Bethel Rotarians Hear Adjuster

BETHEL—At the Bethel Rotary Club's supper meeting here last Tuesday night, J. Roy Martin of Greenville, guest speaker, discussed the important job of adjusting insurance claims.

He recounted some of the years he spent in Bethel before going to Greenville in 1936 to carry on the insurance adjustment business. He explained the duties of three types of adjusters. First, he said, there's the company staff adjuster, and then the independent adjuster, and then the hail adjuster or adjuster of growing crops.

Martin recalled that when he started in the adjustment business it was necessary to have a state license for each insurance company represented. This condition prevailed until State Sen. S. O. Worthington of Greenville had a bill passed in the General Assembly requiring only one license to do business as an insurance adjuster.

The speaker paid tribute to the N. C. State Insurance Department, especially to Commissioner Waldo C. Cheek and those responsible for streamlining the department.

Rotarian S. C. Ives, Sr., was program chairman and introduced the speaker. President J. C. Wynne, Jr., presided. L. W. Hill of Tarboro, and Wilbur Ballinger were guests of the club.

C-Of-C Endeavors To Bring In New Industry

(This article on the activity of the local Chamber of Commerce as concerns industry in this area is the third in a series on the Greenville Chamber's work.)

"Industrial activities of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce are primarily to assist established industry to succeed, and to locate in the community adapted new industry and distribution plants to provide employment for its citizens," declares S. Reynolds May, chairman of the Chamber's Industrial Committee.

May explained one of the hardest jobs the Chamber under-takes is the location of new plants. This, he said, is due to the number of factors affecting the location of industry and the competition of other communities.

According to an industrial location engineer, the average is one plant located for every 100 prospects handled. "To date Greenville's record has been better than the average," May said.

Works With State Bureau In its efforts to locate new industry the Chamber works closely with the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development, industrial engineers and the industrial departments of the two railroads serving the community.

In working with industrial prospects it prepares brochures and briefs giving facts on the city, which are considered in the location of industry.

The organization also makes surveys to obtain specific information requested by the prospects, locates and prepares detailed descriptions of plant sites and obtains estimates on the cost of plant construction and the available labor supply.

Organized Greenville Industries Among the various industrial projects undertaken by the Chamber Industries, an organization to construct buildings for lease to adapted industry.

The plant now owned by Greenville Full Fashion Hosiery Company was constructed by Greenville Industries.

Among its other industrial activities, the Chamber of Commerce was instrumental in the decision of the National Carbon Company to locate a Thermo-plastic plant here during World War II.

Following the National Carbon purchased the property, increased materially in size and is now producing flashlight batteries.

Locates Industries Here With the help of the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development the local Chamber located the American Lady Corset Company in the Greenville Spinners building. This plant was liquidated in 1950.

Again with the assistance of the Department of Conservation and Development, the building was then leased to Greenville Mills for the manufacture of carpet yarns for Artloom Carpet Company of Philadelphia. The capacity of this plant was increased approximately 25 per cent in 1953, May reported.

During the war the Chamber obtained space in one of the tobacco warehouses for a camouflage plant which operated during the market's off season months, using principally Negro labor.

Helps Solve Problems During the war years, the Chamber also aided local industries in their labor and materials priorities problems before the War manpower Commission and War Production Board. Through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce the receiving plant of the Norfolk Tallow Company was located in the county. Also several small industries which are now operating successfully were aided by the local Chamber in making their decisions to locate here.

To assure industry and business of adequate water and electric power the Chamber endorsed and supported bond issues for the expansion of the municipal water and power plants and it supported the Commission in effecting a reciprocal electric power contract with Virginia Electric and Power Company.

Chairman May revealed the Industrial Committee handles approximately 25 prospects per year, mails information to many more in an effort to interest them in Greenville, and provides the Department of Conservation and Development and the industrial departments of the railroads with brochures and sites descriptions, as well as descriptions of buildings available for business or small industries.

Whisky-Fed Fire Damage May Run To $4 Millions

PEKIN, Ill. (AP) — Flames licked close to whisky-packed rackhouses at the American Distilling Co. plant today where 110,000 barrels of aging whisky have gone up in seething flame and shattering explosion since yesterday morning.

At least one person has been killed seven are missing and feared dead under smouldering debris and more than 30 have been injured.

The continuing fire, capped by a dazzling, nighttime, atomic-like explosion seen 75 miles away, destroyed much of the company's sprawling plant facilities in this central Illinois city.

Damage already is well into the millions of dollars.

The explosion last night lifted the roof and walls of one rackhouse—a six story brick building—high into the air. The debris rained down on firemen and plant workers fighting to halt the fierce, whisky-fed blaze touched off 17 hours earlier during a severe electrical storm.

Bricks buried two fire trucks and a fire chief's car. Firemen who were drawing their water from the Illinois River and reportedly handicapped by a lack of sufficient pressure, were ordered to retreat a quarter of a mile because of the threat of new explosions.

The fire yesterday morning consumed two 8-story rackhouses where whisky is stored in barrels for aging and a 4-story brick customs storage house. Some 42,000 barrels of whisky went up in this fire.

Firemen from Peoria and a half dozen adjoining communities, worked from 2:30 a.m. to extinguish the blaze.

But at 7:30 p.m. rackhouse E containing 68,000 barrels of whisky, exploded with a blinding flash. Lawrence Nervear, 39, a plant employee was killed by falling bricks.

Frank Drury, Peoria city commissioner, who was standing near the rackhouse said:

"There was a big flash and I went down into the water and muck. When I came to, rocks, fire and timber were falling on my legs." He was bruised.

The dull red glow of the explosion was seen in Springfield, 75 miles south of Peoria. The blast bulged plate glass windows in and then out a mile away from the plant.

Four more rackhouses containing thousands of barrels of whisky extend in a straight line from rackhouse E and one fireman expressed fear they may "go down like dominoes."

William H. Damour, 48, firm treasurer who suffered a head injury and was brought to Peoria Hospital, said he couldn't even make a guess at the extent of damage with the blaze still burning.

However, office manager Al Weston estimated the damage in the morning fire at 3 1/2 to 4 million dollars.

The distillery, which employs up to 700 persons, closed down July 1 and only a skeleton crew was on duty in the rackhouses.

Stricken When Stopped By Cop

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — A traffic officer stopped Rudolph Goebel's car after a traffic rule infraction and asked for Goebel's driver's license.

While the officer was looking at it yesterday, Goebel 57, slumped over the steering wheel. He was pronounced dead at a hospital.

A System That's Long Been Needed

The best proposal we've heard yet for determining in what order secondary roads in a county should be paved has been made by Highway Commissioner Maynard Hicks and approved by the County Commissioners of all eight counties in the Second Division.

Logical Role For Our Air Force

Designation of the Air Force to head up the newly-designated Continental Air Defense Command is a most logical step toward channeling the efforts of safeguarding American shores.

The wonder is that an over-all system had not been previously invoked. There was the Navy, with very clear ideas as to how they would go about defending our shores; the Army had its scattering of coastal defensive works, radar outposts and anti-aircraft batteries; the Air Force (fully as independent as the others) with its planes patrolling the Far North and various stages of "alert" at the nation's nerve centers.

Establishment of a centralized warning and defense authority necessarily followed development of new weapons and increased forces. As we said before, though, the wonder is that such action has not been previously taken.

Strength for the Day

There is never such a thing as unhappiness apart from selfishness. When you are unhappy, either you yourself have been selfish or somebody else has been selfish. Usually it is you.

You may not agree with this statement. But let us consider another, along with it. The disposition of all of us is to blame other people for our trouble. Somebody did us dirt. Somebody has cheated us, or been mean with us. Try as we will, most of us cannot get away from the disposition to project our troubles to other people and other things.

Remember in diagnosing a difficulty to probe down and get selfishness out first. If you do, you

Voice Of America Reactions

By RAY TUCKER
This is the fourth article by Ray Tucker from Egypt.

CAIRO—The "Voice of America" is extremely efficient or incredibly stupid in selling our foreign aims and policy in this strategic section of the world, depending on the viewpoint of the individuals questioned on the result of its operations.

In one instance, they happen to be American businessmen, foreign officials and newspaper correspondents—there are 50 writers here from almost every nation, including Russia—who are keenly interested in the success or failure of our efforts in this line because of their friendship for or their dislike of us.

During the fatal Austrian floods several weeks ago, American and Russian soldiers co-operated in rebuilding dikes and rescuing beleaguered natives. It merit system, and each road will be allotted the number of points it receives in the evaluation.

There are two principal reasons for the adoption of this new merit system, in our opinion: 1. Highway officials and County Commissioners readily admit the method by which roads have been given priorities for paving has been, at best, a hit and miss proposition.

2. The sharp curtailment of funds available for paving secondary roads since funds from the $200,000,000 bond issue have been spent makes it imperative that the limited funds for this purpose be spent on only the most important unpaved roads.

