Delegates To Geneva Wrestle With New Indochina Deadlock

By MAX HARRELLSON GENEVA (AP)—Western and Communist delegates wrestled with a new deadlock today over the thorny question of Red participation in the policing of an Indochina armistice.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey Savage motored to Pamlico Beach Sunday. Mrs. George Jefferson of Fountain was here Monday to attend the alumnae luncheon at the college.

A very delightful surprise connected with class day exercises was the presentation to the college by the Senior Normal class of an oil portrait of President Robert H. Wright. It has been a custom for each departing class to leave a gift with the college and the 1924 class decided to have a portrait of the man who had guided the destinies of the institution for fifteen years. The portrait was done by a noted New York portrait painter, Griffith Cole.

At last! "At last we've actually graduated!" shouted the class of 1924 Tuesday night. There were many tears and many smiles as the seniors grabbed their precious diplomas and took their places on the stage.

Girls "tripping the light fantastic" in their three-inch heels wondered if they would actually make it across the terribly long stage of Wright Auditorium.

Boys, unaccustomed to long skirts, heaved sighs of relief as the last strains of the "Star Spangled Banner" floated into the beautiful night of June 1, 1924.

Many peeped at their diplomas to see if their names were really there in black and white. Twelve years of hard labor seemed to be worth that one sheet of paper.

Memories will remain long in the minds of these 116 graduates, the largest class in the history of Greenville High.

Voices of teachers and echoes of friends' voices will long remain in the memories of all the graduates of 1924.

Mrs. Pate served cake and Mrs. McLawhorn served punch. Assisting in serving nuts and mints were Misses Jean and Sarah Pate and Miss Juanita Stokes.

U.S. Lend-Lease Aid Belittled In Soviet Account

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
MOSCOW (AP)—The Great Soviet Encyclopedia describes U.S. lend-lease, which helped Russia beat back Hitler's invasion, as "one of the greatest sources of enrichment of the American monopolies during the second World War."

Lend-lease gets nearly a page in the encyclopedia's Volume 24, just off the presses here. Its figure on what the Russians received under the program — $9,800,000,000 — is more than one billion dollars under what the U.S. government says it gave Moscow.

The encyclopedia article also claims:

1. Lend-lease arms and materials were sold by American sources at inflated prices.

2. What the Soviet Union took from the United States was "in significant" compared to Russian industrial output during the war.

3. The United States gave Britain a very generous deal on settlement of the British account but fixed terms for the Soviet Union "deliberately higher."

The United States has listed a total of $48,895,235,000 worth of lend-lease distributed during the war and postwar period to 43 Allied nations. Of this, the British Commonwealth received $31,384,810,000, and Russia, the second largest recipient, got $10,882,069,000.

Britain settled her debt in 1946, paying 650 million dollars after account was taken of reverse lend-lease charges. Of the nearly eight billion dollars in reverse lend-lease received by the United States, more than six billions came from Britain.

The United States has demanded over 800 million dollars from Russian settlement. The Russians reportedly have countered with an offer of 300 million. The two countries are still disputing the matter.

'YES' OR 'NO'—In the 24th day of the McCarthy-Army dispute hearings in Washington, Special Counsel Ray Jenkins presses Roy Cohn, the witness, for a "yes" or "no" answer as to whether Cohn wanted Schine assigned to the New York area after Schine completed his eight weeks basic training at Ft. Dix, N. J. Cohn first said that it couldn't be answered yes or no, but later came out with a "No, sir." (AP Wirephoto)

Digest Of Progress In McCarthy-Army Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here is a digest of progress in the investigation of alleged subversives in the Army, particularly at Ft. Monmouth, N. J. He also discussed the inquiry into the dispute between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and top Army officials:

The original charges—Secretary of the Army Stevens and Army Counselor John G. Adams accused McCarthy and two subcommittee aides, Roy M. Cohn and Francis P. Carr, of using improper pressures to win favored Army treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine, a subcommittee aid who was drafted.

McCarthy and his associates in turn accused Stevens and Adams of attempting to use Schine as a "hostage" in efforts to induce McCarthy to halt or divert an investigation of alleged subversives in the Army, particularly at Ft. Monmouth, N. J. He also discussed the inquiry into the dispute between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and top Army officials:

The original charges—Secretary of the Army Stevens and Army Counselor John G. Adams accused McCarthy and two subcommittee aides, Roy M. Cohn and Francis P. Carr, of using improper pressures to win favored Army treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine, a subcommittee aid who was drafted.

Savings Bond Sales In Pitt Still Mount

J. H. Waldrop, chairman of Pitt county, U.S. Savings Bonds Committee, has released sales figures of Series E and H U.S. Savings Bonds. The combined sales totals for Pitt are $65,009.25.

From January through April of this year Pitt citizens have saved $355,825 in Savings Bonds, the report states.

State Director Walter P. Johnson and State Chairman W.H. Andrews, Jr., reported that combined sales for April were $3,929,138.75, a five per cent increase over 1953. Bond sales in the state through April this year are $17,322,886.75, which is 23 per cent of the state's annual quota, and a five per cent increase over 1953.

Waldrop expressed appreciation to Pitt citizens who continue their support by purchasing U.S. Savings Bonds. He also said the payroll savings plan for business firms and the bond-a-month services offered by local banks makes the Savings Bond privileges available for all who desire to benefit by this thrift program.

The county chairman has arranged for the "Banker-Civic Club" Program during June in Pitt county which is creating much interest. The Exchange, Rotary and Kiwanis clubs have agreed to have one of their meetings dedicated to this event. A 10-year "service pin" will be awarded Chairman Waldrop, state headquarters announced.

Adams referred to Schine as "the hostage" more often than he used Schine's name, and that Adams once said he would "stop at nothing" to block a subcommittee move to question members of the Army's top loyalty board. Cohn denied Army testimony that he had once "declared war" on the Army when barred from a secret radar laboratory at Ft. Monmouth.

Yesterday's highlights—The subcommittee unanimously okayed a resolution, sought by the Army's Special Counsel Joseph N. Welch and subcommittee Democrats calling on McCarthy to hand over to the Defense Department the names of 130 alleged Communists who McCarthy said are now working in defense plants. McCarthy said he would not be bound by the vote, but also said the department was welcome to information in his files.

Cohn, under sharp cross-examination from Welch, denied that the Schine affair was at the bottom of the McCarthy camp's collision with the Army. He said the trouble would have come up anyway because Army officials were determined to stop their loyalty board members from being questioned by the McCarthy subcommittee.

Slight Decline In General Fund Collection Noted

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's General Fund collections declined during May, but have shown an increase of more than four million dollars for the first 11 months of this fiscal year.

State Revenue Commissioner Eugene Shaw reported yesterday that collections amounted to $9,748,287 during May, a decrease of $39,742 over the same month last year.

For the first 11 months of this fiscal year, Shaw said the General Fund intake amounted to $109,254,000, an increase of $4,289,901 or 2.60 per cent over the same period last fiscal year.

Shaw predicted that General Fund collections for this fiscal year will fall short of estimates by $2,414,768. He estimated that collections at the close of the fiscal year will amount to $184,404,546. This, he added, is an increase of $4,071,082 over collections last fiscal year but will fall short of the estimated collection of $186,891,314 for this fiscal year.

Shaw said his estimate is "based principally upon collections to date and our collection experience for the month of June, 1953."

Gasoline tax revenue, he said, totaled $6,661,242 during May, a decline of $121,846 over the same month a year ago. However, collections for the fiscal year to date show an increase of $2,264,271 over the same period for the previous year.

Sales tax collections of $4,470,047 were down $21,641. So far this fiscal year the intake has totaled $51,090,553, a gain of $604,451.

Income tax receipts amounted to $1,611,700, a decline of $148,840. For this fiscal year the collections amounted to $73,169,310, an increase of $849,778.

Commend Shrine For Ceremonial

Many letters have been received by Greenville Shriners commenting on the Sudan Temple's Spring Ceremonial held here last week.

The letters have been unanimous in praising the Greenville nobles for their work in making the ceremonial a success. Typical of the letters is one from Marcus G. Carpenter Sr. of Durham who said, "Thanks for such a great Ceremonial as you gave the Nobles of Sudan Temple. It was wonderful and unbelievable that your city could handle a crowd so well. Such Ceremonials come only when the officials of a city, the Police Department, all city employees, and every citizen of the city joins in to do a great job. This was done in your city and your Potentate, the officers and every Noble of Sudan I know will say thanks to every citizen in your city."

