Campaign Hits Blistering Climax

By JACK BELL WASHINGTON (AP) — Control of Congress appeared to be hanging in a narrow balance today as President Eisenhower and Adlai E. Stevenson prepared to wind up a blistering campaign with appeals for the voters to turn out in force tomorrow.

President Nixon, cast by the Democrats in the role of chief campaign author of the Communist-in-government issue, Nixon speaks from Denver. The program is scheduled for 9 p.m. EST. For the West Coast, the program will be rebroadcast three hours later.

Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, who has said Eisenhower has joined in a GOP chorus on the issue of domestic communism, speaks by radio (CBS) from Chicago. His talk is scheduled for 10:15 p.m. EST.

Democrats conceded privately that they had been hurt in some critical races by the charge that many of their candidates were "left wing." Atty. Gen. Brownell said Saturday night that if Democrats win control of Congress, the new chairmen of committees which deal with corruption and communism would be a "new kind of 5 per center — they supported the President's program only 5 per cent of the time. He did not name them. Brownell said the "big reason" for having a GOP Congress is that "in this field of communism there is much to be done by our federal government."

country is enjoying its best normal year but no GOP leader replied to know how effective this reply was. Democrats counted heavily too on what they labeled as dissatisfaction among farmers at low agricultural prices while the cost of living remained generally high.

Voting Booths Are Set Up For Tomorrow

Pitt County Jailer W. G. Leggett is shown above as he supervises installation of the voting booths at the County Court House in preparation for tomorrow's general election. Much interest in the election has been brought about by S. L. Whitehurst's write-in campaign for the office of sheriff against Democratic nominee Ruel W. Tyson. Hold Suspect In Slaying Of Girl

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. (AP) — A jobless laborer faces a hearing today on a murder charge in the slaying of 16-year-old Helen Jean Bryant, whose partially disrobed body was found covered with leaves and dirt on a hillside near her home.

Ellish Thompson Jr., 22, a neighbor of the slain Alliquippa (Pa.) High School sophomore, was arrested Saturday night about 12 hours after the girl's body was discovered. Her head had been crushed.

Sheriff's Race Is Featured Event In Pitt County's Vote

Politics remained at a fever pitch in Pitt County today as the two candidates for the office of sheriff raced for the wire and the voters' favor in tomorrow's election.

to go as high as it did in 1952 when 13,500 Pitt Countians went to the polls to give Adlai Stevenson a five-to-one endorsement over Republican presidential candidate Dwight D. Eisenhower. Neither did observers feel that the number of voters in tomorrow's election would be as low as the less than 4,000 who went to the polls in 1950 in the last "off-year" general election in Pitt.

Peel's list showed absentee ballots were issued to the following civilians: Ayden: G. I. Bullock, Charlie S. Smith, Mrs. Charles S. Smith. Farmville: Anna Ruthe Tyson, Arthur C. Jones, Ellen O. Smith, W. Ray Smith, Mrs. J. M. Wheelers Sr., Mary L. Long. Greenville: Ruel W. Tyson Jr., Maude R. Jamison, Willie F. Owens, F. F. Hendrix, J. F. Arthur, Mrs. S. B. Underwood Jr., J. B. Red China Claims Staggering Population Of Near 602 Million

TOKYO, Nov. 1 (AP) — Red China today claimed the staggering population of 601,930,000 people.

so, Red China now boasts more than three times as many people as her "big" Communist brother, to whom she has been exporting much-needed food in return for military and industrial aid.

The Chinese population now makes up almost one fourth of the human race.

The Chinese Nationalists, using estimates not unlike those of 150 years ago, arrived at the figure used for many years of 450 million people. After World War II this figure was increased by some sources to 475 million.

Initiated Into Sorority
MADISON, Wis.—Elizabeth A. Williams, 422 W. 5th St., Greenville, N. C., was among the 56 women students who were recently initiated into Sigma Epsilon Sigma, national honorary sorority for freshmen women at the University of Wisconsin. The honored women students all maintained a 3.5 or better grade point average out of a possible 4.00 per average in their studies during their entire freshman year at the State University last year, and therefore won the privilege of initiation into the honor sorority now. The outstanding women students were honored at a formal initiation ceremony in Wisconsin's Lathrop Hall, women's building on the UW campus, where they received public recognition for their high achievement in their studies.

Mr. and Mrs. Oglesby Hosts To Club At Buffet Supper

GRIFTON—Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Oglesby were hosts on Wednesday night at a delightful buffet supper for members of their contract club. The home on McRae Street for the evening was decorated with lovely arrangements of yellow asias mums, celosia and pines. Guests were invited for 7:15 and called into the dining room for a delectable turkey dinner served buffet style. The table was covered with a handsome cut-work linen cloth and centered with a bowl of yellow mums and tall candles in silver holders. During the games Mrs. Thurman Williams and Cecil Cobb were highest scorers. Others playing were Mr. Williams, Mrs. Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Mewborn and Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Hodges.

Autumn Theme Used For Meeting Of Card Club

GRIFTON—One of the prettiest parties of the fall was given on Thursday night when Mrs. Eleanor Gower entertained her card club and invited players to make four tables of bridge. In the dining room the table was covered with a cutwork cloth and centered with a low bowl of yellow chrysanthemums and erigeratum. Tall yellow candles in silver holders flanked this. A fried chicken supper and accompanying dishes was served buffet style. Later coconut cake and coffee were served as dessert. During the games which followed supper Mrs. H. P. Quinerly and Mrs. Robert Mewborn were highest scorers among the club members, and Mrs. Tom Gower among the guests. Mrs. Roscoe Bates, a dinner guest, was remembered with a gift.

Other players were Mesdames W. M. January, John Griffing, Stanley Gamble, Cecil Cobb, Alton Chapman, J. W. Short, L. L. Mewborn, Thurman Williams, J. L. Tucker, Dewey Wall, Miss Hazel Patrick, Miss Marie Chapman and Miss Bert Johnson.

Mrs. Burney Hostess At Dessert Bridge

GRIFTON—Mrs. Clay Burney entertained at a pretty dessert bridge on Thursday night for members of her bridge club. Scarlet sage and coleus made pretty setting for the three tables placed for bridge. As the guests arrived they found their places at the card tables and a dessert with coffee was served. Mrs. G. L. Tucker and Mrs. Roy Jackson were recipients of the high score prizes. Mrs. Josh Worthington was presented a Halloween box which on opening held surprise gifts from those assembled. Mrs. Worthington will leave sometime in the future to make her home in Kingston.

Other players were Mesdames Edward Hart, Walter Patrick, J. G. Chauncey, Milton Hart, Wiley Gaskins, W. E. Rasberry, Ben G. Tucker, Sam Nelson and Carey Garra.

Housewives Won Town's Control

EMERSON, Ark. — Less than a year ago, an unknown wag started a write-in campaign for the election of five housewives to the Emerson City Council.

Since no one had taken active interest in affairs of this little south Arkansas village for years, it was a great gag.

But the women won the election—by as much as 26-3—and now there isn't a snicker audible in the town of 503 persons.

The new councilwomen, who didn't know of the write-in move until they showed up at the polls, promptly took their new jobs and themselves seriously. It's generally admitted that they have done more than all of their predecessors to improve the town.

"Of course, we didn't have to do much to accomplish that," said Mrs. Sam Cox, owner of Claudette's Beauty Shop and one of five council members.

In true feminine fashion, the women's first order after taking office called for a town-wide clean-up campaign. Then they turned their efforts toward more serious problems.

For years, Emerson had operated its somewhat lethargic government solely on small turnback funds from the state and county. The city didn't assess a single tax against its residents. There were no paved streets, and no law enforcement.

Times are changing. One of the first orders of the new council was to require Emerson auto owners to buy city tags at $4 a year. Next the council talked local property owners into helping finance a program to pave city streets. With the property owners furnishing the material and right-of-way and the county supplying labor and equipment, the city has paved 2 1/2 miles of streets since the council took office. And, it didn't cost the city government a penny.

The new council also has granted franchises to private firms to provide natural gas and a dial telephone system for Emerson.

Mrs. Cox says the council's next big job is getting a young doctor to locate in Emerson. At present, the town has only one physician, and he's nearing retirement age.

Besides Mrs. Cox, the councilwomen are Mrs. Walter Foster, Mrs. Emory Cochran, Mrs. Hugh Stevens and Mrs. E.G. Gunnels. All are housewives. Mrs. Stevens, in addition to her household chores, helps her husband operate the Louisiana & Northwestern Railroad depot here.

The town's attitude toward the council—locally referred to as the "Petticoat Council"—was best summed up by Mrs. Cox, who called the members together for a joint interview at the railroad depot:

Town Springing Up At Air Field

GANDER, Md. (AP)—To thousands of Americans, Gander is a jumping-off place — the place where one pauses briefly for a cup of coffee before flying across the Atlantic. In their minds, it is just a big airport shed.

But Gander is home to 4,700 persons who directly or indirectly derive a living from the 62 stopovers that transatlantic planes make here every day. Most of them have lived, since World War II in leftover barracks. Now a new Gander townsite is springing up five miles from the airport, and one by one families are moving to it. Between 700 and 1,000 houses will be built along with stores and other facilities.

Heavy Frost

In the Greenville area, temperatures dropped 33 degrees last night from the day's high of 59 degrees, the local U. S. Weather Station reported.

A heavy frost, the second of this fall, occurred last night.

The first frost of the season occurred here October 18. First frost last year occurred November 12.

Yesterday a year ago, the highest temperature here was 75 degrees. Lowest that night 46, and at 8 a.m. next day it was 48.

Camera News

HALLOWEEN TREAT, the easy way. A straight flash records the costumes and fun.

AP Newsfeatures . . . . . help to increase the contrast range in the negative. Printing should be on the hardest grade of paper for the final effort.

