

Owen Lattimore Faces New Indictment

New Perjury Charge

WASHINGTON (AP)—Owen Lattimore, controversial Far Eastern specialist, was indicted today on charges of falsely denying he had been a "follower of the Communist line" and a "promoter of Communist interests."

The new two-count perjury indictment was returned by a federal grand jury before U. S. District Judge Edward A. Tamm. In effect it substitutes for parts of an earlier indictment which had been thrown out by the courts.

U. S. Atty. Leo A. Rover told reporters he will move to have the new indictment consolidated with the five remaining counts of the older indictment returned against Lattimore in December 1952.

Two of the seven counts of the original indictment were dismissed by the courts.

One of the dismissed counts—the key one—alleged Lattimore falsely denied before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee that he had been a Communist sympathizer or promoter of Red causes.

The courts held the word "sympathizer" was too vague. The new indictment nowhere uses the word "sympathizer."

The new allegation is that Lattimore "knowingly and intentionally followed the Communist line in public and private statements, in his conversations, and in his wide dissemination of writings, both in the United States and other parts of the world."

The indictment further charges that his statements, conversations, correspondence and writing "contain several hundred instances denoting that the defendant was a 'follower of the Communist line'."

Lattimore, a resident of Baltimore, has been called a Communist agent by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and by the Internal Security subcommittee formerly headed by Sen. McCarran (D-Nev).

He has denied the accusation throughout four years of committee room and courtroom argument.

An earlier federal grand jury indicted him in December 1952 on seven counts of perjury growing out of his 12 days of testimony before McCarran's subcommittee earlier this year.

Federal Judge Luther W. Youngdahl later dismissed four of these counts. The government took the case to the U. S. Court of Appeals, which reinstated two of the counts but upheld Youngdahl's dismissal of the two others.

One of the charges not reinstated accused the 54-year-old Lattimore of lying when he said he never had been a sympathizer or any other kind of promoter of communism or Communist interests.

The appeals court ruled 8-1 that this charge was too vague.

The Justice Department could have appealed the ruling to the Supreme Court. Instead, U. S. Atty. Leo A. Rover chose to seek additional perjury charges before a new grand jury, which began deliberations three weeks ago.

Lattimore's lawyers have contended the prosecutor is only trying to get their client indicted on the same charge in slightly different words.

Tells Eisenhower That GOP Campaign Is Moving Nixon Reports 'Progress'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vice President Nixon, a Republican mainstay in the campaign for control of Congress gave President Eisenhower a first-hand size-up today of GOP prospects as he found them in his speechmaking tours around the country.

Arriving in Denver last night, Nixon told newsmen he is "tremendously" encouraged about Republican chances of electing a GOP-controlled 84th Congress Nov. 2.

Conceding "it is a tough fight," he said the Republican campaign is "moving ahead" and is "off the ground."

Nixon is to take part with Eisenhower tomorrow night in a nationwide television-radio address on behalf of Republican candidates for Congress. Before that talk, Nixon and other Republican leaders planned a strategy huddle with the President at which time they were expected to urge Eisenhower to make more campaign speeches than the two he has scheduled between now and election.

Asked how he felt about the President making more campaign talks, Nixon replied:

"I am sure every appearance the President makes can be helpful. However, I am not prepared to say he should go into additional states."

More and more, the Democrats are centering their fire on Nixon, who has been ranging far and wide across the country in support of GOP House and Senate candidates.

The Democratic National Committee came out today with a "special memorandum" in which it attacked Nixon's voting record while he was a senator from 1947 to 1952.

The Democratic committee said in this "memorandum" that Nixon as a senator voted in 10 cases against positions later taken by Eisenhower in the 1952 campaign. The committee said copies of this memorandum—containing what it termed "a sample listing of Nixon votes against the welfare of farmers, working people, and small business operators"—are being sent to Democratic leaders along the vice president's current campaign trail.

Independent Sen. Morse of Oregon, speaking in Los Angeles, listed what he called the "warmongering" of Nixon and Sen. Knowland of California, the GOP Senate leader, on his roster of 1954 campaign issues.

Morse, who bolted the Republican party during the 1952 presidential campaign, also said Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) has "cost the Republicans thousands of votes."

Meanwhile, the Republican-Democratic controversy over the method to be used in picking a successor to fill a two-year unexpired Senate term in Nevada headed for the Nevada Supreme Court.

The court agreed to hear arguments later today on a Democratic appeal from the decision of a district judge, who yesterday granted the Republicans a permanent injunction against a November election to fill out the remainder of Democratic Sen. Pat McCarran's term. McCarran died last week.

Republican Gov. Charles Russell already has appointed a Republican to the post and the GOP legal

City Council To Take Up Parking Proposal

The city council will take up the recommendation of the Off-street Parking Committee tonight for the construction of a parking lot at the corner of Fifth and Washington Streets.

The proposed lot will be discussed by the council at its monthly meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the Municipal Building. The council is also to hear a request by the Junior Chamber of Commerce for permission to place an emergency truck in the fire department, according to a docket released by City Manager James S. Hughes today.

Other new business to be considered by the council tonight include: annexation of an additional area of the Coghill Sub-division, amending the ordinance of taxi cabs as it pertains to liability and property damage insurance; a request by Ed Fleming to operate a bus through the city to the fair grounds during the Fair next week, the audit contract for 1954-55, and bids on fire hose.

Unfinished business to be taken up at tonight's meet includes: the removal of a portion of Pamlico Street from the fire district, a request by Colonial Insurance Company to write group accident policy on city employees, changing workman's compensation from self-insurance to insurance carrier, revisions of policy regarding sale of cemetery lots, and widening Pitt Street from Fifth Street to Dickinson Avenue.

MacDougall, touching on the same theme, said he found that the general tone of evaluation of congressional action was, "Ike wanted it. Ike got it. Good! Ike wanted it. Ike didn't get it. Awful!"

The editors, who tomorrow will turn their attention to the South's economic, political and racial problems, were told that some Southern newspapers reflect "a little too much self-pity for the South" instead of regional leadership. This assertion came from A. Gayle

Editors Consider Charge Some 'Bow' To Eisenhower Standard

By LATHIN MIMS

ASHEVILLE (AP)—The nation's editorial writers, gathered here for four days of self-criticism, considered charges today that some of them "bow down to the Mecca" of the Eisenhower administration.

The criticism came last night from Dr. Curtis D. MacDougall, journalism professor at Northwestern University who described himself as "an unreconstructed New Dealer."

MacDougall was one of four professors conducting a consumer critique of the American editorial page at the opening session of the eighth annual National Conference of Editorial Writers. They each reported on groups of newspapers that were submitted to them for study and criticism.

MacDougall declared that too many editorial writers in the group of papers he studied find the answer to an argument in the fact that "Ike is for it (and... you bow down to Mecca."

Dr. James L. Godfrey, professor of English history at the University of North Carolina, told the group that editorials of the 83rd Congress were "very similar to news stories... item by item stuff... with no attempt to evaluate."

MacDougall, touching on the same theme, said he found that the general tone of evaluation of congressional action was, "Ike wanted it. Ike got it. Good! Ike wanted it. Ike didn't get it. Awful!"

The editors, who tomorrow will turn their attention to the South's economic, political and racial problems, were told that some Southern newspapers reflect "a little too much self-pity for the South" instead of regional leadership. This assertion came from A. Gayle Waldrop, director of the University of Colorado College of Journalism who is a native of Texas.

Dean Norval Neil Luxon of the University of North Carolina's journalism school said some editorials he examined on the Supreme Court's segregation decision indicated no advance thought although it was known a decision was forthcoming.

Godfrey warned that the court's action was not only a decision but "an impact on institutions of every day life." He said newspapers had failed to consider that the decision may lead to the growth of private schools and of economic segregation.

Donovan Richardson of the Christian Science Monitor was in charge of last night's panel. He said the "editorial writers often know they are not selling their ideas to the public very well. This pan... will tell us why."

Proposed Talks To Unify Germany Coldly Received By West

Molotov Bid Wins Some Support

BONN, Germany (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's new bid for four-power talks aimed at unifying Germany won support from German Socialists in Parliament today. But Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government coalition parties spurned it.

The Molotov proposal also got a cold shoulder from British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, and a French Foreign Office spokesman said the United States, Britain and France had left the door open to constructive Russian proposals on Germany, but that no such proposals had been found in Molotov's speech last night.

In the United Nations, V. K. Krishna Menon of India called on leaders of East and West Germany to get together on unification. He said the Soviet Union had recognized the sovereignty of East Germany.

Therefore, he said, leaders of the two sections should be able to get together and work out unification.

"It appears to us that it should be possible for Germans to talk to Germans in order to find ways—or at least the beginning of ways—to establish the unity of their own country," Krishna Menon said, adding that Germany was a key to peace.

Eden expressed his views at a Conservative party conference in Blackpool, England.

"They (the Russians) have made every effort to draw Germany to their side and to prevent us from drawing Germany to ours," Eden said. "They have created German armed forces in their sector long ago. They have consistently refused to agree to Germany being reunited, except on terms which would result in the Communist minority being given the power to subvert the whole state.

"This is the Communist plan and it is still their plan, which you can read in your papers this morning."

Eden said he expected the nine nation conference decision reached in London last week on the rearmament of Western Germany to be ratified by the various Parliaments because the consequences of rejection are "so fearful to contemplate."

There had been some fears in Bonn that one of the coalition parties—the Free Democrats—might favor the new Molotov bid. But the government coalition closed ranks today.

Thomas Dehler, chairman of the Adenauer-allied Free Democrats, criticized Socialist demands that the West take some active step to meet with the Russians on the unity question. Dehler, whose party is the No. 2 group in the coalition, previously had also urged a new approach to the Russians.

Defending Adenauer from Socialist criticism over the recent London agreement to rearm West Germany Dehler said:

"I have sat with the Chancellor for four years and I have never seen him illustrate less desire for unity than the next man."

The Free Democrat chief said West German ratification of the London accord would not interfere with German unity efforts.

The Socialists, following up on Berlin speech last night, also urged the formation of a European security pact within the framework of the United Nations.

The Soviet foreign minister said in his speech the Russians are willing to discuss any proposal on free German elections, a stumbling block in previous unity talks. He also called for the immediate withdrawal of all occupation troops from Germany.

Western observers viewed Molotov's proposal as the opening blast in the Kremlin drive to torpedo West German ratification of the recent London rearmament agreement. The first West German reaction indicated the Soviet move may give the Chancellor trouble in his campaign to win approval at home for the proposed defense alliance with the West.

Outlining his party's position to the West German Parliament, Socialist Chairman Erich Ollenhauer said the 151 Socialists in the Bundestag (lower house) would oppose the London pact as long as it contains no guarantee of German unity.

The nine powers participating in the London conference pledged themselves to continue to work for the peaceful reunification of Germany.

Green Eggs From One Of Her Hens

WYNANTSVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—Mrs. Meta Yetto raises White Leghorns, Plymouth Rocks and Rhode Island Red chickens. But she can't figure out why one—she doesn't know which—is laying green eggs.

Nor could the county farm agent explain it.

When the first green egg appeared Tuesday, she tried to scrub the color off.

"They're real eggs," she said, "but I'm not taking any chances opening or eating them."

Normalcy Returns To New York Waterfront

NEW YORK (AP)—Normal waterfront activities resumed today in the Port of New York as first work gangs returned to the piers after the paralyzing two-day strike of 25,000 longshoremen.

