

Democrats 'Will Insist' On Voice In Selection Of Cohn's Successor

Twenty-Two Other Members Of Subcommittee Staff Are Confirmed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) said today the Democrats "will insist" on a voice in choosing a successor to Roy M. Cohn as chief counsel of the Senate Investigations subcommittee.

Chairman McCarthy (R-Wash.) yesterday accepted Cohn's resignation without a vote. He also switched Donald A. Surine, another subcommittee aide, to his own office payroll. He did so as a subcommittee majority comprising the Democrats and Sen. Potter (R-Mich.) was pushing a show-down move to fire them.

Then, in closed meeting, the subcommittee unanimously confirmed in their jobs 22 other members of the staff, but withheld confirmation at least for the time being from another — former Secret Service Agent Thomas Lavenia, office manager and assistant counsel.

McCarthy confirmed officially that Lavenia is a subcommittee staff member whom the Defense Department has refused to grant security clearance to handle secret documents. He said this was the reason the subcommittee, with his consent, had held up Lavenia's confirmation.

The subcommittee sent a new request to the Defense Department for an explanation of its reasons for holding up the clearances. It got a quick new turnaround on grounds that a detailed explanation would require the disclosure of confidential information.

Mundi was asked whether Lavenia retains his access to classified material in the subcommittee's files pending a decision. He replied:

"He has access, but I don't think he has much to do with handling classified documents. There is no change in his status."

McCarthy said in a statement he had shifted Surine, a former FBI agent, to his own office payroll to give Surine and his family some relief from "pro-Communist smearings."

Cohn's resignation and the transfer of Surine let the steam out of the threatened showdown in which Potter and Senators Jackson, Symington (D-Mo.) and McClellan (D-Ark.) were seeking the scalps of both men.

Jackson said the Democrats resumed membership on the subcommittee in January, ending a six-month walkout, with assurances of the right to have all staff appointments subject to a majority vote of the members.

Ballentine Says He's Thinking Of Governorship

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—L. Y. Ballentine, state commissioner of agriculture, says he may run for governor in 1956.

Ballentine said here yesterday, "I'd be less than truthful if I said I hadn't given the matter considerable thought. . . I've discussed the matter with a number of people only after they brought it up. And if I do run, it won't be to satisfy personal political aspirations. It will be only in the belief that experience and previous service may qualify me for the office."

Ballentine decided not to run for governor six years ago after his name had been mentioned for the post.

Eisenhower Sees Prod To Defense

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, commenting on the Indochina cease-fire agreement, said today he does not believe the Communists want war at this time.

Eisenhower said in a formal statement at his news conference the agreement "contains features which we do not like but a great deal depends on how they work in practice."

He said the United States is working actively with other free nations to organize a "collective defense in Southeast Asia in order to prevent further direct or indirect Communist aggression in that general area."

Although the President said he didn't wish to discuss Indochina beyond the formal statement, because of the delicacy of the situation, he did say later on that if there is one good to come out of the settlement it is this:

"It may get the free world to look facts in the face and determine what sacrifices it would be willing to make in the cause of preserving freedom."

The President told newsmen this nation was putting out a statement at Geneva to the effect that it would not use force to disturb the Indochina settlement.

He said the statement says "any renewal of Communist aggression would be viewed by us as a matter of grave concern."

Asked whether he attached any significance to the apparent fact that for the first time in two decades there is no war going on somewhere in the world, Eisenhower said he never had felt the Communist world wants war at this time except in satellite excursions.

He indicated, however, that he expects the Reds to continue using deceit and subversion as well as secret, well-financed conspiracies to gain its ends.

To a question of whether he thought there was "any element of appeasement" in the cease-fire in Indochina, as suggested by some Congress members, the chief executive said he hesitated to use such words as they mean different things to different people.

He added the agreement was not entirely satisfactory to us, that it was not what we'd like to have, but that if there is no better plan, he is not going to criticize what has been done.

This is the text of the formal statement:

"I am glad that agreement has been reached at Geneva to stop the bloodshed in Indochina, in which thousands of brave men, while defending freedom, have died during the last seven years."

The United States has not been a belligerent in this war. The primary responsibility for the settlement in Indochina rested with those nations which participated in the fighting. Our role at Geneva has been at all times to try to be helpful where desired and to aid France and Cambodia Laos and Viet Nam to obtain a just and honorable settlement which will take into account the needs of the interested people.

"Accordingly, the United States has not itself been party to or bound by the decisions taken by the conference, but it is our hope that it will lead to the establishment of peace consistent with the rights and the needs of the countries concerned."

"The agreement contains features which we do not like, but a great deal depends on how they work in practice."

Red China Agrees Free 6 Americans

GENEVA (AP)—The Chinese Communists have agreed to release six Americans held in Red China following negotiations in Geneva, the U.S. delegation announced today.

The United States announcement said:

"The Chinese Communist representatives have stated further that the cases of other detained Americans are still under review."

American officials here believe the Chinese Reds are holding in prison or otherwise detaining about 24 additional Americans.

Those to be freed were named as Ernest Hotz, Reuben Lenzler, Linus Lombard, John B. Maye, Lawrence Mullin and Alfred Peter Pattison.

Maye is the Rev. John B. Maye, a Roman Catholic missionary from Scranton, Pa., who was held in Hong Kong for three weeks after he had been held under house arrest in Changsha for 10 months.

Lombard also is a Roman Catholic priest. He was last reported waiting at Ichang for permission to leave Red China.

Lombard's home address and the home towns of the others were not available.

American officials here notified the Peking regime that 15 Chinese students now in the United States, who have been detained, have now been told they are free to go.

The announcement said:

"The cases of other Chinese students deciding to leave the United States for Communist China are still under review. Any information concerning them will be considered as soon as it is received."

Alfred Jenkins, a member of the U.S. delegation at Geneva, carried on the negotiations for release of the Americans with a member of the Chinese Communist delegation, Pu Shan.

Jenkins expressed the hope, in talks with Pu Shan, that the other detained Americans will be released shortly.

American officials said that in addition to the six persons to be released and the 24 other civilians still detained, there are many military personnel held in Red China.

New Iron Curtain Enveloping 13 Million In North Viet Nam Armistice For Indochina Signed

By LYNN HEINZLINGER
GENEVA (AP)—France made peace with her Communist enemies in Indochina just before dawn today and a new Iron Curtain clanked down on 13 million persons in north Viet Nam.

Gen Georges Delteil of France and Gen. Ta Quang Buu of the Vietnamese rebels signed armistice agreements covering Viet Nam and Laos just 3 hours and 50 minutes after the Tuesday midnight deadline French Premier Pierre Mendes-France had set for peace or his resignation.

A truce for the third Indochina state, Cambodia, was signed later today.

Cambodia signed with the Vietnamese at 12:42 p.m. (6:42 a.m. EST). Representatives of all parties to the Indochina conference gathered for the ceremony, including Lt. Col. John E. Dwan of the U. S. Army, Nikhiet Thouloung, commander in chief of Cambodian forces, signed for Cambodia and Gen. Ta Quang Buu for the Vietnamese.

But the big event had come nine hours earlier in the signing of the agreement on Viet Nam and Laos. The simple signing ceremony, under a blaze of photographers' lights in the former home of the League of Nations called a halt to an eight-year war in which 92,000 soldiers of the French Union expeditionary corps died or disappeared.

It also laid a Korea-like partition across the 43-mile waist of Viet Nam. Indochina's largest, richest and most populous state, about at the 17th Parallel of latitude.

Communist leader Ho Chi Minh will take over the destinies of the residents north of the line. The 10 million Vietnamese below the partition will live under the pro-Western regime of chief of state Bao Dai.

All-Vietnamese elections, not earlier than one year from today and not later than two years, are supposed to reunite the divided country. But Western officials here generally conceded the "temporary" partition line probably will become a political and ideological frontier like those which split Germany and Korea.

Officials said the texts of the agreements would not be published for several days, but their contents already were generally known.

Civilians on either side of the partition line will have one year to move to the other side if they desire.

The French have the next 300 days to move out of the big northern cities of Hanoi and Haiphong. Until that day next May they will hold an enclave in the Red River Delta around those two major centers.

Cambodia and Laos will remain under their French-supported royal governments. Vietnamese troops which have invaded their territory — an estimated 10,000 in Laos, fewer in Cambodia — will withdraw in 60 days.

For military security reasons the date for the end of hostilities was not announced. One Vietnamese official said, however, that cease-fire orders would become effective in a week for the regular forces on both sides. Guerrilla fighters in the jungles and mountains would be given a longer period he added.

The partition line across Viet Nam runs along the Song Ben Hai River. It leaves Highway No.

9, a principal road leading from the coast across the country to Laos, in the hands of southern Viet Nam. The south also retains the major port of Tourane and ex-emperor Bao Dai's royal capital, Hue both in central Viet Nam.

