Remington Dies Of Prison Hurts

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP)—William W. Remington, former government attorney serving a three-year term for perjury, died today at the federal penitentiary here from injuries suffered in an attack at the prison.

Remington's death was announced by Acting Warden Fred T. Wilkinson. He suffered head injuries Monday when hit on the head with a sock-covered brick in his dormitory room.

Wilkinson said the identity of Remington's assailant "is fairly well established," but did not disclose whether it was another convict, nor give the reason for the attack.

Wilkinson issued this statement: "Inmate William Walter Remington died in the institution hospital at 7:38 a.m. today, Nov. 24, 1954. On Tuesday afternoon an operation was performed by an outside surgical consultant and the institution medical officer.

"The investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and prison officials is continuing and all information will be presented to the U. S. Attorney."

Remington was confined in the same prison as Alger Hiss, former top State Department official, who has served 3½ years for perjury. Hiss is scheduled to be released on parole Saturday.

Remington was sentenced to three years on a charge that he lied when he denied giving anyone secret classified information. He was sentenced Feb. 4, 1953 and started serving the sentence April 15, 1953.

Philadelphia's Norman McCabe, special agent in charge of the Philadelphia FBI office, declined comment on Remington's death. He said a statement would be issued "when we have made an arrest."

Wilkinson reported that Remington was found by his quarters' officer in a dazed condition on the second floor stairway landing below his third floor dormitory quarters. He said that part of the prison was occupied by a small number of prisoners, consisting of night workers in the day, and by janitors.

Remington, in the attack, suffered lacerations of the face and head and a probable fractured skull.

Remington first was indicted in 1950 on a charge of falsely denying to a grand jury that he ever was a member of the Communist party.

He was convicted Feb. 7, 1951, and sentenced to five years but appealed and was freed on bail. The New York Court of Appeals on Aug. 22, 1951 reversed the conviction, holding unanimously that U. S. Dist. Judge Gregory F. Noonan in his charge to the jury was "too vague and indefinite."

Remington was indicted again Oct. 25, 1951 on a charge of lying at his first trial when he denied he had passed government secrets to Elizabeth Bentley, confessed courier for a World War II Soviet spy ring.

Before he went to trial on the new accusation, Remington entered a long fight against the indictment all the way to the Supreme Court, charging "oppression and deceit" by prosecutors in the grand jury room at the time of the first indictment.

Among other things he complained that John Brunini, foreman of the grand jury, was a "financial and literary collaborator" with Miss Bentley, the chief prosecution witness, on a book "the success of which depended upon Remington's indelicacy."

The Supreme Court rejected Remington's appeal on that issue. He was convicted Jan. 27, 1953, and sentenced to serve three years. His conviction was upheld Nov. 24, 1953, seven months after he entered prison.

At his second trial in New York, the defense pictured Remington as "a glib talker" who got fast-talking into turning secret data over to a Communist ring.

The Eastern Belt as a whole. The 1953 average for gross sales in 1954 compared with $57.10 for the entire belt and the 1952 average of $50.74 for the local market was higher than the belt average of $50.53.

Whedbee said he was pleased with the fact that the poundage this year exceeded last year's.

"This splendid record was made notwithstanding the severe drought we had in our area during our growing season last summer," he declared. "All during the season a great many growers from distant counties were observed daily selling in Greenville for their first time. This was very gratifying and accounts for a substantial part of the increase in poundage this year over last year."

Whedbee stated that on behalf of the Greenville Tobacco Market he wished to express sincere appreciation to the thousands of tobacco farmers from Pitt County and adjoining counties and distant counties who have made the record possible.

Children Injured In Bus Accident

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Thirty-one school children were injured, at least five seriously, when a school bus crashed into a tree here yesterday. The driver said the accident happened when he tried to prevent three musical instruments from sliding against the steering wheel. He was treated for shock.

Driver Harold C. Fetter, 33, was quoted by police as saying the bus went out of control when he reached for the instruments and swerved off the road. The bus was filled, carrying an estimated 60 youngsters.

The bus was returning students from Marion-Franklin High School, south of here, to their homes.

Briton Held As Spy For Russians

Trial Ordered; Admits Espionage In U. S. Navy Headquarters In London

LONDON (AP)—A Scotland Yard inspector testified today John Clarence, 27, a British clerk, admitted he spied on U. S. Navy headquarters in London as a voluntary agent of the Soviet Union.

At the close of a hearing in Magistrate's Court, Clarence was ordered held for jury trial on two charges of obtaining and recording military information "calculated to be useful to an enemy."

The case was brought against the clerk under the rarely invoked official secrets act—the same process followed in the trial and conviction of atom spy Klaus Fuchs.

Prosecutor Ian Smith told the court Clarence obtained information about Britain's anti-aircraft defenses while employed as a clerk for a home guard unit in the fall of 1953.

Smith said the case came to light when Clarence lost a briefcase containing a document headed "Embassy of the Soviet Union."

Chief Inspector Charles Ward of Scotland Yard testified that the British permitted Clarence to take his job with the home guard even though they knew he had volunteered his services to the Soviet Embassy some time before.

Ward said he questioned Clarence in January, 1953, some months before Clarence was employed by the home guard.

He declared Clarence admitted he went to the Soviet consulate here in September, 1952, "and offered his services in any capacity."

Later, Ward added, Clarence went to the U. S. Navy offices in London's Grosvenor Square at the suggestion of a Russian named Barbanov, described as a Soviet attaché dealing with displaced persons.

Ward said this was Clarence's story as told to him: Clarence had instructions from Moscow to ingratiate himself with U. S. authorities and to obtain any literature or information dealing with the attitude of the United States toward displaced persons.

The clerk asked also to distribute Soviet propaganda among displaced persons here and to spy on them and report their activities.

Clarence reported regularly to Barbanov and was paid one or two pounds on occasion. The pound is valued at $2.80.

Page Of Reasons To Change Name

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—The parents of Douglas Dwight Thompson have received permission to change the middle name of their son to Walsh. Dist. Judge W. Lee Johnson granted them permission after deleting from their petition more than a page of reasons why they no longer are admirers of President Dwight Eisenhower, for whom they named the boy.

They did not seek to change his first name, Douglas, taken from Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

MALIK ARRIVES
NEW YORK (AP)—Jacob Malik arrived here by plane today to succeed the late Andre Vishinsky as leader of the Soviet Union delegation to the United Nations.

In a resolution on cotton, it was recommended that cotton farmers be allowed to vote on crop control or three-year control. The resolution further favors support of an increase in the national cotton allotment with the amount of increase "to be determined on the basis of making a gradual adjustment to a normal supply level."

Other resolutions recommended efforts of the United Nations, endorsed the late Gov. William B. Umstead, pledged support to Gov. Luther H. Hodges, urged the formation of a state vegetable association, recommend stricter control of livestock diseases and improvement of markets, and propose that any farmer be permitted to plant up to 15 acres of wheat regardless of allotments, without forfeiting benefits.

One resolution opposes an increase in peanut quotas and favor maintaining price supports at 90 per cent of parity.

Refute Spy Charges Against 13 Americans As Utterly False

U. S. Prepares Red China Protest

By DONALD SANDERS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States announced last night it will lodge "the strongest possible protest" against Chinese Communist prison sentences given to 13 Americans who dropped out of sight during the Korean War.

"Utterly false," the department said of spying charges which Peiping gave as the basis for prison terms ranging from four years to life.

"The U. S. government will continue to make every effort to effect the release of these men who have been unjustly sentenced to further periods of imprisonment," the department said.

The sentences by a Red Chinese military court, announced by the Peiping radio yesterday, were labeled by the State Department as "further proof of the Chinese Communist regime's disregard for accepted practices of international conduct."

In a separate statement, the Defense Department said the action "illustrates again the bad faith, insincerity and amorality which characterize the Red China's conduct of its international relations."

It said, "The Chinese Communists... are holding the American servicemen as political prisoners in violation of international law, the rules of war and the Korean armistice agreement."

The State Department said the U. S. consul general at Geneva, Franklin C. Gowen "is being instructed to emphatically protest... the continued wrongful detention of these American citizens."

