Driver Pinned Under Car, Later Succumbed

Richard Nelson of Grifton can be seen above pinned under his demolished vehicle as an unidentified man attempts to assist him. The injured man, who was freed from the car by the local fire department rescue squad, later died in Pitt Memorial Hospital. The accident occurred about 1:30 last night. (Photo by Roy Hardee).

Grifton Man Dies Of Auto Accident

A Grifton man was fatally injured last night when his car overturned in Winterville about 1:30 a.m. He was identified by Highway Patrolman Jim Davis as Richard Nelson, who died in Pitt Memorial Hospital about 4:25 a.m. this morning. Nelson's car apparently went out of control and overturned just as he was entering Winterville headed toward Greenville on N.C. 11. The injured man was pinned under the vehicle until shortly after 2 o'clock. The Greenville Fire Department Rescue Squad was called to the scene to free the seriously injured man from the demolished vehicle.

Nelson was apparently riding alone when the accident occurred. Rescuers said Nelson was pinned under the 1954 model car about 10 or 15 minutes after they arrived. He was reported to have been to Kinston for a Little Theatre production dress rehearsal and returned to Grifton with a second member of the cast whom he carried home a short time before the accident occurred. Nelson was cast in the lead role of the play which was scheduled to open tonight. The fatally injured man was still dressed in the costume which he wore for last night's dress rehearsal when the accident occurred. Nelson died of internal chest injuries, according to the physician who attended him at the hospital. The doctor said the man talked to him at the hospital but never fully regained consciousness before he died.

N. C. Vote Of 700,000 Is Forecast For Today

RALEIGH (AP)—The 9th and 10th Congressional District races held the attention today as North Carolinians elected a congressional delegation and voted on numerous state and local offices in the general election. The polls opened at 6:30 a.m. and close at 6:30 p.m. State Democratic Chairman John D. Larkins Jr. forecast a total vote of around 700,000. This would compare with 588,000 votes in 1950. In the 9th District, where interest has been high, the Republicans hoped to unseat Democratic Rep. Hugh Q. Alexander. His Republican opponent was William E. Stevens Jr. In the 10th District, the Democrats waged a determined battle to defeat Republican Rep. Charles R. Jonas, who was opposed by Democrat J. C. Sedberry of Charlotte. Republican and Democratic leaders predicted victory in the two districts. Alexander forecast he would be re-elected by double the majority of 3,692 he received two years ago. A House campaign investigating committee sent a special investigator, S. P. Kimmel, into the 9th District. On Saturday the Republicans challenged thousands of ballots in the district. The committee, as a result of the brief investigation, ordered election boards in the district's counties to impound all absentee ballots and records relating to them. The action would not prevent counting the absentee votes, according to Raymond Maxwell, executive secretary of the State Board of Elections. However, if the election is so close that the absentee vote is sufficient to decide the winner, the committee's probe may delay the results for sometime, it was pointed out. The challenging of the ballots and the House committee probe were described by Alexander as "efforts to confuse the voters." Local chairmen were supposed to send a list of applications for ballots to the State Board of Elections chairman yesterday. State law says this must be done the day before the election.

Argued It Just Wasn't Logical

DENVER (AP)—Murel L. Webster, 30, denied a police charge yesterday that she drove at 50 miles an hour across the 16th Street viaduct with one arm around a woman. Webster told Municipal Judge J. Joe Rawlinson his comparison with his wife and it "is not logical" that a man would drive through town with his arm around his own wife.

Mothers Decide Hospital Mixed Up Their Babies

LONDON (AP)—Two young mothers decided last night the doctors were right — a hospital had mixed up their baby sons five weeks ago, giving each the other's child. Mrs. Vera Bowers, 22, and Mrs. Sheila Read, 24, agreed to make permanent the trial baby switch they had arranged for a 24-hour period. "Both Sheila and I feel as if a ton weight had been lifted from our shoulders," Mrs. Bowers told a reporter. "We thought the babies might not take to us but they are as bonny and happy as cats." "Thank God, our days of uncertainty are over," said Mrs. Read. The two families plan a joint christening at which their sons will trade names. Baby John, the one Mrs. Bowers got by mistake, will become Kenneth, the name his own parents picked for their son. Baby Kenneth, so named by the Reads will become John.

Top Candidates

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—An American chemist and two German physicists are top candidates for the 1954 Nobel prizes in chemistry and physics, the Stockholm Express said today. Dr. Linus Pauling, professor of chemistry at the California Institute of Technology, Pasadena, Calif., is to receive the Nobel prize in chemistry for his work about the nature of chemical bonds, the newspaper reported. It said two German physicists, Dr. Max Born, professor of natural philosophy at the University of Edinburgh, and Dr. Walter Bothe, director of the Max Planck Institute, Heidelberg, West Germany, will share the prize in physics. The Swedish Academy of Science is scheduled to decide on the Nobel prizes tomorrow night. The prizes, each valued at about $35,000, are financed under the will of Alfred Nobel, the Swedish inventor of dynamite.

Police Holding Suspected Killer Of Little Girl

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Sgt. James A. Blair of the Pennsylvania State Police said today a one-time Merchant Marine seaman-engineer will be charged with murder in the Halloween "trick-or-treat" slaying of 6-year-old Karen Mauk. He was identified as Harry Gossard, 33, Sgt. Blair said he lived in the "immediate vicinity" of the Mauk home in Conemaugh, a community of about 8,000 on the outskirts of Johnstown. Asked about widespread reports that Gossard had admitted the slaying, Sgt. Blair replied: "No comment." Blair said Gossard is being held under heavy guard on a charge of "suspicion in connection with the murder." The nude body of little Karen was discovered early last Friday in a cemetery about two miles from her home. She had left home the previous evening on a "trick-or-treat" tour of the neighborhood. State police said Gossard's auto has been impounded as possible evidence. They said tire marks were discovered near the cemetery where Karen's unclenched body was found early last Friday, about six hours after she left home. The cemetery was two miles from the Mauk residence. Karen left home in one of her mother's old dresses, a false face and an old hat. Part of her costume was found in a private garage near her home a short time before her body was discovered. Beside her lay a pitifully small return from her "trick or treat" tour — a bag of candy and an apple. "The little girl's body was bruised. A coroner's report said she had not been criminally assaulted but had died of suffocation."

Voting Delayed By Owl At Polls

UNION MILLS, N.C. (AP)—An owl which probably doesn't give a hoot who wins the election today delayed the start of voting in this Rutherford County town. When election officials C. Y. Nannery Jr., Republican, and John E. Black, Democrat, opened the community house to prepare for the balloting they discovered the owl in the building. After about 20 minutes he was shooed outside where he took up a post on a nearby bush. "After all," said Black with a straight face, "he wasn't registered."

Farley Predicts A Demo 'Sweep'

NEW YORK (AP)—Former Postmaster General James A. Farley predicted today "a Democratic sweep all over the country." Farley cast his vote early today and told newsmen: "New York is safely in the Democratic column. "It is apparent the Democrats will carry the House of Representatives by upwards of 25 and the Senate is safe by at least two to five. The people have made up their minds that they want a change."

Red Chinese Planes Strike At Nationalist Island Again Today

By SPENCER MOOSA TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Chinese Reds today delivered the latest blow in the new vest pocket war flaring up around the Nationalist-held Tachens Islands — an afternoon air attack in which four bombs were dropped. It was noteworthy not because of its size but because it was the second straight day Communist planes have attacked Nationalist territory. The Red bombers hit Yikiang-shan Island after a pre-dawn Nationalist air raid on Toumen Island. The islands are about five miles apart and lie close to the Chekiang coast, northwest of the Tachens and some north of Formosa. Press reports said Nationalist warships also hit Toumen today. Communist planes triggered the latest firing in the vest pocket war

Good Vote Turn-Out Apparent

Early Estimate Of 45 Million Likely To Be Topped In Heavy Balloting

WASHINGTON (AP)—America's millions chose today between Republicans and Democrats to control the new Congress. And first reports from the polling places indicated neither party had reason for concern over voter apathy—something both had said they feared. How much the last minute get-out-the-vote prodding by President Eisenhower, Adlai Stevenson and other leaders on both sides had to do with it was uncertain, but fragmentary early surveys suggested heavy ballot boxes. Both parties had insisted in advance that such reports would be good news for them. Actually there was no certainty that even the heat of the closing drives by the two parties had much to do with it. All along there had been some observers who clung to the view the voters had already made up their minds and were indifferent only to the politicians' pleas. Whatever the reason sample checks in New York and in the environs of Washington suggested reason to revise upward the advance estimates of 45 million votes. In New York, despite rain and cold, approximately 15 per cent of the registered voters in Manhattan and the Bronx were reported to have cast ballots by 9 a.m. That was the same percentage as had voted at that hour in ideal weather in the mayoralty election a year ago. In a few scattered districts the percentage of those voting by 9 o'clock was as high as 20. From Brooklyn, however, the voting was reported "very, very light." The voting was slow and election officials suggested that meant split tickets. Leading figures in both parties took the view that disagreeable weather throughout New York state would not affect the voting materially. "Extremely heavy" was the report on early voting in the Maryland and Virginia suburbs of Washington. The capital itself is voteless. In the 10th Virginia congressional district just across the Potomac from the capital, the early balloting was reported much heavier than normal for an off year with no presidential race. There was a bitter contest for the district's House seat between Republican Joel T. Broyhill and Democrat John C. Webb. Some election judges were predicting a voting record there. From the biggest precinct in Prince Georges County, Md. just outside the District of Columbia, came a report of "terrific heavy" balloting with over 200 votes in the first hour out of a registration of about 3,000. A judge at one of the boxes in populous Silver Spring, Md., said the first hour count was the highest he had ever seen. At another box over 20 per cent of the eligibles had voted in the first hour. In the Baltimore metropolitan district, election officials described the vote as "unexpectedly heavy." In Chicago, the first hour's voting brought predictions of a very heavy turnout. Similarly, Ohio cities had an early rush to the polls. New Jersey officials called the voting there normal but increasing in intensity.

Winterville, Ayden Precincts Report Vote Ahead Of Last June Slower Start In Pitt's Balloting

Pitt County voters were going to the polls today under overcast skies, and apparently in somewhat fewer numbers than was the case in the second primary in June. Reports from 17 of the county's precincts between 10:30 and noon indicated some 2,800 to 3,000 voters had cast ballots by 12 o'clock. Lighter Than Primary Preliminary reports from precincts throughout the county pointed to a lighter vote in today's general election than was polled in the second primary when more than 10,200 Pitt Countians cast ballots. Interest in today's election centered around the sheriff's race between Democratic nominee Ruel W. Tyson and write-in candidate S. A. Whitehurst who has staged the first major write-in campaign in a general election in the history of Pitt County. Elections Board Chairman Gilbert Peel reported this morning the election in the county is apparently running smoothly. Members of the elections board conferred with a number of precinct officials last night, and were visiting various voting places today. Markers Appointed Markers were appointed for some of the county's precincts yesterday and last night, but there were no markers on duty at all the voting places today. "We were successful in several precincts in getting markers," Peel said; but added, "We were unable to secure markers in some other precincts." The elections board, after a hasty meeting shortly after noon yesterday, announced it would seek to appoint markers for each precinct to aid election workers who wanted assistance in marking their ballots in today's election. Precautionary Measures Precinct officials today were being furnished with a special tape with which to seal the ballot boxes after the votes are counted tonight. Although Peel would not confirm the report this morning, there were indications that some, if not all, precinct officials have been or would be instructed today to bring the boxes which contain the county ballots to the courthouse tonight after the votes have been counted. There was speculation that such a move would be a precautionary measure taken by the county board of elections to insure safe keeping of the ballot boxes in case the outcome of the election is questioned. Voting Steady Voting got off to a steady start throughout most of the county this morning, although showers fell in areas, and the skies were generally overcast with prospects of more rain during the afternoon. Winterville and Ayden precincts reported voting somewhat heavier this morning than was the case in the second primary in June. The Ayden precinct reported at 10:30 this morning 317 voters had cast ballots. In Winterville 250 voters had cast ballots at 10:35. Precinct Reports Reports between 10:30 and 11:00 o'clock showed a total of 271 votes cast in the Farmville box—considerably lighter than in the June runoff; Grimesland number one reported 95 ballots cast; Bethel 148; Belvoir 61; Falkland 76; and Chocod number one 126. At 11:15 Stokes reported 103 votes had been cast; the Arthur box reported 90 people had voted by 11:30. Reports from Greenville boxes between 11 o'clock and noon today showed the following number of people had voted in seven of the city's eight precincts: Greenville number one 86; Greenville number two 164; Greenville number three 150; Greenville number five 148; Greenville number six 225; Greenville number eight 299. The polls opened at 6:30 this morning, and will remain open until 6:30 this afternoon. Results of the election will be compiled by The Daily Reflector from reports of precinct officials throughout the county. Precinct officials have been requested to telephone 6166 and give the results of the vote in their respective boxes after the ballots have been counted.

