Estimated $10,000 Loss Divided Among Five Families Packhouse, Tobacco Burn

Pictured above is a portion of the smoldering ruins of a tobacco pack house located on the Smallwood farm on the Falkland Highway. Five families had varying amounts of tobacco stored in the 56 by 40 foot barn. Loss of the tobacco alone was conservatively estimated by Atlas Wooten, overseer of the farm, at $10,000. K. R. Wooten of Falkland owns the farm. (Reflector Photo by Alvin Taylor)

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector Staff Writer Five families lost at least a portion of their tobacco crop last night when a large tobacco pack house burned on the Smallwood farm near Falkland. Loss of the tobacco alone was conservatively estimated at $10,000 by Atlas Wooten, overseer of the farm which is owned by K. R. Wooten of Falkland. Atlas Wooten reported that no insurance was carried on the barn or its contents. He said that at least 20 barns of tobacco were stored in the tobacco pack house and estimated that between 12 and 13 thousand sticks of tobacco went up in the blaze. A truck from the Greenville Fire Department answered the call to the fire and Wooten credited the department with saving other buildings on the farm. A secondary nearby packhouse in which a quantity of tobacco was stored also caught fire during the night but the blaze was extinguished before any damage was done. Wooten stated that the fire broke out around 7 p.m. He noted that he and his uncle K. R. Wooten had looked into the barn shortly before the blaze broke out. K. R. Wooten left to return to Falkland and a few minutes later Atlas Wooten discovered the blaze. Within a few moments the entire building was aflame, Wooten said. He stated that he believed the fire started from a short in the electric wiring. A nearby 1000 gallon water tank provided water for the fire truck to fight the blaze. Three pick-up trucks were kept busy hauling water from the tank to the fire engine. Wooten noted that at one time the water pump used in filling the 1000-gallon tank ran out of fuel and gas was brought from a nearby service station because the gas pump located on the farm was too near the raging fire to safely draw fuel from it. Firemen and others fought the blaze for over three hours before bringing it under control. The fire truck left at 10:15 p.m. and workers on the farm stood by through the night to keep down sparks from the smoldering piles of tobacco. Some 26 persons were included in the five families who lost part or nearly all of their tobacco crop in the burning barn. James Williams, Negro tenant, had stored his entire crop in the barn with the exception of two barns which are now curing and about 300 sticks remaining in the field. He has a wife and seven children. Leroy Williams, Negro, who has a wife and six children, had his entire tobacco crop in the barn with the exception of two barns now curing and approximately two in the field. Sheppard Williams, a third Negro tenant on the farm, suffered a smaller loss. His loss was estimated at one-third of his tobacco crop. He is the father of two children. Willard Wooten, a nephew of K. R. Wooten, had approximately 2000 sticks of tobacco in the barn. Willard, who has two children, also had tobacco stored in a nearby packhouse which was saved from the blaze. Atlas Wooten estimated his own losses at three barns of tobacco plus some corn stored in the pack house. Wooten was unable to estimate the cost of replacing the destroyed pack house but he said the burned building had been in good condition.

Membership Drive By C-of-C Starts Tuesday

Annual membership campaign of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce will get under way here tomorrow. The campaign will begin tomorrow morning with a kick-off breakfast at 8 o'clock at the Sandwich King Restaurant, chairman of the Membership Committee J. B. Kittrell Jr. announced. Kittrell said approximately 25 members of the Board of Directors of the Chamber and his committee will meet tomorrow morning for breakfast to begin the one-day membership drive. "Realizing there is an appreciable number of persons in Greenville who are not now members of the Chamber of Commerce, but who are interested in the city's future, we hold these campaigns yearly to invite these persons to actively participate in the Chamber's program," Kittrell stated.

In conjunction with the campaign, Mayor W. L. Whedbee has proclaimed tomorrow as Chamber of Commerce Day in Greenville. The day has been set aside as Chamber of Commerce Day in the city, and proclaimed as such by the mayor, in order that the Chamber may be in a better position to more effectively carry out its program of activities for the further development of Greenville, Kittrell said. Tomorrow members of the Chamber's Board of Directors and Membership Committee will call on a number of local business men to obtain their memberships and support of the Chamber's work. Present membership in the local Chamber of Commerce consists of approximately 325 persons representing 212 business firms in the city.

FATAL BEE STING GREENUP, Ky. (AP)—"This sting is about to kill me," Samuel Jones of nearby Caroline told his brother when stung by a bee about 10 minutes before he died yesterday. Coroner Louis Wright ruled that death was caused by the bee sting. James Jones, the brother, said they were cutting down a tree when a bee flew up Samuel's sleeve. The two had been looking for wild bee honey.

Yugoslavia, Turkey And Greece Sign Military Defense Alliance

BLED, YUGOSLAVIA (AP)—Yugoslavia, Turkey and Greece signed a military pact today aimed at welding a Balkan wall against any aggression by Russia or her Communist satellites. The historic move implements the Balkan friendship treaty President Marshal Tito's government signed in 1953 with her two neighbors who are members of the North Atlantic Alliance and brings Communist Yugoslavia a step closer to the Western orbit. It also links Yugoslavia indirectly with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, although she is not a NATO member. Cautiously worded, the pact pledges the three countries allegiance to the United Nations and protects Greek and Turkish obligations to NATO without committing Yugoslavia to a direct part in that security program. At the same time, however, the new treaty clearly aimed at arranging military collective insurance against the threat of Communist aggression, and was another step by Yugoslavia to closer collaboration with the West since its feud started with Moscow in 1948. In pooling armed forces of the three nations that may total more than one million men, the alliance bolsters one of the soft spots in Western Europe's defenses. Turkey has a standing army of 450,000 and Greece has more than 125,000 men under arms. There are no official figures on the size of Tito's army, but it has been estimated Tito has some 600,000 men under arms. The defense alliance was to have been signed several months ago, but it was delayed—mainly because of the bitter dispute between Italy and Yugoslavia over the strategic free territory of Trieste. The Trieste issue is finally reported near agreement. Once this issue is resolved, the three Balkan partners are expected to try to get Italy to join them, thus extending the defense chain formally from the eastern end of the Mediterranean to the Swiss Alps.

Attlee, Bevan And Other Laborites Russia-Bound

LONDON (AP)—Former Prime Minister Clement Attlee, leftist Anurin Bevan and six other British Laborites took off today for visits in Moscow and Peking which they said they hoped would improve relations between the West and the Red regimes. "We hope," said Bevan, "to try to keep the Chinese revolution from being driven into isolation as the Russian revolution was." He was asked if he thought there was any danger of this happening. "Yes," replied the outspoken Laborite. "I do." "From whom?" "The danger," he said, "is coming from elements in the United States who don't understand the situation." Attlee, answering other questions from reporters, said there "should be no reason in the United States for anyone to think that this trip should have any effect on the Labor party's feelings toward America." Referring to the recent Red Chinese attack on a British airline, Attlee said: "Just because you recognize a country does not mean you approve everything it does." "I believe our visit will do much good," Bevan said. Asked if he thought there was a desire for peace in China, Bevan said: "We hope to find this." Attlee emphasized that he and the seven other members of the party were not members of the government. He and Bevan said they would see Chou En-lai, the Red Chinese premier and foreign minister, and "hope to see" Georgi Malenkov, the Soviet premier.

New Policy Marks Eastern Belt Leaf Sales August 16

RALEIGH (AP)—Under a new gradual opening policy, the flue-cured tobacco marketing season will begin on the Eastern North Carolina Belt Aug. 16, the Middle Belt Aug. 24 and the Old Belt Sept. 2. This was decided Saturday by the board of governors of the Bright Belt Warehouse Assn. Sales will be started on a limited basis, the board agreed, to assure Georgia-Florida, tobacco men that they will have sufficient buyers and graders to clean up their late-season sales. Graders and buyers will be needed longer than usual this year in the Georgia-Florida area, it was pointed out, because dry weather delayed the 1954 crop. As the season progresses, graders and buyers normally move from one belt to another. During the first week, Eastern Belt sales will be limited to 60 per cent of the piles permitted to be sold during the regular season sales day. The Middle Belt will operate at 50 per cent until Sept. 8 and the Old Belt will operate at 50 per cent until Sept. 21. The effect of the new policy is to reduce the number of sets of buyers available to each market during its period of limited sales. The opening dates for the Middle and Old belts are much earlier than usual. The Middle Belt opened last year on Sept. 8 and the Old Belt on Sept. 21. Spokesmen for the two belts said the crop in their areas is more advanced this year than usual. Fred S. Royter of Henderson, president of the Bright Belt Warehouse Assn., said he was "highly pleased" with the new policy. He added that it should go a long way toward settling disputes which have raged for years over tobacco market opening dates.

Expects Pitt To OK Airport Sum

Pitt County is expected to become the second local government unit to appropriate additional money for the proposed area airport for Eastern North Carolina, it was learned today. The county will be asked to give $1.50 more for the creation of the big airport—since two counties have failed to come through with its appropriation. The City of Greenville was the first to appropriate additional funds when its City Council last week agreed to make another contribution to keep the drive for the Airport alive. County Attorney W. W. Speight, Pitt's representative on the East Carolina Airport Authority, said this morning he "felt confident" the County Commissioners, who are meeting today as a Board of Equalization and Review, will appropriate the additional fund. Speight said the Commissioners voiced disappointment when they heard Wilson and Nash county boards had failed to appropriate their share of requested funds. There were originally four towns and four counties who were asked to contribute to the Eastern North Carolina Airport fund. Of these Pitt County, Edgecombe County, Greenville, Wilson, Rocky Mount and Tarboro each contributed; however, Wilson County and Nash County failed to appropriate anything—a total of $10,000 needed to complete the first phase of the regional airport project. Of this $10,000 additional money, Greenville has agreed to contribute $1,650 and the Airport Authority plans to ask Pitt County for $1,250; Edgecombe County for $1,250; Rocky Mount for $2,700; Wilson for $2,250 and Tarboro for $900.

Georgia-Florida Markets Slump

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP)—An effort to bolster slumping markets through the Georgia-Florida Flue-Cured Tobacco Belt won support of North Carolina's Bright Belt Warehouse Assn. Saturday after a new market low on Friday had brought predictions that buyers would not stay around to clean up sales. Tobacco men feared that the early opening—Aug. 16—of the big North Carolina markets would draw all the buyers away leaving the Georgia-Florida markets with unsold crops. Farm leaders had sought a postponement of the Carolina market openings and extension of Georgia-Florida marketing period, hoping that if the pressure were taken off sales prices would improve. However, the North Carolina Warehouse Assn. adopted a new policy of gradual market openings instead, in order to assure flue-cured growers enough buyers to clean up sales without delaying scheduled market openings. Prices in the Georgia-Florida Belt slipped to a new low Friday. The U. S. Department of Agriculture reported only 7,073,377 pounds sold at an average $44.69 a hundred. This was off $1.08 from the day before, which itself had been a new season low, and $5.56 lower than the average for the comparative day last season. The price declines were attributed by some to deterioration in the general quality of offerings.

