Minister Climbed In Flaming House To Find Infant Child Rescued From Blaze

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector Staff Writer A ten-month old child was saved from almost certain death yesterday by a Negro minister who happened by a burning house on Boyd Avenue.

Rescuer of the infant was William Clark of 505 Sheppard Street, preacher at English Chapel Free Will Baptist Church. He was on his way to attend services at Good Hope Free Will Baptist Church in Winterville about 11 o'clock yesterday morning when he saw the burning home on Boyd Avenue.

Hearing the cries of the frantic mother of Melvin Ray Jackson that her child was still in the house, the minister crashed through a front window of the house, groped through the smoke-filled room and carried the baby from the house.

After saving the child, Clark rushed both the infant and his mother to Pitt Memorial Hospital where doctors treated the baby for second degree burns.

"I broke the window out and went in and got him," Clark, father of seven children, said. "I heard him crying. There was so much smoke in there I found him by his crying."

Tied With Band The minister stated that when he found the baby he was tied in a chair with a piece of cotton band. He said he broke the band and ran out with the child.

The infant's father, Connie Ray Jackson, Negro, explained that his wife, Marie, often tied the child in a chair so he would not fall out when she was cleaning the house.

Jackson explained he pulled his coat over his head before entering the burning frame house. He declared the ceiling of the living room where the child was found was burning and falling on the baby when he reached him.

"I didn't know the baby was in there until the mother came up and said: 'Somebody save my child,'" the minister said.

Clark has been employed at Pitt Memorial Hospital for several years as night fireman. He also works as a chauffeur during the day in addition to his ministerial duties.

Mrs. Jackson said she was in the front room of the house when the fire broke out. She had placed the baby in a chair and was fixing the bed when the fire was discovered.

The mother ran from the house and, remembering the baby, ran back in. However, she said, the smoke was so thick she could not find the child.

The child's mother stated she ran outside and cried for help. Clark kicked out the front window and entered the burning building to bring the child to safety.

Save Near-by Houses Firemen were hard pressed saving houses next to the dwelling when they arrived at the scene. Houses on either side of the burning home located at 302 Boyd Avenue, were scorched and burning when the fire fighters arrived. The inside of the Jackson home was in flames.

High pressure fog lines were used in fighting the blaze. Heavy duty lines were not needed except to refill the tanks on the two high-pressure trucks at the scene. Fire fighting equipment from both the main fire station and the West End Sub Station answered the alarm.

Firemen believed the blaze started in the back portion of the house and raced through the entire building to gut the interior of the dwelling.

The fire department fought the blaze for almost an hour before bringing it under control. Clark was not injured in his dash in the burning house.

Doctors who attended the child this morning reported his condition as still serious but said he was "doing real well."

Medical authorities stated that the child received blisters on the head and on both arms and both legs. The burns were described as being second degree burns. The attending physician said the baby's clothes saved the child from receiving burns on the trunk of the body. The physician thought the infant's lungs were probably not injured. Often fire victims breathe flames and receive severe injuries to the lungs.

U. S. And Allies Talk Resolution

Confer On How To Push UN Action For Release Of Red China's Prisoners

By A. I. GOLDBERG UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States scheduled another conference with its 15 Korean War allies today to discuss how to push in the U. N. Assembly for release of U. S. airmen and other Allied personnel in Red China's hands.

The session was expected to decide the language of a resolution to be presented to the Assembly later this week, and whether the United States would sponsor it alone or be joined by its allies. Later in the day the 15-nation Assembly Steering Committee, headed by Assembly President Eelco N. Van Kleffens, was expected to vote overwhelmingly to add the prisoner question to the Assembly work program.

The Allies were prepared to withstand demands by Russia for Red China to be invited here for the debates and then vote for the Assembly to take up the question.

An Assembly session Thursday has already been planned. One problem facing the Allies was how strong a condemnation of Red China to seek. Another was how to make the U. N. machinery go to work, since the Chinese Communists rejected diplomatic overtures at Geneva and through British channels.

Over the weekend, a State Department statement indicated the United States is seeking U. N. action on the two American civilian employees of the Army whose sentences were announced along with the 11 airmen. The civilians, John Downey of New Britain, Conn., and Richard Fecteau, of Lynn, Mass., were captured when their plane was shot down in November 1952, but were not listed in the first American call for U. N. action.

The further memorandum presented here Saturday by U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. said prompt and decisive action was needed "to bring about the release of these 11 officers and men (the Air Force group) and all other captured personnel of the U. N. Command still detained." U. S. sources said all the Korean allies approved the memorandum.

Last Aug. 17 the U. N. Command at Pannumind demanded an accounting for 2,840 missing Allied soldiers, including 526 Americans, 50 from other Allied forces and 2,264 South Koreans.

Butler said also he plans to go to Washington Friday to begin preparations for taking over the chairmanship. He said if there are any changes on the National Committee staff, none will be made until after Feb. 1.

Television viewers will see Butler next Sunday, when he will appear on the CBS-TV "Face The Nation" program.

Butler was elected chairman in New Orleans Saturday by the Democratic National Committee. He will take a leave of absence from his South Bend law firm.

Rep. C. W. Bishop (R-Ill.) is chairman of the committee which will hear three days of testimony concerning Republican charges of misuse of absentee ballots, vote buying, coercion, negligence by election officials and other abuses.

Ninth District Republicans allege the irregularities occurred during the past campaign in which incumbent Democrat Hugh G. Alexander of Kankakee defeated Republican William E. Stevens Jr. Alexander received 54,103 votes to 49,555 for Stevens.

