Brazil's Unrest Grows

By JIMMIE PAYNE RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Violence flared in Brazil's capital today immediately after a plane departed for southern Brazil with the body of Getulio Vargas. Troops fired on a crowd trying to attack the Air Ministry. Two persons were injured.

and other riots left three dead and 30 others injured in the wake of Vargas' suicide. U.S. diplomatic buildings and firms, as well as newspapers which opposed Vargas, were major targets.

Rioters burned the office of the Diarios Associados publishing and radio chain in Porto Alegre on the Atlantic Coast, heavily damaged the U.S. consulate in Belo Horizonte and Porto Alegre, and hurled rocks through the windows of the heavily guarded U.S. Embassy in Rio.

Sandhills Warehousemen Call Meet To Consider Similar Action

Middle Belt Suspends Leaf Sales

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS After today's sales the five northern markets of the North Carolina Middle Belt will suspend flue-cured tobacco auctions until next Tuesday.

to 80 per cent of capacity. Opening day last year, which saw full sales, resulted in gross sales of 2,58,724 pounds averaging $54.68.

The five Sandhills markets of the Middle Belt yesterday reported good prices with volume continued moderate. Monday 802,370 pounds brought an average of $56.89 per hundred, $2.05 above last year's opening day average when 1,300,854 pounds brought $54.84.

Yesterday on the northern Middle Belt markets the Federal-State Market News Service reported competition weak because of the lack of buyers and a large percentage of offerings went to the Stabilization Corp. Estimated general price average was $51 to $56 per hundred.

Some auction bid averages: On the Eastern Belt: Leaf—fair lemon 62, low lemon 54. Cutters—fair lemon 68, low lemon 67.

Senator Asks More Revisions In Handling Problem

Proposes New Anti-Red Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) proposed today that the 84th Congress take time to do "a thorough and resolute" job in revising the laws curbing Communists, including a bill signed yesterday by President Eisenhower.

against Germany and later against communism. Brazil's new President, 55-year-old Joao Cafe Filho, who automatically stepped up from the vice presidency is regarded similarly favorable to the United States.

Williamston Police Hunting 2 Men In Alleged Kidnaping

WILLIAMSTON — Williamston Police and Martin County Sheriff's Department are continuing their search for two men who allegedly kidnaped a Norfolk service station operator last night and forced him to drive them to Martin County.

through Williamston to Harris Brothers service station on highway 17 about two miles south of Williamston. The two men, Garner said, told him to pull the car off the road near the service station, and the men got out.

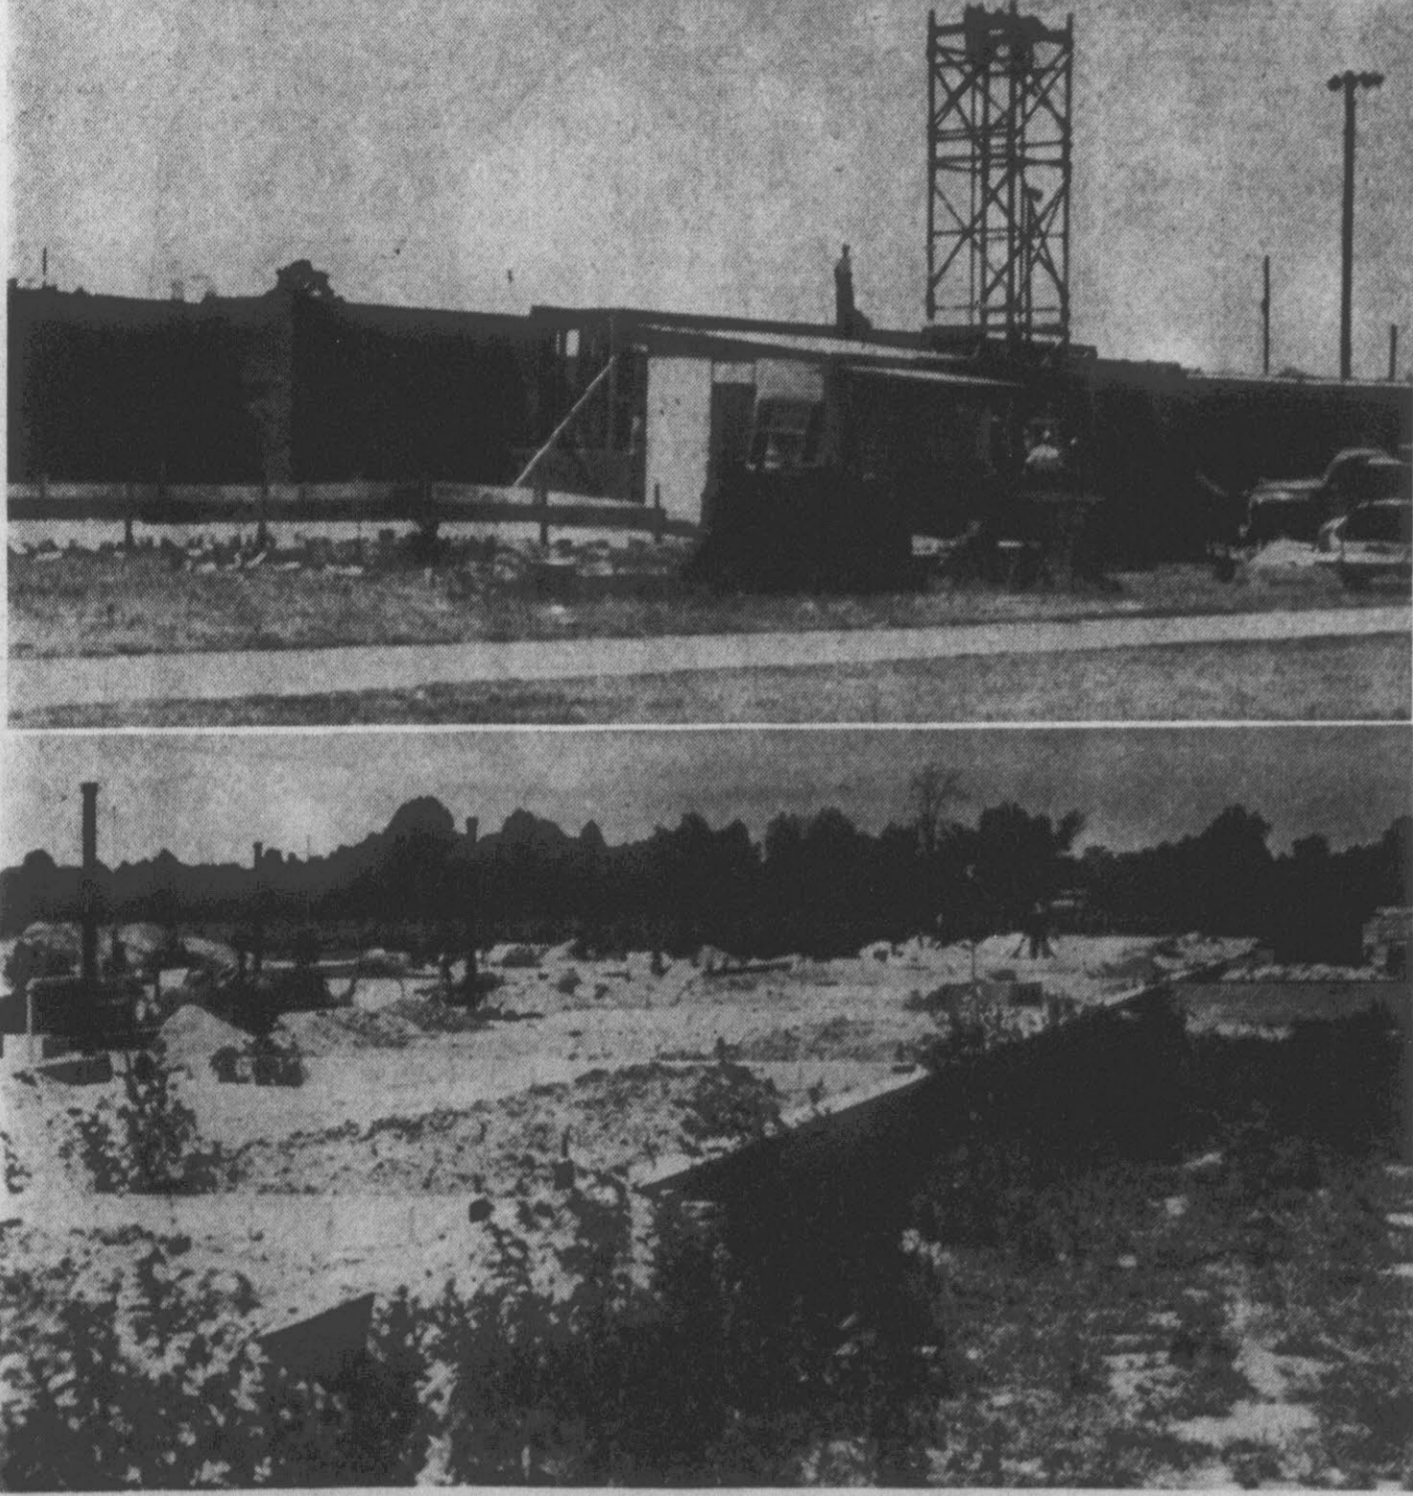

Roster Of Five Censure Charges Compiled McCarthy Inquiry Aug. 31

By JOHN CHADWICK WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy's defense strategy appeared likely today to determine how many witnesses will be called by a special Senate committee assigned to weigh censure charges against the Wisconsin Republican.

The committee's public hearings, now scheduled to start Aug. 31, will be based at the outset on five classes of charges. Indications are the six-member group plans to take testimony from relatively few witnesses.

The special bipartisan investigating committee said yesterday that out of these 46 charges, it has grouped 13 under five different headings:

No Action Taken By Zoning Group

By BOB BOYETTE Reflector Staff Writer No definite action on any matter was reached by Greenville's Zoning Commission at a meeting held last night in City Hall.

Officers searched the wooded area near where the men left the car last night, and were continuing their search today. "So far we haven't found a trace of them," Sheriff Hollowman said. "They disappeared into thin air unless they caught another ride."

Assembly Action Saturday; No Gov't Support French Set Vote On EDC

PARIS (AP)—The European army treaty's chances looked slimmer than ever today following Premier Pierre Mendes-France's decision to recommend the pact to the National Assembly Saturday without government support.