Geneva is the United States' only official contact with Red China, which it does not recognize.

Judged on the basis of past experience with Peiping, it appeared problematical what would come of the protest.

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) termed the Red action "outrageous" and urged an investigation by the United Nations. Sen. Welker (R-Idaho) proposed that this country use "force." Sen. George (D-Ga) said if such incidents continue the United States might have to take "drastic action."

Eleven of the men involved were crew members of a U. S. B29 shot down Jan. 12, 1953. The United States announced Aug. 19 that 15 American airmen missing in the Korean War were known to be alive. It contended they were being held by the Reds as political prisoners.

The government said these 15 were among a total of 526 Americans missing and demanded a Peiping accounting and their return, dead or alive.

The downed B29 had been commanded by Col. John Kohn Arnold Jr., of Silver Spring, Md., said by Peiping to have drawn a sentence of 10 years. His second in command, Maj. William H. Baumer, Lewisburg, Pa., drew eight years.

Peiping said three members of the B29's crew died when it crashed, and that the nine other members were given sentences ranging from four to six years.

Even heavier sentences were announced for two young New Englanders the Red Chinese said were captured Nov. 29, 1952, while dropping supplies to "American espionage agents in northeast China."

Washington said they were lost between South Korea and Japan, and that it does not know how they fell into Red hands.

The State Department said the announcement of the prison terms for these two John Thomas Downey, 27, and Richard George Fecteau 27, was "the first word we have had that they are being held by the Chinese Communists."

The government said Downey and Fecteau were civilian employees of the Army, and it accused the Chinese Reds of deliberately concealing information about them during the Geneva conference, at which the fate of Americans held in China was discussed.

Downey, from New Britain, Conn., is a cousin of singer Morton Downey. He drew a life sentence. Fecteau, a former Boston University football player from Lynn, Mass., drew 30 years.

Peiping's version was that these two were "special agents of the U. S. Central Intelligence Agency," but Defense Department said: "They were authorized passengers on a routine flight from Seoul to Japan in a plane which was under military contract to the Far East Air Force. The search instituted at the time failed to produce any trace of the plane, and Downey and Fecteau were presumed to have been lost."

As for the B29 and her crew, Peiping said the plane was shot down "after intruding into China's territorial air space" over Manchuria across the Yalu River boundary between North Korea and China. It said Baumer, the second in command, "on many occasions had carried out air reconnaissance of China's national defense installations."

The Defense Department said the B29 was on a "routine flight near the Yalu River" when shot down, and it added that the "Communists charge that these men are political prisoners" is palpably false.

Third Slight Drop In Cost Of Living

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reported today that living costs declined in October for the third straight month.

The drop of two-tenths of one per cent from September will mean a penny-an-hour pay cut for 1,300,000 workers in the auto, aircraft and farm machinery industries whose union contracts call for pay rates changes geared to the living cost index.

Food prices, averaging one-half of one per cent lower, were the main factor in the over-all living cost drop between September and October.

The index kept by the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics eased to 114.5 per cent of the 1947-49 average—the lowest point this year and the lowest since June, 1953.

The living cost level this October is eight-tenths of one per cent below the record established in October of last year.

Mrs. Arneson Joy Wickens, acting labor statistics commissioner, indicated at a news conference that current retail prices, particularly for food, are even lower in November.

She hinted this would mean a further decline in the index next month.

Mrs. Wickens said nearly all the makings of the traditional Thanksgiving dinner are considerably lower this year than at last Thanksgiving.

"We haven't figured how much, but it is quite clear from everything we have that the Thanksgiving dinner costs this year will be less than last year," she said.

She said turkey prices are about 4 to 10 cents a pound cheaper this year, with the biggest savings for the larger birds. She said prices for eggs, milk, sweet potatoes, butter, celery are all lower this Thanksgiving, but bread, coffee, lettuce and cranberries are slightly higher.

The most important food price cuts between September and October were in pork and poultry. Fresh fruits were lower but fresh vegetables were higher.

A bumper crop brought lower prices for apples, except in New England where fall hurricanes damaged apple crops.

Three persons were injured last night when two cars were involved in a collision on N. C. 903.

The injured were listed as Arthur Byrd of Dover who received head and chest injuries, Sulvanus Jones of Trenton Route 1, head and chest injuries, and Asa Bryant White of Dover, head injuries.

White was the driver of one of the vehicles which was involved in a collision with a second car operated by James Arthur Perkins, Negro, of Robersonville Route 2. Damage to each of the cars amounted to $300. Investigating was Patrolman James W. Boykin.

UN Lull Used To Marshal Arguments On Issue Korea Dispute Put To Fore

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Russia and the Western Powers took advantage of a lull in East-West debate in the United Nations today to marshal their arguments on the stormy Korean issue.

The Assembly's chief Political Committee, now occupied with the Indonesian-Dutch dispute over West New Guinea, hopes to turn late this week to the rival plans for uniting Korea. The West and the Communists last deadlocked on the issue at the Geneva political conference in June.

State Elections Board Rejects Appeals In 3 County Disputes

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Board of Elections rejected appeals yesterday in election disputes from Ashe, Davie and Stokes counties.

Two of the appeals were filed by Republicans and one by a Democrat. Board Chairman J. Hampton Price said the record in the Davie case will be turned over to the attorney general's office for study to determine whether any criminal violation was involved.

Price said the board also is referring to the attorney general a request from R. L. Whitmire Jr., Democratic chairman of Henderson County, for a study of some 200 absentee ballots. Whitmire charged that some of the absentees were illegal.

Meanwhile, Price said a House committee investigator looking into Republican complaints of absentee ballot charges in the 9th Congressional District can obtain the applications for the ballots without using a subpoena.

Investigator Samuel H. Still said last week officials of the state board may be subpoenaed to produce absentee ballot applications and other records at a House committee meeting in Washington Dec. 2. Still said he wanted to take the absentee applications back to the district for checking.

Still did not attend yesterday's meeting, but Price said "We will send the applications anywhere he wants them, but in the custody of an agent of the board."

At Winston-Salem, S. P. Kimmel

U.N., delegates speculated that the Soviets might come up with a plan to break the stalemate over supervision of all-Korean elections.

South Korea and her U.N. allies already were reported at odds over a Western compromise plan to settle the election question which torpedoed the Korean phase of the Geneva talks.

South Korean Ambassador You Chan Yang has protested that the new proposal, reportedly advanced by Britain and Canada and agreed to by the 13 other U.N. allies, represents a drastic change in position which would take the Korean problem out of the U.N.'s hands.

These sources said it would set up a supervisory commission, similar to the one created in Indonesia, consisting of South Korea, a Communist nation and a neutral.

South Korean President Syngman Rhee has said flatly his people want "no foreign government or foreign nationals" involved in the election. South Korea's Foreign Minister Y. T. Pyun is due here soon to take part in the Korean debate.

Western diplomats speculated whether Andrei Vishinsky's death would mean any change in Russia's position on Korea. Ambassador Jacob Malik, who has been named to head the Soviet delegation temporarily, has never been noted for his Western leanings. But Arkady Sobolev, No. 2 man on the Soviet delegation and believed by some observers slated to eventually inherit Vishinsky's chair, has maintained better relations with Western diplomats than any other high Soviet delegate.

Many believe that, in view of the Kremlin's new conciliatory attitude, either Sobolev or Malik might lend a sympathetic ear to Western attempts to compromise the Korean issue.

Senator Is Against McCarthy Censure

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Young (R-ND) announced today he will not vote to censure Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) on the charges brought by the special committee which recommended an official rebuke.

Young, hitherto uncommitted publicly, made known his views in a news letter.

He said he was influenced by the need for preserving the right of free speech and McCarthy's "effective work" in "exposing the Communist influence in the federal government and other institutions."

McCarthy has said he expects to get about 25 votes against censure out of a full membership of 96, but he has not listed those he counts on his side.

Meanwhile, Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill), an ally of McCarthy in the fight against censure, said he expects debate on the issue to resume next Monday as scheduled. Debate was broken off last Thursday after McCarthy entered a hospital with an injured elbow.

