Report Progress In Efforts To Settle Atomic Workers Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Considerable progress was reported today in secret efforts to settle a three-day strike of atomic workers without resorting to a Taft-Hartley court injunction to end the walkout. The strike has idled 4,500 workers at key uranium production facilities...

A presidential inquiry board, meanwhile, went ahead with closed door hearings for a report on the situation to President Eisenhower. Once he has the report, the President may under the T-H law direct the Justice Department to apply for a back-to-work court order. On strike are 4,500 CIO union workers at gaseous diffusion plants at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Paducah, Ky., described by Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission as this nation's facilities for extracting U-235 from uranium. He termed U-235 "essential to the production of atomic weapons both fission and (thermonuclear hydrogen) type." Management officials said "full and maximum" production was being maintained despite the walkout, a settlement. The strike, involving a dispute over wages, started Wednesday morning about 12 hours after President Eisenhower had invoked the emergency clause of Taft-Hartley. The President said the strike could hurt this nation's race for atomic supremacy...

Merchant Directors To Meet Tuesday On Parking Situation

The Board of Directors of the Merchants Association will hold a special meeting next Tuesday morning for the purpose of making recommendation to the City Council regarding the courtesy parking situation. Report from engineers who recently made a survey of the traffic situation in the city has recommended that the courtesy parking here be eliminated. Action on the matter was deferred by the City Council last night pending recommendation from the Board of Directors of the Merchants Association. Plan Inaugurated. The courtesy parking plan was first inaugurated by the Merchants Association in April, 1953, "for the convenience of both local and out-of-town shoppers." Small green boxes were placed on each side of a street where parking meters had been placed. When an officer finds a car over-parked, he inserts into the meter a nickel provided by the Merchants Association, and does not tag the car for a parking violation. The officer then attaches to the car's windshield wiper an envelope with the inscription: "A nickel has been loaned to you through the courtesy of the Greenville Merchants Association to prevent your receiving a parking ticket. French, Vietminh Clash Near Hanoi

SAIGON, Indochina (AP)—French UN armored units and Vietminh regulars clashed in a bloody engagement 20 miles south of Hanoi today. The armored units encountered the Communist-led rebel force south of Bao Thon, a tiny village on the road between Phu Ly and Hanoi. After several hours of savage fighting the Vietminh force withdrew, leaving 108 corpses behind, the French command reported. The French commander Maj. Gen. Paul Ely, pledged last night that there would be an all-out fight for Hanoi. He denied spreading rumors that the North Indochina capital would be abandoned to the rebels. Observers recalled that the French high command made a similar vow to defend the entire Red River delta only a month before it abandoned the southern third of the key area to the rebels. Ely told newsmen his order piling French UN troops out of the southern region last week had been issued to shore up the defenses around Hanoi. He said he has also ordered all-out defense of the port of Haiphong and the vital 65-mile supply route linking it with Hanoi. The commander predicted that a decision whether there would be continued war or cease-fire in Indochina would be reached by July 20. That is the date French Premier Pierre Mendes-France set as his deadline to achieve a truce or resign. Ely's remarks seemed to indicate that the French command here had no certainty that a cease-fire would be worked out at Geneva and was preparing for a last-ditch defense of the Hanoi-Haiphong nucleus. Ely is known to believe Mendes-France would not agree to any cease-fire which spelled French capitulation. The Vietminh, meanwhile, have massed three divisions southwest of Hanoi. A number of three are grouped along the northern border of the delta. Local talks are continuing between French-Vietnamese and rebel military representatives on technical details of a possible cease-fire.

Truman Leaves Hospital Today

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman today was dismissed from Research Hospital where he had been since an operation June 20. A member of the hospital staff said "Mr. Truman was dismissed at 5:30 this morning." He was taken to his home in Independence, 11 miles from here. The former President had his gall bladder and appendix removed after suffering an attack while attending an outdoor musical production. His hospital stay was prolonged beyond the originally estimated 10-day period by hypersensitivity to certain drugs. Hospital employees said the former President was fully dressed when he left. He smiled and waved greetings to everyone he met along the hospital corridors. Truman left the hospital in his own car for the trip to Independence. He took a service elevator to the ambulance entrance, chatting with the elevator operator as he descended. Hospital employees and patients all said Truman looked "fine" and "real well."

When asked if most people voted secretly Barnhill said, "I would say most voters did." He was asked if any ballots were marked "void" when removed from the boxes. He answered, "I don't know, but I am of the opinion some were—one or two." He said he marked five ballots "void" and put them in an envelope for the County Board of Elections. When asked if he knew James Tripp, Barnhill said he did know Tripp. He explained that Tripp told him he would be living in Pactolus again for one year this August so he registered him. "No one challenged his right to vote." The second witness was questioned about Harris getting several ballots. Barnhill said, "He has not done any such thing. He made it up." Clarence Harris Jr. testified Tuesday night that Tripp was a resident of Virginia, yet he voted in the primary June 28.

Assault With Intent To Kill Charged In Case Of Injured Roadside Victim

Chief of Police S.G. Gibbs said today that a Negro man had been charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill as a result of a case in which a Negro man was found with a serious head injury on a busy highway last June 30. Arrested in the case was Arthur Wooten, 28, who lives at 803 Vanderbilt Street. He was charged with assaulting Richard Aulon, who was found June 30 near the intersection of highways N.C. 11 and U.S. 264. Medical authorities at the time said the man suffered "severe scalp lacerations and concussion." He was reported to be in a dazed condition when treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital that night and the next day. Police stated that Aulon had not been able to remember the events which led up to his injury on June 30 until yesterday. He told police yesterday afternoon that he remembered hiring Wooten to take him home and he realized Wooten was taking him the wrong way. Aulon said he mentioned the fact to Wooten and he remembered nothing else after that. Police said Wooten admitted that Aulon was in his car on the night the man was injured but he denied assaulting him. Both men stated that they were the only "wo" in the vehicle. Aulon was bleeding profusely on the night he was found beside the highway. He was lying almost directly across from a busy drive-in restaurant. It was not known how long he had lain by the roadside when police were called in at 9:15 p.m. Wooten is being held in City Jail under $500 bond. The case will be heard in Municipal Court on July 19. Investigation was conducted by Detective Lieutenant N.H. Byrd and Patrolman V.C. Ackert.

New York City—and the only difference between it and Greenville is that it's bigger, there are more people here, and everything is more expensive... And the five-cent coke is dead—you have to pay a dime, even over the counter... And there are signs in all the subways, "Nearest Shelter this way," which make you feel as though an air-raid were coming any time—so be glad you live in Greenville.

We're living and taking some courses at the Union Theological Seminary, in the middle of one of the most cultured—whatever that word means—districts in the world... Columbia University is right across the street, Juillard School of Music is in the next block, the Jewish Theological Seminary is around the corner, and International House, home of most of New York's foreign student population, is two blocks away... And over the hill next to the Hudson River is Grant's Tomb...

Despite the propaganda, people are still smoking cigarettes around here. Latest gas is the one we heard about the smoker who got so nervous reading about how bad smoking was that he gave up reading...

And speaking of reading, we were glad to hear about the formation of a new organization called the National Book Committee, which is going to devote itself to "the wider and wider distribution of books and to the preservation of the freedom to read." It's a joint project of the American Library Association and the American Book Publishers' Council, and we hope they succeed...

P. C. A.—What is it?

Have you seen this chart before? You have if you've been to RIDGEWAY'S OPTICIANS recently, for it's one of the famous Prospec Chromatic Analysis charts, which RIDGEWAY'S expert opticians use to prescribe glasses frames to make you more beautiful. The chart is worked out on the basis of the perfect face. Perfect symmetry, with all features of correct size and proportion to each other. Unfortunately, few of us can claim a perfect face. Some have big noses, receding chins, too high foreheads, eyes too small for the face, and other unflattering features. All these things are taken into consideration when RIDGEWAY'S OPTICIANS analyze your face. They consider every little detail and then prescribe a style frame that will actually make you more glamorous with glasses than you were without them! You ask, "How is this possible?" It's possible because their frames are designed to camouflage your bad features by playing up your good ones. They add special ornamentation at the bridge of the frame, at the temple, or wherever necessary to draw attention away from a bad feature to play up a pleasing one. Prospec Analysis is the most revolutionary thing that's happened to glasses in years! And RIDGEWAY'S have it exclusively in Raleigh, Greenville, Greensboro, and Charlotte. Visit them this week.

Miss Sarah Gulley was hostess at a delightful bridge party on Monday having as honor guests Miss Braswell of Rocky Mount, guest of Miss Clara Louise Moyer, Miss Frances Dickinson, Miss Marjorie Hunter of Kinston, guest of Miss Bruce Tucker, Miss Pauline Fisher, guest of Miss Nancy King. The home was attractively decorated with garden flowers and five tables for bridge were arranged in the reception hall and library. The honorees were presented beautiful handkerchiefs. After several progressions a tempting salad course was served.

Oxford—Misses Harriet Cotten Skinner and Elizabeth Skinner, attractive young daughters of Dr. and Mrs. L. C. Skinner of Greenville, were guests of honor at a lovely bridge luncheon when Miss Julia Brent Hicks entertained. An interesting game of bridge was enjoyed in which Miss Wilma Long won the top score prize while the guests of honor were presented bottles of perfume as prizes. At the conclusion of the game an elegant four course luncheon was served.

This organization is a professional music fraternity with chapters located on more than 120 college campuses. As province governor, Dr. Cuthbert is representing Province 20 of the fraternity, which includes North and South Carolina and Virginia.

Brode and Miss Calloway, soloists on the program, were well received as they presented "Monica's Waltz" from Menotti's "The Medium" and "Soliloquy" from Rodgers' "Carouse," respectively.

Fur dealers say that rabbit fur has practically disappeared from the American market because of new labeling regulations which prevent dealers and customers from calling rabbit fur by some other name.

Few Things Safe From Designers

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Few things today are safe from the roving eyes of our top designers.

The astute Elsa Schiaparelli has turned her talent toward practically everything you can mention, from men's shirts to mattress ticking, and heads an American corporation organized to keep her many irons busy in many fires.

Other famous designers, such as Christian Dior, Lilly Dache, Jacques Fath and Claire McCardell, to name a few, have extended their field far beyond their original creations of dresses and hats to include such unexpected items as jewelry, sun glasses, stockings, gloves, brassieres and billboards.

Now comes the designer touch in stationery. So far two top artists have turned their attention to this once-static field. One, namely the busy Schiaparelli, the other is Dorothy Simmons, famed up to now principally for her cherubic Christmas card designs.

The idea apparently came separately to the two designers, for their lines of imaginative and colorful writing paper hit the American market about the same time, and both are selling like hot cakes.

The decorative, dainty Miss Simmons, who has lately had mahogany cherub designs in her bedroom furniture and who herself looks like modernized Dresden doll, took a trip to Vienna last summer and came back with a contract for fine notepaper.

Then she sat down and worked up some designs for both paper and boxes, that would give women an opportunity to choose colorful and individual stationery for their personal correspondence. No more plain white or gray sheets. The new Simmons designs are decorated with flowers, birds and snowflakes. They may be engraved with the monogram of the correspondent. They come in unusual shapes and sizes and apparently are stimulating once more the gentle art of letter writing in these United States.

