Major Hurdles Overcome At Manila Meeting

SEA TO Signing Tomorrow

MANILA (AP)—Eight nations writing a pact aimed at halting aggression in Asia today virtually agreed on all outstanding issues and scheduled the formal signing for tomorrow.

A reliable source said it seemed certain there would be no final hitch in secret proceedings, but delegates still were sweating over the exact wording of the key clause.

This involves the military commitments to be made by the United States, Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, Thailand, Pakistan and the Philippines.

Thailand and the Philippines were reported holding out for an NATO-type agreement under which all members would come instantly to the defense of any member attacked.

The United States is arguing for a pact under which each member would react to an attack on another within its own constitutional framework.

Delegates today adopted an article stating that nations "by means of continuous and effective self-help and mutual aid will maintain and develop their individual and collective capacity to resist armed attack and to prevent and overcome subversive activity directed from without against their territorial integrity and political stability."

The informed source said approval came after Thailand abandoned demands to include subversive activity within a nation as well as outside its borders.

The delegates also reportedly agreed to accept general terms in which the economic clause of the proposed treaty was written "with each other a development of economic measures designed to promote economic stability and social well-being."

Asian nations had been holding out for more concrete proposals as to what will be done to develop economic stability and social well-being.

The delegates provisionally approved an article calling for the creation of a Southeast Asia Treaty Organization which would meet any time members feel it necessary.

The source said the United States has indicated it is willing to drop from the treaty preamble the word "communism" as the specific aggressor against which the pact is being formed.

The United States had been holding out alone for identifying the aggressor as communism.

U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was quoted as telling the negotiators the United States could not sign a treaty without some form of reservation from other members explaining that "we do not consider any aggression the same as Communist aggression."

Dulles stressed, the source said, that the United States considers Communist aggression in Asia the same as an attack on the United States. On the other hand, he said, a local war in the Far East would not be considered by the President and Congress because it would not be a threat to the United States.

"This is a very complex matter but it's not going to hold up signing of the treaty," Dulles said. "However, all will have to understand our position when the treaty is signed."

The source said France has submitted a possible solution to the problem of whether Laos, Cambodia and Southern Viet Nam should be included in the treaty area.

The French delegation proposed a "document of protocol" which would add the three states to the area covered by the treaty although they would not play as active a role in SEATO as other members.

The source said that if the French proposal is accepted it may also be used to cover Indochina under economic provisions of the treaty.

Traffic Toll Over Long Holiday Hits New Six-Year Low

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Accidents during the long Labor Day weekend killed more than 300 Americans but the traffic toll was the smallest in six years.

New tabulations today showed that traffic deaths numbered 357, down from 407 in 1949.

The traffic toll was lowest for the Labor Day holiday since 1948, when 293 deaths were reported. It fell under the predicted total of 390 although it was somewhat higher than the total for a recent nonholiday weekend.

The over-all total was the lowest for the Labor Day period since 1948, when 407 accidental deaths of various causes were counted.

The holiday period this year began at 6 p. m. Friday and ended at midnight Monday.

It was preceded by a plea from President Eisenhower. He urged the nation's motorists to be careful and challenged them to "fool the experts" who had predicted 390 motor vehicle fatalities.

National Guardsmen reinforced state police in patrolling highways in Michigan, Wisconsin and Tennessee.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, termed the national toll "tragically high" but found it "encouraging" because it reflected a downward trend in traffic deaths.

"For the second straight holiday the traffic toll was not only well below our preholiday estimates but was the lowest for any three-day period of that holiday since 1949."

"The Labor Day traffic toll was the lowest since 1948. The Fourth of July traffic toll (348) was the lowest for any three-day period of that holiday since 1949."

"Add to this the fact that the day-to-day traffic toll has come down steadily all this year and there seems to be reason for believing that the efforts of so many people for so many years are beginning to pay off."

The worst single accident occurred near Naptown, Ind. 36 miles south of Indianapolis, when two cars collided head on, killing six persons.

The death toll by states, traffic, drownings, miscellaneous:

Alabama 0 0 1; Arizona 2 4 0; Arkansas 2 2 0; California 24 9 4; Colorado 4 0 2; Connecticut 2 1 1; Florida 3 0 1; Georgia 9 3 0; Idaho 3 0 1; Illinois 19 6 3; Indiana 14 1 1; Iowa 4 3 0; Kansas 6 0 1; Kentucky 14 3 0; Louisiana 9 2 1; Maine 2 0 1; Maryland 2 2 0; Massachusetts 3 0 1; Michigan 19 7 5; Minnesota 8 1 2; Mississippi 5 0 1; Missouri 14 4 5; Montana 3 1 0; Nebraska 5 0 2; Nevada 1 0 0;

No Lives Lost In Pitt Over Holiday

Pitt County had only four traffic accidents with no injuries during a Labor Day weekend which saved nine persons die in traffic accidents in North Carolina.

Two of the accidents occurred on the Porter Road - one when a car struck a telephone pole and the second when a pick-up truck went out of control and overturned.

Another accident took place on the Farmville bypass when the electrical system on a car went dead and a second auto crashed into the rear.

On Saturday night a transfer truck overturned on N. C. 102. Two workers worked for three hours in up-lifting the vehicle.

"We certainly received splendid co-operation from the people of Pitt County who drove over the holiday weekend," Corporal C. E. Whitfield of the State Highway Patrol said today. "We had the heaviest traffic we've had this year. Actually it was a lot heavier than the Fourth of July weekend."

"All Pitt County patrolmen worked approximately 15 hours per day Friday through Monday patrolling the highways," the corporal said. In addition speed clocks were used to check the speeds of motorists.

Whitfield listed the following arrests by patrolmen during the long holiday weekend: driving drunk, 4; reckless driving, 24; speeding, 24; following too closely, 4; improper passing on curve, 1; failing to stop for stop sign, 7; improper lights, 2; improper brakes, 4; no driver's license, 7; drunks on highway, 5.

In addition the six Pitt County patrolmen investigated 16 complaints, corrected 21 bad lights and issued 39 citations.

"We are very well pleased with the cooperation we received from the motoring public and we urge them to continue to cooperate during the remainder of the year and drive safely as they did during the heavy Labor Day weekend holiday," Whitfield concluded.

Activities Of New Term Starting Today

ECC Newcomers Welcomed

Freshmen and other new students, officially beginning their activities for the 1954-55 term at East Carolina College this morning, attended a general assembly in the Wright auditorium and participated in a program introducing them to campus life.

President John D. Messick of the college welcomed the group of approximately a thousand men and women to East Carolina, which he described as "the fastest growing college in the South."

More than 4,000 students registered for work offered by the college during the last college year, he said. The size of the student body and of the faculty has increased rapidly, especially during the past eight years, he stated. The college curriculum, he added, has been expanded and improved during this period; and standards of instruction have been raised.

"Have a dream of what you wish to accomplish during your college years and of what you wish to be in the future," Dr. Messick advised the newcomers. He urged them not to hide their talents but to develop their potentialities for personal improvement and for service to the college and their fellow students.

Lt. Col. Lewis J. Partridge, professor of air science, spoke to students and gave a short survey of the major areas of study and the advantages to the student of the Air Force ROTC program at the college. He announced that women would be admitted this fall to the basic course of instruction.

Group singing during the general assembly was led by Dr. Kenneth

N. Cuthbert of the music department, with George Perry at the piano.

Freshmen met with their departmental advisors after the general assembly and began arranging their class schedules for the fall quarter.

Other events of today include registration from 1:30 to 5 p. m., and a social meeting for new students tonight in the new Student Union in the Wright building.

The testing program for new students begins tonight, when those just entering college will take a battery of tests of various types. Medical examinations and instruction in the use of the college library also began today.

Upperclassmen are beginning to arrive on the campus in preparation for registration Thursday.

Extend Discount Period For Paying Pitt Taxes

By BOB BOYETTE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt's Board of County Commissioners voted yesterday to extend the one percent discount period for people paying taxes this year to October 31, 1954 instead of September 30 as in the past.

This period of giving discounts was extended since the tax revaluation here has delayed the mailing of tax notices.

Other business transacted at the September meeting yesterday included the Board's acceptance of the 1953 tax collection report.

Cash Collection Almost $800,000
County Tax Collector H. L. Andrews said the total tax collection amounted to $796,467.72. Releases total $2,422,787; land sales amounted to $37,001.42 and the insolvent taxes not collected total $17,200.

This gives a grand total of $853,091.92, which was the 1953 levy.

It was resolved by the Board that the 1953 budget be supplemented in accordance with a report to be submitted by the County Auditor which would get surplus money from prior year budgets.

A road petition, for a road running from the Belvoir-Bethel Highway to the highway from Belvoir to Section House on NC No. 11, was accepted yesterday. This road, which is 3.2 miles long, is in Belvoir Township.

Jim Letchworth was granted a free peddler's license since he is a 100 percent disabled veteran.

All the county department heads made their regular monthly reports. Clerk Blair Wheelock was asked to call each commissioner on September 17 to remind the various members of the meeting scheduled for 2 p. m. on that date, at which time the bids for the new county health center will be opened.

The Board yesterday sat as a Board of Equalization and Review to close the business for this year.

U.S. Withdrawal Effects Talked

SEOUL (AP)—South Korea's top military leaders, back from conferences in Washington, met with President Syngman Rhee today.

Source said he discussed the planned withdrawal of two thirds of American troops from Korea and probable buildup of South Korean military forces.

Half-Holiday Due To Extreme Heat

City schools were ordered closed at noon today by Superintendent J. H. Rose because of "the extreme heat."

However, the regular schedule will be resumed tomorrow as cooler temperatures have been predicted, Rose said.

The Superintendent stated this morning today's temperature was expected to rise to 103 degrees, and "in the afternoon the classrooms would be entirely too hot."

School lunchrooms were also closed today as a result of the half-holiday.

The lunchrooms will be open tomorrow with the resumption of the regular class day schedule, the Superintendent reported.

No blanket instructions for closing today were issued to the county schools, Superintendent D. H. Conley said this morning.

He stated such action is left entirely up to the various school principals since the county schools are scattered over such a wide area.

Plan Returning More War Dead

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Communists today told the U.N. Command they will return 300 Allied war dead tomorrow, including the remains of 296 Americans, 3 Britons and 1 Australian.

The U.S. Army said the first ship carrying remains of Korean War dead returned by the Communists will sail from Pusan tomorrow for Kooka, Japan. The remains will be examined at the Army's graves registration laboratory at Kooka to establish scientifically accurate identification.

In the exchange today the United Nations received 279 Americans and 21 British war dead. The U.N. handed back 600 Communist bodies,

Chinese Nationalist Planes Raid Red Coastal Shipping

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Chinese Nationalist warplanes struck at Communist shipping along the China coast today and the Defense Ministry said a Red gunboat, more than 100 wooden military junks and five motorized vessels were damaged.

Identification of the junks as military craft could indicate the Reds were massing an invasion fleet for an attack on Quemoy, but there was no official confirmation.

Quemoy, Nationalist island outpost just off Amoy opposite Formosa, has been under intermittent Communist artillery attack since Friday, when the Reds bombarded it for five hours.

The defense ministry said Nationalist bombers struck today at Wuyi Island and Chihmei on the mainland coast within artillery range of Quemoy and at nearby Amoy, a major Red base.

Warships joined in the attack for the second day, the announcement said, adding that Red firepower on Amoy was crippled. Intermittent anti-aircraft fire stopped entirely during the attack, the ministry said.

Pilots said dense clouds of smoke billowed for 40 minutes from White Stone fortress and for 25 minutes from East fortress, two major strongpoints at Amoy.

Fires also were reported on Tainan, a small island within gun range of Quemoy.

All planes returned safely to the Ministry said.

Storm Alert For South Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A hurricane alert for south Florida was a good probability for later today as the tropical storm in the Atlantic whirled at about 85 miles an hour with winds still increasing.

Grady Norton, chief storm forecaster in the Miami Weather Bureau said: hurricane hunter plane flew into the storm this morning.

