Two Plates

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina motor vehicles will display two license plates each in 1955.

For several years the state has issued only one plate per vehicle. Motor Vehicle Commissioner Ed Scheidt said yesterday the law provides that the state issue two plates unless there is a steel shortage...

The 1955 plates, which go on sale in December, will be orange on black. The state will issue about 1,300,000 sets for cars, trucks and buses and 100,000 single tags to trailers and motorcycles.

GOP Leaders To Heavily Rely On Eisenhower As Vote-Getter

CINCINNATI (AP)—Republican party leaders grabbed President Eisenhower's political coattails firmly today in an effort to translate the Eisenhower appeal of 1952 into congressional victories at the polls in November.

If an apparent majority of members attending the GOP National Committee workshop sessions here have their way, the Eisenhower personality may be pumped into nearly every critical campaign area in the country by on-the-spot and television appearances and by radio appeals.

Rep. Richard Simpson of Pennsylvania chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, told a news conference yesterday Eisenhower is going to be more active in this non-presidential-year battle for control of Congress than any president in the last 30 years.

While there was doubt Eisenhower would attempt to match the her troops to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

Many deputies who supported the European army swore to vote against German rearmament without the controls EDC would have provided.

American diplomats and military leaders here did not take too seriously the unofficial talk heard in the United States that America and Britain might go ahead alone with the rearming of Germany if France tried to slow the pace again.

But sources here were aware that American vexation already has been reflected in congressional curbs put both on the quantity of money voted for Europe and the manner in which it could be spent.

With the idea for a centrally controlled European army defeated, American British, West German and French officials prepared to find a replacement as quickly as possible.

A British Foreign Office spokesman said that talks would be arranged immediately to give Germany her independence, which up to now has been dependent on creation of the European army.

French Premier Pierre Mendès-France already has said he would go along with the speedy restoration of sovereignty to West Germany, but he has emphasized that this endorsement does not include rearmament.

Any British-American effort to bypass the French on this likely would precipitate a crisis in the North Atlantic Alliance. The British-American plan for restoring German sovereignty so far have specified that rearming must wait.

Canadian officials in Ottawa said the only logical answer to the Western dilemma was to bring West Germany into NATO.

Other anti-Communist quarters in Western Europe grudgingly conceded the Reds had made a gain as a result of the French action but refused to give up hope of finding a way to rearm Germany.

Underlying the feelings ranging from painful disappointment to outright bitterness against the French were fears the setback might lead the United States to withdraw from Europe. The Communists, with Moscow calling the tune, were jubilant.

Britons looked to Prime Minister Churchill once again to save the day.

His foreign secretary, Anthony Eden, decided to send deputy to represent Britain in the Southeast Asia defense talks opening next week in Manila and stay home himself to deal with the European crisis.

Atop Flagpole For Eight Days

DETROIT (AP)—Richard "Dixie" Blandy of Dayton, Ohio, calmly shifted from one foot to another today atop a 50 foot flagpole at the Michigan State Fairgrounds.

Blandy, 52, a former flagpole painter, climbed up on the pole yesterday. He stands on a small two feet square platform and says he will not come down for at least eight days. He was hired to publicize the state fair which opens Friday.

"I'll stay on top of the pole until my feet swell so badly I can't take it any more," Blandy says. "Then I'll come down and go to a hospital for treatment."

HEAVY WORDAGE

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Western Union Telegraph Co. says newsmen so far have filed a total of 1,149,000 words on the World Council of Churches Assembly. This file is second only to that of the 1952 presidential nomination conventions in Chicago.

whistle-stopping activities of Democratic form? President Truman in 1950. Simpson insisted that "before this campaign is over, by way of personal appearance, television and radio, the President will have done more to influence the election than any president has done in the last 30 years."

"Beyond any question," Simpson said, "as the President considers the picture, his actions between now and the election will reflect the realization that he must have a Republican-controlled House and Senate."

The general reaction among National Committee members was one of hope that Eisenhower would put on the kind of vigorous personal campaign that Simpson outlined.

Simpson said Eisenhower can be expected to make an appearance in Kentucky.

Carolinas Safe As Gales Hit New England

WASHINGTON (AP)—A weakened Hurricane Carol switched its Atlantic course early today heading for Long Island and the southern New England states.

A 5:30 a.m. EST, special Weather Bureau warning said the storm will cross Long Island and sweep into New England by noon EST, with 50-60 m.p.h. winds "attended by very heavy rains and very high tides."

Storm warnings were hoisted from Cape May, N. J., north to Portsmouth, N. H.

Winds of 75 m.p.h. lashed the North Carolina coast yesterday to drive vacationists from the beaches. There was some damage, but no deaths or serious injuries were reported.

After traveling out in the Atlantic at a fairly leisurely 18-20 m.p.h., the Weather Bureau said, Carol suddenly picked up speed and turned to a more northward course toward the mainland.

Gale winds—40 to 70 m.p.h. or so—stretched outward 200 miles to the east and 180 miles to the west.

"All precautions," the advisory said "should be taken for high tides and onshore gales from central Long Island to central Nantucket, Mass."

In North Carolina, wind and heavy rain damaged power and communication lines. Trees were blown down and a few houses lost their roofs.

Thousands of vacationists scurried from the beaches extending from below Wilmington, N. C., to Morehead City and on along the sparsely-settled outer banks. Some had difficulty getting away as high seas swept over low roads.

Well-warned residents of the area took every precaution against the storm. Exposed beaches were evacuated. The Red Cross, state and local authorities set up refuge centers and disaster organizations, most of which were not needed.

Huge Camp Lejeune the Marine base near Jacksonville, N. C., and the Cherry Point Marine Air Base escaped with minor damage.

High tides posed the biggest threat to land today. The Norfolk Weather Bureau forecast a foot of water over some low streets there this morning when the storm center would be about 130 miles east of Norfolk.

South Carolina coastal resorts escaped major effects of the hurricane entirely.

The edge of the storm first whipped the Southport area of North Carolina, then lashed beaches around Wilmington and along the coast to Morehead City as it continued its north-northeastward course.

The Wilmington Weather Bureau recorded only 55 miles an hour at its inland station, but estimated 75-mile winds hit the beaches.

Water flowed over some streets at Carolina Beach, south of Wilmington. Three fishing piers there lost from 30 to 150 feet of their Kure and Wilmington Beach piers.

Coast Guardsmen, highway patrolmen and local officials joined in warning residents to seek safety and stood by to help in rescue efforts if needed.

Coast Guard planes dropped evacuation warnings to residents along the upper North Carolina coast in the Albemarle and Pamlico sounds areas. Guardsmen at Atlantic and Hatteras Inlet stations were evacuated.

The highway between Hatteras and Oregon Inlet was flooded. Shrimp and fishing boats crowded sheltered creeks and coves as they sought safety.

Atlantic Beach at Morehead City as well as the Morehead City-Beaufort area suffered only the usual minor damage.

BOSTON (AP)—A howling hurricane accompanied by fiercely driving rain struck New England with its full fury today setting adrift a loaded ammunition barge in Narragansett Bay in Rhode Island and causing a state of emergency to be declared in Providence, R. I., and New London, Conn.

The Weather Bureau, meanwhile, advised residents along the coasts of Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island to leave for high ground. This applied particularly to Narragansett Bay, Buzzards Bay and Cape Cod.

One man was reported drowned at Dartmouth, Mass., while trying to moor his boat. The Coast Guard was searching for three boys believed missing in Quincy Bay.

Cities and towns throughout southern New England including much of suburban Boston were without electricity. Telephone lines were down in scores of cities and towns in southern New England.

In New London, Conn., City Manager Edward Hinkle ordered a state of emergency. Thousands of homes lost their power, scores of trees were uprooted blocking highways and tearing down utility lines. All along the shore, residents were asked or ordered to leave their homes.

Wind-downed power lines plunged an estimated 50,000 homes and offices in New York City into darkness, as well as many more thousands in Long Island, New Jersey and New England. Many telephones likewise were out.

'Carol' Did More Good Than Harm

By ALVIN TAYLOR

Hurricane "Carol" apparently did Pitt County more good than harm yesterday as six-tenths of an inch of rain fell in the Greenville area with no reported damage.

Pitt County Farm Agent Sam Winchester said yesterday that "the rain ought to do a world of good" in this area.

Winchester said the rain should help out the sweet potato and peanut crops considerably. These two crops have been suffering badly from lack of rain, he indicated.

In addition pastures and hay crops should be helped a lot by the rainfall, the county agent said. Pastures had been drying up during the past dry spell.

Winchester noted, however, that most tobacco has already been harvested and for that reason the rain will have little effect on the tobacco crop.

He said only about two percent of the tobacco crop is left in the fields.

Power Lines

Greenville Utilities Superintendent Leonard Bloxam reported no damage to the power lines yesterday and last night.

"I don't believe we had any trouble at all," he said. "If we did it hasn't shown up yet."

Frank Harrington, manager of the local Carolina Telephone and Telegraph office, said that no major line damage had been reported to the local telephone office. He indicated that there had been some minor line damage such as would result from any wind storm but there had been no reports of major line breaks so far.

Various sections of the county reported no damage from the storm.

R. L. Martin, mayor of Bethel, reported that it rained nearly all day yesterday in that section. He said Bethel had a high wind for about three hours yesterday afternoon and last night for about three hours but no damage.

Heavy Rainfall

From Grimesland a heavy rainfall was reported but no damage from wind was observed in that section.

In Farmville, Charles S. Edwards, Chamber of Commerce, indicated that that section had a good rain yesterday. He said there was some wind yesterday afternoon but no damage from the storm.

The storm brought a big drop in temperatures to this section yesterday. Mrs. C. E. Maiden, local weather observer, reported that yesterday's high was 80 degrees. The low last night was 68 degrees and at 8 a.m. this morning it was 73.

The rainfall brought the total precipitation for the month of August to one and one-third inches.

Phone, Power Poles Going Up

Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company is now placing poles in the area north of and along East Fourth and Fifth Streets.

This was disclosed today by Frank Harrington, local manager for the telephone company who said that the poles will be jointly used by the Greenville utility and the telephone company. High tension power lines are always attached to the top portion of poles in cases of joint use.

This procedure, the manager explained, is practiced so that telephone linemen will not come in contact with dangerous high voltage power lines.

The telephone company is placing the poles in this area early in order that the city may have time to place their power facilities before the telephone company begins further expansion of telephone facilities in that section.

In the not too distant future, telephone linemen will place telephone cable on these poles to provide additional facilities to subscribers in the East Fourth and East Fifth Street area. Cable has already been placed in the College View section of the city.

However, Manager Harrington continued, the placing of cable facilities in this former area will not begin until current projects now in progress in the Southeastern section of the city are completed. The telephone company is now winding up a $50,000 project which will provide additional facilities in that section of town.

The East Fourth and Fifth Street projects call for an expenditure of some $37,000, the manager said.

Thief Borrowed Gun For Holdup

GLENDORA, Calif. (AP)—This thief didn't even bring his own pistol.

Miss Luella Palmer, clerk in a sporting goods store, told police that a man in a soiled T-shirt asked her to show him a .45 caliber automatic. He checked it to see that it would load properly, inserted a clip of bullets, pointed it at Miss Palmer, and took $35 from the cash register.

He walked out without paying for the pistol a $72.50 item.

Help Sent To Norwegian Ship

NOROLK, Va. (AP)—Coast Guard cutters and aircraft were dispatched today to assist the Norwegian vessel Skaraas, which reported she was disabled 25 miles east of Cape Lookout, N.C.

A spokesman at Coast Guard Headquarters here said the SS Ocean Prince was either standing by the Skaraas or had the disabled ship in tow.

President Says French Scuttling Of EDC 'Serious Setback Disappointed, But Not Discouraged'

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower last night called the French Parliament's scuttling of the European army project "a serious setback."

But he declared the United States never will quit the fight for free world security against any Communist threat.

"We have our setbacks, we are disappointed. But we must not be discouraged," the President said emphatically in a speech at the Iowa State Fair in Des Moines.

Eisenhower learned of the French Assembly's rejection of the European Defense Community plan for a six-nation army as he and Secretary of State Dulles were in conference on another matter in Washington yesterday.

He and Dulles immediately agreed that the chief executive would discuss the development in a general way in his Des Moines address.

They also agreed that Dulles would issue a statement in Washington today setting forth in more detail official U.S. reaction to French shelving of EDC.

The President then flew from Washington to Des Moines, where state fair officials estimated a crowd of about 25,000 persons heard him speak off the cuff.

Eisenhower spoke of EDC as "a device whereby the free world could establish, without indulging in the traditional fights among themselves in Western Europe, security from any threat from without."

Then, with former President Hoover on the speaker's stand behind him, he said:

"This proposal was established to allow Germany—Western Germany—to enter into defensive alliances without any danger whatsoever that it would be in a position to start a war or, indeed, to engage in any kind of aggression.

"Because of these characteristics of this plan, the U.S., Great Britain and all the Western nations stood for it and approved this great French plan.

"Now, there is no disguising the fact that this is a serious setback. But what I want to say to you people is this: The free world is still overwhelmingly strong, as compared to the Iron Curtain countries, in the people we have, in their levels of intelligence and understanding, in their skills, in agriculture and in industry."