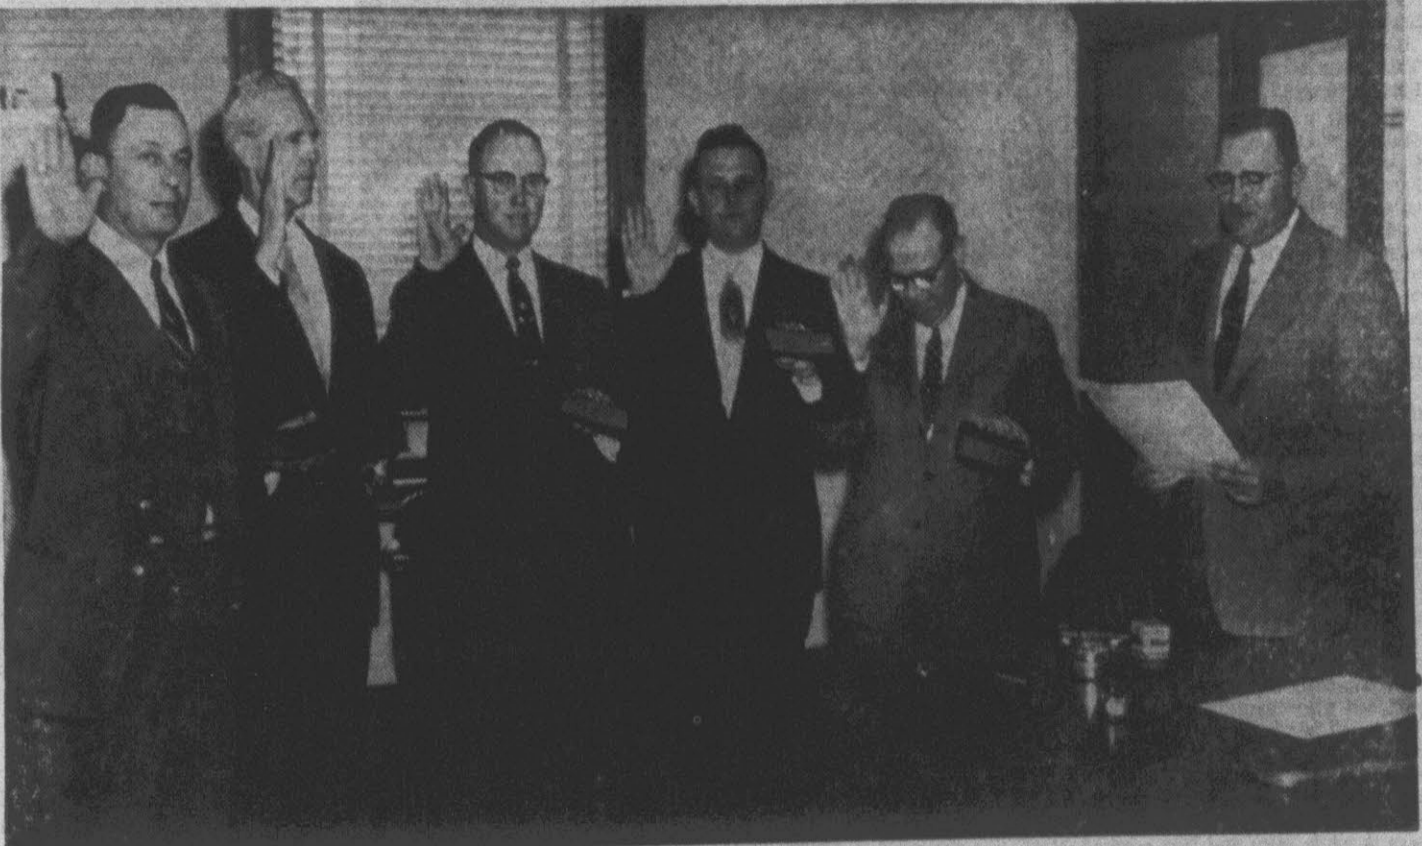

Other committee members taking part in the briefing were Keating (R-N.Y.), Baker (R-Tenn.) and Boggs (D-La.). Rep. Karsten (D-Miss.) is to arrive tomorrow.

The hearing here will begin at 10 a. m. in the Federal Building. Wednesday the hearing will move to Boone and Thursday to Taylorsville.

Conducting the briefing were S. P. Kimmel, chief staff investigator for the committee, and Samuel H. Still of Washington, counsel for the committee. The two have had headquarters here several days doing groundwork for the hearing and subpoenaing witnesses.

Material gathered in their investigation includes poll books, absentee ballots and absentee ballot applications from the nine counties in the district.

W. Jasper Smith Chosen Chairman Of New County Board New Commissioners Seated

NEW COMMISSIONERS TAKE OATH — Pitt County's new Board of Commissioners took their oath of office this morning, administered by D. T. House, Jr. (right) Clerk of Superior Court. The new commissioners (left to right) are: Alton Gardner, J. Vance Perkins, Robert Little Woodrow Wooten, and W. Jasper Smith. Smith was elected chairman of the board and Perkins vice chairman. (Reflector Staff Photo).

W. Jasper Smith of Bethel was elected chairman of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners late this morning shortly after the five new commissioners took their oath of office.

D. T. House, Jr., Superior Court Clerk, administered the oath of office to the entire new board of County Commissioners at 11:35 this morning. The swearing in of the new commissioners marked the first time in at least 30 years in which there were no hold-over members of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners.

After taking the oath of office, Commissioners Smith, J. Vance Perkins of Greenville, Robert Little of Grimesland, Alton Gardner of Chocod and Woodrow Wooten of Falkland set about the business of organizing the board.

Following the election of Smith as chairman of the board for the 1954-55 fiscal year, J. Vance Perkins of Greenville was elected vice chairman of the board. Both Smith and Perkins have served previous terms on the Board of Commissioners, and each has served in the capacity on the board to which he was elected.

