Appointees Are Announced

Pitt County Commissioners yesterday appointed a new Home Demonstration agent, an assistant home demonstration agent, a new veterans service officer, and reappointed a member of the ABC board.

Education yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson was appointed assistant home agent to fill the vacancy in that department by the appointment of Mrs. Little as home agent.

Grifton Protest A committee representing taxpayers of the town of Grifton appeared before the Commissioners yesterday asking their protest to tax valuations be recorded in the minutes of the meeting of the board in order to safeguard the right of the group to make their protest to the county Board of Equalization and Review next year.

In other tax matters, the board passed a routine resolution turning over the tax books of the county to the tax collector for collection; and appointed County Attorney W. W. Speight and Auditor H. Reginald Gray to look into the tax matter of the Yelverton and Riggs Motor company.

Road Petitions The Commissioners accepted four road petitions which were presented at yesterday's meeting. Accepted were petitions for the following roads:

- 1. The road in Chislow township from highway 43 to the Clay Road, about one mile long. The petition asked the road be added to the state-maintained system.
2. Improvement of a 2.2 mile long road between the Dal Cox farm and J. D. Hudson service station in Chislow township.
3. Paving of the Whichard road, 4.5 miles, in Stokes township between highway 903 and highway 33.
4. The paving of a road in Winterville township from N.C. 11 to Sheppard's store, about four miles, and known as the L. H. Ellis, Sam Worthington and Jack Jones road.

The Commissioners accepted the resignation of Clifton Dennis, constable of Ayden township, and appointed Russell Wooten of Ayden to fill the unexpired term of Dennis. The Commissioners also granted a peddler's license for one year to George W. Harris Jr. of Winterville, and granted Harris permanent exemption from county poll taxes because he is a disabled veteran.

Reports were made to the board by heads of various county departments, and were accepted by the board. Three juries were drawn for forthcoming terms of Pitt Superior Court.

Mrs. Lillie Little Is New HD Agent

Pitt County's Home Demonstration agent has resigned. Mrs. Sue B. May's resignation, effective November 15, was accepted by the County Board of Commissioners yesterday.

Miss Lorna Langley, Northeastern District Home Demonstration agent, said, "State College regrets very much losing Mrs. May as Home agent in Pitt. We consider her one of the top Home Demonstration agents in the county. She has been a fine person to work with."

Mrs. Little has served as assistant agent since August of 1953. Prior to that time she was Home agent in Stanley County for two and a half years. She also has had experience in the teaching field, having taught home economics. In addition she has worked with the school lunch program in various counties.

She was appointed Home Demonstration agent to succeed Mrs. May by the County Commissioners on a recommendation made by the State Extension Office and approved by the local Home Demonstration County Council Executive Board.

"We feel fortunate in securing the services of Mrs. Little," Miss Langley stated. "She is a person of exceptional character and ability." The new assistant agent, Mrs. Johnson, has been teaching science in Ayden this year. She is a Wilson County native, and a former outstanding 4-H Club member. She graduated from East Carolina College with a degree in home economics and last year taught that subject at Belvoir.

"Mrs. Johnson comes very highly recommended by State College and by people who know her and who have worked with her," Miss Langley said.

Army Announces Call For 23,000

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army today issued a draft call for 23,000 men in December, the same number announced in each of the previous five months.

The new call brings to 1,855,480 the total number drafted or earmarked for induction since Selective Service was resumed in September, 1950.

Draft calls held at the 23,000 level from July, 1953, through January, 1954.

Wants Replay Of Divorce Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Susan Hayward-Jess Barker divorce trial may be in for a replay, if Barker's attorney wins his move. Atty. S. S. Hahn asked Superior Court yesterday for a new trial, contending that the evidence was not sufficient to support the verdict in Miss Hayward's favor last August.

Demonstrations By Washington Students Spread

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Demonstrations against racial integration in the public schools spread in Washington today but the situation eased in neighboring Baltimore, scene of noisy disorders for the past several days.

Strikes and picketing were reported at eight Washington schools including Anacostia and McKinley high schools where youngsters maintained a defiant attitude today despite pleas from school officials and police patrols on duty. The demonstrations started there yesterday.

A new demonstration was staged this morning at all-white Eastern High School with several hundred pupils taking part. Strike action was reported at five junior high schools.

At Baltimore school attendance increased with the situation apparently returning to normal after student strikes, picketing and mass protests over the integration of the races in schools.

In a stormy face-to-face session with Principal Richard E. Bish, some 150 "strikers" at McKinley High School agreed to name a committee to threaten out their grievances at the opening of school today.

McKinley has 598 white pupils and 419 Negroes. Police said two youths were treated for minor injuries sustained in a scuffle with six Negro boys.

Another and bigger demonstration broke out at Anacostia High, where some 400 pupils—some waving such signs as "Let Us Choose Our Own Friends"—hooted down acting Principal Eugene Griffith when he asked them to go back to classes. Anacostia has 1,228 white pupils and only 43 Negroes.

None went back to school. About half drifted away. The others clustered around school entrances, jeering Negro and white pupils coming and going for lunch. Some of the demonstrators said the walk-out had parental encouragement.

In New York Thurgood Marshall, special counsel of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, asked Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. to make it clear that "the full force of the federal government" stands behind efforts to desegregate the schools.

Marshall said demonstrations over desegregation at Milford, Del., Baltimore and Washington to threaten local school officials and prevent Negro children from "exercising their constitutionally guaranteed rights to attend desegregated schools."

"This unlawful action has come about solely by reason of the provocation of an organization known as the National Assn. for the Advancement of White People," Marshall said in a telegram to Brownell last night.

Atty. Gen. H. Albert Young of Delaware said he would try to have the charter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of White People (NAAWP) revoked Tuesday.

He told a newsman he would bring action in the Court of Chancery on the grounds that the grounds that the NAAWP had violated its Delaware charter by opposing the integration of 11 Negro pupils in Milford High School.

Young contended that the NAAWP had violated its charter which provided it would "promote and protect the constitutional guarantee of citizenship in the United States." The NAAWP's actions in opposing integration and aiding in a boycott at the Milford school and in sympathy boycotts elsewhere "abused the term of its charter," he said.

Italy's Premier Says Full Accord Reached Trieste Treaty Announced

ROME (AP)—Italian Premier Mario Scelba formally announced to his Cabinet today that agreement finally had been reached with Yugoslavia on a division of the Trieste free territory.

Initialing of the long-awaited accord was scheduled in London later today.

Scelba called it "a great day for Italy."

"I am very happy," he said. "Finally we are going back into Trieste."

Settlement of the bitter nine-year dispute between the two Adriatic Sea neighbors is expected to ease the task of ending the defense line across southeastern Europe against possible Communist aggression.

Immediately after signing of the agreement by the Italian and Yugoslav ambassadors in London, Scelba planned to present it to the Italian Parliament and demand a vote of confidence on it.

Under the agreement, virtually all Zone A of the strategic territory at the head of the Adriatic Sea goes to Italy. This zone, which includes the port city of Trieste, has been occupied jointly by U.S. and British troops since World War II.

Yugoslavia gets Zone B, the hinterland area which Yugoslav forces have held since they marched into Trieste in 1945, as well as a small strip in Zone A along the southern border.

The 4,000 American and 3,000 British troops garrisoning Zone A are expected to pull out shortly, making way for Italian troops.

Both Italy and Yugoslavia had long demanded all the territory. The dispute led to numerous border incidents and relations between the two countries deteriorated seriously.

The settlement was reached in London after lengthy negotiations among Italy, Yugoslavia, the United States and Britain. London and Washington have been prodding Rome and Belgrade for some time to end the dispute, which has blocked Western efforts to close their defense chain across south Europe.

The agreement is expected to smooth the way for Italy's participation in the Balkans antiaggression alliance signed in August by Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey.

Officially, the agreement is classed as a provisional settlement. This is to help Scelba secure the Italian Parliament's approval. The United States and Britain however consider the division of the territory in reality a permanent one.

Most of the 300,000 inhabitants in the 86-square-mile Zone A took the advance news of the settlement calmly.

Some tension was reported in the small areas slated to go to Yugoslavia. About 3,000 persons live in those sections. Some of Italian descent already are selling their holdings and moving into the Italian zone.

Yugoslavia received the biggest hunk of territory—199 square miles of sparse hillides, sheep grazing land and vineyards. Its 73,000 inhabitants are largely peasants of Yugoslav origin. Belgrade also gained special port rights in Trieste city and protection for its minority living there.

The area given to Italy contains the bulk of the territory's population—302,000 persons. The city of Trieste, a major port since the 18th century when it was part of the Austro-Hungarian Empire, has about 280,000 residents.

Italy won the whole of the Istrian Peninsula, including the Trieste territory from Austria at the close of World War I and lost it during World War II. For 40 tense days in 1945, it was occupied by Yugoslav partisans. Then an Allied military government was set up.

Wiley Says Senate Would OK London Accord Easy Approval Is Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Wiley (R-Wis) said today he thinks the Senate would quickly approve the new nine-power agreement to rearm West Germany if the administration should submit it at next month's session.

Wiley, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in an interview he had not discussed the question with Secretary of State Dulles but that he thought the administration might seek early Senate action to give the whole plan added impetus in Europe.

"We would be glad to get it," he said. "My view is that the agreement substantially meets the desires of the Senate."

The agreement worked out in London to restore West Germany's sovereignty and permit her to rearm involves a complicated series of treaties and revisions to existing treaties.

The Senate presumably will be asked, diplomatic sources said, to give its consent to the entry of West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. It may also have to pass on a rearrangement of relations between Germany and the present occupying powers, the United States, Britain and France. Other portions of the agreement probably will call for action only by European parliaments.

The Senate is on notice to meet Nov. 8 to consider a move to censure Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) for certain aspects of his official conduct. The session is not limited to that subject, however.

Diplomatic observers, meanwhile, said the greatest immediate effect of the London agreement on West Germans probably will be assurance that the large measure of freedom they already enjoy is permanent.

FARMVILLE—The local tobacco market averaged $60.28 yesterday in selling 878,110 pounds of tobacco for $529,301.36, according to figures released by Supervisor of Sales Charles S. Edwards.

School Bus Order Overruled; Audit Received

State Board of Education has directed the Grimesland bus service into the Clark's Neck area be restored. It was announced at a meeting of the County Board of Education yesterday.

The State Board overruled the local Board's order this year to discontinue the operation of the Grimesland High School bus into the Clark's Neck region.

The controversy dates back to May 1, 1952, when the State Board of Education directed "that the high school pupils at Pactolus be transferred to the Stokes High School, with the exception of certain children living in Clark's Neck area being designated by the Pitt County Board of Education to attend it, Grimesland High School."

The Grimesland High School bus served the students from Clark's Neck.

This ruling held until this year when the County Board ordered, upon request of the Pactolus School Committee, that the operation of the Grimesland High School bus be discontinued in the Clark's Neck area.

Clark's Neck Petition Recently a petition from Clark's Neck was presented the County Board of Education requesting this service be resumed. The local Board referred the matter to the State Board of Education, which upheld its 1952 ruling "since the State Board did not have before it information to substantiate any action changing the plan previously adopted and in effect prior to the action of the Pitt County Board of Education discontinuing the operation of the Grimesland High School bus in the Clark's Neck area."

At the monthly meeting yesterday the County Board of Education also received a report on the audit of special local school funds for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1954.

The audit represents the money raised in each individual community by the local schools during the year, and includes only those schools which handle more than $300 in the year.

The audit shows the total funds collected last year amounted to $370,722.24, with the amount expended totaling $324,105.25.

Audit Filed The figures will be filed with the County Auditor, the State Board of Education, the County Board of Education, and a copy of its own individual audit will be distributed to each school.

The Board approved placing the county lunchroom workers under the Federal Social Security program if all these employees indicate a willingness to participate in the program.

To finance the program two per cent would be deducted from the workers' wages and two per cent would be paid by the lunchrooms. Superintendent D.H. Conley said C.W. Everett and D.W. Alexander, representing the Bethel School Committee, appeared before the Board to discuss school improvements for the Bethel Negro school.

The Board agreed to have its architect, J.W. Griffith, make surveys and estimates on the project.

When his survey is completed the Board will consider the matter of financing the improvements.

Land For School Plans to obtain additional land for the Pitt County Training School at Grimesland were discussed by the Board, and it was pointed out unless land could be secured the enlargement of this school "will be delayed indefinitely."

