in our local court. The same situation existed throughout the state of North Carolina. About this time, Senator Lennon was elected recorder of the court here. Things began to hum. This man revamped the court and began to issue justice as it should be issued: without regard to race, creed or color. Station in life was not regarded. Senator Lennon, as Judge Lennon, sought the facts in the case, and justice was administered accordingly. During this time, Negroes had their homes violated by officers of the law who might or might not have had search warrants. Senator Lennon put a stop to this! His stand was the more courageous because he took high ground when it was unpopular to do so. As a result he gave dignity and fairness to the New Hanover County Recorder's court which has continued to be a model in the State of North Carolina, insofar as being fair to Negroes is concerned.

We commend Senator Lennon to you: we solicit for him your support and vote.

On May 19 the Editor of the Wilmington Journal, in a letter to Dan Cameron, New Hanover County Manager for Senator Lennon, said in part:

Wednesday P. M.

Dear Mr. Cameron:

Mr. Lennon's statement on the Supreme Court decision has taken the lee from under any of us who had tried to help him.

I am forced to withdraw my support. . . .

Phone calls from all over this county and all over the state indicate he has lost the Negro vote. . . .

I am returning the balance of the money which was to have gone to advertising. . . .

Sincerely Yours,
T. C. JERVA

On May 22 the Wilmington Journal said in part:

We called Senator Lennon's Washington office early Tuesday and urged a statement of restraint, so that the people would not be unduly aroused. We told his secretary of the excellent editorial comment in the Wilmington Morning Star, which urged cautious statements on the part of political leaders. We were led to believe that the Senator would be told of our call.

The tone of Senator Lennon's words has left us dazed. The words have wounded us.

To those who have called, wired or written to this column as to its position now on the candidates, we simply say that we are gracefully bowing out of the Senatorial picture, leaving its solution to minds more mature and stronger than ours, which we repeat, are still very, very dazed from the whole thing.

HERE IS WHAT SENATOR LENNON SAYS:

It was with regret that I learned that the Negro newspaper, The Wilmington Journal, in Wilmington, N. C., has withdrawn its support of my candidacy due to my previous positive and strong statement on the current question of segregation.

Segregation has proved to be beneficial to both the Negro and white races in North Carolina. For that reason I have always upheld segregation. The recent decision by the Supreme court has not altered my position in any manner. I still and always will believe in segregation.

The State of North Carolina has spent untold millions of dollars to provide adequate and equal facilities for the races. In some isolated instances, the facilities of our over-all education program may not yet be equal; but this situation is being overcome rapidly. In many instances, more modern and better schools have already been provided for the Negro race than are now enjoyed by our white school children. My home county of New Hanover is an example of this situation.

The relationship between the Negro and white races in North Carolina has been improving steadily. It has reached an all-time high in sincere and friendly day-by-day relations.

In the light of this situation, I cannot escape the conclusion that we should work out a solution or plan, within the law, that would permit North Carolina to continue its present segregated school system. By doing this, both races would benefit in many ways. That is especially so in continuing our fine relations and improving facilities for all school children, which is of the utmost importance to all.

It is my humble and honest opinion that the great majority of both races in North Carolina favors the principle and practice of segregation in our public school system.

The recent Supreme Court decision struck at the heart of States' rights. If followed to its ultimate conclusion it could destroy all vestige of States' rights.

This belief will be the foundation for my actions in the future whenever the question of segregation is involved.

New GI Money Design Is Knocking Art Critics Dead

TOKYO (AP)—Uncle Sam may have slowed the counterfeiters with his worldwide switch in military money.

But he knocked the art critics dead.

Blurted one shaken soldier when he saw the female figures on the new military scrips.

"Where did they get those beauties?"

Another shook his head in disbelief.

"It doesn't look as good as monopoly money!"

A third swallowed and edged toward the window.

"Those colors—they make me ill!"

The old scrip called in yesterday never would have won a prize at the Museum of Modern Art.

But it had a sort of classic neutrality, mostly cutlines and swirls. You could take it or leave it.

But the new dough goes right after you. It forces you to make up your mind.

Each one of the seven denominations has two female figures on it—one heads, one tails.

Now this isn't a bad idea—but it all depends on how you do it.