"As soon as we get a full round-up on conditions from the plane and from nearby Bahamas Islands, we will make a decision on alerting south Florida for the hurricane," said Norton.

He said the storm was 500 miles east-southeast of Miami at 10 a. m. and was moving west-northwestward at about 12 miles an hour.

The center at that time was 100 miles southeast of San Salvador, or Watling Island, the coral island in the Bahamas where Columbus made his landfall on his first voyage of discovery.

The hurricane will move into the central Bahamas tonight, and present indications are it will continue its present course for the next 24 hours.

"It is a small storm as far as its area of hurricane winds is concerned, but it is developing rather fast now and still gaining in intensity."

U.S. Asks Security Council Take Up Incident

Shooting Put To UN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States put its latest cold war brush with Russia before the United Nations today.

The Navy plane was the sixth U.S. military aircraft shot down by the Soviets either in Europe or over the Pacific, but this was the first time the United States has brought such an incident before the Security Council.

U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. asked the "early meeting" of the Security Council to take up the shooting down of a U.S. Navy plane off Siberia Saturday by Soviet jet fighters.

Lodge returned unexpectedly to New York from a holiday at his Beverly, Mass., home to make the surprise move. He telephoned his request for the council meeting last night to Francisco Urrutia of Columbia, the 11-nation group's president for September.

Aides on the U.S. delegation said he would follow up with a formal request by letter today.

In a brief statement from his delegation headquarters Lodge said he had asked the council meeting "to consider the situation arising from the unprovoked attack . . . by aircraft of the Soviet Union over international waters . . ."

Nine of the 10 U.S. crewmen aboard the two-engine Neptune patrol bomber were rescued unharmed after drifting all night on a raft. One man, Ensign Roger Henry Reid of Alameda, Calif., apparently went down with the plane.

The survivors said they were on a routine patrol mission well off the Siberian coast when two MIG15 jets opened fire on them without warning. With one wing on fire, the plane crashed and sank in the sea. The United States protested the attack as "wanton and unprovoked" in a strongly worded note to Russia.

Before its delivery, however, the Soviet Foreign Office had handed U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen a protest charging that the U.S. plane had flown within the Soviet frontiers and opened fire on two Soviet fighters which approached it. The Russian note said the Red pilots "were forced to open fire in return."

Because Lodge asked for an "early" session, it was expected that Urrutia would not call the council to meet before next week. A request for an urgent meeting usually means a session the next day.

However, the United States appeared to be seeking time to complete its case against the Russians, said a U.S. official.

but still anxious to beat the Soviets in the initial punch should the Kremlin also decide to take the incident to the U.N.

Revised accounts of the Soviet attack, released in Washington yesterday, indicated that the American investigation was still in progress.

In a second note rejecting the Russian protest completely, the State Department had said, "At no time did the United States Navy aircraft open fire on the Soviet aircraft." Brought back to Atsugi, Japan the survivors said their guns were not loaded, but Ordnance Man Ernest Louis Pinckney of Alameda said he was able to load one gun and fire about 150 rounds "mostly in hope of scaring them off."

The Navy Department also revised the position of the attack previously announced by the State Department but said it still was well away from Russian territory.

The first U.S. note had said the attack took place approximately 100 miles east of Vladivostok and 44 miles from the Siberian coast. A Navy spokesman said yesterday a plotting of bearings reported by the survivors indicated the plane crashed into the sea about 125 miles southeast of Vladivostok and 44 miles off Siberia.

But Unlikely To Join Pool For Atomic Use

Door Left Open To Russia

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)— President Eisenhower held the door open today for Soviet cooperation in a new Allied undertaking to spread peaceful benefits of atomic energy to many lands.

A diplomatic authority said Russia's behavior toward the United States and particularly the Kremlin's rejection of a previous Eisenhower proposal that it join in an international atomic pool appeared to rule out any move to join the latest project.

Nevertheless, the decision announced by the President yesterday to go ahead without Russia on an international atomic agency plan would appear to put the Soviet somewhat on the spot since they have so far indicated no interest in sharing their own atomic energy know-how and resources with anybody else.

What Eisenhower disclosed was that the United States government has agreed with other nations to set up an agency to "foster the growth and spread of new atomic technology for peaceful use." The President did not name the countries, but an aide at the Summer White House in Denver said they are Britain, France, Canada, South Africa and Australia.

Eisenhower expressed hope that "no nation will long stand aloof" from the enterprise. This seemed clearly to keep the door open for Russian cooperation.

For the time being, the President made clear, the project aims to provide benefits for friendly, free nations. He said the intent of the nations joining in the undertaking is to share atomic technology "with others of good will."

Other non-Communist countries may join the project shortly. It is known that there have been negotiations with Belgium which controls one of the world's great uranium producing areas in the Belgian Congo. South Africa and Australia are in the project as producing countries. The United States, Britain and Canada are in as countries with atomic industry and France as one with skill in atomic research and development.

Eisenhower spoke to the nation by radio and television in connection with ground-breaking ceremonies for the nation's first atomic power generation plant, near Pittsburgh.

The six-nation agreement which the President disclosed is an outgrowth of a proposition he made to the United Nations last Dec. 8, but with substantial modifications.

In announcing the earlier proposal, Eisenhower said the United States was willing to contribute atomic material to a pool in a joint undertaking with other atomic powers—specifically including Russia.

Negotiations were held with Russia on the earlier proposal, but the Soviet insisted on two points which this country considered hopelessly unacceptable: (1) that Red China would join in formal talks to create the pool, and (2) that the United States should, as a first step, join in outlawing the use of atomic weapons.

The President's new plan primarily can achieve two things: It can demonstrate America's interest in atomic developments for peace to build up power sources in power-short areas. Also, it can provide a practical enterprise in which the United States and its principal allies work together to create something new and better in the world.

Eisenhower said "Atomic materials for projects sponsored by this agency will be set aside for that purpose."

The United States is going ahead with the atomic pool under the authority of the new atomic energy law the President signed a week ago. That law permits sharing of certain atomic secrets with allies.

Routine Items Taken Up By Board Of Education

Two teachers and the appointed school treasurers were approved by the Pitt County Board of Education at a monthly meeting yesterday.

Superintendent D. H. Conley revealed this morning La Rue D. Brunson and Norma L. Dillingham were approved by the Board yesterday to teach in the Chitwood and Grifton schools, respectively.

Various county school treasurers who were accepted by the Board included, white: Dorothy G. Boyette, Arthur; Guyia Clark, Ayden; Dorothy Hardy, Belvoir; Thadys J. Dewar, Bethel; J. R. Worsley, Chitwood; Mrs. Ray Phillips, Falkland; Beatrice P. Aycock, Farmville; Geneva W. Phillips, Fountain; Peggy Buck, Grifton; Cairn R. Carr, Grimesland; Josephine Harvey Scott, Pactical; Bruce Exum, Stokes; Mavis Brown, Winterville.

Negro: Thelma Gray, Sallie Branch, Mammie C. German, Falkland; Mrs. H. F. Moore, Shivers; Miss M. M. Allen, Bethel; Learline Simpson, Stokes; Albert C. Hill, Pitt County Training School; J. J. Brown, Ayden; Bettie Carney, Winterville; Ruth Gregory, Haddock.

The Board also agreed at yesterday's meeting to enroll all members of the County Board of Education and the school district committees in the North Carolina State School Board Association.

This makes a local membership total of 65 with a membership fee of $80, Superintendent Conley reported.

The Board of Education heard one petition yesterday from a delegation from Clark's Neck. This delegation requested the school bus service from Grimesland be extended to that locality for 12 high school students who are now providing their own transportation to Grimesland High School.

There was some discussion on the matter, but no action was taken as all the members of the Board were not present at the meeting, Conley said. Three of the five Board members attended the session yesterday.

Air Force Rotation Plan Will Bolster Air Power Now Stationed In Europe

By ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON (AP)—American air power in Europe will be increased under a plan announced today to rotate tactical Air Force units for temporary tours of duty on the Continent.

The program, starting in the next few weeks, will send squadrons of Air Force fighter-bombers, which are used for the support of ground forces, and troop carrier outfits overseas under a schedule similar to that which has been in use for several years by the Strategic Air Command's force of long-range bombers.

The official announcement said the rotation plan was to test the crew members, the opportunity to obtain valuable experience and indoctrination in tactical Air Force operations in the European area.

The Air Force didn't say so, but the presence of additional squadrons under a schedule which will keep several on the scene at all times also means a net increase for air strength in Europe.

At present, the Air Force has approximately 14 wings of various categories based permanently in England or on the Continent as part of the Western European defense system. These include interceptor outfits as well as the jet fighter-bomber wings.

In addition, two wings of Strategic Air Command planes operate from bases in Europe and North Africa under the rotational program.

The schedule for these latter units is two or three months overseas, with another unit taking up station as soon as one leaves to return home. Presumably, the overseas tour for the tactical and carrier units will be similar.

Censure Study Group Reveals New Evidence Against McCarthy

By G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators today resumed charges against Sen. McCarthy resumed public hearings today, and passed word their staff has additional evidence to present against the Wisconsin senator.

The group last week tentatively covered the five classes of charges singled out for study, but left the way open for additional evidence.

McCarthy told reporters the committee had informed him "they may take all day" to complete the presentation of evidence.

He said he was ready to begin his defense as soon as he had opportunity.

"We're ready to go," McCarthy said but declined to give any hints of defense strategy or to name any of the witnesses in advance, except to confirm what his counsel, Edward Bennett Williams, had announced before: "I will be a witness."

There were reports from sources close to McCarthy that he may question whether Sen. Ervin (D-NC) is prejudiced.

McCarthy himself declined to discuss the reports except to declare he has been told that commentator Walter Winchell mentioned Ervin in a broadcast Sunday night.

Says Wife At Fault If Spouse Won't Dress Up

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor
If Pop goes out in the evening looking like an unmade bed, it's all the fault of his wife, says Morris Rudofker, former president of the Men's Formal Wear Institute and head of the country's largest manufacturing firm devoted to after-6 clothing for men.

It's up to the little woman to put her foot down, says dapper Rudofker, if she wants her husband to live up to her own standards of dress.

"Men just get in the habit of refusing to dress because they can get away with it," says Rudofker. Apparently a large group of American wives are keeping the situation well in hand because the sales of men's formal wear have increased from about 5 1/2 million dollars in 1946 to 55 million in 1953. Further, men are going for the new colors in dinner jackets, cummerbunds and ties.

"Most men actually enjoy dressing in the evening," said Rudofker. "The trend in recent years has been away from the old-fashioned heavy tuxedos and tails and the starched shirts and collars to evening clothes that are lighter in weight and more comfortable than business suits."

"Women always have been smarter than men about clothes. When they get dressed up, they're comfortable." Now that men are starting to dress again, they're doing the thing up brown, says this authority. They're buying cummerbund and ties in every color of the rainbow, in plaids, regimental stripes and solid colors.

They're going for the pastel-colored dinner jackets for resort, spring and summer wear too. Next spring, he says, you'll be seeing men

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, Real Estate Editor

Perforated hardboard is one of the most interesting of the newer building materials. Attractive in appearance, it also is utilitarian in various ways.

Manufactured out of compressed wood fibers, like standard hardboards, this material has evenly-spaced rows of holes into which a wide variety of patented hooks and brackets can be inserted. In this way, perforated hardboard makes a working wall. It can be used in the garage for hanging garden tools, sleds and other equipment to keep the floor clear and uncluttered. In the kitchen it can be used for hanging pots and pans and other utensils. In living room and elsewhere it provides a multitude of opportunities for hanging shelves, pictures, potted plants and other decorative features.

Builders of modern houses with wide overhanging eaves are using this perforated material to line the underside of such overhangs. The holes provide added ventilation for under-roof spaces.

Installation of a panel of this material is a relatively simple operation for the home handyman. The method to be used is determined primarily by the panel's size and its intended function.