He told reporters last night he would not stake the life of his government by calling for a vote of confidence on the treaty's ratification. The crucial decision not to recommend it as government policy was made at a Cabinet meeting which lasted into the late hours.

sign minister's conference last weekend in Brussels, unanimously rejected Mendes-France's proposals to drastically change the project. The alterations would have stripped EDC of much of its central authority.

Rear Yard Requirements

Rear yard requirements was the second item discussed last night. After a discussion of the matter all commissioners agreed an ordinance was needed, however, further study was also needed before a recommendation could be made.

Side Yards Discussed

Side yard requirements was briefly discussed in regard to what portions of buildings could extend into the side yards.

Prior to adjournment last night the question of having a public hearing before the Council amended the ordinances to include new rulings advocated by the Commission was discussed.

30 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR August 25, 1924

Those who visited White's Theatre last night heard for the first time the new organ which has just been installed by Manager H. H. Jackson and were well pleased with this improvement in the music furnished by the play house. Miss Bertolet of the Teachers College faculty played the organ at last night's performance and greatly pleased her audience.

Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at her home on Eighth Street Miss Elizabeth Bost delightfully entertained at bridge in honor of her house guest, Miss Lucy Cobb of Durham. On arrival the guests were served Coca-Colas, salted nuts and sandwiches. After the games an ice course was served. The high score prize, Cotys perfume, was won by Miss Rosamond Flanagan. Miss Cobb was also remembered with perfume. The low score prize went to Miss Mary Moye Savage.

Celebrates Birthday

ROBERSONVILLE—Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock 14 little friends gathered at the home of Mrs. John Tyler on South Broad Street to celebrate the sixth birthday of her daughter, Alida. After the arrival of the last guest, the children played several games before going to the dining room where the table, covered with pink linen, was centered by a green frosted cake with the inscription "Happy Birthday" in pink. Matching roses and a lighted pink candle for each year topped the cake. Sixteen places were set to include the honoree and her 11-year-old brother, John Jr. Each place had Coca-Cola, vanilla ice cream, and a cup cake iced in white and topped with a burning candle.

After the refreshments the guests went into the yard to enjoy their favors, balloons and king size bubble outfits. Soap bubbles were floating in the air until the party broke up at 6:30.

The little hostess received many nice gifts from these present and from other friends and relatives.

Garden Club Holds First Fall Meeting

Mrs. W. D. Creekmur was hostess at her home on Church Street for the first fall meeting of the Garden Club on Monday. Mrs. L. E. Turnage, president, presided. The meeting was opened with the Woman's Club Collect. Mrs. E. F. Gainer, program chairman, distributed the programs for the ensuing year.

Tabitha M. DeVisconti reported on the clean-up, paint-up, fix-up campaign. The members were gratified that so many took an active interest in the campaign and expressed the hope that the store owners would keep their back lots free of debris and owners of vacant lots keep the weeds mowed.

The members expressed pleasure that Gov. William B. Umstead suggested the planting of trees along highways and discussed the unsightliness of the Telephone Company killing shrubbery under the telephone wires. There was also a discussion of adequate spraying of shrubs for insects now doing much damage.

Miss Bettie Joyner, program leader, told of bulbs to plant this fall for spring bloom. She began with a poem, "The Little Brown Bulb," and said the brown bulb should be put to bed comfortably—that is to handle them carefully to avoid injury and plant in good, friable, rich soil. Special care should be taken when lifting, digging, and cultivating not to mash, puncture or scrape the bulb.

Tabitha DeVisconti then gave instructions for the planting and care of peonies.

Mrs. Jesse Hardy was welcomed as a new member. Mrs. Creekmur served a delicious food drink.

Mrs. Turnage and Miss DeVisconti will attend a luncheon meeting of the Garden Club presidents of the district at the home of Mrs. J. B. A. Daughtridge, Rocky Mount, District Director of the 10th District, Aug. 25 (Wednesday).

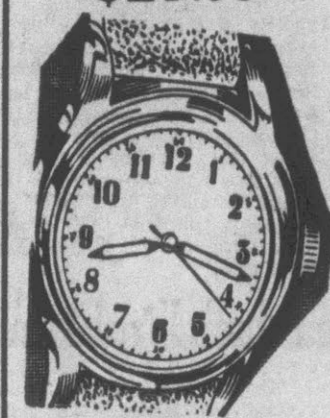

Next meeting will be held in September with Mrs. L. E. Turnage.

Applied Psychology In Children's Styles

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

One of America's top designers of children's fashions has based her success on psychology.

Helen Lee, youthful attractive mother of three daughters, discovered early in her child-raising career that little girls behave better when they look pretty.

"A child who knows she is becoming dressed gains poise and confidence," says Mrs. Lee. "She is likely to be a happy child, and a happy child usually is a good child."

Mrs. Lee is not of the buttons-and-bows school. She relies on cut and color rather than on trimmings for the effectiveness of her designs. And on almost every Helen Lee outfit there is an amusing touch; for example, one of her most popular small-try dresses of last season came with its own

"Under Dog" petticoat—a ruffy affair trimmed with pink, blue and brown dachshunds. She's likely to put a pocket in a sash instead of in the conventional place, or embroider a Mother Goose rhyme around the hem of a toddler's frock.

This experienced mother discovered that small girls like to dress like big girls as soon as possible, and that most of them abhor puffed sleeves and baby trimmings. So she gets a touch of adult design into her young fashions, plans coordinated wardrobes that can be worn together or switched around.

"I like to appeal to the child's tastes as well as those of the mother," says Mrs. Lee. "Sometimes it's a tough job—but that's the kind of challenge a designer needs."

Born in Knoxville, Tenn., Helen

Lee started her dressmaking career by making clothes for her own children. Before that, however she had studied fashion design in New York and had won a contest in the field. Recently she received the American Fashion Critics Award for outstanding work in children's design.

She believes color psychology plays a big part in children's fashion taste and has discovered the favorite is bright red. Next comes blue, then yellow — the bright primary colors that give a lift to young spirits. Says she:

"Most people underestimate children's sense of humor. All children love a joke, and if a dress can have a trick that makes them laugh, then it's a success."

Mrs. Lee thinks it is the inalienable right of every girl to have a voice in selecting her own clothes after the age of 7. And she has found that the only way girls can learn to shop wisely is to be allowed to buy their own things and make their own mistakes.

The Japanese population is increasing at the rate of more than a million a year.

Tripp Family Holds Reunion

The Tripp family reunion was held Sunday, August 15, at the summer home of Dr. and Mrs. J. N. Kilpatrick at Bayview. For this occasion the house was decorated with artistic arrangements of summer flowers.

Seventy-four relatives from College Park, Md., Hyattsville, Md., Richmond, Morehead City, Robertsonville and nearby points enjoyed a day of fellowship but they missed many kin folks who were unable to attend this pleasant celebration.

Picnic tables in the large yard, were covered with pretty tablecloths. At noon the beautiful meal started with shrimp cocktail. The dinner consisted of baked ham, fried chicken, roast beef, boiled ham, a large assortment of sandwiches, potato salad, chicken salad, ham salad, pickles, olives, corn bread, biscuits, vegetables, pies, a large variety of homemade cakes and ice tea. Each family carried a basket and the hostess supplied many delicious dishes.

'Hello' To School Again

School Bell Rings For Pitt Youngsters

Dawn today brought mixed emotions among the 11,000 school children of Pitt County who gave up their summer vacation to return to their studies for another nine months.

For some of the youngsters it was a sad, sad day which came all too quickly upon the heels of that day in May when school was out. For others, it was a happy day for renewing friendships and exchanging stories of summer experiences. It meant getting back to a regular daily routine of study, learning and development.

As the youngsters settle down to another school year, their parents also turn their eyes again to the schools and the progress of their youngsters. Most of the parents realize the success of their children during the school year will depend to an appreciable degree upon the encouragement youngsters receive both at school and at home.

Most parents likewise realize all the work which helps a child to learn can not be done in the schoolroom by a teacher who is responsible for some 30-odd children for about six hours a day. They know the school program - while it is primarily in the hands of teachers and school officials - will need support and cooperation from the parents if it is to give the children the best possible advantages during the ensuing nine months.

Throughout Pitt County school has started again for the youngsters of the County School System. Just as realistically, school has started again for the parents. Efforts put forth by both the parents and the youngsters in support of the school program in the months ahead will be the determining factor in how much the children gain from the school year.

Religious Impact In U.S. Is Growing

How much impact is religion having upon the American people?

That question has been pondered through the years, and is still a topic of debate today. Some say the American people are leaving the church to seek the pleasures of the world and worship materialism. Others assert years of war and international chaos have brought the American people in closer relationship with their churches.

It is interesting to note that a nation wide Roper survey indicates religious leadership is having a much greater influence upon the American people now than was the case in 1942.

The survey was in the form of a question: "Which of these groups do you feel is doing the most good for the country at the present time?"

For 12 years now the survey has been made, listing the five groups as: Religious leaders, Government leaders, Business leaders, Labor leaders, and Congress.

In 1942, according to the survey, only 18 per cent thought religious leaders were doing the most good for the country, while 28 per cent thought government leaders were doing the most good for the country. Nineteen per cent thought business leaders were doing the most good, six per cent thought labor leaders were doing the most good and six per cent thought Congress was doing the most good.

The 1953 survey showed quite a different picture of public opinion. Last year, according to the survey, 40 per cent of the people thought religious leaders were doing the most good for the country at the time. Government leaders polled only 18 per cent of the vote, business leaders 10 per cent, labor leaders eight per cent, and Congress five per cent.

Despite exhibitions which would indicate a contrary situation, the difference in the 1942 and 1953 surveys point to a growing impact of religion upon the American people. It is a healthy sign for the people of a nation.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
AND SOME PEOPLE BELIEVE HIM
Recently I read a summary of the philosophy of the French existentialist philosopher Sartre. If I believed what Sartre does, I think I should want to jump from the highest mountain into the sea. Sartre is an atheist. He characterizes human life as nullity. Throughout his works he wants that there is no such thing in the world as uprightness and good faith. Human freedom, he declares, requires the death of God. Man is to act at all times in an arbitrary fashion, tramping down those round about him mercilessly, and, to use Sartre's own words, "my neighbor is for me the devil, and life and social relations with others is equivalent to the fall into sin. . . Religion is also equal to a fall into sin; it is alienation and loss of self." It is Sartre's conviction (or so he declares) that when a man dies, he reverts completely to the nonhuman, which state, says this despairing philosopher, is contingent and absurd.

