Knowland Acts To Put Case Before Special Committee McCarthy Censure Debated

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McClelland (D-Ark) suggested today the creation of a special Senate committee to draft formal charges against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) with the aim of a vote before Congress adjourns.

McClelland termed it a "better procedure" in his view than others advanced so far, but said he is not committed to it and would go along "if a better one is suggested."

McClelland made his suggestion in an interview. He is the senior Democrat on McCarthy's Senate Investigations subcommittee, and the man to whom many Democrats look for quarterbacking on issues involving McCarthy.

By MARC PURDUE

PARIS (AP)—Christian Dior, with his conservative double-breasted suits, sober ties and impassive face, looks just like the man behind the mahogany desk in the loan department of a big bank.

Yet this quiet baiding, slightly paunchy onetime farmer is "fashion's creative genius," the man who's tossed another bomb into Paris fashions an H-line bomb. It's called H-line because that's what the new form is supposed to resemble: narrow shoulders, flattened busts waistlines at the hip. Skirts are full, pleated or tight.

There was no cheering for his idea in the United States, where women seven years earlier had enthusiastically adopted his "New Look." But curves are more important in America than in France, and there was loud applause at his showings here. If that's an indication, the ideas might win acceptance and start another fashion era.

It wouldn't be the first time for the 49-year-old Dior, the unchallenged leader of the French fashion world. He burst into this bitterly competitive trade in 1947, immediately setting it on its ear with the revolutionary "New Look."

In one season he became dictator of high style and never since has anyone come near toppling him from that profitable pinnacle. Dior denies any intention of making fashion sensations.

In a book he wrote about three years ago he said styles go in cycles with a complete revolution about every seven years. The "New Look" now is seven years old. So we come to the current question: Is he trying to effect a change singlehandedly or just get out in front of an inevitable?

"Changes just come about and many things contribute when everybody is ready for them," he said. "They are not forced by any one designer. They can't be."

This year Dior left skirt lengths alone. He already had his fling at hemlines: lengthening them in the "New Look" and shortening them last year to 16 inches from the floor.

He has little patience, however, with the people who keep measuring the distance between skirts and floor. "Too many fashion writers seem to think there is a fixed standard for skirt lengths—so many inches this way or that. We designers are not scientists working with statistics. We work with the eye and by feeling."

Christian Dior's father, a wealthy chemicals manufacturer, planned a career in diplomacy for him but the family fortune was wiped out in the depression and Christian had to leave the school of political science. He opened an art gallery in Paris, but a serious illness forced him to give it up and retire to the country.

At 30 he returned to Paris without work or money, but one of the paintings from the gallery saved him. He sold a picture by Raoul Dufy and lived on the proceeds.

He stayed with a friend who was sketching designs for hats and dresses. He persuaded Dior to do some. They sold, and "with the presumption of ignorance," Dior settled on designing as his livelihood.

He connected with a smart fashion magazine as an artist, then went to work for the House of Piguet as a "modelist." When the war came, he was mobilized as a private. After it ended he worked as a farmer until he could get back to Paris and a job with Lelong.

In 1947, Marcel Boussac, a plutocratic cotton manufacturer and racehorse owner, put up the money for Dior to open his own establishment. Success came overnight.

Dozen Boys Sent To Summer Camp

Greenville Elks Lodge No. 1645 yesterday sent a dozen boys between the ages of eight and 15 years to the North Carolina Elks Association Summer Camp near Hendersonville in Western Carolina.

Sam C. Winchester Jr. was in charge of the group. They will remain in camp two weeks with all expenses paid by the Elks Lodge. The campers are James Harrington, Roger Collins Jr., Tommie Henderson, Howard Summerell Jr., Douglas Summerell, Joe Dresbach Jr., Louis Everett, Charles Dickens Jr., Louis Dail, Raymon Buck, Billy Stocks and Jimmy Ricks. The bus left Greenville early Sunday morning.

Twelve New Bern boys, 12 from Wilson and 12 sent by Rocky Mount, Wilson and New Bern were in the bus.

Camp committeemen Heber Tripp and Dale Gidley made arrangements for the Greenville boys.

Over 4,000 boys have attended the Elks Summer Camp at Hendersonville during the last nine years, and "there has not been a serious accident or case of illness," an Elks official stated.

The average American uses 19 pounds of coffee a year.

The speaker of the evening was Major Karnell of Stallings Air Base who was introduced by Mr. Joe Quinerly. Major Karnell told of his experiences in world travel in regards to the religions of the world that are not Christian. Stating that it was well known that these religions in comparison with the Christian religion since it is the minority religion.

There were in attendance around a hundred who enjoyed the evening of fellowship which is observed quarterly.

Funeral Held Sunday For John D. Parker

ROBERSONVILLE—Mr. John D. Parker, 71, died in a Rocky Mount Hospital at 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning after several months of illness.

Funeral services were conducted at the home of a son, Stonewall Parker, near Robersonville, at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon by the Rev. Ralph Ferguson, Baptist Minister of Robersonville. Burial was in the Everett Family Cemetery near the home.

Mr. Parker was born and reared in Halifax County, and lived in the Robersonville community for many years. He was first married to Millie Jane Everett, and her death occurred in 1941. Surviving this marriage is a daughter, Mrs. John Henry Roberson Jr. of Robersonville, and a son, Stonewall Parker of near Robersonville. He was later married to Gladys Bullock, and they made their home near Whitakers for the past eight years. He was a member of the Robersonville Baptist Church.

Also surviving are his wife; six children by his second marriage, Bruce, John D. Jr., Freddie Ray, Linda, Mary Alice all of the home; three sisters; and a grandson.

Michigan, Kansas And Missouri Are Holding Primary Elections Tomorrow

DETROIT, (AP)—A relatively small number of Michigan voters is expected to go to the polls tomorrow to select party candidates for November's general elections.

The tightest primary contest centers on the selection of a Republican candidate to oppose Gov. G. Mennen Williams. Williams is seeking an unprecedented fourth term in office.

Four Republicans are making a bid to stop Williams. They are: Secretary of State Owen J. Cleary, State Treasurer D. Hale Brake, former State Police Commissioner Donald S. Leonard, and former Lt. Gov. Eugene Keyes.

The death of former Sen. Blair Moody has left Patrick V. McNamara, former Detroit city councilman, unopposed for the Democratic nomination to oppose Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich). Ferguson is seeking a third term.

Injured Chasing Hit-Run Driver

BALTIMORE (AP)—A hit-and-run driver banged into 13-year-old Herman Johnson yesterday and knocked him from his bicycle.

When the driver of the car made a U-turn and headed the wrong way down a one-way street, Herman jumped back on his bicycle and gave chase.

Feeding furiously, he forgot to look where he was going and crashed into a parked car. He was treated at Provident Hospital for a broken elbow.

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—Predominately Republican Kansas will nominate candidates for the U.S. Senate and six congressional seats tomorrow but the state's main interest has centered around the governorship contest.

Control of the Republican party machinery hinges on the outcome of a race between Fred Hall, the present lieutenant governor, and George Templar, former U.S. district attorney.

Rep. Sen. Andrew F. Schoepel is seeking re-election but his opposition is not considered strong. He has remained in Washington while Congress has been in session.

These five Republican congressmen also are seeking re-election: Myron V. George, Ed H. Rees, Wint Smith, Errett P. Scrivner, and Clifford R. Hope.

Driver Quick To Collect Demerits

GAFFNEY, S.C. (AP)—South Carolina allows a driver 10 points under its demerit point system. A man here recently passed his driver's test at 2:15 p.m. and had amassed his 10 points six hours later.

The list of violations: At 3:15, speeding, 3 1/2 points; at 6:30, reckless driving, 5 points; at 8, a warning, 2 points.

gressman, Howard S. Miller, 1st District, also is up for re-election. He, Scrivner and Hope do not have opponents in the primary. The others regard their opposition lightly.

There also is a spirited contest for the Democratic governorship nomination between William C. S. Lome, mayor of Wichita, and George Docking, a widely known Lawrence banker. Unless there is a strong division among Republicans, the Democrats in Kansas normally are not considered a potent factor.

In the GOP governorship contest, Hall has contended the state's government is dominated by Republican leaders interested only in power and indifferent to their responsibilities.

Templar has the backing of the administration forces of Gov. Edward F. Arn, although Arn himself has taken no public part in the contest.

Templar says he does not owe allegiance to any faction. Hall has called him "a hand-picked" candidate of the administration.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Voters will select nominees for 11 congressional seats tomorrow in a quiet Missouri primary election in which only one statewide office is on the ballots.

A light vote is forecast. Five Democratic congressmen and one Republican are without opposition tomorrow. The Democrats are Frank M. Karsten, Mrs. John B. Sullivan, Richard Bolling,

A. S. J. Carnahan and Morgan M. Maulder.

Rep. Jeffrey P. Hillelson is the Republican unopposed.

Republican Rep. Dewey Short, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, has engaged in the biggest fight of the primary with State Sen. Noel Cox in the heavy Republican 7th District in southwestern Missouri.

Other incumbents with primary opposition are Representatives Clarence Cannon and Paul C. Jones, both Democrats, and Republican Thomas B. Curtis and William C. Cole.

State auditor is the only statewide office at stake. The incumbent, Democrat Haskell Holman, has no opposition in the primary. Three Republicans have filed for the office.

Bird Recovering From Extinction

TOKYO (AP)—The Aho-Dori has come back from extinction! Maybe that doesn't mean anything to you. But it does to naturalists—and all the Aho-Doris.

Aho-Dori is a rare breed of albatross. He is so rare that he was found before the war only on Tori Shima, a small island 370 miles south of Tokyo.

Japanese naturalists took good care of Aho-Dori for years. But then came World War II.

After the war, the naturalists went back to Tori. Alas, no Aho-Doris. At least they could find none.

The Japanese weather station on Tori never gave up hope. Recently it found the body of a dead albatross and sent it to a science laboratory in Tokyo. Sure enough, it was an Aho-Dori!

That spurred the hunt of Japan's bird society. Now Yoshiteru Ono, a member of the society, is happy to report there are at least 20 Aho-Doris albatrossing around on Tori.

Yacht Returned Under Auxiliary

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Film director John Ford's yacht, the Araner, has returned to port safely under auxiliary power with 11 aboard after losing its sails 120 miles off the mainland.

Ford was not aboard. His daughter Barbara; her husband, actor Ken Curtis; Duke Kahanamoku, sheriff of Honolulu; and cowboy singer Shug Fisher were the passengers. There were seven crewmen.

