Charges Democrats Capitalizing On Misinterpretation

Wilson Claims Distortion

DETROIT (AP)—Secretary Wilson, defending himself against what he calls "distortion," says his press conference remarks about dogs were meant as offense to no one.

"And for anyone to imply that I did, or under any circumstances would think that way," he said, "is a complete distortion of the facts."

He charge Democrats with trying to "capitalize on a misinterpretation."

Secretary Wilson's offhand reference to bird dogs and kennel dogs in talking about unemployment here Monday set up a storm.

CIO President Walter Reuther, protesting to President Eisenhower, demanded a retraction or that the defense secretary quit public life.

Democrats denounced Wilson. Even some Republicans were critical.

Yesterday after 24 hours of tumult, Wilson issued a statement saying he "certainly intended no invidious comparisons."

"I am sure," he said, "that the distorted version of what I said is being used by the people of the adverse political party trying to capitalize on a misinterpretation of the full meaning of what I actually said."

Earlier, President Eisenhower defended his Cabinet member. He said he had never known Wilson to be "in the slightest degree indifferent to human misfortune."

In announcing the President's comment on Wilson's statement, Press Secretary Snyder said the defense secretary told him in a telephone conversation that his remark applied to a single situation.

Snyder quoted a transcript of Wilson's statement in which the secretary related a story of a complaint he had received on cutting the draft.

He quoted Wilson as having said, "One of them made the complaint, you know you have just cut the draft. In our district there are 110 more young men that won't have to go to the Korean fight and that'll add to our unemployment."

He said Wilson told him that it was "ridiculous to apply his remarks to any situation except that of the boy who was relieved of the necessity of going to Korea and yet wouldn't go 100 miles for a job."

In part at last, the President's comment was a reply to Reuther. However, Reuther refused to quit.

The fiery CIO leader, calling a news conference after Wilson's clarifying statement, said the secretary had given the Communists "a great psychological weapon."

"The Communists will use Mr. Wilson's statement most effectively," Reuther said.

"Mr. Wilson," he added, "is either stupid or callously indifferent. I don't believe he's stupid."

Wilson's other critics — including both AFL and CIO leaders and Democrats — took off on his press conference remarks.

Known here from his automobile industry days as sometimes blunt-spoken, the defense secretary expressed a preference for "bird dogs" as against "kennel-fed dogs" after saying he had "a lot of sympathy" for jobless workers.

"The bird dogs like to go out and hunt around for their food," he said, "but the kennel dogs just sit on their fanny and yell."

That was the exact quotation from a tape recording transcription of Monday's news conference. In Wilson's statement yesterday he used the words "the kennel-fed dog would sit back on his haunches and yell."

"I certainly intended no invidious comparisons, nor insinuations likening people to dogs in any sense," Wilson said.

President Eisenhower, in his earlier comment at Denver, said he was sure that "initial newspaper reports" did not "fully reflect what Mr. Wilson said or meant."

Actually, Wilson's press conference was devoted in large part to his denial that General Motors Corp., his former firm, was given an unfair share of defense contracts. Such charges have been made.

But the allusion to the dogs set up repercussions that drowned out almost everything else.

Alaska Has Democrat Vote Trend

Territorial Elections Regarded Political Weathervane For November

JUNEAU Alaska (AP)—A strong swing in Alaska to the Democratic column appeared to be building up today on the basis of returns from Tuesday's general election.

E. L. Bartlett, the Democratic delegate to Congress, was winning reelection by a wider margin than in 1952.

Democrats were leading in races for seats in the legislature in districts that went Republican two years ago when the GOP gained dominant control.

Bartlett had 3,796 votes to 1,485 for Mrs. Barbara Dimock a Republican legislator, in returns from 45 of 263 precincts in the vast Alaska territory.

That was about 65 per cent of the vote for Bartlett, compared with the 56 per cent he polled in winning the 1952 election from Robert Reeve, an airline operator.

Almost all the early returns were from southeastern Alaska and the Fairbanks area, both of which went heavily Republican in 1952.

The first sprinkling of votes from the Anchorage area also was heavily Democratic for legislative seats and for the delegate to Congress.

Bartlett issued a claim at midnight that a decisive Democratic victory was in the making. He asserted that indicated a national Democratic victory next month. He said:

"On the basis of early returns, which have maintained a consistent pattern from the start, it is not too soon to forecast a Democratic victory in Alaska which easily could assume a landslide proportion."

"Alaska almost always has pointed the way the nation will vote in November. This makes it thoroughly sure the Democrats will organize the national House of Representatives by some 30 seats," Bartlett said.

In the contest for two territorial offices, labor commissioner and treasurer, the races were nip and tuck.

Prominent issues in the Bartlett-Dimock congressional contest were over which part, has done the most for the statehood cause and which has done best by Alaska in allocation of federal funds. Mrs. Dimock also appealed for election of a Republican to support President Eisenhower. Both candidates supported immediate statehood for Alaska. Bartlett contended the Republican administration had let down the statehood cause. Mrs. Dimock argued that the Republicans had drafted the best statehood bill ever and countered that the Democrats never had enacted statehood during their long national regime.

The joint committee has postponed until after the Nov. 2 general election its hearings on the tract.

The newspaper said copies of the revised contract were mailed to members of the joint committee Monday.

Rep. W. Sterling Cole, the committee chairman, said at his home in Bath, N.Y., last night that he had not seen the revised contract. He said he would not prejudice it, adding that "any advance criticism of the contract must necessarily be politically inspired. I am confident, however, that it will be a good contract in the best interests of the public welfare."

One American informant said the United States would throw its support behind a Canadian move to continue the disarmament debate in the 66-nation Political Committee and in the Assembly, and then turn the problem over to the same five powers after the Assembly closes shop in December.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Census Bureau estimates that the population of the United States including armed forces overseas, was about 162,947,000 on Sept. 1 this year. That indicated an increase of 2,792,000, or 1.7 per cent, in a year.

Discuss Saar

PARIS (AP)—French Premier Pierre Mendes-France and Saar Premier Johannes Hoffmann met today for a talk on the future of the Saar, a question France wants settled before West Germany is rearmend.

Mendes-France got a 250-113 vote in the National Assembly yesterday, authorizing him to go ahead with the London accord on bringing West German troops into the West's defense against communism. He wants to be able to present an agreement on the Saar, the coal bearing border state whose German-speaking people are linked economically to France.

Germany wants the Saar as a part of Germany.

A compromise, whereby the Saar might be internationalized, has been discussed. The French Premier and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer are to confer here Oct. 20 in a new effort to achieve agreement on means of doing this.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Post-Dispatch reports provisions of the long-secret Dixon-Yates contract give the private power combine a virtually risk-free guarantee of earning 9 per cent on invested capital of $4 million dollars.

The newspaper, in a copyrighted dispatch from Washington by Richard Dudman yesterday, said it had obtained access to a copy of the controversial contract.

Examination of the new draft gives support to charges of its opponents that it provides a virtually risk-free position for the Dixon-Yates group," the Post-Dispatch said.

The newspaper said examination of an Oct. 1 draft of the proposed contract, described as the ninth draft in three months of negotiations, disclosed these main provisions:

1. The Dixon-Yates group may figure federal income taxes into its "basic capacity charge" to the Atomic Energy Commission, including any future increase in income taxes.

2. Without consent of the AEC, the Dixon-Yates group may pledge or transfer the contract at any time to pay debts connected with construction of a $107,250,000 steam-electric power generating plant at West Memphis, Ark.

3. The private utilities group is freed of responsibility if it ever fails to deliver electricity because of "cause beyond control of the company" — but the AEC must keep up its payments to the private group as if service had been continuous.

The Senate-House Committee on Atomic Energy was told last week by the AEC that the AEC has approved the form of a proposed contract under which the Dixon-Yates private combine would turn electric power into the public power lines of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

The joint committee has postponed until after the Nov. 2 general election its hearings on the tract.

The newspaper said copies of the revised contract were mailed to members of the joint committee Monday.

Rep. W. Sterling Cole, the committee chairman, said at his home in Bath, N.Y., last night that he had not seen the revised contract. He said he would not prejudice it, adding that "any advance criticism of the contract must necessarily be politically inspired. I am confident, however, that it will be a good contract in the best interests of the public welfare."

Will Ask Survey To Widen Street

The city council last night agreed to request the State Highway Commission make a survey of Tenth Street Extension with a view of widening the thoroughfare to a four-lane drive with parking or a two-lane drive.

The action came after the council sat in conference with R. Markham, highway engineer, and East Carolina College President John D. Messick, who originally requested of Maynard Hicks, Divisional Commissioner of highways, that the state and Federal Government "increase this to a three-lane or, preferably, a four-lane highway, beginning at Charles Street and running through town, at least, and if possible as far east as the intersection of Fifth and Tenth Streets."

Messick made his request because the road runs through college property.

"Due to the number of commuting students, new developments, and increased traffic otherwise, on Highway 264, which is Tenth Street Extension, the public is becoming increasingly conscious of the hazards of having only a two-lane highway," the college president said in his letter to the highway commissioner.

He asked if it would be possible for the State and Federal government to increase the road to a three- or four-lane drive.

"This, of course, goes by the college property for, probably, 500 yards on one side and about 150 yards on the other side. You can see, therefore, our interest in this because of the situation as stated above."

"I should appreciate very much your looking into this matter at your earliest convenience," Messick said in the letter which was read at last night's conference. "I have discussed it with Mr. Markham and he and I looked over the situation this morning, to some extent. I haven't discussed it with the city authorities, but am sending a copy of this letter to the Mayor and to the City Manager, and can see no reason why they, too, shouldn't be greatly interested in the project."

The decision to request a survey of the highway by the council was unanimous. It came, however, after some discussion among council members concerning the possibility of making the highway a two-lane drive with curb and gutter and parking on both sides of the road.

Such a project would require 44 feet. The right-of-way on the road at present is 60 feet.

Markham told the council that a three-lane drive on Tenth Street would be out of the question because the state is not allowing the highway commission to build three-lane highways.

He stated that he felt a four-lane highway was needed through the area. Markham said he believed a survey of the road should be made before any further decisions were made. He indicated that it might be necessary to re-route the road from the point where curb and gutter new begins in order to widen it to Dickinson Avenue.

Messick said he would write a second letter to the highway commissioner requesting that a survey of the road be made.

Utilities Superintendent Leonard Bloxam assured members of the Greenville Utilities Commission last night that Greenville faces no water shortages.

At their meeting last night, the commissioners asked Bloxam for a report on the water situation of the city.

River Level Safe

Bloxam told the commissioners, "The only way we might get in a tight is to get a strong west wind down in the sound that would pull the tide out of the river." In that case, the superintendent said, the city may experience some momentary difficulty by the river level being lowered below the water intakes on its turbine condensers. He said the possibility of the water level in Tar River at Greenville becoming low enough to affect the city's water supply is remote.

The superintendent explained that the tide in Tar River, which reaches up from Pamlico River and Pamlico Sound acts as a natural dam in the river, keeping the water level at Greenville sufficiently high.

Tide Keeps River Up

Utilities Consultant Martin Swartz, who recently retired as superintendent, told the commissioners the tide effect in the river keeps the water level at Greenville from going below its present stage.

The question of the commissioners was prompted by the severe

Admits Crushing Baby To Death With His Hands

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—An infant admitted to police last night he crushed his 2-month-old son to death with his bare hands.

Officers reported the 22-year-old Carswell Air Force Base serviceman said, he had crushed the baby's chest "about 10 times" in the weeks leading up to the Monday night slaying.

"There must be a reason why I did it," he said.

"But I don't know what it is. I must have some sort of maladjustment," he continued.

His wife stood by him as he talked. She did not know that her young husband had killed their only child until sheriff's deputies E. N. Bule and Ed Max talked to him last night in the couple's home near Lake Worth.