The Schiaparelli notepapers have a bolder touch. The most striking is a square sheet in Schiaparelli's famous "shocking pink," bordered in white and designed for writing in white ink. Young sophisticates love this one.

MECHANICAL MULE—Here is the Army's new mechanical mule—it weighs 750 pounds and is the first military vehicle to carry a load greater than its own weight. It will tote half a ton at speeds from one to 25 miles an hour. It can be driven, led in a mule or guided by one hand and can ford water up to 12 inches in depth. At top a soldier guides it with one hand. At bottom it negotiates a grade of 36 per cent. (AP Wirephoto)

Fresh Markets For Black Gold Are Opening Up

By WALTER BREEDE JR.
(For Sam Dawson)

NEW YORK (AP)—New markets for black gold are opening up in far-away places while demand in the world's greatest oil-consuming nation is leveling off.

That's the situation confronting the multibillion-dollar petroleum industry today: too much oil in the United States, not enough to satisfy the fast-growing requirements of less prosperous populations elsewhere.

Many of the big U.S. oil companies are actively going after this foreign business. The results of their efforts can be seen in the glittering new refineries and tank farms that have sprung up in recent months all the way from the English Channel and the North Sea to the South Pacific.

Last year foreign countries outside the Soviet sphere stepped up their total consumption of oil products by a whopping 7 per cent. This year foreign demand is expected to rise 7 per cent more — to an all-time high of 4,750,000 barrels daily.

By contrast, U.S. demand is expected to show a gain of only 2 per cent.

The United States is still far and away the world's biggest oil user. This year consumption is expected to reach 7,000,000 barrels daily. That's another new record, but it's only a hair's breadth over domestic oil use in 1953. In most other post-war years the gain had been much greater.

Oilmen say the present industry pattern — a slow, gradual growth in this country and a dynamic expansion overseas — will assume even sharper outlines. That's because the United States has become a nation with many others are starting from scratch. In some under-developed areas the evolution has come about with breathtaking speed — almost overnight from donkey cart to helicopter.

One significant by-product of the rise in foreign demand: dollar-pinch countries once almost exclusively dependent on foreign oil are trying to become self-sufficient.

And they're getting American companies to help. Drilling crews trained in U.S. techniques are hard at work in Britain, Germany and France. Countries once bitterly hostile to foreign capital have rolled out the welcome mat for American dollars, American geologists and American engineers. The more oil they find inside their own borders, the less they'll have to buy abroad.

FLOGGING VICTIMS—Spokesmen for the new Guatemalan government said the two men, whose scarred backs are pictured, were among 86 victims of almost daily floggings by Communist secret police from March, 1953, to June, this year. Leopard Spots For Automobile

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Spots before your eyes?

Merely Generoso Monacelli's new automobile.

Ever since he first saw a leopard in a zoo at the age of 15, the 20-year-old house painter has been fascinated with the leopard's beauty.

For a time he thought about owning one and then gave up the idea. But he acquired a complete leopard skin ensemble — shoes, shirts, trousers and jacket.

Yesterday he outdid himself. He became owner of an automobile painted to look like a leopard — down to blazing eyes and exposed fangs.

'Backslider' Was Wed In A Church

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
MOSCOW (AP)—Can you imagine how the secretary of a Young Communist League committee could backslide so far that she would get married in a church?

This happened recently at Nukha, a city of considerable size down near Baku, capital of the Azerbaijan Republic. And the newspaper Baku Worker made it the point of a major article to increase the anti-religious drive of Soviet youth.

These articles have been appearing more and more frequently in the Moscow press as well as in provincial papers. The anti-religious drive has to be increased because churches appear to be making inroads, especially with the youth.

Baku Worker's complaint stated: "A long procession was moving from the house of the bride to the house of the bridegroom. In the first car sat the bride, with an oil lamp and mirror in her hands, according to Oriental custom. In the other cars were many friends of the bride and the bridegroom.

"Then they all went to the city cemetery, where is the grave of a 'holy Mohammed.' The cars stopped and the caretaker of the grave began to read a prayer. . . .

"It is not the first time that marriages have been blessed by this man and that young girls and men have followed these ancient prejudices.

"But this time it was even more serious—the secretary of the Young Communist League committee and her husband, who himself is a teacher in one of our institutes!"

Scientists believe that part of the explanation for the twinkling of stars can be found in normal movements of the human eye.

Girl Missing Two Years Finally Found

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—A teen-age girl whose disappearance from her Pittsburgh home two years ago prompted a nationwide search turned up here last night as a contented wife and mother.

As Peggy Ann Hewston, she fled her home Aug. 24, 1952, when she was 15. Now she is Mrs. Tom Cory, wife of an Air Force sergeant.

"I had been planning it for a long time," she said in recalling her disappearance. "I couldn't stand that school (Edgewood High School) any longer, and my folks wouldn't let me go to another one. I had saved $70 and I knew I was going to do it. I didn't even leave a note."

She changed her name and fled to Albuquerque where she met and married Air Force Sgt. Tom Cory, 23, who attended her church here.

Now a mother of six weeks, the 17-year-old Mrs. Cory says she "feels much better" since her deception is over.

She was recognized by a Pittsburgh airman at the Sandia base.

Woman Fiddler Claims Older Players Are Best

By MARTHA COLE
LITTLE RIVER, Tex. (AP)—Take a tentative scratch, a short whine and then roll into it—That's fiddle time.

"It takes old people really to fiddle it," says Mrs. Beatrice Bane of Little River. She's 65.

"I was given a talent I wouldn't take a million dollars for," she said. "I've been playing the fiddle since I was 9 years old back in Indian territory in Oklahoma.

"I can play religious pieces that can make your hair rise.

"I don't know one note from another. But I can hear a tune one time. If I like it, I go around humming it and inside three days I can fiddle it—it'll be that long coming to me."

Mrs. Bane is a thin little gray-haired woman with quick motions. She and her husband live on a farm near Little River.

She's one of the few women who enter the old fiddlers contests held every year in Texas.

Her husband, C. C. Bane, 68, can play the fiddle too.

At the Fourth of July celebration in Belton this year, Bane won first place and his wife won fourth in the old fiddlers contest. But at Temple earlier this year, she beat him.

"No, hon, he isn't jealous," Mrs. Bane said.

"He hasn't learned hardly any new pieces since I knew him. He plays by ear too. All the real old-time fiddlers do.

"But he has some favorite pieces he plays right well. He likes 'Sally Goodin' and 'Tom and Jerry.' I don't play those — those are men's pieces, I think."

What's the difference between fiddling and violin playing?

"Why, breakdown music—that's fiddling, piddling or something.

"There really aren't any new breakdown pieces—same old pieces: 'Hell Among the Earth,' 'Done Gone,' 'Eighth of January,' 'Oh Miss Sally, How I Love You.'"

Mrs. Bane thinks there's danger of the old-time fiddlers dying out. But maybe not.

"There's this young fellow from Temple, O. A. Cathey, about 25. I heard him play in Temple and then I saw him at Belton. I told him, 'Son, you play 'Mockingbird.' He did and won first place in the young fiddlers contest.

"I tell you he's mortally a fiddler."

Offering $1,500 To A Fugitive

MCLESTER, Okla. (AP)—Warden Jerome J. Waters Jr. is offering $1,500 to a fugitive from the State Penitentiary, but there's a catch to it.

Waters said Paul Evinger, 55, who was serving life for murder before his escape from an Oklahoma City hospital Wednesday, could have the money he saved working in prison if he showed up at the front gate.

"Of course, if he comes in," the warden added, "we will see that he doesn't get out again."

Blind Couple Will Be Wed

By BOB HOLTON
CORRY, Pa. (AP)—Howard Collins says he just knows Gladys Camfield will be "beautiful" when she walks up the church aisle here tomorrow to become his bride.

Gladys says Howard will be the "most handsome" man in the wedding party.

Though their friends in this Erie County community agree, Howard and Gladys will never really know.

They are both blind and have never seen each other.

Howard was born blind 45 years ago in his Lock Haven home. Gladys lost her eyesight 28 years ago when she was 14. The loss was caused by an eye disease.

The couple became acquainted a year ago through a pen pal club. They exchanged letters—in Braille. Six months ago they met in Lock Haven for the first time. Four months later they became engaged and last month announced the wedding date.

"I never really thought I would ever get married," Howard confessed.

"But somehow when I received Gladys' first letter I had the feeling she was something special in my life."

Howard is a tall, thin man with square shoulders and a lean, handsome face.

Gladys is a trim brunette with pretty features and an abundance of poise.

The pen pal club was listed in the Christian Record, a religious publication for the blind.

The couple didn't plan a church wedding at first, but members of the Corry Evangelical United Brethren Church arranged it.

The couple will live in Lock Haven with Collins' mother, Mrs. Bertha McKinney.

Howard and Gladys each receive $50 a month blind pension and Howard earns a small living canning chairs.

The United States builds about 78 per cent of the world's automobiles and uses about 75 per cent of the world's product.

Boiler, School Custodian Retire

CHANDLER, Ariz. (AP)—Bert Metcalf was hired as custodian at Chandler High School in 1921 — the year the heating plant was installed.

Over the years the boiler slowly "tired out," as Metcalf says, "and I sure got weary of keeping her going."

Today Metcalf retires as superintendent of grounds and buildings for the Chandler schools. And the old boiler will be retired with him.

Not Angry, Not Friendly Either

TEXAS CITY, Tex. (AP)—Sam Lewing, 38, was testifying in the preliminary hearing of Henry Boles, 40 on charges of aggravated assault. He said Boles threatened to kill him, and "ran around" with Mrs. Lewing.

A defense attorney asked the witness if he was angry with Boles.

Not exactly, replied Lewing.

"What?" the attorney pressed.

"You say this man steals your wife, threatens to kill you and hits you over the head with a chain, and you're not mad at him?"

"Wal," replied the lanky Lewing, "I ain't exactly no big friend of his."

Connecticut State Prison, built for 600 prisoners now has nearly 1,000 prisoners in it.

Treasure Hunts Are Now Banned

SANTA SUSANA, Calif. (AP)—Treasure hunting in the Black Canyon was banned today.

Action followed the death of Ronald M. Fuller, 45, who succumbed Monday to carbon monoxide poisoning. He had been blasting in a 50-foot shaft while hunting three treasure chests he believed were buried by the Mexican bandit Tiburcio Vasquez 80 years ago.

Embezzler Gets Five-Year Term

DES MOINES (AP)—Lowell Arthur Logan, 24, Springfield, Ohio, convicted of embezzling $30,000 in overseas military currency while an Air Force lieutenant in Japan, yesterday was sentenced to five years in prison.

Logan, a former State University of Iowa law student, was accused of falsifying records on the amounts of "worn-out" currency he was entrusted to destroy. He was honorably discharged last year.

Federal Judge William F. Riley was told $22,000 of the amount has been recovered.