Cambodia did not join in the early-morning armistice ceremony because of a last-minute burst of independence on the part of her delegation. Cambodian Foreign Minister Tep Phan demanded until nearly 2 a.m. that his nation's courts be permitted to try Communist sympathizers for working with the Vietnamese invaders.

He agreed to drop the demand after the issue was ironed out in a long session with Mendes-France, Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

The armistices for Viet Nam and Laos cover the area where most of the Indochina battling took place. There was little fighting in Cambodia.

During the 300 more days the French hold Hanoi and Haiphong, the Vietnamese will hold five pockets south of the partition line. Then they must pull out for the north.

Neither side may bring in troops or war material, and no new military bases can be set up on either side of the line.

This prohibition applies particularly to any bases for the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO), which the United States and Britain are preparing to check any future Communist aggression in this area.

However, the organization, once formed, is expected to bring southern Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos under its protective wing.

Signifying disapproval of the partitioning, the U. S. government had decided not to join in the general declaration which the other conference delegations were to issue later today taking note of the agreement terms.

Instead, the United States planned a separate declaration, noting the terms with which it agrees but ignoring officially those of which it disapproves.

The U. S. delegation carefully avoided expressing any opinion publicly about the provisions of the armistice agreement, but from Washington Associated Press Diplomatic Correspondent John Hightower wrote that the terms were generally regarded there as a victory for the Communists and defeat for the free world.

President Strongly Denies Charges Of Trying Ruin TVA

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today anybody who accused him of trying to destroy the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) is in error—to put it as mildly as possible.

The administration's attitude toward TVA has come under hot debate in the Senate, revolving about an Eisenhower-endorsed proposal for a new private power source in the Tennessee Valley.

The President spoke out on the controversy at a news conference largely devoted to the Indochina settlement reached at Geneva. In the course of this discussion he said he does not believe the Communists are willing to risk an all-out war with the free world.

As for his legislative program in general, Eisenhower said he thinks it is coming along in good shape although Congress is not giving him everything he asked for.

He spoke without rancor of yesterday's House vote turning down his four-year public housing program, and said simply he will make recommendations to the next Congress aimed at meeting the housing needs which will exist at that time.

The House rejected 234-156 Eisenhower's program to build 140,000 public housing units in four years.

But in the TVA dispute, he said, it is a question of building steam plants to produce electricity. He said the problem is: If the federal government is going to undertake the building of the plants, why not do it in such places as the Missouri Valley before doing it in the already developed Tennessee Valley region.

He emphasized he was simply trying to find out the facts, to determine the best policy, and he added with vigor that anybody who gets up and says there is any attempt to destroy TVA is, to put it as mildly as possible, in error.

Planning Hot Protests Over Partition Plan Viet Nam Officials Angry

By FORREST EDWARDS
HANOI, Indochina (AP)—Vietnamese officials were reported hopping mad today at news the northern half of their country is being handed over to the Communists. But many anti-Communist civilians in Hanoi figured they had been relieved because they have 10 months to go south, instead of the maximum two they expected.

There were no demonstrations and mass expressions of rejoicing or sadness in either Hanoi or Saigon today as the cease-fire agreement partitioning Viet Nam was announced by press and radio.

Officials of the north Viet Nam government refused to talk to reporters. Informed sources said they were readying hot protests to the French.

French army officials also were silent, pending receipt of official confirmation of the news.

It was believed, however, that in the interim until the effective cease-fire hour, French Union troops would push no military operations against the Communist-led Vietnamese and would only defend themselves against attacks by the rebels.

Only yesterday, 10,000 French and Vietnamese troops had carried out mop-up operations in sectors 18 miles northeast of Hanoi. Sharp quick attacks by each side were reported yesterday at various other points as the Geneva negotiations drew to a close.

The big surprise in Hanoi was the news that the French have 300 days to get out of the northern capital and Haiphong. No one had anticipated such a lengthy evacuation period.

The businessmen with businesses they have been unable to sell and stocks only partially whittled down the news brought smiles if not cheers.

The average French soldier, hating duty in northern Indochina, grumbled, moaned or cursed.

A spokesman for Premier Ngo Dinh Diem's government termed the agreement to divide Indochina the richest and most populous state with the Communists "disastrous for the Vietnamese people."

But a Vietnamese sergeant seemed to speak for many others of his countrymen: "Good. Maybe now I can get out of the army and return to civilian life."

Frenchmen appeared even more relieved.

Increased Payments Passes Finance Committee

Social Security Bill OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP)—An increase of at least $5 a month in all social security payments moved a step nearer reality today as the result of Senate Finance Committee approval of the administration's big social security bill.

Chairman Millikin (R-Colo.) of the committee said the measure probably will be called up on the floor next week.

Leaders in both parties said Congress would never adjourn without putting the increased benefits on the statute books.

The Finance Committee, in keeping the bill unanimously late yesterday, approved not only bigger benefits but also more taxes to finance them and extension of coverage to nearly seven million additional persons.

President Eisenhower would achieve under the Senate version almost exactly what he asked on benefits and taxes, but not on broadening coverage. He had suggested bringing 10½ million more persons under the system. The bill as passed by the House came closer to meeting administration views on that score.

Here are the main features of the bill as it comes to the Senate floor:

Benefits — A minimum boost of $5 a month in all present and future checks. The five million aged now on the rolls would get an average $6 raise; the new average payment would be about $57 a month. The increases would begin in September or October. Future payments would go up as much as $35 a month.

Taxes — The annual amount of wages subject to the present 2 per cent levy each on employers and employees would go from $3,600 to $4,200, effective next Jan. 1. Thus the tax for anyone making $4,200 or more would be $84 next year as against $72 in 1954.

Coverage—Includes on a voluntary basis about 3½ million state and local government workers and 200,000 ministers, and on a compulsory basis 2,000,000 additional farm hands, 250,000 domestic workers, 100,000 industrial home workers and 50,000 persons in the fishing industry.

The Senate committee voted to eliminate coverage for 3,600,000 more.

farm operators, 500,000 professional people and 150,000 federal government workers, all of whom the President asked be brought under the program.

All these were included in the House bill except 150,000 doctors among the professionals. On the other hand, the Finance Committee approved coverage for the full group of farm hands asked by the administration, while the House voted to bring in only 1,300,000 more.

'Mobile Weigh Stations' Are Readied

Two local North Carolina Highway Patrolmen are shown here weighing a truck with "portable scales." The truck is being checked to see if it is overloaded. With these portable scales the patrolmen can set up a "weigh station" at almost any point on the highway. This shot was taken on N. C. 11 near Greenville yesterday. The two patrolmen are James W. Boykin, kneeling, and D. E. Perry. (Reflector Staff Photos by Bob Boyette)

Again Receives Mysterious $50

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Mrs. Trumon Wood, 53, has received a second note containing $50 and she doesn't know what it's all about. She said she got the first $50 a year ago with an anonymous note saying the writer had taken some change from her purse "when we were very young."

The latest note, she said, states that the writer wants to repay the money — about $200.

"No one owes me that much," she said. "I wish they'd stop it."

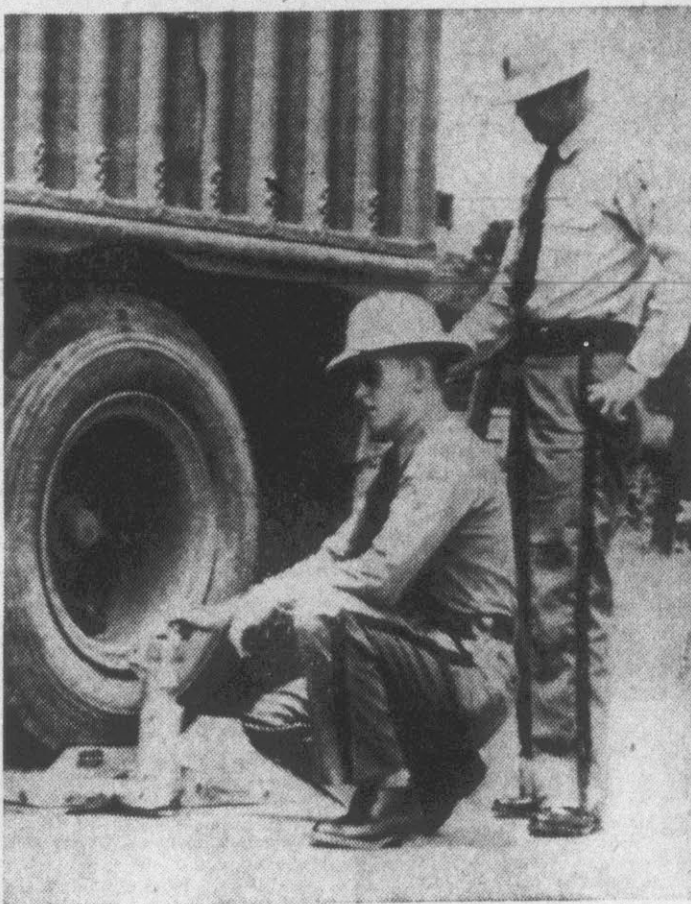

Several companies of the ancient Egyptian armies had their own standards such as animals, boats, fans or other emblems raised on a staff.

