

Steady Pressure For Free World Protest Shapes Up As U.S. Plan

Tougher Approach To Winning Release Of Red China's Prisoners Is Still Urged

WASHINGTON (AP)—Steady pressure aimed at arousing world feelings shaped up today as the main U. S. plan for winning release of 13 Americans jailed by Red China, despite new urging for more direct action.

Support for a tougher approach came from Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.). He declared he is "in complete sympathy" with the proposal of Senate Majority Leader Knowland of California to blockade the China coast.

He said in an interview he doubted a single American warship would be needed to create a blockade. He suggested the United States could impose one by telling its allies they would get no more aid as long as they kept shipping goods to Communist China.

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) said he is opposed to any blockade but the United States should "pursue Russia as much as we can to use her influence with the puppet Peiping government" to halt aggressive acts.

Secretary of State Dulles' short-of-war strategy for liberating the 11 U. S. airmen and two Army-employed civilians appeared to center on the marshaling of world opinion.

Dulles said during his Chicago speech Monday night that the United States would "exhaust peaceful means of sustaining our international rights and those of our citizens."

He ruled out, with backing from the White House made public yesterday, any "war action such as a naval and air blockade of Red China."

Knowland told newsmen he saw no great break between him and the administration on that score, but only a difference of opinion.

McCarthy said that if Allied nations were told they must halt all shipments to Red China or lose U. S. aid, he believed it would bring about the release of not only the 13 imprisoned airmen but also other Americans held by the Chinese.

"According to the military," he said, "they hold over 500 of our uniformed men." (The U. S. government has demanded an accounting of Peiping for 526 missing American servicemen, dead or alive.)

He said if such a measure didn't work, he would favor the blockade advocated by Knowland.

Other possible avenues for the U. S. short-of-war effort included further use of the British contact with Red China, whom Washington does not recognize diplomatically, or even a request that the Russians use their good offices.

The matter could also be taken up in the U. N.

In any event, one problem facing U. S. officials was this: Should their actions be directed at seeking freedom for the 13 recently imprisoned or should they go whole hog and demand the release of all 69 American citizens believed to be held inside China against their will.

Extended Draft Act Anticipated

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON
WASHINGTON (AP)—Four senators agreed today that the next Congress will extend the draft act but differed over other parts of the Pentagon's new military manpower plans.

Secretary of Defense Wilson outlined the program yesterday. It will call for a four-year extension of the draft law, a modified form of universal military service that will provide for long and short term draftees, more pay for long-service men and little change in the historic reserve and National Guard setup.

Wilson told a news conference that, while some details remain to be settled, President Eisenhower will present the plan in his State of the Union message to the new Congress in January.

Chairman Saltonstall (R-Mass.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee and two committee members, Senators Stennis (D-Miss.) and Case (R-SD), agreed in separate interviews that Wilson would get a sympathetic hearing when he takes his case before the group.

"I heartily believe that an improved reserve program is necessary," Saltonstall added, saying he had "tried five times" to get the Pentagon to submit details on it during the current session of Congress. The current Draft Act, passed in 1951, is due to expire April 30.

While concurring with the other three senators that the selective service law should be extended, Sen. Long (D-La.) said he doubts Congress would okay what he described as a new version of the universal military training program Congress has turned down several times in recent years.

"As one who previously supported UMT," he said, "I think it can't be done."

Wilson said the manpower program as now planned calls for a double system of induction through the selective service. Most young men — nearly 300,000 a year at the current rate — would be drafted for two years of active duty, then go into the organized reserve.

Then, to build up the reserve, another 50,000 to 100,000 would be inducted for a four to six-month basic training period and then automatically become members of the ready reserve.

There would be two major distinctions between the short and longer term draftees:

1. The short-termers would not classify as "veterans," according to the latest Pentagon thinking, and thus would not qualify for most veterans benefits.

2. The 24-month selectees would spend less time in the organized reserves while the short-termers would be on call for emergency active duty for a year or two longer.

Wilson said the new program was intended to induce men to stay in uniform longer. He spoke in terms of a pay increase amounting to from 3 to 5 per cent, costing up to 600 million dollars a year.

Pentagon aides said the raise might exclude men who serve only the minimum two years, leaving more money to be given longer term and career military specialists.

Locate Possible Plane Crash Site

NORTH CONWAY, N.H. (AP)—Wreckage was sighted early today and a radio message was picked up from a plane missing since yesterday. It placed the plane in wilderness about five miles north of the Berlin airport, its destination.

The radio message would indicate that there was at least one survivor of the seven persons aboard the plane.

Robert L. Turner, airline vice president, said the fragmentary message read:

"Emergency — down five miles Northeast of Field Hill but — Here the message faded out."

Turner said the voice message was transmitted "blind," meaning it was intended for anyone who could pick it up. It was transmitted on an emergency frequency.

Rescue forces immediately rushed to the indicated locality. Turner said the message was identified as from "792," the flight designation of the missing plane.

More than 20 search planes immediately converged on the area, which includes Bald and Black mountains, both more than 2,000 feet high.

Said Mt., 2,370 feet high one of the lesser mountains of the White Mountains range, is between Berlin and the Berlin airport, eight miles outside Berlin to which the DC3 was flying when it vanished yesterday noon.

Report of the wreckage sighting came almost simultaneously with reports from Northeast's Berlin office that faint radio signals had been picked up there.

The radio signal came about 8 a.m. from within a five mile radius of Berlin to which the plane had been flying from Lacombe, 68 miles away yesterday in a Boston-Berlin flight with seven persons aboard.

A broad air search directed by Air Force officers which had been working out of the North Conway area immediately shifted into the Berlin region.

The plane acknowledged at 11:15 a.m., a report on weather conditions at its destination, the Berlin Airport at Milan, about 10 miles north of Berlin.

Northeast Airlines in Boston said it "suggested" at 11:30 a.m. that the plane return to Lacombe because of "deteriorating" weather conditions at Milan. That message never was acknowledged, the airline said.

The plane's crew were Capt. W. Peter Carey, 37, Swampscott, Mass.; Copilot George McCormick, 37, Boston; Stewardess Mary McCormick, 23, Dorchester, Mass.; and Flight Supt. John McNulty, 39, Boston.

Sergeant Flown Home To Be By His Dying Son

FORT THOMAS, Ky. (AP)—Sgt. Eugene P. Keenan red-eyed and tired, has been reunited with his 22-month-old son who is dying from leukemia.

The 22-year-old airman flew in from Germany yesterday to be by his son's bedside before Genie's expected death.

The sergeant's mother, Mrs. Wylie Keenan said at her home in Fort Thomas that the baby is "responding to treatment but the doctors give us no hope at all."

Keenan, stationed at the Hahn Air Force Base in Germany, was granted a 30-day leave after the Red Cross, Rep. Spence (D-Ky.) and Sen. Clements (D-Ky.) asked the Air Force for emergency leave.

"We really wanted it out until the sergeant arrived home," Mrs. Keenan said. "We were afraid the baby would die before he came."

SEARCH ORDERED
TOKYO (AP)—The Japan coast guard today ordered a search for a small sailboat carrying an American doctor, his wife and two young children, which left Oct. 28 on a world cruise and had not been heard from since.

Cash Prizes
Cash prizes totaling $128 will be offered for the marching bands, costumes, decorated bicycles, ponies, dogs and other pets.

Judges are Mayor W. L. Whedbee, Utilities Superintendent Leonard P. Bloxam, Register of Deeds Mrs. Blair Cox Wheelless, and City Councilman C. W. Harvey Jr.

Included in the procession will be 20 non-commercial floats, for which no prizes will be given, as the scenes will pertain to a religious or Christmas theme, the parade committee has announced.

The procession will organize at Ninth Street and Dickinson Avenue at 4 p.m., with the children forming their groups in the Dixie and McGowan's warehouses. The parade will proceed down Dickinson Avenue

Heated Senate Debate As Vote Appears Likely Tomorrow

McCarthy Issue Nears Showdown

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Bush (R-Conn.) told his colleagues today that if every senator conducted himself as does Sen. McCarthy it would mean "every man a dictator" in the Senate.

Contending that McCarthy has "caused dangerous divisions among the American people," Bush said he will vote to censure the Wisconsin Republican.

On the other side, Sen. Young (R-ND) said he believes the basic issue is freedom and that he will vote against censure.

The United States, Young said, has "attained the highest degree of freedom" of any nation in history. A vote of censure, he continued, would tend to destroy it.

Young said he did not "approve" of McCarthy's past actions in all respects, but that McCarthy "has not been the only one" to use "intemperate" language.

Under an agreement to limit debate, the hour of decision on the bitterly fought issue was fast closing in on the Senate.

Censure seemed plainly in the cards, McCarthy himself predicted to reporters that there will be a "completely one-sided" verdict against him. Democrats were reported to be virtually solid for censure and Republicans to be split about half and half.

A final verdict was a bare possibility by tonight, but it appeared more likely it would come sometime tomorrow.

An agreement limiting debate effective at 3 p.m. allowed one hour of argument on each proposed amendment to the resolution of censure and four hours on any proposed substitute.

As today's session began, Republican Leader Knowland (Calif.) told newsmen he expected the session would continue until about 8 p.m. and that some voting would be done but that he did not look for a final vote before tomorrow.

Bush, first of today's speakers, said he had had an "open mind" on the question of censure when the Senate reconvened to take it up Nov. 8. But after listening to the debate, he said, he had reached the firm conclusion that he "must support" recommendations of the censure committee, headed by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah).

His voice shaking with emotion, Bush declared:

"If I ever saw a brave and noble senator, Arthur Watkins is that man."

He said: "I will not walk away from this floor and leave him standing with a tag of coward."

McCarthy has called Watkins "cowardly" and the censure committee the "unwitting handmaiden" of the communist party.

Sen. Bennett (R-Utah) has asked censure of McCarthy for these remarks, proposing it as an amendment to the censure resolution reported by the Watkins Committee.

