'Books and Stuff'

By Dr. Ed Hirschberg

We got all nostalgic this week, reading about the edition of "The Youth's Companion" that has just been issued, under the editorship of Lovell Thompson and three former Companion editors, M.A. DeWolfe Howe, Arthur Stanwood Pier and Harford Powell . . .

In case you don't remember—and many of our more youthful readers won't—"The Youth's Companion" was a magazine devoted to children—not about children but for them, consisting of stories and articles by some of the best writers of the 19th and early 20th centuries. . . . We have only a vague remembrance of "The Youth's Companion" and its counterpart, "St. Nicholas Magazine"—both of them folded the first in 1929, the second some ten years later, after they had been in publication for a century or so. . . .

Like the reviewer in the New York Times, we feel uneasy about the lack of even one good children's magazine these days. . . . There's still "Boy's Life," of course, but its highly specialized, and actually pale in comparison to what "The Youth's Companion" and "St. Nicholas" once were. . . . Here's what Henry Steele Commager says about what is lacking in the way we treat our children: one indication of our attitude being, of course, that we have allowed "The Youth's Companion" and "St. Nick" to fall because of lack of financial support:

Writes Commager: "We pamper our children, to be sure; we indulge them; we say that we live for them. But much of this is on the surface. We spend billions on roads, but cannot afford bicycle paths (and consequently we kill thousands of children every year with our automobiles—our note). We spend billions on real estate developments but have little room for parks and squares and space for the young to play. Our houses cost more than ever and have all the gadgets, but they have no room for children, no nurseries or attics or verandas, no mystery and no privacy. . . . Maybe we sh. . . didn't be so smug, hey? . . .

And while were on children, we want to let you know about a very interesting and important series of articles in the October edition of the "Ladies Home Journal" that we think anybody with children ought to read. . . . Called "Educating Our Children—Do we know what we want?" These articles approach the problems besetting our public schools—and there are plenty, as we all know—in a very intelligent and objective way. . . . There's an account of a round table discussion participated in by such educational luminaries as A. Whitney Griswold, President of Yale, Francis B. Case, Chairman of the Department of Education at the University of Chicago and Leale H. Hohman, Professor of Neuro-Psychiatry at Duke, among others. . . .

Some of the fine suggestions made in these articles: Better treatment, more honor and more recognition for our teachers; more participation in school affairs by parents; grouping children in classes and activities that suit them best. . . . And in answer to this question, sent to parents only: "Should every public-school pupil in the first eight grades be promoted, or should pupils who have failed most of their subjects, be kept back, 75% of those answering felt failing pupils should be kept back, 16% that they should be promoted, 5% were undecided. . . . What do you think?" . . .

Some book news—at last: Of interest to Southerners, "They Called Him Stonewall," the latest—and some say best—life of General T.J. Jackson, better known as Stonewall, by Burke Davis. . . . And the current Literary Guild selection, "The View from Pompey's Head," by Hamilton Basso, is about a Southerner, displaced in New York, who comes back to his home town, a small Southern community—soon to be reviewed in this column. . . .

And for music-loving Southerners, Columbia Records announces the release of a new album called "The Confederacy, 1861-1865," presenting "the songs, the sounds, the impassioned spirit of America's fiery legend." . . . Some of the selections are "General Lee's Grand March," "All Quiet Along the Potomac Tonight," and "The Yellow Rose of Texas." . . . Sounds inspiring—everything was included in the announcement but the price. . . .

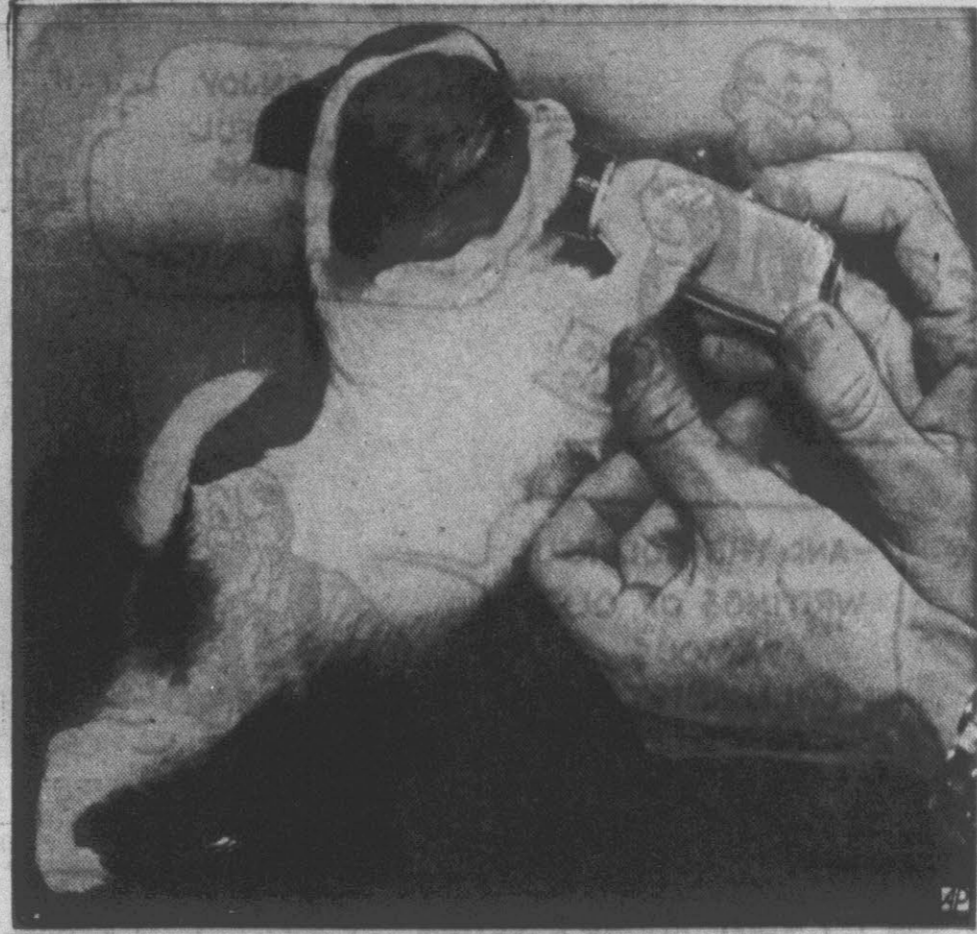

On the local scene: We dropped in for a chat with the new head librarian at the Sheppard Memorial Library, Miss Elizabeth Cope-land, and very charming we found her, too. . . . She's making great plans for the 50th anniversary of Greenville's public library, coming in November. . . . She also told us something we didn't know: No matter how long you've had a book out, the library won't fine you more than $1.00 for an adult book, 50 cents for a child's. . . . Conscience, where is thy sting? Shall we return that old library copy of "Oliver Twist" that's been hanging around on our bookshelf for the last eighteen years? . . .

Today's reviewer is Laura Crede, a student at East Carolina who writes herself and actually sells some of the things she writes. . . . And today's book is another recent novel about—guess what?—the South. . . .

A LONG TIME SINCE MORNING, by Leon Odell Griffith. New York: Random House, 1954.

The author of A LONG TIME SINCE MORNING is a young southern journalist and a native of north-west Florida. The novel initially impresses his reader as a denunciation of the prejudice and bigotry of a small Florida town and its inhabitants. In the end the reader wonders which side the author is on, if he is on a side at all. . . .

Hugh Lee was a stranger and an outcast to the town of Creighton. He was tolerated because he had married a Creighton woman and, with the aid of his father-in-law, become owner of the town's weekly paper, THE ADVOCATE. But NEGGY'S NOT NEGLECTED—Nergy, 14-ounce, 4-week-old papillon, is fed goat's milk from miniature bottle, held by its owner, Mrs. Rex Cromwell of Dallas. The goat's milk supplements nourishment provided by the tiny pup's mother.

WEST MONROE, La. (AP)—A third hearing was scheduled today for 10-year-old Joe Cooper who leveled a loaded shotgun at a principal and truant officer of a rural school to save his dog from a gas chamber.

Judge Howell Heard, who raised nationwide protests by quickly committing the son of an impoverished widow to a reform school, said the hearing would be closed to the press and public in accordance with state law.

The judge declined to discuss reasons for the surprise hearing and did not indicate if it would mean a final disposal of the case.

But for Joe Cooper and his manager, Tipple, the court session meant another brief reunion after two weeks of separation. The sixth-grader was whisked off to the Louisiana Training Institute in nearby Monroe less than five hours after the incident at the Ransom School Oct. 6. Tipple has been spending his days in a pet hospital.

Joe's troubles started when the dog broke loose from the back yard and followed his master to school.

The principal, Mrs. Tina Clark, ordered the janitor to lock the unlicensed and unvaccinated dog in a closet and sent for the dog catcher. She explained that school children had been bitten in recent months by stray dogs.

Joe pleaded in vain for the freedom of his pet, then decided to do something about it. His decision gained the sympathy of dog lovers across the country and as far away as Hawaii and England.

Returning home, he took the family shotgun, and headed back toward school.