Under the merit system, each unpaved road will be evaluated on the basis of so many points for the number of houses on the road divided by the number of miles of road; the number of churches, the number of schools, the traffic count of road, the number of school bus trips over the road daily, the number of mail routes using the road and the number of stores and filling stations on the road. Also the road's value as a connecting link between other paved roads and other factors will be taken into consideration in determining the importance of the road.

Every unpaved road will be evaluated on the same basis under the merit system. Every individual citizen who lives on an unpaved road can see how his road stacks up in importance compared with other unpaved roads.

Use of the merit system will afford highway officials and County Commissioners a sound basis on which to determine what unpaved roads are most important and which should be paved first.

The Reflector feels the merit system will give the people of each county of the Second Division the greatest possible benefit from the funds available for paving secondary roads. We likewise feel the other highway divisions of the state should adopt a similar concrete, uniform method for determining the relative importance of each unpaved road.

perhaps, the first time that they joined hands since they celebrated the death and defeat of Hitler. FEARED CRITICISM—Every newspaper in the world front-paged this picture of Russo-American humanitarianism, with two exceptions. One was the Malenkov organ, Pravda, in Moscow, and the other was the Vienna newspaper published and sponsored by the Voice of America. The editors of the latter were apparently afraid that Senator "Joe" McCarthy would accuse them of "fraternizing with the Comies" and drag them before his Committee.

TOURIST POLICE—The Egyptian government has a system and service of hospitality for foreign tourists which the United States might well duplicate. It is known as the "Tourist Police Force" and it has increased tremendously under the Naguib-Nasser revolutionary regime, which invites overseas visitors and capital. The Tourist Police's sole function is to make travel and life in Egypt easy and pleasant for outsiders. They act as guides, nurses, advisers on customs and currency, and they will even take an American to shop for the purchase of unique Egyptian goods, which may be mainly costume jewelry. They wear spotless white uniforms, all 167 of them. The majority are officers, selected for their personalities and education. These Egyptians speak French and English. They are authorities on Old and New Egypt—the land of Caesar and Cleopatra, and of Naguib and Nasser. They are stationed at every point of interest to a tourist, from Alexandria to Port Said on the Suez Canal. That world traveler, Vice-President Nixon, might sell the idea to Ike.

How To Start An Argument

Somebody Told Me At Nags Head For A Weekend

After wondering all of my life what Nags Head is like, I answered the question last weekend. Wife Rachel and I took the trip with W. R.'s brother, a former Greenville resident you probably remember: Dick Fleming. Dick and his wife, Jean, are living in Elizabeth City where he is in the office machine business.

The most surprising fact about Nags Head is the vastness of it. Being more familiar with Morehead, the beach at Nags Head seemed endless. It's actually 30 miles long. Motor courts? Why, that place looks like the thick part of Highway 301 when it comes to motor courts. There are plenty of transit beachcombers there, coming in from Virginia and close-by towns in Eastern Carolina. Plenty of cottages there, too, but in contrast with Morehead there's 10 times as much accommodation for tourists. How costly is it? We paid $8 a night for a double room in a comfortable motel. The Lost Colony didn't fit our schedule and everybody has seen it but me. But Saturday and Sunday on the beach we seemed to be in the area where the performers were. It was like being in Hollywood except the performers didn't have the big names. They looked and acted like famous Hollywood talent, however. There was one particular character who delighted in doing hand stands. What is it about show people that makes them act so different from ordinary people? The beach itself? From the impression I got last weekend, Morehead has the edge as far as the physical characteristics of the beach itself. The sand was blowing almost enough to sting. And how about that water that's famous for being so cold? If you've heard about it you wouldn't be surprised. As Dick Fleming says, "There's just one way," and he takes a running dive all at once. If you try to wade in gradually it's easy to get discouraged. Rough? You said it. Dick and I decided to swim out to a sand bar, half way there held a conference and decided to come back.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

SENATOR ERVIN SPEAKS OUT (Rocky Mount Telegram) While we are disappointed in Senator Ervin's timidity about joining the bipartisan Senate effort to censure Senator McCarthy, we are in hearty agreement with his first major address on foreign and domestic affairs. Speaking before the Young Democratic rally at Hickory last weekend, Senator Ervin roundly criticized the administration's foreign policy. No irresponsible partisan attack, the Senator spoke the confusions and worries of many Americans of both parties. Who can disagree with the validity of these words? "The White House says one thing, the State Department says another, Vice President Nixon says another, and Senate Majority Leader Knowland says another. All are riding in the back seat and letting the foreign policy run itself."

er. All are riding in the back seat and letting the foreign policy run itself." Senator Ervin had some sound criticism of the administration's Defense program: "Since he (Eisenhower) has become President, he has cut five billion dollars from the armed forces appropriations and has asked for three divisions to be taken out of the Army. . . . In light of the present world situation this didn't seem to be advisable." He said a corporal would have known better. On the domestic front the freshman Senator also made plenty of sense: "What was creeping Socialism to the Republicans in October, 1952 turned out to be galloping Republicanism." Confirming his own belief in private enterprise, the middle-of-the-road Ervin said "the government ought not to do for the people what they cannot do for themselves." The Senator cited social security, the rural electrification program, minimum wage legislation and federal depository insurance as some of the substantial legislation of the previous Democratic administrations and examples of the sort of government action which he approved. We think Senator Ervin has performed a service in making known his views on these important issues. We must say we agree with his position. If the Senator will muster the necessary courage to vote what must be his convictions and conscience in matters such as the censure of Senator McCarthy we will then know we have a real man and a new leader in Washington.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET GREENVILLE — East Carolina College, sometimes called the "Eastern University" has the largest enrollment and the most diversified curriculum of any State supported college outside the University system. With 2355 students accepted for this fall, about 500 increase within three years, the enrollment is almost equal to UNC Woman's College at Greensboro.

The campus proper contains 92 acres in the eastern edge of the city of Greenville. The old campus is crowded with buildings and further expansion must be across US 264 on a tract purchased three or four years ago and selected as the site for two new dormitories and an improved athletic field. The budget book carries valuation at $2,873,536; but since 1947 there has been allocated out of appropriations and bond money the sum of $5,880,805 for permanent improvements. The college wants $2,975,500 now, about half of which is for two dormitories for men. Present dormitory rooms can accommodate 1280 students, and rooms are available in the city for about 500. The rest of the students commute from their homes in neighboring communities.

Several hundred applicants were turned down this year because neither dormitory nor classrooms were available for them. The third largest item in current requests is $525,000 for a new classroom building for the science department. When this floor is fully equipped according to plans the college will still have much less space for science than is planned in the proposed new biology building at North Carolina College in Durham—and for more than three times as many students. During the 1953-54 session the breakdown of science students was: Biology 1280; physics 293; geography 1077; chemistry 482. Keeping classrooms and laboratories in use 10 to 12 hours a day still leaves them too crowded for the best results. HISTORY — Established in 1907 as a teacher training college the scope of courses offered has continuously broadened. By 1922 the Bachelor of Arts degree was conferred, and in 1933 Master of Arts degrees were awarded. In 1941 the Bachelor of Science degree was authorized. The Legislature of 1952 deleted the word "teacher" from the corporate name of the college. Despite the broader curriculum approximately half the graduates teach in the public, at least for a year or two after graduation.

There is nothing unique or peculiar about the situation here. It is common among all tax supported institutions—colleges, hospitals and correctional schools. Basically it is the question of whether North Carolina can, or whether it should really try, to provide all the facilities needed by tremendously increasing the taxes collected from the citizens. ELIZABETH CITY — Situated in the extreme northeastern corner of the State and Elizabeth City State Teacher College is a continuing problem. Established in 1891 for the training of Negro elementary teachers, the situation now has an enrollment of 500, of which 112 are from Virginia and two from other States. The property is carried on the budget book at $515,563, but since 1947 there has been appropriated for permanent improvements the sum of $1,770,225. The annual operating budget is about $210,000.

President S.D. Williams says his institution now needs $780,000 more for permanent improvements and $87,000 for additions and betterments. About half the permanent improvement funds would go into a new student union building, and $150,000 for a swimming pool. Next largest item is $90,000 for addition to the library—rated by the budgeters as

Business Today Savings Are Growing

By ELMER ROESSNER Savings keep piling up. During the war years, when there was little to buy, they shot up, hitting a peak of $35.4 billion in 1944. They dropped when autos and other goods came back and, in billions of dollars, were 3.9 in 1947, 10.5 in 1948, 6.7 in 1949 and 11.3 in 1950.

With many major wants filled, they began to rise faster. They totaled 17.7 in 1951, 18.4 in 1952 and 20.0 last year. In the first quarter of this year they were at an annual rate of $20 billion, compared with the rate of $17.7 billion in the same quarter a year ago. Meanwhile, total liquid assets, which are more or less savings, increased $10.3 billion in 1953, about the same rate as in 1952, according to a recent compilation by the Federal Reserve Board. Liquid assets are defined to include currency, bank deposits, savings and loan shares and United States government securities.

