Peiping Regime Announces Plan To Add 450,000 Soldiers To Army

'Replacement Pool' Plan Discloses Change In Recruitment System

By FRED HAMPSON HONG KONG (AP)—Peiping says that China's Red Army will recruit 450,000 men as "reinforcement and replacement to the armed forces."

This replacement pool to be recruited between Nov. 1 and Feb. 28, heralds a change in the Reds' system of recruiting.

The Communists have three types of army force—the Red armies, the provincial armies, and the militia.

The provincial forces seem lately to have become security troops for coastal and border defenses. Policing of the countryside seems to have been left to the militia.

The Reds have never disclosed their system of replacements, but it appeared that the Red armies used both the provincial forces and the militia as agencies for picking out soldiers suitable for top service.

This is the reinforcement and replacement pool of almost half a million. The Red Army in China is made up of four field armies and a North China special force, aggregating about three million men.

Firemen were called to the Carolina Dairy garage at Third and New Street at 2:25 p.m. yesterday when a gas pump caught fire.

The blaze was extinguished when firemen arrived.

Three Prisoners Killed In Rioting

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Convicts smashed their way out of a solitary confinement hall at the Missouri State Penitentiary last night, touching off a flaming riot that brought death to at least three prisoners and injuries to 23.

Early today state troopers and prison guards apparently had quelled the rioters, although fires set by the prisoners still burned.

The solitary confinement prisoners released men in other cell blocks, throwing the entire prison into turmoil. The rioting lasted over six hours.

Eight buildings were destroyed or heavily damaged by fire, including the power plant. Practically all the prisoners finally were herded back into their buildings although some did not return to their cells.

Thomas E. Whitecotton, director of corrections, said the guards and state patrolmen "would use tear gas or whatever else is necessary" to get unruly convicts back in their cells in the morning.

The director said he believed one guard still was being held inside the prison, Clarence Dietzel, California, Mo., had not been accounted for.

The sprawling prison was left virtually in darkness, except for an eerie glow cast over the grey buildings and walls by flames.

The rioters were confined to within the walls and none was believed to have escaped. It was not known what started the rioting.

A state highway patrol trooper said that at the height of the melee the prison yard looked "like a madhouse."

"Buildings were flaming. Men were running around howling and screaming and fighting with each other," Capt. C. E. Potts said.

Delays Announced In Calling Senate To Receive Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican Leader Knowland of California advised Senate officers today that it may be several days before a decision is reached on when the Senate will reconvene to consider proposed censure of Sen. McCarthy.

Mark Trice, secretary of the Senate, gave this statement to reporters: "I have just talked over the telephone with Sen. William Knowland, majority leader, and he informs me that further consultations are necessary before a decision can be reached in regard to the reconvening of the Senate."

Trice had indicated earlier that he was expecting instructions momentarily from Knowland and Sen. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, to issue a formal call for the Senate to convene.

The word of Trice's brief statement indicated that Knowland may have heard from senators counseling against a pre-election session of the Senate.

Several senators have urged that the Senate not be called back until after the Nov. 2 congressional elections. One of those, who made his position known yesterday, was Sen. Bridges (R-NH), president pro tem of the Senate.

Walden Lee Donnell, 29, sentenced to six years for robbery from Jasper County, Mo.; paroled in 1951 but confined again last May as a parole violator and to serve another robbery term from St. Louis.

Gov. Phil Donnelly and Lt. Gov. James C. Blair both hurried to the prison. The governor's mansion is only a short distance from the penitentiary.

National Guard units were called out to aid the state highway patrol troopers and the guards.

One Democrat, who asked not to be identified, said Roosevelt's decision to take a subordinate place on the ticket — he declined to accept nomination for lieutenant governor — was a smart move.

President Raps Trend To 'Federal Satellite'

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH MCNARY DAM, Ore. (AP)—President Eisenhower, carrying his campaign for another Republican Congress into the Pacific Northwest, declared today any trend toward "conversion of local regions into federal satellites poses a threat to our liberties."

"The administration in Washington—and the present leadership in Congress—are unalterably opposed to such malignant growth of bureaucracy," the President said in defense of administration policy calling for more local participation in development of the nation's power resources.

His views on an issue figuring large in the congressional election campaign were set forth in a major address prepared for ceremonies dedicating 286-million-dollar McNary Dam on the Columbia River here.

Eisenhower called that huge project—built with federal money—"an example of national responsibility properly assumed by the federal government."

Eisenhower, on a four-state flying tour of the Far West, got a rousing welcome on his arrival in this area last night.

He left the summer White House in Denver yesterday afternoon on a three-day trip taking him into Montana, Washington, Oregon and California.

In Missoula, Mont., last night, he addressed an applauding audience which numbered about 30,000 persons. The administration's basic policy, he said, is that American citizens generally are better qualified to look after themselves "than is some bureaucrat in far-off Washington."

And that was the main theme of his McNary dam speech today. Immediately after that speech, the President was flying on to Los Angeles where tonight he addresses a big political rally in Hollywood Bowl—part of the Republican drive to maintain control of Congress in the November elections.

Tomorrow morning in Los Angeles he will speak informally at the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, which has been critical of the administration.

As has been his policy all along in his campaign talks on the road, the President in his McNary dam speech did no out-and-out plugging for election of GOP candidates for Congress.

Roosevelt Accepts Subordinate Role

NEW YORK (AP)—Democrats today hailed the nomination of Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. for state attorney general and predicted he would give their ticket a big lift in the Nov. 2 election.

The son of the late President, defeated by Averell Harriman for the gubernatorial nomination, accepted the third slot on the state ticket yesterday and was nominated unanimously last night in the finale of the two-day convention.

Both Roosevelt 40, and Harriman 62, received rounds of applause when they posed together for cameramen.

One Democrat, who asked not to be identified, said Roosevelt's decision to take a subordinate place on the ticket — he declined to accept nomination for lieutenant governor — was a smart move.

The lieutenant governorship is a comparatively inactive "vice presidential" post but the attorney general has a chance to keep in the public eye with drives against crime.

Officer Guilty; Gets Dismissal

PT. SHERIDAN, Ill. (AP)—Lt. Col. Harry Fleming, first American Army officer court-martialed for conduct as a prisoner of war, was sentenced today to dismissal from the service.

In addition he must forfeit all pay and allowances, under terms of the punishment assessed by an 11-man military court which convicted him of collaborating with the Communists while a prisoner in Korea.

The court-martial of 11 colonels and lieutenant colonels deliberated for 12 hours before fixing Fleming's punishment. The officers considered the extent of the penalty from late yesterday afternoon until 3:30 a.m. today. The court-martial reassembled at 9 a.m. (EST) to deliver its verdict.

Most of the prosecution and defense witnesses were in the court room when the sentence was announced. Many of the men who were prisoners of war in Korea with Fleming stood tensely in the courtroom waiting for the court's decision.

"Thank God I'm out of prison now—this one and the Communists," Col. Fleming said. After the sentence was pronounced he added: "I'll do everything I can to clear my name."

Oppose UN Consideration Of Cyprus Claims British Warn Of 'Unrest'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Britain warned the U.N. today that political stability and peace in the whole Aegean area would be harmed if the General Assembly agreed to consider Greece's claims to the island of Cyprus.

British Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd made his statement before the Assembly's 15-member steering committee as Secretary of State Dulles prepared a major speech on United States foreign policy for the full Assembly this afternoon.

Despite the British warning, the committee voted 8-4 "with three abstentions" to give the question a full airing. Britain, France and Australia cast the negative vote, while the United States, the Netherlands, and Colombia abstained.

Russia voted with the majority in favor of placing the question on the Assembly's agenda.

In strong terms, Lloyd opposed any U.N. intervention in the British-Greek dispute over the status of Cyprus. He based his arguments on the ground that affairs of the island colony were strictly an internal matter and thus outside the jurisdiction of the U.N.

He warned that if the question came before the world organization the result might be a division of Western allies and an increase in friction.

Lenoir Rhyne 'Bottled' Messages Reach China

HICKORY, N.C. (AP)—A Chinese youth arrived at Lenoir Rhyne College here this week, bringing with him the first word Lenoir Rhyne students have had that messages they flooded behind the Bamboo Curtain in 1952 reached their objectives.

William Wong, who makes his home in Tokyo, Japan, reported that his father, an employee of the U.S. Army's Psychological Warfare unit in Tokyo, had received one of the messages. The message was given to his father, young Wong said, by a Chinese refugee fleeing from his native land last December.

Hundreds of friendly messages, placed in plastic bottles, were dropped off the China coast in February, 1952, for the Chinese. Each bottle contained useful items like needles, rice and fishhooks. The messages were written by Lenoir Rhyne students and they told the Chinese that Americans "are willing to help our Chinese friends who like freedom. Under your present ruler, you are not told about the friendship between America and China. So we planned to put this letter in a bottle and send it to you."

H-Bomb Effects Fatal To Victim

TOKYO (AP)—A Japanese fisherman dusted by radioactive ash from an U.S. H-bomb blast at Bikini March 1 died tonight in a Tokyo hospital.

Aikichi Kuboyama, 40, radioman on the fishing boat Lucky Dragon, was believed to be the world's first death resulting from a hydrogen bomb explosion.

The fisherman had been suffering from jaundice complications brought on by radiation from the Bikini bomb, Japanese doctors said.

Hour-Long Duel By Artillery Around Quemoy

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Chinese Nationalist artillery on Quemoy and Communist big guns on the nearby mainland fired upwards of 2,000 shells last night in a savage hour-long duel, an army spokesman said today.

He described the exchange as the heaviest since the fighting broke out around Quemoy Sept. 3.

Nationalist planes and warships took over at dawn today, bombarding Army and other Red bases within artillery range of Quemoy for the 21st straight day, the Defense Ministry announced.

Plane Is Helping To Protect Pitt Game

The hunters were being spotted by a state-owned airplane which patrolled the county searching for law violators.

The aircraft which was assigned to this county for three days is patrolling various portions of the county and radios to one of the two radio-equipped cars which travels along with the plane when it discovers something suspicious.

Approve Abandoning Of Local Bus Route

The Utilities Commission yesterday authorized Carolina Coach Company to abandon its bus franchise between Greenville, Patoilus and Washington over N. C. highways 33, 30 and 11.

A spokesman at the local bus station said the bus schedule involved in the franchise was discontinued about two weeks ago. It was a once-a-week round trip between Greenville and Washington through Patoilus which operated on Saturday afternoon. The bus left Washington at 4:45 Saturday afternoon, went through Patoilus and arrived in Greenville at 5:25. It left Greenville at 5:30 and returned to

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
September 23, 1924

East Carolina Teachers College is having the finest opening in the history of the college. 530 students have been accepted to live in the dormitories. The full quota had been reached by the close of the regular term in June. Since then the office has been busy refusing admission to students as it was accepting students before. All students are housed in the new dormitories, so that the first dormitory can be remodeled and made fireproof. The number of boarding students is limited by the space in the dining room. The women of the faculty who live in the college have moved into the new faculty house. The last in the series of buildings extending to the west.

'Friendship' Topic of Program Given At Round Table Club
BETHEL—The regular monthly meeting of the Round Table Book Club met on Tuesday with Mrs. F. L. Andrews Jr. as hostess. Lovely bouquets of scarlet sage and greenery were used to decorate the home which carried out the color theme of red and green.

The program was presented by Mrs. S. D. Dewar. She chose as her topic "Friendship" which was very interesting and informative. During her discussion, she used several outstanding quotations.

The president, Mrs. F. L. Blount Sr. called the meeting to order after which the secretary, Mrs. C. G. Garretton, read the minutes of the last meeting and called the roll with 13 being present. Books were then distributed among the members.

During the social hour, the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Frank Winesette, served a delectable salad course.

The out-of-town guests were Mrs. Perry Harris of Norfolk, Va., Mrs. Zeb Bynson of Tarboro and Mrs. Henry Cummings of Kinston.

Order Of Eastern Star Has Rob Morris Program Tuesday

Greenville Chapter 149 Order of the Eastern Star held its regular meeting Tuesday evening at 8:00 in the chapter room of the Masonic Hall, with the worthy matron, Mrs. J. B. Jackson, in charge. The meeting was opened in ritualistic form followed by the usual flag ceremony led by worthy patron, John Carrington.

Mrs. John Carrington, conductor, presented the 25-year-plus members, Mrs. Hugh Ragdale, Mrs. T. I. Moore, Mrs. Fenner Corbett, Mrs. Ruth Harris, Mrs. Anna Manning and Miss Frances Wahl, who were welcomed by the worthy patron and seated in the east.

For the good of the order, a "Rob Morris" program was presented by Mrs. Hugh Ragdale. She was assisted by Mrs. T. I. Moore, who read a very interesting article about Rob Morris. Since Mrs. Moore resembles Mrs. Clem Buckner, guest at the home, it was very fitting that she read the article written by Miss Clem.

"Rob Morris is the founder of the O.E.S. During his lifetime he was the most widely known Mason in the country, if not in the world. The greater part of his life was devoted to Masonic research, and to the dissemination of Masonic knowledge. Robert Morris was never quite satisfied that all the good in Masonry should be confined to the men, but that it should be for the whole family. In 1950 he worked up the Eastern Star. Perhaps the most enduring and magnificent monument that is to perpetuate his memory is the Order of the Eastern Star, an Order that today represents a membership of over two million votaries."

Mrs. Fenner Corbett added much to the program with her description of the Masonic and O.E.S. home in Greensboro, the first of its kind in the state.