The strange happenings expected at Halloween might further be enhanced by shooting the subjects from reflecting surfaces of polished, curved metal objects. The side of a toaster or a coffee pot or a curved chrome ferrotyp tin reflect wiper images much like the trick mirrors in amusement parks.

So far, we've talked about Halloween photography the hard way, in which the pictures would require effort, imagination, ingenuity and planning. There's still the easy way. . . . Straight photos of the youngsters dressed up and the Halloween party antics. And if you have some film and bulbs left, try a series at the front door as neighborhood kids ring the bell for a Trick or Treat. You can ring the bell, too, with a flash.

A favorite method of getting a low light along with the typical prop, is to put the light inside the pumpkin or jack-o-lantern. It can be a flashbulb or a photoflood bulb on an extension wire.

Where flash units are attached directly to the camera, another method of shooting the flash must be followed in order to get the low angle, spooky lighting. One way is by the open-flash technique. The camera must be on a firm support and the shutter set on Bulb (B) exposure. The flash away from camera can be fired at will by a simple hand flash unit or from an electric socket or an extension cord wired to three dry cells. (The latter requires a flashbulb with the right size base or an adapter to fit the socket.) When all is ready, the finger presses the button for opening the lens and maintains the pressure. . . . an assistant fires the flash (or use the other hand). . . . then the finger releases the button which automatically closes the lens.

If you've ever felt like fooling around with double exposure, this is the time to do it. By using a dark background, you can record one object or a person on one part of your negative in combination with another exposure on the same negative. You can create your own ghosts or floating heads (cover the rest of the body with a dark cloth) or midget-sized people as compared with monstrous sized cats or jack-o-lanterns.

If you don't feel up to double exposure, how about silhouettes? Stretch a sheet in the doorway between two rooms. The sheet is brilliantly lit from one room only, either by floodlamps or flash. The camera is in the other room, in which all lights are off. The subject, in exact profile, is about two feet in front of the sheet on the camera side. A few appropriate cardboard props might be pinned to the sheet. Can't you picture a witch riding her broom accompanied by flying cats under a quarter moon? Take a second shot with the light from the side of the camera to reveal that the witch is harmless enough little Susie in costume. Silhouette pictures should be exposed for the highlight only so there's no detail in the shadow portion. In processing, a little extra time in the developer would help to increase the contrast range in the negative. Printing should be on the hardest grade of paper for the final effort.

Car Overtakes Taking A Curve

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — When a burglar threatened to harm Mrs. Eleanor Ann Dunlap's two small children unless she surrendered her household money, she let him have it — pow, right in the kisser.

Mrs. Dunlap didn't use her fist, but what happened to be handy at the moment — the hot iron she held in her right hand.

"I got him right on the button," she told police. "He yelled and fled with the $4 in small change he had stolen from my purse."

At 6:30 yesterday afternoon vehicles operated by Dossie Herbert Carson, Greenville Route 5 and William Henry Whichard, Jr., Whichard's Beach were involved in a collision near C. L. Williams Service Station.

Whichard was traveling west on N. C. 30 when a pick up truck operated by Mrs. Carson pulled out from a service station in front of him. He was unable to stop and hit the right side of the truck. Damage to the truck amounted to approximately $25 while Whichard's vehicle received $100 damage.

Mrs. Carson was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way by investigating patrolman Perry.

Nehru Says Reds In Need Of Peace

By JOHN RODERICK
SAIGON, Indochina (AP) — Indian Prime Minister Nehru says China's Communist rulers want peace to carry out 15 or 20 years of intensive industrial development.

Stopping off here en route home from his 10-day visit to Peking, India's Premier told newsmen yesterday the Red government chief, Mao Tze-tung, had estimated three or four five-year plans would be needed to put China on her feet economically and that he wants to avoid anything which would block achievement of this goal.

"My visit to China has led me to believe the people of China are anxious to have peace and avoid war," Nehru declared.

After an overnight visit here with South Viet Nam officials, Nehru flew on yesterday to Phnom Penh, the capital of Cambodia. He is due back in New Delhi Tuesday, with an hour fueling stop planned for Rangoon en route.

The Indian leader said Mao thought the Geneva agreement ending the Indochina war "had eased the world situation greatly, but of course it continues to be difficult and full of problems."

He listed the Korean question, Formosa and the general situation in Indochina as the three most critical problems menacing peace.

Editor Asking Voters Remove All Incumbents

FARMINGTON, Mo. (AP)—Editor Jess Stewart of the Farmington Press called on St. Francois County voters to defeat all Courthouse officials in tomorrow's general election—including Editor Jess Stewart.

Stewart, who is circuit clerk, said of officeholder Stewart in an editorial published in the Press: "We decided the voters should decide to make a full-time editor out of him."

Stewart in his editorial "Throw the Rascals Out," said after "much soul-searching and self-evaluation" he decided to urge voters to support Gene Weible, his Republican opponent.

A Democrat, Stewart was appointed to the clerk's job and since has served two full terms. Most of the Courthouse incumbents he said should be beaten are Republicans.

New Honors For U. S. Fashions

Associated Press Women's Editor

When all America's top luminaries in the world of fashion get together against the august background of the new auditorium of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, there's no doubt that American fashion designers need no longer take a back seat to anyone else in the world.

This happened at the recent presentation of the American Fashion Critics' Awards to two young designers, James Galanos of California and Charles James of New York, when a cavalcade of American fashions was shown, representing the work of previous award winners of the last 12 years.

The top award, the bronze sculptured "Winnie," went to Galanos, a hitherto little-known Greek-American from Los Angeles, and the special award, a bronze plaque, to Chicago, a designer who started in New York. Galanos was cited for his "fresh, new, young talent," and James for his influence on the whole U.S. cost market during the last season.

While the gala modern fashion show went on in the auditorium, the Costume Institute's own exhibition of 600 years of European and American costumes went on in the galleries below.

The suave clothes of young Galanos, a slight and diffident young man not yet 30 are notable for their simplicity of line and their richness of fabric. He likes cocktail and evening gowns best, does some street dresses but no suits. His daytime dresses are likely to be one-piece and tweedy, with a coat-dress look. His evening gowns reach the heights of elegance, sell for prices up to $995, ready-made. A typical example is a French jacquard woven satin in tones of pale green and pinky beige, strapless, simple, with a harem train.

James' coats, done for a New York wholesale firm, are startling in both silhouette and fabric. His prize silhouette is molded to the boom, then flared sharply at either back or front. He uses wool bur-lap and satin with equal ease.

Through the collections of the current award winners were impressive, the impact of the whole force of modern American fashion came from the parade of costumes from the 35 designers who have been similarly honored in other years. These include:

Norman Norell, Lilly Dache, John Frederick, Mr. John, Claire McGardell Sally Victor, Gilbert Adrian, Tina Leser Emily Wilkens, Clare Potter, Omar Kiam, Vincent Monte-Sano, Nettie Rosensteln, Mark Mooring, Jack Horwitz, Adele Simpson, Hattie Carnegie, Esther Dorothy, Joseph de Leo, Maximilian, Pauline, Trigere, Toni Owen David Evins, Bonnie Cashin, Mabel and Charles Jullianelli, Nancy Melcher, Jane Derby, Vera Maxwell, Anne Fogarty, Sylvia Pedlar, Ben Zuckerman, Ben Sommers, Harvey Berlin and Karen Stark, Sydney Wragge Thomas F. Brigrance, Talback, Helen Lee.

Creations of these designers range from coats, suits and dresses to hats, furs and shoes.

They represent a dazzling total of American design which defines the American Look for all the world to see. It is a look not borrowed from Paris or Rome but created specifically to fit the needs of the modern American woman and her way of life.

And it's being preserved for posterity in the Costume Institute of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Three Suffocate In Apartment

SHENANDOAH, Pa. (AP) — Three men suffocated yesterday in a gas-filled apartment. Police said the gas came from a clogged chimney badly damaged by Hurricane Hazel.

Deputy Coroner Martin Murphy identified the three as Steve Koltsnick, 67, and Jacob Shistle, 58, two bachelors, and John Kotes, 45, father of six children, who was visiting them. Murphy said there was a strong odor of coal gas in the apartment.

Police said the chimney became blocked with soot where a portion of it had been blown off by storm winds. They said the coal stove used to heat the place apparently hadn't been turned on since the hurricane until Saturday night.

Drake Piano Recital Pleases Audience At College On Sunday

By MARY H. GREENE
An enthusiastic audience of about 300 heard Miss Elizabeth Drake of the department of music of East Carolina College in her annual piano recital Sunday afternoon in Austin auditorium. Miss Drake surpassed the high-quality of performance of her past recitals, and was brought back for several curtain calls by prolonged applause.

Her program opened with the Busoni transcription of Bach's "Wachet Auf, ruft uns die Stimme," which was played in the broad manner appropriate to the work. The accompaniment figure was consistently even, with the chorale melody sounding through with the proper intensity.

Mozart has always seemed Miss Drake's forte, and in the "Sonata in C minor, K. 457," her command of the music of this composer was very evident. The clarity of the fast movements and the singing beauty of the adagio combined to make the rendition of this Sonata an outstanding one.

Miss Drake was joined by George E. Perry, also of the department of music faculty, for the reading of the "Concert Rondo in D, K. 382." In this work the two pianists demonstrated the oneness of performance which has marked their two-piano recitals in the past. The number was charmingly Mozartian, full of delicate passages and embellishments so prominent in the music of this composer.