Accuse Boards Of 'Defying The Law'

WASHINGTON (AP)—A charge that local election boards in North Carolina's 9th District are "absolutely defiant of the law," was made here last night by Samuel H. Still, staff employee of the House Campaign Investigations Committee. Still, who investigated Republican complaints of irregularities in the district's election machinery, also said he had been "intimidated as to my further federal employment" by Democratic sources since he returned to Washington Sunday. He declined to name who had intimidated him but said he was told via telephone that the sources would exert effort to block his further employment in Washington. He said he has reported the incident to the FBI. As to the boards being "defiant," Still said he was not allowed to see certain records in parts of the 9th District despite rulings by state-level officials. Still specifically said county officials in Taylorsville refused to allow him to see absentee voter applications on "the very day that the State Election Board had said the records were public property." He added, "They pleaded ignorance of the ruling." S. P. Kimmel, head of the committee staff, said as a result of Still's investigation, the committee was telling all county election boards in the district to impound absentee ballots and related records. Incumbent Rep. Hugh Q. Alexander Jr. (D-NC) is opposed by William E. Stevens Jr., Republican. GOP officials have challenged between 10,000 and 14,000 registrations in the 9th District. After his investigation, Still reported that the committee had been told there was a 10 per cent absentee ballot in some rural sections of the district. Some of the boards have reported locally that telegrams, which Kimmel said were sent to all county boards, have not been received. "I can assure you that every chairman of a county election board in the North Carolina 9th District has been sent a telegram asking that all absentee ballots be held, along with certain records pertaining to them," said Still. "There's a very serious situation existing in that district," he added, "and this committee means to follow through on it." He said his investigation was hampered by noncooperation of local election officials until it became "practically impossible" for him to determine the facts.

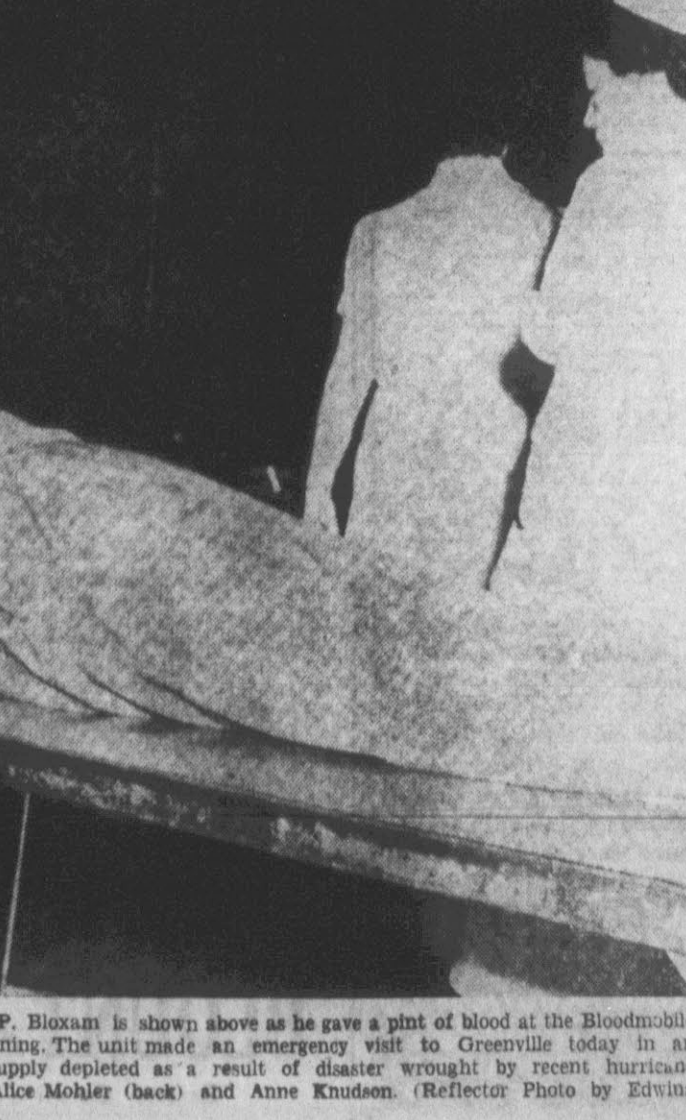

Superior Court Judge Succumbs

RALEIGH (AP)—Judge W.C. Harris of Raleigh, senior Superior Court judge in point of service at the time of his retirement about a month ago, died at a Raleigh hospital early today. Judge Harris, 68, had been in poor health for some time. In the past year, he underwent surgery twice for a throat ailment. Gov. Umstead placed Harris on the retired list effective Oct. 1. The veteran jurist had served as a Superior Court judge for more than 27 years. In his request for retirement, Harris said he was leaving the bench because of poor health.

97 Who Pledged Blood Didn't Go

AYDEN — Ayden fell short of its 140-pint quota for the Bloodmobile visit here yesterday when only 97 pints were collected. Local blood chairman Edward Gagnon reported 197 donor pledges had been received by 23 volunteers working in a house to house recruitment prior to the visit. Of this number 100 appeared yesterday to give blood. In addition, there were 20 volunteer "walk-ins" who had not previously pledged as donors, the chairman said. Twenty-three of the total 120 who appeared to give blood were rejected, leaving the amount collected at 97 pints. Forty of yesterday's donors gave blood for the first time, the chairman revealed. Gagnon stated he was disappointed so many of the persons who pledged as donors failed to appear, but he was pleased at the number of first-time donors who gave blood. Assisting in yesterday's Bloodmobile operations at the community building were Mrs. Ross Jenkins, chairman of the workers for the registration and bottle-tagging table, and Mrs. Jean McKay, chairman of the canteen workers. Eighteen volunteers assisted in these duties. Dr. Clifton Davenport, Ayden physician, was on duty at the center during the entire visit, with nine volunteer nurses aiding in the operation. Today the Bloodmobile unit paid an emergency visit to Greenville to collect blood for the supply depleted as a result of the recent hurricane disaster. Quota for this visit was also 140 pints of blood. Chivalry Cost Man His Liberty VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP)—The chivalry of Morris W. Balken, 36, landed him in jail yesterday. A comely coed, Marion L. Gleason, 19, had burst into tears when a judge told her she would have to pay a $15 fine or go to jail for three days for speeding. She sobbed that she had no money to pay the fine, and the bailiff started to lead her away. "Don't send that girl to jail," shouted Balken. "I'll pay her fine." He did. Marion expressed fervent thanks and departed. Then Balken's case was called. He was given the alternative of $35 or seven days after pleading guilty to failing to signal for a turn and driving without a license. Lacking the $35, he went to jail.

Bloodmobile Visits Greenville Today

Utilities Superintendent Leonard P. Bloxam is shown above as he gave a pint of blood at the Bloodmobile center at the armory here this morning. Hostess to Bridge Club
BETHEL—Lovely arrangements of fall flowers, berries and pine cones were the decorations used when Mrs. Dave Speir entertained her bridge club Thursday afternoon.

After two progressions of play, Mrs. Speir served an attractive and delectable hotbed plate and Coca-Cola to her guests. A Halloween motif was used.

When the tallies were added, high score prize for the club went to Mrs. Leighton Blount Jr. and for the visitors the winner was Mrs. F. Curtis Martin.

Others in the club who attended were Mesdames W. A. Moody, Tom Andrews Jr., Van Taylor Jr., Bill Whitehurst, Robert Weeks, and the visitors were Mesdames Clayton Carson, Walter C. Whitehurst, Bob Michaels, Don Carson Jr. and Frank Winesette.

Kindergarten Class Given Party
BETHEL—The kindergarten class was given a Halloween party Friday morning by Mrs. B. C. Gardner Jr. The room, decorated by the teacher, Mrs. Cleve Burton Jr., was very attractive, using the Halloween motif.

The children were served orange sherbert, vanilla wafers, brownies and corn candy. Balloons were given away as favors.

The members of the class who enjoyed the party were Frances Rowlette, Trudy Whitehurst, Peggy Womack, Jane Bowers, Terry Gardner, Bobbie Weeks, Bobbie Sue Martin, Jim Taylor, Donnie Carson, Herbie Carson, Ferrell Blount, Cotten Butterworth, Cynthia Whitehurst, Joette Abernethy and the guests were Diana Gardner and Henry Weeks.

Honored At Birthday Party
ROBERSONVILLE—Mrs. Wallace Roberson honored her little daughter, Sandra, Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock with a birthday party in the Educational Building of the Methodist Church. The large group of Sandra's friends were delighted with the table covered with a white cloth and centered by a pretty cake topped with seven candles. Jack o' lanterns and black cats decorated the table. Each child received Halloween favors, ice cream, cake, candy and salted peanuts.

The little hostess enjoyed untying her many beautifully wrapped packages which contained toys and useful gifts.

Hostesses To Woman's Society
ROBERSONVILLE—Mrs. George Glenn Edmondson and Mrs. Julius Worsley were hostesses at the Methodist Church Monday evening at 8 o'clock. The program chairman for this meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service was Mrs. Johnny Nelson. She had as the worship setting a poster of 18 scenes from the General Assembly of the WSOE recently held in Milwaukee. Adorning the top of this poster was a large head of Christ. This was followed by a skit by Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Philip Keel trying the members to subscribe to the "Methodist Woman" and "The World Outlook."

At the close of the meeting doughnuts and hot coffee were served.

Kings and Queens Are Crowned At Halloween Carnival

BETHEL—On Friday night the Parent-Teachers Association sponsored its annual fund raising event, the Halloween Carnival.

The festivities began with a dinner in the Bethel Elementary School Luncheon room from 5 until 7 o'clock. Barbecue and chicken salad plates were sold.

Following the dinner, a program was given by the school children; the climax of which was the crowning of the 1954 kings and queens.

They were crowned by the 1953 kings and queens of the primary, grammar and the high school.

Other features, in addition to the program, were fishing, an art gallery (showing Bethel people as they used to be), fortune telling, the House of Horrors and dart throwing.

The kings and queens from each grade were as follows: 1st grade, Philip Michaels and Beth Manning; 2nd grade, Bill Staton and Cherry Bonner; 3rd grade, Tay Thomas and Lola White; 4th grade, Joe Hunnicutt and Ann Jackson; 5th grade, Randy Marshall and Joan Garretton; 6th grade, John Smith and Carolyn Manning; 7th grade, Buddy Whitehurst and Shirley Whitehurst; 8th grade, Douglas Chesson and Betty Cooper; 9th grade, Clyde Cannon and Ann Briley; 10th grade, Tommy Cooper and Aldine White; 11th grade, Tom Carson and Barbara Watson; 12th grade, Lawrence Cobb and Shirley Wilson.

The winners for the primary grades were Philip Michaels and Beth Manning; the grammar grades were John Smith and Carolyn Manning, and the high school were Lawrence Cobb and Shirley Wilson.

Little Miss Joyce Baucom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Baucom Jr., underwent a tonsillectomy at Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Mayo and son, Elbert, and Shipley Ryan, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Ryan, will leave Wednesday aboard the M. S. Stockholm for a five-day cruise to Bermuda.

Dr. and Mrs. John M. Mewborn returned Saturday from a cruise to Havana and Nassau on the M. S. Stockholm. During the cruise the annual meeting of the N. C. Academy of General Practitioners was held. Dr. and Mrs. Mewborn were especially honored on the first night out. It was their anniversary, and they were feted with a party, including a beautifully decorated wedding cake, with the orchestra playing, "Here Comes the Bride."

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
November 2, 1924

The Juvenile Music Club of this city met at Julia Brown's on Wednesday. This was the first meeting of the year. The following officers were elected: Margaret Hassell, president; Huldah Nobles, secretary; Verda Wilson, treasurer. A short program followed. Those taking part were Alma Brewer, Louise Clark, Allie Lee Fleming, Verda Wilson, Elizabeth Winslow and Jessie Brewer. At the close of the meeting delicious cream and cake was served.

K. W. Cobb, secretary and treasurer of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade, reports Monday as Banner Day on the local market when 518,486 pounds were sold at an average of $33.47. This was the highest average of the season.

Officers Named By FFA Chapter

New officers have been elected by the Stokes-Factious chapter of the Future Farmers of America. They are: Bill Tripp, president; Billy Perkins, vice president; Shelton Whitehurst, secretary; Edward Earl Lee, treasurer; Clayton Barnhill, reporter; Alton Fridgen, watchdog.

Ayden Rotarians Host To Contest Prize-Winners

AYDEN—Winners of the recent "economy, automobile run" program, sponsored by the Rotary Club, were guests at the club's supper meeting last Friday night.

Milton Worthington, winner of the contest, was given a $25 U.S. Savings Bond. A Rotarian accompanied each driver.

The contest is an annual event and participants are students in the Ayden High School's Driver's School.

4-H Clubbers Return From Charlotte Meet

Two Pitt County 4-H club members and a 4-H counselor returned home today after attending the Farm Home Electric Congress held yesterday and today in Charlotte.

Roselyn Waters of the Winterville-Greenville club, and Horace Corbett of the Farmville club, winners in the county Farm Home Electric project, attended the meeting with 4-H leader and assistant County Agent C. J. Goodman.

