300-Gallon Bootleg Still Raided, Destroyed In Pitt

ABC officer J. M. Ward is shown above as he demonstrates the filtering operation for purifying bootleg liquor. The barrel at the left contained 68 gallons of distilled liquor ready to be filtered in the smaller keg and poured into half-gallon jars. Behind Ward are some 15 cases of half-gallon jars. Foreign Policy Becomes Issue In Adlai's Speech

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Adlai Stevenson pinpointing the task of the Democratic party's nationwide campaign opening today, says it should "give direction again to a foreign policy which wallows aimlessly and dangerously while a bunch of bickering helmsmen quarrel at the wheel."

Little Change In Job Situation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The latest federal survey of the job situation shows little change in either employment or unemployment from July to August.

The 1952 candidate for president promises at the same time, that Democrats this fall will "talk issues . . . whether the Republicans want to or not."

Stevenson spoke last night before 3,000 persons who paid $100 a plate at a Democratic fund-raising dinner officially commencing 36-year-old State Sen. George M. Leader's campaign for governor of Pennsylvania.

The Keystone State has had only one Democratic state administration in nearly 60 years.

Stevenson took note of this and, borrowing from a popular Republican campaign slogan of 1952, quipped that in Pennsylvania in particular it is "really time for a change."

The speech was the first major address by a party leader since Labor Day, the traditional opening day of campaigning.

Admitting that there is no "great admirer" of the Eisenhower administration's recent conduct of foreign affairs, Stevenson said he feels "no inclination" to blame the Republicans for the Indochina situation.

Northern Algeria Blasted By Tremendous Earth Shocks

Earthquake Kills Hundreds

ALGIERS (AP) — A tremendous earthquake early today leveled about a fifth of the city of Orleansville in northern Algeria and nearly wiped out several nearby villages. Unofficial estimates put the number of dead at 800 and the injured at over 1,000.

The quake was timed at 10:57 a.m. It lasted 12 seconds.

Not until well after daylight did the first reports of victims and damage reach here.

Appeals were broadcast by Radio Algeria for blood donors.

Extraordinary Session Sunday To Deal With Far East Issues

Nat'l Security Council Meet Slated

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
DENVER (AP) — National Security Council members meeting with President Eisenhower in extraordinary session here Sunday reportedly will chart strategy for dealing with a broad range of Far Eastern problems created by Russia and Red China.

Plans for the National Security Council meeting—the first full-scale session of that policy-making unit ever to be held outside of Washington—were announced yesterday by James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary.

Presidential associates said the security council session will amount to a full-dress review of Far Eastern problems generally.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Chief Storm Forecaster Grady Norton said "we're not out of the woods yet" as far as hurricane Edna is concerned and the Atlantic coast from the Melbourne-Titusville area in Florida northward to the North Carolina Capes "should be a weather eye open for possibilities."

Nine items of business - four of unfinished and five of new business - are slated on the City Council agenda for the meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the Council Room at City Hall.

The docket released by City Manager James S. See No Negligence In Prison Death

RALEIGH (AP) — A coroner's jury ruled in effect last night that there was no culpable negligence on the part of prison employees in the death of Eleanor Rush, 18-year-old inmate at Woman's Prison.

The jury held that the Negro girl "came to her death due to her own violent efforts against necessary restraints while they were being applied and in her subsequent struggle to remove them."

Censure Committee Refuses Testimony About Secret Government Information

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators weighing censure charges against Sen. McCarthy refused today to let the defense testify about the use of secret government information by other senators, and McCarthy's lawyer said this ruling barred the "very heart and soul" of the defense on this issue.

Edward Bennett Williams, McCarthy's lawyer, offered a brief which contended that Vice President Nixon, Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) and others had taken stands that Congress members had a right to use information which the White House sought to withhold.

College Orchestra To Begin Rehearsals For New Term Sept. 14

The East Carolina Orchestra, music organization made up of students and faculty members at East Carolina College and of musicians from Greenville and near-by towns, will begin rehearsals for the 1954-1955 term Tuesday, September 14, at 7 p.m. in the Wright auditorium on the college campus.

Qualified orchestral instrumentalists are invited to attend this initial rehearsal. String players will be especially welcome.

Now in its fourth year, the orchestra is directed by Dr. Kenneth N. Cuthbert, chairman of the college music department. Last year the orchestra played concerts on the campus, including a children's concert; appeared in Raleigh before the state convention of the North Carolina Education Association; accompanied the musical "Blossom Time" in campus performances; and played for commencement exercises at the college.

Miss Universe Shuns Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Miriam Stevenson, Miss Universe of 1954, has shunned Hollywood to go back to school.

The wholesome country-reared Miriam, 21, announced yesterday she was terminating her six-month $250-a-week contract at Universal-International Studios, the chief prize she won with her title last July 24.

The termination was by mutual consent, but Universal spokesmen insist it is all Miss Stevenson's idea.

Did she have any talent? Those who worked with her say: As much as any girl with a nontheatrical background can display in a few weeks of coaching. Didn't she like picture? She says she did, and she says she enjoyed meeting a lot of interesting people—the kind she doesn't see around her home town of Winterville, S. C.

Well, what, then? Miss Stevenson may not be too sure herself. She said:

"Things have happened so fast since I came out here for the contest that I've been studying and wondering what to do. And I decided I'd better go back and finish school. Yes I now I arranged to put off my final year when I won the contest, but that wouldn't be right. I wouldn't want to do that now. I want to finish with my classmates."

Miriam has had three years at Lander College for Girls at Greensboro, S. C. She's always been an A and B student.

"But I don't know how good an actress I'd make," she said. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Stevenson, said in a Winterville interview last month that Miriam is a determined girl who will do what she thinks she should, regardless of attempts to influence her. They probably won't be too surprised by her decision.

In 1952 the first Miss Universe, Armi Kusela of Finland, decided to return home after winning the contest. She later married wealthy Filipino Virgilio Hilario. Last year Christiane Martel of Paris, France won. She has appeared in a few pictures and is still on the Hollywood scene.

Of her Hollywood experience, Miriam says:

"I feel like a Cinderella at midnight. It has all been so wonderful and thrilling."

At any rate, she has made her decision. School starts Monday, and she'll leave tomorrow.

"But," she added, "after I finish school maybe I'll take another crack at acting."

Thousands pressed out into the grassy field near the specially built altar in midfield. Other thousands remained outside the stadium and heard the ceremonies over loud speakers.

The crush at the gates resulted in 19 persons being hospitalized.

Bride-Elect Honored Prior To Wedding

Mrs. Julius Ross, Mrs. J. R. Hunnings and Dr. Williamson honored Miss Margaret Tucker, bride-elect, at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Ross, in Tucker's Circle. As the bride-elect entered, she was presented a corsage of Fujii mums.

Mrs. J. R. Hunnings received the guests at the door. Mrs. Julius Ross and Dr. Eva Williamson served refreshments in the dining room. A pink and green color scheme was used which consisted of bridal cakes, punch, mints and nuts. The dining table was laid with a lace imported cloth, and centered with a crystal bowl of white petunias, flanked with turning white tapers in crystal holders. The home throughout was lovely with the original design of mixed summer flowers.

After all the guests arrived, the gifts were opened and placed on tables for everyone to see. The hostesses, Mrs. Julius Ross, Dr. Eva Williamson and Mrs. J. R. Hunnings, gave the bride-elect a crystal pitcher in her pattern.

As the guests were leaving, the bride-elect graciously thanked each one for her gift and good-byes were said.

There were approximately 35 guests present.

SEATO Is Best Suited For The Long Pull

There now exist at least eight leather-bound documents, signed with gold pens, that read "no trespassing" by the Communist world.

Signed yesterday, the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization pact is largely a gesture rather than a substantial united defense treaty as accomplished in Europe.

Effectiveness of the SEATO agreement as a real defense measure is yet to be tested, and conceivably may never be tested. But, the treaty offers real hope for evolving greater economic stability among the small governments of Southeast Asia.

In a military sense, no new build-up of defenses are stipulated; signatories are only bound to act in accordance with their own constitutional processes in event of attack on a member nation. This proviso would probably prove to be the weakest point in the "solid wall" against aggressors.

The call for consultations and cooperation to develop economic stability and social well-being of member nations is of considerable more importance than the military terms in the Manila accord. Western standards and ideals often encounter rough going among the destitute peoples of Asia; and to cement the people to Western democracy will require cooperation among the governments to demonstrate values of democracy in action.

Dewey's "Bowing Out" Is Only Temporary

Governor Thomas E. Dewey's graceful "bowing out" of New York's political ring so far as the fall elections are concerned appears to us a maneuver which he hopes will allow him to step back in as a candidate for a higher office in the future.

Twice defeated as the Republican presidential standard bearer, Dewey may have his sights on the GOP presidential nomination come 1956 — provided of course President Eisenhower leaves the door open. It likewise could be the former fighting district attorney is eyeing one of New York's seats in the U. S. Senate.

It is difficult for us to believe New York's Gov. Dewey is bowing out of active politics for good. Indeed, in his statement he limited his decision not to seek public office again only for the coming fall elections. It's our guess he's planning to take a well-earned rest and do some fence-mending in an effort to gain another bigger political job.

Take A Look At Our Dirty Streets

Greenville should be ashamed of the looks of streets in its business district, particularly on Saturdays and Sundays.

Have you noticed lately?

Cups, papers and other trash litter the streets and sidewalks. Most of it is the result of the carelessness of people who throw the trash on the streets rather than placing it in the trash cans located along the sidewalks.

Perhaps a little better cleaning job by the Street Department would help the situation to some extent. By and large, however, we can't expect Greenville's business streets to look better kept until the citizens assume part of the responsibility of keeping the streets looking neat.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THE RIGHT APPROACH

Recently two landlords in our town decided to remodel their buildings, make some improvements, and raise rents.

One of them said nothing to his two tenants about his plans. At the last legal moment before their leases expired, he sent eviction notices. One family found another home almost immediately and left before the end of their lease, refusing to pay further rent, and doing some damage to the property before they went. The other tenant put off moving. At the last moment he appealed the eviction, and stubbornly fought against being forced out. Work on the building was delayed. Probably because of the unpleasant publicity of the evictions, one of the two remodeled apartments is still vacant.

The other man discussed his ideas with his three tenants. One family decided to stay after the remodeling, and were given a choice in the redecoration of their apartment. The landlord helped the others find places to live and cancelled their leases when they were ready to go. His renovations began early and finished ahead of schedule. All his apartments were rented on the day they were ready. He could rent six more if he had them.

There are always different ways to deal with people. The man who says to himself, "Now, if I were he, how would I like to be approached about this?" usually chooses the right way.

