Democrats Refuse Join Move To Oust Sen. McCarthy Flanders' Effort Doomed

By JACK BELL WASHINGTON (AP)—A hands-off policy adopted by the Senate Democratic leadership today apparently all but doomed a move by Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) to strip Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) of his investigating chairmanships.

of his chairmanship unless the Wisconsin senator answers questions raised in 1952 by a Senate elections subcommittee about his financial affairs.

Whether this foreshadowed any general Democratic movement to support Flanders remained to be seen, but immediate indications were such would not be the case.

a lasting religious faith through the use of drama in Sunday schools will be the broad goal of a religious drama workshop, to be held at Green Lake, Wis., August 14 to 21. Religious plays for youngsters—with the children themselves staging and acting in them—are coming into wider use in U.S. churches, according to Amy Goodhue Loomis, of Lowell, Mich., religious drama director of the American Baptist Assembly and director of Green Lake project. Through meeting together and swapping and testing ideas and drama techniques, church workers will gain "direction, perception and inspiration to enlarge the word of God through this medium," she says. The workshop will be a joint project of the National Council of Churches and the American Baptist Assembly. More than 100 workers representing a score of denominations will attend.

Greenville's six playgrounds opened for the summer this afternoon, Recreation Director Warren Carroll announced today.

Carroll said that this week the playgrounds will be open from 2:30 p. m. to 6:00 p. m. He indicated that they are not being opened during the mornings this week because the Ministerial Association had requested that the playgrounds not be operated while vacation bible schools are in progress.

Beginning June 21 the playgrounds will be open from 9:00 a. m. to 12 noon and from 2:30 until 6:30 p. m.

The recreation director said that there will also be special activities during the evenings which will be announced later.

Carroll reports that a number of activities are planned for the playgrounds this year including: arts and crafts, drama, ball games, volleyball, horseshoes, paddle tennis, table tennis, table games, story telling and other activities.

"Tennis instruction will be offered to all children interested each morning, Monday through Friday at 9:00 a. m.," Carroll noted. "The recreation department will furnish the balls for this instruction, but each participant will be required to bring his own racket."

Each person who attends the playgrounds and registers will be furnished a playground button.

"There is one thing that we want to warn the parents about," the recreation director stated, "and that is not to bring children to the playground that are not able to take care of themselves, unless an older child comes with them."

He emphasized that the playground leaders will not be able to watch every child during the entire time that they are at the playground.

"We suggest that a child be at least three or four years old before they attend," he continued. "There will be some activities for children this size."

Playground leaders will be able to tell parents when these activities will take place.

The three playground areas for white children are located at Elm Street Park, Gur Smith Park and Third Street School. The Negro playgrounds are at: Eppes High School, Riverside Park and South Greenville Park.

Staff of the white playgrounds as announced by Carroll includes: Elm Street Park, Mrs. Frank Dudley, Betsy Rouse, and Janet Powell; Third Street Park, Mrs. O'Neal Foell; Gur Smith Park, Martha Stott, Wayne Bishop, Janet Powell, Tennis Instructor, Wayne Bishop, George McMillan will be in charge of all playgrounds.

"In all cases we are set up for the biggest and best playground program ever undertaken in Greenville," Carroll concluded.

The bouffant skirt of tulle was styled with a pearl embroidered overskirt of tulle that was outlined in pleated ruffles and the ruffles edged the full skirt ending in a semitrain. The long tapering sleeves of lace ended in points over the hands.

Her fingertip veil of silk filasse fell from a pearl-trimmed lace cloche. She carried an open Bible topped with a white orchid that was showered with stephanotis and satin streamers.

Mrs. Willard Woodard of Scotland Neck attended her sister as matron of honor. Mrs. Woodard wore a gown of pink crystaletta styled with a fitted tucked bodice, bouffant skirt and tiny bolero. She wore a pearl ornamental bandeau of matching velvet and carried a colonial bouquet of mixed summer flowers with matching satin ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Lola Grey Kemp of Farmville and Burlington and Miss Marjorie Jennette of Micro. They wore gowns of blue crystaletta like the honor attendants and wore matching velvet bandeau. Their bouquets were also mixed summer flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. John O. Pollard were hosts at a cake cutting for the Warren-Barrett wedding party Tuesday night at their home.

Pink and white floral arrangements were used in decorating the dining room. In the center of the table which was spread with a hand-embroidered and drawn-work cloth, was a crystal candelabra holding lighted pink tapers and flanked by fern and gypsophelia the white three tiered wedding cake was topped with a bouquet of sweetheart roses and gypsophelia that was showered with pink ribbon. Miniature nosegays of sweetheart roses and gypsophelia were placed around the tiers.

After the cake was traditionally cut by the bride-elect and the groom-to-be it was served by Mrs. John Barrett, mother of the bride.

Mrs. Charles Warren, mother of Mr. Warren, served fruit punch from a crystal punch bowl. Lemon filled auxiliary cakes, party sandwiches, white and pink buttermints and salted nuts were also served.

Mrs. James F. Carr of Greenville invited the guests into the den where a green and white color scheme was effectively carried out. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Carr of Greenville served coffee, punch, assorted sandwiches, cheese straws and d'oeuvres from the refreshment table that was spread with a pale green linen embroidered cloth. A lovely arrangement of yellow daisies was used to decorate the room.

Business Today

The Discount Sellers

By ELMER ROESSNER
The quickest way to raise the blood pressure of the conventional retailer today is to bring up the subject of discount sellers or, as some merchants call them, "bootleggers."

These bootleggers, says William Burston, manager of the merchandising division of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, consist of four major types: operators of discount houses, premium plans, pseudo-wholesale businesses and club plans. Of lesser importance is the fellow with an office in his hat who will take orders for almost anything and then try to buy it at a price low enough to give his customer a discount and himself a commission.

Conventional retailers, Mr. Burston says, must fight bootleggers by improving their own operations. However, wholesalers and manufacturers must act to eliminate them or, over the long pull, weaken and destroy their own best outlets. Retailers with whom he has talked have recommended these steps by their suppliers:

1. Eliminate preferential discounts and maintain uniform, fair prices to all.
2. Police distribution to assure that products will be sold by established retailers only, without depending upon fair trade.
3. Discontinue give-aways. Giving away merchandise for radio, TV and other contests cheapens the product, reduces retailers' potential sales and decreases prestige of the products, they say.
4. Do not sell the identical brands to retailers and to promoters of premium plans, coupon plans, prizes and other gimmick selling schemes.
5. Discontinue advocating trade-in sales. These allow unscrupulous retailers a "legitimate" way to run up allowances without lowering list prices, thus affording retailers a trick method of not maintaining fair-trade prices. Refuse to sell coded catalogue houses. These are discount houses selling through catalogues. The catalogues carry list prices, but code numbers indicate the discounts obtainable by their friends—and they don't recognize an enemy in the world.

"Finally, I think that we should be giving thought to the need for adding more value—more and more value—to our customers' dollar," Mr. Burston says. "We have just got to get more value and keep on getting them."

AAA SEES 10 PER CENT RISE IN TOURISTS THIS YEAR
More people will take to vacation trails this year than ever before, the American Automobile Association says on a basis of early indications. Its preseason survey indicates that 60,000,000 persons will travel by auto and other conveyances this year. That, it says, will be an increase of 10 per cent over last year.

TV SET DOESN'T MAKE TAVERN A CABARET
One swallow does not make a summer. And, says the Internal Revenue Service, a television set does not make a cabaret.

In a new interpretation, the service finds that a TV set in a restaurant, bar or similar establishment does not in itself result in a liability for the Federal cabaret tax. But bring in a chorus line and Uncle Whiskers will be there for a share of each check.

