Wreck Victim Apparently Fleeing Earlier Accident Pitt Adds To Traffic Toll

One person was killed in the wreck of his car last night when it overturned in a ditch on a rural dirt road near Bethel. The accident occurred about 7:05. Dead was Raymond Mills Campbell of Scotland Neck. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Pitt County chalked up another traffic fatality for the year last night when a man was killed on a rural dirt road, apparently after leaving the scene of an accident at a high rate of speed. Killed was Raymond Mills Campbell, 421 South Main Street, Scotland Neck. Pitt County Coroner Griffin H. Rouse ruled that he died of a "crushed skull" received in the accident. The coroner's ruling read: "The deceased came to his death as a result of crushed skull sustained when the automobile he was driving overturned in a ditch." The coroner indicated no inquest would be held. Investigating Patrolman D. E. Perry stated that the fatal accident took place after the car Campbell was driving apparently sidwiped a vehicle operated by William Henry Black, Negro, of 821 West Main Street, Williamston, which had stopped to make a right turn on a dirt road near Bethel. Black told the patrolman that Campbell stopped after the accident and agreed to wait until an officer arrived to investigate the accident. Black said that Campbell suddenly got in his car and left the scene of the accident at a high rate of speed. Perry stated that Campbell went about 2 of a mile from the spot that Black pointed out as being the scene of the wreck and went into a ditch on the left side of the road. The 1954 model vehicle overturned in front of the S. N. James potato house.

The victim died of injuries enroute to a Tarboro hospital. Perry said that damage to Black's car amounted to approximately $50. Campbell's vehicle was badly damaged. It was the third definite traffic fatality listed for Pitt County so far this year. At this time last year 10 deaths on the highways had been recorded by the highway patrol for Pitt County. One of the deaths this year occurred near Farmville while the second took place on the Stantonburg Road. In addition, a woman was killed in a leap from an auto on the Bethel Highway, but her death was ruled suicide by the coroner. It is not definitely known whether her death will be counted as a traffic fatality.

New England Area Suffers Extensive Loss From Storm

PORTLAND, Me. (AP)—Washed-out highways, railroad tracks and crops lay like a jagged wound today across territory raked by death-dealing hurricane Edna from Massachusetts to Nova Scotia. The cost in lives mounted to 19—13 of them in New England and eight in Maine alone, where autos were trapped in road and bridge washouts by streams that went wild under a record eight inches of rain. Maine Gov. Burton M. Cross after an air survey set loss there at more than seven million dollars—on top of 10 million wrought 12 days before by hurricane Carol. Cross asked President Eisenhower to declare Maine a major disaster area. Two-thirds of Nova Scotia's four million dollar apple crop was counted lost. All of Maine's dead were drowning victims. Four persons perished in Massachusetts, one in Connecticut, another in Nova Scotia. Six highway fatalities in New York State were attributed to the hurricane. Southern New England, braced for devastation reminiscent of the 1938 hurricane, was spared heavy property damage and even in the areas hardest hit water, not wind, was blamed for much of the destruction. Telephone lines went out of service on a scale that once again saw repair crews head from southern New England into Maine, where their task was complicated by road washouts that caused a temporary ban on travel by all but emergency vehicles. Late last night state police said the main routes again were open. Hundreds of New Englanders left their coastal lowland homes, returning to find waters still in evidence, although subsiding. At Augusta, the Kennebec River rose 20.5 feet from normal—five feet higher than its peak during last spring's runoff. Two of Maine's hurricane victims perished in a daring seven-hour effort to rescue a family of 10 from the top of an automobile engulfed by little Sandy Stream at Unity. Asst. Fire Chief Alton McCormick, 47, and Ruth Brockway, 8, one of the passengers, were swept downstream when floating debris broke a human chain to shore. Meanwhile, hurricane Florence, sixth tropical storm of the year, broke up as it moved inland on the Mexican coast yesterday.

Peiping To Free 2 U. S. Captives

HONG KONG (AP)—A United States Consulate official said today three Americans, ordered deported from Red China after more than a year in Communist captivity, would not arrive here today. The three are Richard Applegate, 37, of Medford, Ore., a National Broadcasting Co. correspondent; Donald Dixon, 25, New York International News Service correspondent and Benjamin Krasner, 30, a sea captain, of Brooklyn. The U.S. official telephoned from the Hong Kong-Red China border that there was no indication when the trio would arrive. He did not elaborate but said the border watch was suspended until tomorrow. Peiping Radio said yesterday the trio were ordered deported from Kwangtung Province. Hong Kong borders Kwangtung. Peiping Radio also said Hugh Francis Redmond, former New York business man, had been convicted of espionage in Shanghai and sentenced to life in prison. Peiping said the Applegate trio was picked up by a Red coastal defence unit March 21, 1953, aboard Applegate's yacht, Kert, after it "intruded into China's territorial waters of Kwangtung." The trio had planned to sail to Macao, Portuguese colony on the mainland, to pick up David Cicero, INS Newsphoto Service photographer and return him to Hong Kong. Peiping Radio said the Chinese Ministry of Public Security recently ordered the three deported and instructed local authorities in Kwangtung Province to carry out the order. There was no indication of when or where they would be released. The broadcast said Applegate's yacht had been confiscated. Consulate officials and police stood by at all Hong Kong border stations yesterday but there was no sign of the three. Applegate a World War II veteran was NBC's Hong Kong correspondent. At Medford, Applegate's mother declared "this is the happiest day of our lives. God is so good." His father Frank, is a retired contractor. Claim American 'Guilty' As Spy TOKYO (AP)—Hugh Francis Redmond, a former New York business man, has been sentenced in Shanghai to life imprisonment as a spy by the Chinese Reds. Peiping Radio announced yesterday. The broadcast, heard here, said Redmond and five other men and two women sentenced with him entered the U.S. espionage service before the defeat of the Chinese Nationalists by the Reds four years ago. Two of the seven others, all of whom have Chinese names, were sentenced to death. Redmond, arrested April 26, 1951, at Shanghai, is believed to have helped several Chinese businessmen get out of Shanghai. At Yonkers, N.Y., his mother, Mrs. Ruth Redmond, said he went to China for the Hennings Bros. import-export firm of New York. She was "terribly shocked by the news." The Peiping broadcast said evidence against Redmond included five radio sets and 16 secret code books.

Old Belt Opens

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Old Belt, fine-cured tobacco markets held their opening auctions of the season today with average prices during the first hour of sales on several markets ranging from $51 to $53 per hundred pounds. The North Carolina, Virginia and U. S. Departments of Agriculture reported that although sales were held to 50 per cent of normal capacity that all buying companies were not represented on the opening sales. The report said the bulk of the leaf brought from $25 to $67 and the extreme range was from $2 for poorest thin nondescript to $76 for choice legion lugs. The practical top price was $68. Condition of the leaf was good and quality was described as "much better" than on last year's opening. There were more fair to fine lugs and good primings and less nondescript. Volume of offerings was heavy.

Three Arrested In ABC Roundup

ABC officers arrested three persons during the weekend and charged them with illegal possession of non-tax-paid liquor. Arrested were Noah Clark Jr. and his wife, Sarah Clark, of the Stokes-town section. They were released under $200 bond. Officers also arrested Lela Brown, Negro, of 1112-B Clark Street, and charged her with illegal possession of the bootleg liquor. Participating in the arrest were ABC officers and members of the sheriff's department.

Testifies He Told Only The Truth To McCarthy Gen. Zwicker Heard

WASHINGTON (AP)—Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker swore today he told only the truth when he testified before Sen. McCarthy last Feb. 18. McCarthy testified last week that the decorated general at least "misstated the facts." This and other conflicting testimony went into the record as the special Senate committee considering censure charges against McCarthy moved through what may be the last day of its hearings. One of the charges against McCarthy is that he abused Zwicker at the Feb. 18 hearing when McCarthy questioned Zwicker about an honorable discharge given Maj. Irving Peress. McCarthy has called Peress a "Fifth Amendment Communist." In quick succession, the tall, erect general told the special censure committee: 1. He has searched his memory carefully and has no recollection of muttering at the February hearing in New York that McCarthy was an "S.O.B." William J. Harding of New York City testified last week he heard Zwicker make that comment. 2. He had no intention of being evasive, arrogant or irritating when McCarthy questioned him behind closed doors about the Peress case. The senator, his own star defense witness last week, told the censure committee only last Friday that he considered Zwicker "one of the most evasive, arrogant and irritating witnesses" he had ever seen. 3. He was acting under explicit orders from higher-ups—not only in handling the Peress discharge, but in declining to answer some of McCarthy's questions about the case. 4. He did not recall that he had ever discussed McCarthy with Maj. Gen. Kirke B. Lawton, former commander of Ft. Monmouth, N.J. Lawton testified Saturday he had the impression from conversations with Zwicker that Zwicker was "antagonistic" to the Wisconsin senator. 5. The case of Peress first came to his attention in August, 1953, and he was the one who gave Peress's name to the McCarthy investigations subcommittee in January, 1954. Peress, a dentist, was discharged in February from Camp Kilmer, N.J., which Zwicker commanded. The letter ordering his discharge was dated Jan. 18. McCarthy started his hearings Feb. 18. As for Zwicker's truthfulness, Guy G. De Furia, assistant counsel for the special censure committee, asked Zwicker if he gave any untruthful testimony at the Feb. 18 hearing. "Not knowingly," was the first reply. Then the general added, "I did not." De Furia read into the hearing record a Feb. 16 letter from Secretary of the Army Stevens to McCarthy in reply to a Feb. 1 inquiry about the Peress case. Stevens was in the Far East when the McCarthy inquiry was made. McCarthy testified last week he could not recall whether he got the Stevens letter before the Feb. 18 quizzing of Zwicker. But he said he would have had time to read it. Zwicker testified today he saw John Adams, Army counsel, give a copy of the letter to McCarthy before the Feb. 18 hearing. The general said McCarthy looked at it and commented, "I don't believe Bob Stevens wrote this letter." Edward B. Williams, McCarthy's counsel, objected that Adams should be called to testify on this. But Chairman Watkins (R-Utah) said he would permit Zwicker to go ahead if the general saw and heard the exchange. In the letter, Stevens explained at length the handling of the Peress case and conceded the Army had made mistakes—mistakes which he said were being corrected and would not be repeated.