Small Town Follow Big News

By JAMES H. MARCHE

While Ray Tucker is on vacation there will be guest columns by several prominent newspaper editors. Today's column is by James H. March, Editor and Publisher of the THE NEWS-TRIBUNE, Beaver Falls, Pa.

Do small town newspaper readers follow the trend of events as closely as those who live in Metropolitan centers? Yes; we would say even more so, for it is out in the grass roots of the nation that the strong bulwark of national heritage still prevails.

What are we thinking about—talking about in our home town forums discussions?

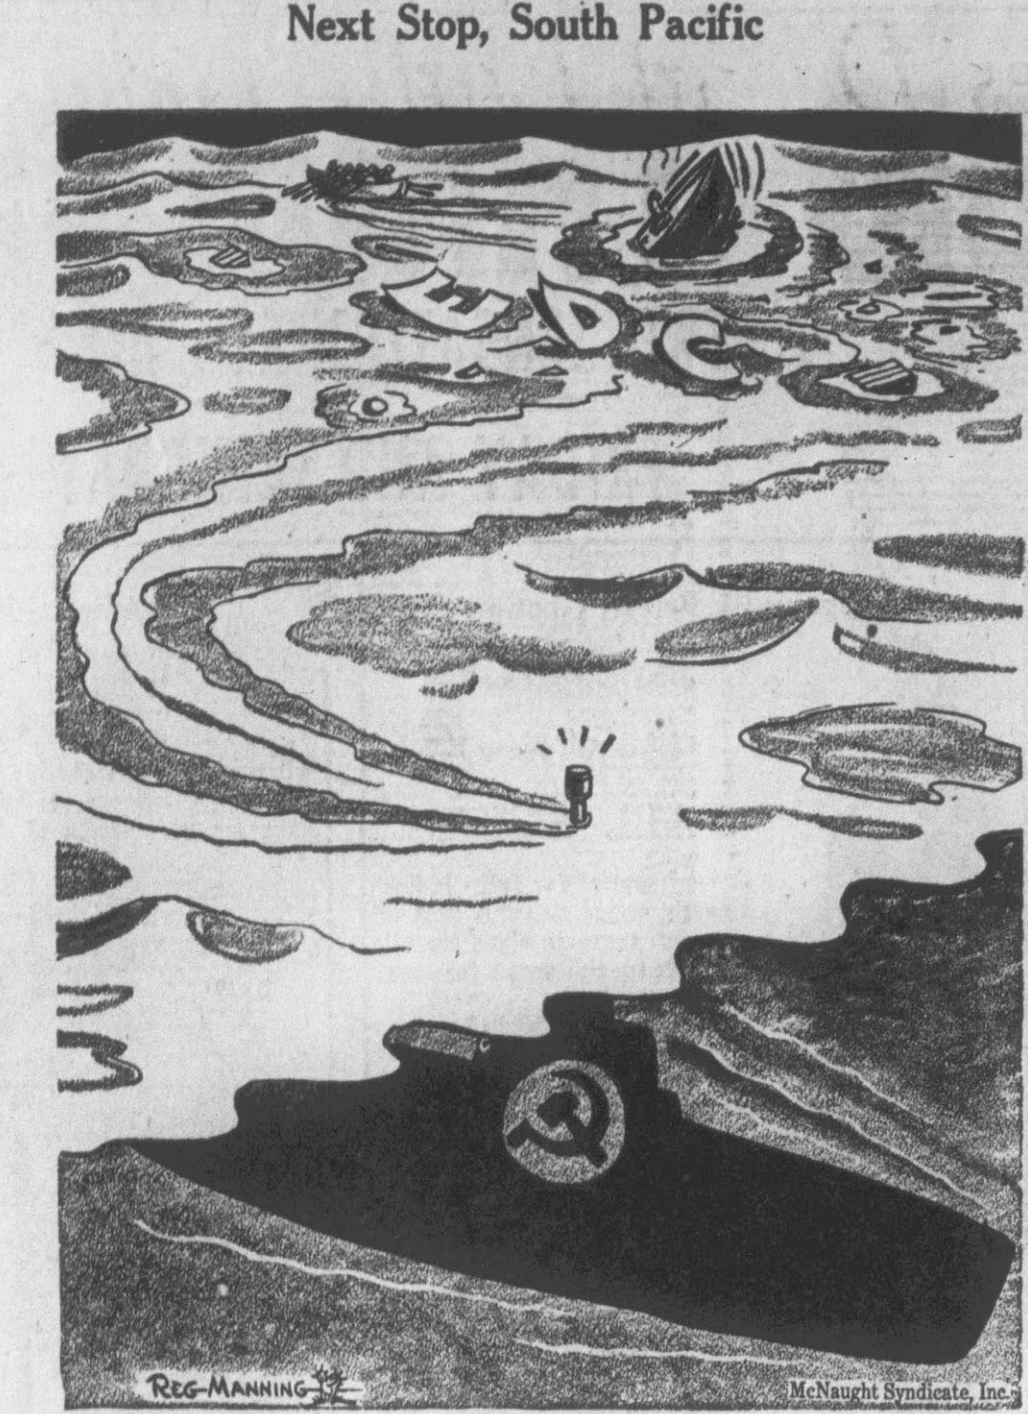

Now that the 83rd Congress has just concluded its business, we feel it did a very commendable job of legislation for the general benefit of the people of the nation. One outstanding feature of the work of this Congress was the co-ordination and co-operation of the members, both Republican and Democratic, in enacting badly needed national laws. Party politics in many instances was forgotten when the chips were down. This is a good sign. We extend our praise to the leaders on both sides—may the good work continue.

ATOMIC ENERGY PLANT—The Atomic Legislation enacted by the 83rd Congress held high interest locally, for we are now getting ready to break ground formally for the first atomic energy electric plant to be built in the United States. This plant is to be located a short distance from Beaver Falls and, when completed, will furnish power to both local industry and to Beaver County homes.

The day may not be too far distant when we in this section of the country will be the first to have atomic energy heat for our homes. This huge new plant to cost more than $52,000,000 is being constructed by the Duquesne Light Company in co-operation with the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

When it is in operation, it is bound to attract power people from all over the world to come to this district to view and learn how an atomic power plant ticks.

COMMUNITY WORK—As a small-town editor in the general practical pursuit of most of my fellow craftsmen, we take part in many community activities. Our fellow townsmen with whom we are in daily contact are thinking about many things—primarily, the community's need to make the town a better place in which to live—hospital expansion, new school buildings, new highways, new sewage systems, new

Not So Much To Gossip About

Our neighbors behave so well that we have no material for gossip. Yet, their activities bring about interesting discussions.

For example, the golf craze. Tom Wilson, George Lauters, Conner Merritt, Bill Davenport and Burney Warren, all living within a stone's throw of us, head for the golf course at every opportunity. Next time you see Burney get him to tell you about George's recent activities on the first golf tee. It seems that George lost a ball or two (or maybe more) in front of a gallery on the first tee.

"Just wait 'til I get Burney on the course," George says. "I'll wear him out for telling that story."

If everybody was as enthused about golf as Burney, George and Conner the lawn mower companies would have to go out of business. When they aren't on the course they're swinging their clubs in the yard, digging up the grass. Bill and Tom seem to confine their swinging to the golf course.

Conner Merritt's motor scooter is one of the neighborhood attractions. When Conner isn't scooting around it's his wife, Janice. And they give the neighborhood children a thrill by riding them up and down Maple Street.

The biggest target of the golfers is Elmo Dupree, the hunter and fisherman. Tom Wilson is determined to convert Elmo to the links. So far, no luck.

And among the neighborhood activities is the rumor of the petition in circulation to send one Jack Edwards to Dix Hill. Just because I've built a 125-foot tower in our yard for short wave radio the neighbors think I belong in an insane asylum.

One afternoon George Wilkermore important than the many divisions which have been committed to the common defense in Europe and Asia. It gives promise of an eventual cheaper source of power which will bolster the economy of all nations which work to develop it for the common good of all.

This important effort could not have been inaugurated on a more significant day insofar as the world is concerned than on Labor Day. It is the toll of Americans in their free enterprise society which has made the great living standards of this age stand out as the envy of all the world. Science now joins the laborer and the free capitalist in a move which can revolutionize civilization and give man new leisure in which to learn how to live together in peace and harmony. We share the view of those who believe that this is truly the real purpose for which atomic power has come into the knowledge of man.

gin today, I am confident that the atom will not be devoted exclusively to the destruction of man, but will be his mighty servant and tireless benefactor."

The United States has no other resource but to work with those nations which will cooperate in the peaceful development of this great new power. If the Soviet Union persists in pushing its development merely as a military weapon, she will alienate many who now seek to influence. The free world, which is honestly seeking some common ground upon which to build for lasting peace, can work together in this new field to the ultimate betterment of all mankind.

It is significant that the United States will help the cooperating nations set up their own atomic reactors and initial power plants as this great move toward peaceful development of the atom is expedited. That is a movement which the real friends of America can and will interpret as far

Goldsboro Institution Largest In N. Carolina System

By LYNN NISBET

GOLDSBORO — The State hospital for Negro mental patients is the largest in the hospital system and as well equipped and staffed as any — in some respects better. The institution has about 3000 patients ranging from the early teen age to senile, and including every type of mental illness and deficiency. At present and ever since the hospital was established feeble-minded and insane have been on the same campus, although segregated as to buildings.

The bonds voted last year for permanent improvements contained $4 1/2 million for a feeble minded school here. When that is built the custodial care feeble-minded will be taken out of the hospital area, thus affording more suitable treatment for both groups.

The bond issue and previous appropriations in 1947 and 1949 total nearly $8 1/2 million for improvements here. That brings the book value of this institution, including 1179 acres of land, to approximately $12 million. The current operation and maintenance budget is over a million and a half a year.

It was explained to the advisory budget commission by the hospital management that some $50,000 is needed during the next two years to expand facilities for farming activities and repair some of the buildings. Major renovation, perhaps to the extent of $125,000 is needed on the tuberculosis patient building for women.

Emphasis On Skills

By ELMER ROESSNER

The most significant thing about Labor Day for children is that the reopening of school follows shortly after. It's getting to be the same for adults.

New York University will offer 53 evening courses taught by 46 instructors in its school of retelling alone this fall, and City College of New York says their night school enrollment includes more than 10,000 business students. Upwards of 2,000 attend the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Business night courses. The same thing is happening all over the country.

Formal, institutional business and industrial training is, however, a relatively minor segment in increasing adult education. Industry is as big, if not bigger, a schoolmaster as the public school system — either through their own programs or through paying for the education of their employees.

Training ranges from giving new typists a three-hour course in improving their appearance to four-year trade apprenticeships, including regular classroom work.