Secret Democratic Worries

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower aggravated the Democrats' November fears with his recent economic analysis, boasting that the Administration had checked the 1953-54 slump and predicting that 1954 would turn out to be the second most prosperous and productive year in history. If Ike is correct, and there are those who disagree, the GOP believes it has a good chance to retain control of both House and Senate.

Scouting Skills Put To Work

Greenville Sea Scouts are due a salute for their rescue of three Greensboro boys in Bogue Sound near Morehead City during the week-end.

Boys in the Scouting program on all levels get a lot of good training which sooner or later pays off for them, and for the people they help.

Youngsters in the Scouting program don't go around looking for situations in which they can make themselves heroes; but it is nice to know they are prepared to make such contributions to their fellow men when the occasion arises for them to use the skills they have learned in Scouting.

Somebody Told Me

A Day That Started Wrong

No doubt you've heard the Yankee expression, "Some days you shoulda' stood in bed," or the Southern expression, "Some days it don't pay to get up." Which-ever expression you prefer, Sunday was one of those days for me.

At that time I was still on vacation at the beach and operating short wave radio. Before breakfast I heard this call: "Help! Help! Mayday! Mayday! Somebody please help me!" Never have I heard a man sound so desperate. It turned out to be Jim Cunningham, a radio acquaintance of mine.

Jim travels the Southeast selling rubber heels and last week was traveling Eastern Carolina from Goldsboro. Several times I talked to him from his mobile transmitter and receiver during the course of his travel.

So I answered his call for help and he immediately recognized me. "I'm on the south end of Atlantic Beach and I'm sinking fast!" he said. "I think I can last about 15 or 20 more minutes."

"Don't worry about a thing!" I said. "I'm coming after you." So I then proceeded to the nearest phone and called the Coast Guard. They probably thought I was crazy and I can understand why. In the first place, there's no south end to Atlantic Beach. In the second place, it must have sounded crazy to hear somebody say he was in a cottage on the beach talking to another radio operator in a car who claimed to be sinking fast.

The Coast Guard told me they would check from the beach down to Fort Macon, so I told them that I would check in the other direction. After checking 15 miles from the beach I decided that the route was too dangerous for me and turned back. On the way back, I concluded, the Coast Guard must have found him at the other end.

There was a couple sun-bathing on the beach that I noticed as I traveled the surf. So I stopped to ask them if they had seen anybody going west. My ignorance of direction had been expensive, but now I knew east from west.

The couple, Marine Major R. A. Bjorson from Cherry Point and his wife, had seen a car with a whip antenna going in the westward direction about an hour and a half prior to that time. For the first time, I was convinced that Jim was on the west end.

Tomorrow's release: A Mire in the Sand.
And I thank you,

What Other Editors Are Thinking

DO BRITISH WANT A BAG TO HOLD?

(Charlotte Observer)
Practically all of the Socialist newspapers in England and some of the conservative publications are approving the tour of Clement Attlee and his party of Laborites through Russia and China as a great chance to build trade with the Communist countries. The approval is not unanimous by any means, for there are some strong dissenters from the Conservative side. But by and large the British have hopes that they are going to get more trade with the Reds.

They are banking, it seems to us, on a forlorn hope and are shutting their eyes to some hard and unpleasant facts.

The hardest and most unpleasant is that a basic precept of the Communist philosophy is that trade with capitalist countries, like all other dealings, is a weapon and not a means of exchange. That principle has been preached by Communists ever since Marx. They will trade with capitalists to get a few heavy goods that they cannot produce for themselves, but they have no intention of making it a profitable, two-way business.

The Labor emissaries to China seem to forget that British companies in that country have been forced into bankruptcy, that their officers have been held for ransom to the payment of heavy taxes, while the companies were compelled to continue paying the salaries of the imprisoned officers. In spite of all this, Chou En-lai is blandly telling Attlee and his party that a great era of trade between the two countries is now opening.

Another fact overlooked by the British party is that the East will not be able to find enough goods to export in exchange for the heavy goods they want from the West. Russia is now trading strategic articles like oil, manganese, platinum, and other rare metals for generators, machine tools, and similar heavy goods from the West. But, as soon as she gets the generators and machine tools she wants, her export of strategic metals will stop, and she is unlikely to dip into her gold reserves to pay for more imports from capitalist countries.

With Communists, trade with capitalist countries is simply a temporary means of compensating for the failure of their clumsy system of state planning to provide for their most urgent needs. When those needs have been satisfied, the trade will stop. It would be foolish, therefore, for the West to build up industries or agricultural production on the hope of Russian trade, which can be cut off abruptly by a single order from the Kremlin.

If England bases industrial expansion on these flimsy hopes, she is likely to be left holding a very big bag.

Newspaper Week Plans; Budget Inspections Near End

By LYNN NISBET
NEWSPAPERS - Plans are in the making for a more general observance of Newspaper Week, the first week in October, this year than ever before. The theme of the 1954 observance is "Your Newspaper—Freedom's Forum."

Special committees of the North Carolina Press Association are working with statewide and local civic groups to arrange public discussion of the services rendered by newspapers and the obligation of newspapers to the public. A great many individual papers will have open house occasions during the week when the public will be invited to visit the offices and shops and learn how newspapers are produced.

While the problems incident to publishing newspapers grow more complex every year, with costs rising faster than increased gross income, the newspapers are beginning to realize that some of the fears cherished a few years ago were without foundation.

Magazines, radio and television are generally considered the competitors of newspapers for circulation and advertising dollars. Latest report of the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association, shows that newspaper advertising lineage for the first six months of 1954 broke all previous records. More significant than the total gain in lineage was the fact that radio and television stations increased their newspaper advertising by 25 per cent and magazines by more than 25 per cent. This is interpreted to mean that these competitive businesses recognize that newspapers offer the best and most economical media for eaching large numbers of people. Additional facts to support the newspaper claim will be presented between now and October 8 at hundreds of public meetings throughout North Carolina.

BUDGET - Friday, Saturday and Monday of next week the advisory budget commission will wind up its 1954 inspection tour of State institutions. During the last two weeks in July the budgeteers visited 30-odd institutions from Cullowhee to Elizabeth City, from Boone to Pembroke. Time ran out before they could get to the mental hospital at Goldsboro, the training school at Kinston, the Tryon Palace restoration at New Bern and the State ports at Morehead City and Wilmington. These will be seen next week.

Meantime, all of the agencies, departments and institutions supported in whole or in part by tax money had been notified to file operating and maintenance budget requests by August 20. As soon as the commission completes the final inspection tour, its members will buckle down with the Governor and other officials for serious study of these requests, as a prelude to preparing the appropriations and revenue bills for consideration by the next General Assembly.

The approximate two weeks being with Tuesday after Labor Day will be divided into two main sections. First will be a series of "public hearings," at which spokesmen for the various State agencies will present and explain their needs for the next two years. These public presentations will be followed by "executive sessions" of the commission when the budgeteers will attempt to reconcile the anticipated increased needs with the prospective decline in general fund revenue, and come out with recommendations for a balanced budget.

The budget bureau has received most of the operational requests from the agencies, departments and institutions, but has not had time to audit or evaluate them in relation to amount of increased money needed. Opinion of those familiar with conditions is that there will be asked some $20-25 million more for operations, including increased salaries. Permanent improvement requests already in hand or in certain prospect aggregate between $30 and $40 million.

TAXES - It is absurd to expect that either the advisory budget commission nor the General Assembly will approve all of these requests. It seems certain, however, that some permanent improvements may be essential to the continued usefulness of the institutions and that substantial increases in operational costs cannot be avoided.

The tax schedules under which the State derives its operating revenue have not been materially changed since 1933. Almost every year since then the yield has exceeded estimates until this year. Now receipts are declining and the budget folks are faced with the necessity of recommending new sources of tax money or raising levies on the existing schedules. Therein lies explanation for the worry wrinkles on the brows of those responsible for operating the State government. Throughout the years there has

Postal Rules Eased

By ELMER ROESSNER
With no fanfare, the Post Office Department under Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield has been relaxing many of the restrictive regulations on second-class mail, which includes paid newspapers and magazines.

Many of these regulations seem to have been created originally for the sake of regulation. Perhaps it was a good idea to show publishers who was running the country after all.

For instance, in the past the Post Office permitted magazine pages that folded out, but not those that folded out and up. That restriction has been quietly lifted.

Another modification has been in the rule defining advertising. At various times, it has been held that mentioning a trade name in the news was advertising and was charged against the publication's advertising quota. Now a new rule defines advertising as "product or service information which the publisher is paid to print." So it is now possible for this column to say -

First National Bank - without the space being considered advertising. Another modification is in the definition of "paper." Laws enacted by Congress provide that second-class publications be printed on paper. But the new regime has held that plastic-coated paper and even aluminum-coated paper is still paper. It also has ruled that die-cut and deckle-edge pages are acceptable. Rules on inclusion of samples, such as stapling in a swatch of fabric, have not been changed. Samples make the publication available at third-class rates only.

Most of the modifications have been in rulings on individual cases, rather than in sweeping changes in regulations. Companies wanting to try something new have written to Washington and, if the idea has been found compatible with the law and new attitude toward business, permission has been granted.

However, for diplomacy's sake, it is always better to take proposals up with local postmasters first, to get their guidance and help and to avoid embarrassing them with an over-their-head ruling.

REPORT TELLS HOW HOUSING CODES ARE ENFORCED. . . . Building regulations in many cities are honored in the breach, or they padded blackbacks with which dishonest inspectors snake down builders and property owners.

Now the Housing and Home Finance Agency has made a study of how 15 cities and counties successfully enforce their regulations. The findings are being published in a 53-page report titled, "A Report on Administrative Procedures for Enforcement of Building Regulations," which will be available from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D. C., for 40 cents. CAN AND BOTTLE BATTLE. . . . WAGES OVER SOFT DRINKS. . . . The glass-can battle is waxing hot; by Labor Day it will be eight-ounce containers at 10 paces.

The war that once waged over beer containers is being fought all over again over soft drinks. The can industry has moved into one of the most profitable segments of the glass industry. In every marketing area a wide variety of soft drinks is being introduced in both capped and soldered cans. There's a fillip that was missing in the beer battle - that's the contest over the dietetic and low-calorie drinks.

The glass industry is fighting back with more emphasis on the disposable bottles and some research to indicate that things taste better out of bottles than from cans.