Take for example a typical kitchen installation, where there is a wall area near the range. The homemaker may decide on a panel 4 feet long and 3 feet wide, placed horizontally. Since the metal hooks used for hanging articles require a certain amount of clearance for insertion and removal, the panel must be mounted at least 1-4 inch away from the wall. An exception would be in new construction, or in an unfinished garage, where the panel is to be mounted directly on the studs.

The easiest way to provide this clearance for a panel up to 4 by 6-feet is to install vertical strips of wood, 2 1/2-inch wide, at intervals of 16 inches on centers, on the back of the panel. Each strip is allowed to extend to points 1 inch from the top and bottom edges. These strips are easily glued to the hardboard with standard plywood glue. The strips are placed between rows of holes so as not to interfere with the use of the holes. To help the glue set, a few brads are hammered into the strips from the face of the panel.

By placing the strips 16 inches on centers, the usual distance from the center of one wall stud to another, it is a simple matter to fasten the panel securely to the wall by using long screws that will penetrate into the studs.

On a 4 by 8-foot panel in the kitchen, screws should be used at about 6-inch intervals through the strips near outer edges and at 1-foot intervals on inside strips. This will suit in a strong working wall.

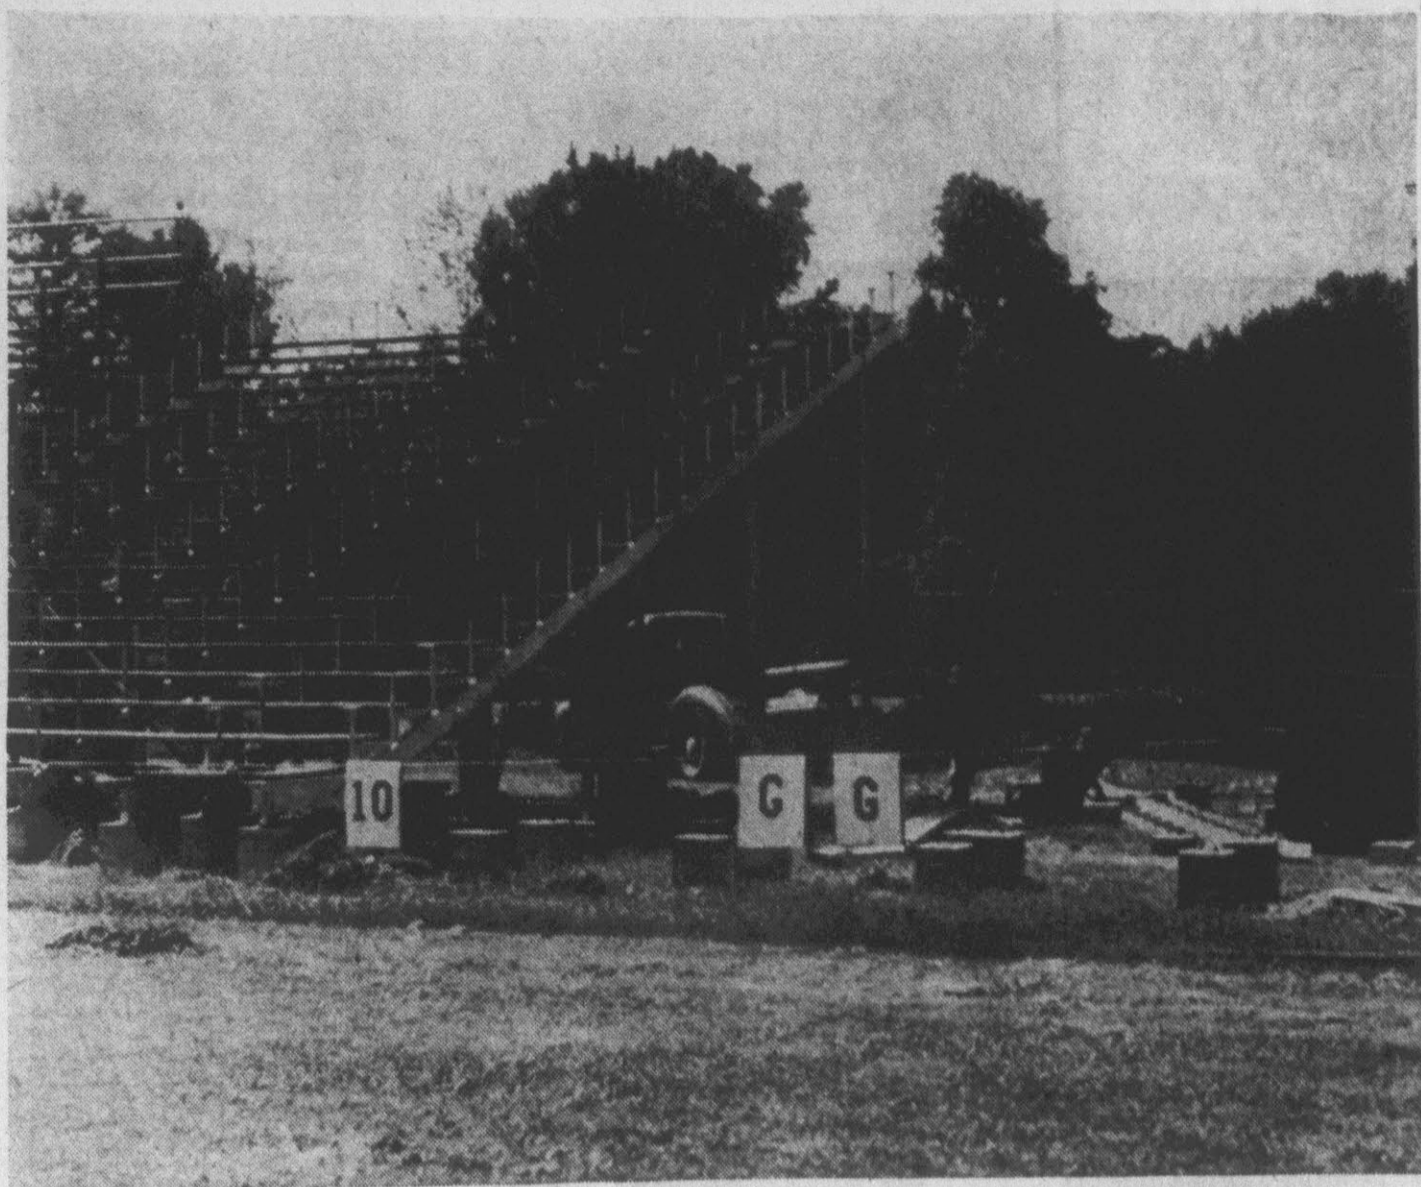

On panels larger than 4 by 6 feet, it is wise to back the entire perimeter by a framework of 3/4-inch lumber.

Perforated panels can be cut and worked with ordinary carpenter's tools. A crosscut saw - fine tooth preferred - will cut the material in any direction, since there is no grain in hardboard.

In applying 1/2-inch thick perforated panels to furring strips, always use both brads and wood-working glue. First spread the glue on the framing members or furring strips. Locate them on the panel and starting at the center, fasten with 16-gauge brads spaced 8 inches on intermediate supports and 4 inches around the edges. When possible, depending on the thickness of the furring strips, brads should penetrate 1 inch into the nailing base. To conceal the brads, countersink each one and fill the holes with wood putty.

Because of heavy equipment that may be hung on working walls in a garage or workshop, specifications recommend panels 1-4 inch thick. This thickness also is more resistant to bumps and other hard usage.

Blind Man, Dog Hit By Two Cars

MIDDLETOWN, N. J. (AP)—A blind man and his Seeing Eye dog were injured last night when they were hit by two automobiles while crossing a highway.

The injured man, Edward Fendush, 24, of Garfield, was taken to a hospital, where he was in fair condition with shoulder, face, and leg injuries.

The Seeing Eye dog was so badly hurt that it was destroyed by a veterinarian.

Police said neither driver was at fault. They said the blind man, waiting for a bus to his home, started to cross the dark highway but turned back midway. He walked into the side of a car driven by Howard Poduska of Rumson, and was hit by a car driven by Bertha Balog of Marlboro as he lay in the road.

Mandolf suffered an arm fracture, abrasions and possible internal injuries as he lost his footing on an icy trail. He was trapped on the ledge for 25 hours in 18-degree cold before his 14-year-old companion, James Prichard of San Diego, walking all night to Whitney Portal for help summoned forest rangers and sheriff's deputies. An airplane directed the 17-man searching party to the ledge.

BOSTON (AP)—The vicar of the Old North Church, which lost its Revere steeple during last week's hurricane, appealed for help today in his search for parts of a weathervane made in 1740.

The Rev. Charles Russell Peck said the big letters N-E-W-S, spelling the points of the compass, were part of a copper and lead weathervane set in place 35 years before the lanterns were hung that sent Paul Revere on his famous midnight ride.

The weathervane was found otherwise intact after it crashed to the ground with the steeple.

Lady Bullfighter Critically Hurt

CIUDAD ACUNA, Mexico (AP)—Patricia McCormick, 24, of Big Spring, Tex., remained in critical condition today in a hospital at Del Rio, Tex., across the Rio Grande, from the goring she received here Sunday.

She might have been killed instantly but for Alejandro del Hierro of Juarez, an ex-matador who trained Pat to fight bulls.

Del Hierro jumped into the ring, ran to the bull and pulled the girl from the horns after it charged and lifted her into the air. An understudy matador drew the bull's attention with a cape and killed it.

Del Hierro said here yesterday in halting English he did not think about not having a cape or of danger to himself when he rushed in. He said he "had no time for caution."

Problem Of Finance Must Be Faced

A prelude to the major task of the 1955 General Assembly opened in Raleigh today as the Advisory Budget Commission began hearings on budget requests from state departments, agencies and institutions for the next two years.

It is already apparent that finance will be the biggest headache the 1955 General Assembly will face. Curtailed revenue during the current biennium had led to forecasts that an additional $25 to $30 million per year in additional revenues will be needed by the state during the coming biennium to maintain state services at their present level.

It is also predicted by state officials that the 1955 General Assembly will have only a five million dollar surplus with which to begin the new biennium, the smallest surplus in many years.

For several months now, there has been talk of finding new sources of state revenue with which to meet the demands for operating state departments, institutions and agencies. The people of the state are generally opposed to higher taxes because of the feeling that the overall tax burden already is higher than it should be on the individual.

To make matters even worse, there are genuine needs of many departments, institutions and agencies of the state which must be financed by the state if these state agencies are to meet the demands which are being thrust at them.

During the next week in Raleigh, there will unfold in detail before the Advisory Budget Commission the requests from various state agencies, departments and institutions for funds for the coming biennium. The Commission will use the information gained at the hearing as a gauge for making its spending recommendations to the 1955 General Assembly.

There are several things which are apparent that make the matter of financing the next biennium even more complicated. Increases in state taxes, if there are any

ANGELS IN COMPARTMENTS
The great Japanese evangelist and man of letters, Kagawa, was asked some years ago to give his impression of American life. His answer was: "On the North American continent your angels all live in compartments."
By this he meant that we have many enterprises for human betterment which appear to be appallingly disconnected. Here is one group of angels working for world peace. Here is another engaged in promoting Christian missions. Here is another trying to overcome juvenile delinquency. Other angels are trying to organize prayer groups. Still others are pointing out the evils of drug addiction and the evils attending the consumption of alcoholic beverages.

Now all these things are good. But so often the angels will not get together into an effective unity. They are like the fingers of a hand. If the hand is to be converted into a fist, the fingers have to be drawn together—fused together, as it were, by being drawn into a fist.
Angels are good, and the things angels do are even better. But here in this western hemisphere our angels so often carry on their activities in compartments. We speak of the Army of the Lord, but continue to work very often on a compartmental basis.

Repulse Of Old Liberal Ranks

By ED KILMAN
While Ray Tucker is on vacation there will be guest columns by several prominent newspaper editors. Today's column is by Ed Kilman, Editor of THE HOUSTON POST, HOUSTON, TEX.