The committee recommended censure on two grounds—holding McCarthy was contemptuous of a Senate Elections subcommittee of 1951-52 and was reprehensibly abusive to an Army officer-witness before him last February.

Bush referred to the drive by McCarthy's admirers to obtain 10 million signatures to protest censure.

He said those sponsoring it had every right to petition the Senate but that he wanted to "suggest respectfully" they also petition McCarthy "not to accuse other senators of aiding the Communist conspiracy," senators who have shown their willingness to die for their country.

All those who have opposed the methods of McCarthy, Bush said, are styled by McCarthy as "Communist-sympathizers or a fool."

He said he felt that McCarthy did alert the nation to the dangers of internal subversion but that McCarthy "did harm as well as good" in that warning.

Bush noted the argument had been advanced that censure would give comfort to the Communists. He said he felt that defeat of censure would help "the Communist conspiracy" by shocking this nation's allies into believing "we have abandoned our constitutional processes and our faith in equality and justice for all."

Sen. Welker (R-Idaho), who has acted as a sort of unofficial floor manager for the McCarthy side, asked Bush if he hadn't made up his mind before "the case finally goes to the jury."

Bush told him he had studied the case closely and had come to the conclusions he had expressed.

"Then you've made up your mind regardless of what the defense might show?" asked Welker.

"I'm not going to answer questions like that," Bush said. He added that "the senator from Idaho appears to have made up his mind very quickly."

Welker retorted that his mind was just as open as Bush's.

Welker, referring to McCarthy's description of the Watkins Committee as the "unwitting handmaiden" of the Communist party, asked Bush if he knew the definition of unwitting. Bush replied he thought the meaning was obvious.

Welker asked then if Bush recalled the word handmaiden came from a "profound verse" in the Bible.

Bush said he recalled seeing the word in "The Good Book" but remarked he didn't think this was significant to the censure issue.

In effect, Bush said, McCarthy had called the Watkins Committee members "tools of the Communist party."

And, he told Welker, this remark "offended me very much."

McCarthy, who was absent from the Senate floor during most of yesterday's debate, was not on hand today as the session got underway.

Strive To Increase U.S. Investments

QUITANDINHA, Brazil (AP)—Heading into its last 24 hours, the Inter-American Economic Conference gave preliminary approval today to a plan designed to swell U.S. investments in Latin America and at the same time save the U.S. investors millions in taxes at home and abroad.

The program, originally suggested by U. S. Treasury Secretary George Humphrey, calls for Latin American taxes would require a different arrangement for investors in each country. Instead the treaties with the various countries would be submitted to the U.S. Senate for approval and be incorporated into law on ratification.

The resolution was approved at a subcommittee session lasting until after midnight. The committee action amounted to approval by the conference since all 21 American republics were represented.

The plan was drafted by a working group composed of Brazil, the United States, Colombia, Mexico and Cuba. It consolidated proposals offered by Salvador, Peru, Brazil, Colombia, Chile and Ecuador.

Members of the U.S. delegation said no new U.S. tax legislation was contemplated because the complexity and variety of Latin American taxes would require a different arrangement for investors in each country. Instead the treaties with the various countries would be submitted to the U.S. Senate for approval and be incorporated into law on ratification.

Petitions Sent By Armored Car

NEW YORK (AP)—Bundles of petitions opposing censure of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) were shipped off to Washington by armored truck early today for delivery to the U.S. Senate.

The petitions had been prepared by an organization known as "10 Million Americans Mobilizing for Justice."

A spokesman for the anticensure organization said the petitions carried 1,000,000 signatures certified by an auditing firm.

The Washington shipment was addressed to Vice President Nixon, who serves as president of the Senate; Senate Majority Leader William F. Knowland of California; and Minority Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas.

A Senate vote on a censure motion starts today.

Rear Adm. John G. Crommelin (ret.), who directed the signature campaign, announced yesterday that the auditors had counted a total of 1,001,941 signatures by 5 p.m.

He said the counting job may take as long as 10 days and that he expects the organization's 10 million goal to be topped.

UN Political Committee Prepares Debate

Korea Question Is Taken Up

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. Assembly's top Political Committee turned to the stormy Korean question today. The Western Powers rallied to oppose expected Russian demands that Red China be given a voice in the debate.

As the 60-nation committee prepared to take up the controversial question, American sources said U.S. Delegate James Wadsworth would call for inclusion of South Korea in the debate but would stand firm against any bid to Peiping or North Korea.

For the past four years the United States has opposed Soviet bids to include the Chinese Reds in the Korean debate.

It has been the Kremlin's policy to let Peiping take the initiative on the Korean question. Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, one of the three chairmen of the abortive Geneva talks on Korea, let Red China's Premier Chou En-lai carry the ball at during the Korean phase of those negotiations. The talks finally broke down last June after weeks of fruitless bickering between the Reds and the West.

The United States has been sounding out delegates on a proposed resolution which would accept the report on the Geneva conference submitted by the 15 U.N. allies. It would also have the Assembly reaffirm that its objective is peaceful achievement of unified Korea under a representative government.

Indian Delegate V. K. Krishna Menon has been trying to sell the West on a resolution which would keep the three chairmen of the Geneva conference on tap to resume negotiations when such appears timely.

Both the United States and Britain have made clear they consider such a move would only set up another fruitless conference.

Britain, which has been acting as a go-between for India and the United States, reportedly favors a plan to take note of the Geneva conference and let time work out a solution.

The Soviets have dropped broad hints they favor another Geneva-model parley.

Last night the Political Committee adopted a resolution expressing hope that the Netherlands and Indonesia would continue to seek a peaceful settlement of their dispute over West New Guinea. The aim of the vote—34-14 with 10 abstentions—appeared to assure the resolution of the necessary two-thirds majority when it comes before the General Assembly for final approval.

Miami Communist Probe Probably In Its Final Day Still Lacking Up-To-Date Testimony

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The House Un-American Activities Committee went into the third and possibly final day of its Miami hearings today with a record still devoid of any up-to-date testimony about Communist activities in the South.

The knowledge of witnesses who testified during the first two daily sessions was confined almost entirely to Red operations in Florida and North Carolina prior to 1948.

Ralph Long, confessed former Communist at the University of North Carolina, told the committee yesterday the "comrades" were very active there from 1946 to 1948, when he was a party member, but the school didn't investigate or take any action.

Long, a resident of Durham, N.C., named five faculty members and several students at the University he said attended cell meetings with him at that time, but he gave no testimony about the activities of these persons since 1948.

The five faculty members named by Long—John Meyers, Robert Lewis, Anatole Volkov, Elias Friedland and Hans Freistadt—could not be reached for comment at Chapel Hill, N.C.

Among those tagged by Long as a dues-paying party member was Sam Hirsch, who until last year was a dramatic instructor at the University of Miami.

Hirsch, who took the stand ahead of Long, denied he had ever been a Communist. Rep. Gordon H. Scherer (R-Ohio) said he would move to the committee that Hirsch's testimony be referred to the Department of Justice for "possible perjury prosecution."

One of yesterday's witnesses, Polish-born Max Schlafrock, a Miami contractor, refused to answer the committee's questions on grounds he might incriminate himself.

Rep. Clyde Doyle (D-Calif.) drew from Schlafrock an admission that he profited from government building contracts during the war, including one which called for remodeling the Army recruiting station in Miami.

Doyle said he would ask the next Congress for a law to make sure that no person who invokes the Fifth Amendment ever gets a chance to profit from government work.

Testimony that burglars, gunmen and anyone else "who might be useful to the party" were sought by the Communists was given by Jose Tamargo Jr., Havana-born resident of the Bronx, who became a Communist at the FBI's suggestion in Tampa, Fla., in 1943.

Tamargo said that while he was playing a dual role as Communist and FBI informer, "a fellow tried to get into the party in Tampa and I said he didn't look good to me."

"I was told we had to take anybody who could be useful. A burglar might be helpful because we might need to open a safe. A gunman might be needed to shoot somebody."

Long, who was described by Chairman Harold H. Velde (R-Ill.) as one of the most outstanding witnesses ever to appear before the committee, gave its members a good insight on what makes an American join the Communist party.

Her home was decorated with dried arrangements in the living room and music room. The dining table was adorned with an arrangement of Japanese Holly and Japanese persimmons.

A short business meeting was held after which Mrs. Crisp introduced Dr. W.E. Marshall of East Carolina College who gave a lecture on the gospel of John. Dr. Marshall emphasized the greatness of the writings of John.

Members were told by him that some teachers assured people that the book of John was written by John, others assured people that it was not.

The lecture was begun by the first verse of John. "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God". John tells that Christ, the son of God is a fact that must be taken by faith, that cannot be proved by concrete evidence. John in his book is interested in faith and not works, said Dr. Marshall.

"The book of John is written because of John's love of man to analyze to man the entire and amazing interpretation of Christ, the ministry of Christ and the teachings of Christ."

"John tells that the Word means Wisdom and Wisdom is Christ. God through Christ accomplished his purpose. Faith is John's theme in his book. He tells that people can have faith only as they live in Christ."

"Christ came to earth and took on human flesh in order to understand human problems but was not human but divine," concluded the speaker.

Going Away Party

ROBERSONVILLE—Miss Ann Charney of Raleigh and Mr. Wayne Johnson of Fort Lee gave their friend, Pic. M. Everett Roberson, a going away party Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Johnson. The house was decorated with Christmas ornaments.

The 20 young people were invited to the dining room where barbecued chicken, potato salad, cranberry sauce, stuffed celery, pickles, hot rolls, devil's food cake and Coca-Colas were served buffet style.

Although the gracious host and hostess provided very enjoyable entertainment, a certain element of sadness hung over the group who knew that the guest of honor from Arlington would leave Monday for Seattle. From there he will soon go to Japan.