At present negotiations are under way with the Grimesland Negro Veterans Club for a tract of land near the school.

The Board accepted the resignation of the eighth grade teacher at Chislow High School yesterday.

Coye Lewis has resigned to accept a position as principal of the Pink Hill School in Lenoir County. Approved as a replacement for Lewis was Frances Turner Edwards.

The Board also approved the attendance area map as presented by L.C. Fortines. The map indicates the attendance areas for all the county schools during 1954-55.

New York Port Again Tied Up By Dock Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—A strike by longshoremen in a wage dispute today tied up the world's largest and busiest port for the second time in six months.

Tugboats still were operating and big liners were able to dock but there was nobody to unload the cargoes.

There was no immediate prospect of a settlement between the International Longshoremen Assn, an independent union, and the New York Shipping Assn. representing steamship lines and stevedoring firms.

Baltimore and other East Coast ports laid plans to handle cargoes expected to be diverted from New York as they were during a 29-day walkout last March and April.

The American Export Liner Independence first large ship to arrive since the strike started last midnight, berthed without difficulty at Pier 84, Hudson River and 44th Street. Tugs nosed her to the pier where, non-longshore employees of the company handled the lines and the passengers' luggage.

The Cunard Liner Queen Mary docked later in a similar manner.

John F. Gehan, vice president of the American Export Line, arriving on the Independence from a Mediterranean vacation, told newsmen a long strike would mean permanent loss of port business.

Police, mounted and on foot, patrolled the waterfront.

At 159 piers along the port's 350-mile waterfront except military docks in Brooklyn and Staten Island appeared to be hit by the strike.

Questioned

NEW BERN, N. C. (AP)—Authorities today questioned an escaped convict about the $5,039 robbery of the Guaranty Bank & Trust Co. on Aug. 18.

However, at Charlotte his FBI said it had no comment.

Police said the convict, Herbert Morris, 28, was arrested last night in a store at Pine Neck about five miles from his home in Vanceboro. They added he escaped from the Abbeville Prison Camp several months ago.

He was taken to jail in New Bern.

VARIED VERSIONS

DALLAS (AP)—A Dallas man offered a variety of reasons why he owned a boat. He said yesterday he bought a truck with the boat in it. Then he said he won the craft in a dice game.

Police had another version. They said he stole it.

Coroner's Jury Gives Its Verdict

A coroner's jury is shown above as it's verdict which freed Joe Gibson of blame in the death of Joe Maher is read at last night's inquest. Witnesses testified that Gibson hit Maher over the head with a "grubbing hoe" on September 18 in Pactolus. Maher died Wednesday in a Windsor hospital. Doctors told Coroner Griffin H. Rouse that the man died as the result of a fractured skull. (Reflector Staff Photo).

The coroner's jury last night ruled that "there is not enough evidence to hold Joe Gibson for Grand Jury action" in the death of Earl E. Maher, medicine show worker, who died last Wednesday in a Windsor hospital.

The verdict by the six-man jury came after they heard testimony on the stand by two witnesses that they saw Gibson hit Maher over the head with a "grubbing hoe," also described as a metal rake.

Other witnesses said that Maher came onto Gibson's property and said: "I want to talk some sense to you if you will talk damn sense." They said Gibson kept walking back and saying "I don't want any trouble with you."

The witnesses conflicted in their testimony when two said that a woman came out of the house after Maher was hit, took a knife from his pocket, and handed it to Gibson who opened it and said: "Look, look, he had a knife. It was open."

Miles said Gibson handed the knife to him and he gathered up Maher's belongings which had fallen out of his pocket and helped him to his tent.

The show operator noted that he asked the injured man if he could help him to a doctor or a hospital and he said he did not want to go.

Miles stated that he got some aspirin and cotton to put in his ear to stop the bleeding.

He said he called the sheriff the next morning.

Miles faced cross-examination by Gibson's attorney, J. B. James. He said the people next door, where Gibson lived were drunk and disorderly every night.

"Why in the dickens did you stay there three weeks?" James asked.

"I didn't stay three week, I stayed two weeks. I want to stay two weeks to let people know if I'm dishonest or honest," Miles retorted.

"You told me a few minutes ago that this man threatened you?" James asked.

"He did," Miles replied.

"And that's why you are mad?"

George Leviner testified that he and Gibson were going fishing and were preparing to leave when Maher came over.

He stated that Maher said: "I want to talk some sense to you if you will talk damn sense."

Levine testified that Gibson kept walking back from Maher and telling him he did not want any trouble with him.

When the two got behind the car, Leviner continued, he "heard a lick and heard him fall."

Leviner said Gibson handed the knife to "Doc" (Miles) and he did not know whether it was open when he fell.

Under questioning by James he said the knife was in Maher's hand, when he fell.

"When he fell you saw the knife taken from his hand and given to someone called 'Doc'?" he was asked.

"Yes sir," he replied.

Picnic Supper Is Given On Saturday For Bridal Couple

The home of Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Messick was the scene of a picnic supper last Saturday evening when Miss Rose Messick and Mrs. Gene Otto entertained for a forthcoming bridal couple, Miss Lillian Wooten of Greenville and Powell Bland of Goldsboro.
Upon her arrival Miss Wooten was presented a corsage made from colored measuring spoons and a strainer.
Guests were invited to the back lawn where lights spotted a long sewing table covered in white and centered with two large pineapples pierced with olives, watermelon, pickles, spiced cauliflower, and mid-get onions. At each end of the table were long tapers in pewter holders.
Rolls and apples were served from huge baskets, slaw and potato chips from big wooden bowls, and Boston baked beans and chili from copper chafing dishes.
Near the table, weiners were served from charcoal grills and cold drinks from a wheelbarrow heaped with ice.
After supper, the honored couple was presented with a big wicker basket and a washtub filled with comical gifts brought by the guests, each accompanied by a nonsensical rhyme or jingle.
Among the approximate 50 guests were those from Goldsboro, Raleigh, Tarboro, Edenton, Farmville and Rocky Mount.

Hats Should Be Part Of Hairdo Says Famous American Designer

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
This fall the hat should be part of the hairdo, says Lilly Dache, who first won fame as a milliner and now is taking on a head-to-foot glamor job for American women, because, as she puts it:
"A woman can wear a beautiful hat and a stunning gown and still be a mess, if her skin is lifeless, her hair drab, her figure lumpy and her spirit bored."
Branching out into the fields of cosmetics, hair grooming and perfumes, the dashing Dache now designs practically anything a woman wears or uses, from hats and costumes to bras, stockings, accessories and even shoes.
For this fall, the designer advocates "a drop of a hat" — a mere punctuation mark in satin, velvet, fur or felt, perched on the head, with cutouts through which the hair shows. She matches the hat to the hair color, also, and shows small fripples in blonde tones for blondes, coppery colors for redheads, tawny browns for the brown-haired girls and shiny black for brunettes.
In a season of "more hat", as advocated by most other milliners, the Dache "drops" are dramatic and undeniably flattering.
In some cases a hat is designed to cover a chignon in back leaving most of the rest of the hair showing. In other cases the small cap is worn on the crown of the head, but almost always back of the hairline. A few big hats are shown, but these, too, are made to frame and dramatize the hair as well as the face. Says Lilly:
"A woman's hair should be one of her best points—so why not show it?"

Ten Questions To Test Your Rating In Role Of Hostess

By VIVIAN BROWN
If you covet that title of "perfect hostess," try to look at your role objectively. Many a new bride and even experienced homemakers believe there is nothing more to having company than just inviting them.

Here's how to test your Hostessing Quotient:
1.—(a) Do you trust to luck for your invitation replies?
(b) Ask for an RSVP?
(c) Walk until the doorbell rings to see who appears?
2.—(a) When inviting guests to your home do you make up a list of congenial types?
(b) Just invite guests at random?
(c) Take other people's suggestions for a party list?
3.—(a) Do you introduce your guests giving a clue to their identity?
(b) Trust to luck that the conversation goes on?
(c) Get a controversial conversation going at once?
4.—(a) Do you wear your guests out by insisting they tell stories?
(b) Make them play games even if they don't care to?
(c) Try to let a party pattern of interest develop before you take over?
5.—(a) Do you jump up constantly and empty ash trays, wipe up spilled drinks with desperation?
(b) Yawn and look at your watch every few minutes?
(c) Take an easy relaxed effort and try to be pleasant, come what may?
6.—(a) Do you schedule dinner for 1:30 and serve it at 9 or 10?
(b) Try to serve dinner on time with perhaps a last call for an aperitif?
(c) Rush around madly—hot and confused reminding your guests how much work they are?
7.—(a) When hostessing at bridge do you take sides in little arguments that develop?
(b) Prove to be a poor loser in your own home?
(c) Give the impression that a card game is serious but can still be fun?
8.—(a) When making conversation with guests do you argue over religion, politics, etc.?
(b) Take a belligerent attitude toward some guest just because you feel you "had" to invite her?
(c) Try to do more listening than talking?
9.—(a) Do you let your dog annoy

Shower Honors Recent Bride

Mrs. Andrew Carrigan entertained Mrs. Kenneth Finley, formerly Christine McCormick of Greenville, N. C. and Portsmouth, Va. with a miscellaneous shower Friday night September 24.
Her home was decorated with pink asters, white gladiolus and ivy. The mantel featured a miniature bride and groom, tracteries of ivy and the silver candelabra held tall white candles. The gift table was also decorated with ivy. The refreshment table was covered with a lovely linen cloth which bore a centerpiece of white gladiolus.
Mrs. Finley was presented with a lovely corsage. After the many attractive and useful gifts were opened, the guests were invited into the dining room by the hostess. Mints, nuts and dainty sandwiches were served and Mrs. George Johnson presided at the punch bowl.

Their Cigarets Are 17-Footers

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. — Grand Rapids has endorsed king sized cigarettes—big ones 17 feet long and 18 inches in diameter. They have been placed throughout the city in observance of Fire Prevention Week.
Each carries the slogan "chaperone your cigarette; don't let it go out alone."
Fire Chief Frank N. Burns said 80 per cent of the city's fires in an average year are traceable to a carelessly discarded cigarette.

Chicago Offers Cheap Bricks

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago has a bargain in bricks—two million of them—at a penny each.
They're not gold, but granite block and veederburg bricks which cost the city 16 cents each 12 years ago. But the city doesn't need them because it uses asphalt and concrete paving so they are being sold for salvage. They weigh between 7 and 12 pounds each and are, says John Ward, city purchasing agent, virtually weather-proof.

At the usual hour the members and their guests took their places in the chapter room where the District Deputy Worthy Grand Matron and the District Deputy Worthy Grand Patron delivered inspiring messages followed by instructions for the year. A refreshment hour followed. During this time sandwiches, cake and Coca-colas were served to the distinguished visitors, guests from Belhaven and Washington, and the Robersonville members.

Dumplings Make Stew Better

DIDDLE DIDDLE DUMPLINGS... are as old as nursery rhymes, but a new cooking technique makes them airy as thisledown.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Do you know the new method of making dumplings? Unfortunately many recipes still direct you to cover the dumplings as soon as they are dropped into the stew. Cast aside this old ideal. Leave the dumplings uncovered for the first half of the cooking, cover for the last half. Then those diddle diddle dumplings—straight out of the old nursery rhyme—will have their best chance of coming out of the kettle fluffy and light.

Another rule: be lavish with the baking powder. Two teaspoons of baking powder per cup of flour are none too much. We know you will find many recipes that suggest using less, but if you want your dumplings airy as thisledown, heed us.

One old-time precaution, however, still holds good. Drop the batter carefully by spoonfuls on top of pieces of meat and vegetables rather than into the gravy, so the dumplings will get no more than their feet wet. This will help to keep the dumplings from being soggy.

These days there is a lot of lean meat around from grass-fed beef—the kind that comes straight from range to market without a period of grain fattening—to use in stew. Because all meat has complete high-quality protein, B vitamins and essential minerals, this grass-fed beef will give your family the same nutritive values as more expensive cuts.

We've used onions and carrots in our Dumpling Beef Stew. But if you belong to the school of thought that believes turnips parsnips or tomatoes are indispensable, go ahead and add them. This stew has plenty of gravy, so the turnips or parsnips can easily be added to the kettle. Tomato juice, or pureed tomatoes, may be substituted for part of the water called for.

