Chou En-Lai Says America Must Guarantee Peace Demand U. S. Signature

By EDDY GILMORE GENEVA (AP)—The Communists pushed a new obstacle in the path of the Indo-China peace negotiations today as East and West went into the climactic hours of the long effort to end the Far Eastern war. Red China's Premier Chou En-lai, a French source said, has demanded that the United States sign a "general declaration" supporting and guaranteeing the cease-fire which is generally expected to be signed here before midnight. The French advised U. S. Under Secretary of State Walter Bedell Smith of this development but did not ask the United States to change its refusal to sign the agreement. The United States position has not changed, a spokesman said. Smith told a session of the conference Sunday that the United States would assist in reaching an armistice, but would not sign the final act. Instead, the United States will issue a unilateral declaration pledging support of the agreement under the terms of the United Nations charter. The issue was one of several still unsettled which brought Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, Vietnamese Foreign Minister Pham Van Dong, and French Premier Pierre Mendes-France into urgent session today. French sources were uncertain how much importance should be attached to the new Chinese demand. A French spokesman said he expected many other snags would appear during the day requiring feverish consultation. The U. S. delegation was under the impression that the request for United States signature to the conference agreement came from the Russians. "Of course they want us to sign a declaration," this source said. "They've wanted it all along." The official Red Chinese spokesman said: "I know nothing about it." Premier Mendes-France has pledged to the French Parliament that he will get a peace by midnight or quit. The meeting at French delegation headquarters of Molotov, Eden, Mendes-France and Dong started shortly before noon. The participants, with Molotov at the head of the table, had bulky piles of conference documents before them as they sat down. In addition to the question of signature, they faced differences over participation of Viet Nam, the date of elections and the question of Vietnamese forces in Laos.

U. S. Prestige In Viet Nam Slumps

By JOHN RODERICK SAIGON, Indochina (AP)—American prestige in Viet Nam, largest of the states of Indochina, appears to have hit its lowest ebb since World War II. Until a few days ago, the United States could still count on the friendship of some element of the population—anti-Communist Vietnamese in the North and the Nationalist government of Catholic leader Ngo Dinh Diem. But reports from Washington that President Eisenhower's administration now accepts the principle of partition of the country seem to have wiped away much of this good will. In the closing days of the Geneva conference and on the verge of a possible cease-fire in the long and exhausting war the United States stands discredited in the eyes of many elements of the population. It was to save this population from communism that the United States contributed billions to the Indochina war effort against the Vietminh and substantial civilian aid now being directed to help the hapless refugees of evacuated areas in the North. The general feeling in Viet Nam now appears to be that the United States didn't do enough, and much of what it did wasn't done right. The aid program, for example, is a major cause of dissatisfaction among Vietnamese nationalists. "Instead of giving us aid money and materiel through the French, why doesn't the United States turn it over directly to us?" one prominent Vietnamese asked recently. "In this way Viet Nam would be able to stand on her own feet, feel herself really independent, and the impression that the United States is siding with France in an attempt to keep us under her control would be eliminated." Yet, there is nothing like open hostility toward Americans here, except in a few isolated cases. Many Vietnamese nationalists still look upon Americans as possible friends and hope for direct aid when the French are gone. Much resentment, among both French and Vietnamese, stems from widely published reports of American concern that the side she has given might fall into the hands of the Communist-led Vietminh. "Of course we sympathize with this attitude," a Vietnamese official explained. "But to stress it at this time hardly is in good taste. Many of my people, unjustly or not, feel the United States is acting like a man whose house is afire and is more concerned with the furniture than his family inside." The principal reason for the decline in the American position here, as summarized by Frenchmen and their Vietnamese allies, is the apparent lack of clear and consistent U. S. policy and Washington's uncertainty in dealing with the Indochina situation. Vietnamese, who don't know the intricacies of American party politics, are repeatedly confused by the conflicting statements coming from leaders in the United States. From Hanoi in the North, Associated Press Correspondent Forrest Edwards reports: "Americans are regarded with bitterness and disappointment by many Frenchmen. A French soldier told me bitterly, 'We are shedding our blood in your war.' That was a reference to the American contention that this is a war against communism."

Housing Bill Is Beaten In House

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House today defeated a last-ditch drive, led by Democrats, to enact President Eisenhower's proposal for 140,000 government-built, low-rent public housing units over the next four years. The roll call vote was 234-156. The showdown came on a motion by Rep. Spence (D-Ky.) to restore the Eisenhower program of 35,000 public housing units a year to a compromise bill carrying out many of the President's other housing recommendations. The catch-all bill, lowering required down payments on FHA loans is a compromise between separate versions passed earlier by the House and Senate. Democrats denounced it as a "death blow" to public housing which actually would do nothing to relieve misery in slums. Spence predicted if Republicans defeated his motion, Democrats would be back in power in Congress for the next 20 years.

Weather Beacon Touched By Heat

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Atop an office building here is an electric beacon which indicates the weather forecasts by flashing colored lights. After many days of temperatures near 110 degrees, the beacon last night flipped its lid—or switches. It began flashing in quick succession the signs for fair weather, cloudy skies, rain and snow. Martin Kauffman, the man who sets the control dials, observed in dismay: "The thing must be suffering from heat stroke."

Most Of Blood Donated By Pitt Countians Was Returned By Red Cross

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1954 a total of 1,468 Pitt County citizens were Red Cross blood donors. In addition the Red Cross supplied 15 bottles of plasma and nine serum albumin (pure protein blood) to Pitt Memorial Hospital. The Red Cross also supplied to the people of the county through their private physician 950 ampules of gamma-globulin which was used for combating polio, measles and infectious hepatitis (jaundice). Dr. Walter C. Humbert said today the blood donors of Pitt County just met their civilian needs. He said the county made no material contribution of blood to the Department of Defense for the manufacture of gamma-globulin. Dr. Humbert concluded the report by reminding the citizens of the County that products distributed by the Red Cross are absolutely without charge to the patient.

Ports And Waterways Keynoted

C&D Board Hears Recommendation For Annual $500,000 Spending Program MOREHEAD CITY, N. C. (AP)—The expenditure of half a million dollars a year for developing the state's inland ports and waterways was recommended to the State Board of Conservation and Development yesterday. That was the New York engineer firm of Parsons, Brinckerhoff, Hill & McDonald. The firm was paid $47,000 for surveying the economic possibilities of the state's 41 coastal area counties. The board took this morning off but this afternoon its committees on commercial fisheries, parks, and advertising met. The engineering firm suggested several ways of financing the proposed waterway development fund. These included appropriations from the general fund; revising the gas tax exemption extending marine craft; contributions from counties directly benefiting from the improvement; and an assessment, similar to "Nickels For Know-How" on commercial fisheries production. The survey listed 27 recommendations for furthering the over-all development of the state's eastern counties. These included encouraging increased commercial grain storage, beautifying waterfront structures and areas, and expanding beef, dairy and other farm stock production, and improved research on marketing, oysterbed planting laws, and processing. In a talk to the board yesterday Gov. Umstead suggested that State Forester Fred Claridge call on Highway Chairman A. H. Graham to discuss a highway beautification program. This would include planting trees alongside highways and keeping out advertising billboards. W. Eugene Simmons, Tarboro tobacco warehouseman, was sworn in as a board member, succeeding Eric Rodgers of Scotland Neck, who recently was named assistant director of the C&D Department. The board announced the general contract for the new minerals museum on the Blue Ridge Parkway at Gillespie Gap went to the Hickory Construction Co. on a low bid of $36,242. The board was asked to help in efforts to get an additional $100,000 appropriation from the 1955 Legislature to help in the Tryon Palace restoration at New Bern.

No Action Taken

NASHVILLE — The Nash County Board of Commissioners Monday night heard from one group a plea not to let Eastern North Carolina be "relegated to an aviation whistle stop," but received from another group commendations for its stand against a proposed equidistant airport for this area. What further action will be taken by the board after hearing pro and con arguments is not yet known and probably will remain a matter of conjecture until the next regular meeting on August 2. Chairman Dal Alford of Rocky Mount said following last night's hearing that he does not anticipate any further action until the regular session. The hearing, attended by about 150 Nash citizens, and a few from other counties, was called by the commissioners after strong opposition was voiced by certain civic groups and individuals over the board's decision earlier this month to decline financial support to the proposed airport.

Montana Holding Primary Election

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—An estimated 170,000 voters start to the polls today after one of the quietest primary elections campaigns in Montana history. Campaigning was so quiet that incumbent James Murray of Butte did not bother to return to Washington to contest the two candidates opposing him for the Democratic nomination for United States senator. Opponents of the 78-year-old Democrat, seeking his fourth full term, are Sam G. Pease of Great Falls and Ray Gulick of Joplin farmer. On the Republican ballot, Rep. Wesley A. D'Ewart is stepping out of his House seat to seek the senatorial nomination. He is opposed by Robert Yellowtail, a Crow Indian leader from Lodge Grass. Three Democrats and four Republicans seek party nominations for the 2nd Congressional District seat being vacated by D'Ewart. VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP)—Demand continued strong in the Georgia-Florida flue-cured tobacco belt as the new week brought reports of increased volume at most markets. Short first week sales had indicated a drop in volume in excess of the 9 per cent crop reduction estimated by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Gains and losses in grade averages were about equal, government observers said and amounted to only $1 to $2 per hundred pounds compared with Friday. Quality showed a slight improvement. At Live Oak, largest of Florida's markets, a new record average was set Monday with flue-cured going at $67.98 a hundred. The auction handled 718,058 pounds for $416,324.84. The average was down slightly at High Springs, Fla., which moved 130,000 pounds for $72,130 and a $56.05 average. At Waycross the third day of selling produced the highest daily average so far, with $64.75 a hundred. Quality was up, as well as volume. At Tifton, where most complaints were registered against the early opening, volume was up but prices were down some from Friday. Yesterday's average of $60.45 was still higher than the opening day price, however. BLUES SINGER ILL LOS ANGELES (AP)—Blues singer Kay Starr is progressing in Good Samaritan Hospital after undergoing surgery two days ago. The nature of her illness was not disclosed.

Dulles Keeping Eyes On Geneva

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles canceled his news conference today to keep in close touch with Indochina truce developments at Geneva. Dulles, who usually meets with newsmen on Tuesdays when he is in Washington, was reported to be in frequent telephone and cable contact with Walter Bedell Smith, head of the U. S. delegation at the Far Eastern conference.

Jenkins Still On Primary Ballot

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Ray H. Jenkins said recently he would not run for the Senate, but his name will be on the Republican primary ballot Aug. 5 anyway. Jenkins neglected to give official notification needed to cancel qualifying petitions filed by friends after he gained the public eye as a special counsel in the televised Army-McCarthy hearings. Jenkins could not be reached for comment, but his wife said, "Ray isn't a candidate for any office."

Judge Rules Too Hot For Court

ST. LOUIS (AP)—It was 110 degrees on a thermometer outside Circuit Judge Robert J. Kirkwood's office window yesterday and that was too hot for court. The judge postponed a trial until Sept. 7 "because of matters beyond the control of the court, resulting in the absolute impossibility of the court to hear and determine this matter." The case involved a dispute over control of a weekly newspaper.

Recreation Commission Seeks To Spur Attendance At Parks

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector Staff Writer The Recreation Commission last night discussed plans for constructing a wading pool at Guy Smith Park in order to spur attendance in that area. Commission Chairman Tyson Bilbro instructed Recreation Director Warren Carroll to confer with City Manager James S. Hughes on the possibility of constructing such a pool. The matter was discussed after Carroll reported to the commission that use of the Kiwanis miniature train at the park had slowed since July 4. Carroll reported that the train is "not doing too well" at present. He said that the train is paying operating expenses, however, and is grossing roughly 50 percent more than operating expenses. Recreation Commission member Leonard W. Topping, also a Kiwanis Club member, reported that some members of the directors of the Kiwanis Club had asked if something could not be done about developing the area at Guy Smith Park. Carroll reminded that last year there was no equipment at Guy Smith Park and this year the soft-ball diamond and Pony League had been moved to the area, in addition to some playground equipment. Carroll reported that between 100 and 150 people were riding the train each night. Recommend Pool "I frankly would hate to see us lose that train," Chairman Bilbro said. "I certainly think we ought to do something if possible." Bilbro then recommended that a wading pool be built at the park. John Bizzell, Negro commission member, asked that a second pool also be built at South Greenville for Negro youth. Bilbro asked Carroll to confer with City Manager Hughes concerning the whole matter and to report their findings at the September meeting. The commission voted at their June meeting not to hold a meeting in August. Bizzell reported to the commission that the tennis courts at South Greenville Park have been paved and are now in use. He also noted that a concession stand is in operation in that area and that women's and men's softball is in full swing. In addition, he said that a water tap had been installed to provide toilet facilities at the park.