Hostess To Bridge Club

ROBERSONVILLE—Mrs. William T. Hurst was a gracious hostess when the "Wednesday Afternoon Bridge Club" met at her home on Railroad Street. For this occasion the hall and the large living room were decorated with vases of beautiful roses, artistic arrangements of chrysanthemums and several pretty potted plants.

At 2:45 the players took their places at the two tables. After two hours of cards, the tallied scores gave Mrs. R. E. Grimes the award and Mrs. W. E. Page received the guest prize.

The hostess served a sweet course.

Honored At Shower

Denton-Hooker Vows Spoken In Double Ring Ceremony

Miss Katharine Hoke Hooker and Carl Blanchard Denton were united in marriage in a private ceremony performed Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock in the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

The bride, who has made her home with Dr. and Mrs. Cary Frederick Irons of Greenville, is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John E. Egan Hooker of Greene County. Mr. Denton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thomas Denton Sr. of Greenville.

The Rev. W. M. Howard officiated at the double ring rites. Wedding music was played softly during the ceremony by Mrs. Paul Toll, organist.

For the wedding the church was decorated with cathedral candles, sprays of fern and bridal flowers of white gladioli and chrysanthemums in tall baskets.

Given in marriage by Dr. Irons, the bride wore a dress of white Chantilly lace and tulle over taffeta fashioned with a basque bodice featuring a tiny pointed collar and long sleeves ending in points over the hands. The bouffant ballerina length skirt of tulle was banded with lace. Her fingertip veil of imported silk illusion was arranged from a caot of tulle with medallions of lace embroidered in seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with an orchid.

Matron of honor and the bride's only attendant was Mrs. Irons. Her ballerina length dress of aqua featured a fitted bodice of velvet with a bouffant skirt of tulle over taffeta. She wore a matching headpiece and white mitts. Her bouquet was of yellow chrysanthemums.

Best man for the groom was James Karl Cox of Greenville.

For the wedding of her niece Mrs. Ray West of Kinston wore a navy silk dress with matching accessories. Her corsage was of red carnations.

The groom's mother wore a purple silk dress with gold accessories. Her corsage was of tallman carnations. Immediately following the ceremony Dr. and Mrs. Irons entertained the families at an informal reception at their home on East Eighth Street.

When all the guests had been received, the bride couple cut the tiered wedding cake, placed at one end of the bride's table with an arrangement of white chrysanthemums at the other. After the bride and groom had cut the first slice, the cake was served by Dr. Isa Grant of Raleigh. Mrs. Thomas McMillan Grant of Rocky Mount, cousin of the bride, served coffee.

For a northern wedding trip, the bride wore a navy wool costume suit with navy accessories. At her shoulder she pinned the orchid from her bridal bouquet. Upon their return the couple will be at home at 801 Evans Street, Greenville.

Mrs. Denton is a graduate of John Nichols High School, Oxford. She attended East Carolina College and graduated from Johnston-Willis School of Nursing, Richmond, Va. She is presently employed as a registered nurse in the office of Dr. Malene Grant Irons in Greenville.

Mr. Denton graduated from Greenville High School and served three and a half years in the U. S. Navy, later attending the U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md. for two years. At present he is a junior at East Carolina College.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding included Mrs. William Bennett and Mrs. Thomas McMillan Grant of Rocky Mount; Mrs. Ray West and Mrs. Frank Hooker of Kinston; Mrs. Shahan Taylor, Greensboro; Dr. Isa Grant, Raleigh; and Miss Sarah Bowling, Richmond, Va.

Wedding Breakfast

On Wednesday at 12 o'clock noon Mr. and Mrs. E. G. McMullan and Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Haymes entertained at a wedding breakfast at the Woman's Club for the bridal couple and their families.

Sprays of greenery with arrangements of white chrysanthemums and wedding bells decorated the parlor, where the guests assembled for appetizers. The dining table was laid with a white linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of white chrysanthemums designed as a bride's bouquet. Bridal cards designated each guest's place.

A three course meal was served the 16 guests present.

Faculty Members Will Present Recital Tonight

Both vocal and instrumental music are included on the program of a recital which will be given tonight in the Austin auditorium of East Carolina College by three faculty members of the department of music.

George E. Perry, pianist; Herbert L. Carter, clarinetist; and Dr. Elwood Keister, violinist, will appear as a trio and will play Mozart's "Trio VII for Clarinet, Viola, and Piano," a composition in three movements. Mr. Carter and Mr. Perry will play the "Sonata for Clarinet and Piano" by Paul Hindemith.

A group of selections by Brahms and other composers has been chosen by Dr. Keister, tenor, for the evening's program. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Madelyn Tribble, pianist.

The recital is one of a series of programs by faculty members which are presented during the school year under the auspices of the college department of music. Also in the series will be a song recital Monday, December 6, at 8 p.m. in the College Theatre by Paul Hickfang, bass.

Work For Blind Program Given At Sans Souci

The Sans Souci Book Club had one of the most enjoyable meetings of the club year on Tuesday, Nov. 30, at the home of Mrs. J. T. Cheatham Jr.

The members and Miss Jennie Manning, guest for the afternoon, were greeted by the hostess and her daughter, Lou Cheatham, then invited into the living room which was most inviting and cheerful with arrangements of fall flowers and an open log fire.

Mrs. Hugh S. Ragsdale, president, presided over a brief business session. As is the custom each year the club voted to buy a Christmas bond.

Mrs. Louis W. Gaylord was in charge of the program for the afternoon. Her subject was a summary of the work being done for the blind. Mrs. Gaylord presented Miss Jennie Manning who made a very interesting talk explaining first the division of the Commission for the Blind which were: social service, the branch of service Miss Manning is attached to, medical vocational rehabilitation, rehabilitation center and business enterprises, or bureau of employment, the division Mrs. Gaylord works with.

Miss Manning explained how the divisions are linked and work together and how the commission cooperates with other agencies in providing financial assistance for the blind and usually handicapped. Mrs. Gaylord then gave a brief resume of her duties as Stand Supervisor of the N. C. Bureau of Employment for the Blind assigned to the eastern part of the state.

Mrs. Gaylord and Miss Manning are doing an excellent work and the members as a club expressed their appreciation for the informative manner in which Mrs. Gaylord and Miss Manning outlined the duties of their respective positions.

Following the program a tempting salad plate with coffee was served.

Local work of the Salvation Army Sunday School attendance for the first 10 months of 1954 was reviewed briefly yesterday at a meeting of the Salvation Army Advisory Board.

Lt. B. T. Lewis, commanding officer of the Greenville post of the Salvation Army, told the advisory board a total of 569 religious meetings were held by the post during the first 10 months of this year with a total attendance of 14,906 people. The 228 adult religious meetings which were conducted had an attendance of 9,435. The average first 10 months of the year was 92, he said, compared with an average attendance of 87 during 1953.

Lt. Lewis explained that the work of the Salvation Army is divided into two principal phases, religious work and social work.

In the social work during the first 10 months of this year, he reported, relief to transients stranded in Greenville consisted of providing 87 lodgings, 179 meals, providing transportation for 13 people and giving assistance to five women. In local family relief work the Salvation Army has provided 84 grocery orders, paid six house rents, had 13 prescriptions filled, distributed 2,445 articles of clothing, 371 pairs of shoes, provided 120 household items, given cash relief to eight people and handled two home and hospital cases.

James W. Butler, who presided at the advisory board meeting, praised the work of Lt. and Mrs. Lewis and the Salvation Army post here.

Following the report of activities, Lt. Lewis presented plaques to the following members of the advisory board who were present at the meeting: Butler, Mrs. Ruel W. Tyson, Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, Mrs. Cora Powell, T. Y. Walker, J. H. Waldrop, and J. Hicks Corey.

CHAPTER TWENTY

Not a word of his technique or values or his background, had Enid mentioned of his painting of Cindy, yet Gary would rather have heard her say what she had. "You're amazing," he explained.

She looked at him. Why? "First—I didn't expect you to say anything like that. Aren't most girls a little jealous of a very pretty girl?"

She dropped down on a stool by the work table. "I never have envied pretty girls but I do envy anyone like you! You think something at least in the special part of your mind, and then you pick up a brush and put it on canvas. You make it live! Writers do that, and composers, architects, engineers. . . . But most of us—well, we think things and that's all. At least ones like me. I want to do something—just do something that's me!"

Gary said, "There's a pretty big choice these days, isn't there?" Enid said soberly: "That's what I'm thinking about. I must decide on something that I can do. And I haven't any talent for anything. Whatever I decide I'll probably have to study or take some training for it."

He moved toward the stove. "What say we scramble up some lunch? Like spaghetti I've a can of it with tomato sauce. Coffee in the pot."

Enid said: "Let me start the fire. I'm getting quite expert." She began at once to put kindling into the little stove. Gary liked that—nothing in her manner to indicate that she saw this as a romantic adventure.

They ate at a corner of Gary's work table. They did not talk much but Gary realized that the little silences that fell were comfortable, companionable. The rain closed in in a pleasant way. They washed their plates and cups. "I'd better go," said Enid. "You'll come again?" asked Gary.

Enid hesitated. "It depends on how my mother takes this today." She was going to tell her mother. Gary was inordinately pleased at that. He said, a little drily: "It'd be all right if I were on the eligible list."

Enid laughed. "It's wonderful to have you understand! And it isn't that I'm afraid to go against her. At least these last few weeks I'm not. It's—she is awfully unhappy, living there on the farm—especially so now. I can't upset her too much."

She put on her boots, the coat, the hood, went to the door. There she turned. "I will come again!" "The next rainy day," he asked. She went out into the rain, down the path. He watched her until she disappeared among the trees. "Some girl!" he said aloud.

Jennie Todd walked in the rain that day. To the village wearing a faded blue raincoat and rubbers and holding an umbrella over her head. She walked fast, as if she must hurry to do what she was going to do. As, indeed, she must before some courage she had found petered out in her.