The congress is sponsored by utilities throughout the state in recognition of 4-H club boys and girls who were winners in their county electric project. During the two-day session the young people saw electric demonstrations, attended classes and were entertained with various social activities.

The names of Rotarians who accompanied the drivers in the economy automobile run are in parenthesis.

Milton Worthington (Norma Dail) averaged 30.3 miles per gallon of gas.

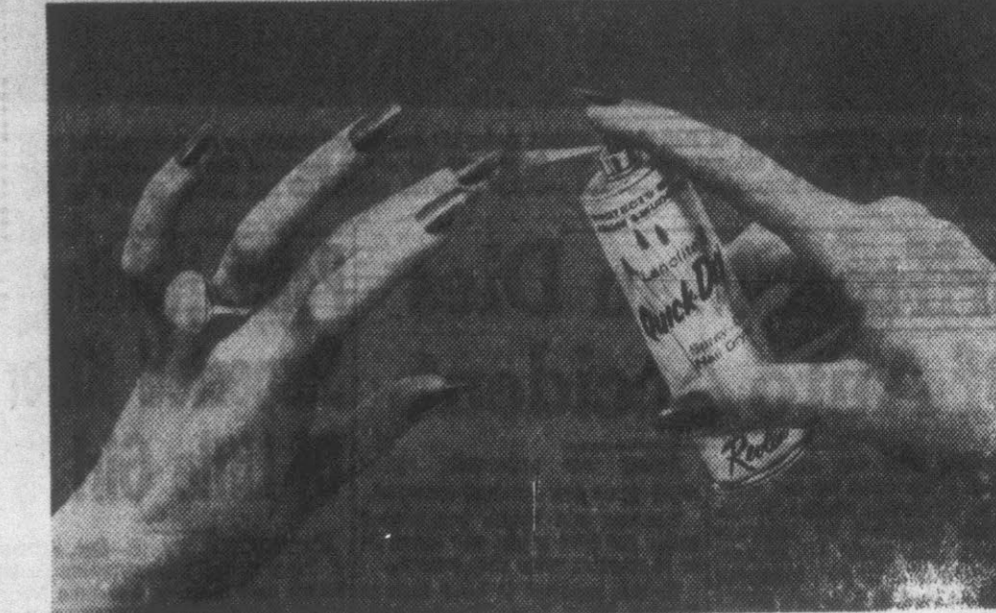

Others in the order of winning and mileage per gallon were: Sidney Britt (Bill Johnson), 24.9 miles to the gallon, was second and won $10; Melvin Elks (Wayland McGlothlin), 23.7 miles, was third and won 30 gallons of gas.

The following contestants won five gallons of oil: Roderick Moore (Harry Stillman); Sonny Smith (Harry Mumford); Melvin Worthington (Billie Jenkins); Charles Stokes (Corey Stokes); Lorenzo Allen (Roy Turnage); Ben Highsmith (John Burns); Bobby Burney (Elbert Davidson).

Bobby Barfield (Gwynn Merritt) won the "fellowship" prize of two passes to Myers Theater. Garland Bullock won the "on time" prize. Guests were Russ Thomas and B. McKay Johnson of Greenville.

Winner On 'Break The Bank' Program

NEW YORK—(Special)—Mavis Allen, wife of John I. Allen, 102 Raleigh Ave., Greenville, Sunday night won $300 from television's "Break The Bank" program.

Master of ceremonies Bert Parks provided the young housewife with the "break she's been waiting for. This is the same Mavis Allen who sings on WNCT's Dick Carter Show. She was in New York to get an audition for a network TV show. And audition she got, before the millions of home viewers to this popular show when Bert asked her to sing "Don't Ever Leave Me."

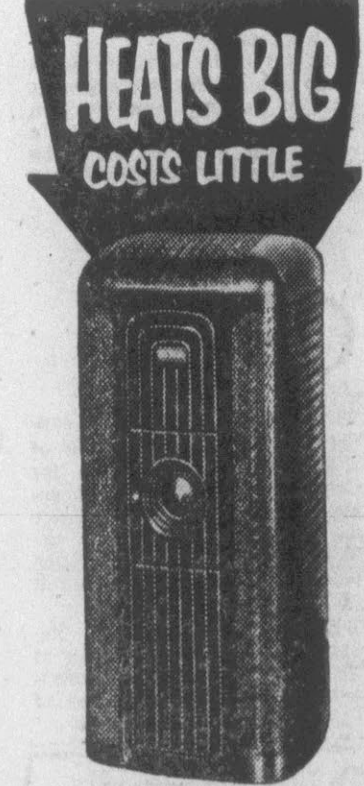

The opportunity to sing came during the course of questioning on the category of "Gals who've made good" and the prize money Mrs. Allen ended up with will be used toward the new house she's building.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

Clipping coupons isn't always the privilege of only rich old bond holders. We householders can clip a few right now from our forthcoming winter fuel bills and heating plant repairs by getting a seasonal checkup for the old firebox, the same as we do for the family jalopy.

R.E. Ferry, who is general manager of the Institute of Boiler and Radiator Manufacturers, known as the IBR, was telling us the other day that many homeowners give their heating plants scarcely a fraction of the care they bestow on their automobiles.

"Home heating systems," he said, "are commonly operated throughout the fall, winter and spring months without servicing or checkup. That is roughly comparable to running a car continuously at 30 miles per hour for 30,000 miles without servicing of any kind—something no sane car owner would attempt."

"Since most autos are serviced every 3,000 to 4,000 miles, this means they're looked after about eight or ten times as often as the home heating plant. And the modern furnace also is a highly engineered complex of parts and machinery."

Of course, he's right. Most home heating systems include electric motors, burners or stokers, safety devices, pumps and other automatic equipment, which deserves a periodical going over by skilled technicians.

"When neglected," Ferry added, "even the finest systems can break down and become costly to operate. Even a forced hot water baseboard system, which I consider the lowest of all in operating costs, should have a checkup. Excessive fuel costs result when such equipment as boilers, burners or chimneys have not been cleaned at least once a year."

However, with some heating plants there's a lot you can do yourself to prepare for another season. Take a circulating warm air system, for example. Summer dust which has settled in registers—both warm air and cold air return registers—can be prevented from fluffing through your house by doing a little vacuum cleaning. (This applies to radiators and convectors, too.)

If you don't think any dust accumulates in registers, try leaving a mahogany table undusted all summer long to see how much of a layer of dust and grime you'll find. The same layer settles every place. Sheldon Coleman, the Wichita,

Kans., manufacturer of high speed heating plants, argues that it is merely good housekeeping to clean registers before the opening of a new heating season.

"Remove the registers and get inside with the extension tube of your vacuum cleaner to do the best job," he says. "And you'll get cleaner air and a better functioning furnace by cleaning or changing filters."

"Today's filters are very efficient, trapping upwards of 85 per cent of the dust and dirt circulated through the air. But because they are so efficient, they get pretty dirty. Take them out in the back yard. Put on a pair of gloves to protect your hands from glass silvers, and tap them with a stick to get rid of the loose surface dirt. Then remove the dirt from within the filter proper with your vacuum cleaner."

Most filters are so cheap nowadays you might find it simpler to throw them away and buy new ones. We commented on this some time ago observing that you can get a furnace filter for about the cost of a carton of filtered or unfiltered cigarettes. That brought forth an informative letter from the Research Products Corp. of Madison, Wis., calling our attention to permanent, easy-to-clean filters. Washable aluminum alloy filters were cited. These are coated with a patented adhesive. You wash the filters simply by flushing them with water from a hose or tap. In severe cases you can soak them in warm water and mild soap suds. After rinsing, let them dry and then recoat them with the dust and odor-trapping adhesive, sprayed from a squeeze bottle or window washing squirter.

Stove Explosion Kills 4 Children

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP)—Joint funeral services were arranged today for four youngsters who died yesterday when a stove exploded and burned down a small rural home.

Ashtabula County sheriff's deputies said the stove was fueled with bottled gas. What caused the blast wasn't known.

Dead were Richard R. Tryon 4, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Tryon, and three children of Mr and Mrs. Samuel Gordon Riggs: Kathryn, 11 months, Erlene, 3, and Richard 2.

Mrs. Tryon, who lived in a house trailer near the Riggs house, was minding the children while the other parents were at work. The explosion blew her out of the house. Flames stopped her rescue efforts.

Our German Troubles Aren't Over

We've hailed inclusion of West Germany in the allied camp, but the import of arming Germans has been generally passed off just as a "good thing" for us.

It is probably true; but there are intangible factors interwoven in the fabric of the future which provide grounds for sober consideration.

The necessity for allying German manpower, science, technical skills and productivity with that of the West is inescapable. Their contribution to the defensive strength of the Free World is as important to us as, in turn, strength of the Free World is necessary to survival of freedom among the German people.

All kinds of precautions have been taken to insure that German military strength will remain within strongly defined limits and dependant upon allied armed forces' strategic and tactical facilities. In other

Our Wandering Ghosts Were Kept Busy

Does an organized recreation program pay off?

According to yesterday's report, it paid off on Halloween. Little or no vandalism by children, haunts, goblins or gremlins occurred here. They were all too preoccupied with parties and games held especially for them.

This idea of large-scale organized recreation on Halloween, to reduce the pranks of pranksters and lessen the vandalism of vandals was a long time in coming. But now that its worth has been proven we hope the lesson will not soon be forgotten.

The Recreation Department, churches and organizations of all kinds offered entertainment for the wandering souls of Halloween who oft times got in trouble for lack of something to do.

This year was "one of the best," not only for children but for nervous grown-ups who never know just what to expect when the last of October rolls around.

Congratulations and thanks are due all around for the good work.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE HORIZON

A young man told me recently that he had trouble with his eyes until he joined the navy. On sea duty he discovered that there is nothing which improves the quality of one's vision so much as looking out over broad expanses of water, peering intently for an object one cannot quite see.

If such an experience is good for physical eyes, it is to be especially commended for the eyes of the soul. Nothing else does our soul so much good as peering out to the horizon, trying to see something that is only slightly visible. Religion is primarily a matter of faith. If we will not accept religious truth until it has been proved to us, we shall probably never accept it. We believe in life after death. On the dim horizon of life there is evidence that such a hope is justified, and the more we train our eyes to catch the outlines of that hope, the stronger does our spiritual vision become.

The more we seek for spiritual truth, the more does our desire for spiritual truth increase and the deeper do our spiritual capacities become. The more intently we search for this truth the better do the eyes of our souls become. The more we want to know about prayer, the more we will know. The more intent we are on discerning the will of God, the more will we discover that will.

Peer intently toward the horizon. It improves the vision.

Democrats Plan Steal March

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill have agreed upon a precedent-breaking action, if their Party regains control of both House and Senate in today's off-year election, to wit:

(1) They will frame a complete legislative program for presentation to the White House, Congress and the American people in advance of the submission of President Eisenhower's formal proposals in his several January messages.

(2) They will, in particular, advance a relatively "moderate" agenda which, in their opinion, will reunite the Stevenson-Harriman-Roosevelt Liberals and the Byrd-George-Russell Conservatives. It will not be fully satisfactory, as no compromise ever can be, to "extremists" in either camp.

ARTFUL STRATEGY—In fact, win or lose today, the Democrats are determined to steal a political march on their opponents. For, even if they do not capture outright Congressional majorities, the margin of control may be so thin that they must assume great responsibility for the record of the next Congress.

Finally, the strategy is designed to reconcile the intraparty feud for the two years before the 1956 Presidential elections. The more responsible men in both wings believe that the Democrats' chance of victory then will depend largely on their interim behavior.

HELP FROM GOP—The Republicans set the stage for this coup d'etat when they AGREED a special Senate session to debate and vote on the McCarthy Censure Resolution. Were it not for this call, Democratic strategists would not assemble here until Congress convened next January.

But Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Senate Minority Leader, has outlined his plan to colleagues. They immediately saw the political and psychological possibilities. Showing his confidence in today's outcome, Johnson has given this notice to his Congressional associates:

"I will call a meeting of the Senate Democratic Policy Committee and of the Democratic Chairmen who will serve in the next Congress.

words, Germany is not to have an army, navy or air force sufficient unto itself to wage a war.

But here's the rub! No matter how well-intentioned our efforts, can any people be denied indefinitely the right to all necessary measures of self-defense?

Despite whatever faults Germans have exhibited in the past, they are a vigorous, proud people. Their history is replete with great figures in all the arts and sciences; and the quality of the German fighting man is still fresh in the minds of those who fought him.

There will remain the dream of a reunited Germany until such time as it has been brought about. Not only the union of East and West, but the reabsorption of that sector given to Poland and renegotiation of "the Saar problem". All three pose potentially dangerous seeds of future tensions raised by a revitalized, sovereign German state.

There was a time following World War I when the allied nations might have stopped German militaristic designs; but it would have meant war... which was not wanted by the allies, and so the Germanic wave was permitted to grow even more menacing until it spilled over in World War II.