If they had made this money in Atlantic City or Hollywood—instead of Philadelphia (or wherever they do make it), you could see the possibilities.

But that ain't how they did it.

The Army started passing out the new stuff Tuesday and in less than an hour three opinions had crystallized on where they got the models.

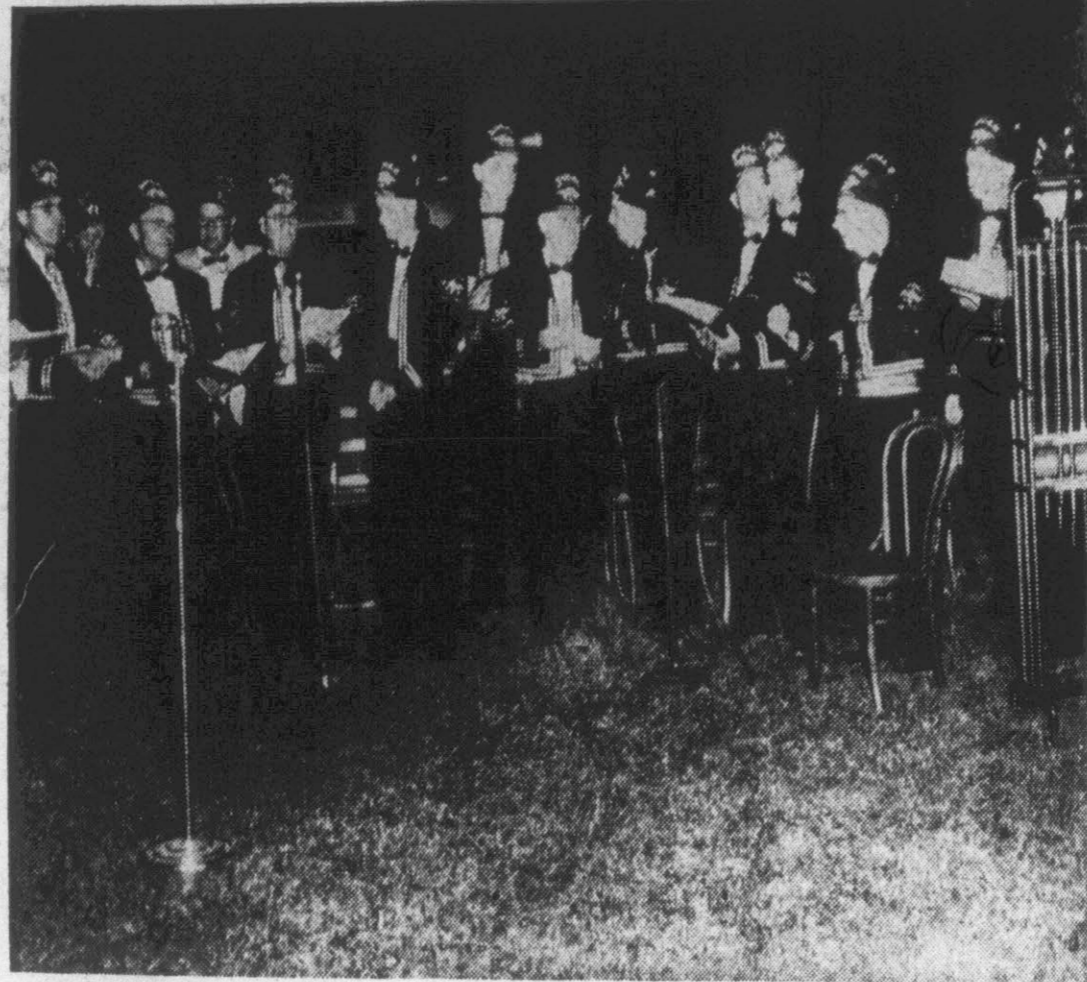

1. Metropolitan Opera stars of 1900.
2. Statues from the Columbian Exposition.
3. All the rejects stacked up in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing since Grover Cleveland's first administration.

