Unanimous Senate Approval Confronts House Bill Outlaws Communists

By JOHN CHADWICK WASHINGTON (AP)—Unanimous Senate passage of a bill to outlaw the Communist party confronted GOP House leaders today with the politically tricky question of what to do with it in the face of administration opposition.

To cap it all, it was Democratic senators led by Sen. Humphrey of Minnesota, who came up with an anti-Communist measure that proved to have an irresistible appeal to lawmakers in this election year.

The result was a combination measure that would outlaw the Communist party and also would strip Communist-dominated labor unions of the right to be certified as bargaining agents by the National Labor Relations Board.

Ervin Formally Chosen As Demo Senate Nominee

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Democratic Executive Committee yesterday formally named U.S. Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. of Morganton as the party's nominee for the post in the November general election.

In a harmonious session, the committee went down the line in following the wishes of Gov. Umstead selecting nominees and filling party posts.

Dangerous Band Eludes Police After Prison Break Manhunt For Five Escapees

NORFOLK, Mass. (AP)—Five dangerous convicts who broke out of the state prison colony last night after overpowering six guards and taking one of them as hostage successfully eluded a manhunt today.

Three Bandits Rob Army Base Camp Bank

CAMP SPRINGS, Md. (AP)—Three bandits robbed the Andrews Air Force Base branch bank of $160,000 today, and police said a man they had arrested on a speeding charge was now considered a suspect.

Andrews field is about 10 miles southeast of Washington. A stunned official of the parent First National Bank of Southern Maryland said there was about $160,000 in the vault, and "they cleaned it out."

B. Beall Sasser, assistant cashier at the main office in Upper Marlboro, Md., said about half of the cash had been sent to the bank by registered mail last night.

Senate To Pay Fee For McCarthy Will Pay Attorney Chosen To Represent Senator In Investigation Of Conduct

By G. MILTON KELLY WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) won today in his appeal for the Senate to pay the salary of an attorney to represent him in an investigation of his official conduct.

Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), chairman of the special committee which will conduct hearings on a censure move aimed at McCarthy, announced the decision. He said McCarthy will be allowed to select the lawyer.

Sen. Mundt (R-SD), who presided over those 36-day hearings, and Senators Jackson (D-Wash.) and Dinkens (R-Ill.), who are serving as a committee to draft a tentative report of findings declined to give any hint of the "verdict."

McCarthy is expected to select Edward Bennett Williams, a Washington lawyer who has sometimes been his counsel in the past.

McCarthy denounced as "illogical" the Star's story that the Internal Revenue Service was getting ready to bill him for about $25,000 of income taxes and interest for the years 1946 through 1952.

Sandhills Marts To Open Aug. 19

RALEIGH (AP)—Sandhills Warehouse Assn. tobacco markets have decided to begin their sales Aug. 19 instead of Aug. 25.

The change in dates for the five markets on the belt — Fuquay, Varina, Sanford, Elerbe, Aberdeen and Carthage—was announced yesterday by William Staton, association attorney.

The five markets split off from the Middle Belt last year. Last Saturday the Bright Belt Warehouse Assn. set Aug. 25 as opening date for Middle Belt sales.

Program On Africa Is Presented To Women of The Church

The Women of the First Presbyterian Church held their general meeting in the Church Parlor on Monday, Aug. 10, at 8 p. m. Mrs. Fred Webb, vice president, presided. Mrs. John Grier opened the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Webb asked all members to read the First Epistle of Peter during the meeting of the Second Assembly of World Council of Churches Aug. 15-31 and to remember them in prayer.

Mrs. Fred Haas, Christian Relations Chairman, introduced Selena Lang, a delegate sent by the church to the conference in Winston-Salem. Her day-by-day account of the wonderful spiritual experiences she enjoyed at the 31st convention of Negro women held at the Teachers College from June 5th through June 11th proved very interesting to the listeners.

Selena also gave an account of the Daily Vacation Bible School she conducted for Negro children in Greenville. Two hundred children were enrolled.
The program was in charge of Mrs. Badger Johnson who chose as a topic for discussion "Africa." Her program was opened by singing "Jesus Shall Reign" followed by Scripture reading from the second chapter of Acts. Mrs. Johnson gave a most interesting and concise account of the "Church of the Congo and Africa" from a story compiled by Mrs. C. Darby Fulton. These Christian Congo schools, mission stations, regional schools as well as churches, are taught by the missionaries, Mrs. Johnson stated.
Prayer closed the meeting at the conclusion of business.

Christian Science
That true happiness is to be found through understanding the spiritual laws which govern the universe including man will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "SOUL."
The spiritual nature of happiness is set forth in the following passage which will be among those read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (60:29-3):

"Soul has infinite resources with which to bless mankind, and happiness would be more readily attained and would be more secure in our keeping, if sought in Soul. Higher enjoyments alone can satisfy the cravings of immortal man. We cannot circumscribe happiness within the limits of personal sense."
The prophet Isaiah's promise of peace and joy to those who spiritually understand God will be included in the readings from the Bible (Isaiah 55:12): "For ye shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace: the mountains and the hills shall break forth before you into singing, and all the trees of the field shall clap their hands."

Carl McKinney Is Named General Manager As New WGTC Offices Opened

Officials of the Carolina Broadcasting System have announced the appointment of Carl J. McKinney as general manager of radio station WGTC, and the opening of new studios and offices in the Fleming Building at Five Points in Greenville.

McKinney, veteran of 20 years in the radio field, has been on the staff of WGTC since 1941. Most of those 13 years, he has served in the capacity of commercial manager.

In addition to his commercial duties, McKinney has a morning record show called Mac's Music Rack which is well known within WGTC's coverage area. The show features ad-lib commercials and informal chatter concerning McKinney puts it, "whatever happens to pop into my head."

McKinney entered the radio field at the age of 18 in his home town of High Point when he joined the staff of WMPR. He remained with the High Point radio station from 1935 to 1938 when he joined the staff of station WEED in Rocky Mount.

In August, 1939, he returned to High Point and WMPR and remained there until the following year when he was called into the armed services. Medically discharged in 1941 because of a hip injury, McKinney joined the staff of WGTC in Greenville.
Commenting on the new facilities of WGTC, McKinney said, "We are very proud of our new studios and offices on Five Points, and we want to encourage any of our friends to come up to see us."
The staff of WGTC now includes Mrs. Ralph Marion traffic manager; Bob Hill, announcer; Mike Zaber, salesman-announcer; Larry Brown, continuity-announcer; Harvey Mason and Ed Landry, engineers; Jim Lafferty, engineer-announcer; and Bill Taylor, announcer.

Mrs. Alice Keel is building her home on Jarvis Street in "College View" and expects to move in within the next week or two.

Mr. W. H. Woodard has completed his home on Cotanche Street, opposite the Model School, and has moved in.

On August 9 little Miss Gretchen Willard was hostess to a large number of friends at a delightful party in honor of her birthday. Several games were enjoyed by the little guests, with perhaps, pinning the donkey's tail on causing the most enjoyment. Miss Louisa Hooker being the successful contestant was given a "bob comb." The little hostess served an ice course.

Jaycee Tourney Plans Progress

The Junior Chamber of Commerce was told last night that plans for the Little League Region Five Tournament to be held in Greenville August 16-19 are progressing.

James W. Boykin, chairman of the event told the Jaycees that requests had been sent to each of the governors of the states participating in the tournament for state flags. The flags will be flown at the park while the ball games are in progress.

Boykin called on each of the chairmen of committees making arrangements for the event for reports on the work done by the committees.

The club heard a report from J. B. Smith on the State Jaycee meet at Wrightsville Beach August 29. He urged the members to make their reservations for the meet early.

President Frank Dail announced that the Board of Directors had voted to send flowers to the death of any Jaycee, any Jaycee son or daughter, wife, or mother or father.