TURKS PUT ON OCEAN LINER EXHIBITION

A floating exhibition starts toward America Monday. The exhibition is a show of Turkish products and tourist attractions on the liner Tarsus, formerly the American liner Exochorda. Last year the Tarsus played Mediterranean ports and displayed Turkish delights to almost a million persons.

What Does It Stand For Today?

Merits Of Bond Issue Up To Voters

Tomorrow Greenville voters will decide the merits of the proposed quarter-million dollar bond issue.

Note that, please: VOTERS will decide.

It is an unfortunate series of circumstances that has forced long-time advocates of swimming pools for Greenville to balk at the immediate passage of a bond issue that would purchase those pools in relatively short order. But such is the case today.

While estimates of spending $200,000 for the two pools sounds outrageously high in the light of comparative cost to other communities, there are other factors to be considered.

Mix That Fun Well

With Some Precautions

According to the calendar summer doesn't begin until next week; but our thermometer and some personal reflections on perspiration these past few days have us convinced summer came a little earlier than the calendar would indicate.

Too, the beaches are drawing thousands upon thousands; and the multitude of vacation-minded Americans are beginning their annual trek "away from it all."

Business reports all point to an early start in vacation travel and resort centers are already in the midst of a boom. It looks like a record summer for the travel industry and related enterprises that help make vacations a pleasant interval of life away from the usual daily grind.

Everybody likes vacations and we look forward to them long in advance of their arrival. And while hoping this year's holiday-goers all enjoy their brief relaxation, may we suggest no relaxation in observing the usual safety precautions? After all, there's no sense in starting a vacation sound in life and limb, and having it painfully interrupted by carelessness or a lack of moderation.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
A SATISFYING GOAL

There is a man in one of the large eastern cities who gives an interesting lecture on how to open a safe. He finds break-and-honest—employment in opening safes for executors and trustees handling the estates of men who have died and left no record of their safe combinations.

But this man says that in order to know how to open a safe he must be quite sure as to the type of lock which is behind the combination. Much of this man's success arises from the fact that, as a result of lifelong study, he can practically always tell by taking one look at a safe what is the nature of the lock behind the combination dial. His achievement is half accomplished because of this knowledge.

I could not help but think as I listened to his lecture how necessary it is that we know what is behind certain projects to which we address ourselves, and particularly how necessary it is that we know what is behind this thing we call life. If there is nothing behind it, if it just happened, if it will all blow up some day and go back to the material elements out of which it appears to come, then that is one way of looking at things, and a hopeless way. But if behind the appearance of things there is a God whom the Bible describes as purposeful, just, loving, and redeeming, then there is purpose in what we do and are. Then we have a satisfying goal toward which to press.

No Conclusions Are Possible

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—The Army-McCarthy controversy has degenerated into such a bitter personal and partisan quarrel that the Mundt Committee will reach no definitive conclusion in its report to the Senate, and that body will take no action on the twin sets of charges. Rarely has such a sensational Congressional investigation promised to be so inconclusive, settling nothing.

The Republican majority cannot afford to condemn Senator Joe McCarthy for alleged disruption of the military establishment and encroachment on the Constitutional authority of President Eisenhower. Nor will it dare to find that a Republican Administration resorted "to blackmail and intimidation" in order to close down the McCarthy expose of Reds in government.

The four GOP-ers will file an innocuous report to the effect that there has been blame and misunderstanding on both sides. It will attribute conscious or deliberate guilt to nobody. It will recommend that a better system of co-operation between Congressional investigators and Executive agencies be established. Its proposal for a study of this problem of borderline power will be pigeonholed and forgotten.

COMPROMISE—The reasons for "the great McCarthy compromise" by the Republicans are principally political. They would be committing Party and personal suicide, if they returned a true bill against either party to the dispute.

In the first place, it is now evident that the charges against McCarthy and Counsel Roy M. Cohn were inspired by the White House, not by the mild and naive Robert T. Stevens, Secretary of the Army. Stevens' testimony, letters, statements and monitored phone calls show that he was not irritated by any pressure on behalf of Private G. David Schine.

Nor did Stevens at first recognize the effect on Army morale of McCarthy's "abuse" of high officers. He was pressured into resentment by his military staff, especially by General Matthew B. Ridgway, the Army Chief of Staff.

MASTERMINDS—Sherman Adams, Ike's Chief of Staff, Attorney-General Herbert Brownell Jr., and William P. Rogers, Deputy Attorney-General, masterminded the Army attack on McCarthy, as first delivered in Stevens' letter to Senator Charles E. Potter of Michigan. It was Vice-President Richard M. Nixon

The possibilities of wholly needless waste in the proposed expenditure should concern every property owner and taxpayer in the corporate limits of Greenville. This is a long-term investment, involving a prolonged indebtedness, and represents a project for which there are many unanswered questions.

In effect, the City Council has offered Greenville "a pig in a poke," and the Council itself does not know, could not know, all that the bond issue vote might entail. Fortunately, we don't have to buy blind.

The Greenville Recreation Commission, vigorous champions of expanding and improving the city's recreation facilities, recognized this fact and recommended against holding the bond election on the scheduled date, June 15. They were over-ruled.

Consider:

Plans for two swimming pools were made on a basis of racial segregation well before the Supreme Court ruling against segregation in the public school systems. On the basis of that decision, and extending it to all tax-supported public institutions (as many seers have already done, and as the Supreme Court subsequently hinted doing) then building of separate swimming pools for Negroes and whites, with public money would be illegal.

Nobody knows how far the Supreme Court will go in its future decrees affecting the end of segregation; but if the court itself does not bring up the issue of segregation in all tax-supported institutions, then someone else will; and in all consistency, that issue would have to be resolved on the same basis as that on which the school decision was reached.

If Greenville rushes now to accept the $250,000 bond issue and terms presently outlined for spending that money, we will have two swimming pools. There is also the strong probability that Greenville will find their two pools in unsatisfactory locations to best fill the needs of the citizenry. Too, it might well be determined that one large swimming pool, centrally located, would fill the city's needs . . . and at a much cheaper outlay than required for two pools.

The future is so uncertain on these matters that it does appear the height of folly to blunder ahead now, in the dark.

As previously stated, The Reflector wants Greenville to have public swimming facilities at the earliest practical date. We need swimming facilities. Yet, voting blindly for the borrowing and spending of a quarter-million dollars is foolhardy in the extreme.

who got Potter to ask Stevens for the accusing letter. It so happens that this quartet—Adams, Brownell, Rogers and Nixon—are Eisenhower's top legal and political advisers. They know politics, whereas he does not, although he is learning the hard way. Thus, it becomes obvious to Republicans on the Committee that the attempt to discredit and choke off McCarthy had Ike's full approval.

Chairman Mundt and his colleagues also recognize that they cannot even intimate that there was wrongful or unworthy actions by the head of the Administration and Party. That would be political treason.

VOTES IN OFFING—In view of McCarthy's appeal to millions, especially in the very states which the four Committee Republicans represent, they cannot afford to be tough on "Joe and Roy." They don't want the Senator to take the stump against them. In fact, they have supported him from start to finish during the hearings.

Moreover, two Committee members are up for reelection next fall and they will need both pro-Eisenhower and pro-McCarthy votes. They are Chairman Mundt of South Dakota and Henry C. Dworshak of Idaho. Their behavior during the inquiry has been tempered by thoughts of November.

Senator Everett McKinley Dirksen has even more burdensome reasons for assuming a righteous and reasonable position. He lives and runs for office in the shadow of McCarthy's chief journalistic champion, The Chicago Tribune. Again, as Chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, he must be politically impartial. His executive director, Victor A. Johnson, was once McCarthy's Administrative Assistant.