A probably overoptimistic estimate of the educational cost to industry of $10 billion yearly is made by Russell L. Moberly, secretary-treasurer of the American Society of Training Directors. Another authority, Howard Mold, who is responsible for giving every one of Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company's 24,000 workers some training each year, believes that half the 60,000,000 in industry are engaged in some kind of training.

This preoccupation with training is attributable to a number of factors, including workers' realization of its importance in advancement or in just retaining their jobs; the emphasis on precision skills in both the military and civilian life during World

Few Lives Follow A Fixed Plan

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Military operations are supposed to go "according to plan."

But few lives do.

How many people do you know who set a pattern to their life when they were young, said "I want such-and-such out of this world, and this is how I'll get it"—and were able to achieve their goal as they had planned it?

Such people are the exception. I personally know of none.

Life has a way of upsetting our timetables. We are only partly a product of our own dreams and sense of determination. For we are also, to a great extent, prisoners of such external influences as chance, misfortune or a pair of bright eyes.

Chance, itself—pure blind, hazardous chance—what a strange and terrible power it has to change our whole existence in a universe we like to think of as orderly: How it bends and shapes us in ways unknown to us at the time, ways that become clear to us only after the passage, of many years, when we pause and look back and wonder what put us where we are.

Here is how chance entered and affected the careers of some of America's business leaders:

Raymond Loewy, now head of the largest industrial design firm in the world, studied electrical engineering in Paris. At 26 he had no job, little funds.

At his brother's suggestion he decided to come to New York. During the voyage he was asked to contribute something for a shipboard auction for a charitable cause. All Loewy had was his pencil. He made a sketch of a young woman aboard the ship.

The sketch was purchased at the auction by a British diplomat, who was so impressed with Loewy's talent he gave him a letter of introduction to Conde Nast, publisher of Vogue. The letter landed Loewy a job, started him on a fabulous career.

Herbert L. Laube, president of the Remington Corp., manufacturers of room air conditioners, originally was a construction engineer.

He made the drawings for an exhibit hall in San Bernardino, Calif., in 1924. Then he learned he wouldn't be paid until the exhibition opened six months later.

His room rent was overdue. He had less than $2 in his pocket. He went for a walk that evening, feeling pretty blue. During the walk he chanced to meet Herbert C. Parker, manager of an ice machine company. Parker offered him a job.

"I knew nothing about ice machines, and I took the job without even asking what the pay would be," recalled Laube. But he soon had gathered the know-how to become a pioneer in the still mushrooming field of air conditioning.

John J. and James A. Farrell Jr., sons of a former head of the U.S. Steel Co., now operate the Farrell Ship Lines, which ply to Africa.

Chance played an odd role in their family history. Their grandfather, Thomas Walen, was an embattled Irish rebel and a fine whist player. He was so good at whist that English officers who frequented the inn in the town in which he lived enjoyed passing an evening with him at the card table.

One night, before a rubber was finished, a friendly officer arose, and before leaving said loudy:

"Early tomorrow I must serve a royal warrant on Thomas Walen."

Realizing the warrant probably meant his hanging, Whalen took the hint. He left the inn, and Ireland as well, and came to America.

Herbert Hoover, now 80, was a 14-year-old orphan when he went to work as an office boy in his uncle's real estate firm in Oregon. A chance conversation with a visiting mining engineer led him to adopt that as his own profession, and started him on the road that led to the White House.

Take a chance? A man has no alternative. Chance surrounds us from infancy to the grave. The fortunate man is the one who knows which chance to take. But there never lived a man who didn't have a chance.

Local Debutantes Depart Early Today For Terpsichorean Ball

More admiring than helpful, Miss Videau Joyner, Miss Dotdee Jones and Miss Frances Spain stand by as Miss Janice Ormond packs one of the dresses she will wear during the three days of activity in Raleigh this weekend. All are hoping for cooler temperatures as the debutantes must set the fashion pace with fall clothes.

By EDWINA HAYMES
Reflector Staff Writer

After a busy whirl of fun at out-of-town parties this week, local debutantes left early this morning for Raleigh where the real festivities begin today.

The two Greenville debutantes, Miss Frances Elaine Ormond, and the two debutantes from Farmville, Miss Dotdee Long Jones and Miss Evelyn Videau Joyner, got off to an early start this morning for the capital city where a full schedule of activity awaits them, climaxed by the presentation of all the 1954 debutantes at the annual Terpsichorean Ball tomorrow evening.

Activities begin at 1:30 this afternoon when Miss Elizabeth Cross Williams, this year's Ball leader, will be at home to all the 1954 debutantes.

At 4:30 p.m. Mrs. Hunter Irving, formerly of Greenville, and Mrs. Labon Thornton will honor the deb at tea.

In between these events the girls must find time to register at the Sir Walter Raleigh Hotel.

Rehearsal for the Ball figure tomorrow night will be this evening, interspersed with various private parties.

Tomorrow's festivities for the deb begin with a luncheon at 1 p.m. From 12 noon until 2 p.m. Mrs. William Proctor, general chairman of the Ball, will entertain the mothers of the debutantes at a coffee hour.

Debutante Ball
Tomorrow night at 8 o'clock is the big event, the Debutante Ball, which highlights the three-days of festivity.

One hundred forty-nine girls are making their debuts this year at the Ball.

On Saturday activities resume with a tea dance at the Carolina Country Club at 11 a.m., followed at 4 p.m. with tea at the Governor's Mansion.

The local debutantes will return home Sunday with the exception of Miss Spain, who will return to the University of North Carolina where she is enrolled as a junior.

Miss Spain is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Spain of 400 Rotary Avenue.

After graduating from St. Mary's Junior College in Raleigh last year, she enrolled in the University of North Carolina where she plans to major in elementary education.

Enjoys Reading
She lists her special interests as reading and sewing. Last year at St. Mary's, however, she was active in the school's sports program, and served as news editor of the school paper, "Belles," and as a hall counselor.

This summer she worked for Senator Sam J. Ervin, Jr.

Chief marshal for Miss Spain at the Debutante Ball will be William Stuart Bost, Jr. of this city. Her other marshalls are Louis Clark, Jack Spain, Jr., her brother; both of Greenville Niel Davis and Billy Reese of Rocky Mount.

Other Local Deb
Miss Ormond, the other local deb, is the daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. H. Lyman Ormond of 406 Rotary Avenue.

She will return this fall to Converse College in Spartanburg, S.C. where she is a sophomore. Her major is also elementary education.

Last year at Converse Miss Ormond was active in the school chorus and in intramural sports. She also served as World Commission Chairman of the Wesley Foundation at Center Methodist Church in Spartanburg.

Next year her school activities will include being a typist for "Concept," the Converse literary magazine.

China painting is a particular hobby, of Miss Ormond's "it she also claims interest in music, especially piano and voice.

Her marshalls are her brother, Lyman, chief; Billy Wooten, Sellers Crisp, Bobby May, all of this city; and Paul Reinartz of Jacksonville, Fla.

Farmville Deb
The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Jones of Farmville, Miss Dotdee Jones should have no trouble in the Ball figure tomorrow night as she has been teaching dancing for the past three years.

A hobby, which began as an avocation, has become a vocation for Miss Jones and she devotes five days a week to the occupation. Three days she teaches in Farmville, and the other two she gives lessons in Bethel.

Last year she attended St. Mary's, where she was a member of "Orchisis," a dance group

Miss Frances Spain looks on as Miss Janice Ormond displays the dress she will wear to tea at the Governor's Mansion in Raleigh Saturday. The tea, at which Mrs. William B. Umstead will be hostess, will honor the 1954 debutantes and their mothers.

there, but this year she plans to attend East Carolina College and commute between home and school. This will enable her to continue her teaching.

She plans to major in English and minor in math at East Carolina.

Her marshalls for the Debutante Ball are Tommy Cole of Kinston, chief; Harold Flanagan, Vann Carroll, Charlie Fitzgerald, and Jack Lewis, all of Farmville.

Miss Joyner Makes Debut
The other Farmville deb, Miss Joyner, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Joyner of 308 N. Main Street.

A sophomore at Meredith College this year, Miss Joyner lists her interests as sports of all kinds.

Last year she was active in the intramural program at Meredith, and she was also a member of the Young Women's Auxiliary, a church organization at the college.

Her major is primary education. A particular hobby of Miss Jones' is the collecting of pen-nants from every place she visits. "I try to bring back the name of every town I visit," she declared.

Larry Barden of Boone will be her chief marshal at the Ball tomorrow night. Her other marshalls are Bobby Eason of Snow Hill; John Ross and William Morgan Russell, Jr. of Tuskegee, Ala.

ON THE TARGET, with a Big Bertha aimed from the special press photographers box at Yankee Stadium. The lenses on these big "reach-out-and-get-em" babies range all the way up to 60 inches.

By ED FORD
AP Newsfeatures

The dramatic slide into home plate; the haymaker which produced a knockout; the mad baseball scramble—these are the pictures which fill out daily sports pages.

And these are the pictures which send the amateur into a wistful daydream. Couldn't he, for example, turn out just as good stuff, provided he had the press photographer's equipment at his disposal—and if his pockets were full of press cards which entitled him to the choice shooting positions?

True, the press boys do have an advantage in the way of equipment. They also work from vantage points which are off-limits to the amateur. How, then, can the average lensman compete with the shooting sports? . . . Let's take boxing as a starter and see how the press photographer does the job. Then let's see how simple it is for you or your neighbor to produce similar results.

Boxing is shot by the professional from one of two positions—either at ringside with his camera shoved under the lower rope, or from an overhead spot corresponding to a front balcony seat. Shooting under the ropes he uses strob for lighting. Shutter is set at one four-hundredth with diaphragm between 11 and 16. All this on the four-by-five graphic.

From a balcony position he uses a lens of between 8 and 12 inches focal length. With fast pan film, his exposure is between one two hundredth and one four-hundredth of a second with diaphragm around 8—using ring lighting only.

The amateur can't shoot from under the ropes—that spot is reserved for the guy with all those press cards sticking out of his pockets. However, he can shoot from balcony position like the professional or from ground level in a ringside seat. A 35 millimeter camera will work nicely in either spot. At ringside, a normal lens is O.K. From above, a 35 millimeter telephoto will just about fill the negative. So much for boxing.

Baseball is shot by the pros mainly with Big Berthas, particularly in the bigger cities where ground rules keep the press off the field. These cameras are usually converted 3 by 7 Graflexes with lenses all the way up to 60 inches. From their special coop in the stands, the press boys shoot all the bases. Quick focus changes from one base to another are made with a shift lever.

If the amateur will go without cigarettes for a few weeks to finance the cost of a seat near first base, third base, or home plate, he can grab some fancy shots. Once again he will need a long lens for satisfactory work. With a miniature, the 135 millimeter is just about right. Using a Graphic type, fair results can be had with the normal lens, but an 8 or 10-inch gives much better image size. The best bet is a 15-inch telephoto, but financing this one means that the amateur has just about had his last smoke.

