

County Fair Opening Today

A fair wouldn't be a fair without Ferris wheels and the two big wheels which highlight the Pitt County Agricultural Fair that begins today are shown above in the process of erection.

The annual Pitt County Fair opened here this afternoon highlighted by a wide variety of agricultural exhibits and Prell's Broadway Shows providing entertainment on the midway.

"We are asking every citizen of Pitt County to be a 'booster' for the 1954 event to the end that we may reach our attendance goal, or even more."

Judging of all exhibits at the fair will take place on Tuesday, and fair officials have set up $3,800 to be awarded to exhibitors at the fair this year.

Restraint Of Trade In Coffee Charged Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission today charged the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange has unlawfully restrained international trade in coffee and thereby "promoted substantial increases" in prices.

The complaint named the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange, Inc., four of its officers and eight New York Coffee and Sugar Clearing Assn., Inc.

strict and restrain" contracts for the trading in coffee for future delivery, and also the actual buying and selling of coffee itself.

Grady Norton Is Buried In Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Private funeral services were held today for Grady Norton, the famous weatherman who earned the gratitude of coastal residents all over the Western Hemisphere with his 24-hour predictions on the courses of hurricanes.

The 60-year-old chief of the hurricane warning system suffered a stroke Saturday morning. He died this night.

His death came as the eighth hurricane of the season roamed the Caribbean Sea. He had spent all day Friday helping keep track of it.

Nixon And Stevenson Clash Over Adlai's Criticisms

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Vice President Nixon and Adlai Stevenson crossed verbal swords yesterday in the wake of Stevenson's scathing criticism of the Eisenhower administration in a speech Saturday night.

Stevenson's Saturday night speech was to a Democratic rally in the Hollywood Bowl, where two weeks earlier President Eisenhower had teed off on the Democrats at a GOP pep session. Stevenson said in part:

He has detected "a tremendous swing" toward the Democratic party throughout the nation. He predicted the Democrats would "win control of the House by 30 or 40 seats."

Defeated Demo Primary Candidate Seeks Write-In Vote

Whitehurst Running For Sheriff

S. A. Whitehurst, defeated by 44 votes in the Democratic second primary last June 28, announced today he will seek the office of sheriff of Pitt County by write-in votes in the general election November 2.

In a hotly contested political fight, Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson was declared the Democratic nominee after a dispute over ballots in three boxes went to the State Board of Elections and the State Board overruled the Pitt County Board of Elections which had ordered a recount in the Ayden, Bethel and Pactolus boxes.

Whitehurst's announcement in announcing his candidacy as a write-in candidate, Whitehurst said since the decision handed down by the State Board of Elections, "thousands of my fellow Pitt County citizens have demanded to know what can be done about the situation, and that they be given an opportunity to express their will at the polls in the general election to be held on November 2."

Local political observers contacted this morning could not recall a previous case in Pitt County in which an announced candidate had sought office in a write-in campaign in the general election.

On the printed county ballots which will be used in the general election, Tyson's name will appear only in the sheriff's column. He will be listed as the Democratic nominee for the office of sheriff.

Whitehurst asserted, "I believe that every citizen has the right

Sea Claims 37 Sailors In Sinking

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Eleven seamen, survivors of the capsized freighter Mormackite, were safely in port today with harrowing tales of two days floating helplessly in stormy, shark-infested waters.

The Mormackite sank under the brute pounding of wind-whipped Atlantic seas 150 miles east-southeast of Cape Henry.

The 11 survivors were brought to Norfolk yesterday by three Navy destroyer escorts. With them came the bodies of 12 who died. The remaining 25 bodies were not found and presumably went down with the ship or disappeared more terrifyingly among the sharks that survivors reported seeing by the hundreds.

Some of the sharks were "12, 14 and 16 feet long," reported Padalio del Valle of New York City. One of three who clung atop a makeshift raft, Del Valle said rescue came just in time to keep his group from taking their own lives.

On the last day we started to think how we ought to take our lives away the easiest. When you're drinking salt water and taking it into your lungs, it is terrible. Yesterday (Saturday) morning the three of us decided to do it. Then we saw a Navy carrier and then there were planes. Another hour and we would have been dead."

Physicians at the U. S. Public Health Service hospital here said none of the 11 survivors was in serious condition.

S. A. WHITEHURST

The Coast Guard called off the search for other survivors yesterday.

Bonner and his wife Eva returned aboard the Grace Line freighter Santa Cecilia from a six-week tour of South America.

He said he made the trip at his own expense to get a first-hand view of the American merchant marine and to discuss fishing rights with representatives of Bonner's visited Chile, Brazil, Argentina, Peru, Ecuador, Columbia, Panama and the Canal zone.

"From the trend in the country today," he said, "it looks like the Democrats will organize the House."

He said that as ranking Democrat on the committee, with 14 years a member, "in all probability" he would become chairman if the Democrats win control.

Queen-Simpson Wedding Vows Pledged In Church Ceremony

In a candlelight ceremony on September 19 in the Immanuel Baptist Church here, Miss Sarah Patricia Simpson became the bride of S-Sgt. Edward L. Queen. The Rev. J. A. Neilson performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. Howard J. Simpson and the late Alice T. Simpson.

Prior to the ceremony a program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Howard Bodkin and Edward Conway, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Howard J. Simpson, Jr. of Marietta, Ga. wore a floor length gown of nylon tulle and cinchment lace with matching mitts and a sweetheart neckline. Her show length veil of imported illusion was attached to a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a white prayer book topped with a white orchid and showered with satin streamers. Her only ornament was a pearl necklace, a gift from the groom.

Mrs. Henry T. Treathan sister of the bride was her matron of honor. She wore a dusty rose floor-length dress of lace and net. She carried a bouquet of pink roses tied with matching ribbons.

S-Sgt. Joe W. Albee of Cherry Point attended the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Virgil Barnhill, Paul Hunsucker, T-Sgt. Adrian Wynn and T-Sgt. Dewey L. Sund.

Directly following the ceremony Mr. Howard Simpson entertained members of the wedding party and out of town guests at a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Worsley.

For the wedding trip Mrs. Queen wore a steel gray fallie two piece suit with matching accessories. Sgt. Queen is now stationed at

Joan Butler And Stuart Burton Speak Vows In Afternoon Rites

WINCHESTER, Va. — The Loudoun Street Presbyterian Church was the scene at 4:00 o'clock Saturday, afternoon October 9, of the wedding of Miss Joan Butler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roy Butler of West Cork Street and Stuart Burton, Jr., of Richmond, son of Mrs. Stuart McGuire Burton, of Greenville, N. C. and the late Mr. Burton.

The Rev. Robert C. Bradford, Jr., solemnized the double ring ceremony, assisted by Dr. George D. Jackson, pastor of the church, before an altar decorated with palms, white gladioli, chrysanthemums and candles.

Proceeding the ceremony, Mr. Jean Pasquet played a program of wedding music including, "Album Leaf," Wagner; "Be Thou with Me," Bach; "Invocation," Capocci; "Nightingale and the Rose," St. Saens; "Sapphic Ode," Brahms; "Cradle Song," Wagner. He played also the traditional wedding marches and accompanied Mr. Jay Lowden, who sang "Where'er You Walk," Handel; "O Father, All Creating," Bach. The Lord's Prayer was sung at the conclusion of the exchange of vows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of duchess satin made with a fitted bodice designed with a calla neckline, the long sheath sleeves were pointed over the wrists and the full skirt extended into a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of French illusion fell from a coronet of pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

Miss Joyce Butler, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and wore a long gown of emerald green iridescent taffeta with a pin tucked bodice and shrug jacket. She wore a gold velvet bandeau and carried a cascade arrangement of pale yellow carnations with gold pom pom chrysanthemums tied with gold ribbon.

The other attendants, Miss Helen Whaley, of Richmond, and Miss Marjorie Duncan, of Winchester, wore gowns identical in style to that of the maid of honor. Their bandeaus were of gold velvet and they carried bouquets like that of the maid of honor.

William F. Thomas, of Richmond, was best man for Mr. Burton. Ushers were: J. Douglas Butler and John K. Butler, brothers of the bride, Benjamin G. Williams and Rudolph Sacra, of Richmond.

Immediately after the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for the immediate family and out-of-town guests.

When the couple left for a Southern wedding trip, the bride wore a suit of arcaady blue with blue accessories, and a white orchid corsage. Upon their return, they will be at home at 1114 West Avenue, Richmond, Va.

Bland-Wooten Vows Spoken In St. Paul's Episcopal Church

With the simplicity and dignity of the ancient Episcopal marriage rite, Miss Lillian Hooker Wooten of Greenville and W. Powell Bland of Goldsboro were united in marriage here in a ceremony that took place in St. Paul's Episcopal Church on Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. William L. Wooten of Greenville and the late Dr. Wooten, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. David H. Bland of Goldsboro and the late Mr. Bland.