Liquor And Motor Vehicle Violations Feature Court

Violations of liquor and motor vehicle laws were responsible for the bulk of the 24 cases disposed of by Judge Dink James in County Court Tuesday.

The Judge heard 17 motor vehicle law violation cases and four cases involving illegal possession of liquor during the day. There was also one case of assault and two cases involving abandonment and non-support.

A Wolf Sits Quietly At Our Door

As thought and consideration are given to the matter of carrying out the Supreme Court order that segregation in public schools must be ended, let us be mindful of the ominous wolf which has quietly taken its place at the doorstep.

The wolf to which we refer is the so-far silent threat of federal control of public education.

So far, the possibilities of federal government control of public schools in individual states has not entered the discussion of the segregation problem. Nevertheless, the threat is there and should be recognized before it is too late.

Local government control in recent decades has given way rapidly to federal controls in many fields which formerly were looked upon completely under local government jurisdiction.

In less than three decades, we have seen the federal government, through its liberal use of the taxpayers' dollars literally purchase much control from local and state governments. Federal dollars have been poured into welfare funds of individual counties throughout the nation, and county welfare programs have been patterned according to the dictates of federal agencies. Federal money has gone into health programs of individual counties, and with the federal dollars have also come federal standards which are tantamount to control of local policies.

Many hospitals, public health clinics and other structures have been afforded communities through federal government help.

Industry Wants A Shot At Atomics

American industry is pawing impatiently for a chance to do more of its own exploration and development in the field of atomic energy.

While it is of vital importance that government secrets on atomic energy be protected, we are of the opinion the United States might do well to give private industry the go-ahead in some phases of atomic energy research and development.

It is apparent now that liberally hundreds of companies in this country are anxious to get their scientists and their dollars into atomic energy research. The situation has changed drastically since two years ago when the Atomic Energy Commission was having some difficulty in getting industry to undertake study projects in the field.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
RESERVOIRS IN RESERVE
Sometimes under the pressure of extreme excitement or fear, we can do things which under ordinary circumstances would seem impossible. Just recently there was a newspaper account of an 86-pound woman who, when she saw a driverless automobile slipping down her driveway and headed for a five-year-old neighbor child, rushed to the car and held it back. People of frail physical proportions can sometimes sling mountains around, when something of overwhelming value is at stake.
This involves the principle of reserve strength. We sometimes say of a strong man that he really doesn't know his own strength. That is true not only of the strong; it is even more true of the weak. There are circumstances of such a prodigious nature that the necessity for confronting them causes vast reservoirs of energy to be unleashed that we never knew we had. People sometimes bear sorrows that they would have deemed impossible for them to endure before they actually went through them. Over the years, brave souls sometimes act with fortitude and patience with reference to situations that they could never have believed themselves capable of confronting in such a spirit.
Expect much of God. He switches on reservoirs of power within our own natures when we are most in need of such power.

Lewis: From Rags To Riches

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—Although John L. Lewis could not borrow a nickel for his almost bankrupt union 20 years ago, the president of the United Mine Workers and part-time politician now controls union, mining, real estate and bank resources totalling more than $400,000,000. His latest coup is regarded as the most miraculous which the Iowa-born Welshman has staged in his melodramatic career.
He is a financial as well as a labor titan. In his recent formation of what will become the second most powerful bank in the nation's Capital, he outsmarted several former Roosevelt-Truman officials and Washington's shrewdest bankers, who schemed to block his invasion of their field. Rightly or wrongly, he suspects that these ex-New Dealers sought to punish him for his desertion of F.D.R. in the 1940 Presidential campaign.
Lewis had important assistance in defying Washington's "Little Wall Street." For years he has been an ally of Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland's maverick industrialist and financier, and Robert B. Young. It may be that Lewis furnished funds to aid the Young-Eaton interests in their recent fight to obtain control of the New York Central Railroad. Or it may be that they financed his banking venture in Washington.
STRANGE ASSOCIATES—The outcome lands the union labor politician in bed with some strange figures, in addition to Messrs. Eaton and Young. For among the latter's backers in the New York Central battle were several of those famous and fabulous "Texas billionaires." John L. can no longer pose as a "simple working man's friend." He walks and deals with the mighty.

While it may be too early to speculate on the meaning of these railroad and banking adventures, this group of union and corporate rebels will prove to be a formidable alliance in the related fields of finance, labor and politics. They control a lot of men and money in the nation's political strongholds of Washington and New York.
MUM ON ASSETS—John L.'s financial assets are probably known only to himself and a few of his associates. As a union leader, a politician and a banker, he has never behaved so secretly and mysteriously as he has in the last few months. He has even abandoned his quotations from Shakespeare and other poets and dramatists of feudal days.
But here are a few of the figures which his admirers and enemies got up in his financial favor: The United Mine Workers concedes that it has $40,000,000 in the bank and other investments, but the total is usually estimated at nearer $75,000,000. The UMW Welfare Fund, which he controls, has assets of $100,000,000.
When consummated, his new bank will have resources of about $255,000,000. But this total will increase rapidly, for he has staged a successful campaign to force or persuade all his unions to deposit their funds with his institution. In the few years since he took over his first bank, it climbed from thirteen to four hundred Washington's banking institutions.
In addition, Lewis owns several pieces of real estate in Washington's most valuable area. He has also invested money in the coal mines of friendly and co-operative operators when a lack of funds would have forced them to close their shafts, thus creating unemployment among his miners.
HOW IT ALL BEGAN—Lewis began his banking operations with acquisition of the National Bank of Washington about five years ago. Seeking branches up the uptown section, he made application to Truman's Comptroller of the Treasury, who rejected his petition. National then sought a merger with the Hamilton National Bank, which has eight strategically located branches.
He was opposed by the American Security and Trust Company, which is headed by Daniel W. Bell, a Roosevelt-Truman Undersecretary of the Treasury. Bell's group offered $2 a share for Hamilton stock, which had a book value of only $69.
But Lewis raised the bid to $110 a share at the last moment, and won out. However, Eisenhower's Comptroller of the Currency must first okay the merger that will make John L. the number two banker at the Capital. Will the Comptroller do it?

The Malaria Mosquito Is Tiny

Somebody Told Me

Many Attractions In Mexico

Today's column is a continuation of yesterday's, the description of a trip to Mexico by Jean and Doug stayed at Monterey and Mary Alice went on to Mexico City by plane. In Mexico City the girls met two other North Carolina girls and went on a tour conducted by the hotel. The guide also served as a chaperone for the girls. He wouldn't allow anybody to dance with them and was very particular to see that they didn't get lost for a minute.
Looking at Mexico from the standpoint of a recreation spot, you can find almost any type you like. The coast is within easy reach, where deep sea fishing may be done at reasonable prices. Mountain climbing and swimming may be done within close proximity of each other.

The name of one of the most elegant resort hotels in Monterey translates into English as The Horse Tail Falls Hotel. Naturally, there are water falls nearby that resemble a horse's tail. "The view from the falls will knock your eyes out," Roy says. "There's a trail that goes up the side of a mountain that leads to this particular view. If you like transportation, donkeys are available free of charge. Naturally you are expected to tip the attendants, but what's a peso? Only eight cents!"
There's a drive in Mexico that resembles the Skyline Drive in Virginia, only it puts the Skyline Drive in the shade. Of course that's the opinion of the man who's crazy about Mexico, Roy. The bull fights are another attraction in Mexico, which is something that I would like to see more to get the reaction of the crowd than to see the bull chasing the man.

How much of an obstacle is the lack of knowledge of their language? Of course Roy can speak Spanish as well as he can English. He majored in Spanish at East Carolina and his "home work" consisted of speaking it on the amateur radio bands for practice. Can you imagine a more ideal way to learn a language? But Roy says that in all of the better restaurants the waiters can speak enough English to get by, and the same applies to other commercial establishments.
I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

SCRAMBLED CONSIDERATIONS
(Greensboro Daily News)
Certain commentators to the contrary notwithstanding, the outcome of Saturday's Democratic Senate primary did not reflect any clearcut stand on liberalism or conservatism in North Carolina.
The liberal-conservative issue, in its underlying philosophy, was badly scrambled among other and more decisive considerations entering into the campaign.
Undoubtedly former Governor W. Kerr Scott picked up a substantial number of what might be called liberal votes. By that we mean labor and Negro votes and many of the intellectuals who followed Frank Graham in his 1950 unsuccessful bid for the Senate.
But Lennor carried many of the heavily industrialized and Negro populated counties and in others Scott's margin of victory was small. The Haw River squires' heavy vote came in those counties where liberalism has fared worst and where Frank Graham lost the election. Reference of course is to the farm counties in the Eastern part of the state; they went for Scott almost to a county and they went to him by substantial margins. The reason is that they know him as their spokesman and champion, the candidate and Governor of the branchhead boys. They knew he would fight their battles with special zeal in the Senate and they knew that his record, quite contrary to what Lennor spokesmen asserted, did not tie him in with the non-segregation cause. This knowledge, completely offsetting what was expected to be the winning Lennor strategy after the Supreme Court's school decision, also left them doubting the truth of other Lennor charges and statements against Scott and his official and personal conduct.

