

Gunman, Wanting To Die, Slain Despite Hostage

Rifle-toting H. B. Long, an escapee from Arkansas State Hospital, is slain by off-duty patrolman Gene Smith despite the fact he was holding Mrs. A. D. Lynn a hostage at her home in Little Rock, Ark. In the photo at upper left Long forces Mrs. Lynn from her home as Smith and another officer wait around a corner of the house. A moment later Smith, crouching low, comes from shelter firing as he comes. Mrs. Lynn spins away from her captor. Long had marched Mrs. Lynn onto the porch and shouted for the police to come and get him. Earlier he had told the police he wanted to die. In the photo at lower left Long starts to fall, and as he died he muttered: "Thanks felias, that's good enough." Long had held Mrs. Lynn in the house for over an hour as he taunted the police. In the final photo at right, Long lies dead as an officer edges up to the body. All of these pictures were taken from a movie film shot by KARK-TV cameramen Chris Buton and Luis Oberste. Russia Announces Test Explosion Of Atomic Weapon

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union announced today it has exploded "one of a type of atomic weapons" with "valuable results." The brief announcement by the official news agency Tass said the test "will enable Soviet scientists and engineers to solve successfully problems of defense from atomic attack." Tass gave no details on where the explosion took place or what type of weapon was involved. The announcement said: "In accordance with the plan for scientific research work, trials of one of a type of atomic weapons were carried out in the Soviet Union during recent days. "The aim of the trial was the study of an atomic explosion. "The trials produced valuable results, which will enable Soviet scientists and engineers to solve successfully problems of defense from atomic attack."

In Tokyo, the Kyodo News Service reported that "the meteorological laboratory of Kyoto University had recorded unusual instrument readings Aug. 26 similar to those observed when the United States made atomic tests at the Bikini Atoll. Kyodo said a student at the laboratory reported a laboratory manometer, or pressure gauge, gave the readings on that date at 8 a. m. (Japan time) and again at 1 p. m. There was no immediate reaction to the Russian announcement from American officials.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, with President Eisenhower at his Fraser, Colo., vacation spot, said the President had been notified, Hagerty added that any comment would have to come from the Atomic Energy Commission.

Lewis L. Strauss, the commission's chairman, said in New York City he had no statement to make. The State Department likewise refused comment.

Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-N.Y.), chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, said at Hammondsport N.Y.:

"I feel that at the present I should confine my remarks to raising the question of whether we need any further evidence of the real intent of the Soviets toward world conquest?"

Today's communique from Moscow was the first official word in a year on atomic tests inside Russia.

In August, 1953, the Russians claimed that in a series of tests they had touched off a hydrogen bomb explosion of great strength. The AEC confirmed that the blasts involved both fission (atomic) and thermonuclear reactions—the latter a term used by scientists to describe a hydrogen explosion.

Strauss, commenting last August on the 1953 Soviet experiments, said the Russians "tested a weapon or device of a type well beyond the range of regular fission weapons and which derived a part of its force from the fusion of light elements."

Farmville School Addition Bids Await Approval

Bids on an addition to the Farmville elementary school were opened Wednesday by the County Board of Education, that office revealed this morning.

Superintendent D. H. Conley reported the bids were tabulated and the low bidders filed with the State Board of Education for approval before final execution of the contract. The State Board will meet Oct. 7.

The addition to the elementary school is to complete the building which was begun two years ago, Conley said. The new portion will include three classrooms and a utility room.

Low bidders for the project were Dunn Building Company of Greenville, general, $48,900; William Wiggins Company of Wilson, plumbing, $3,528; Henry Baker Heating Company of Wilson, heating, $3,325; and Dick's Electric Company of Wilson, electricity, $1,862.

At the meeting Wednesday the County Board also reviewed a petition from the Clark's Neck community for bus service to that area from Grimesland at present the high school students from Clark's Neck who attend school in Grimesland are providing their own transportation.

No action was taken by the Board other than to seek counsel and advice in the matter from the State Board of Education, Conley reported.

$1 Million Day

The Greenville Tobacco Market had its first million dollar day of the season yesterday when 1,947,304 pounds of the golden leaf was sold for a total of $1,020,814.76.

The market averaged $52.42 on yesterday's sales. Sales Supervisor W. L. Wheelbee said there was a slight improvement in the quality of the tobacco on yesterday's sales with a sprinkling of the better grade leaf.

However, he indicated the great bulk of the tobacco offered for sale on the local market is still common low grade tips and non-descript tobacco.

Bids Opened On New Building For Health Dept.

Bids for the new Health Department building here were opened this afternoon at 2 o'clock by the Board of County Commissioners.

The Commissioners met at the health office for the opening of the bids for the new department which will be located on a hill on the southeast portion of the Pitt Memorial Hospital property.

Health Director Walter C. Humbert described the new building as a T-shaped brick construction covering 5,900 square feet and having two wings. One wing will contain eight small offices while the other will be utilized for a clinic laboratory, an x-ray room and five examination rooms.

The building will be heated by hot air and flooring will be of asphalt tile. The construction will be fireproof, Humbert said.

The director stated present plans call for 150 working days for construction of the new building.

"If the bids are successful we hope to begin construction right away," he said yesterday.

Drop Zone Given Historic Name

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—Ten years ago today the 82nd Airborne Division made an historic airborne assault on the Nijmegen bridgehead in Holland.

Today the division, led by veterans of that bitter battle, dedicated a new paratrooper drop zone here named "Nijmegen" in honor of that assault.

A member of the Dutch Embassy in Washington brought some Dutch soil which was scattered over the drop zone by air. About 350 paratroopers jumped on the new Nijmegen during the dedication ceremony.

Talks With Eden, Churchill On British Plan Dulles Arrives In London

LONDON (AP)—John Foster Dulles flew into London today for hurried talks with Prime Minister Churchill and Anthony Eden on Britain's new plan for rearming West Germany.

The British foreign secretary met the U.S. secretary of state soon after Eden reported for 90 minutes to Churchill and the Cabinet on his own flying tour of West Europe to drum up support for his plan.

Dulles flew here from Bonn, where he conferred with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer on German sovereignty and rearmament.

In a joint airport statement in Bonn, Dulles and Adenauer made no specific mention of Eden's plan to link a rearmed West Germany to the Brussels Pact and NATO.

They said instead that West Germany sovereignty should be "restored with all speed." They added that Germany's participation "in full equality in the system of collective security" should be considered as "soon as practicable with the other interested governments, and following a NATO ministerial meeting, should be translated into concrete action.

Eden told reporters last night he had reached a "wide measure of agreement" in his talks with the leaders of France, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Italy and West Germany.

But he cautioned that the "practical aspects of the enterprise are far from simple. . . . A good deal of work remains to be done before a solution can be presented to the world."

The main hurdle Eden faces is to try to reconcile French anxiety for controls over German rearmament with U.S.-backed German demands for full sovereignty.

The British plan for rearming West Germany was drawn up after the French National Assembly killed the European Defense Community Treaty to set up a six-nation unified European army. It hinges on two main points:

1. Bringing the Germans and Italians — both wartime enemies — into a streamlined version of the 1948 Brussels alliance of Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. Each ally would be pledged to aid another under attack, and the new grouping would form a basis for promoting the political unity of Western Europe.

2. Giving the Germans full membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization subject to certain safeguards designed to block runaway German rearmament. These safeguards would aim at stopping the Germans from making atomic and hydrogen bombs and other weapons of mass destruction. They also would limit the size of German forces and generally ward off any chance of new German aggression.

Demo Leaders To Base Drive On Discontent Count On Economic Issue

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Democratic leaders made it clear today they are counting heavily on what they described as economic discontent among the voters to gain control of Congress for their party in November.

National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell said in advance of a scheduled closed meeting of the party's national committee that he thinks the country's economic situation is "the basic issue" on which the voters will decide between Republicans and Democrats.

"The disappointment and disillusionment of the voters in the Eisenhower administration is widespread," Mitchell said in an interview. "But I think economics is the basic issue in this campaign."

Similarly, Paul Butler, Indiana state Democratic chairman, who said he is "available" for Mitchell's job when the latter steps down after the election, said that "security for the wage earner and the farmer" is the main question on which he thinks the voters will decide that they want a Democratic Congress.

James Ronan, Illinois state chairman, professed to see "a definite trend cooking" in his state for the Democrats. He said this was based on what he said was dissatisfaction among the farmers over the Eisenhower administration's flexible farm price support program and unemployment in the coal mining and farm implement industries.

Mitchell said that if there is half the gain shown by Democrats generally that was registered by party members in voting percentages in Maine House races, "we will pick up 40 seats in the House." Butler said that as he interprets the Maine results, the Democrats might pick up a net of 60 House seats. He said he thinks Indiana Democrats will start the ball rolling by taking four House places away from the Republicans who now hold a 10-1 edge in this state.

Ronan predicted a Democratic gain of at least four House seats in critical Illinois and observed that he thinks Sen. Paul Douglas, Democrat running for re-election, will defeat his Republican opponent, Joseph T. Meek, President Eisenhower has endorsed Meek and indirectly has chided Douglas as a Democratic "prophet of gloom and doom."

Crash Fatal For 3 Navy Airmen

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C. (AP)—Military authorities reported today that three Navy airmen died last night in the crash of a plane in the surf about 20 miles southeast of here.

The plane crashed while making a practice bombing and rocket run over a beach target. The body of one crewman was recovered by the Coast Guard late last night and surface craft and helicopters from the Elizabeth City Coast Guard Air Station continued the search for the other two bodies today.

Names of the victims were withheld pending notification of next of kin. The plane, attached to the Norfolk Naval Air Station, was a guardian type craft belonging to Anti-Submarine Squadron 30. Three other planes were on the training mission at the time of the crash.

Congratulations Were Hurried

BOSTON (AP)—For a while yesterday Mayor John B. Hynes didn't know whether he was congratulating the right election winner.

Hynes was congratulating Anthony S. Scallii at City Hall for topping 11 candidates for state representative when an election department official interrupted to say a recheck showed Scallii actually lost by 58 votes.

A third check, however, showed that one precinct was counted twice for Gerard Doherty and Scallii really was the winner by 4 votes.

Community Chest Chairman Named

General Chairman and publicity chairman for Greenville's 1954 Community Chest campaign were announced yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the organization's board of directors.

J. B. Kittrell, Jr. will serve as general chairman for this year's Community Chest drive for funds, and W. H. Watson, local attorney, will act as publicity chairman for the campaign.

Kittrell reported plans for this year's drive are progressing. He told the directors that the participating agencies in this year's drive include: Boy Scouts, white and colored; Service League Charity fund; Girl Scouts, white and colored; King's Daughters; Service League Community Service Fund; Teen-age Clubs, white and colored; and the United Defense Fund.

Badger Johnson, local Community Chest president, who presided over the meeting reported that much favorable comment had been received on the half-time ceremonies at last Saturday's football game between East Carolina College and Norfolk Naval Air Station in which the National Guard Color Guard and local scouts paraded with a Community Chest sign.

Johnson expressed thanks to E. E. Rawl, Dr. John D. Messick, Lester Dollar and others who participated in the display. Community Chest Treasurer J. H. Overton reported that the third quarter payments to agencies who are sharing in this year's Community Chest funds had been mailed.

Aggressive Call

TOKYO (AP)—Red China's radio said tonight "all Peoples Liberation Army men in East China" have been alerted to step up preparations for battle on Formosa.

Peiping radio said the call to Red military forces was made by the Chinese Communist party committee of the East China military area.

The Red radio made no mention of skirmishing around Quemoy Island between the Nationalist and Communist Chinese.

Peiping said a directive issued to the military forces:

"Points out that the PLA (Peoples Liberation Army) men in East China, which is on the national defense front directly facing Taiwan (Formosa) and other islands occupied by Chiang Kai-shek, have great responsibilities in the historical task of liberating Taiwan.

"Therefore they must be prepared for combat, continue to strengthen sea, air and land defense, sharpen their vigilance and speed up training for the modernization of the various branches of the armed forces so as to ensure victory against the Chiang bandits."

'Sudden Death' Effort Set Over Entry In UN

WASHINGTON (AP)—American officials are preparing for a one day sudden death struggle over communist renewal next Tuesday of Red China's bid for U.N. membership.

The simple strategy, which has been effective in most of the 150 fruitless attempts by the Communists to unseat Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist delegates, will be to avoid a showdown vote on the issue. Instead, the fight is planned on a move to defer action.

A quick settlement of the perennial question would clear the way for policy statements next week and thus free Secretary of State Dulles in plenty of time for the proposed meeting in late September of nine countries on the question of German sovereignty and rearmament.

Dulles, now visiting Europe to confer with German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, has announced plans to attend the opening session Tuesday of the U.N. General Assembly, meeting at New York City. He will address the 60-nation assembly, probably Thursday.

America's new U.N. delegation, headed by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. was called to the State Department today for swearing in exercises.

The five representatives and five alternates were briefed yesterday by State Department officials on what to expect. The usual attempt by Communist China to gain the seat now held by Nationalist China was forecast as the probable first clash between the free world and the Communists.

Court Suit Is Gun Substitute

TOWSON, Md. (AP)—Mrs. Wanda K. Sieniewski has substituted a court suit for a gun in her fight with a construction company.

She is suing the Leo G. Butler Co. of College Park for $70,000. About a year ago she brought company construction of sewer and water lines to a standstill by impounding its equipment behind chicken wire and standing guard with a rifle.

The 57-year-old grandmother fended off company attempts by land and water to recapture their equipment parked on her property. She gave in after negotiations.

But she is asking $10,000 for property damage, $25,000 for trespassing and $35,000 for damages

Democrat And Republican Campaign Leaders Swing Into Action

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Top echelon Republicans penetrated the Midwest, upper South and East yesterday proclaiming Eisenhower administration accomplishments and pleading for a GOP-controlled 84th Congress to carry forward the President's program.