Mrs. Ragdale told of the many interesting and remembered poems, especially "The Level and the Square," that Rob Morris wrote. Also she stated that red rose bushes are sent the Masonic and O.E.S. home periodically from the 25-year-plus club here in Greenville.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Helen Sermons was appointed chairman of the Tar Heel Star News Committee.

"Alice" Will Soon Be Available On Records

By DIAL TORGERSON
AP Newsfeatures

LOS ANGELES—Alice, the girl from Wonderland, will soon be at the bookstores in a new guise—flair, round and revolving.

A Los Angeles and St. Joseph, Mich., firm has found a way to make a very, very long-playing record, squeezing the rendition of an entire book on three or four tiny discs. "Alice in Wonderland" is one of the four "talking books" the company is producing now. Already on the market is a recording of the entire New Testament.

"The thing can raise the cultural level of the whole country," Raymond Tierstein, vice president of Audio Books explains enthusiastically. "We thought of it at first as something for the blind. Now we see it appeals to a big segment of the public."

"About half the people in the country are audio-minded instead of visual-minded. They grasp things they hear, instead of things they see. That's why they don't like to read. But they like to listen."

A lot of engineering had to be done before the recordings could go on the market. When the highwayman comes riding, riding up to the old inn door, he'll be doing it at 16 and 2-3 r.p.m.—the speed the firm finally decided was the best for spinning their tales.

After they perfected the record, the manufacturers had to invent a device adapting a regular three-speed turntable to the slower revolutions of the book discs. They have a gadget they believe will do the trick.

Last year, as soon as Tierstein and company president J.L.D. Moriron became convinced they had conquered the technical difficulties, they started a massive project: recording the New Testament.

After five months of recording they had the voice of Marvin Miller, a radio-television personality, reading the entire text on just 26 records. It takes 24 hours to play the album.

It was only after they had cut the records on this project that Morrison and Tierstein decided that the general public—not just blind people—would like to buy books they could listen to. They recorded Poe, an anthology of well-known poems, a book of bedtime stories, and Alice in Wonderland in little albums of two to four records. They're coming off the presses now.

"We're having some trouble deciding whether they're records or books," Tierstein said. "They'll be sold both in record shops and bookstores. I insist they're books but the government says they're records and makes up pay excise tax."

Plan Campaign For Employing Of Handicapped

The National Employ the Physically Handicapped Committee has made plans for observing the Employ the Handicapped Week October 2 through the 9th.

A.B. Tinnin, veterans representative at the local Employment Office, and co-chairman of the committee, told the group Tuesday night that this year the employment office has placed 41 handicapped applicants in suitable jobs. He said 32 new applications for jobs by handicapped persons had been taken by the local office.

At the present time, Tinnin told the committee, the office has 53 applications for jobs on file. Of this number, he said, 34 are male, 13 female, and six are veterans.

The committee made plans to have radio programs during the week and spot announcements. A proclamation is to be issued by the mayor proclaiming the week of October 2-9 as Employ the Handicapped Week.

In addition, short talks are to be made to civic clubs and letters will be mailed to employers.

Tinnin told the group that this is the tenth year that the week has been observed in Pitt County.

The following objectives of the committee were listed:

1. Better inform employers of the abilities of qualified handicapped.
2. Increase community understanding of the value of rehabilitation and employment of the handicapped.
3. Perfect community organizations so that the handicapped are better served through early rehabilitation and job placement.
4. Plan and carry through imaginative and interesting promotional campaigns at State and local committee levels.
5. Study community needs of the handicapped and facilities and opportunities for meeting these needs for the future.
6. Interpret to employers and to the handicapped the services available through public and private rehabilitation and employment services.
7. Gear community and State plans and programs so as to increase liaison between Governor's Committees and local committees in order to better carry out the above objectives.

Committee members include: W.H. Brown, co-chairman, vocational rehabilitation office; A.B. Tinnin, co-chairman, Employment Office; Mrs. Emily Johnson, Blind Commission; James S. Hughes, city manager; Dr. Walter C. Humbert, Pitt County Health Department; Ted Fountain, local attorney; Sam Whitehurst, American Legion local post commander; June Rose, State Employ the Physically Handicapped chairman; Miss Audrey Bottoms, Employment office; E. Stanley Gary, Greenville Mills, and Alvin Taylor, Daily Reflector.

NOT HELD—Actress Rita Moreno, 22 (above), friend of George A. Hormel II, who was arrested on a narcotics charge, apologized to officers whom she kicked and slapped when they attempted to search her handbag. Officers found her asleep on a couch at Hormel's home. Later Miss Moreno said she thought it was a gag. She was not held but officer John O'Grady said he will ask for an assault complaint. (AP Wire-photo)

Begin 'War' On Rabies Epidemic

HOUSTON Tex. (AP)—Harris County's gigantic campaign to end a two-year rabies epidemic focused today on the western part of the populous county.

Huge crowds of dog owners and their pets blocked traffic in some sections of Texas' most populous county yesterday as they flocked to 84 free clinics in strategic sections of the area.

At most of the 21 clinics in the northern sections of Houston and the county yesterday, veterinarians and health department employees sent for new supplies after the first hour of vaccinating.

The drive will center tomorrow in the south part of the county and in the east portion Saturday.

The clinics sponsored by city and county health departments, are prepared to give free anti-rabies vaccinations to 50,000 dogs.

Meanwhile, in Dallas where two children have died after being bitten by rabid dog, a city ordinance requiring that all dogs be leashed or penned was proposed. Its proponents said such a regulation would be better than compulsory vaccination.

From September 1953 to April 1954 (the off season) 200,849 Americans traveled to Europe — 82 per cent more than the previous year.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS WASTE

Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slow-down of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages. Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 60 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Family Captures Another Robber

FREDERICK, Md. (AP)—Wilcom's Inn, which has been so mysteriously tempting to would-be robbers over recent years, has been invaded for the 11th time.

And once again owner Charles F. Wilcom and his three sons, who get plenty of practice at the game of catching crooks made a capture.

Wilcom told police yesterday he and his boys caught one man coming out of the establishment early Monday, but that two others got away with 20 cartons of cigarettes some change and three antique muskets Wilcom valued at $325.

Before Monday's exploit, the family trapped three men inside the inn and nabbed all three, wounding one seriously with shotgun pellets. And before that they apprehended six burglars in two catches. One of them was wounded and died later while awaiting trial.

Turned over to police after this week's attempt was a man identified as Frederick Deloy Fields of Portsmouth, Ohio.

President Will Serve Luncheon

NEW YORK (AP)—President Eisenhower, an amateur chef of some note, will personally dish up beef stew to a roomful of luncheon diners in Denver next Monday.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson said yesterday at a meeting of the American Meat Institute and United Fruit and Vegetable Assn. that the President will turn chef to promote sale of meat and vegetables.

Benson said the President also will make an important announcement at the Denver luncheon at the Cherry Hills Country Club, but "there will be no political flavor to it, whatever."

Damage Is Difficult To Repair

It is a tragic thing for the Greenville tobacco market that four men associated with tobacco warehouses here have been indicted for 70 violations of the Tobacco Inspection act.

Certainly the four Pitt County men who have been charged with "nesting" tobacco,

Where Are GOP Foreign Policy Successes

Whereas the domestic economy appears to the Reflector as a poor Democrat Party choice as a political issue, it does seem that conduct of our foreign affairs offers sound grounds for consideration.

Foreign policy should not be a political football; for its sole purpose is safeguarding American interests in dealings with the rest of the world. As such, foreign affairs are non-partisan.

The goal of the United States is peace, understanding and harmony in its dealings with all other governments. Confronted by an active enmity and open animosity by what we call the "Iron Curtain bloc", the immediate foreign policy goals have been to formulate a strong alliance among friendly peoples abroad to deter aggressive and warlike action by our avowed foes.

This would be the goal whether Democrats or Republicans were in power. Open to debate, however, is the obtainable degree of success.

Are our ties with the friendly powers of Europe any closer than during the late Truman administration? Has there been any concrete progress in strengthening the anti-Communist coalition psychologically as well as physically? Is the United States too preoccupied with affairs in Europe and Asia, and not enough so within the Western Hemisphere?

These and other questions might well be asked in evaluating conduct of foreign affairs since the Republican administration took over. In the end, it's results that count. Beyond ending the Korean conflict, what other tangible steps can Secretary of State Dulles show toward the sought-for goals?

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THE PARTIAL AND THE PERFECT

Our age is in danger of being anesthetized by its scientific achievements. Because we have learned so much within the last 100 years, we have fallen into the error of believing that we know almost everything that is worth finding out. All of which is absurd; for what we know is but an infinitesimal portion of what there is to know. Five hundred years from now people will probably look back upon us as babbling infants.

The great Sir Isaac Newton—one of history's outstanding sages—said on one occasion: "I do not know what I may appear to the world; but to myself I seem to have been only like a boy, playing on the seashore, and myself now and then, finding a smoother pebble or a prettier shell than ordinary, while the great ocean of truth lay all undiscovered before me."

In Newton we have the picture of a humble man. All the truly great scientists have been humble men, and they have been humble because the more they learned the more they realized that they knew but little of the vast store of knowledge. The best we can do is to ball out our thimblefuls of knowledge from the sea of truth. If we do this well, we shall be content. We shall know all we need to know, and we are assured of the Word of God that when that which is perfect is come, that which is in part shall be done away.

U. S. 'Get Tough' Foreign Policy

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Britain's belated decision to share greater responsibility with the United States for defense of Western Europe chucks up a major victory for the Eisenhower-Dulles get-tough foreign policy. Until recently, the British had dragged their feet in the American effort to vitalize a military coalition against the Reds.

The British refusal to commit troops to the now defunct European Defense Community contributed to the French rejection of that system. Parliamentary opponents of the treaty at Paris argued hysterically and successfully that, while insisting that France remain and ally with the Germans, London and Washington refused to make similar sacrifices.

This chauvinistic contention, advanced in the closing hours of debate by former Premier Edouard Herriot, admittedly destroyed whatever chance there was of French ratification. Both the U. S. and Great Britain were assailed as "selfish isolationists," despite our contributions to postwar recovery.

RESULTS OF FRENCH ACTION—The French legislation and defeat of the EDC proposal had immediate repercussions at 10 Downing Street. Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden hoped a plane for conferences with the heads of all the Governments that were to have been included in EDC.

He got them to agree to a grant of German sovereignty and rearmament under NATO or the Brussels 1955 Pact. But his winning argument was his pledge that England would become an integral member of any new alliance, not merely a friendly onlooker and well-wisher. He promised that British soldiers would serve side by side with European contingents, including the Germans in the proposed defense organization.

After giving these assurances, he was able to descend on Paris and Premier Mendes-France with almost unassailable arguments for French participation in some alternative to EDC.

IMPROVED U.S.-BRITISH RELATIONS—This

altering inspection tickets and forging certificates are not guilty, yet. Their guilt or innocence will be determined in the federal court where they will be tried on the charges.

Whether the men are innocent or guilty, the publicity which has accompanied their indictment has, in the minds of some people, cast a shadow of suspicion over the Greenville tobacco market and the tobacco business in general. Even if the four are found innocent, there will still be a doubt in the minds of some people.

In a real sense, the damage already has been done. The fact that four men associated with the tobacco business have been charged with 70 violations of the Tobacco Inspection act and reflected upon all the warehouses on the Greenville market and other markets.

Honesty is a characteristic for which there is no substitute. The vast majority of warehousemen in Greenville and throughout the Eastern Belt are honest businessmen. In the warehouse business, as in any other business, there may be a few unscrupulous individuals who, by their actions, jeopardize the reputation of the entire business. If there are a few dishonest individuals in the tobacco business, they should be weeded out as rapidly as possible for the sake of the honest people who are in the majority, and for the sake of the business as a whole.

A few dishonest people can give the whole business a bad name. It is grossly unfair, but it is nevertheless true.

It is up to the court to decide the guilt or innocence of the four men involved in this incident. It is up to the warehousemen to see that their organization is not infiltrated by dishonest individuals who damage the reputation of everyone else associated with the tobacco business.

It is important to remember that the indictments have been brought against four individuals, not against all the warehousemen associated with the Greenville market or markets throughout the belt. The charges should not be construed an indictment against the entire warehouse system.

If the men are guilty as charged, they should be punished and punished severely. If they are innocent, it will still take considerable time to repair the damage the indictments have caused the reputation of the Greenville tobacco market.

WINDOM, MINN., REPOKFER: "You can't spend more than you have and remain solvent. The longer such a system is followed, the more impossible it becomes to keep afloat. Know anyone who trades in a mortgaged car on a new one and has both a newer car and a bigger mortgage? The woods are full of such people. It is bad economics. It's somewhat like drug addiction. This applies equally to a person, a business, or a government."

ODESSA, TEX., AMERICAN: "There was once a young showgirl who came bustling into the dressing room breathlessly exclaiming, 'I've just met the loveliest richest man. He owes $800,000.' In that philosophy the United States is surely 'the loveliest, richest' country in the world since the Federal debt is now moving past the $275-billion mark, compared to $207 billions owed by all the other countries in the world."

shift in British behavior will relieve the United States of many severe handicaps and embarrassments in the cold war with Russia. With Britain assuming a new leadership role on the Continent, the Communists can no longer scream that "American imperialists and warmongers" are scheming to set the stage for a World War III in Europe.

England's more aggressive attitude will tend to improve recently strained relations with the White House and the State Department. Both President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles have been annoyed, to use a mild word, at what they had begun to regard as Churchill-Eden "appeasement" of Moscow.