Vito Marcantonio Falls Dead Today

NEW YORK (AP)—Former Rep. Vito Marcantonio, fiery, left-wing New Yorker, fell dead on a rain-swept street today. The diminutive, 51-year-old former legislator was in the middle of a comeback effort. Defeated in 1950 by a Republican-Democrat-Liberal coalition, he was running again for Congress as candidate of the independent "Good Neighbor party." Marcantonio represented an East Harlem district for 14 years. For many years until last November, he headed the American Labor party, which sponsored Henry Wallace's presidential campaign in 1940. Marcantonio collapsed at 10:30 a.m. at Broadway and Warren St., near City Hall Park in lower Manhattan. A driving summer rain was soaking the city. It was more than an hour before police issued even a tentative identification of the man who had been a thorn in the side of New York's regular party politicians for years. Police said he had been walking alone, a briefcase with the initials "V.M." in his hand. He was not far from his office on Park Place. An ambulance doctor said death was due to a heart ailment. Marcantonio was born Dec. 10, 1902, in New York City, the son of an Italian immigrant carpenter. He was a product of the city's public schools and a graduate of the law department of New York University in 1925.

Postal Pay Bill Called Up For House Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House called up for expected passage today an administration-opposed bill to give half a million Post Office workers a 7 per cent pay boost. House leaders, who until now have kept the bill bottled in the Rules Committee, oozed in advance it would be overwhelmingly approved and rushed to the Senate for possible session-end enactment. The measure comes to the floor backed by at least 218 House members—a majority who signed a discharge petition to override the leaders and force it out of committee to a vote. The House action was a slap at the administration and Postmaster General Summerfield. Summerfield has held out for no more than a 5 per cent pay-raise bill, plus administrative authority to reshuffle and reorganize the entire pay and job structure of the Post Office Department. He has also sought to tie any postal pay raise to an increase in postal rates.

Airliner's Crash In Azores Kills All 30 Aboard

TERCEIRA ISLAND, Azores (AP)—A Colombia Constellation crashed and burned here early today, killing all 21 passengers and its crew of 9. The bodies burned to ashes. At Madrid, Barajas Airport spokesmen listed an American among the crew members. He was identified as Herbert Hopkins, an engineer. No home address was given. The Colombian Avianca Airline plane was en route from Hamburg to Bogota, the Colombia capital. The plane was unable to make its scheduled landing at the Azores' main international airport at Santa Maria because of thick fog. It made its way here and landed at Terceira's Lagens Air Field. The plane took off again at 1:37 a.m. (10:37 p.m. EST, Sunday) for Bermuda. A minute or two later it crashed in the Caldeira da Agulva Hills about 2 1/2 miles north of the airfield and burst into flames.

Eisenhower Supporters Claim Slim Margin Farm Price Test Near

WASHINGTON (AP)—Eisenhower supporters forecast a slim but victorious margin today as the Senate entered the showdown stage in the battle over flexible vs. rigid farm price props. The lawmakers are working under an agreement to cut off debate and force a decision on this issue in the complex federal farm program. When the Senate convened at noon a five-hour time limit applied to the administration proposal for flexible federal price support of 80 to 90 per cent of parity for five basic crops: Cotton, wheat, corn, rice and peanuts. Parity is a farm product price said by law to be fair in terms of costs the farmer must pay. Majority leader Knowland of California and Chairman Aiken (R-Vt.) of the Senate Agriculture Committee said they are confident they can win the test by a narrow margin. But Sen. Young (R-ND), spokesman for a bipartisan group that wants to extend the rigid 90 per cent supports that have operated since World War II, said he expects to defeat the 80-90 per cent proposal. An unofficial advanced check seemed to back Knowland's claim. Forty-six senators were found to be favoring the administration plan, 44 were opposed and 6 undecided. With such a close margin, however, the number of absentees could turn out to be a deciding factor. The House already has passed a flexible supports bill with a slightly higher minimum, 82 1/2 per cent to 90, while the Senate Agriculture Committee decided 8-7 for the fixed 90 per cent rate. Knowland said he hoped to complete Senate action on the omnibus farm bill with a late night session, but that appeared unlikely. Even after the basic crop issue is settled, another fight may develop over support levels for milk, butter, cheese, and other dairy products. With millions of pounds of surplus butter, cheese and dried milk piled up in government hands, secretary of agriculture Benson lowered dairy supports from 90 to 75 per cent of parity on April 1. The House voted to boost them to 80 per cent, effective Sept. 1. The Senate Agriculture Committee, by another 8-7 vote, recommended raising them to 85 per cent. Aiken wants to hold them at the 75 per cent level and offer other kinds of benefits to dairy producers instead. The debate limitation agreement allows two hours for each amendment and more than 30 were pending with no restriction on offering others.

Hundreds Of Mourners Attend Final Services Quintuplet Is Buried Today

CALLANDER, Ont. (AP)—Emilie Dionne was laid to rest today in a little burial ground not far from the frame home where she and her quintuplet sisters were born 20 years ago. She went to the grave in a party dress of light blue crepe, a white rosary in her hands. Hundreds watched as the grey metal casket was lowered into the earth of the St. Roman Catholic cemetery at Corbell. The surviving quintuplets—Yvonne, Annette, Cecile and Marie—sobbed bitterly during the committal service. And few eyes were dry when it ended. More than 800 mourners crowded Corbell's faded red brick church for the funeral service, conducted by the parish priest, the Rev. W. H. Lacombe. When he sprinkled holy water on the casket and intoned the departing prayers Marie Dionne, who has had to give up at least temporarily her hope of becoming a nun, wept uncontrollably. She left the church, assisted by her mother and her sister, Mrs. Rose Marie Girouard. Hundreds of mourners waited outside beneath black and threatening skies, thrusting black umbrellas up into scattered drops of rain. There were more than 300 cars lining the roads leading to the Corbell church. Practically every resident of the area was there —so were many Americans who had driven to the spot since the news of Emilie's death Friday was flashed across the continent. Oliva Dionne Emilie's father, said last night the public would be admitted to the service after the family and close friends were seated. The church accommodates only a few hundred persons. Because the Corbell parish has no official gravedigger, each family must prepare its interment spot. Alme Marasse, a graying uncle of the quintuplets, prepared the last resting place for the shy and gentle girl who died last Friday at a Roman Catholic hotel in Ste. Agathe, Que., following an epileptic stroke. Meanwhile, U.S. experts on the neurological disorder reacted sharply to a Quebec medico-legal expert's report that an autopsy showed her death was caused by epileptic seizures brought on by "glandular disorders" creating lung congestion. Fearful of the effect of the announcement of the estimated 1 1/2 million epileptics in the United States, Dr. H. Houston Merritt, director of the Neurological Institute at Columbia University's Presbyterian Medical Center, told a news conference in New York that the mortality rate among epileptics is no greater than among non-sufferers. Epileptics, he said, usually die of natural causes, from falls during seizures or suffocation from burying their faces in pillows during or after an attack. Speaking with Dr. Merritt for the Epilepsy Association of New York and the Variety Club Foundation to combat Epilepsy, Dr. William Arnolds of the Neurological Institute said a "complete and accurate" report of the autopsy should be made available to medical journals as well as in laymen's language for the benefit of other epileptics. In its open gray metal casket, Emilie's body lay yesterday in the living room of the Dionne home halfway along the five-mile road between Callander and Corbell. An estimated 5,000 persons filed past it. For the first time since public viewing of the five girls was stopped 14 years ago, the big iron gates protecting the home were opened to the public. Flowers surrounded the casket. Emilie's dress was of crepe, in her favorite light blue, with white trimming. Her hands clasped a white rosary. The surviving quintuplets—Yvonne, Annette, Cecile and Marie—were not present. They met their sister's body when it arrived by funeral coach from Montreal Saturday night, then sat beside it until 2 a.m. Sunday. Shortly afterward, they arose and resumed their tearful vigil, but when the visitors were admitted to the fenced-in Dionne property, the four black-clad girls went to an upstairs bedroom. Their 51-year-old father, stood beside the casket. His wife, calm despite her grief, sat with two other women beside the doors and greeted many women callers personally.

Claims America, Britain And France 'Afraid' Rhee Wants U. S. Atomic Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Syngman Rhee says South Korea is "crying" for atomic weapons from the United States to help it drive the Communists from the northern half of Korea. In a copyrighted interview with the magazine U.S. News and World Report published today, Rhee also declared that Britain and France are not anti-Communist nations, and that the United States is retreating from the Chinese Reds by withholding support. Reiterating that South Korea can drive the Communists from the northern half of the peninsula, Rhee said, however, that he is asking the United States "to give us naval support and air coverage" as well as assistance in doubling the 650,000-man South Korean army.

During the interview, granted during the 79-year-old South Korean patriot's recent visit to Washington, this exchange occurred: Q: "Would the atomic bombs be useful in such a war (against the Reds in North Korea)?" Rhee: "I told your people: 'You'll never dare use the atomic bombs if you have them piled up like a mountain.'" Q: "Why?" Rhee: "They are afraid." Q: "Could you use them in your army?" Rhee: "We are crying for it." Q: "You mean for artillery?" Rhee: "If we had bombs they would be useful." Elaborating on his assertion that Britain and France are not anti-Communist nations, Rhee said:

"I think they are afraid of the Soviet and, also, a sufficient number of British subjects have already joined communism. Those people like Winston Churchill must get the votes to stand against communism. If they don't, there won't be anything there. . . . So many French people are already on the Communist side. (Gen. Charles) De Gaulle alone was considered really Anti-Communist." Rhee said, without giving dates, that South Korea had planned to move against the Communists in the north since the armistice was signed a little more than a year ago, "but when we were ready to move up, we found our gasoline drums were all locked up." Asked who had done that, Rhee replied: "Those who have the right to control that. . . . The United Nations, the Americans, but whoever it is, they began to ration the ammunition to three days' use each time." Rhee said Chiang's Nationalists on Formosa "are willing. . . . to go over on the mainland and start some fighting. . . . but the United States does not allow that." His own government, Rhee continued, wants to resume fighting with the Communists in the north, but American officials "say we're in a 'peace,' and he added: "So, whenever the Communists, our enemies, want to come in and take over, we have to let them do it. That's the idea." He said he thinks President Eisenhower "is trying all he can to solve this problem, but American officers think that we should not resume the fighting now because this would precipitate World War III. . . ."