The crowd jammed in the grandstand and the area to either side of it listened quietly and intently when the President declared:

"We must never be discouraged."

And there was a round of applause when he said:

"America has never quit, in something that was good for herself and the world. We will not quit now. We shall never do so."

The President and Hoover got a standing ovation when they mounted the speaker's stand after spending about 15 minutes inspecting prize livestock.

In his speech, Eisenhower said the United States must have friends because "we know that the central core of the great world problem is the aggressive intent of international communism."

Hammering at the importance of collective security in the face of that situation, he said:

"If the free world does not hang together, then the unity of communism, achieved by force, by the use of the police outside your door and the spy inside your home, that unity will take one nation at a time, beginning with the most exposed, and subdue it."

Then, repeating what he told the American Legion convention in Washington earlier yesterday, he said such a course would lead eventually to isolation of America.

The crowd cheered when he added that must never occur—"We shall not let it occur. And he declared:

"All this world needs—all this free world needs—is to be safe in a united approach to the problem of security and defense."

Reappraisal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today the United States will reappraise its foreign policies in the light of the French move killing the European army.

Dulles spoke in the wake of action by the French Parliament killing the idea of the European Defense Community under which six Western European countries would have set up a joint army.

The secretary said that now the three Western Powers—the United States, Britain, and France—must move quickly to do everything possible—to restore sovereignty to West Germany "and to enable it to contribute to international peace and security."

He attributed the defeat of EDC in the French National Assembly to "nationalism, abetted by communism" and said that the effect has been to "endanger the whole of Europe."

Tobacco Market Prices Hold Firm

Although averages slipped slightly reports indicate prices on the Greenville Tobacco Market remained firm yesterday.

Sales Supervisor W. L. Whedbee reported this morning the prices on medium and common lugs and on other grades remained firm at Friday's level with receipts picked up by Stabilization of the smallest of the entire season yesterday.

Whedbee said the top tobacco was stronger with more of the $68 to $69 pile going for $70 or above. Offerings yesterday consisted mainly of poor to fair grade lugs and printings and poor to fair grade leaf.

Whedbee reported the percentage of leaf on the floor is gradually increasing each day.

Yesterday $981,592 pounds were sold for $454,569.70. This average was $50.99.

Farmville About Same
Prices paid at Farmville yesterday were about the same as $45,930 pounds brought $234,129.25 for an average of $50.25 per hundred pounds.

Sales Supervisor Charles E. Edwards said Farmville had extra poor quality sales yesterday due to quite a bit of lugs on the floor. He said some sold as high as $73 per hundred pounds, however.

Legionnaires In Gigantic Parade

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American Legion aimed its mammoth convention parade—its biggest ever or close to it—down historic Pennsylvania Avenue today.

When it would end was anybody's guess.

Right up to the first "Forward march!" at 2 p.m., officials acknowledged they did not know how long the marchers would be stepping by. But, they predicted, it would be far into the night.

And they had plenty of advance statistics on the swirling mass of drum majorettes, legionnaires, ladies' auxiliary members and the fun-loving 40-and-8ers:

Some 75,000 to 80,000 parading for 8, maybe 12, hours to the music of about 350 bands. Along the route perhaps as many as 700,000 spectators, some of them government workers given the afternoon off. That would be bigger than the 65,000 or so marchers at the St. Louis legion convention last year, bigger even than the record 70,000-plus at New York in 1947.

Ten parade divisions, each with its own marching band, made up of marchers, bands and floats from the 48 states, District of Columbia and abroad.

A hundred square blocks marked off on Capitol Hill for the parade's formation area, big enough to handle 100,000 marchers, and a dispersal area of 35 square blocks near Lincoln Memorial.

Legion officials said the parade would go on regardless of weather.

Last night legion banquets heard Mrs. Chiang Kai-shek tell of China's Communist enslavement and Soviet Russia's actions toward her country since as far back as 1926.

Labor Day Weekend Is Declared 'Emergency'

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Gov. G. Mennen Williams has declared a state of emergency in Michigan over the long Labor Day weekend in an effort to reduce an anticipated high traffic death toll.

Williams signed an emergency declaration yesterday giving legal status to his previous act of calling out units of the Michigan National Guard to aid in patrolling state highways.

Michigan led the nation in highway deaths over the Fourth of July weekend with 33 fatalities.

During the emergency period, from noon Friday to noon Tuesday, Sept. 7, intensive air and ground patrols will cover state highways to seek out traffic violators.

Some 700 state National Guardsmen have been mobilized. They will draw full federal pay and allowances and will serve with local law enforcement agencies.

Citizens were called on "to essert extraordinary efforts" to obey traffic laws, all law enforcement agencies were told to "exercise special vigilance," press, radio and television were asked to publicize "the importance of care and caution," and Williams urged "that special prayers be offered in all places of worship for safe passage of loved ones during the period of heightened danger."

Man Run Over By His Own Auto

CRANSTON, R. I. (AP)—Harry Kirby Jr., 56, was run over by his own auto yesterday and suffered fractures of both legs and several ribs.

He said he parked the car on a steep driveway and had just lifted the hood when the car slipped its brakes and rolled over him.

Tried Smuggle Out Ammunition

LAREDO, Tex. (AP)—U.S. Customs officers said here tonight that three natives of El Salvador—two men and a woman—were arrested at the international boundary yesterday trying to smuggle 20,000 rounds of pistol ammunition into Mexico.

The ammunition for 32 and 38 caliber weapons, was concealed in false gas tanks on two new trucks. The three were driving. Customs said the ammunition apparently was purchased in Dallas, San Antonio and Temple, Tex.

Custom officials said the three probably would be charged tomorrow with violation of the Neutrality Act.

Japanese Fisherman Reported Dying From Radioactive Shower

By JOHN RANDOLPH

TOKYO (AP)—One of the 23 Japanese fishermen showered by radioactive ash from an H-bomb test at Bikini last March was reported near death today.

Doctors said the condition of Aikichi Kubomama, 39, was critical and "worsening." He is in a deep coma.

The fisherman's wife Suzu told a crowded news conference she had "given up hope" for her husband's life and said he had been blind since last night.

Informed observers said that if Kubomama dies, friendship between Japan and America will sink to the lowest point since the end of World War II.

They said his illness has drawn together 80 million people closer than any incident since the war. Hundreds milled outside the hospital waiting for news.

Many Japanese were said to feel the United States has treated the case of the burned fishermen too lightly.

The United States has offered compensation for the fishermen and for tuna catches destroyed because they were judged dangerously radioactive.

Japan has barred U. S. medical experts from helping to treat the injured fisherman and has permitted only occasional limited examinations.

A group of Indians, in Washington for the American Legion convention, chase Miss Washington, Linda Weisbrod, across the Capitol lawn. The Indians, Laguna tribesmen from near Albuquerque, N. M., are members of a band which will march in the Legion parade. This stunt was strictly their idea. A couple of photographers and a publicity man set up the "chase." (AP Wire

Stokes-Taylor Vows Spoken In Candlelight Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Catherine Tucker Taylor and Paul Anthony Stokes was solemnized Saturday afternoon at five o'clock in a candlelight ceremony in the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. The Rev. W. M. Howard, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Bridal greenery consisting of Emerald, plumose and huckleberry with standards of white gladioli, white chrysanthemums and cathedral candles were used to decorate the church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Taylor of near Greenville and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark C. Stokes of Greenville.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Chantilly lace over satin, fashioned with a basque bodice and full gathered skirt with sides of scalloped panels to the train. The front panel was of pleated nylon tulle. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and lavender and pink asters, tied with lavender satin ribbon.

The bridesmaids were Miss Ann Stokes, sister of the groom and Miss Hilda Speight of Greenville. They wore identical dresses of canary yellow net over taffeta made with fitted bodices and two rows of ruffles on the skirts giving an apron effect with which they wore matching stoles. Their head dresses were bandeaus of nylon tulle decorated with sweetheart roses. They carried colonial bouquets.

Following the rehearsal of the Stokes-Taylor wedding on Friday evening, Miss Alya Ray Taylor, aunt of the bride, entertained the bride and groom, the wedding party, members of their immediate families and out-of-town guests at an after rehearsal party at her home.

The home was beautifully decorated with late summer flowers and the bride's table was covered with a white cut work lace trimmed cloth. The centerpiece was a crystal epergne with an arrangement of Pompon chrysanthemums and fern. At one end of the table was a three tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom under the archway of orange blossoms and wedding bells. After the bride and groom had cut the first slice of cake, Mrs. J. B. Taylor, mother of the bride served the cake. At the opposite end of the table Mrs. R. D. Whitehurst served bridal ices from a silver platter with salted nuts and bridal mints.

From a table beautifully decorated with wedding bells and ivy lighted by candles in the living room punch was served by Mrs. Vernon P. von Drehe.

Studies show the largest number of Texans are most comfortable in summer when temperature is 78 and humidity 50 per cent.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Taylor honored the bride and groom at a reception in the church parlors. Mrs. Andrew J. Taylor welcomed the guests and Miss Alya Ray Taylor introduced them to the receiving line composed of the parents of the bride and groom, the bridal couple and their attendants. The table was covered with a satin cloth and was beautifully decorated with a centerpiece of white chrysanthemums with fern. Mrs. R. D. Whitehurst served punch and Mrs. Ruby Lum served

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Mitzi Taylor-Guilford Smith

Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church was the scene Sunday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock of the wedding of Miss Mitzi Sue Taylor, daughter of Mrs. Gherman Andrew Taylor Sr. and Mrs. Taylor of Greenville, and Mr. Guilford Coffield Smith Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Guilford Coffield Smith Sr. of South Charleston, West Virginia.

The Rev. W. M. Howard officiated at the double ring rites. Prior to the ceremony, Miss Janet Watson, organist, and Mrs. Moye Dall, soloist, presented a program of wedding music. Among the selections played by Miss Watson were "Trameli," "To A Wild Rose," and "Ave Maria." Mrs. Dall sang "Because," "Through The Years," and as a benediction "The Lord's Prayer."

For the wedding the church was decorated with seven-branch wrought iron candelabra holding lighted white cathedral candles and a wrought iron basket with sprays of white gladioli, pom pom chrysanthemums, and lace fern.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Gherman A. Taylor, the bride wore a wedding dress of handsome ivory brocade taffeta. It was an Emily model fashioned with lace yoke edged with a tiny lace ruffle. The back of the neck was finished with an old-fashioned standing lace collar. A row of self-covered buttons extended down the back from the neck to the waistline. The sleeves were puffed at the shoulder and tapered to tight fitting calla lily points over the hand. Her lace trimmed fingertip length veil of illusion was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a cameo pin which belonged to her maternal grandmother. She carried a white-purple throated orchid showered with Stephanotis and ribbon on a white prayer book.

Maid of honor was Miss Betty Lou Small of Greenville. She wore a floor-length gown of Nile green nylon net over taffeta, styled with a fitted bodice and full skirt with crushed net forming the straps. Her headpiece was a double ruffle of matching net. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink pom pom chrysanthemums with a cascade of matching pink ribbon.

Matron of honor was Mrs. James Dalton Griffin of Petersburg, Va. She wore a floor-length gown of blue nylon net over taffeta styled with fitted bodice of Chantilly lace and full skirt with wide insets of Chantilly lace down the front. Her headpiece was styled like that of the maid of honor. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow pom pom chrysanthemums with a cascade of matching yellow ribbon.

Junior bridesmaid was Miss Mary Ethel Jacobs of Savannah, Ga., cousin of the groom. She wore a floor-length gown of pink with headpiece of matching net styled similarly to the maid of honor. Her bouquet was a colonial bouquet of green pom pom chrysanthemums with a cascade of matching green ribbon.

Tucker of Rocky Mount, cousin of the bride. Her dress was of yellow nylon net over taffeta styled similarly to the maid of honor's. Her headpiece was of matching yellow net. She carried a colonial bouquet of blue pom pom chrysanthemums with a cascade of matching ribbon.

Ring bearer was J. Eric Whichard Jr. of Greenville, nephew of the bride, who wore a white linen suit. On a heart shaped white satin pillow topped with net, he carried the rings.

Best man for his son's wedding was Mr. Guilford C. Smith Sr. Ushers were Eric Whichard of Greenville, brother-in-law of the bride, Mr. James Dalton Griffin of Petersburg, Va., Mr. Jerry Wilkerson of Greensboro, cousin of the groom, and Mr. Gordan Beasley of Greenville.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Taylor chose a street length dress of navy blue sheer. Her hat was also of navy blue and her accessories of white. Her corsage was a lavender orchid.

For her son's wedding, Mrs. Smith wore a street length dress of sea foam blue with a hat of fuchsia and accessories of white. Her corsage was also a lavender orchid.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride's family entertained at a reception in the church parlor.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Fennell greeted the guests and introduced them to the receiving line which was composed of the bride's mother, Mrs. Gherman A. Taylor, the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guilford C. Smith Sr., the bride's father, Mr. and Mrs. J. Eric Whichard Jr., Lynn Tucker, Miss Betty Lou Small, Mrs. James D. Griffin, Miss Mary Ethel Jacobs, Mrs. R. T. Burnette and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Smith, grandparents of the groom, and Mrs. E. F. Tucker, grandmother of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. J. Eric Whichard directed guests from the receiving line to the refreshment table.