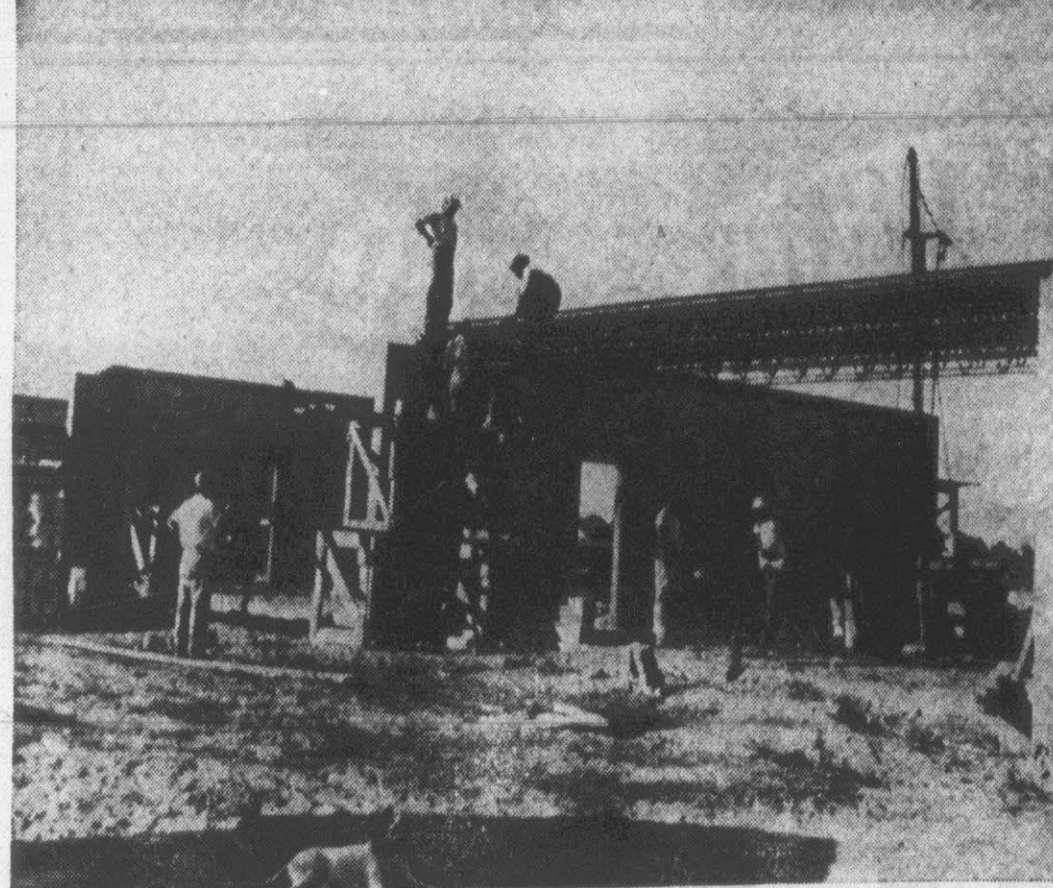

Dulles Resting For Paris Trip

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles was resting at his retreat on Main Duck Island in Lake Ontario today, preparing to add some four-digit figures to a log showing 168,000 miles of official travel.

The secretary and Mrs. Dulles flew here from New York yesterday, a 360-mile trip. His security officer, Frank J. Madden, said the unofficial flight was not included in the mileage chalked up since Dulles took office in January 1953.

Dulles will return to Washington Monday and fly to Paris Tuesday.

New Elementary School Progressing

"At last showing progress" is the new white elementary school being constructed in Elmhurst. Superintendent J. H. Rose reported all the steel for the building has now arrived and as can be seen in the picture some of the walls are now the height of the roof. Rose said the school should be ready for occupancy next spring. (Reflector Photo by Edwina Hayes)

Construction on the new white elementary school in the Elmhurst section is "progressing at last," according to Superintendent J. H. Rose.

Some of the walls now reach the height of the roof, and Rose said, "we have at last gotten all the steel."

"There is no reason this building should not be rapidly completed now," he declared, noting the school should be ready for occupancy in the spring.

Rose also reported work on the South Greenville Negro elementary school is "progressing nicely."

He said the roof is being completed this week and the boiler is here and is now being installed.

This building should be occupied by the first of the year, the Superintendent stated.

An $11,000 heating project at the C. M. Eppes High School was completed this week when new boilers and radiators were installed to replace the old blower system.

Rose said this modernizes the school's heating system and will be "much more satisfactory."

Jet Crash Kills 3-Time Ace Of World War II

LANCASTER, Calif. (AP)—George Welch, World War II triple ace who shot down four Japanese planes at Pearl Harbor, lost his life yesterday while testing a jet plane high above the Mojave Desert.

Just what happened to his F100 Super Sabre isn't known. Witnesses said it exploded with a terrific blast and plummeted to the ground like a ball of fire. But officials at North American Aviation, Inc., where Welch was chief test pilot, said the blast might have been a "sonic boom" caused when a jet pulls out of a dive at high speed.

Welch, 36, managed to eject himself from the plane and parachuted, landing about two miles from where his plane crashed. But he was suffering from multiple injuries and was dead on arrival by helicopter at Edwards Air Force Base.

When the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941, Welch, then 23-year-old second lieutenant, became a national hero. He drove 10 miles from bombed-out Wheeler Field to an auxiliary field, commandeered a P40, took to the air and shot down four planes before he was forced to land his bullet-riddled ship.

From Pearl Harbor the sandy-haired flier went on to become a triple ace with a total bag of 18 planes.

He had been testing North American planes since 1944.

Intends To Find Who Got Profits

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Beall (R-Md.) said today his Senate Banking subcommittee intends to find out who reaped the profits from soaring coffee prices, which cost American consumers an estimated 293 million dollars.

"Were going to find out where these profits in coffee went," Beall told newsmen, adding there is "a good possibility" the search will involve looking at some income tax returns.

As his subcommittee resumed hearings yesterday into the coffee price boosts of last winter and spring, Beall estimated that the increases cost the U.S. public 293 millions in the first eight months of this year. He said there is no evidence of a coffee shortage to justify the increases.

Douglas B. Bagwell, assistant administrator of the Commodity Exchange Authority (CEA) in the Agriculture department, was called as the main witness at today's session.

Serves Notice On Philippines Of Counter-Action Rep. Bonner Raps Tobacco Import Cut

Congressman Herbert Bonner yesterday served notice on the Philippine Government he will oppose the proposed transfer of U. S. ships to the Philippines, and likewise oppose any new trade agreement between the two nations unless Philippine government restrictions on the importing of flue-cured tobacco are immediately removed.

In the nation's capital yesterday, Congressman Bonner of the first congressional district, and J. C. Lanier of Greenville, executive secretary and general counsel of the Leaf Tobacco Exporters Association, conferred with officials of the State Department, Agriculture Department and Maritime Commission in regards to the situation which has cut the importation of U. S. tobacco in the Philippines by 75 per cent.

Loss of Big Market

Unless the Philippine restrictions are lifted at once, Congressman Bonner said, it will mean the loss of an export market of 25 million pounds of tobacco a year to flue-cured tobacco growers in the United States.

"The Philippine Islands have for many years been an important market for flue-cured tobacco," Lanier explained this morning, "ranking among the first five countries in volume; and the loss of this market will be reflected in lower prices and less acreage for 1955."

Charges Agreement Violation

Believes Atomic Work Watched

OLDENBURG, Germany (AP)—Prof. Hermann Oberth, West German rocket expert, says he believes inhabitants of other planets watch atomic developments on the earth from flying saucers.

In a public lecture, Oberth said he thought inhabitants of outer space, whom he called "Uranides," have "technically advanced further than we."

"We constitute a threat to the whole universe," he said.

Congressman Bonner charged the restrictions on U. S. tobacco passed by the Philippine Congress are a violation of the trade agreement between the American and Philippine governments. In 1953, the Philippine Congress passed legislation cutting imports of U. S. tobacco to 25 per cent of what they were in 1950. The law provided, however, that the President could lift the restrictions should domestic tobacco production in the Philippines not provide sufficient leaf to keep up Philippine tobacco production.

So far Philippine President Mag-saysay has refused to lift the restrictions in spite of the fact Philippine tobacco production has not met manufacturing needs.

14 Million Pounds

Lanier said this morning if the restrictions are lifted it would mean some 14 million pounds of American flue-cured tobacco would be exported to the Philippines between now and Christmas.

Under a reciprocal trade agreement signed in 1946, the United States allowed duty free importation of certain Philippine articles, and in return the Philippine government allowed duty free importation of certain American articles including tobacco. Under the agreement approximately 30 million pounds of flue-cured tobacco was shipped to the Philippines annually before the restrictions on importation were imposed by the Philippine government.

Register Protests

At the suggestion of Congressman Bonner, cables protesting the restrictions were sent the Philippine government by the State Department, the Department of Agriculture and the Maritime Commission. Congressman Bonner sent a personal cable to the U. S. Ambassador in Manila protesting the restrictions on the importation of American flue-cured tobacco.

Background

Several years ago the Philippine government arranged with the United States to rent a number of ships at a nominal figure to use for inter-island transportation. When the Philippines requested during the past session of Congress to purchase the ships at a nominal figure, Congressman Bonner was able to block the sale and hold it up until the Philippine government has removed "discriminations" against American tobacco.

Also Congressman Bonner in the House and Sen. Sam J. Ervin in the Senate blocked approval of a new trade agreement requested by the Philippines until assurances were given by responsible Philippine officials that restrictions of American tobacco would be removed by the Philippine government.

In spite of the assurances, the restrictions have not yet been removed.

Both Bonner and Lanier pointed to the importance of the Philippine market to tobacco producers in the flue-cured belts.

Traffic Engineer Approves Proposals For Off-Street Parking

A proposed parking lot at the corner of Fifth and Washington Streets "will be a desirable addition to the parking facilities in Greenville," W. F. Babcock, North Carolina State College traffic engineer, said in a special report to the city council.

The recommendation was made "assuming that the City Government is in the position to increase its expenditures a total of $3000 per year and assuming that the municipal government believes in the concept of municipal activity in Off-Street parking."

Babcock made the special report to the council after it was found that he would be unable to return to the city this week to complete a survey of the local parking situation.

The city council had requested at its October 4 meeting that he complete the survey this week in order that the council might make a decision on the parking lot. The city has until October 16 to accept or reject an offer by the owner of the lot for a five year lease on the property. Under terms of the lease the city would pay $250 per month for the first three years of the lease and $350 per month for the last two years. Two houses now stand on the property which is located directly across from the Municipal Building.

Made Survey

Babcock made a survey of the parking situation earlier and is to make a second survey soon. His recommendations concerning parking meters and other parking problems have now been carried out.

City Manager James S. Hughes said today that the special report on the Fifth and Washington Streets parking lot was based on the results of Babcock's original survey "plus a survey which we made last Friday."

"That survey consisted of a count of all automobiles parked in the business area and fringes of the business area block-by-block each hour all day," the city manager declared.

Hughes noted that Babcock will still make his final survey at a later date.

The city manager said that the special report was for the purpose of making some recommendation on the Fifth and Washington lot only.

"This part of the report pertains only to that one location," he emphasized. "It made no recommendation concerning off-street parking in other areas of the city. That will follow after checks and conferences with city officials."

Babcock in his report stated that the major disadvantage of the parking lot appears to be the fact that the lease is for five years only.

Aid Business Development

"A parking lot will aid in business development of the adjacent area," the report continued. "If the area develops for business the lot will be needed over an extended period of years. Thus if the parking lot is used for a building in five years it can be a serious economic blow to the adjacent area. Generally some form of option to renew is included in short term leases."

Babcock noted that the lot appears well shaped for the development of effective off-street parking.

"It appears that the parking lot will be used very effectively during tobacco season and with partial effectiveness during the remainder of the year," he stated.

However, he noted that the average parking meter revenue for Greenville might be estimated at approximately $2000 per month at the present time.

"The parking lot should be considered within this budget," he stated. "That is, that the total parking meter revenue may be reduced approximately equal to the rent paid for the lot. Or: municipal expenditures will increase approximately $3000 per year initially. At the second or third year the lot may induce new business which will generally raise all parking meter revenues."

"The rent that is paid for the lot should not be based upon the parking revenue. The fair rent should be determined as in any other business enterprise. Generally, a piece of property or building might have a rent annually of perhaps eight to 10 percent of its fair value. On the basis of this assumption a $3000 rent the first three years indicates that the property should have a fair value of $30,000 to $40,000."

Babcock said, however, that he was not in a position to determine the fair rental value of the property. "This is the business of real estate appraisers," he stated.

Recommends 50 Spaces

Babcock recommended 50 parking spaces in the proposed lot.

"The general configuration of the lot in question appears to be adequate for perhaps 60 parking spaces," he noted. "It is possible to obtain more spaces than this figure; however, they will be inadequate and there will not be sufficient entrances and exits. It is suggested that if the lot is to be obtained that the consultant work out a detailed layout plan for the parking lot."

The original layout for the lot called for 62 parking spaces.

Thousands Flee Flooded Towns

TAMPICO, Mexico (AP)—Continuing rains and flooding rivers have forced the evacuation of thousands of persons in the tropical zones of Tamaulipas and Veracruz states.

