"The student body now numbers 60, and other enrollments are expected," President William Burkette Raper stated.

Gun Drama Had Real Letdown

SEBREE, Ky. (AP)—A crowd awaited Police Chief J. Z. Shelton when he answered Mrs. Lolo Conner's call to "come quick with your gun — there's a copperhead at my place." Confidently assuring the bystanders he wouldn't miss, the chief crawled silently through the weeds toward the lake. Shelton aimed his shotgun carefully, fired, then waited a moment to see if the snake moved. It didn't. He picked up his "kill" to display it to the crowd. It was an old piece of rubber hose.

State Officer Visits Grifton Chapter OES

GRIFTON — On Tuesday night the Grifton Eastern Star Chapter 134 met in regular session in the Masonic Hall. The meeting was presided over by the Worthy Matron, Mrs. Muriel Nelson, assisted by the Worthy Patron, Richard Nelson.

A highlight of the evening was the official visit to the chapter of the District Deputy Grand Matron of the Grand Chapter of North Carolina, Mrs. Raye Bissette and the District Deputy Grand Patron, Albert Davidson of Ayden. Mrs. Bissette spoke on the work of the Eastern Star and brought the chapter up-to-date on the work of the Order as to the wishes of the Worthy Grand Matron, Irene Moore of the Grand Chapter. Mr. Davidson made a brief talk following Mrs. Bissette. Both were presented gifts from the chapter.

A delightful social hour followed the meeting in the dining room of the lodge. A silver bowl of white gladioli was used as a centerpiece and at either end of the table silver candelabra with tall white tapers were placed. The auxiliary tables held small bouquets of asters and crystal holders with lighted candles. Mrs. Nelson presided at the punch bowl and members served themselves to party sandwiches, individual cakes, nuts and mint.

Mrs. Mewborn Buffet Supper Hostess

GRIFTON—Mrs. Robert Mewborn entertained on Thursday night at a delightful buffet supper for members of her contract club and invited guests to make four tables for bridge.

The Mewborn home on McRae Street for the occasion was decorated with lovely arrangements of tall-stemmed roses, scarlet sage and coleus. As guests arrived they were invited into the dining room where the table was covered with a lace cloth, a silver bowl of white gladioli and spider lilies flanked by tall white candles in silver holders made a beautiful center arrangement. Baked ham, deviled crabs, stuffed potatoes, corn and tomatoes with hot rolls and individual apple pies were enjoyed.

In the bridge games following supper Mrs. J. L. Tucker scored high. Mrs. Dewey Wall second high for club members. The visitor's prize was held by Mrs. Clifton Jackson and the consolation went to Mrs. Jack Chapman. Other players were Mesdames L. L. Mewborn, Alton Chapman, Richard Nelson, Thurman Williams, J. L. Quinerly, J. W. Short, H. P. Quinerly, L. D. McCotter, Glendel Tucker, Misses Marie Chapman, Bert Johnson and Hazel Patrick.

Lace Blouse Can Be One Of Most Useful Items

AP Newfeatures

A lace blouse can be one of the most useful items in a girl's wardrobe.

Time was when such a thing was a perishable extravagance, strictly for state occasions. But miracle fibers have made lace as sturdy as gingham and women everywhere are discovering that a lace blouse can be worn all year 'round, for day and evening. No more expensive dry-cleaning, either. Many can be dunked in the wash basin and kept constantly fresh and ready to go.

A lace blouse is even more economical if you make it yourself, and this is easy to do, now that hand-made laces are widely available at piece goods counters. Local sewing center experts have designed two lace blouses that are easy to make on your sewing machine, using attachments to take the place of tedious hand work.

A flattering bow-neck blouse requires only 1 1/2 yards of 35-inch lace. It is faced with nylon tulle, and the big bow adds a gentle touch to a tailored suit.

A new turtleneck lace blouse is made with 12 yards of lace edged an inch and a half wide. The sag attachment on your machine is used to stitch the bands of lace over nylon tulle.

With either blouse, wear your prettiest strapless underpinnings—they are meant to show. For daytime wear, team them with a dark suit, take off the jacket to go on to cocktails or dinner. For holiday festivities, wear them with a skirt of black velvet or make matching full skirt and blouse of black lace.

For complete free directions for making the two blouses described, write to: Lace Blouses, Room 1205, 341 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y.

Wants Change In Phone Number

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Mrs. Beatrice Quinn wants a new telephone number. Her's is EX-6-3055.

She says that's the same number — Exp. 6-30-55. — that is on all Los Angeles dog licenses. The number means the date the tag expires.

"I get calls from all over Los Angeles from people who want to report that they've found my lost dog. We HAVE no dogs."

Science Club Is Sponsoring Show

Previews of Progress, a dramatic, non-technical science show sponsored by General Motors, will be shown at East Carolina College tonight at 8:30 in the Wright auditorium under the auspices of the Student Science Club. Roy McGinnis, Jr., president, has announced. There will be no admission charge, and the public is invited to attend.

Witnessed by millions of Americans, Previews of Progress graphically presents many of the most recent developments in scientific research, especially those which will contribute to a more enjoyable and comfortable life in years to come.

The purpose of the presentation is to portray the story of progress through engineering and science. Jet propulsion, according to Mr. Baltzer, narrator of the show, is more than 3,000 years old. To prove that statement, he will present a replica of Hero's aeolipile of about 200 B.C., which was the world's first know jet engine.

The modern application of jet propulsion will be illustrated in two ways. First, a miniature jet engine, operating on the same principle as the German V-1 buzz bomb, will be placed in actual operation after being anchored in place. The blast of its high pressure flame creates a roar that fills the entire auditorium.

Following this demonstration, models of a Douglas Skystrake fighter plane and a V-2 rocket will be driven at high speed the entire length of the auditorium, propelled by tiny but powerful jets of compressed gas.

Microwaves that wiggle through the air at the rate of 10 billion a second and carry piggy-back thousands of telephone messages and several TV programs with them at the same time are demonstrated in the "Previews" presentation.

Other demonstrations deal with the "dual personality" of a bottle and the manufacture of synthetic rubber.

Present Skit In Local Benefit Show

One of the acts in the musical comedy "You Can't Beat Fun" to be presented by the White Shrine Monday and Tuesday nights is "He Was Her Man But He Done Her Wrong". The skit will be a silent movie version of "Frankie and Johnny". Participating are: Bob Russ, Ben Rouse, Dr. Warren Aldridge, Dr. Ledyard Ross, James W. Boykin and Brooks Beddingfield. (Reflector Photo by Alvin Taylor).

White Shriners reported today that sale of tickets to the musical comedy "You Can't Beat Fun" indicated that the show will be successful.

A highlight of the show, which is being sponsored to raise funds for the White Shrine "Wheel Chair Fund" will be the crowning of a king and queen of toyland. Votes are now being cast for youngsters entered in the contest at local stores, and standings are posted daily in J.C. Penny's window. The contest ends Tuesday night and the winners are to be crowned at the Tuesday evening performance of the show.

Director of the comedy, Ann Harris, requested that all entries in the contest be present at the Tuesday performance. She said that mothers of the contestants will not be charged admission.

Featured in the show will be "Greenville's Own Quiz Kids" who are to be questioned by Master of Ceremonies Charles Whedbee.

Dr. Jack Watters, Jesse Pope, Jesse Laughinghouse, Durwood Harris, Raymond Smith, Harry Kelly and Lester Turnage will present a dance number entitled, "Glow Little Glow Worm". A silent screen version of "He Was Your Man But He Done Her Wrong", will be presented by Ben Rouse as Frankie, Dr. Warren Aldridge as Johnny, Ledyard Ross as Nell, and Bob Russ as the bartender, Ralph and Cliff Sullivan will do the vocals.

A "High Society Wedding" is to be presented with Eva Stancill and Dolores Harris as the bride and groom and Gayle Clapp as the preacher. Martha Branch, Helen Forbes, Yvonne Russell, Carol David, Rose Marie Moye, Ronita Reese and Frances Moseley will be bridesmaids.

"You Can't Beat Fun" is under the direction of Ann Harris of Houston, Texas. Florence Scott is pianist.

Advance tickets are good for either night. All members of the White Shrine and the cast of the show have tickets for sale. They are also on sale at Bostic-Sugg.

Joint Jumps To Beat Of 'Onions'

LONDON (AP)—Humphrey Lyttelton, a tall, young man with a long trumpet, blew a note that hit the ceiling and bounced.

Six hundred young Britons—about equally divided between males and females—shouted in one voice, "Onions!"

The drummer, the banjo player and the pianist commenced a steady beat in the background. The trumpet, a clarinet and an alto saxophone took up the melody, or what there is of a melody to "Onions."

Two hundred young dancers shuffled onto the wooden floor and started jiving.

The joint jumped. Lyttelton leaned against the bar of the London Jazz Club, a languid young man who plays trumpet in the traditional Dixieland style. Now he was resting.

"We let in all we can," he explained, "but I'm afraid we had to turn several hundred away tonight. You see, this was members night. There just isn't room for everyone who wants to get in."

This Dixieland music is played by a group of young Britons three times a week. Lyttelton's group is the band for two of the weekly sessions. Other groups alternate on the third.

No pop is played by Lyttelton, or any other group at the London Jazz Club. They are a traditional cult, playing the old songs of the New Orleans Negroes, and the New Orleans music that moved up to Chicago, was taken up by white musicians and was labeled "Chicago Jazz."

Lyttelton has a style of his own, but it's built on the solid principles of Louis Armstrong.

Two years ago Lyttelton wore a beard. "What happened to that?" "If you'll pardon the expression," said this former Cambridge student, "I used to get too hot."

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

Centralization within the United States - the general movement of the population from city to suburb and into new defense centers - and the increasing number of women and girls between the ages of 18 and 34 in the nation are among factors calling for new units of the Young Women's Christian Association in the United States, according to the National Board of the Young Women's Christian Association. At the end of 1953, the National Board had 113 requests for help in establishing new community organizations at various points throughout the United States. Additional requests are still reaching the Board and there is indication of further need for expansion as result of the increasing birthrate over the last fourteen years.