Meanwhile, the Democratic clan gathered at Indianapolis to gird for the campaign. National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell said today he believes the nation's economic situation will be "the basic issue" in the Nov. 2 election.

The word "Trumanism" showed up in at least two Republican places, indicating, perhaps, one tack the GOP campaign may take.

And the Democrats rushed to stage center their prize political exhibit of the moment — Edmund S. Muskie, who this week became the first Democrat in 20 years to win the governorship in usually Republican Maine.

Back in Washington, Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) confirmed earlier reports that he would not conduct an active speech-making campaign for the Republican cause this fall.

McCarthy said in a statement yesterday he feels he can be of more value to the Republicans by investigating graft, corruption and communism. He said that would help fulfill "the Republican promise to 'clean up the mess in Washington.'"

The Wisconsin Republican said he plans to fulfill commitments already made for three speeches in Nebraska and Illinois. But that, McCarthy said, will be all, except possibly for some radio and TV appearances. The speeches on his schedule: Omaha, Sept. 25; Wheaton, Ill., Sept. 26; Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 1.

The Democrats apparently will have to do without the services of former President Harry S. Truman this fall. Truman underwent an operation last June and National Chairman Mitchell said at Indianapolis the former president still is under doctor's orders to take it easy.

Mitchell told a news conference Truman will make only one major campaign speech, at a party gathering in Kansas City Oct. 16.

In an interview today, Mitchell said, "the disappointment and disillusionment of the voters in the Eisenhower administration is widespread. But I think economics is the basic issue."

Vice President Richard M. Nixon was in Wichita, Kan., last night. He said in a speech that voters face the alternative of continuing what he said is the Eisenhower administration's program of "integrity, firmness and moderation" or of "restoring a program of discredited Trumanism."

Nixon said Republican thrill made possible an over-all 7 1/2 billion dollars in tax relief for "our long-suffering citizens" this year. He blamed "Truman-style" Democrats for 14 of 15 tax increases since 1915, for decreasing personal exemptions and for boosting income taxes 700 per cent since 1933.

The Republican National Committee also used the term "Trumanism" in a pep-talk for campaign workers, published in its journal "Straight from the Shoulder." The committee said the net loss of "just one Senate seat" would mean:

"The Democrats would be running the show. The opposition would decide whether or not the President's program or the Republican legislative program ever will be completed. It would determine whether we can do the things that we ought to do in the interests of our country, or whether the nation will swing back — leftward — to Trumanism."

The Senate makeup in the 83rd Congress most recently was 48 Republicans, 47 Democrats and independent Sen. Morse of Oregon. The GOP publication noted that Morse has announced he will vote with the Democrats on organizing the Senate in the 84th Congress.

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, speaking to the Women's National Republican Club in New York yesterday, said the Republicans will win in November because no political party ever had more good things to talk about.

"Let's talk about getting the war stopped in Korea," Summerfield said. "That's what our people wanted and that's what they got."

House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts touched on the "prosperity" theme in speeches at Louisville, Ky., and Columbus, Ind.

At Louisville, Martin said Republicans have striven for prosperity based on peace instead of war. He praised the Eisenhower administration for making 1953 "the most prosperous year in the history of the United States" and he said the figures show this will be the second most prosperous year.

At Columbus, Martin said the GOP-controlled 83rd Congress "prevented us from slipping back into a recession."

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson said the new farm law checked "the rapid drift toward a regimented agriculture." That law replaced high, rigid price supports on basic farm crops with a new system of sliding scale price props ranging between 82 1/2 and 90 per cent of parity, a price standard declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to

Test Apparently Facing School Rezoning Program

HILLSBORO, Ohio (AP)—School officials this morning turned away Negro children, who, they said, were not eligible to attend former all-white elementary grades at Webster and Washington schools under a new rezoning plan.

Negro children living in the school zone, however, were admitted. Until the start of the school year earlier this week, Negro children up to and including the sixth grade had attended the all-Negro Lincoln School.

A reporter said approximately 20 Negro children, accompanied by several adults, gathered on the sidewalks and, when the school bell rang, entered Webster with other kids.

Principal Harold Henry turned them away from the classrooms. Then the Negro children were sent back into the building in groups of four or five, and were turned away again.

Finally three Negro children living in the Webster School zone were admitted.

At Washington School, about 15 Negro youngsters returned to the classrooms and were admitted pending a check to see if all lived in the school zone.

Twelve Negro children living in the zone are eligible to go to Washington School.

School attendance at the all-Negro Lincoln School was up to between 25 and 30 pupils, instead of the 17-21 average earlier this week. There are 67 Negro elementary-grade children in Hillsboro, school officials said. They added that the parents of several apparently kept them home today, pending outcome of the situation.

Police were on hand at both Webster and Washington.

The tests led by Negro adults were conducted quietly.

The new school zoning system became official today. It was adopted earlier this week because of crowded school rooms, the officials said, without any intent to segregate racially.

Mother Saves Son's Life

Church Women Hear Talk On 'Stewardship'

Women of the First Presbyterian Church met Monday evening, Sept. 13th, at 8:00 p.m. in the Church Parlor.

Mrs. Lawrence Smith, president, presided. The opening prayer was made by Mrs. Hubert Bryant.

Mrs. Smith reviewed interesting highlights of the conference she attended at Peace College this summer.

Mrs. Bryan Brown read for devotional the 12th chapter of Romans.

Mrs. Fred Webb had charge of the program giving a most interesting and inspiring talk on "Stewardship," written by Dr. Frank Hall.

At the close of her talk, a hymn, "Take Time To Be Holy," was sung.

Mrs. W. W. Brown dismissed the meeting with prayer.

Firemen's Wives Hold Charter Meeting

BETHEL—The Bethel Firemen's Wives had their charter meeting on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the home of Mrs. H. M. Andrews.

The meeting was called to order by the chairman, Mrs. Andrews, after which the business was discussed.

Plans were made for the coming year which are to be outlined at a later date.

The officers for the club were president, Mrs. Horace Tetterton; vice-president, Mrs. Ernest Alexander; secretary, Mrs. Robert Weeks; treasurer, Mrs. H. M. Andrews; and membership secretary, Mrs. Joe Andrews.

The next meeting will be held on September 28 with Mrs. J. R. Bunting.

During the social hour the hostesses served delicious chocolate and coconut cake, coffee and Coca-Colas to Mesdames J. R. Bunting, Joe Andrews, J. M. Andrews, James Crandrews, H. M. Andrews, James Crandrews, Robert Whitehurst, Ernest Alexander, Robert Weeks, Horace Tetterton, and Franklin Whitehurst.

WCTU Met Monday With Mrs. Harris

BETHEL—The Woman's Christian Temperance Union met on Monday afternoon at 3:30 in the home of Mrs. J. P. Harris.

The group first sang "Stand Up For Jesus" after which Mrs. Harris gave a short prayer.

The program was then turned over to Mrs. W. R. Bullock. She opened by reading a scripture and then gave an interesting discussion on "Mary and Martha Serving." It was most impressive and given in a pleasing manner.

The president, Mrs. R. L. Whiteley, presided and the business began by the secretary, Miss Athaleen Rollins, calling the roll and reading the minutes of the last meeting.

It was decided at this meeting that the union would send the magazine, "Union Signal" to Mr. and Mrs. John B. Parker in Costa Rica. Mr. and Mrs. Parker are former residents of this community and now are missionaries. This will now credit the Bethel W.C.T.U. as being a life line union.

The group was dismissed with the Aaronic benediction.

The hostess served delicious strawberry short cake to the members present.

Christian Church Announcements

The male quartet of the Christian Church composed of Ralph Sullivan, Cliff Sullivan, Tom Swain, and Robert S. Moye will sing at the morning service Sunday "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning," an arrangement by Bliss.

The service Sunday morning will include a dedication blessing for infants whose parents are members of the congregation. The pastor will speak to two questions, "Who? Me?"

The Christian Woman's Fellowship will have its first full session Monday afternoon at 3:30 at the church. The program is in charge of Circle No. 3, of which Mrs. L. S. Garris is chairman, and the newly elected president, Mrs. Robert S. Moye, will preside at the business session.

All the women of the Fellowship are urged to show loyal service to the organization in its advancing program and to support the new officers.

The congregation of the Christian Church was saddened Thursday night by the passing of L. B. Fleming, long time member of the church, a chairman for many years of the board of officers of the church, a Christian business man associated with the life of Greenville and Pitt County for several decades, and a Christian gentleman of the highest order.

The Youth Organizations of the church will meet Sunday evening at 6 o'clock for fellowship, worship, study, and recreation.

Pitt County Post No. 39 of the American Legion will have a supper meeting at the Rotary building next Tuesday, September 21, at 7 o'clock. Commander S. H. Whitehurst will preside.

Drama Club To Stage Two Plays

The Teachers Playhouse, East Carolina College dramatic club, began its 1954-1955 season Thursday night of this week, when plans for the production of two full-length plays were discussed, according to an announcement by Douglas Mitchell of Greenville, president.

An organizational meeting in the College Theatre included a social hour and tryouts for parts in the two plays. Casts will be announced soon.

James Thurber and Elliott Nugent's popular comedy "The Male Animal," first production for the school year, will be presented in the College Theatre on the campus October 12 and 13. This play will also be given October 7 as the first attraction of the Entertainment Series at North Carolina State College, Raleigh.

"Years Ago," a comedy by Ruth Gordon, will be presented in November with an all-freshman cast. Committees for staging, lighting, properties, costumes, and make-up will also be composed of new students at the college. "Years Ago" will be the first venture by the Teachers Playhouse in producing a play staged and acted exclusively by freshmen.

The general public such united efforts as will secure for every child the highest advantages in physical, mental, social, and spiritual education.

"The aims of the P.T.A. and the aims of the school are the same," Miss Wahl concluded. She closed her program by quoting the poem "Unity" by Cleo Victoria Stewart.

Mrs. M. P. Hoot introduced Miss Wahl and the teachers, noting the number of years each had served in the public schools—a total of 218 years of service. Mrs. Hoot also mentioned that Frank Norris, the custodian, had been a faithful friend to the teachers and students for 32 years.

The faculty formed a receiving line in the cafeteria where delicious refreshments were served. Two hundred and twenty-two attended the meeting.

Reception Given To Honor Teachers Wahl-Coates School

On Thursday, September 14, the Wahl-Coates School P.T.A. held its first meeting of the year. A lovely reception was given in honor of Miss Frances Wahl and the teachers.

The members were welcomed by Mrs. J. W. Overton, president. The meeting was opened by the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner." Mr. H. F. Steinbeck gave an inspiring devotional, using as his text Luke 6:36.

Miss Wahl read the aims of the P.T.A. which are as follows:

To promote the welfare of children and youth in home, school, church and community;

To raise the standards of home life;

To secure adequate laws for the care and protection of children and youth;

To bring into closer relation the home and the school, that parents and teachers may cooperate intelligently in the training of the child;

To develop between educators and

Plays Wesley

Leonard Sachs in Title Role of film "JOHN WESLEY"

Leonard Sachs is featured in the lead in the color film, "John Wesley," which will be shown in Jarvis Memorial Church, Sunday, Sept. 19, at 7:30 p.m. Mr. Sachs was chosen because in physical stature and in manner he closely resembles John Wesley, the founder of Methodism.

The picture was directed by Norman Walker. It was filmed at several famous places in Britain, including the 278-year-old St. Paul's Cathedral in London, where movie cameras had never been allowed until church leaders gave special permission for this one time.

The movie was produced by The Methodist Church with the assistance of J. Arthur Rank, English movie producer who is a prominent Methodist layman. It is not being shown commercially, but was released September 1 to local congregations of The Methodist Church.

Whitfield told the Legionnaires that putting all thousand into effect would undoubtedly help.

"But it is our conviction that neither science nor engineering, no matter how wisely or widely applied, can provide a permanent solution," he continued. "This problem has its roots in the minds of men, and it is there we must look for the answer."

Whitfield said that in recent years "dirt roads have become roaring super-highways."

"We have seen automobiles grow from one-lunged toys to giants of more than 200 horsepower," the corporal declared. "We have seen the safety crusade grow from a few slogans, articles, and speeches."

"But each year, we have seen the daredevil and the heedless rush by to destruction; the family outing to a tourist taking a trip to nowhere; the party-goes dashing home to a life of pain."

Whitfield stated that violation of the rules of the road is a prelude to disaster as are gross carelessness and the wilful abuse of highway etiquette.

"Although it is not our function to analyze or moralize more deeply, the conclusion is obvious," the patrolman emphasized. "In most accidents, the guilty party is man and not machine."

Patrolman Says Safety Is A Personal Problem

AYDEN — "If the accident scene is to grow more peaceful and less deadly, the great change will have to come from the drivers and pedestrians who are now causing fatal accidents," Corporal C. E. Whitfield of the State Highway Patrol told members of the Ayden American Legion Post last night.

"Over the years, a thousand pianos and panaces have crossed our desks," the corporal continued. "Highway construction is the answer. Safety belts are the cure-all; padded instrument panels; speed governors; electronic policemen; stricter enforcement of the motor vehicle laws. All of these and many more are advanced as the one final answer to the problem of highway accidents."

Whitfield told the Legionnaires that putting all thousand into effect would undoubtedly help.

"But it is our conviction that neither science nor engineering, no matter how wisely or widely applied, can provide a permanent solution," he continued. "This problem has its roots in the minds of men, and it is there we must look for the answer."

"Knowing that all you men are veterans of World War I and II which was indeed an honor for you to serve your country so that the people in America and North Carolina could have freedom, I urge each one present to continue to serve in a continued safety program to protect the people who ride the highways," Whitfield concluded.

The patrolman was introduced by the Post Commander Van D. Hatch. A guest of the club at last night's meeting was Highway Patrolman W. E. Whitehurst of Ayden.

Christian Science

How we may prove and experience man's God-given dominion over material bondage of all kinds—sin, disease, and limitation—will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday. The subject of the Lesson-Sermon is "MATTER."