The recital continued with two Chopin numbers, the "Berceuse, opus 47," and the "Etude in G flat, opus 10, no. 5." In the first, the cradle-song melody with its many variations was spun out with exquisite delicateness; in the second, one of the trickiest of the Chopin Etudes, the pianist displayed to a further degree her purring technique. Concluding the recital was the Liszt "Hungarian Rhapsody no. 13." This was an excellent number to use as a finale, for it is an outstanding display-piece. Miss Drake had not the slightest trouble with its many intricate measures, proceeding to the last note with her customary assuredness, and bringing the recital to a climactic conclusion.

Following the program, Miss Drake and Mr. Perry were guests of honor at a reception at the home of Miss Mary Greene.

Take Up Shotgun War Against Starling Horde

CINCINNATI (AP) — Abandoning psychological warfare, the city of Cincinnati was ready to resume its shooting war against starlings today.

Shotgun blasts yesterday dislodged the enemy—temporarily, at least.

The psychologists had tried—unsuccessfully — strands of tinsel stretched between trees, stuffed owls which only fooled other stuffed owls, Roman candles and phonograph records.

(Oris E. Hamilton, the city's director of safety, estimated today that his eight marksmen bagged 200 to 300 birds. They shot from atop two downtown buildings about two blocks apart.

"We're not striving for numbers, however," Hamilton said. "We are breaking up the flocks and discouraging them from coming back."

Local Taxes To Rise

While Federal taxes appear to have leveled off, taxes in most states and many municipalities are about to surge upward. Federal levies were reduced this year and efforts will be made to bring about further cuts next year. However, the chances are that any cuts in 1955 will be nominal, and the next sizable reductions will come in 1956 which, by no coincidence at all, is an election year. In any event, no rise in Federal rates is likely unless new international crises arise.

Rising pay rates and the need for new schools, highways, institutions and services are pushing levies by political subdivisions higher.

Next Tuesday, voters in six states will pass on almost $1 billion worth of new bonds for school purposes, benefits for veterans, mental health care and housing. More bonds mean more taxes to provide funds for interest and amortization.

Next year legislatures of every state except Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi and Virginia are to meet, and almost all of them will consider proposals for increasing taxes.

New income taxes or extension of old ones will be considered in many states; so will sales taxes.

Three distinct trends noted in recent years are likely to continue. They are the trend to heavier taxes on trucks; devices to collect more taxes from out-of-state companies, and boosting assessments or tax bases. The last step produces more taxes without putting the legislators on record as raising "rates."

Constitutionally, states cannot tax out-of-state companies at heavier rates than domestic companies; nevertheless, there are several ways of hitting the firms harder within the law. And that trend is partly responsible for rising levies on truckers a large part of whom are out-of-staters. However, need for more revenues for highways—and sometimes a bit of lobbying by railroads—also tend to bring boosts in taxes on truckers.

At local levels, desperate needs for more schools, more roads, more parking areas and extension of police, fire, water and other services to mushrooming suburbs are making higher taxes inescapable.

State and local taxes collections totaled $11.1 billion this year, an increase of 41 per cent over 1950.

NEW TAX LEVIES CALL FOR BUSINESS CAUTION

The rise in size and number of state and local taxes increases the potential burdens on businesses doing business beyond the borders of their own states.

More than ever, firms planning to expand operations in other states should have a thorough check made on the tax consequences. Sometimes it pays to do business through a subsidiary, or to franchise other firms in some states.

EFFICIENCY CUTS COSTS AND BOOSTS SALARIES

An 18 per cent increase in the work performed by the average employee has reduced annual salary costs by $4,000,000 in a Columbus, Ohio, insurance organization, the American Management Association was told. E.A. Rule, vice-president of the Farm Bureau Insurance Companies said they had decreased salary costs per policy and at the same time increased the average salary per employee.

The reduction in salary costs has been brought about by incentive systems, decentralizing of the organization, and a "methods department," a group of 38 persons working full time to develop better procedures.

The 'Ordinary' Americans

Don't Overlook Proposed Amendments

Pitt Countians should not overlook the five proposed amendments to the state constitution which they are expected to decide upon when they go to the polls on Tuesday.

The action of the voters at the polls Tuesday will determine whether the state constitution remains as it now is, or whether it is altered in accordance with the provisions of the proposed amendments.

The Reflector feels that two of the proposed amendments will be of sufficient benefit to the state to warrant their adoption by the voters of the state. The other three, we feel, are of questionable value, and therefore should not be adopted.

We feel the voters of the state would be wise in voting for the adoption of amendment number one, which could authorize the General Assembly to provide for the retirement of members of the Supreme Court; and amendment number five, which would eliminate short terms of office running between a general election and the following January list.

Proposed amendments two, three and four in this election should be rejected by the voters of the state.

Amendment two would authorize the General Assembly to create a Board of Paroles which would take over certain authority now in the hands of the governor concerning parole of prisoner. While North Carolina in past years has seen its paroles system under considerable criticism - and justifiably so - The Reflector feels the proposed constitutional amendment does not offer a sufficiently constructive solution to the problem to justify altering the constitution of the state.

Amendment three would prohibit any county in the state from having more than one senator in the General Assembly. This proposed amendment is an abrupt departure from the traditional principle upon which representation in the General Assembly has been based. The state is divided into senatorial districts on a population basis, and while one populous county may be entitled to more than one senator, several less populous counties may be combined to make up a senatorial district. In spite of the fact the present method of apportioning senatorial representation in the General Assembly may mean the concentration of a number of senatorial districts in a relatively small geographical area, we do not feel at the present it will be harmful to the peoples' representation in the senate.

Each county has and will have at least one member of the house in the General Assembly. It would be unwise, we believe, to limit a county to one member in the senate, regardless of the size of the county.

Amendment four would reduce from four months to 30 days the required time a person must live in a precinct before becoming eligible to vote in a precinct. We feel the current requirement of four months residency in a precinct before being eligible to vote is amply liberal.

Amendment number one, which we feel should be adopted, provides that retired justices of the Supreme Court may be recalled for active duty on the state Supreme bench as emergency Supreme Court Justices to take the place of any Justice who is temporarily incapacitated.

Amendment number five, which we also favor, eliminates the necessity of short terms (from the general election to January 1) when a vacancy occurs in an office in the executive department or judicial department of the government of the state.

Don't overlook the constitutional amendment ballot when you go to the polls. It is an important part of the voter's obligation to express his opinion on these constitutional amendments, just as it is important for him to vote for the candidates of his choice.

Savings And Sound Investments In Stock Encouraged

By ROGER W. BABSON
BABSON PARK, MASS. — I have always encouraged the safe investment of money through buying stocks in well-known, standard, dividend-paying companies, plus diversification amongst a large number of companies. That is why I have favored the Investment Trusts and Mutual Funds for those with only a little money. These should give safety and security.

The nation as a whole, however, may get top-heavy with "safe investments." Too many people cannot live on the dividends of old-established corporations. Some people must be willing to take some risks by putting some money into new enterprises.

WHO BUILT AMERICAN INDUSTRIES?

During the past few weeks I have been studying the industrial history of New England. Conservative "investors" did not build the cotton factories, the paper mills, the woolen plants of New England. These are built by men willing to take risks. The sailing ships which set forth from Boston, Portsmouth, Gloucester, Salem, and New Bedford to all parts of the world—without charts or steam—and even before the days of lighthouses—were built by "speculators," not by "investors."

The Securities and Exchange Commission has done a good thing for conservative investors and the big, established companies; but whether the Commission has done well for the nation as a whole is debatable. America today needs more speculators.

PIONEERING ENCOURAGED

It is said that the Democrats inaugurated most of the new tax law changes to help the sick and aged. The Republicans, however, are responsible for the features of the 1954 Tax Law which encourage invention, industry, and young concerns. During the Roosevelt Administration, business was treated with a certain disdain. The New Deal politicians and professors who had had no experience with business, wrote the laws.

Such legislation has helped the unfortunate who were unable to work, but it has discouraged the formation of new companies to provide future employment. It has been very difficult for young men to get the capital or to save enough from earnings to start a new business. It has been like trying to run a church without a Sunday School—or have a family without raising children. The new 1954 Tax Law makes it easier for any young man of good character to start a new business. It also encourages older investors to take some risks by starting new enterprises, prospecting for uranium and other rare metals, and providing future employment for the next generation.

WHAT UTOPIA MEANS TO ME

Mrs. Babson and I have founded three successful colleges—Babson Institute for men at Babson Park, Mass., Webber College for women at Babson Park, Florida, and a third college in the center of the United States, at Eureka, Kansas. This third school is intended to help worthy young people with vision do new things which their parents or friends may think impossible.

As I meet the men who are doing big things today, I find that—as a rule—they did not come from big cities. Most of them were brought up on farms. Their college was the wood box and the corn field. They were obliged to fight severe heat in summer and cold in winter. They thought that life consisted of taking risks with horses, cattle, and storms. Steam heat, air conditioning, and flossy colleges may make good investors, but these modern luxuries do not teach men to take risks. A greater willingness to risk is the need of America today.

ONE MORE THOUGHT

Young people who are born without luxury or without money and who are struggling for an education should remember this: You have as much time as anyone in the world. No President, Prime Minister, Professor, or Captain of Industry has more time than you have.

I forecast that some day every reader will realize that time is worth more than money. My appeal this week is that you use a fair proportion of your time in taking risks for the good of the nation.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
IMMEDIATELY

Here is a good rule to make permanent in your everyday schedule: When you have a good impulse, act upon it right then. Don't put it off.

Have you lost friends because you failed to answer letters or to write to friends when they were experiencing sorrow or some other distress? Have you listened to somebody's sad story, shrugged your shoulders, turned away and tried to forget as quickly as possible what you had heard? Have you been meeting with hostile reaction certain attitudes on the part of your associates?