Texas' recent Democratic runoff primary, in which Allen Shivers became the first governor of that state to crack the two-term tradition, decided more than the election of a governor. It was a smashing repulse of a terrific mass attempt of "loyalist" liberals and labor unions to knock Shivers off his perch as a rising leader of Southern conservatives, and to snatch control of the state party from the conservatives for 1956. Shivers' resounding victory (Democratic nomination means election in Texas) strengthened his influence for conservatism, either within the party or for Eisenhower if he runs again in the next Presidential race. It was a blow to the national party's liberal beltweathers, who watched the contest closely and put in a few licks against the Texas Governor.

At the 1952 Democratic National Convention, Shivers had starred in the coup of Southern conservatives which prevented the Moody-Humphrey-Roosevelt-Williams leftist group from clapping an iron-clad loyalty oath upon the Dixie Ike-like delegations. On top of that, Shivers spearheaded the Democrats-for-Eisenhower drive that put Texas in the GOP column by a whopping margin for the second time since Reconstruction.

TOUGH FIGHTERS—For this defection and his soaring conservative potency, the "loyalists" sought to clip his political wings at the shoulders. They thought his party truce and his running for an unprecedented third term made him doubly vulnerable—as to a considerable degree they did. So they mounted for the most savage assault that has been made on a candidate in Texas in decades.
Throughout the campaign, Shivers cried out that the fight against him was masterminded, powered and actively financed by outside CIO leadership and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. He charged that all radical hues from pale pink to deep red were aligned against him. (Last spring, he sponsored the most drastic anti-Communist state law ever in effect.)

This summer's primary results indicated that something unusual had happened to give the "loyalists" new driving force since 1952, when Shivers rolled increases, must be kept at a very minimum. Yet, we can ill afford to allow state services to fall below their present level; and at the same time, we must recognize the fact that new funds for permanent improvements and other things are needed if the state's agencies are to keep pace with the growing demands for services from the growing population of the state.

The import of the financial problem which North Carolina faces will be even more emphatic at end of the current hearings of the Advisory Budget Commission than it is now.

Another Bid To Curtail Service To Greenville

We understand Western Union is working on a project which would enable it to close its Greenville office a couple of hours earlier each evening. The report comes from reliable sources, and in our opinion, does not propose action which is in the best interest of the city.

As we understand it, Western Union has been seeking a representative in Greenville - possibly a business which remains open at night - to accept telegrams during the evening in order that the local office can be closed earlier than its present 9 o'clock closing time.

This would mean messages would not be transmitted from Greenville during the evening, but messages taken in the evening would be held over and sent the next morning. We assume it would likewise mean messages which ordinarily received here in the evening before the office closes now, would also be held over for delivery the following day.

Greenville may not be a big city, but it is of sufficient size that its communication systems are of utmost importance to it. The curtailment of the present Western Union service for Greenville would not be in the best interest of the city, its citizens or its businesses.

It is our understanding Western Union will have to get permission from the Federal Communications Commission before it can change the closing time of its local office. If the company presses its bid for cutting down service to Greenville, we believe local citizens and local businesses should do what they can to prevent the company from obtaining FCC approval for curtailment of services here.

ABILENE KAN. DAILY REFLECTOR-CHRONICLE: "In a large measure our tax system works because it has the confidence and the co-operation of most citizens. The fact that a man responsible for collecting taxes proved a tax dodger himself should not shake that confidence. He was caught, and he will be punished."

YARBOROUGH'S FRESH FURY—Seeing in Shivers' close squeak an excellent chance of defeating him, Yarborough returned to the fray in the runoff with redoubled fury.

Some American political oracles, viewing the Texas primary results from afar, interpreted them as evidence that the Lone Star State was caught up in a Southern liberal current—a "retreat" from the GOP flood tide of 1952 as exemplified by the primary victories of Kefauver in Tennessee, Scott in North Carolina, and Sparkman in Alabama.

But it wasn't that. Texas didn't go Republican two years ago; she went for Eisenhower, and probably will go again.

What happened was this: the conservatives, remembering Governor Shivers' landslide victory over Yarborough in 1952, and unaware or heedless of the supercharged Yarborough offensive this year, simply were caught napping in cyberspace. They made virtually no campaign and neglected to vote by the hundreds of thousands.

PRIMARY JOLTED VOTERS—The July primary returns jolted them awake. They got busy, and the results showed up in the August 28 runoff. Although second primary balloting usually is light, this one topped the July total by 200,000 votes and gave Shivers a 92,000 majority. This is a fairly good batting average in Texas. But for the third-term handicap, Shivers' 1952 defection, Yarborough's hurricane of personal attacks on him, and other state and local issues, his majority might well have been as great as that of two years ago.

Now Yarborough, after two defeats for governor and one for Attorney General, is a dead duck politically, as Shivers would have had he lost. But Shivers' light is shining more brightly than ever, and his voice will carry renewed prestige in Southern conservative councils in 1956.

Somebody Told Me

About Life With Twin Sons

Yesterday I cornered Bill "Red" Taylor for a story about his two-year-old twin boys, Ronald and Donald. "I defy anybody to tell 'em apart," Bill says. "Even I can't. The only person who can is Etta (their mother), and she has to be looking them squarely in the face. When one has his back to her she has to look at the other's face, using the process of elimination, to decide 'who's who.'"

Are their personalities the same? Definitely not, Red says. Donald is more aggressive and Ronald is more of a bluff. If you really want to know how much of a task it is to manage twin boys, Etta and Bill can give you a vivid picture. To sum it up, Bill says they are practically unmanageable. "When Etta has a day off from the bank (Guaranty, West End Branch) it's a big rest for her to go back to work the next day."

Bill gave several examples of why the boys are unmanageable. One of their favorite pastimes was to turn the chest of drawers over. So Bill decided he would kill some of their fun. With angle iron, he bolted the legs of the chest down.

But this only temporarily delayed the boys. They started pulling the drawers out and dumping the contents into their cribs. But Bill was not to be outdone. He rigged up a rod, running down the front of the chest, to lock the drawers in. So far the twins haven't wrecked the locking device. Bill says it's only a matter of time.

One day the maid put the boys in their room, after carefully moving everything that would cause damage out of sight. In a short time the boys got quiet, so she figured they were asleep. But knowing those twins, she decided to check.

Red says, "I'm raising the boys up to marry Janice and Julian White's twin girls. They're over a year younger, so it ought to work fine." Red works for the Ford dealer, Flanagan Buggy Co., so he's hoping for a merger of Ford and Chevrolet between his twins and those of Julian White of White Chevrolet Company.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

A BOOK FOR THE SOUTH (Kinston Free Press)
"Southern Accent," a delightful and thought-provoking analysis of the South, its institutions, its people, its problems and its future, is a book that all Southerners, as well as Northerners and persons from other areas, will read with a great deal of benefit. William T. Polk, associate editor of The Greensboro Daily News, wrote the book and it made its appearance in August of 1953. Having read it a full year later, we find it has more meaning now than it seemed to at the time it was released to the public.

The author takes a delightful look at southern cooking, folk lore and some of the customarily distorted conceptions about the South and its institutions. He punctures some of the myths which have held over in the thinking of many people since Civil War days. FBI statistics are used to analyze the high crime rate in the South, but the theory of some misguided peoples that "niggers can't walk the streets in a southern town at night in safety is righteously debunked. The new industrial revolution in the South gets proper attention. The author finds southern labor and management responsible for the growth of industry, as well as the favorable climate and tax structures in southern states. He raises the hope that this movement of industry may be the last movement it will make when the New South really comes into its own economically, industrially and culturally.

The question of school segregation and integration comes in for a keen analysis. He poses the problem in southern schools as one between "excellence and equality."

The whites hold to excellence of standards and the Negroes want equality. Each has a measure of right and truth in his argument, but moderation must prevail if trouble is to be averted, is the author's view.
His conclusion as to what the South is becoming is most challenging. True southerners have always appreciated what the region stands for, but not enough have given thought to what it may yet become. Author Polk, a native of Warren, who has been reared in Southern traditions and conceptions and who knows firsthand what he is talking about, has paid the South we know and love a great compliment. His book is the best we have yet seen about our region and we can commend it heartily to all who want to know the truth about the Old and the New South.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET
TRENDS—When Kerr Scott won the nomination for the U.S. Senate over Alton Lennon in North Carolina, and Estes Kefauver won in Tennessee over Pat Sutton, with other victories chalked up in Southern States for the so-called "liberal" candidates, the national columnists made much of the "trend" toward liberal supremacy. Then came the victory of Texas Governor Shivers, who had supported Eisenhower two years ago, for a third term and the "trend" was apparently stemmed if not reversed.

Fact is, that none of these State races involved much of the conservative-liberal issue in national affairs. They were waged on local and State issues and personal popularity of the candidates. Nearly every voter in North Carolina knew Kerr Scott, by name if not in person, and relatively few had heard of Alton Lennon until a few months ago. Kefauver of Tennessee and Shivers of Texas had been household words for years in their respective States and beyond State borders, while their opponents were not well known.

It is quite probable that most of the folks who voted for Kefauver in Tennessee did not remember or care that he had sought the Democratic presidential nomination in 1952. A lot of people who voted for Allan Shivers in Texas had forgotten, or did not care, that he broke over party lines and supported the national Republican ticket two years ago.

Likewise many of those who voted for Kerr Scott in North Carolina cast their votes on basis of his record as Governor and because they knew him unthinkingly or not caring that he was the favorite of the CIO and other labor organizations. Spokesmen at the CIO-PAC meeting in Charlotte the other day pulled no punches in letting it be known they claimed credit for the Scott nomination to the Senate.

LOCALIED—It is doubtful that the late Ham Fish could have been elected to Congress on a nationwide vote, or that Joe McCarthy could win a Senate race outside of Wisconsin. They, like the recent winners in Texas, were supported because their philosophies fit the local sentiment of the areas in which they sought votes, not because of national policies.

Governor Shivers, after his re-nomination last week in Texas, said that Texas would remain essentially a Democratic State, North Carolina also is and will remain essentially a Democratic State, almost equally divided between conservative and liberal leaning. The nomination of Kerr Scott for the Senate this year is no more evidence of a permanent trend than was the nomination of Willis Smith four years ago in the other direction. When it comes to voting for a President Tarheels give consideration to national issues. For State and local candidates the votes are on basis of local issues or personalities. In 1928 when the State gave the Republican President at 63,000 majority it was giving the Democratic Governor 72,000. And last time when the Democratic candidate for President had a margin of only 95,000 the Democratic Governor was mopping up with 413,000 majority—better than two to one. The 10th congressional district elected a Republican, not on national issues or any conservative-liberal division, but on purely local issues and personalities. Meantime, the counties of the 10th district sent nine Democrats and only four Republicans to the General Assembly. It would seem unreasonable to call that a Republican trend.

In fact, the only "trend" in North Carolina for many years has been a consistent record of narrow margins between conservative and liberal elements in the Democratic party, and close races in a dozen or more counties between Democrats and Republicans. This "trend" has not changed in 20-odd years.

JUSTIFIED—On basis of past voting record and local-personality issues which have nothing to do with national policy, both Democrats and Republicans would seem to be justified in hoping to win the 9th and 10th congressional districts this year. The ninth has not gone against the Democrats in more than 40 years, but last time the Democratic majority was 4,002 out of a total of 133,286 votes—a margin of about 3 per cent. The 10th district had not gone Republican since it was established on present lines in 1941 until last year. Most of the counties comprised in the district had voted Republican in 1928, and Democratic majorities had ranged from as high as

Color TV Is 'Hot'

By ELMER ROESSNER
Hottest of all the electronics fields these days is color television, which threatens to obsolete thousands—perhaps millions—of black-and-white sets, and add another crushing burden to already frantic program producers, drive sponsors to the poorhouse, and, in general, raise an uproar matched only by the original introduction of TV.