Miss Tane Takahashi, of Tokyo, who was formerly associated with the American educator, Mrs. Morgan Vining, in the education of Crown Prince Akihito of Japan, has joined the staff of the American-aided International Christian University of Japan, as a librarian. Last year Miss Takahashi received a graduate degree in library science from Bryn Mawr College, Pennsylvania, where she also served as assistant librarian.

Dr. Charles J. Lotz, superintendent of the Methodist Sunset Home, Quincy, Ill., boasts that that home for the aged has two centenarians among its guests. Both Mrs. Mary Arnold and Miss Caroline Rotis reached the 100-year mark in 1954. One of Mrs. Arnold's memories is of the day she frightened a burglar.

The three kinds of dikes in Holland are: "Watchers," the big ones standing in the sea to fend off first assaults of waves; "sleepers," the second line of defense behind the "watchers;" and the "dreamers," the last-resort defenders of individual farms.

Bethel News

The first meeting of the Sallie Tucker Book Club met on Friday afternoon at 1:00 with Mrs. C. W. Everett as hostess. The home was very lovely with mixed vases of roses, snapdragons and other flowers. The dining room table had an artistic arrangement of yellow margolds and ageratium flanked with yellow candles in silver holders.

The luncheon menu was ham, chicken tetrazina, snap beans, succatash, congealed salad, hors d'ouvres, hot rolls, iced tea and lemon tarts. Mrs. R. E. Riddick, incoming president served the ham and the out-going president, Mrs. X. E. Manning served the salad.

The program was given by Mr. Clifton Everett who discussed the archeology of the Euphrates and Tigris rivers. His talk was very informative and enjoyed by the group.

The president called the meeting to order after which the secretary, Mrs. Alton Carson, read the minutes of the last meeting and called the roll. A short business discussion was held and the books were exchanged.

The members who attended were Mesdames Riddick, Manning, Carson, Joe Butterworth, Alton Whitehurst, Irvin Taylor, Eugene Carson, Wadie Ward, W. R. Hummelcutt, Ralph Carson and Linwood Gurganus. The guests for the afternoon were Mesdames C. G. Garrenton, Larry James, W. A. Moody, Dave Speir, Harold Staton, W. C. Whitehurst, F. F. Pollard, Willard Whitehurst and Mrs. Everett's mother, Mrs. C. G. Whitehurst.

Celebrates Birthday at Kindergarten
Bobbe Sue Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Martin, celebrated her birthday at her kindergarten class on Friday. Her birthday cake was lovely with its decoration of roses and rose buds icing with five candles on it.

After the children sang the traditional birthday song, Bobbe Sue opened her many nice and useful gifts. They were then served ice cream, cake, blow gum and given balloons as favors.

On Thursday afternoon at 2:30 Mrs. W. A. Moody entertained one table of her bridge club. The home was lovely with vases of asters and house gardens.

At the end of play, the hostess served a delicious tray to Mrs. Tom Andrews, Jr., Mrs. Dave Speir, Mrs. Bob Young and Mrs. Robert Weeks. When the scores were added, two miniature trivets were presented to Mrs. Speir for high score prize.

Arctic Explorer Plans New Trip

BOOTHBAY HARBOR, Maine, (AP)—Rear Adm. Donald B. MacMillan, 79-year-old explorer, returned only yesterday from his 30th trip to the far north, but already is making plans for another voyage there next year.

In the three months since he sailed from here, MacMillan said his 81-foot schooner at times bucked winds of 120 miles an hour on the trip to within 11 degrees of the North Pole.

"Never had anything like it for gales and foul weather," said MacMillan but that makes it the more interesting. I'm planning to go back next year."

Chief Warrant Officer Eugene F. (Mike) Moran should know. He is chief of the diving section at Ft. Eustis and has spent more time under the waters of the York than most people have on the surface. He has been responsible for training the army's divers for eight years.

Former Actress Kills Her Bull

PIEDRAS NEGRAS, Mex. (AP)—Former New York actress Bette Ford won applause here yesterday in what critics said was the best appearance of her brief career as a woman bullfighter.

She was rewarded two ears and the tail of one bull for her excellent performance, but got only applause for her second bull—a stubborn black animal that took numerous sword thrusts to dispatch. Miss Ford said she would fight Oct. 3 in Ciudad Acuna where Patricia McCormick, a Texas coed turned bullfighter, was critically gored by a bull.

It Should Not Be More Than A 'Request'

The appeal of State Chairman John Larkins that state employees make financial contributions to the party has caught the attention of the people of the state, and well it should.

Governor Umstead says he finds nothing improper about the appeal of the State Democratic chairman. Indeed, a mere appeal for contributions for a political party is never, in itself, improper. It is the implication which the appeal or contributions may have which, on occasion, cause a question to arise about the propriety of the appeal.

There are many so-called "voluntary" contributions which carry a certain degree of coercion or pressure. Joe may give $5. to a certain program simply because he feels compelled to do so because his fellow workers make a contribution. On the other

Autumn Is Making Its Grand Entrance

It's blanket weather again!
What a relief from the sultry summer nights of the past few months when a breeze through the bedroom was at a premium.

The autumn season is arriving in Eastern Carolina although the change of seasons is more apparent at night than during the day. The mercury still climbs into the high 80s and low 90s under the early afternoon sun; but at nightfall temperatures fall rapidly and the autumn chill replaces uncomfortable warmth.

With the cooler nights have come the heavy dews of early autumn which make the grass sparkle under street lights and fill the air with a dampness more akin to winter than summer.

Autumn's entrance is perceived too in the early morning sun which have seemingly acquired an appreciable degree of moderation in the past few weeks.

Yes, it's blanket weather again, and for most people, it is a welcome change. By March, however, we'll be looking forward again to putting the blankets into their summer hibernation again and replacing winter clothes with summer cottons.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
A REAL ESTATE RULE
"Always sell a house while your furniture is in it," a real estate agent said recently, "but always buy a house when it is empty." The reason for this, he explained, is that furniture almost always makes a house look more attractive, and also hides small defects and damage. When the house is empty and bare, however, you can easily see the true condition of the walls and floors.

It is probably a good thing that we cannot follow this same advice when we are choosing and evaluating our friends and associates. Actually most of us do sell ourselves with our furniture in—that is, we do not show all of our character and personality, but only what we wish to reveal; and we do our best to hide our flaws and defects. But when it comes to buying others, we are almost never given that total view with nothing hidden, all faults showing clearly, no flaws concealed. If we were, there would probably be few friendships, and fewer marriages.

In fact, a man might make a good rule for life by just reversing the advice of the real estate agent. Always see others with their furniture in—that is, in the best possible light. But for ourselves, always live so that we are not ashamed to let others see the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

G O P Sees General Antipathy

WASHINGTON—Republicans' concern over prospective loss of Congress in November is not based on ballot-box reversals in Maine and other sections of the country, including heavy Democratic turnouts in primaries so far held. It is recognized that these upsets could be due to local conditions, personalities and issues, as some cautious Democrats concede.

Their real worry, based on a headquarters canvass of the results, derives from their realization that a definite pattern of anti-Republican revision shows up in all these tests. The GOP, they fear, has lost caste with almost every class or group of voters—urban and rural farmers and factory workers, conservatives and liberals, the eggheads and independents, and especially among the women.

VOTERS COOLER TO IKE—President Eisenhower holds the respect and admiration of the people, as the opponents' failure to attack him personally demonstrates. But he is not a beloved figure, and he does not arouse hero worship or mass enthusiasm. In general, he has disappointed his 1952 supporters.

Winter Selling Ideas

By ELMER ROESSNER
Appointment of a "Vice-President for Winter Selling" is urged on department stores by Howard P. Abrahams, manager of the sales promotion division of the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

Between now and Christmas, the typical department store will do 35 per cent of its year's business. But, Mr. Abrahams told a retailers' clinic this week, January and February will account for only 13 per cent unless retailers do something about it.

Bubbling with ideas, as an experienced advertising man should be, he suggested:

Taking advantage of post-Christmas sales, which customers have come to expect, by adding fresh goods with advanced styling, pointed out with fresh signs.

Considering a new name for midwinter clearances, with white elephants, Ben Franklin or killed thrifty Scots as themes.

Making January white sales store-wide, featuring related items and—since people use white goods in combinations—stressing ensembles of sheets, cases, various towels, etc.

Planning "north and south" promotions featuring apparel and accessories for the rising number of midwinter vacations.

Pepping up the February furniture sales with items for the do-it-yourself market, with full-room ensembles carrying okays of local fashion authorities, and holding a home fashions forum with guest speakers.

Taking full advantage of events, such as Boy Scout Anniversary Week, February 6-12, National Sew and Save Week, February 19-26, and, above all, Valentine's Day.

For the last Mr. Abrahams urged getting the whole communities into the act; holding contests for a Miss Valentine, for the oldest Valentine couple in town, and for the best Valentine; promoting gifts for women, men, youngsters, mothers, fathers, etc.; creating and promoting a gift advisor, gift certificates, special departments, gift wrapping, a night opening, special credit and a last-minute delivery service.

Mr. Abrahams ideas aren't copyrighted and smaller stores, as well as department stores, may help themselves.

AGONIES OF FAILURES NOT LONG POSTPONED
"If a firm is destined to be a failure, it usually does not take much time in becoming one."

Dun & Bradstreet comments in its annual analysis of failures. As in so many previous years, the majority of failures in 1953 were of companies organized within the last five years. Of the failures, 43 per cent were of firms less than a year old.

The 1953 failure rate was 33 per 10,000 concerns. This compares with 29 in 1952, 31 in 1951, and 24 in 1950 and 1949.

Lack of managerial ability was the basic cause of more than half the failures, Dun & Bradstreet found.

SEARCH FOR ITEM PUTS HOUSEWIFE IN BUSINESS
One way to get into business is to write a letter.