Rural Fire Call Siren Installed

FARMVILLE—A siren was installed last week atop the Town Hall to summon members of the rural fire department when out-of-town calls are received.

Farmville Town Clerk Cleveland Paylor said yesterday that the siren will be used only for rural alarms. The regular fire horn will continue to summon fire fighters for blazes within the city limits.

Paylor indicated that the siren was installed so that the entire fire department will not be required to report for rural alarms.

The Rural Fire Association operates a 1000-gallon high pressure fog line truck from the Farmville Fire Department for use at out-of-town fires.

Paylor said the new siren was purchased at a cost of $373.98.

Prediction On The Joint Airport

Things are looking up for the joint four-county airport project which was threatened with catastrophe recently when the Nash County Commissioners refused to appropriate their $5,000 share of money for the project.

At the same time, there was the question of whether the Wilson County Commissioners would follow the example set by Nash and turn thumbs down on the project, or fall in line with Pitt and Edgecombe which have appropriated their share of the funds.

Right now, things look brighter for the airport than they did a few days ago. It is our guess that the Wilson County Commissioners are more favorably disposed

Good Highway Record Over Holiday Week-End

Pitt County got by the recent holiday week-end with a mighty good record so far as highway accidents were concerned.

The state as a whole likewise had a good record compared with statistics of recent years.

In Pitt County, only four highway accidents were recorded by the Highway Patrol during the holiday. There were no deaths or injuries in those four accidents. Across the state, there were only 15 highway fatalities during the holiday.

The result of the holiday accident toll points up vividly the fact that North Carolina motorists — including those in Pitt County — can contribute greatly to holding down the highway toll if they set their Naturally, the concentrated efforts of mind to it. the Highway Patrol played a part in keeping accidents down in Pitt, as well as in the rest of the state. Even so, the patrolmen could not have done the job without the excellent cooperation of the drivers generally.

So far this year, the accident record on Pitt County highways has been much better than it was a year ago. The same is true for the state. It is to be hoped that Pitt drivers will continue their safety consciousness in order to keep the county's accident count down through the remainder of 1954.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THIS CALLS FOR REFLECTION
Some things we have to see in order to believe them. Some weeks ago I saw something which I would not have believed, had anyone told me. In a dining room at a well-known winter resort, a man, a woman, and a boy eight or ten years old—presumably their son—sat at a table, and the adults ordered drinks. My eyes almost popped out of my head when, in addition to the two cocktails for the parents, a drink in a glass used for serving "Old-Fashioneds" was brought in for the child. It had "all the fixins." The liquid was a bit on the pink side and I was told later it was lemonade.

But then and there I was introduced to a new custom. My understanding is that it has become widely prevalent, now, to serve the children non-alcoholic drinks when their parents order alcoholic beverages, and to dress up the children's drinks so that they will look as much like the real thing as possible. This is done on the theory that the youngsters under such circumstances will not feel left out.

One does not have to be a dry or in any way an opponent of drinking to recognize the danger of such procedure. Can it be that well-intentioned parents regard such a custom with equanimity?

Congress Really Up In Arms

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—The Knowland-Johnson ultimatum on American withdrawal from the United Nations upon Red China's admission in place of Chiang Kai-shek's Peking regime means that Congress has sidestepped the conduct of foreign relations from the White House and the State Department.

Capitol Hill has handcuffed Eisenhower-Dulles in a field specifically reserved to the Executive by the Constitution. It is the most arrogant intervention and trespass on the Presidential powers in this area since the Senate refused to ratify the World War I peace pacts and the League of Nations convention in Woodrow Wilson's day.

Save for the general belief that the White House approves these Congressional warnings to our friends and foes overseas, the legislative belligerency could be interpreted as a rebuke to the Administration.

It is not, however, Eisenhower and Dulles must maintain a polite, diplomatic attitude toward Churchill, Eden and the new French Premier, Pierre Mendes-France. But the White House welcomes warnings by Congress which it cannot afford to make.

MAJORITY SUPPORTS KNOWLAND—Knowland's attitude, moreover, is shared by a majority in the House and Senate. Even before he spoke out on the China question, the legislators had acted to restrict freedom of movement in the foreign field by President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles.

They barred financial aid to any nation which enters into a "Locarno" or nonaggression agreement with Communist China. They indicated plainly that, after June 30, 1955, the end of the current fiscal year, they will withhold funds from France and Italy, if they have not ratified the European Defense Treaty by that date.

Representative John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, Democratic Whip, interprets these trespasses on Dulles' terrain as a rebuff to the Administration. In his opinion, Congress intervened because Eisenhower "has shown no initiative" in foreign affairs. McCormack refers, of course, to the contradictory and incoherent statements concerning Indo-China toward appropriating their share of the money for the joint airport project after Wednesday night's meeting at which members of the Airport Authority explained the proposed project in detail.

Final action on the matter by the Wilson County Commissioners is yet to come, however.

If Wilson County Commissioners see fit to appropriate their share of the airport funds, even in the face of the recent rejection by Nash County's commissioners, the project will receive a terrific boost. It would not be surprising in that case to see the Nash commissioners reconsider the question and reverse their previous decision by appropriating Nash's share of the airport funds.

There is already evidence there may be some change of feeling on the part of the Nash County Commissioners by virtue of the fact a hearing on the matter is to be held in that county. The city of Rocky Mount, which swings a great deal of weight in Nash County, is very much in favor of the joint airport project even though it is the only city in the four counties which has air service at the present time.

It may be a couple of weeks yet before the final decision is reached by Wilson and Nash Counties, but we'll stick our neck out with the prediction that both the counties go along with the project.

Then, instead of concentrating on trying to hold the four-county project together, members of the Eastern Carolina Airport Authority can get back to work on the project itself.

Time For A Change In Treasure Hunts

What can capture the imagination of an imaginative man as buried treasure?

Death marked the end of one man's feverish search this week at a moment when he believed he was near his goal. Death or disappointment usually close such chapters of adventure linked to the search for lost hoards.

Most libraries carry on their shelves authentic accounts of vast wealth hidden or lost and never retrieved. Scores of stories are at hand of gold, silver and jewels awaiting intrepid seekers. The wonder is that so few among us find the courage and tenacity to indulge in that favorite dream of childhood and the secret wish of adult romantics.

Ronald Merton Fuller died at the bottom of a 55-foot shaft he had dug in hunting chests of gold hidden by a Mexican bandit. That shaft was one of many sunk in his years of searching for an elusive dream.

A testament of faith in that dream comes with the announcement his daughter and son-in-law will carry on with his treasure hunt. We hope they find it.

For too long, and on too many occasions, treasure seekers wind up with nothing more than tired backs, blisters, disillusionment, or even death. It's time for a change.

By Ike, Dulles and Vice-President Nixon. PAST CONCESSIONS TO RUSSIA—Contrary to McCormack's interpretation, the Congressional caveats are based on the concessions which F.D.R. and Harry S. Truman gave to Russia at Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam.

The Roosevelt-Truman grants transformed the Soviet Union from a beaten and primitive people into a world power, second only to the United States. Congress does not want to see the same build-up given to Red China.

Eisenhower and Dulles have informed Capitol Hill leaders that they will make no new concessions to Red Russia and China. There is complete agreement on this problem between the executive and the legislative ends of Pennsylvania Avenue.

Thus it is to the compromising British and French, to Churchill, Eden, to Premier Mendes-France and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of Germany, that the two Senate bosses—Senator Knowland of California and Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas—direct their warnings.

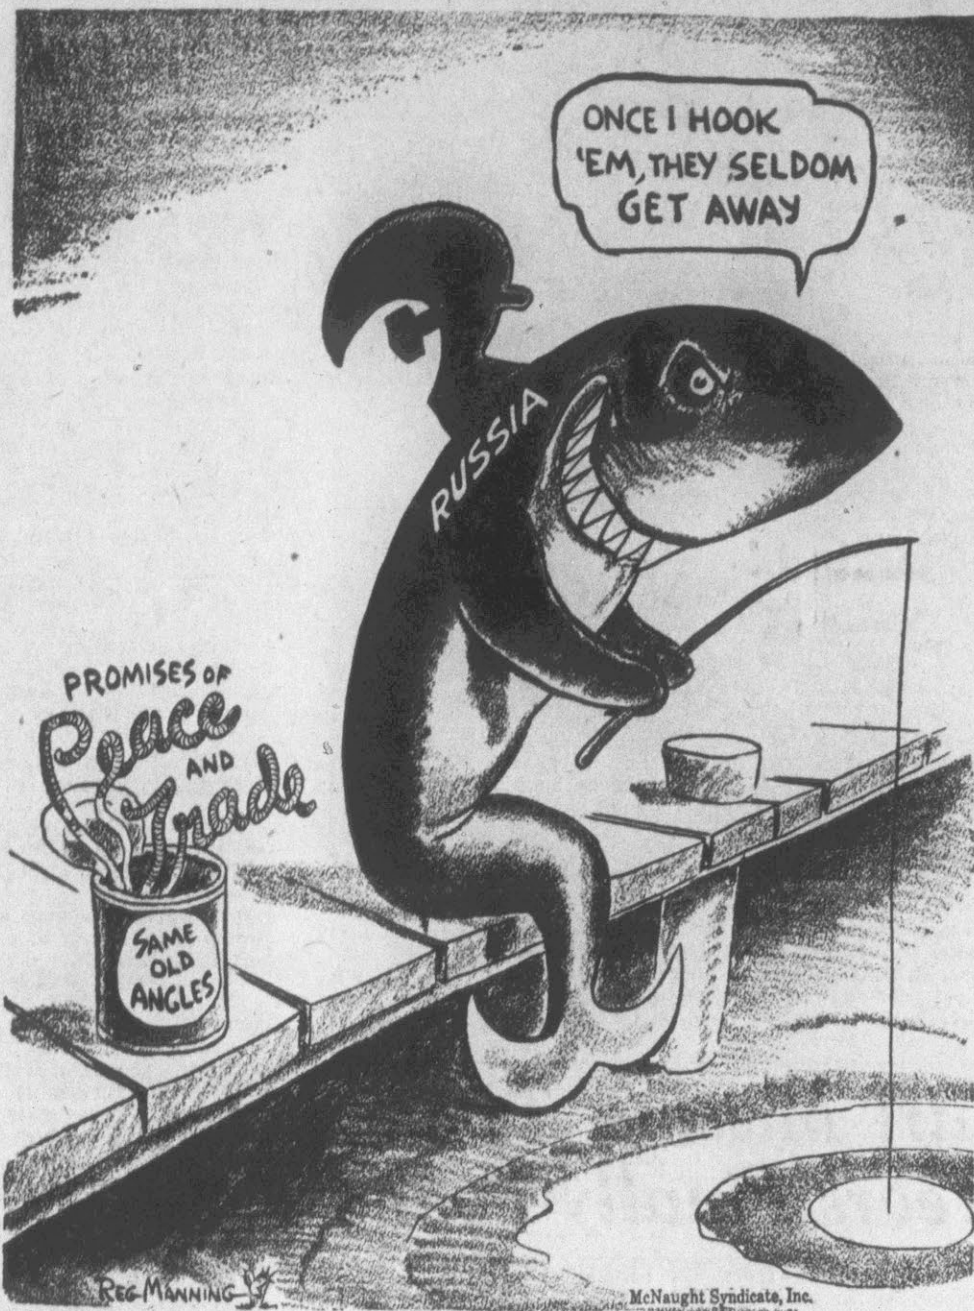

In short, Congress has put our European Allies on probation, with the tacit consent of the White House.