Former British commitments to military reinforcement of the Western European nations, together with American pledges to the same effect, brighten the outlook for organization of a powerful defense force at the nine-power conference, which will undertake discussions of this problem next Monday.

DULLES DELIGHTED—Dulles revealed his delight over Britain's change of heart by flying to Bonn and London, bypassing the recalcitrant and isolated politicians at Paris, to endorse the Churchill-Eden proposals. After six months of personal and diplomatic tension, ever since the pre-Genova dispute over formation of a Southeast Asia Alliance in April, happy days are here again for the Anglo-American family. Knowing of Dulles' ill-concealed irritation toward Eden, photographs of them smiling and shaking hands amuse Washington observers.

DEFEAT OF SOVIET MANEUVER—The outcome also marks a major defeat of the Kremlin's deliberate and near-successful maneuver to break the solidity of the Western Coalition, which has been Georgi Malenkov's primary diplomatic objective ever since he succeeded Stalin.

The Eisenhower-Dulles ultimatum of an "agonizing reappraisal" of our responsibilities and obligations to Europe may have been a "bluff," as so many Europeans told me on my recent tour of Western Europe. But it was a Yankee bluff that seems to have worked.

Somebody Told Me

Large Audience Hears Garry

(Special note: Remember Tuesday's story about Major Hall in Germany and Mrs. Hall in Winterville? Yesterday at noon I was lucky enough to get them together for a 45-minute conversation, most of which was understandable although radio conditions were not good.)

A current news release about television's Garry Moore has convinced me that I was lucky to get an interview with him Christmas before last. Now his popularity has grown to the extent that no doubt he's heard for a newspaper reporter to get to.

This story illustrates the point: On his daytime show which is telecast live weekdays at 10:00 in the morning, Garry was interviewing a housewife from Mount Pleasant, Mich., population 11,000.

"Are you rich?" Garry asked Mrs. Deibel, 26, whose husband is an appliance salesman. "No," she said, "but not poor either."

"Just for laughs," Garry said, "let's all send Mrs. Deibel a nickel." That was all there was to it; no strings attached.

Garry has an estimated 3,000-

000 viewers and many responded. At last count, she had received about 130,000 contributions and had close to $7,000! She has been told to brace herself for more money, because the show has yet to be seen in many areas that receive it delayed on film.

This incident makes me appreciate my interview with Garry more, which was naturally described in detail in this column at the time. A letter on Daily Reflector stationery addressed to Garry Moore, CBS Television, telling him when wife Rachel and I would be in New York and "my paper would be very much impressed if I could get an interview with you" brought results, much to my amazement.

A call at the hotel from Garry's secretary said, "Can you come to the show today?" Naturally we could. "Come around to the stage door and give your name. You'll be shown in to a front seat and Mr. Moore will talk to you after the show."

The secretary takes such characters as me under her wing, tells us when to do what, and supplies us with a mimeographed biography so we could write a book about the guy if we didn't say a word to him.

Garry was very cordial, appeared just like he does on TV. Did he have any memories of North Carolina? Certainly. He ran away from home (Baltimore) and visited a friend at Duke. Broke, he made up beds at one of the fraternity houses (I've forgotten which one) to earn his keep. In a few days the Lindbergh child was kidnapped and it brought to his mind that his folks might be worried about him. He drove a chicken truck back to Henderson in order to earn a few dollars to be on his way back home.

How annoying is the public? Even then, Garry said he could go nowhere unrecognized. "But I refuse to go into hiding. I go where I please and do what I please." He could have added, "public or no public."

"Just think if he would have only said I needed a nickel I could have rented the mortgage on the house."

And I thank you. JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

INDUSTRY COMING SOUTH

Wilson Daily Times
Industry is coming South, according to the Manufacturers' Record that cites a 428 per cent increase in manufacturing production from 1939 to 1953. But, like many other records, and percentage figures, there is a sour note. For, as the article points out, the South "actually has made little gain on the nation so far as living standards are concerned."

All states outside the 16 in the South gained only 360 per cent over the same period when lumped together as a whole. But their gain was much greater in dollars and cents. The increase in the South on a per capita basis over the 14-year period was only 4965 while the other states increased production per capita by $1,670.

In the final analysis the large percentage increase shows how far the South had to come to catch up with the nation in manufacturing products. It is evident, also, that the big percentage increase in the South didn't mean as much in dollars as a smaller percentage increase, taken from the much larger base, established by other regions.

What is important is the amount of money people have to spend. This determines the living standards. The South has come a long way but it has many miles yet to travel in order to catch up with the nation. When we can read in the Record that the South can match the average of the nation in factory investment on a per capita basis, we will have something to shout about.

On the right road, for our agricultural economy must be supplemented by payrolls from industries. Industries are coming South. Each year should show an increase in per capita income with its corresponding rise in the standard of living.

Banks And Bankers Especially Active This September

By LYNN NISBET

BANKS — Banks and bankers are much in the North Carolina news right now. First there is the young bankers meeting sponsored by the State Bankers Association scheduled to be held in Raleigh Sunday and Monday.

Then comes the annual convention of the National Association of Supervisors of State Banks scheduled at Raleigh for October 13-15. Advance registration for this meeting has already exceeded 300 and 400 or more are expected to attend from every State in the Union.

Besides the State supervising officials the attendance will include members of the Federal Reserve Board and representatives from each Federal Reserve district; the Comptroller of the Currency, and members of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and their supervising examiners.

W. W. Jones, commissioner of banks for North Carolina, is the official host, but the N. C. Bankers Association and all the Raleigh banking institutions are co-operating in the role of hosts. This occasion will enable Raleigh and all of North Carolina to entertain the relatively small group of men who literally and by statute control the banking business of the United States, and thereby actually control the money markets throughout the world.

There was a time when the Bank of England dominated the world money market. Then control passed to Wall Street. Now it is vested mainly in the fiscal agencies of the United States government, all of which will be represented at the Raleigh convention. Chances are these 300 to 400 men will not look any different from the ordinary small town banker or business man—but when they speak they speak with recognized authority.

CHARGES — Speaking of banks and bankers always leads to discussion of two problems of more intimate concern than control of the world money market. They are the service charges levied by banks against small active and many inactive deposit accounts, the par clearance of checks.

There is in progress now a mild controversy over the matter of service charges for dormant accounts. It has become accepted practice for banks to charge a small fee for the handling of a great many checks written against small balances, where bookkeeping costs far exceed any possible benefits from use of the deposited funds by the bank. That fee is paid by the depositor and in most cases without objection because of the recognized service rendered.

The deposits which are subject to check, but which are never checked out, present a different phase of the problem. The public has an interest in this item because under the law any funds on deposit which are not called for within five years are escheated to the University. The money does not become the absolute property of the University.

At any time the original owner can substantiate claim for it he can get it. The University meantime has use of the interest.

The attorney general has ruled that banks cannot make a service charge on dormant accounts, which essentially is a "storage charge" just for keeping the money. Pursuant to that ruling, the State Banking Commission has for some time enforced a regulation against such charges.

Pou Bailey, attorney for the N. C. Bankers Association, contests the statutes differently and has advised his group that under the law a service charge can be collected on inactive and dormant deposit accounts. The Banking Commission feels bound by the attorney general's ruling and is standing pat. The amount involved is insignificant and there is no real trouble between the groups. It is likely that some clarifying legislation will be enacted next spring.

PAR CLEARANCE — The matter of bank charges for handling checks drawn on other banks, commonly called "exchange", has been for some years a lively issue in North Carolina. The Federal Reserve Board regulations require that all national banks clear checks at par and all State banks which are members of the Federal Reserve System also clear at par. So do many other State banks. About half the State banks, however, continue the practice of charging a small fee for cashing checks drawn on other banks, which charge is permitted by

Business Today

Broadening Coverage

What some Republicans have called creeping socialism will creep a bit further on the next two New Year's Days—and by Republican action.

On the next one, Social Security benefits and collections go up and coverage is extended to about 10,000,000 additional persons.

On January 1, 1956, unemployment coverage is extended to 4,000,000 more workers.

Next year, the maximum Social Security collections from both employees and employers are raised from $72 to $84 per person. The benefits are increased generally, with the maximum primary benefits eventually going from $65 to $108.50 a month. There are some other benefits to those insured, including a provision that exempts from calculations of earnings those periods in which a worker is totally disabled.

Coverage is extended to farm operators, certain domestics, employees engaged in fishing and similar activities now excluded, and self-employed architects, accountants and engineers. Ministers and Christian Science practitioners may be included if they wish and members of state and local governments, except police and firemen, can get in by majority vote of members of retirement systems.

The effects on business of these changes will be mutually off-setting; more people paying more tax will naturally reduce their disposable income, whereas the disposable income of the beneficiaries will be increased. While there may be a shift in demand from things that people over 65 buy to things that people over 65 want, the shift will be almost imperceptible.

The changes in the law offer some rare bargains to a few persons. A person who has never been covered by Social Security, for instance, can get into covered employment next year and be 50,000 to 100,000 miles, fully covered in 18 months. And if he and his wife reach 65 by that time, they will have paid in $126 and be eligible for $182.80 a month.

An annuity that would provide similar benefits would cost $30,000, Prentice-Hall estimates.

Changes in unemployment insurance extend coverage to firms employing as few as four persons, instead of eight as at present. This will affect 1,500,000 persons in 25 states, the other states having extended coverage to smaller firms without Federal action. The insurance is also extended to 2,500,000 civilian employees of the government.

All these changes were voted by the 83rd, Republican-controlled Congress and approved by the Republican administration.

ALL DEPENDS ON TIES

SAYS TIE (NATCH) GROUP
The neckwear industry, the Men's Tie Foundation will have us know, is the keystone of the entire men's wear industry.

"Take the trend of men's suits in charcoal shades of black, grey, blue and brown," said Myron H. Ackerman, president. "Coupled with the charcoal trend has been the resurgence of shirts in pastel shades, first pink and now blue, mint green, helio and chrome yellow or gold. Tie designers had to create ties that would blend perfectly with any combination of suit and shirt colors. Neckwear literally 'ties' the whole ensemble together."

It appears that if there weren't just the right ties, stores would be unable to sell either suits or shirts.

Ties to outlast automobiles are coming. At least four of the big rubber companies are now working on a new synthetic rubber, called Vulcolan, which was developed in Germany. Tire treads of Vulcolan are said to last from

It's Tough To Keep 'em On Job

By SAUL FEIT
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP)—Charley Butterfield—you know the byline as "C. E. Butterfield"—is retiring as radio-TV editor of the Associated Press.

Around here, that's a little like saying the RCA Building is going to be torn down for a parking lot. Matter of fact, most of us were happily convinced that Charley would still be writing about radio long after NBC became a faded divided memory in the minds of David Sarnoff's descendants.

But Charley says he's tired and wants to go down to Florida and raise chickens. I don't know why. The kid doesn't deserve a rest. We were just getting him broken in.

After all, he has only been writing about radio more than 30 years. He has been radio editor only 27 years. He has done his column only 22 years.

With all that, the boy is only 62. He started young, at 14, on his family's kitchen table in Champaign, Ill. Charley built an amateur wireless station in 1906.

"In those days," he recalls, "there were no commercial stations. All I got was coded signals from the government stations. I couldn't understand the code but it was fun for me, anyway. It wasn't for the rest of the neighborhood."

"You see, I used an electronic rectifier to cut in on the house current, which was A. C. Every time I pressed down on the telegraphic key, it dimmed all the lights in the neighborhood. You should've heard the squawks."

In 1918, he came up to Chicago to do general bureau work for the AP. Within a few years, he was finding stories to write about radio at a time when many people still couldn't spell the word. For example he wrote about Chicago's "silent nights."

On those nights every station in town closed up so radio owners could begin whirling their dials to see how many long distance stations they could pick up. On a good, clear night you could get Los Angeles.

Charley came to New York as AP radio editor in 1927. This was at a time when radio fans were just switching from battery sets, which frequently spilled over and burned a hole in the living room rug, to receivers using house current.

In 1932, Charley made the front pages with an exclusive story. It was the first transatlantic short-wave interview on record. The man on the other end in Vatican City was Guglielmo Marconi.

Even in those days, Charley was firing questions at the experts about a fantastic bit of nonsense known as television. In that interview, Marconi told Charley television's chances were "rapidly" improving.

Charley was writing so long ago about TV the headline writers hadn't even had time to catch up with the name of the new medium. One head over a Butterfield story was: "Sight-seeing by radio."

Charley was not only writing about the new gadget in the early thirties; he even built his own first TV set out of a kit of parts. His first receiver used a neon lamp instead of a cathode ray tube. Thus the picture was dark red and light red instead of black and white.

You didn't have to be a grasshopper to enjoy the first experimental programs that came over Charley's set but it would have helped. Even with a magnifier, that set provided a picture only 1 1/2 inches wide and one inch high. To see anything, he couldn't be any more than two feet away.

In those days, about all there was to watch was experimental pictures transmitted by NBC. Charley particularly remembers one in which all that happened was that a wooden figure of a cat kept revolving around a turntable.

But he watched that postage stamp screen and he watched and reported on everything that came with the bigger and better screens developed since.

Now he says he's going to retire in November, which just goes to show you how tough it is to hold on to help these days.

Camera News

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newfeature
 Photography is full of beginners who are easily discouraged and ready to turn to other interests. They should meet Heinz Muller-Brunke, a name unfamiliar in this country though he is a top European photographer. His particular specialty is mountain and nature photograph with a 35mm. camera. His story is in a new book, "My Beloved Exakta" which is documented with 128 well printed, recent examples of his work, published by Variety Books, Bronxville 8, N.Y.