Well, when there is a letter to write, write it. One does not need to write a roman; long letters can be boring. But get the letter off—especially to some member of your family—while the impulse is present. And if someone tells you a sad story and there is anything you can possibly do—do it right at that moment; don't wait. Furthermore, the next time some associate or member of your family annoys you almost beyond the point of endurance, follow the good impulse of staying calm and then trying to meet hostility with kindness, yield with deference, bitterness with love.

If you act on the right impulse and act immediately, the whole power of the heavenly order is behind you.

"Now is the appointed time."

4-H Work Contributing To A Better Pitt County

Pitt County can be justly proud of the awards and recognition its 4-H youngsters and the county 4-H program received at the Northeastern District recognition day here Saturday.

Four Pitt County boys and girls were among the recipients of the 69 certificates and ribbons presented to district winners in various phases of 4-H work in the 18 county area.

It is significant that Pitt was one of four of the 18 counties of the district which was singled out at the meeting for a special award for its 4-H program. That is indeed a tribute to the work of the 4-H members, and likewise the adults throughout the county who contribute much of their time and energy in working with the 4-H boys and girls and encouraging them to greater accomplishments.

The Reflector takes this opportunity to salute the 4-H members of the county, and the adults who work with them, for the outstanding contribution they are making to Pitt County.

Around Capitol Square

By LYNN NISBET

HANES — Observers around capitol square, including visitors from other parts of the state, have been wondering what was behind the statement made by Robert M. Hanes at Charlotte the other day. Hanes' announcement that he expects to retire as president of Wachovia Bank & Trust Company, and perhaps from other business obligations, at end of next year occasioned no great surprise. His desire for more time to hunt and fish and read is understandable.

It was the added statement that "most of all I want to enter public service and do something for my town and State," that caused ears to perk up and eyebrows to lift. Public Hanes is nothing new for Bob Hanes. He has served as member of the Legislature from Forsyth county, in high position with the Economic Cooperation Administration in Europe, and is currently chairman of the commerce and industry committee of the State Board of Conservation and Development. These assignments have been temporary or part time. Implication in his retirement statement is that he wants to devote undivided attention to public service in some capacity.

Some folks think he aspires to be Governor. Others suggest that he may be interested only in the role of elder statesman adviser without official portfolio.

Additional statements made at Charlotte, where he was attending the C&D board meeting, raise question as to whether he will

Some Observers 'See' Political Aspirations In Banker

AMENDMENT — Governor Umstead, who had previously indicated lack of enthusiasm for the constitutional amendment designed to limit any county to one senator regardless of population, went all the way at his latest news conference in opposition to the proposal. He said it destroys the basic concept of equal representation in the General Assembly. First glance, he said, the immediate effect might be to "protect" small counties against dominance by large population centers. Once the theory of equality in representation is destroyed almost certainly the small counties would suffer more in the long run.

BLUE — Discussion of the senate limitation amendment directs attention to Rep. Clifton Blue of Moore county, who introduced and got through the bill submitting the amendment to popular vote. Shy and unobtrusive in manner, modest and retiring in disposition, he is apt to be overlooked in casual appraisal of legislators. After four terms (he is coming up for his fifth), Clifton Blue is not generally rated as a legislative leader. Yet he has a record of getting just about everything he wants.

He sponsored and obtained enactment of a bill four years ago giving to his most important constituents, the operators of Pinehurst, Inc., nearly all of the privileges of a municipality—including a share in the distribution of State collected intangible,

WASHINGTON—An historic struggle between Conservatives and Liberals for control of both major parties will start as soon as the hot votes are counted in tomorrow's Congressional and gubernatorial contests, regardless of the outcome. The result may determine the personal and political fate of President Eisenhower, as well as the identities of the 1956 Presidential nominees.

It has not been generally noted save by the professional politicians, but the "regulars" on both sides have taken almost no part in the campaign, unless they were themselves running for re-election.

Such eminent Southerners as Senators Byrd of Virginia, George and Russell of Georgia and McClellan of Arkansas have not gone on the stump to demand restoration of Democratic rule, although such a shift would elevate them to many key chairmanships.

APATHY—On the Republican side, there has been a minimum of effort by the so-called Taft faction. Although Senator Everett McKinley Dirksen heads the Republicans' Senatorial Campaign Committee, he has not played a prominent part in the fight. In fact, he cancelled a speech he was to have delivered for Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, the Republican Senatorial candidate and an avowed enemy of Dirksen's friend, Senator "Joe" McCarthy.

McCarthy himself spent most of the campaign in the hospital or in recuperating at home. He did so on the advice of Senators in his corner, who thought it wise for him to remain silent pending the census vote. But "Joe" also saw no reason for straining himself in order to obtain a vote of confidence in the Eisenhower Administration.

ULTRACONSERVATIVES—Several other Middle Westerners preferred to sit out this election for reasons which are rather obvious. They include Senators Capehart and Jenner of Indiana, whose first allegiances run to the ultraconservative wing. They were Taft supporters in 1952, they back McCarthy, and they dislike the Eisenhower-Dulles foreign policy.

Depending upon developments in the next few years, including Ike's possible withdrawal from politics, their White House favorite would be Dirksen.

No Real Luxury Left In World

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—"There isn't any real luxury left in the world today," says Charles James, who designs dresses that sell for $1,000 up.

"Luxury is nonexistent. We live in a period that is little better than a gilt-edged communism. That is what makes it dangerous—the fact there is plenty of money here, but it reflects the average taste, not the peak taste."

James, a designer who has twice won the national critics award, numbers among his clientele some of the best-dressed ladies of royalty and international society, including the former Queen of Spain, Mrs. Harrison Williams, Mrs. C. V. Whitney and Lily Pons.

An intense, slender man of 48, he feels the American fashion industry lacks prestige because it spends too much money trying to please people of average taste.

"That makes the average person the leader in style," he said. "This is ridiculous. The middle group destroys taste. It doesn't create it."

"Most great changes in taste have come from extravagant people with powerful original personalities."

"Millicent Rogers is the last person who had any real influence on American taste."

Thirty gowns and coats James designed for the late old heiress have become part of the permanent collection of the Brooklyn Museum.

An open admirer of the aristocratic tradition when it comes to matters of style, James feels it takes up to 20 years for peak taste in new fashions to dribble down to the masses, and that's quite all right with him.

What lady of great wealth today, even though she comes from Texas, can measure up to the great ladies of the past? None, according to James.

"Did you know that the Empress Josephine, Napoleon's wife, once had a dress made of thousands of rose petals for a special occasion?" he mused. "She wore it only for an hour."

"The first Queen Elizabeth left 3,000 dresses when she died. But the greatest wardrobe in history was assembled by a Chinese Empress who had more than 5,000 garments."

"Unfortunately, members of the court were jealous of her political influence with the emperor. She finally hanged herself."

Naturally, she used a cord of purest silk. No lady of fashion would consider wearing a common rope for her final public appearance.

Although James sells his adapted dress designs for lower prices, husbands ask him what makes his original custom creations worth $1,000 to $1,250.

"A $1,250 dress is really cheap," he insisted. "We lose an average of $300 each on these creations."

With James they are a prestige factor. He also custom designs jewelry, foundation garments, theatrical costumes and furniture.

"America is losing international standing by being content to accept French leadership in the world of fashion," he said.

"The best fashion talent in this country cannot find employment here. The best schools for fashion technology turn out year after year talent trained for invention which can only starve."

"That is why you find so many young American fashion designers working for French houses. Only in Paris do they find the freedom to experiment and show their originality."

Conservatives Vs. Liberals

He did so on the advice of Senators in his corner, who thought it wise for him to remain silent pending the census vote. But "Joe" also saw no reason for straining himself in order to obtain a vote of confidence in the Eisenhower Administration.

ULTRACONSERVATIVES—Several other Middle Westerners preferred to sit out this election for reasons which are rather obvious. They include Senators Capehart and Jenner of Indiana, whose first allegiances run to the ultraconservative wing. They were Taft supporters in 1952, they back McCarthy, and they dislike the Eisenhower-Dulles foreign policy.

Depending upon developments in the next few years, including Ike's possible withdrawal from politics, their White House favorite would be Dirksen.

A Letter May Tip Off Your 'Salary Bracket'

By ED CREAGH
 WASHINGTON (AP) — A letter you get late next month may provide a tipoff to your neighbors as to what salary bracket you were in last year.

Right after Christmas, the government will start mailing income tax forms and instructions to taxpayers. And these packets will tell anybody who looks at them what your income bracket was last year — whether you were in the under-$5,000, the $5,000-to-$10,000, or the over-$10,000 class.

This is how it works:

If you reported on the simplest form an income of less than $5,000 last year, the government will mail you a new type of return. It will be about the size of an ordinary bank check. The return, which you must file by April 15, 1955, is designed for easy handling by calculating machines.

If you reported a $5,000-to-$10,000 income last year, your new form will come — along with an instruction booklet — unwrapped. The package will bear a red stripe a quarter of an inch wide.

Finally, if you told the government your income last year was over $10,000, you also will receive a no-envelope packet. But in this case it will carry a quarter-inch-wide yellow stripe.

There are some exceptions to this system. For instance:

Farmers, as well as business firm proprietors and partners, will get special forms. Businessmen will have a blue stripe on the outside. Farmers will have a green stripe.

In addition, the under-$5,000-type cards will be mailed only to people:

1. Whose whole 1953 income came from wages and salaries, plus up to $100 in such things as dividends and interest; and the usual withholding deductions. These installment plan tax payments are taken out of most people's checks every pay day.
2. If some of your under-$5,000 income last year came from other sources, however, you won't get by with the short return in the sealed envelope. Even if your income included some such trifle as $3 for the rental of an abandoned shed, you'll graduate to the red stripe class, and have to make out a longer form.

Why all this red and yellow stripe business?

Internal Revenue Service officials say it was adopted to speed up office routine — make it easier to send the right forms to the right people.