McCarthy Announces Resignation Before 'Showdown' Vote Investigator Cohn Resigns

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) today announced the resignation of Roy M. Cohn, chief counsel of his Senate Investigations subcommittee and No. 1 target of members demanding a staff shake up. McCarthy made the announcement in a statement just two hours before a scheduled meeting at which committee members seeking the scalps of Cohn and others were set to seek a showdown vote. The resignation of Roy Cohn must bring great satisfaction to the Communists and fellow travelers. "The smears and pressures to which he has been subjected make it clear that an effective anti-Communist cannot long survive on the Washington scene." McCarthy made public a letter in which Cohn said he was resigning because "there appears to be a lack of unanimity among the members of the investigations subcommittee upon the question of continuing my services as chief counsel." Actually the committee was reported to be lined up 4-3 in favor of firing Cohn. Before McCarthy's announcement, there had been widely published reports that Cohn was resigning. The Chicago Tribune quoted Cohn as saying: "I feel that my helplessness to the subcommittee has been brought to the vanishing point. In any future investigation in which I appeared as chief counsel, all the slanders voiced against me would be repeated to minimize the evidence presented." Cohn's resignation letter was dated yesterday. McCarthy's prepared statement of comment on it bore today's date, and was released in his absence from his office. While McCarthy did not state specifically that he was accepting the resignation, he spoke of the young lawyer's withdrawal as an accomplished fact. He said: "The resignation of Roy Cohn must bring great satisfaction to the Communists and fellow travelers. The smears and pressures to which he has been subjected make it clear that an effective anti-Communist cannot long survive on the Washington scene." "He has rendered perhaps unrivaled service in the conviction and exposure of Communists and spies in this nation. He prosecuted Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, the atomic spies; William Remington and the top leaders of the Communist party. He exposed Communist infiltration in the United Nations. With this subcommittee he guided the exposure of Communist infiltration in the government Printing Office, the Voice of America, Ft. Monmouth defense plants and other key places. "The' jury of the American people saw and heard him during the (McCarthy-Army) hearings. They know first-hand of his ability and his effectiveness. I know that they will resent as deeply as do I the treatment to which he has been subjected."

Following is the text of the letter from Cohn to McCarthy: "Dear Mr. Chairman: "As there appears to be a lack of unanimity among the members of the investigations subcommittee upon the question of continuing my services as chief counsel, I hereby tender my resignation. "It has been a privilege to perform my duties under your inspiring leadership. The enthusiastic support which has come to me from the American people for the small part that I have played in this task of exposing Communist infiltration in key places has been an inspiring force and a great comfort. I extend to the great American jury my heartfelt thanks for its loyal support. "Needless to add it is with much reluctance that I leave the challenging work of the committee, but I am certain that the fight against atheistic Communist influence will continue until every vestige of it is driven from our shores. "Respectfully yours, "Roy M. Cohn" Cohn had been chief counsel of the McCarthy subcommittee since early in 1953. His pay was $11,700 a year, but he testified during the McCarthy-Army hearings that he received a larger income from a New York law firm with which he retained a partnership.

Radio Announcement No Surprise To City's Occupants French To Evacuate Hanoi

HANOI (AP)—Hanoi civilians and military men alike heard without surprise today a broadcast report that a cease-fire agreement had been reached and that the French must evacuate Hanoi within 35 days. Radio stations here and at Saigon broadcast a French News Agency dispatch out of Geneva that a tentative agreement, reached but not yet signed, would partition Indochina near the 17th parallel and require the French to evacuate Hanoi in 35 days and Haiphong in 160 days after the signing. Official confirmation was lacking. Little knots of civilians, both French and Vietnamese discussed the report on street corners and over coffee at sidewalk cafe tables. Their tones were subdued. The action was one of resignation and acceptance of the inevitable. An Indian merchant looked over his stock and wondered aloud at how much he could take to Haiphong and how much he could sell there. A Chinese shopkeeper pedaled his bicycle to the Chinese Nationalist consulate and registered himself and his family of five as desiring evacuation. A consulate official said Chinese made about the 3,000th registrant for evacuation via two civil air transport planes which the Chinese Nationalist government has chartered to take Chinese to Haiphong and Saigon. Full shuttle service to Haiphong was to start today. Consulate officials estimated about 100,000 Chinese are in north Viet Nam, including about 10,000 in Hanoi and 30,000 in Haiphong. French civilians predicted the authorities would begin evacuation of women and children within two or three days after a formal cease-fire announcement. A French army official said Hanoi's 6,200 French civilians could be flown out in eight days if that speed was necessary. The big evacuation problem for the French, however, concerns Vietnamese officials and civilians who have cooperated with the French over the years. They run into the thousands—French officials will not say how many. Leaving them behind could well be signing their death warrants. Already several hundred have been flown south to Saigon. Thousands more probably will be taken to Haiphong and from there to Saigon by ship.

Prolonged Debate Blocking Most Senate Action Atomic Legislation Tied Up

By A. P. BRYAN WASHINGTON (AP)—The debate-heavy Senate meets two hours ahead of schedule again today with little apparent hope for a quick vote on atomic energy legislation which has blocked almost all other action since last Tuesday. Fees of an amendment which would spell out authority of the Atomic Energy Commission to sign a private power contract for the Tennessee Valley held the floor when the Senate finally quit last night after 13½ hours of deliberation. Pressing for action, Republican Leader Knowland of California last night charged a group of Democrats with trying to talk the bill to death. Knowland said he intends to keep the Senate in session at least 12 hours a day until action on the bill is completed. He said it will not be laid aside for other legislation, but added the entire legislative program is threatened by an "obvious filibuster." Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said chances appeared slim that the Senate would be able to adjourn by the July 31 target set by Knowland and other GOP strategists. Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.) a leader in the fight against the proposed AEC power contract, had been speaking for more than seven hours when Knowland made his filibuster charge. Gore denied any such attempt but said the bill merited full debate. He said accidents in North Carolina rank third as a cause of death while nationally accidents are fourth in death causes. One death out of every 12 in North Carolina is accidental, Flanders said, while nationally one death out of 16 is accidental. Accidental deaths include traffic, home, farm and industrial. The short course, which ends Friday, is on the community approach to accident prevention. The seminar began on Monday and will continue until Friday. It is sponsored jointly by the University of North Carolina School of Public Health and the North Carolina Board of Health.

Health Officer Attends Course Traffic Toll Is Above 'Average'

Dr. Walter C. Humbert of the Pitt County Health Department departed Greenville this morning for Chapel Hill and the first annual short course in accident prevention. The course, which Dr. Humbert will attend along with Miss Julia Fisher, Supervisor of Nurses with the local health department, has the theme "Community Approach to Accident Prevention." Plans are to discuss highway, occupational, home and farm accident prevention. Dr. Humbert and Miss Fisher will appear on the program Wednesday. The two local health officials will team with Ralph Langaker of the Accident Prevention Section of the U. S. Public Health Service, Howard Ellis of the Agricultural Engineering Extension of North Carolina State College, Dr. Dwight Bissell of the University of North Carolina School of Public Health and Thomas Frazier of the Home Safety Division of the National Safety Council, described the accident problem as the state's "leading epidemic disease." He said accidents in North Carolina rank third as a cause of death while nationally accidents are fourth in death causes. One death out of every 12 in North Carolina is accidental, Flanders said, while nationally one death out of 16 is accidental. Accidental deaths include traffic, home, farm and industrial. The short course, which ends Friday, is on the community approach to accident prevention.

Armored Car Is Briefly Missing

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Police "lost" a Philadelphia Transportation Co. armored car reportedly carrying $300,000 yesterday and there was some mad scurrying about the city for a brief spell before it was found again—safe in a company garage. The car was involved in an accident with another vehicle and several persons suffering minor injuries were taken to nearby hospitals by police cars. Before leaving the scene, the officers radioed for added help to guard the contents of the armored car. Meanwhile, a company tow truck arrived and towed the disabled car to a garage.

Turned Up Too Few Houseflies

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—The U. S. Bureau of Entomology here decided there aren't enough houseflies in downtown Orlando. Not enough, that is, to justify an eradication campaign. Surveyors could find only 41 flies—and some of those might have been repeaters. The bureau now plans to turn to the bottle fly, another pest.

Criticizes Results Of Consolidated University

GREENSBORO (AP)—A University of North Carolina history professor has fired a double-barreled blast at North Carolina colleges in general and the Consolidated University of North Carolina in particular. Dr. Hugh Lefler told Greensboro Rotarians yesterday that the consolidation of the University at Chapel Hill, State College in Raleigh and Woman's College here into the Greater University of North Carolina has fallen far short of its goals. "In actual practice," he said, "it has not achieved a single function of its purpose." Dr. Lefler said consolidation has failed to reduce costs end overlapping of functions or prevent the growth of any one branch into a full fledged university—the three things the late Gov. O. Max Gardner predicted in 1931 would be accomplished when he sponsored the consolidation. Turning to the state's colleges in general, Dr. Lefler criticized what he called their "poor record in teaching North Carolina history. He said extensive research disclosed that "only four had courses in North Carolina history," yet the law requires that state history be taught in public schools. Dr. Lefler, a co-author with the late Dr. E. R. Newsum in a history of the state which was published earlier this year, said he and other historians were subject to pressure from various groups and individuals. "You've got to praise the Dukes for bringing Trinity (College) to Durham," he said. "I have been gratified so far," he said "that the Reynolds family has not asked for any changes (in state history) but I expect it in times." Declaring that "You are expected to write history from the viewpoint of the white, Protestant Democrat," he said "I refuse to write that way." Dr. Lefler, a white, Protestant Democrat, was graduated from Trinity College in 1921 and has taught in all three units of the Greater University of North Carolina. He is a native of Cooleemee.

Community Band

The recreation director also announced that a community band had been organized under the recreation program. He said it plans its first concert July 23. He also announced that attendance at the city's parks had taken a normal drop after July 4. Carroll said that if attendance does not pick up this week the commission will begin releasing some of the playground workers. He stated that the money saved in salaries will be used in the early part of the playground season next year for additional personnel. Carroll noted that certificates had been given to all Little League players this year. He said that certificates are now being prepared for presentation to all volunteer workers who have been active leaders in the program.

Billed For Work

Carroll said under the new budget the street department is to bill the recreation commission for any work which it does on the city parks. Bilbro said he had discussed that matter with the mayor and it had been agreed to allow the street department to handle any heavy grading for the Recreation Commission and also the trimming of trees in the city's parks. Carroll reported that new steps had been constructed on the hill at Elm Street Park by the Little League and it is planned to construct some storage bins at the park and also pour concrete in front of the bleachers at the Little League diamond.

Carroll in his monthly director's report to the commissioners noted that the Pony League was to begin tournament play last night in Rocky Mount but the game had been rained out and the tournament would start tonight. The Little League Region Five tournament is to begin in Greenville August 16. Carroll said the college, Chamber of Commerce, Merchants' Association, city government and all civic clubs had agreed to participate in the program. "In all probability this will be a bigger tournament than last year's," he stated. Carroll reported that sub-teen age clubs had been organized for both white and colored youth. The clubs are open to youngsters 12 years old and under. He said that the teen-age program is well attended on Wednesday and Saturday nights, with Saturday attendance being by far the largest.

Farm Program Doesn't Get Lion's Share

Just where does the federal farm program stand on the government's list of costs for particular programs and aids to individual groups?

It may be surprising to many, but of five major categories of government aids and special services, the amount Uncle Sam has spent on his farm program in the last seven years ranks fourth.

The Bureau of Budget has released a report showing federal expenditures for the fiscal years from 1949 through 1955 (estimated), for its major "aid and special services" programs.

From the criticism about the farm program which has come from big cities and non-agricultural areas, one might get the idea that Uncle Sam is pouring all his money into the farm program. There has been much more criticism about what Uncle Sam has spent in aids and special services to agriculture than has been the case in the government's spending for aids and special services for business, veterans and general aids. Yet the amount spent on the nation's agricultural program is less than spent for any of the three above-mentioned categories.

During the seven year period (including the 1955 estimate) the Bureau of Budget report shows $3,773 million spent on the farm program. This amount consists of losses on price support programs, expenses of the International Wheat agreement, payments for removal of surplus commodities and administrative expenses of loan payments and other aids to farmers. It does not include expense for aid through loans at favorable interest rates, soil conservation payments, reclamation aids and others.

During the same period, aids and special services for veterans have amounted to $32,687 millions; aids and special services for business have amounted to $5,873 millions; and general aids have amounted to $9,880 millions. In aids and special services for labor, Uncle Sam has spent $1,435 million in the same period of time.

The aids to business included in the figures are portions of the postal deficit, maritime operation subsidies, other aids to the shipping industry, aid to air navigation, and net losses on defense production aids.

Largest items in the "general aids" item are for public assistance grants to states and for the school lunch program.

The point is—as shown by these statistics—the farm program is not getting the lion's share of aids and subsidies by the federal government. The statistics notwithstanding, many leaders for political or other reasons, have sought to make the agricultural program a whipping boy.

To be sure the agricultural program can be improved in spots to save the taxpayers money. But so can the program of aids and special services to other segments of the nation's economy. It is grossly unfair, in our opinion, to make the farm program the scape-goat for the entire federal program of aids and special services.

Take Stock Of The U.S. Public Pattern

Sometimes the American people have to sort of sit back and take stock of themselves to straighten out some of the mistaken ideas they have about their own pattern of life.

Just about every person has his own idea about what percentage of the American people are employed and what percent are dependent upon others for their livelihood. Everyone has his own guess about the percentage of citizens who pay federal income taxes; the percentage of the population made up of service men and veterans; and other comparisons of interest.

When an accurate survey is made, however, it is often surprising to compare one's guess with the actual statistics.