As a lad in Berlin, Muller-Brunke made his first acquaintance with a camera when his older sister acquired a 9 x 12 view model. At first she refused firmly to believe in community property and he resorted to stealth to explore its secrets. Obviously he couldn't explain to her why three plates among her early pictures were returned from the photo dealer totally black. He was amazed, too, because when he had examined them in daylight they were perfectly white. It was his first lesson in film sensitivity to light. Fortunately, the camera was un-wieldy and very shortly his sister was glad to make him a partner. He shouldered the burden of carrying the equipment and sacrificed the contents of his piggy bank for supplies. Every picture, if it came out at all, made him happy. Soon he combined it with his first apprentice job as a window trimmer. He took pictures of his better displays and the photos, in turn, enabled him to get jobs when he became a free lance window trimmer. When one of his pictures was published, it brought him a new thrill... his first fee.

A few more lessons along the photographic road followed when his sister, her thoughts elsewhere, left the camera on a streetcar. The loss made him determined to own a camera of his own. He got one, even if it was only a cheap roll-film camera. With it, he went on a picture jag, shooting indiscriminately. The results were bitterly disappointing. Only one print out of a whole batch conveyed in picture form what his eye had seen and his mind had felt when he pressed the button.

After that he took pictures with more thought—more thought about subject matter and the technical proficiency to make each shot count. There's a lot more to Muller-Brunke's story of his rise in photography to the heights... literally by mountain climbing. He averted death by narrow margins on several occasions but nothing could stop his picture taking. The declaration of war in Europe almost did.

He was in Vienna on that day taking pictures when he was arrested by secret police and accused of espionage. Fortunately, the camera that caused his arrest also proved his innocence when the negatives in it were developed. He was released but spent the rest of the war as a soldier.

On two occasions he credits the physical presence of his camera with saving his life. Once it stopped grenade splinters at his chest. The other time he went to fetch his camera and a direct hit blasted the spot he had just left.

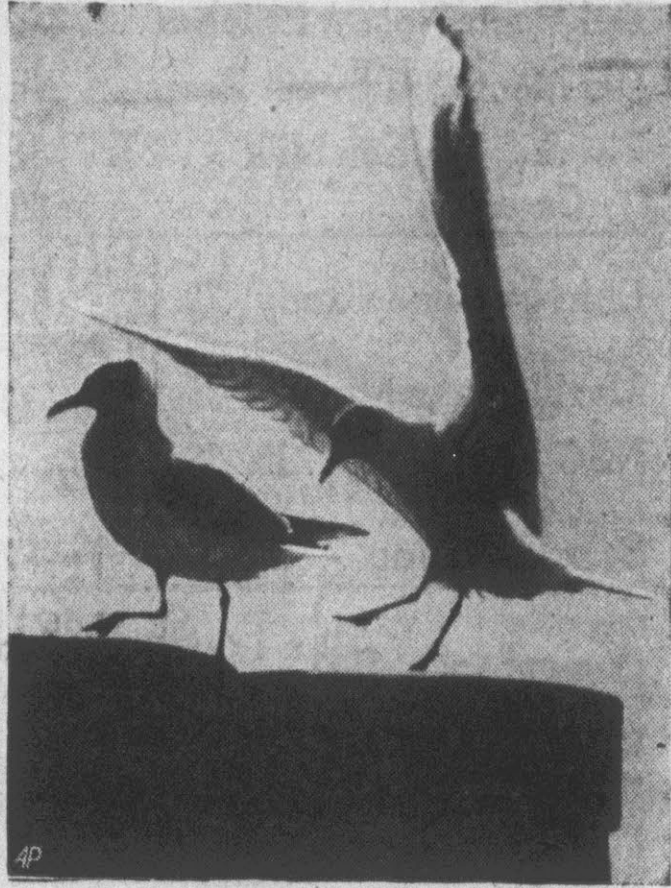

However, war's disaster did hit him at home. The entire files of his previous twelve years of photography were destroyed. A prisoner of war when the conflict ended, he was released shortly and headed for the Bavarian mountains to start a new home and a new career. At first he painted mountain scenes for a living, then photography took hold again and became the basis for his existence. Postwar shortages and the necessity of using the smallest negative size and least amount of chemicals and materials, however, dictated a change to miniature photography. Very shortly, the advantages of 35mm. photography, when properly handled, became apparent. The great depth of focus of the short focal length lenses permitted him to take scenes with the accent on the foreground at the same time including a sharp background. Yet the miracles of extreme close-ups of flowers, birds and insects were also possible. We see many excellent examples of Muller-Brunke's personal style in these fields in his book, some of them in color. Yes, serious attention to the words and pictures of "My Beloved Exakta" should prove a tonic to

India Promotes Imports And Also Increases Duty

By EUGENE LEVIN

NEW DELHI (AP)—Indian stores soon may have more foreign-made goods to satisfy customers for "luxury" articles. But there is a catch—prices are likely to be a lot higher than they have been.

A new government import policy is responsible. Officials decided to liberalize quota restrictions on some imports while at the same time boosting duties on most of these imports.

The lover of beer, ale or wine is in a trying situation. Previously, import were regulated to a percentage of a base quota. Now the quantity restriction is off, and anyone can drink to his heart's content—provided duties increased by 100 to 150 per cent will let him.

A quart bottle of beer or ale had a duty of about 9 cents; now the duty is 21 cents. Champagnes used to have a duty of $3.50 a gallon but now are rated at $8.00. Wines have been boosted similarly.

India makes razor blades, but a smooth shave is a "luxury" requiring foreign-made blades. Imports of these have been limited to 20 per cent of the base quota. The new policy allows imports up to 30 per cent of the base quota; it also hikes the import duty from 30 per cent of the value of the blades to 40 per cent. (The base quotas are determined by a formula based on annual imports between 1945 and 1950).

An old ban on bringing in assembled automobiles is gone. The choice is no longer limited to the new foreign manufacturers who assemble their vehicles here.

But the duty on the imported auto is 75 per cent of its value or $1,260, whichever is higher.

For the woman shopping for her wardrobe, the new quotas mean possibly twice as much foreign-made silk hosiery, cottons, woolsens or other fabrics on the mar-

The modern structure was completed last spring and the lodge moved into the new quarters June 1. Several hundred persons may be seated in the lodge room. A restaurant and facilities for Elks' wives to entertain at parties are available. Dedication ceremonies will take place tonight.

ket. Along with this greater choice go boosted duties — on hose, 80 per cent instead of 66; on other fabrics, about 60 per cent instead of the 30 per cent average level previously.

Increased imports of a few articles are to be allowed without the duty being raised. Chief among these are watches and toys.

The government said the new program is intended to provide high duty protection for some young Indian industries which previously had been protected by quota restrictions.

Officials explained the policy in this manner:

In the past, the lower quotas created a scarcity of foreign-made goods, leading to high prices. With liberalized quotas, the goods should be more plentiful and prices should come down despite boosts in duties.

'Chief' Wrecked By Broken Axle

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A broken axle today was listed as the probable cause of the derailment yesterday of the Santa Fe Railroad's streamliner San Francisco Chief in which all 191 passengers escaped serious injury.

Between 20 and 30 persons aboard the Oakland, Calif.-to-Chicago train were shaken up but only two passengers and three crew members were hospitalized overnight. They were to be released today.

The Santa Fe estimated damage at $250,000.

The accident occurred at Orwood Crossing 40 miles east of San Francisco as the train started to slow for a drawbridge.

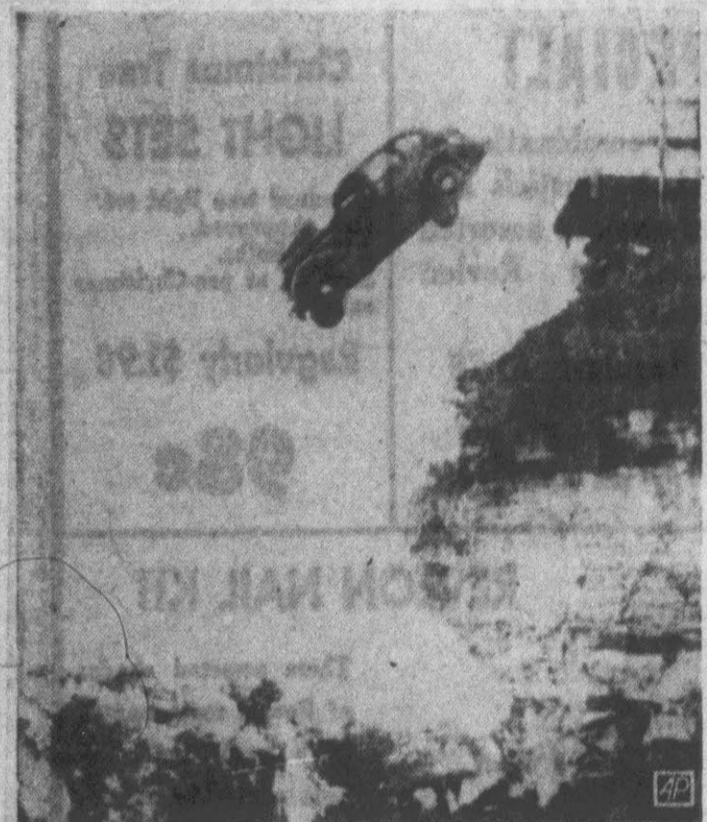

The derailment was the San Francisco Chief's second within a month. It was derailed at Lomax, Ill., Aug. 22, when five persons were killed and 53 injured.

Roadmaster Walter Johnson said a dragging broken axle on one of the diesel units was the probable cause of yesterday's accident.

Nine cars left the track, including the dome observation car, which crashed against a tall signal tower, ripping the side of the car and throwing 20 passengers onto the floor.

Engineer Emil Kloehn said the train was traveling about 70 miles an hour.

The uninjured were transferred

DEATH PLUNGE—Race driver Kenneth J. Adams, 31, father of six children, was carried to his death when his auto plunged 65 feet off cliff in "thrill" climax to stock car races at Verona, Wis. Authorities were trying to determine why Adams, from Madison, Wis., failed to jump from the car before it reached the wooden ram on cliff top as he had done in the past. The picture was taken by an amateur attending the races. (AP Wirephoto)

WORTHLESS LOOT
WESTON, Conn. (AP)—A policeman became suspicious when he saw two men struggling along the highway with six heavy bags at 2 a.m. The bags, an inspection disclosed, were filled with crushed stone. Fifteen more bags of stone were found later in the home of the two men, a father and his son. Police charged the stone was stolen from a state highway department road pile, but offered no explanation as to why the two men had gone to the trouble of stealing it.

Tiny Community Is Fulfilling His Wish

KNOWLKLE, Tenn. (AP)—To understand why Geoffrey B. Onuoha is en route from Nigeria to Tennessee, you need to know the cherokee community—a tiny place, with a big heart and a will to do things.

The farm community, northwest of here in neighboring Grainger County, won the state community improvement contest in 1951; the rural church of the year award for Tennessee in 1952. It is a Protestant community, with no Negroes.

When the Department of State and the Tennessee Valley Authority distributed international publicity—in seven languages—a few years ago, a few words were devoted to Cherokee, on the banks of Cherokee Lake.

Here's the rest of the story, told today by Vic Weals, columnist for the Knoxville Journal:

In Lagos, Nigeria, in British West Africa, a Negro youth—Onuoha—read one of the publicity booklets. He began writing to citizens of Cherokee. They replied and soon felt as if they knew him.

"Tennessee is my favorite foreign country," wrote Onuoha. "My favorite song is 'Tennessee Blues' (waltz?). I received my education in a Catholic mission school, which I believe would compare with your secondary schools.

"My father and mother and brothers and sisters have not had the opportunity to get an education. They live in a native village.

"My greatest ambition is to come to America and continue my education. I desire an education so I can help my people.

"I would be willing to work as a servant, and make any bond required, to repay anyone who would help me get an education in America."

Cherokee, a community used to doing things, decided to take Onuoha under its wing, raised $1,000 to post with the U. S. Immigration Service for his entrance and return to America.

It found that nearby Morristown College for Negroes would admit Onuoha, help him obtain a passport and arrange for him to earn $100 of his yearly expenses of $450. Cherokee thinks, somehow, it can manage the rest.

Onuoha is to arrive at the Knoxville Airport Saturday. He will be met by his friends in Cherokee, a Southern community with no Catholics and Negroes, helping a Negro Catholic it has never seen to realize his greatest ambition.

Milk Program Outlined For School Principals

A new milk program in the schools was explained to principals of the white and Negro county schools in separate meetings Monday and Tuesday.

The special program is an effort to increase milk consumption in the schools. Superintendent D. H. Conley told the groups at their monthly sessions.

A Federal program, the new plan was established by the U. S. Department of Agriculture for the school years 1954-55 and 1955-56.

Use of up to $50 millions per year of Commodity Credit Corporation funds for increasing the consumption of milk by children will be permitted under the recent Farm Bill signed by the President, Conley explained.

State Allocation
Of this amount North Carolina has been allocated $2,331,000 for the current year for the program. This can mean doubled milk consumption, reaching all the children in the schools of the state, it was pointed out.

It is available to all non-profit schools of high school grade or under without restrictions on other food service in the school other than the non-profit restriction.

Under this program milk may be served at lunch time and other times during the school day in whatever quantities a child may choose to purchase, all of it reimbursable. Reimbursement rates are such that a school should be able to keep the charge to the child at four cents or less per half-pint.