Try this stew with our Herb Dumplings. Then another time make up our Corn Meal Dumplings and use them instead of the herb version; they add an interesting texture—and flavor-change.

Dumpling Beef Stew
Ingredients—1 3-4 pounds lean beef stew meat (cut into 1-2 inch pieces), 3 tablespoons flour, 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper,

3 tablespoons fat, 1 quart water, 1-2 teaspoon tabasco sauce, gravy coloring sauce, 12 small white onions (peeled), 6 medium-sized carrots (peeled and quartered), Herb or Corn Meal Dumplings.

Method—If there is any excess fat and sinew around outside pieces of stew, cut it away and discard. Mix flour, 1-2 teaspoon of the salt and the pepper together on a piece of paper; roll pieces of meat in the flour mixture. Put fat in heavy kettle; add beef and brown well on all sides over moderately high heat. Add water, 1-2 teaspoon of the salt and the tabasco. Cover; simmer 2 to 3 1-2 hours or until meat is almost tender. Stir in gravy coloring if desired. Add remaining 1-2 teaspoon salt, onions and carrots; cover and cook until vegetables are tender. Drop 12 Herb or 12 Corn Meal Dumplings by spoonfuls on top of pieces of meat or vegetable in gently boiling stew (Dumplings will be large.) Cook uncovered 10 minutes; cover tightly and cook 10 minutes longer. Serve at once. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Herb Dumplings
Ingredients—2 cups sifted flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon powdered thyme, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 1 cup milk.

Method—Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and thyme. Stir in parsley. Add milk; stir only enough to moisten dry ingredients. Cook as directed in Dumpling Beef Stew recipe.

Corn Meal Dumplings
Ingredients—1 2-3 cups sifted flour, 1-3 cup corn meal, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup less 2 tablespoons milk.

Method—Sift together flour, corn meal, baking powder and salt. Add milk; stir only enough to moisten dry ingredients. Cook as directed in Dumpling Beef Stew recipe.

Bermuda Shorts Add A Skirt

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor
Newest college fad is the Bermuda skirt, designed to be worn over Bermuda shorts and just an inch longer.

Since Bermuda shorts have swept the campus scene in the last year, they have become practically required equipment for both college girls and boys. But some smart girls prefer the flattery of a skirt — and so the Bermuda skirt was born. It's knee-length, worn with long socks, and may match or contrast with the shorts beneath.

An outfit of skirt and shorts is easy to make at home, from a standard pattern which includes both. Local sewing center experts suggest making both from matching dark flannel, for a slimming effect. But if poundage is not your problem, the shorts may be in a gay plaid, to flash under the solid color skirt. Pick up the color of the plaid in a tailored shirt, and in the knee socks. A popular gored skirt that is simple to make and flattering to wear buttons down the side, and may be worn open to display the shorts beneath. Purchase the pattern by your waist size, but if your hips are more than nine inches larger than your waist, buy a size larger pattern; it is easier to adjust a waistline than a hip line on the shorts. The skirt should be about an inch longer than the shorts, coming just to the knee or slightly above.

When making buttonholes on the skirt, you can speed up the process by using the buttonhole attachment on your sewing machine.

Kiwanis Club To Hold Banquet On Anniversary

The Greenville Kiwanis Club will observe its 33rd anniversary with a banquet and special program at West Greenville School Friday night, October 13, at 7 o'clock.

The club was chartered October 21, 1921.

Dixie McElhannon is chairman of the Anniversary Committee. President John T. Barnhill will preside.

The anniversary meeting is "Ladies Night" and the program is developed around a theme of interest to the women. Bruce Sugg, Jr., past president of several organizations here, has accepted the invitation to serve as toastmaster.

When carefree elephants are feeding in the forest the noise of breaking branches and trees crashing is ear-splitting. But in case of danger the whole herd can slip quietly from the area without snapping a twig.

Post Office Has Gain In Receipts For September

Gross receipts of the local Post Office for September totaled $14,813.48, according to a report from Post Office officials.

This is $569.92 more than last year's total for the same month. Last year's September receipts amounted to $14,343.56.

Broken down, last month's total for this year shows $301.29 was received for special request envelopes; $7,774.54 for stamp sales; $8.27, excess on sales of stamped paper; $80.82, newspaper postage; $5,198.67, meter postage; $428.61, non-meter postage; $20, application fees; $1,101, box rent; $.25, miscellaneous postal receipts.

We Didn't Know Pitt People Are Timid

So far as the office or Congressman Herbert C. Bonner knows, the mail service in Pitt County is just fine and the people in the rural areas of the county are highly pleased with the service they are receiving.

That may come as a surprise to some of the people in Pitt who have heard as many complaints about the mail service as The Reflector has since the changes made in the service the last part of August.

In a letter from Henry C. Oglesby, secretary to Congressman Bonner, sent to The Reflector in the past few days, Oglesby stated he has heard only two complaints about the mail service in the rural areas of the county.

The letter from Oglesby concerning the situation said in part:

"To date we have not heard from anyone except two people who called me. George Cherry and Cecil Satterthwaite from Pacolus called me about two weeks ago. I suggested to Cecil that he furnish Mr. Bonner with some detailed information such as postmarks and receipt of mail so that we would something to go on."

Oglesby observed, "... it appears that people are too busy selling tobacco or are satisfied with the mail service."

Mr. Oglesby is probably right, but we would guess the reason Mr. Bonner's office has not heard more complaints about the mail service in Pitt County stems from the former reason rather than the latter.

The surest way we know to get a much needed improvement in the mail service in Pitt is for individual citizens to let the congressman's office know how they feel about the mail service. It is obvious the mail service is much below par since the recent schedule changes have been made. But as Mr. Oglesby said, Congressman Bonner's office must hear from Pitt people before it can pass on the complaints to the Post Office Department.

The Reflector sincerely hopes the people of Pitt are not hesitant about speaking out concerning the poor mail service they are receiving. If the people are hesitant, they may as well resign themselves to the present poor quality of service which they are receiving.

Who Is Teaching Children To Hate?

They're more to be pitied than to be blamed... is the only conclusion we can draw from the recent series of pupil demonstrations raised by the desegregation issue.

Certainly it is a disgraceful spectacle, this outpouring of violence, this eruption of hate and unthinking cruelty. Some youngsters, carried away by the "excitement" are doing and saying things that degrade themselves and all their parents, ministers and teachers have tried to inculcate in them as standards of civilized conduct.

We read of an adult man punching a 14-year-old, and see pictures of others encouraging knee-pant sized kids to fight... threats and insults... this among children.

It is to be hoped that such scenes will never be duplicated in the South.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
ON BEING INTOLERANT

We have a great deal today about the necessity for tolerance. Yet an equally good case can be made out of the necessity for intolerance. Certainly, no sane person would want to go back to the days when men flew at each others' throats because of religious and political differences of opinion, but this does not obviate the fact that people must have very positive convictions in matters of this sort, if these convictions are going to play a useful part in daily living.

A Hindu one day complimented Stanley Jones—the famous present-day Christian missionary—on his broadmindedness. The reply Jones made was that he is the narrowest man in the world when it comes to a consideration of the place Christ should occupy in the things of faith. Anyone who takes his religion seriously—regardless of what that religion might be—would have to take a similarly positive attitude about certain things in his faith which he considers of prime importance.

We are not going to get better religious conditions in this country by diluting our beliefs, no matter what they may be. We must always have profound respect for the beliefs of others and maintain this respect, in spite of every provocation to bigotry.

Truth is too big for any one mind, or even a group of minds, to grasp in its entirety. Such being the case, differences of opinion on all matters of importance will no doubt, continue until the end of time.

Nixon's Political Stock 'Up'

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Vice-President Richard M. Nixon's current performance as spokesman and fact-finder for President Eisenhower in the extremely important off-year Congressional campaign has boosted his stock at the White House, where he is supposed to be Ike's first choice as a possible successor. It has also strengthened him with powerful leaders throughout the country.

Although the young Californian delivers from three to six speeches a day on his present swing, he spends an equal amount of time with the local and lowly organization workers, and with the money-raisers. In many instances, he represents the only contact they have had with higher-ups in the first Republican Administration in 20 years.

He talks to them in their own language as a fellow worker instead of the Number 2 Republican in the Party, inquiring about local problems, conditions, personalities and grievances. A good listener, he contrives to make them feel important.

NIXON'S WINNING CONDUCT—He treats them as key members of the "Eisenhower team," counteracting the President's Olympian aloofness and off-setting Sherman Adams' studied neglect of the organization's bread-and-butter, vote-winning concerns. Together with Ike's recent Republican behaviorism, he seeks to reawaken the spirit and enthusiasm that wrought the 1952 majority for the national ticket.

His reports to Ike have a down-to-earth character, dealing with many practical aspects of politics unfamiliar to the President. Besides discussing issues, Nixon enlightens Ike on the importance of such questions as patronage, unemployment, personal relations with sensitive policies, political funds, etc.

It has been a needed education for Eisenhower on the practical and sometimes seamy side of American politics. On these subjects Presidential experience and knowledge have been woefully deficient.

POLITICAL EDUCATION OF IKE—Equally essential to the education of Eisenhower has been the Vice-President's seemingly successful effort to break the barrier which, in the minds of minor but key ward and district workers, has shut Ike off from the professionals in his first two years.

He has tried to convince the club-house crowd that Ike intends to get out and fight for them and their candidates, and not carry on as a national hero above the claims and clamors of the regular organization. And he has sold the need for assumption of such a role, distasteful as it may be, to Eisenhower.

Nixon's background fits him for this task. He rang political doorbells almost since he was graduated from law school. He understands that the little things count in local and national politics. As a member of the House, he came to understand the foibles and reactions of the boys on and off Capitol Hill. Ike's major weakness is that this is a field of human activity entirely foreign to an Army careerist.

CASE OF "JOE" MCCARTHY—Nixon's greatest contribution, in White House opinion, has been his part in the deflation of Senator "Joe" McCarthy. Both Eisenhower and National Chairman Leonard W. Hall agree that the once threatening issue of "McCarthyism" has been eliminated from the campaign.

It was the VP who took the initiative in publishing the Army's indictment of McCarthy and his two aides, Roy Cohn and Private G. David Schine. As even the Senator's friends concede, the televised hearings of that investigation alienated a majority of the audience. And it was Nixon who chose the committee which condemned the Wisconsin Senator as well as Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens.

The Watkins Committee's unanimous vote of censure was the end result of Nixon's earlier anti-McCarthy activity. And the Californian, with the advice of Senate leaders, selected that McCarthy jury, too. Ike owes him a lot, as he realizes and acknowledges.

Somebody Told Me

World-Wide Message Hobby

Handling messages for people, both overseas and stateside, is too fascinating to keep quiet about. A short wave radio operator has ample opportunity to build morale among the military and civilian population.

Yesterday at noon I was talking to a station in Newfoundland and when I signed off there was a call coming in for me from Tangiers, North Africa.

The operator had heard me say I was in North Carolina and had been trying for several days to get a message to Waynesville, N. C. A collect call to Waynesville brought the information the man wanted.

Remember Otis Anderson of Greenville, formerly of Wagner-Waldrop Motors? Otis is in Goosebay, Labrador and Saturday afternoon I handled a message for him to his folks here. It was a social call, mostly. Otis is enjoying the Air Force but more than anything else he's interested in getting back to Greenville.

Last night Mrs. Frank Fuller, wife of the East Carolina College professor, called me and gave me the names of her sisters in Chicago, Minneapolis and Great Falls, Mont. Only a few hours later I had Great Falls on the hook and was relaying a message for Mrs. Fuller.

A GI in Newfoundland from Richmond wanted to get word to his girl friend at Salem College, but wouldn't ask me to make the call. Naturally, a collect call would not have been accepted at a college. So I weakened and offered to pay for the call, requesting that he pay me back.

The charges were $4 and forty-cent cents and within a week I received the money in the mail. The same day from Newfoundland I handled message for Belhaven, Charlotte and Lexington.

The longest message in the states I have had the opportunity to handle was from a radio operator in France who had a message for Burlington, Vt. The Army officer in France whose wife is in Burlington was standing by, but the wife wasn't home to receive the phone call from me.

The longest one I've completed was to Lafayette, Ind., from the Azores Islands. When Lt. Virgil Clark of Greenville was here we contacted the same station in the Azores, where Virgil is stationed.

Mrs. Ashe in Greenville, whose daughter teaches at the college, has a sister in North Hollywood, Calif., whom she has not seen in three years. The connection has been made twice, but not with the success that would make it something to brag about.

