Action Deferred On Parking Lot

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector Staff Writer A proposed parking lot at the corner of Washington and Fifth Streets came in for a long discussion at last night's city council meeting which finally ended with action being deferred until October 15.

The deferral came after a phone call to the traffic engineer, who is currently making a survey of parking in Greenville, indicated that he would not be able to come to Greenville to complete the survey before the seven days which the council had to agree to the proposed lease of the property had expired.

A second call was made to the property owners who agreed to extend the time limit to October 16.

The council was told by the traffic expert W.F. Babcock, that he would try to send one of his assistants to Greenville by Tuesday to continue the survey. He also agreed to send a written report to the city on the parking situation as soon as possible.

Questioned Report Charles White, chairman of the off-street parking committee, told the council last night that the traffic engineer had recommended off-street parking. Councilman Wesley Harvey replied that to the best of his knowledge Babcock had stated in his report that no off-street parking was needed.

White noted the engineer had told him and City Manager James S. Hughes verbally that if the city could obtain the property across the street from the Municipal Building for a parking lot it should do so.

White strongly urged the council to accept the lot on a five-year lease from the owners. Under terms of the lease the city would pay $250 per month for the first three years and $350 per month for the last two years of the contract. The city would receive the lot without the two houses which now stand on the property but the actual cost of paving and installing meters on the lots would be borne by the city.

The off-street parking chairman said the rental fee for the property is not too high. He stated that the owners of the lots would have an investment of about $30,000 and their return on their investment would be approximately 11.3 per cent each year which, he thought a fair return.

Ideal Location "It is the ideal location for all of Greenville," he declared. "There is no other spot in all of Greenville which will serve the city as that one would."

It was then that Harvey questioned whether the traffic engineer had recommended off-street parking. White said that he had told him verbally the city should get the lot if it were available.

"He did say if that property could be acquired the city should go ahead and buy it," City Manager Hughes agreed.

Survey Not Needed? "I haven't thought all the time that we needed a man to come in here and tell us where to put parking lots," Councilman J.A. Collins stated. "Everybody in Greenville knows we need parking lots. I think we ought to acquire a lot if we can get it."

Collins said that he thought the price of the lot was "a little high." Mayor Wheelbee said he believed there is some responsibility on the part of the city to provide off-street parking. He stated he was inclined to believe that it was a joint responsibility of the city and businessmen.

Councilman Gene West suggested several smaller lots in various spots about town.

"The people right next to this lot—which we can't help, we have no personal preference or prejudice—they are naturally going to benefit a little more than the people at Proctor Hotel or on Dickinson Avenue," West stated.

He suggested that perhaps one of the two lots at the corner of Washington and Fourth Streets would do the job if several other lots were obtained.

"That's not discounting this lot," he declared. "I still think it's the best lot in Greenville." The councilman said that was just another line of thought on the subject.

"I don't know whether I would want to make a decision right now," he concluded. Small Lot While emphasized at that point that the proposed lot was a small lot. He said it was chosen because it could be expanded in the future if need be.

"It is the ideal location," he continued. "There is no question about that."

The committee chairman stated that other lots in other sections could be obtained if needed.

"This is the beginning and I can't conceive of a more beautiful beginning," he declared.

It was then that calls were placed to the traffic engineer and to the lot owners. The council approved a motion to defer action on the parking lot until October 15.

Sub-Division Request Attorney J.H. Harrell appeared before the council with a request for approval of an additional portion of the Coghill Subdivision for inclusion within the city limits.

"If this can be taken in, in the early part of November the sewer and water lines can be put in as one unit," the attorney declared.

Wheelbee set a special meet of the council for 8 o'clock on the night of November 8 to allow the necessary 30 days following advertisement of the proposal to take the area in the city limits.

Rescue Truck James W. Boykin, representing the Junior Chamber of Commerce, requested the council's assurance that the city would maintain and operate a rescue truck if the Jaycees raised the money and placed the truck in the main fire station.

Boykin said the local club is putting on a project to raise $500 for the emergency truck and equipment for removing persons who are pinned in wrecked vehicles and other emergency work. He stated the Jaycees want to know if the city would man and maintain the truck to be used all over the county for rescue calls.

The council agreed to the proposal. To Operate Fair Bus The council granted Ed Fleming, local Negro Bus operator, permission to operate buses to the fair grounds during the Pitt County Fair next week provided his equipment is checked by the chief of police and the routes and bus stops are suitable to the chief. It was also stipulated that the city attorney should inspect his insurance to see that the buses are properly covered.

City Manager Hughes reported that Kern Church of the State Insurance Office had advised him that a request for a permit to repair a partially burned residence in the fire district would be approved.

Kern stated that since the area is on the outskirts of the business area, it would be in the best interest of the city to permit residences to be repaired rather than remove the area from the fire district. Hughes said the request for removal of the area on Pamlico Street from the first district had been withdrawn for that reason.

Turn Down Insurance Company The council turned down a request by Colonial Insurance Company that it be allowed to write accident insurance for city employees on a voluntary basis. Under the company plan the premiums for the insurance would be withheld from paychecks by the city.

Action on changing workmen's compensation from self-insurance to insurance carrier was deferred until the next council meeting.

Wheelbee appointed a committee of three to study the city's policy on sale of cemetery lots. J.A. Collins was appointed chairman of the committee and Councilman Harvey and City Manager Hughes were appointed as the other two members.

Hughes presented cemetery lot costs from a number of North Carolina towns to the council for study. It was also voted to widen Pitt Street from Fifth Street to Dickinson Avenue provided money for the project is available.

Hughes told the council that the project would cost the city approximately $4300 to widen both sides of the street.

Taxicabs Liability Insurance Hughes reported that taxi companies had agreed to pay for liability insurance.

Briton Lauds U.S. Financial Policies

BLACKPOOL, England (AP)—Chancellor of the Exchequer Richard A. Butler praised the Eisenhower administration today for financial policies he said kept the world-wide sterling area from suffering when American production slipped.

He reminded the annual Conservative party conference here that he had warned Parliament earlier this year that in the event of a U.S. recession, he would have to take a gloomy view of British financial affairs.

Britain's economic boss said that as a result of the Eisenhower administration's policies, the sterling area had not suffered from the 9 per cent fall in American production.

"When we criticize American policy... it is as well to acknowledge that the working families of this country have profited by the wise foresight to the administration on the other side of the Atlantic," he declared.

Butler recently returned from the annual Washington meeting of the World Bank and International Monetary Fund. He said he found there a complete "understanding of conditions that must precede the freeing of the pound sterling."

The sterling area includes the British Commonwealth, except Canada, and a few other countries which have their currencies pegged to the British pound. These currencies are tightly controlled and are not freely interchangeable with moneys of nations outside the sterling area.

The chancellor gave a glowing account of Britain's improved financial position but said, "There is a good deal still to be done."

Kyodo said 113 passengers, including 12 Americans, still are missing, along with 18 members of the crew. The ferry went down in a typhoon Sept. 26. The Army has identified 42 U.S. military personnel who perished.

Fire Threatened Two Bethel Homes BETHEL—The Bethel fire department answered two calls yesterday, and extinguished blazes which threatened to destroy two houses.

Yesterday morning the department was called to the home of Hattie Green, Negro, where a blaze, apparently caused by sparks, was discovered on the roof of the back portion of the house. The fire did considerable damage to the dwelling before firemen could extinguish the blaze.

Last night the department was called to put out a fire in a tenant house on the L. J. Whitehurst farm about one mile from Bethel. Assistant Fire Chief Franklin Whitehurst said the fire is believed to have been caused by faulty wiring.

CALL FOR STATEMENTS WASHINGTON (AP)—The comptroller of the currency today issued a call for a statement of the condition of all national banks at the close of business Thursday, Oct. 7.

Manager Kenneth D. Nichols confirmed that the commission has approved the form of the proposed Dixon-Yates contract. But Nichols said AEC has neither signed the contract nor made any binding commitment to Dixon-Yates.

The letter also confirmed that AEC has asked the atomic committee to permit the contract to go into effect quickly.

Langer and Kefauver were just resuming their hearings on the matter when Nichols' letter arrived. Kefauver dictated into the hearing record a statement that AEC had "completely ignored" two resolutions from himself and Langer urging the commission to hold up approval of the contract. He said this showed a lack of "proper respect" for the subcommittee.

"It indicates to me that there is an effort at secrecy... and great anxiety to have this contract consummated before Congress convenes" January, he said.

GOP Pins Hopes On Hard-Hitting Eisenhower Political Talk President Set For Big Vote Plea

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower, pictured in a fighting mood in a tough battle, makes a "straight from the shoulder" nationwide television-radio appeal to American voters tonight to keep Republicans in the congressional drivers' seat.

The party's high command, privately concerned about the outcome of the November elections, is hoping the President's speech will—as Vice President Nixon puts it—"provide a tremendous shot in the arm" toward a GOP victory.

The Denver White House is billing the address as "the greatest single effort" of the campaign to keep the Democrats from recapturing control of Congress for the next two years.

Toward achievement of that goal the Republican National Committee is footing the bill for putting Eisenhower's address on 158 TV channels and 534 radio stations from coast to coast.

The speech will be carried live over an augmented CBS-TV network and over the NBC and Mutual radio networks at 9:30 p.m.

Other TV and radio networks will play back recorded versions at various times later in the evening.

The White House says the TV live coverage is the most extensive for any political speech in history.

Eisenhower and Nixon will speak from the stage of Denver's 6,000-seat Municipal Auditorium at a big political rally arranged by the Colorado GOP organization.

Murray Snyder, assistant White House press secretary said that some 2,150,000 party workers and recruits will be tuned in to the address at about 26,500 "Precinct Workers Day" rallies all around the country.

"The President's address will be his hardest hitting of the campaign and straight from the shoulder," said Snyder.

He said it will be patterned after Eisenhower's Sept. 23 Hollywood Bowl speech in Los Angeles, which has drawn enthusiastic praise from Republican leaders. In that talk the President slugged hard for the first time in the campaign, saying a Democratic victory in November would lead to "stagnation" in government and a political "field day" in Washington.

On stage with the President and Nixon at the auditorium here tonight will be a group of Republican congressional leaders traveling to Denver to point up one theme of the Eisenhower speech—that the chief executive is counting on a GOP-run 84th Congress to carry out his idea of partnership between the White House and the legislative branch.

Before the address, the GOP leaders will meet with the President for a general review of the political situation and a discussion of international problems.

After the address, Eisenhower will be host to the congressional leaders at a dinner.

After a conference with Eisenhower here yesterday, Nixon announced the President has agreed to step up his personal campaign to the extent of making at least one more major address than he had planned.

That address will be some time between Oct. 22 and election day, Nov. 2 at a place—probably in the Washington area—yet to be chosen. The only other Eisenhower political speech now planned is scheduled for election eve, Nov. 1.

Adlai Belittles GOP Promises, Foolish Boasts

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Adlai Stevenson labeled the Republican campaign a 1952 model last night and charged the Eisenhower administration with "foolish boasts and broken promises."

"Vice President Nixon, the Republican chief of staff, has pitched the Republican campaign on the high level of communism corruption, controls and Korea," he said, adding, "But that's a 1952 model."

Stevenson told an estimated 4,500 persons at a Kansas Democratic rally there is a revolt against "the family quarrels and hopeless divisions of the Republicans, and against policies which consistently favor the few at the expense of many."

"A reborn progressive Democratic party is firmly established in rock-ribbed Republican Maine," the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee declared.

He said he found in Kansas "as in Maine... a ground swell of dismay and revolt against the foolish boasts and broken promises" of the Eisenhower administration.

Even the normally huge Republican majorities in the congressional races have been whittled down to a size which should be quite manageable by us Democrats—come 1956," he said.

He charged that there is a "paralysis of American influence in foreign affairs, due to the contradictions and divisions within the Republican party."

Describing the McCarthy hearings as "that sordid exhibition," he said the Republicans have displayed efforts "to appease Sen. McCarthy—to have it both ways—to use and to abuse McCarthy at the same time."

Turning to agriculture, Stevenson charged the Soil Conservation Service "is being dismantled by reorganization and even the top jobs have been removed from the career civil service and turned over to Republican political patronage."

Five Charged In Shakedown Deals CHICAGO (AP)—Five men, including four AFL union agents, have been charged with conspiracy to violate federal antitrust laws by shaking down poultry dealers in Chicago busy Fulton Street Market.

They are accused of collecting about $150,000 from nine dealers since 1944 by threatening strikes and violence.

Service Award To Be Given Pitt County's Farm Agent

Sam Winchester, Pitt County farm agent for the past eight years, has been chosen to receive a Distinguished Service Award at the National Association of County Agricultural Agents' convention next week.

Winchester was nominated by a committee for the award as the outstanding county agent in the 17 county Northeastern district. The distinguished service award will be presented to the county agent at a banquet next Thursday evening during the Salt Lake City convention.

Approximately 100 similar presentations will be made to outstanding county agents from all over the nation. Five such awards will be presented to North Carolinians.