Mrs. Anne W. Maley, state supervisor of school lunch, will present the details of the new program to a regional group conference of superintendents in the lunchroom of the Chocowinity school September 23. Time for this meeting is 2:30 p.m.

Regional Conferences

Three other regional conferences are being held over the state for the explanation of the new program. Conley stated, "This special program will not only be good for the health of the children, but it will also stimulate milk production and farm income, as well as help alleviate the surplus in the dairying states."

Three guests were present for the meeting of the principals of the white schools Monday.

Marshall Barney of the Rocky Mount district office of the Social Security Agency explained to the group the benefits of the social security program for lunchroom workers, while a representative from the teachers and state employees retirement system in Raleigh outlined the procedure of enrollment for lunchroom workers in that program.

Speight Speaks
W. W. Speight of Greenville explained the plan of the John Motley Morehead Scholarship at the University of North Carolina.

Special fund audits for 1954 were released to the several schools. The remainder of the meeting was spent in routine discussion of instruction and general requirements.

Willard B. Pendleton of Pictolus presided at the session. At the meeting of the Negro principals Tuesday the group elected a new chairman, E. A. Elliott of Bethel. He will succeed H. R. Reeves of Grifton.

Guest Speakers
Two Negro school supervisors met with the principals. They explained methods of improving instruction and outlined the professional meetings of the year. The supervisors are Hazel Jordan and Madeline Blount.

Three principals reported on trips they made during the summer. Reeves gave an account of his visit

Commies Extend Thought Control

VIENNA (AP)—Communist "thought control" by radios which can't be turned off is being extended to Czechoslovakia.

Several Iron Curtain countries already have the "radio by wire" system: instead of a radio, you rent a loudspeaker. A wire into your home connects it to a central point in town.

By this method, you have to listen to what the Red broadcasters dish out. You can't change stations, listen to foreign programs or turn it off.

Although the idea has just been extended to Czechoslovakia, Hungary has been having trouble. Red newspapers complain unknown persons tear down the cables in villages. When the wires are put underground, they are mysteriously cut.

Watering Trough Removed By City

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The horse and buggy days in Pittsburgh have ended—officially.

Just before Labor Day city officials decreed the last remaining horse watering trough in the midtown section be dismantled.

The decision came nearly nine months after the city disbanded its mounted police horse troops as an economy measure.

Officials said since the police horses have gone there aren't enough horses around to justify the expense of keeping the water trough in operation.

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

KELLY and Marsh were the two people Penn was glad to see. They brought no problems, no grievances or anxieties. They were anxious about her but not about themselves. One reason why she dreaded going home was that she would miss Marsh and Kelly. Kelly was moving into the little house she had found before Christmas.

"If Ruie wants to come there, he will, and I'll try to take care of him, Penn" she said. "But I can't stay out there any more. It's too far from my job."

Penn kept silent, not voicing her own selfish wish that Rutherford would be gone from the Maryland house before she went back to it—but they were sending her home the next Monday, and there was little chance that Kelly could manage the move before then. Strange how swiftly a world that had been so firmly established, so casually accepted, so accustomed, could fall to pieces, for her—for all of them!

Had it begun on that foggy night when she had almost run Marsh Nichols down? Certainly her own unrest, her troubling doubt of Uncle Elihu, had begun then. Now even to remember it shamed her, made her grief greater. If only he had not talked to her on that plane! Too much now must be buried forever in her heart, too much that was anguish even to remember.

On Sunday night when Quincy and Yates had left after their last visit to the hospital, Marsh came in.

"Just patched up a carload of crazy kids who ran into the abutment on Key bridge," he said. "I have to rush back, but I wanted to let you know—I got some information about your man, Kissell. He was naval reserve and they called him to service on the 27th of November."

So now there was nothing to do but wait for news of Gil—wait and pray that the Storeys would be spared any more tragedy.

She said "Thank you, Marsh. They are sending me home tomorrow. I won't be seeing you any more."

"Wednesday's my afternoon off," he grinned at her, gave her a little pat on the forehead where the blackened eye was now slowly turning green. "Be good," he said, and was gone.

They carried her to her own room at home and Penn loved it, but suddenly remembered that soon it might be no longer her private retreat. She had glimpsed the sign on the gate: "E. Gregg Storey, Realtor."

Across the hall Penn could hear Rutherford's voice, always it seemed, complaining about something. Every time Aunt Maude went into his room she came out with mistletoe eyes, and once Penn heard Rutherford shouting "Mama, can't you come near me without sniveling?"

Christmas was only two weeks away. "We shall simply ignore it," Maude insisted. "It would be travesty now."

Quincy displayed a set of pearl studs and cuff links she had bought for Yates, an album of a recorded book for old Myron.

"Christmas simply can't happen! I can't bear it!" wailed Maude. "At least Kelly has agreed to let Rutherford stay on with me until it's over."

Christmas came, with spring-like weather. Almada roasted a goose and the big dining room table was set again. Gregg and Malvina and the boys were coming to dinner but Maude could not be happy because the elevator had never been installed and there was no one to carry Rutherford downstairs. Kelly and Gregg had volunteered to try, but Rutherford vetoed that idea.

"If it weren't for Gregg's boys I'd never have planned a Christmas dinner," Maude said.

Because Gregg's boys had been dragged away from their own Christmas tree with difficulty, the dinner was late. Quincy was restless because she was going to hear a choral program at the cathedral with Yates. Penn was finishing her pudding when the doorbell chimed.

Her heart stood still. Not today—no, not today! she made her plea. "Man—for you, Miss Penn," Almada announced, sticking her head in the door.

Marsh Nichols stood just within the hall, a tissue-wrapped parcel in his hand.

"For you—and happier Christmases," he said. "And this little one is from mother. She made it herself—she said to explain that her hands were not as steady as they used to be."

"Oh, Marsh—you shouldn't have!" protested Penn. "I didn't do a thing about Christmas this year—somehow we couldn't."

"Of course you couldn't. Open mother's—she'll want to know what you thought of it—and I'll have to run along. I'm on duty at 5. All the holiday casualties will be rolling in."

"Do come in and sit down then. Come and speak to my family. They're still in the dining-room."

"Sorry, I won't have time today. Here—let me do that." With long brown fingers, already trained to mastering intricate surgical knots he slipped the ribbon free from the little flat package. Within was a handkerchief with a delicately tatted edge.

"Oh, lovely!" exclaimed Penn. "I love it. Do tell her that, will you?"

"I'll tell her. You can open that other one later."

"No, I'll open it now. But I wish you hadn't brought me a gift. Marsh, I feel so selfish."

"Nonsense. It isn't much—just something you may need."

It was a Saint Christopher medal, hung on a fine gold chain. Marsh had written on the card. "To keep you safe forever." Penn felt a warm, troubling glow. Impulsively she stood on tiptoe and kissed Marsh on the cheek. And it was then that the door opened and a figure in blue coming in said, half amused: "Well

Happy New Year!"

Penn gave a little scream. "Gill!" She forgot Marsh, who let himself out without looking back.

"Gil's home!" she cried, running back to the dining-room. "Gil's come back—alive!"

Marsh Nichols' old car had gone smoking down the drive before she remembered that she had not said thanks, or goodby.

When the excitement of Gil's arrival had died down and Quincy had gone off to her date with Yates, Penn slipped quietly up to her room.

Maude was clinging to her son, telling over again and again the dreary story of their tragedy, weeping and being comforted. Rutherford shouted down the stairs till at last Gil went up to speak to him. Kelly was helping Almada in the kitchen but for some reason, she did not clearly comprehend herself, Penn wanted to be alone.

There was so little she could say to Gil. All her promises, to stand by, to carry on had come to nothing. She had had no power to prevent those crashing calamities that had marked the last days of Elihu Storey.

There was another promise she had made that just now came back to shame her. Winifred! Flowers for Winifred, Gil had said—and this was Christmas Day, and she had forgotten. She had no excuse. Certainly she could not explain to Gil that she had forgotten the grave of his dead wife because for weeks she had been trying to put out of her own mind every thought of another woman who had belonged to him. Groping, vacillating, haunted by fears, who was she to attack the problems of other people, when she could not manage her own heart?

Duke University's 1954 Blue Devils, figured by many on-hand observers to be as strong as the '53 team which won seven, lost two and tied one on a difficult ten-game schedule, have not received the national pre-season attention accorded last year's troupe. Actually, a number of observers have ignored the Dukes in their summer forecasts.

Fred Russell, author of the Saturday Evening Post's "Pigskin Preview," rates Coach Bill Murray's veteran squad the 12th spot nationally. He further names Duke and Maryland co-champions of the Atlantic Coast Conference and lists Doug Knotts and Jesse Birchfield, tackle and guard respectively, among the sectional linemen standouts. The one-two aerial punch of Captain Jerry Barger and Fullback Worth Lutz also were named among Dixie-land's backfield stars.

Sonny Jurgenson and Dan Cox, two of the best gridderes ever to perform on a Duke freshman team and now leading varsity reserves, are among those mentioned among the prominent sophomores in the area.

Francis Wallace, who penned Collier's "Football Preview," names Birchfield and Barger to his All-American squad and selects the Blue Devils as the nation's 15th best team. He foresees two losses for Duke on its rugged, ten-game schedule.

Wallace picks Maryland over Colorado in the 1955 Orange Bowl, but he labels the Dukes a definite bowl possibility.

Street and Smith's Football Yearbook rates Duke behind Maryland in the ACC and favors them in eight games. The Blue Devils are named underdogs against Purdue and Georgia Tech.

Birchfield and Barger both gained All-ACC recognition in the All-South Football Annual, and Petye Cohen in the Football News selects the Blue Devils to dethrone Maryland for ACC laurels.

The prognosticators may differ in opinion as to the team strength of the Blue Devils, but they all agree that the two B's—Barger and Birchfield—will be among the nation's best players this fall. As for the relative team strength, first hand observers disagree with the experts—they maintain that Coach Murray's team will certainly be as strong as the '53 club; however matching last record will be a tremendous task due to the high calibre of opposition.

In this respect, Coach Murray may have bit off more than he can chew. They open with Pennsylvania this Saturday in Philadelphia. Following that play Tennessee, Purdue, Army, N. C. State, Georgia Tech, Navy (Oyster Bowl), Wake Forest, South Carolina, and North Carolina on concurrent weekends.

In our crystal ball, we see the Blue Devils upset by the Volunteers and Army, and beaten according to Hoyle by Georgia Tech, Tennessee, who had little better than a mediocre season last year, 6-4-1, has such grid celebrities as Jimmy Wade, Darris McCord, Lamar Leachman, and Tom Tracy returning. Coach Earl Blaik's Black Knights of the Hudson compiled a brilliant 7-1-1 mark in '53 and has such standouts as Pete Vann, Pat Uebel, Don Hollender, and Ralph Chesnauskas back for duty.

Coach Bobby Dodd has his fabulous Billy Teas for another season, along with standouts Franklin Brooks, Henry Hair and Larry Morris.

The 25-year football ratings find Duke in sixth place nationally, but not this season, unless!

Mickey And Yogi Can Relax; Their Jobs Are Safe

NEW YORK (AP)—Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra are safe but the rest of the New York Yankees had better watch their step.

Casey Stengel listed Mantle and Berra as his non-expendable men yesterday as he signed his fourth 2-year contract to manage the Yanks through 1956.

That doesn't mean the rest of the club is on the block. Most of them, of course, still will be around when it comes time to report for spring training at St. Petersburg.

As Stengel put it, "I would listen on any of the others."

Casey talked for about an hour at a press conference following the signing, about his plans for strengthening the Yanks next year. He said he still was surprised that he didn't make it six straight although he paid tribute to Cleveland because "they beat us in a good fair way."

"If anybody is interested in any New York Yankee ball players, and I should think they would be," said Stengel, "I suggest they get in touch with Mr. Weiss (General Manager George Weiss). He'll be glad to listen. I think the other clubs (except Cleveland) had better consider their own personnel. I should think they'd get down to business and strengthen their own club instead of worrying about what the Yankees are doing. The Yanks are not finished. I have to find some way to catch Cleveland and do six other clubs."

Apparently Stengel hasn't appreciated some of the cutting remarks about the failure of the Yanks to come up with enough new players from their farm system.

"The Yankee farm system isn't dead," he said. "We came up with Bob Grim and Bill Skowron this year and we may have two more next year. I would have to say they finally did catch up with us. After five years I find out that I forgot to win 140 games."

How about next year? "I think we're going to win every year."

Phants Stress Defensive Plays For Kinston Game; None On Injured List

By WAYNE BISHOP

Reflector Sports Writer

Greenville's Phantoms went through their last hard workout before the Kinston game yesterday afternoon before meeting the Red Devils in Greenville Friday night.

The Phantoms went through practice yesterday with no one on the sidelines or on the injured list for the first time since the second week of practice. End Harold Edwards is expected to play a large part of the ball game, his first of the year. Edwards has been sidelined with muscular spasms in his right shoulder. The difficulty seems to have cleared now and the all-conference candidate is ready to go.

Pat Sawyer was slowed down in the Jacksonville game due to a shoulder injury but he will be at top steam Friday night. Sawyer is a center this year and is the defensive captain of the team. Mitchell Johnson, whose clutch running has sparked the team all year long, has his thumb out of the cast and is back to normal. Halfback Joe Taft is out of sick bay and working out with full speed.

Coach Bill Kittrell has been working primarily on defense this week. The Kinston team runs from a modified T formation, which sometimes is used as a single wing type offense. The quarterback stands behind the guard with his hands up under the center and the center either hands it to the quarterback or hikes it on through to the fullback.

