Local Hearing Might Carry Over Into Night Session

Testimony Heard By Board

The State Board of Elections was still hearing witnesses here this afternoon in the disputed Pitt County sheriff's race. State Board Chairman J. Hampton Price indicated shortly before the hearing began about 11:15 this morning that the testimony of witnesses might carry over into a night session tonight and the hearing may not be completed until tomorrow. "We'll hear witnesses today, tonight and maybe a couple of hours tomorrow," he said. When the hearing adjourned for lunch at 1 o'clock this afternoon, Price said if the testimony is not completed this afternoon, he will call a session tonight unless there are objections. Decided Late Yesterday It was late yesterday afternoon that the State Board announced its intention of coming to Greenville today for a completely new hearing on the disputed election. In Raleigh late yesterday afternoon the five-man State Board ruled unanimously to overrule a demurrer filed by attorneys for Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson which asked that the protest of Whitehurst be thrown out. The decision of the board came about 3:45 yesterday afternoon after attorneys for S. A. Whitehurst, Tyson and the Pitt County Board of Elections had argued the motion before the State Board of Elections. The hearing in Greenville today is on an appeal by Tyson to the State Board of Election which was made following the ruling of the Pitt County Board of Elections on Tuesday of last week to recount the ballots in the Ayden, Bethel and Pactolus ballot boxes. Motion To Dismiss Appeal When the hearing before the State Board opened here this morning, M. E. Cavendish, attorney for Whitehurst, made a motion that the appeal be dismissed on grounds that it has not been certified by the local elections board. The motion was overruled by the State Board "for the present." Cavendish also moved to amend the original protest of Whitehurst to include the allegation that one person who voted in the Bethel precinct testified that she did not vote for either candidate in the sheriff's race, yet all the ballots in the Bethel box were marked in the sheriff's race. He also presented to the State Board an affidavit from Mrs. Dennis Hardee of Bethel who was unable to appear as a witness today because of sickness. Jesse Jones of Kinston, attorney for Tyson, filed with the State Board an answer to the original protest and complaint of Whitehurst. Parade Of Witnesses The witnesses testifying before the State Board today are the same ones whose testimony and affidavits were taken by the Pitt County Board of Elections last week. Witnesses called by Whitehurst's attorneys completed their testimony before the board shortly after noon, with the exception of one, Clarence Harris Jr. who testified before the local board last week and was not present this morning, and the state board asked he be subpoenaed to appear before the board this afternoon. Witnesses called today testified to the same facts as they did when they appeared before the local elections board last week, and their testimony in each case was substantially the same. Witnesses called by Whitehurst's attorneys to testify this morning were Robert Lee Harris of Ayden Route 5, who testified concerning irregularities at the Pactolus precinct; W. C. Whitehurst of Bethel who testified concerning the tally and count at the Bethel box; R. E. Cannon of Ayden Route 2 who testified concerning the alleged electioneering of John Throver at the Ayden precinct; T. B. Harris Jr. who testified concerning the counting of the ballots at Ayden; Grover C. Harris of Ayden who said he saw R. H. McLawhorn Jr., nephew of Tyson, counting ballots at the Ayden precinct; Roland Cannon of Ayden who testified concerning the same thing. Also heard this morning was T. E. Joyner, secretary of the Pitt Elections board, who introduced the minutes of the June 29 meeting of the local board. Start Hearing Pollholders First of the pollholders of the three precincts to be heard this afternoon were Mrs. Clara Ward Roberson, registrar of the Bethel precinct, and Winfred Thigpen, one of the judges of the Bethel precinct. The five members of the State Board of Elections who are here for the hearing are Price of Leaksville, H. A. Mattox of Murphy, J. E. Holsinger of Boone, J. E. Hill of Denton, and John G. Dawson of Kinston. In addition to the witnesses which were on hand for the hearing, the crowd of spectators in the courtroom of the courthouse this morning ranged from about 50 to 75 persons.

Showdown Talks Begin In Geneva

GENEVA (AP)—France and Britain, united by new support from the United States, today opened the showdown phase of negotiations with the Communists aimed at ending the Indochina war. French Premier Pierre Mendès-France and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden reportedly feel the Eisenhower administration's decision to resume a major role in the Geneva talks has boosted chances of getting an Indochina cease-fire before July 20. Mendès-France has promised to resign if he fails to get a peace agreement by that date. The French and British leaders flew back here yesterday after a quick meeting in Paris with Secretary of State Dulles which produced the U. S. decision to send Under Secretary of State Walter Bedell Smith back to Geneva Friday. Eden conferred with Russian Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov last night and got him to agree to continue private huddles between delegation heads until Smith gets here. France and Britain appeared agreed on trying to negotiate a truce by dividing Viet Nam, largest of the three Indochina states and main war arena between the Communist-led Vietminh and French Union forces. Dulles has frowned on such a partition plan. He and Smith had stayed away from Geneva to avoid associating the United States with a settlement giving the Communists domination of important northern Indochina areas, possibly including the city of Hanoi. There was no confirmation that Dulles, as a result of his Paris talks with Mendès-France and Eden, liked the idea of an Indochina partition any better. But it was believed the three Western Allies now are much nearer some kind of understanding which will allow them to display a more united front when full negotiations resume with Molotov and Red China's Chou En-lai. But it would join Britain and France in providing some kind of guarantees to support and protect the southern part of Viet Nam, which would remain under French-sponsored chief of state Bao Dai. They would provide similar guarantees for the other two French Indochinese states, Cambodia and Laos. Smith is expected to arrive here from Washington Saturday and a formal session of the nine-party conference presumably will be called soon after. Dulles refused to return here himself, flying back to Washington. Eden reportedly told Molotov last night that the peace talks could be picked up exactly where they stood when the two Western statesmen flew off Tuesday to meet Dulles. Molotov took a dark view of the Paris parley and Moscow radio charged Dulles staged it with the aim of blocking any Indochina settlement. Chou was openly resentful about the Paris talk too but went out of his way last night to generate a feeling of optimism that an Indochina cease-fire is in the cards. The Red Chinese leader called at the headquarters of the Cambodian delegation and spent an amiable hour talking over peace prospects. It was Chou's first visit to any of the pro-Western Indochinese delegations and was taken as a sign Peiping might abandon its demand for recognition of the Communist "resistance" regime in Cambodia.

Czechs Release 7 American Soldiers

WALDHAUS, Germany (AP)—Seven American soldiers, held in Communist Czechoslovakia since American Independence Day, crossed the border to freedom today at noon after 12 days in captivity. The six enlisted men and a captain were turned over at this West German-Czech border point where Associated Press correspondent William Oatis was freed more than a year ago. They were met by a detachment from the U. S. 2nd Armored Cavalry which is stationed along the East-West frontier. An Army spokesman said earlier that "after a routine interrogation, a news conference will be held," probably Saturday. U. S. Army authorities said the men appeared to be in "good condition" and that they reported "the food was good." No other statement was immediately available. The seven, members of the 816th Field Artillery Battalion, are: Capt. Jack M. Davis the battalion surgeon, Raytown, Mo.; Cpl. John F. Glasson Okdale, Calif.; Pfc. Jerry W. Griffith, Springfield, Ohio; Pfc. George Switzer, Milburn, Neb.; Pfc. Leonard D. Tennis, Alliance, Ohio; Pvt. Richard J. Jumper, Booneville, Mo., and Pvt. Ross F. McGinnis, Greensburg, Pa. The Americans had driven to the Czech border in a weapons carrier truck July 4 as they neared the poorly defined frontier they stopped a German and asked him where they could find the demarcation line. The German later told police he had warned them to be careful, but that they drove on. Later border patrols found the abandoned Army vehicle near the border on the German side.

French Outposts Fall To Vietminh Forces

HANOI Indochina (AP)—Two French defense outposts fell before Vietminh attackers as monsoon rains came to the Red River Delta yesterday and last night. Vietnameses defenders abandoned the post of Chiquan, 25 miles west of Hanoi, after a brief fight against 400 to 500 Vietminh attackers, a French briefing officer reported. Thirty-five miles northwest of Hanoi, a second small post on the edge of Delta defenses crumpled under another Vietminh attack. The officer said Vietminh defenders of both posts were beating their way back to Son Tay through guerrilla-infested territory inside the French defense line, northwest of Hanoi. Thirty miles northeast of Hanoi Marriage Ruled No Reason For Expelling Pupils RALEIGH (AP)—A student may not be expelled from school just because he or she is married, in the opinion of Atty-Gen. Harry McMillan. Marriage is grounds for dropping a person, McMillan ruled in a digest of opinions released yesterday, only if "the principal determines that attendance of such child would be a menace to the school." The attorney general also held that elections on the question of ABC stores and on selling beer and wine must be held on separate days and they require separate petitions. He said a regular salaried employee of a city or town cannot collect overtime pay unless he has an express agreement with his employer for overtime provisions.

New Polio Cases Increase By 758

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Public Health Service reported today there were 758 new cases of polio last week. This was an increase of 34 per cent over the preceding week. The agency said, however, that the week's total is about 20 per cent less than the number reported in the corresponding week last year. The cumulative total for the year is 5,458 cases compared with 5,921 for the corresponding period of 1953. LOS ANGELES (AP)—Maj. William Oliver Smith, DSC, of Raleigh, N. C., has been elected national commander of the Legion of Valor which winds up its 64th annual convention here today. The legion is composed of veterans who hold the Medal of Honor or the nation's next highest military decorations the Distinguished Service Cross or the Navy Cross. Yesterday the legion unanimously adopted a resolution favoring outlawing of the Communist party.

Early Georgia-Florida Prices Indicate Banner Year For Growers

Brisk Bidding On Tobacco Market

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP)—Flue-cured tobacco sales opened on the 25 Georgia-Florida markets today with brisk bidding by the big companies indicating another banner price year. The U. S. Department of Agriculture estimated the general price average on several representative markets in early sales at $52 to $54 a hundred. This trend, if borne out by the full day's transactions, would top the good bestwide figure of $52.11 for 1953's first day. Reports from individual markets tended to confirm the government estimate. But even the bullish averages did not tell the full story. Prices generally seemed to be running further ahead of the government loan figures than even last season, in some cases five times higher. At Waycross for instance, a lot of choice nondescript light green in color, which has a loan value of $8 a hundred, sold for $44. Observers said the large firms, domestic and export, were outdoing each other vying for the crop. However, the government calculated that from 5 to 12 per cent of total offerings were going into the loan on markets sampled. Volume of offerings was heavy and the Department of Agriculture report said demand was considered good. Quality was rated a little better than at last season's opening. There were more fine and good lugs of better color and a few more primings. The percentage of cutters and leaf was smaller. The weather was excellent all over the belt and the tobacco was in splendid selling condition. For the first time in recent history, the big Tifton market did not have enough tobacco for a full first day sale. There was however, 520,000 pounds on the warehouse floors compared with a 1953 first day sales volume of 565,000. Tacomien said the opening of a new market at Pearson only 40 miles away may have lured away some of the crop. Most of the other markets reported enough volume for full sales. There was some grumbling by growers about the early opening date—the earliest in history—but no general discontent. Tifton had an early price average of $56.31 above last year's initial day figure of $54.73. The early top was $70, the low $25. The Department of Agriculture in its report of early sales on several markets listed most baskets selling from $45 to $48 a hundred. Extreme price, it said, ran from $10 for the poorest nondescript to $65 paid at some warehouses for top quality lugs and cutters. Prices on predominating grades were tabbed in the following range. Fair lemon leaf $61 to $63, fair lemon cutters $62 to $63, low lemon cutters $59 to $64, good orange lugs $50 to $64, good orange lugs $57 to $62, fair lemon lugs $51 to $62, good lemon primings $39 to $61, and best thin nondescript $38 to $42. A high of $80 was reported in first sales at Lake City, Fla. here the low was $33 and the average $50. Live Oak, Fla., had a high of $66, low of $35, and an average of $54, and Jasper, $64, $40 and $60. Hot, dry weather cut flue-cured production in Georgia by about 12 Agriculture estimated. The Florida per cent, the U. S. Department of crop generally enjoyed excellent weather. Experts would not predict prices but growers said they hoped to get at least as much as last season's record high of $51.53 per hundred pound. Because of high prices last year only 3.2 per cent of the crop was taken by the government which supports fluecured tobacco at $42.90 per hundred pounds. The opening date this year was the earliest ever for flue-cured growers, but though a good deal of the crop is still in the fields, auctioneers expected enough poundage to provide full sales for the week. Georgia has two new markets this year, at Alma and Pearson, giving the state 21 auction sites. Florida operates four. Leaf quality in the lower end of the belt was described as good by observers, and one Florida county agent said the crop at Live Oak was "the finest I've seen." The market there is larger than Florida's other three combined. Houses were not quite full today, but were expected to fill over the weekend. All markets expected a full day's sale today.

Claims Formula Found Bolstering Allied Unity Dulles Returns With Hope

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles returned from three-power talks at Paris today saying "we have found a formula for constructive Allied unity" which will strengthen the anti-Communist position at negotiations in Indochina peace. Dulles flew to Paris Monday night and held emergency consultations with British Foreign Secretary Eden and French Premier Mendès-France. One of his decisions was that Undersecretary of State W. Bedell Smith should go to the Geneva conference to participate in the final round of talks with the Reds on Indochina. Diplomats here believe that Dulles would not have agreed to send Smith to Geneva to provide high U. S. participation in the conference unless he had assurance from Mendès-France ruling out a peace at any price settlement. In a statement upon his arrival here this morning, Dulles said the Paris talks "have brought about an understanding concerning Indochina much more complete than has heretofore existed." This, he added, enabled the Western ministers "to demonstrate anew the solidarity of the Western powers in the face of Communist hostility and intrigue." Dulles went immediately from the airport to the White House to report to President Eisenhower. Under Secretary Smith will take off for Geneva late tomorrow for the talks. Eden and Mendès-France reportedly put heavy pressure on Dulles to go to Geneva himself or at least send Smith. Dulles said the formula for Allied unity was achieved without any abandonment by the United States of its principles. Eisenhower and Dulles have repeatedly stated that the United States would not sanction Red conquest of any area. "The United States has been concerned," Dulles said "to find a way whereby it could help high level U. S. participation in the conference unless he had assurance from Mendès-France ruling out a peace at any price settlement. S. participation in the conference unless he had assurance from Mendès-France ruling out a peace at any price settlement. In a statement upon his arrival here this morning, Dulles said the Paris talks "have brought about an understanding concerning Indochina much more complete than has heretofore existed." This, he added, enabled the Western ministers "to demonstrate anew the solidarity of the Western powers in the face of Communist hostility and intrigue." Dulles went immediately from the airport to the White House to report to President Eisenhower. Under Secretary Smith will take off for Geneva late tomorrow for the talks. ### NLRB Tightens Rules On Cases

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board has again tightened its rules on cases it will accept under the Taft-Hartley law, in effect turning more labor disputes involving small firms over to the states.