Dan D. Halpin of Du Mint Laboratories, discounts this disruptive power of color TV. On the contrary, while admitting that the short, eight-year history of commercial television has been one crisis after another, he feels color will open the "Golden Era of Television" next year when volume production of large sets gets going.

His argument is this: Black-and-white set production will taper off as color output increases.

Demand will follow the same pattern as color prices are brought into line. Any awkward period while the two factors are balancing out will be offset by the limited amount of color sets on display acting as traffic builders for other equipment in retail stores.

Profit from color sets will sustain retailers and permit them to hold onto the slow moving black-and-white sets and thus end the prevalent price-cutting practices.

Actually, dealers will probably feel like keeping old sets as much as a car dealer likes last year's models hanging around. When color sets are available in volume black-and-white sets may be in for some of the most vicious price cutting yet.

Then too, the more complicated color undoubtedly holds many headaches—and profits—for the service departments.

And will demand for color really be high if the price levels off at about $500 a set, as has been predicted? Particularly when sponsors will be reluctant to schedule high-cost color programs for an audience, the major part of which will see it in black-and-white? And will the switchover in production be as smooth as Halpin implies? What about retaining assembly and other workers, production bugs, timing?

Lastly, there are the TV performers. To those hundreds of poor voices (scattered when sound came to movies and then discarded when the TV eye caught their unpleasing visages) will be added actors, announcers, etc., whose complexions are not color photogenic.

SERVING AND FARTS PROMISING
Another approach is made by Harold F. Bersche of RCA. Not as rosy, but it holds together better.

By the end of the year Bersche estimates there will be 124,000,000 radios in use, 26,000,000 record players, 32,000,000 TV sets, 450 TV broadcasting stations, 3,250 AM-FM broadcasting stations and 625,000 nonbroadcasting transmitters.

A parts supplier's dream—electronic tubers popping all over the place.

OTHER VOICES, OTHER ROOMS
John F. Meagher of the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters puts in a word for radio. It, in his opinion, has countered TV's move into the living room by moving all over the house.

Programming, he notes, has been reorganized to appeal to those who must be doing something else in other rooms and cannot watch TV. And radio sales are still pretty good.

Thoughts On A Long Labor Day

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Labor Day thoughts of a Pavement Ploater: No holiday makes the average American more uneasy than Labor Day.

He is getting paid for doing nothing but he doesn't know how to do nothing. He feels he ought to be doing something, no matter how little, to earn his day's pay—no matter how small.

It isn't his conscience that bothers him. It's his fine sense of artistry. He has perfected the art of stretching about two hours of honest toil over an eight-hour day. To do this takes careful planning, a great deal of energy and considerable acting ability.

Then along comes Labor Day and ruins his careful routine. He can't spend the day happily ducking his work, as usual, because he isn't even on the job. He can't impress his boss by picking up a letter, rattling it and looking at it sternly. The boss isn't around.

The boss has the same uneasy feeling, too. He can't go to the office and stamp around with an important look on his face to impress the hired hands with how busy and hard-working he is.

Both boss and hired hand know how to act in the office, and in the ordinary business office there is more dramatic acting than in three Broadway shows. But neither knows how to kill time except when working.

"What'll I do all day?" each asks himself.
Chances are they do the same thing. They load the wife and kids in the car, spend four hours caught in a traffic jam going nowhere and another five hours coming from nowhere back home.

Thus they get about as much done as they do on most work days, but they miss the office audience.
Actually, however, Labor Day can be fun if you remember Mark Twain's wise definition of the difference between work and play. He said work was anything a man had to do, play was anything he didn't have to do.

That's why Labor Day is such hard work for most people—they have to take the day off. It's forced on them. But it can be enjoyable if you make a game of it. Here, for example, are a few things one can do to lighten it:

1. Spend the day in bed reading how-to-get-ahead books.
2. Get out the old love letters your wife wrote you when she was courting you, and read them aloud to her. An interesting family discussion will ensue on how people's qualities—and opinions change through the years. This discussion may well go on through Christmas. Several Christmases.
3. Write a letter to your congressman and tell him how much safer you and the neighbors feel since he went to Washington. While you're at it you might ask him to help you fill out next year's income tax. He'll probably be glad to have something to do now that Congress is out of session.
4. Pick up a fallen leaf from your lawn and study it all morning. Then spend the afternoon figuring out how you would improve on it if you were a tree.
5. Ponder the fact that in the whole history of the world a wife is the only form of animal life that deliberately seeks to work, and then only in spring and autumn when she is seized by a mysterious urge to clean her house.
Horses don't work except under duress. Cows don't really work at all; they really enjoy turning grass into milk, and do it with a minimum of mental effort. The thoughtful look on their faces is just an act. They can make milk even when they're lying down loafing.
The theory of the busy bee and the hard-working ant is a legend. Science has found plenty of bees who are downright lazy. Some thing with ants. Some of them are not only shiftless shrinkers—they are also alcoholics. It's true.
If you brood on this theme long enough, you will conclude that, after all, work is unnatural. Far from worrying you over how to spend one Labor Day off from your job, you will begin to resent it that you don't have 365 Labor Day holidays.

Gas Fumes Fatal To 25 Passengers

SHANNON AIRPORT, Ireland. — The coroner's inquest into the deaths of 25 persons aboard a crashed Dutch KLM airliner has been told that 25 victims trapped in the plane's cabin died of asphyxiation from gas fumes.

One passenger who escaped with 38 other survivors after the plane plowed into the muddy Shannon River Sunday died later in a hospital from injuries suffered in the crash. She was Mrs. Caroline Platz of New York City.

Two bodies have not been recovered.

Eleven victims and 15 of those who escaped were Americans.

Dr. William Flynn, medical officer for Shannon Airport, testified at the inquest yesterday that examination of the bodies found in the plane showed no evidence of drowning or injury. Thus, he concluded, they suffocated from the gas fumes.

Adrian Viruly, captain of the plane, said quick action on the part of Elizabeth Snyder, a 29-year-old New York businesswoman, "prevented a terrific explosion which would have torn the craft to bits."

As the plane was sinking into the river and gasoline fumes poured into the cabin, he said, Miss Snyder knocked a box of matches from the hands of a dazed passenger about to light a cigarette.

The crash of the big plane in early morning darkness only two miles from the airport, probably was caused by an instrument failure, KLM President A. I. Aler told reporters.

It has been 58 years since North Carolina elected a Republican to the United States Senate, so the election of Scott, this year can scarcely be considered a repudiation of the Eisenhower administration or anything other than perpetuation of a "trend" toward the Democratic party. In view of the closeness of past votes in the 9th and 10th congressional districts and the local personal elements involved it is difficult to interpret results of the upcoming election, whichever way it goes, as constituting a "trend" in any direction.

Twins Won State FFA Honors

Melvin and Milton Worthington, twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur L. Worthington, Ayden Route 2, were recently awarded degrees of N. C. Farmer and the gold FFA medals at the annual State FFA convention in Raleigh. The N. C. Farmer degree was awarded on the merits of high scholastic records and the number of completed projects on their home farm under supervision of S. F. Peterson, agriculture teacher at Ayden. The twins have six projects each this year, and plan to enter steers in the fat stock show and sale in Greenville in the spring.

Fail To Locate Outlaw's Loot

WILMINGTON (AP)—Outlaw Charles Stewart was held in New Hanover County jail here today, after his release yesterday from James Walker Memorial Hospital, awaiting removal to Raleigh's Central Prison Hospital.

Stewart was held in double confinement, a cell within a cell, according to Sheriff M. B. Register. The outlaw was taken into custody Sunday morning after police said he robbed a supermarket of $4,000. He suffered a hand wound when he crashed through the plate glass of the supermarket, Sheriff Register said, and had lost considerable blood. He was in a semi-conscious condition when officers found him.

His condition was said to be good upon his release from the hospital. He escaped from two New Hanover deputies July 28 after his arrest in connection with other robberies.

Sheriff Register said yesterday he told officers he hid the money taken at the supermarket "on a ridge."

After a fruitless search by officers, Sheriff Register said Stewart replied, "You never will find it."

Hottest Day

Yesterday was the hottest September day on record when the thermometer at the local U. S. Weather Station registered 104 degrees.

Lowest temperature here last night was 70 degrees, a drop of 34 degrees since yesterday afternoon. At 8 a. m. today it was 78 degrees and steadily rising.

The Weather Station reported 103 degrees in Greenville on June 27.

Yesterday a year ago the temperature in the Greenville area was 80 degrees. Lowest that night 62, and at 8 a. m. next day it was 63. Drizzling rain that day.

Mrs. Carl E. Maiden, local observer for the U. S. Department of Commerce, said the temperature did not go over 95 degrees during September last year, and that was on only one day, September 2.

Inquest Opens In Prisoner's Death

RALEIGH (AP)—A coroner's inquest opened today in the death of Eleanor Rush, whose body was found in an isolation cell at Woman's Prison the night of Aug. 20.

The inquest was called to determine whether the death resulted from culpable negligence on the part of any prison employes involved.

Some 65 witnesses, including six doctors, were expected to testify a 30-page report of a probe made by the State Bureau of Investigation was slated to be entered into the hearing record.

An autopsy showed the 18-year-old Negro girl died of a broken neck. Four prison attendants, including Superintendent I. D. Hinton, said they had placed the girl's arms in restraining cuffs and tied a gag across her mouth because she was creating a disturbance.

Before the hearing opened, the six-member coroner's jury, Coroner M. W. Bennett and the principals visited Woman's Prison this morning.

The SBI made an investigation of the case at the request of Solicitor William Y. Bickett and State Prisons Director William F. Bailey.

Eleanor Rush was sentenced from Stanley County last May to six months for forcible trespass. Her death set off a 3½ hour riot among the 350 inmates Aug. 21.

British Propose Sept. 14 Meet On W. Germany

LONDON, (AP)—Britain has suggested Sept. 14 for a nine-nation London meeting of foreign ministers to discuss West German rearmament.

Italy, the Netherlands and several other countries have agreed to the date, but Washington officials said yesterday they were not certain that U. S. Secretary of State Dulles could fit the mid-September London date into his busy schedule.

Dulles now is attending the SEATO conference in Manila.

The State Department indicated, however, that it was agreeable to the conference, to which the British also have invited France, West Germany, Canada, Belgium and Luxembourg.

The British informally proposed the parley to consider steps for restoring West German sovereignty and rearming the West Germans after the six-nation European army plan failed to gain ratification in the French Assembly.

The London government feels the talks could be completed in four or five days so the foreign ministers would be free for the opening of the United Nations General Assembly in New York Sept. 21.

From Germany, meanwhile, came another demand for guns to defend the free Western half of the nation against possible Communist aggression. Dr. Thomas Dehr, chairman of the Free Democratic party (FDP) — second largest in Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's four-party coalition government — said, "European security demands the rearmament of West Germany."

Bad Place For Robbery Attempt

FREDERICK, Md. (AP)—Wilcum Inn, a store run by Charles Wilcum and his three sons, was broken into six times before they set up a watch on the place 19 months ago.

Since that time the store has been entered three times. Each time the Wilcums have captured three men and one of the would-be robbers was shot and killed about six months ago.

The latest captives will be charged today with breaking and entering. One of the three men nabbed at gunpoint Sunday was injured by shotgun fire.

The elder Wilcum told police he and his sons hadn't quite perfected their system yet. "We all three fired at the lead runner," he said.

Blood Is Only A Sauce To The Hungry Mosquito

By FRANK CAREY Associated Press Science Reporter

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Your blood is only a sauce, spice or relish on the bill of fare of mosquitoes — and one of their main dishes may consist of "sweets" tapped from plants, the American Institute of Biological Sciences (AIBS) was told today.

Evidence that nature's pesky dive bombers may be largely sweet-toothed in their dietary tastes — at least in their early life — was offered to the institute's fifth annual meeting, convened on the campus of the University of Florida.