Joe held the principal and the truant officer, Maurice Griggs, a bay until police disarmed him.

"I would've shot anyone, I just wanted my dog," Joe pleaded. "He's not much but he's all I got."

The pleas set off a nationwide flurry of letterwriting that is continuing.

Joe has gained three pounds at the Institute, an unvalued reformatory, Tipple, also in modified captivity, has been vaccinated, curried and combed through the generosity of West Monroe businessmen.

But squirrel season is on now and both are anxious to forget their troubles and roam the woodland that borders on the Ouachita River.

Church Union Is To Be Discussed

A Presbytery-wide meeting on church union will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the First Presbyterian Church here. The meeting is sponsored by the Friends of Union in Albemarle Presbytery.

Holbert M. Jones, president of the Waverly Mills, Laurinburg, N. C. will be the speaker. Mr. Jones is chairman of the Board of Trustees of Flora MacDonald College, and a representative on the General Assembly's council on Higher Education. He is the brother of Rev. James A. Jones of Charlotte.

The proposed plan to unite the Presbyterian Church, U.S. (Southern) and the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A. (Northern) will be voted on during the January meeting of the Albemarle Presbytery in Washington, N.C. and the June meeting of the General Assembly in Richmond, Va.

Presbyterian church members are urged to attend Sunday's meeting. The public is also cordially invited.

Junior Red Cross Enrollment Set In Pitt Monday

Annual Junior Red Cross enrollment in the Pitt County schools will begin Monday, Mrs. Howard H. Gradis, local Junior Red Cross chapter chairman, has announced.

With the endorsement of city and county superintendents of schools J. H. Rose and D. H. Conley, every county school, white and Negro, will be enrolled in the program, Mrs. Gradis said.

She reported supplies have been delivered to all the schools and a teacher-sponsor appointed in each to conduct the enrollment.

Junior Red Cross conducts programs of service to children overseas, hospitalized veterans and servicemen, and adults and children in local hospitals.

Junior contributions are used to finance local school service projects and the international projects and programs of communication with children overseas.

Major project of the Junior Red Cross program in the Pitt County schools is the filling of gift boxes to be sent to foreign children who will have no other Christmas other than these boxes, Mrs. Gradis reported.

Application For Red Cross Aid Due By Nov. 4

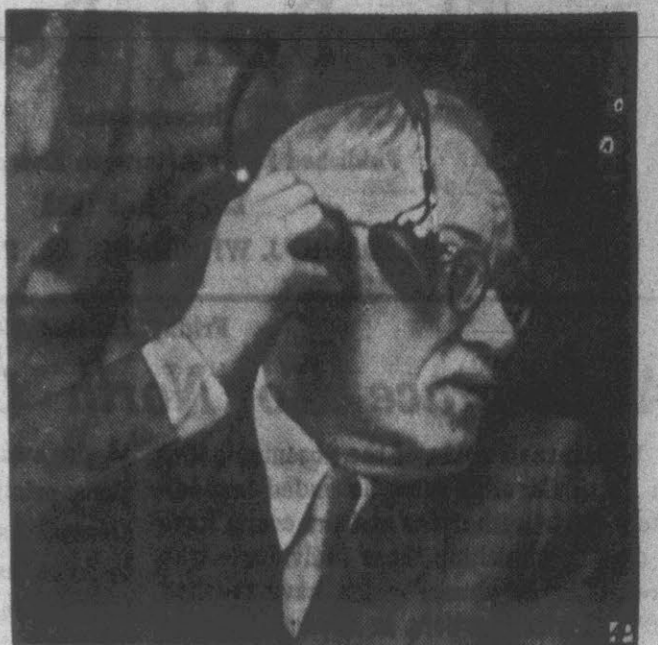

No applications for Red Cross disaster aid will be accepted after November 4, local disaster chairman George Wilkerson announced this morning.

Any families in need of Red Cross disaster assistance are urged by the chairman to make application at the local Red Cross chapter office in city hall. The office is located on the third floor, with telephone number 4222.

Wilkerson said Mrs. Cecile Childix, disaster representative from the Southeastern Area headquarters, has been assigned to survey disaster needs in Pitt, Beaufort, Hyde, Martin and Dare counties. Her headquarters are now in Washington, N. C. Wilmington is North Carolina disaster headquarters.

The chairman reported approximately 1,500 families in the Carolinas have sought Red Cross assistance following the destruction wrought by hurricane Hazel October 15, and this number is expected to increase before the close of registration next Thursday.

Wilkerson said 74 experienced disaster workers from different parts of the United States, and hundreds of Red Cross volunteers are spread throughout the 40 affected Carolina counties accepting registrations and planning to help victims of the storm who cannot meet their disaster-caused needs through their own resources.

A Disgrace To North Carolina

Widespread abuse of the absentee ballot in North Carolina must be ended immediately. State authorities and the courts have a part in punishing those individuals who are guilty of abuses which have touched off full investigations in several Western counties.

The General Assembly should permanently end the abuse in January by abolishing the absentee ballot for general elections in North Carolina.

It is indeed a disgrace that the State Bureau of Investigation must lay aside all other criminal investigation work in order that its full field force can turn its attention to charges of illegal uses of absentee ballots in several counties in the western part of the state. It is unlikely that the number of charges that have been made would come to light unless there is foundation for the charges. It may be a difficult job for investigators to build cases against individuals who have sold, purchased or otherwise misused absentee ballots; but it is imperative that such unscrupulous politicians be prosecuted.

For years people have known of the abuses to which the absentee ballot arrangement in North Carolina left itself open. Chances are the absentee ballot has been abused in many previous general elections in the state. The Democratic party a number of years ago found it advisable

Care To Claim Hazel As A 'Deduction'?

Who'd have thought they could list "Hazel" as a sort of dependent in filling out a state income tax report?

Yet, from present indications, most losses of personal property caused by the recent hurricane (and not compensated for by insurance) appear to be deductible.

Whatever easement may be in store for tax-filing time, no love has been lost on "Hazel." Future unladylike hurricanes take note: Stay 'way from our door.

Strength for the Day

The police reports of juvenile delinquency seem to be more ominous as time passes. There is a smooth explanation for such delinquency to the effect that juvenile delinquents are almost always the victims of broken homes, or of neglect and rejection.

There is a great deal of truth, of course, in such contentions but it would seem that we would need to look at the issue from a slightly different point of view. It is true that most juvenile delinquency has its origin in adult delinquency. But it is not true that there is always a direct connection between adult delinquency and juvenile delinquency. What appears to be happening is that there is a lot of adult delinquency which parallels juvenile delinquency, thus creating social conditions which adversely affect young people.

For instance—no good is coming from the fact that millions of middle-aged parents today are involved in drinking parties where there is considerable immorality and much unseemly conduct. What is happening is that these adults are creating a social atmosphere in which young people, taking their cue from the behavior of older groups, begin to behave in ways which have in them all the warnings of disaster.

Adult delinquency parallel to juvenile delinquency but not necessarily directly connected with it, is an important factor in a dismal national picture.

Dixon-Yates Deal On Record

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—The so-called "secret" story of the controversial Dixon-Yates deal for a TVA-AEC power interchange will be unfolded next Thursday, when the Joint Atomic Energy Committee will explore the project.

The most surprising revelation, perhaps, will be that there has been no secrecy or mystery other than that which must surround initial stages of all complicated Federal transactions. The general proposition was outlined to Congress by President Eisenhower in January's budget message. It was that private enterprise would supply energy to AEC, relieving TVA power for normal use in a rapidly growing market of individual and industrial customers.

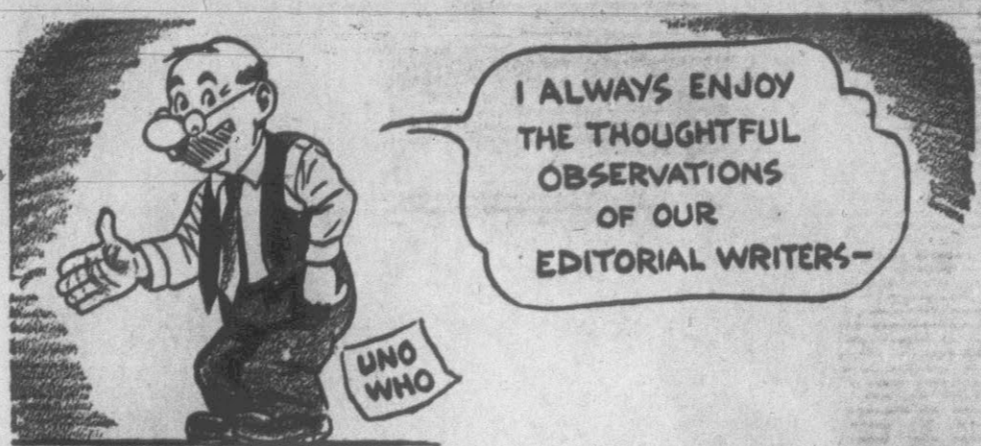

Negotiations with Middle South and the Southern Company began last June. On August 21, the Budget Bureau issued to the press a one-inch-thick record of these proceedings, including the financial arrangements now assailed by public power advocates and Democratic orators as a "giveaway of our natural resources." Half a dozen Federal agencies and the Joint Committee had a part in these discussions.