This brings total holdings of liquid assets to $79.5 billion in December, 1953. Of this, $78 billion was held by business and the rest by individuals. (While stocks and corporate bonds are usually highly liquid securities, they don't mean much statistically, because they can only be converted into cash by exchanging them for other liquid assets.) Now, a study by the Journal of Commerce, based on the first six months of the year, indicates that new all-time records for total cash savings of individuals, and total cash savings, will be set this year. The rise in deposits in savings and loan associations, mutual savings banks and saving departments of commercial banks alone will gain by $8 billion this year, it calculates. That part of savings put aside by consumers is, in general, money that is not spent on goods and services. Unless tucked away in safe deposit vaults, it is not inactivated; savings institutions put it to work to finance homes, plants, roads and other projects. At the moment, supply appears to exceed demand. Business loans by banks are still under last year's marks, Prentice-Hall says. "Money continues easy and cheap, abroad as well as at home. Interest rates are due to remain at current low levels. Commercial bank rates may even drop a bit in coming months."

Perhaps business ought to get consumers to spend a little more of their money by selling a little more vigorously. ALTERATION CHARGES DON'T ROUT OUT CUSTOMERS Charging for alteration of men's clothing is not driving customers away from eight New York stores, according to the National Retail Dry Goods Association. Of eight department stores checked, six reported that sales of men's clothing had increased from 1 to 17.6 per cent over 1953. A seventh store could not release comparable figures and the eighth reported a drop of 6 per cent, but attributed it to other reasons.

The average alteration charges ranged from $1.40 to $5.30 per customer. And the store with the largest gain—17.6 per cent—was the one that levied the top alteration charge. It also reported the largest income ratio from alteration charges—4.14 per cent of the department total.

Sun Dance Rite And The Sioux

By HAL BOYLE PINE RIDGE, S.D. (AP)—The old Sioux, in the days when they ruled the great plains, had a festival that combined in theme several of the white man's holidays.

standing for purity—were placed in the croch. From them dangled a piece of buffalo robe and a man-shaped figure cut from a piece of buffalo skin, symbolizing the Sioux dependence on the buffalo. The sun dance itself is designed to demonstrate the four great Sioux virtues—bravery, generosity, fortitude and integrity. This year three young braves volunteered for the ordeal. Two were veterans who had pledged themselves to perform a sun dance in gratitude for their safe return from Korea.

It was called the sun dance, and to the Indians it was Christmas, Easter, Thanksgiving, and a family reunion all wrapped in one.

To purify and prepare themselves, the three first took a sweat bath in an "ini", or sweat house, made of willow bows covered with buffalo skins. Steam was provided by pouring water over hot rocks in a pit within the sweat house. The dancers were then painted red for the sun, blue for the sky, yellow for the rocks, green for the earth.

There are plenty of nice eating places there, but none to top Tony's or Capt. Bill's. Night life? We wouldn't know about that, since we didn't look for it. The general conclusion you've guessed. It's a fine place, but for an old Greenville head who's used to Morehead it's hard to compare any place else on an equal basis. Let's give them credit for having the Lost Colony but otherwise stick by Morehead. And I thank you.

Without food or water the three men then danced around the cottonwood tree to the music of beating tom-toms and the eerie, high pitched chants of singers. They danced in turn in the direction of the four winds, pausing only when the tom-tom beaters had to rest. I watched the dance for part of each day, but to me the dance, monotonous in itself, was less interesting than the faces of the old Indians and their squads on the sidelines.

Let's give them credit for having the Lost Colony but otherwise stick by Morehead. And I thank you. JACK EDWARDS

They were a look of mingled pride, mystic exaltation and sadness. To them this was no dance of celebration—it was the pageant of mankind's terrible struggle to survive, a victory of man's spirit over all the enemies he meets in his brief life under a blazing sun. The look on the faces of the young braves in the audience was different. Few seemed stirred by the symbolism of the dance. They were more interested in making eyes at the young Indian maidens. For them the sun dance was just another opportunity for courtship. Frank Fools Crow, who wears long braids as his forefathers did, said sadly: "The young Indians no longer care much for our old customs. This may be our last sun dance."

N. C. Engineers To Scrutinize Civil Defense Plans And Needs

RALEIGH. — Professional Engineers of North Carolina are scheduled to give close scrutiny to Civil Defense plans and requirements during their summer meeting at Ocean Terrace Hotel, Wrightsville Beach, August 13-14, according to information from Earle C. Hubbard, PENC President and General Edward F. Griffin, State Civil Defense Director.

6-Inch Sailfish Caught Off Dare

NAOS HEAD, N. C. — Smallest sailfish landed so far this season off the coast of Dare measured only six inches from tip to tip. So small was the little fish, that it was immediately air-mailed to officials of the American Museum of Natural History in New York, for the ichthyologists who study the migratory and spawning habits of bill fishes to examine. The tiny fish's capture may help prove that sailfish like many other warm water varieties of fishes spawn in coastal waters of North Carolina, probably in the reefs and wrecks near the Continental Shelf.

The little sailfish was actually caught first by a dolphin. Then an angler trolling from aboard the cruiser Sharon Rebecca skippered by Capt. Sam Tillett caught the dolphin. As the dying dolphin flipped about the cockpit of the cruiser it disgorged the 6-inch sailfish which had not been inside the dolphin long enough to lose its shape, nor even its sailfin.

Captain Tillett knew that back in port there would be a person anxious to have the tiny sailfish specimen and that is why when he returned to Oregon Inlet Fishing Center the specimen was turned over to Dare County Tourist Bureau to be airmailed and special delivery to the New York museum. Two years ago Captain Tillett's son Omie made a similar catch, a dolphin which disgorged two tiny sailfish and also a seahorse. The catch two years ago was also caught off Oregon Inlet in about the same area where the perfect little specimen was caught on Monday.

Defense, has set up the program. "Adequate Civil Defense presents a definite challenge to all professions," Professor Rice stated, to medical men and engineers in particular. The doctors are already well prepared to meet their responsibility. And we hope, by acquainting our membership with Civil Defense facts, to integrate the combined professional skill they represent into Civil Defense at all levels. Coordination must be achieved at the earliest possible date." Rice is currently N.G. delegate to the National Society of Professional Engineers, of which PENC is a member.

State Civil Defense Director Griffin commended the proposed plan in a statement calling attention to Professor Rice's wide experience in national defense work. During World War II he directed the educational program of the Navy Diesel School and was instrumental in securing the multi-million dollar School for State College, which was later given to the state for educational and research programs. "His first-hand knowledge of defense planning is a valuable asset to our N.C. Civil Defense," Griffin said.

Keynote speaker for the Wrightsville meeting will be H.L. Aitken, Executive Assistant to Federal Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson, who will address a "kick-off" dinner, opening the convention. He will also participate in a panel meeting Saturday, August 14, with Earl Mader, head of engineering service FDA Region III, Colonel John G. Price USAF, 35th Air Defense Division, Dobbin's Air Force Base, Marietta, Ga., Collin McKinn, N.C. Civil Defense Communications Director and Russell C. Nicholson, Asst. Director of N.C. Civil Defense. PENC president Earle C. Hubbard will preside over the panel session, which is open to all professional men who can attend.

Swimming Pool Sank Into Ground

LONGMEADOW, Mass. (AP)—No-body sank in the swimming pool when the swimming pool sank yesterday. Swimming instructor Vernon Cox guided 20 children out of the pool when he noticed the water begin to "bubble and flutter as if there was terrific pressure." Shortly afterward the pool sank in several feet of earth.

Authorities said the concrete pool was built over the foundation of an old ice plant and there was a filling of loose dirt between the foundation and the bottom of the pool.

No Tax Bill, Man Makes Complaint

LINDEN N.J. (AP)—Stephen Sember was a tax collector's dream come true today. Sember, who lives in a trailer, lodged a formal complaint with the City Council demanding to know why he hasn't been billed for taxes.

Sember said yesterday he had lived in trailer camps in various parts of the country for the past 10 years and always had been obliged—and happy—to pay his taxes.

Why, he asked, should it be any different in Linden? The Council's tax committee promised to look into the matter.

Fifteen Police Confronted Boy

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Nine-year-old Charles Tiger got locked inside of a big wholesale food warehouse last night and accidentally tripped a burglar alarm. He crawled out from behind a packing crate to find 15 policemen facing him with guns drawn.

"You caught me," he said. "Bet'cha can't catch the other six guys who are in here with me." A systematic search of the warehouse, lasting 45 minutes, produced no one. Officers decided to talk to Charley again. The youngster broke down. "Ain't nobody here but me."

