President Says Europe's Statesmen Aren't Licked Yet Optimistic Note Sounded

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower told the nation's voters last night the Republican 83rd Congress chalked up a fine record toward assuring a stronger, better America. He urged them to remember that when they go to the polls in the November congressional elections.

GOP-run Congress which wound up last Friday. The President, vacationing here, spoke from a Denver TV studio. He talked from notes on cue cards in front of the cameras, stood in front of a desk on which he leaned part of the time, and occasionally he drove his left fist into his right hand to emphasize points. He was flanked by the American flag and the presidential banner.

"If we are going ahead with this (administration) program, if you want it to go ahead, the decisions are largely up to you. Because it is the character of the 84th Congress that will determine: Can we go ahead and push through all these programs for the benefit of America? Or will they be stopped by some kind of political arguments?"

Demos See Troubles Looming

Senators Say Foreign Affairs Tide May Overshadow Domestic Issues

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three Democratic senators said today foreign affairs troubles may overshadow the Eisenhower-praised record of the Republican 83rd Congress as a top issue in the November election campaign.

President Eisenhower centered on the at-home record in his broadcast to the nation last night, heaping praise on Congress and hitting again at opposition "prophecies of gloom and doom."

While dwelling only briefly on foreign relations, he did predict they "will be the thing on which we must have to emphasize our efforts during the coming months."

Brazil's Iron Man Takes Life As Generals Demand Ouster Pres. Vargas Kills Himself

By STANFORD BRADSHAW RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Brazil's old iron man, Getulio Vargas, sent a bullet through his heart and died in his palace today after 58 general officers forced him to quit as president.

He thus fulfilled a promise he had made Sunday night—that he would leave office only under arrest or dead. That was after 26 general officers of the air force asked him to resign to calm a tense political and military situation.

The crisis broke into rioting Aug. 11 following a mass for Maj. Vas. Two persons were injured and campaign posters for Vargas' Brazilian Labor Party (PTB) were torn down.

There have been predictions of further blows against Brazilian currency. The air force, with Vargas' permission, obtained the personal papers of Gregorio Fortunato, husky former head of the disbanded presidential guard, and these papers may have provided material for the final push against Vargas.

Will Unveil Today McCarthy Charges

By G. MILTON KELLY WASHINGTON (AP)—The charges on which a censure resolution against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) may stand or fall will be made public today by a special Senate investigating committee.

Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), who will preside at the public hearings, announced he has about completed the task of selecting from a list of 46 specific accusations the ones the senators will study first.

Watkins said he planned to hand the list of "initial" charges to Edward Bennett Williams, McCarthy's lawyer, today and then make the list public.

Watkins heads the special group named by the Senate to report on a resolution of censure offered by Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.)

Two-Way Pressure Over EDC Issue Growing French Cabinet Is Shaken

By CARL HARTMAN PARIS (AP)—French Premier Pierre Mendes-France wrestled anew with the European army crisis today as a cross fire of demands mounted in his own country for acceptance or rejection of the controversial six-nation defense treaty.

It was a top diplomatic secret. After the four-hour meeting, they agreed to "early and practical steps" to maintain Western unity.

Former Premier Antoine Pinay, a supporter of EDC, suggested last night that the six West European allies go ahead with the scheme for an 18-month "trial marriage" period. They should put it into effect as originally drafted, he said, but agree that any of the members could call a conference for revision of impractical features for the first 18 months.

President OKs Outlawing Communist Party Signs Anti-Communist Bill

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed legislation outlawing the Communist party. The history-making measure the President approved at his vacation headquarters here also is designed to crack down on Red-infiltrated labor unions.

Administration doubts about the bill—revised before it passed to overcome a principal objection—were based on concern as to whether it would make "propaganda martyrs" of Reds in this country and drive them further underground.

The bill outlawing the Communist party overshoot the administration's mark on anti-Red legislation when an election-bound Congress enthusiastically passed it on the last day of adjournment. The vote: Senate, 79-0; House, 265-2.

SBI Inquiry Into Death At Prison Is Requested

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Bureau of Investigation has been asked to conduct an immediate investigation into the death of an 18-year-old Negro prisoner in an isolation cell at Woman's Prison.

Raleigh police and Wake County sheriff's deputies were called to restore order. Bickett asked for the SBI probe after conferring with Wake County Coroner M.W. Bennett and E. Brogden, Highway Commission attorney. After the SBI report is received, Coroner Bennett will hold an inquest to determine whether "any persons were culpably negligent" in the death, Bickett said.

The provision was killed in a Senate-House conference after leaders cautioned that the bill, in unaltered form, would be vetoed by Eisenhower. The measure provides that the Communist party shall be denied legal rights available to all other political parties. It declares the Communist party to be "in fact an instrumentality of a conspiracy to overthrow the government of the United States," and one which "acknowledges no constitutional or statutory limitation upon its conduct."

Accused Slayer Locates Pistol Said Used In Fountain Shooting

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector Staff Writer Bruce Lee Newton, Negro, who was wanted in connection with the murder of Ben Lindsey, 22-year-old Negro of near Fountain, yesterday led officers to a clump of bushes in which he had thrown a pistol purported to be the weapon with which Lindsey was killed.

Lindsey was shot Sunday night at a "juke joint" on the outskirts of Fountain. He was found by police officers lying in the drive leading to the Negro nightspot just off the dirt road which ran past it.

Japs Arrest 7 In Black Market

TOKYO (AP)—Police arrested seven foreigners, including one American, on charges of operating a multimillion-dollar syndicate in black market dollars which were sent to Red China, Kyodo news service said today.

The men were seized in Kobe, Yokohama and Tokyo over the weekend and charged with illicit foreign currency transactions, Kyodo said. The American was identified as Joseph Debella, 26, of Tokyo. Five Indians and one Englishman were arrested with him.

Police said the men bought American dollar checks in various Japanese cities at a much higher rate of exchange than authorized. They then deposited the checks in U.S. and Indian banks, Kyodo reported.

Report Russia To Assist North Korean Build-Up

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—The Chinese Nationalist Taidao news agency said today Russia has agreed to equip 12 divisions of North Korean troops by June 1955.

The agency said a four-point agreement reached by Russia, Red China and North Korea provides that: (1) North Korea form and train by June 1955 12 new divisions from the militia and reserves; (2) Russia will supply equipment; (3) North Korea will get two groups of fighters and one of bombers before June 1956; (4) Russia will expedite the transfer of an unspecified number of warships to North Korea.

Increased Checks This September

WASHINGTON (AP)—Social Security Administration officials said today some 6 1/2 million beneficiaries automatically will get increases in their September checks after President Eisenhower signs the bill to expand the program.

September checks will be delivered Oct. 4. Each retired worker covered by the program will get a boost of at least $5 a month. Those getting the present maximum of $85 monthly will get $90.50. Those getting the $25 minimum will get $30. The increases will average about $6 a month.

The same minimum increase of at least $5 monthly will apply to each family unit whether it consists of a lone survivor or several persons. The minimum for a lone survivor will become $30 monthly, instead of $18.80, but where the present benefit is $30 monthly it will be increased only to $33.80.

Other beneficiaries now on the rolls will receive generally proportionate increases based on the wage record of the retired or deceased worker, but there will be a few exceptions. The officials told a newsmen each recipient of an August check, due to be delivered next week, will be informed by an enclosure that he or she need do nothing to get the increased benefits.

Worked Overtime For Paint Job

BOSTON (AP)—The City Council learned yesterday municipal judges have been "working overtime" to keep $30-a-day special justices off the bench so five courtrooms can be repaired.

The $60,000 they saved through the overtime now is in the Suffolk County payroll account, Chief Justice Elijah Adlow reported. The Council approved his request to have the sum transferred to the account for contractual services to brighten up the courtrooms.

No Free Ticket For Eisenhower

DES MOINES (AP)—Even President Eisenhower will have to pay a paid admission ticket to get into the Iowa State Fair when he speaks there—by invitation—Aug. 30.

"We are sticking to our policy of no free tickets," Fair Secretary Lloyd Cunningham says, "and that includes even the President of the United States. 'Somebody will have to pay for it, even if it turns out to be me.' No free passes have been issued to the fair since 1946.

Farmville Leaf Sales Averaged $53.42 For Week

FARMVILLE—Tobacco averaged $53.23 here yesterday when 156,710 pounds brought $84,562.06. Sales Supervisor Charles S. Edwards reported the market had a $53.42 average for tobacco sold there last week. During the five day abbreviated sales week the Farmville market sold 287,561 pounds for $140,267.63.

Farmville, as other markets on the Eastern Belt, began a full sales force yesterday; however, volume of tobacco continued light due to the extreme dry weather which has hampered farmers in their efforts to work the tobacco for market.

Couple Killed On Way To Hospital

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)—A husband and his young wife, on their way to a hospital where she was to give birth to a child, were trapped in the wreckage of their pickup truck yesterday and burned to death.

Find $1,206 In A 'Wishing Well'

DETROIT (AP)—Workmen cleaned out a wishing well in the Detroit Institute of Arts yesterday and found $1,206.07 in small change. The well was placed in the lobby several years ago when Institute officials sought to discourage visitors from tossing pennies in a fountain exhibit. The pennies clogged the fountain and resulted in high repair bills.