Along with the contacts that have been made are many more on file. No doubt some day I'll get tired of it, but in the meantime it seems to be more and more fascinating.

And I thank you.

SANTA BARBARA OFFERS GAUGE FOR COMIC BOOKS (Adapted from Constitution)

Recent news stories and editorial comment concerning comic books have caused some parents to ask, "what makes a comic book objectionable?"

They'll find the answer in part, or at least a clue to the answer, in the six-point "comic code" to which news dealers and distributors in Santa Barbara, Calif., are asked to subscribe. The Santa Barbara code says:

(1) Sexy, wanton comics should not be published. No drawing should show a female indecently or unduly exposed and in no event more nude than in a bathing suit commonly worn in the United States.

(2) Crime should not be presented in such a way as to throw sympathy against law and justice or to inspire others with the desire for imitation. No comics shall show the details and methods of a crime committed by a youth.

Police, judges, government officials and respected institutions should not be portrayed as stupid or ineffective or represented in such a way as to weaken respect for established authority.

(3) No scenes of sadistic torture should be shown.

(4) Vulgar and obscene language should never be used. Slang should be kept at a minimum and used only when essential to the story.

(5) Divorce should not be treated humorously nor represented as glamorous or alluring.

(6) Ridicule or attack on any religious or racial group is never permissible.

The least parents can do is examine the comics their children are carrying home to read. They'd be alarmed at how many under the Santa Barbara standards would be condemned to the garbage can. They might be surprised to find that in some comics there is no harm.

Besides Electing Officials, Five Amendments Await

By LYNN NISBET

AMENDMENTS — On November 2 the people of North Carolina will elect a chief justice and two associate justices of the Supreme Court, twelve Superior court judges and 21 solicitors; two United States Senators and twelve representatives in the Congress; fifty senators and 120 representatives in the General Assembly; one hundred sheriffs and a like number of clerks of court; some 300 county commissioners and an undetermined number of local officials—recorder-judges and solicitors, justices of the peace and constables, special district officers, etc.

In addition to these individual elections the voters have the responsibility of ratifying or turning down five amendments to the North Carolina constitution. While all of the official places to be filled involve issues, mainly as between Democratic and Republican parties, they will be affected to some degree by personalities. The constitutional amendments present pure issues, non-partisan and impersonal. For that reason there is general disposition to give them scant attention, although in actual fact they may be more important than the offices to be filled by persons.

The pending amendments are identified in the official pamphlet put out by Attorney General Harry McMillan and Secretary of State Thad Eure as follows:

No. 1. To authorize the General Assembly to provide for the retirement of members of the Supreme Court.

No. 2. To authorize the General Assembly to create a board of Paroles.

No. 3. To provide that no county shall be entitled to more than one senator in the General Assembly.

No. 4. To liberalize residence requirements for voting.

No. 5. To eliminate short terms of office running between a general election and the following January 1.

EFFECT — Only Nos. 1 and 3 are of sufficient importance to require detailed discussion. The others are not controversial.

No. 2 would vest in a board of three members final authority to "grant, revoke or terminate" paroles of prisoners. That authority is now vested in the Governor and is exercised almost entirely upon recommendations of the three-man paroles commission. Ratification of the amendment will not materially change existing procedure, but will relieve the Governor of some routine work, while not disturbing his complete authority over communications, reprieves and pardons.

It is presumed that the Governor would still rely upon the Board of Paroles to make investigations and report findings to him as basis for action on communications, reprieves and pardons to approximate some degree as the paroles commission now performs those services.

No. 4 reduces the residence requirement for voting in any precinct from the present four months to thirty days. It does not affect the requirement for one year residence in the State, nor the right to vote in the former precinct if the voter moved less than thirty days prior to the election.

No. 5 would amend two articles of the constitution, with exactly the same effect in both. One deals with executive officials the other with the judiciary. The present constitution provides that vacancies occurring in elective State offices shall be filled by appointment of the Governor, such appointment to hold only until the next general election. Ratification of the amendment would permit the Governor to make appointments good for the remainder of the term, if—and only when—that term expired on January 1 following the election. The effect would be to eliminate necessity of candidates for State office appearing twice on the ballot, once for the approximate two-months of the unexpired term and again for the full term beginning in January.

APPLICATION — For example, terms of the State treasurer and the commissioner of labor do not expire until January 1, 1957. So it was that Edwin Gill had to run in the primary only for the unexpired term, and Frank Crane was put on the ticket by the Democratic committee also for the unexpired term of more than two years. The term of the Chief Justice runs until January 1, 1961, so Chief Justice M.V. Barnhill appointed when Chief Justice Devin retired, also had to file only once in the primary. But the term to which Associate Justice Barnhill was elected in 1946 expires next January. It therefore became necessary for Justice William Bobbitt, appointed in his place, to file for both the unexpired and the regular terms, requiring double filing

Few Sales Executives

By ELMER ROESSNER

The scarcity of skilled, capable and effective salesmen is obvious in the long columns of "salesmen wanted" advertisements, the blossoming of hundreds of sales training programs, and the pirating of salesmen by competitors.

A not-so-apparent but more acute shortage is in qualified sales executives. A crack sales executive can make a two-cylinder sales force perform like a Cadillac. Contrarily, a good sales force can run into a ditch without the right man in the driver's seat.

Common solutions of the problem include making the best salesman the sales executive; shifting a top executive from another department into the sales organization; hiring of the closest competitor's sales executive and giving the job to the president's nephew Louie.

Disadvantages are obvious. A good salesman often does not fit the sales executive's shoes, an effective official in one branch is seldom qualified to head another, a man who can be hired away from a competitor can just as easily be hired away again. As for Louie—well!

A more sensible answer is a sales executive development and training program along the lines of programs for developing and training salesmen. C.L. Lapp, professor of marketing, Washington University, has some pertinent suggestions in line with this:

1. Forecast future needs.
2. Establish a profile of what the sales executive should be.
3. Organize lines of promotion to higher positions that will give candidates the varied experience needed.

4. Make sure a portion of salesmen hired have executive possibilities.

5. Avoid putting men in positions beyond their capacities.

6. Watch the age factor to avoid investments in candidates who have too few productive years left.

7. Give all-around training through job rotation and work in subsidiary companies.

8. Survey sales executives to ascertain training they need.

9. Give sales superiors incentives to develop subordinates.

10. Evaluate employees periodically as to individual direction and training needs.

11. Hold periodic counseling interviews with subordinates to help them realize their own shortcomings, to outline a program for their self improvement, and to keep up with their progress.

12. When a mistake or failure is obvious, remedy it before it becomes difficult.

MORE HOME CREDIT SEEN IN OFFING

A substantial increase in the amount of home credit available during the remainder of the year is certain, Norman Strunk, executive vice-president of the U.S. Savings & Loan League, U.S. District.

He points out, however, that the easing of requirements in the new housing act will increase the number of home buyers and, consequently, pressure for higher prices. This, coupled with the already large housing market, has earmarks of an inflationary trend, according to Strunk.

You, Too, Can Be 'Best Dressed'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Did you find your name on the list of America's 10 best dressed men this year?

Well, don't brood about it if you didn't. J. Fred Muggs, the celebrated television star, has more than 100 suits—and he wasn't nominated either.

He is making up a rival list of the 10 best dressed chimpanzees in America, and none of the men who crowded him off the custom tailors' list even get honorable mention on his list. In fact, on his own list J. Fred Muggs has put his own name down 10 times.

There is always a bit of grumbling over the annual selection of the 10 best dressed men. The suspicion always arises that the choices are made less on what a man actually wears than on his blood (deep blue), wealth, position or current fame in the world.

So if you were by-passed this year again you might take some consolation from Leu Ullman, chairman of the Philadelphia Men's Fashion Council, who said: "It would be easy to pick 50,000 men in America who are equally well dressed."

There: Now you feel better? As a matter of fact, Ullman thinks that for $150 "you can dress from head to foot as well as the best dressed men anywhere."

"No one could tell you from a man on the so-called top 10 list." Here is how Ullman would draw up his $150 wardrobe: Suit, $60; shoes, $12; hat, $10, shirt, $4; necktie, $2.50; socks, $1; underclothing, $3; topcoat $55. That comes to $147.50—leaving you $2.50 for a belt or some handkerchiefs.

But the multimillion dollar men's clothing is in the doldrums today because the average man doesn't even buy half a suit a year, although his wife gets from 4 to 6 new dresses or suits a year. "There are more than 50 million men in America, but we turn out only about 20 million suits a year—and this year the figure may only be 18 million," said Ullman.

"Every clothier has to turn out sport coats and slacks now—in self defense.

"People's habits have changed. They are less social. Television has been a big factor. Men don't dress up as much. They don't go out as often. They have forgotten the kick that buying new clothes gives them. They just sit at home in the evening in front of their TV sets."

"Even well-to-do men often affect sloppy or careless attire. Of course, being well-dressed isn't really as important to them as it is for the average man. They can afford to look like characters, since they already have achieved success."

Ullman thinks that the men's clothing market has fallen off mostly in small towns, where men pay less attention to clothing than they did a generation ago.

"In big cities like New York, Chicago, or San Francisco," he said, "men still buy a couple of new suits a year."

"And formal evening wear has been coming back in the cities, too. That's a good sign."

What are the style trends for the guy who still cares what he wears?

"Charcoal grays and browns will still be in high favor this season," Ullman said. "But the wedged-shoulder suit with the football shoulders is out—even on Broadway."

"The tall, narrow look is popular. The three-button suit with narrow lapels and natural shoulders is preferred. The center vent in the coat is coming back."

"Pants also are becoming narrower, and there is a trend away from pleats."

This means that papa, whether he likes it or not, is soon going to look either like a fugitive from the Princeton Campus—or a hangover from the Gay Nineties.

and two places on the ballot. Again, the term to which Associate Justice Sam Ervin Jr., was elected runs until January 1, 1959. Therefore, Justice Carlisle will be appointed in his place and nominated by the committee, only once on the ballot. All of that tends to confuse the voters, besides imposing the added burden of paying the same filing fee for sixty days as the law requires for eight years.

SENATORS — Because of provisions in the United States constitution the pending amendment will not affect candidates for the U.S. Senate. Even if the amendment had been ratified, Kerr Scott's name would appear twice on the ballot and Sam Ervin's only once, because of the expiration dates of the respective terms. Ervin is running for the unexpired term to which Senator Clyde Hoey was elected in 1950 and which goes until January 1, 1957.

Scott is running for the full six-year term beginning next January 1, and also for the unexpired portion of the term to which J.M. Broughton was elected in 1948 and which has been filled by Broughton, Frank Graham, Willis Smith and Alton Lennon.

The amendments affecting Supreme Court retirement and limitation of senate representation will be discussed in subsequent articles.

Ayden Preparing Early For Bloodmobile Visit

AYDEN — Ayden has already begun preparation for the next visit of the Bloodmobile in that community November 1.

In an effort to stimulate more persons to volunteer as donors in the blood program, an organization has been set up to provide more coverage through solicitation and announcements in the community.

Last Tuesday night a meeting was called by Edward H. Gagnon, Ayden blood chairman, to make plans for a house-to-house canvass of the town in preparation for the forthcoming Bloodmobile visit.

Plans were also discussed to provide further coverage through announcements at PTA meetings, various club meetings, business establishments and rural churches.

"In this manner it is hoped more people will be personally contacted and that there will be a marked increase in the number who volunteer to give blood," Gagnon stated.

Ayden's quota in the National Blood Donor program is 179 pints.

Those who have figured in the initial planning of the local program include women selected from the women's societies of the various local churches. Each person has been given a portion of the town to canvas for donors, and additional help will be recruited by these workers as the need arises.

Serving in the blood program are Mrs. J.H. Whitaker, Mrs. Charles Noble, Mrs. Russell Thomas, Mrs. Rhoderick Sumrell, Mrs. Earl Eichorn, Mrs. Robert Johnson, Mrs. Neva Edwards and Mrs. Snody Edwards from the Ayden Methodist Church.

Representing the Christian Church are Mrs. H.W. Gooding, Mrs. M.C. Phillips and Mrs. P.R. Taylor; Free Will Baptist Church,

Agitator Moves Into Baltimore To Lead Fight

BALTIMORE (AP)—With the experience of one integration battle behind him, a Southern-born ex-Marine took over leadership last night of a battle to segregate Baltimore public school pupils.

