Christian Science

The vital importance of understanding the inspired Word of the Bible spiritually will be brought out at Christian Science service this Sunday.

The Lesson - Sermon entitled "Christian Science" includes the following selection from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

"The Scriptures are very sacred. Our aim must be to have them understood spiritually, for only by this understanding can truth be gained. It is this spiritual perception of Scripture, which lifts humanity out of disease and death and inspires faith." (547: 23-25, 31-32)

From the King James Version of the Bible the following passage will also be read:

"For ever, O Lord, thy word is settled in heaven. O how love I thy law! It is my meditation all the day. Thy testimonies have I taken as an heritage for ever: for they are the rejoicing of my heart." (Psalms 119:89,97, 111.)

Prison Sentence For Death Kiss

TOKYO (AP)—Pretty Teruko Kamata was sentenced to four years in prison by Tokyo District Court today for killing her lover with a farewell kiss of death.

Teruko, 27, and Yukio Takayanaga, 33, were the lovers. But Yukio's passion cooled.

They registered for a farewell tryst last November at a Tokyo hotel known as the Canary Cage.

Teruko told Yukio she would rather die than live without him. She took a gulp of soda water spiked with cyanide. Then she kissed her lover and forced the liquid down his throat.

Takayanaga swallowed and died.

Use of fingerprints for identification was widely used in the ancient world, but a scientific development of the modern system did not start until 1823.

Revival Near Its Final Day

Those who think they have "gotten away" with their sins because they are prosperous in business and have good health, just have not had harvest day yet, warned Reverend Eddie Martin last night. The evangelist has only three more days left in his campaign. He concludes his effort in Greenville Sunday night, preaching on "Heaven."

First, Eddie Martin developed and illustrated how the devil as a deceiver works to make sin and continue in sin. Then he spent some time showing how God will not be mocked.

"Maybe you have made an insincere profession of faith at some time in your life and have not experienced true repentance. Just going to church is not going to mock God," he insisted.

"Every excuse you have given for not becoming a Christian is a lie. You cannot buy God off with a church donation; it is no substitute for repentance or the love of Jesus."

"You are sowing seeds and have been by your every thought and act since the day you were born. There will be a harvest day some day. Pampering that old sinful self of yours is sowing seeds of the flesh."

"When you live the Christian life, you are sowing seeds of God and will reap a spiritual harvest," Mr. Martin pointed out. At this point the evangelist pointed out that when a man sows, he expects to reap; reap the same kind of thing he sows, reap more than he sows, and reap it later than the moment it is sown. In his application with handling of hospital claims and benefits for hospital members.

Conducting the workshop here were W. E. Merritt, J. W. Moffitt and public relations director, rector, hospital relations director and J. S. Nagelschmid, claims director, of the Hospital Savings Association, Blue Cross - Blue Shield of Chapel Hill.

Five Injured As Car Crashes Into Crowded Bus

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP)—Five persons were injured, one seriously, when a car driven by M. Sgt. William T. Boldin of Ft. Bragg crashed into a crowded City Transit bus here yesterday.

Boldin's passenger, E. B. Green, 57, of Fayetteville, suffered a fractured skull, fractured ribs and other injuries. Boldin is under treatment at a local hospital for a "mild" skull fracture. Police said charges will be filed against him when he is dismissed from the hospital.

The bus was returning from a Fayetteville - Danville baseball game. None of the passengers was injured.

Police said Boldin ran a stop sign and was traveling at high speed.

'Books and Stuff'

DR. ED. HIRSBERG

Just off the presses is a new book by an illustrious North Carolinian, Jonathan Daniels. Called "The End of Innocence," it is about Washington during the administrations of Woodrow Wilson and it revolves around the experiences of the author's father, Joseph Daniels, Secretary of the Navy during World War I.

There's also a good bit about Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was Daniels' Assistant Secretary, and the relationship between them. It's nice, reading about Democrats and Tarheels in the White House, even though thirty years have passed since these particular ones were there.

Taking publishing history is Daphne du Maurier's "Mary Anne," which we mentioned last week as the July Book-of-the-Month Club choice. It was on the best-seller lists just two days after its official publication date, which is going some for any book, since—again officially—the book's hadn't even received it. What happened was that the publishers, Doubleday, sent out their orders early and the bookstores jumped the gun and started selling copies right away. Which marks the first time a book has ever become a best seller before it was published.

News for animal lovers. "Animals, Men and Myths," by Richard Lewinsohn, a translation from the German. It's about the history of animals down through the ages, with special attention to what they have meant to man—as food, gods, something to ride on, or something to bet on. . . . And there's another book about hunting them, "Hunter's Choice," by Alexander Lake, subtitled "True Stories of African Adventure." And yet a third about sports affairs, called "The Sad Game Sportsman," illustrated very fully by cartoonist Virgil F. Parich, pen-named "Vip." From the illustrations, we can't tell whether the game is dead or the sportsman, but at least the "sports" are varied—among others, big-game hunting, deep sea diving, poker, golf, pool, sun-bathing, and moose-angling.

And for the philosopher. "The Portable Nietzsche," a new Viking Portable containing four of the German philosopher's important works in unabridged versions—"Thus Spoke Zarathustra," "Twilight of the Idols," "The Anti-Christ," and "Nietzsche contra Wagner." According to the editor and translator, Professor Walter Kaufman, "The Portable Nietzsche" is probably the most accurate and complete one-volume presentation of the heart of Nietzsche's work. . . . If you enjoyed "The Young Manhood of Studs Lonigan," by James T. Farrell, which was published twenty years ago this week, you'll be interested in Farrell's remarks about revisiting the old Studs Longan neighborhood in Southside Chicago, which appear in last Sunday's Times Book Review. . . . Anyone concerned with atomic science—and who isn't?—should read J. Robert Oppenheimer's new book, "Science and the Common Understanding." Much in the news lately because of the investigation of his loyalty qualifications, Dr. Oppenheimer examines "what there is new in atomic physics that is relevant and helpful and inspiring for men to know."

On the local scene: The final concert of the E.C.C. Music Camp will be on Friday afternoon at 5:30, in Wright Auditorium. . . . And there will be a meeting of the Creative Writing Club Monday evening at 7:30 in the Alumni Building. Ambitious or interested writers are cordially invited. . . .

Over TV a worthwhile summer educational program has been planned by Dr. E.D. Johnson and his College committee. . . . "Let's Go to College" is over the local video every Sunday at 1 p.m. This week Dr. Jorgensen, head of the Physical Education Department, leads a panel discussion with three of the students who have been participating in the Workshop on Alcoholism that has just been completed at the College. . . . The panel will discuss what they've learned about drinking and its effects. . . .

Our reviewer is Mrs. Madge Allen, Art Supervisor of the Greenville colored schools.

THE QUAKER BRIDE, By Janet Whitney. Boston: Little, Brown and Co., 1954

Looking for a different "Who Lunnit?" THE QUAKER BRIDE is a period novel with an American setting of 1956. It has all the human emotions that make for good reading. Rose Cartwright is the misunderstood, poor Quaker relation that is forced to live with her brother-in-law's family in Philadelphia. Mr. L. Ashton—the Indian nabob—goes out of his way to meet the lovely and charming Rose, who has taken a back seat at all the social functions and thereby hangs the tale.

A long lost ship belonging to the now departed father of Rose, has come into the harbor. She is now very rich. Newport, and in fact all Eastern Society, become her will inheritors. She is married to the much sought after Mr. Ashton, who, fortu- tely, had as-her hand before news of the ship was known. After all marriage settlements were made, Mr. Ashton carries his Quaker bride off to London.

To unravel the parts that Miss Tabitha, Lady Dianna, Ahmed, the little "du" deaf mute, and yes, even a court presentation, have to do with murder is quite fascinating. L. Ashton was a murderer, as the river could tell; he liked submissive women, as Rose found out. He had a use for the white Quaker cap, and he made good use of it.

Luke Ashton loved excitement. He despised male weaknesses, and he hated Red Cain. To try to repeat any of the lurid situations would be to spoil the story. It has all the drama and melo-drama of the period. Yet the style and language are of today. Quite surprising, even to the ending. It is not too light and yet not too heavy; for an evening's entertainment. Events move fast enough to keep up interest. Quite enjoyable.

Mrs. Madge Allen

After-Death Letters Used To Defend Hoffman Record

By RONALD AUTRY
NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—A surprise after-death defense put ex-Gov. Harold G. Hoffman on record today as denying he did wrong in New Jersey employment security director even though he had embezzled $300,000 from his own bank.

"As far as I know, there has been nothing wrong in my state department," the late Republican governor said in a letter released last night by his daughter, Mrs. Ada Hoffman Leonard.

Point by point, he hacked away at some of the state's charges, with denials or ridicule, and depicted himself as a politically persecuted man.

He accused Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner, who suspended him, of participating in a rental-purchasing arrangement for which Hoffman himself had been criticized.

Hoffman's defense came in a series of letters and documents he sent to Mrs. Leonard shortly before his death June 4. She made them public as she began an attack on Meyner and his administration.

"Dancing on the grave," she termed the continued fanfare about her father, who had admitted in a letter embezzling $300,000 from the South Amboy Trust Co.

Since she disclosed the letter, Mrs. Leonard said, her father had been condemned "for every mistake committed by, and treason committed against, the state of New Jersey for the past 20 years."

Meyner, she exclaimed, was "dragging this out and condemning us in an attempt to climb to the vice presidency or something."

"The Democrats are trying to ride in a Democratic senator on a corpse."

She said the administration broke its word to treat the case "as decently and quietly as . . . humanly," and so she had come to a decision to make public the papers.

Meyner commented on Mrs. Leonard's news conference: "I have no desire to defame the memory of a dead man, but the public is entitled to the facts and will get them."

The 48-year-old Hoffman, governor from 1935 to 1938, was suspended March 18 and died before the state's charges were revealed. Meyner announced a 16-count report against him 10 days ago.

Hoffman's documents answered many of the charges, which he presumably learned about because of conferences between Meyner and Harry Green, who was acting as Hoffman's attorney.

One count said Hoffman entered into leases of property and construction of buildings without submitting contracts to the State House Commission or the director of purchase and property.

"There is nothing wrong, to the best of my knowledge, with the man. . . . I believe that it represents sound business."

Moreover Hoffman's letter said, when Meyner was a state senator and a practicing lawyer, he represented a group of people who wanted to construct division local office buildings.

Will Gather Sunday In Honor Of La Duse

By GILBERTO FORTI
MILAN (AP)—Great persons of the Italian stage will gather Sunday at a little northern Italian town to commemorate a tragedy 30 years ago in Pittsburgh, Pa.

It will be a sad occasion for those old enough to remember. Their meeting will honor the memory of Eleonora Duse, the great Italian actress.

She was 64 years old, but still at the height of her career when she went to Pittsburgh in 1924. She had many plans. She hoped her tour of the United States would earn her enough money to establish a new art theater in Italy.

Her death, of pneumonia on April 21, in the Schenley Hotel ended her plans, but her fame has not been forgotten.