Mrs. N. Albert Bacharach of Baltimore received a plastic, revolving spice rack as a gift. She tried to buy another one and found no Baltimore store carried the item. So, Retailing Daily reports, she wrote to the manufacturer. By return mail she was appointed sales representative.

Since then she has placed dozens lots of the racks in many big stores, to her own satisfaction and profit.

First Insurance, Then Savings, Then Make Investment

By ROGER W. BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass.—When a young couple gets married, part of their joint savings—buying a little good furniture—should go into life insurance—simple and inexpensive straight life insurance. After this a couple should start to build up credit and get the good will of some local bank. I would even advise renting a small safe-deposit box for keeping important papers, good jewelry, etc.—and don't forget to make WILLS.

IMPORTANCE OF BANK ACCOUNTS
If business and market conditions were different today, I would probably advise the purchase of a few shares of some good stock with one's savings; but I hate to do so with prices so high. Hence, today the best investment is a small bank account. Some later year you will be able to use this money to buy good stocks for much less than they are now selling. But, when you put the money in the bank, don't withdraw it until that time comes. Consider this bank account sacred—not to be disturbed for anything.

Another reason I want you to start a bank account, with regular deposits, is to help you get a reputation for thrift, honesty, and hard work. Make it a point to get acquainted with some high officer in the bank and say "Good morning" to him every time you go in so that he will know you and be able to give you or your partner a good reference whenever you need one. The interest which you get on a bank account is only one-half of the value which you get from the account. The other half is the acquaintance of bank officials. I tell my grandchildren to put church attendance first and "bank attendance" next — although, of course, not for the same reason!

ADVICE TO INVESTORS
Although most stocks—yes, even good stocks—seem too high to me today, I think that local bank stocks are in a safe and profitable position. Since nearly all weak banks were eliminated in the Thirties, all banks are now being operated carefully. Most of them could be liquidated for more than their published assets, so that, as a stockholder, you would probably get more than you paid for the stock. Most of my readers should own stock of the local bank where they have their account. In fact, perhaps one of the best investments for the young married couple would be five or ten shares of stock.

BANK STOCKS AS INVESTMENTS
If an investor is to put considerable money into bank stock, he should get the reports of two or three — and carefully study them. Any bank—whether or not you are a customer—will gladly give you a copy of its Annual Report. In most states this must be published in the local paper, once a year. When my father died, I found a scrapbook in which he had pasted the published Annual Reports of all Gloucester banks, clipped from his valued Gloucester Daily Times.

Usually the bank with the largest deposits gets the most attention, but when bankers brag to me about their "large deposits," I jokingly reply, "You surely owe a lot of money!" For a bank's deposits are money which must be paid back to the people sometime. Therefore, when comparing bank statements, subtract the deposits from the total assets and see what would be left for the stockholders.

THE VALUE OF BANK STOCK
The real value of bank stock depends very largely on the character, integrity, and energy of the men who operate the bank. Are they church goers? Do they let liquor alone? Do they live within their salaries? A successful banker is a combination of good character, good health, and good judgment.

Directors also should measure up to the above requirements. But too many bank directors accept the position as an honor rather than as a responsibility. Always ask how much money the directors of the bank are borrowing. This question, however, as well as the quality of the bank's assets, is under the constant supervision of the bank examiners. Hence, I forecast that when the next depression comes, bank stocks will stand up better than any other group of stocks.

Campaign Fund Collections Usually Bring Complaints

By LYNN NISBET
MONEY — Every two years a few weeks in advance of the November election the Democratic State headquarters puts on a money raising drive to finance the campaign. Among the hundreds of letters soliciting contributions are those addressed to head of State governmental departments and agencies pointing out the need for funds and asking the head of the department to pass the word along down the line among the employees. An amount, based on past experience and on estimated ability to contribute, is suggested for each department.

Every time these letters are mailed out objection is heard from some quarters about pressure being put on the State employees. The matter was brought up at Governor Umstead's latest news conference, by a reporter who said that some employees who admittedly vote the Republican ticket claimed they had been "threatened" if they didn't ante up.

The Governor said he saw nothing wrong in the party chairman presenting the need for campaign funds, and nothing wrong with the department heads passing the request down the line. He added that he would not condone or tolerate anybody being "threatened" for failure to contribute, and that in all his experience in politics—including three years as state chairman—he had never heard of any such threats.

He further stated his belief that everybody who benefits by the administration of State government and the Democratic regime should be willing to help maintain that prosperous relationship.

There have been reported instances of some division chiefs going farther in emphasizing the request than the organized party contemplated, but these occasions have been rare. Complaint on part of employees that the list of donors will be published is beside the point. The statutes require that every contribution be reported with name and address of the contributor. The reports often include dime and quarter donations.

PROBLEM — The business of raising campaign funds is a major problem in political activity. A few big donations from wealthy people are gratefully accepted, but Democratic policy has long been to build the fund out of many little contributions. The very back of that policy is that "the horse that pulls the plow is entitled to eat the fodder."

That is another way of saying that the folks who finance the party have a right to say how the party and the governmental affairs administered by it should be run. The Democrats would rather have a lot of little people exercising this control than to have a few millionaire angels dictate policy for their peculiar benefit.

Judge Will Study Comic Books For Clean-Up Group

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Any parent who has to read the comics aloud regularly to his children may sympathize with Judge Charles F. Murphy.

In the next few weeks Judge Murphy, the new czar of one comic book industry, intends to study every comic publication in America, line by line, drawing by drawing.

"There are 350 titles," said the judge, a tall, big-framed, 44-year-old Irishman, "and I intend to read every one of them myself, until I can assemble a staff."

Disturbed by criticism that the so-called "fumies" had become a bad influence on children, the Comics Magazine Assn. of America, headed by John Goldwater, decided the 200 — million — dollar-a-year industry needed a code of ethics and a strong man to enforce it.

Because of his record for helping youth, they offered the post to Murphy, former legal advisor to Mayor LaGuardia and a city magistrate for the last 9 years. They promised him complete authority, full cooperation and a $100,000 annual budget to do the job.

"I wouldn't have considered it at all if I weren't given a free hand," said Murphy. "Even so, it was a difficult decision to make."

"So I put it up to my wife and three children. We had a family council. I asked them whether they thought I could fill the role naturally, and after we talked it all over, they decided I could." Murphy, who has neither false pride nor false modesty, said he would use his authority forcefully.

"I don't intend to let any family down in this job, and certainly not my own," he said.

"The publishers who conform to the code will carry an approved seal on the covers of all their books. Those that don't conform will be denied the seal—and they'll be publicly expelled from the association."

Many educators already have offered help in drawing up the code, which Murphy says will be stringent but simple.

"There will be no more horror and terror books," he said. "They will have to conform to the ordinary standards of good taste."

"Criminals won't be glamorized. There will be no more suggestive art. Family life will be shown in the right perspective."

In his years on the bench Judge Murphy organized several projects to combat juvenile delinquency.

"I found that once a kid landed in court there were a number of agencies to help him," he said, "but there weren't enough agencies working to keep him from getting into the kind of trouble that led him to a courtroom."

Murphy founded a weekly radio program, "Youth Talks It Over," in which high school pupils could talk over their own adolescent problems with him. He is also founder of Teen Plan Inc., a private organization devoted to helping teen-agers find suitable careers.

"Paramount in my mind in dealing with young people," the judge said, "was the desire to avoid the frustration many people feel throughout their adult life because they got off to the wrong start.

"All kids, whether they show it or not, are deeply troubled over the future. They worry over what they are going to make of themselves."

"They all need an adult with whom they can talk over these problems. But they can't stand to be laughed at. And no matter how ridiculous their dreams may seem to a grownup, he should never laugh at them."

An example of Judge Murphy's thoroughness was the case of a young boy who said he wanted to become a yo-yo salesman.

"He was serious about it—he wasn't joking," said the judge. "So I located a firm that made yo-yos and had one of the men talk with him about it, so the boy could decide for himself, after investigating, whether he really wanted to go into that field."

Murphy doesn't believe that comic books in themselves are ever "the initial cause" of juvenile delinquency.

"It all goes back to the initial training in the home," he said. "You have to housebreak a child as you do a dog, except that you must live up to the standards of the community as well as those you set in your home."

"Home training is forever basic. If children don't get the right discipline from the start, they'll later get into trouble by the hundreds, no matter what kind of home they come from — rich, middle class or poor."

Social Scientists See No Rioting, Bloodshed

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Social scientists poo-poo the notion that mixing Negroes and whites in American schools will cause rioting and bloodshed, a UNESCO publication said today.

"Apparently many people believe that somebody else will start the rioting, even though they themselves are prepared to accept the new situation," said an article on the subject.

"There will of course be difficulties in the way of further desegregation, but previous experience indicates that they can be surmounted."

The article appears in the October issue of the UNESCO Courier, published monthly by the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization in Paris and distributed here.

The entire 36-page special issue was titled "The American Negro—Whittling Away the Color Bar." It was devoted largely to the U.S. Supreme Court's May 17 decision declaring race segregation in public schools contrary to the Constitution.

The article, "Social Science and Segregation," was written by Dr. Otto Klineberg, Columbia University psychology professor and member of UNESCO's social science department.

He said social scientists — psychologists, sociologists and anthropologists — and educators had helped the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) fight the school case through the courts.

In the lower courts, he said, many social scientists were pro-NAACP witnesses and in the Supreme Court 32 American social scientists signed a statement presented as an appendix to the NAACP brief.

This appendix — based on a questionnaire on school segregation sent to "a large number" of American social scientists — marshaled "an imposing array of evidence" that desegregation usually occurs without violence Klineberg said. It noted that such moves in some Southern universities and in the U.S. armed forces had gone through "without major incidents."

The statement reported that 90 per cent of the social scientists questioned felt that segregation was "psychologically detrimental" to the segregated Negro minority and 80 per cent felt it hurt the white majority also.

