

Estimates Of Hurricane Damage Over County Rising

Pitt County continued today to dig itself out of the rubble left by hurricane Hazel as revised estimates of damage throughout the county moved to the million dollar mark.

Utilities and telephone employees continued work at a fever pitch in their efforts to restore electric and communication services to normal.

Individual citizens surveyed damage to their property and began the bitter job of repairing wreckage left by Hazel in her roaring trip through the county last Friday.

Rural Losses Heavy Throughout the county hundreds of homes were damaged, some almost completely destroyed during the storm, while several hundred tobacco barns were reported completely demolished and extensive damage to many other farm buildings was reported.

Superintendent Leonard Bloxam of the Greenville Utilities this morning estimated repairing the damage to power lines ravaged by Hazel will cost the Utilities Commission "somewhere around $50,000."

Bloxam said he hoped service to 90 per cent of the more than 12,000 electric customers on the lines of local utilities will be restored by late today.

The superintendent said damage to power lines was general in the area served by the local utilities from the upper part of Craven County, across Pitt County, to the edge of Beaufort County.

The local utilities secured the services of a contracting firm from out of town to help with the repair work, Bloxam said, and several additional linemen were slated to be on hand to help with repairs today. A tree trimming crew from a Wilson firm also has been at work clearing right-of-ways of the local utilities, and patrolling the circuits in an effort to prevent further damage from broken limbs still hanging in trees.

Bloxam said practically all electric circuits in Greenville have been temporarily restored to service with the exception of a few circuits to individual houses which have not yet been reported.

The bulk of the work on power lines is now being done in rural areas served by the utilities.

The Greenville Western Union office had only one open line and that was to Ayden. It reported its offices at Farmville and Bethel were also out. Practically all telegrams which were being sent were being transported from central points by motor vehicles. All telegrams were still being accepted subject to "indefinite delay."

The local telephone office said this morning telephone communications had been restored on a limited basis to nearby towns to which there were direct lines from Greenville. Lines were open from Greenville to other towns in Pitt County, Rocky Mount, Wilson, Kinston, Tarboro,

Washington and New Bern. On long distance calls beyond that radius there was still a delay of six or more hours.

Frank Harrington, manager of the local telephone office, said at noon today a "little better than 90 per cent of our tolls to connecting towns" have been restored. He estimated some 350 telephones in Greenville and surrounding rural areas were still out because of fallen lines, and he said it will probably take most of the week to get all the service restored.

There are still a number of trees down across rural lines, he said, and repair crews are progressing as rapidly as possible with the work.

D. H. Conley, superintendent of Pitt County Schools, estimated this morning Hazel's damage to county schools between $15,000 and $20,000. Practically all 90 buildings of the county school system suffered some damage, Conley said. There was marked damage to approximately eight buildings.

Conley said the most severely damaged schools were the Fountain white school where the gymnasium was ripped off and a chimney crashed through the roof; the white school at Bell Arthur school where the roof was torn off the building and gashed the side of the building before hitting the ground; and at the Bethel Negro school where the gymnasium roof was blown off. "Anywhere we had metal or shingle roofs," Conley said, "we received some damage." In spite of the damage, Conley asserted, "We were very lucky." He said the 12,000 school children of the county system were dismissed from school Friday morning and transported safely home before the storm reached its peak here. He said so far as he knew, none of the children were injured.

All schools were operating according to schedule this morning with the exception of the Pactolus school which was holding classes, but was somewhat handicapped because of lack of electricity.

Nickels For Know-How Supported In Pitt Vote

The Nickels for Know-how program appeared to have passed overwhelmingly in Pitt County with all but two voting places reported this morning.

The Farm Agent's office reported that the tally so far shows that 762 persons voted for continuing the program and only 11 had voted against it. The only two voting places which had not reported this morning were Swift Creek A and Gardner Brunson's Store.

Voting in the referendum was held down considerably by the hurricane which swept the county on the day that the referendum was held.

The Nickels for Know-how program provides that five cents will be collected on each ton of fertilizer or feed sold in the state to be used for agricultural research and education.

The program was first begun on November 3, 1951 when the first program was approved by North Carolina farmers.

The Friday referendum was held to give farmers a chance to decide whether the program would be continued for a second three-year period beginning January 1, 1955.

A two-thirds majority of those voting in the state-wide referendum was required to continue the Nickels for Know-how program.

New, Simplified Tax Form Ready

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wage earners getting less than $5,000 a year may use a simple 15-line tax form for 1954—a possible step towards doing away with their filing of returns altogether.

Internal Revenue Commissioner T. Coleman Andrews, in announcing the new card form Saturday, estimated that 35 million of the 60-million-plus U.S. taxpayers will be eligible to use it.

Andrews said the four other main types of individual returns have been redesigned to make them more attractive and easier to understand.

Tarheel Toll Rises To 18 Dead; Unlimited Federal Aid Authorized

Great Rebuilding Task For N. C.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Still stunned from the terrible impact of Hurricane Hazel, citizens in storm ravaged areas of the Carolinas today were facing the mammoth task of rebuilding.

As communications to stricken areas were resumed, the staggering toll of lives and property continued to increase.

At least 18 persons died in North Carolina as a result of Friday's relentless storm and at least one person was killed in South Carolina. Property damage estimates ran into the millions.

But citizens and officials of both states were acting quickly to rebuild the ruins with an assist from the federal government.

President Eisenhower yesterday authorized immediate, unlimited federal aid to stricken areas in both states. He acted after appeals went to him from Gov. James E. Byrnes of South Carolina and Gov. William B. Umstead of North Carolina.

Lt. Gen. A. R. Bolling 3rd Army commander with headquarters in Atlanta, Ga., promised aid to both states from his resources. He said he was acting on orders of Defense Secretary Wilson.

Bolling yesterday alerted some 2,000 service troops for emergency duty in the Carolinas, including engineer, signal and transportation troops at Ft. Bragg.

Conferences were scheduled in both states today. Gen. Bolling said members of his staff would meet in Raleigh with Gov. Umstead and other state officials while others met with state and local officials at Wilmington and Myrtle Beach.

There were emergency meetings at Wilmington and Myrtle Beach yesterday.

A control committee arose from the Myrtle Beach meeting. Gov. Byrnes toured South Carolina's stricken areas and attended the meeting. Mayor Ernest Williams of Myrtle Beach was named chairman of the control committee that will organize salvage and rehabilitation and make a survey of damage.

The control committee said immediate needs are for restoration of telephone and power lines, clearing wreckage along beach fronts, temporary mobile power for water supply systems and small community power plants, and salvage.

Of the eight states and the District of Columbia hit by the storm, the Red Cross in Washington said the area between Myrtle Beach and Wilmington was hardest hit.

At the Wilmington meeting yesterday, G. Heide Trask, a member of the North Carolina Highway Commission, estimated the loss to the state's beaches between 15 and 20 million dollars. Unofficial estimates of damage in southeastern North Carolina by the Wilmington Star were from 30 to 50 million.

There was no attempt made to estimate the terrific damage to private property. But the various mayors and officials offered some grim figures to show the terrible havoc. Here are some of the reports:

Of 630 buildings at Wrightsville Beach, 89 were a total loss 155 suffered major damage, 375 had minor damage and 20 were not damaged.

Carolina Beach — 475 buildings destroyed completely, 364 suffered major damage and 701 minor damage.

Officials said the fishing industry in the stricken areas almost was wiped out. North Carolina officials appealed to have National Guard troops remain on duty in stricken areas to guard against looting. They said looting had been curbed but it still was going on. Three Cherry Point Marines were arrested Sunday and charged with looting at Atlantic Beach.

Fruitful farm areas of eastern North Carolina were hard hit. Water was blown into packing houses where golden flue-cured tobacco, the lifeblood of farmers in the area, was stored. W. F. Hedrick, tobacco marketing specialist with the North Carolina Department of Agriculture, warned farmers to dry their tobacco before attempting to market it.

There was much damage reported to tobacco warehouses. The North Carolina Highway Patrol reported bridges now impassable are at Wrightsville Beach, Surf City, Holden Beach, Long Beach and the North River Bridge on U.S. 70 a few miles east of Beaufort.

Nearly all highways are now clear of trees and power lines.

Re-Shuffle Given Churchill Cabinet

LONDON (AP)—A wholesale reshuffle of the British Conservative government brought seven new members into Prime Minister Churchill's Cabinet today.

A total of 17 other ministerial posts changed hands in a big shakeup read by most political observers as a sign of Churchill's retirement is not in the cards at this time although he will be 80 Nov. 30.

The most significance in this connection was attached to the appointment of Housing Minister Harold Macmillan to succeed retiring Earl Alexander as minister of defense.

Macmillan, a 60-year-old book publisher, has been considered a likely successor to Anthony Eden in the post of foreign secretary if and when the heir apparent to the aged Churchill steps into the premiership. But, as the independent, usually well-informed London Times commented:

"It is unthinkable that Sir Winston Churchill would have moved him to such a key post as the minister of defense if within a short time he were going to be moved out again."

It generally is conceded that Churchill will continue to head the government indefinitely in quest of what he has described as "this last great prize I seek to win"—lasting peace between the Western world and the Soviet Union.

In addition to Macmillan, other new Cabinet members are: Minister of Home Affairs and local government—Duncan Sandys 46. Churchill's son-in-law. Minister of education—Sir David Eccles, 50, formerly minister of works. He managed arrangements for Queen Elizabeth's coronation.

Lord chancellor—Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, 53. He will preside over the House of Lords and serve as the nation's highest judicial officer.

Minister of food and agriculture—Derrick Heathcote-Amory, 54. Home secretary and minister of state for Welsh affairs—Gwilym Lloyd-George 59.

Osbert Peake, 57, minister of pensions and national insurance. He already held the post, but the shakeup gives him Cabinet rank.

Four ministers who desired to return to private life resigned. They were:

Alexander, 62-year-old wartime field marshal, who quit the defense post; Lord Simonds, 72, lord chancellor; Sir Leionel Heald, 57, attorney general; Miss Florence Horsbrough, 63, minister of education.

Dr. Messick Is Re-Elected Head Of Organization

GREENSBORO (AP)—The North Carolina Society for Crippled Children has re-elected Dr. J. D. Messick, president of East Carolina College at Greenville, president.

Messick was elected to his second term at the closing session here Saturday of the group's annual two-day meeting. Others named were Mrs. Joe W. Shuford of Hickory, re-elected secretary; W. E. Thompson of Chapel Hill, re-elected treasurer; Fred Smith of Raleigh, first vice president; and Dr. Paul Reid of Cullowhee, second vice president.

Awards for fund raising, local programs, chapter organization, publicity and excellent reporting were presented.

Forty-five delegates attended. There was none from any hurricane stricken areas.

Most Of Storm Deaths Due To Flooding River

Canada Fears Toll Over 100

TORONTO, Ont. (AP)—Fears that Hurricane Hazel's last lethal blow may have taken more than 100 lives in Canada mounted today with revised casualty lists putting 61 persons in the missing category. The bodies of 56 victims had been recovered.

