Final Session Of 83rd Congress Is Regarded Now 'Around Corner' Only Three Major Matters To Be Disposed Of Before Curtain Rung Down

WASHINGTON (AP)—The second session of the 83rd Congress reached its final stages today, with only three major matters to be disposed of before a final gavel on all legislative business.

The three are a compromise foreign aid bill providing $2,781,000,000 in new cash, a bill to ban the Communist party and a bill to broaden and liberalize the social security system.

There was a chance all of these could be passed and sent to President Eisenhower by tonight.

Some of the lawmakers thought tomorrow was more likely for the wind-up, and a few pessimists still expected the session run over to early next week.

The way legislation has been taking a surprise turn at the last minute, there was just no telling.

When legislative business is completed, the House will be able to quit until January. But the Senate may come back later to dispose of the recommendations of its special committee on the motion to censure Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

Senate-House conferees agreed on the compromise foreign aid appropriation yesterday, and it was expected to whip through both branches today in short order.

However, the two other big measures remained to be hammered out in conference.

The administration is opposed to a provision written into an anti-Communist bill by the Senate which would slap heavy penalties and fines on individual party members.

The conferees were seeking some way to meet administration objections, and still satisfy the majority in both Senate and House which have voted to ban the party through individual penalties.

The Justice Department has expressed fear that making membership in the party illegal will interfere with prosecution of Red leaders under present laws.

The social security bill, a must item on the President's list and also that of nearly all of the lawmakers, is hung up over a controversy as to coverage.

The administration is seeking to extend social security coverage to 3,600,000 farm operators and 500,000 professional people but was turned down on this by the Senate.

The House accepted the President's position on coverage in large part, and its conferees are demanding that the two groups be included in the compromise bill.

The Senate representatives have been just as adamant against it.

A controversy over a pay raise for 500,000 postal workers and 1 1/2 million civil service classified workers still could delay adjournment.

Little Progress In Hunting Bandit

VANCEBORO, N.C. (AP)—Officers worked throughout the night trying to solve the sixth bank robbery of the year in North Carolina, but apparently they made little progress.

The object of their investigation was a thin-faced bandit with a trembling pistol hand. He held up the Vanceboro branch of the Guaranty Bank & Trust Co. of Greenville yesterday and his getaway with $3,039 of the bank's funds.

Apparently no one has recognized the bandit since he left the bank about 10:50 a.m. leaving two bank employees and a customer lying on the floor.

Here is how Robert B. Whitley, assistant cashier, said the gunman, in his early twenties, about 5 feet 9 inches and weighing about 150 pounds, staged the holdup:

"He came in the door and walked right on around the partition. I saw the pistol. Get down! he said. He was nervous. He was shaking all over and the pistol was shaking. It was a chrome-plated .32 or .38.

"He had already told Mrs. (Mavis) Simpkins (the teller) to lie down. She lay on the floor next to the table.

"He told me again to lie down. He cocked the pistol. I got down. "I had been counting half dollars. He began to scoop up all the money on the counter and put it in a bag that was there. When (Elmo) Ippok (a Vanceboro farmer) came in he said, 'I'll be with you in a minute'.

"Then he went around the partition and told Ippok to get down. He (Ippok) hesitated a minute and I heard him (the robber) tell him again to get down. I didn't get up until he was gone."

Officers theorized that the bandit could have been talking with a confederate outside the bank when he said, "I'll be with you in a minute."

However, no one on the streets of this village of about 700, between New Bern and Greenville, saw him leave the bank.

Whitley and others said they had seen the bandit the day before the robbery and again yesterday morning. He was walking the streets alone at that time.

In five other North Carolina bank robberies this year, the FBI either has obtained convictions or have reported confessions.

He suffered another attack at 2 a.m. today and died an hour later after still another seizure. His family was at his bedside.

De Gasperi had stepped down from the titular leadership of his pro-Western, middle-of-the-road Christian Democrat party—Italy's largest—a little more than a month ago.

He ended his 7 1/2 years as head of the Italian government a year ago, in July 1953, after losing a confidence vote in the Italian Parliament.

But his party's success in succeeding cabinets and a protégé of De Gasperi, former Interior Minister Mario Scelba, now holds the premiership.

A messenger brought the news of the death before dawn to Scelba and the Premier hurried from his own vacation spot, Fuggi, to the scene of the death of his old mentor.

Known in the troublesome early days of the Italian republic as the master of political compromise, De Gasperi chaired later to become a two-faced foe of the growing menace of communism.

The tall, hawk-faced leader first became premier in December 1945 because he was leader of Italy's biggest party. A noted anti-Fascist imprisoned often by Mussolini, he had served since the previous April as foreign minister.

Italy's Postwar Leader Dies Of Heart Attack In Mountain Retreat

SELLA VAL SUGANA, Italy (AP)—Alcide de Gasperi, the lean old statesman who led Italy out of postwar chaos and onto the path of democracy, died today of a heart attack.

Death came to the former Premier as he rested here in his north Italy mountain retreat far from Rome and the political wars in which he had battled without respite for nearly a decade.

His passing robbed the cause of European union of one of its staunchest supporters. Italy's struggle against communism lost one of its hardest fighters.

Although it was known the 73-year-old leader's health was failing, there had been no public hint he was seriously ill. Only after his death was it revealed that he had suffered a heart attack a week ago.

His condition was not considered serious until Tuesday when the heart pains became more intense.

He suffered another attack at 2 a.m. today and died an hour later after still another seizure. His family was at his bedside.

In his first two years as premier he tried to work with his nation's Communists and fellow-traveling Socialists, but in the spring of 1947 he abandoned the effort and the 1948 elections inflicted a smashing defeat on the Reds.

For five years after that he fought the Reds at every turn, battling to keep his nation closely allied with the United States and the anti-Communist West, pushing the cause of European unity.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Senate investigations involving (Sen. McCarthy) were threatened with schedule-upsetting delays today, but apparently not because of disputes over the controversial Wisconsin Republican.

Leaders of both Senate groups said the stumbling block was unexpectedly difficult work.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee, which conducted the 36 days of McCarthy-Army hearings, just about gave up hope of reaching a verdict by the end of this week—the date Chairman Mundt (R-SD) had set.

And a special Senate committee headed by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) to study a proposed resolution of censure against McCarthy indicated it may have to postpone the start of public hearings beyond the scheduled premiere Aug. 30.

McCarthy announced he would enter no protest against a deferred start.

French Premier Warns Of Swing To Left If Pact Unchanged EDC Terms Unacceptable

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—French Premier Pierre Mendes-France said today that if his proposals for changing the European army treaty are rejected France might swing in another crisis to a Leftist government similar to the prewar "Popular Front."

The Popular Front was a coalition of Socialists and Radical Socialists headed by Leon Blum. Its policy was social reform rather than Marxism. But the period was marked by widespread strikes and other disorders.

Mendes-France made his statement to a six-nation meeting of foreign ministers convened to discuss changes in the European Defense Community pact. His remarks were relayed to newsmen by a German source. By the account of this informant:

The French Premier said the present treaty has no chance of being accepted by the French Parliament, due to start debating it Aug. 28. He said he had drawn his proposals for revision to find some way of salvaging something from the idea.

He declared rejection of his proposals would certainly result in a negative vote in Parliament. This could be followed, he argued, by a crisis in the North Atlantic community. All this would be a victory for the Russians, he asserted—a victory "which would cost them nothing."

A French source, when told of this version, said "that sounds O.K."

Shortly after Mendes-France spoke, however, Dutch Foreign Minister J. W. Beyen bluntly said the French proposals were not acceptable to his government.

Beyen said that Mendes-France's statement this morning had made a "totally different impression" than the text of the proposed changes. The note on the changes was transmitted through diplomatic channels last Saturday.

Italy has not yet ratified the pact, but in advance of the Brussels meeting expressed opposition to the French revisions.

The United States and Britain, while not represented at the two-day parley, are deeply interested in the outcome. They also are firmly opposed to any changes which would compromise the original purpose of the treaty and further delay German rearmament.

The five foreign ministers met just after 11 a.m. in the gold and green banquet hall of the Belgian Foreign Ministry. Sitting around the U-shaped table, which was covered by the usual green billiard-table cloth, were Mendes-France, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, Luxembourg's Premier Joseph Bech, Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak, Attilio Piccioni of Italy and J. W. Beyen of the Netherlands.

The conference is scheduled to last two days.

French legal experts contend the suggested alterations would not require parliamentary approval. The other countries flatly disagree.

The Dutch government in expressing deep concern said the French proposals "scoop the supranationality" out of the treaty.

Adenauer said the changes "affect the very foundations" of the pact.

The main objections to the French proposals involve:

1. The watering down or emasculating of the supranational features of the treaty under which an international commissariat would make the administrative decisions for all six countries.

Mendes-France proposes that for eight years after ratification any nation may veto any decision of the commissariat which it deems harmful to its own national interests.

2. Some of the provisions seem to permit Germany to rebuild its own national army. The French proposals would defer indefinitely the conversion of the national armies into a six-nation force. Ironically it was fear of a German armed force that inspired France to dream up a European army.

3. Any new parliamentary action required would delay the treaty going into operation by months, or perhaps years. No government, aside from the French, is willing to wait much longer for German rearmament.

4. Some of the proposed alterations seem to be outright discrimination against Germany, and in favor of France. Under the Mendes-France protocol, any EDC member could decide to pull out when Germany reunites. No foreign troops could be stationed on any soil except German and the way would be open for French manufacturers to grab defense orders away from Germany.

Gain Compromise For Anti-Red Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate-House conferees came up with a compromise anti-Communist bill today by dropping a provision making mere membership in the Communist party punishable by fine and imprisonment.

In its place, they put a clause saying a person who is a member of a Communist-action group shall be subject to the penalties provided in the 1950 Internal Security Act.

The 1950 law, of which Sen. McCarran (D-Nev) was the author, provides that members of Communist-action groups shall be barred from defense plants, from employment by the federal government and from obtaining a passport.

In addition, if they fail to register with the attorney general as required by law, they are subject to imprisonment for five years and to a fine of $10,000.

McCarran, a member of the conferees committee, said the compromise bill "makes certain that all of the provisions and penalties of the Internal Security Act shall prevail."

Administration doubts about earlier versions of anti-Communist legislation had been based on concern that it might destroy the registration provisions of the Internal Security Act and hamper Prosecutions for conspiring to teach and advocate the forcible overthrow of the government under the Smith Act.

The section of the bill making Communist party membership a criminal offense, sponsored by Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) and other Democrats, was twice approved by the Senate and once by the House over the objections of the administration.

The schedule called for the new compromise version to be submitted first to the Senate and then to the House.

Sen. Butler (R-Md) told reporters that the Senate-House conferees agreed on it unanimously.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A breakaway door that didn't break laid comedian Red Skelton low yesterday during a rehearsal for his CBS television show half an hour before the program was due to go on the air for the Eastern audience the network reported.

Skelton suffered a brain concussion and a severe neck sprain. According to the script he was to walk through the stage prop door yesterday, carrying on his head a chunk of balsam wood painted to resemble a block of concrete.

The breakaway door, supposed to shatter when he banged into it, didn't.

He was replaced on the show by Johnny Carson.

But Senators Jackson (D-Wash) and Dirksen (R-Ill), assigned by the other five subcommittee members to write a tentative draft report, expressed no such confidence. Jackson told reporters he doubts the job can be finished before Tuesday.

Loop-hole Closed By ABC Board RALEIGH (AP)—The State ABC Board adopted a new regulation yesterday designed to halt the sale of more than one gallon of alcoholic beverages to any person during one day.

The board acted after finding a loop-hole in a regulation that had been on the books since Dec. 4, 1939. The old regulation stated: "The county ABC stores shall not sell more than one gallon of alcoholic beverages to any person at one time."

The supervisor said sales were still light this morning and were expected to continue light for the rest of this week, due to the extremely dry weather.

It was announced yesterday that sales will continue for the remainder of this week at 60 percent of normal. Beginning Monday the abbreviated sales plan will end and the full sales schedule will be in operation.

Farmville Tobacco Market Sales Supervisor Charles S. Edwards reported very light sales yesterday. The average there was $55.06 - the highest of the three selling days so far for Farmville.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The Eastern North Carolina flue-cured tobacco markets reported continued light sales yesterday while the Carolinas border markets reported most grade averages steady to higher.

The Federal-State Market News Service reported the typical top price on the Eastern was $68 per hundred. Lugs and primings made up most of the sales. Some increase in leaf percentage was noted.

Texas Collie Is Dog Hero Of '54

CHICAGO (AP)—America's dog hero of heroes for 1954 is Tang a Texas-wooled collie that has saved four children from possible death.

The title $1,000 in saving bonds, a gold medal, gold plaque, gold-plated leash and collar and a year's supply of dog food were given the 65-pound Tang last night by the manufacturer of a dog food, Quaker Oats Co.

On four different occasions Tang pushed children from the path of automobiles. Among those he saved were a son and daughter of Tang's owners, Air Force Capt. and Mrs. Maurice L. Dyer of Denison, Tex.

The award was presented by Chicago Fire Capt. Joseph J. McCarthy, who himself won the medal of honor as a Marine corps officer in World War II.

New Members Joining C-of-C

Six new members have joined the Chamber of Commerce.

Chairman of the Membership Committee J. B. Kittrell Jr. reported this morning six new members have been added to the Chamber's roster since the organization's membership drive report on Aug. 11.

He said vacations and business engagements of the solicitors as well as of the prospective members have prevented the completion of the campaign.

"I am confident, however," he stated, "that an additional substantial number will be added when the final reports are made within the next few days."

The new members of the Chamber of Commerce include General Electric Supply Co., National Supply Co., Riggan's Atlantic Service Station, Reliable Plumbing Co., Saad's Shoe Shop, and Serv-U-Sneel Service.

This brings the total number of new members in the organization to 42, Kittrell reported.

Veteran Of Gang Warfare Killed

CHICAGO (AP)—Charles (Cherry Nose) Gioe, who survived gangland shootings when he was a member of Al Capone's mob, was found shot to death in an automobile last night.

Assassins pumped five bullets in to his body. Police said they could not find any witnesses. But they found several persons who had heard the shots.

Gioe's body was slumped over the front seat, his head against the right-hand door. The ignition keys of the car were clutched in his right hand.

Gioe, 52, and three other Capone gangsters were sent to prison in 1944 after their conviction of conspiracy for extorting more than one million dollars from the motion picture industry. The four won a parole in 1947 after serving one third of a 10-year sentence.

Chief of Detectives John T. O'Malley theorized Gioe was ambushed as he prepared to start his car after visiting a restaurant in which he had an interest. The restaurant is about half a block from where Gioe's car was parked in Erie Street near May Street on the city's near West Side.

Police said the slayers fired nearly a dozen shots, five striking Gioe in the head, shoulder, back, chest and hip.

Police said the car, which bore Texas license plates, had been loaned to Gioe by Jack Weingarten of Chicago.

Gioe, reportedly the manager of the big gambling operations of the Capone gang, had been questioned by police last March after the gangland killing of Paul (Needle Nose) Labriola and James Weinberg, whose bodies were found stuffed into the trunk of an automobile.

A recent study of athletes indicates that deterioration of their bodies in later life was due to excesses in eating, drinking and smoking rather than to early athletics. Those who remained active athletes were in better condition than average men of the same age.

Duval-Duke Vows Spoken Tuesday

Double Ring Rites Performed In Presbyterian Church

In a ceremony of beauty and dignity the marriage of Miss Ann Duke and Marshall Duval was solemnized Tuesday afternoon at five o'clock at the Presbyterian Church in Greenville. Bridal greenery consisting of Emerald, plumose and conitol green interspersed with huckleberry, large stamens of white gladioli, and white chrysanthemums with myriads of cathedral candles were used to decorate the church.

The Rev. Leonard W. Topping, pastor of the bride, assisted by Rev. Rufus H. Stark II of Durham, performed the double ring ceremony.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by Miss Janet Watson as organist. This was followed by two lovely solos by Miss Barbara White. Her selections were "Through the Years" by Vincent Youmans and "O Promise Me" by DeKoven. Miss Watson used the traditional Wedding Marches as a processional and recessional.