New Floor Care Ends Waxing

One of the most difficult jobs of housekeeping is to keep linoleum and asphalt tile floors waxed and gleaming. Now, thanks to Glaxo, it is no longer necessary to wax and scrub. All you do is apply Glaxo with a brush about twice a year. It maintains a high lustre, non slip coating that seals out dirt. Glaxo dries in one hour and is water clear. It's cheaper than wax in the long run, besides saving a terrific amount of work, plus truly a beautiful floor. Glaxo is available at Belk-Tyler's on the third floor.

Entertained Spectators At College Stadium

Above are the Sudan Temple Band and the Sudan Temple Chanters who presented a joint concert at the college last night. Also performing were the Sudan Temple Patrol in a precision drill exercise and the Sudan Temple Drum and Bugle Corps in an exhibition drill. (Reflector photos by Alvin Taylor)

Showdown Fight Set Today Over Railroad Control

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The hard-fought battle for control of the 2 1/2 billion dollar New York Central Railroad system reaches a showdown today as the road's annual meeting convenes at the armory here.

But whether stockholders will support the management board headed by President William White or the opposition slate led by financier Robert R. Young may not be known for at least six days and perhaps two weeks. First will come a counting of proxies by three college law professors.

About 2,500 of the Central's 50,000 stockholders are expected to crowd into the Washington Avenue Armory for the meeting scheduled to begin at noon. Many will come from New York aboard a special train, running in two sections of 11 cars each.

Both sides have agreed to recess the session this afternoon, and election inspectors will go to work at once, counting votes and dealing with challenges. Over 90 per cent of the road's 6,447,410 common shares is expected to be voted.

White has said the count will take a minimum of six days and a maximum of two weeks.

The inspectors will be Professors Robert W. Miller of Syracuse University, John Hanna of Columbia University, and Civington Hardee of Harvard Law School. They will work under guard at the Hotel Ten Eyck here.

White was here yesterday to see to last-minute preparations for the meeting. He then returned to New York. Both White and Young planned to ride the stockholders' train this morning.

The Central lost a legal battle with Young yesterday afternoon when Presiding Justice David W. Peck of the Appellate Division, New York State Supreme Court, reserved decision on an appeal by the railroad. It had appealed a lower court ruling which refused to block the voting of 800,000 shares by their owners, Texas millionaires Clint W. Murchison and Sid W. Richardson, friends of Young. The Central also asked for postponement of the annual meeting until June 28.

In announcing that he was reversing decision Justice Peck remarked: "You can assume we are not going to enjoy the meeting."

The Texas bought the stock, the largest outstanding block, from Young's former railroad the Chesapeake & Ohio. The Central claimed that the transfer papers were defective and that the sale was a "sham and device."

Whether Murchison and Richardson would attend the annual meeting was not known early today. Young forces said the two might fly in from Texas.

Money Returned After Long Time

AUDUBON, Iowa (AP)—Eleven years ago Ralph Jones was serving in the Army in Africa and gave a wounded veteran a $10 bill. The understanding was the wounded veteran's arrival in the United States would telephone Ralph's parents and tell them Ralph was doing fine.

Later Jones learned the call was never made. He wrote off his $10. Now he has it back. It happened that recently Postmaster Russell Ramsey received a letter from a person asking for Jones' address. Ramsey sent it to the writer, who had explained he recalled Jones' request while recently going through personal effects.

In turn Jones got a letter and his $10.

Give $5,000 To Train High School Driver Education Teachers Of N.C.

A $5,000 grant-in-aid to provide summer scholarships at North Carolina State College for high school driver education teachers was given last week by the Allstate Foundation.

Mr. G. H. Bartlett of Atlanta, Territorial Representative of the Foundation, and Mr. Robert Leys of Charlotte, District Representative, presented the check to N.C. States Chancellor Carey Boston during a luncheon held on the State College campus.

The program will enable N.C. State College to expand its driver education program, and most of the money will be used to train additional instructors of high school driver education courses. It will also stimulate high school officials to start driver training classes and thus increase the number of high school students receiving such instructions.

High school teachers interested in applying for the scholarships are invited to write to Dean Bryant Kirkland, School of Education, N.C. State College, Raleigh. Scholarships will be available for the Summer Session, beginning early in June.

This grant is one of 24 similar grants which The Allstate Foundation will make in the country during the year. Officials expressed the hope that the resulting programs would serve as models for similar ones eventually in all 48 states.