The refreshment table was laid with a white ruffled organdy table spread and centered with a crystal bowl of white gladioli and pom pom chrysanthemums flanked by lighted white tapers in silver candelabra. Mr. and Mrs. J. Hicks Corey and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Avery served punch while Misses Norma Gwynn Basnight, Sue Tucker, Jill Sutton and Virginia Smith, cousins of the bride, assisted in serving the guests. Mrs. Kenneth Tucker presided over the bride's book. Goodbyes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Scott Sr.

For traveling the bride wore a pink fitted linen dress with a pink duster and white accessories. Her corsage was the white orchid lifted from her prayer book. Upon their return to Greenville, the couple will be at home at 805 E. 3rd St.

Mrs. Smith is a graduate of Greenville High School and is at present a junior at East Carolina College. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. E. F. Tucker and the late Mr. and Mrs. James Henry Corey.

Mr. Smith is a graduate of Stone-wall Jackson High School in Charleston, W. Va. He is now a senior at East Carolina College. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Smith and Mrs. R. T. Burnette of Greenville.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jacobs, Mary Ethel and Francis of Savannah, Ga., Mr. and Mrs. Troy Burnette, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Cherry and Helen of Nashville, Mr. and Mrs. William Eric Tucker of Richmond, Va., Mrs. Kenneth Tucker, Lynn and Kenny, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Herring, Mr. and Mrs. George Burnette of Rocky Mount, Mr. and Mrs. W. Va., Mrs. Joan Dorsey of Norfolk, Va., Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Slater of New Bern, N. C., Mrs. R. D. Post of Birmingham, Ala. and Mrs. W. A. Pope and Miss Annie Pope of Enfield.

Buffet Supper
Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Smith and Mrs. Georgia Franklin were gracious hosts to the Smith-Taylor wedding party and out-of-town guests and families at a buffet supper.

The house was decorated throughout with beautiful arrangements of summer flowers.

The guests were greeted by the hosts and the bridal couple, Miss Mitzi Sue Taylor and Guilford C. Smith Jr.

The dining room table was covered with a handsome linen cut work Maderia cloth and centered with a crystal bowl of white petunias flanked by burning white tapers in crystal holders. The buffet lighted with white candles emphasized the bridal motif.

Mrs. Gherman A. Taylor Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Guilford C. Smith Sr., parents of the bridal couple, served.

Cake Cutting
Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Fennell and Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Scott Sr. entertained at a cake cutting in the home of the former, honoring the Smith-Taylor wedding party and out-of-town guests, following the wedding rehearsal.

Upon arrival the guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. J. Hicks Corey and the bridal couple.

A color motif of pink and white predominated in the lovely arrangements of gladioli, asters and other, summer flowers artistically placed throughout the home.

The bride's table was covered with an Italian cut-work cloth bordered with wide lace. Bows of pink tulle and fern were used to decorate the antique crystal candelabra, from which tall pink tapers cast a mellow glow.

After the bride and groom had cut the beautiful three-tiered wedding cake, Mrs. W. C. Avery served the guests who expressed wishes of happiness to Mitzi and Guilford.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Preston Corey presided at the punch bowl and salted nuts and mints were passed.

About fifty guests called during the evening.

Wedding Breakfast
Coming as a climax to the Smith-Taylor prenuptial parties for the bridal couple was a wedding breakfast Sunday at 11:30 at the Woman's Club. Mr. and Mrs. Guilford C. Smith Sr., parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Jacobs and Mr. and Mrs. Troy Burnette were hosts for the members of the wedding party, families, and out-of-town guests.

The reception rooms at the Club House were beautifully decorated with gladioli, roses and magnolia leaves. The guests were greeted by the hosts, the bridal couple, and Mrs. Gherman Taylor, mother of the bride.

the bride. The bride was attired in a lovely white dress which was adorned by a corsage of white asters and tube roses. The corsage was presented to her by the hosts.

Misses Sylvia and Mittie Crumpler served fruit juices from a beautifully appointed table placed in the east drawing room.

Later the guests were invited to the dining room where they were seated at a U-shaped table. The centerpiece of all white was of gladioli, asters, fever few, and tube roses, flanked on either side by tall silver candelabra holding white candles. Clematis extended down the length of the table and was interspersed with low silver candelabra with white candles.

Magnolia leaves were banked on the mantel of the dining room on each end of which were white candles. Roses were used on the side tables.

There were around fifty guests present for the delightful affair.

Claim Anti-Red Sentiment High

WASHINGTON (AP)—Five Chinese who served in the Communist army in Korea say there is strong anti-Red sentiment in the Chinese Communist army.

The Chinese, who were taken prisoner in Korea by U.N. forces, refused repatriation and elected to go to Formosa. They are on a U.S. tour under sponsorship of the Chinese Nationalist government on Formosa.

Speaking through interpreters, they told a news conference yesterday at the Pentagon that there would be large-scale defections in the Chinese Communist army should the Nationalists invade the mainland.

Churchmen Issue Plea For Unity

By GEORGE W. CORNELL EVANSTON III. (AP)—A summing-up message from the World Council of Churches today proclaimed "to all who will listen" that only devotion to God can conquer the fears and "powers of evil" that plague the earth.

The historic assembly declared that mankind's search for freedom, justice and peace is doomed to defeat unless men "turn from our ways to God's way."

"Nothing other than God can ever satisfy the heart of man," the message said. "Forgetting this, man becomes his own enemy. He seeks justice, but creates oppression."

He wants peace but drifts towards war. His very mastery of nature threatens him with ruin. Nature he acknowledges it or not, he stands under the judgment of God and under the shadow of death.

The 1,000-word message, counted the cardinal document of the 17-day world Christian gathering; came as the assembly moved toward its final sessions today.

It declared that God, in Jesus Christ, is "the hope of the world."

And it said that "only at the cross of Christ" can men find the answer to the "fear and distrust which at present divide our world."

"It is there that Christians must pray daily for their enemies," the message said. "It is there that we must seek deliverance from selfishness, impatience and fear."

"And those who know that Christ is risen should have the courage to expect new power to break through every human barrier."

The message affirmed the determination of the council's 163 denominations in 48 nations to seek greater unity to strengthen their faith. It said:

"We enter now upon a second stage. To stay together is not enough. We must go forward. As we learn more of our unity in Christ, it becomes the more intolerable that we should be divided."

The message said "we long ardently" for the fellowship of the church; not belonging to the council. The two largest ones are the Southern Baptist and Roman Catholic Churches.

And to its individual congregations, with some 170 million members the council put some soul-searching questions. Among them:

Does your church speak and act against injustices which have subjected people in many lands to hunger, need and oppression?

Does your church act against segregation and discrimination as contrary to the will of God?

Does your congregation "live for itself" or work hard to make Christ known to others?

Do you forgive one another as Christ forgave you?

The assembly yesterday also: 1. Voiced its "grave concern" regarding religious liberty in several lands, and recommended appeals to authorities and prayer in behalf of all "those suffering from persecution and repression."

2. Urged prohibition of nuclear weapons of mass destruction, with provisions for international control and inspection of safeguard each nation's security, together with overall arms reductions.

Soldiers Testify Colonel Helped Red Propaganda

FT. SHERIDAN, Ill. (AP)—Four American soldiers have testified Lt. Col. Harry Fleming, their fellow prisoner in a North Korean POW camp, made propaganda broadcasts and led discussion groups for the Communists.

Fleming's trial before an Army general court-martial on charges he collaborated with the Communists entered its second day today with four more ex-POWs due to testify against him.

One of the witnesses yesterday, Air Force Maj. David F. MacGhee of Falls Church, Va., told the military court Fleming once went to the Communist camp commander and reported "MacGhee has double-crossed you."

Fleming, first American officer brought to trial on charges of aiding the Reds while a prisoner, sat impassively during the testimony. A slightly built man of 46 with close-cropped grey hair and four rows of ribbons on his dress uniform, he was a prisoner 34 months.

Fleming's wife Gloria, their daughter Patricia and son-in-law, Navy Petty Officer John Madden, sat in the courtroom. Fleming, who has denied the charges, faces a maximum penalty of life imprisonment, dismissal from the service and loss of pay if convicted.

MacGhee said he once prepared a broadcast for the Reds' Peiping radio in which he had coded a message, using the first letter of each word, which said: "Five thousand men at Pyoktong near Yalu River need medicine and clothing."

The Air Force officer said, an American private tipped the Chinese Reds to the code and that Fleming then went to the Red commandant and told him that he, MacGhee had double-crossed the Communists.

Soon after that, MacGhee said, he was transferred to a particularly brutal prison camp known as "The Caves."

Under cross-examination, MacGhee admitted that he had written what he called slanderous statements about 20 Senior Air Force generals in order to save his life in a moment of panic.

MacGhee said Fleming had urged other prisoners to sign propaganda leaflets urging United Nations forces to surrender.

Find Applicant Had Long Record

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—Joseph W. Dunn 38, of Flint, didn't get his taxicab operator's license yesterday. Today he faces possible perjury charges.

Dunn's application filed with Flint police stated he had never been arrested for a major crime. He admitted "one speeding ticket."

Police said a routine check with the FBI disclosed Dunn had been arrested 18 times on charges ranging from kidnaping to burglary.

An Audience Interested In U.S. Defense

Probably nowhere could President Eisenhower have found a more keenly interested audience than a national veterans' convention to discuss matters of national defense. Who would be more aware of the impact of military service than those who had served? Who would feel owning a greater stake in America's future than those who had contributed to it's past security and present prosperity?

It was appropriate that the President took advantage of the American Legion convention to "talk tough" about necessity for building up an adequate military reserve and its being his "number one" item before the next Congress. The Legion and other patriotic organizations have urged steps in this direction for a long time.

Mr. Eisenhower could point with pride to the strength of the nation's standing defense establishment, but as he said, it is traditional that America has relied principally upon the civilian soldier, adding "but we have done so without being fair either to the private citizen or to the security of the nation". In other words, the United States has entered its wars of the past 150 years with the main bulwark of military manpower untrained in terms of survival and combat.

The address did not include any mention as to the type of military reserve program being considered; perhaps because study of the program has not progressed sufficiently as yet.

Importance of developing a strong reserve program is certainly obvious. In the past it has been debated, sidetracked, compromised and watered down. Despite this, today's reservist status is probably the best ever attained, though leaving much to be desired in the eyes of men responsible for national defense.

The program presented and the program adopted will no doubt have considerable points of difference. However, there is satisfaction in knowing that improvement of our military reserve program has been pushed to the fore once again.

Inside Carol Was A Stormy Temperament

So the Weather Bureau said "Meet Carol", and we did.

Frankly, Carol was a little overwhelming; quite gusty and a cloudy countenance with plenty of moisture streaming over the countryside.

She's a big girl, too. Not exactly a "five-by-five", but covering a good many hundreds of square miles with clouds, rain and wind of varying intensities.

Carol caused quite a lot of excitement in North Carolina. Thousands of people heard of her coming and girded themselves for the occasion. You might have thought, from all the to-do, her name was Marilyn.

Dropping the persiflage, however, there is terror and fear in the heart of a hurricane. When they strike humans have a choice of fleeing or covering under the shelter of strong walls or cellars.

Most Tar Heels who met Carol just came in contact with her fringe area; and that was all to the good because from all accounts Carol was a really stormy character "inside". Still, trees were knocked down, wires cut, branches blown about, and windows broken even where the full effects of our August visitor were not felt.

A hurricane is really no laughing matter.

545 Indictments Should Open Our Eyes

The grand jury investigating vice conditions in Phenix City returned 545 indictments yesterday, a total pointing to two inescapable conclusions:

- (1) The jurors were called upon to perform a staggering amount of work; and
- (2) The shocking degree of which vice, crime and negligence had overtaken the community.

People over the country had become generally aware that Phenix City had more than its share of internal troubles, but announcement of 545 indictments underscores the really shocking conditions that existed.

It could happen to any town where citizens do not take an active interest in management of civic affairs and due enforcement of the law.

Strength for the Day

By WILLIAM H. HEATH

Sometime ago a friend with whom I was talking described one of our mutual friends by saying: "His pictures are always black and white; he never has any gray paint on his palette."

Is this good or bad? On the whole it is good, because millions of people in this and in every other country spend their time dobbing life over with as much gray paint as they can get on a whitewash brush. To them, there is no such thing as black and white; everything is gray. Good is a relative matter and so is evil, according to their philosophy. When it comes to social customs, people who favor gray paint usually bid their associates remember that when one is in Rome, he does as the Romans do. For such people changes in custom never involve morals. In fact for them there is nothing in life absolutely good and nothing absolutely bad. It depends, they say, on the individual. It depends on the way you look at a situation or upon the circumstances which compose a situation.

And so we get our artists whose palettes are covered with gray paint. The people whose pictures are straight black and white may not be popular, but they are revered by everybody—even secretly revered by their opponents. Inflexibility can become a vice, but it would be hard to imagine a more devastating vice than compromise.