W. Bryant Bowles, president of the National Ass. for the Advancement of White People, climbed in the back of a truck at an auto raceway to boast to a crowd of 500 that under his leadership Negroes were forced out of schools in Milford, Del., "without a fist being swung."

"We told them in Delaware we'd help them if they would avoid violence and we're telling you the same thing," Bowles said.

Police Commissioner Beverly Ober did some telling of his own. Speaking over all three of the city's television stations, Ober warned that under city law any person disturbing any public school in session is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Any person who induces or attempts to induce any child to absent himself from school also is liable to prosecution, he said.

Under these sections of the city code, Ober said, he deems it the duty of the Police Department to stop all picketing or assemblies in the neighborhood of the city's schools.

In the event of future demonstrations, he said, we're going to get tough.

Television also was used by Dr. John H. Fischer city superintendent of schools, to level a charge that an attempt is being made deliberately to sabotage the city school system. "False rumors, evil rumors—all false—are being circulated in an effort to frighten parents and children," he said.

Fisher urged parents to send their children to school.

Baltimore's integration tempest began last Thursday with the picketing of School No. 34, an elementary institution. On Friday, the picketing spread to five other schools.

At Southern High School, a crowd of about 400 white adults and teenagers shouted threats at the Negro students leaving the building. One man was fined $100 for striking a Negro boy.

After a quiet weekend, protests again flared up yesterday, but there was no violence. The protests were limited mostly to bands of high school students marching through the streets. But police kept them moving.

Today, Marilyn Is Filing For Divorce

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Today's the day that Marilyn Monroe asks waivers on Joe DiMaggio, the former Yankee slugger.

The busy blonde, the movies' hottest property since the Warner studio fires is slated to file suit for divorce.

Her attorney, Jerry Giesler, said yesterday that a conflict of careers caused the rift in the nine-month marriage.

Actually Giesler made the understatement of the year. This was a romance that Hollywood never expected to matrimony's first base, so little did the two have in common.

Before the married Joe, Marilyn thought a shortstop was something that cross-country bus passengers did. DiMaggio hadn't seen a movie since "Pride of the Yankees," the Lou Gehrig story. He couldn't care less about Hollywood's dizzy whirl.

This breakup unexpected as it was, is an old, old story. And it again raises the question: Why can't Hollywood marriages last?

There are many reasons, but career troubles is the most prevalent.

Monroe is the town's biggest star, if not its best actress. She has to work even harder than some, because it doesn't come easy. Her studio, knowing that each will make more money than the previous, puts her in picture after picture, sometimes starting one before she finishes another.

What free time she has she spends reading and memorizing scripts. If Joe wants a dish of his favorite fodder, spaghetti he has to tell the cook about it. In his spare time, which has been considerable, he plays poker or watches baseball on TV. He never has escorted his wife to any of the functions a star of her import is expected to attend.

Shortly after their marriage a magazine named her as filmland's most popular star. A press agent escorted her to the affair while Joe waited outside the hotel. Marilyn told friends the hotel, Marilyn, but that she knew she couldn't change the taciturn Hollywood-shy DiMaggio.

It isn't a question of money. The Yankees paid Joe more than $700,000. The fans now cheer for Dusty Rhodes. Marilyn earns $3,500 a week, and the fans can't see enough of her.

French Scandal Hearing Begins

PARIS (AP)—High French political figures of the right left and center lined up today to testify in the investigation of how vital French secrets fell into Communist hands.

The prospective witnesses included several former Cabinet ministers as well as Jacques Duclos, No. 2 man in the French Communist party. Former Premier Joseph Laniel was due to testify today.

A partial listing of future witnesses was disclosed as a former woman employe of the Defense Ministry's code department said the Reds knew the key to the military code used during the Indochina war.

In a long written statement to the investigating magistrate, Mrs. Mativier Lasseron said ciphered cables received at the Defense Ministry were submitted to "strange handling."

Because the Communists knew the code, she said, they would "decipher communications from the Indochina war, notably during the Dien Bien Phu siege."

The scandal over the leaks of secret information from meetings of the National Defense Council broke two weeks ago. Since then, four persons have been charged with endangering the security of the state either wilfully or "by negligence."

Youth Failed In Suicide Crash

EASTON, Md. (AP)—Forrest Denneau, 17, drove his car at high speed into a dirt bank yesterday, state police said.

In the wreckage of the car, they said, was a note to a girl whom Denneau had broken up with the previous night. It said he intended to crash his car into the dirt bank at 70 miles an hour.

Denneau was not killed, though. He was found crawling along a road near the crash scene with a broken jaw, cuts and possible internal injuries.

Officers Found 5 Vicious Dogs

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Two officers drove to an Oklahoma City house to investigate a complaint that there were five vicious dogs in the neighborhood.

When they arrived five dogs surrounded their car.

Policeman I. H. Hardgroves said, "We sat there and tried to calm the animals."

Then officer E. J. Standefer pulled out his gun and fired twice. The dogs ran under a house. Every time we got out the dogs came running again. We just sat out in front and honked the horn and yelled trying to attract someone. I guess there was nobody at home. We didn't go up to the door to find out."

Hardgroves went back to the station and left an order for the city pound to make a follow-up call.

Pastor's Advice: 'Be Like Ike'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Be like Ike. That's President Eisenhower's pastor's sermon for today to Sunday golfers.

"The average Sunday golfer should be smitten in his conscience by the reflection that President Eisenhower, himself an avid golfer, finds Sunday church attendance indispensable to his life."

Evening Plans Changed By Pup

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—George Burns and Gracie Allen invited 16 friends to their house last night to watch their first filmed telecast in color on the Burns color-receiving set.

But when they turned on the set, nothing happened. Investigation showed that their toy poodle Mousie had chewed through the antenna lead-in wire in the living room.

The guests played bridge.

Dick Cherry Slated For Early Return

SEES LIGHT ACTION

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Writer

East Carolina football hopes were given a profound elation today when Dick Cherry, Little All-American nominee quarterback, had the cast on his left ankle removed and reported in light togs for practice.

The All-State "do-it-all" from Washington is expected to be ready for action either against Western Carolina here Oct. 16 or the Appalachian Mountaineers in Boone Oct. 30.

Coach Jack Boone has already said he'll use Cherry and everything he's got to throw at the remaining league opposition.

It was just three days before the season was to get under way that Cherry failed to get up from a scrimmage play. Diagnosis showed he suffered a broken left ankle. He was not expected to see action for at least eight weeks.

With the return of Cherry and Boyd Webb, Coach Boone is going to find himself confronted with a problem—a kind that every mentor in the conference would welcome. Before the season commenced, it was Cherry, Webb, Milton Collier and Gary Mattocks in that order at quarterback. Webb proved himself very capable after Cherry was sidelined. Then, after Webb himself was hurt in the West Chester game, Collier looked impressive in leading the Bucs to their first league win over Lenior Rhyne. Last week, a new star was born. Gary Mattocks excited the 7,000 fans in College Stadium with a superb aerial circus—throwing for two touchdowns passes after the Pirates got behind 7-0.

What will the order be now?

All-Conference David Lee and veteran Fullback Claude King were at practice yesterday. These two seem well recovered from early season injuries and will most likely be set to go against Elon's Christians in Burlington this weekend.

All was not honey at practice yesterday though. Quick inventory revealed that Al Owens, sophomore end, received a broken left foot in the skirmish Saturday night. Center Gaither Cline's left leg was cut along the shinbone, taking some 25 stitches to close. Harry Rainey, junior halfback, has his left arm in a sling. He suffered a recurrence of an old collarbone injury received in high school. Guard George Rice is nursing a sprained ankle.

Several other players received bruises and slight abrasions but there were no other serious afflictions.

Coach Boone said today the week's schedule calls for heavy preparation for Elon. Although the Christians haven't won a conference game they'll be well-drilled and up for the Pirates.

Willie Mays To Play Baseball In Puerto Rico

NEW YORK (AP)—Willie Mays, 23-year old sensation of the world, champion New York Giants, figures he has a lot to learn about playing centerfield so he'll play winter baseball in the Puerto Rican League.

"There a lot of things I have to learn about playing centerfield," said Mays yesterday after receiving permission to play with the Santurce club. And this from the National League batting champion who made "the catch of the World Series" in snagging Vic Wertz's 450-foot fly at the Polo grounds in the first game.

Mays will be right at home for Santurce will be managed by Herman Franke, a Giants' coach and pitcher Ruben Gomez, who won the third game of the series, will be one of his teammates.

Willie, however, will not have a chance to get over-worked since the Puerto Rican League schedule calls for only three games a week.

American League Is 'Bad Off'

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK (AP)—The American League only thought it had trouble when it met here a week ago to try to breathe life back into the Philadelphia Athletics. No one can estimate how long it will take the younger circuit to recover fully from the debacle of the World Series.

It was known, of course, that President Will Harridge's league, after seven straight years of dominance, had become badly over-balanced at the top and seriously needed to do something about the five weak sisters in its "second division." Until the Giants went to work on Cleveland's 111-game winners, the extent to which the entire league had deteriorated was not fully appreciated.

Let us put it this way: In the third playoff game at Cleveland, when Hank Majeski substituted at third base for ailing Al Rosen, the champion of the American League were playing men at third, shortstop, first base and in right field who could not among them win a regular job on any club in the National League. An official of the eighth-place Pittsburgh Pirates said he couldn't use any of them, and that should be fairly conclusive.

So what does this portend—the sad showing-up of a club which had broken even with the Yankees and Chicago White Sox over the regular season while slaughtering its lesser league rivals? A National League figure, not connected with the Giants, who was doing some celebrating after the final game, said this:

"Every team in our league will feel the difference at the gate. Take New York, which has something like 50,000 visitors every day of the season. A lot of those people want to see a big league game, and a big majority of them have been going to Yankee Stadium. Now they'll want to go to the Polo Grounds to watch Willie Mays, Johnny Antonelli, Alvin Dark and Hank Thompson.

"We'll all feel it when we play there, and we'll feel it in our home parks too, because our fans will know they are looking at the best. If there was any question about those fellows getting the Athletics out of Philadelphia, it's settled any way now. The Phillies' home attendance should jump a quarter-million easily."

Greenville's Phantoms got the day off yesterday afternoon from football practice as they go through their second rest week-end of the football campaign.

The G-men have an open date in their schedule this weekend before taking on the Elizabeth City Yellow Jackets in their homecoming game at Greenville October 15.

Greenville came out of the Washington game with a lot of bruises but no serious injuries. Tackle Tommy Smith still was having trouble with a sprained ankle he hurt before the Kingston game. Smith, the big man in Greenville's line, will have plenty of time to rest up the ankle before the G-men play their next game.

Other than Smith the Greenies seemed to be in top-notch shape.

The Washington win Friday night put the Northeastern Conference schedule into a mixed-up order. New Bern and Elizabeth City now are tied for the top spot but both teams must face Greenville before their season is over, so there is plenty of hope left for the Phantoms.

Furgol Named To Aussie Matches

CHICAGO (AP)—Ed Furgol, National Open golf champion and three other top-ranking professionals have been named as United States team members for a month long series of matches in Australia. The games will start Oct. 13.

Named with Furgol in the matches sponsored by the PGA and a petroleum company are Tommy Bolt, Dutch Harrison and Marty Furgol. Ed Furgol made the team automatically as National Open titleholder. The others were named off their Ryder Cup standings.

Ryder Cup leaders include, in order, Bob Tuckel, Bolt, Gary Middlecoff, Marty Furgol, Jerry Barber, Lloyd Mangrum, Harrison, Ted Kroll, Ed Furgol and Jack Burke. However, the PGA said that Tokki, Middlecoff and Barber and Mangrum declined to make the trip and their positions were filled by Marty Furgol, Bolt and Harrison.

Tokki was the top money winner for the season final figures disclosed. He totaled $65,891, more than twice as much as his nearest rival. His biggest purse was $50,000 in the Tam O'Shanter "World Championship" in August.

Burke was second high with $20,213. Marty Furgol was third with $19,919, and was followed by Barber, $18,865; Middlecoff, $17,593; Mangrum, $17,272; Earl Stewart Jr., $16,413; Julius Boros, $16,332; Bolt, $16,162; Harrison, $15,741; Doug Ford, $15,415, and Johnny Palmer, $14,323.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Golfing is fun—more so if you get college credits for touring a sporty course. The University of Pittsburgh has arranged with the city to use a municipal course to supplement a "golf education" class for physical education students.