Nine new storm deaths were reported in the United States last night, boosting the toll there to 81 and the total for both countries to 147.

Hurricane Hazel, the worst storm in Ontario's history, struck this area Friday night. Stirred in the Caribbean, it earlier lashed Haiti and then cut a wide swath across the Carolinas and the eastern United States.

Most of the deaths in Canada occurred along the Humber River, which flows along Toronto's western outskirts into Lake Ontario.

Five Injured In Auto Accident

An automobile driven by Joseph Sneed, Negro, of Route 2, Robersonville, and containing five Negro passengers, went out of control on a curve on Big Oak Road, three miles east of Bethel, Saturday afternoon and was demolished.

Highway Patrolman James Boykin, who investigated the wreck, said only one occupant, Martha Sneed, 14, escaped injury.

Sneed, the driver, had a lacerated hand and scalp. Dick Person, six-year-old child, suffered a fractured face. Ruth Sneed, 16, had a severe scalp laceration. Elbert Brown, 28, had a lacerated leg. Ergine, 58, had a dislocated shoulder.

Patrolman Boykin charged Joseph Sneed with careless and reckless driving.

More than 7 inches of rain Friday night turned the river into a raging torrent that trapped victims in homes and automobiles.

At one point the river swept across a bend in its course and roared through Etobicoke Township. Nineteen homes were swept away on a single street there.

Authorities said last night ghouls were reported searching bodies for jewelry and money in the outlying areas of Woodbridge, Thistle Town and northwest York. Squadrons of police and military guards were rushed to the area.

Fifty-three of the dead had been identified last night. All but a few of the known casualties were in the suburbs of Etobicoke, Woodbridge and Weston, all along the Humber.

The city of Toronto proper suffered no casualties. Officials said no accurate estimate of property damage had been made but Fred Gardiner Toronto Metropolitan Council chairman, said estimates ranged up to 100 million dollars.

The national and provincial governments pushed the organization of relief work for the thousands of homeless.

British Army Depot In Ireland Raided By IRA

OMAGH, Northern Ireland (AP)—Police began a house-to-house search today for wounded members of a gang which made a bloody Sunday raid on a British army depot in this town near the southern Ireland border.

Five soldiers were shot or slugged in the 10-minute gun battle yesterday. Two were in a serious condition.

Police captured eight men they identified as members of the illegal terrorist Irish Republican Army (IRA). The captives were charged with attempted murder.

Army officials said at least two of the raiders suffered bullet wounds and were carried away by their companions. A wide area was cordoned off to prevent their escape into the Republic of Ireland, 15 miles to the south.

The IRA is pledged to drive the British out of all Ireland and unite the six British-ruled counties in the North with the independent Republic.

Army officials said the raid, the biggest in years attributed to the IRA, was foiled by the quick action of an 18-year-old sentry, Fusilier Robert Heatley.

The gang of about 25 men, with blackened faces and armed with pistols and machine guns, scaled a 12-foot wall and slipped into the depot before dawn. One of the raiders slugged Heatley with a pistol butt, fracturing his skull, but he managed to shoot his attacker.

The shot roused the garrison of 400 and a hot fight ensued. The attackers withdrew over a wall, taking their wounded with them.

Police quickly rounded up six men and near nightfall caught two others hiding in a nearby field.

The men, ranging in age from 20 to 27, all gave addresses in Dublin and Cork in the Irish Republic. They were jailed in Belfast.

Their attack on the Omagh depot, one of the largest British garrisons in Northern Ireland, was believed to have been an attempt to steal arms.

Hurricane Left Plenty Of Wreckage On Atlantic Beach Waterfront On Friday

New Furnishings Brighten's Home

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Home is what you make it. And good taste is easy on the budget if you'll just keep your eyes open.

A recent home furnishings show in New York, for instance, was packed with ideas, ripe for use by clever homemakers. Here are some:

If walls are your problem—cracks, unsightly blemishes or walls that need a mere perking up, try mattress ticking, sandpaper or burlap. Perhaps your taste would veer to leather or clay tile. Wallpaper murals may enhance tiny rooms. Embossed plastic wall coverings in stone, straw or burlap look like the real thing.

Floor fun can begin with exciting tiles in cork, leather, linoleum, parquet, clay and vinyl. Some of these have inlay of aluminum, brass, stainless steel and pewter. Soft area rugs topped these floor coverings and every hue from white to purple was used in hard and soft floorings. Raspberry in vinyl tile was particularly luscious for those who are not afraid of color.

Color can sparkle throughout the house providing it is used with a deft hand. Try any of the jewel colors with white and pastels. Use tangerine with gold or white. Try various shades of purple for a charming vineyard effect. Deep Japanese lacquer shades or combinations of the Empire colors—Venetian red and gold have a particular elegance. Bristol blue accessories will liven up the dulliest color scheme.

A small room can look larger by matching a wall and floor. The theme of one room covered with a "terrazzo" linoleum inlay was carried over to a storage cabinet clear across one wall, making the room seem deeper. Where seating space must be limited try stacking cushions on a small table. These may be tossed on the floor for company occasions. Perk up a dull wall by covering a shelf clear across it and down to the floor in sparkling mosaic tile.

One color trick employed by a decorator to blaze up an attic decor involved the use of crimson red, orange and pink, easier on the eyes than you'd think. Pebble sculpture was another innovation worth the effort. It was achieved by putting pebbles in wet cement encased in a metal frame. The black and white of the pebble sculpture slabs used along a wall carried out the black and white theme of a room furnished with a Scandinavian chair, upholstered in black wool, and a teak table.

Textured wood blinds at the windows are charming budget accessories, available in pastels and decorator hues. Vertical sun blinds electronically controlled may be reversed at will. These go from floor to ceiling.

One novel idea was an old brass crib from which one side was removed. One decorator showed it as a love seat with a deep cushion of violet velvet.

Childless Couples Have Many Children Awaiting Adoption

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

There's no reason for any couple to go through life without children when boys and girls still are waiting for adoption, says Dale Evans. The beautiful, blonde and sprightly wife of the singing cowboy star Roy Rogers is a star in her own right on TV, in movies and girl outfits, a white Western hat and the smile that charms children all over the world, she was talking earnestly in her dressing room at New York's Madison Square Garden.

At the moment, she was waiting for the youngest adopted daughter of the Rogers family little Dottie, 2½, to appear with her nurse. Dottie is three quarters Choctaw Indian, one quarter Scotch-Irish.

In a tiny Indian dress of beaded and fringed white suede with a feather headress and bright red papoose boots, she joins her famous parents in the middle of the huge arena at the current rodeo, happily shouts "Hi" to the crowd and is lifted proudly into her father's arms for an introduction.

Of the five Rogers children, three are adopted, and, says Dale: "I can't imagine life without any of them."

The Rogers family includes Cheryl, 14, Linda, 11, Dusty, 8, Sandy, 7 and Dodie. They live on a nine-acre ranch in the San Fernando Valley.

The death of their little daughter Robin in 1953 saddened Dale and Roy and put a new seriousness into their outlook on life. Dale wrote a book, "Angel Unaware," which was a tender and sensitive discussion of the loss of a child, and she and Roy decided at once to adopt two more children—Sandy and Dodie.

"We believe in old-fashioned discipline," says Dale. "Each child has certain duties. Even little Dodie must put away her toys and hang up her clothes before she goes to bed at night. The boys empty the wastebaskets, hang up their clothes and spread up their beds before they leave for school in the morning. The two older girls make their own beds, set the table and help with the dishes.

"Today's youngsters are living in such a mixed-up world that I think the only way to keep them on the right track is to give them responsibilities, and try to teach them the rules.

"Things are tough for kids these days, especially the boys. I've talked with thousands of them all over the country, and I think the reason for all the problems of juvenile delinquency is just that they feel lost and uncertain in a shaky world. The boys say, 'What's the use trying to do anything—we'll have to go to war anyway.'"

Utah Republicans Meet To Consider Political Fate Of Bogus G I 'Hero'

By JOHN V. HURST
SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Troubled Utah Republican party leaders meet in Salt Lake City tonight to consider the political fate of a man they had thought—only 48 hours before—would be a shot-in for the 1st District congressional seat he now holds.

The meeting was hurriedly scheduled over the weekend after Rep. Douglas R. Stringfellow (R-Utah) Saturday night disclosed he was not, as he had claimed in many quarters including the Congressional Record, the hero of a secret, behind-the-lines mission in to World War II Germany to capture a scientist.

With tears running down his cheeks, the 32-year-old disabled veteran had appeared on a hastily arranged television program to say that his story of wartime cloak-and-dagger heroism—recounted over 200 speeches in a single year—over 900 speeches in a single year—was bogus.

Stringfellow offered to withdraw from the congressional race but left the decision up to Utah's 128-member Republican State Committee.

State GOP Chairman O. J. Wilkinson said that county and other GOP leaders had been instructed to come to the committee meeting with a sample of opinion in their home districts.

He said reaction to Stringfellow's disclosure at state party headquarters was "tremendous," and that a "large volume" of the telephone calls and telegrams indicated the callers would still vote for the congressman.

Stringfellow made his electrifying disclosure on the heels of a story published in the veterans edition of the Army Times, an official Washington newspaper, which questioned the authenticity of his tale of wartime espionage.

"Like many other persons suddenly thrust into the limelight I rather thrived on the adulation and new-found popularity," he said sadly, reading to the television camera from a prepared statement.

"I fell into the trap which in part had been laid by my own glib tongue."

The congressman explained that he had invented his tale of heroism to help "carry my philosophy of the goodness of life to all those who might listen."

In New Orleans, evangelist Billy Graham announced at a crusade sermon that he almost wept when he heard of Stringfellow's confession.

A woman in Houston, Tex. announced that a scheduled Stringfellow lecture there would be promptly canceled.

Ralph Edwards, producer of the "This Is Your Life" program that featured Stringfellow's tale last January, said that "by the time we decided to do it the story had been printed and reprinted so many times it was unimpeachable."

An independent motion picture producer announced that he had obtained movie rights to the bogus story only this week.

Stringfellow, married and the father of two small boys, wears braces on his legs as the aftermath of a mine explosion in France during the last war.

Only last week, a top state Democratic official had privately admitted that he thought Stringfellow's opponent, Walter K. Granger, had little chance of beating the congressman.

And yesterday, there were many who were still inclined to believe—privately—that Stringfellow could win anyway if left on the GOP ticket. A number of Republican leaders indicated they felt this to be the case, but said they were still doubtful as to which way they would decide on the question of allowing him to run.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett (R-Utah) said he thought Stringfellow "still is a disabled veteran who has established a more or less normal life through a display of great courage and hard work. I have not lost my faith in him."

Sen. Arthur V. Watkins, the Utah Republican who headed the McCarthy censure committee and who was with Stringfellow when he made his public statement Saturday, said, "It takes a big man to do this."

Democrats were silent yesterday and efforts to locate opponent Granger were fruitless. The only comment came Saturday from Democratic State Chairman Milton L. Wellenmann, who expressed sympathy for Stringfellow but added, "I don't think that the man should repent by asking to be elected to Congress."