Some complaints have been received from people who don't like the possibility of others knowing, in a general way, about their income. The internal revenue people don't see much danger of this happening.

They point out that mailmen, who would see all the envelopes or striped returns, are federal employees forbidden by law to tell what they know about such things as taxpayers' income.

And as for others who might spot the red or yellow stripe, or who might pick up an envelope and tell from the feel it contained an under-$5,000 form, a spokesman said:

"I suppose that a prying person in an apartment house might learn something, but it would be pretty hard for anyone else to do so."

Missing Lincoln Tombstone Found

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The lost tombstone of Eddie Lincoln, second son of Abraham Lincoln and Mary Todd Lincoln, has been found after being missing for 89 years. Dr. Harry E. Pratt, Illinois State historian, says the white marble slab was found face down and serving as an entrance stone to the burial plot of Gov. Ninian Edwards, Illinois' third governor, and his descendants in Oak Ridge Cemetery.

Edward Baker Lincoln died Feb. 1, 1850, a little more than a month before his fourth birthday. He was buried in Hutchinson's Cemetery, eight blocks west of Springfield's public square. In 1865, following the assassination of President Lincoln, Edward's body was moved to the temporary Lincoln tomb in Oak Ridge, beside the bodies of his father, and brother, William. When the present tomb was finished it was placed there.

Mrs. Lincoln, later in 1865, gave Eddie's original tombstone to her eldest sister, Elizabeth Todd Edwards, wife of Ninian Wirt Edwards, son of the governor. Mrs. Edwards had it moved to Oak Ridge and the name "Edwards" engraved on it, Dr. Pratt said.

TV IS PRIZE
 MUSKOGON, Mich. (AP) — Circuit Judge Henry L. Beers says the television set, after the children and the family car, takes top priority in the settlement of divorce cases as the most sought-after item.

The largest demand for electric light bulbs is in the 100 and 60 watt sizes.

CURVE OF LIGHT — Pennsylvania Railroad's Horseshoe Curve, around Altoona, Pa., reservoir, is bathed in light by 6,000 Sylvania photoflash bulbs mounted above, below and alongside right of way. Simultaneous flash, synchronized with camera shutters also specially built 154-foot tower, marked curve's centennial and 75th anniversary of incandescent lamp.

Tradition Plays Role In Election Day Oddities

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Why does election day fall in November?

The National Geographic Society quotes Alexander Duncan, Ohio representative from Ohio, who wrote the presidential election day law in 1845: "Harvesting is over then, and winter has not yet made the roads impassable."

However, until 1872, each state fixed its own day for voting for Congress and often it was not the same as presidential election day. Between 1845 and 1872 Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana voted in October for representatives. Even today Maine, by special exception and because of an early winter, votes in September for all offices except presidential electors.

While Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. is giving up a seat in the U. S. House to run for attorney general of New York, his older brother James is seeking election to the House from California. John, the late New Deal President's youngest son, has been campaigning for a Republican Congress as a vice chairman of the Citizens for Eisenhower.

President Roosevelt's personal physician, retired Vice Adm. Ross T. McIntire, is Democratic candidate seeking to unseat Republican Rep. Bob Wilson in California's 30th District.

A pair of law partners — one a Republican, the other a Democrat — oppose each other for district attorney in Wisconsin's Walworth County. They are Erwin Wastrow, Republican district attorney since 1946, and Philip B. Morrissy, Democrat. They are members of the same law firm.

Bill Bangert, former national amateur shot put and discus champ, is trying to break the Democratic hold on Missouri's 1st District. He's the GOP candidate against Democratic Rep. Frank M. Karsten.

The geographic society offers these other historical items:

Voting as a citizen's privilege goes back to the ancient Greek city-states. Some public officials were elected viva voce—by voice vote—though more were chosen by lot.

Romans voted on waxed wooden slabs, and later by white and black balls. The word "ballot" itself derives from the Italian "ballotta," meaning "little ball."

Following English custom, the American colonists voted aloud, although as early as 1834 Massachusetts was using a paper ballot. The voter had to bring his own piece

Dynamite Booby Trap Missed

TOGA, W. Va. (AP)—A train used for hauling coal for the strike-bound Maust Coal and Coke Co. mines narrowly missed being blown up near here yesterday when a booby trap failed to explode.

Cpl. C. G. McClain of the state police said the fuse on about 14 sticks of dynamite under the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks apparently had been lit but went out.

The train crew found the bomb when they stopped to investigate dirt and rocks on the tracks.

Women In The Church

Dr. Mary McLeod Bethune, 74 years of age, of Daytona Beach, Fla., was honored in Chicago as the "Mother of the Century." The noted Negro church woman founded Bethune-Cookman College in Daytona Beach fifty years ago. Dr. Everett R. Clinchy, president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, presented the award on behalf of the Dorie Miller Foundation in Tabernacle Baptist Church, Chicago. Dr. Bethune was the 15th child in a South Carolina slave family of 17.

The United States should continue to work for creation of a United Nations specialized agency to receive contributions of atomic materials and supervise their peaceful use, Mrs. Frank G. Brooks, president of the Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Methodist Board of Missions, wrote to President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles. The letter, authorized by the Woman's Division and recommended by its Department of Christian Social Relations, was sent also to the United States Mission to the United Nations. It expressed gratification that President Eisenhower, in calling for the establishment of such an atomic energy organization, indicated that the United States will favor the agency being related to the United Nations. Mrs. Brooks expressed the concern of Methodist women that this plan should be kept within the structure of the United Nations and "it should not be abandoned no matter how difficult the process of setting up in this way may be."

Mrs. Eunice Weaver, wife of a retired Methodist missionary to Brazil, the Rev. C. Anderson Weaver, has been honored in that country by being named first assistant to Brazil's new Minister of Health, Dr. Miguel Conto. This honor is the latest of a series of awards Mrs. Weaver has received for her pioneering work in Hansen's Disease (leprosy) prevention and education in Brazil. Other honors include the Order of Merit by both the Cuban and Paraguayan governments, as well as the National Order of Merit from her own country. Mrs. Wea-

Tears for the Bride

By ROBERT MARTIN

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE

EARL SELTZMAN stared at Eileen blankly, his thin mouth working, as she urged him to confess. There was saliva on his chin.

"I said, 'Earl, everything adds up. You knew that we all were going hunting yesterday morning, and so you look to the woods, too. You saw us head for the ravine and you waited on the hill across from the ravine, and on a level with the crest. You also saw Judy down in the thicket, or maybe you didn't see her. It doesn't matter. When Ralph reached the top of the ravine you fired at him and then ducked. Judy fired, too, at a peasant, but her shot did not hit Ralph. She was standing directly below him and the shotgun charge which struck Ralph slanted horizontally across his chest. If Judy had hit him, the torn grooves in his jacket would have been vertical, because she fired from below—I saw her climbing up the side of the ravine immediately afterward. You counted on it, being called a hunting accident, didn't you?"

again in his eyes and he said in a strange voice, "Don't talk like that. It's crazy."

"I forgive you," she crooned. "Earl, my darling, it was always you. I never loved Ralph. You know I never loved him that it was you. Please put down that nasty gun. We'll face it together, side by side."

But he was watching me. He couldn't hear her any more. I took a step closer, so that I could reach him in one dive, if I had to, and I kept my gaze on the gun. It never wavered, and I didn't like that. Suddenly he sighed, a deep hopeless sigh, and his face took on a slack stupid look, and it seemed to me that his eyes behind the rimless glasses held no expression whatever. He had been fighting something, a dark, secret something, but it was over now, and he was at the end of his rope.

"All right, Earl," I said soothingly. "Use your head. Give me the gun." I held out a hand and took another step forward.

And I stopped.

The gun barrel moved a half inch and it bore directly on the pit of my stomach. His thin lips pushed in and out over his teeth and he braced himself against the door.

"Earl!" Eileen screamed. "No, no!"

I wanted to jump for him, to reach for my own gun, to yell at him, to do anything, but I stood rooted. He began to tremble, and I saw his finger grow white on the trigger. There wasn't time for anything, not any more.

There was a sudden slamming sound. I heard Eileen's crazy, cracked scream and I felt sick and I wondered when the pain would start. But there wasn't any pain, and I realized suddenly that the sound had been a car door slamming just outside the door. Earl Seltzman moved his eyes, for just an instant, and I jumped for him, got the gun, wrenched it from his fingers, and brought my fist up against his angular jaw. He hit the floor without a sound, and I dragged him away from the door.

(To Be Continued)

"No," he said in a choked voice. "I didn't mean for Ralph to be killed—"

"You were scared afterward, weren't you, Earl?" I broke in.

"You hung around, out of sight, to see what went on. At noon you saw me coming across the fields. You ran to your farm and got a rifle—or maybe you had it with you—and you saw me at the spot where you'd shot Ralph. You knew then, for certain, that I was on your trail. So you shot at me and I dropped. You thought you had killed me. But old Rex Bishop, fixing a fence down in the bottom, had seen you. He approached you, accused you and you had to kill him. That was the second shot I heard. Then you went away, started drinking, and came to the ravine later in the afternoon, to the scene of your killings. Rex was still where he'd fallen, but I was very much alive and digging your bullet from the tree. That shocked you, and you would have made certain that I was dead again. I had taken your shotgun. You went away and you brooded and worried. When I found you in the poker game, you became more worried. I was bounding you, and you had to get rid of me. You gave the men a story about my being an insurance salesman, and they staled for you. You sneaked out, hid in the alley, and when I came out, you tried once more and missed. You hung around, followed me. When I stopped at your house, you tried again and missed again. But you stayed on my tail." I paused, watching him.

He gulped and said shrilly "It's crazy. I didn't do any of that."