Several of the great transatlantic liners, including the America and Mauretania, were in port and required hundreds of workers. Piles of cargo heaped on docks elsewhere along the North River front gave employment to other gangs.

The 48-hour-strike was the second to hit the world's busiest port within six months.

The International Longshoremen's Assn. won its demand for immediate wage retroactivity but in turn agreed to a 45-day no-strike pledge pending contract negotiations with the employers represented by the New York Shipping Assn.

After agreement yesterday, word came from I.L.A. headquarters: "It's 100 per cent sure everybody will be back to work tomorrow morning."

With slight warning, the I.L.A. pulled dockers off the piers at midnight Monday, insisting the employers grant an eight-cent-an-hour pay raise retroactive to Oct. 1, 1953, before anything was done about a new contract. The old pact expired on the 1953 date.

The employers wanted to include pay retroactivity in the terms of a new contract. Their yielding to the union demand will mean an average of about $200 back pay for the majority of longshoremen—a sum total of more than four million dollars.

Brides Like Marriage Carriage

STORYBOOK COACH — Marriage carriage and four white horses provides romantic bridal setting in Berlin.

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN
AP Newsfeatures
BERLIN—The way to get married first-class in Berlin is to hire a white, rubber-tired "marriage carriage" drawn by four white horses.

You can get a two-horse outfit for about half the money but your bride might pout at this.

The cost for a four-horse wedding is 95 marks or about 23 dollars. It includes two uniformed coachmen with silk top hats.

Oddly enough, an American army sergeant, Paul Ongstad of Westport, Ore., "founded" the white carriage tradition in 1948 when he married a pretty German girl, Ursula Bauer.

Up to that time, the bridal carriages were black.
Gustav Schoene, proprietor of the oldest and largest firm supplying the carriages, says that while is now overwhelming preference of Berlin newlyweds.

Schoene claims his white carriage was the first of its kind in Berlin and was first used six years ago by the American sergeant and his bride.

The idea caught on so well that a German song was written about it with the title "Eine Weisse Hochzeitkarosse" (A White Wedding Carriage).

Schoene supplies carriages for an average of 15 weddings a week but says a bit ruefully, that only two or three of these use the deluxe four-horse rigs.

Schoene's firm was founded by his father in 1894 and has been run by three generations of the family. He is at present assisted by his two sons, Paul 28, and Joachim, 26.

The firm owns seven white carriages, outfitted with white cushioned seats and white silk curtains.

According to custom the marriage carriage calls first at the home of the bridegroom, then collects the bride and proceeds to the church.

After the ceremony, the couple returns in the carriage to the bride's home for a reception.
Schoene also supplies automobiles for weddings but he considers them new fashioned and not very romantic.

$100,000 Blaze Ruined Building

CAMDEN, N.J. — The old Market Street ferry building, recently converted into a produce market and auction house, burned to the ground last night. Damage was estimated at $100,000.

The stubborn blaze, fanned by strong winds blowing in off the Delaware River brought out virtually all of Camden's fire-fighting equipment and two fireboats from Philadelphia, across the river from Camden.

Thalian Book Club Hears Guest

The Thalian Book Club held its first meeting of the year when it met at Mrs. E. B. Aycock's at 1:00 p. m. on Tuesday.

The home was decorated throughout with beautiful fall flowers. The members and guest, Mrs. H. L. Rivers were served a delicious two course luncheon by the hostess upon their arrival.

Following the luncheon the meeting was called to order by the President, Mrs. V. C. Fleming, Jr. After a brief business session, Mrs. J. L. Horton, program leader, introduced Mrs. H. L. Rivers who spoke to the members on gardening.

She compared the garden today with yesterday's formal garden. Today people plant what they like best. She gave the time to plant flowers and bulbs and how to care for them. Mrs. Rivers said it was fun to gamble with flowers.

Mrs. George Wilkerson, Librarian, distributed the books and the meeting was adjourned.

Mrs. Brown Elected Chairman Of The Gladys Keith Circle

The Gladys Keith Circle of the Bethel Baptist Church held its first meeting of the year, Monday, October 4 in the home of Mrs. Carey Brown.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Brown, chairman of the circle. She welcomed each one and gave the devotional on Faith; using Roman's as her scripture reading. Faith was adopted as the theme for the year's work and memory verse, "Faith without works is dead," James 2:20.

A unanimous vote was made at the last meeting of the W.M.U. to give the circle names for living missionaries. The circle honored Miss Gladys Keith, missionary on the water front in New Orleans, by adopting her name for the circle.

A vote was made to draw names for circle sisters as the prayer pairs for the year. The last meeting of the year will be a fellowship supper and the circle sisters will be revealed at that time.

Officers were elected, Mrs. Carey Brown, chairman, Mrs. Joe Martine, co-chairman; Mrs. W. B. Barnhill, secretary; Mrs. T. N. Cooper, stewardship; Mrs. Mayo Mizelle, social work; Mrs. B. F. 'Hobbies' Is Topic For Delphian Club

Mrs. Joseph Tabar was guest speaker at the first fall meeting of the Delphian Book Club in the home of Mrs. Marvin W. Aldridge.

The topic of Mrs. Tabar's program was "Hobbies of the Housewife." Her discussion pointed out to the members the pleasure the whole family can receive from "Mother's Hobby." For example paintings were displayed which recorded happy memories of their family life.

One of her most interesting hobbies presented was block printing. Christmas cards, stationery, and picture prints were passed among the club members for examination. The speaker briefly explained how such prints were made. The details of these and Mrs. Tabar's other hobbies was an inspiration to the Delphians.

Before the program a business meeting was conducted by the club president, Mrs. Ed Tipton. Further plans for the year were formulated and books were distributed.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess who was assisted by Mr. Robert Messner. Mr. Aldridge's home was beautifully decorated in Autumn hues.

New Books Reviewed For Clio Book Club

Tuesday afternoon, October 5, the Clio Book Club met at the home of Mrs. Dink James. Lovely arrangements of fall flowers were used throughout the house.

Upon arrival the hostess invited the guests into the dining room where from a beautifully appointed table Miss Agnes Fullilove served French coffee. Sautéed nuts, a platter of a variety of sandwiches, pickles and cakes were served.

Mrs. Luther Moore, president, presided over the business meeting, followed by the presenting to each member a very attractive year book. The program was then turned over to Mrs. James Moye.

Mrs. Moye gave a most interesting review of the new books for the club year. The selection of books consisted of those of Fiction and General. Biographical, historical, love, comedy and mystery were represented in the selection. The reviews were given just enough of the type of book it was to cause the curiosity of the listeners to be aroused to the point that they would want to read the books as soon as possible.

This being the first meeting of the club year the members were delighted to be back together again after a long vacation.

No Explanation For Death Rate

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The State Health Department said yesterday that the July 1, 1953, population of Texas was 8,397,000 with 66,493 deaths that year.

But in 1910, the department noted, the population was 3,896,542—less than half what it was last year—and deaths were almost the same, 66,210.

In Dallas, the police had no explanation. The first law against carrying a six-shooter, they said, was passed in 1887.

AP Newsfeatures

By EUGENE LEVIN

NEW DELHI — She could have lived the life of an Indian princess in the luxurious palace of the late Maharaja of Kapurthala, her great-grandfather.

But her father left the princely state to become involved in India's independence movement, and the young princess, too, caught the nationalist fever.

She became a follower of Mahatma Gandhi and trekked across India with him, pleading for India's independence and accepting the hardship of his wanderings.

The princess devoted most of 30 years to the freedom struggle. And when the British finally left in 1947, she became India's first minister of health.

Her acceptance of this portfolio was the beginning of a new struggle, a fight against the multitude of diseases which yearly claims hundreds of thousands of lives in overpopulated, under-developed India.

Determination has kept 66-year-old Rajkumari Amrit Kaur at the health ministry since 1947—and has made her the "first lady" in the eyes of many of her countrymen. They affectionately address her as "Rajkumari," her royal title, meaning "Princess."

Seldom in her life has she found time to leave India but this fall she makes her first visit to America.

The trip is primarily intended as a means of bringing India's health minister in touch with American public health experts. But for Rajkumari it also presents an opportunity "to thank Americans for their aid to India and to tell Americans about our country."

During her travels across the United States, she hopes to speak to youth groups—"youth are the people who count most today, for they must shape the world of tomorrow," she says.

Along with youth's interest in international problems, she believes, there is a curiosity about Mahatma Gandhi. "I want to talk about Gandhi," she says, "and help Americans to know him better."

Through devotion to Gandhi, she still wears only homespun garments, continuing to follow his edict against machine-made goods. A handsome woman, with curls of gray hair peeking out from beneath her sari, she makes the rough cotton cloths look like regal silks.

Rajkumari, although her cabinet post is health, has been a key personality in the controversy involving American missionaries in India. A Christian herself, she reportedly has been a moderating influence on other cabinet members seeking to curtail activities of missionaries. Hindu extremist organizations recently have been accusing them of spying for the United States. Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru has said missionaries constitute a political, rather than a religious, problem.

The dynamic Indian health minister will lunch with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt after her arrival in New York.

She will be in Washington as the guest of Mrs. Ovela Culp Hobby, secretary of health, education and welfare. Rajkumari hopes to visit many of Washington's federal agencies and to meet with American officials.

Rajkumari will be in Buffalo, N.Y., for the American public health Assn. meeting, which she is scheduled to address.

On her tour she will inspect public and private medical and nursing education facilities.

After four or five days with Canadian health officials in Ottawa, she will return directly to New Delhi.

The Rockefeller Foundation is playing host to her throughout her U. S. travels, except for her initial stopover in Washington.

John Bradley, Negro, improper brakes, prayer for judgment continued on payment of court costs and the judgment provides that he is not to drive a car without proper brakes.

B. D. Moore, failure to stop at a stop sign, prayer for judgment continued on payment of court costs, and he is to make adequate restitution for property damage and personal injuries.

J. Paul Ippock, failure to yield right of way and keep proper lookout, taxed with court costs and he is to pay $25 to E. J. Peadar for property damage.

Allen Jones was found not guilty of failure to pay taxi fare.

The case in which Joe Moore, Negro, was charged with assault, was not pressed with leave.

Drunk: Lyman Allen, called and he failed to answer and an instant capias was issued for him. Beatrice Jenkins, Negro, 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $15 costs.

Elmore Spillman, Negro, vulgar and profane language, suspended on payment of costs and she is to behave for a year.

The flag ceremony was led by George W. Smith.

Mrs. Fennell Allen discussed the Scottish Rite Ladies Night dinner that the O.E.S. will serve on October 28. She is the chairman and asked the cooperation of all members especially those who are not wives of Scottish Rite Masons.

The worthy Matron named Mrs. Alfred Kennedy, Mrs. Bill Semons, Mrs. Susie Ragsdale, Mrs. Elizabeth Respass, Mrs. Little Dell Briley, and Mrs. Guy Forrest as responsible for items for the meal.

Mrs. Ethel Allen will serve as co-chairman with Mrs. Bill Semons at this time.

The by-laws of the chapter were read by Mrs. Louise Wells. Members were urged to call Miss Alva Ray Taylor and make reservations for luncheon at the district school to be held in Gritton, Oct. 16 at 10 a.m. in the school auditorium.

Happy birthday was sung to Mrs. Melie House.

Church Program Is Over Hurdle

TORONTO (AP)—A vast program for pyramiding controls within the United Lutheran Church in America was over its first major hurdle today. But the controversial plan faced extended debate in the church's 19th biennial convention under way here.