County Board of Commissioners, and specified that this year three members of the board were to be elected for four-year terms and two members of the board for two-year terms. Perkins and Little of Grimesland hold the four-year terms of the new board while Smith and Wooten hold two year terms of office.

Prior to their adjournment for lunch, the new Board of Commissioners were in the process of naming the appointive county officers.

Acts On Final Necessary Items Before Turning Over Affairs Retiring Board Concludes Business

Pitt County's retiring commissioners finished their old business this morning and turned the affairs of the county over to the five new commissioners.

The ceremonies this morning marked the first time in 30 years, and perhaps the first time in the history of the county, when a complete new board of County Commissioners took office.

Only three of the five retiring commissioners were on hand for the brief meeting of the old board this morning. Present were Chairman F. F. Hendrix, vice chairman J. T. Dupree, and Commissioner M. Brown Hodges. Commissioner Marvin W. Smith is undergoing treatment in a Chapel Hill hospital, and Commissioner C. C. Harris was reported to be out of the state.

Finished Old Business In winding up its old business, the retiring board authorized the county auditor to cash in $32,000 of matured U. S. government bonds held by the county, of which $10,000 will be reinvested in bonds and the remainder will go into the county funds which owned the bonds.

The board approved for payment the bill presented by Gilbert Peel for his services as chairman of the County Board of Elections, and for expenses which have been paid by him. Peel submitted the board a bill of $750 for his services and a bill for $139.79 for expenses.

The board authorized the county tax supervisor to investigate the valuation placed on a portion of the Moyewood subdivision just west of the city limits which is being used for farm land, and adjust the valuation on the property accordingly. In its final act the board accepted the resignation of Lyman Buck as constable of Grimesland township, but left the matter of appointing his successor to the new board.

36 Years of Service Among the five retiring commissioners are represented a total of more than 36 years of service on the county's Board of Commissioners.

Chairman F. F. Hendrix is completing his fourth year in office today, and ending his third year as chairman of the board. C. C. Harris has served four years on the board; J. T. Dupree has served on the board for six years, and W. Marvin Smith has been a member of the board for eight years. The senior member of the retiring board in terms of years of service is M. Brown Hodges of Grifton who today completed 14 1/2 years of continuous service as a county commissioner. Hodges was appointed to the board in June 1940 to fill an unexpired term after he had been nominated for the office in the May primary of that year.

Commends New Board After the new commissioners took their oath of office shortly after 11:30, retiring chairman Hendrix congratulated the new commissioners and offered them the service of the retiring members of the board if needed.

Hendrix said in his statement this morning: "It has been a very pleasant duty to serve as chairman of the Board of County Commissioners and my association with the other members of the board has been very pleasant. The members of the board have been very cooperative and very sincere in doing their duty as they saw fit.

"We would like to commend the new board to the people of Pitt County and express our confidence that they will do an outstanding job. We offer to the new board any assistance we can give either individually or as a group toward helping the new board in the performance of its duties."

Hendrix also commended all county employes for "their sincere hard work and their cooperation with the retiring board."

Paul Butler And Truman To Talk

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Paul M. Butler, who takes over Jan. 1 as Democratic national chairman, said today he plans to arrange a conference with former President Harry S. Truman before he assumes office.

This apparently would be a move to avert factionalism in the party since there have been reports Truman did not favor Butler as chairman.

Butler said also he plans to go to Washington Friday to begin preparations for taking over the chairmanship. He said if there are any changes on the National Committee staff, none will be made until after Feb. 1.

Television viewers will see Butler next Sunday, when he will appear on the CBS-TV "Face The Nation" program.

San Francisco—S. F. Peterson, vocational agricultural instructor at the Ayden (N.C.) High School, was elected president of the National Vocational Agricultural Teachers Association here on Sunday at the annual convention.

Peterson previously had served the organization as regional vice-president for three years, and was also president of the North Carolina Vocational Agricultural Teachers Association at one time.

Peterson has taught vocational agriculture for 26 years, 20 of which have been at Ayden.

The National Vocational Agricultural Teachers Association is an organization of about 9000 members who teach farm youth throughout the nation.

Probe Hearings Begin Tomorrow

STATESVILLE, N. C. (AP)—Members of the House Campaign Investigating of a Committee were briefed here today prior to the opening tomorrow of hearings on alleged election irregularities in the 9th Congressional District.

Rep. C. W. Bishop (R-Ill.) is chairman of the committee which will hear three days of testimony concerning Republican charges of misuse of absentee ballots, vote buying, coercion, negligence by election officials and other abuses.

HONG KONG (AP)—Squadron Leader Andrew R. (Andy) MacKenzie, a Canadian flier shot down in the Korean War and just freed from imprisonment in Red China, says the Chinese are still holding some American war prisoners in his prison camp.

The 34-year-old air ace reported upon reaching Hong Kong yesterday that the Americans he knows about—all Air Force fliers—had been allowed to write home and it was known in the United States that they were prisoners.

He said they do not include any of the 13 Americans recently sentenced by Peiping on spy charges.

Canadian and U. S. officials did not permit disclosure here of the number or names of the captured men. The location of the camp also was withheld.

In Washington, an Air Force casualty officer said three Americans were known to have been in the camp with MacKenzie. They were Capt. Harold E. Fischer, Swea City, Iowa; Lt. Lyle W. Cameron, Lincoln, Neb.; and Lt. Roland W. Parks, Omaha, Neb.

MacKenzie reached freedom two years to the day after he was shot down near the Yalu River in North Korea while flying as an exchange officer with the U. S. Air Force.

Canadian diplomats had asked about him when they met the Chinese Communist delegation at the Geneva conference last June on Korea and Indochina. The Reds promised at that time to release him.

Appearing thin but otherwise healthy, he arrived in the custody of three Red Chinese guards. He wore a blue, padded Chinese uniform.