The scientists who offered it was biologist James S. Haeger of the Florida State Board of Health, who described some scientific snooping on mosquitoes at chow on Sanibel Island, off Florida's Gulf Coast. He said the findings might be helpful in the war on mosquitoes.

Haeger said mosquito researchers have known for some time that the blood of men and animals is not actually a food for blood-sucking mosquitoes. Rather, he said, it's a kind of "condiment" in the mosquito's bill of fare — that is, something like a sauce, spice or relish — and is sought out by these insects because it helps in the maturing of their eggs.

The real food which keeps a mosquito going has been virtually unknown up until now, he said.

Haeger declared that in the island research both sexes of the common salt marsh mosquito of the southland were found feeding extensively on the "nectar" of certain plants.

The plants included "Spanish needles," saw palmetto, buttonwood, sea grape, black mangrove and cabbage palm.

Although broods of this mosquito lasted about three weeks, feeding on "sweets" dropped off to nearly nothing after 10 days.

But Haeger found that if a new swarm emerged from a watery breeding place and found no source of nectar, the brood would leave the breeding area "on empty stomachs." This finding, he added, might be of importance in studying the migratory habits of the insects.

Write-In Senate Entry Talked

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—Talk of a write-in candidate for the U. S. Senate in the Nov. 2 general election continued today but there was no definite announcement from anyone.

President Donald Russell of the University of South Carolina was added to the list of those already mentioned as possibilities.

Former Gov. Strom Thurmond of Aiken, the 1948 States' Rights presidential candidate who made an unsuccessful Senate bid two years later, U. S. Rep. William Jennings Bryan Dorn of Greenwood and State Rep. Burnet R. Maybank Jr., of Greenville previously have been suggested by individuals and groups displeased with the State Democratic Executive Committee's nomination of State Sen. Edgar A. Brown of Barnwell for a full six-year Senate term beginning Jan. 2.

Dewey To Reveal Political Plans

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Republican Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York will end the long speculation over his political plans tonight and a source close to the governor says his announcement will be that he will not run for a fourth term.

Instead, according to the source, Dewey is expected to endorse Sen. Irving M. Ives for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

The governor's office announced yesterday that Dewey would reveal his intentions in statewide television and radio broadcasts.

His speech, from New York City, will be carried over a CBS television network from 8 to 8:15 p. m. EDT, and rebroadcast over CBS radio from 10:15 to 10:30 p. m. EDT.

If the governor calls it a day, he is expected to say that he will return to law practice in Manhattan after he has completed his third term on Dec. 31.

Dewey twice defeated in bids for the presidency, was elected governor in 1942 and was returned by large majorities in 1946 and 1950.

Ives has said repeatedly that he does not want to run for governor, but friends say that he will be available if Dewey bows out.

Brown was named by the committee to replace Burnet R. Maybank as the party candidate for the full term. Mr. Maybank, who had won renomination without opposition, died unexpectedly last Wednesday.

In naming Brown, the committee voted against calling a special primary to let the voters make the choice. The reaction against his nomination is from those who think the committee should have arranged for a primary.

Gov. Byrnes yesterday announced appointment of Charles E. Daniel of Greenville president of Daniel Construction Co., to serve out Maybank's unexpired term. Like Byrnes, Daniel supported President Eisenhower in 1952.

The governor's appointment ignored Brown's nomination. Had Byrnes named Brown for the unexpired term, the latter, if elected Nov. 2, would have seniority over other new senators in the next Congress.

Baby Tumbled 3 Floors; Unhurt

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Two-year-old George Meredith tumbled out of bed yesterday and landed, unhurt three stories below.

The baby's bed was against an open window on the third floor of his home. His sister, Margaret, 19, said she saw George roll toward the window in his sleep. Before she could grab him, he rolled right out the window and fell 30 feet to the brick sidewalk below.

The girl rushed downstairs. Little George, wobbling unsteadily, but with a big smile on his face, toddled up to meet her.

A Harrisburg Hospital physician said he suffered no apparent injuries.

George went right back to sleep as soon as he returned home.

Rotarians Talk Building Work

Greenville's Rotary Club last night devoted the program of its meeting to discussing its club building.

Henry Coleman, chairman of the house and grounds committee, led the discussion which included a detailed report from the committee on the condition of the building. Coleman reported the building in good condition, but pointed out minor repairs which should be made. Also discussed was the possibility of enlarging the dining room of the building in order to accommodate more people. The committee likewise recommended covering the floors of the lobby and dining room of the building with asphalt tile.

Guests of the club last night included K. T. Futtrell, Rev. Robert McKenzie, assistant pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, and visiting Rotarian C. M. Fogleman of Ayden.

Miss America Entries Gather; Early Rhubarb

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—From the North, East, South and West, the pick of the nation's beauty crop gathered here today and primped as they made ready to battle it out for the "Miss America 1955" crown.

Also on hand—but barred from the contest—was a former WAC from Middletown, Conn., who caused quite a stir yesterday by picketing the pageant because she felt the officials had done her wrong.

While the 50 "legal" contestants were registering, Violet Fuchs, 24, barged in, announced that she was Miss Connecticut and even obtained the white silk badge bearing the title.

But the officials soon learned of their mistake and rushed over to Violet while she was posing for photographers.

Miss Lenora Slaughter, the pageant's executive director, demanded the badge and told the blue-eyed blonde:

"You are not Miss Connecticut," Violet flushed.

"I am Miss Connecticut," she insisted. "I won the Miss America Pageant contest legally."

She refused to relinquish the badge and Miss Slaughter shrugged and said she could keep it.

Violet stormed out of the pageant headquarters and said she "was so mad I couldn't cry."

At least not until she got outside, when tears flowed freely as photographers snapped away.

She promised she would picket the headquarters. She did in a hired rolling chair, on which hung anti-pageant signs. One read:

"Miss America Pageant unfair to the only legal Miss Connecticut."

After three hours in the sun, Violet keeled over in a faint. She was revived by police, who sent her to her hotel in a cab.

And who was the last of the 50 contestants to register? Dorothy Anne Hopkins, 18-year-old coed from Storrs, Conn. and the beauty who is officially recognized as the Miss America entry from the Nutmeg State.

Cancer Study Covered Fifteen Million People

WASHINGTON, (AP)—An extensive U.S. cancer study indicates about one half of all cancers in women originate in breasts or sex organs compared with only one eighth of the cases in these areas among men.

The figures are based on the first cancer study blanketing big population groups, covering about 15 million people in 10 metropolitan areas of the United States.

The results were reported today in a paper prepared for the International Congress of Pathology by Dr. Harold F. Dorn of the National Institutes of Health at Bethesda, Md. Several hundred doctors from 39 countries are pooling information at the congress and seeking, among other problems, to find geographical patterns in disease and the causes.

Dorn said that when all age groups are considered, the U.S. cancer rate is about the same for males and females.

But cancer strikes women more frequently during their reproductive years and dwindles somewhat in years after the menopause, he said.

The disease was reported more dangerous for men after middle age. Dorn said most cancers in men affect organs that are subject to contact with environment—such as the mouth, throat, esophagus, skin and lungs. Cancer of exposed skin—on face, head, neck and arms—was said to be 46 per cent more common in men than in women.

Dorn said the study showed that by the age of 30 the annual number of new cases of malignancies of the reproductive organs of women is greater than that for all types of cancers found in men.

"Not until the age of 50 does the total male cancer rate begin

Swanson had a good strike while fishing in Clear Lake but the fish broke away. On his line, remained a small metal jaw tag. It had been placed on a spawning walleye in April, 1953, by Iowa State College biologists, who say the fish is now a little over 20 inches long and weighs about three pounds.

Milwaukee Edges Past Brooklyn On Strength Of 9-Game Winning String

By BEN FLEGAR
AP Sports Writer

There's a new team in second place in the National League.

The amazing Milwaukee Braves edged ahead of Brooklyn, yesterday on the strength of a nine-game winning streak and Brooklyn's first double-header loss to Pittsburgh in 3 1/2 seasons.

The New York Giants were six games ahead of Brooklyn and 6 1/2 in front of Milwaukee going into Sunday's action. But they now lead Milwaukee by only four lengths and Brooklyn by five. The Giants and Brooklyn both lost two out of three. Milwaukee won four.

Cleveland picked up a full game on New York Sunday in the American League, stayed even yesterday and now leads the New York Yankees by 4 1/2 games. The Indians won two out of three, running their season's winning total to 98 games. No Cleveland team ever has won more. The Yankees lost two out of three.

There's a new leader in the American League batting race. Bobby Avila, Cleveland's hustling second baseman, caught Irv Noren of the Yankees with four hits Sunday and passed him with four more yesterday. He's hitting .337 to Noren's .335.

In yesterday's games Milwaukee defeated Chicago 13-2 and Pittsburgh beat Brooklyn 9-6 in 12 innings and 9-7. The Giants whipped Philadelphia 8-4 but Robt. Roberts came back to win his 20th game in the nightcap 5-4 in 11 innings. St. Louis bumped Cincinnati 8-1 in a single game.

Bob Lemon of the Indians became the first pitcher in either league to win 21 games beating Baltimore 6-1 in the first game. Then the Orioles came back to nip the Indians 3-2 in 10 innings. The Yankees came from behind to edge Boston 6-5 in the first game, but blew a 7-0 lead and lost the nightcap 8-7.

Detroit won two from Chicago 9-1 and 3-2, the second game going 10 innings.

Washington lated Philadelphia 8-1 and the Athletics shaded the Senators 3-2 for a split. Eddie Mathews, now fully recovered after being sidelined for almost two weeks by injuries, sparked in the Milwaukee triumphs. He hit his 35th home run, a double and six singles and walked once before finally being retired in his last time at bat.

The onrushing Braves drew the day's largest crowd - 47,207 - and ran their season's total attendance to 2,001,991 tops in both leagues.

Only the Yankees and Indians ever have drawn more than two million fans in a year. Roberts, the Phillies' strong armed right-hander, became the first pitcher since Carl Hubbell to reach the 20-game mark in five consecutive seasons. He made it when fleet-footed Richie Ashburn scampered home from second base on an infield single by Grady Hatton.

Trailing by five runs early in the game, the Pirates beat the Dodgers in the first contest when Billy Loes walked two men in the 12th with the bases loaded and Curt Roberts laid down a squeeze bunt which scored a third man.

Five runs in the first inning against Don Newcombe put the Pirates on the winning trail in the second game and the Dodgers couldn't catch up despite home runs by Roy Campanella, Jackie Robinson and Sandy Amoros.

At Baltimore, Lemon's hitting support in the first game came mainly from Al Smith, who banged two doubles and two singles. Dick Krynoski's bases-loaded single in the 10th inning of the nightcap prevented a Cleveland sweep.

Andy Carey's bases-loaded single in the last of the ninth climaxed the Yank's' uphill climb against Boston in the opener at Yankee Stadium. Jimmy Piersall's two-run homer in the eighth gave the Red Sox the runs they needed to capture the second game. Ted Williams collected four straight hits in the nightcap and six during the afternoon.

Ned Garver held the White Sox to four hits in Detroit's first victory. Harvey Kuenn singled home the winning run in the 10th inning of the second game after Minnie Minoso had tied the score in the ninth with a homer.

Harvey Haddix of the Cardinals won his first game since July 30 and his 16th of the season in beating Cincinnati on eight hits. Ted Klusowski, the majors' leading home run hitter, was sidelined with a swollen ankle.

Mickey Vernon drove in five runs with a home run, a triple and a single in Washington's victory. Elmer Valo's eighth-inning triple scored Bill Wilson with the run that gave the Athletics a split.

Champ Vic Seixas Now Davis-Copper

By ED CORRIGAN

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Vic Seixas' victory in the National Tennis Championship after trying for 14 years didn't seem to impress anyone. But it accomplished one end. There wasn't a word today about the handsome Philadelphia not playing singles on the Davis Cup squad this year.

