

Generally fair and continued warm tonight and Tuesday.

TRUTH IN PREFERENCE TO FICTION

Vol. 125 No. 253

MEMBER ASSOCIATED PRESS

GREENVILLE, N. C. MONDAY AFTERNOON, OCTOBER 4, 1954

Ten Pages Today

Price 5 Cents

Western Europe Hails New Pact

By SEYMOUR TOPPING LONDON (AP)—Western Europe today generally welcomed the momentous decision by the United States and her allies to free and rearm the 50 million West Germans and weld them solidly with in the Atlantic alliance against aggression.

from the other six NATO members: Norway, Denmark, Turkey, Greece, Iceland and Portugal. The Communists, as anticipated, blasted the parley's outcome. The government-controlled East German radio accused U. S. Secretary of State Dulles of using the strongest possible pressure and blackmail on his allies.

Washington, D. C. Pupils In Protest Over Integration

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hundreds of white students demonstrated at two Washington high schools today in protest against the admission of Negroes.

perused them to re-enter the building and hold their protest meeting in a classroom. Policemen said the demonstration outside the building "was orderly." The youngsters they said "were just talking and laughing."

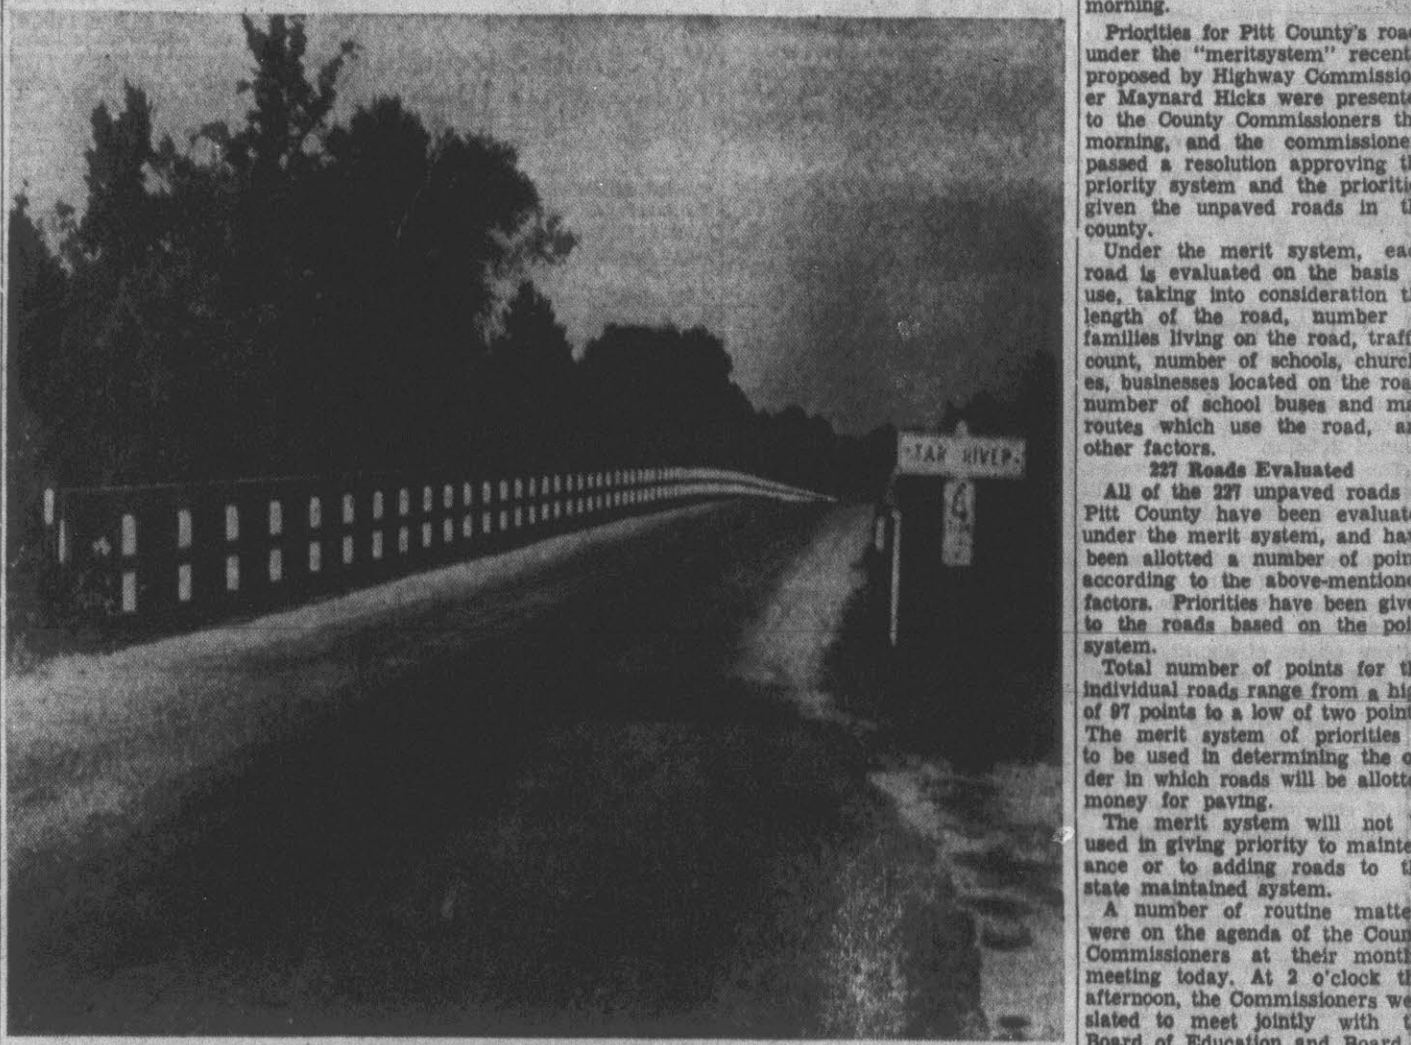

County Commissioners Told Projects Are In The Works Plan 3 New Bridges In Pitt

Pitt County will get three new bridges in the near future in addition to the new bridge across the Tar River at Greenville.

across the Tar between Falkland and Belvoir, the rebuilding of the Penny Hill bridge, and the rebuilding of the Middle Swamp bridge on highway 258 between Farmville and Snow Hill.

The survey for the Middle Swamp project already has been completed. As for the bypass highway north of Greenville and the new bridge across the Tar here, Markham said the work already has been programmed for the approach, fills and bridge. He said it is the hope of division officials the project will be included in the first possible letting by the Highway Commission.

Markham could not give any definite date on the beginning of any of the projects, but said in each case, "We are going to get on these projects as soon as possible."

TO BE REBUILT—The above Pillsbury Bridge across the Tar River on the road from Falkland to Belvoir will soon be rebuilt, according to an announcement by Highway Commission this morning. In addition the Penny Hill bridge and the Middle Swamp bridge on Highway 258 between Farmville and Snow Hill are to be reconstructed under present Highway Commission plans. (Reflector Photo by Alvin Taylor).

Baltimore Pupils Return To Class

BALTIMORE (AP)—Negro and white students, for the most part, returned to school today after a two-day weekend lull caused by a strained racial situation here.

At Southern, where six arrests were made Friday after a white man punched a Negro student in the face, there was relative calm. About 50 policemen were stationed around the school itself and others were located at every intersection for several blocks in all directions of the school.

Inquest Set Tonight In Fractured Skull Death

Joe Gibson of the Pactolus community was released under $2500 bond yesterday afternoon pending an inquest into the death of Earl Maher of Saint Paul, who died of a fractured skull in a Windsor hospital last Wednesday night.

at 9:20. Pitt County Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson stated today his department was called to investigate an alleged assault on Maher at Pactolus last September 18. The sheriff said he was told by Gibson that he (Gibson) hit Maher with a boat paddle.

Can't Remember Murder Details

NEW YORK (AP)—A youth, accused of stabbing a 70-year-old practical nurse to death in a subway train in Brooklyn, says he didn't know the woman and doesn't remember a thing about the slaying, police reported.

The woman, who was planning her retirement after 25 years service, was killed early yesterday. "It was the most methodical, willful murder you can imagine," reported subway motorman John S. Hough.

Dulles Jubilant Over Results Of London Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles, returning from London in an evidently jubilant mood, said today the agreements reached there give the Atlantic community a "hard core of European unity."

GOP Leaders Feel Record Not Impressed On Voters Urge Eisenhower Speeches

DENVER (AP)—Some Republican leaders, concerned over the party's chances for continued control of Congress, are calling on President Eisenhower to speak out vigorously and more often in the election campaign.

Earth Tremors Rock Buildings In Anchorage

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Tall buildings rocked and rolled and residents fled to the streets in their night clothes early yesterday in an earthquake seismologists said would have caused disaster if the epicenter was in a populated area.

No casualties were reported however. The tremor shook a 1,000-mile area of the Alaska mainland but was felt most severely in a triangular area 80 to 100 miles west and south of here.

Bandit Got Sack Of Bus Tokens

TYLER, Tex. (AP)—A pistol-waving bandit entered the Tyler Transit Co. office last night, forced nightwatchman A. E. Phillips into a closet and headed for the safe.

DALLAS (AP)—The U. S. chief of naval operations says, "I don't think the Chinese Reds could effectuate a capture of Formosa at this time."

Murder Trial Of Aged Man Begins

A 72-year-old Grifton Negro went on trial shortly after noon today in Pitt Superior Court for the murder of his son-in-law in Grifton last July 24.

Umstead Begins Rest In Hospital

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Gov. Umstead was reported in "very satisfactory" condition today after his admission to Wata Hospital here for "treatment and rest."

Pitt County Criminal Term Of Court Begins; Sixty-Four Cases Ready

Pitt County criminal term of Superior Court opened today with 64 cases scheduled for the week.

McCarthy Appears Planning Fight Censure On Anti-Red Basis

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy seemed certain today to put stress on his "fight against communism" as a cornerstone of his Senate defense against a move to censure him for his conduct.

Doubts Formosa Can Be Captured

DALLAS (AP)—The U. S. chief of naval operations says, "I don't think the Chinese Reds could effectuate a capture of Formosa at this time."

James Aiton Manning, Bethel; Harry L. Martin, Greenville, R. 2;

Fred Mills, Jr., Greenville, R. 2; Robert Moore, Farmville; Harvey Moore, Farmville; Langford Moore, Farmville; W. H. Moore, Farmville; Francis R. Murphy, Greenville; James R. Murphy, Greenville; Jess Neaden, Greenville, R. 2; Jessie Randolph, Greenville; W. C. Robertson, Greenville, R. 2.

Social and Personal

All items for this page received after 10 a. m. will be published the following day. Dial 6166-9 a. m. to noon; 1 to 4:30 p. m.

Mrs. R. F. Clark Jr. is a patient in Edgcombe General Hospital, at Tarboro.

Mrs. M. T. Plyler of Durham has arrived in Greenville to make her home with her sister, Mrs. R. E. Taylor.

Mrs. Fred Willets Jr. and little daughter, Margaret, of Wilmington are spending a week with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Moseley.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond G. Clark were guests at a dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Moore of Ayden Sunday.

Pledged Zeta Tau Alpha Virginia Lee Smith, granddaughter of Mrs. D. S. Smith, 1105 Johnson St., pledged Zeta Tau Alpha at Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Lynchburg, Va.

Revival at Hopewell Church The revival at Hopewell Pentecostal Holiness Church will continue through Oct. 16. The evangelist is Miss Alma Boykin of Tarboro. Every one is invited to attend each night at 8:00.

E. C. C. Alumni Assn. The Greenville-Pitt County Chapter of the East Carolina College alumni association will meet Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Alumni Building.

This is a very important meeting, and alumni of Greenville and Pitt County are urged to attend.

Leadership Training School A Leadership Training School for teachers and officers in the Sunday School, and leaders generally in various phases of church work is in progress at the Eighth Street Christian Church each evening this week through Thursday from 7:30 to 9:00. The classes are, Teaching Children, Treatment of Adolescents, and Christian Stewardship. Visitors of churches in the city or the surrounding area are welcome.

Methodist Men The Saint James Methodist Men will observe Ladies' Night with their regular monthly supper meeting tonight at the Women's Club at 7:30. Guest speaker for the evening will be Blaine M. Madison of Raleigh. The club's new officers will be installed: president, Billy Lery; vice-president, Clark Stokes; secretary, J. C. Lamb; and treasurer, Wyatt Highsmith.

Attention—Members Fine Arts Department AYDEN—The Fine Arts department of the Ayden Woman's Club will hold its first departmental meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 5, in the community building at 8:30 p. m. Mrs. Ralph Hardee and Miss Elizabeth Johnson will be co-hostesses. Dried flower arrangements will be the subject.

All ladies who have joined this department or are interested in joining are invited to attend. Please notify either hostess if you plan to attend.

Parents' Night at C. Y. F. "Parents' Night" was observed Sunday evening at the C. Y. F. meeting of the Eighth Street Christian Church. Parents and young people, alike, termed it a wonderful success as the families of the Christian Church young people came together to share in fellowship and inspiration.

A fellowship sing was led by Mr. Elbert Bennett to begin the program. After this, followed a light supper which the young people had prepared themselves. Miss Jane Winchester, co-president of the C. Y. F., gave a few words of welcome to the parents.

The closing worship was conducted by Nancy Harris and Judy Jolly, co-chairman of the Worship Committee, and was held in the sanctuary of the church. The theme of the worship was appropriately centered on the "Christian Home" and clearly brought out the ideas of the responsibility of parents to their youth and youth to their parents. Some 60 youths and parents were in attendance.

Still At Work On 85th Birthday

CINCINNATI (AP)—Charles E. Mayers celebrated his 85th birthday yesterday by working his usual stint as a printer for the Cincinnati Enquirer. "Retire? Not me," he told a reporter. "People who settle down don't last very long."

Maytag
OIL HEATERS
WITH MAGIC-MIXED
BURNERS
NO SMOKE
NO SOOT
NO ODOR

No other heater like it! Turns fuel oil into clean, carbon-free "GAS" Saves up to 40% on fuel cost. Circulates warm air automatically—in every room in your house. See it today!

Low Down Payment! Easy Monthly Terms!

BROWN'S Furniture Store
West End Circle
Greenville, N. C.

Social Calendar

MONDAY

6:30 P.M.—Pitt Co. Alumni Association of Woman's College U.N.C. will have a dinner meeting at Winterville School lunch room.

6:30 P.M.—Rotary Club
7:00 P.M.—Lions Club
8:00 P.M.—Lodge 885, Loyal Order Moose

8:00 P.M.—The American Legion Auxiliary will meet with Mrs. James Worsley, 408 Eastern St.

TUESDAY

12:45 P.M.—Mrs. L. C. Skinner and Mrs. J. E. Spilman will be joint hostesses to the End of the Century and Sans Souci Book clubs at the home of Mrs. Skinner.

1:00 P.M.—Mrs. J. H. Rose will be hostess to the Athenaeum Book Club.
2:30 P.M.—The Chatham Book Club will meet with Mrs. J. C. Lanier as hostess at her home on Rock Creek Drive.

3:30 P.M.—The Literature Department of the Women's Club will meet with Mrs. W. E. Woodard, Mrs. Bertha Parker as co-hostess.

3:30 P.M.—Inter Se Book Club meets with Mrs. E. H. Willford, in Brookgreen.

WEDNESDAY

1:00 P.M.—Mrs. J. M. Barrett and Miss Alice Wooten will entertain at luncheon at the Women's Club in honor of Miss Lillian Wooten, bride-elect.

3:00 P.M.—The Delphin Book Club will meet with Mrs. M. W. Aldridge.

3:30 P.M.—Mrs. Dink James will be hostess to the Ohio Book Club.

3:30 P.M.—The Lector Book Club will meet with Mrs. Herbert Haddley.

6:30 P.M.—Mesdames Wiley Brown, Charles Horne, Howard Porter, and Milton White will be hostesses to the Ladies of the Round Table at the Episcopal parish house.

8:00 P.M.—Chapter 149 Order of Eastern Star
8:00 P.M.—AA meets over Globe Hardware.

8:00 P.M.—Square Dance club meets at Elm St. Park.

THURSDAY

8:00 P.M.—Greenville-Pitt Co. Chapter of E.C.C. Alumni Assn. meets in the Alumni Building.

8:00 P.M.—Junior Woman's Club meets at the club house.

FRIDAY

12:30 P.M.—Ladies Day at Country Club. For luncheon reservations dial 9874.

6:30 P.M.—Kiwanis Club
6:30 P.M.—Exchange Club
7:30 P.M.—Red Men meet.

THURSDAY

7:30 P.M.—Mr. and Mrs. N. O. Van Nortwick Sr., Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Whichard Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. David Whichard III will be hosts at dinner to honor Miss Lillian Wooten and Mr. Powell Bland at the Van Nortwick home on Rock Spring Road.

FRIDAY

1:00 P.M.—Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Waldrop will entertain the Bland-Wooten wedding party and out-of-town guests at luncheon.

7:00 P.M.—Dr. and Mrs. S. M.

Honored At Buffet Supper Miss Wooten, Mr. Bland

Miss Lillian Wooten and Mr. Powell Bland were honored Friday evening at a buffet supper given by Mrs. and Mrs. Wicher Dudley and Dr. and Mrs. M. B. Massey. The supper was held at the Country Club.

Miss Wooten was presented a corsage of yellow gold chrysanthemums complimenting her ensemble and Mr. Powell was given a yellow carnation boutonniere. Guests were greeted at the door by the hosts and hostesses. They were invited to have tomato cocktails by Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Minges of Kinston and Mr. and Mrs. Moulton Massey, Jr.

Mrs. Knott Proctor, Jr. served the turkey and Mrs. David Whichard III served ham. Guests served themselves to other delicious accompaniments. An assortment of pastry delicacies were passed.

The buffet table was centered with an arrangement of pale yellow chrysanthemums and yellow carnations flanked by silver candelabra with matching yellow candles. The brides table held a beautiful arrangement of pale yellow carnations. Silver candelabra entwined with corsages of pale yellow chrysanthemums were placed on either side of the centerpiece. Other tables were centered with the candelabra entwined with the corsages of pale yellow chrysanthemums.

W. C. Smith Succumbs Today After Illness

Mr. W. C. Smith, 60, died suddenly at his home, 187 Columbia Avenue, at 7 o'clock Monday morning after two years of ill health. Funeral arrangements are incomplete pending the arrival of relatives.

Mr. Smith, son of the late G. B. and Lucretia Stokes Smith, was born and reared near Ayden. He was a member of the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church. He had been employed by the Standard Fertilizer Company before his recent illness.

Surviving are his wife, the former Mary Jane Sutton, to whom he was married in 1903 five daughters: Mrs. D. C. Tripp of Jacksonville, N. C., Mrs. Roy A. Edwards of Simpson, Mrs. F. E. Spry of Rochester, N. Y., Mrs. E. M. Biondo of Chicago, and Mrs. William C. Nelson of Stokes; three sons: Willie R. Smith of Washington, D. C., Gray Smith of Greenville, and Bonnie W. Smith of Jacksonville, N. C.; 8 grandchildren; and a brother, D. H. Smith of Ayden.

Class Will Visit Kinston Council

Student members of a class in municipal government now being taught in the social studies department at East Carolina College will be guests at a meeting of the City Council of Kinston tonight at 7:30 p. m.

Dr. Kathleen Stokes of the college is faculty instructor of the class, will accompany the group. Mayor Guy Elliott of Kinston has written Dr. Stokes that the East Carolina students will receive a warm welcome in the city. A tour of points of interest, including recreation centers, is being planned for the afternoon.

The purpose of the trip to Kinston, according to Dr. Stokes, is to give students an opportunity to observe a municipal government at work.

Movie Workers Get New Pension

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A new pension plan covering 18,000 workers in the motion picture industry will go into effect Oct. 24, labor and management spokesmen said today.

Negotiations for the plan have been set for Jan. 1, 1960, to allow time for a fund to accumulate.

It will be open to workers who have reached a minimum age of 65 and qualify as having worked 20 years in the industry. Payments have been set at $30 a month but directors said it may be changed "when sound actuarial evaluation of the fund permits."

Coffee Hour Given Feting Miss Wooten

On Saturday morning Mrs. Dink James entertained at her home on East Ninth Street at a coffee hour honoring Miss Lillian Wooten.

Mixed summer flowers were used throughout the living rooms. The dining room table was laid with an imported, embroidered grass linen cloth. A color note of yellow and red was used on the table with yellow candles in silver candlesticks.

Miss Wooten was presented a gift of crystal from the hostess.

Mrs. James sister, Miss Agne Fulllove, poured iced coffee. Guests served themselves to dainty sandwiches and party accompaniments which were in silver holders.

Miss Lillian Dewar, of Raleigh, Miss Wooten's maid of honor, was a special guest at the party.

Around 25 friends of the honoree were invited.

Miss Congleton Is Guest Speaker

The Wesley Philanthropia class of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church met with Mrs. R. R. Taylor Monday evening at eight o'clock.

Miss Jennie Congleton gave the devotional which was beautifully done. Her subject was: Quietness, illustrated in this manner: "Be still and know that I am God." "Be silent unto God and let him mould you. Give God time to reveal himself to you."

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Rosa Lee Joyner, the vice-president, presided. Mrs. Willard gave the report. The minutes were read and dues collected by Mrs. J. B. Smith. A special collection was taken for the little orphan girl. New officers were also elected for the coming year.

The hostess, Mrs. R. R. Taylor, served delicious cake and ice cream. Assisting her were, Mrs. L. L. McLawhon, Mrs. Ollie VanNortwick and Mrs. Frank Wilson. There were 24 members present.

Funeral Held Today For Mrs. Irma Dunn

Mrs. Irma Dunn, 66, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville at 2 o'clock Sunday morning. She had been critically ill for the past two weeks.

Funeral services were conducted at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel at 11 o'clock Monday morning by her pastor, the Rev. Percy D. Upchurch, pastor of the Memorial Baptist Church. Burial was in Cherry Hill Cemetery.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Thomas Allen of Greenville; two grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Ruth Carter of Greenville; and a brother Cecil Cobb of Gritton.

30 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR October 4, 1924

The Reflector has arranged for complete play by play reports on the World Series game between the Washington Senators and New York Giants which begins tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

According to information received by B. T. Clark from the weather bureau, Raleigh, today, Tar River predicted crest is 22 feet. The river is rising at a rate of three feet each day and at noon today had reached 20 feet. If the river reaches a crest of 22 feet it will be only eight inches from the high water mark of 1919.

Brookgreen PTA Elects Officers

Brookgreen Schools' second P.T.A. meeting for the current year met on Thursday evening, September 30. Mr. H. F. Steinbeck opened the meeting with a prayer.

The secretary read the minutes and they were approved. Mrs. W. F. Smiley reported that plans were underway for the Halloween Festival. She requested that each teacher please appoint two mothers of children in their respective rooms to act as a committee to help plan this festival.

Mr. Joe Taft reported that the steel has arrived on the school site which means construction will proceed with all possible speed. Mr. Taft also reported that he had visited Mr. Hughes, the city manager, who stated he would put in sidewalks from Tenth Street up to Brookgreen Schools and have a fire hydrant installed.

The nominating committee presented the following slate of officers, which was elected: Charles Gaskins, President; Jake Hadley, Vice-President; Mary Eades, Secretary; and Sam Underwood, Treasurer. The nominating Committee expressed the need for a Historian, Program Chairman, room representatives, and membership chairman.

Mr. Steinbeck, who helped organize Brookgreen Schools' P.T.A. and got them off to a splendid beginning, then presented the new president, Charles Gaskins.

The motion was made and carried that the second Thursday in each month be designated deleting the December meeting, for regular Brookgreen Schools' P.T.A. meetings.