Too Happy To Be Much Problem

By HAL BOYLE

VALLEJO, Calif. (AP) - How do you raise a child in the 20th century, which many people are beginning to regard as the century of juvenile delinquency?

I asked that question of my friend, Wyman Riley, managing editor of the Gibson publications here. He and his wife, Marjorie, have the problem of raising six children. How do they go about it?

"We don't think of it as a problem," said Riley. "And we don't have many set theories about it. We like children, and try to make our home so attractive they would rather spend their time there than elsewhere."

The recall of the Riley offspring (and the Lord only knows whether it is complete yet) is as follows: Margaret 15, Ellen 14, Brenda 9, Timothy 6, Michael 3, Sheila "going on one."

The Rileys live in a big, old-fashioned house, the kind that used to be built for large families, with plenty of yard space to play in. The house has four bedrooms, only one of which, Riley said, "is hung with my wife's clothing."

"Our home is big enough so that each kid has his own room," he said. "Each takes pride in his room and keeps it clean, and each kid has his own duties around the house."

"The older children help take care of the younger ones, and seem to like to. We are lucky in that we have two home-made baby sitters in our two older girls, and we pay them the going rate—50 cents an hour."

They are a close-knit family. Wyman and Marjorie both believe their main duties as parents are to teach their children good manners, give them a religious upbringing, and keep them busy in a wholesome way. They say family prayers together each night, go on picnics or clam digging parties together on Sundays.

The Riley home has a television room, and eight school desks, painted a fire-engine red, face the TV set—one for each child and two extra for their chums.

"We don't ration them on television," said Riley. "The only rule is that they must finish their home work before they can watch it."

"Comic books aren't a worry with us. We don't have them in the house. Our children are great readers, but we started them off with good books, and now they seem to prefer them."

"Our two eldest girls are becoming interested in social activities. If they want to go to a school dance, we take them there and we bring them home."

"There is a wading pool in the yard, and space to build tree houses and play games. The children like to help Marjorie in her hobby-gardening. She has planted tomato vines and other vegetables around the lawn. That may sound crazy, but—well, it looks nice."

What about movies? "Our kids aren't particularly interested in movies," said Riley. "They don't have to go out of the home to find entertainment. They have more fun at home. They like to bring their friends home, and we encourage them to do so."

Few crises arise in the Riley household that require punishment.

"Restricting a child to his room, or cutting down his social activity in some way is enough," Riley said. "The important thing is to explain fully to a child why he is being punished, and never to punish him until he does understand why. Then he will take it in good grace. Children have a pretty fair sense of justice."

"By exposition—explaining why one thing is right and another thing is wrong—works better than punishment. The mother sets them the example in most families, and our kids have been lucky in having the right kind of mother."

"I guess I sound like a pretty haphazard father, but actually our six kids are too happy to be much of a problem. We all like each other, and enjoy doing things together, and I guess that's pretty much the worry."

Army Hospital Set For Wedding Rites

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Ward 20 C-D at Valley Forge Army Hospital was "up in the air" today over its social event of the year—the wedding of M. Sgt. William Hardin and Miss Isako Shirayama.

It's a wedding that had to clear medical language and legal hurdles separating the 32-year-old Louisville, Ky., soldier from the slim, attractive, 23-year-old Japanese sweetheart.

They will marry Saturday in the post chapel.

Miss Shirayama must appear before immigration authorities in Washington shortly to determine how long she will be allowed to remain in the United States.

She's here under $500 bond pending an appeal on a decision by authorities in Hawaii that she had no right to enter the United States on a six-month visitor's visa because she had specific intent to marry.

"If she can stay in this country," says the philosophical Hardin, "I'll send her to my home in Louisville and if not, then she'll have to return to Japan. But she'll soon be able to re-enter the country because now she'll be married to an American citizen," he explained.

And there won't even be a honeymoon—at least not for the present. Hardin is being treated for tuberculosis he contracted while serving in Korea and is not allowed to stay away from the hospital ward.

Osaka, who speaks little English, has been living at the hospital guest house since he arrived last weekend.

The couple is well aware of all the problems. Lt. Col. John Plum, chief of the hospital tuberculosis service said yesterday.

"Otherwise, I wouldn't have approved of the marriage," he said. The medical officer had a long chat with the two yesterday before official permission was given.

Hardin was stationed in Japan when he met Isako. They planned to marry then but the World War II veteran was transferred to Korea and then was hospitalized on his return.

Col. Plum said it will be about 10 months before Hardin can leave the hospital. There may be some passes though, by Christmastime and maybe even a convalescent leave in January.

Cpl. Moses Life of Brooklyn, a patient in Hardin's ward, said, "Everybody plans to attend the wedding. We're really up in the air about it."

Link Slaying To 'Pachuco' Gang

Too Much Rain Dampens British Crop Prospects

LONDON (AP)—Britain is facing the prospect of one of the worst harvests in years.

So much rain has poured on this island during the summer that the umbrella factories are far behind the demand.

Acres upon acres of green wheat is lying flat on the sodden earth with little or no hope of recovery.

The canning industry has seen its soft fruit pounded until its losses are estimated in millions of dollars.

The strawberry crop was only two thirds of normal and the grain crop also is in bad shape.

In the counties of Kent, Berkshire, Sussex and Herefordshire there are reports of wheat sprouting as it lies flat on the wet earth before men and machines can get it.

CHANUTE AIR BASE, Ill. (AP)—Officials at Chanut Air Force Base have reopened the investigation of the pistol death June 6 of an airman hitherto considered accidental, and linked it to the terrorist Pachuco gang.

Maj. Gen. Byron E. Gates commander of this technical training base of 15,000 men, said an airman held for questioning in the slaying is an admitted Pachuco. He is one of 50 gang members held in the stockade.

The roundup of the 50 on the base followed offenses which Gates said ranged from AWOL to marijuana addiction and to "savage assaults on members who had 'rat'ed on Pachuco."

He described the 50 airmen as "arrogant" and "faithful to the laws of Pachuco." Many of the men will be given court-martials and dishonorable discharges as a result of the investigation, he said.

Pachuco members take an oath, signed in blood, requiring them to carry knives at all times, perform acts of violence and pledge to give no information to law enforcement officers.

Ammunition On Train Explodes

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—An ammunition-laden freight car caught fire in the Frisco freight yards last night, touching off a series of spectacular explosions and spraying 105 mm. shells over a wide area.

Exploding shells hit one house destroyed. Another was badly damaged. But only one person was reported injured.

An estimated 4,000 to 5,000 shells were in the car.

Two Frisco yardmen were credited with averting a far more serious situation. The men, Gerald Simmons and Sam Gaston, uncoupled the burning car from three other cars also loaded with ammunition.

A freight engine pulled those three cars and the remainder of the train out of danger. Then a switch engine pushed the flaming car west of the yards.

L. C. Carner superintendent of the Frisco terminal here, said the shells had already started to explode when the yardmen uncoupled the car.

Persons in the area were evacuated. All streets and roads for a mile around the scene were barricaded.

The fire started about 7 p.m. By midnight the car had burned itself out.

Officials said the fire apparently was caused by a "hot box," a lubricating mechanism on a freight car which has become overheated by friction.

The ammunition came from an ordnance plant at Parsons, Kan.

Formosans Calm Over Red Claims

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Recent loud talk from Red China of an "impending liberation" of this Chinese Nationalist island stronghold—just 100 miles away—has caused no visible change in the tempo of life here.

Dependents of U.S. Military personnel continue to arrive. Businessmen from various countries come and go. Life goes on as usual.

No one thinks the Reds can make good their threats to seize Formosa. The big reason for the confidence is the guardian U.S. 7th Fleet. Another is the estimated 600,000 men in Chiang Kai-shek's armed forces.

In addition, military quarters say they are confident underground agents on the mainland could give warning at the first hint the Reds were assembling an invasion fleet. Nationalist air patrols are vigilantly watching.

But authorities continue to preach preparedness. They stress the possibility of Communist air attacks, pleading with citizens to move from Taipei and other cities to the countryside. No one pays any attention. In fact, the population of the cities is steadily increasing.

Norwegian Women Claim Talking To 'Saucer Man'

OSLO (AP)—Two Norwegian women claim they not only had a close look at a flying saucer but they talked to its "dark-skinned, long-haired" pilot. Skeptical police have launched an investigation.

The two women, Mrs. Aasta Solvang and her sister Edith Jacobsen, said the saucerman popped out at them from behind some bushes last Friday near Motjell, in northern Norway.

Their story was published yesterday by the local paper Nordlands Folkeblad.

This was the sisters' account: "We were picking berries when suddenly a dark man with long hair—but otherwise looking very much like an ordinary human being—came out from behind some bushes.

"We were frightened at first, but the man appeared very friendly, and stepped toward us."

One of them addressed him in English, French, German, and Norwegian. "He didn't seem to understand a word."

The stranger then attempted to communicate by drawing "circles and what looked like pictures of heavenly bodies" on a piece of paper. The stranger finally led them to his craft, which looked

Found It Easy To Dispose Of Case

RIPLEY, Tenn. (AP)—The judge found it easy to dispose of the case when three boys were brought in yesterday accused of stealing three watermelons from a farmer's patch.

Judge J. R. Lewis rapped his gavel. "Anybody in here who never stole a single watermelon when he was a boy, let him raise his hand," he said.

Sheriff Willard Norvell, County Atty. John Sanford, three highway patrolmen, court employees and spectators put their hands in their pockets.

Case dismissed.

Mao Said Asking British Help To 'Persuade' U.S.

Britain should try to persuade America to take a more "reasonable" attitude toward Communist China.

After the interview, Labor Party Secretary Morgan Phillips gave out this brief, guarded statement: "The discussions ranged over a variety of subjects of mutual interest, including trade. The discussions were frank throughout and the meeting ended in an atmosphere of cordiality and expressions of good will."

The Labor party delegation dined last night at the British Embassy as guests of Charge d'Affaires Humphrey Trevelyan. Premier Chou En-lai and Vice Premier Kuo Mo-jo were guests.

By contrast with the wildly exotic banquets on which their hosts have feasted the Laborites Trevelyan gave Chou and his other 47 guests a rather simple English meal—iced watermelon, tomato soup, cold fish, roast chicken, cake with cream, and French wines and champagne.

Goes Long Way To Prove Point

NEW YORK (AP)—Charlie Fleckenstein is a man who will go a long way to prove a point. Yesterday, he went 160 feet—straight down.