The money will be used to purchase new exhibits for the museum.

Senators Voice Disappointment Over EDC Conference Deadlock

By ROWLAND EVANS JR. WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Democrats and a Republican senator voiced dismay today over the European Defense Community deadlock and said the United States may soon have to move directly toward rearming West Germany.

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) labeled the failure at Brussels to reach agreement on the six-nation European army project "a victory for the Soviet Union." If no EDC solution is found, he said, the German Federal Republic should be given sovereignty "as soon as practicable."

Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) said possible loss of Germany to Communist domination would be "catastrophic," while Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) said an EDC collapse would mean the United States should "by all means" move to rearm the former enemy.

Red 'Liberation' Threat For Formosa Discounted

WASHINGTON (AP)—After analyzing reports on Red China's internal troubles and troop dispositions, American military and diplomatic officials today discounted Peiping's talk about "liberating" Formosa.

Pentagon sources said intelligence reports have produced no serious evidence—such as movement of assault troops—to indicate an imminent attack on the Nationalist island stronghold off the China mainland.

U. S. diplomatic officials said Peiping apparently is having enough work from flood and famine without taking on the additional burden of fighting a war. President Eisenhower told his news conference last Wednesday any Red Chinese attempt to invade Formosa would have to run over the U. S. 7th Fleet, which guards the Formosa Straits.

Adm. Felix B. Stump, commander of the Navy's Pacific forces, said in a copyrighted interview published in the magazine U. S. News and World Report yesterday that the 7th Fleet has orders to fire on any "obviously hostile" force. Pentagon officials said intelligence estimates indicate no build-up of assault units on the China coast opposite Formosa. There has been some troop build-up since the Korean War ended, they said but only in defensive patterns.

Limited Buyers For Middle Belt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Limited sets of tobacco company buyers were present for most sales on the remaining five five-cured markets of the North Carolina Middle Belt which began sales today.

they may not be able to send buyers to Middle Belt sales before the end of this month. A spot check indicated that the five Sandhills markets, which began sales yesterday without official company sets of buyers, had a limited number today. Sandhills markets are Aberdeen, Carthage, Ellerbe, Fuquay-Varina and Sanford.

Official buyers failed to appear when the five Sandhills markets of the belt held their first sales yesterday. In most cases, warehousemen and independents bought the offerings.

Sandhills sales yesterday grossed $62,376 total averaging $56.89 per hundred or $2.08 above last year's opening day average. The Federal-State Market News Service reported. Operating at full capacity from the start last year, the Sandhills markets sold 1,205,854 pounds opening day, averaging $54.84.

At Durham, two limited sets of buyers were present with most of the big companies represented. At Henderson, two major companies were reported as sending buyers, the Imperial and Reynolds Tobacco companies.

On the Sandhills markets, one warehouse reported it had about seven companies represented among its buyers today. "We have all except two of the major companies represented," said Bill Wood, owner of two warehouses at Sanford. He said, "It's the best crop in the Sandhills since 1948" and prices were averaging $3-4 per hundred higher than last year.

Spokesmen for two of the biggest companies, American Tobacco and Liggett & Myers, have indicated they may not be able to send buyers to Middle Belt sales before the end of this month.

Light Volume On Tobacco Market Continues Here

Prices held firm on the Greenville Tobacco Market yesterday when 390,156 pounds of tobacco sold for $200,008.33, averaging $52.61 per hundred pounds. Sales Supervisor W. L. Whedbee said this morning the offerings consisted mainly of poor to good leaf and low to good primings and lugs. He reported an increase in the amount of leaf on the floor.

The market news service said the markets which opened yesterday reported quality high and sales medium.

The supervisor said the offerings were still light due to the dry weather and due to some farmers not through housing the tobacco. He said most farmers would complete housing the weed this week.

Trip To New England Follows Smith-Brown Wedding Saturday

In a double ring ceremony, Miss Marian Corinne Brown became the bride of Mr. James Madison Smith Saturday afternoon at 4:30 in Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church with Mr. W. M. Howard, pastor of the bride, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Brown of Greenville. Mr. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Major Smith of Greenville.

Prior to the ceremony a program of wedding music was presented by Miss Janet Watson, organist, and Mrs. Moye Dall, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white imported gossamer nylon tulle and Rosepoint Chantilly lace over lustrous bridal satin, fashioned with a ville and Washington, D. C. Virgil Barnhill of Greenville, and James M. Ward Jr. of Greensboro.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Brown wore a street-length dress of ice blue silk organza. Her hat was of matching velvet and her accessories were navy blue. She wore a lavender hybrid orchid corsage.

The mother of the groom wore a street-length dress of Williamsburg blue with a lace bodice and taffeta skirt. Her accessories were navy blue and her corsage a lavender hybrid orchid.

Following the ceremony the parents of the bride entertained at a reception at their home.

Receiving at the front door were Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Aman. Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Tyson introduced guests to the receiving line, which was composed of the bride and groom, their parents, and the bridesmaids.

Miss Margaret Strickland and Mr. Franklin Brown directed them to the punch bowl where Miss Ann Cates and Miss Carolyn Jessup presided, assisted by Miss Betty Lou Brown and Mrs. Larry Bryan. Mrs. E. H. Browning of Raleigh presided at the bride's register.

Goodbyes were said to Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Pollard of Greenville. The home was decorated with roses and gladioli. The bride's table was covered with an imported cloth and centered with a white floral arrangement flanked by crystal candelabra.

For traveling the bride wore a suit of Heather silk and worsted woven fabric by Faouques with hand-cut Australian jewel accents, and black accessories. She wore an orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Smith attended Greensboro College, was graduated from East Carolina College and has been teaching at Fred A. Olds School in Raleigh for the past three years.

They wore matching headdress and carried fans decorated with sprays of sweetheart roses.

The bridesmaids were Miss Marie Russell of Raleigh, Miss Ann Oakley of Smithfield, Miss Martha Conway of Greenville, and Mrs. Henry Johnson, sister of the groom, of Winterville. They wore gowns, headresses, and carried fans styled like those of the honor attendants.

Urges More Women At Church Assembly

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Men who outnumber women 15-1 at the World Church Assembly here today had a polite—but firm—female suggestion: If they want real Christian unity, let more women in on it.

The gentle plea came from a French woman, who said women's church work is usually restricted to sisterhoods and societies — a "shadow church" — with little to do with the actual conduct of the churches.

To get all Christians pulling together, said Miss Madeleine Barot, requires not just theological harmony but a "more complete integration of both sexes into the life of the church."

Unfortunately, she said, "the full cooperation of men and women in the service of Christ has not yet been achieved." She proposed formation of a "department of cooperation of men and women in church and society."

Her appeal came at the World Council of Churches Assembly, including delegates from 163 denominations in 48 nations, worked to set down a joint Christian assessment of current problems of man and his society.

In six conference rooms, with some 100 delegates in each, separate discussions went on in an atmosphere of mixed accents and views as the groups look for conclusions on these subjects:

International relations, evangelism, the Christian role of laymen, economic and political justice, racial issues, and Christian unity.

The sectional conferences will continue until late this week, before the first tentative reports are put before the assembly for action.

On the topic of Christian unity—the ideal which provides the council's basic motive power—it was Miss Barot who produced the newest slant on the problem, which usually swirls around theological questions.

In fact, she suggested it might be that if women had more to do with the unity movement, it would get along faster.

"Women seem to have an even more intense desire for unity, world Christian fellowship and mutual help than do men," she said. "This desire cannot be satisfied by the limited participation allowed them . . ."

She noted only 38 of the 600 delegates were women, a slight improvement over the council's founding assembly six years ago when there were 19.

She said she did not favor the "aggressive feminism" which denies "any differences between men and women," but she said ideas which keep women from using their full abilities for the church "are outmoded."

The announcement said Indonesia would supply China with $8,400,000 worth of copra, sugar, coffee and spices in return for farm tools, textiles, chemicals, fruit and vegetable oil.

Time To Take Stock Of Things

It is appalling to see the reaction among some youngsters in this country to the story of the four "kill-for-thrill" teenagers of Brooklyn.

The story of the brutality of the four youngsters who mauled and murdered "just for fun" rocked the nation back on its heels. An even greater shock, we believe, was the appearance of several other groups of hoodlums who followed the same pattern of beatings after the first four kill-for-thrill kids were arrested.

Those four youngsters who terrorized parks in a section of New York are to be despised and pitied at the same time. By all decent standards, their actions should shock youngsters equally as much as they did adults across the nation.

What was it in the pattern of the lives of some other youths which made them see the four young killers as heroes rather than inhuman beasts? What was it in the character of other youngsters that made them want to follow the horrible example set by the four, rather than despise the actions? From many sources will come one answer to those questions. Juvenile delinquency.

To some extent, that is true, but that's only a portion of the answer. The rest of the answer may be summed up in other words: adult delinquency, which failed to give the youngsters the proper training in the home; community delinquency which failed to see that the youngsters were reached by other wholesome influences after they failed to receive proper training in the home.

In this case, the stigma of the action of the four young killers rests upon Brooklyn - a long way from North Carolina, a long way from Pitt County.