Acting as ushers were Thad Nobles of Red Springs, brother-in-law of the bride, George Tucker, Monroe, Paul Boseman of Enfield and A. V. Madlin of Greenville.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, J. B. Spillman of Greenville, wore a magnificent white length dress made with three tiers of nylon tulle ascending into an exquisite bodice of hand-clipped rosepoint lace with a delicately tucked yoke and tiny lace collar designed by Novel. Her most becoming scoop bonnet of sequin trimmed lace and pleated tulle was a Whitney creation. She carried a cascade bouquet of white fuji mums, white sweetheart roses centered with a white orchid and tied with bridal satin. Mrs. J. B. Spillman Jr. was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a white length dress made with three tiers of pure silk lustrous crystallette fashioned with a scooped neckline molded to a very fine tucked bodice and cap sleeves with full skirt made over matching color silk taffeta. Her headpiece was of fuchsia nylon tulle and pink sweetheart roses. She carried a colonial bouquet of orchid and lavender beauty asters centered with pink sweetheart roses and tied with fuchsia satin ribbon.

Misses Mary Ann Stark and Anne Sutton of Greenville were bridesmaids. They wore dresses of rosette crystallette fashioned identical to that of the matron of honor and carried similar bouquets.

Just preceding the bride to the altar was little Miss Sharon Flanagan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Flanagan, as flower girl. She was dressed in porcelain blue crystallette made with tight bodice and very full skirt and carried a small basket filled with pink rose petals and tied with pink and blue nylon tulle.

Mr. Marshall P. Duval served as best man for his son. The bride's mother wore a gently flared street-length gown of blue-stone peau de sole embellished with exquisite embroidery flashed with opalescent sequins. With this she wore a tiny velvet hat with blue-stone accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Duval, mother of the groom, was dressed in a street-length gown of Williamsburg blue with sea shell pink accessories and corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Duval is the attractive and popular daughter of Mrs. Roy Aulander Coburn and the late Edgar Filmore Duke. She is a graduate of Greenville High School and attended Greensboro College. She is also a graduate of East Carolina College and is a member of the Roper, N. C. school faculty. She is highly esteemed for her charming personality.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall P. Duval of Greenville, attended East Carolina College and is now stationed at Fort McClellan, Ala.

For her wedding trip Mrs. Duval chose a white Handmacher suit with navy accessories and a white orchid.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mrs. Coburn entertained at a reception at her home, 1301 Johnston Street, the Duval-Duke wedding party, out-of-town guests and a few close friends.

Out-of-town guests were Capt. and Mrs. E. M. Doar Jr., Judge and Mrs. H. C. Maurice, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Fleet Jr., Mrs. Harold Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Lloyd, Mrs. W. L. Stone Jr., Mrs. Peyton A. Reynolds, Betty and Eileen Reynolds, Mrs. W. F. Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. Hargrove, all of Richmond, Va., Vernon Baker of Colerain, N. C., Mr. W. R. Johnston, Norfolk, Va., Ellen Tolson, Midland, Mich., Mrs. C. M. Austin, Raleigh, N. C., Mr. and Mrs. Thad Nobles, Red Springs, Mrs. T. B. Foley and Lucy Foley, Burlington, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Magee Jr., Aurora, Francis Etheridge, Plymouth, Tim Gaylord, Diane Gaylord, Mrs. W. V. Gaylord, Maxine Hooker, all of Roper, and Miss Nancy Dashiell, Smithfield, Va.

On Monday night, August 16, the Duval-Duke wedding party and out-of-town guests were entertained at an after-rehearsal party by Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Flanagan at their home on Eastern Street.

The guests were greeted by the host and hostess and invited inside where attractive decorations of mixed summer flowers were used. In the dining room, a color scheme of pink, green and white predominated. The table was covered with a cut-work cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink mums and dahlias in a silver bowl. The buffet was centered with a miniature bride and groom under an arch of flowers flanked by tall white candles.

Mrs. Rufus Stark served frozen punch to the guests and Mrs. Amos Leggett and Mrs. Levy Corey helped serve small bridal cakes, mints and salted nuts.

Out-of-town guests here for the approaching wedding and the families and a few close friends of Miss Duke and Mr. Duval attended the party.

Overboard, But Rescued In Time

FOX LAKE, Ill. (AP)—Speedboat operator Len Koeller brought his new 14-foot boat with a 25-horsepower motor to Pistakee Lake for a trial spin. After he had been out for about 10 minutes his dog got scared and jumped overboard.

Koeller dived in after him, but he forgot to shut off the motor. The Coast Guard Auxiliary crew saved him and the dog and the boat.

Sentence Faulty Shoe Producers

HONG KONG (AP)—The Chinese Communists have imposed prison sentences and fines on persons accused in Tientsin of supplying several hundred thousand rotten rubber shoes to Red soldiers in Korea. The case, described as the "law-breaking case of 18 private rubber goods factories of Tientsin," broke into the Red press last year. Reports said the shoes came apart on the soldiers' feet in the field.

A preliminary investigation showed, said Peiping, that the rubber had been adulterated, poor chemicals used causing the soles to part from the uppers, fats were substituted for rubber, formulas were tampered with, contracts were fulfilled late or weren't fulfilled at all, and outdated materials used.

Managers and a few government officials were brought to public trial. They were also accused of robbing the state of about $100,000 through diversion of good rubber and good canvas to their own use.

The plants apparently were trying to stretch inadequate rubber, canvas and chemical stocks to meet target quotas assigned them that were too big. At that time—1951-52 — a prime sin in China was to fail to make target in a vital industry.

More Drastic Measures Are Needed

Judge Medina Is Off Base This Time

The Reflector must take issue with Judge Harold Medina who has asserted that radio and television coverage of court trials make truth impossible to obtain.

Judge Medina, who presided over the 1949 trial at which 11 top communists were convicted, told the Judicial Administration section of the American Bar Association: "Whenever you seek to ascertain the truth eliminate radio and television and those things which make truth impossible."

We can not justify Judge Medina's statement.

If a witness is going to lie in his testimony, we are convinced he will lie before a courtroom full of people just as quickly as he will lie before thousands who are listening or watching over television or radio.

There is no sound reason, so far as we are concerned, why a television camera or a radio microphone should influence a witness' testimony.

Apparently there is a concerted effort among jurists and others in quasi-judicial positions in government to root out television and radio coverage of trials and investigations. If they are allowed to succeed in their efforts against these two media of information, doubtlessly they'll next turn their efforts toward the reporter who sits in on the trial with pencil and paper in hand.

Certainly the American people should not surrender their right to full information on governmental proceedings through any of the three principal media of information.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
OFFICERS AND PLAIN SOLDIERS

Many people feel that only ordained ministers can serve the Church, or indeed need to serve the Church. The truth is that necessary as ministers are, they are certainly not greater in their influence than are the laity and probably not even to be compared with them in influence.

It should always be remembered that our Lord Jesus was a layman. In the midst of the most highly organized religious hierarchy that history knows anything about, Jesus throughout the 30-odd years of his life remained a simple layman. He undoubtedly received the synagogue training which all Jewish boys received. He studied the Old Testament until it literally became part of his nature. No doubt as he worked in the carpenter shop year after year, he pondered the great truths of prophet and psalmist and gradually there expanded in his mind his glorious messages and the parables which pierced to the very heart-center of his listeners. Jesus was not a minister, a rabbi, or a priest—he was a layman.

Ponder this and think of how important a layman really is. Ask yourself also how great is the responsibility God has put upon you laymen. Kings and presidents must look to their field marshals, but in the end battalions win battles, not generals—laymen, not ministers.

In the church it is the laity, indeed, who frequently bring the glorious purposes of God to fulfillment.

More Palace Gossip Is Told

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Fresh palace gossip of Roosevelt-Truman days has been furnished recently by C. Dickerman Williams, who had an excellent observation and listening post as General Counsel of the Commerce Department in that period. He blames many strange happenings, including the Harry Dexter White affair, on possible Communist infiltrators and personal cronies around the White House.

Writing in the American Bar Association's Journal, Williams proposes a complete reorganization and regularization of the White House Office and Staff, which is now responsible to nobody but the President. Reprinted in the Congressional Record, it has led several members to suggest that the Hoover Commission or a Special Congressional Committee study the problem.

WHITE HOUSE'S POWER—The Presidential force has grown from only 42 under Coolidge to 597 under Roosevelt and 1,181 under Truman. Although not confirmed by the Senate, many of the immediate White Houseers exercise far more power than Cabinet members because of their accessibility to and personal relationship with the Chief Executive.

Harry Hopkins, for instance, influenced more major foreign policy decisions than did Cordell Hull or his successors as Secretary of State. "Pa" Watson, F.D.R.'s jovial military aide, bossed the Pentagon on occasions. John R. Steelman, adviser on labor matters, bypassed Secretaries Perkins and Tobin. "Steve" Early and Marvin McIntyre decided who could and could not see the President's ear and mind.

Secretaries Forrestal and Ickes frequently complained that boyish clerks and second-class seamen in the Budget Bureau dictated Defense and Interior policies. Only recently they almost closed down a Texas smelter, although it is the only one on the Western Continent capable of refining low-grade ores. RESPONSIBLE FOR WHITE APPOINTMENT—Williams points out that J. Edgar Hoover, Fred M. Vinson and Tom C. Clark opposed the promotion of Harry Dexter White. Vinson and Clark were then Secretary of the Treasury and Attorney General, respectively. Then Williams continues: "Another explanation, therefore, seems possible—that some employees of the Office of the President, secretly a Communist or a Communist sympathizer, and not yet identified, may have been the source of unscrupulous advice to sign the commission, or may have secured the President's signature without realization by Mr. Truman of the nature of the document he was signing, or, indeed, may have forged the signature.

"The name of Lauchlin Currie, Administrative Assistant to the President from 1939 until he was dismissed on June 30, 1948, has appeared repeatedly in testimony concerning the Silvermaster espionage ring."

LACK OF CONTROL—Referring to the utter lack of any control of the President's immediate political household, Williams continues: "It is indeed anomalous that Senate confirmation is not required for such a powerful officer as the Director of the Budget, who reviews the proposals of members of the Cabinet, but it is necessary for the appointment of a second lieutenant in the Regular Army, the postmaster of a village or a sanitary engineer in the Health Service."

The Budget Bureau, in Williams' opinion, should be placed in Treasury, and the Council of Economic Advisers in Commerce. As to all other "palace" servants, he says: "The personnel of the Office of the President should be subjected to control by law with respect to their appointment, compensation and duties."

Scheidt Had Little Choice In Matter

Motor Vehicles Commissioner Ed Scheidt is to be commended for his instruction to members of the Highway Patrol to continue making arrests without warrants in cases where violations of the motor vehicle laws are concerned.

Scheidt and the Highway Patrol have little choice in the matter if they are to enforce the motor vehicle laws of the state. They could do little enforcing if they had to get a warrant before running down a speeder, or appear before a magistrate to obtain a warrant before taking a drunken driver into custody.

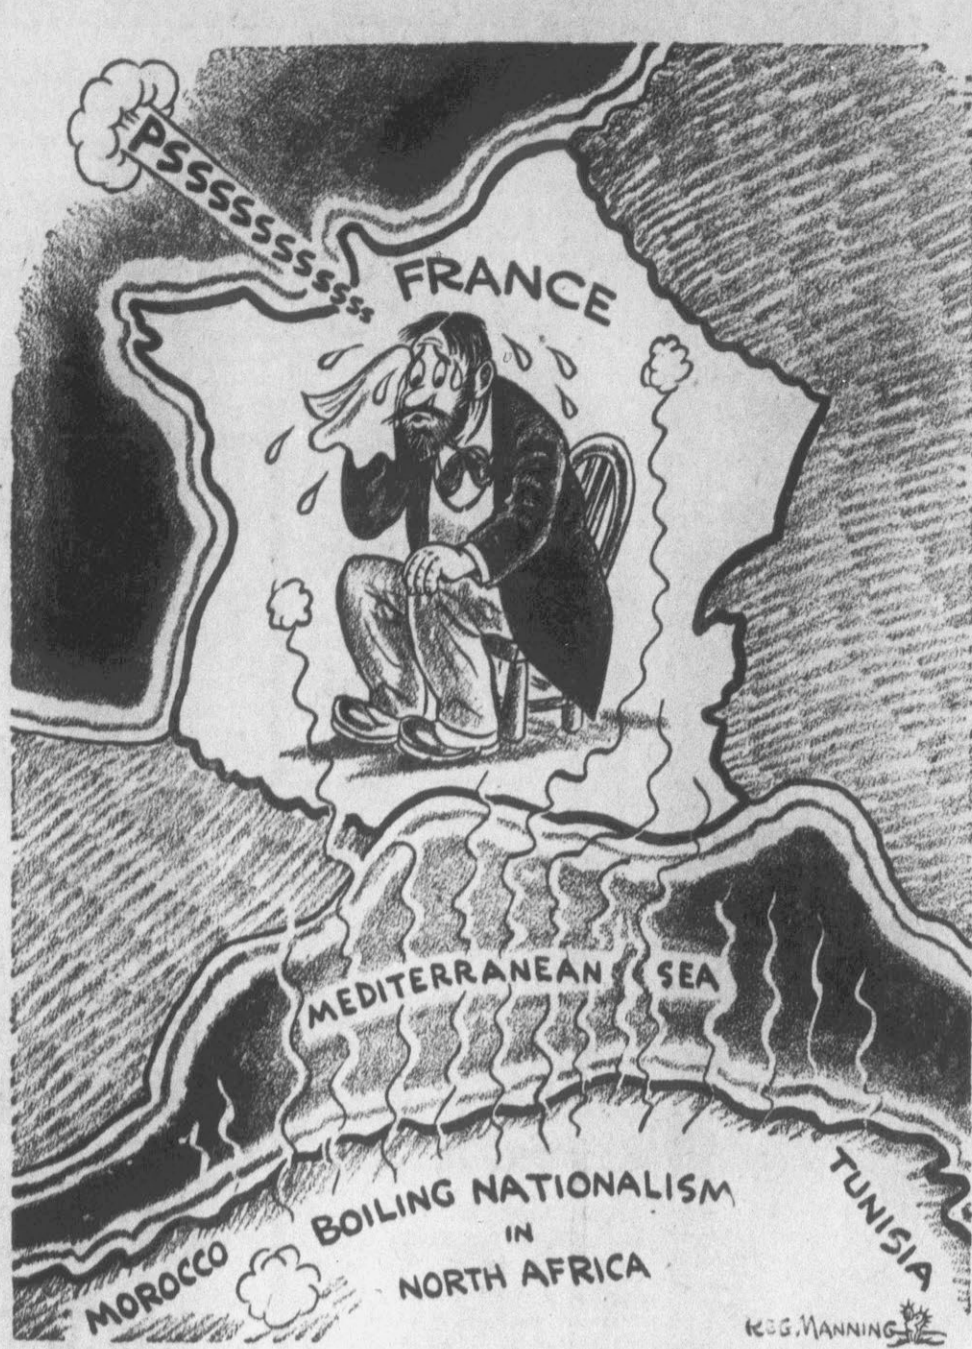

The State Supreme Court ruling against making arrests for misdemeanor charges without a warrant will cause highway patrolmen to be more cautious in making arrests. Scheidt's instruction, however, should assure that patrolmen will continue their preventive enforcement as they have in the past.

For their own safety on the highways, it behooves the people of the state to cooperate with the patrol in spite of the ruling of the state's high court.

Even with the Highway Patrol following substantially the arrest policy it has followed in the past, it is imperative that the law concerning warrants and misdemeanor arrests be clarified as soon as possible.

While the Supreme Court ruling threatened to severely handicap enforcement of motor vehicle laws, it likewise offers a lesser handicap to other law enforcement activities.