Posing briefly for photographers in Hong Kong, MacKenzie said only: "I am glad to be here and am looking forward to spending Christmas with my family."

Mrs. MacKenzie and their four young children live in Montreal. The RCAF announced in Ottawa that it would fly her to Vancouver to meet her husband.

New Dictator Rises In Honduras Vote Tie-Up

TEGUCIGALPA Honduras (AP)—Vice President Julio Lozano took over as dictator of this Central American republic today.

The short, 60-year-old businessman assumed power constitutionally after a boycott by two parties prevented Congress from picking a president from the two top contenders in last October's general elections.

Broadcasting from the presidential manor at midnight, Lozano decreed himself chief of state and named the newly elected Congress as an advisory council. He said it will draft a new constitution.

He prohibited all gatherings, demonstrations, publications and broadcasts which might "tend to disrupt the peace."

Armed troops and police marched through the capital last night and were posted at all strategic sites. No disorders had been reported up to a late hour.

President Juan Manuel Galvez, who was not a candidate for reelection in October, is in Miami, Fla. He left Nov. 16 for medical treatment, leaving Lozano in charge as acting president, and has not announced whether he would return.

The opposition Liberal party—which came within 4,500 votes of the majority needed to get the presidency in the elections—accepted Lozano's authority.

Liberal candidate Ramon Villeda Morales, high man in the presidential election, said his faction

First Traces Of Winter Arrive Here With Sleet And Snow

Greenville and Pitt County got its first taste of winter as traces of sleet and snow followed a heavy rainfall last night and left this section with a coating of white.

The winter storm was accompanied by a 36 degree drop in temperature when the thermometer fell from yesterday's high of 63 degrees to a low of 27 degrees this morning at 8 o'clock.

Local U. S. Weather Observer Mrs. Carl E. Maiden reported that one and three-quarter inches of rain, sleet and snow fell here last night and this morning. The precipitation continued this morning until about 10 o'clock. At noon today light snow began falling once again accompanied by a strong wind from the northeast.

It was the first snow of the year for the Greenville area. Last year the first snow fell on November 6. Only a flurry of snow was recorded at that time and it soon turned into rain, according to the weather observer's records.

Yesterday a year ago, the highest temperature in Greenville was 76 degrees. Lowest that night was 48 and at 8 a. m. the next day it was 56-29 degrees above this morning's temperature at 8 o'clock.

Roads Slick Slick roads brought about by the low temperatures and snow and sleet brought the usual problems to the highway department, street department and law enforcement agencies.

The state highway department reported that roads in the county were slick at 11 o'clock this morning. They said workmen were busy placing sand on bridges, sharp curves and at intersections as a safety measure.

The Greenville street department reported that salt was placed on downtown streets and sidewalks during the morning to keep ice from forming.

Traffic Toll

RALEIGH (AP)—The Motor Vehicles Department's report of highway deaths and injuries for the period from 4 p. m. Friday to 10 a. m. today:

Killed 6 Injured (rural) 110 Killed this year 900 Killed to date last year 1,029 Injured to Sept. 1, 1954 10,931 Injured to Sept. 1, 1953 11,040

Superintendent Leonard Bloxam of the Greenville Utilities Commission said that no trouble had been encountered by utilities linemen so far.

Several Wrecks From the highway patrol, however, came several reports of traffic accidents at least one attributed to heavy rain last night.

Patrolman Bill Whitehurst of Ayden said a car overturned about 4 miles east of Grifton on N.C. 118 yesterday. The new-model auto which had only 563 miles on its speedometer was being operated by Howard Brantton of Virginia who was slightly injured. Whitehurst said his investigation is incomplete.

Patrolman James W. Boykin reported that a car operated by William Fleming, Negro, of Bethel Route 1, was wrecked about 4 p. m. yesterday when the driver lost control in a sandbed on a rural dirt road two miles north of Bethel. Damage amounted to approximately $200 and no charges were placed against the driver.

At 4:15 p. m. yesterday a car driven by James Johnson, Negro, was hit by a second vehicle which left the scene of the accident. The wreck occurred about five miles east of Bethel. Boykin said the driver of the second vehicle had not been apprehended this morning. Damage to Johnson's vehicle amounted to approximately $125.

A car operated by James Cornelius Bradley of 1006 West Vance Street, Wilson, was wrecked east of Bethel during the rain about 9:30 last night. Boykin reported Leonard Noble of Tarboro received a head injury in the accident. Bradley ran off the shoulder of the road and the car overturned. Damage amounted to $500 and no charges were placed.

Corporal C. E. Whitfield of the highway patrol urged motorists to drive carefully and to hold their speed down while the roads are icy.

Elks - Darden Rites Performed

Ceremony On Sunday Takes Place In Baptist Church

The Free Will Baptist Church was the scene Sunday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock of the wedding of Miss Abbie Frances Darden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Darden, Jr., and Mr. Redding Bryant Elks, son of Mrs. Nancy Elks and the late Mr. Walter Elks.

The Rev. R. B. Crawford performed the double-ring ceremony. Music was furnished by Mrs. Mable Ann Worthington, organist, and Mr. Lawrence Tyson, soloist, who sang "Because," "Sweetest Story Ever Told," and as the benediction "The Lord's Prayer."

For the wedding the church was decorated with seven-branched wrought iron candelabra holding lighted white cathedral candles, sprays of Conit and lace fern, with bridal flowers of white gladioli and pom pom chrysanthemums in wrought iron baskets. The pews were marked with bows of white satin ribbon, the family pews being distinguished by garlands of white flowers and fern.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of slipper satin, designed and made by her mother, fashioned with a wide portrait scallop neckline edged with chantilly lace designs sprayed with seed pearls, and lace sleeves ending in wedding points over the hands. The tight fitted bodice dipped to a point in the front and was buttoned up the back with tiny self-covered buttons. It was accented by the bouffant skirt forming into a long sweeping cathedral train, which was brocaded with chantilly lace designs and seed pearls like that at the neck. Her fingertip veil of nylon tulle was arranged from a crown effect lace cap sprayed with pearls.