Farmers Voting On Assessment Oct. 15

Farmers in Pitt County, along with other farmers in the state will vote on October 15 to determine whether the "Nickels for Know-How" program will be continued for a second three-year period. Under the program which has been in effect for the past three years the farm operators pay a five cent assessment on each ton of fertilizer or feed which they buy. The proceeds are turned over to the Department of Agriculture by the fertilizer and seed dealers. The Department of Agriculture in turn presents the funds to the Agriculture Foundation, Incorporated at State College. The foundation uses the money for agricultural research and education. The assessment has been netting approximately $140,000 per year for the foundation's work. The program will have to be approved by two-thirds of those voting in the October 15 referendum. It was approved by a large favorable vote in the first referendum held November 3, 1951. Three Pitt County men are on the Board of Directors of the Agriculture Foundation, Incorporated. They are: J. Con Lanier of Greenville and L.E. Walston and Ben Lang of Farmville. Pitt County Farm Agent Sam Winchester listed the following polling places for the referendum in Pitt County: Ayden, Town Hall; Beaver Dam, K.M. Crawford's Store; Belvoir, Dupree Brother's Store; Bethel,

New Town Hall; Carolina, Whitehurst Service Station; Chicod, Gardner and Brunson Store; Shilmerline, L. C. Venters Store; Simpson, H.H. Greenville, Eastern Pines Community Club Building; Grifton, Town Hall; Paeletts, Setherthwaite's Store; Swift Creek, Jesse L. Quinerly's Store; Swift Creek, Stokes and Lane Store; Winterville, Town Hall; Black Jack, Curtis Spencer's Store.

August 11 Will Be Last Of Wednesday Half-Holidays

Wednesday, August 11, will be the last Wednesday afternoon holiday this year for local merchants and business firms. B. D. Johnston, president of the Merchants Association, announced the date of the last Wednesday afternoon holiday. "In accordance with the practice of the merchants and business firms for many years," he said, "the Wednesday afternoon holiday ceases on the Wednesday prior to the opening of Greenville's tobacco market." Date for the opening of the market here this year has been set for Aug.

16. For many years the practice here has been to begin the Wednesday afternoon holiday the first Wednesday following Easter, and to continue these holidays to the Wednesday prior to the opening of the local tobacco market. Johnston explained if the market opens on a Monday or Tuesday the afternoon holiday is observed on the previous Wednesday, but if the market opening is set for a Thursday the stores remain open on the prior Wednesday. This year's market opening date comes on a Monday.

During the interview, granted during the 79-year-old South Korean patriot's recent visit to Washington, this exchange occurred: Q: "Would the atomic bombs be useful in such a war (against the Reds in North Korea)?" Macedonia Lutheran Church Scene Of McNeely-May Rites

BURLINGTON — In a beautiful ceremony at Macedonia Lutheran Church Saturday, August 7, at 8 p.m., Miss Barbara Watkins May and Cyrus Carmi McNeely Jr. of Mooresville and Burlington were married by the bride's pastor, Dr. Jefferson L. Norris.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Edward Hoell Foley and the late Benjamin Victor May. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Carmi McNeely Sr. of Mooresville. The wedding music was furnished by Mrs. Richard Thomas, church organist, and William Kirkpatrick, tenor soloist.

The bride was escorted by her stepfather, Edward Hoell Foley, who gave her in marriage. Her wedding gown was a Madame Barres original of white pure silk organza over taffeta trimmed with handclipped, imported Chantilly lace. The bodice was styled with a tight basque portrait neckline trimmed with lace and outlined with seed pearls. The sleeves, also trimmed in lace and seed pearls, came to a point at the wrists. The same lace, applied in sections, decorated the bouffant skirt which extended into a cathedral train. Her lace veil bought recently in Venice by her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. William Henry May Jr., was attached to her head with pearl orange blossoms. The bride's bouquet was of lilies of the valley, tuberoses and Baker fern centered with a white orchid and styled in a cascade design. Her only ornament was a pair of diamond earrings, gift of the groom.

Miss Louise Simpson May, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Mrs. John R. Leight of Serres, Greece, sister of the groom, was matron of honor. Their gowns were also Madame Barres creations of pure silk organza in pale topaz yellow. They were fashioned with tight basque portrait necklines outlined in gold lame with bows of organza in the back of the bouffant skirts, trimmed in gold lame. Their head-dresses were close fitted bands of crossed lame emphasized by dainty sprays of blending velvet flowers. They carried cascade bouquets of white feathered carnations, tuberoses, tawny gold roses and Baker fern tied with gold ribbon.

Serving as bridesmaids were Miss Ann Elizabeth May, sister of the bride; Mrs. Robert Thurston McNeely and Miss Alice Lenora McNeely of Mooresville, sisters of the groom; Mrs. John Alexander McCrary Jr. of Burlington, Mrs. William Van de Venter Leaning of Greensboro and Mrs. Rembrandt Peale Lane Jr. of East Orange, N.J.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Alamance Country Club amidst a setting of Japanese lanterns, candles, flowers and foliage. The guests were welcomed to Mr. and Mrs. Foley and Mr. and Mrs. McNeely. They proceeded to the breezeway where the bride and groom received. Refreshments were served from three beautifully appointed tables placed near the pool, in which there was a floating arrangement of flowers, candles, and greenery.

Their gowns and headresses were identical with those of the honor attendants. They carried bouquets of tawny gold roses, yellow souvenir roses and Baker fern tied with gold ribbon.

Mr. McNeely had as his best man his father, Cyrus Carmi McNeely Sr. of Mooresville. Groomsmen were Harding Winslow Rogers Jr. of Mooresville, cousin of the groom; his brothers-in-law, Robert Thurston McNeely of Mooresville and John R. Leight of Serres, Greece; Benjamin Victor May, brother of the bride; William Stratford May, the bride's cousin, from Scarsdale, N.Y.; and Charles Maurice Redfern Jr. of Monroe. Ushers were Asa Thurston McNeely of Mooresville and Elwood Boone Ligon of Burlington. Two young cousins of the bride, Emanuel May III and Ward May, served as acolytes.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Foley wore cornflower blue lace outlined with silver threads, matching hat, and corsage of white orchids. Mrs. Cyrus Carmi McNeely Sr. was gowned in dusty rose tulle with matching stole and overskirts of gray lace. Her corsage was also orchids. Mrs. William Henry Simpson, the bride's maternal grandmother, wore black lace with a corsage of pink roses.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs. McNeely left for a two weeks' honeymoon. Mrs. McNeely wore a three-piece suit of periwinkle blue linen with a flared skirt, a hat of the same color and material, a bag of periwinkle blue straw, and white shoes and gloves.

The bride was graduated from Duke University in June, 1951, with a major in secondary education. She has taught high school English for the past two years at Fairfax Hall Junior College in Waynesboro, Va. She made her debut at the Terpichorean Ball in Raleigh in 1943. Mr. McNeely was graduated from Davidson College in 1943. Following his graduation he served for three years in the 78th Infantry Division, U.S. Army. His overseas duty was in the European theater.

When he received his discharge he held the rank of captain. Following his discharge he became associated with Burlington Mills Corporation in Gastonia, and for the past five years he has been with the same corporation here. After August 23, the couple will be at home at 504 Trail I, Grove Park.

Buffet Dinner Given Bridal Couple-Elect

Miss Marion Brown and Madison Smith, whose marriage will take place on August 21, were guests of honor on Saturday evening when Miss Ann Oakley and Lewis Evans were hosts at a delightful buffet dinner at the Evans home on East Ninth Street.

The living room den and porch where auxiliary tables were placed were attractive with many varied arrangements of summer flowers. In the dining room the table was spread with a cut work linen cloth and had as a centerpiece a lovely bowl of red roses flanked by red candles.

Upon arrival Miss Brown was presented a corsage of pink sweetheart roses and Mr. Smith a white carnation boutonniere.

The bride-elect was presented honor gifts of silver by the host and hostess.

Funeral On Tuesday For L. Earl Brown

L. Earl Brown, 49, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital at two o'clock Monday morning following three months of illness.

Grand Jury Meets Today In Phenix City Crime Inquiry

PHENIX CITY, Ala., (AP)—Solemn members of a hand-picked grand jury meet in secret session here today to discover if possible who killed A. L. Patterson and to root out the fantastic factors that led to his death.

After Circuit Judge Walter B. Jones of Montgomery reopens the emergency grand jury session the 18 jurors will retire with special Solicitor George C. Johnson Jr. to consider indictments.

Some 125 witnesses have been served with almost 3,000 subpoenas to give evidence which might help rid Russell County of a criminal colony that has proven time and again it will stop at nothing.

Patterson's murder last June 18 touched off an explosion of outrage that the gamblers and vice lords didn't anticipate. Thus Patterson, who was gunned down in an alley a few days after receiving the Democratic nomination for attorney general, may yet accomplish in death what he had sworn to do had he lived to take office. The Phenix City attorney pledged in his campaign to clean up the notorious community.

There is no telling how long the jury may be in session. State investigators have dug up masses of evidence suggesting payoffs and neglect of duty by public officials as well as plentiful indications of wrongdoings by known vice kings.

However, it is the opinion of some court sources that the grand jury will make a partial report within the next 10 days and return indictments against many caught redhanded in the crackdown.

Early indictments may also be brought soon in the murder case. That theory was given a boost last week when acting Atty. Gen. Bernard Sykes announced that "I won't say we're looking for any more suspects."

And Sykes had previously emphasized it was "suspects, plural, and always has been."

Today's grand jury meeting came after a sweeping purge completely revised the county's legal setup, long tainted with suspicion of taking orders from racketeers.

Even before qualified martial law was declared by Gov. Gordon Persons, the state hastened to build up public confidence in the judiciary system by removing key county officers from any connection with the investigation.

Circuit Solicitor Arch Ferrell, who later identified himself as the prime suspect in the Patterson murder, has been replaced by Johnson, the Athens, Ala., solicitor with a reputation for strict honesty.

The former Russell County grand jury, which had reported it could find no evidence of gambling, was also thrown out along with the three-man jury commission. A new jury commission appointed by the governor filled the jury box with names recommended by the Russell (County) Better-

Elks Will Meet Campers Sunday

Members of Greenville Elks Lodge No. 1645 will go to Rocky Mount next Sunday afternoon to meet the dozen teen-age boys the lodge sent to the Elks Summer Camp at Hendersonville two weeks ago.

Chairman Heber B. Tripp said campers from four Eastern Carolina towns will arrive at Rocky Mount in the afternoon about 4:30. The boys are from Rocky Mount, Wilson, New Bern and Greenville.

When they arrive the Rocky Mount Elks Lodge will provide some entertainment and refreshments for them.

Rocky Mount Secretary Norman Y. Chambliss said the Rocky Mount Elks Lodge will be celebrating its third anniversary next Sunday, and the members are anxious for Elks of the four towns to visit with them on that day.