I Got Steam Heat

Somebody Told Me It's Known Best As Morehead

Atlantic Beach, N.C. — Some of the amateur radio operators I talk to from this location wonder where Atlantic Beach is. But when you re-name it Morehead most of them know. For some reason this beach seems to be better known by the name of the town across the sound. Greenville people we have seen so far include Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Kittrell, Jr., Frances Tomlinson (formerly Frances Willard of Greenville but now of Cherry Point), Joyce and Don Calloway (at the Paul Scott cottage) along with Joyce's sister and her husband of Concord, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Craig, Mr. and Mrs. J. Perkins, and Mrs. Buddy Harrington. Considering the multitude of Greenville cottages here, there are no doubt many more.

A comparison I made in a recent column between the surf at Nags Head and here bears repeating; This beach is far superior. This morning at 7:30 I was in the water and it was perfect as could be.

By the time we get the children on a sleeping schedule (it'll be time to go back to Greenville. Of the four, one of them is always awake. A change of location, as any parent will tell you, throws a monkey wrench in the routine.

Got a kick out of the milk man's approach this morning. Came by and wanted to know what our requirements were, how long we would be here. With four children leaning on the screen door I knew that if I went out to talk to him at closer range it would take 15 minutes to re-assemble the children.

"What am I going to do about paying you?" I asked.

"You can pay me when you are ready to leave."

"How do you know you can trust me? You can't even see me through this screen."

"Don't worry about that," he said.

"I'm not worried if you aren't."

"Well, I'm not worried. I have taken down your license number."

That's what I call a real business man.

This afternoon a trip to Salter Patch is on tap. Rumor has it that there's a new spurt of development down there. The development has this feature: beach on the front of the lots and sound on the back.

Fishing possibilities are better. Don Calloway and Tommy Craig are definitely interested. All we need is a fourth.

And I thank you. JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

HOOPER THE STATESMAN (Henderson Dispatch)

Few men in modern American history have been belittled and derided as Herbert Hoover has. That is true because of the fact that the worst economic depression the country ever experienced, barring the Civil War era, occurred during his term of office as President from 1929 until 1933. But it can be said in all fairness that he did not sour on the world as a result of the evil things that were said of him.

Hard times that characterized the Hoover administration shaped up long before he entered the White House. They were, under the circumstances, almost an inevitable sequence to the reckless speculative and highly prosperous years of the 1920s, and most likely would have occurred regardless of who had been chief executive. Principal blame that attaches to Hoover is that he did so little toward trying to correct the evils. And yet the remedies that were applied in the years that followed almost drove the country into socialism.

Be that as it may, it must in fairness be said of Mr. Hoover that he is a loyal, patriotic American. The fact that his philosophy of economics may differ from that of many of us does not minimize the man's integrity.

Now, at the age of eighty years, the former President is respected as an elder statesman. President Truman thought so much of his capacity to render public service that he named him head of the Hoover Commission set up several years ago to chart a reorganization of the Federal government, and so many of that body's recommendations as could run the gamut of political maneuverings have been approved by Congress, most of them with the endorsement of Mr. Truman.

Out in West Branch, Iowa, his birthplace, on Tuesday his native State "tagged a gigantic birthday party for the former President on the occasion of his eightieth anniversary. It was not a political occasion, but an event staged as a tribute to one of the country's only two living former chief executives. It was an honor he richly deserved as one of the few men who ever held the highest office in the land and lived to become an octogenarian.

Regardless of political loyalties and affiliations, the nation joined in good will toward this man who once fell into official disrepute but who has regained a vast amount of the country's esteem. Few dissented from the high honors bestowed upon him on the birthday occasion.

Around Capitol Square

Administrative Cost Is Small Part Of N.C. Spending

BUDGET CUTTING — There comes occasional suggestion from "economy advocates" that State spending should be reduced rather than taxes raised in order to balance the budget for the next few years. Most of these demands for curtailed spending insist that no reduction be made in teacher salaries or in the care afforded for mentally sick and other social agency purposes. Emphasis is upon eliminating "extravagance in the administrative operations of the government."

Once again it must be pointed out that only a small part of the tax money collected from the people goes for administration. The appropriations made for the current fiscal year included $500,000 for the General Assembly and $812,187 for the operation of all the Supreme and Superior Courts, including salaries of judges, solicitors and clerical assistants. That is $1,312,187 for all legislative and judicial expenses—less than three quarters of one percent of the total appropriations.

The executive and administrative branch, including the Governor's office and all departments at Raleigh, got $12,746,480, or just about six and one half percent of the total. (And two million of that went for state aid to local health and forest fire projects). The actual operation of the legislative, judicial and executive departments, including such things as the veterans' commission, and numerous items related to education—such as the department of public instruction, the retirement system, libraries and museums—uses up just about 7 percent of the taxpayers money. The other 93 per cent goes into public schools, educational and charitable institutions and hospitals, welfare, pensions and debt services. Obviously some administrative costs can be reduced at State level and out among the counties. It is important to remember that if the Legislature did not meet, if every court room were closed and every department at Raleigh shut down for a year, the taxpayers would save less than seven cents out of every dollar paid in.

VOX POP — An ancient maxim is that in a democracy "vox populi, vox dei"—the voice of the people is the voice of God. Some of the conservative editorials are proclaiming that the voice of the people will be raised against any increase in taxes. What actually is happening is that "vox populi"—the voice of the people—has already been heard demanding new taxes.

Spokesmen for the United Forces for Education, about as comprehensive group has could be assembled in North Carolina, have appealed to the State Board of Education for substantial raise in teacher salaries. Administrative officers and trustees of the various State educational, correctional and hospital units have filed requests for permanent improvements and given notice they will ask increases in operation budgets aggregating some $50 million "new money."

Governor Umstead is on record as favoring every possible economy in operation, but against curtailment of essential services. Apparently he is supported in that position by the composite thinking of departmental and institutional administrators, and by presentations in behalf of the educational health and welfare forces. Nobody wants more taxes, but nobody can explain how $50 million can be saved by economies in the expenditure of $14 million. That's too much even for Einstein.

It is even more absurd than the claim of a former Governor that his campaign against "petty graft" in use of State automobiles, telephones, stationery and postage would save $5 million a year—when total appropriations for these items amounted to less than $4 million.

It is unfair and unkind to suggest that if State officials and employees had been careful in use of State money they could have saved more than the total appropriations for their activities. The bald fact, unpleasant but inescapable, is that salaries and services must be cut or taxes must be raised.

POULTRY — Another section of North Carolina is switching from row crops to poultry in farming practices. Cleveland county, for a long time the banner cotton producing county in the state, has been hard hit by three successive dry years. Many farmers are diverting at least a part of their efforts to poultry. Most of them do not know as much about poultry raising as they need to know, so a delegation requested the State Board of Agriculture to join in asking the General Assembly for $25,000 for a poultry diagnostic laboratory—$15,000 the first year and $10,000 the second year of the biennium. Shelby business men will provide the building. The laboratory would be comparable to those already in use at Waynesville, Monroe and North Wilkesboro.

CORN BREAD — For years this reporter has been campaigning for corn bread on the menu at North Carolina eating places, particularly the mountain resorts. It was argued that visitors from out of the state could get "store bought" bread at home or elsewhere, but the homemade corn bread in the tradition of rural Tarheelia was a delicacy obtainable nowhere else.

Business Today

Surplus Is Advertised

By ELMER ROESSNER
Something is being done about the government's surplus property problem.

There is a lot of surplus—perhaps 10 or 20 billion dollars worth at acquisition prices. The end of the war in Korea resulted in huge piles, and the determination of Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson to keep defense materials constantly up to date make it probable that a billion dollars worth of obsolete materiel will be declared surplus each year.

Up until now—as has been pointed out in this column—businessmen have had quite a job in finding out what was being offered that could be of their interest. They had to write to Army, Navy and Air Corps and outline what they were in the market for. Then, if they didn't register excitement every one of the first three offers, their names came off the mailing lists.

This quasi-secrecy was creating a climate for shenanigans. But Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks has moved into the picture and has tidied it up. Under an agreement with the Defense Department and the General Services Administration, which handles nonmilitary surplus, Commerce Department will publish advance information on proposed sales or surplus property, excepting real estate.

Publication will be in the Department's "Synopsis of Proposed Procurement Sales and Contract Awards," which is published daily, Monday through Friday, and which is chiefly devoted to subject for which it is named. Sales of military property that cost less than $250,000, and other property that cost less than $25,000 will not be listed.

Subscriptions are $7 a year, from the Commerce Department office at 433 W. Van Buren St., Chicago 7. Copies also may be seen at field offices of the Department of Commerce and at many chambers of commerce and public libraries.

Secretary Weeks has also acted to prevent sales of surplus from injuring business. Other Federal agencies have agreed to check with Commerce specialists and to withhold surpluses when their sales might force down prices or break a market.

MEN'S WEAR COUNCIL... ISSUES PROMOTION PACKAGE
The fifth edition of a semi-annual men's wear promotion program is being distributed this week to newspapers and retailers by the Men's Wear Inter-Industry Council.

The material consists of advertising layouts which local merchants can use, and four pages of facts and features for editorial use. The theme of the material is "the right clothes at the right time."

The Council consists of 15 organizations all interested in seeing a rise in sales of men's wear.

INTERNATIONAL FOOD SHOW SCHEDULED FOR 1955... The first international food show will be held in New York next February. Governments of 17 nations have shown an interest in displaying their food products, wines, liquors and cooking and eating utensils. A limited number of United States firms will be invited to participate.

A restaurant will be operated in connection with the show, with a different nation handling the cooking each day. The public will be charged $1 admission; the trade will be let in free.

CANNED FOOD STOCKS... PER CENT ABOVE MID-1953
Distributors stocks of 24 canned vegetables, fruits and juices were 4 per cent, or 1,500,000 cases higher on July 1 than they were a year ago, according to a Census Bureau report.

The largest increases were in green and wax beans, applesauce, fruit cocktail and orange juice. There were sizable declines in corn, tomatoes and pineapple juice.

Distributors' holdings were 11 per cent below January 1.

Birthday Party For A Shipyard

By HAL BOYLE

VALLEJO, Calif. (AP)—Did you ever hear of a community raising $200,000 to throw a birthday party for a naval shipyard?

It is a bit unusual. But the citizens here have chipped in that amount to celebrate next month the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Mare Island Naval Base by brusque David G. Farragut, later to become America's first admiral.

The long, low island at the northern end of San Francisco Bay had been bought by the Navy for $83,491, and was the first link in its chain of defenses of the Pacific Coast.

Farragut, who had joined the Navy at the age of 10, was 50 years old then. He had no way of knowing that within another decade he would become the hero of the Battle of Mobile Bay, eternally famous for his command, "Damn the torpedoes—full speed ahead."

But Mare Island named after a lady horse that fell off a flatboat and swam ashore—has produced many another hero since Farragut in the last 100 years. Through five wars it has built 490 naval vessels, repaired thousands of others, served for a century as a major base of America's sea might.

Today it serves the same durable purpose. It is the home of a great portion of our "mothball fleet," carefully cocooned against rust and ready on short notice to prow the sea lanes again.

The entire community is proud of Mare Island's long, proud record. It launched the dreadnaught battleship California — and also Elsa Maxwell. Elsa came here as a refugee from the 1906 San Francisco fire and earthquake, and, according to local legend, immediately organized a party.

Other Mare Island "firsts": The first aircraft landing deck in the Navy was built here on the U.S. Pennsylvania in 1911.

So was the first Navy oil tanker, the Navy's first oil-burning vessel, its first all-welded hull, its first electrically propelled ship later it became the Langley, our first aircraft carrier and the largest submarine ever built, the old Nautilus. The destroyer Ward, built here in 17 record-breaking days in 1918, sank a Japanese submarine at Pearl Harbor.

The Mare Island yard didn't exactly launch bandmaster Paul Whiteman, but he once served as a Navy musician here.

During the last World War the shipyard—its shops are among the largest on earth—employed 40,000 workers, including 9,000 Rosie the Riveters, and subcontracted assembly jobs through 50 communities as far East as Denver.

Since Farragut founded it, the yard has grown from 1,000 acres to 2,446, and today is perhaps the largest naval installation in the world. Its equipment has risen to a book value of $180,000,000. Its 13,000 employees have an annual payroll of $55,000,000.

Each year its schools graduate 600 trained technicians with the skill to keep on turning out the long line of ships that have kept America's shores inviolate for nearly a century and a half.

But to me one of the most human factors about this sprawling yard is that it not only built the ships that carried men into battle for the country—it also in post-war years made a great record as a naval rehabilitation center for amputees. It taught them to walk on new hips and new legs.

The war-scarred men who were helped here to rebuild their broken lives are certainly among the brightest testimonials to Mare Island's first century. To repair a ship is an achievement certainly, but to repair a man is a glory.

Crossroads and other churches. The Fountain Home Demonstration Club held its regular meeting Thursday, Aug. 12, in the home of Mrs. Willie Killebrew. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Joe Gay. Following the singing of "America," the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

ed. The roll was called, with 16 members present. Several book reports were given. A garden and family life report was given. The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. May, Agent, who gave a demonstration on "Laundering Made Easier," which was very helpful. Games were played and then the hostess served refreshments.

Pro-Eisenhower Views Of Shivers Is Big Issue

By BRUCE HENDERSON
DALLAS (AP)—Gov. Allan Shivers' support of Dwight Eisenhower in 1952 is a big issue in a bitter fight for the Texas Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Ralph Yarborough, Austin attorney and former state district judge trying a second straight time to unseat Shivers, has called Shivers disloyal to the Democratic party for leading Texas' bolt to Republican Eisenhower in the last presidential election.

Shivers argues he backed Eisenhower in the best interests of Texas and the nation.

Voters will decide between Shivers and Yarborough in a runoff primary election Aug. 28. In normally Democratic Texas, Democratic nomination for governor has meant election.

Texas Democrats are split between conservatives and liberals. Shivers leads the conservative faction. Yarborough is considered the liberals' champion.

In September, 1952, the Texas

Democratic convention—under Shivers' leadership—did something it had never done before. It put Democratic presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson's name on the Texas ballot but authorized Shivers and the party organization to work for Eisenhower.

Shivers said he supported Eisenhower because Stevenson would have vetoed a bill confirming Texas' title to its tidelands. The 1953 session of Congress passed such a bill, and Eisenhower signed it.

Shivers told a women's rally at Austin recently he is "eternally thankful" Eisenhower was elected. "I am thankful that today we hear no more about Communists in the State Department, no more about influence peddlers in the White House, no more about shameful waste and extravagance, no more about higher and higher taxes," he said.

Yarborough has said it was all right for private citizens who are Democrats to vote for Eisenhower. But he has charged that the governor is "the pitcher on the team" and that by supporting a Republican Shivers "let the whole team down."

Eisenhower, at a recent Washington news conference, gave Shivers a pat on the back, saying he thinks Shivers has got a good governor. Yarborough said Eisenhower was trying to tell Texas Democrats how to vote.

There are many other issues in this struggle. Shivers has said Yarborough was being backed by out-of-state labor leaders. Yarborough has said Shivers represented big money interests.

Both have campaigned relentlessly. They were forced into the runoff when neither got a majority of the total vote in the July 24 first primary, which had two minor candidates. In that primary, Shivers led Yarborough by 23,737 votes.

Turnpike Group Meets Thursday

NAGS HEAD, N. C. — Members of the Carolina-Virginia Turnpike Association which has as its objective the construction of an ocean-side highway between the resort areas here on the Dare Coast and Virginia Beach, will have a meeting at the Carolinian Hotel on Thursday, August 19.

Purpose of the meeting is to complete plans for letting the contract for the construction of the highway. Work is expected to begin within a short period on the actual construction of the route according to present plans. The highway is expected to be completed on or about, or probably before the completion of the Roanoke Island, Manns Harbor bridge, for which $2,750,000 has been allocated and for which bids will be advertised for its construction on September 7.

Construction of the bridge is expected to be completed in two years or less, it was stated.

Industrial Idyll Disappears During Twenty-Week Strike

By DION HENDERSON
KOHLER, Wis. (AP) — The CIO United Auto Workers' strike at the Kohler Co. was in its 20th week today, and nowhere in this bitterly divided village was there agreement on when it would end, nor how.

Nor was there an answer to the underlying mystery of what happened to the industrial idyll that was Kohler of Kohler for nearly half a century.