The action announced last night, together with a similar move taken June 30, is estimated to cut the number of NLRB cases by about 15 per cent.

The board fixed standards of size applying to retail stores, newspapers, radio and television stations, utility and transit systems, and national defense plants. For example, it henceforth will handle cases arising from newspapers only if they have at least $500,000 yearly gross revenue, or from radio and TV stations if their annual gross is at least $200,000. Previously there were no such limits if operations affected interstate commerce.

N. C. Presbyterians To Open Extension Drive

CHARLOTTE (AP)—North Carolina Presbyterians plan to launch a two-million-dollar church extension campaign in 1956.

Continuing a synod meeting at Queens College here, church leaders first voted to start the campaign next year. Then, on a motion by Dr. Samuel Howie of Fayetteville, they decided to hold off another year. Meanwhile, the Church Extension Committee will review recommendations on the matter and report to the 142nd stated synod session next year.

In other action yesterday the synod adopted a budget of $1,627,428 for next year and set up a special committee to consider continued racial segregation in church-supported schools. This had the effect of postponing until next year any action on segregation.

The General Assembly of the Southern Presbyterian Church voted at its session in May to discontinue segregation in its institutions of higher learning. It recommended that synods and presbyteries do likewise.

Resolutions offered by the First Church at Henderson, First Church at Maxton and the Burgaw Church urged the state synod to continue segregation in schools. The resolutions said the General Assembly action was not for the best interest of the church.

Dr. James A. Jones, moderator and pastor of Charlotte's Myers Park Church, heads the special committee on segregation.

Dr. Harold J. Dudley of Raleigh was re-elected synod general secretary for a three-year term.

The budget proposals made by the synod council listed $1,627,428 for Assembly causes and $593,427 in synod spending. Budget proposals for the presbyteries included: Albemarle $103,003; Concord $196,588; Fayetteville - Granville $120,945; Kings Mountain $129,294; Mecklenburg $406,504; Orange $236,373; Wilmington $129,267; and Winston-Salem $99,626.

Brilliant Tweeds Make Fall Style Show News

By DOROTHY ROE
NEW YORK (AP)—Bird-colored tweeds, employing the hues of the oriole and the peacock, the blue-bird and the cardinal, make news in Pauline Trigere's notable collections for fall, a highlight in a crowded week of fashion press showings.

The French-born designer has a subtle way of shaping the silhouette to flatter the feminine figure, whether she presents the skin-tight sheath and Empire silhouette of last season, or the bloused look that is new for fall.

Her high-colored tweed suits have semilited short jackets, gently curved to flatter but not conceal the natural lines of the figure, teamed with shirts having a slight flare. Also in the group are handsome cheviots and reversible tweeds in which pastel nubs enliven black.

Deserting the straight and narrow silhouette, Trigere shows almost all skirts with some fullness, and even adds flare to coats.

Her bloused-jacket suits are done with finesse, employing a pleat on each side of the back to give freedom without bulk.

The "eazy" waistline is present in all models, relieving women of the necessity of wearing a cinch.

Also new is the use of little fur sleeves on dresses worn with sleeveless jackets.

Jo Copeland, also in today's lineup, shows an elegant collection of dresses and suits for women who aspire to the "best-dressed" lists. She highlights sumptuous fabrics and dramatic color combinations and stars, as usual, in her group of cocktail fashions.

Davidow, famous for town-and-country tweeds, lives up to the reputation of the house with a colorful handsome collection featuring belted short jackets and pleated skirts with coordinated blouses of tissue faille. Coats are classic in line but notable in color and pattern of the tweeds.

Court Martial Ordered For Officer, Sergeant

FT. DIX, N.J. (AP)—Court-martial proceedings have been ordered against an Army lieutenant and a sergeant charged with having their company stand at attention for an hour in 90-degree heat.

An investigation into the June 21 incident led to the court-martial order yesterday by Col. Earl R. Ringler, commanding officer of the 272nd Infantry Regiment.

Ringler ordered a July 22 trial for Lt. Robert S. Morgan, 28, of Wilkes Barre, Pa., and Sgt. I.C. Richard J. Witbeck of Wellington, Ohio, on charges of taking mass disciplinary action against Company L.

Both men—Morgan was company commander and Witbeck his administrative first sergeant—have been relieved of their duties.

Several soldiers reportedly fainted during the disciplinary action, which was imposed for a reason not explained by the Army.

In his order yesterday Ringler said Morgan would be charged with dereliction of duty under Article 92 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice "in that he negligently failed to take appropriate corrective action to prevent the unauthorized treatment of personnel in his command."

Ringler's name cropped up in the recent Army-McCarthy hearings in Washington in connection with Pvt. G. David Schine who had been an aide to Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis). He was Schine's commanding officer when the former consultant to McCarthy's subcommittee took his basic training here.

A. K. McGowan Funeral On Friday

A. K. McGowan, 76, died at his home, 1301 N. Pitt Street, at 11 o'clock Wednesday night. He had been in failing health for several years.

Funeral services will be held at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel Friday afternoon at four o'clock by the Rev. C. D. Patterson, pastor of Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Adrian Kinsey McGowan spent all his life in Pitt County. He was a member of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church and was a farmer as long as his health permitted.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lucy White McGowan; four daughters, Mrs. Frank Banzet of Warrenton, Mrs. Arthur M. Andrews of Greenville, Mrs. Jean Wells of Greenville, and Mrs. Garland Warren of Robersonville; three sons, A. Kinsey McGowan Jr., of Miami, Fla., Thomas Lee McGowan of Elizabeth City, and Ford McGowan of Greenville; 8 grandchildren; three brothers, M. B. McGowan of Little Rock, Arkansas, John Robert McGowan and Oscar McGowan of Raleigh; and two sisters, Mrs. W. P. Jennings of New York City, and Mrs. R. J. Owens of Princeton, West Virginia.

Puts In Plug For Cool California

EUREKA, Calif. (AP)—Mayor George Jacobs sent the following telegram yesterday to Mayor William Rarden of Fort Scott, Kan.:

"Understand your thermometer sized up to 130 degrees. Why don't you and your fellow citizens close up shop and come out to the cool redwood region of Humboldt County where the gentle breezes of the Pacific wafted us a salubrious 58 today. Hottest day we've had this year the temperature barely got up to 73. Come on out and cool off."

Just Upset, Not Really Inebriated

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Harold Belrey denies he was intoxicated when the car he was driving hit one in which Vice President Nixon was riding — but he paid his fine nevertheless.

Belrey, 35, said it was the discovery of the identity of Nixon, the Secret Service men and all the excitement that upset him so that he failed a sobriety test.

Municipal Judge Ben Joening found him guilty of drunk driving yesterday and fined him $158.

No one was hurt in the June 13 accident which occurred shortly after the Vice President arrived in Los Angeles for a speech.

Beauty Contest Begins Tonight

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Beauty, talent and poise a-plenty will be on display here tonight as competition starts in the annual Miss North Carolina Pageant.

Eleven of the 33 contestants will parade in bathing suits before the judges. Eleven others will be in evening gowns. The remainder will perform in their special fields, such as music or dramatics. The three groups will take turns in each division before the winner is selected at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Ann May of Burlington, hostess for the pageant, greeted contestants at the Alamance Hotel headquarters. A pageant parade will be held tomorrow.

The winner will represent North Carolina in the Miss America contest in Atlantic City, N.J., in September. She also gets a complete wardrobe a trophy and an expense paid vacation at Morehead City, N.C. Judging will be on the same basis as in the Miss America Contest—25 per cent each for beauty of face, beauty of figure, poise and personality, and talent.

Among judges is Evelyn Ay of Ephrata, Pa., Miss America of 1953.

Indispensable To Aircraft Plants

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—A brilliant young mechanic who wounded a boy with a "paper bullet" was granted probation because, witnesses testified, if he went to jail two aircraft firms would have to curtail operations.

Thomas Dunning, 24, pleaded guilty to a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. He was accused of firing a paper wad from a blank cartridge in an antique rifle as a gag. It struck Warren Wiltrout, 19, over the heart, seriously wounding him.

A witness George M. Bryant, representing Utility Metals Corp. of Pasadena, told the court yesterday that Dunning is "one of the outstanding young mechanics of the nation" and that the Convair Aircraft Corp. is one of two firms which would have to shut down manufacturing in certain departments if Dunning were jailed.

Dunning's work is so classified it couldn't be disclosed in court, Bryant added.

Mayor Decides On Another Job

DETROIT (AP)—The mayor of suburban Dearborn, Orville Hubbard, who set his assistants to a special "think" period every morning, has applied for the job of Detroit auditor general.

Hubbard said that the Detroit pay is more than double his suburban pay, and:

"I only plan to work 10 years anyway so it works in beautifully with my plans and I won't have to be re-elected every two years."

It's Too Late To Change The Tide

Foreign policy by impulse?
It seems that way.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles knew the Indochina crisis was building up, and might have planned for it; but he didn't. Instead, when the fat was in the fire he rushed off to Europe seeking a solution.

Drawing a quick blank there, he came home and let it be known no top-level American diplomats would attend the final sessions which is assumed to give Communist forces a more than even break in Indochina in return for peace.

This sounded good. It meant that the United States did not wish to be identified with negotiations which they could not control or guide away from that aura of near-surrender. Not being associated with such an atmosphere of appeasing Communism seemed a good idea; it might solidify our position in the eyes of worried countries as a source of strength in their own struggle for individual existence.

For days Dulles was "cool" to impugning he return for those final and all-important discussions on the fate of Indochina. Then all of a sudden he departed in a cloud of dust.

There is no evidence that prior to changing his mind he could have done very much intensive planning to meet the situation now confronting him. The other delegates, planning to reconvene, are obviously well prepared. They had time, and must have used it, to "bone up" for the final test.

Now Mr. Dulles is in Paris. Why? On the grounds that he has been told by British and French leadership that his presence in Geneva would help win an "honorable" peace.

Actually, though, France is carrying the ball. The United States has previously tried to influence French thinking on security measures in Southeast Asia to no avail. It is improbable that at this late date anything more can be done to sway allied policies to fit our own concepts.

At best, Mr. Dulles can only plead for a collective defense organization after the Indochina fiasco has been concluded. His presence in Geneva could have no real effect on events now transpiring there. He can offer little that would be constructive now. It's too late.

Eyes Are On Georgia's Market Opening

People throughout Eastern North Carolina are anxiously awaiting the opening of the Georgia tobacco market this week.

Naturally there are a good many differing factors between the crop of the Georgia-Florida belt and the Eastern tobacco belt. Nevertheless the people up here are inclined to take the prices from the southern markets as an indication of how prices will be up here when the market opens in August.

It is going to be interesting for the people of this area to watch trends of prices in the tobacco belts farther south. Many conclusions will be drawn by individual observers—some valid and some not.

Pitt County farmers will be mighty busy harvesting their own crop for the next month; but not too busy to keep an eye on how the farmers down in Georgia and Florida are making out with selling their tobacco crops.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
DRY HOLES AND STRIKE-OUTS

Before me lies the report of an oil company which is doing very nicely, as reflected in a consistent rise in the value of its stock. I notice that last year they drilled 101 wells, but one quarter of them turned out to be dry holes.

Are you a salesman? How many dry holes have you encountered recently? Are you a minister? How many sinners have slipped through your fingers and gone down the highway which leads to destruction, laughing at you as an old fogey? Are you a lawyer? A physician? A farmer? You know frustration, and failure, do you not? Think of the Lord Jesus; he started out with thousands, and perhaps tens of thousands, hanging on his words. He ended with a multitude crying, "Crucify him; crucify him," with his disciples fleeing; and, even after his resurrection, with only about 120 people gathered together to continue his work.

If an oil company allowed itself to be frightened by a big percentage of dry holes, it would never even get started on a successful career. The best of baseball players strike out, or are put out, much more often than they get a hit.

Don't be afraid of strike-outs—or dry holes. Go on your drilling with the expectation that there will be a considerable percentage of these—and plenty of strike-outs.

Bonanza For The Tax Experts

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Many lawyers are so anxious to "clean up" on interpreting the 1954 Revenue Act for bewildered clients that they have a behind-the-scenes movement to oust T. Coleman Andrews as Commissioner of Internal Revenue. The distinguished Virginia Republican's offense, in their eyes, is that he is one of the nation's leading certified public accountants, but not a member of the bar.

It is generally agreed that the new income tax law, which will be the first major overhaul of the national tax structure in 73 years, will be a big bonanza for tax experts. By comparison, the Klondike gold discovery will be peanuts.

Tax authorities will study every paragraph, every proviso, every exception, every comma and semicolon, and be able to advise individuals and corporations on how to take advantage of every honest or tricky loophole. That is their job, and the most profitable law firms at Washington and elsewhere are those which specialize in tax matters.

LAWYERS' FIELD—Naturally, the lawyers want to reserve this rich new field to themselves, as against the encroachment of certified public accountants, former Internal Revenue officials and agents and other nonlegal experts in this realm. Many of these men advise and help to prepare the March 15 income tax returns for fees ranging from $25 to $50, as this writer knows from experience.

In the June issue of its Journal, the American Bar Association published its brief for the lawyers, with a heavy sideswipe at Commissioner Andrews because he is not one of them. It expressed alarm over prospective revision of Treasury Circular 230, which has been a golden asylum for lawyers in the tax field for many, many years.

EDITORIAL OF BAR ASSOCIATION—Treasury Circular 230 contains this clause: "Nothing in the regulations in this part shall be construed as authorizing persons not members of the bar to practice law" before the Treasury Department. In citing this prohibition, the authors of the editorial are apparently thinking of the practice of taxation law, as modified by the 1954 Revenue Act.

The editorial also states that the American Institute of Accountants, which Commissioner Andrews once headed, has asked the Treasury to "grant accountants a Federal license to engage in what would constitute the unauthorized practice of law in the various states of the union."

The Treasury, of course, has no such licensing authority. Finally, as evidence of the American Bar Association's basic objective, the last sentence of the Journal's editorial says: "The present Commissioner of Internal Revenue, T. Coleman Andrews, is a former president of the American Institute of Accountants."