Maine Going To Polls Today As 'Trend' Watched

PORTLAND, Maine (AP)—Hurricane-battered Maine ballots today in an election watched nationally for possible influences on the make-up of the next Congress. At stake, in Republican eyes, is continuation of 20 years' control of all top offices in Maine, and a chance to point the way to GOP victories in the 47 states voting in November. Democrats insist the issue isn't the election's effects elsewhere but "what's best for Maine." They've called for an end to "20 years of one-party government." Generally fair weather was forecast, but hurricane Edna, which raked the state's most populous areas Saturday, is expected to cut the total vote. In 1950, the last "off year," 240,127 ballots were cast. The polls must close by 7 p.m. EST, although vote-counting can start at 8 p.m., in communities with fewer than 300 people. A smaller vote may benefit Democrats whose most spirited campaign in 20 years has been concentrated against reelection of Republican Gov. Burton M. Cross. The Democratic candidate is National Committeeman Edmund S. Muskie. Also asking reelection are Republican Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, whose $5,000 victory margin six years ago is a record, and three GOP congressmen. Opposing Mrs. Smith, who never has been defeated for public office, is Paul A. Fullam, who never sought one before. Fullam teaches history at Colby College. Congressmen Robert Hale, Charles P. Nelson and Clifford G. McIntire are opposed, respectively, by James C. Oliver, Thomas E. Delahanty and Kenneth B. Colbath. Oliver, ex-GOP congressman from the First District, was defeated by Hale in 1942. Hale seeks a seventh consecutive term, Nelson a fourth and McIntire his second. Vice President Nixon, while vacationing in Maine, called the election "the first state-wide test of the Eisenhower administration's program." He called for "an even greater (GOP) majority than ever before."

California Queen Is Miss America

MISS AMERICA BJT 300 ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—A long-stemmed beauty from California, in the crown and robes of a queen, embarks today on a year-long whirlwind tour as the 1955 Miss America. Nineteen-year-old Lee Ann Meriwether of San Francisco, who wants to be an actress and says there's no special boy friend in her life right now, is modest about her figure. "But the pageant judges, who selected her from among 49 other charmers Saturday night, were more enthusiastic over Lee's measurements—what shape up this way: Bust 34½, waist 22 and hips 35. In her first interview with newsmen yesterday, Lee confided that she didn't think she'd give Marilyn Monroe much competition and that the new "flat" look by Dior "came just in time to save me." As for romance, Lee said "there's no one special" and that she only had "some very good friends." Across the world in Tokyo one of her "good friends," Army Pvt. John R. Riveroll of San Jose, Calif., beamed with excitement when he heard that Lee won the Miss America title. Riveroll said he was the "only guy she went steady with," that they weren't engaged, but that he was "working on it." Lee's mother, Mrs. Ethel Meriwether, said Riveroll was just "a very nice friend, but there's certainly no engagement." Lee, unburned and stately, wept freely as she donned the Miss America robe and crown before a national television audience and a Convention Hall crowd of 15,000 Saturday night. One of her first thoughts was of her late father, Gregg Meriwether, who died last July. In a tearful speech of thanks Lee glanced toward the high ceiling of the hall and said quietly: "Daddy, I hope you know and I hope you're proud."

Pro-American Chancellor Sees Foes Merging Anti-Adenauer Tide Rising

KIEL, Germany (AP)—A political ripple menace Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and his pro-American foreign policy today as his Socialist foes merged as the strongest party in a key state election. Although the coalition headed by Adenauer's Christian Democratic Union appeared sure of holding control of the government in the Soviet one frontier state of Schleswig-Holstein, the Socialists' 12,000 vote lead in yesterday's balloting was seen as a clearcut exposure of the old leader's suddenly dwindling popularity. The rural state—called the "poor house of the Bonn Republic"—rebuffed the 78-year-old Chancellor's plea for a vote of confidence in electing its new Lantag (State Parliament).

Campaigning for overtures to Russia to unify East and West Germany, the Socialists outscored the Christian Democrats in the same state that accorded the CDU a 2-1 margin over its arch rival last year when Adenauer was re-elected Chancellor. In today's final count, the CDU trailed the Socialists 384,870 to 395,798. The CDU's vote was cut almost in half from its 1953 peak of 637,570 in Schleswig-Holstein. The Socialists picked up 38,269 votes over last year's total of 357,798. Adenauer fought to save his international prestige with a speech in this state Friday in which he described NATO membership and unconditional German sovereignty as his new goals. But as he talked with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in Bonn yesterday on finding some way of rearming West Germany despite the French scuttling of the European Defense Community, the voters of this state showed their mounting discontent. The Socialists elected 20 Lantag candidates to the CDU's 19 in direct contests. But a complicated system allotting 40 per cent of the Parliament's 69 seats on a proportional basis gave the rival parties a final total of 25 seats each.

Dulles Says Formosa Safe; Home Front Goals Set

By MARVIN L. AAROWSMITH DENVER (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles—fresh from global strategic conferences with President Eisenhower at the National Security Council—says American military might will thwart any Chinese Communist assault against Nationalist Formosa. And FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover and Atty. Gen. Brownell say that so far as the Red threat on the home front is concerned, the administration's goal is to "utterly destroy the Communist party" in the United States. They reported a new drive toward that objective is well under way and that some Communists—spurred by a new law granting immunity from prosecution—have been going to the FBI to tell about the activities of fellow conspirators. Dulles, Hoover and Brownell made those statements at news conferences at the summer White House yesterday after conferring with the President. Then Eisenhower, Dulles, Vice President Nixon and other members of the National Security Council met for three hours in extraordinary session for top secret discussion of the Communist menace abroad—particularly in the Far East. Dulles hinted in advance of that meeting that the council might reach a decision as to precise U.S. policy on the question of whether American defense of the Nationalist island of Quemoy is essential to effective defense of Formosa. Dulles told newsmen that "in the first instance" that is a question for America's military chiefs to decide. He added that Eisenhower and the other non-military members of the Security Council would study the advice of the armed forces leaders, but would not necessarily follow it. Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is the military member of the coun-oil and he was on hand for yesterday's meeting—the first ever held outside Washington. But what he recommended with respect to Quemoy—and what the council decided—remained a deep secret when the members headed back to Washington by plane last night. The U.S. 7th Fleet is under long-standing orders to protect Formosa the island bastion of the Chinese Nationalists from any assault by the Chinese Reds. The big unanswered question has been—and still is—whether those orders also call for defense of Quemoy, which has been under shellfire attack from the Red mainland. Dulles, who flew here from the Far East yesterday, repeatedly declined to say categorically just what orders the 7th Fleet may have received, or will receive, in connection with Quemoy. "That obviously would not be in the national interest," the secre-

Bicycles Were Easy To Auction Off

City Lawyer Raleigh Lee is shown above as he auctioned off a number of bicycles picked up by the police department and unclaimed by their owners. The bikes were auctioned individually and then together. The bid for the entire group was higher than the combined individual bids and they were sold as a group to J. G. Gibbs for $75. that would require air and ground forces in addition to the 7th Fleet. He added that in his talks at Formosa last week with Chiang Kai-shek the Nationalist leader, "no commitments were sought" by Chiang "and none were given." Atty. Gen. Brownell and FBI Chief Hoover came to Denver to tell Eisenhower about their plans for use of the new anti-Communist legal weapons provided by the 83rd Congress. Brownell called them "powerful weapons," and added: "I would like to say that the aim of the administration in this area is to utterly destroy the Communist party U. S. A., and its activities within the United States." One of the new statutes outlaws the Communist party and provides for cracking down on Red infiltrated unions. Another grants immunity from prosecution, under certain conditions, to those who testify against others suspected of subversive activities.

Sallie Tucker Circle Meets
BETHEL—The regular monthly meeting of the Sallie Tucker Circle met on Friday night with Mrs. Roscoe Everett as hostess.

Mrs. R. C. Young called the meeting to order and presided. A short business meeting was then held which included the selling of Christmas cards and the M.Y.F. supper.

The devotion was then given by Mrs. John L. Watson which was taken from the "Methodist Woman." Her scripture was taken from Matthew and she closed with a short prayer.