"I'm ready to go ahead right where we left off," Dirksen said in an interview. He plans to offer a substitute for the censure resolution drafted by the special committee headed by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah). Dirksen has not disclosed its terms.

Republican Leader Knowland of California said in a separate interview he too was going on the assumption the debate would resume Monday. He said he expected to learn more Friday or Saturday on McCarthy's condition.

The Navy hospital at nearby Bethesda, Md., said yesterday McCarthy was continuing to improve. Young wrote in his letter that McCarthy's criticism of the Watkins committee in a statement put in the Congressional Record was "unwarranted and unreasonable." He added that "in no sense... could the committee be rightly termed 'handmaidens of the Communist party,'" as McCarthy has called its members.

But he said McCarthy "broke no standing rule of the Senate" in his criticisms.

"By law and precedent, North Dakota and other states permit almost unlimited criticism of public officials, particularly during an election campaign," he wrote.

Tobacco Market Finishes Season

The Greenville Tobacco Market wound up its 1954 season yesterday with a final average of $53.94, according to figures released by Sales Supervisor W. L. Whedbee.

The figures showed that the market sold 68,793,896 pounds of tobacco during the 1954 season for $37,106,271.89.

Whedbee pointed out that the poundage sold this year marked an increase of 3,497,262 pounds over the total poundage for 1953 and an increase of 6,279,712 pounds over 1952. The Greenville Market sold 65,296,634 pounds in 1953 and 62,514,184 pounds in 1952.

This year's average fell far below the 1953 average of $59.90 for producer's or farmers sales, which was the highest in the history of the market. On gross sales in 1953, which includes resales by warehouses and speculators the market averaged $59.12.

However, this year's average was above the 1952 season when tobacco averaged $50.74, on gross sales.

This year's average was the fourth highest in the history of the market. Only in 1950, 1951, and 1953 were the season's averages higher than this year's.

Farm Bureau Delegates Begin Considering Resolutions List

ASHEVILLE (AP)—Delegates to the 19th annual meeting of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation today began consideration of 61 resolutions on every phase of agriculture as the final session of the convention opened in City Auditorium.

High on the list of resolutions, presented by committee Chairman A. D. Williams of Wilson, was a resolution favoring 90 per cent parity price supports on basic commodities.

The resolution recommended no flexible supports but recommended that quotas be continued from year to year regardless of the supply situation.

It favors price supports at 90 per cent of parity "if producers want supports and if the production does not exceed demand" for non-basic commodities. "The non-basic should be supported through non-recourse loans where the products are storable and through government purchases for school lunches and other benevolent programs," the resolution states.

In a resolution on roads, it was requested that primary road development be based on careful analysis of future traffic demand so that "unnecessary relocations and rebuilding can be eliminated."

The resolution requested the State Highway Commission to name or number all public rural roads and to place signs indicating right-of-way at all intersections.

Dissatisfaction with progress being made in providing rural telephone service was expressed in a resolution which urged that the "program be continued, strengthened and vigorously promoted."

The resolution further urges congress to appropriate sufficient funds to carry out the intent of the Rural Telephone Act.

The quota program on tobacco was endorsed and a 5 per cent overall reduction in the 1955 acreage allotment for flue-cured tobacco was favored in another resolution.

In a resolution on cotton, it was recommended that cotton farmers be allowed to vote on crop control or three-year control. The resolution further favors support of an increase in the national cotton allotment with the amount of increase "to be determined on the basis of making a gradual adjustment to a normal supply level."

Other resolutions commended efforts of the United Nations, endorsed the late Gov. William B. Umstead, pledged support to Gov. Luther H. Hodges, urged the formation of a state vegetable association, recommend stricter control of livestock diseases and improvement of markets, and propose that any farmer be permitted to plant up to 15 acres of wheat regardless of allotments, without forfeiting benefits.

One resolution opposes an increase in peanut quotas and favor maintaining price supports at 90 per cent of parity.

PTA Women Discuss Plans For Recipe Book
ROBERSONVILLE—The Parent-Teachers Association met Thursday evening at 7:30 in the high school auditorium.

Rev. J. B. Hurley gave the devotional before Miss Ingram's second year high school students staged a fashion show modeling wearing apparel that they had made, also displaying clothing from the local stores.

During the business session, the president, Mrs. Leo Everett, thanked everyone for his and her cooperation in making the Halloween party a great success. Over $2100 was cleared at this carnival. The treasurer gave an excellent financial report.

Mrs. Everett stated that several parents from Robersonville attended the P.T.A. District Meeting No. 9 at Elizabeth City November 3. The women were urged to mail their favorite recipes for the P.T.A. cook-book which will be sold to help raise funds for the new P.T.A. state office building. The audience then went to the library where posters were on display. As an observance of Book Week, the elementary and high school teachers cooperated with Miss Richardson, the librarian, in trying to cultivate an interest in reading by drawing attractive placards. Salvation Army Issues Appeal For Furniture, Clothes For Fire Victims

Lieutenant B. T. Lewis of the Salvation Army issued a call today for furniture and clothes for fire victims.

"It takes years for a family to accumulate furnishings for a comfortable home," the lieutenant declared. "Yet, it takes only a few minutes for disaster to strike in the form of fire and destroy all their possessions."

"This is a story that is repeated many times in our county year after year," he continued. "Some of these people are in a position to start anew without any outside help, but on the other hand some find themselves in the embarrassing situation of having nothing to fall back on or no one to whom they can turn. So they appeal to the Salvation Army and we try to assist them in starting housekeeping again."

Lewis said the Salvation Army had four families in the last 30 days, two of them in the last week.

"We need any usable furniture that you can give and serviceable clothes," he stated. "You can feel assured that the Salvation Army will place these items in homes where they are needed and most appreciated."

Lewis declared that persons interested in donating may call 2324 or 2336 and the items will be picked up by the Salvation Army.

Dr. Crisp Speaks To Pickwick Club

On Tuesday afternoon, November 16, the Pickwick Book Club met at the home of Mrs. Moulton Massey Jr. The home was decorated throughout with fall flowers and looked lovely for the occasion. A delicious dessert course with coffee was served by the hostess.

A short business session was presided over by the president, Mrs. David Whitchard, III, at which time a committee was appointed to make plans for a Christmas party for the husbands of club members.

Then Mrs. Whitchard turned the meeting over to Mrs. J. K. Proctor Jr., program chairman for the afternoon, who introduced her guest speaker, Dr. S. M. Crisp. The subject was "Antiques"—one upon which Dr. Crisp speaks with authority. He pointed out that collecting is an inborn trait and advised the young homemakers interested in collecting beautiful things for their home to study certain authoritative books and magazines, to visit outstanding museums and to buy their antiques to suit their everyday needs. Of particular interest to the group were a few pieces of antique glass Dr. Crisp chose from his collection to show them. At the conclusion of this delightful and informative program the books were exchanged and the meeting adjourned. Guest for the afternoon was Mrs. Harvey Ward Jr.

Bride-Elect Honored At Dinner

On Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock Misses Wynette Garner, Frances Glenn Cahoon and Barbara Cozart were hostesses at a dinner party at the Olde Towne Inn to honor Miss Patsy Leichter, bride-elect.

The long table was centered with an attractive arrangement of white chrysanthemums with traceries of ivy and white tapers extending the length of the table. Bridal place cards and favors of miniature bags of rice marked each place.

The honoree was presented a corsage of white carnations and was showered with small gifts for her traveling bag.

A turkey dinner was served to 17 friends of the bride-elect.

Imaginary Tour Of Continent Taken By Lydia Wooten Class

The November meeting of the Lydia Wooten Class of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church was held Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Walter Cherry with Mesdames John Karsnak, Henry Martin, Paul Batchelor, J. L. Simmons, E. L. Baker and Mrs. Jack Moye as co-hostesses.

The president, Mrs. Maxwell, presided and the devotional was given by Mrs. Henry Martin. In keeping with the Thanksgiving season, she brought thoughts on this subject.

The roll was called and the minutes were read and approved.

The treasurer's report was given. A Christmas project to help a needy family was discussed, and a committee appointed to make definite plans.