TRUE VERSION OF GOSSIP—In the anti-Andrews campaign, certain Washington writers have attacked him because he "entertained" Senator Joseph R. McCarthy at his Richmond home, and referred to him as a "great American," while investigating his income tax returns. President Eisenhower knows the other and true version of this fairy tale, to wit:

Last December, McCarthy was invited to address the Richmond Civic Affairs Club. Andrews had nothing to do with the invitation. Andrews phoned McCarthy, and asked about his plans for traveling to Richmond. The upshot was that Andrews drove "Joe" to Richmond, a two-hour trip, in the Commissioner's "used Cadillac." Andrews' home was on the direct route to the hotel where McCarthy was to speak.

They stopped at Andrews' home to change into tuxedos and black tie, and maybe they had a cocktail or two. Both are "rugged Americans." But Andrews' agents are still prying into McCarthy's financial affairs vis-a-vis Uncle Sam.

Don't Seem Right, Somehow

Somebody Told Me

How Far Will Some Wives Go?

How far will a wife go in playing a joke on her husband? This is the story of Joyce Calloway who turned her own error into a joke on her husband, Don. Unless Don reads about it here, he is still unaware of the real situation.

The wives of members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce have organized their own organization, the Jayceettes, of which Joyce is a member. Joyce was under the impression that the club was to meet Tuesday night, when it actually met last night.

"Don," she pleaded, "please try to get home early from work tonight to babysit (they have three boys) so I can go to the meeting of the Jayceettes."

"Sure, sure, I'll be home early." The meeting started at 7:00 o'clock and just about at that hour the phone rang. "Honey," Don said in sweet tones, "I'm still tied up here at the office. Wonder if it would matter too much if you are a little late for the meeting."

Joyce had already discovered that the meeting was Wednesday instead of Tuesday, but she didn't let Don know it.

"That's all right," she said sarcastically. "That's perfectly all right. As many times as I have made a special effort so you could go to the Jayceettes; that's all right. I won't even go if I have to go that late."

"Honey, I'm sorry as I can be . . ."

"That's perfectly all right." As soon as Don hung up Joyce started preparing the best steak in the refrigerator for him, complete with all the trimmings.

When he came home to the steak his head hung low. The thought that he had kept Joyce away from the meeting and she still fixed him such a luscious meal. The thought probably kept him from getting the full enjoyment out of the steak. (Just ask Don about that.)

After carrying the joke that far, Joyce didn't have the heart to tell Don that the meeting wasn't Tuesday night after all. "And he's been working so hard lately!" Joyce says, "that I almost feel ashamed of myself."

What will happen when he finds out? It's possible that will make news, too.

And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

A NEED FOR RE-EXAMINATION (Washington Daily News)

The North Carolina Ports Authority has voted to ask the General Assembly for the sum of $2,600,000 for the expansion of ports at Wilmington and Morehead City.

For the operating budget the Ports authority voted to ask for the sum of $286,231 for the biennium.

The expansion of facilities at Morehead City and Wilmington are probably needed. But development of facilities on the inland waterway is needed also. And not one word of mention was made of such development at the meeting of the Ports authority, according to the newspaper reports. Are we to continue huge outlays of money for only two ports in our state? Why do we continue to neglect the potentialities of our inland waterways?

Belhaven and Washington could benefit greatly through a program of development on our inland waterway. Yet no one seems interested on the Ports Authority in doing anything for any one except at Wilmington and Morehead City.

It just isn't right, according to our way of thinking, to forget completely our little towns and cities on the inland waterway development of two cities. We want to see both Wilmington and Morehead City ports developed fully. We do not begrudge the efforts being made there. But we want to see Washington and Belhaven get a share of development also.

There is another thing about this budget proposed for the Ports authority which we would question. Colonel Richard Marr is executive director. He has been on the job only a few short months. He is not a miracle man. He took the job for the salary of $12,000 per year. We suspect that salary is far more than he ever made as an army officer, Yet, in the proposed budget he is scheduled for a 10 percent salary raise which would bring his yearly stipend to $13,200. Has he proved himself yet? Can a man take over such a job as executive director and in a few short months merit such a raise? We have no "tuss with Col. Marr. We feel sure that he is qualified for the job. We also are confident now that he is thinking only in terms of development of two ports in our state, and that he is giving no consideration to the inland waterway development.

In the budget proposed of $286,231, the sum of $53,013 is for salary raises, we are told.

It is our opinion that we, the people of North Carolina, need to re-examine this budget and see and learn some facts. Maybe we are wrong. It is our belief that Col. Marr has not yet earned a salary raise, and it is our opinion that a sum of $53,013 in a budget for salary raises is far out of line.

Room For Numerous Food Processing Plants In State

By LYNN NISBET

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—Continuing the discussion prompted by the address of Eric Rodgers, assistant to the director of Conservation and Development, about the possibilities for numerous small home-owned processing plants, attention is now directed to fruits and vegetables. Rodgers was talking to an eastern audience and emphasized the situation obtaining in that section. What he said is of equal application to peaches produced in the Sandhills, the Polk-Rutherford peach belt, grapes, apples and other produce all over the state.

There are a few plants for processing fruits and vegetables, some with nationwide reputation—like the pickle plants at Faison and Mount Olive and the new pepper plant at Dunn. The Waldensian wineries are well known, and there are other popular brands of North Carolina produce and processed vegetables. The inadequacy of these processing plants in the overall picture leaves North Carolina producers largely at the mercy of the fresh fruit and vegetable markets. That is a gambling proposition. Market prices for fresh produce are usually very high or very low, depending upon the vagaries of seasonal production in this and other states.

When Tarheel growers hit it right they hit it big, but hitting it right depends upon how the timing of our crops fit in with earlier seasons to the south and later seasons to the north. If North Carolina peaches, strawberries, lettuce and what have you reach the peak at a time when Florida produce is off the market and Maryland-Delaware produce is not quite ready, the growers literally mop up. If our crops have to compete with either the southern or northern belts, the result is low price and no profit. That constitutes a gambling game in which the North Carolinians have to beg against too many odds. Stability of the market lies in developing canning, freezing and other preservative processes through which the produce can be fed to the market over a long period as demand justifies a fair price.

SEA FOODS—A very similar situation faces the off-coastal fisherman. About the only shrimps which move out of North Carolina waters directly into North Carolina homes for consumption are those which have not been cooked or shelled, but which have been de-headed and packed in ice for sale through food stores. This is spasmodic and uncertain business, because delivery depends upon trucks owned by the fishermen or call-trucks from the interior which are interested only in the transportation revenue. There are almost no facilities for handling breaded or frozen shrimp put up in "cocktail" packages. Consequently, North Carolina shrimps are sent to Virginia or Georgia for this type of processing and come back to this State under "foreign" brand names and at much higher prices—the major profit accruing to the out-of-state processors.

Other types of fish and seafoods are susceptible to local processing. There are two or three plants which put shad and herring roe in cans under North Carolina trade names, but there is opportunity for many more. There are a lot of clams along the North Carolina coast, but no place that provides a Tarheel trade name the basic ingredient for clam chowder.

On a recent trip through western North Carolina your reporter bought several jars of sour-wood honey—all bearing addresses of Tennessee processors. That is further illustration of the point that North Carolinians have been too slow to capitalize on their God-given advantages. It might be that in the quest for big industries from outside we have overlooked the acres of diamonds scattered in our own back yards.

That gets back to the main question propounded by Mr. Rodgers: What are we going to do about it, and how should we go about doing it? The answer is somewhat complex and involved.

KNOW-HOW—It has been suggested that North Carolinians, particularly the essential "know how" to do the job. Rodgers questions the accuracy of that charge, but counters with the suggestion that even if we admitted there are plenty of people with the "know how" who are available as consultants, advisers and engineers, and who can quickly teach the home folks what they need to know in order to fit themselves into the new scheme of things.

It has also been suggested that North Carolinians generally are happy under existing conditions and many of them do not want the easy-going conditions changed by the impact of modern industrialization. That is particularly true of some coastal and mountain communities. There isn't much that can be done about those situations. If the community does

Business Today

Details In Planning

By ELMER ROESSNER

Setting objectives for five and more years hence and charting the course to those objectives is important to small businesses as well as large, as was insisted here yesterday.

But there is more to long-range planning than, say, determining to get sales up to $400,000 a year by 1959 and working out an advertising budget to achieve it. There are a lot of details to be filled in, and these details may be important even to those businessmen who have not the courage or the imagination to set their 1959 goals.

These details consist of personnel planning, replacement planning, insurance planning, financing planning and a lot more.

Suppose a small business has on this 14th of July a tie, effort, staff that gets out to work and looks for more, all the while having fun. The fact that it is at peak performance is all the more reason the chief executive should sit down with his pencil and paper and try to figure out who will constitute his staff in succeeding years. Half of the girls will be married and gone. Some of the older men will be retired or dead. Of the younger men, half will be lured away by richer firms. If growth continues, there'll be need for two more salesmen, and the foreman will need an assistant to take on a heavier load. And so on.

It soon becomes obvious that the executive must not only be thinking about running the business next month, but in many months ahead, and this will involve recruiting new talent and ripening some of the present talent for bigger jobs.

Then suppose he takes stock of equipment. He'll soon find that there's a screw machine that will have to be replaced in 1956, a bank of new filing cabinets in 1957, and all new typewriters in 1958. In a short time he'll have a purchasing and replacement schedule that will be helpful in achieving the five-year objective. A similar approach to insurance, floor space, new products and other elements will fill in other details of the long-range operation—and lead up to the most important of all: financial planning.

From what he has now he'll be able to tell what he'll need in new capital investment; the final step is to determine where it is coming from, whether from profits, relatives, sale of stock, banks or factors.

And (there's always being when we make a cake) if the planning for personnel, machine replacement, insurance and space is carefully worked out, it will not be hard to get financing from investors or bankers.

FRESH AIR AT FAIRS STIRS AMERICAN APPETITES

Hix won't mix drink and tan, Billboard might have said. It didn't. What it did say is that half a billion Americans attending fairs, carnivals, circuses, amusement parks and other outdoor amusement attractions will spend $200,000,000 for beverages and food. The magazine of the carnivals says the shorter work week, more leisure time, bigger pay checks and rising population will insure heavy spending for pop and dogs.

As an example of the prodigality of American appetites, it cited the Texas State Fair where in 16 days last year 2,400,000 visitors accounted for 3,200,000 cold drinks, 510,000 hot dogs, 270,000 hamburgers, 45,000 pounds of fried chicken, 31,000 packages of potato chips and 2,000 gallons of mustard and pickles. That does not include tamales.

Among the newer stimulants for alfresco appetites are hot dogs roasted in batter and chili cones.

SEES SLIGHT PRICE RISE IN THIRD QUARTER

Price levels in the third quarter and beyond should move slightly higher, A. W. Zelomek, economist, writes in the latest bulletin of the National Association of Purchasing Agents. His forecast is based on the reduced level of inventory, the need for replacement and the prospects of improving business trends.

"The extent of any price change," he however, "will be influenced greatly by international tensions and the extent to which the United States may become involved in Indo-China."

Look At World Of Tomorrow

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—If the world of today has you down, folks, just hold on—the world of tomorrow will be better.

A designing young man named Paul Wrablica, whose job is to help create new industrial products better geared to the needs of mankind, says that in 10 years our civilization will be more fun for everybody in the family—mama, papa, and all their little two-legged tax deducts.

First, let us take up Wrablica's vista of joy for Dad a decade hence:

"The average man, because of greater production efficiency, will work only 30 hours a week—and for more pay than he gets now.

"This will give him longer week-ends, more leisure to enjoy the hobbies he likes. And their cost will come down. Suppose he likes sailing. Motor boats and sailboats will be molded from a single piece of plastic, as the bodies of some cars are now.

"That long wearisome ride from his job in the city to his home in the suburbs won't take so long. He'll speed there in a fraction of the present time in a jet-propelled monorail train.

"Even the parking problem will be solved to some extent with small cars and more automatic multi-level garages."

The housewife will have it even better, if the view in Wrablica's crystal ball is clear:

"Most homes will be air-conditioned the year around. This means less housework. There will be no danger of falling down stairs. There won't be many stairs. They will be replaced by elevators or inclined planes.

"The need for maids will practically disappear. The kitchen will become less important, because families will eat out more in restaurants that are truly home-like.

"Wives complain today about having to push or carry a heavy vacuum cleaner around. That won't be necessary at all. A woman will be able to plug a hose into an ordinary wall outlet and zip-the dust will be sucked down into a disposal unit in the basement. Wives will have more and more time to spend caring for their children, going into politics or doing community work."

Wrablica is sure household gadgets of all kinds will be simpler, more durable, and less likely to need repairs.

And look what a pleasant life lies ahead for the kids in 1964—if he's right:

"Movies will be piped directly into the home.

"Toys will be designed better for a child's real needs, and they'll be safer. In fact, life in general will be safer because of better design.

"Television will be commonplace in the schools.

"The TV-telephone will be coming into general use."

Personally, I am not so sure about this TV-telephone gadget. What businessman wants to look another businessman in the eye when he is quoting prices over the phone? Teen-agers, of course, will enjoy seeing each other in those long phone calls about their home work they make each evening.

But why pamper them? It's a mystery to grownups why any teenager can stand looking in a mirror, let alone look at another kid in the same age bracket.

Most adults, remembering their own youth, are convinced that the kindest thing you can build for teen-agers is a cocoon in which they can hibernate until they're old enough to vote.

There will be little formal entertaining in the home.

West Learns About Red Cruiser

RUSSIAN MIGHT—The Soviet cruiser, Sverdlov, one of a number of her class which the U.S.S.R. is reported to have in service with more on the ways. The picture is based on information gathered by British experts.

AP Newsfeatures

A sensation of the naval review staged in connection with the coronation of Elizabeth II a year ago was the appearance of a new Soviet cruiser, the Sverdlov. Photographs were taken, but at a distance, and some external equipment had been removed, so it was not possible to tell much about the ship at the time.

Now the British publication The Navy has printed an article with some details about her and deductions as to some other probable features. The article is digested in the July issue of The Military Review, published by the Army's Command and General Staff College.

The Navy says the Sverdlov is 690 feet long with a 71-foot beam, indicating a displacement of about 16,300 tons—a little less than the heaviest U.S. cruisers on the Salem class.

Armament is reported to consist of four triple 6-inch gun turrets, 12 3.4-inch gun houses, which may be gas-proof and air-conditioned, 32 37-mm anti-aircraft guns in twin mounts, two sets of quintuple torpedo tubes and two chutes for laying mines.