Drivers who fell asleep at the wheel caused accidents in Connecticut in 1953 which killed 28 people and injured 384.

Little Progress In Fighting Colds

LONDON (AP)—In a stubbornly fought campaign against an old enemy, the common cold, the British Medical Research Council has reported a little progress. As a result, the council said in a report submitted to Queen Elizabeth, there is a possibility the cold may someday be brought under control.

Researchers with the government-aided Common Cold Research Unit at Salisbury, which has been waging its scientific war for seven years, have discovered that the virus suspected of being responsible for the common cold can be propagated in tissue cultures of a human embryonic lung.

The common cold is the most familiar and yet one of the craftiest of diseases, the council observed. It is a difficult opponent to the scientist because its virus does not readily infect laboratory animals. Only chimpanzees and human beings get proper colds.

Chimpanzees and human volunteers are expensive to support at a laboratory. Moreover, they cannot be subjected to ruthless treatment, as a culture in a test tube may be.

It would appear also that there is no great supply of embryonic human lungs. But there are hopes that a process started in a lung may soon be continued in a laboratory, and that the research workers will have adequate supplies of the offending virus.

One-Man Show

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—M. Sgt. Huelet (Joe) Benner was the whole show in the southeastern regional pistol matches which ended here yesterday.

The Army sergeant from West Point who has been national pistol champion three times won every major title in the regional. He scored 2,625 of a possible 2,700 in the combined .22, .38 and .45 caliber events for the grand aggregate crown.

Anything over 2,500 is terrific. In fact, only 10 men in all recorded pistol shooting were credited with that high a score until yesterday. Then Marine Lt. Thomas Mitchell of Camp Lejeune, N.C., became the 11th with a score of 2,593 for runner-up honors to Benner.

Weather Playing High-Low Game

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—The weather played hi-low, hi-high with Jacksonville the past four days.

For three days in a row the city had a record low, 68, 66 and 69 respectively. Then yesterday came a record high of 99, one degree above the previous top for Aug. 1, set in 1941 and 1953.

The Chips Are Down On The Airport

The chips are down for the Eastern Carolina Airport Authority and the joint four-county airport for this area.

Unless Wilson and Nash Counties come

March 15 Will Become Just Another Day

March 15 is destined to become just another day in the lives of the American people.

Since the federal government began collecting income taxes, it has been a red letter day for taxpayers. Now with the change in deadline from March 15 to April 15, the long-dreaded day in March will have little significance for taxpayers.

We wonder whether the extra month Congress has decided to give taxpayers for filing their income tax returns will be of any real benefit to the average taxpayer? It is going to mean state governments which have honored the March 15 deadline are going to have to change their final date for income tax returns to April 15 to avoid gross confusion.

It is also going to mean the average taxpayer will have an extra month in which he might spend that extra money he has saved in order to pay the portion of his tax bill not covered by the withholding provision. To be sure, there are some big firms which find it difficult to compile all the necessary information for their tax returns in the three months which have been allotted. But for the average person who has made it a habit to file his return on March 15, it was just a case of putting off the unpleasant chore until the last minute. From now on, these people can put it off until April 15.

We have our doubts that the changing of the income tax deadline is going to prove any sort of boon to the American taxpayers. It is going to mean the federal government will have to wait an extra month to get the bulk of its income tax money. We can't see that the taxpayers are going to be any better off in the long run.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
SELF-RESPECT A NECESSITY

Our Lord cautioned his followers to beware when all men spoke well of them.

What fanatical advice! Doesn't everyone like to be well spoken of? Is there anything better than going through life having people speak of you in terms of praise and affection?

Yes, these things are certainly to be desired, provided they do not cost too much.

Our Lord's life is an example of how a man's life may start out with almost everybody praising him and come to its tragic but immeasurably triumphant end with almost everybody crying out against him, and even with his friends weeping over his "mistakes."

The "mistakes" which our Lord made were the things which raised him to glory. He would not compromise with evil. Furthermore, he would not keep a civil tongue in his head as he confronted evil. He called his monarch a fox (which in modern parlance would mean a cur). He spoke of the Roman overlords as vultures. He hurled every type of bitter epithet at the heads of the Church leader of his day.

No, we cannot go through life having everyone speak well of us. The time comes when we have to speak out on issues, and when we do, the friends begin to fall away and the enemies to increase.

It is fine to have friends—but it is utterly essential to have self-respect.

Egypt Wants No Major War

This is the first of the articles on Egypt Ray Tucker will write from that country.

CAIRO, Egypt.—The Egyptian people and government are violently anti-Communist, notwithstanding their feud with England over the Suez Canal and their resentment of Truman's policy of extreme friendship to Israel.

Although this land of the Pharaohs stands at the bridgehead of three continents, and is a vital sector in the cold war, it has nothing much in the way of soldiers and weapons to back up its support of the West.

Egyptians are very friendly to the American people, which is true of most nations in the Middle East, even though they disagree with certain of the Truman and Eisenhower policies.

It is evident in the hotels, in the bazaars and on the streets. Bellhops, clerks and police officials ask "Are you American?" and grin broadly when the reply is in the affirmative. It is surprising how many have visited "the States," or have relatives and friends there.

BARGAINING ENDED—The bargaining and sparring match between Egypt and Britain over the military control of the vital Suez Canal—a link between Britain and her erstwhile Empire—has ended, with U. S. Ambassador Jefferson Caffery siding with Prime Minister Churchill under specific orders from Washington.

Prior to the pact, agreed upon a week ago, Churchill professed to be alarmed over Egypt's recent purchase of $3,000,000 worth of small arms from Spain, especially as they involved the type of guns and mortars peculiarly adapted to the guerrilla warfare which the natives have waged against the British in outlying posts along the Nile and the Mediterranean.

However, the Egyptians insisted they had bought the guns and mortars simply to strengthen their bargaining position vis-a-vis Britain. According to the agreement now entered into by the two nations, Britain will be able to maintain a great air and military base about 150 miles northeast of Cairo.

through with their appropriations for the project before Saturday, the joint airport will be out of the running for federal aid for this year. The whole program will have to be scrapped, and a new authority will have to be formed to pick up the pieces.

Saturday has been set by the Civil Aeronautics Authority as the deadline for the Eastern Carolina Airport Authority to present a detailed development program for this year in order to be in line for federal aid.

The proposed airport for this area has been given second priority in the state for federal aid by the CAA. That leaves little doubt that aid will be forthcoming for the airport this year if the other two counties which have not made their appropriations decide this week to go along with the program. Unless the Airport Authority can tell the CAA by Saturday it has its ducks in line and is ready to go ahead with the project, there will be no federal aid for this particular airport this year.

Of course we do not know what the commissioners of Wilson and Nash Counties are going to do. They have been decidedly against the program since it came time to put up money for this year. The Reflector sincerely hopes the governing boards of those two counties will recognize the opportunity which is now knocking. We hope they will be able to see it is a wise move for the four-county airport to be carried through to completion rather than wrecked.

The time for procrastination is past. By their actions this week the commissioners of those two counties can either allow the project to continue, or they can kill it. If they kill it, it will be killed not only for Wilson and Nash Counties, but for Pitt and Edgecombe Counties and the cities of Wilson, Greenville, Rocky Mount and Tarboro as well.

COLFAK, CALIF. RECORD: "There are many . . . who constantly resolve to improve their minds by reading intelligently written books, in the hope that they will become better equipped to understand the many issues that crowd upon them as they try to keep pace with this modern world. . . . The Bible has long been recognized as pre-eminent in the field of . . . improving human beings. It might be a good idea, then, for all of us to give a little more diligent study to the great truths that are set out in the Book of Books."

MOUND, MINN. MINNETONKA PILOT: "The United States, down to the tiniest hamlet . . . is in the process of finding itself amidst a gigantic threshold—one foot firmly planted in the old system of free enterprise and the other about to sink in the mire of socialism."

VERSAILLES, KY. WOODFORD SUN: "As we read on and on about union demands for 'fringe' benefits, paid vacations, shorter work weeks, guaranteed annual wages—in short, more and more for less and less—it is downright refreshing to be reassured now and then that the rank and file of American workers are truly interested in their jobs."

TALLASSEE, ALA. TRIBUNE: "There's one thing for sure, we are well versed in the 'give and take' field—take from the taxpayers and give to the world."

Egypt Wants No Major War

by a foreign power. The British will staff the area with technicians garbed as civilians. But they, and of course, the Americans, will be permitted to move in and use this only great armament and repair center in the whole of the Middle East, if Moscow or Peiping should threaten to invade this territory.

According to the pact England may occupy the base for seven years. The Egyptians refer to the seven years as the "period of availability." However, the important thing is the reaching of an agreement to keep this area out of Red's hands. Egypt would not be able to stop the Communists, but she is willing to furnish all possible assistance.

A GOOD LESSON—Secretary Dulles and his worldwide diplomatic staff could, and probably have, derived useful information from this Suez Canal trading technique.

The Britishers' experience in this line explains why they were able to hold their Empire together for so many years. American impetuosity, under Roosevelt and Truman, according to this viewpoint, helped to create political, economic and diplomatic chaos out here.

Asians, Orientals and South Americans—in fact, all the on-the-fence nations—do not like to be pushed, forced or prodded into doing anything, even when it is for their own good. They are a slow, leisurely, philosophic people.

Our airplane, for instance, arrived at the Cairo Airport at 5:30 one morning after a grueling two-day-and-night trip via Shannon, Ireland, Paris, Rome and Athens. There was nothing we needed so much as a bath and fresh clothes. But our bags did not reach the Semiramis Hotel, five miles from the airport, until almost noon. We had to stay unwashed and uncomfortable.

The Egyptians, and they are representative of the Arab world, do not appreciate the Eisenhower-Dulles ultimatum of "massive retaliation," or our demands for new anti-Russian alliances, like that proposed for Southeast Asia.

A flat and expansive area extremely vulnerable to air and armored attack, as Rommel demonstrated when he almost reached the gates of Alexandria, some 180 miles northwest of Cairo, they want no part in another world war.

Business Today Four-Day Week Soon

By ELMER ROESSNER
Let's scare the living daylights out of the reactionaries today by talking about the four-day week. It's coming. Fast.

As a wild guess: A number of union contracts will provide for a four-day week by 1959 and by July 29, 1964, barring war, more than half the factory employees of the country will be on that schedule.