In covering basketball, the amateur and press photographer work practically on an even footing. Press seats are on the sidelines about thirty feet from the basket. Spectator seats are as close as 15. From there the amateur can shoot on available light with an inexpensive miniature, or he can go to a larger camera and strobe for more professional results. On a well-lighted court, an available-light exposure of one two-hundredth of a second at 4.5 is a good basis to start with.

And so it goes down through the field of sports. Whether it be hockey, track, football, tennis, or what have you, the amateur with his limited equipment can grab some excellent action shots.

But don't expect to come back with a Pulitzer winner on every excursion. After all, the press photographer has been doing this sort of thing for years and he develops a few tricks along the way just like a carpenter, an artist, a bricklayer or any other craftsman. One word of caution: the excitement of a knockdown or a close play at home, don't leap to your feet with camera blazing—if you do, that gentleman behind you will most surely make an ungentlemanly remark. You might even cause a fellow club-member to make the WORST PHOTO OF THE YEAR with a four-foot study of your back.

More than seven million dollars in parking meter fees were collected in New York State communities in 1953.

Resignation Is Just Red Rumor

NEW YORK (AP)—Clare Boothe Luce, U.S. ambassador to Italy, says reports she will resign are "mostly Communist rumors inspired to create an air of uncertainty."

Boarding a plane for Rome last night, Mrs. Luce told newsmen: "There has never been any truth in these rumors, and there is no truth in them now."

Counterfeiting In Prison Cell

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Luis Eduardo Shelly, serving seven years for counterfeiting, had another eight years added to his sentence today.

Officials charged he kept in practice by running off bills on a portable press concealed in his cell.

Warders at the national penitentiary said Shelly had been selling the homemade currency to prisoners as they completed their sentences.

Ives And Harriman Are Likely Rivals

By WATSON SIMS
NEW YORK (AP) — Republican Sen. Irving M. Ives and Averell Harriman, himself a former GOP voter, are likely rivals for governor of New York.

With the state conventions two weeks away and apparently many shots still to be fired on the Democratic side, Ives and Harriman were tabbed yesterday as the choices of their respective party leaders.

Ives had only his own desires to contend with. He was endorsed unanimously by the State Republican Executive Committee. Retiring Gov. Thomas E. Dewey urged him to accept.

With no major opponent in sight, Ives promised to make up his mind by today. Most observers predicted his answer would be yes.

Harriman may be in for a stiff convention fight from Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., who has the support of state CIO leaders and many upstate segments of the Democratic party.

Several Roosevelt backers spoke rebelliously last night after it was reported that Tammany Hall, traditional bellwether of the state party, had decided on Harriman.

The Harriman boom came into being much less directly than that for Ives, although both he and Roosevelt had been campaigning for weeks.

Roosevelt claimed to have run away with most of the upstate party groups. Harriman said only that he was a candidate. And the leaders of the five counties that make up New York City remained silent.

These five counties, dominated by New York City (Tammany Hall) chief Carmine G. DeSapio, control 513 votes at the convention. Only 510 are needed for nomination.

DeSapio and his lieutenants went into a huddle shortly after Dewey announced Tuesday night that he would not seek a fourth term. Last night DeSapio offered a clue as to the decision:

The upstate counties, he said, had decided to back Harriman. It was indicated that many other county chairmen would join in the swing to Harriman today.

DeSapio promised a full statement on the party leadership's choice within 48 hours. He indicated it would have the support of New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner and Sen. Herbert H. Lehman.

Observers were almost unanimous in taking this as a guarantee that Harriman had been chosen. Roosevelt himself remained silent. Harriman was noncommittal. But Roosevelt backers were quick to denounce DeSapio.

In Albany where the CIO is gathered for its state convention, CIO President Louis Olander said:

"We are more than ever determined that Mr. Roosevelt must be the candidate. This action by a handful of people — who are trying to determine the destiny of the whole state — has put more fire in the ranks of the CIO."

Ives, 59, has a reputation as a formidable vote getter. In 25 years of politics, he has never lost an election. He defeated Lehman for the Senate in 1946 and was re-elected in 1952 by a margin of 1,300,000 votes.

Harriman, 62, was wooed away from Republican paths in 1928 by the late Alfred E. Smith.

Although never a holder of elective office, he held many high posts in the administrations of Presidents Roosevelt and Truman. His most recent post was that of mutual security administrator under Truman.

Drug Store Sets Formal Opening Friday, Saturday

The Warren Walgreen Agency Drug Store, 408 Evans Street, will have its formal opening Friday and Saturday, it was announced today by B. S. Warren, Jr., owner of the store.

Attractively decorated in tones of gray with red trim, the store will carry a complete line of Walgreen products and other nationally known brands of drugs, sundries, toys, and cosmetics.

Merchandise is arranged on modern open display fixtures, and the store will operate on a semi-self-service system.

Mr. Warren and Mrs. Lee Spurgeon, both registered pharmacists, will operate the modern prescription department. Mrs. Marjorie Angstadt, who has had several years of cosmetic experience will be in charge of the cosmetics department. Mrs. Jack Carey will be in charge of the new soda fountain assisted by Joan Everette and Liddie Braxton.

Here to assist in the grand opening of the new store will be Walgreen officials J. F. Justice, southeastern representative, and P. H. Ledford, North Carolina representative.

Sen. Watkins Holds Reins Firm In Censure Hearing

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. McCarthy said "I felt that..." Sen. Watkins cut him short. "Let's not get into what you felt," said Watkins.

In a sentence Watkins pointed up the difference between last spring's televised McCarthy-Army hearings: he tried to interrupt. Watkins banged him into silence with his gavel.

McCarthy hasn't tried it again. Since he emerged into national prominence four years ago McCarthy has been the center of an emotional thunderstorm. The best illustration is the intense feeling he has aroused in friend and foe.

In the hearings on his fight with the Army, McCarthy interrupted as he pleased, made speeches, new charges, fresh attacks and occasionally produced a sensation. Emotion was the steady thread through those rough-and-tumble days.

And upon occasion in those hearings McCarthy's voice vibrated with emotion. That kind of voice in the new hearings would seem out of place.

Watkins made it clear, his comonetime judge, said repeatedly before these hearings began he would conduct them like an examination in a courtroom.

McCarthy tried once on Watkins what he did so many times successfully to Sen. Mundt (R-SD), chairman of the McCarthy-Army hearings: he tried to interrupt. Watkins banged him into silence with his gavel.

McCarthy hasn't tried it again. Since he emerged into national prominence four years ago McCarthy has been the center of an emotional thunderstorm. The best illustration is the intense feeling he has aroused in friend and foe.

And upon occasion in those hearings McCarthy's voice vibrated with emotion. That kind of voice in the new hearings would seem out of place.

Watkins made it clear, his committee wanted facts and evidence brought in and emotion and personal feelings checked outside. For the first week these hearings were enormously dull as the committee attorney droned evidence from past proceedings into the record.

Yesterday for the first time McCarthy took the stand in his own defense. The television audience which watched him last spring would have been astonished at the difference: the low voice, the "yes, sir" and "no, sir," the subdued voice, the lack of protest at interruptions.

It isn't Watkins alone who insisted that McCarthy keep personal feelings out of the hearings. Other committee members rapped him too, if gently.

At one point in his testimony yesterday, when McCarthy began drawing conclusions from what he had just said, Sen. Ervin (D-NC) broke in.

He told McCarthy: "Let us draw our own conclusions."

Again when McCarthy drew conclusions, which has been a regular practice with him, Sen. Case (R-SD) cut in with: "Let's get the evidence and let the committee draw the conclusions."

But the coldness of these hearings isn't directed at McCarthy alone. It pervades the caucus room and extends to the members of the committee too in their relations with one another.

When Case tried to interrupt McCarthy's lawyer Edward B. Williams, Watkins, icily polite to everyone, stopped him in mid-flight. "Mr. Case," he said, "will you wait a moment until Mr. Williams has finished?"

Case said he would, and did.

No Decisions On Yuletide Plans

No definite decisions were reached as to either the local Christmas decorations or the Santa parade at a meeting of the Trade Promotion Committee of the Merchants Association yesterday.

Charles A. White, committee chairman, said this morning a drive to raise money from the merchants for the annual event is to be started, and the type of decorations and parade will be decided after funds have been collected.

This is so all decisions made will be based on money on hand to prevent "going into the red."

The group will meet again later this month, White said, at which time Carol Carpenter, from whom the committee obtains the decorations, will be present to assist in making plans for the coming event.

"We hope to have the best parade and prettiest decorations ever for this year," White commented. "It will depend, of course, upon the contributions we receive from the local merchants," he added.

In addition to the farm and cafeterias there is an occupational therapy building where patients make most of the clothing, repair the shoes and furniture, and engage in numerous other activities which help them to regain full mental faculties.

Some of the patients here are just plumb crazy. A great many of them are simply of low mentality or victims of mental illness that can be cured. Progress has been almost phenomenal during the past 10 years in classifying them and giving to each group the special kind of attention needed.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

MAUDE STOREY laid the paper aside, then thought better of it, folded it small and hid it under the folds of her skirt.

"At least," she said in a churchly undertone, "the papers have been very considerate and dignified about this trouble."

"They could have made a lovely sensation out of it, but they didn't," Quincy remarked.

"I see nothing sensational about it," rejoined Malvina, sitting primly erect in her well-pressed black. "Two members of our family, driving out to Mother Storey's for a picnic, taking a back road to avoid the Saturday traffic and being hit father were out there with him. He was still under narcotics, two vertebrae in his neck were broken and his pelvis shattered. It was a miracle, the surgeons had said, that he was alive at all.

Outside the door, in the hall, stood young Marsh Nichols.

He wore a blue suit, a white shirt and a tie; Penn was a little startled never having seen him dressed up before never having thought of him as almost handsome.

"Hello," she said hoarsely. He took her hand.

"Will you take me home, please?" she whispered. "I can't stand any more."

She clutched Marsh Nichols' arm as he led her down the stairs and across the parking space to his dusty old car. They did not speak. Penn was shivering when they drove away.

Marsh worried at an asthmatic heart.

"I hope your feet aren't freezing," he said.

"It's not my feet that are cold," she met his friendly mood with the best grace that she could. "It's my heart that seems to be cold."

"You're remembering things you'll have to forget," he said abruptly. "The trouble is, no matter how deep you bury them in your subconscious they'll crop up at times, in the middle of the night, to torture you. I had a lot of agonies like that. My father and I had a bitter argument the day before he—before he died. I told him that he was a coward, that my mother was braver than he was because she was willing to start all over. I was a brash kid then. I was all full of hate and venom and I let it spill out at him. In 24 hours I would have given an eye to have had those words unsaid. Death," he said soberly, "is so final!"