DEMOCRATIC VIEWPOINT—The Democrats will find fault with both McCarthy and Stevens. They will denounce the Senator for his "dictatorial, disruptive and irresponsible methods," and his willingness to upset the system of balanced powers.

They will criticize Stevens for his wishy-washy behavior and his kowtowing to the McCarthy-Schine-Cohn group. And they will suggest that the undignified and useless proceedings would have been unnecessary, if Eisenhower and Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, had shown firm and determined resistance to McCarthy in the first instance.

Thus will end this act of the great McCarthy drama.

Optimistic Side Of Coin In Considering Today's Youth

By ROGER W. BABSON
BABSON PARK, MASS.—Some of my young friends feel that a recent pessimistic column of mine will handicap them in getting a good position. Hence, they wish me to tell the optimistic side of the story. There is much newspaper talk about the delinquency of juveniles, the carelessness of youth, and the lowering of school and college standards.

Of course, the destruction of school or any property should be given the severest criticism; but some feel these crimes are only a natural reaction from the moral letdown that always has accompanied periods of great wars. So much has been written by me regarding the pessimistic side of the "modern youth" problem that I really should pass along some optimistic words, especially now, at graduation time.

Tarheels In Washington Surprised By Aspects In Vote

By LYNN NISBET

SURPRISES—As information about the recent primary trickles in there are numerous instances of admitted surprise on part of those who think—or have thought—they know something about North Carolina politics. Take the Tarheel contingent in Washington, for example. Most of them were not at all surprised that Kerr Scott won the senatorial nomination. They were greatly surprised at the narrow margin by which he won it, and even more surprised at the poor showing made by Alvin Wingfield Jr.

Although the Washington folks admire Senator Leno and wished him to win, they thought he would trail Scott by 50,000 to 75,000 votes. Very few of them knew Wingfield, but on basis of reports from Tarheels they credited him with 15,000 to 25,000 votes. The Scott victory, therefore, was not surprising to them; but the lead of only 25,000 over Leno and the 8,000 vote for Wingfield upset their calculations about as much as those results upset predictions of down home North Carolinians.

UNHAPPY—Another thing

the Washingtonian Tarheels are uncertain about is whether to be happy or unhappy over the trend of congressional legislation.

They are definitely unhappy about the probable, maybe the certain effect, of the administration farm program on North Carolina. Reduction of rigid 90 per cent parity support prices for basic commodity crops admittedly will be bad for North Carolina and most of the South.

They also are very unhappy about curtailment of appropriations for welfare programs, including school lunches and aid to dependent children and the aged indigents.

HAPPY—From the purely political viewpoint they are happy about recent and prospective developments in the Congress. Consensus among the North Carolinians in the Congress is that the Republicans are slowly but surely committing political suicide and the Democrats are reasonable certain to recapture control of the Congress this fall.

That opinion is shared by high-ups in labor organizations and some industrial representatives. The Senate will remain very close

WHAT IS PALEONTOLOGY?

Paleontology is the science of ancient life. Recently, Doctor Barum Brown, Curator Emeritus of the American Museum of Natural History, a leading paleontologist, told me that the facts prove conclusively every normal generation is "bler" than its predecessor. The new generation may do things which oldsters do not like, but it has other qualities which more than offset our objections. This improvement, he claims, is due to many factors—one of which is the better diet which each generation has—more protein, more fruits and vegetables, and especially a greater variety of food.

When I attended high school, I despised such subjects as Latin, Greek and certain higher mathematics. When I would tell the teacher that I would never use these subjects, the teacher would reply, "These are taught to help you 'develop your brain.'" Yet, today, psychologists tell me that driving automobiles through traffic does far more to develop the brains of modern youth than did any of those high-school subjects which were taught us. In fact, it may be that automobiles are today doing more to sharpen high-school brains than many of the textbooks which I studied.

AUTOMOBILES AS TEACHERS

I am scared stiff when riding with one of my grandchildren. The way he drives "in and out" of traffic astounds me. Yet, he never has an accident. The automobile may make the present generation superior to the pre-automobile generation to which I belonged. Furthermore, instead of urging youth to drive slower we should perhaps be content to urge "careful driving." The best brains are said to be developed by alert, careful driving.

Therefore, I should say that 1954 graduates—who avoid liquor and excessive smoking—may be the best we have ever had an opportunity to hire. Perhaps, we employers may well place them in the jobs of us oldsters who cannot think as fast or visualize as quickly as we once could. In fact, one of the best tests which an employment manager can use on applicants may be to ask for the applicant's auto record. It may tell more than high-school marks! I do not know.

West Berlin Fights Its Way Up

By HAL BOYLE

BERLIN (AP)—There are cigarette butts on the streets of Berlin, the city with the split personality.

There are thousands of window flower boxes blooming in bright color.

To me these are more significant testimonials to the postwar recovery of the German capital, still the fulcrum of the East-West tug-of-war, than the sight of workmen raising tall scaffolding to repair damaged buildings.

In 1946 if a visitor flicked away a half-smoked cigarette, five hands grabbed for it before it hit the pavement. The collection of cigarette butts was a leading industry. Tobacco, coffee and sugar often took the place of money as a medium of exchange and a measure of value.

Even bankers tilled backyard gardens because food was so scarce, and few found time or energy to raise flowers. The window boxes were barren of bloom.

The third most important sign of recovery is the disappearance of the look of fear and fawning from the eyes of the people who live here. In 1946 the typical Berlin look was that of a castaway animal, a homeless expression of cautious pleading that seeks friendship from a stranger. That look is gone altogether.

These signals of human recovery and a return to human dignity and self-confidence are far more impressive than Berlin's property recovery, the almost miraculous speed with which it is restoring its battered physical structure.

No city in its history ever took a more fearsome battering. Allied airplanes rained 75,000 tons of bombs on it, Russian artillery methodically shelled it for weeks in a calculated effort to reduce it to complete ruin.

As a result the city lost 500,000 lives, 38 per cent of the buildings in its 340 square miles area were destroyed, and an additional 38 per cent were damaged. The debris has been piled up but engineers recently estimated 100 million tons of rubble still remain.

But the streets are thronged, new shops stocked with food, clothing or luxury goods open regularly, and the squabbling gatherings of black market operators are gone.

The Allied-occupied Western sectors and the Russian-held Eastern sector are peculiarly different. The Russians dramatically symbolized Berlin's prosperity revival with a concentrated show window reconstruction of Stalin Allee. Big yellow-tiled apartment buildings and street shops Russian in design and as impersonal as sardines in a can, line that thoroughfare for miles. But step one block away and you are back in uncleaned debris.

West Berlin has no single reconstruction job to equal this but has spread a vaster building revival program throughout the entire sector.

The difference in the human rehabilitation factor is clear to even the most casual visitor. The people in the Western sector are better dressed, the shops hold more goods, the streets are better kept up than those in the Russian sector.

The problem of unemployment is greater in the Allied sector, of course, the chief reason being that 305,737 refugees poured across from the East in 1953, some 37,410 more in the first four months of this year.

Voting records might show Deane to be a free-spending New Dealer, and Cooley slightly less inclined to that philosophy. But it must be remembered that Deane is and has been dealing with general matters while Cooley's major interest has been agriculture. As chairman and ranking member of the commission on the social welfare policies, but politically he shares Cooley's opinion that the Republicans are "damned if you do and damned if you don't". He holds that since most of these welfare programs were initiated by the Federal government the Federal agencies have a moral if not a literal or legal responsibility to see they are carried out. He doesn't think any more than does Governor Unstead of the idea that the Federal Government can renege on supports of these policies under the guise of State rights unless it surrenders to the States the tax revenue sources which the Federal government took over for the purpose of financing these projects, during the depression, New Deal and war years.