Stringfellow's story had brought him national renown and had placed him much in demand as an inspiration speaker.

Friday's Cases In Police Court

In Police Court last Friday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee passed judgment of three Negro women involved in assaults (two of them using knives).

The court found Margaret Gilbert guilty of assaulting with a deadly weapon Roberta Whichard and taxed her with court costs and ordered her to pay $5 to the hospital for Roberta Whichard.

The judge found Roberta Whichard guilty of assaulting with a deadly weapon Mary Johnson. He taxed her with court costs and ordered her to pay Medical Arts Clinic $23 for Mary Johnson. On a simple assault charge, the court found Roberta Whichard guilty and gave her 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of court costs.

Assault on a female: Linwood Pete Williams, Negro, 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of costs. The court found Williams not guilty of another charge of assaulting a female.

Pete Ford, paid $10 for being drunk.

Herbert Barrett, Jr., Negro, failure to stop at a stop light, prayer for judgment continued.

Henry L. Andrews, Negro, driving drunk, three months on the roads, suspended upon payment of court costs. The court recommended that his driver's license be revoked for a year.

Highways To See 81 Million Cars

DETROIT (AP)—Think the highways are crowded today? A report prepared for the American Automobile Assn. meeting here noted government estimates that 81 million motor vehicles will be on the nation's roads by 1965.

To emphasize the need for more and better highways, AAA officials got up a couple of statistics:

If placed bumper-to-bumper, 81 million cars would stretch 10 times round the earth at the equator. Or, in a straight line they would reach to the moon.

If piled on top of each other pancake-style, the 81 million cars would make a heap 65,000 miles high.

C-of-C Lists 4 Ways Of Easing Traffic Problem

WASHINGTON—No community has to put up with the traffic problem, says the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Practical remedies are available, many of them simple and relatively inexpensive.

In a newly-published study entitled "How to Get the Most out of our Streets", the Chamber points out that even with a greatly accelerated program of rehabilitation, it would require many years to bring our street systems up to reasonable standards for modern traffic.

"The bulk of our present facilities," the study maintains, "will have to suffice for a long time to come. . . The main challenge today is to extract the full potential capacity from the facilities we have now."

This challenge, the Chamber says, can be met by scientific determination of traffic needs and the use of skilled traffic engineering techniques to meet them.

Here's a sampling of the Chamber's many specific proposals:

1. Directional control of traffic by means of reversible lanes and one-way and reversible one-way streets. Traffic capacity of a 50-foot downtown street may be increased from 1,000 to 2,200 vehicles per hour by making it one-way and eliminating parking.
2. Staggered work hours to reduce the peak hour transit load. Staggered work hours for federal employees here cut the number of rush hour transit passengers by 50 per cent.
3. Coordination of traffic signals to enable traffic to proceed for prolonged distances without stopping. In Atlanta, coordinated signals on a one-mile stretch cut rush-hour travel time from 10 minutes to four minutes and reduced accidents by 30 per cent.
4. Improved transit service. Example: Cities using express buses between suburbs and downtown greatly increased use of public transit by saving passengers time. As use of public transit is increased, the number of autos on the streets is reduced.

Chicago Thieves Show Selective Taste In Loot

Furs and fur coats worth an estimated $250,000 were taken from the Margaritis-Mitchell, Inc., Loop office by cracksmen who smashed their way into the vault. Most of the loot was mink.

A collection of stamps valued at $100,000 was taken from the South Side apartment of Mrs. Clifford W. Yost. The victim told police the looters left behind many stamps of lesser value and ignored

Ex-Convict Says Penitentiary Is Crime 'College'

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A young ex-convict wearing a black mask to conceal his identity, charged yesterday the Missouri State Penitentiary is a "college of crime" where he learned to "crack a safe."

The man, called "Mr. X," made the statements on a radio-television show (KWK, KWK-TV) while appearing with a panel of St. Louis crime officials.

His identity was kept secret to protect his family.

The ex-convict, who was still serving part of his three-year sentence when a destructive riot broke out at the prison recently, told the panel poorly prepared food, idleness and too much reliance on stool pigeons by prison authorities were factors leading to the riot.

Four men died as a result of the riot 31 others were injured and damage was estimated at three million dollars.

Because albinos usually have weak eyes and do not have nature's camouflage, they usually do not survive long in the wild state, says the National Geographic Society.

Looking To Local Citizens For Support

Seven important Greenville agencies this week will be watching with anxious eyes the response of local citizens to the annual Greenville Community Chest fund-raising campaign. The generosity with which local citizens respond for pleas for funds for the Community chest will go a long way in determining the activities of these seven agencies during the coming year.

Greenville's Community Chest is made up of seven local welfare, charity and character building agencies which make vital contributions to the community's well being 12 months each year. Once each year, these agencies appeal to the people of the community for financial support without which they could not carry out their program.

When you make a contribution to the Greenville Community Chest this week, remember your contribution is going to support the local work of the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Teen-Age clubs, Charity fund, the Kings Daughters work, Service League Emergency fund, and the United Defense fund.

All of these agencies, combined under the red feather of the Community Chest are asking the people of Greenville for $15,350 this year. It is a goal well within reach if local citizens respond to the appeal as they should. If the value of the work of these seven agencies could be measured in dollars and cents, it would be worth far more than $15,350 annually to the Greenville community.

CAA Should Not Have Objections

The Reflector can see no reason for the Civil Aeronautics Administration holding up the official release for a highway right-of-way across a portion of the Pitt-Greenville airport property.

Already the CAA has given assurance to local officials and highway officials that the right-of-way across a portion of the airport property would be forthcoming in order that a new by-pass highway west of Greenville could be constructed together with a new bridge across the Tar River here.

After giving consideration to the proposed route for the by-pass highway and making suggestions as to the required clearance at the end of runways, the CAA left little doubt in the minds of local citizens that the release would be forthcoming. Both CAA officials and highway officials are aware that the right-of-way sought for the by-pass highway will not adversely affect the usefulness of the local airport.

Plans for the new by-pass highway which will relieve what has been termed the "worst traffic bottle neck" in the second highway division have now been completed, and the first phase of the work has been programmed. Highway officials anticipate calling for bids on the project before the end of the year, and tentative plans for work to begin early in 1955.

Yet another tap can not be turned on the project until the CAA gives its official and final approval to the right-of-way across the airport property. The Reflector hopes the CAA officials realize the urgency of the project, and give the green light so work on the project can be started on schedule.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
WE CAN OVERSIMPLIFY LIFE
The worst boy I knew in my childhood was the son of a fine, exemplary home. One of the finest girls I knew was the daughter of notorious parents who at the time of her birth were running a dive. Human personality is baffling. We find diamonds in ash heaps. We find counterfeit coins in the cash box. Many students of the social sciences have nice little formulas worked out whereby they can account for every case of human misbehavior. There was a mother fixation, they say, or the parents dominated the child, or they were compelled to go to church when they didn't want to, or they were members of a broken home, or they lived in poverty, or they had too much money. Fifty years ago all the emphasis was being put on heredity; today, heredity has been shown the door, and we are assured now that you can make ladies' gloves out of pigs' ears—no matter how rough-skinned the pigs were. It all depends on environment.

But of course life does not depend upon any one factor. We must all inhale air to live, but nobody can live on air alone. Every one of the things enumerated above has certainly brought disaster to some personality, yet we cannot take any of these things and put them together into a neat formula and say that they are the cause of personality disintegration. Life is complex. No one factor explains it.

Attempted Smear Backfired

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—The attempted "smear" of several southern power companies involved in the controversial Dixon-Yates, AEC-TVA contract has backfired against the Capitol Hill perpetrators—Senators Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and William H. Langer of North Dakota—but the fact is one of the best kept secrets of Washington.

The politico-economic drama began when J. D. Stietenroth, former secretary-treasurer of the Mississippi Power & Light Company, resigned amidst charges that holding companies dominated by Wall Street were "milking" the Mississippi operating firm, gyrating the government out of taxes, paying excessive dividends and charging exorbitant rates for electricity.

The holding company accused is the Middle South Utilities, Inc., which is headed by Edgar H. Dixon. His firm and the Southern Company, which is headed by E. A. Yates, are scheduled to build a private plant to furnish hydro to TVA, replacing energy that TVA will turn over to atomic facilities in the valley.

Senators Kefauver and Langer, who thrive politically on the power issue, have announced this proposed plan as a "giveaway scheme." The Langer-Kefauver group have demanded a full Senate investigation and the Joint Atomic Energy Committee will conduct an inquiry after the election.

These Despicable Persons Must Be Punished

Disasters, like that caused by hurricane Hazel in Eastern North Carolina, brings out the best in most people, as individually and collectively they go out of their way to give every possible assistance to fellow citizens hard-hit by the disaster.

Unfortunately, there are some individuals in whom such conditions bring out the worst in their character. These, who are by far in the minority, swoop down on the stricken areas, plunder and loot among the wreckage, taking what little possessions the victims of such disasters have left.

Reports of plundering and looting among the stricken areas along the coast and along the Pamlico River have become widespread since Friday's blow. Law enforcement officers, national guardsmen and others have protected the stricken areas as best they could from such unscrupulous individuals; but nevertheless, much personal property not destroyed in the hurricane has been carted off by these human vultures.

In our opinion, individuals who stoop to such actions amid scenes of disaster are the lowest of the low.

It will be a difficult task to track down personal property stolen from the disaster areas immediately after the storm subsided. It will be even more difficult to bring to justice the individuals responsible for much of the looting. Nevertheless, every effort should be made by local and state law enforcement agencies to apprehend the individuals who have participated in such despicable activities, and prosecute them to the limit of the law.

Business Today

Savings Run High

By ELMER ROESSNER
Savings institutions appear to be gaining over retailers in the tug of war for disposable consumer dollars.

Total retail sales during the first half of this year were $81.1 billion compared with $82.9 billion during the same months in 1953, according to Department of Commerce figures.

But total savings were at annual rates of $21.8 billion and $19.7 billion during the first and second quarters, compared with $17.7 billion and $17.2 billion during the corresponding quarters in 1953.

In short, retail savings went down, savings went up. The rise in savings is corroborated by figures compiled by the United States Savings and Loan League. Norman Strunk, executive vice-president, and Arthur M. Welmer, economist, estimated savings at $6,223,000,000 in the first half of the year, compared with $6,708,000,000 in the first half of 1953. Gains were reported by large insurance companies and banks as well as by savings and loan companies.

"The substantial increase in the flow of savings to savings and loan associations during the first six months of 1954 was accompanied by a lower rate of withdrawals," they noted. "This has been a reflection of a somewhat more cautious attitude toward purchases on the part of consumers."

Messrs. Strunk and Welmer said that the most important reason for the rise in savings and the drop in spending was that disposable personal income continued to move upward during the recessionary period.

However, they are reconciled to the expectation that the season may now move the other way. They said that "there is some evidence to suggest that personal savings may tend downward" for these reasons:

1. Businessmen are merchandising their products and services more aggressively than at any time in the postwar period.
2. New models designed and priced for competitive markets are making their appearance, and these undoubtedly will attract customers.
3. Easy credit terms, "reflecting the relaxed Federal Reserve policies," are affecting consumer markets as well as others.