The other day we saw data from the

BRAINS
Are high-grade brains worthwhile?
That depends. Some of the most able men that have ever lived have been unworthy characters. Francis Bacon, philosopher, statesman and author, upon whose system of reasoning the whole technique of modern scientific research depends, was a betrayer and a thief of public funds to such a degree that his fine amount to about $150,000. Richard Wagner, whose music has led multitudes to the very gates of heaven, was an adulterer, a betrayer, a dead-beat and an almost pathological egotist. Karl Marx, father of socialism and communism, had such a high-grade brain that he believed he was worthy to succeed the great philosopher Hegel, and the bitterness engendered over his failure to get this professional appointment may have been one of the things that led him to the extremes to which he later went.
Intellect is valuable only if it is supported by abiding moral character. We have observed in the scientific traitors who gave our atomic secrets away what brains without character can do to a whole people. The wrong inflicted upon their countries by some of these treasonable acts were as appalling as the loss of a million soldiers.

No Prosecution Of McCarthy

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—Senator "Joe" McCarthy stands in no danger of Federal indictment or prosecution, even if the current investigation of his finances reveals that he has underreported on his income tax returns to Uncle Sam for the last three years.

He will simply be assessed for whatever alleged underpayment may be charged against him by T. Coleman Andrews, Commissioner of Internal Revenue.
That was the practice followed by the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations with respect to such prominent Democratic politicians as Frank Hague, and the wealthy leaders of the New Orleans (Huey Long) and Chicago (Nash-Kelley) organizations.

POLITICAL SPECULATION—Possible prosecution of McCarthy has been a subject of lively and anxious speculation in Republican circles because of his attacks on the Administration.

Even if he should be adjudged delinquent in the outcome, the wise boys insist that the Government would not dare to prosecute him for fear of martyring him and alienating his millions of admirers.

However, the unofficial decision to abide by the Roosevelt-Truman precedent, if the Senator has miscalculated on his income tax returns, should end that kind of political-legal speculation.

"INCOME" HARD TO DEFINE—Although Internal Revenue agents are scouring McCarthy's financial books, experts warn that it is extremely difficult to define "income" in a legal sense. The fact that an individual receives a large amount of money, over and above his known sources of revenue, does not mean that the surplus is taxable income.

The Hennings Committee criticized McCarthy because he would make no accounting to them of (1) huge contributions for his anti-Communist fund and, (2) profits on investments heavier than his known income seemed to warrant. His refusal to testify lies behind the Flanders-Lehman attempt to discipline him.

National Industrial Conference board which somewhat surprised us.

In spite of the fact that employment in this country is near its peak, only 39 percent of the citizens are employed. People who are retired or dependent upon others make up 59 percent of the nation's population, while two percent are unemployed.

Of the total population 21 years of age and over, 62 percent pay federal income tax, and 38 percent do not pay income taxes to Uncle Sam. Probably even more surprising is the data which shows that a total of 22 percent of the American population 18 years and over has had military experience while the other 78 percent of the population has had no military experience.

Of the nation's total labor force composed of people 14 years of age and older, only 23 percent are members of labor unions while the remaining 77 percent are not union members.

Among other interesting information in the data from the National Industrial Conference Board were these facts:

Six percent of the American adults hold stock in corporations while the other 94 percent do not; 56 percent of the nation's population lives in cities; and 57 percent of the people occupy their own homes while 43 percent of the population occupies rented dwellings.

How far wrong was your guess on these different aspects of the pattern of life of the American public?

Around Capitol Square

CONTRIBUTIONS FOR RED INVESTIGATION
But the experts again point out that these contributions and investment profits, even though McCarthy keeps them in his personal bank accounts, do not necessarily represent income. He may plan to use them, sooner or later, to finance his investigation of Reds inside and outside the Government.

Thus, if he continues his anti-Red campaign for several years, there can be no final, conclusive Federal judgment or action against him until he winds up his heavily financed investigation of Communists, fellow-travelers and their sponsors. As the Senator has said, that embraces an almost endless field.

DOUBTFUL RESULT—It is this generally unknown factor in the McCarthy drama which gives such great significance to the Flanders-Lehman effort to remove him as Chairman of the Committee on Government Operations. If they should succeed, although few believe that they will, he would become vulnerable and answerable to the Internal Revenue posse now on his heels.

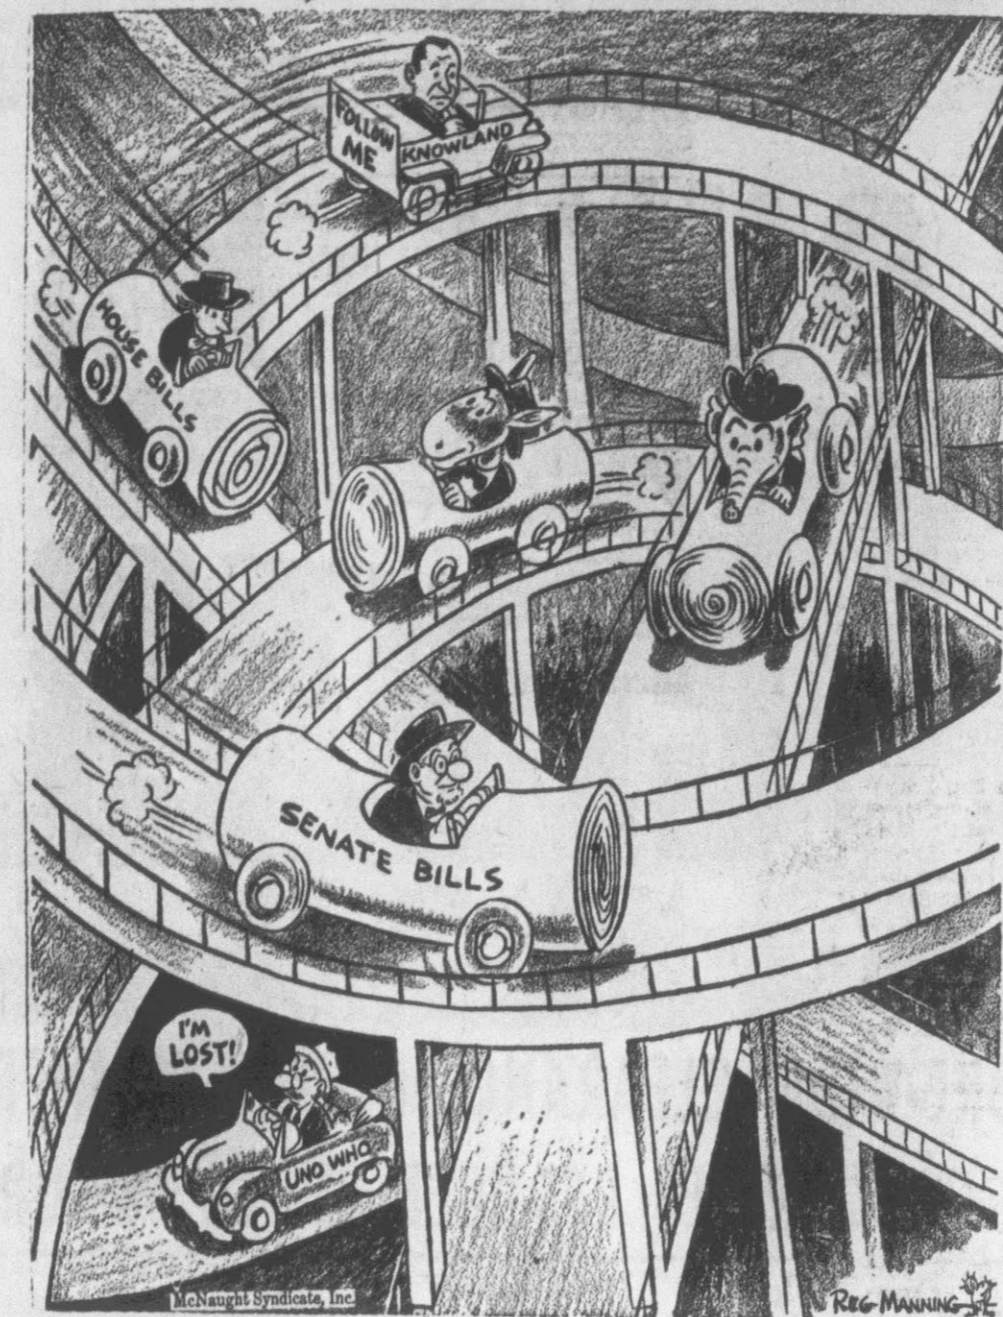

With his show closed, he would have to give a final accounting of his personal and semi-official finances, including the contributions and profits on his interim investigations.

IF DEMOCRATS CAPTURE SENATE—Democratic capture of the Senate in next fall's elections would have the same effect. McCarthy would then lose his Chairmanship, as well as his role as a Red hunter. And, again, he would have to account for his handling of the large sums which have flowed his way from the so-called "Texas billionaires" and more humble well-wishers.

The possible threat which a Democrat Senate presents explains why Republican leaders anticipate no trouble from McCarthy in the forthcoming campaign. It is to his interest to see that the Republicans enjoy a commanding majority. Otherwise, he will lose the limelight and must face a showdown on his financial affairs with Uncle Sam. He knows that.

It is entirely a matter of book-

Somebody Told Me

A Meeting By The Pamlico

"If we like, we can say amen and then jump in the river." That was the statement of Myrtle Gray (Mrs. Tyson) Bilbro as we walked to Sunday School Sunday morning. Wife Rachel, Don, Nancy and I were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bilbro at Rest Haven, three miles below Bayview, for one of the most refreshing and inspiring Sunday School meetings I have ever attended.

The meeting is held each Sunday on the bank of the Pamlico River, where there are plenty of shade trees and plenty of grass. It started three summers ago and has grown continually. Sunday's attendance set a new record: 107 were present, which only topped the old record by one.

Tyson Bilbro explains, "We started getting together just so we could hold Sunday School away from home, with the idea that all of the Rest Haven families would meet together. Now we have guests each Sunday and need more chairs." With the class treasury, folding chairs have been purchased and a portable organ, played by Mrs. Bilbro. Plans are underway to obtain those additional chairs needed. Families rotate the storing and delivery of the organ and the chairs.

Guests in attendance Sunday were from Greenville, Louisburg, Raleigh, Ayden, Apex, Washington and even Long Island, N. Y. Greenville people (guests and members) present were Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Browning, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Smiley, City Manager and Mrs. Jim Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Plato Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Parks, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Duncan, Mrs. George Wilkerson, Miss Elizabeth Walker, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Derrick. Tyson Bilbro, Jack Derrick and Wendell Smiley alternated as superintendent. An important addition: Every child at Rest Haven must have been there. For the devotional portion of the class they met with the adults, but then departed for one of the cottages for a separate lesson. Have you ever sat in Sunday School and let your eyes wander around the room? At the Rest Haven Sunday School your eyes can wander over the water. But somehow, the temptation isn't as great as you might think. The Rev. A. D. Noe, a retired minister, taught the lesson. There were some boats in the background now and then, but I think the lesson reached everybody present. The closeness of nature was inspiring enough to erase any distractions that were present.

The trip to Sunday School is a big event. As you walk through the yards of the neighbors there is a gathering as you journey along. It's a real social hour; visiting as you make your way to Sunday School. If my figures are correct it's 47 miles to Rest Haven. It's well worth the drive to attend the Sunday School by the River! And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

ELECTION DISPUTES (Washington Daily News)
After the recent Democratic primary it was learned that in several instances candidates were nominated by very slim majorities.

Over in Pitt county the incumbent sheriff won re-nomination over a former sheriff by the narrow margin of 44 votes. And the loser has claimed that there were several irregularities in the voting.

Court action has been threatened in several cases throughout the state. While the matter of ineligible persons cannot be determined by a recount, it is a relatively simple matter to recount the votes in a precinct in one race. In Pitt County it is claimed that there were irregularities in three precincts. They are Ayden, Bethel, and Pactolus. It would not require more than an hour to recount the votes in these three precincts.

As to the charge that persons ineligible to vote cast ballots in the primary or runoff primary, that could be determined simply by checking the lists of voters who did cast ballots and seeing if they were actually ineligible.

It seems to us that on many occasions we make something difficult and complicated out of a matter which should be relatively simple. In most cases we feel sure that the original is honest and fair. Mistakes are sometimes made, but "planned mistakes" are seldom heard of at our polls in North Carolina today.

We do not pretend to say that one side is right and the other wrong in this Pitt county election dispute. We don't have the facts before us. About all we know is that there is an election dispute and that the winner has been declared nominated by the margin of 44 votes. Of course it would not take a few disputed ballots to change the picture.

Anytime there is a very close race there is often a tendency to claim irregularities. More bitterness enters a close race. The competition for votes is keener. And usually the bitterness is enlarged after the votes are counted on account of charges and counter charges.

We want to see our election machinery run honestly and without any cloud of suspicion. And it is our general belief that such is the case in an overwhelming percentage of the cases.

The longer we allow election disputes to hang on, the more bitter the feeling will become. We need to clear up such disputes as rapidly as possible and not allow them to "snowball" and engender more bitterness through unnecessary delays.

It is also seldom that in a disputed election that the original loser is declared the winner in the recount or after the proper hearing. It is doubtful in North Carolina today that any one of the disputed elections will be changed one iota after hearings or recounts or through whatever recourse the elections body employs to determine the winners.

Not so many years ago North Carolina's income and expenditures were stated in terms of millions. For several years they have been in terms of hundreds of millions. They rapidly approach the billion category. One of the problems facing the advisory budget commission as it begins the

A Typical Executive

By E-MER ROESSNER
The typical executive is somewhat on the serious side, he had a happy home life in his earlier years, he has a better-than-average education, and he has fewer ulcers than the cartoonists pretend.