She wore white satin brocade slippers. A white satin and lace covered prayer book topped with a purple throated white orchid and satin streamers completed her wedding attire.

Maid of honor was Miss Margaret Culbreth of Greenville. She wore a white length dress of Happiness Red Velvet, featuring a strapless be-capped bodice and fashioned with short capped sleeves. Miss Culbreth wore a bandeau of matching red velvet in her hair and matching elbow mitts, and carried a bouquet of peppermint carnations. She wore white satin brocade slippers identical with those of the bride.

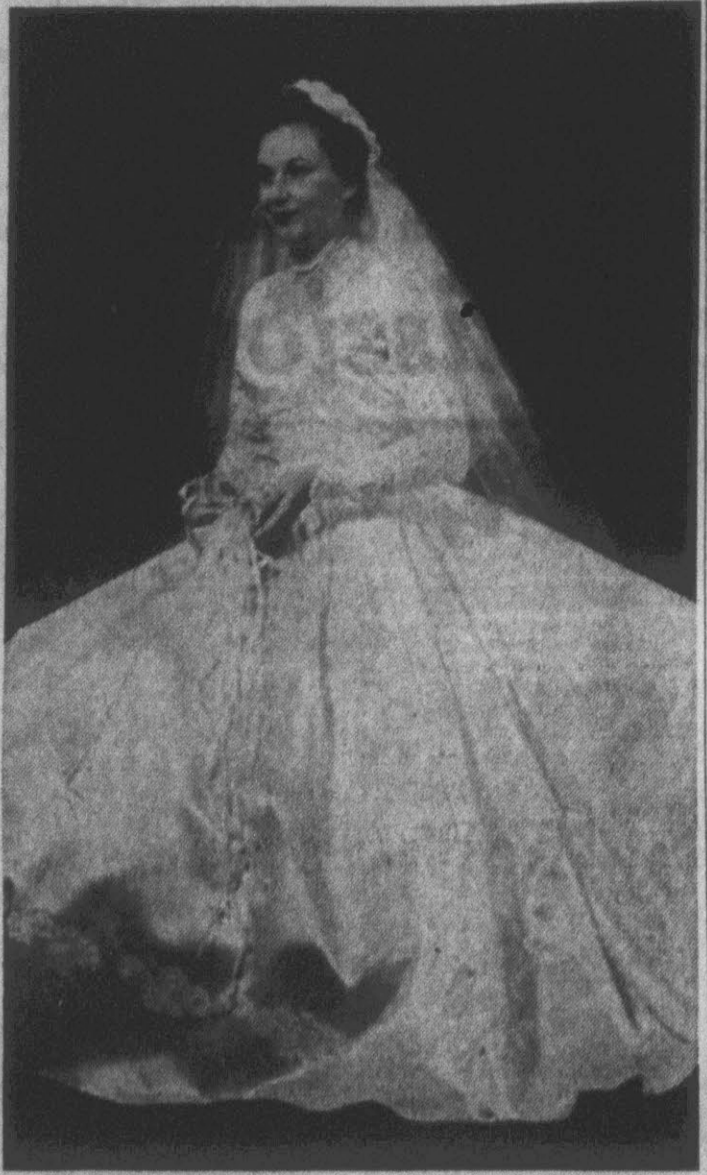

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Rachel Moore, cousin of the bride, and Miss Libby Elks, sister of the groom. Their dresses were identical to that of the maid of honor. They carried bouquets of peppermint carnations.

Rebecca Allgood, niece of the groom, was flower girl. Her dress was of white satin. She carried a satin covered basket of rose petals.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Walter Robert Elks, of Greenville, as best man. His ushers were Wayne Elks, brother Jarvis Allgood, brother-in-law of the groom, J. T. Cox and Rudy Ross, all of Greenville.

George Darden, III, brother of the bride, was junior usher.

The bride's mother wore a blue taffeta dress with three quarter length sleeves, featuring a square neckline sprayed with rhinestones. With this she wore a winter white hat and black accessories and a corsage of red roses. The bridegroom's mother was dressed in a navy blue crepe silk dress piped in rose with which she used navy accessories. A pink rose corsage was pinned at her shoulder.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride wore a cinnamon suit with matching sweater and black accessories, and a white hat. At the shoulder she pinned the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Upon their return the couple will be at home in Greenville.

Mrs. Elks is a graduate of Greenville High School and since that time she has held a position with The Daily Reflector.

Mr. Elks graduated from Grimesland High School and served three years in the United States Coast Guard. He is now a member of the Greenville Police Department.

Immediately following the wedding the bride's parents entertained at a reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Redding Bryant Elks at their home in Hillsdale.

The receiving line was composed of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Darden, Jr., Mrs. Nancy Elks, the bride and groom and Miss Margaret Culbreth, maid of honor.

Presiding at the register was Mrs. Fred. Cargile.

Yuletide Decorations Is Theme For Clio Club Program

Mrs. Jake Hadley graciously entertained members of the Clio Club at her home in College Court on Tuesday afternoon, November 30. Special guests for the occasion were Mrs. Hadley's mother, Mrs. M. J. Sexton, of Zebulon, Mrs. L. E. Turnage and Miss Tabitha de Visconti of Farmville, and Mrs. Wesley Harvey.

Mrs. Luther Moore presided over a short business meeting at which time plans were discussed for the annual Christmas dinner and the club voted to purchase a TB Christmas Seal Bond.