Mrs. Drexel WHY DO YOU PREFER BLUE BONNET?

Mrs. David Anthony Drexel of Southern Pines, N. C., is known among her friends as a charming and distinguished hostess.

"Frankly, we serve smooth-spreading BLUE BONNET regularly in our home because everybody loves its sunny-sweet flavor. BLUE BONNET improves the taste of all foods, whether used as a table spread—or in cooking. For Flavor, Nutrition and Economy, I recommend BLUE BONNET!"

In this photo the back wheels of the truck are coming onto the scales showing how the "portable scales" operate. The patrolmen take a weight at each set of wheels. When the patrolmen desire to change weigh stations they merely put the scales in their automobile and move to another site. Boykin and Perry remind tobacco farmers who will be hauling tobacco very soon not to overload their vehicles.

A Greater Challenge For Pitt County

It appears the proposed four-county airport for Pitt, Edgecombe, Wilson and Nash Counties is virtually a dead duck.

We don't mean to be pessimistic about this facility which is sorely needed by Eastern North Carolina. But the handwriting is on the wall. At best, it is a long-shot chance that the Nash County commissioners will reverse themselves and give financial support to the project. Odds likewise appear against financial support from Wilson County for the project if the Nash commissioners maintain their position.

The joint airport project is still a good idea for this section. It is the only answer to air service for a major area in this section of the state. And regularly scheduled air service is going to become more and more important to transportation in this area in the future.

Just because the powers that be in Nash and perhaps Wilson Counties do not have the foresight to participate in the joint airport project, it is no reason for Pitt to give up the idea. Perhaps other counties adjoining either Edgecombe or Pitt can be interested in undertaking a new project for a joint airport.

Fort Bragg's Own Battle Of The Bulge

Over at Fort Bragg they are still fighting the "battle of the bulge." It's not a rehash of the famous action of World War II, but a new campaign to get the excess poundage off army personnel at the huge military installation.

In the eight months the campaign has been underway at orders of the commanding general, officials say almost a ton of excess GI blubber has been melted off personnel. Nevertheless, a new directive from the commander says overweight personnel must lose four pounds a month until their weight is normal.

It appears to us this battle against excess poundage will prove a long drawn out affair. And we doubt seriously the excessive waistlines of the Fort Bragg personnel will ever submit to an "unconditional surrender" to the General's orders.

TIME TO CHECK OUT

Existentialism! Ever hear the word before? It is a new type of philosophy which has come in to claim the interest of a wide variety of thinkers. Some existentialists are Christians, but most of them are atheists and nihilists. Philosophy sometimes creates strange bedfellows, but none more strange than Christians and atheists giving allegiance to the same system.

Humanism is a philosophy which puts man at the center of the universe instead of God. Existentialism is a form of humanism. It is a grotesque type of philosophy which has arisen as a result of 200 years of unprecedented discovery and invention, the rise of such thinkers as Kierkegaard and Nietzsche, and the impact of two world wars. Existentialism affirms the all-sufficiency of mankind. It is anti-intellectual, usually atheistic, vehemently opposed to the present organization of society, and confident that man can transcend himself and thus become superman. Some of the existentialists use Christian terminology. The most extreme, violent and atheistic of the existentialists is the Frenchman, Sartre.

Don't waste too much time on the study of existentialism. Philosophies come and go, and for some the checking out date is overdue.

National Whirligig

Even Democrats Are Divided

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—The Administration's policy with respect to a Southeast Asia defense force and future relations with the United Nations has become so confusing that it has even provoked conflict and division among opposition Democrats on Capitol Hill.

Senate Minority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, for instance, joined with Majority Leader William F. Knowland of California in demanding American withdrawal from the United Nations. If Communist China should be admitted as a result of her growing military and economic strength.

Contrary to the cautious course he has hitherto pursued, Senator Johnson apparently acted impulsively, and without calling or consulting a Party caucus on the question.

PAST ACTION RECALLED—A large bloc of Democrats, perhaps twenty or more, did not agree with the likable Texan on this issue. Many had lived through or recalled the Republicans' slaughter of Woodrow Wilson's League of Nations.

Many have always felt that World War II might have been prevented if the United States had joined that organization. They do not want to be responsible for the burial of the present Roosevelt-sponsored movement on behalf of permanent world peace. Southern Democrats generally supported F. D. R.'s foreign objectives.

Similarly, this group opposed the original and extreme attempt to withhold economic and military funds from France and Italy, if they failed to ratify the European Defense Treaty by next New Year's day.

THUMBS DOWN ON ISOLATION OF U. S.—Despite understandable irritation over the delay, they pointed out that such action would isolate the U. S. from its Allies. It could deprive us of air and naval bases ringing Russia from the British Isles to Turkey.

The city of Rocky Mount is definitely still interested in the project in spite of the attitude of the Nash County Commissioners.

The monkey-wrench thrown into the project is destined to kill the Eastern Airport Authority and the joint airport project as now constituted. Yet, The Reflector firmly believes the pieces can be picked up and a new joint airport project undertaken without either Nash or Wilson Counties if they do not want to be in on the project. It will mean virtually starting again from scratch, but we believe the end result will be well worth the work involved.

The situation offers a challenge which Pitt can ill afford to pass up.

They'll Try Again To Raise The Debt Limit

Among the many items on the Congressional agenda before the hoped for adjournment in the near future is the matter of raising the federal debt limit.

The administration is expected to make another big push in its attempt to get Congress to raise the legal limit of the national debt above the $275 billion maximum. Earlier attempts have been unsuccessful. But this time—in the midst of the rush toward adjournment—the administration may be successful.

The Reflector has previously stated its opposition to raising the debt limit. If it comes to a showdown where the nation must either raise its debt limit or risk insolvency, of course the legal limit will have to be pushed up.

On the other hand, we are opposed to raising the limit just to give the Treasury Department and the administration (not to mention Congress) more elbow room for operations. As long as we can keep the debt ceiling at $275 billion, we are confident the government will find ways and means of holding down expenditures to keep the debt within that limit. If it is raised, the inclination, we believe, would be to allow the debt to go above the present maximum mark.

In other words, the cap on the debt as it is at present puts the government in a position of having to operate without going over the limit. Thus, corners are cut to hold the debt down. The same emphasis on cutting corners would not be present were the limit higher.

The Reflector is still of the opinion the nation will be better off if the present limit on the national debt is held where it is.

the minority may help to rescue him in the international arena.

DEFINITE, COHESIVE PROGRAM—Nevertheless, despite bipartisan grumbling against seeming inconsistencies on the foreign front, President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles appear to be hammering out a fairly definite and cohesive program in the cold war. In off-the-record conferences, the patient Dulles has asked that Congress be patient with him.

As a result of the Secretary of State's recent conferences with Prime Minister Churchill, Foreign Secretary Eden and Premier Mendes-France at London and Paris, here is the Eisenhower-Dulles basic pattern with respect to the United Nations, Russia and our Allies:

NO NEED FOR U. S. WITHDRAWAL FROM U. N. (1) The United Nations will not agree to Communist China's admission to the U. N. except on our own harsh terms. In view of Churchill's support of our stand, Peiping cannot command sufficient votes for entry. Therefore, there should be no need for American withdrawal.

(2) The chances of French and Italian ratification of the European Defense Treaty are growing brighter. It has just been reported favorably by the Italian Parliament's Committee handling foreign problems. But if they do not sign up, the United States and Britain are prepared to rearm Germany separately.

NO APPEASEMENT OF RED CHINA—(3) There will be no "appeasement" of Red China in Southeast Asia, although the loss of part of Vietnam to the victorious Communists is conceded. The U. S. will press for organization of a military alliance in this area to prevent further Communist advances. London and Paris have now agreed to join with us wholeheartedly, as have Australia and New Zealand.

(4) The fundamental unity of the three great Allies—U. S., Britain, France—has been restored, although recurring disagreements are to be expected. When and if so, they will be settled by the kind of personal talks which alleviated the May-June crisis in their relationships.

Somebody Told Me

The Beach, Or By The River

In the age-old debate about the location of summer cottages, which is more desirable, the river or the beach, I have always been inclined to favor the beach. But after spending Sunday at Rest Haven, three miles below Bayview, I'm about to change my opinion.

Boating is a big factor. Unless you live on the sound it's impossible to jump in the boat and take a spin at the beach. Even on the sound, it's often too rough. Fishing might be better at the beach, but it's more effort and expense to make it better.

The Tyson Bilbros have two facilities that aren't too practical at the beach: horseshoes and ping pong. Unless you have an indoor table, it's too breezy to play ping pong at the beach; it's too sandy for horseshoes.