FALSE ECONOMY—Both Cooley and Deane are in favor of economy in government and reduction of taxes. Many of the problems they have to deal with are so intricate it is often difficult to determine just what constitutes economy and tax savings. They recognize there is no benefit to the taxpayer citizen to reduce Federal levies if State levies must be increased in equal or greater proportion.

Rhee Again Slated To Stir Troubles

By JAMES MARLOW
 WASHINGTON (AP) — This country's troubles begin again with Syngman Rhee, South Korean President, if the Geneva conference fails to produce a peaceful settlement. It seems sure to fail.

The diplomats, Western and Communist, have talked six weeks at Geneva about Korea and Indochina. No positive results. The conference can't last much longer.

Ever since the armistice last summer Rhee has opposed the division of his country into North and South Korea. Repeatedly he has threatened to wreck the truce if the diplomats can't agree on a way to unite Korea.

He now has 20 divisions, 650,000 troops, trained and equipped by the United States. In addition, the United States and the United Nations have about 260,000 of their troops in South Korea.

Across the armistice line—a no man's land 4,000 yards wide—are a million Communist troops: 350,000 North Korean, 650,000 Chinese. The North Koreans hold most of the front-line positions. The Chinese are behind them.

They have fortifications, bunkers and caves, for 20 miles behind the front. It is the opinion of American military leaders that Rhee could not crack that defense.

If his troops ran into disaster, only U. S. and U. N. intervention could bail them out. And that would mean full-scale resumption of the Korean War.

When the Geneva conference breaks up, assuming it's a failure, and Rhee starts talking of attack again, U. S. officials will have to try to keep him talking instead of acting.

There have been no clashes in the no man's land which stretches across Korea for 150 miles. Each side has an armed patrol of about 1,000 men who roam their side of the demilitarized zone.

But Rhee could start the war going again by pointing one big gun northward and pulling the lanyard.

The United States has let the armistice commission go freely through the South Korean ports of entry to see that the U. N. forces don't add to their military strength during the truce.

But the Communists don't let the commission have the same freedom in their area. They have rebuilt their airfields but whether they have planes to put on their fields, in case the war begins again, is not publicly known.

The American armed forces have helped the rehabilitation of South Korea with supplies and supervision of the rebuilding. The rebuilding itself is done by the South Koreans.

Sky Diamonds Really Happen

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (AP)—Sky scanners who report diamonds in the sky may be given a perfectly sober description of what a soaring rocket does to the air waves. Tests of rocket motors made for the Army Ordnance Corps show that a long string of diamond patterns appears inside each rocket flame.

Scientists explain that the patterns result when shock waves are produced by the collision of the hot gases with the surrounding atmosphere.

11-Year-Old Is Dancing In Opera

By TOM STONE
 AP Newsfeature
 FRANKFURT, German — A performer in the German Opera at the age of 11 — that's the distinction of Carol Fontaine, as American as her red plaid shirt and blue jeans.

Carol, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fontaine, formerly of Worcester, Mass., was the only American in "Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp," presented here by the famous old Frankfurt Opera Co.

Move Halts Dance

She danced in the ballet until her parents moved to Darmstadt, where her father is director of the art department of Stars and Stripes, U. S. Army newspaper.

Carol was a "paid performer," she likes to point out.

"For the first performance I was paid 22 marks ($5.20). For each performance after that I was paid 2 1/2 marks (60 cents). I spent all I earned on dancing lessons and a pair of ballet shoes."

Carol speaks German as well as she does English. She was three years old when she came to Germany with her parents.

That Proves It

"A lot of the German kids in the ballet didn't believe at first that I was an American. I speak the real Frankfurt dialect. Then one day I showed up in blue jeans. That convinced them."

Carol is in the fifth grade of an Army-run school. "I like reading and spelling best," she says, "but ballet dancing is what I really like."

Falkland Wins Twice From Grimesland Team

FALKLAND—Falkland's baseball team swamped Grimesland in a pair of baseball games over the past weekend.

Both games were slugfests with the local nine winning 14-7 on Saturday and 14-6 on Sunday.

Falkland went on a hitting spree Saturday with every player getting at least two hits and three players batting safely three times. The club belted out 21 hits Saturday.

Grimesland was doing their share of gathering base hits Saturday also, getting a total of 15 hits.

Falkland sewed the game up Saturday by getting seven runs in the third inning. Grimesland's big inning was in the sixth when they scored four runs.

Ralph Caldwell, Ed Stokes and Red Painter each got three hits Saturday. J. I. Mills had three hits for Grimesland.

Sunday's Game
Sunday's game, played in Grimesland, proved to be almost a duplicate of Saturday's game. Both teams got 15 hits in the 14-6 battle.

The game started slow with the pace picking up in the late innings. Grimesland scored first in the second inning and held a 1-0 lead until the fourth when Falkland went ahead 2-1 on two hits and an error.

Grimesland came back in the fifth to tie the game at 2-2, but a four run rally in the sixth put Falkland ahead to stay.

Grimesland scored once in the sixth, but Falkland matched that run in the seventh. Grimesland scored again in the seventh and the score remained 7-4 through the eighth inning.

When the Falkland nine came to bat in the ninth they stayed for quite a while, with 11 batters coming to the plate in that frame.

Stokes led off the ninth with a double to deep left field. Frank Corbett came through with a single to send Stokes to third. After Rut Waters struck out Bob Soyette hit a home run over the center fielder's head to send Falkland ahead 10-4.

Mark Stancil got on base on an error, Harvey Strickland fanned, but consecutive hits by Bill Webb, Paul Jones, Cotton Webb and another by Stokes added four more runs before Corbett grounded out to third.

Bill Webb was the big spark in the Falkland attack, getting four hits in six times at bat. Webb got on base every time he batted, reaching first once on an error and once on a fielder's choice. Stokes got three hits for Falkland.

Bob Burroughs led Grimesland with four hits, but J. T. Mills came through with three base hits, including a home run to right centerfield.

Ed Warren, Falkland manager, commenting on the team's performance over the past weekend, said, "I think I have one of the finest teams in eastern North Carolina. Almost all our players are either former college players or former Coastal Plain League players."

He added that Harvey Strickland, the team's youngest player, reports to Burlington-Graham of the Carolina League later this week.

Falkland has now won seven of its last eight games and has an eight win, six loss record in the Tobacco Belt League.

Belvoir is next weekend's opponent and Warren said that Mark Stancil will be the starting pitcher at Belvoir Saturday. On Sunday the two teams meet in Falkland.

The Elks club recorded their ninth straight win of the year Saturday afternoon, but they did it by the skin of their teeth over an Exchange ball club that just wouldn't quit.

The Exchange led coupled with a Moose win over the Pepsi-Cola pushed the Moose in second place in the Tar Heel standings at the end of the first half.

In the opening game the Elks had to call on every source of power they had to edge by the Exchange 6-5 in one of the most thrilling games of the year. Big Merrill Bynum of the Elks and Bill Clapp of the Exchange hooked in a brilliant pitching duel over the first six innings, with the Elks rallying to tie the score in the last of the sixth to send the game into overtime.

Both pitchers had to stop after six innings because of the Little League rule which allows a pitcher to pitch only six innings in one ball game. The Elks sent Billy Jenkins in to pitch in the top of the seventh and the Exchange greeted him for two runs including a long home run by Jeff Fountain. The game appeared sewed up going into the last of the seventh with Fountain on the hill for Coach Neely James' Exchange club.