Kefauver Faces Big Primary Test Today

By ED OVERHOLSER NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver, whose endless handshaking and political tub thumping almost won him a presidential nomination in 1952, will find out today if he is popular enough with voters in Tennessee to win a second Senate term.

As title-holder he had to meet the surprisingly strong challenge of Rep. Pat Sutton in the Democratic primary while the nation's youngest governor, Frank Clement, bid for a second term against his bitter political enemy, former Gov. Gordon Browning.

Clear skies and weather as hot as the campaigns themselves were in prospect for Tennessee voters as the weatherman said early today the temperatures would climb to 100 or higher.

State Democratic Chairman H. S. Walters said between 628,000 and 650,000 votes will be cast in his party's primary while GOP Chairman Guy L. Smith said 125,000 would vote in the Republican primary.

Democratic primary winners are virtually certain to win the November election in predominantly Democratic Tennessee. The Republicans have no candidate in the gubernatorial race. Their main strength is in upper east Tennessee where two Republican congressmen have no serious opposition for re-nomination.

With Sutton in the senatorial battle, Tennessee will nominate a new representative from his district to be sent to the House with six other Democratic representatives who face little opposition. Ray H. Jenkins of Knoxville, whose name won national prominence as special counsel for the Army-McCarthy hearings, is listed on the ballot with Robert Gregory of Memphis for the Republican senatorial nomination. However, Jenkins has said his name appeared on the ballot by accident and he is not a candidate.

Sutton, who rented a helicopter to make his whirlwind campaign, says the only issue at stake in the Democratic senatorial battle is "Americanism versus internationalism." He said Kefauver is a "unit-ed Nations" man and has no more interest in Spring City, Tenn., for example, than Winston Churchill.

Kefauver says the top most issue in his reelection bid is the question of "war or peace in the world." He has said frequently that he has worked for a system by which "differences among nations can be settled over the conference table rather than by war."

Kefauver claims Sutton is an "isolationist" and Sutton retorts he favors "taking the United States out of the United Nations and the United Nations out of the United States."

Autopsy Shows Infection Fatal

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The 7-year-old son of Charles Correll, Andy of radio's Amos 'n' Andy, died of an acute kidney infection, the county autopsy surgeon said yesterday following completion of toxicological tests.

John Correll succumbed July 5 in a Santa Monica hospital. It was believed at first he might have died of poison used in a paint sprayer at his home.

Lose Claims On Actor's Estate

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A brother and a niece of the late Hugh Herbert have lost their claims to the comedian's $163,342 estate. The Superior Court upheld yesterday Herbert's 1950 will, which left $10,000 to Rose Herbert, Fort Worth, Tex., his former wife and the remainder of his estate to the Motion Picture Relief Fund, Inc.

The brother, Edward F. Herbert, 57, of Brooklyn, N.Y., and the niece, Mrs. Grace Van Schyndel 42, of East Weymouth, Mass., contended unsuccessfully that a 1952 codicil invalidated the bequest to charity.

Preacher Repulsed At Gate Of Nudist Camp

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP)—A crusading preacher, rebuffed in his initial effort to visit Sunshine Gardens yesterday vowed to return today and resume his fight against "the national threat of nudism."

Dr. Braxton Sawyer of Fort Smith, Ark. went to the Battle Creek Area Sunbathing Club armed with an invitation to attend the American Sunbathing Assn. convention. He also carried a movie camera.

He was asked to remove his clothes before entering the nudist camp—a requirement for all visitors.

"Never," stormed Dr. Sawyer, who says he's a Baptist minister.

The closest Sawyer got to the bare facts yesterday were 20 barechested nudists who stopped him at the gate and scuffed with him.

After charging into a male nudist, who like the minister was big, Rev. Sawyer picked himself from the dust and said: "Somebody stomped on me."

He then prowled back and forth in front of the gateway and challenged the nudists to a fight: "There comes a time when Samson has to take the jawbone of an ass and whip a pack of fools," thundered the preacher.

Rev. Sawyer was told by Elmer J. Adams, Garden proprietor, that his invitation stood, but that taking off his clothes was part of the rules and everybody follows the rules. Sawyer said they'd better call the police if they intended to keep him out. They did. Township police and deputies arrived.

"Go on... evict me," said Rev. Sawyer furiously while he ground away at everything in sight with his movie camera. "I have come a thousand miles for this affair and nobody is going to make a fool of me," he cried.

Rev. Sawyer said he has been broadcasting since Monday over 27 stations in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kentucky and Missouri. He said he is attempting to help pass anti-nudism bills in the states. His broadcasts were heard in the colony's clubhouse.

Sawyer missed showgirl Evelyn West's keynote address to the association convention. Miss West, who gained publicity in 1946 when she insured her chest with Lloyds of London for $50,000 gave the address clothed only in a pair of high-heeled shoes.

Sawyer said his following was expecting him to finish the crusade.

"My lock is expecting me to keep faith and make a full report on this place—but take my clothes off? Never!" he said.

Salesman Banged Prospect's Head

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—This salesman literally best his prospect over the head—with the merchandise.

Erwin E. Hunter told police the salesman came to his door yesterday and sought to interest Hunter in some pots and pans. Hunter said he declined politely, whereupon the pot merchant banged Hunter on the noggin with a pan.

Hunter said that when he recovered from his surprise, he floored the peddler with a right to the jaw. The salesman got up and fled, taking his wares with him. Police are looking for him on an assault charge.

Robin Roberts Knocking At 20-Game Door With Triumph Against Braves

By BEN PHEGAR
AP Sports Writer
Robin Roberts is about ready to knock on that 20-game door again. If he gets inside, he will be the first to do it five seasons in a row since Carl Hubbell was the meal ticket of the New York Giants.

The Philadelphia strong boy has been coasting along most of the year on the fringe of the spotlight, yielding the center of the stage to the exciting pennant races. But he's been winning just the same.

When he handcuffed Milwaukee on five hits last night for a 2-1 triumph, he ran his victory total to 16 against 9 losses. Two seasons ago when he won an amazing 28, exactly a dozen of the victories came after Aug. 4.

Roberts isn't quite up to his pace of last year when he won his 19th game on Aug. 4. But the righthander still remembers with dread the rough going he encountered once he reached 20 in 1953. He ran his record to 20-6 on Aug. 12 but staggered through the last seven weeks of the season with only three more victories.

Hubbell won more than 20 each year from 1933 through 1937. Roberts started his 20-game straight 150 with a 20-11 mark. He followed with 21-15 in 1951, 26-7 in 1952 and 20-16 last year. Hubbell won 11 games in his five 20-game seasons. Roberts needs 23 triumphs this season to equal that total.

Roberts shares honors with Johnny Antonelli of the Giants as the winningest pitcher in the majors this season. He and Harvey Hadditt of St. Louis lead in strikeouts with 126 each and his amazing total of only 20 bases on balls in 226 innings is by far the best in the National League.

Roberts struck out nine and walked one in beating the Braves last night. Bob Morgan's bases-empty homer in the third gave the control artist the run he needed to win after both sides had scored in the first.

The victory moved the Phils into fourth place, half a game ahead of the St. Louis Cardinals who bowed 8-7 to Brooklyn. The Giants edged Chicago 4-3 in 11 innings and Pittsburgh beat Cincinnati 4-3.

Cleveland evened its current series with the New York Yankees with a 5-2 triumph. Chicago edged Boston 6-5 in 10 innings. Detroit defeated Washington 6-2 and Philadelphia and Baltimore swapped last place as the Athletics whipped the Orioles 6-4.

Cleveland moved 2 1/2 games ahead of the Yankees in the American League. New York stayed five games in front of Brooklyn in the National.

The Giants beat Chicago on an 11th inning single by Hank Thompson that brought in Wes Westrum from second base after two were out. Westrum's single and a sacrifice by winner Don Liddle set up the run which ran the New Yorkers' winning streak to six.

In Brooklyn the Cardinals grabbed a 7-6 lead with three runs in the ninth only to have the Dodgers pull it out on Jackie Robinson's homer with Jim Gilliam on base in the last of the ninth.

Pittsburgh furnished a not a dramatic finish. With two out and one aboard in the last of the ninth Gerry Lynch smashed a Frank Smith pitch into the seats for the winning margin.

The Cleveland Indians turned on Allie Reynolds, one of their former Triple-Aers, and handed the veteran his third defeat of the season. Bobby Avila's three-run homer in the third inning gave Bob Lemon the cushion he needed for his 14th victory. When Lemon tired after seven innings, Mike Garcia mopped up.

The Chicago White Sox cut into the National League monopoly on last-gasp triumphs as they downed Boston on Matt Batts' bases-loaded single in the 10th after the Red

City All-Stars Meet Little Leaguers Of Jacksonville

Sox had come from five runs back in the eighth and ninth innings. Ted Williams drove in three runs with his 19th homer in the eighth. Phil Cavarretta hit a grand slam homer for the White Sox in the first.