Would Britain, the U. S. and France deliberately go to war when and if the German peoples "overstep" present delineations of military strength? We doubt it; and the only obvious alternatives seem to be to weld Germany so firmly to the Free World that future strife is unthinkable, or to impress upon the world at large that war is no longer possible if Man would live.

After The Sound And Fury---Peace

This is the day people have been waiting for.

All the pre-election fireworks have been "shot off"; all conceivable accusations, counter-accusations, denials and name-calling... all the self-righteous declamations and jovial handshaking, has come to an end.

Tonight, all over America, there'll be feverish tallying of votes; and tomorrow when the smoke has cleared away we can get back to normalcy.

Politicians who have been accusing each other of every imaginable shortcoming and fault will be back on speaking terms. All the hatchets will be buried and Democrats will be pictured posing with arms draped across the shoulders of Republicans, and Republicans will be goodnaturedly slapping Democrats on the back.

It's been a rough campaign trail for both sides, but tomorrow everybody can relax, and the outcome will provide material for hours of future reading, talking and contemplation.

The sound and fury is gone.
Peace, it's wonderful.

Now For The Judges' Decision

Somebody Told Me

Good Memories Are Kept

It's fortunate that we remember the pleasant things about World War II. Yesterday I overheard part of a street-corner conversation between Judson Blount, Edgar Denton and Boger Scales. Whenever Denton is around in a war session there is mention made of his imprisonment in a German prisoner of war camp during World War II. Edgar is missing the boat by not writing a book about that experience.

The first time I heard it was back in 1947 or 1948, when I was a student at Carolina. Edgar had one of the few cars of the Greenville students and we would often ride to Greenville and back on weekends. One particular weekend Edgar told the story. It kept us in stitches! The slant that he gives to the story makes it as funny as any I've ever heard. Another factor that would make it good material for a book: He has a phenomenal memory and could probably recall the names to go along with the incidents.

Trip after trip I made with Edgar during those years at Carolina I would try to get him to retell the story. I recall that I heard it at least six times and each time it was a scream! If you know Edgar, manager of College View Apartments, prevail on him to tell you the story. Some day I hope to get him to let me print it.

Coming event: Thursday night the Fireman's Ball will feature one of the nation's top bands: Billy May. The dance will last from nine until one and will be at the New Carolina warehouse.

Let me emphasize this point: The set-up in Greenville is different from many other towns. The firemen do not benefit as individuals from money made on their activities. They buy equipment for the department that benefits YOU! It's $2 advanced sale and $2.50 at the door.

The Jaycees have agreed to attempt to raise $5,000 for a rescue truck. The Fire Department is hoping for profit on this dance to help the project along.

Another factor worthy of note: The firemen are paid to give us fire protection only. Yet, they are interested in taking on additional responsibility in the way of rescue work. All they want is equipment to use and they are willing to make an effort to obtain funds for the equipment. If ever a project deserved support, this is it.

How many of you remember Jackie DeLoe when she was here at East Carolina? I can recall at least a dozen Greenville boys who were interested at one time or another. She's now Mrs. S. B. Farner of Kensington, Md. Talked to her last night via amateur radio and she still sounds the same. Has two children, the older is five and a half.

Attended an amateur radio convention in Richmond Saturday and among the many hams I met W-4-BLR, Kay. She sounds like a knockout on the air and imagine how astonished I was to see her; she is a knockout! Also, her husband is a fine gentleman.

And I thank you.
JACK EDWARDS

What Other Editors Are Thinking

LOVING CARE PRODUCES OUR BEAUTIFUL CITIES (Jacksonville Times-Union)

A retired Chicago department store employe has given an outstanding example of how one citizen can help make a city a more beautiful place in which to live.

The elderly Chicagoan, Marshall I. Lewis, became disgusted with the rubbish and old tin cans on an untended lot near his home. And, unlike the thousands of others who have been revolted by similar eyesores, he did something about it. He offered to clean the lot in return for the privilege of planting flowers on it. The result has been a beautiful, public garden.

In almost every town there are unused lots and other bits of ground that no one seems interested in caring for. They become overgrown with tall weeds and brush and gradually all sorts of rubbish accumulates. The owners of the property are either unaware of the condition of these eyesores or they just don't care enough to do anything about them.

And in the same towns there are people whose senses of civic pride are offended by such unsightly areas. They frequently attack the problem by demanding that public officials force the owners to clean up the property. Yet each time the lots are cleared under the sanitation code, the same conditions are almost sure to return.

Civic pride and official duty are not sufficient to make a town or city beautiful unless there is a genuine love of beautiful things in the hearts and hands of the people. Men who clean up dirty lots because they must soon let them become covered with rubbish again. But men who clear unused lots to plant beautiful flowers do not as quickly let their gardens disappear amid weeds. Such men make their cities beautiful because they love beautiful things and not because they fear mosquitoes breeding in old tin cans.

No Last-Minute Shifts In North Carolina Vote Outlook

by LYNN NISBET

ELECTION — The 1954 election campaign is over. There remains only the mechanics of counting the votes. There have been no developments within the past few days that materially affected trends in North Carolina. Last minute incidents and publicity may change a few votes and affect results in scattered precincts, but such incidents are apt to balance each other off as between the major parties.

In other states where large segments of voters are more susceptible to control than in North Carolina, final hour switches may have been more noticeable. At national level it seems fairly certain that the Democrats will gain control of the House of Representatives by safe working margin. The U. S. Senate is in the balance with not more than one or two majority for either party, and odds slightly favoring Democratic control.

For North Carolina there is no question about Democratic supremacy. Democratic candidates for the United States Senate and for State offices, Supreme Court Justice and Superior Court Judges will run by better-than-two-to-one, the numerical majorities depending only upon the size of the total vote cast. In the congressional races Democrats are slated to win in ten districts by margins ranging from twenty-to-one to as narrow as three-to-two. The ninth and tenth districts are very close.

There are no really close contests for seats in the State Senate. Democrats are practically certain to have 48 of the 50 members, the Republicans two public efforts by also putting in money and bringing top notch national speakers to hold the district. As election day draws it looks like the Democrats will hold, but by not much more than the tenuous 4,000 margin of two years ago.

TENTH — The tenth district offers comparable challenge to both parties. It is now represented by a Republican, who went in with a 22,000 majority in the Eisenhower landslide of 1952. The incumbent, Charles Raper Jonas, has the distinction of being the only Republican in Congress from North Carolina, and the greater distinction of being the most southerly of any Republican in Congress. Back of some of the effort to hold the seat for the Republican is this thought, that it constitutes the deepest break into the once-called "solid south."

PECULIAR — The ninth and tenth district congressional races have taken peculiar twists. Despite the money and oratorical artillery provided by the Republican party organizations, the Republican candidates are running as individuals. Democrats have paraded party responsibility.

Democratic appeal has been to support the party nominees, Hugh Alexander in the ninth and Chesley Sedberry in the tenth, as Democrats rather than as individual persons. Campaign literature and publicity for the Republicans is being sent out under the names of Stevens for Congress Committees in the ninth, Jonas for Congress Committees in the tenth, with only occasional and casual reference to the Republican party—but with emphasis on the idea that these candidates belong to the Eisenhower team.

There is nothing new in that situation, and the current candidates cannot copyright it. It is remembered that for many years in normally Republican States the Republican candidates ran as supporters of Roosevelt—and often got elected. It is a bit unusual in North Carolina, because in the post-Depression years Tareel candidates and voters openly affiliated with the Democratic party in order to support its candidates. Now the supporters of the Republican candidate for Congress and of President Eisenhower seem reluctant to register as Republicans. That is an unusual twist for North Carolina politics and how effective it will be remains to be seen.

For the first time, also, Republicans have made full use of the absentee voting provisions—a device heretofore regarded as belonging to the Democrats.

Business Today

That Highway Plan

By ELMER ROESSNER
It is significant that very little has been said in the current political campaign about the Eisenhower 10-year, $50 billion highway program disclosed last July.

That indicates that both Republicans and Democrats consider the program sincere and not a vote-getting gimmick.

The program is expected to be detailed to Congress early next year. If adopted, it may bring the nation's highways up to date and make the road-construction industry one of the boomiest in the country.

The program is likely to get much bipartisan support. The present highway system is inadequate for the number of cars already on the road; it is inadequate for defense purposes; new construction will be an insurance against unemployment, and few Congressmen will vote against an opportunity to get some Federal spending in their bailiwick.

Even without this program, prospects in the highway construction industry look good. The federal Highway Act of 1954 appropriates $1.9 billion to states who match their share over a two-year period. This is the biggest Federal highway program so far. In addition, there are many projects wholly supported by states and subdivisions, and a large amount of toll road construction planned by special authorities.

One estimate is that 46,000 miles of roads and highways will be constructed in 1955, at a cost of $4.5 billion. That compares with 38,000 miles costing about $3.5 billion this year.

This means about 1.8 billion tons of steel, huge amounts of fill, concrete, stone and other materials; it means a vast consumption of bulldozers and other road-making machines; it means sales by architects, surveyors, food purveyors and hundreds of other businesses.

Despite the great strides toward mechanization, road building still hires a proportionately large number of men per $1,000,000 spent. This in turn, means sales for everything consumers buy. And the new highways will mean sales of autos and real estate, rentals to resorts and hotels and, sadly true, fees for tow cars and ambulances.

WIVES HELP MOST MEN BUY SUITS, SURVEY SHOWS
The Tailors-to-the-Trade Association had researchers question 5,000 men, with occupations in proportion to those shown in government statistics. All were married.

Of those questioned, 81 per cent said their last suit was bought with the assistance and advice of their wives; 53 per cent said their wives accompanied them on clothes-buying trips, and 82 per cent said they dress better because of their wives' assistance.

31 ADVERTISERS BOOST INVESTMENTS OVER $1 MILLION
A total of 255 advertisers each spent more than $1,000,000 in seven major media last year, according to the Printers' Ink 1954 Advertisers Annual, published today. That is an increase of 21 advertisers over 1953. The annual includes 316 pages of facts and figures on advertising and related subjects, including the fact that the population of the United States is estimated at 163,453,002 as of noon, Washington time, today.

Zero Hour For Our Candidates

NEW YORK (AP) — Election eve is zero hour for political candidates, the very worst night of the year.

The weeks of strenuous campaigning end for the aspiring office seeker in a final rally. He then has a supper with his advisers, a dinner that rings with an atmosphere of false cheer and encouraging noises such as:

"You ain't got a thing to worry about. Ed. Like I told you at the start, you're in. Now go home and get some sleep."
"We want to get a picture of you voting bright and early. A little last-minute publicity in the afternoon papers won't hurt. Might pull in a few more votes. —not that we really need them, of course, but the bigger the margin the better it'll look."

Ed goes home but not to sleep. He rubs liniment on his arms to ease the soreness that comes from shaking 10,000 strange hands. He gargles with hot salt water to ease a throat hoarse from making 10,000 promises in 350 speeches.

He smiles at himself in the mirror, the glazed, Halloween pumpkin-like smile that he has worn in public for weeks. He is consoled by the thought that even the dumbest voter must be able to see that his weary face shows more character than the crafty, double-dealing features of his opponent.

"Quit fidgeting, Dear and go to bed," says his wife. "You don't have a thing to worry about."

"You don't have a thing to worry about. —You don't have a thing to worry about." His campaign supporters have been saying that to Ed for weeks. He broods. If he doesn't have anything to worry about, then why do they keep saying that?

He yawns, and collapses tiredly into bed. But not to sleep. Words clang in his brain. "Nothing to worry about. — Nothing to worry about." The phrase rings on and on, like a stuck record.

Lying flat on his back looking up at the darkened ceiling Ed knows, whether this is his first or 50th race, he has everything to worry about. "Nothing to worry about." That he thinks dimly, is what they must have told Tom Dewey on election in 1946.

Restlessly tossing, Ed wonders for the 1,000th time, "Why did I ever get into politics? It's the most thankless business in the world." He thinks of how he strained his own finances to get into the campaign, the number of friends he put the bite on, the strangers from whom he solicited campaign funds.

"If I lose this one, Mama, maybe we'd better move to another state," he whispers to his wife, who is equally sleepless.

"Oh, shut up, Ed. Don't talk silly. Go to sleep."
Instead Ed gets up, goes to the refrigerator and makes himself a sandwich. He follows it with a slug of milk of magnesia and two aspirins, and lies down again. Soon he dozes off and begins mumbling, "6,365 8,366, 8,367. . ."

"Quit counting sheep," demands his wife.
"I wasn't counting sheep — I was counting voters," says Ed. He begins to think of what life will be like if he wins the election—the 847 supporters who already have asked him to get jobs for their relatives, the 500 picnics, union dances and family reunions he will have to attend each year and "address a few brief words."

Is it all worth it? On that thought his exhausted mind at last sinks into slumber. But it is futile. He begins to talk in his sleep and when dawn comes he is mumbling through his favorite speech for the 15th time: ". . . and, if elected I pledge you that a new broom will clean forever the Augean stables of our . . ."

"Wake up, Ed," says the wife, shaking him and feeling sorry that she has to. "We have to hurry for the polls."

