U. S. Opposing Guatemalan Bid For Meeting Of Security Council

U. N. Delegate Lodge Warns Against Becoming Cat's Paw Of Soviet Conspiracy

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The United States today firmly opposed Guatemala's request that the U. N. Security Council meet at once to act again on the Central American fighting.

U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., the council president for June, last night warned Guatemala against becoming a "cat's paw" of the Soviet conspiracy to meddle in the Western Hemisphere.

Lodge said the council by a 10-1 vote Sunday had showed "it emphatically believed that the Organization of American States was the place to try to settle the Guatemalan problem."

Despite the Lodge statement, Guatemalan Delegate Eduardo Castillo Arriola delivered a letter shortly after midnight to U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold formally asking for a council meeting.

Castillo Arriola wrote that in defiance of the council's cease-fire call voted last Sunday, "the aggressive acts have continued against my country, in the air, on sea and on the ground..."

The letter renewed Guatemala's charges that neighboring Honduras and Nicaragua were aiding the "mercenary forces" invading Guatemala, and asked the council to compel the two countries to "cease all aid or consent for such aggressive acts."

The same charges against Honduras and Nicaragua were discussed late today by the five-nation Inter-American Peace Commission in Washington.

Hammarskjold was expected to deliver the Guatemalan request for a council meeting to Lodge sometime today for action.

Should Lodge refuse to call a meeting, any of the other 10 council members could force one by asking for it. Other non-Communist delegates on the group, however, showed no disposition last night to act against his opposition.

Lodge's statement said since only the Soviets had opposed referring the Guatemalan issue to the regional organization, "those who continually seek to agitate the Guatemalan question in the Security Council will inevitably be suspected of shadow boxing..."

First Session Of New Zoning Board

NEW ZONING BOARD—Greenville's newly formed Zoning Board held its initial meeting last night to discuss possible changes which may be made in the city's zoning regulations. Members of the board are pictured here as they looked over a map showing the various zones of the city. Left to right are: Thomas W. Rivers, City Manager James S. Hughes, Board Chairman James W. Griffith, S. Eugene West and Louis W. Gaylord Jr., vice chairman of the board. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Changes Discussed By Zoning Board

Greenville's newly formed Zoning Board held its initial meeting last night and delved into possibilities of several changes in the city zoning regulations.

James W. Griffith, local architect, was elected chairman of the five-man board which was appointed earlier this month by the City Council. Louis W. Gaylord, Jr. was named vice-chairman of the board.

Other members of the new Zoning Board are Thomas W. Rivers, S. Eugene West, and City Manager James S. Hughes.

Les Wilson, legal consultant of the North Carolina League of Municipalities, met with the Zoning Board last night to discuss functions and powers of the board and outline possible changes the board may want to consider in the city's present zoning regulations.

Wilson said the Zoning Board has two main functions: to administer the existing zoning ordinances of the city, and to recommend changes in the zoning ordinance where needed, and to recommend zone classifications for new sections of the city. The principal function of the zoning ordinance, he said, is to provide minimum zoning requirements in keeping with public health safety and welfare of the community.

In outlining matters which the Zoning Board might want to consider immediately, Wilson suggested a provision in the zoning ordinance which would provide a minimum distance from the rear of a dwelling to the back property line of the lot on which the dwelling is located.

The local ordinance, he explained, governs the minimum distance for front yard and side yard requirements, but does not provide for a minimum back yard.

Wilson suggested the board consider making the back yard requirement a percentage of the lot depth. He said it would give protection to adjoining property, and at the same time reduce the possibility of two dwellings being crowded on one lot.

Also discussed by the board last night was the possibility of a provision which would require a specified lot area for each family unit.

The matter of house trailers being placed in back yards, and also the question of accessory buildings on residential lots were discussed at the meeting.

Wilson was asked to prepare amendments to the present zoning ordinance covering the matters discussed at last night's meeting for consideration of the board. He was also asked to submit a proposed regulation governing setback lines for construction.

Police Evacuate Some Residents In Danger Area

DES MOINES (AP)—Police carried out an emergency evacuation of 200 persons in the southeast bottom of Iowa's capital city today when protective dikes developed leaks.

The Des Moines River rose two-tenths of a foot past the high set in 1947's disastrous flood here.

Patrol cars roved through the zone and policemen awakened residents. The seriously threatened area, comprising 10 square blocks, was almost wholly cleared by morning except for a few families who refused to budge.

The Des Moines went to 26.7 feet here and the Weather Bureau said it will rise another two feet or more by tomorrow.

Volunteer workers and National Guardsmen were doing levee work around the clock and emergency calls were out for more workers.

Over whether all the levees would hold, they were designed to withstand a 28-foot crest, sandbags were being hastily placed against the anticipated peak.

If the levees give way a fifth of the city will be flooded and 3,000 to 4,000 persons will be made homeless.

"Nobody knows what will happen," said John Tippee, public works director. Other evacuations were occurring throughout the length of the city's course and Red Cross officials said hundreds of families were homeless. One evacuation center was nearly filled and two others were being readied.

At the north edge of the city, where the river enters Des Moines, flood waters closed the Euclid avenue bridge which carries transcontinental U. S. 6 traffic through Des Moines. Detours were available. Some 40 miles northwest of Des Moines, U. S. 30 was closed west of Boone and traffic was being rerouted.

In Des Moines, city officials said they believed sandbagging could keep the levees from being topped. But they were doubtful whether they could stand the continued pounding of the angry waters.

Despite All-Day Session, Budget Still $8,185 Out Of Balance

City Spending Plans Cut

By BOB BOYETTE Reflector Staff Writer At the conclusion of an all-day meeting yesterday afternoon Greenville's City Council had still not balanced the city budget for the coming fiscal year.

No Salary Increase In the proposed budget prepared by the city manager there were salary increases for all city employees which totaled more than $9,000. These increases were not approved in by the Council.

Another $20,000 cut from the proposed budget was the purchase of new land for cemeteries here. No New Engineer Hughes had asked that a full time engineer be employed by the city, but this, too, was disapproved—cutting the budget by $5,900.

May Go To Utilities The Council discussed the possibility of going to Greenville Utilities Commission with its figures to show the need of at least $142,500, and possibly even more, after going through the budget completely yesterday.

Tobacco Industry Opines Further Research Need

NEW YORK (AP)—Further study and experimentation are necessary, the tobacco industry says, to pin down the causes of cancer and heart disease.

It views as "preliminary" an American Cancer Society report indicating cigarette smoking cuts the life span.

The tobacco industry's attitude was made public yesterday in a statement issued through Dr. Clarence Cook Little, newly appointed director for a scientific committee set up to study the effects of tobacco on health.

Dr. Little termed "of vital interest" the findings of the scientists who made the study for the cancer society but took the position that more proof is needed.

"The present dramatic situation emphasizes the need for greatly extended, amplified and diversified basic research on the relation of various habits of the different types of human beings to their health and well-being throughout their life cycles."

Civil Defense Director Stresses Preparedness CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—Gen. Edward P. Griffin, state director of Civil Defense, told law enforcement officers today at the opening session of a Civil Defense Police Institute, "We must be prepared for any eventuality."

In both past world wars," Griffin asserted, "we had allies who could hold the line while we got ready to fight. But today an enemy has the means to strike within the hour and without warning."

The two-day school is sponsored by the North Carolina Council of Civil Defense, the Institute of Government, and the regional Federal Civil Defense Administration.

Gen. Griffin told the group that an enemy with the present ability to strike a devastating blow on every major American city realizes that such a blow is the only chance of crippling our productivity and winning a war.

Set Off Speculation Guatemala Gov't Striking Back Honduras Claims Bombing

By SAM SUMMERLIN TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—The Honduran government said last night mystery planes had bombed a town in Honduras. The report touched off speculation that invaded Guatemala may be striking back at the neighbor from whose soil Guatemalan rebels launched their drive against President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman's regime.

Col. Carlos Castillo Armas leader of the anti-Communist Guatemalan force, moved his headquarters last night from Honduras to Esquipulas, about six miles inside the homeland.

said an airlift of U.S. citizens out of Guatemala would begin today, but dispatches from Guatemala City made no mention of evacuation plans. There are some 1,200 North Americans in the country.

The Foreign Ministry said the planes bombed the town of Santa Rosa de Copan, key road junction 21 miles from the Guatemalan frontier. The terse announcement made no mention of casualties nor of low many planes made the raid.

Guatemala has accused Honduras and Nicaragua of being the bases for land and air "aggression" against her Communist-influenced government. Both countries have challenged Guatemala to prove the charges.

Guatemala pressed demands in New York early today for a second urgent session of the U. N. Security Council, charging Honduras and Nicaragua were continuing to aid the invaders. Council President Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. of the United States said the Organization of American States, not the U. N., Guatemala could appeal a "cat's-paw" for a Soviet conspiracy to meddle in the Western Hemisphere.

Reports from various points last night told scattered light action in Guatemala. A rebel plane straddled the California Standard gasoline tanks there and harassed a military encampment at the edge of the capital.

Private advices from Guatemala said the town of Bannera, near Puerto Barrios, was in rebel hands.

Mundt Says Another Agency Could Do Better Job Self-Probe Value Doubted By G. MILTON KELLY WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Mundt (R-SD) said today the McCarthy Army hearings have strengthened his "skepticism about the wisdom of having a committee investigate itself."

He emphasized he does not believe any other congressional committee would have developed more facts or been more thorough than the Senate Investigations subcommittee, over which he presided during the hearings.

But he said some other competent committee could have done the job faster, and "found it easier to keep to the pertinent facts."

In 36 days of public hearings which ended last Thursday the subcommittee heard a "miscellaneous" charges and countercharges exchanged by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), its regular chairman, and Secretary of the Army Stevens and his aides.

Stevens accused McCarthy and two aides of exerting improper pressures in seeking Army favors for Pvt. G. David Schine, a former non-salaried member of the subcommittee staff. McCarthy countercharged that Stevens and Army Counselor John G. Adams had tried to "blackmail" him into dropping a search for Communists in the Army.

Mundt, who cast the only "no" vote when the subcommittee decided to undertake the hearings, said today he still thinks he was right. Some Democrats urged that the inquiry be handled by the Armed Services Committee. McCarthy insisted his own group should handle it; he agreed to step off temporarily as chairman and member.

Private advices from Guatemala said the town of Bannera, near Puerto Barrios, was in rebel hands.

Mundt said that since it was investigating its own people, the subcommittee had to work with "too cumbersome" rules permitting all of the accused the right to cross-examine witnesses. He said this made it difficult to stick to central issues, wasted time and burdened the record with a lot of surplus verbiage.