A plaque was placed in the hotel. It says: "Eleonora Duse, world tragedian of the Italian theatre, in the glory of her immortal art, answered her last curtain in Pittsburgh, April 21, 1924."

She is buried in the village of Asolo, north of Venice, which "La Duse" chose as her home and called her "Isle of Silence." Insity professor.

After Delays By Red Tape, Refugee Relief Picks Up

By WARREN ROGERS JR.
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's refugee relief program of delay from security checks and red tape.

It took to disembark at New York today was the 10-member family of Jan Koetsier and 24 other immigrants traveling aboard the steamship Zuider Kruis from Rotterdam, Holland.

Yesterday saw the arrival of the largest shipload so far since the program was officially launched last Aug. 7: The S. S. Conte Biancamano, with 201 men, women and children from Italy seeking homes in the New World.

Until then, only 48 refugees had entered this country under the program, which calls for admission of 214,000 persons over and above

Order Check-Up On Tampering Of Vehicle Numbers

RALEIGH—The Motor Vehicles Department today issued a directive to its field agents to be on the lookout for cars and trucks being offered for sale with concealed or altered identification numbers.

Motor Vehicles Commissioner Edward Scheidt took steps to stop the practice of concealing identification numbers which some persons and firms are reported to be doing.

The practice stems from what has been called "car boot-legging," Scheidt said. Some firms reported selling used cars and representing them as new cars are allegedly concealing or altering the numbers to prevent identification.

Seven Convicted On Moral Counts In Photos Trial

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Seven persons, including two former Wilmington educators, were convicted on moral charges arising from lewd and obscene pictures activities.

Police had seized scores of photographs, some of which were found in possession of grade school children here. About 35 were introduced as evidence and 25 were ruled "obscene" by Judge Winfield Smith.

Those convicted included E. R. Blakeslee, former county supervisor of elementary education, who was fined $100 and costs and given a six-month suspended sentence.

Paul G. Wright, former Wilmington College professor, who was given a similar sentence. Others were John W. Loughlin, camera store operator; H. R. Russell and W. F. Depepe, all fined $100 and court costs, and Wanda Withers and Ann Chadwick, each fined $50 and costs.

Indecent exposure cases against Dorothy Milliken and Annie Leggett, were continued to July 7, because of illness.

Moral charges have been filed against T. D. Piner Jr., who has not been apprehended.

Judge Smith called some of the pictures "shocking" and "horrible." Wright and Blakeslee, he said, "Teacher should set an example for others to follow. . . . we are not going to allow these things."

"Nudity in itself is not obscene," replied defense attorneys, who contended the pictures were "art."

Smith overruled defense objections and allowed news photographers to take pictures. He said that if spectators are allowed in a courtroom to observe proceedings, photographers should be permitted to take pictures so others can "observe" through the newspapers.

Tobacco Field Day Scheduled Next Thursday

A tobacco field day will be held at the Lower Coastal Plain Research Farm next Thursday at 9 p. m. County Agent Sam Winchester announced to day.

Farmers who attend this meeting will have an opportunity to observe several harvesting machines in operation, results with high analysis fertilizer, topdressing, varieties, half damage, lime test, disease resistant varieties, and horn worm control test," Winchester indicated.

The farm agent urged all Pitt County farmers to attend the meeting. The research farm is located approximately two miles south of Greenville on the old Tar Road.

AND PEDESTRIANS? CASPER, Wyo. (AP)—Casper (pop. 23,673) isn't a cow town any more. Police don't want horses blocking traffic, and they've come up with a law to cover the situation.

The city's minimum speed law makes it a misdemeanor to travel on streets at less than 15 miles an hour. Police say that means horses, too.

Gastonian Plans Channel Swim

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP)—A former Gastonia fireman will leave for England Saturday for another crack at swimming the English Channel.

Bob Paysour, 26, was pulled from the Channel two years ago during his first attempt when his leg, which he had injured while training, troubled him. He had five of the 21 miles left to swim.

Paysour said here yesterday he will go to New York and fly from there to England. He plans to train at Folstone making his Channel attempt in the middle of August.

What's Going On In Guatemala?

The Guatemalan War is raising a great many questions in this country.

At the top of the list now is the twofold question: Is it actually a fighting war, or will it develop into one?

People in the United States have become accustomed to seeing revolutions and shifting governments within its neighbor nations to the South. As a usual thing, these are one-day or two day affairs in which a handful of leaders oust their opponents and take over the government.

In contrast to this familiar pattern, the Guatemalan revolution has now been going on for eight days. There has been no major battle, there has been no decisive action on either part, and none appears in the immediate future.

What, then, is this upheaval in Guatemala?

To be sure it is a conflict between the communist-tinged government in that country and the exiled adversaries of communism. But is it to be a real revolution, or merely a propaganda battle?

Reporters who are covering developments in Guatemala are having to do so from afar. Their information is mostly gleaned from propaganda issued by the opposing sides, or taken from fourth hand reports of people who supposedly know what the score is.

At best, it is only a haphazard account of what is going on, compared to the reports the American people have become used to in World War II and the Korean War when reporters were at headquarters and with the troops.

The Guatemalan government has clamped a tight censorship on information. The Rebel leaders, on the other hand, when they can be reached, apparently have little first hand information about what is happening to their own movement. Their communications, obviously are as poorly organized as the remainder of their movement seems to be.

The Guatemalan War, at best has become a confusing affair to the people of the United States who are anxious to know just what is happening in that vital spot in

A BETTER WORLD?

Three men in the past 100 years have, by their philosophies, changed the life of the world to an almost unbelievable degree.

The first of these men was Darwin. He changed human thinking with reference to creation, the development of the human species, and the development also of the world in which man lives. Some of Darwin's theories are pretty widely accepted; others are widely rejected. There are a lot of missing links. Evolution is still a theory. We should remember that it is a theory and not insist that it is a proved fact.

The second man who has turned the world upside down is Karl Marx. He has given us a whole new theory of the relation of man to the processes of production. He is the father of communism and socialism. He is the enemy of free enterprise. If Marx finally wins out we will have a new world; but few believe that we will have a better world.

The third person who has changed human thinking is Freud. He has justified sex obsession and, with theories which generally make the head swim, has found what he considers adequate answers to why people behave as they do. As the result of all this, he has given us new moral standards—and many do not think very highly of these standards.

Thus we live in a new world, so far as thought is concerned. But do we live in a better world?

Impartial Verdict Challenged

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—The impartiality of any Mundt Committee's verdict in the Army-McCarthy row has been challenged as a result of Senator Everett McKinley Dirksen's behind-the-scenes efforts to draft Ray H. Jenkins as an opponent of Senator Estes Kefauver in the Tennessee election next fall. Dirksen made no attempt to conceal his admiration of Senator McCarthy during the hearings.

Dirksen's role assumes extraordinary significance because he heads the Republicans' Senatorial Campaign Committee, which will direct the movement to increase the GOP's membership in that body.

Moreover, it was he who suggested the selection of Jenkins as Committee Counsel.

Jenkins denies that he subjected the McCarthy group—Roy Cohn, Frank Gary and other members of the McCarthy staff—to less harsh cross-examination than the 13-day grueling he administered to Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens and to John G. Adams, Army Counsel.

But Committee attaches and newspaper reporters, as well as the television audience, generally agree that Jenkins, an erstwhile Taft Republican, was unusually tender toward the McCarthy faction.

WOULD WELCOME KIND WORD FROM McCARTHY—Jenkins has compounded this political confusion with his recent admission that he would be glad to have Senator McCarthy's help if he should decide to run against another celebrated Senate investigator, "Detective" Kefauver. It is also understood that Committee Chairman Karl E. Mundt, who must face the voters in South Dakota next fall, will not be averse to a kind word from the anti-Communist crusader from Wisconsin.

Thus, although President Eisenhower, Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., and Sherman Adams, White House chief of staff, have condemned McCarthy indirectly in recent speeches and interviews, the politician responsible for helping to elect a Republican Senate next fall—Senator Dirksen—takes his stand alongside McCarthy.

the Western Hemisphere.

Maybe the clouds will lift in a few days. Or maybe we'll still be trying to shift particles of fact from the maze of rumors and propaganda several weeks from now.

New People Want To Come To Greenville

What are Greenville citizens willing to do to get 300 new residents who will have approximately $135,000 to spend locally from September through May?

Frankly, we are not sure; but during the next few weeks, the action of local citizens will give the answer.

For several weeks, East Carolina College has been appealing to Greenville homeowners to make rooms available for college students who want to come to school here in the fall. So far there has been little response to the appeal.

President John D. Messick of East Carolina says the college still has on hand applications for admission from 300 young women who want to attend college here next fall. All available space in the women's dormitories at the college long has been assigned.

Unless off-campus rooms are made available to these applicants, they will be unable to attend school here.

In addition to the 300 women whose applications have been received, there is almost an equal number of men who want to attend East Carolina College, but have been unable to find places in Greenville to live.

Perhaps Greenville citizens have overlooked what the average college student means to the city from an economic standpoint; disregarding for the moment the college itself and its economic importance.

A survey made by the Business Education Department of the college shows the average student at East Carolina spends approximately $50 per month in Greenville outside his campus expenses. In a nine-month college year, that means the average student spends about $450 with Greenville businesses.

Multiply that $450 by 300 women students who need rooms, in private homes for the term which begins this fall, and you get a potential of $135,000 which these additional students would mean to the businesses and people of Greenville.

Those residents of Greenville who can make rooms available for college students will be helping themselves, helping the students, helping the city, and helping the college.

The Reflector hopes rooms which are available in the city will be made known to college officials so these potential students will not have to be turned away from East Carolina College and Greenville.

CHISHOLM, MINN., FREE PRESS: "Suppose a half dozen of us are seated around the walls of a very dark room. We are told that somewhere in the open middle space is a chair. Who would find it? Not those of us who sat still and philosophized about where chairs are placed in rooms. The fellow who would locate it is the one who'd get up, then walk and stumble around until he discovered it. Nobody ever found anything while sitting down."

MUSIC TO INCREASE BUTTER BUYING—Secretary Ezra Taft Benson has been urged to enlist the musical assistance of 'Tin Pan Alley in his current campaign to get rid of the Government's huge hoard of unmarketable butter. The Salt Lake City Mormon would have suspected that he was being ribbed, if the proposal had not come in a formal letter from Albert Lowenfels, author of the nation's largest independent handlers of the product.

Lowenfels insists that even a further drop in price will not stimulate purchases. After a brief flurry, the April 1 reduction of about 10 cents did not induce the customers to buy more than their low normal amount. And the Commodity Credit Corporation is still buying or lending millions of dollars on surplus butter.

SONGS AS SELLERS—Lowenfels supports his suggestion with evidence that the musical dramatization of numerous products and ideas has popularized them and led to an increase in consumption, or to their adoption. From his letter, it appears that he has discussed the subject with prominent song writers, and that they are willing to co-operate. All he asks of Secretary Benson is that Uncle Sam sponsor the scheme.

According to Lowenfels, the United Fruit Company had one of its best markets after publication of the famous hit, "Chiquita Bananas," several years ago. Irving Caesar, who wrote "Tea for Two," was given a special citation by the Chinese tea interests because of the sipping he stimulated. The four people gave a similar award to Bob Merrill, the author of "If I Knew you were coming, I'd have baked a cake."