The county agent left for Salt Lake City Wednesday. The five-day convention begins on Monday and will be concluded on Friday. Winchester graduated from North Carolina State College in 1933. Following graduation he served as assistant county agent in Johnson County from 1935 to 1940. He then took a position with the Farm Security Administration and was assigned to Guilford County. In December 1941 he resigned that position to come to Pitt County as assistant county agent.

Winchester remained with the Pitt County farm agent's office until March 1945 when he became county agent of Jones County. He remained there for one year, when upon the resignation of this county's farm agent, Winchester was appointed Pitt County farm agent. He has remained in that position until the present time.

Winchester is married and has three children. He is originally from Guilford County and presently makes his home just outside Greenville on the Farmville Highway.

Agents In Graham County Following Eure Charges SBI Probing Ballot Sales

ROBBINSVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Agents of the State Bureau of Investigation were in Graham County today investigating a report by Secretary of State Inad Eure that Democrats were buying absentee ballots there.

County Democrats denied yesterday that there was any ballot buying going on. Glenn Swayser, Democratic chairman of the county board of elections, denied the Democrats had bought any votes.

Eure told newsmen in Gastonia Wednesday that ballots were being sold for as high as $85 each.

Atty.-Gen. Harry McMullan ordered the SBI into the case after reading Eure's statements. Thad D. Bryson Jr. of Bryson City, the district solicitor, said in a letter he was "disturbed by the disclosure," promising to make a personal check.

A section of the General Statutes states: "It shall be the duty of the attorney general, the solicitors of the several judicial districts and all prosecuting attorneys of courts inferior to the Superior Court, to make a diligent inquiry and investigation with respect to any violations" of the state's election laws.

State law makes it a felony for any person to sell or buy a vote. Graham County Republicans who called a meeting last night to discuss the situation, did not release any statement because of the illness of GOP Chairman Arthur Ford. The Republicans said they will draw up a statement and let Ford issue it.

Wayne Jenkins, a Democrat, and Tillman Stewart, a Republican, other members of the county's election board, made no statement.

Up to closing time yesterday, the election board had delivered 342 absentee ballots to civilian voters and 84 members of the armed forces, Swayser reported.

Robbinsville attorney Jack Morpew, a former member of the state legislature, said that in 1933 the legislature passed an act which said in part "after a vote has been cast, the voter shall not be allowed to vote again" on election day. He said Swain, Rutherford, Jackson and Graham counties were included.

The Farmville Fire Department rural truck was called to the blazing building but the fire was out of control when the fire fighters arrived. George Allen, office manager for the Davis heirs, owners of the farm, said today that two tractors a disc harrow, a grain drill and a lime distributor along with other farm machinery were lost in the blaze. In addition four or five thousand and tobacco sticks were burned.

The fire was discovered sometime after midnight and the tobacco loss was partially covered by packhouse insurance.

Will Harris, Negro, is the tenant on the farm.

Allen reported that a second barn was lost about 75 yards away when it was struck by lightning about three months ago.

The origin of last night's fire was unknown.

Dual Senate Inquiries Confront Dixon-Yates Contract Proposal

By G. MILTON KELLY WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's plan to send electric power from a private plant over Tennessee Valley Authority public power lines led today into dual Senate inquiries which may result in a lawsuit.

The Atomic Energy Commission confirmed yesterday it has approved the form of the Dixon-Yates contract to put the controversial plan into operation.

Angry protest came from Senators Langer (R-ND) and Kefauver (D-Tenn.), who disclosed plans to step up their investigation of the project as members of the Senate Antimonopoly subcommittee.

Langer and Kefauver said they will resume their now-recessed inquiry Oct. 18, five days after the tentatively scheduled start of another review of the proposal next Wednesday by the Senate House

Atomic Energy Committee. Langer and Kefauver said the AEC had not shown "proper respect" for their inquiry.

Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), who will preside at the atomic committee's hearings is due back today from a trip to South America. He may confirm or change the tentative hearing date.

Eisenhower's proposal has been buffeted in public vs. private power debates in and out of Congress for months. He directed AEC to negotiate a contract with two privately owned power companies headed by Edgar H. Dixon and E. A. Yates.

The plan calls for the Dixon-Yates group to build a 107-million-dollar steam generating plant at West Memphis, Ark., to deliver electricity to the TVA, to replace current which TVA delivers to AEC plants.

In a letter to Langer, the subcommittee chairman, AEC General

Manager Kenneth D. Nichols confirmed that the commission has approved the form of the proposed Dixon-Yates contract. But Nichols said AEC has neither signed the contract nor made any binding commitment to Dixon-Yates.

The letter also confirmed that AEC has asked the atomic committee to permit the contract to go into effect quickly.

Langer and Kefauver were just resuming their hearings on the matter when Nichols' letter arrived. Kefauver dictated into the hearing record a statement that AEC had "completely ignored" two resolutions from himself and Langer urging the commission to hold up approval of the contract. He said this showed a lack of "proper respect" for the subcommittee.

"It indicates to me that there is an effort at secrecy... and great anxiety to have this contract consummated before Congress convenes" January, he said.

Increased Education Described As Greatest Need Of Southland

By LATHAN MIMS ASHEVILLE (AP)—A Mississippi educator declared today that the South, despite recent giant industrial strides, still has the nation's "lowest educational level and the lowest per capita income."

The assertion, by Dr. John D. Williams, chancellor of the University of Mississippi, came as the National Conference of Editorial Writers began a two-day study of Southern problems.

Dr. Williams said in a prepared address, "Increased education of our people is the only certain way of increasing our ability to produce goods and services and thus per capita income and the level of living."

He sketched the South's economic history noting that the region now faces three big hurdles in improving its economic lot. They are, he said, a late start in the nation's economic progress a lack of management and technical "know-how" and a shortage of industrial research.

The region's educational load is growing to such an extent, Dr. Williams said, that by 1970 there will be nearly twice as many students on Southern College campuses as there are today.

To provide for these students, he said, "The South needs desperately at least one great research and graduate training center—a Harvard, an MIT, or a Yale, this is not to minimize the extremely commendable graduate and research programs in our Southern universities, for they have accomplished miracles with what they have, but the overall size of the effort and the financing behind it are simply pitiful."

The most encouraging development in the field of financing higher education, Dr. Williams declared, has been the Southern Regional Education Compact under which 14 states pooled their resources to develop centers of learning. But, he added, "only financial support of sacrificial proportions will make it possible for the South to hold its own, much less decrease appreciably its educational and industrial lag behind the rest of the nation."

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
October 8, 1924

An unusually important meeting of the members and congregation of St. Paul's Parish was held in the church Wednesday evening. Devotional exercises were led by the Rev. James E. W. Cook, after which Mr. W. A. Bowen, on behalf of the vestry, made the announcement that they had decided to erect a new church on the south side of the present place of worship and as soon as possible thereafter, remodel the present church for a parish house, or take it down and build a parish house on the same site. The congregation of St. Paul's Church has been growing steadily during the past year under the leadership of the Rector and the whole community will approve of their purpose to erect a larger and better equipped building and are more worthy of expanding needs of our city.

Mrs. Spilman Reviews Play Before Joint Meeting Of Clubs

Mesdames J. B. Spilman and L. C. Skinner were joint hostesses at a luncheon meeting for their two book clubs "The End of The Century" and Sans Souci respectively, at the home of Mrs. Skinner on Fifth street, Tuesday October the fifth.

The members were greeted at the door by the hostesses and a short period was devoted to greeting each other and lively conversation. Then separating they repaired to the living and music rooms, where they held short business sessions and passed their new books, after which they were invited into the dining room. There they were served a most delectable salad plate by Mesdames J. L. Fleming and R. M. Garrett from a beautifully appointed table, centered with a striking arrangement of fall flowers.

Mrs. J. T. Chestnut poured coffee from a side table. The guests were seated throughout the house during the meal, which was followed by dessert of coconut cake and coffee.

Mrs. Spilman having the program for the afternoon was introduced by Mrs. W. L. Hall of the Sans Souci Club with a few fitting remarks.

Having seen the recent play "Teahouse of the August Moon" in New York Mrs. Spilman had chosen to review it as her program. Since she had seen it she could review it with greater realism and insight into its various scenes of humor and sometimes words of real wisdom.

"Teahouse of the August Moon" is the story of how our army of occupation brought happiness and prosperity to the primitive peoples of Okinawa, and although their methods may have been questionable, they were certainly original, humorous and human.

Mrs. Spilman is especially good at book reviewing, having the knack of condensing until only the most interesting parts of a book or play remain, thus making her programs short and snappy, what otherwise they could easily be tiresome.

The two clubs meeting together was an unusual but very happy occasion.

Mrs. Manning Is Hostess To Club

BETHEL—On Tuesday at 7:44 Mrs. B. F. Manning, Jr. was hostess to one table of her bridge club. The home was lovely with vases of scarlet sage and mums.

Those who attended were Mesdames Van Taylor, Jr., James Crandell, Don Carson, Jr., and Roscoe Everett.

When the tallies were added, high score prize went to Mrs. Carson.

'Books and Stuff'

By Dr. Ed Hirschberg

The international situation being what it is, we were interested to learn that a conflict is being waged over in England not only about NATO and related troubles, but about The Novel, no less, and whether it still has a valid function in modern life. Its defender in a series of articles in The London Observer had this to say, which we think is worth repeating, for those who are beginning to wonder whether novels are worth reading these days — written by Philip Toynbee:

"The great novels have 'described the suffering and joy, defeats and triumphs, of individuals against a world which seems to be perpetually agonized by death pangs or the pangs of labor.' As long as the individuals in the novels can survive, so can we, so we'll just keep on reading them, thanks."

Speaking of novels, we're in the middle of John Steinbeck's latest, "Sweet Thursday," issued last Spring. Really Steinbeck at his best — back in California after the war, but funnier and less grim than he was in "Tortilla Flat".

And speaking of novelists, we've heard from the Literary Guild that their selection for December is going to be "Mr. Maugham Himself," a 704 page collection of Somerset Maugham's works, representing, say the Literary Guild people, "a kind of composite autobiography, since Mr. Maugham has not yet written one himself." Included in the new anthology will be "Of Human Bondage," "The Summing Up," "Some Novelists I Have Known," "Mr. Harringtons Washing," and "El Greco, among others, and some parts of "A Writers Notebook".

And not exactly an anthology about writers, but a sort of handbook, apparently, "The Literary Situation," scheduled for publication by Viking later this month. It deals, according to the author, with Americans, "as professional writers and unprofessional readers." Here are some of the things Cowley, who is a critic, lecturer and teacher, has to say about the typical writer — that is, the man who makes his living professionally by writing:

He probably lives near New York, has a wife and one, two or three children, a house with a big mortgage, and has an average income per year of from six to eight thousand dollars — which is less than we had thought writers made — still, you never know. . . . The typical writer's marriage usually is a "closer partnership" than the average, because "writers have more sympathy for the women's point of view" and have "more of the feminine in their natures." And the principal diversion of most writers is "drinking together. . . . Not all writers drink more than they should, but a great many of them do. . . . Non-drinkers are regarded as a little eccentric." That's the typical writer for you — and now do you still think you want to be one?

Not to run writers into the ground, we would like to mention that the Creative Writing Club over at the College has been reorganized for this year and already has had two meetings, one for a very successful dinner and program last Monday night out at the Red Oak Church. We'll keep you posted on future meetings and activities — anyone at all who is interested in writing is cordially urged to join the Club. . . .

Getting around to recent books, a new one has just come out on a very controversial military man, called "MacArthur—1941-51," by Major General Charles A. Willoughby and John Chamberlain. Hanson Baldwin, military editor of the New York Times, calls it a "headquarters story," and comments rather tartly on the obvious bias toward MacArthur that the authors display. . . . A nice tidbit — 441 pages — for the MacArthur fans, whoever they may be. . . .

And for poetry lovers, "The Collected Poems of Wallace Stevens," Stevens has been writing outstanding poetry for nearly forty years, and this edition was published to coincide with his seventy-fifth birthday. To us, the extraordinary thing about Mr. Stevens has always been that, in addition to being a first-rate poet, he is vice-president of the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn., and an extremely successful business man, something not ordinarily associated with the writing of poetry. . . . But you never know — till you try. . . .

On the local scene: The first presentation of the Teachers Playhouse at the College, "The Male Animal," a hilarious comedy by James Thurber which has been wowing New York audiences for years. It will be given tonight in Raleigh as the first of the N.C. State entertainment series, and comes to the College Theatre next week on Wednesday and Thursday, October 13 and 14. Curtain time: 8:15 P. M. Don't miss it — for the laughs. . . .

Today's reviewer is Dr. H. Kelley Crockett, a new member of the English Department at East Carolina, and we think he has done an excellent job on the latest Literary Guild selection, which was published a few weeks ago. . . .