Friends and kinsmen filled the church whose traditional cruciform design was enhanced by white flowers, greenery and candlelight. Smilax banked the windows, and each pew was marked with a single chrysanthemum and smilax. Festoons of smilax and huckleberry, centered with fan-shaped arrangements of white chrysanthemums and snapdragons, decorated the chancel rails. On the altar, candelabra cast a golden glow on lovely arrangements of white chrysanthemums and snapdragons in altar vases.

Dr. Wallace I. Wolverton, rector of the church, performed the ceremony, and music was given by Mr. George Perry, organist, and Miss Barbara White, soprano, who sang "O, Perfect Love," and "Lord, What at Cana's Wedding Feast." Young Angus Duff served as the acolyte.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Dr. John L. Wooten. Her wedding gown was of monastery white silk taffeta. The bodice was fashioned with a portrait neckline formed by French folds applied with lace, and embroidered with pearls and rhinestones. The long sheath sleeves were pointed over the wrists and the belled skirt, with over-all floral jewel embroidery extended into a long, circular train. Over her full-length veil of silk tulle, she wore an heirloom panel of Princess lace caught with orange blossoms. A cascade bouquet of stephanotis and white orchids, tied with white satin ribbons, completed her wedding attire.

Miss Lillian Dewar of Raleigh, the maid of honor, wore a full-length gown of emerald green velvet and tulle. The strapless velvet bodice was fashioned with a fitted bolero and short capped sleeves. Velvet points extended into the flared bouffant tulle skirt. Miss Dewar wore a bandeau of matching green velvet in her hair and carried a cascade bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums and Golden Rapture roses tied with yellow satin streamers.

The gowns of the bridesmaids Miss Jane Richardson of Baltimore, Maryland, Mrs. J. Tom Grier of Spartanburg, South Carolina, Mrs. Hoyt Minges of Kingston, and Mrs. David J. Whitchard, III, of Greenville — were identical with that of the maid of honor. Their bouquets were cascades of yellow chrysanthemums tied with yellow streamers.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Dr. Ralph Bland of the University of Pennsylvania Hospital in Philadelphia, as best man. His ushers were David H. Bland, Jr., and Thomas W. Bland, his brothers, and Humphrey Brown and William A. Dees, Jr., all of Goldsboro; Charles W. White of Durham; and William L. Wooten, Jr., of Greenville, brother of the bride.

Mrs. William L. Wooten, mother of the bride, was gowned in rose beige tulle. Her gown was made with a fitted bodice and full-length bouffant skirt, and the bodice, embroidered with a pattern of seed pearls and iridescents, featured a sweetheart neckline. A purple orchid corsage complemented her gown. Mrs. Bland, mother of the bridegroom, wore an evening gown of aqua Chantilly lace and silk crepe, and a corsage of pink orchids.

Immediately following the ceremony, the mother of the bride entertained at a reception at her home, 403 Maple Street. After the reception, the bridal couple left for a wedding trip to Sea Island, Georgia. Upon their return, they will make their home in Goldsboro.

Mrs. Bland is a graduate of Duke University, where she was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, which she served as president. She was also a member of Phi Beta Kappa. Mrs. Bland was presented to North Carolina society at the Terpsichorean Ball in Raleigh. Last year, she taught at Hugh Morson High School in Raleigh.

Mr. Bland is a graduate of Wake Forest College, where he was a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity and also served as its president. He was also a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, honorary leadership fraternity. Mr. Bland is a graduate of Harvard University Law School and now practices law in Goldsboro. He served four years in the United States Army, spending a three-year tour of duty in the Pacific Area, and was a captain at the time of his release from service.

Immediately following the wedding, Mrs. William Isler Wooten entertained at a reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Wedigan Powell Bland at her home on Maple Street.

Receiving at the front door were Dr. and Mrs. K. B. Pace. In the living-room Mr. and Mrs. J.H. Waldrop introduced the guests to the receiving line composed of Mrs. W.I. Wooten, Dr. John Wooten, Mrs. David Bland, Sr. Mr. and Mrs. Powell Bland, and the bride's attendants.

Beautiful fall arrangements of white stock and calla lilies, happiness roses, white roses and fuji mums were on the piano and side table in the living-room.

Receiving throughout the house were Mr. & Mrs. H.L. Ormond, Mr. & Mrs. Ty Wagner, Dr. & Mrs. J.M. Barrett, Mr. & Mrs. Charles Flanagan, Miss Barbara White, Mr. Jack Whitchard, Col. & Mrs. Owen Marshburn, Mr. & Mrs. David Hardee, Mr. & Mrs. N.O. Van Nortwick, Sr. Mrs. & Mrs. J.B. Kittrell Sr., Miss Lillah Gout, Mrs. Herbert Holden, and Mrs. Frank Wooten.

At the register were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Raggsdale, Mrs. Ward Moore Tripp, and Mr. Carvis Hooker.

The bridal table in the dining-room was covered with a white damask Venice lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of white fuji mums snapdragons and pink roses. Three branch candelabra were entwined with smilax, roses and orange blossoms. French frosted coffee from a silver punch bowl, flanked by smilax and baby orchids was served by Dr. & Mrs. S.M. Crisp and Mr. & Mrs. Wallace Bourne of Greensboro. Tea rolls and ham, assorted sandwiches and tea pastries, decorated wedding cakes, beehives rum cakes, mints and salted nuts were served from trays decorated with lady slippers, hearts and wedding bells.

Mr. & Mrs. Graham Flanagan greeted guests at the dining-room door. Assisting in the dining-room were Mr. & Mrs. J.H. Thomas, Miss Mary Andrews Whitchard, Miss Alice Wooten, Miss Maude Lee of Chapel Hill, and Miss Agnes Brown of Philadelphia, Pa.

On the buffet a silver tray decorated with smilax and orange blossoms flanked by cornucopias filled with mints held a four-tiered wedding cake topped with white orchids. After the wedding cake was cut, toasts were made by the bride and groom.

The stairway was entwined with Southern smilax, and Happiness roses and white stock were featured in the hall. Arrangements of yellow and bronze cymbidium orchids and pom pom chrysanthemums, yellow fuji chrysanthemums fuchsia cymbidium orchids, and pink stock and chrysanthemums were used throughout the house.

For traveling, Mrs. Bland wore a costume suit of rosewood brown wool, with a mauve satin and seed pearl collar; matching brown accessories; and a corsage of white orchids.

Out-of-Town Guest Speakers On Topic Color In The Home

The American Home Department of the Woman's Club met at the lovely new home of Mrs. J. L. Tripp, on Friday afternoon, with Mesdames Howard Mims, S. L. Daughtridge, L. W. Topping, J. L. Evans, H. L. Andrews, W. R. Smith and H. H. Bryant serving as hostesses.

Members and guests were invited into the dining room where delicious punch and sandwiches were served.

The meeting began with the reading of the Collect and the welcoming of guests and members by Mrs. J. C. Galloway Jr., the new chairman. The minutes were read and approved.

The program chairman, Mrs. Ell Bloom, then introduced Mrs. Neald of Kinross as one of North Carolina's leading interior decorators. Mrs. Neald gave a very interesting talk on the use of color in the home. She said that the most popular colors for the year are pink, green, and brown. Stripes and checks are popular for dens and children's rooms. The use of murals can give a room depth and atmosphere and they are being used in any room in the home. Mrs. Neald showed many beautiful samples of drapery materials and carpets. Nylon and rayon carpeting seem to be very practical and much less expensive than wool. She ended her talk with, "I like to guide rather than tell, people in decorating. This brings out more of a person's individual personality."

The meeting was adjourned. Mrs. Tripp then invited everyone present to tour her home.

Mrs. Underwood Gives Program On Books And Authors

Mrs. E. H. Williford was hostess to the members of the Inter Se Book Club and special guests on Tuesday, October 5 at her lovely home in Brook Green.

A very special greeting was given to everyone by the hostess for the first meeting of the fall.

A brief business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Williford who presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Ercell Webb.

The program for the afternoon was given by Mrs. Sam Underwood, Jr. who presented the new books for the year. In her presentation, Mrs. Underwood gave a few comments about each of the books and their authors.

At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Williford invited everyone into the dining room. Her table was centered with a lovely arrangement of fall roses. She was assisted in serving punch, sandwiches, ham biscuits and other delightful refreshments by several of the members of the club.

Mrs. Williford had as her special guests for the afternoon, Mrs. Alton Barrett, Mrs. David Hardee, Mrs. Moya Dall, Mrs. Jimmie Phelps and Mrs. Hoover Taft.

The 'Merit System' Means A Great Deal

The evaluation of Pitt County's unpaved roads under the new merit system worked out by Highway Division officials and the County Commissioners will mean a great deal to Pitt County.

Evaluation of 227 unpaved roads has been set up under the system which gives priority rating to individual roads on the basis of their relative importance. The purpose of the merit system is to evaluate the individual roads in the county, and to give priority to roads for paving on the basis of importance.