In Negro children, Klineberg reported, the experts felt it generated a "generally defeatist attitude," while white children developed an overconfidence from "the unrealistic conviction that they are superior" because of their race.

The statement by the social scientists concluded that fears based on the notion of inborn racial differences in intelligence "are not well founded."

Another Red Peace Campaign Shapes Up

LONDON (AP)—Signs from Moscow indicate the Kremlin is preparing to launch a new propaganda peace offensive.

Moscow radio broadcasts indicate the new drive will start in mid-November. As usual, the aim will be to instill in the minds of millions all over the world the idea that the Russians want peace, while the U.S. government wants war.

"For the purpose of further rallying and mobilizing the growing forces of peace," said Pravda, "the Bureau of the World Peace Council has decided to convene on Nov. 18 a session of the World Peace Council."

Here are some of the issues the session will discuss, making up the most inclusive propaganda program to date:

First and foremost, a planned campaign against a unified Europe and the Western security system.

The Communists do not, of course, describe it that way. They call it "the issue of cooperation of all European countries in view of the organization of their common security."

Next on the program—"the position in various parts of Asia as a result of foreign pressure and of setting up a system of blocs and military coalitions."

This will be an attack on the Southeast Asian security pact.

Third on the November agenda is "the position of Latin America due to foreign interference with the domestic affairs of the states."

Here the "peace propagandists" unquestionably will blame the United States for last summer's revolution in Guatemala.

Final item on the list is the often repeated theme of the propaganda and agitation section of the Soviet Communist party's central committee — "disarmament and the abolition of weapons of mass destruction."

Air ROTC Staff Members Visit Grads In Training

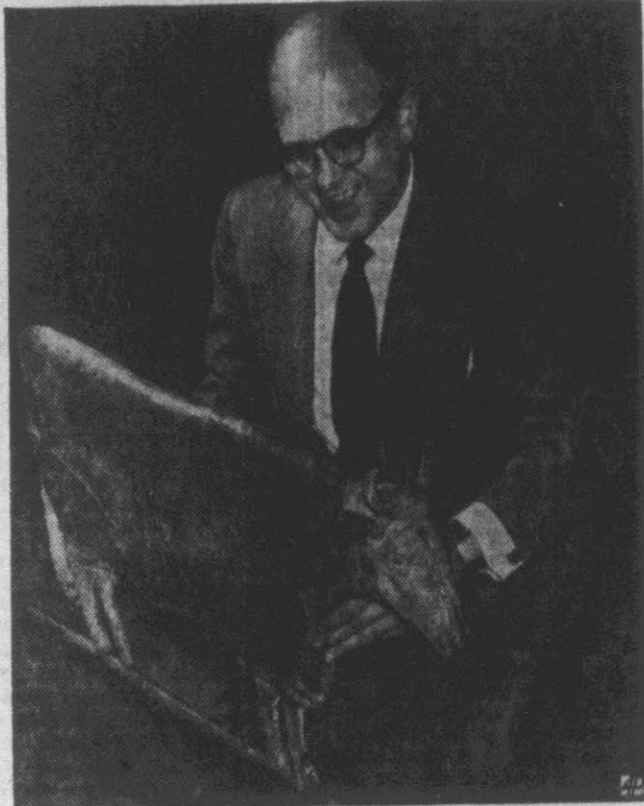

Lt. Col. Lewis J. Partridge, professor of air science, and Capt. Thomas W. Harper, staff members of the East Carolina College Air Force ROTC, spent the weekend at Graham Air Base near Marianna, Florida, visiting twelve graduates of the college now receiving flying training there.

While in Florida, Lt. Col. Partridge and Capt. Harper observed the program at the air base, determined progress made by the East Carolina graduates, and received suggestions as to how the work of the college AFROTC can be modified to qualify students better for flying training.

The East Carolina graduates, now serving as second lieutenants, completed their college work in May, 1954, and began their flying training July 25. All have completed twenty flying hours in a cub-type aircraft and are now engaged in flying T-6 Trainers. Four East Carolina graduates had soloed the T-6 by September 16, and the others are expected to solo this week.

These young officers are earmarked for advanced flying training and are slated to receive wings as Air Force jet fighter pilots and Air Force bomber pilots.

East Carolina graduates now at Graham Air Base are Nolan C. Alcock, Pollockville; Ernest M. Bizzell, Goldsboro; Paul A. Cameron, Jr., Kinston; Walter E. Culbreth, Goldsboro; James S. McCormick, Ayden; William P. Emerson, La Grange; Major I. Hooper, Stumpy Point; Thomas R. Lupton, Greenville; Elbert N. Prescott, New Bern; Robert E. Pennington, Rocky Mount; Shelby E. # Iraq Plans Send Its Commies To Russia

By WILTON WYNN
BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP)—Iraq figures that Communists should have "an opportunity to visit the country to which they pay their first allegiance."

That was the view expressed by Prime Minister Nuri Said in proclaiming an ordinance threatening Communists with loss of citizenship and deportation.

The ordinance was issued as an amendment to an older law outlawing communism under which convicted Communists received prison sentences up to 12 years. In extreme cases, the death penalty was given, and some convicted Communists have been hanged.

The job of implementing the new law falls to Iraq's Kurdish minister of the interior, Said Qazzaz, a coldly efficient administrator already noted for smashing communism in Iraqi labor unions.

"We don't intend to wait till the Communists are strong enough to take over this country. We are taking preventive measures now," Qazzaz said. "Our position is different from that of the United States, or Portugal, or Australia. Only a thin strip of Iranian territory separates us from the Soviet Union. Communist movements here can easily be built up into revolutions with Russian help."

The minister of interior said that most of Iraq's Communists are misguided students. Communists have been overtly active in such organizations as the Partisans of Peace and National Democratic Party, which won three seats in June Parliamentary elections. The latter party has been suppressed, while Partisans of Peace will be considered Communist under the new law.

Iraq's law hits at Communists under any name.

"We are not going to let Communists change their name and operate openly," Qazzaz declared. "Today they are Communists tomorrow Partisans of Peace, the next day World Youth Movement. "Our law will apply to any organization whose members pay primary allegiance to a foreign state. The law thus hits Zionists as well as Communists, under any name."

Whether the Soviet Union would accept any deported Communists is a question yet to be put to the test.

No Wonder Mothers Love this Relief from Suffering of Colds

DOES MORE THAN WORK ON CHEST!

Nothing works like Vicks VapoRub to relieve suffering of colds. VapoRub does more than just work on the chest. It acts two ways at once:

1. VapoRub relieves muscular soreness and tightness, stimulates chest surfaces.
2. At the same time, VapoRub's special medicated vapors also bring relief with every breath.

You can't see these vapors, but you can feel them as they travel deep into the nose, throat and large bronchial tubes. Congestion starts breaking up. Coughing eases. Soon you enjoy warming relief that lasts for hours.

So when colds strike, use the best-known home remedy to relieve such suffering — Vicks VapoRub.

Pirates Edge Lenoir Rhyne 7-6 In Conference Opener

Extra Point By Milton Collier Provided Margin

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Writer

HICKORY — The East Carolina Pirates auspiciously opened defense of their North State Conference title Saturday night by grinding out a narrow 7-6 win over Lenoir Rhyne in Hickory.

Coach Jack Boone's Buc mixed a 36-yard flit by Halfback Emo Boado and jarring lineplay to brew the victory concoction. The triumph was sweetest for the 7-6 defeat handed East Carolina by the Bears two years ago.

Boado Struts

Lenoir Rhyne received the opening kickoff but could get nowhere on a series of plays. They punted to ECC's 46-yard line. Emo Boado scrambled around right end for 9 yards only to have the play nullified because of an offside penalty. The Bear defense dug in and snuffed the Buc's attack so a punt was in order.

After receiving Quarterback Milton Collier's 32-yard punt, the Bruins tried three running plays and ended up with a minus 12 yards rushing. End Bob Henry booted the leather on fourth down. He kicked from his own 25 to ECC's 37. Boado gathered the pigskin in on the dead run. He hesitated momentarily when All-Conference End Bob Sherrill hurried up to meet him. Then, like an Indian giver, he gave Sherrill a hip and took it away, leaving the big flanker with a hand full of nothing. He moved over to the left sidelines and began his famous and weird stop-and-go method of deception. Picking up blockers, he faked and twisted his way through the bulk of the Lenoir Rhyne team until he was finally pulled to earth at the seven by the last man between him and paydirt — Sherrill.

Hayes Scores

The brilliant excursion invigorated the Pirates in such a manner, the touchdown came with apparent ease. Co-captain Topsy Hayes lugged the pigskin through right tackle and fell over the goal line wrapped in the arms of several Bruin defenders. Collier kicked the extra-point with the calmness of a professional.

East Carolina had jumped out in front 7-0 and meant not to be headed. A show of defense as has seldom been seen in the Ole North State stage was enacted by two impetuous forces. The script called for fight and the two antagonists battled through scene after scene to the final curtain.

LR Tally

On the last play before the first quarter ended, Buc Halfback Tom Allsbrook punted 42 yards to the Bears' 41-yard line. After changing sides, the Bruins ignited enough candlewicks to set their offensive dynamo in motion and pushed 59 yards to score.

Bill Ackard, Bruin tailback, hit left tackle for 2 yards to the 43. Fullback Mike Glover rammed to the 45. Ackard again pounded the tackles and moved down to ECC's 40 for a first down. The Pirates were holding on the next play and punished 15 yards to the 25. Ackard skirted end for 3 yards to the 22. Again it was Ackard doing the damage as he fought his way to the 19. With the situation fourth down and two to go for a first down, the Bears sent Ackard over center to the 10 and more than enough yardage.

ECC then was penalized to the one-yard line for unsportsmanlike conduct.

span over guard for the touchdown. Billy Eanes, quarterback, hurried his attempt for the point-after and it went wide to the right. East Carolina 7, Lenoir Rhyne 6, and that's the way it was to remain through the next two periods.