On this type offense the Red Devils use an unbalanced line. Quarterback Poo Rochelle uses the offensive formations smartly, according to the rave notices he has been getting.

The 140 pound junior is a needle-threading passer but does not do much running with the ball. Buddy Potter, the 197 pound senior, alternates between end and halfback. Potter and Jim Randolph are Rochelle's chief targets on passes while Potter is also one of the big guns rushing.

The Green Phantoms will attempt to equal this offense with a modified split-T formation. Quarterback Bob Howell is the passer in the backfield although he hasn't had much need of passing so far this year. With Edwards in the line-up, Howell can be expected to pass more with a bigger target to aim for.

The Greenies' best gaining plays are the direct handoffs to the halfbacks. James Speight and Mitchell Johnson have been eating up yardage all year long. To keep the defense honest fullback Billy Sermons has turned in some excellent runs and gained 71 yards against Jacksonville. Big Larry Powell also is available for the short plunges when necessary.

When Friday night comes you will probably see Kinston filling the air with passes and the Greenies sticking to the ground. With the teams using such different types of play anything can happen.

Game time is 8 o'clock at the College Stadium. Tickets will be sold at the gate and season athletic tickets are being sold at the high school.

Giants Overshadow Indians In Infield

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Giants, with a solid defensive performer at each position, will take a smoother-working and healthier infield than Cleveland into the 51st World Series next week.

With Whitely Lockman Davey Williams, Alvin Dark and Hank Thompson, the newly-crowned National League champions rate the edge over the Indians' quartet of Vic Wertz, Bobby Avila, George Strickland and Al Rosen. Only at shortstop where Strickland is considered a shade the better fielder than Dark does Cleveland shine.

That's defensively. At the bat, the Giants' infielders cannot match the power of Wertz and Rosen or the consistency of Avila, the American League's leading batter.

Whether Rosen physically will be at his peak is questionable. The latest report has Al's fractured finger of mid-June thoroughly healed. But he's now suffering from multiple ill—a charley horse in his right thigh, calcium deposits in his left foot and muscle spasms in his back. He'll be ready for the opener in the Polo Grounds next Wednesday. But how ready?

Strickland, too, may pose a problem for Manager Al Lopez. Only two weeks recovered from a broken jaw, George has batted .095 since his return to the lineup with only 4 hits in 42 at bats.

At first base, there's little to choose between Lockman and Wertz. Both are converted outfielders, but Whitely made the switch in 1951, the Giants' last pennant-winning campaign and Vic shifted in June of this year, shortly after his acquisition from Baltimore. Wertz is more of a home-run threat. Lockman, New York's leadoff hitter is more consistent.

Avila, with a .338 batting mark to Williams' .225, is the better hitter. Far Davey's strength lies in his ground-covering and pivot-making abilities no small factor in the Giants' pennant drive. Avila, too, has improved considerably in the field this season.

Dark, with 186 hits and a .295 batting average, presents a hit-and-run threat in the No. 2 spot in New York's hitting order. Strickland is hitting .215 for the year. Off his most valuable Player performance of 1953, Rosen has had a disappointing season. His .300 average sprinkled with 24 home runs and 101 runs batted in is nothing to sneeze at. But last year, he hit .336 with 43 circuit blows and 145 RBI's.

Thompson, the Giants' third base man, is a first-rate glove man. He's come on strong the last month and currently shows 26 homers and 86 runs batted in.

Both clubs have versatile infield reserves.

Toski Aiming At $73,000 Total

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bob Toski, the little fellow with the big swing, opens a campaign today to build his 1954 golf winnings up to the hefty figure of $73,000.

The slim pro from Livingston, N.J., is one of a field of 77 which starts out after prize money totaling $40,000 in the first "World Series of Golf" at the Congressional Country Club.

Toski has earned $65,000 in golf tournaments this year and is rated one of the favorites for the $8,000 first prize here. His 1954 earnings include $50,000 for winning the Tam O'Shanter "World" title in August.

Ted Kroll is back to defend his title against such challengers as Toski, Jackie Burke, Jerry Barber, Lloyd Mangrum, Cary Middlecoff, Doug Ford and Julius Boros. The 72-hole tournament winds up Sunday.

The purse was jacked 'way up this year by a group called the Tournament Sponsors, Inc., made up of the backers of eight summer golf competitions. Each chipped in $2,000 to the Washington competition, stipulating that to be eligible for it a golfer must have taken part in at least five of their contests.

Contact Work Is Highlight Of Pirates' Hard Workout

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Writer

Serious contact work highlighted the workout by East Carolina grid-ers yesterday. The Pirate coaching corps called for a defensive scrimmage, pitting freshmen offense against the varsity's defense.

The defenders looked exceptionally sharp, snafuing every running attempt by the yearlings. Tackles Willie Holland and Charles Smith, especially, made several spirited plays. Louis Hallow, Little All-America candidate, also proved an oak barrier of strength to the aggressive frosh. George Tucker and Don Burton contributed much to the workout also with hustle and eagerness.

Following the scrimmage, two units ran new pass patterns. Ends J. D. Bradford and Larry Rhodes, Center Hallow, Quarterback Milton Collier, Halfbacks Toppay Hayes and Eno Boodo, and Fullback Harold O'Kelly comprised one group. Collier looked impressive with his sharp passing. Boone has already said Collier will start at QB in the Lenoir Rhyne game this Saturday.

Ends Bill Helms and Ray Pennington, Center Gaitner Cline, Quarterback Gary Mattocks, Halfbacks Tom Allsbrook and Jim Stanley, and Fullback Howard McAdams made up the second unit. Mattocks continued to look ready for the Bears. His pin-point passing and prospect has kept the mentors out of despondent moods all week.

Spectators at yesterday's practice were Bucs David Lee, Boyd Webb, and Claude King. The former two suffered injuries in the West Chester game and aren't expected to participate against the Bruins. Lee has a strained knee that may cause him to miss several games on the Pirates' card. Webb has a badly bruised hip and can barely move faster than a walk. King received a thigh injury in the Norfolk Navy opener and is still nursing it in hopes he'll be ready for Catawba next week.

By position, Lenoir Rhyne's Bears stack up pretty potent. Coach Clarence Stasovich has six lettermen returning at the terminals. All-Conference Bob Sherrill is back along with the other starter, Bob Henry, Melvin Harris and Pete Clark are other monogram winners.

Stout on the first line at tackles are Regular Jerry Troutman and Gene Fryen. Other standouts are Harold Sigler and Joe Garrigan. Guards are manned by Dick Gantt and Jerry Mauldin. Helppouts include Joe Harkey, Jim Laughter, and Bill Dameron.

The team's top defensive performer, Dave Kunkler, returns to anchor the middle at center. Also expected to see action at the pivot is Dick Beck.

Joe Buff and Bruce McKethan collaborate to give the Bruins a top-notch QB punch. Coach Stasovich has plenty of horses around at halfbacks. Walter Cornwell, Jimmy Kimmell, Bill Ackerd, Harry Campbell are some of them. Bill Eanes is set at fullback, no further words needed.

Last week, Lenoir Rhyne whipped Newport News 32-0 with Eanes leading the way. This Saturday's game will be their first NS game, ditto for the Pirates.

Chicod Host To Elm City Friday

The Chicod Hornets will play hosts to Elm City tomorrow at 3 p. m. in their third football game of the year.

Coach Alston Burke has put his gridders through stiff workouts this week preparing for an anticipated tough game.

He has already indicated "Pee Wee" Mills, Carltop Gray and Jimmy Mills will start in the backfield. Other sure starters are Billy Cooper and A. C. Evans, ends, and James Mills, center.

Coach Burke cited Jimmy Dixon, Walter Haddock, and Jimmy Barnes for outstanding work during the week's drills. From these and several others who looked good in the Hornets' first two games, Coach Burke will complete his starting eleven.

Gene Haddock, senior who played his first game for the Hornets against Rock Ridge last week, is nursing a sprained ankle but is expected ready in time for the Elm City encounter.

Chicod won their first game against Choocowinity, 25-24, but lost last week to Rock Ridge 13-8.

Chicod's Coach And Three Backs

Chicod's Coach Alston Burke goes over plays with his three quarterbacks, Pee Wee Mills, Jimmy Fornes and Jimmy Dixon. Burke's boys go up against a strong Elm City team on Friday afternoon.

Notre Dame Plans Spectacular Show

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK (AP)—Starting this Saturday, Notre Dame opens its first campaign under the guiding hand of young Terry Brennan, the country is due to see a brand of imaginative and spectacular offensive football that will surprise even the most wild-eyed Irish supporter.

That is quite a mouthful of statement to make about a team which has never been exactly noted for sticking to the straight and narrow under such famed disciples of the Leaky. But we have it on the sworn word of a man who has been watching the 36-year-old coach whip his squad into shape for the first one against Texas. "It's really too bad this one isn't going to be on national television," says Paul Neville, managing editor of the South Bend Tribune. "Every one would get a treat watching Brennan's team run from the split-T formation the way he teaches it. I'll guarantee it's something new and that it will be widely copied before the season is over."

"The way Terry looks at it, if you're going to use the split, why not really throw your boys out there and give them a chance to go. I think he's got close to a yard more between his linemen than Leaky had. Where Leaky pounded it into his backs to smash through three yards, Brennan is thinking in terms of the long gauge. If he's stopped on one play he's thinking of going a long way on the next one."

Neville hastened to say that he was giving away no secrets, and that anyone who had visited the Notre Dame practice field lately could have seen as much as he had.

"Wait until you see the punt formation he's cooked up," Neville enthused. "You'll see all the split-T coaches adopt it before the season is out. The quarterback stays over center, as usual, where he either can take the ball or let it be passed between his legs. The kicker is back, with two men to protect him against anything coming in from the sides."

The other team won't dare send two men back to receive a kick because that will open them up to a pass. They can never be sure what's coming, any more that they can against a team with a good quick-kicker. And don't think that Brennan's quarterback won't call for a pass on fourth down under certain circumstances, because he will if the defending team gets careless."

Neville predicted that Saturday's item at South Bend will be a real knock 'em and sock 'em affair, pointing out that there still is a trace of animosity between the Longhorns and Irish dating back to their last previous game in Texas, when Leaky insisted that his team sit in the shade on the same side of the field as the home team. It seems that words were exchanged.

American League Owners May Act On A's Fate

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A meeting of American League owners during the World Series to settle the fate of the bargain basement Philadelphia capital and keep the better than an even money bet today.

Out of the maze of rumors surrounding the club there emerged these reasonably clear indications: 1. Roy Mack, operating head of the ball club, still hopes to raise Philadelphia capital and keep the A's in the City of Brotherly Love—but is fast losing hope he can do just that.

2. His brother, Earle, and their father, venerable Connie Mack Sr. are as ready as ever to sell the team and get out of baseball.

3. Arnold Johnson, Chicago real estate man, is willing to put cash on the line for the club provided the franchise can be moved to Kansas City.

4. Some opposition may be expressed to shift of the A's franchise—but the anti-move forces could be persuaded to go along with the wishes of the Macks themselves.

Barclay Says His Boys In Good Shape For Pack

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The snappiest offensive workout since the first week of practice was held at North Carolina yesterday before Coach George Barclay again closed the gates for a secret session.

Barclay's comment about Saturday's game with N.C. State: "The boys are in good shape."

Quarterbacks Marshall Newman, Albert Long and Len Bullock looked good as Barclay worked on pass patterns.

Quarterback Eddie West reported for practice at North Carolina State as Earle Edwards also continued secret sessions. The squad worked on offensive and defensive maneuvers against the State frosh who open against Clemson at Raleigh tomorrow night.

Virginia's longest losing streak in its football history may well come to an end Saturday when the favored Cavaliers open against the Engineers of Lehigh University.

Last year Virginia lost six in a row after its only win of the season against George Washington. The Cavaliers, however, have lost only two opening games, in 1923 and 1953.

Coach Ned McDonald had his punters booting under pressure and his passers throwing under fire. Working hard on their punting were Bill Bonney, Henry Strmpak and Ray Quillen, and alternating as passers were Bonney, Rives Bailey and Bill Clarke.

The Wake Forest squad worked until dark in the longest scrimmage session of the season as Coach Tom Rogers had the third string running Virginia Tech plays against the first and second teams. The Deacs play Tech Saturday at Richmond.

Final rough workouts were held at Clemson as the Tigers readied for Georgia at Athens Saturday.

Still missing from practice was quarterback Don King, but Coach Frank Howard said he would be ready for action against the Bulldogs.

The first three teams worked on offense against a defensive squad of fourth and fifth stringers.

It appeared that Sam DeLuca probably will be the only sophomore in the starting lineup when South Carolina opens against Army at West on Saturday.

The 220-pound Brooklyn, N.Y., tackle has been running a close race with senior Gene Koepke for the right tackle position. Coach Rex Enright said it looks as if DeLuca will get the nod.

The team leaves tomorrow morning for its overnight headquarters at Bear Mountain, N.Y.

Maryland Coach Jim Tatum appeared pleased after a 2-hour scrimmage in which the Terps worked on UCLA's single wing style.

Maryland meets the Bruins Friday night, Oct. 1 in California. It will be the first time in three seasons the Terps will have been up against the single wing.

Tatum says his team is over-coached in the T and split-T.

The Duke Blue Devils held their last practice today before leaving for Philadelphia by plane for Saturday's game with Penn.

Defense came in for attention yesterday with four varsity teams alternating against freshmen running Penn's multiple offense.