BROTHERS COORDINATE
MERIDEN, Conn. (AP)—Winslow Chase, 13, was operated on for acute appendicitis. Within a few hours his brother, "Glendon," 15, became ill at a private school 100 miles away and rushed here. He too was operated on for acute appendicitis by the same surgeon and at the same hospital.

To The Voters of PITT COUNTY

My opponent says that to elect me Resident Judge and retire him to the status of Emergency Judge would add the retirement pay of $7,333.33 to the state's expense. Not if Judge Frizzelle works and holds court.

As an Emergency Judge, he can hold as many courts as he does as Resident Judge, if his health and condition permit, and if he wishes. If he holds as many courts as Emergency Judge as he does as Resident Judge, he will receive the same compensation. Same amount of work, same pay. If he wants to earn his pay, he can do it.

If Emergency Judges Grady and Burgwyn were not holding courts, the Governor would have to appoint two Special Judges. The more Emergency Judges there are, the less Special Judges. The total number of judges remains the same, with no additional expense to the State.

Pitt County, the largest county in the district, has not had the judgeship in over 28 years.

The present Resident Judge is serving his 24th year.

Give another man a chance, and give Pitt County a chance.

I will greatly appreciate your support.

Joan Foster, Bride

By Alice Ross Calves

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN
HALF an hour. An hour and five minutes. An hour and ten minutes. Joan decided she wouldn't watch Todd to come from the operating room any longer. She would close her eyes and count to one hundred before she looked down the hall again. She had reached fifty-nine when she heard a familiar reassuring voice.

Her eyes flew open. Dr. Rogers stood there, his cherub face wreathed in smiles.
"Oh, Doctor! Is he—"
"Fine as a fiddle. Back in his room and tucked up like a baby. Got it just in time. Tell him for me when he wakes up that he can have five helpings of turkey next week, if he likes."

Joan telephoned Todd's mother while she waited for Todd to emerge from the ether. "He's all right! He's going to be fine," she said, her voice sounding her thankfulness. "No complications. No, I'll wait till he can speak to me before I come home. Yes, I'll tell him! Good-by now." Then she called her own mother to reassure her too, and after that she went back to Todd's bedside and sat down in a chair close beside him.

Presently he half-opened one eye. "Hello, honey," he murmured. The nurse bent over him, taking his pulse.
Soon the nurse went out, with a quick smile for Joan. "He's all right. He's in a natural sleep. I'll be back soon."

Joan nodded. Not until then did the question that had been hammering in the back of her head make itself heard. But now it seemed to roar through the hushed evening quiet of the hospital room. How were they ever going to meet it? The wedding money was gone. Practically all of it used for furniture and for the stuff they had bought for refurnishing it. Her royalty that she had been saving—somehow that had vanished, too. "And it's all my fault," she thought.

If only she had listened to Todd in the beginning. How right he had been!

She sat silently there in the gathering darkness, her worry over Todd dissipated, but a new worry gathering darkly in her heart.

It had been over a year since she had last seen her publisher. She had called there once, soon after her return from Europe, to let him know that she had her story Jane in Switzerland mapped out and was going to set to work on it immediately. She had worked all last winter and had sent in the completed manuscript in May, just before her wedding. She put in a call for Mr. Adams of the publishing firm and waited.

The girl at the telephone switchboard was addressing her.
"Yes?"
"Mr. Adams is in conference now, and doesn't know just when he will be free. He suggests that you talk with Miss Bishop. She is the editor of books for young people."

"All right."
"Down the corridor and to your right. The last door."

"Yes I know the way," she said. "I met Miss Bishop earlier." The young editor was as friendly as the president of the company had been. They made an appointment to meet in the New York office.

"I'm so glad to see you again," Miss Bishop said rising and extending her hand. "I look busy, don't I? This desk! Well, I am of course. Children's Book Week just behind and the Christmas trade ahead. But I'm glad to take time off to chat with you. How is your third story coming along? Have you begun it yet? And where is Jane going this time?"

"That's what I wanted to talk to you about."
"All right. Let's talk. You're not having any trouble, are you?"