Mrs. Hicks Corey, who toured England, Scotland and many countries on the Continent, showed slides of scenes she visited this past summer. She told many interesting facts about each picture which were enjoyed by all.

Delicious refreshments of pumpkin tarts, coffee and nuts were served during the social hour.

Hirshberg To Speak At Columbia Meeting

Dr. Edgar W. Hirshberg of the department of English at East Carolina College is included among speakers who will read papers at the Twenty-fourth Annual Meeting of the South Atlantic Modern Language Association at the University of South Carolina in Columbia November 25-27.

His paper will deal with "George Henry Lewes's Shakespearean Criticism." It continues previous research done by Dr. Hirshberg of Lewes, whose biography is linked to that of the Victorian novelist George Eliot. Dr. Hirshberg published last year an account of the Lewes drama "Captain Bland" produced in New York in 1884.

Did Parental Fear Influence The Court?

We trust the several Army review boards who will pass on the court martial sentence of Lt. Charles C. Anderson give consideration to the possibility of an over-severe verdict.

Such a possibility does exist in our mind; and the thought persists that Lt. Anderson's dismissal from the service might have been decided upon to allay parental concern that their young sons might be abused in military service.

Now nobody likes petty tyrants, and nobody pretends to doubt that the armed services have had their share of them. But people who live in the relaxed atmosphere of civilian life must be occasionally reminded that a strongly implanted sense of discipline is most necessary among members of the armed services.

Too, the teaching and enforcing of that discipline requires stern measures. Sometimes the bizarre or spectacular is more effective in attaining a necessary degree of discipline.

Discipline is part and parcel of a lesson in survival for individual military personnel, for military units, for an army, and at times can be the salvation of a nation. Without it, a military organization upon which a nation depends, becomes no more than a mob.

Lt. Anderson was assigned the difficult job of bringing discipline to a company that had a reputation as a "bunch of eightballs". He had a limited amount of time to do the job. His superiors, at the court martial, agreed the young veteran of battle in Korea brought his company up to acceptable standards within a short period of time. Quite an accomplishment.

Sure, the methods he sometimes used were unusual. . . maybe even harsh. But there must be discipline, there must be even a certain amount of hardness . . . physical and mental . . . in a good soldier. If parents object to inculcating of those qualities in their sons, they are also objecting to necessary qualities in the fighting men chosen to defend their homes, their country.

In A Way, Vishinsky Served The U. S.

Here's an epitaph that would raise some eyebrows:

ANDREI VISHINSKY
loyal servant of Communism and a proven friend of the United States.

Seems very unlikely, doesn't it? Such a tribute would probably cause as much of a stir on the other side of the Iron Curtain as over here.

But we submit that the short, stocky, gray little man of the Kremlin served two masters: the Communist Party and the Free World. If this be contradictory, it is no more contradictory than the man himself.

He followed the "party line" to the letter in saying "no" to proposals running counter to Soviet policy; but in many instances his "no" was accompanied by a diatribe of invective and absurd reasoning that puzzled calm observers and left red-blooded Americans "seeing red". Did he protest overmuch?

Vishinsky, we can assume, was as well informed on American policies, public

Strength for the Day

A DOUBLE LIFE

Occasionally we hear, generally in a sinister whisper, "He's leading a double life!" The expression is usually not complimentary. It implies deception, often immorality.

Yet we all lead double lives. You are one person at work, part of a machine functioning with the facts, figures, or skills that are your job. At home you are another person, fulfilling a role in the family. Perhaps you sit in the front pew in church and sing loudly, and at the nineteenth hole tell questionable stories over the bar.

But you cannot be all things to all men, and be happy. You cannot be chameleon, turning whatever color your surroundings are, or a mirror, merely reflecting your present company—not and be of real significance to yourself or to others. If you are not somewhere your own true self, you are nothing; and the asylums are full of people whose personalities have gone in so many directions that they have none left.

We all lead double lives, yes. But we can be one person, too, by doing nothing at work that would shame us at home, or vice versa; by setting a high standard for others to match, not sinking to their lower ones; by working, resting, playing, worshipping in the same spirit of truth to oneself.

The secret of happiness is becoming a whole person. Pull yourself together!

Coffee Republics In Trouble

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—While American housewives complain over paying $1.13 a pound for coffee, the American State Department is deeply disturbed over a prospective drop in prices that will bankrupt several coffee-producing nations and render them more susceptible to Communist infiltration in the vicinity of the Panama Canal.

As the recent Guatemalan explosion revealed, all these countries—Brazil, Guatemala, Colombia, Ecuador, El Salvador, Honduras, Haiti, Costa Rica and the Dominican Republic—have been penetrated by Communist agents on orders of their masters in Moscow. Their principal propaganda charges that there is an official and unofficial American conspiracy against coffee.

They find it easy to excite native audiences, for the United States is the principal market for this staple crop. Moreover, South American anger has been stimulated by Congressional denunciations and investigations of high prices, and by the Federal Trade Commission's anti-trust charges against the New York Coffee Exchange, with the implication that producers conspire at gouging American coffee drinkers.

U. S. CONCERN—State's immediate concern arises from the fact that the future prices for September, 1955, for Brazilian coffee is about 61.35 cents a pound. This represents a decline of 43.65 cents from last April's high of 95 cents.

If 1955 prices average around 55 cents, Brazil will lose an income of $550,000,000 a year, and the other coffee-growing countries will lose proportionately. All these countries are in financial straits now, and such a decline might ruin them. Coffee accounts for from 60 to 95 per cent of their total national revenue.

In fact, the suicide of President Vargas of Brazil attitudes, desires, needs and fears as anyone could be. That was part of his job. He must have been fully aware of the Americans' abhorrence of aggression, enslavement, brutality, war, intrigue and persecution. Yet, there were frequent occasions when he accused them of all these things, and more. Why did he deliberately and needlessly stir up indignation and wrath against himself and world communism?

The end result was to keep Americans aware Russia was an enemy.

How about his obstructionism within the United Nations? Maybe that was another blessing in disguise. It made our diplomats and those of other free nations work overtime.

All in all, we think the Vishinsky "menace" would have been far more real if he had abstained from lurid oratory and lulled the world into thinking he and the government he represented were the peaceloving type.

Maybe, in his secret hours before falling asleep, Vishinsky thought those thoughts and smiled to himself. Remember, he was a clever man.

A Season For Giving Thanks

Thanksgiving day isn't measured by the huge turkey dinner, the roast chicken in the family stove, or the table spread with warmed-over collards and black-eyed peas.

It is measured by the devotion in the hearts of people who stop in the whirl of daily activities to set aside a time to give thanks of God for the bountiful year which is passing, for the crops which have been harvested; and even for the hardships which have tested an individual's faith.

Try as they may, the people of America can not possibly count their blessings at this Thanksgiving season. Each individual, regardless of his degree of prosperity or the hardships he has faced during the past year, has a great deal for which to be thankful to God at this season.

was attributed to his country's desperate plight, and his inability to improve conditions. Coffee was selling then for a higher price than it is now, or will in the future under present prospects.

AMERICAN HOUSEWIFE'S PART—Every American housewife has a part in this diplomatic and economic drama. She reduced her purchases of high-priced coffee to such a degree that 1954 consumption fell off six per cent from the 1947-1952 volume. And, of course, she will benefit, if the 1955 futures level becomes effective at the retail level.

The difference between the New York futures and retail prices averages about 30 cents. When the New York figure was 95 cents last April, she was paying from $1.20 to $1.30 a pound. If the New York price falls to 55 cents, the retail charge should be about 85 cents.

OUR REACTION RESENTED—American reaction toward soaring prices has caused tremendous resentment, especially as official intervention helped to lower the price from seven to 15 cents a few months ago. By President Eisenhower's order, the Federal Trade Commission investigated the coffee problem, and reported in July that the high prices were not justified by the supply-and-demand equation. It predicted that there would be huge surpluses in 1957. Several weeks ago, it issued a restraint-of-trade complaint against the New York Coffee Exchange, and hearings are scheduled for December 14. FTC helped to break the price.