Carter Wins In Substitute Bout

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Pug-nosed Jimmy Carter, bolstered with another rugged win today fixed his sights on the elusive lightweight crown he lost last March. And he offered a fervent prayer that he wouldn't draw a third postponement of his title rematch with champion Paddy DeMarco, a fellow New Yorker.

Carter belted out a 10-round unanimous decision over Freddie (Babe) Herman in a nationally televised fight last night. Only 800 fans paying $1,241.58 gross turned up in the 16,000 seat Cow Palace.

Herman, a Los Angeles Mexican who absorbs punishment like a sponge, was drafted from his New Orleans training camp as a substitute for DeMarco, who hurt an elbow. Herman had fought a draw with Carter in 1952.

The Carter-DeMarco title bout now is scheduled Nov. 17 at the Cow Palace.

Sugg Lions Play Strong Rivals Friday Evening

FARMVILLE—Sugg High School has been priming all week to meet Scotland Neck's Wildcats tomorrow night.

The Lions have been pronounced in top shape for the battle and expect probably the best game of the year from the always-tough Scotland Neck troupe.

Coach R. M. Mosely boasts the best Sugg High team in the past several years and will be out to better the 5-2 mark of last season. The Lions' standouts include Captain Babe Moye, Quarterback J. C. Moore, Halfbacks Joe Hope and Blip Tyson, and Fullback Joe Harvey.

International Cup Regatta At Elizabeth City On October 2nd

ELIZABETH CITY.—When the International Cup Regatta gets underway here Saturday, October 2, people of this section will have an opportunity to watch the "big league" of power boat racing in action.

Not only the huge unlimited class hydros, eight of which are expected to participate but also in the lower divisions of stock hydros and runabouts, the best in the nation will be in the competition. Owners and drivers will bring their craft fresh from the President's Cup Regatta, in Washington and the racing meet at New Martinsville, W. Va.

Unlimited class boats are the glamor girls of racing on water. They cost upwards of $250,000 each. Boats that placed first, second and third in the Silver Cup Race at Detroit recently will be among the entries in this class. Unlimited hydro racing brings a great thrill to spectators. It is the only sport a spectator can see, feel and hear at the same time. Their speeds approach 200 mph.

The beautiful Pasquotank River will provide many shoreline vantage points for spectators, and the Pasquotank River Yacht Club, sponsor of the event with the support of the community, has planned everything possible to make a visitors stay an enjoyable one.

It is expected that there will be at least 25,000 people on hand to watch the event and approximately 150 boats will participate.

"The perfect race course" provides two heats comprising one and three-quarters miles for stock hydros.

Larsen Upset On Pacific Coast

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert, seeded one and two, won as expected in the Pacific Coast tennis championships yesterday but third-seeded Art Larsen was upset.

Larsen, of San Leandro, Calif., lost to unseeded Whitney Reed, Air Force champion from Alameda, Calif., 6-2, 8-6.

Seixas, national singles champion from Philadelphia, defeated Jacque Grigry of Los Angeles, 16-14, 6-0. Trabert, of Cincinnati, downed C. Catton, 6-3, 6-4.

Ernie Stautner, a Pittsburgh pro tackle, majored in psychology at Boston College. U.S. Marine veteran of the Okinawa fighting, he also operates a drive-in theater at Saranac Lake, N.Y.

Dollar Versus Sterling At Week End Meeting

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The dollar bloc and the sterling bloc will be having it out this weekend in Washington.

You've heard a lot since the war about the pound sterling bloc—a well defined and disciplined group. Once ailing, it is growing healthier.

You hear less about the dollar bloc—an ill-defined and voluntary area. While no invalid, it has its troubles, too.

The sterling area, its problems, its wants, its ambitions will be put before the annual meetings of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund this week by the British chancellor of the exchequer, R. A. Butler. The United States has long given sympathetic ear to these problems, which are very real, and backed sympathy with taxpayers dollars.

But just for variety let's look at the dollar area, what it is, how it works, what are its problems, and why they are growing.

The United States has been slipping back slowly from its postwar trade pre-eminence. Its store of gold has dropped 1½ billion dollars in the last two years. There's plenty left—nearly 22 billion—but foreign holdings in this country for which gold could be demanded now come to 10 billion dollars.

American manufacturers say it's hard to do business abroad. Part of this is due to trade barriers other countries put up against their people doing business with the dollar area. Part is due to the great drive of others to make themselves self-sufficient and beyond the need of buying from the dollar area. And part is due to the long inflation here which pushed the cost of many American goods above the price at which other countries (aided by cheap labor) produce for the world market.

The dollar bloc, unlike the sterling bloc, is held together without central authority, but simply by the flow of trade and investment. And its very geographic limits are vague.

One definition of them is given by Donald F. Heisterington, director of the European Division of the National Foreign Trade Council, as follows:
The United States and Canada are the hard core of the dollar area, and Cuba and Panama are within the inner circle. Around the rim he places Mexico, El Salvador, Colombia, Nicaragua, Guatemala, Honduras, Venezuela and Costa Rica. This is because they rely on the United States and Canada as a joint market and source for more than half of their merchandise exports and imports.

Hovering close to the rim are the Philippines, Haiti, the Dominican Republic and Ecuador. Their trade is tied largely with the dollar area, and much of their external investment has come from the United States.

Jointly since the war the United States and Canada—the dollar area's hard core—have placed 153 billion dollars at the command of other economies to buy dollar goods and services.

And ever since the war, Heisterington points out, the situation in the dollar area "has been fashioned increasingly and largely by factors and forces outside its direct, independent control." It is called upon to play "policeman, fireman and major financier" when it hasn't been master of external events nor free from serious internal pressures.

The dollar area has its side in that debate down in Washington, too.

Science Lessens Life Of Chicken

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP)—Science, which is causing people to live longer, is shortening the life of broiling size chickens.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture says it took an average of 89 days to bring chickens to broiling size in 1917. But by 1952, because of advances in breeding, nutrition and disease control, such chickens reach market age in 72 days.

Cotton Blooms In Flower Bed

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Eight-year-old Ann Dexter decided she wanted her own flower garden this year and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Dexter, were happy to let their daughter go down to the store and pick out her own seed.

While helping his daughter clean out her flower bed this week, Dexter noticed some of the blooms on the plants looked peculiar. He checked further and found several cotton plants were growing in the garden. Ann couldn't explain how she got

Curfew Imposed On Younger Set

STRASBURG, Va. (AP)—A curfew for children under 16 has been imposed by the town council here in an effort to combat juvenile delinquency.

The law prohibits loitering on the streets between 11 p.m. and 6 a.m. and holds parents and guardians as well as children responsible for violation.

Per capita consumption of sugar in the United States averages one hundred pounds per person per year. The French Order of the Legion of Honor was established by Napoleon to recognize civilian as well as military service of distinction.

Actress Ridicules Dior's 'New Look'

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — Producer Frank Ross must have been the happiest husband in Europe this summer. His wife had no yen for the Paris gowns.

His wife is a bouncy blonde named Joan Caulfield, who also serves as spouse to Barry Nelson on CBS-TV's "My Favorite Husband." She scorns "hiaperelli," boos Balmain and says phooey to Fath and Dior.

"Ridiculous!" she scoffs at the flat-chested look. "A girl should look like a girl, not a boy. Why should she be what she isn't?"

"Oh, I know that the American dressmakers are going for the Dior style. But why don't they have more courage? Just because a fashion comes from across the Atlantic, that doesn't make it good, I think it's awful.

"I know Dior is a smart cookie who realizes how to make news. And his 'new look' was all right for women with fat hips and piano legs. But this new style does nothing for anybody."

Joan said she was complimented on her dresses while abroad. French women stopped to admire her coat on the Riviera and inquired what Paris shoppe produced it. Mrs. Barney Balaban, wife of the Paramount president, commented on her striking Paris gown when they returned on the boat.

"I had to tell them that I brought all of my wardrobe from California," she said. "Before I left Hollywood, I decided I would take everything along. And I had Orry-Kelly and Bud Perkins, who does the clothes on the TV show, whip me up some special numbers. They were as good as anything I saw over there."

Joan admitted that she made some purchases abroad. On the

The arrest was highlighted by an encounter between officers and actress Rita Moreno, 22, whom officers found asleep on a couch at Hormel's home. (AP Wirephoto)

Riviera she bought a red beach jacket ($2) and three gondoller hats (60 cents apiece).

"I also went to an obscure couturier in Paris, figuring I should take something home," she recalled. "I bought a washable dress for about $45. It needed shortening, so I left it there and picked it up before I sailed. That was the day after the Dior showing.

"When I got in New York, I decided I wanted to wear the dress. It was awful! They thought they would give me the latest style. They had taken material out of the bosom so I looked as flat as a pancake. It looked like that outfit Julie Harris wore in 'Member of the Wedding.' I never was able to wear the dress."

Senate Nominee Is Conservative

NEW CANAAN, Conn. (AP)—Mrs. Helen Baker, campaigning for a seat in the Connecticut state senate, got a $10 check from a woman admirer with instructions to buy a hat that would "dazzle the voters." Mrs. Baker, instead, bought a conservative headpiece. She explained: "Rather than dazzle the voters, I'd prefer to win votes on what's in the HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—When Houston orphans grow up they will be able to pull out their family album of childhood pictures, too.

Thanks to the Houston Professional Photographers Guild, every orphan in the city gets his picture taken just before Christmas of each year.

It started when guild members, seeking a community service project, reasoned that the orphans otherwise would never have pictures of themselves. Using materials donated by local supply houses, the photographers divide up the work and each Christmas give three prints of each orphan's favorite pose to him.

MORRISTON, N. J. (AP)—If you get in trouble in Morris County, don't try for a fast get-away. Sheriff Arnold Ladd is an amateur car racer.

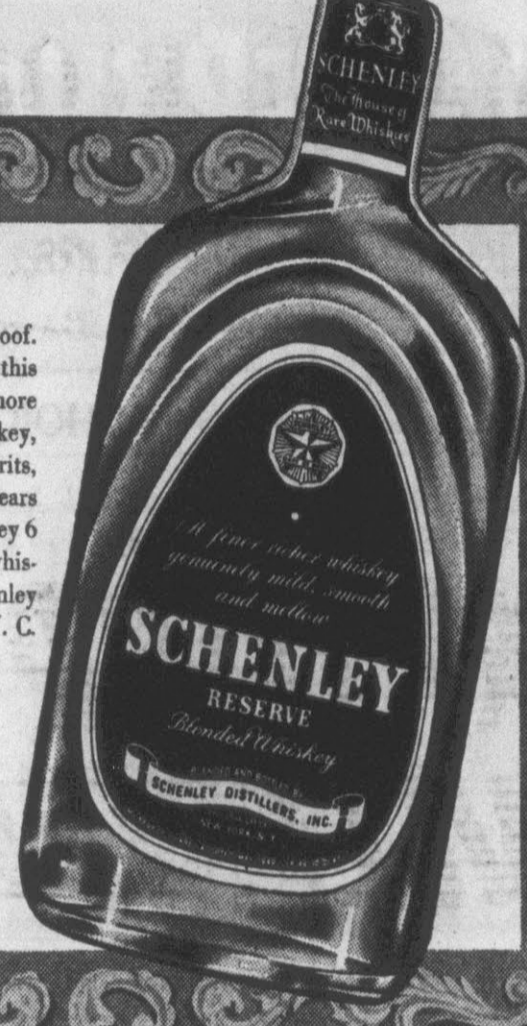

His English MG-TC racer has got not only speed—but endurance as well. Ladd came in seventh in the recent 12-hour endurance grind for

And the sheriff does it all despite an artificial leg. He lost his right leg when his jeep hit a land mine in North Africa during the war.

August Savings Bond Sales High

The people of Pitt County as well as other North Carolinians, continued their thrift habit during August with purchases of Series E & H Savings Bonds totalling $3,849,650.75, a 13 per cent increase over the same month last year.

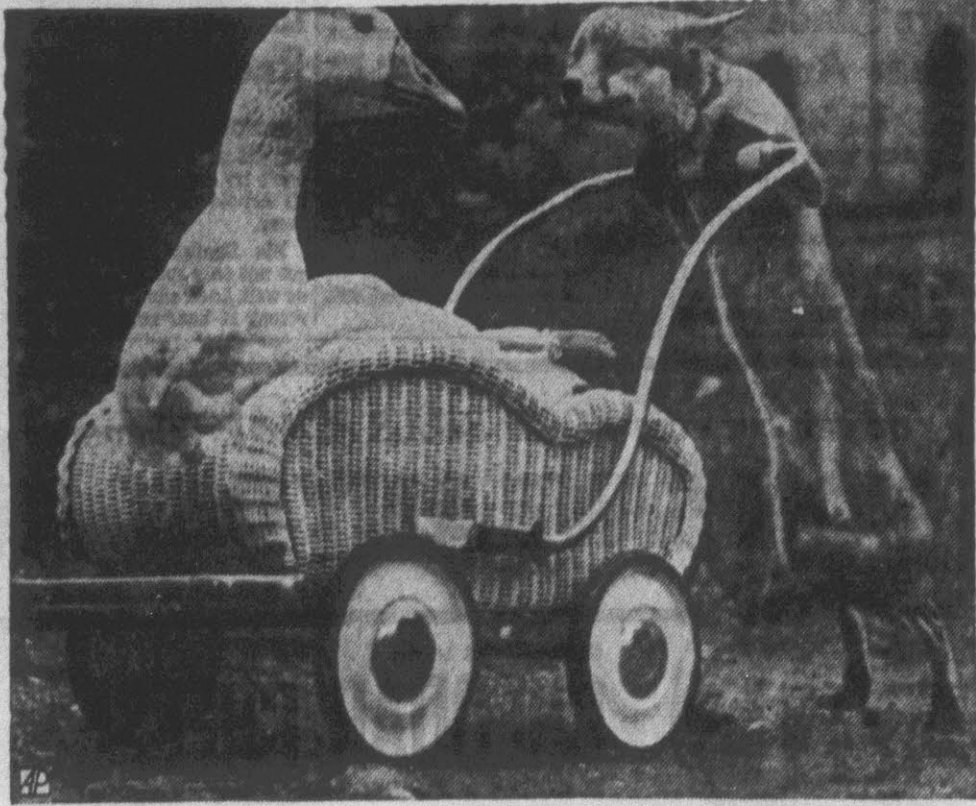

The amount of Series E & H Bonds outstanding in North Carolina is approximately $744 million.