The strike started April 5 when contract negotiations between the plumbing fixture firm's management and UAW Local 833 stalled over the question of union security.

"We'll ride it out," said Lyman Conger, chairman of Kohler's bargaining committee. "Free choice of representation among our employees is a vital principle here. That is the only issue and we'll settle it now. We would rather have a strike to the end now than have a new strike every year."

"We will never give up," says Allan Graskamp, president of Local 833. "The union has never been more unified. We have 2,000 men of the 3,500-member bargaining unit on our relief rolls, but no one is getting hurt so badly they want to give up."

The UAW international is pouring $100,000 a week into strike relief, a union spokesman said yesterday.

In addition, the company estimates that about $200,000 a week — half the factory wage payroll in this eastern Wisconsin county of 80,000 residents — has been lost to workers.

The company has been hurt too — no one will say how much. For weeks production—the tubs, showers, lavatories and fixtures that make Kohler a bathroom byword — virtually was stalled.

Conger did his talking in a temporary office bedroom of the American Club, across the boulevard of High Street that separates all industry from the parklike residences of the working force. The club itself, handsomely designed and executed on a landscaped acre with the same care that went into the whole model village, is a monument to what editorial writers of 30 years ago called an industrial idyll.

Built in 1917 by the company to take bachelor workmen out of saloon boarding houses, the club gave them individual rooms, luxurious lounges, a bowling alley, a tap room — and classes in citizenship. It still houses Kohler workers — strikers and nonstrikers alike with never a reference to their work status.

The vast stretches of glass in company buildings on High Street are unbroken, the landscaped red brick buildings unmarred. Dist. Atty. John Buchen and Union Counsel David Rabinowitz agreed yesterday that there have been only a "dozen or 15" arrests involving violence by strikers against nonstrikers.

"Considering the large numbers of persons involved and the extent of the situation, we have not had anywhere near the amount of violence that other communities have experienced," Buchen said. Eleven persons arrested for picketing the homes of nonstrikers.

pleading innocent in Sheboygan's Municipal Court yesterday to charges of unlawful assembly. Police Chief Walter Wagner said the picketing started Monday, a day after UAW Secretary-Treasurer Emil Mazey urged strikers to "persuade" nonstrikers not to work. The 11 were released pending preliminary hearing Aug. 25.

Herbert Kohler — big, brusque and still busy at 62 — is the third Kohler to head the dynasty in 76 years, and target for much of the union criticism. CIO President Walter Reuther said Kohler's "social conscience has developed to a point approximating that of Louis XIV."

But Kohler — who testified at a court inquiry early in the dispute that tear gas was present in the struck plant with his approval

— says now of the strike: "We are unalterably opposed to compulsory unionism. Freedom of choice in representation must be sustained, and the chance for the individual to speak for himself must be recovered if we are not to become a faceless and rigidly classed people."

That issue — union security, at the bargaining table — is the only big issue in the strike, Conger said yesterday. Wages — the union demanded a 20-cent hourly increase, halved it, and the company offered 3 cents — never have been a major issue, he said. The production scale ranges from $1.35 to $2.75, he said, and averages $2.02 with the 3-cent increase put into effect for nonstrikers when the strike started. Seniority and grievance machinery are minor issues, he added.

Beach Appointed Service Director

RALEIGH (AP)—Joseph W. Beach, director of Raleigh has been appointed director of the employment service division of the State Employment Security Commission to succeed Ernest C. McCracken.

The appointment was announced yesterday by Henry E. Kendall, chairman of the commission. Beach, 50, has been with the division since 1937. In 1947 he was named chief of the ESC's staff services.

Kendall said the appointment is effective immediately. Beach's salary will be $7,620 a year.

McCracken was convicted in Superior Court in Statesville recently of drunken driving and hit-run and given a suspended sentence of six months. A doctor testified that McCracken was in "very bad health" and suffering from acute alcoholism.

McCracken, now a patient at Duke Hospital, has been on leave of absence without pay since shortly after his arrest last spring in Iredell County. Kendall said McCracken's ultimate status with the department will be decided later.

Meanwhile, it was learned that William D. Holoman of Raleigh, chief counsel of ESC, faces a drunken driving charge in Chatham County. Highway Patrolman W.L. Stell said he arrested Holoman Aug. 12 near Pittsboro. He was placed under $200 bond and faces trial in Chatham Recorder's Court Aug. 25.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BARRUTHER, Real Estate Editor

How to put off home care and repair jobs isn't much of a problem at this time of the year. The handyman who isn't taking off on a vacation trip suddenly discovers that the backyard is an important part of his home. That is how we happened to discover a new spray gadget you'll be interested in if you're battling bugs in your garden.

It's a nonbreakable plastic attachment for the garden hose with a refillable chamber for insecticide and fungicide pellets. It's engineered in such a way that the water mixes the spray in just the right proportion so you have no pumping to do. An extension tube on the end of the device reaches the undersides of leaves and low growing plants without compelling you to stand on your head.

We found the invention in a hardware store and gave it a trial. It certainly takes the guesswork out of spray mixing. We sprayed roses and fruit trees all at the same time because the nozzle is adjustable from a fine fog spray to a stream reaching 20 to 30 feet up.

The hardware man pointed out that the ingredients include the new basic chemicals recommended by the agricultural schools—malathion, methoxychlor, captan, zineb, etc. He suggested that we try it for killing gnats and mosquitoes in the lawn before guests arrive for a barbecue, but we'll have to build the barbecue pit first.

Another item that caught our eye on that trip to the hardware store was a new adjustable door bumper that calls for no holes to drill. You merely remove the spindle from a hinge, then reinsert the spindle through the bumper arm. A sort of inverted "Y" arrangement holds one rubber tip against the door while the other rubber bumps on the door jamb.

It's a nifty way to prevent a door knob from mashing wallpaper or marring furniture. One arm of the "Y" is adjustable so the door can be allowed to open just so far and no more.

The popularity of so-called ranch houses and a growing preference for keeping natural wood grained appearances on exteriors has brought about a new paint for rough wood surfaces outdoors. This is not a stain and does not contain creosote. Yet it preserves wood grained appearances while coating them with a fully pigmented color. The manufacturers call this a shake and single finish. Its pigmentation provides an effective coating against all kinds of weather which is necessarily lost when a lustrous conventional house paint is used. You can apply it with roller, brush or spray.

Chimney Sweeps Are 'Good Omen'

BERLIN (AP)—It's an old German belief that if you meet a chimney sweeper on the street—see one on a rooftop—it will bring you good luck.

And Berlin's soot-covered, top-hatted "sweeps" don't discourage the legend.

Many pick up extra change now and then through "accidental" meetings with visiting statesmen, celebrities or plain Berliners.

Newspapers and picture services sometimes hire the sweeps for just such encounters. The papers usually are glad to run pictures of them with their all-black work suits, silk top hats soot-streaked faces and "old witch" style brooms.

At the start of the Big Four conference in Berlin earlier this year, news photographers hired a pair of sweeps for "chance" meetings with Britain's foreign secretary, Anthony Eden, and France's then foreign minister, Georges Bidault. The idea was that it would be a "good omen" for the West in the impending negotiations with the Russians.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

AP Newsfeatures
A NEW VERSION of the famous "Trade Secrets" house—an idea which began with the home building industry seeking a modern design to produce the most house for the money. In this plan the architects said their objective was to develop a design which did not depend on mass production for its economy. Features include a flexible study, which is convertible into a third bedroom. The house is planned for construction without a basement. The heater room is behind the living room fireplace and chimney. Room arrangement insures against cross traffic, with all parts of the house within easy access from front door. This is plan H-333-P by the Homograft Co., 11711 East Eight Mile Rd., East Detroit, Mich. The house covers 488 square feet without carport. ## Dug Own Well Into Solid Rock To Escape Rates

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A.A. Keeling likes to have plenty of water for his garden, but not at the steep water rates in Johnson County. And once he decided to dig his own well, 15 feet of solid rock and a chorus of neighborly derision could not stop him.

Keeling guessed there was water beneath his basement when he noticed that a hydrangea bush near his garage was blooming despite a searing drought last summer.

He devoted six months of spare-time labor to the project, which cost him $25. He improvised tools as he went along. To cut through the layers of rock he used bits made of iron from an old railroad car axle. To drop the bit against the rock he rigged up an apparatus consisting, largely, of a carpenter's sawhorse and a 12-foot plank acting as a lever.

Now he pipes abundant water to his garden.

Poor Prospect As Dairy Market

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—Two of the nation's dairy leaders say Europe presents a very poor market for surplus U.S. dairy products. Prof. Paul Weaver, of the Michigan State College dairy department, and H.W. Norton Jr., researcher for the Holstein-Friesian Assn., said they found on a tour of France, Germany, the Netherlands, Denmark, Switzerland and England that these countries have their own dairy surplus problems—and are looking for markets themselves.

Auto Buyer Was An Honest Man

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (AP)—Back in 1943, Joseph DeFelice sold his auto to a friend. This summer the friend sold the car to Peter Sterbi. Sterbi, cleaning the car, found a wallet DeFelice had lost 11 years ago. He promptly sent it back with the $21 and valuable personal cards and receipts that DeFelice long ago had given up hope of recovering.

LOVE IN CONCRETE—A wild Mallard duck struts for his lady love, undiscouraged by the cold response. She's a concrete ornament on the lawn of a summer home at Helderberg Lake near Albany, N. Y. The owners, Mr. and Mrs. A.J. Sklar, say the Mallard snuggles up to his cold cutie to sleep at night. (AP Wirephoto)

Visitor Finds Peaceful People

OSCEOLA, Iowa (AP)—This is what impressed Ghantous B. Jabir, a native of Jerusalem, Israel, about the United States:
He was in this country 40 days before stopping here and he had not seen any two Americans in a light of quarrel. Also on a trip which took him from New York to Indianapolis, California, Yellowstone National Park, Colorado, Nebraska, and Iowa, he said he had not met a single person who was not educated.

Connecticut has 4,280 gasoline filling stations.

Broke Up Fight Between 2 Birds

JACKSONVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Chief of Police Ike Flynn got an early start in his duties one morning when he broke up a fight near his home and took the defeated participant to the police station. It was a parakeet being chased by a flock of sparrows. As Flynn walked into the station, Lt. Howard Stout caught a glimpse of the parakeet and reached for the telephone, called a woman and within a short time had the bird back home.

North Carolina had 184,000 acres planted to peanuts in 1953.

Bill Fish Blitz Reported On Dare Coast; Big Sail Caught

By Aycock Brown
NAGS HEAD, N.C.—Four blue marlin, a half dozen white marlin and several sailfish, the largest said, being seven foot and 10 inches long, were landed in Dare coast waters off Oregon Inlet and Hatteras during the last week. The two largest of the billfishes taken were blue marlin, a 425-pounder off Oregon Inlet and a 391 pounder off Hatteras Inlet. During the week end three blue marlin were brought in to Oregon Inlet fishing center by anglers trolling in waters east-southeast of the Inlet. One, a 391-pounder, was caught by Dr. J.C. Overbey, Norfolk dentist, fishing from his private cruiser the "Snapper II" off Hatteras.

Largest blue of the week was a 425-pounder, landed by Dr. E.W. Strickland of Zuni, Va. He was trolling with skipper bait (a soft rubber west coast flying fish) in the vicinity of Wimble Shoals, when the big fish hit and after setting the hook, he played the big fish for three hours and fifty one minutes before it was hoisted by his skippers, Captains Les and Gris Evans of the cruiser Ranger. The big blue measuring 11 foot and six inches from tip to tip, had a girth of 48 1/2 inches and a tailspread of 48 1/2 inches. This catch was made on Saturday.

Also on Saturday, Dick Broad of Newport News hooked and brought to gaff a 190 pound blue marlin in almost the same waters where the bigger fish was taken. Broad was trolling with skipper bait from the cruiser Chee Chee of Wanchese, skippered by Capt. Willie Etheridge Jr. It was the second blue marlin of the week to be landed by anglers on the Chee Chee.

On Thursday, Charlest T. Patten

of Warwick Va., trolling from the Close Chee, hooked and landed a 182 pound blue marlin. This fish made history. It was the first blue marlin ever landed with rod and reel by an angler aboard a fishing boat operating out of Oregon Inlet.

The three fish landed off Oregon Inlet in the vicinity of Wimble Shoals during the past week was by no means the first to ever be landed off the Dare Coast. Already this year three blue marlin, a 180-pounder, one that scaled at 442 pounds and another, a 391 pound blue marlin landed on Friday August 13, have been taken. Last year two of the national prize winning blue marlins were taken off Hatteras, the largest in the world to be taken by an angler with rod and reel during 1953, being the 570 1/2 pounder hooked and hoisted by Dr. Overbey.

Dr. Overbey's big blue, taken on Friday (second he has landed off Hatteras this season) weighed only 391 pounds, despite the fact that it measured 11 feet and three inches from tip to tip. A peculiar thing about this big blue was the fact that it was beakless. How it had lost its beak which had started growing back again was a mystery. The fact that its beak, (which should have measured about 18 to 20 inches) was missing was probably responsible for the fish scaling so little. It was a thin, underfed looking marlin and the general consensus was that since through some maritime accident, the big fish had been unable to kill the food necessary to keep its weight up to normal.

Sailfishes and Wgite Marlin

Fact that four blue marlin were taken during the week and two on one day which is a record for north of Bimbal waters, no accurate count was kept of the white marlin and sailfishes, also classed as billfishes, which were landed.

At least six white marlin and a dozen or more sails have been landed off the Dare Coast in Gulf Stream waters near Oregon Inlet and Hatteras Inlet since August 1. The largest sail was a seven foot, eight inch specimen brought into Dykes Fishing Center by E. M. Shipp of the Washington D.C. area. He was trolling from Dan Lewark's boat the Rita, which later in the week accounted for at least one white marlin.

Several boats operating from Oregon Inlet fishing center brought in sails or blue marlin during the week and it was the same story in the Hatteras area, where cruisers base at Blue Marlin Fishing Center, or Foster's Quay and operate in the Gulf Stream near Diamond Lightship, at the western edge of blue water.

Biggest Bills
The current billfish blitz along the North Carolina coast is one of the greatest in the history of North Carolina's share of the Atlantic ocean.

In addition to the sails, white and blue marlin landed, dozens of these same varieties have been raised, and sometimes played and often lost by anglers fishing out of Hatteras or the Nags Head-Oregon Inlet region.

The Taming of Carney Wilde

by BART SPICER

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

I TAGGED around after Ellen, carrying a tripod or a bag of flash-bulbs. And we did the French market, the old Spanish public buildings. Ellen made dozens of pictures of courtyards and lacy iron filigrees. And when the photography was finished for a while, Ellen and I played tourist in rented carriages. We ate at the celebrated places. In a place called Galatoire's we heard the bull-throated man speaking of Algiers. That's a suburb of New Orleans across the river.

There isn't much to it—refineries, docks, warehouses, the industrial complex. But it's the local Gretna Green. There's a three-day delay in New Orleans proper. But a short hop across the river and bang—you're married. Ellen flushed softly when I looked at her while the man was bellowing about Algiers. And "e was very quiet as we walked back to the boat.

"Masking Day tomorrow, Carney," she said after we'd covered the dimly lit blocks that led to the Dixie Dandy's berthing space. "I have to get a few pictures. Some in the afternoon and half a dozen or so at night. But that won't take long. Should we be maskers? Buy some funny faces and raucous trumpets and join the mob. Would you like that?"

We climbed the wide staircase, feeling the sharp chilling breeze that swept along the river.

"I can't," I said. "Have to work."

Ellen's easy swinging pace broke rhythm slightly just enough to show her surprise. But she only pressed my hand tightly and let me explain.

"I didn't want to tell you until it was all over," I said stiffly. "I know how you feel about all this. But the job isn't finished yet. We did get Stewart. I told you that. But not the money he stole. We think he planned to meet his girl tomorrow. They arranged a signal with costumes. At least, that's how we figure it. And we think she has the money. Two hundred thousand dollars. We hope we can find her tomorrow."