Detroit came from behind to whip Washington, scoring three runs in the seventh when Wayne Belardi's homer was the big blow. The Athletics pounded three Baltimore pitchers for 14 hits including three by Pete Suder and a two-run homer by Don Bollweg.

Gastonia Takes Legion Crown

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP)—Gastonia is the champion of the state American Legion Junior baseball playoff.

The title passed to Gastonia last night as it defeated Wilmington with the overwhelming score of 9-0.

Harold Stowe, pitching for the winners, scored his second win of the playoff and his 13th of the season with his five-hit shutout ball.

Gastonia earlier was the victor of a paper battle when Lou Brissie national Legion commissioner, ruled against a Wilmington protest that Gastonia's team was made up from schools with more than the allowable 2,500 enrollment.

Jack George, backcourt ace of the Philadelphia Warriors in the N.B.A., has switched from basketball to baseball. He is playing for Lancaster, Pa., in the Class B Piedmont League.

Hambletonian Is Keeping Air Of A County Fair

GOSHEN, N.Y. (AP)—The Hambletonian, seen for the first time since Greyhound won in 1935, still has the sprawling air of a country fair without the erris wheel.

The ladies still serve dinner on the lawn in front of the church on Main Street and folks stroll over to the track from the Orange Inn, the Occidental Hotel and the Railroad House (Chez Choo-Choo) where the Erie trains rattle the bottles on the back bar.

Right outside the side door of the Goshen Inn is the half mile Historic Track where they operate (never say run) a week-long meeting every July. Willie Mays could throw a ball from Historic Track to Good Time Track with its odd kite-shaped mile layout where the Hambletonian is held.

Years ago this festive day in Orange County was a combination farmer's picnic, church social and lawn party for the social elite. A sprinkling of the horse set from Saratoga used to drift down for the day and a few fugitives from Empire City came up for the air. In 1935, at least, a slick gentleman made a few fast dollars with a shell game on a corner until the cops drove him, his folding table and walnut shells out of town.

Somehow, the crowd seems to have changed since harness racing became a big-time operation under the lights at Roosevelt and Yonkers (the old Empire City flat track). No longer do the book-makers sell their pools under the stands. The days are gone when you could "steal" a horse to 10 to 1 on the slates and watch with glee as the price shortened and your horse went off as the favorite.

They have had the mutuels up here for many years with a tote board in the infield and long lines waiting at the windows back of the low rambling wooden stands. In front of the gate, the handicappers sell their selections just as they do at Belmont, Jamaica and Aqueduct. Clocker Joe, a man who should know about such things, says, "business is a little slow. These people see these things only once a year."

For years, you have been reading about the "Corn Tassel Derby," the cliché coined to describe this most important test for three-year-old trotters. But there wasn't a Suspender Sam or Sunbonnet Sue in the crowd this year. The sport shirt, cord jacket and loafers was a common uniform.

Earl Van Inwegen, a veteran of the mutual department and Yonkers Raceway Clubhouse, has been coming to Hambletonians for over 20 years. He finds the players "hey" to the ins and outs of the mutual system.

Things have changed in 19 years since Greyhound. But the original "grey ghost" would have been right at home in the 1954 field.

Williams Pounds Out 19th Homer

CHICAGO (AP)—Thumpin' Ted Williams was only four home runs behind Cleveland's Larry Doby (the American League leader today although he's played in only 64 of the Boston Red Sox' 103 games.)

Williams drove out his 19th circuit blow of the campaign yesterday against the Chicago White Sox. Ted is batting .366 and has driven in 59 runs.

Trophy For The Champions

Jack Whichard of the Daily Reflector is shown presenting a trophy to Coach Arnold Averette of the Elks team for winning the Tar Heel League championship. The Elks team went through 18 regular season games without a defeat. That is a record for Greenville Little League play.

Earle made the statement yesterday in confirming that a 4 1/2-million-dollar offer has been made for the A's by a Kansas City syndicate headed by Arnold Johnson of Chicago.

The statement was the latest in a series of exchanges between Earle and his older brother Roy, the team's executive vice president. Roy has been one of those behind the movement to keep the A's in Philadelphia and has said he has high hopes of raising enough money to buy out his brother and their father, Connie Mack.

Latest developments on the A's tremulous future showed conclusively that both 91-year-old Connie Mack, builder of the Athletics empire, and his son, Earle, despair of keeping the club here and both are resigned to selling out. Only Roy clings to the hope the franchise can be saved for Philadelphia.

Connie, who has been in Chicago, presumably to discuss the crisis with William Harbridge, president of the American League and long-time personal friend, is quoted as admitting sadly: "The Athletics are through in Philadelphia."

Meadows, resident of nearby Jacksonville and native of Greenville, will play in the restricted Charlotte "Carolinas Tennis Tournament" which starts Thursday, August 9. The tournament has become such a big thing in the South that the entries for the men's singles have been restricted to 32 instead of the heretofore nearly twice that many.

Meadows, a winner in the recent city singles tournament in Greenville for the second straight year, will play in such elite company as Sam Daniel and Bill Umstead, two South Carolina terrors of the courts, plus Jose Aguiro of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, winner of the recent Asheville, North Carolina, Open Tournament, and Whit Cobb who was voted North Carolina's No. 1 male athlete in 1951 chiefly because of his tennis prowess at Davidson College.

Meadows says he doesn't expect to make much of a showing in the face of such opposition, but admits that if he is ever to show up well, it should be now while he is at the top of his game.

The Junior Girls, and the 15 and under should prove to be full of excitement with Donna Floyd of Washington, D.C. setting the pace. Donna, though only 15, has recently won a major tournament of 18 and under girls, and promises to be the first female from nearby to give the top ladies of the country a run for it.

Little Leaguers Play In Durham

DURHAM (AP)—The Little League District 2 Baseball Tournament got under way here today with action between Goldsboro, Raleigh, High Point and Durham.

The teams are area champions and will play for the right to compete in the sectional tournament here next week.

First High Point and Durham will meet at 3 p.m., followed by Greensboro and Raleigh.

Carolina Dairies In Final Tonight

Carolina Dairies reached the finals of the Area II softball tournament last night with an 8-0 win over Southern Bread in the double elimination tourney. The Bread team battled back in the final game of the night to defeat Harris Super Markets and gain the finals with the Dairies team.

L. E. Johnson was in fine form as he pitched his team to the 8-0 win. The usually powerful Southern Bread team could muster only two hits off the fast balling right hander.

Billy McRoy singled in the first and Mitch White singled in the third. After that Johnson had an easy time of it.

Lame Colt With A Big Heart Won Trot Classic

By JOHN CHANDLER
GOSHEN, N.Y. (AP)—Newport Dream has caused Del Cameron a lot of lost sleep in recent months, but the determined little harness racing driver must have laid his head on the pillow with a broad smile last night.

For with all his aches, pains, bandages and liniments Newport Dream tossed away the crutches and went out to defeat 15 rivals in the $106,830 Hambletonian yesterday.

Newport Dream has been, and still is lame, with a mystery ailment in the left foreleg, swollen knees on both forelegs, and a swelling in the right hock.

But the 2-year-old champion of 1953 chilled the opposition in two consecutive heats, whirling around Good Time Park's triangular mile in 2:02 4-5 both times to grab off the top prize of $57,581.

A month ago Cameron said it was 50-50 whether he could get the lame colt ready for the Hambletonian. At winter quarters in Pinehurst, N.C., Newport Dream began showing lameness in the left foreleg during mid-March. Three veterinarians were called in. Nobody could determine whether it was centered in the ankle or shoulder.

Finally they blocked a nerve to try and pinpoint the spot, but that worsened things — an infection developed.

Cameron, who trains for owner Octave Blake, master of the Newport Stock Farm, South Plainfield, N.J., never gave up. He worked day and night on the colt preparing for the big one.

"He's got a heart as big as that bucket of oats," said Cameron.

Newport Dream defeated Princess Rodney, Walnut Hall stud, Donerail, Ky., by three lengths in the first heat yesterday.

In the deciding dash an hour later, it was evident Newport Dream was lame walking to the post. But he wouldn't quit. He took the lead with about three-eighths of the mile remaining, and held on desperately to beat C.M. Provoost's Harlan, Pittsburgh, by a head as the crowd roared.

Channel Bass Fishing Reported Good In Surf, Inlets Of Carolina Coast

BUXTON, N. C.—Channel bass were being landed in the surf from one end of Hatteras Island to the other during the past week end, with the biggest specimens reeled in scaling at 30 to 35 pounds. Dozens of smaller bass in the 10 to 15 pound class were caught.

At the same time anglers trolling in the Oregon Inlet area were also catching channel bass.

George Dykstra at Dyke's fishing center on Roanoke Island reported one catch of 13 being boated in one day with rod and reel. "They are back in the inlet earlier this year than I have ever known them to be in the past," said Dykstra.