Belt armor is believed to be about four inches thick, deck armor one or two inches.

"It was interesting to see," the Navy says, "that the Sverdlov carried both visual range finders, mounted in cupolas German fashion, as well as a certain amount of radar. The presence of the optical range finders suggests that they may be regarded as more than a stand by in case of electronic breakdown."

The Navy said at least six of the Sverdlov class are in service and another six to eight reported under construction.

"Very fast—34 to 36 knots—well equipped, and with the huge fuel supply their size warrants," it continues, "they will have an exceptional endurance."

Reform May Be Forced On Iran's Landowners

By DON SCHWIND

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Iran's rich and stubborn landowners, who balk at breaking up their giant estates because peasant buyers can't put up ready cash, may have their bluff called by Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi.

High court sources say the sovereign plans to set up a fund of about 50 million dollars to pay off any landowner willing to follow the Shah's example of splitting up his holdings.

The Shah is convinced land reform is one of the best ways of heading off communism here. He will put up a major chunk of the fund. If the plan matures, the rest will be sought abroad, probably from the Export-Import Bank or from such American sources as the Point Four program.

So far the patient Iranian monarch is relying on persuasion and example in his determined effort to break the grip of big landlordism—especially absentee landlordism—on the nation's most fertile areas.

The Shah's land reform movement, supported to the hilt by American policy, started in 1951. It has met implacable opposition from Iran's rich owners.

In 1951 landlords accused the Shah of being a Communist for proposing to lift the nation's landless millions out of quasi-serfdom.

But the ruler pressed forward with distribution of his own vast crown lands and warned landlords to follow his example or face wholesale communism in the agricultural areas. His opponents dropped the "Communist" cry but claimed land reform violated the Koran.

Former Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, one of Iran's biggest landowners now doing three years solitary confinement for trying to overthrow the monarch, halted the program in 1953.

After Gen. Fazollah Zahedi's royalist coup last August, one of the Shah's first official acts was to resume distribution of his own lands. He put further heat under the still reluctant landlords by demanding the government follow suit and distribute millions of acres of government-owned lands. He warned the private landlords that for them, as well as the rest of the country, time was running out. Since the end of World War II, Communist agents, both domestic and imported, have made deep inroads into the ranks of landless peasants and agricultural laborers.

Since Iran's chief agricultural lands lie along the Soviet border, this constitutes a major security threat.

Soviet republics north of Iran are busily developing major collective farm setups and irrigation projects. To Iranian sharecroppers hopelessly in debt the pull to the left has been strong during the past two years.

The Shah, in cutting up 2,400 of his villages inhabited by a million people, lops 20 per cent off the purchase price as an outright gift to the buyer. The peasant buyer pays off the remaining 80 per cent over 25 years.

The Shah gets nothing out of the deal. The proceeds go into a separate fund earmarked for "the creation of productive resources and establishment of societies useful for peasants."

Mary Pickford Still Keeps Success Pace

By HUBBARD KEAVY

(For Bob Thomas)

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This is a success story—the success being Mary Pickford's ability to keep busy and happy in retirement and to grow old gracefully. She is nearing 61, but looks years younger.

There are few lines in her face. There are two deep perpendicular ridges between her eyes—signs of exactingness nothing else. She has a slight mid-section roundness that comes to all of us eventually, but I'd guess she weighs only 10 or 15 pounds more than she did 20 years ago when she retired.

What does she do to keep happy? She gives a lot of time and energy, and money, too, to charities, principally Catholic and Jewish although she is of neither faith. She is active in civic affairs. She gets letters and calls nearly every day asking her to lend her name to this or that. She won't be a letterhead member of any committee.

"Unless I can really give time to a movement, I won't lend my name. Names do not mean a thing, but a good solid committee meeting does."

She runs a big house, the fabed Pickfair. There are several servants and a secretary. She personally approves every bill and signs every check.

With her husband, Buddy Rogers, she has interests in TV stations. They invested in oil too but got only dry holes.

A big interest now is the effort to raise further funds for the Motion Picture Relief Fund. She and Jean Hersholt, perpetual president of the fund, are working on a movie exhibit for tourists.

"We'd have sets and costumes and stills and miniatures of pictures in production," she explained. I said people want to see stars not things. Mary disagreed, but admitted stars might be induced to take part in the tourist attraction.

"It would give me something further to do," she said. "There could be reproductions of interiors of stars' homes—my living room, Will Rogers' ranch or Marilyn Monroe's dining room. Or would they be more interested in her boudoir?"

News From Farmville

By JOYCE CORBETT

Farmville is being advertised all over the United States by a booklet prepared by Char. S. Edwards, Chamber of Commerce and Merchants' Association secretary and distributed to interested parties by the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development.

The mimeographed booklet gives a short history of the town. Other pertinent information, including location, population information pertaining to the town government, police department, schools, medical facilities, and other data is contained in the booklet.

Edwards stated that copies of the booklet are in the hands of the Department of Conservation and Development which distributes literature all over the United States to individuals and firms which want to know more about North Carolina. Copies of the informative booklet may be had by writing the Department of Conservation and Development.

The front cover of the booklet declares: "Contained within these pages is information regarding the finest 'title town and the most friendly group of people in the entire South."

Within its pages the folder states that Farmville was incorporated in 1872. It notes that the original town limits included an area 250 yards by 500 yards and that additional lands have been received into the limits on several occasions. The present boundaries, it says, include 540 acres.

Second Largest
Concerning location the booklet states: "Farmville, the second largest—but the best—town in Pitt County, is situated in the center of the Coastal Plain section of North Carolina."

It also says that adequate police protection is maintained. "They have little work to do," the article says referring to the police force. "Farmville people are good."

The town is growing says the booklet. "Fifty new homes, valued at $8,000 to $100,000, have been constructed in the past three years, either within the town limits or adjacent thereto."

The booklet also contains information about Farmville's electrical system, sewage service, garbage collection and tax rate.

In addition its schools, medical facilities, churches, civic clubs, industry and other information is contained in the folder.

Finally the booklet extends an invitation to industry and to individuals to come to Farmville.

"If you are interested in coming to Eastern North Carolina as an individual or as a firm, Farmville, almost an industrial virgin, invites further inquiry and investigation," it emphasizes. "You will find the citizens and business most cooperative. The first industry to locate here will have access to an abundant supply of choice labor. We will welcome you, treat you as the 'Friends you will be, and are confident that in a short while you will wish you had joined us much earlier than you did."

The Pamlico Sound is 40 miles away, the Atlantic Ocean 90. Within one hour of Farmville is some of the best salt and fresh water fishing in the country."

The booklet notes that the 1950 census showed 3,000 people living within the limits of Farmville.

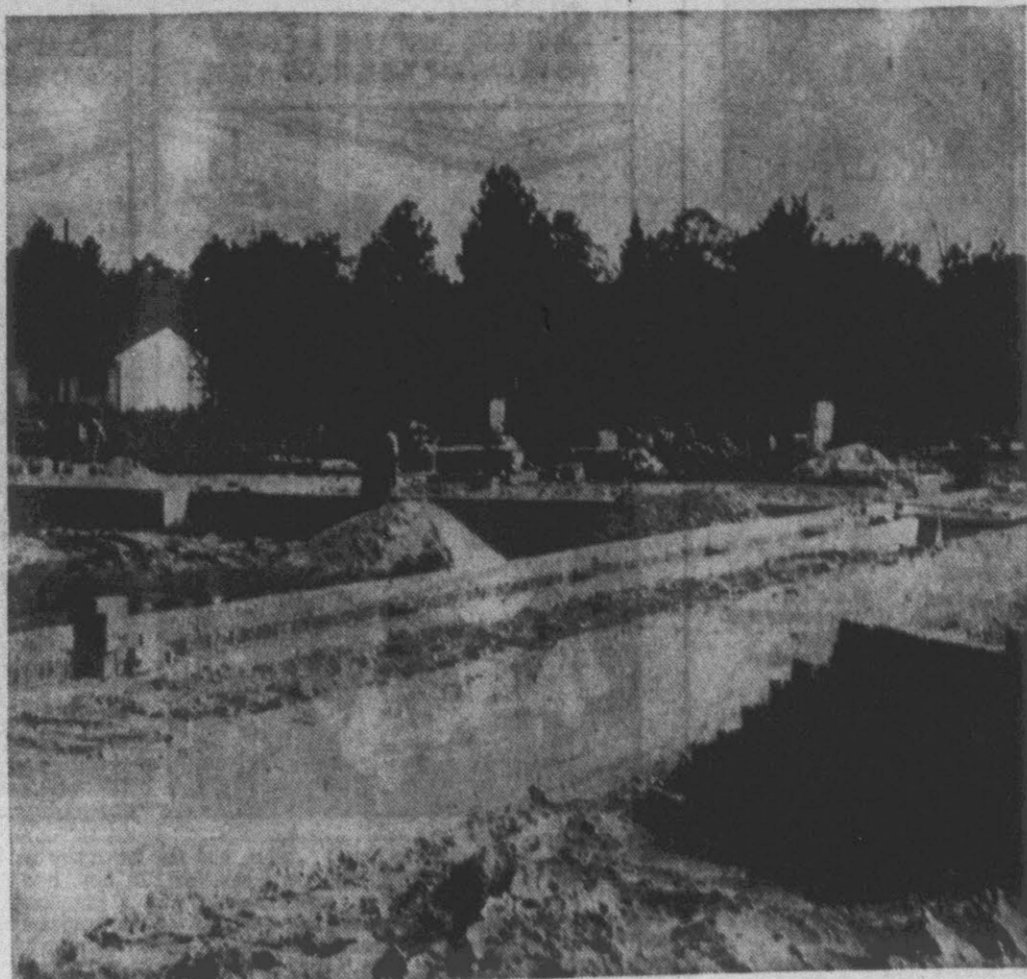

"Thirty-five hundred is a conservative estimate of the present population," it notes. "Settlements immediately adjacent to, but outside the town limits, include an additional 1,000 people."

It says that the population is about equally divided between whites and negroes.

The booklet points out that Farmville enjoys an average of 50 inches of rain each year.

"The rainfall is well divided

New School Hoped Ready In January

Work is progressing on the new $250,000 elementary school now under construction near the Elmhurst section just off Elm Street. The new school will contain 12 classrooms, a library, offices, a multi-purpose room, kitchen and other facilities. Each classroom will contain toilet facilities, water fountains, and an outside entrance. City School Superintendent June Rose said it is hoped that the new addition to the local school system will be ready for occupancy on January 1. (Reflector Photo by Alvin Taylor) among the seasons," it says. "Rarely is there a surplus at any time, yet always sufficient for the growth of crops."

Five Commissioners
It reports that the town has a commissioner form of government, including a mayor and five commissioners.

"Regular meetings are held the first Tuesday in each month, with extra call meetings as required," it continued. "The present as well as past officials, are civic minded, and actively interested in the healthy growth and expansion of the town."

The booklet declares superior fire protection is maintained in Farmville.

"No volunteer fire department in the entire South is superior to the one in Farmville," it states. "Fire insurance rates are as low as those of any other town in the state."

It notes that three trucks are maintained—the newest purchased in 1954.

American mink ranchers marketed 2½ million mink pelts in 1954 compared to 1,200,000 in 1948.

Hot weather returned to Greenville yesterday afternoon after a cool, cloudy spell for the past several days. ## Smoky The Bear Meets Indians; Becomes Beaver GORE BAY, Ont. (AP)—Here on Manitoulin Island "Smoky the Bear," symbol of fire prevention, has run into Indian superstitions. A beaver has been called in to do Smoky's job.

Smoky was created by the U.S. Forest Service to carry the message of protection against forest fires. Canada's provincial governments and the pulp and paper industry have adopted him. But here posters showing Smoky and two cubs leaving their fire-blackened forest home have been mutilated.

John F. Walker, resident manager for the Ontario Paper Co., first noted destruction of Smoky posters near the Sheshegan Indian reserve. The picture of the bear was, in some cases, torn out of the poster, leaving the fire-prevention message intact.

Then the company learned of the superstition and forester Art Rancey on a hunch, replaced the smoky posters with Canadian Forestry Assn. signs using the beaver as a symbol. These weren't

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR
WALT was to drive Cynthia out to Pleasantville Friday, after clinic hours. Elizabeth Brandt had invited him to stay overnight, for the entire week end if he wished, but Walt had declined. He told Cynthia he thought he would have to return to town as soon as the benefit performance was over.

"But it may last very late," Cynthia returned.

"I can't stay all night," Walt repeated doggedly. "There are too many matters I have to attend to, here. You can take Saturday morning off, if you want to, Cynthia, but someone has to be here."

"Miss Whiting will be glad to come in," Cynthia suggested. "Really, Walt, you ought to get away now and then. If you keep your nose to your particular grindstone all the time, one of these days you'll crack up."

"Not me." His reply was positive. "As I said, you stay on if you like, but I must come back Friday night, no matter how late it is."

Cynthia supposed that she should say she would come back with him. She knew he did not like the idea of her staying on at Pleasantville. But she intended to stay, anyway. She had to show Walt that she was still free to make her own decisions. Even if they should marry in the fall, as Walt had suggested, marriage should not take away all her independence. It should be a partnership, yet each person should remain an individual too. As an example, she still would want to continue with her work in the clinic. She knew she would never want to give that up entirely.

Little Julius started his treatments in the clinic that week. His mother brought him. She had sawed off an old straight-backed chair and fitted it into Julius' red wagon, the same wagon the little boy had been taking groceries home in the day he had been hit by the car. Now his mother used it to carry Julius back and forth from the clinic.

"Some day," Julius told Cynthia as she worked with him, "I'm gonna buy my mama a fine big black automobile. Then she won't have to pull me in a wagon."

"That will be wonderful," Cynthia smiled at his childish belief that some bright day everything would be better for him and his mama. "You won't always have to ride in a wagon, or a fine automobile," she added. Before too long, Julius you'll be able to walk."

"I know." The little boy nodded his curly head. His large dark eyes grew even bigger. "Mr. Brandt, he promised me I would walk. He said if I took all the money he could beg, borrow, or steal—and all the rest of his life—he'd promise me I'd walk again. That's just how Mr. Brandt said it, Nurse Lady. And Mr. Brandt always keeps his promises."

"I'm sure he does," Cynthia had to smile at Julius' giving Norman all the credit for his recovery. It should have gone to Dr. Sellars. She knew that the little boy fairly worshipped Norman. Norman had a way with children. He seemed to understand how their minds worked.