Charlie, a 38-year-old air-conditioning engineer, leaped into the East River from the Triborough Bridge, holding a blanket above his head. He claimed the blanket, acting as a rudder, would keep his head up and his feet down and enable him to escape injury. He proved it too.

Cops picked him up after his leap and took him to Kings County Hospital for psychiatric examination.

It takes about 800 pounds of steel for a refrigerator, stove, dishwasher and cabinet sink in a modern kitchen.

Mrs. D. L. Williams has returned from Columbus, Ga., where she spent several months with her son-in-law and daughter, Sgt. and Mrs. Dallas Manning. Mrs. Manning accompanied her mother to Robersonville for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eller and their son, Charles Edward, of Chatham, Va., spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Burch.

Mrs. Kate Tripp of Stokes visited Mrs. Harvey Roberson from Sunday until Tuesday.

Ernest Mobley spent last week at Sumter, S.C. and at Myrtle Beach.

Rev. and Mrs. Horace Quigley and their son, Horace, of Grifton, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John James.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Roberson went to Arapahoe to get their son, William Hugh, who has been at Camp Sea Gull for one month. They then continued to Morehead to enjoy the weekend.

Sunday Vickie Andrews celebrated her third birthday with a party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Andrews on Second Street. The little hostess and her friends played out of door games before ice cream and cake were served. Vickie enjoyed unwrapping her many nice gifts.

Little Amy Everett of Raleigh enjoyed last week at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Nellie Taylor, while her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Durwood Everett Jr. and her sister, Jan, were at Nags Head.

Miss Esther Tyler spent Sunday at White Lake.

Mrs. Lida Bunting suffered a broken arm and shoulder when she fell about a week ago.

Mrs. Lester Scott is recovering nicely following surgery at Pitt Memorial Hospital, Greenville, Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Leggett and children of Williamston spent most of his week's vacation with Mrs. Leggett's mother, Mrs. Hattie Hardy.

Mrs. R. J. Langley and Martha Sue spent Monday and Tuesday with Mrs. Dell Mays Gray who had a cottage at Pamlico Beach. Mrs. Langley and her daughter returned to the beach Friday and brought her sister and five sons to Robersonville Sunday.

Mrs. Hazel James of Robersonville and her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert James of Norfolk, left Friday for Niagara Falls and other points of interest. Mr. and Mrs. James' little daughter is staying with her grandmother, Mrs. John H. James until her parents return next weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Everett of Kings-national Building.

Mrs. Claude T. Smith, Mrs. Paul Roberson and Mrs. J. B. Hurley left Saturday to attend the eighth annual School of Missions and Christian Service and the two-day Spiritual Life Retreat at Duke University, Durham.

Farmville Kiwanians Hear Dean Colvard

In a talk that traced the growth of the agricultural income in North Carolina, Dean Colvard told the Kiwanians, "Average income from agriculture during 1951, 1952 and 1953 has been over $900,000,000."

He explained the annual agricultural income showed this state ranked 36th in 1940, but in 1953 it had climbed to 22nd. He pointed out that the per capita agricultural income is still low; however, with North Carolina ranking 44th in the nation.

In tracing the changing agricultural trend the dean told that North Carolina moved from a deficit state in the production of broilers to a surplus production. Also, he explained this state now has a surplus of fluid milk as compared to being deficient in 1940.

Dean Colvard said, "In 1940 only 18 percent of the agricultural income was derived from livestock and livestock production while in 1953 it was 26 percent of the income."

The State College dean also traced how the agricultural experiment station is pointing a way for a more profitable agricultural income.

Other guests at the meeting Monday night included E. Y. Floyd, director of the Carolinas-Virginia Plant Food Institute and Carl Hicks, Walstonburg Kiwanian and president of the Flue-Cured Tobacco Stabilization Corporation.

Lebanon Plans Its Own Project

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Little Lebanon is going to work on a 100-million-dollar river development project — biggest in its history — with no economic aid grants from foreign governments.

U.S. Point Four technicians conducted a three-year survey of the Litani River hydroelectric project, which is expected to double per capita consumption of electricity in Lebanon and irrigate more than 50,000 acres by the time it is finished in 25 years.

But when American officials handed the survey report to the Lebanese government, they felt the logical "cutoff point" had been reached. For actually building the system, Lebanon must bear the burden itself. The United States plans no direct government grants.

Lebanon's Parliament has set up a semiautonomous company to begin financing. The company will seek funds from Lebanese government sources, Lebanese private investors, foreign private investors and such lending agencies as the World Bank.

Some foreign experts here believe the whole project could pay for itself if built in stages, one phase paying for the next.

Twin Melon

Next Few Weeks Offer Clues To Fall Business

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Hope for good fall business burns bright. But many businessmen will be private, a little nervous about it until the next few weeks are past.

Signs of an upturn aren't too convincing yet. The year-long recession appears to have been halted. But some of the usual August signals—bank loans and steel output—aren't flashing an advance as they should.

If an upswing comes after Labor Day, industry's adjustment to peacetime could safely be placed in the past-history files. But if trade and output don't make the usual show of strength as the days shorten, businessmen will take another look at their plans and expectations.

They're mostly playing it cautiously now. Bank loans to business should be increasing in August as retailers stock up for fall trade and wholesalers order for Christmas. This August, businessmen are staying away from the banks.

in ordering. Retailers explain that they can get deliveries of most things very quickly now and see no reason to take a chance.

Merchants usually do 40 per cent of the year's business in the last four months. So far in 1954 trade has been running slightly behind a year ago. Basing their hopes on a pickup next month, many merchants have been predicting that the final score this year will approximate last year's.

Consumer income stays high. What was lost by factory layoffs and the drop in overtime pay was pretty much regained through tax cuts, social security payments and increased dividend and interest payments. (This holds true for the nation as a whole; it is not the case in many specific communities where layoffs have been concentrated.) With total personal income high, merchants feel their customers can buy, if they like.

Industrial output didn't change from July through July. But the Federal Reserve Board notes that in two important fields, autos and steel output "fell by more than the seasonal amount in July."

And one steel executive isn't overoptimistic. E. T. Weir, chairman of National Steel sees no signs at this time that steel output will pick up in September. He thinks the last three months of the year, however, should see some improvement.

The general economy looks sound enough for the long haul. As for the short pull, the next few weeks should give the tipoff on which way we'll be heading.

Dykes Says Baltimore Needed Only One Long Ball Hitter To Make Good

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports Writer

Despite the magic of travel and fans in the stands the Baltimore Orioles are in just as sad shape when it comes to winning games as were the old St. Louis Browns.

The glamor of the change paid off at the box office, but on the ball field almost nothing is different except the uniforms and a few of the faces.

It will take a 50-50 break in their remaining 30 games for the Orioles to finish with as good a record as the Browns compiled in finishing dead last year ago. And so far the Orioles haven't looked at any time like a .500 ball club.

They lost their 13th straight game last night, 9-2 to the New York Yankees, who gained a full game on first-place Cleveland. The Indians were scalped 4-1 in a surprise raid by lowly Philadelphia Athletics and now hold a 4 1/2-game edge over the Yankees.

Jimmy Dykes, who became manager of the Orioles because Marty Marion told the new owners he didn't think the club was better than a seventh-place outfit at best, still talks enthusiastically.

"We may be in last place," he said, "but we're nobody's pushover. If we had just one decent long ball hitter, we'd be in the first division now. Just one more hit per game and we're in fifth place."

The Orioles have lost 22 games by one run.

"It seems like twice that many," said Dykes.

Last night, however, it wasn't close after the Yankees took a 3-1 lead in the fourth. Yogi Berra homered for two runs in the fifth and New York coasted as the score mounted steadily.

Johnny Gray, a rookie who had won only one game, checked

Cleveland on four hits and the Indians committed two errors that contributed heavily to the Philadelphia victory. Both misplays came in the third when the Athletics also collected four hits for three runs.

Chicago, the only other team with a mathematical chance of winning the American League pennant, defeated Washington 4-0. Detroit turned back Boston 8-7, breaking a six-game winning streak for the Red Sox.

The National League pennant race remained unchanged. First-place New York beat Chicago 5-1 and stayed four games in front of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who trounced Cincinnati 12-4, and 7 1/2 ahead of Milwaukee's Braves, who defeated Philadelphia 5-1. Pittsburgh edged St. Louis 8-7.

Ruben Gomez pitched strong six-hitter for his 12th victory and Willie Mays went on an extra-base spree with two triples and a double for the Giants. The New Yorkers combed Paul Minner for 11 hits good for 20 bases in winning their seventh in a row.

Brooklyn grabbed a 4-1 lead after two innings, checked a Cincinnati threat that cut it to 5-4 after five, then piled it on the Redlegs at Crosley field with a home-run barrage. Sandy Amoros hit two out of the park. Duke Snider and Carl Furillo hit one each.

Warren Spahn, who lost 8 of his first 18 games, won his seventh in a row at the expense of the Phillies. Bobby Thomson started a game for the first time this season and drove home two runs with a single and a double off Robin Roberts, who suffered his 12th loss. Thomson broke his ankle during spring training after being traded by the New York Giants.

A home-run attack by the Pirates ruined Harvey Haddix' fifth bid for his 16th victory. Frank Thomas Jack Shepard and Sid Gordon all hit into the seats at Busch Stadium in St. Louis.

Jack Harshman shut out Washington for the White Sox for the third time this season, giving up just four hits. He also hit a home run and struck out 10.

Boston's drive for the first division was halted, at least temporarily, by the Tigers when Harvey Kuenn singled home Frank Bolling with the winning run off Ellis Kinder in the eighth.

Lakeland Mauled

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa.—Bill Masucci struck out ten and allowed only two hits yesterday afternoon as Schenectady, New York routed Lakeland, Florida 16-0 in the first round of the eighth annual Little League World Series.

Masucci also starred at bat, going the longest home run in World Series history during a seven run, third inning uprising.

The New York team just had too much depth and power for the Region Five champions.

In other first round games yesterday, California defeated Virginia 4-2 and Illinois nosed out Texas 6-5.

Phantoms In Last Week Of Contact

Greenville's Phantoms practiced in the cool of the night last night at Guy Smith Stadium as the final week of contact work is drawing to a close.

Coach Kittrell is not planning any contact work for next week since his squad is so small he can't risk an injury. At yesterday's practice the G-men had 26 out for practice with still several more boys expected to report.