Ed Harris announced that the annual book show will be held October 9 and 10. He announced the committee heads for the event.
Tickets to the Kings Brothers Circus to be held in Greenville August 27 were handed out to the club members to be sold.
Guest of the club last night included Jerry Ball, who played several piano selections for the group. Ball was entertainer at the Tobacco Festival yesterday. A second guest was Bancroft Moseley, a former club member.

summata artist, building his plot with the kind of piercing and compelling suspense that makes you afraid to continue reading and just as afraid to put the book down, even for a minute.
When the Hunter, crazed, unholy man of God, self-styled Preacher of the Gospel, finally tracks down his helpless prey in quest of $10,000 in greenbacks that three men and a woman have died for already, your hair begins to stand on end. When nine-year-old John Harper and his tiny sister Pearl rush out into the night and onto the dark, mysterious Ohio River in desperate flight from their relentless pursuer, you begin to yearn for bed and safety. You don't want to read any more. But you do.

But there's love as well as hate in "The Night of the Hunter," and a wonderful sixty year old heroine who has room in her capacious heart for John and Pearl and many more besides. And when the night of the hunter is over, and the terror and violence faded away, there's a place with her for the little children to be safe in.
It's a wonderful book. And it's about children—mostly about two of them. But it's certainly not a bedtime story. Don't read it if you want belly laughs or light entertainment. But if you want thrills, suspense, a tremendously fascinating story well and beautifully told—then it's the book for you.

APPREHENSIVE HERO
MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP)—William (Ted) Buckley, 15, was proclaimed a hero by fellow townsmen. But he was more concerned about what his mother might say than the acclaim. He rescued a drowning man. But Ted had been swimming at the time at a spot to which his mother had forbidden him to go. Mrs. L. C. Buckley, the mother, forgave Ted — "this time, anyway."

With one reservation—it's a thriller. It doesn't try to be a subtle psychological study of modern man or an analysis of somebody's neuroses. It's an old-fashioned tale of blood and horror and violence, but in the best possible thriller tradition. And something else that's refreshingly unusual in modern novels—the villain finally gets what's coming to him, and the innocent emerge heroic and unbowed.
Not that it's just another murder story. There's much more to it than that. Grubb is not a simple teller of grisly tales. He's a con-

'Books and Stuff'

DR. ED. HIRSBERG

We'd like to thank the folks who were nice enough to tell us that they enjoyed our dispatches from New York during July—of course most of it was "Stuff" rather than "Books," which makes us feel kind of sheepish about having to go back to the Books again.

And speaking of Stuff, we've come across some more information about the country's newest smoking fad—pipes for women, as a substitute for cigarettes. Apparently they're selling fast, according to an article called "I Love a Girl Who Smokes a Pipe" in last Sunday's New York Times Magazine. . . . But reactions differ as to the way women look smoking pipes. For example, one aggrieved male asks, "Who wants a girl who looks like Tugboat Annie?" And some of the gals aren't too enthusiastic either—complaints abound like these: "There's too much paraphernalia associated with smoking a pipe—the tobacco pouch (usually a plastic flange bag decorated with pearls, we understand), the tamper, reamer, spoon, etc. that go with the ceremony of pipe-smoking. . . . And that the tobacco gets under your finger-nails, of all things. We're still interested in seeing who the first female is going to be who dares to sport a corncob locally—especially during the tobacco market season! . . ."

We mentioned William Faulkner's new book, "A Fable," just issued last week. We read a quotation from it that consisted of one sentence stretching the length of one entire newspaper column. That is the way Faulkner writes, though, and it's not too easy to understand. Reminds us of a short story called "The Bear," by Faulkner, one whole chapter of which, if we're not mistaken, is one long, involved sentence—with pauses, breaks, dashes and everything else, but no stops.

Which brings us to the end of the trail again and not much about new books this week. . . . Still, you learned something. . . . And we wrote the book review down below—feel kind of embarrassed about it, since it's such a good book and we hogged it all for ourselves. Our excuse is that we've lived in West Virginia and know the country that forms its background pretty well, so we were interested. It's already being made into a movie, we understand, and if that's half as good as the book—well, anyway, here's the review. . . .

THE NIGHT OF THE HUNTER.

By Davis Grubb
New York: Harper and Brothers, 1953

It's a wonderful and unusual experience to get hold of a book by a modern author that has a sound and well-knit plot, a fascinating group of characters, and a style that is not only clear and readable but artistically excellent as well. Davis Grubb's "The Night of the Hunter" has all these things, and plenty more besides. It is among the best works of new fiction that has come to my hand in recent years.

Two that caught our eye were the Detective Book Club and the Dollar Mystery Guild, both purveying murder mysteries at trifling costs, with fabulous bonuses for joining—for example, the Detective Book Club tells you to "Send No Money—Just Mail Coupon"—and you'll get six—no less—full length mystery novels—titles like "The Case of the Runaway Corpse," "Man Missing," "Cold Poison," and others of an equally savory nature. The only gimmick is that there is some small print at the bottom of the coupon that nobody bothers to read—but it says, "I need send no money now, but for each volume I decide to keep I will send you $1.89 plus a few cents mailing charges."

The Doubleday One Dollar Book Club looks like a better deal to us—they let you know right away that each book you buy is going to cost

Evangelist Johnson Begins First Of 3 Services Tonight

Evangelist Jimmy Johnson, whom Billy Graham considers has no equal in evangelism today, will preach in Greenville tonight at 8 o'clock. The service is the first of three united evangelistic rallies being held in Austin Auditorium, East Carolina College, as a follow-up of the Eddie Martin Crusade, sponsored in June by Greenville and Pitt County Ministerial Associations. The two subsequent rallies are set for Saturday night and Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

A special telegraphic message from Eddie Martin, now leading the city of Meridian, Miss., in a united evangelistic crusade, was received here yesterday. The message reads: "Am thrilled to hear that Jimmie Johnson is to be in Greenville for a 3-day rally." Martin urged "all our outstanding evangelistic crusades in Memphis, Tenn., St. Louis, Los Angeles, Yuma, Arizona, and Hamilton, Ontario. Dr. Johnson has also done extensive evangelistic work in Northern Ireland, England, and Scotland, Johnson says, "I have dedicated myself to a permanent and constructive Bible teaching evangelism." Johnson is known to many in North Carolina as founder of "Your Daily Devotional Program," heard daily at 7:15 a. m. over Radio Station WGTM, Wilson, and a network of other Carolina and Virginia stations.

Dr. Johnson has recently led the Baptist Churches of the Fayetteville area in a five-weeks "Crusade for Christ." Some 900 decisions for Christ were recorded during the Fayetteville campaign. He has just returned from two outstanding Summer Bible Conferences in Michigan. The Evangelist was one of the key speakers at the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago's annual conference at Winona Lake, Indiana, this Spring.

Clyde Taylor, Song Leader of the Johnson team, is a graduate of Wheaton College, and makes his home in Wheaton, Ill. Mr. Taylor, an outstanding soloist, will lead the Crusade Choir, and congregational singing at the three Austin Auditorium rallies this week end.

Schedule for the united weekend of evangelism is as follows: tonight at 7:30 volunteers for the Crusade Choir will meet at Austin stage with Clyde Taylor, and Bob Gibbons, regular director of the choir since the close of the Martin Crusade. At 8 o'clock the first of the three rallies in Austin Auditorium. Saturday night at 8 the second rally will be held in the same building, Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Evangelist Johnson and Mr. Taylor will preach and sing in the Morning Worship service at St. James Methodist Church, meeting in Third Street School, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the team will be seen on "The Circuit Rider," 30-minute telecast on Channel 9. And Sunday afternoon at 3 the final rally will be held in Austin Auditorium.

Though the week end of rallies "Christ" follow-up organization of the Martin Crusade, the purpose is to reach the general public, of all ages. Bob Gibbons, Duke University Junior serving as president of the sponsoring group, today called on all Christians to pray for and attend the rallies. Working with the youth are Rev. Malloy Owen and Rev. Lee Willingham, Chairman and Vice-Chairman of the Youth Committee of the Greenville Ministerial Association.