"Yes, I see," Ellen said softly. She stopped on the Texas deck landing and led me out onto the windy promenade. For a long, silent moment she stared out silently over the water made black by night. Then in a small, choked voice, she said: "Poor Carney. No carnival for Carney."

I got to Grodnik's hotel room shortly after 99 the next morning. I hadn't stayed to have breakfast on the boat. He had just finished shaving.

He said: "What was that fellow you worked over on the boat? Bebe was the wife's name. Bolton?"

"Boltnick."

"Feds picked them up at the airport. Holding them on an open charge. Got something against them from Illinois. Federal rap."

"Okay," I said. "Who cares?"

We had breakfast, and took a cab to the police station and went to the chief's office. It was 10:15 when we got there.

"Going to be a tough day for my boys, captain," the chief said. "I don't suppose you have a carnival problem in Philadelphia?"

"Well, nothing like what you got," Grodnik said. "We got what we call Mummer's Day. Big parades and so forth, but it comes in January. Too cold for much trouble."

"Well, we got everything organized," the chief said. "Harrigan's out trotting around in that set of kilts and the rest of the boys got him hemmed in. Just a matter of time."

The door swung open and it wasn't a matter of time any more. In the outer office was the slim rook in Stewart's costume, the topaz brooch sparkling against the brilliant tartan on his shoulder. He wore a bonnet with a long cock's feather and dangling from it were bits of obviously false red hair. A fake red moustache completed the fraud, perfectly covering the distinctive features of the young cop with the one sort of disguise that would not make Stewart's girl suspicious.

She hadn't been suspicious. She was a slim girl and when she wasn't so frightened, she would be pretty. Now her mouth was contorted with panic, her eyes wide and staring, seeing nothing. A policeman in a clown suit with a big ruffle around his neck led her, unprotesting, to a chair and pushed her gently into it.

Her dress was a swooping affair, vaguely Elizabethan in cut, with a long ungainly stomacher of phony seed pearls and a delicate starched ruffle at the throat. She wore a lot of fake jewels, including a small gilt coronet on her head. She had made no attempt to copy the brocaded fabrics of the Elizabethans. Not she. Not Stewart's Mary. The full, flowing dress was made of the Stuart tartan, so he could join the hunt too. Mary and Charles of Stewart. The gilt crown was the final pathetic touch. Mary of Scotland. Mary of Stewart.

The cop in the clown suit came into the chief's office, shutting the door on Stewart's Mary. He dropped a car key on the chief's desk.

"She's staying in a motor court. She bought a car in Georgia. Drove it down. It's parked at the court now. Money's in the trunk, she says."

We went out through the ante-room, past the stiffly erect girl with the frozen eyes. And that was the worst part of all. I was almost running when I got to the door.

When Capt. Grodnik and I were alone, he said: "Meant to tell you that I was in the chief's office last night when he was writing out his story for the newspapers. He makes himself out quite a fellow. But I made sure he had your part right. About the costume and how to work the trap with the cairngorm. The story's all set and ready to go out, probably out now. And don't think it won't make a splash back in Philadelphia. Front pages for a couple of days, anyway. You don't have to worry about a thing, boy. You'll be a celebrity."

I bought a paper and read the story. I was in it, just as Grodnik had said. I had what I needed. The chief had probably released the story as soon as he had picked up the money. Stewart's Mary had it almost intact, lacking only about $4,000 of the amount Stewart had stolen.

I thought quickly of Ellen. I hadn't told her Stewart had been killed, only that we had found him. And I didn't want her to read it in the paper. She would know now, but it would be much better if she heard it from me.

Temperament Is Now 'Imported' Product

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — Hollywood's glamor girls have to take a back seat in temperament honors when compared with foreign stars, says an international expert on such matters.

My source on this is Pedro Armendariz, one of the finest actors of Mexico and almost any other place you could mention. He has made movies in the United States, Mexico, France, Italy and Spain. He has just finished "The Conqueror" here and leaves shortly for film in Paris Rome and Egypt.

I got him talking about leading ladies he has known. He said the Hollywood variety could not hold a candle to some foreign stars. Even our most pampered darlings cannot compare with Maria Felix of Mexico and Anna Magnani of Italy, he said.

"More than any other actresses in the world, they get the star treatment," he remarked. "There is a story about Miss Felix. She was making a picture in Spain that required the Spanish Fleet. Weeks of lengthy negotiations went on before the Spanish officials agreed. Half of the fleet was sent to the film location. But on that day Miss Felix did not want to appear before the camera. No explanation. She just didn't want to work. So the fleet went back to its base.

The descendants of John Jay, first U.S. Chief Justice still own his home near Bed Village, N.Y. and it is being opened to the public.

Armendariz estimated that Miss Felix draws around $200,000 per picture and Miss Magnani around $100,000. These are monumental sums in their countries when you consider that the income taxes are virtually nil. No Hollywood actress can earn the equivalent, no matter how the tax deals are juggled.

"You seldom see temperament from actresses in Hollywood any more," observed Armendariz. "The system will not allow it. Hollywood set the pattern for temperament in the old days and that's what the foreign actresses are copying."

"I expected Jennifer Jones to have fits of temper when I did 'We Were Strangers.' But she was as pleasant as you would wish. The same is true of Susie Hayward in 'The Conqueror.'"

The descendants of John Jay, first U.S. Chief Justice still own his home near Bed Village, N.Y. and it is being opened to the public.

Sixty-Nine Polio Cases Reported

RALEIGH (AP)—Sixty-nine polio cases were reported to the State Board of Health last week, but the total for North Carolina this year is running far behind the total for the same period last year.

The board says last week's total was the largest number for any week this year. So far, 280 cases have been reported in the state this year, compared with 578 the same time last year. Durham reported six cases last week, Wake and Cleveland five each, Cabarrus, Gaston and Onslow four each. Wake leads in total cases this year with 30, followed by Gaston's 23. New Hanover has reported 15.

Grand American Shoot Will Be A Noisy Affair

By FRITZ HOWELL

AP Newsfeatures
VANDALIA, Ohio — America's Dead-Eye Dicks and Doras are tuning up for the nation's noisiest sports event.

It's the cash-conscious 55th Grand American trapshoot, scheduled Aug. 20-26 on the half-mile firing line of the Amateur Trapshooting Assn.'s permanent home here.

Last year more than 2000 scatter-gun enthusiasts fired in the 1000-target championship bomb-bardment. At least that many will be on hand this time, and they'll represent all the states, Canada, Mexico, Hawaii, Alaska, Cuba and the Canal Zone.

60 Tons of Pellets
More than 1,500,000 clay targets will be thrown, and the same number of 12-gauge shotgun shells will be of 12-gauge shotgun shells will spray some 60 tons of lead pellets at them.

This is a peculiar sport in many ways.

One oddity is that the amateurs win cash prizes—and plenty of them—while the professionals win trophies only. Another is that favorites seldom, if ever, win—especially in the handicap events where the talented are placed far back of the traps from which the elusive targets take off. A third peculiarity is that spectators pay a slight fee at the gate—not to defray expenses, but to hold down the crowd.

To fire the full nine-day program requires $276 in entry fees alone. That covers an 1800-target route, the first 800 in tune-up races.

On top of that, if a shooter desires to get into the optional wagering system, in which each is permitted to back up his prowess with cash, he may pour $479.50 into the

The big event of the week is the Grand American Handicap, a 100-target race which requires a $25 entry fee.

Some of the victors in the big race have picked up better than $10,000 for an afternoon of firing—and it's generally some unknown from nowhere who has a hot day at the traps.

The feature has been won by a 14-year-old boy, a 70-year-old man, pastors, railroad conductors farmers, oil men, mechanics, gun club operators and others from all walks of life. No woman has ever taken the big prize, but several have come close.

No Repeaters
In 54 previous tries, only five men have broken 100 straight to win, and no one has ever won twice.

Joe Hiestand of Hillsboro, Ohio rated the greatest shot of our times at the traps, has never threatened in the handicap. He's won the high overall championship for the week six times, the North American clay target title (200 targets at 16 yards) four times, the National Doubles crown twice, but in the handicap he fires from 25 yards back of the traps while the novices are at 17 yards, so he doesn't have much chance.

Only Walter Beaver, of Berwyn Pa., has ever won from the extreme 25-yard spot, no one has won from 24 yards, and only three from 23 yards.

BULLRING COLLAPSES

Red China Said To Have Light Cruiser Ready

HONG KONG (AP)—Independent Chinese reports published here today said Red China's only cruiser, the Chungking, has been reconditioned and rearmored and is now in the north China harbor of Tsingtao.

The report aroused unusual interest because of Peiping's current campaign of threats to invade Formosa.

Formerly the British light cruiser Aurora, the Chungking was given to the Chinese Nationalists after World War II.
Her crew defected to the Reds from the Shanghai anchorage in 1949 but Nationalist bombers sank the ship at a mooring in Hulutao harbor, Manchuria. Recently there have been reports that the Communists refloated her and took her to Port Arthur for refitting and rearming by the Russians.

Americans had 28,000 fatal accidents and 40,000 injuries in their homes during 1953.

Found $10,000 In His Taxicab

NEW YORK (AP)—A Brooklyn cab driver walked into a police station last night and handed the desk lieutenant a cloth jewelry bag.
"I just found these in the back seat of my hack," said Fritz Morris.
Police said the bag contained valuables estimated at $10,000. If the gems aren't claimed within 90 days, they will be returned to Morris, police said.

Monkeyshines At The Beach

Bathers were having their usual play and dip at the Larchmont, N.Y., Shore Club beach one day this summer when into the scene popped Zip, the chimpanzee. Then the fun really began. Zippy, who's 4½ years old and very intelligent, went about enjoying the stay like every one else there. He frolicked on the sand, played with the kids, got affectionate with the young ladies, went into the boat and dipped his feet into the water.

Zip is an unusual little fellow, and his owner, Lee Ecuyer, a former school teacher of Oceanside, N.Y., is quite proud of him. Lee says he's never known him to bite anyone or get mean. He's being raised exactly like a baby. He has his own bedroom and bed. He sits down at the table with Lee and uses knife, fork and spoon to eat with. Zip likes nearly every food and drink enjoyed by humans. Meat balls, spaghetti and milk are his top favorites. He sleeps about 12 hours a night. He's quite an actor, too. He skates, dances, plays the piano, has appeared on the stage, on television and in night clubs.

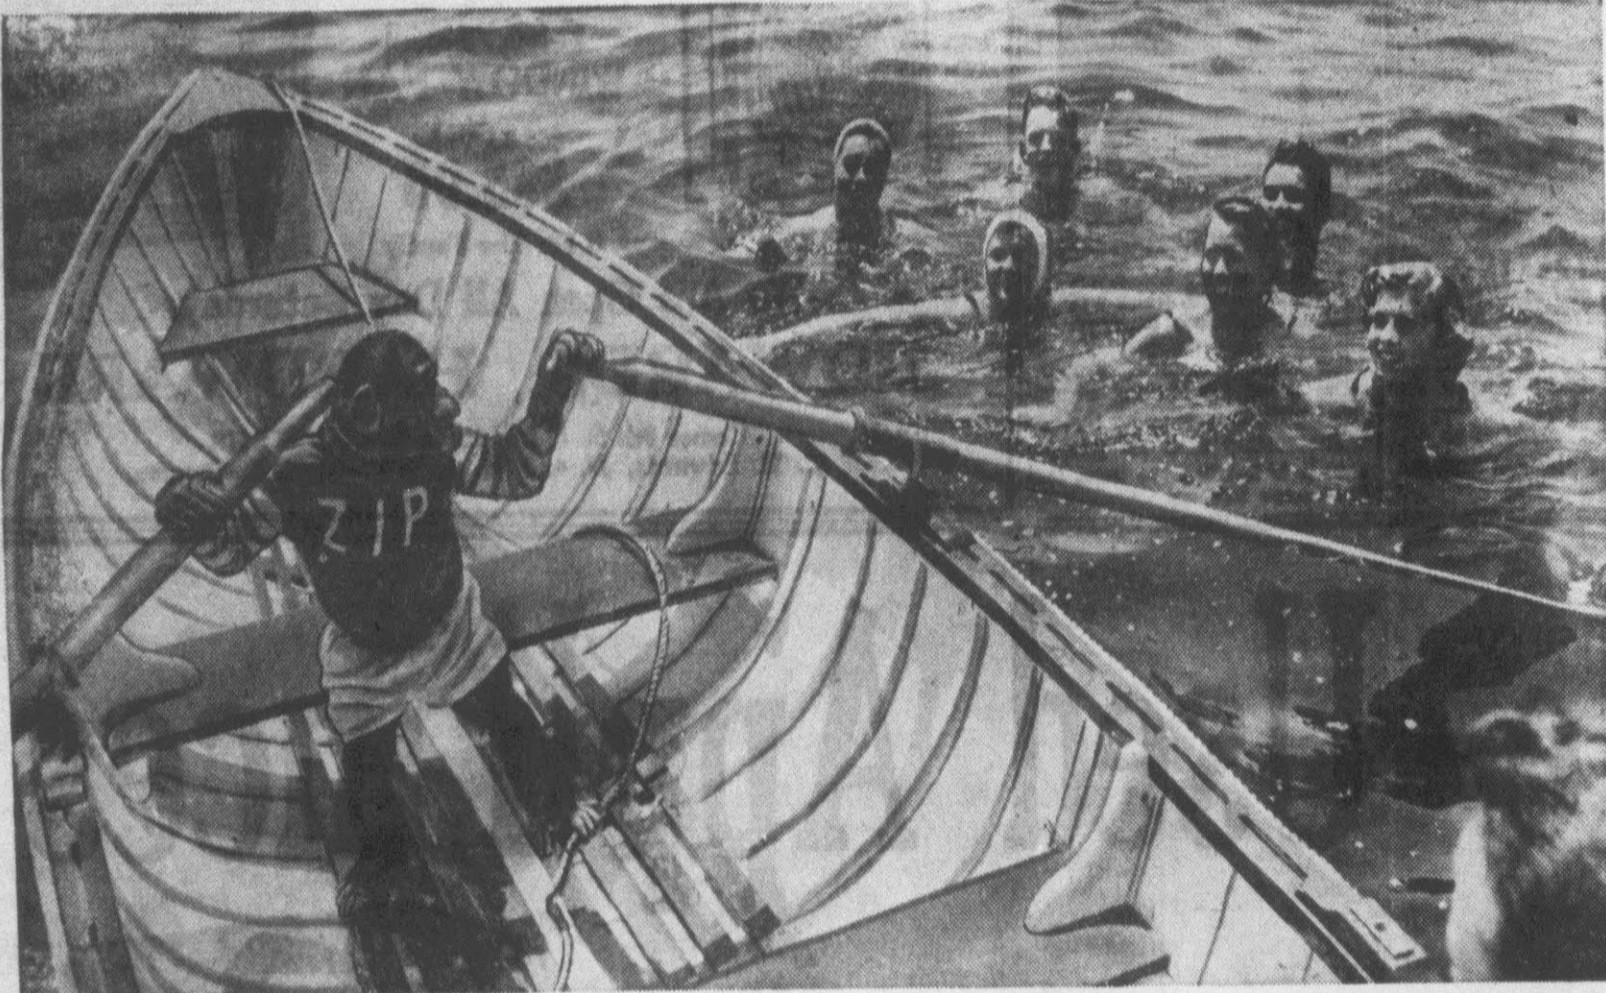

"Come on, sissies!... Wassamatter, afraid of the water?"

"No, no—I don't need any help from anyone."

"Some cheek, eh?...Boys, now I know you're jealous!"

"Next year I'm going out for the Yale varsity!"

"Stop dawdling, kids, let's fill 'er up!"

"Tennis, anyone?"

"A pipe, the beach and thee...O, boy, this is the life!"

Wide Repercussions From Treason Of Dr. Otto John

By DANIEL DE LUCE
 BONN, Germany (AP)—Dr. Otto John's treason to the West is a kind of political hydrogen bomb. In four weeks since the Bonn republic's security chief—a noted protégé of the British Secret Service—deserted to the Soviet zone, his explosive case has:

1. Poisoned Allied-German relations and strengthened Russian diplomacy.
 2. Shaken the European army project, which faces the French National Assembly's crucial vote in a couple of weeks.
 3. Thrown grave suspicion that all German and Allied intelligence organizations may contain other Soviet double agents.