The Brazilians retort that the high prices result from natural and economic causes. Consumption increased tremendously during and after the war, dissipating surpluses. Frost and withdrawal of land from production because of previous low prices reduced output. A United Nations Commission reported that Brazil had lost 390,000,000 of the small coffee trees from 1940 to 1950.

Somebody Told Me

'Husbands Are A Sorry Lot'

Happy Thanksgiving! How do you feel about the event? Personally, I think I have as much to be thankful for as anybody I know. We should be especially thankful to God for our blessings tomorrow, but not only on Thanksgiving. We should thank Him daily.

Have you ever been selfish enough to want to be sick just a little bit? Yesterday I had a crink in my neck. It was painful and a little of the pain lingers on today. But did I have a good time last night? All I did was sit back in an easy chair and Wife Rachel couldn't seem to do enough for me. She brought me hot water bottles, served me my supper before the TV set and offered anything my heart might desire.

MOTOR INSPECTION LAW (Washington Daily News) Governor Luther Hodges has said that "we need some sort of motor inspection law in North Carolina."

Mr. Hodges pointed out that we need the law not only to protect the drivers of cars, but to protect others on the highways who might be endangered by the presence of unsafe cars.

In North Carolina today we are simply having too many accidents on our highways and too many fatalities. Every day we read in the newspapers about some wreck in which someone is killed or injured.

No one claims that passage of a motor inspection law will stop deaths and injuries entirely. But there is every practical indication that they will be reduced sharply.

The practical analysis tells us that there are many cars on our highways today which are mechanically faulty. Perhaps the tires are bad or the brakes won't work. There are dozens of mechanical features which might be in poor working condition.

Many people who drive cars feel that they can't afford to keep them in good condition mechanically. But is it not better to pass a law requiring compulsory inspections than it is to allow the death rate to climb so rapidly on our highways?

Sometimes a man was driving down one of our highways and a tire blew out. The driver lost control, and the car turned over. Fortunately in this one accident no one was hurt seriously. But several people could have been hurt or killed. The highway was crowded, and it was only a miracle that no one was killed.

The driver admitted to the patrolman investigating the accident that he knew his tires were bad and that he was going too fast for safety. A motor inspection law would have prevented this accident in all probability.

So many drivers and so many politicians point out that such a motor inspection law is a nuisance, that it does no good, and that the busy driver has no time to have his car inspected regularly.

That argument, it seems to us, is almost cruel. Is it not better to take time to get cars inspected than it is to take lives of innocent people on our highways? We can find no one who will give a straight-forward answer to that question who opposes the inspection law.

If we can save one life, and if we can save one injury, and if we can save one big property damage bill by an inspection law, the law is surely worthwhile to those who would be involved.

We hope Governor Hodges' urge the legislature to pass some type of law requiring mechanical inspections for motor vehicles operating on our highways.

AROUND CAPITOL SQUARE

By LYNN NISBET

COMMITTEES — With interest centered on the composition of the standing committees to be named in General Assembly, there is developing discussion of whether there should be more or fewer committees. The trend has been downward for several sessions. A great deal of publicity has been given to the streamlining of the 1953 Senate by Lieutenant Governor Luther Hodges bringing about reduction in number of committees. He reduced them from 36 to 28. Not so much was said then or since about the more drastic curtailment effected by Lieutenant Governor Pat Taylor in the 1951 session. He cut the number of committees from 50 to 36.

There are many students of legislative process who think there can be further reduction in committees. Others contend that fewer major committees require more sub-committees and that not much is gained. There is growing sentiment for less duplication in committee membership by limiting the number to which a legislator might be assigned. Long custom has been to assign every member to one of the big money committees, half on appropriations and half on finance. Custom also decrees that every lawyer be assigned to one of the judiciary committees. That practice eliminates duplication as to these committees, and perhaps as much as three fourths of all proposed legislation comes before one or the other of them reach the floor for final action.

Evaluate The Bias

By ELMER ROESSNER

From now on through the middle of January, the nation will be bombarded with forecasts, predictions, soothsaying, prognoses and prophecies. The bombardment will include government officials, economists, business executives and, perhaps, newspaper columnists.

To avoid being confused, the first thing a businessman must do is to evaluate the bias in any forecast. Several kinds of bias may be recognized. Among them are:

The deliberate bias. Here the "forecast" is only a cloak for a bit of selling pressure. A promoter trying to unload shares in a Canadian sassafras mine may be tempted to predict unbounded prosperity in 1955, largely because of the growth of sassafras refining. A manufacturer stuck with a warehouse full of polka-dotted shirts may be expected to predict a fresh boom in haberdashery because of the developing demand for more and thicker polka-dots.

The unconscious bias. Sometimes enthusiasm or wishful thinking can lead to cockeyed forecasts. For instance, the head of a bobbin company, fresh from a conference with a sales manager who is bucking for a raise may predict a 10 per cent rise in bobbin demand next year, even though the sales manager knows he'll be lucky to come close to this year's sales.

The headline bias. People who make predictions are under a strong temptation to make the kind that make headlines. The professor who says he doesn't know what business will be like next year, or the board chairman who says it will be about the same, perhaps a little better or a little worse, rarely break into print or television. But the fellow with the ringing prognostication of boom, especially if his forecast is carried out to two decimal places, is the editor's darling.

NOT WHAT THEY SAY — BUT HOW THEY SAY IT

The second step in evaluating forecasts is to notice exactly what is being predicted. Many forecasters go around hanging "Not responsible for hals and coats" signs on their predictions. This is a common line:

"If we can maintain business at present levels, 1955 will be a very good year." Of course, that merely says business is good now.

Another statement, as common as it is silly:

"Barring unforeseen developments, the gross national product in the first half of 1955 will be, etc." In short, if the prediction doesn't come out, it's not the forecaster's fault.

Government forecasts are especially slippery. Since Federal officials who err in forecasts might be accused of playing into the hands of the Reds if they are wrong, they have to be cautious. They pepper their statements of expectations with so many "ifs," "however," "on the other hands," and "assuming that's" that often the entire document adds up to zero.

On the other hand, if you don't see these hedges in a government forecast, then look out for political bias. The government official who unreservedly predicts something is probably trying to influence an election or an appropriations committee.

Brief Adventure In Ocean Flight

By HAL BOYLE

KEFLAVIK AIRPORT, Iceland (AP) — All that goes up has to come down.

But sometimes the international air tourist of today doesn't always come down where he planned to. The vagaries of wind and weather still influence the big, winged covered wagons he flies in, and on occasion they combine to land him for a free look at a country that wasn't part of the scheduled trip.

Your timetable tourists may get peeved at this and regard it as a conspiracy against his vacation program. Those who regard travel as a form of adventure in itself, however, will accept the situation as an unexpected bonus.

So I felt fortunate that strong headwinds—and a wheel broken in landing—gave a chance to land at this northern U.S. airbase and see my first sunrise on Iceland.

Our big Sabena DC 6 plane, after taking off from Brussels, was supposed to pause at Shannon in Ireland before proceeding to New York. But to avoid powerful Atlantic headwinds it curved northward to refuel here. We skimmed to a perfect landing, but as we rolled across the frigid field there was a sudden loud crack. It sounded as if we had merely crumbled a patch of ice.

But when we alighted the captain immediately went to one of the wheels and discovered it had snapped. As two big wheels are paired on each side against such an emergency, the danger, if any, had been slight.

A broken wheel on a covered wagon in the days when the West was being settled was often a real calamity. But this mishap to our plane was only a mild vexation — another chore in the day's work — to our captain.

"We will have to locate another wheel and put it on before we can take off," he said matter-of-factly.

"It will take a few hours." It always amazes me how modern people, born in the days of horse-and-buggy travel, now take the miracle of air passage for granted.

Two businessmen were still grumbling a bit about the delay, even after breakfasting well in the terminal on bacon, eggs and steaming coffee. It was no consolation to them that Christopher Columbus had had a considerably rougher time on his voyages.

On the other hand, a group of elderly tourists, returning from a three-month tour of Africa, were quite gay and cheerful. An 87-year-old retired California banker, George L. Meissner of South Laguna, Calif., wanted to organize a quick tour to see the sights of Reykjavik, Iceland's capital.