Mrs. W. C. Latham was introduced by Mrs. J. H. Barnhill Jr., who was in charge of the program. Mrs. Latham had as her topic "God and Man in the City" by Kenneth Miller. Her discussion was very interesting which dealt with the spiritual life of the churches in the cities.

Mrs. Robert Weeks, status of women secretary, then gave a short reading from "Women in American Church Life." She brought out how the different denominations felt about women participating in the church affairs.

The circle benediction was then pronounced.

The hostess served ice cream, cookies and nuts to sixteen members and the visitor.

Greenville White Shrine Has First Meeting Of Fall

On Wednesday night members of the Greenville White Shrine gathered in the Fred Stokes dining room for a covered dish supper. Everyone was invited to come and enjoy the food consisting of ham, chicken, vegetables, various kinds of salads and home-made cake.

Mrs. Eva Corbett, Worthy High Priestess, asked Jesse W. Brown to give the invocation. George W. Smith, Watchman of Shepherds, gave the address of welcome. Several distinguished members were introduced and all the guests were recognized. Mrs. Corbett thanked chairman and co-chairman Mrs. Mildred Kennedy and Mrs. Ethel Allen and their committees for the wonderful meal, also for arranging the dining room. The tables were in formation of letter "E" and beautifully decorated with mixed garden flowers.

At eight o'clock the first regular meeting of the White Shrine for the fall was opened. The Shrine opened in ritualistic form and pledged allegiance to the U.S. flag. A short business meeting was held.

Safety Sermon Found In Wreck
OMAHA—A letter containing a brotherly sermon on safe driving was found in the wreckage following a head-on collision near Denison, Iowa, yesterday. Six persons died in the crash.

The letter was addressed to Wayne Alleman, 17, of Omaha, one of the victims, and owner of one of the automobiles involved in the crash.

It was written last March 28 by his brother, Gary D. Alleman, then an Army private at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. Wayne at the time was living in Des Moines.

The letter read in part: "Dear Wayne: 'How do you like your car by now? I'll bet it really is a rod the way you describe it. Could you send me a picture of it? 'I hope you are driving your car slow and carefully, because if you should happen to have an accident, you would not only be hurting yourself but the whole family... 'You have a lot of responsibility in your hands, Wayne, so be careful and think what you do before you do it. I've got to go now so I'll see you later, Wayne. 'Your brother, Gary'"

Dixon-White Marriage Vows Spoken In Afternoon Ceremony

Miss Adrienne White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan White, of Grimesland, and Mr. James Edward Dixon, of Grimesland, son of Mrs. Otis M. Dixon and the late Mr. Dixon, were united in marriage on Sunday at three o'clock in the afternoon in Grimesland Christian Church. The Rev. Henry Sullivan, the bride's pastor, officiated.

The church was beautifully decorated with bridal greenery consisting of dark green emerald huckleberry, coonite and plumosus greens. Standards of large white chrysanthemums were used in between seven branched candelabra holding cathedral candles. The candelabra were entwined with huckleberry and bows of white satin. At the altar was a decorated prie pie with white silk cushions. On either side was single candleholders tied with bouquets of white glads and huckleberry holding burning tapers. Pews were marked with colonial bouquets of white mums.

Mrs. Bill Taylor of Greenville rendered the wedding music. Mr. Tom Swain of Greenville sang "I Love You Truly," "With These Hands", and "The Lords Prayer."

The bride entered the church with her father, who gave her in marriage. She was gowned in an exquisite wedding gown made by her grandmother. A profusion of delicate tulle was inserted for the yoke. From a petal pointed bodice with satin covered buttons down the back was a full skirt that fell into gathered folds to a sweeping train. She wore a finger tip tiered veil of French illusion, which was fastened to a tiny cap. She wore a brooch given her by her grandmother. She carried a satin covered Bible with white orchids and showered with tuberoses.

Miss Jane White, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a full length dress of misty pink net over taffeta with a full skirt and a fitted bodice. Her flowers were a colonial bouquet of nylon tulle asters, roses and mums tied with contrasting ribbon. She wore a bandeau of nylon tulle in her hair. Misses Joy Lewis, Deloris Darling, Nancy Galloway, Mary Joe Fleming, Ruth Tucker of Grimesland and Annie Laura Taylor of Greenville were bridesmaids. They wore pastel shades, full length dresses of net over taffeta with full skirts and fitted bodice and carried colonial bouquets of asters, fuji mums and pompons tied with contrasting ribbon. They wore bandeaus of nylon tulle in their hair.

Mr. Randolph Tripp of Greenville served as best man. Ushers were Jay and Harold Barrington, Julius Edwards, Earl Tripp, Roger Mills, all of Grimesland, and Lester Edwards of Washington, N. C.

Mrs. White, mother of the bride, was becomingly attired in a mauve lace with matching cord and pearl embroidery with matching accessories. Mrs. Dixon, the groom's mother wore a pink crepe tuxedo dress with brown accessories. Both wore orchid corsages.

Mr. and Mrs. White, Mrs. Dixon, Bride and Groom, and the wedding party received in the back of the church after the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Dixon are graduates from Grimesland High School. At the present Mr. Dixon is engaged in farming.

After a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Dixon will be at home in Grimesland.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan White entertained the wedding party and guests after the rehearsal Saturday night at a cake cutting in the church. Mr. and Mrs. Ben Proctor directed the guests into the parlor. From a beautiful appointed table covered with imported lace cloth centered with an arrangement of white fuji mums and tuberoses, refreshments were served. At one end of the table was a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a bride and groom. Mrs. Mattie Proctor served the wedding cake after the bride had cut the first slice and served the groom. Fruit punch poured by Mrs. Otis Dixon was served from the opposite side of the table. Bridesmaids assisted in the serving of nuts and decorative mints. Mrs. Elizabeth Proctor presided at the registrar.

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

"You yourselves are the World Council of Churches — not looking in through a window as at something grand, yet rather remote, but part and parcel of its very life and of its fellowship." That was the message that Dr. Kathleen Bliss, British educator and church leader, gave to some 5,000 Protestant church women at a session of the World Council of Churches' assembly in Evanston, Ill. "If we were united, there would be no need for a World Council of Churches," she said. "It exists because we are divided and are troubled about our division." "It is a fellowship of understanding, where people in frank talk learn from each other and try to grow together, bearing the wounds which are the price of growth. It is a fellowship of service, where we can join in answering the cry of a troubled world, not for money only, but also for people — you and me and our children — to help it meet its need."

Twenty-five young women and one man completed training at National College for Christian Workers, Kansas City, Mo., on Sept. 5, for service as mission workers in institutions of the Woman's Division of Christian Service, Methodist Board of Missions, in the U.S.A. and its territories. The group which includes recent college graduates — mostly teachers, social workers, and nurses — will be special term missionaries serving church-related institutions for two years. The group includes: Evelyn Harden, Savannah, Ga.; Doris Neal, Memphis, Tenn.; Rowita Shaw, Columbus, Ohio; Marion Woodward, Memphis, Tenn.; Marianne Douds, Ridgway, Pa.; Esther Jones, Reidsville, Pa.; Jeanette Blakeley, Georgetown, S.C.; Constance Council, Hickman, Ky.; Mary Frances Crawford, Birmingham, Ala.; Ruth King, Dalton, Ga.; Polly Ann Lassiter, Lake Wales, Fla.; Julia Ann Ritch, Charlotte, N.C.; Wilma Ryan, Bentonia, Miss.; Iris Faye Bell, Woolstock, Va.; Geraldine Hunt, Hayesville, La.; Marthabel Maughlin, Dighton, Kan.; Lois Janette Greenwood, Newton, Kan.; Linda Louise Gragg, Monroe, Ore.; Mary Margaret Brebbell, Seattle, Wash.; and Robert Trost, Redondo Beach, Cal.

New Record Means More Pressing Needs

It has become generally accepted hereabouts that past enrollment records of East Carolina College go by the wayside each fall when the college opens for a new school year.

This year is no exception. Although official enrollment figures for the fall term at the college are not yet available, it is obvious, officials say, enrollment this fall will top the 2,212 students enrolled last fall for courses taught on campus.

Enrollment in the freshman class alone is expected to top last year's freshman class of 857 by 15 to 20 per cent, which means the freshman class enrollment will be near 1,000.

In spite of substantial capital outlays for permanent improvements at East Carolina in recent years, it is apparent more funds for permanent improvements are needed if the college is to accommodate the students who want to go to the college. While the ever-increasing enrollment of East Carolina College are impressive, the number of applicants turned away because of the inability of the college to handle more students is even more impressive.

East Carolina had applications from more than 1,300 new students who wanted to enter the college this fall. Dormitory space for this fall term had been committed since early last spring. Several hundred students were able to find places to live in private homes in Greenville, and others are commuting from near-by towns. Even so, there were at least a couple of hundred other applicants who had to look elsewhere for college training simply because the dormitory space and other facilities at East Carolina were loaded to capacity.

The three million dollars requested by East Carolina for permanent improvements during the coming biennium may seem a very large amount for the institution to request. Yet, the college must have the additional facilities it has requested if it is to serve the increasing number of students who apply for admission each fall.

Not only the people of Pitt County, but citizens throughout all Eastern North Carolina should lend their support to East Carolina's request for funds from the state during the next two years. Unless the funds are made available, the continued growth of the college will be stymied because its physical plant already is serving a capacity number of students.