She had bolted the door between herself and Hester again. Then, yesterday, Hester had come to her front door. Jennie opened it, not knowing who had knocked on it. Hester was smiling. She said: "I've brought a letter for you Jenn."

Jennie Todd took the letter, put it on the table. "Read it Jenn. It's from Miss Millhouse. And I'll wager you anything she's writing for you to get back on the job!"

Jennie picked up the letter, opened it. "Yes, she wants me to come back." Her voice was steady as she said it. She read the letter aloud. "If it isn't possible for you to come back by the first of August at the latest, it will be necessary for me to engage someone else in your position."

"I thought that was what she had written," said Hester. "I told you she'd need you!"

Jennie folded the letter. "I'm not going back!" she said. Hester stared at her. "Jenn, are you insane? You can't expect me to find you another job!"

"No, I don't expect you to."

"What will you do?"

"Stay here. I like it here."

"What will you live on?"

"I'll find some way of earning money. I've a little saved and it doesn't cost much to live here."

Hester stared herself up straight. "Unfortunately, however, I can't dismiss a feeling of concern for you. I beg you not to answer Miss Millhouse's letter without giving it very serious thought—a real thought." With that she went out the front door.

Jennie sat down and wrote a letter to Miss Millhouse—a letter of resignation. Tomorrow she would walk to the village and mail it.

Reaching the village, she went directly to the post-office. The postmistress greeted her with a surprised laugh. "My goodness, Miss Todd, you out in this rain! It must be an important letter you have to mail."

"It is," said Jennie. "Anyway, I like to walk in the rain."

"Well I do myself if I'm dressed for it. I'll see this goes on the 2:30. No mail came for you yet today. How's everything up at your farm?"

"Going very well," said Jennie. "You really like it I have a hankering to live in a city. I've got it in the back of my mind to quit this job. My husband had it and when he died I got appointed to it. But it's too confining—I don't like to be shut in. I'm going to just cut loose, go somewhere, maybe to Albany. If anything breaks for me, I'll stay there."

Jennie went out and found herself face to face with Wick Middleton, for the immediate instant unrecognizable in a shabby raincoat and old hat.

"Of all things!" he exclaimed. "Where were you heading for?" "The restaurant," she said.

"No, you're not! You're going home with me—meet Net. She always has enough food for a half-dozen!"

"Oh, well!" said Jennie. "Why not? You said you'd like to meet her and she wants to meet you." He put his hand under her elbow and turned her around. "I want you to see my library!"

She walked along with him. Nettie's greeting was hearty. "I've wanted to meet you, Miss Todd. Take off those wet things. Wick, hang them in the shed. Sit down, Miss Todd, in this rocker, while I lay another place. Hope you like creamed chipped beef!"

"On Net's biscuits," said Wick from the shed door. "And you'll say afterwards that you've never tasted anything like it!"

"Go along, Wick. Miss Todd he flatters me just so that I'll keep on fattening him up!"

"The basket you sent up to Cindy—you were very kind," said Jennie.

"Twas nothing. I worried about the child—about all of you, with those stoves."

"We're managing very well," said Jennie. "Though we're not baking anything."

After lunch he suggested that they go into the living-room to see his books.

"Now, Wick, how do you know Jennie's interested," protested Nettie.

"But I am," said Jennie. A pleasant old-fashioned room with comfortable shabby chairs, tables, lamps, and his books on plain shelves against one wall.

"Oh!" said Jennie eagerly, going to them.

"Mostly old titles—some were my father's, others I've bought here and there, second-hand. It's a weakness of mine. But they're good company."

"Yes," said Jennie, thinking of the old bookshop where she had been so happy.

When they went back to the kitchen Jennie was putting some glass jars into a small basket. "Current jelly—I made it day before yesterday. I thought you and your sister and Cindy would like some of it—if you don't mind carrying it with you."

"Oh, thanks! No, I won't mind—

I'm going to get that taxi man to drive me back. I have to get some supplies at the store. We'll enjoy it!"

Jennie said, as they went through the gate, "I like your cousin Nettie."

Wick looked pleased. "Run in often to see her. You go to the market now and I'll pick you up there and drive you home."

"No, no," said Jennie quickly. Wick said: "I think I understand. I'll get hold of Ed Pauly. Tell him to stop for you."

He walked with her to the market, carrying the basket of jelly, the umbrella over her head. As they reached the store they saw Hester's big car drawn up by the curb across the street. Hester alone in it. They saw Hester give them one sweeping glance, then turn her head away as if she had not seen them.

North State Coaches Select 5 ECC Gridders For All-Conference Honors

Coach Jack Boone's East Carolina Pirates placed five men on the All-North State Conference team selected by league coaches for the Greensboro Daily News.

Earning berths for East Carolina were Larry Rhodes, end; Willie Holland, tackle; David Lee, guard; John "Poppy" Hayes and Claude King, backs.

Holland and Ned Pennell of the champion Appalachian Mountaineers were almost unanimous choices and thereby named mythical co-captains.

Title-winning Appalachian placed six men on the 22-man squad, which characterizes why they won the crown on six straight victories and two post-season bowl games.

Elon, runners-up in the conference, followed behind East Carolina in number players placed with four. Each team in the league got at least one man on the club. Lenoir Rhyne, which failed to win a loop game, had three players named. Catawba had two, Western Carolina and Guilford had one apiece.

The squad contains 10 seniors, eight juniors, three sophomores and one freshman. Elon's Bob Stauffenberg was the only first-year man on the team. Holland is the veteran of the team, making the selection for his third straight time. Other repeaters are Sherill, Lee and Powell.

East Carolina players making the honorable mention list include Don Burton, guard; Louis Hallow, center; and Emu Boso, back.

The rest of the team includes Bob Cornish of Guilford, Colon Nifong of Appalachian and Bob Sherill of Lenoir Rhyne, ends; Gene Frye of Lenoir Rhyne, Bob Jones and Fred Lippard of Appalachian, tackles; John Powell of Catawba, Ben Quinn of Appalachian and Glenn Varney of Elon, guards; Homer Hobgood of Elon and Dave Kunkler of Lenoir Rhyne, center; Harold Carter of Catawba, James Garrison of Western Carolina, Jim Ollis of Appalachian, Kerry Richards and Bob Stauffenberg of Elon, backs.

Phantom Basketballers In Preview Of Season Tonight

By WAYNE BISHOP

Coach Bo Farley's Phantomers get an idea on their strength tonight at GHS auditorium when they take on the highly-ranked Rocky Mount Blackbirds in the 1954-55 basketball opener for both teams.

The Blackbirds and the Phantomers both expect to be ragged in the season's first encounter but both teams are eagerly hoping for a win. It has been several years since the Farley-men have turned down the Rocky Mount squad and they will be eager for that chance tonight. For Rocky Mount, they will be starting a new building program with several very promising young boys in the line-up. All but one of last season's starting group is gone. Coach Bill Lundy's gang is eager to start the season off right after being compared to last year's brilliant group.

Coach Farley has his six Phantom lettermen to pace the squad. They are forwards Edgar Moore and Bob Howell, centers Harold Edwards and Clark Noble, and guards Tommie Saleed and Pat Sawyer. As the top-ranking subs for those Coach Farley has Ike Riddick and Tommy Norris. Norris looked especially sharp yesterday in a scrimmage against the first team.

In yesterday's workout the second team matched the variety point for point. Norris was the big man along with center Larry Powell. Ray Hardee, Harris Northrop, Billy Johnson, and Jerry Drum were the other members that played on the sub team.

Coach Farley used several different groups on the first five. He started with Howell and Moore at forwards, Edwards at center, Sawyer and Saleed at the guards. Other combinations had Noble at center and Edwards at forward, with Moore either going out or going to a guard slot. Ike Riddick spelled both guards on the first five occasionally. Harold Edwards and Bob Howell were the chief guns for the starters. Sawyer, Saleed, and Moore also popped in plenty of points.

Tonight is an important night for the Green Phantomers. Although they are not in top form for the contest due to lack of practice space, the G-men are all set on winning. The game starts at eight o'clock and will be played in the high school gymnasium.

Full Practice Game Is Part Of ECC Warm-Up

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Writer

Coaches Howard Porter and Earl Smith ordered a long, full-scale scrimmage last night for the East Carolina basketballers as the leading conference champions prepare for the opener Saturday night with Guilford.

After a brief photo session, the Pirates were put through a two-hour regular game. The score was kept and the action patterned after the real thing.

Porter continued to use the same five formed soon after workouts were begun. The first unit was comprised of Don Harris and Nick Nichols, forwards; Cecil Heath and J. C. Thomas, guards; and Guy Mendenhall, center. William McArthur alternated with this group, both at forward and guard.

Harris continues to look sharp in the drills and should come into his own this season. The low-head from outside and drives in a semblance of Sonny Russell. Heath, little 5-10 pepper-pot, is the vital take-charge guy. His leadership will mean a lot to the Pirates in the league's long run.

Improvement of the bench is illustrated with each practice. The number 2 quint shows almost equal aptitude with the first five. Waverly

Akins (6-4), Marion Hales (6-4) and Jerry Bosquet (6-5) bolster the Pirates in altitude. Akins, much improved over last season, has been hitting the bucket with uncommon accuracy and is a much more poised player. Both Hales and Bosquet made All-State teams while in high school and exhibit great promise.

Guilford, the Pirates' opponent in Greensboro Saturday night, is a much improved club over the representative of last year.

In Bill Atkins and Guy Dowd, the Quakers have a potent one-two scoring punch. Atkins is averaging close to 25 points and Dowd has been picking rebounds off like sitting ducks.

The Quakers employ a fast break to great advantage with several rabbit guards and height up the middle. Dowd stands six-foot-seven and is backed up by a couple rangy freshmen.

East Carolina plays its first home game here Friday week against Catawba. Thus far, the Indians of Coach Earl Ruth are unbeaten. They whipped McCrary last night 72-70.