Joan nodded. "That's it. You see, I'm not—" she stopped for a moment. "Well, this series started out to be a kind of travel series, as you just said. I based both of my stories on my own experiences. But since I came back from Europe, I haven't traveled at all. And don't expect to. So—"

"Well, I seem to be stuck for a start. In fact, I guess I'm stuck for material for the whole thing."

Miss Bishop's bright eyes were suddenly alert and keen, though her voice remained calm. "Goodness," she said. "That does sound like a predicament. I don't really believe, though, that it's as bad as you make out. You must have some kind of an idea buzzing about in your head. Haven't you?"

"If I don't need to go on making this a travel series—yes."

"Well you don't. Who said you did? There's no hard and fast rule about it. Why not have Jane stay at home for a year? Let her have some of the regular, normal experiences that most girls have. I think your readers might like that. For instance—" She checked herself. "No you tell me. After all, it's to be your book, not mine, and you said you had an idea."

Joan spoke in quick relief. "Well, I thought this. I thought Jane might stay at home and go into business. Would that be all right?"

"Fine! What kind of business?"

"I'd thought of antiques."

Miss Bishop looked thoughtful. "By herself? Not by herself, I think. She wouldn't know enough, would she? With an older person, perhaps. One who is experienced. Does that appeal to you?"

"Yes," Joan nodded. "Frankly, this thought came to me recently. I haven't developed it at all, because I wasn't sure whether you'd approve. But she has to earn money, you see. In this book she simply has to earn money."

"Does she? Why?"

"Because of—because of sickness in her family. Hospital expenses and an operation. For her mother or father, I think. Perhaps it had best be her father, since he is the wage earner. That makes earning money a more pressing need, I mean."

"Yes good reasoning. So Jane must help out financially and goes into business. It sounds as though you might have a worth-while and interesting story there. Let me see now. Antiques. Yes, I believe that will do. We have no heroines on our list at present who is embarking on that venture. They seem to be secretaries or nurses or radio singers or newspaper girls." She nodded briskly. "Go ahead! Try it."

Fire Destroys Tenant House At Bell Arthur

Fire destroyed a four-room tenant house at Bell Arthur Tuesday morning.

The house was occupied by Charles Harris, Negro and owned by Dawson E. Baker.

Greenville firemen answered the call to the burning building but reported that the blaze was out of control when they arrived. The fire broke out about 7:12 a. m. when an oil stove exploded.

The fire fighters also answered a call to Fifth and Tyson Street when brakes on a car caught fire. No damage was reported.

About 3:15 Monday afternoon a false alarm was turned in from Fifth and Student Streets.

Businessmen Of New York City Show Confidence

NEW YORK (AP)—New York City is as confident today as it was jittery three months ago.

Businessmen here think the bottom was touched in the early days of this month. True, they look for a fairly quiet summer. But they seem confident that the fall will bring sure if modest gains.

In some things—like unemployment and the cost of living, both of which are up here—New York City just now is going counter to the national trend.

In other—like retail sales and construction, which are fairly high here—it pretty much typifies what's happening most places in the United States.

In still others—like foreign trade and investment and bank loans, where the decline is noticeably slower—New Yorkers like to think their town is the bellwether.

Latest government figures for the nation as a whole show that the number now collecting jobless benefits is lower than at any time since the first of February. But unemployment continued to rise in April in New York City, largely due to the ills of the garment and textile trades.

But here, too New Yorkers now think they've seen the worst. The synthetic fiber market remains mostly dull. But New York's Worth Street cotton merchants cite the recent flurry of orders for third and fourth-quarter deliveries of cotton prints and broad cloths as offering the hope at least that the textile industry may at last be working itself out of its long downward cycle.

The garment industry says that the rising price tendency for woolsens and worsteds means both the working off of inventories and an increase in consumer demand. If so, it could lead to more activity in New York's teeming garment section.

It still costs plenty to live here. While the government's cost of living index dropped slightly for the nation in its current report, the index for New York City rose slightly, because food prices and medical care costs rose. Even so, Gothamites note their index is still slightly below the national average, so there must be more expensive places.

The year-long dip in manufacturing activity apparently hasn't affected one of the city's habits. Buildings are still being torn down. Modern office buildings are still going up. So are luxury apartment houses, in spite of an increasing number of vacancy signs on older ones.