These and other facts about executives are disclosed in the July-August Harvard Business Review by Robert M. Wald and Roy A. Doty, of the George A. Fry & Associates management consulting firm. While their studies were based on a small sample—just 33—their studies were in considerable depth, some interviews being as long as eight hours.

Of the 33, 29 completed high school with an average grade of B plus, and 22 completed college with an average B grade. Mathematics was the most helpful subject followed by English. Tests show that they are far above the average mentally, with ability to solve complex and abstract problems. Only one-third reported ever having ulcers, spastic stomach or other nervous ailment.

Mr. Wald and Dr. Doty found that the parents of only one have been divorced; that the typical executive is much attached to his present family; that he is an active participant and leader in social organizations from childhood on; that he is interested in religion; that he has good health, and that he is interested in people, especially in selling them on the idea of fundamental co-operation.

The average executive is forceful and intense, they found, but he is objective in facing his personal problems, frank and straight-forward in dealing with people and ambitious and able to identify his ambitions with his company to an outstanding degree.

The researchers discovered hundreds of other facts and facets of the average executive (assuming their limited sample to be adequate). So many traits recurred so frequently that they conclude that "there is in fact a definite pattern of background and personality making for executive competence." This should be useful in selecting candidates for executive positions.

Those responsible for operating these agencies contend that with more than a billion dollars in valuations plus the taxing power over all privately owned property, and a debt of less than a third of a billion, the State can well afford to spend whatever is needed to completely serve the people.

The budgeters and spokesmen for those who pay large parts of the taxes contend on the other hand that operational costs are continuing an upward spiral and that there is real danger that the State may have difficulty in maintaining what it now has, and expansion would be suicidal.

Confusion Arising From Current Statistical Figures

By LYNN NISBET
DEBT—The old saying that figures do not lie, but liars do figure has been quoted thousands of times in recent months in connection with such things as "average" income, treasury "deficits" and "surpluses" and "cash balances" and "debts." At the same time the national administration is asking for increase in the statutory debt limit above the existing $275 billion top, some bragging about a balanced budget.

North Carolina has an outstanding bonded indebtedness of around $300 million, general fund receipts last year fell below estimates, yet it is reported that there is a current "credit balance" of about $25 million.

Further confusion arises out of the statement of economists and statisticians, quoted by Governor Langley of Washington the other day, that while some individual States may be in debt, the aggregate situation is that all of the 48 States combined have in their various treasuries United States securities amounting to more than the total debts of all the States. North Carolina is about average on that score. Exact amounts are not so important as the general fact that the State debt approximates $300 million and the State owns $300 million of U.S. bonds, certificates and notes.

Not so many years ago North Carolina's income and expenditures were stated in terms of millions. For several years they have been in terms of hundreds of millions. They rapidly approach the billion category. One of the problems facing the advisory budget commission as it begins the keeping and adjusting credit and debit items. It involves also the artificial valuations put upon physical assets of the State and the nation.

For instance, the valuation of State property listed in the Budget book as of June 30, 1952, is $367,731,692. That includes $298,999,999 for highways, leaving $68,731,693 for all the departmental office buildings, educational institutions and hospitals. Yet there has been invested in highways during the past six years more than $300 million, and more than $85 million in educational institutions for permanent improvements, along with another $65 million for hospitals.

BILLIONS—That the real properties owned by the State—roads and buildings and land—would bring if put up and sold at public auction is anybody's guess. Any fair appraisal of value would be in excess of one billion dollars. Trouble is that nobody or no agency other than the State with its taxing powers could afford to own these installations if they were offered as a gift.

Yet there has been invested in highways during the past six years more than $300 million, and more than $85 million in educational institutions for permanent improvements, along with another $65 million for hospitals.

biennial inspection tour of institutions this week is that demand for services and demonstrated need for more facilities has grown even faster than construction of buildings so that again the number of dollars is secondary to the main fact—there aren't enough school rooms and hospital beds to meet the demand.

Those responsible for operating these agencies contend that with more than a billion dollars in valuations plus the taxing power over all privately owned property, and a debt of less than a third of a billion, the State can well afford to spend whatever is needed to completely serve the people.

The budgeters and spokesmen for those who pay large parts of the taxes contend on the other hand that operational costs are continuing an upward spiral and that there is real danger that the State may have difficulty in maintaining what it now has, and expansion would be suicidal.

Whether or not there is an actual debt, and what constitutes debt or surplus, remain largely items of bookkeeping and opinion of individuals.

ATTRACTION—The diversity in North Carolina's natural attractions for vacationers and casual visitors is so wide, the difficulty of advertising them properly is increased by fear of over-emphasizing one type of attraction. A recent visit to the Adirondack resort area of New York State convinced your reporter that West, North Carolina has been overlooking a good advertising point. The scenery in the Adirondacks is certainly no more attractive than that in North Carolina.

30 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR July 20, 1924

An increase of three million dollars in the resources of Pitt County banks from December 30, 1917 to December 30, 1923 was shown in the report of W. R. Willis, secretary of the Pitt County Bankers' Association, at a meeting last night at which time the association entertained about fifty directors of various banks in the county. The meeting was held at the Rotary Club. A report showed that on the close of business December 30, 1917 the combined capital stock of all banks in Pitt County was $888,000 as compared with $1,100,000 on similar date in 1923. Deposits for the period climbed from $4,730,000 to $7,085,000 with the total resources of $5,440,000 in 1917 and $8,300,000 at the close of 1923.

Women of Moose Officers Honored By Cleora Teel

Cleora Teel honored all No. 1308 Women of the Moose officers with a lovely and most enjoyable party Friday night. Summer flowers were used to decorate the living room in which the co-workers were entertained.

When the co-workers entered the living room they were given a corsage in the lodge color. Beautiful music was played by Myrtle Coburn. Many games were played and prizes given to the winners.

The hostess served delicious cottage cheese and pineapple topped with cherries, rice crackers and drinks.

A short prayer was given by Lillie Dell Briley. Those attending the party were Eleanor Mills, Annie Collins, Joyce Smith, Gladys Corey, Myrtle Coburn, Lillie Briley, Earleen Conway, Dora Mae Harris, Hildred Darden.

Graduating From St. Louis Univ. School July 27

John A. Karsnak, Jr., son of Mrs. and Mrs. John A. Karsnak, Sr., of 400 Jarvis Street, will be graduated July 27 from Parks College of Aeronautical Technology of Saint Louis University.

He will receive a Bachelor of Science degree. Karsnak is a member of Alpha Phi Omega fraternity, the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin Mary, and Alpha Beta Gamma fraternity.

He has participated in the Air Force ROTC program at the college and holds a 2nd Lieutenant commission in the Air Force Reserve.

Karsnak is planning a career in Design and Flight Testing, and will report to the Airplane Design Section, McDonnell Aircraft Corporation, St. Louis, Mo., after graduation.

International Beauties Prefer Long Hair; Short Cuts Skipped

AP Newsfeatures Writer "Schlitten nicht" said Miss Germany. (In Americanese, that's "not too short!") "Not too curly" ordered Maria Teresa Pallani in her soft Italian. "I have complete faith," ventured Ivana Kislinger, 22 year-old Argentinian beauty.

These girls and three other foreign lovelies, all contestants for the Miss Universe title, celebrated their first visit to New York by having their hair styled the American way.

As the six patient stylists at the hair design institute tackled the assorted heads, the girls indicated what they wanted. All but one refused to let the scissors get within 0.306 meters (one foot) of them. The daring miss was Ana Moreno, Miss Uruguay, 23, with hazel eyes, black hair and a fiery personality. She emerged from the clippers with an Audrey Hepburn hairdo as American as one can look now.

The most difficult language problem was created by vivacious Regina Ernsi, Miss Germany. Although she didn't understand much English—except ice cream which is "very good"—the 18-year-old sat and smiled and let her twinkling blue eyes speak for her. Through an interpreter, she said she really didn't want the Miss Universe title. "It is too much. It wouldn't be the real me."

The same idea was expressed in fairly good English by charming blonde, grey-eyed, Jacqueline Beer, Miss France, who said: "Miss Universe is quite a heavy title to weigh. No woman is perfect. To be Miss Universe is to be the ideal."

Her final hairdo was almost as it was before—parted in the center, combed straight back, in a loose, long page-boy bob. Another long-haired beauty who refused to conform to the shorter styles was Gloria Legises, from Santiago, Chile. A student of classic and modern dance, Gloria has thick wavy black hair, green eyes and a dark complexion. This 21-year-old prefers her hair with no part, straight away from her face ending in a large, curled bun in back.

Miss Argentina, Ivana Kislinger, 22 said she used to wear her hair in pig-tails.

Credit Women's Club Honors Association State President

The Credit Women's Breakfast Club held their annual picnic on July 8 at 6:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Frank Copeland on the Falkland Highway, honoring Mrs. Evelyn Ray of Asheville, house guest of Mrs. Copeland, and State President of the N. C. Association of Credit Women's Breakfast Clubs. Other guests included members of the Rocky Mount Club and Sponsors and Bosses of the Greenville Club.

Upon arrival, guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Copeland. Mrs. Ray of Asheville, Mrs. Frances Cassick, local club president, Mrs. Henrietta Johnson, local vice president and program chairman, and Mrs. Margaret Boykin, who directed them to the dining room where refreshing fruit punch and iced drinks were served. Immediately following was the bountiful dinner on the front lawn, in old-fashioned picnic style, with guests serving themselves.

After dinner, President Cassick introduced the program director, Mrs. Johnson, who announced that the feature of the evening would be a lesson in business etiquette, part of the Dixie Council Project, and that Mrs. Margaret Boykin would be the teacher. By example, humorous pantomime and question and answer participation from the audience, Mrs. Boykin's lesson was most effective and enjoyable.

State President, Mrs. Evelyn Ray, in her address, gave a brief outline of the State Project of the year, the study of Willis, Securities and Investments, specifically pertaining to business women.

The next meeting of the club will be on Thursday morning, July 22, at 7:30 at the Woman's Club. Program Chairman Mrs. Johnson invited all Sponsors and Bosses to this meeting for a special lecture on Social Security benefits, problems and rulings, which information is necessary and vital to everyone, and especially to working women, wives and mothers in business and professional occupations.

Approximately 50 guests enjoyed the fellowship, delicious food and refreshments of the Credit Women's annual picnic.

Mrs. T. H. Mallison Funeral Wednesday

Mrs. Beattie D. Mallison, 78, widow of Thomas Hall Mallison, died at the home of her sister, Mrs. O. C. Haas, 214 Greene Street, at 6 o'clock Monday night following two weeks of illness.

Funeral services will be held at the First Methodist Church in Spring Hope at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, and burial will be in Pine View Cemetery in Spring Hope.

Mrs. Mallison was the daughter of the late Edward and Eliza Morgan Dillard and lived in Spring Hope until she and her husband came to Greenville to live in 1905. Mr. Mallison died in 1909. She was a member of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, the United Daughters of the Confederacy, and the Kings Daughters. For more than fifty years she was a member of the First Methodist Church in Spring Hope.

Surviving are four sons, Paul Mallison of Rocky Mount, Earl Mallison of Spring Hope, Clyde Mallison of Greenville, and Robert Mallison of Newport News; 3 grandchildren; and 3 sisters, Mrs. O. C. Haas and Mrs. W. G. Ward of Greenville and Mrs. Milton Cone of Richmond.

The United States had 9.7 marriages per 1,000 population in 1953.

August Bride Honored At Dessert Bridge

Miss Mizzi Sue Taylor, bride-elect of August, was entertained at dessert-bridge Monday night by Miss Frances Estelle Greene and Mrs. Rudolph Scheller.

White gladioli and lace fern predominated in the decorations of the home on the Stantonburg road. The tables were set for dessert upon arrival of guests. The tables were centered with white tapers in silver candlesticks and tied with white satin ribbon and lace fern. They were lighted during the dessert. The hostesses served an ice course carrying out a color note of green and white.

Mrs. Gherman Taylor, mother of the bride, was guest for dessert. Four tables enjoyed the progressions of bridge. Later in the evening lemonade was served.

Miss Taylor was presented a white carnation corsage and a gift of china in her chosen pattern by the hostesses.

High score prize was awarded to Miss Edwina McMullan and low score to Miss Mary Ann Stark.

Offer Monty To European Army

Bonn, Germany (AP)—An informed British source said here British has made an offer to appoint Field Marshal Lord Montgomery to help run the proposed European army.

(In London, eyebrows were raised in surprise at this report. The British Foreign Office refused comment.)

Lord Montgomery is at present deputy to the supreme Allied commander in Europe, American Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther. The informant here indicated that if the six-nation European army actually becomes a reality, the British government has suggested it would make him British representative to it.

He would be replaced in his present post in supreme headquarters in Paris, it was said, by Lt. Gen. Sir Richard Gale present commander of the British-Belgian-Dutch northern army group in Germany.

The idea seems to be to demonstrate to the French that Britain, though unwilling to join the European Defense Community formally and merge its armed forces in the European army, intends to maintain "close association" with this organization.

PROUD OF EVERY POUND, HE SAYS

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—The Montgomery Advertiser in a story about the arrest of Sam (Big John) Baxter on a concealed weapons charge referred to him as a "hefty, 300-pounder."

The night club bouncer demanded a correction, declaring: "I weigh 365 pounds and I'm proud of every pound."