NEGOTIATIONS ACCOUNT—The Atomic Energy Commission made public a running, day-by-day account of the negotiations that fills 88 pages. On August 26, the Edison Electric Institute distributed a complete analysis to member companies, with the notation that they could share in the project. None accepted.

Only the contract, which has not been signed, has been kept confidential. Its terms are so complex, necessarily, that it would command no public interest. And copies of the actual contract have been given to any member of Congress showing sufficient concern to ask for one.

Thus, the general program, which has been denounced as a "secret scandal" by the Kefauver-Humphrey-Langer faction, and even by Adlai E. Stevenson, has been a matter of public record for more than two months. If there has been the semblance of secrecy, it is the fault of Budget Bureau press agents. They released their one-inch-thick document—of all days—a Saturday.

Somebody Told Me

Hollywood's Sunshine Is Gone

All of my life Hollywood has been a place I thought was "it." But now I have a correspondent who lives in Hollywood and delights in giving me the inside story. Here is his second installment:

Smogville, U. S. A.

Dear Jack, This place was originally bought by a temperance group and given its restful name "Hollywood." Its beautiful palm trees and light, warm sunshine became famous. The motion picture pioneers found the sunshine and clear, clear air ideal for their work. The mild climate was found to be helpful to the sick and to the aged. Hollywood was the "Promised Land," the land of milk and honey.

A local comedian the other day said that before coming to Hollywood he always had a cold. Now he never has one. Just arthritis, strep throat and cancer of the lung!

For the sunshine is gone. In its place is a smoky, foggy atmosphere irritating to the eyes, nose and throat. Yesterday in nearby Alhambra, a 10-year-old girl choked to death. Doctors blamed

What Other Editors Are Thinking

Self-interest is obviously the motive behind the fight which both trucking interests and the railroads are waging before the Interstate Commerce Commission to block two projected changes in our transportation pattern.

So-called "piggy-back" transportation of truck trailers by the railroads has drawn the truckers' vigorous opposition. This is a plan, with which several western railroads have experimented successfully, whereby truck trailers are simply loaded onto flat cars and hauled by rail to their destination where truck cabs pick up and deliver them. The saving, in time, highway congestion and, we assume, money under a lower combination rate, must be substantial.

N. C. Brief On Segregation Decision Is Nearly Ready

By LYNN NISBET
BRIEF—Attorney General Harry McMillan and his staff have just about completed the brief to be presented in the United States Supreme Court on implementation of the segregation decision. The document is called a "brief" by courtesy and tradition. It isn't brief in the everyday meaning of the word. The presentation of discussion, arguments, citations and exhibits require nearly 300 pages of legal size paper.

Oran presentation will be made to the court on December 6 or soon thereafter. The brief may be filed a few days earlier, and McMillan said it would be released to the public at the time it is filed, since it then becomes a public document.

Preparation of the brief entailed a tremendous lot of real work on part of the attorney general's staff, even though there was available a mass of material assembled for earlier cases in which the State of North Carolina considered intervening as a friend of the court.

Meanwhile the Governor's Advisory Commission on Segregation has been studying the issues involved in changing over the North Carolina public school system to non-segregated status, but final report of the commission is not expected until well after the New Year. Opinion is general that neither the Governor nor his special commission nor the General Assembly can act intelligently until the Supreme Court spells out the method for effectuating its policy decision of last spring. A great many people have expressed the belief that the court decree might not come until late spring, possible after the General Assembly has adjourned. In that event a special session would be necessary to deal with the situation. Others believe that the court has already made up its collective mind, that the hearings scheduled for December are just window dressing, and that the effectuating decrees may come before end of this calendar year.

Control By Taxation

By ELMER ROESSNER
It has been said—here and elsewhere—that the next war will top anything yet in controls of materials, manpower and prices. That is probably true. But there are some who think it might not be necessary.

Controls, as developed in recent wars, emerge from an intricate pattern of planning. This regulation here, that regulation there—all of them together have been intended to provide a balanced but thin civilian economy, living alongside a dynamic war economy.

Suppose that instead of this type of control we based controls on taxes, and developed a pattern to make them work. Let's see what would happen:

Prices for food would shoot up as fear-stricken people started to hoard. Under the multiple-control-idea, this would be checked by rationing. But under tax control, taxes would rise so that no one could afford to hoard.

Under multiple controls, the use of scarce materials would be denied civilian enterprises. Under tax control, the rate of taxes would discourage civilian enterprises from buying them.

In addition, the government would obtain any scarce material simply by outbidding all other purchasers. This would take a lot of money—but the money would come out of taxes, and the more civilian buyers bid, the higher their taxes would be.

The same would be true with manpower. The government would hire whoever it wished, at whatever salaries were necessary. The $10,000-a-year man who wanted $25,000 to work for the government would get it, but after taxes he would have no more spending power than he had before.

Things would take on a new set of values. Materials needed for defense would have greatly higher values than those needed for the civilian market.

In the end, everyone would have about the same share of available goods that he would have under multiple controls, as long as he worked hard.

If someone wanted a three-inch cut of steak, he could buy it without rationing. But the price would be raised so high by taxes that the government would be better off than if the buyer had

Why Not Hair To Match Colors?

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Does the average wife change the color of her hair so that it will go well with her husband's necktie or a new pair of shoes?

Of course not. But why not? Wives for some time have been dressing their husbands in a way to make them serve as a dull masculine backdrop to their own feminine finery.

But why shouldn't it work the other way? Why should a man go to the trouble and expense of buying himself a blue carnation for his lapel on an evening out, and then have his wife ruin the whole effect with her mouse-brown hair?

Or suppose you've bought a snappy new polka dot tie. Is there any reason why your wife can't accentuate it by coloring her hair in a polka dot pattern, too?

"Oh, you know I simply can't do a thing with my hair," she'll plead lamely. Don't fall for that old guff, fellows. If you've got a snazzy charcoal pink shirt, there is no excuse except laziness—if your bride says she can't match it with a charcoal pink collar.

My authority is Edmund d'Auriol, U.S. representative of L'Oréal of Paris, the world's largest hair cosmetics firm. He says American women, despite all the money they spend on beauty aids, are stick-in-the-muds when it comes to coloring their hair.

"They now go to their hair-dressers and must pick from a paltry 30 tints," he said, shaking his head. "A woman should be able to pound the table and demand any color in her thoughts."

"There are at least 1,000 to choose from, and the number is limited only by the imagination. If you will excuse me, we pride ourselves, being French, that we know more about color than anyone. It is in our blood. We can see maybe 144 different colors between red and blue. "We have not been able to find in the American language words to describe all our colors. Your words are too brutal. Our brown golds, for example, have more femininity than your brown golds, so we call them brownette golds."

"Our gold is simply to take a girl of 16, bring her age up to the age of 22, and keep her there until she is 72, all by employing hair colors," said d'Auriol. "That is the dream of every woman. American women are just beginning to be really hair-conscious about their hair. In France one out of four women tint their hair regularly. In American only one of 40 do."

"But, oddly, more women in Brooklyn tint their hair than in any other city in the world, including Paris. Psychologically, I suppose it's because they want a change."

d'Auriol's own favorite hair colors are muted topaz blonde, pale dry champagne, smoky silver blonde, and frosty pale blonde, which he describes as "the sky of Paris squeezed from a tube."

"Think I was kidding about having your wife's hair match your polka dot tie? Well, listen to d'Auriol:

"Fashion mamequins in Paris started that some time ago—originally with black and white, then pink and gold, red and blue and finally deep gold and black leopard spots."

"Now many French ladies color their hair that way. But the color that more and more prefer is bordeaux wine. It looks like a glass of red wine held up to the light."

Maybe this is what your own wife needs. Why not hold her up to the light, and give her a long thoughtful look?

Bermuda Skirt Makes Rare Appearance Here

Last year it was Bermuda shorts. This year it's Bermuda skirts—and to school yet.

The new fashion craze which has hit Greenville along with the rest of the nation is the just-above-the-knee length flared skirt worn with long socks, as modeled above by Lou Ficklen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Ficklen of 508 West Fifth St.

Her companion, surely garbed in one of "last year's" models, is Madge Stancill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Stancill of 414 Latham Street.

The two girls are pictured on their way home from Third Street School where they are in the seventh grade.

So far as is known Lou is the only local girl to have appeared at school in a Bermuda skirt. The one she is wearing above is charcoal trimmed in white stitching. Lou wore this skirt to school for the second time yesterday.

Appropriately, perhaps, she made her debut in the short model "the day of Hazel." Last Friday she wore her other Bermuda skirt to school—a red plaid one.

The "normal" reactions followed Lou's appearance in the new style skirt. She says when she wore the red plaid one Friday "all the boys rolled up their pants over their knees."

As for the teachers' opinion of the skirts, "Most of them think they're cute," Lou commented.

Madge said she had asked her mother about buying one of the new-fashioned skirts, but "She thinks Bermuda shorts are enough for me right now."