At least 10 towns were said to be completely inundated in the Veracruz area.

"Either a two or three hour interval period should be given in the case of the proposed lot," he declared.

"It is suggested that details of the development and the use of the lot be determined by the consultant and city officials after the basic questions of philosophy and cost are decided," the report continued. "The main factor to be determined by the council is the municipal activity in off-street parking, the rental value of the property and the addition of this rental cost to the municipal budget. The lot

Model Building Hobby Discussed At ECC Arts Club

Model building as a leisure-time activity for those skilled in craftsmanship was discussed and demonstrated at East Carolina College Monday night by Henry F. Flake of Greenville. He spoke in the Flanagan building at a program and social meeting of the student Industrial Arts Club.

Mr. Flake, a deputy game warden, illustrated his talk with working models of a yacht and a speed boat, built to scale and fitted with lights, horns, motors, and other equipment. Among other models shown during the meeting, bridges and trestles elicited praise from the industrial arts students because of skill and precision of workmanship.

The talk emphasized the values of an interesting hobby and the pleasure which one may derive from it. Mr. Flake enlivened his remarks with humorous asides and anecdotes. C. Thomas Hamilton of Beaufort, program chairman of the club, introduced the speaker to the audience of students and faculty members of the industrial arts department.

The featured speaker of the evening will be Dr. A. K. Fidler, psychiatrist, and owner and operator of his own alcoholic hospital in Beaufort, South Carolina, who by his own experience and observation of many patients is well equipped to speak on the subject of alcoholism.

Following Dr. Fidler's presentation, there will be a panel discussion with Charles H. Whedbee, Judge of the Municipal Recorder's Court of Greenville, as moderator. Serving on the panel will be Dr. E. B. Aycock, representing the medical profession; Mrs. Frederick P. Brooks, representing the Women's Christian Temperance Union; Judge Joseph W. Parker of Windsor, Superior Court Judge; and Dr. H. G. Haney, the minister.

The public is invited to be present and to participate in the discussion.

U. S. Star Farmer Is 20-Year-Old 'Success'

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Success story, his mother decided to operate the 65-acre farm near Alburtil, Pa. jointly. The farm had been devoted mainly to poultry production. Burd decided to add dairying. He purchased a registered Holstein heifer for $150 in 1947 as the start of a herd. Today the herd numbers 42 head, including 22 registered animals.

"Every time I'd get some money from the chickens," he said, "I'd put it into the dairy."

By working long hours in addition to the finishing his schooling, Burd also converted the farm from a horse-power operation to machinery. He has two new tractors plus considerable other equipment.

After his father's death he and

BOATS TOSSED ABOUT BY FLOOD:—Sailboats and cabin cruisers are tossed together and jammed up against piers of the Gary, Ind., Boat Club after flood waters from heavy rains during the weekend poured down Burns Ditch where it empties into Lake Michigan. (AP Wirephoto)

This is what his vocational agriculture instructor Raymond Heimbach, had to say about the Star Farmer award:

"He's earned it. Burd works from 5 o'clock in the morning to 8 o'clock at night most days."

A $1,000 check went with the award.

What's Burd going to do with the money?

"Why, I'll reinvest it in the farm," he said. "That's what I've tried to do all along—plow my earnings or a good part of them back in the place."

"It's been the secret of whatever success I've had."

Sees No Reason For Big Inquiry

PHILADELPHIA — Administrator Albert M. Cole of the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency says he knows of nothing that would call for an over-all investigation of the Federal Housing Administration.

But he said in an address here yesterday that he did expect criminal charges would be brought against a number of persons in connection with the FHA "wind-fall" profits investigation.

Atomic-Powered Freighters Seen

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A congressman says, "It is conceivable that in the not too far distant future our merchant marine ships will be powered with atomic engines and will be built under government subsidy."

Rep. John J. Allen (R-Calif.), acting chairman of a congressional subcommittee on shipbuilding, told reporters yesterday the shipbuilding program envisioned for the nation includes 60 new ships a year in the next three years.

Thirteen Puerto Ricans Convicted For Conspiracy

NEW YORK (AP)—Thirteen Puerto Rican members of the Nationalist party involved in two Washington shootings in recent years have been convicted of seditious conspiracy against the United States.

The 13, plus four others who pleaded guilty earlier, now face possible maximum sentences of six years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

Federal Judge Lawrence E. Walsh fixed Oct. 26 for sentencing after the jury's verdict last night.

Four of those convicted last night are already under heavy prison sentences for shooting into the House of Representatives from its visitors gallery in Washington last March 1. Five congressmen were wounded.

Another of the convicted Nationalists is Mrs. Rosa Collazo, 43, whose husband Oscar is now serving a life sentence for an attempt to assassinate former President Truman in November, 1950.

The Nationalist party seeks total independence for Puerto Rico, now a commonwealth of the United States, even though its people have turned down in referendum voting offers of full independence. Puerto Ricans are citizens of the United States.

The 13 party members were tried on charges of conspiring to bring about Puerto Rico's independence by force and violence and armed revolution.

In his summation, U.S. Atty. J. Edward Lumbard declared, "every one of these defendants has his moral fingerprints on the guns that were used in Washington, and those who participated were praised as martyrs."

Defense attorneys claimed that the Congress shooting and the attempt to assassinate Truman were actions by individual Nationalists and not a conspiracy. They said the prosecution used the congressional shooting to "inflammate the minds of the jurors."

Several defendants had testified during the trial that they had no idea when they joined the party that it intended violence or gunplay.

In his charge to the jury, Walsh said any defendant must be acquitted if the jury believed he did not know that force and violence were to be used.

The trial started Sept. 8.

No Competition, But Cooperation

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Local merchants proposed that fraternities and sororities at Michigan State College construct Christmas displays on the traffic islands in the main campus highway. An award for the best display was promised.

Both the Pan Hellenic Council and the Interfraternity Council decided against the contest.

"We feel that cooperation instead of competition would be more in keeping with Christmas spirit," the Pan Hellenic Council, sorority governing body, said.

Tobacco Market Has $56.62 Week

The Greenville tobacco market averaged $56.62 in selling 7,988,532 pounds of tobacco last week, according to figures released by Sales Supervisor W. L. Whedbee today.

The market paid out $4,523,796.85 last week, Whedbee reports.

Monday of this week the market averaged $56.92 when 1,248,354 pounds of the weed was sold for $699,120.24.

Yesterday the average increased slightly when 753,138 pounds of tobacco were sold for $425,102.19, averaging $56.44.

The sales supervisor said he expects the volume to increase on today's sales with a further increase on Thursday. He stated that there would probably be full sales Thursday and Friday.

Whedbee declared that the market continues to be flooded with a great volume of low and medium grade tobacco with a smaller amount of the better grade.

U.S. Crime And Horror Comics Arouse British

LONDON (AP)—U.S. crime and horror comics have come under fresh attack from two British sources which don't often get riled up about the same things.

A recent issue of Church of England Newspaper gave most of its front page to an effort to "stop this torrent of poison." The weekly is an unofficial publication for the Anglican Church.

And Tribune, the newspaper of left-wing Laborite leader Aneurin Bevan, declared, "This steaming pudding of horror, sex, vice and moronic fantasy is the staple reading matter of modern America."

"To read some of these 'comics' is to be lost in a labyrinth of Freudiana, a sickening reminder of the depths to which human imagination can sink," said the article in the church paper.

Nuptial Rate In Trieste Booming

TRIESTE (AP)—There have been many marriages in the nine years GIs have been stationed in this city of good looking girls. But the nuptial rate has really boomed since the announcement that Allied troops are leaving Trieste and Italians are taking over.

Some of the GIs will send for their girls later, but it is much simpler to marry them now and take them out. Brides can accompany their husbands as military dependents.

Lt. Col. William D. Kirkpatrick of Emis, Tex., chief chaplain of U.S. Army forces in Trieste, has 143 marriage applications pending.

Has Our Position Not Improved?

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz has shocked many residents of the Eastern Seaboard of the United States with his assertion that the nations defenses are weakened by a "glaring" shortage of oil storage facilities in the area.

Even more shocking was the admiral's statement that not long ago there was not sufficient fuel in the entire New York area to fill the tanks of the battleship Missouri, and tankers had to scurry to the Gulf area and bring back oil before the Missouri could sail on its diplomatic mission to Turkey.

Nimitz' statement brings back vividly to days of World War II when oil and gasoline were at a premium. When the war was over the gasoline was no longer rationed, most of us promptly forgot the inconveniences of only one-and-one-half gallons of gas a week for the family car. Most of us

Agricultural Exhibits Are Well Worth Viewing

Pitt County went on parade as the annual American Legion Agricultural Fair opened here with an impressive display of agricultural exhibits and the usual rides and entertainments which go along with the fair.

With its development through the years, the annual Pitt County Fair has presented a good cross section of Pitt's agricultural economy in its varied agricultural exhibits. Aside from the entertainment features which are always a part of the fair, the educational exhibits displayed at the fair this year are worthy of viewing by the people of the county.

Four H clubs, Home Demonstration clubs, FFA groups as well as individual farmers, housewives and others have put on display at the fair a wide variety of exhibits ranging from prime livestock to canned peas and pretty hand-made aprons.

As in past years, this Pitt County parade promises to be a success; provided of course, the spectators arrive to enjoy the parade.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
A NATIONAL HERO

As Bishop Berggrav, Primate of Norway, was being dragged to a concentration camp by the Nazis, because he had defied the invader to his face, a young clergyman called after the Bishop: "Read I Peter 3."

Now the third chapter of I Peter contains advice about many things including marriage, wearing apparel by women, and the way a husband should treat his wife. But in verses 13-17 it tells us how we should steel ourselves against the rigors of persecution. Who can harm us, it inquires, "if we be followers of that which is good." Do not be afraid to suffer for righteousness sake. Be ready to give an answer to the hope that is within you and hold fast to a good conscience; for if the will of God be so, it is a good thing to suffer for a righteous cause.

The Bishop followed the young clergyman's advice and pondered these words long and often. The result was that the people began everywhere to cry out against the invader and the Bishop became just too hot a prisoner for the rascals to keep in prison any longer. He was given a certain freedom; and when the war ended, he and the heroic King were the idols of the people.

Most of us have never been called upon to suffer a like persecution and probably never will be, but we may very well be persecuted for righteousness sake (twentieth century fashion). If so, read I Peter 3:13-17.

General MacArthur's Reply

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Douglas MacArthur has finally presented his full and formal indictment of the forces and figures at Washington which, in his opinion, lost China to the Communists and prevented him and his successor commanders from winning "absolute victory" in the Korean war.

He indicts former Presidents Roosevelt and Truman, as well as their top advisers in the State Department and Pentagon. He charges that they permitted Churchill and Stalin to persuade them to sacrifice the Far East and Chiang K.-I.-shek in order to save Europe and the Russian Regime from Hitler.

He blames the Acheson-Lattimore fection and State Department "liberals and fellow-travelers" for undermining Nationalist China so that Moscow could swallow that country. He suggests that President Eisenhower and General George C. Marshall, in order to advance their military careers, agreed with White House and State Department policy in Europe and the Far East.

His references to both the President and the former Secretary of State are scathing. In fact, their friends will regard the references as "vengeful."

WRITTEN BY NEWSPAPERMAN—The deposed military hero's case is presented in a newly published book, entitled "The Untold Story of General MacArthur." It was written by Frazier Hunt, a veteran newspaper correspondent and a long-time friend of MacArthur. From internal evidence, including family data, personal conversations and official documents, it is obvious that the volume was a joint MacArthur-Hunt product.

MacArthur's most charitable conclusion is that Roosevelt and Truman, as well as key figures at State and the Pentagon, were historical ignoramuses. In his opinion, the final battle—the Armageddon—between the democracies and the dictators will be fought, not in Europe, but in the Orient. The book cites recent developments—Korea, Indo-China and Formosa—to support this belief.

SURRENDER TO CHURCHILL, STALIN—Where the book does not attribute this "short-sighted" policy to treachery within the State Department—assumed that high officials had, or would as soon as possible, take care of the inadequate facilities which contributed appreciably to the gasoline shortage in this area.

Apparently, if Nimitz's statement is correct, the anticipated action has not yet been taken.

While the demands of war caused a curtailment of fuel available for civilian use during World War II, it was the lack of transportation and storage facilities which caused the extreme fuel shortage in the Atlantic Coast states. The fact that rationing of fuel was not as strict in Western and Mid-Western states as it was on the Atlantic Coast is proof that transportation and storage were important factors in the fuel shortage in the eastern regions of the country.