The spiritual heritage of freedom which belongs to man is set forth in the following selection from the Bible (Galatians 4:6-7): "And because ye are sons, God hath sent forth the Spirit of his Son into your hearts, crying, Abba, Father. Wherefore thou art no more a servant, but a son; and if a son, then an heir of God through Christ."

The following passage will be among those read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (223:3): "Sooner or later we shall learn that the fetters of man's finite capacity are forged by the illusion that he lives in body instead of in Soul, in matter instead of in Spirit."

'Books and Stuff'

DR. ED. HIRSBERG

Local item of note this week is the publication of "Confederate Finance," by Richard C. Todd of the East Carolina History Department. The book was awarded the Mrs. Simon Baruch University Prize of $1000 by the U.D.C., and published by the University of Georgia Press. Congratulations to Dr. Todd on his scholarly accomplishment, and we hope lots of people will be reading his opus.

Also of interest to scholars is the recent publication of "The George Eliot Letters," edited by Professor Gordon S. Haight and issued by the Yale University Press. More than half of the letters it contains by the author of "Silas Marner," "Adam Bede," and many other famous novels have not yet been published.

As long as we're going overboard on scholarship and the University Press, we're like to mention the Library Extension Publications put out by Chapel Hill. We just got an announcement from the U.N.C. Library Extension Department, which we're happy to pass on to interested readers:

The service is maintained for the purpose of bringing to the citizens of N.C. and their neighbors some of the advantages available to residents of the University. To do this, the Service offers Study Outlines of books of special interest and loans readers or club groups who want to borrow books to borrow them at a reasonable fee. We recommend the Library Extension Department, and would be glad to help out with suggestions if any of the local book clubs here want any.

And speaking of book clubs—one of our favorite subjects—after all, we're in the business—the Book-of-the-Month Club has just come out with a brand new scheme, not to sell more books, but to sell records. What the Club is offering is to send you what they call Music-Appreciation records, which present great musical masterpieces on one side and analyses of the music on the other—quite an interesting idea. The first record is offered free, just as a sample, and is Beethoven's Fifth Symphony—so you certainly can't lose if you send away for it.

And another new wrinkle in book-selling is called the American Heritage, "a unique periodical in book form," which comes out six times a year and concerns itself with American history. It's sponsored jointly by The Association for State and Local History and The Society of American Historians, and its editor will be Bruce Catton, author of "Mr. Lincoln's Army," "Glory Road," and last year's Pulitzer Prize winner, "A Stillness at Appomattox." Yearly subscription rate is $12.00, cost for single copies at your newsstand or bookstore, $2.95.

Another very good deal in books: A new paper-back series, called Vintage Books, just issued and priced very reasonably at 95 cents apiece. First list of titles contains such outstanding works as "The Art of Teaching," by Gilbert Highet, "The Stranger," by Albert Camus and "Howards End," by E.M. Forster—all strictly first class and fine additions to anyone's library—especially at that price. And all complete and unabridged. Future plans: The October selection of the Literary Guild has just been announced. It will be "Katherine," a novel by Anya Seton, author also of "My Theodora," "Dragonwyck," and others.

"Katherine" is set against a background of 14th century England and concerns a colorful heroine who rises from obscurity to become a duchess—the plot sounds familiar, but maybe this one will be different.

This month marks the 300th anniversary of the arrival of the first group of Jewish immigrants to America, who came to New Amsterdam—now New York—from Brazil, in 1654. Two new books have just come out, commemorating the event and presenting some of the historical facts about the life of Jews in the United States: "Adventure in Freedom," by Oscar Handlin, a professor of history at Harvard, and "The Jews in America: A History," by Rufus Learsi.

Erskine Caldwell has just had a new novel published, "Love and Money," about post-war sophisticates doing their drinking and other activities in various night spots in Sarasota, New Orleans, Galveston and Santa Barbara—about as far away in tone and content from "Tobacco Road" as you can get.

On the local scene: We have it on good authority the first production to be staged by the College Theatre, under the direction of Professor Joseph Wilthey, will be "The Male Animal," to be presented in November. Something we have always wanted to see but have always missed, we think "The Male Animal" an excellent choice.

Our reviewer this week is Mrs. Faye O'Neal, a Junior at the College and Editor-in-Chief of the "East-Carolinian," the college newspaper.

McInnes is much more wordy than most modern writers. Instead of the short, terse sentences usually encountered in today's novels, the reader finds himself buried in lengthy description and completing 100 pages before any real action takes place. The selection of words in places is a little odd; for instance, the virtuous heroine's hair "trickled from her back."

According to 20th Century American standards, the errant wife and her lover, especially the latter, are the most interesting characters. The others in the story are not so easily seen, but each of them is at least unique.

If you still feel the lure of tropical island stories, and can stretch your imagination to see "trickling hair," it might be a good idea to read Graham McInnes' LOST ISLAND.

Evangelist Team Begins Services

JACK CEMER

The Cemer evangelistic team representing the world-wide "Voice of Prophecy" radio program, opens a series of services tonight at 7:30 at the cathedral tent in the western suburbs of Greenville.

The evangelist recently completed a series of meetings in Bermuda.

Jack Cemer is music director and baritone soloist. Corea Cemer plays the vibra-harp and is a trumpet soloist and chalk artist. Two numbers on the program are a short health talk on "How to Add 10 Years to Your Life" by the evangelist, and a story hour for children by Barbara Wilson. Bibles will be given free to children attending the story hour.

A song service each night at 7:30 precedes the meeting. Dan Sutton is organist, Mrs. Julia Tyson is pianist, and Mrs. Alma Martz is hostess. The public is invited to attend all services.

Judge James Speaks On The Constitution At D A R Meeting

FARMVILLE—The Major Benjamin May Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution was graciously entertained on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 11, 1954 at the Chapter House with Misses Tabitha M. De Visconti and Dixie Barrett as hostesses.

Mrs. Ellen L. Carroll, vice regent, presided in the absence of the regent, Mrs. H. D. Moyer.

Mrs. John B. Wright, Yearbook chairman, distributed the 1954-55 yearbooks, then she read the President General's message, in which Miss Carraway stressed the need for well chosen and informative programs.

Mrs. Carroll led the Chapter in the D.A.R. ritual. Mrs. E. Bruce Beasley, chaplain, gave an inspiring meditation on some of the tunnels in life faced by a Christian, using as the keynote verse, "In Thee, O Lord, do I hope," Psalm 38:15. This was followed by the Lord's Prayer. The assemblage joined in singing the National Anthem and Pledge of Allegiance to the flag.

During the business session a list of committees for 1954-55 was read. Miss Tabitha M. De Visconti, chairman of Red Cross, urged each member to support plans for Bloodmobile visit October 1, either by giving blood or serving in some capacity. Mrs. Walter Taylor, executive secretary of Pitt County Red Cross, from Greenville, was recognized.

T.B. Seals will be mailed on November 22 and Miss De Visconti asked each member to help make the 1954 T.B. sale a success.

Miss De Visconti told of the historical plaque to be placed in the Pitt County Court House. The plaque will commemorate the 88 signers of the Pitt County Resolves. Miss Jesse Rountree Moyer of Greenville, chairman, was recognized.

Mrs. E. B. Beasley, membership chairman, presented the name of Mrs. Joseph Batchelor for membership in the Chapter. This received an unanimous vote.

An invitation was read from the Miles Harvey Chapter of D.A.R. of Tarboro to the Chapter to attend the Eighth District Meeting on Wednesday, September 22, 1954 at 10:30 a.m.

Judge James, the guest speaker, was presented by Miss Tabitha M. De Visconti. Judge James is Judge of the Recorder's Court and holds the longest service record of any elected official in the county. Also, he is a charter member of the Pitt County Historical Society.

Judge James spoke on "What the Constitution Means to Us," stating the study of the Constitution is quite a hobby with him and he would speak more about the spirit of the Constitution. He said the Constitutional system is not young, but had its beginning more than 2000 years ago with the Anglo Saxon people. These people believed in freedom, shared lands, elected own chiefs, rights of women equal. Judge James spoke of the good and bad rulers in this period of history, naming Alfred the Great as one of the good rulers and King John as one of the bad rulers. "Can it be said we are a young nation when 2000 years of ups and downs have been experienced by Anglo Saxon race?" Judge James asked.

In a recent editorial, The News and Observer proposed again a proposition which is extremely distasteful to The Reflector and most supporters of East Carolina College. The Raleigh newspaper again suggested it might be a good idea to consider the consolidation of East Carolina College as a part of the Greater University.

Frankly, we are opposed to any such proposition, and we are sure the other supporters of East Carolina College are.

For many years, while it was a struggling young institution, East Carolina was virtually ignored by Raleigh and the Greater University. Now that it has blossomed into a major institution of higher learning in North Carolina, it seems it has become the object of jealousy from other institutions.

East Carolina College has thrived in spite of, or because of, absence of control by the Consolidated University. Certainly pride in their college among Eastern North Carolinians has been a dominant factor inciting its growth and popularity.

What other college in North Carolina can equal East Carolina's record of growth in the past eight years?

For the sake of argument also, we might point out that a recent evaluation of the Consolidated University caused the men who made the evaluation to assert the Consolidated University has failed to accomplish a single goal which was set up as part of the consolidation move.

East Carolina College - as a state institution separate from the Consolidated University - has served well not only Eastern North Carolina but the whole state. Its growth is ample evidence the college has filled a need which was not, or could not be filled by the Consolidated University.

Certainly East Carolina has become an institution of far greater scope than a mere

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
MENACE TODAY

Three things which stand out in the modern world appear above all others to menace us. There is the menace of science, the menace of history, and the menace of psychology. Science has filled us with pride. It has tended to shut our minds to new ideas or to the validity of old ideas unless all ideas are in some way connected with material forces. The outcome of this to date is the menace of the hydrogen bomb. We will be conscious of added dangers to which science is exposing us as time passes.

The menace of history is largely to be seen in the nationalism which afflicts the world. Nationalism, up to a certain point, is a blessing; after that it becomes a curse. It is inconceivable to us on the North American continent that through the centuries people on the continent of Europe can continue their hatred against neighbors who live on the other side of the river or across a boundary line.

The menace of psychology arises from the fact that it has convinced us that practically all our troubles come from disorders in the realm of the unconscious mind. A belief like this involves all sorts of inconsistencies and gets us into a peck of trouble. We will change after we have had a chance to think things over for a few more decades. But right now, Freud has the world by the throat.

Every age has menacing dangers hanging over it.

National Whirligig

Mendes-France' Viewpoint

By RAY TUCKER

PARIS—Premier Pierre Mendes-France, who has frequently been compared to a 1933 Washington New Dealer, cites F.D.R.'s reversal of his own program, in that year in self-defense against the storm of criticism raging against him in Europe, Britain and the United States.

In opposing the European Defense Community in its present form, and in demanding revisions unacceptable to the U.S., Britain and Germany, the French Premier explains that he is "putting first things first" in his effort to revive a disheartened and disillusioned people.

To this realistic statesman "first things" mean domestic economic recovery. Despite tremendous American aid, France is the most bedraggled country on the continent. Coming here from Germany, Holland and Belgium is like entering a poorhouse.

In conferences with foreign diplomats, Mendes-France warns that, unless he can increase wages, lower prices, balance the budget, expand industrial and agricultural exports, his country might easily become entirely Communist.

The Reds have about 100 members in the Chamber, and they vote solidly in accord with commands from Moscow. They control the executive committees of the most powerful and essential labor unions. They are strong among the students, the professors and the artists on the Left Bank.

PREMIER RECALLS PAST—A deep student of world politics, Mendes-France recalls that Roosevelt torpedoed the London Monetary Conference in 1933, leaving the then Secretary of State Hull and Assistant Secretary Moley in the lurch on the steps of Whitehall, and devoting the next six years to reviving industry and agriculture.

In fact, until Hitler invaded Poland, F.D.R. gave hardly any thought to Europe. As to postwar help, the French take the viewpoint that we are simply insuring that any future war will be fought in Europe, far from our shores. They do not regard us as philanthropists.

Mendes-France likewise has his grievances against the Churchill Government. The Prime Minister and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden gave the Paris leader a chilly welcome when, after his rebuff at the Brussels Conference, he tried to obtain stronger commitments of military aid from London.

With her membership in NATO, and her pledge to maintain a force on the continent as long as U.S. troops remain here, England feels that she has done enough, or as much as her limited resources will permit.

Mendes-France, and many American diplomats and military men, think that Britain should agree to join the European Defense Community as a full and teachers college. It has developed to meet the demands of this section of the state. It will continue to develop into a larger institution with a still broader curriculum if it is not stymied by factions which put a halter on growth of state educational institutions outside the Consolidated University.

It would be a grave disservice to North Carolina should East Carolina be relegated to the position of a little frog in the Greater University's pond.

Someone Is Needed To Do The "Compulsing"

As long as school attendance is compulsory in North Carolina, it follows there should be someone specifically designated to do the "compulsing" . . . if there be such a word. When truancy is relegated to a secondary role in law enforcement, it is naturally going to receive only secondary attention.

And how many school principals are there who feel they can give their responsibilities full attention when that attention is divided between actually supervising a school and an everpresent mass of paperwork?

Our sympathies are with the State Board of Education in seeking a solution to these problems. The Board included a request for $2,485,420 this week before the Advisory Budget Commission to hire attendance officers and supply clerical assistance for principals.

It is self-evident something should be done about attendance officers and clerical help for principals; but experience tells us that what "should be" not always "can be."

With declining revenues and rising costs, North Carolina's budget writers are confronted by a problem of keeping costs at a minimum and "painlessly" increasing revenues.

The Education Board's request for the next two fiscal years runs about $21.5 millions above the present biennium. The chairman of the board's Finance Committee, J. T. Pritchett, says the total sum ($270 millions) is believed "essential to operate the schools at the present level."