He said his remarks, made in reply to reporters' questions, were not a reply to a Senate speech yesterday in which Sen. McCarran (D-Nev) denounced the hearings. McCarran said they were a spectacle at which "communism grinned and applauded..." (while Americanism stood still, frustrated, in horror and amazement.)

McCarran told his colleagues that "rightly or wrongly the idea has been taken hold... that Sen. McCarthy represents anticommunism," and he continued:

Homemakers Club Meets With

ROBERSONVILLE—Mrs. William Hurst was a very charming hostess when the Homemakers Club met at her house on Railroad Street Thursday night.

The meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock by the president, Mrs. Harvey Roberson. After household hints were given in response to the roll call the minutes of June 3rd were read and approved. Due to the absence of the treasurer, there was no financial report. At the previous gathering, the Home Demonstration Club requested the members of this club to solicit Green Street, Broad Street and part of Main Street for the Cancer Drive which is now in progress. Several volunteered to canvass this territory. No report was given on the amount received because the time limit has not expired. It is the usual custom of the Homemakers to disband during July and August and this was put to a vote. The decision was to meet with Mrs. J. Clayton Keel Thursday evening, July 1, before discontinuing until August 26.

At the conclusion of the business session, the hostess entertained with a contest which caused much merriment. Inch squares were cut from Johnson's absorbent cotton and placed on a card table covered with a white cloth. Each person, in turn, was given a dessert spoon before being heavily blindfolded. Without the aid of the left hand everyone tried to scoop up the squares and place them in a bowl at the side of the table. After energetic attempts, many met with no success. Three ladies had the same number and when the tie was worked off, Mrs. Pearl Everett received a spoon holder for being the most successful contestant.

When Mrs. Hurst greeted the guests at the door, she gave each a safety pin to fasten to her dress. If anyone saw a person cross her legs she asked for her pin. At the end of the evening, Mrs. Walter Swindell was adorned with every pin in the room and she was awarded a pint of cream. Bingo winners were Mrs. Best Fleming, who received a large fern; Mrs. Mack Wynne, Mrs. Haywood Everett, Mrs. Will Beach and Mrs. Walter Swindell. Mrs. Beach of Hamilton, and Mrs. Swindell tied for top honors. Mrs. Beach received a pound of butter and Mrs. Swindell carried home a potted geranium. Mrs. Allen Osborne captured the guessing box.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Jamie Fleming, served strawberry and vanilla ice cream with pound cake and salted nuts to a large group of members and one guest, Mrs. Pearl Everett.

BLOUNT - HARVEY
"EASTERN CAROLINA'S SHOPPING CENTER"

Musicians Of Four States Attend Event

The First Annual Summer Music Camp at East Carolina College is now in progress, with an attendance of approximately two hundred high school students from North and South Carolina, Virginia, and Tennessee.

Directed by Dr. Kenneth N. Cuthbert, chairman of the East Carolina College department of music, the camp is a new venture on the campus and is meeting with an enthusiastic response from participants.

A band and a chorus have been organized during the camp and have rehearsed for the past week under the leadership of Herbert L. Carter, East Carolina band director, and Dr. Elwood Keister, director of the East Carolina College Choir, respectively. Six other faculty members of the college department of music have given instruction in such subjects as theory, conducting, and music literature.

Eighty majorettes, with Shirley Leary and Toni Gill of Elizabeth City, N.C., as instructors, completed their work at the camp last Saturday, when they appeared with the 110-piece band in a concert at the college stadium.

Final event of the camp will be a public concert Friday afternoon, June 25. The camp band will play under the direction of Mark H. Hindsley, band director at the University of Illinois and a member of the faculty of the Summer Music Camp here. The choir will also appear on the program.

The program of recreational activities at the camp has included watermelon cuttings, movies, swimming in the college pool, dances,

Congregationalists Stage National Meeting That May Decide Agency's Fate

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Congregational Christians from throughout the country gathered here today for a national meeting that may decide the fate of their long-established social action agency.

It has been accused by a strong church faction of "playing politics" and voicing partisan leftist views.

But its defenders maintain it serves an essential and historic Congregational function in seeking to make practical application of the church's teachings to current social issues.

"There's likely to be a hard fight," said Ray Gibbons, chairman of the church's Council for Social Action.

The controversy over the council involves an old and ticklish question that has recurred over the years in many churches.

Basically, it is this: How far should a church agency go in trying to translate its creed into concrete and decisive approaches to modern economic and political problems?

This was one of several touchy subjects due to come up as about 2,500 delegates and visitors assembled at Yale University for the week-long biennial meeting of the General Council of the Congregational Christian Churches.

They represent 5,573 congregations across the nation with 1,283,754 members — a figure reported today as representing a record gain of 42,000 members since the last meeting two years ago.

Another major subject, although not on the agenda, is a proposed merger with the Evangelical and Reformed Church.

The police traffic division had arranged a demonstration for the Institute of Scientific Studies. One of the officers who volunteered for the before-and-after drinking tests passed the first half with flying colors. Then he was given nine ounces of whiskey in 70 minutes.

After that — well he couldn't go on with the tests and they had to be canceled.

Martin G. Rock, traffic education officer, merely changed his spiel, pointing out that one drink can impair a motorist's driving ability, while heavy drinking makes him 55 times more likely to have an accident. The assembled scientists couldn't disagree with that conclusion.

Boy Wins Top Cooking Honors

Young Voorhees accepted the bouquet of roses reserved for the cooking "queen."

It was the first time a boy has won first prize in the six years the contest has been held.

Three truck drivers for the local Railway Express Agency were presented pins for their safe driving records on the "Safety Tips" program over Station WNCT last Friday night.

Over-the-road-truck driver B.W.A. Joyner received a nine-year pin in the ceremonies. He has driven 216,000 miles without an accident.

W. E. Stocks received a three-year pin and C.O. Stevens was given a four-year pin. Stocks has driven 21,600 miles without an accident and Stevens has operated a truck 19,200 without mishap.

The awards were presented by Mayor W.L. Whedbee as Railway Express agent W.G. Smith and Patrolman James W. Boykin looked on.

The awards are made annually by the National Safety Council of Chicago to employees of the Railway Express Agencies with outstanding safety records.

After 16 Months Mother Told Son Is Red Prisoner

LEWISBURG Pa. (AP) — Mrs. H. L. Baumer has received word that her son, an Air Force bomber pilot shot down over North Korea 16 months ago, is alive, although a prisoner of the Reds.

Mrs. Baumer said she received a telegram from the Air Force in Washington last night saying her son Maj. William H. Baumer, was reported alive and a prisoner of war in the Far East.

Baumer, 32, was reported missing on a bombing mission over North Korea on Jan. 12, 1953.

The major's mother told newsmen, "I am so happy that my son is alive that I hardly know what to do or say. Ever since William was reported shot down on a mission, I have been contacting all sorts of military people to find out what happened to him. Now I finally got the news and it's good news."

South Korea Will Celebrate Friday

SEOUL (AP) — South Korea plans huge parades and demonstrations Friday on the fourth anniversary of the beginning of the Korean War.

A government official said President Syngman Rhee, U.S. Ambassador Ellis O. Briggs, U.S. presidential envoy James A. Van Fleet and Lt. Gen. Bruce Clarke, 8th Army commander, would attend a huge demonstration and parade.

This seemed to be the extent of American participation.

BULB STORAGE TIP
HOLLAND, Mich. (AP) — If you want your tulip blooms big and healthy, stash the bulbs in an old pair of nylon hose when you dig them up. That is the advice of Holland's professional growers. The important thing is to let the bulbs dry properly, they say.

Irregular distribution of rainfall is one of the principal causes of periodic famines in India.

Karl T. Compton, Scientist And Educator, Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Karl T. Compton, 66, one of America's top scientists and educators, who in wartime helped develop radar and worked on the atomic bomb, died yesterday.

For 18 years he was president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology one of the nation's foremost scientific institutions.

Compton was chairman of the corporation of MIT since 1948, when he gave up the presidency to supervise American scientific preparedness in the cold war with communism. He was named by President Truman that year to head the National Military Establishment's Research and Development Board which had overall supervision of scientific projects affecting the nation's military readiness. He resigned a year later, giving poor health as the reason.

During World War II he received the Army's highest civilian award, the Medal of Merit, and was cited as being "personally responsible for hastening the termination of hostilities."

Compton, born in Wooster, Ohio, died at Cornell Medical Center here. He had suffered a heart attack last Wednesday and his wife was called to his bedside.

Besides his widow, the former Margaret Hutchinson, he is survived by three children, Mrs. Carroll M. Boyce Scarsdale, N. Y.; Mrs. Bissell Alderman, Holyoke, Mass., and Charles an instructor at Mount Hermon School, Northfield, Mass.

One of Compton's last public assignments was as chairman of a commission set up by President Eisenhower last year to study universal military training. He was an ardent supporter of UMT and in 1947 advised its adoption as an urgent necessity for national security.

Silo Becomes A Covered Bridge

FAIRFIELD, Vt. (AP) — Vermont has a new and quaint covered bridge today as the result of a gusty thunder storm.

Winds lifted an empty 40 foot silo last night and dropped it 600 feet away, across a brook. The farm owner's wife, Mrs. Donald Reed, said, "It makes a perfect covered bridge."

Sparrows Tangle With Airliner

ATLANTA (AP) — Six sparrows tangled with a four-engine airliner over the Atlanta Airport.

Capt. J. B. Parker had to land the Delta-C&S DC7 yesterday and transfer his 69 passengers to another plane.

The dead birds were removed from the engines. The plane was hauled to a hangar for repairs.

Cigarettes And Cancer And Pitt County

Increasing reports and allegations linking cigarette smoking with lung cancer should be causing more concern in Pitt County than so far has been evident.

To be sure, in Pitt County as in other places about the nation, there are some people who have given up smoking or cut down their cigarette consumption because of the various studies relating cigarettes to cancer.

There are many others who are waiting for some concrete, conclusive research to definitely establish whether there is any connection between cancer and cigarette smoking.

A report of the American Cancer Society this week asserted cigarette smokers die sooner than other men between the ages of 50 and 70, and die mainly from heart attacks and cancer. This report will have an additional adverse effect upon cigarette consumption.

Subtle Sign For Highway Safety

Highway safety officials in North Carolina have gone ahead with a project of putting up little signs along major highways reminding motorists via verse to drive more carefully.

