Street Program Given Approval

Greenville's City Council last night gave approval to a paving and street improvement program for the current fiscal year which was estimated roughly to be in the neighborhood of $50,000.

After reviewing its petitions for paving and street improvements from various sections of the city, the Council approved 16 projects to be included in the present street improvement program.

The biggest bite of the city's fund in this year's street improvement program will go to the Hillsdale section of the city where plans were approved for the curbing and guttering of practically all the streets in that section.

Hillsdale Gets Lion's Share The Council approved the expenditure of city funds totaling $13,394 in Hillsdale, which was estimated as the city's share of the cost of the program in that area.

Glennwood Drive, $1,415; Sunset Ave. from Glennwood to Arlington, including Park drive, $2,840; Sunset Ave. from Arlington to Pine, $1,808.

Other Projects Other projects to be included in the program are: Ione Street, one block from N.C. 11 to May Street, curb, gutter and paving, city's part $1,555.

Estimates approved by the council before the adoption of the program showed the city's part in the street improvement program will cost approximately $30,000.

At its meeting last night, the City Council discussed the various paving petitions and proposed projects for almost two hours before giving its approval to the program.

Winding up a policy speech of an hour and 40 minutes to the U.N. General Assembly, the chief Soviet delegate submitted a long resolution containing the most detailed and complex disarmament program his government has offered in the U.N.'s nine-year history.

1. He accused the United States of participating in germ warfare in a letter to his hometown newspaper.

2. He took part in Communist study groups, circulated peace petitions in the prison camp and made propaganda broadcasts for the Chinese Reds.

3. He was convicted of informing on Pvt. John Megyesi, Farrell Pa., for possessing a camera and for recommending that M. Sgt. Wilburn Watson, Corinth, Miss., be shot.

4. He was acquitted on charges of informing on Sgt. John Fields, 30, of Galax, Va., and Sgt. Bill Clark, 28, of Dallas, Iowa.

5. He was convicted of informing on Pvt. John Megyesi, Farrell Pa., for possessing a camera and for recommending that M. Sgt. Wilburn Watson, Corinth, Miss., be shot.

Vishinsky Talk Cautiously Eyed

By TOM HOGE UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Andrei Vishinsky called last night for a step-by-step program of arms reduction with nuclear weapons to be eliminated at the halfway mark.

At the disarmament meetings in London last spring, Russia rejected the British-French proposal as a device to "legalize the use of atomic and hydrogen weapons under the pretext of using them in defense."

1. Agreement by the nations on total cuts they would make in their arms, troops and military appropriations and the accomplishment of 50 per cent of these reductions within 6 to 12 months.

2. Creation of a temporary international control commission under the Security Council to find out whether the nations are complying with the treaty.

3. The remaining 50 per cent reduction in conventional arms to be made within 6 to 12 months after completion of the first disarmament phase.

4. Manufacture of hydrogen and atomic weapons to cease as soon as the second period for arms reduction begins.

5. During this second period, the nations also would carry out "complete prohibition of atomic hydrogen and other types of weapons of mass destruction... and their complete elimination from the armaments of states."

6. Creation of a permanent international control organ to check and then reopened last Monday. In the four days this week, attendance at the Lakeview Ave. school never rose above one-third of the 1,562 enrollment in the elementary and high school grades.

Some parents said they were afraid of violence while others said they were opposed to integration. Both groups kept their children home.

90-Year-Old Retired N.C. Congressman Found Dead In Bed

Robert L. Doughton Dies

LAUREL SPRINGS, N.C. — Robert L. Doughton, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committees in the Franklin Roosevelt and Truman administrations, was found dead in bed at his home here today. He was 90.

Doughton, who introduced more tax bills than any other man in American history and authored the country's first social security law, retired from politics in 1952 after 42 years in the House.

Always outspoken on political matters, especially in the field of taxation, Doughton once commented on a proposal by Henry Morgenthau, then secretary of the treasury, for an additional 10 billion dollars in taxes with the crisp statement: "You can shear a sheep every year but you can skin him only once."

His philosophy on taxation was "Get the most feathers you can with the fewest squawks from the goose." The veteran representative was like to change a decision, once made.

Doughton, who first was elected to the U.S. House of Representatives in 1910 from North Carolina's Ninth District, served under seven presidents and nine speakers of the House.

He served briefly as the party's national committeeman from North Carolina after retiring. Affectionately known throughout the country as "Muley Bob," Doughton—who grew up in North Carolina's mountain country—said he got the name because, "I don't like to change a decision, once made." Doughton, who first was elected to the U.S. House of Representatives in 1910 from North Carolina's Ninth District, served under seven presidents and nine speakers of the House.

And, added the late Chief Justice Fred Vinson, "Whether the horse be gentle or wild, Bob will ride that horse."

Doughton, who didn't smoke, drink or swear, read his Bible every night while in Congress. Named for Robert E. Lee, he was born at Laurel Springs Nov. 7, 1863, and grew up in impoverished Southern reconstruction days.

He was elected to the State Senate in 1908 and from 1909 he was director of the state prison farm. Straight as a pine tree, the 6 foot 2 inch Doughton explained he knew his native mountain country so well because "I've driven cattle over every inch of it."

Tarheel Leaders Pay Tribute To Robert Doughton

WINSTON-SALEM — The death of former Rep. Bob Doughton was felt across the state today in the hearts of his friends as well as in the political circles of which he was a picturesque and powerful figure for so many years.

Here are a few of the comments from state and local personalities: Rep. Hugh Alexander of Kannapolis, who was elected to fill the Ninth District congressional post vacated by Doughton: "I certainly think Mr. Doughton was one of the greatest statesmen North Carolina has ever had."

He was a conservative, yet had a broad vision. But more particularly, he had his feet on the ground. "I not only respected and admired him but I loved him because of his common touch with all the people."

Supreme Court Justice Carlisle Higgins of Winston-Salem: "I've known Bob Doughton as long as I've known anybody. He has been one of the closest friends I've ever had for 40 years. The public's loss—their personal loss—will be felt for many years to come across this state and the nation."

John C. Whitaker, of Winston-Salem, board chairman of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. "Mr. Doughton had a magnificent and successful career and with all his capabilities he had the simplicity and directness of a child."

Robert M. Hanes of Winston-Salem, president of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Co.: "We've lost one of our greatest North Carolinians and Americans. No man served more patriotically, forcefully, or for the benefit of his people than did Mr. Doughton."

His long, eventful and effective career in the Congress will probably not be matched again. "I will always remember, Rep. Durham (D-NC) said today, "The death of Bob Doughton means our state has lost one of its foremost citizens."

He was one of the greatest men who ever served in the halls of Congress," Durham said. "We'll miss him as a leader and as a staunch member of the Democratic party who believed in its principles and fought hard for them."

Warns America Must Solve Its Ideology Needs MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. — Rep. Charles B. Deane (D-NC) has warned the Moral Rearmament Assembly that America will lose its fight against communism in this country unless it finds "a superior ideology based on absolute moral standards."

"Unless we in America solve our ideological problems we will be sunk," Deane said. He described Moral Rearmament as a "global force challenging the living and thinking of each individual in every country."

John McGovern, member of the British Parliament from Scotland, told the assembly: "If governments of the free world spent 5 per cent of their budgets on Moral Rearmament, it would do more to bring freedom and peace than anything else they could do."

May Finish Vital Pact By Nightfall

By SEYMOUR TOPPING LONDON — The Western Big Three foreign ministers met with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today to draw up a general agreement—perhaps by nightfall—to end the nine-year-old occupation of Western Germany.

A quick grant of political independence to the 18-year-old Adenauer's Bonn government appeared virtually certain as the nine-nation conference on freeing and rearming West Germany neared its end.

The final success of the complicated negotiations designed to enlist West German troops in a defense alliance against communism seemed assured after delegates agreed in principle yesterday on a compromise plan for controlled German rearmament.

Delegates predicted the conference would end successfully tomorrow. The delegates will leave behind groups of experts to work out details of the program and to draft the necessary treaties. These would be signed later and submitted to the various parliaments for ratification.

Under the plan, West Germany and Italy will be admitted into an enlarged Brussels Alliance, formed in 1948 by Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. At the same time, West Germany also would be taken into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Greenville Mart Has 2 Million Pound Sale Day The Greenville Tobacco Market sold over two million pounds for the first time this season on yesterday's sales, W. L. Whedbee, sales supervisor announced today.

The market sold 2,071,520 pounds of tobacco for $1,179,312.61 on yesterday's sales, averaging $56.93. It was the sixth million dollar day for the local market.

Whedbee noted that the floors are full today and said he is expecting two million pounds to be sold on today's sales. Offerings on yesterday's sales consisted predominantly of low grade leaf, the sale supervisor stated.

Junior Tobacco Entries Average $58.57 At Sale

FFA and 4-H youths sold a total of 47,961 pounds of tobacco for $2,818.79 averaging $58.73 on yesterday's sale which climaxed a two-day Junior Tobacco Show and Sale.

The young farmers who had raised tobacco as a club project, entered it in the show Wednesday morning, rises for the winners were awarded at a banquet Wednesday night.

First place winner in the show was Edward Earl Lee of the Stokes 4-H Club. His record was placed in competition with other winners from the Eastern and Border Belts for state awards.

Some 32 boys entered the Show and Sale. It was the largest number of entries in the three years that the event has been held. Assistant County Agent Sam Weeks termed the Show and Sale a success.

President Approves Misconduct Checks DENVER — President Eisenhower has given his blessing to a new investigation program to uncover and prevent any non-criminal misconduct or improprieties on the part of federal employees in broad relation to their jobs.

And the White House says anyone who characterizes the program as a "snooping, Gestapo-like setup" aimed at prying into the strictly private life of government workers is "completely wrong."

Murray Snyder, a presidential press secretary, last night announced Eisenhower's approval of the program—reportedly prompted in part by the Federal Housing Administration scandals—and said its objectives are:

1. To detect and prevent "loose practices by federal employees." 2. To achieve "better administration" in the executive branch.