Sam C. Winchester, Jr., accompanied the Greenville boys to the Elks Summer Camp. The youngsters ranged from eight to 15 years of age. They are: James Harrington, Roger Collins, Jr., Tommie Henderson, Howard Sumerell, Jr., Douglas Sumerell, Joe Dresbach, Jr., Louis Everett, Charles Dickens, Jr., Louis Dail, Raymon Buck, Billy Stocks, and Jimmy Ricks.

Elks from New Bern and Wilson Elks lodges also will meet their campers at Rocky Mount.

Young Boy Safe After Kidnaping 'By Accident'

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP)—Four-year-old Bruce Parker was safe at home today after an accidental kidnap experience that left him a little hungry and thirsty but otherwise unharmed.

The youngster was found Saturday, still in the car which had been stolen from in front of a supermarket in Allentown, as he lay asleep in the back seat.

Edward Diehl, returning from a hunting trip, discovered the abandoned car on a dirt mountain road three miles east of Lehigh, ending the 37-hour search. The child's mother, Mrs. Albert Parker, left the car keys in the ignition and police theorized the thief drove off in the car without even noticing the youngster in the back seat.

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER
Leaders of the World Council of Church report that more than 125 women, leaders of their churches in half a hundred countries, will be in attendance at the Council's assembly, August 17 to 25, in Evanston, Ill. This is believed to be a larger proportion of women than have attended any previous general Christian world gathering. Other thousands of women will attend the assembly as accredited visitors from their churches and church agencies; most of these will be from the United States. The Evanston Committee has arranged that all women present will meet the women delegates at a series of functions on Sunday, Aug. 22. Among the women leaders are: Dr. Kathleen Bliss, of London, Eng., a governor of William Temple College, an executive of the British Council of Churches; Mile. Madeline Barot, of Switzerland, secretary of the Council's commission on the life and work of women in the church; Dr. Georgia Harkness, America's most noted woman theologian, and author of the official hymn written for the Assembly; Mrs. Rena Karefa-Smart, American-born leader of youth in the churches of the African Gold Coast.

Miss Carol Brice, of Indianapolis, a well-known Negro contralto, will be soloist with the Northwestern University Alumni Chorus and the Chicago Symphony Orchestra at one of the special features of the Assembly of the World Council of Church, August 19. That evening, in Ravinia Park, Chicago, this group will give a concert of sacred music. Miss Brice is the daughter of a

107-Year-Old Vet At Convention

DULUTH, Minn. (AP)—Albert Woolson, who at 107 is the sole survivor of the Union Army in the Civil War, tonight will see a bust of himself unveiled and presented to the city of Duluth.

The presentation will be made by the Sons of the Union Veterans of the Civil War and its auxiliary. Both groups open their national conventions here this morning.

Mrs. Helen Newbright of Dayton, Ohio, national patriotic instructor of the auxiliary, will turn the bust over to the city. It will be accepted by Mayor George D. Johnson.

Arriving yesterday for the 73rd annual encampment was Gen. U.S. Grant III, Washington commander in chief of the Sons of the Union Veterans. Also on hand were Albert C. Lamberg, secretary-treasurer, from Trenton, N.J., and Mrs. Mildred B. Webster, Springfield, Me., national auxiliary president.

Miscalculated In Escape Try

BELLEVILLE, N.J. (AP)—An elderly patient at a county hospital, who apparently miscalculated the height of his window, dropped three stories to his death yesterday as he tried to escape by climbing down a bed sheet.

The victim was 72-year-old William H. Lee of Orange, a patient at the Essex County isolation hospital. Authorities said Lee tied the sheet to a radiator and hung the sheet out a fourth floor window. But the authorities said he apparently thought he was on the second floor. Lee fell three stories to the ground and was killed.

Organ Improved By Age, Mishaps

NEW BERN, N. C. (AP)—A 100-year-old organ in use here originally was bought for $900 in 1854. Sixty-two years later it was hit by lightning. Church members said the organ's tone improves with age.

Unnecessary Procrastination By Council

Frankly, we can not understand the decision of Greenville's City Council to continue the present courtesy parking plan until November 1 and then do away with it.

Either the courtesy parking plan is of benefit and should be maintained, or its handicap to utilization of parking space off-sets the advantages the plan offers,

An Audience Doesn't Make The Show

We are afraid some senators may have a mistaken idea of what constitutes a "vaudeville".

It's not what the audience does that makes the show. It's what the people on the stage do.

The six-man committee which will investigate actions of Sen. McCarthy has placed a ban on TV and radio coverage of the sessions slated to be held this week. Before announcing their decision, the six committee members - including Sen. Ervin of North Carolina - expressed doubts about having radio and television coverage of the inquiry because they did not want the sessions turned into a "vaudeville", as they implied the Army-McCarthy hearings were.

A reporter with a pencil and pad, a TV camera or a radio microphone does not alter what is happening at a hearing or in any other incident. He merely transmits what is going on to the reading, listening or viewing audience. It is the actions of the men in front of the cameras, microphones or pencil and pad which make the news - not the men who are operating them.

If the special committee is afraid the inquiry into McCarthy's tactics will become a "vaudeville show" as they have stated, they had better take stock of their own plans for the investigation rather than banning radio and TV from the room. They won't stop the vaudeville by banning radio and TV. They'll only limit the audience which sees and hears the show first hand.

To reiterate, it is not the audience which causes an investigation to be orderly or take on the appearance of a side show. It is the group conducting it and the people participating in it.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
BITTERNESS CAN MAKE US SICK
Ever hear of an inferior complex?
Of course you have, and perhaps you have experienced such a thing yourself. It may arise from a lack of sleep or bad digestion or a series of frustrations - for frustration is an integral part of every normal life and is not the abnormal thing some psychologists would have us believe.
But if you do pity yourself, and if this self-pity arises from any sort of physical disturbance, the chances are that you will get over it after a good night's rest or a few days' vacation or a good evening of laughter and fellowship with friends. But if you are bitter and pretend to have nothing but contempt for those around about you, then you are sick. When you see the curling lip and hear some smarmy cry out, "Three sneers for everybody," you know that you are looking at a sick man. He needs rest. He needs understanding. Perhaps he needs a psychiatrist. And certainly he needs - as all of us do - the redeeming love of God shed abroad as a celestial light in his heart.
If we are wise, we will avoid bitterness, no matter how irritated we may become - no matter how fully our anger is justified. It is possible to diagnose the health or illness of body, mind, and soul by observing the extent to which one cherishes bitterness or spurns it.

National Whirligig

Prosperous Greece Likes U.S.

By RAY TUCKER
This article, from Athens, was written by Ray Tucker on his homeward bound trip from Cairo.
ATHENS, Greece - Greece is a paradise of friendship and gratitude to the United States in a section of the world where Uncle Sam's stock is steadily sagging. The Greeks' appreciation of U. S. aid is evident in their hospitable treatment of visitors from our country. They simply like us, and do not like the Russians.
Two recent events have lifted their spirits. The first was the heroic part which their small continent played in the Korean conflict, and the recognition which the American press gave to their bravery. It was a minor Marathon in its tonic effect.
The second was the leading role they had in organizing the new Eastern Mediterranean Alliance. The pact linking Greece with Turkey and Yugoslavia was largely an Athenian plan with the major discussions staged here amid considerable ceremonial. Greek statesmen now seek to persuade Marshal Tito to settle the Trieste dispute so that Italy may become a member.
ORGANIZATION FOR HARASSING RUSSIANS
It is this organization which Washington and London rely on to harass the Russians, whether they invade Central Europe or move toward the oil fields and the Suez Canal by way of Iran. Ancient Persia provides the only gap in the Allied defense line in this territory. Terrain to the east and west consists of a natural, mountainous bulwark, whereas Iran is flat.
No matter which way the Russians struck, the troops and air units of these three nations would be on their flank. It is estimated that the Mediterranean Alliance could mobilize approximately 2,000,000 men, and the Turks, Greeks and Yugoslavs have always had - and earned - a reputation as hardy fighters. The Turks did an excellent job in Korea, too. Other nations in this sector, with the exception of Israel, have only skeletons and paper forces.
GREEKS HANKER FOR CYPRUS - Only one se-and it should be abolished. Why all this procrastination by the City Council?

Who's playing footy with whom over this courtesy parking plan and why?

In our opinion, if the Council is going to do away with the courtesy parking plan in order to gain greater utilization of on-street parking facilities in the business district, the plan should be abolished by the time the tobacco market opens in order that the city may have the benefit of greater utilization of on-street parking during the fall when downtown traffic is at its peak and parking space is at a premium.

The need for the best possible utilization of on-street parking space will certainly be as great from mid-August to November as it will after November 1.

If the courtesy parking plan is to be abolished, it seems to us it is only fair to the citizens of the city and to the Merchants Association - which started and has financed the courtesy plan - to abolish it now rather than waiting another two-and-one-half months.

If continuation of the courtesy parking plan after November 1 will not be in the best interest of the citizens of the city, it is not logical that the plan is in the best interest of the citizens of the city from now until then. Conversely, if the courtesy plan is in the best interest of the citizens from now until November 1, why shouldn't it be in the best interest of the citizens thereafter?

This unnecessary procrastination by the City Council certainly is not in the best interest of the citizens of the City as a whole.

We Commend The Airport Authority

The Eastern Carolina Airport Authority and the four cities and two counties still taking part in the project are to be commended for continuing efforts to bring about the area airport despite the fact the adverse action by Wilson and Nash County Commissioners threatened to kill this vital project.

It is to be hoped that the other three cities and the two counties in the project will follow the example Greenville in appropriating additional funds to make up the deficit left by the failure of Wilson and Nash counties to appropriate their share of the funds for this year.

To some it may appear that the Airport Authority is presumptuous in asking the six remaining local government bodies for more money this year. Certainly the Authority has taken the bull by the horns in this move; but it is obvious that some action had to be taken unless the project was to be killed or delayed at least a year.

Federal aid for the project is virtually assured for this year if the project goes through. Had the project been allowed to fold after Wilson and Nash Counties turned thumbs down on their appropriations, at least a year would have been lost even if the project had not been entirely killed.

Business Today

Twenty Good Years

By ELMER ROESSNER
Twenty years of continuing prosperity in the capital goods market is foreseen by the Machinery and Allied Products Institute, as a consequence of a continuing study into obsolescence, depreciation and economic growth.
"For the next two decades, depreciation of plant and equipment by United States business enterprises is expected to continue at the present rate of about 75 per cent of current installations," the Institute states in its August Capital Goods Review. "Based on the long-run historical rate of growth of capital stock, depreciation will rise from the present level of $24 billion to an estimated $30 billion in 1960 and $45 billion by 1975."