And out on the outskirts of the city, new housing developments continue to spring up.

Retail sales here tend to trail last year a little. In the first four post-Easter weeks, department store sales in the city were 4 per cent below a year ago, and apparel shop sales 9 per cent below.

Merchants, however, say they can fill their store by advertising bargains.

Annual Banquet For GHS Athletes Held

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer

Greenville High School's annual athletic banquet was given last night at Respass-James Barbecue House for the athletes and coaches. Head Basketball Coach Bo Farley was master of ceremonies for the event and lined up several speakers. Mr. H. L. Hodges, a former Greenville High School and University of North Carolina football player, spoke on disadvantages of loafing by a player, not only when he is on the team but also in the business world as well. Mr. Hodges pointed out that the athlete should stay up with his man, for if his opponent ever got ahead, it would be twice as hard to catch up. Mr. Hodges also stated that he thought this season had been a great one for Greenville High School teams.

Mr. J. B. Kittrell, Jr., also a former Greenville High School football star, gave twelve ways a player could live without getting in the limelight. Mr. Kittrell pointed out in his talk some things an athlete should do to do his best. Mr. June Rose, superintendent of schools, made a talk in the form of a wish. Mr. Rose stated, "If we could only have 12 boys to form the nucleus of Greenville High School teams, to train all year long, 12 months to the year, then athletics in Greenville High would rise."

Mr. Rose showed the fact that until the Greenville teams do get those boys who are willing to put other things aside for sports that we will not have teams much better than the ones we have been having.

After the talks Principal O. E. Dowd gave notice to all the seniors on Greenville High School teams and had them stand up before the crowd.

Cochs Farley and Bill Kittrell then gave out the letters to boys making a letter for the first time in a sport. Players making a letter for the second time in a sport were given stars.

About fifty athletes were on hand for the banquet and the letter awarding.

New Wolfpack Coach Has Many Problems

By HUGH FULLERTON
RALEIGH (AP) — You'd hardly think of Earle Edwards as the kind of high-pressure football coach who would be given the tremendous task of rehabilitating North Carolina State's football program.

He isn't, but he got the job and he looks upon it as a tough, challenging but not impossible task.

Edwards, one of Biggie Munn's numerous assistants who advanced to top spots this year, is an easy going sort of guy who likes to be the breeze with friends and occasionally do some soft off-key singing in the mellow part of the evening.

"I'm not looking for an ulcer. I'm not so anxious to win that I'd be mean to the kids. I'd rather give up coaching," said Earle as he pondered the problems of his new job.

Those problems are numerous in a school which hasn't had a real winning season since the Wolfpack went to the Gato Bowl, Jan. 1, 1945. When Horace "Horse" Hendrickson was forced out as coach last January, the chairman of the athletic council, Dr. H. A. Fischer, said financial troubles made it necessary "either to rehabilitate this program or give up football."

Part of the financial difficulty comes from a 30,000 seat stadium—not big enough to create a surplus during the good seasons to tide over the bad ones.

Edwards figures he'd rather see a small stadium full than a big, expensive one half empty. As for giving up the game, he says: "I have found any amount of opinion in favor of football here. The administration wants good football as long as academic standards are upheld and it has been very cooperative."

Other challenges that Edwards must overcome include N.C. State's reputation as a "basketball" school; its limited and often difficult curriculum; competition from three other major colleges within the state; the lack of a talented nucleus for his 1954 squad and the difficulty of teaching a complicated new system to players who couldn't do well under the old one.

Earle fresh from an intensive course in winning football at Michigan State, finds a bright side to every one of these points.

While State has been at the bottom of the Carolina Big Four in football, it's a top-ranking basketball power under Everett Case's regime—potent enough to draw censure from the NCAA for trying out basketball players.

Says Edwards: "I haven't paid any attention to basketball and I don't intend to." He doesn't think there's any serious conflict nor that football improvement would do more than take some pressure off the basketball coaches.

Edwards admits it probably will take at least two years to install the successful Michigan State Multiple offense and round up the material to make it work. Meanwhile he has a wisecrack to cover that situation:

"Next fall we'll probably have more players—and lose more ground for the title chance."