"Mr. Brandt promised to bring me a pair of roller skates next time he gets home," Julius confided. His eyes glowed in anticipation. "I bet he won't forget, neither."

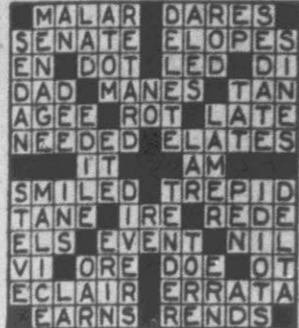

Cynthia wanted to ask what on earth Julius wanted with roller skates, when it would be impossible for him to use them. But she was too wise to put such a question to the child. She knew he must have some reason.

He had, as he soon revealed. "Course I know I can't stand up on them," he said cheerfully, "not "Do you think that will be as good?" Julius asked. "I'll always remember to do that, Nurse Lady."

"I'm sure it will," Cynthia assured him. His treatment was over. Perhaps she had been able to give him something to think about, besides that injured leg. When the mind was kept active, it helped with the cure, too.

Julius, and far too many unfortunate children like him, had not been blessed with a grandmother like Cynthia's. As her grandmother would have said, "Every sweet has its sour; every evil its good." So out of the accident which Julius had suffered some good might come.

"Business?" Cynthia continued massaging gently.

Julius again nodded solemnly. "I'm gonna let the other kids take turns," he said. "They can skate down the block once and back for a penny. Or clear around the block, maybe for a nickel."

"Well, that does sound like quite a business!" She surmised that, from these earnings Julius meant to save toward that big black automobile. He might surprise everyone, though, since he had the ambition and the incentive; one fine day Julius might have a business of his own.

"Maybe I'll let some of the kids try my skates on, and skate a little ways," the little boy added, "for free. The ones that can't afford a nickel or even a penny."

"That would be nice," Cynthia smiled into the big, serious eyes approvingly. "It is always good to be generous, Julius. There's an old-fashioned word for it—one my grandmother taught me. Do you know what it is?"

"Well, maybe you wouldn't have to give away quite one-tenth—not until you had enough to share that way," she told the little boy "Just so you remember, Julius, always out of every blessing. As you said you would, when you told me you

"YOU MEAN I WON?"—Sure enough, this baby brought a prize home for daddy in the 1954 Glaflex Photo Contest. J. H. Troup of Harrisburg, Pa. is the photographer who focused on a perennially favored subject and came up with something different in expressions.

LIVING DESFOR

There's a lot more to photographing flowers and gardens than the beauty that meets the casual eye. Besides the right camera and equipment, an artistic feeling for design, a knowledge of nature, and lots of patience, good garden photography may also require a strong back and willing hands. The grass should be freshly cut, the flower beds edged, the soil raked to look rich and fertile, the paths weeded and all litter removed.

These thoughts are brought to us by a couple of specialists in the field, John and Mary Roche, in a new, authoritative book, "Photographing Your Flowers" (published by Greenberg, $3.75). They've evolved this practical guide book from many years of experience as professional horticultural photographers for book and advertising illustrations and as writers of magazine and newspaper articles.

They consider a tripod an essential piece of equipment and favor a camera of the reflex type with a ground glass, since it is the only way you can really see what is coming through the lens. On it you can plan your composition directly and make adjustments for focus or angle or light as you see it. They favor a short focus lens and even take advantage of its tendency to cause distortion. They use it to create dramatic perspectives through increased contrasts in sizes.

Light in the outdoors is the master and must be studied, understood and used to advantage. Indoors, it is the slave and can be poured on or diminished, shifted, diffused or concentrated at will.

Bright sunshine can be a headache for it brings dense shadows along with its brilliance. The human eye can see details in both the strong highlights and deep shadows, but the range is too great to be captured by film and even less will appear on photographic paper.

The ways to tackle the extremely bright sunshine problem are: 1. Use flash to penetrate shadows, or 2. Use bright reflectors. 3. Coordinate: (a) exposure, (b) development, (c) negative retouching, and (d) printing to achieve the best results.

In (a), the exposure is figured for the shadow areas. A negative must contain shadow area detail to start with or it can never appear in the print. In step (b), the film is developed for the highlights, to prevent their blocking up. The authors recommend development by inspection.

In simpler terms, camera fans usually refer to these two steps as "overexposure and underdevelopment." They open the shutter one half or one full stop over normal and decrease development time by about one fourth.

In (c) negatives are retouched by painting new-cocaine, a red liquid, over the thin areas, in the final step, (d), printing, it is necessary to dodge and burn in thin and heavy areas of the negative to hold back shadows and bring out highlight details.

The ideal light for making color pictures is a slightly hazy sun. When it comes somewhat from the back, flowers and foliage are edged with light while the centers have rich tone and detail.

When flowers are brought indoors for photographing, they should be conditioned to prevent wilting. Different species call for different treatment, say the Roches starting with proper cutting. Some plants "bleed" because their stems contain a liquid which is lost before they are placed in water. Woody stemmed plants should have their stems crushed with a stone to allow good absorption when placed in water. Soft stemmed plants should be sliced with a sharp knife in a slanting cut and placed immediately in deep water.

Pin holders, such as are used for making flower arrangements, make handy aids for holding flowers in position for photographing. Another helpful device is to wrap modeling clay around each stem base before it is stuck on each pin holder. Any slight adjustment in flower position is then made easily by twisting the clay.

These few hints might get you started on taking flower pictures, but if you intend to get serious about the art, I'd recommend that you sit down with John and Mary Roche and absorb their advice in full.

What's new? After six years, a re-designed Polaroid picture-in-a-minute camera makes its national appearance in a lighter, cheaper, smaller edition. The new Highlander model will cost about $30 less than the pioneer Model 95 which started the world with its unique picture-in-a-minute principle in 1948. It will use a new lower-priced film to turn out smaller prints (2 3/4" by 3 1/2") on the same principle.

In contrast to the present bulky model, the new camera can slip into a man's pocket or a woman's purse. Folded, it measures 7 1/2 inches long, 4 1/2 inches wide and 2 1/2 inches thick.

Exposure is still determined by turning a single numbered dial according to the light conditions. Each dial number brings a different shutter-and-lens combination from 1-25th second at f-8.8 in the poorest light to 1-100th second at f-50, in the brightest light.

Flash gun, exposure meter, leather case, filter and close-up kits are available as accessory equipment.

Weighty Problem Still Unsolved

NEW YORK (AP)—A weighty problem went unresolved today at the Bronx Zoo: How heavy is hippo Peter II?

Keeper Bob Montana set up a hippo-size scale and loaded it down with lures, such as vegetables and leaves.

Then he tugged away furiously, so to speak.

Peter II got his front feet up on the scale, paused, and turned contemptuously away.

His weight, it might be said, is somewhere between 500 and 700 pounds, plus that of the goodies he got for doing nothing.

Worst Heat Wave Of Season For Midwest Cooled By Storm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Violent storms in the East and an expanding cool front in the Midwest partially cracked the season's worst heat wave today as the death toll from more than a week of scorching temperatures neared the 100 mark.

The heat-relieving storms left a multimillion-dollar trail of wind and lightning damage across New England, eastern New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Ohio and southern Michigan.

Winds of near-hurricane strength uprooted trees, peeled off roofs, snapped power and telephone lines and blocked highways.

The mercury hit a sizzling 130 degrees at Fort Scott, Kan., before the cooler air began moving into that state. Temperatures of 100 degrees or higher were common from Kansas, Oklahoma and northern Texas eastward to the Atlantic.

Thousands of baby chicks died from the heat in Arkansas. The Arkansas Poultry Federation said the state's poultry industry may suffer its worst baby-chick shortage in history.

Volunteers responded to an appeal to help save the lives of feeble-minded patients at the state training school in Winfield, Kan. Some Mongolian-type patients are supersensitive to the heat because of deficiency in a gland that acts as a sort of thermostat in the body. They had to be packed in ice or otherwise externally cooled.

Eleven patients have died in Kansas mental institutions this week.

Even tropical plants at the Missouri Botanical Garden in St. Louis withered.

An automatic sprinkler system went into action in a suburban St. Louis car factory when the temperature reached 165 degrees in the firm's attic. Workers were drenched and the office was flooded.

Missouri had 29 fatalities; Oklahoma, 18; Kansas, 18; Illinois, 8; Kentucky, 5; Colorado, 4; and Iowa, Louisiana, Nebraska, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Connecticut, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and Ohio, 1 each.

These all-time high temperatures were recorded: St. Louis, 112; Springfield, Ill., 114; Columbia, Mo., 113; Springfield, Mo., 113; and Tulsa, Okla., 112.

Other high readings included Philadelphia, 101; Washington, D.C., 100; Huntington, W. Va., 105; Richmond, Va., 103; Baltimore, 101; Newark, N.J., 101; Terre Haute, Ind., 107; Columbus, Ohio, 104; Arkansas City, Kan., 118; Mexico, Mo., 116; and Kansas City, 110.

Upstate areas of New York suffered severe storm damage. At Pen Yan, in the Finger Lakes region, the mayor declared a state of emergency and estimated damage at two million dollars.

The heat also touched off severe storms in the South and West.

A heavy rainstorm with winds up to 62 miles an hour hit Denver.

One of the worst electrical storms in years caused thousands of dollars of damage in Atlanta. Half the city was without power service at one time.

Cool Canadian air spread across most of the Northern Plains and Midwest, ending the heat wave in those sections.

Group Notes Big Deluge Of Crime 'For Children'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The National Assn. for Better Radio and Television reported today that crime themes have become more dominant this year than ever before in television programs for children.

"Murder, torture, sadism, morbid suspense and other fear and tension inducing elements are saturating children's minds and physical senses to a degree never before experienced by any generation," the association said in its fourth annual report on children's radio and television programs.

"Television, more than any other medium, is responsible for this crime deluge."

"Programs which use crime as their basic story theme have always dominated children's TV programming, but at first these crime programs were mostly inherited from the theatrical film industry. Today, crime programs for children are being produced specifically for television in a volume approximately four times greater than in 1951."

"During the period of our 1954 survey, 29 children's crime programs (20 different series) produced on film for TV were being televised each week by the seven stations in Los Angeles. In 1951 there were five such series; in 1952 there were nine; and in 1953 there were 15. This crime programming is preserved on film for distribution and redistribution throughout the United States and other countries."

Based on surveys made by an evaluation committee, the association listed children's TV programs fair, poor, objectionable, and most objectionable. Listed as excellent were: Adventures of Blinky, Campus Farmers, Contest Carnival, Ding Dong School, Kukla, Fran and Ollie, Little School House, Mr. Wizard, Super Circus, The Princess, Who Knows This? Winky Dinky and You, Youth Takes a Stand, Youth Wants to Know and Zoo Parade.

Liaras was "most objectionable" on Zoo Parade.

Listed as "most objectionable" were Captain Midnight, Captain Video, Dick Tracy, Eastside Kids and Ramar of the Jungle.

The association is a nonprofit corporation founded in 1949 by Mrs. Clara S. Logan, wife of a Los Angeles dentist. Lee de Forest, radio pioneer, is a member of the Board of Directors. Members of the association include many educators, scientists and ministers.

LAST OF HER KIND—The Pacific Queen, last full-rigged ship to fly the American flag, is steamed in a San Francisco drydock as marine engineers prepare to survey and test her hull. If she passes tests the 68-year-old vessel will be purchased by the San Francisco Maritime Museum. Shipyard firms and labor unions have offered to refit her free for use as a floating exhibit of days of sail. Built in Scotland, she sailed in the grain and Alaska fish trade before her retirement. The Pacific Queen later served as a set for the movie, "Mutiny on the Bounty." (AP Wirephoto)

Highway Program Will Help U.S. Businessmen

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Fifty billion dollars is a lot of money.

Yet many a driver who tackled the more popular of the nation's highways over recent weekends would probably agree that the new roads the 50 billion dollars would buy could well be used. As President Eisenhower points out "billions of hours" are wasted in traffic jams and delays.

Businessmen as well as politicians, will have plenty to argue about in the President's proposal. The states and the federal government may debate who should build the roads, who should collect the gasoline and auto taxes.

But for all there is one point of optimism. The President's stressing of the need for more roads points up one of the facets of the great growth prospects for the nation.

Many businessmen have insisted all along that the recent slowdown in industrial activity is but a breather before another upward push which will be brought about by the growth of population and the increasing demands of a still-rising standard of living.

The immediate interests of business, however, in a great transcontinental highway program are wide.

Such a plan is bound to bring up the railroads' argument that their freight-carrying rivals, the trucking companies, will be getting taxpayer-paid rights of ways.

The railroads stress the same

Godfrey Fires Staff Member

NEW YORK (AP)—Television's Arthur Godfrey says he has fired a member of his staff for drunkenness on the job because "that's the one thing I'll not tolerate on this program."

Godfrey made the announcement on his show yesterday but did not disclose who it was. According to rumors at CBS, it was a writer rather than a performer.

Said Godfrey on his program: "I fired a man yesterday that I told the last time—which was the seventh time—that I wouldn't take it again. Seven times I took it and I said, 'Once more and that's the end.'"

Godfrey denied reports that he may break up his TV team because of off-stage romances.

"There is no girl on this show whose job is in jeopardy," he said.

"I don't give a hoot whom they're in love with whom they marry, whom they divorce, whom they have babies with."

"I just hope that if they do it's with their husbands and everything is fine."

Rapist Removed To Another Jail For Protection

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—A tall, strapping 196-pounder charged with the rape of a 5-month-old infant was held in the Lubbock County Jail today because officers feared mob violence at Seminole, Tex., the baby's home.

William Thomas, Hughes, a 34-year-old ex-convict, was spirited out of Seminole by three Gaines County officers last night and brought here for "safekeeping."

The police said the jail at Seminole was "not of the maximum security type."

Earlier, officers had denied a newspaper report that "ominous little groups of men" gathered around the Seminole jail.

Hughes, who stands 6 feet 2, was arrested yesterday about two miles from his abandoned automobile after the father of Jackie Jo Davis took the tot from the ex-convict and rushed her to a Seminole hospital.

Officers said Hughes took the child from her bed while the parents, a former GI and his Japanese wife, were at a Hobbs, N.M., bar where the father is a bartender.

The mother, Mrs. Jack Davis, 26, left Hughes with the infant and a 5-year-old son while she visited her husband at the bar. The Davis' two-room cabin is about 20 or 30 feet inside Texas across the line from Hobbs.

The boy was still asleep and unharmed when the mother returned to the cabin, but Hughes and Jackie Jo were missing.