Are we still lacking in such facilities eight years after the close of World War II?

If we are, immediate steps should be taken to rectify the situation.

Cold Weather Means Coffee Time Again

With cold weather just ahead, there are many folks who are wondering how much their morning coffee is going to cost them in the bleak days of winter.

The sting of the sharply rising coffee prices late in 1953 and early in 1954 is still in the minds of many coffee lovers. In recent months, grocers have widely publicized the periodic drops of a few cents at a time in coffee prices. Whether the consumption of less coffee during the spring and summer months had anything to do with the drop in price, or whether it was because whatever caused the yet unexplained soaring prices many months ago got back to normal, we don't know.

There's one thing sure, however. Most folks are looking forward to enjoying their coffee once again during the cold weather. The public is going to be hotter than a boiling perculator if cold weather and increasing coffee consumption find coffee prices on the rise again.

The Reflector is of the opinion the coffee importers and distributors are aware of the public's feeling at this season. That, coupled with charges of restraining trade in coffee recently brought against the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange by the Federal Trade Commission may deter further increases in coffee prices.

Maybe this winter we'll be able to enjoy our coffee without feeling a group of financiers are taking advantage of the Americans' desire for the steaming black liquid.

Somebody Told Me

The Home Management House

Yesterday I was talking business with Dr. Ed Carter, Director of Field Services at East Carolina, and during the conversation we happened to pass the Home Management House on the campus, named for the late Mrs. Adelaide Bloxton, pioneer of home economics at ECC.

"Have you seen the practice house?" Naturally the answer was no, which brought to mind the fact that most Greenville people are not aware of the extensive facilities available at the college.

The Home Management House is divided into a home that would take about $50,000 a year income to own and an apartment for the $4,000 a year man. The girls, operating in groups of five, start out in the apartment with a budget of 50 cents a day each, later move over to the house with a budget of 75 cents a day.

The house has everything you could ask except a TV set. It has a dish washer, washing machine and dryer, and automatic garbage disposal unit. While the girls are staying in the apartment they are allowed to use the laundry in the house but otherwise they only use the facilities in the apartment. Though contrast, they learn to make ends meet no matter what income husband they might land.

Two girls were on hand to show us through. Sally Credle of Hyde County and Mairdred Morris of near Goldsboro told us all of the angles to the operation.

Goose hunter Carter asked the location of a house in Hyde County near where Sally Credle lives. "I think the house has a goose on the mail box," Ed said.

Around Capitol Square

No Southerner Likely To Fill Vacancy On Supreme Court

By LYNN NISBET

JUSTICE — There has been speculation around capitol square as to probable influence of Justice Robert H. Jackson's death upon the Supreme Court decree implementing the segregation decision. That is only one among numerous matters of vital importance to the nation which the new justice will have to deal with, and it is not thought that President Eisenhower will make it paramount in considering a successor to Justice Jackson. Since this issue is more imminent and urgent, it is probable that it will be given more attention than some of the others.

It is generally agreed among North Carolinians that no Southerner will have a chance at the appointment. Many comments go further and contain the hope that southern Democrats will not make fools of themselves by trying to influence the presidential selection. Justice Jackson was a New York Democrat with New Deal tendencies. Opinion prevails that his successor will be a Republican, either from the north-east or the middle west.

SCHOOLS — Enrollment in the public schools and most of the smaller colleges throughout North Carolina is on the way to breaking records this year. The State Board of Education has discovered need for some 300 additional teachers, and even so there are many communities complaining that the additional allotment is insufficient to maintain pupil load at last year's level. With all the building that has been done since the war there are many places where children are crowded into lunchrooms, auditoriums and even churches because of insufficient class rooms. It is also true that because the fluctuation in population centers there are some school houses with vacant classrooms.

COLLEGES — Similar conditions prevail at the State supported colleges. Enrollment at Chapel Hill University is approaching the immediate post-war peak, and Women's College at Greensboro reports an all time high.

East Carolina College at Greenville reports record enrollment, having moved to third or fourth place among all State supported colleges. Western Carolina College at Cullowhee, much smaller as to total enrollment and facilities for caring for students, has experienced growth that percentage-wise equals or exceeds the other institutions. President Paul Reid had advised the Governor and the budget commission that enrollment at WCC has increased 67 per cent in three years—since the fall of 1951.

The problem for the public schools is primarily for teachers and classrooms. The colleges have that same problem, plus the more serious items of housing and feeding students. Dormitories and cafeterias are as important for the colleges as are classrooms, sometimes more important.

Church related and other non-tax colleges are experiencing a measure of difficulty along these same lines, but reports indicate in most instances the problems are not so acute.

The overall situation seems to be that while North Carolina ranks near the bottom of all the States in ratio of college students to total population, there are no available facilities for the boys and girls who want to go to college. That condition is putting a few more gray hairs on the heads of the men and women charged with responsibility for raising money to maintain the educational institutions from first grade to post graduate university courses. One result is the disposition of everybody to "pass the buck" (or try to pass it). Meantime more kids are knocking at the doors of school houses.

VOTES — While North Carolina citizens are showing small interest in the upcoming election, with Democratic and Republican campaigners alike pleading for a full turn out at the polls, reports coming from the Central American countries of Guatemala and Honduras indicate unusually heavy voting in current elections. North Carolinians have become accustomed to good government, while the people in some other countries are still striving to attain it.

Attendance at political meetings this fall has been disappointing in most instances, especially when the so-called "rallies" embrace an area as large as a congressional district. County and precinct meetings have been more enthusiastic, with Republicans in the western counties claiming larger percentage attend-ance than the Democrats can boast.

Even so predictions are the total vote on November 2 will be

Business Today

Causes Of Mergers

By ELMER ROESSNER
The present profusion of mergers is stirring many angry voices.

We are told we are in the midst of a trend to monopoly—a march to cartels over the ruins of small business.

The fact that Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr., interdicted the proposed Bethlehem Steel-Youngstown Sheet & Tube merger on the grounds that it would violate anti-trust laws has given color to the idea that there is something wicked about mergers and that they are a danger to the economy.

For the most part, that just isn't so. Causes of current mergers help show why.

Some result from desires to save taxes. That's natural, and if there is any fault, it rests with lawmakers who drew up the tax laws. Others result from technological advances. Small companies often cannot afford new machines and processes (again the tax laws are a factor) and so they join with large companies that finance improvements. Without those improvements, the small firms might fall in the sharp competition of the era.

Some grow out of weak management. In boom times, many an improperly run company may survive and even prosper; when sales lag it must merge or die. A very large share of this year's mergers result from a desire to broaden lines, to have products in as many markets as possible so that if sales fall in one, the company will be sustained by others.

And then there may be a few mergers that are prompted by a desire to monopolize the market, boost prices and return to the era of predatory trusts. But these seem to be few indeed, and both the Attorney General and the Federal Trade Commission are still on guard against them.

Mergers may result in the displacement of some executives and employees. There may be other dislocations and economic losses. But in the end—as long as monopolies have not been created—the economy is much healthier.

Take the Kaiser-Willys and Studebaker-Packard mergers. Both suppliers to and employees of the new companies are far better off now than there are two companies that might stand up against Ford and General Motors competition instead of four firms in danger of being submerged. And both suppliers and employees are better off in the case of countless other mergers. It is always better to deal with companies that can modernize production, choose the best men for the management team, and draw strength from diversified markets.

INCOME OFF MOST IN WAGES AND SALARIES

There has been a notable bit of labor unrest recently and union demands are likely to stiffen as leaders digest the most recent personal income figures for the United States.

Personal income in August, in billions of dollars at annual rates, was 285.4, compared with 286.4 in August 1953. That's a comparative slight dip. But the wage and salary rate was 185.5, compared with 200.6 a year ago. At the same time, proprietors' and rental income was up from 46.6 to 48.2, and personal interest income and dividends was up from 23.2 to 24.3. Even farm income was up from 13.8 to 15.3.

The rise of unemployment is the basic cause of the drop in wage and salary income. But many unions will figure that a boost in wages now will overcome the situation.

Lou Nova Finds A New Career

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—"Fate knocked my brains out," said Lou Nova.

At 38 the retired heavyweight boxer, who earned half a million vanished dollars in the ring, has traded his "cosmic punch" for a punchline. He is trying to make a comeback in a new career as a night club comedian.

His act is a satire on boxing, and he is billed as "Professor of pugilism and fistology."

Coached by Frank Fay, the famous monologist, Lou has high hopes of carving new renown in the entertainment world.

"After all, my family has been in it for some time," he said, settling back and lighting a long cigar. "My father was a pianist with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, and his father was a professional violinist."

"Since I quit the ring in 1946 I have been in 18 pictures and 5 stage shows, and any number of radio and TV programs."

"I've even been commentator at several high society fashion shows. That's really a switch. I don't know of any other boxer who's done that."

Finding a fresh career is an economic necessity for the 6-foot-2-inch one-time "blond adonis," who fought at 203 pounds and now weighs about 240.

"I had 85 pro fights, lost only 5, and won more than half of them by knockouts," he recalled. "I grossed about $500,000. That figure looks good on paper, and I still wonder where it all went."

"But the manager gets a one-third slice, the income tax takes most of what you make in the fat years, and you have a lot of expenses eating at you the public doesn't realize."

"The odd thing to me is that I realized the danger of boxing—making big money but winding up broke. In 1941 I had $100,000 salted away, and thought I'd never have to work the rest of my life. Isn't that something? Here I am still slugging away."

"I kept my money in the bank instead of putting it to work. Then inflation came along, and gradually gobbled it up. Fate knocked my brains out."

It was in 1941 that Lou reached the peak. He lost to world champion Joe Louis on a technical knockout in the 6th round, a referee verdict which he still thinks was a bit hurried.

"But Louis was in his prime then," he said, "and he was the greatest of them all."

"I was born 10 years too soon, Rocky Marciano is a tough, courageous fighter, but he hasn't had to fight the kind of men who were around 10 years ago."

"Joe Louis himself said I would have knocked out Marciano, and if I had—'Lou grinned cheerfully—'I'd be lighting my cigars with $10 bills."

Lou has one advantage over most night club comedians. He can squelch hecklers by saying, "Look, you know I do my own bounding here."

"Night club work is a real challenge," he remarked. "They say the loneliest place in the world is the center of a boxing ring, but you're even lonelier under the spotlight on a night club floor with nothing but a cold microphone in your hands—particularly when a good joke falls flat on somebody in the clutches."

"In the ring you can at least get you got company. And it's easier to throw a new punch than a new punchline."

Nova loves the memories of his fighting years. He says boxing is no more dishonest than "any other profession," and has no more crooks or cheaters in it than law, medicine, or business.

"The only difference," he said, "is that you lose more blood being a prizefighter."

Construct Docks For Shipments Of Ammunition

SOUTHPORT N.C. — The first of three docks for Uncle Sam's $3 million dollar ammunition loading terminal is expected to be completed by Christmas.

The entire project should be ready for use next August, it was reported yesterday by Col. R. L. Hill, in charge of the Wilmington division of the office of the Army Corps of Engineers. Newsmen were conducted on a tour of the big project, located on the Cape Fear River at Sunny Point between Southport and Wilmington.

The facility will be used for loading ammunition for shipment to U.S. forces and its allies overseas. The terminal, Col. Hill explained, is not intended for a storage point for ammunition. It will serve as a rapid transfer for ammunition from storage depots in the nation for shipment to forces overseas.

Dredging work saw the removal of 18 million cubic yards of silt and rock from the river to provide channels and loading basins. This work and a 20-mile access railroad have been completed.

Each dock will be about half a mile long, Col. Hill said, and will accommodate two ships in peacetime. In wartime, three ships could be accommodated at a slightly greater risk. The terminal, described as the first of its kind ever built, will eliminate the hazard of shipping bombs and shells through congested ports.

Safety precautions are being built, Col. Hill told newsmen, to lessen the danger of fire or explosion and to localize their effect if they should occur. These include: Basins where ships could be sunk if necessary, a fire-fighting system, and high earth barricades between various sections of the terminal.

"We're more concerned about sabotage than anything else," he declared.

School Argument In Court's Hands

GEORGETOWN, Del. — The question of readmitting 11 Negro children to the previously all-white high school in Milford, Del., rests with the State Court of Chancery today.

Arguments were presented yesterday in the court before Vice Chancellor William Marvel, who did not indicate when he would announce his finding.

Meanwhile, State Atty. Gen. H. Albert Young said he would issue new subpoenas today through the Court of Chancery to obtain the financial and membership records of the National Assn. for the Advancement of White People.