But are we allowing similar influences which led those four to their terrible crimes to breed in our own community simply because youths are being neglected?

The rampage of the four young killers in Brooklyn should make every community in the nation sit up and take stock of the influences which are helping to form the character of their own young people.

It Costs A Dollar Now Instead Of A Nickel

Shoppers and others who neglect or abuse the parking meters in Greenville's business district are finding it a more costly proposition now than in the past 16 months.

Since the courtesy parking plan died Saturday, local traffic officers have replaced the familiar little nickel courtesy parking envelopes with bold white parking tickets which mean a $1. fine for overparking.

After coming to rely on the courtesy parking plan to provide extra nickles to feed the parking meters, many shoppers may find it somewhat difficult to get used again to finding parking tickets on their windshields rather than courtesy parking envelopes.

It's a good idea for shoppers to watch their parking meter time a little more closely now and avoid, if possible, those one dollar parking tickets.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
WITHIN THOSE WALLS

A young man suffering from a serious ailment went to a physician recently. The physician told him frankly that he could not cure him but that he could teach him how to control his condition. "You can live a quite happy and highly useful life," continued the physician, "but you must live within certain limits. I can improve your present condition and indicate the limits, but you must discipline yourself; and above everything else, you must stay inside the limits which Nature has set for you."

This would seem to some people a sentence of death, but not to people of wisdom and courage. Helen Keller is an example of how much can be made of little. A very successful chaplain working at present in a hospital for the disabled was born without arms. He has trained his feet to do practically everything that other people do with their hands, and he apparently lives a full and happy existence. A radio commentator of long experience related recently the marvelous heroism of a blind man who saved three people from drowning. The commentator said that this was the most heroic act he had encountered in his 30 years of experience.

Everyone has a wall round about him. We all have to live within limits. Some of us live within health limits. Others have been disappointed and have had their loved ones taken away. Limits are real—often tragic—but the wise and brave live happy and meaningful lives within them.

Utilities 'Fairly Satisfied'

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower has not fulfilled completely his campaign pledge to check the Roosevelt-Truman trend toward public ownership and operation of a vast system of power dams, generating plants and transmission lines on the pattern of the Tennessee Valley Authority. But he has reversed a movement which would have made Uncle Sam the dominant figure in the utility industry.

The public versus private controversy in this field does not involve only the production, distribution and sale of light, heat and energy. As numerous courts have said in ruling against Federal expansion, if Washington can take over this industry partially or totally, it also can go into the business of manufacturing and retailing bread, shoes, clothing, television sets, automobiles and what-have-you.

Legally, there is nothing so sacrosanct about power (generated electricity) that sets it apart from equally essential articles of everyday living. Once the government gains a monopoly of power, water, steam or atomic, there is no valid reason why it cannot engage in any other kind of production. So the courts and Congress have held, with only a few dissents.

POLITICS MOTIVATE DECISION—President Eisenhower departed from his pledged program of fostering private enterprise when he threw his influence behind Governor Thomas E. Dewey's demand that construction of the Niagara Falls power project be entrusted to the New York Power Authority. Politics rather than conservative economics motivated this decision.

The project, which is the greatest of its kind east of the Great Divide, would be under way now if it had not been for Dewey's intervention. By an overwhelming vote, with only one New York Republican member siding with the Governor, the House passed the bill authorizing construction—and operation by four private companies.

POPULAR ISSUE—Senator Robert H. Lehman and Representative Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., the latter with his mind on succeeding Dewey at Albany,

A Good Record Needs Guarding

Pitt County's highway safety record so far this year shows promise that the county may be able to get by 1954 with one of the best highway safety records it has had in a number of years.

So far this year, highway accidents have claimed only two lives in Pitt County. By comparison with neighboring Lenoir County which has already registered nine fatalities, and Robeson which has had 22 people slain on its highways, Pitt's record for 1954 looks good.

It is too early to rest on safety laurels, however. There are some bad driving months ahead in Pitt County before the end of the year. The busy fall season in the county is gradually getting underway, and that always means more miles driven by motor vehicles in the county. As the summer season draws to a close, there'll still be a good many vacationers on the highways.

It is evident by the safety record of Pitt so far this year that local drivers have been more safety conscious in 1954 than in any other previous year. If the good record is to be maintained throughout the remainder of the year, it is imperative that motorists continue their vigil while on the highways to prevent accidents.

If Pitt County can continue through the remaining four months of 1954 with a safety record equal to that already started, it will indeed be a feather in the cap of the county.

If you were a married man with two dependents in 1939 and earned $77 a week, you will be making $173 a week today to be just as well off. That's why the Eisenhower Administration is battling so hard to cut down Federal spending. . . ."

Somebody Told Me

Celebrity Met On Ham Radio

At last I have talked to a celebrity on amateur radio. Last Saturday afternoon from Atlantic Beach, about 100 yards from the surf, I was operating with a temporary antenna. But results were fairly good.

The general call for anybody to answer is "C.Q." After this particular "C.Q." two stations came back at the same time, right on top of each other. Naturally I couldn't hear either one too well. The only thing I did hear was that one gave his location as Virginia Beach.

So I asked the Virginia Beach station to give me another call. The other one then realized he wasn't being heard and laid off. The second time, W2-CKD came back. From his call letters, the W2, I immediately knew he was from the New York area but operating from Virginia Beach.

In the process of the conversation he casually mentioned that he is a musician and will be playing at Virginia Beach until Wednesday. Then he told me that his name is Tex. All of the time the voice sounded familiar, but I hadn't placed it as the Chattanooga Choo Choo voice of Tex Benke, the famous orchestra leader.

It so happened that I already knew Tex was a ham. Several times I have talked to the Baptist preacher in Apex, Ross Credle, and in one particular contact he told me about Tex. When Tex plays big dances within range he stays in Apex with Ross. They became acquainted through ham radio and their friendship has grown with the visits of Tex.

Tex seemed to enjoy the fact that I did put two and two together and tell him that he must be Tex Benke. He would have never told me; after all, one of the purposes of ham radio is to get away from the grind of business. Do many people recognize him on the air? "Quite a few," Tex says, "and I naturally enjoy it."

We discussed the trend in popular music, which is of course toward slow numbers and away from the jumping. We discussed the movie, "The Glen Miller Story," which Tex regrets that he hasn't had the opportunity to see as yet.

And, quite naturally, we discussed our ham radio equipment. It's possible that I've talked to celebrities before without realizing it. We only deal in first names and quite often do not discuss occupations. Either Amos or Andy, Freeman Gosden or Charles Correll, is a ham. Right now I can't remember which.

Frankly, I'm glad it was the Virginia Beach station I was able to hear.

And I thank you.

ADVICE TO OUR NEGRO FRIENDS
(Rocky Mount Telegram)

This newspaper has never hesitated to champion the legitimate causes of the Negro race. We regard ourselves as a friend of the Negro and we confidently believe that fair-minded Negroes will attest that we have been their friend. It is in the spirit of friendship that we voice grave misgivings over the current agitation of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. In trying to force immediate compliance with the Supreme Court's ruling against segregation in the public schools, the NAACP is guilty of muddying the waters at the very time when coolness and calmness are needed most. If we are to proceed sanely and with clear vision to chart and follow the best course for both races, there must be a sensible environment for adjustment.

We refer specifically to a recent statement by Kelly Alexander of Charlotte, the head of the North Carolina NAACP organization, that his group plans to circulate petitions asking immediate action toward desegregation of public schools in the state.

"This is our move. This is our effort to cooperate with the school boards on the local level," he said. In the Supreme Court ruling, the Negro race has won a great victory. The very statement of constitutional principles by the Court in favor of equal Negro citizenship rights is bound to work steadily for the advancement of the Negro in America. However, it is perfectly plain, even as the Court recognized in its decision, that the practical implementation of these principles cannot be achieved overnight.

In its great hour of victory, the Negro race would do well to adopt a conciliatory attitude. If ill-advised Negro leaders press too far too fast on this matter they are certain to generate such a storm of opposition and even hatred as they have not known within their lifetime. They are apt to defeat the very goal they seek by unwise and precipitate action.

This is no time for Negroes either in or outside the NAACP to "rock the boat." This is no time for Negro extremists to place themselves at the other end of the pole from such extremists as Governor Talmadge of Georgia. This is no time for racial extremists of either race to stir up trouble.

Responsible Negro leaders have been wisely selected and included on the Governor's Advisory Committee on segregation which is now considering the best course of action. We believe the state's Negroes would do their race a favor just now to let well enough alone, to let their representatives on the Governor's Committee represent them and to let time work, as it will, for their cause. This is our advice, for whatever it may be worth, to our Negro friends.

Hodges Most Active, Likely Candidate For Governor

By LYNN NISBET

LEADERSHIP — Luther Hodges, incumbent lieutenant Governor, is generally conceded to be the presently most active and likely candidate for Governor in 1956. He is getting around over the State primarily for the purpose of interviewing prospective members of the 1955 State Senate to help him in selection of Senate committees. He is also doing a good job of selling himself to the people as a good prospect for Governor.