Convention delegates began considering the proposals point by point after blocking a move to scrap the whole plan for the time being.

Opposition to convention action on the program, described as "the most momentous in the history of the church," developed last night in a motion by the Rev. J. J. Scherer of Richmond, Va.

He advocated turning the entire 118-point plan back to a committee for another two-year study, declaring that on a matter "so vital," more time is needed to "study, think and pray."

But the Rev. W. Carl Satre, Toledo, Ohio, who heads the commission which drew up the plan and sent it to delegates two months ago, called this an effort to "stymie and gag the convention at the beginning."

Pastor Satre told delegates they would "be the most frustrated body of men and women in the world" if they had to go home and say they did not even discuss the proposals.

He said the program, aimed at laying down lines of supervision over the church's now-disconnected and independent agencies, put before the denomination the "most momentous" decision in its 36-year life.

The church has more than 2,150,000 members, chiefly in the United States but also in Canada. It is America's biggest Lutheran body.

Dr. Franklin Clark Fry of New York was named to his sixth two-year term as president.

The elaborate iron grillwork seen on many homes in Savannah, Ga. was introduced by French royalists who fled there when revolution erupted on the island of Hispaniola in the West Indies.

It Appears To Us An Unwise Choice

Greenville's Planning Board doubtless gave lengthy consideration to the selection of a site for the proposed fire department sub-station in the eastern section of the city. Nevertheless we cannot help questioning the wisdom of their selection of the corner of Elm and Fourteenth Streets as the site for the sub-station.

There are a number of things which, in our opinion, make the corner of Elm and Fourteenth Streets an unwise choice.

Both Elm and Fourteenth Streets already are heavily traveled. In time to come both streets will carry an increasing number of vehicles to the intersection which already has become somewhat hazardous. A short distance south of the intersection Elm Street intersects a railroad track, adding to the traffic hazard at the particular intersection.

The new elementary school which is being constructed just southeast of the intersection of Elm and Fourteenth will mean a great many children will have to cross the intersection of the two busy streets every day the school opens. Then too, the local school board already is working on plans for the construction of a new high school on the school property adjacent to the intersection. That will mean even more pedestrian traffic, more kids on bicycles and more vehicles crossing the intersection.

Just a short distance north of the intersection of Elm and Fourteenth is Elm Street Park which already attracts a good bit of traffic and many youngsters.

To put a fire department sub-station at the intersection of Elm and Fourteenth Streets, it seems to us, would be inviting a greater traffic hazard, and unnecessarily endangering the lives of many school children.

We are confident the Planning Board will be able to find a more suitable location for the fire department sub-station if they give further consideration to the matter.

Will There Be More Overlapping Taxes?

The time has come for lawmakers at every level of government to give serious consideration to the lines of delineation for each level of government in the levying of taxes.

There are many fields in which state and federal taxes already overlap. Proposals have been made to eliminate such overlapping taxes, but at every turn those proposals have fallen on deaf ears in Washington. Probably the most notable of such proposals in recent months is the suggestion that collection of gasoline taxes be left entirely to the states, and the states in turn assume complete responsibility for nation's road program.

At every turn, however, the federal government is reluctant to relinquish any grasp upon tax revenues in any field.

In North Carolina we are standing at the very threshold of the time in which we may see as many overlapping taxes as are now evident between state and federal governments.

The Reflector feels positive measures should be taken in the state to set out clearly which fields of taxation would be the exclusive property of local governments and which should be the exclusive property of the state government.

In its quest for more revenue during the next biennium, the state may well be expected to eye sources of revenue which previously have been left to local government units. Certainly we expect no ad valorem tax on the state level; but there may be other fields into which the state government will venture in an effort to secure more revenue.

There has already been an indication that state budget officials may be considering the levying of a new state tax on businesses, based on their volume of business during the year. North Carolina had such a tax at one time, but it was abandoned when the state sales tax was adopted.

While ad valorem taxes have formed the principal source of revenue for local government units, most cities and counties of the state likewise have turned to business license taxes for a source of revenue. In some instances this tax is collected on a flat fee basis, and in others it is based on gross revenue of the individual business.

It would be a serious blow for the state to impose a similar tax on top of the existing local business taxes.

Unless the public keeps up its guard, the day may come in the not too distant future when the overlapping between state and local taxes becomes as serious as the present overlapping between state and federal taxes. Indeed, we are likely to see steps in that direction proposed when the coming General Assembly meets to consider the financial needs of North Carolina for the next two years.

Somebody Told Me

It's Rough To Leave The Bed

If a parking meter had been installed beside my bed this morning, with the provision that I could stay in bed as long as I fed that meter, no doubt I would still be there. Of all mornings, this was one I would have dearly loved to have at least an additional hour in bed.

Never have I been able to figure out why my sleeping schedule seems to be one hour off all the time. If my getting-up hour is supposed to be at seven, I'm ready to get up at eight. But at times when it's been at eight, I'm ready at nine.

They tell me when you get older you can't sleep in the morning. As much as I hate to grow old, it seems that it would be a pleasure to wake up with no encouragement.

Here's my routine: Wake up, look at the watch, and bolt out of bed if I'm already overdue. Or, look at the watch, see that I have ten more minutes to go, roll over and sleep an additional 20 minutes. "Once you get in the Army," Somebody Told Me, "you'll learn how to get up in the morning with no strain." What a joke! How many times have I crawled out of the sack at last call, thrown on an overcoat and hat and stood reveille half frozen. This was impossible in the summertime, because it was too light. But in the winter, reveille was always in the dark. Never will I forget the Sergeant we had in Maryland who had his own version of "All present or accounted for, Sir!" Like all those who reported reveille, he slurred the report. But he also substituted words, "What the hell you standing out there for, Sir!"

The subject of sleep reminds me of a Greenville high school incident between James Register, of the Greenville Register, and Dick Walser of the faculty. James is now a journalist in an Eastern Carolina town I can't name at present and Dick Walser is a member of the N. C. State College faculty who has become famous as an author and freelance writer in the field of North Carolina literary works. While at GHS, Dick taught English and dramatics. One morning in class a sleepy student commented, "I wish somebody would bottle up Walser." Register added, "I wish somebody would bottle up Walser." Unfortunately, Dick heard the comment, bolted to his feet and said, "Register, there's not enough room in here for both of us, so you'd better get out! And don't come back until you have an excuse from Mr. Roser!"

Unconcerned as anybody could be under such circumstances, Register ambled out of the room, came back in soon with the proper authorization. Register's comment was prompted by the whip Walser cracked on us in senior English. Those of us who went to college thanked him later for the sleep we lost during the days at GHS.

This discussion on sleep has led me in all sorts of directions. Also, I had a dream that I was going to mention. But let's leave some room on this page for something constructive.

And I thank you.

BREAKFAST
(Greensboro News)
Better Breakfast Month—now that's one month we will stand up for.

The decline and fall of the great American breakfast seems to us a sign and portent of decadence. Nutritionists are worried about it. We lay it to various classes of people: (1) boys and girls who are afraid they will be late for school; (2) office workers who had rather sleep than eat; (3) women who are in training for the flat look; and (4) sinners who have sat up too late the night before.

We'll bet Longfellow's blacksmith ("the smith, a mighty man was he") ate a big breakfast, including black bread, beans, codfish cakes and pie. George Washington, John Marshall, William McKinley and William Howard Taft all look like big breakfast eaters to us. Franklin and Jefferson may have been subverted to some extent by the "continental breakfast" but we doubt it. Andrew Jackson and Calvin Coolidge obviously didn't eat enough breakfast.

A breakfast that consists of a little cereal, a miniature glass of orange juice, a piece of toast and coffee, possibly accompanied by a lonesome egg, is almost as bad as no breakfast at all.

Our idea of a 100 per cent American breakfast is one that has most, if not all, of these articles on the menu: A big bowl of oatmeal with plenty of sugar, salt, butter and cream; At least half a cantaloupe; Eggs (plural), fried, boiled, scrambled, omelette, etcetera; Bacon, old country ham, sausages, (patties not links), fried chicken and salt herring roe; Rolls, toast, doughnuts, waffles, buckwheat cakes and biscuits; Coffee, just a few cups.

It may take a little time to eat such a breakfast but it will be worth it. Don't ask us who's going to cook it.

Most Controversial Of The Proposed 5 Amendments

By LYNN NISBET
SENATORS — By all odds the most controversial of the five constitutional amendments submitted to vote of the people on November 2 is No. 3. "To provide that no county shall be entitled to more than one senator in the General Assembly."

This amendment goes to the very heart of the principle of representative government. It purports to give to artificial county lines prestige and sanctity superior to the idea of representation of persons in legislative councils. In one respect it conforms to the United States constitution which allows no State more than two senators; in another it is in conflict with the Federal constitution in that it fails to assure every county of one senator, whereas the Federal rule guarantees every State two senators regardless of size.

Representation in the Congress of the United States is based on two senators to each State, no more and no less, regardless of size and on members of the House of Representatives apportioned on basis of population. That results in four States—Delaware, Nevada, Vermont and Wyoming—having two senators and only one representative in the Congress. Nine States—Arizona, Idaho, Montana, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Dakota, Rhode Island, South Dakota and Utah—have two senators and two representatives each. By way of contrast New York has only two senators but 43 representatives, while California and Pennsylvania have 32 representatives each and two senators apiece. This allocation of representatives is based on the reapportionment after the 1950 census. The North Carolina constitution required reapportionment of both senators and representatives after the 1950 census which requirement has been ignored by the two past sessions of the General Assembly. Reapportionment is a principle to limit senatorial representation to not more than one per county argue that they are seeking to effectuate the principle of equitable apportionment on basis of the census. The argument is supported by the record that Legislatures have refused to obey the constitutional mandate because to do so would give preponderance in legislative voting strength to the big counties with important urban centers. The amendment, however, would defeat that claimed objective in that it would make equitable representation constitutionally impossible in both branches of the General Assembly.

The constitution now provides that every county, regardless of size, shall have one representative. That takes care of 100 of the 120 members of the House. The other 20 are required to be distributed on basis of population. The 50 senators are required to be distributed so that each senator will represent as near as possible the same number of people.

The one representative to a county rule plus changing population since the last reapportionment in 1941 has resulted in such anomalies as Dare county with 5,400 people having a full representative while Rockingham with nearly 65,000 people also has only one member in the House. The senate apportionment is almost as bad numerically, worse politically because of more flagrant flaunting of the constitution. Edgecombe county with 51,634 people in 1950 has a full time senator while Mecklenburg with nearly four times as many people (197,052 in 1952 and well above 200,000 now) has only one senator.

Reapportionment under the present constitution would give Mecklenburg two senators, each of whom would still represent nearly twice as many people as the Edgecombe member. Adoption of the amendment would tend to forever prevent equitable person representation in Mecklenburg, and would recognize county lines as the determining factor rather than voter representation.

COMPARATIVE — In practically everything except legislative representation county lines are virtually ignored in North Carolina. In South Carolina every county has a senator and the legislative delegations make up county budgets much as county commissioners do in this State. In Georgia voters for Governor and other state elective officials are based on county units, just as electoral votes for President are based on States Result is that a vote cast in Hershman county has approximately ten times the value of a vote cast in Fulton or Decatur (Atlanta). That system has some merit, but North Carolina has traditionally adhered to the theory that one vote was worth as much as another. In legislative practice that theory has often been violated, and there is evidence of desire, illustrated by submission of this amendment, to throw it away and go to the county unit

Function Of Firing

By ELMER ROESSNER
Firing an employee is one of the most difficult and unpleasant tasks in management operation. Even when dismissals or layoffs are expected by transient workers, employers hired for specific terms and those in cyclical industries—any management team recognizes the hardships and emotional problems in letting one or a thousand go.

