Program On UN Is Conducted By International Relations Club

A series of programs on the United Nations scheduled by the International Relations Club of East Carolina College began Tuesday night, October 26, with the showing of a film "The United Nations in World Disputes" and the presentation of a taped recording of a recent panel on the international organization sponsored by the Unitarian Fellowship of Greenville.

John Q. Sanders of Fayetteville, vice president of the club, acted as program chairman and, as introduction to the evening's program, gave a brief summary of the structure and purposes of the UN.

The film shown Tuesday gave a resume of the part played by the UN in recent crises in Indonesia, Palestine, India, and Korea. It was presented through the courtesy of the college Air Force ROTC.

Participants in the recorded panel were Dr. H.A. Coleman, Dr. Paul Toll, and Dr. James Poin-dexter, faculty members at the college, who discussed various aspects of the organization and accomplishments of the UN.

Dr. Walter Krausnick of the faculty, summarizing UN successes in minor disputes and near successes in major disputes, concluded the panel, saying "It's better for diplomats to get ulcers than for young men to lose lives."

At the close of the scheduled program a discussion of the issues presented during the evening took place among those present for the meeting.

Vice president Sanders stated that the next meeting of the club is scheduled for November 21. He explained that future programs, including films, talks by visiting speakers, panel discussions, and book reviews, are now in the planning stage and will soon be announced.

This Election, Already Decided

Very soon comes election day, and political seers, pollsters and Democrats are remarkably unanimous in predicting the outcome.

Everywhere one turns, newspapers, magazines, radio and television . . . the story is the same. By the time results are counted, the news will have been so old that editors will feel their big black headline . . . DEMOCRATS WIN CONTROL OF CONGRESS . . . is already out of date.

True, our prognosticators are more cautious in deeding over the Senate to Democrats than in predicting the House

Out Of The Ruins Came Adenauer

The Washington visit by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer rightfully belongs among the great milestones of the times. Some sort of miracle occurred in West Germany with the emergence of Adenauer as a political leader.

There was a nation which had lived long years under a dictatorial rule; a people inculcated with dislike for what we call representative government, and taught to despise all that was not of "German culture."

Additionally, defeat in war was hardly anything to endear despised "barbarians"; and that defeat included disastrous destruction and hardship difficult for us to understand.

Yet, out of the ruins of Hitler's Germany have emerged men devoted to the idea of Democracy.

Reason dictated ties with the West, but it took statesmanship and great effort to make the alliance possible.

The aging Adenauer (he's 79 now) has been the key personality of Europe in making West Germany a sovereign state and a firm ally of the Free World. His work is not yet finished, but time and his years are running against him.

Who will his successor be? Will he be able to carry on the work Adenauer has so ably begun?

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
SUCCESS—WHAT IS IT?
It has been said that nothing succeeds like success. There are circumstances in which it is equally true that nothing fails like success. The man described in Scripture as the rich fool, who in the face of prosperity wanted to pull down his barns and build greater, was no doubt considered a successful man by his contemporaries. But God's word to him was, "Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee."

Men sometimes make millions of dollars and so neglect their own families that their children grow up to disappoint and disgrace them. Many a woman has been a brilliant social success but her apparent friends have hated her and her children have despised her. Times without number men have gained offices of world importance only to come to the end of their lives realizing that these honors have been nothing short of calamitous.

What is the measure of success? Humanly speaking, it is the extent to which any achievement produces growth both on the part of the person who achieves and on the part of those round about him. Spiritually, success consists in seeking to know the will of God and then following the divine pleasure as it is progressively revealed. We can never be perfectly successful but in this imperfect world, there is such a thing as true success.

But if we do not achieve it, then it may very well be that nothing fails like success.

National Whirligig

Politicos Distrust The Press

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—Harry S. Truman has finally taken a job!
The former President is now serving as part-time and honorary circulation manager for the Democratic Digest, the monthly magazine issued by the Democratic National Committee from its headquarters at Washington.

It has not been a howling success since it went on sale more than a year ago at 25 cents a copy, for it consists largely of reprints of favorable newspaper articles.

In order to stir interest and subscriptions, Truman has sent out thousands of letters under his signature. He urges "friends and fellow Democrats," although he has included many Republicans in both categories, to buy the Democratic Digest. His reasons for this solicitation are similar to his "whistle stop" philippics in 1948 and 1952.

TRUMAN INDICTS PRESS—Truman's letters argue that purchase and perusal of this admittedly partisan publication are necessary in order to counteract and nullify the "poisonous" effect of what he calls the "one-party press." He uses that phrase twice in his salesmanship ballyhoo, although nowhere does he particularize his indictment.

The former President's anti-press prejudice amuses Washington politicians and newspaper correspondents, for the simple reason that, with the exception of F.D.R., no Democratic figure ever enjoyed better treatment from those who write for the newspapers. They headlined him far beyond his deserts when he headed the Senate Committee to Investigate National Defense.

It was the reporters' ultra-friendly accounts of Truman's defense inquiry which led F.D.R., in 1944, to notify the Democratic convention manipulators that his choices for Vice-President were Truman and Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas. And it was a brilliant and beloved newspaperman, now dead, who first suggested Truman's name to F.D.R.
EISENHOWER HOUSEHOLD THINKS PRESS HOSTILE—But the ironic aspect of former President election; but the idea is there and it isn't easy to dislodge.

Experience tells us that off-year elections favor the "outs" though history doesn't give a clear explanation of why. This time there is such a narrow margin of control by the majority party that the usual off-year election swing is expected to make them the minority.

Casting about for a reason for these mid-term political reversals we recall an old voting truism: people vote against something or somebody, not for.

Each voter has his own specific irritant which will influence his ballot box decision. The voter who "ain't mad at nobody" is less inclined to vote, and it's pretty difficult for the party or candidate in power to give voters a real stimulus to vote against the challenger.

Take the GOP plight of today. They are pretty well restricted to 1952 issues as a voter-irritant; and warmed-over hash doesn't inspire a gleam in anybody's eyes. All through the campaign Republicans have been on the defensive.

On the other side, Democrats are in a much better position. By underscoring selected issues where they'll do the most good, they have vote-getting points. While the farmer may be happy about everything done in foreign policy, national defense, tax-cutting, budget-cutting, employment and industrial production; if he becomes fearful of his own agricultural future, he'll be prompted to vote against the party he thinks isn't looking out for him. The coal miner is in the same boat; he can laugh at high employment figures because he himself is working only at odd intervals. Public power is an issue where big federal power plants are maintained; arms aid to Arab nations is a matter of concern to many Jews in this country; to others, the name McCarthy is like waving a red blanket in front of a bull.

It's just a case of applying the proper irritant, and the voter will vote against it.

Seems Like The Wrong Fear Involved

It may be that North Carolina motorists became a little bit complacent over driving precautions. Awareness kept at a high pitch probably had a great deal to do with improved statistics on highway accidents; but those accidents rates are rising again.

To make drivers extra-cautious the Highway Patrol is again "clamping down." A full mobilization of speed clocks and Patrolmen has been ordered; it's a big operation.

If it takes fear of a traffic citation to make a driver operate his vehicle in a safe, courteous manner; then by all means hold that sword of Damocles over their heads.

But one would think fear for their own lives or for the lives of loved ones offers a stronger spur for safe driving than a mere ticket or fine.

Truman's denunciation is that higher bracket members of the Eisenhower household, although not the President himself, regard the Washington press corps as generally hostile. They refer, particularly, to so-called "special writers" and columnists.

They have complained—privately, of course—that the newspapers concentrate on the destructive rather than the constructive side of the Washington situation.

In these off-the-record analyses, they mention press handling of such episodes as the McCarthy hunt for alleged Communists in Government, the Oppenheimer inquiry, the AEC-TVA deal, and the Administration's conduct of foreign relations.

ADMINISTRATIONS' SECRECY—In fact, the businessmen who surround Eisenhower are actually afraid of the press!

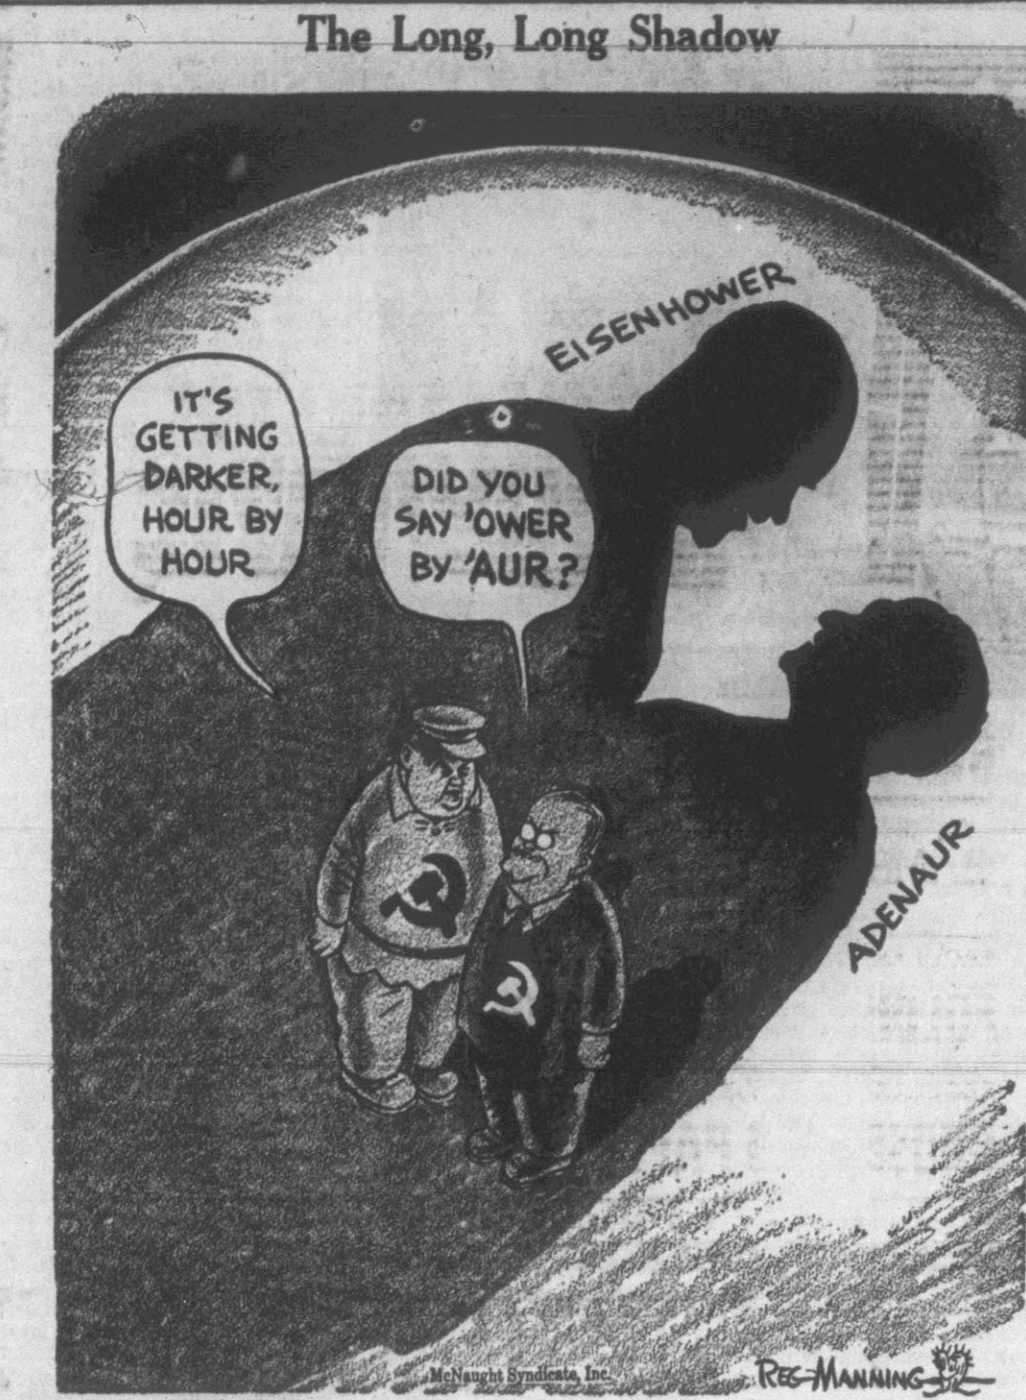

This unexplainable and unjustified complex accounts for the secrecy with which they cloak so many important policy decisions. To mention only a few, there were the AEC-TVA negotiations, Sherman Adams' order that the private lives of Federal employees be investigated, and Adams' role in the White House drive against McCarthy.

The lack of frankness toward the press, which actually represents the public interest, accounts for many of the Administration's difficulties and embarrassments.

UNAPPRECIATIVE POLITICOS—This twin condemnation of the Washington press corps—Truman's and that of the present Administration—suggests that everybody is out of step except the reporters. The fact is that almost all politicians and public officials eventually feel that the newspapers are against them.

No American politician gets more freely given publicity than Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower. But F.D.R. and Harry hit the hand that made them, with their denunciations of the "one-party press," and Truman's declaration as political circulation manager for the Democratic Digest.

In 35 years devoted to the study and writing of politics and government, I recall only two figures grateful rather than inimical toward their press—the late Alfred E. Smith and James A. Farley.

Somebody Told Me

Observations And Odd Bits

Observation: After acquiring a sewing machine, I have naturally noticed more closely the projects by the wife that require sewing. Less than half require the machine. This astounds me.

"Aren't you going to use the machine?" I ask W. B.

"Well," she says, "I can do it almost as fast on the machine as I can by hand."

Note to sewing machine salesman, before you have your lawyers file suit: I realize that there are many jobs that cannot be done without the machine. I was simply under the illusion that the machine was a magic tool that does it all.

The coming of the new cars has car owners buzzing. The race between Ford and Chevrolet is about to have a new shot in the arm. One thing is certain: the consumer will be the one who benefits in this race. Manufacturers are offering more and more has it that prices will be no higher this year than last. Some experts say that prices will even go down or trade-in allowances will go up.