Down in South Carolina, we've noticed the same sort of campaign is being conducted by someone (we don't know just who) in a much more subtle way.

At major highway intersections in at least a portion of the state, large signs have been erected reading "Ambulance" and under the single word listed a telephone number. Whether the telephone number is that of an ambulance service or the highway patrol, we do not know. One thing is certain. It takes a motorist less time to read the striking South Carolina sign than to read the verses being erected in this state.

We are also inclined to believe the highway safety sign in South Carolina makes a more vivid impression on the motorist than the signs being erected in this state.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THINGS SEEN AND UNSEEN
We have come so to regard Jesus of Nazareth as the Man who taught people how to live practical and sensible lives that we often lose sight of the fact that his own thoughts dwelt a great deal of the time not upon earthly matters but upon heavenly.

Our Lord was always talking about heaven. He was always pointing men toward heaven. When his disciples came back after a preaching mission and reported in triumph that even the demons are subject unto you, but rejoice that your names are written in heaven. He was always talking about heaven. We forget this sometimes, and we never should forget it.

For, as someone has said, "Jesus lived in eternity and only visited in time." To him heaven was the most important, and earthly existence was important only as it prepared men for the heavenly. Many people today feel that they have made great intellectual progress by getting away from what they call mystical ideas (some even call them superstitions) about the unseen world. But the greatest thinkers have been those who were deeply conscious that in the midst of time, their acts were characterized by eternal significance.

If we would have the mind of Christ, we must have minds which dwell much on the reality and significance of heaven. "The things that are seen are temporal, but the things that are unseen are eternal."

WASHINGTON—An untold story of personal bitterness between Secretary John Foster Dulles and Sir Winston Churchill lies behind the forthcoming visit of the British Prime Minister and Foreign Minister Anthony Eden to Washington. Their previous differences could be resolved only by across-the-table talks, explanations and apologies, not by long-range diplomatic exchanges.

Churchill's offer to make the trans-Atlantic voyage at his old age and in his entangled physical condition as an act of international humility which the world's critical state requires. He knows that both President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles were deeply wounded by Britain's backdown on the April 13 agreement for "united action" in Indo-China.

It was the most serious breach in Anglo-American friendship since London rejected former Secretary Henry L. Stimson's proposal for joint resistance against Japanese aggression in China in 1931.

BITTER ABOUT EPISODE—Dulles still refers to the April 13 episode in bitter terms, and with good reason. He had proclaimed publicly his program of "united action" in Southeast Asia, and it had been hailed as a brilliant example of American leadership in the cold war.

When he saw Eden at Geneva, he understood that the Foreign Minister fully approved the policy, and that the "united action" idea would be put into effect immediately. But Churchill turned thumbs down at an emergency Cabinet conference and in an address to Commons. He explained that Eden had simply agreed to "study" the Dulles suggestion.

The British rebuff had several disastrous effects. It revealed the rift in Anglo-American relations which Moscow seeks to promote. It gave the Reds every advantage at Geneva, making impossible any peaceful settlement of the Korean and Indo-China conflicts. It contributed to the fall of the Laniel Ministry.

UPSET WHITE HOUSE—From the domestic and political standpoint, it made a laughing stock of the Administration's basic foreign policy, and inspired frontal attacks by the Democrats. It enabled the Kremlin to notify fence-sitting neutrals and even consumption.

Indeed, the result of the report already has been reflected in a sharp break in cigarette company stocks on the stock market.

Pitt County's interest goes beyond that of the individual smoker.

The question affects every smoker and non-smoker alike in Pitt County, for the local economy is directly dependent upon cigarette consumption throughout the United States and abroad.

If cigarette smoking is directly connected with cancer by conclusive research, the result could have a drastic effect upon the economy of the country. It is likely cigarette consumption would drop off rapidly, and would quickly be reflected in the manufacturers' demand for tobacco.

What would a drastic drop in demand for cigarette tobacco mean to Pitt County?

A glance at the farm economy of the county quickly suggests what could happen if the tobacco industry suddenly heads for the rocks.

In 1951, for example, the value of Pitt County's 11 principal agriculture crops was $39,780,210. Of that total, the tobacco crop accounted for $31,308,010. Those figures show Pitt's tobacco crop accounted for approximately 79 per cent of the total value of the 11 principal crops produced by the county.

In addition to the farm income, Pitt's tobacco industry affords year-round and seasonal employment for many hundreds of people who do not live on the farms.

It would be wise for Pitt to look into the possibilities of finding suitable substitutes for tobacco in its economy if the unfortunate day should arrive when tobacco is no longer in great demand.

View On Greenville's Defeated Bond Proposal

It is interesting to us to note the editorial comment from newspapers around North Carolina concerning the recent $250,000 recreation bond issue which was defeated by Greenville voters.

One of the newspapers which has commented on Greenville's bond election editorially is the Henderson Dispatch. That newspaper views the defeat of the bond issue by Greenville voters as an indication of the "hesitancy to incur debt at the present time for a purpose not considered as absolutely essential. . . ."

The Dispatch went on in its editorial to observe:

"For some time it has seemed to us that there is growing resentment on the part of the public generally against piling up debt on a local basis and perhaps also at higher government levels. While there is considerable optimism over the future of the national economy, there is at the same time a question in the minds of most people about increasing debt obligations until it is more definite than at present that we are actually out of the woods."

Dulles - Churchill Differences

Somebody Told Me Sensationalism Or Reverence

Whether it takes reverence or sensationalism to inspire you, Evangelist Eddie Martin has both. In fact, he even adds comedy to the message in order to give it variety. If you haven't heard Eddie preach, you should. It's well worth your time and effort.

Eddie is a sporty dresser. Last night he was in a brown sport coat and yellow slacks, and he shed the coat before the sermon began. The sound system at the tent is excellent and to add to the effect Eddie uses a minute microphone which is perched on his tie and hard to see from a distance. The mike cord must be 30 feet long, which allows him to travel up and down the ramp, giving equal attention to all portions of the tent.

The climax of the sermon is the request for those who wish to be saved to come forward and admit they are sinners, giving themselves to God. The crowd last night was over 2000 and well over 100 came forward. Those who know they are saved raise their hands and are not expected to come down. Of those who neither raise their hands nor come down, Eddie asks, "How many of you plan to go to hell?" Then he adds, "Remember this, you might not have another opportunity. Three things might happen: (1) You may die tonight. (2) God may come tonight and if you are not saved it will be too late, and (3) You may pass the deadline, and by that I mean pass the point at which God will forgive your sins. It's so simple. All you have to do is repent your sins and give your soul to God."

All during the sermon, building up to the opportunity for repentance, Eddie refers to those who are not saved. "Don't you care?" he asks. "Way do you think I preach like I do? Why do I leave my wife and babies a month at a time? Why do I preach until I think my heart will trip? Until the sweat runs down me? It's not for money. You haven't given me one red cent yet." Eddie was referring to his budget of nearly $6,000 which is still $1,265 short.

At times Eddie raises his voice to the breaking point. One of his most dramatic demonstrations was his interpretation of Naaman going into the River Jordan. Eddie gave the effect of tip-toeing in with Naaman.

There is a petition circulating to keep Eddie here beyond his scheduled campaign, which will end Sunday night "unless God intervenes," as Eddie puts it.

"Tonight his subject is 'His Majesty, the Devil.'" (Eddie says, "The devil will be here.") Thursday, "Sowing and Reaping;" and Sunday night, "Heaven."

And I thank you. JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

Death And Speed

(Greensboro Daily News)
Those who have discounted speed as a major factor in North Carolina's mounting highway toll should note how reduced speed synchronizes with the accident reduction rate which has been achieved under Motor Vehicles Commissioner Ed Scheidt's more vigorous law enforcement campaign.

Results of state-wide checks made by the State Highway Commission's statistics and planning division during May show that for the check period, when traffic was normally heavy, average speed of all motor vehicles, trucks, cars and buses, traveling North Carolina's roads dropped to 44.3 miles an hour, for the lowest average since 1946. It should be noted that the checks were made by radar speed equipment on straight stretches of road; that all cars checked were free-moving, with no vehicles ahead of them; and that all vehicles which slowed down noticeably as they approached the check point were eliminated in compilation of averages.

Parenthetically, we wish it might have been possible to check some of the cars which did have other machines in front of them; vehicles which drivers of following cars may have been trying to pass and in which drivers might have been engaged in racing as they still do. How much of this goes on under the respect for the law which Commissioner Scheidt's actual and psychological war has inspired we do not know; but we've witnessed enough of these drivers, especially out-of-state-ers and young bucks, to know that there's plenty of eliminating yet to be done.

One other thing the May survey brought out: Buses and tractor-trailer trucks, although showing some slowdown, tended to bring the average up rather than down. Passenger cars averaged 45 miles an hour and busses 4.2 miles. The tractor-trailers or big boys, constituted the only category in which the May check figures were higher, as they clipped along at 43.1 as compared with an even 43 last Fall. Had the check occurred while they were zipping down hill or on straight stretches where they had really had time to start making up that time they lost while holding everybody behind them on the last upgrade, there's no telling what the radar detector might have registered.

But this piece is intended to stress how speed and death and destruction on North Carolina highways do go hand in hand and how when the later is reduced so are the former. As for where efforts should be concentrated, Commissioner Scheidt and his aides have undoubtedly seen for themselves.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET
SPENDING — Once again it has been demonstrated that money is an important factor in winning primary elections. Reports filed by the top candidates show that Kerr Scott spent $57,486 in the senatorial campaign, while Alton Lennon spent $39,176. The 18,000 additional spending produced more than 25,000 vote lead for the winner.

Figured another way all of the votes received by Scott cost his campaign headquarters about 18 cents apiece, while Lennon's cost about 14 cents each. Scott's extra 25,000 cost between 70 cents and 75 cents each. Alvin Wingfield's 7,999 votes cost him $1,467 or about 18 cents apiece, while Henry Sprinkle spent around 50 cents each for his votes.

Opinion prevails that the two major candidates spent considerably more, or had it spent by others for them, than the reports show. Experienced observers of campaigns agree, however, that the percentage differential indicated by the reports is fairly accurate. Lennon spending 80 cents to Scott's $1.00.

REPORTS — Some of the campaign financial reports on file in the office of the Secretary of State have humorous quirks, other than the accepted deficiency in total amounts.

W.M. Bostic, one of the "also-rans" in the senate race, used the entire form to get on record a long dissertation on his political philosophy.

Secretary Eure was surprised to note that John B. Reagan, candidate for solicitor in the ninth district, had inadvertently listed the office for which he was running as that of Secretary of State.