However, Harry Forbes walked, Joe Mose doubled, and Merrill Bynum doubled to tie the score. Rick Saue walked and Bobby Arthur slashed a ball straight to the shortstop who allowed the ball to go by him. Bynum came around to score and that was the ball game.

In the second game the Moose smacked 12 runs across the plate on 11 hits to outscore the Pepsi-Cola 12-6. Little Kenneth Joyner went all the way on the mound for the Moose and weathered all six Pepsi runs.

Jackson Williams led the hitting for the Pepsi with three hits in four trips to the plate. The Moose had five players who touched Pepsi pitching for two hits each.

The games Saturday were the last of the first half in both leagues. The next games will be played Wednesday afternoon. A doubleheader will be on tap Wednesday with one game from each league being played. The Pepsi-Cola and the Exchange start at 3 o'clock with the V.F.W. and the Lions opening at 4:30.

Louis Says Ezzard Charles Training For Wrong Fight

Rollins In Finals Of World Series

OMAHA (AP)—Michigan State and Missouri, two of the "big" in the NCAA college baseball World Series, tangled tonight to see who plays Rollins College, one of the smallest ever to get to the tourney, for the championship.

The championship game will be played Tuesday night. All three teams now have 3-1 tournament records. The meet is a double elimination affair.

They were bunched up when Michigan State edged Rollins, 3-2, in 10 innings last night, and Missouri ousted Oklahoma A. and M., 7-3. Saturday night Rollins had clipped Michigan State, 5-4, with a two run rally in the ninth.

Zernial Hinting At Further Words In Bitter Dispute

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Big Gus Zernial of the Philadelphia Athletics hints he hasn't spoken his last word in the bitter verbal battle with manager Eddie Joost.

The home run slugger was quoted yesterday by a sports telecaster as saying "The fact that Joost isn't playing me everyday is only half the story. What the other half is I won't say now but I'll speak my piece before this is over."

Meanwhile, the reaction of the club to the Friday night dugout clash of Joost and Zernial and the slugger's subsequent 25th time, has people wondering if more fights shouldn't be sponsored. The A's have won four straight and bounced out of the American League cellar.

Earle Mack says he hopes the two men will shake hands and forget the whole thing.

MONTICELLO N.Y. (AP)—Joe Louis thinks Ezzard Charles is training for the wrong kind of fight in his bid to win back the heavyweight title in his bout with Rocky Marciano Thursday night at Yankee Stadium.

The Bomber watched Charles go five rounds yesterday, pressing the attack as though he meant to carry the fight to Rocky.

"You don't go in there and mix with Marciano," said the former champ, who called Marciano "stale" Saturday. In answer to a question, Louis admitted it would be suicide for Charles to mix with the champ.

"The way to beat Marciano should be to stick with your left and then throw the right when he misses. If Charles fights Rocky like he fought against me, he could beat Marciano. But he doesn't seem to be training for that kind of fight."

Tom Tannas, one of Charles' co-managers, said the 32-year-old Cincinnati Negro was perfectly tuned for his best fight.

"Mentally he was never better," he said. And he's just as good physically as when he fought Louis.

Charles planned one more workout, and possibly two, before he breaks camp Wednesday afternoon. His five-round trial Sunday boosted his training total to 143 rounds.

Marciano finished the heavy work yesterday, going two rounds with Keene Simmons for a total of 183 rounds since April 2. He will loosen up with a little shadow boxing to hold the edge.

Imagine where the St. Louis Cardinals would be today without The Man and The Kitten. Stan Musial, of course, is Stan Musial, the greatest hitter in the National League. The Kitten is Harvey Haddix, the best pitcher in the senior circuit.

Stan the Man and Harvey the Kitten combined their talents yesterday to give the Cardinals their first double-header victory of the season. Haddix hurled his second 5.14 night shutout and his 10th victory at the Cards' first game. Pittsburgh 5-0 in the first game. Musial, who drove in two runs in the opener with a pair of singles, snapped a 3-3 tie in the second game with his 21st home run. The Cards went on to win 5-3.

The double victory moved the Cardinals into fifth place, but they still trail the league leaders by 6½ games. The Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants, tied for first place swept their double-headers.

Scoring all their runs in the seventh inning, the Dodgers overcame a 4-0 deficit to edge out Cincinnati 6-5 in the opener and came back to run over the Redlegs 14-2 in the nightcap. The Giants thrashed the Cubs 9-3 and 9-4, breaking through for six runs in the 11th to snap a 3-3 tie in the first game.

The Philadelphia Athletics, who had been fighting among themselves, decided to carry some of it to the opposition and as a result captured two come-from-behind victories from the Detroit Tigers 4-3 and 6-4. The double win moved the Athletics out of the cellar only half a game behind the sixth-place Baltimore Orioles.

Bob Fotherfield shut out Baltimore 4-0 after the Orioles had clubbed five Washington pitchers for 14 hits to take the opener 6-4. Haddix, the 28-year-old Cardinal "stopper," struck out 10 Pirates and permitted only three singles as he rolled up his eighth straight victory. The majors' biggest winner now owns seven complete games, half the total of the entire Cardinals' staff.

Musial, with four hits in nine times at bat, boosted his batting mark to .370 second only to Duke Snider's .378. Musial leads the majors with 21 homers and 69 runs batted in.

Pinned hitter George Shuba's home run with two men on base and Gil Hodges' three-run homer accounted for all Brooklyn's runs after rookie Corky Valentine held them scoreless through six innings of the opener. The Dodgers unleashed a 17-hit attack in the finale with Junior Gilliam and Pee Wee Reese collecting four apiece. Davey Williams and Don Mueller paced the Giants' 27-hit attack against six Chicago hurlers. Williams batted in six runs in the double-header, and Mueller amassed six hits and scored five times.

Andy Pafko and Del Crandall hit two-run homers to decide the free-hitting struggle between Milwaukee and Philadelphia.

Early Wynn won his seventh and Mike Garcia his eighth in Cleveland's sweep. Outfielder Wally Westlake homered in each game for the victors.

A three-run homer by Gene Woodring in the sixth enabled the Yankees' Ed Lopat to register his seventh triumph of the year. The White Sox pounced on starter Harry Byrd for four runs in the first inning of the nightcap.

Elmer Valo, who replaced Gus Zernial in the Philadelphia outfield, drove in four runs with a bases-loaded triple and a single to provide the A's winning margin in the second game. Manager Eddie Joost's benching of the erratic Zernial had led to a verbal battle between the manager and the leftfielder the other day.

When manager Birdie Tebbets of the Redlegs was a student at Providence College, he was a regular on the basketball team.

Nurse Lady

SYNOPSIS
Norman Brandt and nurse Cynthia Doyle had first met at the scene of an accident near Washington, D.C. He'd tried to "date" her, to pay her court, but Cynthia's romantic interest centers about Dr. Sellars with whom she works at the clinic.

CHAPTER SEVEN

CYNTHIA did not wrench free from the doctor now. Her cheeks were scarlet, her eyes blazing, yet she felt both angry and glad. Maybe she was making him up. "You can't order me to do anything," she said. "At least, not like that. Maybe I will take a vacation a little later on. As for coming to my senses, I agree with you it's about time I did. I like the work in the clinic, yes; I love the children. But I'm not just an old automaton, like you. I—I'm a woman, as well as a nurse."

To her dismay, she found her voice breaking; she felt like a fool. But he could not talk that way to her, shake her when she should be shaking him—and the thought of going away from him, when he made it an order, was unbearable. For it was Walt she loved, not just the clinic.