That is a heap of money. And in view of limited available funds, we wonder if North Carolina's school system can get such an allocation.

The only new item in the requested budget is that $2.5 million for attendance officers and principals' assistants. Maybe that will have to be bypassed. Some sort of responsibility in the matter of sending children to school should be borne by parents; but that still leaves our school administration holding the bag.

active member, since she is an integral part of the European system.

BRITISH ALIBI—The Churchill-Eden contention, that membership would weaken or jeopardize relations with the British Commonwealth, is regarded on the continent as a convenient alibi.

In Europe's opinion, Churchill has already presided over the "liquidation" of the British Empire. They think that England should cuddle up a little closer, now that the 21 swimmable miles of Channel water offer her much less protection.

At the moment, the ablest French statesman since World War II is concerned over the separate negotiations which Washington and London are conducting with German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer regarding the granting of political sovereignty and military rearmament to the nation which has invaded France three times within 70 years, reducing it from a prosperous, proud and powerful empire to a shadow of its former glory and wealth.

A settlement unpopular in Paris would drive Mendes-France from office, to be replaced by either a Communist or a nationalistic and noncooperative member of the de Gaulle faction. Either development would be calamitous to the common defense of Western Europe against Russian attack. Eisenhower and Churchill have been warned of this possibility.

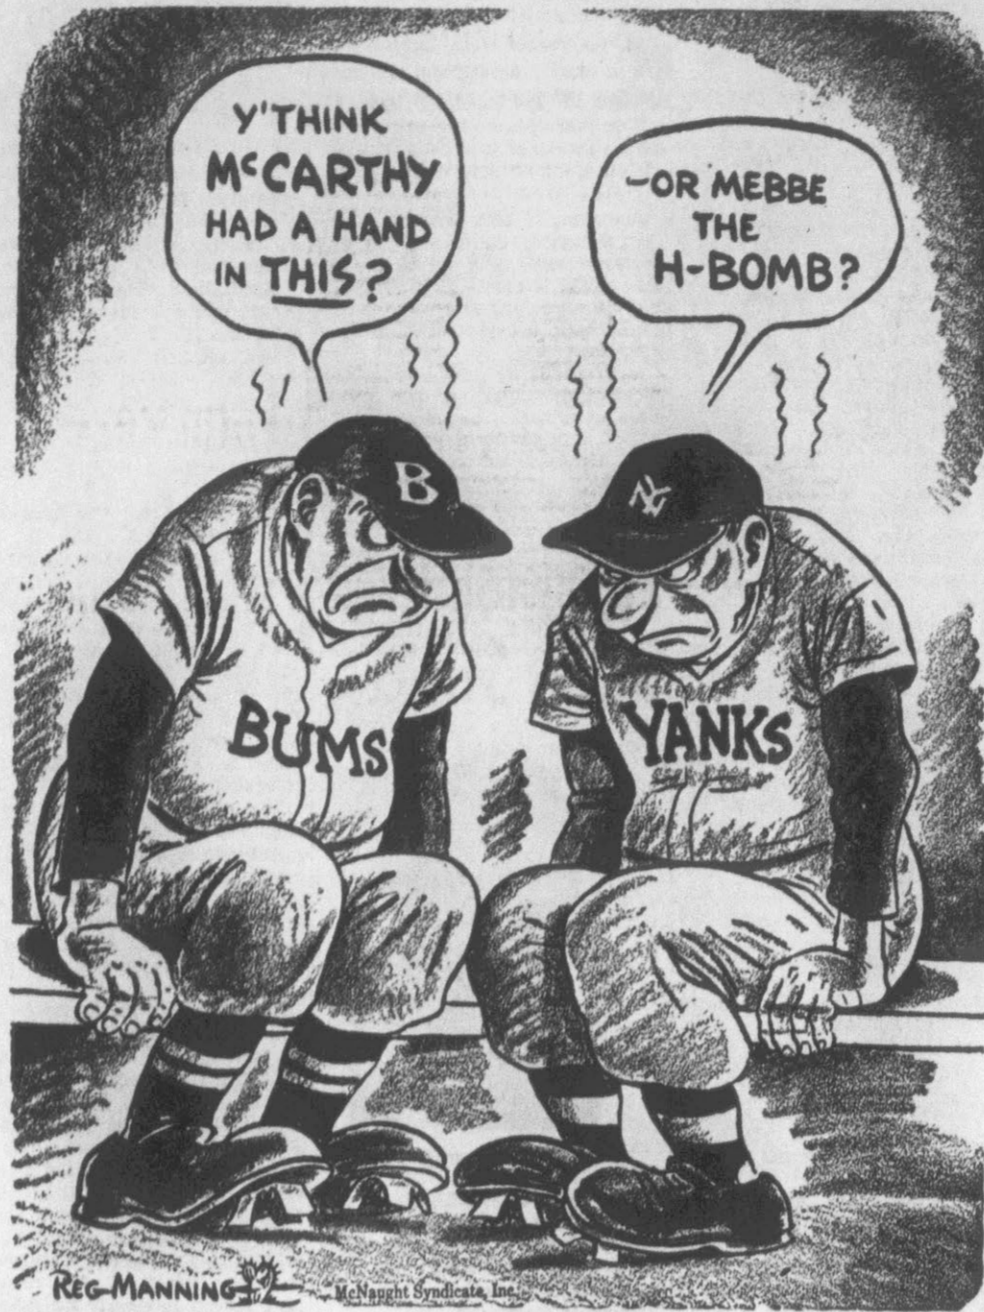

It is no accident of language that la belle France assumes the feminine gender. She is like a woman. The Allies cannot get along with her, and they cannot get along without her.

MENDES-FRANCE ASSET TO WEST — The Western Allies must find a way, and they realize it, to keep Mendes-France in power, for he is both popular and able. Although the pact was not completely satisfactory, he obtained peace in Indo-China on the date he named. The arrangement was at least as good as Eisenhower negotiated in Korea. The dynamic 47-year-old leader has stopped killings and feuds in North Africa. He has wrested from Parliament full economic power until March 31 to stave off a complete financial collapse.

He is the first French Premier since the now discredited de Gaulle to fire the French people's enthusiasm and imagination. He refused to move into the palace reserved for the Prime Minister, installing his staff in the Foreign Ministry's Office. He demanded that French diplomats be at their desks by 8:45 instead of 11 o'clock, and that they have their desks clean before they quit in the evening.

Like F.D.R., he delivers periodical fireside chats, talking to the people over the heads of hostile, stubborn or fearful Deputies. He formed the youngest Cabinet that France has ever known. All these examples of Gallic simplicity delight both the peasants and the Parisians.

Who To Blame

Somebody Told Me

Everybody Has Parking Ideas

Yesterday I was having one of my regular pow-wows with City Councilman Gene West, mayor pro-tem. "Gene," I said, "I don't want to be different from everybody else. Let's talk about parking."

The one regulation that I want passed most of all is to forbid parking on the South side of East Fifth Street. One of the most enjoyable parts of any working man's life is driving to and from work on East Fifth, all the while watching the pretty college girls travel the street. If everybody enjoyed watching them as much as I do, a regulation would be passed to move all obstructing cars. It's a pure traffic hazard. Trying to see the girls through the parked cars makes driving unsafe. It's a wonder there aren't several pile-ups every day.

Seriously, when I pinned Gene down about parking he came up with the most appealing suggestion I've heard yet. Why not fill up the swimming pool on East Fifth and convert it into a parking lot?

Here are the factors: The property belongs to the city. With all the paving and other city building that goes on, dirt could be hauled into the pool little by little, relatively inexpensively. Suppose it takes a year to fill it up? At least we would have something in sight to get 30 to 40 cars off the street.

The swimming pool bath house is now being used as the Greenville high school band room, but in the near future the band will be headquartered in the new building on Elm Street. Therefore, it's safe to assume that the building could be torn down for additional space.

It's possible to let the pool be a basement of a parking lot and build a deck for additional cars. The way the pool is laid out, there are all kinds of possibilities.

The regulations must be changed before parking meter money may be used for parking improvements. The council should be encouraged to change this regulation. Now the money goes in the general fund.

Suppose it would cost $5,000 to fill in the pool. With a new regulation the lot could be metered long enough to pay the $5,000 back with interest.

How could this be done? By the council, of course. It's the most encouraging idea I've heard of late. Let's talk it up and with pressure applied at the right place we should either have a lot on the way or know the reason why. And I thank Gene. JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

WHY NOT TRY UNDERSTANDING THE FRENCH? (Kinston Free Press)

The failure of the European Defense Community has been hailed as a major blow to Western unity and the plan for collective security in Europe. It is all that and more. But the reaction of certain diplomats to French refusal to go along with the EDC idea is difficult to fathom. It sounds as if the French were the enemy, instead of the founders of the whole idea of EDC.

Three times in 70 years the French were the enemy, instead have advanced cooperation and good will, when the military might of France and all her friends was required to turn back the German military machines. Right now the National Socialists in Germany are staging a comeback and only the past Sunday the regime of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer suffered a significant loss of ground in an election which was marked by gains for the Socialists.

The Germans now want full sovereignty and the right to have their own army in the NATO set-up. It is an understandable desire for a nation that has been occupied now since 1945 and divided between East and West. The next major move on the part of the Soviets may well be an appeal for a Berlin Conference to offer "unity" to Germany—a proposal which would further divide the Allies and make for certain trouble in the current efforts to keep the EDC idea before the Europeans as a possible way out.

The French have innumerable bases which have been turned over to the Americans for use in the defense of Europe. These bases are not likely to go back to the French for another generation, despite the failure of EDC. The French are still sympathetic with the idea of keeping the free world free, although their inability to go along with a re-armed Germany has stymied the EDC effort for the present.

The French do not want to be put in the position of making another war inevitable. Their real interests are in the path of peace and cooperation with the Western Powers. But they have their problems too. Cutting off economic aid from the French at this stage would merely play into the hands of the Reds and further alienate the French.

What Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and his diplomatic staff must do now is to seek some other common ground of cooperation with the French. It would be far easier if a real effort were made to try to understand what motivated French action on EDC. In other words if Americans were placed in the French position—would their verdict have been substantially different?

Take Your Chances

By ELMER ROESSNER
In addition to the discount houses that start up frequently, there is another kind of store that pops up more and more.

This type of store calls itself a discount house. It may issue "discount cards" and accept other discount houses' cards. Its signs and its sales staff say everything is sold at 10, 20, 30 or more per cent under list price. A few well-known brands are on display, priced less than their well known prices. That proves it, doesn't it?

Not quite. The rest of the merchandise may consist of:

1. — Unknown brands with "list" prices set extraordinarily high just so they may be sold at a deep discount and still leave the seller a better than average profit.
2. — Last year's models — and sometimes 1952 models — not identified as obsolete.
3. — Floor samples from other dealers, and even used articles slicked up to look like new.

Let the employer jolly well caveat, eh? But that's not all. Some of the selling is just as shady. Some of these devices may be employed:

1. — Raising the prices of various articles, often with gold stickers such as a manufacturer might use, in order to give a big "discount" and still make a fat profit.
2. — Pointing out a different — and more expensive — model in a catalogue to make the customer believe the list price is higher than it is.
3. — Adding "warranty," "insurance," "delivery" and other charges to the price, there regaining most of the discount.
4. — Switching, by persuading customers to accept overpriced brands instead of more desirable makes, usually by low-grading the latter.

And suppose a shopper insists on having the well known brand displayed, and having it at the deep-cut price indicated? Then, it turns out that the displayed article is imperfect, or that it is for display only and that the order can't be filled for six weeks.

But suppose the shopper is still insistent, so insistent, that the salesman actually sells her the article on display? He's fired.

PRESIDENTS INVITED BACK TO UNIVERSITY

Top management will be offered a course in public relations this fall by New York University. Classes start at 6:30 P.M., breaking into the cocktail hour. Dr. Hector Lazo, professor of marketing, is the instructor.

Dr. Lazo will not teach the writing of press releases, nor how to crash a TV program. Instead, the course will deal with company relations with stockholders, the plant community, dealers, government and consumer groups.

UNINCORPORATED FIRMS NOT BAD CREDIT RISK

The average banker will say that a corporation is generally a better risk than a nonincorporated business. But Frances W. Quantius, assistant professor of economics at Ohio State, has made a study that shows individual businessmen and partners aren't such bad risks after all. Only when the repayment records of all loans in his sample are lumped do corporations look like better credit risks. But unincorporated borrowers in many industries are better than the incorporated ones.

Unincorporated mining companies were better than others, and unincorporated retailers were just as good as others. In manufacturing and wholesaling, however, the corporations were better payers.

PROFITS IN REMODELING TOLD IN NEW BOOK

A book containing a series of step-by-step case histories of successful rehabilitation of homes and other properties has been published by the National Association of Real Estate Boards. The 100-page book, "Rehabilitation as a Business," is intended to help builders and others tackle the problem of converting antiquated properties into profitable, modern structures. It points out many pitfalls to enable builders to avoid them. (The book is available for $1 from the Association, 1727 K St., N.W., Washington 6, D.C.)

Now Doctor, Here's My Problem

By SAUL PETT
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP)—It is, of course, the sign of an immature mind. Don't you agree, doctor?

But then my mind has always run in that direction. Every time—just a second, I want to turn and get more comfortable on this couch—every time some problem comes up, I immediately begin imagining the most dramatic solution possible.

An inability to face reality, to accept the world the way it is? Yes, I quite agree. That's been my trouble. For example, what other grown man would have the same reaction to the day's news? I read that Louis Wolfson is getting ready to battle Sewell Avery for the control of Montgomery Ward. My eye looks up from the paper and out the window.

A fight for control of a billion-dollar corporation. Both men battle for the stockholders' votes. Each fails to get a decisive majority. The tension rises. How do you settle this?

Outside, silhouetted against a harvest moon, a lonely farm boy plays a haunting tune of his own making on a mall-order saxophone. And inside, Avery and Wolfson deal out a game of two-handed showdown. The first ace wins Montgomery Ward.