Trick-or-Treat Drive Tonight

Be sure to answer your doorbell tonight. UNICEF goblins will be haunting the town on a "trick or treat" basis. But all these youngsters want is a treat for all the world's children; they'll be working for the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) and children in some 80 countries of the world who are sick and hungry.

Instead of cookies or candy, children of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Sunday School will be asking for coins. Their campaign is being sponsored by the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

All participants will be identifiable by their UNICEF armbands and milk cartons.

After the goblins have collected their "treats," they will count their coins at a party given for them at the church.

Director of the trick-or-treat campaign, Mrs. Jake Hadley, reminds that "even the smallest contribution will mean a great deal in terms of improved conditions of life for some diseased or undernourished child. UNICEF can supply, with fifteen cents, enough penicillin to cure a child of yaws, a crippling tropical disease; and a dollar will provide enough powdered milk to give nine children a glass a day for a week."

Anniversary Date For Stock Market's Crash

By ED CREEGH
(For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP)— Just 25 years ago today the bottom fell out of the New York Stock Exchange. The echoes of that spectacular crash still rumble around the world.

For the market crash of Oct. 29, 1929, heralded the greatest depression this country has ever known. It engulfed the United States in a worldwide economic morass that proved a breeding place for the seeds of World War II.

Here at home, the depression swept Franklin D. Roosevelt and the New Deal into office.

Perhaps as important as any other effect, the crash and the depression did something to the American spirit.

They didn't, as they seemed for a time to threaten to do, make this a nation of pessimists. But they did, perhaps permanently, dampen a notion that Americans were destiny's lots—that this country was somehow exempt from the woes that were always besetting foreigners.

And of course that time of shaken values and bruised faith had this added lingering effect, among others: it led some Americans to a belief, rudely shattered for most in the years to come, that the Russians had come up with a system which worked better.

All told, that Oct. 29 was a memorable day. Maybe it should be observed each year. Not a day of rest, as a holiday would be, but one of deep if not prayerful meditation, which is hard work indeed.

Actually, the trouble didn't start Oct. 29. The market broke sharply as early as March of that year. It bounced back swiftly, however, and its very recovery served to discredit the few skeptics who kept asking how long this crazy spree of paper prosperity could continue.

On Sept. 3, 1929, the Associated Press average of 60 selected stocks soared to an all-time peak: $187.70 a share.

By the middle of that month the average began to drop, however. By October it was skidding several dollars each day. Oct. 24—still known as "Black Thursday"—saw the skid become a headlong tumble. A wild rush to sell wiped out five billion dollars in stock values in a single day.

The bottom finally fell out five days later—25 years ago today.

The nation was a long time recovering. The Democrats say they saved it. The Republicans say they never was really saved, except by war booms, until they got back in office. The Democrats say conditions aren't too good right now, if you want their opinion. The Republicans say things were never better in time of peace.

One thing most experts agree on—the nation isn't likely to have another major depression.

What's to stop another 1929-type boom and bust? A number of things: tighter reins on speculation. Sounder values of stocks.

Above all, perhaps, a long period of sobriety on the part of the American people—a realization that another gambling on-the-market spree might end up in the same kind of post-1929 hangover.

So most experts say. But not all. Kenneth Galbraith, the Harvard economist, asks himself in the current Harper's magazine if 1929 can happen again—and answers: "of course." Never underestimate, says Galbraith, the ability of people to make fools of themselves when they think they see a chance to get rich.

tax returns.

It is obviously unfair for owners of private property to be permitted to deduct losses from tax bills and at the same time expect other taxpayers to reimburse them for such losses. That is what happens when government aid funds are distributed among private operators.

This proposition has no relation to the personal help extended to hurricane victims by the Red Cross or the regular welfare agencies. Human suffering must be relieved to the greatest degree possible. Hungry people must be fed and homeless people must be housed. The issue here is the replacement of facilities such as roads, water supply and sewerage systems.

Rules governing the allocation of government aid funds are very simple. If the facilities are publicly owned and operated for service there is prospect of aid in restoring them. If privately owned and operated for profit, the restoration is the responsibility of the private operators. Any other policy would run into insoluble problems. If government grants in aid are to be made available to private business the telephone and electric power companies would have greater claim upon them than owners of private beach property, because the aggregate loss to a few utilities of this type far exceeds the damage to any individual property owner. Furthermore, because of government regulation of rates these major utilities have less opportunity to recoup losses than do the real estate subdivision developers.

Training School Slated Tuesday

MATTOCKS IS AN AMAZING BALL HANDLER

Meet Gary Mattocks, 5-10, 165-pound sophomore quarterback from Southern Pines.

Gary, a genial black-haired master of the split-T, just this past summer bid adieu to Uncle Sam's Army.

Gary attributes his development as a quarterback to that service. Prior to that in high school, and military school, he worked exclusively as a halfback. He played three years of service ball, two years at Ft. Benning, Georgia, and one year at Fort Bragg.

But Gary's athletic career, and a sparkling one at that, began before he entered high school. He played varsity basketball at Southern Pines when he was in the eighth grade. That was just the beginning. Gary played five years of varsity basketball, four years of varsity football and four years of varsity baseball.

The three-sports star is considered the greatest all-around athlete to ever emerge from Southern Pines high school.

Another great tribute to Gary's skill as a grinder is the fact he never played eleven man football until he went to Greenbrier Military school in Louisa, West Virginia. Southern Pines plays the six-man game. As the team's leader, Gary was the most heralded grinder in the state his final year in the Sandhills. He was elected All-County, All-Conference and All-State in basketball and participated in the North Carolina All-Star game in Greensboro.

His one year at Greenbrier he lettered in all three sports and won the prep school conference diving championship—an example of his unique versatility.

Gary recalls that he never told anyone at Greenbrier he'd never played on an eleven man team until the culmination of the season. "I thought maybe they wouldn't give me a chance had they known," he explained.

The flashy signal-caller, still a halfback, enrolled at Duke in 1951 and played on what was tagged the Blue Devils' "greatest freshman football team." Gary started every game in which "he kicked off and played defensive safety."

After that year, he volunteered for the service and spent the next three years doing what he knew just how to do: playing football, baseball, and basketball as entertainment for the G's.

Last spring, Gary enrolled at East Carolina. He earned his letter with the baseballs and took up football this year.

Against Catawba, he threw for two touchdowns and directed the Pirates' victory. He has been used sparingly so far, but Coach Jack Boone is high in his opinion of him. Boone once commented: "He handles the split-T as well as anyone I've ever seen."

Keep your eye on this little magician because he has a great part in East Carolina's football destiny.

Same Message By Two Coaches

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The South Carolina-Maryland football game at Columbia tomorrow may turn out to be mutual admiration day as far as the opposing coaches are concerned.

Maryland, nursing a 2-2-1 record this season after going undefeated last year, got a word of warning from Coach Jim Tatum yesterday. Tatum told the team that "South Carolina's line is too rugged to run against."

Consequently the Terps stressed their passing game with Frank Tamburello quarterbacking the first team. But Tatum said he might use his injured regular, Charlie Boxold—if Boxold's condition continued to improve.

The South Carolina squad heard about the same speech from Coach Rex Enright. He said Maryland probably is as rugged on defense as any team in the nation.

South Carolina may hold the trump card in sophomore Mackie Prickett, the starting quarterback who scored both touchdowns as the Gamecocks beat Clemson last week, 13-8. Prickett completed 10-14 passes against Clemson and set up both touchdowns he scored. In addition, Prickett is second in the Atlantic Coast Conference in pass interceptions with four.

Elsewhere, other Atlantic Coast Conference coaches were showing as much respect for their opponents as Enright and Tatum. For good reason, too, since the lineup of opponents easily could be the stiffest of the season.

Coach Tom Rogers made some switches in the Wake Forest lineup he will send against Clemson at Charlotte tomorrow in the other conference game.

Quarterback Nick Consoles, who lost three teeth last week in the North Carolina game, will start. But because of difficulty in saying thirty and fifty with his front teeth gone, Consoles will revert to sign language when necessary. The work was light in both camps yesterday and both squads were due in Charlotte today.

Oklahoma holds a 4-2 edge in the football series started in 1944 between the Sooners and Texas Christian University.

Pirates Leave For Boone Today

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Writer

The East Carolina Pirates pulled out of Greenville today at 8:00 a.m. on the 350-mile journey to Boone and a North State battle Saturday night with league-leading Appalachian.

Coaches Jack Boone and Jim Malloy departed with a contingent of 38 players.

"We travel to Boone with a buffeted and crippled squad," Coach Boone remarked just before leaving. "Emo Boado, our regular right half is not making the trip and several other key personnel are also staying behind."

The Pirates took a count of their injured at Tuesday's practice and the tabulation came to 15 varsity performers. Some of the injuries are slight but nevertheless hamper the athletes somewhat.

Jim Stanley, reserve halfback, is restricted by a weak knee; J. D. Bradford, pass-snapping junior who caught two TD chunks against WOC is plagued with a kidney disorder. (He missed last week's game, although he'll probably be okay to start against the App.)