New note: Before All Capp in his comic strip Lt Abner started his current take off on TV Star Liberace, he wrote a letter of announcement to the pianist: "Even back in our old days in Boston 10 years ago I was sure that you would some day become famous enough for me to kick around in Lt Abner. . . . Since you are now a household word, it is up to all the Yokums and all the Capps to kid the daylight out of you, your piano, your candles, your curley hair and your adoring fans. I plan to do a Sunday page sequence about a pianist named Liberace. Any resemblance to you will be deliberate. . . . Liberace's lawyers turned Capp down, so he is doing a series on a pianist called Loverboynik. Naturally, the similarity to Liberace is very noticeable.

Coming events of note: If a child gives you a "trick or treat" threat Saturday night and has a coin box in hand labeled UNICEF, please give. Children of the Junior and Primary Departments of the Jarvis Memorial Church are working for needy children overseas through the United Nations Children's Fund.

Please don't forget the emergency visit by the Blood Bank Tuesday. Hazel cut into the bank and it must be replaced.

And of course don't forget the open meeting of Alcoholics Anonymous on Sunday, November 7.

And I thank you. JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

AN HONOR WELL PLACED (Henderson Dispatch)

Naming of the new steam electric generating plant of the Carolina Power & Light Company at Wilmington for Louis V. Sutton, the company's president, was an honor well placed. The distinction fits Mr. Sutton as it would no other individual. He is one of the outstanding leaders in the electric power industry in America today, and has achieved that status by his accomplishments as president of the Carolina company which he has headed for twenty-one years.

Not having the facts immediately at hand, we wouldn't know for a certainty, but it would be our guess that no single power concern in the country has made more progress and provided greater expansion, in proportion to its size, than this corporation, which serves scores of communities in North and South Carolina.

Water Has Become Serious Economic, Political Issue

By LYNN NISBET

WATER—Until just a few years ago water involved no problem for North Carolina. There was plenty of it for all practical purposes. The ocean behaved itself pretty well and the fresh water streams performed the ordinary functions of providing habitat for fish, power for industry, drainage of the uplands and avenues of commerce.

It is different now. Water has become a serious economic problem and is rapidly developing into a major political problem. There is still enough, but its distributive use raises many questions of priority rights. Some of these questions are admittedly silly, some are deadly serious; and are economic and many of them have significant political implications.

Right now governmental agencies from the Federal down to small municipal are confused about responsibilities growing out of the rampages of the Atlantic Ocean under the whiplash of Hurricane Hazel. Even though hurricanes should not be regarded as unusual or "acts of God", but should be considered in budgeting chances of seaside developments, as Col. R.G. Hill of the army engineering corps suggests, the fact remains that Hazel was unique in its devastations and constitutes an emergency problem.

The severe drought which affected nearly all of North Carolina this year, following three other years of deficient rainfall for most of the state, was less spectacular than Hazel, but in total impact upon the economy was much greater. Estimated hurricane losses for the two Carolinas range around $60-$75 million, while drought losses are estimated at $125-$150 million for the two states. The main question involved is how to prevent future losses from either hurricane or drought, while relieving immediate distress of present victims.

POLITICAL—That is where the political angle comes in. It is even more evident in the maneuvering for authority and credit in the long range planning for utilization of water resources, and for soil conservation and industrial development—which are almost wholly dependent upon the proper use of water. The overall problem also involves the politico-economic matter of flood control and power generating facilities, and the close-to-home items of water supply for municipalities, sewage disposal, irrigation of farm lands and industrial pollution of streams.

At national level the problem embraces Bonneville and Hoover dams, TVA and related Dixon-Yates deals. North Carolinians are more immediately concerned about what seems to be going on inside the state. Developments here are both economic and political. And their trend is disturbing to many who are seeking a reasonable solution to the problems. There seems to be general recognition of the seriousness of the situation, but very little co-ordination of activities to relieve it.

CONFUSED—There are at least five major State agencies directly concerned with the problem of water resources: Agriculture, Conservation and Development (both for commercial fisheries and industrial development), Health, Ports Authority and Wildlife Resources. Commission the Carolina company can thank Louis Sutton for a vast deal of the expanded service that is now available to them, and which will continue to be provided on a constantly increasing scale through the years.

government should have the privilege. That is a modernistic theory of socialism which isn't sound at all, and which is contradictory of the standards that have guided America in its industrial development through the long decades of a century or more. Some twenty years or more ago the Carolina company built the huge Tillery hydro-electric plant near Mount Gilead in Montgomery county and named it for the company's president at that time. That was an appropriate step, even as is also the naming of the big steam plant at Wilmington for Mr. Sutton. Areas of the Carolinas that are served by the Carolina company can thank Louis Sutton for a vast deal of the expanded service that is now available to them, and which will continue to be provided on a constantly increasing scale through the years.

cost of $25,000 for all-state water resources. Officials of cities and towns at their Municipal League convention in Winston-Salem devoted considerable time to the discussion of water supply for their communities as they might be affected by provisions of the law which deny municipalities riparian rights on streams, but accord such rights to farmers along the streams for diverting water to irrigation purposes. It has long been accepted that politics entered into "pork barrel" appropriations for rivers and harbors and for irrigation and flood control projects in the west, but North Carolina has been singularly free from politics with respect to internal water resources.

Business Today

Bigness In Business

By F. M. BOSSNER
As often happens before national elections, there's a hullabaloo about big business. The Democrats are charging that big business has its tentacles in the Federal government; the Republican Administration is in a swirl of anti-trust and restraint-of-trade actions.

Big business has always been fair game. Prof. John D. Glover, of Harvard Business School, in a new book titled, "The Attack on Big Business," points out that bigness has been under attack ever since the dawn of the industrial era. In his introduction, Mr. Glover lists several pages of epithets that have been applied to big business. And while he does not attempt to decide whether bigness is good or bad, he does conclude that big business has a vast job ahead in getting itself better understood.

Less judicial is the First National Bank of Boston. In its latest newsletter it says big business is good for the nation. "Bigness is the dynamic force, the pace-setter and co-ordinator of large and widely scattered operations, and it serves as the assembling unit for thousands of small firms," it says.

It conducts the bulk of research, simply because small firms can't afford the costs and risks involved. The bank points out that General Electric spent 19 years developing its garbage disposal unit, a task that would have flooded even medium-size companies. "Big business with its research facilities, mass production, low unit costs and scientific know-how has provided the majority of people with things that would otherwise be beyond their reach," it adds.

"American industrial and technological know-how is not only the most creative but also the most powerful force in the world. It was the chief contributing factor in the winning of two world wars, and upon it freedom-loving people everywhere depend as the principal bulwark of Communist aggression."

The bank is correct in assaying the importance of bigness in wartime; we would have had a hard time getting toiled up in 1942 if we had to depend on the facilities of hundreds of small steel mills, auto-makers and hay-barn plane factories.

The bank contends that big business does not drive out small business, citing government figures to show the great numerical increase, and insists big business thrives on competition. It will get arguments on that last point.

But it is refreshing to see someone stick up for bigness for a change.

THREE NEW BOOKS FOR BUSINESSMEN

Speaking of books, among the new ones of interest to businessmen are:
"How to Sell Your Way into the Big Money," by Vincent F. Sullivan, New York newspaper sales executive, 312 pages (by Citadel, 222 Fourth Ave., New York 3, at $3.95). It's a down-to-earth discussion, including such chapters as "How to Handle Your Liquor," "Keep Sex and Bribes Out of Your Deals," and "Pick a Wife But Be Right."
"Advertising in Modern Retailing," by Carrie Mills Rowland, 268 pages (Harper, New York, $4.50). A good guide, but largely for larger department store executives.

His Morbid Interest In Money

By HAL BYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"I have a morbid interest in money," confessed George Axelrod, a young man who wrote in 6 hours a Broadway play he says will earn him a million dollars.

For the actual time he spent at the typewriter in turning out "The Seven Year Itch"—now being filmed as a vehicle for Marilyn Monroe—this comes to $16,666.66 an hour.

Axelrod, who is 32, wears a crew cut, and looks like a fugitive Princeton freshman, thinks this is a fair rate of pay for a writer—if he got to keep the money.

But, of course, he doesn't. Today it may take more time to figure out the income tax on a hit play than it does to write it.

"You wrote for years and starved," said George warily, "and then when you hit the big loot they take it all away."

"Money is no longer enough. A writer needs some new kind of payment they can't take away, such as a guarantee your golf score will improve. Or they might promise to add two years to your life or—in my case—agree to find a way to make my front teeth come together."

But until something better does come along Axelrod has decided money is about the best all-around substitute.

"Writing doesn't count unless you get paid for it," he said. "I can't even write a letter to my son now unless he promises to send me a buck for it."

"Art is a byproduct of writing for money. Shakespeare wrote because he needed dough. You always write when you're hungry."

"It's much harder to write unless you have to do it to meet bills. This is still no problem on me. I always manage to have a few bills that need paying."

"But if you get good money, you've got to do a good job to earn it. I hate the guys who go to Hollywood with the 'best' idea, who grab all the big dough they can do nothing, and then leave town complaining it's impossible to do creative work in the Hollywood atmosphere. "I loved Hollywood. I had my self a real ball out there." At 18, "after" being thrown out of most of the good schools in the East, George became a bit actor on Broadway, confined to lines such as "Madam, dinner is served."

"I was a horrible actor, but I wanted to learn stage techniques," he said. "I knew that at 18 I couldn't write anything that people would pay $4.40 to see."

At 20 George watched the rehearsal of a radio show, then went home and turned out a script for "The Seven Year Itch" and sold it for $150.

"Since then I've turned out between 60 and 60 radio and TV shows," he said, "written two novels, and turned out gags and comedy sketches for Martin and Lewis, Peter Lind Hayes, Robert Q. Lewis, and many other big comedians."

"I was an Army private for three years, digging holes for telephone poles for the Signal Corps in Europe. When I got out I had two really lean years before things turned better."

It was at his wife's insistence that Axelrod wrote "The Seven Year Itch" in 1952. He did it in 15 four-hour sessions at the typewriter.

"After four hours I just pooh pooh," he said.

Today George gets $75,000 for a movie script, a double that amount if he furnishes the plot, too. He is currently polishing up a new musical, "The Rogers and Hart Songbook," and hopes to write "five or six of the greatest plays in the history of the world," then become a producer.

"There comes a time when you can't do it anymore," he said. "It happens to every writer. He wears out. Or at least he gets to the point where what he writes no longer pleases himself, and then the money alone isn't enough. It's time to quit."

"How can you tell? Well, it's the 17th morning in a row that nothing happens. That is the big fear in every writer—the awful morning when he knows he has nothing more to say."

George looked thoughtful, then smiled. "Gee," he said smiling, "maybe it was this morning for me."

Tears for the Bride

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

THE SHERIFF said to the executive type "You may go now. Please stay in town until you hear from me."

"This is an outrage."

"I'm sorry," the sheriff said in a grave voice, "but you should never shoot a rifle in the woods, unless you are certain where the bullet will strike. A rifle bullet carries far, often to areas you cannot see. A shotgun has a short range, and is more effective for small game, because the pellets fan out, thus increasing the target area." He lifted a finger, like a teacher explaining patiently to a dull pupil. "Always remember that."

"Blah," the executive type said and sneezed.

"Listen," the sheriff said in a deadly cold voice, "maybe you killed a harmless old man this morning. If you did, I will personally see that you are charged with all the law will allow. Now, get out of my office and don't leave town until I say so."

Mr. C. Delbert Forbes was on the point of saying, "Blah," again, but he saw the look of subdued fury in the sheriff's eyes and he changed his mind. He stood up stiffly as if he were about to address a board meeting. "You will hear from my attorney." His cold little eyes seemed to swirl in his head.

"Fine," the sheriff said wearily. "Now get out."

He strode past in a stately manner, the sheriff slammed the door behind him.

"He'll skip," I said. "My deputy will watch him."

I grinned. "Tall job, huh?"

"Yes," he sighed. "I'm tired. Don't they have a police force here?"

"Just a marshal, part time. I handle everything in the county, and I need more help. The village council is supposed to vote another deputy for me, but they won't meet until next month." He smiled.

"But I asked for a, when I ran for sheriff. Had a hardware store here for twenty years and sold out after my wife died. Kids are all married and moved away, and this job gives me something to do. I've read up on criminology and police procedure and all that, and even attended the F.B.I. school. The pay isn't much, but I kind of like the work—anyhow somebody has to do it."

"No law enforcement officer is ever paid enough," I said. "I think I'll start a crusade, like the one for the teachers."

"It's an important field," he said seriously. "The pay should be better, to attract capable men."

"Who takes care of the jail?"

"I do. I live in a couple of rooms in the back. The prisoner's meals are sent in from the restaurant, and a woman comes in to clean. And my deputy helps."

I had always had respect for all the sheriff's like John Morrissey, in all the villages and counties all over America, doing a vital work, necessary for the public welfare, and being paid a pittance.

Here was John Morrissey at three o'clock in the morning, with no overtime pay, trying to learn who had fired the stray bullet which had killed an obscure old man.

He said, "I've got some coffee. Would you like some?"

"Sure," I said.

As we sipped the coffee the sheriff said, "Call me John. That way I can call you Jim, and tell people that I know you well. I first heard of you when you were in on the mess over in Asheville a couple of years ago. Folks around here still talk about it—what was that woman's name? With the scarred face?"

"Donah," I said. "Marianne Donah." I stirred restlessly. Memories are never any good. Most memories, anyhow. Except the memory of Sandy. I thought suddenly of her, alone with Judy Kirkland.

I told it to him all I knew of the shooting of Ralph Hollis, from beginning to Judy Kirkland's attempted suicide. I didn't skip anything, and I told it as it happened, all I could remember, and how I felt about it. I felt much better after I'd told it, and I ended by saying, "And now Dr. Mazzini is at the hospital with Ralph, and Sandy is staying with Judy Kirkland. And I've still got people to see."

"Earl Seltzman, for one?" the sheriff asked softly.

"For one."

"Everyone knows that he's been eating his heart for Eileen Fortune," he said, "and that there's had blood between him and Ralph."

"I know. What about Jake Fortune?"