Scott won where Graham lost; and that ought to be all the evidence any one wishes that this was not a closely drawn liberal-conservative battle in North Carolina or a victory for the new, fair or whatever deal you wish to call it against the generally accepted pattern and philosophy of Southern Democracy. We anticipate that, as a rule, the counties which Scott carried will present the most difficult problems of all, with greatest likelihood of violence, when the State gets around to implementation of the non-segregation decision.

Around Capitol Square

They're Debating Effect Of Kurfees' Advertisement

By LYNN NISBET
LEAFLETS — Capitol square folks are still debating the probable effect upon Saturday's primary vote of the distribution of reprints of a Winston-Salem advertisement paramouring the race issue. Opinion is almost unanimous that the distribution was unethical and politically unwise. There is far from unanimity about extent of their influence upon the voters.
Opinions on this point range all the way from that expressed by Terry Sanford, Scott manager, that his candidate probably had lost the race until the Lennor folks put out these circular reprints, and the revulsion occasioned by them turned a lot of votes to Scott; to the other extreme that the influence of the distribution was nil.
Rumors were current over the weekend that people stayed away from the polls, or declined to vote in the senate race, by the hundreds as protest against such tactics. That result is disproven by the unexpected large vote, and the further fact that in several counties where the leaflets were distributed the vote for U.S. Senator ran right along with that for local officers and well ahead of the other state-wide tickets.
DANGER — One long time observer and advocate of clean campaigning had an interesting comment. It was that over-emphasis on the effectiveness of this incident will tend to encourage its repetition rather than discourage such practices. If it is admitted that the advertisement and its reprints meant the balance of power, even though it backfired and turned the balance against its sponsors, the same stunt will be tried again in the hope it might not backfire that time. If, as seems more likely, the intelligently voting citizenship simply ignored the whole business, rated it as trashy material upon which a lot of money and a lot of energy was wasted, repetition will be discouraged.

CLOSEST — While official figures will be not available until the State Board of Elections canvasses the returns next week, it appears likely that Kerr Scott won the nomination to the Senate by the narrow margin any candidate for major office ever won in a North Carolina primary. There have been much less margins between high and second high in the first primary. The all time record on that point was the 1930 gubernatorial primary in which Cameron Morrison held first place by 87 votes over Max Gardner. In the run-off Morrison won by 9,259.
In the 1932 senatorial primary Bob Reynolds had a lead of about 13,000 over Cameron Morrison, and in the run-off Reynolds won by 7,436 in a total of less than 250,000 votes. In 1938 Clyde Hoey had a first primary lead for Governor over Ralph McDonald of less than 5,000, but in the run-off he won by 52,000.

every won the nomination to a major office, except the 1940 instance when Horton ceded the office to Broughton without a run-off.
RUN-OFFS — There are many people who dislike second primaries and who believe that the laws ought to be changed so that the high man will get the nomination. That is the procedure in some States. There are others who believe that a run-off should be mandatory when no candidate gets a clear majority, and that neither the second nor the first man in the primary returns should have the chance to yield.
DEMOCRACY — Senator Lennor belongs to the group which believes that the majority should control and that one man should not have the power to cast the votes of more than a quarter million people, by assuming the right to concede as long as there is a doubt about a majority. Kerr Scott took that attitude in 1948 and Willis Smith did in 1950. Max Gardner took the same position in 1920 when only 987 votes separated him from high man, and Dick Fountain took it in 1932 when he called a run-off with Ehringhaus.
North Carolina primary law gives the right to the second man in the primary to call for a run-off vote for any candidate, and also allows the high man to yield the nomination rather than go into a second primary. The effect of that legal provision is to give one man the right to cast the votes for thousands of citizens.
Inquiry among many well informed people on State political history failed to discover an instance in which a high man had yielded when a runner-up called for a second primary when a

Business Today

Population Effects

By ELMER ROESSNER
Population changes—which have been partly responsible for lush business in most of the last 10 years—will soon shrink markets for some industries, according to V. L. Wharton, Dean of Texas State College for Women, and one of the outstanding authorities on population.
One of the big changes, he told the National Association of Purchasing Agents, will be a decline in the number of marriages from about 1,500,000 in 1953 to around 1,000,000 a year for the rest of the decade. There will be fewer marriages because of the decline of births during the depression. Fewer marriages from now until 1961 will mean fewer children in those and later years—but how the marriage and birth figures should shoot up between 1965 and 1975! But in the meantime, there may be quite a shrinkage in the market for bridal accessories and goods and services for infants. However, Dean Wharton does not expect a similar decline in demand for new housing because millions of young parents will be beginning to feel the need for more living room.
The changing nature of the population will also hit makers and sellers of luxury goods during the next 10 years, Mr. Wharton said. As the big postwar crops of babies enter their teens, the cost of providing necessities for them will restrict the amounts their parents can spend on luxuries. It also will force them to try to make autos, stoves, refrigerators, other appliances and even apparel serve longer than at present.
At the same time, these growing groups will do a lot for construction, he pointed out. In the next six years there will be an increase of 5,000,000 in the grammar-school ages and almost 9,000,000 in the 6-through-19 group. "Disregarding the need for replacement of antiquated structures, it would appear we must anticipate an almost immediate construction need of 350,000 to 400,000 new classrooms, or perhaps 20,000 new schools with an average of 20 classrooms each."
And the money that parents will not be spending on their own luxuries, durables and clothing will be spent for shoes and togs, books and games for this group. Adults over 50 is another group now rapidly increasing, Mr. Wharton said. This constitutes a market for medical and other care and other requirements of later years. Since incomes of this group come so much from pensions, Social Security, investments and annuities, it is practically depression proof, he said.

ONLY 3 PER CENT OF SALT OUTPUT FLOWS THROUGH SHAKERS
The salt industry is booming, but it isn't because people are sprinkling more on their beer. Table salt accounts for only 3 per cent of the output.
The growth of the chemical industry and new uses for salt in agriculture accounted for the production of 20,000,000 tons last year, the Salt Institute reports. The chemical industry used 68 per cent of the total production; agriculture was second with 6 per cent. Other important uses for sale include highway treatments, water treatments, meat packing, food processing, hide treatment and refrigeration.

It's Your Ball Joe, Now Carry It

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—An open letter to Mr. Joseph P. Kamp, Class of 1954, U.S.A.:
Dear Joe:
Leaving the ivory tower this year, you come into a world that has lost the ivy of the past. A vast and visible vista lies before you that holds a greater peace or a deeper agony than mankind has ever faced before. Before your present crew cut wears into baldness the issue will be settled. This crumbling dream you see now will firm into an achieved vision, or fragment into a nightmare chaos—and, as it goes, the credit or blame will largely come to you.
For whatever security you have known you come to breathless problems. It is your task to pick up the terrible broken mirror of "now" and try to make it reflect a better world.
It's a great challenge. . . It's your opportunity. . . And I'm glad it is yours. My generation took up the mirror in its turn, and, I regret to say for all its efforts, must still hand it to you cracked and considerably fogged.
Time. . . time. . . time. . . that impartial leveler. . . reaches to reduce or exalt you with ancient troubles before the ink is dry on your sheepskin, before your mother—crying for all the difficulty it caused the family to get you educated—can wet it with exultant tears, secret or public.
Now you are a man, with a certificate that says so, in a time that's about as fortunate, or unfortunate, as any. At least it's a great thing to get a college degree in a time when there still are many jobs waiting.
If some industry doesn't want you, well, Uncle Samuel does. You may think that a forgotten course in the history of early Roman band instruments or a nodding acquaintance with Caesar's Gallic campaigns was a waste of classroom time.
Perhaps so, perhaps not. The discipline of learning, however carelessly and lightheartedly taken, however seriously accepted, does measure a reward in later life. At the very worst, the college graduates who were in the last World War never had to fight a hill in Europe that wasn't there when Caesar lived. Whatever you learned, however you learned it, you will sometime find a use for. With the exception of a very few number of colleges, which tradition-minded elders feel they must stamp the minds of their offspring with, the average American university offers no more than a pleasant doorway to knowledge. Then you bust your foot through and around the door the rest of your life. That's living!