NAIVE BUNGLING—The Pentagon's blunders in the Stevens-Cohn-Schine-McCarthy affair were not an isolated instance of military ineptitude. Messrs. Wilson and Stevens seem to have a genius for getting into embarrassing situations.

Recently, in advertising for a heating plant in an army at Hazelton, Pa., the heart of the hard coal country, the Pentagon specified that the fuel should be oil. There is tremendous unemployment in this area largely because of oil's inroads.

Local newspapers noted that the Pentagon's action was "equivalent to ordering the U. S. Army Band to strike up 'Marching Through Georgia' in downtown Atlanta, or feeding troops oleomargarine in the Wisconsin dairy country."

The Sea Gets Pretty Rough

How rough does the sea get? This account comes from a man who's been at sea for the major part of the past six years. Lt. W. W. Lee Jr. Bill and his family are visiting his parents here for three weeks before going to Monterey, Calif. to enroll at the Navy's post graduate school.

Can you visualize a 52-degree pitch? When you draw a 52-degree angle on paper, it becomes hard to believe. But while at sea in the DeHaven, Bill experienced one. "One day we were sitting in the War Room (Officer's Mess) and all of a sudden everything and everybody was pitched to one side of the room."

"When I say everything that's exactly what I mean. Every dish, piece of furniture and even the coffee maker. There was a sofa on one side that caught the men who were bounced by the impact."

Normally, Bill commented, ships at sea receive weather reports in advance that will enable them to change course and miss the storms. But even with that precaution, they still run into un-reported storms. "Last year," Bill says, "was particularly bad for storms. Some were pretty rough."

Sea sickness? On a destroyer that is easily pitched by rough water, sea sickness is very common. "It's certainly no disgrace to get sick and plenty of the boys do," he says. Bill, however, has never once been sea sick. He indicates that if he were subject to sea sickness, he would get out of the Navy. As anyone who has ever been seasick knows, it's a rough ailment.

If you feel inclined toward a career in the Navy, you should talk to Bill. He would certainly lend all of the necessary encouragement. "As my wife puts it," he says, "you couldn't drive me out of the Navy with a baseball bat. There's no need to point out the disadvantages to me; I know them too well. But as soon as I get near salt water I get that Navy feeling."

Bill's most recent duty was that of the engineering officer aboard the DeHaven, with four officers and 100 enlisted men under him.

And I thank you JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

100 TAR HEEL LIVES WERE SAVED

(The Charlotte Observer)
"One HUNDRED North Carolinians' Lives Saved." You won't see that statement in a headline. But reflect upon it, for some of you readers are doubtless included among the 100 Tar Heels whose lives have been saved during the past year, saved because of one of the most remarkable traffic safety programs that this nation has ever witnessed.

During the past few months the differential between highway deaths this year and deaths the same date last year has been steadily widening. Eighty, 85, 90—last week the differential rose to 99. Yesterday it broke over 100. From Jan. 1 until yesterday morning 403 persons had been killed on North Carolina highways, an appalling sum, but nevertheless 101 fewer than were killed during the same period last year, despite an apparent increase in highway traffic as shown by gasoline tax receipts.

Twenty per cent reduction in fatalities don't just happen. They are the result, in this case, of a comprehensive program conceived and administered by Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Ed Scheidt, and carried out by his alert highway patrolmen.

The success of North Carolina's traffic safety campaign can best be visualized by projecting this state's record to the entire nation. The sum of U.S. highway fatalities has been climbing slowly. It was 37,100 in 1951, 37,600 in 1952, 38,500 in 1953. But if each state could be as successful as North Carolina has been in reversing the trend, about 7,600 lives would be saved annually.

The Scheidt safety battle has several fronts. It involves strict enforcement of the 55 mph speed limit; increasing use of radar, speed watches and special "interceptor" cars to detect and nab speeders; "saturation" patrolling of heavily-traveled roads, speeding up of the slow-poke drivers, a constant educational campaign.

And North Carolinians can expect even more beneficial results from the Scheidt safety program. He has thrown his weight behind reform of the jaypee system of justice in traffic cases, and a workable car inspection law.

Around Capitol Square

The Weather, Municipal Mix-Ups And Proper Names

By LYNN NISBET
POTPOURRI—The office dictionaries agree that the word "potpourri" comes from the French. They disagree on pronunciation. One book indicates it should be pronounced as if it were spelled poe-pu-ray, with equal accent on first and last syllables. Another suggests it should be pronounced as if spelled pot-pury, with primary accent on pot. Still another wants it pronounced like pot-poor-ee, with equal accent on all three syllables.

We don't have to pronounce it. The books also give varied definitions, but they agree on the main point that it means a mixture of inharmonious elements in edible dishes, musical medleys or literary compositions.

Accepting the last listed definition the word seems a good lead-off for a column produced in the summer lull of the first week in July, with vacationers still taking the Fourth, and it being one of the hottest and driest times in memory of Capitol Square folks.

"Slag" Ballentine, commissioner of agriculture and operator of a big general and dairy farm in Wake county, says crops in this area were suffering more at the past weekend than at any time during the prolonged drought last summer. There is more water in the soil now than then, streams and wells are not as low. But prevalence of surface moisture during the early part of the current growing season did not require plant roots to go down so deep to find a drink. Result was shallow rooting and desperate need for water. Local showers have helped in some sections, but the need is for a general rain. Prospects for that desired rainfall were and still are very slim.

For animals, including humans, temperatures of 90-plus and occasionally busting 100 are more endurable because of the low humidity. Growing crops would fare better if the humidity' count were higher. . . Senator-nominate Kerr Scott is talking very much like gubernatorial candidate Scott did in 1948. At a Grange-sponsored picnic last Saturday at Ferguson school near the Caldwell-Wilkes county line, Scott asked everybody who is dissatisfied with existing telephone service to write him at Haw River and he would try to do something about it. Meanwhile, 160 million Americans and upwards of a billion citizens of other countries are looking to the United States Senate for leadership in working out solutions for problems affecting the whole world.

Residents of the Town of Kershaw in South Carolina, commissioners of Lancaster and Kershaw counties, and their representatives in the South Carolina legislature, are working on plans to put the whole town in one county. Most of the people live in the Kershaw county part of the town, most of the taxable property is on the Lancaster side of the line.

Citizens of Rocky Mount and several other North Carolina municipalities might profit by swapping information with their South Carolina neighbors. And Sharpshurg officials might ask Kershaw what it has to worry about; Sharpshurg city limits embrace areas in three counties.

Tarheel municipalities which cross county lines include Battleboro, Rocky Mount and Whitakers in Edgecombe and Nash; Sharpshurg in Edgecombe, Nash and Wilson; Gibsonville in Alamance and Guilford; Mebane in Alamance and Orange; Littleton in Halifax and Warren; and Rhodiss in Burke and Caldwell. No really serious difficulties have been experienced, but sometimes there are problems arising out of State activities with respect to schools and streets. If the Kershaw folk can find a satisfactory answer, the North Carolina two-county towns will be interested. . .

Double given names and middle initials are somewhat of a nuisance, except when needed for identification among several persons of similar name. There is no rule governing the spelling of proper or surnames, except that every fellow ought to have the right to have his name spelled like he wants it.

Business Today

Executives' Rating

By ELMER ROESSNER
A questionnaire by which chief executives of small companies can rate themselves is offered by the Small Business Administration in a new booklet, "The Small Manufacturer and His Specialized Staff."

It suggests that the executive or, better, someone else who really knows him, rate the executive on a basis of 100 points for each of 15 questions. The questions:

1. Do you have a definite set of objectives for your company?
2. Do you have a well-balanced staff?
3. Do you delegate authority and responsibility?
4. Do your staff assistants have confidence in you?
5. Do you have a sound marketing structure?
6. Do you have a sound production organization?
7. Do you manage the company's money well?
8. Do you have good relations with your customers, suppliers and public officials?
9. Do you have time to evaluate your past performance?
10. Do you have time for making future plans in light of changing conditions?
11. Do you use outside consultants for major policy decisions?
12. Do you have plans for your company's growth?
13. Do you have plans for the continued life of your company no matter how or when you leave?
14. Is the income of your family protected?

After rating, the figures are to be added and divided by 15. A good executive should get a total score of 75 or higher.

The main purpose of the booklet, which was written by Prof. Donald G. Cowan, of the School of Business Administration, University of Michigan, is to counsel owners or managers of small businesses not to drown themselves in detail but to rely on specialists, either on their own payroll or others. Of the latter it suggests management consultants, universities, bankers and public accountants.

Copies of the book are 20 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D.C. In lots of 100 or more there is a 25 per cent discount, a fact that should interest management consultant firms who could profitably send copies to their prospects.

DOOP—TO—DOOR SPOKESMAN

SEE NO IMMEDIATE BOOM
The coming boom has been hailed by Fortune magazine, noted economists and Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks. A dissent is being registered, however, by Edward L. Sard, executive director of the National Association of House to House Installment Companies. Writing in the July issue of Installment Retailing, he says, on a basis of a survey in his industry:

"It looks more to us as if, while the recession may be over, we will continue at the present level indefinitely until a noticeable change occurs a year or two hence."

CONSUMPTION OF SODA INCREASES 100 FOLD

Americans are guzzling more beverages today than ever before," the Bureau of Economic and Business Research, University of Illinois, observes in its Business Review. Our great-grandfather, it says, consumed an average of only 1.6 bottles of pop each year and the per capita consumption in 1952 was 174 bottles.

While this point seems to have escaped the Illinois University's Research Bureau, the fact that great-grandpa used branch water in his liquor, while we use club soda, ginger ale, colas, tonics and other carbonated dilutants may have something to do with it.

An Old-Fashioned Man At Home

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—It's fun to be an old-fashioned man. I don't help with the housework. Well, not much. Boy, that may date me, but don't think being a vintage male isn't fun.

I just finished reading one of those quarrel-causing pieces the "Ladies" magazines print about whether husbands should do housework.

Some of their conclusions about how many dishes a husband should wash or dry in the evening are supposed to be based on polls. In 16 years of married life, I have been polled only once—and that in secret—on this important subject.

"I have in my hand here a wet plate that my great grandmother carried over the Ozarks at great toll," said my bride, the meal after our honeymoon. "Can't you at least dry it without dropping it?"

"No," I replied frankly. "I cannot."

Since then I have been a perfect husband about helping with the housework. When my dear says, "Get out of the way," well—I get out of the way.

A lot of husbands I meet—once, anyway—say they really enjoy pitching in and doing the housework. They say a lot of keen guys they know feel the same way.

(Editor's Note: I used to know a guy like that, too. Bit on the way home he used to pause and throw spitballs at the girls going into the Y.W.C.A.)