Another attraction they have:

an aqua plane. The City Manager's wife, Eloise Hughes, vowed she was going to ride it. The Rest Haven champion, Bob Bilbro, age 14, instructed Eloise and the trip began. Any effort by her to stand up ended in a spill. Standing on her knees, she rode like a champ. Despite our opinion that she had made a noble effort, we kidded Eloise, "Age will tell."

Speaking of age brings me around to the one recommendation which is brought on by the Rest Haven trip, but foreign from the beach-river debate. If you are a young married couple and have small children that demand constant attention, then by all means make it a point to go somewhere with couples a few years older, whose children are controllable.

This was an inspiration to Wife Rachel and I Sunday. While at the dinner table our two were performing as usual—Nancy refusing to eat and Don cramming one third in his mouth and spreading two-thirds elsewhere. The Bilbro and Hughes children, in contrast, were intelligently contributing to the conversation.

When ours are older we will no doubt wish they were babies again. But it is encouraging to see well-mannered children with parents who have brought them up to feel a part of every family function at an early age, contributing to a varied conversation at the dinner table.

We also picked up this idea for vacation trips. Myrtle Gray Bilbro for each meal accepts a volunteer for the job of what she calls J.U.—jumper upper. It's a good idea and the job is a cinch because Myrtle still does most of the jumping. And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

MOUNTAIN TALK MAKES A MEANING

(Greensboro Daily News)
Mountain talk in North Carolina may be confusing to foreigners, but that's because they are not familiar with the language of Shakespeare and Chaucer.

Ashton Chapman of Spruce Pine helps clear up some of the confusion in an article in the Asheville Citizen-Times.

Thus if you ask a mountain man if he would like to ride to town this evening, he expects you to come between noon and sundown. There's no such word in his vocabulary as "afternoon." Why should there be? Doesn't the Bible say that "the evening and the morning" were the first day?

If a mountain woman asks for a "poke," it's a bag. Didn't Chaucer write, "They wallowed as pigs in a poke"? The mountain use of "hit" for "it" is excellent English somewhat removed in time. Queen Elizabeth the First preferred "hit" two to one in her correspondence, and for good reason. "Hit," says Mr. Chapman, is the Anglo-Saxon neuter of "he," and it predates Chaucer.

"It" is merely an error made fairly legitimate by some centuries of misuse.

How far back some of the sneaks of mountain speech go is illustrated by this excerpt from Mr. Chapman: When a mountain man says of two fighters that they "feathered into" each other, he uses a term that goes all the way back to the period of the long bow when English yeomen were helping decide the fate of the nations on the French battlefields of Crecy, 1346, and Agincourt, 1415. Though the verb with that connotation is not found in today's dictionaries, it meant to sink into one's adversary an arrow up to its feathered tip.

"Feisty" is another wonderful mountain word meaning "when a feller's allers wiggin' about, wantin' everybody to see him, like a tad when the preacherman comes. You know a feist is one of them little bitty ole dogs that generally run on three legs and does a heap of pretending."

Churchill must have been thinking of "feisty" when he spoke of Mussolini "frisking" by Hitler's side. Best keep the mountain speech, and the ballads. They link us with our ancient heritage. What's more, that speech is potent stuff, with a good bead on top when you shake it up.

Water Development Survey Covered A Lot Of Aspects

By LYNN NISRET

WATER USE SURVEY—Establishment of a waterway development fund of half a million dollars a year to be administered by the Department of Conservation and Development is the basic recommendation for promoting development of North Carolina ports and inland waterways.

Final report on the survey made by the engineering firm of Parsons, Brinkerhoff, Hall & MacDonald of New York was presented Monday to the C&D Board at its annual summer meeting at Morehead City. The survey was authorized last year at a cost of $47,000.

The studies embraced a lot more than actual waterway and ports facilities. They covered practically all phases of economy in the eastern part of the state. The 14 chapters of the report go into detail discussion of such items as physical features of the coastal plain; population characteristics; regional economy; agriculture; forest products; fisheries; industry; tourist trade and recreation transportation facilities (air, rail and highways); waterway developments; water transportation; port terminal facilities; related problems such as flood control, drainage, irrigation, beach erosion, water power, water supply and pollution; and a summary of findings and conclusions. The whole booklet is illustrated with graphs and charts, and there are appended detail color maps and descriptions of 50 authorized Federal river and harbor projects.

Before going into specific recommendations the engineers offer several general observations. Waterways, with all their attendant plant and facilities, do not in themselves create prospective waterborne tonnage. Water terminals are rarely successful without the support of a healthy economy in their immediate hinterlands. A proper evaluation of numerous interrelated factors is necessary to avoid undue enthusiasm or too great pessimism.

FINANCING—Five possible sources of money to finance the program are listed:

a. Direct allotments from the general fund.
b. Allocations from gasoline taxes to be imposed upon fuel used in marine craft, which now is subject to refund to the buyer.
c. Contributions from counties (and municipalities) which have direct access improved and naturally navigable inland waterways.

d. A nominal assessment on production of commercial fisheries, analogous to the "Nickels for Know How" program in agriculture.

e. Revolving funds such as may result from reimbursement of State expenditures from subsequent Federal appropriations under the river and harbor act of March 3, 1925.

In view of present trends in general fund revenue, that is a very unlikely source at this time. The gasoline tax angle has been discussed for years, with divided opinion among operators of marine craft. There is growing sentiment that air and water craft might well be charged a fuel tax for construction and maintenance of facilities, comparable to the tax levied on highway users. There is some doubt about constitutionality of appropriations from local taxes for such purposes without vote of the people, although such contributions might be made out of ABC or other non-tax revenue.

Previous suggestion has been made for a "Nickels for Know How" levy on fisheries for research and promotion of that industry. The overall program is so broad it would seem unfair to expect fishermen to finance the entire project. Hope of Federal reimbursement is a weak basis for spending money.

Apparently a combination of all the suggestions will be necessary obtaining parts of the fund from each proposed source, plus a reasonable fee for use of the facilities.

DISTRIBUTION—The plan contemplates that the Waterway Development Fund would support projects supplementary or in addition to authorized Federal works, and in close cooperation with the Corps of Engineers. Only those projects which would result in board benefits to a variety of interests over relatively wide-spread geographical limits would be eligible for inclusion in the program. Preference would be given to projects where small expenditures would result in extensive benefits. Emergency work of limited magnitude to be undertaken in cases where Federal funds are not available or intolerable delay is anticipated.

It is further contemplated that as far as possible all investigation and planning, actual construction and field surveys, be done by the Corps of Engineers through contract arrangements where the cost is to be borne by the State funds.

Specific project recommendations for the first year include: Initiation of dredging recommendations for the first year include: Initiation of dredging operations between Jantoo Bay and Oregon Inlet ($150,000); initiate work within Drum Inlet proper ($100,000); initiate work on the Masonboro Inlet channel ($100,000); lend assistance to maintenance and deepening of the locally provided opening just north of Carolina Beach which connects Myrtle Sound with the ocean ($25,000); initiate a program for the provision of small harbors of refuge along the several waterways ($75,000); emergency dredging, contingencies, investigations, planning and administration ($50,000). Collateral recommendations to be supported outside the Waterway Development Fund include

Business Today

This A Recession?

By ELMER ROESSNER
We were supposed to be having some sort of a recession earlier this year. As a matter of fact, unemployment rose and some businesses made a lot fewer sales.

But total income was up. Personal income during the first five months of this year was at an annual rate of $285 billion, according to the Department of Commerce. Personal income during the same five months of 1953 was $284 billion.

The dip in employment was reflected in the total wage and salary disbursements, which were $194.6 billion—$2 billion under the total for the same 1953 figure. (All these figures are at annual rates.) Farm income was slightly lower, as was proprietors' and rental income. But these were more than offset by the rise in personal interest income and dividends and in transfer payments, which, of course, includes unemployment relief as well as veterans' and other benefits.

At the same time, while social security withholdings were a bit higher—$4.7 billion compared with $3.9 billion—income taxes were down.

So there is a seeming paradox: people had more money to spend and yet sales and employment went down. There are two reasons. One is that government spending—which comes indirectly not directly, from personal income—has been down. The other is that people are saving more.

In the first half of this year, sales of savings bonds set a new postwar record. Sales of series of E and H bonds totaled $2,516,000,000—and that's net, not at annual rates.

And while definitive figures are not available, deposits in saving banks and savings and loan associations appear to have gone up sharply. And life insurance ownership—which is a form of saving—soared to a new peak during the first six months of the year, according to the Institute of Life Insurance. In the six months, a total of $18.6 billion in new policies was written, bringing the total outstanding to $319 billion.

Reasons why people earned more and spent less are not hard to guess. Many had filled their more pressing postwar wants. Then, too, many believed that prices were about to slide (some did!) and others, seeing the rise in unemployment, became fearful of losing their jobs and started stashing away savings.