Snyder's statement confirmed a published report about creation of the program. But he declared the report was "completely wrong" in saying officials of some federal agencies have criticized it as a "snooping, Gestapo-like setup."

He also said there was no basis for a further report that the Civil Service Commission and other agencies charged with investigative work have complained that the new order conflicts with their programs.

The order, Snyder said, was worked out in cooperation with the Commission and other such agencies and supplements rather than conflicts with their investigations.

The press secretary said the program was ordered into effect by Budget Director Rowland Hughes in a letter last June 14 to the heads of about 40 federal departments and agencies.

Life Sentence For Claude Batchelor

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — Cpl. Claude Batchelor, who volunteered for Army service at 16, faces a life in prison, a sentence imposed by a general Court Martial to that found him guilty of collaborating with the enemy and informing on fellow POW's in Korea.

Batchelor has the right of appeal with his case subject to review. The thin pale corporal, embraced his mother and murmured, "I can take it," when the verdict was returned yesterday after the military panel deliberated his fate for 2 hours and 14 minutes.

Through his civilian counsel, Joel Westbrook, Batchelor told the board he had nothing to say concerning his conviction. Minutes later his sentence was assessed.

Batchelor, 22, was a prisoner of the Chinese Communists by the time he was 18 and spent 38 months in their prisoner-of-war stockades. It was in that 38 months of confinement, his fellow prisoners said, that Batchelor took up the Communist line and tattled on other U.S. prisoners.

The Kermil, Tex. youth was one of 23 prisoners who refused repatriation and who one of two prisoners who finally sought United Nations sanctuary. Fear, he testified during his Court Martial, kept most of the other 21 POW's on the Communist side.

He was found guilty on three counts of collaborating with the enemy: 1. He was to have headed a Red-inspired postwar organization of former prisoners. 2. He accused the United States of participating in germ warfare in a letter to his hometown newspaper.

Segregation Forces Triumph In School Dispute

By BILL LOFTUS MILFORD, Del. — Triumphant segregation forces said today the Milford's high school is "the first step toward our ultimate goal of making sure that no Negroes attend white schools in the state."

The pro-segregationists scored a victory yesterday when a new school board in Milford announced it was rescinding an order integrating 11 Negro pupils in the 10th grade of the Lakeview Ave. school "in the best interests of the pupils in the community."

The board's statement did not say whether segregation was permanent, or only effective for the period until the U.S. Supreme Court hands down its decision on how integration shall be carried out.

The president of the Delaware chapter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, Wagner P. Jackson, denounced the action as a "shameful, degrading spectacle of our duty constituted authority ignominiously surrendering to the illegal actions of a lawless mob. He said "we have already begun planning our next legal action." He declined to elaborate.

The victory by the pro-segregationists can be attributed to one thing: boycott by white pupils of the school in which the Negroes were enrolled.

The 11 Negroes enrolled on Sept. 7, 7 for the 10th grade classes. Ten days later a mass meeting at the American Legion hall protested the integration. After a mass meeting Sept. 20 in the school auditorium a petition was presented to the school board calling for the ouster of the 11 Negroes. The board took the petition to the State Board of Education which said the Milford board had a right to enforce integration, but reprimanded it for not consulting with the state group before carrying out its program.

The Milford board resigned. The schools were closed for a week and then reopened last Monday. In the four days this week, attendance at the Lakeview Ave. school never rose above one-third of the 1,562 enrollment in the elementary and high school grades. The boycott spread to several communities.

Some parents said they were afraid of violence while others said they were opposed to integration. Both groups kept their children home. Yesterday, a series of meetings in Milford climaxed conferences by Gov. J. Caleb Boggs. Who approved the local board's action was unknown and Boggs was unavailable for comment.

After the meetings it was announced that two members of the old school board were still serving, since their resignations had not been accepted. The two men then picked two others to fill two vacancies on the four-man board. Then, they, Board President Dean Kimmell and William V. Sipple Jr., resigned and the new board members picked two others to take their place.

Edmund F. Steiner was elected board president. The other members are George A. Robbins, George P. Adams, and David B. Greene.

They then announced their decision to end integration—at least for the time being. Last night, the pro-segregationists held their eighth meeting in as many days and celebrated what was termed "a point won" by Bryant Bowles, president of the National Assn. for the Advancement of White People, the spearhead of the drive against integration.

30 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
October 1, 1924
Waddell Fornes, 15, is today a hero at least as far as the passengers and crew of last night's Norfolk Southern train which he saved from going into a washout just east of this city, are concerned. Young Fornes, the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Fornes, lives a few miles east of the city along the Norfolk Southern railroad.

According to reports the lad was walking along the tracks when the earth of the embankment gave way beneath him. Climbing back to the tracks he made a hasty inspection finding that the waters from streams swollen by the excessive rains had cut through beneath the 30 foot embankment and the embankment had caved and although it appeared solid from above only a shell of earth was supporting the tracks for a distance of many feet. Realizing what the result might be, if the passenger train, then about due, should attempt to cross, the lad started in a run for the city to bring the train off. As Engineer Hunter was about to take his train out from the station an almost breathless boy climbed to the cab of the locomotive with warnings of a washout ahead. The engineer under the direction of the lad, proceeded slowly to the scene of the washout.

Teachers Urged To Rise Above Problems, Crises

Miss Lucille Carroll, national president of the Department of Classroom Teachers of the National Education Association, addressed teachers at a Northeastern District meeting of the group here Wednesday night.

Miss Carroll asserted teachers "must rise above the many problems and crises which are all about us by taking and maintaining an optimistic point of view; the attitude of Chaucer's Clerk who 'gladly would he learn and gladly teach.'"

In discussing problems which Miss Carroll listed: 1. recruitment and retention of qualified teachers; 2. providing adequate facilities for the increasing school population; 3. increasing financial support; 4. development of more satisfactory means by which educators and citizens might work together; and 5. elevating the professional status of teachers.

Dried Flower Arrangements Theme For Garden Club Program

FARMVILLE—Dried Flower arrangements and the method of drying was the theme for the Garden Club program Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. E. Turnage. Mrs. E. F. Gainer was the speaker and displayed several arrangements and exhibited such flowers as tall feathered cockscomb and crested coxcomb in shades of red, pink and orange, hydrangeas, bachelor buttons, rabbit tobacco, spearmint, silver king, sumac, sea oats and many grasses and weeds that grow by the roadside or in fields that dry easily by hanging in the dark for several weeks until dry.

Zinnias, fever few, gladiolus, ageratum, and scarlet sage that she had dried in a mixture of sand and borax, had retained their vivid color. These dried flowers are lovely in the home during the cold winter months when there are no flowers blooming in the yard. They can be as colorful as the fresh flowers, if carefully dried.

Landscaping members own yards this year is encouraged by the State Garden club so Miss Tabitha M. DeVisconti gave a synopsis of the Radio Talk by John H. Harris, "The Tar Heel Gardener" on this subject Saturday morning.

Mrs. Turnage and Miss DeVisconti reported the luncheon meeting held in the home of the District Director, Mrs. J. B. A. Daughtridge, of Rocky Mount, on August 27th for the purpose of outlining the year projects for the District.

Mrs. L. E. Turnage, President presided over the Garden Club meeting and read a beautiful garden poem. She then gave a message from Mrs. Daughtridge stating the District meeting would be held in Rocky Mount, at the Ricks Hotel, October 20th and also an invitation from Mrs. G. Earle Weeks to the Edgecombe Garden Club Flower Show on October 6th. The theme "God's Revelation in Blossoms."

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. J. E. Wilkerson, Mrs. Fred Darden, Mrs. W. H. Laughinghouse of Dunn, served strawberry shortcake topped with heavenly hash.

The home was decorated with roses and fall flowers including Chinese asters, dahlias, and marigolds.

Guests, in addition to Mrs. Laughinghouse sister-in-law and house guest of Mrs. Turnage, were Mrs. Lila Shirley of Farmville and Norfolk and Miss Herring, house guest of Mrs. Fred Darden.

Miss Pauline Cotel was a special guest of the Elmhurst Neighborhood Club which met last night at the home of Mrs. Joe E. Brown on Tremont Drive.

Pauline is an exchange student at East Carolina College, her home being in Lyon, France. She arrived in New York only a month ago.

At the college Pauline is taking American literature, typing, and Spanish, also teaching French. She is very pleased with her new surroundings, making the statement that she feels as if she has been here all her life. She is also pleased with her supervisors, Mr. James Fleming and Mrs. George Perry.

Pauline has previously spent a year in England. She speaks English quite well.

Back home, Pauline has three brothers. As she puts it, she is "next to the last" in her family.

After an informal conversation with Pauline, the members were led in a business meeting by the new president, Mrs. Richard Worsley. Roll was called and minutes read by Mrs. Durwood Harris. Dues were paid and the scrapbook was passed around.

The club welcomed three new members, Mrs. Gretchen Riddick, Mrs. Lanie Frances Wilson, and Mrs. Helen Christopher.

While the members sewed and crocheted, the hostess prepared and served refreshments to the 16 members and her guest.

Sit Down Coffee Honors Miss Wooten On Wednesday

An unusual and attractive sit down coffee was given by Mrs. J. B. James and Mrs. M. P. Hoot at the home of Mrs. Hoot on E. Fifth St., Wednesday morning from 10:30 to 12 o'clock to honor Miss Lillian Wooten, October bride-elect.

Twenty-four of Miss Wooten's personal friends were asked to bring a thimble to help make a surprise for the honoree. Upon their arrival they were invited into the recreation room where they were each given a hemmed tea towel, colored embroidery thread, and needles and asked to embroider their initial on their towel. Miss Wooten enjoyed watching her friends sew for her.