Bryant Bowles, national president of the NAAWP, has refused to turn them over to Young, contending that they must be subpoenaed through a court.

Bowles and the NAAWP have been in the forefront of the move for segregated schools. As a result of pressures brought by the NAAWP, Negro pupils who attended the Milford High School for the first three weeks of the fall term this year were ordered to be returned to a Negro school in Dover.

Young, in his capacity as attorney general, asked Marvel yesterday to order the return of the 11 Negro pupils. He said that the ruling he sought "will arm" Delaware officials "with the kind of decree where we can get those people who are trying to destroy our community and destroy our laws."

Offensive Strategy Drilled By Pirates For Homecoming

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Writer

The East Carolina Pirates held a long offensive scrimmage yesterday afternoon, stepping up their preparations for the Western Carolina homecoming game here this Saturday afternoon.

Coaches Jack Boone and Jim Hairy put the Pirate gridders through the rough, working on offensive running and passing maneuvers. During the two-hour session, every phase of the Pirates' multiple attack was given concentration. The drills were highlighted by hard tackling and good ground gains. The twice-beaten Bucs went about their work very seriously. Abrasions and bleeding noses were frequent but no major injuries occurred. Jim Stanley, junior halfback from Washington, N. C., slightly sprained his knee in the scrimmage Monday. He is, though, expected to be ready for the Cata-mounts.

The first two units ran against a contingent of freshman players acting Western Carolina's part. The first unit was comprised of J. D. Bradford and Larry Rhodes, ends; George Tucker and Willie Holland, tackles; Don Burton and David Lee, guards; Louis Hallow, center; Boyd Webb, quarterback; Tippy Hayes and Emo Boado, halfbacks; and Claude King, fullback.

The running of Hayes and Boado was exceptional as was the pinpoint passing of Webb. King is rounding into his old form and should be at top physical shape by game time Saturday. Rhodes and Bradford turned in several good catches from their flank positions. The line play was spirited. The Bucs worked against an eight-man line, the same defense EOC employed and snuffed the EOC offense so well. Hallow, especially has been a fiery competitor in practice. He's been pointing

TIPPY HAYES Ready To Run

More Emphasis On Power Plays

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

Power plays and the punting game are getting more emphasis this year than at any time since college football offenses were thrown wide open at the start of World War II.

In this second season of the return to one platoon play, the success of a bruising ground attack combined with an alert defense is the one consistent thread running through an upset - studded campaign.

Those who watched the nationally televised Wisconsin-Rice game last week got a good look at the "new" grid game as it has developed after the '53 season of readjustment.

It was booked as a contest between the lighter, faster Southwesterners by breakaway Dickie Moegle and the solid Badgers behind crashing fullback Alan (The Horse) Ameche. Ameche scored with 80 seconds remaining to give Wisconsin a 14-7 victory.

Rice fought it out with the Badgers in a rugged line struggle, never shaking his long gainers loose. Ameche slammed into the Owls 21 times for 90 yards and both Wisconsin touchdowns.

Twice the Owls rebuffed Wisconsin in the final period when a Badger end sweep fell short and a fourth down pass failed. But a break in the form of a short punt set Wisconsin on the Owl 41. Power football, wearing through Rice's shock absorbers, paid off when Ameche crashed right tackle for the score.

In a surprise last week underdog Harvard marched 7 yards in the closing moments for a 13-12 margin over Cornell. The Crimson stuck to the ground with football's basic play, the off tackle smash.

South Carolina stunned Army in its opener 34-20 by grinding out 446 yards on the ground. The Cadets then turned on Michigan 26-7 with the same weapon, and Navy blanketed Stanford 26-0 by blocking a kick, recovering a fumble, unleashing fullback Joe Gattuso for 153 yards and averaging 40 yards a punt to Stanford's 223.

to the WCC game all season. Holland and Tucker seem to have found the range after the mist at Burlington. The Bucs' front line has given every indication that they won't repeat the performance of last week.

The second offensive group included Ray Pennington and Bill Helms, ends; Charles Smith and Ray (Bull) Overton, tackles; George Rice and Dick Dickerson, guards; Waverly Chesson, center; Milton Collier, quarterback; Tom Allbrook and James Henderson, halfbacks; and Harold O'Kelly, fullback.

Gary Mattocks, Southern Pines' sophomore, alternated with Webb and Collier at the QB post with each eleven. He hit his receivers well and directed the teams impressively.

Several freshmen linemen looked very aggressive against the veteran units. Jerry Brooks and Jimmy Allen, tackles; Jimmy Robinson, Ken Burgess and Carl Rhodes, guards; Winfred Hall and Jack Allen, centers, and Robert Conway and Pinky Young, ends, all looked impressive.

This cross-state battle is being boomed as one of the top North State Conference games. The young but rugged Cata-mounts of Coach Tom Young haven't forgotten the 26-7 licking administered by the Pirates last fall in Cullowhee. They knocked off Catawba last week 26-13 and will be flying high into College Stadium.

Tatum Complains Terps 'Struggling'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS...
Maryland Coach Jim Tatum talked of nothing but trouble yesterday. The mythical national champions of a year ago are beginning to realize again what it like to be football foot.

"We're struggling now as we were in 1947 and 1948," Tatum said as his squad prepared for Saturday's North Carolina game.

A lack of outstanding tackles is one of his main troubles, he said. The situation is so bad that Tatum is considering switching two senior guards, Tom McLuckie and John Bowersox, to the tackle positions.

"I've never changed a team after the season started since I've been coaching and used to laugh at others who did," he said to show how hard off he is.

The Terps were third in the Associated Press pre-season poll of sports writers and broadcasters. Maryland is not now listed in the top 20.

North Carolina's Coach George Barclay held a workout then hustled his squad off behind closed doors for a secret session.

Barclay had nothing to say. Duke had one of its roughest practices in recent weeks as Coach Bill Murray's gridders stepped up preparations for their homecoming clash with Army at Durham Saturday.

Varsity teams alternated on offense against reserves in a partial scrimmage session, stressing down field blocking.

A brief period was spent on fundamentals with the linemen working on tackling and blocking.

At North Carolina State Coach Earle Edwards tested his squad's defenses against Florida State's intricate I-Formation. His first three teams were sent against reserves in an hour-long scrimmage.

The Wolfpack meets Florida State at Raleigh Saturday night.

Wake Forest held no practice session yesterday in view of an open date this week.

The Virginia Cavaliers held a scrimmage as they prepared for Saturday's game at Charlottesville with Virginia Military Institute.

Both Clemson and South Carolina have open dates this week but both teams worked hard yesterday in preparation for "Big Thursday," next week.

The game will decide the mythical state champion, and opens the Atlantic Coast Conference season for both.

Even In Defeat, Big Charlie Looks Good

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Charlie Powell, the 22-year-old ring king who was stopped here last week, is still the best prospect the heavy-weight division has produced in this country since Rocky Marciano.

Who says so? Fight experts who saw Powell suffer a seventh-round technical knockout at the hands of Charley Norkus say so.

Evaluation of the former San Francisco 49ers football player was still going on a week later.

J. J. (Moose) Tausig, whose Willie Mochan thumped out a fourth-round decision over Jack Dempsey in 1918, said he thought Powell had a brilliant future.

"Powell may be champion in a year or two," Tausig observed. "He's the best I've seen come along since Marciano."

Sid Flaherty, manager of middleweight champion Carl (Bobo) Olson, described Powell as a "fine prospect." Billy Newman, an old-timer in the game echoed these sentiments.

Powell showed that he could take a real clout on the jaw. He stood up under at least a dozen lefts and rights that would have felled an ox. He fought from the second round on with a dislocated finger on his right hand yet was ahead on points on all the cards at the end of the sixth.

This was Powell's 13th fight and all hands judged him a top prospect in spite of the defeat — his first.

Al Weil, manager of Marciano, was so impressed with Powell's ability he offered Suez Welch $25,000 for the big fellow's contract.

"If Charlie is worth that much to Weil he's worth twice as much to me," the manager snorted.

Ronnie Sted, batboy for the pennant winning International League Toronto team, got a $95 bonus when the flag was awarded. He sewed it up in his pocket.

Dashing Dick by Pap'

Dick Moege earned his reputation as a breakaway runner last season and then pointed up his elusiveness on the gridiron against Alabama in the Cotton Bowl game on New Year's Day. The Rice ace reeled off touchdown runs of 79 and 34 yards and got credit for a 95-yard scoring run when Tommy Lewis, Alabama fullback, came off the bench to make his famous illegal tackle. Moege also tossed in a 92-yard dash.

Earning the reputation of being the leading breakaway runner in the collegiate ranks is hard work, but even harder is the chore of maintaining that reputation. Moege has found that out. The senior halfback is under terrific pressure every time he steps on the gridiron. Of the posing players concentrate on stopping him on every play. The fans in the stands are disappointed when he fails to go all the way with the ball.

Moege's bid for All-American honors aren't enhanced by the fact that his supporting cast isn't too strong this fall. Kosse Johnson, Dick's running mate in the backfield last year, is gone. And so are most of the veterans who made up Rice's great forward wall last fall. It looks as though Dick would be pretty much on his own. Bigger, stronger, faster and more matured, Moege is certain to be a better football player than he was a year ago. Whether or not he catches the eyes of the All-American selectors, Dick Moege still is one of the finest players in the collegiate ranks.

American League Votes To Assign Athletics To KC

CHICAGO (AP)—American League club owners voted unanimously last night to shift the Philadelphia Athletics to Kansas City.

The decision at the end of a hectic nine-hour meeting all but broke up the once-esteemed position in baseball of the Mack family. It signaled the finish of one vivid chapter in the national pastime that was etched by the pioneering Connie Mack and opened what should be another under Chicago financier Arnold Johnson.

It was Johnson, 47, a top man in a business that grossed 70 million dollars last year, the Automatic Canteen Co. of America, who found that money on the bar-telhead speaks loudest.

In the final analysis, his bid of $3,375,000 to buy out the Macks—Roy, Earle and Connie—including Connie Mack Stadium, was irresistible. Will Harridge president of the American League, said it was the only "sound" offer made.

Officially, the deal for the 54-year-old franchise will not be closed until Monday. In what was assumed to be merely a gesture, Roy Mack was given until 11 a. m. EST, on that day to announce if he will sell his stock to Johnson.

This was regarded only a small technicality and a league spokesman said that Roy "told the meeting that he wanted the sale to Johnson-completed."

This admission removed the only block, for Roy strongly had opposed his brother Earle and 92-year-old father Connie in the sale and died desperately, but vainly, to raise enough capital to keep the debt-ridden club in Philadelphia.

Johnson, who huddled more than once during the day with Roy, was completely satisfied that the deal was closed. He said he would order engineers to start work today double-decking the Kansas City stadium to boost seating capacity from 16,000 to 36,000 by the start of the 1955 season.

He said he plans to sell Connie Mack Stadium to Bob Carpenter, owner of the Philadelphia Phillies, who has been leasing it from the Macks, and probably will close this transaction in Philadelphia this weekend.

"As for Roy Mack I plan to offer him a responsible position in the Kansas City organization," Johnson said. "And I also must give thought to hiring a general manager and field manager. I'll do the selecting of them myself."

The Athletics reportedly were in debt to the tune of about $1,900,000 — a figure broken down to include a $1,200,000 mortgage, $300,000 in current bills and $400,000 to the Jacobs brothers, concessionaires.

In the sale, Connie Mack will receive $64,000 and Earle and Roy each $450,000 for a total of $1,504,000. Added to the indebtedness, this would just about take care of Johnson's $3,375,000 price.

Four other parties appeared at the meeting to make offers, but Harridge stressed that Johnson's was the only solid one.

Elizabeth City Eleven To Prove Rugged Foes

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer

With one of the biggest occasions of the year coming up in the homecoming football game Friday night, the Greenville Phantoms have drawn one of their most formidable foes to battle it out with.

The G-men meet the Elizabeth City Yellow Jackets at 8 o'clock in the feature of the multi-event, homecoming festivities. At the present the Jackets are sitting atop the Northeastern conference football picture with the New Bern Bears. So far the Jackets are undefeated, with one tie marring their schedule.

This Jacket team won its fourth game of the year last Friday night over Edenton by a score of 19-6. The easy Elizabeth City win, which was scouted by Head Coach Bill Kittrell, led the Phantom mentor to say "it is the best Elizabeth City team I have seen since I have been coaching here."

Under Coach Kittrell's reign the Green Phantoms have had fairly good success against the Jackets. The Greenies beat them the first two years but last season the Jackets slipped up and turned back the G-men by two touchdowns.