Tom Allbrook has been designated by Boone to open at right half in place of Boado. Greenville's Bobby Perry will also see a lot of duty there. Co-captain Tippy Hayes will work at his old left half post. Claude King at full and Boyd Webb at quarterback round out the backfield unit.

Bradford and Rhodes team at the terminals. Rhodes is in good shape but his replacement, Ray Pennington, is nursing a bad shoulder. Bill Helms will work behind Bradford. Co-captain Willie Holland and aggressive George Tucker anchor the tackles, although the former is suffering a head cold. Ray Overton and Charles Smith, number 2 tackles, missed last week's game but seem set for the Mountaineers.

David Lee and Don Burton are the starting guards. Burton is ready but Lee has a weak knee. Louis Hallow will handle the pivot spot. He's in top shape and one of the line stalwarts.

The App's will have an advantage but a win is important to East Carolina. This will be the "big game" for both teams.

Only 10 Major Teams Still Unbeaten, United Today

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

College football blithely enters its seventh weekend of the season today with only 10 major teams unbeaten and united with every indication most of them will be happy—and lucky—if they still remain in their spotless records come Sunday.

The Pirates at the unsullied begins tonight when Miami, a surprising contender for national honors, takes on Fordham under a Florida moon. The Miamians, already pointing for their game next season with Notre Dame, are young and potent, having whipped Maryland in their most recent outing. The Hurricanes have won five straight this season.

But the firing becomes really intense Saturday. Then Ohio State, currently the No. 1 team with five straight successes meets Northwestern, which hasn't won in recent weeks. It is the ideal spot for one of 1954's many upsets, but the Buckeyes have Hopalong Cassidy.

Oklahoma and UCLA, also unbeaten make up the top trio of college footballers at present with college of a rugged type. The Oklahoma team at Colorado where they were tied two years ago. The mile high altitude and Colorado's ground attack may combine to trouble the Sooners.

UCLA, with a prolific scoring machine that has counted 265 points in six victories, is in California, a team which still lists Paul Larsen among its star players and which last Saturday gave Southern California a rugged afternoon.

Arkansas, another surprise name among the unbeaten, treks to College Station, for a night tussle with the cadets of Texas A & M. The Porkers have won five, but the Cadets are dangerous despite only one victory in six starts.

West Virginia, already boasting of four triumphs, faces a solid task in repulsing a Pittsburgh team that dropped three and then won two. Virginia Tech, Boston College, Cincinnati and Montana State are the other major unbeaten. Tech travels to William & Mary Cincinnati takes its unblemished record all the way to the College of the Pacific at Stockton, Calif. Boston College is host to Xavier of Ohio and Montana State is host to Idaho State.

That leaves many top teams who have suffered a defeat along the way. Among them is Notre Dame, a one-time loser meeting Navy with a similar record, at Baltimore. Army, a cropper in its opener with South Carolina, has below-par Virginia Tech as its opponent.

Purdue and Wisconsin, among the country's best, are occupied with strictly family affairs. The Badgers, bounced out of the Big Ten lead a week ago, play Iowa and the Boiler-makers engage an Illinois team that has speed but little defense.

Penn and Penn State occupy the TV screens. The Quakers have yet to win for their new coach, Steve Sebo, while the Nittany Lions, who started the season as though headed for the promised land have dropped their last two.

Other games on the Saturday docket are:

East—Cornell-Columbia, Dartmouth-Yale, Holy Cross-Syracuse, Colgate-Princeton, Ohio University-Harvard Brown-Lehigh and Bucknell-Boston University.

Southeast—Maryland-South Carolina, Georgia-Alabama, Tulane-Auburn, Mississippi-Louisiana State, Mississippi State-Florida, Georgia Tech-Duke, North Carolina, Tennessee, Clemson-Wake Forest, Furman-North Carolina State and Villanova-Kentucky.

Midwest—Indiana-Michigan, Michigan State-Minnesota, Missouri-Nebraska Kansas-Kansas State, Drake-Iowa State, Houston-Wichita and College of Pacific-Cincinnati.

Southwest—Baylor-Texas Christian, Southern Methodist-Texas, Vanderbilt-Rice, Oklahoma A&M-Tulsa and Texas Tech-Arizona.

Far West—Oregon State-Southern California, Oregon-Washington, Washington State-Stanford, Idaho, Utah, Montana-Colorado A & M, Brigham Young-Utah State.

Johnson Starting At End Position

By WAYNE BISHOP

Greenville's Phantoms and the Selma Wildcats meet tonight at ECC stadium in the first meeting between the two schools on record. Selma is a double-A school, the same as the Greensies but are in a different conference.

The Phantoms have been established as the favorite for the game. Greenville has now gone since September 24 without a win and the G-men are getting mighty hungry. Since the Kingston win the G-men have lost twice and tied once in a series of tough-break ball games. Maybe tonight the fortunes of Coach Bill Kittrell's Phantoms will improve.

Johnson At End

Coach Kittrell announced he would start junior Billy Johnson at Harold Edwards' right end spot. Edwards is out with a bruised hip but may be available for spot duty. Johnson is the junior end who is rated by Phantom coaches as the best defensive player on the team. At the other end will be senior Bobby Adams, who is playing his first year of football. Adams has come around quickly and will see almost all of the offensive action tonight. Ike Riddick will be ready to relieve at either end.

Coach Kittrell has Howard King and Tommy Smith for the tackles. King is a hustler all the way and is a highly rated prospect for all-conference next year. Smith is the steady man in the Greenville line. The 195 pound senior is an all-state and all-conference candidate. Pete West and Gene Hudson will be the starting guards. West is the defensive captain of the team, playing linebacker on defense. West has been the most improved ball-player in the Phantom camp this year and is highly rated by opposing coaches. Hudson is a 170 pound junior who has seen plenty of action this year. Hudson played one of his finer games of the year last week in New Bern. Senior Harris Northrop will be ready to spell either one at guard or to substitute at end.

Larry Powell, a 210-pound bruising junior, will be the starting center. Powell has moved around all year and Coach Kittrell finally put him in the center position to stay.

Howell To Quarterback

Senior Bob Howell will be the starting quarterback tonight. The 165 pound senior looked good against New Bern throwing the ball and will quarterback most of the show tonight. Mitchell Johnson and James Speight, the senior speed demons, will run at the halfback slots with Billy Sermons, a sophomore, at fullback.

Jerry Drum will also be in at quarterback some. Tommy Norris, a 145 pound junior back, will see action on the defensive team. Norris has looked very good in each of the Phantoms last five games as a defensive back and linebacker. The game will be the first of three straight home games for the G-men. Game time tonight will be eight o'clock.

Gold Top Blues In Midget Play

The Gold team turned down the hardluck Blue team yesterday afternoon by a score of 7-0 on the strength of the fine throwing arm of quarterback Charles Taft.

Taft threw perfect passes all day long but the Blue team always stopped the Gold every time they threatened. Late in the third quarter, however, Taft connected to cousin Robert Taft for a 28 yard pass play and Robert juggled the ball over the goal. Robert Taft also plunged over for the extra point.

The Blues never did get a serious offensive going during the game. Harry Forbes sparked the Blue team on offense but the Gold defense was too much. Erskine Duff and Pete West led the defense for the Blue.

For the Gold team Taft's passing was the major offensive weapon. End Ronnie Finch made several nice catches for the Gold team. On defense Billy James, Jimmy Jenkins, and Delbert Smith stood out for the Gold.

Saturday night will be the big night for the Midget Leagues. Starting at 7 o'clock in ECC stadium a doubleheader will be played between the Blue and White teams and the Gold and Red teams.

No admission will be charged for these games.

Discipline Jolts Football Teams

By ED WILKS

College football players, headliners and scrubs, have heard the hard way this season that training rules are a lot like a woman's birthday—none of the principals look forward to them, but don't overlook 'em.

A total of 18 players at Georgia Tech, Pitt, Texas and West Virginia, have been dropped from rosters this season because of training violations.

Veteran Bobby Dodd, Georgia Tech's gentlemanly coach who usually has been lenient toward players in the past, put his foot down yesterday and suspended five players—including his ace offensive threat, Billy Teas.

Dodd's action was a jolt to his Tech squad. Teas, needing only three yards to set a new career rushing record at the school, was Tech's big hope against Duke Saturday.

Dropped with Teas were guard-tackle Jackie Shoemaker, halfback Larry Ruffin, guard Harvey Brown and tackle John Leach. Brown is a sophomore and Leach a freshman. The other three are seniors.