The G-men have only eight more days of practice before the opening game against Wilson on September 3. Last year the two teams played a whole of a ball game in their season opener. The Greenies emerged the 12-0 winner on the strength of a spectacular defense and James Speight's brilliant offensive play. In that game Speight averaged 10 yards per carry on offense.

Wilson is supposed to be a little stronger this year with most of the players back including quarterback Freddie Deans, who was their whole offense.

This season's game will be played in Wilson.

Moses Ward To Sub For Holly Mims At Garden

NEW YORK (AP)—Husky Moses Ward of Detroit, subbing on 48 hours notice for Holly Mims, is a 1-2 favorite to whip burly Tuzo (Kid) Portugez of Costa Rica in a 10-round television fight at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Fight is the word to describe the meeting of the two middleweights. Ward, a 22-year-old auto worker, throws punches in abundance. Portugez, 26-year-old Central American champion, knows as much about boxing finesse as he does about the English language. His vocabulary is limited to the essentials, like "Okay."

The curly-haired Latin American's record is 83-174 with 27 kayos.

Ward, apparently headed for fistic oblivion following losses to Willie Troy, Mims and George Johnson, shot back into the limelight with a seven-round knockout of Canadian Gordon Wallace and an upset decision over touted Yolande Pompey of Trinidad and England. The last one was scored in a TV fight beamed out of Chicago on July 21.

LONDON — Sammy McCarthy, 127½, England, stopped Enrico Micale, 127, Italy, 8.

Ezzard Knows It's His Final Chance

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Ezzard Charles never has been a man who felt at ease in the company of boxing writers. While trying to interview the big Negro fighter one always has had the feeling that he was holding himself rigidly in check saying as little as he could without actually offending those who were probing his thoughts.

This has been understandable to some extent, for Ezzard has been given some rough goings-over on the sports pages from time to time for his failure to fight up to expectations. These have hurt him, for he is a more intelligent and sensitive fighter than some, and his reaction has been to clam up except in the presence of certain intimates.

It is from one of these that we have received a report on what the challenger is thinking as he trains for his second shot at Rocky Marciano Sept. 15 in Yankee Stadium. This is what Ez said to his friend:

"I feel great, better than the last time. You've either got it or you haven't. I had it the last time but I didn't use enough of it. I didn't take advantage of the breaks. When I hurt him I let him get away. It will be different this time."

"I've made up my mind it won't go 15 rounds. I've never made predictions or boasted about what I could do in the ring, as you know. I was confident I could beat him the last time, and now I'm more confident I can knock him out. "Always before there was too much time. Time heals, but it can kill too. When Joe Walcott took my title away in Pittsburgh in 1951 I wanted to get right back at him, but Joe made me wait almost a year. Have you ever waited for something, not knowing whether it's ever coming off? With Joe, there was no telling. Anyway, I waited and worried too much, and by the time I fought him again I was like an amateur. I had no zing no pep. . . .

"Finally I got my fight with Marciano. It was one of my best, and even if they gave him the decision I have no excuses. I still think I won it. But if I had fought him in February or March instead of June I would have knocked him out."

"When we signed right back for September I was the happiest I've been for a long time. A short rest and back to work. There is no time now for anything except the fight. Time won't kill me and it won't divert me. My mind is made up and there's no time to change it."

"I'm working for only one kind of fight. I'll either knock him out or get flattened trying. I know now I can match my punch with his. My left hook is as good as his. I will set him up with a left hook and he's an easy target for a straight right."

"You only make mistakes when you're too cautious. I have no more time for caution. This is my last chance and I know it."

Soviet Reveals Athletic Power In European Meet

BERN, Switzerland (AP)—Russia unveils today the results of two years of dedicated, almost military-like drive to rival the United States as the dominating world power in the 1956 Olympic track and field games.

The scene is Neufeld Stadium, site of the five-day European Athletic Championships, to which 98 track and field stars from 28 countries have been drawn.

The Soviet Union will field a team of 74 men and women. The men appear almost certain of three championships. The women actually may run off with every title and should place one, two, three in many.

But the greatest interest of Western onlookers centers not so much on well-known individual Soviet stars as on the Russian depth in every event.

A country may enter only two in each event and Russia looks powerful enough to place high in every one of the 24 contests, which include two walks and two relays.

To Russians, athletics have a political tinge and "outstripping the capitalist world has its place on the clinder track as well as in the tractor factory."

These European championships could turn into an Iron Curtain triumph in sports.

Czechoslovakia is bringing a squad headed by the great Emil Zatopek, world record holder in the 5,000 and 10,000 meters as well as a host of other distances. His compatriot Jiri Skobla is a strong favorite to win the shot put.

The Hungarians stand an excellent chance of winning the hammer with Olympic champion Joseph Csermark, the discus with

Bobby Thomson Back In Lineup; But Too Late

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Bobby Thomson is in the Milwaukee Braves' lineup to stay, but with only 34 games to play it may be too late for his bat to do what it was purchased for last winter.

The Flying Scot, grounded with his fractured ankle since spring training broke into the starting nine for the first time last night as the Braves opened a vital home stand. His third inning single drove in one run and his fifth inning doubled another as the Braves whipped Robin Roberts and the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-1.

"He's in there from now on," beamed Manager Charlie Grimm in the clubhouse later. "Man, did you see how those guys played with him in there? He's an automatic hit all by himself."

Turnesa Ousted In U.S. Amateur Play By Tarheel

By HUGH FULLEERTON JR.
DETROIT (AP)—Top-flight golfer, just like the fans, like to talk about the long hitters and there's one player here for the 54th U.S. Amateur Golf Championship who already has been the subject of innumerable locker room debates.

He's Dave Smith, a hulking North Carolina automobile dealer who remained in the tournament for today's third round by grace of luck, long drives and a miserable round by two-time former champion Willie Turnesa.

Smith ousted Turnesa, the last of five former champions in the tournament, by a 4 and 3 margin to go into today's double round of 18-hole matches along with such more celebrated golfers as Harvey Ward, Frank Stranahan, Billy Joe Patton, Don Cherry, Jim Jackson, Bill Campbell, Dale Morey and Bob Sweeney.

This list included the runner-up in last year's tournament, Morey, and three players who have captured the British Amateur Chamionship but never the United States title—Ward, Stranahan and Sweeney.

But when long, wild hitting was up for discussion, there was only one who could give Smith an argument, Savannah's Hobart Manley. Most players who have gone up against both say that big Dave North Carolina automobile dealer who remained in the tournament for today's third round by grace of luck, long drives and a miserable round by two-time former champion Willie Turnesa.

It could be that Kid Gavilan will be defending his welterweight championship for the last time when he puts it on the line in Connie Mack Stadium, Philadelphia, against Johnny Saxton. The Cuban Hawk has lost much of his enthusiasm for fighting as a welterweight, mainly because the rigors of weight-making are becoming more and more taxing.

Saxton might well upset The Kid, too, because Gavilan may be a bit rusty this time. The Cuban has been inactive since he lost to Bobo Olson last April. Gavilan made his unsuccessful bid for the middleweight crown with an injured right hand. The slow mending of the injury forced him to call off a bout with Johnny Braton. Saxton has won 43 of his 46 bouts and is rated an excellent boxer, but not a finishing puncher. Gil Turner and Del Flanagan scored over Saxton, and Johnny Lombardo held him to a draw.

Promoter Herman Taylor is coming up with a new gimmick in the form of a ring canopy when he stages the title bout in Connie Mack Stadium. The fight will go on, rain or shine, because all spectators will be seated in the covered stands with only the working press, radio and television personnel on the field and under the canopy. Both Gavilan and Saxton have campaigned frequently in Philadelphia. In fact, Philadelphians have practically adopted Saxton in hopes that he will avenge the beating their own Gil Turner by Gavilan.

Giants' Pennant March Is On A Day-To-Day Basis

CHICAGO (AP)—With seven straight victories the New York Giants are catching a good whiff of the National League pennant scent—but Manager Leo Durocher is being demure about the whole thing.

"I'm not thinking about the Dodgers or Milwaukee," he insists, as he has before. "We're playing just day to day. Today it's the Cubs and if I have to use eight pitchers to win, I'll do it."

One pitcher, Ruben Gomez, did nicely yesterday as he stifled the Cubs on five singles and a double for a 5-1 victory, his 12th of the campaign.

His mates, led by baseball's wonder boy, Willie Mays included three triples and as many doubles in their 11 blows off lefty Paul Minner.

Mays walloped a double and a pair of three-baggers in his first three turns to account for his first and total 60 extra base hits among his 147 blows for the season.

The triumph gave the Giants steam in an attempt to stretch their longest winning streak of 1954.

A victory today would match their previous best skein of eight compiled from June 24 to July 2. And if they can sweep the three-game Cub series they will invade Milwaukee for a two-game series Friday in fine fettle, indeed. The Giants have lost six straight to the Braves.

During the current winning march, Durocher has been using a sort of platoon system. Against southpaw pitchers he puts Bill Gardner on third, Bob Hofman on first and Monte Irvin in left field.

For righthanders he sends in veterans Whitey Lockman at first, Hank Thompson at third and replaces Irvin with Dusty Rhodes.

Elks Sparked Great Little League Year

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Editor

Now that Lakeland has been eliminated from the Little League World Series, the interest of the Greenville people will probably wander to the High School and college sports instead of the Little League picture.

Before the Little Leaguers leave the scene some of the happenings of the year should be reviewed. Without a doubt the most spectacular performance of the year was the Elks' fabulous victory skein. Coach Tom Rowlette's squad roared through 18 consecutive ball games without a defeat, the first Greenville Little League entry to do so.

Merryl Bynum, the star outfielder and pitcher for the Elks, posted a fantastic batting average of .647 for the year with four regular season home runs. Bynum pitched two no-hitters during regular season play and pitched a one-hit ball game in the playoffs.

Jack Whitley of the Pepsi-Cola and Billy Jenkins of the Elks also pitched no-hitters during the year. Jenkins and Jeff Fountain wound up with terrific batting averages for the year. Jenkins hit 510 and Fountain posted a .585 figure.

Over in the North State League Burton Jenkins smacked out six home runs to lead that league. Aubrey Harrison's .500 average led the league in hitting.

The Lions won the championship in the North State League by winning both halves of play.

One of the big losses of the year was handed to the Tar Heel League all-stars when they lost Larry Roberts for the all-star games. Roberts was heavily counted on as a slugger and as a fill-in for catcher Bill Clapp of the Exchange. Roberts ferried a tobacco truck while working with his father and dislocated his shoulder and broke his arm.