Mr. Hudson, principal of Brookgreen Schools, brought to the attention of those present the proposed report cards now being decided upon by a report card committee. The present letter-type card was discussed and a diagram of the proposed card, which would consist of letter or numerical grades, supplemented by teacher comments, was presented. A lively discussion followed with an overwhelming majority of the group expressing their opinion for numerical-type report card to be distributed every six weeks.

Mrs. Carter's second grade won the attendance prize for the largest number of parents present.

The meeting adjourned.

Mrs. Dunn, daughter of the R. J. and Mollie Rountree Cobb, spent all her life in Greenville. She had been a life long member of the Memorial Baptist Church and active in the work of the Sunday School.

Greenville Moose To Initiate 150

Two prominent Moose officials will attend initiation services for 150 new Moose members tomorrow night.

Present for the ceremonies which will include the largest number of candidates ever to enter the local club at one time, will be Frank Ray, regional director of the Moose in the Carolinas and Virginia and Jay J. Stoehr, assistant regional director of enrollment for the Moose, representing the States of Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Washington, D.C.

The initiation ceremonies are to be held in the West Greenville School auditorium at 8 p. m. tomorrow night. Following the initiation Moose members will go to the lodge hall on Dickinson Avenue where a buffet supper is to be served.

Both of the attending high Moose officials will speak at the ceremonies.

Jay J. Stoehr is the son of J. Jack Stoehr, regional director, past Supreme Governor, and recent Director General of the Moose.

He is a life member of the Steubenville, Ohio Moose Lodge and Western Reserve Legion of the Moose, Number 7, a unit of the Order's second degree. He has also been awarded the highest honorary degree of the Moose, the Pilgrim Degree of Merit.

The assistant regional director completed his education at Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio and served with the United States Army from 1941 to 1946, achieving the rank of first lieutenant in the Quartermaster Corps. He resides in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania with his wife, Lois, and his two daughters.

Ray became associated with the membership enrollment department of the Moose in 1946, first as a membership director, then assistant regional director, state director and regional director.

He was born in Savannah, Georgia, and was educated in the public schools there, leaving early to enlist in the U.S. Army. During his career, prior to his affiliation with the Moose enrollment department, he had been in the newspaper, bakery, electric railway and soft drink bottling business.

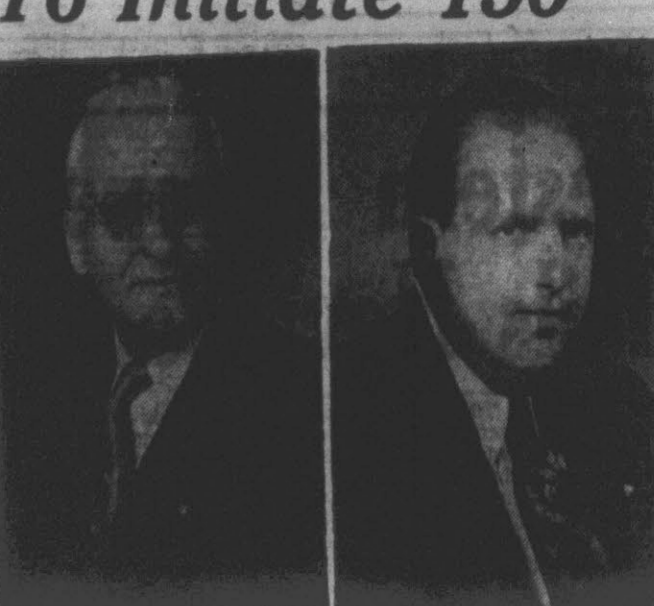

Ray first became a member of the Moose at Newport News, Hampshire in 1940 and quickly rose to the position of leadership in that lodge. On moving to Florida he helped to organize Tampa Lodge Number 1146, becoming its first governor.

That started his rise in his work for the Moose which led to his selection as regional director for the Carolinas and Virginia, where the fraternity has shown considerable growth under his leadership.

Hot Mortgage Burning Event

DALLAS (AP)—Things got warm when they burned the mortgage on the Eagle Ford Baptist Church yesterday.

Seconds before the Rev. W. L. Harrold put a match to the mortgage, the air-conditioning system burned out. This left the congregation sweltering.

FRANK RAY

JAY J. STOEHR

Two prominent Moose officials will attend initiation services for 150 new Moose members tomorrow night.

Present for the ceremonies which will include the largest number of candidates ever to enter the local club at one time, will be Frank Ray, regional director of the Moose in the Carolinas and Virginia and Jay J. Stoehr, assistant regional director of enrollment for the Moose, representing the States of Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Washington, D.C.

The initiation ceremonies are to be held in the West Greenville School auditorium at 8 p. m. tomorrow night. Following the initiation Moose members will go to the lodge hall on Dickinson Avenue where a buffet supper is to be served.

Both of the attending high Moose officials will speak at the ceremonies.

Jay J. Stoehr is the son of J. Jack Stoehr, regional director, past Supreme Governor, and recent Director General of the Moose.

He is a life member of the Steubenville, Ohio Moose Lodge and Western Reserve Legion of the Moose, Number 7, a unit of the Order's second degree. He has also been awarded the highest honorary degree of the Moose, the Pilgrim Degree of Merit.

The assistant regional director completed his education at Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio and served with the United States Army from 1941 to 1946, achieving the rank of first lieutenant in the Quartermaster Corps. He resides in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania with his wife, Lois, and his two daughters.

Ray became associated with the membership enrollment department of the Moose in 1946, first as a membership director, then assistant regional director, state director and regional director.

He was born in Savannah, Georgia, and was educated in the public schools there, leaving early to enlist in the U.S. Army. During his career, prior to his affiliation with the Moose enrollment department, he had been in the newspaper, bakery, electric railway and soft drink bottling business.

Ray first became a member of the Moose at Newport News, Hampshire in 1940 and quickly rose to the position of leadership in that lodge. On moving to Florida he helped to organize Tampa Lodge Number 1146, becoming its first governor.

That started his rise in his work for the Moose which led to his selection as regional director for the Carolinas and Virginia, where the fraternity has shown considerable growth under his leadership.

FOR SALE

Permanent
Clothes Line Poles
Steel Construction. Ready for Erection
W & W Wrecker Co.
Winterville, N. C.
Phones 5177-5170

BLOUNT - HARVEY

Tires Slick
One Day Service
Recapping
Goodyear Duplex Rubber
GAMMON Supply

Gossar-deb

YOUNG BODY JOBS done the lightest, tightest way. These Gossar-debs use Sheerest tisseuet to persuade you smoother, satin elastic takes kind care of your tummy, and look—no bones!

Pull-on girdle in white or black, S-M-L-XL $5. - $8.96
Pull-on pantie in white or black, S-M-L-XL $5.98 - $6.98
Gossar's pretty cotton uplift in white, AA, A, B cups. $1.50

BLOUNT - HARVEY
"Eastern Carolina's Shopping Center"

FREE
firemen's hats and sirens for the kids!

HOTTER THAN A 4-ALARM FIRE!
—the news about
MAYTAG
ADVANCED AUTOMATICS
newest of the new washers and dryers.
Come in and see for yourself on
M-DAY OCT. 6
V. A. Merritt & Sons
318 EVANS ST. — PHONE 3736

Only by Vanity Fair

* A new slip that's as appealing to the budget as it is to the eye!

Luxurious nylon lace forms the shoulder straps, adorns the bodice and more lace ripples around the scalloped hemline. In Vanity Fair's own famous nylon tricort that wears so beautifully, dries smoothly without pressing. A startling fashion value at only $5.95!

Star White
Sizes 32-40
#3-8-27
$5.95

C. Lieber Forbes

Runaway Python Returned Home; Became A Hero

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Ol' Pete came back from his wanderings to find himself a hero. Fort Worth welcomed her long-lost python as if he were a prodigal son come home. The welcome wasn't tarnished even when Pete bit his keeper.

Fifteen days Pete had been gone, and then suddenly there he appeared at the Forest Park Zoo yesterday about 4 a.m. The whole zoo awoke. The elephants trumpeted, the hyena screamed the cats roared.

Owner Harry Jackson and night-attendant Ed Baker caught Ol' Pete with a snake catcher—a loop of rope coming out of a pipe—and put him in his cage at the zoo.

As the word spread, people came by the hundreds to see the 18-foot python as if he were a long-lost friend.

Pete was caged securely. The tin plate he had pushed aside to gain his freedom Sept. 18 was replaced by 2x4 boards, nailed and nailed gain.

A few hours after Pete's capture, Jackson attempted to swab out his mouth with cotton-tipped sticks, and Pete bit him on his right thumb. His thumb was bandaged and he took tetanus shots.

Jackson said Pete had been suffering from a "canker mouth" and told his mouth a peculiar way. And that's how he knew it was Pete.

"I couldn't believe at first it was my snake but when he turned his head and looked at me, I knew Pete."

Jackson, 54, and Baker, an erect, gray-haired Negro who was taught Pete after a terrific struggle. The snake was found about 25 feet from his cage, in the dust and dry leaves behind a tropical bird cage. It took 55 minutes to get him back in his cage.

Was he scared? Baker said, "There's not a snake alive I'm scared of."

Jackson said he was pretty sure Pete had been in the zoo area all the time.

"Just a homebody, really," remarked Butch Carroll a city park policeman.

Couple Murdered Entering Church

PALMERTON, Pa. (AP)—A justice of the peace and his wife were shot down last night as they were entering a church where they sang in the choir.

The assailant fled while a crowd of youths, including the couple's 16-year-old son, chased him.

The victims were Matthew Daneker, 38, and his wife, Mildred, 36.

A witness, the Rev. Milton E. Deterline, pastor of the Trinity Evangelical Congregational Church to which the dead couple belonged, said the assailant was standing "within three feet" of Mrs. Daneker when he fired a pistol. A single bullet struck her in the chest. She was pronounced dead on arrival at Palmyerton Hospital.

The pastor said as Daneker grappled with the man for the weapon several shots were fired and Daneker fell. He died at the hospital without regaining consciousness. Police said they were seeking Daniel Falcone, 48, a shirt factory worker, for questioning in connection with the shooting.

Abolished Some 17,500 Jobs In Defense Dept.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some 17,500 Defense Department jobs have been abolished in the past nine months as useless, the House Civil Service Committee said yesterday, and the action will save 95 million dollars yearly.

The committee made public a preliminary report on its campaign, waged by a subcommittee headed by Rep. Corbett (R-Pa.), against the practice of assigning both uniformed and civilian personnel to the same job.

It said most of the job reduction thus far has resulted from a job reappraisal in the Air Force, and that "a much larger additional saving" is expected when the Army and Navy report fully on their efforts.

But Three Cases In Police Court

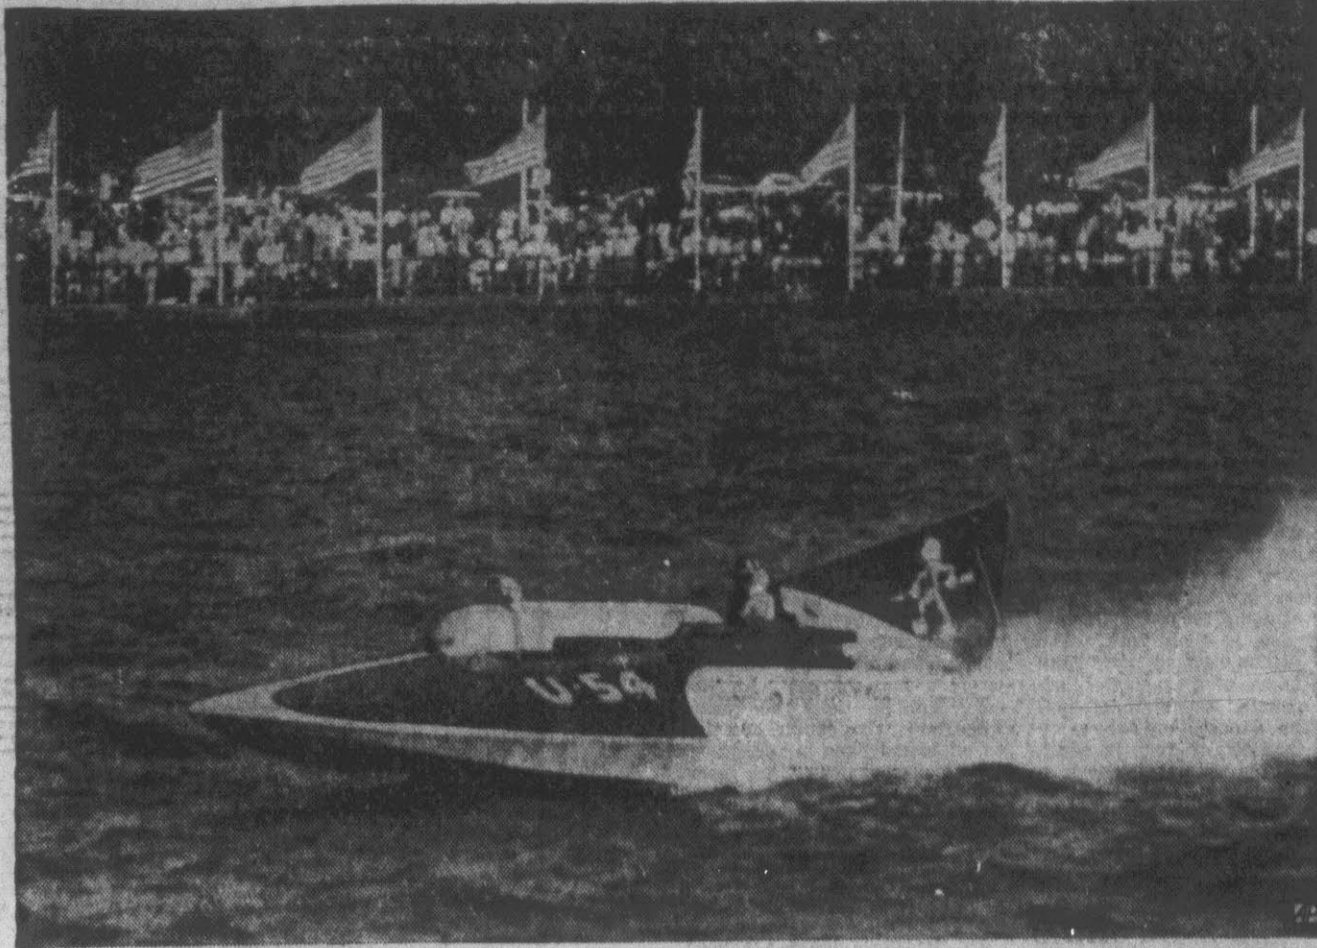

In Police Court Friday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee disposed of three cases.

The cases of Lester T. Heath, who lives on Howell Street, in which he is charged with being drunk and disorderly and resisting arrest by Police Lt. W. E. Peterson, were transferred to Superior Court for jury trial.

Wallace L. Clemmons, Negro, no operator's license, 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of court costs and the judgment provides that he shall not drive an automobile without a license.

We Want Every School Child, White & Colored, To Visit Pitt Co. Agricultural Fair

"Pitt County on Parade" Greenville, N. C. October 11th-16th:

GALE IV CHURNS UP SPRAY—Gale IV, driven by Wild Bill Canirell, slips past spectators to win President's Cup regatta on Potomac River at Washington. Gale IV, owned by Joseph Schoenith, averaged 51.577 mph. and won two of three heats.

Boyette Announced As New Agency Associate Of Insurance Company

The appointment of Robert T. Boyette of Greenville as an agency associate of the H. Gray Hutchison Agency of The Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company was announced today.

Boyette attended Oak Ridge Military Institute where he lettered in both basketball and baseball. Following graduation from the Junior College there, he attended the University of North Carolina where he received an AB degree in Journalism in 1951.

After graduating from Carolina he served in United States Air Force for two years, leaving the service as a 1st Lieutenant in August 1953.

For the past year he has been associated with the Daily Reflector as a reporter.

He has been active during his residence in Greenville in the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Air Force Reserves and Civil Air Patrol, and is a member of the Baptist Church. He is married and lives with his wife, the former Dorothy Gregory of Goldsboro, in the Bell Arthur community. Mrs. Boyette teaches the second grade at Bell Arthur School.

Boyette returns to Greenville this weekend after three weeks of life insurance training in Raleigh. His training has included all phases of the proper use of life insurance for personal, business, and estate needs. He will be associated with Curtis Perkins, Jr. in representing the Penn Mutual in Greenville and Pitt County. The local branch office is located in the Rivers Building.

FLUSH CLUB BURNS
GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Fire practically destroyed this island city's plush beachfront club, the Balinese Room, before dawn yesterday. Fire Marshal J.C. Kelso put damage at $150,000 to $200,000.

Mother Wiped Out Her Family

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—A middle-age mother's terrifying fear of a falling memory is blamed for a 10-hour nightmare in which she methodically wiped out her entire family including two teenage sons with a .22 rifle.

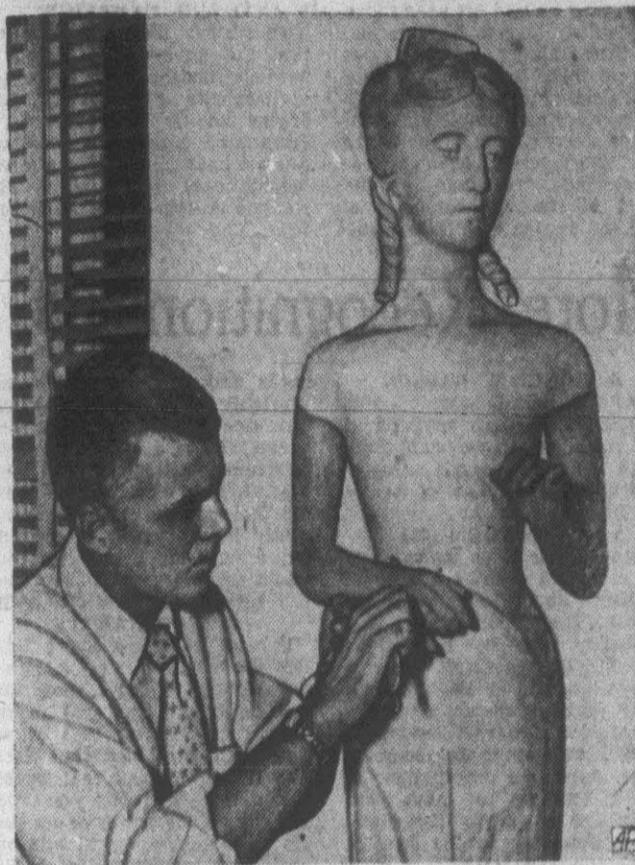

Police said Mrs. Olive Losser, kindergarten teacher, shot and killed her two sons, Donald, 19, and Richard, 17, yesterday. Then she sat for 10 hours in the living room of her fashionable east Oakland home waiting.

At dusk, her husband Milan, 52, prosperous manager of an appliance company opened the front door. The rifle barked again. Losser fell, fatally wounded in the head.

Mrs. Losser, a final bullet saved for herself, dashed into the street and fired it into her own head. Stunned neighbors, who later described the Lossers as "a fine family who never quarreled," summoned police.

Inside the house, police found an open case of 22 cartridges and seven rambling, incoherent notes, scrawled in pencil on cheap paper. Only one gave a clue. It said: "I can't teach. Something is wrong with my memory. I don't know what else to do."

Donald, a sophomore engineering student at the University of California at nearby Berkeley, was found in the bathroom. Police said he obviously had been cornered there while trying to escape. Richard, a high school senior, was found in a basement bedroom. The bullet had entered his brain as he slept.

TO MEET PUBLIC—Ben Lawless fashions new arm for plaster figure of Mrs. Andrew Jackson, Jr. in White House hostesses collection readied for Smithsonian Institute exhibit.

Robbers Take Sporting Chance

CHICAGO (AP)—Two masked gunmen left one of three porters engaged in exchange for a "sporting chance" at a getaway after looting a restaurant safe of $5,000 early yesterday.

The robbers tied up three employees and gagged them while they worked two hours with drill and sledge hammers to open the safe of the Palm Grove Inn on the South Side.

Walter Owens, one of the porters, said one of the men removed his gag on condition he not call for help until he was given permission.

As the robbers reached the alley behind the restaurant, one of them shouted, "Now!"

Singing Teachers Will Convene At ECC On Friday

The North Carolina Chapter of the National Association of Teachers of Singing will stage its first meeting for the academic year 1954-1955 at East Carolina College Friday and Saturday, October 8 and 9. Representatives from this state, Virginia, and South Carolina will attend.

Dan E. Vornholt, faculty member of the music department at East Carolina, is general chairman in charge of the meeting. Dr. Elwood Keister and Paul A. Hickfang of the college and Mrs. James L. White of Greenville are assisting him with local arrangements.

Joel Carter of the University of North Carolina, president of the state chapter, will preside at general meetings and business sessions. Paul Peterson of Salem College, lieutenant governor, will take part in the program to be offered.

Two clinics at which student singers from various parts of the state will receive constructive criticism from a panel of NATS members will be among Saturday's activities. These clinics are scheduled for 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

A steak dinner Friday at 6:30 p.m. and a meeting at 9 p.m. at which plans for the future and the selection of new members will be considered will receive chief attention from members and guests Friday.

Papers and reports, including a prospectus of the convention of the NATS in Chattanooga in December, will be presented Saturday morning at 9:30 in the Austin auditorium. Arnold E. Putman of Furman University, Greenville, S.C., governor of the Southeastern Region of the organization, will preside.

Social events for Saturday will include a luncheon and a tea in honor of those attending the meeting.

Pitt - Mon.

Randolph Scott is the star of the Big Time Western "The Bounty Hunter."

Permit Required To Burn Brush Near Wooded Area

By CHESTER WALSH
Pitt County Forester N.S. (Kid) Tyson today called attention to the new state law requiring permits for burning brush or other materials within 500 feet of wooded areas. The law became effective October 1 and will be in force until next June 1.

Permits for burnings may be procured from persons authorized by the county forester to issue them and there is no charge.

Permits are required for all brush burnings started during the hours beginning at midnight and ending at 4 p.m. The law does not apply to any fires started or caused to be started with 100 feet of an occupied dwelling house.

Tyson quoted State Forester Fred Claridge as saying "the State Department of Conservation and Development will make every effort to enforce the law requiring brush burning permits without fear or favor."

Conviction for violation of the law carries with it a fine of not more than $50 or imprisonment for not more than 30 days.

Permits for burning brush in Pitt county may be obtained from the following persons:

N.S. (Kid) Tyson, Route 2, Greenville, and Mrs. Hazel Manning, at the forest observation tower near the television station; Aaron Case, Red Oaks; C.J. Satterthwaite, Pactolus; Mrs. Thurman

Crawford, Ballard's Cross Roads, Murphrey Brothers, Grifton; R.G. Little, lumber mill, and W.H. Sutton, Grimesland; W.C. Spencer, Black Jack; Mrs. Linwood Had dock, Route 2, Greenville; Blanche Ross, Route 2, Highway 43, Route 2, Greenville; B.B. Basden, Ayden.

O.W. Dail, Winterville; W.G. Leggett, county jail, Greenville; J. Henry Whitehurst, Stokes; E.M. Wooten, Falkland; McAlvin Turner, Belvoir; Major James, Bethel; Wilbur Garria, Route 2, Ayden; James J. Edwards, Stokes Town; William A. House, Stokes; A. J. Moore, Fountain; J.H. Bundy, Route 3, Walstonburg.

Parachute Jump By Prison Inmate

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—A parachute jump by an inmate serving two years for forgery highlighted the opening of the annual Texas Prison Rodeo yesterday.