Lap Of Luxury Lounge

KING-SIZE COMFORT... Designed especially for people who like to curl up in a big chair with a good book or a TV program, this giant-lounging chair is four feet in diameter. It was designed by Angelo Mangarotti, of Milan, Italy, and is being manufactured in America. It was shown at the recent Furniture Mart in Chicago.

Tornado Victim Two Years Late

STUTTGART, Ark. (AP)—The tornado that cut through Arkansas in 1952 and took 116 lives claimed another victim two years later, James Leon Woodyard, 9, who suffered a head injury in the storm, fell into an irrigation ditch and drowned.

His father said the boy had frequent, sudden fainting spells since the tornado, and officers said evidence indicated that the boy fainted and fell into the water.

WINTER'S COMING HELENA, Mont. (AP)—It was summer, but the State ordered its tire chains. The Purchasing Department said the state pays out nearly $4,000 for tire chains every year.

When any fuel is burned, it is first converted into gas and the gas burns.

Best Cowboy Is Not Big Hollywood Star

By HUBBARD KEAVY
HOLLYWOOD—Do you know who the best cowboy in all Hollywood is? Ben Johnson that's who. Why, he had a pretty good part in "Shane," said Joe, but they cut it down to nothing almost.

I asked: Ben look better than Alan Ladd?

Frank One, Frank Two and Joe made uncomplimentary sounds at the mention of Ladd. They unmistakably meant: he's no cowboy.

Who's the next best?

Joe said he'd put Joel McCrea right up there, and Frank Two said he'd sure put in with that. So do I, said Frank One, but that Ben Johnson why, he took top day money at the Tucson rodeo and he was the world's champion steer roper.

I said I never had heard of him. Well, said Joe, you asked who the best cowboy in Hollywood is and we told you. You didn't ask who is the best cowboy in Hollywood you ever heard of, did you?

I ought to explain that the two Franks and Joe are wranglers, best in the business. They rent horses to the movies. They started out as cowboys, but they like a touch of the city. They cowboied in Arizona and Utah and Texas until they got tired of driving 40 miles every time they wanted a beer. In Hollywood, you just turn around and there's a beer.

Now talking about fellows you heard of continued Joe, that Joel McCrea, I think he's cooler with a horse than most. In other words, he's nice to a horse. Why, he's got his own ranch up in Ventura County and he does his own cowboying. Him and his sons, they bring in their own cattle, they brand 'em and dehorn 'em and everything.

Now Bob Elliott, I'd rate him about No. 3, said Frank One. You agree Joe? Who's Bob Elliott? You asked. Well, he was pretty big at Republic but they let him go and maybe it hurt his ego a little. But he's a cowboy, make no mistake. Oh, maybe he sometimes gets a little mad at a horse, but he's good. He's making six pictures a year for Allied Artists.

Who's next? Well, now, said Joe, I'd put that Robert Taylor next. Yes sir, he's a good cowboy. You mean, I asked in astonishment, that handsome actor? You damn right, said Joe. He's got good horses and he knows how to ride 'em. Of course, he's got that Val Valdes breaking 'em and training 'em for him.

How about Roy Rogers, King of the Cowboys?

Frank Two, with a grunt: Well, he owns a horse.

And Gene Autry?

Joe: Hell, he can't even ride a mail wagon for my dough. Oh, he mounts real purty, if you want to count that.

How about Hopalong Cassidy—you know, Bill Boyd?

Frank One: Sorry, I didn't hear the name.

Joe asked: You run out of names? I said I had. So Frank One said you think we ought to mention Van Johnson, John Wayne and Glenn Ford?

Frank Two said he thought it was a sad mistake to even bring up such names when you're talking about cowboys. I wouldn't even mention those names, said Joe pointedly.

So I said I wouldn't mention them.

Closing Of Bank Stunned Citizens

VALLEY CENTER, Kan. (AP)—Merchants and others in this community of 1,100 were stunned yesterday when they went to their town's only bank and found it closed. Bank Commissioner Elmer T. Beck said bank losses would exceed $310,000.

The doors of the Farmers and Merchants State Bank were closed following a week's investigation by state bank examiners. Depositors had no hint that anything was wrong. Beck said John W. Basore, the bank's president, had admitted irregularities and had promptly resigned.

After announcing the probable loss, Beck said he would have no further comment until his report is complete.

Some merchants were caught with Saturday and Sunday receipts and no place to immediately put them. Some of them had a hard time rounding up change so they could open up this morning.

L. R. Beny, hardware store operator, said gloomily, "I might as well have stayed closed today. No one wanted to buy anything. They just wanted to talk about the bank."

There have been no arrests or charges filed.

County Atty. Warner Moore was trying to find Basore, who he said had not been at the bank all day and was not at his home.

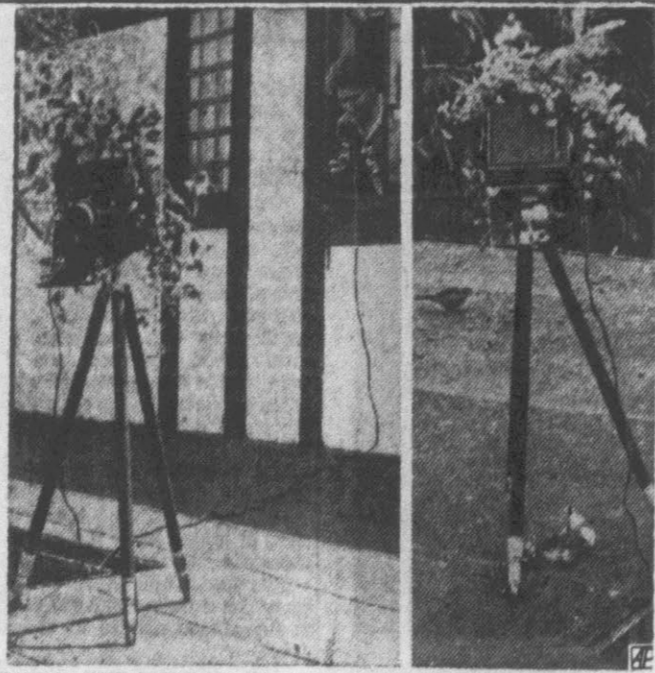

Beck said the bank is not protected by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

Right Number, Wrong State

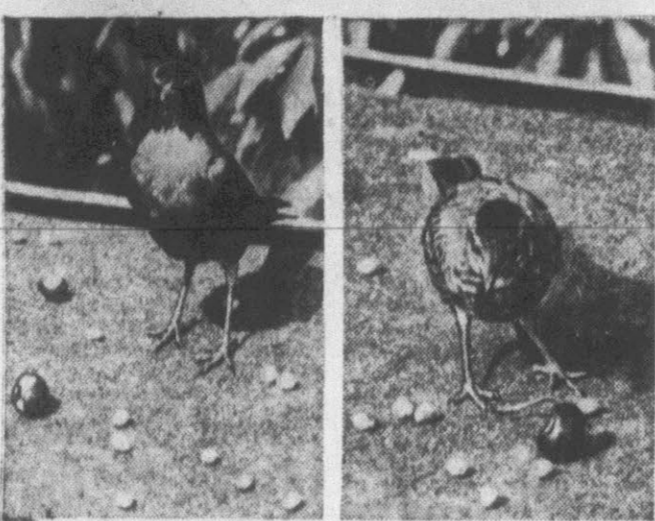

ROANOKE, Va. (AP)—George D. Fields has a telephone number similar to that of two important business concerns and is used to wrong numbers.

When he received a call from Tokyo, Japan, at 3 a.m. he figured it was another wrong number. But it was right, only the wrong state. The party wanted the same number in Charlotte, N.C.

Camera News

AP Newsfeatures

SUCCESSFUL BIRD PHOTOGRAPHY, according to the experts, depends on a knowledge of bird habits, use of the most modern photographic equipment, physical endurance, unlimited patience and zeal for the outdoor life to reach the inaccessible, natural feeding grounds.

Well, the experts are absolutely correct—except for a few minor details. I have just survived a major bird photographic expedition, have come back with interesting bird studies and would like to pass on specific details so that you, too, can become an expert closer to home.

"Know their feeding stations" is a basic rule. That was easy for me. The birds were eating the cherries off my two little back yard trees.

"Study their habits." That, too, was easy. They chose only the ripest cherries, flew a few feet to my porch roof, devoured the fruit and left the pits. Then back for a second helping and more pits on the roof. The dubious honor of owning a genuine pitted roof spurred me on to take pictures of the culprits.

"Modern equipment" usually meant telephoto lenses, automatic cameras with robot-negative changers operated by remote control apparatus. I've also read of elaborate arrangements whereby birds triggered their own pictures by flying into an electronic beam which set off stroboscopic lights simultaneously with the camera shutter.

That's where I parted company with the experts.

I set up my 4" x 5" press type camera on a tripod on the roof and carefully focussed on an area about 6 feet away. I set the speed at 1-200th second and the shutter at f-11. The Speed Graphic lens had a solenoid tripper. That enabled me to attach a 25-foot electric wire extension to the flashgun. When I pressed the flashgun button, the solenoid tripped the shutter and an exposure was made 25 feet away.

"Seek cover or construct a blind." I found cover in the second floor bathroom. From the window, I had an unobstructed view of the cherry trees, the pitted roof and the camera. The latter needed a blind, so I camouflaged it by draping some cherry tree branches on top.

BEWILDERED BUT UNHURT—Little Gary Bailey, age 3½, wonders what all the fuss is about after he was found in dense wooded and mountainous country near Knox, Maine. Grief stricken but happy is his mother after searching all night for her son who was lost about 48 hours. Gary slept under a fallen tree and had only a couple of scratches on his face. He is held by his father, Kenneth Bailey. (AP Wirephoto)

"Lots of patience." You can say that again! My activities started around 11 a.m. one hot Sunday and ended seven hours and six snapshots later. Where before the birds brazenly grabbed the cherry tidbits despite my strenuous efforts to shoo them away, now that I waited with poised finger on flashgun button, they seemed to have lost their appetites.

After a tense hour of fruitless waiting, I left my post to get a sandwich. I glanced up at the roof—and there was a bird eating a cherry. By the time I got upstairs he had left his pit and was off. I finished my sandwich upstairs—but no birds.

I decided to get a high chair to sit on instead of standing at the window. That's when bird number two chose to eat dessert. He timed it perfectly, flying off with a chirp of satisfaction as my hand reached the flashgun.

After another period of waiting, I got a book and started to read. That's when the birds came. But this time I was ready and I flashed the tripper. My triumph was short-lived, however. In all that time I had forgotten to take the slide out of the holder! So out on the roof I went to make sure the next shot would count.

After that it was easier. By showing some indifference, by reading and looking up every once in a while, the time went faster. The birds found their appetites and took some pictures. After each exposure I'd go out to put in the slide and make the next negative ready.

In mid operations my neighbor came over to investigate the camera on the roof. I explained a bird operation to him and asked him to join in. He went to get his camera.

"You're right," he agreed. "This is a rare opportunity to get a shot at a very queer bird here."

He focussed. . . and took my picture.

The Taming of Carney Wilde

by BART SPICER

SYNOPSIS
When Charles Alexander Stewart absconded with funds from a bank in Philadelphia, he placed Carney Wilde's sleuthing career in jeopardy. Wilde was responsible for the security policing of the bank. It was up to him now, to find the thief who had disappeared after killing a policeman in the course of his flight.

CHAPTER TWO
GRODNIK pulled his big feet back under his chair and frowned at me. His hands moved to the chair arms as if he meant to rise. "I had an idea," he said softly, hard eyes denying the gentleness of his voice. "But I guess maybe you're too smart to listen."

I shook my head. "I said honestly, 'It was a question. How do I get it?'"
For a brief moment Grodnik glared at me, his eyes hot under the thick brows. Then he drew a deep, slow breath and sat back heavily in the chair. He rubbed a wide hand across his forehead. He took out his cigar and forced a thin smile.
"We've been working on this," he said. He rose and rummaged in a pocket of his topcoat. "In a way," he said, "I guess you got a break coming to you, even if we didn't figure it was something we wouldn't follow up ourselves. When you knocked over that incinerator, you spilled all the trash and that's how we happened to find this."

He handed me a partially burned strip of paper. It had been mounted on stiff cardboard and covered with a plicofilm jacket.
Grodnik said, taking his chair again: "I showed it to the superintendent. Nobody else knows about it."

"Police departments don't send men on excursion trips. Not when we can just as easily fly a man to Cincinnati and check the passengers before the boat leaves."
"But if he gets on at a later stop?"
"We'll probably send a man to New Orleans, too," Grodnik said. "He could still get off earlier, couldn't he?"
Grodnik nodded. "That's what I told the boss. He read me a geography lesson. He could be right."
"What lesson?"
"New Orleans," Grodnik said. "From there you can get, any place. Mexico, South America, Far East, Europe. It's a big seaport. And it's one of the ports that dope is smuggled through. That means a mob is operating there."
I said: "Stewart isn't the kind to know mobsters."
"You can't guess what he knows. This riverboat reservation was made three months or more ago. If Stewart made it, and I'm willing to bet he did, then he planned to snatch the dough and get clean away."
"But how do you know Stewart was—?"
A fist rapped at my door, then the knob turned. Grodnik frowned significantly at the plicofilm holder in my hand. I just had time to slip

The strip of paper was a deep blue. At the top was a solid white triangle and along its upper angles were the words, "Delta Line." Beneath the triangle were the words, "Passenger accommodation." Then came a white space with ruled lines, where details were to be written by passenger agents. Most of that had been burned away but the top line, scrawled in blue ink, said, "Del Bdr."