It is highly unlikely, if you move boldly into a growing world, that 25 years from now you will have more than one or two close friends from the yearning days you are now leaving. It is highly unlikely that you will ever have in your life more than two close friends. Friends don't grow on clothes trees; nor are they born in easy times.
You are coming, full of the juice of youth, into the great cinder press of time and age. It will squeeze you, as it has millions of men before you.
Whether you come out of college with 10 million family dollars behind you, or just a boy owing fines to the college library, you'll be squeezed and hurt-arguing with a wife in Palm Beach, selling chemicals in Dubuque, peddling bonds in Wall Street, trying to cure somebody in Phoenix, or hoping to hold a hill in well, any country where they blow the bugle and set up a flag you live by.
Looking back across 25 years, Joe, I feel you've got one big advantage. There is a place in the world for you, and, whatever you have learned, the rest of the world desperately needs it.
This crumbling dream. . . is yours to put a foundation under. Yesterday you were the hope of tomorrow. Now you are the purpose of today.
Make a better world, Joe. It's worth the groan it takes. And one of those who would like to live in and enjoy it is,
Your friend,
Hal Boyle
P.S. Good luck!

Band-Leader Away, Wife Is Kept Busy

By SANDRA NEMSER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

When singer Vaughn Monroe is on the road his wife beats the blues at home by keeping busy. Marion Monroe has advice for other wives married to traveling husbands:

"Don't become bored or sorry for yourself. Develop a hobby or some sort of interest. If you are busy in the daytime you will be willing to come home in the evening to your knitting or record collection."

She feels if a husband wants his wife's company on out-of-town trips, it's time for the spouse to tag along. But if he doesn't—that's the end of the argument.

To keep busy Mrs. Monroe manages a 10-room house near Boston, two daughters and a 40-acre restaurant.

The tall brunette said she didn't know if she could be happy with a normal, quiet and slow-paced life. Her duties at The Meadows, a Boston show place-restaurant she has run for the last year, include: checking finances, buying food and supplies, planning of menus and special events, and advertising.

Mrs. Monroe, 42, has a master's degree in business but admits she had two strikes against her when she took over as the restaurant's director—she was a woman and the owner's wife. But now, she says:

"I think I've proven I know a little about the business. It took until last month, but now I have the confidence of the organization."

Since she tackled The Meadows, Mrs. Monroe has changed both the content and format of the menus to please the women diners, and trotted out ponies, pony carts and lollypops for the junior patrons.

She feels strongly that children in a show business family should not suffer from their parent's activities and insists that Candace, 12 and Christina, 9 get proper schooling and affection.

Candy and Christie would much prefer their father was a business man who came home every night. When he is home, Vaughn spends the time horse-back riding or playing golf with the girls. When away, he calls every night.

Neither of the girls play a musical instrument.

"We don't want them to follow a musical career. If you're one of the few that succeed it's wonderful. If you're not it's a hard life. We've sacrificed a lot of normal living and don't want the children to do the same."

HD Women At Training School

Pitt County Home Demonstration Club members are constantly looking to the future. Women from 19 of the 22 clubs recently attended a combination workshop and training school. The first part of the morning was devoted to stating the existing problems concerning the family food supply and ways to remedy or overcome these problems. The leaders were divided into four groups: Foods and Nutrition, Dairying, Food Conservation and Home Gardening. Suggestions made by each group to be incorporated in the 1955 program of work included demonstrations, special interest meetings and projects to be carried out by leaders in local communities. Mrs. W. O. Jolly Jr. from the Pierce club, Mrs. Ichabod Allen from Seven Pines, Mrs. R. P. Gaskins from Chocod and Mrs. Jarvis Tripp Jr. from Red Oak served as group-reporters.

The second part of the school was devoted to preparing the leaders for the demonstration on "Salads" which the leaders will give at their June club meetings. The nutritional importance of salads and the various roles that they can play in the meal was stressed. An array of tempting salads, tossed, congealed and frozen were made and served attractively. Following the demonstration and discussion period, the women enjoyed a buffet luncheon consisting of the salads, crackers, toasted sandwiches and iced tea. Leaders left asking for more food demonstrations in the future and for information on producing some of the less common vegetables.

Women throughout the county have realized another need—better home-made pickles. To help fill this need a special interest meeting on "Pickling" was held in Greenville in the Home Demonstration Laboratory. Miss Iola Pritchard, Extension Economist in Food Conservation and Marketing, gave the demonstration. Many women realized for the first time just how necessary it is to brine cucumbers. One club member stated that she had never noticed that vinegar could be bought in different strengths before. The questions asked revealed that the women present were extremely interested in bettering their standards for cucumber pickles. Each of these training schools was a step toward reaching goals set up by club members in their Home Demonstration program of work to improve the family food supply.

Postponed

The Coastal Little League opening, originally scheduled for tonight at South Greenville Park, has been postponed until Monday.

The program will go on as previously announced, according to an announcement made by the league's directors. There are four teams in the league and all of them will play in the opening day schedule which will start at 6:30.

No reason for the postponement was announced by the director.

Schedule-Making Is Toughest Job In Major Leagues

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK (AP)—Scheduling together the two big league baseball schedules always has been one of the meanest, most complicated jobs on earth. Lately, with the realignment of franchises, the annual headache is just about insoluble.

For more than 25 years the schedules were made out by somewhat mysterious men named Clement Schwener, a retired Boston banker who apparently had loads of time on his hands and a heaven-sent gift for solving riddles.

Two years ago he decided he had wrestled with his last schedule and the onerous job was thrust upon Harry Simmons, young and able secretary of the International League.

At the moment Simmons is struggling manfully with his slide rules and weather charts and patching together a master plan for 1955 which he will be expected to present to the respective league managers some time in August. If they run true to form, each of the 16 will find a number of glaring inequalities or maladjustments and insist that changes be made. Along about mid-December, by which time the final drafts of his brainchild must be approved, Simmons will be wishing he had taken up bird-branding instead of baseball.

This will be due in part to considerable unhappiness over the schedules being played this season. Without having any idea who was at fault, or whether it would have been humanly possible to have done better, in the face of new difficulties, we can only say that the yelps of discontent seem to be louder and more frequent than we can recall.

Baltimore's emergence as a "Western" member of the American League has, of course, thrown that circuit completely out of kilter. On May 15, for example, the Yankees found themselves rushing to catch a late afternoon train out of Detroit so they could reach Baltimore in time to play a doubleheader the next day. On May 18 the Bombers were back at Chicago for a night game.

The Nationals claim that somebody made out their schedule with a sledgehammer too. For instance, those two great crowd-drawing rivals, Brooklyn and the Giants met four times in the first six days of the season and did not face each other again until nearly six weeks later, on May 28. The Giants make no appearance at Ebbets Field between April 18 and July 6.

The win elevates the National Guard to first place in the PONY league with a 2-0 record. The Redmen are tied with the Bright Leaf for second place with 1-1 records. The Fordomatics are last with an 0-2 record.

Tonight's schedule sends the Bright Leafs against the Redmen at 7:30.

Moose Mauls Exchange Team 14-3 In Second Game Of Doubleheader; V.F.W. Meets Kiwanis In Game Today

By WAYNE BISHOP
The league leading Elks club continued unbeaten this year in Tar Heel League play when they ran over the Pepsi-Cola team yesterday afternoon 14-1 at Little League Park. The Moose downed the Exchange 14-3 in their other action yesterday.

In the opener the Elks showed their strong pitching staff again when Billy Jenkins allowed only one run over the six inning outing. It was the third straight outstanding pitching performance by an Elk pitcher.

Jenkins gave up his run on two hits after two were out in the second inning. From there Jenkins did not allow another Pepsi to hit safely.

Harry Forbes led the hitting for the Elks with three singles in four trips to the plate.

Harry Forbes led the hitting for the Elks with three singles in four trips to the plate.