"Are you," she asked, "still thinking of things you'd like to say to him? Explanations—things like that? Your father, I mean."

"When I was in Korea I wanted to write him a letter. Once I did write it and then I couldn't bear to look at it so I tore it up—but just the writing eased me a little. Over there where it's all rugged, you get a feeling that there are forces you don't know about—people taking care of you, see what I mean? It goes along with seeing death every day, being close to it yourself every hour. I felt like he was sort of looking after me. It helped some."

"I've had that feeling, too. I lost my mother when I was 12 years old. My father went down with his ship in the Coral Sea."

"I remember when you two kids came here to live. I used to ride by on an old mule we had on the farm. I never could tell you apart."

He was talking to ease the tension in her, she knew. She was grateful for that.

Marsh Nichols drove on through the city in silence. He had withdrawn again.

Penn was a little surprised when, having come to the top where the little back road that led past the old Nichols house turned off, he sloped the car and turned to her.

"Would you," he said abruptly, "care to go by our house and see my mother?"

"You told me not to come any more—or words to that effect," she reminded him. "My mother has no feeling of antagonism for you, or for any of the Storeys. She's always telling me that I'm wrong."

The wind had grown colder when they stopped before the old house behind the boxwoods. All the flowers in that garden, she saw, had been touched and blighted by frost. Death had walked the world in the night. The air was pregnant with the sadness of it.

The room where little Mrs. Nichols lay was hot and bright with a burning wood fire. The Negro woman huddled close to the hearth. She got up and walked out as Penn crossed the room to the couch beside the window.

"So you came?" Mrs. Nichols sat up and looked both hands. "Marsh said he'd fetch you. You don't want to talk about it, do you? I know. It takes a long time. I was just lying here mourning for my garden."

"I'm sorry about the Harvest Moon," Penn said, taking the chair Marsh brought near for her. "I'll get you a root in the spring."

"Oh, we saved it, I'm sure," Mrs. Nichols' eyes sparkled. "Marsh, tell Lula to make us some coffee. The first day of real wintry weather is always a kind of shock, though you know it has to be. A fire helps though. It's so alive. That's what I'll do all winter—lie here and watch the fire and wonder what happens; to the life in those sparks after they go flying out of the chimney. God doesn't destroy anything. All my poor flowers will sink down into pulpy masses, but their bodies will feed the flowers that will grow in the spring."

"Wouldn't you be better if you could go to some warmer place?" Penn asked.

"I'm well enough," the older woman answered, "and this is home. I was born upstairs in that front room with the dormer windows. People were born at home in those days."

"I was born in my grandmother's house," Penn said. "I'd like to go back there now. Grandmother Houk has a flower garden, too."

"You go there," counseled Mrs. Nichols. "Grandmothers have healing powers. They've lived long enough to know that everything passes. Oh, Marsh how nice!" she exclaimed, as he shouldered through the door with a tray.

"Only two cups, Marsh? You must have coffee with us, too."

"I don't need any, mother," he said, setting the tray carefully on the table. Penn had brought close to the bed. "I'll have a sandwich in the kitchen. Lula made these—the bread's pretty thick."

"You'll have coffee right here with us," his mother said firmly. "And thick sandwiches are nourishing. Another cup, son. I wish it." He went out again obediently, and Mrs. Nichols whispered conspiratorially: "I have to be a tyrant with Marsh sometimes. He learned to command in the medical corps, and it's hard for him to take orders. He's in love with you, you know," she finished blandly.

Penn jumped. "Oh, no!"

"Oh of course he is! He's very deep and he hides things—even from himself. But I've learned to see deep, and I know."

"He hates us all. He's just being polite now because we're in trouble," Penn declared unhappily. "Being magnanimous to his enemies."

"It looks that way to you because you're all torn up and wretched inside—but I know. You'll break him down yet."

"And if I don't want to break him down?"

"Oh, you will. Sit over here, Marsh," Mrs. Nichols ordered as he returned. "Now, we're all cozy and I wintry weather can't touch us at all. Sundays are my happy days," she stated. "Marsh is home from school then—he's finishing his medical, you know. Week day: I'll look Julia blue in the face. She fusses at me all day to make me shut up."

you again Mr. Nichols—and the coffee."

Marsh brought her coat and held it, nodding silently at her murmured thanks. "I'll be right back, mother."

"You come often," Mrs. Nichols said, smiling at Penn. "You have your own mind and you know the way."

Who Can Participate?

The Association welcomes accounts of any size. There is no membership fee of any kind, and the entire amount placed in savings is available at any time. Insured Safety

The savings you entrust with the Home Building and Loan Association are completely insured by an agency of the United States Government up to $10,000 for each account. Thus savings are protected against any and every type of loss.

Who Owns It?

The Association is owned by all who have savings accounts with this institution. Its officers, directors and employees work for these savers whose money is put to work in the community. It employs local funds for local improvements.

China's Industrial Revolution Starting At Rockbottom Level

Editor's Note—Deryck Winterton, London Daily Herald correspondent who accompanied the Attlee party to Red China, took time out in Hong Kong after the trip to sum up and record his impressions in the following article.

By DERYCK WINTERTON OF THE LONDON DAILY HERALD
HONG KONG (AP)—Six hundred million people and an industrial labor force, in the Western sense, of around 13 million; the rest handicraft workers or peasants. That is the size of China's problem. She is starting her industrial revolution from the rockbottom of poverty after 50 years of bad government, foreign war, invasion, civil war and disorder.

You fly into Peiping airport in a Russian-built plane. There are no Chinese planes.

You are driven into the city in a Russian, or possibly American or British, car. The first Chinese automobile factory is now being built. You meet endless lines of primitive carts drawn by not very good horses carrying building materials, coal, blocks of stone, anything that needs moving. You see men—and women—with heavy loads in baskets, hung from either end of a pole across their shoulders.

You take a ride in a pedicab—the taxi for one, or it may be two—drawn by a man on a bicycle. There are no motorized taxis.

And then you are suddenly transported to the showpiece rolling mills of Anshan, in northeast China, where most of the work is pressing an electric control button.

All the machinery here is Russian, which "proves how unselfish Russia is." This is one of the automatic phrases which it is thought proper to repeat at every opportunity.

But the tribute to Russia having been paid, you are then told in a voice that is no longer automatic but full of satisfaction that the machines are now worked entirely by Chinese technicians, Russian-trained of course, and Chinese skilled labor.

One senses that Russia would do well not to trade too much on gratitude for her "unselfishness"—all paid for by Chinese exports.

It is not necessary to rely on the Communists' official statements that the Red government is transforming the vast land. The signs of frenzied energy are everywhere.

Bridges are being built or repaired, railway tracks relaid, roads constructed, blocks of apartment houses going up everywhere, cinemas, factories and "cultural centers."

Apart from the girders and heavy rails and seamless steel tubes which can be seen pouring from the rolling mills of Anshan, the Chinese claim that they are now making such things as mining machinery, locomotives and heavy electrical generators for themselves.

How many is another matter. Precise figures are extraordinarily hard to get. Officials prefer to talk in terms of percentage increases. Unless you know the figure they started with, these mean nothing. Industrial output for the first six months of this year is put at 35 per cent above the same period last year.

The few real figures that are given show how low consumption still is: Annual cloth output just over seven yards per person. Sugar consumption under three pounds per head. But there seems no doubt that this is a great deal better than it was.

Although things like clothes and food are improving, the great emphasis of the State Planning Committee is inevitably on heavy industry.

Barney Would Have Liked His Last Big Show

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Barney Dean would have been both happy and unhappy with his final show. There was standing room only, but there were no laughs.

Making laughs was Barney's business as a man for Bob Hope and Bing Crosby. The bald little fellow was never without a funny line, whether it was for a Hope-Crosby movie or just for the private amusement of friends.

He had many friends. Some 250 showed up for the funeral last week, including prop men, song pluggers, ballplayers, as well as Hope, Dorothy Lamour, Danny Kaye, Rosemary Clooney, Pat O'Brien, George Burns, Dean Martin, Jack Benny, William Holden, George Raft, Phil Harris, Jack Webb and others.

Dean was the quiet type who underplayed his humor rather than hit you over a head with it. I was about the only one who ever interviewed him. He was afraid he might say the wrong thing to interviewers and offend Bing Bob of their writers.

He told of meeting Hope 25 years ago when both were playing the Stafford Theater in Chicago. Barney was part of a dance act that later ended in a fist fight. He met Bing three years later at the Friar's Club in New York.

After vaudeville died, Barney drifted to Hollywood, working as Sid Silver's stand-in for $6.50 a day. Things got so bad that he tried selling Christmas cards to old pals.

"I took my briefcase to the 'Road to Singapore' set," he recalled. "Bing and Bob greeted me like a long-lost friend. They offered me a job, so I left the briefcase in a corner of the set. I never have been able to sell them any Christmas cards."

But he sold them on his services as an adviser on gags. They wouldn't make a picture without him. Once Paramount tried to put him off salary between pictures. Hope and Crosby told the studio either he stayed or they left. His paycheck was quickly reinstated.

LIKED POLICE SHOW

DETROIT (AP)—Police Commissioner Edward Piggins invited Detroiters to visit police stations in a "Know Your Police Week." And today he reported 113 of the 20,830 who came liked what they saw so much they signed up as members of the force.

Connecticut has more than two million people, more than 75 per cent of whom are classified as urban dwellers.

At Least Six Pitchers Look Like 20-Game Winners

By BEN PHLEGAR

The 20-Game Club, that exclusive circle of pitchers, probably will wind up with six members this season.

Four have made the grade so far, with Early Wynn of the fast-moving Cleveland Indians the newest recruit.

Wynn passed his entrance exams with flying colors last night, throwing an eight-hit 5-2 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics. And a long-time associate of the elite, Warren Spahn of Milwaukee, moved next in line by winning No. 19 for the rip-roaring Braves 5-2 over Pittsburgh.

On hand to greet Wynn, who has won 20 or more times before were teammate Bob Lemon, a six-time member; Robin Roberts of the Philadelphia Phillies, who has been in good standing for five consecutive seasons; and newcomer Johnny Antonelli of the New York Giants.

With Spahn, a member five times previously, almost certain to join soon, the only other live prospects appear to be Virgil Trucks (18-8) of the Chicago White Sox, who won 20 last season, and rookie Bob Grim (17-5) of the New York Yankees.

Wynn's victory last night kept Cleveland 4½ games ahead of the Yankees, who beat Baltimore 8-2 in Tommy Byrne's return to the majors. Milwaukee moved within four games of the rain-soaked Giants while Brooklyn slipped six games back by losing to St. Louis 6-5.