He is quoted as telling the organized firemen at a recent Durham convention that: "We can be safe in the future if we demand good leadership." The inference is clear that he thinks he offers that desired good leadership for the next six years.

Changes are nobody will dispute the claim, although several others might insist they offer better or best leadership for that six year period, especially for four years beginning in January, 1957.

FOLLOWERSHIP — In that connection is recalled the wisecrack by a member of the General Assembly of 1931, the longest continuous legislative session in State history, in which many of the main issues were very similar to those confronting the 1955 session. This member protested the charge that there was any lack of leadership. "What is needed is sensible followership," he said. "The trouble is there are upwards of a 170 leaders in the Legislature, and no followers.

The other members just don't have sense enough to follow my lead."

That observation raises the point of what constitutes genuine leadership—or rather, the reason for recognition of any individual as an accepted leader. North Carolinians traditionally object to and repudiate self-appointed political bosses, although they take pride in following capable leaders.

BOSSSES — There have been many men and a few women within the past half century who were recognized as efficient leaders of certain groups of factions. There have been only two men accorded the unofficial title of "boss" of the dominant element in State politics, whose approval was more or less necessary before any major candidate could hope to be elected. They were Furnifold M. Simmons and O. Max Gardner. The Simmons' dominance ran from approximately 1910 to 1930, the Gardner influence from 1932 to 1944.

Actually neither Simmons nor Gardner was a "boss" in the usually accepted meaning of the word. Both men had an uncanny instinct for determining what the people were going to do and then saying—not shouting but in mild tones—"Come on, let's do it this way." The people did it that way, not because the bosses told 'em to, but because they were going to do it anyhow—and the "leaders" got major credit (or blame) for results, although in actual fact, they didn't lead anybody anywhere.

There have been other instances in which individuals appointed themselves as leaders of groups or factions, and sometimes with keen perception of popular intent, but without sufficient consultation with lesser "leaders" have claimed personal credit for election victories.

Luther Hodges is following the example of Simmons and Gardner. He came into the political picture at a later age than either of the other two, but when he did come in he came in the same manner. His purpose is to find out what the people want and where they want to go and then to join them in the march toward the common goal. His place near the front of the column is justified and maintained because of his ability to interpret the common will, which is the essence of democracy.

CONTRAST — The main point is that in order for any man to qualify as a leader he must have followers, and that in democratic process followers cannot be ordered into line. The point is further illustrated by the experience of several men some years ago at the level of a township voting precinct.

The small group agreed that a new township should be formed. Four or five youngsters in the group, acting upon the majority opinion, immediately started a petition for the new township. One or two oldsters advised that was not the proper way to do it. The youngsters insisted on their

Business Today

New Office Workers

By ELMER ROESSNER
Almost every week a new labor-saving office machine appears. Recording devices reduce the need for stenographers. Copying machines eliminate typing jobs. Punch-card systems cut the number of filing clerks needed. Electronic wonders do the work of accountants and bookkeepers. And almost every week, the shortage of good office workers gets worse in most labor markets throughout the country.

Earlier this year, when unemployment totals were passing the 3,000,000 mark, good office workers were scarcer than ever. On there are people around. Some of them can even spell.

However, a cracker-jack stenographer or a truly competent secretary without a job is a rarity indeed. One reason is that business has expanded so much. The Department of Labor reported recently that in April, this year, almost 8,000,000 men and women were employed in clerical work—an increase of 64 per cent over 1940.

But there is a still greater reason for the shortage. The other day a toy manufacturer was tearing his hair because he couldn't find competent stenographers to keep pace with his expanding business.

It hadn't occurred to him that his business was expanding because so many girls who might have been taking letters were having babies.

The number of marriages is declining. The 1953 rate of 97 marriages per 10,000 population was the lowest since 1933.

It isn't weddings that remove young women from the labor market. A marriage can often make a girl a candidate for a job, at least for the first few critical financial years.

But there's nothing like a baby to take a young woman out of the labor market. And the birth rate is not bogging. The births last year were around 4,000,000. There's been a notable increase in second and third children, too, which will keep a lot of mothers from returning to jobs, perhaps for years and years.

So until the birth rate falls, or business ceases to expand, there will be continuing shortages of good office workers.

At least until the late 1960s. But that time, the first bumper postwar baby crop will be reaching ages at which they can type, add and make potbooks. Half of them, you know, are girls. MORE INSURANCE BENEFITS. PAID AS INCOME NOW. . . . There has been a steady rising trend toward life insurance benefits in income plans. The Life Insurance Institute estimates that this year almost $750,000,000 in benefits will be paid out in monthly or other regular income payments. That is more than $200,000,000 above the 1945 total.

This trend tends to benefit merchants and service trades. Lump sum insurance benefits frequently go for paying off mortgages or for investments in stock, real estate, etc. But monthly payments are more likely to go for goods and services. Furthermore, beneficiaries are more likely to spend the full amount each month because there will be more the next month, whereas a lump sum may be hoarded in fear of future needs.

GOOD WHITE GOODS SALES. . . . EXPECTED THIS FALL. . . . Brisk sales of linens and domestics this fall were predicted by wholesalers at the trade show of the Allied Linens and Domestic Association in New York this week.

Retailers orders were said to range from "good to surprisingly heavy. About 20 per cent more dealers registered this year than last.

STEEL INDUSTRY. . . . PRETTY GOOD CUSTOMER. . . . Record production of steel last year resulted in some whopping consumption of other materials, the American Iron and Steel Institute points out.

In producing iron and steel, the industry used 137 million tons of iron ore, 191 million tons of coal, 40 million tons of limestone, and 582,000 tons of manganese.

LAY ON THE BONDS! The politicians will love the Northern Trust Co. of Chicago. —The bank's current newsletter observes that state and local borrowings now aggregate $35 billion. It also notes that this makes the per capita debt 54 per cent greater than it was in 1939. And it adds:

"Considering that prices have almost doubled and per capita incomes have tripled since 1939, and that the average interest cost on outstanding issues has declined, the real burden of debt is less now than 15 years ago."

Leaves Of A Touring Notebook

VALLEJO, Calif. (AP)—Leaves from a touring notebook:

Just as a mature woman wisely overhauls her charms from time to time, the U.S. Navy is engaged in the continuous task of facelifting its ammunition, too.

This is one of its jobs the public rarely hears about. But ammunition, like most things in this world, often becomes out-of-date or shows the wear-and-tear of age.

Here in the Mare Island shipyard, which next month celebrates its 100th anniversary of its founding by Adm. David G. Farragut, a great depot overhauls the ammunition of the long line of ships that come here to dry-dock. It is a strange kind of beauty parlor.

The depot, two-thirds of a square mile in area, has 187 buildings, 20 miles of railroad tracks and 25 miles of paved roads.

The work is highly skilled and potentially dangerous. A single static spark from a human body could cause a disastrous explosion. Some 8,000 tons of ammunition are stored in underground bunkers—enough to make a baby A-bomb blast.

To prevent the buildup of static electricity the technicians wear "leg irons that ground them at every step. Visitors check their matches and cigarette-lighters at the gate.

"In the last fiscal year the depot produced 5,130 tons of new ammunition and overhauled 22,622 tons of unserviceable ammunition," said Lt. Cmdr. William F. Gadsberry.

When ammunition deteriorates so far that it is too dangerous to be broken down and put to new uses, it is taken to sea and dumped.

Nice job—if you can get it, and enjoy ocean cruising. Bound to give a man something to worry about besides seasickness.

Few things give a man more of a feeling of the erosion of money than a change in the prices of haircuts and hotel rooms.

Somewhere in my youth I got the idea that a quarter was the proper price for a haircut, and that by an eternal law of nature hotel rooms would rent for $2 a night forever.

But today in some big American cities it costs $2-a-day-up to park your car in a dogleg. This week I got a haircut in San Francisco. The price was $1.50, and I don't have enough hair left to cause the barber to work up a sweat while mowing it. Actually, he could have done the job with a pair of fingernail clippers, except barbers like to put drama in their work.

"Down in Los Angeles they are talking of putting the price up to $2," he said. "Somehow that made me feel older than the loss of my first wisdom tooth—the thought that a 1954 haircut might rise to the price of a 1930 hotel room.

Whatever happened to the value of a quarter anyway? Will it soon merely be a collectors' item-like the buffalo nickel?"

You can still impress a bellhop with a two-bit tip, but the impression he gets is that you are a two-bit cheapskate.

A panhandler stopped me here the other day and asked me, "Brother, can you spare a quarter for a bowl of soup."

I gave him the quarter. He took it, fidgeted a moment, and said: "You know there's a penny tax, too?"

Four Solid Pieces of Legislation In Foundation Of GOP Economic Plans

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — With four solid chunks of legislation, Congress has put a foundation under the economic program that President Eisenhower stands for: one in which private industry not big government, is intended to create the jobs and payrolls.

The four were the tax, farm, housing and atomic bills. All were geared to the philosophy of whittling down Washington's role as the central fountainhead of economic supports and controls.

A fifth measure the broadening of social security, was evidence that the administration hopes to preserve and strengthen that program achieved under 20 years of Democratic rule.

There was a sixth item, which might be fully as significant as the others. It is something Congress didn't do.