Deputy Sheriff J. O. Fort of Lea County, N.M., said Davis found Hughes and the baby about 4 a.m. took the child from the ex-convict and rushed her to Seminole, where officers were notified.

Fort said Texas officers reported the incident to him and he tracked Hughes two miles from the spot where the Texans had recovered his car.

Hughes and the three Gaines County officers were met last night at Brownfield by two Texas Rangers and Lubbock County Sheriff Grady Harris, who escorted the group into Lubbock.

Harris said Hughes talked freely about the case but maintained he could not remember what happened. The sheriff said the man appeared deeply concerned about his involvement.

Gun-Point Plane Trip Bid Spoiled

SEATTLE (AP)—I wanted to go to Africa and live in the jungles," explained the muscular young farmer.

He had just been arrested yesterday after trying to take over a Trans-Canada airliner and firing a couple of pistol shots that sent a terrified stewardess scurrying from the plane parked at Seattle-Tacoma International Airport.

Eddie Marmur, 21, who makes a hobby of weight lifting, told reporters he planned to force the plane crew to fly him to Africa because he didn't like the "hokey draft."

There was no one aboard the plane, however, except the stewardess, Isabel Abraham, 24.

She turned from inspecting the forward part of the plane to find the youth seated in a front seat.

He pulled a pistol, she said, and "told me to sit down. Instead, I ran down the aisle. Don't ask me how I did it. Just as I rounded the last seat he fired the first shot."

"I think I felt the bullet whistle by. I thought he had me."

The bullet pierced a rear baggage compartment door.

Then as the stewardess ran down the steps from the cabin, another shot was fired, tearing a hole in the plane's fuselage.

Police soon arrived and at their command Marmur tossed his weapon through the door and came out with his hands up.

"I thought she'd stop if she heard the shot," he said, "but she just went faster. I didn't shoot at her. I shot by her."

No charges have been filed.

SEQUIM, Wash. (AP)—Two boys wanted Russian stamps for their collection and wrote direct to Premier G.M. Malenkov. Back came the stamps — 120 of them. Bill Keller, 14, and Eldon Spady, 14, also got a letter from a man in the Russian export department, polite but formal saying the stamps were being sent gratis.

"Since you are interested in collecting Soviet postage stamps," is added, "we wish to recommend that in future you obtain our stamps through the medium of philatelic firms in your country."

"The literature of the Soviet Union (1 copy) will be sent you under separate cover." The literature hasn't arrived. The boys say they think postal authorities may have stopped the second letter as propaganda.

Dancers Invent System For Scoring Of Steps

By W.G. ROGERS

Associated Press Arts Editor
NEW YORK, (AP)—Dance history is being made in an abandoned elevator shaft on lower Sixth Avenue.

A dancer may need a barn floor, but the Dance Notation Bureau operates in a place about as big as an actual bedroom bureau.

Every time the president, Ann Hutchinson, pulls out a drawer of her desk, her visitor ducks out of the way. Every time she waves an arm to illustrate a dance point, her hand is apt to poke into a file, a cabinet, a shelf, a wall, or right through the open door into the hall.

Miss Hutchinson's bureau occupies two slices of the shaft, on the levels of the third and fourth floors. So obviously it's a walk-up, hard on newsmen who don't keep fit, easy on young dancers and on young, pretty and ardent Miss Hutchinson and her helpers. They don't earn pin money at it, but what crusaders ever did?

Among Miss Hutchinson's great-grandfathers were Henry Wadsworth Longfellow and Richard Henry Dana, author of "Two Years Before the Mast." For our purposes, however, her immediate beginnings were in the field of dance. You might have been lucky enough to see her in "One Touch of Venus," "Kiss Me, Kate" or other Broadway shows.

But when a girl dances, how is she going to be able to tell about it? That has always been a key problem: How to make a record of it, how to show people who can't see you do it what you do and how. Once that was the music problem solved by neumes from Gregorian chant, by Guido d'Arezzo's staff and other later means. Now you can do the same with dance—or Miss Hutchinson and her consecrated band can do.

With the aid of a Rockefeller Foundation grant, she wrote a book, newly published, "Labanotation" (New Directions). It gets its name from Rudolf Laban, who began 50 years ago to write down dance movements which, because they involve so many parts of the body, because they go forward and backward, up and down, left and right, fast and slow, have before been extremely difficult to pin down on paper.

Earlier notation systems were developed, but they seemed to be exclusively for particular dance styles; a choreographer wanted to record his own dances but made no provision for others. The Hutchinson school method covers the entire field.

"This standardizes the classics," says Miss Hutchinson. "Now we can know from one generation to the next just exactly what motions were made in any dance thus recorded."

The work being in its early stages, there is only a small library available to date; it does not overflow one large drawer in a sizeable cabinet in the elevator-shaft office of the Notation Bureau.

Classes are being taught labanotation in Philadelphia, there are learners in New York of course, and an expert labanotator filled with missionary zeal has just set out for Paris.

The printed labanotation page looks like a combination of hieroglyphs, pictographs, Morse dots-and-dashes, doodles, and a music score turned on edge. The system is based on a staff, which is read from the bottom up; it has different spaces for head, arms, legs and so on, and differing degrees of slanting to indicate the time element. About 12 minutes of dance can be recorded on about 40 pages.

There are two kinds of dance to record: The new one in the course of being created, and the one already finished. To record the new work, the labanotator sits in on rehearsals, takes notes, hour after hour and day after day.

Or the labanotator may sit in on rehearsals of a dance already created and take notes. Then every dancer must be interviewed separately to get details.

Billy Cox Pitches Second Redmen No-Hitter Of Week

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer
The Redmen did again last night with Billy Cox chucking the second no-hitter of the week for the Redmen as he led his teammates to a 7-4 win over third place National Guard.

Wildness kept Cox constantly in trouble although no one reached base on a safely hit ball. Cox walked five and hit one batter while three batters reached first on errors.

While Cox was handcuffing the Guardians his teammates were pounding Bobby Pridmore for seven runs. Four runs in the third inning decided the issue for the Redmen. Hudson walked and stole around to third base in the third inning. Cox lined a single and Hudson scored. Station smashed a double but Cox was cut down at the plate. After a walk to Johnny Johnson, Arthur Andrews came through with a ringing double to score two runs. Roberts single knocked in Andrews with the fourth tally.

The Guard scored on Cox in the first by virtue of an error, a walk, a hit batsman and a wild pitch. Two walks and an error led to two runs in the third off Cox and the final came in the seventh.

In going the route Cox struck out seven batters.

On Monday night of this week, Charles Stanton, a teammate of Cox pitched a no-hit, no-run ball game against the Bright Leafs. Cox's no-hitter last night put the Redmen into a first place tie with the Bright Leaf team. The Redmen won the first half and are making a very strong bid for the same honors in the second half of play.

Cox and Roberts led the hitting for the day for the Redmen with two hits each.

There will be no regularly scheduled PONY League action until next Thursday night. Tonight's game will be played next Thursday and the schedule will be taken up from there.

The teams will not play because of the All-Star games played in Rocky Mount next week. The PONY League All-Stars will play this afternoon at 4 o'clock and tomorrow night at 8 o'clock against the PONY League graduates.

Pepsi-Cola	3	5	.375

The Exchange team finished its 1954 Little League season yesterday afternoon with a 9-5 win over the Pepsi-Cola team. The win, the third straight for Coach Neely James' fast-rising crew, carried them into second place in the Tar Heel League play.

The hard-hitting Exchange crew had difficulty hitting Jack Whitley in the opening rounds but unleashed a five run attack in the third. That got the ball rolling and there was no stopping it from there on out.

While enjoying a happy hunting ground hitting spree off Whitley's deliveries, Jeff Fountain held the Pepsi to five hits and five runs.

Five runs in the third put the game out of reach of the Pepsi-Cola team. They never could catch up after that outburst. James Earl Ward led off with a double. Three straight errors by the Pepsi first baseman let over two runs and James scored on a wild pitch for the third. Bill Clapp slapped a single and chased Erskine Duff all SPRINGFIELD, N.J. — Sam Snead, who now has failed to win the U.S. Open golf title 14 times, sounded like an outboard motor after his third round 72 put him five strokes off the pace.

"If I could only take advantage of the greens," said the Virginia pro. "It's the same old story—putt, putt, putt, putt."

"Off the tees I play like a machine. I missed the edge of the fairways only twice and when I get on the greens I can't see them. I just lost another Open."

Campanella Says All-Star Hurlers Didn't Have It

MILWAUKEE (AP) — You probably got the same idea from television—that the All-Star Game pitching Tuesday left something to be desired—and a guy who was in a position to know will back you up.

"Now," said Roy Campanella last night, "none of 'em had much." Campy was waiting his turn in the batting cage while his Brooklyn Dodger mates were warming up for what turned out to be their 2-1, 12-inning win over Milwaukee. He caught the first seven innings of the All-Star Game for the Nationals as the American Leaguers won 11-9.

Final Tribute To 'Granny' Rice

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the finest, most lovable men I have known or privileged to know, Grantland Rice, will not be seen around the big sports events again, and a great sadness lies today over those of us who have for all these years worked and laughed in the company of the one we called "Granny."

The great sports historian, who could write enduring poetry in the confusion of a cold press box, will be buried tomorrow amid the mourning of his friends than whom few men have possessed more. If there was an enemy we never heard his name.

For going on 25 years, in every part of the country, we have been asked hundreds of times if we knew Grantland Rice. There has been a certain pride in saying yes, and then in trying to tell his readers something of the sort of man he was. There is no expectation that we will see Granny's like again.

He was like this. At the height of his fame, when he was the poet laureate of the incredible '20s and his name almost a household word, he met a rookie reporter up from Texas and made him feel that he was a very important addition to the sports-writing community. He still was doing this wonderful service for other young newcomers to the day of his death, and there never was once a trace of condescension.

Granny's daily column was a true mirror of his own character. He liked everyone he met athletes and nonathletes alike, and that was the way he wrote through 50 years or more. If he felt that a sports figure deserved a going-over he did not hesitate to say so, privately, but it simply was not in his nature to castigate a man in public.

lobacco truck yesterday morning and broke his arm and dislocated his shoulder. Roberts was sporting a batting average right around the .400 mark besides being one of the team's leading fielders. Roberts will not be able to play on the all-star team either. The hard-luck righthander still has next year to look forward to, however.

Billy Neal James, Jeff Fountain, and James Earl Ward each had two hits to lead the Exchange at bat. Robbie Wilfong led the Pepsi with two hits.

This afternoon at 5 o'clock the Jaycees play the Lions in an important North State League game.

Final Tribute To 'Granny' Rice

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the finest, most lovable men I have known or privileged to know, Grantland Rice, will not be seen around the big sports events again, and a great sadness lies today over those of us who have for all these years worked and laughed in the company of the one we called "Granny."

The great sports historian, who could write enduring poetry in the confusion of a cold press box, will be buried tomorrow amid the mourning of his friends than whom few men have possessed more. If there was an enemy we never heard his name.

For going on 25 years, in every part of the country, we have been asked hundreds of times if we knew Grantland Rice. There has been a certain pride in saying yes, and then in trying to tell his readers something of the sort of man he was. There is no expectation that we will see Granny's like again.

He was like this. At the height of his fame, when he was the poet laureate of the incredible '20s and his name almost a household word, he met a rookie reporter up from Texas and made him feel that he was a very important addition to the sports-writing community. He still was doing this wonderful service for other young newcomers to the day of his death, and there never was once a trace of condescension.

Granny's daily column was a true mirror of his own character. He liked everyone he met athletes and nonathletes alike, and that was the way he wrote through 50 years or more. If he felt that a sports figure deserved a going-over he did not hesitate to say so, privately, but it simply was not in his nature to castigate a man in public.

Nino Ready For Go At Marciano

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK (AP)—Nino Valdes rides the glory road toward a 1955 shot at heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano today as Hurricane Tommy Jackson blows harmlessly out to sea.

The lobby of Madison Square Garden told the story of last night's two-round TKO victory for the Cuban giant on the automatic, three-knockdown rule. Valdes ambled through a swarm of happy admirers, pausing to sign autographs and greet handshakers with a wide grin.

Outside, in the pouring rain, Jackson walked with head down, mumbling to himself. His family trailed behind trying to convince him to go back to the hotel.

"I won't fight nobody else until I fight him," Jackson had said in his dressing room. He made a stormy scene in the ring, tearing the referee's scorecard in two, before police ushered him to his dressing room.

"He had nothing," said Valdes, through an interpreter. "He clown fighter. Everybody expect us to go to body, we go to head in second round." About Marciano? "I knock him out in four rounds."

Harry Markson managing director of the International Boxing Club, said "Valdes rates the next shot at Marciano after the rematch with Ezzard Charles that we hope to run in September."

Valdes, an 11-5 underdog, overwheeled the listless Hurricane, who showed only one brief flash of the fiery newcomer who stopped Rex Layne, beat Clarence Henry and knocked out Dan Bucceroni in his exciting rise from prelim boy to No. 5 contender.

In the first round, the Cuban thumped at Jackson's body with both hands. Shifting to the read when the jiggling Jackson came out for the second, Valdes drove his man half through the ropes with a solid right. Although the timekeeper counted four, Referee Al Ber ruled no knockdown.

Another right sent Jackson to the floor for an automatic-eight-count. Actually he was up at two. Another flurry and a bull rush drove Jackson to his knees. He was up at one but the count again went to the automatic-eight.

The third knockdown that ended the bout under New York rules that require a referee to halt a fight when one man has been down three times in one round, was disputed by many in the crowd of 4,465. It looked as though a push, following a blow to the neck, sent Jackson down. No matter what it was, Ber ruled "knockdown" and the fight was over at 2:35 of the second.

Valdes weighed 204, Jackson, 190 1/2.

Streaking Yanks, Slumping Indians Open 'New' Race

By ED CORRIGAN
AP Sports Writer
The hapless, hitless and practically helpless Baltimore Orioles invade Yankee Stadium and the Philadelphia A's, equally futile, entertain the Cleveland Indians in what you might call the openers of the "new" American League pennant race.

Prof. Casey Stengel's Yankees, who spent the first half of the season flopping and floundering, have a nine-game winning streak going and are now just half a game behind the Indians, whose latest work included dropping four games to the Chicago White Sox.

The consensus around the league is that the Yanks have the upper hand now with one big "if." He is Allie Reynolds, who missed the All-Star Game because of a muscle pull in his left hip.