(Boyle's Note: Don't be so modest. We all remember your kid brother. Does he like the new warden better than the old one?)

There are some sociological experts who say that the presence of children in the home is natural inducement for a father to leap forward and assume a manly share of cleaning and preening the home nest.

Back in 1938 I absent-mindedly scrawled on a filmed—over table top, "Dust this" Just the other day the baby that came to us a year ago was crawling south on the floor. I felt the situation justified me in scrawling in pencil on the north side of her diaper: "Change this."

These two messages—16 years apart—pretty well sum up my own ideas of how an old-fashioned man can help with the housework. The main idea, as I see it, is to keep the girl on her toes, show her opportunities she doesn't realize, joyous ways she can inflict those small imperishable female touches that distinguish a normal home from all but the better run federal prisons.

Writing helpful notes, I have found over the years, is the best way for a man to assist with the housekeeping. For example, if you are tired of eating canned hash night after night, why not slip a tender missive under the wife's bobby pin saying:

"Remember me: I'm your husband. Let's try something new on the front burner."

But as for picking up that skillet or vacuum cleaner myself, I can't see such an act as anything but an insult to a woman's love of bossing her own empire.

All a man can do is bring home as much bacon as he can, play with the baby so much she gets tired enough to welcome bedtime when she ought to, and praise his wife hardest on the days she knows in her heart she has done the least.

As I say, I'm an old-fashioned man. But that's my idea of helping with the housework.

Even The Youngsters Know Parents Share Responsibility In Delinquency

By EARL HOFELDT

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — The other day I talked with a high school freshman whose parents are members of the Late Hour and Elbow Bending Society. Jokingly, I asked: "Do you think you'll be a delinquent?"

"Well," he responded, "I've got the right background."

As everywhere else, the causes and responsibilities for delinquency lie mainly with parents. Youngsters know this, as the lad I talked with indicated clearly.

Monterey is an unusual area, in some ways. This city, and Carmel, both on the coast, are areas of expensive homes. Carmel is a widely known art colony. Monterey's population is about 20,000. Carmel's 8,000. Inland is rural King City, primarily agricultural, with 2,600 persons in the city limits.

Yet it was here that the peninsula's worst riot occurred one night last summer. It stemmed from a dispute over whether a gang of Mexican or Swiss-Italian youths had primary rights to "drag"—as they call it—the main street in their souped-up cars. Sixteen Mexicans and 31 Swiss-Italians met in a vacant lot. When it was over one of the latter was dying of a knife wound, two others were seriously hurt. Police rounded up every youth, lectured each of them and their parents on their responsibilities. Since then, not one of the boys has been back in court.

The peninsula's over-all rate of juvenile delinquency is slightly under California's state average, well below the big metropolitan areas. But it's climbing steadily, particularly on car thefts and burglaries.

Sophisticated Carmel has had other problems, too.

Police Chief Clyde Klaumann had to warn parents they could serve their own children drinks in their own homes—but not other people's children or we'll have you charged with contributing. Easter "Hell Week" in this resort town was long a problem, with an influx of youngsters from other cities to this resort area. They were destructive, insulting, defiant.

Klaumann's men started picking them up and writing letters to their parents. It has helped keep the kids in line. They were tough just so long as Mama didn't know.

Klaumann firmly believes that the parent should be linked through moral and legal responsibility—to the acts of his child.

"We don't want to send youngsters to court unless they're absolutely hopeless or if they're three-time offenders," says Klaumann. "Usually by maintaining a close link between the youngster and the parents, we can work out the problem right here. This works to everyone's benefit. The youngster is not placed in official custody and no jail record is written up against him."

dependently. These were "Captain Kidd" and "Jack and the Beanstalk" — both failures.

Yet, says Christy, the boys are again talking about being their own producers. Maybe they figure to hit the jackpot, using the formula Christy has worked in the 15 years they have been stars, and get out of a financial hole.

The A and C formula is old gags in new dress, and sometimes not so new. The film in work now has them meeting the Keystone Cops. Now that doesn't strike me as being very funny, but Christy disagrees. Politely indicating that I am no A and C fan, he explained:

"You either like the boys or you don't. There's no in between. Their comedy is slapstick — falls and chases and such. So was that of the Keystone Cops. They were the first slapstick comedians. Combine the two and what have you got? Slapstick to top all slapstick."

Christy got the idea from a competitor of movies: TV. It seems that TV is full of Keystone Cops these days.

In Their 40th Film Abbott And Costello

By HUBBARD KEAVY (For BOB THOMAS)

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Howard Christy has great admiration for the talents and earning power of Abbott and Costello, but I gathered he does not like some of the things they do off the screen.

Christy is the comics' producer. It is his job to find new backgrounds to put them in and to see that the films are made economically. They cost $750,000 each and gross two million or better.

It hurts Christy when, as happens during the filming of some pictures, the boys do not speak to each other. Right now they are very palsy. He thinks they are foolish to use routines on television from unreleased pictures; when the films come out the stuff looks old. And he wonders out loud too.

Police Chief Charles E. Simpson for building sound parent-child relationships:

1. Start working with your youngster when he's very young, from the time he's able to walk.

2. Be a real friend to your child. Talk his language. Be wise to modern slang. Thirty years ago you said, "Hot ziggy." Today your son says, "Real George."

3. Build trust. Don't deceive your child. Don't lie to him.

4. Build faith. Don't let your youngster catch you boasting of some unlawful act you got away with or some crooked deal you put over successfully.

5. Get out and play with your child. Play catch. Boot a football. Take hikes.

6. Make your youngster conscious of spiritual things, of the

Texans Seeking Five Millions For Baseball

DALLAS (AP)—Five million dollars in $500,000 chunks was sought today by the men who would bring major league baseball to Dallas.

It was a difficult assignment—but the spearheads of the drive for a big league franchise, E. E. (Buddy) Fogelson and R. W. Burnett, Dallas oil men and the latter owner of the Dallas club in the Texas League, said today was the essence they had to get the money in a hurry or somebody would beat Dallas to the franchise.

The campaign for a big league berth, which started Monday night with the statement that all that was necessary was the knowledge that Dallas wanted the franchise, had simmered down to a stock-selling, fund-raising campaign.

Backers of the drive got the unanimous endorsement of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors yesterday but only an unofficial pat on the back from the Citizens Council, the organization of business leaders that just about runs Dallas. Only 10 of the 25 members attended the meeting and that wasn't a quorum.

After these meetings Burnett and Fogelson got together and worked out plans for a quick campaign aimed at getting 10 men to put up $500,000 each. Two million more would be needed to enlarge the Texas League park to major league size along with the purchase of a big league franchise but Burnett said it would be easy to obtain from the general public—the small investors in stock. "They'll buy if they know major league baseball is coming here," Burnett explained.

A major league franchise can be obtained as soon as Dallas can put up the money to meet big league provisions, Burnett said. And he added that there were several franchises available, not just one. However, it was obvious that Burnett was thinking primarily about the Philadelphia Athletics.

Burnett said that only eight half-million dollar stock buyers were needed since he and Fogelson already had subscribed.

Athletics Get Support Pledges

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A drive among Philadelphia business leaders to whip up support for the Philadelphia Athletics has already received two pledges totaling $55,000 worth of tickets.

Mayor Joseph S. Clark Jr. called some 90 business and civic leaders into his City Hall office yesterday and dumped the problem of keeping the Athletics' franchise here squarely in their laps.

He said the city cannot put up any money to keep the ball club in the city where it began its illustrious history 54 seasons ago. But he pledged the "full strength" of the city's public relations' behind the movement to prevent the financially distressed team from leaving.

It was estimated that some 420,000 paid admissions are needed in the 32 home playing dates (39 games) remaining on the Athletics' schedule in order for the club to break even financially.

Yesterday's pledges—$50,000 of which came from the president of a drugstore chain—represent about one eighth of the total needed.

Roy Mack, executive vice president of the Athletics, said after the meeting that it would take about two weeks for the drive to show results. And he repeated previous denials that the club would be sold or transferred to another city.

$50,000 Purse Is Guaranteed

BOSTON (AP)—Lightweight boxing champion Freddy DeMarco of Brooklyn will be offered $50,000 for a title defense against George Arango of Providence, R.I., if Arango defeats waterweight Tony DeMarco of Boston next Monday night in Fenway Park.

Promoter Sam Silverman of the Callahan A.C. said last night he would stage the bout in Fenway Park late in August.

That was, as we say, how it started. Few baseball leaders had any notion that the game would become a fixture, much less that within 20 years it would develop into a grim duel for prestige not necessarily second to the World Series in the desire of the two leagues for victory.

It might have remained a big, happy outing but for the fact that the American League—Manager McGraw and the New York Yankees in particular—quickly got the idea that it was more fun to win the game than to lose it, and took action accordingly. Joe loaded his lineups with the best he had and, if the circumstances warranted, left them in there until they had whopped the Nationals.

A pair of close games that netted a total of only eight runs tightened up the pennant race last night in the Recreation Softball League.

Harris Super Markets dropped Garner-Wynne-Manning 4-1 and Graniteers squeaked past Home Builders 2-1 to boost the Marketmen into tie for third place in the standings. The Marketmen and the Builders have 4-2 records for the year and are ranked behind Carolina Dairies (5-0) and Southern Bread (4-1).

The victory the Graniteers scored over the Builders snapped a four-game losing streak and boosted the Graniteers' record for the second half of the season to 2-4. They are in sixth place.

Although quite a bit of significance is attached to tonight's games, there can be little change in the standings regardless of their outcome. The first and second place teams, Carolina Dairies and Southern Bread, will meet in the feature game at 9 o'clock and the two teams that are tied for seventh place will play at 7:30. Both National Guard and Jolly Rogers have failed to win a single game this second half and both have 5-0 records so far.

Extra Innings

In last night's activity, Graniteers and Home Builders went a pair of extra innings before the Graniteers, pushed across a single run in the bottom of the ninth inning. Up until that time, the teams had been locked squarely in the middle of a full pitcher's duel between Dan Fuller of Graniteers and Ford McGowan of Home Builders.

The Graniteers finally got through to McGowan after he had retired seven men in a row in the late stages of the game. Frank Moore led off the ninth with a single and was sacrificed to second by Hobby Hogwood. Fuller popped up to McGowan but Jerry Phillips then beat out an infield single that chased Moore across with the winning run. Phillips' grounder was to first baseman Tommy Lupton who was playing deep behind the bag. Lupton made the throw to McGowan, covering first, but Phillips beat the throw to the bag. While McGowan held the ball, Moore scampered home from third with the winning run. Moore had been moving at top speed from the moment Phillips hit the ball and never even hesitated at third base.

Neither team was able to do much with the other's pitching. Home Builders touched Fuller for four hits, including doubles by McGowan and Paul Jones, and threatened seriously only in the second inning when they got their run. The Graniteers reached McGowan for four hits, including two by Moore, but they, too, failed to threaten seriously except when they scored their runs.

In the second game, Garner-Wynne-Manning managed only two hits off Harris Super Markets' Jimmy Gill but one of those two hits was a home run by Tom Boyd to rob Gill of a shutout.