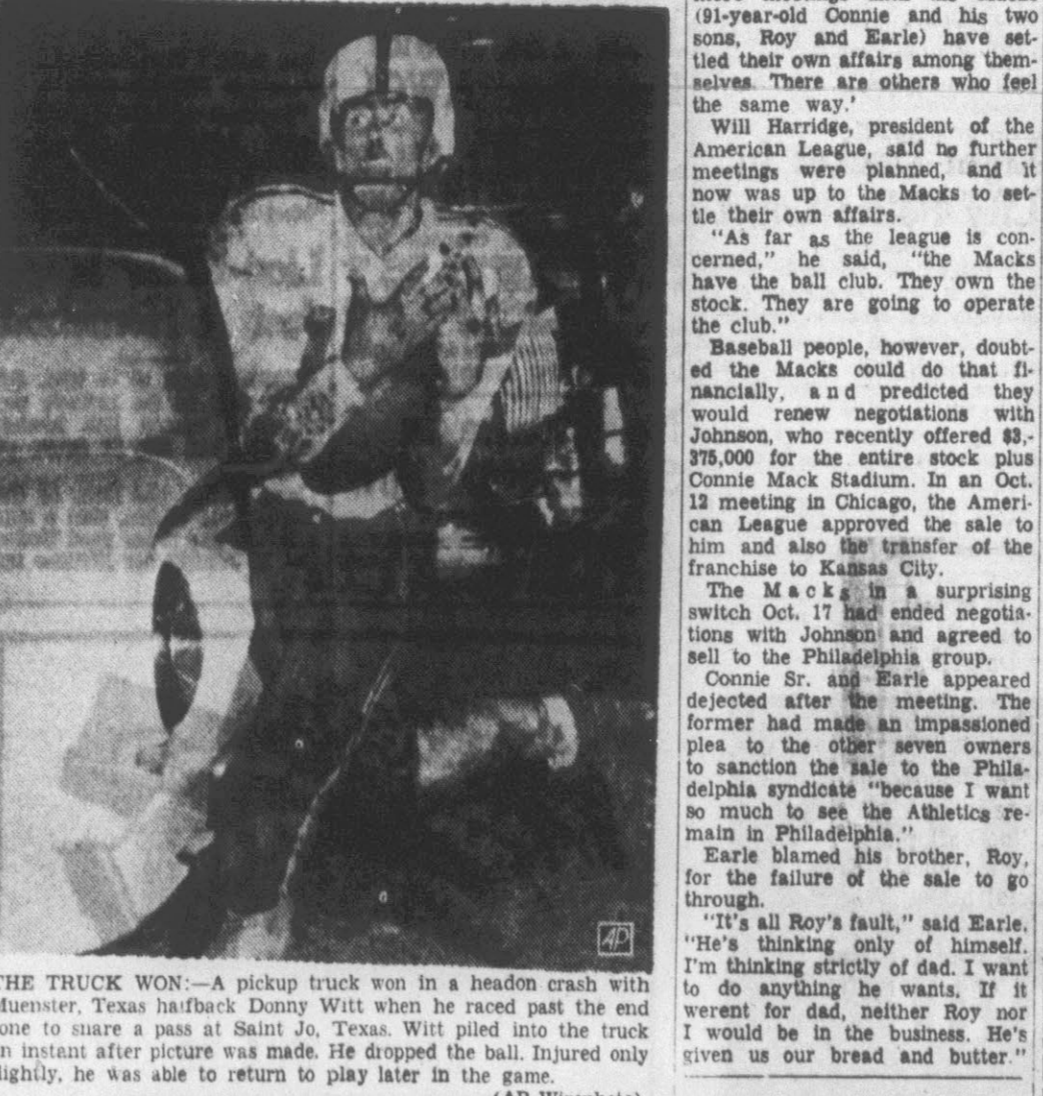

Dodd said, "These boys were guilty of breaking our (11 p.m.) curfew, but were not guilty of breaking any other training regulations. I consider this offense grave enough to drop them from our team. I am very disappointed that this thing happened."

Teas, married and the father of a girl, said he and Ruffin had been studying and that he drove Ruffin to his dormitory after the curfew. Teas added, "Since I live at home, I was even later getting in."

Dodd said: "It didn't make any difference if they were 30 minutes or two hours late. They were late for curfew."

It was the first such disciplinary action by Dodd since 1951 when he dismissed end John Weigle, a sensation as a sophomore, for the same reason.

Dodd hasn't been the only coach to crack down this season. Ed Price of Texas and Pittsburgh's Tom Hamilton took similar action earlier this week.

THE TRUCK WON—A pickup truck won in a head-on crash with Muenster, Texas halfback Donny Witt when he raced past the end zone to snare a pass at Saint Jo, Texas. Witt piled into the truck an instant after picture was made. He dropped the ball. Injured only slightly, he was able to return to play later in the game. (AP Wirephoto).

VOTE DEMOCRATIC!

VOTE FOR

S. A. WHITEHURST

For Sheriff Of Pitt County By Writing In His Name On The Democratic Ballot On November 2nd

S. A. Whitehurst, a lifelong Democrat, is a candidate for Sheriff on the Democratic ticket subject to the General Election to be held on Tuesday, November 2, 1954. The people of Pitt County are familiar with the results of the run-off primary held in June of this year, and know that the Pitt County Board of Elections ordered a recount of several boxes in the county after irregularities were proven to the satisfaction of the Election Board at a public hearing held in the court house. On the day the ballots were to be counted by the board, a procedure which would have taken only an hour or so, the incumbent sheriff secured an injunction from a Superior Court Judge forbidding the Pitt County Board of Elections to make this recount, and learn once and for all the true results of the vote in these disputed boxes. After the politically appointed State Board overruled the Pitt County Board of Elections and certified the incumbent sheriff, they still left the way open for the Pitt County Board to recount the votes in these boxes for their own satisfaction. Again the incumbent sheriff secured another injunction prohibiting the Pitt County Board to open the boxes. Naturally the people who voted for Mr. Whitehurst, and many who voted otherwise, and many who did not vote at all, could not understand the reluctance of the incumbent sheriff to have these votes recounted. It would have taken only two to three hours at the most and then the issue would have been settled once and for all. Thousands of people in Pitt County felt that their Democratic rights had been abridged, and were not sure that their vote had been counted for the candidate of their choice. They started asking "what could they do about it." The answer is stated simply in the following directive from Mr. R. C. Maxwell, Executive Secretary, North Carolina State Board of Elections:

To: The Chairman of The County Board of Elections

October 20, 1954

Instructions by the State Board of Elections to the Precinct Election Officials on the manner of Marking and Counting the General Election Ballots in the Election to be held on November 2nd, 1954.

WRITE-IN VOTES- HOW COUNTED

Section 163-175 G. S. provides for write-in votes in a general election as follows:
 "If the elector desires to vote for a person whose name does not appear on the ticket, he can substitute the name by writing it in with a pencil or ink in the proper place, and making a cross (X) mark in the blank space at the left of the name so written in. When a name is written in on the official ballot, the new name so written in is to be treated like any other name on the ballot. No sticker is to be used. Any name written in on an official ballot by any election official, or by any person other than the voter or a person rendering assistance to a voter pursuant to sections 172-3 or 4, shall be invalid, and the name or names so written in shall not be counted."

Write-ins may be made on the State, County and Township ballots if done properly. The proper way is for a voter to write in the name of any person for whom he wishes to vote for any office in the blank space below or above the printed name of the candidate and must be between the lines in which the printed candidate's name appears on the ballot, and then making a cross (X) mark in the blank space at the left of the name so written-in. The Attorney General has ruled in the past that a write-in vote should be counted whether or not the printed name on the ballot is marked through, or whether it is lined through, or stricken out by the voter, or whether or not the voter places a cross (X) mark or check mark to the left of the name written in the ballot or in the voting square opposite the printed candidate's name, provided the voter marked in the Party circle at the top of the Party column on the ballot. The reason for this is that since Section 163-175 G. S. provides that where a name is written in on the ballot, the name so written in by the voter shall "be treated like any other name on the ballot," the intention of the Legislature was in such cases for the write-in vote to be counted where a voter marks in the Party Circle at the top of the ballot. For example, if a voter marks in the Democratic Party circle at the top of the County ballot and then writes in a name of a person in the blank space under or above the printed name on the ballot for the office of Sheriff in the Democratic column, it would be counted as a vote for all the Democratic candidates printed on the County ballot except for the office of Sheriff, and would count for a vote for the write-in for Sheriff. If the voter had marked in the Democratic Party circle at the top of the County ballot, and wrote in a name for Sheriff under the printed name of the Republican column, then it would count for a vote for all of the Democratic candidates on the ballot except for Sheriff, and would count for one vote for the write-in candidate on the Republican column for Sheriff.

Section 163-175, subsection 6, provides that "no ballot shall be rejected for any technical error which does not make it impossible to determine the voter's choice." From this it also appears certain that the Legislature intended for a write-in vote on the official ballot to be counted if it is possible to tell for whom the voter intended to vote by the write-in. Thus, if a voter wrote in the name of Will Jones and if William A. Jones was a candidate it should be counted as a vote for him.

Please have these instructions mimeographed and a copy furnished to each of your registrars to help them in counting of the ballots on election night.

R. C. MAXWELL (S)
 R. C. Maxwell, Executive Secretary
 STATE BOARD OF ELECTIONS

I, Gilbert Peel, Chairman of the Pitt County Board of Elections hereby certify that the above instructions (both pages 1 and 2) are an exact copy of the instructions received from the State Board of Elections under date of October 20, 1954.