He shrugged. "Jake's all right. He's a bit giddy since his wife died, and he's broke and in debt, but trying to keep up a front. He and Earl Seltzman seem to be pretty thick—Jake's been negotiating some beef deals for him. Jake is generally well-liked but Earl isn't so popular. Something, I don't know what—something unpleasant about him. I suppose it's his upbringing. His folks were very strict, and Earl didn't cut loose much until after they died and he came into all the Seltzman money. Judy Kirkland is what we call a character. She does what she pleases, and never minds what anybody thinks. She drives too fast, and sometimes drinks too much, and everybody knows about her yen for Doc Mazzini. Personally, I think that all Judy needs is a regular tanning with a limber hickory stick."

"Dr. Mazzini slapped her tonight," I said.

"Doc's got a temper, when he's riled. He's part Italian, and hot-blooded, the kind of a man Judy needs." He gazed at me over his pipe. "We think a lot of Doc in this county. You don't have to worry—he'll take good care of Ralph Hollis, regardless."

"What about Judy's sumps?" I asked. "Can't they do anything with her?"

He shook his head slowly. "They're both old and they live in the past. Nobody hardly ever sees them. I hear that Judy spends part of her time at their place, and kind of keeps an eye on them. And Doc Mazzini calls there once a week—one of them is pretty well crippled with arthritis."

"Do you think I should see them? Tell them about Judy?"

"Not tonight. From what you've told me, she's all right now. But suit yourself." He knocked out his pipe in a heavy ash tray. "It's an odd series of circumstances, and I think I know how you feel. But there's nothing you can put your finger on—Judy's typed confession, for example. When she wrote it—if she wrote it—she was feeling low, but you can't prove anything. What's your next move?"

"I want to see Earl Seltzman." "I'll go with you," he said. "And maybe we'd better go out to Judy's place too although there's nothing definite I can officially act on—unless you file charges, but it's all suspicion. If you want to slap a shooting with intent to kill charge on Earl, I'll do it."

"No," I said. "Not yet. It's my fight. It's a kind of personal thing, and maybe I've built it up too much in my mind, but I've got to find out."

"I understand," he said. "I'll be on call, if you want me. I plan on leaving for Cleveland around seven."

I took the hypodermic needle from my pocket and laid it on his desk. "Have that checked, too, but I'm sure it's just penicillin. The bullet I dug out of the tree is in my room at the Hollis place. If I have time, I'll get it and bring it here before you leave. Judy's rifle is out in the car. I want you to take that, too."

He nodded. "Maybe by tomorrow noon we'll have something to go on."

"Maybe," I said and finished my coffee.

He followed me out to my car and I gave him Judy's rifle. "I'll be here if you want me," he said. "Good luck."

"Thanks," I said as I drove away.

He Sees World On His Bicycle

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Since Richard I. Smith began pedaling his bicycle in earnest four years ago, the young school teacher has covered an estimated 15,000 miles in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Europe, North Africa and the Middle East.

Now he has finished an 8,000-mile journey from England to Jerusalem which took 10 months.

He began long distance bicycle travels in 1950, making the American Youth Hostel trip to England, Scotland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Germany and the Netherlands.

The following year he took the AYH tour through France, Spain, Portugal, Gibraltar, Spanish and French Morocco, Algeria, Tunisia, Sicily, Italy and Switzerland.

In 1952, Smith led an AYH trip across the United States and Canada and in 1953 he headed a journey to Mexico. He says his solo Holy Land trip was the most rugged.

Smith has taught social science and American history in Erie, Pa., schools and in Manitoba, Canada.

Right now he has no plans for another long distance bicycle ride. He intends to devote most of his time to teaching.

Each American consumed 76.6 pounds of beef, on the average in 1953.

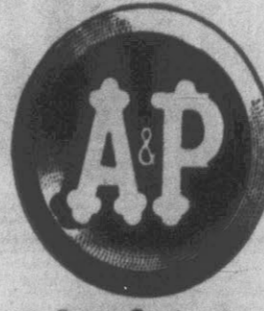

Has 30 Days To Pay Tax Money

BALTIMORE (AP)—W. Bryant Bowles founder and president of the National Assn. for the Advancement of White People, has been given 30 days to remit about $2,000 in withholding taxes federal tax collectors say he deducted from the pay of employes but failed to forward to the government.

Bowles, who led demonstrations which disrupted the integration of white and Negro pupils in the schools at Milford, Del., was arrested in Delaware Oct. 10 on a charge of conspiracy to interrupt the education of schoolchildren. He operated a roofing company—now defunct—in Baltimore in 1952 and 1953. Iron ore carriers on the Great Lakes are as much as 714 feet long.

Took Fast Talk To Pass Customs

SWEETGRASS, Mont. (AP)—Amos Thompson, Helena, Mont., had to do some fast talking to get his load of Canadian pigs past customs officials here. Thompson bought three pigs at a Calgary, Alta., show and sale and proceeded to log the purchase on necessary customs forms. But as he traveled southward, one sow decided to farrow. She had a family of nine. Customs officials heard Thompson's story and decided to let him through—even if he did have 13 pigs instead of three, as the papers indicated. The Soo Canal between Lake Superior and Lake Huron is closed by ice four months every year. Sugar production started in Cuba at the end of the 15th Century.

FAMILY RETREAT
 APPOMATTOX, Va. (AP)—T. W. Moses began his family retreat from Appomattox. He entered a Lynchburg hospital for an operation. Early next day his wife went to the hospital for checkup and treatment. State Sen. Charles T. Moses, their son, followed them a few days later—a pneumonia patient.

Dinner In Mind, Barbecue Pit Readied

Members of the local Red Men's tribe look on as concrete is poured into the form at Elm Street Park for a 16 foot barbecue pit. The pit is to be used for a Western style barbecue to be sponsored by the Red Men on November 12 and will be left at the park. (Reflector Photo by Alvin Taylor)

Withlacoochee Tribe Number 35 will sponsor a western style beef barbecue on November 12 at Elm Street Park, Paul Jewett, junior sagamore of the local Red Men tribe said today.

The Red Men are constructing a barbecue pit 16 feet long at the local Elm Street park which will be a permanent type pit and is to be left for use at the park, Jewett stated.

The pit is to be 16 feet long, six feet wide, three feet deep with metal grill 18 inches above the coals. It is to have a cement base with concrete block sides.

Construction has begun on the pit, located behind the Little League playing field.

Jewett said that present plans call for barbecuing 1500 pounds of beef for the Western style barbecue. An expert is coming from Fort Worth, Texas to supervise the cooking. The beef must be cooked for 22 hours, Jewett stated.

Menu for the meal will include beans, salad, fruit, bread and coffee in addition to the barbecue, according to Jewett. Meals will be served from 6 to 8 p.m. and tables will be provided for those who wish to eat at the park or the meals will be prepared to take home.

Jewett said that tickets may be obtained from any member of the local Red Men tribe. The tickets will entitle the buyers to a chance on a television set which is to be given away on the night of the supper. The winner does not have to be present to win.

Profits from the barbecue will be used for the benefit of the Red Men's building fund.

Governor Admits Pulling A Boner

ROCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—Even a governor can pull a boner. Gov. Hugh Gregg, presiding at a recent toll road hearing, gave the floor to Mrs. Noreen Winkley. Holding her infant in her arms, the woman asked if she could talk from her seat.

Richard F. Cooper, former GOP state chairman, came to the rescue, offered to hold the baby. "He will probably grow up to be a good Republican now," quipped Gregg.

Mrs. Winkley's retort: "She will grow up to be a good Democrat like her mother."

In 1950-51 there were 241 pupils per teacher in U.S. elementary and high schools.

Pirates Preying On Smugglers

MANILA (AP)—Toro pirates, with modern arms and swift boats, are preying on smugglers off Palawan island in the southern Philippines.

The sea lanes between Borneo and the southern Philippines have been the center of a rich smuggling trade for years. News dispatches say the Pirates board the slower smuggling boats on the high seas after trailing them from Palawan or North Borneo.

Targets Earned Blue Ribbon

DUNN, N.C. (AP)—Dunn Jaycees, operating a turkey shoot at the County Fair, moved a coop of turkeys to the exhibit tent for safekeeping overnight.

The next morning the judges arrived before the turkey shoot opened. They looked the turkeys over and pinned a blue ribbon on the coop as the best on exhibit.

A five dollar check went along with the ribbon.

'Fair Trial' Demands In The Lattimore Case

By ED CREAGH
 WASHINGTON (AP)—One of the things Americans pride themselves on is that every man accused of a crime is entitled to a fair trial. This works two ways, of course. Just as the trial must be fair to the accused, it must give the accusers—the government—a fair shake too.

Almost always when a cry of bias is raised it comes from the defendant. But now such a cry comes from the government, by way of the Justice Department.

The government claims it can't get a fair trial of Owen J. Lattimore, the long-controversial Far Eastern specialist because the trial judge, Luther W. Youngdahl, is biased in Lattimore's favor.

And U.S. Dist. Judge Youngdahl, refusing to take himself out of the case, charges Justice Department lawyers with trying to intimidate the courts.

It's a strikingly unusual situation. Here is how it came about: Late in 1952 a federal grand jury indicted Lattimore on charges of lying to a Senate subcommittee. There were seven counts in the indictment. The key charge was that Lattimore lied when he said he never had been "a sympathizer and promoter of communism and Communist interests."

Lattimore's lawyers went to court, asked that the indictment be thrown out. Their petition went before Youngdahl, a Republican governor of Minnesota until he went on the federal bench and Youngdahl threw out four of the seven counts. He held the key charge and three others were too vague to have any legal meaning.

But he went beyond that. He also voiced "serious doubt" in his written opinion, whether the three remaining charges would stand up in court either.

The government protested. It asked the U.S. Court of Appeals to put back the four counts knocked out by Youngdahl. The higher court did put back two of them. But it upheld Youngdahl's ruling on the main issue and ruled the "sympathizer and promoter" charge must go to a jury.

So the government, in effect, started over again. It laid its case before a new grand jury. And early this month Lattimore was indicted for a second time. This time that word "sympathizer" was left out. Instead Lattimore was accused of falsely denying he had been a "follower" of the Communist line and a "promoter of Communist interests."

But the government wasn't through yet. The federal prosecutor, U.S. Atty. Leo A. Rover, formally asked Youngdahl to remove himself as the judge in Lattimore's forthcoming trial.

Rover said he wasn't questioning Youngdahl's honor or integrity. But he declared Youngdahl has "a fixed, personal bias and prejudice" in favor of Lattimore. And he said this is proved by the language Youngdahl used in ruling on the original indictment.

Under the law, all Youngdahl had to do at this point—without going into the 44 legal words involved—was either get out of the case or dismiss the government's protest. He didn't have to give reasons.

In fact, as Youngdahl himself noted, the law doesn't let him pass on the truth or falsity of such charges as Rover made.

But Youngdahl in announcing he would stay on the bench in the trial, chose to blister the hide of Rover and—by implication—of the whole Justice Department. He said those who challenged him acted "irresponsibly and recklessly."

And he declared: "I cannot escape from the conclusion that the purpose of the affidavit is to discredit, in the public mind, the final action of the courts, or else to intimidate the courts themselves."

Now this, if true would be a pretty serious offense by any lawyer. But the Justice Department continues to voice full confidence in Rover. It hasn't said what it will do next. Nobody doubts more will be heard of this row before the Jan. 10 trial date rolls around.

New Manager For Nat'l Carbon Plant

W. G. Hennessey, who is to be placed in charge of the local National Carbon plant is shown to the left above, along with A. W. Bryan who is presently in charge of the factory. Bryan is being transferred to Cleveland, Ohio where he will be assigned to the Production and Distribution Control Department of National Carbon. (Reflector Photo by Alvin Taylor).

A. W. Bryan, who has been in charge of the local National Carbon Plant for the past six and one-half years, is to be transferred to the Production and Distribution Control Department at the company headquarters in Cleveland, Ohio.

Bryan will be replaced at the local plant by W. G. Hennessey, who comes to Greenville from the Red Oak, Iowa National Carbon plant where he has served as assistant manager.

The announcement of the change was made today by V. D. Klein-smith, who is district works manager for the Edgewater plant in Cleveland and for National Carbon plants in Charlotte, Asheville and Greenville.

Bryan was placed in charge of the local plant early in 1948 when plastic consumer products were being manufactured at the factory. Shortly after he came the plant began the manufacture of Eveready pen light batteries which is its product at the present time.

He has been with National Carbon for 18 and one half years and came to Greenville from the Bennington, Vermont factory. Bryan was born in England and brought up in New Hampshire. He graduated from the University of New Hampshire in 1936 with a Bachelor of Science degree in chemistry.

Bryan has been active in civic affairs during the six and one-half years he has lived in Greenville. He attended Tri-State College at Angola, Indiana and the University of Michigan where he obtained a chemical engineering degree.

Hennessey has been assigned to the Freedom, Ohio, Cleveland, Winston-Salem and St. Louis, Missouri National Carbon plants.

The 43-year-old newcomer is married and has one daughter five years old. The Hennesseys are members of the Congregational Church. Klein-smith said the change is to take place on November 15.

Talking Steadily Since Monday

OLDHAM England (AP)—Kevin Sheehan claimed a world record for nonstop oratory today. He has been talking continuously since Monday morning.

Rambling hoarsely toward his goal of 127 hours, the 25-year-old Irish babbler was already well beyond what he said was the previous mark of 36 hours—"held by some Russian."

Sheehan is holding forth in a local ballroom.

He reported to newsmen: "I am suffering from headaches and swollen glands but I am going to carry on until my record is unbeatable."

His topic: "The Uncanny Things of Life."

THAT'S THE PLACE

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—A skeleton disappeared and the Grant Technical College anatomy class hunted everywhere for it—and found a prankster had hidden it in a closet.

SAVING IN CAKE

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—One birthday cake can do triple duty at the Edward Loos home near Lincoln.

All three of the Loos children—6-year-old David, 4-year-old Linda Jo, and infant Paul Andrew—were born the same day.

Arturo Missed Special Concert

NEW YORK (AP)—Arturo Toscanini's orchestra, the former NBC Symphony, gave a concert here last night, without the Maestro—in fact, with the conductor's stand conspicuously empty.

After Toscanini announced his retirement and returned to his native Italy, NBC disbanded the group.

But last night they assembled at Carnegie Hall and won long and loud applause from a large crowd. Concert master Daniel Gulliet gave the men their cues.

Toscanini had been invited to return and conduct the concert, but his son Walter cabled from Italy that the Maestro was "firm in his resolution to remain in retirement."