Harve Moore, candidate for the State Senate in the 33rd district, listed no items in the column for expenditures, but under the head of contributions he listed $75.80 as "contributed by H.M. Moore."

REALTORS — The proposal to get up an examining and licensing board for the regulation of real estate agents is not new. In fact, the General Assembly of 1937 purported to establish such an authority, and it operated for a few months under direction of Dan Terry as executive secretary. Before the bill was enacted into law 64 counties had asked to be exempted from its provisions.

Subsequently the validity of the act was challenged by W.J. Dixon of Charlotte. He was acquitted in Mecklenburg superior court and the State appealed. The Supreme Court in divided opinion early in 1939 declared the act unconstitutional, largely because it was applicable only to 36 counties, and therefore was essentially "local" instead of state-wide legislation.

Justice Clark wrote the opinion for the majority, with Justice Barnhill writing a separate concurring opinion, and Chief Justice Stacy and Justice Wimbombes dissenting concurring. The minority opinion was written by Justice Devin, with Justices Schenck and Sewell concurring.

DRY CLEANERS — Another licensing board which bit the dust by Supreme Court decision was

Disposal Of Surplus

By ELMER ROESSNER
The United States has $10 billion to $25 billion worth of surplus material today on a cost basis, and it is going to have a continuing flow through future years. In inaugurating the Department of Defense's "clean sweep" program to get rid of existing and future surpluses, C.S. Thomas, Assistant Secretary of Defense, pointed out that new developments are constantly making material obsolete and unless the Department has an organized program for getting rid of it, the supply system will become clogged.

An endless flow of surplus materials compounds the potentials for scandal in disposal. For that reason, Defense is working desperately to improve its methods of sale. And, according to John Sundstrom, acting chief of the disposal division, it is struggling against odds because the surplus market is not what it used to be. Right after World War II, when all kinds of materials were short, the government was able to get up to 20 per cent of the cost for unwanted stores. Defense Department sales lately have been bringing in less than 8 per cent.

However, the 8 per cent figure may be misleading because surplus other than weapons is offered, through General Services Administration to other agencies. In fact, a government office cannot buy a desk or a typewriter as long as GSA has those items listed in surplus.

Defense is meeting with industry representatives to arrange disposal without disrupting civilian markets more than necessary.

Defense is trying—with the aid of Commerce and other government agencies—to work out plans whereby sales of surplus will be better advertised. It hopes to develop methods whereby every potential bidder will not only learn about sales, but also have ample time to inspect the property. At present many prospective bidders hear about sales only a short time before they start.

The department also is trying to develop better understanding of surplus problems among officers. Many officers engaged in classifying material as surplus and arranging for its sale now regard themselves as junkmen and therefore are not doing the kind of job they could.

Meanwhile, within the Administration there is a basic difference as to how surplus should be sold. Some think that it should be turned over entirely to the GSA, arguing that Defense is in a position to cover up its own mistakes in buying if it handles sales itself. On the other hand, friends of Defense say GSA wants to control sales simply to make more jobs for itself.

VACATIONISTS ALERTED TO DEDUCTIBLE EXPENSES
Be sure to jot down deductible expenses on vacations this year, Prentice-Hall is advising clients. While most expenses are personal and therefore not deductible, it notes that interest on money borrowed to take the trip, state gasoline taxes and various sales taxes are deductible. It reminds executives taking summer business courses that they are "in an area of deductible business expense."

FAILURES DOUBLE IN ELECTRONICS INDUSTRY
It's been a tough year for some manufacturers of radio and electronic equipment. In the 12 months ended May 31, 33 failed, according to figures compiled by the Radio-Electronics Television Manufacturers Association. In the previous 12 months, there were only 16 failures.

ONLY 3 OF 13 OVER 65 WORK, OARD FINDS
People do retire, the statistical division of the National Industrial Conference Board reports. Of the 13,000,000 persons in the United States 65 years of age and over, only 3,000,000 are employed, it finds. Of these, 2,400,000 are men. Of the men working, one in four is engaged in agriculture and one in seven own or manage businesses.

They Just Don't Seem To Care

By HAL BOYLE
PARIS (AP)—A man stepped into the hotel lounge and said quietly: "The government has just fallen."

Perhaps there was frenzied excitement in French political circles over Premier Laniel's downfall, but the collapse of France's 19th postwar government created less stir in the hotel lounge than if a patron had risen and accidentally upset an ashtray.

The barman looked up impassively at the news, then bent down and finished mixing his drink without the slightest exchange of expression. It was as if he were an American League fan, and someone had just remarked a game in the National League had been rained out.

The American tourists in the lounge, including a number of former war correspondents, began talking animatedly about what the new government crisis meant. A few Frenchmen present listened curiously to the conversation. None volunteered a comment.

None said Laniel was a bum and deserved to topple. None protested he was a hero. None said he was a bad program or a bad man stuck with a good program.

They had—or so it seemed to me—the half-bored, half-amused indifference of a group of Broadway characters at a night club casually eavesdropping on a table of Texans talking about how much Dallas needed a good hard rain.

A waiter came by. I ordered a drink and asked, "have you heard the government has just fallen?"

"Yes," "You don't seem at all surprised," "No."

"You don't seem very concerned either. Doesn't it worry you that another French government has fallen?"

"Why should it?" he shrugged. "I worry about what concerns me. I take care of myself first—then the other fellow."

"Is that the way most Frenchmen feel?"

"I would say yes."

"Have most Frenchmen always felt that way?"

"Perhaps not," he said, after a moment of reflection. "But it is the way they have felt since the last war."

"Who would you like to see run the government of France—General DeGaulle?"

"No, not DeGaulle," he said. "But it is a matter of little moment to me. They are all out for the money. Me, I take care of myself first, too."

Later I asked an assistant manager of the hotel the same questions. He had much the same attitude as the waiter—that the government of France was hardly his personal problem, and he had his own life to worry about.

When I asked him what he thought of present French political leaders, he said—very seriously:

"They are all too small. France needs a stronger man."

"How about DeGaulle?"

"DeGaulle?" He looked pained. "No, not DeGaulle. It is not necessary to be a general to be strong. France needs a strong man like Clemenceau—yes, an other Clemenceau. But one does not meet many Clemenceaus in a lifetime, isn't it so?"

Out in the streets the normal traffic of Paris pulsed. The flower girls were peddling blooms as usual. The fruit stalls were busy. The only knots of people I saw were waiting for the bus to take them on the long voyage home, and they studied their newspapers in silence.

Money Demonstrated Big Factor In Political Success

recent Legislatures have not been friendly to proposals to set new controlling agencies.

It is significant, too, that since the 1939 decision abolishing the real estate and dry cleaners commissions the other agencies have generally been more reasonable in dealing with the public. They manifest desire to stay out of courts, since there is rather general opinion that at least some others would fall for reasons similar to those that knocked out the two newest at that time.

It is not always easy for the public to make the distinction between the learned professions

Suspended Term Given Women In Kidnaping Case

RALEIGH (AP) — Three women were given 3-5 year prison sentences yesterday, suspended provided they pay costs of court and $1,000 each to an 18-year-old girl they were accused of kidnaping and beating.

Mrs. Mary Parrish, 24, of Raleigh; Mrs. Louvea Medlin, 33, sister of Mrs. Parrish, and Mrs. Ray A. Lynch, 35, both of Wilsons Mills pleaded guilty in Johnston Superior Court to kidnaping charges.

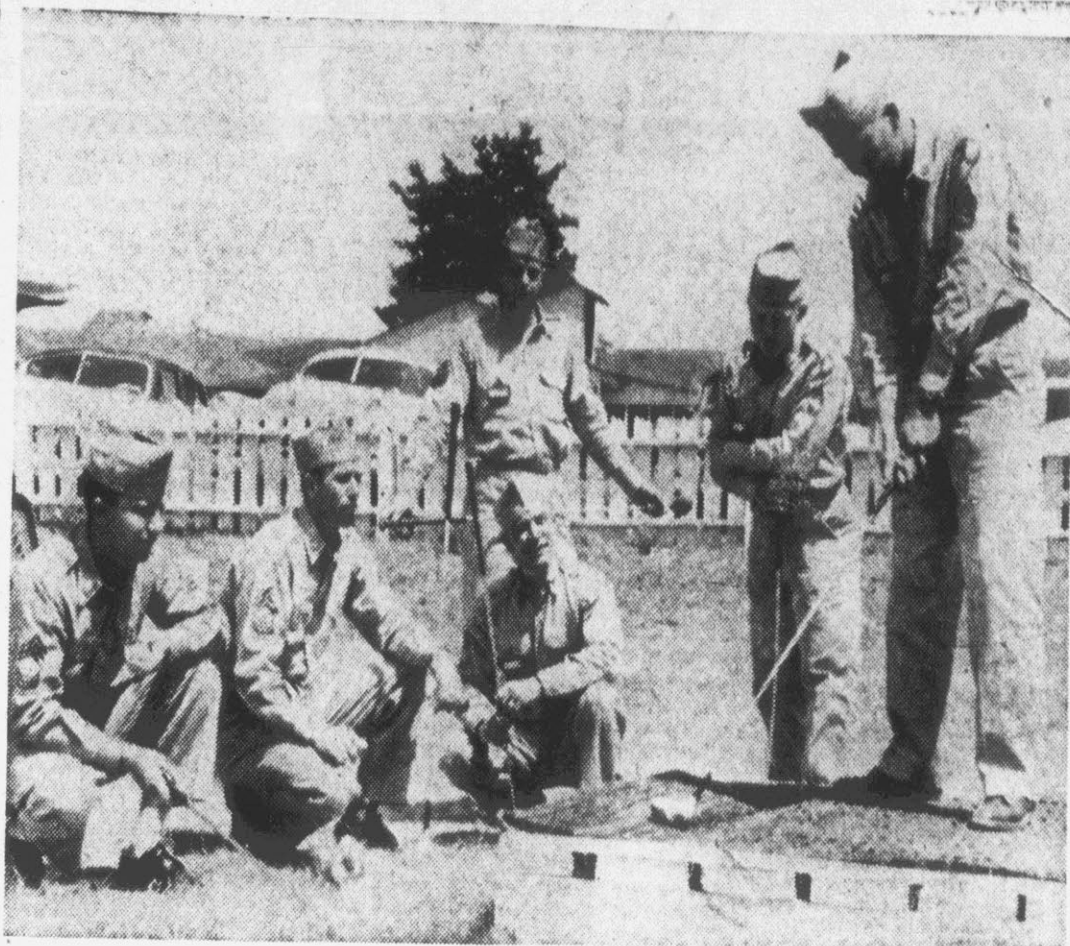

Judge Joseph Parker ordered the prison terms suspended for five years upon condition they pay $1,000 each to Betty Jean Perry of Raleigh formerly of Clayton, R. I. The young girl was accused of "running around" with the husband of one of the women.