In conference action this year the Yellow Jackets mauled Jacksonville 33-0, a team that the Phants beat 30-0, and tied Washington, who beat Greenville 7-6. The Yellow Jackets also downed Roanoke Rapids by a score of 20-6.

The Greenies have upset high-rated Kinston in addition to the Jacksonville and Washington conference games.

Yesterday afternoon Coach Kittrell let his G-men off a little early so that they might take in the fair. The team will not be able to attend the fair any time this week, so the coach gave them Tuesday night as their night.

In the afternoon practice Coach Kittrell worked the team in a light scrimmage drill. The Phants will have only one more hard practice before the game since Thursday they just have chalk talks.

The big game starts at 8 o'clock Friday night in ECC Stadium.

Baseball Resumes In Island League

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the shortest off-seasons baseball has known ended officially last night with the grand opening of the 17th campaign of the Puerto Rican League. It seems like only two weeks ago that the World Series began at the Polo Grounds.

The opening struggle at Sixton Escobar Park in San Juan saw that city's Senators playing the Mayaguez Indian Sharks. At Ponce on the southern end of the island, the Ponce Lions collided with the Santurce Crabmen. The defending champions, the Caguas Native Witch Doctors, were idle because it is a five-team league.

What makes the opening of the current Puerto Rican campaign especially notable is the fact that it will number among its players the young man who is widely considered to be the greatest in the game today. Willie Mays of the Giants is scheduled to report to the Santurce club this weekend.

Willie's pitching teammate on the world champions Ruben Gomez, already has signed in with the Crabmen, with whom he starred before he came to the big leagues. Judging by the size of the reception his countrymen gave Ruben upon his return the other day, Sixto Escobar Park is liable to become Gomez Gardens any day now.

Never before has the island league seen a star of Mays' magnitude. They are predicting that the crowds will bend the fences in their eagerness to see the Say-Hey Kid in action, as they should. The only question is whether the great young center fielder should be down there at all.

Some American critics are aghast at the idea of risking such a valuable property on ball fields which have not been combed and carried by big league groundskeepers. They protest that Willie might step in a jaguar hole and break a leg, or run into an uncharted fence, or fall among evil companions at an age when he is most impressive. They feel that the Giants should have locked him inside his old Alabama home until time for spring practice.

Well, the only answer in the present case is that the Giants believe they know more about Willie Mays than anyone else does, and they have raised no objections to his going. They want to keep Willie happy and unspooled, and they believe the best way to accomplish that is to let him play baseball until it runs out of his ears. They don't think he stands any greater chance of getting hurt in Puerto Rico than he would playing stickball on the Harlem streets.

Bowl Nominees Display Power

NEW YORK (AP)—Colorado and Mississippi two of the October nominees for January 1 bowl games have the most potent football attacks in the country so far this season.

Colorado leads in rushing offense with an average of 381.3 yards per game and in total offense with 435.8 per game. Mississippi is tops in passing with 211 yards per game and second in total offense with 423.3. Mississippi's attack is almost perfectly balanced between land and air, with 211 passing and 212.3 running.

The nation's television football fans will see some of the best passing in the country Saturday when Oregon, No. 2 team passing, meets Southern California, No. 4. Oregon is averaging 188.3 yards per game. Southern Cal 162.8. Purdue, whose passing was stymied by Duke, last Saturday is third with a 163.3 mark.

Colorado is averaging 7.40 yards a try on the ground, 7.61 yards a try including passes, leading the country in both respects.

Wichita leads in scoring with 177 points in four games, a 44.3 average, and Colorado is second with 174 for 43.5.

Two Types Of FHA Operating Loans Open To N. C. Farmers

North Carolina farmers can now obtain two types of operating loans through the Farmers Home Administration, according to Horace J. Isenhower, North Carolina state director of the FHA.

The state director says farmers may obtain special livestock loans and regular production and subsistence loans. The production and subsistence loans are made only to operators of family-type farms, while the livestock loans are made to operators of family-type farms and other farms and ranchers as well. All loans are made only to farmers who are unable to obtain the credit from other sources on reasonable terms and at reasonable rates.

Chest Agencies To Be In Parade

All participating agencies in the Community Chest will be represented in the East Carolina College Homecoming Parade Saturday morning.

This will take the place of the originally scheduled Community Chest parade next Tuesday, according to J. H. Rose, chairman of the Community Chest parade unit.

The Community Chest unit will be led by the Drum and Bugle Corps from ECC, followed by the college AFROTC drill team. These groups will represent the United Defense Fund, one of the participating agencies in the Community Chest.

The other agencies—Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Service League, Teen-Age Club, and Kings Daughters—will be represented by floats, decorated automobiles or marching units, Rose said.

available immediately and can be used to finance current farm and living expenses as well as the production of next year's crops.

The state director indicated that regular production and subsistence loans help small farmers to improve their farming operations. These loans may be made to buy farm and home equipment, feed, seed, lime and fertilizer, and to pay other farm operating and family living expenses.

There is a statutory limit of $700 on each production and subsistence loan and the total outstanding debt for these loans cannot exceed $10,000. Repayments are based on the income to be received each year after reasonable expenses are met. In no case may the loan run for more than seven years. When the main purpose of the production and subsistence loan is to improve the farmer's operations, a limited amount of funds may be included in refinance debts secured by liens on livestock and farm equipment.

Isenhower noted that special livestock loans are made to producers and feeders of cattle, sheep and goats, except commercial feed lot operators. These loans are made to meet usual expenses necessary to successful livestock operations, such as the purchase or production of feed, and replacing, hiring, or repairing farm machinery and equipment.

Livestock loans are not made to expand operations or to pay existing debts, except incidental current bills. Livestock loans are made for periods up to three years. Other creditors are not asked to subordinate their liens, but are expected to stand by and to agree that a reasonable part of the applicants' normal income from livestock can be used in repaying the loan.

There is no limit set by law on the amount that a farmer or rancher can borrow under the special livestock loan program. The amount that can be borrowed under this program is determined by the farmer's need and his ability to repay. No loan is made unless it appears that an applicant has reasonable prospects for success.

For each loan made, the government obtains the best security available, including a first lien on all crops to be produced with the loan and on all livestock and farm machinery purchased with the loan.

While special livestock loans cannot be used to refinance existing debts, the loans can include funds to pay for the annual depreciation on chattels serving as security for their loans. In addition, local businessmen who are creditors benefit from loan funds used to purchase loan supplies and services.

All applications for FHA loans are made at the agency's local county office located in the Old Hospital Building in Greenville.

Emergency Polio Drive Nets $888

Total collections for the emergency March of Dimes campaign amounted to $888.96, chairman J. H. Rose has reported.

Collections in Greenville totaled $473.26, while other communities collected as follows: Ayden, $71.85; Bethel, $21.85; Farmville, $25; Fountain, $177.69; Grifton, $87.72; and Winterville, $21.59.

In Greenville $177.26 was collected from the coin boxes and $25 by local checks and cash.

Local agencies contributed the remainder of the total: Greenville High School, $30.37; Wahl Coates Laboratory School, $86.77; Third Street School, $35.46; West Greenville School, $43.40; VFW Auxiliary, $80; and the Batchelor Benedict Club, $5.

Can't Afford To Help Any More

BALTIMORE (AP)—James Harris told Police Magistrate Howard L. Aaron that the days when he lent a helping hand to folks in trouble have ended. "I can't afford it."

The 45-year-old Negro truck driver was fined $10 by Aaron yesterday after Patrolman Milton Freund said he insisted on standing in the street and refused an order to get on the sidewalk at the scene of an accident. Harris said: "I saw the accident. There was a woman in the car with a baby and she looked befuddled. I was trying to help."

"I've always liked to help people," he said. "Now, coming down here today I saw a car stalled. Nine out of ten times I would have pushed. But not today."

Free Loading Is Widely Tried In Business World

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Columbus discovered America 42 years ago yesterday. And it couldn't have been long after that when those who followed him began to angle for free transportation and various forms of free loading. It quickly became one of the earliest of old American customs.

By your grandfather's day, any number of persons could get a pass on the railroads for themselves and family. Since then that has come to a stop for most people, except railroad men themselves.

Now even the railroad man is threatened with loss of an entirely free-wheeling pass. The Pennsylvania Railroad announces it's cutting down on passes for officials and employees of other railroads. The Pennsy says snidely that since it operates "such a large proportion of railroad passenger service" it has to carry more deadheading employees of other roads than these carriers tote employees of the Pennsylvania.

So it proposes that all concerned start paying their own way, except for vacation travel and emergency trips. And it adds that trips to Washington to see regulatory agencies are no emergencies these days.

Railroads aren't the only ones to exchange courtesies. The custom is widespread in the professions. Doctors' families often get special consideration from hospitals and from other physicians, for example.

Free loading is an art widely practiced in business. Officials—or even mere hired hands—of a corporation often take a valued customer or a potential customer (who is likely to be even more highly valued) to lunch, or better still, to dinner and a girls show. It's customary for the businessman to pick up the check on his expense account.

Uncle Sam is beginning to take note of this great outpouring of generosity and good fellowship by businessmen as it shows up in the income tax returns.

Corporations are being asked increasingly to explain entertainment items. Couldn't the customer have been sold if he hadn't been taken to the most expensive night clubs? And did four of the company's junior executives have to go along—on the tax-deductible expense account?

So the Pennsylvania Railroad, by suggesting that some deadheads pay their way, could be striking at an old American custom.

Remember, Columbus may have laid the foundations for the "Home of the Brave." But he also found the "Land of the Free."

The U.S. Air Force has developed a method of reversing the thrust of a jet airplane engine so that it can be used as a brake in the air or on the ground.

'Serious Show' Now Pitted Against Lucy

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The most controversial show of the new TV season is Medic, NBC's scalpel-and-stethoscope entry to battle the supremacy of I Love Lucy.

After three years of trying to fight comedy with comedy, NBC has pitted a serious show about doctors in the prime Monday-at-9 slot opposite Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, still the top attractions on TV. Whether the new show will cut into Lucy's rating remains to be seen. Anyway, the costly Medic has aroused a lot of talk.

Some of the reviews were loaded with praise, others panned the show unmercifully. Many viewers think it's good. These include Miss Ball herself. "A fine show but oh so sad," she told me. "I cried through it. I'm only sorry I won't be able to watch it and our show too."

Other viewers do not think the fight against disease is entertainment for the home. We'll see which viewpoint prevails.

Meanwhile, let's have a look at the medic himself. He's Richard Boone 36, a Los Angeles boy. You've seen him in many movies, though you might not recognize him as the clean-shaven general practitioner on TV. Usually he has played a deep-dyed heavy with beard and other disguises.

Without the fake hair and make-up, Boone is a craggy-faced fellow with deep-set, penetrating eyes. He rejoiced in what TV has done for his movie career.

"In the past few weeks that the show has been on," he declared, "I have had more recognition, both in public and in the trade, than I ever got in the movies. It's a good thing for me. Nowadays, when banks put up the money on the basis of an actor's draw, you get paid what you're worth in terms of the public's knowledge of you."

"With a face like mine, I never could have gotten the recognition in movies the way I'm getting it in TV."

Boone intends to continue his film

There's Profit In Extradition

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)—Solicitor (State's attorney) James M. Mann complained about the high cost of extradition.

He got a bill from Florida in the case of a prisoner returned here from that state. The cost: $5 for the state of Florida and about $19 for the sheriff who handled the case.

When this state does the same for another state, there's no charge.

Miss Bert Turnage spent Sunday in Kinston as guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor.

Charles Fitzpatrick, a student at Union Seminary, Richmond, Va. filled the pulpit at the Grifton Presbyterian Church on Sunday, while here was a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Josh Worthington.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Jones had as a guest during the week end Mrs. Jones' mother, Mrs. Blissette of Balley.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cobb, Mrs. G. T. Gardner and Jane Cobb were Seven Springs visitors on Sunday.

Tears for the Bride

By ROBERT MARTIN

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

I SAID to Eileen "I'm very sorry about Ralph."

"Thank you." Her small thin lips quivered.

I hesitated, and then I said, Judy feels very badly about it."

"I hate her." Her voice was low and intense.

"Because of the accident?"

"No." She shook her head slowly. "Things like that happen, I guess. But she had him once, and she lost him. Then we—we got engaged, and he enlisted, and everything was fine. I wrote to him, and waited. When he came home last week, he didn't seem the same. Maybe it was the army—I don't know. I trust Ralph, but I don't trust Judy. I know she wants him back but she doesn't really care about him. It's just to spite me. Once while Ralph was away, she told me that if she couldn't have Ralph, I would never have him, either. She's smart and clever, and I'm not. I know I shouldn't have let Earl talk me into leaving with him last night, but when Judy kissed Ralph last night, I couldn't stand it any more, and—"

"I know," I said, feeling a hundred and ten years old. I had merely met Eileen Fortune briefly, but here she was, telling me about her love life. Maybe I looked fatherly, and so I added in a fatherly tone "Ralph will be well soon, and then you can get married, and everything will be fine."