Later in the morning another group of her friends called to view the handiwork and join in the refreshments.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Owen Marshburn and those assisting in the house were Mrs. Travis Hooker, Mrs. Dave Whichard

III and Mrs. E. E. Rawl, Jr. The dining table was covered with an imported pink tulle cloth and centered with a pastel arrangement of lavender, pink and white, tiny asters, roses, mums, lilies, and snapdragons, in a setting of two white satin hearts. Mrs. Ty Wagner poured coffee and Mrs. David Hardee served frosted Coca-Cola, with accompaniments of dainty decorated sandwiches, sausage biscuits, and cookies in various designs. On the side table was an arrangement of white gladioli.

Throughout the house, there were many beautiful arrangements of garden flowers, magnolia leaves, and colorful foliage.

Miss Wooten wore for the occasion a smart black winter cotten. Her corsage was of pale yellow green centered mums given to her by the hostesses. She was presented gifts of silver.

Farmville Church Prepares To Observe Centennial On Nov. 21

FARMVILLE — Farmville Christian Church will observe its centennial Sunday, November 21.

Atlantic Christian College President Travis White will deliver the anniversary address at 11 a.m. Rev. Z. B. T. Cox is pastor of the church.

A basket picnic will be held on the church grounds at 12:30.

At 2:30 Dr. C. C. Ware will give a history of the church and Sam D. Bundy will preside over a session recognizing former pastors of the Farmville church.

A reception will be held at 4:30 and there will be an exhibit of church relics.

The day's activities will conclude with a musical program at 7:30 p.m.

Bundy said the centennial and homecoming programs were consolidated this year. "Members of the church present and past, and friends of the church are invited to attend the centennial exercises at the oldest church in Farmville," he stated.

Chairmen of committees are: Arch Flanagan, steering; Mrs. J.O. Pollard, booklet; Sam D. Bundy, publicity and invitation; Jesse Moyer, dinner arrangements; Mrs. Arch Flanagan, music; B. S. Smith, Jr., exhibit, and Mrs. Lawrence Moyer, entertainment committee.

Former pastors are: Rev. Russell S. Tandy, Lexington, Ky.; Rev. Dunbar C. Gordon, Silver Springs, Md.; Rev. Olin E. Cox, Griffin, Ga.; Rev. C. Manly Morton, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; Rev. James T. Moore, Durham, N. C.; Rev. Davis W. Arnold, Washington, N. C.; Dr. H. S. Hilley, Black Mountain.

Drunks Crowded City Hall Lawn

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Police had a special directive today: keep the City Hall lawn free of drunks.

Every Monday morning of late there have been so many men "sleeping it off" that city gardeners have been unable to mow the lawn. Moreover, says Councilman Gordon Hahn, gardeners have had to remove a truckload of empty bottles each week.

The City Council yesterday adopted Hahn's anti-intoxicate resolution and forwarded it to Police Chief William H. Parker.

Final Plans Shaping Up For Homecoming

Final plans for Homecoming Day for Alumni at East Carolina College are now being made by a committee of students, alumni, and faculty members of the college.

The annual celebration in honor of former students at the college is expected to be one of the largest and most colorful ever to be staged on the campus, according to James W. Butler, alumni secretary and chairman of the Homecoming Day committee. A record attendance is anticipated, Mr. Butler said this week in announcing the schedule of events for the day.

Louis Clark, Greenville senior, heads the Homecoming Day committee of the Student Government Association. He is working with Mr. Butler and Wade H. Cooper of Raleigh, president of the Student Government, to keep plans coordinated.

Activities of the day, announced by Mr. Butler, include a parade at 10:30 in the morning; a luncheon in the North Dining Hall at 12:15 p.m.; an open house for alumni in the Wright Student Union during the early afternoon; and a football game between the East Carolina Pirates and the Western Carolina Cata-mounts, with the kick-off at 2:30.

Several high school bands will participate in the parade and in other events of the day. These units will be conducted by directors who are alumni of East Carolina.

A dinner for members of the Veterans Club is set for 8:30 p.m., and other campus organizations are planning post-game social affairs.

Two dances are scheduled for homecoming weekend. The Pre-Homecoming concert-dance, with music by Shep Fields and His Rippling Rhythm Orchestra, Friday, October 15, and the annual Homecoming Hop, October 16, with the Collegians of East Carolina providing the music, will be staged in the Wright building.

President James L. Whitfield of the college Alumni Association will preside at a meeting of the Alumni Council Saturday morning at 9:30 and at the luncheon.

Took A Year To Get Right Man

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—It took him a year to sort twins but Patrolman Raymond J. Bagley finally saw the right one fined for a traffic offense.

Bagley told District Court Judge Luigi Depasquale yesterday that he left word about 20 times at the home of John Harrison, 21, of two speeding charges.

Each time, Bagley related, he was told he had the wrong twin. "Finally, I heard the other twin was in the service," Bagley said, "so I knew the one I wanted was left."

John Harrison pleaded guilty. He was fined $15 and costs.

Farewell Token, Was Memorable

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A sentimental brunette gave Brazilian sailors a send-off they won't soon forget. Nor she either.

As the training vessel Almirante Saldanha was about to sail yesterday, Lucille Lupita, ran to the dockside to toss a flower to her boy friend on board.

She lost her balance and fell into the water.

Four sailors dived in for the rescue. The boy friend, resoundingly, was among them.

Miss Lupita was treated by the ship's doctor and put ashore. Then the Brazilians put out to sea.

A total of 22,731 veterans are taking on-farm training compared with 7,000 a year ago.

Police Willing To Be Fair About It

BRISTOL, Conn. (AP)—Police Lt. Edward O'Connor said a man walked into headquarters yesterday and demanded a parking ticket.

O'Connor, who declined to identify the motorist quoted him thus: "I saw a woman tagged for overtime parking. I was in the same location and was parked overtime but I got no ticket. How come? It just isn't fair."

O'Connor handed him a ticket and the man paid the fine.

Windstorm Kills Three-Year-Old

Canton, Ohio (AP)—A powerful windstorm smashed into a northeastern Ohio farmhouse last night, killing a 3-year-old girl and injuring her mother, father and infant brother.

The storm-witnesses called it a tornado—leveled every building on the farm of James Smiley near Minerva, Ohio, after his family had gone to bed. Carrie Smiley was killed.

City hospital in Alliance said Smiley, 34, was in fair condition and his wife, Alice, 30 and their 14-month-old son, James Allen, were in "fairly good" shape.

The storm toppled homes, swept off roofs, uprooted trees and tore down power lines in the area and then blew itself out in Pennsylvania.

No damage estimates were available.

Sugar is the most abundant pure chemical compound that man takes from nature.

Girl Scout Leaders Will Finish Training Monday

The current training course for Girl Scout leaders will be completed with an outdoor day at Camp Hardee Monday. Girl Scout Director Mrs. J. Knott Proctor has announced.

Ten hours of the 16-hour training course have been completed, with the remainder of the program to be conducted at the outdoor day next week.

Mrs. Proctor is conducting the course with the assistance of Mrs. A. A. Hines.

The Director said the outdoor day will include such activities as demonstrations with the jack-knife, axe and hatchet, and a cook-out. At this cook-out the Girl Scout leaders will learn to make fires, to cook outdoors and to use the Kaper Chart, a chart of completed outlining the duties of the various troop members.

The group will leave for the camp at 10 a.m. and return at 3:30 p.m.

Mrs. Proctor declared, "We have been very pleased with the leader response, interest and enthusiasm shown in the training program."

She reported the average attendance at the meetings at 23.

Another similar training course will begin in Farmville next Thursday, the Director revealed.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

In Police Court Wednesday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee disposed of 11 cases, six of them involving violations of motor vehicle and traffic laws.

Willie Lee Little, Negro, carrying a concealed weapon, (pistol), eight months on the roads, sentence to be suspended on payment of court costs. The pistol was ordered confiscated and sold.

Willie Lee Little, Negro, was found guilty of assaulting with a deadly weapon (piece of pipe), on Jasper Kinney. The court gave him six months on the roads to be served with the above sentence for carrying a concealed weapon. The sentence is to be suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted, and $40 to Dr. Herbert Hadley, and on condition that he remain of good behavior for two years.

The court found David Earl Fleming, Negro, not guilty of assaulting Jasper Kinney, negro, with a deadly weapon (piece of pipe).

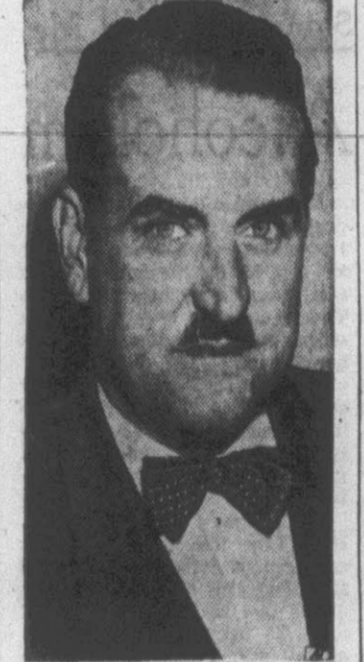

Annie B. Foreman, Negro, was found not guilty of being drunk and disorderly.

Alex Darden, Negro, (case tried September 24), non-support, six months on the roads, suspended on payment of $12 for support of his family each week, starting at once. The judgment provides that weekly payments of $8 are to be made for any and all complete week or weeks during which either of the children shall not be in care and custody of the mother. He also is to pay a $30 medical bill.

Leroy Tatum, Negro, was found not guilty of following too closely. The court taxed him with court costs for failure to keep proper lookout.

George A. Yelverton, Negro, paid $5 for not stopping at a stop sign. The case in which Joseph E. Beam was charged with careless and reckless driving was not pressed.

Jesse J. Clemmons, Negro, careless and reckless driving, three months on the roads, sentence suspended on payment of costs and $5 to Wilbur Smith for property damage. For hit and run driving, the court gave Clemmons six months on the roads (consecutive), sentence suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted. He is not to operate a motor vehicle for three months.

Greedy Robbers Wanted A Check

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Leonard Allen has signed a complaint charging two Sunnyslope men took $500 from him at gunpoint last Monday—then tried to make him write a check for more.