The remedy, of course, is better merchandising. This may call for both better advertising and lower pricing. There has been a little of both so far, but perhaps not enough.

FUEL OIL IN WINTER... Many coal dealers sell ice in summer—or are they ice dealers who sell coal in winter? Now a new seasonal wrinkle has been devised. A number of heating oil distributors have gone into the summer business of offering fertilizer spraying services. At moderate cost, oil trucks can be converted for handling a new water-soluble fertilizing material (Monsanto's Folium).

10,000,000 WORKING... WIVES FOUND NEGLECTED...

The 10,000,000 housewives with jobs outside the home constitute "one of the most lucrative, yet one of the most neglected" markets in the nation, the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association declares. Therefore, it has launched a campaign to persuade advertisers to sell more vigorously to working women.

After six months of research, the Bureau finds that "the most complete lack of attention being given by big advertisers to a striking and almost revolutionary change in American economic and social life" is startling.

It's 22 Years Of Verbal War

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Fighting between married people often ends in black eyes and divorce suits.

But 22 years of almost continuous verbal warfare have made Albert Hackett and Frances Goodrich into one of Hollywood's most successful husband-and-wife marrying teams.

Their long wordy quarrel has resulted in several jointly written Broadway plays, 25 movie scripts, and an annual income in the high clear financial stratosphere somewhere above $50,000.

"But if we take time off to do a play, as we have this year, we sometimes don't earn a nickel," said Miss Goodrich.

Both started out as actors. They turned to writing during lean seasons. After their third play, "Up Pops the Devil," made the grade on Broadway, they went to Hollywood, married, and settled down with the M-G-M Studio.

"We were in the doghouse for a long time," Miss Goodrich recalled. "It was easy to get lost out there then. The studio had 155 writers, and everybody was taking a fling at everybody else's script."

"Now they have only 30 writers, and they cast a writer almost as they do an actor for a part. They try to fit the writer to the kind of material he is best at."

Frances and "Hacky" hit pay dirt first with "The Thin Man." Among other well known screenplays they fought out together are "Ah, Wilderness," "Father of the Bride," and their recently completed "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers."

For mutual safety many collaborating teams divide a script into acts, and the partners write alternate scenes. But the Hacketts believe "fighting makes good writing. Each does the same scene, and then comes the nerve-wearing job of piecing them together."

"We fight, fight, fight—every line of the way," said Frances. "—And rewrite, rewrite, rewrite," murmured Hackett.

"We used to have separate rooms, but now we write together in the same room, and that's better," continued his wife. "We're closer in the clinches. We don't have so far to walk to fight, do we, Hacky?"

"Um-m-m-m," murmured Hackett.

"I think it's a good thing we fight so much over our work," said Frances. "That way we avoid the quarrels that other married people get mixed up in. We never fight at any other time, do we, Albert?"

"Oh, not much anyway," murmured her husband.

"Listen, Hackett," said Frances, "that three days I didn't speak to you—it was a quarrel about work. Remember? It's more interesting to fight about work than about whether you can afford a new dress."

"M-m-m-m," murmured Hackett.

In 1939 they both wearied of the writing strain and let their typewriters rust for three years. "It was a lovely nervous breakdown," said Frances. "And we enjoyed it together. We just broke down at the typewriter and started crying, and neither of us could stop crying."

"In a relationship like ours," said Hackett, "if one partner gets sick, he soon puts the other one in the same condition."

Now they pick the scripts they want, knock off often for long vacations abroad together to keep from getting into a writing rut.

"We do everything together," said Frances, smiling. "Poor Hackett. He never gets away from me. He never gets to take advantage of all the opportunities in Hollywood—and there are so many."

"UM-M-M-M-M-M," murmured Hackett, a look of distance on his face.

Methodical Probe Of Red Espionage

By GORDON TAIT
MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — The jigsaw of Soviet spying in Australia is being slowly put together before the royal commission of three judges sitting here in Melbourne.

The pace of this royal commission on espionage has proved painfully slow to Australians, who had expected sensation packed on sensation once Vladimir Petrov went into the witness box.

Petrov, who fled his post as third secretary at the Russian Embassy in Canberra says he also was the chief Red spy in Australia. His request for political asylum started a chain of events that led to Russia breaking diplomatic relations with Australia.

Petrov, 47, short and plump, and his small, honey-blond wife Evokla, 40, both have spent many hours in the witness box. But they have given only a small part of their evidence because the inquiry has been split into what William J. V. Windyler, senior counsel assisting the commission, called compartments.

The idea is to fit cleanly into one piece the pattern of Soviet espionage and to give any person named as a Soviet helper an opportunity to get quickly into the witness box and tell his side of the story. Only two Australians have been named as helpers so far.

Petrov disclosed Russia had a special directorate in Moscow for technical and atomic espionage and described the system by which Russians serving in official positions outside Russia are watched by secret police who report back

Costain's Novel Cut For Movie-Making

By HUBBARD KEAVY
(For Bob Thomas)
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Thomas Costain's 500-odd pages of narrative called "The Silver Chalice" turn out, in the movie script, to be only 134 pages long.

Yet none of the drama of Costain's story of the slave who fashions a receptacle for the wine cup used at the Last Supper will be missing, scenarist Lesser Samuels assures potential viewers. For the benefit of Costain's readers and perhaps also for aspiring scenarists, Samuels explains how he did his job.

After reading the book carefully, he made notes on what he considered the necessary dramatic scenes. Primarily the difference between his job and Costain's was to emphasize some scenes for greater dramatic effect.

Then he listed each scene, with a brief description, on a small card. He remembers that he had 100 cards. He pinned these to a large board in sequence and studied them. He finally reduced the number of cards to 76—"The essential dramatic steps."

With the characters and the 76 scenes, Samuels wrote a 140-page "treatment," actually a synopsis. From the synopsis he wrote the first script, 140 pages of dialogue and stage directions. This preliminary work was used to determine how many actors would be needed

Linda Robb of Washington, D. C. arrived in Robersonville July 13 to spend the remainder of her school vacation with Miss Millie Roebuck and Mrs. Betty Gray.

belonged in jail. "I can't handle him," Adams told the magistrate. "The only time I ever see him is on Friday night when he comes in for his allowance."

The youth then was sent to city jail when he could not furnish bail of $1,000.

The largest U.S. post office serves Manhattan and the Bronx, two of New York City's five boroughs, earns a tenth of U.S. postal revenue and dispatches an average of 17 million pieces of mail a day.

Petrov said both he and his wife had come to Australia with orders to recruit agents. He said money was paid to some Australians who supplied information to the Soviet intelligence system. Some Australians, he said were given code names by Moscow.

On Petrov's fifth day in the box, the evidence turned to money and Australians picked up their ears. Petrov told the commission he received 5,000 pounds ($11,250) from Deputy Director of Australian Security Richards on April 3, the day he left the Russian service. Newspaper headlines reflected Australian surprise.

The same day Petrov and his wife gave evidence about their pay checks. The size of these was an even bigger surprise to Australians.

Petrov said as an officer of the Soviet Internal Affairs Ministry's secret police, his salary at the beginning of 1954 was more than 4,000 rubles—$1,000—per month. This was four or five times the earnings of a skilled Australian tradesman.

Petrov said he was paid 101 pounds ($227.25) in Australian money and the rest was deposited for him in Moscow.

Following her husband into the box, Mrs. Petrov said her salary was the equivalent of 3,240 pounds ($7,290) a year. Australians quickly added the husband's and wife's salaries to total over 8,000 pounds ($17,000) a year. Only a handful of Australians earn that much money.

The end of the commission is not yet in sight and the sittings possible will continue into next year.

and for how long and the number and size of the sets. Costs have to be estimated first, so the first script was little more than a budget guide.

The final shooting script took Samuels 10 weeks to write. Costain who read it, was pleased with the faithful translation although he must have missed some scenes and characters he liked. The Chinese prince, for example, was an interesting character, but he had nothing to do with furthering the dramatic elements of the story. He and his long fingernails will not be in the film.

The chalice itself is no tin prop. Victor Saville, who is producing and directing, declared it must be of sterling silver and so went to a silversmith to have it cast.

Greenville Edged 3-2 In Pony Tourney

ROCKY MOUNT—Rocky Mount picked up one run in the last of the ninth inning to edge out Greenville's Pony League entry last night by the score of 3-2 in the Eastern Pony Tournament.

The Rocky Mount team had two men out in the last of the eighth when Marks lined a double. Walker Allen gave up a walk to Evans and then faced Harry Campbell, the Rocky Mount pitching ace. Campbell lined out a base hit and the run came in to score to give the Rocky Mount team their margin of victory.

The win gave Rocky Mount two wins in the tourney without a loss. It was Greenville's first game.