LOVE IS ETERNAL

By Irving Stone

The words which form the title of Irving Stone's new novel, and current Literary Guild selection, were those which Abraham Lincoln inscribed inside the wedding ring he gave to Mary Todd. Mr. Stone has set himself the task, in this fictional biography of the much maligned Mary Todd Lincoln, of defending Mary's memory. The reader must accord to him at least a certain measure of success. . . .

Actually, Love Is Eternal is superior to the usual fare of historical novels which vie with detective and science fiction for popular favor on drug-store racks today. It is worth reading if for no other reason than to refresh one's memory on details of a turbulent period of American history. Too, priceless anecdotes of Lincoln's great spiritual kindness and wit are generously scattered throughout the work. . . .

But Mr. Stone, in his attempt to glorify Mary, has fallen considerably short of his aim. This reader strongly doubts whether Mary, were she able to read the book, would recognize herself. The real Mary, according to the most reliable sources, was a strong-willed, arrogant woman with a violent temper before which her family and many others about her trembled. The author introduces episodes which illustrate these traits, but hurriedly passes over them to dwell with maudlin sentimentality upon her suffering and hardships. Not to even be able to minimize her behavior in Washington; which violated every tenet of a lady in the aristocratic southern tradition. . . .

We are asked to consider Lincoln's law-partner, William H. Herndon, as the villain who first painted Mary in the black colors her contemporaries and posterity came to accept. We are not, however, shown with sufficient clarity that Mary herself was responsible for the hatred of Herndon. When he was but a youth studying law in her husband's office she conceived a strong, unwarranted dislike for him, and never afterward passed by an opportunity to censure or snub him. . . .

Nevertheless, Mary deserves to be defended against many of the old slanders. That her husband sincerely loved her, we have no longer any reason to doubt. It is very likely that, without her driving ambition, he might never have reached the White House. She was the first to see the rare qualities in this gangling, uncouth, backwoodsman and married him in the face of opposition from nearly all her family and friends. And though she was far too often a trial to Lincoln, she had the virtues of an unwavering faith in him, a loyalty which never faltered, and the ability to comfort and strengthen him in times of trouble, discouragement and grief. . . .

A part of Mr. Stone's failure is rooted in his wordiness, and his introduction of many pointless episodes as, for example, the excessive and tedious accounts of the social events in Mary's career. His awkward style and wooden dialogue makes one wish he had attempted more biography and less fiction. . . .

Mary Todd Lincoln with all her blemishes and strong originality would make a fascinating character study, but we shall have to look elsewhere than in LOVE IS ETERNAL to find it. . . .

Service League To Participate In Community Chest Drive

The Greenville Service League held its October meeting at the Elm Street recreation center on Monday morning, October 4. As customary the president opened the meeting with the entire group saying in unison the Christian Service prayer. . . .

Mrs. George Lautares then introduced Mr. Lester Dollar who is field executor for the Pitt county boy scouts. Mr. Dollar praised the League for its past years achievements in sponsoring the door to door canvass for the Greenville Community chest drives. He stated that this year preparations are already in progress with an anticipated date of October 19 as the big "kick off day". He explained that this year there would be a change in programs with every family having a card so that there would not be duplication of solicitations but making sure that everyone has an opportunity to contribute. Mrs. Melvin Hoot will act as chairman for service League participation with Mrs. J.H. Thomas and Mrs. Tyson Bilbro assistants. . . .

Mrs. David Evans, finance chairman announced that the bulb sale was a big success. She reminded the members that the shrubbery sale would be October 14th at the cold storage plant on Ninth Street from nine until four. Mr. McQueen will bring bulbs gain at this time for all who miss the earlier sale. She explained that landscaping is also available. She announced the November bridge tournament committee with Mrs. Edgar Willford as chairman. . . .

When Mrs. Walter Harrington gave her girl scout report she read a letter from the scout the League had sent to Camp Hardee for two weeks this past summer. It was a most appreciative letter and ended with saying that "she hoped that some day she would be able to do as much for another girl." The group was reminded by Mrs. John Howard to bring their clothes for the rummage sale, not later than October 15 Mrs. R.H. Evans reported that one family had been helped the past month through the emergency charity fund. Mrs. David Hardee said that although the Bloodmobile did not meet its quota, the Service League performed its duties well all volunteers were there and on time. Mrs. Stokes, in her Laughinghouse Hospital bed report stated that at present there were two patients in the hospital. . . .

Concerning the Coffee Shop, Mrs. J.T. Little stressed that the members keep the tea cart in order and reminded them to be sure and let the patients know all the merchandise on the cart. She said that new cobbler aprons to be worn would be ready at an early date. . . .

Mrs. J.H. Thomas reported that plans are well organized for the bridge and canasta tournament to be held Thursday, October 13 at the home of Mrs. T.I. Wagner on Evans Street. The afternoon tournament will begin at 2:30 and the night tournament at 8:00. The charge will be 50 cents per person. Refreshments will be served and several prizes given. All proceeds will go to the Laughinghouse hospital bed. . . .

In the order of new business, Mrs. Little suggested that members assist the Red Cross in its Christmas work by providing the following items, current magazine, pocket editions of westerns and mysteries, playing cards, funny books and jigsaw puzzles. All items could be used but must be in good condition. The League voted to carry out this suggestion. . . .

There being no further business the meeting was adjourned.

Autumn Theme Used In Decorations For Club Meeting

The Past Matrons and Past Patrons Club of Greenville Chapter O.E.S. met Tuesday night with Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Maxwell at their home on E. Sixth Street. . . .

Mrs. Thelma Joyner, president, presided over a brief business meeting. The group voted to remember several shut-in members and friends. . . .

During the social hour Mrs. Mildred Kennedy was initiated into the club and remembered with a gift by the hostess. Mrs. Lucille Cox was winner of the prize in a word contest. . . .

Autumn flowers and autumn colors were used in the decorations — and continued in the delicious sweet course served by the hostesses. . . .

The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. Josephine Rawl, Tuesday night, November 23. . . .

Co-Hostesses To Circle Meet

BETHEL — The Sarah Whitehurst Circle of the Bethel Methodist Church held its October meeting with Mrs. J. C. Wynne, Jr. and Mrs. J. C. Wynne, Sr. as co-hostesses. . . .

She stressed that Hannah was a wonderful mother and kept Samuel near her and gave him good training in spiritual insight, faith and service. She also kept her promise of dedicating him to God. She read her remarks with a prayer. . . .

Mrs. J. C. Wynne, Jr., program chairman, gave an interesting discussion from the study book, "Man and God in the City". She brought out the tensions of city life, the social problems and the inner church of city life. . . .

Absentee Ballots Breed Abuse

Abuses of the absentee ballot in Graham County - where the Secretary of State has reported absentee ballots are selling as high as $85 each - is further proof North Carolina should do away with the absentee ballot for civilians in the general election.

The Democratic party in North Carolina long ago abolished the absentee ballot for Democratic primaries, because the ballots were the object of such widespread abuse. The party, however, has never pushed for the abolition of absentee ballots in the general election in the state.

The situation which has developed in Graham County this year pinpoints a condition which will exist so long as North Carolina retains a system of absentee ballots in general elections. Although the Secretary of State says most of the ballot purchasing in Graham is in connection with a heated sheriff's race in that county, the names of other candidates likewise appear on the ballots. If the widespread abuse of the absentee ballot which has not become

They Should Get Results This Time

There is little doubt in our mind that the folks in the small community of Angier will now get some results from their protests about the poor telephone service they say they have been receiving.

In the eyes of some people, the action taken by the citizens of Angier may seem a bit rash. The folks of that community apparently feel, however, they have everything to gain and nothing to lose by their decision to pay no more telephone bills until the service improves.

Although the previous complaints about telephone service from the people of Angier may have come to the attention of the officials of the telephone company which services the area, little apparently has been done to improve the service to the people. Now that the Angier citizens have taken a more drastic step, we are pretty sure the company officials will delve into the matter, and do it quickly.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THE EMOTIONS ALSO GROW
There are very few physical midlets in our population but there are thousands of people who never grow up mentally or emotionally. Those who fail to grow up mentally are not all idiots, defectives or morons. Many of them are people whose intelligence seems to halt about at the twelfth or fourteenth year. Others grow somewhat beyond that, but when they were through with formal education, they ceased to read or to think. They vegetated, or soaked themselves in alcohol, or plunged into excessive bridge playing, or got their noses down to a business grindstone and kept them there.

Those who emotionally fail to grow up are the most pathetic of all—and the most numerous. At the age of fifty they often have the uncontrolled emotions of a child of five. Their moods overwhelm them. They cannot control their tempers. Many are sex obsessed. Still others quarrel with family and associates. The world is wrong, you know—they are never wrong.

Help your children to grow up mentally and morally as well as physically. We are producing a race of veritable physical giants on this continent. Let us be careful lest these huge and healthy bodies become the tenements of little minds and unstable emotions. Above all, guard against retarded emotional maturity.

'Stable Economy' Platform

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—A major Republican contention in the wind-up weeks of the current Congressional campaign will be that the Eisenhower Administration has built a "stable economy" which is not based on war costs, vast military expenditures or bonding programs. Statistics on third-quarter activity and 1955 prospects have been compiled to support this politico-economic thesis.

Indeed, the Democrats seem to agree with this analysis of business and industrial conditions. In his more recent speeches, Adlai E. Stevenson has pointed on the key word in the GOP slogan—"stable." The Democrats' 1952 Presidential nominee now insists that stability means only "standing still."

In his opinion, the Eisenhower policies do not provide for the "expansion" required by an increasing population and future demands on the industrial and agricultural plant. He wants a return to the "forward-looking and imaginative" outlook of Roosevelt-Truman days.

CONSIDERED REMARKABLE ACHIEVEMENT—The Republicans, however, consider it a remarkable achievement to have maintained high-level production and consumption in the face of reduced government spending at home, a heavy cut in foreign aid and commitments and greater reliance on individual and private enterprise.

Aside from and more important than statistical evidence of stability, Ike's spokesmen believe that the principal gain has been the disappearance of a depression psychology. Plans for industrial expansion, a high rate of retail purchasing and installment credit buying, in their opinion, prove that national confidence has been restored.

White House advisers have given the President a new set of figures, not yet released publicly, in support of the stability and confidence issue. As soon as they have been checked and rechecked, they will be turned over to national and local ghost writers for Party candidates.

FAVORABLE FIGURES—Although there is spot unemployment, September-October figures are not expected to show any appreciable increase over the evident in Graham County were to become prevalent throughout the state, it could realistically affect the outcome of elections for state offices as well as the election of county officers.

The Democratic party controls North Carolina with the possible exception of a few western counties in which Republicans are numerous to provide serious opposition. The Democratic party, if it desired, could see that absentee ballots are abolished for general elections just as the party abolished the absentee ballots in its own state primaries.

In the interest of the state, the Democratic party should move to have the absentee ballot for civilians abolished in the general elections.

It is indeed a disgrace to North Carolina that the people of any community should sell their right to vote the way some in Graham County are. The fact that the absentee ballots are bringing as high as $85 makes it even more imperative that the absentee ballot which breeds such abuse should be abolished.

Pitt Farm Bureau Needs Support

In this era of highly organized business associations, labor groups, have lagged behind.

Farmers are inherently individualists. They are in North Carolina, they are across the country, and they are throughout the world.

Nevertheless, farming has become a major part of the national economy and the nation's business. Farming today is just as complicated as any other business. It is perhaps even more susceptible to economic changes, federal government activities and government controls than most other businesses.

The Farm Bureau, from the local level to the national level, offered farmers one of their most important organizations for watching over the economic interest of those people who derive their livelihood directly from the soil.

Now, in the midst of its annual membership drive, the Pitt County Farm Bureau needs the support of every farmer in Pitt County. Conversely, the farmers of the county need the Farm Bureau.

Such an organization is dependant upon its strength at the grass roots or local level for its effectiveness in seeking the goals to which it aspires. The Farm Bureau, over its many years of activity, has proven itself worthy of the support which farmers have given it. The Reflector sincerely hopes the farmers of Pitt will recognize the importance of the Farm Bureau to their own interests during this membership campaign, and they will likewise recognize the importance of individual memberships to the overall organization.

A Strip Of Road That 'Brought Fontana Back In N. C.'

By LYNN NISBET
ROADS—The opening and dedication of the newest section of NC-28 highway, between Chetoah and Fontana shortened the travel distance from the north and east to Fontana by about 33 miles. Considering the type of road and traffic that means about one hour in time.

The dedication ceremonies were held at overlook point on the new road from which the waters of Fontana Lake first can be seen, and at a luncheon given by Government Services, Inc., the outfit which operates recreation facilities at Fontana Village.

Harry E. Buchanan, commissioner for the fourteenth highway division, presided at both parts of the program. He explained that Governor Umstead had wanted to come, but was prevented by his health. Highway Chairman Graham had expected to be on hand, but the date conflicted with dedication of the new court-house at Hillsboro—an event which Governor Umstead also had to miss. Senator Alton Lennon was on hand, as was Congressman George A. Shuford, four members of the Council of State—Bridges, Eure, Crane and Gold—and a number of Democratic party leaders who moved on next day to begin the series of district rallies at Hendersonville.