Often the fault lies with management in hiring the wrong worker in the first place, in hiring too many, or in failing to keep operations high enough to insure full employment. Even when a company is not at fault, it suffers through worker antagonism, public criticism and loss of prestige. It may also compound future difficulties in recruitment.

In some companies, an elaborate system has been worked out so that people on the executive level are hardly ever fired. They resign.

Instead of telling an executive to pick up his pay check and get, a company slowly and methodically squeezes him out of his responsibilities and authority. He gets the cool treatment until the idea sinks in.

In lower levels, passing the firing buck is more common. Executives tell their subordinates who, in turn, tell their subordinates. Eventually some fellow named Gus who has no authority and nothing to do with the firing gets the task of bidding the unfortunate worker farewell. The worker, in turn, does not know why it happened and he has no recourse. This method ranks with the old pink slip in the pay envelope.

While there will always be firings, techniques can be humanized and the number can be reduced. Some firms thoroughly test applicants' backgrounds, personality, habits and co-operative traits, as well as their attitude for the job. The applicants are given training and help in adjusting to the job. If the employee doesn't work out, alternate jobs with other requirements and working conditions are tried.

If the worker is still unsatisfactory, he may be given counseling services designed to help him find a position more suited to his ability. When this technique is used, no employee can rightfully resent the failure to pick up his option, so to speak, and other employees cannot build up resentment against management hiring policies.

FURNITURE MAKERS IMPROVE POSITION

The furniture industry appears to have reversed its downward trend. August shipments rose 32 per cent over July. They were, however, still 3 per cent under August, 1953.

The industry also chalked up a 9 per cent gain in unfilled orders in August, despite the heavy shipment.

KEEPING RECORDS HELD A DUTY TO HISTORY

Efficiency experts and business publications for years have been yammering at business to clear out unneeded records, pointing out that rent for the space of a single filing cabinet may be as much as $3 a year, and that the cost of maintaining files may be far greater.

Now businessmen are being urged to preserve old records, not only for future use by management but for their possible contribution to history. Dr. Robert H. Bahmer, assistant archivist of the United States, told 125 management officials convening under the auspices of New York University, that records of a company can give staff members an objective account of the firm's background; they can serve as a source of morale-building information, they can be useful in advertising and public relations and to future researchers and historians.

Worry Marks Comedian's Life

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—What would happen if you put the nation's 10 leading television comedians at the same dinner table? Would everybody die laughing?

"No, you'd probably just have chaos," said Red Buttons.

It is unlikely that the comics would try to top each other with fresh gags. They would be more likely to mention their tension, and all break out crying at once. For being funny on television today is a gruesomely grave industry.

The red-eyed TV camera is a monster that eats up fresh material so rapidly the one-show-a-week comedian is never quite sure of his audience. He carries a little small gnawing doubt at the back of his brain, wondering whether his next wisecrack will turn out to be his epitaph.

"You can only hope you have something funny—but you can't be certain," said Buttons. "You don't have to have any out-of-town tryouts. If you do 30 shows a year, that means you face the strain of 30 opening nights."

The wear and tear was so rough on Red's nerves at the start of his TV career that he fainted one night, and the program had to be canceled. Luckily the show wasn't sponsored then. You don't faint before a sponsored show in television. You either go on or you die.

"TV is a terrific challenge—much tougher than any other medium," said Red. "The lack of time is the biggest hurdle. Time is everything in comedy. You need it to polish your material, to perfect your performance. If you don't put the time in, you end up with a lesser product."

Red Buttons, who has a boyish face but a wrinkled mind, was born Aaron Chwatt on the lower East Side 36 years ago in a neighborhood so tough he spent most of his boyhood with his hands knotted into fists.

"I was 13 before I really knew I had fingers," he recalled wryly. He started at 16 as a singing bellhop—that's how he got the name Red Buttons—and learned the comic's trade in burlesque, musical comedies, night clubs, and thousands of club dates.

Now he's in the top financial brackets in television, but he still looks wistfully back to the days when he did sketches in burlesque and vaudeville.

"Burlesque was a great training ground," he said. "They let you alone. You had to find your own laughs, build up your own sketches. You had a chance to be personally creative."

"In vaudeville it took from one to three years to put together a really good act, but then you had something solid that could last you for years."

"Look at Smith and Dale and their 'Doctor Krokite' skit. They have been doing it for 50 years—just think of it, 50 years—and it's still funny."

But Red feels the day of comic sketches and the great sketch comedians is slowly coming to an end. Among the artists of this craft he listed Willie Howard, W.C. Fields, Bert Lahr, Bobby Clark, and Olsen and Johnson.

"In television the only way you can live is to follow a story line and develop a situation comedy. Sid Caesar, Milton Berle, Imogene Coca, and Jackie Gleason had to switch to situation comedy. I've had to, too. It gives you the advantage of having familiar characters to build up week after week."

"Television uses the same technique as the movies. People won't go to the movies any more just to see a man telling jokes. They want a story situation with their humor. They want it on TV, too."

Red Buttons, the funny man, looked sad. Like all ex-burlesque performers he misses the fun he had in baggy pants—the zesty youthful years spent taking the pie in the face, the seltzer water on the head, the broken eggs in the hat.

Optimism Along Wall Street

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—Wall Street bigwigs' private explanations for the prolonged bullish spirits in the stock market, which has roared along for months at high levels, has bread-and-butter meaning for every American. They advanced their analysis at the solicitation of their friends within the White House circle, who sought the low-down for politico-economic reasons.

The phenomenon struck Washington as noteworthy because there are so many bearish influences abroad and at home. President Eisenhower has reduced Government spending that helped to strengthen so many securities. Russia has made numerous gains in her attempt to weaken the western world and to discredit the free enterprise system.

The Allies have appeared to be on the brink of a breakup, even before French rejection of the European Defense Community.

ELECTION POSSIBILITY—The country faces a Congressional election in which it is possible that Eisenhower's conservative, pro-business policies may be repudiated by the selection of an antagonistic, Democratic Congress. As the nomination of the Harlan-Roosevelt ticket in New York State portends, the liberal, free-spending and Wall Street detractors are on the march again after their 1952 reversal.

Why then, Ike's enemies asked, is the financial and industrial community so optimistic? And since the American people have contributed to the persistent upsurge, for the "little fellows" have become big buyers, why are they betting on continued good times?

WALL STREET REACTION—The experts at Broad and Wall Streets do not profess to be omniscient prophets, but it is their job—in fact, their responsibility—to diagnose the immediate and long-range forces which affect the American economy adversely or favorably.

And following are their answers to such inquiring reporters as Cabinet Members Sinclair Weeks, Charles E. Wilson and George M. Humphrey, the three Eisenhower officials most closely connected with "the street."

FINANCIERS' OPINIONS—The bankers, the brokers, the financiers and the industrialists polled in this confidential survey gave three principal reasons for their confidence in the present and future of the United States, to wit:

(1) They do not believe that Russia will engage in open warfare, or permit any of her major satellites, which means China, to undertake guerrilla or open hostilities on a large scale. While there may be sporadic fighting, they do not anticipate a global conflict involving the United States or its European Allies.

MILITARY UNIFICATION LOOKED FOR—(2) They look for eventual settlement of the critical problem of military unification of Western Europe, and did so even when a settlement seemed extremely unlikely. In fact, it is believed that these powerful, international interests have exerted all possible pressure on London and Paris for an agreement.

Two of Wall Street's most prominent figures have operated behind the scenes of the current diplomatic controversies. They are Clarence Dillon, former head of Dillon, Read & Co., now Ambassador to France; and Winthrop W. Aldrich, former board chairman of the National City Bank, who represents the United States at the Court of St. James. Both firms have helped to finance the French and British in times past, and may do so again, if . . .

NO RECESSION OR DEPRESSION—Their final reason touches the American people even more intimately and earthily. They are convinced that the U. S. will not suffer from a recession or depression for the practical reason that no Administration, especially one composed of so many "millionaires," would dare to permit them to occur. They probably got assurances on that concern from Messrs. Weeks, Wilson and Humphrey.

Although Wall Street detests artificial government-inspired methods for bolstering the economy, an action by P. D. R. fixed a precedent which neither they nor their friends at Washington can disregard.

Surge Of Russian Offers To India Worries West

By EUGENE LEVIN

NEW DELHI (AP) — A sudden surge of Russian offers of technical assistance to India is causing concern among American and British interests here.

The Russians have offered India technical help in building a steel plant and in developing diamond mines. The Soviets also hope to give India agriculture a lift with small farm tractors. Indian officials have raised the possibility of Russian automobiles being assembled or manufactured here, apparently with Soviet help.

British business interests foresee Russian competition. They had hoped to build the steel mill. American businessmen, especially those connected with automobile and tractor firms, also are anxious. It is understood that Moscow proposed to make a loan to meet the cost of installing and equipping the steel plant and that this loan would be repayable in Indian rupees at 2½ per cent interest over a 10-year period. Western diplomats here say India will probably accept.

Authorities here refuse to disclose details of the offer. But it is generally believed the plant will cost the equivalent of 152 million dollars. This figure compares to the more than 180 million dollars in economic and technical assistance the United States has given India during the past three years, with another 80 millions expected in the current year.

In a single project, therefore, Russia has effected the impression it is offering India more than half as much as the United States has given in four years. The fact TRIBUTE TO A G MAN: Pat Sawyer, synonymous with Greenville High athletics for the past several years, has been declared unfit for further football combat. The popular senior suffered a recurrence of an old knee injury in the Washington game last week. Although he may be used in punting capacities the rest of the season, real football for him seems over. He is one of the best sports to emerge from here in quite some time; if he never plays another game he has more than contributed his part.

LR OVER APPS: Appalachian, the North State Conference front-runners, meet Lenoir Rhyne in Hickory this Saturday night. The Mountaineers will be favored to add the Bears skins to their repertory. But in our opinion they've got a surprise coming. The Apps haven't played a competitor like the Bears. East Carolina was very fortunate to take out a 14-0 win against them two weeks ago. When the Bears get you in their neck of the woods, they're as mean as their namesake. A word to the wise: Appalachian had better check their Blue Cross policy before invading Hickory. We see Lenoir Rhyne in an upset 20-7 win. Heaven help our boys!

COLLEGE GRID GRADUATES: EOC's Bobby Hodges gave professional football an abbreviated whirl. He reported to the Philadelphia Eagles last July and stayed with the club until two weeks before the exhibition schedule was opened. He was running second string offense until he decided to give it up. He's back at EOC now finishing up his work for graduation. The football pros have learned it's poor business to hang a "can't miss" tag on collegiate prospects. Quite often the hottest of the All-Americans are the coolest in camp when the head-bumping starts in late July.

The nearest the play-for-cash brains will come to calling their shots is during the annual draft. If a collegiate ace is included in the top three rounds, he figures as a good bet to earn his money. Some of the players most familiar to folks of this area playing in the big time are Jim Duncan, Wake Forest; Ray Krouse, Maryland; Jeff Newton, Carolina; all with the New York Giants; Bob Hudson, Clemson, and Tom Scott, Virginia are with the Eagles. The Pittsburgh Steelers have Bob Gaona, Wake Forest; Tom Palmer, Wake Forest; Lou Tepe, Duke; and Ray Matthews, Clemson.