In other action, Cincinnati defeated Philadelphia 9-3 and took over fourth place from the Phils; the Chicago White Sox shaded Washington 2-1; and the Red Sox beat Detroit 5-2. Rain washed out the Giants' scheduled home game with Chicago.

Spahn won his 11th game in a row by blanking the Pirates on three hits after giving up two runs in the first inning. Eddie Mathews hit his 36th home run with Joe Adcock on base in the third.

Carl Erskine of the Dodgers, who has won 16, lost his chance to stay in the running for the 20-Game Club by failing to hold a two-run lead in the ninth inning against the Cardinals. He escaped the loss since he left with the tying runs on base. Joe Cunningham cashed them in against reliever pitcher Jim Hughes, then scored the winning run on Rip Repulski's single. Had-dix pitched the ninth inning for the Cardinals, saving the victory for rookie Gordon Jones.

Big Ted Kluszewski of the Redlegs drove in three runs and started a four-run Cincinnati rally in the sixth with his 45th home run, six more than anybody else in either league.

Byrne waived out of the majors last season because of illness, walked only four and struck out four in beating Baltimore. But the Yankee left-hander stood out even more as a hitter. He scored the first run after tripling in the third and he batted a bases-loaded double to put the Yanks ahead to stay in the fourth.

Morrie Martin, making his second start for the White Sox, allowed only two singles until he gave way to Don Johnson with one out in the ninth against Washington. Johnson gave up one more in finishing. The Sox raked Porterfield for 13 hits but left 11 men stranded.

Ted Williams went hitless in three times at bat in Boston's victory over Detroit. The Red Sox broke open the close game with consecutive home runs by Sam Mele and Sam White in the eighth.

Bucs Add 2-Hour Night Workout To Early Drills

A two-hour long session under the lights on Wednesday night was used in pushing the preparations for the opening of the 1954 football season by the East Carolina College Pirates.

It was the second workout of the day for the Pirates, the pre-breakfast schedule having been ordered by Coach Jack Boone.

There was some scrimmage during the night workout, and a lot of work on offense drills, in addition to the downfield blocking.

Leaders in the line were Ends Larry Rhodes and J. D. Bradford. Tackles George Tucker and Willie Holland. Guards David Lee and Don Burton, and Center Louis Hallow.

The quarterback spot left open when Dick Cherry received fractured bones in his left foot was getting a lot of attention from Boyd Webb and Milton Collier, both of whom saw action during the 1953 season.

There was no word about Cherry's side-lining for the current season, but Boone noted that the team spirit was good and the morale high as the opening date neared.

First game will be played in College Stadium on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock and a great attendance of Pirates fans is anticipated.

N.C. State And Virginia Meet In Practice Tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A regulation game in which regular conference officials were used was staged yesterday by Virginia and North Carolina State College at Raleigh but it was strictly for practice. No score was kept and the game was played behind closed gates.

In the morning session the two squads worked against each other on pass defense.

A 70-yard chdown jaunt by N. C. State halfback George Marinov was the afternoon's longest run.

Ned McDonald, Virginia coach, criticized the play of his team while Wolfpack Coach Earle Edwards appeared pleased that his team showed up better, than expected.

Co-Capt. Dick Bielecki, 207-pound fullback returned to practice at Maryland as Coach Jim Tatum put the Terps through an intensive passing and punting workout.

Bielecki had missed training since he sprained an ankle last Friday. He appeared in good shape and led first team punters. Tatum held no contact drills but concentrated on punting and passing.

Coach Frank Howard at Clemson, stressing offensive signals and blocking, put his Tigers through a dummy scrimmage.

Dick Desimore and Donald Rhinehart, guards, were back in action after missing two days because of injuries suffered Saturday.

Also back in action was fullback Neil Ankuta who pulled a leg muscle a week ago.

Two light sessions were held by Coach Bill Murray at Duke as Nick McKeithan, first team halfback, went to the sidelines with Tuesday's knee injury. It appeared he may be lost to the team until after Duke's opener with Pennsylvania Sept. 26.

Coach Rex Enright's South Carolina squad was intact again after a siege of illness that put 15 players in the university infirmary.

Quarterback Harold Lewis took part in a long passing drill. Guard Frank Minevich and center Leon Cunningham were standouts at contact work.

Coach George Barclay was pleased with the results of a hard driving scrimmage as the North Carolina Tar Heels knocked heads for a full hour in the roughest scrimmage of the pre-season.

Ed Sutton, sophomore, made a 35-yard touchdown for the longest run. Sophomore fullback Don Kiochak was impressive at both blocking and running.

At Wake Forest passing and punting were stressed in two workouts.

Ezzard Says His Confidence High

By ED CORRIGAN

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP)—Just to get it over with fast, yes, Ezzard Charles will remember the pasting he took from Rocky Marciano in their last heavyweight championship fight.

So does his manager, Tom Tannas.

Therefore the reasoning is that the memory of the last battle will have a bad psychological effect on Ezzard, who climbs into the Yankee Stadium ring against Marciano in just six days.

"Only the match will disclose that," said Charles today as he resumed heavy drills that will keep him busy until Monday. "I feel the same as I did before our last meeting. I might say even better."

I know what to expect and will have a better offense and defense. I know, and I think that I proved that Rocky is no superman. If it weren't for that wild crippling blow to the Adam's apple in the ninth, I'm certain my performance would have been even better."

For Charles, that's a long speech. But he did appear confident.

Unless he is throwing up a smokescreen, Charles will trade punches with Marciano. That's just what the Rock and his manager, Al Weill, want, so they say, so someone is making a mistake.

Tannas frowned when the psychological effect of Marciano's mauling was mentioned.

"No one ever seems to consider that Marciano received more punishment in that fight than he did in any other tough match," Tannas said. "Ezzard always has recovered quickly after every contest and never has shown any ill effects. Only the next fight will reveal who suffered the most from their first match."

Tannas even thinks Charles has a chance to knock out the Rock.

One Out, But Farmville Ready To Go

These eleven footballers are expected to be the starters, with the exception of quarterback Mac Holmes who last night broke his collarbone, when Farmville High takes the field in Farmville Friday night at 8 p.m. for the season's opener against Tarboro High. Members of the starting team shown here are Tull Taylor, L.E.; Aaron Eastwood, L.T.; Mark Owens, L.G.; Cliff Williams, C.; Wilbur Rollins, R.G.; Fred Thorne, R.T.; Jack Sawyer, R.E. Mack Holmes, Q.B.; Billy Baker, L.H.; Curtis Worthington, R.H. and Carroll Wooten, F.B. Sonny Maul will get the call at quarterback in place of Holmes. Farmville runs from the T-formation. Farmville, Tarboro Play Friday Night

FARMVILLE — Farmville High Red Devils open the 1954 football season tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in Farmville against Tarboro High School.

First string quarterback Mack Holmes broke his collarbone last night and will be out of action for several weeks. This came as a severe blow to Farmville's chances in the opening game, but Coach Charlie Tucker reported the rest of the team in "pretty good shape."

Sonny Maul, a freshman signal caller, will probably get the starting assignment in the place of Holmes, a junior. Holmes had been playing football at Farmville High for two years, but this would have been the first year as a first stringer.

Coach Tucker expects some good work tomorrow night from halfbacks Billy Baker and Curtis Worthington. Carroll Wooten will start at fullback.

Tarboro is a newcomer to the Farmville schedule so there is no comparison on a last year's game.

Both high school bands will be on hand tomorrow night for the season's opening game which will be played in the ball park at Farmville. The game is slated for broadcast over the Tarboro radio station.

Milwaukee 'Is Hot' For Brooklyn Series

By JOE BRADIS

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Jolly Cholly Grimm's Milwaukee Braves won 10 of 11 straight games and only four behind the league-leading New York Giants—open a two-game series with Brooklyn tomorrow and by the time it's over not a tree may be standing in Flatbush.

"We're hot," chortled Grimm after the Braves' 5-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday. "Very hot. If we can get by the Dodgers—and we're playing them one by one—maybe we can squeeze by the New York Giants. But it's a big order."

"Everything depends on the Giants. If they fold and we win—well, it will be a big story. But let me remind you—we're playing them one by one. Yes, I mean one by one."

"The Pirates weren't any pushovers. They had us 2-1 in the first inning. I wasn't worried. Never worry until the last out. But you might say, 'Charley was a little perturbed.'"

The victory not only was the Braves' 10th in a row but was the third time this season they've accomplished the feat. It also was Warren Spahn's 19th victory of the season and the 11th in a row.

PITCHING — Warren Spahn, Milwaukee Braves, posted his 11th straight victory and 19th of the season as the Braves moved to within four games of the National League lead with a 5-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

BATTING—Tommy Byrne, New York Yankees, tripled and scored the first Yankee run, then doubled with the bases loaded to drive in three runs as he gave up seven hits in his return to the majors with an 8-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Prior to his taking a quick chance on Byrne last night, Stengel was saying that the Yankees need better pitching both to stay in the pennant race and win 100 games this season.

"If we get the pitching we'll win the 100," he said.

The Yankees need only six more victories in 16 games to reach the century mark for the first time under Stengel.

for the left-hander. There's not a National League pitcher who can boast that feat.

Spahn, a five-time 20-game winner in the circuit, looked like a sandlotter in the first inning. The Pirates clubbed him for four hits and two runs.

Spahn, who has 10 defeats, gave up only three hits in the last eight innings. But he showed all the credit for his victory on third sacker Eddie Mathews, who hit his 36th home run with one aboard in the third. The blast landed in the fifth row of the right tier seat.

Plan More Aid For Farm Clubs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Farm directors of all 16 major league baseball clubs yesterday discussed improved financial aid for the minors. They met with Minor League President George M. Trautman.

Lee McPhail of the New York Yankees said, "We feel the entire lower structure of baseball needs bolstering. For baseball just can't get along without the Class B, C and D loops. There have been ideas that industrial and other leagues might take their place as 'feeders' for the majors, but that time hasn't arrived yet."

McPhail is chairman of a subcommittee named at the recent All-Star game to submit recommendations. He said some sort of legislation to help the minors would be ready for the December minor league sessions at Houston, Tex.

Chicod Opens Season Friday Morning

Coach Alton Burke said the game, originally scheduled for 2 p.m. Friday, had been moved up to the morning due to the extreme heat.

The Hornets, who won four and lost five games last year, will have as freshman center James Ed Mills, sophomore halfbacks Carlton Gray and Jimmy Mills. Sophomore quarterback Alton "Pee Wee" Mills will direct the play for the Hornets.

A. C. Evans, who plays offensive and defensive safety, is expected to see plenty of action in Friday's game. Other players who are expected to see action are Jimmy Di-con, Harold Smith, Gene Haddock, J. C. Mills, Jimmy Fornes and Walter Haddock.