"I wish I could believe that," she said, with a catch in her voice.

I said casually, "This Earl Seltzman seems like a nice young fellow."

"He is nice," she said seriously. "Earl is a wonderful fellow. I feel sorry for him and sometimes I think I should have just stayed engaged to him. Papa likes him, and he is very wealthy." She gave me a look of coy boastfulness. "I can still marry him—he wants me to."

"That's nice."

"But I can't now, of course," she said demurely, "because I'm promised to Ralph. He has always been my hero, ever since the fourth grade, but he would never look at little old me." She looked into the fire, reminiscing. "All the girls were crazy about him. He was captain of the basketball team, and president of the senior class. Judy thought she had him." She paused and went on with a satisfaction I could almost taste. "But in the end she lost him, and he picked me, the little girl with the pig tails who had always adored him from afar."

"What happened between Judy and Ralph?" I asked innocently.

"Ralph never told me," she said. "Anyway I do not wish to discuss it."

Behind me Sandy said, "Jim." I turned in my chair. She was standing in the hallway. A frilly apron was tied over her print dress. I said, "Excuse me," to Eileen and went to Sandy. She said in a low voice, "Dad wants to see you. He's on the back porch."

I nodded, patted her shoulder for no reason at all and walked back along the hall. As I pushed through the kitchen, Mrs. Hollis, busy at the stove, said, "Supper in ten minutes."

"Good." I smiled at her, and went out to the back porch. Homer Hollis was standing by the steps in the cold November dusk. A wind was blowing from the northwest, rustling the dry corn shocks in a field nearby and swaying the branches of the pines above us. "I want you to go with me, Jim," Homer said. "Rex hasn't come home yet. You'd better get a coat."

I shivered in the cold wind. "Something wrong?"

"I hope not," Homer said bleakly. "Rex is always here for the milking, and he made a date to shoot target with you, and—well, he's pretty old, and we better go get him."

"All right." I left him and walked around the house to the front door, quietly climbed the stairs to my room. I got my overcoat and hat, and the gun from my hunting coat, and rejoined Homer. I felt a vague uneasiness, and wondered suddenly why I'd taken my gun. Homer held a light-been accidentally killed by a stray rifle bullet fired by a careless hunter in the area, but added cautiously that he would not issue an official statement until after the coroner had examined the body and the wound.

The coroner, it developed was an aged and semi-retired doctor who had held his office for over thirty years. The sheriff gravely entered my name, address and occupation in a little ten-cent-store note book, along with a few details Homer Hollis gave him about the time of morning Rex Bishop had gone to his fence-fixing job, and the time we had found him. I told the sheriff about seeing Rex, and what he said about not returning to the house for the noonday meal.

"That's why I didn't miss him until evening," Homer said. "Rex often stayed out all day."

Sheriff Morrissey nodded and said, "This has been a kind of miserable day for you, Homer—what with Ralph getting hurt, and all."

"Yes," Homer said. "It has."

The sheriff politely expressed the hope that Ralph would soon recover, made a rather vague comment about "irresponsible parties," referring, I assumed, to Judy Kirk, land, and the unknown person who had fired the shot killing Rex Bishop.

Homer said "Tell Dick Brandis that I'll take care of Rex's funeral."

Dick Brandis, I learned later, was the local mortician.

The sheriff nodded gravely, said he would be in touch with Homer, shook hands with both of us, and left with his young deputy in a battered Chevrolet, into which, I had noticed earlier, they had placed the coil of wire and Rex's old musket.

Too Many Auto Thefts To Recall

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 19-year-old youth who told police he stole so many cars he couldn't remember what he had done with all of them pleaded guilty to car theft yesterday.

William Henry Ash was sentenced to not more than nine years in prison.

He said he usually drove the cars until they ran out of gas and then abandoned them. Prosecutor M. Peter Moser said police had been able to connect Ash with nine thefts of cars or articles taken from stolen cars, including a set of false teeth.

ed gasoline lantern. "He was fixing the fence down in the bottom," he said. "You follow me."

The dusk quickly faded into night as I walked behind Homer across the fields, the lantern making a wavering circle of light around us. We climbed three fences, walked through a dark woods with bare, whispering branches above us and entered a grassy meadow glowing faintly with the first light of the moon.

At last we reached another fence, and Homer walked more slowly. Presently he stopped. "Jim," he said.

I moved up beside him. Beside the fence lay a coil of wire, gleaming bright in the lantern light. The ancient flintlock musket stood against a post. We could see the new wire woven into a break in the fence where Rex Bishop had been working, and we stared silently. Then Homer began to move slowly along the fence holding the lantern ahead of him.

We found the old man lying on his back in the fence corner, maybe fifty yards from where he'd been working, his bright eyes staring up at the dark sky. There was a wide, black stain on the bib of his overalls. Homer stood still and said something in a voice so low

I couldn't hear. I gazed past him and I saw the dark outline of the trees marking the ravine which crossed this land, the ravine where Ralph had been shot, where the bullet had struck the tree beside me, and where I'd encountered Earl Seltzman. I moved past Homer and knelt beside the body of the old man. The yellow lantern beams and the faint moonlight told it all. I didn't need to touch him, but I did. Rex Bishop was dead.

An hour later I stood on the back porch of the farm house. Light from the kitchen window fell across Homer Hollis' face and I saw the deep lines in his leathery face and the dull look of fatigue and shock in his eyes. The county sheriff and a deputy had come out and supervised the removal of Rex Bishop's body to a mortuary in Ridge Center. The sheriff, whose name was John Morrissey, had impressed me very favorably, a sharp contrast to a number of rural peace officers I'd encountered during my years with the agency. He was an elderly soft-spoken man who asked the correct questions, performed the necessary with a strict attention to detail, all in exact accordance with the chapter on the finding of dead bodies from the Police Officer's Manual. He expressed the preliminary opinion that Rex Bishop had

Community Chest Funds Go To Service League Projects

A desire to perform humanitarian works in the community has led the Greenville Service League to actively participate in the local Community Chest fund.

The Service League is composed of a group of women organized for the purpose of "aiding humanity and making this city a better place for all to live."

Because the Laughinghouse hospital bed, which is used by needy families, is the only project for which the League, under its constitution, can make money, the group now participates in the Community Chest fund in order that it may perform other useful services to the community.

Service League Works
Among the services rendered by the League in connection with the Community Chest are the making of layettes and the maintaining of a lending chest and an emergency charity fund.

Within the past five years more than 100 complete layettes have been made and assembled by Service League members for families with no other means of providing the necessary items for a new baby.

The layettes include numerous items — two gowns, two kimonos, two receiving blankets, one sweater, two shirts, one dozen diapers, one heavy blanket, one package of pins and one pair of booties. In some cases a sleeping basket is furnished.

Group Also Mends
Some good used clothes are also mended and used, and material is often bought and sewn into articles by the women.

Money from the Community Chest fund is used to purchase those articles that cannot be made by the League members.

Mrs. Ed Parkinson is chairman of the layette service, which works very closely with the local Health Department in choosing needy families.

Lending Chest Service
The Service League also cooperates with the Health Department in its lending chest service. The League provides three wheel chairs, one hospital bed, crutches and various sick room necessities for those in need. The group reports these items remain in use almost constantly.

Chairman of this service is Mrs. Edgar Williford.
A third service the League provides from participation in the Community Chest is the emergency charity fund. Within the past five years approximately 200 persons in the city have been aided in some way by this fund.

Emergency Aid
During a period of emergency the women take care of food, clothing, shelter, fuel, medicine and numerous other items for families in extreme need. In most cases this service is rendered only until the local Welfare Department can take over.

The emergency charity fund committee, under the direction of Mrs. R.H. Evans, works closely with the Welfare office so that work in this area will not be duplicated.

In all areas of its work the League strives to "serve the public." Mrs. Howard Moye is president of the organization.

DETROIT (AP) — Edward Wilson, son of Secretary of Defense Wilson, opened a meeting of Oakland County Republican workers in suburban Birmingham last night by announcing: "Before I go any further I want you to know I'm a bird dog."

ECC Student Body Is Predominately Tarheel

North Carolinians attending East Carolina College this fall number 2398 out of a total of 2498 students. Registrar Orval L. Phillips pointed out here today. Enrollment at present breaks all previous records, Dr. Phillips said, and exceeds last fall's total by 283 students.

Eighty-four of the hundred counties in the state are represented on the campus this year.

The 98 students who are not North Carolinians come from eighteen states and three foreign countries. Fifty-two of this total are freshmen. Virginians, numbering 57 men and women, make up the largest out-of-state delegation at the college.

Pauline Catel of Ste. Foy Le-Lyon, France; Anna van Andel of Bussum, North Holland; and Oscar Rota of Lima, Peru, provide the cosmopolitan element in the student population.

Eastern counties in the state have the heaviest enrollment, Dr. Phillips stated. Pitt, home county of the college, is represented by 386 students, an increase of 70 over last year. Others with large enrollments include Lenoir, 106; Beaufort, 85; Wake, 77; Wayne, 74; Martin, 70; Nash, 69; and Craven, Johnston, and Duplin, each with more than sixty.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BARRUTHER, Real Estate Editor

Ever wake up at night and smell smoke? It's one way to have your sleep ruined, even after you shuffle around in slippers and find the smoke comes from a neighbor's smoldering barbecue or rubbish pile.

It doesn't sooth your nerves any to read the news in connection with Fire Prevention Week that fire losses are constantly increasing and that most of the 12,000 persons who die in fires every year in this country are women and children in their own homes.

But there is a lot of encouragement in the prevailing do-it-yourself activities among home handymen. Becoming more conscious of good building and equipment practices, we all are more likely to see to it that our homes are kept more fire safe.

ney, use a fire-retardant roofing, such as mineral covered asphalt shingles. If you have wood shingles, provide spark arresters for the chimney, wet down the shingles in dry weather or when there is danger from nearby fires. Remove leaves and litter from eaves troughs.

4. Wiring — Many wiring systems were originally designed only for electric lights and small appliances and are not adequate for dishwashers, ranges, irons, freezers, dryers, television and air conditioning. To avoid the danger of overloading circuits, make sure your wiring system is of sufficient capacity. Have plenty of outlets, properly located to eliminate long extension cords. If wiring must be extended, call a licensed electrician and have the job done right.

Half of all the fires that attacked 400,000 homes in this country in the past year could have been prevented simply by "good engineering," says the National Fire Protection Assn. This "good engineering" refers to four common structural hazards which have to do with (1) heating plants, (2) chimneys, (3) roofs, and (4) wiring systems.

Common sense elimination of these structural hazards obviously could save thousands of lives and quickly put the rising curve of fire losses into a tailspin.

Here is a summary of the association's suggestions, which could be tackled up over your work bench until you attend to them:

1. Heating Plant — Make sure that this is set on a substantial base, well away from walls. Wood floors and nearby walls or partitions should be fire protected. Joists above the furnace should be fire-protected with gypsum plaster, gypsum wallboard, or some similar fire-resistant material. Keep smoke pipes visible throughout their length including their point of entry into the chimney.
2. The Chimney — This should be built solidly from the ground up. It should not depend for its support on any wooden construction, nor should it be used to support any part of your house. Chimney flues should be lined and the thickness of chimney walls should be about 8 inches. Clear a chimney at least once a year.
3. Your Roof — This is one of the most vulnerable parts of a house. For protection against a neighbor's sparks flying embers and sparks from your own chim-

To prevent home fires from spreading is as important as to keep them from starting. Construction is the secret. Use fire-resistant building materials wherever possible—gypsum, brick, stone, concrete, etc. One of the distinctive characteristics of gypsum, whether in plaster or wallboard, is that in addition to being a mineral product, it will expel water into a fire to the extent of about one-half its volume. This moisture content is slowly converted into steam, repelling the fire and dissipating its heat.

A new fire alarm of the install-it-yourself type is about to be nationally distributed by the largest manufacturer of electrical signaling devices. It is a plug-in device comprising a decorative aluminum box housing a transformer and a test button for home fire drills. Light wiring for a harmless 10-volt current connects the alarm with thermal detectors, which can be mounted over heating plant or in cellar stairway and other danger points. The detectors set off the alarm when the temperature within a 400 square foot area reaches 140 degrees.