DEPARTMENT STORES NET AFTER TAXES 0.7 PER CENT OF SALES
The drop in consumer buying is reflected also in the report of the Controllers' Congress of the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

It reports that during the first six months of the year, sales in 216 department stores were 2 per cent lower than in the same period in 1953. However, stores doing more than 50,000,000 in annual sales made a 2 per cent gain in that period.

The drop in profits of the 216 was even sharper. Profits from merchandising declined from 1.3 per cent of net sales in the first half of 1953 to 0.3 per cent of net sales in the first half of this year. When other income was included, net profits before taxes this year equalled 1.4 per cent of sales, compared with 2.4 per cent in 1953. Net after taxes was 0.7 per cent of sales, against 1.2 per cent.

SALE OF PRETZELS NOW TEN TIMES 1939 RATE
Pretzel sales have twisted upward 900 per cent.

The National Pretzel Bakers Institute reports that sales in 1939 totaled $6,000,000; this year they are expected to reach $60,000,000.

Causes: legalization of beer, television, vigorous advertising.

Florida Can Someday Look For A Big Industrial Boom

By ROGER W. BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — Almost everyone—including boosters for California, Arizona, and New Mexico—will agree that the Florida winter climate cannot be beat. Up to the present time, however, readers have heard no praise of Florida's industrial possibilities.

REASONS WHY FLORIDA LACKS INDUSTRIES
Any state which lacks industries usually lacks available jobs. This means that before moving to Florida you had better arrange to have a check from a pension fund or from invested funds sent to you from the North each month. Don't go to Florida now without either money or a promise of a job. This may apply also to other states; but I know Florida, having spent thirty winters there.

The main reason Florida has lacked jobs is because it has lacked heavy industries. The main reason it has not held its own industrially is because of its lack of natural gas—absolutely essential for industries which require a large amount of heat. Only four of our forty-eight states are operating with this handicap.

WHY FLORIDA LACKS NATURAL GAS
The first answer to this question is because natural gas has not been found as yet in Florida. It will be found some day; but when, no one knows. The second answer is that, the constantly increasing demand for natural gas by the Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama, and other states lessens Florida's chance for supply by pipelines.

The situation has become worse since the big pipelines have been extended to the industrial East. These new pipelines mean more gas used at higher prices. This discourages the building of big pipelines into and through Florida to take natural gas into the state from states bordering Florida on the north.

FLORIDA MAY HAVE AN INDUSTRIAL BOOM
Through work being done by Willard L. Morrison, a famous engineer of Lake Forest, Illinois, supplemented by the work of the Florida Research Group, at Babson Park, Florida, I believe Florida will get a great supply of natural gas from Venezuela. This gas will be compressed at Venezuela on the basis of 600 cubic feet of gas being made from one cubic foot of liquid gas.

GAS WILL BE SHIPPED BY WATER

This liquefied gas will be shipped in barges. They will be towed singly or in pairs from Venezuela to Tampa. The barges will be used for storage of the gas while it is being vaporized. Remember, one cubic foot of liquid gas will make 600 cubic feet of natural gas. Florida may well have the cheapest natural gas of any state.

Already Mr. Morrison is making contracts for sale of this liquefied gas to the Stock Yards of Chicago, after towing it from New Orleans up the Mississippi River. Yet, Florida is 2,000 miles nearer Venezuela than is Chicago. Yes, Florida is headed for a great industrial development.

into gas, a tremendous amount of cold is produced. Mr. Morrison has selected the Chicago Yards as his first customer instead of many other nearer cities because of the Stock Yards' demand for refrigeration.

But, certainly, Florida needs refrigeration as well as natural gas! It is needed not only to freeze citrus juices and to preserve other products, but to "cool" the entire state in summer. If natural gas is discovered in Florida, or piped in, such gas will give the needed heat, but not the needed refrigeration. Liquefied gas, however, will provide both warmth in winter and coolness in summer, together with the terrific heat needed for industry throughout the year. # A 'Number One Problem' Becoming A Big Opportunity Guest writer today: John C. Harmon, Jr., Director, Church-Industry Relations, Southern Division, National Association of Manufacturers.

PRACTICAL RELIGION AT WORK IN INDUSTRY
The nation's "number one problem" has today become the nation's number one opportunity. Never has the adaptability of the capitalist system to the changing needs of people been so graphically demonstrated as here in the South during the last few years. Where steers roamed, steel ingots are now being poured. Where cotton grew, B-47 bombers roll off the assembly lines. No longer need a farmer have his land for a factory job. He can have both, increased farm mechanization has made it possible for him to work the farm and an eight hour shift in a nearby manufacturing plant. "One foot on the land and one foot in industry" they call it, a fine base for a stable economy. In this changing south the churches have a vital role to play. They must provide the moral and spiritual climate which will enable all to work together as we build a better South and a better nation. New church buildings are seen everywhere and yet more and more must be built. The estimate in a recent article by an NAM field executive in the Christian Herald was — "A rising population curve indicates that by 1975 church enrollment will soar to an estimated 120 million, for whom the U.S. will need 390,000 churches, an increase of some

It Would Be Too Late To Learn

"Well" I said when he came in from school. "What did you learn today?"
It's a question parents always ask, I guess, passing it out from behind their newspapers, not expecting an answer, and usually they don't get one beyond, "Aw, nothing much."
But this time it was different. "This" he said. "And he flopped down on the floor of the kitchen, with his bottom stuck up in the air and his shoulders and face pressed against the floor and his arms wrapped around his head."
"What kind of business is that?" I asked, as he got up brushing his blue jeans off, looking proud. "It's what you do when they drop an atom bomb," he said, calmly. "You hear the siren and you get up from your desk and go out in the hall and lie down on the floor like this." He dropped again, in that strange crouch. "We did it today. Some firemen came and put a big siren on top of the school house and when it blew that's what we did. All the kids went out in the hall and got down on the floor and stayed there until Mrs. Baggett came and inspected us to see if we were down flat, and had our heads covered up right. Then she said that was fine and we went back and started doing our English and stuff."

105,000 structures." These new churches must have well trained clergymen to furnish the leadership so necessary in this changing South. Those now serving churches need help in keeping abreast of the changing conditions in the community which they now serve.

I remember my Dad, a Methodist preacher, doing most of his visiting in the mill at Mt. Holly, Henrietta, Carolee and Gastonia. When the catch of fish was unloaded early in the morning at Stumpy Point, he was there to remind the men that the Christian religion applied to daily work as well as on Sunday at church. Too few preachers now visit the places where men and women work. Yet, there has never been a time when the need was greater.

Many other things are being done today in industry to make practical religion work at the plant level. R.J. Reynolds and Fieldcrest Mills each have a full time Industrial Chaplain. At Lancer's in Charlotte they have a devotional period on each shift. At 9:00 a.m., 5:00 p.m., and 12:00 midnight after fifteen minutes of sacred music a chime is sounded. There follows a minute of complete silence — for silent prayer or meditation. Many other plants have other ways for religious devotions.

Industry is indeed joining hands with the preacher and the church toward building a better America. This was emphasized in a pamphlet issued by the NAM which was distributed to thousands of businessmen all over the country. This pamphlet, "Industry's Goal — Building A Better America," states: "A better America will bring spiritual satisfaction and maximum material achievement to all of us. It will contribute to building a world of peace and prosperity. It can come only from unwavering faith — dedication to the belief that God, in creating man, meant him to retain his individual dignity all through life, with freedom from regimentation and exploitation."

A Most Durable Foster Mother

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Any mother who has survived the tense ordeal of preparing her moppet for a grammar school pageant might regard Mrs. Alice Viola Clements with awe.
For Mrs. Clements, the show world's most durable foster mother, has auditioned some 300,000 talented and not so talented children in a quarter of a century.
More than 12,000 kids have appeared on "Auntie Alice's" famous "Children's Hour" Sunday program over WNBC and WJZ-TV here. The program, which recently celebrated its silver anniversary has been a springboard for many now famous entertainers.
"So far as we've been able to find," said Mrs. Clements, "it's the oldest continuous show in radio. It has gone on for some 1,300 consecutive weeks."

"When I came along, I had to. My thrifty father simply wasn't going to let that piano go to waste. I gave my first concert debut at 8, and I wore panties made of flour sacks with the name of the company printed on them."
"As I sat down to the piano, everybody in the audience started laughing. In flipping back my starched 'ess, I had given a free ad to the flour company."
Each night now when Mrs. Clements looks at television her heart is warmed by the sight of at least 6 to 8 performers who got their start on her program.
"Not all are stars," she said, "but they are making a living."
Among the better known graduates of her children's hour are Ezra Stone, Robert Q. Lewis, Arnold Stang, Joan Roberts, Eileen Barton and Roberta Peters.
What has she learned from 25 years of working with children?
"Well, the most important thing is to treat them as adults," she said. "Children respond to reason at least as well as grownups—and they're more obedient."
"The parents often are more of a problem than the children. They never seem to be satisfied if a child has one talent. They want to push the child into everything or claim he can do anything."

"Sometimes, though," he went on, "you won't have time to go out in the hall. So you just see a big flash of light. So you drop out of your seat right where you are, and crawl under the table, or get close to the wall between the windows. See, like this."
He picked up a salt shaker and a pepper shaker and put them a few inches apart. Then he took a paper napkin and twisted it, roughly, into human form.
"This is a window and this is a window," he said, touching the salt and pepper shaker. "And when the flash of light comes you lie down here." He laid the paper napkin down between the salt and pepper shaker. "That way," he explained patiently. "When all the glasses go out and the walls come down, SCRUNCH, the little children don't get hurt because they are out of way of the flying glass and the walls don't fall on them flat, but kind of make a shelter over them."
When he had explained it all to me he went out to play while before supper—unworried, and un-is now only a part-time task for busy, warm-hearted Mrs. Clements, who was once a Broadway dancer herself. Five years ago, after the death of her husband, she took over the operation of his Philadelphia advertising agency.

Three days a week she conducts here, where she holds auditions, and writes, directs and produces her show.
She loves to work with children, handles them easily with a firm, knowing kindness.
"I had twins, but lost them as babies," she said, quietly. "Since then, I've well, I've learned to be fond of other people's children."
Each year she contributes to the education of a number of talented children whose parents can't afford to give them the training they need.
"I've always been interested in show business," she said. "I was the youngest of seven children in a Pennsylvania Dutch family. My father had paid $400 for a piano and none of the older children cared to play it."

One father offered Mrs. Clements a new car if she'd put his child on her show. A jeweler offered her an expensive watch on the same basis.
"I had to turn them both down," she laughed. "The children get on the show only by their own talents. I don't audition their parents' pocketbooks."
Mrs. Clements believes that encouraging children to develop their talents helps cut down juvenile delinquency.
"A child trying to become good in anything simply doesn't have time to get into trouble," she said.

East Carolina's Pirates, fired-up as a result of the defeat by Elon last week, combined a pistol-hot running game with half-trigger passing to whip Western Carolina, 27-13 here Saturday afternoon in a North State Conference game.