Dukes And Terps Dominate Choice

GREENSBORO (AP)—Duke, the champion and Orange Bowl team, and Maryland, runnerup for both honors, dominated the annual All-Atlantic Coast Conference football eleven as announced today by the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Assn.

The Blue Devils placed a guard and two backs on the first team, while the Terps landed an end and two backs in leading the eight-team field for individual honors on ballots of 43 member sports writers and sportscasters.

Duke landed Ralph Torrance, at guard, Jerry Barger and Bob Pascal in the backfield with Barger being the top point-getter among the backs as writers and radio men voted five points for first team three for second. Maryland take-charge guy, Dick Bielecki and Walker in the backfield.

There was one unanimous selection, junior Bob Bartholomew of Wake Forest at tackle. He completely dominated his position, as did Frank Mincevich of South Carolina at guard. However, the first two ends, Walker and Will Frye of North Carolina tied in points, while the center position saw the greatest fight, Leon Cunningham of South Carolina edging John Irvine of Maryland by 132 points to 129.

Cunningham was the only player to repeat from 1953 while four stars were promoted from the second team of last year. They were Barger, Mincevich, Bartholomew and Walker.

Six of the conference schools are represented on the first team, a strong contrast with the previous season when the top three teams took all the positions on all-conference.

Balance of power was noted in the voting at most positions. Although Bartholomew and Mincevich were top-heavy favorites at their positions, the voting was close for running mates, especially for the other guard spot where only 128 points separated first and third team choices. Barger managed one more point than Bielecki in the backfield, and the other two starting choices were tied.

Selvy Has High Scoring Debut

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Frank Selvy, the brilliant former All-America from Furman, saluted his debut as a Milwaukee Hawk last night by dropping in 35 points for a new Milwaukee Arena — Auditorium record, but his efforts were not enough as the Boston Celtics drove to a 118-99 victory at the auditorium before a crowd of 3,631.

ECC Swimming Team To Meet Davidson Friday

East Carolina College swimming team inaugurates its first intercollegiate competition with Davidson College in Davidson on Friday, December 3, and moves into South Carolina for an engagement with Clemson College on Saturday, December 4.

Announcement of the schedule for 1954-55 of East Carolina's swimming team was made today by Dr. N. M. Jorgenson, athletic director.

Coach Ray Martinez will accompany the 15-man squad on the trips to Davidson and Clemson, and will be joined by Dr. Charles G. DeShaw, also a member of the ECC physical education and athletic department faculty.

Swimming has been recognized as a major collegiate sport at the college and Coach Martinez, joining the faculty this fall, has found excellent response to his work in aquatic sports.

Dates for other meets are December 13, North Carolina State College in Greenville; Dec. 17, The Citadel in Charleston, S.C.; Jan. 8, Davidson College in Greenville; Jan. 29, Virginia Military Institute in Lexington, Va.; and Feb. 7, North Carolina State College in Raleigh. A tentative engagement with Duke University is scheduled for Greenville on Dec. 10.

Swimming team members are Wade Cooper, Raleigh; Garland Tuton and Phillip Weaver, both of Whiteville; Dickey Denton, Tarboro; Ronnie Rose, Goldsboro; Joe Wallace, Clayton; James (Cuz) Cummings and William (Teddy) Gartman, both of Norfolk, Va.; Jimmie Webb, Stantonsburg; Frank Moore, Farmville; James Norman, Fayetteville; William West, Camp Lejeune. On the divers squad are Thomas El Ramey, Jan Cayton and Claude Tyson, all of Farmville.

Cheerleaders Take A Breather

Cheerleaders for the Greenville High School band mothers take time out from their duties at practice for a Friday night game. The ladies from left to right above are: Mrs. Audrey Felton, Mrs. Sherman Parks, Mrs. Amos Evans, and Mrs. C. E. West. The basketball game between the band mothers and students at the Greenville Beauty School is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock Friday night in the Greenville High School gymnasium. Proceeds will go to the GHS band.

Baylor, Auburn In Gator Bowl

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—The Baylor Bears of the Southwest Conference will make their first appearance in the Gator Bowl football game Dec. 31 against the Auburn Tigers of the Southeastern Conference, who are back for the second straight year.

Changing the date of the game from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31 and thus opening the way to nationwide television helped make possible the matching of the biggest name teams in the 10 year history of the Gator Bowl.

A television deal has not yet been completed but is expected soon. In past years the Gator Bowl game has been telecast only in the Jacksonville area because the TV networks were tied up New Year Day with the Rose, Orange, Sugar and Cotton Bowls.

Baylor and Auburn had identical seasons of seven victories and three defeats. Auburn was No. 13 and Baylor No. 18 in the final Associated Press poll. The bowl selections were announced yesterday.

Ameche To Get Hiesman Trophy

NEW YORK (AP)—Alan (The Horse) Ameche, the pile driving fullback who sparked Wisconsin's football team the past three years, will receive the 20th Hiesman Memorial Trophy at a dinner here Dec. 9.

Ameche, yesterday was named winner of the coveted trophy, annually presented to the nation's outstanding football player by the Downtown Athletic Club.

Firing Football Coaches Failed To Help 12 Of 16 College Teams

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
NEW YORK (AP)—Note to irate alumni: Before you fire the coach because your team didn't win, take a look at what happened to the other guys.

Four major colleges already are looking for new coaches with the 1954 season not over and the usual rumors of changes at other losing institutions are floating around.

At Pittsburgh, Red Dawson, who had to give up coaching in mid-season because of his health, after losing three games, turned in his resignation later to enter private business. Athletic Director Tom Hamilton who took over the job, had a 4-2 record for the remainder of the season and hasn't yet said definitely whether he'll continue to coach.

Laverne (Kip) Taylor resigned at Oregon State after a 1-8 season because of "apparent increasing pressure in the football program." And Bill Young quit as head coach and athletic director at Furman (5-5) although his team won both its Southern Conference games.

Yesterday Tulsa's head coach Bernie Witucki and his 4-man staff were paid in full and dismissed. Tulsa lost all 11 games this past season.

Records for 16 major colleges that changed coaches before the past season show that only four of them won more games than they lost during the 1954 season. Only five of the new coaches did better than their predecessors while 11 had worse records.

Adding them up, the 16 institutions, not all of which fired their coaches for losing, won 65 games, lost 76 and tied 12 in 1953. During the past season the same 16 won 49, lost 97 and tied five.

Working Wife Said Better Housekeeper

By DORTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Working wives are better housekeepers than their stay-at-home sisters, and ask less help from their husbands, says Madge Lewyt, who spends most of her time inquiring into the housekeeping habits of U.S. women.

A few years ago Miss Lewyt volunteered to help her brother compile some facts about how modern women clean house and she has been at it ever since. The brother is Alex Lewyt, manufacturer of vacuum cleaners and other items. Says Madge, who bears the title of research consultant:

In recent surveys I have found that women who work at a full-time job away from home all day tackle their housework the same way they do their office work. They organize it efficiently and don't get bogged down in it.

Women who stay at home all day are likely to dawdle along at housework, using the old-fashioned methods they learned from their mothers. There's probably something psychological about it. These women have a feeling they aren't doing a big important job in just keeping house, and so they try to make it sound as hard as possible.

These are the women who do most of the complaining when their husbands come home at night, and the ones who act hurt if their husbands don't help with the dishes or other chores.

Working women, on the other hand, says Miss Lewyt, seem to take pride in being able to do two jobs and do both well. She says:

Most women who work outside the home get the house cleaned up in the evening after dinner, and give the house a thorough cleaning once a week, usually on Saturday.

They learn to empty ashtrays and straighten up the living room before they go to bed at night, spending only a few minutes at it.

but leaving it neat. They put away their clothes when they take them off, and keep up with all the little things that keep a house neat, instead of letting them pile up."

Miss Lewyt has found that some women take all day to clean house simply because they have all day to spend. Actually it should be possible to give a thorough cleaning to a three or fourroom apartment in not more than two hours, she says.

Says Miss Lewyt:

After the years I've spent inquiring into such things, I've become convinced that it's better for both wives and husbands if the wife has a job outside the home, provided there are no small children. A job keeps her busy, alert and interested, and she becomes a better homemaker as well."

Market To Hold Formal Opening

Colonial Heights Super Market, Greenville's newest food store, will hold its formal opening Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The self-service market will foods, vegetables, meats, dairy products, soaps, cereals, canned goods and other food items, the store manager, L. T. Hardee, said today. parking area has space for between 75 and 80 autos.

Hardee and Charlie Cox are the owners of the new super market. The manager pointed out that the paved area around the building will provide plenty of parking space for customers. He said the new building is of brick and concrete construction. It is lighted by fluorescent lights and the floor is covered with asphalt tile.

Assistant manager of the new store is Charlie Harris.

Manager of the meat market is Frank Whittaker who has been in the grocery business for 22 years.

Hours of the new store will be from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Also opening in the same building is a Youth Center which carries a complete line of clothing for boys and girls up to 12 years old. The Youth Center will be operated by Mrs. L. T. Hardee and Mrs. Charlie Cox.

Uniformity In Buses Sought

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—School buses, says Connecticut Motor Vehicles Commissioner Charles F. Kelley, should be painted yellow and plainly identified so that they are "made to look like school buses."

"We have a conglomeration of vehicles used as school buses that often make it difficult for motorists to spot a school bus easily and drive accordingly," he says.

Malay Election Well-Advertised

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP)—The Federation of Malaya will hold its first elections for the Federal Legislative Council next June and is using everything from armoured cars to airplanes to make sure that everyone eligible is registered.

In far-flung sectors where there are no roads, election information officers are walking from village to village. They carry leaflets, posters and pamphlets — and whenever they run out parcels of supplies are dropped by parachute on prearranged targets.

Airplanes also scatter tens of thousands of leaflets in the more densely populated areas.