Play is being limited to week-days and four months out of the year—October and November and April and May.

Academic credits are given to students for their work in golf classes and at the municipal course "laboratory."

'B' Men Replace Mississippi 'M'

UNIVERSITY MISS. (AP)—Last season players whose last names began with the letter "M" dominated the University of Mississippi football team. This year the "B" men dominate the squad.

Such stalwarts are: tackles Red Rex Boggan and Bo Burgenmeyer, guard Rodgers Brashier and backs John Blalack, Earl Blair, Johnny Barber, Willis Black and Jerry Baker.

All except Boggan and Brashier are sophomores.

Fancy Football by Pap

In the 30 years that have followed Red Grange's amazing performance on the gridiron, no other football star has come close to capturing the imagination of the sports fans as did the "Galloping Ghost" from the University of Illinois. Chosen for All-America teams in 1923, 1924 and 1925, Grange had the most fantastic career in football history.

Grange was easily the most worshipped, overblown, tormented and exploited college football star in the history of the sport. He had a body guard and an impersonator to save him from adoring mobs. In 1925, women wrote him 200,000 fan letters. Stadium police shuddered at the thought of his coming. At best it meant a stampede; at worst, a fist-slinging riot.

A small-town Illinois boy, Grange never could like the pawing adulation of the mobs that followed him. At the peak of his form, more often than not he went into hiding immediately after a game to avoid the crowds. Much of the legend of "T", the "Wheaton Iceman" and the "Galloping Ghost" was the brazen efforts of press agents but Grange's deeds on the gridiron were enough to earn him national acclaim. Red had many amazing days on the football field but that afternoon in the fall of 1924, against Michigan, he staged the greatest one-man show in football history. In the first ten minutes of play, Grange made four touchdowns on runs of 90, 55 and 45 yards. He added another touchdown in the final quarter. Grange handled the ball five times in that game and made FIVE touchdowns!

U. S. Netters Weak In Turning Back Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The United States Davis Cup players can start planning for the long trip to Australia now that they have eliminated Mexico. But they'll need to produce a better brand of tennis to get past Sweden and into the challenge round against Australia.

The inter-zone finals will be played at Brisbane Dec. 17-19 with the winner challenging the Aussies for the coveted international trophy Dec. 29-31 at Sydney.

Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, U.S. singles champion, and Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, 1953 national titleholder, combined to defeat Mexico 4-1 in the North American zone finals. But they had some bad moments before wrapping up the expected triumph.

Seixas, far off his game when he lost to veteran Gustavo Palafox Saturday, clinched the series yesterday with a 6-4, 2-6, 6-3, 6-2 triumph over the little 21-year-old Mexican railway clerk Mario Llamas.

Trabert who defeated Llamas in straight sets and teamed with Seixas to take the doubles Sunday, also had his troubles with the crafty Palafox before winning 14-12, 6-1, 6-2.

The high altitude and yesterday's light rain seemed to affect Seixas more than Trabert. Once the national champion got his game going in the third set against Llamas, however, there was no stopping him.

Seixas and Trabert turned their attention today to the 13th Pan-American Tournament in which they are seeded first and second, respectively.

Other U.S. players entered in the 7-day tournament include: Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif.; Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N.J.; and Bernard Bartzan of San Angelo, Tex. Larsen is seeded third, Moylan fifth and Bartzan sixth.

Beverly Baker Fleitz of Belmont Shore, Calif., tops the women's seedings.

Lulu Perez Goes To Lightweight

NEW YORK (AP)—From now on it's the lightweights for Lulu Perez, the little fancy Dan boxer from Brooklyn.

The 21-year-old speed demon cast aside his No. 5 ranking among the featherweights after defeating Bobby Woods the babyfaced lightweight from Spokane, at Eastern Parkway arena last night for his second straight victory in the heavyweight division.

Next on Lulu's agenda is a Nov. 26 meeting in Madison Square Garden with Frankie Ryfi, unbeaten and ninth-ranking lightweight contender from Perez's own neighborhood.

Lulu weighed 132 when he outpointed Jerry Drouin in September and he scaled 133½ last night in speeding to his 10-round unanimous decision over the 123-pound woods, who was making his Eastern and television network debuts.

"I feel much better and stronger as a lightweight," said Perez after his fast-paced scrap with the fraill-looking but aggressive Westerner.

Coach Duggins' Appalachian Mountaineers continue to drive unflinchingly toward the North State Conference title. Saturday night they took Elon in stride 20-6 for their third successive league win. The boys from Boone are currently top men on the totem pole with East Carolina one totem down.

The best rating the Apps received in pre-season guesses was a shaky fourth place behind East Carolina, Catawba and Lenior Rhyne, in that order. But at the outset of the season, they dubbed Guilford 19-6 and quickly established themselves gritty dark-horses.

They continued to follow through by spanking Western Carolina 27-7 week before last. In that one, the Mountaineers' great halfbacks Jim Ollis and Bill Stanley each scored twice.

Elon was the first real test for Appalachian. Before the opening whistle, it was thought the Christians would pose a serious threat to their winning skein. Bill Stanley was ailing also and that was another factor in Elon's favor. But the Mountaineers turned a deaf ear to this exigency and with Ollis and Aubren Elam grinding out yardage on the ground and Quarterback Ned Pennell taking to the airways for two touchdowns a rout was the order of the day.

Pennell, a senior, is having his best year. So far, the veteran split-T signal-caller has thrown for five touchdowns and directed almost 60 minutes of each game.

As of this writing, Appalachian and East Carolina are the only league teams which have won a game in the conference. The two are barreling toward a head-on collision in Boone October 30.

East Carolina extended its spring toward successful defense of their crown by overpowering Catawba 26-7. The licking of the league's reputedly number-two team caused the congestion at the top of the conference even more severe.

In Gary Mattocks, sophomore from Southern Pines, and reserve Fullback Harold O'Kelly, Coach Jack Boone has unveiled a one-two offensive punch with a Marciano effect. Mattocks, a veteran of service ball at Fort Jackson and Fort Bragg, tossed for two touchdowns—one a 40-yarder—against the Indians. And O'Kelly, former All-State prep star at High Point, bucked for a couple.

As if that wasn't enough good fortune, Coach Boone was notified yesterday that Little All-American nominee Dick Cherry can have his cast taken off his left ankle. The cast was removed this morning and Cherry was to workout in light togs today.

Catawba, Elon, Lenior Rhyne

HAROLD O'KELLY

Guilford, and Western Carolina share the loop cellar. All possess identical 0-1 conference marks.

Both Appalachian and East Carolina have three more league games. The Pirates were forced to begin the season with a prominent disadvantage. Guilford dropped East Carolina from their schedule two years ago on the grounds that the school was to large for fair athletic competition. Therefore, the Pirates have to go through the conference undefeated to retain their title.

Appalachian plays six conference foes and East Carolina five.

Other North State action last week saw Western Carolina bow to East Tennessee—ECC's opponent on Oct. 23—by the score 21-14. Guilford lost to Wofford 34-20, and Lenior Rhyne fought a favored Newberry team to a 13-13 dead heat.

This weekend its Appalachian at Lenior Rhyne. Western Carolina at Catawba, Guilford at Emory and Henry and East Carolina at Elon.

U N C Trainer Dies After Heart Attack

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Thomas (Fritz) Lutz, football trainer at the University of North Carolina, died of a heart attack here yesterday.

He was stricken shortly before noon in his treatment room on the campus and died a few hours later at Memorial Hospital.

The 46-year-old veteran, who had served as trainer for Georgia, Georgia Pre-Flight and Baltimore of the National Football League, was regarded as a close companion of players and coaches.

He accompanied the Tar Heel football team to New Orleans for Saturday's game with Tulane and apparently had been in the best of health.

Lutz was director of district three in the National Athletic Trainers Assn. He was born at Cairo, Ill. Before coming to the university he was trainer of the professional Baltimore Colts. Previously he was head trainer at the University of Georgia from 1938 to 1942, where he invented the special Lutz face gear for Georgia's star Frankie Sinkwich. Sinkwich, using the gear, played an entire season with a broken jaw.

He was trainer for the Georgia Pre-Flight team 1942-44 and from there joined the Navy.

Lutz trained the Georgia team which defeated North Carolina in the 1947 Sugar Bowl game. Carl Shavely, then coach at North Carolina, was so impressed with the fine physical condition of the Georgia squad, sent for Lutz when a vacancy occurred here.

When news of his death reached the football practice field, coaches and players walked off the field quietly, visibly moved.

Jalopy Raised Confusion In Denmark's Officialdom

By TORBEN KRAGH COPENHAGEN (AP)—Niels Hermand Schult put together a sports car out of junk parts. Then it took him 18 months of struggling with red tape to get his dream on the road.

He finally solved it by buying the car from himself—but even that ran into complications.

Niels, a 25-year-old mechanic from Orbaek, used such parts as a motorcycle engine and gear box, wheelbarrow wheels fitted with special ball bearings and tries and the differential from a Model T Ford. Only the headlights were new.

Sports car critics said you might call the result a short square-nosed Ferrari type. The government inspector of motor vehicles classified it as an "excellent jalopy."

Then—18 months ago—Niels applied for license plates. The authorities said Niels' creation was a new car, and to get the plates he needed an import certificate and purchase certificate from the government import-export agency.

Niels wrote dozens of letters. He argued for hours with officials who finally said he could apply for permission to buy his own car. But the fact that Niels wanted to sell the car to himself only made new complications.

The Ministry of Justice wanted to know where and how Niels got the car. The ministry assigned a special engineer to make a detailed sketch of the car for classification. No one could classify it. After four months the ministry broke down and said Niels could own and operate the car. Then the Customs Department took over. It decided Niels had to pay taxes in line with the regulation calling for a tax on all cars imported on government license. But the customs men couldn't decide how much.

Niels finally agreed to deposit the equivalent of $75, and at long last he got the license plates.

When he applied for his plates he had promised to take his girl for a ride. She showed up for the big event, but as Mrs. Schult. They had married in the meantime.

"I may even stick my finger down my throat during a couple of numbers to let the public know that there are no recordings," the tenor added yesterday after singing arias from "I Pagliacci" and the inevitable "Be My Love" for assembled newsmen and women.

Why were two-year-old recordings dubbed in on his TV debut last Thursday? Because of all those medical tests, said Lanza, while he was taking off 40 pounds in six weeks.

"They dehydrated me," he said. "They lowered my blood sugar. And my doctor said he would not be responsible for how I would react."

Paralytic Polio May Be Largely Prosperity Sign

By FRANK CAREY AP Science Reporter CHICAGO (AP)—Paralytic polio may be largely a "prosperity" disease, the American Academy of Pediatrics was told today.

Children and adults living in prosperous, uncrowded areas may be more likely to get it than those living in slums and other crowded regions said Dr. David Bodian of the Johns Hopkins University in a report to the academy's 23rd annual meeting.

Reason: Residents of crowded areas are widely exposed to polio virus in infancy, and most of them get an intestinal infection that immunizes them against a later paralytic attack on the nervous system.

But Dr. Bodian said that while problems still remain, advances in the understanding of polio and in the conceivable means of vaccinating against it make it "not too optimistic to hope that the result will be the early control of epidemic poliomyelitis."

He told the meeting of the nation's top children's doctors: "In populations where the (polio) virus is widespread due to crowding of unhygienic conditions and infection occurs in infancy in most individuals, those who escape paralysis are made immune permanently. . . . There is evidence that in such populations virus is widespread so that infection and immunity against all three types (of polio virus) is acquired early in life."

"The virtual absence of paralytic disease in those above the age of infancy is convincing evidence of the fact that inapparent (intestinal) infection immunizes against subsequent paralytic disease."

Saying that this is "nature's way" of immunizing against polio, the doctor added: "Although nature's way of immunizing may be very effective in some populations where virus and human beings have established an equilibrium . . . this equilibrium breaks down seriously in populations where greater prosperity leads to less crowding and improved sanitation.

"Apparently in these populations virus dissemination is reduced, exposure to virus is delayed to later life and even to adulthood, and for reasons not clearly understood, infection is more likely to result in . . . paralytic disease."

"Severe epidemics are characteristic of these otherwise more fortunate societies."