Bill Clapp of the Exchange took over the pitching chores after the 11th run and proceeded to flash brilliant form in striking out ten of the remaining 13 outs. Clapp gave up two hits and three runs over the last 4 and 1-3 innings.

Wildness was the main cause of trouble for the Exchange as they walked nine Moose batters in the big first inning. Three base hits, two errors, and a hit batter accounted for the runs.

Donnie Joyner with two hits in three at-bats led the Moose batters. Larry Roberts did the same for the Exchange with two for three.

This afternoon at 5 o'clock the Kiwanis will play the V.F.W. in a North State League game.

Snead, Hogan Passing Western

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Western Open Golf Tournament, an affair that dates back to 1899 opened here today and predictions were that a 10-under-par 74 would be good enough for the title.

A field of 131 players was listed to start the four-day grind over a Kenwood Country Club course in the battle for $15,000 worth of prize money.

Ben Hogan and Sam Snead failed to enter but except for them the field included virtually all the nation's other top stars.

The chase for the championship looked like a wide-open affair but such stars as Lloyd Mangrum, Niles, Ill., a former National Open and Western champion; Julius Boros, Mid-Pines, N.C.; Johnny Palmer, Charlotte, N.C., winner of last week's Colonial Invitational; Ted Kroll, New Hartford, N.Y.; Tommy Bolt, Houston, Tex.; Dou Ford, Yonkers, N.Y.; Jack Burke Jr., Kiamesha Lake N.Y.; and Art Wall Jr., Pocono Manor, Pa., were mentioned as the major threats to defending champion E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, Ardmore, Okla.

Dr. Cary Middlecott, Memphis, Tenn., usually a threat, sent word he would be unable to play because of ill health.

Although 74 was heard often as a possible winning score, a poll of 16 Cincinnati pros, who know the course well, had winning predictions ranging from 72 to 280. A majority picked either 75 or 76.

Auditor Asking Who Got 'Sugar' From Sugar Bowl

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Who got the "sugar" in the Sugar Bowl?

Sharp-tongued state auditor Edgar B. Sims raised the "sugar" question yesterday five months after West Virginia's Mountaineers went down to defeat in New Orleans' Sugar Bowl last New Year's Day.

Sims got off an icily worded letter on the subject to university President Irvin Stewart.

Dr. Stewart said he was told the check was supposed to be in the mail and due at Morgantown any minute.

Under regulations prescribed by the Southern Conference, West Virginia's share of the $140,000 is to come from the conference rather than the Sugar Bowl sponsors.

"We do not know whether we will get $30,000 back, much less who got the 'sugar' from the Sugar Bowl," Sims wrote Stewart.

"Under the requirement of law the auditor's office advanced to the university on Dec. 16, 1953, more than $30,000 . . . to send the football team to the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans," the auditor added.

"We have had much difficulty getting any accounting of the $30,000, and when it came to this office it was a sorry mess," he said.

LaMotta Through With Ring Wars For Second Time

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Former middleweight champion Jake LaMotta, who started a comeback after retiring 18 months ago, says he is through fighting.

"I'm tired and I'm through making excuses to myself," he said yesterday in announcing his retirement from the ring.

"I haven't any pep. I've been telling myself it's the weather and I've been working too hard. It's time to quit and nobody knows it better than I do."

LaMotta, who won the middleweight title from Marcel Cerdan in 1949 and lost it to Sugar Ray Robinson in 1951, was scheduled to meet Ernie Durando in a nationally televised fight at the Miami Beach Auditorium Wednesday night. Billy Kilgore of Miami replaced him.

Amateur Queens After Pro Title

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—The amateur queens of America and Great Britain set out today to show the professionals a thing or two about golf as the second annual Triangle Round Robin invitation tournament got under way over the par 74 Cascades Course.

Mary Lena Faulk, the slender American thistle from Thomasville, Ga., and Mariene Stewart, first Canadian ever to win the British crown, agreed on one thing—it's possible that one of them might come in first in this $7,500 "plus and minus" nightmare.

"You can't ever tell," Miss Faulk said. "All of the really fine professionals are here, though. The pros get to play so much more than the amateurs."

Miss Faulk was paired with Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay; Louise Suggs of Atlanta and Betty Hicks of Durham, N.C. Miss Stewart's first round opponents in the 90-hole test were Jackie Pung, the defending champion from Hawaii; Beverly Hanson Silvernail of Indio, Calif.; and Betty Dodd of San Antonio, Tex.

The favorite is Babe Zaharias of Tampa, Fla., who tuned up yesterday with a 75. Her opponents were Marlene Bauer and Alice Bauer Hagg, both of Sarasota, Fla., and Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C.

By the time the last round is played Sunday, every player will have been paired in the four-ball matches against every other player. A player's score is gained by comparing her medal score each round with that of the other three in her foursome.

Indians Beat Yanks In 10-Inning Game

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports Writer
It looks more and more as if this Cleveland team really means business.

The Indians frankly admit they like it up on top of the American League standings and they're willing to fight to stay there.

Last night they fought and won their toughest battle so far as they beat the New York Yankees 8-7 in a 10-inning struggle at Yankee Stadium after the Yanks had jumped off to a 7-0 lead in the first inning.

A home run by Bobby Avila tied the score in the ninth and another homer, this time by Al Smith, broke it up. What made the comeback even more amazing was the sensational relief pitching of five Indian hurlers who held the Yankees hitless for nine full innings after a six-hit spurge in the first.

This ability to fight back against a powerful rival on foreign territory makes Cleveland a solid threat. The Indians have had consistently good teams the past three seasons when they've finished second. But they've lacked the spark to fight off the Yankees over the full season.

Last night Early Wynn, normally one of the club's top pitchers, couldn't get a man out. So his relief followers mopped up in almost perfect fashion once the first inning was over. The victory went to Hal Newhouse, who finished with three hitless frames.

By winning, the Indians pulled two games in front of the Chicago White Sox, who bowed 5-2 to Boston. Baltimore pushed Philadelphia into the league cellar with a 9-1 decision. Washington defeated Detroit 7-2.

Brooklyn took first place in the National League by one game over the Milwaukee Braves as they sloshed to a 7-6 decision against the Braves in five innings that consumed more than four hours, including two lengthy delays because of rain. Philadelphia beat Cincinnati 7-0. It was too cold for Pittsburgh and the Cubs in Chicago and too wet in St. Louis for the Cardinals and New York.

Sandy Consuegra had piled up five straight victories but he ran into a storm in the very first inning at Boston. The White Sox right-hander was battered for four runs in the first and his mates couldn't get even against rookie Frank Sullivan and veteran Ellis Kinder. Jackie Jensen's two-run triple was the big blow of the Red Sox' first.

Joe Coleman got another chance to taunt his former teammates as he registered his fifth victory for Baltimore and his second straight over the Athletics. The Orioles clubbed 14 hits, equalling their best total of the season. Clint Courtney's three-run homer climaxed a six-run rally in the eighth.

Eddie Yost of the Senators played his 700th consecutive game, the longest streak since Lou Gehrig of the Yankees ran up his total of 2,130. The occasion was a successful one for the Senators, who hopped on Steve Gromek for six runs in the first four innings for an easy victory over Detroit.

Curt Simmons of the Phillies scattered six Cincinnati hits in winning his second shutout and his

Time was called again after five innings but the game was called without further play.

With the rain coming down it looked as if all the Braves had to do to pick up the victory was to get three Dodgers out in the fifth. But before they could they had made two errors, Brooklyn had added three hits and had scored five runs to take the lead.

Time was called again after five innings but the game was called without further play.

O'Malley Backs Inter-Loop Plan

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The chances of the major leagues adopting an interleague schedule for at least two years are slim, but Brooklyn President Walter O'Malley says he is "very much in favor of the plan."

"I understand it's high on the agenda for the league meetings at All-Star time in Cleveland," O'Malley told newsmen last night. "I think it would be a great stimulus to baseball, particularly at the box office."

The proposal was made originally by Hank Greenberg, general manager of the Cleveland Indians. Greenberg suggested each National and American League team play two games yearly in interleague competition.

"The chances of doing anything on it before 1956 are pretty slim," O'Malley admitted, "but when we get around to talking about it at Cleveland next month I'll be a booster."

The Brooklyn president said he thought a 156-game schedule, two more than now plus one game league, might be the answer. That would mean trimming the present schedule in each circuit to 140 games—20 games against each team—and adding the 16 necessary to permit the eight teams in the two loops to meet twice.