Nutrition Class Test Backfired

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The fifth grade at Tuckahoe school here was studying nutrition. They fed one mouse on milk and bread after naming him Frisky. The other, Peepsqueak, lived on water and bread. Soon Frisky weighed 123 grams, Peepsqueak only 82. But Frisky died.

Experts called in said Frisky died of pneumonia. The kids shifted Peepsqueak to a milk-bread diet. He quickly shot up to 183 grams. So far, no pneumonia.

'Mama' Bronson Is A Slim 115-Pounder

By WAYNE OLIVER
NEW YORK, (AP)—Florence Halop, Mama Bronson of the program Meet Millie, has one advantage over other television regulars—she can walk down the street unrecognized and undisturbed by autograph seekers.

It takes seeing to believe the chic, curvaceous, blonde Miss Halop and the matronly, middle-aged Mama of the CBS-TV show are one and the same.

Proof of the drastic difference in appearance between Florence and Mama came recently when Miss Halop flew here from Hollywood to visit her parents.

While here, she attended Ed Sullivan's Sunday night Toast of the Town telecast and went backstage afterwards. The autograph hounds were out in force and paid little attention to Miss Halop, but a few asked for her autograph anyway because "I had blonde hair so they thought I had to be somebody." The moment she signed her name, however, the rush was on and she was mobbed.

Miss Halop, minus makeup and padding, often is not recognized by fans in Hollywood when she leaves CBS Television City with Elena Verdugo, who plays Millie, her daughter, after the weekly telecasts.

Besides facial makeup, Miss Halop says, "I go from a size 10 to a size 16" for the role of Mama Bronson. Her costume includes "an old-fashioned bathing suit with a little padding in front and a lot in back" and a lining of cotton batting, worn underneath matronly apparel. A little powder on her hair and the 45-minute makeup job is complete.

Offstage and in regular attire, Miss Halop is a trim 5 feet 3½, "with eyes that are green like a cat's," and weighs in between 113 and 117 pounds compared with an apparent 150 or so on TV.

Originally Miss Halop was auditioned for the part of Millie but producer Frank Galen, impressed with her ability, decided she was the one who could put over the role of Mama Bronson.

Reluctant at first, she says, "I live it now," and gets stacks of fan letters of her own. Including many "from teen-age boys—they think Mama Bronson is cute."

Miss Halop actually is only six months older than her TV daughter, Miss Verdugo. She and her husband George Brusk, a talent agency executive, have two daughters of their own who are much younger, Georgianna, 4, and Benita Lee, 4 months.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

GLASS BLOCK panel over sink adds light to kitchen.

Architects builders and home modernizers are now doing things with glass blocks that make you wonder what was the matter with this fascinating building material when it first came out.

Apparently the matter was that glass blocks were just about 20 years ahead of their time. It takes us a while to catch on to such seemingly contradictory ideas as glass giving us more privacy in our homes, glass giving us light without heat, or light without a view, and so on.

Yet in some houses, built before World War II, where these glistening hollow bricks of glass were used in the walls, the owners say they still like them fine. In the meantime, most of us have had a chance to get acquainted with glass blocks, maybe having purchased one or two that were open on one end to serve as massive modern flower vases.

In view of all the sensible uses now being made of this material it's probably just as well that we didn't go overboard in a hurry and wind up with some new kind of gingerbread results.

SEE
"MR. TEXAS"
Dec. 6-7

The ease with which glass block can be used for interior partitions and room dividers is one of its established advantages. For indoor installation, where no moisture problem is involved, you can erect a wall of glass block without any mortar.

Ready-made special strips of wood take the place of mortar. By using wedges, you can build a solid and lasting panel or partition with this "set-in-wood" method as easily as playing with Junior's building blocks. And a nice thing about this is that you can change your mind, take the wall apart and put it up some other place whenever you're in the mood for exercise.

An indoor partition of this type is especially handy where you don't want to cut off light, such as in finishing an attic, where it becomes expensive to add more dormer windows. Or if you have a long kitchen and want to cut off one end for a dining nook, glass block will keep the place lighted and still give you as firm a separation as studs, lath, plaster and wallpaper.

Prismatic and filtered glass blocks are among some of the most interesting. These reflect and diffuse light, reduce heat transfer and even bend light rays. In school rooms, where a maximum of light without glare is mandatory, prismatic glass blocks have been used for south and west walls to bend the sunlight upward against the ceiling.

In homes these tricky blocks have opened new opportunities for the use of skylights. It used to be that a skylight acted like a greenhouse and made a room swelter in summer, while it leaked heat like a sieve in winter. The use of prismatic glass blocks in place of window panes has brought a big change.

The prisms reflect heat and glare from the summer sun, while they admit the cooler north light. In winter, when the sun is low in the sky the blocks accept and transmit a high percentage of the heat rays.

In the outer wall of a house, all the handyman needs is a mason's trowel, a brush, some ready-mixed mortar and asphalt emulsion. Supposing you want to block off the view of a window without sacrificing the light, the window opening, after removal of the sash, can be used for the panel. Any new opening must be bridged over with a header to eliminate overhead weight, the same as you would do for a window.

Here are the three simple steps in installation:
1. Brush a good thick coat of asphalt emulsion on the window framing.
2. Lay the glass block in mortar in much the same manner as other masonry, making your mortar joints 1/4-inch thick. Tool the mortar to a smooth finish in all joint faces.
3. Clean the face of the block before the mortar hardens. Leave a space at the top of the panel for expansion and call this space as well as the sides and bottoms to assure weathertightness.

There's one thing to remember—you can't cut glass block. So plan your panel sizes in accordance with the block sizes and their mortar joints.

Asphalt emulsion, prepared mortar mix and caulking compound can be obtained from any building supply dealer handling glass block.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

could be placed in the rear or attached to one side of the house without altering the balance of the street facade. The house, without garage, covers 1,744 square feet. Without the family room in the rear, which could be omitted, the area would be 1,536 square feet. This design by Howard H. Juster, A.I.A., for Show House, 501 Fifth Ave., New York 17, N.Y., is featured in the current issue of Living for Young Homemakers.

Leap From Fiery Car Was Fatal

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—A car carrying four teen-agers along a busy artery west of here suddenly burst into flames last night. The driver, 18-year-old Willis E. Harper, leaped from the still-moving auto and landed in the opposite lane. An oncoming car killed him outright. The driverless car finally hit a fence and stopped. The three other youths received only minor injuries.

New Industrial Revolution Seen With Electronics

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur sees a new industrial revolution under way today—thanks to electronics.

But some labor leaders aren't so sure they're thankful.

The chairman of the board of Remington Rand, Inc., in announcing that his firm will have a new "electronic brain" ready for delivery next year, says:

The remarkable developments in electronics over the past few years have effected a revolution in business methods and procedures comparable to the industrial revolution two centuries ago.

The business world is moving into a new phase of data handling and management control through the use of high-speed, time-saving devices.

There will be further developments and refinements, but the basic groundwork has been laid for achieving goals in business and industrial administration and controls undreamed of a decade ago.

At Columbia University, meantime, International Business Machines is ready to take the wraps off a new machine it calls the most powerful and fastest electronic computing machine yet devised. IBM has been perfecting the new computer at Columbia's Watson Laboratory for the Naval Bureau of Ordnance.

Remington Rand's forthcoming Univac file-computer will be a sort of kid brother to the Univac that became a household word after the recent election. It will compile a range of these electronic brains from the million-dollar Univac system down to the Univac-120 and Univac-60 priced around $75,000. The new intermediate Univac will have a storage drum memory that will hold up to 1,800,000 alphabetical and numerical characters. The company says the machine will be able to use these characters instantly without reference to any sequence of numbers of letters.

Sixteen univac systems have been installed or are being installed for use of corporations, operating in the fields of steel, chemicals, electrical machinery, auto makers, life insurance companies and railroads.

Six of the huge Univac scientific brains, designed to solve technical problems in aeronautics and the like, also are in use.

Seventeen more of the two big types are to be delivered when available.

These are the electronic devices which MacArthur sees as revolutionizing business management practices. It is part of a major trend toward automation in factories and offices that is being watched closely now by both management and labor.

Walter Reuther, president of the CIO and the United Automobile Workers, has served notice that automation is going to be a discussion point in future union contracts. In a statement prepared by labor economists, the union declares: Workers must be provided with employment and income security so that the nation can meet these revolutionary possibilities with a minimum of disruption and hardship.

Because of the extreme changes in factory methods caused by automation, existing classifications and wage structures are becoming obsolete.

Reuther wants management to recognize that automated and semiautomated jobs require new classifications and rates whether in new or old plants and he holds that employers must train or retrain workers who now must master new skills. Management, on the other hand, contends that automation in the long run will make for more jobs, not less.

Kansas was the first US state to give women the vote in school elections in 1861, says the National Geographic Society.

Grand Jury Called For Remington Death Case

SCRANTON, Pa., (AP)—A federal grand jury was called to session here today to investigate the slaying of William W. Remington, former government economist convicted of perjury in a Communist espionage case.

Two physicians who tried vainly to save the 37-year-old economist's life at Lewisburg (Pa.) Federal Penitentiary last week, were slated to testify on Remington's injuries. They are Dr. Charles Tomlinson, prison physician and Dr. Leon Wilkin of Milton, Pa.

Dr. Wilkin was called to the prison when Remington's condition became critical after he was beaten with a half-brick encased in a sock Nov. 22. He died of a skull fracture Nov. 24.

Three convicts are charged with Remington's death. They are Lewis Cagle Jr., 17, Chattanooga, Tenn.; George Junior McCoy, 34, Grundy, Va.; and Robert Carl Parker, 21, Washington.

Remington, a former Commerce Department official, was accused of lying when he denied he ever passed secrets to a Communist spy ring. He was serving a three-year term.

James V. Bennett, director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, has said more than one motive may have been involved in Remington's death.