Interim reports on the study indicated that future replacement demand for plants would decline after several years of growth but that, in contrast, the demand for equipment alone would continue to rise, doubling by 1960 and tripling by 1975. This conclusion is sharpened in the August report, which states: "Retirements will vary, with the rate of plant retirements progressively declining, at a moderate rate, from its present level, while equipment retirements seem destined to rise sharply from a current rate of 40 per cent of installations to more than 60 per cent by 1975."
The Institute says its figures confound those who say that the American plant has been overbuilt. Its investigation today concludes "that not only has total investment in plant and equipment since World War II not been excessive, despite the backlog of demand created by the war, but that the current level of capital expenditures will probably be sustained in the future and expanded in accordance with the normal growth trend."
Thus, if the Institute's analysis is correct, it looks pretty good for builders of plants and just dandy for the manufacturers of equipment.

9 OF 10 UNENLIGHTENED? ... IF SO, WHERE'S PROOF? ...
"For a long time now one distiller has been advertising that '9 out of 10 men don't know what proof means in a whiskey.' After all that advertising, shouldn't the ratio now be down to 8 out of 10?"

PATENTING ADVISED ... WHENEVER POSSIBLE ...
Patenting all patentable inventions and designs is urged on manufacturers by Harry Aaronson, head of Perfect Knit Togs, once a victim of considerable piracy. After starting its first plant in Allentown, Pa., his company produced a number of infants' and children's items. "Although these were original and of imaginative designs, the market was soon swamped by a host of inferior imitations of our products," Mr. Aaronson said. "Only by patenting our new line have we surmounted that difficulty. Since obtaining our first patent, sales figures have more than doubled."

Patents doubly protect a company, he pointed out. They protect it from piratical competition and they also protect it from loss of confidence that results when consumers confuse its products with the shoddy goods of imitators.

ADD CURIOUS THINGS ... TAX MONEY GOES FOR ...

A new publication of interest to contractors and builders has been announced by the Housing and Home Finance Agency. It is a study of the stiffness characteristics of residential floors, including the relation of deflection to plaster cracking and vibration, entitled "Deflection Characteristics of Residential Wood-Joint Floor Systems. The 34-page booklet is available from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, 25, D.C., for 40 cents.

Vacations And Recreation In Today's Economic Picture

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Manufacturers, merchants, and job seekers should always be looking for new industries. Habits control buying; and buying habits are constantly changing.

WHAT ABOUT AUTO TRIPS?
Vacations have been on the increase ever since my boyhood. Vacationing is not a new industry. Since World War II, however, it has become a big industry, primarily because of the vacations which almost all employers give their wageworkers. Vacations have become a MUST.

Automobiles have been the factor of booming vacations. If your automobile helps you to relax, then an automobile trip is beneficial. If, however, it is tiring and not relaxing, then it is harmful. It does the postman no good to "take a walk" on Sundays. Do something different when on your vacation - something you don't have the time to do ordinarily.

VACATIONS AT HOME
The best vacation is to be able to do as you want to do for two weeks. Get up when you want to, go where you want to, and take a real rest. Give your wife a rest from cooking and washing dishes. Buy things which do not need cooking. Cooking is a bad habit in summer, and dishwashing is worse! Use paper plates in summer!

A real rest includes resting our stomachs. Doctors agree we should give our digestive organs a good vacation each year, spending money for fruits rather than for meats; and drinking lots of milk and water. In winter we must eat for two reasons: (1) to get physical strength, and (2) to keep warm. In summer we do not need to eat to keep warm. I forecast that in years ahead people will give much more attention to eating less in the summer. In fact, experts tell me that each season of the year requires a different diet, both as to quantity and quality.

RECREATION ON THE INCREASE

Whatever your business or job, do not forget that "working hours" will be shorter rather than longer. This means that everyone will have more leisure time. This is the reason for the boom in "Do-It-Yourself" industries, which are hurting some trades, but helping others. See your local public library for one of the home-craft magazines which describe such work, or visit one of the many shows which the Orkin people of 19 West 44th St., New York City, are putting on to help merchants.

All the above means that your real pay in future years will be in money plus hours of leisure. Hence, it is of great importance for us to "cash in" on these extra leisure hours by using them in worthwhile ways - not for "hammockswining," "joyfaneurto mock swinging." If you are not now a carpenter, mason, or electrician, you should attend night school or subscribe to a correspondence course which will teach you how to profitably use these extra leisure hours.

WHEN SELECTING INVESTMENTS

The older conservative investors do not approve of shorter hours, higher wages, etc., but this change is coming. It is foolish to buck it. Most people don't like physical work. This explains why coal stocks have been going down in price, while oil stocks have been going up in price. We prefer a thermostat to a coal shovel or ash sifter!

Stocks of electric refrigerator manufacturers have doubled in value, while the manufacturers of ice boxes have gone into bankruptcy. The tremendous growth of the frozen-food industry - including fruit juices - illustrates my warning: When making an investment - however small - be sure that it is in a company which saves labor. Make money by catering to the lazy streak in us all. This is why we telephone instead of write. I forecast higher prices for "lazy stocks."

WATCH YOUR CHANGE!

Many merchants are complaining about the "dishonesty" of sales clerks in retail stores when giving back change from a cash register. A study of over 400 stores indicates all these mistakes in change are not due to dishonesty. They are due to the mental laziness of clerks and customers in not counting their change!

Thinking requires energy, the same as does manual labor. Most "white-collar" help hate to think and concentrate. Hence, they make careless mistakes. My father, who had a successful store in Gloucester, Mass., taught me always to count my change, and always tear a little paper off the wrapping of my purchase to be sure I have the right package.

Despite Scare Propaganda, N.C. Polio Incidence Low

By LYNN NISBET

POLIO - Despite some scare headlines and propaganda used by the National Association for Infantile Paralysis this is not a bad polio year in North Carolina. Through August 4 there had been 185 cases reported since January 1, a decline of 62.5 per cent from the 1953 record to same date. The nationwide reports to same date show a decline of 5 per cent. Since the peak incidence in North Carolina occurs on average of 10 or 12 years in mid-July, Dr. J.W.R. Norton, State health officer, hopes there will not be many more cases reported. However, he warns against undue optimism because in 1948, the worst year for North Carolina, when 2,516 cases were reported, the peak was reached in October.

COMMON SENSE - Dr. Norton, who sat in on Governor Umstead's latest news conference, joined the Governor in pleading for a common sense approach to the problem. The Governor, the State health officer and the reporters present agreed that there should be no attempt to withhold news about the incidence of polio, but that the news reports should accurately reflect the real situation. They further agreed that on basis of rating epidemic stage when there are 40 cases per 100,000 population there is nothing approaching an epidemic anywhere in North Carolina. Wake county with 23 cases reported in population of 140,000 has the highest incidence, but that is less than half epidemic stage.

Dr. Norton adverted to the impression which has gained acceptance in many quarters that North Carolina is a "bad" polio State. He said this is not true, that this year California, Florida and Texas - to name only three States on which he had authoritative information - had a much higher incidence rate than North Carolina. In 1948 when this State reported 2,516 cases it was bad. That was an exception, and in the long run North Carolina is no worse, probably better, than average. The scare headlines and emotional appeals serve no good purpose, but do contribute to less business with consequent lower general income and resultant less ability to combat the disease, he said.

CUMULATIVE - One of the big problems, which neither Governor Umstead nor Dr. Norton had a satisfactory solution, is the practice of cumulative reporting of incidence without accompanying progress reports on the individual cases. It was admitted that the 185 cases listed on the North Carolina report through August 4 probably included a number of mild cases which had been temporarily hospitalized and released with no permanent ill effects. Records at the health department show when the cases were reported, but there are no follow-up records about what happened to them. Dr. Norton said it is entirely possible, even very probable, that a number of the 185 cases reported this year and still carried on the list, cannot by any stretch of meaning be presently classed as active cases. Some of them were very mild, have returned home from hospitals, need no further treatment and almost have forgotten that they had polio last winter or spring.

Big Monument To A Fish Dinner

By HAL BOYLE

BEULAH, Wyo. (AP) - There is a one-million-dollar monument to a fish dinner near here. The monument is Ranch "A," one of the fabulous showplaces of the West. Local residents tell this story of its origin:

In the early 1930's the late Moses Annenberg, multi-millionaire publisher, passing through this area on a motor tour to Yellowstone Park, stopped for dinner in a restaurant in a nearby town. He was served trout, and found them amazingly succulent.

"Where did these come from?" he asked. He was told they came from Sand Creek, which some experts regard as one of the two best trout streams in the world (the other is in Switzerland, or Colorado, or wherever you caught your last trout).

The next morning Annenberg drove to the heart of this fisherman's paradise, took a long look at the beautiful salmon-colored cliffs and the clear-flowing stream, and said two words to the owner. "How much?" He bought it on the spot.

In the next few years Annenberg is reported to have spent approximately a million dollars on the ranch. The great lodge - it has 8 bedrooms and 6 baths - was built of huge logs, and filled with fine hand-carved western style furniture. He put in a 9-car garage, a huge barn in which each horse has its own automatic drinking fountain.

The draperies in the lodge are of horsehide, elaborately beaded. The giant Navajo rugs can no longer be duplicated; looms that size no longer exist. Ranch "A" (for Annenberg) is small as ranches go out here - only 680 acres, slightly more than a square mile. But it is a fish ranch, not a beef ranch. It has some 40 elk, 200 deer, and flocks of wild turkey and ruffed grouse - but its main stock is in its flowing hatchery housing several hundred thousand delectable trout.

Is the fishing good? Sen. Bricker of Ohio once cast a fly from the front porch of the lodge and hauled in a 14-pound rainbow beauty.
Annenberg, who also maintained fishing lodges in Florida and Pennsylvania, came here less frequently in his later years and disposed of the property before his death. It is now owned by Pete Smith, 6-foot 7 son of a former Wyoming governor.

Smith estimates it would take $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 at today's prices to duplicate the lavish splendor of Ranch "A."

"Annenberg built it to last forever - and it should last forever," he said. "I've been told that each of the bronze casement windows cost $1,600."

Pete and his pretty wife, Oydys, love the quiet charm and seclusion of their canyon retreat. They can sit on the porch at evening and watch elk come cautiously out to graze on the 1,000 foot ledges that border murmuring Sand Creek.

"One of the nicest things is that no dust gets into the lodge," said Oydys, giving a housewife's view.

But tempting as it is as a place to loaf, Pete, who has been a cattleman all his life, has decided that even a showplace ought to show a profit.

"There is no reason this hatchery can't harvest 150,000 pounds of trout a year," he said, "and trout brings a dollar a pound."

One single fish dinner led to the building of Ranch "A." But a lot more trout now will have to go to market to keep it going.

nowhere in the solving of the problem.

Governor Umstead adopted the policy of naming a 19-member commission of lawyers, business men, school people, farmers and what have you of both races to study the matter and advise him what course to pursue. He also asked the State Board of Education to study the matter and Chairman Luther Hodges appointed a special committee of the board for that purpose. Results of these studies, as well as those made by special groups from Parent - Teacher Associations, school board and county commissioner association, all will go into the general "po" out of which the Governor and the General Assembly hopes to get a satisfactory answer to the big question.