GOP Hopes In Massachusetts

By WILLIAM H. HEATH

While Ray Tucker is on vacation there will be guest columns by several prominent newspaper editors. Today's column is by William H. Heath, Editor of the Haverhill, Massachusetts, Gazette.

Massachusetts Republicans are strangely confident that at the November election, they will contribute to an increase in their party's Congressional strength.

Such confidence among Republicans anywhere is strange, because it is established on the assumption that political experience is destined to be different this year. Not within the memory of a politician now alive has the party in power in Washington improved its Congressional position at a midterm election. This confidence is especially strange in Massachusetts, which voted Democratic in Presidential elections from the era of Calvin Coolidge to the rise of Dwight Eisenhower.

This consistent devotion to the Democratic ticket is easily explained. The policies and practices of the New Deal were powerful attractions to the citizens of a state that long had been proud of its liberal social legislation. Massachusetts voters were accustomed to centralization of political authority. Thousands upon thousands were members of trade unions. Today it is hard to tell whether the Democratic party in Massachusetts is a wing of the AFL and CIO or vice versa.

MASSACHUSETTS INDEPENDENT VOTERS—In this situation the wonder is that the Republicans ever elect anybody. They do, because of the independent Massachusetts voters, who are sensitive to issues and personalities, numerous to decide any election, and determined not to let either party get the idea it has a 100-year lease on power.

In 1952, Massachusetts Republicans delivered comeuppance on both state and national fronts. Apparently fed-up with Paul A. Devere's free-spending, welfare state policies, they enabled former Congressman Christian Herter to win the Governorship. Apparently impressed by Eisenhower's high character and nobility of purpose as an antidote to lax administration and corruption of the Truman Administration, they enabled the Republicans to win the state in a Presidential election for the first time since 1924. Eisenhower's margin of victory was small enough clearly to indicate that no other Republican could have achieved it.

ANTICIPATE HERTER'S RE-ELECTION—Herter is a good Governor, his re-election is looked for, and he is one reason for Republican confidence. Another is the record of the 83rd Congress which, the Republicans think, endows them with persuasive campaign material. Principal reason for their confidence is the opinion that Eisenhower continues to be popular with the rank and file. A fourth reason, which gets little attention, is the layout of Congressional districts, of which there are fourteen. Eight are represented by Republicans. This is the case because legislators, during the years of Massachusetts devotion to Democratic Presidents and Governors generally have been Republican, with the result that the boundaries of Congressional districts continue to conform to Republican aspirations rather than to statewide political opinion.

Four districts in which there is an outlook for close contest are equally divided between Republicans and Democrats.

The Republicans see chance of victory in the Fourth District, now represented by Harold D. Donahue, where their nominee will be Andrew B. Holstrom, a great vote-getter in municipal elections and executive vice-president of one of Worcester's largest employers. They also see a chance of victory in the Second District, where Vernon E. Bradley is expected to win the nomination and oppose Representative Edward P. Boland.

FACE CLOSE CONTESTS—They face close contests in the Eighth and Tenth Districts, where the Democrats have strong men running for the chance to oppose Representative Angier L. Goodwin and Laurence Curtis. Both in offensive and defensive operations, the Republicans are relying greatly on personal endorsements of their candidates by Eisenhower. Those public aspirants who have his approval already are appearing in local newspapers. Unless the pictures have the magical power that the Republicans hope they possess, the Congressional contest looks like a standoff.

Best of all these pictures that have appeared to date, that of the President and Senator Leverett Saltonstall and the grandchildren with the drums, directed attention to the most important Massachusetts contest. It is also the one that the Republicans seem to have the best chance to win.

SENATOR SALTONSTALL'S OPPONENT—Saltonstall's opponent will be Foster Furcolo, who for Representative Boland, Furcolo chose to get elected State Treasurer two years ago to continuing in Congress. He is the choice of the pre-primary party convention to oppose Saltonstall and has no serious opposition in the September 14 primary.

Furcolo is a resident of the western part of the state and assured of the support of the other-than-Boston section of the party. He is of Italian descent and presumably will attract voters who are affected by racial pride. He is a Democratic liberal and should therefore attract liberal support, but the first clear sign of his intention to seek Saltonstall's seat was erratic action. This attack may have alienated some liberal support, but it appears to have been shrewd for the intellectualism that is associated with liberalism is not in high favor in Massachusetts.

The Four Flats Still Singing

Saturday I happened to be standing by while Howard Proctor was making an effort to get the Four Flats together for a sing. Five years out of high school and usually strung from one end of the world to the other, the Four Flats still manage to get together at least once a year and often more.

Here's the lineup: Bobby Odum, second tenor; Sam Northrop, baritone lead; Carl Denton, first tenor; Howard Proctor, bass. Back in high school days the quartet attained popularity throughout Eastern Carolina. They had a radio program over WOTC and sang at events in many Eastern Carolina communities.

Director of the quartet was Miss Oona Shindler, affectionately called Ma by the Four Flats. "Every time we get together," Howard says, "we pick up the phone, call Ma and sing 'Honey, Honey, Bless Your Heart.' And we usually sing her our theme song, 'Sweet Kentucky Babe.'"

Up until recently the quartet was strung far and wide. Bobby Odum was in Canada, serving on the USS Lloyd, a Navy destroyer. Ensign Sam Northrop, of the Navy was on a cruise in the Naval Academy. Annapolis, Md., and Howard Proctor was getting his Master of Arts degree from Perdue University, Lafayette, Ind. Now Howard is here working at the TV station temporarily before going in service and Carl is a student at East Carolina College. Sam and Bobby are jumping here and there with the Navy.

Saturday when the effort was underway to have one of their sings, Bobby was in Raleigh. The conflicts were simply too many and the boys couldn't make it. When they do have one of their sings, they invite their families and get together at one of their houses.

"Talking about fun," Howard says, "we have it. All of us have kept our same parts and our voices haven't changed yet. So all we have is to do is start singing."

From quartet talk we shifted to a brief discussion of Industrial Psychology, the field in which Howard recently received his Master's. After majoring in psychology at Davidson, he specialized at Perdue. The studies and conclusions that an industrial psychologist can make to improve morale and production in a plant will amaze you. Next time you see Howard, ask him about it.

And I thank you. JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

DEFINITE SOLUTION IN ORDER

(Henderson Dispatch) A definite solution of the problems in the tobacco auction system should be worked out before another season begins. It is too late now to go into details, which with one belt virtually finished and another well on its way toward that end. As was suggested in this department several days ago, it is almost certain that further Federal interference will be injected into the situation unless the various tobacco groups find a way themselves to solve their differences.

It is not easy to fix responsibility for what has happened this season. Perhaps there is enough to go around among all concerned. But that is largely water under the bridge for now.

We can see no reason for government meddling, unless those who until now have attempted to work out a control system fail to agree on a plan of operation.

There is just as much ingenuity among warehousemen, growers and buyers, as there is among Federal bureaucrats, and a whole of a lot more actual knowledge of the tobacco industry. If the government were to step in as we can imagine many in the various bureaus would like to do, it is just possible that bad matters could become even worse. At least the procedure would be susceptible to political manipulations, as are most government activities.

The three groups concerned should make it their business to get together at some convenient time and place, after the close of the present auction season, and work out a definite system and schedule, and then adhere rigidly to it. It would seem that a schedule of opening dates could be fixed, setting up the margins between the several belts. If it became necessary to shift one, all should be shifted alike and in the same proportion. There ought to be no juggling of dates after the first belt begins its selling period.

At such a meeting, the buyers could lay their cards on the table as to their capacity to furnish men to staff the auction centers. Except in the most unusual circumstances, the rate of maturity of the crop could be reasonably determined before the first belt got under way. And dates established at that time should be adhered to, barring some catastrophe.

For our part, we should certainly regret to see further government interference in the marketing of the tobacco crop. As of now, however, that eventuality would seem to lie just around the corner, unless the private enterprise groups can resolve their differences and agree upon a procedure that is fair and satisfactory to all interests.

Maintenance Of State Property Ranked Top Necessity

By LYNN NISBET

MAINTENANCE — R. L. Harris, president of Roxboro Cotton Mills, writes to commend the stories appearing in this corner on the recent tour of the advisory budget commission. He especially commends the emphasis placed upon maintenance of State property, rather than upon new construction in view of the recognized scarcity of money.

A legislator of long experience including service as a member of the advisory budget commission, Speaker of the House and President of the Senate, in which capacities he appointed members of three commissions, Harris can speak with authority on the subject.

He sums up his ideas respecting the need for expansion but the greater need for adequate maintenance of both public and private property in this paragraph:

Speaking from the viewpoint of a small manufacturer, we are obliged to try to keep our plants up to date and modern in every particular in order to compete with our good friends who are or should be doing the same thing. At the same time we are not being fair to our shareholders unless we properly maintain and keep in good shape the investments in buildings and machinery which have been made over a period of years. It follows that if and when we make any money we plough back into the plant equipment almost every available dollar to try to keep modern when it comes to changes or improvements in the earlier investments. It also follows that we feel it to be our duty to keep the entire property in good shape.

"I believe that the units of government are not being fair to taxpayers unless they do the same thing, and I devoutly hope that your articles will do some good."

WATER — James A. Hackney of Washington, who has been active in promoting development and use of water ways, believes the time has come for North Carolina to assume more responsibility for the job and not depend exclusively upon the army corps of engineers. In fact, he doesn't think too much of the way the army folks have let things drag in this State.

He concedes that large part of the blame for this condition rests upon the State. He notes that at the recent Rivers & Harbors Congress in Washington, not a single representative of the army engineers was present from North Carolina—neither was the State's water resources engineer. He further feels that there has not been sufficient cooperation between N.C. State officials and our representatives in the Congress. One result is that in the latest rivers and harbors appropriation of approximately one billion dollars, North Carolina got less than one-half of one percent, although we have the longest shoreline of inland waterways of any State in the Union. "Surely our proportionate part, together with our need, is much more than 1/2 of 1 per cent," he says.

Business Today

Task Of Withholding

By ELMER ROESSNER
A long, long time ago the American worker got in line in front of the pay window Friday after work and whatever was in the envelope, that was it. If he applied for a job and the foreman said, "You get $63.59 a week," that was what he was paid and not a penny more or less.

This created the attitude, which still lingers in the minds of the worker and the boss, that take-home pay is actual pay. The first rude shock was the advent of income taxes. But even this wasn't so bad because a simple percentage calculation told everyone exactly what the worker's real wages were.

Then came the deluge. In this modern age earning power is often what the employee finds in his pay envelope plus withheld Federal and sometimes state taxes; his and the company's contributions to Social Security, unemployment insurance, contributions to pension funds, health insurance, life insurance, union dues, payroll savings, and the company's savings for vacation pay, holiday pay and bonuses.

Not too complicated yet? The employer, in some cases, also must figure in the most of in-plant medical facilities for the workers, the cafeteria, which doesn't pay for itself, unproductive coffee breaks and rest periods, pay for workers when sick, if that is the company's policy, and a half a dozen other fringe benefits and hidden pay items that add up.

And how they add up! The U.S. Chamber of Commerce in a recent survey found that in the concrete studied fringe benefits alone cost an average of $720 an employee per year, or 19.2 per cent of the total payroll. Figuring it another way it came out to 34.6 cents an hour for each worker. Some firms paid only 5 per cent (probably a bare minimum) while others paid up to 55 per cent in fringe benefits.

Moreover, the increase has been rapid in recent years. In one group of companies extra-paycheck compensation rose from 15.2 per cent in 1947 to 30.2 per cent in 1953.

This heavy load is causing many firms to revise their policies, attitudes and practices. There is greater emphasis on including all fringe benefits in deciding pay rates, particularly when the benefits do not apply uniformly throughout the company or the industry. Fringe benefits also figure in cost control and pricing of products—otherwise one product may be overpriced and another underpriced.

More importance is being attached to educating workers as to their real pay. Otherwise the competitor down the street who provides greater take-home pay but smaller real pay will lure away a firm's best workers. And, even aside from this, workers are happier and more productive when their pay is higher so the effort is to show them exactly what their full pay really is.

EXPORTERS PREDICT... . . . . .
GOOD SECOND HALF... . . . . .
Exporters look forward to greater business in the second half of 1954, a McGraw-Hill survey indicates, with 72 per cent of those queried predicting improvement. Sixty-one per cent reported gains in the first half and 72 per cent also saw gains in 1955.
HOLIDAY BERRY... . . . . .
CROP DECLINES... . . . . .
The cranberry bogs have bogged down a little. The crop this year is estimated by the Department of Agriculture at 978,000 barrels, 19 per cent below last year's record. Massachusetts' crop is forecast at 590,000 barrels, off 14 per cent; New Jersey 75,000, off 33 per cent; Wisconsin 225,000, off 24 per cent; Washington 58,000, off 22 per cent, and Oregon 30,000 off 7 per cent.

Eligible Male Asks Perfection

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Could there really be anything wrong with American girls?

Whenever such doubts assailed me in the past, I have firmly repressed them, feeling they must reflect a personal defect in my character that makes me unable to appreciate feminine perfection. After all, if a girl weren't perfect, wouldn't she be the first to admit it?

Well, today I am full of new doubts. I just ran into a young bachelor who owns a yacht and still can't find the right girl to make first mate.