Bill Kennedy, 34, left the plane at 1,500 feet and plopped down safely two blocks north of the prison stadium in front of Huntsville High School. He was trying to land in the stadium.

Hey Kiddies

Going to the Pitt County Fair? It's FREE for you on Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday. Get Your FREE tickets for the Fair from your Teacher.

October 11th-16th:

Colds
Relieve Suffering Fast - Effectively with VICKS VapoRub

Dividend Paying Policies
Tadlock Mutual Insurance Agency
Save With Safety... Buy Mutual Insurance
322 Evans Street, Greenville, N. C. — Dial 2397
FIRE, AUTOMOBILE and TORNADO

Yes, sir! I've found Completely Satisfactory eyeglass service at Ridgeway's OPTICIANS, Inc.
5 Points Greenville, N. C.

Cream of Kentucky
$2.10 PINT $5.00 QT. $3.35
A Schenley product
Cream of Kentucky Double-Pick Kentucky Whiskey a Blend
BLENDED AND BOTTLED BY SCHEMLEY DISTILLERS, INC., FRANKFORT, KENTUCKY

Both the highest quality money can buy!
Guaranty Bank and Trust Company
Member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation
"The Guardian and Executor That Never Dies"
Established 1891 - Time Tested
BORROW HERE... INSURE LOCALLY

Weekly Football Contest For FREE FOOTWEAR
IT'S EASY... ANYONE CAN WIN!
LARRY'S SHOE STORE is giving a free pair of Sundial shoes of your choice each week from now until November 27th.
IT DOESN'T COST YOU A PENNY SO READ THE DIRECTIONS AND ENTER THIS WEEK.

OFFICIAL ENTRY BLANK
Week Ending Friday, October 8th

CLIP Out And Bring To Larry's Shoe Store At Five Points.

1. Alabama	2. Tulsa
3. Army	4. Dartmouth
5. Baylor	6. Arkansas
7. California	8. Oregon
9. Clemson	10. Florida Univ.
11. Columbia	12. Yale
13. Duke	14. Purdue
15. Florida State	16. Villanova
17. Georgia	18. North Carolina
19. Georgia Tech	20. L. S. U.
21. Holy Cross	22. Miami Florida
23. Illinois	24. Ohio State
25. Maryland	26. Wake Forest
27. Navy	28. Stanford
29. N. C. State	30. William & Mary
31. Oklahoma	32. Texas
33. Princeton	34. Pennsylvania
35. Wisconsin	36. Rice
37. Greenville High School	38. Elizabeth City, N. C.
39. () East Carolina	40. () Elon

Must be in by 5 p.m., Friday, October 8th.

NAME _____
ST. or R.F.D. _____
CITY _____

Last Week's Winner: Jerry Peele of East Carolina College

Larry's Shoe Store
"Five Ways To A Perfect Fit" At Five Points - Greenville, N. C.

The Daily Reflector

Incorporated
Published Every Afternoon Except Sunday
Established 1882
DAVID J. WHICHARD, JR., Publisher

Monday, October 4, 1954

Proposal Should Be Part Of City Policy

At least a portion, if not all, the city's revenue from parking meters should be earmarked for providing more parking space in the business districts of the city.

The proposal, which has been made several times before, was reiterated last week by the city's Off-Street Parking Committee along with other specific recommendations to the city council.

Although the proposal that parking meter revenue should be used to provide more parking facilities has been offered several times before, it has never been incorporated as a matter of policy by the City Council. During the years Greenville has been collecting nickels from parkers, revenue from the meters has gone into the city's general fund and used to defray operation costs of the city.

With the parking situation becoming increasingly pressing, it is apparent that more parking space is going to have to be provided. Greenville, like other cities, will have to turn to off-street parking.

With the conversion of the old swimming pool into a parking lot, the city government is for the first time investing city funds to provide additional public parking facilities. It is apparent the city should begin to acquire - either through purchase or lease - other suitable facilities which can be used for off-street parking. It is equally apparent this off-street parking matter must be approached on a sound business basis, whether property is purchased or leased.

There will be objection from some sources to the proposal that parking meter funds be pumped back into off-street parking facilities. Some who feel they will obtain no direct benefits from off-street parking facilities may assert it is improper to use public money for the provision of such facilities. As we see it, however, the shoppers are the ones who will benefit most from off-street parking facilities. And after all, the shoppers are the ones who have been putting thousands of dollars annually into the nickel parking meters. It is only proper, we think, the money should be used to provide better parking facilities for the shoppers who are paying the toll.

The parking meter money paid to the city by shoppers has been channeled into other expenditures long enough. It is time the shoppers gain the benefit of more and better parking facilities through the use of at least a portion of their parking meter money.

Although the city budget is already fixed for the current fiscal year, we are of the opinion the City Council should adopt a policy whereby parking meter revenue could be set aside for providing parking facilities at least beginning with the next fiscal year. If it is possible that the off-street parking program can be expanded this year, it would be in order for the City Council to appropriate money for the project from contingency funds in the current budget.

"Your Newspaper--Freedom's Forum"

Freedom of the Press does not belong to editors, publishers or to reporters. It is a priceless heritage which belongs to the American people.

National Newspaper Week, which is being observed this week, will be little different from other weeks in the year so far as newspapers and the freedom of the press are concerned. Readers may see a few more articles on the freedom of the press this week than normally, and they perhaps will read more about newspaper operations than during other weeks in the year.

Otherwise, this week will be just like the other 51 weeks in this year.

There will be newsmen pounding beats around the globe to bring you, the reader, news of happenings in the next block or on

Strength for the Day

If, as you read this article, you are an average adult, you will probably live to be seventy or older. One of the by-products of modern developments in medical science and public health is a gradually increasing life expectancy. On the average, we shall live longer than our parents, and very much longer than our more remote ancestors. Quite a large group of us will even live into our eighties and nineties.

It is pleasant to contemplate the probability of a long, full life. But the thought raises some questions, too. What will seem important, enjoyable, worthwhile during the last quarter of our lives? What are we going to make of those extra years which our ancestors did not have?

We can be fairly sure that fast automobiles, rich food, expensive clothes, and so on, will seem less important in that final quarter beginning in the mid-fifties. Physical enjoyment of the things that money can buy is bound to be less keen. Other things will seem more important: friendship, affection, human relationships of all sorts, quiet security.

Will that last part be a painful anti-climax, or a rich, useful period when our lifetime of experience and mental and spiritual development can be made to bring happiness to ourselves and others? We can plan for it now by concentrating on the right values.

National Whirligig

Eisenhower Takes Assignment

WASHINGTON—Apathy among the Republicans, possible defection of balance-of-power independent voters and the lack of a rabble-rousing issue have led Party strategists to warn President Eisenhower that only his active participation in the campaign will re-elect a GOP Congress. Grimly and reluctantly, Ike has accepted the assignment.

He will make three more nationally televised speeches in the same vein as his extremely partisan address at Los Angeles. According to such shrewd outsiders as Vice-President Nixon and Speaker Martin, who have been sampling off-year sentiment from the stump and in the back rooms of GOP headquarters, Ike's impersonation of a Republican at Los Angeles stirred and stimulated hitherto lackadaisical Party workers.

AN EMBARRASSING QUESTION—Before the President undertook the responsibilities of a Party leader and politician in the Hollywood Bowl, the embarrassing question most frequently fired at Vice-President Nixon and Speaker Martin by the clubhouse coterie was:

"When is Eisenhower going to call for the election of Republican congressmen, governors and mayors? When is he going to act like a Republican President?"

WHITE HOUSE ANSWER—The Los Angeles effort, as well as the three hard-hitting speeches now in preparation, was the White House response. Admittedly running behind now in the attempt to return Republican majorities to House and Senate, the strategists believe that Eisenhower alone can reverse the trend.

Another factor lies behind Eisenhower's agreement to campaign more actively than he had planned. It has been pointed out that, if he can elect and re-elect Congressional candidates by his intervention, he can count on greater Republican support than he obtained in the recent session.

the other side of the ocean. Your newspaper carrier boy may still ride his bike across your newly planted lawn, or toss your daily paper into the little puddle of water on your front porch.

This week, as in every other week, the freedom of the press and the freedom of public information will be challenged many times by people in government, people in high places and low, who would deprive the public of its "right to know." The free press, supported by a free people, will expose corruption, stand in the way of tyranny, shed the purifying light of public scrutiny in places where darkness would otherwise breed oppression, deceit and other evils which would encroach upon the liberties of the American people.

The freedom of the press gives no special privilege to newspapers or the other media of gathering and disseminating public information. The free access to information is the right of the public. The free press merely represents the people in the gathering and disseminating the information. It does so under the obligation to render to the people honest, unbiased reports on all the happenings.

The American press is free because it has kept faith with the people in carrying out its obligation to them. The press is free because the people have demanded and fought to keep it free, realizing that without a free press, other freedoms would soon vanish. The press will remain free so long as the people continue to support the free press as "Freedom's Forum."

NO WHISTLE-STOP TACTICS FOR IKE—President Eisenhower will not emulate Harry S. Truman's 1952 "whistle stop" tactics because he believes that this unbridled performance won votes for the GOP. He will not single out individual candidates for personal or political puffs. He will not let them climb on the back platform, and throw their arms around his neck. He detests that sort of thing.

He will seek to create what his aides describe as an "Eisenhower climate" on a national scale. Conceding that there are honest differences and divisions within the Republican Party and Congress, he will envisage even more dangerous difficulties in the domestic and foreign fields, if he has to contend with a hostile body of legislators.

He will argue that his long-range program seeks a sound and not a war-infused economy, and further strengthening of the free world against Communist aggression. He will direct his appeal in particular to the independents, whose vote is estimated variously at from 3,000,000 to 10,000,000, for it is recognized that the GOP cannot win without them.

WHAT SHOULD HELP REPUBLICANS—The "appliance issues" that should help the Republicans, according to the Nixon-Martin reports, are, in the order of response: (1) Peace in Korea. (2) The Administration's fight on Communists at home and abroad, and (3) Eisenhower's personal and political integrity, with a flashback to "corruption in Truman's regime."

Despite the importance of the Communist issue, the question of "McCarthyism" as a dangerous or divisive factor appears to be vanishing. Several months ago, two out of three questions from audiences and politicians concerned the Senator from Wisconsin.

Today, according to these surveys, the public has had its fill of this subject. It cannot picture Ike as harboring or condoning Reds in Government.

Business Today

Unemployment Oddity

The total number of unemployed, as reported by government agencies, has been running above 3,000,000 this year.

That is an uncomfortably high number.

It isn't even near a record, however. In the lush years of 1949 and 1950, the average number of unemployed was above 3,000,000; there were 3,000,000 unemployed in 1949 and in 1950. After six years of job-making at Federal expense, there were 10,390,000 out of work.

The curious thing about the present situation is that while there are many unemployed, there are also many unfilled jobs.

The New York Times reported the other day that there is "an army of about 200,000 unemployed persons in New York." The same edition carried more than 27 columns of help-wanted advertisements. It was an off-day, too. The Sunday editions carry more than 90 columns, in addition to large display advertisements for men at $40,000 and up a year.

In most cities of the country, private employment agencies say they cannot fill all the openings.

There are many reasons for the high rate of unemployment in the midst of so many job openings. Employment agency people speak of the difference between bodies and talent. In addition, plant workers who are laid off or laid off aren't in a position to move to another job, and their training and union rules prevent them from getting into other fields. Furthermore, today's workers are not completely trained for today's world. There are great shortages of physicians, engineers and draftsmen in the midst of the overabundance of men and women with lesser skills.

The paradox of unemployment in the midst of job openings suggests that present series of statistics on employment are incomplete.

If government research also showed the number of jobs open, then the figure on the number of unemployed would assume a new perspective. It would help us to understand the phenomena of unemployment, and correct the idea that unemployment totals are solely a measure of business trends.

IDEAS ON COLOR ODDLY COINCIDENTAL

The damndest coincidences occur in business. Dr. Daniel Brower, New York psychologist, has suggested that business executives can simplify their chores by using different color markings. For instance, if each department has a special color, memos started with that color will be delivered faster. Important dates should be entered on memo pads in red, things to take home noted in green. On reports and surveys, Dr. Brower suggests, red checks in the margin should indicate facts to be verified or language clarified; checks in green should signify that the material, or correction is O.K.

Dr. Brower's ideas are good. But the curious thing is that they were announced just as a multi-color pen and pencil was introduced (by Norma Pencil Corp.)

IN ANTI-FIRE CAMPAIGN

To further the fight against fire, the Advertising Council is now distributing a kit of 24 advertisements to newspapers. One of the ads is built around a cross-word puzzle and another offers a badge, manual and membership card to children who want to co-operate in preventing fires.

More Recognition Of Supply And Demand Law Needed

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — What we need more than anything in this country is if we want both peace and prosperity is a better recognition of the Law of Supply and Demand.

A LESSON FROM 1933

Many people have indicated to me in recent months a kind of fatalism about our economic outlook. They seem to feel that prosperity can be maintained only in a war economy. Perhaps this is because it has been so many years since we have prospered without war. A lesson that we will learn from the recession which started in the summer of 1933 is that we can have both peace and prosperity if we will adjust ourselves to the Law of Supply and Demand.

But a lot of research must be done on consumer attitudes, on finding out what makes people buy, on how to create wants and needs and how to develop appreciably more effective selling. This especially applies to all merchants. These are the ones who determine employment and business. I wish I had a five-dollar bill for every person I have recently heard say that he would buy a new car if only someone would really try to sell him one.

LESSONS FROM 1929 AND WORLD WAR II

During the peace years from 1929 through 1940, we lost in national output of both goods and services better than $600 billions when measured by 1933 prices. This was about twice what World War II cost us! Our real trouble during those unhappy years was that the buying power of our people failed to keep pace with our productive know-how. For the Law of Supply and Demand to work freely in peacetime, the benefits of new inventions and new methods must be passed along to the worker in the form of higher wages and to the consumer in the form of lower prices, so that the public will be able to buy the products of our increased capacity. This surely requires spending more money on advertising.

Out of our experiences in two World Wars we have learned that the Law of Supply and Demand, although suspended during wartime, must never be forgotten. We have learned that only by curtailing civilian demand can we meet military needs effectively, and save as many lives as possible. The trouble comes, however, when we try to return to a peacetime economy without stimulating civilian demand.

YOUR PART IN PROSPERITY

Everybody knows that when the demand for anything becomes great, prices go up until production catches up. Remember what electric refrigerators, radios, and TV sets first cost. Look at the current asking price of color TV! When a smart businessman sees his colleagues making money by the fistful, he gets into the act too. Then as more goods are produced and more is spent on advertising, prices start to fall, people go out and buy, and more are employed.

Instead of letting business take this course after World War II, government subsidy and regulation tried to keep business good by holding prices high in the face of declining demand. Pretty soon inflation ballooned our whole price structure. The subsequent recession was in part a process of readjustment to this mistaken attempt to keep prices high.

WORK FOR THE CONSUMER

Whether or not we will have another crash depends on the kind of producers and merchants who make up our economy. The way of economic salvation is to work harder, produce better products at lower cost, and then sell harder than ever before. New markets for new products must be developed. When a market is lost, the sales organization had better find another market rather than appeal to the government.

I forecast that research must be encouraged to keep a concern or a city in a competitively strong position—product research, selling research, and consumer research. Salaries must keep pace with the times. The Law of Supply and Demand will require flexibility and adaptability by all of us. But, if we want both peace and prosperity, we will learn how to live under a free working Law of Supply and Demand. This Law we can no more change than we can change the weather.

Around Capitol Square

Head-Shaking Over Changed Policies In Farm Program

By LYNN NISBET

FARM PROGRAM — Many complaints are being heard, especially throughout eastern North Carolina, at changed policies in operation of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation program (ASC), which is the name for the agency which for some years was known as the Production and Marketing Administration (PMA).

This is the agency which makes direct contact with the individual farmer in effectuating the government farm program. Many of the farmers do not understand the high-brow language of congressional acts and top level administrative directives. All farmers are acutely conscious of the local impact, made chiefly through community and county

ASC committees, elected by the farmers themselves to handle the program in their own areas.

Reference has previously been made to the reputed effort of Republican state leaders to get Republican parliamentarians on these local committees. Objection to that while politics undoubtedly influenced congressional legislation and top level administration, there had been practically no partisan politics at the community and county level.

Another policy of the regime disturbs eastern farmers more than the partisan political angle. That is the regulation which provides that ballots for the election of local ASC committeemen are being mailed out only to landowners. Tenant farmers, whether they pay a fixed rental or co-operate as share-croppers, can obtain ballots only by going to the county ASC office, usually at the county seat, and certifying their eligibility to vote in the election. Landlords are not even permitted to carry ballots to their tenants under this new ruling.

ELIGIBILITY — The new regulations do not materially change the eligibility requirements for voting. Any man or woman who

Worth Noting

MATCHMAKERS BIG USERS OF RAW MATERIALS

There are, in the Match Industry Information Bureau would have you know, 32 ingredients employed in the manufacture of matches.

And to show the size of the industry, the bureau points out that it used 16,000,000 pounds of paraffin wax—one of those ingredients—last year. The paraffin can be seen on matches, just below the head. It helps support the flame until the wood catches fire.

AVERAGE HIGHWAY MILE COSTS $32,500

The average mile of highway built during the first half of this year cost $32,500, according to an analysis by C.I.T. Financial Corporation.

Some roads must have been a lot cheaper, because superhighways, costing up to several millions dollars a mile, brought up the average.

Contracts involving state, Federal and all authority funds covered 33,200 miles of highways in that period, the analysis showed. The total outlay was $1,081,650,000. When expenditure for city streets and county roads are added, the total is around $6 billion.

BUSINESS TODAY ANNE SOME JULY SALES UP OTHERS DOWN FROM 1953

July retail sales this year were level with sales in July, 1953, but 2 per cent under June sales, according to Commerce Department figures.

Those lines that did more than 2 per cent better than a year ago include: grocery stores, eating places, gas stations, drug and proprietary stores, dairies, bakeries, furriers, heating and plumbing equipment dealers, book stores, luggage stores and office, store, machine and equipment dealers.

Those doing less than 2 per cent as well include: department stores, auto and accessory dealers, florists, stationery and optical goods stores.

Curiously, lumber yards were ahead while lumber and building materials dealers were behind, and men's and boys' furnishing stores were down while men's and boys' clothing stores were up.

THE HAND OF AUTHORITY

The Daily Reflector

Entered at the Post Office at Greenville, N. C. as second class mail matter.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By Carrier Week 30c
(BY MAIL, Payable in Advance)
Three Months $ 3.50
Six Months $ 6.50
One Year $11.50

MEMBER ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to use publication all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited to this paper and also the local news published herein. All rights of publication of special dispatches here are also reserved.

NATIONAL ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES
Thomas F. Clark, Co., Inc., New York, Chicago, Atlanta, Member Audit Bureau of Circulation.
All advertising copy must be received at least one day before publication date.

Tears for the Bride

SYNOPSIS
When the noted sleuth, Jim Bennett, accepted the invitation to join her family for a weekend of pheasant shooting in rural Ohio, he looked forward to a pleasant, quiet time. But when he met her family and friends, he realized that he was amid a drama of human conflict as tense as anything he'd experienced in his long crime-detection career. Sandy's young war-veteran brother, Ralph, had "ditched" the spirited Judy Kirkland for de-cille Eileen Fortune, and the hate between these two women flew like sparks. But the pheasant hunt proceeds as scheduled, with the Hollis', Eileen Fortune, and her father, Jake, and Bennett, armed and equipped to bring down birds.

CHAPTER SEVEN
IN THE morning everything seemed fine, at least on the surface. At breakfast Sandy and Ralph joked with each other and once Sandy gave me a special sort of smile. Homer Hollis was quietly humorous, and Mrs. Hollis bustled about urging us to eat more pancakes, scrambled eggs and fried ham. I asked about Rex Bishop, and Homer said he'd had his breakfast hours ago.
"He cooks it himself about dawn," Homer said, "and he won't let Mom do it for him."
"And thank heaven," Mrs. Hollis said, laughing, "I've lived on near, with a bright sun shining over the brown fields. We spread out, with about ten yards between us. Homer Hollis was on my left, Jake Fortune on my right. Sandy and Ralph were on the wings, with Eileen between her father and Ralph.

Off to our right a pheasant left the shelter of a corn shock and shot into the air, the sun glinting on the bright red, green and gold of its feathers. "Homer, shout," "Sandy! Take it!"
Sandy brought her trim little 16 gauge to her shoulder, the gleaming blue barrel following the swift flight of the bird. The clean crack of the shot echoed over the fields and the bird dropped. Sandy ran to pick it up and held it proudly aloft.
Jake Fortune's laugh boomed out. "First blood," he said. "Homer, we'll have to do something about that. Can't let the women get the best of us. How about you and me going over to my place—to a berry thicket I've been watching?"
Homer smiled, his proud gaze on Sandy, and he said absently, "All right, Jake," and he followed the big man across the field. "See you at dinner," he called over his shoulder at the rest of us.
I was glad the party had split up. I figured that six in a bunch was too many for safety, even if we had been spread out. Suddenly Jake Fortune stopped and called to Eileen. "Want to come with us, honey? That'll make it even—three and three."
Eileen looked questioningly at Ralph. He grinned and said, "Go ahead. I'll see you at noon."
She said something to him that I couldn't hear, and then moved slowly to join her father and Homer. They walked across the field and disappeared over a pine-crested hill.
Sandy, Ralph and I moved across the field—our guns ready, but we didn't see any birds. We reached a fence and saw the tall, thin figure of Rex Bishop walking toward us. A gleaming coil of wire was looped over one shoulder, and he carried a long-barreled rifle. He waved at us, and I went over to the fence. We grinned at each other in the sunshine. The gun he held was an old-time flint lock. "Going to fix a fence at the far end of the ravine," he said, "down in the bottom. Thought I might get a shot at a bird."
I nodded at the musket. "With that?"
"It's a dang sight better weapon than that fancy scatter-gun you're toting." He peered over the fields. "Where's Homer, and the rest?"
"We split up."
"Try the ravine," he said. "It goes clean across Homer's land, east to west. It runs across the Kirkland boundary, and them two old women don't allow no hunting at all—except Judy, she hunts once in a while. Should be plenty of birds in there."
"Thanks Rex."
He peered at me in the sunlight. "Do you suppose you and me could do a little target shooting this afternoon?" he asked hopefully. "Before chore time?"
"Sure."
He grinned like a kid who had been promised a new bicycle and as he moved away he said, "Tell Homer I might not get up to the house for dinner, but I got me a couple of side meat sandwiches in my pocket."
"I'll tell him," I said.
He waved at Sandy and Ralph and moved on along the fence, balancing the heavy coil of wire easily on his lean shoulder. I went over to Ralph and Sandy and told them what Rex had said about the ravine near the boundary of the Kirkland place. Ralph nodded. "He's probably right. We'll give it a try."
We climbed two fences, went through a patch of stunted pine, and emerged in a rolling meadow. Ahead I could see a winding row of trees and bushes which marked the crest of a ravine which stretched across the land as far as I could see. "It runs for miles," Ralph said. "There was water in it at one time, but it's dried up now."
Beyond the ravine was a long sloping hill and a distant house outlined against the sky. Ralph pointed at the house, said, "That's where Eileen and her father live."
I grinned at him. "Your girl lives right next door, huh?"
He laughed and said, "Sandy and I grew up with Eileen."
(Copyright, 1954, by Robert Martin. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.)

at farm all my life but five o'clock in the morning is a little too early for me."
Jake Fortune and Eileen arrived. They said they'd had breakfast, but accepted coffee and sat at the big table with us. Eileen glanced anxiously at Ralph but he smiled at her and presently I noticed that they were holding hands beneath the table. A melting look came into her eyes, and I guessed that she could hardly wait to get Ralph alone to tell him that she was sorry for her impulsive action, born of jealousy, in leaving with Earl Sellzman the night before. She looked pretty in a red hunting cap and a heavy bright plaid shirt. Jake Fortune talked loudly and laughed a lot. The note books and yellow pencils still bulged the pocket of his flannel shirt.
At last we pushed back our chairs. I put on my new hunting coat and we went outside. There was an array of guns on the back porch, and Homer Hollis handed me a .12 gauge double-barreled shotgun and a handful of shells. "That's a good gun, Jim," he said. "I think you'll like her."
I hefted it, raised it to my shoulder and sighted at a lightning rod on the barn. "It's a sweet gun," I said. "If I don't get a bird, it won't be the gun's fault."
Homer laughed, and the six of us started out across the barnyard toward the open country beyond. It was a fine day, cold and clear, with a bright sun shining over the brown fields. We spread out, with about ten yards between us. Homer Hollis was on my left, Jake Fortune on my right. Sandy and Ralph were on the wings, with Eileen between her father and Ralph.