Talking Mynah Is Now A Barker

DETROIT Mich. (AP)—"Front-page Blackie," the talking Mynah bird, called a news conference to announce his new job—"barker" at the Belle Isle children's zoo.

Blackie earned his front-page tag when he was kidnapped for one day. But he refused to give newsmen one syllable of his 50-word vocabulary to explain his disappearance.

Mountbatten Is First Sea Lord

LONDON (AP)—Adm. Earl Mountbatten, commander in chief of Allied forces in the Mediterranean, today was named Britain's first sea lord.

The appointment, the highest in the British navy, gave the handsome 54-year-old admiral the post his German-born father, Prince Louis of Battenberg, was forced to give up under public pressure in the first World War.

Prince Louis played a major role in building up the British navy after he became first sea lord in 1912. He resigned two months after war broke out because his German name and ancestry was causing the government embarrassment.

Young Mountbatten, then a 15-year-old naval cadet, pledged himself to restore the family to an honored place in naval annals. His lifelong ambition was to become first sea lord.

Call Parley Over Docks Walkout

LONDON (AP)—The government called waterfront employees and dock union leaders together today in a fresh attempt to end the stubborn dock strike which has paralyzed England's major seaports.

As the walkout, now involving 43,000 stevedores, went into its 25th day there were warnings that its effect on Britain's export trade is becoming calamitous.

"Goods for the Christmas trade overseas have been held up so long that major export sales are being lost," declared John Burghart, an official of the National Union of Manufacturers.

Elkan Simons, president of the British Jewellers Assn., said the stoppage is causing irreparable harm to Britain's export trade in jewelry, gift wares and fancy goods.

The British post office said many Christmas packages for distant points now cannot be delivered until after the holiday.

Re-Indicted On Treason Counts

BALTIMORE (AP)—John David Provo, once a clerk in a San Francisco bank, has been reindicted on seven charges of "overt acts" of treason in World War II by collaboration with the Japanese.

A onetime Army staff sergeant, Provo was convicted of treason in New York in February 1953 and sentenced to life. Then a federal appeals court upset the conviction on the grounds that he should have been tried in Maryland, because he was a prisoner at Ft. Meade at the time of his original indictment.

Somebody Took Peek Into Future

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—It was open house at Clark County Jail and darned if everybody didn't want to get in—or out—of the act. Deputies said yesterday they found three cell bars partially sawed and uncovered a nest of hacksaw blades and crude weapons.

Some 1,000 residents toured the jail Tuesday night as part of a campaign to push a $495,000 bond issue for a new jail. Deputies decided yesterday to shake down the inmates to make sure nothing was smuggled in.

Long Dancing Tour For Two Champions

By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Tonight at Pomona College in nearby Claremont, Marge and Gower Champion begin a tour that will send them dancing to 71 cities across the land.

The personable pair is starring in "Three for Tonight" with singer Harry Belafonte, actor Don Beddoe and 20 Walter Schumann singers. The show is presented by the show business phenomenon Paul Gregory. If it is as successful as his "Don Juan in Hell," "John Brown's Body" and "Caine Mutiny Court Martial," "Three for Tonight" may be lighting up the marquee much longer than its present 90-day schedule.

I visited the Champs at their Hollywood hillside home as they were winding up details for the tour. They were conferring with their musical director, Dick Prior, and writer Bob Wells, who dreamed up the show with Gower.

Marge was enthusing about a new balm she had discovered to soothe charley horses and other dancer's ailments. She is taking a large quantity along.

"I'll need it," she sighed. "I'm-

LONDON (AP)—Four adult grandchildren of the late millionaire shipowner Sir James Caird learned yesterday they will inherit 250,000 pounds ($700,000) apiece—when they are 50 years old. The oldest is now 31.

The will of Sir James, who was 90 when he died, specified that his estate be divided equally among his granddaughter and three grandsons.

Millions, In Coin Sent By Convoy

DENVER (AP)—Mrs. Alma Schneider, director of the U.S. Mint here, announced about 2½ million dollars worth of silver coins were shipped out yesterday in a heavily guarded truck convoy.

agime 77 different "tands in 90 performances!"

"It's not so much the dancing that might wear us down," added Gower. "It's the traveling. We have work-harder in light clubs, doing two shows a night. We've been on the road as much as four months at a crack, with no time off."

"But those dates were never less than two-week stands," Marge remarked. "We've got to stay in shape. We have no understudies to go on for us."

She knocked on the nearest wood, adding: "Fortunately, we have only missed performances twice in our years together. Once Gower gave me a shiner without even touching me. The tip of his cane nipped my eye and broke a small blood vessel. My eye puffed up in a matter of minutes. That was the night Tony DeMarco stood up and said, 'Gower, get her off the floor! Look at her eye!'"

"I couldn't go on the next night because of the puffed eye. After that I had a shiner, but makeup could cover it."

"One other time in rehearsal, I slipped and hit Gower's chin, driving a tooth through his lip. He couldn't perform that night."

Lanza Has Faith In Greatness Of Voice

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD.—What kind of a man is Mario Lanza?

He is a person of lusty appetites, and not just for food. He works hard, plays hard and sings each song as though it might be his last. His conversation is as forceful as his singing, full of broad Italian gestures and punched across with earthy expressions.

In his capacity for enjoyment of human pleasures, he is much like Enrico Caruso, who has been his idol for most of his 33 years.

Having been reared in poverty, Mario enjoys the luxuries that his brilliant voice has provided. He lives in a West Los Angeles mansion that rambles almost endlessly down terrace after terrace. There are seven TV sets, a pond with hundreds of goldfish, a swimming pool that would float a cabin cruiser, a formal garden and a tennis court. He rents the place for a reported $2,500 a month from silent film star Norman Kerry.

Royalties from phonograph records, which reach astronomical heights, allow the nonworking Lanza to live so lavishly.

On the court is a regulation sparring ring, and it is Mario's pride and joy. When he showed me around, he hopped up on the canvas and peppered the punching bag with the skill of a pro. He spoke glowingly of his new friend, Rocky Marciano, who has promised to train in the Lanza ring when he returns here. When Mario goes to Palm Springs, he has the ring collapsed and sent to join him at the desert resort.

Mario is intensely loyal. He will recognize someone who gave him a helping hand a decade ago, even though he hadn't seen the person since.

He has a robust sense of humor. His house backs onto the 13th green of the Los Angeles Country Club. When a golfer gets ready for troubles he has suffered in the past. I met him when he first came to Hollywood, and he is much the same as he was then — like a highspirited race horse eager to show the world what he could do.

It could be that the Mario Lanza story is really just beginning.

Give Medicine Cabinet A Good Clean-Up Job

AP Newsfeatures

Why not use your medicine chest for just that purpose—medicine? If you clutter it with bobby pins, hair brushes and combs you risk having your medicines contaminated as well as cluttering up the chest.

If the medicine chest is properly organized the youngster will have no reason to open it. It should be kept clean and orderly at all times. Here are some suggestions to help you in planning a more efficient and safe cabinet:

1. Check the cabinet for all items that may be put elsewhere. Remove tooth paste, combs, tooth brushes, makeup and beauty lotions to containers and shelves.
2. Throw away all medicines which can't be identified or have served their purpose. Many drugs evaporate and become more concentrated as time goes on, making them dangerous for consumption.

3. Move vitamin pills to kitchen cupboards or refrigerator (if they are to be kept for some time.) They will be harder in the kitchen, too, since most vitamins are taken with or after meals.
4. All poisonous medicines should be marked and identified clearly. A pin through the cork of the bottle is a good reminder, especially for children.
5. Wipe each bottle and container with a sudsy cloth so that dust and dirt imbedded in bottle drippings may not contaminate the medicine.
6. Sort out the contents, putting aspirin and other sedatives in one place, adhesive tapes in another, disinfectants on another shelf (if you have room.)
7. If rusty razor blades have a way of accumulating in the chest, throw them away. You can make a container for the blades by using an old mayonnaise jar with a slit through the lid.
8. Instead of piling bottles on top of each other, put in extra shelves in your chest if they are needed. If shelves must still be tightly packed, you can save spills by getting shelf guards for them. These fences are available in translucent plastic and can be affixed to either glass or metal shelves.

When all contents of the cabinet have been removed for rearranging, remove shelves and soak them

Atomic Victims Said Recovering

TOKYO (AP)—The newspaper Asahi said today about half the 23 crewmen of the Lucky Dragon, the Japanese fishing boat showered by radioactive particles in the Pacific, may be released from hospital soon and the rest by the end of the year.

Asahi said doctors treating the 22 survivors report nearly all have been able to take light exercise recently. A 23rd crewman died last month.

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—A reliable source said today Premier Sir John Kotelawala is asking his Cabinet to approve signing a friendship pact with the United States. The Ceylonese Foreign Ministry, however, denied any knowledge of such a treaty.

'Fair Trial' Demands In The Lattimore Case

By ED CREAGH
 WASHINGTON (AP)—One of the things Americans pride themselves on is that every man accused of a crime is entitled to a fair trial. This works two ways, of course. Just as the trial must be fair to the accused, it must give the accusers — the government — a fair shake too.

Almost always when a cry of bias is raised it comes from the defendant. But now such a cry comes from the government by way of the Justice Department.

The government claims it can't get a fair trial of Owen J. Lattimore, the long-controversial Far Eastern specialist because the trial judge, Luther W. Youngdahl, is biased in Lattimore's favor.

And U.S. Dist. Judge Youngdahl, refusing to take himself out of the case, charges Justice Department lawyers with trying to intimidate the courts.

It's a strikingly unusual situation. Here is how it came about:

Late in 1952 a federal grand jury indicted Lattimore on charges of lying to a Senate subcommittee. There were seven counts in the indictment. The key charge was that Lattimore lied when he said he never had been "a sympathizer and promoter of communism and Communist interests."

Lattimore's lawyers went to court — asked that the indictment be thrown out. Their petition went before Youngdahl, a Republican governor of Minnesota until he went on the federal bench and Youngdahl threw out four of the seven counts. He held the key charge and three others were too vague to have any legal meaning.

But he went beyond that. He also voiced "serious doubt" in his written opinion, whether the three remaining charges would stand up in court either.

The government protested. It asked the U.S. Court of Appeals to put back the four counts knocked out by Youngdahl. The higher court did put back two of them. But it upheld Youngdahl 8-1 on the main issue and ruled the "sympathizer and promoter" charge must not go to a jury.

So the government, in effect, started over again. It laid its case before a new grand jury. And early this month Lattimore was indicted for a second time. This time that word "sympathizer" was left out. Instead Lattimore was accused of falsely denying he had been a "follower" of the Communist line and a "promoter of Communist interests."

But the government wasn't through yet. The federal prosecutor, U.S. Atty. Leo A. Rover, formally asked Youngdahl to remove himself as the judge in Lattimore's forthcoming trial.

Rover said he wasn't questioning Youngdahl's honor or integrity. But he declared Youngdahl has "a fixed, personal bias and prejudice" in favor of Lattimore. And he said this is proved by the language Youngdahl used in ruling on the original indictment.

Under the law, all Youngdahl had to do at this point — without going into the 64 legal words involved — was either get out of the case or dismiss the government's protest. He didn't have to give reasons. In fact, as Youngdahl himself noted, the law doesn't let him pass on the truth or falsity of such charges as Rover made.

But Youngdahl in announcing he would stay on the bench in the trial, chose to blister the hide of Rover and — by implication — of the whole Justice Department. He said those who challenged him acted "irresponsibly and recklessly." And he declared:

"... I cannot escape from the conclusion that the purpose of the affidavit is to discredit, in the public mind, the final action of the courts, or else to intimidate the courts themselves."

Now this, if true would be a pretty serious offense by any lawyer. But the Justice Department continues to voice full confidence in Rover. It hasn't said what it will do next. Nobody doubts more will be heard of this row before the Jan. 10 trial date rolls around.

Bryan will be replaced at the local plant by W. G. Hennessey, who comes to Greenville from the Red Oak, Iowa National Carbon plant where he has served as assistant manager.

The announcement of the change was made today by V. D. Kleinsmith, who is district works manager for the Edgewater plant in Cleveland and for National Carbon plants in Charlotte, Asheville and Greenville.

Bryan was placed in charge of the local plant early in 1948 when plastic consumer products were being manufactured at the factory. Shortly after he came the plant began the manufacture of Eveready pen light batteries which is its product at the present time.

He has been with National Carbon for 18 and one-half years and came to Greenville from the Bennington, Vermont factory. Bryan was born in England and brought up in New Hampshire. He graduated from the University of New Hampshire in 1936 with a Bachelor of Science degree in chemistry.

Bryan has been active in civic affairs during the six and one-half years he has lived in Greenville. He has been vice-chairman of the Pitt County Red Cross, vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, and a Rotary Club director. He is a member of the Episcopal Church. Bryan is married and has two daughters.

Hennessey comes to the Greenville plant after 19 years service with National Carbon Company. At present he is assistant manager of the Red Oak, Iowa plant which manufactures battery packs and hearing

Talking Steadily Since Monday

OLDHAM ENGLAND (AP)—Kevin Sheehan claimed a world record for nonstop oratory today. He has been talking continuously since Monday morning.

Rambling hoarsely toward his goal of 127 hours, the 25-year-old Irish hatter was already well beyond what he said was the previous mark of 36 hours—"held by some Russian."

Sheehan is holding forth in a local ballroom.

He appealed to newsmen: "I am suffering from headaches and swollen glands but I am going to carry on until my record is unbeatable."

His topic: "The Uncanny Things of Life."

Arturo Missed Special Concert

NEW YORK (AP)—Arturo Toscanini's orchestra, the former NBC Symphony, gave a concert here last night without the Maestro—in fact, with the conductor's stand conspicuously empty.

After Toscanini announced his retirement and returned to his native Italy, NBC disbanded the group.

But last night they assembled at Carnegie Hall and won long and loud applause from a large crowd. Concert master Daniel Gulliet gave the men their cues.

Toscanini had been invited to return and conduct the concert, but his son Walter cabled from Italy that the Maestro was "firm in his resolution to remain in retirement."

Talking Mynah Is Now A Barker

DETROIT Mich. (AP)—"Front-page Blackie", the talking Mynah bird, called a news conference to announce his new job — "barker" at the Belle Isle children's zoo.