Miss Perry testified that Mrs. Parrish came to Wilsons Mills school on the afternoon of Feb. 26 and told that her mother was in a hospital and that she would take her to see her. After they left the school, the girl said that Mrs. Parrish picked up Mrs. Medlin and Mrs. Lynch.

Miss Perry said she was asked if she hadn't been going out with the husband of one of them and "I told them I hadn't."

She testified all three hit her about the face "and gave me a sore face and a black eye." She was released, she said, about a half mile from her home.

Gypsy Queen In Dallas Hospital

DALLAS (AP)—Some two-dozen gypsies camped on the lawn of Methodist Hospital here yesterday, waiting for news of their injured queen, 75-year-old Rosie Evans.

She suffered a broken ankle in a fall near Dallas Friday night. Since then, long distance telephone calls from fellow tribesmen have swamped hospital operators. Hospital authorities listed her condition as good.

Shows How Milk Can Go Long Way

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson knows how to make milk go a long way. Benson, touring the farm buildings at Pennsylvania State University yesterday, was asked by a picture-minded photographer if he knew how to milk a cow.

Benson seized the udder of a nearby cow and squirted the surprised photographer, standing what he thought was a safe 15 feet away.

DOG FLAGGED OMAHA (AP)—Small red flags, serving as temporary markers to warn motorists to stay clear of freshly painted stripes, have been ending up in the gutter on one block whenever the paint was renewed. Workmen thought it was a juvenile prank until a dog was caught carrying the flags.

Fire Alarm Horn Repaired Again

The frequent blasts on the fire whistle yesterday and today are the result of the alarm being repaired. Fire Chief George Gardner said today.

The chief stated this morning that he hoped the trouble in the whistle had been located and repaired by a factory technician who was called in to adjust the long-ailing alarm.

"We've been having trouble with it for quite some time," the chief said. "We sent parts in to the factory to be repaired and when they came back they still weren't right."

Gardner said that when it was learned that Kenneth Herman, representative of the Gamewell Company which handles parts for the whistle, was to be in Raleigh this week it was requested that he come to Greenville to check the alarm. The technician worked on the whistle last night and this morning and announced that the horn is in working order today.

The fire chief indicated that at present the whistle completely out of commission. He said that last night the alarm would not trip automatically but "we had a system worked out where one of the boys was to go up and trip the alarm by hand in case of a fire."

Found Fragment Of $10,000 Bill

DUNN, N. C. (AP)—Bobby Lee showed up at a Dunn bank yesterday with a piece of a $10,000 bill he said he found at the Benson town dump.

The fragment constituted about one-fifth of the entire bill and showed the denomination of $10,000 and part of the serial number.

Bankers confirmed its legitimacy and said that if Lee had as much as two-fifths of the bill he could collect half from the Treasury department.

With as much as three-fourths, the bankers said, Lee could collect the entire $10,000.

No one knew how that fragment got in the dump.

Orioles Lose Ninth In Row To Fall Deeper Into Cellar

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports Writer

Browns or Orioles, St. Louis or Baltimore, the sad fact seems to be that it's a last-place ball club. More than five million dollars have been spent on the franchise since a year ago today. The net result in the won-and-lost columns is a game and a half improvement.

The Orioles have won 22 games and lost 42. A year ago today the Browns stood 21-44. The Orioles of 1953 set a major league record for consecutive losses at home. Starting June 3 they dropped 20 games in St. Louis before finally winning on July 7.

The Orioles of 1954 lost their ninth in a row last night, 3-1, to Boston in 12 innings. It also was their fifth straight loss at home. And they are in last place, just like last year.

The only outstanding difference is in the crowds. The Browns lost in privacy. More than 130,000 have suffered with the Orioles through their last nine defeats.

But the boos have started to echo in Baltimore's Memorial Stadium. Civic pride is beginning to wilt.

The Orioles are 22½ games behind the Cleveland Indians, who lost one game of their league lead last night. The Indians bowed to Philadelphia 4-1 while Chicago was beating Washington 7-5. This moved the White Sox within three games of the Indians.

The New York Yankees lost at Detroit 4-1 and stayed five games behind.

In the National League, the New York Giants continued to come up with hair-raising finishes, shading Milwaukee 3-2 on a bases-loaded single by Monte Irvin with two out in the ninth. Cincinnati mauled Brooklyn 13-1 for its fifth straight victory. Philadelphia defeated Chicago 4-1. St. Louis and the Pirates were rained out in Pittsburgh.

Baltimore's extra-inning loss came when Bob Turley walked Harry Agganis, the first man to face him in the 12th. Sammy White doubled and Billy Conso singled.

Al Sima did his ex-Chicago teammates a good turn by pitching the Athletics to a four-hit victory over Cleveland. It was the first victory for the left-hander, who was traded 10 days ago. He drove in two of the A's four runs off Early Wynn who suffered his fifth loss.

Virgil Trucks joined Bob Keegan as the American League's only 10-game winners in Chicago's victory over Washington. He needed help from Morrie Martin, however, as the Senators fought back from a 7-0 deficit.

Manager Casey Stengel was bounced for arguing for the third time this year as his Yankees bowed to Steve Gromek and the Detroit Tigers. The Yanks collected eight hits but couldn't score until the eighth.

The Giants trailed 2-1 going into the last of the ninth. A walk, a sacrifice, a single by Don Mueller and a double by Willie Mays tied the score. Then, with the bases loaded and two out, Leo Durocher sent up Irvin as a pinch hitter. He was hitless in his last 26 times at bat but he met the first pitch for a single and the Giants won again. The Dodgers were helpless against a combination of two-hit pitching by Bud Podbielan and a 17-hit Cincinnati attack. Jim Greengrass hit two home runs and Andy Seminick hit one—for the Reds.

Robin Roberts, who had to go 15 innings his last time out, struck out 11 and walked only two as the Phillies whipped Chicago. A two-run double by Smoky Burgess in the eighth clinched the contest.

Flam Has Chance To Gain Prestige

By TOM OCHILTREE

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Dangrous but slightly rusty Herb Flam today becomes the first American in the current Wimbledon tennis tournament to clash with one of the top Australians. The crew-cut Beverly Hills, Calif., youngster goes against three-seeded player to polish off a high-round match on the famed center court.

This is a tough assignment for Flam, a semifinalist two years ago and he knows it. But it also is a big opportunity for an unseeded player to polish off a high-ranked performer.

Flam is a seaman in the Navy now and came here on a 30-day leave. At his San Francisco station, he played some weekend tennis but has been out of tough tournament competition for some time.

Still, if he can come up with a victory, he will add a big splash of prestige to the American contingent which is engaging in a personal battle with the Australians for the title.

Two other second-round matches also will occupy the attention of the experts. Top-seeded Tony Trabert of Cincinnati opposes Owen Williams of South Africa, and Lewis Hoad of Australia plays Ignacy Tloczynski a Pole now living in England.

Both Trabert and Hoad are expected to breeze through and most observers here think they'll wind up battling for the title.

College Women Open Match Play

GREENSBORO (AP)—The 10th annual Women's National Collegiate golf tournament started over Club course here today with a new favorite. She is Marlene Gesell of the University of Minnesota who took the medal in yesterday's qualifying with a one-under-par 76. Close behind was Barbara McIntire of Toledo University with 77 over the 6,500-yard course.

Defending Champion Pat Lesser of Seattle University, who had trouble putting, posted an 81, dropping her into the lower bracket with Miss McIntire. The two could meet Friday in the quarterfinals. Virginia Denney of Northwestern University shot 78, the only other of the 16 qualifiers to break into the 70s. Twenty played in the qualifying. The 18-hole finals will be played Saturday.

Today's pairings and qualifying scores: Marlene Gesell, Minnesota (76) vs. Judy Blicke, Ohio State (92); Nancy Reed Peabody (79), Virginia Denney, Northwestern (83) vs. Sally O'Neill, Ohio State; zvirginia Denney, Northwestern (76) vs. Barbara Lichterman, Minnesota (96); Anne Kelter, Ohio State (84) vs. Gavie Manuel, Gustavus-Adolphus (109); Barbara McIntire, Toledo (77) vs. Pat Rees Stetson (93); Barbara Little, Northwestern (83) vs. Sandra Dewitt, Miami (ohio) (17); Pat Rees, Seattle (81) vs. Barbara Norman, Miami (Ohio) (97); and Miram Cook, Louisiana State (89) vs. Beverly Martin, Gustavus-Adolphus (109).

Talbot Pleased With Landy's Run

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—A man who spends much of his time trying to peer into the future in the sports world falls on his face so often that he takes an inordinate pleasure in calling one right now and then. The 3-58 mile which John Landy ran in Finland brought a gentle little thrill to one who predicted 18 months ago that the Australian would be the world's best.

It was on a burning hot January day in Melbourne, "immediately after the '52 Davis Cup matches, that we watched the dark-haired Aussie reel off a 4:02.8 mile under poor conditions and became convinced that the spot that he would cut under the then-fabled four-minute mark without much trouble the first time he had a fair chance at it.

On that day a typically warm Australian breeze swirled dust across the brick red track at Olympic Park and blew directly into Landy's face on the final straightaway. The track itself was hard from not having been watered down for a week. Landy had no real competition and hadn't felt much like running anyway. It required no great courage to find the nearest cable office and write.

"You could do worse than bet that Landy will be the first athlete in history to run the four-minute mile. It is more than probable if he had not been forced to buck a stiff breeze over the final 150 yards today the 'miracle mile' would be on its way to the record books now.

You would have lost the bet to Roger Bannister's historic 3:59.4 only a few weeks back, but outside that we still like to think it wasn't a bad bit of predicting on short notice. Who can say that Landy would not have cracked the competition wide open a year ago if he had been running then under Finland's ideal conditions instead of bucking the vagaries of Australian weather?

Although the Guard scored eight runs they could get only four hits off the Fordomatic pitching. Shelton Conway led the hitting for the night with two hits in four trips to be the only player on either team to get more than one hit.

The win for the National Guard puts them in contention for the title in the first half. The Redmen are on top with a 6-2 record. The Guard is second with 5-3 and the Bright Leafs are 4-4 with the Fords 1-7.