Off to our right a pheasant left the shelter of a corn shock and shot into the air, the sun glinting on the bright red, green and gold of its feathers. "Homer, shout," "Sandy! Take it!"
Sandy brought her trim little 16 gauge to her shoulder, the gleaming blue barrel following the swift flight of the bird. The clean crack of the shot echoed over the fields and the bird dropped. Sandy ran to pick it up and held it proudly aloft.
Jake Fortune's laugh boomed out. "First blood," he said. "Homer, we'll have to do something about that. Can't let the women get the best of us. How about you and me going over to my place—to a berry thicket I've been watching?"
Homer smiled, his proud gaze on Sandy, and he said absently, "All right, Jake," and he followed the big man across the field. "See you at dinner," he called over his shoulder at the rest of us.
I was glad the party had split up. I figured that six in a bunch was too many for safety, even if we had been spread out. Suddenly Jake Fortune stopped and called to Eileen. "Want to come with us, honey? That'll make it even—three and three."
Eileen looked questioningly at Ralph. He grinned and said, "Go ahead. I'll see you at noon."
She said something to him that I couldn't hear, and then moved slowly to join her father and Homer. They walked across the field and disappeared over a pine-crested hill.
Sandy, Ralph and I moved across the field—our guns ready, but we didn't see any birds. We reached a fence and saw the tall, thin figure of Rex Bishop walking toward us. A gleaming coil of wire was looped over one shoulder, and he carried a long-barreled rifle. He waved at us, and I went over to the fence. We grinned at each other in the sunshine. The gun he held was an old-time flint lock. "Going to fix a fence at the far end of the ravine," he said, "down in the bottom. Thought I might get a shot at a bird."
I nodded at the musket. "With that?"
"It's a dang sight better weapon than that fancy scatter-gun you're toting." He peered over the fields. "Where's Homer, and the rest?"
"We split up."
"Try the ravine," he said. "It goes clean across Homer's land, east to west. It runs across the Kirkland boundary, and them two old women don't allow no hunting at all—except Judy, she hunts once in a while. Should be plenty of birds in there."
"Thanks Rex."
He peered at me in the sunlight. "Do you suppose you and me could do a little target shooting this afternoon?" he asked hopefully. "Before chore time?"
"Sure."
He grinned like a kid who had been promised a new bicycle and as he moved away he said, "Tell Homer I might not get up to the house for dinner, but I got me a couple of side meat sandwiches in my pocket."
"I'll tell him," I said.
He waved at Sandy and Ralph and moved on along the fence, balancing the heavy coil of wire easily on his lean shoulder. I went over to Ralph and Sandy and told them what Rex had said about the ravine near the boundary of the Kirkland place. Ralph nodded. "He's probably right. We'll give it a try."
We climbed two fences, went through a patch of stunted pine, and emerged in a rolling meadow. Ahead I could see a winding row of trees and bushes which marked the crest of a ravine which stretched across the land as far as I could see. "It runs for miles," Ralph said. "There was water in it at one time, but it's dried up now."
Beyond the ravine was a long sloping hill and a distant house outlined against the sky. Ralph pointed at the house, said, "That's where Eileen and her father live."
I grinned at him. "Your girl lives right next door, huh?"
He laughed and said, "Sandy and I grew up with Eileen."
(Copyright, 1954, by Robert Martin. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.)

clear, with a bright sun shining over the brown fields. We spread out, with about ten yards between us. Homer Hollis was on my left, Jake Fortune on my right. Sandy and Ralph were on the wings, with Eileen between her father and Ralph.
Off to our right a pheasant left the shelter of a corn shock and shot into the air, the sun glinting on the bright red, green and gold of its feathers. "Homer, shout," "Sandy! Take it!"
Sandy brought her trim little 16 gauge to her shoulder, the gleaming blue barrel following the swift flight of the bird. The clean crack of the shot echoed over the fields and the bird dropped. Sandy ran to pick it up and held it proudly aloft.
Jake Fortune's laugh boomed out. "First blood," he said. "Homer, we'll have to do something about that. Can't let the women get the best of us. How about you and me going over to my place—to a berry thicket I've been watching?"
Homer smiled, his proud gaze on Sandy, and he said absently, "All right, Jake," and he followed the big man across the field. "See you at dinner," he called over his shoulder at the rest of us.
I was glad the party had split up. I figured that six in a bunch was too many for safety, even if we had been spread out. Suddenly Jake Fortune stopped and called to Eileen. "Want to come with us, honey? That'll make it even—three and three."
Eileen looked questioningly at Ralph. He grinned and said, "Go ahead. I'll see you at noon."
She said something to him that I couldn't hear, and then moved slowly to join her father and Homer. They walked across the field and disappeared over a pine-crested hill.
Sandy, Ralph and I moved across the field—our guns ready, but we didn't see any birds. We reached a fence and saw the tall, thin figure of Rex Bishop walking toward us. A gleaming coil of wire was looped over one shoulder, and he carried a long-barreled rifle. He waved at us, and I went over to the fence. We grinned at each other in the sunshine. The gun he held was an old-time flint lock. "Going to fix a fence at the far end of the ravine," he said, "down in the bottom. Thought I might get a shot at a bird."
I nodded at the musket. "With that?"
"It's a dang sight better weapon than that fancy scatter-gun you're toting." He peered over the fields. "Where's Homer, and the rest?"
"We split up."
"Try the ravine," he said. "It goes clean across Homer's land, east to west. It runs across the Kirkland boundary, and them two old women don't allow no hunting at all—except Judy, she hunts once in a while. Should be plenty of birds in there."
"Thanks Rex."
He peered at me in the sunlight. "Do you suppose you and me could do a little target shooting this afternoon?" he asked hopefully. "Before chore time?"
"Sure."
He grinned like a kid who had been promised a new bicycle and as he moved away he said, "Tell Homer I might not get up to the house for dinner, but I got me a couple of side meat sandwiches in my pocket."
"I'll tell him," I said.
He waved at Sandy and Ralph and moved on along the fence, balancing the heavy coil of wire easily on his lean shoulder. I went over to Ralph and Sandy and told them what Rex had said about the ravine near the boundary of the Kirkland place. Ralph nodded. "He's probably right. We'll give it a try."
We climbed two fences, went through a patch of stunted pine, and emerged in a rolling meadow. Ahead I could see a winding row of trees and bushes which marked the crest of a ravine which stretched across the land as far as I could see. "It runs for miles," Ralph said. "There was water in it at one time, but it's dried up now."
Beyond the ravine was a long sloping hill and a distant house outlined against the sky. Ralph pointed at the house, said, "That's where Eileen and her father live."
I grinned at him. "Your girl lives right next door, huh?"
He laughed and said, "Sandy and I grew up with Eileen."
(Copyright, 1954, by Robert Martin. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.)

clear, with a bright sun shining over the brown fields. We spread out, with about ten yards between us. Homer Hollis was on my left, Jake Fortune on my right. Sandy and Ralph were on the wings, with Eileen between her father and Ralph.
Off to our right a pheasant left the shelter of a corn shock and shot into the air, the sun glinting on the bright red, green and gold of its feathers. "Homer, shout," "Sandy! Take it!"
Sandy brought her trim little 16 gauge to her shoulder, the gleaming blue barrel following the swift flight of the bird. The clean crack of the shot echoed over the fields and the bird dropped. Sandy ran to pick it up and held it proudly aloft.
Jake Fortune's laugh boomed out. "First blood," he said. "Homer, we'll have to do something about that. Can't let the women get the best of us. How about you and me going over to my place—to a berry thicket I've been watching?"
Homer smiled, his proud gaze on Sandy, and he said absently, "All right, Jake," and he followed the big man across the field. "See you at dinner," he called over his shoulder at the rest of us.
I was glad the party had split up. I figured that six in a bunch was too many for safety, even if we had been spread out. Suddenly Jake Fortune stopped and called to Eileen. "Want to come with us, honey? That'll make it even—three and three."
Eileen looked questioningly at Ralph. He grinned and said, "Go ahead. I'll see you at noon."
She said something to him that I couldn't hear, and then moved slowly to join her father and Homer. They walked across the field and disappeared over a pine-crested hill.
Sandy, Ralph and I moved across the field—our guns ready, but we didn't see any birds. We reached a fence and saw the tall, thin figure of Rex Bishop walking toward us. A gleaming coil of wire was looped over one shoulder, and he carried a long-barreled rifle. He waved at us, and I went over to the fence. We grinned at each other in the sunshine. The gun he held was an old-time flint lock. "Going to fix a fence at the far end of the ravine," he said, "down in the bottom. Thought I might get a shot at a bird."
I nodded at the musket. "With that?"
"It's a dang sight better weapon than that fancy scatter-gun you're toting." He peered over the fields. "Where's Homer, and the rest?"
"We split up."
"Try the ravine," he said. "It goes clean across Homer's land, east to west. It runs across the Kirkland boundary, and them two old women don't allow no hunting at all—except Judy, she hunts once in a while. Should be plenty of birds in there."
"Thanks Rex."
He peered at me in the sunlight. "Do you suppose you and me could do a little target shooting this afternoon?" he asked hopefully. "Before chore time?"
"Sure."
He grinned like a kid who had been promised a new bicycle and as he moved away he said, "Tell Homer I might not get up to the house for dinner, but I got me a couple of side meat sandwiches in my pocket."
"I'll tell him," I said.
He waved at Sandy and Ralph and moved on along the fence, balancing the heavy coil of wire easily on his lean shoulder. I went over to Ralph and Sandy and told them what Rex had said about the ravine near the boundary of the Kirkland place. Ralph nodded. "He's probably right. We'll give it a try."
We climbed two fences, went through a patch of stunted pine, and emerged in a rolling meadow. Ahead I could see a winding row of trees and bushes which marked the crest of a ravine which stretched across the land as far as I could see. "It runs for miles," Ralph said. "There was water in it at one time, but it's dried up now."
Beyond the ravine was a long sloping hill and a distant house outlined against the sky. Ralph pointed at the house, said, "That's where Eileen and her father live."
I grinned at him. "Your girl lives right next door, huh?"
He laughed and said, "Sandy and I grew up with Eileen."
(Copyright, 1954, by Robert Martin. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.)

clear, with a bright sun shining over the brown fields. We spread out, with about ten yards between us. Homer Hollis was on my left, Jake Fortune on my right. Sandy and Ralph were on the wings, with Eileen between her father and Ralph.
Off to our right a pheasant left the shelter of a corn shock and shot into the air, the sun glinting on the bright red, green and gold of its feathers. "Homer, shout," "Sandy! Take it!"
Sandy brought her trim little 16 gauge to her shoulder, the gleaming blue barrel following the swift flight of the bird. The clean crack of the shot echoed over the fields and the bird dropped. Sandy ran to pick it up and held it proudly aloft.
Jake Fortune's laugh boomed out. "First blood," he said. "Homer, we'll have to do something about that. Can't let the women get the best of us. How about you and me going over to my place—to a berry thicket I've been watching?"
Homer smiled, his proud gaze on Sandy, and he said absently, "All right, Jake," and he followed the big man across the field. "See you at dinner," he called over his shoulder at the rest of us.
I was glad the party had split up. I figured that six in a bunch was too many for safety, even if we had been spread out. Suddenly Jake Fortune stopped and called to Eileen. "Want to come with us, honey? That'll make it even—three and three."
Eileen looked questioningly at Ralph. He grinned and said, "Go ahead. I'll see you at noon."
She said something to him that I couldn't hear, and then moved slowly to join her father and Homer. They walked across the field and disappeared over a pine-crested hill.
Sandy, Ralph and I moved across the field—our guns ready, but we didn't see any birds. We reached a fence and saw the tall, thin figure of Rex Bishop walking toward us. A gleaming coil of wire was looped over one shoulder, and he carried a long-barreled rifle. He waved at us, and I went over to the fence. We grinned at each other in the sunshine. The gun he held was an old-time flint lock. "Going to fix a fence at the far end of the ravine," he said, "down in the bottom. Thought I might get a shot at a bird."
I nodded at the musket. "With that?"
"It's a dang sight better weapon than that fancy scatter-gun you're toting." He peered over the fields. "Where's Homer, and the rest?"
"We split up."
"Try the ravine," he said. "It goes clean across Homer's land, east to west. It runs across the Kirkland boundary, and them two old women don't allow no hunting at all—except Judy, she hunts once in a while. Should be plenty of birds in there."
"Thanks Rex."
He peered at me in the sunlight. "Do you suppose you and me could do a little target shooting this afternoon?" he asked hopefully. "Before chore time?"
"Sure."
He grinned like a kid who had been promised a new bicycle and as he moved away he said, "Tell Homer I might not get up to the house for dinner, but I got me a couple of side meat sandwiches in my pocket."
"I'll tell him," I said.
He waved at Sandy and Ralph and moved on along the fence, balancing the heavy coil of wire easily on his lean shoulder. I went over to Ralph and Sandy and told them what Rex had said about the ravine near the boundary of the Kirkland place. Ralph nodded. "He's probably right. We'll give it a try."
We climbed two fences, went through a patch of stunted pine, and emerged in a rolling meadow. Ahead I could see a winding row of trees and bushes which marked the crest of a ravine which stretched across the land as far as I could see. "It runs for miles," Ralph said. "There was water in it at one time, but it's dried up now."
Beyond the ravine was a long sloping hill and a distant house outlined against the sky. Ralph pointed at the house, said, "That's where Eileen and her father live."
I grinned at him. "Your girl lives right next door, huh?"
He laughed and said, "Sandy and I grew up with Eileen."
(Copyright, 1954, by Robert Martin. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.)

clear, with a bright sun shining over the brown fields. We spread out, with about ten yards between us. Homer Hollis was on my left, Jake Fortune on my right. Sandy and Ralph were on the wings, with Eileen between her father and Ralph.
Off to our right a pheasant left the shelter of a corn shock and shot into the air, the sun glinting on the bright red, green and gold of its feathers. "Homer, shout," "Sandy! Take it!"
Sandy brought her trim little 16 gauge to her shoulder, the gleaming blue barrel following the swift flight of the bird. The clean crack of the shot echoed over the fields and the bird dropped. Sandy ran to pick it up and held it proudly aloft.
Jake Fortune's laugh boomed out. "First blood," he said. "Homer, we'll have to do something about that. Can't let the women get the best of us. How about you and me going over to my place—to a berry thicket I've been watching?"
Homer smiled, his proud gaze on Sandy, and he said absently, "All right, Jake," and he followed the big man across the field. "See you at dinner," he called over his shoulder at the rest of us.
I was glad the party had split up. I figured that six in a bunch was too many for safety, even if we had been spread out. Suddenly Jake Fortune stopped and called to Eileen. "Want to come with us, honey? That'll make it even—three and three."
Eileen looked questioningly at Ralph. He grinned and said, "Go ahead. I'll see you at noon."
She said something to him that I couldn't hear, and then moved slowly to join her father and Homer. They walked across the field and disappeared over a pine-crested hill.
Sandy, Ralph and I moved across the field—our guns ready, but we didn't see any birds. We reached a fence and saw the tall, thin figure of Rex Bishop walking toward us. A gleaming coil of wire was looped over one shoulder, and he carried a long-barreled rifle. He waved at us, and I went over to the fence. We grinned at each other in the sunshine. The gun he held was an old-time flint lock. "Going to fix a fence at the far end of the ravine," he said, "down in the bottom. Thought I might get a shot at a bird."
I nodded at the musket. "With that?"
"It's a dang sight better weapon than that fancy scatter-gun you're toting." He peered over the fields. "Where's Homer, and the rest?"
"We split up."
"Try the ravine," he said. "It goes clean across Homer's land, east to west. It runs across the Kirkland boundary, and them two old women don't allow no hunting at all—except Judy, she hunts once in a while. Should be plenty of birds in there."
"Thanks Rex."
He peered at me in the sunlight. "Do you suppose you and me could do a little target shooting this afternoon?" he asked hopefully. "Before chore time?"
"Sure."
He grinned like a kid who had been promised a new bicycle and as he moved away he said, "Tell Homer I might not get up to the house for dinner, but I got me a couple of side meat sandwiches in my pocket."
"I'll tell him," I said.
He waved at Sandy and Ralph and moved on along the fence, balancing the heavy coil of wire easily on his lean shoulder. I went over to Ralph and Sandy and told them what Rex had said about the ravine near the boundary of the Kirkland place. Ralph nodded. "He's probably right. We'll give it a try."
We climbed two fences, went through a patch of stunted pine, and emerged in a rolling meadow. Ahead I could see a winding row of trees and bushes which marked the crest of a ravine which stretched across the land as far as I could see. "It runs for miles," Ralph said. "There was water in it at one time, but it's dried up now."
Beyond the ravine was a long sloping hill and a distant house outlined against the sky. Ralph pointed at the house, said, "That's where Eileen and her father live."
I grinned at him. "Your girl lives right next door, huh?"
He laughed and said, "Sandy and I grew up with Eileen."
(Copyright, 1954, by Robert Martin. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.)

clear, with a bright sun shining over the brown fields. We spread out, with about ten yards between us. Homer Hollis was on my left, Jake Fortune on my right. Sandy and Ralph were on the wings, with Eileen between her father and Ralph.
Off to our right a pheasant left the shelter of a corn shock and shot into the air, the sun glinting on the bright red, green and gold of its feathers. "Homer, shout," "Sandy! Take it!"
Sandy brought her trim little 16 gauge to her shoulder, the gleaming blue barrel following the swift flight of the bird. The clean crack of the shot echoed over the fields and the bird dropped. Sandy ran to pick it up and held it proudly aloft.
Jake Fortune's laugh boomed out. "First blood," he said. "Homer, we'll have to do something about that. Can't let the women get the best of us. How about you and me going over to my place—to a berry thicket I've been watching?"
Homer smiled, his proud gaze on Sandy, and he said absently, "All right, Jake," and he followed the big man across the field. "See you at dinner," he called over his shoulder at the rest of us.
I was glad the party had split up. I figured that six in a bunch was too many for safety, even if we had been spread out. Suddenly Jake Fortune stopped and called to Eileen. "Want to come with us, honey? That'll make it even—three and three."
Eileen looked questioningly at Ralph. He grinned and said, "Go ahead. I'll see you at noon."
She said something to him that I couldn't hear, and then moved slowly to join her father and Homer. They walked across the field and disappeared over a pine-crested hill.
Sandy, Ralph and I moved across the field—our guns ready, but we didn't see any birds. We reached a fence and saw the tall, thin figure of Rex Bishop walking toward us. A gleaming coil of wire was looped over one shoulder, and he carried a long-barreled rifle. He waved at us, and I went over to the fence. We grinned at each other in the sunshine. The gun he held was an old-time flint lock. "Going to fix a fence at the far end of the ravine," he said, "down in the bottom. Thought I might get a shot at a bird."
I nodded at the musket. "With that?"
"It's a dang sight better weapon than that fancy scatter-gun you're toting." He peered over the fields. "Where's Homer, and the rest?"
"We split up."
"Try the ravine," he said. "It goes clean across Homer's land, east to west. It runs across the Kirkland boundary, and them two old women don't allow no hunting at all—except Judy, she hunts once in a while. Should be plenty of birds in there."
"Thanks Rex."
He peered at me in the sunlight. "Do you suppose you and me could do a little target shooting this afternoon?" he asked hopefully. "Before chore time?"
"Sure."
He grinned like a kid who had been promised a new bicycle and as he moved away he said, "Tell Homer I might not get up to the house for dinner, but I got me a couple of side meat sandwiches in my pocket."
"I'll tell him," I said.
He waved at Sandy and Ralph and moved on along the fence, balancing the heavy coil of wire easily on his lean shoulder. I went over to Ralph and Sandy and told them what Rex had said about the ravine near the boundary of the Kirkland place. Ralph nodded. "He's probably right. We'll give it a try."
We climbed two fences, went through a patch of stunted pine, and emerged in a rolling meadow. Ahead I could see a winding row of trees and bushes which marked the crest of a ravine which stretched across the land as far as I could see. "It runs for miles," Ralph said. "There was water in it at one time, but it's dried up now."
Beyond the ravine was a long sloping hill and a distant house outlined against the sky. Ralph pointed at the house, said, "That's where Eileen and her father live."
I grinned at him. "Your girl lives right next door, huh?"
He laughed and said, "Sandy and I grew up with Eileen."
(Copyright, 1954, by Robert Martin. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.)

clear, with a bright sun shining over the brown fields. We spread out, with about ten yards between us. Homer Hollis was on my left, Jake Fortune on my right. Sandy and Ralph were on the wings, with Eileen between her father and Ralph.
Off to our right a pheasant left the shelter of a corn shock and shot into the air, the sun glinting on the bright red, green and gold of its feathers. "Homer, shout," "Sandy! Take it!"
Sandy brought her trim little 16 gauge to her shoulder, the gleaming blue barrel following the swift flight of the bird. The clean crack of the shot echoed over the fields and the bird dropped. Sandy ran to pick it up and held it proudly aloft.
Jake Fortune's laugh boomed out. "First blood," he said. "Homer, we'll have to do something about that. Can't let the women get the best of us. How about you and me going over to my place—to a berry thicket I've been watching?"
Homer smiled, his proud gaze on Sandy, and he said absently, "All right, Jake," and he followed the big man across the field. "See you at dinner," he called over his shoulder at the rest of us.
I was glad the party had split up. I figured that six in a bunch was too many for safety, even if we had been spread out. Suddenly Jake Fortune stopped and called to Eileen. "Want to come with us, honey? That'll make it even—three and three."
Eileen looked questioningly at Ralph. He grinned and said, "Go ahead. I'll see you at noon."
She said something to him that I couldn't hear, and then moved slowly to join her father and Homer. They walked across the field and disappeared over a pine-crested hill.
Sandy, Ralph and I moved across the field—our guns ready, but we didn't see any birds. We reached a fence and saw the tall, thin figure of Rex Bishop walking toward us. A gleaming coil of wire was looped over one shoulder, and he carried a long-barreled rifle. He waved at us, and I went over to the fence. We grinned at each other in the sunshine. The gun he held was an old-time flint lock. "Going to fix a fence at the far end of the ravine," he said, "down in the bottom. Thought I might get a shot at a bird."
I nodded at the musket. "With that?"
"It's a dang sight better weapon than that fancy scatter-gun you're toting." He peered over the fields. "Where's Homer, and the rest?"
"We split up."
"Try the ravine," he said. "It goes clean across Homer's land, east to west. It runs across the Kirkland boundary, and them two old women don't allow no hunting at all—except Judy, she hunts once in a while. Should be plenty of birds in there."
"Thanks Rex."
He peered at me in the sunlight. "Do you suppose you and me could do a little target shooting this afternoon?" he asked hopefully. "Before chore time?"
"Sure."
He grinned like a kid who had been promised a new bicycle and as he moved away he said, "Tell Homer I might not get up to the house for dinner, but I got me a couple of side meat sandwiches in my pocket."
"I'll tell him," I said.
He waved at Sandy and Ralph and moved on along the fence, balancing the heavy coil of wire easily on his lean shoulder. I went over to Ralph and Sandy and told them what Rex had said about the ravine near the boundary of the Kirkland place. Ralph nodded. "He's probably right. We'll give it a try."
We climbed two fences, went through a patch of stunted pine, and emerged in a rolling meadow. Ahead I could see a winding row of trees and bushes which marked the crest of a ravine which stretched across the land as far as I could see. "It runs for miles," Ralph said. "There was water in it at one time, but it's dried up now."
Beyond the ravine was a long sloping hill and a distant house outlined against the sky. Ralph pointed at the house, said, "That's where Eileen and her father live."
I grinned at him. "Your girl lives right next door, huh?"
He laughed and said, "Sandy and I grew up with Eileen."
(Copyright, 1954, by Robert Martin. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.)