There has been speculation that the attack may have been a protest against the release of Alger Hiss, paroled Saturday from the prison, or against communism in general. But prison officials denied both theories.

Cagle was quoted by prison officials as saying the motive was strictly robbery.

Bennett said the suspects occupied a room across from Remington's. But commenting on the possibility of the robbery motive he said prisoners are restricted in commissary purchases and don't have much of value in their possession.

He said "all the facts are going to come out" during an investigation by the Bureau of Prisons. The FBI is also probing the case.

Gunpowder is a mixture of saltpeter, sulphur and charcoal.

Rescuer Dies In Collapsing Slag

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—Caught in a collapsing slag pile, the general manager of the Lorain Slag Co. was crushed to death yesterday while trying to rescue a trapped employee.

William F. Miller, of suburban Bay Village, had tried to save Henry Kraemer, 23. Kraemer was in serious condition in St. Joseph's Hospital with back injuries and possible fractured ribs.

The slag had become caked over a 15-foot pit opening into a conveyor system that led to a freighter on which it was being loaded. Kraemer stepped onto the pile and it collapsed. Miller rushed to his rescue but dropped from sight. Kraemer whose head was visible ble was pulled out first by workmen who later extricated Miller.

Service Plans Reorganization

WASHINGTON (AP)—Retired Lt. Gen. J. M. Swing, commissioner of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, said last night plans to reorganize the service are nearly completed.

Swing, who declined to discuss details of the reorganization, said it "would make the service a little more modern."

The New York Times says the reorganization will involve closing of some offices and merging of others. In the process the paper says, some jobs will be wiped out and others transferred to new locations.

Jacob, executive secretary, NFL, Ripon, Wis. Brooks has obtained 662 points in NFL competition, 19 points more than the next ranking league member from Pennsylvania. These points, recorded in the national office, were accumulated by participating in interscholastic debates and oratorical contests, as a school representative in student council assemblies and NFL student congresses. Brooks, who is now serving as president of the Greenville NFL chapter and also as a member of the National Honor Society, was the first NFL member in the North Carolina district to attain the two-hundred-point Degree of Distinction gold seal during his freshman year. Twice he has participated in the National High School Tournament, in debate in 1953 in Denver, Colo., and in the national student congress in 1954 at Greensburg, Pa. Included in his record are many community service civic club talks and radio forums. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. F. P. Brooks of 431 West Fifth Street.

Vietnam Police And Soldiers In Pitched Battle

By JOHN RODERICK
SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Vietnamese police and a company of national army troops fought an hour pitched battle in the heart of Saigon's crowded Chinese section early today. Four policemen and two soldiers were killed before the troops surrendered to fire from police bazookas and machine guns.

The fray reportedly started when soldiers refused to pay for items they took from sidewalk vendors. It apparently had no direct connection with the long feud between Premier Ngo Dinh Diem and Gen. Nguyen Van Hinh, who was fired from his post as army chief of staff this week.

Gen. Lai Van Sang, national police chief, said that during the shooting, some soldiers displayed banners reading "Long live Ho Chi Minh," the Moscow-trained leader of the North, and "Down with the puppet government."

Sang said police attempted to stop the soldiers from taking goods without paying. The troops retreated behind the walls of the military compound next to a refugee camp, which they were assigned to protect.

A full-scale battle developed as police mobile units blasted holes in the compound walls with bazookas and sprayed the area with machine-gun fire.

After several hours the soldiers raised a white flag over their barracks and marched out, leaving their arms behind them. They were turned over to army leaders for disciplining.

Salon police are controlled by the Binh Xuyen, one of the many religious-military factions in Indo-China. The Binh Xuyen is currently at odds with Premier, but Sang said he was carrying out his job without political bias.

Billy Graham Film Here Dec. 6, 7

"Mr. Texas," called "the world's first Christian western" will be shown in Austin Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. on December 6 and 7. Its showing is under sponsorship of the Pitt County Youth Crusade for Christ.

The film is the first major production of Billy Graham Evangelistic Films, Inc. and features the evangelist and his organization. Leading roles in the full length color picture are Redd Harper and Cindy Walker, both professional actors who are giving their talents to religious service.

Revolving around the Billy Graham crusade in Fort Worth, the scenes also include world champion Mayo Rodeo Riders and the Hardin Simmons Cowboy Band. Original music for the picture was composed by Cindy Walker and Red Harper. Several of the songs from "Mr. Texas" have appeared on records.

During the past two years of showing, the movie has claimed an audience of over 5,000,000 persons; and on its preview in Hollywood Bowl, a throng of 25,000 people jammed into the amphitheater.

"Oiltown, U.S.A.," second Christian western produced by the Billy Graham Evangelistic Films, Inc. was shown here last year by the Ministerial Association and was viewed by over 3,000 persons.

No charge for admission is made for "Mr. Texas," and doors of Austin Auditorium will be opened at 5:30 p.m. on both evenings it will be shown.

Carrying Fight To Legislature

PORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—The Rev. Braxton B. Sawyer's battle with nudists is going to be carried into the next session of the Arkansas Legislature.

The Port Smith radio evangelist, who was tossed out of a nudist convention last summer because he refused to disrobe, said last night that State Rep. Dewey D. Stiles will introduce two anti-nudist bills in the State Legislature.

Bills also will be introduced in the state legislatures in Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and Michigan, Sawyer said in promising a nationwide campaign next year against colonies of nudism.

Eisenhower Keeps Great Popularity

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has retained such immense personal popularity through the first two years of his term he probably will hold this public esteem to the end.

For a man two years in the White House, he has been almost amazingly free of personal attacks or abuse. For one thing, politicians who might like to take a crack at him may have felt it too risky to tackle a national hero.

But Eisenhower himself, although a novice in politics, has followed the one course best calculated to bring him a minimum of abuse: by making no personal attacks.

Perhaps the best example of this is his handling of Sen. McCarthy—he has treated Sen. Knowland of California very carefully too—who has repeatedly stepped on the toes of the administration.

Yet, before his term is up Eisenhower may think it necessary to take a far tougher position on matters affecting his administration. More than his own personal popularity is at stake these next two years.

In 1956 the voters will decide not only whether the Republicans should stay in office but perhaps even the future of the Republican party itself.

The Republicans as a whole cannot claim equal popularity with Eisenhower. There are two examples of that: He ran far in front of the party in 1952; and the Republicans lost control of Congress to the Democrats in last month's elections while Eisenhower's popularity rating was still regarded as high.

The Republicans will not present an enticing spectacle to the voters if between now and 1956 they show themselves split on domestic and foreign affairs, with some of them in steady opposition to Eisenhower or at least to his administration.

That Eisenhower can expect trouble from McCarthy seems a foregone conclusion. Even if he is censured this week, the Wisconsin Republican says, he will continue his search for Communists. His most likely searching ground is the administration, as it was these past two years.

McCarthy has a following, inside and outside Congress and in the Republican party. It may not be a majority following but it could create bad spirits which might ruin the party's chances in 1956.

Knowland, the Republicans' Senate leader and therefore a source from which Eisenhower might ordinarily expect a minimum of difficulty, has often differed with Eisenhower on foreign policy. He shows no signs of changing.

Knowland too will have some support among Republicans, often perhaps from McCarthy's followers. In the end, if the Republicans spend their time and energy in splits and wrangles, Eisenhower may have to depend on the Democrats—who are slated to be in a majority when the new Congress opens in 1955—at least to push through his foreign policy plans.

Last year McCarthy called on Eisenhower to cut off aid to allies who traded with the Communists. Today in an interview he came back to the same theme again.

He suggested the Chinese Communists would be forced to give up the 13 Americans imprisoned as spies if the Allies would stop trading with them. This country, he said, should force the Allies to stop trading by shutting off American aid to them if they didn't.

Knowland wants Eisenhower to blockade the China coast to force release of the prisoners. McCarthy lined up with Knowland by saying he'd back the blockade idea if his own idea of stop-trade-stop-aid didn't work.

Even though Secretary of State Dulles publicly repudiated Knowland's blockade proposal as a war-like act, and Eisenhower backed up Dulles yesterday, Knowland came right back by insisting on blockade. He has taken a stand contrary to the administration's aim and again.

Doctor Sees Spread Of Spiritual Disease

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter
MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—An ominous "spiritual disease" seems to be spreading, a prominent physician declared today, and a change of heart is needed to fight it.

"The physical and mental health of our people is relatively good, but there is evidence of spiritual disease," Dr. Julian P. Price, pediatrician of Florence, S.C., told the American Medical Assn.

He said the signs include "lack of morals in our national government in recent years — the hold which organized vice has upon legislative and social life — dishonesty and corruption in various state and local governments."

"The increase in crime in our teen-age population — the evidence of bribery and unethical conduct in amateur athletics — the effort made by many to cheat on their income tax."

"The mad search for pleasure which causes our people to spend four times as much for alcoholic beverages as they do for religious and welfare activities — the inroads which the doctrine of atheistic communism is making upon the thinking of some of our citizens."

Dr. Price a member of the AMA's Board of Trustees declared the only remedy "lies in a change of heart."

"It is my sincere belief that the greatest need of our country today — and of our profession — is a spiritual rebirth, a return to God and His eternal principles. And the rebirth must come in the heart of the average citizen — and in the average doctor of medicine."

He called upon doctors to remember that they are men and citizens as well as holders of M.D. degrees, that they should be active in community life, particularly in education, in work for boys and girls, in charitable and philanthropic organizations.

"The basic unit of a community is the family — and whether the community is strong or weak, energetic or lazy, moral or immoral, will depend to a large degree upon the type home which its families have built," Dr. Price said.