Sales for the first eight months of 1954 were $31,910,845.50 — 6 per cent above the same period for 1953 — and a nine-year sales record.

Walter P. Johnson, State Director of the U.S. Treasury's Savings Bonds Division and W.H. Andrews, Jr., State Chairman, Advisory Committee, expressed genuine satisfaction with the August record.

The citizens of Pitt County purchased during August $26,490.50 which brings for the year Savings Bonds sales in Pitt County to $512,448.00, 11.0 per cent of the annual county quota.

J. Waldrop, U.S. Savings Bonds Chairman for Pitt County expressed his appreciation for the "fine support given to the Savings Bonds Program during August". He said that he was very anxious for more people to join with him in a con-

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, Real Estate Editor

If basements ever are to be made really livable — suitable for comfortable bedrooms for instance — they will have to be successfully waterproofed and dampproofed.

Some architects think that even in parts of the South, where cellars are still comparatively rare, livable basements are destined to become the biggest new trend in house architecture. These men argue that houses will get bigger downward, instead of upward, because of economy. It costs just about one-tenth as much to create space, fully finished, under a house as it costs to build an equal amount of space above ground.

But all seepage problems will have to be conquered and the condensation of warm summer air striking cooler basement walls and floors will have to be prevented to give us maximum use out of our basements.

These problems have been tackled by various industries. Dehumidifiers have been invented to take the moisture out of basement air. Floor coverings and wall coverings have been developed to line basements against direct contact with moist summer air. Many so-called waterproofing paints have been offered on claims that they are tight enough to keep water from soaking through masonry walls.

The biggest problem has been to seal a basement on the inside strongly enough to stop the pressure of water from the outside. For a long time, this was thought to be virtually impossible. Now many waterproofers say it can be done. Harrison Todd of Sacramento, Calif., for one, has had outstanding successes in doing this, even against high water pressure.

A modern chemical discovery, making use of silicones to penetrate pores in masonry and seal it against the passage of moisture, has been one of the most interesting developments in this direction. Silicones which are extremely minute in size, are derived from silicon, a natural element. They have played important roles in the manufacture of lubricants and steel.

Recently a cement paint in powder form, soluble in water, comprising a base of powder containing silicones, activated metallic compounds and very finely ground aggregates, was developed by the Siliphane Corp. of America. The manufacturers say that when this compound is applied to a thoroughly wet concrete wall, the silicones do not merely remain on the surface, but have a tendency to migrate, following the moisture into the wall.

According to laboratory tests and Dr. F.O. Anderegg, an authority on masonry construction, the silicones expand, become insoluble and non-reversible. The result is an egg-shell-like seal.

Silicones also can be used as cures in new watertight concrete. They slow down the drying process, penetrating as deeply as the moisture exists and thus waterproof the finished wall or floor.

To waterproof an existing basement, sources of incoming water must be eliminated. Holes or cracks have to be filled — all spaces closed up. The surface of the concrete or masonry to be waterproofed must be free of dirt, dust, soot, grease and other paint coating except Portland cement paint. Oil base paints must be removed because they may loosen and peel in the future and oil or wax prevents silicones from entering pores and migrating.

The wall should be brushed down with a wire brush to remove loose particles. Then it must be thoroughly saturated with water. A fine spray from a garden hose will do this. The wetter the wall, the deeper the silicones can penetrate.

A first coat of this compound (known as Silitec SF) is then applied with a scrub brush. This type of brush is recommended because rough textured masonry soon wears down a paint brush and paint brushes are more expensive.

After the first coat has dried for four to 10 hours, a second coat can be applied with a paint brush.

Although this compound is available in pastel shades of rose, buff, gray, and green, as well as white, it can be painted over with any type and color of paint. The manufacturers say that a silicone coating even makes it practicable to wallpaper a cellar wall.

The cost of waterproofing a cellar with an area of 800 square feet — aside from repair materials — is estimated at about $40. The more porous the material, however, the more paint is needed, because porous materials, such as concrete or cinder blocks allow the silicones to penetrate deeper in their weathering and waterproofing processes.

Finally Get To Clock-Watchers

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet self-criticism has got around to the clock-watching stenographer.

Trud, newspaper of the trade union, describes Irene as a girl (she is 45 but acts like 19) who is mad about the word "madly (nezumno)" and also loves to say "absolutely (absolutno)."

When she gets on the telephone, it's enough to drive the rest of the office staff mad.

A bookkeeper counted up that Irene in a single day telephoned 49 times to friends and relatives. And he figured out how much time she costs the Soviet state by primping her face — eight hours a month.

Such inefficiency and self-indulgence, says Trud, must stop.

"One can observe that there is nothing in her work that interests Irene. It is the telephone that interests her."

"For Irene lunch consists of two parts. First is the official lunch hour which, instead of devoting to a meal, she uses to go shopping. When she finishes with the shopping tour she takes time off to eat at her desk, with great appetite ... "Then she manages to stop work 1 1/2 hours before the end of her working day. And she announces that she is madly tired as she leaves her chair with an exhausted sigh."

Because goats have eaten most of the vegetation, observers say that Mas a Tierra, island off Chile, reputedly the original Robinson Crusoe site, is being washed into the sea.

Canadian farm workers earn an average of $102 a month.

REUNION IN PARIS—Tiny Isabela Goldsmith, 4-month-old ailing daughter of British hotel heir James Goldsmith and the late Bolivian tin heiress Isabela Patino Goldsmith, rests in her father's arms after being returned to his custody in Paris. Mrs. Antenor Patino, the baby's grandmother, bowed to a court order to turn the child over to his father. The baby's mother died last May shortly after the child's birth. Trading was quite brisk and hit a pace near yesterday's 2,200,000 shares.

The market was higher from the start and kept going up gradually with occasional peppers of profit-taking.

Oils and airlines were the most favored divisions yesterday, and they also stood out today along with the steels and some motors. Also higher were the rubbers, aircrafts, chemicals and railroads.

Conley Given Lifelong Membership In NEA At Meeting Of Educators

Superintendent of Pitt County schools D. H. Conley was presented a life membership in the National Educational Association last night by the local chapter of the NEA.

This membership, purchased at a fee of $150, entitles the superintendent to all the privileges and publications of the NEA for life.

Mrs. Edna Earle Baker, county supervisor, presented the surprise award to Conley for "his permanent interest in and loyalty to the profession."

The event took place at the first meeting of the year of the county NCEA unit at the Arthur school.

Yelton III

Scheduled to address the group was Nathaniel Yelton executive secretary of the teachers and state employees retirement system in Raleigh. However, due to illness of Yelton, his chief auditor, N. H. Cox spoke in his stead.

Cox delved into the history of the retirement system in North Carolina and explained the general set up of the program to the teachers.

He noted it was a contributory system whereby state employees contribute a certain amount and the state puts up a matching fund.

It was pointed out in North Carolina there is only one system and this includes all state employees. Cox said this has proved far more successful a program than those in some states which have several different retirement plans for various groups of employees.

Question Period

A question and answer period followed the speaker's address.

After the meeting was adjourned open house was held at the school.

In making the life NEA membership to Conley, Mrs. Baker reviewed some of the events which have taken place in the county schools since he has been superintendent.

She pointed out when Conley became Superintendent of Pitt County Schools in 1931 there were 66 schools - 53 Negro and 13 white. Today there are 30 schools, 17 Negro and 13 white.

Increase In Buses

With this consolidation there has been a great increase in the number of school buses, Mr. Baker observed.

In 1931 there were no Negro buses. Now there are 54 for Negroes and 84 for white children, making a total of 138.

In addition, Mrs. Baker pointed out increases in both the instructional and building programs.

Born in Caldwell County, Conley graduated from Trinity College. He taught at Winterville for one year and then served as principal of that school until elected county school superintendent in 1931-32.

As a member of the NCEA Conley has held numerous offices. Among these are district and local president, member of the board of directors, president of the superintendent division, and member of several committees.

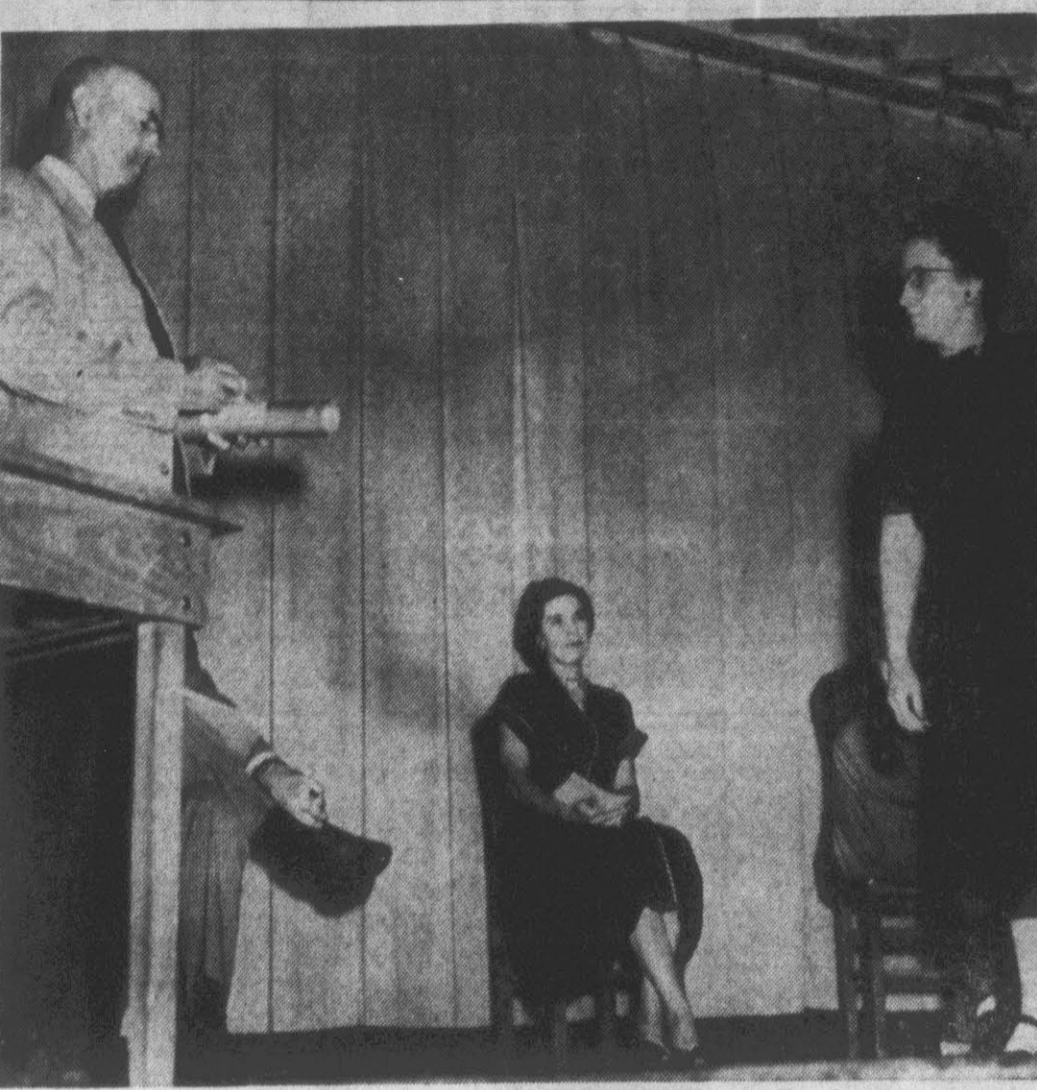

Two NEA Members

Mrs. Baker added, "We can remember the time when there were only two NEA memberships in Pitt County, and one of these was Mr. Conley's."

Prior to the presentation of the award special music was rendered by Mrs. Willie M. Lupton, soloist. Accompanying her at the piano was Mrs. Alison Hearne Moss.

Several announcements were made by Conley, who also introduced the speaker.

Next meeting of the group is scheduled for December 1 at the Belvoir School.

Capitol Square

(Continued from page four) is who should pay the fee, not whether the charge of a fee is proper. No reasonable person should expect the banks to act as messengers to convey money for free any more than the post-office should be expected to carry a letter without postage or an express company to deliver the silver dollars without a carrying charge. The trouble with the bank exchange fee practice is that the charge is made against the recipient rather than against the person or firm making the payment.

If John owes George a hundred dollars, George is entitled to get a hundred dollars and it is up to John to deliver that amount. Under the prevailing practice if John sends George a check for $100 on a non-par bank, George has to pay the fee for John's messenger service—and gets less than what John really owes him.

Small banks contend they cannot function without collecting this charge for service. Most people agree they are entitled to the fee. Many people also contend that the payer ought to bear the cost of delivering the money, whether it is sent by mail, by hand delivered check or by express.