Lenoir Rhyne tried every media in the book during the second half to score again, but each attempt was grounded by a vaunted East Carolina defense.

LR Rally Short

About the middle of the third period, Coach Clarence Stasavick's Bruins came within nine yards of the double line. Collier fumbled on the bootleg play around his own left side and Joe Buff, Bear reserve quarterback, saddled it at ECC's 21-yard line. Hayes came in to swat Ackard down on the first play over to the 22. Glover then found the range with a pass to Sherrill and the big end was finally pulled down at the nine. On the next play, Hayes intercepted Glover's toss in the end zone for an automatic touchdown. East Carolina took over on the 20.

Again in the fourth quarter, Lenoir Rhyne threatened only to be repelled by a stout Pirate front defense. ECC gained possession of the ball on their own 10-yard stripe.

The entire ECC team played a bang-up game. Defensively, Guard Don Burton and Tackles Willie Holland and George Tucker stood slightly above the rest. Burton played the best game of his career, halting Bear ball-carriers time and time again with savage tackles.

Boado was sensational on offense. He carried eight times for 47 yards, besides the 56-yard punt return. He had several other nice ground gains invalidated because of ECC penalties. Harold O'Kelly turned in a remarkable performance at fullback. He filled in for injured Claude King like a veteran and gained 51 yards in 12 rushes. He was the work horse in the Buc's offense.

Coach Jack Boone singled out the second team in addition to the starters. He said they contributed a great part in the team-victory.

Two Vital North State Games Due

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two important league games feature North State Conference football action for the coming week.

The top contest pits East Carolina, the defending champion, against Catawba at Greenville. Appalachian, which now looks like a contender for ECC's title, faces Elon.

The rest of the schedule, all non-league contests, is Guilford at Wofford, Lenoir Rhyne at Newberry, and East Tennessee at Western Carolina.

East Carolina edged by Lenoir Rhyne, 7-6, in the first league game, for both Saturday. Emil Boado dashed 56 yards with a punt return to set up Topsy Hayes' seven-yard scoring run. Milton Collier kicked the extra point that proved the game winner.

Appalachian showed strength in whipping Western Carolina, 27-7. The win, their second in conference play, put the Apps in first place. Jim Ollis and Bill Stanley each scored twice.

In non-conference games, Newberry dropped Catawba, 13-8, and The Citadel of the Southern Conference stopped Elon, 21-1. Guilford had an open date.

Soldiers' Team Tops Lejeune

CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C. (AP)—Ft. Jackson, S.C., won an intra-service football thriller here Saturday, downing the Camp Lejeune Marines, 19-7.

Former University of Florida star, Rick Casares, and Gene Rossi of the University of Cincinnati, sparked the Soldiers.

Ft. Jackson trailed 7-6 going into the final quarter when Rossi and Casares both scored. Gilbert Verberder buckled over for the first touchdown.

With the season only two weeks old, four teams picked to challenge the Irish for the coveted No. 1 role — Texas, Illinois, Michigan State and Georgia Tech — already have been beaten.

Another, Oklahoma, has had a tight squeeze, having to score twice in the fading minutes to beat Texas Christian 21-16, and the Sooners may not be as fortunate Oct. 9 against Texas at Dallas.

At least one other recognized power, and possibly more, will fall this week-end when action increases with an imposing intersectional schedule featuring a clash of two Bowl giants — Maryland and UCLA.

Wilhelm Is Likely Series Star

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—This seems a good day to nominate the player who is destined to have the greatest influence on the outcome of the World Series. Our choice for the distinction is Hoyt Wilhelm, the knuckle-balling relief specialist of the Giants, and the reasoning goes like this:

If Wilhelm can baffle the Indians for two or three late innings at a stretch the way he has baffled the best hitters in the National league all season, the Giants will in all probability win the set. If he can't you've got to like Cleveland's chances. Maybe it's not quite that simple but it's close.

There can be little question that the right-handed North Carolinian is the greatest game-saver around today. If the circumstances are right he will be in there nearly every day the play-off lasts because he needs no rest between his heroics.

In the course of the season just closed Wilhelm strode in from the bullpen in approximately one out of every three Giants games and scored 12 victories against only four defeats, two of the latter at the hands of Pittsburgh, no less. His earned-run average was an amazing 2.15 per game and virtually nothing per inning. He has not lost a game since July 23, though he has struck his neck out 21 times in that period.

There was not quite the usual call on Wilhelm's services during the season, because the veteran Marv Grissom also proved himself a remarkably effective reliever over somewhat longer stretches than the knuckle-baller normally excels. In the last two months, though, Grissom lost some of his effectiveness while Wilhelm was becoming unbeatable.

The Indians have seen less of the knuckler than any other Giants pitcher. Leo Durocher used him very sparingly in the spring exhibitions, because he knows what he can do when the proper time comes. Even so, our Cleveland informant says the Tribe batters are more jittery at the prospect of facing his butterfly ball than they are about Sal Maglie's curve or Johnny Antonelli's fast one.

Millions of television fans will have a chance to see for themselves what it means to try to even catch the particular type of knuckler that Wilhelm throws, much less hit it. They will see catcher Wes Westrum hopping about like a cat on a hot stove.

Wilhelm serves his specialty with the same motion and much the same speed as his fast ball. Neither pitcher nor his catcher ever know which way the knuckler is going to break.

"It doesn't matter whether you hit left or right, or whether you're a good hitter or not, one, the thing that counts," says Stan Musial, "is levels hitters off."

This fellow who, we say is more likely than any other player to have a decisive effect on the series outcome, one way or the other, also represents the biggest bargain on the Giants roster. They picked him up for $2,500 back in 1947, when they drafted him from the Braves' farm at Mooresville, N. C. The Giants thought so little of him that they left him open to the draft for several years and didn't bring him in from Minneapolis until '52.

Billy Joe Patton Has Exhibition Role In Tourney

GREENSBORO (AP)—Billy Joe Patton, the Morganton lumberman who came so close to winning this year's Augusta Masters, has an exhibition role in the Carolinas PGA golf tournament, opening here Oct. 5.

Patton will team with Carolinas open champion Dow Finsterwald, Ft. Bragg pro, against pro Mike Souchak and amateur Fletcher Wall. Wall and Souchak are both former Duke football players who since have carved quite a name for themselves in golf circles.

The exhibition match is scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 5, as the kickoff for the tournament, which will be played over the Green Valley course.

That night, Patton will be honored by Carolinas PGA members as the man who contributed the most to North Carolina golf in the last year.

Whitey Ford and Tommy Byrne, New York Yankees southpaws, like to fly when their team makes long road jumps. Say they want to get to bed early before pitching a game.

Two League Batting Champions Will Meet Head-On In World Series Play

By JACK HAN

For the first time since 1931, the two league batting champions will meet in the world series with Willie Mays (.345) of the New York Giants and Bobby Avila (.341) of the Cleveland Indians topping the hit parade.

Mays beat out teammate Don Mueller and Brooklyn's Duke Snider with a three-hit outburst on the final day of the season. Willie ripped into Philadelphia pitching yesterday for a triple, double and single and a final .345 average. Mueller wound up at .342 and Snider at .341.

Avila's triumph in the American league is bound to stir up some off-season talk. Ted Williams actually had a higher average, .345, but he didn't have the required 400 official at bats. If the statisticians gave him 14 hitless trips to boost his 386 at bat total to 400 he would have finished at .353.

Since Cleveland clinched the American league pennant a week inated Brooklyn a week ago, the chief interest in Sunday's final games was a scrap for fourth place—and a chunk of world series cash—in each league.

The Boston Red Sox helped by Williams' 29th homer in a five-run seventh, sewed up fourth in the American league by bopping Washington 11-2, Detroit with a 13-inning on Fred Hatfield's two-run homer off Ray Narleski. Philadelphia wound up fourth in the National despite a defeat by the New York Giants, 3-2 in 11 innings. Cincinnati, needing a victory to tie the Phils, lost to Chicago, 5-2.

Karl Spooner, Brooklyn's brilliant rookie southpaw, proved his 15-strikeout job against the Giants Wednesday was no flash in the pan. The 23-year-old Fort Worth grad fanned 12 Pittsburgh batters for a new National league record of 27 in his first two starts. Gil Hodges' 42nd homer gave Brooklyn a 1-0 edge.

Wally Moon's 400-foot home run gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 2-0 victory over Milwaukee in 11 innings. Casey Stengel popped up with his new "power" infield—Yogi Berra at third, Mickey Mantle at short and Bill Skowron at second—only to see the Philadelphia A's knock off his New York Yankees 8-6.

The final games of the two series teams didn't prove much, except that both are ready.

The Indians gave Larry Doby the day off but pitched Mike Garcia 12 innings. Manager Al Lopez apparently believes in giving his pitchers a thorough warm-up. Bob Lemon, expected to face Sal Maglie in the opener Wednesday, went nine Friday and Early Wynn pitched a complete game Saturday.

Johnny Antonelli, the Giants' winning pitcher, worked only the first two innings of the finale in Philadelphia. Ruben Gomez and Maglie had brief tune-ups Saturday night.

Indianapolis Club Just Springboard

By DALE BURGESS

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The Indianapolis Indians of the American Assn., who contributed Al Lopez to the Cleveland Indians and Birdie Tebbets to the Cincinnati Redlegs, are wondering how long they can keep manager Kerby Farrell.

Farrell, a lean Tennessee quail hunter, will win his third pennant in as many leagues. If his team doesn't go into an unlikely tail spin.

His Spartanburg, S.C., team won the 1947 Tri-State flag and his 1953 Reading, Pa., club romped off with the Eastern League trophy.

Farrell has been knocking around for 22 years in the minors, plus first base intervals for the Boston Braves in 1943 and the Chicago White Sox in 1945.

He was in the Southern, Mid-Atlantic, Cotton States and Eastern leagues and the American Assn. He admits his brief big league stay, made at 30, happened when World War II had drained off much baseball talent.