Still Preying On Ignorance, Superstition

The sooner superstitious people learn that conjurers and other individuals with supposedly supernatural powers are all frauds, the better off they will be.

The sooner people learn to report these unscrupulous individuals to local police rather than taking matters into their own hands as a Negro woman of Washington did, the better off they will be.

In Washington this week-end a Negro woman, who said she was under a spell from a conjurer who had been living in her house, pumped five bullets into the man when she found him asleep "without his conjuring shirt on". On top of the troubles

Strength for the Day

At a social affair a young lady met an older man and in the introduction failed to catch his name but did remember that he had been introduced as Doctor. By way of conversation she turned to him and said pleasantly, "Do you practice, Doctor?" He smiled and said, "No, only preach."

That story really strikes home for those of us who wear the cloth, because we know that every one of us preaches much better doctrine than he practices. We preach a perfect, supernatural gospel—haltingly, of course, but still we preach it. In our everyday living, however, we often stumble and stub our toes and behave like all the other fallen creatures. No one can say anything against our preaching (except that it is not particularly interesting and eloquent) but they can say much against our practice.

It would be bad enough if this were confined to the pulpit, but this weakness extends to an alarming degree into the pews. We all have sinned and come short of the glory of God—all, without exception. Yes, there was one exception. Christ was "tempted in all things like as we are, yet without sin."

Otherwise, we are preach better than we practice. Our doctrine is better than our living.

So how about it, friends? Do you preach or practice? or both?

Churchill's Daring Attempts

LONDON—Winston Churchill is today the most daring diplomatic juggler in recent international history, baffling both friends and enemies. Although his methods irritate Americans, French and Germans—from Pennsylvania to Berlin's Wilhelmstrasse—it is generally agreed that the "Old Man" seeks to establish a measure of world peace before he names Anthony Eden as his successor next year.

Here are the principal planks in the Churchill-Eden foreign policy, since the French Parliament's expected rejection of the European Defense Community Treaty has inspired bolder cries in Berlin for striking off the 1945 surrender shackles, including the Allied ban on the right to rearm:

1. Churchill wants to continue the Anglo-American alliance, although other parts of his program run counter to Eisenhower-Dulles objectives.

2. He wants France to join a European Defense Community that will include Germany. In view of future French recalcitrance, and although he dislikes the prospect even more than Washington does, he will seek procedure for rearming the Germans that will not drive the French into the arms of Moscow.

3. DIPLOMATS CONCERNED—Despite London-Washington pooh-poohing of this danger, this fear is uppermost in the minds of diplomats on the continent, including U.S. Ambassadors Winthrop Aldrich and Clarence Dillon, at London and Paris, respectively.

France has suffered three invasions by the Germans in the lives of its older inhabitants. There are 100 Communist members of the Chamber of Deputies. Russia has not fought against France since the Napoleonic Wars, and then only as a member of a British-financed coalition against the Corsicans.

Even the faint mirage of a Franco-Russian Alliance, immobilizing both France and Germany, possibly all Western Europe in future diplomatic and "shooting" wars, leads to the Third, which, to Americans is the most bewildering aspect of Churchill's current diplomatic maneuvers.

face-to-face charm and negotiating ability. Many conservatives here assailed the Moscow and Peiping visits of the prominent Laborites, including former Prime Minister Clement Attlee and former Labor Cabinet member Aneurin Bevan, who is so anti-American that he is pro-Moscow.

They quote and reprint savage attacks on the junket by leading American newspapers—The New York Times, Herald-Tribune, Baltimore Sun and Chicago Tribune. They are amazed at Senator "Joe" McCarthy's failure to denounce this and similar overtures to the Reds.

ATTLEE'S JOURNEYING—But the fact is that Attlee would not have gone so deep behind the "Iron Curtain" without Churchill's full but private approval. He went as the Prime Minister's confidential emissary, to ascertain possibilities for full renewal of commercial and political relations. London needs trade—markets for her finished goods in return for food, lumber etc., as well as assurance of peace in this atomic age.

Finally, Attlee journeyed to Peiping to keep an eye and check on the more radical Bevan, his rival for leadership of the Labor Party and a bitter foe of Churchill. From these authenticated revelations, it becomes clear that there is a closer working relationship and understanding between Churchill and the leader of Her Majesty's opposition than most Americans realize.

Britishers have the same kindly feeling for austere, professional Attlee that Americans have for jovial, backslapping Harry S. Truman, and for the same reasons. Each typifies certain dominant national oddities and characteristics.

In answer to American ridiculing of Attlee's Far Eastern Tour, a high British official remarked wryly: "If you Americans fear that Attlee will be taken in by Chou En-lai's smiles, any phony offers of trade or Oriental dancing girls, you don't know our Clem!"

YEARN FOR PEACE—These attitudes and developments represent the viewpoint of British Tories, Laborites and Socialists, save for a few extremists in each camp, they reflect a deep yearning for peace if it can be obtained without defeat, dishonor or a Munich-like appeasement.

They suggest that Britain may present almost as many difficulties and perplexities as France in forthcoming attempts to salvage and strengthen the anti-Communist Alliance.

For the U.S. it may mean heavier military commitments and even greater expenditures overseas.

Flood Of Complaints Follow Exaggerated Advertisings

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — I wonder how many of my readers have been misled lately by the rash of exaggerated claims and bait advertising on radio, television, and in mail-order advertising also.

EXAGGERATION MAGNIFIQUENT!

Now glowing about the adjectives be that a company uses to describe its product? When do these superlatives trespass upon the bounds of good taste? How far can the truth be stretched and still resemble credibility? At what point does the customer lose his faith not just in some product, but in businessmen as a whole? All gasoline can't be the best! All tobacco can't be the mildest! All cars can't give the greatest number of miles per gallon. All detergents can't wash the whitest. Or, is something happening to the English language—or to our ethics, maybe?

Take toothpastes, for example. First, it was ammoniated; then it was chlorophyllated; tomorrow, it will be fluoridated! And, at this point the American Dental Association doesn't think it at all funny. The doctors have been carrying on their own research with the claims of various manufacturers. Their findings were keynoted at their 94th Annual Convention when they said that any inference that ammoniated or chlorophyllated cleaners are effective against decay is pure speculation. Certain sales and advertising claims were branded as "ridiculous" and recommendations were made that they be considered by the Pure Food & Drug Administration.

Dobbs Farm Expensive, But Performing Important Role

By LYNN NISBET

DOBBS FARM — The State Training School for Negro Girls is located on what is still called Dobbs Farm near Kinston. The school inherited the basic facilities from the old "women's colony" for adult white prostitutes, before the women's prison was established as a separate unit. The heritage was unfortunate as to name and implications, although the facilities were generally good.

This is one of five correctional schools under supervision of the North Carolina Board of Correction and Training, and the last of the group to be visited by the Advisory budget commission.

When the training school moved there in 1947 after three years in temporary quarters at Rocky Mount, there were two dormitories with total capacity of 50 girls, a dining-room kitchen and several small buildings for utilities. There have been built since then another dormitory for 25 girls, a combination administrative and school building and a more commodious kitchen and cafeteria. The former kitchen is used for facilities—laundry, sewing room, etc.

The school is filled to capacity. When the budget population was 73, with two expected that afternoon or next morning. The girls range in age from 12 to 20, averaging about 14. All are committed by juvenile courts, most of them also processed through county welfare agencies. Majority of them are committed for truancy, a substantial number for sex offenses, a few for petty thievery. Most of them are of low mentality, the IQ rating generally from 50 to 70, with a few actual morons.

Upon arrival the girls are given thorough physical examinations and are kept isolated for a few days. Rules require that local welfare departments see that the girls are physically fit when committed, but this provision is often ignored. The rule against admitting girls with contagious venereal disease is strictly enforced, but the institutions sometimes get caught for dental work or other treatment which would be provided by the counties from which they come.

Public Forum Column

To The Editor, Yours if You Come! Many, many years ago when this slogan, presented by one of Greenville's oldest citizens, Mr. Jesse Brown, was adopted it was filled with great meaning not only for the citizens of our fair city but also filled the hearts of the people who lived in the rural areas and small communities surrounding the town. I have lived in a rural community near Greenville for thirty-five years and I have always remembered the good feeling I had when I would see and hear that Greenville was ours, too, if we only came to it.

Times have changed. Greenville has tried to become a city at heart although it is still a town situated in one of the finest farming regions in America. The greatest change seems to be that Greenville is not ours now, if we come. To hear citizen after citizen complaining of the parking situation in Greenville and the treatment that has been received from the officers in charge of parking leads one to know that there is a great deal of dissatisfaction, hurt feelings and deep-right, anger at some of the things happening. If the opinions heard expressed by a number of citizens of Pitt and adjoining counties are indicative of the opinions of the citizenship as a whole, then I think it is time, for the Merchants of Greenville to wake up before it is too late!

Just a few instances to illustrate what I am talking about. A lady parked in a spot where there was no head on the meter post. There was no officer around, no note telling that the meter was being repaired but when the lady returned, (and this was when "Courtesy" parking was in effect) she had to go to the police station and pay $1.00.