The Washington Redskins' roster includes Charlie Justice, Carolina; Jack Scarbath, Maryland; and Ralph Felton, Maryland. The Chicago Bears have in camp Bill George, Wake Forest; Stan Jones, Maryland; and Ed Meadows, Duke. Len Szafaryn, Carolina, and Fred Cone, Clemson, are playing for the Green Bay Packers.

The champion Detroit Lions have Larry Spencer, Wake Forest and Dreher Gaskin, Clemson, on their team. Blackie Kincald, South Carolina, is playing defensive half back for the Los Angeles Rams. Playing in the Canadian Football League are Howard Turner, and Alex Webster, State; Clyde Bennett, Johnny Gramling and Gene Wilson, South Carolina; Bob On-dilla, Ken Bridges, Jim Staton, Ray Clica, Ed Bradley and Red O'Quinn, Wake Forest; and Berny Faloney, Maryland.

G-Men Experiment With Line-Up During Workouts

By WAYNE BISHOP

Reflector Sports Writer

With no game to prepare for this week the Greenville Phantoms are enjoying experimental practices this week.

Coach Bill Kittrell has been working Bob Howell at fullback in this week's workouts. Howell was a fullback two years ago but was changed to halfback last year and to quarter back this year. With Jerry Drum showing marked improvement the moving of Howell may be permanent.

Also another change has been made with Larry Powell moving into the center slot. The 210 pound junior had been running from fullback and tackle all year although he does center the ball some on punts.

Some discouraging news came from the Phantoms camp when it was announced that senior center Pat Sawyer will be lost to the team except for punting duties. Sawyer was the defensive captain of the team and the leading linebacker on the squad.

The 170 pound senior had a knee operation two years ago but he still has trouble with it which will not allow him to play football. Sawyer hurt it again in the Washington game Friday night. Sawyer will still remain on the team as a punter. He has a 36.4 yard punting average which is one of the best in the state among high school circles.

The 7-men will rest up this week and then go into action against the Elizabeth City Yellow Jackets the following week in their homecoming game.

The U.S. Office of Education was set up in 1867 as an independent agency, but since that time it has been attached to the Department of the Interior, later to the Federal Security Agency and in 1953 to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Three ECC Varsity Squads Stress Defensive Strategy

East Carolina's Pirates yesterday held a long defensive scrimmage, preparing for the Elon game in Burlington this week end.

Coaches Jack Boone and Jim Mallory directed three varsity units against a freshman team running Elon's split-T offense. The contact work was spirited with all early injured players, with exception of Dick Cherry, taking part.

David Lee, 245-pound All-Conference guard, was at his old position and bearing down as if nothing had happened. With his replacement in the Pirates' last two games, George Rice, on the sidelines with a sprained ankle, Lee will be counted on for the greater part of sixty minutes against the Christians Saturday.

Big Claude King, veteran fullback and the man Coach Boone last year labeled "the most underrated player on the team", was laboring at his post, seemingly recovered from the thigh hematoid received in the Norfolk Navy game. The hard-running King will most likely share the fullback duties with Harold O'Kelly, workhorse in the Pirates' last two outings.

Boyd Webb was working from the safetyman post in the defensive drill. He also appears fully recuperated from a bruised hip. Milton Collier and Gary Mattocks were other signal-callers taking turns at the QB job.

The first line unit of J. D. Bradford and Larry Rhodes, ends; George Tucker and Willie Holland, tackles; Don Burton and Lee, guards; and Louis Hallow, center looked exceptionally sharp against advances of the fresh offense.

There was hardly any difference between the play of the second line either. Ray Pennington and Bill Helms, ends; Charlie Smith and James Knight, tackles; Paul Popov and Grady Dickerson, guards, and Waverly Cheson, center comprised the group.

Tippy Hayes and Elmo Boado worked with the number one unit at the defensive halfbacks. Tom Allsbrook and Jim Stanley went with the sophomore unit and Jim Henderson and Bobby Perry rounded out the third team.

The Bucs will be at near-top strength for this one and Coach Sid Varney's drilling his Christians earnestly in consideration of this. Elon has the old adage advantage "everything is win, nothing to lose." The Christians lost their first two games, one a conference affair to Appalachian 20-6.

But from training camp reports, they're out to stamp this game with UPSET. Elon will field a fast backfield including Bill Snyder, quarterback; Whitney Bradham and Paul Watts, halfbacks; and Co-Captain Revell Morrison, fullback.

They combine a quick, breakaway punch with a good counter-attacking line. If they can get their machine into high gear and the breaks fall right... who knows?

Time Is Running Out On Proposal

CHICAGO (AP)—Arnold Johnson, wealthy Chicago business executive, says time is running out on his offer to buy the Philadelphia Athletics and indicates his patience is doing likewise.

Johnson has offered to buy the Athletics for a reported $3,375,000. He wants to move the franchise to Kansas City.

"I am getting together a report from my architect, engineers and even iron and steel contractors to determine how long it will take to make the Kansas City park into a big league stadium," said Johnson. "At first they told me work would have to start Sept. 15 to 20 if remodeling is to be completed before the 1955 season opens next April."

"That means the deadline has come and gone. They are poised to start work the minute the signal is given. I will have their latest report by this weekend. If they tell me there is not enough time, I'll withdraw my offer."

Will Harridge, American League president, has asked Johnson to hold open his offer and has scheduled a meeting of club owners Tuesday in Chicago to determine the Athletics' future status.

Ayden Is Playing Williamston In Friday's Game

AYDEN—Coach Stewart Tripp's Ayden High Tornadoes play host to Williamston's gridders here tomorrow night in a inter-conference clash.

The Tornadoes have been drilling eagerly for this one and will be out to stop their class A rival. Practices all week have been spirited, according to Coach Tripp. The Tornadoes will go into the game at top strength.

Quarterback W. O. Jolly, the offensive spark in the Tornadoes first four games, is all set to go under the center. He is being counted on to bear the brunt of the attack once again with his passing. Fullback Milton Worthington, the team's leading ground-gainer, will start at the line-busting post. The big senior is having a great year and is shoo-in again for All-Conference honors.

Coach Roger Thrift's Williamston Green Wave, fresh from their 28-6 rout of Littleton, will depend on an inexperienced eleven to repel the vaunted Ayden team. In halfbacks Dickie Clayton, Grady Godard, and Leary Forehand, the Green Wave has a top-notch trio of scooters. Godard, a 180-pounder, scored three touchdowns against Littleton.

The probable Ayden starting lineup:

Charley Norkus Stages Upset In His TKO Victory

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Charley Norkus with a seventh-round technical knockout over California's latest heavyweight sensation, Charlie Powell, figured today he had earned a place in the back row of contenders for the title.

The Port Washington, N.Y., speller put the crusher on Powell's ring aspirations when he battered him in a wild seventh round last night at Civic Auditorium.

Norkus weighed 193; Powell, of San Diego, 212.

Norkus had scored an eight-count knockdown before the bout was halted in 2:10 of the seventh.

Ringsiders first thought Referee Frankie Carter called it a knock-out. Carter, however, said after-

Amateur Aces . . . by Pap'

"I think I will return to defend my title next year," said Arnold Palmer after accepting the 1954 National Amateur Golf championship trophy at the Country Club of Detroit. The statement had a hollow ring to it, lacking conviction. Certainly, it was not as strong as Miss Barbara Romack's determined avowal to remain in the amateur ranks for a long, long time and to defend the women's national title next year for certain.

The United States Golf Association officials are more than a little upset over losing their champion to the pro ranks again as they did when Gene Littler, the 1953 amateur king, joined the play-for-pay ranks and failed to defend his crown. Lawson Little also turned pro while wearing the National amateur crown back in 1935. Other former amateur champions like Bud Ward, Skeel Reigel and Billy Maxwell all waited until they lost their titles before turning to the pro ranks.

Palmer is fresh out of Wake Forest College, 3½ years in the Coast Guard and working in a modest spot as a salesman. He'd like to stay in the amateur ranks, but the business of earning a living could interfere with his golf. Palmer said he is a pro at Latrobe, Pa., and Arnold practically grew up on a golf course. The chances are that Arnold will have the benefit of his father's wise advice when it comes time for him to make up his mind about his golfing future.

Nine Birdies In 18 Holes Failed To Set Up Lead

GREENSBORO (AP)—Charlie Farlow of Greensboro, with nine birdies in 18 holes turned in a hot five-under-par 66 at Green Valley here yesterday to tie Johnny Palmer of Charlotte for the halfway lead in the annual Carolinas PGA tournament.

At 8 o'clock today the 58 pros and amateurs began teeing off for the 36-hole windup of the event. All played two rounds to end the tournament which carries a $1,000 plus in prizes.

Tourney favorite Palmer had a three-under-par 68 yesterday for a total of 139. Farlow had his best round of the tournament added to his first round 73 to tie Palmer.

Palmer and Farlow replaced Clarence Owen of Hickory and Ralph Lang of Roaring Gap as front runners. Owen and Lang settled for identical 75s yesterday.

Farmville, Robersonville Rivals Collide On Friday

ROBERSONVILLE — Farmville and Robersonville High Schools collide here tomorrow night in a Coastal Conference game.

These two arch-rivals have been working hard in practices this week, each anticipating a tough game. It'll be a game between two evenly matched clubs, Coach Elbert Mays of the homecoming Rams said today. Both teams lost key personnel by graduation and have had to rebuild with non-lettermen and freshmen.

The Rams will be at near-top strength. Their biggest injury to date was suffered last week when Bobby Moore, the teams top lineman, was injured. Moore will sit out the Farmville game.

Coach Mays will count on Quarterback Marshall Kilpatrick, an All-Conference candidate, and Ed John Roberson for an aerial game. Bobby Mobley, John House and Pete Johnson are a trio of backs that can go for yardage. The Rams' line-men, though, are young and inexperienced.

Coach Charlie Tucker of Farmville has Fred Thorn, All-Conference flanker last fall, along with Carroll Wooten and Wilbur Rollins to anchor the line. In Mack Holmes, Billy Baker and Curtiss Worthington Farmville has a veteran backfield. Hugh Pierce, a non-letterman, has come along and proved a capable runner.

Robersonville has played three games so far, winning one. Contention was whipped them in the opener 13-6 and Ayden repelled them 6-0. Last week, the Rams defeated Vanceboro 28-0 for their first win.

Farmville has yet to break into the win column. They lost to Tarboro, Nashville, Morehead City and Ayden on consecutive weekends. They'll be out to change their luck tomorrow night.

Annual JC Horse Show To Open Here Saturday

The annual Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored Horse Show is scheduled to begin Saturday afternoon at 1:30. Ed Harris, chairman of the show said today. Harris noted that there will also be shows Saturday night and a third show Sunday afternoon. The horse show chairman stated that horses from South Carolina, Virginia and Kentucky as well as horses from North Carolina will journey here for the Fourth Annual Horse Show, which is regarded as the best show of its kind south of Richmond.

Harris announced that Colonel R.E. Barrett of Branchville, Virginia is again managing the show this year. He stated that some 200 thoroughbreds will take part in the annual horse show.

There will be five-gated classes, western, jumper, open pleasure, hunter, walk-trot and other classes. This year's show will feature the most colorful and entertaining Rooster Class. Another highlight of the show is to be the Pine Harness Class.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce is giving away a 21 inch television set at the drawing which will take place Sunday afternoon. Show tickets entitle the buyer to a chance on the set.

Tickets to the horse show can be purchased from any Jaycee.