Husky Charlie Staton started on the mound for Greenville and pitched brilliant ball for seven innings. After the game went into overtime both pitchers had to be removed because of the Pony League rule that will not let the starting pitcher pitch into overtime.

Campbell, who pitched a no-hitter Saturday night, came in to pitch for Rocky Mount and Allen came in for Greenville.

The Rocky Mount team scored first in the last of the fifth inning. Charlie Staton had allowed only one hit until then. In the fifth Matthews walked and Oakley popped a short ball behind first base.

The plate umpire called foul ball but when Kelly Barnhill, the Greenville first baseman, dropped the ball the base umpire called fair ball. The decision caused some confusion in which Barnhill's throw over second wasn't touched and when the left-fielder threw wild the runner scored.

Greenville coaches Junior Yohn and Bill Kittrell protested the game there but the protest did not hold up.

In the top of the sixth Greenville came back to take the lead.

walked and Oscar Stoneham singled and Staton struck out and Allen had reached third on a wild pitch and a passed ball, Richard Earl Nobles singled to score Allen. Billy Cox walked and Oscar Stoneham singled home Nobles with the leading run.

In the last of the sixth Rocky Mount tied up the game with a walk, an error, a sacrifice, and a long fly.

Campbell pitched no-hit ball in relief and Allen did for one inning then came the hits.

The Greenville team plays Aberdeen this afternoon at 3 o'clock. One more defeat and Greenville is out of the tournament.

San Diego Calif. (AP)—Tennis champion Maureen Connolly, seriously injured when thrown against a moving cement truck while riding her horse, rested in a hospital here today.

"Little Mo's" injuries—a broken and severely cut right leg—will prevent her from defending her U.S. singles title at Forest Hills, N.Y., Aug. 28.

Dr. Bruce Kimball, who operated on her leg shortly after the accident yesterday said the fibula or small bone below the knee was fractured and that some muscles were torn but not severed. She was in surgery more than three hours.

Her leg was put in a cast and Dr. Kimball said she would be hospitalized at least a week. He said, however, that the injury would not permanently cripple her. He ordered her not to touch a tennis racket for a month, and perhaps longer.

The 19-year-old tennis queen was riding her thoroughbred Colonel

Merry Boy yesterday, accompanied by two girl companions, when the accident occurred near Mission Valley polo grounds.

Before entering surgery, "Little Mo" said:

"We were riding along Friar's Road. We stopped our horses as the truck approached."

"Colonel Merry Boy shied and whirled into the truck. My leg was caught between my horse and the truck."

Trinidad Boxing Hopeful Fights Ward Tonight

CHICAGO (AP)—Yolande Pompey, considered by many experts as probably the best all-around fighter in the British Empire makes his first United States appearance tonight against busy Moses Ward of Detroit.

Pompey, a West Indian from Trinidad, is a 5-2 favorite to beat his free swinging opponent in the battle to be televised nationally at 9 p.m. EST. (CBS)

Pompey owns both the Empire middleweight and light heavyweight championships, although he has fought only 30 professional fights—losing only one and scoring 20 knockouts.

He and Ward have agreed to make 165 pounds for the Chicago Stadium fight. If Pompey wins he will be booked for a second TV show within 30 days from New York.

Coach Likes His Own Backyard

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP)—His own backyard is the best recruiting ground for fresh football material, Art Lewis, head football coach at West Virginia University, has discovered.

Of 50 boys slated for his 1954 fall roster, 35 are from West Virginia. Fourteen from out of state are within a 90-minute drive of the campus. Only one candidate for the team is from beyond that radius.

Indians Cling To League Lead With 16-Inning Tie As Yankees Win, 4-1

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports Writer

What does a feller have to do to get into first place in this league? Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees is running the hottest ball club in the American League. Only 2½ games off the pace on July 1, the Yankees have won 17 out of 19 games since then.

And they still aren't up on top. Last night they came within one out of reaching their objective. They fought off third-place Chicago handsily, winning 4-1. The huge scoreboard in Yankee Stadium showed Boston leading Cleveland 5-3 after eight innings.

But in the ninth at Boston Al Smith coaxed Willard Nixon for a walk with two out and Bobby Avila drilled his second home run of the contest to tie the score. That's the way it stayed through seven more innings. It wound up a 5-5 tie after 16 innings with the league curfew calling a halt.

You can't start an inning after 12:50 a.m., local time and it was 12:57 a.m. by the time the last out was made in the 16th. It will have to be replayed from the start sometime later.

So, for four percentage points, the Indians stayed in first place. The issue may be settled temporarily this weekend when Cleveland invades New York for three games starting Friday night.

While the American League race was tightening, the National League became more lopsided with the New York Giants stretching their advantage over Brooklyn to seven games, their longest lead of the year.

The Giants won a 13-inning struggle in Cincinnati 2-1 and Brooklyn lost in 10 innings in Chicago 3-2. St. Louis defeated Philadelphia 4-2 in the only other National League action. Milwaukee and Pittsburgh were not scheduled.

Other results in the American League included a 9-1 triumph by Washington over Baltimore and two more losses by the Philadelphia Athletics, their 9th and 10th in a row, this time to Detroit 12-0 and 4-3.

The Giants and Dodgers' games both were decided on errors. In Cincinnati, the New Yorkers pushed across the winning run in the 13th on a single by Bobby Holt followed by two misplays and a sacrifice fly by Whitey Lockman.

Gene Baker scored the winning run for Chicago against Brooklyn by scampering home from second base when pitcher Jim Hughes dropped an easy toss at first base that should have been the third out.

Johnny Antonelli stayed all the way for the Giants in winning his 14th game against two losses. The only run against him was a homer by Ted Kluszewski.

Harvey Haddix of the Cards joined him as a 14-game winner after beating the Phils but Haddix needed ninth-inning help from Gerry Staley. Four hits climaxed by a triple by Ray Jablonski produced all of the St. Louis runs in the first inning.

The Yankees pinned the fifth loss on Bob Keegan although they were out 8-7. Fine fielding which included three double plays helped Whitey Ford to his ninth success.

Detroit scored nine runs in the first inning of the first game at Philadelphia in a spurge which included a double and a grand slam home run by Harvey Kuenn. In the nightcap the Tigers rallied for three runs in the eighth, two of them on a home run by Bill Tuttle.

Roy Sievers and Eddie Yost were the hitting standouts in Washington's triumph over Baltimore. Yost tripled with the bases loaded and Sievers hit his 15th home run.

The lack of an American Legion team or a league for boys above the Pony League age limit is certainly the obvious weakness of the city recreation program, but what can't be done just can't be done.

The recreation department is trying to help make amends for this in sending a team to Hickory to represent Greenville in the State tourney up there.

The boys will have to furnish their own transportation, room, and board for the trip. Since about sixteen boys have signed to play the main idea is to raise money needed to cover the expenses.

Only boys one year above the Pony League age limit are eligible to play. In order to help get some of their money they have dedicated to have a supper at the Little League Park August 3. Tickets for the chicken-in-the-basket supper can be bought for one dollar. Details for the supper will be announced later on.

This year's Pony League all-star team is just about as different from last year's all-stars as an elephant is from a water snake.

Last year's team was a powerful team but had rather uncertain pitching after Ike Riddick hurt his arm. "Wrinkle" Runley was the only reliable hurler left. This year's squad has Charlie (No-Hit) Staton, Walker Allen, Billy (No-Hit) Cox, Bobby Edwards, and several more of the outstanding pitchers needed in tournament play.

The trouble with this year's team is the sporadic hitting. Only five of the team's players have a batting average of .300. In the first game of the tourney the team got only three hits. There won't be many times that you can win a ball game on three hits, even with pitchers like Staton and Allen, etc.

Welterweight champion Kid Gavilan gave up a promising baseball career for professional boxing.

Little League Championship To Start On Monday

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Editor

Sports shorts—Although the regular season play in city Little League competition is over there will be plenty of Little League ball in the city before the summer is over.

Besides having the Regional Tournament here there will also be the city championship on Monday afternoon, July 26. On that date the Tar Heel League and the North State League All-Stars will go against each other in what should prove to be one of the outstanding features of the year. The winner of this game will represent Greenville against Williamston for the right to go to the State Championship.

The Tar Heel League has been established the favorite for the event. Coach Neely James of the Exchange is the head coach with Ford McGowan, his assistant.

Both teams will have power-packed line-ups with the possibility of a win being with the team that has the better pitching. In all probability the Elks' Merrill Bynum, the outstanding player of the Little League this year, will pitch for the Tar Heelers while the North State League has no outstanding chunker.

The lack of an American Legion team or a league for boys above the Pony League age limit is certainly the obvious weakness of the city recreation program, but what can't be done just can't be done.

Flanders Needs A Team In Feud With Sen. McCarthy

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—When he bats against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) in the Senate league, Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.) needs a team and a scorecard. There's no sign he has a team. And he's learning the score the hard way.

He has swung twice and missed. There's a good chance he'll strike out.