Another lady who recently moved to her new home near Greenville from Williamston went to her doctor one morning. She and the doctor knew that she had stayed overtime so the Doctor wrote a note asking if she be excused from paying a fine. When she got back to her car she had two parking tickets and note or no note from the Dr. she had to pay $2.00. She said, "That was the hardest $2.00 I ever paid in my life. I wish I had never moved over here!"

Another lady from a nearby town came to Greenville, put a nickel in, turned the meter, dropped another nickel in and went to the beauty parlor. When she came out the door she saw the officer write a ticket, put it on the car, turn the meter and go on her way. The lady said, "I will pay this parking ticket, but this will be my last visit to Greenville. They won't get any more of my money!"

Every day you hear people grumbling. A man, recently came in the store in which I work and said, all out of breath, "Please give me 2 nickels so I can feed the parking meter before the officer gives me a ticket. I hurriedly gave him some change, he went out, but came almost directly back in and said, "Do you know she put a ticket on my car before I could get back to it and she would not let me explain that I had only stepped into the store in front of which my car was parked to get the change!"

I do not know what the answer is, but this one thing I do know and that is that Greenville is losing a lot of trade and many many friends. You ask a man who lives within 3 miles of Greenville why he sells his tobacco on another market and he will tell you that after he sells it in Greenville he can't park close enough and long enough to the stores downtown to buy the needs for his family without paying for it — and I have been a farmer's wife too long not to know how the farmers of Pitt County feel about having to pay to park in order to spend their money in Greenville.

It seems to me that from 1 cent to 10 cents parking time would help a little. Something should be done, and done before it is too late!

Respectfully,
Mrs. B. L. Tyson

Business Today

Cheese Was Stolen

In the closing hours of the Truman Administration, the Department of Commerce issued an estimate of the economy of 1955.

It was carefully hedged. It was based on "the assumption that a high level of general business activity can be maintained." It added that "these estimates are not forecasts."

Some observers thought this release was a political mouse trap. The figures were high. There was a good chance they could not be reached. And the final figures for 1955 will become known in the spring of 1956, the eve of the next Presidential campaign.

If those figures did not match the estimates made in December, 1952, then the Democrats could say the Republicans had failed to give the country the measure of prosperity the Democrats have planned.

Now, it may be that the estimates were prepared and timed by some nonpartisan economists. But if the estimates were a political trap, this is to let you know that the cheese has been stolen.

Some estimated figures have not been reached. But many have — so many that there is no more political Gorgonzola in the estimate.

The 1952 estimate put the gross national product at $365 billion. It was slightly under that rate at midyear, but since it was $369 billion in mid-1953, and since the fall picture is ahead of us, it seems probable that the billion-dollar-a-day rate will be reached this year.

The 1952 estimate put personal consumption expenditures in 1955 at $228 billion. At the end of the second quarter of this year they were $233.1 billion, at annual rates.

ANOTHER ANGLE ON BUSINESS AT THE FISCAL NEW YEAR
The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago observes:
"During the year ending in July, 1954, manufacturing production-worker employment declined from 13.9 to 12.3 million, a drop of 11.6 per cent.

"The average work week fell from 40.3 to 39. hours, or 2.2 per cent. As a result, the number of production hours was lowered by 13.6 per cent.

"But total factory output declined only 9.2 per cent. . . . "Therefore, output per man-hour rose by about 5 per cent. . . . These figures, which can be checked with pencil and paper, demonstrate the sweeping trend toward higher productivity, in a large measure through automation."

POWDERED JUICE BRINGS FILL—MEALS STEP NEARER
The United States Government uses the word "delicious" in describing a powdered tomato juice developed at the Western Utilization Laboratory at Albany, Calif. Two methods of reducing tomato juice to powder form have been devised; canners and other food processors can get details from the Department of Agriculture.

While the juices can be reconstituted by adding water, the process brings the meal-in-a-tablet idea a bit closer. Now one can have the first breakfast course, at least, in the form of a little pink pill.

NEW PRODUCTS
ADJUSTABLE: An all-metal ironing table with height adjustments between 24 and 36 inches is being distributed nationally by Arlin Industries, Inc., Columbus, Ind. Height can be increased by lifting table top; lowered by finger-tap touch of adjusting bar. A safety lock prevents accidental lowering below 24 inches.

CORD: An improved electric cord for portable tools is being made by U.S. Rubber Co., 1230 Sixth Ave., New York. It's said to be 88 per cent more resistant to wear than the highest quality cords previously available.

Worth Noting

Many people think of agriculture solely in terms of congressional debate over subsidies and the "farm problem." However, behind the headlines American agriculture as an industry is becoming one of the mightiest forces on earth. Highlights of this great transition are described in an Economic Newsletter on developments in the agricultural situation written by Dr. Earl L. Butz, formerly of Purdue University and presently Assistant Secretary of Agriculture.

After pointing out that farm prices have been fairly stable during the past year and the outlook is good, Dr. Butz declared, "We live in an era of the most rapid scientific and technological change of all time. American agriculture is now feeding our growing population on science and technology. We have increased our total agricultural output in the last four decades by 75 per cent, on roughly the same acreage we had previously, and with two and one-half million fewer farm workers. . . ." (Industrial News Review)

Official figures show the book value of the land and buildings to be $758,497 and the annual operating budget $94,300—omitting a few odd dollars and cents on both items. For 75 "students" that means a capital investment of more than $10,000 and an annual cost of about $1,250 for each girl.

The school now is asking for $100,000 auditorium and $125,000 gymnasium—swimming pool. That would raise the per capita investment to about $14,000 for each girl.

PROBLEM — The problem posed here is basically the same as that at many other institutions. This is as good place as any to present it in broad perspective.

Beginning at perhaps the least important point is the item of $10,000 for repairing plumbing in dormitory bathrooms at Dobbs Farm in order to protect the building from disintegration due to leaks, falling plaster, rotting walls, etc. cetera. Maybe five or six years ago $2,000 would have done the job; five years from now it will take $10,000. But—where is the $10,000 coming from now?

The more important consideration is the weighed value of the rehabilitation of a delinquent Negro girl as compared with a and running expenditure of more capital investment of $10-$14,000 that may evaluate the worth of a human being in terms of dollars and cents?

Who can say with assurance and prove with statistics that the millions spent for mental hospitalation of profit margins. How ever, I may be wrong. These are times to weigh advertising, to question certain salesmen, and to buy cautiously. A buyer's market does not mean the end of good business or of good business ethics. It does mean, apparently, that the boys in business will try the tricks of boys. The true businessmen will survive because they know that a fair deal, courteous service, and honesty today are bound to return in the form of loyal customers and better sales tomorrow.

Ninety per cent of the newspapers know this and are seeking to help such honest businessmen. These newspapers turn down all advertising which they feel will not benefit their readers. Yet, these newspapers like dollars as well as you do. I appeal to you to help support these local papers in every possible way.

There's A 'Stump' Blocking Red Tide

By WILLIAM J. WAUGH
PEARL HARBOR (AP)—President Eisenhower recently said that if the Chinese Reds try to invade Formosa they will have to run over the United States 7th Fleet.

He might have added, "And a fellow named Stump."
Adm. Felix B. Stump is a brusque, plain-spoken West Virginian, nearing 60, with 37 years experience on virtually every type of Navy craft. He has been bombed, shot at and torpedoed. He star'd flying in 1919 and is a graduate of that hard World War II school of naval warfare which taught the tremendous importance of air power.

And he hates Communists. Stump commands the Pacific Fleet, of which the roving 7th is an integral part. For some five years, it has been patrolling the 100-mile-wide Straits of Formosa, separating that strategic Nationalist-held island from the Chinese mainland. Stump is no sword rattler. He said in an interview that he does not believe another war is imminent. "We won't start a war and we won't start a preventive war," he said.

At the same time, he believes in acting fast when circumstances demand. Two months ago, Chinese Red planes shot down a British transport off Hainan Island, and U.S. Navy fighters were detailed to the scene to search for survivors. Red fighters jumped them, and the American pilots shot down two Communist planes. Stump said the pilots had been instructed to be "alert and restrained," and if necessary, "quick on the trigger." He outlined this procedure: "If any U.S. plane is attacked or approached with obvious hostile intent, it will fire back. In other words, you don't have to wait to get your head blown off to shoot back."

Basically a shy man who detests personal publicity, the admiral has been able to keep out of headlines until his present job, as CINCPAC, brought him into direct contact with the problem of the Communists in the Pacific.

He has strong views about them. Recently he said, "A dedicated Communist is a steadfast and unchanging fanatic. Murder, lies and torture are not crimes if done to strengthen the Red cause. International agreements with any Communist government are not worth a scrap of paper."

If agreements are negotiated with the Reds, he said, "we must also ensure that they do not contribute to long-range Communist objectives."

On the whole, however, he shies away from public expressions on international problems. "I get my thinking from Washington," he says. "I carry out orders."

In his working day—which is seven days a week and sometimes at night—he is "rough and brusque as hell, but always considerate," as a member of his staff put it.

Outside the office, he likes to putter in his garden, hunt and fish, play tennis, and romp with his children, Frances, 12, and Felix Jr., 9.

He was born in Parkersburg, W. Va., Dec. 15, 1894. He was graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy in March 1917 and he was promoted to admiral June 27, 1953.

He entered flight training in 1919 and became a naval aviator the next year.