"Well now, see here." His whole manner had changed; he was no longer the physician comforting a sick, or unruly, patient. He had always thought of Cynthia as a rock; she was so dependable, so strong, for all her femininity—a wonderful nurse and physical therapist. But she was just a girl he could see now. A mighty pretty one, with her eyes misty with tears, her cheeks so like a rose petal. He had never taken time to realize just how pretty his young assistant was.

He took out his pocket handkerchief, but instead of handing it to her he placed one big hand firmly on her shoulder and with the other dabbed at his tears.

"I'm sorry if I got rough." His voice was gentle. "I'm just a big lug. You take your vacation whenever you want to. And when you do, I'll be sunk. I know you could find much easier work, work that would bring you much more money as well—but I'd be lost without you, Cynthia."

That was a little better. And it was wonderful to have him practically put his arm around her, dry her tears. Nurses did not shed them, but women did. Sometimes they were a woman's best weapon against a man.

"I—I won't do anything—in a hurry," she promised. But she had won too much to give in altogether, or too soon.

"Good! Now then, take my hanky—blow your nose." That sounded again like a doctor's order to a wilful child, but she amended it by adding, "And get your things—let the rest of the tidying up go until morning. I'll walk home with you. We'll stop somewhere and have coffee, or dinner, if you like."

Cynthia blew her nose obediently. She returned his handkerchief. Her eyes, looking up into his, were clear once more; they were a soft violet-blue, not black with anger or wounded pride.

"Some other time," she said. "I'd love to have dinner with you, Walt, but I'm having it with someone else tonight."

"You mean—some other man?" "Well, yes."

"Oh, I see." The young doctor's voice was not his professional one. It sounded like any average man's who might be annoyed at having been refused a date and who finds himself jealous at suddenly discovering there's another man in the picture.

"Is it anyone I know?" Walt asked.

"In a way," Cynthia said. "It's the man whose car ran into Julius. You see, I ran into him—this man, I mean, when I stopped by the hospital to see how Julius was getting along."

"I see." The young doctor's tone was still unprofessional. It did not sound as though he "saw" at all. "I'm rather surprised," he said, "that you would let a man like that take you out to dinner."

"How do you know what kind of man he is?" Cynthia found herself defending Norman Brandt.

"He can't be much of a man, driving around town like a maniac, running down children. He's probably a rich playboy."

"I don't believe he is," Cynthia continued to defend Norman. She could not tell Walt that Mr. Brandt had not been driving the car. "I don't believe he is a playboy. And I doubt if he is very rich, anyway," she added, smiling slightly. "I believe I can choose my friends."

"I suppose that's right." Walt's tone was even gruffer; that deep scowl had etched itself between his eyebrows. He did not like the idea of Cynthia's being friendly with this fellow even if she did insist he was all right. "Well, perhaps we can have dinner together some other evening," he suggested.

"Say, next Friday?" "Friday would be fine." Cynthia realized that this made it a date, naming the evening. Always before when they had seen each other outside the clinic, it had just been accidental or at least not planned.

Her meeting with Norman Brandt had been accidental, although she had had a suspicion that perhaps he had visited the hospital hoping to see her, as well as little Julius.

Julius, childlike, had given this away.

His small face, with the large dark eyes had lighted up when Cynthia had come into his room. "It's the Nurse Lady!" he had cried. "I knew you'd come to see me. I told Mr. Brandt I knew you'd come, Nurse Lady."

"Of course I was coming to see you, Julius." Cynthia had given the child an affectionate pat. She had thought, "Well, I must have been under discussion."

She had thought how nice it was that the little boy could have such a light airy room. It was filled with flowers which she supposed had come from Norman Brandt, possibly some from the actress, Reba Raye. Cynthia had brought the little boy some fruit, which she had placed in a bowl on the bedside table. She also had brought him some picture books.

"Oh, thank you, Nurse Lady!" Julius had said when she showed the books to him. "I love to hear stories—can you read one to me?"

"I told Mr. Brandt how nice you are. I told him you're nice to all us kids." The big dark eyes were filled with adoration as they looked at the pretty young nurse.

"Of course I'll read you a story." Cynthia had thought it would be hard to refuse him anything. He had looked so small in the long, high bed. His leg was in a cast clear up to his hip. He would have to lie flat on his back for many weeks.

"I told Mr. Brandt about the time you came to our house," the little boy had gone on, "when mama was so sick. And how you brought a basket of groceries and even fixed our supper, and how you sent some wood and coal 'cause our house was cold."

"You shouldn't tell all those things to a stranger," Cynthia had said.

"Oh, but Mr. Brandt's not a stranger. He child had protested. "He comes to see me every day. He's a swell guy Mr. Brandt is."

"Has he been here today?" Cynthia had asked.

Julius had shaken his dark, curly head. "No. He asked what time I thought you'd come, Nurse Lady. I told him you couldn't come till the clinic closed. I'm sorry if I shouldn't of told Mr. Brandt all those things."

Cynthia had said it was all right; she could not scold Julius. She had read him a story and had been about to start another when Norman Brandt had put in an appearance.

He had pretended to be quite surprised at finding her sitting by Julius's bedside, and Cynthia had been amused at his pretense. They had chatted a while and Norman had shown them how to work a puzzle he had with him; and as soon as she could, Cynthia had said she would have to leave.

Norman had followed her outside the door. That had been when he had asked her to have dinner with him the following evening. He had said "You might as well say yes. I won't take no. I'll just keep on asking you."

Which was one reason why Cynthia had said yes. She suspected that he would be just that persistent. She might as well have dinner with him and get it over with. She would tell him that it was impossible for them to be friends.

Of course, as she had realized afterwards, she would have to be subtle about it. She could not just come right out and say, "See here, we can't be friends; you belong to Roz."

It might not seem quite fair for Cynthia to be having dinner with Norman under these circumstances. But she had to straighten things out. And now Walt felt the same way about it—that she shouldn't be friends with Norman Brandt, or even have dinner with him. However, Walt really had no right to dictate who her friends should be—or with whom she should have dinner.

Maybe it would do that young doctor a world of good to know that some other man thought of his assistant nurse as an attractive and desirable dinner companion. Certainly Walt had seemed a bit annoyed. And had it not been for her date with Norman, he might not have suggested that they make a definite date for Friday. So Cynthia decided it was just as well she had said yes.

Fantastic Tales Of Porty Mason Heard

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What is the truth about Portland Mason, the fabulous 8-year-old?

Many fantastic things have been printed about the daughter of James and Pamela Mason, the British filmsters. Among them: that she has her own mink coat and her own psychoanalyst; that her parents bought a school for her; that they take her to cocktail parties and night clubs.

To check up on such reports I went to the youngster's mother, dark-haired, intellectual Pamela Mason.

Mrs. Mason defended her daughter from the critics' barbs. "I wouldn't answer these things," she began, "except that Portland is beginning public school this fall.

It is a terrible burden for her to face the other children after all these stories about her.

"The only unusual thing about her upbringing is her hours. I was the eldest of six children and we were all brought up with nurses. We were required to be in the drawing room at a certain hour each day and so forth. I missed being with my mother, and I vowed that I would rear my own child.

"Unlike many Beverly Hills children, Portland has no nurse. I take care of her myself. Rather than get up at 6 in the morning with her, I arranged it so she got up at 9 and stayed up later in the evening. That's all there is to it."

About buying the school: "Portland went to a nursery school early and liked the teacher. She had to go out of business and we tried another school, but Portland wasn't happy. So we bought some property for her former teacher to reopen her school. We are the mortgage holders that's all."