As her haggard husband climbs into his clothing, he doesn't feel like a saviour of the people. He hardly cares whether he loses or wins now.

All Ed really wants to do is to go to a psychiatrist, ask what kind of madness ever led him to become a political candidate — and then spend the rest of the day on the doc's couch catching up on his sleep.

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO

FOOTSTEPS sounded on the porch, and the door opened. Behind me Eileen gasped, "Papa!"

When I looked up, she was in the embrace of Jake Fortune.

I stared at him stupidly. His heavy red face beneath the cream-colored hat held a sober and serious look as he gazed at Earl Seltzman on the floor. Then his gray eyes, wide-spaced, like his daughter's, met mine over her shoulder, and silently asked a question.

"Papa, papa," Eileen sobbed, and he held her close.

"I had to hit him," I said. "He pulled a gun on me, and he was jittery and ready to shoot. Thanks for slammng your car door. It gave me a chance to jump him." I stood up wearily.

Jake Fortune frowned. "Earl pulled a gun on you? Why?"

"Papa," Eileen sobbed. He patted her shoulder.

"You may as well know," I said. "He shot Ralph Hollis—on purpose—and he killed Rex Bishop, because the old man caught him shooting at me."

His frown deepened. "But I thought that Judy—"

"She's out of it," I said, and I looked around for the telephone.

"I've got to get the sheriff out here."

Eileen left her father's arms and knelt beside Earl Seltzman. Her fingers caressed his thin, slack face as she murmured, "It's all right, darling, don't you worry."

Jake Fortune gazed at me bleakly. "So Earl really tried to kill Ralph?"

"I'll tell you about it later. Where's the phone?"

"In the kitchen," he shook his head and swore softly.

"Watch him," I said.

He nodded.

The phone was on a shelf above the kitchen sink. I asked for Sheriff John Morissy and got him almost immediately.

"This is Jim Bennett."

"Yes," he said quietly.

"Haven't you gone to bed yet?"

"I'm in bed now. The phone's right beside me."

"End of the hunt," I said. "It was Earl Seltzman. You can forget about going to Cleveland. Earl will have a rifle some place, and it'll match the bullet I dug out of the tree, and the bullet in Rex Bishop. I've got Earl out here at Jake Fortune's place."

The line was dead for a moment, and then I heard him sigh. "I see," he said in his grave, quiet voice. "I'll be right out."

"Thanks." I hung up and looked at the gun I'd taken from Earl Seltzman. It was a .25 caliber Colt. The clip was full with a cartridge in the firing chamber. I put it in my overcoat pocket, along with my own .38, and went back to the living room.

Seltzman was sitting in a chair, leaning forward with his forehead in a palm. There was a bluish spot on the side of his jaw, and it appeared to be swelling. I rubbed my knuckles reflectively. Eileen was standing beside him, a hand on his shoulder, a maternal, tender look on her face. Jake Fortune hadn't moved from his spot by the door. He said "It's cold in here. I'd better go down and stir up the fire." As he moved across the room, he said to his daughter, "Eileen, make us some coffee." He went out through the kitchen, and I heard him going down some steps. Eileen left Seltzman's side and moved into the kitchen. She didn't look at me.

"Earl," I asked, "where's the rifle?"

He didn't answer.

"The rifle, Earl."

"I don't have a rifle," he muttered.

"You may as well tell me," I said. "We'll find it anyhow, and you'll save the sheriff a lot of trouble. Just tell him the whole thing. Earl, it'll be easier that way—for you, for everybody."

"You can't arrest me," he said sullenly.

"Yes, we can."

"I want a lawyer," he said.

"All right."

"I'll talk to him," he said, "and nobody else. Franklin Hoffman, in Cleveland."

"The sheriff will get him for you. I'm sorry I had to hit you again, but you shouldn't have pulled a gun on me."

He took a deep breath. "I—I didn't know what I was doing. Between the two of you, Eileen and you, I—I lost my head. I guess I didn't intend to shoot you. I just wanted to scare you, to keep you away from me. I wanted time to think about what you said and what Eileen said, and—oh—"

He began to sob, a dry, rasping sound.

Dimly below me I could hear Jake Fortune shaking the ashes out of the furnace. Eileen was making domestic sounds in the kitchen. Presently I smelled coffee brewing, and Eileen came into the room. She went past me, paused long enough to rest a hand gently on Seltzman's head, and then went up the stairway. Seltzman, quiet now, took off his glasses and began to wipe them with a handkerchief. His thin face looked naked and pinched rodent-like, and he avoided my gaze. I heard Jake Fortune come up the basement steps, and his voice came from the kitchen. "Coffee's ready."

"In a minute," I said.

I heard a car stop outside, and I got up and opened the door for the sheriff. His grave eyes glanced at Earl, and then at me directly. "I'm taking your word for this."

"I'll be responsible," I said, handing him Seltzman's little automatic. Assault with intent to kill. That's enough to book him. I'll be down later. He wants his lawyer—a man named Franklin Hoffman in Cleveland."

Morissy nodded and spoke gently to Seltzman. "Come on, Earl. Can you handle him alone?" I asked.

"He won't cause any trouble. I've known Earl all my life."

From the kitchen Jake Fortune said quietly, "Hello, John."

The sheriff nodded, tight-lipped, said, "How are you, Jake?" and laid a hand gently on Seltzman's shoulder.

Earl got slowly to his feet, picked up his heavy red coat from the chair, and moved to the door, not looking at any of us. The sheriff said "Better put on your coat, Earl. It's cold out."

Obediently Seltzman hunched into the coat. Morissy opened the door. Eileen Fortune came down the stairs. She was wearing the bluish tweed suit with the frilly white blouse, and was carrying a coat over her arm. She had applied lipstick to her small, thin lipped mouth her blond hair was smoothly combed, and she looked quite attractive, in spite of the red puffiness of her eyes. She said to Morissy, "I want to go with him."

"All right, Eileen," he said. "Stuppooa poos uvuzi199 gravely, "if you like." head doyn.

I said to the sheriff, "His car's around in back."

"I'll send somebody for it." The three of them went out Eileen and Earl first, the sheriff following. I closed the door and went into the kitchen.

Best Two Months For Business Lying Ahead

By SAM DAWSON
 NEW YORK (AP) — The best two months of the year lie just ahead for business.

They may not knock your eyes out, but the business news stories for the next eight weeks should be the pleasantest reading of the year. Merchants believe this Christmas season will be as good as a year ago, if not better. Many manufacturers also expect increased sales and production and a gain either in number of hours worked or number of workers hired.

The rise probably will be moderate, but after a solid year of seeing comparative figures usually showing up on the minus side, business will welcome the change.

If November and December deliver as anticipated, the final tally for the year will be improved in a number of lines.

Businessmen are looking for better times for the following reasons:

The basic industries are waking up. After a slow an October as they have known since the war, auto production line are ready to operate at high speed, now that model change-overs are end. If all goes well, November and December passenger car output could approach the million mark.

This will be a boon not only to the re-employed auto workers (who will have money to spend for Christmas) but also to the companies supplying the car makers.

Steel output already is foreshadowing the good news in Detroit. Mills are now operating at 75 per cent of capacity and in the next few weeks may go up to 80 per cent temporarily. Steelworkers and coal miners will benefit.

Job increases in the basic industries should be matched by the seasonal gains in retail trade, as stores take on extra holiday help, the post office hire more hands, electric power output rises to a peak, and traffic jams go from awful to supercolossal.

With inventories reasonably low now, manufacturers believe that any pickup in retail sales will quickly work back along the line in new orders and increased factory production.

One barometer of better business, freight car loadings, already has increased to the highest level in a year.

The construction industry, feeding on easy money is expected to take less than its usual seasonal drop when bad weather sets in this year.

Mail-order houses, who have reported lower sales most of this year, say orders are picking up cheerily, perhaps helped by the price cuts featured in their latest catalogues. They have been especially hurt by the drop this year in farm incomes.

This continues as one of the sore points in the economy. The Agriculture Department reports the purchasing power of the farmers is at the lowest point in several years, with farm cash receipts off 4 per cent from last year. But the department believes this drop has about leveled off now.

And today a leading maker of farm machinery is stepping up its production and employment, saying that the shakeout in this industry seems over, and new orders and better inventory situations justify more output.

Another shaky point in the economy has been the uncertainty over tomorrow's election results. Businessmen however, say that while there may be a reaction on the stock exchange, industry and trade should see little effect in November and December — since it will be next year before election changes could show up in new legislation.

And stockholders themselves are looking at things through rose-colored glasses just now. Many of them are still confident that Santa Claus is going to bring them year-end dividends.

Football Star Likes Idea Of Acting Job

By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Elroy Hirsch says his decision to quit football will open the way for a full-time career before movie and television cameras.

The star pass catcher for the Los Angeles Rams announced last week that he was quitting pro football "because the thrill has gone out of the game." But there are other reasons too — personal reasons, and his urge for a chance at a show business career.

When he explained that he was hanging up his uniform at the end of this season he told how he felt about football:

"The ball has changed in the last season or two. There used to be fun in the game. You looked forward to each game with a considerable thrill. You had friends on the other teams in the league — even though the friendship ended temporarily the minute the game started. You didn't see the other team using rough stuff to 'get' certain star players."

"That's changed now. There is a tremendous pressure to win — or else. It used to be that you played like the dickens only in the 12 league games. But now the pressure is on to win the exhibition games too. In a city with good climate like Los Angeles, a team has to make a good preseason showing in order to get good season ticket sales."

"I still get that uneasy feeling in my stomach before a game. But now I don't get that thrill of anticipation that I used to. I get up in the morning before a game and have a scrambled egg, some toast and tea, then I can't eat anything more. I go out to the stadium without any great expectation."

"If there's no more fun in the game, that's the time to quit. I

All U. S. states except Georgia set the minimum voting age at 21. Georgia made it 18 during World War II.

Bank Resources Up; Less Money Now Producing

By LYNN NISBET
 RALEIGH — There are more banks and branch offices doing business in North Carolina than ever before, and they have larger aggregate resources. At the same time there are more dollars lying idle in banks than there were a year ago.

Composite statement of the condition of North Carolina State banks (179 banks and 250 branches) compiled by the State Banking Department from individual reports filed at close of business October 7, 1954, shows aggregate resources of one billion, eight hundred forty-six million, six hundred fifty-nine thousand, four hundred fifty-one dollars. That represents an increase of nearly $69 million over the composite report of September 30, 1953.

When the resources of national banks are included (88 banks and branches) total banking resources run to almost two and one-half billion dollars, a gain of $85 million during the year.

Details in the composite statement are only for State banks. From the viewpoint of sound banking the report is excellent. From other viewpoints it raises questions about the progressive economy of North Carolina.

Investment in bonds and notes of the United States, the State of North Carolina and its subdivisions increased about $58 million during the year. The item of cash due from other banks increased about $34 million. At the same time investment in business loans and discounts, notes and debentures other than governmental decreased by about $35 million.

That means the banks are putting more money into the absolutely safe items of government bonds, less into risk development items of loans for the promotion of business.

Apparently business corporations and individuals are doing the same kind of thing. Governmental deposits are up, but proportionately not as much as demand and time deposits by firms and individuals. The last named item increased about $33.5 million during the year.

The decrease in bank loans for business purposes and the increase in deposits by individuals and companies indicates reluctance to take chances on current economic trends. The other and brighter side of the picture is that there is money available for financing such projects as prove themselves or appeal to investors.

Some of the changes from last year are partially explained by the later date of the report. The increase in governmental deposits might reflect the collection of taxes by counties and municipalities the first week in October. Business firms, especially tobacco warehouses and redrying plants, had an extra week in which to pay back borrowed operating capital. These tax and loan payments would tend to decrease the item of demand deposits, but the record shows this item increased substantially.

Managers and customers of banks apparently agree that this is a good time to hold on to money by putting it in insured deposit accounts or government securities, rather than "put it to work" in business ventures. The bankers might not be so happy, but it would indicate healthier economy if the deposits were less, the loans and discounts more.

Haiti's Tourist Trade Is Unhurt

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — The only crop of this small Caribbean republic that escaped destruction by Hurricane Hazel is tourism. The happy folk whose slogan is "Bon Dieu Bon" (God is Good) expect a record harvest in 1954-55.

Most of the towns in the southwestern area devastated by Hazel were off the tourist track. The two main towns, Port Au Prince and Cap-Haitien, escaped unscathed.

The little village of Berly, in the mountains south of Port Au Prince, never will be pointed out as a curiosity to visitors. The inaccessible hillside settlement, wiped out by a landslide, will be forgotten, except in local folklore. Its only markers will be an extensive scar across the face of a 4,000-foot mountain — and maybe, one day, a white cross.

Mapou, near the south coast, exists as a deep natural lake in a basin between mountains. But this will eventually dry up, and the town will be rebuilt by whatever survivors there may be.

Though the cost of living rose to some extent because of the floods which cut off communications with the countryside and devastated a large part of the current harvest, prices are now settling back to normal with the opening of roads. Almost overnight, the fertile earth will once again be producing root crops and vegetables.