Somebody Told Me

Unmarried Men, Attention

Women: the greatest curiosity of the world! The purpose of this story is to prove that point to unmarried men. Married men already are convinced of it.

To be so close to my seventh wedding anniversary, it sometimes amazes me that I have escaped the divorce court. For example, here's what happened Saturday night:

I picked up the cleaning, which was a thick bag full. Then I proceeded to get in the dog house by operating a short-wave radio when I should have been preparing for an evening out. We had the baby sitter lined up and plans to meet friends.

About the time Wife Rachel had reached the boiling point she ripped open the cleaning bag to get the spotted dress that she had counted on wearing. Brother, did she hollar.

"The cleaners! They have lost my dress. And I don't have one other thing to wear tonight! Nothing! If we didn't already have the baby sitter I think I would stay home!"

Stupid as it was, I said to W.R., "I could have told you all the time that dress wasn't in the bag. They told me at the cleaners that it wasn't ready when I picked up the clothes."

"You knew!" she snorted. "You knew! And you didn't even tell me!"

So she reached into that closet which is packed to capacity with clothes ("I don't have a thing to wear!") and squeezed out a rag.

Still in a turmoil, we left for the Sile Grill. The waitress came up to the table and even before asking for our order said to Rachel, "My, that's a pretty dress you have on." I nearly fell out of the chair laughing. It was impressive, but you have to consider that the waitress is a saleswoman, interested in a tip and in selling the service of the restaurant.

But the climax came when another waitress, who was waiting on another table, came by, stopped, and commented on how pretty W.R.'s dress was!

Many moons will pass before I let W.R. forget that she's a magician. After all, from a closet that had absolutely nothing in it, she pulled out a dress that drew two compliments.

And I thank you. JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

SHOWING WHAT CAN BE DONE (Greensboro Daily News)

Report from Greenville that East Carolina College's new $900,000 Joyner Library is now being used to re-emphasize the growth of E.C.C. and the service which it is rendering the state.

One has to go no farther than a breakdown of its student body to see how Tar Heels, especially Eastern Carolina residents, predominate, and an analysis of its contribution to the teaching profession. The major role which the college is playing in the state's life has developed recently and is high compliment to the present administration which, as no one ignorant of what happened in other years has to be told, found the institution's situation anything but happy when it took over.

Using E.C.C. and its contribution as a jumping-off point, the Daily News would note that it is the only college in a wide area of Eastern North Carolina. In fact it and Atlantic Christian College at Wilson and Flora MacDonald at Red Springs will be the only generally accepted full-fledged colleges that we shall have east of Raleigh after Wake Forest's removal to Winston-Salem. The opportunities and responsibilities for these institutions are commensurate; their impact upon the state is considerable, although there is recognition that they mean most to the areas in which they are located. Their influence is direct and immediate and their facilities can be and are put to greater usage because of the heavy local enrollment, boys and girls who can stay at home and still utilize them.

In the Daily News thinking one of the factors entering into the low percentage of North Carolina high school graduates who go on to college is the concentration of our institutions of higher education. We need more colleges in North Carolina and we need them scattered throughout the state.

One of the surest ways to make education's influence more keenly felt and to get more boys and girls to attend college is to take higher education to them rather than compel them to go afar seeking it. The larger colleges and universities are necessary for certain facilities and personnel, with special reference to post-graduate work and research, but the role of the small college, and more of these colleges on the area or community level, cannot possibly be discounted in our thinking, our planning and our social and economic, as well as our educational advancement.

E.C.C. is showing what a college, in an otherwise unserved part of the state, not only should but can do.

More Vigorous Republican Campaign Expected This Fall

By LYNN NISBET
REPUBLICANS — Indications are the Republicans will wage a more vigorous general election campaign this fall than in any non-presidential year in half a century. Major efforts will be directed toward holding the 10th congressional district, capturing the 9th district and winning a seat in the United States Senate.

Republican candidate Charles Raper Jonas won the 10th district two years ago partly because of the weakness of his Democratic opponent and his own personal popularity, but largely as a result of the activities of Democrats for Eisenhower and the pulling power of the great general who headed the Republican national ticket. It was the first time a Republican has been elected to the Congress from North Carolina since Representative Jonas' father, Charles A. Jonas, won the seat in the Hoover landslide of 1928. All out efforts will be made this year to hold the seat.

Almost equal effort will be made to capture the 9th district, which has a large Republican voting strength but which could not be touched by any candidate of that party so long as the veteran and venerable Bob Dough-ton wanted to keep it. Little more than token effort was made to capture it two years ago, because Dough-ton did not announce his prospective retirement until after the Republican nominee had been virtually selected.

This year Democratic candidate Chesley Sedberry in the 10th district is not so well known as Republican incumbent Raper Jonas, and Republican candidate W. E. (Bill) Stevens in the 9th district is as well known as Democratic incumbent Hugh Alexander. That encourages Republicans to think—at least to wish and hope—they can take both districts in November. Prospects are that financial and other aid from the National Republican committee can be expected in both districts.

SENATE — It is doubted that the Republicans will nominate a candidate to oppose Senator Sam Ervin in the general election, but they will go to some lengths to help Paul West of Raleigh defeat Kerr Scott for the eastern berth in the U.S. Senate. Admittedly chances for winning in this race are substantially less than in the 9th and 10th congressional districts, and not very good in any case.

The situation is paradoxical, to say the least about it. Incumbent Alexander in the 9th and Candidate Sedberry in the 10th are and have been all along loyal voting supporters of the Democratic party, local, State and National. Neither could be described as an ardent New Dealer. In fact, in many respects they are more "conservative" than their Republican opponents.

On the other hand, Democratic nominee Kerr Scott is typical of the Roosevelt-Truman New-Deal Fair-Deal philosophy of government, while Republican nominee Paul West is typical of the Taft element in his party. This distinction is likely to be the main issue of the Senate race. Republican Senatorial Candidate West will paramour the Scott tie—in with the CI and ADA elements of the Democratic party in the hope of winning conservative Democratic votes—either full votes cast for him or half-votes achieved by some Democrats leaving off the senatorial bracket on the ballots.

Further paradox and anomaly in this connection is found in the widely publicized fact that during the recent registration period a lot of Republicans in the west changed their party affiliation in order to vote for Kerr Scott in the Democratic primary. How these changed-over primary voters will vote in November, or how many registered Republicans will vote for a Democratic Senator cannot be known, now or after the event.

FACTORS — North Carolina elections are mainly affected by two factors: The partisan label and the judicious use of money for organization and publicity. It seems obvious that when the conservative or anti-New-Deal Fair-Deal element in the Democratic party is added to the Republican vote (whether of Hoover or Dewey or Taft or Eisenhower contingents) a majority of North Carolinians adhere to the conservative line. Past elections also have proven, with possible exceptions noted of the Hoover vote in 1928 and the Eisenhower vote in 1952, preponderant majority of Tarheel voters stick by the Democratic party label.

With control of the next Congress in the balance, it is entirely probable—in fact it is expected—that the national committees will put money into North Carolina, particularly in the 9th and 10th congressional districts, and maybe in the senate race, in larger amounts than usual. How much money and how wisely it is spent may determine outcome of the election. One thing seems sure: Any amount of money from inside or outside the State designed to "buy votes" will be ineffective. Publicity and organization,

'Signing' Misused

"Signing" in large and small stores throughout the country is muddled, misused and misunderstood, Lee W. Court, Boston merchant, reported to the National Retail Dry Goods Association after an extensive study. Mr. Court, of course, referred to the use of signs in stores and not to the art of writing names on checks and correspondence.

His findings are worth attention here because they probably apply, in addition to department and dry goods stores, to many other types.

Mr. Court found a lack of care, planning and time allowed for the actual production of signs. Even worse, he discovered that not enough thinking goes into what a sign should say.

Point-of-purchase signs, he said, should tell customers what they want to know. Salespersons know what information shoppers want because they have questions fired at them all day long. And department heads know the answers to these questions, because they deal with manufacturers and sources of supply. Yet all too often a department head turns over to an assistant the assignment of writing the text for a sign, and the assistant goes blithely about the job without asking sales persons what shoppers ask, and without asking the department head for facts.

"There is need for an educational job to get buyers to think in terms of bringing out the things you cannot see, in anticipating customers' questions, and in developing those hidden selling points that so frequently sell an article better than the hackneyed arguments so often used," Mr. Court said.

The most important questions in a customer's mind, he added, are: Size? Price? Colors (if not obvious)? What is it made of?

Will it wash? Will it fade? What are its most important features? Has it any secondary use? What will it do for me? Who made it? What can I wear with it? Has it any handmade features? Is it specially priced?

A book, not a sign, would be required to answer all those questions, but the Boston merchant suggests using signs that will answer those that do the most toward making sales.

MINIATURE PLASTIC AUTOS LACK A THIRD DIMENSION

The promoters who advertised "rubber animals" that turned out to be balloons and "beautiful Christmas tree ornaments" that were only printed cardboard cut-outs now have a new deal, the St. Louis Better Business Bureau is warning. Now they are offering "old-time cars—fully colored miniature replicas in genuine plastic." The price is $1 for 14 miniatures, three feet of them when stood wheel to wheel in a row, and only three collections to a customer.

For his buck the customer gets—if he gets anything at all—a 5-by-12 inch sheet of paper-thin plastic on which are printed pictures of 14 cars, the BBB reports. A rough outline has been stamped around each car to make it a cutout.

FLAVOR FROM TEST TUBES

Things look worse for the butter industry. An imitation butter flavor that meets all Federal requirements has been developed by (Dodge & Olcott), a New York maker of essences. It can be added to margarine.

Meanwhile, the Manchester (England) College of Technology is working on a method to obtain fats from mold that is cultivated in industrial molasses. One fat has the consistency of butter; another is a golden liquid that smells like olive oil.

J. Fred Muggs, TV Ambassador

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—J. Fred Muggs, America's only incorporated actor, is set to make a flying trip around the world that will mark a new milestone in the air age.

The celebrated chimpanzee will become the first television star in history to girdle the globe by airplane while still in diapers. Neither J. Milton Berle nor J. Arthur Godfrey can make this claim.

Over at NBC, where Muggs has become at the age of 2 a veteran news commentator as co-star on J. Dave Garroway's "Today" show, J. Fred's journey is being accorded more respect than J. Christopher Columbus' first voyage.

"The other day 20 people attended a conference to iron out the details," said a network man with a note of awe. "Muggs listened for a while, then stretched out in the leather seat of an executive's chair and fell sound asleep. He has tremendous self-possession."

Muggs, who is traveling as a goodwill ambassador for the U.S. television industry, is bound to be the most popular American tourist of the year for a very simple reason. He doesn't speak English.

Flying via Pan American World Airways, he will hit such key cities as Paris, Rome, Cairo, Hong Kong, Tokyo and Mexico City.

But the trip also holds a sentimental interest for him as he will revisit Africa, where he was born in poverty some 27 months ago.