Allen alleges the men demanded $800 at gunpoint. When he had only $500, they drove him home to get a blank check. But he jumped out of the car and escaped.

Charged with robbery are Art Magee, 24, and Joshua Thompson, 22.

The Prank Could Cause A Tragedy

Fire trucks racing through the city streets in answer to an alarm may be exciting things. They are likewise dangerous. Unless measures can be taken to end the wave of false fire alarms which have plagued the Greenville fire department for the past week, the law of averages will turn one of those false alarms into tragedy.

Individuals who are responsible for the four false alarms which the local fire department has answered during the past week probably are very smug about the whole situation. They doubtless have taken delight in their prank.

Another Propaganda Move By The Russians

Russia's new proposal for disarmament among the major powers of the world can be considered nothing more than another propaganda stunt rigged by the Kremlin. Usually there is a momentary flicker of hope around the world when Russia comes up with one of her disarmament proposals, but the hopes quickly fade when it becomes apparent the Kremlin has no genuine interest in cutting back its own armament program.

We have seen a number of these Russian proposals in the United Nations in recent years. Some have reached the stages of negotiations. Others have gotten no farther than the original proposal. In every case it has become apparent the Russians had no intention of cooperating with the disarmament program except under its own terms... terms which would have provided for supervision of the disarmament of other nations and left Russia without supervision.

The Reds have been able to use these proposals in their propaganda against the West, and they doubtless will use this latest proposal for propaganda purposes.

By now, however, we believe the world has realized the Kremlin proposals are only efforts to make the Reds appear as lambs rather than wolves. We do not believe many are fooled by hollow Kremlin disarmament proposals.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
SINGLE OR DOUBLE?

The other day I went into a store to buy some windowpanes. When I gave the man the measurement for the smaller pane, he asked "Single or double?" and explained that panes are made in two thicknesses, the thicker being stronger and more expensive. Then I ordered another pane, much larger, and inquired what the difference in price between single and double was in that size.

"Oh, they make big panes like that only in double," he said. "Single thickness will do for little ones, but it takes double to stand up to the strain of a big pane."

As I left the shop, I thought to myself that people, as well as glass, might be divided into single and double groups. For the unimportant matters, the little panes of life, single-thickness people will do. But when the test comes, when the important crisis must be met, when there is real work to do, then you need the double—the kind that will stand the strain.

Just as double-thickness glass is more expensive, the kind of living that gives this extra strength costs more. But, as the man in the hardware store assured me, it's worth the difference.

National Whirligig

Pulling Labor Out Of Politics

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Three of organized labor's smartest tacticians have formed a massive movement to disengage the nation's unions from future embroilment in partisan politics and permanent commitments to either major party. That is the explanation for recent strange maneuverings in this field, and the outcome may change the face of American politics.

The trio announced their strategy, although in veiled terms, during the recent conventions of two key bodies, the American Federation of Labor and the United Steel Workers of America. The targets for their blasts against "political" unions were George L. Meany, AFL president, and Walter Reuther, head of the CIO.

HOSTILITY TO ADMINISTRATION—Both men have shown bitter hostility toward the Eisenhower Administration, and proclaimed their desire for an avowed alliance with the Democrats, such as their predecessors—the late William Green and Philip Murray—had during the Roosevelt-Truman regime. They refuse to trust Ike's promise that he will treat labor with fairness untinted by favoritism.

The opponents of this politically one-sided program are redoubtable and skillful leaders. They are John L. Lewis, boss of the Independent United Mine Workers; David J. McDonald, president of the Steel Workers' Union (CIO); and Dave Beck, who heads the AFL's Teamsters' Union.

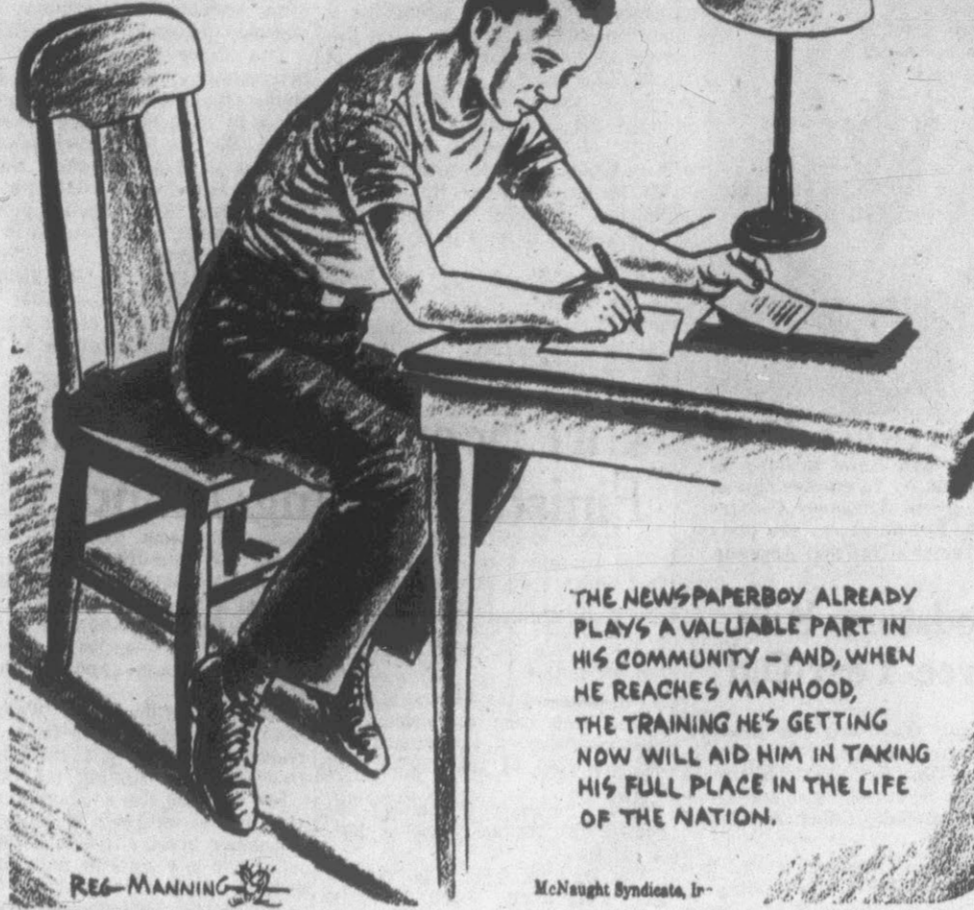

FORMIDABLE OPPOSITION—None of the three has any affection or admiration for Messrs. Reuther and Meany, regarding the first as too radical and the second as too conservative. Preceding the recent conventions, they held many unreported conferences, and it was thought that they planned to weaken the older organizations by organizing a separate and third union of their own.

A combination of coal miners, steel workers and Beck's vehicular transportation group would obviously make a formidable opposition. No AFL or CIO strike could succeed without their wholehearted cooperation.

Somebody Told Me

Alcoholism And James Street

James Street is dead. The news is old by now, but Street is a man I will always remember. And it will not be for his famous books that I remember him. Although The Gauntlet is one of the best sellers of all time, I will remember Street as an alcoholic.

In March, 1949, my last quarter at the University of North Carolina, James Street was visiting a speech class, of which I was a member. His subject was alcoholism.

At the time I had already conceived the idea of writing this column, but I had not consulted the Whichards about it. In spite of the fact that I knew it might never be printed, I took notes a mile-a-minute about what Street had to say.

If only I had a recording of that speech! Street simply told the story of his life in respect to his association with drinking. "I used to wake up in a hotel room surrounded by strange looking people. Some I had told I was Jerome Kern and they believed it. Maybe the parents of a boy I had bought a bicycle for were there."

Street was so overtaken by drink that he couldn't hold a job very long. He drifted from one newspaper to another, between drinking binges that would land him in hospitals. He told his wife one time that he was going to kill himself by jumping into the Mississippi River. "She told me to go ahead and jump, so I had to. But I sure as hell swam out fast."

He found the answer, after many hospitals had failed, in Alcoholics Anonymous. This is an organization, I told myself, that I want to know more about. After class we talked more, then Street invited me to his house for more details.

Street had the leavings of many hobbies he tried to get his mind off drinking. His house was not too spectacular on the outside, but terrific on the inside.

Back in Greenville, I started the found out that there were Greenville members. However, there was no organization in town. Greenville members were going to New Bern for meetings. They invited me to attend, giving me more ammunition for writing.

The interest in AA grew and now the group is well organized in Greenville. If the Reflector publicity helped any, it was Street's inspiration that led to it. After looking the problem, making himself famous as an author, Street died this week at the age of 52 of a heart attack. I, for one, will never forget him.

And I thank you.
JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

THE RISE OF EAST CAROLINA COLLEGE (Rocky Mount Telegram)

It is a matter of great significance and interest to this section of the State that East Carolina College at Greenville has surpassed Woman's College at Greensboro in enrollment and thus has become the third largest university in the state-supported university and college system.

So steadily and surely has been East Carolina's growth that many people are now amazed to discover that the little college once known as "Ee-see-tee-see" is now a major seat of higher learning.

The rise of this institution—the only major college in this area of the State—is a source of pride as well as for all of us.

Under the capable administration of President J.D. Mesaick, the college has been literally booming. In fact, it has mushroomed so swiftly that it is a principal worry among state budget authorities. The Greenville campus is jammed with buildings—many of them fairly new and some 2,500 students are crowded in dormitories and rooming houses. More than 250 students had to be turned away this fall because of crowded conditions. With college student enrollment again on the upswing, demand for college facilities will increase, not decrease. North Carolina has an obligation to meet this demand squarely at Greenville as well as elsewhere.

The tremendous growth of East Carolina College and other institutions outside the Consolidated University system raises the question about the need for a new approach to consolidated higher education in this state. Institutions outside the Greater University system should not be treated as orphans any longer. They are entitled to their fair share of the tax dollar. They are entitled to greater consideration at Raleigh than they have received in the past.