October 22, 1954

GILBERT PEEL, Chairman
 PITT COUNTY BOARD OF ELECTIONS

Here Is How You Vote

Take your ballot into the voting booth. Under the DEMOCRATIC side of the ballot vote for the candidates of your choice. In the box marked for sheriff simply do the following:

Write in the name S. A. Whitehurst. That's all you do and in so doing you have voted for S. A. Whitehurst as your choice for Sheriff of this county on the DEMOCRATIC BALLOT. Below is a sample of the Ballot you will be given at the polls on November 2. Remember you can vote a straight Democratic ticket and still vote for S. A. Whitehurst because he is a DEMOCRAT. To Vote a straight Democratic Ticket you simply make an X in the big circle at the top under the DEMOCRATIC side, and then down below the box marked FOR SHERIFF, make an X mark to the left, and write in the name, S. A. Whitehurst with pencil or pen.

A cross (X) mark shall consist of any straight line crossing any other straight line at an angle within a voting circle or square. A voter may designate his choice of candidate by the cross (X) mark or by a check mark, or any other clear indicative mark. Any ballot which is defaced or torn by the voter shall be void. If you need assistance at the polls in writing in your vote you may have the assistance of any near relative such as husband or wife, brother or sister, parent or child, grandparent or grandchild. This is the law written to assure you as citizens that you can vote for the candidate of your choice in this General Election.

Remember the law says, "No ballot shall be rejected for any technical error which does not make it impossible to determine the voters choice." This means that no ballot shall be thrown out because of spelling or other technical errors. The laws were written to enable you to vote for the person of your choice. This is your democratic right.

The Dignity of Work

BLESSINGS ATTEND HONEST LABOR; EVILS FOLLOW INDOLENCE

Scripture—Proverbs 6:6-11; 12:24, 27; 18:11; 24:30; 25:19; 28:2; 31:30-34.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
IN THE VERSES assigned for today's lesson, Solomon gives his views of the ever-present question of work versus indolence. We read in our newspapers too often about men who would rather rob than work and earn an honest living. Why do they commit crime rather than work?

It may seem like "easy money," but what a life such people must live—always in fear that they will find themselves in prison; never able to look their fellow citizens in the face; disgracing not only themselves, but their families.

Does the child who is given good marks in school but has copied a schoolmate's paper, feel happy about it? What of the child who secretly takes money from mother's purse, or from the desks of schoolmates? Does such a one enjoy spending money so gotten? The answer, of course, is no.

On the other hand, the man, woman or child, who performs a good, honest piece of work—no matter what it is—feels a glow of satisfaction and contentment.

All living creatures work to get their food, to build their nests, to care for their young. Solomon suggests that a lazy man study the habits of these industrious little creatures, the ant, as he saw him in Palestine:

"The slothful man roasteth not that which he took in hunting; but the substance of a diligent man is precious."

It is the worker who gains the high offices. Read the biographies of successful men and women and notice the records of their diligence. Laziness gets one nowhere except down. It is displeasing to God and men.

Even severely handicapped persons find ways to work, and it is heartening to read the stories of many either physically handicapped from birth, or from injuries received, who overcome their disadvantages to become industrious, useful citizens. They are examples to the rest of us.

Imagine the man who is so indolent that, after easily catching food on a hunting trip will not take it home and prepare it for food for his family!

"Wealth gotten by vanity (deceit or trickery) shall be diminished; but he that gathereth by labor shall increase."

Again we have a contrast. The man who gains his wealth by evil means is not really a successful person or a happy one. However, the one who works honestly and hard to obtain success may justly be proud of his wealth.

"In all labor there is profit; but the talk of the lips tendeth only to penury." Don't people who

MEMORY VERSE

"Seest thou a man diligent in his business? he shall stand before kings; he shall not stand before mean men."—Proverbs 22:29.

"Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways, and be wise; which, having no guide, overseer, or ruler, provideth her meat in the summer, and gathereth her food in the harvest."

"How long wilt thou sleep, O sluggard? when wilt thou arise out of thy sleep? Yet a little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to sleep; so shall thy poverty come as one that travelleth, and thy want as an armed man."

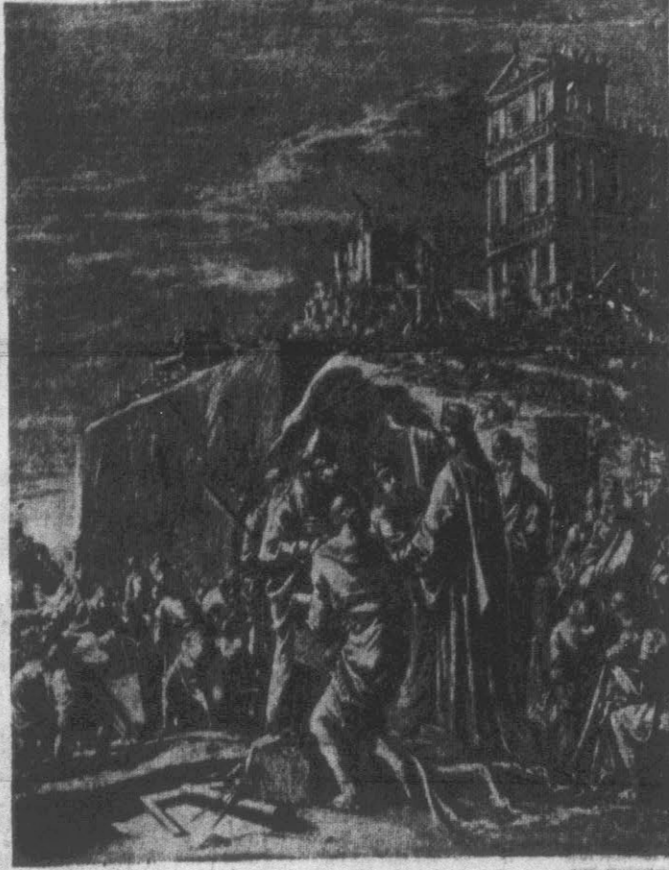

There are persons who feel that, as the saying goes, they are "square pegs in round holes," meaning, of course, that they are not employed in congenial work or work for which they are fitted. Even so, if, while they must earn a livelihood by doing such work, for a time, if they do a good job, they can feel proud of their efforts.

Poverty certainly follows the person who is too indolent to work. We all have known a few such persons—the man who fails to provide for his family because he will not work steadily; the woman who takes no pride in keeping her home neat and refuses to learn to cook well and plan so that her family is given the right type of food to keep them healthy. They are comparatively few, we are glad to say.

Again: "The hand of the diligent shall bear rule; but the slothful shall be under tribute."

Steel Industry Expects Better Months Ahead

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (U.P.)—Steel companies are looking for better and more profitable business in the months ahead.

But this summer's dullness has dimmed their earnings picture for 1954. And even the most optimistic expect the industry to have perhaps one fourth of its capacity idle for some time to come.

YUMA'S QUEEN
YUMA, Ariz. (U.P.)—Mrs. Agnes Vierra, 72, a native of Yuma, will be crowned queen tonight to start a big three-day celebration marking Yuma's centennial.

Candidates for queen had to be over 60 and to have lived in Yuma 50 years or more.

Even the big drop in tax payments wasn't enough in most cases, to make the July-September quarter net profits appear bright—either in comparison with the same period a year ago or with the April-June quarter this year.

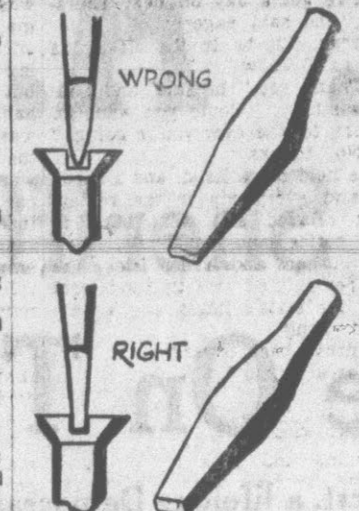

At midyear 30 steel companies showed profit after taxes trailing the previous year by 14 per cent.

Only six of the first 22 companies to report on their nine-month showing have profits higher than a year ago. Some of the six are in special fields that have been doing well, and some are located in regions where demand is good and competition lighter because of nearness to markets.

Combined, the 22 report profits down 19 per cent from the first nine months of 1953. One company—a supplier of auto companies—operated in the red this year.

There are almost 4,000 figures represented in the stained glass windows of Chartres Cathedral.

Tears for the Bride

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

EIGHTY miles an hour, ninety, and the road was a straight flat ribbon in the moonlight. Ninety-five. A Curve sign slammed at me. I pushed hard on the brakes and fought the wheel. The rear end skidded sickeningly on gravel and the tires made a horrible screaming. I fished gas again, let up on the brakes, and made the curve. Ahead the road was a straight again. Seventy, seventy-five, eighty and the motor wound up. Far behind I heard a faint banshee wail that sounded like a siren, but it could have been the blood singing in my ears. I laughed aloud. "Maybe I was going crazy. I pulled the Mercury off the highway and coasted to a stop gunning the motor affectionately before I turned the key. It growled a response and died. In the restaurant I got a cup of coffee at the counter and carried it back to one of three phone booths in the rear. I placed the coffee on a small shelf, got out a handful of silver, lit a cigarette, and went to the telephone. Sandy's voice sounded faint and far away.