Today, just 18 months after Muggs entered television, he has become the wealthiest simian alive. He earns $450 a week, has 300 suits, gets hundreds of fan letters each week, owns 4-inch-square ranches in Texas and Florida, and is incorporated under the name of J. Fred Muggs Enterprises. He has also judged several beauty contests, and is an admiral in the Nebraska navy. He has endorsed everything except a tractor.

Wearing a beret and dark glasses, Muggs will take in his entourage his secretary and Girl Friday, J. Mary Kelly; a cameraman, and his two young owners, J. Roy Waldron and J. Bud Mennella.

I went along with the chimp the other day to a children's store to watch him pick out some new clothing for the journey—a cut-away with morning trousers and pearl gray vest; a white gabardine suit; a red, white and blue bathing suit.

But it is an open secret in the TV industry that underneath his fancy garb J. Fred still wears diapers. It takes time to house-break a TV commentator.

"We have arranged for a veterinarian to check J. Fred's health at each stop," said Mennella. "But what is worrying me is laundry service. Muggs needs 12 changes a day, and I don't know whether any airplane can haul all those diapers."

"In Africa I hope I can find a stand-in for Muggs. He has to make so many personal appearances now I don't know how much longer he can stand up under the strain. Television is very hard on any performer's nerves."

Mrs. Kelly already views the African stopover with dismay. She is fearful Muggs will go native, rip off his store clothes and disappear into the bush.

"We certainly have no romance in mind for him," she said firmly. "We definitely are not going to let him associate with any other chimpanzees."

"He's getting girl-crazy already. He likes to put his arms around them and hug and kiss them." During his stay in the store Muggs tore down a rack of hats, broke a dummy head on the floor and jumped up and down in glee. Finally, he playfully refused to put his feet into a pair of overalls held out by Mennella. "Quit being so silly, Muggs," said Mennella, impatiently. "You are getting so little act like a child." Poor little rich chimp!

VOTE FOR S. A. WHITEHURST FOR SHERIFF SATURDAY, JUNE 26

It was my misfortune in 1938 to be forced to resign from the office of Sheriff of Pitt County. My resignation came after being elected by a landslide majority to serve my seventh term as Sheriff. It was my privilege to serve the citizens of this county as a law enforcement officer for over 18 years, 12 years of this time as Sheriff of this county.

Realizing that certain accusations and distorted questions directed at me through the medium of unsigned advertisements in this newspaper had very probably influenced many people who were not residents of this county in the years that I served as Sheriff, and many of the younger people, I decided to bring out into the open the true reason for my resignation.

The people of this county honored me by re-electing me as their sheriff at each election. My political enemies could not defeat me at the polls. As a last resort they brought into the county one A. STORY BATSON, an ex convict, to gather so-called "evidence" against me, and the office of Sheriff. I have published a memorandum from Official North Carolina Records giving a true picture of just what kind of a man A. STORY BATSON was. Described by the court as a common barrator, a person who is perpetually endeavoring to stir up strifes, quarrels, and suits among people, and is a common nuisance of all the people, this A. STORY BATSON brought into this county hired help of his calibre, and Court Proceedings of this county show that hired witnesses admitted to such on the stand, and that Grand Juries refused to bring an indictment. Records also show that an attempt was made to "hand pick" a Grand Jury that would bring an indictment against me, which indictment was squashed. I have published reports of all Grand Juries from 1928 to 1937, each of which returned a favorable report on the conduct of my office.

While Sheriff of this county I was never guilty of one dishonest act. I was never convicted of any crime by a jury of my fellowmen, and resigned from office under force because I was financially unable to continue my fight through the Supreme Court. I would deem it an humble privilege to be allowed to serve again as Sheriff of this county.

I invite the newcomers and younger people of our county again to consult with older residents concerning my tenure as Sheriff of this county. Ask them just what kind of Sheriff Sam Whitehurst was. County Law Enforcement is an important responsibility requiring constant supervision by qualified officers. The rights and property of our citizens must be protected.

During my 12 years as Sheriff I made constant trips throughout the county, and had my deputies do the same thing. We tried to break up the breeding places of crime in every community. I have always felt that it is better to prevent a crime than to solve it after the damage is done.

As I have said before my duties included at that time the keeping of the jail, feeding the prisoners, and the collection of taxes. My budget, however, was smaller than that of today.

Mr. J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said recently that "the campaign against crime depends as much upon the County Sheriff as upon the police of the largest city." If elected your Sheriff I promise you, the people of Pitt County, a strong and efficient Sheriff's Department for your protection.

Now keeping in mind what I have just said, if you voters of Pitt County see fit to place the great responsibility of the Office of Sheriff in my hands on June 26th (and I firmly believe you will), the following things you can expect me to do. THIS IS MY PLATFORM:

FIRST, What will be the primary objectives of the Office of Sheriff?

1. To rehabilitate, and thereby eliminate, youthful and adult offenders or delinquents rather than merely to sit, talk about the problem, and do virtually nothing.
2. To cooperate faithfully, conscientiously, and efficiently with all local, municipal, state, and federal law-enforcing agencies in order to make it possible to achieve the rehabilitation and elimination of crime in Pitt County.
3. To lay the foundations for a strong, highly efficient, and highly regarded county-wide police system.
4. To help make Pitt County a safer and healthier place in which to live.

SECOND, How will the Office of Sheriff be operated?

1. Strict business will be the order of the day—EVERY DAY.
2. The office will be open to the public constantly, with EVERY citizen of Pitt County receiving a warm welcome. After all, the Office of Sheriff is the people's office—the office entrusted with the responsibility of helping to keep Pitt County and Pitt Countians safe and free and happy.
3. One of the greatest obstacles to the creation of an efficient county-wide police system is the local politics in which the police throughout most of the country are enmeshed. Here, a barbed-wire entanglement of various factors confronts the man who has the responsibility of law enforcement on his shoulders. There is a maze of politics from top to bottom in many instances, and this political infection has resulted in a lack of the cooperation between the police and the public which is essential to the success of police agencies under democratic institutions in general, and county-wide police agencies in particular. THEREFORE, POLITICS IN THE OFFICE OF SHERIFF AMONG ANY OF ITS PERSONNEL WILL BE POSITIVELY FORBIDDEN.
4. The personnel of the Office of Sheriff will be trained while in-service by means of personal cooperation with numerous FBI Schools, the county, state, and federal law enforcement schools conducted periodically at the University of North Carolina, and any other means by which the personnel of the Office of Sheriff might be improved.

THIRD, What qualifications will be required of the personnel of the Office of Sheriff?

1. The character of each employee must be unimpeachable.
2. The persons employed in the Sheriff's office must be able to prove beyond a doubt that they possess the proper aptitude toward the job of law enforcement.
3. Each employee of the Office of Sheriff must possess a personality that wins the confidence and trust of all citizens.
4. Each employee of the Office of Sheriff must be sincere and conscientious in the administration or carrying out of his duties.
5. Each employee of the Office of Sheriff must have a true desire to HELP people—not hurt them—in order to make it possible to eliminate juvenile and adult delinquents.
6. Each employee of the Office of Sheriff must be an inveterate worker, because laziness or unwillingness to work for the best interests of all the citizens of Pitt County and North Carolina will not be tolerated.

Regardless of the outcome of this election I want to take this opportunity to thank my many friends and supporters for your support and vote. I urge each qualified voter to go to the polls on Saturday and vote for the candidates of your choice. I will sincerely appreciate every vote cast for me.

after Leonard Johnson had singled and Mac McDowell had reached on an error. The score was 2-0 at the time but Home Builders rallied for two runs in their half of the fourth to further accentuate the clutch timing of Ayers' hit.

Johnson gave up only five hits to the Builders to get his second victory in as many nights. Wednesday night, he pitched the Dairies to an 11-1 victory in the league's annual All-Star game. Monday night, he had won for the Dairies over Garner-Wynne-Manning.

Johnson and Bobby Perry paced Carolina's six-hit attack with two singles apiece. Doug Morgan and Paul Jones got two apiece for the Builders.

Carolina Dairies held onto its lead in the Recreation Softball League by defeating Home Builders 4-2 last night but the champions received a new threat to their position at the head of the list.

Southern Bread, not an overly-impressive team in the first half of the season, won its second straight game by outlasting National Guard 7-13 in the first game of the double-header at Guy Smith Stadium.

Both Carolina and Southern have 2-0 records for the second half of the season. Only one other team, Graniteers, is undefeated in the second half of play. The Graniteers put their 1-0 record on the line tonight against Garner-Wynne-Manning.

In last night's games, two-run rallies won for both teams. In the opener, it was a seventh-inning rally for Southern Bread that was started by consecutive singles by Billy McRoy, Skee Wysokowski, James McRoy, and Hugh Hardee. The singles netted one run and a sacrifice fly by James Hardee accounted for the other.

All but one of the players who saw action for Southern Bread hit safely in the game. Wysokowski, J. McRoy, H. Hardee and Carawan had three hits apiece to pace the attack. B. McRoy, McKinney and Hirtz had two hits apiece.

The Guard got only six hits off two Southern pitchers but used every single opportunity they had for scoring runs. Frank Redmond and Bill Riggins had two hits apiece to pace the Guard.

Ayers Doubles
In the nightcap, a ringing two-run double by Gene Ayers accounted for Carolina Dairies' winning run. They came in the fourth inning

Big Merrill Bynum of the Elks pitched the second no-hit, no-run ball game in the last three days yesterday afternoon when he shut the Exchange out without a base hit over the full six innings.

Although the base hits were rare on the Exchange side of the field the Elks had plenty stacked up inside their bats as they exploded for 13 runs on 13 hits.

Bynum fired the ball past nine Exchange batters on the third strike as he pitched his masterpiece. Although he was plagued by wildness, Bynum walked six, the Elks' pitching ace came through in the clutch to retire the side before any runs came across.

The Exchange threatened to score on Bynum in only the fifth inning. In that frame the Exchange put runners on second and third with only one out. A grounder got one runner at the plate and the other runner was out trying to score on a wild pitch.

The Elks now are tied with the Pepsi-Cola for first place in the Tar Heel League. The Moose and the Exchange both have lost two and are tied for last.

Joe Moye, Merrill Bynum and Rick Sauer led the hitting for the Elks with three hits each.

This afternoon the last place Kiwanis and the third place V.F.W. came away in a North State League game at 5 o'clock.

HADDIX WAS THE FIRST 2-0 LEAGUE TO POST TEN VICTORIES THIS SEASON

Farmville Readies First Annual Sports Carnival

FARMVILLE—The First Annual Sports Carnival will be held here July 5, local Junior Chamber of Commerce President Harold Rouse said today.

Rouse said the event, sponsored by the Jaycees, will include a tennis tournament, swimming meet, golf tournament, a baseball game, and "old fashion round and square dance that night" to cap off the evening.

Rouse stated that the tennis tournament will include eight doubles teams and be conducted as a tournament type playoff. He indicated that anyone in this section is eligible to enter the tennis tournament by sending in an entry blank which may be obtained in Farmville.

"There will be some good tennis players participating," Rouse stated.