WEDNESDAY'S STARS
BATTING — Bobby Avila, Cleveland Indians, hit a home run to tie the score in the ninth inning against the Yankees and also collected two singles, raising his league batting average to .392.

PITCHING — Don Mossi, Ray Nieveski, Bob Hooper, Mike Garcia and Hal Newhouse, Cleveland Indians—combined to pitch nine hitless innings as Cleveland came from seven runs behind to beat New York, 8-7, in 10 innings.

The Jolly Rogers broke into the win column last night in the Recreation Department's Softball League but their victory was completely overshadowed by the superb 4-0 triumph of Graniteers over Southern Bread.

The Jolly Rogers defeated National Guard 5-4 in the doubleheader's opener in Guy Smith Stadium to lift themselves out of the cellar but the Graniteers' George Fuller set Southern down on only three hits in what proved to be the feature game of the evening.

Fuller gave up doubles in the third and fourth innings and a single in the seventh inning in pacing his team to its fourth victory in five games. The Graniteers are allowed only five men to reach first during the game and only one of them got as far as third base.

While he was doing his superb pitching job, Fuller's mates backed him up with an attack that netted four runs. To the credit of South-

Bob Pridmore Stars Again As Guard Beats Redmen

Left-hander Bobby Pridmore twisted another net pitching performance last night as he led the National Guard to 2-2 victory over the Redmen.

Pridmore and Charles Staton of the Redmen hooked up in an old-fashioned pitching duel with Pridmore coming out on the best end of the score. Both pitchers allowed five hits, but Pridmore was tighter in the pitches than the erratic Staton.

The winning run came in the third inning when Crawford singled in Oscar Stoneham from second with the run. The Redmen tallied once in the second and once in the fourth but they could not push over the third run needed to tie.

To Seek Records For Epsom Winner

LONDON (AP)—Trainer Joe Lawson today ran an expert eye over Never Say Die, handsome chestnut winner of the 175th running of the Epsom Derby, and said: "Now we go for a mile and a half race at Ascot in July and then the classic St. Leger."

The only American-owned and American-bred colt to win both the Derby and St. Leger stakes is Iroquois who turned the trick for Pierre Lorillard, a tobacco millionaire, in 1881.

Never Say Die took the first leg yesterday with a two length victory in the mile and a half Derby. The colt finished strongly and experts said he appeared to have something in reserve as he swept past the winning post.

Voices Concern For Pet Snake

BRUNSWICK, Ga. (AP)—Concerned for his safety, Miss Fannie Lee has help today in finding her pet snake, a five-foot Python.

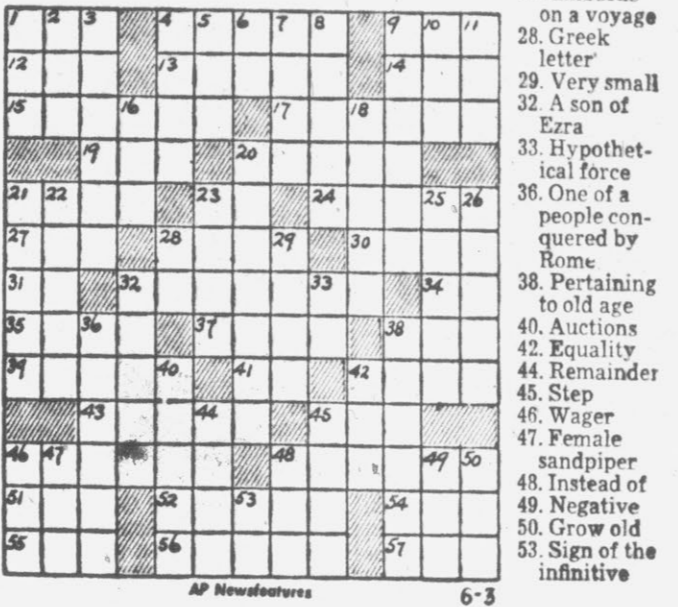

"It's the snake that's in danger, not people," she declared. The snake escaped from her apartment. A pet since birth three years ago, "Python Pie" is non-poisonous and absolutely harmless, she said.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

A NEW IDEA in split level construction, this house has a one-story front, two-story rear, with bedrooms half a flight up and half a flight down from the living room. Only the fireplace and chimney separate the kitchen from the rest of the open planned family room. This is plan No. 7326 by Herman York, architect, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica 2, N.Y. The house was built and sold with a quarter-acre of land in Eastwood Village, Centerach, N.Y., for $13,000. The upper levels cover 939 square feet; the lower level at rear covers 391 square feet. Parking Survey Set This Week

An off-street parking survey, under the supervision of a traffic engineer from North Carolina State College, will be made in Greenville this week.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce members will do the checking in the survey. A Jaycee will be stationed in each block in the city. This man will check each car that parks, determine the time the car remains park and find out the nature of business transacted while parked.

This information will then be tabulated to determine the blocks that have the greatest demands for off-street parking. It will also show the parking habits of Greenville citizens, such as how far they will walk after parking. It will also show the demand against the spaces available.

W. F. Babcock is the State College engineer who will supervise the survey.

HEAVY PAYROLL
LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP)—It was a heavy pay day for Headquarters Company, 2nd Battalion, Virginia National Guard. The guardsmen wanted to show Lynchburg merchants just how much money the guard spends in the city. The $3,000 payroll was in silver dollars.

LANGUAGE HANDICAP
DES MOINES (AP)—After lots of effort, Latin students at Callanan Junior High School here had to give up in their efforts to translate the song title, "Beer Barrel Polka," into the language of the ancient Romans. The difficulty was that the students could find no Latin word for beer, barrel or polka.

Closest the young scholars could come was "Wine Cask Dance." Dinosaurs became extinct about 60 million years ago.

Big Season Ahead For U.S. Travel

By WALTER BUSSEWITZ (For Sam Dawson)
NEW YORK (AP)—All signs point to a banner summer season in travel by Americans, despite the dip in the nation's economy in recent months.

The American Automobile Assn. says a record of 60 million persons will take to vacation trails by all means of transportation during the summer months, an increase of 10 per cent over last summer. The AAA estimates these pleasure travelers will spend in excess of six billion dollars.

Some private surveys find that Americans will spend up to 7 per cent more on travel, foreign and domestic, this summer and fall than a year ago.

Once again foreign travel is headed for a new high. Most of the major shipping lines, booked to the limit last year during the summer months, are filled up again. Airlines report heavy business in foreign flights.

The size of the overseas segment of the travel industry is illustrated by the fact that in 1953 Americans spent $1,291,000,000 on foreign travel alone, according to the Department of Commerce.

Ralph T. Reed, president of American Express Co., predicts this year's total will be at least 6 per cent higher.

But the overwhelming proportion of vacation trips are taken in the family automobile on home ground. The passenger car accounted for more than 80 per cent of transportation in vacation travel last year.

Importance of travel to the domestic economy is shown by figures which list tourist attractions and accommodations among the top three industries of 26 states. Every state, however, shares vacation travel dollars, including the home states of the travelers, where vacation needs are purchased.

Cost consciousness is a major feature of the current travel pattern. Experts of the AAA note many motorists are taking a wait-and-see attitude on rates and are attempting to escape the peak in costs.

Many railroads are making an appeal to the cost-conscious by offering special summer rate cuts to family groups. Some airlines are stepping up the number of coach-fare flights for the summer season.

CRASH TEARS HUGE HOLE—Members of a rescue team examine a gaping hole torn in the fuselage of an Air National Guard C-47 which crashed near the Duluth, Minn., Municipal Airport, killing nine. Touching Drama In Britain As U. S. Families Seek Acceptance

By DON WHITEHEAD
LONDON (AP)—A touching drama of American family life trying to find a comfortable and happy place in a land strange and at times even a bit hostile is being enacted today throughout England.

It's a struggle that sometimes is sad, sometimes inspiring, and often comical— involving more than 40,000 military men and some 12,000 wives and children who followed their menfolk to this island.

In some ways, the problems of the 52,000 are more acute than those of the two million Americans who waited here 10 years ago for the beginning of the great invasion of Europe.

Today the American and his family are thrown into more intimate association with the British townspeople. Sadly, there is not the same singleness of purpose and spirit of forbearance that helped oil the friction points in 1944.

The situation is depicted fairly accurately (although with exaggeration, of course) in a cartoon showing a frosty, tweedy Englishman and his wife glaring at a startled American airman, and saying:

"What are YOU doing back here?"