clear, with a bright sun shining over the brown fields. We spread out, with about ten yards between us. Homer Hollis was on my left, Jake Fortune on my right. Sandy and Ralph were on the wings, with Eileen between her father and Ralph.
Off to our right a pheasant left the shelter of a corn shock and shot into the air, the sun glinting on the bright red, green and gold of its feathers. "Homer, shout," "Sandy! Take it!"
Sandy brought her trim little 16 gauge to her shoulder, the gleaming blue barrel following the swift flight of the bird. The clean crack of the shot echoed over the fields and the bird dropped. Sandy ran to pick it up and held it proudly aloft.
Jake Fortune's laugh boomed out. "First blood," he said. "Homer, we'll have to do something about that. Can't let the women get the best of us. How about you and me going over to my place—to a berry thicket I've been watching?"
Homer smiled, his proud gaze on Sandy, and he said absently, "All right, Jake," and he followed the big man across the field. "See you at dinner," he called over his shoulder at the rest of us.
I was glad the party had split up. I figured that six in a bunch was too many for safety, even if we had been spread out. Suddenly Jake Fortune stopped and called to Eileen. "Want to come with us, honey? That'll make it even—three and three."
Eileen looked questioningly at Ralph. He grinned and said, "Go ahead. I'll see you at noon."
She said something to him that I couldn't hear, and then moved slowly to join her father and Homer. They walked across the field and disappeared over a pine-crested hill.
Sandy, Ralph and I moved across the field—our guns ready, but we didn't see any birds. We reached a fence and saw the tall, thin figure of Rex Bishop walking toward us. A gleaming coil of wire was looped over one shoulder, and he carried a long-barreled rifle. He waved at us, and I went over to the fence. We grinned at each other in the sunshine. The gun he held was an old-time flint lock. "Going to fix a fence at the far end of the ravine," he said, "down in the bottom. Thought I might get a shot at a bird."
I nodded at the musket. "With that?"
"It's a dang sight better weapon than that fancy scatter-gun you're toting." He peered over the fields. "Where's Homer, and the rest?"
"We split up."
"Try the ravine," he said. "It goes clean across Homer's land, east to west. It runs across the Kirkland boundary, and them two old women don't allow no hunting at all—except Judy, she hunts once in a while. Should be plenty of birds in there."
"Thanks Rex."
He peered at me in the sunlight. "Do you suppose you and me could do a little target shooting this afternoon?" he asked hopefully. "Before chore time?"
"Sure."
He grinned like a kid who had been promised a new bicycle and as he moved away he said, "Tell Homer I might not get up to the house for dinner, but I got me a couple of side meat sandwiches in my pocket."
"I'll tell him," I said.
He waved at Sandy and Ralph and moved on along the fence, balancing the heavy coil of wire easily on his lean shoulder. I went over to Ralph and Sandy and told them what Rex had said about the ravine near the boundary of the Kirkland place. Ralph nodded. "He's probably right. We'll give it a try."
We climbed two fences, went through a patch of stunted pine, and emerged in a rolling meadow. Ahead I could see a winding row of trees and bushes which marked the crest of a ravine which stretched across the land as far as I could see. "It runs for miles," Ralph said. "There was water in it at one time, but it's dried up now."
Beyond the ravine was a long sloping hill and a distant house outlined against the sky. Ralph pointed at the house, said, "That's where Eileen and her father live."
I grinned at him. "Your girl lives right next door, huh?"
He laughed and said, "Sandy and I grew up with Eileen."
(Copyright, 1954, by Robert Martin. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.)

Business Optimism As New Month Is Started

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Optimism is on the upbeat today as business starts the new month.
Improvement in sales orders and production is sighted by an array of executives in wide range of fields, from steel to textiles.
Other businessmen are learning to live with that new thing—stability. Since the second world war, stability has been a stranger to the economic scene. Crisis has followed crisis in business as well as in world affairs and businessmen became used, if not reconciled, to living in an atmosphere of uncertainty. To some, the comparative stability of the economy in recent months has been a strange and uneasy experience.

But hopes for a good fourth quarter are high in many fields now.
Edward C. Sammons, president of United States National Bank of Portland, Ore., notes that seldom has purchasing power stayed as steady as it has this year. He assures the National Consumers Finance Assn. meeting in San Francisco that the outlook for the long pull is one of economic optimism.
E. J. Haney, president of Allegheny Ludlum Steel, sees blue sky today after a summer of dreary weather in the steel industry. His company's earnings were off in the three months just ended. But he sees definite signs of a pickup in orders and thinks the steel mills will be busy enough in the next three months to recover much of the ground they lost earlier this year.
For the first time in three years, J. Spencer Love, chairman of Burlington Mills, feels optimistic about the outlook for the textile industry. Sales in this recently depressed business have picked up so much of late that Love thinks the momentary lull is sure to continue into 1955.
Retail sales are up from coast to coast, Love says. Inventories have been whittled. Distress merchandise is hard to find. And September saw a definite switch for the better in sales volume and price firmness.

The continuing building boom brings joy to many industries. L. M. Cassidy, chairman of Johns-Manville, says his company has turned the corner on sales and orders. Earnings slipped with sales of the company's industrial products during the first half of the year. But Cassidy says a strong trend toward larger sales has recently developed and shows every sign of holding for the rest of the year. If so, the building materials firm should end 1954 with a sales total equalling that of 1953. The only dark spot is that increased manufacturing costs may hold earnings down.

The appliance field had its troubles, too, earlier this year. But Judson S. Sayre, president of the Norge division of Borg-Warner, says sales in September were three times as large as in the same month a year ago, when the recession was getting under way and hitting the appliance business one of its heaviest blows. Sayre forecasts that final figures for 1954 will far outshine those of last year.
"Considerable evidence is on hand which suggests that the tempo of business has quickened since labor day," the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York agrees, in its October survey of the economy. But it adds with bankers' caution: "It is too early to be absolutely sure."
October, in other words, looks like the start of a good season. But just don't uncross your fin-

Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS

1. Sagacious
5. Skin
9. Nod
11. Oil of roses
14. American
18. Indian
24. Chalices
26. Goddesses
27. Before
15. Free
19. Subdivisions
21. Bird of the
34. King of
36. Edge of a
24. Signifies
28. Silver coins
33. Declare

DOWN

1. Pale
2. Japanese
3. Small fish
4. Sea bird
5. Artificial
6. Roman road
7. Compass
8. Judged
9. Farm
10. Building
11. Leave out
11. Soft masses
16. Discarded
16. Eons
21. Gives out
22. First man
23. Glacial snow
27. Make
28. Pouch
30. Keep up
31. Anglo-Saxon
32. Avry
35. Troop
38. Cold dish
40. Frosted
42. Ethical
45. Matron
46. Paradise
47. Sell
48. Kind of
49. Insect's
53. Born
54. Exilat
57. Exempli

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

ACROSS: 1. Sagacious; 5. Skin; 9. Nod; 11. Oil of roses; 14. American; 18. Indian; 24. Chalices; 26. Goddesses; 27. Before; 15. Free; 19. Subdivisions; 21. Bird of the; 34. King of; 36. Edge of a; 24. Signifies; 28. Silver coins; 33. Declare.

DOWN: 1. Pale; 2. Japanese; 3. Small fish; 4. Sea bird; 5. Artificial; 6. Roman road; 7. Compass; 8. Judged; 9. Farm; 10. Building; 11. Leave out; 11. Soft masses; 16. Discarded; 16. Eons; 21. Gives out; 22. First man; 23. Glacial snow; 27. Make; 28. Pouch; 30. Keep up; 31. Anglo-Saxon; 32. Avry; 35. Troop; 38. Cold dish; 40. Frosted; 42. Ethical; 45. Matron; 46. Paradise; 47. Sell; 48. Kind of; 49. Insect's; 53. Born; 54. Exilat; 57. Exempli.

ARC AMASS DEE
GAR RIVEL ILL
OPEN MEDIEVAL
SOSIO APSE
POTATION ARES
IN HERS BUGLE
ESS ASIDE EAR
REPEL ER

East Carolina Outscores Catawba Indians By 26 To 7

Quarterback Mattocks Stages Pass-Run Circus

The Statistics:
ECC
 8 First Downs
 233 Yds. Gained Rushing
 36 Yds. Lost Rushing
 198 Yds. Rushing
 13 Passes Attempted
 8 Passes Completed
 2 Passes Intercepted
 117 Yds. Gained Passing
 40 Yds. Lost Penalties
 2 Punt
 33 Punting Average
 5 Fumbles
 5 Fumbles Recovered

CATAWBA
 1 First Down
 10 Yds. Gained Rushing
 10 Yds. Lost Rushing
 10 Yds. Rushing
 10 Passes Attempted
 10 Passes Completed
 10 Passes Intercepted
 10 Yds. Gained Passing
 10 Yds. Lost Penalties
 10 Punt
 10 Punting Average
 10 Fumbles
 10 Fumbles Recovered

down and dropped the snap from center. Catawba recovered and took over on ECC's 25. Carter's pass intended for End Terrell Hall was incomplete, broken up by O'Kelly. Snyder then raced off tackle for seven yards to the 18. Fullback Dick Smith hit the line for 2 yards and Gardner running hard around his right end moved down to the 12 yard line. The play was good for a first and ten and put the Pirates in an arduous situation.

On the next play, Carter hit End Fred Sisley in the center of the end zone for the score. Paul Barnes' conversion gave Catawba a 7-0 advantage with only three minutes elapsed from the clock.

ECC's Big Second Quarter
 Just after the teams changed sides to start the second period, Tom Allbrook intercepted Carter's pass at the 50 and the senior halfback scooted 15 yards to the 35. Mattocks' pass intended for Larry Rhodes fell short. A five-yard offside penalty against the Bucs set the pignakin back to the 40. On the next play, Mattocks took the snap from Center Louis Hallow, faded back, and laid the leather in James Henderson's arms at the 10 and the latter hurried into the end zone for East Carolina's first score. Tackle Ralph Yarborough came in fast to swat down Collier's boot for the point-after and Catawba stood in front, 7-6.

O'Kelly On The Go
 Exactly two minutes later, Bobby Gay recovered Carter's fumble on Catawba's 14 yard line. Collier tried a sneak and got nowhere. A five-yard offside penalty against the Indians moved the ball down to the nine. O'Kelly circled left end for the distance and the touchdown. This time Collier's conversion was good and ECC led 13-7.

O'Kelly Again
 The Pirates received Snyder's punt at the 35 yard line. Howard McAdams moved it down further into Indian territory to the 30. Collier hit J. D. Bradford with a flat pass which netted three yards to the 27. East Carolina linemen then opened a hole in the middle of the Catawba line big enough for Diesel and O'Kelly motored through untouched for the score. Collier booted his second extra-point and East Carolina was well ahead, 20-7.

Third Period Scoreless
 Neither team could muster enough offensive candlesticks to tally during the third quarter. East Carolina drove down to where the nose of the ball rested inches from the goal. With the situation, fourth down and one to go for the touchdown, Eno Bando was stopped within a hands spread from scoring.

Mattocks Pitches
 Center Gaiter Cline, backing up the Pirate line, intercepted Carter's pass on Catawba's 15. Mattocks tried an aerial to Jim Stanley, just missing his fingertips. Two more Mattocks passes fell short before Ray Pennington held on to one and moved to the 2-yard line. Stanley tried right tackle and was repelled for no gain. Mattocks then passed beautifully to Bobby Perry in the end zone and East Carolina's fourth touchdown. Mattocks' attempted conversion was blocked by Wayne Polyak and the scoreboard read 26-7, ECC out in front.

Defense
 The remainder of the game was played in equivalence. Coach Jack Boone emptied his bench and most of the playing time was consumed by third and fourth units. Catawba never seriously threatened after their opening score. Their Harold Carter, especially, found the going awfully rough. He did, though, manage to complete four passes and played a bang-up game on defense.

There were many standouts for East Carolina and Catawba both. Larry Rhodes, Bill Helms, Ray Pennington and Bill Cain performed brilliantly at the ends. Cain, especially, looked good rushing in to throw enemy ball-carriers for big losses. Gaiter Cline, Louis Hallow, and Waverly Chesson were outstanding backing the line.

Dick Smith and Gardner were Catawba's ground-gainers. Lee Swanner and Rodney Nantz also stood out as ball-carriers. Hall and Sisley sparked the end play. Wayne Harrelson, Hal Quinn, John Powell, Baker Hood, and Polyak were the strongest defenders up the middle.

O'Kelly Rips Off Yardage Against Catawba

Fullback Harold O'Kelly is shown above ripping off yardage against Catawba Saturday night. The High Point junior was the outstanding ground-gainer for East Carolina as the Pirates whipped the Indians 26-7 in a North State Conference game. Closing in on O'Kelly is Catawba's Connie Gardner (No. 18) and Baker Hood (No. 33). Center Halfback James Henderson (No. 25) is seen in the left background. (Photo by C. L. Perkins)

Purdue Victory Seen No Flake; Boilermakers Boast Solid Team

By ED CORRIGAN
 Four years ago Purdue snapped a Notre Dame unbeaten streak at 39 games. That Boilermaker club won only one more game that season, so the suspicion was that it was one of those flukes that happen every so often.

This year they broke a modest Notre Dame unbeaten streak of 13 games and in the process handed 26-year-old Terry Brennan his first defeat as a varsity college coach. This one you may be sure, was no fluke.

Coach Stu Holcomb has a solid club, several good veterans and a fine crop of sophomores headed by the fantastic Len Dawson, who in his first two games has pitched eight touchdowns passes. He completed 7 of 12 in the Boilermakers' 27-14 conquest of the Irish.

After whipping both Missouri and Notre Dame, the Boilermakers played this week to Duke, which also has won both its games. The Blue Devils beat Penn in their opener and nipped Tennessee 7-6 Saturday. On that basis Purdue should rule the solid favorite, the Irish will try to pick up the pieces this week against Pitt.

Notre Dame has plenty of company. Maryland, the 1953 national champion, was flattened by UCLA last Friday. Texas, Illinois, Michigan State and Georgia Tech also have fallen.

Illinois dropped a 12-2 decision to Stanford Saturday and the Spartans were beaten by Wisconsin 6-0. All this portends nothing but trouble ahead for Oklahoma, the perennial Big Seven champion, and No. 2 team behind Notre Dame in last week's Associated Press poll.

The Sooners have a clean slate, having taken the measure of both California and Texas Christian. Their date this week is with Texas, which rebounded smartly from its Notre Dame loss to overwhelm Washington State 40-14.

Iowa, the third-ranked team in the country, faces Michigan this week after an easy 48-6 conquest of Montana. The Wolverines themselves were victims of one of the big upsets of the day when they defeated a 26-7 decision to Army.

UCLA, Maryland's conqueror, visits Washington, while the deflated Terps will try to regain some prestige at Wake Forest.

Mississippi, the eighth-rated team in the AP poll, looked powerful thrashing Villanova 52-0 and should do just as well against Vanderbilt.

Southern California, a pretender to the Pacific Coast crown, still is unbeaten after three games and figures to extend the streak against Texas Christian Friday night.

Heavyweight Hopeful To Show Wares Wednesday

NEW YORK (AP)—Charley Powell, the young California star, is scheduled to show his wares Wednesday night against Rocky Marciano in another year, steps into the national spotlight Wednesday night against Charley Norkus, the Port Washington, N.Y., trial horse.

The 22-year-old, 6-3 215-pounder, who deserted pro football for boxing, will show his stuff via coast to coast television (CBS-TV, 10 p.m. EST) on Wednesday night in a 10-rounder with the 26-year-old New Yorker. San Francisco is the site.

This will be the giant Negro's 13th pro fight. He was held to a draw in his first and has won 11 straight, nine by knockouts. His key victims include Frankie Buford and Keene Simmons.

Norkus, wild-swinging and hard-hitting whipped another giant, Argentina's Cesar. Brion, in a 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden, Sept. 3. It was Norkus' 24th victory against 12 defeats. He has 14 KOs to his credit. Charley is 5-11 and weighs 196.

Boardwalk Billy Smith, another exciting fighter, will get opportunity to show his wares when he takes on Harold Johnson, the top-ranking light-heavyweight contender from Philadelphia, at the Philadelphia Arena Friday night. This

Phantoms Have No Game Carded Next Weekend

By WAYNE BISHOP
 Reflector Sports Writer
 Fresh from their first defeat of the year, the Greenville Phantoms face their second week of the season this week with an open date in the schedule.

The next game for the G-men will be the homecoming game against Elizabeth City on October 15.

The Phantoms rolled up three consecutive impressive wins before Washington's Pam-Pack received the best end of the breaks Friday night and dropped the G-men from the undefeated ranks by 7-6.

The win for Washington was an important one and gives them a good chance to sneak in the conference championship. The Pack has tied Elizabeth City and New Bern to remain undefeated with Kingston the only good team left on the Washington schedule. If Coach Choppy Wagner's crew should get the best end of the breaks Friday night and dropped the G-men from the undefeated ranks by 7-6.

The Bears certainly were not impressive in their 21-7 win over Jacksonville Friday. The Bears and the G-men tangle in New Bern in three weeks in what should be the most important game of the year in conference play.

Washington ripped right through the Greenville line in the third quarter Friday night to gain most of their yardage. The Greensies did not let them complete a pass but Washington gained through the line when it had to.

The G-men completed more passes Friday night than they had all season long. Jerry Drum fired five complete passes out of eight attempts. All of the complete tosses were short passes, however, and none of them were for long gains.

Captain James Speight remains the team's leading ground gainer and scorer. Speight scored another six points in the Washington game to give him a total of 19 points for the year. Speight also has gained 263 yards in 41 rushes to lead the team in that department with an average of 6.4 per carry.

Billy Sermons with a 4.7 average per carry, Mitchell Johnson with a 3.6 average, and Bob Howell with a 3.4 average round out the top four rushers for the Greensies.

Pat Sawyer continued his tremendous kicking for the G-men. Sawyer now has a punting average of 36.4. That is a figure that probably is unequalled by any high school player in the state.

In their four games the Greensies have averaged 133 yards rushing per game. Their opponents have an average of 101.3 per game. In their four games the Greensies have completed 9 passes for 150 yards against their opponents 14 completions and 161 yards.

This week the G-men get to rest their weary and get ready for the big games come on up.

Giants Were Just The Better Team

By GAYLE TALBOT
 CLEVELAND (AP)—They were saying in this stricken city today that the World Series would have been an entirely different proposition if Willie Mays hadn't made that outlandish catch of Vic Wertz's potential game wrecker on the first day at the Polo Grounds.

Even General Manager Hank Greenberg of the Indians subscribed to this sentiment. The suffering citizens could be right to some extent.

But for Willie's tremendous feat the Tribe almost certainly would have won the opener and with that one under their belts Al Lopez's athletes might not have looked quite so terrible as they did in the succeeding games. But to suggest that they might have beaten the New York Giants under any circumstances borders on the ridiculous.

The Giants are a very fine ball team from stem to stern, while the American League champions simply are not a solid outfit. After you've said that they have two of the game's best pitchers in Bob Lemon and Early Wynn, you've just about exhausted the subject. After watching the Indians roll over and play dead against Leo Durocher's fast and alert club one can only wonder again how they won 111 ball games in any league.

The Indians were supposed to have bench strength, yet at the very end, with only one more out to go before decomposition set in, Lopez found himself forced to send up a lefty swinger, Dale Mitchell, against one of the game's finest southpaws Johnny Antonelli. Mitchell ended the agony with a pop foul to Henry Thompson.

The most significant thing we heard in the winners' happy dressing room was Durocher's explanation of why he relieved with Antonelli in the eighth inning of the clincher after Hoyt Wilhelm had wavered, instead of bringing on his other short-term specialist, Marv Grissom, who had proved his ability to trouble the Tribe in the opener. Leo snorted at a suggestion that he had planned all along to relieve with his top hand if such a situation arose.

"If you want to know something, it wasn't my idea at all," he said. "It was Al Dark's. After hitting against their left-hander, Mossi, in the sixth Al told me the shadows made it very difficult to see a southpaw at all and suggested that I get Johnny in there as quickly as possible. If it hadn't been for that I probably would have gone on with Wilhelm. Hoyt's only trouble was that he had too much stuff."

Some of the Cleveland supporters we talked with after the final game were inclined to be critical of the way Lopez handled his team during the rout. That is, they do think he looked quite as sharp as Durocher did in the tight spots. We were forced to disagree.

It is true that Leo managed a terrific series but he had the better club, the faster and smarter club. Lopez directed such talent as he had at his disposal in the exact manner he did during the season, and that was good enough to overwhelm the five weak teams in his league. No manager who ever lived could have driven the Indians to victory in this World Series.

World Series Facts, Figures

By The Associated Press

Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
New York (NL)	4	0	1.000
Cleveland (A)	0	4	.000

First game at Polo Grounds
 Cleveland 200 000 00-2 8 0
 New York 002 000 00 3-5 9 3
 Lemon and Hegan, Grissom (1); Maglie, Liddle (8), Grissom (8) and Westrum, W-Grisson, Home run—New York Rhodes.

Second game at Polo Grounds
 Cleveland 100 000 00-1 8 0
 New York 000 020 10x-3 4 0
 Wynn, Mossi (8) and Hegan; Antonelli and Westrum, L-Wynn. Home run—Cleveland, Smith, New York Rhodes.

Third game at Cleveland
 New York 103 011 000-6 10 1
 Cleveland 000 000 110-2 4 2
 Gomez, Wilhelm (8) and Westrum; Garcia, Houtteman (4), Narleski (6), Mossi (9) and Hegan. W a r a g o n (9). W-Gomez, L-Garcia. Home run—Cleveland, Wertz.

Fourth game at Cleveland
 New York 021 040 000-7 10 3
 Cleveland 000 080 100-4 6 2
 Liddle Wilhelm (7), Antonelli (8) and Westrum; Lemon, Newhouse (5) Narleski (5), Mossi (6), Garcia (8) and Hegan. W-Liddle, L-Lemon. Home run—Cleveland, Majeski.

Seixas, Trabert In Final Round; Issue In Doubt

MEXICO CITY (AP)—An improving Vic Seixas took on Mario Llamas and Tony Trabert met Gustavo Palafox today in the final two singles matches of the American Zone Davis Cup final between the United States and Mexico.

The Americans entered the matches with the decision still in doubt. Leading 2-1 in the best-of-five series, they need only one of the singles to advance to the interzone final against Sweden in Australia this December.

Palafox easily defeated Seixas in the opening cup matches Saturday, but the American showed definite improvement yesterday when he teamed with Trabert to down the Mexican pair 6-2, 3-6, 6-1 6-4 in the doubles.