Has Grasshopper Dinner Recipe

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—Idaho's Agriculture Department has a letter from a California man who wants to know if it's true that Idaho's Indians used to eat grasshoppers, and if so, how they cooked them. Officials of the University of Idaho Extension Service, to whom the letter was passed, said yesterday they don't know the answer, but they're sending A. A. Johnson, of Asusa, Calif., a U. S. Department of Agriculture bulletin which says in part:

"Fried or roasted in nothing but their own oil, with the addition of a little salt grasshoppers are by no means unpleasant eating and have quite a nutty flavor."

New Floor Care Ends Waxing

One of the most difficult jobs in housekeeping is to keep tile and asphalt tile floors waxed and cleaned. Now, thanks to Glaxo, it is no longer necessary to wax and scrub. All you do is apply Glaxo with a brush about twice a year. It maintains a high lustre, non-slip coating that seals out dirt. Glaxo dries in one hour and is water clear. It's cheaper than wax in the long run besides saving a terrific amount of work, plus truly a beautiful floor. Glaxo is available at Belk-Tyler's in the third floor.

'Voice' Unveils Its New Center

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Voice of America, which beams radio programs on both sides of the Iron Curtain, officially unveils today its plush new Washington broadcasting center.

The Voice, operated by the U.S. Information Agency, thus completes a move from New York to Washington one month ahead of schedule.

From its new headquarters in the Health-Education-Welfare Building, near the Capitol, the Voice expects to beam more than 70 million words a year. Its around-the-clock operation features more than 75 daily programs in 38 languages, with more than three fourths going behind the Iron Curtain.

The shift from New York was ordered by Congress when USIA was made independent of the State Department last year.

The ultramodern new Washington studios boast 14 carefully constructed broadcast rooms, a central power section and sundry rooms for editing tape and disc recordings.

Shah Critical Of Gov't Failure

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—The newspaper Keyhan quoted Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi yesterday as criticizing the government for failure to tackle Iran's "shocking" living costs.

The monarch was quoted as saying: "Responsible government authorities have done nothing to reduce the cost of primary needs of the people, such as vegetable oils, meat and charcoal."

Says Morse To Run As Democrat

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep-elect Edith Green (D-Ore.) predicts that Sen. Morse, now listed as an independent, will run for re-election in Oregon in 1956 as a Democrat.

She said at a news conference yesterday "Morse would be welcomed with open arms by Democratic leaders in the state and rank-and-file party members."

Sheriff Says Poker Game Robbery Case Cleared Up

LOUISBURG, N.C. (AP) — Franklin County Sheriff C. Willis Perry says he has cleared up the robbery of a poker game at a cabin near here the night of Nov. 23 with the arrest of two more men.

In addition, six men have been charged with gambling, Perry said. He reported that John Owens, 27, of Henderson and W. T. Forsythe, 33, of Franklin, were arrested yesterday. A third man, Millard Upchurch, 26, of Kittrell, Rt. 1, was arrested Monday.

Perry said Owens and Upchurch had admitted their part in the robbery and implicated Forsythe. The sheriff quoted them as saying Forsythe planned the holdup in which they got $1,100. Officers recovered $172 and the trousers which were taken from the seven players. Owens and Upchurch were charged with armed robbery and Forsythe with aiding and abetting in robbery and gambling.

The sheriff said Owens was the masked gunman who entered the cabin, told the men to hand over their money and trousers and then fired several shots into the ceiling. Upchurch admitted he stood on a fishbox outside the window and fired several shots into the ceiling.

In addition to Forsythe, others charged with gambling were Edwin T. Kemp, identified as owner of the cabin; Howard Baggett, William Duke, H. E. (Boss) Robbins, Max Wilder and J. C. Wrenn, all of Franklin County.

A hearing is scheduled Dec. 14 in Franklin County Court.

Billingsley Calls Off Police; His Daughter Eloped

NEW YORK (AP) — Sherman Billingsley, owner of the Stork Club, has called off a police search for his 18-year-old daughter Barbara after learning she eloped with a New York photographer.

The girl had been missing since Saturday but her father waited until yesterday before asking police to try to find her. Then last night he telephoned police and said, "We know where the girl is. We don't want any more police action."

Barbara telephoned home to confirm the family's suspicion that she had run away to marry John Rogers Christoffers, 28, a commercial photographer who uses the professional name of John Rogers. The couple met three weeks ago at a party.

Christoffers' brother Alfred said they were married Monday at Folkston, Ga., and are honeymooning in Florida. He would not tell where.

Propose School Bond Election

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Mecklenburg County Commissioners will be asked to call an election next month on issuing five million dollars in bonds to finance a new school building program.

The county and Charlotte city school boards voted unanimously last night to recommend the election. Members declared that city and county schools are overcrowded, and predicted the school population will increase steadily in the next few years.

Slight Drop On Burley Market

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Opening sales on Burley tobacco in Tennessee yesterday indicated a drop of more than three cents a pound while volume remained fully as strong as last year.

Unofficial reports from 16 markets showed an average of $53.17 on 5,494,308 pounds which brought farmers $2,921,521. There was no early report available from the big Greenville market, among others.

Last year the leaf brought an average of $56.73 a hundredweight. This was on 5,995,116 pounds which sold for $3,401,230.

Several baskets in several markets sold for top prices of $69 a hundredweight.

At Hartsville, the 6,914-pound crop of Billy Gregory sold for $4,419.46, an average of $63.92.

Several markets topped $56, including Knoxville, Mountain City, Newport, New Tazewell, and Rogersville. Highest reporting market was Newport with $57.54 on 325,312 pounds.

At Knoxville, where court litigation held up sales temporarily, nearly 700,000 pounds was handled among three warehouses.

Unofficial sales by markets included Johnson City 411,514 pounds averaging $54.17 a hundredweight, and Knoxville 688,494 pounds averaging $56.46.

Meteor's Blast Injures Woman

SYLACAUGA, Ala. (AP) — A woman was injured yesterday when an exploding meteor hurled a nine-pound fragment through the roof of her home.

The fragment hit Mrs. Hewlett Hodges, 32, on an arm and hip as she lay on a couch in the living room.

The object was identified as a sulphide meteorite by George Swindle, field representative of the U.S. Geological Survey.

A "bright flash" across the sky followed by explosions was reported about 2 p.m. simultaneously in Atlanta, Newnan and Columbus, Ga., Sylacauga and Birmingham in Alabama and as far away as Greenville, Miss.

importance, the postmaster emphasizes, is that all mail should be correctly and completely addressed. This means including the street name and house number for city addresses and the route and box numbers for rural addresses. He said this is the only way one may be assured of the delivery of all mail.

Return Address

He noted the sender should place his name and return address in the upper left hand corner on all three-cent cards so they may be returned in the event they cannot be delivered. Regular two-cent cards are not returnable.

Rates on the cards are two-cents for unsealed cards without a written message, and three-cents for sealed cards.

Proctor said all Christmas cards and parcels to distant places in excess of 150 miles should be in the mails by December 10. Those going to local addresses should be mailed by December 15.

Parcels should be packed, wrapped and tied securely in order to arrive in good condition, the postmaster pointed out. "Poorly prepared parcels often result in gifts being broken or lost and consequently someone is disappointed on Christmas Day."

Airmail Rates

Airmail is six cents per ounce and is recommended for cards and letters going to distant places. There is also an airmail rate for parcel post which will be given the sender upon inquiry at the local parcel post window.

As the city carriers will be loaded to capacity, the postmaster urges everyone to bring his mail to the post office and not hand it to the carriers on the street or put it in the mail box at home. It is also suggested stamps be purchased well in advance of mailing so as to relieve congestion at the post office windows and to save the individual considerable time waiting in line.

When the Christmas cards are brought to the post office for mailing it is requested they be separated into two bundles, one for local and one for out of town. The local bundle should include both city and rural addresses for Greenville. A string or rubber band should be placed around each bundle before they are handed to the employee who will be stationed at the drop box.

New-Type Report Card For Grammar Graders

Greenville's grammar grade students will carry home a new type of report card Monday.

A new card combining the narrative plus an objective type of report which gives grades on subject matter has been issued to the city grammar grade teachers, Superintendent J.H. Rose announced today.

This card replaces the completely narrative type report, a statement by the teacher on the general progress of the child without any actual grades being given, which has been in use here for 15 years and which the primary grades will still employ, Rose said.

The Superintendent noted it has been felt recently by local teachers and some parents that the completely narrative report did not encourage all the older children to do their best work, as they were never given a definite mark on their activities.

Grammar grades include the fourth through the eighth grades here, excluding the eighth grade in the high school building which receives report cards similar to those issued for the high school students.

"The new report is a continuation of our thinking in the Greenville schools of the need for more and more emphasis on scholarship and harder work," Superintendent Rose stated. However, he pointed out the report will not be exclusively an objective grading system and the teachers will be allowed a great deal of latitude in the use of this report card.

The new card is a record of each child's progress in terms of physical, social and educational growth. In addition to providing space for grades of one, two, three, four and five on academic subjects, the card supplies a place for grades on social habits, including conduct, cooperation, courtesy, dependability, industriousness, initiative, leadership, maturity, personal appearance and self-control.

Space has also been reserved for comments by the teacher and parents.

Superintendent Rose asserted the new card enables the teacher "to give a pretty good picture of the child's activities to the parents. We hope this type of report will spur students who have been inclined to loaf to now work up to their capacity."

The new report card is the result of the work of a committee composed of teachers from all the city elementary schools. In setting up the new type of report the committee considered numerous viewpoints, including the opinions of education teachers from East Carolina College and parents.

Final draft of the card was unanimously approved by the local elementary school teachers.

The report card committee was composed of: Ashley Hudson, Brookgreen School, chairman; Mrs. Sue Perry and Mrs. Margaret Stancill, Brookgreen; Mrs. Ellen Carroll, Mrs. Elizabeth Sayage and Miss Frances Wahl, WashCoates Laboratory School; Mrs. Georgia Franklin and Mrs. Patsy Harris, West Greenville School; and Mrs. Doris Flanagan, Third Street School.