"This is Jim, honey."

"Where are you?"

"Somewhere on Route 20. How's everything?"

"Ralph's worse, Jim. I called the hospital and they told me. His temperature is up, and he's not responding to treatment. They had already sent a car for dad, and he's at the hospital now. Dr. Mazzini is still with him, but—"

"I'm sorry, Sandy."

"I know you are."

"What's Judy doing?"

"Still sleeping." It seemed to me that Sandy's voice held a bitter edge.

"If you want to go to the hospital, I'll come and stay with her."

"No, don't do that. I—I can't do anything for Ralph. . . Jim, how have you been?"

"I think I'm going nuts."

"What?"

"Never mind." I paused. "Listen, Sandy, I'd better come over there."

"I—I am a little scared. It's kind of spooky out here. But I'm all right. You do what you have to do."

"Chin up," I said.

"Sure, Jim."

I hung up, fed more money into the slot, and waited maybe three minutes before Eileen Fortune's breathless voice said, "Yes!"

"This is Jim Bennett, Eileen."

"He's gone!" she cried.

"Ralph's dead! I knew it! I knew it. . ." Her sobbing filled the booth.

"Listen, I shouted.

"Tell me," she whimpered. "I—I'll be brave."

"He's not dead, but he's worse. His condition is critical, but there's still hope." I don't know if there was any hope for Ralph, but there was no harm in telling her.

"Is she with him?"

"Who?"

"Judy."

"No."

"She killed him. She meant to kill him, because she's jealous. She's got Ralph's blood on her hands. She—she's a Jezebel, a—a—"

"Stop it," I snapped. "Shut up. Is your father home yet?"

"Papa? No."

"Where is he?"

"I told you—"

"He's not at Dan's Place. Have you seen Ear, Seltzman?"

There was silence on the wire. Then she said primly, "Of course not. I am engaged to Ralph and it would not be proper for me to be seeing Earl."

"You let him take you home last night."

"That—that was different."

"I see," I said. "Is Earl there now?"

"No. Really, Mr. Bennett."

"Goodbye, Eileen."

"Thank you for calling. I—I'll pray for Ralph."

"Do that," I hung up.

Outside the booth a young, grave-eyed man in the uniform of a state trooper stood waiting for me. I gazed at him, took a sip of coffee, and said, "Gully, sergeant."

"Is that your black Mercury outside?"

"Yep."

"Lucky you made that curve," he said shortly. Over his shoulder I saw that everyone in the restaurant was looking at us.

"Lucky," I agreed.

He held out a hand. "Driver's license, please."

I handed him my wallet, and he flipped through the cellophanned compartments. He gazed at my private cop's license is-happened since Friday night would never happen again, not in exactly the same way, not for anybody. And oddly enough, I wasn't tired any more. I had gone beyond the barrier of fatigue and the need for sleep. I wasn't even hungry, and I didn't want a drink. I was in a happy limbo suspended tellingly between the world and space, and it seemed that my mind worked smoothly and calmly on oiled bearings.

I thought of all of it, taking each little scene as it happened, all the spoken words, the gestures, inflections and expressions of the people I'd met, the living and the dead. I laughed a little foolishly as I drove along.

The road unwound and the fields and the dark farmhouses drifted past and the moonlight was very bright. The rain had blown over, the wind had died, and the trees stood tall and straight along the road and across a line of hills on my left. It would be colder by dawn, much colder.

And then I looked in the rear-view mirror, and I saw it behind me on the road its lights off, but with the moonlight glinting on glass and chrome, the pale ghost car. I patted the .38 in my pocket and said crooningly, "Come on, you come closer, just a teeny bit closer."

But it didn't, and presently I didn't see it any more. I knew it was still there, somewhere behind me, as it had been for some hours on this cold November night, waiting for a chance to strike again, but I didn't worry about it now. I had been the hunted, and now I was the hunter. I pulled over to the side of the road and stopped, waiting expectantly. But no ghost car drifted up beside me; it refused to take the bait, and the road behind remained wide and empty.

I lit a cigarette and hummed to myself.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — The stock market beat a quiet retreat today on the 25th anniversary of the great crash.

Prices were down between 1 and 2 points at the outside with the majority of losses in the small fractions. There were many gains, but none amounted to much.

Trading came to something less than two million shares, slightly below the daily average so far this year.

On Black Tuesday Oct. 29, 1929, more than 16 million shares changed hands, and billions of dollars of stock values were wiped out.

The market started today on a slightly lower plane for the fifth straight day, and it continued on down quietly with occasional mild rallies.

Most major divisions displayed a mixture of gains and losses — steels, motors, aircrafts, coppers, airlines, and radio televisions. On the lower side were the railroads, chemicals, and utilities.

General Dynamics, which raised its dividend and called the convertible preferred, was strong after opening on a block of 1,600 shares up 1/2 at 65.

Aluminum Co. of America weakened materially after it reported a slump in profits for nine months.

CHICAGO — (USDA) — Salable hogs 6,000; active 25 to mostly 50 higher on butchers; late sales 50

RALEIGH — (NODA) — Hog prices 25 to 50 higher. RALEIGH — (NCDA) — Central North Carolina poultry markets: fryers and broilers steady, farm price 22, f.o.b. plant price, no sales reported; Raleigh eggs steady, A large 48.

Cases Heard In Superior Court

Consent judgments were entered in two cases in the civil term of Superior Court Wednesday.

In the case of Elizabeth Coward Langley vs. N. L. Bradshaw, a general partner trading as Home Distributing Company, and T. J. Cannon, the plaintiff was ordered to recover from the defendant Bradshaw a sum of $6250 and he is to pay 75 per cent of the costs of the action, or $27. From Cannon the plaintiff is to receive $2,175 and he is to pay 25 per cent of the costs or $9. The case grew out of a traffic accident which occurred December 14, 1951. In her complaint the plaintiff had asked for the recovery of $61,600 for alleged damage to her car and personal injuries.

The result of the same traffic accident was the case of Viola Gaskins Underwood against the same defendants named above. She was ordered to receive from Bradshaw $3,750 and from Cannon $1,250. Bradshaw is charged with 75 per cent of the costs of the action, and Cannon with 25 per cent. In her complaint the plaintiff had asked for recovery of $60,000 for alleged personal injuries.

A. T. (Tucker) McGlohan was ordered to pay plaintiffs H. P. Quinley and J. L. Quinley, partners trading as H. P. Quinley and Bro., $603.10 for a quantity of household and tobacco oil allegedly purchased from them, with interest from January 9 of this year. The plaintiffs had asked for payment in the sum of $705.10.

One divorce on the grounds of two years separation was granted in the case of Ada Stocks vs. Jesse Stocks.

Mr. A. F. Muscarelli, circuit supervisor for Jehovah's Witnesses, is visiting the Greenville congregation of the Witnesses this week from Tuesday to Sunday.

He and his wife are here to aid the local Witnesses in their ministry and also to call on the local people with a vital Bible message for people of good-will. They both graduated from the Watchtower Bible School of Gilead July 23rd where they were given special training for foreign missionary service. They will be leaving for British Honduras in the near future.

Mr. Muscarelli will be giving his main talk on the subject "Preparing Now to Live Forever" on Sunday, Oct. 31 at 4:00 p.m. at the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses located 3 miles west of Greenville.

Three Accidents Are Investigated

Two cars collided near the Double N Restaurant on North Greene St. Wednesday and one of the drivers was charged with reckless driving.

Involved in the accident were Joyce B. Mayne of Grimesland and Churchhill C. Thomas, Negro. Mrs. Mayne was charged with careless and reckless driving. Lt. R. W. Harris investigated.

Yesterday afternoon two trucks operated by Alfred N. Bostic of 510 East Ninth Street and Clifton Forbes Jr. of 206 Cadillac Street crashed at the intersection of Boyd and Chestnut Street. Damage to the two cars amounted to $250. No charges were placed by investigating officers W. R. Elks and R. W. Harris.

Also yesterday vehicles operated by Phillip Baker of Stokes Route 1 and Warren D. Robbins of Bethel collided on Greene Street. Damage amounted to $175. Neither of the drivers was charged by investigating officers R. B. Elks and J. W. Piver.

Reports Sweets Responsible For Decaying Teeth

PHILADELPHIA — Americans consume 100 pounds of sugar per person a year and that giant sweet tooth "causes a sour tooth of equally gigantic proportions," a dental expert said yesterday.

"The sour acids of tooth decay affect 95 per cent of our population," said Dr. Paul E. Boyle, professor of oral histology and pathology at the University of Pennsylvania School of Dentistry.

Boyle, speaking at the 37th annual meeting of the American Dietetic Assn., said sweets cause most tooth decay.

"Studies have shown that nutritional deficiencies do not cause cavities," he said. "They affect teeth only while the teeth are still being formed."

He said experiments have shown that fluorine in tiny amounts during the period of tooth formation reduces the occurrence of cavities by at least 50 per cent.