It didn't rush to turn on the money pumps when the country's record-breaking prosperity began to ebb.

But, in the view of many economists, Congress left the government's operations still mildly inflationary. The spending program that Eisenhower proposed, and Congress largely approved, figures to outrun tax collections.

Some officials believe the federal deficit next June 30 will be closer to five billion dollars than the $2,900,000,000 officially forecast.

The economic philosophy developed by Congress and the administration held that government should remove needless controls, encourage business to expand and leave enough profit after taxes so that industry will build new plants, develop new processes and products and create new payrolls.

This was the kind of thinking behind the tax legislation, the decision to invite peacetime industry into atomic power, to ease rigid farm price supports and to give private enterprise the chief responsibility for providing a million or more new homes a year.

The Eisenhower program steered close enough to the middle of the road to win some Democratic support in many cases. But there were Democrats who criticized much of the program as being slanted in favor of big business.

By the time the session ended, the Democrats had laid up quite a lot of ammunition to shoot at Republican candidates in November. It may be effective if the GOP-anticipated upturn in business fails to materialize.

Democrats critical of the Eisenhower program argued that the way to boost production and employment is to strengthen consumer buying power.

They fought unsuccessfully for across-the-board tax relief in the lower income brackets. They also backed high rigid crop price supports.

In more detail, the major economic measures produced by the session were these:

TAX REVISION
The greatest achievement of the 83rd Congress, in administration eyes, is the massive tax revision bill.

In actual savings to businessmen and wage earners—a $1,363,000,000 reduction in the first year and more later—the law does not compare in impact with the five-billion dollar slash in income and corporate taxes Jan. 1.

But Eisenhower calls it the "keystone" of his program because of its potential stimulus to production and employment — by encouragement of investment, new plant construction and incentive to large industrial payrolls.

The law had many critics. There were contentions that it was loaded in favor of business and gave relatively little help to the average wage earner.

A Democratic amendment to increase personal income tax exemptions by $100 or $200—which would have excused millions from paying any tax at all—gained strong support for a time.

Denying that the act unduly favors business, administration officials insist the small taxpayer will reap many benefits. The law gives relief to families hit by heavy medical costs, working mothers who must pay for child care, retired persons living on pensions, parents whose children are helping to earn their college educations, and many smaller groups.

Stockholders are excused from all tax on the first $50 of dividends paid them. Four per cent of any additional dividend income may be deducted from the tax payment.

Officials expect this provision to induce greater investment in common stocks and provide more capital for industry.

THE HOUSING ACT
In the Housing Act of 1954, Eisenhower got a big bill which, some housing experts believe, may jog home builders into building 1,400,000 new homes in 1955. That would be the biggest year in history.

The law puts home ownership on a 5 per cent down and 30-years-to-pay basis. It thus reaches out to lower, but much broader, levels of buying power.

The act also will make it easier to sell used houses. The terms are 10 per cent down and 30 years to pay on modest dwellings, instead of 20 per cent and 20 years of payment. This feature is expected to encourage many growing families to sell their small homes and move into new and larger ones.

Government officials expect no housing miracles. They will be fairly happy if housing activity remains close to its present rate of about 1,100,000 homes a year. They would not be surprised, however, if the new law stimulates the industry to eclipse the 1950 record of 1,395,000 new homes started.

Their chief concern is that the program, which falls short of the complete package which Eisen-

Wall Street Wonders How Long It'll Keep Up

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street is beginning to ask how high a bull market can climb if business in general doesn't climb with it.

The bulls say it can go on climbing because (1) the future of business looks good for the long run; (2) Washington is in a mood to give business a break — to throw stumbling blocks in its way, to nudge it if it dawdles; and (3) many stocks have had little or no part in the 11-month climb and are moving into position now to carry on the gains, even should the blue chips take a rest.

But on Friday the 13th the New York Stock Exchange counted noses of the bears and found that the short interest was the lustiest since April 1932.

The short interest is the total of shares which have been sold short by bears. That is, those who think stock prices are going down and borrow shares to sell at the current price level with the idea that later they can buy shares at a lower price to replace the ones they've borrowed. If it turns out that way, they pocket the difference between the high price at which they sold and the lower price at which they bought. If they guess wrong, they have to pay more than the price at which they sold.

Bears currently have sold short a total of 3,079,590 shares. That doesn't make today's short interest as big percentage wise as the one in 1932, since there are a lot more corporate shares outstanding now. But the bears a larger part of the market now than a month ago, or for quite awhile back.

Bulls are still in the majority and in control. But bears are growing bolder. Part of their pessimistic view traces to the long rise of stock prices. To bears, stocks seem ripe now, by the law of averages, for a tumble.

Bulls have convincing arguments for their long-term optimism. But, without taking sides, let's look at the points the bears are making. Prices of many stocks have risen while the earnings of the companies involved haven't at all or at best by a much smaller percentage. In other words, these words, these stocks aren't as big a buy now as a year ago.

Dividend payments have tended higher this year, but their advance is far smaller than the climb in the price of stocks. In other words the yield has dropped — you get a lower percentage of return now on the amount of money you must pay for the stocks that have gained greatly in price.

Earnings prospects, in general, aren't as brilliant now as in former years despite the healthy tone of the economy. Tax cuts help, but from now on — the bears argue — the chances of sales totals climbing are, at the best, doubtful because of the growing competition in most industries. And even when sales are pushed higher, in many cases profit margins are narrowing. Again, it's competition that squeezes margins, because prices must be held down although operating costs tend always to rise.

In the absence of the president Mrs. Leslie Humbles presided and at the business session plans were made for serving the dinner on the church grounds on 2nd-Sunday in September which is Home Coming Day. Samples of Christmas cards were shown and orders were placed with Mrs. Bernice Causey for them.

The meeting was dismissed with a benediction and during the fellowship hour the hostess served delicious sandwiches, cookies and iced drinks. There were 15 present.

The Youth For Christ meeting was well attended at the community building on Saturday evening and after a musical program much interest was shown in the study on the book of John which was in the form of a contest and closed Saturday evening August 21. Shirley Garris was leader of one group and Crudy Bradley the other. Walter Sutton Jr. brought the message. Everyone is invited to these Youth For Christ meetings.

Milwaukee Has Eight Days To Get Back Into Flag Race

By BEN PHEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Milwaukee Braves have eight days left to get back into the National League pennant fight. After that it will be too late. The big tests start tonight when Philadelphia moves into County Stadium in Milwaukee for the first of three games. Then comes New York for two games and Brooklyn for four.

A sweep would make the Braves dangerous contenders. A misstep anywhere along the path could be the end.

Last week should be edged in black on Milwaukee calendars. Only seven days ago the Braves were a mere 3½ games out of the lead and owned a nine-game winning streak. Then came four losses in six games and now they're 7½ behind.

Although faced with a real battle to stay in first division, the Phillies have had a lot to say already about the positions of the first two teams in the pennant race. In the last week, for example, they personally added three games to the Giants' edge over Brooklyn by beating the Dodgers three games and losing three to the Giants.

Milwaukee holds a 9-8 edge over New York and a 10-6 bulge over the Dodgers so far. But against the Phillies the Braves only have been able to break even at 8-8.

The Giants and Dodgers both open 10-game swings through the West today. The Giants stop off first in Chicago. Brooklyn begins in Cincinnati. As soon as the two clubs come home they collide in a three-game series at the Polo Grounds, Sept. 3-5.

The forthcoming week in the American League includes an extended tour of the Eastern seaboard by the fast-moving Cleveland Indians, prior to their final three-game visit to New York.

The Yankees, meanwhile, will be nursing their wounds at home with two games against Baltimore, three against Detroit and a single date with Chicago.

Yesterday the Washington Senators whipped Philadelphia twice, 8-5 and 10-3. Eddie Yost and Jim Busby combined to drive in six runs in the double-header. Chuck Stobbs stayed all the way in the first game for his eighth victory. Gus Keriazakos pitched his first complete game in the majors in the nightcap.

Cincinnati's game in Milwaukee was rained out.

Stengel Says It's Up To Him, Now

NEW YORK (AP)—His team 5½ lengths off the phenomenal 5½ pace of the Cleveland Indians, Casey Stengel today put himself on the spot with an "It's up to me" declaration as his New York Yankees opened a vital nine-game home stand.

"This is where the manager comes in," said Casey. "It's up to me to get them out of this streak."

The "streak" Casey referred to was the loss of three games in Boston last weekend, a body blow, most observers believe, to the club's chances of winning their sixth straight American League flag.

But Stengel sees the Yankees' plight as far from hopeless.

"Don't forget we still have five more games left with Cleveland," he observed. "The Yankees will get on their feet again and make a comeback."

The two top contenders are scheduled to get together in Yankee Stadium in a three-game set, Aug. 21-Sept. 2 and then wind up their season's series with a doubleheader in Cleveland on Sept. 12.

Although disappointed over his team's showing against the red-hot Red Sox, Stengel said it wasn't the lack of hustle that caused the Yankees' demise.

"I never saw a team try so hard as this one did in Boston. These guys have been putting out all season. When you lose two men like Slaughter and Woodling because they ran into walls chasing flies, you know the effort is there."