Roberts had a batting average of well over .400 for the season play and was beginning to come around as a pitcher for Coach Neely James' strong Exchange crew.

Larry could have helped the team in Durham probably when they needed a relief pitcher.

The Elks came up with one of the best infields in the history of the league. Joe Moya is probably the best first baseman the league has ever had. Moya was a terrific clutch hitter and he clobbered the pitching in his league for a .467 average. Harry Forbes ranks right with Ike Riddick, and probably higher, as the best shortstop ever in the league. Forbes was not quite the hitter that Riddick was but he could field circles around him. Bobby Arthur is just as dependable third baseman as there has been here. A steady .404 hitter, Arthur came through in the clutch during the playoffs.

Bill Clapp of the Exchange is one of the best catchers in league history and turned into a very valuable pitcher in the playoffs. Clapp hit .480 during regular season play.

Not all the stars are through with Little League ball either. Billy James is a bright young star of the future as he proved this year. Rick Sauve also has two more years while Jeff Fountain, Jack Whitley, and many others will be back next call.

HOLLOW SILVER

By HELEN TOPPING MILLER

Penn swerved her speeding car sufficiently to avoid striking the crouched figure that had loomed suddenly on the highway. She slammed on her brakes to be confronted by a very angry young man who had stopped by the roadside near Washington, D.C., to tinker with the jalopy which had died on his hands. She learns that he is Marsh Nichols, war-vet and resident of the area. Penn offers to drive him to his home, identifying herself as Penn Houk, niece of Senator Elihu Storey. He rejects her offer scornfully, adding that he wants no part of the Storey clan. When Penn reaches the Storey "mansion" where she resides with her Uncle Elihu and his wife, A u s t Maude, she finds the Senator greatly perturbed ready to leave on an unexpected plane-flight to his home-state in the middle west.

CHAPTER THREE

GEORGE HOUK never sat down. He was a pacer a stalker, and he was pacing now between the windows, halting only long enough to jab out a cigaret as he passed an ashtray. His hair was thin and beginning to turn gray and he coaxed mossy wisps over the balding places, pasting it down with stuff in a way his sister thought revolting.

All that George earned he spent on clothes, which were always a shade too natty for Maude's taste. She admitted to herself that she had never cared greatly for George, though she wanted him to do well because all her family eyed it to Elihu to do well.

"For goodness sake, sit down!" she greeted him. "Elihu's taking a shower."

"He'd better make it snappy. We've got an hour and 40 minutes and we have to go to Meridian hill to pick up the Mapes woman. And you know what traffic will be this time of day." He was peevish. He lit another cigaret, snapping his lighter several times, then finally resorting to a match.

"You should go, too, George. You should go and see Mama."

"What for? Mama hasn't written me a line in a year. Not since Christmas. She's busy. She's happy."

"They're getting old. They're both past 70. They might be sick and not let us know. I'll make Elihu promise to run out there. I ought to send them something but there isn't time now."

She moved off vaguely. George always made her feel vague, unfinished, confused. That was because they had nothing in common except their birth and neither cared particularly to remember the fact of having been born to the same parents.

Wendell had been so different. Her dead brother was clothed in glamor and excitement in her mind, perhaps because his daughters, who looked like him kept him alive there, perhaps because he would wear always the haunting luster of the lost. She had always been jealous of his wife Estral, but she could never be silly enough to be jealous of any woman who was so stupid as to marry George. It was unlikely now that any woman ever would.

Elihu came down, carrying his bag. Maude noted that he puffed a little and that his clothes looked too tight for him, his shirt collar lost in a fold of pink flesh, his hat already marking a hot ridge on his waxy forehead.

He kissed her perfunctorily. Maude stood in the open door and watched the car as it roared out through the gate. A little green roadster had halted, waiting beyond the gate to let it pass. A horn tooted farewell, then the roadster slid in over the gravel and came to a quick stop beside the house.

The girl who got out, twisting past the open door in lithe fashion, had sleek dark hair brushed back, golden legs beneath a full plaid skirt and impatient, merry brows above violet eyes.

This was Quincy Houk. "A n d where," she asked, "is the senator off to now?"

Maude frowned closing the screen behind them. "Your uncle," she said with faint reproach, "is flying home tonight."

"What's he going after?" questioned Quincy blithely.

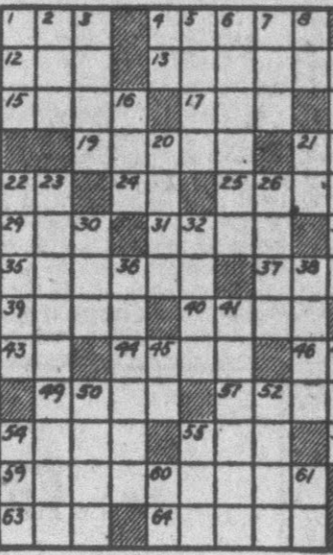

"I'm not aware that he is going after anything."

"Oh, Uncle Elihu is always after something. Where would he be—all the greedy tribe of Houks and Storeys—if he weren't?"

"I'm going out," snapped Maude. "You girls will have to fix your own supper."

For two days Penn had been restless and disturbed. And now Quincy was being a nuisance. There were times when Penn was irritated at her twin sister. True, Quincy had a kind of vividness, but it was purely feminine beauty, accented in a very female fashion.

"You're getting crows' feet scowling so often," Quincy said, lying back on the bed, her legs crossed in coral silk breeches.

bright green mules dangling from her painted toes. "Where you get the fantastic idea that it's intellectual to look mad all the time—it's spolling your looks."

"I'm not mad all the time." Penn was drying her hair, twisting it in a towel so that her face had a stark, undefended and very young look. "Merely because I don't go around grinning you decide I'm angry about something. Frankly, I see mighty little that amuses me."

"Oh I do," declared Quincy. "The whole world amuses me. It's so full of hilarious cartoons of people. Take Uncle Elihu. We know he's a sweet old phony who cares less for the people back home who send him to the Senate than we do, and we know that the only reason he hasn't put his whole family on the federal payroll is because he doesn't want an investigating committee from the hostile party after him. He's a lamb, but to my mind he's got less real ethics than a June bug."

"I hate that kind of talk." Penn shook out her black hair ran a comb through it with vigorous jerks. "I love Uncle Elihu. But he does give me a guilt complex—I suppose because I profit by everything he does, because I have to be a complacent dependent. Rutherford says he's a symbol of decadence."

"Oh, Rufe! If Uncle Elihu's a symbol, so is Rufe. Of the decadence of American manhood," snorted Quincy.

"The thing that bothers me is that you and I are caught in a web of dependency. If there's anger in me it's because I haven't got the strength of character to fight out of it."

Quincy rolled on an elbow and lighted a cigaret. "I'm not so noble. I adore being dependent. I like being comfortable. I like presents and things. Why don't you go back out to the prairie and live with grandma if you're so irked by all this luxury? Grandma would let you bathe in a bathtub and help her can tomatoes."

"I don't go because I'm a weak character. And so are you, and that's Uncle Elihu's crime against us, that he's made all his family weak characters. Look at Gregg—look at Rufe. Of course Gil does stand on his own feet somewhat."

"Just what I said. Caricatures of people! But I don't agree about Gil. What would he have been if Uncle Elihu hadn't wangled an appointment at Annapolis for him? Another frustrated misfit in some inconsequential job or other, like Gregg, like Rufe."

"At least Gil had enough in him to go on from there." Penn twisted her hair into little anchovies and speared each with a bobby pin. "If that brainless little beauty Gil married doesn't ruin his career."

"You were always slightly soft about Gil, I remember." Quincy said. "I like Winifred. She's so utterly and naively normal."

"She doesn't love Gil," persisted Penn. "She resents the Navy."

"Because the Navy is Gil's first love and she knows it. You're morbid, you read too much stuff."

Schools Asked To Start Air Raid Alert Drills

RALEIGH — State Civil Defense Director Edward F. Griffin today advocated that training of school children in safety procedure during air raid alerts be started with the least possible delay after the opening of the fall school term. Full instructions have been placed in the hands of school superintendents and local PTA presidents, he said.

"Civil Defense In Schools", a handbook of instruction, issued last year by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Charles F. Carroll, in accord with State Civil Defense policies, is a simple adaptation of "what-to-do" activities in event of emergency during school hours. Assistance from the local Civil Defense Director in translating the instruction into action would be helpful, but not essential, Griffin said. The handbook was sent to all school superintendents — city and county — immediately after publication.

North Carolina Congress of Parents and Teachers headquarters has mailed this month, copies of the handbook, with a cover letter from "the organization's" CD committee chairman, to all local PTA presidents. The letter urged that the instructions be turned over to school principals and used to the fullest advantage.

"The cooperative efforts of the department of Public Instruction and state PTA with North Carolina Civil Defense, in publishing and distributing this vital information to school authorities, represents the limit of our present authority," the state director said. "Public opinion will have to do the rest."

"If and when the general public wakes up to the fact that we must prepare for any eventuality during this uneasy period of international tension... then every youngster will receive the protective training to which he is entitled if he is going to survive in the atomic age... Let's hope it won't be too later." He concluded.

BETTER VISION BETTER SHOPPING

Shopping is supposed to be one of woman's most enjoyable pleasures. But some women find it tiring. After a day of examining price tags and materials, a day spent in stores chock full of all kinds of merchandise — they arrive home headachy and tired and irritable.

Poor vision is often to blame. When eyesight defects are corrected, shopping returns to its place as a pleasure. Keen eyesight can buy better, too — bargains are really bargains.

What will the car you buy be worth next year?

Here's the tip-off: Throughout the industry, there's a definite trend toward V-8 power, and Ford is the only car in the low-price field that offers you a V-8 engine... plus over-all styling and mechanical features most like the new cars of tomorrow.

Keep these things in mind!

Will it have a V-8 engine?
 Only Ford in its field offers you low-friction, deep-block engines... only Ford offers a V-8! The 130-h.p. Y-block V-8 and the 115-h.p. I-block Six are the most modern engines in America.

Will it have new Ball-Joint Suspension?
 Gone are kingpins! You ride easier, steer easier on ball joints. And only Ford in its field offers this extra feature which is sure to spell extra value when it comes trade-in time.