Under the merit system, each road is evaluated on the same basis. Taken into consideration in the evaluation are the length of the road, the number living on the road, the number of school buses and mail routes using the road, the number of churches, schools, public cemeteries, businesses on the road, the traffic count of the road and other vital information.

With the merit system, the County Commissioners and the Highway Division officials will be able to plan more carefully the spending of the limited amount of money which will be available for paving roads during the next several years.

Each unpaved road in the county has been given a code number on a large map. An evaluation sheet has been prepared for each road, and the number of points received by the road under the merit system has been outlined. It is a relatively simple matter now for highway officials and county officials to determine the relative importance of any road in Pitt by referring to the information contained in the merit system file.

From time to time in the future new surveys will have to be made on the unpaved roads, because developments may change the relative importance of individual roads. Even so, the merit system gives officials a concrete basis upon which to plan paving work.

For the past several years - when the state had $200,000,000 in bond money to spend on secondary roads - the paving of secondary roads was done on a wholesale basis. Now that only a fraction of the former amount is available for paving of secondary roads, a much greater degree of caution must be exercised to see that the funds are spent where they will provide the greatest benefits for the greatest number of people.

The merit system, worked out by Highway Commissioner Hicks, members of the highway division staff, and the several boards of County Commissioners in the second division, is one of the foremost steps taken in the planning for secondary road work in recent years. The Reflector sincerely hopes the Pitt Commissioners will adhere to the merit system in their recommendations to the highway department concerning the paving of secondary roads in the county.

Today We Look To The South For Newsprint

For the South, there is more than momentary significance in the dedication last week of the new plant of Bowaters Southern Paper Corp. in Calhoun, Tenn.

It is another milestone in the development of big industry in the South. It is another example of major industries' recognition of the many benefits derived from having major plants in the heart of the great Southern consumer market.

Although the United States consumes more newsprint than the rest of the world, practically all of the newsprint consumed here is imported. Eighty per cent of the newsprint American people find in their daily and weekly newspapers comes from Canada. In times past, American newspapers have looked to Finland, Newfoundland and other countries as well as Canada for the supply.

The making of high grade paper from southern pine is a relatively recent development in the paper manufacturing industry. The development of the process has opened vast new possibilities for the rapid growing pine of the Southland. A few years ago Southern newspaper publishers put up the capital for the development of a newsprint mill at Coosa River, Ala. to produce newsprint from southern pine. Now the new Bowaters plant in Tennessee will supply newsprint, made from pine, to newspapers in 128 cities in 14 Southern states.

Like newspapers in 127 cities in 14 southern states, The Reflector signed a 15 year contract with the new Bowaters plant for a fixed supply of newsprint to assure the establishment of the plant in one of the Southern states.

With the great forests of Canada and the Northern United States gradually being depleted, it is reasonable to assume there will be a gradual migration of the newsprint industry from Canada to the Southern United States where rapidly growing pine - promoted by a well managed reforestation program - will afford a ready supply of raw materials for the newsprint industry.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
A FAMILIAR SOUND
"Money talks."
We have all heard that saying, and perhaps thought of it as a rather cynical expression of the power and influence that can be purchased by money. But the saying is true. Money does talk. And it often says a great deal about the character of the man who has it.
In the hands of a spendthrift wastrel, money practically shouts, "Come and get me!" And as it is poured out at nightclubs and casinos and racetracks, to all those within hearing distance, it adds a message about the folly of the spender.
A miser's money can scarcely be heard. Its muffled voice is a whispered testimony to the selfish futility of hoarding what might be used for good purposes.
The money used by a ruthless profiteer speaks of heartless cruelty and ruined lives. Both when he makes it and when he spends it, it cries out of the wrongs done for its sake.
But money speaks well of people, too. The money spent by parents on their children's higher education tells of foresight, careful planning, and love. Money given to church or donated wisely to charity proclaims a generous, sympathetic, responsible donor.
Money talks. What does your money say about you?

Air Freight Route Is Tied Up

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower's failure to grant a certificate to an American air freight line for service to Europe and the Middle East puzzles military and aviation experts. His inaction is the more bewildering because he approved a rival British line's application for this freight route nine months ago, and without any delay.
The American firm involved is the Seaboard & Western Airlines, Inc., which is owned by the Norden brothers of New York City. It first sought a certificate as far back as 1947, but its application was denied by the Civil Aeronautics Board in 1952.
CAB ruled that the Defense Department had not said that an air merchant marine was essential to national defense. The case was reopened after a "missing" letter from the late Stephen Early, then Deputy Defense Secretary, turned up. He informed CAB that the Department favored an all-cargo service for military reasons. The State Department also wants development of American air freight routes around the world.
CAB APPROVED SEABOARD APPLICATION—Opposition to two commercial air lines, even though they have never engaged in hauling freight in an extensive way, continued to block CAB approval during the Truman Administration. They are Juan Trippe's politically powerful Pan American World Airways and Trans World Airlines.
Last June, however, CAB approved Seaboard's application on the recommendation of its examiner and counsel. The vote was 3-2. But Eisenhower has withheld his affirmation, despite his prompt okay of British Airwork Ltd.'s request for a 10-year contract.
In urging favorable action on Seaboard's application, CAB Examiner Herbert K. Brown declared that it would be embarrassing for the Board—or the White House—to defend denial of Seaboard's petition. If it granted the British company's application, he said:
"The Board will have to assume the anomalous position of finding that public interest factors require a permit for a foreign carrier, while finding that similar conditions do not require a certificate for a domestic carrier to provide like service."

NO GOVERNMENT SUBSIDIES—In this connection, it has been pointed out that Seaboard, unlike its commercial opponents, enjoys no government subsidies, and will receive none even if given a certificate. It must stand on its own feet. Moreover, Seaboard pays heavy Federal taxes, whereas the luxury passenger lines' taxes are paid by the Treasury, with "windfalls" added.
As a result of the White House delay, the United States now has no international air freight network. The need for such a national defense support became tragically clear in the Berlin airlift that broke the Reds' blockade of that city, and in flying material to Korea and Indo-China.
The commercial companies participated in these military projects in only a limited way. Defense Department figures show that 56 per cent of the flights were made by nonsubsidized carriers, and only 44 per cent by the subsidized lines. In warning of America's weakness in this field, CAB Member Joseph P. Adams said:
"In 1951, of 348 all-cargo flights across the North Atlantic, U. S. certificated carriers operated only nine flights, or 3 per cent!"
The situation has not improved noticeably. The commercial companies have not ordered an all-cargo plane since World War II.

LETTER TO EISENHOWER—In urging prompt and favorable action, Raymond A. Norden, Seaboard president, wrote as follows to President Eisenhower last August:
"The hearing rooms of Congress still reverberate with cries of 'monopoly' and 'chosen instrument.' It remains for you, Mr. President, to affirm or deny the truth of these charges... or whether the 'forces of monopoly' shall prevail, or whether the spirit of 'free enterprise' shall prevail."
Numerous Senators have written to the White House in similar vein. They may cite this case as evidence of Administration favoritism to politically friendly interests, and alleged monopolies.

Growing Monopolies

By ELMER ROESSNER
Some governmental bodies are indignantly denouncing monopolies. At the same time, other governmental bodies are granting them.

The U.S. Attorney General and the Federal Trade Commission are fighting them; state governments and commissions are granting them along toll highways. Interest on practically all of the bonds issued to finance toll roads is free of Federal and most state taxes. And, as if that were not inducement enough, highway authorities usually sell gasoline, oil, auto repair, souvenir and feeding concessions along toll roads. The profits help guarantee the tax-free interest.

When a toll highway slashes its way across a state, it draws traffic from older, free routes. By that, it also draws customers away from the many enterprises—mostly small businesses—that line those highways.

This business is handed to the highest bidder: the oil companies and other concessionaires who remit, as a rule, a portion of their take as the price of their monopoly. This portion often is added to the price charged customers. A recent study by Socony-Vacuum showed that at 25 of 26 points checked, motorists were paying more for gasoline sold by toll-road concessionaires than at nearby stands on free highways. The 26th point was near several access roads.

In 14 cases, the difference was from 2 to 3.9 cents a gallon. In five cases it was 4 to 5.9 cents a gallon, and two places it was more than 6 cents.

As far as the department knows, no one has made a comparative study of charges for repairs, hamburgers, milk shakes and chowder on and off toll roads. Its own experience, however, indicates that toll-road prices run from 20 to 50 per cent higher. Love those bondholders!

This is not to disparage new superhighways. We need them—we need thousands of more miles of them. But we should understand the price we pay for them, the price in extirpations of small businesses, in higher prices for hydrocarbons and ice cream cones, as well as the price in tolls.

Tolls are no bagatelle, either. They range from 1 to 1½ cents a mile. That's about equal to the cost of gasoline.

Motorists pay the toll willingly. But if a 28-cent tax were added to each gallon of gasoline to pay for new roads, motorists would scream and scream.

Maybe there's a hint there for political bosses. When you give the taxpayers value for their money, they will part with a lot!