4. Humiliated Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government and high Allied officers, who had worked here with John for years in top-secret anti-Communist espionage.
 The human suffering from Dr. John's defection ranges from tragedy to trivia:

1. Dead by his own hand, U.S. Counterintelligence Capt. Wolfgang E. Hofer is still a mystery figure. The German-born naturalized American had been John's school chum in boyhood. He shot himself when questioned by other CIO officers in Berlin three days after John's treason.

2. Mrs. Lucie Marlen John, seven years her 45-year-old husband's senior, has been left stranded by him in the West. For her, much public sympathy is expressed.
 3. A half dozen night club cuties are bereft of the companionship of Dr. Wolfgang Wohlgemuth, the "parlor Bolshevik" who squired John in his car into Berlin's Soviet sector the evening of July 26.

Thrice married, author of a book on hot trumpet playing and patron of Kurfurstendamm gay spots, Wohlgemuth has not risked a return to his lucrative Western medical practice.

Glib and dapper, Dr. John is treated as a distinguished guest by the Soviet zone regime and appears to relish the West's consternation. He and ex-Field Marshal Friedrich Paulus, defeated Nazi commander at Stalingrad, are now propaganda pals in the Red "peace camp."

Paulus is writing to survivors of the German officer corps in the Bonn republic, inviting them to do their utmost to kill the EDC and to agitate for reunion with East Germany on Russia's terms.

Paulus dangles the prospect of revived careers for the officers in a new national army and harks back to historical periods when German power in Europe was based on alliance with Russia. Intelligence sources estimate East Germany's armed forces at present at 130,000 men.

Dr. John is expected to become a weekly commentator on the big Communist radio station Deutschlandsender, with his political messages beamed at West Germany.
 His song is pitched in a different key than Paulus', but it means the same thing for Russia.

He declares former Nazis are back in governmental power in Bonn—the percentage actually is less than in East Germany—and that incorrigible German militarists are plotting with the United States to attack the Soviet Union.
 Dr. John calls on West Germans to imitate the British, who he says "are striving to find a modus vivendi with the Communist half of the world."

And he repeats dramatically what many of his countrymen already fear—if there is another war, Germany will be obliterated.

Yangtze Flood At Record High

TOKYO (AP)—The rampaging Yangtze River swelled to another new record high at 5 p.m. yesterday, Peiping radio reported today.

The river, which apparently has run wild through central China, hit 29.7 meters (97.44 feet) yesterday at Wuhan, a tricity industrial complex at the junction of the Yangtze and Han rivers, Peiping said.

Peiping claimed the "dike network guarding (Wuhan) is standing firm."
 This report contrasted with those of China travelers whose observations indicate the Yangtze apparently has deluged farm land for hundreds of thousands of square miles in its worst flood in recorded history.

by atomic weapons at its very start.
 The timing of John's treason is one of its most disturbing features to Allied diplomats. Closely associated with the British Secret Service for 10 years, he bolted eastward just when Britain and the United States had hit a postwar peak of dissension in their grand alliance.

Natty in blue suit and wine-red tie, he appeared last week on a flower-decked East Berlin stage to assail what he called the "warmongering" United States and its best German friend, Chancellor Adenauer, to 400 world newsmen. It was almost the very hour that former Prime Minister Clement Attlee and seven other British laborites had chosen to take off on a flying visit to Red China.

When John spoke of Germany destined to become a field of radioactive death if there is war, his words seemed directed at Britain as well.

It is acknowledged in Western diplomatic circles that for many Britons as for Germans, coexistence with the Soviet bloc looks like the one hope of survival in the thermonuclear age. Their island realm might become a sitting duck for Soviet H-bomb annihilation.

The cattle egret, a bird formerly found only in Africa and Asia, suddenly appeared in South America in 1930 and was found in the United States in 1952, says the National Geographic Society.

Brazil Acting To Lower Prices On Coffee Exchange

By SAM DAWSON
 NEW YORK (AP)—American housewives who took a dim view of coffee price boosting are looking forward today to their reward—coffee price cuts.

The Brazilian government hiked the export price of coffee in June. It was one hike of many for many Americans. And buying of Brazilian coffee by Americans dropped sharply.

Now the Brazilian government is reshuffling its complicated foreign exchange setup and announcing that Brazilian coffee farmers will get just as much in Brazilian money for their crop, but Americans will pay less in dollars.

The American housewife got another break on the government price support a while back when the American government—which props the price of many food items just as Brazil supports the price of coffee—lowered the support price for butter. And with lower prices, the American housewife has increased her buying of butter by about 8 per cent.

But on another front she is about to lose a skirmish. The price of bread has headed up by 1 cent in several cities. Bakers blame many things. One is government price supports for wheat.

Bakers say farmers are planting less of the high-grade wheat which bakers prefer for bread. Instead, farmers are planting the lower grades which have the advantage of higher yields per acre. This gives farmers more bushels to put under government price support loans.

Bakers say there is a shortage of the high-grade wheat this summer, so bread prices are going up.
 The housewife is getting a break at the meat counter, however, although this is due to high production rather than government control. The American Meat Institute says that retail meat prices now are at the lowest level of the year, and down considerably from the first of the year.

Brazil's juggling of coffee export prices was forecast last Friday when coffee futures broke sharply on the New York Coffee & Sugar Exchange under selling by houses with Brazilian connections.

The following day Brazil announced it would let coffee exporters retain some American dollars when they sold to the United States. Previously they had to turn all dollars over to the Brazilian government and get cruzeros for them.

Since Brazilians can get more cruzeros for dollars on the free market than they can from their own government, it means they can sell coffee for less here and still come out ahead at home.

Columbia, Lakeland In Finals After Wins Yesterday

Columbia Rallies In Final Inning

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Editor

Columbia, South Carolina, staged a brilliant rally with the help of the Athens, Georgia, infield yesterday afternoon to come back with five runs in the last inning and defeat the Georgia team by a score of 3-2. Columbia is now in the finals of the Regional tournament against Lakeland, North Florida.

Wicky Wheeler of Columbia and Terry Melton put on a sparkling display of pitching for five innings yesterday.

Neither team got a hit over the first three innings until Dickie Moseley singled to right for Columbia with one away in the fourth. Melton walked another batter but got out of the inning without a run scored against him.

In the last of the fourth, Glenn Doster led off with a line single to center. Billy Gambrell, one of the most outstanding players in the tournament, lined a pitch far over the left field fence for a home run and two Georgia runs. Wheeler did not allow another hit after that.

Melton set the Columbia boys down in order in the fifth but disassembled in the sixth. Clary Clary led off with a walk and advanced to second on a passed ball. Wheeler then sent a sharp single to left and Clary held at third with Wheeler going to second on the throw to the plate. Dickie Moseley grounded to shortstop and Gambrell, who had not made an error in the entire tournament, let the ball skip between his legs and two runs scored. Moseley took third on the play. John Coleman grounded another ball to Gambrell and the sharp shortstop pounced on the ball, drove Moseley back to third, but threw the ball in the dirt and Moseley scored with Coleman going to second. Carroll Simon hit a ball that was error-ed by the first baseman with Coleman going to third. After Jerry Ellison grounded out, Ed Edwards grounded to the second baseman who threw home too late to get anybody out. When Melton walked Ted Petouski to lead the bases, he was taken out in favor of Gambrell. Henry Walker smashed a long fly to centerfield and Simon scored after the catch for the fifth run.

Wheeler went out and retired the side in order, striking out the last two batters and the game was over.

The game was one of the better games of the tournament until the last inning fireworks. In all there were only four hits in the game, two on each team.

Melton pitched a beautiful ball game for Athens. The fireballer struck out ten batters of the 16 outs. At one stretch he struck out seven batters in a row.

Columbia plays in the finals against Lakeland at 4:30 this afternoon. There will be a consolation game at 2 o'clock between Athens and Mooresville.

Jim Hinson is shown as he is thrown out at first base in the last play for North Carolina during the Regional Playoffs. Hinson, pinchhitting for Jim Gibson, grounded out to Bernie Haskins of Lakeland, Fla. and the final North Carolina rally was snuffed. The Lakeland team goes into the finals with Columbia, S. ## Yankees, Indians Pitting Strength Against Teams Already Eliminated

By BEN PHELER
AP Sports Writer

Maybe the American League should let Cleveland and New York go ahead and play the five games they have left with each other and get the pennant race.

The way the Indians and Yankees are playing now they might well win all their other games anyway.

They have to use up their strength playing "crucial" series with teams mathematically eliminated from all possible chance at the title. A slipup anywhere along the line could spell the difference. Just consider the futility of the chase. In their last 68 games—more than half of their total played to date—the second-place Yankees have gained exactly half a length on the Indians.

Here are the figures: The Yankees have won 9 in a row, 15 of their last 18, 35 of their last 43, and 52 of their last 68. But Cleveland has won 8 straight 12 out of 13, 17 out of 20, and 51 out of 68. Everybody with any pennant hopes left in either league won yesterday. Cleveland beat Detroit 4-0. New York defeated Philadelphia 6-1 and Chicago whipped Baltimore 4-1 in the American League. The New York Giants thumped Pittsburgh 3-2 and Milwaukee defeated St. Louis 3-1 in the National.

In the only action not involving a contender, Boston edged Washington 9-8 in 11 innings on Karl Olson's single with two out. Ted Williams went hitless in six times at bat.

Cincinnati and the Cubs were rained out at Chicago.

Cleveland managed only five hits off southpaw Billy Hoelt but two were home runs—by Bobby Avila with the bases empty for the first run and by Al Smith with two aboard for the other three. Early Wynn finally won his 16th game in his fourth try.

The Yankees mopped up on the lowly Athletics for the 13th time in 15 meetings. Whitey Ford turned in his seventh straight victory and his 13th of the season.

Chicago pitching continued to baffle the last-place Orioles, who have scored only twice in their last 27 innings. Sandy Consuegra, lifted in the sixth for a pinch hitter, registered his 15th success with fine relief from Dick Struss and Harry Dorish. Don Larsen was charged with his 16th loss, tops in both leagues.

Another hunch paid off for Manager Leo Durocher of the Giants. He replaced the slumping Monte Irvin with Dusty Rhodes and the substitute outfielder belted two home runs that accounted for five runs. The night before, Durocher inserted Rhodes' roommate Bobby Hofman and he homered twice.

The Pirates' five-game winning streak ended as relief ace Jim Hughes of the Dodgers retired the side in the ninth after two runs had scored and two men were on base.

Lefty Warren Spahn checked the Cardinals on five hits, including Stan Musial's 32nd home run. Harvey Haddix had a one-hitter working until two out in the seventh. A pop fly triple by Joe Adcock drove in the first run and he scored a moment later on a single by Andy Pafko.

Chicago (A)—Gil Turner, lacking his one-time speed and knockout punch, today hopes he is headed back to welterweight contention following one of his most savage fights of his career.

After campaigning unsuccessfully as a middleweight for two years, Turner tangled with durable welterweight Al Andrews last night in one of the most vicious brawls in several at Chicago Stadium.

He weighed 153 to Andrews' 152. Turner had Andrews staggering a half dozen times but failed to finish him off, and by the end both 23-year-old fighters were battered and groggy.

Turner won a unanimous 10-round decision. Referee Walter Brightmore favored the Philadelphia Negro 97 to 88. Judge Jim McManus saw it 96 to 94 and Judge John Bray scored it 95 to 90.

Andrews' staying power and his rallies after he looked almost out on his feet must have thrilled the national television audience as well as the widely-yelling ringside turnout of 1,910 paid plus 3,000 service men admitted free.

The Wisconsin Wildcat, his nose bleeding and his mouthpiece knocked out, made a great stand in the last round and had Turner rocking and giving ground. Then Turner took his turn pounding Andrews and both were nearly dazed at the bell.

McCall Shuts Out Mooresville Team

Stocky Boog Powell did it with one blow of his swishing bat yesterday afternoon as far as North Carolina fans are concerned. Powell smashed a long home run with a mate on base in the first inning for all the scoring in the game between Lakeland, Florida, and Mooresville, North Carolina, with Lakeland emerging the 2-0 winner.

Lakeland won the right to go into the finals against Columbia, South Carolina, this afternoon at 4:30.

Jimmy McCall of Lakeland and Bob Howard of Mooresville hooked up in one of the pitching duels that have been characteristic of play in this tournament since the opening round of play.

McCall did not make any slip-ups and that was the difference. The slim righthander kept five hits scattered inside the park. Howard's trouble was he did not keep one of his hits inside the fences. Howard gave up only three hits but it didn't take but one to knock Mooresville out of the tourney.

After that first inning score there was only a string of zeros across the scoreboard as McCall set Mooresville down without scoring and Howard pitched two-hit, shut-out ball the rest of the way.

Joe Neel picked up two of the Mooresville hits, and was the only player on either team to get more than one hit.

The Mooresville team put on a mild rally in the last inning after two were out. Butch Doster and Neel singled but McCall bore down and got pinch-hitter Hinson to ground out.

Mooresville plays Athens in the consolation game today at 2 o'clock.

Aussie Netters Gun For Sweep Of Doubles Play

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Capt. Harry Horman's forces, gunning for an all-Australian final, were a step nearer their goal entering this fourth day of the seven-day National Doubles Tennis Tournament.

The teams of Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall, Rex Hartwig and Neale Fraser and Ashley Cooper and Roy Emerson, 1-2-3 seeded foreign entries, looked impressive yesterday in moving through the third round of the men's competition.

In today's only two matches of the men's quarter-finals, staggered over two days, Hoad and Rosewall play Gardner Mulloy of Miami and Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., and the sparkling 17-year-old newcomers, Cooper and Emerson, run into Bill Talbert of Baton Rouge and Ham Richardson of New York, La.

Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert, top seeded domestic pair, advanced through the third round yesterday with a 6-4, 6-2, 6-4, victory over Pablo Eisenberg, Millburn, N.J., and Richard Gaines, Edgartown, Mass.

While Hoad and Rosewall displayed top form in defeating Californians Gil Shea and Herbie Flam, 9-7, 6-3, 6-4, Cooper and Emerson battled their way from behind for a 2-6, 6-3, 3-6, 15-13, 6-2 triumph over Don Flye and Bill Quillian from the University of Washington.

Hartwig and Fraser beat Sam Giannalya of Houston and Sam Morris, Atlanta, 6-1, 7-5, 6-3.

America's second-seeded team of Talbert and Richardson advanced by eliminating Jerry Moss of St. Petersburg, and David Harum of Coral Gables, 6-0, 6-4, 6-4.

Defending women doubles champions Doris Hart and Shirley Fry whipped Sachiko Kamo of Japan and Mrs. Grace Raymond Jones of New York 6-2, 6-0 yesterday. In the other quarter-final Darlene Hard and Barbara Breit of California defeated Susan and Judy Devlin of Baltimore, 7-5, 2-6, 6-4.

Rams Take Easy 27-7 Victory Against Redskins

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Woody Lewis contributed a 95-yard kickoff return for a touchdown as the Los Angeles Rams defeated the Washington Redskins 27-7, last night in a National Football League exhibition played before 79,813 fans.

Lewis, with the Rams holding a 20-0 lead, took the kickoff starting the second half and raced from his own five-yard line down the sidelines for the touchdown.

The Rams scored three touchdowns and their All America line-man from California, Les Richter, kicked field goals from 22 and 34 yards out in addition to converting after the touchdowns. Fullback Dan Towler scored twice on short plunges.

Washington, unable to get inside the Ram 35, scored late in the fourth quarter on a 33-yard pass from quarterback Jack Scarbath to end Hugh (Bones) Taylor. It was the first Redskins game against a league foe and the second for the Rams.

Frank Souchak is the only amateur golfer who automatically qualifies for this year's U.S. Open golf championship. He was among the 20 low scorers last year.