Officially the British and Americans are working together in a hard-jawed determination to "get along." There's a sort of "We're going to like you, dammit, even if it kills us" air about the whole thing.

They are trying to bridge the gap with dances, social clubs, teas, garden parties, sports contests, tours, and "Let's open our home to each other" drives.

As a result, many Americans are finding life exciting and satisfactory in Britain— so much so some are asking for an extension of service. They have made warm friends, entered into the British social life and managed to overlook a good many of the irritants. Others have found the going more difficult. They are unable to adjust to the British way of life. They are dissatisfied with houses that have outmoded kitchens and no central heating. They can't understand the British aloofness and deep sense of privacy. Some complain of rent gouging and living costs.

An American sergeant said: "I guess it's no different with the British than it would be with us if the British swarmed in on one of our towns back home. There'd be the same problems."

On the British side, the English frequently resent the efforts of Americans to be "liked" and their generosity oftentimes is mistaken as condescension or interpreted as having an ulterior motive.

In one case, a young American housewife moved into a neighborhood and liked the looks of the British housewife next door. She baked a cake and a batch of cookies and took them over as a gesture of neighborliness. But she was shocked to tears to find her gesture regarded coldly and with suspicion.

In another, an American airman encouraged his young son to open a front-yard lemonade stand near one of Britain's historic sites. It was good American enterprise—but it irritated the British.

Also, the British see Americans taking over homes badly needed by British families themselves, because the Americans are able and willing to pay rents which the British can't afford.

To the Americans the houses usually are no bargain. They pay rents two or three times what a Briton would pay. By their standards the plumbing is poor and the kitchen equipment is enough to make a good housewife shudder. In the cold months, a gas and electricity bill of $100 a month isn't uncommon.

Even if it means financial sacrifices, most Americans want their families with them and they are willing to go to almost any limit to do it.

Herring, Shad Season Extended

The North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission has extended the season for taking shad and herring in inland waters to June 15. District Fish and Game Protector J.O. Teel of Greenville said extension of the season was made because of the slow start of the annual spring run of fish. He said the run of shad now is unusually large and heavy catches are being reported.

Domestic Joke Nearly Cost Eye

PORTLAND, Maine (AP)—A domestic joke backfired and he nearly lost an eye, Robert G. Forbes, 49, told a divorce court yesterday.

He testified he played drunk to fool Mrs. Mildred Forbes, 44, his bride of six weeks.

He quoted his bride as saying: "I'll teach you to come home drunk."

Then, Forbes said, she hit him on the eye with a whisky bottle.

Lost Boy Upset Police Station

BRAINTREE, Mass. (AP)—A 3-year-old lost boy was held at Braintree police station for two hours yesterday.

During that time he dumped a couple of police files by pulling the drawers out of cabinets. He also put the teletype out of order. Then, he disrupted the telephone system by punching the buttons that switch calls.

When he beamed Lt. Francis Maguire with a flashlight, the officer ordered patrolmen to place the tot in a police cruiser and go look for his parents.

Joan Foster, Bride

CHAPTER THIRTY FOUR

JOAN was not really put out by Todd's decision to change jobs, only surprised.

"Tom told me just what to do," Todd went on, "just whom to write to and what to say in the letter. What background to give, I mean, and what points to emphasize. So I did. Then I sat and waited."

"How long?"

"He granted. It seemed like several lifetimes. Well, let's see now, I guess I wrote my first letter in early December. And I didn't get any reply until the end of January. Then all I got was a bunch of forms to fill out. So I filled those out and waited some more. It's certainly a waiting game to deal with the government!"

"She nodded.

"But Tom had warned me. Even so, I grew impatient, and in February I wrote him again and asked him if there was any way I might hurry up things. He suggested I might contact our state's senators or a congressman. If I knew one personally so much the better, maybe. Well, it just happens that Senator Goodrich went to the same college I did and was in the same frat, and I had met him several times at reunions. So I wrote to him."

"And?"

"Understand, Jo, he doesn't have a thing to do with the selection of personnel for the State department. You have to be screened by the FBI for it. But he said he would see what he could do. However, the very next day—before he could possibly have had time to do anything—I heard from the department—and well, read this for yourself. Am I he pulled a letter from his inside pocket.

"Joan's eyes raced over it.

"Dear Mr. Hunter . . . am in receipt of your letter of . . . relative to your application for a position in the State department. In reply would inform you that it will be necessary for you to meet Mr. Daniel Stone . . . therefore I suggest you come to Washington at your earliest opportunity . . . If you will advise me prior to your arrival I will be glad to arrange for you an early interview with Mr. Stone. . . . Yours very truly, Benjamin Doane Sec'y."

"Todd!" she breathed. "It sounds—authentic!"

"So far, so good," he replied carefully. "But I really think it is whatever vagrant breezes there might be stirring. And it was convenient to everything—stores, bus lines and motion picture houses. The Blakeleys liked it immensely.

"Furthermore," Pam said to Joan as she finished showing her around. "We have a Hide-a-Bed here in our living room, so even if we can't boast a guest room, we can take care of you easily enough."

"It's perfect," Joan answered. "Just perfect! And when I think of the rent you pay—why, for a set-up like this we'd have to hand out about ninety dollars at home."

Pam nodded. "I guess the government has to keep rents down or half of its workers couldn't afford to stay here."

"That conversation had taken place yesterday. Now it was Monday, the day after Todd's and Joan's arrival. The old jalopy had, indeed, made the run successfully without having to be pushed and for that they were thankful.

This morning Tom had gone to work at his usual hour and Todd had telephoned to Mr. Doane, who had been able to arrange an interview for him with Mr. Stone of the State department. With both husbands gone, the apartment was quickly tidied after breakfast and the two wives were free to go sight-seeing.

It was not Joan's first visit to the capital. During the Christmas holidays of her sophomore year at college, she and several of her classmates had taken a trip in Elaine's car all the way to Florida, with Joan's mother as chaperon. But because of the pressure of time then they had paused only for a quick look at the Capitol building as they passed through the city.

"Oh, yes! We did the town almost as soon as we arrived," Pam answered. "Now we're looking forward to a weekend down in Williamsburg. By the way, couldn't you stay over and all of us go down there next weekend?"

Joan shook her head. "Not a chance. Todd has to be back at school Monday morning bright and early. Anyway Pam, that's one place I've seen. We took it in on that trip to Florida I was telling you about."

"Oh, too bad. Well"—Pam steered expertly through the endless lines of cars—"We'll be thorough about Washington, then. Honestly, Joan it's so nice to have you here to bat around with! Like old times."

"Let's hope it's just the beginning," Joan said. She was thinking, as she replied, how much warmer and less restrained Pam had grown since her marriage to Tom. In Europe she might have thought it was nice having Joan here, but she never would have said it. There had been an almost icy aloofness in her through most of that year which it had taken love to break through.

"You're very happy, aren't you, Pam?"

"Yes," Pam was silent for a moment, then she threw Joan a sudden brilliant smile. "I think I'll tell you. I'm happy, all right, but not nearly as happy as I expect to be in about six months."

"Pam!"

Which one has that MONTHLY LOOK?

EYES SHOW CRAMPS, "NERVES", MISERY

You, too, may not be able to hide that tired, nervous, jittery look each month no matter how much "make-up" you use. Keep your secret safe during "those" days—don't be the one girl in three who shows the strain from tell-tale nerves and cramps—has "that monthly look!"

Take Cardui, a special medicine trusted by thousands of women, girls to help insure against cramps, "nerves" and monthly misery. A little Cardui each day helps build strength so resistance may be greater each month, nervousness and suffering less and less. Look more natural—feel and sleep better. Ask your dealer for Cardui. (Say: "card-you-eye").

MONTHLY CRAMPS • CHANGE OF LIFE

Pam nodded. "You've guessed it. Isn't it wonderful! Come September, Joan, and we'll have our baby I can hardly wait."

"I bet."

"We've bought a small farm," Pam went on. "As soon as we were sure, we went out and bought a little farm because there won't be room in the apartment. Want to see it? I think we'll have time today. It isn't far."

"Of course I want to see it!" Joan replied. "Oh, Pam! How lucky can you get? A baby and a house of your own all in one year!"

"You wait," Pam said reassuringly. "You'll have the same luck."

In 1945 Robert E. Gibson joined the Army, became an infantry lieutenant and served in Europe with the 1st and 88th divisions.