"We believe that there are many people in Pitt County today, who would come forward to make their decision for Christ, if the Eddie Martin Crusade were still in progress. This series of three rallies gives them their opportunity. The purpose of the Jimmie Johnson services is to help people find Christ as their own Saviour and Lord," declared leaders in planning the week end.

A free will offering will be received at each service as the only means of financing the project.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE
I STOOD on the narrow bridge with Russell, smelling the freshness of morning on the river.

Russell said, "Boltinck looked pretty cool and confident at the table, didn't he?"

"Yes. He's not worried about a thing."

"Glad Ellen stayed in her room for breakfast," Russell said. "Somehow I suspected you were going to brace him this morning."

I said: "I was just trying to figure what would be the best way to handle him. How long till New Orleans?"

"Little more than an hour."

"Plenty of time," I said.

"There's going to be a convention of cops at the dock. You ready for them?"

"I can't get ready for them," Russell objected mildly. "I don't know what they'll want to do. I won't help them if they try to hold our passengers on board. But I guess we better wait and see what . . ."

Russell broke off abruptly and leaned far out to the left of the bridge. "That fool!" he cried. "He'll kill himself."

A small power cruiser swerved in close under our left bow. It hung there, jockeying for position, sliding back a bit to hang alongside where the freeboard of the Dixie Dandy was closest to the water. A big heavy man teetered on the deck of the cruiser, reaching for the railing of our boat.

"Good heavens!" I shouted. "That's Capt. Grodnik. Whip down there and help him aboard. Bring him to your office and tell nobody."

Russell ran inside and rocketed toward the main staircase. But he was too late to help Grodnik on board. The beefy captain picked his moment carefully, clutched one big hand around a stanchion and then leaped. A shoe sole slipped and he dangled briefly, hanging by just one hand. The operator of the cruiser screamed something at him, then brought the small craft closer to let Grodnik retreat if he wanted to. The captain ignored him. His left hand gripped the stanchion firmly and forward motion of the Dixie Dandy swung him around so that his right hand found a secure purchase on the iron railing. Then Grodnik muscled himself up, swung over the barrier and stood there on deck, shaking his wet shoes irritably and frowning at the goggling deckhands. He asked one of them a question but before any one could answer Russell had him. Whatever he said was immediately effective. Grodnik turned with him toward the main staircase. I ran down the stairs to the purser's office.

They were standing outside the door when I got there, Russell fumbling with a key and Grodnik shifting from one foot to the other and making an angry face at the squishy sound his shoes made.

"Inside," I said. "Make it fast."

We got out of sight with no delay. Russell locked the door behind us and I let Grodnik try to crack my knuckles.

"Good to see you, boy," he grinned. He reached out a casual hand to catch the towel Russell tossed to him. "Got my feet wet out there," he said.

"What was all that circus stunting for captain?" I asked him. "We'll be docked in about an hour."

"Copped a sneak," Grodnik said. He peeled off his socks, wrung them out, wiped his feet dry and then twisted the socks inside the towel to blot the remaining moisture. He wiped his shoes carefully and then put them on again.

"There's a truck load of assorted cops waiting for you there. I figured maybe I might do some good by coming aboard first. That is, if you've got anything. Have you, Wilde?"

I said, "Not enough to justify a death-defying trick like that."

"Wasn't much," Grodnik said placidly.

Russell said: "If you'd slipped and gone into the water, you'd have been dragged under the paddle-wheel and by now you'd be fish-bait. If we found you at all."

"This cheerful fellow is Mr. Russell," I said. Mr. Delta in the flesh. Otherwise assistant purser. This I may have mentioned, said Capt. Grodnik, homicide division, Philadelphia police."

We sat down and I told Grodnik about Boltinck, about what we knew and what we suspected. Russell added a few pungent comments about his cracked skull.

Grodnik asked: "You think this guy is helping Stewart get out of the country?"

"Not sure. There's a complication," I said. "He has a woman with him. Maybe she's part of the gag and maybe not. Suppose we do this. Russell goes down and asks Boltinck to come up here for a minute. When they leave you go to Boltinck's room with your badge. Give her the tough cop routine which you are very good at. Work on her and see what you get. And shake down their luggage. At the same time I'll take Boltinck over the hurdles. How does that sound?"

"Good," Grodnik said promptly. "Let's go."

"And Russell, be very gentle with Boltinck. Something routine. Mixed up records. Nothing to worry about."

"Gotcha." Russell unlocked the door and closed it when he left with Grodnik.

I sat down in the chair behind Grodnik's rosewood desk, took out my .38 and tucked it handily under a stack of papers where I could get it fast.

Mr. Ed Boltinck was brisk and confident when he came through the door. He was chewing a freshly lighted cigar, hesitated only a brief moment when he recognized me. Then he tossed a silky tan

Shetland topcoat on a nearby chair, pulled another around to face the desk and sat down, shooting his cuffs and letting me see his magnificent diamond-and-sapphire links in the cuffs of a creamy silk shirt.

"You in difficulties, too, Mr. Wilde?" he asked amiably.

I shook my head. I glanced up at Russell and just at that moment, he turned the key in the lock, making it snap loudly in the stillness.

Boltinck swivelled his head, frowning heavily. But Russell had moved smoothly and silently. Now he was standing directly behind Boltinck but out of his view.

"What is this?" Boltinck snarled, leaning forward as if he meant to rise.

Russell with one hand on his shoulder, slammed the elegant Mr. Boltinck back into the deep chair.

"It all blew up in your face, Boltinck," I said flatly. "You're finished."

"Finished? What's finished? Why you crummy ape, I'll have you . . ."

"You haven't been any nuisance to me," I said, "but Mr. Russell is wearing eight stitches and a big bandage on his head because of you."

Boltinck flicked a wary glance toward Russell, realized that was the wrong attitude for innocence, and turned to glare at me.

"I don't understand what you're saying, Wilde. You have no right to hold me locked in here like this. I demand to see the captain immediately. We'll see whether . . ."

"Don't be stupid, Boltinck," I said. "You'll stay there for half an hour or so until we land. Then you'll go ashore with handcuffs on."

"Handcuffs?" Boltinck's outrage was almost genuine. Almost.

"There'll be a squad of cops and FBI men meeting the Dixie Dandy at the dock," I said. "Then we won't have to go calling you Boltinck, will we? Then we'll know your real name. Not that it matters much."

"Deal?" he said.

"You've got nothing to swap," I said contemptuously. "Why should I deal? I know your connection with Stewart."

"I've got no connection with Stewart," Boltinck said. "I've got a citizen's interest in turning up a murderer and thief."

I said: "Save it for the trial. It'll go big."

"Now wait a minute, Wilde. I got a tip we could find Stewart, maybe, if we took this boat ride. There's nothing wrong with that, is there?"

I lifted my good shoulder and made a bored face.

"You could use my tip, Wilde," Boltinck said softly. "You want Stewart. Just forget about me, then. I want off the boat and just keep going. No competition, no cut, no . . ."

"No deal," I said flatly. I turned to look at the brass-bound chronometer behind Grenier's desk. "Ten minutes," I muttered.

"Now, look, Wilde be reasonable," Boltinck hitched himself forward and began to rise.

Russell grabbed him but not quickly enough. Boltinck twisted under his hands and almost fell face down onto the chair. His face was buried in the seat. And all the time he kept talking earnestly, confidentially, sure, he could make a deal if only somebody would listen for just a minute.

"Better make sure he's clean," I told Russell.

VFW And Auxiliary Hold Family Picnic

Approximately 100 persons attended the annual family picnic held by the Veterans of Foreign Wars post here and its Auxiliary last Thursday evening. Special guests attending the occasion were Jasper Tyn-dall, of Kinston, 2nd District Commander, and Sid Myers, of LaGrange, immediate past District Commander.