But as a manager, Farrell is getting increasing respect. This is his tenth season of managing and only one of his teams, Spartanburg in 1948, has finished out of the first division. It was fifth.

Originally a left-handed pitcher, Farrell had a 7-1 record as playing manager of Erie in the Mid-Atlantic League in 1941. He still pitches batting practice when his Indians are to face a southpaw but he's primarily a baseball brain.

Sportswriters who picked Indianapolis to finish fourth in the standings have been batting around the solution to the Tribe's solid lead.

A couple of reasons offered are possible 20-game winner Herb Score, whom Farrell compares to Lefty Grove, and outfielder Rocco Colavito, who has been leading the league in home runs, runs batted in and runs scored.

Another reason is Hank Folles, called by Farrell the fastest catcher he ever saw. Farrell and coach Milt Nielsen revised Folles' stance and he boomed from .193 to over .300.

Maybe a bigger reason—and Farrell definitely has a hand in this—is that Indianapolis doesn't know when it's licked. In its first 70 victories, it came from behind 33 times.

One writer contends Farrell's chief talent is knowing when to change pitchers. Farrell also had phenomenal success with pinch hitters. In a July game with Kansas City, he used four. One doubled, one walked and two singled—and one drove in the winning run.

Farrell tells a pinch hitter: "Don't stand up there thinking you got to do or die. Just go limp and if the pitcher serves up a fat one, bust it!"

When Indianapolis was leading by 11 games in late July, a friend congratulated Farrell on having a good "cushion."

"I'd like it better if it was 22," Farrell snapped.

He believes a dozen of his players are Cleveland prospects, especially the 20-year-old Score, "but you can't tell 'til they get up there."

BOSTON (AP)—It's the same as I said last spring, only more so — I'm through.

Thus Ted Williams, one of the greatest hitters in baseball history, apparently wrote fine in his playing career in a clubhouse statement yesterday after hitting his 29th home run of the year in Boston's 11-2 triumph over Washington.

Was this the final word of a Williams determined to quit while still on top? Or was it the expression of an obviously fatigued player at the end of a trouble-plagued season who might reconsider after a winter's rest?

To the writers crowding around his locker as he hung up old No. 9, ostensibly for the last time, and to those teammates nearby, Williams tried to dispel all doubts.

"You think I'm kidding, but I'm not. I've never wavered from my original announcement."

But General Manager Joe Cronin's reaction expressed a common sentiment: "It's a long time between now and spring training."

Clemson Back Is Top ACC Scorer

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jim Coleman, a Clemson halfback, holds a slim early lead in an Atlantic Coast Conference individual scoring race that looks like a dilly of a battle.

A lanky sophomore, Coleman has 18 points. He scored Clemson's only touchdown in the Tigers' 14-7 defeat by Georgia Saturday. Two touchdowns he scored against Presbyterian College the week before gave him a head start.

Close behind him is Duke's jarring junior fullback, Bryant Aldridge, who scored twice and kicked two extra points for 14 points to lead the Blue Devils in their 52-0 rout of Pennsylvania.

Five others have 12 points. They are Joe Pagliei of Clemson, Sam Eberdt of Duke, George Marinkov of North Carolina State, and South Carolina's speedy touchdown twins, Carl Brazell and Mike Caskey.

Coaches had smiles today at Duke, South Carolina, North Carolina and Virginia following victories Saturday. But the two happiest were Rex Enright of South Carolina and Bill Murray of Duke.

South Carolina turned in one of the nation's top upsets, whipping Army, 34-20. The defeat in Michie Stadium at West Point was only the 12th there in Army history and the third time the Cadets have lost an opening game in 65 years.

Army, billed as the top team of the East before the game, was overwhelmed completely by the big Gamecock line and the running of Brzell and Caskey who established themselves among the nation's best with their performance. Each scored twice. Tommy Woodlee contributed the fifth Gamecock touchdown.

After a close first half, Duke swamped Penn with 13 points in the third period and 32 in the last quarter. Murray used his entire squad with the Blue Devils scoring at will.

The first conference game went to North Carolina which took a rugged and hard fought 20-6 win over a vastly improved but still undermanned North Carolina State. Quarterback Marshall Newman scored once and passed to halfback Connie Graville for another score to lead the Tar Heel offense. An intercepted pass by Mike Nardone accounted for the Wolfpack's score. State drove deep into Tar Heel territory several times but lacked a scoring punch.

In another hard battle, Clemson lost to Georgia, 14-7. The victory went to Georgia in the last quarter when Jimmy Harper passed to Laneair Roberts to the 15 and Bob Clemens scored on the next play. Coleman scored Clemson's touchdown in the second quarter from the three.

Virginia Tech outclassed Wake Forest in a 32-0 rout with speedy halfback Howie Wright leading the way with two touchdowns.

A last quarter touchdown gave Virginia a 27-21 victory over Lehigh in the season's opener for both. The Cavaliers, who nearly fumbled the game away, had to call on third string quarterback Bill Clarke to engineer the final touchdown.

Maryland, which had an open date Saturday, leads off the week's schedule against UCLA Friday night.

The rest of the schedule: Tennessee at Duke, North Carolina at Tulane, North Carolina State at Wake Forest, Clemson at Virginia Tech, George Washington at Virginia and West Virginia at South Carolina in a night game.

PITCHING — Karl Spooner, Brooklyn Dodgers rookie, fanned 12 Pirates to run his two-game strike out mark to a record 27 as Dodgers defeated Pittsburgh 1-0.

BATTING — Willie Mays, New York Giants, connected with three hits in four times at bat against Philadelphia to win National League batting crown with a .345 average.

Agricultural fairs have been part of American life for nearly 150 years.

Wright Living Up To Early Promise

A stocky 180-pound senior who's the "Mr. Big" in Virginia Tech's handsome new football offense — Howie Wright — has taken over as top scorer in the Southern Conference after two weeks of the 1954 season.

Wright, living up to pre-season notices which said he'd be one of the fastest halfbacks in the league, has scored 24 of the Gobblers' 62 points to date. He tallied twice when Tech beat N.C. State 30-32 in its opener and twice more in his team's surprisingly easy 32-0 romp over Wake Forest in Richmond's Tobacco Festival game last Saturday.

Wright also is making a bid to become the "long run champion" of the conference. Against N. C. State he reeled off a 67-yard touchdown jaunt. Wake Forest watched him prance 64 yards for one touchdown and haul in a pass for another on a play covering 62 yards.

Giving Wright a run for his money in the individual scoring sweepstakes are three Richmond halfbacks — Lewis Wacker, George Riggs, and Ed Santoro—who have tallied 18 points apiece. Of the three, only Wacker is a starter for the Spiders, who've beaten Randolph-Macon 46-0 and Hampden-Sydney 40-0 in their starts to date.

Players with 12 points include Doby Rietson of The Citadel, Harley Smith of Davidson, Roland Evans of Richmond, and Johnny Dean and Billy Cranwell of Virginia Tech.

This week's schedule sends conference champion West Virginia into action for the first time and the Mountaineers could run into all sorts of difficulties since the foe is powerful South Carolina, which conquered 13th ranking Army last Saturday. The game is at Columbia.

Sharing top billing with the West Virginia-South Carolina collision is Virginia Tech's attempt to knock off Clemson — its third Atlantic Coast Conference opponent in a row. Two family fuses also are going to the Citadel and Davidson moving to Richmond for a night game.

VMI's 16-14 victory over George Washington has to be classed as last Saturday's most exciting game. A pass interception with only four minutes left in the game enabled the Keydets to tie the count and they went out by scoring a safety with only two seconds showing on the clock.

William and Mary was battered by Navy 27-0 in its opener. The Indians never got their offense going and had only two chances to score, muffing both.

The Citadel made a successful debut, scoring a pair of touchdowns in the last three minutes to beat Elon 21-13. Quarterback Rietson tallied both the TD's.

Davidson's sparkling sophomores kept rolling with a 19-13 triumph over Stetson. Halfback Harley Smith was the big gun in the Wildcat attack with two touchdowns. All the Davidson scores came in the first two quarters.

In Friday night action, Miami (Fla.) snapped Furman's six-game winning streak with a decisive 51-13 victory at Miami, while Richmond rolled over little Hampden-Sydney 40-0.

Notre Dame, meanwhile, appears a solid bet to survive its own rugged schedule and go through to the honors for which the team was picked in the pre-season Associated Press poll.

For those who might have been skeptical that the 26-year-old Brennan could step into the shoes of Knute Rockne and Frank Leahy, the Fighting Irish had the answer Saturday in a 21-0 triumph over a big, strong Texas team which had been called the best from the

Tears for the Bride

By ROBERT MARTIN

CHAPTER ONE

One gray Thursday afternoon in November Sandy Hollis said to me, "Jim, do you like to hunt?"

I lowered the sports page of my Cleveland newspaper and gazed across the office at her. Sandy was not only a good secretary, but easy to look at. She had brown hair which almost exactly matched her eyes, a faint scattering of freckles over her short nose, and long, handsome legs. "Man or beast?" I asked.

"Birds," she said. "Ring-necked pheasants."

"Sure," I said. "I'll use my 38." "Quit bragging," she laughed. "Even James Tobias Bennett, the famous private investigator, can't hit a pheasant with a revolver—unless it was sitting. And one doesn't shoot sitting birds."

"Tell me more," I said, folding the paper.

Sandy pushed her chair back from her typewriter and crossed her slim legs. "I had a letter from Dad today. He says there are a lot of birds on the place this fall. He wants me to come down for some shooting. He's got plenty of guns, and Mom's fried chicken is super, and Ralph will be there, and some other people. It'll be kind of a party."

"Who's Ralph?" I asked. "The boy friend?" I realized instantly that I shouldn't have said it. I knew that Sandy didn't have a boy friend—not yet. She had been engaged to a jet pilot, and three or four months previously he had been reported missing on a test flight over the Pacific.