Boyd Webb, senior quarterback from Gastonia, had himself a field day - throwing for three touchdowns and handling the team in superb fashion. He attempted 19 passes and hit on six of them for 96 yards. His short on two of the TD chunks were, Ed J. D. Bradford. The Fayetteville junior caught three of four aerials tossed his way for 36 yards and 13 points. Webb's other touchdown pitch was a 46-yarder to Co-Captain Tippy Hayes.

The other touchdown came on a 36-yard pass from Milton Collier to Harold O'Kelly.

The rushing leader was Claude

Scoring Race In Atlantic Coast Sees No Change

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The top five places in the Atlantic Coast Conference individual scoring race remained unchanged this week with Clemson's Jim Coleman still on top with 24 points.

None of the leaders who saw action Saturday were able to score, but nobody else was able to score enough to catch them.

Dick Bieski of Maryland moved into sixth place with 16 points. He scored once in Maryland's 28-0 rout of North Carolina.

Coleman didn't see action as Clemson had an open date. But Bryant Aldridge, Duke's punting second string fullback, wasn't able to score as Army whipped the Blue Devils, 28-14. He held second with 20 points.

Tied at third with 18 points each are Charlie Boxold, Maryland's quarterback; Carl Brazell, South Carolina halfback; and Herbert Hartwell, Virginia fullback. Brazell's team also had an open date.

Both Coleman and Brazell could improve their positions Thursday when their teams meet in Columbia in the traditional game featuring the South Carolina State Fair.

Duke, rated a pre-game favorite over Army, found the Cadets too tough. The Big Army line moved the Blue Devils out of the way and Army's flashy backs ran all will.

Duke, apparently stale after games against Penn. Tennessee and Purdue managed to roll some in the second half. Bernie Blaney twisted 29 yards for Duke's first touchdown in the third quarter. Bob Pascal went four yards for the second touchdown in the final period.

Fete Vann, Army's great quarterback, scored two touchdowns and Mike Ziegler and Pete Lash each one.

The University of North Carolina held Maryland stubbornly for three quarters before the Terps broke open a fourth quarter dam for 18 points. Five players contributed Maryland's touchdowns. The Terps rolled up 230 yards rushing. Though Hartwell failed to score, thought Hartwell failed to score in Virginia's 21-0 mauling of Virginia Military, his running was a prime factor in the Cavaliers' three successful touchdown drives. A stiff Virginia line did not let VMI within the Virginia 30-yard line during the entire game. It was Virginia's third victory in almost one loss.

North Carolina State dropped a heart-breaker to Florida State 13-7. The Wolfpack dominated the first half. Eddie West scored in the opening period. But second half quarterback Harry Massey gave the game to Florida State.

In addition to Clemson and South Carolina, Wake Forest also had an open date.

One College Grid Team Is Yet To Be Scored Upon

NEW YORK (AP)—Fifty-eight college football teams are still unbeaten and untied but little New Britain State Teachers College of Connecticut is the only one that hasn't given up a point.

New Britain State has won two games while registering 60 points and holding its opponents scoreless.

Of the 19 teams that have 5-0 records, UCLA and College of Emporia head the list with the most points scored.

Emporia leads with 223 points while allowing its opponents 33. UCLA has tallied 204 and given up only 34.

Oklahoma, the nation's No. 1 team, has a 4-0 record and a string of 13 victories going back to 1953. Cincinnati, with a 5-0 record, also is working on a 13-game streak.

Other top-flight teams that have 4-0 records are Yale, Boston College, Boston University, Ohio State, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Wichita.

Phantoms, Elizabeth City Clash

Conference Title Hopes 'On Line' In Today's Game

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer

Captain Bill Kittrell's Greenville Phantoms put their conference championship hopes on the line tonight at EOC stadium against the league leading Elizabeth City Yellow Jackets in a postponed game that was originally scheduled for Friday.

For the Green Phantoms it is a "must" game in that they have to win in order to stay in the race for the conference title. The Yellow Jackets have won two games and have not lost a game as yet although they have tied Washington. The Greensies have a loss to Washington to offset two wins. One more loss will eliminate the Greensies from any hopes of winning the title.

Coach Kittrell's boys are in top-notch physical shape for the game. Tackle Tompp Smith, who has been suffering from a sprained ankle had plenty of time to rest it during the last open date week and is at top speed now.

Drum Starts

In an effort to get more passing punch into the attack, Coach Kittrell is starting Jerry Drum at quarterback tonight. The 140 pound junior has been extremely impressive of late with the bull's eye toss. Regular quarterback Bob Howell will run from the fullback slot, his old position two years ago.

The rest of the Greenville backfield will line up as usual with the two top ground-gaining G-men in James Speight and Mitchell Johnson. Speight, the captain of the team, has a rushing average of almost six yards per carry. Johnson averages four yards every time he takes the ball.

The rest of the Greenville line-up will go along as it usually does, with the exception of the end position. Billy Johnson will start at left end in place of Bobby Adams. Johnson has improved tremendously of late and Coach Kittrell gave the rough-house junior the nod.

Game time at EOC stadium will be 8 o'clock.

The starting line-up:

Pos. Elizabeth City	Greenville
LT Bobby Darling	Billy Johnson
LT Jullian Clifton	Howard King

RG Jimmy Wilson	Pete West
RT Mike McGee	Tommy Smith
RE Tim Brooks	H. Edwards
QB Ptee Smoak	Jerry Drum

Unrated Teams Showing Up Well

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

This crazy-quilt college football season is approaching the halfway point and coaches are beginning to think in terms of conference championships and possible bowl bids.

Some of the teams that were buried far down in the preseason ratings are right in the thick of things.

Arkansas, for one, could write a real rags-to-riches story if they win the Southwest Conference title. They haven't taken it in 18 years, but their stunning 20-7 triumph over Texas last Saturday left them one of the dozen and a half major undefeated teams in the country. They still play Texas A&M, Rice and Southern Methodist, so they could meet their downfall. The Southwest winner is host team in the Cotton Bowl.

And who would have thought Army would emerge as the top team in the East after it's wretched showing against South Carolina in the beginning of the season? But the Cadets' fine 28-14 triumph over Duke put them up there.

Both the Big Ten and Ivy League have been surprising. Illinois and Michigan State were expected to make serious bids for the Big Ten title. Both are pulling up the rear, while Wisconsin and Ohio State, two of the unbeatens, go at it this Saturday. Out of this game could emerge the Rose Bowl team.

Wisconsin polished off once-ambitious Purdue 20-6 and Ohio State defeated Iowa 20-14. Once-beaten Michigan plays Minnesota for the Little Brown Jug in another game that could have some bearing on the title should the Badgers or Buckeyes falter.

In the Ivy League, Cornell was the heavy favorite, but the Big Red is just playing out the scheduled week. Instead, Yale, which hasn't won the championship since 1946, is in a favorable position to come through. The Elis' 47-21 victory over Cornell last week sent them into undisputed possession of the lead, since Princeton dropped a 21-0 decision to Brown.

No one seems capable of catching UCLA in the Pacific Coast Conference. The Uclans can't go back to the Rose Bowl, so they're playing for national honors. They massacred Stanford 72-0 in their last outing.

Actually, Southern California

probably will get the Rose Bowl if it gets past California Saturday. After that, the Trojans still have games with UCLA, Stanford, Washington and Oregon State. They throw the Uclan game out and they shouldn't have any trouble.

Oklahoma, the No. 1 team in the country in the Associated Press weekly poll of sports writers and sportscasters, heads the Big Seven, as usual. Colorado is the only club capable of giving the Sooners a healthy workout in their preparations for a jaunt to the Orange Bowl.

In the tough Atlantic Coast Conference, which supplies the host team for the Orange Bowl, defending national champion Maryland still has a good chance, although Duke and Wake Forest are in the running too.

Unrated Mississippi is in a peculiar position. It may well win the Southeastern Conference title and go on to the Sugar Bowl and with its soft schedule probably do just that. But the schedule has worked against the Rebels in the national picture. Arkansas is their opponent this week.

Among the independents, Notre Dame, struggling to recoup from its reversal by Purdue, probably is the standout. The Irish liked Michigan State 20-19 last Saturday and seem to have rebounded well.

Hertford Edges Williamston 7-6

WILLIAMSTON — Hertford High whipped Williamston Saturday night in a closely fought game, 7-6.

For the first three quarters, the game saw-sawed as each team failed to sustain touchdown drives. Several times both elevens got within their opponents' 20-yard line only to be stopped by fumbles.

It was in the fourth period that each team tallied. Williamston following a pass from Christopher to Dunn that was good for 25 yards, scored when Clayton went over center for the extra-point was no good.

Several plays later, Hertford came back and scored. The drive started at midfield. Matthews, halfback, crashed over from several yards out. The extra-point was perfect and Hertford took the lead 7-6.

Following the ensuing kickoff, Christopher passed for three first downs. But time ran out before they could cross the goal line.

Milwaukee Still Is Baseball Mad

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The 1954 major league season is over, but you'd never know it in this baseball-mad city. Tickets for the 1955 home games of the Milwaukee Braves are going at a brisk pace.

Even upper reserved grandstand seats are being sold. These are selling for $75 per seat, the lowest priced season ticket in any major city, according to Braves' officials.

BIG RACING THRILL

MIAMI (AP) — Jockey Sammy Boulmetis, leading rider at Hialeah in 1954, can easily recall his top racing thrill. His first winner, Stepthedark, set up a daily double which paid $3,015.40.

Saturdays Were History-Making

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians made 1954 baseball history on successive Saturdays.

On Saturday, Sept. 18 they clinched the American League flag. Saturday Sept. 25 they defeated the Detroit Tigers for their 11th victory of the season — an American League mark. On Saturday, Sept. 2 The Tribe dropped its fourth consecutive game to the New York Giants in the World Series.

But such good football fortunes were not always the lot of little Trinity. It took the Bantams 10 years to win their first game. From 1877 to 1887 Trinity did not

A rare scene marked the victory Vic Seixas scored over Australia's Rex Hartwig in the final of the national singles tennis championships at Forest Hills. The usually well composed tennis gallery fairly exploded as Hartwig overshot the back line for the decisive point of the match and Seixas tossed his racket high in the air and let out a yelp of glee. Seat pillows and programs were tossed high in the air and the old stadium shook with the rousing ovation the spectators gave Vic.

It was Vic's fourteenth bid for the United States title, and few gave him a chance in the pre-tournament hype. At 31, after long years of campaigning, a fellow doesn't have too much bounce left in his system. In addition, after winning the Wimbledon crown in 1953, Seixas went into a slump. He lost three singles matches in Australia and failed to make a strong effort in the summer tournaments. Experts said he was "over the hill," and would never represent this country in another Davis Cup match.

Now the tall, handsome Philadelphian is right back in the picture. His strong sweep in the Nationals makes him the No. 1 man in Davis Cup considerations. His impressive victory over Hartwig, rated Australia's newest court killer, buoyed up our hopes of regaining the Davis Cup. Seixas was at his peak against Hartwig, and the same Seixas could prove very hard to handle in Australia when the Davis Cup challenge round rolls around.