Blackie earned his front-page tag when he was kidnapped for one day. But he refused to give newsmen one syllable of his 50-word vocabulary to explain his disappearance.

Honeymoon Tour Still Going On

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Keith and Joan McDonald who started a honeymoon trip in March 1952 from Christ Church, New Zealand, by motorcycle, arrived here yesterday aboard a ferry from Cuba.

The McDonalds said they have covered 55,000 miles in 40 countries on six continents. They plan to continue to Miami, thence to New York, Montreal, Alaska and back to New Zealand.

Mountbatten Is First Sea Lord

LONDON (AP)—Adm. Earl Mountbatten, commander in chief of Allied forces in the Mediterranean, today was named Britain's first sea lord.

The appointment, the highest in the British navy, gave the handsome 54-year-old admiral the post his German-born father, Prince Louis of Battenberg, was forced to give up under public pressure in the first World War.

Prince Louis played a major role in building up the British navy after he became first sea lord in 1912. He resigned two months after war broke out because his German name and ancestry was causing the government embarrassment.

Young Mountbatten, then a 15-year-old naval cadet, pledged himself to restore the family to an honored place in naval annals. His lifelong ambition was to become first sea lord.

Call Parley Over Docks Walkout

LONDON (AP)—The government called waterfront employees and dock union leaders together today in a fresh attempt to end the stubborn dock strike which has paralyzed Britain's major seaports.

As the walkout, now involving 43,000 stevedores, went into its 25th day there were warnings that its effect on Britain's export trade is becoming calamitous.

"Goods for the Christmas trade overseas have been held up so long that major export sales are being lost," declared John Burghart, an official of the National Union of Manufacturers.

Elkan Simons, president of the British Jewellers Assn., said the stoppage is causing irreparable harm to Britain's export trade in jewelry, gift wares and fancy goods.

The British post office said many Christmas packages for distant points now cannot be delivered until after the holiday.

Re-Indicted On Treason Counts

BALTIMORE (AP)—John David Provo, once a clerk in a San Francisco bank, has been reindicted on seven charges of "overt acts" of treason in World War II by collaboration with the Japanese.

An ex-time Army staff sergeant, Provo was convicted of treason in New York in February 1953 and sentenced to life. Then a federal appeals court upset the conviction on the grounds that he should have been tried in Maryland, because he was a prisoner at Ft. Meade at the time of his original indictment.

Somebody Took Peek Into Future

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—It was open house at Clark County Jail and darning if everybody didn't want to get in—or out—of the act. Deputies said yesterday they found three cell bars partially sawed and uncovered a nest of hacksaw blades and crude weapons.

Some 1,000 residents toured the jail Tuesday night as part of a campaign to push a $495,000 bond issue for a new jail. Deputies decided yesterday to shake down the inmates to make sure nothing was smuggled in.

Long Dancing Tour For Two Champions

By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Tonight at Pomona College in nearby Claremont, Marge and Gower Champion begin a tour that will send them dancing to 77 cities across the land.

The personable pair is starring in "Three for Tonight" with singer Harry Belafonte, actor Don Beddoe and 20 Walter Schumann singers. The show is presented by the show business phenomenon Paul Gregory. If it is as successful as his "Don Juan in Hell," "John Brown's Body" and "Caine Mutiny Court Martial," "Three for Tonight" may be lighting up the marquees much longer than its present 90-day schedule.

I visited the Champs at their Hollywood hillside home as they were winding up details for the tour. They were conferring with their musical director, Dick Priber, and writer Bob Wells, who dreamed up the show with Gower.

Marge was enthusing about a new ball she had discovered to soothe chafed feet and other dancer's ailments. She is taking a large quantity along.

"I'll need it," she sighed. "Imagine 77 different lands in 90 performances!"

"It's not so much the dancing that might wear us down," added Gower. "It's the traveling. We have work-harder-in-eight-clubs, doing two shows a night. We've been on the road as much as four months at a crack, with no time off."

"But those dates were never less than two-week stands," Marge remarked. "We've got to stay in shape. We have no understudies to go on for us."

She knocked on the nearest wood, adding: "Fortunately, we have only missed performances twice in our years together. Once Gower gave me a shiner without even touching me. The tip of his cane nipped my eye and broke a small blood vessel. My eye puffed up in a matter of minutes. That was the night Tony DeMarco stood up and said, 'Gower, get her off the floor! Look at her eye!'"

"I couldn't go on the next night because of the puffed eye. After that I had a shiner, but makeup could cover it."

"One other time in rehearsal, I slipped and hit Gower's chin, driving a tooth through his lip. He couldn't perform that night."

Inherit Fortunes When They're 50

LONDON (AP)—Four adult grandchildren of the late millionaire shipowner Sir James Caird learned yesterday they will inherit 250,000 pounds ($700,000) apiece — when they are 50 years old. The oldest is now 31.

The will of Sir James, who was 90 when he died, specified that his estate be divided equally among his granddaughter and three grandsons.

Millions In Coin Sent By Convoy

DENVER (AP)—Mrs. Alma Schneider, director of the U.S. Mint here, announced about 2½ million dollars worth of silver coins were shipped out yesterday in a heavily guarded truck convoy.

The destination was secret because "we certainly don't want to take any chances on hijacking," she said.

More than half the food stores in the United States now handle frozen foods.

Lanza Has Faith In Greatness Of Voice

By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD, (AP)—What kind of man is Mario Lanza?
 He is a person of lusty appetites, and not just for food. He works hard, plays hard, and sings each song as though it might be his last. His conversation is as forceful as his singing, full of broad Italian gestures, and punched across with earthy expressions.
 In his capacity for enjoyment of human pleasures, he is much like Enrico Caruso, who has been his idol for most of his 33 years.
 Having been reared in poverty, Mario enjoys the luxuries that his brilliant voice has provided. He lives in a West Los Angeles mansion that rambles almost endlessly down terrace after terrace. There are seven TV sets, a pond with hundreds of goldfish, a swimming pool that would float a cabin cruiser, a formal garden and a tennis court. He rents the place for a reported $2,500 a month from silent film star Norman Kerry.
 Royalties from phonograph records, which reach astronomical heights, allow the nonworking Lanza to live so lavishly.
 On the court is a regulation sparring ring, and it is Mario's pride and joy. When he showed me around, he hopped up on the canvas and peppered the punching bag with the skill of a pro. He spoke glowingly of his new friend, Rocky Marciano, who has promised to train in the Lanza ring when he returns here. When Mario goes to Palm Springs, he has the ring collapsed and sent to join him at the desert resort.
 Mario is intensely loyal. He will recognize someone who gave him a helping hand a decade ago, even though he hadn't seen the person since.
 He has a robust sense of humor. His house backs onto the 13th green of the Los Angeles Country Club. When a golfer gets ready for troubles he has suffered in the past. I met him when he first came to Hollywood, and he is much the same as he was then — like a highspirited race horse eager to show the world what he could do.

 It could be that the Mario Lanza story is really just beginning.

Give Medicine Cabinet A Good Clean-Up Job

AP Newsfeatures

Why not use your medicine chest for just that purpose—medicine? If you clutter it with bobby pins, hair brushes and combs you risk having your medicines contaminated as well as cluttering up the chest.
 If the medicine chest is properly organized the youngster will have no reason to open it. It should be kept clean and orderly at all times. Here are some suggestions to help you in planning a more efficient and safe cabinet:
 1. Check the cabinet for all items that may be put elsewhere. Remove tooth paste, combs, tooth brushes, makeup and beauty lotions to containers and shelves.
 2. Throw away all medicines which can't be identified or have served their purpose. Many drugs evaporate and become more concentrated as time goes on, making them dangerous for consumption.

 3. Move vitamin pills to kitchen cupboards or refrigerator (if they are to be kept for some time.) They will be handier in the kitchen, too, since most vitamins are taken with or after meals.
 4. All poisonous medicines should be marked and identified clearly. A pin through the cork of the bottle is a good reminder, especially for children.
 5. Wipe each bottle and container with a sudsy cloth so that dust and dirt imbedded in bottle drippings may not contaminate the medicine.
 6. Sort out the contents, putting aspirin and other sedatives in one place, adhesive tapes in another, disinfectants on another shelf (if you have room.)
 7. If rusty razor blades have a way of accumulating in the chest, throw them away. You can make a container for the blades by using an old mayonnaise jar with a slit through the lid.
 8. Instead of piling bottles on top of each other, put in extra shelves in your chest if they are needed. If shelves must still be tightly packed, you can save spills by getting shelf guards for them. These fences are available in translucent plastic and can be affixed to either glass or metal shelves.
 When all contents of the cabinet have been removed for rearranging, remove shelves and soak them in warm soapy water to remove any hardened smears. Clean up time is a good time to check on all first-aid supplies and standard remedies which may be running low. More than half of English words are derived from Latin or from Greek through Latin.

Atomic Victims Said Recovering

TOKYO (AP)—The newspaper Asahi said today about half the 22 crewmen of the Lucky Dragon, the Japanese fishing boat showered by radioactive particles in the Pacific, may be released from hospital soon and the rest by the end of the year.
 Asahi said doctors treating the 22 survivors report nearly all have been able to take light exercise recently. A 23rd crewman died last month.

Dewey Queries Eligibility Of Harriman As Governor

By JAMES DEVLIN
NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey says it is up to "the courts to decide" if Averell Harriman is ineligible to serve as governor because he voted two years ago in a Washington, D.C., presidential primary.

Primary, in June 1952, was "a real election of delegates to a national presidential convention."
"The rules are clear," he said. "No man can be a resident of both the District of Columbia and his home state. He can vote in one or the other. He can be a resident in one or the other—but not both."

Harriman, Democratic-Liberal party candidate for governor against Sen. Irving M. Ives in the Nov. 2 election, contends the vote in no way impaired the legality of his New York residence or his right to hold the office.

Republicans Have Uphill Struggle In Southwest, Rocky Mountain States

By JACK BELL.
DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower's popularity and campaign effectiveness are matched against apparent economic discontent in what now looks like an uphill Republican battle for Senate and House seats in eight Southwestern and Rocky Mountain states.

Unless intensified appeals by Eisenhower for a Republican Congress change voter sentiment in the few days before the Nov. 2 election, Democrats could gain two Senate and four House seats in these states Eisenhower carried handily two years ago.

The eight states are Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho and Montana. All except Utah and Arizona are electing Senators this year, with four Democratic and two GOP seats at stake.

Twelve Democratic and nine Republican House seats are being contested as are five governorships held by Republicans and one by a Democrat. Democrats now are reported leading in all but one of the governor contests.

Eisenhower evidently retains most of the strength he demonstrated in this area in 1952 when he swept all eight states by a margin of 520,000 votes over his Democratic opponent, Adlai E. Stevenson.

Republicans in all of these states have been leaning heavily on the demonstrated Eisenhower popularity.

But it remains doubtful whether the continued high-tide prestige of the President—which isn't disputed seriously by the Democrats—can offset what seems on the surface to be a Democratic trend.

Some Republican politicians say privately they are convinced they could have pulled the situation out of the fire if Eisenhower had done even a limited measure of the kind of on-the-spot personal campaigning that former President Harry S. Truman did in 1948.

Eisenhower's eight-week work and play vacation in Denver gave Colorado Republicans a lift to the point where they are talking hopefully of grabbing off a Senate seat being vacated by Democrat Edwin C. Johnson, who is running for governor.

The President's recent visit to Montana brought out about 30,000 persons. Many probably traveled more than 500 miles to look at him and hear what was billed as a non-political speech.

Republicans everywhere in the area have been drumming the refrain that Eisenhower needs a Republican Congress to complete his program. They are defending that program vigorously although they are beset by what even they concede is dissatisfaction among farmers.

While there have been charges about "coddling Communists" in the bitter Montana senatorial battle, the Reds-in-government issue nowhere seems to be dominant. Republican Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin seems to be pretty much the forgotten man of the campaign in this area, although he evidently has strong support in such states as Montana.

Democrats on the whole have candidates with better known names than the Republicans, and many of the races are revolving around personalities and local issues.

Without openly forecasting an economic downturn, Democrats in all the states have been talking about what they claim is a somewhat lower level of business, employment and farm income this year than last. As one politician put it in talking to this reporter: "Everybody seems to be getting along pretty well but thinks he ought to be doing better."

But President Eisenhower and Secretary of Labor Mitchell this week asserted that 1954 has been "the most prosperous peacetime year in our history."

Although Republican candidates obviously can draw from a reservoir of good will toward the administration for the end of the shooting in Korea, nowhere does foreign policy seem to be a major issue. Candidates on both sides of the fence report they get no reaction to their mention of foreign affairs.

Generally voters appear apathetic. At this reading, five days before the election, here is the consensus of professional political opinion in the light states:

Oklahoma—Democratic Sen. Robert S. Kerr given a substantial advantage over Republican Fred M. Mock in the senatorial race. Democrats likely to retain 5-1 edge in House delegation. Democrat Raymond Gary reported leading Republican Reuben K. Sparks for governor.

New Mexico—Democratic Sen. Clinton P. Anderson credited with lead over Republican Gov. Edward L. Mechem in Senate race. Democratic Representatives Antonio M. Fernandez and John J. Dempsey regarded as almost certain of reelection. Democrat John F. Simms Jr. given margin over Republican Alvin Stockton in governor's race.

Arizona — Democratic former Sen. Ernest W. McFarland listed as leading Republican Gov. Howard Pyle in governor's race. Republican Rep. John J. Rhodes expected to keep his House seat, and Stewart Udall, Democrat, credited with long lead in contest to fill the 2nd District seat from which Democrat Rep. Harold A. Patten is retiring.

Colorado—Democrat former Rep. John A. Carroll in close race with Republican Gordon Allot for the Senate seat being vacated by Johnson, with Carroll given edge in newspaper polls. Johnson apparently outdistancing Republican Donald G. Brotman in governor's race. Republicans might lose House seat held by Rep. J. Edgar Cheno- weth to Democrat Alva B. Adams Jr., son of the late senator. Otherwise, the present 2-2 division of the House delegation between the parties may remain unchanged.