The ailment is a chronic one, but if it bothers him too much he may be forced back to the bullpen. Stengel has no abundance of pitchers so that could spell the difference between first and second place.

"My back, left leg and left hip pain when I try to pitch," said Allie. "I've had it since June 20 when I felt it in Chicago. It's bothered me ever since. That's the reason I've had trouble holding those big leads I try to throw a fast ball but the pain goes through the leg and the ball doesn't go very fast. Lately, it's been coming back faster."

Trainer Gus Mauch of the Bombers also is somewhat puzzled. "I don't think there's any cure but rest," he opined. "That's the nature of it. If he doesn't try to pitch or run for a week, it may get better."

Cleveland Manager Al Lopez, says he is not particularly worried.

Eleven Pitchers Within Reach Of Twenty Wins

NEW YORK (AP)—Twenty, the elusive victory peak all pitchers hope to climb but only a few do, is well within reach of 11 major league moundmen this season.

With the 1954 campaign entering its second phase, seven American League pitchers and four in the National are at least halfway "home."

Headed by Johnny Antonelli of the Giants (13-2) and Harvey Haddix of the Cards (13-4) the list includes Bob Keegan (12-3), Virgil Trucks (12-5) and Sandy Consuegra (10-3) of the White Sox, Mike Garcia had a 20-game year in 7) of the Indians, Robin Roberts of the Phillies (11-8), Bob Grim of the Yankees (10-3) and Steve Gromek of Detroit and Brooklyn's Carl Erskine (10-8).

Not since 1951 when 13 major league hurlers made the grade have the prospects for 20-game winners been so encouraging. However, the all-time record of 17 set in 1903 and tied in 1920 appears safe.

over the events of the past week. He has one point — namely, the Indians are not the kind of club that will be held to five runs in four games as they were against the White Sox last weekend.

"Al Rosen and Bob Avila have been in batting slumps since their injuries," he said. "They're just in slumps that every player has to fight his way out of and we'll be more dangerous than ever." They'll snap out of it and we'll be more dangerous than ever."

The White Sox, for their part, are three games off the pace and the way their pitching has come around, could make things uncomfortable for all concerned. Manager Paul Richards will send Bon Keegan against the Washington Senators tonight.

In the National League, the New York Giant's start a Western trip with a five-game bulge over the Brooklyn Dodgers, who whipped the Milwaukee Braves 2-1 in 12 innings last night in the only major league game played.

The Brooklyn victory came the hard way before a crowd of 35,470, which boosted the Milwaukee attendance over the million mark. Duke Snider batted in the runs in the first and final innings on sacrifice flies. Jim Hughes, who took over for Russ Meyer in the ninth, was the winner.

The Dodger runs came in virtually identical situations. Both Junior Gilliam and Pee Wee Reese singled in the first and Snider sent the former home with a towering fly to left field. In the 12th again Gilliam singled and was followed by another hit from Reese's bat. Again Snider blasted a high fly to left sending Gilliam home.

Bobby Thomson made his first National League appearance for the Braves in the 12th with two out and drew a walk. Lew Burdette took the loss.

Rocky Mount Host For Pony League Tourney

ROCKY MOUNT—Ninety youthful baseball players are going through final paces preparatory to the Eastern North Carolina PONY League District Tournament. Play begins this Saturday, July 17, with two games. Kinston will meet the defending state champion, Raleigh, in the 5:30 curtain-raiser. The second game will have Aberdeen battling Rocky Mount at 8:00.

Tarboro and Greenville drew first round byes, and will swing into action Monday. Tarboro will meet the Kinston-Raleigh winner at 5:30, while Greenville and the Rocky Mount-Aberdeen winner clash at 8:00.

Rocky Mount's Municipal Stadium, site of the games, is undergoing some changes to meet PONY League specifications. A new fence is being erected and new base paths are being set up. In PONY League ball, bases are 75 feet apart, the pitchers mound, is 52 feet from home plate, and the outfield fence is 250 feet from home plate.

Admission will be 25 cents for persons 17 and over. All persons 16 and under will be admitted free. Approximately 3000 permanent seats assure everyone attending a good seat from which to view the action.

The six managers all seem optimistic over the chances of their teams, with team batting averages around the .325 mark, the pitchers seem to have their work cut out for them during the five day tournament.

Raleigh, as defending state champion, rates as the early favorite to take the district title.

The double elimination tournament will give teams a chance to shake off the one bad game which may crop up, and still win the title.

After Saturday's opening games, there will be two games Monday, three games Tuesday, with the first at 3:00, two games Wednesday, and the Championship game Thursday at 7:00. The first games Monday and Wednesday will start at 5:30. The district winner and runner-up will advance to the state finals at Raleigh, starting July 26.

The PONY League program for the 13 and 14 year old boys has grown to the point where there are 2195 teams competing in 461 leagues throughout the United States. These boys are the future major league stars.

Competition For A Square Meal

LAKE WALES, Fla. (AP) — The competition for a square meal is rugged in waters around here.

Fishing from a canal bank, Louis Joiner hooked a large blackfish. As he hauled it ashore, a small snake crawled out of its throat and swam away.

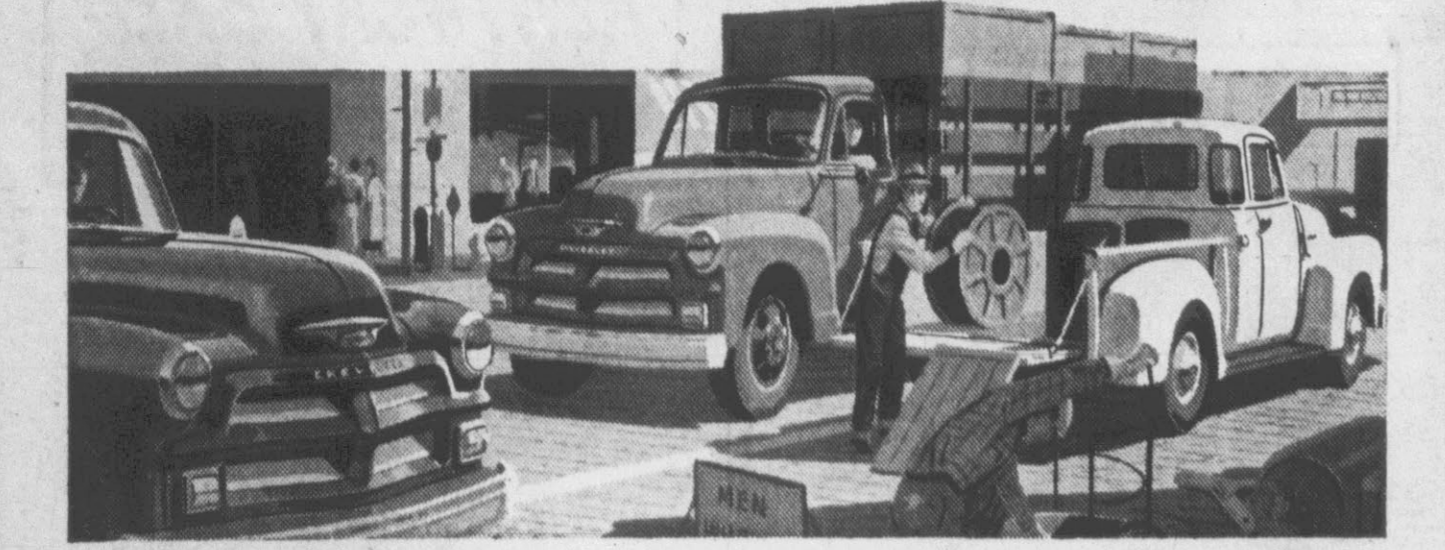

Joiner put the fish on a string and left it dangling in the water while he continued fishing. When he returned, a big snake had swallowed the fish.

WEDNESDAY'S STARS
By The Associated Press
BATTING — Duke Snider, Brooklyn Dodgers knocked in both runs with sacrifice flies as the Dodgers defeated the Milwaukee Braves, 2-1.

PITCHING—Jim Hughes, Brooklyn Dodgers, took over for Russ Meyer in the ninth and held the Milwaukee Braves hitless in his 32nd relief appearance of the year as the Brooks won 2-1 in 12 innings.

Dom DiMaggio, former center fielder for the Boston Red Sox, is now president of a rubber concern in Lawrence, Mass.

HOW BEAUTIES ARE JUDGED

1. Creator of judging system, Mal Dodson, right, hands envelopes to Morris Berman who will distribute them to the judges in the stands.

This is the time of the year when beauty queens are being picked all over the nation. Though the queen gets the crown, the judges get the headaches—for it's really tough to pick the prettiest without cries of foul or favoritism.

In Atlantic City, Mal Dodson, contest expert for the Jersey resort, believes he has the answer for beauty judging.

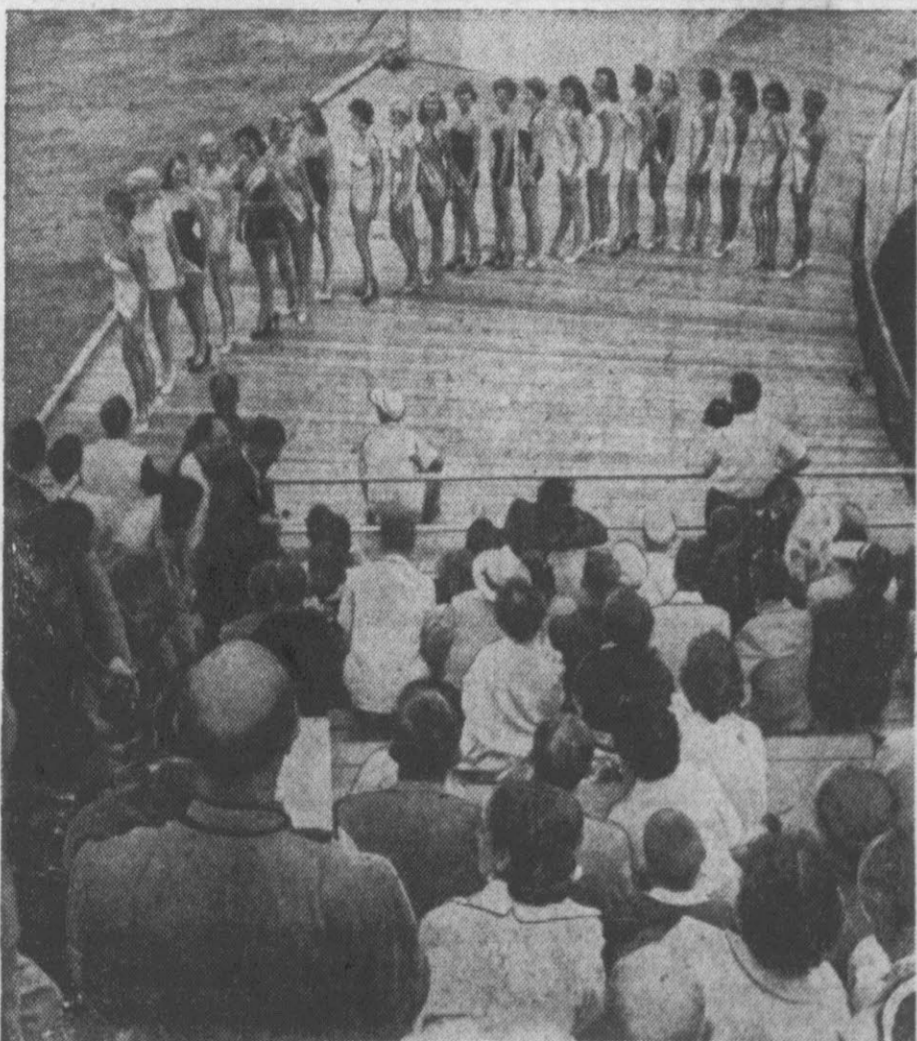

Here is how his system worked on his most recent job, the judging of "Miss National Press Photographer" at the newspaper cameramen's annual convention. With the aid of an assistant, the persons selected to choose the winner were notified a few minutes prior to the start of the contest. They remained in their seats scattered throughout the audience, not knowing who the other judges were. Each received an envelope containing instructions from Dodson. They were instructed to select eight of the 21 contestants for further judging. From the eight the winner and two runners-up were then selected. Dodson worked behind the scenes throughout, compiling the judge's selections and relaying the information to the announcer.

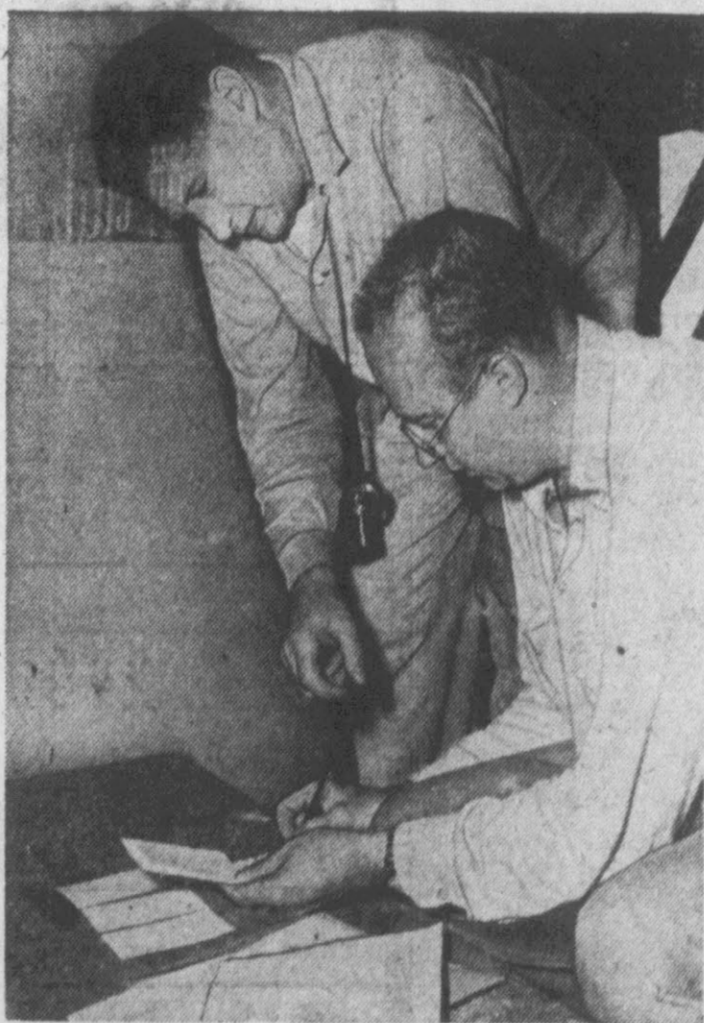

Leoma Naughton, 19, of Washington, D.C., holds trophy after winning title of "Miss National Press Photographer."