Dr. G. Kerry Smith To Make ECC Commencement Address

The commencement address for the East Carolina College summer school on August 20 will be delivered by Dr. G. Kerry Smith, executive secretary of the Association for Higher Education, a department of the National Education Association.

Announcement of the commencement to be held at 2 o'clock in Wright Auditorium was made by President J. D. Messick who said Dr. Smith directs the professional organization of faculty members and administrators in colleges and universities throughout the United States and territories, a total of 17,000 members in more than 1,800 institutions of higher learning.

Dr. Messick said the Association for Higher Education has included in its major activities the shaping of national policies for the education of veterans and military manpower issues.

Music for the commencement exercises being held in Wright Auditorium will be under the direction of Dr. Robert Carter, member of the East Carolina music faculty.

Prior to becoming Executive Secretary of the Association for Higher Education, Dr. Smith served as Director of Reports and Publications Service of the U. S. Office of Education for eight years. Before assuming this position in Washington, D. C., Dr. Smith was chairman of the Division of Language, Literature, and Fine Arts at West Georgia College at Carrollton, a unit of the University system of Georgia, where he also served as consultant on public relations for the Georgia Teacher Education Council and as chairman of committees on FM radio for the Georgia Association of Colleges and Universities and the Georgia State Department of Education.

From 1934 to 1942 he taught at both the Horace Mann School and at Teachers College, Columbia University. Since 1942 he has been visiting professor during summer sessions at Columbia University as well as instructor during others at the College of Charleston, S. C.

All The Blunders Aren't Ours

In the United States, where citizens view with skepticism and misgivings the defensive cold war we are waging against communism, we are prone to take more seriously the international blunders of free nations than we do those of the Kremlin.

Somehow we are inclined to think the blunders by our side have a more devastating reaction upon the cause of free nations than the blunders by the Kremlin have against the communist cause.

Recently there have been two prime examples of blunders by both sides in the cold war.

The desertion of Otto John, West German intelligence chief, to the communists is one of the worst blows to the free nations' position in Europe we have witnessed in many years. The information John can or has furnished the communists can destroy an intelligence system we have taken years to build up. The psychological effect of his desertion to communism could be equally bad for the free nations of Western Europe.

Then there is the prime blunder of the Kremlin.

The Reds missed their chance to break the French government of Mendes-France. Had the Reds refused a settlement on the Big-Time Baseball Returns To Greenville

Really big-time baseball will return to Greenville Monday when the Little League champions from seven Southern states gather here to battle it out for a berth in the Little League World Series.

Last year the regional Little League tournament held here was a great success. It was a success largely because the citizens of Greenville did their utmost to make the visiting Little League players and the fans who followed them to Greenville feel at home.

Elaborate plans have been made for the tournament this year. We are confident the people of Greenville play their role as hosts as well as they did last year. We trust the visitors from the six other states outside North Carolina will carry back to their home towns fond memories of their visit to our city.

Strength for the Day

It is disconcerting to have to face the fact that some people whom we like the best are superficial, lacking in stability, rather weak as regards moral character. Some of the most pleasant people in the world are pagans. We like them, but we wouldn't trust them very far. We laugh with them. They are pleasant companions for an evening or for a brief holiday, but they are not to be leaned upon with any confidence.

In olden days pagans were the people who worshipped heathen gods. Their deities had all the weaknesses of the creatures over whom they presided. This was ancient paganism, and modern paganism is much the same. To modern pagans, life is a big laugh.

Because these pagans are often so pleasant we excuse a great many things in them which we ought not to excuse in anybody. Worst of all, we run the danger of coming to the place where we will excuse our own weaknesses in our own lives. We should not be excused and judge our fellows under any circumstances. But we should realize that some people are infected with a worldliness which quickly transfers to us through contact.

Every individual with whom we come in contact influences us in some way. It is all too easy to giggle ourselves out of resolute purpose.

Martin Sees Gain For GOP

WASHINGTON—Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. predicts that the Republicans will gain from 15 to 25 seats in the fall elections because of what he describes as the "most progressive and constructive record of accomplishment by any Congress in many, many years."

In reviewing the session now nearing the final gavel's fall, the Bay State legislator gives great credit to President Eisenhower for his co-operation with Capitol Hill.

Sitting in his office beneath the great dome, Martin summarized what he regarded as the principal achievements during the Administration's 30 months in office. In a certain sense, he was formulating the platform on which Eisenhower and members of House and Senate will seek a vote of confidence next November. He will issue a more formal statement when the House adjourns.

For the purpose of this report, however, he was asked to discuss the record of Congress in general terms rather than with respect to the enactment of specific pieces of legislation. In short, he was requested to "think out loud."

ECONOMY SHIFT—"In my opinion," he began, "our greatest accomplishment has been to shift from a wartime to a peacetime economy without inflation or deflation. There were gloomy Guses and egghead economists who forecast a severe depression or an unchecked boom.

"A so-called British economist, Colin Clark, pictured another 1929 crash by now, and advocated a $20 billion, bond-financed program. The Administration stopped dangerous trends, both up and down, by using the normal machinery of control over credit and finances. We did not fall for any hysteria."

Indochina situation until after July 20, they would have caused the downfall of Mandes-France's government, and thus would have thrown France once more into the chaos of economic crisis.

As it is, the French premier has apparently won the confidence of his people and the French parliament. He has been granted sweeping economic powers by which he hopes to stabilize the French economy. Also, Mendes-France is likely to favor France's participation in the European Defense Community.

If the premier can bring economic stability to France and likewise brings it into the EDC, communist efforts to gain control of France and Europe will have been dealt a terrific blow.

In the long run, the Allied blunder in the Otto John case may turn out to be much less damaging to Freedom's cause than the failure of the Kremlin to stop French Premier Mendes-France when it had the perfect opportunity.

Accidents Are Pitt's Number Four Killer

A look at the breakdown of the causes of death to Pitt County citizens during 1953 is proof positive that more attention needs to be given to accidents of all kinds.

While accidents accounted for only 37 deaths of Pitt citizens last year - approximately seven per cent of the total number of deaths - accidents nevertheless ranked as the number four killer of Pitt residents. It trailed behind heart disease which accounted for 204 deaths, diseases of blood vessels which accounted for 63 deaths, and cancer which accounted for 56 deaths.

A great deal of stress has been placed upon prevention of motor vehicle accidents which accounted for the death of 17 Pitt residents during 1953. Much less emphasis, however, has been placed on home and farm accidents which accounted for the death of 20 Pitt residents during the past year.

Accident prevention in the home or on the farm is a full time job just as it is on the highways. One reason, we suppose, that home accidents do not receive the attention that highway accidents do is that home and farm accidents take so many different forms, and result from so many varied causes. It is apparent, nevertheless, that home and farm accidents proved a greater menace to Pitt residents during the past year than highway accidents did.

Whether in the home, on the farm or on the highway, most accidents which result in death can be prevented. The people of North Carolina have proved to themselves in the past year they could cut down the number of highway deaths by taking precautions. It should be equally easy for the people of Pitt County to prove to themselves they can cut down the number of deaths caused by accidents in the home or on the farm by taking more of the precautions which simple common sense demands.

Somebody Told Me

Cooking And The Jay-C'Ettes

Wednesday night at the regular meeting of the feminine Jaycee organization, the Jay-C'Ettes, the subject of cooking vegetables arose.

As yet I have not established whether this was an item of business or simply before-meeting chatter.

To give the girls the benefit of the doubt, let's assume the discussion was before or after the business session. In or near the conversation were Becky (Mrs. Craven) Hughes, Virginia (Mrs. Booger) Soles, Katherine Ann (Mrs. Clark) Stokes, Peggy (Mrs. Phil) Moore, Kay (Mrs. Dave) III Whichard, and Wife Rachel.

The general tone of the conversation was how much all of the families are enjoying the summer vegetables. But it was Katherine Ann who stole the show. She told the girls about boiling the pot, Grandmas style.