"Sure, I'd like to get married," said David Haft. Every bachelor says he is happy, but every bachelor knows it isn't true. I just haven't been able to find a girl who would make the kind of wife I want."

Of course, Dave isn't without faults. He is an amateur sculptor, he likes to quote poetry, and his yacht, after all, is only 40 feet long. And the girl of his choice might have to learn to enjoy water skiing.

But these minor flaws are balanced by certain homely virtues. Dave, who spent 500 combat hours flying bombers in the Pacific theater in World War II and is not unhandy in an Air Force sort of way, now pilots his own Cadillac convertible. He has a luxurious East Side apartment staffed with a maid and butler, and the butler can cook. He also is president of the House of Swansdown, a major cloak and suit firm, and in four years has built up its business from 4 million to 12 million dollars a year.

You'd think a guy like that would be the target of a new feminine gold rush. Well, he is. That's the trouble.

"Too many girls today simply want to use a man as a stepping stone to a career—they aren't interested in a man for himself alone," said Dave. Glamor girls hold no particular appeal for him, as he is surrounded in his work every day by from 16 to 20 beautiful clothes models.

Full of the wisdom and cynicism of his 31 years, Haft has divided American girls into four classes.

"First, there is the professional career type," he said. "They are usually actresses or models, and they have a tremendous ego problem. They are so dependent upon their physical charms they are to be constantly reassured they are as beautiful as ever. And the praise of their husband isn't enough. They have to get outside opinions from other men. Even though she insists this is only a game, it is more than a man wants to put up with."

"Then there are the business career girls. They use their home only to supplement their career. They may love a husband dearly, but they are too involved in their own problems to show the right kind of interest in him."

"The third type is the girls who do nothing. You find lots of them in all classes, single or married. They are lady leeches, trading on the art of being feminine. But they tend to destroy any male who gets involved with them, because they offer nothing in return—not even stimulating conversation."

And the fourth type? She is the real homemaker," said Dave. She is basically interested in getting a husband rather than a glamor career. She is emotionally and physically adjusted to being what she wants to be a real housewife.

But most girls like that can be found now only in the country or the small towns. Life in a big city is the unhappy preparation in the world for anybody who wants a peaceful marriage."

I asked Dave why he didn't jump in his Cadillac and start touring the small towns. "It would take luck, too, to find her," he said. So far, I guess, I've been pretty selfish myself—putting my career first. That doesn't work either. A man, like a woman, has to put his home ahead of his career, if it comes to a final choice."

Western Alliance Received Major Setback From France

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—This is an ABC on what President Eisenhower has just called a "major setback" in the fight against communism: the French refusal last night to join a single European army.

The Western Allies decided on a military alliance when, after the war, it became apparent the Communists were determined to take by force what they couldn't get otherwise. Big example was seizure of power in Czechoslovakia.

The Allies created NATO—North Atlantic Treaty Organization—under which they pledged to help one another in case of attack. Each member would keep its own army but there would be a general staff for planning.

NATO now has 14 members. Twelve signed the NATO agreement April 4, 1949: the United States, Britain, France, Italy, Canada, Belgium, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Denmark, Iceland, Norway, Portugal, Greece and Turkey joined in February 1952.

The United States contributes one third of NATO's cost. The other members put up four fifths of the forces. This country has six American divisions with NATO in Europe.

West Germany was not included in NATO. There were obvious reasons. This country, Britain and France—still keeping occupation troops in Germany—have not restored her independence.

Lacking sovereignty, she can't rearm. So long as she is defenseless, the Russians have a soft spot for attack. The Russians have opposed not only NATO but rearming of Germany. The Allies faced a question:

How to let Germany rearm but in a way to prevent her becoming a menace to her neighbors someday. In June 1950 the Communists showed how far they were willing to go in aggression with their attack on South Korea.

Four months later, on Oct. 26, 1950, Rene Pleven, then French Premier, proposed a plan which in that early stage won approval of the French Parliament. It was the single European army idea, called EDC—the European Defense Community.

This is how it shaped up: six European countries—France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Luxembourg, the Netherlands—would pool their armies in a single European army under a unified command of their own choosing.

Except for West Germany, all these EDC countries were already members of NATO. But whereas the other NATO allies would keep their individual armies, the EDC countries no longer would have national armies of their own.

This single European army—made up of troops from the six EDC countries—would be part of NATO's defense planning.

On May 27, 1952, the six EDC countries' foreign ministers signed an agreement to set it up. This did not by itself create EDC. It couldn't come into existence until the parliaments of all six countries approved.

Four of them—West Germany, Belgium, Luxembourg, the Netherlands—gave approval. The Italian Parliament didn't approve but was expected to when the French did. The French Parliament, rent with factions, balked.

Russia tried every trick to keep EDC from being born. Communists in the French Parliament, following the Russian line, fought EDC approval. French nationalists who wanted France to keep her national army and not merge it in EDC, fought it too. In addition there was French fear of Germany rearmend under any circumstances, and fear, no matter how EDC was unified, that Germany would control it. Russia played on these French worries.

The United States and Britain looked upon EDC as essential for defense of Europe, making use of German manpower, and at the same time keeping Germany from becoming a menace as she might with her own national army.

Although France had proposed EDC four years ago and France agreed to set up EDC two years ago, no French premier chanced asking Parliament, with its hostile mood, to vote on it. The French would have felt safer tied into EDC with Germany if Britain would join EDC also. Britain wouldn't.

At last the present French Premier and foreign minister, Pierre Mendes-France, decided to put EDC to a vote in Parliament. First he tried to get the other five EDC countries to agree to changes in the 1952 agreement which would have made EDC more a fiction than a reality.

He suggested, for instance, that EDC be on trial for eight years and that anyone of the six members could veto what the other five wanted to do. The other five turned him down.

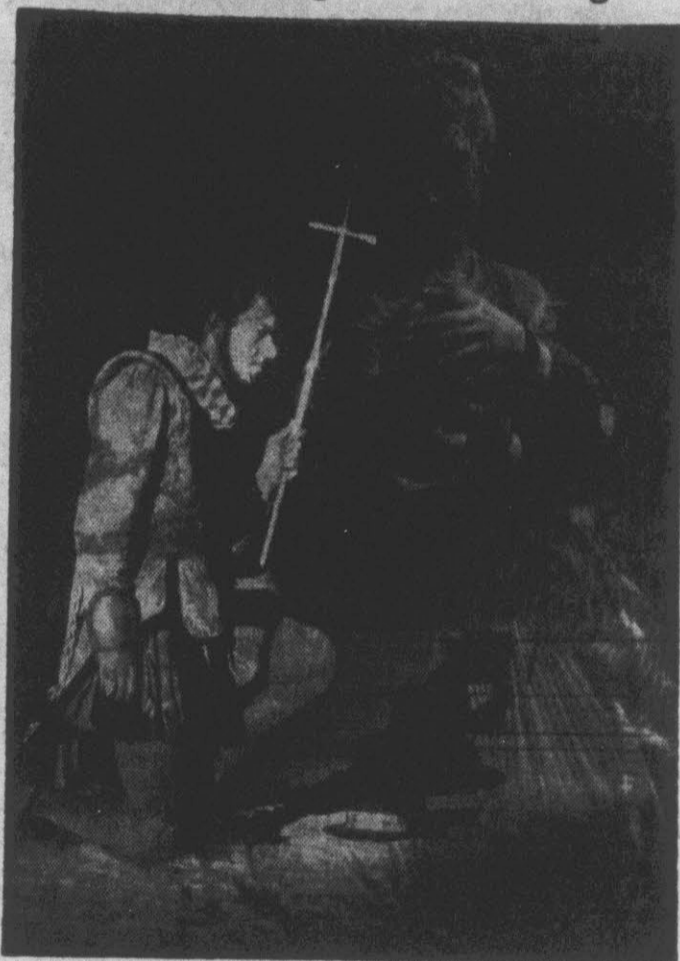

No lover of EDC, Mendes-France asked Parliament to vote. It did last night, against EDC. That wrecked it.

N.C. Judge Chosen Outstanding Handicapped Man Of The Year

Judge Sam M. Cathey of Asheville (right) is shown above receiving the award from Gov. William B. Umstead for the nomination as the state's outstanding handicapped man of the year. Last Saturday Cathey was named to receive the 1954 President's trophy as the outstanding handicapped man of the year. Left is J. H. Rose who nominated Cathey for the honor. Announcement of the recipient of the national honor was made Saturday by Maj. Gen. Melvin J. Maas, USMCR (Ret), chairman of the President's Committee on Employment of the Physically Handicapped.

This story-telling montage tells the Lost Colony story better than any similar picture ever made. The picture was first place winner in montage class of the Lost Colony's special press photographers showing during late June. Carol Martin, of Martin Studio, Greensboro who as a free lancer has had outstanding newspaper pictures published widely created the montage story. It shows Sir Walter Raleigh, played by Fred Johnson of Sarasota, Florida, kneeling at the end of Act 1 of the show, after the group of men and women had boarded a ship in Plymouth Harbor, England for their trip to the New World and Roanoke Island. It also shows Eleanor Dare, played by Ann Martin of Cherokee, and her new born baby Virginia Dare, first child of English parentage born in the land that became America. The combination picture tells the Lost Colony story, better than any similar picture ever made, and it is very appropriate during the current and final week of the 14th season of The Lost Colony. The drama's concluding performance this year will be on Sunday, September 5. The show will open for its 15th season during late June of 1955, according to present plans. ## Capitol Square

(Continued on Page Five) helps low income families to budget weekly earnings. CIRCLE — Charles Parker, state advertising director, needed a mountain scenic picture for a special purpose. There are thousands of negatives in the files, but only a few of them suited the special needs for this occasion from the scenic viewpoint. Several of these were passed over because style of automobiles of dress "dated" them to far back. Then he found just what he wanted, a picture taken some 15 years ago. A beautiful panorama with a bunch of women on a close in peak. The women were in garb that went out of style and has come back again.

Not many people realize how quickly a photograph can go stale by reason of changing styles. One whale smashed seven whaleboats belonging to two American whale ships in 1879.

Just Over Half Inch Of Rainfall

Rainfall here yesterday while the Greenville area was in the fringe of the tropical hurricane totaled little over six-tenths of an inch. Total precipitation here during August was reported by the U. S.

Weather Station in Greenville to be one and one-third inches.

Highest temperature in Greenville yesterday was 80, "the lowest high in August," the local weather observer stated. Lowest temperature last night was 68, and 8 a.m. it was 73.

Yesterday a year ago, the highest temperature here was 98. Lowest that night 67, and at 8 a.m. next day it was 72.

APARTMENT DEFINED

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — An apartment is an apartment only if it has private toilet facilities, says an official ruling here. Otherwise it's a rooming house or a hotel. The opinion was sought by the fire department as a guide to enforcement of the fire laws. The requirements for rooming houses and hotels are more stringent than for apartment houses.

Bigger Bedrooms Now Popularly Priced!

with SPACEMASTER folding doors

You don't have to remodel to enlarge your bedroom. No partitions need come down. Just put "Spacemaster" doors on your closets or entry doors—and you pick up all the space that swinging doors waste. "Spacemaster" doors fold within the doorway, never out into the room. You can put beds, nightstands, lamps closer to closets... and still have plenty of room to move in. First cost of "Spacemaster" is at a new low. Maintenance costs are nil. You clean them with soap and water. And there are no installation costs since you can put them yourself in 15 minutes.

4 Important Reasons why you should buy a PONTIAC RIGHT NOW!

1 Pontiac is One of the Greatest Cars Ever Built!

Match today's Pontiac with America's finest cars and you'll get a dramatic picture of Pontiac value. First of all, Pontiac is big—bigger, in fact, than many cars costing hundreds of dollars more. Pontiac is beautiful—with its distinctive Silver Streak styling. Inside, you'll find genuine fine-car luxury and appointments—along with the roominess and comfort that come only with a long wheelbase. But the big surprise comes when you test Pontiac's performance. See how alert it is to every demand in traffic, how it handles and corners almost without effort, how it takes to the open road with plenty of power to spare and saves money every mile.

2 Pontiac has the Best Resale Value in Its Price Class!

Along with all its fine-car size, luxury and performance, Pontiac has a very special attribute no car at any price can beat—its unsurpassed reputation for year-in, year-out dependability. Pontiac's carefree, economical long life and its proved record of amazingly low maintenance expense are so widely known and acknowledged that it commands the highest resale value in its price class. Because Pontiac is America's most desirable used car, your original investment comes back in greater measure when you trade, making ownership cost even lower.

3 Pontiac is Priced Just Above the Lowest!

After you've convinced yourself of Pontiac's value, after you've considered all the good things you've heard about its dependability—see and compare it dollar-wise. Despite the fact it's a fine car in every sense of the term, it's priced so near the lowest that if you can afford any new car you can afford a Pontiac.

4 We'll Make You a Deal You Can't Afford to Miss!

Right now we're making such liberal trade-in allowances that you just can't afford to pass up the greatest opportunity you ever had to become a fine-car owner. Come in and get the facts.

DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR YOU CAN'T BEAT A PONTIAC!