FOR BANKERS AND ADMEN

In a labor-helps-management move the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America will participate in an extensive market-expansion program initiated by the Tailors-to-Trade Association.

What with loans to clothing firms in temporary financial straits and new assistance in advertising and promotion, some people may begin to wonder if the garment workers aren't wasting their time at mere clothes making.

SCIENCE HELPS, IS...

If You'd Unbend A Little, Sam—

Without A Will Your Family Is Without Protection

By ROGER W. BABSON
NEW BOSTON, N.H. Every one should employ a lawyer and make a will at once, and re-read it once each year. Over 70 per cent of those who die each day leave no will. Inquiry shows, however, that a large percentage of these careless people have some property. When they die without a will, this property usually goes to someone whom they don't want to get it.

TOO MANY SMITHS, BROWNS, AND JONES.

Making a will is especially important if your name is Smith, Brown, Jones, or some equally popular name. (If you have any doubt as to the number of people having your name, just refer to any large city telephone directory.) If you happen to own a house when you die, your family may get hundreds of letters claiming relationship. Probably the Probate Court will throw out most of these claims as fraudulent; but some may be left whom your family must "buy off" before a clear title can be given to the real estate or the stock or bond which you own. I am much troubled by the fact that the number of stockholders and Government bondholders are increasing so much faster than the WILLS are being written.

THE GREAT AMERICAN LOTTERY

Each year about $500,000,000 are paid by insurance companies for the 40,000 people killed in automobile accidents. Most of those killed leave no WILLS, yet they get "awards" from $10,000 to $20,000 or more.

What persons would you like to have receive your part of this $500,000,000 in case you should be killed? It depends upon the laws of your state; but the chances are it may go to "relatives" whom you never saw. Hence, before you take another auto ride, you should make a will stating to whom you want this award to go in case you do get killed. I forecast the time may come when states will not be allowed to issue auto registrations to those 21 and over unless the applicant swears he has made a WILL.

FIRES, HURRICANES, AND OTHER CASUALTIES

Every up-to-date corporation and employer carries liability insurance to protect workers and customers. You do not need to be in an automobile to get accident ally killed. I see by the newspaper that about 90 New England people were killed by hurricanes this past month; none of these people had any warning. Many more are burned to death each week somewhere.

Perhaps you are included in some Group Life Insurance Plan.

These plans pay, regardless of how you die. You do not have to be killed in an automobile or any other kind of accident in order to get such an insurance award. You may die from pneumonia, polio, heart attack, or some other trouble which comes on suddenly.

WILLS ARE NOT EXPENSIVE

For some foolish reason, most people do not like to visit a doctor, dentist, or lawyer, unless in pain or some other trouble. This is all wrong. These men will treat you fairly. And this surely applies also to lawyers whom your bank recommends. Every reader of my column has a savings deposit with some bank. These banks want to help you in many ways, without charge. If you have not made a WILL, go to your bank tomorrow and ask your banker to recommend some lawyer who can make a WILL for you at a fair price. You may know some lawyer yourself; but you should be sure he knows how to make legal WILLS which "hold water" and cannot be broken.

TEMPORARY WILLS HELPFUL

If you are not ready to do this immediately, I have arranged with the Non-Profit Educational Information Center here at New Boston, N.H., (not "Old Boston" which may be bombed.) to send you, for Two Dollars, a blank form for a Temporary Will and other information. This blank form, you can fill out in a few minutes and have witnessed by three neighbors at no expense. Later you can take this to your lawyer for a re-write when you think of some addition you may wish to make. But don't wait to take some step at once. Next week may be too late. At least, send for a temporary WILL now; it will serve you until you do go to your lawyer.

A Significant Setting To Display Democracy In Action

By LYNN NISBET

DEMOCRACY—The setting for the eleventh district Democratic rally was as fully impressive and significant of democracy as any of the reports or speeches heard on the formal program. The rally was staged at Karyae Park at the foot of Crowder Mountain between Gastonia and Kings Mountain. Five of the seven counties in the district were represented, two of them had a few women present.

There wasn't much new in what any of the attendants said. All of them played up the democratic party and the Democratic candidates—even those about whom they said some pretty hard things last spring in the primary campaign. There was distinction in the setting.

On the way from Hendersonville, where the twelfth district rally was held the day before, some of the caravan took the southern route by way of Tryon and Gaffney, and one party side-tripped to visit the Kings Mountain National Military Park. This story is about the Karyae Park as much as it is about the Democratic rally staged there. Those who had just come from Kings Mountain more fully appreciated the setting.

KARYAE—The park takes its name from the community in Greece from which the ancestors of its sponsors came. It was developed ten years ago by a group of Greeks from all over the United States and Canada for the double purpose of providing an assembly ground for functions, and as a memorial to kinsmen who served in World War II. It was formally dedicated by Governor Gregg Cherry in 1946.

The park contains 40 acres, including two small "lakes", a large dining shed with capacity for 800, a dance hall and assembly room for 50 or more, a small chapel in which regular services following the ritual of the Greek Orthodox Church are held, and a granite obelisk commemorating the Greeks of the Karyae group who gave their lives in the service of the United States and Canada.

LOYALTY—It did not seem inappropriate to hear appeals for loyalty to the principles of democratic government in the shadow of a memorial to men who had died for these principles, which memorial had been provided by ADELPHOTOS ARAHOVITANS KARYAE. One of the members of the group, George Trakas, explained that the words mean the Brotherhood of Karyae. The middle word signifies the name of the ancient community, which was changed about the time of Christ.

Each year in August the Brotherhood assemblies for a three-day convocation. Other times when the facilities are not required for special services of the members, they are made available to civic and social groups dedicated to the general purposes of freedom of thought and action within controlled limits of the law. In that spirit, said George Trakas, "we are happy to make it available for the Democratic party as one such group."

RALLY—The Democrats did not impose upon but took full advantage of the facilities to proclaim their virtues and to castigate the Republican administration of government—and to eat barbecued pig (which they admitted did not cost as much as it did under Democratic regimes during the past few years.)

After Woodrow Jones, congressman from the eleventh district, had called the meeting to order and made the usual appropriate comments, and after L.B. Hollowell, Gaston county chairman, had welcomed the visitors from other counties, the Democratic party officials took over the program and earnestly tried to make the occasion look enough like a district rally to spur interest in the November election.

Nobody had time to make a real speech, but the anecdotes and wisecracks delighted the audience more than long winded speech-making. These ranged all the way from Thad Eure's renewed promise to ride a mule from Raleigh to Bakersville if Mitchell county sends a Democrat to the legislature, to Kerr Scott's comparison of a $28 automobile repair bill and the value of a good cow under the Eisenhower administration, and Stag Ballentine's quip about the farmer who sold a 200-pound offspring of $200, Democratic cow for $11.

SERIOUS—Despite the occasional wise-cracking levity and the small attendance at these rallies, the issues constitute serious business. The basic issue is economic. None of the social welfare programs can be effectuated by either Democratic or Republican administrations unless there is money to finance them. Opinion prevails there is sufficient money for reasonable financing if it is equitably distributed.

Reports of the highest, earnings in history by some big corporations at a time when farm prices are dropping and industrial workers are drawing less take-home wages make it difficult to convince the average citizen that equitable distribution is being provided.

The most serious economic factor in North Carolina is the drought. Farmers are first to feel it, but merchants and bankers are quickly sensitive to its impact and the governmental tax-take is not far behind in reflecting the losses. No sensible person blames or credits any administration with responsibility for the drought. It is becoming increasingly difficult to explain to desperate farmers, small merchants and bankers directly dependent upon agricultural prosperity for their basic livelihood that "business is good" because big outfits are making money for dividends than ever before, while they (the little folks) are suffering almost as much as they did in the depression of the early 1930's.

The question of whether government should be called upon to afford relief to drought-stricken farmers becomes academic when one rides hundreds of miles over North Carolina and sees fields with dried and sere crops, pastures brown instead of green. And particularly one in stance of three men laying pipes to irrigate a patch of truck-crop vegetables—with the source of irrigation water a small pond which had been fed by a stream now dried up.

The people are interested in politics, to be sure. But they don't have either the time or the inclination to attend rallies and listen to political platitudes.

Popular Comedy To Be Staged By Drama Club

"The Male Animal," Broadway success by James Thurber and Elliott Nugent, will open here Wednesday night at 8:15 in the College Theatre when the Teachers Playhouse of East Carolina College will present the first of two performances of the popular comedy.

The second and final performance will take place Thursday at the same hour and place. "The Male Animal" was presented by the Teachers Playhouse last Friday at State College, Raleigh, as the opening attraction of the entertainment series for this school year at the Student Union there.

The play merited the high praise of critics when it was produced professionally. The New York Daily News called it "the best comedy since 'Life With Father'."

A review in the New York Herald-Tribune described the comedy as a "singularly happy combination of Thurber's comic brilliance and Nugent's gift for human and likable characterization. . . The important thing is the mad hilarity of the humor which combines so effectively with a note of cool sanity. . . a comedy that is vastly amusing and vastly refreshing in the modest and intelligent liberalism of editorial viewpoint."