If, as experts predict, the state's college population will almost double in the next fifteen years, steps need to be taken now to meet anticipated needs. The University at Chapel Hill and State College at Raleigh can be expanded only so far without losing their integrity and becoming diploma mills. Therefore, these institutions also have a stake in seeing that colleges like East Carolina get their just share of State support in order to share the burden.

Judge Harris' Retirement Set Off A Lot Of Activity

By LYNN NISBET

HARRIS — Retirement of Judge W.C. Harris as resident judge of the seventh judicial district, embracing Franklin and Wake counties, imposes upon the Democratic committee of that district responsibility for nominating a successor. It also means that the State board of elections must provide special ballots for the statewide elections on November 2, and the counties must furnish extra boxes for these ballots. The State will have printed some two million ballots at a cost of around $5,000 and the county expense will probably aggregate $1,000 to $1,500.

Most active candidates for the nomination are William Y. Bickett, retiring solicitor of the district, and William T. Hatch, who served four years as Special Judge by appointment of Governor Scott. Since only six people are responsible for selecting the nominee, speculation is rife as to which will win—or if a dark horse may be run in to break a deadlock. Present odds favor Bickett.

Judge Harris' retirement notice came barely in time to get under the wire for an elected successor rather than an appointment by the Governor. If the effective date had been later than mid-night Saturday the 30-day clause put into the constitution two years ago would have put responsibility for a two-year appointment upon Governor Umstead.

PROCEDURE — Procedure is less certain as to how the Democrats of Johnston county can get the name of a candidate for sheriff on the ballot. That depends largely upon the speed with which Judge Paul Frizelle renders decision in a pending case, and whether that decision is appealed to the Supreme Court. Opinion prevails that it will be appealed and that time may run out before the courts can render final decision in the matter.

SHERIFF — The situation involving the Johnston county sheriff is of purely local county concern in direct effect, but its implications are vitally important to the whole state. The procedure which has kept certification of results of the May primary in the courts for nearly two months after two months of battling it around between county and state boards of elections, and may keep it in court until too late to get a Democratic candidate on the November election ballot, might have been followed with respect to any State elective office.

Time and space do not permit detailed discussion of names and issues. Incumbent Sheriff B.A. Henry was opposed in the primary by ex-Sheriff C.L. Denning, who ran 52 votes behind on county certified votes. Denning called for a recount and the State board of elections was called upon to intervene. The case got into the courts. Just who did what and which fact-ion appealed this or that ruling is not so important as the basic fact that with date of the election rapidly approaching there is definite prospect that the Democrats may not get out of court in time to certify a candidate, and Johnston county may come up with a Republican sheriff next year.

Because of involvement of the State board of elections the court action was initiated in Wake county. There have been several hearings in chambers and in open court by Judge Paul Frizelle, regular judge for the seventh district for the current period, since early August. Judge Frizelle has promised further consideration next Monday. If he renders his decision then, chances are there will be an appeal to the Supreme Court and only unusual speeding up of hearing out of time will permit Supreme Court decision before November 2.

This all is happening in the case of a one county local race. But under the statutes it might well happen with respect to nominees for Governor or United States Senator or any other statewide office.

REVIEW — The whole business arose from the uncertain application of a 1953 legislative act providing judicial review of actions of administrative boards and commissions. The act which is in General Statutes 1943-306 and following sections, specifically excepts boards and commissions of judicial status. The State Board of Elections is a quasi-judicial body, which not only has specified administrative functions, but also has to work against a definite time-table because of constitutional and statutory election dates.

The statutes require the State board of elections and county boards to provide ballots for elections the dates of which are fixed. But when decisions of the elections board are appealed to the courts, the board finds itself in the situation of being required by law to do something which the courts say must not be done. Fortunately the certification of

Selling's Big Role

By ELMER ROESSNER
If you enter a place of business and the salesperson... doesn't greet you without delay, fails to maintain a cheerful attitude, doesn't try to help you sincerely, can't explain the benefits and advantages of the product you are interested in, fails to ask you to buy at some point, or neglects to suggest related merchandise... then that salesperson is cheating you as well as the employer. He is cheating you because failure to make as many sales as possible slows the economic pace. And any slowing will eventually reduce your standard of living, whether your income comes from labor, dividends, rent, interest or profits.

The total productive capacity of the United States has doubled since 1939; the production capacity for consumer goods has increased an estimated 25 per cent since 1947. Agricultural production capacity, under the forced draft of price supports, has also increased mightily.

If consumers will buy and use the total capacity of this vast "plant" and then demand a little more, it will keep running full time, continue its expansion and ever tend to lift the standard of living. But if people buy less than the plant can produce, then workers will be laid off, profits will decline and the standard of living will sink.

In times of shortages, people will fight to buy.

In times of plenty, people will buy only if they are sold.

And the critical responsibility rests with the salesperson—the one who can bridge that last three feet between product and customer.

The salesperson does not have the entire responsibility. Sharing it are the manufacturer and the merchants. Their duties to the national economy, as well as to themselves and their stockholders, include the constant improvement of products, the maintenance of adequate forces for selling, the setting of attractive prices and vigorous advertising of their wares.

But almost all they do will be in vain if the person at the point of sale does a mental drop-dead.

And, conversely, the men and women constituting the sales forces of the nation have it in their power to carry us on to greater prosperity than we have ever known.

CITY FATHERS LIKE IDEA OF TAXING U.S. PROPERTY
Many city fathers are showing interesting proposal of the National Association of Real Estate Boards that Congress permit local governments to levy property taxes on Federal property.

The Federal Government, under existing laws, is exempt from all taxes. In certain instances, however, it makes payments to political subdivisions in lieu of taxes, the payments being in compensation for fire protection, water, school and other services.

When the Federal Government buys a tract of land or other property, the property is thereupon removed from local tax rolls and this therefore increases the burden other taxpayers must bear. In many cases a governmental "invasion" increases policing, welfare and other civic costs beyond any Federal contribution.

It is probable that NAREB is powerful enough to obtain the introduction of legislation on this point; however, it is doubtful that Congress will pass it without a more vigorous demand. CARPET OUTPUT RUNNING QUARTER UNDER LAST YEAR
Carpet production in July was 25 per cent below the same 1953 month, the Carpet Institute reports. Production for the first seven months of the year was 31,434,000 yards, 24 per cent under the output in the same period last year.

HOUSING STARTS UP BUT LUMBER SALES LAG
While the number of housing starts is running well ahead of the last two years, lumber sales do not appear to be rising proportionately.

One explanation is tendered by Julius Stulman, one of the nation's largest wholesalers. It's the lag between the start and carpenter work, he says. A builder may "start" several hundred houses in a new development, he explained, but will order lumber for only a tenth of the houses at once, and peak purchases may not come until next year.

We're glad the World Series happens only once a year—but what would we do without it? . . . And speaking of sports, we ordered a trial subscription of the new magazine Sports Illustrated, put out by the Time-Life outfit, and are glad we did—it's really a good job, the best sports magazine by far we have ever seen, and apparently it is going over successfully. Here's a sample of the contents, from the most recent—September 27—edition:

cently from the New York Public Library. . . Reprinted last year, it's called "Tobacco in Song and Story," by John Bain, Jr., former owner and publisher of the trade journal Tobacco Leaf, and author of other books about The Leaf. . . Thinking about women smoking pipes, we came across a wonderful poem by John Stanley Gregson, which, for the benefit of all present tobacco growers and smokers, especially female, we are taking the liberty of reprinting in full:

Virginia Tobacco
Two maiden games of sixty-two
Together long had dwelt:
Neither, alas! of love so true. . .
The bitter pang had felt.
By age comes on, they say,
space, To warn us of our death,
And wrinkles mar the fairest face—
At last it stops our breath.

One of these games, tormented sore
With that curst pang, tooth-ache,
Was at a loss for such a bore
What remedy to take.
"I've heard," thought she, "this ill to cure, A pipe is good, they say."
Well, then, tobacco I'll endure
And smoke the pain away."
The pipe was lit, the tooth soon well,
And she retired to rest,
When then the other ancient belle
Her spinster maid addressed,
"Let me request a favor, pray"—
"I'll do it if I can!"
"Oh! well, then, love, smoke every day—
YOUR SMELL SO LIKE A MAN!"

And if the women still are not convinced, here's another little item about smoking, also from "Tobacco in Song and Story," about Ages attained by Great Smokers: "In 1886, there died at Wellbury, North Riding, Jane Garbut, aged 110; she retained her faculties and enjoyed her pipe to the last. She had smoked 'very nigh' a hundred years." That's it, girls—and who'll have the first pipeful?

Getting around to the books, at last, here are some new titles coming out soon that the publishers have announced as extra special: "The Big Season," a novel by Wright Morris; "The Deep Sleep" and other books, who is considered by some critics one of the outstanding young American writers of fiction. "The View from Pompey's Head," by Hamilton Basso, will come out late in October and is the November selection of the Literary Guild. It's about a New York lawyer who returns to his home town in the South and discovers lots of new things about himself as well as Southerners. . .

And just out: If you're interested in somebody really rich, "The Memoirs of Aga Khan: World Enough and Time," by his highness himself, . . . and concerning foreign affairs, by George F. Kennan, veteran diplomat and former ambassador to the Soviet Union, "Realities of American Foreign Policy," just issued by the Princeton University Press—a little heavy, but solid. . . Concerning foreign policy also, and some of his own personal ideas about it, is Adlai Stevenson's "Call to Greatness," containing three major speeches the former presidential nominee gave at Harvard last March—we've been reading them with great enjoyment, but wonder whether his audience at Harvard understood all of what he had to say.

Two minds—or editors—with but a single thought: Lead article in the October Harper's Magazine is "The Cast of J. Robert Oppenheimer," by Joseph and Stewart Alsop. . . Lead article in the October Atlantic Monthly is "The Oppenheimer Case," by Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr. . . We'll let you know who's right after we've read them both.