Mrs. Hadley then introduced as speaker for the afternoon, Mrs. L. E. Turnage, who generously shared with the club her ideas for Christmas decorations. She prefaced her talk with these words: "Christmas should be a joyful and festive occasion, but we should remember that it is a celebration of Our Saviour's birth and should not be made into a burdensome and commercialized affair. Let your decorations be in keeping with the true meaning of Christmas, bright and happy but simple enough for the whole family to have a part in making. Make use of all the beautiful native greens and berries that are so near at hand." She then showed many beautiful arrangements for table and mantel decorations and numerous attractive Christmas tree ornaments, and demonstrated how each might be made with very little trouble or expense.

At the conclusion of this delightful program guests were invited to the dining room where from a beautifully appointed table Mrs. Moore poured tea and a variety of party sandwiches, cookies and nuts were served.

Giving Recital

Paul A. Hickfang, bass, faculty member of the East Carolina College department of music, will give a song recital tonight at 8 p.m. in the College Theatre. The public is invited to attend.

Mr. Hickfang joined the college staff last September as an instructor in music. The recital will be his initial public appearance in Greenville. The event will be sponsored by the East Carolina department of music as one of a series of recitals by faculty members scheduled for the present school year.

Dr. Robert Carter of the faculty, pianist, will accompany Mr. Hickfang in a program including operatic arias, lieder, French art songs, and Negro spirituals.

Mr. Hickfang is a Texas who received his music education at the universities of Texas and Michigan. Last year he taught voice at the University of Michigan. At East Carolina he is at present the director of the Varsity Men's Glee Club, an organization of thirty-three students. He will be a soloist in the annual production of the Handel oratorio "The Messiah," to be given at the college Sunday, December 12. In Greenville Mr. Hickfang is director of the choir at the Memorial Baptist Church.

New Zealand was the country reported on as part of this year's international relations program when the Belvoir Home Demonstration Club met Thursday at the home of Mrs. Jesse Bullock.

Mrs. Ola Forrest gave a report on this country, emphasizing especially its educational background and its Christmas customs. The group enjoyed singing Christmas carols accompanied by Mrs. Ola Forrest gave a report. Several Christmas games were also enjoyed, after which the women exchanged gifts.

The hostess served refreshments of punch, a variety of dairy sandwiches, cup cakes designed as Christmas wreaths and Christmas candies.

Christmas decorations prevailed throughout the home for the occasion.

Five Killed In Five-Car Crash

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP)—Five persons were killed and five injured yesterday in a five car collision near Oxford, Mich.

Dead were Harold Magnum, 21, Charles Nelson, 28, Lynn Best 27, Max Smith 30, and Edna Kuck, 31, all of Oxford.

State Police were questioning the five survivors in an effort to determine the cause of the accident, which occurred in a no passing zone.

Wreck Fatal To Honeymooners

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—A young couple driving from their Detroit wedding reception to a honeymoon in Grand Rapids, Mich., died yesterday in the flaming wreckage of their car while helpless witnesses watched.

Marvin R. Forster, 29 of St. Clair Shores, and his bride, Rheta Mae 18, were trapped after their car missed a curve and crashed into a tree.

More than three million Americans are taking special courses for adults provided by public schools.

Little Miss Ada Kelly Smith entertained about 40 of her little friends at a delightful party this afternoon in honor of her birthday. Upon arrival the guests were welcomed by the hostess and invited to the living room where the game of "Planning the Donkey's Tail On" was enjoyed. Master Charles Pierce being the successful contestant was presented a clown. After this an interesting ball game was played. Alton Johnston won the game and was given a "Jack in the Box." Several other games were played after which an ice course was served.

Falkland Teachers Hear Talk On Mental Health

The Falkland teachers held their second professional meeting of the school year on Dec. 2 in the school library. Mrs. Ruth Watson presided over the meeting. The speaker for the afternoon was Miss Janie Johnson, public health nurse of Pitt County.

Miss Johnson's subject was mental health. She said that mental illness is becoming the number one problem of the entire country, costing much in money and human productivity. She brought out the fact that mental illness is a name covering several sicknesses of the mind which affect the way a person thinks, feels, and behaves. She also said that many social problems are closely related to mental health especially delinquency, crime, divorce and alcoholism. Miss Johnson pointed out that much serious mental illness could be prevented by early detection, diagnosis and treatment of minor maladjustments.

A film entitled "Mental Health" was shown following Miss Johnson's talk. This film illustrated very effectively the following points for good mental health: (1) Don't bottle up emotions; (2) feeling right about one's self; (3) feeling right about others; (4) and when a problem shows up face it.

Rose, Conley At Conference

Greenville City School Superintendent J.H. Rose and Pitt County School Superintendent D.H. Conley will attend the annual winter conference of the Division of Superintendents of the NCA and AASA Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in High Point.

The keynote address will be delivered Thursday by Dr. Charles F. Carroll, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Addresses will also be given by Dr. Shirley Cooper, Assistant Executive Secretary of the American Association of School Administrators, Washington, D. C.; and Dr. Arnold Perry, Dean of the School of Education, University of North Carolina.

The program also includes three panel discussions: "Our Curriculum Today," "Our Curriculum for Tomorrow," and "School Building, Planning, Pricing, Constructing and Supervising."

In addition a number of special committees will hold meetings at the conference.

C-of-C Project List Is Sought

Chamber of Commerce members will have an opportunity to suggest projects for the 1955 program of activities and to specify what committees they prefer to serve on during the coming year, Manager Willard T. Kyzer has announced.

Kyzer said a letter was mailed this morning to all Chamber members in which each member is asked for project suggestions and his committee preference. Enclosed with the letter is a list of the Chamber committees and their duties along with a list of the 1954 program activities. Manager Kyzer explained this is to give the members an idea of the various committees, in addition to pointing out the type of activities undertaken during the past year.