Wyoming — Democratic former Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney contends there is a Democratic groundswell in the state and the signs seem to bear out his belief that he is leading Republican Rep. William H. Harrison in the Senate race. Republican E. Keith Thomson in spirited race with Democrat Sam Tully for Harrison's House seat a gain the Democrats could chalk up if the trend actually is going their way. Republican Milward Simpson generally given the edge in governor's race, but Democrats report surprising strength for their candidate, William (Scotty) Jack.

Utah—Democrats could gain two House seats, because of resignation of Rep. Douglas R. Stringfellow from GOP ticket after his admission he told false stories about his war record. Stringfellow had been considered a cinch for reelection, but politicians think reelection may be toward Democrat

Walter K. Granger. Former Rep. Mrs. Reva Beck Bosone given edge to defeat Republican Rep. William A. Dawson in the state's other district.

Idaho—Democratic former Sen. Glen Taylor bidding strongly to upset Republican Sen. Henry C. Dwarshak in Senate race. Democratic Rep. Mrs. Gracie Pfost and Republican Rep. Hamer H. Budge rated as likely winners in two House contests. Democrat Clark Hamilton credited with edge over Republican Robert E. Smylie in governor's race.

Montana—Republican Rep. Wesley A. D'Ewart vigorously challenging Democratic Sen. James E. Murray, but Murray regarded as having an edge. Democrat Rep. Lee Metcalf given lead for reelection in 1st District, but Republican Orvin Fjare being pushed closely by Democrat Leroy H. Anderson for D'Ewart's seat.

Paine's Marble Bust In Cellar

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Tom Paine's marble bust has been given the brushoff, but the dust is still there.

The marble likeness of the early American patriot continues to sit in the dank cellar of historic old Independence Hall.

Overruling the Philadelphia Art Commission, which voted on Sept. 22 to end a 78-year-old controversy by bringing the bust out of storage in the National Park Service yesterday decided that it would be "undesirable" to put the statue on display.

The decision was made, said M. O. Anderson, superintendent of Independence National Historical Park, "after careful review of the National Park Service policy."

The bust, completed in 1876, is ineligible for Independence Hall proper because only art created in the period from 1776 to 1787 is permitted there, Anderson said.

The chances that a U.S. child will have polio are about 1 in 500.

Siamese Twins Celebrate Third Birthday Today

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Nature winked at the little Galyon boys and they came back smiling.

For them, life is a cumbersome shift of taking turns walking backward because Donnie and Ronnie are Siamese twins, joined at the abdomen. Somebody has to sleep on the bottom when they get tucked in at night.

But the boys were laughing today as they celebrated their third birthday with an ice cream and cake party for the family. Cowboy shirts and cap guns brought grins to faces as clean and bright as milk.

"They're just plain boys," their mother, Mrs. Wesley Galyon, says. The blond, blue-eyed brothers started to walk last March and carry themselves to the television set. Mrs. Galyon said:

They raise an awful fuss if it's time to eat and a pet program is on. They have wonderful appetites and eat just about everything. Physicians said last year surgery would mean death for one of the boys because they share vital internal organs. Not enough vital organs for both have been detected yet to make separation advisable. But their father said, "We'll never separate them. We don't even talk about it any more."

This birthday Ronnie is the taller but it was Donnie who once was the big one. Donnie is the "wriggliest" too, Mrs. Galyon said. "So we have to put him on the bottom when they sleep at night. Otherwise he squirms around and they fall out of bed."

Mrs. Galyon recalls: "Everything in their development happened at once. Donnie was first in everything, but it didn't take Ronnie long to catch up. In fact, Ronnie can say sentences now. Donnie's still at the single word stage."

And so the balance of nature swings back and forth between the bright-eyed brothers, first favoring one and then the other.

ASLEEP ON HIS FEET

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Flagpole stander Richard (Dixie) Blander, queried on how he slept during his "world record" 9-day, 21-hour sojourn 50 feet up on an 18-inch platform, stoically replied: "Like a stork. I slept on one foot."

Claims Last Five Days Decisive

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Vice President Nixon says the election will be won or lost in the last five days before Tuesday's balloting, with a great number of undecided voters determining the outcome.

Speaking generally in a San Diego news conference last night, Nixon said "we (Republicans) were running behind" but "with the election now in the home stretch, the Republicans are coming up fast and the Democrats are falling back."

Speaking specifically about California, he said he believes his home state will "continue its trend toward good government" by electing Republican Gov. Goodwin J. Knight and his whole state ticket. He urged the re-election of Sen. Kuchel (R-Calif.).

Nixon flew here from San Diego last night. Today he goes into another whirlwind of campaigning for GOP congressmen.

LONDON (AP)—An authoritative naval publication says the fighting power of the U.S. Navy equals the combined strength of the other major navies of the world. The Americans also appear to be taking greater scientific strides than any other navy.

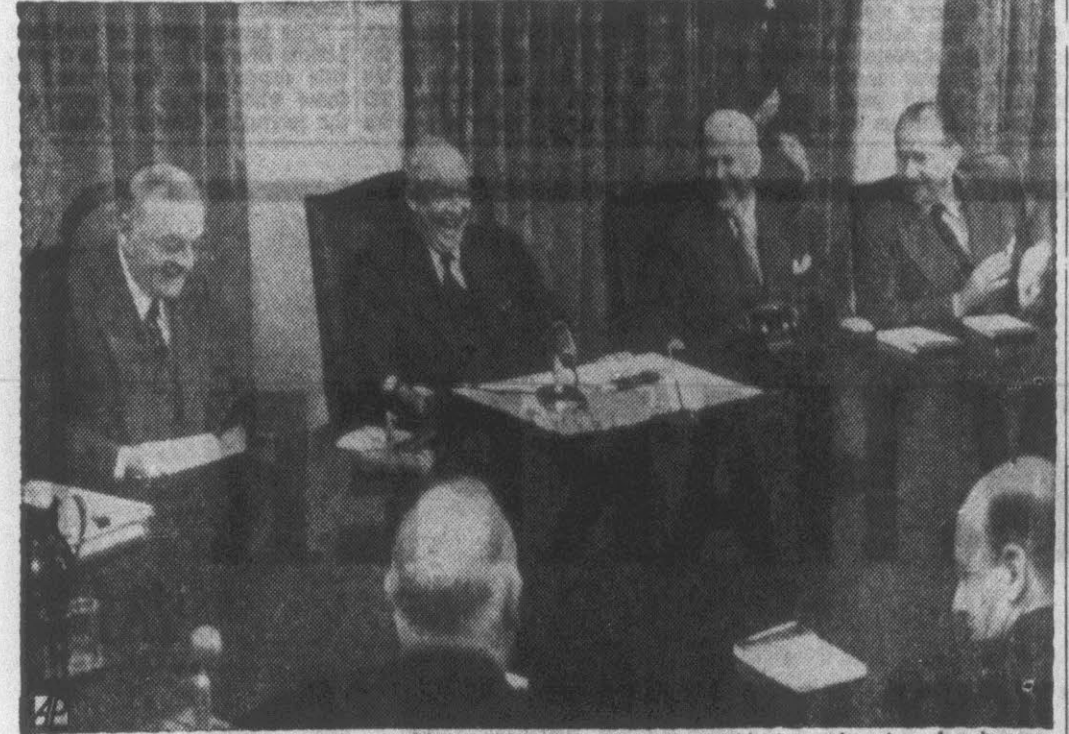

"Jane's Fighting Ships," a standard reference work on the world's navies, said in its latest edition yesterday the U.S. Navy of 5,000 vessels is the largest peacetime fleet ever maintained by any nation. Russia topped the United States only in numbers of submarines, Jane's said, but added that the Soviet Union is building up "substantial forces" of cruisers, destroyers and sub-

RUB-A-DUB-DUB—Roy Bergo, 50, of Monroe, Wash., puts along slowly after launching at Edmonds, Wash., his baby bathtub with pontoons in which he planned to sail from this Puget Sound town, near Seattle, to Alaska. Minus charts and navigational aids, Bergo said he'll "rely on my own judgment," an old niner tube for a life preserver, some extra jugs of gasoline, a bottle of coffee and some candy. He planned to eat and sleep ashore enroute, but after a few hours, Bergo called it quits. (AP Wirephoto).

Bowl Angle Seen In Saturday Clash

End Edwards To Be Out Of GHS Line-Up Friday

Greenville's Phantoms will shoot for their fourth win of the 1954 campaign Friday night at ECC stadium against the once-defeated Selma Wildcats without the full-time services of end Harold Edwards. Edwards, who is a strong all-conference candidate, is suffering from a painfully bruised hip which he hurt in the New Bern game. Edwards might play some but Coach Bill Kittrell said it is doubtful if he will play at all. The Greenville mentor had rather save his 6-2 end for conference duty. Coach Kittrell worked his backs yesterday afternoon on play timing while Assistant Coach Marshall Tatum drilled the linemen on blocking. After the separated workout Coach Kittrell directed the squad in a short scrimmage. In the scrimmage Bob Howell did most of the quarterbacking with Jerry Drum relieving Howell for some of the pivot duty. Billy Sermons, James Speight, and Mitchell Johnson turned in some good runs for the offensive team. The line had Harris Northrop at Edwards' end and Billy Johnson at the other end. Tommy Smith and Howard King were at the tackles, and Pete West and Gene Hudson were the guards. Larry Powell was the center. Northrop will play Edwards' end Friday night. The versatile senior started off the season at end, was shifted to guard, then moved back to end. Northrop is one of the lightest players on the team but has held down a starting job all year long. The Selma team is a highly-rated team. So far this year they have won five out of six games and will add much prestige to their standing with a win over the Phantoms. The G-men are not overlooking the Selma team but Coach Kittrell wants a chance to play some of his reserves some. The game, which is a non-conference affair, is scheduled for eight o'clock in ECC stadium Friday night. Plenty of tickets are available and they will be sold at the gate.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

As the Maryland Terps got ready to pack their gear against this weekend and head south for an important game in the Atlantic Coast Conference with South Carolina, the battle took on an Orange Bowl twist.

If the Gamecocks win, their chances for the big New Year's Day classic in Miami will be greatly improved.

But nobody is overlooking the possibility that Duke may represent the ACC in the Orange Bowl.

For Maryland, the game will be last road trip this season and a big weekend for Maryland students. It is the annual "Football Weekend" for the student body. Classes are excused early Friday to allow over 500 students along with the 125-piece band to travel to Columbia.

Maryland wants to get back on the winners deck after their Miami loss which accompanies a 12-7 loss to the UCLA Bruins, also undefeated and their tie with Wake Forest.

It will be the 11th game of a series which started in 1936. The Terps hold the edge, six games to four. Last year Maryland won 24-6.

Most of the South Carolina squad is in top physical condition. Leon Cunningham, All Atlantic Coast center for South Carolina last year, will run into his chief rival, John Irvine, who took runner-up honors in 1953.

The Gamecocks' All America guard candidate, Frank Mincevich, will be looking across at another guard with a good chance for national recognition, John Bowersox. Both gained ACC honors last year. Offensive and defensive passing was stressed at Durham yesterday as Duke ran through a closed practice session in preparation for Saturday's game with Georgia Tech.

All players saw action on both offense and defense.

The Wake Forest squad went through a long offensive workout with the varsity scrimmaging a mixed squad of freshmen and reserves.

Coach Tom Rogers shifted his first string lineup, moving Cliff Brookshire in at right tackle in place of Rocky Littleton, ailing. In the backfield three players, Bobby Frederick to halfback; Dick Daniels, to halfback, and Nick Maravic to fullback were shifted.

The Deacons meet Clemson at Charlotte this Saturday. Don King directed one unit and Charlie Bussey another, as the Clemson squad went through a rugged scrimmage on offense.

High school football in the state is entering into its final stages. Majority of the schedules are down to the final two or three games.

With the end in sight, the talk of prep bowl and all-star games is gaining in fever. Before long, the mythical elevens will be selected and honors of all sorts bestowed.

Of all the state's all-star and charity football games, the Shrine Bowl in Charlotte is the biggest and most honorary. Greenville's James Speight is a probable and deserving participant. There are several others in the Northeastern Conference, Preacher Parker of Kinston, Jerry McGee of Elizabeth City, George Slaughter of New Bern, Buddy Potter of Kinston, to name a few backs.

Harold Edwards of Greenville, Larry Dixon of Washington, Bobby Darling of Elizabeth City, to cite a few linemen.

Last year, 20,000 screaming fans witnessed the 13-12 win by North Carolina over the Palmetto stars. The Tar Heels have won nine out of the 17 contests compared with four losses and four ties.

The proceeds of the game, which amounted to $100,000 last year, go to the Shriners' Hospital of Crippled Children in Greenville, S. C. The game is the largest financier of the hospital.

The games have had many stars. Each year the Lee Kirby award is presented to the game's most outstanding player. Durham's Bobby Honeycutt, speedy halfback, was last year's winner. Other standouts in that game were Elizabeth City's Dickie Darling, who place-kicked what turned out to be the deciding point and Willis Setzer of Lenoir, who is currently at UNC, recovered a fumble to set up the winning score. Ashok's Dickie Newsome also played well for the North Carolinians.

In the 1952 classic, probably the most thrilling in the history of the bowl, South Carolina, paced by Greenville's (S.C.) Red Carter, scored three touchdowns in the final period for a 23-19 triumph, their first since 1946. Wilmington's Sonny Jurgenson, now at Duke, engineered a drive that carried the distance of the field in four plays and he went over himself to score only to have a penalty invalidate the tally.

Dong King, now a Clemson star, put the South Carolinians into the thick of the 1951 game late in the fourth period with a 98 yard TD romp to knot the count at 6-6, but a few plays later King was caught behind the SC goal line for a safety by Wilmington's Julian Rogers. He gave the Tar Heels an 8-6 victory.

In 1950, the Tar Heels, featuring such outstanding performers as Charlotte's Larry Parker, Goldsboro's Bobby Frederick, Roxboro's Connie Gravitte, Salisbury's Jerry Barger, Burlington's Bill Kirkman and Wilmington's Charlie Niven posted an easy 47-7 triumph.

The game originated in 1937. Tom Davis of Wilson and Pete Goddard of Rocky Mount led the Tar Heels to a 0-0 deadlock with a highly-favored Sandpaper eleven.

The first of Asheville's famed Justice Boys, Bill, was outstanding as North Carolina won the 38 battle, 19-0. Hugh (Shot) Cox of Camden and Jim Elvington of Lake View paced SC to a 12-0 win in '39.