A Redmen loss coupled with a Guard win would put them in a tie for first in the first half which ends Friday. Each team has one more game to play.

Fight Movies

The official motion pictures of the Rocky Marciano-Ezard Charles heavyweight championship fight in New York City last Thursday will be shown at the Pitt Theatre Friday and Saturday.

Pitt Theatre Manager G. H. Sturm said the pictures show all of the highlights of the championship battle between the two heavies. The film runs 22 minutes. It will be shown here afternoons and nights.

The Chicago White Sox is the only team in the American League ever to have four 20-game winners. In 1920 Red Faber won 23, Claude Williams 22, Dickie Kerr 21 and Ed Cicotte 21. They finished second.

match the first half winners against a picked team of All-Stars from the other teams in the league. The game, to be played in Guy Smith Stadium, will be preceded by a series of field events to test speed and skill of some of the players. During the game, spectators will be given free ice cream and door prizes.

In last night's action Home Builders had to rally for a pair of runs in the eighth inning to win its first game of the second half. Sonny Scott and Gene Hudson started the works with a pair of singles with Scott scoring ahead of Hudson's hit. Hudson went to third on a two-base error by Harris' pitcher Spookie Moran and then scored from there on a wild pitch.

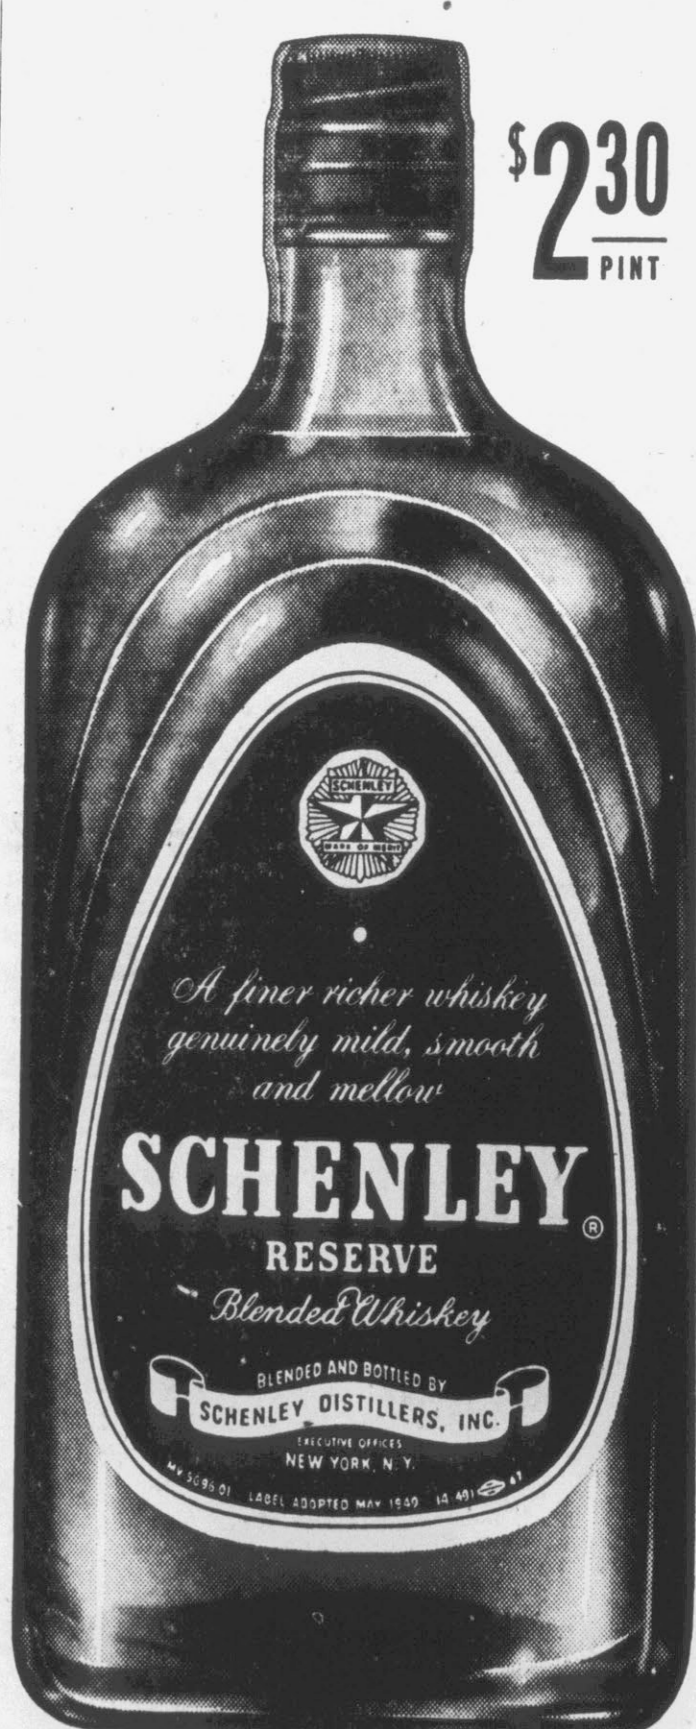

Harris had tied the game up with a three-run rally in the bottom of the seventh inning. Dick Cherry sparked the rally with a two-run home run with two men out.

Cherry led the hitting for the marketmen with two hits, in four trips. Scott had two hits in four trips to pace the Builders.

In the second game, Southern Bread collected 11 base hits, 13 walks, four hit batters, three fielder's choices, eight Jolly Roger errors, and a sacrifice fly to account for their runs. The contest went only five and a half innings but Southern scored in every frame and capped the works with 13 runs in the fourth inning.

Billy McRoy, Skee Wysokowski, James Hardee, H. Carawan, Jack Wood and Charles Odum each had two hits for the night. Odum and Wood play for Jolly Rogers while the others are members of Southern Bread's squad.

Scout Campaign Leaders Will Be Guests Of Clinic

Dr. J. D. Messick, Greenville, chairman of the East Carolina Council Boy Scout finance committee, will conduct a training conference for the community campaign men in the twenty-county area served by the Council.

The clinic will be held at East Carolina College in Greenville on Wednesday, June 30th. Experts from the Regional Boy Scout office in Atlanta as well as other personnel from neighboring Scout Councils will participate in the afternoon-evening affair.

The thirteen finance chairmen representing the thirteen Districts of the Council have been invited to bring their several community campaign chairmen to the session. Specific "know how" information and devices will be explained to the group.

Those attending the conference will be treated to a unique spectacle as the members of the community groups sit down to a real honest-to-goodness breakfast at six o'clock in the evening.

Part of the training will be the techniques to use in the larger towns where a breakfast is feasible.

Drought To Cut Crop Of Wheat

BELGRADE (AP) — A fall drought and a late summer threaten to cut Yugoslavia's wheat crop this year close to the 1952 level that brought near starvation to the country. A bumper wheat crop last year and this, are expected to fill the gap. But the country will have to keep importing, thereby consuming foreign exchange desperately needed for industrial goods.

The situation is a tough blow to Yugoslavia's communist government which has been trying desperately to increase agricultural production — even to the extent of freeing peasants from many onerous government controls and pressures. The United States may be called on to help out as it did with large free wheat shipments after the 1952 drought and again this year.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, Real Estate Editor

Deciding on windows can be one of the trickiest problems encountered when planning to remodel or build a house. There are more styles and types of windows on the market today than you can shake a stick at. Some open, some don't—even when they are supposed to. The movable kinds range from finely precision devices to near gadgets, as you probably have observed.

Well, so much has been said recently about various metal windows and so many people prefer wood sash windows that a look at real modern millwork reveals some big surprises for most of us.

For instance, have you noticed that the old-fashioned sash weight is gone? Have you seen the wood framed, wood sash windows that you can wash in the middle of the living room floor? And have you heard of "treated" windows?

These are all on hand at lumber yards handling fine millwork. The sash weight may be mourned by writers of murder mysteries, but not by householders who have tried to cope with a broken sash cord. These clumsy devices have been replaced by spring balances carefully matched to the weight of the window for easy operation.

The spring balances don't take up as much space as the sash weight arrangement, so window frames are much narrower than they used to be. Narrow frames prove to be better looking and result in more wall area, more glass area in a window, or both.

Washing the outside of a window in the middle of the living room floor is much less of a trick nowadays than risking your neck by sitting out on the sill. New double-hung wood sash windows are made to be taken out at will. A flick of the finger a slight push and a gentle lift does it. Various built-in devices make it possible.

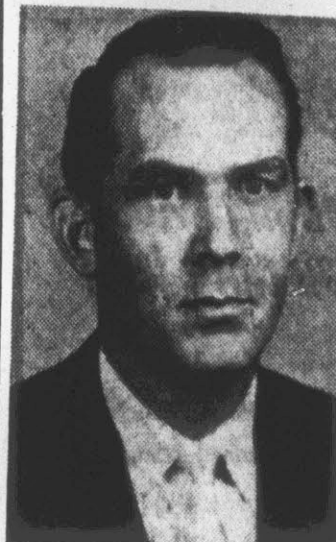

Among other improvements are better methods of weatherstripping. A great many modern wood sash windows are manufactured as units. The sash and frame are matched to each other and used as one assembly. This permits installing weatherstripping at the factory by carefully engineered methods. Complete units are easier and less expensive to install.

A "treated" window is one that has been immersed in water-resistant preservative. This protects the wood from moisture and holds shrinking, swelling, warping and rotting to a negligible minimum. The treatment does not discolor the wood and it serves as an excellent base for paint.

Windows and doors, of course, are the principal moving parts of a house. So experience has been a great teacher for the millwork manufacturers. About half a century ago, almost any handy soft wood was used for millwork. But when abrasive wear caused some woods to splinter and disintegrate in other ways, research began. The result has been that for more than 40 years ponderosa pine has taken the lead among materials used for quality windows and doors. This wood now produced principally in about nine Western states, won the race in window frame making because its soft texture made smooth and accurate machining practicable.

One reason wood framed windows hold their popularity is because of the insulating capacity of wood. On cold winter days, metal window frames drip with condensation. Double glazing may insulate the panes enough to keep the glass clear, but metal frames still "sweat."

This is more or less inevitable. When you want heart conduction, such as for pots and pans on the stove, you use metal, not wood. The refrigerating data book of the American Society of Refrigerating Engineers shows that in a given length of time, aluminum of a given thickness and area will transmit from 1360 to 1780 times as much heat as a piece of pine of the same dimensions.