Commissioner Buchanan did an excellent job in dedicating the present total of about 3,200,000 out of work. This is considered a favorable development, in view of the number of employed youngsters who have returned to school. Their places have been taken by 1954 graduates.

Businessmen show continued confidence. New orders placed with producers total $22.5 billion a month since March, as against less than $12 billion a year ago. New construction is running about $3 billion a month, of which $2.2 billion represents private undertakings. New plants costing $26.8 billion represents private undertakings. New plants costing $26.8 billion will be built in 1954, comparing with about $27.5 billion for 1952-53.

Consumer spending is at record levels, due largely to the high rate of personal income, which is estimated at $286 billion annually. The customers will buy about $230 billion of durable and light goods, or $2 billion above the prosperous year of 1953.

SAVINGS AT NEW HIGH—At the same time, savings have hit a new top. They are increasing at the rate of $12 billion yearly. The aggregate is now figured at $212 billion, or the equivalent of $4,500 for every household in the country.

Deferred improvements by the Federal, state and local governments will provide additional employment in all lines and increased purchasing power. A record-breaking highway construction program, the building of new airports and enlargements of existing fields and maritime growth will plough more than $2 billion into factory rolls and profit sheets.

Finally, the full effects of the 1954 tax reductions will not be felt by corporations until next year. They will combine with developments already listed to increase the amount of money available for investment, purchases and savings.

They should insure that the current level of business and industrial activity will persist through 1955 and into 1956, with some improvement in presently depressed industries, such as steel.

With the prospect of global war removed through apparent agreement on a Western European defense force, the immediate future looks bright.

Somebody Told Me

A $5,000 Project Adopted

Last night when the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce was discussing the adoption of a project to raise $5,000 for emergency rescue equipment Dan Saleed came to his feet and told us in a very calm and convincing manner that we should and could raise the money.

"That's the difference," Charlie Horne said, "in a local Jaycee and a national director." Charlie was jokingly referring to any possible members who had any doubt about our ability to raise the money. Later, we voted unanimously to adopt the project.

This incident brought to my mind the fact that Dan Saleed's Jaycee activities have been in the realm that makes a $5,000 project seem small. He was local president in 1951, State Vice President in 1953 and this year is North Carolina's representative to the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce. Dan is also a member of the Planning Board of Jaycee International.

As N. C.'s Director, Dan is in charge of all international relations for our state. As a member of the planning board, he is concerned with the activities of the 60 countries other than the U. S. that have Jaycee Clubs, plus the chartering of additional countries that become interested in the Jaycee organization.

When a country becomes interested in joining Jaycee International, an investigation is made by the board which Dan is a member. The U. S. State Department and the United Nations are both represented. If the country is approved, the planning board immediately maps out organization plans for that country.

In August Dan attended the national convention of the U. S. Jaycees in Tulsa, Okla. To give you idea of the scope of the national organization, this project was adopted: The building of a Little White House in Tulsa, for the national president to use while in office. The entire cost of the house furnished, is $300,000 and it took a blazing one hour to raise the entire amount!

The job was done by states. North Carolina agreed to furnish all linens, towels and blankets. Other states gave bricks, plumbing, and so on until the proposed house was complete. The N. C. program will appear on all of the linens in the Little White House.

Dan has a strong feeling about the value of the Jaycees. "For every hour you put in Jaycee work," he says, "you get the value of two hours in return. Any man who has the opportunity to be a Jaycee and is not taking advantage of it is missing one of the greatest chances of his life to develop leadership."

What Other Editors Are Thinking

COULD WE GET A BETTER SYSTEM?

(Washington Daily News)
Beaufort county during the month of September spent the sum of $327.95 feeding prisoners housed in the county jail.

We learn that much of the money so spent was on prisoners sentenced to 10 days in jail for being drunk. We are also told that the food bill per day per prisoner is $1.05. That seems rather cheap to feed one prisoner, but we are sure that they get only substantial food with no fancy dishes.

What to do with drunks has plagued more than one county and city in North Carolina. If they are placed in jail for 10 days, then the county must bear the cost of feeding them. If they are sent to the roads, they must be sent there for a minimum term of 30 days. Then the state has the burden of feeding and working them.

We have long felt that when we sentence prisoners to county jail, we should get some sort of work out of them. Many say such a plan is not practical. If we sentence them to 10 days in jail as punishment, we are also punishing the taxpayers of Beaufort county who must feed them.

Is there a better system then? We don't know, but we do know a plan which is being followed by many cities and counties in North Carolina. It seems to be a wise plan under the circumstances and it eliminates most of the cost for the city or county.

When a drunk is brought into court on the first offense within the period of a year, he is fined five dollars and costs. If within a year he is brought into court again on the charge of being drunk, he is fined $10 and costs and a 30 or 60 day road term suspended. But when he is brought before the court for the third time within a year, it automatically means 30 or 60 days on the roads.

If on the first offense within a year, he is unable to pay the fine, leniency is shown. On the second offense within a year, if he is unable to pay his fine, he goes to the roads then. But on the third offense, it is a road term for sure. Some counties report good success on this plan. The key to the plan lies in the fact that the occasional drunk gets a break while the habitual drunk is punished with a prison or road sentence. In that way the county can avoid the jail costs which accumulate when a prisoner is a guest of the county in jail.

Such a plan might not work well here in Beaufort county. We just don't know. There might be reasons why such a plan is not practical. We offer it simply as food for thought. Other counties are having similar experiences, and we might get some lessons from their experience.

Most of our drunks are repeat offenders anyway. If we check the list of drunks, we believe we'll find that many of them have been in court several times within a year on the same charge.

Still A Real Bargain

By ELMER ROESSNER
Leave us shed a tear for the outdated gas buggy on the 20-cent special delivery stamp. The stamp and the bus are to be replaced starting October 13 with another stamp showing (right) a masculine hand offering a letter (center) to a less masculine hand (left). Could be that of a housewife, or that new boy in the mail room.

Incidentally, the envelope picture on the stamp has one of the new special-delivery stamps on it, and this shows the envelope and a stamp on it. The stamp on the envelope has a stamp on an envelope which has a stamp on an envelope—and one way to go crazy, a 20-cent way, is to start figuring where this all ends.

The most important thing about the new stamp is that, in the lower left corner, the symbol "20 cents" still appears.

This makes the Post Office Department's special delivery service still the greatest bargain from Maine to Kingdom Come. For two thin dimes—each one getting thinner by the hour—the government will take a letter from the post office to my home or office—or yours—a tenth of fee charged by a messenger service or taxi driver.

Furthermore, the man delivering the letter will refuse a tip, and he'll hand over the envelope with a smile.

With its other delays, the Post Office can drive a sensitive person to bankruptcy or distraction. But in handling its special deliveries—and at that price—it deserves praise indeed.

To Postmaster Arthur Ellsworth Summerfield, a bow. To Art, Joe, George and Jake, who bring my specials around, a warm handshake.

SEEKING PUBLIC OPINION? ASK YOUR EMPLOYEES!

Every once in a while a company would like to find answers to such questions as: "How much do people really hate parsnips?" "What do television commercials do to your emotions?"

Prices for such information are not cheap when opinion survey companies are called in. But if a company has more than a handful of employees, polling them may be less expensive. When employee opinions are asked, the percentage of returns are likely to be higher and the responses faster than when the general public is polled. There surely will be an employee bias, but since this can be calculated, results can be sound.

Silly0 well, one of the largest corporations in the world is finding a lot about consumer tastes simply by polling its own workers.

KEEP COOL AND SEND FOR FARM-FIRE BULLETIN

If you build one building close to another, when the first building catches fire, the second one is in a hot position.

This catalytic truth and many others are presented by Uncle Sam, in the cloak of the Department of Agriculture, in a new publication titled F.B. 2070. It's new—it supersedes one published 25 years ago, when there were more farms but fewer buildings on them. It points out that each year 3,500 lives are lost in farm-building fires, and that property damage runs to $100,000,000 a year. Much of this loss, the publication says, could be averted by better construction and location of farm buildings. Single copies are free by writing the Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D.C., and asking for F.B. 2070. No insurance man should be without one.

BOOKLET TELLS HOW LAWS BENEFIT WORKERS

Here's another free booklet. The National Foremen's Institute, 100 Garfield Ave., New London, Conn., is publishing a 24-page booklet entitled "More Benefits for You," telling what the new tax and Social Security laws mean, in question-and-answer form. While the institute hopes to sell the booklet in quantity lots to employers, it will send sample copies free.

SELLING FREEZERS WITH A DOUBLE NEGATIVE

There is more evidence that business is not as serious as Heaven foretold—it might be: A Rochester, N.Y., store, in promoting food freezers, is offering a prize for the best letter on: "I don't like a food freezer plan because..."

The prize? A freezer? No! A television set!

Marriage, Or Visiting Permits

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—The rift between Marilyn Monroe and Joe DiMaggio, thrown out at home plate, is certain to cause 50 million self-appointed moralists to ask that old question: "What is wrong with Hollywood marriages?"

But the real puzzle isn't that so many film colony matings end up in the divorce courts. The enduring wonder is that so many people in Hollywood bother to get married at all.

Mae West once observed, re-creating a joke older than the bustle: "Marriage is a great institution—but who wants to live in an institution?"

The divorce statistics obviously prove that scores of film stars don't actually want to live in this institution. They merely want visiting privileges. They go in and out of marriage as it suits their convenience.

Hollywood is a factory that for 40 years has been largely devoted to the manufacture of implausible celluloid fairy tales in which a pauper can marry a princess and any smart working girl can land a millionaire.

The formula behind most plots is simple and changeless: boy meets girl; there is a problem that keeps them apart; they solve the problem; boys and girls then clinch in a fadeout that is a prelude to endless bliss.

That is the main thing—the happy ending.

The trouble with many delvers in the Hollywood vineyard is that they come to believe in the plots they act out. They feel unconsciously that if they just marry all their high tension woes will be over, and they will have put the last great reel of their lives in the can-happiness.

They sometimes think of marriage as they do a sleeping pill something to calm them down. But marriage doesn't ordinarily work that way. As countless thousands of ministers patiently preach: "Marriage isn't a happy ending—it is only a happy beginning."

Contrary to the sugar-coated fairy tales about life it offers for sale to the public, Hollywood itself is a pretty rugged jungle ruled by a financial and social caste system nearly as inflexible as that of old India.

A conventional type marriage simply isn't suitable for many who are caught up in this benzene-paced tempo of nervous worry and success worship.

What Hollywood needs is a new type of marriage—in fact, several types of marriages—more adapted to its needs, such as:

1. The publicity marriage. Great for two starlets who can't get their names in the paper any other way. Also fine for aging stars who need to let the public know they are still alive.

2. The multiple or mass marriage. This is useful for up to 5 actors and 5 actresses who are all, sooner or later, going to swap around anyway. By marrying each other all at once they could save future divorce costs and also have to pay only for a single big wedding celebration.

3. The contingent marriage. Under this arrangement if either performer gets better billing than the other, he or she is automatically free to shuck off the unfortunate partner as excess cargo.

Marriages such as these would bring a realism to its marital relations that Hollywood sadly needs. Some might argue that Hollywood should reinstitute the custom of trial marriages, but this is unnecessary.

Marriage is a trial, anywhere, under the best of circumstances.

Loss Of A Hand No Unsurmountable Handicap

Henry C. Hagan, Greenville Mills employee, has learned to do all the things he once did before he lost his arm just nine months ago. He is shown above as he weighs chemicals to be used to dye wool and other materials which are used at the plant. (Reflector Photos by Alvin Taylor).

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector Staff Writer

This is National Employ the Physically Handicapped week and for one Greenville man it takes on a meaning it did not have last year.