Will it have the latest power assists?
 Ford has all five! And they do more. For example: where another low-priced car has power to lift front windows only, Ford's lifts all four. And power moves the seat not just back and forward, but to the height you select, too. Power steering, power brakes and Fordomatic Drive are other power assists which will make your Ford worth more. It pays to own Ford.

It takes all these modern "Worth More" features to make sure your new car will bring you the best return when you sell it. And only Ford in its field has them!

Worth more when you buy it... worth more when you sell it!

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market presented an uneven price picture today in the early afternoon.

Prices moved within a fairly narrow range easily encompassed by 2 points either way. There were a few exceptions.

Business was quiet at a pace a little under two million shares, the first time it has fallen so low since early July. Yesterday's total in a falling market was 2,000,000 shares.

Aircrafts were mostly lower. Curtis-Wright, however, was up around a point after directors declared a dividend of 25 cents as compared with 15 cents paid in previous quarters. Garrett Corp. was usually weak with a loss of between 3 and 4 points.

The railroads were down along with the distillers. In the latter group Austin Nichols reacted from its previous strength with a fall of a little more than a point.

Chemicals, on the other hand, reversed their recent weakness and forged ahead. Virginia-Carolina Chemical was up a little more than 2 points.

The motion picture issues were strong with Loew's trading in blocks as large as 6,900 shares up a major fraction.

In the mixed class were the motors, steels, rubbers, oils, airlines, radio-television, and the utilities.

CHICAGO (AP)—(USDA)—Salable hogs 6,800; slow and uneven; butchers 25 lower although a few early sales about steady; sows steady to strong; most sales choice 190-270 lb 22.25-22.75; latter price practical top; limited number 22.25-23.10; 160-180 lb lights 20.00-22.00; heavier butchers scarce; a few 280-320 lb 21.00-22.50; sows 330-400 lb 18.50-20.00; lighter weights 20.25-21.25; larger lots 425-600 lb 16.50-18.75.

Salable cattle 15,000; calves 400; high choice and prime steers and heifers fairly active; other grades slow; market steady to 25 lower; other classes steady; bulk choice and prime steers 22.75-26.50; a few loads 26.75 and one load 1,107 lb weights 27.00; good to low choice steers 19.50-22.25; high choice and prime heifers and mixed yearlings 23.25-25.50; most good to high choice heifers 18.50-23.00; utility and commercial cows 9.50-12.50; canners and cutters 7.00-9.50; utility and commercial bulls 12.00-14.50; good and choice vealers 18.00-22.00.

Search For Man In Hotel Slaying

GREENSBORO (AP)—A search continued today for a lean fellow man with a bandaged leg, thought to be the last person to see Mrs. Florence Spencer Tate, 35, of Brown Summit, alive.

She was the victim of what Guilford County Coroner Dr. W. W. Harvey described as "the most brutal murder I have ever seen."

Her body was found in a Carolina Hotel room yesterday. She had been stabbed and her nude body lay in a pool of blood.

A hotel clerk discovered the body when he entered the room after receiving no answer at the door. The woman had registered the night before with a man as Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Phipps of Winston-Salem.

An autopsy showed she died of hemorrhage and shock. She had been stabbed in the abdomen, one of the wounds reaching the lower intestines.

She was the mother of two children, a son, 7, and a daughter, 8, now in a Winston-Salem orphanage.

Police said the woman had a record of alcoholism and several times had been committed to "cure" institutions.

Police expressed the belief the woman had been married several times. One husband, the late Wallace Spencer, left an estate of about $100,000, which has not been liquidated. It will go to the two children.

SCHOOL OPENS—School really opened for these youngsters, shown here with their parents and the Arthur School first grade teacher, as the two first graders enrolled this morning as students for the first time. There are several hundred such youngsters entering school for the first time in Pitt County today as the 1954-55 school term began. Shown here, left to right: Mrs. Arthur Wayne of Greenville Route 1; her daughter, Mary Frances; Arthur first grade teacher Mrs. Bruce Strickland; first grader Danny Ray Memaio and his grandmother, Mrs. M. Settlements In Cases Reached Judgments were entered yesterday in Pitt Superior Court in four civil actions arising as a result of an automobile accident near Winterville last December 15.

Settlements were reached in all four of the cases and the judgments were signed by Judge Joseph W. Parker, presiding over the current term of court.

In the case of W. A. Stox vs. J. B. Nichols, Guy Nichols, Sidney Baker, E. A. Crawford and Willis McDonald Crawford, a $2,500 settlement was reached, according to the judgment. The plaintiff is to recover $1,500 from J. B. Nichols, Guy Nichols and Sidney Baker, and $1,500 from R. A. Crawford and Willis McDonald Crawford.

In the case of Barbara Jean Stox, by her next friend W. A. Stox against the same defendants, a $4,000 settlement was reached. The plaintiff is to recover $2,000 from J. B. Nichols, Guy Nichols and Sidney Baker, and $2,000 from R. A. Crawford and Willis McDonald Crawford.

In each case, the defendants were taxed with the cost of the action as a part of the settlements.

Warmer Here Than Year Ago Yesterday

The highest temperature in Greenville yesterday was 93, and that was 11 degrees higher than on the same day a year ago.

The lowest temperature here last night was 64, and that was seven degrees higher than at the same time last year.

Mr. Joseph R. Sutton, 80, died in Parrott Memorial Hospital in Kinston at 9:55 o'clock Tuesday night. He had been in failing health for five years and critically ill for a month.

Funeral services will be conducted at the home in LaGrange Thursday afternoon at three o'clock and burial will be in the Fairview Cemetery in LaGrange. The Rev. Robert L. Bame, Methodist minister of LaGrange, assisted by the Rev. Thomas J. Morris, Christian minister of Hookerton, will officiate.

Mr. Sutton, son of the late Egbert and Emma Hill Sutton, spent all his life in the LaGrange community. He was a member of the LaGrange Methodist Church.

Surviving are his wife, the former Nettie Mae Smith of Wayne County, to whom he was married in 1927; two sons, Pfc. Franklin D. Sutton of the U.S. Army, now at Camp

Stewart, Ga., and Joseph E. Sutton of the home; seven daughters, Mrs. Carl Wood of LaGrange, Mrs. Glenn Batty of Melrose Park, Ill., Mark Wood of Hookerton, Mrs. Billy Rogers of Kinston, Mrs. Mearl Boone of San Antonio, Texas, and Misses Lila Ruth and Lillian Sutton of the home; four grandchildren; two brothers, Albert Sutton of LaGrange and Raymond Sutton of Washington, D. C.; and two sisters, Mrs. George B. Ward of LaGrange and Mrs. Ed Sutton of Goldsboro.

Woolard Speaks At Bethel Rotary

BETHEL—President W. H. Woolard of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company, guest speaker at the Rotary Club's supper meeting Tuesday night, gave an outline history of Bethel.

The meeting was held on Zeb Vance Bunting's farm, with Bunting, Swan Ives and Charles Ives as hosts at a barbecue supper.

The Rotarians had as guests 25 members of the Bethel Volunteer Fire Department, Bethel town officials and others. The firemen were celebrating their 25th anniversary. President J. C. Wynne announced.

Woolard spoke informally and complimented Bethel's Mayor Bob Martin and other town officials and employees for the progress Bethel has made during the last 48 years. He gave a word picture of what the town was like nearly half a century ago, and paid tribute to the younger generation for ambitious and progressive ideas. In his reminiscences, the Greenville banker pointed out that Bethel's progress and prosperity is due to the initiatives and enterprise of the citizens and those who live nearby.

President Wynne recognized Fire Chief J. W. Minton, who gave a brief history of the department since it was organized in 1929. Minton said the firemen appreciate the fire-fighting equipment provided and expressed special appreciation of the rural fire-fighting truck.

Rotarian Bob Martin said the invocation. President Wynne thanked Rotarians Bunting, Swan Ives and Charles Ives for their hospitality.

Reward Offered For Any Ghost

WEST HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP)—An undertaker here offers a $1,000 reward for the capture of ghosts, dead or alive.

Alan Wright says his new funeral chapel has stirred fears among the superstitious that ghosts will come to town along with his activities. He is the first undertaker to operate in this community.

Surviving are a son, Ralph H. Wilkinson of Drakes Branch, Va.; a granddaughter; and three sisters: Mrs. Virginia H. Perkins and Mrs. Louise H. Thornton of Greenville, and Mrs. Frances M. Power of Miami, Fla.

A reunion of the Wilson family was held at Triumph Church Sunday, August 22, at 2 o'clock. It was held in honor of the late Mrs. Annie Wilson, who was 108 years old when she died. This reunion was begun by Mrs. A. B. Taft of Rocky Mount in August 1949.

Officers of this family reunion are: Mrs. Verna B. Hawkins, president; Mrs. Flora Price, secretary; Mr. Johnnie Little, treasurer; Mrs. Annie Ebron Jackson, corresponding secretary.

The meeting was opened with the advisor, Rev. Wilson, in charge. After devotion the minutes were read and adopted. Following the minutes collection was taken for a tombstone for Mrs. Annie Wilson, the mother, grandmother, great and great, great grandmother.

After old and new business, there was a sermon by the grandson, Rev. W. S. Wilson. His text was taken from John 14:18 which was: "I will not leave you comfortless; I will come to you."

Collection was taken by Ernest Taft and Zacariah Price to be given to the honorary members. They are as follows: Mesdames Fannie Langley, Temple Price, Mary Eppard, Irene Rhome, Anny Little, Miranda Little, Messrs. John Little and Edd Langley.

The meeting was closed and dinner was served by the family. It is hoped that the family will look forward to a greater time the fourth Sunday in August 1955.

Union Official Beaten To Death

CLEVELAND (AP)—A club-wielding killer dragged a 36-year-old union official from his automobile last night and beat him to death a few houses away from his home.

The official was Rahmond Weirouch, a vice president of the CIO United Auto Workers Local 515 and the union's chief steward at the Iron Fireman Stoker Co.

Police today were searching for the murderer, who fled in his car after a witness started toward the scene.

The witness was Walter Hahn, who gave this description of the slaying:

Weirouch's car sped into the street, stopped suddenly and started to back into a parking place. Another car stopped at the nearby corner and Weirouch's car backed into it.

The driver ran up, dragged Weirouch from his parked automobile and clubbed him to the ground.

The president of Local 515, H. L. Sarge, said Weirouch had been a good union man and well-liked, and that he doubted the slaying had any union connection.

Weirouch was married and the father of four children.