There are on one extreme the people who want to immediately integrate the races, and on the other those who want positive declaration that white and Negro children will never be permitted to attend the same schools in this State. The great mass of citizenship between these extremes is seeking information about the best way to proceed. Determination of the course of action requires careful study, and careful study in being given the problems.

Governor Umstead, Attorney General McMullan, State Superintendent Carroll and their official and advisory associates are feeling their way along to avoid the catastrophe which might come if either of the extreme viewpoints was adopted. It is generally understood that immediate enforcement of an integration policy would mean revolution in eastern North Carolina, and a declaration of defiance against the Supreme Court policy would get

Italian Rightists Discussing Union

ROME (AP)—Italy's Fascist and Monarchist parties are discussing union in an extreme right wing bloc.

Alfredo Covelli, Monarchist party leader, confirmed the negotiations with the Fascist Italian Social Movement (MSI), which expresses nostalgia for the days of Benito Mussolini. They aim at "a pact of united action," he said.

Covelli controls 31 deputies and 14 senators. The fascists have 29 deputies and 9 senators. Even united, they would have only nuisance value in Parliament. The ruling center bloc, dominated by the Christian Democrats party, holds 303 out of 590 Chamber of Deputies seats and 126 of the 237 Senate seats.

Monarchist strength recently was weakened when millionaire shipowner Achille Lauro bolted the party, taking eight deputies and one senator with him. Lauro generally is supporting the government.

The trend toward rightist unity does have long range significance, in the opinion of political observers. Both the Monarchists and Fascists have showed growing strength in the last two national elections. By getting together now and planning their campaigns together, they could become a more important challenge to the government.

Slayer Held In Mental Hospital

DETROIT (AP)—A 22-year-old man who told police he beat and kicked his mother to death last night "because she was possessed of the Devil" was held as a police prisoner today in a hospital mental ward.

Glenn Green told Detective David Harris that he assaulted his mother, Mrs. Alice Green, 70, of Vioco, Ky., as she lay in bed "because she was possessed of the Devil and the Bible says the only thing to do is to beat the Devil out of them."

Mrs. Green was visiting her son, his wife and two children.

She died shortly after admittance to Receiving Hospital with a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Green's wife Ollie Louis, 21, told police her husband pulled his mother from her bed, beat her, threw her to the floor and stamped on her.

Mrs. Green said her husband first showed signs of a mental strain while training with the Army reserves at Ft. Eustis, Va., last June. He is a veteran of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

She said he had been admitted to Valley Forge (Pa.) General Hospital, where doctors said he was a violent mental case. She said she had checked him out of the hospital against the Army's wishes.

As Green was being locked up, he asked police "Is my mother dead?" When told she wasn't, (police had not yet learned of Mrs. Green's death) he remarked: "That is too bad, because if she lives the Devil will leave her and get into me."

World's Folklore And Dances To Be Reviewed

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—The baiao, hu, conga, frevo samba, square dance and morris dance, among many others are scheduled for a lot of discussion and demonstration — re this month.

The occasion will be the International Congress of Folklore, and the seventh International Conference of Folk Music, to be held in conjunction here beginning Aug. 16. Delegates from 24 nations are scheduled to attend the two meetings, which will be a part of Sao Paulo's fourth centennial celebration.

Beside the formal study sessions of the congress and the conference, special exhibitions of folk dancing and folk arts are planned.

The organizers as yet are uncertain just what the foreign delegations will offer. But from Brazil proper there will be schools of saraba, and "capoeiristas" from Bahia. The last are specially trained men who stage a dance-fight to the music of the berimbau, reco-reco and tambourine. It was brought to Brazil by slaves from Angola, Africa.

Among the congress themes are folklore and basic education; folk music and popular music; comparative folklore; and international relations between folklorists and folklore groups. The conference will study the migration and changes of European musical folklore; characteristics of folklore in South America; the definition of folklore music and its preservation; and the mutual influence of folklore music and artistic music.

Prof. Ralph S. Boggs of the University of Miami will represent the United States.

Checking Tips On Kennel Poisoning

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Sheriff's officers were checking numerous tips today in their quest for the person who threw strychnine loaded wiensers into a kennel, killing eight dogs that were being trained to lead blind persons.

Deputy Sheriff Eric W. Stephens, in charge of the investigation said nothing definite had been turned up.

Meanwhile, John L. Sinykin, training director for the Master Eye Foundation of America, feared about seven of 15 other dogs would not survive.

Sinykin, who termed the poisoning as "the most inhuman act I've ever seen," knew of no enemies who might have poisoned the valuable animals.

Sinykin said the dogs that died had been valued at about $20,000. Among them was Sir Lancelot, the national champion.

Offers of aid and messages of sympathy reached Sinykin from more than a dozen states.

The Master Eye Foundation of America is a non-profit organization devoted to training German shepherds and providing them to guide blind persons.

Stars Advance To State Tourney

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Editor

Greenville's high-flying, unbeaten Tar Heel All-Stars advance to the State tournament tomorrow at Durham needing only two wins to bring the team back to Greenville for the Regionals.

Greenville goes into action in the four team tourney tomorrow afternoon. The final game of the tournament will be on Wednesday afternoon.

The finals in the district Little League playoffs have been announced and the pairings for the State Tournament have been made. At 3 o'clock Tuesday, Mooresville plays Norwood. At 4:30 Tuesday Greenville plays Durham. The winners of these games play at 3:30 Wednesday.

Mooresville reached the tourney by defeating Hickory 5-3. Norwood downed Charlotte 3-2. Durham beat Greensboro 4-1, and Greenville triumphed over Rocky Mount by 4-2.

Ace pitcher Merrill Bynum will be available for the final game Wednesday if the Greenville team gets that far. For the first game the starting pitcher has not been announced yet by Greenville managers Neely James and Ford McGowan. The probably shunker will be Jack Whitley.

Whitley was one of the stars in the win over Jacksonville. In that game he allowed a home run and three runs in the first inning but only one run and three hits over the last five innings. The other pitchers that might get the nod on the hill are Billy Jenkins and Joe Moyer.

The two most active pitchers on the team will not be available for the opening game. Bill Clapp pitched his second win of the tournament against Rocky Mount Friday and Merrill Bynum relieved him for the last batter when Clapp got into trouble in the last inning. Tournament rules will not allow a pitcher to pitch in two consecutive games or 12 innings in a week. Although Bynum pitched to only one batter he will not be able to pitch at all in the opening game.

So far in the tournament pitching has been the most reliable source for the Greens. In four games the Greenville pitchers have allowed an average of two earned runs per game. In the four games the Greenville opponents have been able to get only 15 hits or slightly less than four per game.

Greenville has slashed out 24 hits in the four games for an average of six hits per game. The Greensies have a team batting average of .284 compared to their opponents .177.

Another strong factor in the Greenville success is the strong defense. In four games they have made only three errors.

Coaches James and McGowan will probably go with the same line-up that has been winning for them. That line-up would have Joe Moyer (.300) at first base, Billy James (.083) at second base, Harry Forbes (.400) at shortstop, Bobby Arthur (.333) at third base. The outfield would have Billy Jenkins (.143) in left field, Merrill Bynum (.545) in center field, and Jeff Fountain (.300) in right field. Bill Clapp (.222) will be the catcher.

Falkland Takes One-Sided Wins

FALKLAND—Falkland walloped Grimesland in a pair of Tobacco Belt League Baseball games over the past week end.

On Saturday, in a game played in Grimesland, the Falkland nine defeated the home team 17-2. Playing at Falkland Sunday the score was 23-2.

The two wins give Falkland a 23 victories in the fast closing Tobacco Belt League regular season schedule. The local nine has been beaten only eight times.

In the final two games of the regular season the local nine meets Belvoir in a pair of games on Sunday. This doubleheader will be played in Falkland.

On Saturday night the Falkland nine goes to Farmville for another game with that town's entry in the Central Carolina League. These two teams met in an intra-league game on July 31 with Falkland winning 8-1.

Floridian Wins Seniors' Crown

ALLENTOWN, Pa. — Jack Stinson of St. Petersburg Fla., playing for the first time in the Seniors Division, defeated C. Alphonso Smith of New London, Conn., 7-5, 6-3, yesterday to win the National Seniors Clay Court Tennis Championships.

The tourney also marked Smith's debut in the senior's division, limited to players 45 years of age and over.

Whip Giants

PORTLANE, Ore. — The Los Angeles Rams, aided by the deadly passing of Norm Van Brocklin defeated the New York Giants 30-7 in an exhibition professional football game here last night.

Memphis Bill Is Mellowed By Age

By JACK HAND
(For Gayle Talbot)

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. — When Bill Terry played ball and managed the New York Giants, they used to say he was the "what's in it for me" type. Maybe he was. But old Memphis Bill, at 55, has mellowed.

He was back at Cooperstown today to accept in person his election to baseball's Hall of Fame and tickled to death to be present.

"At first I used to get a little disgusted at the way they look personalities into consideration," he admitted. "It got so I almost didn't care if I ever did get elected. When I was named I had to sit down and think it out and realize what it really meant. I don't know of anything more important that has happened to me."

Terry, of course, had his worst

Caught Bass On His Third Try

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. — L. J. Carr hooked a 3 1/2-pound big-mouth bass in Prairie Lee Lake yesterday but the fish got away twice before he finally landed it.

There were several boatloads of fishermen, including a divinity student to verify the story.

The bass broke Carr's line after a 10-minute fight. A few minutes later the fish began breaking water trying to shake the plug from its mouth.

Tiring, the bass lay on the surface. Carr started to lift it into the boat but it broke away again and repeated the acrobatics.

Carr borrowed a net and scooped up the bass the next time it stopped to rest.

Indians, Braves Bring Up Possibility Of 1948 Rivalry

By JOE REICHLER
AP Sports Writer

Cleveland's steady stream of victories and Milwaukee's spectacular late-season drive have brought up the possibility of a renewal of the 1948 Indians-Braves World Series rivalry.

The betting gentry probably will give long odds it won't happen but baseball has had miracles before. Remember the New York Giants' incredible 1951 finish?

A little over two weeks ago, if anybody had even suggested a Cleveland-Milwaukee World Series, he would have been hauled to the nearest nuthouse. Just 18 days ago, on July 23 the Braves were mired in National League's fourth place, 15 1/2 games behind the Giants. The Indians were leading the American League by a hatline half-game over the New York Yankees.

What a change those two and a half weeks have brought. The Braves in third place today trail the pace-setting Giants by only 7 1/2 games. Fourteen Milwaukee victories in 16 games have slashed eight lengths from New York's lead. Cleveland has won 15 of 19 during the same period and widened its margin over the Yankees to four games. That is the Indians' biggest lead since July 4.