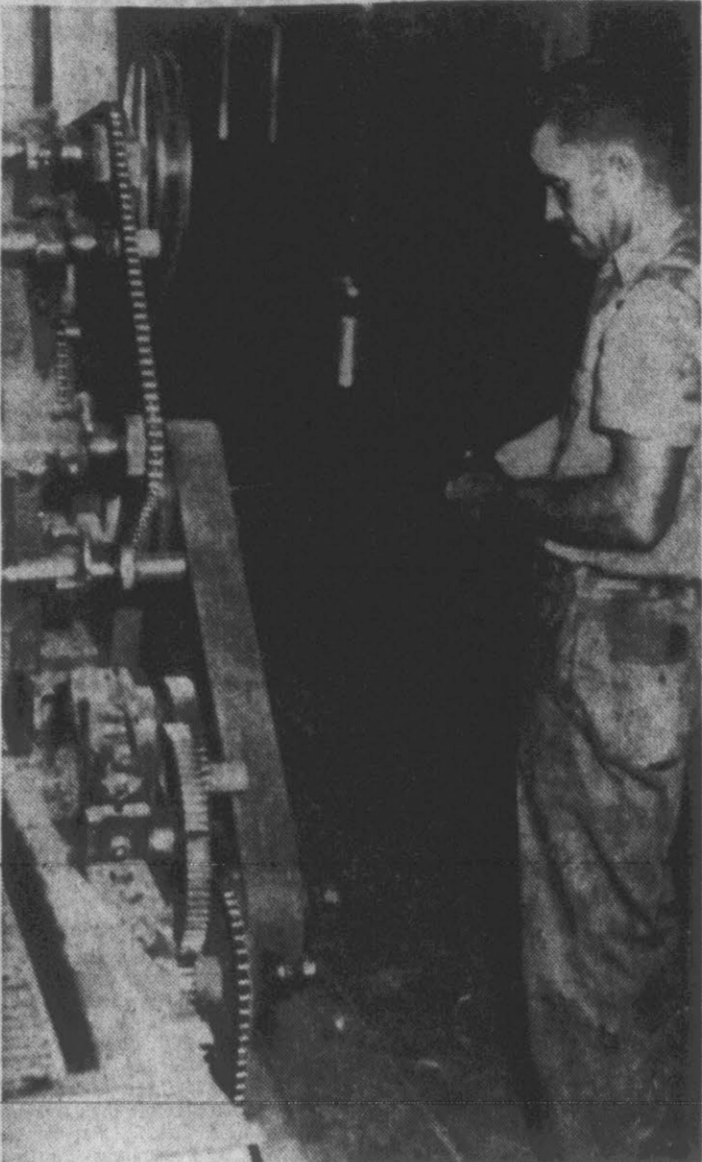

That man is Henry C. Hagan, father of two children and an employee at Greenville Mills. The observance of this week is more meaningful to Hagan this year because within the past year he has become a handicapped person—or at least he would be so classified. Actually, Hagan, who lost his arm while cleaning a machine just nine months ago, has learned in a short period of time to do all the things that he ever did. The mill employee is back at his old job at Greenville Mills and, according to his boss, M.H. Hudson, superintendent of the dyeing department is as "good as he ever was."

Hagan learned to do many of the tasks that he had once performed right handed with his left hand but he has also been outfitted with an artificial arm and has learned to do tedious tasks such as rolling wool samples in small slips of paper without help.

"Good as Ever"
"He is as good as he ever was," Hudson says of the man. "In fact in some ways he is a little more eager than before he got hurt."

The superintendent says that he has not found any task connected with Hagan's work which he could not perform.

Hagan still operates the machine on which he lost his arm last January 2. The mill employee is pictured above operating the sample carder. He was out of work three weeks following the accident.

"If he makes a mess of it I let him go until he learns," he continued.

"His attitude has been wonderful," Hudson stated. "Within two weeks after the accident he was back down here."

Hudson noted that the injured man was not able to do a lot at first when his arm was still sore but he soon began to fit back into the job.

The superintendent stated that the only real difficulty Hagan has encountered has been learning to write with his left hand.

"He's made wonderful progress with that, though," he emphasized.

Hudson said Hagan also had some difficulty rolling the small samples of wool, which have to be taken from each bale, into slips of paper but after some practice he learned to do that too.

No Handicap
Hagan himself does not consider the loss of his right hand a real handicap.

"Certainly I don't feel being with one hand has hindered me other than just for a short time," he SAYS.

He feels that he is getting along just as well or better in his work with the artificial limb. Hagan said he was in the process of learning when the accident occurred and has actually learned more in the meantime than he knew when he lost his arm.

Hagan says he was right-handed before the accident took place and has since changed over to his left hand for such things as writing and shaving.

"It took me maybe a couple of weeks to change over to my left hand," he noted. "I wrote right-handed and I write with my left hand now just as well. I'm just slower."

The mill employee said he can do anything with his left hand now. "I drive just as well as I ever did," he declared.

Hagan's car is equipped with an automatic gear shift, but recently his car was being repaired and he used a car with straight shift for some time with no difficulty.

Accident Last January
The accident which cost Hagan his arm took place last January 2 while the mill employee was cleaning a sample carder at the plant. His arm was caught in the machine and was mangled so badly it was removed below the elbow by surgery.

He was in the hospital for one week and stayed home two weeks before returning to his job at Greenville Mills.

Hagan worked for approximately one month before he was outfitted with the artificial arm which he now wears.

He was awkward at first with the new arm but, as he says, "as I learned to use it, it's almost the same as the original hand."

"Being without my hand it did not take too long to learn to use it," he emphasized.

Hagan's duties include weighing the dyes which are used to color wool and other materials which the plant processes, applying the dyes to the materials and operating the sample carder, the machine which claimed his arm.

Hagan is married and has two children, one daughter 14 years old and a boy 11 years old. He has been working with Greenville Mills for four and one-half years and began working only a short time after the plant opened in Greenville. Prior to that time he was an auto mechanic and a farmer.

"Sunny Acres" Stables thoroughbreds were winners at two horse shows—one in Virginia, the other in North Carolina—in September and October.

At the Elm City Saddle Club Horse Show, September 26, "Sunny Acres" Blue Fire, with Jimmy Norris up, won first place in the five-gated stake.

In the fine harness stake Stone-wall Starlet, with Hugh Winslow driving, was reserve champion Hugh Winslow driving.

Mighty Chief, a consistent "Sunny Acres" winner with Jimmy Norris up, won first place in the "Sunny Acres" horses will be entered in the Jaycees Horse Show in Greenville next Saturday and Sunday.

Record Sum Divided By Giants, Indians

NEW YORK (AP)—Both the New York Giants and the Cleveland Indians out to record World Series shares this year. Twenty-eight Giants, plus their trainer and clubhouse attendant, received $11,471.60 each, while each Indian collected $6,712.80.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick announced the breakdown yesterday. The full Giants' share was $2,867.22 more than the previous record of the New York Yankees of 1953. The Indians, who distributed 35 1/2 shares, also set a record for a loser.

All told, the players' share of the receipts came to $881,763.72, an all-time high. Included was $83,000 for a pregame World Series TV program. The players get 40 per cent of the receipts for the first four games with 70 per cent going to the competing teams.

The Giants' split included a full share to bonus rookie Joe Almafano, who didn't get to bat until the final week of the season.

Spud Goldstein, the Indians' traveling secretary, was given a full share, but the National League rules prohibit the inclusion of such employees. Instead, they get a cash bonus.

Cubs Bring Up Potential Stars

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs have brought up two more farmhands from their Class A Des Moines club, outfielder Solly Drake 23, and shortstop Ed Winceniak, 25.

Winceniak was named all-star shortstop in the Western League last season as well as the most valuable player on his team. He batted .282, and included 31 doubles, 12 triples and 7 homers among his hits.

Drake, who was highly recommended by scouts, batted .282. He played centerfield most of the season and was considered the fastest Western League player. The Negro speedster broke his collar-bone trying a diving catch early in the season but was sidelined only a month.

The Red team scored on a 48 yard gallop by Charles Roberts.

For the White team, Jeff Fountain, Billy Stocks, and Roger Collins stood out on defense. The entire team looked good according to their coach who was well pleased with the showing.

For the Red team, Donnie Joyner, John Adams, and Lewis Arthur led the defensive platoon.

The Whites now have won two games without a loss, beating the Blues 19-0 and the Red. The Reds have won one game and lost one. They downed the Gold 7-0 in their other game. The Gold team has won one game and lost one while the Blue has lost twice.

The next Midget game will be played at Elm Street Park on Tuesday.

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States again will pin its hopes on Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert to take the Davis Cup back from Australia this year.

The Davis Cup Selection Committee yesterday named the American champion and Trabert along with Hamilton Richardson the intercollegiate champion from Baton Rouge, La. Bill Talbert again was named non-playing captain.

There also is a possibility that two younger players will be sent along for experience in international competition. If the United States Lawn Tennis Assn. follows the recommendation of the committee, the two youngsters will be named later.

The Americans first must get past Sweden in the interzone final at Brisbane, Dec. 16-18. Then the winner will play Australia in the challenge round Dec. 27-29.

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Whatever happened to the football coach who was moaning only a year ago that the college game had gone to the dogs with abolishment of the two-platoon system? Does he still feel that way after having "given the game back to the boys" through one full campaign and part of a second?

The answer is that he's still throbbing like an inflamed tooth, but has become more or less resigned to playing with a single unit. He knows now that it's here to stay. Here's what one of them said privately a few days back:

"We're not playing anywhere near as good football, but at least we're equally bad and I doubt that the spectators notice any big difference. You are seeing more so-called upsets and high, crazy scores than you did when we could throw in a fresh, strong defensive unit and rest up our ball carriers.

"There just isn't enough time to teach defense. We've got to beat down on the offense and hope that the boys were taught how to tackle somewhere back in their youth and that they have enough stamina to hold up when the other side gets rolling. It might be a long time before you see another major team go through an undefeated season."

Charlie Dressen, who is about to learn a whole lot about how the other manager lives when he takes over the Washington Senators, was amused at reports that the Cleveland Indians were surprised at the brilliant fielding of Hank Thompson on third base.

"That guy always was a great third baseman," Charlie said. "One of the few mistakes Leo (Durocher) ever made was when he kept trying to make a right fielder of him. I remember telling my Dodgers for a couple of years that as long as Leo kept fooling around like that they didn't have anything to worry about."

There is no question that Dressen believes he could have won another flag at Brooklyn, but he refused to find fault the man who succeeded him, Walt Alston. He said it could have happened to anybody.

Johnson Bidding For Fifth Clash

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Harold Johnson, bidding for his seventh shot at lightweight champion Archie Moore, and "Boardwalk Billy" Smith, making his fifth bout with the elderly champ meet tonight for the first time in a 10-round fight at the arena.

Johnson, rated No. 1 contender for Moore's title, is quoted as 14-5 favorite here in his home town. His last outing was in a championship scrap Aug. 11 when, with victory within his reach, he was knocked out by Moore.

That snapped a 12-bout winning streak for Johnson, whose record is now 48 wins and 6 defeats. Five of the defeats were at Moore's hands and the other was a knockout loss to former heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott.

Johnson will have the advantage of age—he's 26 and Smith is 33—speed and skill. Both boys have good punching power. Johnson has knocked out 22, and Smith has KO'd 30 in winning 56 losing 20 and fighting 4 draws. In four bouts with Moore, he lost three and drew one.

Smith is rated No. 4 in the light heavyweight division and is undefeated since coming East from Oakland, Calif., where he fought as Oakland Billy Smith.

Tonight's bout will be televised and broadcast by NBC at 10 p.m., EST.

East Carolina Gridders Near Full Strength For Saturday's Elon Game

Coaches Jack Boone and Jim Mallory will leave early in the morning with a contingent of 40 players for Burlington and a North State Conference game with Elon.

The Bucs will be at as near top strength as they've been all season. All early injured players are back. Only players not making the trip are Gaither Cline, senior and Al Owens, sophomore end. Cline received a laceration along the shinbone of his right leg and Owens broke his right foot in the Catawba game last week.

George Rice, who suffered a sprained ankle against the Indians is expected ready by game time. His return, along with David Lee, 245-pound guard, brought the line to full capacity. Jerry Brooks, 6-3, 220-pound freshman tackle from Rockingham, has been moved up to the varsity and will make the trip. The huge veteran has impressed coaches since his arrival here. He has had high school and several years of service ball and according to Line Coach Mallory is "a real comer".

J.D. Bradford and Larry Rhodes will again start at the end positions. Rhodes has been on the receiving end of more than a dozen passes this season and is a steady defender. Bradford is a terror on defense. He had made a bevy of picture blocks in the Pirates' first four games.

George Tucker and Co-Captain Willie Holland will handle the starting tackles. Tucker is an aggressive lineman as there is in the conference. The 205-pound senior from Monroe is being groomed for All-Conference honors. Holland, one of the most respected football players around, is a great blocker and defensive man. He never lets up and enjoys ending up bottom man on a pileup.

Don Burton, recent father of a 7-pound boy will team with David Lee at the guards. Burton is pound for pound considered the best lineman in the conference. Lee's grid ability is widely known. He is one of the Pirates' Little All-America candidates.

Louis Hallow, the other candidate, will get the nod at center. The 220-pound linebacker and pivot man is as tough to move as the parlor sofa. He made repeated tackles against the Indians and has looked great in all the Bucs' games. Milton Collier will most likely begin at quarterback. Behind him, Coach Boone has Boyd Webb, Gary Matlocks, and who knows... may be Dick Cherry. All four are terrific passers and could run first string with any other team in the conference.

Co-Captain Tippy Hayes and Eino Boado will team at the halves. Both are sensational break-away runners who might go for the distance on every carry. Both are 10-second men and awfully tough for their size. Harold O'Kelly will begin at fullback. The 180-pound junior from High Point, has shown remarkable potential at the slot. He has gained right at 200 yards in the Pirates' last two games.

For the first time this season, Coach Boone can send in two capable reserves at each position. Second and third depth players have proven themselves able in past games. So, the Pirates coaching staff heads self-assured for Burlington and the Fighting Christian.