2. Magazine editor Ray Mackland is handed an envelope by Berman, and then finds out he is a judge for the contest.

3. Judge stands in the audience, 21 girls in the contest.

4. Under the bleachers seating the spectators, Dodson, right, compiles the selections of the judges, while Berman looks on.

5. Winner is announced, while losers applaud. Leoma steps forward to receive title.

U.S., Britain And France Face To Face With Defeat By Communists

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, Britain and France are now face to face with a serious defeat at the hands of Communist forces in Indochina. Their real problem is to prevent the defeat from being turned into a major disaster.

The difficulty they face in this task—a task at the heart of Secretary of State Dulles' flying mission to Europe—is that they have no guaranteed weapons for successfully fighting off Red political infiltration and subversion behind dividing lines drawn on any Indochinese agreement which may be reached. Dispatches from Paris said Dulles was reported to have "pretty well agreed" to some such division.

Unless some way can quickly be found to produce a previously unknown degree of strength in the area and build up a solid political base for new defensive positions, the developing Communist triumph in northern Viet Nam will almost certainly prove to be but the first of a series of Red steps to conquer a far larger area.

One of the obvious difficulties is that Southeast Asia is so far beyond the power centers of the free world—the United States, Britain and Western Europe. As far as anticommunism is concerned, the region provides little native basis for strength. In this respect it contrasts sharply with Korea and with Guatemala, whose new anti-Communist government was extended U.S. recognition yesterday.

When the United States negotiated an armistice in Korea a year ago, the White House, State Department and Pentagon were all convinced that the line established between Communist North Korea and free South Korea would hold because of South Korea's fierce opposition to communism under President Syngman Rhee's leadership.

Southeast Asia lacks both the Rhee type of strength and the reinforcing effect of closeness to American power, which was the case in Guatemala. The nearest bases of real power are Australia and New Zealand, side from Britain's relatively small forces in Malaya.

So far two proposals have been put forth for backing up any armistice line which may be drawn in or around Indochina. British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden has proposed nonaggression guarantees. Secretary of State Dulles has proposed an alliance of about 10 anti-Communist nations having interests in the security of Southeast Asia. Both types of compacts would be designed to prevent open aggression against a fixed line—in other words, they would be able to deal only with a provable attack by the Communists, a renewal of the war.

But the real fear among informed officials here is that a limited Communist success in Indochina, the terms of which have been the subject of negotiation at Geneva, will have a magnetic effect on countries like Thailand, Burma and Indonesia are militarily weak. The only great power close to them is the Communist power of mainland China. It is an ideal setup for the Kremlin's viewpoint, for squeeze pressure on the governments of those countries applied partly through diplomatic channels from the outside and partly through Communist party pressures from the inside.

BIG THREE READY—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles (right) gestures as he talks with Britain's Anthony Eden (left) and French Prime Minister Pierre Mendes-France in the Hotel Matignon, Mendes-France's official residence, in Paris. The three went into a huddle at dinner shortly after Dulles' arrival from Washington and Mendes-France's return from Geneva where he talked with Red China's Chou En-lai on a possible settlement on the Indochina problem. (AP Wirephoto via radio from Paris)

The Western nations have no organized force, committed to their purposes, which corresponds to the centrally directed Communist party. They have no adequate counterforce where the party operates against local weakness and far from the main centers of anti-Communist power.

Much of Southeast Asia is fertile ground for Communist anti-Western "Asia for Asians" propaganda, moreover, because of the hatred generated under long years of colonial rule. This is particularly true in Indochina where, in the American view, successive French governments have been too slow and too miserly in doling out measures of independence.

There has long been a difference of opinion, in Washington over whether the loss of one such area as northern Viet Nam would mean a collapse of all the Southeast Asian states like dominoes falling in a row, as President Eisenhower once suggested would happen if all Indochina fell. The loss of one, most authorities agree, would not inevitably mean the loss of all, but it would create a far greater danger of collapse than has ever existed before.

If there is no agreement on ending the Indochina war in the few days remaining before French Premier Mendes-France's July 20 deadline, then the problem will become urgent and critical in another way.

For France then will be faced with a choice between surrender or continuing the fight with no early hope of peace. In making its decisions, the critical question undoubtedly will be whether the United States is willing to intervene on a grand scale to help the French and native forces.

In fact it would not be in any way surprising if Mendes-France's urgent request that Dulles fly to Paris Monday arose from a desire to know what the United States would do if he regarded Communist peace terms as unacceptable. If France rejected them he would the United States then help carry on the war or perhaps even take over the war?

No one would say officially what Dulles' answer would be to such a question, but up to this time the Eisenhower administration has taken the position that this is primarily a French fight which should be supported by a united front of Allied nations and that the United States would act only through a united front—and only if such action had the sanction of Congress as well as the approval of the administration.

Governor's Conference May Bring Far-Reaching Change

By JACK BELL
BOLTON LANDING, N.Y. — A Democratic supporter of President Eisenhower, Gov. Robert F. Kennon of Louisiana, heads the Governors Conference for a year that may bring some significant changes in relations of the states with the federal government.

Kennon was elected chairman to succeed Republican Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado at the final conference sessions here yesterday.

The group approved a resolution calling for a survey of road needs in connection with Eisenhower's proposed 10-year, 50-billion-dollar highway construction program.

The conference agreed to meet next year in Chicago.

Although the members avoid all outward appearances of politics and alternate the chairmanship between Republicans and Democrats, the choice of Kennon as titular head for the next 12 months was regarded in some quarters as indicating widespread support for Eisenhower.

Kennon is known to have had the backing of Gov. James F. Byrnes, South Carolina Democrat who announced here that he is continuing the support he gave Eisenhower in the 1952 presidential campaign.

Most of the Republican governors were glad to vote for Kennon, another Democratic bolter in that campaign, as were many of the Southern Democrats.

While everyone concerned denied politics played any part, some selection of Kennon instead of Gov. Lawrence W. Wetherby of Kentucky, a regular Democrat.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams, Michigan Democrat, who has been on friendly political terms with Byrnes, apparently was kept off the conference executive committee by a new rule against naming as members of that group governors seeking re-election.

Byrnes headed the nominating committee which put the rule into effect. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, New York Republican, was re-way construction.

Five Amateur Sailors End Pacific Adventure

SAN FRANCISCO — Five wet and weary amateur sailors who had hoped to drift to Hawaii were plucked from their foundering, powerless raft 60 miles off central California early today.

The freighter Metapan radioed at 4:25 a.m. that all of the men had been rescued despite high seas and strong winds.

Presumably all were in good condition. Details of the rescue were not available.

The Metapan, which located the tiny yellow raft Lehi, 62 miles due west of Point Sal, said it was headed for San Francisco, about 175 miles away. It was expected to dock late today.

The 32-foot six-sided raft was cast adrift by the Metapan, but the coast guard said the cutter Alert would find it and destroy it as a menace to navigation.

Search for the fragile raft, which put out from San Francisco last Friday, ended off Morro Bay, 8 1/2 hours after the Coast Guard answered an urgent SOS that the craft was sinking.

The raft drifted south instead of southwest.

After receiving the SOS the Coast Guard ordered into action the 125-foot cutter Alert from Morro Bay, diverted the cutter Active from San Francisco and dispatched two rescue planes.

The Active started searching an area 17 miles southwest of Point Sur, the last reported position of the Lehi at 6 p.m. Monday.

The Alert searched 20 to 55 miles due west of Point Sal which is 15 miles south of San Luis Obispo. This is the estimated position of the Lehi, the Coast Guard said.

McCarthy Calls Subcommittee Meeting Today

WASHINGTON — Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) called his Senate Investigations subcommittee to a meeting today which could boil up a fight over demands for staff firings.

He is seeking permission at the closed session to launch at once a new public investigation of what he calls infiltration of defense plants by 133 subversives. But a majority of the subcommittee's seven members have declared that a "house cleaning" of the staff should take precedence.

This is the group's first meeting under McCarthy's chairmanship since its 36-day hearings into his row with top Army official, on which the subcommittee has not yet handed down a verdict.

At the windup of the hearings four weeks ago today one subcommittee member—Sen. Potter (R-Mich)—announced he believed each side had proved main charges, and that employees on each side should be dismissed. In advance of today's meeting, he told newsmen he still thought so, and added that some staff changes should have priority over any other subcommittee business. He has not mentioned any names.

Two of the subcommittee's three Democratic members, armed with proxy votes to cast for the absent Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), declined to say what moves they planned. But Senators Jackson (D-Wash) and Symington (D-Mo) said they have not receded from their demands for "a house cleaning" among McCarthy appointees on the staff.

McCarthy reserved comment on the meeting, and on new developments in efforts by Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) to have McCarthy fired from chairmanships of the subcommittee and its parent Government Operations Committee.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, announced yesterday he will oppose Flanders' move. But Flanders told a news conference he thinks he has "an excellent chance" to get Senate approval.

Service Station Meeting Called
There will be a special call meeting of the local Service Station Association tonight at 8 o'clock in the Municipal Building.

A matter of important business which will affect every service station operator is to be discussed at the meeting, according to Chairman Elmer Moore.

Moore urges all members of the organization to attend, and invites other service station operators in the city.

Identify Driver In Fatal Wreck
The Highway Patrol said today that a second occupant of a car in which a Negro man was killed Saturday night had admitted operating the vehicle.

Vernon Lee Powell, Negro, was charged with careless and reckless driving and operating a vehicle with no driver's license after he told Highway Patrolman James W. Boykin that he was the driver of the car. Powell was also owner of the vehicle.

Killed in the accident was John David Middleton of Greenville Rte. 8. He died almost instantly of a broken neck when the car ran off the Stantonburg road, hit a telephone pole and overturned on the highway.

Ozma Jack Newton, 23-year-old Negro, was reported to have been operating the vehicle at the time. He was charged with careless and reckless driving and placed under $5000 bond pending a coroner's inquest into Middleton's death.

Boykin said that Powell admitted he was the operator of the vehicle this morning.

Both Powell and Newton are being held in Pitt County jail pending results of the inquest.

Coroner Griffin H. Rouse set the hearing for tonight at 7:30 in the Pitt County Courthouse.

Need Germans In Western Defense
WASHINGTON — Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, supreme Allied commander in Europe, says a German contribution to the Western defense system is needed because at this time "we could not successfully withstand an all-out attack" by Russia.

Gruenther reported on arriving here yesterday, however that the defense system is now much stronger than three years ago when the North Atlantic Treaty Organization first got under way. The United States is seeking West Germany's participation in Allied security plans, either through the European Defense Community project or otherwise.

Housing Probers Hear Big Project Sponsors

WASHINGTON — Senators investigating housing scandals today summoned William Levitt, one of the builders of Levittown, Long Island, for questioning on the financing of rental homes built with government-insured loans.

Levitt and Alfred Gross, one of the sponsors of the huge Glen Oaks apartment project in Jamaica, were two of several witnesses scheduled before the Senate Banking Committee, which is investigating alleged irregularities in government-backed housing construction.

One of the principal targets of inquiry to date has been alleged windfall profits reaped by apartment builders who got government-insured mortgages larger than construction costs, then pocketed the difference.

Levitt is a member of the firm of Levitt and Sons, builder of Levittown. The community is considered by some a model operation for new building techniques.

Some 6,000 homes in the planned community, it was reported, were built for rental and the balance for outright sale under sections of the National Housing Act.

The Senate probers, headed by Sen. Capehart (R-Ind), yesterday heard a tale of home repair salesmen being "trained and schooled" in ways to defraud small home owners under another section of the housing program.

Andrew Nicol, an investigator for the Bergen County, N.J., prosecutor's office, said such schools were set up all over the country to teach salesmen how to take advantage of Federal Housing Administration loan insurance offered for repair and modernization of homes. The program allows full FHA insurance on loans up to $2,500.

Nicol said the schools train salesmen how to pretend to be mathematicians and to act like "factory executives, not salesmen." Under one method, he said, the salesmen are sent out to home owners who are told they have been selected "for advertising purposes."

Nicol said the owner is told that after his home is fixed up as a demonstration he will be paid a fee for every similar job done in his neighborhood. "But actually," he said, the repair firm does shoddy work on the "sample" homes, collects its money and then moves on to another locality for a repeat performance.

Predicts GOP Aid Against TVA Bill

By RUSSELL BRINES
WASHINGTON — Sen. Gore (D-Tenn) predicted today some Republican senators will join many Democrats in supporting a proposal to block President Eisenhower's plan to place a new private power plant in the Tennessee Valley.

The Senate approached a vote on the proposal, an amendment to a lengthy bill to revise the Atomic Energy Act in line with the President's program to exchange more nuclear information with foreign allies and to permit private industry entry into peacetime atomic activities.

The Senate was called into session two hours early to resume debate on the bill, with major skirmishing continuing on the power plant issue. Eisenhower has directed the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) to conclude a 25-year contract with a private utility group for a new steam power plant to service the Memphis, Tenn. area over Tennessee Valley Authority lines. The power would replace TVA power being shifted to the AEC's plant at Paducah, Ky.

The President, who has described the order as one which will provide time for another government look at TVA operations, met at the White House yesterday with Sen. Anderson of New Mexico, senior Democratic senator on the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee.

Anderson later introduced an amendment that would allow the AEC to contract only for power supplied directly to atomic installations. The amendment would also require proposed contracts to be submitted for 30 days to the congressional atomic committee.

Anderson told the Senate the proposed contract would supply power for general consumer service. He and others dispute an administration contention the plan to build a new 107-million-dollar plant is the cheapest way of replacing the TVA electricity now supplied to the Paducah atomic plant. It would supplant any immediate new TVA facilities.

Gore said in an interview that three or four Republican senators are expected to support the amendment, but he declined to predict the outcome. Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) opposed the amendment yesterday.

The amendment, if approved by both houses, would block the proposed contract with the Middle South Utilities, Inc., and the Southern Co.

Named Member Of Committee
Mrs. J. B. Spilman of Greenville has been appointed a member of the North Carolina Tuberculosis Association's State Legislative Committee. She will serve with six physicians and three laymen.

Dr. R. B. C. Franklin, president of the North Carolina Tuberculosis Association, "appointed Mrs. Spilman because of her ability and accomplishments as secretary of the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association." President W. E. Marshall of the local association and Honorary President J. H. Waldrop stated.