Pan-Am Tourney In Third Round

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Top-seeded players face either experienced fellow countrymen or foreigners who know their tennis ropes today as the 13th Pan American tournament opens its third round here. U.S. Nation Champion Vic Seixas of Philadelphia and No. 2 seeded Tony Trabert of Cincinnati still do not know for certain who they tackle in the second session of men's doubles.

Both advanced to third round yesterday. Seixas turning back Mexico's Eduardo Guzman Jr., 6-2 6-0, and Trabert whipping Antonio Sanchez of Mexico, 6-1, 6-1.

Ability Defeats Superstition

DETROIT (AP)—Coach Buddy Parker of the NFL champion Detroit Lions is a superstitious man. He has a keen disdain for the number 13. He even refuses a hotel room if it's on the 13th floor.

He was worried when his team played the college all-stars on Friday Aug. 13. But his worrying went for naught. The Lions won 31-6.

Medical Effort Forming Against Home Poisonings

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

CHICAGO (U.S.)—A new medical effort is being organized against a potential danger in your own home—the accidental poisoning of children by swallowing common household materials like furniture polish and bleaching agents.

Spearheaded by a group of Chicago doctors who have set up a "poisoning control center," similar projects are operating or being developed in Boston, Cincinnati, New York, Phoenix and Washington, D.C., the American Academy of Pediatrics was told today.

The idea is to have a systematic, centrally controlled network within a city whereby quickest action can be taken in treating a poisoned child and follow-up steps can be taken to try to prevent possible recurrences or independently best instances of the same emergency.

Dr. Edward Press of the University of Illinois and several associates described the Chicago program in a scientific exhibit at the AAP's 23rd annual meeting. Dr. Robert B. Mellins of the U.S. Public Health Service, who is participating in the Chicago program, supplied further details.

They said the commonest substances swallowed among 376 children treated for poisoning in the last year in Chicago were aspirin, petroleum products such as kerosene, rodent killers and insecticides; bleaching agents; and turpentine.

With the Chicago Board of Health acting as a clearing house for information and follow-up action, some 20 hospitals in the Chicago area have been supplied with an 80-page manual outlining poisonous constituents of various household materials and the most recent approved methods of treatment.

Individual doctors who might be house-called on a poison case can call a "Poison Control Committee" member at the Board of Health or one of the participating hospitals if he needs help.

"We're prepared," Dr. Mellins told a reporter "to contact the manufacturer of a given household product in case its chemical constituents—may not be immediately known."

"We would like," he added, "to stimulate clearer labeling on various products and, in the case of the more dangerous substances, precautionary warnings which would help remind parents of the potential danger of carelessly placing such products within reach of children."

Display Curious Combinations In Book Exhibition

FRANKFURT, Germany (U.S.)—Book publishers from Communist East Germany have collected their wares and brought them to the West for an exhibition here. They presented a curious picture.

Books about Martin Luther found themselves sharing space with "Korean Fairy Tales" and Nicola Gogol's "Fantastic Stories."

Across the room, displayed with great care, was a special group by Marx, Lenin and Stalin. Marx and Lenin had the thickest single volumes, but Stalin had them beat in another way—his works were collected in an 11-volume set. Farther down the room was displayed an East Berlin monthly magazine which had special articles, written by Howard Fast, New York author, alleged that American authors have sold out to the "insane atom bomb lords." The American public, he reported, is largely going without good books because the United States has 880 bookstores, "not counting drug stores."

Bigness In Business Is Still 'Poison' To Some

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Bigness in business is still a dangerous thing in the eyes of many Americans. They've seen a flood of mergers this year, making big companies out of little ones, or bigger corporations out of already large ones. Revision of the antitrust laws will be sought in the next session of the Congress, to clarify and perhaps to liberalize them.

The Justice Department which has about 700 mergers under varying degrees of scrutiny, has frowned upon the proposed merger of Bethlehem Steel, No. 2 steel producer in the nation, with Youngstown Sheet & Tube, No. 6 producer.

The department explains that the federal antitrust laws forbid such combinations if they tend to restrain competition within an industry or region.

The emphasis would be on trust prevention, as distinct from the trust busting that prevailed President Theodore Roosevelt.

Both Bethlehem and Youngstown deny that their proposed merger would lessen competition, and the issue may be taken to the courts. They point out that combined they would still be far smaller than U.S. Steel, which has 31 per cent of the steel-making capacity in the nation. It was formed around the turn of the century through combination of some 174 steel firms.

Bethlehem-Youngstown combined would have 19 per cent of total capacity.

Together U.S. Steel and Bethlehem-Youngstown would thus control 50 per cent of the nation's steel-making capacity.

Like many business leaders, steel executives deny that bigness itself puts a brake on competition. Mergers, admittedly are sought to better the competitive position of those involved. Business competition is increased among the remaining corporations.

The Justice Department has also expressed some concern about bigness in the auto industry.

General Motors and Ford have produced the lion's share of the cars sold this year. The department is concerned over the effect of their fierce competition on the little fellows in the industry.

The six independents hard hit during the felling race between the Big Two, have combined into three firms, and there are persistent rumors that still further mergers are under consideration. Chrysler, No. 3 in the industry, is out to regain part of the position it lost to GM and Ford.

During the Roman occupation of Britain early in the Christian era, the legions set up three permanent bases for control of the country.

Farmville Market Has $54.29 Leaf Average So Far

FARMVILLE—The local tobacco market has averaged $54.29 per hundred pounds so far this season, according to a report released by Sales Supervisor Charles S. Edwards.

The report included sales through the week ending October 1. The sales supervisor's report showed that the Farmville market had sold 16,887,480 pounds of tobacco through last Friday.

Last week's average was over $4 higher than the season average. Edwards reported last week's average as $58.88.

Following is the pounds sold and the daily average for each selling day last week: Monday, $47,890, $59.63; Tuesday, $47,672, $58.88; Wednesday, $55,014, $58.66; Thursday, $47,600, $59.51; Friday, $50,424, $58.88.

Out Of Gas, So He Traded Cars

CORNISH, N.H. (AP)—Clifford Peterson, cooking breakfast in his home, saw his 1952 automobile being driven off across the field. Hurrying out to investigate, he found another car, also a 1952 model, had been left in his garage. Police said the car was out of gas and that apparently was the reason for the switch.

No. 11 in a series of RARE CREATURES:

THE ANTIQUATED FREEZE

can turn the hottest ideas to ice

The FREEZE is an executive who inhabits aging firms. Sometimes is found perched on legal departments, or hovering over comptrollers' offices.

One blink of his eye can paralyze the best idea, and a waggle of his tongue can freeze an enthusiasm.

He turns thumbs down on any advertising program that would really work—because programs that work cost money.

Fortunately the FREEZE is a rare creature.

The wise executive realizes that advertising is part of the flesh and blood of a throbbing, prosperous enterprise. And all he asks is that the advertising work.

So he insists on newspaper advertising because newspapers are basic—the foundation of an intelligent ad schedule.

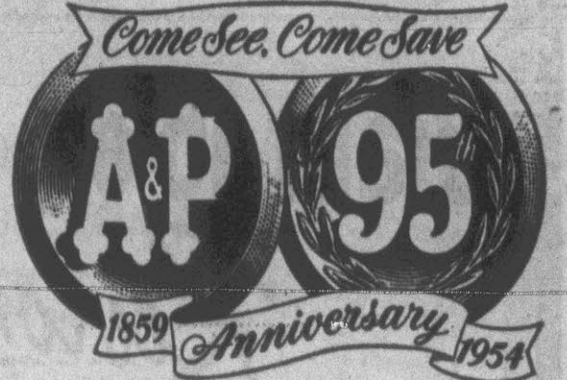

Because only the newspaper reaches just about everybody in every community. Because only the newspaper carries the sense of urgency—"If it's advertised today, I'd better go down and get it quick."

All business is local... and so are all newspapers!

Famous Boys Choir Here On October 28

The Columbus Boys Choir, famous ensemble of young singers, will open the 1954-1955 Entertainment Series at East Carolina College with a program to be given October 28 at 8 p.m. in the Wright auditorium.

Founded in 1940 in Columbus, Ohio, by Herbert Huffman, who is director of the choir, the Columbus Boys Choir School is now located in Princeton, N.J., and during the summer at a camp provided by the Chautauque Institution, center of art and culture in western New York State. The school provides both musical and academic training.

and on tour the boys travel in their own "Schoolhouse on Wheels" bus. The concert choir has won international recognition and is generally conceded to be the finest organization of its kind in this country today. Gian-Carlo Menotti, distinguished composer, said of it: "I strongly feel that just as Austria is proud of its Vienna Boys Choir, and France of the Petits Chanteurs a la Croix de Bois, America should be proud of the Columbus Boys Choir, which is equally as good, if not better than any of these organizations."

The boys have sung in nearly a hundred coast-to-coast radio broadcasts and have been frequent guests on television. Tours have covered eastern Canada and the entire United States. In addition, the boys have sung at Town and Carnegie Halls in New York and the Philadelphia Academy of Music. Other appearances have included programs with leading symphony orchestras, including the NBC under the direction of Toscanini.

Guided Crashing Jet From City

CHICAGO (AP)—An Air Force pilot whose F86-D jet caught fire 24,000 feet over Chicago last night, prevented the flaming plane from crashing in the metropolitan area by guiding it to the open countryside.

The pilot, 1st Lt. Edward F. Schroeder, 25, of St. Louis, parachuted to safety on a farm about 10 miles west of O'Hare field, on the city's northwest side. He suffered minor bruises.

NEWSPRINT FROM SOUTHERN PINE—Aerial view shows the 1,800-acre site of Bowaters Southern Paper Corporation from which The Daily Reflector receives its supply of newsprint. The recently completed $60,000,000 pulp and paper mills are located on the Hiwassee River at Calhoun, Tenn. The giant plant is the third largest newsprint-from-pine mill in the South with an initial annual capacity of 130,000 tons of newsprint and 55,000 tons of kraft pulp.

Life Term From Phenix City Jury

PHENIX CITY, Ala. (AP)—A jury struck a blow at Phenix City's tottering empire of crime last night with a life sentence verdict against the first gambler brought to trial during the wholesale vice cleanup here.

Night club owner E. L. Cook, who readily admitted killing one man and wounding two others in a wild outburst of gunplay at his honkytonk four years ago, was convicted of first-degree murder.

Cook, denounced by state attorneys as a "czar of vice and crime," had gone unprosecuted until the crackdown on racketeering began 15 weeks ago.

A grand jury had refused to indict him shortly after the killing and he went free until the investigation was reopened by state authorities directing the current vice cleanup.

The 40-year-old Cook, whose notorious 601 Club on Phenix City's once roaring Dillingham Street featured unrestrained gambling 24 hours a day seven days a week, took the verdict quietly but his attractive brunette wife screamed, "Oh no!" and sobbed hysterically that "God will punish them for this."