An American Air Force corporal, stationed at the base here, waved his hand at the polar darkness outside, and advised: "Don't bother. There's nothing to see."

The octogenarian banker promptly sat down by a young mother nursing her infant and fell sound asleep.

Because of the monotony of the post, American Air Force men are stationed here only a year, usually spend a month of leave during that period touring England or the continent.

"We stick pretty much to ourselves," a sergeant said. "We have to wear uniforms if we go into town, and the uniform kinda cramps a man's style here—at least in peacetime."

Civilian sentiment is divided about having a U.S. airbase here. The country maintains no army, navy or forts of its own. Soon the Arctic sun—there are only 6 to 8 hours of daylight this time of year—poked wanly above the horizon, then gleamed like a white bonfire across the fields of snow.

"It doesn't stay up long—look quick or you'll miss it," laughed the corporal.

"The plane is ready," announced a steward.

As we climbed aboard, the aged banker yawned, then peered interestedly around at Iceland, a country he has never seen in his 87 years, and probably would never see again. But in his pockets were some postcards to prove he'd been there.

Adventure over. Next stop Idliwell, New York City.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

MOTOR INSPECTION LAW (Washington Daily News) Governor Luther Hodges has said that "we need some sort of motor inspection law in North Carolina."

Mr. Hodges pointed out that we need the law not only to protect the drivers of cars, but to protect others on the highways who might be endangered by the presence of unsafe cars.

In North Carolina today we are simply having too many accidents on our highways and too many fatalities. Every day we read in the newspapers about some wreck in which someone is killed or injured.

No one claims that passage of a motor inspection law will stop deaths and injuries entirely. But there is every practical indication that they will be reduced sharply.

The practical analysis tells us that there are many cars on our highways today which are mechanically faulty. Perhaps the tires are bad or the brakes won't work. There are dozens of mechanical features which might be in poor working condition.

Many people who drive cars feel that they can't afford to keep them in good condition mechanically. But is it not better to pass a law requiring compulsory inspections than it is to allow the death rate to climb so rapidly on our highways?

Sometimes a man was driving down one of our highways and a tire blew out. The driver lost control, and the car turned over. Fortunately in this one accident no one was hurt seriously. But several people could have been hurt or killed. The highway was crowded, and it was only a miracle that no one was killed.

The driver admitted to the patrolman investigating the accident that he knew his tires were bad and that he was going too fast for safety. A motor inspection law would have prevented this accident in all probability.

So many drivers and so many politicians point out that such a motor inspection law is a nuisance, that it does no good, and that the busy driver has no time to have his car inspected regularly.

That argument, it seems to us, is almost cruel. Is it not better to take time to get cars inspected than it is to take lives of innocent people on our highways? We can find no one who will give a straight-forward answer to that question who opposes the inspection law.

If we can save one life, and if we can save one injury, and if we can save one big property damage bill by an inspection law, the law is surely worthwhile to those who would be involved.

We hope Governor Hodges' urge the legislature to pass some type of law requiring mechanical inspections for motor vehicles operating on our highways.

COMMITTEES — With interest centered on the composition of the standing committees to be named in General Assembly, there is developing discussion of whether there should be more or fewer committees. The trend has been downward for several sessions. A great deal of publicity has been given to the streamlining of the 1953 Senate by Lieutenant Governor Luther Hodges bringing about reduction in number of committees. He reduced them from 36 to 28. Not so much was said then or since about the more drastic curtailment effected by Lieutenant Governor Pat Taylor in the 1951 session. He cut the number of committees from 50 to 36.

There are many students of legislative process who think there can be further reduction in committees. Others contend that fewer major committees require more sub-committees and that not much is gained. There is growing sentiment for less duplication in committee membership by limiting the number to which a legislator might be assigned. Long custom has been to assign every member to one of the big money committees, half on appropriations and half on finance. Custom also decrees that every lawyer be assigned to one of the judiciary committees. That practice eliminates duplication as to these committees, and perhaps as much as three fourths of all proposed legislation comes before one or the other of them reach the floor for final action.

Glory And Death Mark End Of Pan-Am Race

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP)—Quiet has replaced roaring motors, glory and death on the 1,908-mile Pan-American highway.
The fifth annual Pan-American road race ended here yesterday with the precise drivers of Lincolns, Ferraris, Dodges, Porsches and Alfa-Romeos taking the major share of the $117,200 prizes.
Records were broken in the large sports, small sports and small U.S. stock car divisions.
Death struck seven during the world's longest and most dangerous road race which began last Friday on the Guatemalan border. During the five years of the event, 18 have died as cars rocketed northward along treacherous mountain roads and long straightaways which ranged from sea level to more than 10,000 feet on the famed highway.
Umberto Maglioli, speed-crazy Italian often called "The Madman," led four Ferraris to the finish line.
In the American stock car divisions, Ray Crawford of Pasadena, Calif., led a team of Lincolns for the Ford product's third straight victory in the big stock division. And Tommy Drisdale of El Paso, Tex., spearheaded a Dodge sweep of the small stocks.
Hans Hermann of Germany, in a dramatic display of small car speed, won the small European sports division by 24 seconds. He had started the last 222.5 mile lap from Chihuahua 13 seconds behind Jaroslav Juhon of Guatemala, who placed second. Both drove Porsches.
Alfa Romeos took the first five places in the European stock division. The victory went to C. Sanesi of Italy.

Midget Grid Championship At Stake In Thanksgiving Day Playoff Here

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer
Greenville's Midget Championship will be at stake tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 when the Red Raiders meet the White Phantoms in the annual Thanksgiving game at East Carolina College Stadium.

The Reds and the Whites were the top two teams during the regular season play, percentage-wise. The Whites won the regular season play with the Reds right behind.
The game should prove to be a highly interesting offensive battle. Both teams have several outstanding players. The Whites have been led all year by the passing, running, and kicking of quarterback Howard Garner. In a few games of late, however, Bill Clapp has moved from fullback to play most of the quarterback position. Clapp tossed the touchdown pass that earned the Whites the right to play in the Thanksgiving game. He has been a dependable runner and sharp passer all year long, though taking a back seat to Garner's spectacular play.

The Reds have Charles Roberts quarterbacking their offense. Roberts is a deadly passer and a speedy and strong runner. Roberts' chief aid is big fullback Joe Moye, who is the line-plunger on the team.

In years past the Thanksgiving game has provided thrills galore, like the time John Ed Arnold intercepted a pass and ran 100 yards for a touchdown. Many more thrills are in store tomorrow afternoon.
Game time for the affair is 2:30 at College Stadium. No admission will be charged for the contest. The game is co-sponsored by the Greenville Exchange Club and the Greenville Recreation Department. Contributions will be accepted at the game since that is the only way that the expense of Midget football can be paid.

High Point Five Wins In Opener

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP)—High Point College defeated the High Point YMCA 95-79 in the opening basketball game of the season for both here last night.
J. C. Bledsoe led the collegians with 16 and Jack Hanks was the Y's leader with 20.

Grifton Girls Wins 76-39 Game; Boys Lose, 78-57

GRIFTON—The Grifton girls got sweet revenge for an early loss to Dover by winning an easy 76-39 game here last night in the first half of a basketball doubleheader. Dover won the boys game 78-57.
Biggest factor in the Grifton cause was the 45 points canned by Dawn Smith. She led the scoring for both teams. Her teammate, Peggy Buck, contributed 27 points. High scorer for the visitors was Emily Armin with 11 points. She was aided by Perry with nine and Phillips with seven.
Outstanding guards for Grifton were Joyce Coon, Carolyn Davis and Patsy Burney. Annette White and Shirley Waters played best for Dover on defense.

A.M.E. Zion Church Opens Session Here

The 30th annual session of the Old North Carolina Conference of the A. M. E. Zion Church, the mother conference of the southern work of the church, opened here today at York Memorial A. M. E. Zion Church, Rev. P. H. Munford, host pastor, Rt. Rev. H. T. Medford, Presiding Bishop.