Start of the Pacific war caught him in the Philippines commanding the seaplane tender Langley. Later he commissioned the carrier Lexington and fought her against the Japanese in the Gilbert and Marshall Islands and was aboard her when a torpedo plane scored a hit in the Marshalls.

For this action he was awarded the Silver Star, to which later were added two Navy Crosses, second only to the Medal of Honor. After the Lexington, Stump commanded a carrier division in the fighting around the Philippines.

He has a sharp sense of humor and occasionally it brushes off on his subordinates. They tell this story about him: When the Lexington was hit and for two hours was in a hot fight as it evaded attacking Japanese planes, Stump noticed that a sailor seemed nervous and in an attempt to cheer up the lad said: "Did you ever think you'd have a front row seat to a circus like this? All we need are some peanuts."

The sailor, from Georgia, later presented the admiral a sack of peanuts.

Stump rises about 5:30 a.m. and goes to his office seven days a week. He normally quits work about 5:30 p.m. but often returns at night if anything is pending. There are two things he does regularly: read the weather report and check the clocks in his office.

12-Year-Old Admits Murdering Father

ANESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Police said sixth grader David Larry Ingles, 12, admitted shooting his father to death yesterday after coming home from Sunday school.

Chief George Hodgson and Muskingum County Prosecutor Joseph McNeerney said David in a signed statement admitted he had planned for two or three weeks to kill his father, John Ingles, 36-year-old handyman, because "Dad was mean to me."

"He threatened me and mother a thousand times," Chief Hodgson said the statement gave this account of the shooting: "David came into the house while his father was alone and in bed. He took a fancy .22 caliber target pistol, decorated with imitation gems, from a hiding place and shot once but missed his father."

"What are you doing?" the father asked. "I'm going to kill you," David said he told his father. The statement quoted David as saying, "when my finger was on the trigger I couldn't stop shooting. I don't know how many times I shot."

The father staggered from his bed and grabbed David's ankles. The boy fired again.

Coroner S. S. Daw said the last shot followed the right shoulder blade into Ingles' heart as he was leaning over.

Ingles was shot also in the abdomen and the left leg, Daw said. After shooting his father, David said in the statement, he wrapped the gun in a house dress belonging to his mother and hid it in weeds not far from the house.

Then he went to his grandparents' home where his mother was visiting and acted as though nothing had happened.

"Only me and Whiskers (the cat) knew," Hodgson quoted him as saying.

Hodgson, who described David as an ardent comic book fan, said the boy wore a cap gun holster under his shirt while the lengthy, detailed statement was being prepared.

He is being held in a detention home here while authorities decide what to do with him.

Campaign To Sell Color TV Goes In 'High Gear'

By WAYNE OLIVER
NEW YORK (AP)—A multi-million-dollar network campaign to sell the television public on switching from black and white to color has started full blast.

The National Broadcasting Co. teed off last night with Betty Hutton in an original musical comedy, "Satin and Spurs," the first of 33 color "spectaculars" scheduled for the coming season.

The rival Columbia Broadcasting System opens its big color campaign next Wednesday night with "The Royal Family" featuring Helen Hayes, Claudette Colbert, Fredric March and Charles Coburn.

Both nets will present their color extravaganzas on an every-fourth-week basis, and "Satin and Spurs" was the first of NBC's Sunday night series. It will launch a Saturday night series Sept. 25 with "Lady in the Dark" starring Ann Southern and a Monday series Oct. 18 with Ginger Rogers in "Tonight at 8:30." Besides its every-fourth-Wednesday color extravaganzas, CBS will start a Thursday night series Sept. 30 with a production out of Hollywood featuring Mario Lanza, Betty Grable and Harry James.

Both networks also will do colorcasts of their regular shows on a rotating schedule as they already have been doing on a limited basis.

"Satin and Spurs" was a brilliant spectacle on the few thousand color sets in existence but came out in black and white on ordinary home sets which are color-blind. But even in black and white, it was top TV fare.

Producer Max Liebman, often called the Ziegfeld of TV for his famous "Your Show of Shows" and the predecessor "Broadway Revue," turned out a tuneful, comical 90 minutes of video viewing. Blonde Betty Hutton was at her bounding best and livened her performance with spicy dance numbers that may have raised eyebrows among the more sedate viewers.

Kevin McCarthy turned in an adept musical comedy performance that put him in a new role for his TV fans accustomed to seeing him in dramatic parts. Pretty Neva Patterson ably handled the limited role assigned to her, as did the remainder of the cast.

Pirates Whip Naval Air, 21-0; Phantoms Crush Cards

Webb Tossed Pair Of Scoring Aerials

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Football made its debut in College Stadium before an estimated 6,000 persons Saturday night with the Pirates of East Carolina College pouncing out a stirring 21-0 win over Norfolk Naval Air Station.

Coach Jack Boone's Buccaneers utilized a fine aerial game and superb blocking to cash in on the season's opener.

Boyd Webb, working behind a granite-like line, quarterbacked the Pirates in a model performance. He passed for two of ECC's three scoring markers and directed the Pirate offense smartly.

First Touchdown
Four minutes had elapsed when the Pirates reeled off their initial touchdown. After receiving the opening kickoff, they picked up a first down on a series of running plays at the 43 yard line. Then, Webb fumbled attempting a hand-off and Jack Esslinger Tar's tackle, recovered. The rugged ECC line bottled the Tar's offense on a series of downs and Halfback Tai Harmon punted from his own 40 to the Bucs' 20 where Emo Boado gathered the pigskin and romped to the 50-yard stripe before he was collared.

A fifteen-yard clipping penalty set the ball back to the 35. Loss of four yards on a running play moved the ball farther back into Buc territory. On the next play, Topsy Hayes, Pirate left half, skirted right end and brought the crowd to their feet when he spasmodically broke into the clear. He raced down the sidelines to the Tar's 20, cut over to the center of the field and rode the gray train into the end zone for ECC's first touchdown of 1954. The excursion covered 69 yards. Claude King, fullback, kicked the first of three consecutive conversions and ECC led 7-0.

Taking the ensuing kickoff, Coach Al Bruno's Tar's were unable to muster more than one first down during their running attack before Fullback Duke Ellington punted from his own 40 to the Pirates' 40.

Tar's Threaten
After King bucked the middle for 19 yards and their second first down of the game, Tom Allsbrook fumbled going off tackle and Halfback Jim Glenn recovered for the Tar's on the Bucs' 44. Quarterback Jim Herd caught Letford Doug MacLachlin in his sights and completed a toss for 22 yards to the 22-yard stripe. The Tar's got their running game into high gear and pushed down to the 4-yard line. A five-yard penalty knocked the wind out of their sails and on fourth down with nine yards to go for the TD, Ellington's pass intended for MacLachlin fell short and the Pirates took over.

The second ECC tally came late in the second period. George Tucker, a thorn in the Tar's sides all night with his standout defensive play at guard, fell on a fumble by Ellington at the Tar's 12-yard line. King hit right end for 3 yards. Hayes circled right end again for 4 yards. Hayes went through right tackle for 3 more and a first down on the one yard line.

Two Touchdowns
On the next play, Hayes burst through for the TD, but ECC was offside. With ball resting on the 6-yard stripe, Webb faked beautifully and hit Right End Larry Rhodes all alone in the end zone for the touchdown.

The most beautifully executed play of the game was the 82-yard touchdown pass from Webb to Hayes midway the third quarter. From the Bucs' own 18 yard line, the Gastonia senior faked two handoffs, drifted back and spotted Hayes going down the left sidelines. Hayes gathered the pass in on about the 40 and outraced the lone Tar defender. Herd, for the double chalk lines. King again kicked the extra point perfectly through the uprights. ECC 21, NNAS 0.

The Pirates had another TD called back on account of penalization. Milton Collier passed to Harold O'Connell for 15 yards and a first down on the one yard line.

Kelley for 50 yards and the score late in the third period. ECC had an illegal man in motion, invalidating the TD.

The Tar's never seriously threatened after the initial period, but their offensive spark picked up fervor. Several times in the final quarter, the Tar backs would have gone except for defensive halfbacks and safeties in their path.

Leroy LaBat, former All-American at LSU, played a fine game for the visitors and was the Tar's leading ground-gainer. Herd and Fullback Bob Shupin did some good ball carrying and defensive work.

Biggest antagonist to the Pirates was Stewart Pell, 245-pound tackle, who time and time again knocked down ECC ballcarriers and opened gaps in the Pirate forward wall.

Hayes, of course, was the big gun for the Pirates on the ground. He carried six times for 94 yards—an average of 15.3 yards a clip. King gained 40 yards rushing for a 6.5 yard average. Boado and Stanley also picked up formidable yardage and the latter averaged 6.4 a clip.

The entire Pirate line played an outstanding game, holding the powerful Tar offensive machine to 151 yards rushing. David Lee, Louis Hallow, Willie Holland, George Tucker, Don Burton, J. D. Bradford, Gaither Cline, Ray Overton, George Rice, Waverly Cheson, Ray Pennington, and Charlie Smith, to name a few, were oak barriers of strength up front.

Cleveland Bats Boom On, All But End Yankee Reign; Giants Undergo Slump

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
It would be ridiculous to accuse the five-time world champion New York Yankees of "choking up."

It must be gratifying to the long-suffering Cleveland faithful, however, today to check back during the past few days and discover that it was the proud Yankees, and not the maligned Indians, who lost seven of their last 10 clutch games.