To The Voters Of Pitt County

In the run-off primary this coming Saturday many of you will go to the polls and express your preference for District Solicitor. Most of you, perhaps, will vote for your home-county candidate, Mr. Rouse, a good man and worthy opponent. To those who may see fit to support me I express in advance my sincere appreciation.

It has not been my good fortune to see and become personally acquainted with very many of you good people of Pitt. The ones I have been privileged to meet I have been quite favorably impressed with. Not many of you know me personally. Instead of attempting any detailed introduction or reference to qualifications, I say very simply that I am perfectly willing that you rely upon the representations of your friends and neighbors, or others, who may know me as to what kind of person you would be supporting.

I had not thought it worth while to make reference to my military record and have not before (and do so now only to allay certain misgivings,) but the answer is Yes. I was in the military service for approximately five years, with foreign service in both World War II and Korea, but feel that I did only my duty and nothing more, as many thousands of others did from all over this good land of ours.

If you give me your support in Saturday's primary, I make you in return this solemn pledge, that, if nominated, I will conduct the affairs of the office in such a way as to cause you no regret for having placed your confidence in me.

High Secrecy For Super-Spy Outfit

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—This country's super-spy outfit, the Central Intelligence Agency, is so secret that even Congress, which votes money for it, knows less about it than about any other major government agency.

Former President Truman set it up in 1947, with the approval of Congress, when it became clear Russia, the wartime friend, had become the peacetime enemy. Congress has let it operate behind a screen ever since.

Only five or six members know how much money Congress votes for CIA every year. Congress as a whole doesn't know. The funds are scattered and concealed among the appropriations for other agencies.

There have been guesses CIA spends between 500 and 800 million dollars a year. But even the number of CIA's employees is secret. Guesses on this run from 8,000 to 30,000.

CIA officials do give some committees of Congress pieces of information. Because of the nature of its work the CIA can't like the Labor Department, for example, lay all its cards on the table.

This much is publicly known of the CIA:
1. It does its work overseas, keeping on the communists. Its job is to find out what they're up to day by day and, in case the Reds plan an attack to give this country plenty of warning.

2. It coordinates the information gathered by six other government agencies which have intelligence agents of their own: Army, Navy, Air Force, State Department, Atomic Energy Commission and the FBI.

At about that point, outside knowledge of the CIA stops. Congress, being shut off from a close work, good or bad. Presumably look, can't tell much about CIA's only President Eisenhower and those closest to him know.

Because of the dark wall around it, the CIA cannot very well publicly claim credit for its successes. By the same token, any failures are concealed.

The CIA was roundly criticized in 1950 on the grounds it failed to give this country warning about the Communist attack on South Korea. Shortly thereafter Truman replaced the CIA boss Rear Adm. Roscoe Hillekoetter, with Gen. Walter Bedell Smith.

Smith, who had been President Eisenhower's chief of staff in Europe during World War II, picked Allen Dulles, a lawyer and brother of the present secretary of state John Foster Dulles, to be one of his deputies.

When Eisenhower took over as president he moved Smith over to the State Department as under-secretary and made Allen Dulles head of the CIA.

The CIA has been called a cloak-and-dagger outfit, mixed up in various enterprises, besides spying, to give the Communists the miseries. It may, for instance, have helped engineer the 1953 uprising of the East Germans against the Communists.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) has talked cryptically of Communist infiltration of the CIA. Dulles says this is false. McCarthy has talked of investigating the CIA. He started to do so once before but Dulles blocked him.

Meanwhile, 21 senators, Democrats and Republicans, who have no connection with McCarthy's particular interest in the CIA, say it's time Congress was able to keep closer tabs on the agency.

Last March Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) offered a resolution backed by 20 other senators to set up a joint committee in central intelligence. It would be composed of five House members and five senators.

Its purpose: To make a continuing study of CIA's activities and problems. The members of this committee then without divulging details that had to be secret, could inform both houses on what should be done to and for the CIA.

The Atomic Energy Commission, almost as secret as the CIA since it controls this country's atomic development, is under constant check by a similar congressional committee a relationship which has worked well.

There has been no action on the Mansfield resolution and probably won't be this year.

Rowboat Serves As School Bus

CLINTON, Iowa (AP)—A rowboat is a school bus for the six school age children of the Peter Edfors family. They live on Beaver Island in the Mississippi River. Each morning they are ferried across about 200 yards of the river. Mrs. Edfors not only checks to see that the children are wearing their coats or jackets, but also that they are wearing their life preservers. When the river is frozen, they mount the boat on runners and their father or brother pushes it.

Reports Discovery Of Almost 900 Asteroids, Others 'Lost' For Years

By FRANK CAREY
ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Discovery of almost 900 new asteroids or pip-squeak planets — and discovery of some of those that have been "lost" for many years — was reported today by an Indiana University astronomer who said the findings should help reduce a potential traffic hazard of any future travel in space.

Dr. Frank K. Edmondson told a meeting of the American Astronomical Society that the tiny, heavenly wanderers — ranging in diameter from two miles to 50 miles — had been spotted during a five-year search.

And he said work is now progressing to compute their orbits, or pathways through space, so as to try to add them to the list of some 1,600 other baby planets whose orbits are well known to astronomy. Asteroids are believed to be fragments of a planet which exploded ages ago — or perhaps even chunks of planetary material which never got assembled into a full-size planet. The biggest known asteroid is 480 miles in diameter. Edmondson told a reporter that the new discoveries should help in charting the heavens to assist spaceship navigators — if and when such travel comes along. "Asteroids would be hazards to spaceship navigation," he said. "You'd have to know where they are and how they move in space."

Dare's Coastal Waters Have Big Fishing Variety

HATTERAS N.C. — Dare coastal waters probably offer the biggest variety of game fishing to be found anywhere on the American coast. Already this year more than 20 varieties of fish in the game classification have been landed with rod and reel.

Here at Hatteras, for example, Channel Bass, bluefish, Spanish mackerel, kingfish or sea mullet, king mackerel, cobia, red snapper, dolphin, amberjack tuna, sailfish, white and blue marlin, croaker, trout, false albacore, bonita, grouper, sea bass and barracuda have already been taken this season.

First blue marlin of the season, a 442-pounder was landed on June 12, and prior to that time since late May, white marlin, and two sailfish have been landed. The first channel bass of the season was taken during late March and scores of the big copper fighters have been landed since that time. After several weeks of spotty channel bass fishing they were back in the surf again this week and specimens weighing up to 20 pounds were being caught.

In the Nags Head, Oregon Inlet area striped bass have been taken often during the past several weeks. They have been landed while anglers trolled for them in the sounds. Spot and sea perch and all the varieties taken from salt water in the Hatteras area have been reported by anglers in the Oregon Inlet sector so far this year excepting tuna, blue and white marlin. The first sailfish of the 1954 season for Oregon Inlet anglers was not taken until mid-June.

The Nags Head area also offers a variety of fresh water fishing with large mouth bass from the fresh ponds and bays of the Kitty Hawk, Colington and lower Currituck Sound region taking the lead. Bream and other fresh water varieties have also been landed from the fresh waters of the upper Outer Banks region and in Dare mainland ponds and streams.

Last year in the Hatteras Island area alone more than 30 varieties of game fishes were taken, according to Scotty Gibson, operator of Atlantic View Hotel here. Gibson who caters mostly to sportsfishermen, keeps statistics on the varieties taken.

To The 17,600 Registered Voters Of Pitt County

Since November, 1943, I have served as Sheriff of Pitt County—and I have conscientiously endeavored to serve all the citizens of our County. In each Democratic Primary I have had opposition and each time the voters of the County have made me humbly grateful in their approval of my services. In the recent Primary, I regret that in the three-way race, I lacked 216 votes of having a clear majority over the other two candidates.

This Saturday, June 26th, is the date of the second Primary, called by my opponent. In this open letter to you, the voters of Pitt County, I urge that every qualified voter express his or her choice, and participate in the selection of the Sheriff of Pitt County. I will greatly appreciate your vote, and I pledge you a continued honest, faithful, and fair administration of this important office of your county government.

It has come to my attention that in the campaign some questions have been raised about my health. It is only fair to tell you that I consulted the doctor who treated me last year—before I became a candidate for re-election—and only filed for re-election when I learned that nothing in the condition of my health would keep me from performing the duties of the office.

Remember To VOTE on Saturday, June 26th

Ask your friends and neighbors to vote for and support me for Sheriff. Your vote and support will be deeply appreciated.

Sincerely Yours, RUEL W. TYSON

Schoolmates Aid Boy After Fire

JARBALO, Kan. (AP) — Paul Schmutz, 12, lost his eyeglasses when fire destroyed his home. Schoolmates raised $29.50 to buy him a new pair, but the doctor who fitted the glasses refused to take the money when he learned of the circumstances.

Paul's schoolmates didn't want the money back either. So they bought him other articles needed to replace those lost in the fire.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

A WEEK had gone by since the party. Cynthia had not seen Norman, as he was still away, but practically every day brought her some reminder that he had been in earnest when he said he meant to "court" her. Laughingly he had said that that might be an outdated word, but it was what he intended to do.

The apartment was kept filled with flowers that arrived with his card, sometimes with a silly jingle, as when the florist's box contained a small bunch of early spring violets. From Washington, and later New York, he bombarded her with postcards, usually ending their with the time-worn, "Wish you were here."

"I told you he was unpredictable," Roz said, a bit wistfully. "Don't be surprised if you receive a pink elephant. Lucky you, Cynth!" Cynthia did not feel lucky. She felt embarrassed. There simply was no sense in Norman's being so hopeful. Not when there was Walt. If anything, Walt had seemed more absorbed in his work than usual since the party. She did catch him, now and then, looking at her in a peculiar manner, as though he still was trying to diagnose her case. And he had brought up the subject of her vacation again, adding that he had told Miss Whiting to start substituting the first of the month in Cynthia's place.

The day when she wore the violets to the clinic Walt was even more stuffy than usual. As soon as he noticed them, he said, "Violets, eh? Hum. They're very nice. I presume your friend—I mean that fellow Brandt—send them. Do you really think you ought to wear them while you're working, Cynthia?"

Cynthia had intended taking them off and keeping them in the refrigerator until clinic hours were over. But she had been so annoyed with the doctor that she had said "I can't see anything objectionable in a little bunch of violets. They won't throw off any germs. They might even cheer up some of the children. Yes, Dr. Sellars, I have every intention of wearing them."

"As you like," the young doctor had returned curtly. And that had been when he had brought up the subject of her vacation again and the fact that he had definitely engaged Miss Whiting, starting as of the first of the week.