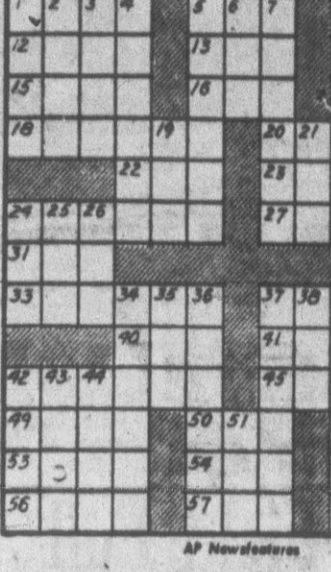

We've been reading—actually—some books that aren't brand new but still worth the effort: "The Reason Why," by Cecil Woodham-Smith (a woman), an excellent account of the forces and events leading up to the fatal Charge of the Light Brigade in the Crimean War that Tennyson wrote his famous poem about—solid history, but written so well that it reads like a

Proclamation

WHEREAS opportunities for suitable and gainful employment are the hope and ambition of all workers, and the American system of free choice of occupations, consistent with each worker's abilities and interests, is best suited to provide such opportunities; and WHEREAS a great many physically handicapped workers presently employed have proven their competence when they have been rehabilitated or otherwise properly prepared for suitable jobs; and WHEREAS there is a continuing need for greater understanding of effective methods for the placement of physically handicapped workers in suitable occupations, and community participation in educational and promotional programs can best accomplish this purpose; and

WHEREAS the Congress, by a joint resolution approved August 11, 1945 (59 Stat. 530), designated the first week in October of each year as National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week, and requested the President to issue a proclamation calling public attention to the need for a nationwide support of and interest in the employment of otherwise qualified but physically handicapped men and women.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, W. L. WHEEBEE, Mayor of the City of Greenville, do hereby call upon the people of our City to observe the week beginning October 3, 1954, as National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week, and to cooperate with the State Committee of Employment of the Physically Handicapped in carrying out the purpose of the aforementioned joint resolution of Congress.

I also request other public officials, leaders of industry and labor, and members of religious, civic, veterans', agricultural, women's, handicapped persons', and fraternal organizations and all other groups and individuals to take part in the observance of the designated week, in order to enlist the widest possible support of programs designed to increase opportunities in employment for the Physically Handicapped.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand seal to be affixed.

Indians Today Know They Are 'Poor Security Risk'

Once Proud AL Champs Down To Least Vaunted Of Big Three Pitching Stars; Giants Glowing With Confidence

By GAYLE TALBOT
CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians were a poor security risk today, and they knew it. The special train which rolled through the night to bring manager Al Lopez's dejected troops back to the home folks and the third game of the World Series was a very unhappy equipage.

Not only were the once-proud American League champions down 2-0 in games to the surprising Giants, but they were down as well to the third and least vaunted member of their "Big Three" pitching punch Mike Garcia. They knew they were in bad trouble, and could only hope they were about to come out of the hitting slump which had left 26 of their number stranded on the Polo Grounds bases the last two futile days.

As for Leo Durocher's Giants, they came out of yesterday's convincing 3-1 victory over Early Wynn dead certain they had at least an even chance of closing it out by tomorrow night.

Their second pitcher, young Johnny Antonelli, had throated the Tribe in the pinches after seeing his first pitch knocked clear out of first by Al Smith, Cleveland's left-fielder. Today they were going with Rican Gomez, the sad-eyed Puerto Rican screwballer who won 17 games in his sophomore season. His teammates firmly believe he would tie the Indians in knots.

Seldom, surely, has a World Series seen such an abrupt and early change in fortunes. It is difficult to realize that the Cleveland club, winner of 111 games, opened the series only two days ago as nearly 2-1 favorites. The failure of Lopez's sluggers to hit with men on base has been incredible.

Almost equally incredible had been the success of Durocher's men in that respect. They solved Wynn, the 23-game winner, for only four hits in the second game—half as many as the Tribe socked off Antonelli. Yet only one of them was wasted, and only three Giants died on the sacks.

Antonelli pitched a gritty game. The young left-hander could have glanced at the Giants' bullpen at most any time during the afternoon and see at least one of his hill mates getting ready. But at the end the bonus kid from Rochester, N.Y., still was master of every situation.

Dusty Rhodes, the pinch-hitter extraordinary who broke up the opener with his dramatic 10th inning homerun again stuck the knife deep into the visitors.

It was Rhodes who knocked his fellow Alabaman, Willie Mays, across with the tying run in the fifth and put the frosting on the victory with a towering smash against the right field facade in the seventh. He's now within one of the series record for pinch hits.

As it happened, Antonelli had the privilege of knocking in the winning run as well as blinding the Indians with his fast ball and sweeping curves every time they threatened. Johnny's batting effort was only a force-out grounder to second-base in the big fifth, but it was sufficient to bring Hank Thompson dashing home from third with the big run the Tribe never got back.

There is little doubt the Indians are being seriously handicapped by the manifold injuries of their star third-baseman, Al Rosen. So far Al has contributed nothing much to his team's attack, and he is so stove up in one leg that his presence on the bases is more of a hindrance than help.

But he has not been the only one to fall Lopez. Bobby Avila, the American League's leading hitter, had punched only two singles and left two men stranded with third-out yesterday. Larry Doby, the team's left-handed power, struck out three times in the second game, the third time with two aboard and none out in the ninth. Shortstop George Strickland left five runners his first two times at bat.

It could be said with equal justice that Willie Mays also had been a batting bust. The Giants' biggest gun hadn't delivered anything resembling a hit. But again yesterday Willie played an important part in the triumph by drawing a lead-off walk in the fifth—the first man to reach first off Wynn—and scoring the tying run on Rhodes' drooping single to center.

Junior Phantoms Lose By 13-6

The Greenville High School Junior Varsity football team lost to the Washington JV's by a score of 13-6 yesterday afternoon.

Washington scored its first touchdown in the first quarter when Jack Warren went over from the four yard line. The extra point was kicked by Holly Clayton. The Washington JV's second touchdown came in the third period when Earl Daniels made a 60 yard run through the middle.

Greenville only score came in the fourth quarter when Charles Smith made a 75 yard touchdown run on a double reverse play.

Standouts on defense for Greenville were Roy Martin, Willis Stanhill, Sam Nixon, Kelly Barnhill. Outstanding offensive players were Charles Smith and John Arnold.

It was the second loss for the Greenville JV's who were defeated by Kinston last week 7-0.

Next week the team journeys to Elizabeth City for a game Thursday afternoon.

The team is coached by Boley Farley and Fred Soles.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—The Army sent advance parties into Ann Arbor today. But their motive was embarrassing.

The regular mascot, as usual in away games, couldn't make the traveling team.

Aggressive Buccaneer Linemen

Tackle George Tucker (no. 52) and guard Donald Burton (no. 21) will be two of the outstanding ECC linemen to start against Catawba Saturday. Burton has been a letterman for the past three years and reputed to be the hardest hitting lineman for size in the state. Tucker, another aggressive player was nominated for AP "Lineman of the Week" in his sophomore year for performance against Elon.

Catawba Loaded With Grid Talent To Pit Against Bucs

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Writer
Coach Jack Boone's Bucs will have to stop Catawba backs Harold Carter and Dick Smith and power their own defense over linemen Terrell Hall and Johnny Powell if they're going to meet with the impending course of events successfully tomorrow night.

School and won handily 26-0. Smith was the outstanding performer in the opener, scoring two touchdowns. In their next two outings, the Indians didn't fair so well. Wofford College whacked them across the face with 33-19 in the first two weeks ago. The South Carolinians, though, have one of their best clubs in years. Newberry squeezed past Catawba last week 13-8 in rugged battle played in Salisbury.

Just two years ago the two aspirant head coaches were cohorts at the Pirates' helm. Boone and Biggers were playing bombs together for opposition such as Catawba. Both mentors should know the other's system like the palm of his hand. From this angle alone, the contest tomorrow night should prove very interesting. Who's the best strategist?

For the third weekend in a row, the Pirates won't be at top strength. They'll be playing minus the services of Dick Cherry, Paul Gay, David Lee, Boyd Webb, and Claude King.

Coach Boone announced yesterday that he'll start the same team he fielded against Lenoir Rhyne last week. Larry Rhodes and J. D. Bradford will go at the flanks. Behind them, Coach Boone will count on Ray Pennington and Bill Helms. He cited the latter two for their impressive performances in spelling the regulars against the Bears. Co-Captain Willie Holland and aggressive George Tucker will line-up at tackles. Both were standouts on defense last week. Don Burton and George Rice will anchor the guard positions. Burton played the best game of his career against the Bears. Rice has proved himself a capable man on both defense and offense. Little All-American candidate Louis Hallow will start at the pivot, backed up by Waverly Chesson and Gaither Cline.

Milton Collier will get the nod at quarterback. He'll be starting his second game as number 1 signal-caller. Gary Mattocks has looked impressive in practice, and will see action at the QB post also. Co-Captain Tippy Hayes and Emo Boado fortify the halves. Hayes scooted 65 yards for a tally in the Norfolk game and Boado ripped off 57 to set up the Bucs' only TD against Lenoir Rhyne. They constitute a swift and dangerous two-some. Harold O'Kelly will again start at fullback. The High Point junior was the workhorse in the LR win, carrying 12 times for 57

HAROLD CARTER

Carter, as many of the local supporters know, is a dapper run-kick-pass master of few equals when he's physically fit. He was hurt the latter part of the 1952 season and was unable to play much last fall. The Lexington dandy made the North State All-Conference team two years ago. Greenville folks still remember his great one-man exhibition of football that year as he personally battled the Pirates to a 7-7 draw. In the Indians' first three games, standout play has indicated he is fully recovered.

Smith is a home-grown product. He played high school ball at Salisbury's Boyden High. His cohort in the backfield was one Jerry Barger, rated by many the best quarterback in Duke history. Smith enjoyed his best year at fullback in 1953. He was the team's leading ground-gainer and selected All-Conference. He ripped East Carolina's line to shreds in the Pirates' bare 13-7 win in Salisbury last year. He is a quick starter and a tough man to halt when a few yards are needed.