With stars J. T. Mills, Curley Mills, Charlie McGowan, Jessie Mills and Bobby Fornes from last year's squad gone Coach Burke has a rebuilding job to do.

The coach expressed his pleasure with the enthusiasm of the players. He said, "We have averaged 16 boys for each practice and although our boys are young and inexperienced they have excellent spirit." This is Coach Burke's second year at Chicod.

Chicod has six more games after the Chocowinity contest. They are September 17 at Rock Ridge, September 24 Elm City at Chicod, October 1 at Stantonsburg at Chicod, October 8 at Bath, October 15 at Whitakers and October 22 at Belhaven.

er over Wilson by 6-0.

Hustling center and defensive captain, Pat Sawyer, may have to sit the Jacksonville game out. Sawyer had a recurrence of an old shoulder injury in practice Monday and may have to miss the game. He will be joined by Harold Edwards, who will definitely miss the game. Edwards may dress with the team but certainly will not play.

Other than those two the Green Phantoms appear to be in top-notch condition.

The Greenies will run up against a single wing team in Jacksonville. Last season the Greenies did not have much trouble solving that type of offense and should not this year. Jacksonville lost many of its leading players last season but are supposed to have a better team than last year.

In yesterday's workout Coach Kittrell had the linemen hitting the sled for a long period of time. Assistant Coach Marshall Tatum worked on the backs as they ran through the plays. The backfield worked in two units with Bob Howell quarterbacking one group and Jerry Drum directing the other. In Howell's group were Larry Powell at fullback, and James Speight and Mitchell Johnson at halfbacks.

In the possibility that Sawyer cannot play in the game, Coach Kittrell probably will go with Wade Jordan at the center slot. Jordan has been impressive of late and probably will get the nod.

Richards Signs Chisox Contract

CHICAGO (AP)—Chuck Comiskey, Chicago White Sox vice president, says contract negotiations with Paul Richards have ended and the manager has been tendered a new pact "at a slight increase" in salary and "for more than a year."

Richards' current two-year contract, reportedly at from $30,000 to $40,000 annually and a bonus based on attendance, expires at the end of the year. He receives "a nickel a head" on every paying customer in excess of one million.

Andrews, 24, of Buffalo, N.Y., was impressive last night against little-known Hughes.

Hughes, a Warren Ohio, product who has scored 19 knockouts in 37 bouts gave Andrews trouble in a savage first round of the nationally televised 10-round.

But Andrews in the second round caught Hughes as he was ducking in close with "whistling right. Hughes sagged to his knees, then to his haunches and finally stretched out on his side.

Andrews outweighed Hughes 180 to 176. It was his 29th victory—15th by a kno — in 32 bouts.

Farmville-Falkland Game To Be Played In Falkland

Representatives of the Farmville Baseball Club, of the Tobacco Belt League, failed to show for a meeting last night to decide where a fifth and final semi-final round baseball game would be played.

The meeting, called by League President Brownie Tripp at the request of the Farmville manager after a fourth game Sunday afternoon, was held in Greenville last night, but representatives of Farmville failed to arrive, it was reported today.

Tripp ruled the fifth and final game would be played in Falkland Saturday afternoon. Should Farmville fail to appear that game the semi-final round winner will automatically become Falkland.

The winner of Saturday's contest is then slated to meet Williamson in the finals beginning on Sunday.

It was learned also this morning Williamson may not want to play a final series since several of the players have departed for college. Regular season play saw Williamson win the pennant with a 25-7 won-lost record. Falkland came in second with 25 wins and eight losses. Robertsonville held the third slot with 24 wins and nine losses while Farmville was the fourth place team with 19 wins and 13 losses.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, Real Estate Editor

FLEXIBLE PLASTIC pipe, with sprinkler heads spaced for even coverage, is easy to lay under sod.

Ever get tired of sprinkling your lawn and wish you had one of those golf course sprinkler systems fed from underground pipes? Well, it's simpler and cheaper to install a yard full of such fountains than we ever imagined. You can do it with flexible plastic pipes laid just under the sod and even in northern climates you have no worry about freezing.

Hardware stores and garden supply houses are beginning to display kits of plastic piping 65 feet long with six sprinkler heads and all needed couplings and stainless steel clamps for connections. The setup is supposed to be adequate for an area of 1,000 to 1,750 square feet, depending on local pressure, and the complete price is just under $60.

Dig up your sod about four inches deep, lay the sprinkler system and put the sod down again. That's about all there is to it. The reason you don't have to worry about freezing is that plastic pipe has a greater expansion than ice. Of course, the sprinkler heads are metal and could burst if frozen. So there's a drain unit in the kit. But complete drainage is not so important as it would be with metal piping.

Four inches is enough for depth, heads at ground level where they will not interfere with lawn mowing. A screw driver and a spade are all you need to work with. The plastic pipe, developed by the Republic Steel Corp., is used by various manufacturers for lawn sprinkling systems as well as other purposes. The material is so light that a man can easily carry 400 feet of the stuff.

So many people, other than movie stars, are interested in backyard swimming pools and our mail has been heavy since we mentioned this subject. One letter you'll want to read over our shoulder is from Harrison Todd, the veteran water-proofer of Sacramento, Calif. He says the 20 by 40-foot pool we described would hold 154 tons of water. "If the structure is not strong enough," says Mr. Todd, "there will be breaks and leaks that cannot be waterproofed. When I am called to waterproof a swimming pool, I run."

"I have found that the expansion joints mentioned by the Portland Cement Assn. are not necessary. In winter there is little expansion and when the pool is full of water there is practically no expansion or contraction."

"A new method of building pools does away with the use of forms and form lumber. The walls and floor are smoothly dug. The steel reinforcement is placed and then a gunite process is used, spraying the concrete in place. Only sand and water are used in the mix, but the gunite process puts it in place with such pressure that the concrete is of equal or greater strength than if the rock is added as an aggregate."

A new product that came to our attention this week is a self-adhering rubber tile, which needs no messy adhesive. It works like an emergency bandage. You peel off a protective under covering, put the tile in place over practically any type of subfloor the smoother the better for long wear) and there it sticks. The only preparation called for is to swab the floor with a solvent, such as mineral spirits or carbon tetrachloride, which reactivates the adhesive gum on the back of the tile.

Dispute Right To Free Prisoners

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Mayor Ben West emptied the city workhouse late yesterday by turning 30 prisoners loose and transferring six others to the county workhouse, on the heels of a court order to close the jail and workhouse.

City Workhouse Supt. E. F. Benderman quoted West as saying he took the unprecedented action in an effort to comply with a Chancery Court ruling yesterday which enjoined the city from operating the jail and workhouse until the building is made habitable.

Among the 30 prisoners released was Andrew T. Stone, 21-year-old Negro, convicted recently on 32 counts of threatening to kidnap, rape and murder a young Nashville white woman.

City Judge Andrew J. Doyle immediately questioned the mayor's authority to free the prisoners.

"Unless the mayor orders the police chief to rearrest these prisoners immediately," Doyle said, "he will be responsible for any tragedy that can and might result from his precipitate action."

Doyle, who had sentenced the prisoners added that "I was never consulted. . . . It is the city administration's duty to house the prisoners; it is not within the mayor's power to turn them into the streets."

Special Chancellor E. J. Walsh, acting at the request of the Davidson County Board of Health, had granted a temporary injunction forbidding the city from keeping prisoners in the jail and workhouse "until and unless" corrective measures are instituted to improve sanitary conditions. City Council voted a $100,000 bond issue Tuesday to repair the jail. Benderman said repairs should be finished within six weeks.

Loved America, And Proved It

NEW YORK (AP) — German-born Julius Lehmann loved America, and he proved it in his last will and testament.

He came to this country 50 years ago, and became a prosperous importer. In 1951 his wife died. Last June 20, he died at the age of 92.

In his will, probated yesterday, he left all but $1,000 of his $70,000 estate "to the government of the United States of America to which my wife and I are so much indebted for the blessings we have enjoyed as citizens of this country."

In the 1840s U.S. railroads employed water boys to distribute ice water in passenger cars.

New Gadgets Aid Home Seamstress

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

The home seamstress is going in for optical illusions. Although the secret of a good suit lies in perfect fit and careful stitching, today's women have the advantage of new techniques made possible by the new automatic swing-needle sewing machines which do decorative stitching by the simple turn of a dial. This stitching can be used to accent a curve, slim a hipline or narrow a waistline.

The first step in making your new fall suit is to select the right pattern. If you are of average proportions, you will want one that accents slim lines and suggests a small waist, whether you have one or not.

The basic good lines of the pattern may be accentuated by decorative stitching. Local sewing center experts suggest a line of arrow-head stitching curving around the breast pockets, indented at the waist, and following the curve of the hipline, to give a custom-made look to the suit. This contrasting stitch treatment creates an optical illusion which makes the wearer look slimmer and taller, and which can be done by even an amateur seamstress.

Some women have hesitated to try to make a fall-red suit even if they are experienced at simpler sewing. But with the help of modern pattern directions and the new automatic sewing machines, they will find that a suit is almost as easy as a cotton dress. It requires a little more care and attention to detail, but any woman can make her own suit, at a fraction of the price of the ready-made article. In addition, if she is careful about fit and finishing details, her home-made suit probably will fit better and look smarter than anything she could buy in a store at anywhere near a budget price.

The woman who sews her own can afford finer fabrics better accessories, and individual fit.

Father, Son Kill Charging Buffalo

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — A thunder of hoofbeats, the angry barking of rifles and the charging buffalo bit the dust just feet away from his two intended victims.

A Western airie a century ago? No a woods near here yesterday, with farmer Russell Kiko and his 13-year-old son Dan killing the 1,200-pound bison with .22-caliber rifles.

The buffalo was one of four which belong on Tony Diano's animal farm and have been breaking out and roaming hereabouts neighbors too often to suit Diano's neighbors.

As Kiko and Dan tell it, they had chased the four bison — three bulls and a cow — into a woods on their farm yesterday. With them was a neighbor, Robert Yohe.

One bull turned around and pounded toward them, head lowered for action. Yohe, unarmed, zoomed up a high-tension electric pole power derrick. Kiko and Dan pumped their .22s as fast as they could, with a score of bullets finding their mark before the buffalo was felled.

Ava's Outburst In Rio Hotel Is Laid To Nerves

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Ava Gardner, on a South American good will tour, recuperated from what her press agent called a "nervous crisis" today in the Copacabana Palace, her second hotel in three days in Rio de Janeiro.

The management of the swank Gloria Hotel asked the dark-haired Hollywood star to leave yesterday, charging she threw things and shouted in her room.

Miss Gardner's press secretary, David Hanna, denied the charges of boisterousness. His story: She suffered an attack of nerves after 700 unruly fans mobbed her when she arrived at the airport Tuesday.