Athletics Retained By Philadelphia Syndicate

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—An eight-man Philadelphia syndicate made a dramatic last-minute purchase of the Philadelphia Athletics last night, saving American League baseball for this city.

The action ended the baseball life of one of the game's greatest figures, 91-year-old Connie Mack.

Months of confusion and indecision over the status of the Athletics was ended when the syndicate of wealthy and prominent Philadelphians bought out Connie and his son, Ernie Mack, and made a one-third partner of Roy Mack in a four-million-dollar deal.

The syndicate moved with startling speed in concluding the deal that kept the A's from being transferred to Kansas City. It was only last Tuesday that the American League met in Chicago and approved sale of the club to Arnold Johnson, Chicago businessman who wanted to take major league baseball to Kansas City.

Roy Mack was given until 11 a.m. today to make up his mind on whether to sell to Johnson.

It appeared that nothing short of a miracle could save the franchise for Philadelphia. The local newspapers ran the team's obituary notice with an "It was nice to have had you for 54 years" salutation. But the Philadelphia group, stung in their civic pride with the thought the nation's third largest city was about to lose its American League representative, saved the day, accomplishing a deal in less than 72 hours that no one here seemed able to work out in the four previous months.

The new group, which has asked President Will Harridge of the American League to approve the purchase agreement, paid Connie Sr. $604,000 for his 302 shares and gave Ernie $450,000 for his 163 shares. It assumed liability for a $1,200,000 mortgage held by the Connecticut General Life Insurance Co. The balance of the four million will be used to pay off other indebtedness and as working capital.

More Trouble Rises In Strike-Plagued Britain

LONDON (AP) — Strike-plagued Britain faced more trouble today as 17,500 stevedores at bustling Liverpool, the nation's second biggest seaport, threatened to quit work in support of the strike which has paralyzed London's docks.

Dock workers in the Liverpool and Birkenhead waterfronts voted last night to halt work today, but Arthur Deakin, head of the 1½-million-member Transport and General Workers Union, to which most of the Liverpool dockers belong, urged the men to ignore the strike call. He termed a "trick" the strike vote claimed by a show of hands at a mass meeting.

If the Liverpool dock forces quit work along with the 27,000 now idle here, fewer than 31,000 dock workers in the country would be left to handle vital export cargoes and food imports.

Meanwhile, there was no sign of a break in the strike by more than 20,000 of London's 45,000 bus drivers and conductors. Half the city's 7,600 buses were off the streets this morning, throwing a heavy burden on the crowded subway lines.

The government was reported ready to order 15,000 troops to work ships as the dock strikes threatened to spread to the other big ports. Dock workers at Southampton scheduled a strike vote today.

A Labor Ministry court of inquiry, set up to investigate the dock strike, will hold a preliminary meeting today.

Deakin, who has denounced both the dock and bus stoppages as a "Communist conspiracy," declared the Liverpool strike vote was "taken in darkness" and said hundreds of men had left the meeting after an earlier vote against a walk-out.

"Union officials on the docks today will do all in their power to keep the men at work," he said.

Pickets, egged on by British Communist party leaders, sought to enlist the additional stevedores in the strike.

The Communist Daily Worker quoted Party Secretary Harry Pollitt as saying the "Communist par-

Only 'Explosion' Was By Police

HOUSTON (AP)—Police arrested a 20-year-old man on a drunk charge. The man told police they'd better let him go. He said he'd left a truck containing 20 gallons of nitroglycerin parked just outside the city and that a slight jolt or failure of the cooling unit could cause a terrific explosion.

The only explosion came hours later—after jittery police, sheriff's deputies and state highway patrolmen failed to find the truck and the man admitted his story was a hoax.

Now He Knows Walking Is Best

ANTLERS, Okla. (AP) — David Impson, 20, knows now he should have walked the 26 miles to Atoka to see his girl friend.

He would have been there now instead of in the Pushmataha County Jail awaiting the outcome of three traffic complaints lodged against him by the highway patrol.

Patrolmen caught him driving a wrecker that was towing a car. The wrecker belonged to a garage, and motorists complained that they had been forced off the highway and that the wrecker did not have lights.

The charges — reckless driving, no driver's license and molesting a parked vehicle.

'Boss' Ed Crump Is Buried Today

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Boss Crump will be buried today. He died Saturday at the age of 80.

The last of the nation's old-time, big city political bosses, E. H. Crump had controlled Memphis for nearly 50 years.

Thousands visited the Crump home yesterday to pause a moment in front of the bronze casket, set in a blaze of flowers.

The body lay in state until the hour of the funeral at the home, a spacious, two-story brick structure on a pleasant but not particularly fashionable residential street.

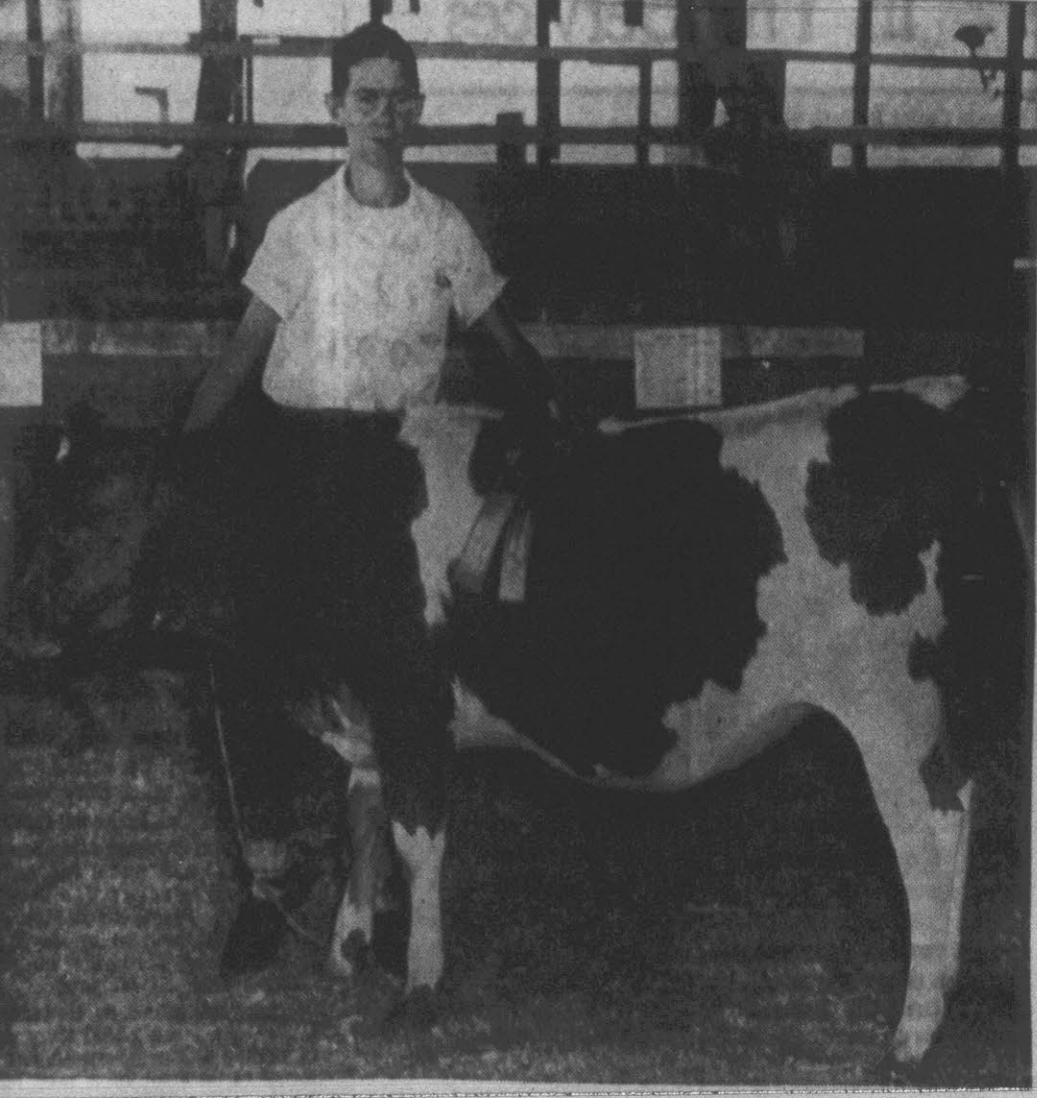

During the day, a special police detail, with muted whistle and solemn gesture, kept traffic moving.

Bus Driver Cut By Passenger

WELLS, Nev. (AP)—A Salt Lake City bus driver brought his Greyhound bus safely into Wells last night although bleeding from a knife wound in the side.

The driver, D. H. Stump, told authorities he was stabbed by an elderly passenger who apparently went berserk when he told the man he couldn't leave the bus on lonely Pequot Summit, 20 miles east of Wells on U.S. Highway 40.

Stump said the passenger slashed an unidentified passenger on the hand who attempted to intervene, and then stabbed Stump in the side. In the turmoil that followed, Stump said, the man escaped.

Neither Stump nor the unidentified passenger was said to be hurt seriously.

Funeral Tuesday For William D. Mercer

Funeral services for William Douglas Mercer, Electronics Technician Airman, U. S. Navy, will be conducted at the Falkland Presbyterian Church Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock and burial will be in the Falkland cemetery. The Rev. L. W. Topping, Presbyterian Minister of Greenville, assisted by the Rev. W. M. Howard, Methodist minister of Greenville, will officiate.

Mercer was killed on September 28, 1954, when the PB5M Navy patrol plane he was on crashed off a runway at Sangley Point near Manila, Philippine Islands.

Billy, as he was known to all his friends, was born November 28, 1936, in Pinetops, but he had spent the most of his life at the home near Falkland. He attended the Falkland elementary school and the Belvoir high school. He played basketball and baseball while in high school. He was a member of the 4-H club and the Future Farmers of America.

Billy enlisted in the Navy December 12, 1952, and received his recruit training at San Diego, California. Upon completion he was selected to attend a specialized training course for Navy Airmen at Norman, Oklahoma. He was then sent to Millington Air Base, Memphis, Tennessee, for training in electronics. Upon completion of this training he was then transferred to V. F. Squadron 46, San Diego, California, where he served approximately three months. He was then sent with his squadron to the Asiatic Fleet for patrol duty in that area, and served with them until the time of the accident.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Mercer of Falkland; and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Lena Norville, of Falkland.

The body will remain at his parents' home until one hour prior to the funeral hour.

Man Arraigned In 2 Murders

LOS ANGELES (AP)—James Merkouris is in jail today awaiting arraignment on charges of murdering his former wife and her second husband, Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Forbes.

Merkouris, 40, was brought here from Arkansas yesterday. He lost a fight against extradition following his arrest by FBI agents in Hot Springs.

He denies knowledge of the double slaying in which Mr. and Mrs. Forbes were shot to death in their ceramics shop Sept. 20.