College Football Results

- By The Associated Press
- EAST
 Mississippi 52, Villanova 0
 Bucknell 29, Gettysburg 6
 Marshall 47, Western Michigan 13
- W.Va. Tech 26, Concord 7
- SOUTH
 Alabama 28, Vanderbilt 14
 Kentucky 7, Louisiana State 6
 West Virginia 26, South Carolina 6
- DAVIDSON 13, The Citadel 0
 VMI 16, Richmond 6
 Memphis State 6, Abilene Christian 6 (tie)
 Jacksonville (Ala) State 7, Carson-Newman 6
 Lenoir Rhyne 13, Newberry 13 (tie)
- East Carolina 26, Catawba 7
 Florida A&M 26, Benedict 6
 Stetson 18, Troy (Ala) State 14
 Elizabeth City Teachers 65, Savannah State 6
 East Tennessee 21, Western Carolina 14
 Claflin 34, Morris 0
 Western Kentucky 7, Middle Tennessee 6
 Maryville (Tenn) 12, Centre 7
 Tennessee Tech 32, Morehead (Ky) 2
- Tennessee A&I 14, Langston 0
- MIDWEST
 Miami (Ohio) 27, Marquette 26
 Cincinnati 40, Tulsa 7
 Dubuque 20, Parsons 19
 Morningside 28, North Dakota 21
 Evansville 41, Indiana State 6
 Omaha 27, Washburn 6
 Western Illinois 7, Bradley 7 (tie)
- SOUTHWEST
 Georgia Tech 10, Southern Methodist 7
 Arkansas 20, Texas Christian 13
 Rice 41, Cornell 20
 North Texas 15, Mississippi Southern 7
 Texas Tech 13, Oklahoma A&M 13 (tie)
 Texas A&I 32, Corpus Christi 6
 Arizona State (Tempe) 34, Texas Western 27
 Arkansas A&M 26, Arkansas State Teachers 7
 Sul Ross 42, New Mexico A&M 18
 Trinity (Texas) 14, Hardin-Simmons 0
 Midwestern 14, West Texas 7
- FAR WEST
 Washington 17, Oregon State 7
 Colorado A&M 14, Brigham Young 13
 Utah State 6, New Mexico 0

College Football Results (Cont.)

- By The Associated Press
- EAST
 Mississippi 52, Villanova 0
 Bucknell 29, Gettysburg 6
 Marshall 47, Western Michigan 13
- W.Va. Tech 26, Concord 7
- SOUTH
 Alabama 28, Vanderbilt 14
 Kentucky 7, Louisiana State 6
 West Virginia 26, South Carolina 6
- DAVIDSON 13, The Citadel 0
 VMI 16, Richmond 6
 Memphis State 6, Abilene Christian 6 (tie)
 Jacksonville (Ala) State 7, Carson-Newman 6
 Lenoir Rhyne 13, Newberry 13 (tie)
- East Carolina 26, Catawba 7
 Florida A&M 26, Benedict 6
 Stetson 18, Troy (Ala) State 14
 Elizabeth City Teachers 65, Savannah State 6
 East Tennessee 21, Western Carolina 14
 Claflin 34, Morris 0
 Western Kentucky 7, Middle Tennessee 6
 Maryville (Tenn) 12, Centre 7
 Tennessee Tech 32, Morehead (Ky) 2
- Tennessee A&I 14, Langston 0
- MIDWEST
 Miami (Ohio) 27, Marquette 26
 Cincinnati 40, Tulsa 7
 Dubuque 20, Parsons 19
 Morningside 28, North Dakota 21
 Evansville 41, Indiana State 6
 Omaha 27, Washburn 6
 Western Illinois 7, Bradley 7 (tie)
- SOUTHWEST
 Georgia Tech 10, Southern Methodist 7
 Arkansas 20, Texas Christian 13
 Rice 41, Cornell 20
 North Texas 15, Mississippi Southern 7
 Texas Tech 13, Oklahoma A&M 13 (tie)
 Texas A&I 32, Corpus Christi 6
 Arizona State (Tempe) 34, Texas Western 27
 Arkansas A&M 26, Arkansas State Teachers 7
 Sul Ross 42, New Mexico A&M 18
 Trinity (Texas) 14, Hardin-Simmons 0
 Midwestern 14, West Texas 7
- FAR WEST
 Washington 17, Oregon State 7
 Colorado A&M 14, Brigham Young 13
 Utah State 6, New Mexico 0

Goody's is the Headache Powder with
 The standard full measure of medically proved
PAIN RELIEVING ingredients

at only 2 POWDERS 5c

Plus

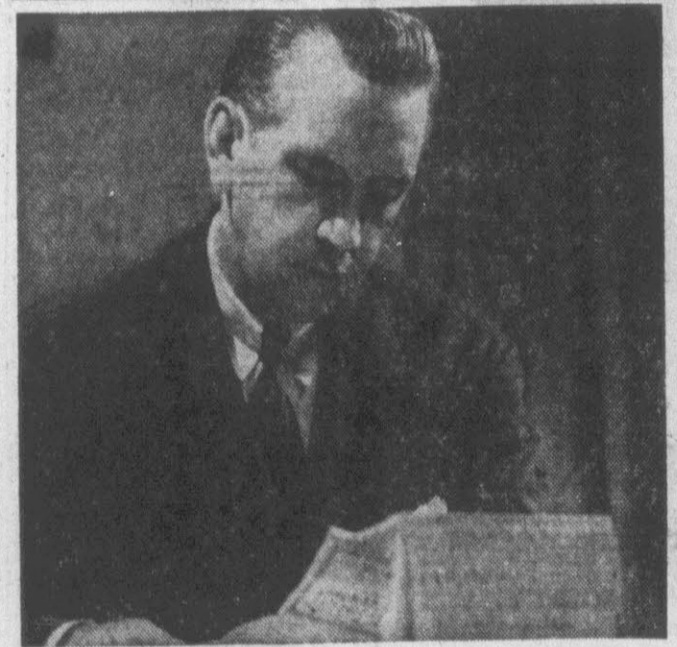

SANITARY SEALED CELLOPHANE PACKAGING

for your protection

Goody's
 THEY ARE GOOD
 HEADACHE POWDERS

12 POWDERS 25c

Extra-fast relief for Headache Neuralgia
 Muscular Aches & Pains

Security's New Low Cost Policy is a Bargain!

Security's new Business and Professional Special Policy provides maximum protection for families of small business owners and professional men at minimum cost. It is one of the finest insurance policies you can purchase.

Even with the exceptionally low net cost, unusually high cash values are available after the first year. Excellent dividends are paid annually, with an extra dividend at the end of 10 years and every 5 years thereafter. Proceeds of this policy may be taken under several attractive settlement options. Double Indemnity, Waiver of Premium and Income Disability features are available.

Call your local Security Life Representative right away and have him explain all the advantages of this Special low net cost plan of life insurance.

Remember, too, Security Life and Trust Company, now in its 35th year, has a greater net gain of ordinary life insurance-in-force in its home state of North Carolina in 1953 than any other company. You can be sure when you "Face the Future with Security."

SECURITY LIFE
 And Trust Company
 HOME OFFICE - WINSTON-SALEM, N. C.

Greenville Agency
 W. M. SCALES, Jr.,
 General Agent
 304 E. Third Street
 Tel: Office 3600, Res. 5001

Pitt Agency
 JAKE HADLEY
 General Agent
 Proctor Hotel Bldg. - 112 E. 3rd St
 Tel: Office 3431 - Res. 2234

Cut Out All
 2" Ads and Win
 Free Tickets
 For Shows
 And Rides
 Bring them to Manager's Office Friday of Fair week.

Pitt Hardware Company
 718 Dickinson Avenue
 Phone 2733 - We Deliver

NOW YOU CAN PAINT WALLS and WOODWORK
 the SAME COLOR
 WITH

VITA-VAR
 Color-Matched
 WALL FINISHES

11 beautiful shades and white available in these three matched finishes.

VITA-SEAL $4.25
 SELF-SEALING
 FLAT WALL FINISH

VITA-VAR $1.50
 INTERIOR
 VELVET GLOSS

VITA-VAR $1.50
 INTERIOR GLOSS

High gloss for walls, woodwork.

VITA-VAR
 Quality Paints since 1888

Boost Your Fair
 Pitt County Agricultural Fair
 "Pitt County
 On Parade"
 Greenville, N. C.
 October 11th-16th:

Shipping Now!
NORTH DAKOTA
 Certified Seed
POTATOES

Dry-Land Grown Above the 47th Parallel North!

Now is your chance to get the best seed potato that money can buy. This year, North Dakota growers have produced the finest crop of certified seed potatoes in the state's long history of premium seed potato production. Crop tested both in the South and in the North assure you of better yields of better potatoes.

Reserve your Supply now from your local dealer.

STATE SEED DEPARTMENT
 College Station Fargo, No. Dak.

Another Actor Has Gone Into Directing

By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD — In 1942, a young actor named Richard Quine played a minor role in a movie called "My Sister Eileen." Today Columbia is making "My Sister Eileen" again, and the director is named Richard Quine, same guy. This is one of those success stories that make you believe anybody can do anything if he has the will. Talent helps, too.

We faded in on a young actor from Detroit who was seeking his fortune in the big city. He landed in a Broadway show, "Very Warm For May", at 18, then drew the part of Frank Lippencott in "My Sister Eileen" with Shirley Booth. That brought him to Hollywood with an MGM contract.

One of his first films was a loan-out to Columbia to repeat as Frank Lippencott in "My Sister Eileen" with Rosalind Russell and Janet Blair. He continued at MGM as a juvenile, with time out for the Coast Guard during the war.

His acting fortunes didn't thrive after the war. Hollywood descended into its depression and Dick was dropped by MGM. He decided to seek other fields.

"I never had been entirely happy as an actor," he told me. "Whenever I saw myself on the screen, I always thought, 'if only I could have told myself what to do!'"

With a friend, he wrote, directed and produced a quickie called "Leather Gloves," which attracted some attention. He turned talent scout for Columbia. Then he decided he needed to know more about the movie business. So he took a job as dialogue director at $150 a week. Quite a comedown for an actor who had been getting $1,000 a week.

But he watched and learned and soon he was ready to fly solo as a director. He started with a musical melange called "Sunny Side of the Street" and continued with some Mickey Rooney films that were low on budget but high in entertainment.

Recently he came through with a sleeper, "Pushover," with Fred MacMurray and Kim Novak. That won him the "Eileen" assignment.

In between Columbia assignments, Dick has managed to knock out "So This is Paris," a Tony Curtis musical, and the pilot film that sold Mickey Rooney's new TV show, "Hey Mulligan." He doesn't work on the Rooney show now but gets a comfortable check every week for his contribution.

I asked Dick if he didn't miss acting.

"Now and then," he admitted, "but I generally get into my pictures somehow. I supplied the fingersnaps for Billy Daniels number in one of them. And I did the narration in another picture. I got paid $70 for it. Then the screen actors guild notified me I was $183 in arrears in dues. It cost me $113 to do the narration."

Some 70 per cent of all epileptics display the first symptoms before they are 20; the ailment strikes most often during childhood.

Pitt - Tues. & Wed.

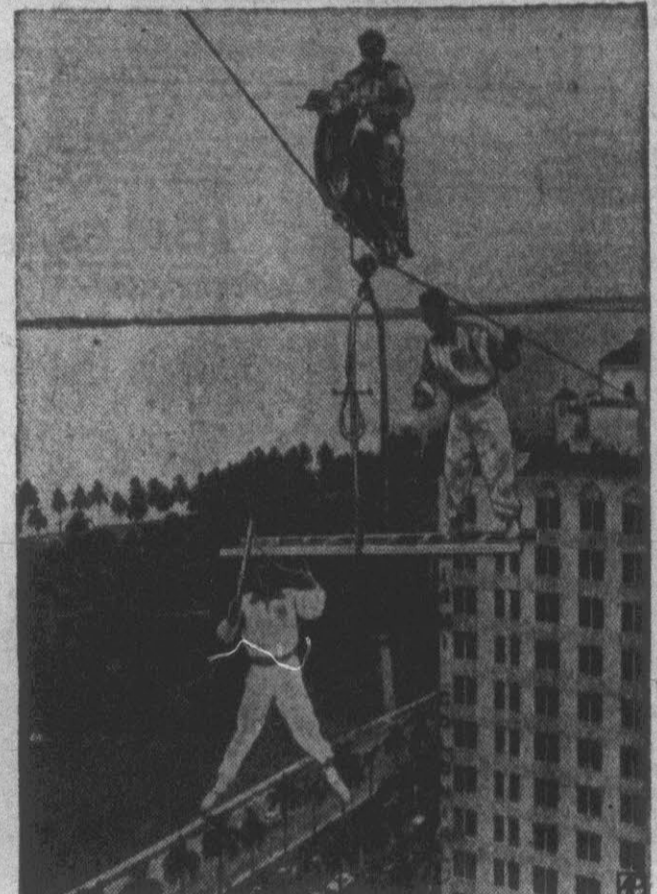

Shirley Booth, 1953 Academy Award Winner, and Robt. Ryan star in "About Mrs. Leslie."

Deeds

- One of Hollywood's youngest directors at 33, Quine has gone from a mustache. But he still looks like a juvenile.
- Nannie Loy Tucker to Marvin C. Buck, al, 2,300.00.
 - J. Herbert Joyner, al, to L. B. Johnson, Sr., al, 10.00.
 - C. G. Moore, Sr., al to Churchill G. Moore, Jr., 10.00.
 - George W. Davis, al to O. G. Spell, al, 10.00.
 - Thomas W. Rivers, al, to Mayhew C. Jarvis, al, 10.00.
 - Fred Jenkins, Jr., al, to W. E. Managan, 10.00.
 - Frank B. Hines, Jr., al, to Leon D. Hinnings, al, 10.00.
 - F. K. Gregory, al, to L. V. Gregory, al, 10.00.
 - C. Cecil Worthington, al, to Bessie Boyd, 10.00.
 - Charlie Hemby, al, to William Henry Spell, al, 10.00.
 - Annie A. Cherry, al, to Bertha Ward Chance, 10.00.
 - Annie A. Cherry, al, to C. W. Everett, 10.00.
 - Annie A. Cherry, al, to S. C. Ives, al, 10.00.
 - Annie A. Cherry, al, to Cecil R. Cherry, al, 10.00.
 - C. R. Cherry, al, to Y. D. Poss, al, 10.00.
 - C. H. Carson, al, to Annie A. Cherry, al, 10.00.
 - Jennie I. Watson, to W. R. Everett, al, 10.00.
 - F. K. Heath, Jr., al, to Marvin V. Horton, Tr., 1.00.
 - G. K. Heath, al, to Clifton Heath, 10.00.
 - Marvin V. Horton, Tr., to G. K. Heath, Jr., 1.00.
 - Arnold R. Dupree, al, to John S. Hopkins, 10.00.
 - Gritton Builders, to Wm. McMurry January, al, 10.00.
 - G. K. Heath, Jr., al, to B. L. Lang, 10.00.
 - J. C. Griffin, al, to Isiah Smith, al, 348.00.
 - Abbott M. McWhorter, al, to Edward E. Mathews, al, 10.00.
 - Annie A. Cherry, al, to Andrew A. Carrigan, al, 10.00.
 - Lloyd C. Patrick, al, to A. M. Hooper, 10.00.
 - Van C. Fleming, Jr., al, to Dick's Electric Co., 10.00.
 - E. H. Taft, Jr., al, to Home Builders & Supply Co., 10.00.
 - Home Builders & Supply Co., to Howard N. Wilson, al, 10.00.
 - James H. Edwards, al, to William T. McKinney, al, 10.00.
 - E. Leon Roebuck, Jr., al, to William O. Crisp, Jr., al, 10.00.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW By FAGALY and SHORTEN

LIVING HIGH — A group of German acrobats known as Zugspitzartisten give a performance on a cable strung 300 feet above the street between two Miami, Fla., hotels.

fall since they did not seek election or were beaten for nomination.

Robert W. Upton (R), New Hampshire; Mrs. Eva Bowring (R) and Sam Reynolds (R), Nebraska; Edward D. Crippa (R), Wyoming; and Lennon.

These appointed senators have won party nominations but could be displaced in November if they are defeated: Thomas A. Burke (D), Ohio; and Kuchel.

Seemingly certain of staying on is Sen. Sam J. Ervin (D) North Carolina who is unopposed in seeking election for a full six-year term.

In South Carolina, Charles E. Daniel has been named to succeed the late Sen. Burnet R. Maybank, and can be sworn in for the seat Nov. 8. Daniel apparently will remain throughout the session because no one has filed for the remaining two months of Maybank's current term.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS CURB & GUTTER, ASPHALT PAVING, EXCAVATION & DRAINAGE

CITY OF GREENVILLE, N. C. SEALED proposals will be received by the City of Greenville, Greenville, N. C., in the office of J. S. Hughes, City Manager, until 2 P.M., E.S.T., on the 15th day of October, 1954, and immediately thereafter publicly opened and read, for the furnishing of labor, materials, and equipment entering into the construction of Excavation, Drainage, Curb & Gutter, and Asphalt Pavement.

Complete plans, specifications and contract documents will be open for inspection in the office of J. S. Hughes, City Manager, City of Greenville, Greenville, N. C., and the office of the Engineer, Greenville, N. C., or may be obtained by those qualified and who will make a bid, upon deposit of twenty five dollars ($25.00) in cash or certified check. The full deposit will be returned to those submitting a bona fide proposal provided plans and specifications are returned to the Engineer in good condition within five days after the date set for receiving bids.

The work will consist of approximately the following major items:

- Contract No. 1
- 22,000 L.F. Combination Concrete Curb & Gutter
- 4,000 C.Y. Common Excavation
- Miscellaneous Concrete Pipe and Drainage Structures
- Contract No. 2
- 13,500 S.Y. 2" Asphalt Surface (Type F-2 - Alt. Type F-1)

Proposals may be submitted on either or both Contracts I and II. All Contractors are hereby notified that they must have proper license under the State laws governing their respective trades.

General Contractors are notified that "An Act To Regulate the Practice of General Contracting," ratified by the General Assembly of North Carolina on March 10, 1928, and as subsequently amended, will be observed in receiving and awarding general contracts.

Each proposal shall be accompanied by a five per cent bid se-

Senate McCarthy Jury May Undergo Changes

By JOE HALL
 WASHINGTON — The "jury" of senators which will convene Nov. 8 to pass on censure of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) may undergo some changes before there's a showdown vote.

The uncertainty of the jury's makeup results from the large number of senators serving temporarily by appointment because of deaths. Nine senators have died in the 83rd Congress, an unusually high number.

Senate authorities said last night the total of 10 appointees—the 10th is Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Cal.) named to succeed Vice President Nixon—was the highest in their memory.

At least seven appointed senators could be displaced by successors elected Nov. 2, but it is uncertain in each case whether the elected successors would actually take office before the censure vote.

How many new names might go on the Senate roster can't be predicted now because (1) nobody knows how long the censure debate will last and (2) different states have varying dates for sending their special election winners to Congress. Nov. 23, for example is one state's date.

The number of appointees who could be displaced might increase to eight if a special election is held in Nevada to fill out the 1951-57 term of Sen. Pat McCarran, who died Tuesday.

Nevada's governor has appointed Republican Ernest Brown as McCarran's successor. State Democrats say the seat should be filled by special election Nov. 2 and they've picked a candidate. Brown is the GOP choice if an election is held.

Senate parliamentarians say the possible late-in-year change in Senate rolls stems from the federal law provision that appointees hold office only until a successor is elected and qualifies.

That's different from the tenure of elected senators. They serve until the end of the term when a new Congress comes in in January, even though a successor may have been elected the previous November.

Most years the question of appointees would make little difference, because Congress usually goes home before election time and doesn't come back until January. Senate authorities say a special election victor can be sworn in once the state has certified him as the winner. In any case, that wouldn't be until a number of days after the Nov. 2 election.

In North Carolina, for instance, the certification date is Nov. 23. Thus Sen. Alton A. Lennon, now holding a seat by appointment but defeated in the primary, will stay on until at least that date. Nevada's certification date can't come before Dec. 1.

These are the appointed senators certain to be displaced this

Corn Was Good Despite Drought

HERTFORD — Earl Morse of Hertford, Route 3, must have his own private rain cloud tucked away somewhere!

In a year noted for poor drought-ridden corn crops, Morse has come up with corn "that has all his neighboring farmers green with envy. County Agent R.M. Thompson State College Extension Service, said that a check of one acre of Dixie 82 showed a yield of 129 bushels. Morse admitted that all of his 175 acres of corn wasn't "quite as good" as that.

American farmers and farm co-operatives are using more credit this year than in any year since 1942.

First Federal Savings and Loan Assn.
 of Greenville
 3%
 Current Dividend Rate
 On Insured Accounts
 Assets Over $4,000,000

HERE'S "EXTRA RELIEF" FROM COLDS
 MISERIES
 666 ATTACKS ALL COLD SYMPTOMS
 AT ONE TIME... IN LESS TIME!
 No ordinary pain-reliever can make this claim... but 666 can. The 666 formula contains a combination of prescription-type ingredients not found in any other cold medicine. For that "extra" relief, try 666 liquid or tablets. Remember... 666 does more because it has more.
666 LIQUID OR TABLETS
 666 DOES MORE BECAUSE IT HAS MORE

Do it Yourself

Doing your own building, remodeling or repairing? We have what you need to get the job done right... and have fun (AND save) while you do it!

You may be interested in doing your repairing and getting ready for Winter!

Just remember the things you need can be obtained at...

GARRIS-EVANS LUMBER CO.

You'll find our stock complete in every detail, our prices right, and our delivery anywhere prompt.

Garris-Evans Lumber Co.
 301 Ridgeway Street — Tel 2106

Prudential INCOME PROTECTION Plans

guarantee you a monthly income when you can't work because of sickness or accident.

- non-cancellable
- guaranteed renewable
- all types of sicknesses and diseases covered
- accidents covered on and off the job
- full benefits paid even for non-confining sickness

See
 H. A. White & Sons
 463 Evans Street

The Prudential INSURANCE COMPANY OF AMERICA
 a mutual life insurance company
 HOME OFFICE NEWARK, N. J.

TO THE PEOPLE

I shall give a valuable prize to anyone or everyone who can guess who I am. I am about 66 years old, have a lot of visitors and guests. I like people.

I help others enjoy life.

I make people proud of their accomplishments, and help farmers improve their lot.

Send a post card or a letter with your guess as to my identity to Old Timer, Daily Reflector, Greenville, N. C. Watch the paper for the answer.

Yours truly,
 Greenville's Old Timer

Encyclopedia Is Racing Children

By DOROTHY ROE
 AP Women's Editor

Today's children are so smart that it's a super-parent who can keep up with them, says Don A. Walter of Chicago, managing editor of the Children's Encyclopedia, Britannica Junior.

It also keeps the encyclopedia editors and their army of research specialists hopping to provide the answers.

Today's kids ask such questions as this: "How does it feel to break the supersonic barrier?" "What do boys in Indochina do for fun?" "When can I have a space ship?" and "What's it like on Mars?"

"People always have underestimated the intelligence of children," says Walter, a former teacher from Baraboo, Wis., who has taught in grade schools and high schools all over the country, with curiosity. This may be in cash, certified check or bid bond. Said deposit to be retained by the Owner as liquidated damages in event of failure of the successful bidder to execute the Contract within ten days after the award.

Performance Bond will be required for one hundred per cent (100 pct.) of the contract price.

The City reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to accept the bid or bids that appear to be to the best interest of the City.