One of the reasons for expecting the four-day week is that it is almost here anyhow. Many unions already have contracts providing for from 35 to 38 hours a week. It won't be too hard to persuade an employer to change from five seven-and-a-half-hour days to four nine-hour-twenty-minute days. Then the pressure will be to bring the work-day down to nine, then eight and a half and eventually eight hours.

Another reason is the prospect in automation. There's a tremendous trend to more automatic machinery in manufacturing. The pushbutton factory isn't here yet, but some of the more modern plants are pretty close to it. Spending for plants and equipment is scheduled to set a new high this year, largely because so many industries are investing heavily in automatic machines and structures designed for greater efficiency.

Another reason is the prospect of a vastly greater supply of power from nuclear fission, power that can replace men.

And the most persuasive reason of all is the coming change in population. In the 1960's, those bumper crops of postwar babies are going to pour into the labor market. Three million new job seekers a year are going to demand places on payrolls, for year after year. And the number leaving the labor force because of death or retirement will be comparatively small. Even without automation and vast new supplies of energy it might be necessary to cut the work week just to divide the work. And with those resources, a four-day week is a certainty. In fact, what's coming may be the three-day work week.

NEW ENGLAND TOPS . . . IN DEPARTMENTAL SALES. . . As far as department store sales are concerned, the Boston Federal Reserve District is the bright spot of the nation.

Sales from January 1 to mid-July have been 1 per cent higher than in the same period in 1953. Federal Reserve figures show. No other district registered an increase, although the New York and Minneapolis districts held even. Steepest dips were the Philadelphia and Cleveland districts, each down 6 per cent.

PENMANSHIP COURSE . . . CUTS ERRORS IN DIGITS. . . Penmanship says, Minneapolis-Honeywell put on a course for employees of its industrial division in Philadelphia, with emphasis on figures. According to C.L. Scheetz, training director, among those who took the course there was a 20 per cent increase in the speed of recognition of numbers, a 9 per cent improvement in accuracy, and a 6 per cent gain in legibility of the handwriting itself.

Since errors in figures can be expensive, the company plans to repeat the course.

FALL IN HEMP PRICES . . . MAY CURB PRODUCTION. . . Prices for hemp, the favorite material for rope making, have been drifting downward and have touched the lowest point in years. The decline, down to lows of 15 cents a pound for some grades, have been so discouraging that it may not pay to harvest crops in the Philippines one of the principal sources of supply.

Prices of other hard fibers—sisal, henequen and abaca—have also weakened.

Preparation Needed Whether Or Not There Is Conflict

By ROGER W. BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass.—Readers have been disturbed by General Lindbergh's important article in the July 17th issue of the SATURDAY EVENING POST. The gist of the Lindbergh article is that the H-Bomb is bringing about a new era in world history against which it will be almost impossible for any country to protect itself. This means that unless the United States is willing to start a surprise World War III, our only chance is to have such elaborate powers for retaliation that no other country will dare start one. This will mean continued high taxes until a revolution in Russia or something unforeseen happens.

WHAT LINDBERGH'S THEORY MAY MEAN

Although my organizations are not authorities on military affairs, we do know world history. Certainly conditions today are very similar to what they were 500 years ago. Any reader can check this by studying H.G. Wells' OUTLINE OF HISTORY, or Munro's THE MIDDLE AGES, or books on the Reformation and European Revolutions.

As was the case around 1450, the power of the established Churches today has distinctly weakened. The rulers of the Western Nations have today become timid, while the Russians are trying to absorb other nations—repeating the pattern of 500 years ago.

H-BOMBS VERSUS MOVABLE TYPE

History shows similar conditions existed when printing became powerful in 1450. This, like the H-Bomb, became a threat to the entrenched rich political Kingdoms. The Church and Kings fought by legislation, persecution and wars; but the rise of the masses could not be stopped. The printed word became more powerful than the sword. Reforms, revolutions, and headings followed. The discovery of the H-Bomb is unsettling civilization today as did the birth of printing in 1450.

WHAT ABOUT CAPITALISM?

Naturally we do not want to see entrenched capitalism collapse as did entrenched monarchism. We now use legislation, submit to high taxes, and endure small wars to protect our way of life, as these same methods were practiced 500 years ago to protect established monarchism.

Could it be that the fear of the H-Bomb will become as powerful as was the fear of printed books 500 years ago?

For the long pull, I am an optimist. I don't believe in the Lindbergh Retaliation Theory. I, how-

N.C. Educational Facilities Need Further Expansions

By LYNN NISBET
GREENSBORO — The two big State educational institutions located here told the Advisory Budget Commission they need about two and a half million dollars each for permanent improvements, additions and betterments during the next two years.

A. & T. — Agricultural and Technical College, the State's largest grant college for Negroes, has almost completed the expansion program begun in 1947 and requiring expenditure of about $10 million. For many years prior to that period the college had been neglected and more money was required to bring it up to comparable standard with other institutions.

President F.D. Bluford said all the facilities are being used to maximum capacity, many of them already overcrowded. For the continuation of the college program the primary need is for a student union building and equipment at an estimated cost of $700,000, and engineering buildings and equipment approximating $450,000. Dr. Bluford said majority of the graduates of his school go into agriculture or home economics teaching or as county farm and home agents.

The saturation point in these fields is being approached, if indeed it has already been reached. Fewer jobs are available in the general teaching profession also.

Here, as at Winston-Salem College, serious thought is being given to changing emphasis to nurse training for women. To effectuate tentative plans in that direction request was made for $949,522 for a nurses' residence

Ecclesiastical Hobo 'At Home'

By HAL BOYLE
PINE RIDGE, S.D. (AP) — "I always like the spirit of these people."

In this simple sentence the Rev. Stephen E. McNamara, who calls himself an "ecclesiastical hobo," sums up 30 years of service to the American Indians.

To thousands of Indians here on the largest reservation of the Sioux nation, the Jesuit priest, now in his 80th year, is known as "Sins Sapa" or "Black Blanket," from the color of his cassock. Others affectionately call him "the Father from the Blue Cloudland."

For more than a quarter of a century "Father Mac" has baptized them, married them and buried them. In the Holy Rosary Mission School he has labored mightily to teach their children white man's lore to make them self-sufficient, the love of God to make them happy.

Like most people who come to know American Indians well, Father Mac has a deep respect for them and a protective feeling toward them.

His fine blue eyes harden and an indignant note creeps into his soft voice when he speaks of those he feels expect the Indians to progress at a rate beyond their ability.

"No people in all history have moved up from a savage status to modern civilization in one generation," he said. "It will take time."

"It seems to me it is the policy of the government now to write them off, and they are not ready yet. It will be a long time before the Indian will be able to compete on equal terms in the white man's world, particularly the way the white man's world is going now."

"Why, there are still Indians alive who virtually were born in

WOMAN'S COLLEGE

The Woman's College of the University, the biggest college exclusively for women in the United States and still growing, is having trouble keeping facilities up to demand. Allocations for improvements since 1947 aggregate $7,652,000.

Chancellor E.K. Graham reported urgent need for about two and a quarter millions more to take care of the student body expected next year and thereafter. One illustration is the swimming pool. Built 30 years ago for a student body of 800, and when swimming was far less important as recreation than it is now, cannot accommodate 2400 students, much less afford the facilities for vocational teaching in life saving and other courses.

The largest item in the continuing program is a dormitory estimated to cost over a million dollars. Perhaps the most urgent need is for protective fencing of Peabody Park, the wooded area lying between West Market street and the dormitories. Night prowlers are becoming a serious problem. And the wilderness is unsightly. Plans call for a direct entrance to the campus from the highway and additional landscaping and re-arrangement of some drives. This is a relatively small item in dollar and cents value, but is desperately needed to protect the girls who live on the campus.

President Graham was more appreciative, at least he was more vocative in expressing appreciation, for what the State has done for the college in the past. He added, however, that having been such a good institution the obligation to maintain it was apparent. The idea expressed here is similar to that at all the State educational institutions. There must be additional facilities to accommodate the increasing number of applicants for college training, or hundreds of students must be told there is no room for them.

Dowser Thinks Unexplained Talent Worth Investigating

KENNEBUNKPORT, Maine—A noted author and a sun-browned man of the outdoors who talks to the forked twig wants to solve the world's drinking water shortage. Kenneth Roberts, who has written many popular historical novels, has directed operations of Water Unlimited here for five years. Henry Gross, a retired Maine game warden, handles the dowsing rod.

Their activities and claims have brought a storm of skepticism and criticism from geologists and scientists.

"They think we're crazy," Roberts says. "But they won't look at us. We've been turning up water all over the United States."

Roberts agrees with geologists and engineers that the extra sense he claims for a good dowser is wholly fantastic and unexplainable. "We only disagree when (they) contend that it cannot exist and therefore should not be investigated and put to use."

Roberts has written two books about water dowsing.

A dowsing rod in the hands of a competent dowser, only works on flowing underground water, he says. This excludes motionless deposits, such as are punctured by artesian wells. It means underground rivers, sheets, veins and domes.

The rod, Roberts claims points not only to water veins and domes over which the dowser is standing, but to water sources at great distances from the dowser.

Gross, who travels 50,000 miles a year, doesn't like to search for water by remote control—from maps and charts, but it was on a map that Gross located three wells in Bermuda, where thirsty folk, including U. S. Air Force men, drank stored rain or imported water. The latest success reported was finding water from a scale map for a scientist—G. Preston Hoff of Wilmington, Del., and E.L. du Pont de Nemours chemist.

It's pretty difficult, Roberts says, to estimate the percentage of failures.

"Probably 8 per cent of wells, sunk, dug or drilled on our say so have not produced water in the desired amount. We found that when Henry's rod points to flowing underground water, the water is always there; but circumstances may seem to show that it isn't."

Water-seeking at a Torrington Conn., school site, he said, would have been "a monumental failure if we hadn't insisted that the well be surged—or washed out under pressure." This cleaned crevices of cement-like drilled rod dust, and the well was a success.

Any kind of small, forked, branch will do for a dowsing rod, says the gray-haired, strong-handed Gross. He also says he can use a forked piece of wire or blade of grass. As Gross bends over a map or chart or stands on his searching ground, Roberts asks the questions, which Henry repeats, as if to the rod:

"Now, Henry," Roberts asks, "in what direction is the nearest vein?"