U.S. Linksman Still In Action

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP) — Bill Campbell and Frank Stranahan led 13 Americans' day of play of the British Amateur Golf Championship today—a session that calls for stamina as well as skill.

When play began this morning only eight of the 112 survivors of an original field of 280 had advanced to the fourth round.

The others were called upon to settle third-round arguments with the winners then scheduled to play another 18-hole round during the afternoon. This was a tough schedule for amateurs on this 6,806-yard, par-72 links, where strong winds whip in from the North Sea.

Campbell, 6-1 betting shot from Huntington, W. Va., met Scotland's long-hitting John Mill in an early third round match. Mill is the reigning West of Scotland champion.

Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, 6-1 joint choice with defending champion Joe Carr of Dublin, was matched against Dr. R. J. Henderson, little known Englishman.

Frank Strafaci, Garden City, N. Y., veteran, faced Andrew C. Miller, 22-year-old Scottish medical student in another third-round match.

The two new teams in Greenville's Recreation Softball League got initiated into the rigors of the league play with a game against each other last night and when the dust cleared from their slugfest, the power-packed National Guard team had declared itself to be a team to reckon with in the league's pennant race.

The National Guard team outlasted Harris Super Markets 16-10 in the first game of last night's doubleheader. In the second contest, the previously non-winning Southern Bread team handed the Jolly Rogers their third straight setback to the tune of a 16-5 score.

In the first game, National Guard was out-hit 9-7 by the Harris team but the soldiers had the advantage of four Harris errors and a flock of walks. Harris was in trouble throughout the game but the low point was reached in the sixth frame when National Guard pushed across 10 runs to wrap the game up.

Redmond, with three hits, led the hitting for both teams. Allen, Redmond's National Guard teammate, had two hits as did Morgan and Joseph of Harris Super Markets.

In the second contest, Southern Bread's J. McRoy and A. Hardee each had three hits to pace the 10-hit attack against the Jolly Rogers. J. McRoy pitched the victory for the bakers and limited the Jolly Rogers to six hits. Only catcher Boyette was able to get more than one hit off McRoy.

Southern Bread scored in every inning of the abbreviated contest.

Little Mo Plans To Get Married

PARIS (AP)—With Maureen Connolly planning marriage there is a glimmer of hope for the remainder of the title-starved field of women tennis players.

So far it is only a glimmer because "Little Mo" has not decided what she will do after she is married. She may continue to make tournament rounds and she may not.

"It depends on so many things," she said today. "We don't know if Norm will be able to travel."

Miss Connolly said she plans to marry Ens Norman Brinker who expects to be released from the U. S. Navy in November.

"I'll never give up tennis because it has been so much to me," she said. "I'll always play it and enjoy it but I just don't know if I'll be playing in so many tournaments."

Little Mo has completely dominated women's tennis singles field since 1951. She has won the U. S. title for the past three years, won the Australian title in 1953 in her only trip Down Under and will make her bid for her third straight Wimbledon, crown next month.

And now she is in the semifinals round of the French championships and appears to a shoo-in for her third straight title since her outstanding rivals, Shirley Fry and Doris Hart, passed up the French tournament to play in English tourneys.

Miss Connolly has lost only eight games in three matches in advancing to the semifinals, where she'll meet Italy's Sylvana Lazzarino.

Davey Is Underdog In Bout Tonight With Martinez

CHICAGO (AP) — Chuck Davey, who was given a boxing lesson by welterweight champion Kid Gavilan in his last Chicago Stadium appearance, steps into the same ring tonight against slugger Vince Martinez as a 7-5 underdog.

Martinez, 25-year-old Paterson, N.J., product, is ranked sixth in the welterweight bracket and has 20 knockouts among his 33 victories in 36 fights.

Davey, 28-year-old ex-Michigan State collegiate champion with a master's degree in education, was stopped by Gavilan in the 10th round on Feb. 11, 1953. It was his first defeat in a rapid buildup to the championship shot.

Davey, a southpaw, started his campaign all over again. Since that time he has had six bouts, winning half of them. Two of his losses were to Al Andrews and a third was a disputed decision that went to Art Aragon in Los Angeles three months ago.