Buddy Lupper, now coaching at Fayetteville, and Bob Sideman of Charlotte led the Tar Heels in 1940 as they gained a 19-13 win. The 1941 affair ended in a scoreless tie, but Choo Choo Justice was the man behind the throttle in 1942 as N.C. scored a 33-9 victory. In 1943, another Asheville native, Billy Britz, took the opening kickoff 90 yards for a TD to lead the way for a 20-7 N.C. win.

But it actually doesn't matter which team loses, because hundreds of crippled children win no matter what the outcome. The classic has become a media through which health can be restored. It will continue for many, many years.

Little League Baseball Meet Slated Tonight

Warren Carroll, local recreation director, announced today that a business meeting for those interested in Little League Baseball is to be held in the Recreation Building at Elm Street Park tonight at 8 o'clock.

"The officers for the North State and Tar Heel Leagues are to be elected for next summer's program," Carroll said. "This must be done at this time to comply with a new national ruling or these two Greenville leagues will lose their high classification."

"The future success of the Little League Baseball program in Greenville depends on the interest of those who support the program," the recreation director declared.

Boone Seeks Fill-Ins For Big Injury List; Long Workout

By BRUCE PHILLIPS Reflector Sports Writer

East Carolina's Pirates sought fill-ins for a bevy of injured in yesterday's long, hard workout. Coach Jack Boone ordered a lengthy offensive scrimmage in which the offense was given a good going over, both the ground and air attack.

Tom Allsbrook and Bobby Perry continued to alternate at right half in place of sidelined Emo Boado. It is very doubtful if Boado will see any action against the Mountaineers this Saturday night in Boone. Charles Smith, 225-pound sophomore tackle, reported back to practice yesterday. Gaiter Cline has been working out in light gear this week, but he definitely won't see action Saturday. Cline suffered a laceration along the shinbone in the Catawba game and hasn't been able to do much since.

The varsity units ran against an aggressive freshman squad. Coach Earl Smith directed the frosh in the defensive mannerisms of Appalachian. Coach Jim Mallory set up the varsity lines. J.D. Bradford, regular left end is still hampered by a kidney disorder. Bill Helms is expected to see a lot of action at that slot this game. David Lee still favors a bad knee. George Rice, who has been running behind Lee, is plagued by a bum ankle. Larry Rhodes is all set to go at right end although his replacement, Ray Pennington, is having trouble with an old shoulder injury.

Co-captain Willie Holland is in good shape and is ready for full time duty at his tackle spot. Ray Overton, number 2 man there, is not quite over an ankle injury. His play will be limited this Saturday. Don Burton is physically fit and eager to get started at left guard. George Tucker, left tackle, is also okay. Louis Hallow has the pivot spot well-fortified. The big Goldsboro snapper-back says he wants to win this one more than any game in his grid career.

American League Divided As To Future Of A's

NEW YORK (AP)—The American League became a house divided today as the club owners met for the second time in two weeks to decide the fate of their white elephant, the Philadelphia Athletics.

Ostensibly the meeting was called by League President Will Harridge to vote on acceptance or disapproval of the Athletics' sale to an eight-man Philadelphia syndicate.

It was learned, however, that Harridge probably first would call for a vote on whether to shift the beleaguered franchise to Kansas City.

On Oct. 12 in Chicago, the league approved the sale to Arnold Johnson, Chicago financier, and voted to move the franchise to Kansas City, contingent upon Johnson completing his $3,375,000 deal with Roy Mack, executive vice president of the Athletics.

Since then, however, the house of Mack, Connie and his two sons, Roy and Earle, signed paper for the sale of their stock to a Philadelphia syndicate in a deal involving approximately four million dollars. Both the Macks and the Philadelphia group are awaiting league approval.

Six of the eight clubs must approve a new owner. Any three can block approval.

As the meeting got under way, it was known that at least two clubs favored the sale of the A's to the Philadelphia group and two wanted the Philadelphia franchise moved to Kansas City.

Warmup Fights For Prince In Boxing Course

LONDON (AP)—Maybe Buckingham Palace figures Prince Charles needs a couple of warmup fights before they toss him in there with that featherweight champion from America.

Anyway, a scheduled boxing bout at the palace today between the prince, who is almost 6, and Stephen Rutter, who already is, has been canceled.

"I had a call from the palace to tell me that Stephen would not be needed," said the Yank battler's father, Peter, who is second secretary at the U.S. Embassy. "I don't know why."

The Duke of Edinburgh, polo-playing husband of Queen Elizabeth II and father of the prince, reportedly decided the future king should learn to box.

Rookies Of The Year by Pap'

Wally Moon was in a difficult spot when the curtain was run up on the 1954 major league baseball season. Moon was brought up by the St. Louis Cardinals after he had batted 307 for Rochester in 1953. Wally so impressed Manager Stanky that the scrappy little manager agreed to the sale of Enos Slaughter to the Yankees.

It was difficult enough for a rookie to make his bow in the opening game of the season and doubly tough for a youngster like Moon who was sent to right field where Slaughter had held forth long enough to become a great favorite with the St. Louis fans. If Wally didn't win their hearts the first time he stepped to the plate he at least gave them something interesting to think about when he poled out a home run. By mid-May Manager Stanky was touting Moon for "rookie of the year" honors. Wally batted .303 and wound up the season as he had started it—with a home run.

Selecting the American League "rookie of the year" wasn't a very difficult task. Bob Grim, of the Yankees, was away out in front when he wound up winning 20 games. A native of Brooklyn, Grim passed up the Dodgers to sign with the Yankees because he was promised a chance to start pitching as soon as he finished high school, mid-season of 1948. He went over to the Polo Grounds for a try-out but the Giants didn't even bother to look him over. Grim wasn't even on the Yankee roster when spring training started but was retained because Manager Casey Stengel insisted that he was ready for the big show.

Sooners Arriving Early For Game

DENVER (AP)—Oklahoma's No. 2-ranked Sooners fly into Denver today to sniff the chilly, thin mile-high air before their important Big Seven football game Saturday at Boulder with Colorado's unranked Buffaloes.

The talk around town is that the Oklahomans are not taking any chances with the ever-dangerous Buffs and want to become accustomed to the climate before the kickoff.

But Oklahoma Coach Bud Wilkinson discounts that interpretation of the Sooners' early arrival.

"Our going to Colorado early has nothing to do with the altitude bug-aboo," Wilkinson said before leaving Norman. "The better team will win whether the game is played at Boulder or Norman."

Eppes To Play Here On Friday

The footballers of Eppes High School will play Goldsboro's Dillard High team here Friday night at 8:00 o'clock.

Originally scheduled to be played in Goldsboro, arrangements have been changed to bring the game to Greenville.

Babe Taking Golf Clubs To Eisenhowers' Dinner

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—The mighty Babe, caught here by an unexpected White House invitation minus her $10,000 wardrobe, had a dinner date with Ike and the missus today.

But Mrs. Babe Didrikson Zaharias boarded an American Airlines plane last night with a hurriedly-bought bag of clothes and a claim she had no idea why President Eisenhower asked her to Washington.

The Associated Press' woman athlete of the half century added: "I'm taking along my golf clubs, though."

Speculation here is that the President is either to give her an award or just wants to play a round of golf with his friend, the Babe. Mrs. Zaharias' courageous comeback in golf after an operation for cancer was one of 1953's most heart warming stories. Last April she helped the President open a drive against cancer. She withdrew from the Women's

TANGLES WITH TRAIN.—William McCarty, 17, of Burbank, Calif., sits stunned in his car a few minutes after it was nearly demolished by a freight train in Los Angeles. Old Fire Truck Renovated, Back In Service Again

One of the local fire department's oldest pieces of equipment has been returned from the Manufacturer's where it was recently rebuilt, Fire Chief George Gardner has announced.

The truck was sent off last month to the Mack Motor Truck Company factory in Charlotte, the chief said. He noted that the entire truck was torn down and inspected. The motor was rebuilt and other equipment overhauled, including the brakes, pump and steering mechanism.

Gardner declared that it was the first overhaul the truck has had since it was purchased in 1928 and said he expects it to be in good shape for a number of years to come.

"It was badly in need of an overhaul job when they sent it up to Charlotte," the chief continued. The fire department now has six trucks and one pumper trailer in operation, according to the chief. One heavy duty pumper, an aerial truck, a high pressure fog truck and a small truck used for county fires and burning off lots are maintained at the main fire station.

A second high pressure fog truck and a pumper are housed at the West End Sub-Station. In addition a pumper trailer is kept in reserve at the main station.

Gardner said that all the equipment is in good condition except the heavy duty pumper at the sub-station and the truck used for county calls.

The heavy-duty pumper was purchased in 1922, he explained. Since that time the manufacturer has gone out of business and it is impossible to obtain parts for it. The chief said the truck will be operated as long as it holds up and then will be taken out of service.

The truck used for county calls was rebuilt about two years ago but it is not dependable, the chief stated. It was out of service for some time a few months ago while parts were obtained from the factory to place it back in service.

Gardner said that truck had answered practically every call at the local station since it was purchased in 1933.

Real Speak-Easy For Moscovites

MOSCOW (AP)—A basement speak-easy is doing a roaring business with the full connivance of local authorities in Moscow's Kirovsky district, according to the newspaper Soviet Trade. The paper printed the full address of the underground establishment.

Such speak-easies are appearing here and there throughout the city since many "drink and run" stalls were closed because of the current anticool campaign.

Soviet Trade said the speak-easy was formerly a good public dining room. A few months ago, however, it "closed for repairs" and when it reopened took to selling only liquor. Soviet Trade said this was because "the heads of the trust for running public houses in the Kirovsky region wanted to make more profits."

ALPINE ONION PIE

Real he-man eating is yours when you help yourself to Alpine Onion Pie.

We've come to think of pie as a dessert, but it has many delicious possibilities as a hearty main dish item. Here, for instance, is an Alpine Onion Pie which is really top notch eating. The filling is an expertly-blended combination of chopped onion, salt, dry mustard, paprika and shredded American cheese.

Serve Alpine Onion Pie with a crisp, green salad and tall glasses of cold milk for a tantalizing treat that the men in your family will applaud.

Holiday time features pies of many kinds. A flaky, tender pie crust is an important ingredient in any pie. Achieving perfect crust is really not as difficult as you might think. Start with a good standard recipe that you can rely on. Handle the dough as little as possible. And here's the way to make a perfectly fluted edge on your pie shell. Press the dough between the thumb and forefinger of one hand with the index finger of the other hand. Easy? Of course it is, and with a little practice, you'll be an expert.

Winter days call for tangy, richly-flavored foods to satisfy those ravenous appetites which come with vigorous cold weather sports. You'll check off Alpine Onion Pie as real he-man fare.

Because it's economical, you'll want to use enriched flour in all your home baking and cooking. At no extra cost to you, it adds three essential B-vitamins and valuable food iron to your family's diet. When you purchase your baked goods, be sure that your baker, too, uses only enriched flour in his products.

ALPINE ONION PIE

Pasty
1 1/2 cups sifted enriched flour
1/2 cup shortening
3 to 5 tablespoons cold water

Sift together flour and salt. Cut or rub in shortening. Sprinkle with water, mixing lightly until dough begins to stick together. Wrap remaining paper and let stand while preparing Cheese-Onion Filling. Roll out half of dough to make top crust. Arrange over filling. Trim edge and flute. Bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) 35 minutes.

Cheese-Onion Filling
1 1/2 cups chopped onion
1/2 cup paprika
1 cup shredded American cheese (1/2 pound)
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard

Combine onion, salt, mustard and paprika. Mix well. Spread over bottom crust of pie. Sprinkle shredded cheese over onion mixture. Arrange top crust on pie. Makes 1 8-inch pie.

Recreation Conference In Wilmington Sunday

CHAPEL HILL — The North Carolina Recreation Society will hold its tenth annual conference and anniversary celebration in Wilmington October 31 through November 3, Program Chairman Harold D. Meyer of the University of North Carolina Department of Sociology and Anthropology announced today.

Held for recreation leaders in all fields, the conference is sponsored jointly by the North Carolina Recreation Society, the N.C. Recreation Commission, and the Wilmington Parks and Recreation Department.

A meeting of the Commission and an informal social for all delegates will open the four-day session. The first business session will be held at 10 Monday morning, November 1, when officers will be elected; and the first general session will open Monday afternoon when Society president Wilbur Fay, Director of Recreation at Kinston, will speak.

An open session of the Commission will be included in the second general session, held the same day. Tuesday's events will include a third general session, when the past presidents of the organization will speak, and the first divisional meetings. Delegates will divide into municipal, industrial, hospital, church, and armed forces groups for the latter. In the afternoon, a second divisional meeting will be followed by an address by Milton Gabrielson, Director of the Recreation Department, New York University, who will speak on "Problems of American Recreation."

Reports from the five divisional chairmen will follow a second business meeting Wednesday morning. The sixth and last general session, featuring personnel standards and training interests, will be held Wednesday afternoon.

Mergers Coming Under Close Gov't Scrutiny

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Mergers which spotlighted business this year and captured the attention of stock traders are coming under close government scrutiny. The aim of the study is to see whether the public gains or loses by them.

Leaders of big business argue that the public is the gainer. They say that competition between large corporations is keener because they have the braw with which to fight harder and must fight hard or else fall of their own weight. They contend that making a bigger corporation out of two or more small, weaker ones results in more competition and that the public gains thereby.

The argument on the other side is that when a few big corporations dominate an industry the little fellows die off one by one. And the public has very little choice when it goes out to buy products or services.

Since World War II more than 7,000 mergers or other forms of one company acquiring another's business have been recorded. This year has seen a spate of big ones. The Federal Trade Commission says it is studying 200 of these business realignments, chiefly in the field of autos, metals, chemicals, baking, dairy, paper and textiles.

'Poster Battle' For Mexico City

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The anti-Communists have an edge in the battle of the posters here.

The battle, between anti-Communist posters and the leftist who tear them down, is fought over the Guatemalan question. Hundreds of posters, purporting to depict Guatemalan atrocities in the time of the Red-tinged government there, have been appearing daily. By the following morning they may be mutilated and illegible. But the next day fresh ones are up.