And in the same period, the Indians lost only two out of 10 to pick up five big games in the weary world champions.

If ever there had been any doubts about Cleveland's intestinal fortitude, the American League leaders dispelled them yesterday with a glorious double triumph over New York that all but ended the long Yankee dynasty. The 4-1 and 3-2 victories before 86,563 spectators the largest crowd ever to watch a baseball game, stretched Cleveland's first place margin over the Yankees to 8 1/2 lengths. That is almost an insurmountable hurdle for Casey Stengel's crew. With only 10 games left the Indians can clinch their first flag since 1948 by merely winning three, even if the Yankees win all their remaining 11. All was not rosy for the Cleveland's springtime sparring partners, the New York Giants, however. Continuing the lack-lustre play that has marked their recent performances, the Giants were beaten 4-3 by St. Louis and had their National League lead sliced to three games when the rebounding Brooklyn Dodgers came through with a 4-2 and 4-3 doubleheader sweep over the Chicago Cubs.

Milwaukee's Braves, still in the running despite two recent losses to the Dodgers, drew to within 4 1/2 games of the top by earning a split with the Phillies in Philadelphia.

Leo Burdette outpitched Robin Roberts for a 2-1 Braves' victory after the Phillies had snapped Warren Spahn's 11-game victory string 5-2. Cincinnati's Redlegs climbed into fourth place, drubbing the Pittsburgh Pirates twice 11-5 and 13-2 as Ted Kluszewski drove in nine runs and smashed homers Nos. 47 and 48.

The Chicago White Sox, paced by Nellie Fox and Minnie Minoza, vanquished the Boston Red Sox twice 5-3 and 7-5 to reach, and pass, the 90 victory mark for the first time since 1920. Fox produced three hits including a two-run double. He also stole three bases, including home, to help Bob Keegan post his 16th triumph in the opener. Minoza ejected from the first game came back to drive in four runs in the nightcap with a home run and double.

Detroit pounded Washington twice 5-0 and 8-3 to sweep past Boston into fourth place. Steve Gromek registered his 17th victory with a six-hit shutout and sore-armed Ted Gray won his first game since May 12. Harvey Kuenn rapped out five Tiger hits, drove in two and scored twice.

The battle for last place in the American League resulted a stalemate as basement-dweller Baltimore and Philadelphia divided a pair. The Orioles won the opener 4-3, scoring all their runs in the seventh for Bob Turley's 12th win. Eddie Waitkus' pinch single drove in the tying and winning runs. The Athletics took the second 5-4, scoring the winning run in the ninth when Howie Fox walked Spook Jacobs with the bases loaded.

Ginger Rogers Goes Into TV In Big Way

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (#)—Ginger Rogers is leaping into television the hard way with a strenuous, 1½-hour live show.

After a couple of years of romancing with TV, the star is ready to go. She'll make her debut (except for an appearance on the Oscar telecast) on NBC Oct. 18. The show will be the first of the "spectaculars" produced by Leland Hayward. Show time is 8 p.m. and the layout is obviously designed to knock I Love Lucy out of its supremacy.

Ginger will appear in three plays from Noel Coward's "Tonight at 8:30"—"Red Peppers," "Shadow Play" and "Still Life." The latter was the basis for the film "Brief Encounter," and its star, Trevor Howard, will appear opposite Ginger.

Isn't she scared with such a heavy schedule?

"No," she replied. "It means a lot of hard work. But then, I've never been allergic to work. The memorizing doesn't throw me either. I have a habit of memorizing whole plays, so I can throw a cue if it is needed."

"The only thing that worries me is the changes of costumes. I don't see how I am going to get into so many outfits in an hour and a half. But I suppose they will figure it out."

I saw Ginger over breakfast coffee on the veranda of her hill-top home overlooking the Beverly Hills. She looked as youthful as ever and enthused about the activity her career is enjoying.

"It never rains but what it pours," she said. "I'll sit around for months, and then suddenly I'll be so busy I don't know what to do."

ON THE BALL
NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—When startled persons described strange creatures which they saw roaming the municipal golf courses at night, police theorized that prowlers had donned frogmen suits to dive for golf balls in the three ponds on the course.

Much Of Public Said Careless In Seeking A Loan

NEW YORK (#)—Most Americans believe in "shopping around" before buying a new car, carpet or television set. But when it comes to borrowing money, financial experts say people tend to be careless.

The business of borrowing money is a highly competitive one. Different institutions offer varying services at a wide variety of interest rates. Principal lenders to individuals on a personal basis are commercial banks and small loan companies. But industrial banks (Morris Plan) and credit units are in the business, too.

Personal loans should not be confused with sales credits, through both involve repayment on a regular monthly basis. In a personal loan, an individual borrows money with only his signature as security. A sales credit finances a purchase, like a refrigerator, which can be confiscated if payment is not met. The personal loan business is one of the safest. Banks reported that during the 1920-21 and 1929-33 depressions, losses from personal loans averaged less than 1½ per cent of total volume. Today, lending institutions say defaults are less than 1 per cent.

Of the 15,000 commercial banks in this country, nearly 12,000 make personal loans. Bank discount rates range from 3 to more than 6 per cent a year. However, figured on monthly installments the simple (or true) borrowing fees are closer to twice those amounts.

There are more than 8,000 consumer finance offices licensed in 37 states and Hawaii under variations of the uniform small loan law. This law protects the borrower by limiting interest charges and requiring companies to state single, all-inclusive rates. Hidden service fees, a traditional with "loan sharks," are prohibited.

Licensed small loan companies charge from 2 to 3½ per cent interest per month on unpaid balances. That's usually more than bank rates figure over the year. But finance companies claim their overhead is higher than a bank's in processing small loans. Also, they often will grant a loan when a bank refuses.

Helicopter Flier Back On Force

NEW YORK (AP)—Lt Col Gerald Crosson came home recently after flying 106 helicopter missions in Korea to become a sergeant—but that was the way he wanted it. Crosson, who holds the air medal with two clusters and a special citation, went back to his old job of flying a "whirlybird" for the local police department's aviation division.

TREADING ON ICE—Crewmen of U. S. Navy icebreaker Burton Island in Bering Sea take off on snowshoes for area off from ship to test effect of explosives on Arctic ice.

Building House In Spare Time

HMOND, Va. (AP)—When Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hunt decided on a new home, they didn't go around looking for a lot of advice. They are building it themselves—in spare time.

The project grew out of an addition Hunt made to his old home. It was so successful that he spent the next winter drawing plans for an entire new home. He thought it might take five years to build, but now hopes to make it in two since the Hunts are working on it at night to get more "spare time" for the project. In the day he works as maintenance engineer for the Bank of Virginia. Mrs. Hunt is an accountant for the city health department.

Former President Ulysses S. Grant and Gen. Winfield Scott, Phil Sheridan, William Tecumseh Sherman and George B. McClellan all served at Ft. Vancouver, Wash. at some time during their careers.

Housing Set For Senior Citizens

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP)—An elder folks' housing project which may help to solve the U.S. problem of homes for the aged is going up here.

A start has been made on the first unit of the $380,000 "Senior Citizens of Kalamazoo" project. The unit is expected to be completed by next year.

Sponsors say the project may serve as a model for other communities which have a problem in housing elderly persons.

The Senior Citizen Fund is behind the Kalamazoo venture. The Fund was set up eight years ago by the city commission. The Fund has been built from bequests and other contributions.

DANDY PEACHES
AURORA, Ill. (AP)—Peaches are growing larger than usual this year on Edward Tesch's backyard tree and measure about 11 inches in circumference.

Asked under which variety the peaches are classified, he said, "I call them dandies."

CHAPTER NINETEEN

WHEN GIL came down again Penn was alone in the hall. He gathered up his two canvas cases. "Is that all you take with you, Gil?" she asked.

"No suitcases on submarines," he tried to grin. Then he set his load down again and put his hands on her shoulders. "I hate shoving off like this with mother all upset," he said. "And I'm sort of worried about dad, Penn. There may be a bad time ahead for him. Maybe I'm being selfish — mother thinks so — but I've got to get away — clear away."

"I know," Penn stood on tiptoe and gave him a sisterly kiss.

He gathered her closer. "Penn — hold things down for me. Dad, I mean."

"I will. I'll do what I can — but he doesn't talk, Gil. Anyway, he's too solid — too important. They won't dare attack him."

"Even the big ones come down. I don't want them to break his heart. If anything gets in the papers, send me the clippings, will you? Dad has the APO number. Another thing — will you remember about flowers, for Winnie? Christmas — and her birthday?"

"Yes, I'll remember." Unconsciously she had locked her hands behind his head. This was the old Gil, the boyish cousin she had adored. This was that very young dream again, and when Gil kissed her warmly on the mouth it sprang alive, quivering out of that adolescent mourning place where she had kept it buried so long.

"Good girl," he said. "Good-by now." Grabbing up his gear, he ran out into the rain.

Penn had not moved when Quincy came back and stood in the open door, shaking wetness from the umbrella.

"We'd better help Almada so she can get that bus." Penn came woodenly out of her dream.