For seasoning Katherine Ann puts the meat in the pot first. Then she takes her butterbeans (dimes to Yankees) and puts them in a cloth bag. String beans are then threaded with needle and thread. Cabbage and potatoes are then added to the pot and boiling begins.

When it's done everything is completely orderly. Katherine Ann copied this style of boiling from her grandmother and says it goes over big with Clark and son Randy.

The Jay-C'Ettes are a fine organization for the girls but as a member of the Husbands and Fathers Protective Association I advocate their overthrow. Granted, they're helping the Jaycees have a better club and at the same time having a good time themselves, but those nights of putting the children to bed by myself are killing me.

It's the same old story that I've told many times: Girls have more patience and ability for faking care of such situations. No doubt there are other fathers among the Jaycees ranks who will join my movement. Church circle meetings are enough to give the father ample exercise in handling the bedtime alone. Now with the Jaycees the exercise is getting too exhaustive, but definitely.

And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

CLARK'S FRANKNESS IS FOOD FOR THOUGHT (Kinston Free Press)

Gen Mark Clark, former United Nations Commander in Korea and currently president of The Citadel at Charleston, S. C. in a statement before the Senate Internal Security Committee Tuesday, favored severing diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia and re-organization of the United Nations against the Reds. He also called for some "red-blooded diplomats," imbued with the best American principles, in all diplomatic posts.

General Clark is currently head of an investigating committee looking into the Central Intelligence Agency and he has had opportunity to size up some of the Nation's diplomats both here and abroad. He is one of the leaders who were held back from a potential smash to the Yalu River in Korea, although he said his chiefs of staff felt it would have been wise and would not have initiated World War 3.

Not all leaders will agree with this forthright general who has some bitter firsthand experience in fighting communism. There are times for belligerence and times for diplomatic courtesy, and a military leader is not always as quick to foresee both as he is the need for military firmness.

But few will disagree with Gen. Clark that adherence to traditional American principles in places of diplomatic leadership earns more friends than the opposite approach. Whether it is time to dissolve the United Nations and start over with a purely western conception of collective security, it is difficult to say. The Reds certainly have used their places of authority for propaganda purposes and to strengthen their own schemes of world domination. Whether their advance would have been lessened by having to work through spies alone is an open question; certainly the U.N. has not been able to prevent violation of the spirit of its International plan for world peace.

It is significant that Gen. Clark's statement coincides somewhat with what Korean President Syngman Rhee told Congress a few days ago. It is essentially what General MacArthur told the Congress when he was withdrawn from Korea, and almost every time the Communists advance further into some free country they point up the advantage they hold because they do not recognize any word of honor in their agreements.

The answer may not come as easily as Gen. Clark and others would like to see it, but certainly he has been frank and open about his viewpoints. Whether we follow his advice or not, none can say that a man of first-hand experience has not spoken with clarity and force about the greatest problem of our time.

Commission Renders A Personal Service To Governor

By LYNN NISBET
SEGREGATION — The Governor's Advisory Committee on Public Education met in Governor Umstead's office for a few minutes Wednesday and recessed for an afternoon closed door session in the education building. This is the 19-member group recently appointed by Governor Umstead to advise him on policy and procedure in complying with the Supreme Court decision outlawing segregation in the public schools.

In one sense it is not a public commission, because the members receive no compensation or expense money, the commission was not authorized by legislative act, and its opinions are not binding upon anybody. Essentially its purpose is to render a personal service to the Governor.

In another sense it is a highly important public body, in that its conclusions and recommendations are expected to have material influence upon the course North Carolina will pursue in public school administration.

At a news conference between committee sessions Governor Umstead stated his idea of its functions to be: In conjunction with the Attorney General, the State Superintendent of Public Instruction and the State Board of Education to establish a policy and a program which will preserve our public school system by having the support of the people of the State.

Efforts of reporters to get the Governor to elaborate on that statement were not successful. He said how the commission will approach the issue is for its own members to determine. He does not regard it a fact-finding group.

Most of the facts have been gathered by the affected departments and through an exhaustive study by the Institute of Government. Copies of the Institute report, running to more than 200 pages with maps and charts, were presented to commission members and reporters.

EXTRA — In addition to the members of the study commission, the Governor had asked to attend—and they did—L. Gov. Luther Hodges, chairman of the State Board of Education, and John T. Pritchett, chairman of the subcommittee on segregation of the State Board; Victor Bryant, chairman of the commission authorized by the Legislature to study institutions of higher education; Fred Folger, chairman of the legislative commission to study public school laws; Harry McMullan, attorney general, and Frank Taylor, who served last session as legislative counsel to the Governor. Presence of Taylor raised the question of whether he would be back next session in that same capacity. Governor Umstead said he did not know, but was emphatic in expressing the hope that Taylor would be available again.

REPRESENTATIVE — There has been some criticism, mostly in open forum letters to newspapers, that the commission personnel was not adequately representative of all segments of citizenship. Governor Umstead said he had given careful consideration to every appointee, and he feels he has a representative body. Naturally it is impossible to get in 19 persons every one or more who will represent every minority group and sub-group among four million people, which are distributed among 20 or more religious denominations; a dozen or more professions; more than 100 types of manufacturing, merchandising and farming; two major and half a dozen minor racial elements; two major political parties and two or three hybrids; and an innumerable distribution among married and single, parents and children, and ages ranging from one minute to 100 years.

Another fact which the Governor did not mention but should be kept in mind, is that this commission's main purpose is to advise him and to help him formulate recommendations to the General Assembly. In that respect it differs from the legislative authorizations, as to the composition of which there might be justification for complaint that they are not sufficiently representative.

INDUSTRY — Ben Douglas, director of conservation and development has been officially notified that the whole State of North Carolina has been certified as meeting requirements of the Office of Defense Mobilization for the location of industry in the National Industrial Dispersion program. That certification affords one more argument the salesmen of the commerce and industry division can use in trying to bring additional manufacturing plants to this State. It is based on formula which takes into account the present concentration of industry, the availability of labor and other factors.

Why The Mergers?

By ELMER ROESSNER
Three large textile companies are on the verge of a merger; two others recently joined. The Stetler and Hilton hotel chains are now under the same ownership. Kaiser and Willys, Nash and Hudson combined and a Studebaker-Packard deal is reported. Bethlehem Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube are flirting. Hundreds of other unions have been completed or are being worked out.

In some instances, the mergers are being made from weakness. Merely large companies are finding it increasingly difficult to compete with giants. It's not because giants are underselling smaller firms to ruin them—as has been true in the past—but because giants can bring about production, management and marketing efficiencies beyond the reach of less concerns. But most mergers are being made from strength.

More and more businesses are trying to broaden their lines. The wider their range of products, the greater their immunity to losses from changes in demand, skyrocketing promotions of competitive products and business fluctuations.

Besides, 10 products often can be distributed at only slightly more than five.

Introducing new products is one way of broadening lines. And a lot of new products are being brought out these days.

But that method has drawbacks. Fresh capital for new production facilities may be required. New engineering and producing specialists may have to be hired. New markets may have to be pioneered.

And it's still a gamble. Most new products flop.

In buying a going concern, a company can get new products, new talent, added facilities and ready-made markets.

Mergers also grow out of another strong factor: confidence in future prosperity. Few companies would acquire others—and few bankers would finance mergers—unless they had faith in the expansion of the economy. ENTERPRISE NOT FREE... IN EUROPE, PROF. FINDS... American merchants don't have it so bad, despite the Federal Trade Commission, better business bureaus, postal regulations, state laws and city ordinances.

In an article in Stores, the magazine of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, David Carson, of the University of Pittsburgh faculty, points out that:

Dutch retailers must get permission of their chamber of commerce before opening a store or adding a department.

Norwegian merchants must notify police for holding any more than the 200 annual clearance sales permitted by law.

West Germans can give only souvenirs containing sales messages as premiums, and they aren't allowed to advertise them.