Police say Merkouris has been identified tentatively from pictures as the man seen leaving the ceramics shop about the time of the slayings.

Little Public Interest Manifested To Date In 1954 Political Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP)—The political campaign is getting hotter. The candidates are raising their voices and extending their crusising range. But what do the voters think about all the shouting?

Until recently, at least, they have taken it with remarkable calm.

Some political professionals, admittedly with an ax to grind, say this apathy has been sloughing off in the past few days.

The Republicans say President Eisenhower's Oct. 8 call for a GOP Congress gave their campaign a shot in the arm. The Democrats say the only apathy they find is among Republicans.

Associated Press political reporters touring the country, however, find there still is no hot public interest in the campaign—whatever its final 2½ weeks may bring—except here and there, where special issues or unusual situations have arisen.

"The 1954 campaign is a play without a villain and the comedy isn't even good slapstick," says the AP's Don Whitehead. "The politicians are working hard to keep the audience awake, but everybody seems pretty sure nothing exciting will happen in the next act either."

Much the same appraisal—voter apathy, except in certain areas where unemployment or other issues stir interest—comes from other traveling AP men—Douglas B. Cornell, Reiman Morin, Jack Bell and Morris Landsberg.

All their reports came in before there was time to assess the possible effect of Secretary of Defense Wilson's now-famous remark about bird dogs and kennel-fed dogs.

Whitehead has been in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio and Michigan. Cornell has visited Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin. Bell is reporting on Oklahoma, New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho and Montana. Morin's territory includes New Jersey, Delaware, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts. Landsberg has been in California, Oregon and Nevada.

Privately, and sometimes publicly, many political professionals agree with Whitehead's appraisal, written from Louisville, Ky.:

"So far as I can see there isn't a compelling issue or personality around to get the mass of voters excited. Business generally is good. There's no war. Nobody seems to be very mad about anything unless it's a man who's out of a job."

Here in brief are the findings of the AP correspondents who have been in closest touch with voter sentiment:

Whitehead — So far I've seen no signs of increasing interest in the campaign, although it is likely to pick up as election day nears. With no compelling personality or issue to stir the people, the election is likely to be a contest of organization — with the better party organizations getting out the vote and perhaps making the difference.

Bell — Voters in the Southwest and Rocky Mountain States where there are several critical Senate contests, are viewing this year's campaign with extreme apathy. President Eisenhower's flexible farm price support program had been built up — a major issue, and it has that prominence in a few states. But in others the flexible vs. rigid parity proposals don't seem to strike any campaign sparks.

Cornell — Whether there will be a pickup in interest before election day is hard to say. You get the general impression there won't be. Proprietors of barber shops and rural beer emporiums tell you their customers don't have much to say about the election.

MORIN — Registration is at a postwar low in New York City in spite of a concerted Democratic effort to stimulate it to support the party's ticket, entirely composed of New York City men, in Maine, where the election already has been held, the vote exceeded 1950. But in Connecticut Vice President Nixon drew crowds of only a few hundred. Television is an invisible factor in the whole region.

Landsberg — People seem weary of politics, though there has been a definite pickup of voter interest in California, Oregon and Nevada for local reasons. Nevada suddenly found itself with a senatorial race as a result of the death of Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.).

Local Red Cross Cared For 25 Storm Refugees Friday

Twenty-five refugees from Sautter, Path near Morehead City were cared for here Friday by the local Red Cross chapter.

The refugees, whose community is located directly on the ocean, left their homes upon receiving the warning of hurricane Hazel and arrived in Greenville at approximately 5 a.m. They returned home late Friday afternoon after the storm had subsided.

During the day 14 of the group were housed and fed at the West Greenville school where a canteen had been set up by the Red Cross. The remaining 11 were quartered at the Training School and fed at the luncheon room.

Red Cross disaster operations were set up immediately Friday when the Southeastern Area headquarters advised chapter chairman E. Hoover Taft that Greenville was in the direct path of the hurricane.

Disaster chairman George Wilkerson set up headquarters in the Red Cross office in city hall, while co-chairman Jimmie Harris alerted the Red Cross representatives in Falkland, Farmville, Ayden, Fountain, Winterville, Stokes, Belvoir, Bell Arthur, and Chocod. He was unable to reach Pictious because the telephone lines were down.

Dr. E. B. Aycock, local Red Cross medical advisor, remained on duty at Pitt Memorial hospital the entire day. Mrs. Phyllis Martin, superintendent of nurses at the hospital and Red Cross chapter nursing chairman, had nurses stationed at each shelter area at Third Street School, West Greenville School, Training School and Wright Building at the college.

A canteen was set up at West Greenville School by Mrs. James T. Little, canteen chairman; Mrs. J. Carrol Waldrop and Mrs. L. T. Shotwell.

Area headquarters advised Taft they were standing ready to assist the local chapter if the need arose. Disaster chairman Wilkerson expressed appreciation today for the "fine cooperation received from everyone in the emergency."

Some Massachusetts cranberry bogs have many owners because in the early days they were expensive to develop and shares were sold in 64ths.

Pet Moose Gets Pampered, And Is Living It Up

CLINTON, N.C. (AP)—Young Barney is getting downright pampered—and brother, does he love it.

And the Marvin Mayfields probably have the fastest growing family, pound for pound, in North America.

The family consists of Marv, his wife, three little girls, one little boy and one not-so-little moose Barney.

Marv found Barney when he had been in this world about one week. The little bull moose was lying alongside a road near this interior British Columbia community 20K miles north of Vancouver, too weak to stand. The mother was nowhere in sight.

Mayfield had to make a choice. Should he take the baby moose or should he leave it there to die?

He knew if he took the little moose the mother, in keeping with the law of the wild, would have nothing more to do with her baby after it had been touched by human hands.

Mayfield decided to take the little law of the wild, would have been truck. At home, he and his wife first fed Barney with a bottle and then from a bucket.

Now Barney, six months old, is just like one of the family. At 5 a.m. the eldest Mayfield daughter always goes out to milk the cows. Invariably the little Mayfield boy tags along and, as is the habit of small boys, leaves the kitchen door open.

Barney doesn't miff the chance. In the house he goes, eating anything he can lay a tooth to in the kitchen. The davenport is the next stop, sort of an after-breakfast nap.

Mrs. Mayfield recalls the time she mixed up a big batch of pancake batter and set it on the sideboard only to have Barney gobble it up.

No hay for Barney. But he really goes for milk. He guzzles six gallons a day. Vegetables and fruit help fill up the empty spots, plus what he can scrounge in the kitchen.

Mayfield has a fenced-in pasture near the house and that's where he will try to keep Barney when he grows horns, just in case some trigger-happy hunter shows up in the neighborhood.

One thing worries Mayfield. Barney is a growing boy... oh, moose... and his 300 pounds just about blots out the davenport when he's resting now.

Tears for the Bride

CHAPTER NINETEEN
I STARTED the Mercury, turned around, and drove slowly through the village to the hospital. Only a few cars were parked around it, and most of the lights in the rooms were turned off. Inside, the corridor was dimly lit. A couple of nurses swished silently by. A young nurse behind the desk was reading a copy of Life. From somewhere a baby cried fretfully. There was the medicine smell of all hospitals, and the night hush. Sandy and her mother were sitting on a bench near Ralph's door. Homer Hollis, dressed in his sober dark suit, stood a little way down the corridor gazing at a weight chart on the wall. I didn't see Eileen Fortune. Sandy got up and came to meet me.

I knew by her face that Ralph was no better, but she answered the silent question in my eyes. "No change, I guess," she said in a low voice.
"You guess? Hasn't the doctor been here?"
"He came about a half hour ago and went into Ralph's room. When he came out, he looked rather grim and he didn't tell us anything. He went away."
"I saw," I said, and looked over her shoulder at her mother and father. They nodded at me gravely.
Sandy said, "What have you been doing, Jim?"
"Just moseying around," I hesitated, and then added, "Look, Sandy, have you thought about calling in another doctor?"
"Yes, Dr. Mazzini said we could, if we wished. But old Dr. Sweet is the only other one in town, and he's not so good." She smiled a trifle bitterly. "If we called anyone else, it would have to be from Wheelville—that's the nearest town of any size. There are several doctors there."
I remembered Wheelville very well indeed and I said to Sandy,

ing to do?"
"Maybe I'm all wrong," I said. "Maybe it was just some trigger-happy bum in the alley and I'm building it up too much in my mind, all of it. Maybe—"
"Stop it," she said. "You don't have to talk that way to me." She began to shiver.
"You're cold," I said. "Go inside."
"Jim, I'm afraid. Please be careful."
"Sure."
She lifted her face and I saw the glint of tears on her cheeks. Her arms went around my neck and she pulled my head down. It was the second time I'd kissed Sandy, and I liked it even better than the first. Presently she pushed gently away from me. I reached for her again, but she shook her head. "Not now. I—I'm fine now. I'd better go back with Mom and Dad."
"Chin up," I said, and moved away from her and across the drive to my car.
The house on the north corner of Crawford and Tymocklee Streets, across from the high school, was a stucco bungalow built many years ago. It was well kept, as were the midge pines clustered around a cement stoop. There was a black-top drive leading back to a one-car garage. The light from the corner street lamp was strong enough to show me that the garage was empty, and that a rolled magazine was sticking in the metal clip beneath the mail box beside the front door. The bungalow was dark, and it appeared that Earl Beltzman was not at home; that he probably had not been home for some hours.
I made a U-turn drove to the main street, and headed for River Road. As I passed Daisy Brown's house, I saw that the rose-front lamp was still glowing in the front window. I had a half notion to stop and see if Dr. Mazzini's car was in the garage, but the upper floor of the house was dark, and I kept going. I passed the city limits sign, turned into River Road and came at length to the house with the high windows and the brass coach lamp on a green post.
There was a light shining across the lawn from a side window, and I guessed that it came from the knotty pine bar. As I drove slowly past I saw that Judy Kirkland's red Buick convertible was still parked in the drive. Behind it was Dr. Mazzini's blue Ford sedan. I braked my car, swung it over to a grassy shoulder, turned around, and headed back. Just beyond the house was a clump of tall bare-branched maples. I pulled off the road, stopped there, turned off the lights and walked back to Judy Kirkland's front lawn. I passed the Ford, stopped at the rear of the Buick and felt its tail pipe. It was cold. The Buick hadn't been driven lately, at least not within the last hour.
I moved silently along the house to the side window and cautiously peered in. The room looked the same as it had in the afternoon, but there was no one there. That surprised me. I turned and gazed toward the rear of the house and a faint glow of light. I walked back. The light was coming from what appeared to be a kitchen window, but it was a high window, beside a small back porch. The window was open about two inches, and a blind was pulled half way down. I looked around for something to stand on and found a case of empty beer bottles beside a gas meter at the side of the house. Carefully I laid the bottles on the grass, one by one, turned the case on end beneath the window and stood on it. Slowly I raised up until I could see inside.