"Don't lie, Earl," I said gently. "You followed me out on the road to the truck stop, and back again. When you saw that I was headed for Eileen's house, you circled around, got here ahead of me, to make me think you'd been here all the time. I turned to Eileen. 'How long has he been here?'"

"Forgive him," she intoned.

"I peered at her, saw the odd, flat look in her eyes. She seemed to be in a kind of daze, and maybe I should have slapped her out of it, but I didn't. Instead, I said to Seltzman, 'How did you manage to lock Judy's door from the inside, after you turned on the gas?'"

His thin body twitched, and his tongue kept darting in and out of his mouth over his prominent teeth. His face held a waxy pallor, and he stared at Eileen like a man transfixed. "She doesn't know what she's saying! Don't you listen to her!"

"Never mind," I said wearily. "You can tell the sheriff. She can tell him, too."

"Sheriff?" he mumbled.

"Yes," I said, feeling suddenly a deadly fatigue. "Murder is not permitted by law."

Eileen's voice rose in anguish. "Oh, Earl!"

I turned my head, and that moment, from the corner of my eye, I saw Seltzman make a stealthy movement toward the front door. I shouted to him to stand still. He kept moving, faster scurrying along the wall. I started for him. Eileen flung herself against me. "Let him go!" she cried. "Take me! I'm the guilty one. I led Earl on, I tempted him..."

I pushed her away from me. She stumbled to the floor and crouched there, on her hands and knees, her yellow hair falling over her face. Seltzman was reaching for the door knob, and I said "Hold it, Earl. Don't be a fool."

He swung toward me, his back against the door, and he cried in a wild, shrill voice, "I'm not going with the sheriff! You can't make me!"

"But I can," I said softly.

He began to sob, his eyes squeezed shut, his mouth puckered, an ugly sight. I decided that he and Eileen made a good pair. Both were emotionally unstable and probably immature.

"Earl," I said, "are you going to behave while I call the sheriff, or will I have to beat you?"

"Don't you touch me again," he said in a low, desperate voice. "Don't you dare. I—I'll kill you."

I took a grim step toward him. He avoided my gaze a sly look on his face, and his hand moved. Suddenly I was looking at a small blue automatic. I was dumb-founded. I hadn't figured him for the kind to carry a pocket gun, but I should have known better. He was of the unpredictable type, the dangerous ones. I stood still, feeling the rage again, and the fear, too.

Eileen moaned, "Don't kill him, Earl, please please..."

He stared at her, the horror

Just Learning

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A little girl marched into a branch of the big Union Planters Bank and handed a teller a dollar bill.

"Would you change that to nickels?" she asked.

Taking her nickels over to a table, she counted them carefully, and returned.

"Would you change these into dimes?"

Back she came a few minutes later to get the dimes changed into quarters.

When she returned with them, too, curiosity triumphed over banking reticence and the teller asked: "What in the world are you doing?"

"Learning to count money," she said briskly, and retired with her half dollars.

French Pushing Atomic Project

PARIS (AP)—France will start building a synchrotron (atomic energy accelerator) next spring, according to Prof. Francis Perrin, French High Commissioner of Atomic Power.

The big accelerator, part of a five-year plan for the development of atomic energy for non military purposes in France, is expected to develop two billion electron-volts and be the most powerful in Europe until completion of that planned by the European Center of Nuclear Research at Geneva, which will develop 25 billion electron-volts. The Geneva accelerator is not expected to be completed until 1960.

Men From Mars Just Their Jake

ROME. (AP)—Fifteen youths who threw the north Italian town of Tradate into a tizzy with a story about seeing men from mars in a translucent flying saucer told police last night it was just a joke.

Authorities didn't find it funny. They said the pranksters would be disciplined on a charge of spreading false reports—a misdemeanor carrying penalties of up to three months in jail and fines up to 24,000 lire (140).

In most sports, including the Olympic Games, it's what you see the individual athletes do that provides the thrills and demonstrates his or her ability.

A good example is the blue-eyed, blond Lis Hartsel, 33, of Copenhagen, Denmark. Despite being severely crippled by polio 10 years ago, she is the champion dressage rider of the world.

G-Men Play AAA Team Next Friday

Fresh from their 41-0 slaughter of Selma's Yellow Jackets Friday night, the Greenville Phantoms go to rougher pastures this week with an engagement against the AAA Goldsboro Earthquakes in ECC stadium.

The Earthquakes are one of the stronger teams of the AAA Eastern Conference. So far this year the Northeastern Conference has had very much success against the bigger loop.

The Green Phantoms knocked off Wilson of the Eastern loop at the first of the year. The rest of the Northeastern Conference teams have had good luck against their supposedly stronger foes.

Coach Bill Kittrell's gang shows any degree of effectiveness equal to that of Friday night it should prove to be a rather interesting ball game.

The win was another tremendous team effort for the Phantoms as they did not have any outstanding star. Probably the happiest Phantom of them all was Mitchell Johnson, the superb scabback.

Three Games To Go, Loop Has Champion

Though the season still has three more weeks to go, the North State Conference was honoring a new football champion today.

Appalachian's unbeaten and untied Mountaineers won last year's Saturday night, edging last year's champion, East Carolina, 13-7.

Elon's hopes to gain at least a tie for the title were washed away in a 20-20 tie game with Western Carolina. The Catamounts pushed over 20 points in the first half and Elon completed the scoring in the second half.

High Mark For Pee Wee Reese

BROOKLYN (AP) — Pee Wee Reese, captain and shortstop of the Dodgers, smiles when he looks back at the banner he has carried in 1954. The 35-year-old infielder batted over the .300 mark for the first time in his 12-year major league career.

Lenoir Rhyne swept past Emory and Henry, 20-7, in a nonconference game. But other league teams had less luck against outside foes.

One conference game is set this week, Guilford vs. Elon at Burlington.

Friday night East Carolina moves to Tampa against the University of Tampa.

Other Saturday games are Catawba at Davidson, Lenoir Rhyne at Wofford and Western Carolina at Emory and Henry. Appalachian has an open date.

Fish Killed By Woodland Fires

NEW YORK (AP) — Forest fires kill many fish in addition to other wildlife. This is the word of Dr. R. W. Eschmeyer, executive vice president of Sport Fishing Institute.

In discussing the current fire prevention campaign, Dr. Eschmeyer said: "Forest fires cause siltation and excessive warming of trout waters and smallmouth bass streams. Folks can help their fishing by preventing forest fires."

Appalachian Upsets East Carolina By 13-7

Cop Conference Crown At Boone

By BRUCE PHILLIPS Reflector Sports Writer BOONE — Appalachian's Mountaineers, held in check for three quarters, took to the air lanes with an unorthodox spread formation here Saturday night for two fourth-quarter touchdowns and a 13-7 comeback victory over East Carolina.

The win gave the Mountaineers a clean sweep of North State Conference competition and their first loop crown since 1950.

A crowd of 3,000, each deserving the Silver Star for bravery, sat in petrifying winds in 20-degree temperature to see the Apps gain their seventh victory of the season and remain among the nation's unbeaten and untied football eleven.

Both teams unveiled formations never used by either before. The Apps' tricky spread which dispersed the Mountaineer line across the full width of the playing field, baffled the Pirates to the extent of two fast touchdowns.

Statistics ECC ASTO First Downs 52 12 Rushing Yards 109 97 Passes Attempted 9 14 Passes Completed 3 6 Passing Yards 22 69 Passes Intercepted 2 1 Fumbles Lost 4 0 Yards Penalized 40 10

The game was played on a soggy field from a two-inch snowfall Friday night. Snow was shoveled off the gridiron Saturday afternoon and parts of the stands were still blanketed. Light snow flurries fell during parts of the second half, but it was not enough to cover the field.

The first half was a scoreless duel with the two antagonists battling back and forth. Each seriously threatened to score, only to be repelled by valiant goal line stands. The Pirates' offense looked the best and the defending champions pushed the Apps around with considerable ease, although on approach of the goal line it was either a Pirate fumble or the Apps tightened up their defense.

Highlight of the opening half was the tremendous 88-yard punt by Fullback Claude King. At the close of the second period, the Pirates held an Appalachian challenge on ECC's 14. The Pirates took over and were immediately penalized five yards for illegal tackling.

It took a fired-up Pirate crew just 10 plays to cover 54 yards and a touchdown to start the second half. King, Tom Allsbrook and Toppay Hayes collaborated to carry down to the Apps' nine-yard line. Hayes scooted around his own right end to score. King booted straight and true and East Carolina led 7-0.

The remainder of the third period was nip-and-tuck, the Mountaineers trying desperately to get back into the ball game. The Pirates were using the new and deceptive formation devised by Coach Jack Boone and making great strides to what seemed another touchdown.

Just before the teams changed sides, Appalachian went into their strange spread formation attack. Aubrey Elam, fleet halfback, intercepted Boyd Webb's pass on the Apps' 30' and returned to the 48. Elam and Jim Kiser picked up a first down to ECC's 38. Hard-running Jim Ollis moved to the 38 and Ned Pennell, quarterback, passed to Ollis to the 24. Pennell passed again, this time to End Bob Post to the five. Pennell QB-sneaked to the three before the period ended. Ollis moved down to the one and

Seven Major Elevens Untied

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirty-eight college football teams are still undefeated and untied. Seven of them are major schools.

UCLA Cincinnati and Montana State top the unbeaten list with seven victories each. Ohio State, Miami (Fla.), Arkansas and Oklahoma have won six each.

Major teams dropped from the unbeaten and untied rankings over the weekend were West Virginia, Boston College and Virginia Tech. The 38 list includes Appalachian State with seven wins and South Carolina State with six.

U.S. And Russia To Shoot It Out

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Soviet Russia and the United States will shoot it out on the plains of Poligono Conejo Blanco. No it's not a "hot war" but merely the world's rifle championship to be held Nov. 14-29 under the auspices of the International Shooting Union.