Henry turns until the rod plunges. Roberts asks about domes, width, flow—more than a score of questions. As the rod dips, Henry answers. "For hundreds of years, Roberts says, 'minor scientists' have attacked water dowsers, heaping curses on their heads and accusing them of every imaginable form of demonology and witchcraft.

"I have never ceased to marvel at the peculiar and unexplained timidity that leads so many people to try to conceal the fact that they have been to us for help."

He has a letter from an Air Force man undergoing treatment in a neuro-psychiatric ward in a base hospital. This man also is a dowser.

The medicos, he said, were "so damned prejudiced that they believe that mere interest in the subject is sufficient to question a person's sanity," the letter says.

ON THE HOUSE

How to judge and buy lumber is a knack the do-it-yourself handy man might master if he had college degrees in forestry, engineering and architecture—plus a lot of practical experience in the use of lumber.

But cheer up. There are short cuts. One is to buy cheap grades of lumber for unimportant or inconspicuous places, such as sheathing, fences, box making and all rough work. Another is to take the advice of a reliable lumber dealer in your own community. Getting and keeping customers are uppermost rules for him.

The easiest thing to do is to tell your lumber dealer what you want lumber for and how you plan to finish it. Walk in and ask for "a board" and you have the dealer in about the same quandry as a butcher when a bride asks for a pound of meat.

For instance, if you want to put up a shelf, you really need wood that combines stiffness with good finishing qualities—lumber that is relatively free from pitch and warp. Do you plan a natural finish—something to match natural interior trim? Then you can use ash, birch, maple, or walnut.

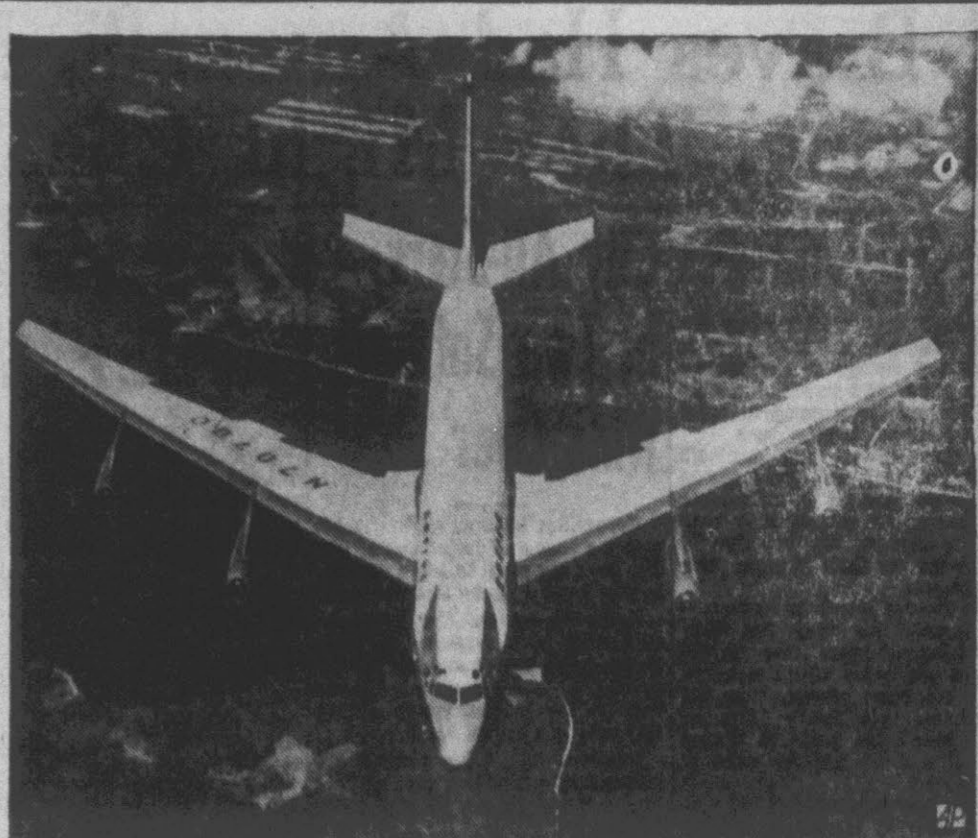

On the other hand, you may want what is called a high-class paint finish. Leading this list are ponderosa pine, northern or western white pine and sugar pine. Still cypress, redwood and yellow poplar will also be suitable for such a finish, although their use is more limited.

If you haven't made up your mind as to natural or paint finishes, you'll find that Douglas fir, hemlocks, western larch, southern yellow pine, spruce, white fir, basswood or chestnut will fill that bill.

This sounds pretty complicated and it is. The U. S. Department of Agriculture says grade C or better should be used for shelves to receive a high-class paint or enamel. Grade D is considered serviceable, "but may entail some waste."

Shelving left unpainted or to be given only a rough paint finish calls for No. 1 or No. 2 lumber. No. 3 can be serviceable, "especially when cut into short lengths, but may entail some waste."

Isn't it simpler to ask the lumberman? When you go into a lumber yard and ask for "a board" of a certain size, chances are you'll get ponderosa pine—and because of its

Party Of Colony Is 'Taken Over'

BOMBAY, India (AP)—Nationalists took over another chunk of Portuguese India yesterday, marching 3,000-strong into the little town of Selvassa, 100 miles north of Bombay.

Reports reaching here said the pro-Indian group, spearheaded by the nationalist Goan People's party, overwhelmed the town's police and seized their arms.

Selvassa, a town of 5,000, is headquarters of the Portuguese colonial district of Nagar Aveli. Nationalists seized six other villages in the district last Thursday.

India demands that the Portuguese pull out of their small holdings on the subcontinent, but Portugal has refused to discuss the issue.

The American buffalo (bison), often thought of as western animals, once ranged as far east as the Carolinas.

Krishna Menon Playing Strange Role In India

By HAROLD K. MILKS
NEW DELHI (AP)—Gaunt Vengall Krishna Menon today is Prime Minister Nehru's closest adviser and confidant on world affairs, a position from which he wields unmeasured power.

The diplomat one Indian newspaper described as "astemious, saturnine and cadaverous" plays to Nehru much the same role Harry Hopkins held in the government of Franklin D. Roosevelt during the early war years.

Without a formal assignment from the Indian government, Menon went uninvited to the Geneva conference on Indochina. Associates said Nehru had given him, as head of India's delegation to the United Nations, permission to "stop off in Geneva and report."

Menon, jumping from Asia to Europe to New York and back again to Geneva, won the ear of leaders on both sides of the Iron Curtain. He whispered, advised, conferred—and reported back to Nehru.

He apparently arranged the Chou En-lai visit to India, sold the idea to both Nehru and the Chinese Communist leader, then planned the suggestion which resulted in Nehru's arranging an invitation for Chou to stop over in Burma en route to Peiping.

Fellow officials in the Indian government are nearly unanimous in their dislike—and fear—of Krishna Menon. It is no secret that Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, white head of a U.N. delegation including Menon, fought bitterly with him and attempted unsuccessfully to persuade her Prime Minister brother to remove him.

There have been other critics of this Indian with burning intense eyes and a secretive manner. Even Cabinet ministers have challenged his actions, complained to Nehru of his "dangerous views." But in each case the Prime Minister has sharply checked these criticisms with rebukes to those who made them.

Menon has made himself a major figure who has access to top diplomats of both East and West—even those who don't like him. He achieved this position primarily by his efforts to mediate the Korean dispute. But he is equally active on most other major problems.

Menon actually has little success at the U.N. in getting most of his proposals accepted. But the prisoner-of-war provisions of the Korean armistice agreement followed closely the formula he submitted to the General Assembly late in 1953, and it was this issue that had held up the armistice.

Krishna Menon, born into a substantial North Malabar family of South India, was in his youth a Boy Scout leader. He went to London in 1924 as a student under the late Prof. Harold Laski at the London School of Economics and remained nearly 25 years, eking out an uncertain existence as a teacher, writer, and publisher of paperback novels.

In London he founded the India League in 1928, led it into a "united front" which included British Communists during the days be-

Catering Service Pleases Airmen

ENID, Okla. (AP)—A GI's dream—waitresses dressed in trim, white uniforms—greeted Vance Air Force Base airmen as they went to chow this morning.

It was only the second day of the Air Force's experiment at turning kitchen police duty over to a catering service. But the trial, due to continue for 11 months, was immediately pronounced a tremendous success.

"Everyone was very enthusiastic, especially the enlisted men who ordinarily pull KP every 15 or 20 days," said Lt. Joseph A. Hays, public information officer. "The girls loved it too."

Sharon Ruch, a stenographer for the catering firm who helped in the kitchen the first day, said she liked it so well she's thinking of discarding her typewriter for an apron.

"The girls were overwhelmed by the reception," said Jack McGaha, southwest division manager for the Nationwide Food Service, Inc., of Chicago.

Asked if there was any chow-line firing he replied: "Yes, there was some of that going on—you know soldiers." Here's what the men thought of girl KPs.

"It's more appetizing—the food, I mean."

"They can feed me dog food now and I wouldn't know the difference."

"It's better than eating in a restaurant. The only difference is you walk out without paying."

Cafeteria style still prevails. But instead of the old trays where the gravy slopped over on the apple pie, good chinaware is used. The girls clean off the tables too.

"Everyone was very enthusiastic, especially the enlisted men who ordinarily pull KP every 15 or 20 days," said Lt. Joseph A. Hays, public information officer.

Believe Frogman Stole Motor

BRISTOL, R. I. (AP)—Rhode Island conservation officers today were searching for a "frogman" motor; they use to chase law-breaking shell fishermen.

Walter Kenyon, skipper of the State Patrol Boat, said only a "frogman," equipped with aqua lung and webbed flippers on his feet, could have cut their boat loose from its moorings Saturday night.

The boat was found yesterday without its motor valued at more than $400.

P. C. A.—What is it?

Have you seen this chart before? You have if you've been to RIDGEWAY'S OPTICIANS recently, for it's one of the famous Prosopic Chromatic Analysis charts, which RIDGEWAY'S expert opticians use to prescribe glasses frames to make you more beautiful. The chart is worked out on the basis of the perfect face. Perfect symmetry, with all features of correct size and proportion to each other. Unfortunately, few of us can claim a perfect face. Some have big noses, receding chins, too high foreheads, eyes too small for the face, and other unflattering features. All these things are taken into consideration when RIDGEWAY'S OPTICIANS analyze your face. They consider every little detail and then prescribe a style frame that will actually make you more glamorous with glasses.