New hotels are opening this season with the accent increasingly on luxury and entertainment. The first skyscraper — six stories — is rising on the heights of St. Gerard, overlooking Port Au Prince. It will be ready for guests by Christmas, according to Dr. Jules Thebaud, its owner.

POETRY FOR THE EARS
 COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa (AP) — Mrs. May Arbutnot, professor emerita at Western Reserve University, Cleveland, gave a teachers' meeting here this advice: "In the elementary schools, I think that poetry should be heard and not seen. If the children hear poetry first, it is much better and there is no need to terrorize them by demanding memory work."

Rat Feeders Are Now Available

The city now has rat feeders for sale to local citizens who are bothered with the rodents. City Manager James B. Hughes announced today.

The feeders will be sold at cost, the city manager stated and they will be delivered by the Street Department. A workman will set up the devices and they will be filled at regular intervals with the poisoned rat feed at no additional cost, according to Hughes.

The rat feeders can be obtained for $2 per unit by calling Superintendent of Public Works Kenneth Beatty at 3583.

"They are made so that pets cannot get into them," Hughes declared. "Only rats can get in."

The rodents go underneath the metal and glass feeders to get at the food which is poisoned. Hughes said the rats generally would not die in the house after eating the poison because they try to find water after feeding on the poisoned food.

Hughes said the city has an ample supply of the feeders on hand and as they are sold additional units will be ordered.

"We will be glad to cooperate with anyone who has rat trouble," the city manager stated.

A number of the devices have already been set out, according to the city manager. They have been placed at the city dump and other locations where rats have been found.

"People who have them say they are well worth the money," Hughes noted. "Rats will come from a whole block to feed at one location."

TO WOMEN who are watching helplessly as their skins dry up and age prematurely

A frank statement by Jacqueline Cochran explaining how her miracle preparation, FLOWING VELVET, has restored the fresh dewiness of youth to countless despairing women.

Many people think of me as an aviation expert only. Yet, I started my career as a beauty operator before becoming the head of my cosmetic company. And I have constantly sought to create a limited number of simple corrective preparations, based on natural ingredients, that are easy to use — and above everything else — effective.

THE DRY SKIN PROBLEM

Dry, sensitive skin is the major problem of millions of American women. Greasy, heavy preparations only "butter" faces superficially. The logical answer is moisture . . . not surface moisture, but moisture in the tissue. Several years ago, after long and painstaking research, I succeeded in finding a way to make this beneficial moisture penetrate into the skin.

HOW TO USE IT

Apply it at night, after your skin cleansing. It disappears instantly, leaving no trace of grease on your face or upon your pillow.

Apply it again in the morning, under your foundation. It keeps your skin dewy-soft and beautiful all through the day.

Apply it often, as freely as you wish. FLOWING VELVET is instantly absorbed by the thirsty skin. It is so rich and concentrated that only a few drops are all that you ever need.

Nothing like it. Because FLOWING VELVET was so revolutionary and so successful, imitations inevitably followed. (I consider them a compliment.) But — NO ONE CAN SUCCESSFULLY IMITATE IT — since its miraculous element, HYDROLIN, was developed and is exclusively controlled, by my own laboratories.

WHAT IS FLOWING VELVET?

FLOWING VELVET is a triple-action, greaseless, flowing formula containing a revolutionary, exclusive ingredient — HYDROLIN, that works 3 ways:

1. It furnishes moisture that actually sinks into the skin.
2. It provides necessary oils for essential lubrication.
3. It maintains the normal balance of oils and moisture.

APPALACHIAN'S MOUNTAINEERS, TRUE CHAMPS

Nobody would rate them higher than fourth place in the North State Conference. The pre-season guessers figured the Mountaineers of Coach E. C. Duggins were yet a year away from serious contention.

Saturday night's 13-7 upheaval of East Carolina put the wraps on the loop title. It marked the third championship for the facile Appmentor and a moral victory for the players who had the last laugh on red-faced prophets.

The win continued to prop the Apps among the nation's rapidly diminishing unbeaten college football teams. Appalachian now has an enviable 7-0 mark with Presbyterian and Tampa remaining solid obstacles to an unblemished season.

MAC SMITH, A GREAT ATHLETE AND GENTLEMAN

One thing was missing from the game in Boone Saturday. The traditional fervor of the meeting was present and the snow-covered mountains made a picturesque backdrop. But Raymond (Mac) Smith, genial and great Appalachian center, was absent.

It was a warm July night last summer. Some 400 persons were on hand for a baseball game between Hagerstown and Portsmouth (Va.). It would be impossible to imagine the pall of silence that fell over the stadium when the announcement was made of the untimely death of Mac.

The gloom that descended over the ball park defies description. No one, from the fans in the bleachers to his teammates on the field, could believe that Smitty was dead.

Only an hour before, the 23-year-old ex-marine from Chickamauga, Ga., had brought cheers from the crowd with his fine fielding plays at third base. And no one thought it was anything serious when Mac left the game after singling home a run in the fifth inning. Little did anyone know that the most popular of the Hagerstown-Packets was dying from an acute attack of malaria, contracted while serving his country heroically in Korea where he was awarded the Navy Star and two Purple Hearts.

It was ironic that the fighting

Ryff Passed Up Knockout Chance

BROOKLYN (AP)—Young Frankie Ryff, the unbeaten New York lightweight, had a glib-sounding but well-meaning explanation today of why he didn't go all out for a knockout in his 15th straight victory last night.

Ryff, 27, won every round as he outclassed the veteran Henry Davis of Los Angeles at Eastern Parkway. He had Davis set up but didn't deliver the clincher.

"I don't concentrate on knockouts," said Ryff. "They don't mean that much to me. And anyway, I like to practice on these guys."

Ryff weighed 139½, Davis 135½. Davis was the second important victim for Ryff, who turned pro in 1951 after winning national and Golden Gloves championships. His career was interrupted by a two-year Army hitch and an eight-month layoff because of a fractured knee. His first big win was a decision over Ralph Dupas.

The comeback of Moses Ward of Detroit was set back a notch at St. Nicholas Arena last night when Bobby Jones of Oakland Calif., used superior boxing ability to gain a unanimous decision over him. Ward weighed 159½, Jones 155½.

Expect Filing Of $50 Million Suit Against Majors

WASHINGTON (AP)—The owner of a minor league baseball club is expected to file an estimated $50-million-dollar suit tomorrow against baseball's major leagues.

The suit was to have been filed yesterday but James P. McGranery, former U.S. attorney general and lawyer for club owner Frank Lawrence, was out of the city. His office said he would return tomorrow and presumably file the suit then.

Lawrence, owner of the Portsmouth, Va., entry in the Piedmont League has said he will seek damages from the major leagues and Commissioner Ford Frick for alleged violation of minor league territorial rights through radio and TV broadcasting of big league games.

UCLA Ranked Top Football Power In This Week's Poll

By HUGH FULLERTON JR. The Associated Press. The growing idea that a football team has to "win big" every Saturday to maintain a high national ranking will come in for a serious test next weekend.

Although the educators deplore the thought of running up big scores to impress the voters, the success of such high-scoring teams as UCLA and Miami has been reflected consistently in the balloting of the sports writers and broadcasters participating in the weekly Associated Press ranking poll.

It's UCLA on top this week, the third leader in as many weeks. Led by flashy Primo Villanueva, UCLA rolled over California 27-6 after beating Stanford 73-0 and Oregon 61-0 on the two previous Saturdays. Those three straight displays of brutal power, combined with Ohio State's 14-7 squeaker over Northwestern, put Red Sanders' Uclans ahead by the narrow margin of 28 points.

Ohio State had taken the lead from UCLA the week before when Bud Wilkinson's unbeaten Oklahomans won by a small margin. When the same thing happened again, Oklahoma winning by only 13-6 from stubborn Colorado, the Sooners dropped lower in the point scoring although they managed to hold third place by a comfortable margin over Arkansas.

Scoring is on the basis of 10 points for each first-place vote, 9 for second, etc. UCLA corralled 72 of the 231 first-place votes, piled up 1,931 points. Ohio State had 69 firsts and 1,903 points, Oklahoma 42 and 1,666 and Arkansas 15 and 1,494.

Completing the first 10 were Dame, Miami (Fla.), Army, Purdue, Mississippi and Southern California.

Miami, another high-scoring team, moved into the top 10 a week ago after a 9-7 upset over Maryland. Then it whizzed past Fordham 75-14 last Friday and jumped to sixth in the rankings.

Virtually all the top 10 teams figure to win from this Saturday's opponents, so it comes down to the question of whether just winning is enough. Army won from Virginia, 21-20 last Saturday but dropped two notches in the rankings.

The leading teams, with first-place votes in parentheses:

Table with 2 columns: Rank, Team, Points. 1. UCLA (72) 1,931, 2. Ohio State (69) 1,903, 3. Oklahoma (42) 1,666, 4. Arkansas (16) 1,494, 5. Notre Dame (4) 957, 6. Miami (Fla.) (14) 870, 7. Army (1) 755, 8. Purdue 685, 9. Mississippi (2) 529, 10. USC 347.

More Work For Returned Pirates

By BRUCE PHILLIPS Reflector Sports Writer. The East Carolina Pirates yesterday got right down to serious business in preparation for the University of Tampa this Friday night in Tampa.

Coach Jack Boone ordered a brisk workout which called for checking offensive patterns, running and passing, and working on play timing.

The Pirates came out of their 13-7 loss to Appalachian, newly crowned North State league champs, without any major injuries. The going was tough, though, in the mountainous Boone and several players are sporting minor bruises and abrasions.

Tampa affords the Pirates the first of two weeks of football with teams from the Sunshine State Stetson University of Deland, Fla. writes the fins to East Carolina's season here November 13.

The Tampa Spartans boast one of their best grid aggregations. Only last week they were selected to compete in the annual Cigar Bowl in Tampa December 17. It was the first college bowl selection of the season. At that time, the Spartans had a record of four wins and one loss. They defeated Mexico City College, South Georgia Teachers, Stetson University and Troy State Teachers. They're only lost was to the University of Chattahoochee.

Tampa has a big, speedy ball club. They emphasize offense and have a great hoard of running backs. The 1954 team is reputedly much improved over the 1953 eleven which whipped the Pirates 13-13.

East Carolina will not be at top strength for the third successive weekend. The Pirates went to Boone with 15 players hampered with injuries.

Emo Badoe of Wilmington missed last week's game at right half. The shifty little speedster was not missed. He had been treating a torn hip muscle the last two weeks and should be okay for Tampa. If so, his presence will sharpen the offensive attack.

The Pirate line, paring injuries this week in practice will be intact. J. D. Bradford has fully recovered from a kidney disorder and will go at left end. Larry Rhodes is in good physical shape and is the first-line right flanker. Willie Holland, who played a great ball game against the Mountaineers last week, is still plagued with a head cold but will be ready for the Spartans. Louis Holloway is set at center and anxious to meet the high-fiving Floridians.

The first unit backfield will probably be as same as last weeks with exception of Badoe. Boyd Webb will likely start at quarterback. Tony Hayes, who scored the Pirates' only TD against the Apps, will go at his left half position. Claude King will handle the fullback chores. The Wilmington senior was the Burs' workhorse in the Appalachian encounter.

Coaches Boone, Jim Mallory and Earl Smith and a contingent of 78 players will leave Greenville sometime Wednesday, either by bus or train.

Goldsboro Has Chance To 'Get Even' Friday

By WAYNE BISHOP Reflector Sports Writer. Goldsboro's highly rated Earthquakes and Greenville's Phantoms run into each other at ECC stadium Friday night in one of the hottest intercollegiate contests of the year for both teams.

The Earthquakes, for the past two years, have been pushed around in basketball by their AA rival and this will be their chance to get even. The Earthquakes are an up and down team but reports from the Gold city have it that they certainly will be up for this one.

Spirit High. The Greenies are riding high after their 41-0 conquest of a weak Selma team last Friday in a game that saw Coach Bill Kittrell empty his bench. Coach Kittrell dressed his entire varsity and junior varsity teams and played them all. Most of the fourth quarter Coach Kittrell played next year's potential team.

After the breather with Selma the Phantoms should be in top form against the Quakes. Harold Edwards sat out the Selma game except for about three plays. The tough-luck all-conference candidate sustained a bad bruise on his hip in the New Bern game but he should be ready by Friday night.

The Fire Malmes. Friday night will give the Greenies Five Malmes a chance to roll again. The five backs that Coach Kittrell alternates in his backfield have looked more impressive with every game. Of course, in the Selma game they were supposed to look good because of the weakness of the Yellow Jackets defense, but Friday night will be one of their big tests.

Bob Howell, James Speight, Billy Sermons, Mitchell Johnson, and Jerry Drum looked like he-men G-men last Friday. Howell has been

Terre Haute Baseball Club Comes To Inglorious End; Financial Flop

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP)—The Terre Haute Phillies of the Three-I Baseball League, owned outright by the Philadelphia Phillies, came to an end last night in a financial bust.