Persistence may be all the two senators have in common. They've used it on each other. The 73-year-old Vermont Republican persists in trying to get the Senate to rebuke McCarthy some way, somehow.

McCarthy persistently ignores Flanders, paying no more attention to him than he'd pay to a gnat. He dismisses Flanders, his most outspoken Senate critic, with the word "senile."

For months Flanders has been after McCarthy with Senate speeches and television statements that got headlines. For all their effect on the Senate it was like a batter warming up with popflies.

But Flanders apparently felt ready for the big try. He asked the Senate to vote McCarthy out of his committee chairmanships, which would be a shattering rebuke.

Flanders had stepped into one of the most sensitive areas of the Senate. All its members yearn to be committee chairmen, a job that comes to them not by brilliance or ability but by seniority: by sticking around long enough.

Senators being politicians, have a heightened sense of survival. Once they started something like this in motion — taking a senator's chairmanship away — it might happen to them someday.

Besides, there were other considerations.

In this election year 37 of the 96 Senate seats are at stake. McCarthy has a host of friends, well-wishers and admirers who might make their anger at a vote against him felt at the polls in November.

That goes for Democrats and Republicans alike. Behind closed doors a group of Senate Republicans who plan their party's strategy in the upper chamber — the Senate's Republican Policy Committee — decided to tell Flanders about the facts of politics.

They voted against his resolution, in effect killing it before it had a chance to be debated on the Senate floor. He couldn't fight McCarthy and his own party's policy committee too. He dropped his resolution in a hurry.

The fact that he did, and that the committee vote against him was unanimous, was pretty thorough evidence all Flanders had from the start was a pious hope. He had no team. He had been swinging in the dark.

That he had taken a stand against McCarthy may have been personally satisfying to Flanders. It certainly got him a lot of publicity. But battling against McCarthy single-handed has been a useless occupation.

Undaunted, Flanders stepped up to the plate again, took another swing and missed again. This time

Little White House Goes On Tour

MINIATURE . . . Lynn Scott holds the exterior of the foot-high model home she originated. The exterior is a copy of the Little White House at Augusta, Ga. Inside is a designer's idea of gracious living.

By SANDRA NEMSER

AP Newsfeatures Writer

A house only 12 inches high is attracting attention on television and tour.

Its exterior, which lifts off in one piece, is a miniature of the Little White House, vacation retreat of President and Mrs. Eisenhower in Augusta, Ga.

The five rooms are a designer's delight, decorated to provide ideas for gracious living by the average American family.

It took an industrial designer and five associates some 1,800 man hours to complete the house, which is 46 inches wide and 22 inches deep.

Presenting the Little White House to cross-country audiences is its originator, Lynn Scott. The tour, which started last April and will continue through July, 1955, will reach at least 30,000 persons in 30 cities.

Miss Scott, director of a home arts council, made sure the color exterior of the home accurately copied the Eisenhower residence. The columned portico boasts an American Eagle emblem, and the flooring has the five stars of the President's military rank.

The outside is complete with a miniature apple tree, bearing 40 red apples, and white flower pots overflowing with red geraniums.

Inside, everything is built at a scale of one-half inch to the foot. The house has such items as: a colonial staircase, a fireplace that is an exact replica of the ladies' parlor in Raleigh Tavern in Williamsburg, Va., a movable television cabinet and a sofa-bed.

Gold Rush Town Is Deteriorated

DAWSON, Yukon (AP)—This once-famous gold rush center is now almost a ghost town, but its 500 residents are striving to keep the place alive by luring tourists.

The home in 1896 of 40,000 gold-hungry prospectors, dance hall girls and bartenders, it now is a collection of sagging, decaying buildings.

The old Floradora Dance Hall, Nugget Saloon and Royal Alexandra Hotel lean precariously as if ready to fall. Dozens of other famous old honky-tonks, hotels and amusement places have disappeared.

Deterioration started after the gold rush. Raw gold worth 200 million dollars was carried through Dawson streets, but when the creeks were panned out the prosperous and the penniless trekked out together.

A second crushing blow came when the Alaska highway bypassed the town, establishing rival Whitehorse, 470 river miles south, as the territory's trading center. Finally, the federal government stripped the dying city of its status as capital of the territory and moved the administration to Whitehorse.

The big Yukon Consolidated Mining Co. is still employing crews and to comb through the panned-out creeks with giant modern dredges and some old-time prospectors make a living by conducting guided tours of the ruins.

All steamboats coming down the Yukon River from Whitehorse this year will be greeted by quaintly costumed pioneers and their ladies. The Nugget Saloon, threadbare and torn, will rock again to the sound of big money gambling (with play money sold at the rate of $10,000 for a dollar) and hard drinking (of soft drinks at 25 cents a bottle.)

But the colorful days Robert Service wrote about in verse will never be seen again in Dawson.

TAX RATE LOW

DETROIT (AP)—Suburban Hazel Park's tax rate this year is the lowest in Hazel Park's history and among the lowest tax rates in the nation. $10 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. Much of Hazel Park's municipal income is gained from taxes on running and harness races at a track there.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—They were roosters, not stool pigeons, but they double-crossed their owner.

Mrs. Ednah Alibright, 59, had just testified yesterday that the roosters were trained to crow only on cue, for television and movie jobs. Just then the three roosters in the corridor started crowing.

The jury in Municipal Court convicted her of maintaining a public nuisance at her home in suburban Van Nuys.

TOUGH ON TREES

WHALEYVILLE, Va. (AP) — An automobile went out of control here, leaped a ditch and came to rest in a tree. Trooper Joe Bryant reported that three occupants suffered only minor cuts but the tree had to be cut down to get the car back to earth.

Only a few traces of prehistoric man are found in densely forested areas.

The Taming of Carney Wilde

by BART SPICER

When Charles Alexander Stewart absconded with funds from a bank in Philadelphia, he placed Carney Wilde's sleuthing career in jeopardy. Wilde was responsible for the security of the bank, and now, to find the thief who had disappeared after killing a policeman in the course of his flight, Wilde's troubles mount. When his girl, Jane Grodnik, elopes with his friend, Penn Maxwell.

CHAPTER THREE

I CUT IN again. I didn't want Grodnik to hear him say any of the things that were boiling in his mind. "I call him a kid," I said, "just because he's got that kind of a face. But he's only two or three years younger than I am. He's all right, captain. Give him a chance."

Grodnik glared at me. "What kind of a man are you anyway?" he demanded quietly. "I always thought you and Jane—"

What stopped him then I don't know. Maybe he looked at my face. The quiet, hurting words were choked off and Capt. Grodnik sat heavily opposite me, fumbling with my lighter to get his cigar going again.

He picked up my cigarettes, shook one free of the pack and held it out toward me, offering the lighter. We got over the awkward moment like that, him lighting my cigar.

"I used to think so, too, captain," I said, as if there had been no interruption. "But things got in the way. I had to spend a lot of time out of town. Sometimes I went for a month or more without taking a day off. I liked it I guess maybe I should have asked Jane maybe I liked it. And then I got shot. Nobody in my racket has any business with a wife, anyway."

"But Maxwell is in the same—"

"He hasn't been outside the office on business for more than a year," I broke in. "The kid's got a talent for detail work. I need him in the office. And now he'll stay inside all the time. That's flat. He can commute on the 5:10 every night if he wants to."

"Okay, Carney," Grodnik said heavily. "But I still don't like the idea of them running off and getting—"

"You didn't do anything to make that necessary?" I asked. "You didn't somehow let her know what you thought of her boy, so much that she didn't want you blabbing around when she was getting married? You just think about it, captain. It's supposed to be a happy time you know. Maybe Jane figured it couldn't be happy if you were there."

"But I never said a word," Grodnik growled. "And what's more, I didn't—"

"Forget it," I said. "They were keeping it from me as much as you."

"She's my kid," Grodnik said tightly, "and I guess I got a right to—"

"Your kid and my girl, captain," I broke in. "And both of us fumbled the ball. You can't change that now. They're married. They're going to try to build something. Something like you and Mrs. Grodnik have. I'm just as surprised about this as you are, but I don't think I've got much right to complain. And I don't think you have, either."

"Mary," he muttered. "Do you think she knew?"

"I hope so," I said. "I hope that Jane—"

"Mary bought a new dress," Grodnik said in a dull voice.

"Bought it just last week. A silk one, very fancy for her. First new dress in over a year. Maybe she'll let her—"

"Let's hope so, captain."

"Abruptly Grodnik said: 'The boys in the robbery detail said to tell you they were sorry things went wrong that night you got shot.'"

"That jerk Mackey," I said bitterly.

"Yes, Captain Hanneman gave him an official reprimand. But you made yourself some friends in the bureau. They wanted me to ask you how you managed to find out where Stewart was hiding."

"Maybe I had better not tell you."

"How so?" Grodnik asked.