See what I mean, doctor? Totally unrealistic.

The last time the auto workers in Detroit demanded a pay raise, I immediately saw a titanic struggle in the making. Collective bargaining failed. The strike deadline came closer. The spectre of closed factories, stilled assembly lines and more than a 1,000,000 jobless men dipping into the cookie jar for grocery money became stronger and stronger.

Federal conciliators step in. They fail, too. Each side refuses to budge. What to do? Only one thing to do. In some neutral area, the corner of a desk top is cleared, and Harlow Curcise, president of General Motors, and Walter Reuther, president of the CIO Auto Workers, sit down to an Indian wrestling match.

As their muscles tighten, as drops of perspiration begin to glide down their foreheads, as their locked forearms sway first to the left and then to the right, a lonely night watchman in a darkened factory begins to beat drumsticks in a slow, sedate rhythm on the fish-tail of a half-finished Cadillac.

Irrational? I know, I know, doctor. But that's not the worst of it. The picture I've been visualizing lately is really insane. Anybody who knows anything knows it can't happen.

After being more than eight games out, the Milwaukee Braves begin to pull up. On the last game of the regular season, they tie the Giants for the National League pennant. Comes the playoff, best two out of three.

The Giants win the first. The Braves win the second. It is now third game and the bottom of the ninth, the Giants leading 4 to 2. Johnny Antonelli, whom the Giants got is a trade with Milwaukee for Bobby Thomson, is pitching.

There's one out. The Braves get a man on first and third. The winning run is at the plate. And who comes to bat? Doctor, I'm so excited, I'll roll off this couch. Who comes to bat? Bobby Thomas: That's who comes to bat. Yep, the same man who hit the homer that won the pennant under the same conditions for the Giants in 1951. That's who comes to bat. Isn't it utterly insane?

What's that, doctor? You say, you've been having the same thought lately? Can't sleep, huh? No appetite? Always restless, fidgety? We're both in bad shape.

Increased Education Budget Due Largely To Expansion

By LYNN NISBET

SCHOOLS — It will require $270,494,887 to operate the public school system during the next biennium. That is an increase of nearly $24 million over appropriations for the current biennium. The amount includes only expenditures directly under the State Board of Education, and does not take into account the costs of the State Department of Public Instruction, the State contribution to teacher retirement, or several other smaller items of school expense.

In presenting the program to the advisory budget commission, John A. Pritchett, chairman of the finance committee of the State Board, explained that it represented no new activities and no increase in salaries other than statutory increments for service and raised certificates. It does account for several hundred additional teachers to take care of the greatly increased enrollment.

Dr. Charles F. Carroll, state superintendent, in the budget for his department asked for additional personnel to supervise nurseries and kindergartens, and for work among the mentally retarded. There are many such private schools in the State and the law requires supervision which cannot be given with present manpower.

In addition to funds required for the next biennium both, Carroll and Pritchett noted need for additional money this year to supply teachers for the unexpectedly heavy enrollment and to replace Federal funds no longer available for lunch room and other auxiliary activities. These immediate needs may run to more than two million dollars. The proposed budget for next year has included these items and they help to make up the $24 million increase in regular appropriation request.

The proposed increase is a little more than one percent above this year, as contrasted with a jump of 11.6 per cent in 1947-48 over the prior year. Pritchett also pointed out that the schools now use less of the total general fund dollars than they did eight years ago.

EXTRAS — Major part of the tremendously increased cost of public schools as compared with a few years back is attributed to the larger number of children, the more nearly adequate salaries paid school teachers, and the depreciated value of the dollar. Undoubtedly, however, the numerous extra and auxiliary services performed by the schools has substantial influence on the higher cost.

A generation ago the public schools taught the three R's—Reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic, with some attention to spelling. These are still taught but sometimes with secondary emphasis. The courses of study now include many types of vocational instruction, including automobile driving. There are special services for the physically handicapped and the mentally retarded. Transportation of pupils and operation of lunch rooms take many public school dollars, and a lot of time on part of administrators and teachers.

There is definite trend toward extending instruction in vocations beyond the classroom into fields of distributive education—teaching boys and girls how to be salesmen, waitresses, etc. Warren Smith, director of vocational education, said he felt that young people who desired to go into these fields were entitled to instruction as much as those who wanted to be farmers or merchants. Dr. Smith also suggests a number of regional vocational schools along the lines of the textile school at Belmont. He mentioned particularly the need for a school of printing.

All of these types of instruction and training are admittedly needed, and there is general agreement they will pay handsome dividends in increasing earning capacity and consequently raising both personal and government income yields. The trouble is they cost a lot of money. Budgeteers and legislators can see the money going out, sometimes they find it difficult to envision the indirect returns coming back.

PEOPLE — Governor Umstead is sticking more faithfully with the advisory budget commission and giving more attention to details of every proposal than any Governor since McLean, under whose administration the budget system was established. Lt. Governor Luther Hodges, who attended nearly all budget hearings two years ago, has not been around this year. . . Chancellor Carey Bostian of State College and Charles Carroll, superintendent of public instruction, at different times said in almost the same words that the Southern Regional Education Council affords the "best bargain" North Carolina gets for money spent. Not only in making available special facilities such as veterinary medicine instruction, electronics, dentistry and other specialties, but in co-operative study

Small Business Study To Be In ECC Adult Education Program

Organization and Management of Small Business, a course of study sponsored by the East Carolina College department of business education, will be included this fall for the first time in the program of adult education at the college.

A meeting of those interested in enrolling in the course will be held Wednesday, September 22, at 7 p.m. in Room 114 of the Flanagan building on the campus. Dr. E. R. Browning, director of the department of business education, and Dean Leo W. Jenkins of the college will be present to explain the nature and scope of the course, answer questions of applicants for admission, and assist in organizing the class.

In Organization and Management of Small Business, Dr. Browning states, the course underscores the opportunities for financial success for the adequately trained independent enterpriser. Discussion, he explains, will cover retailing, wholesaling, manufacturing, and service.

"East Carolina College," Dr. Browning adds, "is one of very few colleges in the South to offer service courses to operators of small business firms. This type of work is new to the area served by the college and is given in response to considerable demand."

Instructors in the adult-education course in Organization and Management of Small Business will be faculty members of the department of business education at East Carolina and will include Dr. Browning, W.W. Howell, and Dr. James L. White. The work will be offered by the college on both a credit and a non-credit basis.

Farm Revenue At County Home Is Major Factor

Produce marketed by Pitt's County Home farm during the past fiscal year paid slightly more than one-third the cost of operating the County Home.

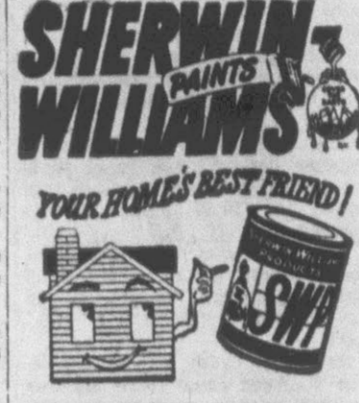

H. Reginald Gray, county auditor, said today the $7,263.47 received by the county last year from the sale of products raised on the County Home farm represented the highest revenue realized from the farm in many years. The figure, he said, represented only produce raised on the farm which was sold on the open market. It did not include products raised on the farm and used at the County Home.

The revenue from sales of products from the farm, during the past fiscal year represented an increase of more than $5,000 over the value of products sold during the fiscal year of 1950-51.

D. C. Wilson has been superintendent of the County Home and farm since January, 1952.

The following revenue has been received from the farm during the past seven fiscal years: 1947-48, $1,879.71; 1948-49, $2,435.07; 1949-50, $2,020.35; 1950-51, $61,834.15; 1951-52, $2,470.86; 1952-53, $3,247.21; 1953-54, $7,263.47.

Total county appropriations for operations of the County Home and farm during the past fiscal year amounted to $21,297.

Couple Getting Nickel Shower

MT. PLEASANT, Mich. (AP)—The golden hue in the rainbow of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Deibel is turning a nickel gray.

The nickel shower that television comedian Gary Moore started still is falling on them and they're happy about it. But with considerably more than half an estimated 105,000 letters emptied their pot totals $5,907.48.

Once townfolk and the Deibels talked about a possible "fabulous fortune" that would bring a new home, a pipe organ, a new car and an educational trust fund for the Deibels' two children.

Postmaster Raymond Hooker estimated today's mail brought 18,000 letters in response to Moore's suggestion a week ago that his viewers send the 26-year-old couple a nickel apiece and make them rich.

Moore originated the idea to dramatize a dislike for programs that "exploit human misery." Mrs. Deibel, vacationing with her husband, was called from his audience by Moore, who said he "liked her face." She said she was satisfied with her modest life as the wife of an appliance salesman. Moore then suggested the nickel shower to make the Deibels "rich" anyway.

Aim So Good It Cost Him Time

WAGONER, Okla. (AP)—A Clarksville, Ark., motorist had too good an aim. It cost him $7.50 and a jail sentence.

Driving along U.S. 69, the motorist tossed out a beer can and it hit a passing vehicle, an unmarked highway patrol car.

The judge fined the driver and sentenced him to three days in jail.

Giants Virtually Eliminate Rival Braves

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Beaming with pride over his pennant-bound New York Giants, Leo Durocher today called his 1954 league leaders a greater club than his 1951 miracle team that came from way behind to defeat the Brooklyn Dodgers with the never-to-be forgotten finish.

The valuable little manager, gushing with good will and in a blissful mood, lauded his Giants as "the greatest team that ever walked out on a field" following what probably was their happiest day of the season.

Combining brilliant pitching, a tight defense and timely hitting, the Giants twice whipped the Milwaukee Braves by 6-2 scores yesterday to sweep the three-game series and stretch their first-place lead over Brooklyn to 4½ games. A 9-3 defeat inflicted by Cincinnati upon the Dodgers helped the Giants pick up a game and a half in one afternoon.

"Did you ever see such a club as this one?" boomed Leo in a voice loud enough to drown out the clubhouse din. "This is the greatest club I ever managed. And one of the best. Certainly better than the '51 Giants. It has more pitching a deeper bench and an improved Willie Mays."

"Maybe my '54 Dodgers were better. But I'm not even sure of that. Anyway, these guys of mine are great. Simply great. All of them."

Durocher had good reason to be proud of his team. Once again when the chips were down they came through like champions. The more precarious their position, the harder they have played. Four times during the last four weeks, the Giants' lead shrunk to three or fewer games and each time they have come through with resounding victories.

As a result of yesterday's activities, the Giants can count their pennant chances on the fingers of one hand. The magic number is now five. Any combination of five Giant victories and-or Dodger defeats would clinch the flag for New York.

The game but hard-luck Braves, now 7½ lengths off the pace, are virtually eliminated. The combination there is three. In justice to the Braves, they played the entire series without the services of slugger Joe Adcock, their injured first baseman. In addition, Eddie Mathews was handicapped by a lame left leg. Bobby Thomson missed yesterday's twin bill because of his ailing ankle and Henry Aaron was out with a busted leg.

Only one other major league game was played. In that one, the New York Yankees prolonged their agony, defeating the Detroit Tigers 4-2 to keep their faint pennant hopes barely alive. They still trail the pace-setting Cleveland Indians by eight games with only nine to go. Cleveland also has nine games left.

Despite the Giants' big bulge, Durocher refused to make any rash pennant statements.

"We play one game at a time," he said. "We've got to win again today." (The "today" play Philadelphia tonight). "But those two were good ones. My guys played like champions. You can't give them enough credit. Gomez... Grissom... Wilhelm... Mays... Irvin... Dark... Williams... All of them Everybody took part. I'm proud of all of them."

Ruber Gomez and Monte Irvin were the first game heroes.

Gomez, the Puerto Rican right-hander turned in an eight-hitter for his 16th triumph, a 4 fourth in a row. Monte Irvin drove in four runs with a double, single and sacrifice fly as the Giants knocked out Warren Spahn for the first time this season. He has started six times against them.

Grissom and Wilhelm combined to hold the Braves to seven hits in the nightcap. Grissom, making his first start since May 1, gave up all the hits before he was removed after Mathews' 37th homer had tied the score at 2-2 with one out in the sixth inning. Wilhelm gained credit for the victory, his 12th holding the Braves runless and hitless in 3 2-3 innings. He now has pitched 9 2-3 consecutive hitless innings. Mays slammed his 40th homer and two singles to boost his batting average to .343 tying him with Brooklyn's Duke Snider for the league lead. Alvin Dark and Dave Williams also homered off loser Lew Burdette in the nightcap.

Joe Nuxhall, the only lefthander to beat Brooklyn at Ebbets' Field, did it again with a route-going 10-hitter. The Reds walloped five Brooklyn hurriers for 13 hits including home runs by Wally Post, Bobby Adams and Ted Kluszewski.

Phantoms Relax While JVs Drill

Greenville's Phantom footballers took the day off from practice yesterday afternoon as the team is relaxing due to an open date in the schedule this week.

Whereas the varsity players took the day off, the JV's worked hard under the coaching of Fred Soles. Coach Soles' crew has a game Thursday with Kinston's Baby Imps.

The Green Phantoms swing back into action Monday with a full week of practice before the Kinston ball game in Greenville on Friday at College Stadium.

The Greensies will get some ideas of the strength of the Red Devils this weekend. Last week the Devils walked over Contentnea with a 40-6 score. This week, however, Coach Frank Mock's eleven take on Raleigh High School on the Raleigh field.

The Kinston outfit will be one of the heaviest the Greensies will face this year. The line averages 173 pounds and the backs average 158. Big Buddy Potter, a 197-pound halfback, is the sledge-gun of the attack. The Raleigh team is just as big as Kinston's, so the game should be no pushover for either.