The U.S. is sending a team of 36 marksmen. Russia will have 50 of its top shooters ready.

More than 500 men from 30 nations will be competing for individual and country honors in rifle, pistol, skeet and deer range events.

Birdie Tebbetts was a success in his bow as a major league manager. His Redlegs won 74 games, most Cincinnati has won since 1944 when the team won 89 games.

George Wallace, a member of San Jose State College's soccer team, played the game in Shanghai.

then was held to no gain by a desperate Pirate line. A play later, Bill Stanley, right halfback, shot through right tackle and the score. Ollis' try for the point-after was wide and East Carolina still led 7-6.

Second App Tally Still employing the spread with great effectiveness, the Apps scored again the next time they got their hands on the ball. Webb fumbled on ECC's 31 yard line. Rick Lippard for Appalachian recovered. Six plays later the score was Appalachian 13, East Carolina 7. It was Stanley again doing the talling honors. He scored from four yards out. Ollis' boot this time was perfect. ASTO 13, ECC 7.

The remainder of the game saw the Pirates trying desperately to score. The Pirates, though, were forced to punt from deep in their territory and the Apps took over. The Mountaineers almost hit pay dirt again. They drove from their 42 to ECC's 10. The wicked spread had the Pirates off-balance so, ground-gaining was at almost will. With Milton Collier's long pass intended for Hayes, the final gun sounded. Appalachian had won their sixth consecutive conference game and third championship for Coach E. C. Duggins, who also toured the 1948 and 1950 teams to the title.

Actually the score wasn't the entire complexion of the game. The Pirates outgained the Apps rushing, 108 to 97. The Mountaineers led throughout in passing yardage and the important fumbles-recovered category. King booted five times for a formidable 38.5 average. The 88-yard would have meant more had not one boot slogged off King's foot and traveled only 10 yards.

The Pirate line played a whale of a ball game. George Tucker was a demon with innumerable tackles. Co-Captain Willie Holland and a share of the tackles. The public ball of fire and made more than a dozen touchdowns. The Pirates' defense was everywhere swatting down ball-carriers. Sports writers witnessing the game commented that he's truly an All-Conference performer.

Don Burton and David Lee did a good job at the guards. Paul Popov and Ken Burgess also turned in creditable performances.

Toppay Hayes and Claude King was the running show for the Pirates. King was practically unstoppable. He drew great praise from coaches and sports writers alike. Out-of-luckers appeared shocked when it was pointed out that King was left off the All-Conference team last year.

Ned Pennell, Jim Ollis, Aubrey Elam and Jim Kiser were terrific in the fourth period for the Apps. Pennell, especially, ran, passed and directed a good ball game. Sportsmanship was at its highest on the field, opposing players helping each other up with pats on the back. The Pirates lost to a good ball club.

By SKIPPER PATRICK KANSAS CITY (AP) — A bunch of college kids who only last spring were demanding their coach be fired now are playing for him in a manner that could land them in the Orange Bowl Jan. 1, 1955.

The chances are excellent, in fact, that Coach Bill Glassford's Nebraska Cornhuskers will meet a member of the Atlantic Coast Conference in Miami next New Year's Day.

Nebraska cleared a major hurdle in the race for the oranges by outscoring Missouri, 25-19, at Lincoln last Saturday. The Cornhuskers, with a 3-1 conference record, have only two league games remaining — Kansas at Lawrence this Saturday and Oklahoma at Norman Nov. 20.

After a losing season last year, there was considerable dissension in the Nebraska squad and players sought Glassford's ouster.

While the schedule from here out favors Nebraska, Kansas State, Missouri and Colorado also remain in the running for the post season bid.

Either Missouri or Colorado will bow out in a game involving those two at Columbia this Saturday.

Kansas State, which handled Kansas Jayhawks 28-6 at Manhattan, shouldn't have too much trouble with Drake at Ames.

Oklahoma is out of the picture because of league rules prohibiting a member from making successive appearances in post season games.

Terps' Fullback New Leader For Scoring Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Maryland's Dick Bielski, a hard-charging senior fullback, is the new leader this week in the Atlantic Coast Conference football scoring race.

Bielski shared the lead last week with three others but his eight-point performance in Maryland's 20-0 conference victory over South Carolina Saturday was enough to push him out in front.

The Baltimore, Md., native scored once and booted two extra points. For the season he has tallied four touchdowns and kicked eight conversions for a 32-point total.

Jim Coleman of Clemson, who either held or shared the lead for three weeks, slipped to second with 30 points. He scored one of six Clemson touchdowns as the Tigers whipped Wake Forest, 32-20.

Fullback Bryant Aldridge of Duke, fifth last week, hopped to third with 26 points. Duke scored 21 points in the final half to overcome Georgia Tech, 21-20. Aldridge scored once.

Three others are tied for fourth at 24 points. They are Duke's brilliant halfback, Bob Pascal; Mackie Prickett, South Carolina's flashy sophomore quarterback; and Herbert Hartwell, Virginia's plunging fullback.

Saturday's thriller was Duke's last minute victory over Tech. The Yellow Jackets mauled the Blue Devils in the first half, permitting Duke over the 50-yard line only once. By the third period, Tech enjoyed a 20-0 lead. Duke's sparkling quarterback, Jerry Barger, set fire to the team then and the Blue Devils scored three times within 17 minutes, the final score coming with 40 seconds left. Jim Nelson's three extra points played a major role for Duke.

Maryland's victory over South Carolina almost eliminated the Gamecocks from the Orange Bowl picture. Quarterback Frank Tamburello, subbing for the injured Charlie Boxold, sparked the victory with two touchdowns. It was the first time in 42 games South Carolina has been shut out.

Virginia almost staged a major upset, losing to Army, 21-20. The Cavaliers stiffened in the face of the highly favored Cadets, and only a missed conversion cost them a tie.

A wide open scoring spree was staged at Charlotte before Clemson overpowered Wake Forest, 32-20. The Tigers spotted the Deacons a 14-point lead. Sophomore quarterback Charlie Bussey took over and coupled with three last period scores, helped to give Clemson its first ACC win.

Rapidly improving North Carolina lost a thriller, 20-20, to Tennessee. Halfback Ken Keller scored twice for the Tar Heels, matching a similar scoring performance by Tennessee's Tom (The Bomb) Tracy. But Tracy gained 192 yards in 14 carries and kicked two extra points.

The margin of an extra point gave Furman of the Southern Conference a 7-6 win over North Carolina State in a night game. Quarterback Eddie West sneaked over for the Wolfpack touchdown in the first quarter. Jim Boyles scored for Furman and Guy Pringels kicked the deciding extra point.

This week's schedule (all Saturday games): Furman at Clemson, Duke vs. Navy at Norfolk, Va., North Carolina State at Maryland, South Carolina at North Carolina, Wake Forest at Richmond, and Virginia, open date.

Wisconsin's coaching staff includes aides from six different schools.

Business Profit 'Score' Is Tied With Last Year

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The business profit score so far this year is in a tie with last year. But you sure can't tell the players without a score card.

Record earnings after taxes are piled up by some of the corporations reporting on how they've done so far this year. Sharp declines—and sometimes sizable deficits—dot the tally cards of other firms. Some industries are fat and sassy. Others are ailing.

The first 393 corporations to report on profits and losses for the first nine months of 1954 show combined earnings after taxes 0.4 per cent above their take in the like period of 1953.

But slightly more than half of them fell behind their last year marks. And 20 of them were operating at a loss, compared with 11 in that unhappy state a year ago.

Big gains this year by some of the largest corporations offset the declines of the majority. Some of these gains in profits after taxes were chalked up in spite of a drop in sales totals. The end of the excess profits tax made all the difference for many firms.

And the big drop in total income tax collections from corporations is one of the reasons the U. S. Treasury is running a bigger deficit this fiscal year than it first anticipated.

While the nine-months profit record so far is running about even with last year, for most companies the summer months were dragging behind the results earlier in the year. Business profits managed to stay about seven per cent ahead of last year in the first three months of 1954. By mid-year they were a scant two per cent ahead. A quiet summer found a number of industries slipping behind.

Many of them now are feeling a quickening in business and expect their final three months to be considerably improved.

Remember that only a handful have reported so far on their nine-months earnings, or losses, and that when all reports are in the tally may be quite different.

Companies reporting in red ink are scattered through the textile, railroad farm equipment, coal and appliance industries.

Sharpest declines from a year ago, for industries as a whole are registered by textiles (off 82 per cent), by coal (off 44 per cent), by railroads (off 37 per cent), by aircraft equipment makers and auto suppliers, retail, rubber, airlines, and metalworking industries.

But cement companies are earning 28 per cent more this year

NEW DRILL — British army recruits show at Whitehall, England, new "port arms for inspection" position created for Belgian rifle adopted as standard firearm for NATO troops.

than last. And so are the makers of business machines and machine tools. Profits of the first aircraft makers to report are double their 1953 earnings. As a group building material suppliers are nicely ahead of a year ago. So are the electronics, paper, container and motor industries.

Tobacco companies, in spite of their worries, are earning 16 per cent more than last year. The farm machinery makers are recovering ground and have pulled ahead of last year in the profit column.

Combined the 393 corporations report earnings of $4,856,490,853, compared with $4,832,869,911 for the first nine months of 1953.

Soviet Spokesmen Are Slowing Up Revolution

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst
In advance of this year's anniversary of the Russian Revolution, theoreticians of the Soviet Communist party are going to great pains to point out a new course to their "brotherly Communist parties" abroad. They are telling them not to be in such an all-fired hurry for the revolution.

Recent articles have been illuminating on this score. One of the plainest appeared a week ago in Pravda, importantly played across the eight columns of the party newspaper's center fold. It contained a broad hint of what makes Soviet foreign policy tick today.