Davey has signed for a rematch with Aragon in Los Angeles June 25 and desperately needs a victory over Martinez to keep alive the hopes of a $100,000 gate for the West Coast fight.

White Sox Break Win Skein Of League-Leading Indians

The Cleveland Indians might have known that when their winning streak was broken the villains would be the Chicago White Sox.

The Indians put an 11-game string on the line in Chicago last night and the White Sox promptly snapped it with a 4-2 decision. If the streak had been the other way around, Cleveland probably would have won.

That's the way the perennial runners-up in the American League have been going at each other regularly during the past three seasons in one of the most evenly matched rivalries in the majors.

Dating back through 1951 the series stands 37-34 in favor of the Indians. Cleveland's slight edge is reflected in the standings since it has finished second all three years. The White Sox own two thirds and a fourth.

A year ago the clubs broke even against each other, 11 apiece.

Chicago now has won three of five from the first-place Indians

Plane Crashes In Downtown Area

NEWARK, Del (AP)—An Air Force twin engine plane crashed into a lumber yard in downtown Newark last night and exploded into a terrific fire. No one was injured in the fire and both the pilot and copilot safely parachuted over the city.

The C-45 exploded on impact and the flames, fed by a half million dollars worth of lumber leaped 100 feet into the air.

The two flyers were taken to the New Castle County Air Force Base near Wilmington, 12 miles north-east of Newark. A spokesman said there would be an investigation.

The plane was in a routine non-stop training flight from Mitchell Air Force Base, Long Island N.Y., to Washington, D. C. and return.

The pilot, Capt. Leroy B. Hansen, 32, of Salt Lake City, Utah, said the ship suddenly developed engine trouble and when emergency measures failed, he and copilot Capt. Howard N. Franklyn, 32, of Medford, Mass., bailed out.

The Pactorius Club is sponsoring the meeting with hopes of making it an annual affair.

Photographer Is Indochina Victim

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—Robert Capa, famed American war photographer, was killed yesterday in a land mine blast on the Indochina front.

A French high command announcement said the Hungarian-born cameraman died near Phnhy, 30 miles south of Hanoi. He was the first American photographer killed in the Indochina war.

Capa, who won fame through his coverage for Life magazine during World War II, came here two weeks ago on a temporary assignment for Life. He had gone to Phnhy—an active war sector—to do a story with John Mecklin, a Time magazine correspondent. French sources said Mecklin escaped injury.

In recognition of his World War II coverage Gen. Eisenhower decorated Capa with the U. S. Medal of Freedom in 1947.

Capa was among six owner-members of Magnum Photos Inc., a worldwide cooperative pictures agency.

The death of Werner Bischof, one of Capa's associates in Magnum photos, was announced in New York last night. The agency said he was killed sometime last week in an automobile accident in the mountains of Peru. He had covered assignments for many American magazines, including the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II for Life.

TVA Heads Say Payment To Go Over $9 Million

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The Tennessee Valley Authority says it and its power distributors will pay nearly nine million dollars in taxes and payments in lieu of taxes during the current fiscal year.

The authority said the payments will go to seven Southern states, 135 counties and scores of municipalities.

Payments to states and counties by TVA will total $3,576,668, the authority said. Payments to states and local governments by municipal and cooperative distributors of TVA power were estimated at about $5,391,000.

TVA said yesterday these combined payments will top by more than 5 1/2 millions the former property taxes on all reservoir lands and on all privately owned power property acquired by the government agency and its distributors.

TVA is required by law to pay what amounts to taxes in areas where it operates. Its distributors are not required to, but many of them, such as municipal utilities, make voluntary payments in lieu of taxes.

The authority gave this breakdown of its payments by states and counties, with the states' figure listed first:

- Alabama, $608,213 and $41,882;
- Georgia, $10,108 and $54,080;
- Kentucky, $366,379 and $31,393;
- Mississippi, $70,631 and $33,590;
- North Carolina, $85,667 and $8,114;
- Tennessee, $1,310,128 and $943,442;
- Virginia, $13,429 and $1,612.

The payments to individual counties ranged from $6.11 to Metcalfe in Kentucky to $111,378 to Polk in Tennessee.

TVA said it did not have a breakdown on payments made by its distributors.