"The Male Animal" has a campus setting, and the action takes place on the weekend of an important football contest. The story deals with the academic and the domestic problems of a young, slightly absent-minded English professor, Tommy Turner. Tommy gets himself involved in a charge of being a "Red" and almost loses his attractive wife to a returning alumnus, a football hero of other days who has more brawn than brain.

James Corum of Reidsville is the Tommy of the Teachers Playhouse production. Nancy Cooke of Dunn plays Ellen, his wife. Other principals in the cast include Travis Martin of Williamston, James Crawford of Jacksonville Beach, Florida, and Alvis B. Carr Jr., of Rocky Mount.

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
 BURLINGTON, Oct. 8.—An aroused Elon College football eleven punctured East Carolina's bubble as kingpins in the North State Conference with a thorough 20-6 licking here before some 8,000 partisan fans.

The Christians of Coach Sid Varney played the favored Pirates off their feet by utilizing a bevy of speedy backs and a hard-charging forward wall. Coach Jack Boone's Buc couldn't cope with the aggressiveness displayed by twice-beaten Elon.

The Christian linemen opened bridled paths in the Pirates' line and the Elon ponies galloped through. East Carolina tried to counterpunch with an aerial game but every time a sustained drive seemed under way an intercepted pass would bid it adieu.

Elon Crusade

The Christians' first score came on a 59-yard punt return halfway the second period. East Carolina watched Bill Snyder's punt spin out of bounds on their own 13 yard line. Tom Allbrook went off tackle for two yards to the 15. Claude King raced through for four yards to the 19, but ECC was offside and the piskin was placed back on the

Collier to Bodo, TD

After five minutes had elapsed in the final period, East Carolina saved a whitewash. The Pirates stopped the Elon offense on a series of running plays and took over on their own seven yard line.

Collier hit Rightend Larry Rhodes, netting nine yards to the 16. Emo Bodo broke over right tackle for nine more and a first down on the 25. Collier's pass intended for Topsy Hayes was intercepted by Richards at the 50 and he was dropped after a return of five yards. Richards fumbled on the next play and Bodo fell on the ball at the 41.

Collier's pass to Rhodes fell short. Collier then faced and hit Bodo at the 34 and the tricky halfback outpied two defenders for the goal. The play covered 59 yards. Collier failed to get his kick away for the extra-point and Elon stayed ahead 14-6 with eight minutes remaining in the final period.

Elon's Third

The Fighting Christians were out to win this one and they wouldn't be denied. Just before the game ended, Guard Glenn Varney intercepted Collier's pass and on ECC's 38 and returned to the 32. An off-side penalty against Elon set the ball back on the 37. Fullback Bob Stauffenberg punched down to the 20. The big fullback hit the center of the line again, this time for 2 yards to the 18. Martin hurried down to the 14. Stauffenberg then shot through right guard and was Katy-Bar-the-Door for the six points. This time Simpson's kick was wide and Elon stood out in front 20-6 with two minutes of the game alive.

It was a team victory for Elon. They played an inspired and devout game of football to be the first conference team to trip the Pirates since the second game of the 1952 season.

East Carolina went into the game at its near top strength as they had been all season. Veterans King, David Lee and Boyd Webb had returned after a long sit-out. Only right spot was noticeable -- the sensational punting of King. The big senior punted five times for 213 yards and a 42.6 average.

Elon's Second Score

With three minutes remaining in the third period, Jack Crockett, reserve fullback, intercepted King's pass on Elon's 36. Wayne Martin drove eight yards to the 46. Crockett plowed to the 47 and to the 50 on two tries. Crockett lost six yards to the 44 and Elon called for time out. When play was resumed, Snyder quickly faked a baffling handoff to Martin and Crockett, spun and threw a jump pass to Latend Charles Micheaux at ECC's 40 and the latter wheeled into the end zone for the score. Simpson's kick for the point-after was true and Elon led 14-0 with 30 seconds left in the third period.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Willie Mays of the world champion New York Giants and Bobby Avila of the American League champion Cleveland Indians, 1954, batting leaders, yesterday were named top players in their leagues by the Sporting News.

The national baseball newspaper also named Giant pitcher Johnny Antonelli and Bob Lemon of the Indians as the No. 1 hurlers in their leagues.

Mays, Antonelli and Lemon won the honors by wide margins in the newspaper's poll of managers, players, umpires and sports writers but Avila wasn't far ahead of Larry Doby, Cleveland outfielder, and Yogi Berra, New York Yankee catcher.

Ted Kluszewski Cincinnati Redlegs slugging first baseman, ran second to Mays. Robin Roberts of the Philadelphia Phillies got the nod as No. 2 hurler in the National League while Early Wynn of the Indians took second behind teammate Lemon.

Boudreau Out, Bosox Sign Up New Manager

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Red Sox today hired Frank "Pinky" Higgins to manage the American League ball club the next two years. He will replace Lou Boudreau who ran the team the last three seasons.

Higgins former star major league third baseman, has been managing in the Red Sox system the past eight years. He piloted the Louisville Colonels in the Triple A American Assn. to the Little World Series title this season defeating Syracuse of the International League in the best of seven interleague series which ended Saturday.

Boudreau had one year to go on his Boston contract. Gen. Mgr. Joe Cronin told a gathering of baseball writers: "Gentlemen, the Red Sox have decided to make a change in managers."

He said the Red Sox will "meet the obligation" insofar as the second year of Boudreau's current contract is concerned. He added that if Boudreau should get an other job in baseball any necessary adjustment will be made.

Higgins a Texan, began his major league career immediately after his 1930 graduation from the University of Texas, signing with the Philadelphia Athletics.

After two years in the minors, in 1931 with Dallas and San Antonio, and 1932 at Portland, he played four years with the A's. He was with the Sox in '37 and '38 and the next seven years with Detroit, returning to Boston for his final active season in '46.

The next year he began his apprenticeship as a manager, piloting Roanoke, Va., a Sox farm in the Class B Piedmont League. Higgins was there two years, then two with Birmingham and the past four with Louisville.

He is expected to come to Boston Wednesday to meet the baseball writers.

The Red Sox finished fourth this season.

The change was the major managerial shift in the major leagues in recent weeks. All have been in the American League.

Paul Richards left the Chicago White Sox to become general manager and field manager of the Baltimore Orioles. He was replaced at Chicago by Marty Marion, former manager of the old St. Louis Browns.

Charlie Dressen, former manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, returned to the majors as manager of the Washington Senators, replacing Bucky Harris.

Harris was named manager at Detroit succeeding Freddie Hutchinson.

Two other managers may be replaced before the start of next season.

Eddie Joost of the Philadelphia Athletics may be lost in the shuffle if the projected shift of the Athletics franchise to another city goes through American League directors meet in Chicago tomorrow to make a decision.

Reports have it that Terry Moore probably will be replaced as manager of the Philadelphia Phillies. Lefty O'Doul is being talked for the job.

Pair Of National Champions Meet

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Two national champions, Vic Seixas of the United States and Marie Llamas of Mexico, face each other across the net again today as the Pan-American Tennis Tournament attempts to make up ground lost because of recent rains.

Seixas, seeded No. 1, was given quite a battle by the 22-year old Mexican railway clerk a week ago in the U.S.-Mexico Davis Cup competition. But since then the Philadelphia veteran has become acclimated to the high altitude and is playing much better tennis.

An extra day has been added to the tournament because of postponements caused by rain the last three days. The present schedule calls for the finals in the men's singles, men's doubles and women's doubles on Wednesday.

But today top-seeded Beverly Fleits of Belmont Shore, Calif., will meet second-seeded Barbara Breit of North Hollywood, Calif., for the women's title.

Seixas moved into the round of eight yesterday by beating Abraham Segal, South Africa 6-2, 6-0. Llamas advanced into the same round by eliminating highly regarded Lennart Bergelin of Sweden 6-3, 6-4.

Tony Trabert second seed from Cincinnati, takes on England's John Barret, who advanced when Chile Luis Ayala defaulted. Trabert had little trouble with Hugh Stewart of Los Angeles, winning 6-4, 6-1.

Bernard Barlsen, San Angelo, Tex., and Art Larsen of Trenton, N.J., and Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., also are in the quarter-final bracket. Larsen and Moylan meet today while Barlsen takes on the Swedish veteran, Sven Davidson.

Scientists estimate there are 10 billion tons of gold in the sea.

Apps Hold Safe Conference Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Appalachian had a lead in the North State conference football race today for the first time this season.

The Apps stopped Lenoir Rhyne, 21-14, Saturday and coupled with Elon's 20-6 upset over East Carolina, it put them out in front.

East Carolina, the defending champion, suffered its first conference loss since 1952 in bowing to Elon. The Christians took a first half lead on Kerry Richards 50-yard punt return.