Gavilan Sued By Former Adviser

NEW YORK (AP)—Welterweight champion Kid Gavilan and George Gainford, who once worked in his corner, have parted ways, and Gainford is suing Gavilan for $150,000.

The suit has been filed in Supreme Court, with Gainford claiming his "advice and counsel" helped Gavilan win the title. He said he was signed in 1947 to advise, counsel and create bookings for Gavilan at 10 per cent of the fighter's earnings.

He said he never had been paid or given an accounting although Gavilan earned approximately 1 1/2 million dollars.

Gavilan entered a general denial. In 1944 when the St. Louis Browns won their only pennant, they beat Detroit by one game, winning 10 of their last 11 games.

Durocher Playing His Hunches; They Pay Off

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (AP) — Leo Durocher, regrouping his faltering forces for the stretch run, is up to his old tricks again. A hunch player from way back, the New York Giant manager is playing them to the hill—and they're paying off.

Shocked by three straight losses to the Dodgers at Ebbets Field, Durocher shook up his lineup against Philadelphia Tuesday night, putting Bobby Hofman on first, Billy Gardner on third and Ray Katt behind the plate. All Hofman did was slam two home runs and drive in four runs to spark a 8-3 victory. Gardner shone defensively and Katt contributed a double and a run-scoring fly.

Yesterday, with a right-hander pitching for the Phillies, Durocher sent Dusty Rhodes, the power-hitting pinch hitter, to left field in place of Monte Irvin. Rhodes blasted a pair of home runs and drove in five runs as the Giants won 6-2.

Rhodes got the Giants off to a 3-0 lead in the first inning, hammering Herm Wehmeier for a three-run homer. His second homer, and 12th of the season, came off southpaw Ron Mrozinski in the fifth with one man aboard.

"Every time we go bad," Durocher said, "I call upon Rhodes and Hofman. They're my minutemen. I first got the idea using them as trouble shooters last fall during our tour in Japan. They were both hitting fools on that trip. Dusty and Bobby easily were the best hitters on the club. If it weren't for them we wouldn't have won a single game in Japan."

Hofman's batting average of .338 is misleading but Rhodes is pacing the club with a .371 average. He has driven in 32 runs on 33 hits.

Gil Turner Wins In Vicious Brawl

CHICAGO (AP)—Gil Turner, lacking his one-time speed and knockout punch, today hopes he is headed back to welterweight contention following one of his most savage fights of his career.

After campaigning unsuccessfully as a middleweight for two years, Turner tangled with durable welterweight Al Andrews last night in one of the most vicious brawls in several at Chicago Stadium.

He weighed 153 to Andrews' 152. Turner had Andrews staggering a half dozen times but failed to finish him off, and by the end both 23-year-old fighters were battered and groggy.

Turner won a unanimous 10-round decision. Referee Walter Brightmore favored the Philadelphia Negro 97 to 88. Judge Jim McManus saw it 96 to 94 and Judge John Bray scored it 95 to 90.

Andrews' staying power and his rallies after he looked almost out on his feet must have thrilled the national television audience as well as the widely-yelling ringside turnout of 1,910 paid plus 3,000 service men admitted free.

The Wisconsin Wildcat, his nose bleeding and his mouthpiece knocked out, made a great stand in the last round and had Turner rocking and giving ground. Then Turner took his turn pounding Andrews and both were nearly dazed at the bell.

Seek Means To Shorten Games

AP Newsfeatures

FORT WORTH, Tex.—Texas League baseball games are averaging 2 hours and 32 minutes, which, everybody agrees, is too long. How to speed up the games is a major topic of conversation. Long, drawn-out games, especially at night, drive the fans away, baseball experts say.

A Vincent, manager of the Fort Worth club, suggests that instead of a batter getting four balls and three strikes he be cut to three balls and two strikes.

The pitcher then, says Vincent, would have to get the ball over the plate and couldn't waste any pitches. The batter, too, would take up less time, Vincent points out. "He would come off the bench swinging since he would have only two chances to hit the ball."

Hal Scherwitz, veteran sports editor of the San Antonio Express, doesn't think this would help, however. Scherwitz said: "If the pitchers can't keep from walking 'em with four balls we don't see how cutting the limit down to three will eliminate the base on balls. In fact, we can name a few—and not too far from home—who would set some bases on balls records in a hurry under those circumstances."

BIG FISH UP NORTH—Mrs. H. F. Keeler and son Travis of Seattle, Wash. are shown with some of the big salmon caught at Rivers Inlet, British Columbia. Mrs. Keeler is the former Alice Lee Hooker of Greenville, S.C., her husband and son went to Rivers Inlet from Seattle in their private plane. Rivers Inlet is about 600 miles north of Seattle, and also north of Vancouver Island, Canada. The part of the catch shown here weighed, left to right: 62 pounds, 54 pounds, 25 pounds, 46 pounds, 45 pounds and 48 pounds.

Carolina Dairies Lose To New Bern 4-1 In Softball

Carolina Dairies lost a softball game to New Bern last night 4-1 at Guy Smith Stadium.

L. E. Johnson went all the way on the mound for the Dairies team and absorbed the loss for one of the few times this year.

The only scoring done by the Dairies team was on Paul Jones' home run. The rest of the time the Dairies team could get on base but could not bring the runners around.

Debatable Decisions . . . . . by Pap'

Champion Rocky Marciano made no bones about his pleasure over the prospect of meeting Ezzard Charles again in September. The champion wasn't entirely pleased with his showing against the former titleholder even though he did win a unanimous decision after fifteen rounds of fierce milling. Rocky likes to settle the outcome with a knockout punch, not by the judges' voting.

"It'll be lots sharper this time," predicted the champion at the official signing ceremonies. "The last time we fought it was after a layoff of eight months. This time there will be no chance to get rusty. Besides, I always fight better the second time I meet a guy. It was that way against Walcott and LaStarza. Charles will be the same story."

Most heavyweight championship contests that have been decided by decision have inspired considerable debate. Marciano's victory over Charles was no exception. Many ringers, including Joe Louis, felt that Charles had piled up sufficient points in the early rounds to offset Marciano's late surge. We were completely in accord with the official voting, but felt that the old Brown Bomber was entitled to his opinion. A knockout would have settled the issue in clear cut fashion. Whether the victim is counted out or battered to the point where the referee intervenes, it used to be considered the only way a real champion surrendered his championship. It's still a good idea.

U.S. System Discussed In World Church Meet

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Charles P. Taft spoke up today for the American social and economic system before fellow Christians from many lands.

Taft, brother of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, voiced his views while delegates to the Assembly of the World Council of Churches were engaged in a round of discussions on the broad subject of a "responsible society."

"We Americans are a responsible society," Taft told an audience of visitors to the convention—a gathering of representatives of 163 denominations from 48 nations.

He mentioned social security, workmen's compensation for injuries on the job, the minimum wage law, the 40-hour week, farm price floors and public housing, and said:

"I am not reciting these facts to boast but to show you that we are not, and probably never have been, a laissez-faire capitalism. In nearly all of this legislation and in its enforcement has been evidence of the strong reform instincts of America. It comes in large part out of our religious and missionary background."

The day's program of the assembly featured President Eisenhower. A crowd of 15,000 was expected to hear him.

Taft, who lives in Cincinnati and is a delegate to the assembly, mentioned in a prepared address American qualities of "risk-taking, ingenuity, the urge to work."

"This nation's 'business culture,' he said, is 'the setting for our religious life.'"

"We work under pressure of competition and fight the nature of impulse to make things easier by dividing markets and fixing prices—that is, cartelization," he said.

He recalled that the first assembly of the council in 1948 at Amsterdam produced a report that was critical of both communism and laissez-faire (free of government interference) capitalism.

Speaking of points that have come up in consideration of a report to be made at the current gathering, he said:

"There is more interest in the problems of production and efficiency than before. At the same time it is more generally accepted that the state has an important part to play in economic life, although the extent of state intervention is still a controversial point."

"Since there is also a better understanding of the significance of private initiative and the dangers of centralization and rigidity in the economic system, it seems as though the old controversy between socialism and capitalism is beginning to lose its sting."

Duchess Making American Visit

By COLIN FROST LONDON (AP) The elegant Duchess of Kent, "Aunt Marina" to Britain's Queen Elizabeth II, this month achieves a lifelong ambition—her first American visit.

With her 17-year-old daughter Princess Alexandra, she flies Saturday for Quebec and will remain in Canada until Sept. 14, when the pair will go to New York. They leave New York by ship Sept. 22 for home.

The duchess always has been a great traveler. At 47, she still is high on the lists of the world's best-dressed women.

In her clothes, in her travels and in friendships unusual for British royalty, the duchess has sought to hide the pangs of a broken heart.

She came to England in 1934, the fiancée of Prince George, younger son of King George V. The prince had wooed his slender Greek princess at a Balkan house party. The gossips called it a royal love match—and this time they were right.

Their Westminster Abbey wedding was a fairy tale affair. The Duke and Duchess of Kent, seemed supremely happy. Soon a family came along—two boys and a girl. And then came World War II. On Aug. 25, 1942, with his younger son barely 7 weeks old, the Duke of Kent was killed on active service with the Royal Air Force.

For months Marina pined alone. Finally old Queen Mary gave her a talking to. The widowed duchess emerged from her mourning to take an ever-growing share of royal responsibility and an ever-warmer place in British hearts.

After the war, she made frequent trips to her two sisters in Germany. At the same time she began to renew acquaintance with her dead husband's friends—people like Noel Coward, Sir Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh, and conductor Sir Malcolm Sargent, glamorous boy of British music.

She lives simply. She is far from rich. Sometimes she does her own shopping at the local village store.

Thoreau's Walden Still Plays Role In World

By JOHN B. KNOX CONCORD, Mass. (AP)—Just 100 years ago a young American, believing passionately in freedom and dignity for the individual, published a book challenging the world's pressures which cause people to fall short of the best in life.

Henry David Thoreau's "Walden, or Life in the Woods," described his own experiment in attaining a broader life through simpler living. "The mass of men," he had concluded, "lead lives of quiet desperation."

"Walden" is still read around the world. It influenced such writers as W.B. Yeats, Leo Tolstoy and Marcel Proust. It was even translated into Chinese.

Thoreau, Harvard-educated by his own and his family's slender means—and a scholarship—was a naturalist who won the trust of wild life, from birds to field mice. But he was also poet, philosopher, even an economist and interpreter of history. And he worked as a surveyor, boat builder and pencil manufacturer—among other things.

Of his 39 carefully compiled manuscript books, only two were published while he lived.

He had refused to pay taxes to a government which he accused of wrongfully legalizing slavery and was jailed until a friend—without Thoreau's permission—paid the debt.

His essay on "Civil Disobedience" helped Mahatma Gandhi.

In March, 1845, Thoreau began building his one-room dwelling on the shore of Walden Pond, two miles from Concord village. It cost him $28.12 1/2 for materials.

Thoreau's economy was simple. Characteristic was his rejection of the gift of a mat for his cabin "because I had no room to spare within the house, nor time to spare within or without to shake it. . . preferring to wipe my feet on the sod before my door."

He explains how he had learned that "by working about six weeks in a year I could meet all the expenses of living. The whole of my winters, as well as most of my summers, I had free and clear for study."

Life at Walden: The birds—the whippoorwills chanted their vespers for him on summer evenings.

In no sense a hermit—Thoreau enjoyed visitors and visiting others, but still welcomed solitude, the solemn procession of the seasons, watching the pond's water changing color with the sky, autumn, with the maples clothing themselves in scarlet, winter, snow and from six months can eat the weight of a baby grand piano.

He played hide and seek in a boat on the pond with those diving and wildly-laughing birds, the loons. In retrospect, he wrote: "I learned this, at least, by my experiment, that if one advances confidently in the direction of his dreams, and endeavors to live the life which he has imagined, he will meet with a success unexpected in common hours. . . In proportion as he simplifies his life, the laws of the universe will appear less complex. . . If you have built castles in the air, your work need not be lost; that is where they should be. Not put foundations under them."

After two years and two months at Walden, Thoreau left because "I had several more lives to live and could not spare any more time for that one."

Always alert to the risk of being enslaved in "the ruts of tradition and conformity" and by habits of living, Thoreau saw the danger of lapsing into freedom-restricting habit patterns—even at Walden.

When life neared its close and someone asked if he had made peace with God, he replied, "I have not quarreled with God."

His body rests in Concord's Sleepy Hollow Cemetery.

But the spot to which his disciples and admirers turn when they come to Concord is the wooded shore of Walden pond where a local archaeologist, Roland Wells Robbins, has uncovered the long-lost site of Thoreau's cabin.

He was arrested while trying to sell the family washing machine and was jailed for being drunk.

Mitchell Plans Address Demos

RALEIGH (AP)—National Democratic Chairman Stephen Mitchell will be the keynote speaker when the Heel Democrats begin their fall election campaign with a kick-off rally at Drexel in Burke County Sept. 10.

State Democratic Chairman John D. Larkins Jr. announced yesterday that the statewide rally will be held in the Drexel community building instead of in nearby Morganton because it can accommodate a big turnout that is expected.

Sam J. Ervin III, chairman of the Burke County Democratic Committee, is in charge of the arrangements. Rep. Charles R. Jonas of Lincolnton, the state's only Republican congressman, is from the 10th district in which Drexel is located.

The Democrats hope to unseat Jonas in the November election. He will be opposed by Democrat J.G. Sedberry, judge of the Municipal Court in Charlotte. Republicans are expected to make a big drive in the Eighth District in an effort to defeat Democratic Congressman Hugh Q. Alexander. He will be opposed by William E. Stevens of Lenoir.

Meanwhile, Larkins also announced that he had set proposed rallies with the first set for Oct. 5 in the 12th District. He said the time and place for each rally is to be decided by the congressman in each district.

Other rally dates include: Oct. 6, 11th District; 7, 10th District; 8, Ninth; 12, Eighth; 13, Seventh; 14, Sixth; 15, Fifth; 19, Fourth; 20, Third; 21, Second; and 22, First.

Visiting British Laborites See Changes In Red China

Editor's Note—The following dispatch is from the correspondent of the London Daily Herald, organ of the British labor movement, accompanying the Labor party group on its visit to China. Efforts of the Associated Press to obtain visas for a reporter to go along with the Attlee party were not successful.

By DERYCK WINTERTON
PEIPING (AP)—After three days in Peiping, I finally "entered" China officially.

My entry visa was stamped to enter from the south. It was not clear why, and the reason is unknown to me as the document I received yesterday is in Chinese. Entry from the north (the route the British party traveled) is technically a breach of the regulations, but it has been decided that I need not go out and in again.

So yesterday I traveled back to the airport with a new and correct visa to be stamped. Everybody is happy now.

This may be an instance of red tape but certainly not of lack of good will.

Yesterday afternoon there was a remarkable example of Chinese courtesy and desire to help. The health minister, Mrs. Li Teh-chung, gave an interview lasting nearly three hours. Present with her were the vice minister, Dr. Ho Cheng, and 17 other officials.

Mrs. Li smiling, plumpish and middle-aged, wore glasses and could have been a British school headmistress.

She made big claims of health advance since the Communists took over in 1949, but constantly emphasized that there was a long way to go before the aim of universal free health service as in Britain would be attainable because of lack of doctors and staff to train doctors.

She said big strides had been made in eliminating smallpox, plague and other diseases which have been the bane of China.

Mrs. Li said with obvious pleasure that a third to a half of the students in some medical schools are women. Some students were trained in Russia and Czechoslovakia and other Communist countries in Europe.

I asked "Why not send some to Britain?"
Everyone laughed and Mrs. Li said, "Yes, indeed, we wish to exchange cultural information."

Last night the British delegation attended a reception given by the Indonesian ambassador to celebrate his country's independence day.

Another British correspondent with the delegation, John Ridley of the London Daily Telegraph, reported that former Prime Minister Clement Attlee, left-wing leader Aneurin Bevan, and two others of their party discussed foreign trade yesterday with the head of that ministry in the Peiping government, Yeh Chi Chung.