Clean-Up Day In Homes Tomorrow

Tomorrow will be inspection and clean-up day in the homes of the city, as outlined in the program of Fire Prevention Week in Greenville.

The Chamber of Commerce, the Fire Department and the city schools are cooperating in sponsoring the local Fire Prevention program, which is designed to help Greenville citizens detect hazards in the homes, businesses and industries which cause preventable fires.

Tomorrow emphasis will be placed on the homes and businesses of the community, with the Fire Department making an inspection of local business establishments.

Fire Chief George Gardner noted there are eight major causes of fires in the home, "and for the last ten years the chief cause has been smokers . . . and the reckless and careless disposal of matches."

He listed the other hazard as: misuse of electricity; defective and overheating of cooking and heating equipment; improper disposal of rubbish; careless use of flammable liquids; lightning; defective chimneys; and children and matches.

These are the major factors the Chief is urging home owners to look for in their inspection tomorrow.

The city Street Department is cooperating in the clean-up program by offering to remove all rubbish and trash placed at the street curbing.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BARFUTHER, Real Estate Editor

Home owners as well as people planning to build or buy a house will have opportunities to see many of the latest ideas in design, construction and equipment of homes during Sept. 19 and Sept. 26, which will be National Home Week.

Builders and lumber dealers in more than 100 metropolitan areas are preparing community-wide programs for that week to give the public a chance to see "tomorrow's homes today." Considering the trends that have been developing recently, that slogan will prove to have more substance than mere words.

More bedrooms, fewer basements, a widespread increase in year-round air conditioning, better lighting both from windows and from electrical installations are among some of the features you can expect to find in more than 10,000 model homes to be on exhibit across the country.

Price-wise you'll find more houses in the $10,000 to $15,000 classification than in any other bracket. Leonard Haeger, director of the Research Institute of the National Assn. of Home Builders, keeps a close check on all of these trends. He tells us that 43 per cent of the homes to be shown will be under $10,000; 48 per cent will be between $10,000 and $15,000 and only 9 per cent will be priced above $15,000.

"Trends do not move swiftly in houses," Haeger said, "but many trends in the last 10 to 15 years have brought substantial changes in the manner and convenience of living for the average family."

"Kitchens have 'opened up' and have better equipment, vastly lightening women's work in that area. Smaller cut-up rooms have been replaced by more open areas. Indoor-outdoor living has been created by the use of window walls and development of living areas in the yard. Bathrooms are far more convenient and attractive. Better use has been made of closet and storage space. Houses have tended to become lower and more spread out."

Haeger admits that an increase in the number of rooms has been in the making for some time. Couples who moved into very small houses after World War II are now raising families and need more space. So the average house shown during National Home Week is apt to have three or more bedrooms.

Also noticeable is a trend away from basements, he says. Following V-J Day, there was a distinct movement toward houses built on slabs. A few years ago that trend slowed down. Now the slab-type house seems to be forging ahead as a favorite.

What's the idea of National Home Week? We asked Edward G. Gavin, the man who originated it seven years ago. Gavin is the editor of the American Builder, trade publication for light construction. He got the President to designate the week and now its direction has been taken over by the National Assn. of Home Builders.

"Is it just to set up a campaign for a high concentration of sales in a given week in September?" White-haired, ruddy-faced Ed Gavin chuckled.

"Any builder can do that for himself at any time of the year and without the benefit of National Home Week," he replied.

"The real objective is to show the public by actual demonstration that home ownership is within reach of practically every American family; that children reared in their own homes are armed with self-respect and are much more likely to grow up to be sound, law-abiding citizens."

Gavin says more than 10 million persons will inspect the 10,000 houses on view. And he ought to know. He has been keeping checks on these special weeks since 1947 with the American Builder award.

Big Obstacle To Big Bridge Plan

MACKINAW CITY, Mich. (AP)—A "hidden valley" which man has never seen is proving the biggest obstacle to one of man's greatest engineering triumphs.

This valley, or channel—well over 250 feet deep in places—made many think for years construction of a bridge across the Straits of Mackinac was impossible.

The structure is no longer considered impossible but it is taking some of the best engineering minds in the country to conquer the channel in the bottom of the strait and gain a "toe-hold" on either side of it for the supporting piers of the 100 million dollar span.

During World War II the Dutch underground used the name of Scheveningen, a coastal city, as a test to unmask German agents. Only a Netherlander can pronounce it correctly.

ARTHRITIS?

I have been wonderfully blessed in being restored to active life after being crippled in nearly every joint in my body and with muscular soreness from head to foot. I had Rheumatoid Arthritis and other forms of Rheumatism, hands deformed and my ankles were set.

Limited space prohibits telling you more here but if you will write me, I will reply at once and tell you how I received this wonderful relief. Mrs. Lela S. Wier 2805 Arbor Hills Drive - 55 P.O. Box 2695 Jackson 7, Mississippi thousands of extra miles of full engine power!

How Gulf's cleaner-burning, super-refined gasoline gives you

Now Gulf refines out the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline—the No. 1 troublemaker in high-compression engines. And here's what it means to you:

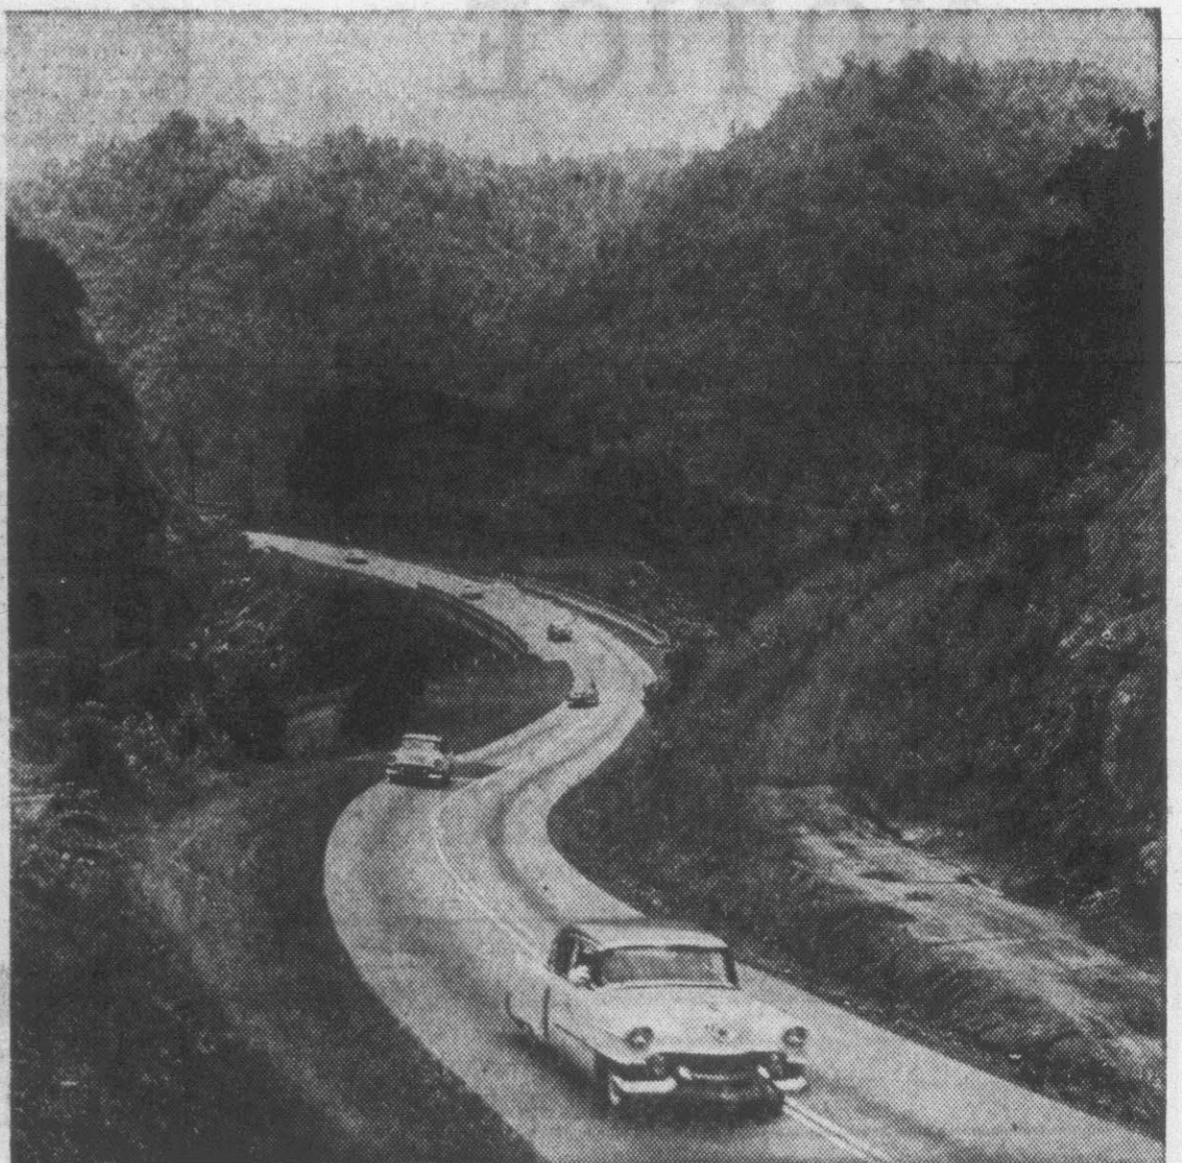

LABORATORY TESTS PROMISED...

this new, super-refined, super-powered fuel will give you these immediate and lasting benefits:

- ▶ More complete engine protection than the so-called "miracle-additive" gasolines. Why? Because Gulf refines out the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline, the No. 1 troublemaker in high-compression engines—and then treats this new Super-Refined NO-NOX to give it a complete range of protective properties.
- ▶ Extra gas mileage. Why? Because new NO-NOX is specially blended for the short-trip, stop-and-go driving motorists do most.
- ▶ No knock, no pre-ignition—even in today's super-compression engines. Why? Because the anti-knock power of new NO-NOX has been stepped up to an all-time high.
- ▶ Stall-proof smoothness—no more worries about carburetor icing in chilly weather, or vapor lock on warm days. Instant starts, too—and fast, fuel-saving warm-up.

That's why—whether your car is new or old—new Super-Refined Gulf NO-NOX gives more power-with-protection than you've ever had.

ROAD TESTS PROVED...

these cars, powered by new Gulf No-Nox, actually performed better than new... after 15,000 miles!

TRUE! After 15,000 miles per car—covering all conditions of city and country driving—Gulf test cars showed these results:

- ▶ Higher-than-new horsepower!
- ▶ Better-than-new on gasoline mileage!
- ▶ And not a single trace of carbon knock or pre-ignition at any time—even on the steepest mountain grades!

COMPLETELY NEW! SUPER-REFINED
New Gulf No-Nox

Tears for the Bride

SYNOPSIS
When the noted sleuth, Jim Bennett, accepted the invitation of his secretary, Sandy Hollis, to join with her family for a weekend of pheasant shooting in rural Ohio, he looked forward to a pleasant, quiet time. But when he met her family and friends he realized that he was amid a drama of human conflict as tense as anything he'd experienced in his long crime-detection career. Sandy's young war-veteran brother, Ralph, had "ditched" the spirited Judy Kirkland for delicate Eileen Fortune, and the hated between these two women flew like sparks. But the pheasant hunt proceeds as scheduled, with the Hollis, Eileen Fortune and her father, Jake, and Bennett, armed and equipped to bring down birds. On a ridge overlooking the Kirkland property, Ralph Hollis is felled by a gun-shot and lies bleeding and unconscious on the ground.