Giants Tall In The Saddle For Big Showdown Series

By BEN PHEGAR
AP Sports Writer

No matter what happens now, the New York Giants still will be in first place when they collide head-on with the Brooklyn Dodgers in their three-game showdown series starting Friday in the Polo Grounds.

The margin might be as small as two percentage points. It could be as much as 2 1/2 games. But no matter what happens, the Giants, on top with the Dodgers trying to climb. Any small boy with experience on a grassed polo can tell you that going up is the hardest.

The Dodgers, who had been burning up the West like a prairie fire, ran afoul of an old Brooklyn killer night and dropped a 7-3 decision in Milwaukee.

The Giants whipped St. Louis 4-1 with Johnny Antonelli becoming the first National League pitcher to win 20 games. New York is now 2 1/2 games ahead of Brooklyn.

Bobby Thomson, the No. 1 public enemy in Brooklyn since his dramatic homer in the 1951 playoffs between the Giants and Dodgers, showed up in a Milwaukee uniform and smashed a three-run homer in the seventh inning for the winning runs.

The Braves went into the seventh trailing 5-4. After one out Bill Bruton beat out an infield single. A sacrifice put him on second. Joe Adcock walked and Thomson drilled one of Carl Erskine's offerings over the left field fence, 400 feet away.

There were some home runs earlier too. Duke Snider hit his 34th with the bases empty in the first. Jack Dittmer gave the Braves a brief 4-3 lead with a two-run drive in the fourth.

Antonelli, the first Giant left-hander to win 20 since Carl Hubbell did it 17 years ago, pitched one of his best games. He held the Cards to four singles, walked three and struck out five. The Giants didn't pull ahead until the seventh when a pair of singles wrapped around a tumble produced the tie-breaking run.

Dusty Rhodes drove home the other pair in the ninth with a bases-loaded single.

The Cleveland Indians, who put their 4 1/2-game American League lead on the line against New York in a three-game series starting in Yankee Stadium tonight, wound up the Boston end of their season yesterday with their 11th victory in 11 starts against the Red Sox at Fenway Park.

They came from four runs behind to nip the Sox 5-4 with a five-run rally in the seventh. Baltimore won its third straight from Washington 5-1 and Cincinnati made it five in a row with a 5-1 triumph over Philadelphia in the only other major league action.

Aging Helmie Majecki, slashed a three-run homer during the Cleveland uprising. Five of Cleveland's 10 pitchers saw action, starting with rookie Ray Narjeski and ending with Mike Garcia.

Bob Turley of the Orioles had a no-hitter working until Jim Busby bunted safely in the sixth, but he had to strike out pinch hitter Maudy McDermott with the bases loaded in the ninth to preserve his 11th triumph.

Another one of those three-run homers that figured prominently in yesterday's game came in the Cincinnati victory over the Phils. Jim Greengrass hit this one during a four-run Redleg rally in the sixth.

Summer vacations end Wednesday for 60 East Carolina College football candidates.

Coach Jack Boone calls these potential Pirates together for their first practice of the 1954 season and will introduce them to the workout schedule for the remainder of this week. And then the 1953 North State conference champions will have 11 days to get ready for their opener of the current season.

The Pirates open September 11 in College Stadium in Greenville, playing the Norfolk Naval Air Station, and a week later they play their second game, also in College Stadium, meeting the West Chester, (Pa.) State Teachers College team. Both foes are additions to the Pirate schedule this year and are rated as "tough competition."

To meet the situation, Boone will have his boys on a two-a-day practice schedule this week with night sessions spent in blackboard work and movie-viewing of previous games.

Coaching staff of Boone includes Jim Mallory and Earl Smith, both beginning their second year with the Pirates. This will be the start of Boone's third year as head man of the Pirate crew.

Five boys of the Pirate squad of 1953 were lost by graduation—Thurston Callahan, Johnny Brown, Bobby Hodges, Jack Britt, and John Daughtry—and this summer seven other veteran players have been taken by military induction, academic losses, and physical injuries.

Those not returning will be Bob Thomas, James Faircloth, Carlton Matthews, William Chadwick, Teddy Barnes, Paul Gay and Jerry Holt. Faircloth and Matthews are on military duty, Gay has an injured back from pre-college days, and Holt has a head injury sustained when in an automobile accident.

Sophomore Strength

This year's squad will depend heavily upon its sophomores to give it depth and strength, Boone said. Checking the roster of veteran players returning, Boone said he will have 10 seniors to give the needed experience.

"The schedule is much harder than last year's, especially with the addition of three new teams with outstanding records on the gridiron," Boone added. "There is not an easy game on the schedule and we shall be missing the players who gave so much last season to make the Pirates the strong competitors in North State Conference play, as well as the out-of-state teams we met," he added.

Reporting for the pre-game practice schedule are those veterans:

Veteran Players
Ends: Larry Rhodes, High Point; J. D. Bradford, Fayetteville; William Helms, Monroe; Raymond Pennington, Greensboro; William Cain, Rockingham; Alfred Owens, Edenton; R. C. Hall, Selma; Harry Rainey, Lexington; Robert Chambers, Salisbury;

Tackles: Willie Holland, Wilson; George Tucker, Monroe; Raymond Overton, Wilmington; Charles Smith, Fairmont; James Knight, Raleigh; Chester Rogerson, Asheville;

Guards: David Lee, Tarboro; Donald Burton, Roanoke Rapids; Paul Popov, Kinston; George Rice, Wilson; Grady Dickerson, Henderson; Tim Kermon, Rocky Mount; Boyd Gresson, Gibsonville; Don Larimore, Winston-Salem;

Centers: Louis Hallow, Goldsboro; Wavely Chesson, Washington; Gaiter Cline, Gastonia;

Quarterbacks: Richard Cherry, Washington; Boyd Webb, Gastonia; Milton Collier, Portsmouth, Va.; William Hux, Weidon;

Halfbacks: John Hayes, Durham; Emil Boado, Wilmington; Harold

O'Kelly, High Point; Thomas Allbrook, Scotland Neck; James Stanley, Washington; James Henderson, Portsmouth, Va.; Robert Perry, Greenville; Fullbacks: Claude King, Wilmington; Robert Gay, Wilson; Howard McAdams, Rocky Mount.

Near a score of Freshman candidates are expected, also.

There will be an interesting scramble for starting positions on the squad this year, as East Carolina's season moves along.

And there will be no tapering off on the Pirate schedule. Coach Boone says each game is a struggle to the finish. The dates after the West Chester game are:

Lenoir-Rhyne, in Hickory, Sept. 25; Catawba, in Greenville, Oct. 2; Elon, in Burlington, Oct. 9; Western Carolina, in Greenville, Oct. 16; Homecoming Day; East Tennessee, in Greenville, Oct. 23; Appalachian, in Boone, Oct. 30; Tampa University, in Tampa, Nov. 5; Stetson, in Greenville, Nov. 13.

Season tickets for the 6 home games on the Pirate schedule are now on sale and may be purchased in the Alumni Office.

Ham Richardson Is Sharpening Up

FOREST HILLS, N.Y.—This may be the year young Ham Richardson gets off the bench and does some real-live playing for Uncle Sam's Davis Cup Team.

He's whipped one of his greatest drawbacks—Chronic leg cramps. He's playing the best tennis of his career. He's a good bet to team with Tony Trabert in the singles.

The 21-year-old intercollegiate champion from Baton Rouge, La., who at 16 was hailed as America's brightest net hope, has travelled to Australia the last three years.

But the only racket he's swung has been in practice and all he's picked up is a deep-rooted frustration.

"Certainly, it's a bit tough knowing you're not good enough to play," Richardson said today. "But it's good experience and maybe my time will come—maybe this year."

With Vic Seixas in more or less of a slump, American Davis Cup selectors are in a quandry over who will carry the banner against the Aussies next December. They are giving Ham more than a passing glance.

Richardson looked exceptionally sharp yesterday in whipping Charles Masterson of Washington, D.C., in a second-round match in the National Championships 6-4, 6-3, 6-0.

Trabert, the defending champion, meets Lorne Main, little Canadian Davis cupper today in a featured third-round match. Other matches complete the second round.

Favorites all came through yesterday, although three of them had trouble. Bill Talbert, U.S. Davis Cup captain last year and seeded 10th, had to rally to beat Pablo Elsenberg of Millburn, N.J., 2-6, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3. Tom Brown of San Francisco, No. 8, was forced five sets by Fred Kovaleski of Washington, D.C., 4-6, 6-1, 8-6, 4-6, 6-4, and Seven Davidson of Sweden, third-seeded foreigner, had to go all out to beat Jack Turo of Port Washington, N.Y., 6-8, 6-3, 6-0, 9-7.

Pitcher Is Fined For Throwing At Batters

CHICAGO—Will Harridge, president of the American League, has fined pitcher Marion Fricano of the Philadelphia Athletics $150 and warned him against "throwing at the batters."

Also drawing a fine—$100—was Steve Gromek, Detroit pitcher who tangled with Fricano after being hit in the kidney Sunday by one of Fricano's pitches.

Fricano is the hurler who also struck infielder Cass Michaels of the Chicago White Sox on the head with a pitch Friday night. Michaels, who suffered a fractured skull, is in a Philadelphia hospital.

In a telegram sent yesterday to Manager Eddie Jost of the Athletics, Harridge said:

"For his conduct in the first game of a double-header at Philadelphia Sunday pitcher Fricano is fined $150.

"Although the umpires do not charge Fricano with throwing the so-called beanball their reports definitely bear him with throwing at the batters. If this practice continues it can only result in serious consequences and tactics such as employed by Fricano will not be tolerated in the American League."

Fricano commented that he'd "like a hearing the next time we're in Chicago. There are two sides to every story and mine hasn't been told."

Gromek was fined "for his conduct in charging Fricano which precipitated a brawl," Harridge said.

Mitchell Johnson, senior half-back on the Greenville High School football team, is one of the outstanding players for the Phants this year. Johnson looked impressive during the latter stages of the season last year and has kept up the work this year. Johnson will probably be the starting right half Friday night when the Phantoms meet Will in the season opener. Coach Bill Kittrell says Johnson makes up in hustle what he lacks in weight.

Ted Williams Is Doubtful Bosox Starter Tonight

BOSTON—Sluggler Ted Williams is a doubtful starter tonight as the Boston Red Sox try to shake a three-game losing streak against Chicago's White Sox at Fenway Park.

Williams' 39th birthday celebration was marred yesterday as he suffered a bad bump on the left shin in the fifth inning of the 5-4 loss to Cleveland.

Ted drew two walks and then singled before getting hit by a foul ball off his bat in the fifth. He finally grounded out but had to leave the game.

Red Sox physician Dr. Timothy Lamphier and Trainer Jack Fadden said the shin ballooned up with a lump as big as a baseball, but X-rays were negative.

Despite the mishap Williams cut up a 36-candle birthday cake in the clubhouse. The cake was given him by an unidentified woman admirer in the Fenway Park parking lot before the game.

TUSSELE AT THE MOUND—Steve Gromek (18), Detroit Tigers pitcher, lands a left on Philadelphia Athletics pitcher Marion Fricano (center), who tries to evade blow at beginning of free-for-all in ninth inning of opening game of doubleheader in Philadelphia. The fight started after Fricano hit Gromek with pitched ball. A's third baseman Jim Finigan comes into the fight in background in effort to stop the tussle. Players from both teams raced in and became tangled in a fist-throwing melee. The Tigers took the game 14-3 and followed by winning the second 2-1. (AP Wirephoto)

Fishing Law Violators Taxed With Costs Before Local Magistrates

In Magistrate Luther Moore's Court last Saturday he taxed three defendants with $9 each on court costs for fishing without licenses in Tar River beyond Grimesland bridge.

They were O. L. Joyner, E. G. Flanagan and Pinky Whitehurst of Greenville.

In Magistrate Frank E. Brooks' court he taxed Waverly Parrott, Route 2 Greenville, with court costs for fishing in Panter's Creek, restricted waters for breeding. Panter's Creek is between Grimesland bridge and Washington.

Fish and Game Protector J. O. Teel of Greenville cited the defendants to court. He cited two other alleged fishing law violators to court on the charge of not having fishing licenses. They are Robert Hamilton of Grimesland and James E. Martin, Route 1, Grimesland. They will be tried before Magistrate Brooks next Saturday.

Phantoms Try To Match Brilliant Record Last Year

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Editor

A new school year opens in Greenville High School tomorrow and all the sports fans in the High School hope it will be as profitable a year as the 1953-54 season.

Last year the Greenville athletic teams posted an excellent percentage of wins against losses in all sports together. All the Phantom teams, including junior varsity basketball and football, won 52 games and lost only 24 for a percentage of .684.

The varsity football squad turned in the poorest average of all and the junior varsity basketball the best average. The football squad won only two of ten games and the JV basketball team won 18 against three losses.

The varsity basketball outfit won 17 games and lost only 5, the baseball team won 8 against 5 losses, the track team won three out of four dual meets, and the golf team split two decisions. The junior varsity football squad won three of four games.

Football Hopes Rise

There is a big possibility of improving over the football record of last year. Although this year's team does not have the guns of last season's team, it makes up for that in hustle and desire. With several veterans along to help steady the hustling young boys the team could win a few games.