Stengel's morale received a much needed boost late yesterday when he learned that Woodling probably would return to action in two weeks. When he hurt his wrist at Fenway Park on Saturday, it was feared Gene would be lost for the rest of the campaign.

Three more of Casey's invalids will be available for tonight's game against Baltimore.

Jim McDonald has recovered from a groin injury, Hank Bauer from a pelvis ailment and Allie Reynolds' "hot knee" is sound again.

"No, we're not helpless yet," Casey emphasizes, as he huddled with himself over tonight's batting order.

Personal Stake In The Dancer's End

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK (AP)—Millions of persons who never saw a race course first hand in their lives experienced a feeling of personal loss at the news from Saratoga that the great grey horse Native Dancer had run his last race because of a recurring sore foot and would be retired to the stud next spring.

Those same millions who were privileged to watch the first television hero of the equine world compile his string of 21 victories in 22 starts also will feel they have a personal stake when the first of the Dancer's sons and daughters try to emulate their famous sire in the spring of 1958.

Never before has an animal so captured the imagination of the public at large.

But the comparative few who were privileged to watch the immortal Man o'War rack up his 20 of 21 more than 30 years ago will never agree that the darling of TV could have outsteered their horse under a load of weight. No one will ever know for certain how the two would have come out in a match race. But there are at least some interesting figures to play around with now.

Man o'War in his day set three American time records. The Dancer didn't set even one, yet this doesn't necessarily prove anything. The fact is a comparison of the best times set by the two horses, at the nine distances they both ran shows Native Dancer would have beaten Big Red 6 to 3. Man o'War would have scored the most decisive victory of the series, by a matter of 3.4 seconds at a mile and a quarter.

The Man o'War diehards will say today's tracks are faster, and many of them undoubtedly are, especially several on the West Coast. But it happens that each horse set most of his fastest times on the same tracks, at Saratoga and Belmont, which still have the same footing and contours they had in Man o'War's day.

Where Man o'War proved himself a wondrous weight carrier in winning one big handicap under 138 pounds, the Dancer packed 137 as he ran away from a poor field in his final race last week at Saratoga. It would be fatuous to suggest the Grey Ghost couldn't have packed another pound on that occasion. And the Dancer proved he could win in any sort of going, including muddy, where we have always understood that Man o'War was kept off any track that was labeled worse than "slow."

Farmville Ties Series At Two Up

Farmville swept a week-end doubleheader from Bunn to tie the semi-final round of the Central Carolina League at two wins each in the best three-of-five series.

Farmville won 9-4 in Farmville on Saturday night and won 8-6 in Bunn on Sunday. The deciding game will be played in Farmville at 8:15 on Friday night.

Farmville's Bell pitched the distance in recording the win over Bunn on Saturday. He was spanked for nine hits but he had enough batting support behind him to last the distance.

Catcher Al Denison led the hitting in the first game with three-for-five for Farmville. Tom Green had 2-for-3 for Bunn.

In the Sunday game both teams put on their hitting shoes but Farmville slugged the best. Fourteen hits kept the Bunn pitcher constantly in trouble.

Brantley went all the way for Farmville allowing five hits over the distance. Russell Frasier got three of those five hits for Bunn. Denison once again led Farmville with 2 for 4.

Score by innings:
Bunn 100 010 200-4 9 1
Farmville 101 204 018-8 14 1
Gay and Reges; Bell and Denison.
Farmville 100 010 228-8 14 1
Bunn 000 100 203-6 5 1
Brantley and Tugwell; Stell and Reges.

Amateur Golf Play Remains A Scramble

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
DETROIT (AP)—Amateur golf still is a game for scramblers—in spite of the efforts of the pros to teach "scientific" play and of the U.S. Golf A.S.n. to find a championship course that will penalize every mistake.

It was 1950 amateur champion Sammy Ursetta who voiced that opinion, just after being eliminated in the first round of the 1954 Amateur Championship at the Country Club of Detroit. And the results of yesterday's other first-round encounters supported his opinion.

Sammy definitely had been out-scrambled, losing on the 19th hole to Tim Holland, the tall young toy manufacturer from Rockville Centre, N. Y. And he was feeling pretty bad about it.

"I really wanted to make a good showing here because I want to make one more Walker Cup team," he said.

"And I was playing real good golf; I think the best since Minneapolis. (That's where he won the Amateur four years ago). It just shows you still can scramble and win."

Ursetta was just one of the four ex-champions who failed to get through the first round. The only one of five entered who still was around for the second round today was Willie Turnesa (1938 and 1948). He drew a bye and didn't have to play.

Also on the sidelines were thimbleman Charlie Coe, the 1940 winner; Ted Bishop (1946) and Chick Evans (1916 and 1920), along with such other prominent players as Frank Strafaci; intercollegiate champion Hillman Robbins; Ray Palmer, a quarter-finalist last year; and Fred Kammer, one of the Detroit favorites.

But the favorites got about an even break in the 73 first-round matches. Numbered among the winners were wisecracking Billy Joe Patton, the gallery favorite who won out on the 19th; Dale Morey last year's runner-up; Harvie Ward, winner of the Canadian Amateur last week; Arnold Palmer; Don Cherry; and Hobart Manley.

New Star Rises In Boxing Ranks

NEW YORK (AP)—"Fighting is fun," says Wildcat Billy McNeese, a 22-year-old former paratrooper who may make a lot of money doing what comes naturally.

The big reddish-blond middleweight from Central Islip, N.Y., added to his prestige with a decisive 10-round triumph over seasoned Garth Panter of Salt Lake City in a lively scrap at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena last night.

McNeese, a 1-2 favorite, outweighted Panter, 165½ to 161.

One good win deserves another so today matchmaker Teddy Brenner and Manager Irving Cohen began negotiating with France's Pierre Langlois for an Oct. 11 date with Wildcat Billy at the Parkway Oct. 11. If they can't get Pierre, the two hope to corral either Joey Giardello or Rocky Castellani.

McNeese, whose record now is 11-2, won't be able to go before Oct. 11 because of cuts over both eyes requiring 10 stitches. The cuts were inflicted early in the bout with Panter but it didn't bother the bullish youngster a bit.

In the other television bout of the night, at St. Nicholas Arena, Chico Varona, sixth-ranking welterweight contender from Cuba, won a split 10-round decision over 35-year-old Frankie Fernandez of Honolulu.

Phantoms Have Big Number Out Now

Greenville's Phantoms reported 24 players for practice yesterday afternoon as the team is beginning to look like a team again. The faithful fourteen and 10 new players came out for yesterday's drills.

Coach Bill Kirtrell worked his squad in a sort of secret practice yesterday. The Phantom coach explained he did not want any news of what was cooking to leak out to people from rival schools.

Coach Kirtrell worked the team in an hour and a half drill yesterday morning and gave them an hour of practice yesterday afternoon. Much of the time was spent on extra points, kick-offs, and punts. Pat Sawyer and Jerry Drum are handling the punting chores this year.

Guard Edwin Wilkerson reported for practice yesterday in street clothes and watched the goings-on. Wilkerson has not received any report from the x-ray of his hip as of yet but is scheduled to hear something today. Wilkerson is a sophomore who figured heavily into Coach Kirtrell's plans for the year.

The team will continue to hold twice a day drills until school starts. The first game is in Wilson on September 3.

ARROW FISHING LEGAL
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Spawning, gassing, clubbing or shooting fish is illegal in Arizona. It is legal to use bow and arrow or spear to take such rough fish as carp, buffalo and suckers. If you take a bow and arrow, however, it is unlawful to use any other type of fishing equipment.

When Jack Dillon, Indianapolis pugilist, fought Frank Moran in Brooklyn 40 years ago, Dillon kept his $40,000 cash guarantee in his empty water pail during the fight.

Trabert Stale In Winning Tourney's Second Round

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP)—Tony Trabert, absent from singles competition for three weeks, is going to have to give his game considerable polishing before he defends his national tennis title starting Saturday at Forest Hills.

Trabert, who teamed with Vic Seixas to win the National Doubles crown Sunday, had trouble reaching the second round of the Nassau Bowl Invitation Tournament yesterday.

He managed to beat Tim Coss of Washington, eastern intercollegiate champion from Swarthmore, 6-1, 10-8, but he appeared stale and unsteady throughout the match. Trabert, however, showed no signs of the blisters, which kept him out of recent tournaments.

His opponent today was Sam Giammalva of Houston, who eliminated Roger Becker of England 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, in the first round yesterday.

The only upset on the opening day was the defeat of 17-year-old Ashley Cooper, one of Australia's new stars, by William Cranston of San Marino, Calif. Cranston, a southpaw Yale junior, won 6-4, 6-1.

Four first-round matches were on today's schedule before the select field started reducing to the eight quarter-finalists.

Top second-round matches sent third-seeded Bob Perry of Los Angeles against Herb Browne Jr. of Columbia, S.C., and Herb Flam, fourth seed from Los Angeles, against Chauncey Steele Jr. of Cambridge, Mass. Perry defeated Flam 6-0, 7-5 in the finals of the Germantown Cricket Club tournament at Philadelphia yesterday.