He noted that about half enough tennis players have already been obtained for the matches.

The Jaycee president indicated that entries are welcomed for the event.

"We prefer that they come as teams," he said, "but if a single man enters we will try to line up a partner for him."

During the afternoon a golf tournament is scheduled to be held with entries from various towns in this area.

Rouse indicated that entries in the golf tournament have been slow so far, but he believes they will pick up as soon as people make their plans for the holiday weekend.

In the afternoon baseball game, Rouse noted, a Farmville Little League or Pony League team will play a second team from some nearby town.

The president stated that prizes and trophies will be given to the winners of the various contests.

The dance that night will begin at 9 p.m. and continue until one o'clock. Music is to be furnished by the cast of the Golden Weed Jamboree show of Television Station WNCN.

Regains Lead

CHICAGO (AP)—Ted Kluszewski, Cincinnati slugger, regained first place today in the balloting for National League first basemen in the All-Star baseball poll.

The voting to select 16 starting players in the 21st All-Star inter-league game in Cleveland July 13 opened on June 11. It will close at midnight July 3.

Kluszewski, winner at the first base position and the highest individual vote-getter last year, moved ahead of Gil Hodges of Brooklyn in the latest compilation of returns. Kluszewski now has 134,518 to 132,469 for Hodges.

Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinals right fielder, still leads as the poll's highest individual vote-getter. He has been named on 151,203 ballots. Minnie Minoso, Chicago White Sox left fielder, is runnerup with 146,304 votes, followed by New York Yankee catcher, Larry Berkman, who has 144,738.

Honus Wagner led the National League in hitting eight times. This is a league record.

Redmen Win PONY Flag As Bright Leafs Win, 8-1

The Bright Leafs helped the Redmen win the first half of the PONY League championship last night when they upset the National Guard by an 8-1 score to knock the Guard out of the race.

The Redmen now have a 6-2 record and the National Guard has a 5-4 mark. Regardless who wins the Redmen-Fordomatics game tonight the Redmen will finish in the top position of the first half.

Ralph Johnson pitched his finest performance of the year for the Bright Leafs, setting down the Guard with only one run and three hits. Johnson walked five batters and fanned six in the contest.

The two teams battled scorelessly for the first two innings, but the Bright Leafs soon broke the ice in the third. Big Bobby Edwards led off and was hit. The fleet-footed fielding phenom pilfered second and came home when Peanut Nunn powdered a two-bagger between the outer reaches of the PONY field fences. Nunn scored seconds later when Raymond Bullock belted a line single.

In the second inning the Bright Leafs jumped on Bobby Pridmore for two more runs before he was removed from the ball game. In both the sixth and seventh innings the power-packed punchers pushed across two runs to give them their eighth run.

Johnson pitched shut-out ball for five innings but the Guard touched him for a single run in the sixth to ruin his shutout.

Bobby Edwards, the Bright Leaf better, smashed out three hits in four trips to lead the hitting for the night. Edwards bounced two ground rule doubles out of the park.

Tonight at 7:45 the Redmen and the Fordomatics end the play in the first half.

Braves' Winter Dream Deal Turning In Big Nightmare

By BEN PHILEGAR
AP SPORTS WRITER

The "dream" deal of the winter is proving nothing but a summer nightmare to the Milwaukee Braves.

By now the Braves' officials reach for the aspirin bottle automatically whenever they are forced to remember how much they gave for so little.

Johnny Antonelli, Don Liddle, Ebbas St. Claire, Billy Klaus and cash were parcelled off to the New York Giants for Bobby Thomson and Sam Calderone.

This was supposed to be the trade that could take the pennant away from Brooklyn. It may succeed—but for the Giants instead of Milwaukee as freely predicted.

It's difficult to believe now that many experts hailed this as an even swap. The experts, of course, didn't know Thomson was going to break his ankle in spring training.

But even with Thomson in shape it is questionable that the deal would have seemed as good on the diamond as it did on paper.

For the Giants Antonelli has won nine games. Liddle has won two. St. Claire is catching at Minneapolis where Klaus is playing second base and hitting over .300.

For Milwaukee, Thomson has been hurt since March 13. He will be out another month at least. Calderone lost the second string catcher's job to rookie Charley White and has played just one full game and parts of nine others, in 14 times at bat he has 5 hits for a .357 average.

Moreover Antonelli has beaten the Braves three times in three tries. Liddle pushed them into fourth place yesterday with a sparkling 4-hit 2-1 victory.

Liddle's masterful performance kept the Giants one game ahead of the Dodgers who beat Cincinnati 9-6. St. Louis trimmed Pittsburgh 5-1 and Philadelphia shaded Chicago 2 in 11 innings.

Cleveland saw its American League lead shrink to two games over the Chicago White Sox. The Indians lost to Philadelphia 5-2. Chicago defeated Washington 5-1. Third place New York moved within four games of the leaders with a 11-2 walk at Detroit. Boston and Baltimore were scheduled

Help Coming

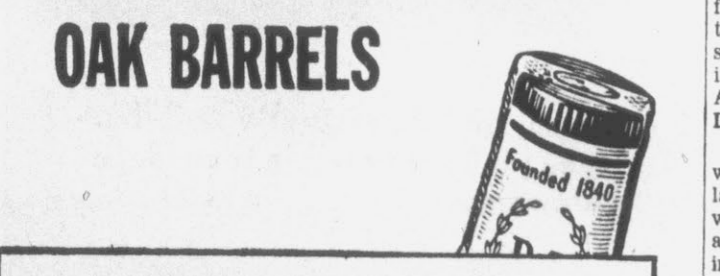

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Righthander Bill Upton was on his way from Ottawa today to take the place of ailing Bobby Shantz on the mound staff of the Philadelphia Athletics.

The Athletics placed their sore arm southpaw on the disabled list yesterday after Dr. George Bennett of Johns Hopkins University said Shantz pitching arm needs at least three more weeks of rest.

And the physician indicated the American League's most valuable player of 1952 would be lucky if he ever pitches again.

Santee & Dwyer In Feature Race

CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C. (AP)—The annual Inter-Service track and field championships opening here this afternoon have assumed added stature with the meeting tomorrow in the mile run of Wes Santee, America's No. 1 miler, and Fred Dwyer, one of his top challengers.

Marine and Navy champions were determined in a meet here last week while the Army titles were settled at Ft. Devens, Mass., and the Air Force winners crowned in a meet at Rome, N.Y. Nineteen events, eight finals today, will be run off, but tomorrow's Santee-Dwyer meeting is the one attracting the most attention.

Santee, who has done 4:00.6 and 4:00.7 in his bid to become the first American to run a four-minute mile, set a Marine record of 4:07 in breezing to victory here last week. Meanwhile, Dwyer the former Villanova College star breezed to a 4:16.9 mile to win the Army title last week and two nights later at St. Louis won the National AAU crown in 4:08.5. His top effort in a victory-studded career was 4:07.

Meet officials are looking for Dwyer to push Santee to new heights in what shapes up as the Kansan's roughest assignment of the season.

Santee faces another tough customer in tomorrow's 880-yard run. Henry Cryer, of Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., set a National AAU 880 record of 1:51.3 in the trials last week, only to have Mal Whitfield erase it in the finals the next night. Santee set a Marine record of 1:52.3, also last week.

Dodgers Lose 18-2 In Coastal Play

The bigger they come, the harder they fall.

That old thought was proved to a degree last night at South Greenville Park when previously undefeated Tobacco Board of Trade Dodgers were dropped 18-2 by the Ficklen Giants. The loss was the first of the season for the Dodgers. They had won four in a row before last night.

The victory was only the second for the Giants. They have lost four games and were in a tie for third place in the Coastal League standings before last night. A crowd of 850 fans saw them break the tie last night.

Brown and Wilkes collected three hits apiece to pace the Giants. Newton had two hits.

D Cummings was the only Dodger to get more than one hit off the three Giants' hurlers.

The Dodgers and the Braves will play tonight at 8:30. The game was originally scheduled for June 17 but was rained out on that date.

Pat Preston Is Picked By Deacs

WAKE FOREST, N. C. (AP)—Pat Preston, Wake Forest College football end coach, has been recommended as the college's new director of athletics and physical education.

Preston's selection, voted unanimously by a special committee last night, is subject to a poll of the college's Board of Trustees.

He will succeed James H. Weaver, who resigned to become commissioner of the Atlantic Coast Conference. Weaver is expected to open his new office in Greensboro July 1.

Preston, 33, did not seek the job. He accepted it as "a signal honor." He added, "Carrying on where Jim Weaver left off is a big task but I will do my best."

Preston is regarded as one of the star football players in Wake Forest history. He played with the Demon Deacons for three seasons, 1940-42. He joined the college's coaching staff in 1951.

He played for one year at Duke under the Marine V-12 program, and played professional football with the Chicago Bears for three seasons.

Important Match Coming Up Today

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—The first important American-Australian singles clash of the Wimbledon tennis tournament comes up today and for those seated close enough it should sound almost like a debate.

Gil Shea of Los Angeles, with a sunburned face and close cropped blond hair, goes against Rex Hartwig, ranked fourth from Down Under.

Shea is listed 19th in the U. S. Lawn Tennis Assn. rankings and enters this match as the underdog.

When he nets a key point or sends drives flying beyond the baseline, Shea occasionally will mutter a few words to himself. But he is monosyllabic compared with Hartwig. The Aussie keeps shouting to himself "careful now. Don't do that. Watch for a lob. I'll have to stop over-hitting."

Today's program gives the four big trunts of the tournament—Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, and Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall of Australia, the day off in the men's singles division.

Trabert and Seixas take on Britain's Roger Decker and Tony Pickard in the doubles. Hoad and Rosewall go against the Swedish pair of Lennart Bergelin and Sven Davidson.

Unseeded Philippe Washer of Belgium produced the first big surprise when he eliminated Art Larsen, San Leandro, Calif., 10-12, 7-5, 6-2, 9-7 yesterday.

Unwed Mothers Reported Increasing; 'Sex Hysteria'

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE AP SCIENCE REPORTER SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The number of unwed mothers is increasing—especially among teen-agers or upper class girls—and a "sex hysteria" in American society is partly to blame, a physician said yesterday. Many influences are at work producing "an emotional shambles which fosters many of the deviations and denatured biological trends which are common among our young folks," Dr. Goodrich C. Schaffer of Portland, Ore., told the American Medical Assn. He urged physicians to "go beyond the ordinary call" of duty to help these girls. He said he had seen "too many impressively happy endings" to think these matters cannot be "decisively handled—many of them by the physician." Having their babies may "turn

Diversification Profitable For Small Farmers

Pitt County Negro Farm Agent James M. Goode today pointed out William Smith, farmer of the Silver community, as an outstanding example of what a small farmer may do by diversified farming methods. The county agent last September advised Smith and several other farmers to breed sows to farrow late in the fall of the year in order to be sold on the July-August market. Smith was quoted as saying that he believed the July-August market would be on the decline and he planned to sell his hogs in June. On last November 28, four of Smith's brood sows farrowed 34 pigs. The 34 pigs were grown out by April 1 of this year to an average 95 pounds each and with little expense. At this point in the project, Smith started a dry lot feeding demonstration, placing emphasis on marketing grain through hogs instead of selling grain for cash. From April 1 to June of this year, Smith carefully topped his hogs. Believing that the market price would decline, he sold the 34 hogs, weighing 4,775 pounds, for $1,213.82. Twenty-two hogs sold for $25 per hundred, eight for $26 per hundred, and four for $25.50 per hundred pounds.