In Switzerland, co-operative and specialty stores are taxed 75 per cent of receipts, department stores 2.5 per cent, and variety stores, 4 per cent.

Store hours are regulated by law in many places in Europe. Many countries dictate the architectural styles of stores; a Milan department store of ultra modern interior was compelled to erect a Renaissance facade.

ALAS FOR 1939, WHEN... COFFEE WAS 7/4 CENTS A... POUND...

A table of wholesale prices... key years back to 1913 is a regular feature of the Guaranty Survey, the monthly newsletter of the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York. Sometimes it makes interesting reading. For instance, Santos coffee No. 4 in New York was 88.25 cents a pound last month. Back in July, 1939, it was 7.25 cents. Hogs were $6.05 a hundred pounds then, $20.10 now; zinc was 4.5 cents a pound then, 11 cents now.

Models Seldom Click In Filmland

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Many stage-struck girls dream of becoming a fashion model—and going on from there to fame and fortune in Hollywood.

If you have that dream, girly, you might as well ditch it now, unless you like to play the long odds.

This is on the advice of Mona Freeman, the exception who proves the rule. She won attention as a child model, and her pretty face adorned many a magazine cover before she made the grade in the movies.

"But modeling isn't generally a big stepping stone to a film career," she remarked, "although many people seem to think it is."

"Ofhand, the only former models I can recall who went into the films are Lauren Bacall, Gene Tierney, Jinx Falkenberg, Phyllis Kirk and uh Marilyn Monroe. There are probably a number of others but, comparatively speaking, they are few."

Mona, who at 28 still looks like a blonde college freshman, quit modeling at 17 to try her luck in the movies. She has made between 25 and 30 films, the latest being "Battle Cry," based on a best-selling novel about the Marines by Leon Uris.

After working her way into that $1,500 a week and up bracket, Mona is in a good position to compare her careers as model and actress.

"Modeling is an art, but it is comparatively simple to learn," she said. "A girl who can learn to model at all can do so in a year."

"And if she hits the top, she can make $600 a week or more. A girl doing that well at modeling quite often doesn't see why she should throw away that kind of money to take a chance on flopping in Hollywood."

"It is a big chance to take, too. A model merely has to 'photograph well. All she needs is looks and poise. But an actress has to develop a personality that appeals to the public."

Mona also believes her old modeling friends may stick out their claws at this that an actress has to do something every moment at her work that few models are required to do. She has to T-H-I-N-K.

"Acting is a job, a really tough job. But I like it. It is never a grind—never a dull existence. But even after you learn your craft and practice it well, that doesn't mean success necessarily. You still have to put yourself over with the public."

The public is a strange and capricious god to all entertainers. Mona, still as stage-struck as the day she played Little Eva in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" during her high school days, retains a wondering awe over the mysterious factors that influence the public.

"The thing that gains you the most attention may be something that an actress you regard as the least of your efforts," she said.

"For example, when they were filming, 'Dear Ruth,' I was told to make a noise to annoy my father. He had grounded me and was trying to read the paper.

"Without even thinking, I let out something between a long sigh and a groan of exasperation. It wasn't even rehearsed. But that ridiculous sound caught on. Teen-age kids all over the country picked it up and made it popular."

"Isn't it funny? You can work over a scene for weeks, and nobody pays any attention to it. Then one day's work, something you thought nothing of at the time, may put you over in a big way."

"You never know in this business what will be the thing that attracts attention. I suppose it is this doubt and gamble that makes acting interesting."

FIVE MILLIONS — Governor Umstead within a few days will announce allocation of $5,302,088.68 of "surplus" highway funds to specified projects (the confession he does not know yet what he will do with that 68 cents.)

Final budget figures show that the highway fund began the fiscal year July 1, 1953, with a credit balance of $31,914,472, and ended the year with a balance of $35,536,991. During the year it collected $102,284,300 from State sources and $13,810,617 from Federal aid. Expenditures amounted to $112,372,434, including $12,645,750 for debt service. (In other words the highway fund last year was socked for more than $12 million to pay for roads built in previous years, mostly the $200 million program of the Scott regime.)

Bookkeeping methods show the credit balance at more than $35 million, but only $5 million of that is actual surplus available for distribution to special projects.

Self-Discipline for Growth

Scriptur

"Then said Jesus unto His disciples, If any man will come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow Me."

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Rev. 16:24-25; I Corinthians 9:24-27; II Timothy 2:3-5; Hebrews 12:1-4.

By Alfred J. Buescher

Paul reminded his followers "that they which run in a race run all; but one receiveth the prize? So run that ye may obtain."

St. Paul, prisoner in Rome, encouraged his beloved disciple Timothy in his ministry, to endure hardships as a good soldier of Jesus Christ.

Laying aside sin, let us look to Jesus, and "run with patience the race that is set before us."

Self-Discipline for Growth (Temperance)

SURRENDER OF SELF NECESSARY FOR CHRISTIAN DISCIPLINE

Scripture—Matthew 16:24-25; I Corinthians 9:24-27; II Timothy 2:3-5; Hebrews 12:1-4.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

SELF-DISCIPLINE and self-control may mean little to a small child. They are just long words. However, they are very important to everyone throughout life, and they should be taught to the very young, using very simple language and examples that the child can understand.

What did Jesus say? "If any man will come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow Me."

"For whosoever will save his life shall lose it, and whosoever will lose his life, for My sake shall save it."

We generally think of our crosses as the things we worry about—money, work, school, etc. Jesus meant more than that. He must have envisioned the dangers of the world in which He and His disciples lived.

Jesus knew He would be slain and that the same fate would more than likely be that of His friends and disciples. However, cross to restrain evil thoughts and words, from such seemingly small things as the angry word, the hateful thought, the hasty action, or giving way to all the passions of the body and mind. We must "carry our cross," striving with Christ's help to overcome the evil in our natures to grow to be good Christians.

In his first epistle to the Corinthians, Paul likened our lives to a race such as was run in ancient Greece. Men were carefully trained for these races and must qualify to be allowed to run, so that they run lawfully.

He writes: "Know ye not that they which run in a race run all, but one receiveth the prize? So run, that ye may obtain. And every man that striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things. Now they do it to obtain a corruptible crown; but we an incorruptible."

"I therefore so run, not as uncertainly; so fight I, not as one that beateth the air: But I keep under my body, and bring it into subjection; lest that by any means, when I have preached to

"And thou shalt do that which is right and good in the sight of the Lord."—Deuteronomy 6:18.

He expected them to carry on the work He left them, encouraging their natural fears and to preach His gospel even if it led them to literally "carry their cross," as Jesus Himself did.

When a man was condemned to death in those days, he was compelled to carry the stake to which he was to be fastened or the cross upon which he would be nailed. There is more to it than this, however. Carrying one's cross may be controlling passions, giving up something we very much want because it will mean injury to others; even giving up one's life for another if necessary.

God gives us our bodies, minds and spirits. It is what we do with these instruments that makes us truly Christians—faithful followers of Christ. So many splendid people have "mortified the body," as we say, and won the heavenly crown, and also the kind of fame on earth that makes them examples to all of us as we read about their lives.

Saints and martyrs of olden times and all through the world's history—St. Peter, St. Paul, Joan of Arc, who gave up her youth, and faced ignominy and death for her native land and what she thought was the right. Methan Hiale and many more, both men and women.

We, too, while we may not give our lives for others, or our principles, must fight daily—carry our cross.

others, I myself should be a castaway." These words of Paul are for all of us if we would successfully run the race of life—for the minister or Sunday school teacher who preaches to the young, the middle-aged or the old. Is he or she following Paul's example? Parents too, should remember the saint's words in their daily conduct, so that they may not be "cast-aways."

Paul's second letter to Timothy was written very shortly before his martyrdom under Nero. It was his last letter, and in it he urged: "Thou therefore endure hardness, as a good soldier of Jesus Christ."