Greensboro Men Go To Regionals

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Greensboro's Western Auto won the North Carolina Men's softball championship here last night with a 3-0 victory over Carlex Mills of Salisbury.

Wade Garrett pitched a one-hitter for the victors.

Greensboro will play in the Southern Regional Tournament beginning Aug. 30 at Canton.

The team emerged from the tourney unbeaten due largely to Garrett's pitching. He was named the tourney's top pitcher by an awards committee and R. T. Wineford was voted the most valuable player.

Miss Elinor Stout, shortstop for the High Point team, was voted the most valuable player in the Class A division, and Miss Cleo Kelly, Johnson-Lambe second baseman, won the honor in the Class AA.

The second Class AA game went only 3½ innings before Worthville threw in the towel in the face of the overwhelming score.

Raleigh Women Capture Crown

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP)—Johnson-Lambe of Raleigh won the Class AA State Women's Softball Tourney here last night beating Worthville 5-3 and 17-1.

Cullowhee's Erwin Mills took the Class A crown on a win over Triangle Hosery of High Point 3-2 after dropping the first of a doubleheader 4-3.

Player Scored Double Eagle

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—Drayton Ford, long hitting Charleston golfer, carded the first double eagle ever scored on the Charleston Country Club course.

He holed out his second shot on the 504-yard, par 5 ninth hole. Then six holes later, he smashed an eagle two when a four iron second shot rolled straight into the cup.

Bus Driver Fed Up; Walked Off

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The bus was plainly marked "North Meridian Express," but passengers kept busing to get off at near North Side stops.

Each time the driver sighed and stopped, explaining patiently, "This is an express bus."

At 26th Street, he stopped, turned to the passengers and announced, "I guess this is as good a time as any to quit." He picked up his coin changer and walked off the bus, leaving the astounded passengers to change to later buses.

Indianapolis Transit System said the driver quit because he was "fed up." His name wasn't announced.

W. C. Cobb and Thelma M. Williams, Negro, were found not guilty of disorderly conduct.

Ben Foreman, Negro, assault on a female, 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $3 to Virginia Randolph, Negro, and pay $15 court costs. The judgment also provides that he is not to molest or harm Virginia Randolph.

Little One That Almost Got Away

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Virgil Bramer Jr. is the little one that almost got away.

His father was going fishing. The 4-year-old boy insisted he was going too. The father insisted he wasn't, and drove away.

Little Virgil followed.

Two hours later, the anxious parents called police. The boy was there, waiting to be claimed.

Annie Lee Moss Again Denies Any Communist Ties

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Annie Lee Moss, again denying Communist ties, has asked the Army to produce her accusers at a security screening board hearing.

"I am not a Communist, have never been a Communist and have no communist leanings or sympathies," the Negro woman said in a notarized reply yesterday to the latest charges against her.

The Army suspended Mrs. Moss for a second time Aug. 4 from a job with the Army Signal Corps. It said it acted "on the basis of information which was not previously available."

Mrs. Moss was temporarily suspended last spring from her $3,335-a-year position after Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) brought up her name at an investigation of alleged Communists in the Army.

She denied before McCarthy's Senate Investigations subcommittee that she was the Annie Lee Moss an FBI undercover worker had testified was known as a Communist. The undercover worker failed to identify Mrs. Moss by sight.

After reinstating her, the Army suspended her again on charges she was issued a Communist party membership book in 1943 and on other counts similar to those she previously denied.

In denying the Communist book charge, Mrs. Moss said in papers filed by her attorney:

"No time or place is given with regard to this alleged transaction, nor is there any suggestion as to the person with whom the transaction was made. . . . It is my earnest desire . . . that the author or authors of this information be produced in order that the error may be demonstrated and that I be given an opportunity to vindicate myself."

Touch Of Blue Grass In Atmosphere Of Circus

The blue grass has come to the big top, and in a big way, so now Kentucky's famous toast, "To Beautiful Women And Fast Horses", is paraphrased by the King Bros. Great Circus, coming to Greenville Friday August 27, opposite Smith Stadium under the auspices of Junior Chamber of Commerce, with a new toast, "To Lovely Girls and Handsome Horses", which is the most fitting to the striking attractiveness of their riders with the big show this season.

Strong Quake Is Felt In Nevada

RENO (AP)—Nevada suffered its second strong earthquake in two months late last night. No casualties were reported.

Damage appeared to center around Lovelock, 90 miles east of here, where a two-story office building showered bricks on the street.

Fallon, center of a July 6 quake, reported minor damage in its down town area.

The road to Stillwater, 16 miles east of Fallon, was reported so badly buckled that it was impassable. Stillwater residents reported they were badly shaken.

The University of California assistant seismologist, W. C. Marion, said the shock had a Richter magnitude of "about 6"—almost as strong as the July 6 Fallon quake—and was centered "about 250 miles northeast of Berkeley, Calif." That would put it about 30 miles north of Reno on the Nevada side of the lofty Sierra Nevada Range.

The time was 10:52:14 p.m., PDT.

The quake was felt eastward to Salt Lake City, westward to the San Francisco Bay area and north to Boise, Idaho.

San Diego also reported a rolling, which lasted there almost half an hour.

Lovelock Police Officer Gordon

Richardson said buildings in the downtown section were cracked and the Lovelock Mercantile Building suffered such severe damage it will probably have to be torn down.

British Provisos Meet Objection

MANILA (AP)—The Philippines objects to British-sponsored amendments to the treaty for a collective security pact in Southeast Asia, a Foreign Office official said today.

The British suggestions were received over the weekend from Washington. Representatives of the eight nations to participate in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization conference here Sept. 6 are trying to iron out a draft charter in the U.S. capital.

The official said the latest draft, incorporating the British proposals, does not envisage as elaborate a defense organization as the Philippines and Thailand would like. It would provide only for "mutual consultation" in case of aggression, he said.

There's a reason of course, and it is a reason aside from the showmanship of the management that most everybody loves a horse and that pretty womanhood is the greatest single drawing card a major circus can feature.

Amelia Porter, one of the twenty expert horsewomen, is shown here with "William The 3rd.", a high-jumper one of the scores of blooded steeds in the performances this season. Miss Porter is beautiful to look upon and she is daring.

She was taught to ride while on her father's ranch in Canada when only seven years of age. Her mentor was Jim Belasco, a trainer of pedigreed saddle horses, formerly from Louisville, Ky., and Amelia in time, became one of his best pupils. And later,—one of the top-line names of the Eastern horse shows and in spangieland.

When the big street parade winds its way through the downtown streets "how day morning, many of these pretty girls and their handsome mounts will be seen in the spectacular procession.

The performances, starting at 2 and 8 P.M. open with a gorgeously produced procession pageant in which great masses of people and animals take part.

Penn swerved her speeding car sufficiently to avoid striking the crouched figure that had loomed suddenly on the highway. She slammed on her brakes to be confronted by a very angry young man who had stopped by the roadside near Washington, D.C., to tinker with the jalopy which had died on his hands. She learned that he is Marsh Nichols, was-was, and resident of the area. Penn offers to drive him to his home, identifying herself as Penn Houk, niece of Senator Elihu Storey. He rejects her offer scornfully, adding that he wants no part of the Storey clan.

CHAPTER TWO

IT HAD been a summer of trying heat, and the fall was not much better. Maude Storey anointed a sunburned streak on the back of her neck. They had cut her hair too short there, and four hours on the golf course had seared that unprotected width of skin below her touched-up curls and turned her freckled arms darker. She pushed up her hair. Showing dark at the roots again. Some gray hairs visible in front of the ears. She smacked at it resentfully with the brush, hating to be reminded that she had not always been a blonde.

The big house was warm and still. The five other bedrooms in the upper hall were empty, three of them wearing that impersonal airless look of rooms seldom used. The two west rooms, however, made up for the lonely look of the others by their gay disorder.

In her pale green chamber, Quincy had left a flowered sun-frock lying where it fell between the ruffled organly bed flounces and the tufted-satin chaise longue. The dressing table was a confusion of powder boxes, gold-backed brushes, a red belt and a half-dozen letters, some sprawling out of the envelopes.

Maude paused at the door of Quincy's room and sighed. At least Quincy was a cheerful person to have around, even if she couldn't seem to remember that they had only one maid now.

The other room was different in its disorder. This belonged to Penn, twin sister of Quincy. The twins were Maude's orphaned nieces, identical in looks but as different in temperament as two people could be. Penn's bed was neat. But every chair and table in the room was piled with books and magazines, and the only personal note was a framed picture of the girl's mother, Estral on the dresser. Maude straightened it mechanically, letting herself remember Estral, the feather-brained, bright-eyed wife of her older brother, Wendell Houk.

A malignant blood malady had ended Estral's life when her dark, handsome daughters were 12 years of age.

Elihu, Maude remembered happily, had been very gracious about taking the Houk twins into their household, which was fortunate, since their father had been blown to bits in the tragedy of the Coral sea shortly after his wife's death. The girls had made life pleasant in the big house, and now that all the Storey sons were married and gone Maude knew that the place would be intolerably lonely for her with no young things around. She flipped a wall switch and set an attic fan to purring, and a thin breeze drifted in, stirring the curtains. Maryland heat was tiresome in September but she always reminded herself of the exhausting summers in the midwestern state. Elihu Storey represented in the Senate.