Milwaukee whipped the Giants again yesterday 5-2 to sweep the three-game series at the Polo Grounds. A fine six-hit performance by southpaw Warren Spahn and a perfect day at bat by slugging third baseman Eddie Mathews were the features. Mathews smashed his 30th homer, off loser Sal Maglie, singled in another run and scored twice.

Effective pitching by Bob Lemon and Art Houtteman and home run hitting by Lemon and Larry Doby highlighted the Indians' 7-2 and 5-2 doubleheader sweep over the inept Philadelphia Athletics. Lemon's homer with one on overcame an early 2-1 Philadelphia lead in the first game. Doby's 3-run homer off Alex Kellner in the first inning, his 26th of the season, got the Indians off to a flying start in the nightcap.

Pinch hitter Jimmy Deising's two-run homer in the 10th inning broke up a free-hitting affair as Detroit made it two in a row over the Yankees with a 10-8 triumph. The Yankees had overcome 4-0 and 8-5 Tiger leads to force the game into overtime. Deising's dramatic homer inflicted the fourth defeat upon ace reliever Johnny Sain and gave Steve Gromek his 13th victory.

Brooklyn's runner-up Dodgers closed to within three games of the Giants with a 20-7 romp over the Cincinnati Redlegs. Aided by third baseman Chuck Harmon's two-out error, the Dodgers rapped across 13 runs in the eighth, 12 of them unearned, to set a scoring record for that inning. Gil Hodges helped Carl Erskine achieve his 14th victory, banging out four hits including a double and triple in the big eighth.

Chicago's third-place White Sox dropped seven games behind Cleveland dividing a doubleheader with Washington. Rookie southpaw Jack Harshman shut out the Senators

Landy Surprised By Mile Defeat

By JACK HEWINS

VANCOUVER, B.C. — John Landy the Australian running machine who flows along like a quiet brook, shook his head today in slight bewilderment over the "Miracle Mile" he lost Saturday to Dr. Roger Bannister of England.

"If anyone had told me I would run the mile in 3:58.6 and finish second, I'd have taken him on a bet right there."

Bannister ticked off the first lap in 59.2, the second in 59.8, the third in 59.6 and the last quarter in 60.2 seconds. Landy got the big jump that kept him in front so long by wheeling the opening quarter in 58.2. After that his times were slower than Bannister's—60.1 each for the second and third and 61.2 for the last.

Just before Bannister went ahead they passed the clockers at the 1,500-meter mark and Landy was clocked in 3:41.9, topping the world record of 3:43 for the metric mile.

Rich Ferguson of Canada ran the greatest race of his life to take third place ahead of Vic Milligan of North Ireland and Murray Halbert of New Zealand.

Bannister now will go back to England to work at being a doctor. "My medicine comes first," he said.

He does plan, however, to compete next month in the European games at Bern, Switzerland.

Landy probably will go to Glasgow, Scotland, to compete in a mile race Aug. 20. Then he will go back to Melbourne to begin a teaching career Sept. 3.

BATTING—Ed Pellagrini, Pittsburgh Pirates, scored four runs and drove in two with a double and single in a 12-4 first game victory over the St. Louis Cardinals and batted in three runs with another double and single in the 5-3 nightcap victory as the Pirates swept the second doubleheader from the Cards in three days.

PITCHING—Jack Harshman, Chicago White Sox hurled his second shutout and ninth victory with a second game 3-0 performance against Washington after the Senators had won the opener 7-6 on Roy Sievers' two home runs.

Dairies Lose In Final Of Tourney

Jesse Turner of the sponsoring Roanoke Rapids Moose Lodge 1715 is shown awarding the runner-up trophy to Greenville Carolina Dairy manager Pete Carraway while Bob Dash and L. E. Johnson of the Dairy look on. Greenville finished second in the district tournament to the Roanoke Rapids Romancoes.

Carolina Dairies softball team went up to the district tournament in a best two-out-of-three series with the Roanoke Rapids Romancoes and wound up the loser of the last two games after winning the first one.

The Greenville team made quite an impression on the Roanoke Rapids fans. L. E. Johnson, the strong armed pitcher of the Dairies team, pitched every inning of all three games and was very obviously one of the best pitchers in the district tournament when the final game was over.

In the first game Johnson allowed seven well scattered hits and only one run as the Greensies won by a 3-1 score. Greenville scored in the first inning when Perry singled and scored on a three base error. In the sixth inning Greenville scored the winning run when Perry singled, went to second when Paul Jones reached base on an error, and scored on another error.

Paul Jones got two doubles in the game for Greenville.

In the last two games Johnson was very definitely weakening as the Romancoes started driving hits off the Dairies ace. Paul Jones home run was the only Greenville run in the last inning.

Red Edwards was voted the most valuable player in the tourney. Bob Dash, the Carolina Dairies catcher,

Players Added To Hall Of Fame

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. — Baseball's Hall of Fame swings the gate wide open to nine new members today at the annual dedication of plaques honoring the game's greatest stars of the past.

Bill Dickey, New York Yankee coach and one of the great catchers and Bill Terry, the slugging first baseman who managed the New York Giants to three pennants, will accept in person.

Five of the new members are dead. The other two, Tom Connolly, the veteran American League umpire, and Bobby Wallace, a star shortstop of the 1890s and early 1900s, are too ill to appear.

Those honored posthumously are Rabbit Maranville, Ed Barrow, Bill Klem, Chief Bender and Harry Wright. The veteran members of the baseball writers association elected Maranville, who died Jan. 5, on the same ballot with Dickey and Terry. A special oldtimers committee selected the other six.

The World Champion New York Yankees, on their way home from a western trip, will play the Cincinnati Redlegs in an exhibition game at Doubleday Field.

Charge Boxer Is Narcotics User

PHILADELPHIA — Otis Graham, who lost a split decision to Welterweight Champion Kid Gavilan in 1950, is charged by police with using narcotics.

Graham, a 26-year-old Philadelphia native, was arrested Saturday and ordered held under $2,500 bail.

Police said they found heroin and materials for administering the drug in his apartment.

There's Beauty And Difficult Roads For Paris-Bound Tourist

Editor's Note: How do you take to hairpin gravel trails that would make a mountain goat dizzy? Would you prefer a traffic jam on a Venetian canal? The five Beckers — Bill, his wife Rae, and their three daughters — experienced both on the last leg of their motor junket to Paris. Here is the list of four stories.

By BILL BECKER
PARIS (AP) — From the top of the Eiffel Tower, or Montparnasse or strolling along the Champs Elysees — not matter how you look at it, there's only one Paris. The beauty and vitality of the city almost smothered us at first sight. But the traffic on the Champs, Rue de Rivoli, or any major boulevard resembles the first lap of the Memorial Day race at Indianapolis.

Paris climaxed a hectic one-week drive through Italy and France. After crossing the Austrian Tyrol and Brenner Pass, we dipped into some of Europe's wildest country—the Italian Dolomites, scores of sheer, jagged cliffs more imposing than Half Dome in California's Yosemite.

We crossed passes 7,000 feet high on hairpin gravel trails one-car wide that would shame any back road in Colorado. Peasants with faces rough-hewn as wood carvings stared at us unbelievably. We finally labored into Cortina d'Ampezzo, the site selected for the 1956 Winter Olympics. From there, thankfully, it was downhill all the way to Venice — city of canals, gondolas, and varied sights and smells.

We did the usual tourist routine — St. Mark's, feeding the pigeons on the Plaza, and an hour's gondola ride down the Grand Canal. Our route to the Riviera took us through walled Mantua, historic Cremona and bustling Piacenza. Here we verified what we had begun to suspect in Venice: Italians are the most voluble people, day or night. For the second straight night, we were awakened about 3 a.m. by spirited discussion. I can't say arguments, because Italians always seem to talk at the top of their lungs. Besides, we didn't understand a word.

We saw women washing clothes in mountain streams and carrying the loads balanced neatly on their heads — no hands. We didn't see any such bundle-balancing in cities but it can be reported the Italian female has probably the best posture in Europe.

The palm-lined Riviera shore resembles Southern California or Florida beaches. We went swimming on both the Italian and French sides, with the beach at Cannes proving a special treat. Here the girls and dear old dad got generous eye-fulls of Bikini bathing suits for the first time. Conclusion: Many French girls are overconfident.

On the Italian Riviera, at Imperia, we found one of our better hotel bargains — two sprawling bedrooms in an old ducal manse with marble floors and paintings on the ceilings, plus supper with chianti on a bougainvillea-covered terrace, all for $10 for five. Then we headed into the higher rent district of France.

Yet it's not impossible for a family of five to get by in France, even Paris, on a $20-a-day total. (We held to this average throughout our 17-day continental trip.) The secret is only one big meal a day and plenty of French bread for lunch. That's no hardship — those long "flutes," yard-long loaves with the world's tastiest crust, make superb sandwiches no matter what you put on them.

Beautiful weather followed us across Italy and up through the sycamore-lined roads of the Provence and Rhone Valley in France. The motorist should be advised that gasoline, costly enough at 65 to 60 cents a gallon in Italy and Germany soars to 70 to 75 cents in France.

The French and Italians drive by ear, leaning incessantly on the horn. It may be the right approach — lanes are not marked and you never know when someone might dart out of a side road or street.

But all previous driving problems pale when you reach Paris. Perhaps the best advice is to park your car and use the Metro (subway). Bucking Paris traffic is an unforgettable experience. It moves amazingly fast except on side streets where jams, often caused by horse or handcarts, can hold you up 15 or 20 minutes at a time. And Parisian drivers weave in a manner that leaves even a veteran of Los Angeles traffic gawking.

Somehow, without scraping a fender, we managed to visit Versailles (30 cent admission fee), the Louvre (15 cents), Notre Dame and the cathedrals at Bourges and Rheims.

Rae and I put the girls to bed early one night and visited several clubs on a "package" tour. Our group included a jolly Irish couple.

"Bet Dublin was never like this," I put in as we watched one show.

"They tried it once," the Irishman replied. "Paddocked the first night."

There's still only one Paris.

Doubles Write Fan Mail To Film Stars

By HUBBARD KEAVY
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Strangest fan mail addressed to big names in Hollywood comes from their voice doubles in Italy. In 1953, the Italians dubbed 280 American pictures.

There are voice doubles for every big star, and these voices, although their owners are not billed, are known to fans all over Italy. The actor who doubles for Gregory Peck, for instance, does very little more than be an Italian Peck. So he is concerned with Peck, whose he makes a lot of pictures and that they all will be good. But if the picture isn't well liked in the Italian market, here, says James Stewart, is what happens:

The Taming of Carney Wilde

by BART SPICER

CHAPTER NINETEEN

BREAKFAST arrived on a high, wobbly cart pushed by a young colored boy. The tray was crammed with metal-covered dishes. In one corner was a new cellophane toothbrush and a small tube of paste.