I read it all carefully, knowing Grodnik thought it was important. I could see no indication of a date, nor of the passenger's name.
"You check on it?" I asked.
"It was sent last November by mail to a man named Holloway at the address where we found it," Grodnik said. "There hasn't been anyone living in that house since last summer, but it belonged to Stewart." He pointed at the strip of paper. "This Delta Line outfit is a freighting company. They own one passenger boat. It's kept pretty busy in the summer, but the big profit comes when the boat makes a winter cruise from Cincinnati, Ohio, to New Orleans, getting down there in time for Mardi Gras. This scrap of paper is a piece of the envelope used to send a ticket to a man named Holloway. He reserved a de luxe bedroom for one passenger. For two people, a de luxe bedroom costs $600 each. For one it's $750. This boat has just 10 de luxe bedrooms. Mr. Holloway reserved number five."

"Paid for how?"
"Two hundred-dollar deposit sent by postal money order, bought by a man who said his name was Holloway, same address."
"Why aren't you chasing Holloway?"

"I just had time to slip it into my shirt pocket when the door was opened and Penn Maxwell poked his sandy head around the edge."
"Can I—?"
"Come in," I said. "Come in and—"
My voice dwindled to nothing when the door opened wide enough for me to see who was standing behind Maxwell. Out of the corner of my eye I noticed Grodnik's cigar wobble uncertainly as his mouth opened. I pushed against the arm of the chair so that I could get to my feet.
"Meet the missus," Maxwell said with a proud bow, sweeping his arm widely toward the open door. The long, lovely blonde girl moved eagerly forward, her expression vibrant with happiness. Something soft and furry and still smelling of the cold winter air touched lightly at my hand as she swept toward me with an excited clatter of heels, her arms spread.
"Oh, Carney!" she cried. "I wanted to tell you first of all— The words broke off in embarrassed silence when she saw Grodnik. "Dad! I didn't know you—"
"I guess you didn't," Grodnik growled. "I just guess you didn't."

could answer. The old man and had been friends for a long time before I'd ever met his daughter. I didn't give him a chance to say anything.
"We'll be there, boy," I said quickly. "Wouldn't miss it. But you'll have to give us time to find a present for the bride. Where are you throwing the brawl?"
"At the Bellevue, Carney," he said. "Private room. Seven o'clock. Okay, Carney?"
"Fine. We'll be there," I said. "Couldn't think of a better way to celebrate getting out of this place."
Jane pecked at my cheek again, waved happily at Grodnik and pivoted through the door with a dancer's grace. Maxwell pulled the door closed after him, then stopped for a moment. His face would always be a boy's face, I thought.
"Thanks, boss," he said.

I grinned, waved and watched him shut the door. I sat down then and looked at Grodnik.
The deep lines in his cheeks were white with strain as his mouth clamped down hard to restrain the hot anger inside him. I knew then he hadn't been told, hadn't even suspected. I thought suddenly of his wife, Mary the rosy, round-faced woman who made her home a warm and comforting place. I hoped Jane had been sensible enough to tell her ahead of time.
"That little..." Grodnik's voice was full of hatred.
"Let it go," I said heavily. "He's the best kid I know."
"Him?" Grodnik snorted. "Why he—"
"Two Silver Stars," I said quickly. "When he was 23 he was commanding an engineer company. Two hundred men. And it's a cinch that he was the best man of the lot. He's a good kid."
"A kid. You think I want Jane married to a—"

The Couples Bridge Club was entertained on Tuesday night of last week by Mr. and Mrs. Don Franklin White at their home on Mill Street. Abie Cleve was a guest player. The home was decorated with mixed summer flowers for the occasion. When scores were compiled, Mrs. J. G. Huff was declared high scorer among the men, with Mrs. Whitley receiving the consolation award.
Refreshments of iced drinks and mixed nuts were served during play and after the game a delicious iced melon dessert was served.

Chisox Meet Yankees Seven Times In Next Ten Days

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports Writer

The next 10 days can go a long way in deciding the American League pennant chances of the Chicago White Sox.

During that spell the Sox face the New York Yankees seven times, starting tonight in Yankee Stadium.

The Sox trail first place Cleveland by half a game. The White Sox are another four games back.

It's going to be a long hard road for Paul Richards' Go-Go Boys, but their four-game sweep over the Indians just before the All-Star break convinced a lot of fans the Sox still are a big threat.

The Yankees are the big stumbling block. In 12 meetings so far the White Sox have come out on the short end eight times. Against every other team, including Cleveland, Chicago holds a winning edge.

Sandwiched in between the home-and-home series with Chicago, the Yankees meet Cleveland in a three-game set in New York over the weekend.

It could turn out that the recently revived Boston Red Sox will hold the immediate key to the first-place scramble. While the White Sox are playing the Yankees, the Indians will be meeting Boston.

And when Cleveland switches to New York, Chicago goes to Boston. The Indians and Yankees both won yesterday. Chicago had the day off. Cleveland defeated Washington, 4-3. New York whipped Detroit, 8-0. Boston won a pair from Baltimore 9-7 and 8-5.

In the National League, Harry Perkowski of Cincinnati pitched a 12-inning, three-hit shutout over the league-leading New York Giants, winning 1-0 on Hobie Landrith's home run. Second-place Brooklyn also lost, 9-4 to Chicago. St. Louis beat Philadelphia 5-1 and Milwaukee defeated Pittsburgh 4-1.

The big thriller was in Cincinnati. Perkowski, a left-hander who had lost seven out of eight decisions this year, pitched brilliantly against the Giants. He walked five, struck out six two of them in the 12th inning, and was in danger of being scored upon only in the seventh when Monte Irvin led off with a double against the scoreless Irvin, however, was picked off second. Whitey Lockman doubled with two out in the second. Al Dark beat out an infield single in the 11th.

Brooklyn put on one of its worst fielding performances of the season, committing five errors, in losing to the Cubs for the first time in 10 games.

Peace and quiet reigned at Busch Stadium in St. Louis, scene of Sunday's riot, as the Cardinals whipped the Phillies. Rookie Brooks Lawrence scattered 10 hits in winning his fifth game since joining the Redbirds less than a month ago.

In Milwaukee, Jim Wilson continued to defy the jinx that's supposed to dog no-hit pitchers, as he won his seventh straight game. He limited the Pirates to three hits. Allie Reynolds, back in action after a hip injury, stopped Detroit on three hits for his 10th in a row.

The schedule for today calls for Kinston to play Tarboro at 5:30 and for Rocky Mount to meet Greenville at 8.

The Lions club wrapped up the championship of the North State League yesterday afternoon with a 7-6 victory over the V.F.W. The winning run came over the plate with two out in the last inning.

Buster Jenkins, who went all the way in defeat, walked Carraway and Starling in the sixth after two were out. Carraway went down to third on a wild pitch and when one of Jenkins' fast balls got away from catcher Jody Blalock, Carraway raced in from virtue to score.

The Indians have been running in front despite a flock of injuries which have sidelined such stars as Lemon, Al Rosen and Bobby Avila.

Coach R. B. Starling started Charles Puryear on the mound and he went four innings until the Lions had a 6-3 lead. Lonnie Staton then relieved Puryear and he immediately walked the first two batters to face him. Aubrey Harrison came in to pitch and was greeted by a ringing double for two runs. Three more walks brought across another run. Harrison struck out all six of the batters who made out in the last two innings.

Dickie Barnhill led the Lions at bat with two for three. None of the Lions players got more than one hit.

The game yesterday concludes the Little League schedule for the year. There still will be plenty of baseball in the park, however. Monday afternoon will be the date the North State League and the Tar Heel League play for the championship of Greenville. The winner of that game moves into the next round against Williamston.

The score by innings:
V.F.W. 200 180-6
Lions 114 001-7

Noren Increases AL Batting Lead

NEW YORK (AP)—Irv Noren of the New York Yankees has increased his American League batting lead to sizable proportions and today holds a 19-point margin over runner Bobby Avila of Cleveland.

Noren, a left-handed hitting outfielder in his fifth major league campaign, gained 18 points on an 11-for-22 performance last week. He's hitting .360 to Avila's .341. Bobby's mark remained the same as he produced nine hits in 26 at bats.

Minnie Minoso of the Chicago White Sox moved into third place at .322 with a nine-point climb. Minoso, who leads the circuit in runs batted in with 72, had nine safeties in 20 trips.

In the National League, Brooklyn's Duke Snider dropped six points to .361, but he held onto the top spot as his closest competitor, Don Mueller of the Giants and Cincinnati's Gus Bell, also lost ground.

Mueller fell five points to .361 and Bell four points to .340.

Willie Mays of the Giants hit two home runs last week to bring his National League leading total to 33. Stan Musial of the Cardinals has driven in the most runs, 86.

The Yankees' Mickey Mantle still is the American League's pace-setter in home runs with 19.

Indian Manager Expects Sweep Of Yank Series

By HERB ALTSCHULL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Al Lopez, whose Cleveland Indians are hanging stubbornly to a half-game lead in the American League, said today he'll settle for nothing less than a sweep of the "crucial" series this weekend with the New York Yankees.

"Who wants two out of three?" Lopez said in the manner of a man who would rejoice with two out of three. "You've got to go for them all in this league."

The Indians moved to Boston today for a three-game set with the Red Sox before heading into Yankee Stadium for the big threesome with the world champions, the Yankees, meanwhile, tackle the contending White Sox in four.

"They've been pretty hot," Lopez said of the Yankees, "but they're bound to cool off sooner or later."

The Indians themselves have been more than lukewarm of late. The Yankees won five of six since the All-Star Game break, but have not gained an inch. The Indians have the same 5-1 mark after edging the Washington Senators in a 4-3 thriller yesterday.

Earl Wynn, the big righthander who once worked for Washington, won his 12th game against seven losses, setting the Senators down with four hits in the eight innings he pitched. Teammate Mike Garcia also has won 12, losing 5, while Bob Lemon's mark is 9-5.

Lopez wouldn't tip his hand about his pitching selections for the Yankees, but it would be more than surprising if the three Cleveland pitchers don't turn out to be reading from Friday to Sunday: Lemon, Wynn, Garcia.

In the 11 games played between the clubs so far this season, Lopez has started every time with one of his Big Three. This is so even though their combined record against the Yanks this year is only 2-5.

Wynn has started five and has a record of 1-2. In four tries, Lemon is 1-1, while Garcia is 0-2. Relief pitchers have won three, lost one, giving Cleveland an overall record of 16 against the champions with 11 still to be played.

Lopez was making no predictions about the outcome of the pennant race. He said he is well aware the Yankees are tough and that you win no championships with talk.

"They've got to beat us," Lopez said. "It won't be easy, particularly if that we're in the best physical shape we've been in all season."

The Indians have been running in front despite a flock of injuries which have sidelined such stars as Lemon, Al Rosen and Bobby Avila.

Owen's Hit Puts Bosox In Fifth

BOSTON (AP)—Mickey Owen's grand slam home run won't decide any pennant race but it has put a gilt edge on his baseball memories and pushed the Boston Red Sox into fifth place.

There were two-out and Boston trailed 7-5 in the ninth inning of the first game with Baltimore yesterday when substitute catcher Owen came to the plate. Reliever Mike Blyzka had a 2-2 count on Mickey when the veteran of 20 years of professional baseball sent a high curve ball into Fenway Park's left field screen. The Red Sox had won 9-7.

The effect lasted beyond the immediate bedlam with Owen's teammates swarming over him at the plate. They took his example to heart and lashed out five homers in the second game for an 8-5 triumph. By the end of the day Boston had supplanted Washington in fifth place in the American League and was a scant half game behind fourth-place Detroit.

As Owen explained it: "The boys figured if an old gaffer like me could hit a home run anybody can." Successive inning blasts by Jacke Jensen and one each by Ted Williams, Milt Bolling and Jim Piersall were the second-game fruits of the Owen inspiration.

When Pete Runnels of the Senators hit a home run against the White Sox this season, it was the first such drive he ever hit in Griffith Stadium.

Willie May Play Important Part

NEW YORK (AP)—Guillermo (Willie) Miranda walked gingerly from the shower and laughed as he headed for his locker in the New York Yankee dressing room.

"See," he said grinning, "you hit a home run and everybody waits to talk to you. There are more guys around here now than there have been all season."

This was yesterday, some minutes after the Yankees had blanked the Detroit Tigers 8-0 on Allie Reynolds' three-hitter. Two of the runs came on Miranda's first homer of the year and the second of his major league career.

"They all were kidding me in the dugout after I hit that one," he said. "They said, 'Are you weak or something. Why can't you hit it into the upper deck.'"

Actually, the blow was a solid one, traveling on a line about 350 feet into the lower left field seats.

Willie, a switch-hitter, who resides in Havana and plays for Almazarez in the Cuban League during the winter, has a lifetime big league batting average of .222.

Except for one start in the June 1 game against Boston, the 27-year-old Miranda has been used solely as a late-inning defensive replacement for shortstop Phil Rizzuto. That was until the first game of Sunday's double-header against Detroit when Manager Casey Stengel decided to give Rizzuto a much-needed rest.

Now Miranda may be kept in the lineup against the Chicago White Sox tonight in the first game of an important, four-game set.