Palmer Captures Carolinas PGA Golfing Tourney

GREENSBORO (AP)—Johnny Palmer of Charlotte held the Carolinas PGA golf tournament title today, the fourth time since 1948.

Palmer finished the 72-hole tournament over the Green Valley course here yesterday with a 72 for a 281 total, three under par and five strokes better than second place finisher Charlie Farlow of Greensboro and amateur Jimmy Ferree of Ft. Jackson, S.C.

Defending champ Al Smith of Danville, Va., was fourth with 287 followed by Clarence Owen of Hickory with 289. Owen also won the senior's trophy and $25.

Palmer won the $300 first prize money, Farlow $180, Smith $135, and Owen $115.

Other top scores belonged to Avery Beck of Kinston, 291; Leo Wapler of Pinehurst, 293; Furman Hayes of Gastonia, 294; Mel McAdams of Winston-Salem, 295; Joe Zarhardt of Greensboro, 296, and Thurman Edwards of Winston-Salem, 297.

Palmer is the 12th ranking money winner on the pro circuit. He and Farlow entered the final 36 holes tied at 139.

Baby Tar Heels Trim S.C. Frosh

LAURINBURG, N.C. (AP)—A strong North Carolina freshman football team defeated the South Carolina freshmen, 25-12, here last night before 3,000 fans.

Quarterback Buddy Sasser of Conway, S.C., sparked the Tar Heels, scoring on runs of 60 and 24 yards. Halfback Steve Kupohick plunged from the one and fullback Howard Williams from the four for the other Tar Heel scores.

End Buddy Niddifor and halfback Heyward King scored South Carolina's touchdowns, both on passes from quarterback Sammy Vickers.

No Mistake Now In His Arrest

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—William Martin, 21, spent six days in jail here last summer through mistaken identity.

He is back in jail today and police say there is no question about his identity this time.

He is charged with statutory rape involving a juvenile girl from Providence, R. I., unauthorised operation of a truck and carrying a concealed weapon.

He was jailed last August on a warrant charging his brother Robert, 25, with breaking and entering.

It took a Superior Court hearing to get his release after that error was discovered by a probation officer.

Blue Devils Expect Purdue Aerials Will Offer Trouble

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The wizard-like passing of a Purdue sophomore quarterback was giving Duke Coach Bill Murray and his football squad plenty to think about today.

The Blue Devils left for Lafayette, Ind., today where they will meet the Bollermakers tomorrow in a battle of the undefeated.

The sophomore quarterback expected to give Duke trouble is Leonard Dawson, a passer deluxe. He has thrown eight touchdown passes in Purdue's two victories. He threw four against Missouri and four in the Bollermakers 27-14 victory over Notre Dame.

Dawson has completed 18 passes in 29 attempts for 398 yards. None was intercepted. He shows no favorites in receivers. Of the eight touchdown passes, six different players caught them.

Murray apparently is banking on the capable running of a fleet of backs to offset the Purdue passing game. In Duke's two games the Blue Devils have amassed a total of 608 yards rushing, 234 against Tennessee and 374 against Penn.

Duke's trip to Lafayette was made without star guard Jesse Birchfield, injured in last week's Tennessee game. The Blue Devils worked light yesterday, planning a workout in Purdue's Ross-Ade Stadium today.

The single Atlantic Coast Conference game Saturday pits Maryland and Wake ET at Winston-Salem.

The single Atlantic Coast Conference game Saturday pits Maryland and Wake Forest at Winston-Salem. The Tarps held a light workout yesterday. Coach Jim Tatum announced that except for three minor injuries the squad was in good shape. It will be the first ACC game of the season for the defending champion Tarps.

Wake Forest Coach Tom Rogers indicated he may change around his starting backfield, using John Parham at left half and Bobby Frederick at right half.

Left halfback John Bell may be a thorn in North Carolina's side when Georgia invades Chapel Hill tomorrow for a continuation of one of the nation's oldest football rivalries which started in 1895. Bell gained 44 of Georgia's 85 yards rushing against Texas A and M last week.

Expecting a stiff passing game from Georgia, North Carolina Coach George Barclay stressed aerial defense yesterday. The Tar Heels probably will play without fullback Don Klochak and tackle Jack Maulsbys both injured.

South Carolina, which faces Furman at Greenville, will enter the game favored but with a host of first string men sidelined with injuries. Furman will substitute its first two teams against South Carolina as units in an effort to wear down the Gamecocks.

Defense against the system and an expected passing game kept the Gamecocks busy yesterday.

Two night games involving ACC teams will be played tomorrow. Clemson meets the University of Florida in Jacksonville and North Carolina State faces William and Mary of the Southern Conference in Norfolk Va.

Clemson worked quarterback Don King and Charlie Bussey hard yesterday on the Tigers' passing game in a non-contact practice.

Coach Frank Howard said he would take 39 players to Jacksonville, all in top shape.

North Carolina State held a final workout today before leaving by bus for Norfolk. The Wolfpack worked on its passing game yesterday with quarterbacks Eddie West, Billy Franklin and Joe Barger doing the tossing.

Virginia left for State College, Pa., today for its meeting there tomorrow with undefeated Penn State, considered one of the powers of the East. Passing was stressed in the Cavaliers work yesterday.

Ailing Trabert To Play In Mexico City Round

MEXICO CITY (AP) Men's singles matches hold the spotlight today, if it doesn't rain again—as the Pan American Tennis Tournament enters the fourth of eight days of play.

Several matches scheduled yesterday—mostly men's doubles—will be played this morning.

Hugh Stewart of Los Angeles is slated to take on a slightly sick Tony Trabert of Cincinnati.

Trabert developed stomach trouble yesterday, apparently the result of eating some highly-seasoned Mexican food.

"I'm sorry to hear old Tony is dancing the Aztec two-step," Stewart remarked, "but I sure would like to win."

Top-seeded Vic Seixas of Philadelphia will meet a strong opponent in Abraham Segal of Johannesburg, South Africa.

The U.S. national champion has met no really strong opponents thus far in the tourney, while the South African, who is accustomed to Mexican City's mile-and-a-half altitude, has rapidly gained experience playing on Chapultepec Sports Centers' slippery courts.

Art Larsen of San Francisco will meet either Mexican Rafael Ortega or South Africa's Owen Williams, who also had too much Mexican chili, earlier reported sick for his bout with Ortega.

Other top mens singles will pit Ed Moyian of Trenton, N.J., against Roger Becker of London, England; Luis Ayala of Santiago, Chile, against John Barrett of London; and Bernard Barten of San Angelo, Tex., against Lorne Main of Toronto, Canada.

In the women's singles, Beverly Fleitz of Belmont Shore, Calif., faces a tough opponent in Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif.

Giants Purchase Three Pitchers

NEW YORK (AP)—The world champion New York Giants purchased a trio of star lefthanded pitchers from their farm clubs yesterday.

Joe Margoneri, 24, and Jim Constable, 21, were bought from the Minneapolis club of the American Assn., although Margoneri played the past season with Nashville of the Southern Assn. At Nashville he won 14 and lost 10 while striking out 184 batters in 187 innings.

Constable won 10 and lost 13 at Minneapolis. He gave up 198 hits in 199 innings and struck out 114.

Pete Burnside 23, a Dartmouth alumnus, returned from the service this year but won 6 and lost 4 while with Nashville.

Sees Renaissance Of Religion In America

TORONTO (AP)—Dr. Elton Trueblood, chief of the United States Religious Information Service, says a religious renaissance is moving "across the length and breadth of the land."

He told 1,500 Lutherans from the United States and Canada last night the resurgence of the faith "makes you glad to be alive in this time of ours."

"It is one of the great periods in the history of Christianity," he said.

Dr. Trueblood, a philosophy professor on leave from Indiana's Earlham College to head the religion department in the U.S. Information Service, said:

"The remarkable thing in this age has been the real recovery of the Lutheran doctrine of the priesthood of all believers. This has released one of Christianity's great sources of power."

Dr. Trueblood said the "great new notion" that each person's occupation is a field for Christian service has "listed the whole Christian movement to the level of the ministry."

"The ways of the ministry are as multitudinous as the lives of men," he said. "All have a holy calling. Whatever a man's work, it is not detached from his faith."

"Each of us must be concerned with becoming a lay apostle," he said.

Dr. Trueblood spoke at a dinner held during the 19th biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church in America.

Tax Notices Out By October 18

All of Pitt County's 20,200 taxpayers are expected to have their tax notices on 1954 taxes by October 18.

H. Reginald Gray, Pitt County auditor, said this morning he expects the remaining notices to residents of Greenville and Ayden townships to be completed during the coming week. Tax notices for all the other townships in the county already have been mailed, he said.

Gray said notices already have been mailed to approximately 500 of the 1,900 taxpayers in Ayden township, and the others are expected to be completed in the next few days. About 2,000 of the 6,000 notices to be mailed to residents of Greenville township already have been completed.

The auditor pointed out that the tax list of the county this year shows approximately 500 more listed property for taxes this year than listed in the county last year. The 20,200 taxpayers now on record in the county tax office represents an all-time high for the county.

Capitol Square

(Continued from page four) audience composed largely of mountaineers, renewed criticism of the allocation formula for the distribution of road maintenance funds. One element in the formula is registration of motor vehicles. Lennon reminded that while it admittedly costs more per mile to build and maintain highways in the swamps and mountains than in the central parts of the State, scattered population and sparse industry occasion less domestic registration. But because of the resort attractions the road use by foreign cars is heavier than in the piedmont.

Other elements in the formula, such as population and road mileage, tend to offset this claim. Furthermore, commissioners with big military installations insist that the percentage of foreign cars is just as heavy around them as in the coastal and mountain recreational areas. It is further recalled that large parts of surplus fund allocations in recent years have gone to big bridges in the far east and special projects in the far west. Any formula proposed would work some hardships and afford some favoritism to this or that group. Perfect balance cannot be attained.

OBSCOLESCENCE — Another thing readily noticed in driving over the state is that obsolescence is the chief factor in the need for rebuilding primary highways. Bridges and pavement as good now as when first constructed 30 years ago are being torn out because they are not designed to carry present day traffic. The question is bound to arise whether some of the 1954 work may not be obsolete long before it has worn out. If there should be a trend in motor vehicle design away from the massive machines now popular toward much smaller and much faster vehicles, some of the heavy-duty four-lane roads with clover leaf adornment may be as of little use as the 9-foot crooked pavement of 1921 is today.

Spanish Visitor Speaks At ECC

Dr. Regiberto Campos of Barcelona, Spain, discussed his country, emphasizing history, tradition, and aspects of modern life there, in a talk Tuesday night before students of foreign languages at East Carolina College.

On the campus here Dr. Campos was a guest of the Phi Sigma Chapter of Sigma Pi Alpha, national honorary foreign languages fraternity. He spoke before approximately thirty members and guests at a meeting held in the Y Hut.

He has been in this country for the past twenty months observing in hospitals and making a study of psychiatric practices. At present he is located in Raleigh.

In a comprehensive sketch of Spain, Dr. Campos pointed out to his East Carolina audience the beauties of his country, its history from the days of Moorish conquest, the character of the people, and the present outlook in such fields as politics, economics, and the arts.

William B. Waters of Bath, fraternity treasurer, introduced the speaker, and Mrs. Carolyn Croom of Rocky Mount, president, acted as chairman at the meeting.

THESE YOUNG DRIVERS! HOLDEVILLE, Okla. (AP) — William Schaff, 2, managed to get on the key and throw his parent's new car into gear.

Eight Business Education Students Elected To Honorary Fraternity

Because of their excellent scholastic records in the department of business education at East Carolina College, eight students received this week invitations to become members of the Beta Kappa Chapter of Pi Omega Pi, national honorary business education fraternity.