Dictionary Used, Re-Trial Sought

1a12 sessibyl je440aed 25 RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Four Richmonders, convicted in Federal District Court here last week on liquor violation charges, have asked for a new trial—on grounds the jury used a dictionary without authorization. In separate motions for a new trial yesterday, the four—Paul Inman, Stewart E. Ragland, Junius Garlick and Thomas P. Miles—charged the jury that convicted them was permitted to see a dictionary during its deliberations without permission of the court or defense counsel. Judge Sterling Hutcheson was told soon after the guilty verdict was rendered that the jurors used the dictionary to learn the definition of "conspiracy." One tiny species of beetle lives on a diet of cayenne pepper.

The Pitt county Negro farm agent listed the following as Smith's expenses in the project: Commissions, $5.30; vaccinations, $11; 200 bushels of home grown corn valued at $1.40 per bushel, or $280, and one and one-half tone of 40 per cent protein supplement feed, $120, for a total expense of $416.30. After subtracting expenses, Smith found that he netted $797.52 on the project. "Smith already has started 32 pigs that were born May 1 in another demonstration project, but this time pasture feeding will be included. This should give him a higher net income if prices hold steady," Goode stated. The average length of life for Americans has reached a record high of 68.5 years, an increase of nearly four years in the last decade.

Scientists Say Venus May Have Carbonated Sea

By FRANK CAREY AP Science Reporter ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—If and when any space navigators ever reach the planet Venus, they'd better be equipped with rowboats—because two Harvard astronomers today offered a new theory that "an ocean of water completely covers the planet." And, presumably, the spaceship itself would have to be equipped with parking pontoons—or at least an outboard motor. But take heart you would-be spacemen. The astronomers said it may be an ocean of "carbonated" water—not too bad for a sociable Scotch and soda as you pull on the oars. "Because of the large amount of carbon dioxide in the Venusian atmosphere, the ocean would probably consist of seltzer water, although I daresay it would be rather flat," Dr. Donald Menzel smilingly told a reporter. He and Dr. Fred Whipple presented a joint report on the subject to the annual meeting of the American Astronomical Society, convened at the University of Michigan. Their concept differs sharply from a common one that Venus is an arid desert with little or no water, and where the temperature may be more than hot enough to boil water anyway. The scientists offered a series of arguments against a common concept that the thick bank of clouds that entirely envelops the planet consists of dust—not of water as do the earth's clouds. Bulwark of the older concept was that there is no evidence of water

In the spectrum of Venus' light as studied on Earth. But Menzel and Whipple said another astronomer has recently found that the atmosphere above the Venusian clouds is too cold to hold any appreciable water vapor and this fact, they added, may explain the failure to find water in the Venus spectrum—without ruling out the possibility of there being water in the clouds themselves. Saying that this satisfies them that the Venusian clouds are waterlogged, the astronomers declared it must follow that the planet itself has a lot of water.

Public Watched Operation That Prolonged Life

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Pamela Schmidt, well and happy once more, tonight was more interested in her fifth birthday, coming July 9 than in the fact she was the subject of a heart operation shown on millions of the nation's television screens. "She's playing just like any other little girl," said her mother, Mrs. Ronald Schmidt, last night. "But we can hardly believe that last year about this time she was given only six months to a year to live. After a checkup the doctors are making shortly after the first of the month, they expect all restrictions on her activities will be lifted. "That's why Pamela is so happy because she can ride her tricycle again for her birthday."

Weak, Half-Blind, Fearful Old Man Is France's Puppet

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst
CASA BLANCA, Morocco (AP)—He is the sultan of the realm of Morocco, but he is a weak, half blind old man living in fear in his palace at Rabat.

Sultan Moulay Mohammed Ben Arafa is a reluctant ruler, brought to the throne as a puppet of the French. Few in Morocco recognize him as either a spiritual leader or a sovereign.

His story is a symptom of the ailments that plague the French empire. The political pattern of Indochina is taking shape once again. Morocco is smoldering. The situation may not be so immediately critical as that of France's other North African protectorate, Tunisia, but the elements of a civil war are in the air.

Prime Minister Churchill and a master Oriental-style politician, fears for his life. He too, sulks in his palace.

Bombs defiled the Marrakech mosques, once in an attack on the Glaoui and once in an attack on visiting Sultan Ben Arafa. The Glaoui demonstrated what he would do if the French would let him meet the situation Moorish style.

To understand the story of the sultans, you have to go back to 1912. The French were establishing their authority in Morocco. Hadj Thami el Glaoui Mezaoui, Pasha of Marrakech and ruler of the Berber tribesmen, threw in his lot with the French.

500 strong but extremely active, imported Moscow propaganda much of it slanted against Americans and the U. S. air bases.

The French have brought in a new civilian resident general, Francis Lacoste, a Harvard-educated career diplomat. He told me: "Police action alone will not work. I come to Morocco in a spirit of love. Serving France and serving Morocco will be the same thing to me."

Lacoste faces a tough job. If he cannot make concessions, extremists will exploit that and the situation will worsen. The French say their prestige will not permit the return of Sidi Mohammed, the raging issue today. That is a bridge burned.

Judgment Comes to Israel

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—II Kings 17.

When Hoshea became king of Israel, the king of Assyria came against him and Hoshea became his servant and gave him presents. Hoshea, however, conspired with the king of Egypt and sent no present to the Assyrian, so the king put him in prison.

The king of Assyria, Shalmaneser, then came up throughout all the land and went up to Samaria and besieged it for three years. After that he carried all the children of Israel into captivity, as Jehovah had threatened if they continued in evil.

But the children of Israel secretly built in high places in all their cities and set them up images and groves in every high hill, and under every green tree, and burnt sacrifices to heathen gods, forgetting Jehovah who brought them out of Egypt.

"Yet the Lord testified against Israel and against Judah by all the prophets and by all the seers, saying, Turn ye from your evil ways and keep My commandments and My statutes according to the law."

MEMORY VERSE—Hoshea 14:9.

JUDGMENT COMES TO ISRAEL

NOT HEEDING THE PROPHETS' WARNINGS, THE PEOPLE ARE CARRIED INTO CAPTIVITY

Scripture—II Kings 17.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

WE HAVE been studying about the warnings of the prophets, Amos and Hosea, to the people of the northern kingdom of Israel that punishment was sure to follow their disobedience to the commandments of Jehovah, their God. Jehovah had led them safely out of their bondage in Egypt, had given them the Promised Land and made them prosperous.

In spite of these warnings, the people turned from their benefactor and became worshipers of heathen gods, burning sacrifices to them and indulging in pagan rites. Today we learn how they were punished.

We, too, of this generation are plagued by crime waves, juvenile delinquency, corruption in high places and in low, many forgetting how we too have been blessed by God and should put away our sins and live righteously, worshipping the Father of us all.

It is also fresh in our minds that the 10 tribes had rebelled against the rule of Solomon's son, Rehoboam, and separated themselves from the other two which became the kingdom of Judah.

ways, and keep My commandments and My statutes, according to all the law which I commanded your fathers, and which I sent to you by My servants the prophets.

"Notwithstanding they would not hear, but hardened their necks, like to the neck of their fathers, that did not believe in the Lord their God."

"And they caused their sons and their daughters to pass through the fire, and used divination and enchantments, and sold themselves to do evil in the sight of the Lord, to provoke Him to anger.

"Therefore the Lord was very angry with Israel, and removed them out of His sight; there was none left but the tribe of Judah only."

The Israelites must have felt some shame at their unfaithfulness and idolatry, for they built their figures of Baal and performed their pagan rites "secretly," in high places, forgetting that they could hide nothing from the all-seeing eyes of the Almighty.

The Assyrian king took men while the 10 tribes were called the Northern Kingdom or Israel.

Judah too, was disobedient to God, but they were not punished until 140 years later. The events in today's lesson may be dated 724-721 B.C. Hoshea was king of Israel. Shalmaneser, king of Assyria, "came up against Israel and Hoshea became his servant, giving him presents."

However, Hoshea rebelled against this servitude and appealed to the king of Egypt for help against the Assyrian ruler. Shalmaneser heard of it and he "came up throughout all the land, and went up to Samaria (the capital of Israel) and besieged it for three years until the beautiful, strongly-fortified city fell.

All the most able Israelites were carried away into Assyria and placed in its foreign cities. Taken away from their own land in captivity, did the Israelites then turn to their God and pray for a Messiah to lead them home? We do not know. It is probable.

"Yet the Lord testified against Israel, and against Judah, by all the prophets, and by all the seers, saying, Turn ye from your evil from his country and placed them in the various cities of Samaria, and they "feared not the Lord," so lions were sent among them and they slew some.

The king of Assyria then sent one of Israel's priests to convert the Assyrians, but he failed. "They feared the Lord, and served their own gods."

"For the children of Israel walked in all the sins of Jeroboam which he did; they departed not from them;

"Until the Lord removed Israel out of His sight as He had said by all His servants the prophets. So was Israel carried away out of their own land to Assyria until this day."

How can we convince our people that true happiness and prosperity only come from right living, by fearing God and doing His commandments?

We have many displaced persons in our country, people who came not because of their own sins but because they were oppressed by evil conquerors in their own lands. We can show our Christian spirit by being extra kind to them and helping them to adjust to our ways.

New Living Habits And Business Ways In U.S.

By SAM DAWSON NEW YORK (AP) — The look of America is changing. And with it are coming new business ways, new living habits.

Today New York State is opening the first stretch of its big new thruway. Like those in other states, the expressway already is drawing new shopping centers to its sides, luring new factories to nearby sites.

Cities are changing too, as well as the countryside. And the slowdown in other forms of business activity isn't putting any damper on this trend—neither in the shifting of population from region to region, from cities to suburbs nor in the new ways of working and living that the big change is bringing about.

Cities are ripping out old streets, putting in new expressways. Some of the cow-path streets of Boston, for example, are being replaced with a six-lane highway to carry downtown workers to outlying residential areas.

Seattle is building an elevated highway along its waterfront. Pittsburgh is boring a new expressway into its downtown area, and planning to move a railroad station and rail line out of its way, and tunnel through a mountain. Brooklyn this week opened a three-lane expressway to bypass a traffic jam around the business district.

The parking problem finds a number of cities building municipal garages—some under their parks, others rising several stories into the air in sidleless structures.

Centralization and decentralization are going on hand in hand—new ways of saving space, new ways of spreading out. There's a spurt of erecting new-style office buildings with the accent on glass.

New York's Park Avenue is now seeing a number of luxury apartment houses giving way to luxury offices, because the rent return is higher on work space. It means more concentration of workers in midtown. At the same time many New York townhouses are giving way to luxury apartments, meaning more persons living on the same ground space. Cooperative apartments are spreading—people now owning a cube of space the way they once did houses.