Although he doesn't care to discuss it, Stengel plainly is worried by Rizzuto's inability to produce. Phil, who will be 36 on Sept. 25, is batting only .203 and has slowed down perceptibly in the field. Hence, Miranda could well play a more vital role than expected in the club's drive for a sixth straight pennant.

Bartzen's Wins Do Not Brighten Tennis Picture

NEW YORK (AP)—The successive victories scored by Bernard Bartzen over two fair-haired tennis stars, Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert, as he won the National Clay Courts Championship over the weekend are not to be taken too seriously in sizing up the summer's grass court campaign beginning this week at Philadelphia or the annual Davis Cup enrollment in Australia during the winter.

Bartzen is no meteoric newcomer who might sweep through the Eastern fixtures, including the National Championships at Forest Hills, and lead a triumphant invasion of Aussieland. The thin left-hander is just a very good tennis player who happens to be at his best on the slower clay surface. His victory at Chicago, while no doubt a happy one for him, does little to brighten this country's over-all tennis picture.

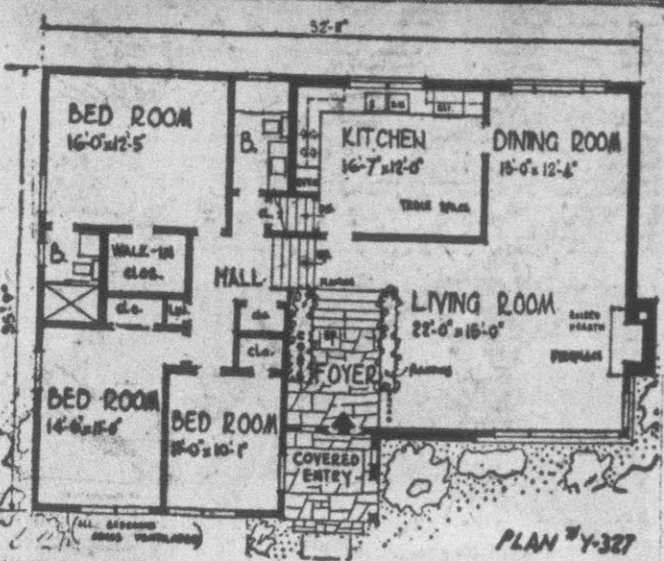

Trabert and Seixas, despite their indifferent showings at Wimbledon, remain the best we have in sight. No report has reached here of a single bright young prospect coming up this summer with any hope of blazing to the top as they used to do. Even California seems to have run completely dry.

There is an outside chance of an important development in this week's Pennsylvania Championship. Some think that Ham Richardson, the intercollegiate king, might be ready to come into his own in this one and supplant Seixas as our No. 2 man. Both Seixas and Art Larsen are entered. But even if Ham should win it, our Davis Cup prospects would be very little improved, as the Australians have four or five players who are better than the Tulane senior. That is, they have been up to now.

Trabert, who must win two singles if we are to have a chance of bringing the big coupe home next winter is passing up the first grass court event this week in favor of the Colorado state tournament, on clay. So are Gardner Mulloy and Billy Talbot. Sponsors of the Denver event must have sent out some seductive invitations.

It might be a mistake to dismiss Bartzen so lightly. The 20-year-old sporting goods salesman could have waterproofers have stopped in-flows of water at the rate of many gallons per minute.

One of the major points in this controversy seems to be the need for a basement. An expert for the Portland Cement Assn. says people who moved into basementless ranch-type houses "have found the walls shrinking rapidly inward." He was referring to the need for storage space. "How can a man corral a steamer trunk, work tools, storm windows and screens into a close-size utility room already bulging with a perambulator, golf clubs, vacuum cleaner and assorted household equipment?" he asked.

The anti-basementers are just cellars and they're dark and gloomy. The pros say they don't have to be that way—just make the windows larger, or paint your window wells white or aluminum and you can spread cheer and sunshine under your house.

The anti-basementers say that basements provide more space than you need. The pros reply that it all depends on how you use that space—for storage, hobbies, recreation, workshop, etc.

Stop at that workshop, say the anti-basementers will rust; your blueprints and books will mildew.

Buy a dehumidifier, reply the pros. And with that challenge they have something.

Have you gone down to your basement in the last few summer days and found the place damp and cool and musty?

The only way to beat this, we have found, is to pump the moisture out of the air. You can do this with an electric dehumidifier. These machines work on the refrigeration principle. A fan keeps the air circulating around a condenser coil, which instead of freezing, drips the condensation into a pan. In 24 hours, one of these machines can remove as much as 14 quarts of water from the air.

But before you buy one, try it for comparative silence. A good one should not be noisy.

CONSTRUCTION ECONOMY has given the split level, such as the design shows here, its widespread popularity. With bedrooms half a flight up from the living room wing, the garage is accommodated under the bedroom wing with a ground floor recreation room and terrace behind the garage. Open cellar with laundry and heating plant is located under the living room wing. This is Plan Y-327 by Herman York, architect, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica 2, N.Y. The house has 1,900 square feet of habitable floor space.

By DAVID G. BARUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

Basements today are more of a national architectural controversy than shutters on the window, frozen lace—or what kind of gingerbread do you prefer? The South, in general, is due for a shock in this controversy and so are many other parts of the country where basements are raked as excess baggage.

You can save money, all right, by eliminating a basement when building a small house. But is it a pennywise saving? A basement usually is the cheapest part of a house to build. Now that basements can be kept dry and healthful so easily, a man building a permanent home without a basement runs a big risk of short changing himself.

You may dispute this, but keep your guard up for the rebuttal. The antibasement school of architects contends that you can save about $1,000 by eliminating the cellar when building an average-size house.

The probasement boys say you can have all the space provided by a dry and finished basement for no more than about $1.50 per square foot in contrast to probably $15 per square foot for construction above the ground.

The construction of watertight basements is no trick nowadays. And the waterproofing of existing basements is almost as easy with modern materials and methods. Watertight basements have been built below sea level in thousands of places and in existing basements those throughout our mountain vacationland. The main factor, however, is that nearly all the accommodations for overnight stays are less modern in New York than in North Carolina.

A drive of more than 60 miles from the upper reaches of Lake George to Saratoga Springs discovered literally hundreds of old style tourist cabins, a number of old wooden hotels, but only two or three modern motels anything like as comfortable or attractive as those which almost cover the roadides in Western North Carolina. We have everything to offer that New York has, plus the much more comfortable accommodations along the way.

The State of North Carolina has for many years maintained a non-commercial policy in operating its parks and recreational areas. They are not even self supporting, but are given appropriations to enable them to serve the people. That contrasts with the report from Pennsylvania that the State parks and recreational activities yield an annual return of some $800,000 to the State treasury.

Finishing Work On Social Security Bill Planned Today

By JOE HALL
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee meets today to put finishing touches on a bill to extend social security to about six million persons instead of the 10 1/2 million President Eisenhower asked.

In a burst of speed yesterday the committee virtually completed closed-door voting on legislation to liberalize and broaden the 18-year-old program.

The senators accepted without change the increases in benefits and tax base recommended by the President. But they rewrote coverage provisions to cut sharply the number of additional persons the administration had suggested for social security.

The increased benefits, as in the House-approved bill would mean an average $6-a-month boost for the five million persons over 65 now on social security rolls. The new average monthly payment would be about $57. Everyone on the rolls now and retiring in the future would get a minimum $5-a-month hike over present scales.

In addition, benefit formulas would be liberalized so that, for instance, the maximum payment to a retired individual would be $108.50 a month instead of $85 as at present. For a couple, the maximum would be $162.75. Now it is $117.50.

To finance these, the annual amount of wages subject to taxes would be increased from $3,600 to $4,200. The tax now is 2 per cent on workers and employers.

The major coverage change made by the Senate committee was to eliminate entirely from social security 3,600,000 farm operators and 800,000 professional persons, such as doctors, lawyers, dentists and engineers.

This was a reversal of its vote last week to put them in on a voluntary basis. Members explained yesterday it was felt that if coverage were optional, only those likely to receive the most benefits and pay the least taxes would enter the system. The administration had asked compulsory coverage.

On another point, involving farm workers, the Senate committee went along with the President's full recommendation, although the House had not.

The committee voted to extend compulsory coverage to an additional 2,000,000 farm hands. The House bill would bring in only 1,300,000 more. About 700,000 are covered under present law.

Under the Senate version any farm worker paid $50 in cash by an employer in a three-month period would be covered.

The committee approved voluntary coverage of about $1 1/2 million state and local government employees now under local retirement plans. They would vote whether or not to go under the federal system.

The committee would put ministers under social security only on a voluntary basis and as self-employed if they elected coverage.

State Dept. Has Raised Problem

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The Miss Universe committee today finds itself in a Hellenic predicament — two entries from Greece.

The unusual problem was created by the U.S. State Department.

Rika Dialina, who originally won the Miss Greece title in Athens, was refused a visa to this country for the international beauty contest. An artist, she had once drawn an illustration used in a Communist book. Her sponsors vouched for her patriotism, but the McCarran Act denies a visa to anyone who aids in the production of Communist literature.

That meant that runner-up Effi Ardoulakakis came here to represent her country.

But Secretary of State John Foster Dulles gallantly stepped in

Hope Raised For Young 'Bleeder'

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—It began to look today as though 6-year-old Eddie Phillips, who has been bleeding since July 6, might live.

"His condition is still critical but it is no longer desperate," his doctor said last night.

Since the slender, tow-headed son of a Middletown automobile dealer had his tonsils taken out early this month there has been some trouble in his blood stream. Certain elements have been lacking and his blood hasn't been able to clot.

In an attempt to save his life, nearly 60 persons have given him their blood. The youngster has received more than 30 pints of whole blood plasma.

Until last night, there seemed little hope for the boy whose home in past weeks has been given him an oxygen tent and who has breathed through a tube in his throat and taken his meals intravenously.

Then the bleeding became almost negligible. His doctor said: "As far as I can see this has been the best day for the boy in almost a week."

Drive-In Robber Stayed In Auto

BEL AIR, Md. (AP)—Police are looking for a drive-in robber.

Harford County Sheriff Raymond Faulkner said the proprietor of the Bel Air Drive-In Theater reported the thief drove up in an old model just as the box office was closing. He pointed a pistol at the proprietor and demanded the cash box.

He escaped with more than $500. He never left the car, the sheriff said.

Grandstand And Repair Job Gone

COSHOCOTON, Ohio (AP)—Coshocoton County Fair officials were worried about their grandstand. It had been condemned as a fire hazard.

So they ordered a $7,000 repair job. The job was just about finished yesterday when some paint thinner exploded.

The 100-year-old structure burned to the ground, causing an estimated $50,000 damage.

Many Aspects Of Security Clearance

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Q" clearance, name check full field investigation, evaluation, top secret, security risk, confidential: all government names for deciding who can stay in a government job or be trusted with secrets.

There was national shock when atomic scientist Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer lost his "Q" clearance, although the Atomic Energy Commission didn't use that phrase when it parted company with him.

It just said he was a security risk, that he couldn't be trusted any more with secrets he had been handling a dozen years. "Q" clearance is the AEC's way of saying a man has been found trustworthy with AEC secrets.

In Oppenheimer's case it had been found he had a long and continued association with Communists. Another man could be dropped as a security risk even though he didn't deal in secrets at all but drank too much.

And there is a difference in the degree of secrets. One kind of the most vital nature, is labeled top secret. A less important one is "secret". And still less important one is "confidential."

For example, a "confidential" document might be an FBI report of its investigation of a man against whom nothing wrong was found. But if the report got into Communist hands it might disclose "investigative techniques" of the FBI.

Officials in any agency dealing with matters involving national security decide who can be allowed to see "top secret" documents, who should see only "secret material" and who needs to know only "confidential" matters. That "need to know" position is at the heart of security in agencies dealing with information vitally affecting the national welfare. For example, a public relations man in the AEC would have to be cleared to know some information.

But there might be no reason why he should be let in on a decision to make bigger or smaller hydrogen bombs. He'd be allowed to handle only information that he needed to know to do his job.

Before a government employee gets into a position of handling any secrets at all — or no secrets — he's supposed to be investigated. The government doesn't check on all its employees in the same way.

For example, this would be routine for a man in a job in an agency which doesn't deal in national secrets, like the Labor Department.

Jones wants a clerical job with the Labor Department. He fills out an application on which he lists for some previous years the jobs he held and the places he lived. In addition, he answers questions about subversive organizations to which he belonged if any.

In a case like that — a man looking for a non-sensitive job (no secrets involved) in a non-sensitive agency — the Civil Service Commission's own investigators make a check.

They check with his previous bosses, perhaps with his old landlords and neighbors. They run a "name check" with the FBI. That is, they find out whether the FBI has any record on him or information against him. The same check is made with the Army and Navy and House Un-American Activities Committee, which keeps an extensive file on subversives, either real or reported.

If Jones then is not found to be an habitual drunk, or homosexual, or criminal and if he has no suspicious history of connections with Communists, he can get the job.

But if doubtful information is turned up against him, then the FBI can be called in to make a full field investigation, which means an investigation since the day he was born.

In the AEC, where all jobs are considered "sensitive," although some are more sensitive than others, a more thorough check than the routine civil service investigation is supposed to be made.

When all the investigations are finished, one thing remains: Since some derogatory information is bound to turn up against anyone thoroughly investigated — either factual or spiteful information — agency officials have to evaluate it to determine whether a man can see secrets or not.