"No man that warreth tangleth himself with the affairs of this life; that he may please him who hath chosen him to be a soldier. And if a man also strive for masteries, yet he is not crowned, except he strive lawfully." "Wherefore seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us."

"Looking to Jesus the author and finisher of our faith," Jesus endured the agony and shame of the cross. Yes, "let us look to Jesus" lest we be wearied and faint in our minds, as Paul says.

Heart Diseases Lead Cause of Death In County

Of the ten leading causes of death of Pitt County residents during 1953, heart disease led the list with 204. This ten leading death causes, released yesterday by the Pitt County Health Department, included all Pitt residents anywhere in the world. The reason for the delay from January to August for the release was so full information could be gathered on Pitt County residents who had died somewhere else in this country or overseas. Dr. Walter C. Humbert, health officer, said the list of deaths did not include war casualties who had died in Korea. After heart disease the second included disease of blood vessels which

Some 133 Received Aid To The Blind During Month

Some 133 persons received aid to the blind during the month of July, according to a report released by Miss Jennie Manning, county case worker for the blind. Two persons were referred for rehabilitation, according to the report, and one person completed training at the rehabilitation center for the blind. Two persons were accounted for 63 deaths. Third, cancer, caused 56. Next, accidents by either motor or in the home and farm accounted for 37. Pneumonias caused 17 deaths. Violent causes such as suicide and homicide caused 15 deaths. Seventh place goes to tuberculosis which caused 12 deaths. Conditions of the newborn caused 11, influenza caused 10 and other contagious diseases took the lives of nine. Diabetes, which caused five deaths, was not among the first 10 causes during 1953. The report indicated that 38 persons were given eye examinations last month. Glasses were recommended for seven, and for three after there was no recommendation for improvement of vision. During the month eight persons were removed from the classification of blindness and six eye operations were performed. One application for aid to the blind was approved by the County Board of Commissioners and three other persons were assisted in completing application for aid to the blind. Giants, Dodgers In Critical Series; Braves Creeping Up

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports Writer

The New York Giants may find out tonight whether luck is still on their side.

They invade Brooklyn for three games with the second place Dodgers and the way both teams have been playing, luck will go a long way in determining the outcome.

Neither New York nor Brooklyn has been a ball of fire in recent weeks. They've stayed 1-2 in the National League pennant chase mainly by default.

Now the Milwaukee Braves are creeping up. Many more mistakes by either of the first two clubs could prove fatal.

So far the Giants have held most of the trump in their showdowns with their metropolitan rivals. They've won 9 of the 13 games and lead the Dodgers by 3 1/2 lengths. Six of the remaining nine games will be played in Brooklyn, three in the last week of the season.

Fans have been ganging up on the Brooklyn box office but the managers remain strangely silent. Neither Leo Durocher nor Walt Alston has gone so far as to predict a sweep.

Durocher even has been hesitant in picking a pitcher. For two seasons Sal Maglie has been the automatic choice to open any series with Brooklyn. But the aging right-hander was whipped in the Giants' last trip across the river and Leo has notions of using Ruben Gomez tonight with Maglie waiting for tomorrow's sunshine. Carl Erskine definitely will go for the Dodgers tonight.

The clubs should be rested. They both had the day off yesterday. Milwaukee took advantage of their idleness and moved within 6 1/2 games of the top and within three games of Brooklyn by beating St. Louis 3-1. Cincinnati, whipped Chicago 8-6 in the only other National League action.

The New York Yankees picked up half a game on Cleveland by winning a doubleheader from the Philadelphia Athletics 5-4 and 7-1. But the Indians trounced Detroit 10-1 and still lead by 2 1/2 games. Boston and Washington split. The Senators won the first game 9-5 but were shut out by Frank Sullivan in the second 5-0. Baltimore and Chicago weren't scheduled.

Philadelphia made the Yanks work for the first game, coming from behind twice to tie before Mickey Mantle decided matters in the eighth with his 25th home run.

Four runs in the first inning, including a lead off homer by Hank Bauer, sewed up the nightcap in a hurry.

The Indians pounded three Detroit pitchers for 13 hits including Al Rosen's three-run homer, his first into the seats this month. Rosen, deep in a slump, has hit safely only three times in his last 44 at bats. Bob Lemon coasted to his 16th victory.

Jackie Jensen hit his 19th homer for the Red Sox in their first game loss to Washington and was the batting star of the Boston victory in the second game as he drove in two runs and scored a pair.

Lefty Warren Spahn who has had trouble winning this season, was in top form for the Braves against the Cardinals. He threw a six-hitter, struck out seven and walked nobody. In winning their sixth straight and their 17th in their last 19 outings, the Braves bunched all of their runs in the fourth inning on an error, two singles, a double by Andy Pafko and a long foul fly. The loss was the fifth in a row for St. Louis.

Cincinnati moved within 2 1/2 games of the first division with an 8-6 victory over the Cubs. The Redlegs ran their homerun total to eight in two days with blasts by Ted Kluszewski, Jim Greengrass and Wally Post. A triple by Kluszewski drove in the winning runs.

The London Hunt and Country Club.

Patton, who gave fits to the world's leading professionals in the U.S. Open and Masters tournaments, teamed with lanky Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., in one of yesterday's complicated 36-hole matches.

Solid favorites, they were upset by Canada's Nick Westlock of Windsor, Ont., and Walter McElroy of Vancouver, B.C. The score was a decisive 4 and 3, with Campbell and Patton trailing all the way.

Westlock and McElroy, who have won a bundle of Canadian tournaments, shot three birdies on the first four holes and went 3 up. Any chance the U.S. pair had of catching up was smashed when Patton missed several easy putts in the afternoon round.

On the 26th fairway, Billy Joe accidentally stepped on a Mexican player's ball, causing the United States to forfeit the hole to that country.

Henry Ransom, Dave Douglas, British Open champion Peter Thomson of Melbourne, Shelley Mayfield, Sam Snead, Claude Harmon and Jim Turnesa.

On the track at 69 were Porky Oliver, Jack Burke, Belgian Florio Van Donck and Mike Souchak and Bill Ogden.

With Earl Stewart Jr.'s 65 the best effort, 54 of the 96 pros matched or bettered Tam's standard 36-36-72 in yesterday's first round. It was one of the biggest uprisings against par ever recorded in a major golf tournament.

"Let 'em shoot for it," said Matt Niesen, president of Tam O'Shanter and chairman of the rules committee, "let 'em have fun."

In yesterday's opening action the bigshots hit the warpath with a wild gleam.

At the present rate Byron Nelson's 72-hole Tam record of 269-19 under par—set in 1945 appeared in jeopardy and the $10,000 extra prize for breaking Lloyd Mangrum's course record of 63 carved in 1948 may even go down the drain.

Stewart, of Dallas, whose last tourney victory was in the Ardmore Open 16 months ago, appeared like an innocent bystander in a terrific jam as he set out to protect his lead. The red-haired former National Intercollegiate champion from Louisiana State, posted his dazzling 30-35-65 early as the barrier was sprung yesterday, then dared anyone to come close.

Walter Burkemo, the 1953 National PGA champion and runner-up this year, blazed home in 66. Johnny Palmer, Bob Toski and Dutch Harrison caught the money scent for 67s. Seven shared 68s—

Lions Slightly Favored Tonight

The college All-Stars meet the Detroit Lions at Soldier Field tonight in the first big game of the 1954 football season with a crowd of 90,000 expected. Gross receipts will reach $450,000, mostly going to charity.

The collegians have a fair chance to get their seventh victory in 21 games because they have first rate passers and because the lions will be handicapped by playing under college rules. The Lions, however, remain one touchdown favorites.

Jim Tatum of Maryland, coach of the nation's No. 1 college team last fall, will probably start Zeke Bratkowski at quarterback for the All-Stars. Bratkowski completed 300 passes out of 34 attempts for 4,800 yards and 24 touchdowns in three years at Georgia. Backing him up are Cotton Davidson, Baylor; Bobby Garrett, Stanford; Lamar McHan Arkansas; and Vince Dooley, Auburn, all top-notch passers.