The cocktail parties: "The only one she attended was Kirk Douglas' introducing his new wife. We went because Portland is in love with Kirk. She was roundly criticized for being there, and we certainly wouldn't have gone if we had known it would be one of those big, all-star occasions.

"When she was a baby, we used to take her to dinner parties at the Waller Wangers or other close friends. That was because I was nursing her.

The night clubs: "Portland went to Ciro's once. That was because her dancing teacher was one of the Katherine Dunham troupe, and we wanted her to see the show. We came in when the first show started and left immediately after."

The mink coat: "Utterly fantastic. If she has one, we haven't seen it."

The psychoanalyst: "I don't believe I've ever met one in my life, and I don't think Portland has."

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Enemy" planes shoot across the high skies of the United States today, dropping make-believe deadly bombs on 54 American and Canadian cities in this country's first nationwide civil defense exercise.

Every target city will be "substantially destroyed" and millions of citizens will be "killed" and "wounded" by a hypothetical onslaught under assumptions drawn up by the Federal Civil Defense Administration (FCDA).

Whether your town holds a drill in the simulated, but serious, trial has been left up to state and local civil defense organizations. Washington, New York and Philadelphia are among the larger cities in which the public will take part.

At Mobile, Ala., a test evacuation is scheduled during which some 26,000 persons are expected to walk and ride out of an area of 450 blocks in the main business district.

Officially the nationwide exercise—called "Operation Alert"—starts at 10 a. m., EST, and runs for 24 hours.

Federal civil defense officials said, however, that where there is public participation the time for the air raid drill has been left entirely up to local authorities and likely will come before lunchtime.

In Washington the drill officially was called for an hour before the nationwide exercise. All street traffic must stop and occupants of buildings will go to shelter areas. Only the Capitol and the Senate and House office buildings will not take part.

In New York, three A-bombs will supposedly shatter Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx, killing 2,175,000 people and injuring another 800,000.

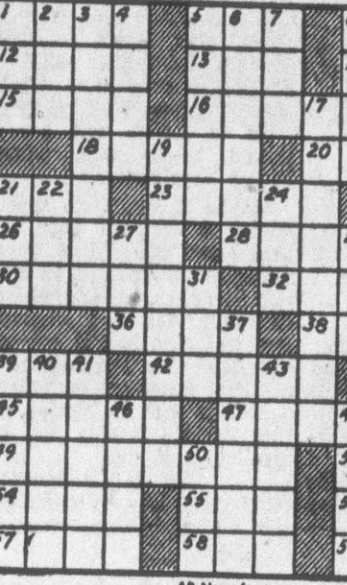

The exercise is based on the hypothesis that 41 target cities in the United States, 6 in Canada, 2 in Alaska and 1 each in Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands are attacked by atomic and other weapons.

Its aim is to boost the effectiveness of all civil defense organizations, test communications facilities and provide realistic training for civil defense workers.

Wants Gov't Down To Size

WASHINGTON (AP)—The president of the National Assn. of Retail Grocers today pictured the federal government as "a big brother whom you love and respect but who sometimes gets too big for his britches."

Vincent L. Browner, of Des Moines, Iowa, said that, for example, the government runs 162 ice cream plants.

In reporting to the group's 55th convention, Browner said he views "big government" as a greater threat than the hydrogen bomb. But he added:

"... Now is not the time to go all out in our efforts to cut government down to its proper size. He said consideration of 'measures, including premature tax cuts, that will interfere with the efficiency and effectiveness of our common defense' should be deferred.

"But we must seek prudently," he said, "for other reasonable economies and opportunities to start cutting off some of these grasping, socialistic tentacles of federal government."

Imagination Is Said Sufficient

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-N.Y.), chairman of the Senate-House Committee on Atomic Energy says he doesn't think Russian leaders have to witness an American hydrogen blast to appreciate the force of the H-bomb.

"All you need is imagination," he said yesterday in a CBS television interview.

Thomas E. Murray, one of the five members of the Atomic Energy Commission, suggested last week that an H-bomb demonstration for representatives of all nations, including Russia, would lead to rejection of war and nuclear weapons.

Cole said he couldn't see that Murray's proposal "has any great value."

This should be applied with a sponge or stiff brush with plenty of elbow grease.

"Rinse the washed surface with a household disinfectant and allow to dry thoroughly. Then apply a solution of one-half ounce of bichloride of mercury in one gallon of water. This is highly poisonous so care should be taken not to get any of it in your eyes or on your skin. Wear goggles and rubber gloves.

"If any of this solution is accidentally splashed on your skin, wash immediately with soap and water.

"A good fungicide to add to paint is one-half ounce of bichloride of mercury to one gallon of paint. Use the same precautions as before in keeping such paint off the skin. It is wise to add this to the primer coat as well as to the finish coat in mildew infected areas. It will give you practical assurance of freedom from mildew."

Army-McCarthy Dispute Summary

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here is a brief rundown on the Senate investigations subcommittee's inquiry into the dispute between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and top Army officials:

The Original Charges—Secretary of the Army Stevens and Army Counselor John G. Adams accused McCarthy and two subcommittee aides, Roy M. Cohn and Francis P. Carr, of using improper pressures to win favored Army treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine, a subcommittee consultant who was drafted.

McCarthy and his aides in turn accused Stevens and Adams of trying to use Schine as a "hostage" in efforts to cause McCarthy to halt or divert an investigation of alleged subversives in the Army, particularly at Ft. Monmouth, N.J. They also accused Asst. Secretary of Defense H. Bruce Hensel of seeking to discredit the subcommittee.

The subcommittee dismissed Carr and Hensel as principals on a 4-3 party-line vote May 26.

Pertinent Past Testimony—Stevens denied trying to halt McCarthy's probe, but testified he objected to methods he said gave a distorted picture. He said McCarthy's aides subjected him to threats of an "exceedingly serious" nature in seeking Army favors for Schine.

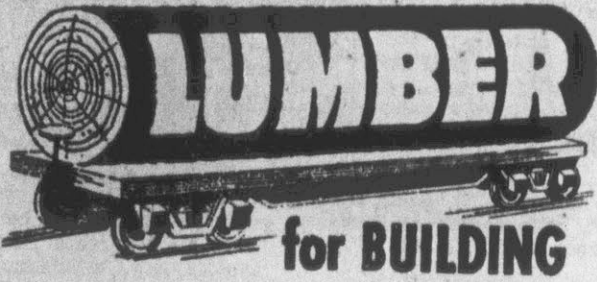

Adams testified Cohn threatened that if Schine were sent overseas Stevens would be "through as secretary" and the Army wrecked. He said Cohn brought pressure that was "extremely hard to bear."

Cohn said Stevens and Adams repeatedly sought to stop the Ft. Monmouth probe. He said Adams often referred to Schine as "the hostage" and once said he would "stop at nothing" to block subcommittee questioning of members of the Army's top loyalty board.