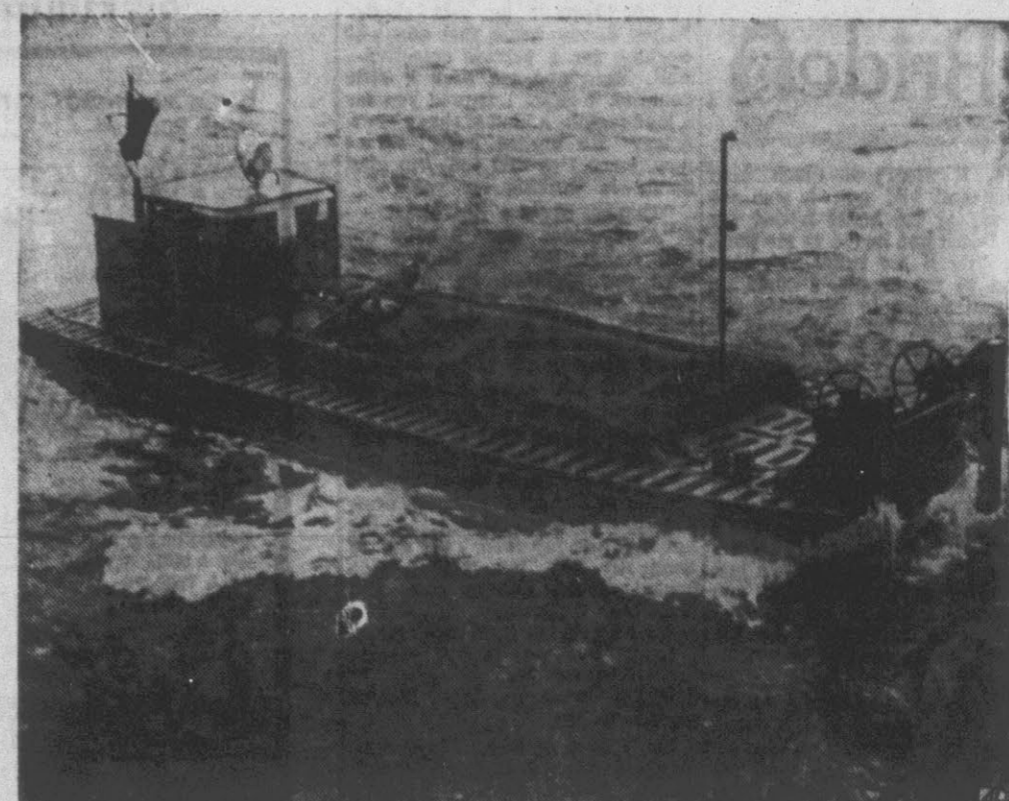

A pledge service will be held October 12, and formal initiation ceremonies are scheduled for November 2, according to an announcement by John W. Hudson of Kingston, fraternity president. Robert E. Hicks of Deep Run, vice president, is in charge of arrangements for both events.

Students who have been invited to join Pi Omega Pi are Bobbie Lou Avant, Whiteville; Lawrence D. Bowen, Robersonville; Ann Bowles, Wilmington; James W. Briley, Greenville; Clarence Brown, Hickory; John Wesley Brown, Hickory;

Mary Ann Higgs, Greenville; and Mildred Reynolds, Columbia.

Mrs. Charity Risher and Ruby Edens, faculty members of the business education department, have been invited to become honorary members of the fraternity and will take part in both the pledge and the initiation ceremonies.

Four students elected to membership in Pi Omega Pi last spring will also be initiated in November. They are Jarvis J. Arthur, Jr., New Bern; William Morris, Stella; Daniel Singetary, Elizabethtown; and Gullford C. Smith, Jr., South Charleston, W. Va.

Searchers Led To Boy By Dog

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—A shepherd dog named Lucky last night led searchers to a missing 3-year-old boy.

Volunteer firemen spotted Lucky circling a hollow tree stump and looked inside. Sitting there, in his blue jeans and tee shirt, was little Donnie Hutchison.

The youngster offered no comment on his 5 1/2-hour adventure. But his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hutchison of Dresden said he often talked of going squirrel hunting.

"I guess today he actually wandered off to try his luck," they said.

From Now On, Dinner Comes Before Any TV

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dinner will always come before TV in the Howerton home, honest, Judge.

That was Mrs. Marie M. Howerton's promise to the court yesterday as she dismissed her husband's knife attack that just missed her heart as "a slight scratch."

Larence G. Howerton promised to keep his temper even if supper should be a trifle late.

Howerton, 33-year-old mechanic, had been charged with stabbing his bride of several months when he came home and found her sitting in front of the TV set, with no dinner prepared.

It was a case of kiss and make-up. The court reduced the charge to simple assault and took Howerton's probation plea under consideration.

Explanations May Make Next Operation Easier

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE NEW YORK (AP)—Your next operation can be made easier — and you might not talk about it so much afterward — if your doctors tell you all about it beforehand.

That is the message presented today at the first annual meeting of a new medical organization, the Academy of Psychosomatic Medicine.

Psychosomatic means pains or ailments caused by emotions or feelings or fears, rather than actual physical faults or disorders.

The new academy's two-day session is devoted to psychosomatic aspects of surgery.

If you need an operation, the doctors should give you a guide map and timetable of all that will happen to you, said Dr. William Kaufman, of Bridgeport, Conn., academy president.

He said the foreknowledge will help you over the rough or unexpected spots and probably even make it less painful.

"The less discomfort you expect to have, the less you probably will have," he said.

Much of the difficulty he said, can come from the fact that doctors or nurses do things to you which you don't expect or which you find distasteful or frightening.

Knowing in advance that those things are commonplace and ordinary can help you accept them and help relieve the fears and anxieties which normally come with having to face surgery.

Many persons feel their chronic illhealth dates to some operation, he said.

They probably are actually suffering from emotional upsets or emotional crippling from some operation for which they were not fully prepared.

SYNOPSIS

When the noted sleuth, Jim Bennett, accepted the invitation of his secretary, Sandy Hollis, to join with her family for a weekend of pheasant shooting in rural Ohio, he looked forward to a pleasant, quiet time. But when he met her family and friends, he realized that he was amid a drama of human conflict as tense as anything he'd experienced in his long crime-detection career. Sandy's young war-veteran brother, Ralph, had "ditched" the spirited Judy Kirkland for the docile Eileen Fortune, and the hate between these two women flew like sparks. But the pheasant hunt proceeds as scheduled, with the Hollis', Eileen Fortune and her father Jack, and Bennett, armed and equipped to bring down birds. On a ridge overlooking the Kirkland property, Ralph Hollis is felled by a gun-shot and lies bleeding and unconscious on the ground. Judy Kirkland, wildly distraught, rushes to his side, admitting that she had been shooting back of the ridge, and that her gun may have accidentally got Ralph. The stricken man is taken to a hospital and the long, agonizing vigil at his bedside begins for the Hollis kin. Not satisfied that Judy's gun has got Ralph, Bennett returns to the scene of the "accident."

CHAPTER ELEVEN

I FLICKED my cigaret out over the grass and I knew what I had

"You knew," he said slowly, "when Sandy wrote that she was working for a private detective—well, Mom and me were a little doubtful. I guess I figured you for a loud-mouth, a kind of shady character." He smiled shyly. "But now, since I've met you, I'm glad Sandy is working for you."

"Thanks. She's a fine girl."

"Always was from a baby up, and Ralph, too. We were lucky with our children. So many of them, well—they don't turn out like you hope and expect. Right now Ralph's mixed up, like I said, and I guess Sandy is too, a little. She feels bad about Russell, but she never lets on."

I remembered that Russell was the jet pilot, the boy Sandy had been engaged to. "I know," I said. "Sandy told me." I stood up, crossed the porch, and entered the house. Up in my room I got the bag from my bag, put it in a side pocket of the hunting coat, and went back down again. Homer was still sitting on the back porch steps. I said, "See you later," crossed the barnyard to my car. As I drove down the lane, Homer waved to me.

The village of Ridge Center was jammed with a Saturday afternoon crowd. Every parking space around the square and along the main street each with its meter, held a car, and the sidewalks were swarming with people. All of the business establishments seemed to be thriving.

The village limits were maybe a hundred yards past the last traffic light—and a big sign read, YOU ARE NOW LEAVING RIDGE CENTER. DRIVE SAFELY AND COME AGAIN. I turned at the next road and drove through softly rolling country spotted with new bungalows and small frame houses under construction. I didn't see the river until I saw the gleam of water through trees behind a fair-sized frame house with high windows and peaked gables. There was a white picket fence—in front and a brass coach lamp on a green-painted pole beside a stone drive. I turned into the drive and stopped behind a red Buick convertible with the top down. I sat for a moment gazing at the house. The only sign of life was a thin spiral of smoke drifting from a red brick chimney. I got out and walked along the drive to the Buick. There was a rifle in front leaning against the dash. I stopped and peered at it, saw that it was a lever-action Winchester carbine. I glanced up at the house. The windows were blank and no curtains moved furtively. I picked up the rifle, opened the breach. It was empty, as all guns should be, except when ready for use. I leaned it back against the dash and walked on up to the house.

There was a small front stoop flanked by wrought iron railings. The front door was painted green to match the lamp post. In place of a bell button there was a huge old-fashioned knocker. I rattled the knocker and "waaed." I lifted the knocker again, banged it down three times. No response. I tried the knob. It turned, and the door swung inward.

"Hey!" I called, and stepped inside.

I was in a small reception hall with a bare polished floor. Through an archway I saw part of a stair the smell of cigaret smoke and a roway into a long room that had probably once been two rooms, but had been made into one by removing the partition. At the far end burning pine logs in a sandstone fireplace cast a pleasant warmth into the rustic room. At the far end was another archway leading to the back of the house. The place looked rather shabby, and yet comfortable, like a resort cottage filled with cast-off furniture.

I stood still and sniffed the air, like a beagle on a rabbit scent. The cigaret smoke was fresh. I moved slowly across the room. One of the logs in the fireplace dropped, sending up a small shower of sparks. I reached the archway, and stood still.

Judy Kirkland sat facing me. "Go away you," she said. "I'm poison."

Union Funds Still In Need Of Survey

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON UP—In a special message to Congress last January on labor problems, President Eisenhower urged the lawmakers to make a "thorough study" of union welfare pension funds.

He proposed this with the idea that Congress, after an investigation might pass "such legislation as will protect and conserve those funds for the millions of working men and women who are the beneficiaries."

How many welfare funds are there in the United States? No one around Washington could be found with the answer. How much money is there in these welfare funds? No one knows that either. But it's in the billions.

Before the President sent his message to the Capitol there had been numerous suggestions from management and members of Congress that such funds should have public supervision, similar to insurance regulations now in effect.

Some scattered investigations, particularly by the state of New York, have uncovered evidence of some mishandling of welfare funds by union members.

For example: Union members on a board of trustees administering a fund chalking up as legitimate expenses a Florida vacation and a high-priced car, with the money for the expenses coming out of the fund they administered.

Congress took up the President's suggestion and set up two special labor subcommittees, one in the Senate and one in the House, to investigate welfare funds.

The work of these committees may not be completed for a year or more. That would make new legislation covering welfare funds seem unlikely for a couple of years.

But meantime the big labor organizations, the AFL and the CIO, have become deeply concerned about the problem.

The AFL has offered to help in writing a law regulating welfare funds. Its president, George Meany, announced the AFL Executive Council has ordered a yearly audit of all its affiliated unions' finances, including welfare funds.

And this week the CIO Executive Board:

1. Created a standing committee to search out any irregular handling of union welfare funds and to throw out any racketeers discovered.
2. Pledged cooperation with federal and state investigators and

God's Answer to Job's Perplexity ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Job 38-42.

Then the Lord spoke to Job out of the whirlwind, and said: "Who is this that darkens counsel by words without knowledge? Where wast thou when I laid the foundations of the earth? declare, if thou hast understanding."

Job answered the Lord: "I know that Thou canst do everything, and that no thought can be withholden from Thee. Who is he that hideth counsel without knowledge? Wherefore I abhor myself, and repent in dust and ashes."

The Lord reproved Job's friends because they had counseled him wrongfully. He commanded them to take rams to Job for sacrificing. He told Job to pray for them. They did as ordered and Job prayed for his friends.

The Lord gave Job twice as much as he had before. All his relatives came to him with gifts of gold. "So the Lord blessed the end of Job more than his beginning."

God's Answer to Job's Perplexity

HE RECEIVES AN OVERWHELMING REVELATION OF THE POWER AND WISDOM OF THE LORD

Scripture—Job 38-42.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

NEAR THE END of our last lesson about Job and his sufferings, he tells of his agonized search to find God. In this lesson he finds Him indeed. There was a great storm with wind, and as it was passing away the voice of the Lord came to Job out of the whirlwind.

He does not explain how or why Job's sufferings were brought about. He does not praise him for his faithfulness, and scarcely mentions the problem which Job and his friends had been so vehemently discussing. Instead he takes Job back to the foundations of the world, shows how small is man and how mighty his Maker, and breaks down Job's self-vindication, making him realize how ignorant, sinful and unworthy he is.

These glorious passages begin with a series of questions:

"Then the Lord answered Job out of the whirlwind, and said, 'Who is this that darkens counsel by words without knowledge? Gird up now thy loins like a man; for I will demand of thee, and answer thou Me.'

"Where wast thou when I laid the foundations of the earth? declare, if thou hast understanding. Who hath laid the measures thereof, if thou knowest? or who hath stretched the line upon it? Whereupon are the foundations thereof fastened? or who laid the cornerstone thereof; when the morning stars sang together, and space in this lesson to include all the discourse of the Lord. I believe the older classes should read it aloud or have it read to them, and discuss as much of the various parts as time will permit.

The list of animals is: the lion, raven, rock-goat, wild ass, the ram (an ox-like animal similar to a bison), the ostrich, the horse, the hawk, the eagle, and other birds.

The behemoth means in Hebrew the beast. It is thought that it denotes the hippopotamus; the "leviathan" may be the crocodile. As this is an Arabian poem, the horse is given a glorious description:

"Hast thou given the horse strength? hast thou clothed his neck with thunder? Canst thou make him afraid as a grasshopper? the glory of his nostrils is terrible.