Hall is a senior All-State candidate. He has twice been named to the All-Conference team. He is an excellent receiver and rugged tackler. He is rated one of the best terminals ever to run with a Catawba eleven. Biggers calls Guard Johnny Powell the "finest lineman I've ever coached." The 210-pound senior was a repeater on the All-Conference squad last season. He is being groomed for All-State and Little All-American honors this fall.

Biggers' team opened their season against Newport News Apprentice

Maryland Meets UCLAs Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Six-ranked Maryland takes on fourth-ranked UCLA in Los Angeles tonight in the first game of a big weekend for Atlantic Coast Conference football teams.

A crowd of 70,000 is expected to watch Coach Jim Tatum's Terrapins in a major test along the road to possibly recapturing the top national rating they earned last season before losing to Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl. UCLA is the class of the West Coast so far and is regarded as almost certain Rose Bowl material.

The rest of the ACC teams swing into action tomorrow lined up like this: Virginia Tech at Clemson, North Carolina State at Wake Forest, Tennessee at Duke, North Carolina at Tulane, West Virginia at South Carolina and George Washington at Virginia.

Tennessee scheduled a light work out in Duke Stadium today after a heavy rain chopped short their last home practice. The Vols' injured list was topped by Jimmy Wade, star senior tailback, who has a sprained knee. Duke planned to move into the stadium after the Vols finished for their last session before resuming one of the South's top rivalries.

South Carolina, pepped up after its impressive opening victory over Army, minimized contact in a long scrimmage yesterday and planned to work out under the lights tonight. The West Virginia Mountaineers of the Southern Conference, always dangerous, were due in Columbia late today.

North Carolina State Coach Earle Edwards figures his Wolfpack will be at full strength for Wake's Demon Deacons with the exception of halfback Ted Kilyk, who has a dislocated elbow. The Wolfpack has been bearing down on pass defense all week.

Tossing for Wake will be starting quarterback Nick Conlies, Joe White and Watson McKeel.

Tears for the Bride

By ROBERT MARTIN

SYNOPSIS
Jim Bennett, noted sleuth of Cleveland, Ohio, accompanies his secretary Miss Sandy Hollis, to her family home in rural Ohio, for a week-end of pheasant shooting. He is received well by Sandy's parents, and rugged Rex Bishop, their farm-hand, regales him with tales of "shootin' days" in the old west. Jim also meets Sandy's war-wet brother, Ralph. He had recently broken his engagement to handsome, spirited Judy Kirkland, in favor of Dr. Eileen Fortune. Everyone, including her father, Jake Fortune, had expected Eileen to marry Earl Seltzman, Jake's partner in a cattle-buying business. Later at a gathering in the Hollis home Bennett meets all these people. Fun and fellowship prevail until mad-cap Judy Kirkland "crashes" the party, her dynamic personality dominating the room.

CHAPTER FIVE
Judy smiled at Homer, swept her cool gaze over me, and looked beyond me. She was slim and dressed in a soft leather jacket, dark green shirt, buckskin moccasins and a snugly fitting pale green turtle neck sweater which blended nicely with the odd-gray-green of her eyes. Her mouth was very red and almost too large for her rather thin face. She wore her hair long with straight bangs across her forehead and there was an elfin look about her as she flung her hair back from her face and gazed expectantly across the room. She seemed to be waiting for something, her lips slightly parted.

And then from behind me I heard Ralph Hollis' grave voice. "Hello, Judy."
"I heard you were home, Ralph," she said breathlessly. "I just wanted to say hello."
"Thank you, Judy," he said in the same grave voice, and then everyone in the room seemed to speak at once, greeting Judy Kirkland. It was as if all had depended upon Ralph, upon how he would react to her unexpected visit.

When the flurry had died down, Sandy said to Judy, "You'll freeze driving in that open convertible."
"I like the cold," she said, looking at me, her eyes cool and appraising.
"This is Jim Bennett," Sandy said. "He's my boss. We're going after pheasant in the morning." Judy Kirkland held out her hand. Her fingers were as cold as death. She said easily, "I've heard of you, of course. You really are a detective?"
"Really,"

"How amusing," she said. "That is something different." A glint of something, showed in her eyes. "Do you carry a gun in a shoulder holster, and keep a bottle of eye in your desk? And do gorgeous blondes stalk you, day and night?" Her red lips curved in faint mockery.
"You've been reading too many mystery books," I told her. "Besides, I prefer brunettes."
Sandy gave me a reproachful look, but Judy Kirkland's eyes widened a little and she said in a cool, crisp voice, "How very interesting."

Ralph Hollis sauntered up and said, "Don't get any ideas, Jim. Judy devotes her life to her dogs and horses."
I thought I saw a shadow of pain cross Judy's eyes, but I could have been wrong and immediately Sandy said nervously, "Judy, will you have a drink?"
"A spot of bourbon," she said. Judy gazed across the room at Earl Seltzman Eileen and Jake Fortune, and Mrs. Hollis. "Relax, all you people. I'm only staying a minute." She took my arm and led me to a divan on the opposite side of the room. "Come on, Mr. Bennett. Tell me more about those blondes you don't prefer."
Sandy said, "Don't forget, Judy—I'm the gal what bring him."

Mrs. Hollis resumed her rocking and knitting. Ralph poured himself a drink and carried it to the fireplace and stood staring into the flames. Earl Seltzman left Eileen's side at last and moved to the window and stood staring out at the night. Eileen, alone on the divan, gazed intently at her clasped hands, a small forlorn figure. Jake Fortune walked over to Homer Hollis and began talking in loud ones about the price of beef at the Chicago stockyards. Judy Kirkland sat close beside me, her hand still exerting a gentle pressure on my arm. Sandy brought us each a drink, and Judy said in a brittle voice, "So sweet of you, Sandy, honey."

I saw Eileen look up at Ralph with a worried, pleading expression, but he seemed not to notice. She continued to gaze at him anxiously.

Judy her eyes on Eileen, said to Ralph, "Come on over, Ralph, and tell us about the Army." She patted the divan beside her.

As Ralph turned towards us, I saw Eileen's small chin tremble, and a swift expression of dismay crossed her face. Ralph stood before us, holding his glass. "There isn't much to tell, he said carelessly. "I'm glad I'm out of it."

Judy said sweetly, "You haven't even kissed me yet. Aren't we still friends?"
Ralph stammered something, and looked uncomfortable. Judy laughed softly, stood up and moved to him. "For old time's sake," she said, and gently pulled his head down and placed her lips against his. It was a lingering kiss, and Ralph didn't pull away. Eileen sprang to her feet. She stood trembling, her small fists clenched. There were tears in her eyes and she opened her mouth as if to speak, but she didn't say anything.

Judy released Ralph and laughed a little breathlessly. Eileen turned away and walked swiftly out of the room. I expected Ralph to follow her but I was wrong. It was Earl Seltzman.

For a brief space of time there was silence in the room and I realized that the Frankie Carle album had ended some time ago. Now Sandy moved to the console, turned over the stack of records, and started the player. The clean silver notes of the piano filled the room like a gentle shower of stars, and almost immediately everyone began to talk. All except Ralph Hollis. He moved to a chair, sat down and gazed intently at the glass in his hand. Mrs. Hollis rocked and knitted grimly.

Judy Kirkland resumed her seat beside me and gave me a bright wicked glance. "Did I do something?" she asked with elaborate innocence.

"You know very well you did," "Oh," she said carelessly. "Eileen shouldn't be so touchy." Her gaze strayed to Ralph, but he didn't look at her. I had a clear view of her profile and the pouting curve of her lower lip.

Homer Hollis stood up, yawned, took out a gold watch and began to wind it. "Well, guess I'll turn in. If I'm going hunting in the morning I'll have to get up early and help Rex with the work."

"I'll help, Dad," Ralph said suddenly.

"No, son," Homer said gently. "You take it easy for a while. We got to get some meat back on your bones."

"Don't baby me, Dad," Ralph grinned at his father. "I'm a big boy now."

"So I notice," Homer said dryly. He nodded at the room in general. Mrs. Hollis arose, too, said, "Goodnight, everyone," and followed Homer from the room. Jake Fortune glanced at a wrist watch and said to no one in particular, "Eileen and me should be going."

Job's Struggle to Understand Life ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Job 1-2; 19-22.

By Alfred J. Buescher

There was a man in the land of Uz named Job. He feared God and avoided evil. He had seven sons and three daughters, great riches in flocks and herds, a great household and was the greatest man in the east.

Satan contended that Job worshiped because he was wealthy, so God allowed the evil one to destroy all Job's wealth and even his sons and daughters. When Job was told of this disaster, he fell to the ground and worshiped.

Next Satan afflicted Job with agonizing diseases, and his wife said, "Dost thou still retain thine integrity? curse God, and die." Job answered her, "Shall we receive good at the hand of God and shall we not receive evil?"

Three friends came to comfort Job and one said he must be evil and was being punished. Job said: "He knoweth the way I take; when He hath tried me, I, shall come forth as gold." MEMORY VERSE—Jeremiah 29:13.

RELEASE SATURDAY, OCT. 2, OR SUNDAY, OCT. 3, 1954—

Job's Struggle to Understand Life

HE KEPT HIS FAITH THROUGH MANY CALAMITIES

Scripture—Job 1-2; 19-22.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

IN THIS LESSON we turn from the time when Jesus was on earth and later when the apostles were carrying on His work in the early church after His resurrection, and later still when Paul was writing his epistles to the various churches advising them as to their conduct as followers of Jesus, to several thousand years before Christ's birth.

Our story is of a man who suffered many disasters and his struggle to keep his faith in God through all his suffering.

"There was a man in the land of Uz, whose name was Job; and that man was perfect and upright, and one that feared God and eschewed evil," we read. The land of Uz was in the northern part of the Arabian peninsula.