Just 10 Years Ago Today, Plot Against Hitler Reached Climax

By TOM REEDY

BERLIN (AP)—Ten years ago today a Prussian nobleman, crippled by war wounds and disillusioned by Nazism, placed a briefcase against a pillar in Adolf Hitler's Rastenburg military headquarters.

Count Claus von Stauffenberg had worked hard to reach a position of confidence that made his "briefcase" visit possible.

No one noticed, when he left the headquarters in East Prussia, that he had left anything behind.

As he reached the outer barriers of the tightly guarded area a giant explosion rocked the building and the walls of the Hitler hideout belched smoke, dust and flame. The deadly bomb contained in the briefcase had gone off right on time.

But Hitler was only wounded in the left arm. He lived to compel Germany to struggle on another year with a war that already was lost.

Had the July 20 plot succeeded a government headed by honorable anti-Nazi military men would have taken over Germany and sued for peace while the Allied nations were still outside its border. A million lives would have been spared and the Soviet Union might not now be planted solidly in central Europe.

Despite this, in Germany today there is still argument whether the men who planned and executed the attempted assassination were heroes or traitors. Aside from the physical danger involved in bucking the dictatorship, moral principle was involved. All of them had at one time sworn the traditional military oath of fealty. In their secret councils they decided, however, that the Fuehrer had prostituted the oath by exacting it personally rather than directing it toward the interest of the fatherland.

The West German government has taken its stand definitely on the side of the band as patriots who thought of their nation first and their personal lives and liberty second.

But die-hard Nazis had sticklers for sworn oaths, regardless of the implications, still regard the attempted plot as treasonable. History as it is being taught in the German schools does not pin down the decision either way. However, the textbooks cautiously point out that the 10 months of war that followed smashed the nation for many years to come.

The mainsprings of the plot were senior officers trained for years to know when a battle is won or lost. Top man was Col. Gen. Ludwig Beck, former chief of state. With him was Col. Gen. Fritz Oster, his boon companion. Adm. Wilhelm Canaris, head of Hitler's military secret service, was executive officer. Another high official connected with the group was Field Marshal Erwin von Wittelben.

Their plan had one gigantic flaw: no one was assigned to seize Radio Berlin. Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels capitalized on this weakness immediately. He quickly took to the air and told the German people the Fuehrer was alive and well and presented Hitler's voice in a recording. This turned the tide in a revolt that conceivably could have succeeded even without Hitler's immediate death.

Beck took the Prussian officer's traditional way out. His pistol beat approaching SS guards by a matter of hours. Three of his closest associates in the old Wehrmacht headquarters on Benderstrasse were hauled into the courtyard, lined up against a wall and summarily shot without trial.

The headquarters now is a refugee center. A bronze statue in the center honors the conspirators as men who fought for liberty.

SS squads in various parts of Germany mowed down several thousand suspects, again without trial.

The total had been estimated at slightly less than 5,000.

Witzleben Leipzig Mayor Karl Goerdeler, Canaris and Oster were jailed. Hitler ordered a trial and put in charge the notorious "hangman" of the people's courts, Roland Freisler. There was no doubt about the trial's outcome.

Witzleben and five lesser figures in the plot were hanged in Plötzensee prison as "examples." They were strung up with wire nooses on meathooks. Motion pictures were made to be shown to Hitler later. The Fuehrer chuckled with sadistic glee when he saw them.

Canaris and Oster were executed in Flossenburg concentration camp.

In most official circles today, the Beck-Witzleben group has a position of honor ranking with the current victims of Soviet Communist dictatorship. The Reds, planted firmly from the Elbe to the Oder, have done more to increase public sympathy toward the victims of the plot than anyone else.

Those who can forget or minimize the oath of loyalty to Hitler, sworn by every German, think with some bitterness that the Russians might never have seen the soil of Deutschland had Stauffenberg's bomb succeeded.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Police said a man who wrote a farewell note to a dog was found dead in his bed here early today.

Coroner Robert A. Evans ordered the body of Benjamin Marshall, 41, taken to University Hospital for an autopsy to determine cause of death.

The coroner said there was no evidence of violence.

Police said three notes were found in Marshall's home two addressed to no one in particular. The third note, police said, was addressed to Marshall's mongrel dog, "Snuffy" and it said: "Be a good doggie. I'm sorry. No more bones."

Paris, France, has 200 streets named for saints.

Drop Blackout Curtain System

WASHINGTON (AP)—The blackout curtains that became a costly and cumbersome fixture in many American homes during World War II will be abandoned in any future emergency.

Military and civil defense officials announced Saturday night that window shades and venetian blinds will do an adequate job of controlling "sky glow" in the event of enemy attack.

A plan for reducing by 75 per cent the light deflected skyward by the normal lighting pattern of a modern city was disclosed. It directs a dimout rather than a blackout.

Connecticut sales tax figures show that residents of the state spend more on automobiles than they do on groceries.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Prices in the stock market dropped rather abruptly today with a pickup in the volume of trading, but in the early afternoon there was a recovery from the lows.

Today's selloff followed two days of moderately declining prices. Losses went to between 1 and 3 points at the worst. Gains usually were modest but some stocks moved up strongly in the face of the retreat elsewhere.

Because of the unusually fast pace of trading during the fall of prices, business pushed well past the 2 1/2-million mark. Yesterday's total was 2,370,000 shares.

Royal Dutch Petroleum, one of the world's largest oil companies, made its debut on the New York stock exchange today with an opening block of 4,000 shares at 59 1/2.

Aircrafts were under selling pressure in a profit-taking movement after their recent strength.

Also lower were the steels, motor utilities, coppers, chemicals, electrical equipments, railroads, and oils.

Stocks selling off included U.S. Steel, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Republic Aviation, Boeing, United Aircraft, North American Aviation, Consolidated Edison, Commonwealth Edison, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse Electric, American Tobacco, Climax Molybdenum, United Fruit, General Dynamics, Union Pacific Santa Fe, Texas Pacific Land Trust, and U.S. Gypsum.

An active and higher trend was assumed by Mack Truck, Gimbel Bros., International Telephone, American Telephone, Missouri Pacific Preferred, American Airlines, and Celotex.

Ayden Rotarians Hear Report

AYDEN—Alton Rowe, chairman of the Classification committee of the Rotary Club, outlined his committee's program for the coming year at a meeting of the club Friday night.

Following the regular meeting the first of three club assemblies was held.

Two prizes were awarded at the gathering. Bob Denton won the Fellowship Prize, and James Everett received the On Time Prize.

Guests of the club were Dr. Clifton Davenport, Dr. Lawrence Alexander and Tom Wheelan.

Dr. Fred Irons of Greenville was visiting Rotarian.

No Explanation For Evidence

PETERSBURG, Va. (AP)—Police charged Noel B. Mills, a Ft. Lee soldier, with breaking and entering when they found:

1. Mills standing outside an animal hospital, minus his pants and boots.
2. The pants and boots inside the animal hospital.

Mills, facing a police court hearing today told officers that were his pants and boots, all right, but that he couldn't remember going into the hospital.

Dr. Messick Says ECC Could Grow To 5,000-Student Plant

East Carolina College could grow to an institution with 5,000 students by 1965 if it has the necessary staff and facilities, Dr. John D. Messick, president of the college, said last night.

Dr. Messick addressed the Greenville Rotary Club, discussing the growth of the college since 1946 and its prospects for future growth.

Citing the need for more facilities at the college, Dr. Messick pointed out that rooms in private homes in Greenville are needed for approximately 500 students whose entrance fees for the fall quarter already have been paid. He said the college is already having to turn down applications from students because of the lack of housing facilities. Already, Dr. Messick said, the college has received more applications for entrance at the fall term than it had in September a year ago.

Work already has begun on a new men's dormitory to house 310 students, and construction of a new women's dormitory will begin as soon as revised plans are ready, Dr. Messick explained that the work on the women's dormitory was delayed because quicksand was found on the building site and plans for the structure had to be revised.

The speaker pointed out that the state General Assembly had appropriated approximately six million dollars for permanent improvements at the college since 1947, and that additional facilities will be requested of the 1955 General Assembly in order that the college may keep pace with its growth.

He said a new classroom building will be requested, two additional dormitories, funds for renovating the top floor of Flanagan building, for expanding the administration building, the cafeteria and kitchen. He added that additional land will also be needed by the college unless its growth is to be stopped by limited facilities.

Dr. Messick appealed to Rotarians for their continued support of the college, and praised the cooperation between the college and the people of Pitt County.

President Messick was introduced by Robert Wilfong who was in charge of the program.

Guests of the club last night included John Winstead, Joseph Winstead, James Winstead, George VanNorwick, Robert Wechter, and visiting Rotarian Clay Stroud of Ayden.

Pate Named To Association Post

W. M. Pate, chief of the Environmental Hygiene Section of the Pitt County Health Department, was elected vice-president of the North-eastern Sanitarian Subsection of the North Carolina Public Health Association at a meeting last week.

The 25 member organization met in Morehead City to familiarize the sanitarians with all latest developments in sanitation. Officers were elected at the meeting which included Pate being elected the vice-president.

The purpose of the group, which includes most sanitarians from public health departments in northeastern North Carolina, is to keep posted with the latest sanitary developments. The organization meets quarterly.

Pate said this morning the next meeting of the group will be in Greenville November 12.

Officers are elected for one year term.

Local Motorist Apparently Struck By Thrown Rock; Police Investigate

A man was severely cut on the face and lost several teeth when he was apparently hit by a rock while driving his car yesterday.

The injured man was identified by Police Detective R. T. Rogerson, who investigated, as Lansing C. Allen of 1103 D Avenue.

Rogerson stated that Allen was cut on the left side of his face.

Rogerson said that Allen told him he was driving on Pitt Street between Tenth and Eleventh when he was hit by something. Allen noted that he did not see anyone throw anything and he saw only a man and a woman walking along the street.

The detective said he found a rock in the car and several teeth. Traces of blood were found on the rock.

Allen was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital. Investigation of the case is continuing. Assisting in the investigation of the affair was Fingerprint Expert Paul Jewett.

Bloxam Reviews Fire Prevention Week Rapid Growth Of City's Utilities

Mr. Leonard Bloxam, Superintendent of the Greenville Utilities Commission, spoke to the Greenville Lions Club last night, pointing out the growth of the Greenville Municipal Utilities and plans for the future.

Mr. Bloxam asserted that in the last five years the electrical service rendered by the utilities has increased by more than 94 per cent, that the water service has increased more than 69 per cent and that the gas service has increased more than 64 per cent.

The Superintendent pointed out that through the operation of the utilities the city is able to make money that is helping to carry on the necessary function of the city without an increase in the tax rate. "The utilities have contributed $850,000 to the city in the last 3 years," he stated.

In reference to future expansion of the Greenville Utilities Mr. Bloxam said that at present he was unable to see any immediate need for an increase in the electrical services, but that he expected the city would be forced to install some type of sewage disposal system within several years.

During the business session, the Lions Club heard a report from the delegates who attended the recent Lions International Convention held in New York City.

Four members of the Lions Little League Baseball Team were special guests of the club last night. They were Tommy Campbell, Ben Ward Caraway, Lionwood Cates, and Ronnie Brock. Other guests were Gene Brown and Paul Scott, Sr. of Greenville.

Fire Prevention Week Program Being Readied

Tentative plans for Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 3-9, were made by the Fire Prevention Committee of the Chamber of Commerce at a meeting yesterday afternoon.

The tentative program was worked up by the committee in cooperation with the Greenville Fire Department.

The program as presently outlined, Manager Willard T. Kyzer said this morning, calls for having the city officials proclaim that entire week Fire Prevention Week in Greenville. The committee will also request that Tuesday of that week be set aside as Clean-Up Day in the homes and businesses of the city, while Wednesday will be designated as Clean-Up Day for yards, alleys, vacant lots, gutters and garages.

"All these either present or harbor potential fire hazards," Manager Kyzer said, "and the idea is to get everything cleaned up before the winter season sets in."

Kyzer asserted, "We expect to reach the majority of homes in town by asking the cooperation of the city schools, which we have always had in the past."

He said the schools will be asked to permit the committee to provide all students with fire prevention material that will enable homes and businesses to be inspected "with the idea of detecting these hazards, and then removing them."

In addition, the committee plans to offer Fire Prevention films to the schools for assembly periods, and also to civic clubs for programs.

Kyzer said posters will again be placed in the downtown area, and the radio and newspaper will be used as publicity media.

Frank Brown Re-Elected President Of Pitt Association For The Blind

Frank Brown was re-elected president of the Pitt County Association for the Blind at a meeting of the association last night.

Brown has been president of the organization since 1943 when it was first organized.

Also elected at last night's meeting were: Paul Scott, Sr., vice-president; Kenneth Mercer, secretary-treasurer. Directors include: Withers Harvey, George Wilkerson, Larry Averette, Ben Rouse, Billy Lane.

Damage to Harris' car amounted to $40 and to Wilks', $35.

Investigating officer Vernon C. Ackert said Wilks was charged with operating a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

Little Damage In Monday Accident

Two cars were involved in a minor collision yesterday afternoon at the corner of West Fifth Street and Contentnea Street.

Drivers of the vehicles were George Henry Harris of 809 Vanderbilt Street, operating a cab owned by the City Taxi Company, and Woodrow Wilks, Negro, of 406 Bonner's