Her eyes clouded for just an instant and then she smiled. "Ralph's my brother," she said gently. "He's just been discharged from the army. We haven't seen him for over a year."

"Sounds like a family affair," I said. "Why should I butt in?"

"You won't be—and I want them to see what a nice boss I've got," she smiled.

"Aw, shucks," I said. "You'll come, then?"

Suddenly the idea seemed attractive to me. "If you really want me."

"Good. I'll call home tonight." I got up, put on my hat and overcoat.

"Where're you going?"

"Out to buy a hunting license." She looked pleased. "We'll leave tomorrow afternoon, and come back on Sunday."

"Tally-ho," I said, and went out.

The Hollis farm was about a hundred miles southwest of Cleveland near a village called Ridge Center. It was pleasant driving in the crisp sunshine with Sandy beside me and the radio tuned to a program of soft dance music. Although Sandy had been with the agency for over two years, she had never told me much about her family. Now, as we drove along I learned that her brother, Ralph, was a year younger than she and was engaged to marry a girl named Eileen Fortune. "She's a nice girl," Sandy said, "but I think I liked Judy better."

"Who's Judy?"

"Judy Kirkl. d. We all thought she and Ralph would get married, but just before Ralph went into the service they had some kind of a quarrel—and the next we knew Ralph was engaged to Eileen. Judy's well, a little wild, maybe—but I like her. She has, oh, more personality than Eileen."

"Not yet," Homer sighed. "But the pressure is on—especially since Ralph came home."

"How is Ralph?" Sandy asked. Homer shook his head slowly. "He's not the same boy, Sandy. Kind of moody, and he's thin. I'm a little worried about him—but I don't say anything to your mother."

Sandy's brown eyes clouded. "Maybe, after he's home a while."

"Maybe," Homer said and took my arm. "Come on in, Jim. That wind's raw."

"Call me Jim," I said smiling at him.

"All right, Jim. My name's Homer," He smiled his shy smile. "You don't look much like a detective—not leastways, the way I figured a detective should look."

Sandy said, "Dad was a little dubious about my starting work in a detective agency. He thought I should get a respectable job in an insurance office, or a bank, I guess."

Homer Hollis smiled ruefully. "Well, after hearing some of those radio programs . . ."

"You should see the television stories," Sandy said. She pointed a finger and cocked a thumb. "Bang! Bang!" She looked up at the roof of the house. "I don't see an aerial yet, Dad."

"Not yet," Homer sighed. "But the pressure is on—especially since Ralph came home."

"How is Ralph?" Sandy asked. Homer shook his head slowly. "He's not the same boy, Sandy. Kind of moody, and he's thin. I'm a little worried about him—but I don't say anything to your mother."

Sandy's brown eyes clouded. "Maybe, after he's home a while."

"Maybe," Homer said and took my arm. "Come on in, Jim. That wind's raw."

Halted His Own TV Broadcasts

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Aldo DeDominicis, general manager of WNHG-TV, unwittingly knocked his own station off the air for a few seconds.

Inspecting new equipment at the station's television transmitter, DeDominicis became so engrossed that he didn't notice a sign reading "KEEP OUT" on a door. He opened it. That's when every receiver tuned to the station went blank.

As a safety precaution, the door is fitted with a device which shuts off the station's power the instant it is opened.

Worst Mosquito Swarm In 20 Years Along Coast

RALEIGH — Residents in coastal areas of North Carolina are waging a losing battle with mosquitoes which followed in the wake of heavy rains resulting from the recent storms, Carol and Edna.

George D. Jones, who is in charge of extension entomology at State College, says that the heavy rainfall provided water for extensive breeding, making local control very difficult. He said the mosquitoes may remain a problem until frost and cooler weather. He recommended that residents in mosquito-ravaged areas begin using one of several good repellents now on the market. He said mist or residual sprays should be applied early in the morning to kill pests which have collected in the house during the night. The mosquito "bombs" are very effective for enclosed areas also. Repellents are effective for up to five or six hours and only a small amount is needed.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW By FAGALY and SHORTEN

John's brother, William H. Jr. and William's wife, Roberta.

Applications in the morning and at noon are reported to offer protection in even heavily wooded and infested places. Residual oil sprays can be applied to darkened areas around the foundation and basements of houses. Emulsions and wettable powders can be used to spray shrubbery. These materials also can be applied to areas as a mist where outdoor activities are to be held at night.

In protecting animals and livestock from mosquitoes, Jones recommended spraying in around hog barns, poultry houses, horse stables and other areas with DDT and other insecticides as a residual spray. Methoxychlor can be used on cows giving milk but it is doubtful if it provides protection for long periods. DDT can be used on any animals not giving milk.

Try the newest ride in 20 years!

With its revolutionary new Ball-Joint Front Suspension (exclusive to Ford in its field), the '54 Ford gives you smoother riding and far easier handling even on the roughest roads.

Ford's new Ball-Joint Front Suspension is the greatest advance in chassis design in twenty years. In place of the kingpin and "hinge" system found in most cars, Ford has simple ball joints. Front wheels move both up and down and right and left around these same ball joints for easier steering and riding.

Ball-Joint Suspension also keeps your wheels in line longer . . . helps retain "new-car feel" much longer. And 12 points of wear are eliminated, so there are only 4 instead of 16 lubrication points.

A host of "Worth More" features make Ford your best buy

Ford alone in its field offers you a Y-block V-8 and I-block Six, the two most modern engines in the industry. For power assists*, Ford brings you the finest in the low-price field. They take the "work" out of shifting, steering, stopping . . . lift all 4 windows and move your front seat up, down, forward and back. It's because of many advances like these that Ford returns more of its original cost than any competitive make when you're ready to sell it. So, all in all, you can own this smooth-riding, style-setting honey for the lowest cost of any full-size car.

Only V-8 in the low-price field
 It's the industry's most modern "V-8". Its deep-block build gives you less vibration, quieter running. Its low-friction design gives you more usable power, from every drop of gas—and longer engine life, too!

Worth more when you buy it . . . Worth more when you sell it!

Life In A Castle Not Too Bad If Dweller Knows Farming

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
Sir Winston Churchill's cousin
Anita Leslie says it's not so bad, living in a castle, if you know how to farm.

The willowy, blue-eyed Anita blew into New York the other day to be on hand for publication for her new book, "The Remarkable Mr. Jerome," a story about Church-hill's (and her own) fabulous American grandfather, one of Wall Street's earliest tycoons, who also had a taste for fine horses and beautiful actresses.

Grandpa Jerome was a flamboyant character, but so is his great-granddaughter Anita. She is married to Cmdr. William King, who jockeyed a submarine for six years during World War II and collected most of the medals in stock in the British Empire. She has two children, Tarka Dick, 5, and Leonie, 3. She lives in two Irish castles, one of which, Glas-lough, belongs to her father, Sir Shane Leslie, in County Monaghan, and the other, Orammore, in County Galway, to her husband.

"We're farming the land like mad," says Cousin Anita. "It's the only way anyone can keep up a castle nowadays, you know. We raise beef cattle — and my husband's really quite good at it, now that I've got him out of his submarine."

Anita and Cmdr. King met during the war. She drove an ambulance for five years, first for the British in Africa and Egypt, then for the French.

Anita got the idea of writing the story of Leonard Jerome while poring about in the attic of her father's castle, where her grandmother, Leonie Leslie, had saved and annotated "simply tons" of family letters and keepsakes, including some of the fabulous gowns of that glittering era.

She worked for three years, sorting through the yellowed love letters, the dance programs, the racing programs and the family photographs, and produced a biography which explains a great deal of the vigor and brilliance of most of the descendants of Grandpa Jerome.

Cousin Anita has written two other books—"Train to Nowhere," a book about her war experiences, and "Love in a Nutshell," an account of her delayed honeymoon in a 31-foot ketch which her husband built to sail around the world with his bride.

"By the time the boat was built and ready to go," says she, "I couldn't go because I was going to have a baby. So my husband went,

Tough 'Lulu' Is Assisting Navy

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Lulu is a tough gal and she is making things tough in the United States Navy.

Lulu is the test barge of the Underwater Explosions Research Division. Working from the gawky Lulu, the division has sunk the atomic submarine Nautilus, raised her and sunk her again — all in miniature. Lulu has a reinforced hull to withstand explosions which have been used to test many changes in the structure of naval vessels.

Anita and Cmdr. King met during the war. She drove an ambulance
for five years, first for the British in Africa and Egypt, then for the French.

Exercise Brings Strangers Out

STATE COLLEGE Pa. (AP)—
Residents of this Centre County community wondered why hosts of strangers were parading around the town.

They found out from the police force. In a move to cut traffic accidents, the police set up a car-stopping program.

Any driver found who has been driving more than four or five hours must get out of his car and walk around the block. The measure is intended to shake off driving fatigue.

Town Clock Has Pigeon Trouble

PETERSBURG, Va. (AP)—The town clock on the courthouse steeple had been showing the correct time on three faces and was an hour late on the fourth side.

The city's building superintendent James A. Sanford, who likes to know what time it is, climbed the steeple and found the cause — pigeons. He evicted them, plugged the port of entry, and the clock is again on time on all sides.

and I joined him in the West Indies when the baby was three months old. He learned to swim before he learned to walk, and that's why we named him Tarka—that's Scandinavian for Otter, or "Little Water Wanderer."

Cmdr. King has crossed the Atlantic four times in small sailboats, but, says his wife:

"Now I think I've got him grounded. When you take care of two castles, you don't have much time for water sports."

Scattered Price Cuts May Signal More In Offing

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—A smattering of price cuts— from autos to vitamins — brighten the consumer's prospects today.

A few more may be on the way.
The outlook at the butcher's is for what the meat industry calls
"attractive prices" this fall.

And Christmas shopping may be easier on the pocketbook, too. Such old standby gifts as toilet articles, jewelry, luggage, and furs will have the benefit of the cut in Uncle Sam's excise taxes.