J. S. HUGHES,
 City Manager

Engineers:
 Henry L. & Thomas W. Rivers
 & Associates
 Greenville, N. C.
 Oct. 4-11

World War II and the Korean War, along with atomic developments and other sensations of the last decade have given children so many new questions to ask that it's enough to stagger even a staff of encyclopedia experts, says Walter.

"We keep hundreds of people busy constantly revising our volumes, just to keep up with the ever-widening field of children's interests."

"Then there's television. This has changed the whole perspective of children's interests, widening them almost to the entire field of human knowledge."

"The parent who actually tries to answer all the answers the average boy or girl asks in a year will end up with a liberal education himself."

Walter believes too many textbooks are written from the adult's viewpoint, and thinks a board of junior editors could improve the product of many textbook publishing houses.

There's just one catch to all this. If the kids get any smarter, all the grown-up editors will be looking for jobs.

According to estimates, there are somewhat more than half a million persons in the United States with cerebral palsy.

FOR BETTER LIVING... beyond the gas mains

Essothane
 Liquefied Petroleum Gas
metered GAS service

TROUBLE-FREE, EASY cooking... hot water... refrigeration... heating. Immediate installation... automatic gas delivery... pay-as-you-use monthly billing. Also available in bulk deliveries for commercial and industrial uses.

Call, Write, Come in for full details.

ANOTHER DEPENDABLE ESSO PRODUCT!
 ESSO STANDARD OIL COMPANY

Bethel Highway - Greenville, N. C. - Telephone 6243

G-E RANGE SPECIAL

BIG TRADE-IN OFFER ON THIS NEW G-E RANGE

GE BIG DELUXE AUTOMATIC RANGE

only $279⁹⁵ and your old stove regularly $319⁹⁵

- Big Wide Opening Oven
- Pushbuttons
- "Focused Heat" Broiler
- Calrod® Units Throughout
- No Old Fashioned Open Coils

PARADE of VALUES

LIMITED TIME ONLY! HURRY!

V. A. Merritt & Sons
 318 EVANS ST. — PHONE 3736

Secrecy In Government Is Again Rising In Washington

By ED CREEGH
(For James Marlow)
WASHINGTON (AP)—That touchy question of secrecy on the part of your government has cropped up again.

Last June the Eisenhower administration set up a new system of keeping tabs on government employees—to prevent such things as the housing scandals which have been in the public eye.

On the face of it, this sounded praiseworthy enough. Or at least it probably would have if the public had heard about it. But except for top people in the government nobody did hear about it. The story never reached the public until the Washington Star "broke" it a few days ago.

Then, right away, the very secrecy of the program stirred up doubt about it. The White House felt it necessary to deny it was some sort of "super-snooper, Gestapo-like" system for poking into the private lives of federal workers.

Just what is the program? Well, the text of the order setting it up now has been published—though not with official sanction. It shows the program would (1) set up inspector general offices, like the Army has, throughout the executive branch, and (2) allow the inspectors to investigate the "conduct" of government employees.

The order went out—with President Eisenhower's approval, the White House says—in the name of Budget Director Royland Hughes. Hughes still won't talk about it and neither will the people who work for him.

But Philip Young, chairman of the Civil Service Commission and a White House adviser, says it's nothing to get excited about—"just a routine operation."

Young says many government agencies already have their own inspection systems. And the Budget Bureau, he says, was only calling to the attention of the agency heads the necessity for maintaining "the proper and appropriate conduct of employees."

There's that word "conduct" again. What does it mean? Official conduct? Or what an employe does in his spare time? Or what?

Murray Snider, assistant White

House press secretary, says: "There is nothing in the (Budget Bureau) that deals with the private lives of government employes."

But Snyder also says the order "deals with the manner in which employes do their jobs, and anything that relates to that."

And another government official, who doesn't want his name used, says:

"The primary purpose of the order is to have a dignified check made on those employes with outside interests and activities to make certain they don't conflict with those of the agencies in which they are employed."

In spite of official reassurances, the Washington Star still finds "two big flaws" in the program: "Inspectors were allowed enough leeway to pry into government employes' private lives. 'The whole operation was kept secret.'"

And the Star complains it is nowhere made clear just what sort of "employe conduct" the inspectors are free to inspect; "Conceivably they could knock on the employe's door in the night and ask impertinent questions."

Maybe this is borrowing trouble. And maybe such questions wouldn't be impertinent if the employe happened to be shooting craps with a handful of the taxpayers' money.

But somebody, it would seem, borrowed some unnecessary trouble by trying to keep the whole program hush-hush.

Smoke Plaintiff Dies Of Cancer

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Ira C. Lowe, 39, who filed a $500,000 damage suit against the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. claiming smoking caused him to have lung cancer, died of cancer at his home here Saturday.

Lowe, former resident of Festus, Mo., also named the Shop Ezy Market here as a defendant in his Circuit Court suit last June. He claimed he smoked the Reynolds firm's product and bought the cigarettes at the market.

Fire Prevention Week Program Is Being Sponsored

Fire Prevention Week is being sponsored here this week by the local Fire Department and Chamber of Commerce.

Cooperating in the program will be the city schools, various local insurance firms and the local theatres.

Proclaimed nationally as Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 3-9 will be observed locally with a program conducted "to direct the attention of the citizens to the most common carriers of preventable fires and to urge them to inspect their homes and businesses to locate these hazards and to remove them. In this way it is hoped the city's fire losses may be reduced, according to a statement by Chamber of Commerce Manager Willard T. Kyzer.

He said the program includes providing the students in the city schools with material to help them recognize hazards in homes and businesses. This material will include blanks for making thorough inspections.

Kyzer said motion picture films will also be provided for use in the schools, and films will be available to the various civic clubs.

The Fire Department, with the cooperation of the school officials and teachers, will conduct fire drills in the schools all during the week.

In addition, the Department will make an inspection of all the local businesses and industries during this week.

Kyzer said Wednesday has been designated as Clean-Up Day in the homes, and Thursday will be Clean-Up Day for the city in general. On this day it is hoped yards, alleys and vacant lots will be cleaned off.

The Manager stated the Street Department will remove any rubbish which is placed at the curb during the clean-up days.

SNAPSHOT FOR MOTHER — Admiral Robert E. Carney, Chief of Naval Operations, photographs house in Vallejo, Cal., where he was born. Photo is for his mother in Honolulu.

Ship Passengers Conduct Sitdown

NEW YORK (AP)—A little thing like a collision at sea didn't perturb passengers on the luxury liner Maasdam—until it hit them in the pocketbook.

And then— Well, a typhoon was nothing compared to the storm the Maasdam's crew sailed into from furious passengers, angered when the damaged ship returned to port yesterday and they were told they would have to pay hotel bills.

More than 100 passengers went on a sitdown strike in a lounge on the promenade deck. Five hundred other passengers left quietly.

In vain, officials of the Holland-America Lines, operators of the Maasdam, pleaded that it was against sanitary regulations for passengers to live aboard ships in drydock.

The Maasdam suffered a crashed hull in a collision with the French

SEAT COVER SALE

For Coach & Sedan

$15.00 Covers—Now $ 9.95

$25.00 Covers—Now $15.95

$35.00 Covers—Now $24.95

Buy Seat Covers Now - Save!

GARRIS SUPPLY

507 Dickinson Ave. - Tel. 5225

freighter Tofev Saturday night off Rhode Island.

The dispute followed an announcement that Holland-America would arrange hotel reservations in New York until another passage could be obtained, but that the passengers would have to pay the bills.

Finally Holland - America surrendered. It offered to pay $20 subsistence for each adult and $10 for each child pending the sailing of the line's Ryndam Oct. 13. Hours after the fume started, the Maasdam weighed anchor at Hoboken, N.J., and headed for repairs at a Brooklyn shipyard. A last report, there still were about 20 passengers holding out.

Saad's Shoe Shop
Prompt Expert Service
Work Guaranteed
113 Grande Ave.
Dial 2056

Seagram's

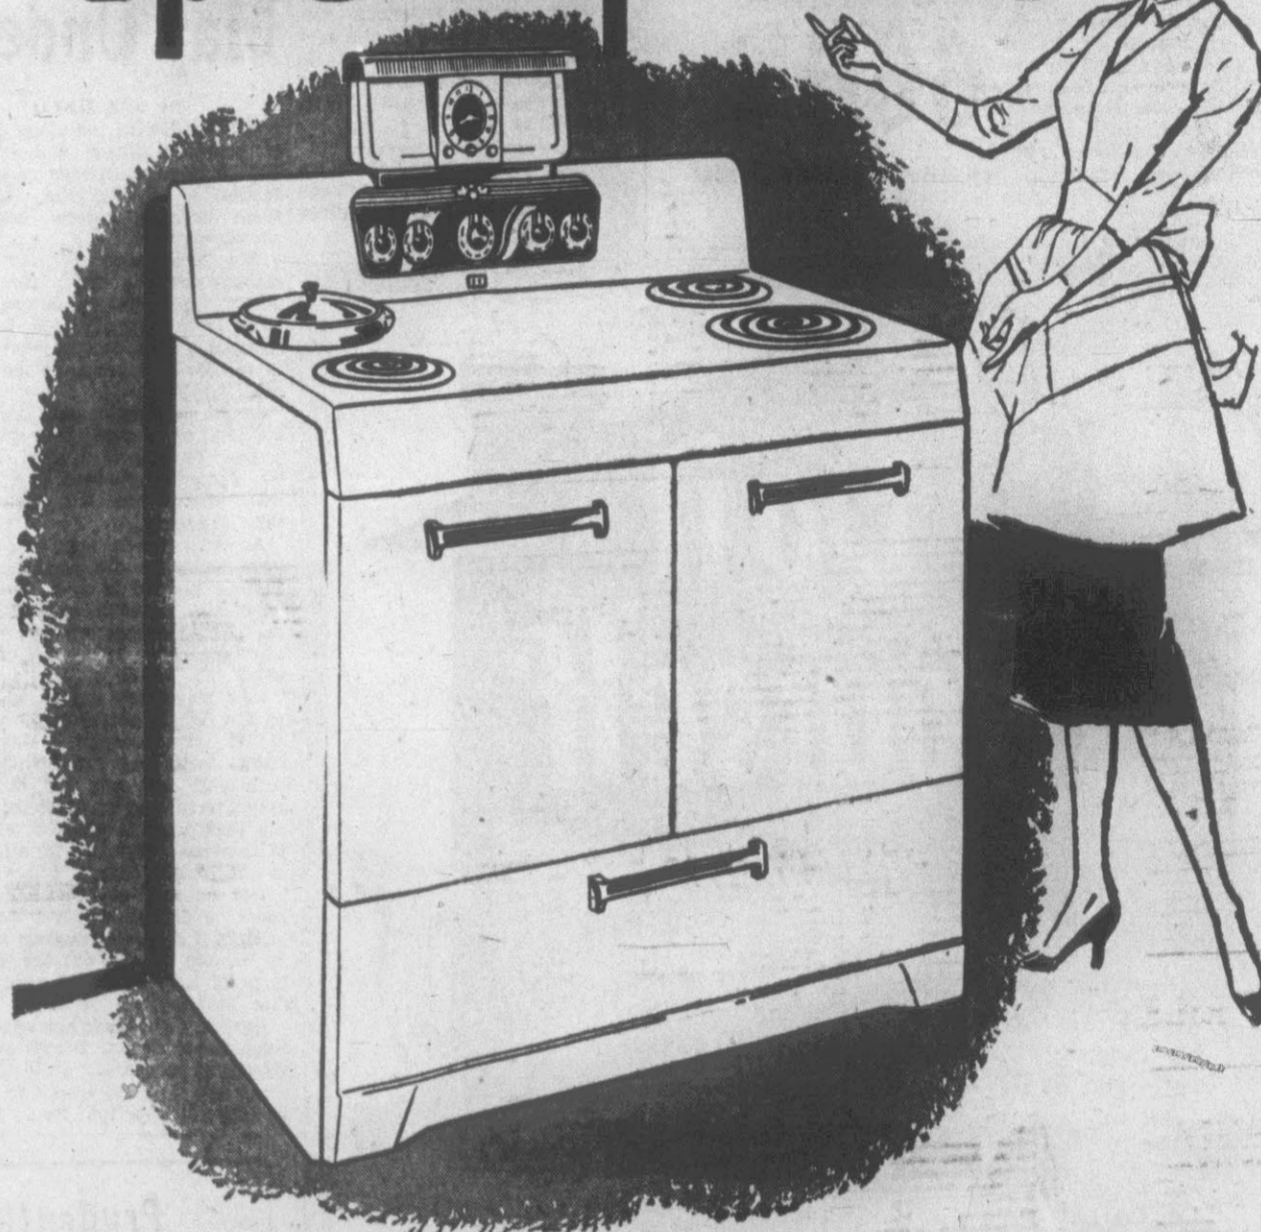

Seven 7 Crown

BLENDED WHISKEY

86.8 Proof. 65% Grain Neutral Spirits

Seagram-Distillers Corporation, Chrysler Building, New York

Fully Automatic! Specially Priced!

FRIGIDAIRE Electric Range

Built And Backed By General Motors
LOOK AT ALL THESE VALUES!

- | | | |
|--------------------------|---------------------------------|-----------------|
| Big, Even-Heat Oven | Two Big Storage Drawers | Model RT-105 |
| High-Speed Broiler | Cook-Master Oven Clock Control | $219.95 |
| Double-Duty Thermizer | All-Porcelain Finish Inside And | |
| Radiantube Surface Units | Out | On Easy Terms |

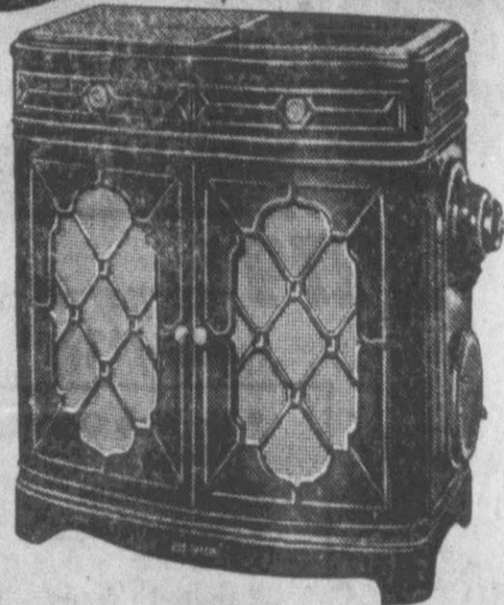

Come In! See A Demonstration Today!

- | | |
|---------------------|--|
| Ayden, N.C. | Farmville, N.C. |
| City Electric Co. | Southern Supply Co. |
| Bethel, N.C. | Greenville, N.C. |
| M. O. Blount & Sons | Appliance Sales & Sporting Goods Co., Inc. |

SAFETY SPOTTERS—Shoulder cape blinkers and an arm rear view mirror exhibited at the German Inventors Fair in Nurnberg, Germany, are designed for safer motorcycle driving.

Genuine DUO-THERM FURNITURE STYLED OIL HOME HEATER

A Big Capacity Console!

Automatic Power-Air Blower Saves up to 25% on Fuel!

$15.00 Down Delivers From Taft Furniture Co.

57 Years Service

KENTUCKY STRAIGHT BOURBON WHISKEY

6 years old

$2.40 PINT
$3.80 4/5 Qt.

86 PROOF, THE STAGG DIST. CO., FRANKFORT, KY.

TELEPHONE 6100

use the Want Ads to BUY SELL RENT HIRE

THE PHANTOM

THE HEART OF JULIET JONES

FLASH GORDON

BLONDIE

OZARK IKE

RUSTY RILEY

POGO

PUBLIC NOTICES

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE TO CREDITORS
 of the Estate of Ida Griffin, deceased, late of Pitt County, North Carolina, this is to notify all persons having claims against the estate of the deceased to exhibit them to the undersigned Administrator at Greenville, North Carolina, on or before the 28th day of September, 1954, or this notice will be pleaded in bar of their recovery. All persons indebted to said estate will please make payment to the Administrator.
 This the 28th day of September, 1954.

GUARANTY BANK AND TRUST COMPANY, Greenville, N. C., Administrator of the estate of Ida Griffin, Deceased.
 Oct. 4-11-18-25-Nov. 1-8

NOTICE NORTH CAROLINA PITT COUNTY

The undersigned having qualified as Executor of the Estate of Hortense F. Moye, deceased, late of Pitt County, this is to notify all persons having claims against said estate to present them to the undersigned on or before the 7th day of September, 1954, or this notice will be pleaded in bar of their recovery. All persons indebted to said estate will please make immediate payment to the undersigned.
 This the 4th day of September, 1954.

JAMES M. MOYE, Executor of the Estate of Hortense F. Moye, Greenville, N. C., Sam B. Underwood, Jr., Atty.
 Sept. 6-13-20-27 Oct. 4-11

AUTOS FOR SALE

1950 MODEL CHEVROLET PANEL truck. Large tires on back (700-16). In good condition, just rebuilt. Can be seen at 402 Elmwood Street. Cecil B. Brown. 30-6ts

FOR SALE—1950 PLYMOUTH, extra clean, 1 owner, 30,000 actual miles. Also for sale cheap—1 doz. Bentwood chairs. Apply at Carolina Grill. 29-6ts

It's happy harvest in the want-ads! For bargains in real estate, cars, merchandise, and general needs, turn to the want-ads and reap right!

FOR RENT

3 ROOM UNFURNISHED DOWNSTAIRS apartment—Venetian blinds, private bath, and private front and back entrances. 1304 Charles Street. Phone 4385. 4-5ts

FOR RENT—LARGE DUPLEX apartment, strictly private. Oil furnace. Close in. Call 4437 after 6 p.m. 4-4ts

FOUR BEDROOM APARTMENT just painted for rent located on Myrtle Ave. Contact Griener Rental Agency, phone 5700. 4-3ts

HOUSES, APARTMENTS, ROOMS and business property for rent. Contact Griener Rental Agency Office located in Room 25, Rivers Building, 308 Evans Street, which is upstairs over Chamber of Commerce. Telephone 5700. Closed on Wednesday afternoons. Aug. 4-11

Build a bigger business through The Daily Reflector Classified ads. The want-ads are famous profit-makers.

FOUR ROOM APT.—$30 PER MONTH. Ground floor. Located in Mill Village. Apply Carolins Grill. Sept. 20-11

FOR RENT—SIX ROOM DOWNSTAIRS apartment, completely refurnished inside and out. New venetian blinds, hot and cold water and steam heat furnished free. One 4 room downstairs apartment, completely refurnished inside. Both apartments are one block of 3rd Street School. Dial 4293 or 4443. J. C. Youngblood. 25-6ts

UNFURNISHED APARTMENT for rent—4 rooms, downstairs. Water and lights furnished. Located on Dickinson Ave. Phone 2782. Sept. 14-11

DAILY REFLECTOR WANT AD INFORMATION

Your Want Ad Telephone Number in Greenville is 6100

RATES
 ($1.00 minimum charge for 25 words or less for first insertion)

1 Insertions	$ 1.75
2 Insertions	$ 2.25
3 Insertions	$ 2.75
4 Insertions	$ 3.25
One Month	$14.00

DISPLAY WANT ADS
 $1.25 per column inch per insertion.
 1 Week $ 6.75
 1 Month $28.00
 (Above rates for more than one insertion apply to ads running on consecutive days.)

DEADLINES
 No new ads, kills or corrections accepted after 3 p.m. the day before publication.

ERRORS—OMISSIONS
 The Daily Reflector will be responsible only for the first incorrect or omitted insertion of any advertisement in these columns and then only to the extent of a make-good insertion. Errors which do not lessen the value of the advertisement will not be corrected by a make-good insertion. The publisher reserves the right to revise or reject any copy.

SAVE MONEY
 Order your ad to run six times; the cost is less per day. When you get desired results call 6100 and stop the ad. You pay for only the number of days your ad actually appeared.

FOR RENT

FOR RENT—TWO UNFURNISHED apartments, completely refurnished. Two bedrooms, living room, kitchen, plenty of closets and venetian blinds. One downstairs $60.00, one upstairs $55.00. 704 E. 3rd St. Dial 4717. 3-6ts

NEW BARGAINS IN GOOD USED furniture and antiques. New mahogany swivel top television table, $8.95. Also saxophone, perfect. Ellington's Furniture Exchange, 417 Washington Street. Sept. 14-1 mo.

QUICK RESULTS—WHETHER you want to buy or sell, hire or be hired, a Want Ad will get results faster, at less cost. Call The Daily Reflector, phone 6100, and place your ad today.

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—Ladies white gold watch (with small sets on each side), has never been worn. Will sell for $35. Call 2782. 30-11

KEN'S FURNITURE SHOP New and used household furnishings at bargain prices. We trade, buy and sell. See Ken's Furniture Shop first. 925-927 Dickinson Ave. Phone 6683. Sept. 14-1 mo.

FOR SALE—PARAKEETS, CAGES and supplies. Buy your birds from a disabled veteran. Opposite Pitt County school garage. George W. Harris Jr., P.O. Box 163, Sylvania Ave., Winterville, N. C. 8-15-1 mo.

GIVE YOUR CHILD A CHANCE to play the piano! See our fine line of Kimball and Lester Betsy Ross pianos today. Home Furniture Store. Phone 2879. Sept. 25-1 mo

BUXTON BILFOLDS FOR MEN and ladies—Name or initials gold stamped free. Lautares Bros., Registered Jewelers—AGS, 414 Evans Street. Sept. 22-1 mo.

BABY CHICKS NOW AVAILABLE Wayne and Eshelman feeds. Full line of parakeets, canary and dog supplies. Drop in for a look. Plenty of free parking. Drum's Hatchery West End Circle. Phone 2537. Aug. 26-1 mo

HOTPOINT APPLIANCES—WE have Hoppoint ranges, refrigerators, washers, home freezers in stock. We service what we sell. See us before you buy. Cash or terms. PHS PCX. Sept. 8-1 mo.

FOR SALE BY OWNER—Seven room house across street from West Greenville School. Will sell at bargain. Phone 4122 or 5877 after 6 p.m. Sept. 30-11

GET SALT "FREE" BREAD FRESH daily at Peoples Bakery, 615 Dickinson Ave. 4-11

PIANOS

Rent a piano for only $5.00. First six months rent may be applied to purchase of piano. New Janssen pianos, Organo, Minshall electric organs, and reconditioned pianos reasonably priced. Rodkin's Piano Store, 723 Dickinson Ave. Phone 6119. 4-11

PARKER AND SHAEFFER PENS, pencils and desk sets. Name engraved free. Lautares Bros., Registered Jewelers AGS, 414 Evans St. Sept. 22-1 mo.