Usually channel bass, the first real game fish to make an appearance in Dare Coast waters during the Spring, move into the sounds and seldom return to the inlets and surf until early autumn. This year is an exception.

Edgar Hooper, Buxton merchant who accounted for five of the copper fighters during the past week end while squidding for them with Hopkins' lures, stated that surf casters from Oregon Inlet to Hatteras Inlet were bringing in fish. Hooper's largest bass was a 30 pounder. Another Buxton angler, Raymond Basnett

Larsen Unveils New Manners And Backhand

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP)—A "new" Art Larsen takes on unseeded J. Allen Morris today in a third-round match of the Eastern Grass Courts Tennis Tournament.

Larsen highest ranked player left in the matches since National Champion Tony Trabert withdrew because of a blistered racket hand unveiled a brand new set of court manners yesterday in downing Chauncey D. Steele Jr. of Cambridge, Mass., 6-4, 6-2.

He joked with the crowd and it cheered him when he got off a good shot. There was none of the hostility present which showed Monday when Larsen was heckled by the crowd and said he was withdrawing from the tournament before cooling down an hour later in the clubhouse.

The Taming of Carney Wilde

by BART SPICER

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

I WOKE to a cabin full of strong warm sunlight and a man bending over me.

"You're a sick man, Mr. Wilde," "I'm all right," I said thickly. "What time is it?"

"A bit past 2," the doctor said. "I said, 'I guess I was tired. How is Russell?'"

"He'll do. In fact he's in better shape than you are. That is, he will be, in time."

"I'm glad to hear it. He's a lucky kid."

I swung my feet to the floor. The doctor said: "I wouldn't bother getting up, Mr. Wilde. Of course I'm going to get up." I said: "Slide down there and let me."

"Well, I may as well tell you then," he said soberly. "The captain wants you to stay here to-day. We'll be in Paducah tonight and there'll be someone to investigate."

I heaved against the doctor, forcing him to the end of the bed. Then I got to my feet, holding on to a table until I felt steady enough to walk.

"Tell the captain that he doesn't have authority enough to lock up the sugar bowl. This isn't the high seas, doctor. I paid my fare and I'll have the freedom of the boat, no matter what the captain thinks."

"He can refund your passage money and put you on shore," the doctor said.

"Get him in here," I snapped. I brushed my teeth and managed after a dozen fumbling tries to put one of the new blades in my razor. The doctor used the wall telephone briefly. Then he helped me get into my clothes. He took a deep interest in the leather and spring-steel clambell that held my 38 but he made no attempt to get the gun away from me. I made sure it was still loaded. I was sliding into my jacket when the captain stamped into the room.

"What are you doing?" he belted.

"I hardly like to use force on an injured man," the doctor said innocently. "Besides, I'm not sure it would have worked. Mr. Wilde is determined he will not be constrained."

"Then I'll put him ashore," the captain roared. "And right now! Get your baggage."

"I came aboard to find a murderer," I said calmly as I could.

"I have reason to believe he was sheltered on this boat and permitted to escape before I found him. Maybe I'm wrong about that, but there's adequate reason to justify my swearing out a citizen's warrant against you and your company for aiding and abetting a known criminal. That's a felony, captain. Whether I could make it stick or not, I don't know, but your boat would spend a lot of time waiting to find out."

I thought I heard the doctor chuckle behind me. "I'll have you thrown ashore and I'll have you pulled my open jacket back to let him see the butt of the 38 under my arm. 'Using what to force me, captain?'"

Jellicoe backed away in short steps his face a brilliant apoplectic scarlet. His mouth opened and closed spasmodically like a feeding carp's, but no words came out.

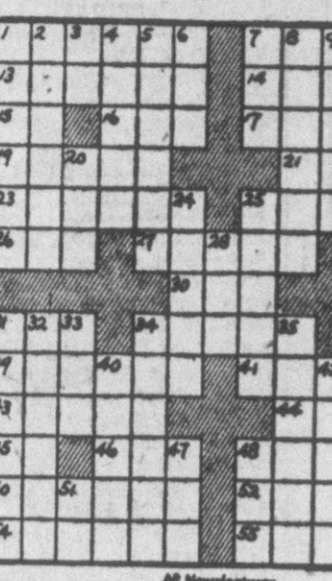

"I think this has gone far enough," the doctor said crisply. "Rupe, you go to your cabin. I'll want to examine you. I think you're having some of your old trouble again." He got Jellicoe out of the purser's cabin and shut the door. I sat in a deep chair and waited for the angry pulse in my chest to slow down.

"I shouldn't have let him go so far," the doctor said.

"Take off, doc. I don't like you."

"Fair enough," the doctor said. "You can have your cabin again this evening. I'll wait till then to move Russell. No visitors for him today, so don't try to get in until I say so."

I got up and draped my overcoat over my shoulders in a clumsy gesture. I did feel a little weak in the knees but nothing a little fresh air wouldn't cure. I walked along the open deck, heading for the little snack bar at the side of the Texas deck. I felt oddly conspicuous in my heavy coat as I skirted the clusters of athletes. I ducked into the snack bar, picked a small table in the corner and ordered ham and eggs.

My right hand looked raw and red. I tried to subdue the twitch by mental power. But my mind wasn't strong enough. The hand kept up its faint movement. I could stop it by pressing against the table, but the moment I eased up, the twitch took over again.

That assault made little sense to me. Someone had left a warning for me, telling me to leave the boat at Louisville if I'd taken that warning seriously. I might have seen Sessions when he left and then I'd know whether or not he was Stewart. So the warning didn't necessarily have anything to do with Stewart. But only someone connected with Stewart would be afraid of me, so that didn't make sense either.

"Well Mr. Wilde," a hearty voice called from the deck. "Heard you were under the weather today."

Mr. Ed Boltinck stood in the doorway with his missus on his arm, both of them beaming mistily at me.

"You go along, Bebe, honey. I'll just wait here and have a drink with Mr. Wilde." Boltinck brushed his wife away and strolled in to take a chair at my table.

"The captain said you were feeling poorly today," he said. "I guess a broken shoulder takes some getting over, eh?"

"I guess it does," I agreed. "Nothing wrong with me though. Just slept late and missed breakfast."

"What happened to Mr. Russell?" he asked. "I heard he was hurt, or something."

"Did something happen to Russell?"

Boltinck stared at me.

Mr. Boltinck was dressed as well as Doc Riggs had said. His light-gray overcoat was a silky thing that almost shimmered. And the sedate double-breasted suit was a fine cashmere I would have liked myself. All told, it was a bit too elegant for a Golconda, Illinois, banker. But Boltinck was obviously successful. He glared at me for quite a while and seemed prepared to keep it up indefinitely, but the waiter brought my food and that broke his concentration. He walked away.

The waiter roused me with my bill. I scrawled my name while he held the check firm for me. I gave him an adequate tip and headed out on to the open deck again, walking aft with the breeze. By the time I reached the rear deck, my legs were wobbling. The boat's doctor had called me a sick man, and just then I wouldn't have argued with him. I borrowed somebody's deck chair and plunked myself in it.

I couldn't guess how long I slept. I woke and saw Ellen balanced on the railing watching me with a tense, worried expression.

"You look bad, my boy," she said.

I grinned and blew a wispy smoke ring at her. "You look good enough for both of us," I said. "Been waiting long?"

"You've been sleeping three hours," she said. "The doctor said to let you rest, but to make sure you went to bed as soon as you were able to walk. He said your room would be ready any time. He said that Mr. Russell would be out of it. What happened last night? Why is Russell...?"

"A sneak thief," I said. "Russell surprised him and got socked on the skull. He's all right, though."

She said: "When you didn't come to breakfast, nor to lunch, I... and then the captain said you were still in bed, but couldn't have visitors... I didn't know what to think. I still don't know."

"It's nothing to do with me," I said. "I just got tired yesterday. Maybe I've been overdoing it. I really was just resting today. But that fool of a captain didn't need to scare you."

Doc Riggs came along and said: "Don't forget you two are to be my guests for a tour of Natchez. I won't take no for an answer."

Then the dapper old man pranced off.

I said to Ellen, "If there's anything I don't need it's a guided tour of Natchez."

"What you need is a good long rest," she said.

'Family Day' When Hope Plays Foy Role

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — It was family day when Bob Hope began his picture on the life of the great entertainer Eddie Foy.

On one side of the stage were Bob's wife Dolores and the four little Hopes. On the other was a group including at least three of the longtime little Foy-Mary, Madeleine and Charley. Another one, Bryan, was expected, but he was busy starting a movie at another studio. He's a producer.

The two family groups and dozens of other amused spectators watched as Hope and seven talented youngsters ran through the first musical number of "Eddie Foy and the Seven Little Foys." It was a riot. Hope and the kids were all decked out in yellow outfits, from shoes to bowler hats.