Appalachian scored once in each of the first three quarters, then had to hold on gamely in the final period when the Bears scored twice and were on Appalachian's one foot line when the game ended.

Western Carolina won its first game of the season dropping Catawba, 26-13. Halfback Jim Garrison scored three times to lead the on half one 16-yard pass play attack.

In the only nonconference game, Emory and Henry whipped Guilford 13-7. Emory and Henry halfback Cokie Kitts did the scoring on runs of 85 and 90 yards.

Appalachian, with only two conference games left, plays one this Saturday against Catawba at Appalachian. The other conference tilts send Lenoir Rhyne to Guilford and Western Carolina to East Carolina.

Elon moves to Newberry in the non conference game.

SPORTS SHOTS

by Bruce Phillips

WHAT HAPPENED? Upset fever hit the nation Saturday and in the opinion of East Carolina followers it banked up at Burlington, Coach Sid Varney's Christians introduced themselves to the home folk with a vibrant 20-6 humiliation of the defending North State champions.

From the outset, Coach Jack Boone's club took the regressive role and Elon dealt all the way. The Christians, beaten in their first two games, outdid the visitors in every category of the game football except punting average.

The crippling defeat all but obliterated ECC hopes for their second straight conference crown. The loss drops East Carolina a full two games behind front-running Appalachian. Actually, only one game back figuratively. The Pirates play only five league games as compared with the Mountaineers' six conference.

Guilford College dropped ECC from its football schedule two years ago, claiming the school had grown too large for fair competition. Thus, the only chance East Carolina has for a title this season is for Appalachian to lose their two remaining conference games with Catawba and the locals and Elon and Western Carolina each lose another. Thin ice!

Appalachian now has a 4-0 North State mark with likings administered to Guilford, W. Carolina, Elon and Lenoir Rhyne. They're homecoming opponents of Catawba this Saturday and meet the Pirates in Boone on Oct. 30.

The 20-6 defeat was the first time a conference opponent has whipped East Carolina since the second game of the 1952 card. Lenoir Rhyne tripped the Pirates 7-6 and went on to capture their second straight league championship.

Saturday night, the Christians never let up for a moment. Coach Varney's club ran into the huddle and out, onto the field and off, and through East Carolina's defenses like frightened males on Sadie Hawkins Day.

The real sting is that the team that beat the veteran Bucs was comprised of 80 per cent freshmen and sophomores—more than half of which are freshmen. This is a profound preview of things to come from the Maroon and Gold teams.

Kerry Richards, 155 pounds of tropical storm, must take mercury injections. The flying "14" scored Elon's initial touchdown on a beautiful 52-yard punt return halfway the second period. He took a handoff from Quarterback W. Bradham, streaked down the middle until he saw he was away, then cut to the left sidelines and whipped Emo Bodo to the distance. The impromptu excursion ignited a spark in the Christians East Carolina never extinguished.

The remarkable thing about Richards is not his miraculous speed but his great courage. He was born with only one hand. The only resemblance of a left hand is one finger. He passes, catches, and runs with that handicap. He also punts for the Christians and got off one 40-yarder in the first half. He is only a sophomore.

He gets our vote for All-Conference and the loop's most courageous griddler.

Gridder Suffers Injury To Brain

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Rhode Island Hospital reported today that the condition of Lester R. Peavy, Brown University football player injured Saturday, remains critical but he showed slight improvement last night.

Peavy, a 200-pound end suffered a brain hemorrhage in a head-on collision with fullback Ed Sissom of the University of Rhode Island. A blood clot was removed from the left side of Peavy's brain Saturday.

Hospital authorities said last night that the 20-year-old junior from Stamford, Conn., was considered to have "only a 50-50 chance" to live.

Brown won the game, 35-0.

Story Of Defense Planning Sounds Like Alphabet Soup

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—First Bruto with Benelux. Then NATO. Then EDC. EDC was killed. Up sprang a bigger Bruto to take its place. NATO stands over Bruto. Sounds like a wild night in an alphabet menagerie.

Since each group of letters means something different from the others and all add up to increasing efforts by the West to find better defense against Russia, here is an explanation.
Bruto—The Brussels Treaty Organization. Born March 17, 1948. It had five members: Britain, France and the Benelux countries—Belgium, Netherlands, Luxembourg.

This was a 50-year agreement of mutual assistance by all five in case any of them was attacked. This first big postwar alliance in the West was soon superseded by a much bigger one, NATO.

NATO—The North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Born April 4, 1949. This is a 20-year mutual assistance agreement among 14 members: the five Bruto nations, plus the United States, Canada, Italy, Norway, Denmark, Iceland, Portugal, Turkey, Greece.

NATO went further than Bruto. The NATO members set up in Paris a general staff to plan defense against Russia. But there was a gap in the defense so long as West Germany was kept unarmed.

How could it be permitted to rearm, be brought into the Western alliance, and still be prevented from some day becoming a menace to its allies and neighbors? A French premier, Rene Pleven, proposed a solution:

EDC—The European Defense Community. Pleven suggested it Oct. 26, 1952. This plan called for a single European army with six members: France, West Germany, Italy, the three Benelux countries.

They'd give up their individual national armies and merge them in EDC under a unified command of their own choosing. In this way it was thought Germany never again could have a national army which might be a threat to her neighbors.

Fearing Germany might sometime get control of EDC, France urged Britain to join EDC as assurance against that. The British refused. The French Parliament killed the EDC idea Aug. 30, 1954.

Searching fast for another solution the Western Allies came up with the idea of a new and bigger Brussels Treaty Organization as a substitute.

Nine nations signed an agreement on Oct. 3, 1954: the United States and Canada, which wouldn't be members, and seven nations which would: the five old Bruto powers—Britain, France and the Benelux countries—plus two new ones: Germany and Italy.

The new Bruto is only an agreement, not a reality. It can't come into existence until the parliaments of the seven proposed members approve. Here are some details of what the new Bruto agreement means:

Whereas the EDC members would have given up their national armies and merged them in a single European army, the Bruto members will keep their individual armies.

West Germany would become NATO's 15th member. All the other Bruto countries already are in NATO. And Bruto's forces would be under the over-all command of NATO's general staff.

And NATO could limit the size of each Bruto nation's armaments. For example, the number of tanks the Germans could have. The Bruto members themselves would check on one another through a special agency to prevent cheating.

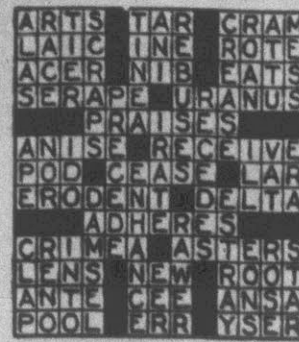

Further, Bruto's members, through their own special council, would decide the size of each member's armed forces. Thus France, by a veto could kill any proposal to increase the size of Germany's army. At the beginning Germany will be permitted 400,000 troops, 80,000 airmen a naval force of 20,000.

Germany can produce military aircraft of any kind except strategic bombers, but NATO can limit the number. And Germany will have a naval force, for coastal defense, of vessels under 3,000 tons.

But Germany can't make atomic or biological weapons. There is no such ban on the other Bruto members except as they agree among themselves.

Mrs. Roosevelt Celebrates 70th Birthday Today

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, most likely the nation's busiest and best known great-grandmother, is 70 today.
She will celebrate the birthday at a dinner with more than 1,000 other guests.

The party in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Roosevelt was arranged by her associates in the American Assn. for the United Nations. She is chairman of the organization's Board of Governors.
Except that this dinner is in honor of her birthday, Mrs. Roosevelt will find nothing unusual in taking a seat at the main table of a gathering of prominent people. Her jam-packed day-to-day schedule is crowded with big receptions and meetings in all parts of the nation and around the world.

In the past year she figures she has traveled 50,000 miles, mostly to lecture about the United Nations.

Tears for the Bride

By ROBERT MARTIN

CHAPTER THIRTEEN
THE HANDS OF THE COURTHOUSE clock on the square in Ridge Center stood at two-thirty in the afternoon. I drove on through town and out the highway leading to the Hollis farm. At the top of the hill, where Dr. Marzini had dropped me at noon, I pulled well off the road and stopped. From the tool kit in my car I took a screw driver and a hammer, put them in one of the voluminous pockets of my hunting coat and locked the car. I stood on the hill for a while, gazing out over the countryside below me. It looked very peaceful in the afternoon sunshine, and except for some cows grazing in the meadow beside the woods on the Hollis farm, I didn't see a moving thing. At last I climbed the fence and headed across the fields toward the place on the ravine where Ralph Hollis had been shot, and where I had stood by the big beech tree.

When I reached the ravine, I walked along the bottom until I came to the spot below the beech tree. I stood still a moment, listening and watching, and then slowly I climbed the steep slope to the crest of the ravine. As I reached the top I lowered myself to my stomach, like an advance wagon and his mouth was slack.