The Terre Haute Fans Assn., a local booster club, had sold the National League team the franchise for one dollar in 1946 with an option to rebuy.

The Philadelphia club submitted an offer last night to donate $15,000 to the local boosters and return the franchise, retaining a working agreement. Philadelphia explained another $35,000 would be needed to field the team next season.

The fans association replied it would not be able to raise the money in time to continue the team before the Three-I meeting Nov. 23-23.

C. L. Shideler president of the association, said the franchise would be returned prior to the league meeting. It was held up at present, he said, to allow Philadelphia time to transfer 27 players under Terre Haute contract.

Terre Haute had won Three-I pennants in 1950, 51 and 53 and had missed by ½ game in 1952. The club finished seventh last season.

Attendance had dropped badly in recent years. The 1948 attendance of 148,000 had dropped to 37,000 in 1954.

Shideler said the Philadelphia club had lost $49,000 on the local team in the last season.

Outfielder Just No Mound Artist. MEXICO CITY (AP)—Irv Noren of the New York Yankees, tried his hand at pitching yesterday and everyone concerned agreed he's a very good outfielder.

Noren is a member of a team of U.S. baseball players playing a barnstorming series with Bobby Avila's All-Stars.

The U.S. team was ahead 7-3 going into the eighth inning when Noren, who earlier had hit a home run, took over the mound.

In two thirds of an inning he walked five men, uncorked a wild pitch and gave up two hits and six runs. The inning was so long the game was called because of darkness with the Avila All-Stars winning 9-7.

Tennis Tourney Slated At UNC

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—The University of North Carolina has been selected by the National Collegiate Athletic Assn.'s tennis committee for the 71st National Collegiate tennis championships next June 20-25.

North Carolina Coach John Kenfield, a member of the NCAA committee, was notified yesterday by chairman Paul Bennett of Northwestern University that the University's invitation had been accepted.

The championships were held at the University of Washington at Seattle last year, when Hamilton Richardson of Tulane won the singles title for the second year in a row with Ron Livingston and Bob Perry of UCLA, taking the doubles.

The National Collegiate tennis meet last year was held in the South in 1942 when Tulane was host at New Orleans.

Although the University of North Carolina has never produced a collegiate champ, it has turned out many individual stars, including Vic Seixas, former Wimbledon champion and currently a Davis cupper, and Wilmer Hines, singles runner-up in 1933.

DANGER ON THE ROAD. DANVILLE, Va. (AP)—Traffic Officer William Lee Carter, brought a stray pony to book, but feels the motor car is less dangerous. The pony charged him, bit him and knocked him down.

Manager Eddie Stanky of the St. Louis Cardinals lists Harvey Hadix and rookies Gordon Jones and Brooks Lawrence as his 1955 pitching nucleus.

Ready To Pump Million Dollars Into A's Buildup

CHICAGO (AP)—Industrialist Arnold Johnson thinks his chances of buying the Philadelphia Athletics and moving them to Kansas City are so good that he's ready to pump a million dollars into the player market to build a pennant contender.

Johnson offered $3,375,000 for the Athletics last summer and yesterday said the offer still stands.

"The deal just has to jell a little while," he said. "But I believe my chances are excellent."

Less than a month ago Johnson not only had Roy Mack's promise that he would buy the A's but he also received approval from American League owners.

Since then the following events took place:

- 1. The team was sold to a Philadelphia syndicate. 2. Johnson threatened a suit for "substantial damages" against the syndicate, contending Roy had given his word he would sell to him. 3. The American League turned down the syndicate's bid for the club.

Speaking about the A's, Johnson said, "I realize that we do not have too much trade making material. I am ready to pour another million dollars into the A's at Kansas City for players in the next 2 or 3 1/2 years."

Yesterday, Johnson for the first time disclosed the names of his partners. They are Nathaniel Levoroh, J. Patrick Lannan and Joseph H. Briggs—Chicago business tycoon.

HD Clubs Planning 'Achievement Day'

Pitt County Home Demonstration women will be invited to come together to review their past year accomplishments at the annual Achievement Day to be held Thursday in the educational building of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

This is the one time during the year, according to Home Demonstration agent Mrs. Sue B. May, all the club members gather to look back and see what they have achieved in the past 12 months.

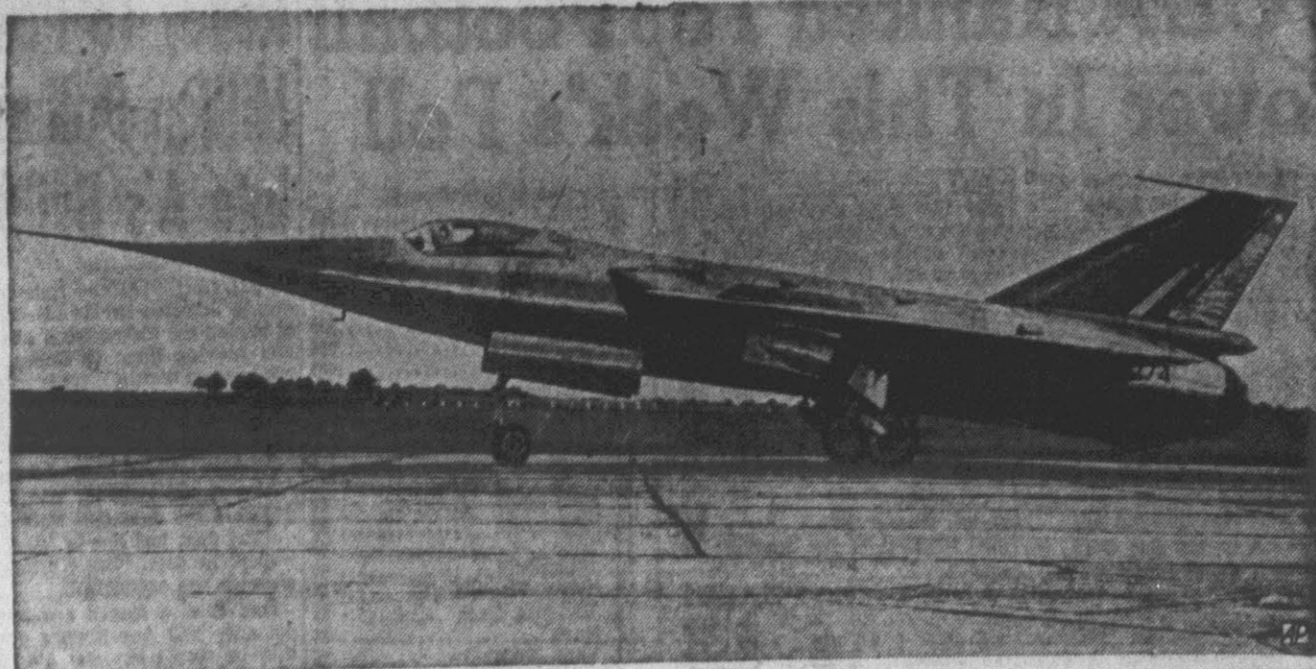

The theme for this year's program, which will begin at 10 a. m., is International Relations. Featured on the agenda is a talk by Miss Pauline Cital, a French scholarship student at East Carolina College; and a report on their recent United Nations tour by Mrs. Lonnie Stocks and Mrs. Obsd Castellio.

Club women who have had perfect attendance at their local meetings during the past year will be recognized, and reading certificates will be presented the members who have read the required number of books on an approved list during the year. The overall accomplishments of the year will be reviewed by Mrs. Russell Britt, vice president of the County Council.

Likely start at quarterback, Topsy Miss Laura Langley, district Home Demonstration agent, will be invited to extend greetings to the group, while Mrs. James Allen, president of the County Council, will preside at the meeting.

A musical program will be presented by the County Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Paul Davenport.

Following a dutch luncheon at 12:30 p. m. at Respass Brothers Barbecue House, the club women will be invited to the local Home Demonstration laboratory to learn more about the international friendship program to be undertaken during the coming year.

Emergency Loans Open To Farmers In County

Pitt County has been designated by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson as an area where eligible farmers can obtain emergency loans from the Farmers' Home Administration to repair damage caused by the recent hurricane, David G. Modlin FFA County Supervisor has announced.

"Any established farm owner or farm operator in Pitt County whose crops, buildings, or other farm property were damaged by the hurricane and who is unable to obtain from other lenders the credit needed to continue normal operations may be eligible for a loan," Modlin declared.

Loans may be obtained for the purchase of feed, seed fertilizer, replacement livestock and equipment, replacement or repair of buildings, and for other essential farm and home operating expenses, according to the county FFA supervisor. The loans cannot be obtained for paying existing debts, to compensate applicants for their losses or to expand operations.

"The loans bear three percent interest on the unpaid principal, and are scheduled for repayment over the minimum period of time consistent with the borrower's ability to repay," Modlin said. "Ordinary loans secured by liens on chattel property are scheduled for repayment within one to five years and loans for repair or improvement of real estate are scheduled for repayment within one to ten years."

He stated, however, that amounts advanced for crop production purposes are repayable when the income from the sales of the crops produced with the loans is received.

Real estate security is always required when advances are made primarily for improvements to real estate, the county supervisor declared.

Applications for loans can be made at the Farmers' Home Administration office in the old hospital building.

The Pitt FFA County committee will determine eligibility for loans to applicants. The Pitt County committee is composed of: Johnnie W. Caraway, Greenville Route 6; Mark W. Smith, Greenville Route 1; and Judson E. Whitehurst, Stokes.

November's Cold Snap Fanning Out

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An early November cold snap brought a touch of winter to the Midwest today and put a chill over wide areas of the South and East.

The cold air continued its southward push and edged into the northern sections of Texas, Louisiana and Alabama early today. It was below freezing as far south as northern Oklahoma and southern Missouri.

But it was much colder in the northern Midwest areas with readings in the teens or lower over the Dakotas southward into northern Kansas. It was 8 above at Amesbury, N.D., and 9 above at Benndji, Minn., and Fargo, N.D. Goodland, Kan., shivered in 18 above and it was 23 in Vichy, Mo.

Snow flurries fell from northern Minnesota southward through the western Great Lakes over Illinois and Indiana and into the Ohio Valley. A blanket of snow one to two inches covered most of Wisconsin, Michigan and extreme northern sections of Illinois and Indiana.

Light rain fell in North Carolina and extended northward into Pennsylvania and westward over eastern Ohio into Michigan where it became mixed with snow and continued into eastern Wisconsin and northern Illinois.

Mostly clear skies were reported in other parts of the country. In the East, temperatures ranged from the upper 20s in northern New England to the 60s along the Gulf. Readings were mostly in the 40s and 50s in the West with lower marks in the mountains.

Spectators Were Worried Until Facts Uncovered

OKLAHOMA CITY, (AP)—Until a policeman arrived to get the facts, a throng of spectators did considerable worrying about how to fish a bankroll out of the sewer.

The crowd rallied around an aging man, who gazed wistfully down the drain after some lost cash. The man explained he didn't have strength to lift the cast iron sewer grating.

Then an Oklahoma City policeman arrived. He was preparing to call the Street Department crew to help retrieve the bank money when he asked a question that fascinated spectators.

"Friend," he said, "how much money did you drop down there?"

"It was a dime," the man replied. Turned out to be bus money, not bank money.

A nearby woman handed the bad luck victim a quarter.

Female tarantulas reach maturity at 10 and often live to be 20 years old, but males which mature at 9, usually die after one mating season.

Wide Range Of Special Issues Confront Voters Across Nation

WASHINGTON (AP)—A wide range of special issues—from school segregation to social security—face voters today in 7 states.

In addition to selecting senators, representatives and state officers, voters will decide the fate of 232 constitutional amendments, initiatives and referendum proposals.

Most involve complex bond issues, tax questions and proposed changes in legislative procedures.

Georgia and Louisiana voters tackle perhaps the most widely watched proposals, designed to avoid mingling of white and Negro children in grade and high schools.

The Supreme Court has ruled public school segregation unconstitutional.

A proposed constitutional amendment in Georgia would authorize the state to advance public funds to private individuals for educational purposes. If approved as expected, this would clear the way for eventual elimination of the Georgia public school system and its replacement by state-supported private schools.

South Carolina took a similar step two years ago by voting to eliminate a state constitutional clause requiring free public schools.

Louisiana voters are expected to approve a proposed constitutional amendment invoking the "state police power" to continue segregated elementary and secondary schools "to promote and protect public health, better education and the peace and good order in the state, and not because of race."

In a showdown, this might pit the 10th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which grants police powers to the states, against the 14th Amendment, which guarantees equal rights for all citizens.

Mississippi votes on a proposal to require that potential voters be able to read and understand the Constitution. Legislative debate produced the acknowledgment

Gave $1760 To Ass'n For Blind

Jim Taylor told members of the local Lion's Club last night that $1760.93 had been turned in to the Pitt County Association for the Blind for its recent drive.

East Carolina College football coach Jack Boone appeared before the club last night and urged attendance of club members at a "Pirates Night" football game between Stetson and ECC on November 13.