The opening session including a sermon by the Rev. A. C. Anorge, and communion was received by more than 300 ministers and delegates in attendance. Conference organization followed.

In orientating remarks, Bishop H. T. Medford urged the growing impact and necessity of spiritual forces to effect a permanent solution to the problems of the day and said: "Materialism has spent itself as a source of power and influence in human behavior; humanism has shown its emptiness and communism is fast becoming a farce. The world awaits the advent of a workable Christian democracy."

The annual sermon is to be brought by Rev. G. J. Hill and the Welcome Hour, tonight, is chairmaned by the host pastor in which civic religions and educational leaders of the community will participate.

Local Pepsi-Cola Plant Marks 31st Anniversary

This week the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company of Greenville is observing its 31st anniversary of operation.

M. O. Minges, president of the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company of Greenville, moved to Greenville in 1923 from Catawba County near Newton and started the Orange Crush Bottling Company on East 8th Street. At that time six counties were being served with two trucks. Thirteen counties are now being served with 50 trucks from Minges-owned plants in Greenville, New Bern, and Kinston. Two distributors, L. C. Perry and John Swain, serve Washington and the four adjacent counties from the Greenville plant.

Serving with Mr. Minges in the Greenville plant are Max E. Minges, vice-president and John F. Minges, secretary-treasurer. President of the Kinston plant is Hoyt Minges, and of the New Bern plant is Forrest Minges. Inactive partners in the firm are Mrs. M. O. Minges, Mrs. Lyman Bass of Farmville and Dr. Ray D. Minges of Greenville.

The three plants employ over 100 persons and have a bottling capacity of 375,000 a day. Ten employees of the Greenville plant have been with the firm 15 or more years: Lynwood Brewer, Raymond Nichols, Henry Barrow, Raymond Moore, Jack Oakley, Herman Nobles, J. K. Spivey, Herbert Moxingo, Jolly Atkinson and Luther Washington.

Since 1950 the Greenville plant has led the nation in bottles per capita sales of Pepsi-Cola. Last year the New Bern plant was in second place. Figures have not yet been released on the Kinston plant.

Farmville Parade Set For Dec. 4

FARMVILLE—Farmville will hold its annual Christmas parade this year on December 4, with bands, floats, decorated bikes, Santa Claus, Cactus Jim (the television cowboy), and clowns among the many attractions.

"We are not going to have a lot of floats and bands this year, just a few floats and or 6 bands," announced Charles S. Edwards, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. Edwards said that children with the best decorated bikes would receive prizes, and children and ponies also. And Santa Claus will be on hand to talk to every child who comes to see the parade that day. The parade will begin at 10:30 in the morning.

Will Serve Milk To U.S. Soldiers

SEOUL (AP) — American soldiers in Korea will get milk on the menu next week for the first time since the 8th Army's arrival in Korea. Five hundred thousand cans of recombined whole milk were unloaded in Pusan Tuesday. The Army plans to provide each soldier by early next year with half a pint of milk a day, four to seven days a week. Recombined milk is made of frozen cream and dried skim milk.

because it has been in operation only 18 months.

Vice-President Max Minges issued this statement today: "In celebrating our anniversary the entire personnel of Pepsi-Cola wish to express our appreciation for the public acceptance of our product which has made us successful. We realize that without your patronage and acceptance we could not have grown as we have. We are proud to be in Greenville and Eastern Carolina. Our plants are open for public inspection at any time during our operation."

Agrees Nation Will Not Let Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George (D-Ga.) today gave key Democratic support to President Eisenhower's assertion that the United States will not let Russian talk slacken this nation's defense buildup.

George said in an interview he believes the President charted "the right course" in telling his news conference yesterday America intends to keep its guard up and will talk peace only after the Communists have shown some evidence of real sincerity.

As the prospective chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in the new Congress, George is the recognized spokesman for Senate Democrats on international issues.

"The President has correctly stated what I also believe our relationships with Russia and the Communist world should be," he said. "I agree with him that we must examine every faint ray of hope for peace."

"But there is no doubt in my mind that the Communist movement contemplates the domination of the world. Until Communist actions begin to square with their more peaceful words, we must follow the course laid out by the President."

Korea Students In Demonstration

SEOUL (AP) — More than 10,000 high school students today demonstrated against all-Korean elections to unify the peninsula.

Led by school bands, they blocked busy downtown traffic. Similar demonstrations have been staged in major South Korean cities since government leaders last week criticized a formula for all-Korea elections advanced by Britain and Canada.

BOHLEN RETURNS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen arrived here late yesterday from his post at Moscow and said talks he will hold with State Department officials are "regular routine — very normal procedure."

In 1900 nearly two-thirds of U.S. men over 65 were working or hunting jobs, but in 1950 less than half were doing so, says the Twentieth Century Fund.

Churchill Notes His Distrust Of Kremlin

WOODFORD, England (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill says that even as the Germans were surrendering in World War II, he made plans to rearm them if the Russians advanced further into Western Europe.

The veteran Prime Minister, 80 on Nov. 30, spoke anew of his long-time distrust of the Soviets at a birthday rally last night. He told the crowd:

"Even before the war ended, and while Germans were surrendering by hundreds of thousands, I telegraphed Lord Montgomery directing him to be careful in collecting German arms and to stack them so that they could easily be issued again to the German soldiers with whom we should have to work if the Soviet advance into Western Europe continued."

Stalin, he declared, was "carried away by the triumphs of victory and acting as if he thought he could secure for Russia and communism the domination of the world."

Churchill said he believes he was "the first well-known person publicly to state the fact that we have to have Germany on our side against Russian Communist aggression."

The London-Paris agreements to rearm West Germany, he continued, resulted from a "vast reversal of British, American and of European opinion... brought about only by the policy of Soviet Russia itself and above all by Stalin, the dictator."

CHAPTER FIFTEEN
Early the next morning Hester knocked on Jennie's door. She was wearing a black suit, even gloves. "I'm driving down to Saranac, Jenn. I had a letter yesterday from Anne Babbitt, one of my friends, saying she was stopping there and suggesting that I join her. Is there anything I can pick up for you on the way back? Mail or anything?" "No, thanks. Your headache has gone?" "Oh, yes—it was just needed." Then Hester said: "Jenn, about your doors. You don't know how glad I am that I've persuaded you not to bolt them to dismiss your silly fears!" Jennie could have told her sister that she had nothing to do with it but she kept silent and Hester went on in a tone of giving a reward: "Some day you and I'll drive down to the mountains!" "That will be nice," said Jennie. She heard Hester drive out of the yard. Almost at once Cindy tapped on her door. "Do you think I could let Nip and Tuck out now?"

"Enid's told her of her mother's aversion to cats," thought Jennie. "Yes, but I'd watch them." Enid joined Cindy in the watching. From her kitchen Jennie saw the two girls sitting in the barn doorway. Enid appeared to be doing the talking; Enid sat hugging her knees her chin propped against them. Jennie was struck with the contrast between the two girls—a reserve in Enid that made her seem much older than Cindy, a vividness in Cindy's face that made Enid's plain. Yet in one thing they were alike—they both had life ahead of them, to make of it what they wished!

Cindy was doing most of the talking, as she and Enid sat in the barn doorway, partly because Enid did not appear inclined to say anything and partly because it was good to go on and on after these days when she had had no one but herself to talk to. Except Gary Norbeck, that little while at the pool.

She did not think of Enid as a cousin but rather as another girl, only a little older than herself. Different—she recognized Enid's clothes, even the slacks and loose blouse she was wearing now, as far more expensive than her own, yet she did not think Enid was snooty or even standoffish, just uncommunicative.

"I've met this man who lives over in the woods. I met him at the creek..." With a little giggle, Cindy told of the circumstances of that meeting. "First I thought he was an awful scoundrel—but he isn't—he's really nice—he came up and dug my garden for me that afternoon you came—he brought me some seeds. And he wants to paint my portrait!"

"He was painting it..." Then Enid stopped, abruptly. Cindy stared at her, incredulously, her eyes accusing. "How do you know?"

"I stopped at his cabin to ask my way across the creek. I saw the canvas in the easel." "But I haven't posed yet for him!" There was a wall of disappointment in Cindy's voice. She asked: "Did you like him?"