The expressways that many cities are building to empty their workers into the suburbs at the end of the day—like the system in Los Angeles, for instance—soon open up new and more distant areas for homes. And the super highways, too, time become as riddled with cityways as were the old narrow roads.

At the same time an increasing number of factories are taking to the countryside. Put a one-story factory on a plot of several acres and you have both the room in which to grow and breathe, and the economy of putting production lines entirely on one level.

Sometimes the factories are near highways. Sometimes they are way out beyond public transportation lines—like one in the Charlotte, N. C. area—but management reports that workers get there all right and apparently like the work environment.

A number of cities are planning or opening industrial sites along their outskirts, attracting new factories without also adding to the downtown clutter. Others are clearing out blighted downtown areas — Chicago and Pittsburgh are two examples.

Still others, like New York and Chicago, are building or planning office buildings on stilts above their downtown railroad yards.

And many cities are seeing the flight of stores and even corporate office headquarters to their suburbs, as the whole look of America changes.

Cotton Blooms

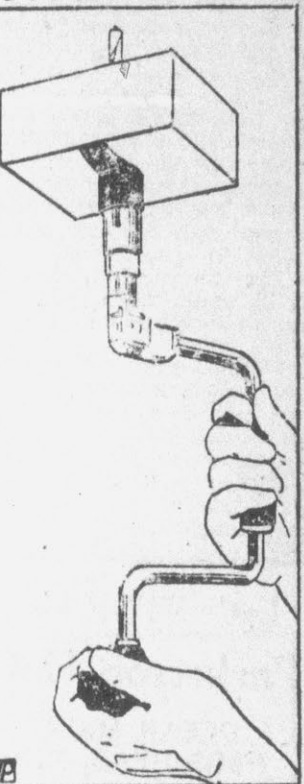

Cotton has already begun blooming on the S. G. Worthington farm located on Winterville, Route 1.

There are 19 acres of cotton being tended by Jesse James that already have blossoms.

This cotton was planted April 15 and it is expected to be picked about August 1.

This is the first cotton blossom reported this year in Fitt County.

Nurse Lady

ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

"ARE YOU going to register again?" Cynthia asked after Nora had told of her patient's death. She had fixed coffee and a lettuce and tomato sandwich, which she now put down before the other nurse.

"No, I don't think so. I think I'll just stay home—until Alan gets here." At mention of her sweet heart's name, Nora's small, piquant face lighted up so that it was not plain at all but beautiful.

"Well, you can do with a rest." "Not only that," Nora returned, "but it will give me a chance to do some shopping."

"Trousseau?" Cynthia teased. She poured herself another cup of coffee and sat down opposite Nora. She had had busy morning, showing Miss Whiting about the clinic and having been out late last night, she wanted to relax and take things easy, too.

It had been a pleasant evening. She and Norman had driven to a little roadside place where they had danced to their heart's content. Norman had proved a good partner. Cynthia had not danced in so long she was afraid at first she would be awkward and find it difficult to follow his lead. But even the new steps had been managed without too much effort.

"Yes," Nora said, her face lighting up again. "Alan wants to be married almost as soon as he gets here."

"I should think so! You two have waited long enough." And there could be no doubt as to their love. Cynthia thought, with a small pang of envy. They had known each other so long, grown up together, share the same things, never thought there might be anyone else for either one.

It seemed to her that that was the way love should be. Not a thunderbolt, as Norman claimed. "It has been a long while," Nora sighed. "But I'd wait all my life for Alan if I had to."

Well, that might be all right for some people, Cynthia thought but did she want to wait a lifetime to try to wake Walt up—to be old and gray, as she had said to him. She wanted to build a marriage a home; she wanted to have children of her own, not spend all her life taking care of other people's.

"I'll go shopping with you," she said. "I just adore looking at lovely things, even when I can't afford to buy them."

"Don't you have to work?" "I stopped today." Then, at the other nurse's astounded expression, Cynthia laughed and added, "I'm on vacation. It seems that Dr. Sellars thinks I need a rest, and a change, too."

"Well, it all works out beautifully," Nora was pleased. She had not caught the slight suggestion of irony in Cynthia's last remark. Not being given to irony herself, Nora did not look for hidden meanings in what others said. "I'd love to have you shop with me. I never know how to explain it to him for one thing. She preferred to have him believe her days were full, he might keep calling her, or dropping in unexpectedly."

She wanted to go slowly and carefully with Norman. She had no desire to be swept off her feet. Marriage was too important for that.

She caught some of its contagion during those next few shopping days with Nora. It was exciting, shopping for a trousseau, even though it was not to be an elaborate one: choosing lovely underthings, extravagantly trimmed with lace, an enchanting housecoat of pale blue satin with a wide gold belt and matching slippers; a going-away suit, although Nora thought Alan would have been away so long he would want to stay home; all the matching accessories.

"And one evening gown," Nora decided, after most of the more practical purchases had been made. "Though I don't know that I'll ever have a chance to wear it."

Alan writes that all he looks forward to is sitting with me in front of his own fireplace.

"Sounds like an old married man already," Cynthia teased. She knew that whatever Alan wanted would suit Nora. They were going to live in his family's house for a while. This small Virginia town had been Nora's and Alan's birthplace. His family would welcome Alan's bride. Their old-fashioned home was large enough to make room for the young couple. Later on, Nora thought that she and Alan might build their own place on the same eight acres of land.

Nora laughed. "Well, I don't feel like an old married woman. You know, Cyn, Alan's been away so long, and living such a different kind of life, that at times I wonder if he may not seem like a stranger to me when he comes home. It frightens me, Cyn."

"Every bride is jittery," Cynthia assured her. "As soon as you see Alan, you'll know he's no stranger. Then you won't be afraid of anything."

"I wish I were more like you, or Roz. Can you imagine Roz being afraid of anyone or anything?"

They both smiled at this. Roz had started going out practically every evening again. At least a half-dozen men had taken Norman's place already. It was doubtful if Roz would ever really want to settle down to any one man and the dull routine of cooking his meals and ironing his shirts.

Yet maybe that was only a cover-up, Cynthia sometimes thought when she found Roz's gaily, her glamor act, and her would-be sophisticated approach overdone. For surely every woman wanted, more than anything else, a man she could love and cherish, a man who would protect and love her in return.

Cynthia wondered if Walt missed her at all. She also worried, and worried, about the clinic. He was Miss Whiting getting along? She was a good soul, but would she understand the children and would they take to her?

Cynthia worried about Nancy O'Riley, who had rheumatic fever and was so very delicate. She worried about the Thompson boy, who had such a severe case of osteomyelitis. She worried about all the children handicapped as a result of polio; some who still could not walk except with the aid of braces and crutches; others whose hands and arms had lost their usefulness and who had to be painstakingly taught how to manipulate appliances, to hold a book, write or type with a few fingers of one hand, do various kinds of craftwork, and do even how to feed themselves.

Then there were the children who had been affected from birth with spastic contractions, hypertension of muscles, some who still could not walk except with the aid of braces and crutches; others whose hands and arms had lost their usefulness and who had to be painstakingly taught how to manipulate appliances, to hold a book, write or type with a few fingers of one hand, do various kinds of craftwork, and do even how to feed themselves.

Oh they all just about broke her heart at times! She loved every one of them. They were normal children, capable of learning and growing, of loving and living. Yet they had to be set apart; they could not share in normal activities, playtime and schoolmates, the foolish, wonderful age of adolescence.

Former Senator, Seriously Ailing, Reported Better

HANCOCK, Mich. (AP) - Former Senator Blair Moody stricken with a combination of virus pneumonia and a heart ailment was reported "dramatically improved" today.

His doctors and Democratic spokesmen said all indications were that he would be able to continue his campaign for the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate seat he once held for 19 months.

Moody, 52, was rushed to St. Joseph Hospital in this far northern Michigan community early yesterday as he launched a campaign swing through the Upper Peninsula.

His trouble was diagnosed as pneumonia. But a few hours later a heart ailment caused complications and he spent most of the day unconscious and in an oxygen tent.

Electric generators on the battlefield in Missouri could supply a city of 20,000 people.

Mary Unafraid Of Roles Others Played

By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD (AP) Mary Martin is living proof of the theory that stars shouldn't be afraid of playing roles that have been done before.

A few years ago, her manager and husband, Richard Halliday, saw Ethel Merman in "Annie Get Your Gun" and told Mary: "You'd better not see it; you're liable to cut your throat. It's the kind of a role you've wanted all your life."

The singing star didn't heed his advice. She went to see the show. On the way out, he asked, "would you like a razor now?"

"No," she replied. "I'm going to play 'Annie' on the road."

And she did. Much to the surprise of producers Rodgers and Hammerstein, she agreed to a tour throughout the United States. This startled Broadwayites since Mary was a top star in her own right and didn't need to do road companies of Merman hits.

The Martin version of "Annie Get Your Gun" was an eye-opener. I can still recall the pleasant surprise of watching Mary, who had specialized in gentler things, throw herself into the raucous role of Annie Oakley. The show was a revelation for the producers, too. They had her in mind when they wrote a show called "South Pacific."

After playing Nellie Forbush for five years, Mary did a straight play, "Kind Sir." It was a dismal thing, although it did good business on the strength of its stars, Miss Martin and Charles Boyer.

Now she is literally taking a flier on "Peter Pan." A new musical version of the Barrie play is being put together by the Civic Light Opera for Los Angeles and San Francisco. Broadway? maybe — it depends on how well it turns out.

Mary is doing the show even though Jean Arthur played Pan with success only a few years back.

"Jean and I are good friends," said Mary. "She is godmother for my daughter, Heller. We often talked about how we would like to play Peter Pan some day. Jean got her opportunity, and she was wonderful. Now I'm getting my chance."

"I see no harm in doing a role that has been done before. I felt that way about following Merman in 'Annie,' and I feel the same about 'Peter Pan.' Every once in a while there comes along someone who seems suited to play it—Maude Adams, Eva LaGallienne, Jean Arthur, to name a few. I want a chance, too."

"Besides, I've always wanted to fly under my own power. I've long had a recurring dream to that effect. This is the fulfillment of a great urge."

Mary's hair is now orange and cut like a boy's so she requires frequent trims. Heller, who is 12, is excited about her role.

"I play Liza, and it's a very good part," she enthused. "I get to hit the pirates over the head."

This is Heller's return to the theater. She played Annie's little sister in "Annie Get Your Gun."

Urge Care By Eclipse-Viewers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - The American Medical Assn. House of Delegates today urged that persons watching the eclipse of the sun next Wednesday protect their eyes with pieces of heavily smoked glass.

The eclipse will be visible in the United States from Nebraska northeastward.

The AMA's section on ophthalmology said "colored glasses are neither protectors nor of value."

Previously exposed X-ray film was described as an alternative to smoked glass.

Some historians believe that in the year 410, Rome did not have a single permanent inhabitant.

Tall Tales Are Taller in Texas

EUFAULA, Okla. (AP)—You can't tell a Texan a tall tale.