But the thing that interested me was that here was a different Hope. He has sprung eternal as the brash, slightly leering hepster. But now he was playing the elder Foy. His eyebrows were peaked, his eyes had a clownlike dot under them and his mouline was extended with make-up to give him the purse-lipped Foy trademark. He also sang with a lisp and wagged his head like the old boy.

"I've worked with Bob for hours," said Charley Foy, who runs a night club in the San Fernando Valley. "He's amazingly like the

Old Belt Tobacco Crop Improving

RALEIGH (AP)—The condition of the Old Belt tobacco crop showed marked improvement during the week ending July 31, the State Crop Reporting Service said yesterday.

In its weather-crop summary the service said rains which generally covered the state two weeks ago improved the condition of most crops, including Old Belt tobacco, late planted corn, soybeans in the Piedmont, and sweet potatoes in the coastal area.

No change was seen in the condition of Eastern Belt tobacco.

Scandinavia Said Much Like U.S.

By BILL BECKER

COPENHAGEN (AP)—No matter where you turn in Scandinavia, you're bound to find something that will remind you of home.

Denmark and southern Sweden resemble the Midwestern farm states. Central Sweden, with its hills and lakes, is a composite Minnesota-Wisconsin, and Norway and upper Sweden are much like the Pacific Northwest.

For every red barn in Minnesota you'll see two in Sweden. The architecture, designed for hard winters, generally is less foreign to American eyes than British buildings.

Being Westerners, Mama, the three girls and I liked nearly all we saw in Scandinavia on a series of motor trips. Hospitality and good food abound. Prices are reasonable, except coffee at $1.50 a pound and gasoline at 45 cents a gallon in Denmark to 55 in the Norwegian highlands.

It was easier to stay under our $20-a-day budget in Denmark, Sweden and Norway than anywhere else in Europe. For example—on a three-day swing through Goteborg, Sweden, and Oslo, Norway, $60 covered everything, including mementoes.

Highways range from excellent in Denmark and south Sweden to downright poor in the mountain reaches, but the pine forests, sparkling lakes and breathtaking fjords are worth the battle.

We didn't reach the Land of the Midnight Sun, but we did get within the 11 o'clock shadow.

That's one of the joys of touring Scandinavia in the summer—there are 18 to 24 hours of daylight if you want to stay on the road late. A word of advice: make reservations ahead, especially in Sweden, where the hotel situation is tight.

The logical place to start your tour is Copenhagen, although arrivals from England or Germany in front of the courthouse in Greenville, N. C. expose to public sale to the highest bidder for cash, the following property:

One 1949 Ford Cpe. Motor No. 98BA-574030, Serial No. 2987943A. This the 27th day of July, 1954, Guaranty Bank & Trust Co., Mortgages will find the short trip across Denmark rewarding, especially at Odense, the birthplace of Hans Christian Andersen. Our three girls, spoon-fed on Andersen's fairy tales since they could walk spent a wonderful couple of hours in the museum at the writer's old home.

Another pleasure awaits you on the Nyborg-Korsor ferry to the Isle of Zealand where Copenhagen is located. The food is typically lavish: a 50-cent luncheon has you gasping; the $1 special can put you to sleep for the afternoon.

"Wowie," yelled our daughters as the waiter brought a bowl of strawberry ice cream big enough for generous double helpings for five. Cost: 75 cents.

This is just the warmup for Copenhagen, which concedes little to Paris in the art of preparing food and treats the traveler's pocketbook with much more consideration.

American servicemen in Germany like Copenhagen for leaves because Danes are perhaps the world's most hospitable people—offended if you don't have a beer or coffee with them.

Denmark's most interesting sights lie within a 30-mile radius of the capital, Copenhagen itself, with unique Tivoli amusement park, scores of outdoor cafes, fine shops and much joie de vivre, is a snare the motorist finds hard to escape.

When you want to go to Sweden, you have a choice of three ferry routes. The shortest, Elnorve to Halsingborg, takes 25 minutes.

Huge red barns, many with masonry foundations a foot thick and five feet high, are the trademark of rural Sweden. Rye and wheat stand tall over much of the land, giving way to thick forests of aspen and pine as you head north.

The drive to Stockholm from Halsingborg is a one-day trip of 400 miles through some of Sweden's finest lake country.

Stockholm, attractively draped over a half-dozen islands, is more modern in some respects than Copenhagen but not so lively. From Stockholm you can drive 600 miles along the Gulf of Bothnia separating Sweden and Finland, up to Lapland and the midnight sun.

You enter Norway over the Swinesund Fjord Bridge and customs officers usually want to see only your passports and international carnet (driving permit). Oslo, regally situated at the end of one of Norway's longest fjords, is reached by a drive via Goteborg which compares scenically with Coast Route 101 in Oregon and Washington.

For a test of driving stamina on roads fashioned after goat trails, there are the scenic drives from Oslo to Bergen and from Oslo to Trondheim.

STORMY NIGHT
TORRINGTON, Conn. (AP)—Lightning struck the home of Alex Le Jeune knocking him from his bed and ripping boards from a partition. Le Jeune went to the kitchen to make some coffee. Then a second bolt struck the house, starting a small fire near the front entrance.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market turned downward today after a firm start.

Trading began fast with prices higher. Aircrafts and a wide variety of low priced issues found good early support.

Toward the end of the morning, losses began to appear among stocks which have been market leaders in recent sessions. By early afternoon, it was apparent that many investors were taking profits on many issues. The trading pace continued rapid.

Low priced stocks tended to hold early gains. But steels, motors, rubbers, railroads and chemicals declined. Some losses extended to three points, but most were around a point. Aircrafts became irregular while radio-television and airline issues steadied.

National Dairy climbed to a new high of 89 after the company announced a two-for-one stock split and a five-cent increase in the quarterly dividend. But then it backed away and showed a loss for the session.

Others on the downgrade were U.S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler Goodrich, American Smelting, American Telephone, International Paper, General Dynamics, Atchafalaya and Ohio and Lowe's.

Holding firm were Radio Corp., Boeing, Chance Vought, American Woolen, Consolidated Natural Gas, Western Union, Pan Am, 20th Century Fox, Pan American Airways and Bullard.

Reach Accord On Re-Opening Oil Industry In Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Representatives of eight big Western oil companies and the Iranian government announced broad agreement today to restart Iran's frozen oil industry. They said they hoped to begin shipping at least some of the oil again in about two months.

Under the agreement announced simultaneously in Tehran and London, the eight companies as a consortium will operate the Abadan refinery and the surrounding oil fields. They will buy the oil output from Iran and will sell the production abroad. Iran will retain title to the fields and the refining facilities.

Settlement of the three-year diplomatic battle was announced in a joint statement by Iranian Finance Minister Ali Amini and Howard Page of Standard Oil of New Jersey, chairman of the negotiators for the oil companies.

Their statement did not detail the rate of payment to Iran but informed sources said it was virtually the same 50-50 split that prevails elsewhere in the Middle East.

Amini and Page estimated that Iran, through direct oil revenue and taxes, would get 420 million dollars during the first three years of the arrangement. The estimate for the third year, more than 187 million, is larger than Iran's pre-nationalization oil revenue.

The agreement will run for 25 years, with provisions for three 5-year extensions.

The eight companies making up the consortium are Britain's Anglo-Iranian, which developed and operated Iran's industry alone until Premier Mohammed Mossadegh nationalized its holdings in 1951; Standard of New Jersey, Standard of California, the Texas Co., Gulf Oil Co., and Socony Vacuum, all American; Royal Dutch Shell and Compagnie Francaise de Petroles.

Though Page in a separate statement said the companies "must now conclude a separate agreement among themselves covering their participation," informed sources said they would set up this division: 40 per cent to Anglo-Iranian, 40 per cent to the five American companies, 14 per cent to Dutch Shell and 6 per cent to the French firm.

(Authoritative sources in Washington said participation of the U.S. oil companies had been essential to get Iranian agreement after the bitter dispute with Britain over the nationalization.)

Last Chance Saturday For Festival Booths

Saturday is the deadline for obtaining booths for the Tobacco Festival Aug. 12. Ford McGowan, chairman of that committee, reminds local residents and groups.

Anyone desiring a booth for the Festival is urged to contact McGowan at 4151 right away.

At present the number of booths which have been let has not been "up to expectations," McGowan said this morning.

He noted there is no charge for the booths.

"We hope the local citizens will support our efforts in this Festival," he said "and we certainly hope there will be more calls for booths before Saturday."

Ten groups now are sponsoring booths for the festivities. These are the Kiwanis Club, Rotary Club, Exchange Club, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Business and Professional Women's Club, Moose and Elks Clubs, Lions Club, Rough and Ready Fire Department, and the National Guard and Boy Scouts.

Final plans for the program of entertainment for the Festival have been made, and according to a report from the Steering Committee, only details are now left to be ironed out.