Willie Troy And Cartier Meet In Ten-Rounder

WASHINGTON (AP)—Aggressive young Willie Troy and the stylish Brooklyn veteran, Walter Cartier, mix it up tonight in a 10-round fight that is virtually certain to shove the winner into middle weight title contention.

The bout at Turner's Arena will be on a nationwide NBC television hookup. Set for 10 p.m. EDT, this is the bout which is forcing a delay in the Rocky Marciano-Ezzard Charles heavyweight title bout until 11 p.m. EDT. The Marciano-Charles fight is to be televised to theaters.

Troy, who passed his 22nd birthday two weeks ago, has won once since he was stopped by Joey Giardello at Madison Square Garden last March. The young Washington Negro is hoping to use Cartier as a stepping stone for a return bout with Giardello or a shot at Bobo Olson's title.

John L. Wilson said yesterday that to strengthen the pitching staff in winter trades, some front line players must go—but he gave no names.

He told the Rotary Club: "All of the other National League clubs recognize that the one thing the Cardinals need to be a contender is pitching. Naturally, they would be reluctant to trade pitchers to us. To accomplish our purpose we will have to offer front line players, regulars this season, in order to get what we want."

Title Bout Tonight, If No Shower

By MURRAY ROSE
NEW YORK (AP)—Yes, folks, heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano and challenger Ezzard Charles still are waiting around to fight for the title. The 15-round, title postponed, is scheduled for Yankee Stadium at 11 p.m., EDT (10 p.m., EST) tonight.

Note, it says scheduled. Rain washed out the return bout on Wednesday and Thursday to equal the heavy weight championship postponement record set in 1948 by Joe Louis and old Jersey Joe Walcott.

The game weatherman, sticking his chin out again, says it will be "mostly fair" this afternoon and tonight. He predicted Wednesday that it would rain Thursday, let up in mid-afternoon and be cloudy Thursday night. Promoter Jim Norris couldn't wait. The morning rains wet all the seats and everything else in the park and he called off the fight at noon.

For the record, the rain did stop late Thursday afternoon. But it started drizzling again at 7 p.m., let up shortly after and then 10 minutes before the original 10:30 p.m., starting time it began to rain again. At 10:30 p.m., it was pouring.

If it rains tomorrow and another postponement is forced, the rain-jinxed scrap will be rescheduled for Saturday night at 11 p.m., EDT.

Beyond Saturday, nobody knows. The Yankees come home Monday and will need the park themselves. The International Boxing Club will have to take out its expensive ring and seat setup. Norris can't shift to the Polo Grounds because the Giants expect to play in the world series and don't want their precious field messed up.

And Norris doesn't want any more trouble with the Giants. A conflict with the Giants, among other things, is the reason for the late 11 p.m., main event starting time tonight.

Another reason is that the IBC can't compete, even if it wanted to, with its regularly sponsored Friday night radio-television fight series. The radio-TV fight, starting at 10 p.m., EDT (9 p.m., EST), features middleweights Walter Cartier and Willie Troy in a 10-rounder at Washington. This will be telecast to homes across the nation.

The heavyweight title fight will be seen only at the stadium and in theaters across the country. The theater people cleared a cable for the closed circuit telecast for tonight and tomorrow night. There will be a nationwide broadcast via CBS.

President Horace Stoneham got sore at the IBC because it scheduled the fight in opposition to a Philadelphia-Giants game at the Polo Grounds across the river. According to an agreement among the IBC, Giants and Yankees the IBC can't put on a fight in competition with a ball game.

Stoneham "reluctantly consented" to the fight when Norris explained to him that he thought the Giants were playing in the day time. They had been scheduled for a day affair originally but some time ago changed it to an archlighter. The Giants start at 8:15 p.m. (EDT) and should be finished by the time the fight gets under way.

Some Cardinal Regulars To Go

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals' executive vice president has told St. Louis fans to expect the disappearance of some regulars before next season.

John L. Wilson said yesterday that to strengthen the pitching staff in winter trades, some front line players must go—but he gave no names.

He told the Rotary Club: "All of the other National League clubs recognize that the one thing the Cardinals need to be a contender is pitching. Naturally, they would be reluctant to trade pitchers to us. To accomplish our purpose we will have to offer front line players, regulars this season, in order to get what we want."

Pirates Polish Up For West Chester In Long Scrimmage

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Writer

Coach Jack Boone concentrated on polishing up his offense and defense in a lengthy dummy scrimmage yesterday.

The ECC coaching staff rehearsed every phase of the Pirate attack, using the basic tight T-formation and pass patterns.

Much attention was devoted to goal line plays and goal line defense. Although there was a minimum of contact, the first team checked goal line advances well. Comprising the number one line were J. D. Bradford and Larry Rhodes, ends; Willie Holland and George Tucker, tackles; Louis Hallow, center; Boyd Webb, Topypy Hayes, Emo Boado, and Claude King, in the backfield.

Downfield blocking and pass defense also came in for stress during the two-hour workout. Linemen were sent down under kicks and worked on trap plays.

A trio of quarterbacks took turns passing. Webb, Collier, and Gary Mattock made up the threesome. Several ends and backs stood out as receivers. Rhodes and Bradford looked good as did Helms and Pennington. Bill Cain and Al Owens made several nice catches from their wingmen positions. Boado, Hayes, O'Kelly, and Bobby Perry contributed to the drill with excellent receiving.

The Pirates whipped through their paces in a spirited fashion and were pronounced in good physical shape by Coaches Boone and Jim Mallory.

Besides the first two units, composed mostly of lettermen, Coach Boone has labeled for immediate reserve duty Bill Kane and Al Owens, ends; Tim Kermon and Jim Greeson, guards; Jimmy Knight and Chester Rogerson, tackles; Waverly Chesson, center; Mattock, Howard McAdams, Jim Stanley, James Henderson, and Bobby Perry, backfield men.

Coach W. Glenn Killinger's West Chester Rams were to arrive here this afternoon and workout under the lights tonight. Forty-two players were to accompany the Rams' men.

A second team composed of Ray Pennington and Bill Helms, ends; Charles Smith and Ray Overton, tackles; Paul Popov and George Rice, guards; Gaitter Cline, center; Milton Collier, Tom Allsbrook, Harold O'Kelly, and Bobby Gay in the backfield ran several series of plays inside the ten yard stripe against a defense set up by starters in the Norfolk game.

Over 100 Local Golfers Teeing Off In Tourney

Over 100 local golfers will tee off at 1:00 p.m. Saturday for the second annual Greenville Golf Championship (medal play) Tournament.

Such local shotmakers as W. L. Allen (defending champion of this event), Reynolds May, Ernell Webb, Simon Moye, Dr. M. B. Massey, Tom Smoot and Molt Massey Jr., all former club champions, will be shooting Saturday and Sunday for the honor of getting his name on the permanent Tournament Trophy.

There will be 5 flights and trophies will go to winners of each flight.

Simon Moye, Tournament chairman, said that although qualifying ended today, anyone who would like to participate that has not qualified, may do so by getting in touch with either him or Harold Thomas, local professional.

Dr. Massey let it be known he was to be reckoned with by shooting a 33-37 practice round this week. Herbert Waldrop became a dark horse to win by firing a one over par 73.

Allen won last year with a 147 total and it is believed around the club house that it will take about a 145 to win this year.

Golfers are permitted to make up their own foursome on both days. One change from last year will be that the championship flight will play Summer rules this year—which means that the ball cannot be touched or moved from tee to green. This applies only in the championship flight.

Visiting tobaccoists have been invited to play. There will be a master scoreboard and starters tent in front of the club house and a presentation ceremony will be held Sunday afternoon immediately following the tournament.

Spectators are invited to come out and walk around with the contestants and be present at the awarding of trophies Sunday afternoon.

Coastal Conference Cage Schedule For 1954 Is Set

The 1954 Coastal Conference basketball schedule was announced at the annual meeting of the conference athletic council in Greenville recently.

Other business included the presentation and approval of the rotation of basketball tournaments in the county. This coming season the tourney will be held in Farmville. After that, Ayden, Robersonville, Contentnea, and Vanceboro will be host to the tournament concurrently.

South Edgecombe's representative made an appeal to the members to be re-admitted into the Coastal Conference. The request was rejected.

The schedule:
Friday, December 3, Robersonville at Ayden
Friday, December 10, Ayden at Farmville
Tuesday, December 14, Vanceboro at Robersonville
Friday, December 17, Farmville at Contentnea.

Williamston And Tarboro To Play

WILLIAMSTON — Coach Roger Thrift's Williamston High gridders will meet Tarboro tonight in Tarboro for their second football game of the season.

Last week, Williamston whipped Pungay Springs in the opener, 13-6. Coach Thrift expects the game with Tarboro to be the toughest on his schedule.

Tarboro is reputed to have their best club in years with letermen returning at almost every position. Last Friday, they trounced Farmville, 40-0, to open their season.

Tarboro has a big line and experienced backfield, according to Thrift. They have an All-Conference fullback in Bobby Riggs.

Williamston lost 15 players from their 1953 club which won four, lost five and tied one.

Thrift is counting heavily on non-letermen and freshmen of a year ago. Don Christopher, quarterback, maintains the offensive attack. Jack Rawls and Larry Chesson, tackle and guard, respectively, are the stalwarts in the line. Chesson and Ed John Dunn are Williamston's 1954 Co-Captains.

Thrift said his squad is in pretty good condition and spirited workouts have prevailed through the week's practices.

Friday, January 7, Ayden at Contentnea
Tuesday, January 11, Vanceboro at Ayden; Robersonville at Farmville
Friday, January 21, Ayden at Robersonville
Tuesday, January 25, Farmville at Ayden
Friday, January 28, Ayden at Vanceboro
Friday, February 4, Vanceboro at Farmville
Tuesday, February 8, Farmville at Robersonville

Terps Favored In Grid Opener

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Mighty Maryland, packing the football punch and savvy to make it a contender for the collegiate crown, opens a new season against Kentucky here Saturday and the consensus is the first test shouldn't be too tough.

Maryland, last year's national champion, is tagged the country's No. 3 power in the Associated Press pre-season poll. The visiting Terps rule a two or more touchdown choice over Kentucky a young club due for remodeling under a new coach.

A capacity crowd of 36,000 is expected with the kickoff at 2 p.m. (Central Standard Time).

Gutteridge To Be Chisox Coach

CHICAGO (AP)—Marty Marion, new manager of the Chicago White Sox, has named his former St. Louis Cardinal teammate, Don Gutteridge, to a Sox coaching spot.

Gutteridge, a third baseman for the Cardinals in 1940, led Memphis to a fourth place finish in the Southern Assn. this season. Gutteridge, who is 42 and from Pittsburgh, Kan. also has managed other minor league teams.

Gutteridge will make his debut as coach tonight when the Sox meet the Baltimore Orioles at Comiskey Park.

SPORTS SHOTS

by Bruce Phillips

The East Carolina-West Chester clash tomorrow night will be an intersectional battle of two close T-formations.

This system is still the basic attacking formation in modern football in spite of the many varied and unorthodox styles employed.

Both teams have compiled outstanding records since adoption of the system.

The Pirates were never considered a too formidable outfit until the start of the Jack Boone era in 1951. Since, they have won 15 games, lost three, and tied two in regular season combat. On the strength of their impressive marks, the Bucs were invited to the Lions Bowl in Salisbury year before last and helped inaugurate the Elks Bowl here last January 2. Although, on both occasions ECC came out only second best, participation was a tribute to paramount seasons.

West Chester's gridiron achievements have mounted to where accurate computation almost requires an adding machine. During the past seven years, Coach W. Glenn Killinger's Rams have confiscated 60 wins, dropped only seven, and played to one draw. No college rival has beaten them since 1951.

In their own backyard, the Rams are almost invincible. No team has clipped them at home in the last seven years.

The quarterback is the heart in the T-formation attack. ECC and West Chester build their clubs around this key figure. The effectiveness of the tight T-formation depends largely on the quarterback's dexterity. He takes the snap on almost every play except on punts and set the play in motion.

The Pirates' hopes for a great season seemed dimmed when All-State Dick Cherry was sidelined before the opener with a broken left ankle. But the superb play of Quarterback Boyd Webb in the Norfolk game gave the Bucs a shot in the arm and their spirit and optimism is again relatively high.

Coach Killinger's John McAneney is a polished field-general and reputedly excellent passer. He's a letter-winner from the 1953 club and undergone quite a lot of development, according to his tutor.

Webb and McAneney should provide a pretty formidable duel.

The close T aims to strike before the defense can get set and depends on the entire team's speed and constant hustle. The results are always interesting when like styles collide. The game tomorrow should be no exception.

The two high-geared offenses will call for flexible defenses. The two antagonists will most likely run some plays that bear remarkable resemblance to the others. The idea is to avoid set patterns that enable the attack to pin-point blocking targets and to provide fluidly balanced protection against both running and passing.

Boone said in a pre-season commentary that if his club can get past the first two games on the schedule, East Carolina should have a good season.

They hurled the first half of the obstacle last Saturday night with the 21-0 victory over Norfolk. So the game tomorrow will carry an air of prognostication for the Pirates.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE
 QUINCY came back to the kitchen where Penn was making east, the male nurse, Murphy, raising with a tray poised, somewhat condescendingly.

"Telephone for you, Penn." But it was not Larry Kissel's voice that came over the wire. It was Claudia's.

Claudia was agitated. "Penn, our uncle is flying out to the state at noon. He's determined to go, and somebody has to go with him. I guess it will be you."

"Penn said, 'But I can't, Claudia. I can't possibly!'"

"Penn, he's just not fit to go alone." Claudia's tone had an edge of desperation. "He puts on a good how but he's on the brink of a track-up. And I don't dare be away. I'll have the tickets ready. I'll have somebody drive you in to be airport. Twelve-ten. Don't be late." She hung up.

Penn struggled to get her mind active and clear. How could she go with this secret dread hanging over her all, this awfulness that only he and Larry Kissel knew? At my minute he might call. When the truth came it would have to come from official sources, but he had wanted her to be alerted, and if she was not ready she would be falling.