You were without them! You ask, "How is this possible?" It's possible because their frames are designed to camouflage your bad features by playing up your good ones. They add special ornamentation at the bridge of the frame, at the temples, or wherever necessary to draw attention away from a bad feature to play up a pleasing one. Prosopic Analysis is the most revolutionary thing that's happened to glasses in years! And RIDGEWAY'S have it exclusively in Raleigh, Greenville, Greensboro, and Charlotte. Visit them this week, Ground Floor of the Professional Bldg. in Raleigh.

If Braves Had Antonelli, Plus Their Hitting, They Might Clinch Pennant

By JACK HAND
Where would the Milwaukee Braves be today if they still had Johnny Antonelli?

Although they traded away the young lefty who has turned out to be the top pitcher in the majors with a gaudy 16-2 record, the slug-ging Braves are a positive factor in the National League race.

All that hitting, and Antonelli too, might very well have meant a sure-fire pennant in Milwaukee this season. Of course, they may make it anyhow, the way they've been going on their 10-game winning streak.

The Braves can't be criticized too harshly for they felt they needed long-distance power in the outfield and could afford to sacrifice a front-line pitcher. How did they know that Bobby Thomson would break his ankle in spring training and be lost for most of the season?

Yesterday Antonelli ran his winning streak to 11, longest of the season in either league, as the New York Giants roughed up Cincinnati 9-4 in the first game of a double-header. The Giants also won the second game 5-0 on Jim Hearn's six-hitter to pull 5 1/2 games ahead of Brooklyn.

Milwaukee put the slug on Dodge pitching for their second 19-hit day in succession and a 14-6 romp, moving within four games of Brooklyn.

Joe Adcock, who hit four homers Saturday at Brooklyn, was hit on the head by reliever Clem Labine in the fourth inning after being knocked down by Russ Meyer earlier in the game. He was not seriously injured because he wore a metal protector inside his cap.

The three top teams in the American League—Cleveland, New York and Chicago—kept in step by winning double-headers. Consequently, the end of the day found them in the same position, the Indians leading the Yankees by 3 1/2 games and Chicago by seven.

Cleveland knocked over Washington 3-1, for early Wynn's 15th victory, and 5-4 on Hal Newhouse's decisive single. The Yanks had trouble in Baltimore but won 8-6 and 2-1, using a total of seven pitchers, including Eddie Lopat and Allie Reynolds on relief. Chicago swept a pair from the feeble Philadelphia A's 6-5 and 13-1 with Virgil Trucks winning No. 15 in the finale.

Ted Williams who hit a single, 420-foot double and his 18th homer in Boston's 10-8 victory over Detroit.

Curt Simmons boosted the Phillies within half a game of the first division in the National with an 8-3 triumph over St. Louis. Richie Ashburn chipped in with two singles and a double as the Phils chased Ralph Beard and piled up a 7-1 early lead.

Pittsburgh managed its first shutout of the year when Dick Littlefield blanked Chicago on three hits 2-0. The Cubs came back to win the second game 12-2, Dave Cole threw a two-hitter.

In Brooklyn, after Adcock had been hit, Jackie Robinson was knocked down by Gene Conley's first pitch in the sixth and Duke Snider was hit by a pitched ball in the seventh.

Mathews hit his 28th homer and Bill Bruton and Del Crandall also homered for the Braves. Gil Hodges Snider and Robinson homered for Brooklyn.

Dusty Rhodes again came to the rescue of the Giants when he batted for Antonelli with the score tied at 3-3 in the seventh inning of the opener and hit a two-run homer. His triple helped the Giants score three in the first inning of the second game to give Hearn a cushion.

Wynn struck out nine for Cleveland while winning his fifth straight but Mike Garcia needed help in the second. Newhouse's single off Bob Porterfield won the game after Vic Werter's homer tied the score.

Tom Morgan and Johnny Sain had all they could do to hold off Baltimore after Harry Byrd was knocked out in the first Yankee game. Yogi Berra had four hits and Gene Woodling hit three homers. Ralph Brancaccio, Brooklyn and Detroit castoff, made his first start for New York in the second, retiring because of wildness in the fifth. Martin Stuart, wop on relief, with Lopat and Reynolds to mop up.

Marion Pricano of the A's bailed third wild and hit a batsman as Chicago scored three runs in the seventh inning of the first game at Chicago. The second was easy with Trucks pitching three-hit ball for eight innings until he tired and Harry Dorish finished.

Ulrich To Spend KC Open Prize Money At Home
KANSAS CITY — Snubbing Wally Ulrich of Rochester, Minn., had his first major golf tournament prize — $4,000 — today and he knew "just what to do with the money."

Ulrich, former national intercollegiate champion and once second in the Canadian Open, won the $30,000 Kansas City Open with a record-breaking 24-under-par 268 for 72 holes. He shot a final round 66, seven strokes under par, yesterday.

Edged out the veteran Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., and young Gene Littler, each with 270s, on the Blue Hills Country Club course. "I can spend that money at home," Wally confided. "I have a 5-year-old son Jimmie, and a 6-month-old daughter Barbara, plus the Missus. After all I haven't been picking up the big stuff like Mangrum and some of the boys week after week."

City All-Stars In Two Softball Wins Over Foe

Greenville All-Star softball team pulled a couple of games out of the fire Saturday night to win a double-header from a Rocky Mount team.

Greenville on the first game in 12 innings by a 3-2 score on Tom Boyd's home run in the last of the twelfth. L. E. Johnson went all the way on the mound, giving up six hits over the entire route.

Roberson and Coley pitched for Rocky Mount. The pair gave up five hits and struck out 18 Greenville batters.

Greenville scored twice in the fourth but Rose homered in the fifth for Rocky Mount. An error and Roberson's hit brought across another run in the fifth.

That was all the scoring until Boyd's hit in the twelfth. The second game was a five inning affair by mutual agreement. Greenville scored twice in the fifth on successive hits by McDowell, Scott, and Heidenreich.

Gordon pitched shutout ball, giving up five hits. Coley went all the way striking out seven Greenville batters but weakening enough in the fifth to allow the runs.

Harold Johnson Figures He'll Be Archie's Downfall

By JACK HAND
(For Gayle Talbot)

NEW YORK — At the risk of disclosing a well-kept secret, it can be safely reported that Harold Johnson finally is going to get a chance at Archie Moore's light heavyweight title Aug. 11 at Madison Square Garden.

In fact, Johnson thinks he's going to lift the crown off Archie's ancient head despite the 2 1/2-1 odds against him.

Johnson should be an authority on Moore for they fought four times before Moore won the championship. Although Archie holds a 3-1 edge, the challenger is surprisingly optimistic.

He ain't getting no younger," said Johnson, who will be 26 Aug. 9, and I'm more experienced." Before the Childs Harold could elaborate, he was interrupted by Pete Moran, one of the many men associated in his management.

He was only a baby when he fought Moore the first time," said Moran.

It turned out that Johnson was only 20 when he lost to Archie in Philadelphia April 26, 1949. He lost another 10-round decision to him Sept. 24, 1951, but beat him at Milwaukee Dec. 10 of the same year. Moore won again Jan. 29, 1952, at Toledo and then settled down to a career of boxing Joey Maxim.

One of the factors most encouraging to Johnson is the fact Moore, officially 31, weighed 189 1/2 for his most recent bout less than two months ago.

I don't see how a man can come down from 189 to 175 (the light heavy limit) without being a little weak. I don't weigh 189 fully dressed, with an overcoat on."

This young Philadelphia Negro with the shaven head can be called a hungry fighter" with no exaggeration. The best purse he ever got in his 33 fights (won 48, lost 5) was about $5,000. Back in '46 he got exactly $37 for his first fight after getting out of the Navy.

Trabert Holidays Following Upset
SOUTH ORANGE, N. J. — The Eastern Grass Courts Tennis Championships start at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club here today without top-seeded Tony Trabert of Cincinnati.

Trabert took off yesterday for Salt Lake City and a two-week vacation from big-time tennis after his upset by Eddie Moylan of Trenton 3-6, 7-5, 8-6 in Saturday's semifinals of the Meadow Club Tournament at Southampton, N. Y. The national champion is suffering from a blistered racket hand.

Moylan, who beat Billy Talbert to win the Southampton finals 6-0, 6-2, 6-4, faces William Quillian of Seattle today. Quillian also is fresh from the Southampton matches.

Unpredictable Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., is the second-seeded player among the 63 American entries. He lost the Pennsylvania Grass Court final to Vic Seixas. A shoulder injury will keep Seixas, ranked second in the nation, out of singles play.

Joe Adcock Cool Over 'Beaning'

By ED CORRIGAN
BROOKLYN (AP) — "It's all part of the game, I guess," Joe Adcock sighed before heading for Ebbets Field and another joust with the Brooklyn Dodgers. "I'm not mad at anybody."

Adcock was talking about his narrow escape yesterday when he was beaned by Clem Labine. The slugging Milwaukee Braves' first baseman, who broke a hatful of records Saturday when he hit four home runs and a double, was carried from the field practically unconscious after being hit.

"When a fellow throws me high and tight, I don't mind," Adcock continued. "I can duck that kind of pitch. But when he throws behind your head, I think he means business. But what's there to be mad about? I'm just out there to make a living."

The beaming almost precipitated a full-scale riot when charged and countercharged were hurried between the two teams.

Jackie Robinson and Lew Burdette of the Braves came closest to getting into a fight and had to be separated by players and umpires. While Adcock was on the ground, the Braves began accusing Labine of throwing the beanball on purpose.

Addressing a remark to Burdette Robinson said: "That was only an accident and you know it. You're a fine one to complain about beanballs. You throw at practically everyone."

Then they went at it. "Can you imagine that Burdette?" Robinson said indignantly later. "I was watching Ed-Ed-Mathews out of one eye, though. I thought he'd try to sneak one in."

Labine, for his part denied trying to hit Adcock. "I wasn't trying to hit him in the head. That goes without saying, doesn't it? I was only trying to brush him back. Instead of twisting back, he actually ducked into the pitch."

Only the fact that he was wearing a protective plastic helmet the type pioneered by Branch Rickey kept Adcock from being injured seriously, according to Dr. Eugene Zorn, the Braves' team doctor. No X-rays were taken and Adcock had nothing more than a slight headache.

The Braves won the game 14-6.

Greenville Little Leagues Play In Tournament Today

Falkland Takes Two Triumphs Over Pinetops

FALKLAND—Falkland continued its winning ways in the Tobacco Belt League by blasting Pinetops 15-3 and 14-0 in a pair of games over the weekend.