The Lions, champions of the National Football League, have a great passer in Bobby Layne, but coach Buddy Parker may save him for the regular season and depend on Tom Dubinski. Furthermore, the Lions must use their men on both offense and defense whereas pro football is still playing two platoons and liking it. Needless to say the Lions are unhappy.

PRELIMINARY CERTIFICATE OF DISSOLUTION

State of North Carolina Department of State To All to Whom These Presents May Come-Greeting: Whereas, it appears to my satisfaction, by duly authenticated record of the proceedings for the voluntary dissolution thereof by the unanimous consent of all the stockholders, deposited in my office, that the Southern Development Company, a corporation of this State, whose principal office is situated at No. 119 W. Third Street, in the City of Greenville, County of Pitt, State of North Carolina (Ford McGowan being the agent therein and in charge thereof, upon whom process may be served), has complied with the requirements of Chapter 85, General Statutes, entitled "Corporations," preliminary to the issuing of this Certificate of Dissolution:

Now therefore, I, Thad Eure, Secretary of State of the State of North Carolina, do hereby certify that the said corporation did, on the 21st day of July 1954, file in my office a duly executed and attested consent in writing to the dissolution of said corporation, executed by all the stockholders thereof, which said consent and the record of the proceedings aforesaid are now on file in my said office as provided by law.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my official seal at Raleigh, this 21st day of July, A. D. 1954.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Prices moved irregularly today in the stock market, and by early afternoon the list presented a mixed picture.

The market started off in good fashion and then ran into difficulties. It staged a partial recovery, however, and gained back a little of the lost ground.

The pace of trading was right around yesterday's 2,680,000 shares. At the worst, prices were down around 2 points while gains extended to around a point.

Aircrafts showed weakness, but as a group the aircrafts and kindred industries were mixed.

Motors did quite well along with the railroads and oils. The steels were mixed as were the utilities.

Lower stocks included Follansbee Steel, Consolidated Natural Gas, Anaconda Copper, Boeing, United Aircraft, and Paramount Pictures.

Higher were Youngstown Sheet & Tube, American Telephone, Atlantic Coast Line, Pacific Western Oil, and General Dynamics.

CHICAGO (AP)—(USDA)—Salable hogs 5,000; market uneven; butchers mostly steady to 25 lower with late trade active; mostly steady; sows steady to 25 lower; bulk 190-270 lb 23.00-23.50; a few choice, No. 1 and 2's 200-220 lb 23.80; choice 160-185 lb 20.50 - 23.00; heavier butchers scarce; a few 280-310 lb 22.00-22.85; choice 330-400 lb 17.75; 19.75; lighter weights 20.00-21.00; larger lots 425-600 lb 16.00-17.75; good clearance.

Salable cattle 1,000; calves 300; a few sales steers and heifers steady; canner and cutter cows fully steady; utility and commercial cows steady to 25 lower; bulls and vealers about steady; a few choice steers 23.50-24.50; odd lots high commercial and good grades 17.00-22.00; no fed heifers of commercial sequence; truck lot commercial grass heifers and young cows mixed 14.00; utility and commercial cows 10.00-13.00; canners and cutters 8.00-10.00; mostly 8.50 up with a few heavy Holstein cutters up to 10.50; utility and commercial bulls 12.50-14.75; a few good heavy fat bulls 11.50-12.00; good and choice vealers 18.00-22.00; cull to commercial 8.00-18.00.

Won Big Festival Prize

Lucky winner of a $500 cash prize last night was Kenneth Hall, an East Carolina College junior from Salisbury. Hall's name was pulled from the drum containing the names of all who registered yesterday as the climax of the day's events. He is shown at the left above receiving the check from Bill Watson, chairman of the Tobacco Festival this year.

Three Minor Auto Accidents Here During Yesterday's Tobacco Festival

Police investigated three accidents during yesterday's Tobacco Festival. None of the wrecks were serious, however.

Yesterday afternoon autos operated by Gerald H. Jenkins, Negro, of 300 Nash Street and Mrs. Mabel Page Malpass of Wilson collided at the corner of Fifth and Ford streets. Damage to the two cars amounted to $450. Investigating officers W. R. Elks and J. E. Gurganus charged Jenkins with making a left turn in the face of oncoming traffic.

At 7:30 last night cars driven by Allen T. Venters of Ayden and Je-sie C. Dall of 1141 West Fourth Street were involved in a collision at the corner of Evans and Fourteenth streets. The two cars received $225 damage. Sergeant T. E. Gladson investigated.

The third wreck came at 9:54 p.m. when vehicles operated by Willie Ray King of Kinston and Willie Alton Flake of 1200 Broad Street collided on Dickinson Avenue. Damage to Flake's auto amounted to $30. King's was undamaged. Patrolman W. R. Warren investigated.

Signals Start Of Polio Drive

Mayor W. L. Whedbee is shown above as he signs a proclamation kicking off a drive for emergency funds for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Looking on is Nancy Wilmore, publicity chairman for the drive. The drive for emergency funds is being sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club which also sponsored the regular drive for polio funds earlier this year. (Reflector Photo by Alvin Taylor)

Proclamation

Inasmuch as polio is a crippling and a killer which strikes without regard to race or color, and inasmuch as the National Foundation is asking the people of the United States for an extra twenty million dollars to aid in research and to maintain hospitals including the one in Greensboro, I hereby ask the earnest support of the citizens of Greenville for this worthy cause. I realize many of you contributed generously to the campaign in January, but I ask you to support this emergency drive of August 16 - 31.

Frank Wilson, Greenville Route 3, possession of non-tax-paid whiskey, four months suspended on payment of $50, cost deducted, not to violate liquor laws for two years; Johnnie Tripp, operating motor vehicle with improper brakes, $10 and cost, license suspended for six months.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

Judge Charles H. Whedbee disposed of a comparatively light docket in Police Court Wednesday morning.

Thomas E. Beacham paid $10 for speeding. The case against Cecil Adams was not pressed.

Mathew T. Morris was found guilty of having improper brakes and speeding. The court continued prayer for judgment on payment of court costs. Another charge, passing at an intersection, was combined with these two cases.

Orange Tyson, Negro, was found not guilty of driving without an operator's license and damaging personal property.

Robert M. Herring Jr., who was found guilty of not stopping at a stop sign, had prayer for judgment against him continued on condition that he make adequate restitution to C. L. Lupton for damage to his car.

The case in which Edmond Phillips was charged with driving without an operator's license was not pressed.

Favorable Crop

Final crop report for the year from the Tobacco Board of Trade can be stated "in two sentences," Supervisor W. L. Whedbee reported today.

He said weather conditions in Pitt County and the surrounding territory from which the Greenville market annually draws tobacco for its auction sales have been such this year that this territory has produced a "very fine" crop of tobacco.

"We think the quality of our tobacco this year will compare most favorably with any in the entire flue cured area," Whedbee concluded.

Destroy Still In Martin County

State and county ABC officers combined forces early last night to destroy a moonshine still in Martin County and arrest one of the operators of the still.

The officers destroyed a 50 gallon copper still complete with copper condenser and 12 50-gallon mash barrels containing 600 gallons of mash. The still was located in the Bear Grass section of Martin County.

Pitt County officers J. M. Ward, H. B. Lilley and Glyn Perkins assisted Martin ABC officer Wiley Craft and state officers C. G. Bunting and H. B. Kendrick in the raid. Officers had the still under observation for some time, and about 8 o'clock, Ward said, Ernest Harrison of the Bear Grass section came to the still to check on the mash barrels. He was taken into custody by the officers and later released under bond for trial in Martin County recorder's court.

Some areas on Mars are 85 degrees Fahrenheit in the daytime but far below zero at night, says the National Geographic Society.