The letter is to be returned by December 20 so the information may be compiled and the Chamber may continue with its plans for early organization for next year, Kyzer said.

Stevenson Said Advising Demo Leadership Ike Can Be Defeated

By JACK BELL. NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson today was reported advising party leaders he believes President Eisenhower can be defeated in any 1956 re-election bid if Democrats pound away at what he regards as the unpopularity of the Republican party.

Stevenson's views, as interpreted to those who talked to him this morning at a Democratic rally which ended here Saturday, was that Eisenhower himself is likely to remain for the next two years a measure of the personal popularity which gave the general his sweeping presidential victory over Stevenson in 1952.

But Stevenson evidently believes that Republicans will continue to demonstrate in the next two years what Paul M. Butler, Democratic national chairman-elect, yesterday called the GOP's "incapacity to govern."

Butler put the finger directly on Eisenhower at a news conference, asserting:

"We intend to call to the attention of the American people President Eisenhower's lack of capacity to govern and to unite the people. The responsibility is with the President to see that the nation is united and there is ever-increasing evidence of his lack of capacity to do it."

That language was perhaps a little stronger than Stevenson himself was prepared to use. But the former Illinois governor made it clear he thinks the November elections which gave Democrats control of Congress proved the people don't have nearly as much faith in the GOP as they demonstrated in the past for Eisenhower.

On the basis Stevenson has told friends he believes that other Republicans in time will drag Eisenhower down to their much lower level of popularity and that the President will be vulnerable if he runs again.

Stevenson has kept publicly silent on his own plans. He has indicated he is not in an eager-beaver mood for the nomination. Neither has he shut any doors against the possibility.

In his own mind, Stevenson was represented as believing that despite any present intentions, Eisenhower will be forced by his party to take the GOP nomination in 1956.

Stevenson's announcement at a $100-a-plate dinner here Saturday night that he "cannot participate in party affairs as rigorously as on the usual go accepted generally as indicating only an intention to get off the political speaking circuit for a while.

Butler, elected by 70 of the committee's 105 votes to succeed Stephen A. Mitchell as national chairman, said the Democrats plan no personal attacks on Eisenhower.

"But that does not mean," he said, "that we should refrain from pointed criticism of either actions or lack of action, that we do not consider in the best interests of the country."

'Monster' Again Said Detected

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — The crew of the trawler Rival claimed today they have proved the existence of the legendary Loch Ness monster—or something about as weird—with their echo-sounding equipment.

Their "monster," they reported, is 50 feet long and has approximately eight legs and the silhouette of a gigantic scorpion. The echo sounder charts underwater depths and schools of fish by recording the time a sound takes to echo back to the device. Peter Anderson of the Rival's crew reported the mystery object was first above the bed of the Scottish lake where the monster is reported seen every so often.

Anderson said he was at the ship's wheel, bound for the west coast fishing grounds when "suddenly out of the corner of my eye, I saw the graph needle of the echo sounder start to draw an astounding shape. . . .

"I shouted to the captain and other seven crew members—they were down below having tea—and they came crowding up to the wheelhouse. At once we turned the boat about and tried to track the monster again, but we must have frightened it away."

The graph showed a small-headed thing with an ungainly body and a tail about 18 feet long.

L. A. Southport technical expert of the firm which makes the echo-sounding equipment, said the echo graph "was definitely animal matter of some kind" and "certainly not of some whale or like any other kind of fish that has ever been heard of."

A Good Sign: No Party "Loyalty Oath"

More significant to the Democratic Party than the naming of a national chairman this week-end was the decision that no Democrat should be required to sign a "loyalty oath" to support the national nominees of the party.

The "loyalty oath" which was advocated by northern liberal elements of the party at the 1952 national convention threatened to split the party wide open, and in our opinion went a long way toward depriving the party nominees in 1952 of some Democratic support they normally would have received. The loyalty oath was aimed at delegations from Southern states which had traditionally given the Democratic nominees solid blocs of votes. It caused a great deal of resentment among Southern Democrats, and scars from the wounds still remain in the national party organization.

There is no question in our mind that the loyalty oath issue was an effort on the part of some northern liberal elements of the party to form a basis for reading Southern delegations out of the convention (and the party) and thereby gain uncontested control of party organization. Fortunately for the Democratic party, the scheme did not work in 1952. It is to be hoped that the action taken this week-end in New Orleans will prevent a similar attempt by the northern liberal elements of the party when the 1956 convention rolls around.

The loyalty of a state party organization to the national organization does depend and will continue to depend upon the confidence of the party members in the national platform and the national party leaders. The heterogeneous elements which make up the Democratic party can not be bound together by an oath of loyalty or any other oath. They are bound together in a common purpose because in the party platform and the elected leadership they find a means to a common goal.

We are glad the Democratic leaders have finally and officially come to the conclusion that party loyalty can not be maintained by coercing people into subscribing to oaths. Loyalty to a political party must result from the individual's confidence in the party, its program, and its leaders.

This Rapid Tempo Of Life

In most instances, folks in Pitt County don't put too much stock in what far-away doctors, scientists and others say about the fast past of today's living and what it's doing to people. We're inclined to the attitude that they are talking about other people in other places and don't know too much about life in Pitt County.

We know life is faster than it used to be. We're inclined to admit there is more stress and strain in the lives of local people than in days gone by. But for the most part that's about as far as it goes.

It's a little different matter, however, when the family doctor who knows us tells us.

The Reflector has been interested in the comments of Dr. K. B. Pace, America's Family Doctor of the Year, concerning the pace of modern life and what it is doing to people. Since Dr. Pace has spent the better part of his life as a practicing physician among the people of Pitt, we conclude Dr. Pace has based his opinions upon his observations of Pitt County's

Strength for the Day

Psychologists are constantly telling us that juvenile delinquency largely stems from broken homes. Children with a sense of insecurity are very liable to go berserk. With automobiles and easy access to liquor, a situation of this sort becomes highly dangerous.