In Pinetops Saturday the Falkland nine scored in every inning but the first to win handily 15-3. This game lasted only seven innings by agreement. Coming to Falkland Sunday the local nine won its 12th straight home game by winning 14-0.

Ralph Caldwell, on the mound for Falkland for the first time this year, pitched the win Saturday as he allowed only three hits. Walks kept Caldwell in trouble throughout the game.

Sunday, pitcher Ken Hall allowed only four hits in winning again. He has lost only one game this year. In the game Saturday every Falkland player with the exception of catcher Mark Stancill joined in the 17 hit barrage. Every player except two got two hits. This included rightfielder Tom Hamill who entered the game in the fourth inning, replacing Hall.

No Pinetops batter got more than one hit. Caldwell struck out five batters. Jefferson was the losing pitcher.

In the game Sunday every Falkland player except Paul Jones got a hit. Ralph Caldwell, with three for six, led the hitting.

Hall struck out five and allowed no walks in gaining the win Sunday.

Clubs Asked To Stage Tourneys

LEXINGTON, N. C. (AP)—Carolina golf clubs are being asked to stage blind bogey tournaments this weekend with proceeds to be divided between the Professional Golfer's Assn. relief fund and state Junior Chamber of Commerce organizations.

Dugan Aycock president of the Carolina section of the PGA, said the tournaments will be co-sponsored by the two groups. He said the Jaycees will use their half to defray expenses of golf teams of the Carolinas to the National Jaycee Tournament in Albuquerque, N.M.

On a regulation baseball diamond, the pitcher's box is 60 feet 6 inches from home plate.

Play Tonight

Action in the Softball tournament and Pony League regular season continues tonight at Guy Smith Stadium with the softball game starting at 7:30 and the Pony League game at 7:45.

In the Softball tourney the Southern Bread takes on Carolina Dairies. If the Bread wins then a second game will have to be played since it is a double elimination tourney. The Southern Bread team has already lost one game in the tourney while the Dairy team is undefeated.

In Pony League play the National Guard and the Fordemats tangle.

Greenville Man Fires First Ace

Everybody has that dream come true in life, or has something happen to him that seems out of this world. Ask Mr. Willard T. Kyzer what was his dream come true and he'll probably go back to that 125-yard No. 3 hole at the Greenville Country Club.

Saturday afternoon Mr. Kyzer used a five iron and sank a hole-in-one while playing in a foursome with Donald Tucker, Jim Alexander, and Tom Wilson.

Kyzer has been playing golf for almost 25 years now and that was the first ace he has ever shot.

Golfers Begin Seek Berths In Tam O'Shanter

CHICAGO (AP)—Field-narrowing formalities preliminary to this week's "All-American" Golf Tournament at Tam O'Shanter Country Club begin today as men and women amateurs seek berths in the tourney proper.

Some 200 men amateurs tee off in search of the 16 places open in the men's division. Forty-two women vie for the eight berths open in the women's division.

Eight players in each of the amateur divisions have been exempted from the qualifying.

Following today's amateur run, some 300 men professionals shoot Tuesday and Wednesday for 60 berths in the pro field.

The "All-American" begins Thursday and ends Sunday, with men and women amateurs and men and women pros all swinging simultaneously.

It is a sort of warmup for the "World Championships" at Tam Aug. 12-15—also played in four divisions.

Coaches Neely James and R. B. Starling sent their Little League all-stars into the first round of the Little League tournament today at 5 o'clock with the winner taking on the all-stars team from Williamston tomorrow.

The Tar Heel squad has been established a slight favorite although Coach James repeatedly admits that neither team is outstanding over the other. "The team that gets the breaks will win," is the way the Tar Heel coach predicts the game.

Coach Starling of the North State squad believes the team that gets the best pitching will win. Coach Starling has several fine chunkers on his squad. He announced he would start one of the following three, Charles Puryear, Burton Jenkins, or Buddy Murray.

Coach James has a power-packed line-up. Although his league had four no-hitters pitched in it there are still plenty of good hitters. Seven of the Tar Heel batters are hitting over 400 while only three of the North State League hitters could break the 400 circle.

The Tar Heel League also has some right dependable hurlers. Merrill Bynum is the best of the lot without a doubt, with his fast ball and curve that looks like it is falling off a table. Billy Jenkins is a fast ball and curve ball exponent. Jenkins won six games without a loss during the regular season play. Bill Clapp is the other probable hurler. Clapp has a blazing fast ball, a down-breaking curve and a drop. When his control is right Clapp is hard to beat.

With Williamston coming up tomorrow either league would be taking a chance to pitch two of their best hurlers today. Williamston will have its two ace pitchers waiting for the Tuesday game.

The Williamston game will be played at Elm Street Park at 1 o'clock.

Canton Coach Is Added To Staff At Wake Forest

WAKE FOREST, N. C. (AP)—Wake Forest College has reached to the western North Carolina mountains for the latest addition to its football coaching staff.

Don Hipps, head football coach and athletic director at Canton High, was named assistant football coach at the Baptist institution yesterday.

Hipps, 31, succeeds Pat Preston, who was named Wake Forest athletic director after James Weaver resigned. Preston said Hipps probably also would serve as wrestling coach for Wake Forest.

Hipps takes over his new duties Aug. 9. He played football for Wake Forest before and after the war and for the past five years has been coach at Canton where his teams have been consistent winners.

JOHNNY SAIN

THE YANKEES

VETERAN RELIEF ACE HAS KEPT THE CLUB IN THE RACE

O.K. - BUT THIS IS THE FINAL SEASON - POSITELY!!

THE YANKEES WOULD SAIN BACK TO HELP THEM IN THEIR BID FOR A SIXTH STRAIGHT REVENANT - WITH AN ASSIST FROM HIS AUTO COMPANY

THE ONLY PATCHES HE WILL MAKE UPON HIS AUTO WILL BE SELL AUTOBOSLES

There was nothing new about the situation that caused Manager Casey Stengel to give Johnny Sain the signal to come in and take over the pitching chores: for the thirtieth time this season. Bob Wiesler, young Yankee southpaw, was leading the Baltimore Orioles, 2-1, but with two out in the top half of the eighth inning he had loaded the bases. Jim Fridley was scheduled to bat next but Manager Jimmy Dykes promptly substituted left-handed hitting Clint Courtney when Sain came in. Sain disposed of Courtney, making him foul out to Catcher Yogi Berra, and thus put out the fire. The Yankees picked up another run on Irv Noren's homer in the bottom half of the eighth, and then Sain set the Orioles down in order to save the game for Wiesler.

In his first 30 appearances this season, Sain either protected the lead successfully or helped win 24 of the contests. His record showed four victories and two defeats but that hardly tells the story of his importance to the Yankees. Without the services of the 36-year-old right hander, the Yankees would hardly be pressing the Cleveland Indians for the lead in the pennant chase.

Sain stubbornly resisted all efforts to lure him back for the current season after he had announced his retirement in favor of the automobile business. Actually, the Yankees managed to get him only through intercession with his auto company. But that arrangement is for this year only, and Johnny insists he won't be pitching next year no matter what they offer him. And that's final!

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

THE CHIEF engineer slammed into the office. He was a big man. I got up and closed the door after him.

"Now you . . ." he snarled. Two fast steps took him to Grenier's desk and both heavy hands reached across for the old man. I jabbed a hard fist in his short ribs. The unexpected jolt straightened him up. He turned, and his mouth gaped.

"Keep your hands in your pockets, chief," I said. "You're in enough trouble as it is."

The chief glared at me stupidly for a moment, then whirled back to Grenier. "Who is this punk? Did you . . ."

"Be quiet, chief," Grenier said crisply. "This is very important. Your man Sessions may be a dangerous criminal. We must know . . ."

"Sessions? That kid?" The chief was contemptuous. "He's a little punk I picked up for apprentice wiper, but he couldn't stand the gaff so he quit. A dangerous criminal, huh!" He leaned over the desk, tapped a broad forefinger at Grenier's chest. "You know what's wrong with you? You're a . . ."

I turned my right shoulder into the chief and leaned my weight on him, staggering him away from the desk. His finger stabbed again at empty air and his booming voice dwindled in surprise.

"Stop poking the purser," I said easily. "You need all the friends you can get. What did Sessions . . ."

"Be sensible, chief," Grenier snapped. "Please answer and stop that snarling."

The chief drew a slow breath. "Twice you started something," he said to me. "Passenger or no passenger . . ."

I sat down and grinned at him. "What did Sessions look like?" The chief's frown remained firm but his eyes wavered. He turned to Grenier. "Who is this . . .?" His thumb poked toward me.

"A detective," Grenier said. "Sure," the chief breathed. "A cop. Pushing people . . ."

"What did Sessions look like?" I said again.

"A kid," the chief said. "Hundred and 50, maybe. Less'n six feet, maybe five 10. Brown hair. Pale skin. Just a kid. Scared to speak to anybody. Had a soft way of talking, like he was scared all the time. Seventeen years old. High school . . ."

"You knew him? Before you . . ."

hired him, I mean?" "Never saw him," the chief answered. "He was hanging around the dock in Cincy. Steward hired him to load supplies. He kept pestering me for a job, but I didn't have anything till the last day when one of my boys went sick . . ."

"Did Sessions have any references or . . ."

"Letter," the chief said. "Recommendation from the manager of the Netherland Plaza hotel. Said he was a good kid, high school graduate. Worked in the boiler room at the hotel, hopped bells. Seemed okay to me, so I put him on when . . ."

"The letter said he was 17?" "That's right."

The chief shrugged. "He looked like a kid, acted like one. No confidence."

"Sure," I said. "What if you found out he was 24? Could you believe that?"

The chief said: "Uh, maybe. I guess so. Kid never said much. Just acted young and sorta scared."

I nodded slowly and felt slightly sick thinking about it. "Did you really work him hard enough to make him quit because he couldn't stand it?"

"Some kids quit right off," the chief said. "It ain't rare. No, I wouldn't say it was that rough. It's hard getting used to the hours for some of them, but the work ain't much."

"Maybe the regular hands pushed him around a bit?" "Could be, sure. A new hand takes his lumps."

"What about his luggage? Clothes and personal things?" "Gone," the chief said. "All he had was a little ditty bag. He musta carried it off under his coat."

"He have permission to go ashore?" "Sure. He was off duty. But Sessions wasn't no dangerous criminal. He was just a good, clean kid, kinda scared."