Pickup In Steel Output Hailed As Welcome Sign
By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The pickup in steel output is welcomed today by those who are looking for better times ahead. But it has yet to set off any rush of forward ordering in the metals industry.
Manufacturers continue to take it slow and easy. Lead and zinc producers have been helped by the government's policy of buying metal for the defense stocks, which has hiked the price. But the higher price may be one of the reasons that the makers of civilian goods are ordering these metals skimpily.
Steel ordering has picked up enough to send output pleasantly above last summer's slow-motion pace. But the mills still aren't turning out anywhere near the amount of steel they were this time last year.
Many steelmen are looking for the pace to gain a little more speed shortly. They think the auto makers have used up most of their steel inventories and will be ordering in quantity when the 1955 models start rolling off the production lines.
And the pickup in steel production has already sent the price of steel scrap higher. Another factor in the steel scrap price rise has been an increase in export, with the relaxation of some of the government's grip on any materials that might in time find their way into enemy armament factories.
Some even look for a boost in steel scrap demand when and if German rearmament starts rolling. They reason that the demand for scrap will in time work through the whole metals industry.
Copper scrap prices, on the other hand, have broken this week after their recent climb. Scrap was in demand because a series of strikes in the mines and refineries in this country and in Chile had cut off supplies of virgin copper.
Strike settlements have foreshadowed an end to the shortage and dampened the demand for scrap. Fabricators, however, say the demand for virgin copper is still high, since it will be some time before the copper ore now being mined again will show up as refined copper. And they are renewing their plea to Washington to relax the stockpiling program temporarily. The Office of Defense Mobilization indicates that shortly it will have an answer to these requests. So, copper earmarked for the defense stockpile may flow into civilian channels until the shortage is over.

'Maharajah' Had Breakfast Lured Parrot To Cage
NEW YORK (AP)—The maharajah may never have learned how to do the rumba, but he knew how to get his picture in the papers. A heavily bearded and mustached man adorned with a turban strongly resembling a towel, appeared at a movie premiere and told photographers he was the maharajah of Barata.
He was quite a hit — and so were the two gorgeous ladies with him. Two days later it developed that: The ladies were models. There is no such place as Barata. Barata is portuguese for cock-roach.
LACONIA, N.H. (AP) — When Goofy, the parrot broke out of his cage recently, even the coaxing of his best friend, Polly, another parrot, could not lure him back. But after four days Goofy returned when his favorite breakfast — scrambled eggs, coffee and doughnuts — was placed in his cage, lifted into a nearby tree.
It seems Goofy is a traveler at heart. Last year he got the wanderlust and took a month's vacation. Until recently, there were no wheeled vehicles in Tibet.

Pure Enough For A Sunday School Party
By BOB THOMAS
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The gamblers and dealers in this hard-boiled town never saw anything like it. Everyone in the night club was standing and cheering a demure beauty whose act was pure enough for a Sunday school picnic.
This was closing night for Ann Blyth at the Sahara. With tears streaming down her cheeks, she sang "Auld Lang Syne" and bowed off with a thundering ovation. Most of those in the Congo Room were misty-eyed too.
The event was an eye-opener to veterans on the gaudy Las Vegas Strip of hotel casinos. The girls who usually draw attention in the town are the sexbots. Mariene Dietrich appears to be offering an annual strip-tease. Mae West offered semimude muscle boys and Terry Moore gave her all—or almost, anyway—visually.
But along came little Miss Ann Blyth to prove that purity pays. She sang in her clear soprano and beguiled the audiences with her Irish talk. While a comedienne on the bill had told bedroom stories, Ann talked about her 4-month-old son Timothy and how he would celebrate his first Christmas this year.
And she packed 'em in. Business was booming during her three-week engagement.
Sweet Annie could be stating a trend. I couldn't think of a nicer one to start. Nor could Hollywood offer a better saleswoman for its pleasanter and less publicized side. I saw her in her hotel room just before she was flying home to her husband, Dr. James McNulty, and their Timothy Patrick.
"I didn't sleep a bit last night," said Ann. "The excitement of going home was too much for me. Do you realize that it has been almost six weeks since I've been home? I played in San Diego and then the state fair at Sacramento and had a week of rehearsals before I started here."
"But it has been a wonderful experience here, and I wouldn't have missed it for the world. It is the first time I have played night clubs or any singing dates, and it has opened a whole new world for me. The audiences have been wonderful and I've met so many interesting people."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — The Stock market was nominally higher today but gains were below the best of the session.

Motors, rubber producers, aircrafts, oils and copper mining issues tended to improve moderately. Steels and railroads steadied after a strong start. Utilities, chemicals and airlines were narrowly mixed.

Trading began fast with a number of large blocks crossing the high speed ticker tape at higher prices. But the pace soon slowed and by early afternoon many gains had been reduced.

Among the risers were U.S. Steel, General Motors, Sears, Roebuck, Lockheed Aircraft, Radio Corp., American Telephone, Anaconda, Copper, Air Reduction, Westinghouse Southern Railway and American Airlines.

Lower were United Aircraft, Zenith, International Telephone, Dome Mining, American Cyanamid, American Tobacco, Santa Fe and Standard Oil (N.J.).

It Would Be . . .

troubled, thinking of the bomb. I guess, as nothing much to fear, and war as a kind of game of hide and seek in which little children need only to lie down and cover up their heads, to be safe from harm.

And I couldn't help thinking maybe that's what we've done, all along. Just covered up our heads and hoped we were safe.

But the time has come, I think, for us to stand up and look around, and appraise the danger that confronts us and get ready, as best we can, to meet it. If there's any chance in the world that we can come to some agreement with the Russians on the use of the nuclear bomb, we ought to do all we can to reach that agreement.

If there's no hope of any agreement, ever, then we ought to recognize the facts as they are. If a big air force can save us, through its destructive power, we ought to have that air force no matter what it costs. If a radar net across the polar wastes can save us, we ought to have that warning system. If none of these things suffices—and none will, completely—then we ought to build the home defenses, the blood banks and tissue banks, the traffic plans for evacuation, the plans for putting out the fires, and digging the wounded from the rubble, and getting the city running again, after a big bomb falls.

And each man should pitch in to do what he can. For it will be too late to learn these things when the first bomb falls. If any man is bored by this suggestion, and considers it a waste of time and money, I make him this proposition. Let him have his youngsters show him how they practice their air raid drills.

If seeing them there on the floor, arms clasped around their heads, crouching to protect themselves from something against which there is no protection, does not bring home to him the kind of world we live in now, nothing, I'm afraid, ever will.

Pile Leaves Near Edge Of Street

The street department is distributing notices to local residences asking citizens to place their leaves in piles at the edge of the yard for collection by the new mechanical leaf collector.

"The City of Greenville has recently purchased a mechanical leaf collector which will provide more systematic collection of leaves," the notice tells local citizens. "It is anticipated that collection will be made regularly once each week in the entire city until all leaves have fallen."

"Property owners are requested to place leaves in piles at the edge of the yard. Please do not place leaves in the street. They wash into catch basins and storm drains, causing stoppage of the drainage system," the notice states. "Your cooperation in this program will be greatly appreciated."

The notice is signed by C. K. Beatty, director of public works.

Smoking-Cancer Report Is Not Backed By Association Council

Health Director Walter C. Humbert said this morning the opinion regarding cigarette smoking and the incidence of causing lung cancer represents the thinking of the Public Health Association and "is not an official report of the governing council of the American Public Health Association."

Humbert and W. M. Pate, head of the local sanitation department, have just returned from the 82nd annual meeting of the American Public Health Association held last week in Buffalo, N. Y.

Humbert said the statement about cigarette smoking that came out on Monday followed a meeting of the Public Health Association, which is a separate organization from the American Public Health Association, but which was also meeting in Buffalo with the general association.

At the general meeting Humbert attended sessions on general health, nutrition and preventive medicine, while Pate went to the meetings on environmental hygiene and sanitation.

Highlight of the occasion was the presentation of the Albert and Mary Lasker Foundation awards. Each recipient receives a leather-bound citation, a gold statue of the Winged Liberty and a prize of $1,000.

This year's winners were Dr. Ed-

Storm Mobilization Work Hailed As Major Success

June H. Rose, director of Civil Defense for Pitt County, expressed appreciation to all who participated in Friday's mobilization for Hurricane Hazel.

Rose called a meeting Friday morning to prepare for the storm which had been reported headed for this area earlier.

"I wish to express my thanks to every organization and every executive officer who was down there," he stated. "We started about 8 o'clock Friday morning and nobody quit."

Rose noted that refugees from Aurora, Morehead City and Salter Pass were cared for as a result of the hurricane.

Returned Home

Rose stated that preparations were made for taking care of the group Friday night, but all decided to return to their homes when the storm subsided.

He stated that authorities had picked up blankets and cots and they had been set up in the West Greenville and Training School auditoriums to house the refugees Friday night.

The civil defense director paid tribute to the Explorer Scouts under the direction of Lester Dollar who were in charge of obtaining the cots. The scouts were also asked to be on the lookout for falling power lines and trees and report them to the Civil Defense headquarters set up in the Municipal building.

Rose said the people were fed at noon Friday and were furnished with sandwiches for the ride back home. City school lunchroom workers under the direction of Mrs. Louise Rush were standing by to prepare meals for the evacuees if they had remained Friday night.

Mrs. J. T. Little of the Red Cross was to supervise the feeding of the group Friday night.

Rose noted that a college student offered his service because he had been through hurricanes in Florida. Rose said he asked for 30 college boys to assist and a group volunteered to come down to stand by if called on.

The civil defense director paid tribute to the national guard and the army reserve unit for their help in the emergency.

He also noted that Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson had a number of radio equipped cars standing by in the county.

Hughes Expresses Thanks

City Manager James S. Hughes expressed thanks to city employees who worked long hours during the storm.

"I appreciate the long hours the street department worked in order to open up the streets," he said. "Not only did the street department work long hours but so did the police department and the fire department. They all had jobs to do and they did them well."

"All department heads and personnel are to be commended for the way they handled the situation."

Radio Service Maintained

All off-duty policemen were called back on duty to cope with Friday's storm. Although power went off early in the afternoon, the police radio was kept operating by a portable power unit furnished by the fire department rescue squad. The police radio maintained contact with all city police cars which were placed on patrol and with the sheriff department's cars which were spotted at strategic spots about the county.

Immediately following Friday's hurricane police were hard pushed controlling the large number of sightseers who flooded the streets

'Lost' Girl Had 20-Mile Walk

OKANOGAN, Wash. — A hardy 5-year-old girl who officers said tramped 20 miles in 20 hours through the wilds of north central Washington wandered safely into a ranch yard 50 miles north of here yesterday as an army of men sought for a trace of her.

The first words of little Joyce Abel as she entered the yard of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Wanger were: "Was Mommy worried?"

The Wanger ranch is 20 miles southwest of the home of Joyce's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Abel from which she wandered Saturday while playing.

As hopes dimmed yesterday that Joyce had survived the freezing night she walked, tired but unharmed, into the Wangers' yard and told of traveling downhill through the darkness across rock-studded fields and grassy plains.

After she was reunited with her parents, a family friend said, "She's not as tired as most of the searchers: she was dressed in fresh clothes by 10 a.m. and ready to start playing again."