The Marketmen climbed on G-W-M's Dallas Fucose for six hits, four of which were bunched in the fourth inning when the Marketmen collected three of their runs. In that game, Ted Barnes, Dick Cherry, Lamb, and Doug Morgan rapped out successive singles to account for the runs.

G-W-M touched Gill for a single by Bill Phillips in the third inning and Boyd's bases-empty homer in the sixth. Wildness on the part of Gill, particularly in the late innings, kept the Marketmen in trouble but they always managed to work out of difficulty. G-W-M had the tying and winning runs on base in the last of the seventh but were unable to score.

Boy Loses Girl

OCEANPORT, N.J. (AP)—Morning clockers usually take pride in how they time workouts of horses. But the clocker who watched Girl Meets Boy in a morning workout at Monmouth Park, N.J., is a very embarrassed fellow these days.

His workout sheet carried the following correction: "Works credited to horse Boy Meets Girl should be credited to Girl Meets Boy."

Two Americans Enter Open Finals

SOUTHPORT, England (AP)—Americans Jimmy Demaret and Jim Turnesa checked scores as 50 survivors went into the final 36 holes of the British Open Golf Championship today—and this championship still go to Uncle Sam, said Turnesa.

Bill Spence, who was ordered by his doctors not to play any more golf, held the lead at the halfway mark with a 141 yesterday. Argentina's Antonio Cerda was a stroke behind.

Demaret, of Klamath Lake, N. Y., and Turnesa, of Briarcliff, N. Y., had 144s. Tied with them were Australia's Bill Shankland, Ireland's Harry Bradshaw and England's J. R. M. Jacobs.

Tied for third place were Sam King and Sid Scott of England, Peter Thomson of Australia and Dai Rees of Wales with 143.

Amateur Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, and veteran pros Al Watrous, Birmingham, Mich., fired 148s and Gene Sarazen, Germantown, N. Y., shot a 149 to qualify for the final round. However, Cincinnati's Tony Penan lost out with a 77 for a 153 total. A 151 or better was needed to qualify.

"I am in there battling even if there is the slightest chance of victory," said Turnesa. "I would give a lot to see my name on the British Open trophy. I could have easily shot a 68 yesterday but maybe I will do it today."

Turnesa carded a 36-36—72 over the 6,837-yard, par-ue Birkdale course.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals is approaching the National League consecutive game hitting streak record. The switch-hitting second baseman singled in four trips last night against Cincinnati to extend his streak to 27 games the longest in the majors this season.

The National League mark is 37 consecutive games, set by Tommy Holmes of the Boston Braves in 1945. Joe DiMaggio holds the major league record of 56 games, established in 1941.

HAPPY SAL MAGLIE—Sal Maglie, Grant pitcher who has never been beaten in the lair of the Dodgers, is a happy man in the dressing room at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn after getting credit for a 5-2 Giant victory which stretched New York's lead in the National League race to 1/2 games. Maglie, who had ninth-inning help from Mary Grissom in this latest win, has whipped Brooklyn 10 times in Ebbets Field and has a 21-7 record against the Dodgers in his career. (AP Wirephoto)

After losing their first four games of the second half, the Moose club came back with its second straight win yesterday afternoon at Little League Park when Emmett Koonce pitched a steady 9-3 win over the second place Pepsi-Cola.

Koonce struck out four and walked five but pitched tight ball in the clutches to put down all Pepsi-Cola threats except the one in the second inning. In that frame two walks and two hits brought across the three runs for the Pepsi.

The Moose hopped on Robbie Wilfong for eight runs in the first inning on five walks and four hits. When Wilfong walked the first batter and hit the second batter in the second, Jack Whitley came in to replace him on the mound. Whitley pitched three hit ball the rest of the game, allowing only one run to score.

The win puts the Moose a full game ahead of the Exchange in third place in the Tar Heel League. The Pepsi-Cola team is one game ahead of the Moose.

Tired And Weary Brooklyn Drops 6 1/2 Games Behind

By JOE REICHLER
AP Sports Writer

Collapse or slump? Take your pick. It depends upon whether you are anti or pro Brooklyn.

Not since they "blew" the flag in the dog days of 1951 have the Dodgers fortunes been at such a low ebb. Within a space of 10 days the tired and dreary Dodgers fell from the National League lead to a poor runner-up spot, 6 1/2 lengths off the pace.

Old age injuries, weak hitting, spotty pitching, sloppy fielding and bludgeoning Giant bats all contributed to the Dodgers' sharp decline.

Whether the Dodgers can right themselves is anybody's guess. Only one before in the last six years have the Brooks been so badly off. That was in 1950 when they trailed the Philadelphia Phillies by eight games in September. They came on with a rush then only to lose a chance for a tie on the final day of the season.

The outlook is much gloomier now. First of all, this time they have to contend with a "hot" New York Giant team that is rushing through the league like wildfire instead of a weary Philadelphia club staggering to the finish line.

To add to their confusion, the Dodgers' meek as lambs against Giant pitching, reportedly are doing all the battling among themselves.

After Brooklyn had dropped its sixth straight to the Giants yesterday 11-2, pitchers Russ Meyer and Don Newcombe reportedly almost came to blows in the clubhouse and had to be separated by teammates. Both players denied it, however.

Newcombe admitted he questioned Meyer about a pitch Russ threw which hit Monte Irvin of the Giants in the seventh inning. Irvin, who barely had escaped being hit with the previous pitch, became angered at what he called a "deliberate" duster and called Meyer several uncomplimentary names, among them "gutless." It took some fast interference by the umpires to avoid further complications.

"What does he (Irvin) think he is?" Meyer growled. "Does he think he is a privileged character that we can't throw at him? They throw at our fellows. This is baseball, not tea and crumpets."

Once again it was Willie Mays who led the Giant charge. The spectacular center fielder smashed his 29th and 30th homers to drive in five runs. It gave him four homers in the three-game set and nine in 12 games against Brooklyn pitching this season.

When the Puerto Rican screwball pitcher, limited the Dodgers to seven hits and fanned eight for his eighth triumph. Hours later, Gomez registered at a hospital for a tonsillectomy to be performed today.

Only four other games were played yesterday Cleveland's American League-leading Indians boosted their margin over the idle New York Yankees to four games, defeating Baltimore 4-1 behind the seven-hit hurling of Bob Feller. Homers by Jim Hegan and Wally Westlake were all the runs Felle needed.

Detroit's Steve Gromek dropped Chicago seven games behind Cleveland, shutting out the White Sox 2-0 on seven hits. The Tigers' Ray Boone drove in one run with a double and scored the other. He also had two singles.

The St. Louis Cardinals bunched four singles in the second inning to defeat Cincinnati 2-1 and gain a tie with the Redlegs for fifth place. Harvey Haddix chalked up his 13th triumph.

Randy Jackson walloped his 17th home run early in the game, then singled in the 14th inning to drive in the run that gave the Chicago Cubs a 9-8 victory over Milwaukee. Rookie Bill Tremel pitched seven innings of scoreless relief for his first major league victory. Bob Buhl was the loser.

License Needed To Chase Fish

CLINTON, Iowa (AP)—You've got to have a license to chase fish as well as catch them in Iowa.

Owen Moorehead and Herb Ivey were each fined $10 and costs in Municipal Court here. They had been arrested by Conservation Officer Howard Lovrien while they were with a party spearing fish in the Mississippi River.

The two men argued that they weren't trying to catch fish themselves, but were only driving the fish toward the spear holders.

The judge ruled that the men's actions constituted illegal "pursuit" of fish, since they had no fishing licenses.

Six world heavy weight championship fights have been held on the Fourth of July. Two have been fought on St. Patrick's Day.

CHICAGO (AP)—Just 18 years ago this week, a fuzzy checked Iowa farm boy stepped out on the mound in a new Cleveland Indians uniform and proceeded to strike out eight of nine St. Louis Cardinal players.

Yesterday, Bob Feller fanned six Baltimore Oriole batters for his 25th victory in the majors and a strikeout record of 2,511.

That put the 35-year-old right-hander third on the roster of all-time strikeout greats and ahead of Christy Mathewson, holder of the National League record of 2,505. Only Walter Johnson, with 3,508 and Cy Young, with 2,819 have more.

In fifteen seasons with the Indians, Feller has hurled three no-hit games, a major league record he shares with Cy Young.

His service with the Indians was interrupted by more than three years of Navy duty during World War II.

So far this season, Feller has posted six victories against one loss. He pitched six complete games out of nine starts.

Yesterday's game, which put the league-leading Tribe four spots ahead of the New York Yankees and seven in front of the Chicago White Sox, was a seven-hit, 4-1 affair.

Afterwards, the veteran blinked his brown eyes and said: "I fired the ball by a couple of them. That doesn't happen too often anymore."

"Except for the seventh inning, I was putting the ball right where I wanted it, even cutting the corners with those 3-2 pitches."

Not-So-Perfect Shot For Manley

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—Hobart Manley, Savannah, Ga., amateur golfer, won the Azalea Invitation tournament here but he had an embarrassing scare during one round.

He pulled a drive into the trees to the left of the fairway. The ball rested in soft earth so he took a wedge and hit what he thought was a perfect shot but hit the green.

But imagine his surprise when he looked down and saw a new golf ball in his divot. His mighty stroke unearthed someone else's lost ball. It had been buried in the ground.

Double Trouble

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Hank Aaron of the Braves doubled into a double play in a game against the Phillies here. After Johnny Logan had singled, Aaron blasted one into the right field corner for two bases. Both runners, however, wound up at third and both were trapped for a double play.

Mays Has Very Good Chance To Break Home Run Record

NEW YORK (AP)—Two weeks ago when Willie Mays was first made aware that Babe Ruth once hit 60 home runs in one season, he found it difficult to believe. Today, the spectacular "Say Hey Kid" of the New York Giants is being given a better than seven chance to break the Bambino's 28-year-old mark.

With 30 home runs already to his credit, the slugging centerfielder is three home runs ahead of Ruth's record 1927 pace. Barring injuries or a protracted slump, the 23-year-old phenom should give it a good battle.

Back on June 21, after Mays had banded his 20th home run, Mary Grissom his teammate, kiddingly remarked to Willie: "If you keep that up, Willie, you're liable to break Babe Ruth's home run record of 60 homers in one season."

Mays gave Grissom a questioning look. "Nobody can hit that many home runs," he finally declared emphatically.

Mays is not the first to be ahead of Ruth's pace at this stage of the season. Jimmy Foxx, Hank Greenberg, Hack Wilson, Johnny Mize, Ralph Kiner and Eddie Mathews had more homers than the Babe at the midseason mark, but none of them could match Ruth's killing September pace.

That's the month that killed them all off—September. It was during that final month of the campaign that the Babe was at his best—slamming 17 home runs, including three in the final two days.

But Willie may pile a big enough lead to offset the Babe's September pace.

A check of Ruth's 1927 season shows that he hit only nine homers in July and nine in August. Thus he entered September with 43.