"So is the man I want," I said flatly. "But he killed a cop."

"But you don't know that Sessions . . ."

"No, I don't," I said. "Did you keep that recommendation he showed you?"

"Don't remember," the chief said. "Maybe I did."

"Ordinary hotel letterhead?" I asked. "Or did it say 'Office of the Manager' or something like that?"

"No, just ordinary stuff, I . . ."

guess." "Paper that anyone could have picked up to write a letter," I said almost to myself. "Take a room there, rent a typewriter, use the paper furnished by the hotel and you've got your letter. Seems like a pretty flimsy kind of recommendation. Didn't you . . ."

"We hire through the main office usually," Grenier broke in. "But each department is authorized to hire temporary people as need arises. We never bother much with references then."

"Okay," I said slowly. "That's that. Maybe it was Stewart, maybe not."

The chief towered over me. "I been sensible like you wanted, eh? I answered all the questions?"

"Yes, chief," I said. Thanks." The burly engineer stamped out of the office.

Stewart must have had a good reason for scheduling his trip on the Dixie Dandy in the first place. What if he was supposed to meet someone on board? Someone like . . ."

And then there was the "Get Off" warning someone had left for me last night. Someone who . . ."

And Doc Riggs was prowling the deck early this morning, according to Russell. What for? To find Stewart and warn him I was on board? To see whether I got off? Or just an early morning constitutional? I had to find out.

Outside the light had faded to a deep gray and the wind had come up again. Dark and cold and 6 o'clock of a winter's evening, Doc Riggs would be sitting in the bar. I held out my hand toward Grenier. "I just found your passkey," I said. "As soon as I realized what it was, I brought it right up here. That was about 6:30 tonight, wasn't it?"

"Was it?" Grenier said, staring at my open palm. Do you . . . I mean, what do you want, Mr. Wilde?"

"I want to find your passkey for about half an hour, Mr. Grenier. I have to visit a friend. You don't really want to know any more about it, do you?"

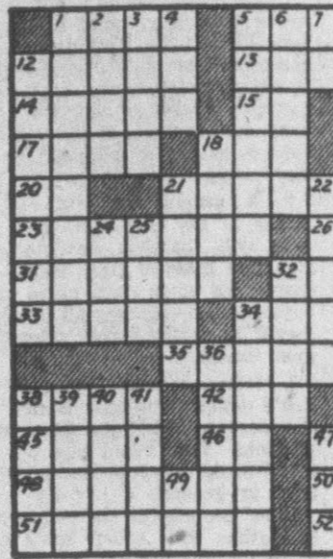

"No," he said. He brought out the dull brass key from his desk drawer. "I wonder why I am willing to trust you so much, Mr. Wilde?"

"I'm very grateful, sir," I said sincerely. "I'll be fast and careful. And no one will see your key."

Doc had bedroom six, exactly below mine and just across from Miss Pomeroy's. I tapped on the door, just in case. Then I unlocked it and stepped inside quickly. The room was dark. I didn't like to turn on the lights, but it was light or open curtains. I flipped the switch. Doc's was a twin-bed room, but except for that it was much the same as mine.

Japanese House Preceded Ranch Style

Steel Business Slow, But Gain Expected In Fall

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW By FAGALY and SHORTEN

ORIENTAL KITCHEN... Japanese housewife of three centuries ago cooked on this igloo-type stove. Today's Japanese kitchen is modern.

JAPAN IN NEW YORK... Visitors flock to view the 16th century Japanese house on display in Museum of Modern Art. Style suggests modern ranch house. Architect Junzo Yoshimura stands at far right.

By JOY MILLER

Japanese dwellings are easy on the spirit, hard on the knees and a sure preventive for claustrophobia, if the house on display in New York's Museum of Modern Art is typical.

The one-story house looks like the Oriental grandfather of the modern American ranch-type. Its architect, Juno Yoshimura, says:

"Actually, if you remove the detail, the principle is the same." This similarity to Western architecture is the reason it was chosen by the museum for display in its garden until the middle of October. Starting with Frank Lloyd Wright, American architects have been increasingly aware of Japanese ideas of open interiors, plain surfaces and skeleton frame construction.

The house, based on 16th and 17th century Japanese architecture, is basically the same type being built now—although contemporary styles are greatly simplified and the lumber is not of the same high quality.

Built in Nagoya, Japan, and shipped in more than 600 crates, the exhibit house was reassembled in New York by Yoshimura and the four workmen he brought with him from Japan.

Now, visitors—a thousand upward daily—exchange their shoes for paper sandals in the entrance hall and tread gingerly over hie rice-straw mats in the bare rooms or sit on the broad veranda overlooking Japanese gardens.

When you come upon the house, the first thing you notice is the massive curved roof of reddish-brown Japanese cypress bark, supported by isolated columns of cypress. You run a hand over the blond wood, planned to an almost unbelievable smoothness. Yoshimura says the polished effect is accomplished by the Japanese plane, a handleless tool that the workman pulls toward him instead of pushing away.

The walls do not support the roof but are hung like curtains on the framework. They are sliding screens of paper or wood, with an infrequent thin wall of plaster. Consequently the house is open, light and flexible—convertible from five rooms into one to dispel that hemmed-in feeling that is probably purely Occidental anyway.

There is no furniture, except for five square orange cushions on the floor in the main room and built-in desk and cupboards. Bedding (which is carried to any room in

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Steel executives today sound optimistic—although their business is unusually slow even for July.

Steel shares are bid up on the Stock Exchange—although steel reasons for their confidence that ago generally, and new orders aren't crowding steel mill books.

Why? Steel spokesmen cite these reasons for their confidence that fall will see a pick-up:

1. Business couldn't get much worse than it is now. Buying in June to beat the steel price boost borrowed from July business. Never before have so many steel-using factories closed in July for vacations and never have the closings been so long. Business must go up, they argue.
2. A general business pick-up seems in the cards for fall, and steel will share it. Inventories—including those of steel users—are down and when steel users start buying again (perhaps all at once) they'll be paying higher prices for their metal.
3. Many believe that the nation's defense spending is due for an increase after the November elections. This would pep up the metal-working industries and business in general.

Guns popping in the China Sea strengthen these beliefs. Some now argue that the Indochina truce may turn out to be increasing Far East tension rather than allaying it. Unfriendly forces face each other from Japan to Singapore and trigger fingers sometimes get nervous.

The President's decision to hike the Swiss watch tariff is even used in this argument. The decision stressed this nation's need, in un- easy times, to strengthen the domestic watch industry because precision instruments are essential for war.

And steelmen note an increasing amount of worrying in this country about our Allies' attitudes and increasing talk of the need to be prepared to go it alone militarily if necessary.

All of this leads some to believe that defense orders will be stepped up after the elections.

The Iron Age, the metalworking industry's weekly, says editorially today, in listing its reasons for believing that steel business is due for a boost: "If we are going to be tough and draw a line in Asia and Europe we will have to have more for defense than we are now spending."

Benjamin F. Fairless, chairman of U.S. steel, lists some other reasons why he expects steel business to turn the corner late next month:

The auto industry will start buying steel again when it goes into production this fall on the new models. The program for building grain storage bins will mean more buying of galvanized sheets. Even the demand for steel from the railroads may pick up soon, he hopes. And the construction industry, steel's busiest customer at present, seems assured of continued high activity for months ahead.

The current picture isn't that rosy. Steel production this week is using only two-thirds of industry capacity. Steelmen stress, however

Requisites Outlined For 'Sweet Sixties'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

In case you're worrying about aging gracefully, the current issue of a popular fashion magazine can provide you with the most specific road-map to later life you can imagine.

It seems that there's a real way of life for "any woman verging on 60 who wants to be attractive." It involves such niceties and fine points as moving in a cloud of perfume, maintaining a flower fragrance in the living room, having the linen closet smell "crisp and delicious," wearing close-fingered gloves, carrying a fan in summer and showing a preference for face-vels.

A few other requisites for the good later life, according to the magazine, include playing good bridge, keeping the back hair neat, paying bills promptly and giving small and lively dinner parties.

The perfect woman of an uncertain age should possess good walking shoes but otherwise wear close-toed opera pumps, avoid the sun and keep her upper arms covered at any cost, be an attentive listener with a deep respect for the intelligence of American businessmen.

She should possess a "timeless wit," but carefully avoid being typed or dated and never indulge in sarcasm. She also should have a new coiffure sometime within the 10 years before she hits that fatal birthday. Everybody from old beaux to people she has met all over the world should look her up.

Fresh water is pumped into ships at the rate of 1,000 gallons per minute at the North Carolina State Ports.

Claim Strafing

LONDON (AP)—Poland has charged U.S. fighters with strafing two Polish merchant ships off Hainan Island on July 24.

That was the day after two U.S. Navy pilots shot down two Chinese Communist planes which attacked them south of Red-held Hainan, off the Indochina coast, as the Americans searched for survivors from a downed British airliner.

A Warsaw radio broadcast, heard in London yesterday, said a note protesting the alleged strafing had been handed to the U.S. Embassy in the Polish capital.

The two ships were identified as the 7,836-ton Bratstvo and the 4,959-ton Pokoj.

The broadcast said Poland had demanded punishment of those responsible for the alleged attack and that measures be taken to prevent a repetition.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Demand for aircrafts turned the stock market upward today though price changes were generally small.

Steels and motors were also active but irregular. Chemicals and distillers found ready buyers. Utilities held firm but railroads eased. Trading was moderately active.

Missouri Pacific preferred opened up 3/4 points at 51 1/4 on a block of 4,700 shares. During the session, however, the gain diminished. After the close of the market last week, the Interstate Commerce Commission approved a new reorganization plan for the bankrupt road.

Along with the aircrafts, General Dynamics was a strong issue. The company expects to participate in both the government's aircraft and shipbuilding programs, which will be stepped-up according to a statement by Commerce Secretary Weeks during the week-end.

Others showing gains included Youngstown Steel, U.S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, Galt, Martin, Fairchild Engine, United Aircraft, Schenley, National Distillers, Phillips, National Telephone, Con Edison, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse, Sinclair Oil, Texas Co. and Loew's.

Slightly lower were Republic Steel, Chrysler, Goodrich, Caterpillar, Radio Corp., American Smelting, International Telephone, New York Central, Southern Railway, Pennsylvania Railroad, Jersey Standard and Pan-American Airways.