TV set prices have been lowered by a number of manufacturers on the eve of their biggest selling season. And attractive price tags may be put on a number of toys when the stores ready their Christmas gift departments.

But merchants and manufacturers alike hasten to add that while lower prices here and there will gladden the shopper, the price prospects in general is for more of the same—stability.

Producers explain that operating costs have reached so high a level as to put a solid floor under prices.
Distributors say their costs are so much heavier than a few years back that they can't lower retail prices. On the contrary, they complain of an increasing squeeze on their profit margins.

But if the cost of living in general stays pretty steady—and most economists look for it to continue that way for awhile—the consumer can take comfort today in the price cuts that do crop up here and there.

The auto price reduction is by only one producer, Studebaker, and will be on the forthcoming 1955 models.

Other auto makers say their new model prices won't be announced for awhile, but many dealers are expecting, anyway, that final prices may be lowered a little by the device of including some formerly extra cost items as standard equipment.

One sad note however: Some tire executives say their prices may have to go up five per cent by the end of the year.

The American meat institute, launching a drive to get consumers to eat more, says today that supplies this fall should be the largest they have ever been, adding:
"when the supplies of any perishable commodity increases, the price generally decreases."

At the other end of the health spectrum, prices of the ingredients of two synthetic vitamins have been cut by 25 per cent. Increased shipments of thiamine hydrochloride have lowered the wholesale price.

And German makers of ascorbic acid vitamin B1 from Japan product at reduced prices.

There are more than 230 million radio sets in the world — almost one for every ten persons.

PUTTING NEW SKYWAY INTO USE — Dedication motorcade rolls over main span after opening of Sunshine Skyway, one of world's longest pre-stressed concrete bridges, at St. Petersburg, Fla. The main span is 150 feet high.

GERMANS IN BATTLE DRESS — West Berlin anti-riot police, built up with permission and material aid of Western Allies, make first public appearance in Olympic Stadium.

Cites Danger In Woman's Tongue

LONDON (AP)—"A woman's tongue," said Judge Tudor Rees,
"can be infinitely more dangerous than her fist."

"It is an instrument that can be as soothing as a dulcimer or as venomous as an adder's sting."

"The use of such an instrument calls for unremitting vigilance."
His homily over, the judge ordered Mrs. Gertrude Simms, 65, to vacate her apartment in suburban Hounslow. Mrs. Olive Monich, who owns the building, complained Mrs.
Simms swore at her.

During the Civil War the Confederate states ran into many post-difficulties. Often postmasters used rubber stamps or handwritten signatures to denote paid-up postage.

NO IMPRESSION — Elisa DeVilini gets no reaction from a huge Easter Island stone head as she duses the recent acquisition at the Forest Lawn Museum in Glendale, California.

CREASE ON THE SPOT — A device designed to press trousers is demonstrated at the International Fair in Frankfurt, Germany. Its heater can be detached for other uses.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Airplane stocks were active and higher today in a generally advancing stock market.

In the early afternoon, price changes covered a range from around 3 points higher to 1 point lower.

There were quite a number of large blocks on the tape in early dealing, and the over-all pace of trading continued brisk at a rate of Friday's 2,340,000 shares.

Early strength was confined largely to individual issues. In the early afternoon however, the airplane came to life with gains that were substantial in some cases.

Higher with the airplane were the motors, copper, oil, airlines, building materials, and utilities.

Railroads were mixed but slightly higher on balance as were the steels. The rubbers and chemicals were mixed with a lower leaning.

Among better acting stocks were U.S. Gypsum, Gulf Oil, Southern Railway, Consolidated Natural Gas, Anaconda Copper, Remington Rand, Armour & Co., Reynolds Tobacco, U.S. Steel, Chrysler, Boeing, General Dynamics, and Sperry.

President Plays Role Of Chef To Large Gathering

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower, playing the role of supervising chef, invited more than 175 guests to a beef stew lunch today.

The guests included several long-time friends who have been Eisenhower neighbors the many years he has been spending Colorado vacations at the home here of his mother-in-law, Mrs. John S. Doud.

Invited, too, were quite a few Denver business men who are golfing pals of the President. Also asked were a couple of fellows who make a living at golf and give Eisenhower a few pointers — Ed Dudley, the pro at the Augusta National Club in Georgia and at Colorado Springs and Ralph (Rip) Arnold, pro at Denver's Cherry Hills club where today's luncheon was being held.

The President also invited about 40 newsmen who have been covering his activities here. He said they were to have a half holiday today and gave instructions that everything at the luncheon, except the beef stew recipe and guest list, was off the record.

Close friends of Eisenhower have been telling for years about his beef stew, a ritual-like preparation usually several days in the making.

The recipe for the White House made public is for 60 people, but assistant White House press secretary Murray Snyder told apprehensive newsmen enough stew was being cooked to provide even "seconds" for the more than 75 guests.

Here's the recipe:

First off you get 20 pounds of prime round steak — something considerably better than the "stewing meat," the White House calls it. Also eight pounds of small Irish potatoes, six bunches of small carrots, five pounds of small onions, 15 fresh tomatoes, three gallons of beef stock made from marrow bone with a bit of meat on it, salt, pepper, and a bunch of bouquet garniture, made of thyme, garlic and bay leaves.

With the ingredients ready, you start your beef stock two or three days ahead of your beef stew party. At Cherry Hill it has been simmering since Saturday.

Several hours in advance of the dinner hour put in the stew meat and cook it slowly in the beef stock until tender. Cook that mixture until the vegetables are done.

Then draw off two gallons of beef stock and thicken it slightly with beef rue. In this case, the rue is a mixture of about a pint and half of the fatty substance on top of the beef stock, and about a pound of flour. The rue should simmer 10 to 15 minutes before being used to thicken the stew.

After it has simmered, pour it back into the stew. Then let the whole concoction simmer for an hour and a half and serve.

One other guest invited to today's luncheon was Secretary of Agriculture Benson, who told a meeting of the American Meat Institute and the United Fruit and Vegetable Association in New York the other day that the purpose of the Eisenhower beef stew lunch was to promote sales of meat and vegetables.

The President took it easy at the Doud home yesterday after he and Mrs. Eisenhower attended services at the Corona Presbyterian church.

Snyder reported the chief executive "quite happy" about what he termed "tremendously enthusiastic" reaction of GOP leaders to the stepped-up campaign Eisenhower waged in the Far West last week for election of another Republican congress.

Build Their Own Railroad, And A Train For It

SOUTHRIVER N.J. (AP)—Jay Wolfson and his railroad fan buddies didn't wait for Santa Claus to bring them a railroad — they built one themselves.

And it wasn't the living room type, either.

They picked up a 30-year-old 13-ton steam engine for $400 in the junk market, laid out 800 feet of small gauge track constructed a tender from scrap, and converted a log car into a passenger coach of sorts.

Now the 23-year-old dress manufacturer and his associates have a private museum on a three-acre lot.

The road cost them around $1,000 for rolling stock and parts — plus tons of sweat.

Man Arrested On Liquor Count
ABC officers Saturday arrested Lee Hardy, Jr., of Greenville Route 5 after finding 21 half-gallon jars of non-tax-paid whiskey in his house.

Hardy was released without bond to appear at the October 12 term of Pitt County Court.

Better Styling Seen As Textile Industry Cure

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Mergers may help the ailing textile industry. But many executives now think the real cure lies in better styling.

The aim: get the consumer to shell out a larger share of his spending money for clothes and home furnishings.

Or, in the words of one mill executive: "The textile business has been production-minded too long. What we must do now is create new consumer demands for our merchandise."

Lure a woman into changing the draperies and other decor of her home.

Make a man yearn irresistibly for a new suit, instead of trying to get more mileage out of his old so that he can use the money for some other consumer product.

For two years the textile industry has been plagued by overproduction, sticky inventories flab prices, rising costs, foreign competition, and red-link bookkeeping.

This has led to a wave of mergers. In the last year and a half, about 100 mills, hiring 40,000, have been absorbed by larger textile companies.

The main objects: save money through combining sales, overhead and operations; unite sales efforts and cut costs; diversify products and be able to jump quickly from one fabric or fiber to another as styles change.

Textile consumption for all purposes, from dresses to tire cords, now averages 40 pounds per person per year in America. That's up 10 pounds in 30 years. But the industry says it should go to 50 pounds to take up the slack in the present over-capacity to produce.

Styling good merchandising and sales effort to create consumer demand will do it, says James E. Robison, president of Indian Head Mills. He says sales of his firm's branded lines are running 15 per cent ahead of last year in dollar volume and 18 per cent in yardage.

He has a strong ally. The 40 million sewing machines in the nation's homes. And 60 per cent of his firm's output is in piece goods sold over the counter to the home sewing trade.

To meet the trend in amateur home decoration, the firm is bringing out a new line of 54-inch fabrics offering a minimum of seaming for the housewife making slip covers and draperies.

Some larger companies are stressing diversification. Burlington Mills, for instance, for years dealt mainly in rayons. Some time ago it took over Fearless Woolen Mills, and is absorbing Pacific Mills, which turn out cotton and wool fabrics, and Goodall-Sanford, known in the field of blends.

Another example: J. P. Stevens got a bed sheet line.

& Co. acquired Ulca-Mohawk to Back of the merger fever have been major shifts in the textile business since the war.

One is a change from privately held to publicly-owned companies. Another is the shift of the mills to the South. A third is the rash of competing man-made fibers.

Unusual postwar demand sent the companies pell-mell into production. Many kept up the pace even after consumer demand drifted away from restocking soft-goods necessities, to buying appliances and services with their discretionary dollars—that money left after spending the minimum for food, clothing and shelter.

Clothing standards changed too, to informality and casual styles. Accent on outdoor living puts people into jeans and slacks.

Even television, as usual gets some of the blame. People took to staying at home in their old clothes instead of going out for the evening in more formal and stylish attire.

So the industry now is turning too; mergers for cost-cutting at the financial level; styling and advertising to get consumers to spend more discretionary dollars on textile products.