The basketball team won the conference tournament last year and still has most of the big guns from that team back. There is a good chance of at least equalling the mark of last season.

The baseball team lost most of its players from last year and may have trouble keeping up the 8-5 record they marked up last season.

Track Team Better

The track team next year should be better than the one they had last year. In two years now the track squad has lost only one dual meet. With all the big guns returning and only two dependable boys graduated the team should really go to town next year.

All in all the varsity teams ought to come pretty near the record they set last year. The JV teams, however, may have difficulty matching their records of last year. Last year the Greenville JV football and basketball teams had a combined record of 21 wins and only four losses.

The 1954-55 seasons may not be as profitable as the '53-54 seasons, but there is one thing certain. That is that dear old GHS will be in their fighting all the way.

Weighty Matters

Increasing weight has caused many jockeys to retire from the saddle, but Jack Skelly has the dubious distinction of having been forced to give up riding because he didn't weigh enough. This unusual situation, although only a temporary condition, took place in May of 1939, after Skelly rode his first race.

The stewards watched Skelly pilot his first mount, Sky Brush, around the Hollywood Park oval to finish second. Then they saw him stagger under the weight of his saddle and lead pads as he walked back to the weighing-out scales. The judges ruled that the 16-year-old, 73-pounder was to be grounded until he gained more weight and stamina.

The little carrot-top was disappointed to the point of tears but he had no choice but to set about gaining weight. Someone suggested that bananas would add weight to any frame. So Skelly gorged himself on bunches of the tropical fruit until he became ill at the sight of them. To this very day, he gets nauseous at the mere sight of a banana. However, bananas did the trick and ten months later, at Agua Caliente, Mexico, the name of Jockey Jack Skelly appeared on the program as rider of Sobota Miss. He celebrated the occasion by winning that race, and then went on to become the top apprentice rider on the California circuit in 1940.

Cavilan In Fine Condition For Bout With Challenger

PHILADELPHIA—Welterweight Champion Kid Gavilan and challenger Johnny Saxton moved into town today both planning to take things easy until they meet at Connie Mack Stadium tomorrow night in their scheduled 15-round title bout.

Gavilan is at least a 2-1 favorite to turn back the title bid of the 24-year-old Saxton, sixth-ranking welterweight challenger. The 28-year-old champion will be making his eighth defense since becoming welter boss in May, 1951. He holds a big edge in experience with 116 fights, 98 victories, 14 defeats and four draws. Saxton has won 44, lost 2 and drawn twice in 48 outings.

Promoter Herman Taylor estimated a crowd of 15,000 will pay some $80,000 to witness the nationally televised fight (CBS). The Philadelphia area is being blacked out of the television circuit for a radius of 90 miles with the exception of New York. Radio broadcast is local only.

The champion is reported in fine condition. His handlers say the Cuban Keed has had no difficulty paring down to the 147-pound welterweight limit and that the hand he claims to have injured while training for last April's middleweight title fight with Carl (Bobo) Olson has healed.

Gavilan, who reportedly lost a lot of money recently, operating a song and dance troupe in his native Cuba, will draw 40 per cent of the net gate, plus a goodly share of television and radio money. Saxton is to receive the usual 20 per cent challenger's cut.

Hole In One

Tom Hopkins scored a "hole-in-one" while playing at the Greenville Golf and Country Club course yesterday.

Hopkins, playing with Percy R. Ashby of Greenville and Steve Hopkins and Stewart Saunders of Plymouth, made the golfers' dream shot on the third hole which is 125 yards.

It was on the second round and also it was Hopkins' first hole-in-one. He shot an 86 for his 18-hole play yesterday.

Tribe Could Tie It Up In Series

NEW YORK—The Cleveland Indians came roaring into the big town today intent on leaving Thursday night with the scalps of the New York Yankees hanging by their belts and the American League pennant wrapped up in a neat bundle.

If the Indians sweep the three-game set starting tonight, they will have increased their lead over the Yanks to 7 1/2 games, and it will be next to impossible for Casey Stengel's Yanks to catch them with time rapidly running out.

At the moment the Indians are 4 1/2 games in front and the heat is on the Yanks. To stay in the running, they must take at least two out of three against the big three of Manager Al Lopez's pitching staff—Early Wynn, Mike Garcia and Bob Lemon.

In fact, the Indians have only one disadvantage. The remaining schedule favors the Yanks somewhat. After they pull out of New York, the Tribe heads directly for Chicago.

"Our schedule doesn't worry us," said Lopez. "We're just taking them as they come day by day. That's the way we look at this next Yankee series. We're rolling along fine. There's no sign of strain and we are confident we'll win."

While you're looking at the schedule, you might notice how many games we have at home after Labor Day. Once we leave Baltimore after the holiday double-header, we have only three games left to play on the road. These are in Detroit."

In the enemy quarters, Stengel gazed out at the leaden skies and snapped:

Increased Pay Sought By German Medical System

By CARL FLICK-STEGE
BONN, Germany (AP)—There are 70,000 physicians in West Germany, and about 58,000 of them depend largely on income from socialized medicine. Today they are in the midst of a campaign for more pay.

Germany has had socialized medicine 70 years. The system gives complete medical treatment, hospital expenses, support of a family during sickness and funeral costs if a patient dies. It does this out of assessments of three cents on every payroll dollar—and winds up every year with a profit which is divided among doctors.

Tax statistics show the average annual earnings of a physician working for socialized medicine are about $3,000. Private patients provide $1,000 to $3,000 more. So the total income of a "socialized doctor" is between $4,000 and $6,000—the highest income group in Germany.

There is one doctor for 600 members of the state social medical system. Before 1932 there was one doctor for 1,000. Doctors now in the organization now want the number of members per doctor reduced to 450. That would admit more doctors.

The socialized medicine organization says such changes would either raise membership fees or cut the standard of medical treatment. Physicians already in the system say they are overworked and underpaid that present payments are based on medical treatment as it was 22 years ago. They want a free hand in prescribing medicine instead of being limited in the amounts they can order. The organization's reply to this is that the physicians want to do more prescribing in order to win more patients and induce them to come oftener. Doctors are paid according to the number of patients as well as the number of visits.

This controversy does not affect the specialist with a big name. His income is assured by patients able to pay a high fee. It is the physician still grappling with building up a practice, and the young doctor just out of college, whose interest in socialized medicine is strongest. For this category of doctors, socialized medicine provides a dependable minimum income besides allowing him to devote his spare time to treating nonorganized private patients at regular fees.

Boats Industry Sales Booming As Never Before

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Some auto dealers are having their sales problems. But the boating industry isn't.

Sales are booming this year as some 23 million Americans take to the rivers, lakes and bays. Dollar sales volume seems headed to a new record and into the billion-dollar bracket for the first time. The National Assn. of Engine & Boat Manufacturers estimates that sales are running 25 per cent ahead of last year's record 800 million dollars.

One New York dealer in marine engines says his sales are double last year's. A hot item this year is the runabout that holds the entire family and sells under $500. Boating becomes more and more a family venture.

In the putt-putt section of the industry, the Outboard Boating Club of America estimates sales of outboard motors this year at around 120 million dollars, a 20 per cent gain over 1953.

About four million outboards are put out around now. The club puts production of new ones this year at 500,000 and expects 1957 output to reach 700,000.

In Milwaukee, 1957 is the target of the Evinrude Motor Division of Outboard, Marine & Manufacturing Co. of Waukegan, Ill. It is doubling the floor space of its plant after having seen its sales climb 178 per cent since 1951.

W. J. Webb, general manager, says: "Manufacturing motors for boat owners is a continuous job of engineering and testing. We analyze the market's potential two years in advance of production of a single new motor."

Webb is now planning the schedule to start in October 1956 (the industry things of its year as running from Oct. 1 to Sept. 31) to meet what Webb sees as the likely demand for the summer of 1957. His optimism traces back to the fact that in the last four years outboard boating fans have increased in number four fold.

John W. Mulford of Detroit, president of the National Assn. of Engine & Boat Manufacturers, says members report that this year buying has leaned strongly toward motors ranging from 16 to 25 horse power.

Electrocuted In Giving Help

PASCAGOULA, Miss. (AP)—Sgt. Michael Hanyok of Barnesboro, Pa., was electrocuted yesterday when he stopped on a highway to give help at the scene of a wreck.

Coroner J. I. Grimsley said a car driven by Mrs. Fred Newby of Pascagoula crashed into a pole supporting a 22,000-volt power line and snapped the line. Hanyok, stationed at Keester Air Force Base, stepped on the line as he got out of his car to help.

His wife Eleanor and 3-week-old daughter Patricia Ann were severely burned.

Mrs. Newby was not seriously injured.

Eyeglasses Turn Up 3 Years Late

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP)—Peter Dalman, pumping gas for a customer, found the man is an amateur diver, and remarked: Too bad you weren't around three years ago when I lost my glasses in the yacht basin.

"These," asked Gene Cord, reaching into his glove compartment. Dalman said they were his. Cord said he had found them very recently under 12 feet of water.

Prohibition Has Invaded Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A small-scale prohibition has invaded Mexico, of all places.

The average Mexican is about the most ardent defender of individual rights in the world. They don't even look up lunatics here, on the theory a man has a right to be peacefully crazy. That makes the advent of prohibition all the more amazing.

Gov. Agustín Yáñez of Jalisco state, which produces the best tequila, started it by closing saloons over the weekend. Police authorities were dubious at first. Now they are mildly enthusiastic and report petty crime is down 40 per cent.

Neighboring Nayarit state on the Pacific coast was impressed and put in a similar closing order Aug. 15. Nayarit bar owners threatened to go on strike. Gov. Limón Guzman said that would be fine with him. The saloonkeepers also said that anybody who wanted a drink would just buy a bottle Friday and, anyway, prohibition would only lead to speak-easies. Gov. Guzman said that at least the country people who sell in the Saturday markets wouldn't be able to spend money in the bars.

Knows Secret Of Silencing TV Set

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Wilshire District resident has found a way to silence his neighbor's TV set whenever he wishes.

The idea came to him during a recent hot spell when he was unable to sleep because of the blare of commercials from the set next door.

He stuck a metal fish pole out his third story window and leaned it against the antenna on the neighbor's roof. It did a beautiful job of shorting reception. He resorts to the fish pole now as often as necessary, removing it in the morning. The neighbor and a TV repairman, he reports, are slowly going nuts.

Eleven-Year-Old Wants Open Zoo

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—An 11-year-old is fighting city hall here in an attempt to establish a zoo in the city's Wildwood Park.

HOLLOW SILVER

By HELEN TOPPING MILLER

SYNOPSIS
Penn Houk senses that something grave is troubling her uncle, Senator Eilhu Storey when, unexpectedly, he leaves Washington for his home-state in the West. His mission linked to the ugly story which their young neighbor, Marsh Nichols, a war vet is spreading? Something to the effect that years before Senator Storey had swindled the Nichols' fine Maryland homestead from them, causing the senior Nichols' untimely death, leaving Marsh and his mother destitute. The old Nichols' place is the Storey residence now. None of the Storey family seems aware of the ageing statesman's distress and his wife, Maude, is steeped in the social whirl.

CHAPTER EIGHT
QUINCY HOUK wondered if she was in love. She did feel a little quiver as she waited in the car outside the building that housed the law offices of Crammer, Potter and Yates. The heavy 4 o'clock traffic of the District of Columbia seemed past her and twice the policeman on the far corner had looked her way and made as though he meant to whistle her on, but each time Quincy raced the motor and blew the horn again and the law forbade to annoy her. She was bathing at the steering wheel impatiently with her gloved hand when she spied Yates Underwood in the line of workers emerging from the building and sounded a peremptory summons.

As he came near the car Quincy looked him over and the thrill died in a flare of irritation. How could a girl tingle over a man, who in spite of his good looks, his broad shoulders and natty clothes, persisted in being always hurried, always eager and somehow so darned humble? It was his flemish old grandfather's fault, of course, but Yates ought to have a little more spirit.

He walked around the car dodging traffic and got in, beaming at her. That annoyed Quincy, too; she did not enjoy being beamed at. A Bogart type with a dry insult for greeting was the kind of man she dreamed about.

She said: "Well, hello," and gunned the car into a stream of vehicles, frowning as Yates involuntarily grabbed the door handle. "Hello, I wasn't expecting you, Quincy, or I'd have been waiting. Temple and I were talking over a case."

"Is that it?" She jerked her head at the briefcase. "More home work?"
"This? No, this is the file on another job. I have to deliver it—mind running around on New York Ave.? It'll only be a minute."
"It will be complicated with all these no-turn corners, but for you I will oblige. Could we go out to dinner somewhere? Uncle Eilhu is out west and Aunt Maude's found another diet she's trying, so the prospects over in Maryland are slim."
"I can telephone. I'll do that when I leave this file. Where do you want to eat?"
"After you call up your keeper we can decide. I've got the car for all day and Aunt Maude never bothers about when we come in. It's Uncle Eilhu who throws admonitions around."
"Lik, my grandfather."
"Except that I'm not intimidated and you are, Yates, ind."
"That's a foul, Quincy. I merely happen to be fond of the old chap."

and after all I am all he's got." "And he can't forget that he was the roaring lion of the bar who made a supreme court justice cringe. So he goes on collecting cringes and practicing his roar though he is past 80."