The complete signal system with two detectors will retail under $20 with extra detectors around $3.50 each.

TACKY JOB
HUGO, Okla. (AP) — The fire department answered an alarm in the center of town where someone had strung a keg of tacks down the main street. The firemen were called to wash them down the drain.

Nurses Schedule Durham Meeting

DURHAM — More than 1200 registered and student nurses from throughout the state are expected to attend the 52nd annual convention of the North Carolina State Nurses Association and the fifth annual convention of the Student Nurses Association of North Carolina which will be held in Durham October 26 to 29.

The complete program for the joint meeting of the two state nursing groups was announced today by Mrs. Marie B. Noel, of Raleigh, Executive Secretary. A highlight of the opening session on Tuesday, October 26, will be a discussion of the role nurses will play in civil defense in the event of atomic attack. Dr. M. M. van Sandt, regional medical officer of the U. S. Civil Defense Administration, will be the featured speaker.

Others who are scheduled to speak on this part of the program include Brigadier General Edward Griffin, of Raleigh, State director of Civil Defense, who will discuss "Civil Defense in North Carolina", Dr. Walter W. Kitchin, of Clinton, chairman of the Emergency Medical Committee of the State Medical Society, who will define the "Nurses Responsibility in the Event of Attack" and Mrs. Mary Watts Dunn, of Watts Hospital, Durham, chairman of the State Nurses Association's Committee for National Defense, who will explain "Nursing Resources and Preparation of Nurses for Defense".

Teachers Plan Student Tests

An initial meeting of city school teachers to prepare for the testing program to be given all children in grades three through eight was held yesterday afternoon with the discussion led by Frank Fuller, specialist in testing and measurement at East Carolina College.

The meeting was held to insure uniformity in procedure of giving and scoring these standardized tests, Superintendent J. H. Rose said.

The state-wide procedure, which this city's school system has followed in former years, is to give the tests at the end of the seventh month of school. However, last spring the local teachers recommended the tests be given here at the end of the first six weeks of school and again at the end of the eighth month of the school year.

Rose said it is felt that if the tests are given now the teachers will have a better picture of individual students and their particular needs, and will thus know how to best help them during the remainder of the school year.

'In School' By Remote Control

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ten-year-old Paula Bratt is paralyzed from the waist down but she keeps her chin up.

She gets her schooling at home via a two-way communications system which connects her home in suburban Wyoming to the elementary school one mile away. Thus she is able to hear what goes on in the classroom and is able to answer the teacher's questions.

Paula, who became paralyzed two years ago after a cyst was removed from her spine, said going to school by remote control has its advantages.

"I'm comfortable," she said. "I can always ask mother when I get stuck on a question." Then, too, she said: "I get all my meals in bed."

Bobcat Bounties Are Re-Invoked

Oslo, the capital of Norway annexed 175 square miles in 1948 and thereby became a city which is almost half forest, says the National Geographic Society.

LANSEING, Mich. (AP) — Bounties of $5 again will be paid on bobcats in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

Bounties were paid from 1935 to mid-1937. The bounties then were dropped but reinstated in 1941 and continued until Feb. 1, 1953. In the Lower Peninsula, bobcat bounties were halted in mid-1937.

Americans spend about 300 million dollars a year on eye care.

Highest octane you can buy! This is the real measure of anti-knock performance in your car. Day-in-and-day-out no other gasoline has consistently equaled the anti-knock power of ESSO EXTRA.

Point by point here's why NEW TOTAL POWER ESSO EXTRA outsells every other premium gasoline!

1. Extra mileage where it counts most! Over one half of all trips are less than 5 miles in length. Amazing isn't it? Yet U. S. Government statistics prove that around-town driving — to market, to school — accounts for 62% of all trips. New TOTAL POWER ESSO EXTRA is the first gasoline engineered to give greater mileage under these extreme gasoline-consuming conditions.
2. More delivered horsepower! The horsepower your car can deliver depends on the gasoline as well as the engine. The horsepower potential of TOTAL POWER ESSO EXTRA is so great that one of the nation's leading automobile manufacturers found it to be the best gasoline obtainable for rating the horsepower output of its new high-compression engines.
3. "New Car" performance—longer! ESSO EXTRA burns so completely that more of every drop is converted into sheer energy and less remains to form power-robbing carbon deposits. Thus, it keeps the "New Car" power and performance of your engine for many thousands of extra miles.

4. Unbeatable warm-up! NEW TOTAL POWER ESSO EXTRA gives fastest possible starting and warm-up, especially important in cold weather. As a result, it increases gasoline mileage and prolongs battery life.
5. Prevents stalling due to carburetor icing! You may find it hard to believe, but ice is most apt to form in your carburetor when the outside temperature is above freezing. Thanks to an Esso-discovered de-icing additive—F-38—TOTAL POWER ESSO EXTRA actually keeps ice from forming and prevents your engine from stalling.
6. Highest octane you can buy!

The fact is NEW TOTAL POWER ESSO EXTRA delivers the finest possible performance in today's high-compression engines. No so-called "Hi-Test" gasoline, at any price, can give you all these important advantages. For "Happy Motoring," try a tankful of TOTAL POWER ESSO EXTRA today. It's the best gasoline you can buy!

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — The stock market presented a mixed appearance today with some outstanding areas of strength developing in the early afternoon.

Most gains and losses were well within a point range. Trading was restrained at a pace not far from the two million mark. Yesterday's total was 1,620,000 shares, lowest in about six weeks because of Columbus Day observances.

Oils were mixed as a group. Chemicals were quietly advanced better than a point in a flurry of activity. Railroads were higher on the steels, motors coppers, and air-crafts.

Tobacco were lower for the second straight day, but they weren't as active as yesterday. Weakness of the group was linked with discussion of cancer and cigarette smoking.

RALEIGH — (NCDA)—Hog prices irregular. tops of 19.50 at Beaufort, Kenly, Micro, Freeman, Siler City, Elizabethtown, Fayetteville and Clinton; 19.25 at Plymouth, Jacksonville, Rocky Mount, and Rich Square; 19.00 at Tarboro, Enfield, Hamilton, Mount Olive, Goldsboro, Wilmington, Weldon, Scotland Neck, Colerain, Windsor, Wilson, Burgaw, Bailey, Dunn, Lillington, Clarkton, Newton Grove, Warsaw, Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Smithfield and Hillsboro, 18.75 at Tabor City, Whiteville, Lumberton and Woodland.

Heart Replaced Within Infant

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Wiley Lawrence Chester, 4 weeks old, is home from the hospital today with his heart back inside his body. And the only thing he has to show for the operation, performed three hours after birth, is a small scar on the chest.

Wiley was brought here from Jeffersonville, Ind., just across the Ohio River, when doctors discovered he had one of the rarest of abnormalities at birth.

The breast bone was only partly outside the body, was enclosed in two fine gelatine-like membranes. The breast bone was only partly formed and several ribs, instead of joining the breast bone at the front, joined each other across the chest.

"In 8 or 10 hours, the membranes around the heart would have become like old parchment," said the surgeon who performed the operation. "By that time, it probably would have been too late."

He declined to be identified but said that during the one-hour surgery, the heart was forced back into its cavity while the lungs, which had filled the cavity, were pushed aside to make room.

Wiley's mother, Mrs. Palmer Chester says her new son is "doing just fine. He's gained over a pound since birth."

You Know Those Rides Must Be Fun

Watching the three girls on one of the numerous rides offered on the county fair midway, you know it must be fun. There are 16 Prell Show rides here this year; and while generally avoided by cautious adults, the kids love 'em. (Reflector Photo by Alvin Taylor).

Boots Believed Cause Of Death

YUCAIPA, Calif. — Apparently it was Cyrus Stoneham's rubber boots that cost him his life yesterday.

Stoneham, 43, was putting a purifier in the Yucaipa Water Co.'s reservoir when his raft tipped and he fell into the water. He sank so fast when his boots filled with water that fellow workers could not rescue him.

More Counties On Disaster List

RALEIGH — Fifteen more Tar Heel counties have been designated as drought disaster areas and eligible for federal aid under the emergency hay and feed program.

Fred R. Keith, chairman of the State Drought Committee, said he was notified yesterday that Secretary of Agriculture Benson has approved the following additional North Carolina counties:

Alleghany, Ashe, Cabarrus, Caswell, Chatham, McDowell, Mecklenburg, Person, Randolph, Richmond, Rockingham, Surry, Vance, Wilkes and Yadkin.

In all, 30 counties have been declared drought disaster areas. The other 15 approved earlier are Alexander, Anson, Burke, Caldwell, Catawba, Cleveland, Hoke, Iredell, Lincoln, Plk, Rutherford, Gaston, Union, Scotland and Cumberland.

Farmers in the 30 counties were advised to submit their applications for emergency hay benefits to local offices of the Farmers Home Administration, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation, or to county agents.

County FHA committees will pass on the eligibility of applicants. The approved application for emergency hay entitles the farmer to discounts amounting to 50-75 per cent of the shipping charges.

New NATO Commander Expected This Summer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new commander may take over direction of Allied Powers in Europe next summer at about the time when—according to the present schedule—those forces will be expanded through addition of German troops.

The recent visit to Washington and the Summer White House at Denver of Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, who currently holds the post, has brought renewed speculation that he may be called home to become either Army chief of staff or chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

That in turn would open the question of whether the European Allies would again ask the United States to supply a supreme commander for Western Europe or whether this country would accept the proposal. The first three Allied commanders have been Americans.

Britain or France may feel that one of their military men should have the command. Or the United States, which lost the case for the European Defense Community plan but endorsed the substitute produced at the London conference, may step away from another invitation to command.

Tipton Is Chosen New Chairman Of Association

Ed Tipton was elected chairman of the Greenville Appliance Dealers Association at a meeting of that group last night at the Town House Restaurant.

Other officers chosen for the coming year were Robert Eiks, vice chairman; and Norris Merritt, treasurer.

In accepting the office Tipton paid tribute to D. E. Oglesby, retiring chairman, for his work during the past year, and also to Eiks who pioneered the organization. The new chairman pledged his support and continued work for the association.

Throughout the year at the regular monthly meetings a member of the organization will be selected to speak on matters pertaining to the business. C. E. Williams will be the speaker at the November meeting of the group.

Traffic . . .

Increase One-Third

"These counts showed that during the fall tobacco season parking can be expected to increase at least one-third in the business and fringe area."

The traffic engineer noted in his report that financing of off-street parking should come from non ad valorem taxes.

"Similarly on-street parking meter revenues should not be used for general fund purposes," he continued. "The original parking meter act limits the use of these funds to traffic purposes. A recent statute permits on-street parking meter revenues to be used for financing off-street parking. This statute has not been tested in the courts and is presumed to be valid until tested."

Babcock warned that a parking lot should not be analyzed primarily on the basis of meeting the financing costs.

"Regardless of the computation that would indicate whether it would pay or not pay there will be a general reduction in on-street parking meter revenues approximately equal to the number of vehicles in the central area. This may be true over a long period of time. It will not take place immediately. The parking lot will make parking more convenient for those persons who would have had to park at greater distances."

Fair Attendance Of 3,000 Noted Here Yesterday

"The Pitt County Agricultural Fair yesterday and last night drew a crowd of nearly 3,000 persons and the weather was ideal," Manager Norman Y. Chambliss stated.

"The exhibits are better than last year and there are more agricultural exhibits; there is a finer display of livestock and swine, and the farm machinery exhibit is exceptionally good," President Howard Moyer said.

"The exhibits in the main building at the fair are better in every way and they reflect the growing interest of farmers and farm women in the Pitt County Agricultural Fair," General Director of Exhibits W. Connor Eagles stated.

Manager Chambliss said attendance Monday and Tuesday afternoon and night encouraged him to believe that the Attendance goal of 1954 of 50,000 persons at the fair will be realized. The fair will continue through Saturday night.

The free acts in front of the grandstand, and the display of fireworks at the conclusion of the stage show also drew a large crowd. The fair management has placed 1,500 free seats in front of the stage, where spectators may witness the show, the nearby high dive and the pyrotechnic display.

The free stage show and high dive act are scheduled daily at 5 and 8 p.m. The fireworks are at 9:15.

Thursday is "Farmers' Day" and Friday is "School Children's Day" for Pitt County.

Prell's Broadway Shows, playing a return engagement in Greenville, has 10 shows, 16 rides and numerous concessions.

Manager Chambliss said "I believe the fair, in all departments, is better than last year. Certainly, the farmers—white and colored and the farm club groups are taking more interest."