Moscow seems to be pulling the reins on the Communists abroad, fearing that any attempt now at a violent overthrow of an established government could lead to the world war the Kremlin seems to fear at this moment. The Kremlin has had to explain this patiently, in Communist talk, to the brethren abroad.

Thus the Communists abroad are not to stop their efforts to undermine and embarrass governments in capitalist countries, and are not to stop propagandizing in favor of Moscow and world communism. But they are to proceed warily, and to avoid "adventurism," which in the Communist language, means setting out to accomplish something without assurance in advance of success.

The Communists abroad were told in the Pravda article, written by the influential editorialist A. Leontiev, that capitalism is dying anyway, that no force in the world can save it, that the world revolution sooner or later is inevitable, country by country.

Leontiev began the article by saying that Marx and Engels, the prophets of world communism, could not analyze the epoch of imperialism because they did not live in it. It remained, he said, for Lenin to do that and for Stalin to elaborate on the analysis.

Thus Lenin, and Stalin after him, came up with the realization that the simultaneous victory of the revolution in all or a majority of capitalist countries was not quite possible. Thus, said Leontiev, came the theory of "socialism in one country."

In the light of all this, "it became clear that the transformation from capitalism to communism could occupy a whole historical epoch." This idea is repeated and stressed throughout the article.

Leontiev added that Lenin "proved the possibility and necessity of long peaceful coexistence of two systems, socialism and capitalism."

Communists can be patient, the article hints, because "contradictions" within the capitalist system and among capitalist states inevitably are leading to the ruin of those countries. The countries, Communists were told, are headed toward such notions as "Fascism, Hitlerism and McCarthyism," all described as manifestations of frayed capitalist nerves. Fascism, by this theory, would be the "last stage" of capitalism.

"There cannot be the shadow of a doubt of the outcome of the world struggle, that the final victory of socialism is fully and unconditionally assured," Leontiev wrote. "This conclusion is supported by all history."

Drought Reduced Size Of Apples

RALEIGH — Dry weather throughout most of the apple growing areas of the state has greatly reduced the size of the fruit and previous volume estimates will have to be lowered due to the small size of the apple, according to T. T. Hutton, extension horticulture specialist.

In addition, the horticulture specialist pointed out that the color of the apples has also been affected. He said this was due to the warm nights causing rapid respiration which uses up sugar. Plenty of sugar is necessary for good red skin on an apple.

He said that despite the drought, there are still plenty of fine, high quality apples throughout the apple growing areas of the state.

CONCRETE EVIDENCE — Tugs slowly inch 400-foot floating dry dock, made of enough concrete to cover acre of ground five inches thick, through Seattle drawbridge, en route to shipyard for fitting after which it will be turned over to the Navy.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market maintained a steady position today on the eve of the elections. Gains and losses spread out over a rather narrow range of a point either way with many leaders holding unchanged.

Trading was at a pace even slower than the 1,900,000 shares traded Friday when the market declined.

Tobacco stocks were higher right from the start. No other major group had a pronounced movement either way.

Among higher stocks were American Tobacco, Reynolds Tobacco "B," Liggett & Myers, Philip Morris, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Sperry Corp., American Telephone Du Pont, and General Electric.

Going down were Chrysler, Chicago Pneumatic Tube, Goodrich, and Standard Oil (N.J.).

All financial and commodity markets in the United States will be closed tomorrow for the election.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hogs were 19.50 at Hillsboro; 19.25 at Tarboro, Hamilton, Enfield Rocky Mount; 19.00 at Kinston, Fayetteville Clinton, Rich Square, Woodland, Siler City, Kenly, Beulaville, Elizabethtown, Micro, Freeman; 18.75 at Smithfield, Lumberton, Taber City, Whiteville Shallotte, Dunn, Wilson, Goldsboro, Mount Olive, Burgaw Clarkton, Lillington, Newton Grove, Warsaw, and Bailey.

Adenauer Calls On Former President

West Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, right, shakes hands with former President Herbert C. Hoover during a visit in latter's suite at a New York hotel. Adenauer arrived earlier from Washington, D. C., where he conferred with high U. S. government officials. Hoover accepted an invitation from Adenauer to visit West Germany and will leave Nov. 21 for a week in West Germany. He will make the trip on Pres. Eisenhower's plane, The Columbine. (AP Wirephoto).

New York's Race Appears Close

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The New York state gubernatorial race, which started at a poky pace, roared today toward a feverish finish amid rival victory claims that appeared hedged with some qualms.

Instead of tapering off on the day before election, Averell Harriman, the Democratic-Liberal party candidate, and U.S. Sen. Irving M. Ives, the Republican choice to succeed retiring Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, continued campaigning as though they needed every last vote.

Harriman chartered a plane for a whirlwind speechmaking visit to six cities in Republican upstate. His main purpose was to deny again GOP charges that the Democrats intended to give Democratic New York City more state aid for education at the expense of upstate schools.

From New York, Ives spearheaded today a final GOP television-radio drive over an 18-hour period—as Dewey did in 1950.

Richard H. Balch, Democratic state chairman, stood on his prediction that Harriman would be elected governor by a margin of 500,000 to end 12 years of Republican rule of the Empire State.

L. Judson Morhouse, Republican state chairman, pegged Ives as

Weekend Marred By Auto Mishaps

Local officers investigated a series of traffic accidents during the weekend. None were considered serious, however.

Saturday morning about 10 o'clock cars operated by Willie Dixon, Negro, of Washington, William Emmett Norwood of 315 West Fifth Street and Zida Ward VanNortwick of East Rock Spring were involved in a collision at Evans and Fifth streets. Damage to the three cars amounted to an estimated $210. Norwood was charged by investigating officer B. R. Buck with failure to yield the right of way.

Also Saturday cars being driven by Theron Edward Pollard of Winterville Route 2 and Luke Best, Negro, of 600 Albemarle Avenue collided at Fifth and Albemarle Avenue. Pollard was charged with operating a vehicle while under the influence. Lieutenant R. W. Harris and J. E. Gurganus investigated the accident.

At 6:33 p.m. a collision took place at East Fifth Street between vehicles operated by Jerry Vinton McSpadden of Stallings Air Force Base in Kinston and Eleanor Norris of 546 Evans Street. Traffic officer V. C. Ackert investigated and no charges were placed.

Also during the weekend a car driven by Charles Ebert Lumford, Negro, of Zebulon hit a parked car belonging to LeRoy Barnes of 500 Centennia Street. Damage to the two cars amounted to approximately $70 and no charges were placed. Patrolman Ackert investigated.

Hadn't Planned Chicken Dinner

OSSIAN, Iowa, (AP)—The Erwin Dotsenrods hadn't planned to have a chicken dinner, but they had the Robert Carey family over for chicken dinner yesterday.

Under the circumstances it was about the only thing the Dotsenrods could do after what happened Saturday night. That's when the Dotsenrod dog brought home a sack containing three live chickens.

Mrs. Dotsenrod thought the sack had fallen from a passing truck. She could see no way to return the chickens to the owner so she killed them for Sunday dinner.

She was chatting with Mrs. Carey yesterday morning, and Mrs. Carey mentioned that someone had carried off the sack of chickens she had left outside her door until she got ready to clean them.

Mrs. Dotsenrod invited the Careys for Sunday dinner.

The dog is in the doghouse with Mrs. Dotsenrod.

Snake Handler Surviving Bite Of Deadly Cobra

DURANT, Okla. (AP)—Jerry Quick, 39-year-old snake handler, bitten by one of the world's most poisonous snakes Saturday, was recovering today and considered out of danger by his physician.

An Indian hooded cobra he was displaying for only a handful of spectators at his reptile garden near here nipped him on the thumb.

"These snakes have to bite or chew the venom in, unlike other snakes. Quick knew to turn the snake over on its back so it would turn loose quickly. Then he incised the wound."

Swelling in Quick's forearm had subsided and he was able to get out of bed after recovering from nausea.

A veteran of 20 years at snake handling, Quick declined to make a trip to Dallas for an antivenom injection for fear "the cure would be worse than the bite."

Jaw Broken In Sunday Shooting

FARMVILLE —Doctors described the condition of Felton (Doc) O'Neal as satisfactory after he was shot in the jaw early Sunday morning.

Attending physicians stated that O'Neal received a broken jawbone from a .22 caliber bullet which ripped through his mouth.

O'Neal was allegedly shot by Hubert Earl Ross after the two had been drinking Saturday night.

Farmville Chief of Police L. T. Lucas gave the following version of the Sunday morning assault:

Ross and O'Neal had been out drinking Saturday night and returned to Ross's home on East Church Street in Farmville. The pair were in the kitchen portion of the house and began arguing. O'Neal kicked a swinging door leading into the kitchen and the door hit Ross's child.

The chief said Ross ordered O'Neal out of the house and O'Neal left. He drove his auto onto the lawn and Ross then went out and asked him not to come back into the house. O'Neal was reported to have come up on the porch and Ross shot him with a .22 rifle.

Lucas said Ross was placed in jail and later released on bond. No charges have been preferred against Ross pending the outcome of O'Neal's condition, according to the chief.

Correspondent Is Now Centenarian

SOUTH PARIS, Maine, (AP)—Mrs. Julia Chadbourne, who still works as a country news correspondent, today began her second century of life.

She celebrated her 100th birthday yesterday with two parties one at the home of her niece, Mrs. June Penfold, with whom she is spending the winter, and the other in nearby North Bridgton, her home town.

Bright-eyed and alert, she still turns out copy for the Bridgton News for which she was a regular correspondent for about 40 years.

The American Cancer Society considers Mrs. Chadbourne the nation's oldest cured cancer patient. She underwent surgery when she was 80.