Plan Supervise Indochina Truce

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The Indochina truce commission worked today on plans to begin at least token supervision in the Far East battleground by Aug. 11, the date on which the cease-fire becomes finally effective over the whole country.

Representatives of the three nations on the armistice group—India, Canada and Poland—agreed at an initial organization meeting here yesterday to send a 13-man advance party to Indochina within a week.

The cease-fire became effective in North Viet Nam last Tuesday and in central Viet Nam yesterday. It will spread to Laos on Aug. 6, Cambodia the next day and will take effect in South Viet Nam—the rest of the country—on Aug. 11.

Inaugurating the commission's first meeting, Indian Prime Minister Nehru told the representatives of Canada and Poland he doubted "whether we can really start functioning adequately" by the final cease-fire date on which the Geneva agreement provides the group is to begin its work. But "it may be possible to start functioning in a formal way by sending somebody there," Nehru added.

Minor Damage In Sunday Accident

Minor damage was done to two vehicles when they collided at the corner of Boyd and Dickinson Avenues about 8:15 p.m. Sunday night.

The autos were being operated by Elizabeth Johnson of Pikeville Route 1 and David Daniels of 713 Roosevelt Avenue.

The accident was investigated by Patrolman R. B. Elks and damage to the two cars amounted to approximately $30. No charges were placed.

Ingrid Bergman To Stay Abroad

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Ingrid Bergman, in Germany to make a film, says she doesn't think she will ever return to Hollywood.

Nobody knows, of course," she said at a reception she and her husband, Italian director Roberto Rossellini, gave for the press last night. But I don't think so now. "I am in Europe and Europe is my home. So it is more natural for me to make European pictures," she said.

Gelatin and glue are closely related substances.

French Release Some Tunisians

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP)—The French freed a number of moderate nationalist leaders from house arrest today in the wake of French Premier Pierre Mendes-France's offer of autonomy for the North African protectorate.

There was no word of any change of status for Habib Bourguiba, top leader of the nationalist Neo-Destour party who has been confined to a farm near Paris. But Bourguiba appealed today for an end to the violence which has killed or wounded many Frenchmen and Tunisians in past months.

It was not announced how many nationalists had been freed. Bourguiba recently estimated 150 to 200 were under some form of detention.

Announcement of the offer of near independence was generally hailed by Tunisian leaders as a step toward complete freedom, but die-hard French colonialists angrily assailed it and some demanded the French National Assembly turn Mendes-France out.

Word of the promise of reform for Tunisia touched off new violence in the sister North African protectorate of Morocco, resulting in the deaths of six persons.

In Tunisia, however there was a lull in violent outbreaks following Mendes-France's offer Saturday to allow formation of an all-Tunisian cabinet. The Premier's proposal would give the Tunisians control of all their own affairs except defense and foreign relations.

Mendes-France warned, however that the killing of Frenchmen in the territory must stop.

Following the French premier's offer, the country's nominal ruler, the Bey of Tunis, began consultations in search of a premier. The name most often mentioned was Tahar Ben Ammar, president of the Chamber of Agriculture. Although not a member of the Neo-Destour, he is reported sympathetic to the faction.

Members of the party are expected to take part in the cabinet.

Peiping Reveals Damaging Flood

TOKYO (AP)—Peiping radio said today "a fierce struggle" is going on between one million peasants and soldiers against raging waters of the flooded Yangtze and Hwai rivers in Communist China.

The Reds said the heaviest rainfall in a century fell in the Yangtze Basin recently and that the great central China river, one of the world's largest has been rising since June.

Lifeguards Busy At N.C. Beaches

WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH, N.C.—Lifeguards hauled in about 60 persons at Wrightsville Beach and Carolina Beach yesterday.

Strong southeast winds and an incoming tide caused rough water and a tricky cross current. That caused about 40 swimmers at Carolina Beach and 20 at Wrightsville Beach to call for help.

Matches for making fire were first made soon after 1830.

Rhee Tells VFW That U. S. Must Someday Fight

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The 55th annual encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars settled down to business sessions today after a memorial service keyed to the national convention took place.

President Symgwan Rhee of Korea who declared the United States must fight the Communists now or later.

Pennsylvania's Gov. John S. Fine in welcoming delegates to the national convention took his cue from Rhee with the statement that America must pull out of a state of indecision.

Fine spoke at today's formal joint opening session of both the VFW encampment and the 41st annual encampment of the VFW Ladies Auxiliary.

The governor termed the Geneva settlement of the French Indochina war a stream-lined, red-geared appeasement.

It is compounded of national compromise and international despair," he asserted.

Rhee last night advised some 5,000 delegates gathered in Philadelphia's Convention Hall that the right course for America is one of firmness, strength and courage.

Then your allies will demonstrate the same qualities, and the enemy will be afraid to attack," he said.

Rhee told his veterans audience quite frankly the United States does not hide its fear" when facing the Russian bear" and this leads to vacillation and a policy of yielding a little here, a little there and still more someplace else.

Rhee said this resulted in a fluctuating policy" and that the free nations of the world, which look to the U.S. for leadership begin to lose confidence in America and to lose hope of saving freedom.

He told the VFW its most important task is to persuade the people of the United States that we must fight the Communists now or later and that the longer we wait the greater the odds against us.

Rhee said total victory was within the grasp of the United Nations in Korea but fear of world war three" kept UN troops from crossing the Yalu River into Communist China.

Last Rites Sunday For William Nannie

Funeral services for William Ransom Nannie, 89, were held from the Greenville Funeral Home, Sunday at 4 p.m.

Rev. L. B. Manning assisted by Rev. R. B. Crawford officiated. Interment followed in the Hollywood Cemetery at Farmville.

Mr. Nannie was born in Halifax County in 1831 he was married to Lizzie Freeman. He was engaged in farming until 1938 and since that time he has been in grocery business. He was a member of the Free Will Baptist Church of King's Cross Roads.

Surviving in addition to his wife are one daughter, Mrs. Blanche King of Farmville; one stepdaughter, Mrs. Carrie Webber of Farmville; one grand child, four great grandchildren, one great great grandchild.

Matches for making fire were first made soon after 1830.

Sees Admission Bullying Failed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Under Secretary of State Walter Bedell Smith says the "new soft line" of Russia and Red China is an admission that their "openly bullying tactics of the past" have failed.

What the Communists are really trying to do by their overtures toward America's allies, Smith said in a television interview last night, is to weaken the free world's solidarity and particularly to "isolate" the United States.

He said he had seen no signs the Communist nations are ready to "settle down as peaceful members of society."

Bigger Deductions For Medical Expenses Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—If medical expenses are taking more than an incidental bite out of your pocketbook, you may get some help from another source: an income tax cut.

Bigger deductions for medical expenses starting last Jan. 1 included in the giant tax revision bill just passed by Congress. They will show up in your 1954 income tax return.

Under the new law you may deduct from your income, before figuring your tax, medical expenses above 3 per cent of your income. It was 5 per cent under the old law.

But there's another provision that may trim your benefits somewhat. Under the old law, all outlays for drugs and medicines were included as medical expenses. Under the new law you can count only those drugs and medicines which exceed 1 per cent of your income.

And remember you don't get any deductions for medical expenses unless you itemize all your deductions. You won't benefit if you take the standard deduction of 10 per cent of your income, which the government offers gratis to most taxpayers.

Because of the medical allowance and others, you may find you will benefit by listing your deductions next year although in the past you have been taking the automatic 10 per cent deduction.

Another change would be an especially big help if you run into really extraordinary medical expenses. Under the old law the maximum medical deduction was $1,250 per person, for yourself or your dependents, or up to $5,000 for a family. The new law doubles the maximum deductions to $2,500 per person and $10,000 for a family.

Here are typical examples of how the change from 5 to 3 per cent would work: If your income is $5,000, you now can deduct allowable medical expenses that run above $150. Under the old law, you could deduct only those expenses above $250.

If your medical costs were actually $200, you could deduct $50 under the new law but nothing under the old law. If your expenses were $250 or more, you could deduct an extra $100 under the new law.

At the minimum 20 per cent tax rate, the extra $100 deduction would amount to a tax cut of $20. Your tax reduction would be greater if you are above the minimum bracket, or if your medical expenses were above the old maximum deductions.

N.C. Is Allotted Extra Amount Of Gamma Globulin

RALEIGH (AP)—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has allotted $411,445 worth of gamma globulin—an antipolio serum—to North Carolina for 1954.

Dr. Fred T. Foard, director of the State Board of Health's epidemiology division, announced the figure over the weekend.

At the same time, State March of Dimes Chairman Thad Eure announced the appointment of five additional county chairmen for an emergency March of Dimes drive the last two weeks of this month.

The National Foundation is trying to raise an additional 2 million dollars.

New county chairmen are Hoke County Sheriff D. H. Hodgins of Raeford; Muri L. Huggins, Boger City, for Lincoln; A. E. Watson of Lumberton, for Robeson; R. E. Yongue Jr., Laurinburg, for Scotland; and A. B. Carter, Mount Airy, for Surry.

The blink of a human eye can last as long as half a second.

Deadline Saturday For Getting Festival Booths

Saturday is the deadline for obtaining booths for the forthcoming Tobacco Festival Aug. 12. Chairman of the Festival Bill Watson urges all persons or groups interested in having a booth to contact Ford McGowan at 4151 before Saturday.

Layout of the local celebration has been released by Watson, and shows all activities taking place in the downtown area this year. Booths will be located from Second Street to Fifth, between Washington and Cotanche.

Will Seek Views On Asiatic Pact

COLOMBO Ceylon (AP)—Ceylon's Premier, Sir John Kotelawala, said today he will summon the five Colombo powers to sound out their views on Britain's invitation to attend talks in September on a Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

Kotelawala said the prime ministers of Ceylon, Burma, India, Indonesia and Pakistan—would meet in Rangoon to discuss the merits of SEATO.

An informed source said India's Prime Minister Nehru already has advised Kotelawala that he probably will not attend the conference proposed by British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

Little Rain For Greenville Area

The Greenville area had a storm Sunday about supertime with considerable thunder and lightning and some wind, but less than one-tenth of an inch of rain fell.

The highest temperature here yesterday was 95 degrees. Lowest last night 69, and at 8 a.m. today it was 72.

Yesterday a year ago, the highest temperature here was 97 degrees. Lowest that night 74, and at 8 a.m. next day it was 81.

Today one year ago, the temperature rose to the century mark, and no rain fell here that day, the local U. S. Weather Station reported.