"Oh I've made all my vacation plans!" Cynthia had assured him airily. Since he was so anxious to get rid of her, she would pretend that this was not a convenient time for her to go home at all. Her mother had written that she and Cynthia's father had planned a long-postponed motor trip. They were going to drive out West, stopping en route to visit various members of the family whom they had not seen in years; they might even go as far as California. Cynthia's grandmother was going to stay with near-by relatives; the big farmhouse would be closed.

Naturally Cynthia had no intention of spoiling all these long-anticipated plans with any unexpected ones of her own. So she had not written home that she might be forced to take a vacation.

"I assume you're going home?" Walt had said.

"Your assumption is incorrect," his assistant nurse had replied with alacrity. She had not offered any explanation. She had merely added "I have other plans."

"Indeed." That scowl had darkened Dr. Sellars' handsome face. He had wanted to inquire about these plans, but he had not quite had the nerve. For he had been afraid that the answer might not please him. If Cynthia was not going away, she must be staying here because of Norman Brandt. Which would mean that all of his well-laid plans, like those of other mice and men, would go astray.

As a matter of fact, Cynthia had no plans. She might go somewhere, although it could not be much fun to go alone. Or she might just stay here and rest.

Dr. Sellars informed her on Friday that Miss Whiting had offered to come in for a while Saturday morning, so that Cynthia could show her what her duties would be.

"That is, if you don't mind," he had added. "I won't be coming in tomorrow."

So this was the way he was going to say goodbye. Have a marvelous vacation, and I—or at least the clinic—will miss you.

"I don't mind in the least," Cynthia said coolly. There were no regular clinic hours on Saturdays so sometimes neither of them came in. During summer, the small office force, and other help, did not work on Saturdays, either. The office force consisted of a girl who did typing and kept books, and the "other help" was an aged Negro who performed odd jobs and kept the place fairly tidy. Walt did not know how much cleaning up, even scrubbing on hands and knees and repainting, Cynthia had squeezed in during odd moments and off hours.

When she thought of how she had helped build this clinic, putting her whole heart and soul into it, Cynthia was more annoyed with Dr. Sellars than ever. She ought to walk out on him and never come back.

Yet she knew she would be counting the days, almost the hours until she could.

When he took his departure that Friday evening, Dr. Sellars reminded her once again that she need not be in any hurry to report back for duty. "I'm sure we shall get along all right," he said. "Since you aren't going away, if anything comes up that Miss Whiting or I need to consult you about, we can get in touch with you."

In one way, and not for the reason he had just stated, Dr. Sellars was glad Cynthia was not going to be away. For he could at least phone her now and then, keep track of what was going on. He could even find some excuse to drop by to see her for a few minutes.

"Oh, I didn't say I wasn't going away," Cynthia returned. "I said I wasn't going home. However, I expect I'll be available off and on, though I doubt if anything so important will develop that I'll be needed for consultation, in fact."

out of town all week. Walt wished he would stay in New York or Washington, or wherever he was.

Dr. Sellars might have been surprised had he known that no sooner had he left the clinic than the person in question put in an appearance.

Tobacco Harvester Shown In Action

Crowds estimated at between 500 and 1200 turned out at the J. R. Gladson farm, Greenville Route 3, to see history made when what is believed to be the first mechanical tobacco harvester to operate in Pitt County was demonstrated. Shop foreman of Hendrix-Barnhill Equipment Company Norman Worthington, who was in charge of the demonstration, said that the machine was harvesting 100 stacks per hour. Labor used on the harvester had had no prior experience with the device. The demonstration began at 3:45 yesterday morning and ended at 12:30 A two and one-half acre field of tobacco was covered in that time. (Reflector Photo by Alvin Taylor)

President Lays Groundwork For Churchill Talks

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower summoned Republican and Democratic congressional leaders and his chief military advisers to a series of huddles today to lay a solid foundation for his imminent talks with British Prime Minister Churchill.

Thirty key Senate and House members were scheduled to meet with the President and Secretary of State Dulles and to hear a report by Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith on the deadlocked Geneva conference.

Those negotiations with the Communists on peace in Indochina are expected to figure largely in the Eisenhower-Churchill discussions which start Friday.

Speaker Feels Appliance Industry Future Is Good

"The appliance industry has one of the most glorious futures of any industry in this country," H. B. Price Jr., vice-president of the National Appliance and Radio-TV Dealers Association, told local appliance dealers last night.

Speaking at a dinner meeting at the Greenville Golf and Country Club, Price explained some appliance business techniques to members of the Greenville Appliance Dealers Association.

Price, who is one of the top retailers in the appliance industry, told the members "discount selling is one of the biggest problems facing each of you. Until you have a maintained price, you have no right to call yourself a merchant."

Price noted, "Know your limitations, and do not get over-extended. Maintain integrity in financing."

The NARDA vice-president said, learn to trade" and "eliminate discount exchange places with a legitimate merchant," he continued, "because you can't make money doing discount business."

Former Superintendent Of Prisoners Convicted

HALIFAX, N. C.—A former superintendent of the Halifax County Prison Camp was convicted in Recorder's Court here yesterday of assaulting two prisoners with a blackjack on the night of Jan. 22.

Judge W. Bernard Ailsbrook ordered J. J. Turpin to pay a fine of $25 and costs. However, Turpin appealed his conviction to Halifax Superior Court.

Ailsbrook has heard testimony from prisoners that the assault led up to a riot at the camp two days later in which two guards were held as hostages for several hours and threatened with knives.

Shortly after the riot State Prisons Director W. F. Bailey ordered Turpin transferred to the Vance County prison camp as assistant superintendent.

Melvin Jarrell and James Gray testified that Turpin struck them with the blackjack. Jarrell said he was hit at least 20 times. Jarrell was one of 15 convicts recently convicted on conspiracy to assault charge as a result of the riot. Gray has completed serving his sentence.

Turpin testified that he struck each man one time. He said that Jarrell had tried to break away from him while being led from the cell block to the prison office. Turpin said Gray had shoved him.

Some 100,000 Farm Workers In Italy Striking

FERRARA, Italy—Imagine four to six counties in Iowa locked in a farm worker strike with hundreds arrested, nine police hurt, roads barricaded and cattle starving.

It's happening here. The strike has been spreading for more than 60 days until now an estimated 100,000 grim-faced farm workers stand idle, and 4,000 farms are hard hit in all Ferrara province—Italy's Little Holland, 400 square miles of diked farmland rich in dairy products and grain.

Italian troops stand on alert ready to move in if police are unable to maintain order. Farm owners say 30 cows have died and hundreds are starving or facing death from poisoned wells. Thousands of gallons of milk have spoiled, shut off from market by roads embedded with spikes, blocked with manned barricades, or cut with three-foot deep ditches which have stalled police jeeps trying to escort milk trucks to town.

The big dikes that guard flood-menaced Canabianco in the Po delta lowlands were cut at one place, flooding hundreds of acres of farmland.

In repeated clashes between strikers and police since the strikes began to spread last April 22, nine police have been injured, mostly by stoning, and 400 demonstrators were arrested. Of these a score or more still are held on charges of "resistance and outrage to police."

The farm workers demand sweeping wage increases and improved working conditions, including 60 paid holidays a year instead of their present 31. Wages vary with classes of workers. But the ordinary farm hand gets 17,000 lire a month, with some meals and food to take home. That pay amounts to $30 a month. Time workers get 120 lire an hour—20 cents.

The threat to bring in troops last week brought some concessions. Striking workers agreed to feed the 70,000 cattle on the 4,000 affected farms once a day. But they refuse to do any other work, or to clear the roads for marketing of crops or milk.

SLIGHTLY DAMAGED
Firemen were called to the home of E. M. Woolard at 1207 Chestnut Street Monday afternoon at 4:18 p. m. when an oil stove flared up. The house was slightly damaged by smoke and fire.

Martin Talks About Healing Sick Souls

Healing of sick souls is the most important phase of divine healing. God has provided for man, summarized Evangelist Eddie Martin at the conclusion of his sermon on "Sever Ducks in a Muddy River" Tuesday evening.

Using the story of Naaman, a military leader, and his leprosy condition to depict the sin-sickness of an individual, the evangelist told the 2,500 persons attending the services of the Pitt County United Revival Crusade that sin is a cancerous sore which is a blight upon the soul of a person, but that God can do for peoples' souls what God did for Naaman's body.

"I know there is a God, and I know that salvation is of God, and I know, too, that salvation from sin is a positive fact, and every born-again Christian can know that he is saved," Martin told his hearers.

In response to the invitation extended to persons wanting forgiveness for their sins and the assurance that God for Christ's sake has forgiven sins in their lives, more than 80 persons went forward to the altar in the tent cathedral Tuesday night.

God always places a witness for His word, and work, and will through Christian people who come across the lives of people, the evangelist said in drawing upon incidents in the life of Naamaq to illustrate the experiences in the current scene.

Dog Provided The Final Proof

ST. LOUIS—Patrolman John Cantillon had a summons to serve yesterday on a person charged with letting a vicious dog run at large.

He checked the address. That was right. He checked the dog owner's name. That was right.

The dog part collie and part shepherd, provided the final proof. It bit Cantillon on the leg.

He said he won't press the matter — he might have to serve another summons and start a vicious circle.

Wives of American men who marry in their 20s average about a year younger than their husbands, but wives of men who marry when they are older tend to be considerably younger than their husbands, the age differential increasing with increasing age at the time of marriage.

A Christian does not have to resort to the use of a prayer book or a priest or Sunday ritual to obtain an experience of salvation; the Church does not save, nor does the prayer book or the priest, Martin said, and turning to the congregation in his rapid-fire manner of speech, he added, "nor does the lodge with all its good work and moral standards save one."

"The church is the easiest institution to get into and the hardest to get out of," Martin said, as he admonished his hearers to get right with God and then get into the church as active supporters of the program of Christ.

The wrong approach to Christian living and admittance to heaven is to depend upon "the right connections," to pull a deal, or to depend upon church membership," said Martin.

"Put away pride and in humility serve Christ; quit stumbling at the simplicity of the Gospel, for the Bible is plain in its revelation of the way of God; to get rid of sin, you must come to Christ by God's way," concluded the evangelist.

Youth prayer services have been scheduled at Memorial Baptist Church Wednesday afternoon, Martin announced.

Congregations are growing and in the crowd almost filling the tent Tuesday evening were delegations from Ayden, Winterville, and a number of communities outside Greenville.