The dream was forever unattainable she knew. But wasn't that the magic of dreams, wasn't that what you really wanted — to have them live on as mirages, something longed for, never to be realized? Perhaps possession brought with it a kind of tuffity. Perhaps that was what life was all about. A struggle — with no real wish for attainment.

who opened the door, managed a wintry smile.

"You," he said, "are the wrong Miss Houk, I'm afraid. I came to see the other one."

Quincy laughed. "It happens all the time. Will you come in? Penn's upstairs boning up on her Russian."

"Thank you." He stepped inside. "I'll wait here. I'm Marsh Nichols."

There were quick steps above, then Penn came down the stairs, looking a trifle flustered and startled.

"Oh," she said. "I thought Quincy must be mistaken when she said it was you."

"She wasn't. I'm here. My mother wants to see you. Will you go over with me for an hour or two? She hasn't been quite so well lately?"

"You want me to come?" Penn looked at him levelly. He looked shabby and tired, but the rigid, defiant quality in him had not relented.

"I'm asking you," he returned coolly.

"Then wait till I change. I'll hurry."

"You're all right as you are. But put on a warm coat. It's turning colder."

"In these?" Penn shook her old tweed skirt, ran her hands over the rumpled blue blouse that had two pencils clamped to the pocket.

"All right. I'll tell Quincy I'm going."

"I'll bring you back." He held her coat for her when she came back, and the warmth in his hands intimately on her shoulders made a quick uncertain confusion run over her. "He's in love with you," his mother had said. All fantastic, of course. The imaginings of a sick woman who had nothing to do but make up pretty stories in her mind and fondly believe them to be true.

He helped Penn into the car, slammed the door twice to make it stay closed, went around to the other side and got into the soggy cloth again. "Get rid of some of this snow. Getting thicker."

"I hope not," Penn tried for a sociable tone. "I hope it doesn't block the roads and knock out all the power as it did last winter."

He said: "I was in Korea last winter."

"When will you be a doctor?"

"I've got one more year — if the GI assistance holds out. I couldn't make it on my own. There's just enough income from the farm to keep mother comfortable."

"Are you going in for surgery?"

"Thoracic. That's chest and lungs. If I can get the internship I want and training under the right men. That's another problem, too — no income for a long time leaving mother alone too much."

"My mother had that blood thing," Penn said. "She wasted away to a little shadow. And it was only one year after she died that my father was killed."

His face softened a little. "Tough — for a kid. I was a kid when my father killed himself."

He slowed the car. "Snow's piling up again." He stopped and got out with a rag.

"Getting deeper." Marsh kicked snow off his shoes as he got back into the car.

Penn looked anxious. "What if it gets too deep for you to take me home? Perhaps we'd better turn around now."

"I'll get you home. Mother's waiting for you. She'd had Lula baking cakes and getting down the fancy dishes. I don't have any chains, but I guess I can borrow some if it gets too bad."

She could almost feel his thoughts coming out through his skin like the emanation of a fever. Suffering his arm next to her lightening his ja. He wanted no favors from the Storeys. She was invited, she had been chosen, he had not done the choosing but he was in command. She was the one to receive favors, not he. He drove into the yard of the old Nichols place and helped her out with rigid gallantry.

"You should have some boots." He looked down at her thin shoes worriedly. "Wait —" He lifted her quickly, swung her up to the porch steps.

"I forgot my boots. I'm sorry," she said.

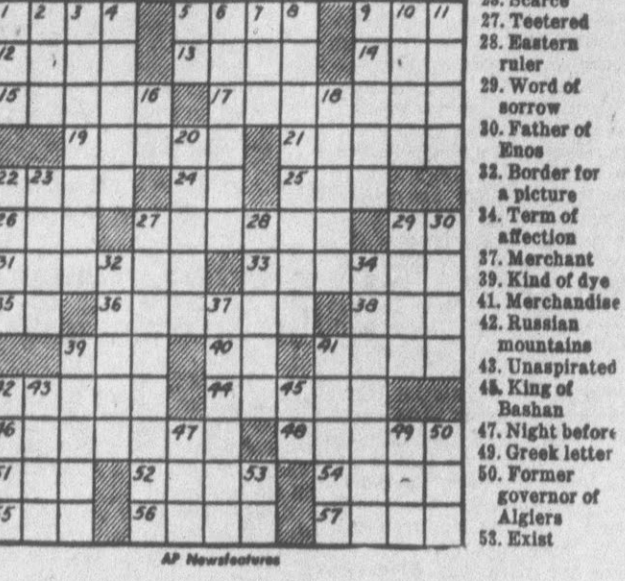

"I've carried heavier people." He laughed a little. "Had to carry a lot of them. Not enough litters."

In the room at the rear, Mrs. Nichols was sitting in a deep chair by the fire, a rug over her knees. She held up her hands and gave a pleased little crouch.

"You did get here! My dear, I'm so glad. I've been watching the snow piling up out there and I was getting worried. Take her coat Lula. Leave it in here where it's warm."

"Your son," Penn said, "is a very determined character."

"There never was a more dogged obstinate creature on earth than Marsh," his mother agreed. "He simply has to be the boss, even over poor little snowflakes. I was sitting here and only a few little flakes were coming down and I thought — what happy thing can I do to make this gloomy afternoon brighter? And right away I thought of you. Music Ensembles To Be Organized

Five major music ensembles at East Carolina College will hold organizational meetings this week and will begin rehearsals for programs to be presented during 1954-1955.

The Varsity Men's Glee Club will be directed this year by Paul A. Hickfang, who joined the college faculty recently. A bass-baritone and an instructor in voice at East Carolina, Mr. Hickfang holds degrees from the University of Texas and the University of Michigan. He has had experience as a soloist while serving in the U.S. Air Force and has done class and private voice teaching.

Dr. Elwood Keister will direct the College Choir, a group of men and women students. Last spring under Dr. Keister's direction, the choir made its first tour of Eastern and Piedmont North Carolina, during which members sang eleven concerts in Raleigh, Chapel Hill, Burlington, Kinston, Goldsboro, and other towns.

Dr. Keister will also direct the annual performance of Handel's "The Messiah," which is presented each year just before Christmas under the sponsorship of the college department of music.

The Women's Chorus will be directed by Dan E. Vornholt, and the East Carolina Orchestra by Dr. Kenneth N. Cuthbert, head of the college department of music. The College Band has already begun rehearsals under the direction of Herbert L. Carter.

These organizations are composed largely of students of music at the college, but any qualified student may become a member.

Five Negro 4-H Clubs Reorganized Last Week

Five Negro 4-H clubs of Pitt county reorganized last week, sought new members, elected some new officers and made plans for fall and winter projects.

Miss Julia E. Evans, assistant Pitt county home demonstration agent, said the five 4-H clubs reorganized are Cherry Lane, with 23 members; Stokes, with 56; Grifton, with 68; Farmville Senior, with 38; and Farmville Junior, with 24 boys and girls enrolled. She said 227 members were enrolled during the week.

The Cherry Lane 4-H Club's officers are Louise Langley, president; Martha Grimes, secretary; and Margie Murchison, treasurer.

Stokes 4-H Club: Henry Clemons, president; Joyce Rouse, secretary and Velma Adams, treasurer.

Grifton 4-H Club: Willie Mae Tucker, president; Shirley Galloway, secretary, and Carolyn Patrick, treasurer.

Farmville Junior 4-H Club: Melver Tyson, president; Lella Maye, secretary, and Dorothy Dingle, treasurer.

Farmville Senior 4-H Club: James Harris, president; Carol Whitfield, secretary, and James T. Barnes, treasurer.

Each 4-H club is pledged to carry two projects in addition to their regular 4-H club project. Health and home safety are the additional projects.

The assistant home demonstration agent said the health program has been conducted in Pitt County several years. The farm and home safety program is new to some 4-H club members.

The 4-H club members have "The Good Breakfast" as their lesson for the month. The clubs are emphasizing better breakfasts for children. Questionnaires concerning breakfast habits were distributed among the members. The results will be compiled for future study.

Miss Evans said junior girls are to participate in a food canning contest in October. Each participating girl is expected to can two quarts of tomatoes and two cans of some kind of fruit. The canned products will be judged at the schools and the results will be forwarded to the state extension office in Raleigh. The Cherry Lane 4-H Club has three girls participating in the project; Stokes, five; Grifton, six; and Farmville, five. Other names will be published later, the assistant home demonstration agent stated.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW By FAGALY and SHORTEN

A thin snow had begun falling, lying in the little wreaths and whorls along the edges of the black road and making a wreath around his windshield, when Marsh Nichols drove the angling way to the Storey house.

The windshield wipers thudded doggedly, pushing the snow into little wet wads, and the old motor coughed and missed occasionally from the cold. Marsh wore a heavy sheepskin-lined coat, the elbows worn thin from crawling over the rocky slopes of Korea, the collar turned high.

The clothes suited his mood, which was one of grimly going where he was sent, mixed with a secret sort of confusion that had a tinge of excitement in it and something of embarrassment and unease. He was going to see that girl again because his mother wished it, and though he had disciplined himself not to be glad his pulse beat a little faster as he passed the country store and drove the last half-mile to the Storey gate.

The wipers gave up as he entered the drive and snow stuck wetly to the glass in a lacy pattern. He dug an old rag out from under the seat and scrubbed the glass clear before he went up the steps to the ide door and rang the bell. He looked hard at the girl