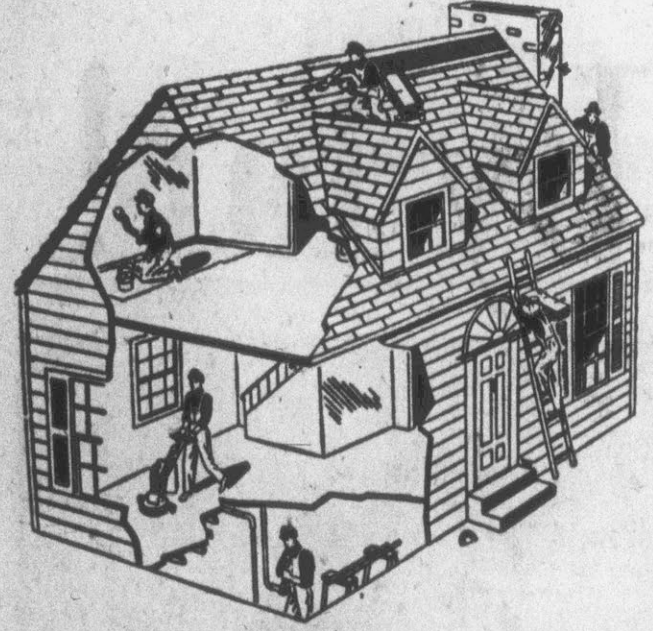

McCarthy denied under oath seeking favors for Schine. He said some testimony by Stevens and Adams showed they had bad memories or were in error. He testified Army officials filed "blackmail" charges against him and his aides to prevent exposure of those who "oodied" Communists.

McCarthy portrayed Stevens as a "fundamentally honest" man who was "mouse-trapped" by others into a plot against McCarthy and the Republican party.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, Real Estate Editor

The mildew season is with us again. When the weather man says warm and humid, it means our houses are going to be bombarded with flying saucers in the form of mildew spores floating through the air. And to this department of your paper, it means more pathetic letters along this line:

"I used the best quality white paint I could buy, but in less than a year it has discolored and looks dirty. What can I do about it?"

Well, some forms of mildew look so much like dirt to the naked eye that it takes a microscope to tell the difference. The National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Assn. recently made tests in various parts of the country and found that 63 per cent of the dirty-looking exterior paint jobs studied, were not dirty, but mildewed. In the other 37 per cent, dirt was a primary factor, but mildew also was present.

And you can't brush off mildew by saying that it is only something for people near the shore or in the deep woods to worry about. Actually it is fungus that does its dirty work in all but the most arid regions.

The seriousness of mildew is that it is not merely an annoyance to the fastidious. It is a destructive growth. If you ever had haggard or books mildew in your basement you probably found them rotten through the through. But fighting the microbes that cause it is not hopeless by a long shot.

You can get fungicides at most hardware stores and paint dealers. These mildew proofing preparations can be sprayed on as simply as you spray your roses or lilacs. The National Retail Hardware Assn. suggests that if you are going to repaint, use a primer coat of aluminum paint first to check any moisture that may come from the inside.

Then there are chemicals described as mildewcides which can be mixed with any paint. Some paints already contain these preventives—especially in regions where mildew is most prevalent. These additives do not affect the hardness of the paint, its drying speed, color or durability.

We asked a veteran paint manufacturer how to handle a mildewed surface and what could be added to new paint any place and by anybody to prevent mildew. He was Douglas C. Arnold, president of Keystone Paint & Varnish, an organization which has been in business for more than a century.

"It is absolutely necessary," Arnold said, "to wash the surface clean with a good detergent, ordinary soap and water is not satisfactory. An excellent solution for the purpose is one pound of trisodium phosphate (sold under several trade names) to one gallon of

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved irregularly today with prices showing small changes in the early afternoon.

The quietness today was in sharp contrast with the unusually heavy decline early last week followed by a partial recovery at the end of the week.

Price changes either way usually were well within a point limit. Trading was relatively slow.

The routine of trading was broken by a civil defense drill shortly after the opening. Trading was resumed in about 30 minutes.

New York Central opened on a block of 25,000 shares up 3/4 at 23 3/4 shortly before the start of the second hour following an announcement that officially gave victory to the forces of Robert E. Young in a proxy fight for control of the railroad.

Allegheny Corp., also controlled by Young, was active and higher after starting on a block of 4,000 shares up at 4 1/4.

A block of 13,000 United Gas sold at 29 1/2 off 1/4.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hog prices steady to 75 lower. Tops of 24.00 at Beulaville, Kenly, Warsaw, Tabor City, Siler City, Elizabethtown, Micro, Freeman Laurel Hill, Whiteville, Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Lumberton, Fayetteville, Clinton, Plymouth, Windsor, Enfield, Taboro, Hamilton, Rocky Mount and Rich Square; 23.50 at Wilson, Dunn, Newton Grove, Mt. Olive, Goldsboro, Fair Bluff, Burgoon Bailey, Lillington, Jacksonville, Weldon, Wilmington, Scotland Neck, Colerain, Clarkton and Smithfield.

Search Broadens For Ransom Cash In Kidnap Case

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Daniel J. Marsin, 41, charged with kidnaping the wife of a wealthy industrialist for $75,000, sat silently in jail while officers resumed a search today for the missing ransom money.

Somewhere in the Superstition Mountains, police believed, were hidden the marked bills paid for Mrs. Evelyn Ann Smith's release by her husband Herbert.

The rocky, cactus-strewn foothills were combed by a small force of officers. They worked doggedly moving small boulders, brush and dirt in the belief the loot had been buried.

Two days of hunting failed to turn up any clue. The search today was extended into abandoned mine shafts.

Police also were hunting a rifle, a pistol and a pair of binoculars which the Smiths said they had seen the kidnaper use.

There were other unanswered questions. Mrs. Smith said she had overheard a second man after being locked in the trunk of her car. She said he discussed killing her. When she arrived at the Superstitions late Wednesday she said only one masked kidnaper was with her.

Investigating officers, who had hidden along the road to the payoff spot to which Smith had been ordered, asked openly why Smith drove his wife back to Phoenix without stopping to report that she was safe.

Marsin, seized near a ranch house four hours after Mrs. Smith was released Thursday night, was not taken to her for identification until the next afternoon.

At that time it was learned, he was taken to her home to be identified several hours before she picked him from a lineup of masked persons. He was charged Saturday with kidnaping and placed under $50,000 bond.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Central North Carolina poultry market prices unsettled, farm price 23 with few at 23 1/2-24, f.o.b. Plant price, one lot 23; Raleigh eggs steady, a large 40-42.

Four Arrested In ABC Roundup

Four persons, all Negroes, were arrested by Pitt County A.B.C. officers over the weekend for alleged participation in illegal liquor activities.

Larry Harper, 48, was arrested Saturday after officers found a half-gallon of bootleg whiskey in his fish market at Fleming and Pamlico streets. He was cited to appear in court as was George Spell, 42, who was arrested in the Bell Arthur section late Saturday. Spell was arrested after officers found a half-gallon of non-tax paid whiskey in his kitchen.

Two of the Negroes arrested, both women, were freed under bond of $200. Ardenna McCain, 20, 405 Bonner Lane, was released under bond Saturday after officers found a half-gallon of illegal whiskey in her kitchen. Lena Perkins, 42, of Green Street, was released after officers arrested and charged her with possession of a half-gallon of bootleg whiskey that was found under a bed in her home.

Officers making the raids were, J. M. Ward, H. B. Lilly, Glynn Perkins, and Elmer Haddock.

Capitol Square

mittie on agriculture, Colley has had large influence, almost controlling, on the farm bills enacted by the past several sessions of the Congress.

As a member of the banking committee, Deane's studies and activities last year had material bearing on the order to rescind the "hard money" policy of the administration, resulting in lower interest rates for borrowers and time-buying customers for durable merchandise.

These are matters that in a Republican controlled Congress are credited to the Republican chairmen of the respective committees. More significant under existing conditions is the failure to enact or continue legislation favorable to the common people is chargeable to the Republican leadership.

That is why the North Carolinians in the Congress are unhappy about the effect upon the people of pending legislation, but they are happy that Republicans must stand the gaff for it this fall. And, so, the feeling is rather general that Democrats will have majorities in both branches of the Congress when it convenes next January.