CHAPTER EIGHT
AS WE approached the ravine, we heard the sound of gunfire. I looked questioningly at Ralph, and he furrowed his dark brows in a frown. Another shot rang out in the cold November air. It seemed to come from the far side of the ravine.
"Is that your father and the Fortunes?" I asked Ralph.
He shook his head. "I don't think so—they headed the other way, toward the house. It's probably some city hunters on the place without permission."
We reached the edge of the ravine, and Ralph went down the steep side, running stiff-legged to keep his balance, and started up the other side. Sandy and I followed him, holding our guns clear of the underbrush. A gun cracked nearby and the dry branches of the trees around rattled faintly. Something struck my hat brim, like a pebble falling.
"They're shooting too close to us."
Ahead of us and above, Ralph gained the top of the opposite side of the ravine, and for an instant his tall form was silhouetted against the bright blue sky. In that instant the unseen gun spoke again, two quick shots, and I saw a pheasant rise over the crest and wheel away to my right. I raised my gun to my shoulder began to lead the bird with the sights, and put slow pressure on the trigger.
Sandy's stricken voice stopped me. "Jim! Ralph's hurt!"
I turned and looked upward, and I saw Ralph swaying on his feet. He dropped his gun, leaned briefly against the trunk of a big beech tree, and then slid slowly to the ground.
I reached him first. There was no blood yet, but I could see where the bird shot had entered. Thin black furrows slanted in horizontal lines across his right shoulder and chest, leaving ragged tears in his leather jacket. He laid his cheek against the brown leaves and he began to cough, and the leaves were suddenly stained red.
I knelt over him and snapped at Sandy, "Run to the house and call a doctor. I'll bring him in."
She ran like a young deer down the ravine, her brown hair glinting in the sunlight.
Gently I turned Ralph on his back and un-zipped his leather jacket. The shotgun pellets had penetrated deeply and blood was already soaking his flannel shirt.
"Ralph," I said sharply.
He tried to grin at me, but caught his lower lip between his teeth in sudden pain, and started to cough again. I gathered his long body in my arms as gently as I could, and carefully started down the side of the ravine.
There was a sound behind me, and I turned. Judy Kirkland was coming up the hill on the far side, from a small valley below. She reached the crest, panting, and looking at me dumbly, and at the form of Ralph in my arms. He was limp now, and his eyes were closed.
Judy's face went gray and she pinched her lips. She opened her mouth, but no sound came out.
"Were you doing that shooting?" I snapped.
"Yes, I—I guess so. I was standing down there in the thicket, and I saw a bird fly out of the ravine. Did I...?"
"Yes," I said grimly, turning away. "You hit Ralph." I started down the side of the ravine, holding Ralph as gently as I could.

could.
She scrambled after me. "Wait," she panted. "I—"
"Wait, nothing. This boy has got to get to a doctor. Bring the guns, if you want to help."
She gathered up the two shotguns, and I could hear her following me, slipping and sliding on the hill. When we reached the barnyard at last I could feel the sweat drenching my body, and I was panting like a relay runner after the last hurdle.
Sandy and her mother were waiting on the back porch. They stared at Ralph dumbly and Sandy opened the door. A sheet and a pillow had been placed on one of the divans in the living room, and as I laid Ralph down Mrs. Hollis moaned, "Ralph, my baby."
Sandy said in a strained voice, "Dr. Mazzini is on the way. He should be here by now."
I unbuttoned Ralph's shirt and then I knew that at least one of the pellets had gone deep.
I had forgotten about Judy Kirkland until she spoke. Those sun glasses, I—I didn't see Ralph. All I saw was the bird rising. . . .
Her voice choked off.
We heard the crunch of wheels in the drive, and the sound of a car door slamming. Sandy ran to the front door and came back into the room with a tall man, a dark, hatless man who wore a blue woolen muffler and a gray tweed overcoat. He had short, curly black hair and a lean, dark Indian-like face, alert black eyes. He ignored all of us and we stood aside while he knelt beside the divan.
"Hospital," he said shortly. "Two of those shots are pretty deep—might be in the lung. I'll take him in my car."
The two of us carried Ralph out to the doctor's car, a new blue Ford sedan, as I laid him gently on the rear seat. Sandy handed me a blanket. I folded it around Ralph and sat beside him on the edge of the seat. The doctor got behind the wheel. "All set?" he snapped.

Sandy said, "Can—I go along?"
"Sure," the doctor said. "Hop in."
Swiftly Sandy got in beside him, and he started the motor. Judy Kirkland appeared beside the car and fumbled at the door latch.
"No," the doctor snapped, "you stay here."
Judy backed away with a faintly dazed expression. The Ford's rear wheels skidded on the stone as we swung in a circle and took off. I looked out of the rear window and saw Judy and Mrs. Hollis standing in the drive gazing after us. As we turned into the highway, the doctor said, "Who shot him?"
"Judy," I said.
His lean jaw tightened, but he made no comment.
Sandy stared straight ahead, and said nothing. Ralph muttered something, and I tried to make him more comfortable. It took us maybe ten minutes to reach the hospital in Ridge Center, a long, low-roofed building on the edge of the village with a cement parking area around it. The doctor stopped at a rear entrance labeled Emergency, blew a blast on the horn, and got out. Almost immediately two white-uniformed nurses appeared with a wheeled, white-sheeted stretcher and rolled it up to the car. The doctor barked quick orders as we lifted Ralph out. Then we were inside the hospital and moving down a long corridor. Sandy was beside me, but the doctor had disappeared. They pushed Ralph through swinging doors into a room that gleamed dazzling white for an instant before the doors swished softly shut. A sign above said, Surgery.

The market attained another in a long series of 25-year highs a week ago Friday and then dipped moderately last week. Today the market on average again got back into new high ground.

Gains of 1 to 2 points were frequent, and in some instances they soared on to around 5 points.

Twenty-To-Thirty Years Given Henry Harper, 72

A 72-year-old Grifton Negro was sentenced to not less than 20 nor more than 30 years in state prison here yesterday for the slaying of his son-in-law last July 24.

Henry Marvel Harper entered a plea of guilty to second degree murder in Pitt Superior Court here yesterday after the state refused to accept a plea of guilty to manslaughter.

After hearing testimony in the case yesterday, Judge Malcolm Paul of Washington imposed the sentence on Harper. Witnesses who took the stand yesterday afternoon in the case said Harper shot his son-in-law, Matthew (Matho) Harper in a juke joint owned by the elder Harper and operated by his daughter who was Matthew's wife.

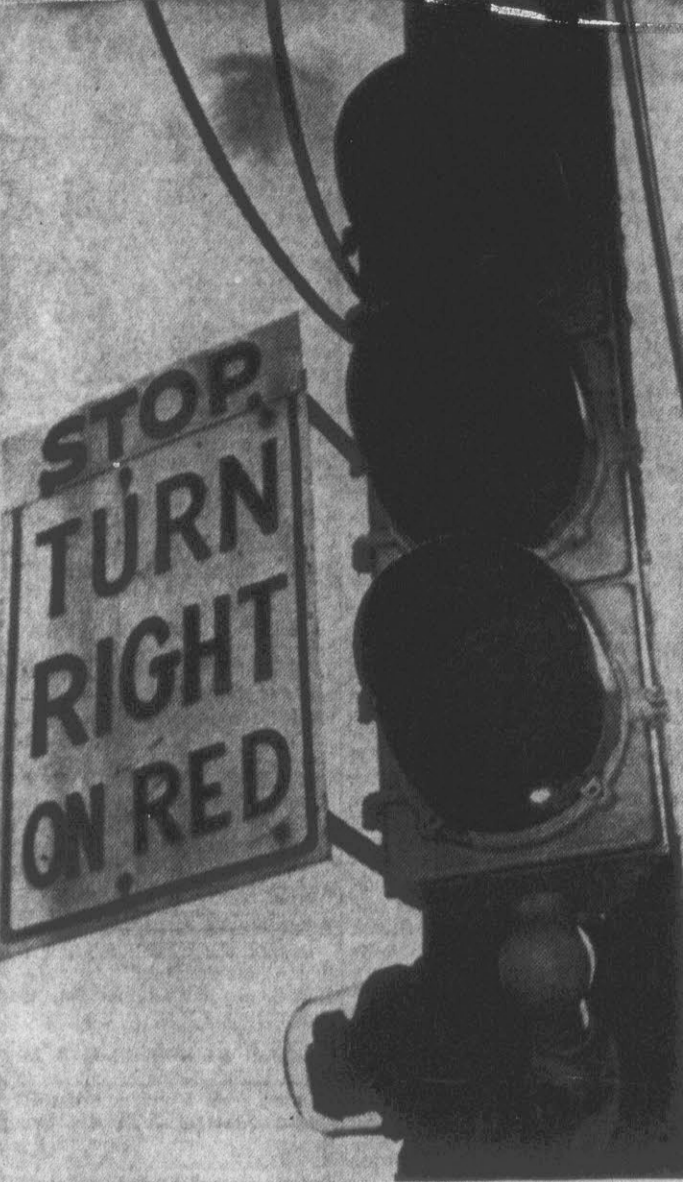

Officers testified that Harper readily admitted the slaying when he was taken into custody at his home, and told them he had been planning to kill his son-in-law for some time. The younger Harper was killed almost instantly by pistol wounds inflicted by the 72-year-old man.

Two convicts who were recaptured after their escape from a road gang in Pitt County today had sentences of six months added to the terms they are now serving. The convicts are Dennis Forbes and John W. Baldwin. Each entered a plea of guilty to the charge of escape.

Albert Pickney was found guilty of following too close a motor vehicle, and was sentenced to 30 days on the roads, suspended upon condition that he pay $50 to the Clerk's office for the use of A. D. Ayers, that he pay court costs, and that he not drive a motor vehicle in the state for six months.

Raymond H. Duffy entered a plea

Crackdown Coming On Traffic Violation

Motorists who fail to stop before turning right on red at intersections where the above signs are installed will soon face prosecution, according to Chief of Police S. G. Gibbs. He declared that police are going to begin checking on the violations. (Reflector Photo by Alvin Taylor).

Chief of Police S.G. Gibbs today sounded a warning to motorists who turn right on red traffic lights at certain marked intersections without first stopping.

"At certain intersections signs have been placed to expedite traffic and it has come to our attention that the motorists are not abiding by the sign which says stop before making the turn on red," the chief said.

He was referring to red lettered signs placed at some intersections beside the stop lights. The signs read: "Stop, Turn Right on Red."

"Motorists must stop at these intersections and see that they can make their move in safety before making a right turn," Gibbs continued.

Crack-Down Coming
He warned of a crack-down on drivers who continue to violate the rule.

"We are going to start making a check on these things and if they are not stopping we are going to start making indictments on it," the chief emphasized.

Gibbs also indicated that if the practice is not checked it could mean the end of the system.

"If they insist on following these practices it may be necessary to abolish all of these right turns on red lights which will slow down

Publisher Talks To Rotary Club

D.J. Whichard, Jr., president and publisher of The Daily Reflector, addressed the Greenville Rotary Club last night, discussing freedom of the press.

The program, was in conjunction with the celebration of National Newspaper Week.

Whichard asserted the freedom of the press does not grant any special privilege to newspapers or any other news gathering or news disseminating organization. Freedom of the press, he said, is the right of the American people to freedom of information.

Freedom of the press, he reminded, is the basic freedom which protects the other basic freedoms guaranteed the American people in the constitution. Without the freedom of the press, he added, other freedoms would soon vanish.

Drawing on many years of experience in the newspaper business, Whichard cited for Rotarians a number of instances in which attempts have been made to hamstring the freedom of information which is basic in American democracy. It is the obligation of the press, he said to pass on to the people public information in an honest and unbiased manner.

Jettisoned All Their Baggage In Limping Home

SAN FRANCISCO —Eleven men threw all their baggage into the ocean and even tossed out parts of the plane in helping a Navy patrol bomber limp on one of its two engines for half of the 2,400 miles from Honolulu.

The plane landed safely yesterday at Half Moon Bay, south of here.

At that the fliers heard the one good engine sputter 400 miles out when the Neptune was 1,000 feet above the Pacific. Only a quick adjustment of fuel mixture prevented a crash into the sea.

The port engine caught fire when the Neptune was 50 miles beyond the halfway "point of no return."

The pilot, Lt. Robert E. Combs, of Denver, feathered the engine and the wind blew out the fire.

Four Television Manufacturers Increase Prices

NEW YORK —Four manufacturers have increased prices on their television sets in a move expected to be followed by others.

Philco Corp. boosted prices $10 to $20 on 15 of its models yesterday and Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., made similar increases on five of its sets. A few days earlier Allen B. DuMont Laboratories had brought out a new line priced $10 to $20 higher than comparable models in the previous line.

Emerson Radio & Phonograph Corp. notified distributors that increased prices on its sets would become effective Oct. 15. The amounts of the increases were not specified.

There were no changes by Philco and Sylvania on their lowest price "leader" sets.

Manufacturers have contended for some time that their profit margins had been pared too thin in competition for lower prices, and that price increases were inevitable. With set sales running at high levels, one industry official said privately, this appeared to be an appropriate time to make the boost in prices.