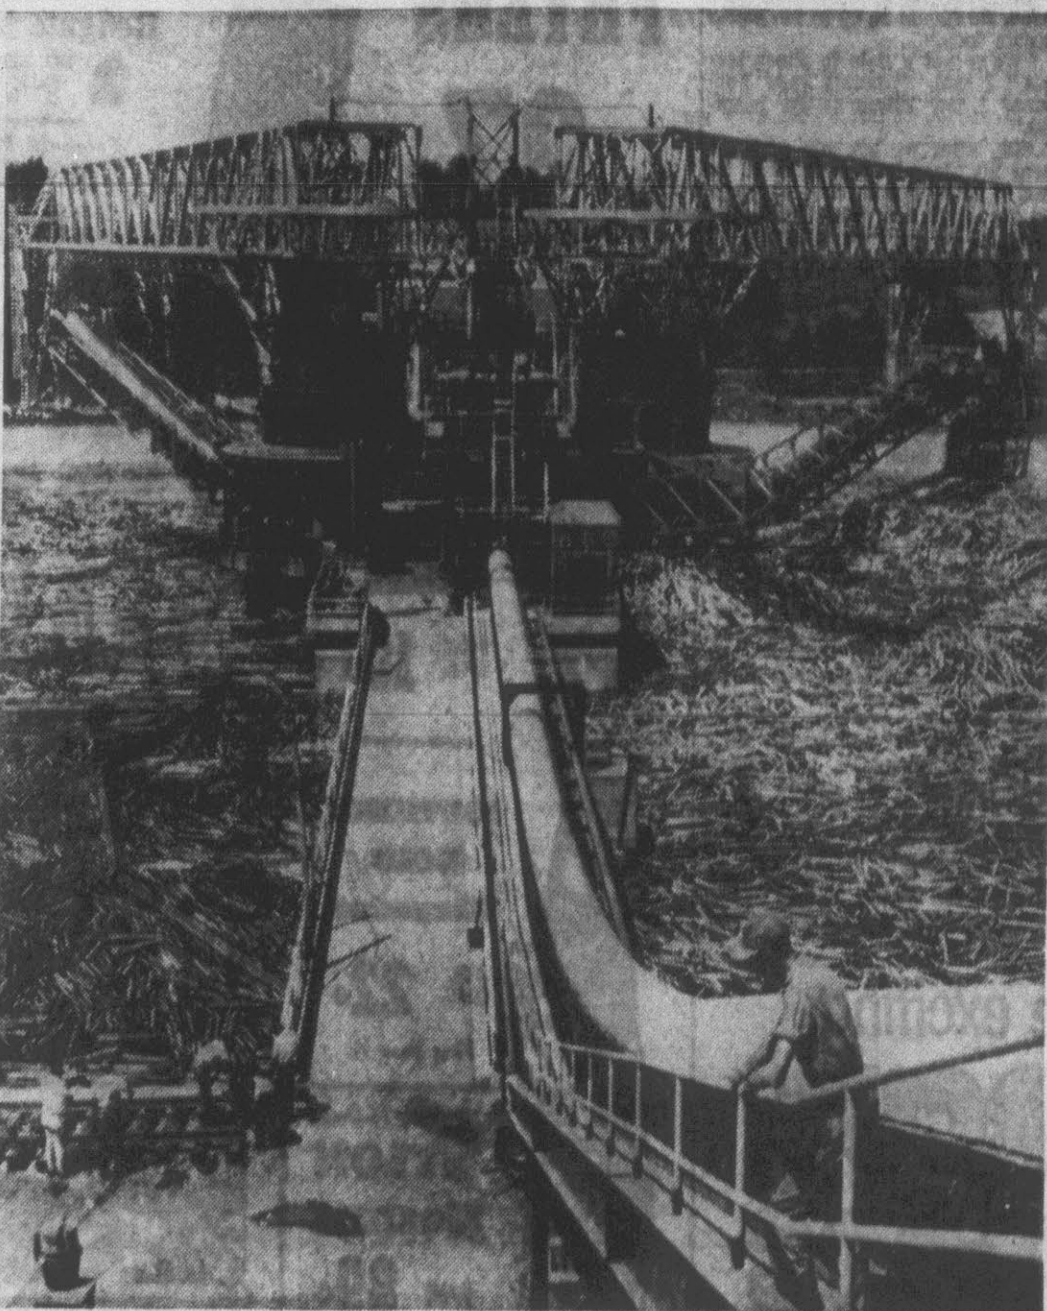

Roy Smith of Phenix City, one of the defendant's four attorneys, said he expected to file a motion for a new trial.

Cook, testifying in his own behalf yesterday, talked freely about killing taxicab driver John Mancil and critically wounding his uncle, William Calvert Rogers during an argument in the 601 Club Aug. 6, 1950.

Nevada Democrats Carry Election Dispute To Court

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Nevada Democrats carried to the State Supreme Court today their battle for an election in November to fill the two-year balance of the late Democratic Sen. Pat McCarran's term.

The high court arranged to hear an appeal on an injunction won yesterday by the GOP against putting senatorial candidates on the November ballot. The court indicated it would rule swiftly.

With the Republican majority in the Senate only three seats, the legal maneuvering has taken on added drama and injected fuel into an otherwise lusterless Nevada election campaign.

At stake is whether Republican Gov. Charles Russell's appointee to the Senate, Reno Republican Atty. Ernest Brown—an Eisenhower supporter—will fill out the term or whether an election will be held next month to decide the successor.

Lester Summerfield, former GOP national committeeman from Nevada, won the preliminary round of the great legal hassle yesterday when Dist. Judge A. J. Maesuretti granted a permanent injunction.

Only last week, the State Supreme Court rebuffed Summerfield's attempt to obtain a permanent injunction and sent him back to the lower courts first.

The Democrats are backed by ruling from State Atty. Gen. William Mathews—a Democrat—the Brown appointment is good only until the winner of a senatorial race is certified and takes office. That would be Jan. 3, 1955.

Summerfield maintains Nevada law provides that Brown stay in office for McCarran's full unexpired term.

Ambulance Siren To Be Silenced

NEW YORK (AP)—The hospitals commissioner has alerted the city's ambulance sirens effective Nov. 1 to cut down on noise and in the interest of safety.

Their wail is unnecessary, dangerous and "just spectacular stupidity," said Commissioner Basil C. MacLean.

However, police will continue to give ambulances right of way wherever possible, he said, and special red lights on the vehicles will continue in use to attract police attention.

Three HD Clubs Stage Meetings

Three Home Demonstration Clubs have met this week, two Tuesday and one Monday, with Mrs. Sue B. May and Mrs. Lillie Little giving the monthly demonstration on Handmade Articles for the Home.

Mrs. May, Home Demonstration agent, met with the Pactus club Tuesday in the club room at the school.

The group discussed the possibility of serving the Ruritan supper for the next meeting of that club, and also the possibility of hanging curtains at the school lunchroom windows. A committee composed of Mrs. Dwight Copeland and Mrs. Hassell Harris, club president, was appointed to investigate the latter.

Mrs. Paul Davenport gave a report on plans of the County Chorus for the coming year. Mrs. Davenport is county music chairman and also music chairman for the Pactus club.

The group was led in recreation by Mrs. Cecil Satterthwaite.

Miss Sidney Davenport served as hostess for the meeting.

Also meeting Tuesday was the Red Banks club, with Mrs. Little, assistant home agent, giving the demonstration.

Reports were given by Mrs. Hilda Hardee on mulching and fall bulb planting; Mrs. W.A. Cherry on clothing; and Mrs. S.B. Tucker on the rural health conference held in Raleigh last week.

The club selected Hawaii as the territory it will study this year. In September the County Council endorsed the recommendation that each club study a foreign country this year "to help promote world understanding."

Plans were made for the foods concession booth the club will have at the Pitt County Fair next week.

Mrs. H. B. Clay was welcomed as a new member.

Monday night Mrs. May attended the meeting of the Stokes club, which was held in the school lunchroom.

A home beautification report was given by Mrs. J.E. Congleton, who divided among the club members some poppy seeds she had saved from her yard.

Mrs. Lydia Barnhill, club secretary, gave a poultry report, and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. H. C. Cole.

Mrs. Wilmer Nelson served as hostess for the meeting. Mrs. Ed Hawkins, club vice president, presided.

Fire Precaution Urged Hunters

RALEIGH (AP)—Because of the dryness of forest land, squirrel hunters in 35 western counties where the squirrel season opened Oct. 1 have been asked to be careful with fires.

Clyde P. Patton, executive director of the State Wildlife Commission, said yesterday, "Unless the squirrel hunters exercise extreme caution it may become necessary to close the hunting season unless rains relieve the situation."

The squirrel season opens Oct. 15 in 45 eastern counties. On the same date, the general season opens on deer, bear and some other species.

Judgments For Several Cases In Superior Court

A number of cases were disposed of Tuesday in the criminal term of Pitt Superior Court being held here this week.

A jury found Joe Jr. Moore guilty of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, and Judge Malcolm Paul sentenced Moore to not less than three nor more than five years in prison. Judge Paul also recommended that Moore be given a physical and mental examination.

Mack Harris entered a plea of guilty of a charge of assault, and was sentenced to 30 days in jail suspended on payment of costs and the payment of $34 for the use and benefit of Dr. Thomas.

Gene Edwards entered a plea of guilty to charges of possession of non-tax paid liquor for the purpose of sale. He was sentenced to 12 months on the roads, suspended on condition he pay a fine of $250 and remain on probation for five years.

Charity Elizabeth Best entered a plea of not guilty to charges of possession of non-tax paid liquor for the purpose of sale, and was sentenced to 12 months, suspended on payment of a $250 fine and remain on probation for five years.

In two forgery cases heard by the court yesterday, the defendants were given suspended sentences. Jesse Williams entered a plea of guilty on two counts of forgery and was sentenced to two years in prison suspended upon the repayment of $44 to the Pitt County Welfare Department and placed on probation for five years. Sherman Williams entered a plea of guilty to three counts of forgery and was likewise sentenced to two years, suspended upon condition he repay the Pitt County Welfare Department $66 and be on probation for five years.

Mary Moore who was charged with fraud entered a plea of guilty to larceny at the close of state's evidence. The plea was accepted by the state, and the woman was sentenced to 60 days in jail, the sentence to begin at the expiration of the term which she is now serving.

In the case of A. J. Johnson, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, the court directed a verdict of not guilty at the close of state's evidence.

Also Tuesday Judge Paul signed a court order revoking the probation of June Suggs. The woman was sentenced to 18 months in the January term of court, suspended upon condition she pay a fine of $250 at the rate of $50 at each criminal term of court, until the entire amount of the fine was paid. Judge Paul signed the order revoking the woman's probation after finding she had paid only $20 of the fine imposed.

The case of William Earl Phillips, charged with trespass, was not pressed with leave.

He Preferred To Fall In A Pond

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP)—A rail buckled on the Southern Railway. A few hundred feet away John Becker with his wife, Rita, and children, John, 6, and Jackie, 3, stood beside a pond watching a train approach.

Suddenly Becker noticed one car was off the track raising a cloud of dust. He grabbed the children and he and his wife ran. In the excitement he fell into the pond, but the spot from which they ran was buried in twisted steel of wrecked railroad cars.

Metered Mixup Costs 2 Tickets

ENID, Okla. (AP)—A staff member of the Enid News and Eagle for months has been leaving his car at a parking meter and running out every hour to put in a nickel.

Then, one day when he got into his car to go home, he found two parking tickets.

He discovered he had been putting nickels in a meter next to his. A car identical to his was parked there.

Progress Brings Damage Claims

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—It's bad enough that the highway construction firm working near their farm is busy until all hours, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Fenton said in their damage suit against the company.

But the dust that has settled on their home furnishings, clothing, utensils, and even their meals, has produced "intolerable conditions." They asked $10,000.

UNSTUCK TRUCK

OKLAHOMA CITY, (AP)—When Tom Munday drove his truck out from under his huge transport trailer, he said he thought he had carefully checked the hitch to see the truck and trailer were hooked. But it took an old field truck with a lift more than an hour to put the trailer back on the tractor and unjam traffic on a downtown street.