"I don't know—I haven't thought whether I did or not." At that Cindy's face brightened. Enid couldn't have spoken more than a word or two with Gary Norbeck or she'd be thinking something about him! "And I'll bet he didn't ask her if he could paint her picture!"

Early that evening Jennie saw Ed Pauly drive into the yard get out of his car, holding a yellow envelope in his hand, stand a moment looking over the house, then approach her door.

She opened it. "Evening, Miss Todd. Nice evening. Telegram for Miss Enid Wilmer."

"I'll see if she is in her wing." No one answered her knock or her call. She said: "She may be outside. I'll take you to her!" She went past him, out of the door, alarm in the hurry of her step. In her experience a telegram always contained bad news—this in light concerned Enid's father. In the few seconds it took to lead Ed Pauly around the house she was remembering that on those rare and brief visits at Hester's, she had liked Hubert Wilmer.

Enid was with Cindy. They were struggling to chop some kindling. "Enid! Mr. Pauly—he brought a telegram for you!" Enid put down the hatchet. "For me?"

"Yes, miss. It came more'n an hour back. Says in it to deliver by taxi and that's me." He put the envelope into Enid's face as she opened it. But she saw no shock come to it. Enid read it through twice, then she folded it and put it back in the pocket of her slacks.

"What do I owe you, Mr. Pauly?" He told her, and she went to the house and got the money. When Pauly left Jennie said to Enid, something of her sudden nervousness in her voice: "Your mother—shouldn't she be back before dark?" Enid patted the pocket in which she had put the telegram. "She isn't coming back tonight. She is staying a few days with these friends in Saranac."

Jennie made no comment. Enid asked: "Aunt Jennie, when you were girls, did my mother always tell you just what you should do?"

"Why—yes! She was older than I—she knew more."

"She makes me think she does," amended Enid. "That's why it isn't easy to oppose her. You're never sure of yourself. And you don't get anywhere—if you speak up with any idea of your own, she laughs at you, makes you feel like a fool and dumb, and you just shut up."

"Enid!" protested Jennie, out of some shock at hearing Enid speak in this way of her mother. Then she fell silent for wasn't Enid's experience her own?

The next day, after an early lunch, Jennie Todd put on her blue suit and her hat to walk down to the village. To buy food, she told herself, when the impulse seized her. What she had brought with her was almost gone.

She knocked at Cindy's door. "I'm going to the town, shopping. Is there anything I can get for you?" Enid was with Cindy. Both girls looked at her incredulously. Both said: "You're walking? All that way?"

Jennie smiled. "I like to walk, and it isn't too far. I'll come back with my things in that taxi." Enid said: "Would you mind stopping at the post-office and asking if there's any mail for me? But leave mother's there. She likes to get her mail herself."

"Onion sets—" said Cindy. "I need onion sets—though they'd be a lot to carry, wouldn't they?" "I'll bring some if I can find them anywhere," said Jennie.

Nearing the village, she studied the houses on each side of the road. This was Killbuck and she must know it, if she were going to spend her summers from now on at the farm.

A little ahead where the road widened, she could see the brick and wooden fronts, signs, parked cars of the business section. Evidently it was a one-street village—she would have no trouble locating shops. She thought of the list in her purse—the bank, first, for it must be near closing time.

She had slowed her step to scan the signs and windows on each side of the street when she heard her name called. "Miss Todd!" Wick Middleton was coming up behind her.

He held out his hand. "You walked down!" But he did not say it with the amazement the girls had shown. He added: "And you look as fresh as a daisy! Let's go into Mrs. Plebby's here and have some ice cream."

VA Announces $226 Millions In Dividends Ready

WASHINGTON (AP) — World War I and II veterans next year will collect 226 million dollars in dividends on their government life insurance.

The Veterans Administration announced yesterday that it will start in January to pay 200 million dollars to holders of about five million World War II national service life insurance policies.

The VA said another 26 million dollars would be distributed among holders of some 380,000 World War I U.S. government life insurance policies. The agency said there will be adjustments in various individual dividend rates because of recent changes in mortality and disability experience. Under both programs, the size of the dividends depends on the type of plan, age, year of issue and the amount of insurance carried.

Lions Installing Own Gum Machines

Dick Worsley, chairman of Lions' Club gum ball machine committee and Bill Speight, Lions' Club president, stand beside one of the gum ball dispensers which the club is placing in various locations in Greenville. Previously the machines have been owned by a private concern with the club receiving a small share of the proceeds. Now the Lions' Club will own and operate the machines bearing their name. (Reflector Photo by Jack Whichard).

The Lions' Club is going to place gum ball machines in strategic locations locally.

The new machines will replace the old gum machines which are now owned by an outside company. Under the old plan the company operated the machines with Lions' Club backing and the Lions received a percentage of the proceeds.

Now the club will own the machines and will service and maintain them in order to receive full benefits.

Lions Frank Brown and Frank Brown, Jr. have agreed to maintain the machines for the club.

The gum machines were ordered from Lions' International and 12 have already been placed in various locations. Eventually 100 additional machines are to be placed in locations in business, professional and public offices.

The locations were secured after a canvass of the entire community which was made in conjunction with the membership drive for the Pitt County Association for the Blind.

Three types of machines are being installed by the Lions Club — floor, wall, and table models. Proceeds from the gum ball machines are to be used for Lions Club public service projects and blind work.

Tyson Bilbro, local wholesaler, offered storage space for the supplies of gum and extra machines.

The steering committee for the project includes: Dick Worsley, chairman; Bob Starling, Harry Allen, J. D. Higgins, Ed Harris, Carl Whitfield, Malcolm Williams, L. E. Ward, John S. King, Charlie Marston, Graham Jefferson.

Appointed to the operating committee were: Dick Worsley, chairman; Bob Starling, Harry Allen, J. D. Higgins, Ed Harris, Carl Whitfield, Malcolm Williams, L. E. Ward, John S. King, Charlie Marston, Graham Jefferson.

All decorations are slated to be completed by December 3, according to White, with the Christmas lights to be turned on late that afternoon.

Mr. Oscar Mills, 41, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville Tuesday morning at 10:25 o'clock after several months of illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery. The Rev. Floyd Cherry, Free Will Baptist minister of Black Jack, assisted by the Rev. Sam Worthington, Free Will Holiness minister of near Vanceboro, will conduct the services.

Formally Open Big New Office Building Here

Carolina Sales Corp. culminated its 25th anniversary celebration Monday and yesterday with the formal opening of its new $200,000 general office building here.

Some 300 of the company's dealers from North and South Carolina and Virginia were here yesterday to visit the new general offices, and another 500 residents of Greenville and surrounding area attended the open house at the new office building last night.

At an anniversary dinner Monday night at the Greenville Golf and Country Club, James T. Little, president of Carolina Sales, was presented a plaque commemorating the 25th anniversary of the company and was also presented a watch. Employees of the company and representatives from a number of concerns which supply Carolina Sales Corp. were present at the dinner.

The new home of Carolina Sales Corp. is considered probably the most modern office building of its kind in North Carolina. There are more than 14,000 square feet of floor space in the handsomely finished office building, and another 10,000 square feet of floor space in the adjoining parts department and storage building which was completed last year.

Future plans of the company call for the construction of a third building on the present site which will be a storage warehouse with railroad sidings.

In addition to the formal opening of its new office building, yesterday marked the largest single day's sales in the 25-year history of Carolina Sales, as visiting dealers placed new orders with the company.

In addition to the general offices of Carolina Sales Corp., the new office building houses the Greenville branch of Refrigeration Discount Corporation. There are approximately 110 employees of the two firms here.

From the home office in Greenville, Carolina Sales supervises the operations of its branch office in Columbia, S. C., and its wholly owned subsidiary Commonwealth Sales Corp. with general offices and parts department in Norfolk and Roanoke. The company is the largest single distributor of Kelvinator products in the nation; and in addition to Kelvinator products, handles several other lines of appliances and electronic equipment. The company is represented by more than 700 retail dealers from Virginia to Augusta, Ga.