Until he whipped Australia's Rex Hartwig in the final 3-6, 6-2, 6-4 yesterday, Seixas' name seemed to be an anathema with the moguls of the United States Tennis Ass'n. They agreed Tony Trabert would be the No. 1 man, but a half-dozen different names were mentioned for No. 2. None was Seixas.

It no doubt was at least partially deserved. Vic was unimpressive in the Challenge round last year and had a mediocre season on grass this summer.

David Cup Captain Billy Talbert

allowed as how Seixas played well. "But I've seen him play better," Talbert said. "He had the strokes against Hartwig when he needed them. He also knew that somewhere in the match Hartwig was going to stop playing well. He'd have a pretty good chance against Lew Had or Ken Rosewall. After all, they haven't been so outstanding this year."

The new champion was thinking more in terms of doubles even after his singles victory, insisting the player who was at his best in December in Australia should get the berth.

"I'd like to play against the Australians again," he said. "I'd say we have the definite edge in doubles with Trabert and myself. We certainly were not as well off last year."

Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., won the women's crown yesterday by stopping Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif. 6-6, 6-1, 6-6.

Nobody Wants To Let Ted Williams Retire

NEW YORK (AP) — Ted Williams is expected to be back hammering home runs for the Boston Red Sox next season despite repeated declarations this would be his last year.

Baseball's greatest hitter is ready and even eager to quit. But his friends, his teammates, his employer, manager and even his enemies won't let him.

Baseball people, high up in official capacity have pleaded with him to play at least one more year. They have told him he still is the greatest hitter in the game and it would be a shame for him to quit now. More important, they have told him, baseball and the American League in general and the Red Sox in particular can't afford to lose him.

Williams, 36, always an easy mark for a touch as well as for a plea for help despite his brash exterior, is now undecided as to what to do despite his statement to newsmen yesterday he was through after this year.

It was a tired and disgusted Williams who made that statement to newsmen in the Red Sox clubhouse after enjoying one of his greatest batting days at Yankee Stadium. He was slowly dragging his soaking uniform off his weary body when reporters asked him whether he had changed his mind about quitting after this season.

"Not a bit," he barked. "No more baseball for me after this year. To heck with it. I know when I've got enough. I'm through."

At the time he said it, he meant every word. Right now he is sick and tired of baseball. It has been the most trying of all 12 seasons for the great slugger. Handicapped by a still mending left collarbone fractured last spring and retarded by a long siege of flu during June, he is exhausted physically.

Two Workouts During Holiday For Phant Squad

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer

Greenville's Phantoms missed a day of school yesterday because of the holiday, but they worked twice as hard with two workouts giving the G-Men practice on their offensive maneuvers.

In the afternoon drill, Coach Bill Kittrell scrimmaged the squad for an hour. Coach Kittrell was not particularly impressed over the offense of the team during the Wilson game Friday night and is working the team on that phase this week. Coach Kittrell explained that the offense had functioned under scrimmaged conditions only a few times before the Wilson game.

The Greenville defense looked impressive in the Wilson contest. Besides holding the Cyclones scoreless, they held them to 49 yards rushing. Wilson picked up only 45 yards passing to give them a total of 94 yards gained all night. The G-men picked up 114 yards rushing but only eight yards passing. Quarterback Bob Howell had to pass only four times and he hit one of those at a crucial moment in the game. Howell just missed on a couple of pass plays, thus leaving the impression that the Phantoms could uncork a fair passing attack if need be.

Follows Tradition

The shut-out win just followed the tradition of other Greenville teams in the past. For the past three seasons the opening game has been a shut-out win. Two years ago the Phants beat Morehead City 7-0, last year they upset Wilson 12-0, and this year they recorded the 6-0 win over Wilson.

In each of the other two years the G-men have followed up the opener with another shut-out. Two years ago it was Edenton 6-0, last season it was Jacksonville 4-0. This year the Greensies play Jacksonville again in the second game. If you are superstitious you must write your name and address on a penny post card and send it to this paper along with one small can of an international truck, and you will be sent two small rabbits feet if Greenville wins over Jacksonville.

Reports have it this year that Jacksonville has an improved squad over last year and are ready to avenge the drubbing the Greensies handed them last season. The game will be played in Jacksonville.

The G-men have two more days of hard practice before the game and will taper off Thursday with a light workout.

BATTING—Eddie Mathews, Milwaukee Braves, won on base nine successive times, collecting his 35th home run, a double six singles and a walk as the Braves moved into second place with 132 and 6-1 sweep of the Chicago Cubs.

PITCHING—Robin Roberts, Philadelphia Phillies, won his 20th game, becoming the first pitcher to win 20 or more in five consecutive seasons since Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants, as he defeated the Giants 5-4 in 11 innings of the second game.

'Pop' Sinking

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Glenn S. (Pop) Warner, former football coach who was a prime developer of the wingback system, was reported sinking rapidly in Palo Alto Hospital today.

The 63-year-old Warner, known as the "Old Fox" for the deceptive style his teams used, underwent surgery in July for removal of a tumor from his throat. Warner first gained fame as coach of the late Jim Thorpe, one of the world's greatest athletes, at Carlisle Indian School in Pennsylvania, early in the century. After stints at Cornell, Georgia and Pittsburgh he came west to Stanford and took the Indians to the Rose Bowl three times.

High Confidence In Braves' Camp

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The hottest team in baseball, Milwaukee's Braves, headed East today on a 12-game trip which undoubtedly will decide the National League pennant winner.

"All we gotta do is win 10 of 'em," said veteran pitcher Warren Spahn "and the way we're going we can do it."

The way the Braves have been going—they took a nine-game winning streak, second such in a month, with them—there was no dispute to Spahn's clubhouse statement last night.

A pair of rollicking wins over the Chicago Cubs, 13-2 and 6-1, yesterday sent the Braves East in second place only four games behind league leader New York. The pair of triumphs, coupled with Brooklyn's 6-1 loss to Pittsburgh and the Giants' split with Philadelphia, turned the trick and showed the Dodgers into third, a spot the Braves had held since July 21.

Manager Charlie Grimm snorted when told his players figured they could catch the Giants.

"Sure they figure that way," he said. "A month ago when we were 13 games behind they felt the same way, didn't they? Naturally they haven't change their minds now."

Frank Stranahan Announces Move Into Pro Ranks

NEW YORK (AP)—Fran Stranahan, a frequently-frustrated amateur golfer, is going to try to beat the pros as one of them from now on. And there are some who will say this latest unexpected move of the Toledo spark plug heir was just legalizing what has been a fact for years.

It isn't that Stranahan ever has capitalized on his golfing skill or accepted cash prizes. He can laugh at that kind of money. But his approach to golf and his devotion to the game are more professional than amateur.

Stranahan made his intention of turning pro known in a statement he prepared just before taking off for Brazil yesterday. It said:

"I am notifying the United States Golf Assn. I am relinquishing my amateur status. I will play in a golf tournament in Brazil and I shall compete as a professional. I have always wanted to be a professional golfer and play the professional golfers on their own terms. I have no further desire to play in amateur tournaments, although I have enjoyed my associations. I feel much happier playing as a professional golfer."

Boone Says Pirate Prospects Hopeful

Improvement all around, with more speed and greater depth, is Coach Jack Boone's summary of the 1954 edition of the East Carolina College football team, as the squad continued working out Tuesday.

Boone follows with this word of cautious optimism: Even though the squad looks good, despite the loss of 12 veteran players who were on the 1953 squad which won the 1953 North State Conference championship, the overall outcome at the end of this season will be dependent upon the boys who come from the freshman ranks onto the varsity and the non-lettermen of a year ago.

The schedule of 1954 will be much tougher, and will have an additional game to that of last year.

The missing 12 men from the 1953 squad include five seniors, Jack Britt, Johnny Brown, Thurston Callahan, John Daughtry, and Bobby Hodges. But on the squad this year, including the 24 lettermen, are All-Conference Quarterback Dick Cherry, Claude King, a fullback, and lettermen halfbacks, John Hayes, a co-captain of this year's squad, and Emo Boodo, and a good reserve of able linemen.

Boone and Assistant Coaches Jim Mallory and Earl Smith are becoming the loss of an outstanding halfback, Paul Gay, sidelined with a back injury which has caused much discomfort since childhood; Ted Barnes, a halfback who experienced scholastic difficulties; Carleton Matthews, now on military duty, as well as James Faircloth, a center, also serving for Uncle Sam.

Boone looks upon Dick Cherry as the Number 1 quarterback, with Louis Collier, a junior from Portsmouth, Va., Boyd Webb, a senior from Gastonia, and Gary Mattocks, a Southern Pines boy, and a Duke transfer, as reserves in this position.

King returns to his fullback position, with Bobby Gay, a sophomore, and Howard McAdams, a junior, as reserves, with Hayes at left half, Harold O'Kelly his understudy, and Boodo at right half, with seniors Tom Allbrook and James Stanley as reserves, also.

For the line, Boone begins checking names of Larry Rhodes and J. D. Bradford for the starting positions at end; Willie Holland, a senior from Wilson and the other co-captain, and George Tucker, a Monticello transfer, as reserves, also.

Bobby Avila Now Undisputed Top Man With Bat

NEW YORK (AP)—Bobby Avila of Cleveland's pace, setting Indians has taken over undisputed possession of the American League batting lead from Irv Noren, but he now has to worry about a surging Ted Williams.

Avila cracked out four hits in eight tries in Cleveland's Labor Day twin-bill against Baltimore and raised his average to .337. Noren managed only a single safety in the New York Yankees' double-header against Boston and dropped to .333.

The Red Sox' Williams upped his mark to .358 with six hits in nine trips to the plate. He has batted 321 times and Boston still has 18 games left to play.

In the National League, Brooklyn's Duke Snider maintained his seven point margin over runner-up Willie Mays of the New York Giants—349 to 342.

roe senior, at tackles; Don Burton and David Lee at guards; and Loui Hollow back at the center spot where he worked last year.

Lee, a Tarboro junior, has been mentioned frequently as a potential Little All-American guard.

Boone says his reserves in Ray Pennington and William Helms at ends; Charles Smith and Ray Overton at tackles; George Rice and Paul Popov as guard reserves; with Wavely Chesson and Gather Cline at center give strength to the squad.

Moving into varsity positions from last year's freshman unit are Bill Cain, at end; Tim Kermon and Jim Greenon, at guards; Jimmy Knight and Chester Rogerson at tackles; and Jerry Holt at fullbacks.

Looking over the freshman unit, Coach Boone notes Robert Maynard, Gary; Robert Langston Greenville; John Warren, Rocky Mount, in the backfield; and Curly Robertson of Robersonville, Jimmy Allen and Jack Allen of Farmville, and Bobby Conway of Greenville, in the line; Robert Conway, Greenville, and Pinky Young, Washington, ends.

The Pirates, opening the 1954 schedule early, meet the Norfolk Naval Air Station in College Stadium on Saturday night, September 11.

Red Top Davis Makes Pitch For Saddler Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—Ever ready Teddy (Red Top) Davis made another pitch today for a title shot at featherweight champion Sandy Saddler, his manager said he'd back it up with cash.

"Saddler can have $25,000 if he'll fight Red Top for the championship in New Haven," Manager Mushky Salow said after his little contender outpointed Canadian Lightweight champion Armand Savio last night in St. Nicholas Arena.

"I've been chasing him for two years," said Davis, No. 4 featherweight from Hartford, Conn. "If I ever catch up to him I'm gonna make him pay for keeping me waiting so long. I guarantee you, I'll knock him out in five rounds."

The victory over Savio by unanimous decision was Red Top's fourth in a row. Built up to 133 1/2, so he wouldn't give away too much weight, Davis threw punches in a steady stream from the opening bell.

When Gil Hodges batted in his 100th run of the current season against the Redlegs in Cincinnati it marked the sixth straight year that the Brooklyn Dodger first baseman drove in 100 or more runs in a season. It put Hodges in a good spot to threaten Mel Ott's National League record of batting in 100 or more runs eight straight seasons. It also put Gil in a class by himself as far as currently active players are concerned.