Ridley who had been in China before the Communist takeover, gave this description of Peiping under the Reds:

While much of Peiping life remains much the same as it did before the Communist revolution, a great deal actually has been changed. To anyone who was in China before, it seems astonishing that waiters refuse tips rather haughtily. The laughter and gaiety of streets has for the most part gone.

From the walls of most buildings saturnine portraits of Mao Tse-tung, Stalin Malenkov and Molotov glower down at passing multitudes.

Bookshops are crammed with Communist books and I was surprised this morning when going late to breakfast in my hotel to find almost the entire staff congregated there, having their morning instruction in Marxism from the local commissar.

Generally the city is cleaner than it was and public buildings such as the Forbidden City Temple of Heaven, the Lama Temple and various pagodas of Peiping are beautifully kept with paintwork renewed and gardens around them banked with flowers. On the whole the people are very poorly dressed but even high government officials obviously consider it the thing to appear only in depressing looking dungaree suits. There are still frightful sights of poverty but there are no beggars in the streets. Although I was earnestly and frequently informed that "New China" is doing everything for children even here in the capital of the country, there are obvious signs of starvation amongst many portebelled, naked little boys and girls sitting a pathetically beside gutters.

Everywhere there are soldiers all fully armed with automatic weapons and even grenades. This, I was told, was because invasion is always feared from Formosa whose guerrillas—or bandits as it is more polite to refer to these irregulars here—have recently been increased and given more arms. Around the airfield on the edge of the city an electric fence has been put up and guarded every few yards by soldiers.

India, Pakistan Feud Over Vital Water Resource

By EUGENE LEVIN
NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The mutual need for Indus River basin waters has embroiled India and Pakistan in one of their bitterest disputes.

Each nation is heaping accusations on the other in this struggle for waters of the Indus and five tributaries—vitally needed by both for irrigation and power.

The atmosphere has become so tense many Western diplomats are apprehensive India and Pakistan may become irrevocably estranged.

The long-smoldering Indus dispute burst into flame last month. It began when India and Pakistan gained their freedom in 1947, the division of the subcontinent, after the British left placed the headwaters of the Indus Basin in Indian hands. However, the waters fed an intricate canal system irrigating millions of acres inside Pakistan's borders. Thus, Pakistan had the pipeline, but India controlled the taps.

India said it needed the waters for its own irrigation system. Pakistan retorted it needed them to keep its fertile lands from reverting to desert.

Two years ago the World Bank entered the dispute and got India to promise not to tamper with the Indus Basin in any way that would harm Pakistan.

Last spring the bank came up with a proposal, exact details of which have not been released. India accepted the recommendation, but when Pakistan wavered, the Indians said they no longer felt bound to hold up their own river development projects.

On July 8, India's Prime Minister Nehru pressed a button which opened the gates of the Nangal Dam, sending waters from the River Sutlej into the Nangal-Bhakra canals. Pakistan angrily protested that India had violated international commitments. Nehru and other Indian officials insisted they meant no harm to the Pakistanis, but asserted they had to go ahead with the development plans.

"If Pakistan goes without water it will not be our fault," one Indian official declared. "We have given them seven years to find alternate water supplies and they have done nothing."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — Aircrafts advanced in an otherwise mixed stock market today.

Trading was moderately active at the start and prices generally higher. But soon the pace slowed considerably. As a more cautious tone prevailed the number of losers increased. Changes were mostly minor fractions, however in the early afternoon.

A few issues attracted sizable support. These included Hilton Hotels, Seaboard Air Line Railroad, Mengel, Grace Co., Douglas Aircraft and Boeing.

Others gaining ground were U. S. Steel, General Motors, Goodyear, United Aircraft, Southern California Edison Air Reduction, DuPont, Santa Fe, United Air Lines and Paramount.

Educators Told Good Schools Don't Happen

Good schools do not "just happen," but are the products of vision, labor, and the general will and determination to have good schools. Dr. Charles F. Carroll, state superintendent of public instruction, told school personnel attending the Thursday morning session of the pre-school workshop at East Carolina College.

Registration at the conference for superintendents, principals, supervisors and teachers was near 350 Thursday, and Chairman B. L. Davis, Greene county superintendent of public schools, said the first conference has been successful in its objectives.

Addressing the school people at the opening of the Thursday session, Dr. Carroll said that education for all and concern for the intellectually able are not in conflict. The gravest concern lies in the feeling that many superior students are not using their time to the maximum advantage, he went on to point out, noting that the waste of time is bad enough, but along with it goes the loss of interest and momentum.

The inclusion of more courses is desirable and essential, but should not come at the expense of core learning of language, mathematics, history, and science, Dr. Carroll said in answering critics of the schools.

He noted that reading and the teaching of reading, formally or informally, should continue in all grades, both in elementary and in secondary schools. At the primary level, he said, children read out of the background of experience, but at the upper levels they read in abstraction.

Dr. Carroll was presented by D. H. Conley, Pitt county schools superintendent.

The conference continued the hearing of consultants in several areas, including a panel on problems affecting schools. The concluding speaker on the two-day workshop program was to be Louis P. Shannon, director of the DuPont Company's extension division, in an address at a dinner meeting Thursday evening. Dr. J. D. Messick, president of East Carolina College, was to introduce the speaker and H. H. Bullock, Lenoir County school superintendent, was to preside.

Other speakers Thursday were Dr. I. E. Ready, superintendent of Roanoke Rapids schools, and Mrs. Helen B. Wolf, of the ECC Laboratory School, on textbooks; Dr. Clinton R. Prewett, director of student personnel at East Carolina College, on college loans and scholarships; Dr. Woodrow Planary, of the ECC Department of Education, on reading; Miss Merle Scott, supervisor of Lenoir County Schools, on combination grades; Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, ECC dean, on Parent-Teacher Associations; Miss Ella S. Barrett, supervisor of guidance services, State Department of Public Instruction, part-time guidance programs.

Memo For Ike: Denver Is Ready For His Vacation

Memo: To President Eisenhower
Subject: Colorado Vacation
From: The Associated Press, Denver

Date: August 19, 1954

Denver and Colorado are all set for your arrival at the summer White House. Your advance staff is completing the administration arrangements at your office at Lowry Air Base, the Secret Service is setting up its elaborate guards, there's not a cigarette butt in sight on the post grounds, and the fish are jumping.

Aksel Nielsen, the genial host of Byers Peak Ranch at Fraser, says the trouting is good in St. Louis Creek. The water was low early in the season because Aksel had to irrigate the hay crop for his fat cattle, but the situation is ideal now.

Bal Swan reports the South Platte at his place near Buffalo Creek, where you've been fishing for 20 years, is tops now. But you'd better hurry because a newspaperman warning up the river for you pulled seven trout out of that hole under the bridge not long ago.

Both Bal and Aksel will try to be patient while you finish up official business after you get here, but they're drooling for some fish for them over a camp fire on the river bank.

Rip Arnold, golf pro at Cherry Hills Country Club, reports that course is in very good shape now. It was a little dry earlier in the year, but the new irrigation system has fixed it up great.

The Rev. Robert S. Lutz, minister at the Corona Presbyterian church you attend out here, apologizes for the construction that's going on. However, services are going on as usual and the congregation is looking forward to having you join them again.

Over at 750 Lafayette St., your mother-in-law Mrs. John Doud, has been scurrying around getting everything ready for your visit. The neighbors report they'll be happy to have you come home again for a vacation.

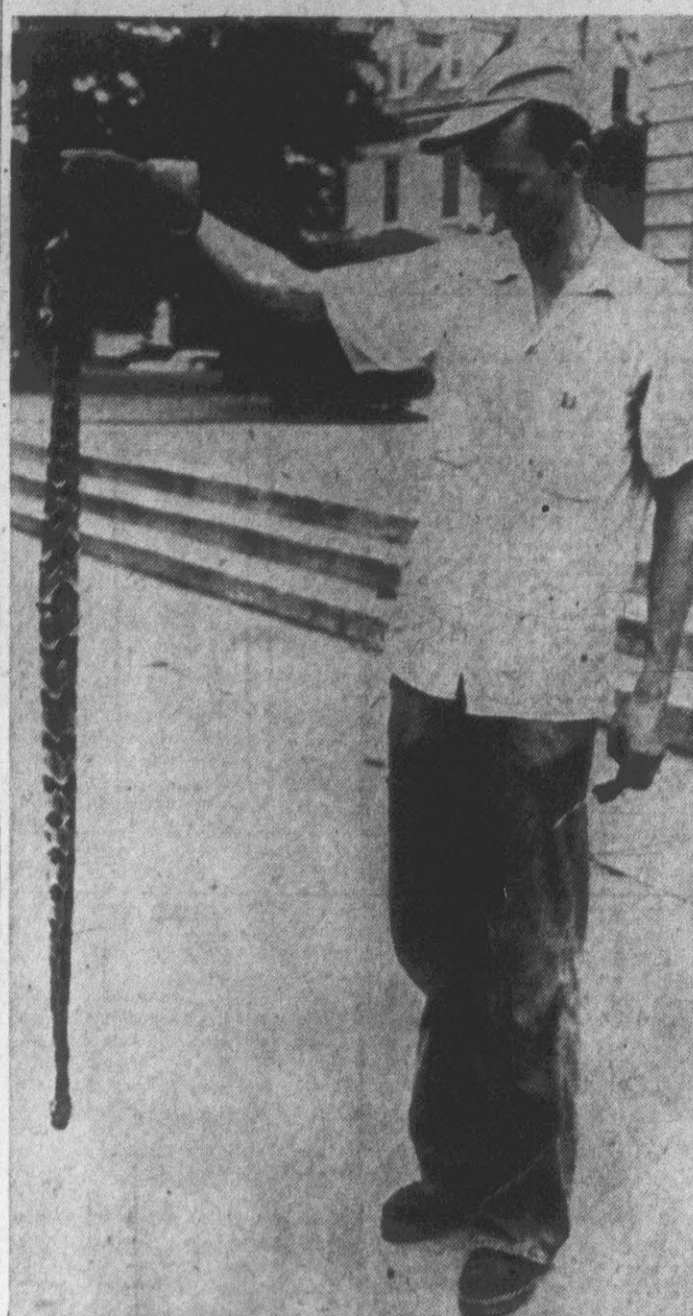

They said, by the way, they don't think the Secret Service men are a nuisance at all. Mrs. Alvin J. Schrefferman, your neighbor, said "they do their job without bothering anybody."

As another of your summer neighbors put it, they want you and Mrs. Eisenhower to feel at home.

That's about the situation, Nielsen, Gov. Dan Thornton, Mrs. Doud and the Lowry commander, Brig. Gen. John T. Sprague, will be on hand to meet you. Everybody hopes Congress gets through so you can get out here by Saturday.

And they're all prepared to let you have the kind of vacation you want — fishing, golfing or just plain relaxing.

Dr. G. Kerry Smith To Make Graduation Talk

Dr. G. Kerry Smith, executive secretary of the Association for Higher Education, Washington, D. C., will address the members of the graduating class of East Carolina College at the summer school commencement in Wright Auditorium on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

One candidate for the two-year business education certificate will be presented, also. Candidates will be presented by Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, dean of the college.

The address by Dr. Smith will be preceded by the professional with Dr. Robert Carter of the ECC music department as pianist, the invocation by the Rev. C. Edward Sharp, associate rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, and a solo, "Alleluia," from motet "Exultate Jubilate" by Mozart, sung by Miss Jeanne Pritchard, soprano, with George E. Perry, also of the ECC music faculty, as accompanist.

In addition to members of the families of the graduating students, and their friends, the public is also invited to attend the exercises.

The commencement event will conclude the 1954 summer school of East Carolina College.

President Messick has announced the opening of the 1954-55 school year will be held September 6 with meetings of staff and faculty, and the beginning of Freshman Orientation Week on September 7.

Small Boy, Big Dog In Trouble

SAN DIEGO Calif. — If you think a small boy and a big dog can't cause a lot of commotion, just check with the San Diego police, the Coronado, Calif., police and the U.S. Navy.

Yesterday the police received a number of calls that a boy and his dog were crossing and recrossing busy Harbor Drive, fouling up the traffic.

They picked up 8-year-old Steve Thompson and his dog Barney. He didn't know his home address but he did know where his father, H. C. Thompson, a Navy Chief, was.

"Where?" said the cops. Aboard the submarine Hammerhead, said Steve.

So the San Diego police began to look for his mother, and had the nearby Coronado police help too.

Unable to locate Steve's mother, they contacted the Navy. The Navy checked its records — and found the submarine was en route to Mary Island, Calif.

The Coronado police finally got results — they located Steve's mother, Mrs. H. E. Thompson, who said he had run off with Barney that morning, apparently because he was spanked for starting the family automobile.

Cases Tried In City Police Court

In Police Court Wednesday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee found George J. Biggs, Sr., 207 East Third Street, guilty of two charges of violating state quarantine laws concerning contagious and infectious diseases.

Testimony was that Biggs, a tuberculosis patient at Oteen Veterans' Hospital in Western Carolina, left AWOL, and that since he had brought local quarantine laws concerning infectious and contagious diseases. Further testimony was that Biggs, who is in an advanced stage of tuberculosis, left the hospital where he was having proper medical care; that he violated the quarantine law again after Pitt County Health Director Dr. W. C. Humbert had quarantined him to remain at his home, and he then visited an eating place in the city.

Judge Whedbee pointed out at the trial that Biggs had been provided with proper hospitalization and that he left and returned to his home in Greenville.

"For the patient's own safety and for the protection of the public health, the court is finding Biggs guilty," the judge stated.

In the first case, the court committed Biggs to remain from two to six months at State Prison Hospital. In the second case, he sentenced him to two years at the hospital.

W. A. Sawyer of the Grimesland community was found guilty of issuing worthless checks. In the first case, the court gave him 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of checks and court costs. On two other cases he received 30 days in jail in each.

Kelley Blount, Negro, assault with a deadly weapon (a brick) on Greenville Policeman V. C. Ackert. The court pressed the case.

Careless and reckless driving: Wilbur Lee Little, Negro, called and he failed to answer. The court issued an instant capias for him.

The court found Mrs. Nell W. Willard not guilty of failure to yield right of way.

Gerald H. Jenkins, Negro, improper turning, prayer for judgment was continued on payment of court costs. The judgment also provides that Jenkins is not to operate a motor vehicle for three months unless he makes adequate restitution for property damage.

George R. Rose, passing at an intersection, $10.

Willie Barrett, Negro, careless and reckless driving, 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted. The judgment also provides that he is not to drive a motor vehicle for 30 days.

Eldridge H. Buck, failure to yield right of way, prayer for judgment continued on payment of $15 on costs, and he is to make adequate restitution for property damage.

Jerry Lewis Will Know Golf Foe From Now On

GROSSINGER, N. Y. — The next time comedian Jerry Lewis plays golf he's going to make certain he knows the name of his opponent.

Lewis knew he was in a four-some with Joe Turnesa, local pro and runner-up to Bob Jones for the 1926 Open, and Paul Grossinger. But when some enterprising press agent dropped National Open champion Ed Furgol out of the skies in a helicopter on the first tee here, it was too much for Lewis.

Furgol was flown from Teterboro, N.J., to the airport here, donned his golf attire before boarding the helicopter and teed off without practice.

He shot a 70, two under par. "I wasn't putting very well," said Furgol. "But I did get a kick out of Lewis. When we were over him on the first tee his mouth was so wide open I could have dropped a basketball in it."

postal rate increase.

The Senate kicked the matter around for a while yesterday, then put it back on the shelf. But the lawmakers have been under intense pressure to vote the pay hike before they leave town.

The Senate also has numerous minor bills it could act on, but most of these appeared certain to go down the drain in the rush of the weary lawmakers to quit.

Yesterday the Senate completed action on a whopping $1,658,000,000 catch-all money bill.

It also passed and sent back to the House, somewhat amended, one of the antibureaucratic bills asked by Eisenhower. It would strip U.S. nationality from citizens convicted of advocating the overthrow of the government by force and violence.

The House, meanwhile, sent to the President by voice vote a measure to broaden the unemployment compensation program to include another four million workers, mostly federal employees and workers in small firms now exempt. The act would take effect Dec. 31, 1955.