Job was a very wealthy man. He had several thousand sheep, three thousand camels, five hundred yoke of oxen and five hundred she asses and a very great household. He was known as "the greatest of all the men of the east."

He had seven sons and three daughters, who were all devoted to their father and to each other and constituted a very happy family.

"Now there was a day when the sons of Job came to present themselves before the Lord, and

Job arose, rent his mantle and shaved his head, and fell upon the ground, worshipping God and saying, "Naked I came out of my mother's womb, and naked shall I return thither; the Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord."

How easy it is for riches to take wings and fly away. Many have suffered such calamities and some lose their faith, often those who have been deeply religious. God could not treat me so if He is indeed a loving father, they say. Job's faith sustained him through these horrible tribulations, but more was to follow. Satan, seeing Job was faithful so far, tortured him further by sending terrible diseases to destroy his strength and cause him untold suffering.

Job's wife lost her faith in the divine and loving Spirit, and spoke to him in what was a most heartless manner, saying, "Dost thou still retain thine integrity? curse God and die."

Job's answer was, "Thou speakest as one of the foolish women speaketh. What? shall we receive good at the hand of God and shall we not receive evil?"

Then Job's friends came to him—Eliphaz, Bildad and Sophar. For seven days they sat silently by him, saying no word. These were good men but they con-

MEMORY VERSE "Ye shall seek Me, and find Me, when ye shall search for Me with all your heart."—Jeremiah 29:13.

Satan came also among them. Though Satan was malignant and evil, he was evidently counted among the angels in heaven. God spoke of Job as a perfect man, but Satan asked, "Dost thou fear God for naught?" and pointed out that Job had everything to make him believe in God's goodness, insinuating that the Lord protected him. "But put forth Thine hand now, and touch all that he hath, and he will curse Thee to Thy face."

So God permitted Satan to strip Job of all his possessions. One day when Job's sons and daughters were feasting in one brother's house, a man came to Job and said his oxen had been plowing and the asses were feeding beside them, when the Sabeans fell upon them, killed the servants that were guarding them and drove the asses away; only this one man was left to tell Job.

Before he had finished his tale another man came to tell Job that fire from heaven—possibly lightning—had burned all the sheep, and still another man came and said the Chaldeans had carried off the camels and slain the servants—only he had escaped. Most terrible of all, still another man rushed in to say that while Job's sons and daughters were feasting, a great wind had blown down the walls of the house and all were killed.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — The stock market presented an irregular price picture today in the early afternoon with a somewhat lower tendency in evidence.

Some stocks moved ahead strongly. Other were up 1 to 2 points at times. Most gains and losses however, were fractional. There were no severely depressed areas.

Business was under wraps as it has been since the start of the World Series. The pace was a little under yesterday's 1,840,000 shares traded in a declining market.

Good gainers were found in the oils, and there were numerous plus signs in chemicals and railroads. Motor issues and airlines tipped lower. The steels, aircrafts and coppers were mixed to lower. Otherwise the market was steady.

Bell Aircraft shot ahead between 4 and 5 points before settling down for a gain of between 2 and 3 points. Mengel was strong around 3 points.

Also ahead were Republic Steel, International Telephone, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Monsanto Chemical, American Can, Southern Pacific, Texas Co., and Tide Water Associated Oil.

Lower were Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Boeing Southern California Edison, International Paper Santa Fe, and Standard Oil (N.J.).

CHICAGO — (USDA)—Salable hogs 7,000; uneven; slow early but later active at decline; butchers 25-30 lower; mainly 35-40 lower than Thursday's average; Sows 8 fully 25 lower; choice 190-280 lb butchers 19.00-19.25; mainly 19.10 and above; top 19.35; lowest since February 1953; 160-185 lb 18.00-19.00; 200-240 lb 17.25-18.35; lighter weights 17.00-17.25; 15.50-17.25.

Salable cattle 1,000; calves 200; steers and heifers fully steady in a clean-up trade; cows steady to 25 higher; bulls and vealers fully steady; a few loads and lots high good and choice 850-1,150 lb steers and yearlings 23.50-25.50; a few head low prime heifers sold up to 25.00; a few good cows up to 18.00; utility to low commercial cows 9.00-12.00; canners and cutters 6.75-9.50; utility and commercial bulls 11.50-14.50; a few cutter bulls 11.25 down; few head choice and prime vealers 23.00; good and choice 17.00-22.00; cull to commercial 8.00-16.00.

Woman's Club Yearbook Is Dedicated To Mrs. Moore

Pictured above at the dinner meeting of the Woman's Club last night are, left to right, Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, honorary club president to whom the Year Book was dedicated; Mrs. Sam Weeks, second vice president; Mrs. R. P. Rogers, president; Mrs. Gordon Maddrey of Ahoskie, guest speaker; and Mrs. Vance Perkins, club first vice president.

Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, right, is shown as she received the first copy of the Woman's Club Year Book last night from Mrs. R. P. Rogers, club president. The Year Book was dedicated to Mrs. Moore for her "outstanding service to the Woman's Club." (Reflector Photo by Edwina Haymes).

Greenville Woman's Club dedicated its 1954-55 Year Book to Mrs. J. H. B. Moore in a surprise presentation last night at the club house.

The presentation was made at a dinner meeting of the club, attended by approximately one hundred members and guests.

Guest speaker for the evening was Mrs. Gordon Maddrey, state president of the Baptist Women's Missionary Union.

In making the presentation to Mrs. Moore, Mrs. R. P. Rogers, club president, spoke of the long, outstanding service Mrs. Moore has rendered to the club.

For 14 years she served as president of the club, being made honorary president for life in 1941 in recognition of "her outstanding contribution to the club."

The North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs chose her as International Relations Chairman for a term and she has served on the Board of the Sally Southall Cotton Loan Fund.

Duff Appointed Chief Judge For Scout Camporee

Erskine Duff of Greenville was named chief judge for the 1955 Boy Scout Camporee at a meeting of the East Carolina Council Camping and Activities Committee last night.

The committee met jointly with the Council Camporee Committee. Approximately 30 scout leaders were present for the meeting to make plans for next year's camporee which is to be held in April at Washington.

In addition to the appointment of Duff as chief judge, J. S. Day of Tarboro was named camporee

"Fewer women vote in America today than in any other country where they have that right."

The speaker discussed at length the value of mental discipline, closing with the statement that she believed "The women of today have faith in the future; confidence that we will preserve our heritage; and that the American women will not be unmindful of their responsibility of the important place they hold in the world today."

Introduction of Speaker Mrs. Maddrey was introduced by the club first vice president, Mrs. Vance Perkins, who served as program chairman.

Guests were welcomed at the meeting by Mrs. Rogers who emphasized the club theme for the year, "Your Self-Discipline, Understanding, and Faith Will Light the World." She urged each club member to find her individual place in the club work, asserting that each one has something to contribute to the club and to the community. She then introduced the club officers, department chairmen, committee chairmen and guests.

The invocation for the evening was given by Mrs. H. H. Settle, who was introduced by Mrs. Sam Weeks, club second vice president. Dinner was served by Mrs. Howard Fuller, club hostess, and her committee.

McCarthy Keeps Defense Secret

WASHINGTON — Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) kept under wraps today most of the defense strategy he plans against a special investigating committee's report asking the Senate to censure him.

McCarthy and his lawyer Edward Bennett Williams, formally rejected the censure findings yesterday in a bill of exceptions filed with the committee.

They urged Senate members to keep an open mind—"avoid predilection and predisposition"—until McCarthy's defense is heard.

The bill of exceptions listed arguments why the unanimous committee report should be turned down. But it gave few clues as to how McCarthy intends to persuade the Senate to do this when it meets in special session Nov. 8 as a jury to "try" the censure charges.

The bill of exceptions did indicate that McCarthy's defense will be lengthy, and will include references to "myriad precedents... countless precedents" designed to prove wrong the committee's findings.

Williams refused yesterday to say whether McCarthy will demand a right to call witnesses before the Senate to attack the charges.

Cases Heard In Superior Court

In Superior Court yesterday the Farmers Gin and Mill Company, Inc. was ordered to pay Jim Craft and Curtis Massey, partners in a tractor repair shop, $115.20 with interest from April 18, 1953.

Defendant was also taxed the costs of court. A motion for non-suit was allowed in the case of Sutton's Service Center vs. Willie Breme.

Junior Tobacco...

cess. He noted that the preparation of the tobacco showed an improvement over past years. That is one of the objectives of the program, he said.

Weeks stated that the top price brought by tobacco which was placed on sale following the show was 71 cents per pound.

Now! You can afford WARM FLOOR HEATING in every room!
JUST LIKE A FURNACE... BUT WITHOUT ALL THE COSTLY DIRT COLLECTING PIPES AND REGISTERS

SIEGLER has TWO heatmakers working together on ONE fire to heat every room in your home!

HEATMAKER No. 1
30% MORE HEATING AREA than ordinary heaters

PLUS HEATMAKER No. 2
The powered-air, inner heat tubes. Room air is forced through the heart of the hot-heat fire... and poured over your floors.

Tropical Floor Heat
QUICKLY GETS TO THE BOTTOM OF THE COLD FLOOR PROBLEM

Siegler is not a space heater that wastes heat the chimney and on the ceiling forcing you to live in one or two rooms. Siegler is not a central heating plant with expensive installations!

Siegler is a revolutionary method of WARM FLOOR HEATING in every room BUT WITHOUT COSTLY DIRT COLLECTING PIPES AND REGISTERS AND LOOK—don't be confused by BTU Ratings! There is BTU INPUT... there is BTU OUTPUT, but what keeps your family warm is BTU USEFUL... the working BTU's that heat your home! In BTU USEFUL Siegler OUT-HEATS 'EM ALL! A 50,000 BTU Siegler gives more USABLE HEAT than much higher rated ordinary heaters. A 75,000 BTU Siegler furnace-volume heater can only be compared to a central heating plant.

Siegler costs you so little to own and operate... it pays for itself again and again with the fuel it saves!