After breakfast I called Capt. Grodnik on the telephone and told him what had happened. He had no new information.

He said: "A girl answering Mary McVicker's description was reported on a flight to Pittsburgh, but almost any girl of the right age would answer that description. We haven't got a thing. That's why I had to give it to the FBI. You understand. Sorry you had a bad time."

"It wasn't bad," I said. "Darn nuisance. I drew one of the superior boys who's planning on running for Congress. A G-man as in gee-whiz. You know how they are. He'll be a real asset in Washington. Well, what do you think?"

"I don't know, Carney," Grodnik said heavily. "The more I think of it, the more I figure New Orleans is important. We were going to send a man there, but I think I'll go myself. I'd like to look over that boat. But I don't know why. Just playing the hunch, I guess. God knows we don't have any facts to go on."

"No," I agreed. "You base this on the assumption that Stewart was probably Sessions?"

"That, and his girl taking off," Grodnik said. "We figured she was clear. Just a girl that Stewart ditched when he left. We know he didn't communicate with her after he ran. I'm beginning to think now that she took off to meet him some place. It has to be something they arranged before he left so New Orleans looks mighty possible right now. And it ties in with making that ticket reservation for that cruise."

"So why didn't he take the cruise?"

"I've been thinking about that one, too. I see it like this: Stewart is in Cincinnati, masquerading as a young kid. That's a smart disguise, by the way. And he could look the part all right. The only trick would be to act the part. So he's there in town for a couple of weeks before the boat goes just waiting. And he hangs around the dock, finally manages to wangle a little job on board. So he thinks that's an even safer way to make the trip and still be on hand where he's supposed to be. How does that listen?"

"Yes, very sensible. And it worked out fine, too. I didn't tell you, but the boat captain knew what I was there for. And he made sure everybody else knew too. So Stewart had plenty of warning. And if he had taken up that reservation, even that clunk Kebble would have nailed him coming on the boat."

Grodnik chuckled and the receiver vibrated thimble in my ear. "I talked to Kebble. He doesn't think much of you. Maybe you'll be interested to hear that he's been transferred to the records division. He won't be able to ruin anything more."

"Just don't let him handle anything important," I said. "Well, I think you've got the right slant on Stewart and that boat business. I can't see much we can do before New Orleans, can you?"

"Well, now," Grodnik said thoughtfully. "You know I was trying to guess just where Stewart and his girl planned to meet. You think she might join the boat somewhere before New Orleans?"

"She'd be pretty conspicuous if she did," I said. "By now most of the passengers know each other by sight. A newcomer wouldn't have a chance of passing without notice. No, I can't buy that one."

"Yeah, well, maybe not. It's all I could think of. So it's New Orleans then. I'm having the cops there check all outgoing ships and planes and trains. The works. But I don't expect much. But there'll be a mob to meet that boat when she docks."

"Fine," I said sourly. "To the devil with the lot of you."

"Yeah, I'm sorry, Carney. I know how you feel. I saw Eli Jonas this morning. He says you shouldn't worry. Just do your best. But I guess that doesn't help much, does it?"

"No," I said thinly.

"Well, keep in touch, boy. And yell if you want something."

"Okay, captain. Thanks."

Then I went to the Paducah hospital to see Russell. He was sitting up in bed with a thick bandage on the side of his head.

"Good heavens," he said when he saw me. "What are you doing here, Wilde?"

"I missed the boat, Mr. Pursler," I said lightly. "Thought you could tell me where to find it. How are you getting on?"

Russell laughed at me. "Fine. Got a headache but the X-rays don't show any damage."

"Fine," I said. "But what about the boat?"

Russell grinned. "The boat," he

Thousands Flee Flood Waters

Dacca, the principal city of East Pakistan is cut off from the rest of the province. The floods, the worst within memory, have poured over roads and rail lines and still show no signs of subsiding.

Headaches, Dangers In Opening Iran Oil Fields

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The victory: The United States and its Allies are keeping Iranian oil out of the hands of the Russians.

The price: The headache of trying to ease a new flow of oil into a world stream already distending its banks. Where will the oil be sold? Will it lower prices at the corner service station?

The dangers: 1. Arousing the resentment of Iran's Middle East neighbors, who may lose some of their own oil revenues in making room for Iran's oil; 2. Drawing down the ire of American independent oil companies whose output already is cut back because of the over-supply of oil; and 3. Encouraging other countries to follow Iran's nationalization tactics.

American oilmen think they can work out a way to pay the price painlessly and to avoid the dangers by taking it slow and easy.

They contend that little Iranian oil will come to American shores — domestic producers would clamor or too loud if it did. Prices here would be affected little — unless the world price structure cracked under the strain.

When Iran closed down its English-owned oil industry three years ago, the world's oil supply was tight. And Iran, with 650,000 barrels a day capacity, was furnishing six per cent of the total output of the non-Communist world.

Since then its neighbors, Kuwait, Iraq and Saudi Arabia, have stepped up their output to more than make up the difference. They are producing at a rate of 2½ million barrels a day.

World demand has increased by one-fourth in the three years. But capacity to produce oil has increased even more. Production has had to be cut back. There's no real need for Iran's oil now — in Russia could use it.

Russia and its satellites have increased their oil output by 36 per cent since re-World War II days. But in the same 15 years the United States alone has doubled its oil output, and is estimated to have seven times the productive capacity of the Soviets.

In wartime that would be all important. Russia's oil lack is considered one of the best insurances against its starting World War III at this time.

The American, English, French and Dutch oil companies that have banded together to peddle Iran's oil and oil products hope that the steadily rising world oil demand will ease their task.

Demand is growing faster this year in other lands than in the United States, although this is still the major oil product user.

Europe has built many refineries since the war and gets most of its oil from Iran's Middle East neighbors — better than 1½ million barrels a day.

Working slowly, the companies contracting to produce and market Iran's oil, plan full production from its wells about 1957 and expect to get the refinery at Abadan turning out 300,000 barrels of petroleum products a day about the same time. That should give Iran from 150 to 200 million dollars a year revenue from its oil.

This could ease the burden on the American taxpayer, who has been putting up money in grants to Iran to keep it going while its oil wells were down — and to keep it out of the control of Russia.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK—The stock market sagged a bit in the early afternoon today despite strength in the aircrafts.

Trading started quite briskly but it soon died down to a walk and much below Friday's huge 3,350,000 shares.

Aircrafts were right out in front from the beginning while selling in the motors was a feature. Also higher were the motion pictures and building materials. Going down with the motors were the steels, railroads, oils, coppers, rubbers, electrical equipments, and the chemicals.

Chrysler, which touched off Friday's bearish selling with a dividend cut, opened today on 5,000 shares off 1 1/2 at 56 and then slipped off still more. Contrasted with that was the start of Boeing on 7,000 shares up 1 1/2 at 63 1/2 and its continued climb.

Higher stocks included Lockheed, Grumman, Sperry (on sharply higher earnings), General Dynamics, Oliver Corp., Zenith Radio, American Tobacco, U.S. Gypsum, Johns-Manville, Paramount, 20th Century-Fox, and Western Union. Shudebaker was depressed by its heavy first half loss. Packard traded unchanged to lower on a first half loss, and also down were U.S. Steel, Republic Steel, Liggett & Myers, General Motors, Goodrich Radio Corp., American Telephone, General Electric, Southern Railway, Cities Service and Eastern Air Lines on lowered first half earnings.

Little Change In Local Weather

Slight difference appears in the weather condition in Greenville yesterday and that prevailing yesterday a year ago.

The highest temperature in the Greenville area yesterday was 92 degrees. Lowest last night 67, and at 8 a.m. next day it was 75. No rain.

Yesterday a year ago, the highest temperature here was 93 degrees. Lowest that night 71, and at 8 a.m. next day it was 78. No rain that day. Mrs. Carl E. Maiden, observer for the local U. S. Weather Station, reported.

When asked about prospects of rain today, the weather observer said, "Old Jupiter Pluvius will miss a good chance if it does not rain today."

Faulty Pen Set Off Fatal Chase

DANVILLE Va. (U)—A pen that wouldn't write set off a bizarre chain of circumstances here yesterday that led to a shooting spree, a police chase and the death by drowning of an Air Force private.

Police said Melvin L. Smith and Pvt. Augustine Smith, both of Ft. Bragg, N.C., were in a local restaurant when one of the two — hadn't been determined which one — became a fountain pen wouldn't write.

He handed the pen to his companion, told him to hold it at arm's length, pulled out a pistol and shot the pen to bits.

The restaurant owner called police. The men hopped in a car and sped away. Police gave chase. At a bridge across the Dan River near town, the air men's car smashed into an embankment. The two crawled out of the car and tried to swim the river.

Gerbitz didn't remove his uniform. He drowned a third of the way across.

Smith stripped his clothes off and reached the other side, was picked up by a passing car and taken to a gas station. There police arrested him and jailed him on charges of felonious shooting and driving under the influence of intoxicants.

Boys Followed Pioneers' Trail

MESA, Ariz. (U)—Nine weary boys took it easy today after hiking 70 miles across the rugged Superstition Mountains east of here.

The lads, ranging in age from 14 to 18, killed rattlesnakes and other animals and lived for days off will meat and desert plants.

C-of-C Includes Many Services To Members

(This sixth and concluding article on the local Chamber of Commerce deals with that organization's service activities in the community).

In addition to being a development organization, the Greenville Chamber of Commerce renders many services of varied nature to its members and the general public.

One of the Chamber's biggest jobs, according to Manager-Secretary Willard T. Kyzer, is answering the great number of inquiries received by telephone and letter.

The Chamber's motto is "If we don't know, we'll try to find out," Kyzer said.

He stated the Chamber endeavors to keep on hand at all times publications obtained from various sources that enable it to provide the information requested.

Aid To Newcomers. Some of the services rendered to the public by the Chamber include assistance to newcomers in locating homes and apartments, from lists kept in the office and by referral to real estate and rental agents.

The organization distributes free to citizens, newcomers, business representatives and organizations several thousand city maps each year, and also provides highway maps and routings and air line and railroad schedules to all requesting this information.

The office compiles economic data and other statistics needed by member firms in the conduct of their business, and it endeavors to keep posted on schedules of events in the city and state in order to answer calls for such information.

To make available to citizens and businesses information, materials, services and the facilities of the U.S. Department of Commerce, the Chamber has been designated as a cooperative office of that department under supervision of the Richmond Regional office.

Sources Of Information. To assist the Chamber in answering requests for information it has a library of city directories of 64 cities in North Carolina and other states; telephone directories of all communities served by the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company; Thomas Register of American Manufacturers, indexed by company and trade names; a file of Sales Management Survey of buying power for 11 years; North Carolina directory of Manufacturers; U.S. and North Carolina atlases; and 1954 edition, Editor 9