 "Mr. Bennett, I do believe," he said in his nasal, adenoidal voice, and he bowed mockingly, swaying on his feet.
 "Hello, Earl. I didn't hear you come up."
 "That is not surprising considering the noise you were making with your little hammer."
 I admitted ruefully to myself that he was correct.
 "A horrible racket," he said, wagging a finger reproachfully. "You'll scare all the birds away."
 "Sorry," I said, realizing that he had been drinking.
 He swayed, leaned forward and peered at the jagged hole I'd dug in the beech tree. "Carving your initials?"
 "Yes," I said wearily. "Chun-sy aren't I?"
 Then he stood still, and peered at me. "What're you doing out here, anyhow?"
 "I might ask you the same question."
 "I'm brooding," he sighed. "Communing with nature."
 He peered down into the ravine. "Are they down there? Eileen and the rest?"
 "No."
 "All alone, Mr. Bennett?" he raised his eyebrows.
 "Listen, Earl. Judy shot Ralph this morning."
 He gazed at me dumbly. "Shot?" he mumbled. "Ralph? Judy shot Ralph dead?"
 "He isn't dead, not yet. Don't get your hopes up. It was an accident, and it happened right here, while they were hunting. Judy was down there in the thicket and she shot upwards at a bird, and she hit Ralph."
 "Maybe she had a right to shoot him," he said. "Maybe it serves Ralph right."
 "It was an accident. Were you out hunting this morning—around ten-thirty?"
 "I wasn't invited," he said stiffly. "Ralph didn't invite me because of Eileen, you know. He's jealous of me."

 "Maybe he has reason to be. You took Eileen home last night."
 "It didn't mean a thing," he said sadly. "She told me that she went with me to make Ralph jealous—because he kissed Judy. Did you ever kiss Judy?"
 "No," I lied.
 "I did once. She bit me."
 "Good for her."
 "What?" he asked thickly.
 "Never mind. Good-by, Earl." I turned away from him and started down the ravine.
 "Hey, you. Wait."
 I turned and looked up at him. His loose lips closed over his prominent teeth and he leveled the shotgun over the crook of his arm, a finger on the trigger. He stood swaying, his feet apart, and I stared at the twin blue barrels. A black cloud seemed to drift over the ravine, and I had the same fear I'd had when the bullet had struck the tree beside my head. Earl Seltzman was love-sick, and frustrated, and I didn't know what he had in mind, and I tried not to think of what a blast of bird shot would do to me at point-blank range.
 "Earl," I said trying to keep my voice steady, "point that gun the other way."
 He backed up a little and tilted the gun a trifle. The barrels now bore on my chest. I looked into the twin eyes of death and I had a sudden wild impulse to turn and run. My revolver was in an inside pocket of my hunting coat, but I still held the hammer in one hand, the screw driver in the other. Earl stood above me. If he shot, the blast would knock me halfway down the side of the ravine, and I'd roll, very limply, the rest of the way. I managed a smile. "Put that gun down; let's be sensible."
 "I resent your manner," he muttered. "Demand apology."
 I took a step toward him. "Sure, Earl, I apologize," I said, and I swung the hammer against the barrel of the gun. It made a sharp clanging sound and the gun swirled away. Seltzman stumbled backward, and he must have pulled both triggers because I heard the rattling of the shot, in the trees behind me. I dropped the hammer and screw driver, got my hands on the now harmless gun, wrenched it from him, dropped it, and bored right on in. My fingers closed over the front of his thick red coat, and I pulled him close and slapped him, palm and back-hand, across the mouth until my fingers stung. His knees gave away, and I let him fall. He sprawled on his back, his legs moving a little, his fingers scratching the leaves. His open mouth was bloody, and there was blood on his teeth.

 I picked up Seltzman's expensive gun, and noted with sadness the dent in the barrel made by the hammer. I broke it, ejected the two empty shells. He'd fired them both, all right, either intentionally or by accident. I leaned over him, took six extra shells from his coat pocket. I couldn't see his eyes behind the dark glasses, but from the position of his head I knew he was watching me.
 "Get up," I said. "You're not killed."
 He got slowly to his feet and brushed off his clothes. Then he wiped his mouth with a handkerchief.
 I handed him the shotgun. "I'm sorry about the barrel," I said. "You'd better have a smith look at it before you fire it again."
 He took the gun, and stared once more out over the fields toward the distant highway. His swollen lips worked a little, and a tear slid down one cheek from beneath the dark glasses.
 "There are other girls," I said gently. "The woods are full of them."
 "Not Eileen," he said in a choked voice. "I'll never find another Eileen." He was quite a boy. First he'd been arrogant; now he was maudlin.
 "Go home, Earl," I said. "Forget it, for now. When you feel better we'll have a little talk. I'm sorry I had to hit you; I'm just a city boy, but I know about guns."

 He turned silently away and walked unsteadily along the ridge.

Were Pitt County Citizens Deprived Of A Treasured Democratic Right? On July 6, 1954

G. S. 163-175

The Pitt County Board of Elections ordered a recount of ballots cast in the Pactolus, Bethel and Avden boxes in the Second Primary held on June 26, 1954. This order was issued after a public hearing was held in the Court House.

On the day of the recount, after the boxes for Pactolus, Avden and Bethel had been impounded for recounting by election officials, the incumbent sheriff obtained an injunction from a Superior Court Judge prohibiting the Pitt County Board from carrying out its ordered recount.

The incumbent sheriff subsequently obtained an order from the same judge prohibiting the Pitt County Board of Elections from counting the ballots for the purpose of completing its investigation, or for any other purpose.

The State Board of Elections dismissed the order for a recount entered by the Pitt County Board of Elections, thereby, in conjunction with the action by the Superior Court Judge, preventing the public from knowing the actual contents of the boxes, or the truth concerning the alleged irregularities.

Since the run-off Primary of June 26, 1954, in which I was a candidate for Sheriff of Pitt County, thousands of my fellow Pitt County citizens have demanded to know what can be done about the situation, and that they be given an opportunity to express their will at the polls in the general election to be held on November 2, 1954.

Thousands of Pitt County citizens feel that their votes were not counted as cast in this election. Many can not understand the extreme measures taken by the incumbent sheriff, and his advisors, to keep the people of this county from knowing the actual result of the vote.

Therefore, under the provisions of General Statute 163-175 of the State of North Carolina, which reads as follows:

If the elector desires to vote for a person whose name does not appear on the ticket, he can substitute the name by writing it in with a pencil or ink in the proper place, and making a cross (X) mark in the blank space at the left of the name so written in. When a name is written in on the official ballot, the new name so written in is to be treated like any other name on the ballot. No sticker is to be used. Any name written in on an official ballot by any election official, or by any person other than the voter or a person rendering assistance to a voter pursuant to G.S. 163-172, 163-173 or 163-174, shall be invalid, and the name or names so written in shall not be counted.

I hereby announce my candidacy for the office of Sheriff of Pitt County subject to the write-in vote of the people, in the General Election to be held on November 2, 1954.

I believe that every citizen has the right to have his or her vote counted for the candidate for whom it was cast. The November election will give everyone an opportunity to express his or her desire as to whom should be the Sheriff of Pitt County.

Sincerely,
S. A. WHITEHURST

'Mr. Second Division' Is Veteran Of 32 Years

By ED JOHNSON
 FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AP)—Weather-beaten M. Sgt. Arne Stenslie of Dev. 1's Lake N.D. is a humble man. He's Mr. Second Division in person—all five-foot-seven, 63 years of him.

The Army sergeant is a veteran of 32 years' military service. He's the only one of thousands who sailed from here for Korea in mid-1950 with the gallant 2nd Infantry Division and who returned with the same outfit Thursday.

Many others spent their lives along the bloody Naktong River line. They were cut down and burned alive at "Massacre Valley." They died in massive battles like the one at Chip Yong Ni. Or they fought their hearts out on Heartbreak Ridge.

Some returned to their loved ones. They were rotated home before it was too late. But Ol' Sten—wounded seriously once and hurt in battle several other times—stayed on.

The sergeant didn't want to talk about it much.

"Oh I was wounded pretty bad post. It was dark as pitch. Men with rifles and grenades and red hot lead were everywhere.

"One bunch—you could see their rifles—came at us through a dim valley," Stenslie said. "You could not tell who was who. We didn't even know our own men."

"I couldn't order a man to go out there and find out who they were. That wouldn't have been right. I was the oldest man. Most of my life was behind me. I couldn't tell a young man to go out there. So I went."

They were Chinese Communists with guns. Ol' Sten was awarded the Silver Star Medal for gallantry in that action.

With just a slight scar in his red face, Sten is the only man in the 2nd Division authorized to wear 10 battle stars on his Korean service ribbon.

A former occupation trooper before the outbreak of war in Korea, Stenslie said when he left there in 1949:

No Draftees For W. German Army Slated 'Til 1956

By ED JOHNSON
 BONN, Germany (AP)—Draftees for the proposed 500,000-man West German army cannot be called up before 1956, according to German military planners.