By now the Communists have abandoned efforts to tear them all down. Occasionally they will scrawl "Yanqui propaganda" in blue pencil on the posters, but it is a weak effort. The posters now go up and stay up until they are covered by a new crop.

Split Personality For Jumpers In Current Vogue

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

The jumper, most popular youthful style of the season, has developed a split personality.

By day it goes to math or marketing. By night it knows its way around the moonlight-and-mambo circuit. Addition or subtraction of a blouse and a change of accessories does the trick.

The nice thing is that a jumper is one of the easiest things in the world to make and an ideal project for a beginning seamstress.

Local sewing center experts suggest making a basic dark gray flannel jumper from a commercial pattern, and accessorizing it with several sets of sleeves which button in. One might be a leg o' mutton sleeve of crisp organdie, another a tailored sleeve in cotton shirting, with a French cuff. If the moths have got at your favorite cashmere sweater, you can cut off the sleeves, bind the armholes, and button them into your jumper.

The sleeves may be made from scratch, with use of any pattern you like or may be cut from old blouses. In any case you bind the armhole and sew a row of buttons around the top in harmonizing or contrasting color.

Button loops around the arm-hole of the jumper make an attractive scallop-trim when worn without a sleeve. To make these, first buy cording to match your jumper. It is possible to cover cord in the fabric of the jumper, but easier to buy either cotton cording, silk cord or narrow silk braid in a color to match the jumper.

To make the buttonhole loops, start with the underarm seam and mark armhole to indicate space between each loop. Basic cord to unfinished edge of armhole on right side of bodice, so that loops point toward the body. When placing loops, clip the cord partly through at point where it is stitched to fabric, at bottom of each loop so that cord will bend more easily. Then, with the right side of your facing against the right side of the jumper, stitch the facing to the armhole so that the edge of each loop is secured. When you turn your facing to the inside, the loops will turn to lie along the outer edge of the armhole. Then blindstitch binding in place on inside of armhole.

Negro Air Force General Named

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has named the first Negro Air Force general. He is Benjamin Olive Davis Jr. a 41-year-old native of Washington now serving as director of operations and training of the Far East Air Forces.

Davis who is the son of Brig. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis, a retired Army officer, was promoted from the rank of colonel to the temporary rank of brigadier general under the President's directive. His father was the first man of his race to become an Army general.

A 1936 graduate of West Point, the new Air Force general flew 60 combat missions as a World War II pilot serving in Italy as commander of the 332nd Fighter Group.

Born in Washington Dec. 18, 1912, he was graduated from high school in Cleveland and attended Western Reserve University and the University of Chicago before going to West Point.

Since then he has held a number of high positions including the post of commander of the Lockbourne Army Air Base in Columbus, Ohio.

His citations include the Legion of Merit, the Silver Star, the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with four oak leaf clusters. He has held the permanent rank of colonel since July 27, 1950.

Saving And Loan Officers Named At Meeting Here

The First District meeting of the North Carolina Savings and Loan League was held October 22, at the Country Club with Mrs. Mary D. Seymour, presiding.

The all-day meeting of 40 members representing associations of the extreme eastern part of North Carolina was highlighted by the election of R. C. Barnhart of Tarboro and T. W. Heath, Jr. of Kinston to head the First District Savings and Loan organization this year.

R. C. Barnhart, secretary and treasurer of the Tarboro Savings & Loan Association was elected to the presidency of the District and T. W. Heath, Jr., executive vice-president of the Mutual Building & Loan Association of Kinston was elected to serve as vice president. Mrs. Ruth Gibbs, assistant secretary and treasurer of Farmville Building & Loan Association of Farmville takes office as the new secretary and treasurer. The meeting which got under way at 10 a.m. was climaxed by a speech by L. P. Walker, a representative of the Stevens-Davis Company of Chicago which operates in the field of Human Relations.

In the afternoon, G. C. Cochrane, executive assistant, Federal Home Loan Bank of Greensboro, led the discussion. Other guests among the league officials and directors - some who were on the program - were Charles A. Hosteller, chief deputy commissioner, Department of Insurance, Raleigh; Dink James, director National Savings & Loan League; J. V. Brittle, district governor, American Savings & Loan Institute, Kinston; W. C. York, deputy commissioner of the State Department; E. D. Kuykendall, Jr., executive vice-president of the North Carolina Savings & Loan League.

They Left Town Without Moving

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Here, one way to "leave town."

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold J. Volkmer petitioned to have their residence located at the edge of the village of Waverly, Neb., de-annexed from the village. They contended the property was an isolated extension of the city limits and that they were paying village taxes without deriving village benefits. The Waverly Board of Trustees and Lancaster District Judge Harry R. Ankeny approved.

The Mayas, like the ancient Greeks, had a philosophy of "nothing in excess."

Some Basis For Old Superstition

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—That old superstition about not going under a ladder might have some practical applications. Ask Henry Jackson or Jesse Culver.

Jackson fell two stories while painting a house. Culver his employer, standing on the ground, was struck by Jackson and the ladder.

Culver told police two girls on a bicycle rode under the ladder Jackson was using and jarred it loose. Both men were treated at a hospital for minor injuries.

Better Trap For Mice Is Needed

CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—Bigger and better mouse traps was the plea at a recent Governor's Council meeting.

State Fish and Game Department officials told the executive group "mouse damage" totalled $249,96 at their experimental apple orchard at Guilford. The mice eat bark at the base of the trees causing the saplings to die, officials explained.

"Mouse guards" will be used in future experimental projects, the F&G man said.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market advanced today in the early afternoon with airlines strong.

The airlines, backed by excellent earnings forecasts, posted gains from fractions to between 1 and 2 points. Elsewhere in the list, the advance went to around 2 points. Losses sometimes were in the 1 to 2 point range.

Trading was moderate, as it has been all week, and hit the neighborhood of two million shares. Yesterday's total was 2,030,000 shares with the market slightly lower on balance.

Higher than the airlines were the steels, utilities, oils, and the railroads. Chemicals were mostly lower. The remainder of the major divisions were mixed to steady.

Advancing stocks included Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, Royal Dutch Petroleum, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Goodrich, Douglas Aircraft, Rayonier, Sylvania Electric, Eastern Air Lines, United Air Lines, and American Airlines.

Going down were such issues as Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Lockheed, American Home Products, Allied Chemical, and Kennecott Copper.

Accident Prevention On Farms Is Program Topic

The first farm accident prevention program for milk producers in North Carolina was presented last night at the bi-monthly meeting of Pitt County dairymen.

The program, held at the local Health Department, was presented by Dr. Charles Cameron, chief of the accident prevention section of the State Board of Health, and his assistant Ed Seagle.

W. M. Pate, head of the environmental hygiene section of the local Health Department, said this is the first time a program of this type has been given for milk producers in this state, and "possibly in the nation." Pate, with County Farm Agent S. C. Winchester, was in charge of last night's program.

He explained the local Health Department has been emphasizing accident prevention in recent months, and it was decided to experiment with the farm accident prevention program for the local milk producers at their regular meeting this month. The State Board of Health was asked to cooperate in the plan, with the result Dr. Cameron and Seagle presented the program last night. Included in their presentation was the showing of slides demonstrating accident hazards on dairy farms.

Pate said the state officers seemed pleased at the reaction of the milk producers to this new program and thought it was "very well received" by the approximately 20 dairymen present.

Non-Farm Employment Rises 16,000 In State

RALEIGH — Nonagricultural employment increased 16,000 in North Carolina during September, passing the one-million mark for the first time since last December, the State Department of Labor reported today.

The State's non-farm job total jumped from 986,500 in August to 1,003,100 in September, said Labor Department statistician C.H. Pritchard. The increase represented a gain of 1.7 per cent over the August figure. However, the September employment level was still two per cent below the job figure of September, 1953, Pritchard stated.

Hourly earnings of the State's 444,800 workers in manufacturing industries held firm at $1.25, which was the same as in August and was two cents higher than a year ago. The workweek in manufacturing industries increased fractionally during September, rising to an average of 38.9 hours. However, the increase was too small to have a very material effect upon weekly earnings, which averaged $48.63 during the month.

Nonmanufacturing employment increased 1.6 per cent in September, rising to a total of 588,300 due largely to the beginning of the usual fall rise in merchandising activities. Job increases were general throughout the various retail trade categories. Employment in contract construction registered a slight decline.

In the State's huge textile and clothing manufacturing group of industries modest job gains were reported in every line. This was also the case in the furniture industry.

Employment in the tobacco industry jumped to 36,600, holding firm at 12,800 in cigarette factories, but showing a seasonal rise of 29 per cent in tobacco stemmeries and redrying plants.

Child Injured In Street Accident

A small girl was slightly injured when she ran into the side of a truck on Fifth Street Tuesday afternoon.

The injured child was identified by the police department as Betty Lou Harris, age seven, of 201 Jarvis Street. She received a cut on the forehead, a cut on the left arm, and abrasions of the left cheek.

The child was treated at Medical Arts Clinic and released.

Investigating officer W. M. Carr said the child apparently ran out from between two parked cars on Fifth Street near the intersection of Harding Street and into the side of a truck operated by James Williams, Negro, of 1309 Fairfax Street. The vehicle is owned by Dunn Building Supply Company.

The driver of the truck told officers that he saw the child run out but did not know she was hit until an officer stopped him.

The accident was termed unavoidable by police and no charges were placed.

Decides Not To Quit Under Fire

MARSHALL, C. (AP) — Zeno H. Ponder yesterday withdrew his resignation as chairman of the Madison County Board of Elections.

Ponder declared he would not "quit under fire."

He referred to developments since his announcement that he would resign, namely a Republican charge that Democrats were buying absentee ballots in Madison.

He said he was withdrawing his resignation "to prevent any misunderstanding or any suspicion that there was any connection whatsoever between the charges and my resignation."

He explained that he had accepted appointment to the board with the definite understanding that he would serve only through the primary elections and resign before the general elections.

Rhee Calls For Finance Inquiry

SEOUL (AP)—President Syngman Rhee today ordered his Cabinet to make "a thorough investigation" of alleged improper procedures involving South Korean government financial officials.

A National Assembly investigating committee reported last Tuesday that former Prime Minister and Finance Minister Paik Too Chin and other financial officials used "favoritism and pressure" to obtain improper loans for their friends.

Paik now is economic coordinator handling the U.S. aid program. He called the report "a political intrigue schemed by a group of ambitious men."

Attended Recent Chapel Hill Meet

Mrs. Cora Powell, secretary for the local Merchants Association, has returned to Greenville after attending a three-day meeting of merchant association and credit bureau secretaries at Chapel Hill this week.

In charge of the "seminar in sales" was the Associated Credit Bureau of America. Mrs. Powell said the program was designed "to teach the presentation of the diversified services of merchant associations and credit bureaus to the members and also to prospective members."

Slogan for the conference was "Two for one in twelve," meaning two members for one in 12 months, the secretary explained.

Instructors at the seminar included John Curry and Como Cherry of the Atlanta, Ga. credit bureau, and W. G. Slattery of the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina.

Mrs. Powell said items of service stressed by these men were self-service application for credit, a credit bulletin, "Pay Your Bills" stickers for statements, and fact-built reports.

Sheriff Doubtful Arson Involved

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said today it is "doubtful" that a fire which destroyed a home just off the Stokes Highway Friday night was intentionally set.

The sheriff's department had been investigating the blaze which gutted the home of Mrs. Josephine Boyd because her son, Maury, had said he heard someone "stomp" around the outside of the house just before the fire broke out.

"It's sort of doubtful now that there was arson involved," the sheriff stated today.

He said the sheriff's department had been unable to find any evidence so far that would point to arson.

Tyson declared that the investigation of the fire is continuing, however.

The blaze quickly destroyed the house and drove its occupants out in night clothes. They were only able to save a few personal belongings and a refrigerator which Mrs. Boyd pulled outside the burning house alone.

Since the fire a number of donations for the homeless family have been received. The fire left Mrs. Boyd, two boys, age six and 16, and a daughter, 13, destitute.

Donations of clothing or other articles may be taken to Mrs. J. P. Moss at 306 Eastern Street.

Once He Tore Up Streetcar Track

By L. S. CHAKALES
ATHENS (AP) — At 3 a.m. one day a year ago, a handsome, well-dressed man and a gang of laborers watched a streetcar pound down its track in the heart of Athens, shattering the quiet of the night.

"Now!" cried the leader. The gang jumped into the middle of the street, hooked up torches and started cutting the streetcar tracks along Patissia Boulevard.

The man who led this raid on the privately owned streetcar tracks was Constantine Karamanlis, minister of public works. He did the job when he grew tired of the traction company's delays in removing the tracks. He wanted to widen the street for vehicular traffic and substitute trolley buses.

He got away with it; the traction company never followed up a threat to sue.

Karamanlis, a man of action, is perhaps causing more changes in the face of Athens than any man since the days of Pericles, 2,350 years ago.

The 46-year-old minister has 482 public works projects under way, including dams, irrigation, roads, bridges and ports.

"I get the money, somehow," he says.

He talked the Cabinet into putting a 3 per cent levy on all rentals in the capital area, Attica, to get under way the Yliki water project to supplement Athens' water supply. Out of this same money he is putting in the first modern sewage system.

The Piraeus port organization had been running huge deficits every year. Karamanlis took it over, and this year, he says, it produced $1,730,000 in revenue. This is being used for extensive improvements, including sewers, streets, bridges and harbor improvements in Piraeus.

Search Resumed

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Coast Guard and Navy ships and planes resumed their search today for two missing Navy planes—each with three men aboard—which disappeared 18 miles southeast of Virginia Beach.

The planes apparently crashed at sea while engaged in anti-submarine practice Tuesday night.

A day-long search of the area yesterday turned up an uninflated life raft from one of the planes, debris and an oil slick.

Both aircraft were Grumman Guardians attached to an anti-submarine squadron at the Norfolk Naval Air Station. They had taken off at 8 p.m. and had fuel enough to remain aloft until 11:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Five-Year-Olds Bring Home Bird

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A pair of 5-year-old boys, armed with a broken toy shotgun, crowded happily over their hunting trophy—a live but dejected pheasant peering from an improvised coop.

The hunters Jerry Lee Peck and Brian Maynard, surprised their parents when they brought home the bird clutched in Jerry's arms.

The boys stoutly insist, "We shot it with our gun." Neither family has been able to solve the riddle.