And Gil had said "Stand by," too. Stand by the senator, help him through his tough time. She walked back to the dining-room where her aunt was drinking coffee and Kelly stood, hatted and furred, pulling on her gloves.

"Uncle Elihu is flying out home at noon," she said. "I have to go with him."

Kelly said, "I'm glad you're going. I've been worried about him, he was looking pretty well shot yesterday."

Maude's cheeks flared in hot circles. "This absurd affair in that House committee! A crucifixion, for no good reason, no sense nor justice in it. You'd better take my fur coat. Penn—you know how bitter the weather can be out there, even before Christmas. Quincy, you can drive Penn in. I'll have to stay—Murphy gets off at noon. I want to get my hair done. I'm due at that Sulgrave affair in the morning—"

Penn fled. Gil—Gil might be at the bottom of the ocean, gasping for breath—or did they have ways to get air into these new submarines? She had heard her uncle asking him about the danger from radiation, from contaminated water remembered Gil's cautiously evasive replies.

Larry Kissel called at 10 o'clock. "No news," he said. "No news yet."

"Listen," she began desperately —but he had hung up. Now, somehow she had to find him, tell him where she was going, how she could be reached. She would do that from the airport, go in early, right away.

Quincy was glad to leave early. "I think I'll make Yates take me to lunch and meddle him into proposing all over again if he ever makes any such attention in the first place. Living in the same house with Rufe Storey is going to be terrible. I doubt if I can take it."

"Will living with Grandpa Yates be any better? You will have to live with him you know."

"It will be a change at any rate, and he can't live for years and years, while Rufe is just a young man, comparatively."

"Quincy—" Penn began, and then stopped herself. She could not talk. She could not cry out what was tearing her heart to bits, that maybe Gil was lost in that submarine.

"What?"

"Nothing. Quincy, don't marry Yates in an offhand way, just to escape."

Penn had no luck locating Larry Kissel. Finally she sent him a telegram, giving the only hotel she remembered in the western town as the place where she could be reached. Shortly before the plane was called, she saw the senator and Claudia hurrying in. Claudia looked flustered unlike her usual poised and adequate self, and while the senator had his bag weighed she herded Penn into the women's room, thrust a big brown envelope into her hands.

"He's going to the capital first," she said breathlessly. "Then he'll take the plane down home, and there's a newspaperman there—Barney Patton. He's a friend of the senator's, and I want him to have this. But don't let your uncle know. I just have to contrive this underhanded way to keep those hounds out there from destroying him. Barney Patton will know what to do with this. He hates Josh Henning. Anyway I put some careful instructions inside."

"He's going to the capital first?" Penn felt the cold panic again.

"But—"

"Yes. Here's your ticket. We'd better run. Take care of him, Penn."

The plane roared off, and Elihu Storey relaxed in his seat. Penn sat, by the window, the brown envelope in her lap. The capital. Somehow she would have to get another message to Kissel. And she had to go on putting on an act, with dread icy fingers at her throat. Larry Kissel had meant to be kind, he had been loyal to Gil, but even shock, she thought, would be better than this stretched-out apprehension.

Elihu said, after a little "Claudia would go through fire for us."

"For you," Penn amended.

"She's certainly very loyal."

He sighed again. He looked all his years today, spent, as though he called upon some reserve of nerve and courage that was strained to the utmost.

"And I don't deserve it," he said. "You're tired and worried. Uncle Elihu. You're reproaching yourself for things that never happened."

He squeezed her hand gently. "Ten years ago I wouldn't have believed it myself—15 years ago, anyway. No man should accept a government office, Penn, unless he has a fortune of his own. Nobody, not even your aunt, knows that I went to Washington $10,000 in debt. I've paid off some of it, but other things piled up on me."

"Quincy and I have been another burden."

"Two blessings, Penn," he protested. "Home would have been a mighty lonesome place for Maude and me after the boys left without you and Quincy."

"Expensive blessings," she said. He said: "You asked me once about Marsh Nichols. When he came to me the first time, his proposition looked as if it was for the good of the country. They were short on parts for those intricate connections they put on planes—relays, other stuff, and I thought—if I could get the copper priorities and Josh had that property on his hands—"

Penn put her hands over her ears. "I'm not going to listen," she said firmly. "Whatever you did was for someone else, wasn't it? Not for yourself at all. Can't you see that all along your weakness has been that you spoiled everybody—Gregg, Rufe, Aunt Maude—even Quincy and me?"

"A man's a failure if he can't provide for his own, Penn," he declared.

She was glad when the plane glided down to the St. Louis airport.

"We change here," he said. "Where's my briefcase?"

"The stewardess has it. It's raining outside. It looks cold."

"Eighteen minutes," she said. "We can get some coffee. I didn't have time to get any breakfast this morning."

When they were on the westward plane he sank into a tired silence. Penn was planning furiously. If she had a little time to herself in the capital she would telephone the hotel where she had told Larry Kissel to contact her, learn if any message had come. She had to be braced and ready if the news was bad keep Uncle Elihu from collapsing under it. Quincy would have to take over at home, but Kelly was there and Kelly, up till now, had been a rock of calm serenity.

The senator dozed a little, then came alert as they neared the landing field.

"Have to leave you at a hotel,

Penn. Have to see the governor and a lot of other people. We may not get away tonight."

Nixon Says November Elections Will Be Vital

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Vice President Nixon says the November election poses an alternative of continuing the present administration's program of "integrity, firmness and moderation" or restoring "discredited Trumanism."

Speaking in President Eisenhower's home state, Nixon declared last night:

"In 1952, when 34 million Americans rejected it, Trumanism meant hopeless inability to deal with the four-headed monster that was Korea, communism, corruption and controls."

"Deficit financing and inflation go clammy hand-in-hand."

"That's what Trumanism means. That's what his followers including Mr. Stevenson (1952 Democratic presidential nominee) and his left-wing ADA (Americans for Democratic Action) mouthpieces want."

The vice president told more than 3,000 persons gathered in the Wichita Forum, a municipal building, that the GOP administration "is a clean-up, not a cover-up administration."

"The honesty of the President permeates our government from top to bottom," he added. "The President and his administrative leaders are dedicated people . . . They deserve the kind of Congress that will support them."

Nixon is touring the country, boosting the election of Republican senatorial and congressional candidates in November.

He planned a stop at Pittsburg, Kan., today and then will move into southern Missouri.

He told his Wichita audience "a return to Trumanism would bring at least an 11 billion dollar deficit . . . about $150 for every U.S. taxpayer."

Democratic administrations gave America 14 of its 15 tax boosts since 1913, he said and decreased the personal exemptions of the "little man" from $1,500 to $500.

"I say, and the record proves it, that if the little man, or the medium sized man or any sized man wants a decent tax break, only the Eisenhower administration and a Republican 84th Congress are prepared to give it," the vice president said.

"It took the Republican 83rd Congress to give us the first long range tax cut and revision bill in our century."

Earlier Nixon spoke at Topeka, the state capital. He said Wednesday's modification of government restrictions on use of acreage diverted from surplus crops "has a tendency to pull the rug out from under the Democrats on this issue."

The Democrats, he said, had looked upon the original crop control order as a blow to farmers.

CIO President Suspends Six In Funds Inquiry

NEW YORK (AP)—A directive by CIO President Walter P. Reuther has resulted in the suspension of six union officials following testimony in a state probe of union welfare funds.

Reuther yesterday ordered "prompt remedial action" against a half dozen top officers of the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union (RWDSU), adding that the CIO "cannot and will not tolerate crooks or Communists in the labor movement."

Carrying out his chief's order, Max Greenberg, international president of the RWDSU, appointed administrators to audit the books of the five locals involved.

The six men had admitted to state investigators they used welfare funds to provide themselves with high salaries and expense accounts, lavish vacations, automobiles and other special benefits.

Reuther's statement, distributed to newsmen covering the hearings conducted by the New York State Insurance Department, was addressed to Greenberg and said in part:

"I believe that the union official who preys upon the rights or funds of union members has no place in the labor movement and should be sent to jail . . . I call upon you to take prompt remedial action against the local officers involved in the malpractices disclosed at these hearings."

State Insurance Supt. Alfred J. Bohlinger, at the close of the four days of hearings yesterday, urged state supervision of union welfare funds to eliminate abuses.

Bohlinger said, however, that he believes most union welfare funds are honestly and efficiently run.

BREEZY, AIN'T IT?—Actress Marilyn Monroe poses for photographers at 52nd Street and Lexington Avenue in New York City. She was at the site for a scene in her new picture, "The Seven Year Itch." The scene called for Marilyn—Mrs. Joe DiMaggio in private life—to stand over a subway grating under which fans were placed to provide the breeze necessary to blow up the blonde actress' skirt. (AP Wire-photo)

Greenberg said he hopes "the public realizes" that the five locals involved have a total of about 3,000 members compared with a general union membership of more than 60,000.

Meanwhile in Washington yesterday, Senate and House committees prepared to launch their own probes of reported union welfare fund abuses and received pledges of cooperation from Reuther and AFL President George Meany.

The Senate Committee is headed by Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.), slated to be nominated as GOP candidate for governor of New York next week.

Rep. Samuel McConnell Jr. (R-Pa.) heads a similar House committee. Officials suspended from the RWDSU are:

Joseph Procopio, an international vice president of the store union; Samuel Rosenzweig, president of Local 923, the United Culinary, Bar and Grill Employees; Robert M. Stanlea, president of Local 394, Auto Parts, Tire, and Accessory Employees; Ernest J. Dumas, president of Local 377, United Service Employees; and Michael Werner and Michael Sakman, president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of Local 1115, Restaurant, Luncheonette and Soft Drink Employees.

Party Broke Up, So Did New Pool

MONTEREY PARK, Calif. (AP)—The Jim Bright family planned to throw a neighborhood party last night celebrating completion of their swimming pool.

But the party was a bust. So was the pool, built above ground of concrete blocks. Water pressure caused one side of it to burst out with a roar yesterday, scattering the blocks.

But the Brights and their three children still have the do-it-yourself spirit. They plan to build a barbecue pit from the remnants of the pool.

Snake In Street Tied Up Traffic

READING, Pa. (AP)—Patrolman Donald Ray broke up a downtown traffic jam yesterday, then hit the cause of it all on the head with a shovel and threw the body down the nearest sewer.

The culprit was a hissing copperhead snake that had draped itself on the curb and refused to let pedestrians pass.

College Students See Rising Of Standards

By DOROTHY ROE H Associated Press Women's Editor Now that several million parents have managed to dig up the required college tuition for their young hopefuls once more, a new trend is reported.

Some college students are demanding a rise in their standard of living, and are going back to their ivy-clad halls of learning equipped with such items as portable television sets, refrigerators, electric sewing machines and air conditioning units.

If this trend continues, imagine the plight of the long-suffering father who must provide push-button appliances as well as tuition for his offspring, in order to induce them to expose themselves to a little of the world's learning.

The swing toward "ultra-modernity in college life" is reported by a young man who has built up a successful business by conducting pools among the nation's youth and reporting on their buying habits. He is Lester Rand, Rand, president of the Youth Research Institute, and he says:

"Unquestionably campus life has undergone an amazing face lifting in the past few years."

Imported sports cars will be seen in greater numbers than ever before on college campuses this fall, he says, and the old-fashioned bicycle is giving way to the motor bike in some instances. The number of cars that go to college has increased to such an extent that a serious parking problem has resulted on many campuses.

In addition, Rand reports students are taking up interior decoration in a big way, to transform drab college dormitories into rich and colorful suites.

One reason for all this college luxury, it seems, is the ability of students to earn substantial amounts of money during vacation.

DISSENTING VOICE IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP)—Idaho Democrats found pinned to the door of one of their rooms for their platform convention a sign reading:

"I like Ike."

tions, and even in some instances during the school year. Says Rand: "It's not unusual for a young person to earn $1,000 during the summer."

While the trend is still in its infancy, and restricted to a glided few, there's one solid fact that may nip it in the bud. That is the resentment of the average student to another who tries to "put on airs."

In Eastern women's colleges, such as Smith, Wellesley and Vassar, the girl who arrives at the campus with a fur coat, a car and a big allowance is likely to find herself snubbed by her less solvent classmates.

The same is true at the more respected men's colleges and universities where it's considered an honor to wear old clothes, and undue ostentation is frowned upon.

Governor Tried Wrestle 'Gator, Lost His Dignity

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Downright disrespectful alligator taught Gov. Lawrence Wetherby a lesson: It's easier to wrestle with politics than reptiles.

The governor was attending the Kentucky State Fair yesterday when he was invited to go one round with the 20-year-old, 8-foot, 175-pound critter, a feature of the water show.

After noting that the reptile's mouth was tied, Wetherby grabbed it under the chin and twisted. The alligator did a somersault landed on its belly and began lashing out with its long tail. Forsaking dignity, the governor jumped.

And he leaped again when the critter let fly with a second swing. That ended the performance. The an ostrich. He did that last year at governor decided he's rather drive the fair.

The metal that makes time stand still

Thanks to chromium, steel now serves you with strength and beauty that lasts a lifetime

IN TIME, one of man's most useful materials—steel—is often the victim of such destructive forces as rust, corrosion, heat, or wear.

THESE NATURAL ENEMIES of steel now are mastered by the metal called chromium. When the right amount of chromium is added to molten steel, the result is strong, lustrous stainless steel that defies the ravages of time.

IN HOMES, TODAY, stainless steel is a shining symbol of modern living. It brings us care-free sinks, gleaming tableware and kitchen utensils—all with beauty that lasts a lifetime.

IN INDUSTRY—Food is prepared in super-sanitary stainless steel equipment. Streamlined trains and buses are made of this wonder metal. Vital parts of jet planes that must withstand both blazing heat and sub-zero cold are made of tough, enduring stainless steel.