Three years old, Hodges is in a fair spot to top Ott's mark of nine years in which he batted in 100 or more runs. The major league record of 13 consecutive years in the century class, set by Lou Gehrig, may be a little out of Gil's reach, but not altogether impossible.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

WHEN Penn was gone Claudia felt sick and cold her lovely Saturday ruined.

That boy! He was back from Korea, then. The unease that had dogged Claudia Mape's footsteps for a long time and then been lifted for a year or two, returned. Even when he was very young the fury and hatred in the face of Marsh Nichols' son had been a little frightening.

What if she had told Penn the truth? About that factory building Josh Henning and some other men from home had been stuck with in Baltimore. About those promised priorities in copper and other metals that never materialized—but from no fault of Storey's, no fault at all, she argued to herself.

How could Ellihu know the president would suddenly appoint a co-ordinator who would be hostile and suspicious? And the house was Maude's fault. Always nagging and harping because other senator's wives had big homes on the avenues while she was stuck in an unshameful apartment.

Abruptly, like the onset of an illness, the awareness came to Claudia Mape that she despised Maude Storey hate, and resented all the futile, footless characters who sucked at the substance and the strength of Ellihu Storey. Even that Houk girl. How had she dared come here, babbling all that nonsense about wanting to protect her uncle?

Thinking, because of a man and doubtfully, that she could wheedle some revelation out of a confidential secretary!

It was all plain to Claudia. Penn had met that Nichols boy and listened to his lies. Bitterly Claudia blamed everyone but the senator. Maude, most of all. A woman who had turned her back on her beginning who ignored even her poor old parents, living out their last days in loneliness far away. And those sons of Ellihu's, of whom he could not even be proud! Even Gil. What would Gil have been without his father's prestige behind him? Just one more insignificant two-striper lost in the vast impersonality of the Navy.

Now her Saturday was ruined. No matter what she had to fill the day, she was roused and angry that it would fall apart, flatly. There was only one thing she would really like to do and that was to seek out Marsh Nichols' son and challenge him to prove any accusation he might be making against the senator. She wouldn't do it, of course. She would temper her belligerent desire just as she had subdued the urge to whack hecklers over the head with her briefcase time and again. Just as she refrained from giving disgruntled constituents dirty looks or thumbing her ladylike nose at crude characters like Josh Henning.

Thinking of Henning brought another frown to her brow. What was Josh doing in Washington anyway? He'd been seen around town with that conceited young Carrick. Claudia hadn't liked the whispers that had seeped through the office building like poison gas these last few days. Nor had she been eased by Senator Storey's carefully assumed attitude of indifference, the worried frown she caught on his face when he didn't know she was watching.

It was no use trying to salvage this Saturday. She went back to her bedroom and dragged off her comfortable Saturday clothes, put on a white blouse her smart gray suit, and her little string of synthetic pearls. She gave her nails a whisk with a file and pinned on a gray hat. With her bag and gloves she went down to the bus stop as she did every other morning. She would go back to the office and work. You could always drug uneasiness with work, with the familiarity of routine. After all, they were in for five more years and three months. Nobody, not even Josh Henning, could take that away from Ellihu Storey.

The great building was silent, echoing, almost deserted. It was always that way on Saturdays. A little group of tourists wandered in the halls with a guide. An elderly man in a uniform dozed beside the open door of an elevator. Claudia smiled at him as he stumbled up. They were old-timers, he and she.

She let herself into the office with her key. The air-conditioned room felt chilly, the air pungent with some kind of druggy disinfectant, the stuff the cleaning women put on their mops. Her desk shone, blank and empty, all but a space in the middle where a folded newspaper lay. She picked it up, puzzled. Somebody had put it there. Saturday's copy of the most unscrupulous paper in the city.

It was folded so that a column lay uppermost, that piece of daily lurid journalism that every member of Congress read anxiously and pretended to disdain.

She did not need to search for the paragraph intended for her eye. It jumped at her like something hurled from ambush. The column bore the ambiguous title "They Say," and the item that froze her to rigidity began: "They say on the Hill that alert young Congressman Carrick bird dog of the anti-Red investigations, has nosed out another of those stinking cells. High connections. They say, even involves the artistic son of a man high in the Senate."

Claudia's teeth set so rapidly that her ears ached. She twisted the paper angrily in her hands, then unrolled it again and red-pencilled the item. She started to clip it, then changed her mind and folded the whole page instead. With quick, nervous desperation she searched the telephone book. She dialed swiftly, was relieved when a feminine voice answered.

"Mrs. Storey? Claudia inquired with forced calm. "Rutherford Storey? This is Claudia Mape's Maps. Could you come downtown and have lunch with me today? There's something I'd like to talk over with you—something that concerns us—that would worry the senator. Could you come to the office if I wait for you here? Thank you. I'll expect you soon then."

She hung up. But half an hour passed before Claudia remembered to take off her hat.

Winifred Storey hated Saturdays. The government departments closed and usually Gil was at home all morning, cluttering up the little apartment with his male concerns, making a nuisance of himself. If he wasn't in her kitchen, polishing his boots or his buttons and braids, he would be down tinkering on the car, so that she couldn't use it.

But on this Saturday there had been an early telephone call, and Gil took it frowning, appearing perturbed. He shaved himself immediately without speaking, then announced abruptly that he had to go down to the Press club and was taking the car.

Winifred set about listlessly straightening up the apartment, wondering what they would do to get through this autumn day. On some Saturday afternoons they went out to the Storey place in Maryland.

At noon Gil came in with a stiff, evasive look on his face. "I'm going out home," he said. "I'm going alone, and I won't be back to lunch."

Her fury flared. "You're going out there and leave me stuck here without any car all day?" "I'll have something to talk over with my father," Gil said. "It's important. The buses run if you want to go out."

"I have as much right to go out as you," she fumed. "I stay here alone all week long." "I'll be back as early as I can," he said at the door.

"What do I care when you come back? I won't be here," she snapped. (To Be Continued)

Again Foiled Hold-Up Attempt

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Mrs. Irene Pemrick, a 140-pound brunette, foiled her second holdup attempt within a month yesterday at a sandwich shop where she serves as night manager.

Mrs. Pemrick, 32, said two men-handkerchiefs over their faces and one armed with a gun, entered and said it was a holdup. She grabbed the smaller of the pair and "kept the little fellow between me and the man with the gun. I knew he wouldn't shoot his buddy."

Then she grabbed a clothes rack and started swinging. The bandits fled empty-handed.

Police shortly afterward arrested two men. Both were booked on suspicion of attempted robbery.

Parked Car Started, Struck Another

A "freak" accident on Evans Street this morning about 9:55 caused approximately $700 damage to the two automobiles and slightly injured one woman.

A 1953 model car was first parked on the west side of Evans Street. It was being operated by Mrs. Ethel Stokes Tyson of Stokes. She told investigating officer, Greenville Patrolman V. C. Ackert, she was having trouble getting the car started "when it suddenly started and the motor was running so fast it went across the street before I could stop it."

This vehicle hit a parked 1952 model car on the east side of Evans Street—knocking the rear of the automobile onto the sidewalk and injuring Mrs. W. D. Bailey, 67, of 605 A Street, who was sitting in the rear seat of the vehicle at the time.

The parked automobile was damaged on its left side to an extent estimated at $400 while the vehicle which crossed the street received approximately $300 damage to its front end.

The extent of Mrs. Bailey's injuries was not known this morning. She was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital by the Greenville Fire Department Rescue Squad.

The car which was hit while parked was owned by Mary Vann Millican of 316 North Main Street, Roxboro. Mrs. Tyson owned the car she was operating.

Ackert said no charges were made. Lt. H. E. Wooten, Sgt. Tommy Gladson and Patrolman R. B. Elks of the local police force helped the officer direct traffic after the accident.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Letha Evans Payton of Washington, D. C.; 14 children, four grandchildren, two brothers and three sisters.

Punch, cookies, ice cream and nuts were served. MRS. L. P. ORMOND, President in Greenville in the spring of 1955. This was in keeping with a previous decision to have a preaching mission every other year and a visitation evangelism program every other year.

The Greenville Ministerial Association suggested that each church arrange for having an evangelistic service next spring.

A leadership education program for church school leaders and teachers has been scheduled. The association suggests that all churches and church organizations support the intensive and cooperative program that has been carefully prepared.

Routine business at the ministerial meeting included discussion of services at the state prison camp, city and county jails and county home. Radio and television services were announced. A television workshop was scheduled for December.

Welcome was extended to Rev. Percy B. Upchurch, new pastor of Memorial Baptist Church, and Rev. Robert McKenzie, associate minister of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

The presiding officer announced that Rev. Herbert W. Dale, minister of West Greenville Presbyterian Church, will move the latter part of this month.

The association suggested that persons who desire to send clothing to war-devastated countries send them to Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church educational building on the second and fourth Thursdays.

Ministers at the meeting were E. Lee Williamson, Lester B. Robbins, C. D. Patterson, J. Malloy Owen, Jack A. Nelson, Rashie Kennedy, Lt. Bernie T. Lewis, Harry E. Johnson, William M. Howard Jr., H. C. Haney, H. W. Dale, Percy B. Upchurch, Robert McKenzie, L. W. Topping and R. B. Crawford.

Will Let Arbenz And Aides Leave Guatemala Soon

GUATEMALA (AP)—A Foreign Ministry source said last night that President Carlos Castillo Armas is going to let ex-President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman and leaders of his pro-Communist regime leave the country soon, then start extradition proceedings to get them back here to face criminal charges.

There was no official confirmation of the report, but the source said safe conduct exit permits already had been issued for Arbenz and his wife, as well as former officials and top Communists who like him took refuge in Latin-American embassies here after the former President was ousted June 27.

Most of the refugees are in either the Mexican Embassy with Arbenz or in the Argentine establishment. If allowed to leave Guatemala, presumably they will go to the countries which have sheltered them here.

Firemen were called to a trash fire at Brookgreen School yesterday afternoon about 1:20 p.m. The blaze was quickly extinguished.

Mississippi Assembly Meets On Segregation

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Mississippi legislators gathered today for an historic special session designed to keep alive racial segregation in public schools.

The legislature faces the decision by the U.S. Supreme Court that segregation is unlawful.

The key proposal was a constitutional amendment empowering the Legislature to abolish public schools. It provides two methods:

1. Statewide, by a two-thirds vote of the Legislature.

2. Local option, with individual counties and school districts being allowed to abolish their public schools and set up private systems.

Leaders of the Legal Educational Advisory Committee said the amendment would be introduced and sent to the constitution committees of each house as any other amendment would be handled.

The LEAC rejected the idea of asking each house to go into committee of the whole "to consider the amendment as soon as it was introduced." Fear of charges of "steam-roller" convinced the LEAC the amendment should go through the usual process.

The session was expected to last about six weeks, depending mainly on the amount of opposition that pops up to the constitutional amendment.

Child Struck By Car Early Today

A six-year-old Negro child was injured this morning when he ran out in front of a passing car while waiting for a school bus at Worthington's Cross Road.

The injured youngster was listed as William Earl Smith of Winterville Route 2 who received a broken left arm and abrasions of the head when he was reported to have been hit by a car operated by Sam Hill Williams, Jr., Vanceboro Route 2.

Williams told Investigating Patrolman James W. Boykin that he was driving north on the county home road about 7:15 this morning. He said the child ran out in front of him when he got to Worthington's Cross Road and he jammed on brakes but could not avoid hitting him.

Witnesses told Boykin that eight or 10 children were playing and running in front of a store and apparently the Smith child ran on the road while playing.

The youngster was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital by a passing motorist. He is in the first grade at Winterville school and is in his second week of school.

No charges were preferred against the driver.

First Warden Of Alcatraz Dies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—James A. Johnston, 70, first warden of Alcatraz, died last night.

Johnston had a long career in penology, taking his first warden's job at California's Folsom Prison in 1912. The next year he took over as head of San Quentin Prison and resigned in 1925 to enter the banking business.