Triple Menace To Republican Hopes In Michigan Elections

By DON WHITEHEAD
DETROIT (AP)—Unemployment in the automobile industry, fear of more job losses, and grumbling among dairy farmers form a triple menace today that is frightening to Michigan Republicans in the campaign for control of Congress.

One out of 10 workers is idle in Detroit. Automotive and defense plants, booming a year ago, have laid off workers. The pinch of unemployment has been felt in most of Michigan's industrial cities. The state's jobless total has been estimated as high as 300,000.

Michigan's Employment Security Commission says the peak of unemployment appears to be past and that indications are workers will flock back to the plants as new model production begins to roll.

But the politicians say any such improvement in employment is coming too late to help the Republicans at the polls in November. And, upstate, there is reported political ferment among the dairy farmers hit by the Eisenhower administration's cutback on price supports for dairy products.

The Democrats, led by Gov. G. Mennen (Booey) Williams and having strong organized labor support, are hammering hard on the theme that a Republican administration both statewide and nationally will mean more economic distress.

The Republicans' great hope is that Eisenhower's popularity will offset the dissatisfaction with the economic situation.

Patrick V. McNamara, the Democrats' U.S. Senate candidate, said in an interview:

"The No. 1 issue in the race is the upset of our economy under the Republicans. I've found that the businessmen upstate have been as hard hit generally as the working man. It's a sort of chain reaction."

Republicans counter with the argument that the economic lull was the result of shifting from a wartime to a peacetime economy.

Sen. Homer Ferguson, chairman of the GOP Senate Policy Committee and a candidate for re-election, said:

"The Democrats are making unemployment the sole issue. But I say the issue is peace or war. Of course, we could have jobs for everyone if we went to war with Russia. But that isn't the way to do it. We've got to be patient and work it out without a war."

The senator accused the Democrats of creating a "fear psychology" in the economic situation but he went on to say the Republicans themselves are partly to blame for the situation they find themselves in.

"The party isn't working as it should in this campaign," he said. "There's too much apathy. We don't have a crusade spirit in this fight and it's not being sparked by an issue that will get people excited. The Democrats are fighting hard to get back into office—and we've got to fight just as hard."

Present indications are it will be a hard fight all down the line with qualified observers leaning to this opinion:

U.S. Senate race—Ferguson by a thin margin over McNamara in a hard fight. Some say Ferguson couldn't have made the grade had the late former Sen. Blair Moody been the Democratic candidate.

Congressional races—The Democrats to pick up one and possibly two House seats. The Democrats are making their strongest bids to unseat Republicans in the 6th (East Lansing), 12th (Ironwood), 17th (Detroit) and 18th (Royal Oak) Districts—with their prospects perhaps brightest in the 17th. Republican chances to pick up a Democratic seat are reported best in the 14th (Grosse Pointe) District.

But the real heat is being generated in the Republican campaign against Gov. Williams who is seeking an unprecedented fourth two-year term as chief executive. Williams is young, handsome and popular and he was the only Democrat in 1952 to survive the statewide contests when Eisenhower carried the state by 320,000 votes. Williams won by 8,618 votes.

A good many Republicans say if they can beat Williams then they can pull down the other Democratic candidates with him. Their hopes are pinned on Donald S. Leonard, 51, former state and Detroit police commissioner, who appears to be the strongest candidate the Republicans have put into the gubernatorial race in six years.

The nonpartisan feeling at this stage seems to be that Williams is a good bet to win a fourth term.

One potent factor is that Williams and the Democrats have the support of the CIO and the AFL. Ferguson said with some bitterness in his interview: "My opposition is solely labor. They control the Democratic party in Michigan—and they give us no breaks." Ferguson does have support from the AFL Teamsters Union.

Alliance Strained By Greek Stand For Cyprus Isle

By FRED ZUSY

ISTANBUL (AP)—Greek demands for Cyprus are straining the new ties linking Greece with Turkey and Yugoslavia in a 20-year military pact.

Turkish officials, vitally interested in Britain's strategic crown colony in the eastern Mediterranean, hint that continued Greek pressure before the United Nations will poison Greek-Turkish friendship and make military cooperation impossible.

Turkish public opinion strongly opposes the Greek demand. Cyprus is in headlines day after day. Newspapers urge the Ankara government to join actively in the fight. Turkey's public policy thus far has been one of restraint.

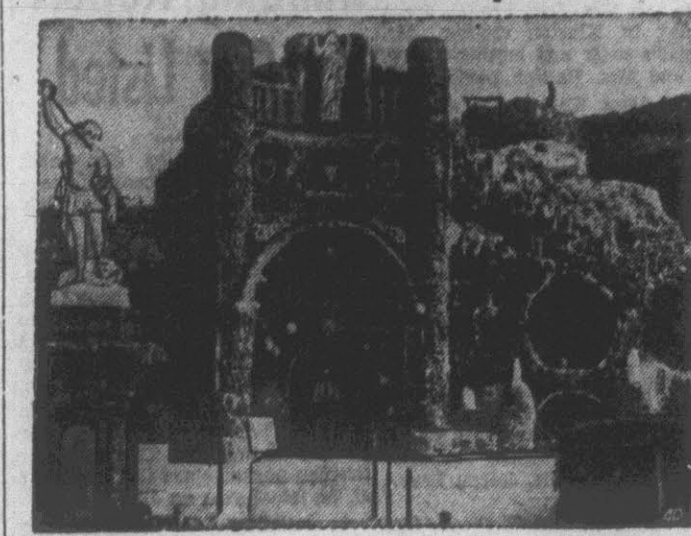

A change in this policy may have been heralded by the Ankara newspaper Zafer which often reflects the views of Prime Minister Adnan Menderes. It said Greek success in getting the Cyprus question on the United Nations agenda "makes it imperative for Turkey to take an active part in the quarrel." Turkey cannot possibly accept any decision changing the island's status. Greece must be brought to its sense.

Cyprus was under Turkish rule for more than 300 years until the Ottoman Empire, in 1878, ceded the island to Britain in return for a British pledge to help fight any Russian aggression against Asia Minor. Cyprus is 500 miles from the Greek mainland but only 40 miles off Turkey's southern coast. About four fifths of the island's 500,000 people are of Greek descent, the remainder of Turkish extraction.

The British, building up the 125-mile long island as a military base to replace Suez, say they will not consider moving out and will boycott any U.N. debate on the subject.

Rice supplies the major food requirements for more than one-half of the world's population.

Layman Plans To Finish Grotto Of Redemption

FAMED GROTTTO which will be finished by a layman.

AP Newsfeatures WEST BEND, Iowa—the job of finishing the world-famed Grotto of the Redemption that the Rev. P.M. Dobberstein started near St. Peter and Paul Church here 42 years ago falls to his long-time parishioner and helper, Mathew Szerence.

Father Dobberstein, 81, a Roman Catholic priest, died last summer. Szerence, 56, the priest's helper since the first stone was laid in 1912 knows more than anyone else about the millions of pieces of material from all parts of the world that have gone into the grotto. He helped Father Dobberstein sort out the pieces and build it into an amazing layout of gateways and pathways to scenes of religious significance.

The priest, apparently with a premonition of his death, asked Szerence to finish the grotto. Szerence will not guess when it can be finished.

"We need petrified wood, white quartz and flint rock," he said. "Those are costly items." Contributions from parishioners and visitors provide revenue for materials in the grotto.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Dist. Atty. Richardson Dilworth says he will order the arrest of Bryant Bowles, head of the National Assn. for the Advancement of White People, if Bowles tries to sponsor anti-integration meetings here.

Dilworth said yesterday that he had seen and heard Bowles claim on television that "he was coming here to do the same job he claims to have done in Milford Del., Baltimore and Washington."

"I think Mr. Bowles should be notified right now that if he pursues the tactics in Philadelphia that he attempted in those other cities, I shall promptly issue an order for his arrest for inciting to riot . . . He will be given no opportunity to foul up racial relations in our city."

Bowles said on Tuesday that he was planning to hold a NAAWP organizational meeting here. He was in the city briefly and left without announcing further plans.

THAILAND AID BANGKOK (AP)—The Thai government will give direct economic aid to the Indochina states of Laos and Cambodia "in order to build up the fence for Thailand against communism," authoritative sources disclosed today.

Former Head Of Communists Is Now Indicted

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Dr. Albert Emanuel Blumberg, former executive director of the Communist party in the United States, has been indicted on a charge of conspiring to teach and advocate overthrow of the government by force and violence.

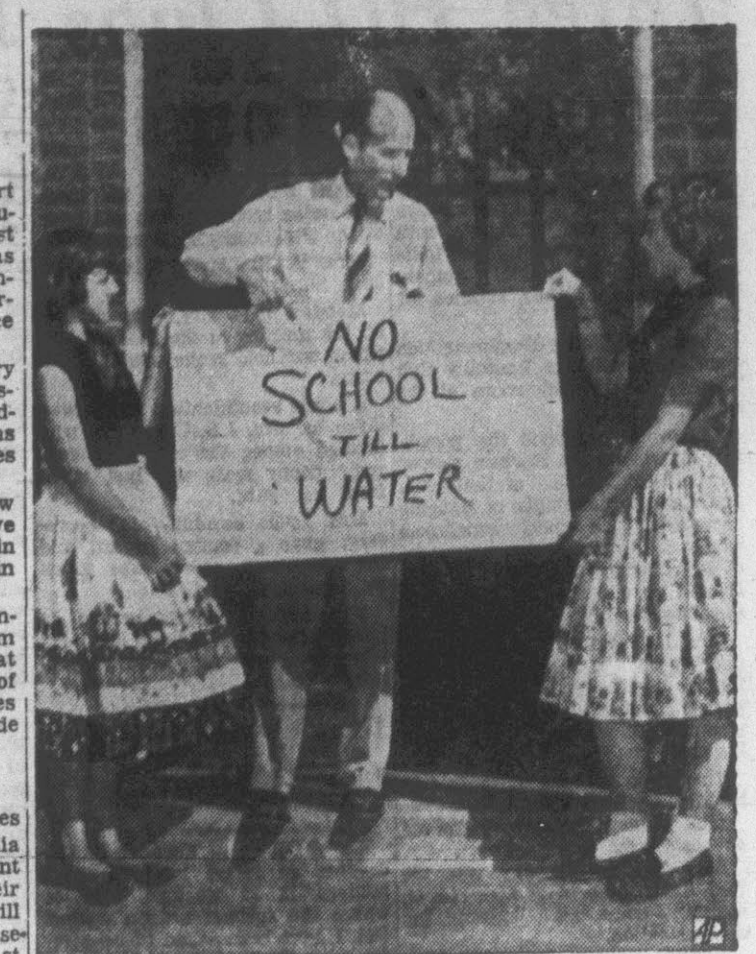

The special federal grand jury which returned the indictment yesterday said that Blumberg allegedly sought to achieve those aims "as speedily as circumstances would permit."

Blumberg, picked up in New York last week, is alleged to have pursued some of his activities in this region. He is being held in $40,000 bail.

His wife, Dorothy Rose Blumberg, is serving a three-year term in the Women's Reformatory at Alderson, W. Va., for violation of the Smith Act. The charges against Blumberg also were made under the Smith Act.

SEE RATIFICATION

MANILA (AP)—The representatives of Britain, France and Australia advised Philippine Vice President Carlos P. Garcia today that their governments "in all likelihood will ratify the Southeast Asia Defense Treaty signed at Manila last month, a Foreign Office spokesman said."