SERVING STEEL . . . AND YOU—The people of Union Carbide produce alloys of chromium for America's steel-makers. This is another of the many ways in which UCC transforms the elements of nature for the benefit of everyone.

Growing in Christian Love

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Suescher

Scripture—Matthew 5:43-48; 18:21-35; Ephesians 4:25-5:2; 1 John 4:7-21.

Jesus said "Ye have heard it said thou shalt love thy neighbor and hate thine enemy, but I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them that despitefully use you."

Peter came to Christ and asked Him how many times should he forgive a brother who had sinned against him—seven times seven? But the Lord said, "I say not unto thee, until seven times, but until seventy times seven."

"Wherefore," Paul writes to the Ephesians, "putting away lying, speak every man truth with his neighbor; for we are members one of another. Be ye angry, and sin not; let not the sun go down upon your wrath."—Ephesians 4:25-26.

"Be ye therefore followers of God, as dear children; and walk in love, as Christ also hath loved us, and hath given Himself for us an offering and a sacrifice to God."—Ephesians 5:1-2. MEMORY VERSE—1 John 4:7.

RELEASE SATURDAY, SEPT. 18, OR SUNDAY, SEPT. 19, 1954

Growing in Christian Love

"LOVE YOUR ENEMIES," SAID JESUS "THAT YE MAY BE THE CHILDREN OF YOUR FATHER IN HEAVEN."

Scripture—Matthew 5:43-48; 18:21-35; Ephesians 4:25-5:2; 1 John 4:7-21.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

THIS LESSON is all about love, and if we earnestly study the truths given us, and do our best to follow them in our daily lives, we may not attain perfection, but we surely will become much better people than we are at present.

Jesus, on the Mount of Olives, is preaching to the multitudes who followed Him there. The rules of life which He gives are not easy for us to follow; in fact, they are extremely difficult. It seems almost impossible for mortal man to forgive his enemies, and still harder to love them. Listen to or read the Master's words:

"Ye have heard that it hath been said, Thou shalt love thy neighbor and hate thine enemy, but I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you and persecute you."

Ask the smaller children if someone has hurt them, physically or mentally, during the past week. Ask them to tell you how they feel about that person; have them say whether they retaliate.

MEMORY VERSE

"Let us love one another; for love is of God."—1 John 4:7.

ated. Have they forgiven the person and are they now good friends?

Many children, even if they "paid back" their tormentor, will say that they are good friends now. We older people may well take a lesson from little children, whose anger is easily aroused and whose feelings can quickly be hurt, but who forgive and forget as we adults seldom do.

God loves us, we know, and He makes no distinctions nor withhold His blessing from both the good and the evil. "He maketh His sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust."

Then Jesus points out that if we love only those that love us, there is no merit in it. Everyone does that. But if we look at men—the evil as well as the good—and feel affection for them, we will be able to come a step nearer to the perfection of our Father in Heaven.

Our lesson is long and our space limited so we must condense it a good deal.

The old Jewish law said people should forgive an enemy three times, no more; but when Peter based on copyrighted outlines produced by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., and used by permission. Distributed by King Features Syndicate

And before this list of sins Paul writes that if one were angry at another, he should not allow the sun to go down without making peace between them.

"And be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God hath forgiven you."

"Be ye therefore followers of God, as dear children; and walk in love, as Christ also hath loved us, and hath given Himself for us as an offering and a sacrifice to God."

Just a few words from John's first epistle:

"Beloved, let us love one another; for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God, He that loveth not knoweth not God, for God is love."

"There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear; because fear hath torment."

"If a man say, I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar; for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen? And this commandment have we from Him, that he who loveth God loveth his brother also."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market advanced moderately today and reached up to around the highest levels of the year again.

The current recovery drive now has retraced on average virtually all of the loss in the reaction from the 25-year peak touched a month ago.

Some stocks made substantial gains from 1 to around 3 points. There were no unusually depressed areas of the list but some losses went to around a point.

Trading was at a rate of around two million shares for the day. Yesterday's total was 1,880,000 shares with prices higher.

The most favored major groups were oils and rubbers, and good gains were found in chemicals, mail order issues, non-ferrous metals, and some motors and steels.

Railroads did fairly well. Aircrafts were somewhat mixed.

Among higher stocks were U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Goodyear, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, American Telephone, Western Union, Homestake Mining, Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., St. Regis Paper, Santa Fe Texas Co., Texas Pacific Land Trust, and Capital Airlines.

Both Bethlehem Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube were depressed following new Wall Street conjecture concerning their merger plans.

Admits Murder Confession Hoax

MCALESTER, Okla. (AP)—A lifetime convict who signed a "confession" in the 14-year-old slaying of a Penn State coed has admitted that the entire statement was a hoax.

Jack Ray told a newspaper reporter in the state prison here yesterday that his lurid story of a dope ring, wild parties and illicit love at State College, Pa., came only from his imagination.

The 34-year-old convict said he had read a story of the Rachel Taylor slaying in a detective magazine and had carefully planted "tips" that he knew something about it with other prisoners, knowing they would reach officials. He said he concocted the scheme in hopes of getting a release from a life term for another murder he also claims he did not commit.

Ray said he hoped his story of the Pennsylvania slaying might help him to get a life detour test. "I thought if I could prove I was innocent of the Pennsylvania case, the test would show I was innocent of that shooting at Cordell," Ray said.

He referred to a 1939 slaying of a Cordell, Okla., man for which Ray already has served 14 years.

Merchants Map Christmas Plans For Winterville

WINTERVILLE — At the Winterville Merchants Association supper meeting at the Community Building last Monday night, President R. E. Boyd appointed a committee to make plans for Christmas decorations and a Santa Claus parade.

Mrs. Lois H. Dall, Guyvass Vincent and Lloyd B. Worthington are members of the committee.

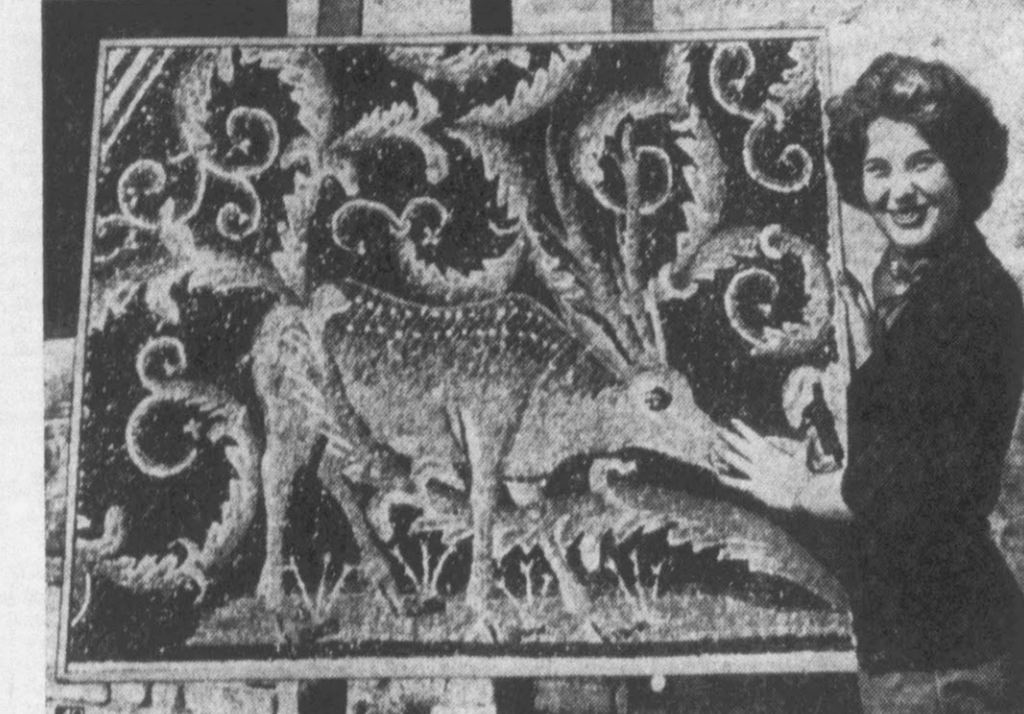

Miss Doria Cole, member of the senior class, and Miss Mavis Brown, commercial teacher, presented a program and discussed the "Searchlight," Winterville High School paper, and explained its objectives.

Thirty-five members and guests were present. Women of the Winterville Christian Church served supper. Mrs. Howard Ellis presented a musical program.

Will Resurvey Seven Counties For Disaster Aid

RUTHERFORDTO, N.C. (AP)—Seven North Carolina counties will be resurveyed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for possible drought disaster relief.

U.S. Rep. Woodrow W. Jones of the 11th District announced yesterday that he had talked with Harvey A. Dahl, special assistant to the Secretary of Agriculture by telephone.

Jones said Dahl promised to make a resurvey of conditions in Polk, Rutherford, Cleveland, Gaston, Lincoln, Catawba and Burke counties.

The counties had been turned down Tuesday by the department's drought committee. The committee said that while the situation was serious, it was not acute enough to warrant a disaster designation recommendation.

Study Bids For Turnpike Work At Raleigh Today

RALEIGH (AP)—Promoters of the Virginia Beach, Va.-Nags Head turnpike were scheduled to study bids on the project at a meeting here today.

Seventeen bids were opened Wednesday covering three phases of building the road along the Virginia Beach strand.

The phases are the road in North Carolina, the road in Virginia, and bridges and culverts for the Virginia portion of the job.

Highway Chairman A. H. Graham said yesterday the bids "looked very attractive."

Formal awarding of any contracts will await the sale of bonds to finance the construction, Graham said. The sale is expected to be held within 30 days.

McCarthy Plans No Speech Tours

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy says he thinks he can make his biggest contribution to the Republican election campaign by investigating not speechmaking.

The Wisconsin senator confirmed in a statement last night earlier reports he'd forego any major speaking tours in behalf of GOP candidates in the Nov. 2 congressional elections.

McCarthy said he believes investigations of graft, corruption and communism "will be more effective than campaign speeches."

"This does not indicate a lack of interest in the campaign on my part," he said. "I think it would be a tragedy for the country and the world if the Republicans did not return to power in the Senate and House this fall."

McCarthy said he would carry out three speaking engagements made some time ago. Otherwise, he added, he planned no campaigning except possibly some radio and television appearances.

Capitol Square

Dr. Clarence Poe has assembled statistics showing the trend of rainfall in North Carolina during the past ten years. For the first six years of the ten there was an excess, during the past four there has been marked deficiency. More significant, the deficiency has, all come during the crop growing months.

John G. Young, representing the Bermuda Trade Development Board, has been in North Carolina several days seeking to promote more cordial relations and closer business contacts between this island and this State. He was especially interested in the excursion tours out of Morehead City and the prospect of freight shipments in-and-out at both Morehead City and Wilmington State ports. He said he found

Funeral On Saturday For Leon B. Fleming

Mr. Leon B. Fleming, 67, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital at 10:30 o'clock Thursday night. He had suffered a heart attack Wednesday night and had been critically ill since that time.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock by Dr. H. G. Haney, pastor of the Eighth Street Christian Church. Deacons and Elders of the Church will be honorary pall bearers.

Mr. Fleming, son of the late Joseph and Isabella Moore Fleming, was born and reared in Pitt County. He came to Greenville to live in 1911 and had lived here since that time. For 27 years he was associated with the Planagan Buggy Co. and for the past nine years had been associated with Goodson-Planagan Insurance Co. He served for 13 years on the Board of Aldermen and was Mayor Protem for a number of years. He was a member of the Eighth Street Christian Church, having served as chairman of the Board of Officers and was made a life member of the Board.

Surviving are his wife, the former Louise Fleming of Pitt County, to whom he was married in 1913; a daughter, Mrs. Ernest L. Clark, Jr., of Wilmington, N. C.; two sons: Robert S. Fleming of Knoxville, Tenn., and Leon B. Fleming, Jr., of Bristol, Virginia; two grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Ella Fleming Parker of Pinetops; and three brothers: L. Z. Fleming of Atlanta, Ga., R. V. Fleming of Greenville, and D. M. Fleming of Columbia, S. C.

everybody he talked with very cordial and co-operative. The taxi driver who took him from his hotel to the Governor's office gave him an apple. He thought that was typical of Southern hospitality, and noted the contrast with the hardboiled attitude in Yankee land. Since Morehead and Wilmington are closer to Bermuda than New York, it seems logical that more business should be developed through these ports.

A. I. B. Chapter Holds Picnic

Local chapter of the American Institute of Banking ended its 1954-55 membership drive Wednesday with a picnic for all members and their guests.

Twenty-two members of the chapter attended the outing which was held at W. H. Woolard's cottage at Summer Haven on the Pamlico River.

Hilda Avery, president of the local chapter, greeted the members and their guests and invited them to serve themselves to supper buffet style.

Following supper the group enjoyed singing and a program of fellowship.

Members present for the picnic were W. H. Woolard, Mable Blow, Claude Taylor, Floyd Rowe, J. W. Overton, Hilda Avery, Marguerite Rouse, J. H. Moys, Mary Forbes, J. H. Waldrop, J. S. Moye, Eloise Hunsucker, Helen Forehand, Jean Rush, Myrtle Johnson, Margaret Register and Dorcus Cayton from Greenville.

Other members who attended were Durwood Everett, Robersonville; Alvis Newborn, Bethel; Roland Modlin, Milo Gibbs and Sam Moore, Washington.

No Waiting List For Navy Applicants; Can Enlist Direct

The Raleigh Navy Recruiting District has exhausted their waiting list for applicants joining the Navy, it was announced by Roy G. Ewell, Engineman Chief Recruiter in charge of the local Navy Recruiting Station, located in the Post Office Building, New Bern, N. C.

A recent increase in the quota now permits applicants to be enlisted directly into the Navy without being placed on a waiting list, provided the applicant can meet the minimum qualifications for enlistment in the Regular Navy.

Recruits from this area are presently being transferred to Great Lakes, Illinois for Recruit Training.