In 1950 he joined the Navy entering the Naval Academy as a midshipman.

This Friday Gibson, 26, of Long Beach, Calif., graduates and will be commissioned a 2nd lieutenant in the Marine Corps.

Although the sun shines 24 hours a day at Point Barrow, Alaska during July, the temperature averages 39 degrees Fahrenheit during that month.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market advanced in the early afternoon today in a moderate manner on a fairly broad front.

Gains seldom got past a point in key areas. Losses generally were confined to smaller fractions.

Business maintained a pace in the neighborhood of yesterday's 1,930,000 shares when the market was falling a little.

U.S. Rubber was fairly active at higher prices. Dr. Pepper was a standout in its division and among other gainers were U. S. Steel, Goodrich, United Aircraft, Dow Chemical, Westinghouse Electric, American Tobacco, Chesapeake & Ohio, and Texas Pacific Land Trust.

Packard and Studebaker were active and mostly higher after it was reported that New York investment bankers were preparing a merger plan for consideration of the companies.

Again Wins In Railroad Fight

NEW YORK (AP)—Robert R. Young won another round in his fight for control of the New York Central Railroad today when railroad attorneys agreed to discontinue a court suit involving 800,000 shares of stock bought by Young supporters.

The railroad's action came just a day after election inspectors counting proxy votes cast in last week's stockholders' meeting at Albany, N.Y., approved unanimously the voting of the disputed shares.

The shares are owned by Sid W. Richardson and Clint W. Murchison, both Texans.

Prior to the stockholders' meeting, the Central had sought a temporary injunction from State Supreme Court Justice James E. M. McNally in an effort to block the proxy voting of the disputed shares.

He had refused the request and had set today for a hearing.

Withdrawal of the action was contained in a stipulation signed by attorneys for the legally interested litigants and handed this morning to Justice Irving H. Saypol.

Cast For Fish, Hooked A Hawk

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP)—District Game Supervisor Ford Kellum really showed 'em how last night on Bellows Lake.

Kellum caught a night hawk while flycasting for rainbow trout. On a back-cast by Kellum, the bird swooped down and seized the fly. It dived and circled frantically peeling out lots of the line and then fell exhausted on the water.

Kellum reeled in the hawk unhooked it, and set it free.

Purpose of the program is to point out to vehicle owners mechanical deficiencies of their automobiles.

Monsoon Rains Lash Indochina

HANOI Indochina (AP)—Heavy monsoon rains lashed northwest Indochina today, bogging down the feverish movements of Communist-led Vietminh troops and convoys from fallen Dien Bien Phu towards the Red River delta.

The heavy rainstorms also forced French warplanes to discontinue for the second day running their plastering of the rebel forces on the march.

The most advanced Vietminh elements from the fortress still were around 50 miles from the westernmost perimeter of the French delta defenses.

French army sources said a major Vietminh assault on the delta still might come before the end of June. But they still thought the rains might force the rebels to defer attacking until the monsoons end in September.

The French high command reported another "calm day" in the delta.

Bombers heavily hit Vietminh concentrations in company strength 12 miles south of Hanoi.

Fighters dropped delayed action bombs around the post of Chonoi, near Hung Yen, 30 miles southeast of Hanoi. Attacked by the Vietminh four nights running, the post had a quiet period last night.

Publication Reports Pitt Rabies Control

A report of Rabies Control Program in Pitt County is one of the featured stories in the June edition of the magazine, Wildlife in North Carolina.

This story, written by Dr. Walter C. Humbert, director of the Pitt County Health Department, tells the history of the rabies control program here. It explains the work of the program in protecting animals in this county against the dreaded "mad dog" disease.

Figures released in April show that 26 counties in North Carolina have a total of 90 cases of rabies. Cumberland County, with 17 cases, leads the list. Forsyth County is next with 13 cases.

In the United States there has been 2,924 cases of rabies in 1954. Looking over these figures, Dr. Humbert then points to Pitt County, which so far this year has not had a case reported; and also has not had a case reported since the Rabies Control program here has been in effect.

Wildlife in North Carolina is the official publication of the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission. It is a monthly magazine devoted to the improvement and restoration of our wildlife resources and to the improvement of hunting and fishing in North Carolina.

Dr. Humbert wrote the article at the request of the magazine, after the State Board of Health recommended to Wildlife the Pitt County Program.

For Rabies
Dr. Humbert today explained of a fox rabies case in Wilkes County. He said a dairy farmer there recently observed a fox attacking several of his dairy cows. The fox was destroyed and the head submitted for rabies examination and found positive.

This is the second laboratory confirmed case of fox rabies in North Carolina for 1954.

The Health Department director pointed out frequently, when rabies becomes widespread among the dog population of an area, it overflows into the wildlife, which creates a very difficult control problem.

Wants Her Dog, Dead Or Alive

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A reward was offered for the return of a lost dog "dead or alive."

Mrs. John O. Brittain explained the unusual advertisement. She said she wanted the dog returned "even if dead because I want to know what happened to him so we can quit worrying."

Firemen Subdued 3 Gun-Slingers

PAYSON, Ariz. (AP)—When three gun slingers tried to shoot up this cattle town, they forgot about the new fire alarm.

The alarm is three shots in rapid succession. That's exactly what one of the trio fired into the air.

The fire chief, Dick Black, and a citizen, George Coen, came running. Coen 30 went home for his own guns and, in a scuffle, 36-year-old Ralph Garrells was shot in the hip.

Coen was jailed. Garrells was hospitalized. And peace came back to Payson.

Will Present Portrait Of Rev. Robert Boyd Sunda

A portrait of the Reverend Robert S. Boyd, D. D. will be presented to the First Presbyterian Church, Greenville, in the 11 o'clock worship service of the church Sunday.

The portrait of Reverend Boyd, who was pastor of the church from 1939 to 1947, will be presented by Mrs. F. Badger Johnson as a gift of the Women of the church. The portrait was painted by Mrs. Georgia P. Hearne of Greenville.

Ann Bennett Sugg, granddaughter of Dr. and Mrs. Boyd, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Harding Sugg, will unveil the portrait.

Reverend Leonard W. Topping, minister of the church, will accept the gift and express the appreciation of the church.

The church has placed a marble marker on the wall of the sanctuary which reads as follows:

"In Memory of Robert S. Boyd, D. D. Pastor 1939-1947." Dr. Boyd's favorite verse has been placed on the marker: "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: For it is the power of God unto salvation." The memorial also carries the dates of Dr. Boyd's life: 1880 - 1953.

A memorial will be read and a prayer of dedication made by Rev. Topping.

'Robot Doctor' Watches Patient

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Bureau of Standards has developed a kind of robot doctor to keep a continuous check on the condition of a patient on the operating table.

The electronic device automatically measures and records the patient's blood pressure, heart beat and breathing throughout the operation. These are normally checked periodically by the doctor or technician who administers the anesthesia. He reports them to the surgeon.

But sometimes he gets busy with his other duties and cannot check often enough to catch an irregularity promptly, officials explained.

A fire boat can pump as much water as about 20 fire truck pumps.

President Seen Pushing Effort On Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's decision to go to the people with his legislative program reportedly is based on growing administration concern over building a record for the campaign to maintain Republican control of Congress.

With the target date for adjournment of Congress just two months off and with November election campaigns already getting started, Eisenhower is pictured by associates as determined to do what he can to speed up the pace on his program.

He reflected such determination at his news conference yesterday in:

1. Virtually barring from now on questions which deal with controversy over the activities of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.). Eisenhower has indicated several times he feels that controversy is diverting attention from the administration's program.

2. Saying that enactment of the program is so important to the welfare of the nation that he intends to give it what he called his exclusive attention.

The President said he is going to talk about the program with everyone he sees—the public generally, members of Congress, and newsmen every time he meets with them.

He ticked off his proposals dealing with farm legislation, tax revision, foreign trade, health, housing and social security. In none of those fields has Congress completed action.

It has, in fact, approved only two major items in his program: the St. Lawrence seaway and a highway construction program.

At earlier news conferences Eisenhower has indicated impatience over the pace with which his program is moving in Congress. And he has said the Republicans won't deserve to win in November unless they can point to enactment of a dynamic and progressive program.

Eisenhower aides who asked not to be named said he plans to pound at a need for speedy action in just about every speech he makes during the next two months.

The National Citizens for Eisenhower Congressional Committee made public late yesterday a May 20 letter from Eisenhower saying his program "will stand or fall at the polls in November."