"Well, you make a fairly good attempt" at keeping the senator appeased yourself," Yates retorted. "The hang of being part of this generation is that the people who preceded us grabbed everything and are sitting on it. Even if they're too feeble to stand up, they can still sit hard and relentlessly."

"You'd have done better with some other firm. Uncle Eilhu said so."

"Your Uncle Eilhu has a profound respect for our firm. He hasn't forgotten that it was Potter who dug into those warehouse deals out west, and grandfather says that Storey is hoping nobody bores into some of those land deals he's put over there."

"Your grandfather has a poisonous mind. Aunt Maude says he sits out there in the park and hatches up deals to stir up Congress because he likes the idea of people squirming even if he can't see their convulsions or hear what they say. Penn and I—Quincy thought better of what she had started to say. Not that she had been warned not to talk about the land deal in Uncle Eilhu's state because she and Penn stood to profit by it, but in a senator's house you did learn discretion. She changed the subject. "Penn and I own this car now and we have an agreement. Alternate days. But Penn rarely goes out at night."

"We might arrange some kind of double date."

"She'd hate it. We vowed long ago to stay far apart. We got so sick of men making corny jokes and grabbing the wrong girl and saying: 'Oh, sorry! I thought you were my sister.' All that dismal stuff. The odd part is that we don't actually look alike."

"Well, there is a kind of difference, right close. In your expression, I guess. And your clothes, of course."

"You mean Penn looks intelligent and I don't?"

"Get your claws down. I mean there's a kind of shine about you. Your eyes, maybe. Penn brushes her hair back and you don't, and when you smile you look alike—"

"Except that mine is a slightly idiotic grin and Penn always goes around looking like a brain with a purpose. Me, I haven't a purpose in the world except to enjoy living. Is this what you stop? You'd better be brisk, my friend. I can't double park here very long."

While she waited Quincy had wondered about Yates Underwood, wondered dubiously if Yates was the best man that was ever going to happen to her. Twenty-one wasn't so young and Penn was a sort of handicap. Penn was restless and ambitious, and that made her exciting; and she had that burning look like a torch going forth to illumine something or other. Quincy hated feeling eclipsed beside her twin but the feeling had always been there. But she was the comfortable Houk. She wasn't interested in causes or learning new things or foreign languages. She was thankful that she knew the right words in English.

Yates came out then and they decided on a restaurant. A Chinese place on the avenue. Quincy drove the car into a parking place where you paid two prices because the attendants wore cute green suits with gold braid on them. The restaurant was very dim and muffled, with thick carpets, and the Oriental who led them to their table wore slippers with no heels, so the officer in navy tans who sat alone at a small table studying the menu did not look up till Quincy clapped him on the shoulder.

Laughs out loud. You know Yates, Gil? Yates Underwood, my cousin, Lieut. Storey."
Yates murmured polite greetings. "How about joining us, sir?" "Glad to. Got room at your table for me?"
"Of course, sir."
"How about leaving off the 'sir'?"
"Sorry—just habit. I was a very lowly gob for a long period of time, and even one stripe makes my legs tremble yet. Another chair here, boy." Yates took command. He knew how to be a host Quincy approved. At least he had that much from his proud old grandfather.

"And why is so handsome and distinguished an officer as you dining alone?" Quincy inquired, after she had parked her bag on an extra chair and given her order without looking at the prices. After all the Yates family were supposed to be rolling.

"Winnie went over to Alexandria again to see that show of Rufe's. A few stuff bores me and we had an argument which ended in the certainty that I'd have to boil myself an egg if I wanted to eat, so I came down here. Husband's frail gesture of independence. Glad you came along. I was beginning to repent my impulse to eat alone."

"Your mother thought Rufe's show was wonderful, of course, though Winnie did say it was a trifle corny. They don't let Rufe choose the plays. They have a committee to do that."

"The committee picking out the plays they or their sister or their cousins want to act in," Yates supplied helpfully.
"I can take the plays," Gil said.
"It's the curtain calls I can't take."

"I can imagine," Quincy jerked her mouth open, "seeing Rufe smirking in a headwater's suit and actually pleased at all the polite gloves spitting together."

"He could at least have stayed in the Army," said Gil.
"He hated it. You know Rufe never did relax very well to discipline, and Aunt Maude was sure he'd have some psychic breakdown or other unless he got kick in the stern," Gil said.

He Made A Fortune Out Of Misfortune

By BOY THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—How to make a fortune out of misfortune in one remarkable lesson.
Our subject is Joseph Hayes, a bright, lean, 37-year-old writer from Indianapolis. He is well on his way to fame and fortune, and all because his son got sick.

Hayes had been earning a good living for 10 years. He would write anything—magazine articles, short stories, TV scripts. With his red-haired wife Marjane, he wrote 20 plays for high schools and amateur theaters. One of them was based on "Mister Peepers." He even had one play on Broadway, "Leat and Bough," with Charlton Heston. It flopped in a week.

Last winter, the Hayes', red-haired son, 9-year-old Gregory, fell ill. He was in the hospital three times with pneumonia. The doctor despaired of his chances if he stayed in the cold climate.

So the Hayes family picked up their belongings and left for Florida. Hayes decided to use the time to write a book he had been thinking about. He turned it out in six weeks of intensive writing.

He wasn't happy about the result. As they were packing, his wife noted his glumness and said, "I won't be able to stand driving all the way to New York with you in that mood. You'd better let me read it."

She read the story, which concerns three escaped convicts who terrorize a family, and said, "I think it's wonderful. If you don't mind I'll write it. The author selected a title, 'The Desperate Hours.'"

So off it went to Hayes' agent. By the time the family arrived back in New York it had already been sold to Random House for publication. That weekend, Collier's bought it as a serial. The Reader's Digest Book Club and Literary Guild took it as a selection for their readers.

And that isn't all. Hayes went to work on a play version of the story. It will go into rehearsal Dec. 15 with Hayes as coproducer. Hollywood soon started clamoring for "The Desperate Hours." Virtually every studio in town and a flock of independents bid for it. Some were taken back by the author's terms.
"I know a lot of them said, 'Who the heck does he think he is?'" Hayes remarked. "My terms were stiff. I wanted a percentage of the gross—right off the top. Most of the studios wouldn't go for it."

But producer-director William Wyler did. He met the provisions, including the services of Hayes as script writer. The author is here now to write his baby for the screen.

High schools in the United States spend an average of $90 to $120 each year on protective clothing for a football player.

'Better Living Caravan' On Way

The International Better Living Caravan will visit Greenville Wednesday, Ray MacKenzie of the Greenville Equipment Company announced today.

The program will begin at 10 a.m. with a parade through the city followed by an all day open house, during which time the entire caravan will be on public display at Greenville Equipment Company.

According to MacKenzie the caravan is made up of a cross section of the most complete line of motor trucks and refrigeration equipment in the world. There will be a transcontinental freighter which towers 11 feet in the air, dump trucks from the smallest to largest, fire trucks, six-wheelers, giant moving vans, four wheel driving trucks, a bookmobile, trucks with automatic transmissions, and many others plus a complete line of household refrigeration and air conditioning units.

The star of the caravan is the new International R-100 pick-up. Everyone will be invited to drive this truck in a driving contest. Valuable prizes will be awarded to those who can drive the farthest distance on a 1-10 gallon of gas.

There will be door prizes, refreshments, music and helium-filled balloons for the children. Greenville Equipment Company cordially invites everyone to attend the caravan.

Ike And Herbert On Fishing Trip

DENVER (U—)President Eisenhower and former President Hoover today keep "a very important date with a few finny comrades" on a trout fishing expedition high in the Rocky Mountains.

The President and Hoover, both of whom love to fish and are good at it, scheduled an early start on a 70-mile drive northwest to Fraser, Colo., on the western slope of the Continental Divide.

For the next three days they will live in rustic cabins close to 10,000 feet high in the snow-capped Rockies. They will fish swift-running St. Louis Creek and Eisenhower will do most of the cooking.

Eisenhower interrupted his Colorado vacation to fly to Washington and address the American Legion convention yesterday. On the return trip to Denver—with a stopover in Des Moines at the Iowa State Fair—the President was accompanied by the 80-year-old Hoover.

At the fair, Eisenhower concluded an informal foreign affairs speech by saying with a chuckle: "Now, my friends, Mr. Hoover and I have a very important date with a few finny comrades up in the high Rockies, and it is about time we were getting along."

Going along too on the trip to Fraser was the chief executive's youngest brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, president of Pennsylvania State University.

The party will be the guest of a couple of old friends of the President, Aksel Nielsen and Carl Norgren. They own Byers Peak Ranch at Fraser, where Eisenhower has vacationed the last two summers.

"Spring peepers," zoologically known as Hyla crucifer, are found from Manitoba to Kansas and eastward.

Grand Jury And Superior Court Hold Busy Sessions

Pitt County Superior Court, August criminal term, convened yesterday with Judge Joseph W. Parker presiding.

The Grand Jury, also in session, found at least 12 true bills, including two bills for murder. Capases were issued for seven persons—all since they had failed to comply with requirements of judgment found in earlier terms of court.

The Grand Jury found "Not a True Bill" against Herman Norris, who was also charged with murder. Two cases, on recommendation of Solicitor W. J. Bundy, were returned to lower courts; and the court, after seeing the need for additional jurors, summoned 20 more persons to serve as jurors.

Plead Guilty—Rufus Stepps pleaded guilty of being drunk and a public nuisance. He was sentenced to 30 days, suspended on payment of costs.

Rufus Spain pleaded guilty to non-support of his family. He was sentenced to two years in jail, suspended on payment of court costs and $10 weekly for support of his family.

Heber Ellis pleaded guilty to a liquor charge, but after hearing the evidence he pleaded guilty and was sentenced to two years suspended, three years and fined $500. He must not violate an Alcoholic Beverage Control law.

Larry C. Worthington pleaded guilty of speeding and was fined $10 and costs. Glennie Burnett pleaded guilty of non-support. He was sentenced to two years, suspended on payment of costs and $15 weekly for support of his family.

The Grand Jury today found true bills against at least a dozen people. True bills were found against Bruce Lee Newton and Carrie Corey, both charged with murder. Others included Chester Corbett, charged with breaking and entering; Cecil Harris, non-support; William Allen Battle, robbery; J. T. Swinson, robbery; James Johnson, robbery; John Swinson, driving drunk.

Zeb Dee Elmes, arson; Noah Mourning, breaking, entering and larceny; J. C. Moore, larceny; Walter Taft, larceny; and Theron Coley Vainwright, speeding.

Upon motion, the cases against Benjamin Harper, charged with temporary larceny, and George K. Baker, charged with worthless check, were returned to smaller courts. One was returned to Farmville and the other to Grifton.

Upon motion, capases were issued for non-compliance against Fountain O'Neal, Marshall O'Dell Avery, Charlie Lester Blount, Milton Stalls, Milton Barrett, C. R. Peede Sr. and L. L. Hodges.

These people had failed to comply with sentences received at previous terms of court.

Ex-Police Chief To Be Arraigned In Pistol Death

FRANKLINTON, N. C. (U—)A former police chief here and in Clayton faces arraignment in Franklinton Recorder's Court next Tuesday on a charge of murder in the pistol death of his estranged wife's mother.

Franklinton Police Chief W. A. Hardy said Frank W. Carter Jr., 38, killed Mrs. Fred Wilder, about 60, yesterday while she pleaded for her life. Hardy said Carter admitted setting fire to a haystack and barn at the Wilder home two miles west of here to attract Mrs. Wilder when she went to her house and found no one at home.

Hardy said Carter had made threats against Mrs. Wilder. He added the shooting grew out of family differences. Carter emptied his .32 caliber pistol into the woman while she pleaded for her life in the front yard and then reloaded the weapon and fired twice more the police chief said.

When police reached the scene, Carter was sitting in his car with the pistol pointed to his head, Hardy stated. As the officers approached, he dropped the pistol and said, "I'll do anything you want."

Centuries ago the drinking of animal's milk by small children was frowned upon by many physicians.

Rotarians Hear Voices Of Men Who Made History

Recordings of the voices of the men making history immediately prior to and through World War II were played last night for the Rotarians at their regular weekly dinner meeting. Edward R. Murrow did the commentary for the recordings. Leon Roebuck who presented the program gave a brief resume of the history of the 1932 to 1940 period to give the recordings a setting.

The voices heard were Wendell Wilkie, F. D. Roosevelt, Randolph Churchill, Dwight Eisenhower, Harry Truman, and General Charles McArthur.

Prior to the program Charles Blissett, president of the Greenville Rotary Club, unwrapped before the assembled members a gift addressed to the Greenville Club from Skudenesnav, Norway. It was a miniature flag of Norway mounted on a silver staff about six inches long. The staff was set in a round silver base of silver. It was a gesture of remembrance and thanks from Berit Hilleland, a Norwegian Rotary exchange student, who attended East Carolina College last Winter and who was a ward of the local club during that time, and frequently was a guest at the Club's meetings.

There were no guests or visitors last night. Charles Blissett, Club president, presided.