Classified Display

East Carolina Roofing Company; Jobs Applied and Financed
CLAUDE B. WEST, Mgr.
 Office—Proctor Hotel
 Office Phone 6181
 Residence Phone 5288

FORD PICKUP—1949 Model 6— Rough around the edges but ready to haul—$295, full price at Flanagan's. 4-2ts

Field Fencing - 5-V Roofing - Truck Covers - Myers Water Pumps.
Edwards Hardware

FOR SALE

1951 FORD Pickup will be sold to the highest bidder. Submit bids before Fri., Oct. 8, to Berry Bostic & Son. Phone 2188

FOR SALE

FOR SALE—9 FT. KELVINATOR refrigerator, also 1 vacuum cleaner. Can be seen at Phelps Radio Service, North Greene Street. 3-2ts

HELP WANTED—MALE

SALESMEN WANTED—GOOD OPPORTUNITY in Pitt County to supply consumers with Rawleigh Products. Sold there for years. Get into your own business. Start now during big money season. Write Rawleigh's Dept. NCJ-443-216, Richmond, Va. Oct. 4-7-11-14

ACTUAL JOBS OPEN IN U. S. South America, Europe, To $15,000. Travel paid. Write only Employment Information Center, Room 906, 316 Stuart St., Boston. Mon.-11

HELP WANTED—FEMALE

WANTED—WOMAN TO KEEP books for department store. Call 2661, Bethel, N.C. W. C. Whitehurst & Son. Oct. 1-11

COOK WANTED—SOMEONE WHO wants permanent job. Good salary and working conditions. Apply during mornings, 308 E. 10th Street. Dial 5861. 10-3ts

WORK WANTED

NANCY LITTLE, PRACTICAL nurse, experienced, wants job nursing. Write 703 Church St., Farmville, N. C. 2-2ts

MISCELLANEOUS WANTED

WANTED TO RENT—3 OR 4 BED- room house (under 10 years old) in good location. Call Mr. Reeves at 6181 between 10 and 12 a.m. week days. 4-11

WANTED—OLD FISH BOX, ANY condition. Norman Coward, 6304 View. 4-6ts

WANT TO RENT—SMALL TWO horse farm. Prefer furnishing everything but will consider renting on halves. Apply to 1104 Ward Street. 1-6ts

LOST AND FOUND

LOST—MAN'S BROWN WALLET and pair of shoes. If found contact J. D. Williams, Rt. 3, Greenville, or call 6601. 4-11

SPECIAL NOTICES

EXPERIENCED WAITRESS wanted—Good pay, pleasant working conditions. Apply in person. Carolina Grill. 23-11

WE DO REPAIRING ON ALL makes of washing machines, also bicycles. Our prices are moderate and our work efficient. Call Garrie Supply Co. Phone 5225. Sept. 25-1 mo

FORD—1946 TU- der—Good tires, radio and heater—$295, at Flanagan's. 4-2ts

Classified Display

SAVE Howard Zink SEAT COVERS PRICES FROM $12.95

Tailored and ready-made for coaches and sedans

Sutton's Service Center No. 2 1401 Dickinson Ave.

EXCEPTIONAL INCOME Spare or Full Time Commercial and Industrial VENDING MACHINES Furnished Without Charge To Our Dealers

* No Experience Necessary
 * No Selling
 * Company Obtains Locations
 * Will Train Person Selected To Qualify You Must Have Good Credit and Character References.
 At Least $600.00 Cash To Buy Merchandise.
 For Personal Interview Write:
COIN PRODUCTS DISPENSERS
 429 N. Vandewater
 St. Louis 3, Mo.
 Include Your Phone Number 1-3ts.

Field Fencing - 5-V Roofing - Truck Covers - Myers Water Pumps.
Edwards Hardware

FOR SALE

T. A. G. Merchandise
 Is Your Best Used Appliance Buy

USED APPLIANCES FOR SALE
 Under Auspices of Frigidaire Service Dept.

RANGES - REFRIGERATORS - WASHING MACHINES. Completely Reconditioned & Guaranteed. Appliance Sales & Sporting Goods Corp. Next door to Pitt Theatre - Tel. 4260. — Your Frigidaire Dealer —
1 Year Guarantee On All Refrigerators

SPECIAL NOTICE

DR. SKELL, FOOT SPECIALIST office 217 State Bank Building open Mondays only.

YOU MAY HAVE UNKNOWN valuables in your attic or stored away. We buy for CASH or TRADE old pistols, gold coins, gold, gold filled watch cases, etc. Greenville Loan and Jewelers, 513 Dickinson Ave., Greenville, N. C. 2-6ts

EXPERT SERVICES

HAVE YOUR CAR PAINTED by the oldest automobile refinishers in Eastern North Carolina. We use the latest and best equipment in body and fender repairs. Best workmanship, lowest prices. Briley's Paint Shop, North Greene Street, Phone 2600. Sept. 8-1 mo.

WE SPECIALIZE IN EXPERT lubrication service. Visit us today and have your car washed by experts. Carr Allen's Texaco Service Station, next door to Post Office. 4-6ts

PREVENT BALDNESS—STOP tearing your hair out—We'll keep your car running. Rick's Service Center, 8th and Evans Streets, Greenville, N. C. 4-6ts

Want Cash? Sell unused articles through a Classified ad in The Daily Reflector. Phone 6100 for an ad-writer.

HOMES FOR SALE

FOR SALE BY OWNER—LOVELY split-level six room brick home. Two tile baths, 11x24 screened back porch, 13x46 garage and storage under house. Also Lennox heating plant. This house has been reduced. Owner leaving town. Shown by appointment only. Dial 4818. Can be seen at 209 Lewis Street in College View. 2-6ts

FOR SALE—ELMHURST—At- tractive new brick house, three bedrooms, living room, dining room, kitchen and tiled bath. On large lot. Library Street—Attractive 3 bedroom house with living room, kitchen, dinette and heating plant. See J. B. Smith Jr., General Insurance Agency, 314 Evans Street, Dial 2401. 4-12ts

MONKEY TO LOAN

FOR QUICK CONFIDENTIAL loans from $10 to $100 on your household furniture and kitchen appliances, contact Security Loan Corp. 197 E. 5th Street, Greenville, N. C. Phone 3906. 4-11

Classified Display

Greenville's Hunting Center SPECIAL Closeout Prices ON GUNS & RIFLES WILLIAMS Sport Shop 206 E. 5th Street

FORD—1951 6 TU- der deluxe—newly refinished inside and outside—Only $750, at Flanagan's Buggy Co. Inc. 4-3ts

G.T.R.O.I.C.S.

It means "Given the right Opportunity I Can Succeed."

If you are between 21 and 40 and feel like your present position lacks opportunity, give me 30 minutes of your valuable time.

You will need a good car and be willing to devote full time in learning our business. We have a complete training program which will qualify you to earn over $6,000.00 your first year.

Write Box 736, Greenville, N. C. and a personal interview will be arranged. No curiosity seekers, please, my time is valuable tool 30-6ts

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — Aircraft and steel combined today to send the stock market ahead in the early afternoon.

Gains throughout the list were liberal, running to between 1 and 2 points in many instances and sometimes beyond. Losses were fractional.

Trading was brisk, particularly during the first hour when a number of large blocks hit the tape. Trading maintained a rate right around two million shares for the day. Friday's total was 1,850,000 shares.

Aircraft displayed the first sign of strength in the list, and then the steel excited demand at higher prices. Many individual issues stood out.

Among higher stocks were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Goodyear, Boeing, Bell Aircraft, Radio Corp., Westinghouse Electric, Baltimore & Ohio, Cities Service, Tide Water Associated Oil, and United Air Lines.

Goodyear advanced strongly in a flurry of buying following the news that Goodyear's tubless tires will be standard equipment on all the Chrysler Corp. lines.

CHICAGO — (USDA) — Salable hogs 10,000; market active; butchers strong to 15 higher than Friday's average; sows steady to 25 up; choice 190-270 lb butchers 19.00-19.35; mainly 19.15 up with large share 200 lb and heavier 19.25 and above; 19.25 top freely for 215-270 lb averages; 160-180 lb 18.00-19.00; few 280-310 lb 18.85-19.10; choice 230-400 lb sows mainly 17.50-18.35; lighter weights 18.50-18.75; larger lots 425-600 lb 15.75-17.50; good clearance.

Salable cattle 25,000; calves 500; steers slow; 25-75 lower; heifers fairly active; steady to 25 lower; cows very slow; weak to 30 lower; bulls moderately active; steady to 50 higher; vealers steady; few loads prime 1,150-1,350 lb fed steers 23.25-29.00; bulk choice and prime steers 23.75-28.00; good to low choice largely 20.00-23.50; most good to high choice heifers 19.50-24.00; high choice and prime grades 24.25-25.00; utility and commercial cows 8.75-13.00; canners and cutters 6.00-9.25; utility and commercial bulls 12.00-15.25; mostly 14.75 down; good heavy beef bulls 11.50-12.50; few choice and prime vealers 23.00; good and choice largely 17.00-22.00; most cul to commercial vealers 9.00-16.00; few early sales stockers and feeders about steady; choice yearling feeding steers 21.75; one hundred head good 675 lb weights 19.00.

CHICAGO — (USDA) — Potatoes: Arrivals 272; on track 542; total U.S. shipments for Friday 398; Saturday 292; Sunday 11; supplies liberal; demand fair; market for Russets about steady; Reds firm to slightly stronger; Washington Russets 3.55-60; Wisconsin Russets 2.10, Pontiacs 2.15; Minnesota and North Dakota Pontiacs (washed) 2.35-50.

RALEIGH — (NCDA) — Hog prices mostly steady to 25 higher. Tops of 19.75 at Kenly; 19.50 at Hillsboro, Micro Elizabethtown, Siler City, Freeman, Fayetteville and Clinton; 19.25 at Beulaville, Tarboro, Enfield Hamilton, Kingston, New Bern, Benson, Rocky Mount and Rich Square; 19.00 at Wilmington, Weldon, Scotland Neck, Windsor, Colesburg, Jacksonville, Taylor City, Whiteville, Wilson, Newton Grove, Burgaw, Dunn, Lillington, Goldsboro, Mount Olive, Warsaw, Clarkton, Smithfield, Lumberton and Woodland.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — Central North Carolina poultry markets: Fryers and broilers steady following decline, farm price 20, f.o.b. plant price, few sales at 20 1/2; Raleigh eggs steady a large 52. Asheville fryers and broilers steady at 19; eggs steady following decline of two to three cents, a large 49-43.

NEW DELHI, India. — Jawahar Lal Nehru says his job as Indian prime minister has fatigued him and he may step down, but observers here are not inclined to take him too seriously.

They pointed out today that Nehru in the past has used similar expressions, largely as a threat to whip segments of his Congress party into line. If he is really tired, they said, there are several lesser burdens he might ask others to take over. He holds the posts of Indian foreign minister, defense minister and chairman of the planning commission, as well as the premiership.

Nehru told Congress party members last week he was "rather tired" mentally.

Colored News

Elks Pitt Lodge No. 234 will hold its regular communication Tuesday night at 8 o'clock. All members please be present for the purpose of completing plans.

Did Jesus start a church? Where is it? How can you recognize it? These interesting questions will be discussed tonight at Saint Gabriel's Hall at 8 o'clock. The members of Saint Gabriel's parish urge all to bring their Bibles and ask questions. Kindly bring a friend to these free meetings. All are welcome to acquire a deeper knowledge of Our Divine Savior and His teachings.

American Legion Notice
Edgar Barnes Post No. 222 will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at the new location, West 5th Street. All members and honorably discharged veterans are urged to be present and pay your 1955 dues, also final arrangements for our Booth at Pitt County Fair must be completed at this meeting.
LEROY BARNES
Vice-Commander

WNCT Schedule

With the close of the World's Series, Television Station WNCT, Channel 9, Greenville, will begin telecasting football Saturday. Canadian football will begin Saturday and the pick of the professional games will begin Sunday. The pro schedule, which may be altered in order to bring fans the most significant game of the week, follows:

October 10 — Colts vs. Bears at Chicago
October 17 — Browns vs. Steelers at Pittsburgh
October 24 — Colts vs. Green Bay at Baltimore
October 31 — Browns vs. Giants at Cleveland
November 7 — Giants vs. Steelers at Pittsburgh
November 14 — Browns vs. Bears at Chicago
November 21 — Rams vs. Giants at New York
November 28 — 49ers vs. Colts at Baltimore
December 5 — Browns vs. Skins at Washington
December 12 — Giants vs. Eagles at Philadelphia

New Shows, Schedule Changes
Drew Pearson, internationally known columnist and news commentator started in the WNCT schedule last night at 6:00, with a 15 minute commentary that will be seen regularly at this time.

Lucille Ball and Desi Arnez in "I Love Lucy" return to the WNCT schedule tonight and a new comedy show, December Bride, begins tonight from 9:30 to 10:00.

The Elgin Watch Hour will begin to alternate with U.S. Steel Hour with a dramatic show that is similar to the U.S. Steel Hour.

Big Town returns Wednesday night, 11:00 to 11:30, following the Greatest Fights of the Century.

MONDAY
4:00—Brighter Day
4:15—Yesterday's Newsreel
4:30—On Your Account
5:00—Cactus Jim Club
5:25—Rocky Jones, Space Ranger
5:55—News
6:00—Riders of the Purple Sage
6:15—Sports
6:20—Weather
6:25—Safety Tips
6:30—Dick Carter

50,000 Attendance
Pitt County Agricultural Fair
"Pitt County on Parade"
Greenville, N. C.
October 11th-16th:

ALFRED HITCHCOCK'S
"dial M for Murder"
FROM WARNER BROS. IN
3 DIMENSION - WARNERCOLOR
RAY MILLAN • GRACE KELLY • ROBERT CLUMMING
24th Street, New York City

Hundreds At Homecoming Event

MT. PLEASANT CHURCH HOMECOMING—Several hundred persons yesterday attended the annual homecoming at Mt. Pleasant Christian Church. The photo shows a portion of the crowd which attended the picnic following the morning worship services. (Reflector Staff Photo).

Radio WGTC Schedule

MONDAY
4:00—Ebony Hit Parade
5:00—High School Hillies
5:15—The Three Suns
5:30—Wild Bill Hickok
5:55—Daily Reflector Headlines
6:00—First Federal Reporter
6:05—Weather
6:10—Sports Highlights
6:15—Variety Cafe
6:55—News
7:00—Parade of Bands
7:15—Dinner Date
7:30—Gabriel Heater
7:45—In The Mood
8:00—Top Secret File
8:30—Under Arrest
9:00—Bill Henry News
8:05—Yours on Request
9:30—One Night Stand
10:00—Harry Flannery
10:15—Starlight Serenade
11:00—Sign Off

TUESDAY
5:58—Sign On
6:00—Morning Almanac
6:15—Farm Program
6:25—Morning Almanac
7:00—News
7:05—Early Risers Club
7:30—State News
7:35—News and Weather
7:40—Musical Interlude
7:45—News
7:55—Hits of Yesteryear
8:00—Mac's Music Rack
9:00—News
9:05—Be My Guest
9:30—Morning Meditations
9:45—Piano Interlude
9:50—Local News
9:55—Obituary Column
10:00—News Headlines
10:03—Be My Guest
10:30—News
10:35—Story Time
11:00—Florida Calling
11:25—What's New
11:30—Queen For A Day
12:00—Break The Bank
12:15—News
12:20—On the Farm
12:25—News and Weather
12:30—Luncheon Melodies
12:50—Lost and Found
12:55—Weather
1:00—Hillbilly Jamboree
1:30—Ted Steele Show
2:00—Luncheon With Lopez
2:25—Headline News
2:30—Wonderful City
3:00—Platter Parade
4:00—Ebony Hit Parade
5:00—Sgt. Preston of the Yukon
5:30—Bobby Benson Show
5:55—Daily Reflector Headlines
6:00—First Federal Reporter
6:05—Weather
6:10—Sports Highlight
6:15—Variety Cafe
6:55—News
7:00—Christian Science
7:15—Dinner Date
7:30—Gabriel Heater
7:45—Eddie Fisher
8:00—Treasury Agent
8:30—John Steele Adventure
9:00—Bill Henry News
9:05—Yours on Request
10:00—Harry Flannery
10:15—Starlight Serenade
11:00—Sign Off

Executives Club To Hear Luther Gable

One of the nation's original uranium prospectors and research scientists will be guest speaker at a meeting of the Pitt County Executives Club October 15, club president F. D. Duncan has announced.

Prospector-scientist Luther Gable will lead the discussion on uranium during which the possibilities of the world's most important element and its associated products will be unfolded.

Gable, a member of the faculty of the American Television Institute of Technology, explains uranium, radar, television and nuclear fission in a manner which the average layman can understand.

The scientist delivers his talk and makes demonstrations using the so-called "Black Light," which he was largely instrumental in developing at Fort Monmouth when he was in the Army. For this work, Gable received a citation and an award.

Two Americans Claim 'Asylum'

BERLIN — Two American brothers who vanished mysteriously from West Berlin early last month presented themselves at a Communist news conference today and said they had asked political asylum in East Germany.

The men are William Henry Starr, 30, an electrician, and James Starr, 31, an oil worker, both formerly of Westville, N.J.

They had been living in Germany more than a year and a half.

The brothers were presented at a specially-called press conference in East Berlin which provided the first indication of their whereabouts since West Berliners reported they saw the East German highway patrol arrest them Sept. 7 on the autobahn.

William Henry Starr, speaking for the pair, told correspondents they defected because they "disagreed with the ruling clique in the United States" and its policy.

"If we had dared to say this in West Berlin, we would have been arrested and brought back to the United States to face trial there," he said. "We love America and the American people and will not return as long as America is governed by this clique."

He spoke in English and his remarks were translated into German by a woman interpreter.

Starr said the brothers had been working in the electrical equipment field, had been in Europe about two years and had spent the last year in West Berlin.

East German government press chief Fritz Beyling cut short questions from newsmen, claiming the press conference had been called for other matters. Beyling earlier had blasted the London nine-power conference and alleged American espionage activities in East Germany.

ANCHORS AWEIGH
NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — The anchor chains for the super carrier Forrestal are composed of 1,368 links each weighing 360 pounds. Port and starboard chains will each support a 60,000 pound anchor. Links are 2 feet, 4 1/2 inches long. It took about the same amount of time to forge the chains as to build a 2,000-ton destroyer.

Hundreds Attend Doughton Rites

LAUREL SPRINGS, N.C. — Hundreds came here yesterday to pay their final respects to former Rep. Robert Lee Doughton, 90, who was buried in the Laurel Springs Cemetery.

Doughton, who died in his sleep at his home here Thursday night, was one of North Carolina's most colorful legislators having served in Congress 42 years before his retirement in 1952.

Funeral services, held in the nearby Sparta Baptist Church, brought many national and state political leaders to this western North Carolina mountain region. The small church was crowded and many had to stand outside to hear the services.

Doughton was best known for his service as chairman of the important House Ways and Means Committee. In this capacity he authorized many of the nation's tax bills. He also wrote the nation's first social security law.

The Rev. Howard Ford, former pastor of the Sparta Baptist Church and one of three ministers who conducted the services, said Doughton told him shortly before his death, "I have tried to serve my nation, my state and district well, and now I don't believe I have an enemy in the world."

Afterward, a 75-car procession drove to the Laurel Springs Cemetery 13 miles away for the final rites.

Among those attending were U.S. Sen. Alton A. Lennon and U.S. Reps. Chatham, Bonner and Alexander, all from North Carolina; John S. Graham, former assistant secretary of the treasury, John Sear, who served as Doughton's secretary in Washington, and many high ranking state officials.

ABC Enforcers Arrest 4 People

ABC officers made four arrests for illegal possession of non-tax paid whiskey during the weekend.

Released under $200 bond each were Spaniel Moore and his wife Rosa Lee Moore of Bethel. Their case has been set for the October 12 term of County Court. A quantity of the illicit booze was found in their house, according to ABC Officer J. M. Ward.

Also arrested during the weekend was Clara Little of the Sticks Road near Pacolius. She was released without bond.

The officers arrested Samuel Phillips Moore of Pacolius and charged him with illegal possession when a soft drink bottle filled with liquor was found on his car.

Assisting ABC officers Ward, H. B. Lilly and Glenn Perkins were Deputies Jasper Lee Mills and Duke Andrews and Walter Gray and Curtis Martin of Bethel.

Two Pitt H D Delegates Depart For Tour Of UN

Two Pitt County Home Demonstration club members left early this morning to attend the second annual United Nations tour for North Carolina Home Demonstration women.

Mrs. Obed Castelleo from the Renston-Nobles club and Mrs. Lonnie Stocks of the Cannons club are making the six-day trip to New York as representatives of all the local Home Demonstration clubs.

The delegates were chosen because of their outstanding club work during the years, Home Demonstration Agent Mrs. Sue B. May said. Both are presently serving as president of their local clubs and both are members of the county Home Demonstration International Relations Committee.

Mrs. May explained each county in the state may send two delegates on this tour, a portion of the cost being defrayed by the County Council, the Home Demonstration governing body.

Purpose of the study tour, according to Miss Ruth Current State Home Demonstration Agent is "to give North Carolina Home Demonstration leaders a wholesome understanding of the role they are to take toward citizenship participation in a democracy — roles they must assume as leaders in their homes, counties, nation and world."

The group left from Raleigh this morning with Bullock Tours for New York City. There will be a one-night stopover in Washington, D.C. where the women will be shown some of the points of interest in that city.

Arriving in New York Wednesday, the group will attend any open meetings of the United Nations in session, with a briefing by someone from that organization providing a comprehensive general background on the work and structure of the United Nations.

Thursday will also be spent at the UN headquarters. The evenings will be left open for sight-seeing, shows and short trips.

Friday the women will leave New York City to visit Hyde Park and the Roosevelt and Vanderbilt estates. The tour also includes a visit to West Point Military Academy.

The group will leave New York Saturday morning for the return trip home.

South-11 Drive-In Ends Tonight - In Color
"Tennessee Champ"
TUES. & WED. NITES
Barbara Stanwyck
"Witness To Murder"

Sheriff's Dept. Hunting Man In Assault Case
The sheriff's department today was searching for June White, Negro, who is wanted for assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill following a Sunday morning fight in the Ballard's Cross section.

White was alleged to have struck Alfred Taylor, also Negro, in the head with a bush axe sometime between midnight and morning yesterday.

Pitt County Sheriff Ruel Tyson said today that White is confined to the hospital with a head injury. The sheriff stated that several stitches had to be taken to close the wound caused by the blow.

Found Feet Not The Same Size
LOS ANGELES — Dr. Lawrence E. Morehouse, professor of physical education at UCLA, said yesterday that 49 per cent of 600 students whose feet were studied turned out to have one foot larger than the other.

The variance ranged from one-half to a size to 2 1/2 sizes, he told a conference on foot problems in industry, held under the auspices of the American College of Foot Orthopedists.

PRELL'S Broadway Shows
At
Pitt County Agricultural Fair
"Pitt County on Parade"
October 11th-16th:

JOHN WAYNE
Island in the Sky
— Ends Today —
Robert Mitchum
"White Witch Doctor"

SAVE MORE WITH Thor

America's Top Value
WRINGER WASHERS

See Model 495—Super-value! Full 9-lb. capacity. Washes more clothes — saves time!

Easy Terms
See Model 492—Packed with features that save work, get clothes cleaner—at low, low cost!

Easy Terms
Trade in your old washer now! Easy monthly terms!

J. A. Collins & Son
FURNITURE • RUGS • STOVES & HOUSE FURNISHINGS
GREENVILLE • • • • • AURORA

Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.
DIAL 4010

Students! GET BETTER GRADES
BUY A NEW REMINGTON
Quiet riter
ONLY $1.50 a week

Taff Office Equipment Co.
214 East 5th St. Dial 2374

Watch This Space For Safety Tested Used Car Buys

1953 Ford Customline. Equipped. Low mileage. One-owner.

1950 Oldsmobile "88" Club Sedan. Fully equipped with hydramatic.

1948 Oldsmobile "66" Club Sedan. A nice small family car.

STAFFORD Oldsmobile Co.
2016 PHONES 3993

COLONY ENDS TONIGHT
I LOVE MELVIN
TUES. - WED.
KIRK DOUGLAS
In Adult Drama
"ACT OF LOVE"

TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY

MR. LESLIE
He gave her only half his name!

It's about Mrs. Leslie... and the man she never quite married!

Shirley Booth tops her Academy Award performance in "Come Back, Little Sheba."

SHIRLEY BOOTH ROBERT RYAN
IN HAL WALLIS PRODUCTION
"ABOUT MRS. LESLIE"

This Picture Will Neither Interest nor Entertain Children!

Features At 1:10 - 3:10 - 5:10 - 7:10 and 9:10

— Ends Tonight! —
Randolph Scott in "Bounty Hunters"

PITT