The Storey sons came home now and then. Gregg, the eldest, and his mother's idol, was the father of two young sons.

Maude had not been too well pleased by any of her sons' marriages. Gregg's wife she detested, and Kelly, whom her second son, Rutherford, had married, had appeared at first to be impossible. Now she liked Kelly a little better. There was something forthright and refreshing about the girl. Kelly's name was Pearl, but she had been called by her surnames all her life.

Rutherford had the job of directing a little theater group. Maude remembered that she had promised to go and see a play he was putting on in some barn over in Alexandria. She gave her hair another poke to hide the gray and went resignedly to the upstairs telephone.

It would have to be Winifred again. Winifred was Gill's wife married to the younger Storey son. Gill had stayed on in the Navy after the war and now had a desk job at the Navy building.

She approved of Winifred with reservations. A fluff of a thing with no brains and little character, she was an amiable person and Maude depended upon her for small favors.

She dialed the number and waited. Winifred would surely be at home this hot afternoon, loitering around the little apartment in Chevy Chase in something diaphanous and exciting. There was an answer presently slightly fretful.

"Darling, I'm sorry—I know I disturbed your nap. I promised to go to Rutherford's show across the river and I know, dad will never let me take the car out at night."

Winifred's huckle was audible, though soft.

"Maude, you know you're a dreadful driver, especially after dark." Winifred had the casual charm of manner that enabled her to deal out little jabs in the Storey family with the same finesse of a slightly immature angel. "Won't that show of Rufe's be strictly from horror. He always picks such grisly things to stage."

"Winnie, I promised," Maude insisted. "Rutherford's so sensitive. He's always getting hurt and turning the most usual things into personal slights and, of course, Kelly gives him no encouragement whatever."

"Oh, Kelly! She wouldn't." Winifred gave Kelly Storey only a grudging respect. True, Kelly had got herself a good job and bought clothes that made her sisters-in-law sizzle, thinking how much better they would look in them while Kelly looked only nice and healthy.

"Maude, you know I'm happy to do anything for you," she cooed on "even sitting through an amateur show."

"Winnie, you're sweet." Maude decided to wear her white silk sport dress. It showed off her sun tan and was kind to her hair.

She was giving the gray wisps a last disciplining swipe when her husband came up the stairs and into the room.

"Hot!" grumbled Senator Elihu Storey, dropping a thin gray coat on a chair. "I've got to fly back home, confound it. Be hot out there, too."

"Well, don't ask me to go." Maude draped a courteous scarf over her sunburn and studied the effect.

"Wouldn't hurt you. Your mother might be glad to see you." "I invited them here. They wouldn't come."

"Claudia's going with me. There's a hearing out there and I'll need her."

"Claudia has certainly lifted herself above her background—with your help, Elihu."

"Well, we've come a little way from our backgrounds, too. Kids come in yet!"

"No, not yet. Quincy went to some affair over in Georgetown and Penn's at the Russian class she's mad about just now. If you're having dinner on the plane we'll just have sandwiches. Winifred's driving me over to Alexandria to see Rutherford's play."

"Throw some stuff in a bag for me, will you?" the senator said. "How long are you staying?" She opened a drawer, laying out shirts.

"Can't tell. Put in six changes. I thought I might take one of the kids along—their grandma would like to see them. But I guess they're all dated up."

"Definitely. I hardly see them any more myself." Maude dismissed that idea knowing that Penn and Quincy, 21 now, would be bored to extinction in that dull little town Elihu still called home. She thought of her mother's house, unchanged she was certain, though she had not seen it in four years. A brown wooden house with a narrow, screened porch, vines swarming over it. In the backyard a cistern pump under a lattice, a damson plum tree, the inevitable row of sunflowers.

She'd better go down and speak to George, she decided. Even more than she, George had put his mid-western background behind him. He was her younger brother, five years younger, and though he remembered casually that his parents still lived, he did not concern himself about anyone but himself.

Elihu had managed a fairly decent job for George in Washington. George could be Elihu's secretary and manager if only Elihu weren't so timid and inhibited about this nepotism business. Why shouldn't a successful man in the Congress give a hand up to his family connections? There was Gregg, too, clever and charming, who had come out of the Air Force a captain, and never quite found himself since Elihu had got Gregg into the patent office but Gregg had hated that routine stuff and given it up in a few months. He had tried the newspaper business, and now real estate, at which his mother suspected he wasn't doing too well, if you listen to his wife's complaining.

J. Fred Muggs Not A Gentlemanly Ape

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — J. Fred Muggs is no gentleman.

I hate to disillusion his television fans. But in the interests of honest journalism, I must report the facts:

That he smooched with his leading lady, then kicked her in the face; that he stole food from a reporter; that he scamped away during an interview. He even wears diapers.

arrived via air on the last leg of his around-the-world tour. He had a press conference, then retired to his room. He was still in his traveling clothes and wanted to change into something more comfortable.

I was ushered into a large private room where a table was set for Muggs and me. He was late arriving, so I talked to his travel-mate Mary Kelly, the pretty feature editor of Today.

"Yes, it was quite a trip," she said rather wearily. "Who would ever have thought that I'd go around the world in 30 days with J. Fred Muggs. That chimp made a chump out of me."

because Muggs attracted crowds everywhere. "He's really very nice," she said. "Lots of personality. I'm told that chimps that are trained to do circus tricks end up with no personality at all. Fred doesn't do tricks. Everything he does is natural. He's really very affectionate just like a child."

The doors opened and in came J. Fred Muggs, walking between his trainers. Muggs had already eaten lunch, but he sat down at the table and started stealing bites from my melon. Didn't even ask.

In between bites he hugged and kissed Miss Kelly, who appeared to be a dear friend. Then with a swoop, he jumped off his chair and skittered under a lot of tables to the other end of the room. His trainers dashed off in pursuit and brought him back.

"He's fine until you get a lot of people around," one of them explained. "Then he wants to show off."

Holding onto their arms he jumped up and down and managed to land a kick on the chin of Miss Kelly. She laughed a bit, saying he was an excitable dear.

After posing for more photos at the table, Muggs appeared bored by it all. It appeared that I wasn't going to get any quotes from him, beyond his disdain for congressmen. So I ade him goodby.

FORD IS FIRST IN SALES

- by thousands

National new-car registration figures* for the first six months of 1954 prove that Ford leads the industry in sales! In fact, ever since car production has been free of restrictions, more and more new-car buyers have been swinging over to Ford. That's because Ford offers more things for more people than any other car. In today's Ford, for example, you get the matchless benefits of owning the only car in the low-price field with a V-8 engine (the new Ford Y-block V-8) . . . the only car in Ford's field with the smooth ride of Ball-Joint Front Suspension . . . the only car in Ford's field with truly modern styling . . . the only car in Ford's field with such high resale value.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market sagged quietly today with most divisions depressed in the early afternoon.

Because of the moderate volume of business, no pressures developed in any area. The pace was around two million shares.

Losses in some instances went to between 1 and 2 points. However, most were small. Gainers were not spectacular by any means.

Aircrafts were buoyant yesterday, were neglected today and largely lower.

Steels slumped, and other major divisions losing ground included railroads, oils, coppers, chemicals, and utilities. Others were mixed to steady.

Montgomery Ward, up 5 points yesterday on proxy fight rumors, dropped away today around a point after opening of 3,000 shares off at 78 1/2.

Also lower were U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Boeing, Republic Aviation, American Telephone, Western Union, Kennecott Copper, Union Carbide, American Can, Celanese, General Mills, Atlantic Coast Line, Shell Oil, and Citic Service.

CHICAGO (AP)—(USDA)—Salable hogs 7,500; moderately active to slow; uneven; butchers 200-270 lb 15 to mostly 25 lower; butchers under 200 lb 25-50 lower; steers steady to fully 25 lower; instances off more; bulk choice 190-270 lb butchers 20.50-22.50; heavier butchers scarce; choice hogs 330-400 lb 18.50-20.00; lighter weights 20.25-21.50; larger lots 425-600 lb 16.25-18.50.

Brooks was selected for the all-expense paid trip for having the best wildlife record in the county. Hendrix, who attended last year, won a return trip this year by writing the best account of his experience at the camp last year.

The two 4-H boys will study, along with 75 other North Carolina boys and girls, such subjects as: Wildlife conservation, nature study, forestry, marksmanship on the rifle range, and use of the fly rod and reel, according to Goodman.

City Obtains New Leaf Collector

The City of Greenville received its new leaf collector which will be in operation when the leaves begin to fall this year.

The $4,130 collecting machine arrived yesterday from the Good Roads Machinery Corporation of Minerva, Ohio.

When it begins operating it will suck the leaves into it such as a vacuum cleaner sucks dirt into it. City Manager James S. Hughes said all people will have to do is rake the leaves to the edge of the street where it comes along and gets them.

Hughes reported the machine will do the work it took six or eight men to do last year.

"The machine, which will be pulled by a tractor, grinds the leaves. It makes good compost and we will gladly sell the compost to anyone who wants it," Hughes said.