Policies Kept

MONTEAT, N. C. (AP)—Policies regarding segregation at this Presbyterian retreat will remain unchanged, trustees of the Mountain Retreat Assn., operators of the center, voted yesterday.

The action is contrary to the recommendations of the 49th General Assembly of the Southern Presbyterian Church which "urged" that segregation be abolished here and in other assembly-controlled institutions.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

In Police Court Wednesday, 14 defendants charged with violations of motor vehicle and traffic law violations faced Judge Charles H. Whedbee. The five other cases involved various charges.

Jimmy Jones, who gave his address as Woodlawn avenue, driving drunk, prayer for judgment continued on payment of $100 and costs. His driver's license will be revoked for a year. On the charge of hit-and-run driving, the court taxed Jones with the court costs provided he makes restitution for property damage. Another hit-and-run drive case against him was not pressed.

Wille Blount, Negro, improper brakes, prayer for judgment continued on payment of $10 on court costs, and the judgment states that he is not to operate a motor vehicle without proper brakes. Judge Whedbee taxed Blount $5 on court costs for not stopping at a stop sign.

Albert Pinkney, Negro, following too close case transferred to Superior Court for jury trial.

Henry L. Langley, improper brakes, 30 days in jail, sentence suspended on payment of $10 on court costs, and he is not to operate a motor vehicle without proper brakes.

Clarence Boyd, speeding, called and he failed to answer to his name. An instant capias was issued for him. Johnnie J. Johnson, Negro, paid $10 on court costs for speeding.

Solomon Edward, Negro, paid $10 for failure to stop at a stop light. Bancroft Moseley paid $5 on court costs for not stopping at a stop sign.

James T. Winstead, driving to the left of center of the road, 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of court costs. The judgment also provides that he is not to operate a motor vehicle for 60 days unless he makes restitution for property damage. For driving without an operator's license, the court gave Winstead 30 days in jail, to be served concurrently with above sentence. The order also provides that he is not to operate a motor vehicle without a license.

Paul Maskolenko, improper equipment, prayer for judgment continued on condition that the defendant has his brakes fixed and not drive until they are fixed.

Jack Harris, trespassing (30 days in jail, sentence suspended on payment of court costs. The judgment also provides that Harris is not to go on the premises of Mrs. Ed Harrell at 1504 North Pitt street.

Eugene Paramore, assault on a female, prayer for judgment continued on payment of costs and that he not harm Mrs. Ruby Paramore. Drunk: Albert Jones and Annie Lee Jones, Negroes, each paid $10 for being drunk.

No Attorney

In yesterday's Reflector it was reported that attorneys for Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson and S. A. Whitehurst spent more than three hours in argument before Judge J. Paul Frizzelle.

This was incorrect, it was learned today, as only attorneys for Pitt's Board of Elections and Sheriff Tyson appeared before the Fifth Judicial District resident judge Tuesday.

These attorneys appeared before the resident judge since a writ of mandamus had been served on the Pitt Board when they met several weeks ago to open the ballot boxes for the purpose of recounting the ballots.

No attorney representing candidate Whitehurst was present at the hearing.

A-Bomb Atonement Walk Planned By Navy Veteran

GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass. (AP)—A 30-year-old Navy veteran says he will walk the streets of this town Saturday in a "personal proclamation of guilt" for the atomic bombing of Japan and the U.S. hydrogen bomb tests.

Hollis J. Wyman Jr., a Harvard graduate, said today he is guilty of "burning his fellow human beings, first as a naval officer in Japanese waters, and secondly as a United States citizen during the H-bomb tests." He is a member of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, a world-wide pacifist organization. He said he chose Saturday for his day of "atonement" because it falls between the anniversaries of the Hiroshima and Nagasaki bombings.

Wyman applied to the selectmen of this western Massachusetts town of 6,712 for permission to stage his "proclamation." It was granted after considerable debate.

He will carry placards and distribute pamphlets throughout the day.

Wyman entered the Navy in July, 1943, and served as an officer until June of 1946, when he resigned his commission to join the Fellowship of Reconciliation and begin a career of social work.

The Fellowship of Reconciliation started in England about 40 years ago. The purpose of the organization, which claims 11,000 members in this country, is to "work to abolish war and to foster good will among nations, races and classes," according to the New England secretary Richard D. Hathaway.

Wyman spent two years in France and Germany with the group doing rehabilitation work. His mother, Mrs. Hollis J. Wyman of Auburndale, said he was "revolted" by the destruction caused by the bombings of Europe and "feels guilty about having been in the armed service."

Wyman said the day of atonement was his own idea and was not sponsored by any organization. Wyman is married and has two children.

Dollar Day . . .

Day. "Shoppers usually are downtown in the mornings," the merchant said. "They usually reach the furniture stores, and other stores selling larger and more expensive items of merchandise, in the afternoon."

There was virtually no effect from Dollar Day evident in the dime stores. Though some bargains were being offered, shoppers in these stores were sparse. This was noted as "usual" in the Five and Ten Cent stores on Dollar Day.

Shoppers Voice Approval

In general shoppers voiced approval of the Dollar Day values.

One shopper said, "I have picked up some wonderful bargains," while another declared, "I am really pleased with the purchases I've made today."

Whether due to Dollar Day or not, a number of out-of-towners were in Greenville this morning. Observed parked in the downtown area were cars bearing license plates from Winterville, Robersonville, Tarboro, Washington, Bethel, Ahsokie, Vanceboro, Williamston, Ayden and Farmville.

Local Rainfall Is Nearly Inch Less Than 1953

Rainfall in the Greenville area in June and July, 1953, totaled 5.59 inches; precipitation in June and July, 1954, totaled 5.62 inches, nearly one inch less than fell here during the same period in 1953.

It was the three-inch rain that fell here in mid-July that was a lifesaver for tobacco and some other crops. Mrs. Carl E. Maiden, local observer for the U. S. Air Station, stated.

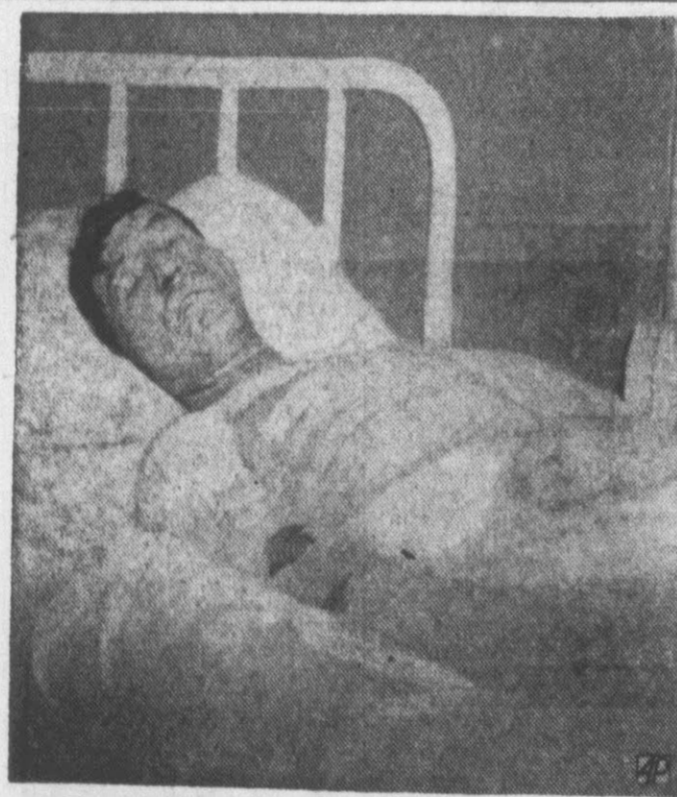

The heaviest precipitation here in June, 1953, was 5.23 inches, and the heaviest rainfall this year was in July, when the precipitation totaled 3.04 inches, Weather Station records show.

disposal system. Raw sewage is dumped into a nearby creek and health authorities are protesting.

The school has 675 acres, about 100 acres in the campus, 200 acres cultivated mainly by the boys, and the rest in pasture or woodland.

SOLE SURVIVOR—Hewie Marle, 40, lies in Fleming, Ky. hospital, where physicians give him a 50-50 chance to recover from a flaming auto crash which claimed 11 lives atop Pine Mountain. He was the sole survivor of what the National Safety Council termed the country's worst single-car accident in history. His wife and three children, his sister, brother-in-law and their four children and another girl died in the 13-year-old sedan flames. (AP Wirephoto)

Complain Ships Being Shadowed

LONDON (AP)—Russia has renewed its complaint that U.S. military planes are shadowing Soviet merchant ships in Far Eastern waters.

The Moscow radio said last night that Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov had fired off a note to the United States charging American planes with violating freedom of the seas by flying over Soviet merchantmen in the Formosa area.

Poland recently accused U.S. military planes of strafing one of her vessels in the Far Eastern area. The United States denied the charge.