Mays, with 11 homers in May and 10 in June already has hit six in the first eight days of July. He walloped his 29th and 30th yesterday in his 80th game. Ruth did not have 30 homers until his 83rd game. Then followed a

Are We Growing as Christians? ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—I Corinthians 3:1-9; Ephesians 4:11-16; II Peter 1:5-7; 3:18.

Writing to the Corinthians, Paul tells them that because of their envying and strife, and divisions, he could not address them as mature Christians, but as children.

Paul reminded the Corinthians that Christ had said that men have differing talents, so He appointed some to be prophets, some evangelists, and some pastors and teachers.

What are the Christian virtues? Peter says, Add to your faith virtue, and to virtue knowledge, to knowledge temperance, patience, godliness, brotherly kindness and charity.

Finally St. Peter said, Christians should "Grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. To Him be glory both now and forever." MEMORY VERSE—Ephesians 4:15.

Are We Growing as Christians?

ST. PETER AND ST. PAUL TEACH US HOW TO DO SO

Scripture—I Corinthians 3:1-9; Ephesians 4:11-16; II Peter 1:5-7; 3:18.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

NEVER was there a more timely lesson assigned, to Sunday school teachers and students alike, than today's. In the state of the world we are in today the greatest need is for real Christians who not only believe in Christ, but who follow His teachings in daily living.

We need, too, to bring our children to know the teachings of Jesus, and to help them to practice them. Children are susceptible, and Christian precepts, if taught in the home as well as in the Sunday school, will leave lasting impressions on their young minds that will last all through their lives and help them to do what is right.

The church in Corinth was seething with jealousy, strife, immorality and drunkenness. There were bitter arguments about meat offered to idols and personalities in the church. Paul, grieving about these things, wrote his first epistle to the Corinthians telling them that he could not address them as spiritual men, but as mention to the class the various differences in their own Sunday school or day school classes. One child may not be a ready scholar but may be a good athlete or an excellent worker with the hands. Others may be brilliant students, but lacking in social graces or in getting along with others or in their moral codes.

If all contribute their special talents to the whole class with love and appreciation of one another as their ruling motive, they can work in unity for the honor of the class and the school. They can also thus cultivate qualities that will make them beloved all through their lives.

Read St. Paul's words: "Till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ:

"That we henceforth be no more children, tossed to and fro, and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the sleight of men, and cunning craftiness, whereby they lie in wait to deceive; But speaking the truth in

"carnal," or worldly and evil.

Paul calls the Corinth Christians "babes in Christ," not fit to hear the meat of the gospel, only the milk fed to babes. His words were strong reproof intended to make the members realize how far they had strayed from the teachings of Jesus.

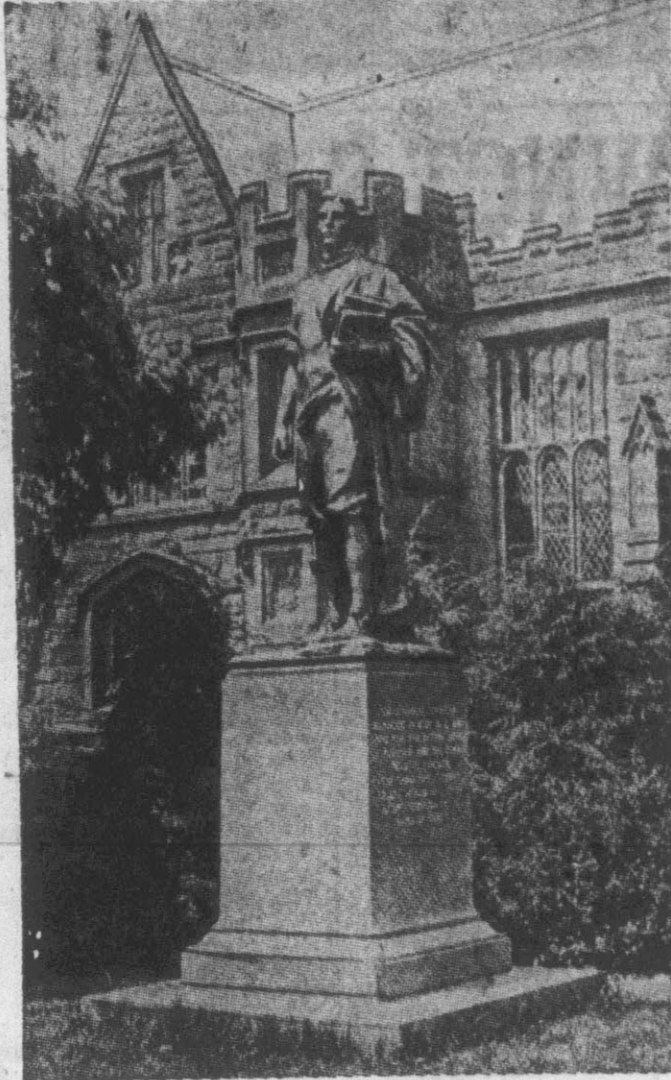

Writing to the Ephesians when Paul himself was a prisoner, he tries to make them see that there was no need for jealousy and envy among them. When Christ was with the apostles He told them that men had differing talents, so, recognizing the peculiar gifts of His followers, He appointed "some apostles; and some prophets; and some evangelists; and some pastors and teachers."

Some of us may have harbored the idea that the Apostle Paul was a somewhat austere man, much given to the laying down of the law. However, so one but Christ Himself speaks so often of love and its pacifying and binding qualities.

This matter of differing talents should be a good point as you

Vegetable Oil Is Short In China

HONG KONG (AP)—Oil for the mouths of China is in such short supply that Peiping has at last admitted it and decided to do something about it.

Because China's millions eat almost no dairy products and not much meat, the oil in which they cook their food is their chief source of fat. Last year peanut and vegetable oils began to be scarce. For many months, despite rationing, housewives have had to line up to get oil. People still complain about scarcity and about adulteration—mostly the mixing of wood oil with vegetable or peanut oil.

The Reds admit that cooking oil is scarce in an editorial in the Tientsin Ta Kung Pao entitled: "Strive for a Balanced Supply and Demand of Edible Oils." They claim that under state management edible oil production went up 41 per cent from 1950 to 1952, but last year no gain was made.

Peiping has created a complete state monopoly in edible oil, eliminating China's age-old free market in oils and fats. Private wholesalers, retailers oil pressers may become agencies of the state but cannot operate independently. Control of supply has also been ordered, but how this is to be exercised is vague.

Peiping has called for increased production. The increase is to be achieved without devoting any more presently cultivated acreage to cooking oil plants—no grain, cotton or rice acreages are to be diverted. Unused ground should be planted, the government says. Also higher yields will be attempted, along with better processing to give more oil per pounds of nuts or vegetable.

Peiping admits there has been a nationwide complaint that the shortage is due to too much exportation. This is not true, says the Tientsin Ta Kung Pao, but in the next line it announces that "this year oil exports will be decreased 26.7 per cent."

BUSY OLDEST QUINCY, Ill. (AP)—Ninety-year-old Herman G. Danhaus' prescription for old age is "keep busy." Whenever he doesn't have any odd jobs to do around his home, he splits kindling which he gives away. He can't use it because his house has a gas furnace.

Because the area of visibility is narrow, it may be hundreds of years before any one place on the earth has a total eclipse of the sun.

ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT
WELL, at least Elizabeth Brandt had succeeded in winning Walt part way. Given enough time, she would succeed in winning him altogether.

Cynthia decided to leave him to Norman's mother, as Elizabeth had suggested. So now she stood, "Well, I'm glad. I think it will be wonderful." And then dismissing the matter, she turned to get her cape.

He reached out a long arm and pulled her toward him. She thought he was going to kiss her. Instead, he said, again in his gruff tone of voice and wearing that fierce scowl, "See here, Cynthia—did that fellow Brandt ever kiss you?"

"Why, yes—he has." She saw no reason to deny it.

His scowl deepened if possible. He still held her by one arm. "I'd like to tell him a thing or two! You must put him straight—not let such a thing happen again I think you ought to tell him, Cynthia, that you're going to marry me."

"I will—when the time comes." So far, there had been no asking. Nor had she given an answer.

Wall was taking a little too much for granted. And incidentally, his firm grasp was hurting her arm.

"Meanwhile," the young doctor said sternly, "I don't think you should see so much of this Brandt fellow."

"I see no reason why Norman and I cannot be friends." "Well, I suppose you'll have to be friends, because of that benefit performance—and now, with his mother taking so much into her hands," Walt said. "However, when that's all over with, you need not be friends with Norman Brandt—or with his family either."

That was not Cynthia's conception of friendship. To use people for all you could get out of them, then drop them.

She said, "You're hurting my arm, Walt." Apparently he had no intention of kissing her. He was too angry, now that Norman's ghost, so to speak, had come between them.

She recalled the time, not so long ago when Norman had been with her here in the waiting room and how, when he had kissed her, she had felt Walt's unseen presence.

"I'm sorry," he let go of her arm. He picked up his gray felt hat, then his small black bag. "I won't be able to walk home with you. I promised to stop on my way and make a few calls."

"Oh that's perfectly all right," Cynthia said. If she married a doctor she would have to get used to his time never being his own.

She put her cape around her shoulders. Walt shut the outside door after them, saw that it was locked for the night. For a moment she thought again that maybe he was going to lean down and kiss her. However, he gave her one of his curt little nods and said, "Well, I'll see you in the morning as usual."

As usual was right, Cynthia thought, walking on alone. For things had not changed much between them, after all.

Somehow she still felt disappointed in Walt—almost ashamed of him. She was beginning to wonder just how well she really knew him. The personal side of him as a man, a human being. What his standards were. How he felt about such issues as friendship and loyalty, unselfishness and sharing. She was almost beginning to wonder if she knew him at all. As well, say as she had come to know Norman.

It was the inside of people, not that was on the outside, that truly mattered. She would have to make certain that she knew what was in the heart, the soul, of the man she would marry and spend the rest of her life with. Otherwise, their marriage would not be a real one.

That was for sure, as Roz would say. Nora had been walking on clouds for the past ten days. For Alan had arrived safely back in "the good old U.S.A.," as his letter had read. He had written that he would have to stay in San Francisco for a week or ten days. "No longer than necessary, you may be sure," his letter had read. So Nora and his family felt confident that he would be home this coming week end.

"Nora's in another world," Roz would tease, when something had been said and Nora had failed to hear it, or had given an answer that had no bearing on the subject. "Lawdy-me, I'd hate to be that much in love with any man I doubt if there's a man living who deserves it."

"I hope Alan will," Cynthia returned.

It was on Friday that another letter came from Alan. It had been sent air-mail, special delivery and the three girls were at dinner when it arrived.

"This one ought to say exactly when he'll be home," Nora said, her small, heart-shaped face glowing. Her fingers trembled with excitement as she tore open the envelope. Her eyes eagerly scanned the page. There seemed to be only a few lines.

As she put the folded sheet of paper back in its envelope, Cynthia and Roz waited for Nora to tell them her good news. What day he would arrive—which would mean that Nora could plan how many days after that before they could be married. She had completed all her purchases, even to the simple taffeta dress she would be married in.

When Nora did not say anything during a silence that seemed to grow Roz broke it in her blunt fashion. "Well, honey-bug, how is he coming—on his white charger?" There was another silence.