For the program at last night's meeting Miss Ona Shindler of the GHS faculty presented Kitty Collins, Jo Anne Hardee, Rachael Steinbeck and Patsy Madry, a group of high school students. The quartet sang: "I Believe", "I'm Falling in Love with Someone", and "Love's a Merchant."

Carl Whitfield of the State Highway Patrol was installed as a new member last night and Wayne Bishop served as Junior Lion.

Traffic Tie-Up Is Put To Use

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Five-year-old Sheba took advantage of a traffic snarl-up to garner a half hour's trunk-or-treat style.

It was easy for Sheba a young lady elephant. Her trailer overturned on Firestone Boulevard Saturday night. She was unhurt. While she was waiting for the blocked lanes to be cleared she put on a show for youngsters making their Halloween rounds.

"She spent all her time begging peanuts from the kids," highway patrolmen said.

Returned Money To Church Fund

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A 54-year-old man — ill, jobless and only $3 away from being broke — found $84 on a street yesterday and spent several hours searching for its owner before returning it to a church organization.

The man identified himself as Bryan Diggs, a bank watchman before failing health put him out of work.

Mrs. Angelo Calabresi said she had collected the money for a repair fund at St. Mary's Church. Diggs refused any reward, telling Mrs. Calabresi he had $3 and "that's enough for me."

Style-Setters Say More Color For Men Ahead

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Style ahead for men: more brightly colored dress shirts, a "shorter look" in suits and trousers, and shorts for wear at work.

This is the prediction of experts at the National Conference on Fashion Merchandising, featuring a two-day fashion presentation of the Men's Apparel Guild in California.

Pink shirts were just the beginning, the experts told 2,000 buyers and retailers yesterday. The growing popularity of the dark-toned suits — charcoals and dark browns — means men will want new, bright colors to wear with them.

Shirts in helle (a purple shade) and lime colors will be gaining in popularity, the authorities said. Suits and sport clothes with a "shorter look" — shorter cuffs, jacket sleeves and coat lengths — were displayed in a fashion show. And stylists even predicted men will be wearing Bermuda shorts to work next summer.

Record Month

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina highway fatalities during October totaled 113, the highest number for any month since November 1952, the State Highway Patrol reported yesterday.

The figure is expected to go even higher on delayed fatality reports, the patrol said. The November, 1952, toll was 117.

Up until October, highway deaths had fallen for a 12-month period over the totals for the corresponding period a year earlier. In October last year, 104 persons were killed in highway accidents.

Motor Vehicles Commissioner Ed Scheidt blamed last month's increase partly on the fact that during a two-week period many patrolmen had to leave their highway duties for assignments in the hurricane disaster areas.

He also said people are not driving as carefully as they did in October a year ago or during the earlier months of this year.

NOTICE OF ELECTION OF A DRAINAGE COMMISSIONER
NORTH CAROLINA
EDGECOMBE COUNTY
IN THE SUPERIOR COURT
BEFORE THE CLERK
 In the Matter of - -
EDGECOMBE COUNTY
DRAINAGE DISTRICT NO. 2

Having been informed by the Board of Drainage Commissioners of the Edgecombe County Drainage District No. 2 that the term of office of one of its members, viz: Commissioner Paul E. Whitehurst, expires on the 30th day of September 1954, or as soon thereafter as his successor is elected and qualified, and the law providing that the Clerk provide for an election of his successor:

It is hereby ordered that an election be held in the court room of the Edgecombe County Courthouse in Tarboro, North Carolina, at 11 o'clock A.M. on Saturday the 6th day of November, 1954, to vote for a Drainage Commissioner to succeed Commissioner Whitehurst. Each individual landowner within said district will be qualified to vote at this election and shall be entitled to cast the number of votes equaling the number of acres of land owned by him included in the boundaries of the said District. The Court will appoint as the Drainage Commissioner to succeed Commissioner Whitehurst the one receiving a majority of votes cast at said election, or, if no one receives a majority of votes cast at said election, the court will appoint said commissioner from those receiving the highest number of votes cast.

It is further ordered that a copy of this Notice be posted at the court house door of the Edgecombe County Courthouse in Tarboro, at the court house door of the Pitt County Courthouse in Greenville, and at five conspicuous public places within the said Edgecombe County Drainage District No. 2, and that it be published in the Tarboro Southern, a newspaper of general circulation within Edgecombe County, and in the Daily Reflector, a newspaper of general circulation within Pitt County, for two publications prior to the date of said election.

Awoke To Find His Cow In House

HENDERSON, Ky. (AP) — When pranksters kept him awake by throwing walnuts against his house, Ed Dunbar decided to leave the front door open.

Now, he said to himself, "I can get a running start on them the next time it happens."

But Dunbar fell asleep. He awoke yesterday morning, walked into the living room and found his cow staring him in the face.

Robert Taft Jr. Enters Politics

CINCINNATI (AP)—Robert Taft Jr., 37, grandson of a president and son of the late senator, follows his father's political footsteps today as a candidate for the Ohio Legislature.

Hamilton County, traditionally Republican, elects nine representatives. Eighteen candidates, equally split between the two major parties, are in the field.

"I think my election chances are pretty good," young Taft told a reporter. Political observers agreed with him.

Sabu Cleared In Arson Charges

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A jury has returned a verdict in favor of Sabu Dastagir, former elephant boy of the movies, who was sued by two insurance companies for return of $20,001 paid him after a 1950 fire in his house.

Sabu 29, denied an allegation that he conspired to set the fire for the insurance money. Sabu and his wife Marilyn testified that they were not at the house at the time of the fire.

Andre Perez served a two-year prison term for arson, having admitted he set the fire and took jewelry and other valuables from the house.

Survived Fall In Big Coal Hopper

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Edward Schaffer, 41, slid through a giant coal-side hopper with 10 tons of coal yesterday and escaped without injury.

The coal had become stuck in the hopper and Schaffer and several other employees went to the top to poke it loose. Schaffer lost his balance and fell in.

Other workmen left the opening at the bottom of the hopper open and after about 10 tons of coal had poured through, Schaffer fell out, unconscious.

He was revived, taken to a hospital and later released.

Ayden Blood Donors Await Their Turn

Mrs. Ray Kite is examined by Dr. Clifton Davenport before she gave a pint of blood at the Ayden community building yesterday. The Bloodmobile paid a regularly scheduled visit to that community, where 97 pints were collected. Seated and awaiting their turn to donate blood are, left to right, Leon Dunn, Freddy McGlohan and Kermit Sumrell. The nurse in the background is Mrs. Charles Mohler.

Man Charged In Fire At Hotel

Roy Clayton, Negro tobacco worker, has been charged with malicious damage to personal property as a result of a hotel fire Saturday night.

The charges grew out of a fire in a hotel at 605 Albermarle Avenue which burned a mattress and also a portion of a wall. Firemen reported the blaze was out when they arrived.

Chief of Police S. G. Gibbs said Clayton denied setting the fire. He has been in Greenville since August and is an itinerant tobacco worker from Tennessee.

The chief stated that Clayton was jailed on the night of the fire on a drunk and disorderly charge. The case was continued in Monday's Recorder's Court and is set to be tried along with the second charge on Wednesday.

Clayton is being held in jail and his bond has been set at $500.

Bing Crosby To Return To Radio

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Bing Crosby is returning to radio, starting Nov. 22. He will be heard Monday through Friday on CBS from 9:15 to 9:30 p.m.

Mrs. Josephus Cox Funeral Wednesday

Mrs. Della Harris Cox, 71, widow of Josephus Cox, died Monday afternoon at 5:45 o'clock at her home near Ayden following a long illness.

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Hancock Primitive Baptist Church near Ayden and burial will be in the Church Cemetery.

Mrs. Cox spent all her life in the Winterville-Ayden community and was daughter of the late James and Sallie Fulford Harris. She was a member of Hancock Primitive Baptist Church.

She is survived by two sons, N. T. and Woodrow W. Cox, both of the home; two daughters, Mrs. W. Arthur Robinson of Winterville, and Mrs. William F. McLawhorn of near Ayden; 14 grandchildren; 5 great-grandchildren; a brother, Luther Harris of Edenton; and a step-son, Thad Harris of Goldsboro.

Richard A. Nelson Funeral Wednesday

Mr. Richard A. Nelson, 49, merchant and lifelong resident of Grifton, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville at 4:25 o'clock Tuesday morning. He was critically injured in an automobile accident near Winterville a short while earlier when his car apparently went out of control.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Grifton Methodist Church at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon by the pastor, the Rev. R. C. Moonney, and burial will be in the Grifton Cemetery. Members of the Grifton Masonic Lodge, No. 243, will have charge of the service at the grave. Members of the Board of Stewards will be honorary pallbearers. The body will remain at the S. G. Wilkerson & Sons Funeral Home and will be taken to the church at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Mr. Nelson was the owner and operator of the Grifton Feed Company, a member of the firm J. R. Harvey and Company, and also engaged in extensive farming. He was the son of Mrs. R. E. Nelson of Grifton and the late Mr. Nelson. He was active in religious, civic, and fraternal organizations. He attended the Grifton Schools and was an alumnus of Duke University. He was a loyal member of the Grifton Methodist Church and a member of the Board of Stewards. For many years he had been the teacher of the young adult class—the Richard A. Nelson Class, named in honor of him. He was a former Mayor and a town commissioner of Grifton. He was a member and Past Master of the Grifton Masonic Lodge and also a member of Sudan Temple. At the time of his death he was the District Deputy Grand Patron of the Order of Eastern Star, and was also the past grand patron of the Grifton Chapter of the Eastern Star, No. 134.

Mr. Nelson had the distinction of being the first man to serve as President of the Grifton Parent-Teachers Association and this year was the first man to serve as Vice-President of that organization. He was a member of the Grifton Lions Club and also the Kinston Community Theatre. He had the leading role in last year's production and currently was taking part in this year's production to be staged this week.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Murlie Harvey Nelson; three daughters, Emily, Marian and Edna Nelson; his mother, Mrs. R. E. Nelson, all of the home; two sisters, Mrs. J. W. Overton of Greenville and Mrs. J. C. Cook of Williamston; and a brother, Sam E. Nelson of Grifton.

Propose Loan To Build Grifton School Rooms

County Board of Education yesterday decided to submit a proposal to the Grifton School Committee whereby the Board would request a loan of approximately $3,000 to the Grifton district as additional funds for the construction of a two-room addition to the Negro school there.

If this proposal is agreeable to the committee and approved by the Board of County Commissioners, the contracts for general construction and heating will be executed by the Board of Education, Superintendent D. H. Conley explained.

The Board recently held a meeting to open bids for the school addition, but when tabulated it was found the low bids exceeded the amount available for the construction. Through its architect, James W. Griffith, the Board negotiated with the low bidder on general construction, W. G. Dunn, and found by accepting certain changes, such as omitting cabinets, screens and gravel fill under the floor slab, it could obtain a reduction of $760. The total cost it was discovered, however, still exceeded by some $3,000 the amount available for the building.

Conley said no action was taken on the wiring bid at yesterday's meeting, and this will be worked out at a later date.

The Superintendent reported the title to a six-acre tract of land adjacent to the Pitt County Training School at Grimesland has been secured as a result of negotiations with the Pitt County Training School Veterans Community Athletic Club.

The land, which was purchased at a cost of $2,500, will be used as a playground and an athletic field, Conley said.

This year's school district valuations were received by the Board from County Auditor Reginald Gray and show a total valuation of $68,592,646 for all the county schools.

The Board approved the resignation of Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson of the Ayden High School faculty effective November 7. Mrs. Johnson resigned to accept a position as assistant Home Demonstration agent for Pitt County.

Also approved was the application of Vera L. Claybrook as an elementary teacher in the Grifton school. The Board discussed the sale of the Clemmons Negro school building and lot, located about three miles east of Stokes, and ordered negotiations begin for the private sale of the property. Previously the property has been advertised for sale at public auction but the Board reported no acceptable bids have been received.

Census Taker Is Finding Task Has Its Tribulations

SPEARVILLE, Kan. (AP) — Mrs. Tom Owen, working on a farm census in the Spearville area, has discovered there's more to the job than she thought. Since becoming census taker, she's been:

Blamed for the low price of eggs.

Chased by members of a family who thought they had last caught the thief stealing canned goods from their basement.

Barked at by dogs and bawled out by farmers.

But she says her saddest experience came the other day when she delayed eating lunch, which she carries with her, because she wanted to catch a family at its noon meal. When she returned to her car after talking to the family, she found the family cat on the seat. It was just finishing off Mrs. Owen's lunch.

Winston-Salem Hotel Is Sold

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—The 350-room Hotel Robert E. Lee, the city's largest, yesterday was purchased by a Winston-Salem syndicate from the Winston-Salem Hotel Co., controlled by William Tennille and the Holderness Co. of Greensboro.

Douglas Boyle, executive vice president and general manager of the hotel said 3,602 shares were involved, representing 52 per cent of the stock. No figure was disclosed.

Tennille's resignation as president and William Holderness of Greensboro as a director were the only personnel changes listed.

A stockholders meeting will be held in January.

The syndicate is composed of local business, industrial and private capital. It was not further identified.