"Stewart was promoted to assistant cashier about 18 months ago," I said. "We already had him bonded, but I checked him again, just to be sure he was clear. That's how I knew about the house. It was all he inherited when his mother died a few years ago. He got that old house and lot next to the park. When I heard Stewart had pulled a robbery, I grabbed Mackey and a couple of harness cops and went out to the house. I figured if Stewart was still in town, he might be hiding out there, waiting for a chance to get away."

"He didn't just hide out there, though," Grodnik went on. "We found something more. There was a little box caught halfway down the laundry chute of the bath—"

"That's all," Grodnik said.

"I reached in my pocket for the Delta Line paper. 'Do you really think this is worth following up?'"

"I'm sending a man to check the boat at Cincinnati," Grodnik said non-committally. "And I'll have the complete passenger list screened as soon as I can find it. Probably I'll send someone to meet the boat at New Orleans, if Cincinnati is a blank. But actually taking the boat trip would be a long shot. It would cost a lot of dough, too. But it just might."

He let the implications dangle.

Charles Alexander Stewart had the job of receiving and counting the money that made up the Jonas store payroll. When it had been checked, Stewart took it upstairs and delivered it to the cashier of the store. He used a private elevator that went only from the bank to the cashier's office. The elevator had no exits on the floors between the street-corner bank and the ninth-floor cashier's office. Because of that, no guard was considered necessary to protect Stewart on the trip. Five weeks ago, Stewart had been escorted into the elevator the payroll money compressed into a big canvas satchel. The guard closed the door. Stewart pushed the button and the elevator rose slowly toward the ninth floor. Somewhere en route Stewart disappeared.

It was a mystery—for about ten minutes. The elevator had an escape hatch installed, to be used in case of fire or power failure. The hatch led through a wooden break-away partition to the fire stairs. Stewart had gimmicked the alarm system, shorting out the terminals with a short length of copper wire. He stopped the elevator, crawled out the escape hatch, went down the fire stairs and outside, totting his canvas bag with some $200,000 in small bills inside.

The biggest mystery to me was why he hadn't run. For some reason he stayed in town afterward. It was 3 in the afternoon when he walked out of the Jonas store with his loot and he was still in that old parkside town house at 7 that

New Floor Care Ends Waxing

One of the most difficult jobs of housekeeping is to keep linoleum and asphalt tile floors waxed and gleaming. Now, thanks to Glaxo, it is no longer necessary to wax and scrub. All you do is apply Glaxo with a brush about twice a year. It maintains a high luster, non slip coating that seals out dirt. Glaxo dries in one hour and is water clear. It's cheaper than wax in the long run, besides saving a terrific amount of work, plus truly a beautiful floor. Glaxo is available at Belk-Tyler's on the third floor.

Warehousemen In Farmville Hope For Good Season

FARMVILLE — "Farmville warehousemen are of the opinion that Farmville will sell within a thirty million pounds auctioned here in 1953," Charles S. Edwards, sales supervisor of the Farmville tobacco market said today.

"Rains finally came in sufficient quantities to saturate the entire Bright Belt, of which Farmville is one of the leading components," Edwards noted.

"In some areas it was not early enough to insure a bumper crop, the supervisor continued. "However, the vast majority of the region from which comes the tobacco sold on the Farmville market, received the rain in time to assure Farmville of a normal selling year."

Edwards indicated that housing of tobacco last week and the first of this week was slowed up by the rain.

"Unless we have additional rain and cool weather it will be in full swing next week and continue that way until the last tip is in the barn," he emphasized.

The sales supervisor noted that there is still little talk of disease in this area.

"Those few fields in which there is disease, in almost all instances, are where modern precautions were not taken before planting," he said.

He indicated that cures which have been completed are about up to last year in quality.

"Barring unforeseen developments farmers, merchants, and warehousemen are anticipating another good fall," Edwards concluded.

Radio Turned On, Snake Evicted

SHELBY, N. C. (AP)—J. B. Jolley looked up yesterday to see a snake's head protruding from the back of his radio.

He took the set out back where he shook and tapped on the cabinet. The stubborn snake refused to budge.

All else failing, Jolley hooked up an extension cord and turned on the set. The heat from the tubes proved too much and the foot-long snake slithered out.

Bulldog Objects To Having Utilities' Meters Checked

Two Greenville Utilities Commission employees were wondering today if a dog whose resides in Hillside doesn't care to get light and water meters checked out that way.

This morning the two were chased from a yard in Hillside by a large black and white bulldog while attempting to check the meters.

Not only were they chased from the yard, but they also had to take cover in and "on" a car owned by the Daily Reflector. This car was out in Hillside at the time while two Reflector photographers were out to get pictures of the new drainage project beginning there.

Getting in the car to leave, the photographers noted the bulldog standing in a nearby yard apparently not too happy with the situation.

The bulldog then suddenly decided he had had enough of it all so he went after the two light and water meter checkers. The two men ran to the car since it was the nearest object of safety in sight.

"Open the door," they yelled. The door was immediately opened, but the bulldog was also getting closer. One Utilities' employee managed to get safely in the car, but the other crawled to the top of the vehicle for safety.

Neither would get "out or off" until the car had been moved from a block where the two men had left their truck while making the rounds of the houses in the neighborhood.

The Commission men explained that the dog broke his chain when they entered the yard to make the check.

The moral to the story seems to be—if you don't like utility rates just get a big bulldog.

Driver Charged In Car Accident

An accident at McGowan's Cross Roads yesterday afternoon caused approximately $225 damage with one driver being charged with failure to yield right-of-way.

The accident, which occurred at 5:15 p.m., damaged one automobile about $200 and the other $25. Herbert Gray Hardy was charged with failure to yield right-of-way by investigating officer Patrolman James W. Boykin.

Boykin reported Hardy, 23, of Greenville Route 3 stopped at a stop sign, but then pulled onto the road hitting a vehicle driven by Jay Cea Adams, 23, of Greenville Route 3 on the left side. Adams' car suffered the $200 damage.

Adams was driving a 1951 model car while Hardy's vehicle was a 1946 model. There were no injuries.

Early this morning a car operated by Meeklen Earl McLawhorn of 101 South Jarvis Street went out of control about two miles north of Greenville on the prison camp road.

Patrolman Boykin said the driver apparently lost control of the vehicle on a curve. McLawhorn suffered chest injuries in the crash.

The accident occurred about 1:00 a.m. and the investigation is incomplete.

Remind System Of Appointments To Get License

Authorities of the Highway Patrol here yesterday voiced concern over the fact that applicants for driver's licenses are failing to make use of the appointment system the Patrol offers for the issuance of licenses.

The Patrol offers appointments for the "convenience of the public," authorities said, as often persons go out to the office desiring a license, but find no one in to issue it.

Appointments may be made Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

The Highway Patrol urges anyone desiring a driver's license to make use of the appointment system.

Emphasizes Role Of Correct English Use

Ability to express one's ideas correctly and effectively both in speaking and in writing helps one toward success in industry, Dr. Edward R. Kane of the E.I. du Pont de Nemours Co. told a group of teachers of English yesterday at East Carolina College.

Dr. Kane, director of the Dacron Research Division, Textile Fibers Department, of the du Pont plant in Kingston was principal speaker at the Ninth Annual Institute of the Northeastern District of the North Carolina English Teachers Association. He was one of seven speakers who discussed the general theme of "Good English in Business and Industry."

Addressing a group of approximately sixty teachers representing public schools in this area, Dr. Kane stressed the importance of good English in getting and holding a position, reporting research, selling products, maintaining good public relations, and achieving promotion. He cited brevity, accuracy, precision, and clearness of expression and the ability to organize material as essentials of good English among those connected with industry.

Dr. James Poindexter of the East Carolina department of English, chairman at the morning meeting of the Institute, stated that emphasis on the usefulness of a knowledge of good English has increased both in the schools and in business and industry during the past few years.

"The scholar," he said, "has left his ivory tower; and the business man has left his iron tower. They are trying to get together to see what their mutual aims and responsibilities are."

The program for the day was planned by Dr. Poindexter as chairman, Dr. Utterback, and Dr. Edgar Hirschberg, all of the East Carolina College faculty.

Robersonville Rotary Installs New Officers; Eugene Murrow Speaks

ROBERSONVILLE—Eugene Murrow, principal of Everett School and a new member of the Robersonville Rotary Club, was the speaker at the regular meeting of the club Thursday night.

Murrow's subject was "Who Are Educated?"

The principal discussed home life and pointed out that the father and mother are always "the law and gospel" in the hearts of their children.

He emphasized the importance of adults setting good examples "because young people believe whatever they see done in a community is right."

The speaker asserted the modern trend is not toward college, but a high school curriculum to fit the needs of the scholars in later life.

In closing he suggested everyone should set a good example "because education and democracy are the business of every man and every woman."

Following Murrow's talk a brief review of the club's activities during the past year was given by the retiring president, Charlie Gray.