Cynthia and Roz waited. Cynthia thought, What is it? Yet Nora looked the same as usual. Her face never had much color. Her eyes usually were wide and direct, her smile likely to be a bit wistful.

"He isn't coming," Nora said. "Isn't he coming?" For heaven's sake, what's happened? What's keeping him?" Roz asked.

"You mean he's been delayed, don't you, Nora?" Cynthia added. "He's delayed," Nora said, "because he just got married."

"Married . . . Oh, come now—" Roz began, then stopped because what Nora had just said was too incredible for even Roz to digest.

"Of course there's some mistake," Cynthia remarked. If it were true, Nora could not be sitting there, looking as she always did. Besides nothing like this could possibly have happened. Not to Nora.

"But how could he? When he knew you were waiting? Oh, Nora, there must be some mistake!" Cynthia protested. She felt that it would have been better if Nora had burst out crying, let the shock come through. For Cynthia saw now that it was shock that kept Nora so calm, so quiet, that little smile hovering on her lips, her eyes dry.

"I said no man was worth it," Roz commented bitterly. "I'd like to give Alan Davies a piece of my mind."

"He met her after he got back to the States," Nora said. She spoke the words mechanically, as if she knew a few lines in the letter. "He only knew her a few days. But he knew, from the first, that he loved her. He could not help it. He said that when I got to know her, I would understand, that I would love her, too."

"The low-down so and so . . ." Roz muttered. Her dark eyes flashed. She had never encountered any man quite this low.

"He said he loved I would be able to forgive him," Nora continued reciting that she had memorized. "And then he just signed his name, Alan."

"Not even a 'yours-truly,'" Roz muttered again. "Believe me, I'd never be that forgiving!"

"Is that all the letter said?" Cynthia asked. "Did Alan say when he was coming home? Did he say what the girl's name is?" She wondered, too, if the girl had known about Nora—and if not, how she would feel when she learned about her.

Full Support To Tunisian Unrest

VIENNA (AP)—The Cominform has given its full support to the current anti-French unrest in Tunisia and predicted that the struggle against French colonialism would be intensified.

In the last issue of its weekly publication, for a Lasting Peace, for a People's Democracy, a writer for the Communist international propaganda organization attacked "measures of a virtually military character taken against the Tunisian people by the French colonialists."

"These measures," said the Cominform journal, "envisage new comb-out operations, brutal repressions and punitive expeditions."

"But these threats of open terror have not intimidated the Tunisian people," it continued. "They are intensifying their struggle to save dozens of people condemned to death, for the release of political prisoners and exiles, for ending the state of siege and for the restoration of all civil liberties."

The French have recently increased their native North African forces in Tunisia to combat nationalist terrorist groups who have stepped up their attacks on French residents and pro-French Tunisians in the troubled protectorate.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was mostly lower today in the early afternoon with attention focused on a few individual shares displaying strength.

Gains and losses of around a point at the most were the general rule. With the special situations it was different, some swings going around 6 points.

Trading was rather subdued around yesterday's level of 2,080,000 shares traded in a slightly lower market.

Going strong were Pacific Mills, Columbia Broadcasting "A" and "B", American Telephone, Loew's, Motorola, Burlington Mills, Reo Motors, New York Shipbuilding, and Northeast Capital Corp.

Lower were such issues as Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Anaconda Coppers, Du Pont, General Electric, American Tobacco, Liggett & Myers, and Sinclair Oil.

Pacific Mills jumped ahead a point at 37 after Burlington Mills offered to buy no less than 285,000 shares for cash at $50 a share in an evident move to get control of the company.

Thereafter, trading was temporarily suspended. It reopened on a block of 2,000 shares up 4 1/2, and quickly pushed its advantage to between 6 and 7 points. Burlington gained a good fraction.

Pushed Federal Loan For Firm; Now On Payroll

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Kenneth Kadow, former Interior Department employee says he sees nothing wrong in taking a job with U. S. Tin Corp. after urging the government to loan the company money.

Kadow was named Wednesday before the Senate House Defense Production Committee as being one of those who had urged granting of loans to the company.

Testimony by Charles W. Merrill, assistant chief of the Minerals Division of the Bureau of Mines, told the committee in Washington that Kadow had strongly supported granting the tin company a $375,000 government loan early in 1951.

Then, Merrill said, Kadow left the Department of Interior, by which he was employed in Alaska, to become a consultant to and later partner of U. S. Tin.

In Juneau today, Kadow placed the blame for the investigation on William Strand, director of the Office of Territories.

"I cannot understand," Kadow said, "how a fair, unbiased hearing can be held without a single U. S. Tin Corp. witness given an opportunity to testify."

"Ever since William Strand started the investigation against me last fall I have been pleading for a public hearing. So far, no one has bothered even to answer my letters requesting a hearing—and still the slander continues."

He said any inference that he supported the U. S. Tin application for a loan just to create a job for himself is "100 per cent false."

There is no question but that he gave support to the application, he told reporters, but said it was prior to any idea on his part or that of company officials that he join the corporation.

"I do not know of any official interested in Alaska's development that did not support the U. S. Tin application," he said.

"I join the corporation later, when convinced there was a job I could do for them, which is neither immoral nor illegal. While it is true that I have received a fair salary for the last 18 months from U. S. Tin, the first 18 months I was paid in stock of the corporation, except for $2,400."

He agreed that several goals expressed in the tin company's first and subsequent applications for a loan were not realized on schedule, but said:

"If this fact constitutes a sin in Alaska, then nearly every Alaskan who does anything is a sinner because few projects are ever realized on schedule."

He expressed a belief the committee would allow him to testify soon.

Claims Free World Can Win Psychological War

NEW YORK (AP)—House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. (R-Mass.) today urged an "understanding" coalition of all free peoples to employ psychological warfare and other techniques "which have proved so successful when used by the Communists."

Martin, in an address prepared for the 37th annual convention of Lions International at Madison Square Garden, rejected further attempts at "coexistence" with Iron Curtain countries as well as a "Magnet Line of A-bombs" to combat the Communist peril.

"We have the weapons with which to win," he said.

"They are: The greatest of weapons—truth, the will to triumph, the moral stamina to succeed.

"It is imperative that we supply a missing ingredient—understanding of the true nature of the struggle we are in."

"Given the understanding that we must have, we can turn the tide of this struggle. For then we can employ our minds in creating weapons of psychological warfare, propaganda, agitation and infiltration to counteract the very same tactics which have proved so successful when used by the Communists."

Martin rejected proposals pertaining to what he called "trying once more," "peaceful coexistence" and "sitting down at the conference table."

"If we for one moment return to the tragic illusions of other years we shall only be sowing the seeds of our own destruction and an end to civilization as we know it," he said.

"The battle will not be won by might of arms," he said. "One man or one government alone cannot win this struggle. It must be a thoroughly informed coalition of all the free peoples and all their governments acting in concert toward one end."

Train Hits Car, 3 Children Die

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A fast passenger train killed three children yesterday while their parents were trying to push their stalled automobile off New York Central tracks 10 miles west of here.

Killed instantly were Catherine Gallagher, 5, and her sister Jodelle, 16 months. Their sister Mary, 3, died in a hospital a few hours later.

State highway patrolmen said Mr. and Mrs. John T. Gallagher of Holland, Ohio, were trying to push the car off the tracks when the Chicago-bound Iroquois smashed into it.

The children were sitting in the back seat.

Uninjured, the parents were reported in a state of shock and collapse.

No New Hearing On VEPCO Rates

RALEIGH (AP)—The Utilities Commission has turned down a petition that it rehear the Virginia Electric & Power Co. rate case.

Eight eastern North Carolina towns had petitioned for the rehearing after the commission approved VEPCO rate increases of about $235,000 a year.

The towns, Scotland Neck, Herford, Enfield, Edenton, Elizabeth City, Windsor, Belhaven and Robertsonville, have indicated they would carry their battle to the courts.

The eight maintain municipal power systems which buy their power from VEPCO.

Police And Boy Reach Agreement

AUBURN, N. Y. (AP)—After police tagged an automobile for overtime parking, an 8-year-old boy rushed up and asked permission to pay the 50-cent penalty in installments.

The boy explained that he was supposed to watch the meter while his mother was shopping.

"I only have a dime now," he said, "but you take it and I'll bring the rest in when I can."

Police said they did not installment business but the boy was smiling when he left the traffic bureau office.

Winterville expects to receive $300 from A.B.C. revenue and $2600 will come from the electric funds for use in the general fund. A $1000 surplus is carried over from last year's budget to make the $19,232 total of expected revenue for the 1954-55 fiscal year.

Water And Sewer Funds

The town expects to take in $17,250 in water and sewer funds this year. Of this amount $7600 will come from water and sewer charges, $650 from tapping fees, and $9000 from the electric fund.

Under expenditures from water and sewer funds the town lists $6500 for water treatment, $3700 for water distribution, and $2000 for sewer distribution. Under the budget $150 is to be spent for sewer system maintenance and $500 for sewerage disposal. Interest expense will amount to $900 next year and bonds payable will account for $1500 in expenditures this year.

The commissioners estimate that $33,500 will be derived in electric funds during this fiscal year. Of this amount $31,000 is expected to come from electric charges and $2500 is to be carried over as surplus from last year.

From that amount $9000 is being contributed to the water and sewer fund, $2600 is earmarked for the general fund and $1000 is listed as a curb and gutter contribution.

Other expenditures to come from the electric funds include: $400 for salaries and wages, $18,000 for electric expense and $2500 for electric distribution.

Urge Action On Truce Violations

SEOUL (AP)—South Korea today called on the U. N. Command to restore its "lost prestige" by "prompt and vigorous" action against what it called deliberate Communist violations of the Korean truce.

"The UNC has fallen into a Communist trap which restricts U. N. military power while the Communist buildup continues unabated," said Dr. Karl Hong Ki, government spokesman.

Karl said the Communists have more than 400 airplanes operating from 30 new airfields in North Korea. And he declared that such incidents as the reported firing at a U. N. patrol boat Wednesday "are not accidental."

The U. N. command makes "only token protests" against Communist insults and injuries, he said.

"Only prompt and vigorous retaliation will restore the lost prestige of the United Nations—particularly among Asians," he said.

Chemical Plant Blast Injures 22

GARY, Ind. (AP)—Twenty-two workers were injured, two critically, in an explosion yesterday in a 9,500-gallon vat of caustic soda at an experimental detinning plant at the west edge of Gary.

Cause of the blast, at the plant of the Vulcan Detinning Co., was not determined.

The explosion blew a five-cubic foot metal casting through the roof, 70 feet high, and near busy Cline Avenue. The roof was blown off, and part of the front wall was blown out. Tin cans being reclaimed in the vat were blown against the plant office building 75 feet away, and windows in the office were broken.

Light Damage In Auto Collision

Cars operated by William F. Hadcock and June Tripp collided at the corner of First and Greene streets yesterday morning.

Damage to Hadcock's vehicle, a State Highway Commission car, amounted to $150. Mrs. Tripp's car received $125 damage.

No charges were placed.