Highway Patrolman John Osmond cautioned motorists to drive carefully over a stretch of the highway where 100 degree heat had caused the pavement to raise a ridge nearly a foot high.

A Texan asked Osmond what happened.

"A rattlesnake crawled under the pavement," he answered.

"H'mm," said the Texan wryly, "must have been a Texas rattler."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market climbed still higher today with a rise that probed into new high ground again.

It was up yesterday at the best levels since October 1929, and today that strength continued.

Prices were up between 1 and 2 points in some instances with a few strong stocks up even more.

A number of areas in the list failed to join in the rise, but losses usually were quite small. The pace of trading was good with the rate around the two million mark.

Airlines were active and higher right from the start. Pan American World Airways opened on 10-300 shares up 1/4 at 11 3/4 and American Airlines started on 2,500 shares up 1/4 at 13 3/4.

Outboard Marine shot ahead between 5 and 6 points at times in light dealings. Aluminum Co. of America, up 3 points yesterday, gained between 3 and 4 points today. Aluminum Ltd. also was higher.

Others gaining ground included Chrysler, Goodyear, Douglas Aircraft, Philco, American Telephone, Du Pont, American Can, General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, United Air Lines and Santa Fe.

Lower were Studebaker, Boeing, Zenith, Kennecott Copper, American Tobacco, Southern Pacific and Standard Oil (NJ).

Gibbs At Civilian Defense School

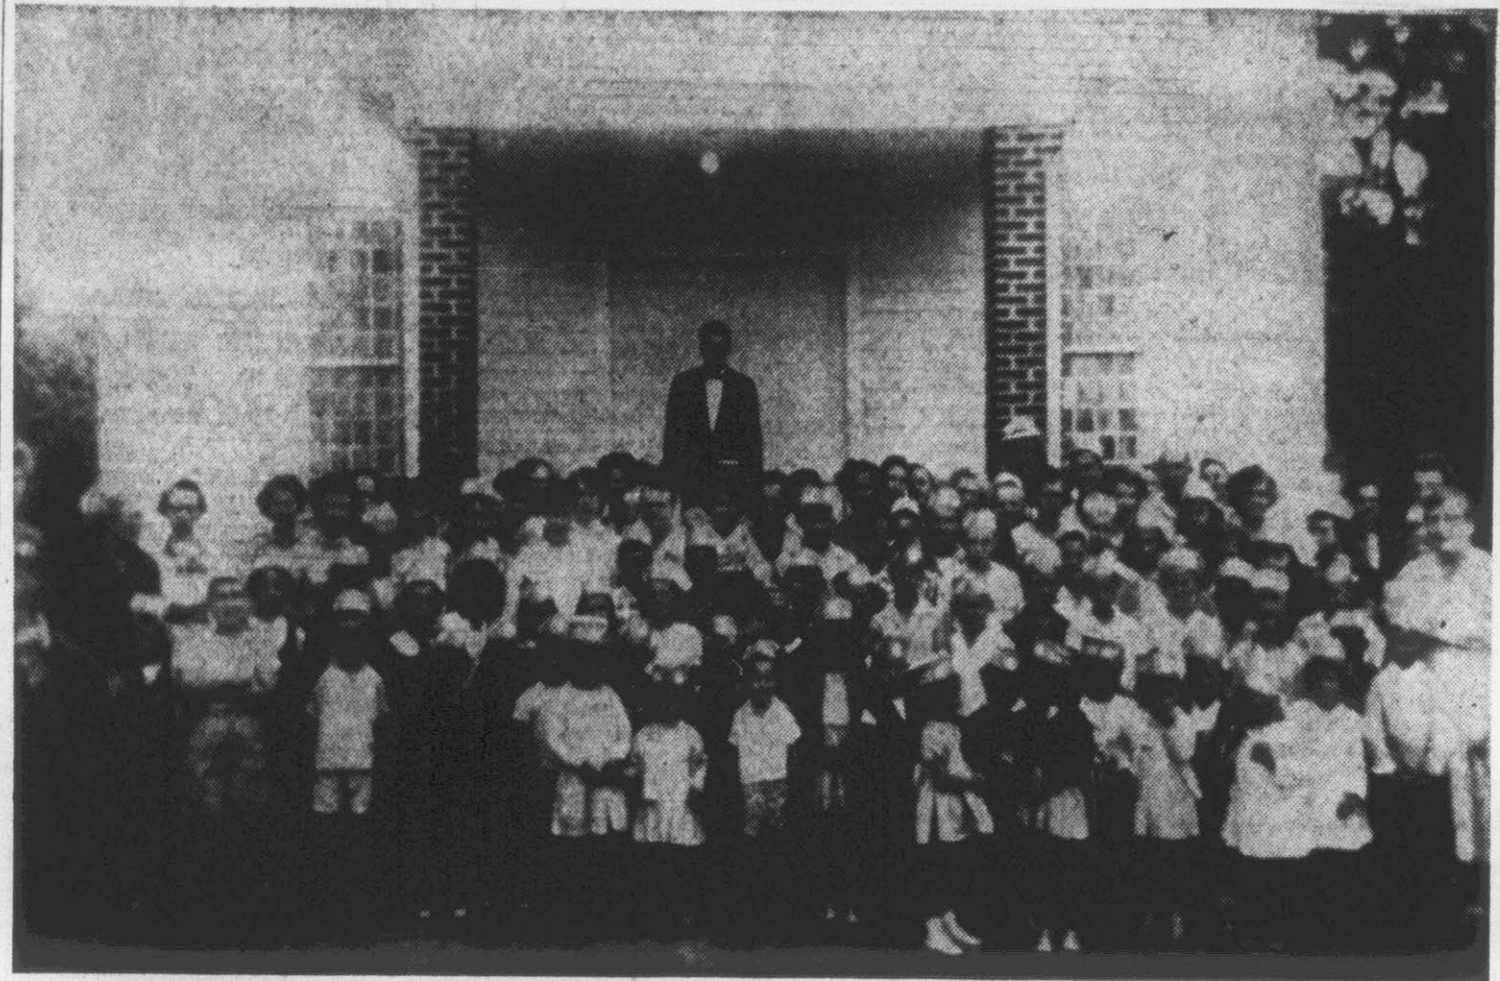

Chief of Police S. G. Gibbs attended a two-day Civilian Defense School at Chapel Hill Thursday and Friday.

The school, sponsored by the North Carolina Council of Civilian Defense, the Federal Civilian Defense Administration and the Institute of Government, was designed to instruct police officers in this state in the procedure to be followed in a public emergency.

Gibbs said that the law enforcement officers were shown training films and attended lectures.

The school conducted classes dealing with police procedures in an emergency, Federal Defense Administration policies on defense pertaining to police services, the importance of police services in a disaster, emergency traffic control for Civilian Defense, and other subjects.

There are about 25 species of true fir trees although the term "fir" is sometimes used more widely to include all the conifers.

The boys and girls above recently completed a week of Vacation Bible School, June 14-18, at the Sweet Gum Grove Free Will Baptist Church. The Bible school commencement was held last Friday. Rev. J. B. Narron, pastor of the church, directed the school. He reports the daily attendance averaged around 95.

$422,202 Put In Expanding And Improving Of Utilities

During the past 11 months Greenville Utilities Commission has spent $422,202.07 for expansion and improvements.

When the Commission established its 1953-54 fiscal year budget, a total of $498,800 of an anticipated $715,287 net revenue was slated for improvements and expansion.

Breaking this $498,800 down, $170,000 was scheduled to be spent on the city electrical system. This expenditure included service extensions, connections, private line extensions, work on a new substation and power plant improvements.

For rural improvements in the electrical system the budget allocated $43,200. This amount was slated for primary line extensions, service extensions and connections.

Built New Tank

Of the $498,800 figure, $131,800 was set aside for the water department. The money has been spent building a new elevated water tank in North Greenville, making service connections and extensions and adding some cast iron mains.

A total of $119,000 was slated for the sanitary sewer system. This money has been spent for service extensions and connections, adding sewer mains and outfalls and the building of the Third Street Lift Station.

Not Extending Gas Mains

Only $20,000 was scheduled to be spent for the gas department since the Commission is not extending the gas mains. This money was spent for plant improvements, service connections and work on the present mains. Beyond the mains, the procedure now is to use bottle gas.

To complete the $498,800 budget for improvements and expansion $15,000 was set aside for automotive and office equipment.

Going Above Anticipated Budget

As explained above, the Utilities Commission estimated a $715,287 net income. Taking $498,800 for improvements and expansions plus $98,000 for retiring bonds and the $142,500 which was turned over to the City of Greenville, the Commission went $24,013 above the anticipated net income figure.

Utilities Commission Secretary Larry Brown said yesterday indications are new net income will be slightly more than $715,287 — which means the budget will probably be met for the year. The $715,287 net income figure was the anticipated net income including depreciation.

Receipts Above Anticipation

When the budget was set up for the 1953-54 fiscal year the anticipated revenue was estimated to be $1,825,000. Expenditures less depreciation amounts to $1,109,713 giving the $715,287 net income figure.

Since the net income is expected to be higher the receipts will probably range between $1,900,000 and $2,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30.

Boy Arrested In Peeping Tom Case And Turned Over To Welfare Dept.

A 14-year-old Negro youth was turned over to the Welfare Department for placement in a boarding home yesterday after being arrested on a peeping tom offense.

According to Deputy Sheriffs Duke Andrews and Loyd Manning, who investigated the case, Norman Savage, who lives on the G. N. Edwards farm between Winterville and Rinston, saw someone peeping in his window about 11 o'clock Wednesday night.

He contacted the sheriff's department Thursday morning and the two deputies went out to his house with bloodhounds to aid in tracking down the culprit.

Andrews said they trailed the boy through a field and across the highway, finally apprehending him in the neighborhood later that morning.

The youth was tried the same day before Juvenile Judge D. T. House, Jr. who turned him over to the Welfare Department.

Vice Clean-Up Could Bankrupt Phenix City

PHENIX CITY, Ala. (AP) — Bill collectors for a big Georgia furniture store took in only $2 from their usual rounds in Phenix City the day after racket-busting A. L. Patterson was slain.

The long-simmering cauldron of vice had boiled over into gangster-like violence at last in a complacent community where gambling, liquor and prostitution were the most flourishing industries. Its people, stunned into reality and afraid of the future, were holding onto their money "until we find out what we're going to do."

A feeling of desperation was evident throughout the once carefree city of 23,000 where soldiers from nearby Ft. Benning, Ga., came each night to lounge in the grille bars and gamble away their pay.

Georgia authorities couldn't regulate the vice dens and Alabama didn't control them, except at intervals when the lid came down and then gradually lifted again.

Phenix City is closed again now, tighter than ever. And Gov. Gordon Persons has vowed to keep it that way — at least until he leaves office next January.

One immediate effect, the governor hopes, may be to "starve out" the killer who gunned Patterson to death last Friday night before he could take office as attorney general and begin the vice cleanup he had promised.

The gamblers and the vice lords have been hit hard by the clampdown, enforced by National Guardsmen, and the "off limits" signs posted around the city for