West Germany has no huge reservoir of trained men ready to spring to arms at a single bugle call. Nine years have passed since the mighty Wehrmacht was humbled in defeat. Its youngest soldiers are now in their 30s, its surviving officers growing bald and gray.

Virtually a fresh start has to be made. And it will be at least three years before fully combat ready divisions to match those of the Western Allies are in being.

For four years the West Germans have been constructing a paper army ready for Day "X"—when they can start rearming. If there is no hitch in winning final parliamentary approvals for the London agreement, X Day should be here in about six months.

By then, officials hope, the complicated series of international agreements and mass of German domestic legislation needed to put the London agreement into effect will be in force.

The first need will be officers and noncommissioned officers to train the cadre that will in turn train the draftees, on a "snowball" principle.

Bonn's embryo Defense Ministry has 140,000 volunteers listed. About 60,000 may survive preinduction screening. Of those probably 20 per cent will be rejected during four months' probationary service.

This relatively small pool of manpower has to be expanded to a cadre of 150,000 volunteers before draftees can be accepted.

First, a few thousands of the best will be trained in the new weapons and latest tactics with the aid of Allied instructors. Then intensive training of young officers and noncoms will begin. It is expected that the first pilots will be trained in the United States.

The army will need 22,000 officers, including 40 generals. Some 40,000 noncommissioned officers are needed for the cadre alone.

For the first time young Germans have the right to object to being drafted. Local draft boards will handle the callup and every man will be entitled to object on grounds of conscience, family circumstances, finance and so on. Deferrals may be granted.

THEY'RE FRIENDS—Boxer pup Dexter and parakeet Pete are friendly pets of Dr. W. E. Coons in Springfield, Mass. Usually Pete, a lazy one, rides around the house on Dexter's head.

ECC Alumni Unit Has Meet; Hears Reports

Progress reports in the building program and scholarship foundations at East Carolina College was made by Dr. J. D. Messick, ECC president, at a meeting of the Greenville-Pitt County Alumni Chapter Wednesday night.

The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Robert W. Fennell, chapter president, and included a tour of the new Joyner Memorial Library led by Charles T. Laughter of the librarian's staff, and a report on Homecoming Day plans made by Alumni Secretary James W. Butler.

Registration for the Fall quarter indicates 1,238 men and 1,238 women students on the campus for a total of 2,496 registrations for the term to date, Dr. Messick said, noting that the increase in student body will continue for the future as the college expands its program.

The capital improvements recommended for the coming biennium include two new dormitories, renovations and additions to the cafeteria, completion of the fourth floor of Flanagan building, and a new classroom building, President Messick pointed out.

The scholarship and foundation programs need the support of all alumni, Dr. Messick said and he urged the Greenville and Pitt county group to give their active efforts to this phase of the college program.

Homecoming activities were reviewed by Mr. Butler, and chapter members were urged to be present for the various activities, including the luncheon, football game, and open house in the Alumni-Faculty Building.

Mrs. Fennell announced the appointment of committee chairmen, as follows: Membership, Mrs. Lily Rouse Carr; Program, Mrs. Elizabeth Savage, chairman, Mrs. Margaret S. Brown, Miss Gladys Stokes, Mrs. Ruth Garner; Social, Mrs. Mack Stocks, Mrs. Peggy Rowlett, Miss Mary Eakes; Publicity, James W. Butler, Mrs. Chester A. Walsh.

Projects adopted by the chapter include the Christmas courage for scholarship benefit and the annual Games Tournament on February 11.

A social hour followed the meeting with Mrs. Fennell, Mrs. Paul Scott, Mrs. W. Ed Moore, and Miss Christine Johnston as hostesses.

The Better Vision Institute estimates that 95 per cent of Americans over 60 years old have visual troubles.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market dropped today after a somewhat higher start.

Gains and losses were rather narrow and spread out over a range of around a point in the early afternoon.

At the start, trading was vigorous with many large blocks on the tape. The pace slowed thereafter but it still was a bit better than two million shares for the entire day. Friday's volume was 2,120,000 with the market a shade lower on balance.

Steels and oils started out higher but both divisions soon ran into moderate selling that cut gains down and produced some losers.

Chrysler, which is introducing its new models today at a press preview, was higher, but General Motors was down.

Aircrafts were generally lower as were chemicals. Railroads and utilities remained steady. Airlines were unchanged to higher.

Advancing stocks included Granite City Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Phelps Dodge, U. S. Pipe & Foundry, Bayuk Cigars, Mis-son Corp., and Royal Dutch Petroleum.

Lower were Bethlehem Steel, Goodyear, Douglas Aircraft, Kennecott Copper, American Cyanamid, American Tobacco, Santa Fe, and Texas Co.

Clinics For Voice Students Held

Two clinics at which experts in music evaluated the work of students of voice and a talk by Thilde Beuing-Edele of the Hollins College faculty were chief program events of a meeting of the North Carolina Chapter of the National Association of Teachers of Singing at East Carolina College Friday and Saturday.

The session marked the opening of NATS activities in this state for the present academic year. Joel Carter of the University of North Carolina faculty, president, acted as chairman at business and planning meetings. Dan E. Vornholt of the East Carolina faculty planned the program.

Miss Beuing-Edele, chairman of instruction in voice at Hollins College in Virginia and a well-known concert singer, spoke Friday night at a dinner meeting. Drawing on her experiences as singer and teacher in this country and Europe, she pointed out that broader opportunities in music training are offered to the masses here. She indicated, however, that abroad municipal and state support of operas and orchestras and the excellent programs offered by state-owned radio provide educational opportunities to the student and music lover which are unmatched here.

Ten students of voice from East Carolina, Hollins, and New Bern participated in voice clinics this afternoon. Arnold E. Putman of Furman University, Greenville, S.C., served as chairman as student performances were evaluated by a panel of instructors of music.

Arrested After Money Was Gone

Morlet Jenkins of Wilson and Greenville was arrested for embezzlement during the week end after he left town with a sum of money he was taking to the bank for his employer.

According to the police report, Jenkins was taking the money to the bank for the Hudson and Stokes Barber Shop Saturday and failed to return.

Jenkins was apprehended in Wilson and told officers that he had spent the money he had been entrusted with.

Detective Lieutenant N. H. Byrd investigated.

Car Overtakes In Saturday Wreck

Saturday night a car owned by Joseph Barber, who lives on Fourteenth Street in Greenville, overturned on the Belvoir Road when it went out of control on a curve.

Investigating Patrolman Jim Davis said Barber received lacerations and bruises. He said his investigation is incomplete. The car was badly damaged as a result of the accident.

Pictured above is the five-gaited champion of the Junior Chamber of Commerce-sponsored horse show which was held in Greenville Saturday and Sunday. The horse, "Mighty Chief," belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Winslow of Sunny Acres farm of Greenville. Astride the animal is Jimmy Norris, trainer for Sunny Acres farm. Also won by Sunny Acres horse was the John G. Laurens Memorial trophy. The trophy is awarded permanently when it is won three years in a row. It was won at last year's horse show by J. R. Rogers of Raleigh. (Reflector Photo by Alvin Taylor).

Minor Accidents During Weekend

One minor injury was reported in a series of traffic mishaps in the city during the weekend.

Injured was Jessie Williams, a pedestrian, who was struck by a car operated by Percy Daniels, Negro of 310 Tyson Street. Williams received lacerations of the finger and thigh. The accident occurred Saturday night about 7:30 at the corner of Fourth and Nash Streets. No charges were placed by Traffic Officer V. C. Ackert who investigated.

Yesterday afternoon cars operated by Theron C. Nelson of 313 West Fifth Street and James E. Tyson, Negro, collided near the fairgrounds. Tyson was charged with improper passing by Officers J. E. Gurganus and W. R. Elks. Damage to the two cars amounted to approximately $180.

Saturday afternoon a vehicle operated by Haywood Willis collided with a parked car owned by Joe Lawrence of 300 Nash Street. The crash occurred at the intersection of First and Green Streets, with damages amounted to approximately $145. No charges resulted. Investigating was Officer Ackert.

Saturday night a vehicle driven by W. E. Planagan hit a telephone pole at the corner of Second and Greene Streets when brakes on the car failed. Damage to the car amounted to $45. Officer Ackert investigated and no charges were placed.

Two Break-Ins Are Reported During Weekend

The sheriff's department reported that thieves broke into the Dairy Ranch just outside the Greenville city limits on N.C. 11 sometime after midnight Saturday and took approximately $50, mostly in change.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said the thieves got a few bills and a quantity of quarters, nickels and dimes in the break-in. The culprits jimmed the door of the building to gain entrance.

The sheriff also reported that a

The American Way

"Freedom under the law" has been a key-stone of the American way of life since the founding of our Republic.

But any law, to be effective, has to have the honest, whole-hearted support of the majority of the people.

Prohibition laws, throughout this nation's history, have always failed the test of public acceptance. The reason is, prohibition laws infringe on the basic rights of the individual.

"Legal Control" of beer and ale sales is a practical law because it is based on the American way, the tolerant way.