The Gloria's management said the property damage was slight.

Miss Gardner, touring South America to publicize her new picture "The Barefoot Contessa," canceled a news conference and cocktail party after the incidents.

There was talk she might also curtail her stay in Brazil.

Believe Dynamite Gang Broken Up

State officials today charged a truck firm owner with conspiring to dynamite the homes of Silman Evans, publisher of the Nashville Tennessean, and former Mayor Thomas L. Cummings.

Dist. Atty. J. Carlton Loser said 62-year-old Jesse Wilson had previously been charged with dynamiting, arson and grand larceny.

Wilson, president of Tennessee Motor Lines, was held in jail in lieu of $60,000 bond.

Two other persons were arrested on similar charges, Loser said. He identified them as:

Mrs. Pauline Foster Kelley, about 35, secretary and bookkeeper in the Wilson firm.

Roy Herrod, 49, of Atlanta Ga., who was arrested in Atlanta Saturday and brought here after waiving extradition.

"These arrests . . . bring to an end a gang of dynamiters, headed by a businessman, that has terrorized this community for the past several years," Loser said. "These operations were carried on in such a way as to leave the impression that the depredations were being conducted by members of organized labor or their sympathizers," he added.

Loser said Herrod, in a sworn statement, told officers that Wilson promised to pay him $200 or $300 to dynamite the two homes. A dynamite bomb was exploded in the yard of the Cummings home last March 18, but the Evans' home was bombed.

Loser said Mrs. Kelley whom he described as an "accessory before the fact" was freed in $2,500 bond. Herrod's bond was fixed at $5,000. He remained jailed tonight.

Loser said Cummings represented two union truck drivers in a law suit against Wilson and that Wilson had expressed antagonism towards Evans because of stories about the truck firm executive which appeared in the Tennessean.

Tried Exchange Jail Cell For Life In Russia

JESSUP, Md. (AP) — A young prisoner who wants to trade the iron bars of Maryland's House of Correction here for the Iron Curtain of Russia was advised today he would have to stay in jail.

The desperate offer was made by Lawrence Banton who has served half of a one-year sentence for attempted robbery.

He read a newspaper article on a proposed amendment being studied by the last Congress which provided, in effect, foreign aid funds to pay for one-way tickets to Russia for citizens of the United States who want to go to Russia and stay there permanently.

However, by the time Banton's inquiry reached its destination, the amendment had been killed in a congressional conference.

Warden William F. Syeiner said Banton an Army veteran, was trying to get to Russia for a chance to "start life over." He said the young inmate was prompted by despair over his jail sentence and tangled family affairs.

Here are two of the most important silhouettes from the controversial Paris fall collection of Christian Dior, who created a furore among buyers and press when he introduced the flattened bustline as his "new look." At left is a dinner ensemble in black nylon velvet, consisting of skin-tight sheath dress and flared tunic; right, evening costume in yellow matte velvet of nylon, cotton and silk blend, with full-skirted gown drawn tight across the bosom, and matching loose jacket banded in wild mink. The new bustline is achieved by means of a foundation with half cups, which raises and minimizes the bosom.

Let Teenagers Earn Their Own Money

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

When you get into their teens their need for money becomes acute. The allowance is often not enough to take care of their numerous needs.

It's not a bad idea to let a child work for some of the extra money he wants. This will help him understand that cash doesn't grow on bushes nor does it just appear in dad's pocket or mother's purse.

But paid jobs at home need to be carefully handled. They must be real work—not just something manufactured to give the child the feeling of working. You can't fool a child. He knows whether what he's doing is worthwhile or not.

If you can manage, the job you give your teenager should be something that you would hire someone on the outside to do. "If you want to do it, I'll give you the money instead of paying So-and-So to do it."

In these days of apartment living it isn't always easy to find real jobs. If you live in the suburbs or in the country there's seldom a lack of jobs. The cellar needs cleaning, the garbage pails could be cleaned and painted with aluminum paint, the garage needs reorganizing. These need work.

When there are younger children in the family, baby sitting may be a real job.

Pay a reasonable rate either by the hour or by the job. Offer a little help, or a little know-how if necessary, but in general don't supervise too much, and don't pitch in and let the child watch you do it and then collect his wages.

A job that's paid for should not be something the child should do anyway. Child should grow up with a sense of bringing to the family an' of doing certain things at the home, simply because they are members of the family.

Don't pay child for making his bed, keeping his room in order or helping with the dishes. These are routine things of every day life that everyone must do to make family living run smoothly.

If you begin paying for the things any members of a group should contribute willingly without compensation, you soon find that the child has little consideration for others.

Not long ago I was having tea with a friend out in her garden. The sun went under and it became chilly. My friend asked her son to go in and get her a jacket. The boy said he'd do it for a nickel.

Don't pay for the courtesies of life. And don't pay for getting good grades at school or brushing teeth or taking a bath. You can buy work but you cannot buy good will and consideration and personal integrity.

Delivered More War Dead Today

PANMUNJOM — The Communists delivered the bodies of 241 American and 9 British war dead today in the ninth day of the exchange of soldiers killed and buried in enemy territory.

The delivery brought the total to 1,850 bodies handed over to the Allies, including 1,522 Americans, 51 British, 69 Koreans, 19 Australians and 189 of unknown nationality.

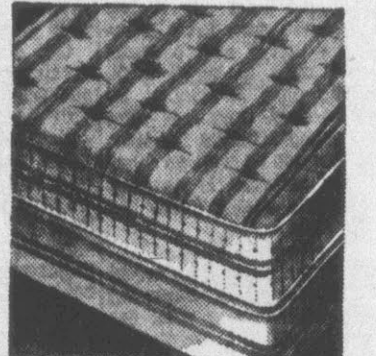

Yesterday the first shipload of 300 Allied war dead remains sailed from Pusan for Kokura, Japan, where experts will try to positively identify the bodies.

The United Nations turned over 600 Red bodies to raise that total to 4,800.

THE SWEET TEMPERED SWAY

believes that black is white—if you insist on it

The SWAY is a retailer who believes everybody and everything.

If his employees take off for grandmothers' funerals on the day of an important ball game—he believes them.

And after listening to sales talk, he believes one brand is as good as another—and doesn't care what kind of advertising he gets, because they all seem equally strong.

Fortunately the SWAY is a rare creature. Most retailers know that customers do have strong brand preferences, but that preferences quickly can change.

They are quick to take advantage of a manufacturer's newspaper advertising—and include the brand in their own newspaper ads.

Since the retailer himself advertises in newspapers, he knows that the manufacturer who does the same is sincerely going after the market.

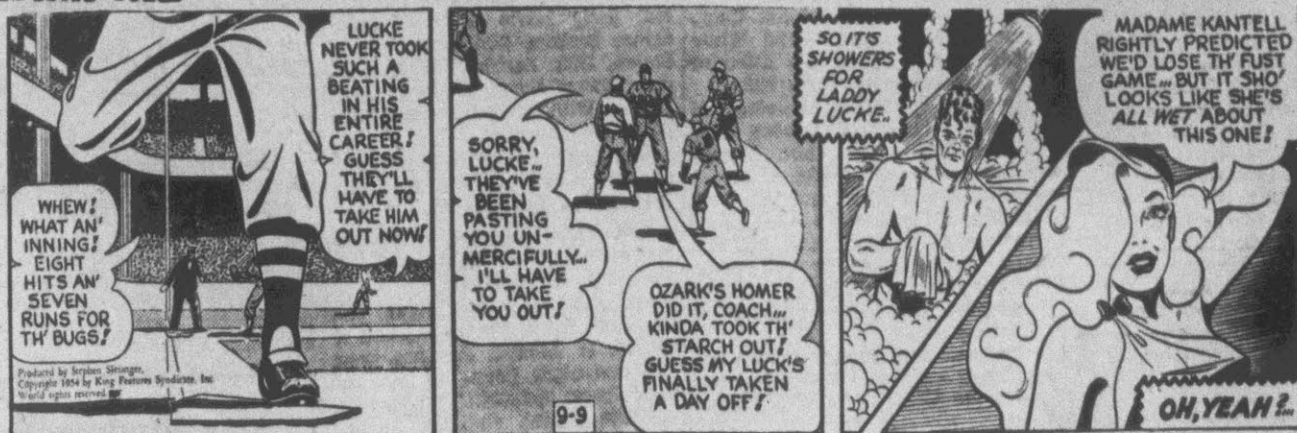

All business is local... and so are all newspapers!

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market turned mixed in early afternoon but after a moderate rally in the morning.

Volume was unusually light. Only 290,000 shares changed hands in the first hour against an average of about 450,000 in recent sessions.

Selected oils, steels, rails and chemicals were among the better performers. Pacific Western Oil was a feature, ahead two points. Lion Oil also was strong with a gain of nearly a point.

Gains of better than a point were recorded at one time by Consolidated Natural Gas, American Optical, Crucible Steel and Seaboard Airline Railroad, but most other price changes were extremely narrow.

Stocks on the offside included Chrysler, Boeing, Douglas, Radio Corp. DuPont and Katy preferred. Slightly higher were Republic Steel American Smelting Southern Pacific and International Paper.

Two Accidents On Pitt Roads

Highway patrolmen reported two traffic accidents on Pitt County highways last night.

At 8 o'clock last night cars driven by Keith Dwight Alphin of Kingston Route 4 and Stonewall Jackson Gilson collided on NC 11 about one-half mile south of Greenville.

Alphin came up behind a car and tobacco-loaded trailer driven by J. T. Bedard of Ayden Route 3. He said he did not see any lights on the trailer and pulled to the left to avoid it.

Alphin's car apparently went into a skid sideways down the left side of the road in front of the car driven by Gilson.

Investigating Patrolman James W. Boykin charged Alphin with careless and reckless driving and Bedard with improper lights. Bedard's vehicle was not hit.

At 11:40 last night cars operated by James Earl Freeman, Negro, of Farmville Route 2 and Johnny Washington Speight of Greenville Route 3 crashed on US 264 about six miles west of Farmville. Speight's car received $200 damage while Freeman's vehicle received $150 damage.

Patrolman Boykin, who investigated, said today his investigation is incomplete.

Prison Death...

J. L. Boyd, an agent for the State Bureau of Investigation, said he and another agent who worked on the case had "personally assumed the position described by prisoner Mabel Wright and endeavored to observe the cell of the victim but were unable to do so."

A prison guard, Ashley Horne, said it took eight to 10 minutes to put the gag on the Rush girl. He added that the "guards didn't get angry a bit in the world."

He said she got the first gag loose. In attempting to re-ile it, the radio answer went something like this:

"Dog apparently has foreign object in ear. Administer aspirin to keep puppy quiet until reach shore."