"He paweth in the valley, and rejoiceth in his strength; he goeth on to meet the armed men. . . . He smelleth the battle afar off, the thunder of the captains, and the shouting."

In chapter 40, the Lord says: "Shall he that contendeth with the Almighty instruct Him? he that reprovethe God, let him answer it."

Then Job answered the Lord, and said, "I know that Thou canst do everything, and that no thought is withholden from Thee. Therefore have I uttered that I understood not; wherefore I abhor myself, and repent in dust and ashes."

MEMORY VERSE

"Pray one for another. . . . The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much."—James 5:16.

all the sons of God shouted for joy?"

Is there any literature in the world that surpasses the Bible in its poetry, its language, its inspired and thrilling pictures created in the mind of mortal man? Even quite small children will be thrilled by it. Modern scientists have taught us much more of the nature of the universe and its extent than was then known, but the more that is discovered about it the more we wonder and marvel at this wondrous creation, and the nature of God who rules it.

How small and unimportant is man with his short life on this most wonderful earth and its apparently limitless surroundings!

"Hast thou entered into the springs of the sea? or hast thou walked in the search of the depths? Of course Job had not. "Hast thou perceived the breadth of the earth? declare it thou knowest it all."

The Lord asks Job also if he is familiar with the causes of light and darkness, of the rain, ice and snow. "Canst thou bind the sweet influences of Pleiades, or loose the bands of Orion. . . . Who hath put wisdom in the inward parts, or who hath given understanding to the heart? The Pleiades are a loose cluster of stars in the constellation Taurus. Next certain animals are mentioned, and how I wish there were

Consumers Benefit By Current Price See-Saw

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (U-P)—A price see-saw is starting off the fall business season with the consumer getting a break here and there—and facing a new drain on his pocket-book in other things.

Food price changes, whenever there are any, usually favor the consumer. This is as it should be at the time of harvest and plenty. But in several past autumns the momentum of inflation kept food prices going up when they should be easing.

There are less attractive trends in some other fields. Here are a few price hikes made this week or announced for the near future: Fuel oil and kerosene prices are starting up at wholesale, especially in the Northeast, where their consumption is the greatest. Producers have supplies well in hand and cite production and distribution costs as the reason for the hikes. Also, they are making up in a measure for an easing in wholesale gasoline prices. The price see-saw marks the seasonal switch from high demand for gasoline to high demand for heating fuels.

Television set makers are reversing their price trends. Sets were being marked down only a short time ago as manufacturers worried about the effect on demand for black-and-white sets of all the talk about color sets being on the way. This week a number of companies have announced boosts on black-and-white sets.

Publicly, they cite increased manufacturing costs. Privately, some say the sales outlook is so good now that they feel they can increase their profit margins without disturbing the market.

Tire prices continue to strain at the leash on the up side. A leading maker is raising by 5 to 6 percent the prices on some of its tubeless passenger car tires. It predicts the price trend will soon spread to all makes and be followed by most companies.

The price of natural rubber is on the way up too. And this won't help hold the price of tires down any.

These price changes are going on against a background of fairly stable commodity prices in general. Take all commodities together and the average price has varied only slightly for about two years.

Food prices at wholesale, however, are tending to the downside just now. If little of this shows up at the grocery, the food processors explain that all handling costs are up offsetting the drop in prices at the farm.

Siamese Twins Die Of Surgery

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (U-P)—Siamese twins who were given little chance of reaching maturity without separation are dead after a surgical attempt to separate them.

The twin girls, Connie and Bonnie, died during an operation at University Hospital here yesterday after more than four hours on the operating table.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Johnson, Negro couple from Pine Bluff Ark., requested the operation after being told there was little hope their children would reach maturity if they remained joined.

They were born July 26 with the sternum bone, which normally lies between the ribs, joining them face-to-face.

Yesterday's surgery revealed that the infants' hearts were fused and practically formed a common organ.

Marilyn Revealed A New Side To Public

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — When Marilyn Monroe emerged from her honeymoon house after two days of seclusion this week, she revealed a Monroe the public had never seen before.

An hour after Joe DiMaggio had left the house and formally ended their nine-month marriage, Marilyn came out and faced the 50 newsmen. She was frightened and emotionally upset. She clung to lawyer Jerry Giesler and scarcely heard the questions that were flung at her. Her eyes filled with tears.

A far cry from the beautiful blonde who delighted interviewers with quotes like, "Sex is a part of nature," I'd rather go along with nature." Quite different from the girl who admitted she posed for that calendar. Did she have anything on? Her reply: "Yes, the radio."

The real Marilyn, her friends say is the girl who was scared to death last Wednesday and not the glamor doll who gives out sexy quotes and poses with moist, half-opened lips. That's just an act—the fulfillment of the dreams of an orphan girl.

You get a different picture of Marilyn Monroe from those who have worked closely with her. Says one of her admirers, actress Lauren Bacall:

"She's a hard girl to get to know. But you have the feeling that she wants to be liked. That seems important to her. Her instincts are those of a nice gal, not a phony. She's wary of people and probably with good reason; she's been stung by many of them."

The press agent who works closest to Marilyn has this to say: "To understand Marilyn, you have to study her early life. She was taken in as a little girl by a group of religious fanatics who told her 'God will hate you' because she was singing and dancing. Then she lived with some British vaudevillians who taught her theatrical tricks. She also lived with an elderly woman, a lawyer and others. She's bound to be confused."

"I think her rough childhood is why she's always late. It's part of her basic insecurity."

From all I can observe, a picture of two Monroes emerges. One is Marilyn, the movie queen, the walking image of sex. By the shrewdest brand of publicity she has been built into a living legend.

The other side is a girl named Norma Jean Baker. She led an orphan childhood, unwanted and unloved. She grew up painfully shy and fearful of people. Yet her ambition to be liked proved her to universal prominence.

The Hollywood know-it-alls have guessed at the real cause of the DiMaggio-Monroe split. They're

Hog Centers For Prison System

RALEIGH — The State Prisons Department plans to set up 16 hog breeding centers instead of raising hogs at the various prison camps. Prisons Director William F. Bailey said yesterday the move is aimed at producing more pork at less cost. There will be a hog breeding center in each of the 14 Highway Divisions, one at Cary Prison Farm and one at Caledonia Prison Farm.

"Based on the health department's recommendations of standard diets," said Bailey, "we will need 1,200,000 pounds of pork annually. The goal for producing this will be 6,000 head of hogs, with a dressed weight of 200 pounds each."

Singer Again Is Seeking Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — A new divorce suit is on file by singer Ella Logan against her husband, Hollywood producer Fred Finkelhoff.

The new action, filed in Superior Court yesterday, came three months after she dropped a previous suit in the same court.

Miss Logan, 41, charged mental cruelty and said a property settlement has been reached. The couple married in 1942 and separated last year.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK—Steels gathered in most of the buying attention today in a slightly higher stock market.

In the early afternoon, prices throughout the list went from around a point higher to a point lower with the exception of a few higher priced stocks.

Business wasn't very rushing at a pace around two million shares for the day but it was better than yesterday's low 1,810,000 shares.

Steels were higher right at the start of trading, and continued to hold to their gains. No other major group could match the steels in trading vigor or price appreciation.

Oils were generally higher, railroads were up on balance, but the other major divisions were mixed to steady.

Among higher stocks were Pittsburgh Steel, U.S. Steel, Granite City Steel, Woolworth, Rohr Aircraft, Beech Aircraft, Kennecott Copper, Olin-Mathieson Chemical, General Electric, Allis, Chalmers, Royal Dutch Petroleum, and Texas Pacific Land Trust.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Central North Carolina poultry markets: Fryers and broilers about steady, farm price 20 with few at 19, f.o.b. plant price, no sales reported; Raleigh eggs steady, A large 48-50.

Asheville fryers and broilers unsettled at 19; eggs steady A large 40-45.

Kyzer Attending Burlington Meet

Willard T. Kyzer, manager of the local Chamber of Commerce, left this morning to attend a meeting of the North Carolina Association of Chamber of Commerce Executives in Burlington today.

Kyzer serves as a member of the Board of Directors of the Association.

The Manager plans to return home tomorrow.

ASKS ASYLUM

PARIS (AP)—An official of the International Refugee Organization said today that 33-year-old Krystyna Bujnowski, a member of a Polish dance troupe performing in Paris, has asked for political asylum in France.

Farmville Market Near Milestone

FARMVILLE—The local market today is expected to reach the 20,000,000 pound mark in tobacco sales for the season, Sales Supervisor Charles S. Edwards reported this morning.

Yesterday the market sold 773,276 pounds of tobacco for $451,069.28 averaging $58.33. Edwards said yesterday's average was over Wednesday's sales when wet tobacco held the price down somewhat.

Jaycees To Seek $5,000 For New Emergency Truck

The Junior Chamber of Commerce agreed last night to sponsor a drive to raise $5,000 for an emergency rescue truck to be operated by the local fire department.

James W. Boykin reported on the cost breakdown of the vehicle to the club. He said it would be equipped with power hack saw, body jacks and other gear needed for removing wreck victims pinned in vehicles.

Boykin stated that the present emergency truck at the fire station is good as far as it goes. But, he noted, it is only a first class ambulance and is not designed to carry the tools needed for rescue work.

Boykin indicated that a three-quarter ton truck would be bought to contain the equipment. The truck is to be radio equipped.

It was stressed that no organized drive for funds would be conducted among Greenville merchants and that all donations are to be voluntary.

The Jaycees also heard reports on the progress of the horse show to be held at Guy Smith Stadium Saturday and Sunday.

Ben Rouse discussed the inter-city club meet to be held October 22 and Phil Goodson reported on progress of the Voice of Democracy committee.

Following the meet members went to Guy Smith stadium to set up equipment for the week end horse show.

Traffic Noises Being Studied

Heavy traffic around Greenville High School has been causing difficulty in that area, Principal O.E. Dowd reported this morning.

Dowd said the noise from the traffic interfered with classroom study.

The City Manager and the Police Department have just completed a survey of the traffic in the high school area, particularly at Reade and Fourth streets. It was found truck traffic is very heavy in that vicinity, with 56 trucks being counted the last day of the survey.

However, it was pointed out all the trucks were traveling to business establishments in the area.

Dowd said he would like to urge all persons who drive in the vicinity of the high school "to be as careful as possible in looking out for students, and to cooperate in making it as quiet as possible for classroom study."

He expressed appreciation to the City Manager and the Police Department on behalf of the faculty and students for their cooperation "in trying to make it a little quieter around our building."

Action Deferred..

panies were only carrying $5000 property damage insurance on their cabs and $10,000 liability while the city law required $20,000 property and liability.

City Attorney R.B. Lee brought out that state law will only allow the city to require the $500-$10,000 property and liability insurance and the council took no action.

Other Business

The council also awarded the audit contract on 1954-55 to the George Scott Company at a cost of $500. They accepted bids for 1100 feet of fire hose from the General Fire Hose Company of Detroit through its local representative James Jenkins. The hose is to cost a total of $1489.

Hughes brought out that two blocks of Vance Street which had been approved for paving was scheduled for future installation of storm sewer. He said that if the street is paved now almost the entire street would have to be torn up for the storm sewer installation at a later date.

Whereas instructed Hughes to go to the property owners along the street and explain the situation to them.

The council received a petition for the paving of Laurel Street from Fourth to Fifth Streets and agreed to table it until the next paving program.

Councilman Gene West asked the chief of police to instruct the city's police women to be more diplomatic when writing parking tickets.

West emphasized that he thought they were to be commended however.

"I think they are doing an excellent job," he stated.

Finally the council approved a taxi franchise for Nathaniel Corbett. The franchise is to take the place of another franchise which has been dropped.

Fire Truck Attended School Fire Drill

The fire department is conducting fire drills at each of the Greenville City Schools this week as a part of the observance of Fire Prevention Week. Students at the Coates-Wahl School at East Carolina College are shown above as they gather around the fire truck which visited the school for the fire drill yesterday. More Milk Available To Pitt School Pupils

More milk will be available to Pitt County school children under terms of an agreement with the State Department of Public Instruction just signed by Superintendent D.H. Conley.

Conley said the county is joining in a nation-wide effort authorized by Congress to increase the consumption of milk by children in schools.

To bring about this increase, the U.S. Department of Agriculture advances funds to the State Department of Public Instruction which in turn reimburses the Pitt County schools for part of the cost of the additional milk they serve.

The milk will be bought directly from local dairies and distributors.

Conley said the new program "provides a wonderful opportunity to aid the children to drink more milk." To make it easier for the children to drink additional milk, he said arrangements have been made to serve milk at recess time and before classes start in the mornings.

In addition, the children will be encouraged to drink as much milk as they want at lunch time. Conley stated there will be no limit placed on the amount a child may drink.

He urges that parents assist the new program by enrolling their children in it. He also requests that parents encourage their children's interest in the special school activities which will be designed to tell them more about milk and why they should drink more of it.