What is this security the psychologist and the social worker talk about? It is a firm union of purposes of which a child becomes increasingly conscious as he sees his father and mother sticking by each other through thick and thin, continuing to love each other, not allowing anything to separate them to the slightest degree. A child looks up, as it were, to this union existing between his parents; and down deep in his nature something whispers to him that he need not be afraid. He knows that no matter how tough the world is, he can always come back to a home where two people not only love him but, what is equally important, love each other.

There is something of mysterious potency to that union which takes place when a man and woman cleave to each other and refuse to allow anything to separate them. This is the security upon which a happy home is built, and parents should be alert never to allow anything to undermine this firm foundation.

This is the security upon which happy childhood also is built.

National Whirligig

Handicaps In Past Decisions

WASHINGTON—Three historic and severely criticized decisions by allied leaders—Winston Churchill, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman—handicap the current attempt to rearm the Germans and Japanese against Russia, according to reports from our diplomatic and military agents in those countries. They explain the parliamentary difficulties facing Chancellor Adenauer of Germany and Premier Yoshida of Japan.

Perhaps the major mistake, in view of present-day developments, was the Roosevelt-Churchill demand that the war lords at Berlin and Tokyo be tried and executed or imprisoned as "criminals." This decision was applauded at the moment because of Hitler's barbaric conduct and the Japs' infamous attack on Pearl Harbor. It seemed justified then.

The late Senator Robert A. Taft alone dared to oppose it publicly, although many internationally famous jurists agreed with him. He pointed out that it amounted to changing the rules of baseball while a runner was stealing second, or of football in the middle of a forward pass. He raised even more serious questions, including those which now confront Eisenhower and Churchill.

FORMER ENEMIES' OBJECTIONS—The right of the wrong of a war, Taft declared, would depend, not on a code of international ethics, but upon victory or defeat. Should the United States be vanquished, it would follow that the President, the Secretary of State, the Joint Chiefs of Staff and other Cabinet members would be subject to trial, death and imprisonment.

German and Japanese opponents of remilitarization now raise the same objections advanced by Taft. Recalling the Roosevelt-Churchill precedent, they point out that they stand in greater danger from Russia than do the British and Americans.

They will be sticking their necks out for hanging as a result of the Nuremberg trials and verdicts, in the event of a communist victory.

"UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER"—Another advantage handed to the Russians in the current condition. There is a serious fear in the minds of many educators lest education today is too concerned with teaching facts rather than developing thinking men and women of character and stature who know why as well as how.

A good climate for business and a soundly administered government do not just happen. They are the products of able leadership. And leadership, good or bad, is more closely tied to our religious and educational system than we may like to admit. Good leadership depends on excellence of instruction in church, school, and college. In the last analysis, what we do with our technological advances—whether we shall have peace or war, progress or decline in the art of living in 2004—may well depend on the kind of churches, schools, and colleges you and I want and on the financial support we give them today.

Perhaps we can't do anything about the faster pace of life in which we find ourselves, but at least we should be cognizant of what it is doing to us.

No Easy Job For New Commissioners

There is a tough job ahead of the five new Pitt County Commissioners who took their oaths of office today and assumed responsibility for the operation of the county government. The progress of the county government during their terms of office will depend largely upon the leadership they offer the people of Pitt.

Like other governmental units, Pitt County may expect to face a number of financial problems in the next few years. It is expected to face declining revenues in some phases of its tax collection program, and at the same time face demands for keeping the level of county service on a par with what it is now, and in some cases increasing services.

There is long range planning the county needs to do in several phases of its work and the success of the planning and carrying out necessary program will depend upon the new commissioners.

Another Churchill proposal vetoed by F.D.R. was that the invasion of Hitler's Europe should be launched through the Balkans instead of France. The more experienced British statesman pointed out that his strategy would give the Allies possession of a line from the Adriatic to the North Sea, and thus keep Russia out of Central Europe and the Balkans.

The third unfortunate order was Truman's go-ahead on using the atom bomb against Japan. It was not necessary, for that nation was already defeated, as his Naval advisers tried to tell him. The resulting devastation and Russia's atomic advances make both Allies and neutrals less willing to agree to a showdown with the gangsters in the Kremlin.

Churchill was not responsible for this blunder, as it appears now. In fact, Roosevelt blurted these terms on the spur of the passionate moment, and without prior consultation with the Prime Minister.

FORESIGHTED PRIME MINISTER—Churchill has demonstrated only recently how far more foresighted he was than F.D.R. with respect to Moscow's postwar plans and attitude. Suspecting Stalin, he ordered Field Marshal Montgomery to be ready to rearm the Germans so as to block any Red advance into Western Europe. He did not permit battlefield smoke to blind him.

Business Today

Business Population

By ELMER ROESSNER
There were 21 business firms for every 1,000 persons in this country in 1900; today there are 26 1/2; according to the latest survey of Current Business, the Department of Commerce Magazine.

After a sharp decrease in the number of businesses during the war and equally sharp increases in the years immediately after, the business population has become relatively stable, states Betty C. Churchill, Commerce Department specialist, who prepared the report.

However, there have been shifts by regions. The South-east showed an increase of 2 per cent in the number of firms last year, and the Southwest and Far West showed gains of 1.5 per cent. The other areas showed minor losses, the largest of which, 1 per cent, occurred in the central states.

The number of businesses per 1,000 persons varies considerably from state to state, ranging from 36 in New York to 15 in Mississippi. New York also has the largest number of businesses—544,000—followed by California, with 343,000 Illinois, with 256,000, and New Jersey, with 255,000. Wyoming, with 8,000 and Nevada, with 7,000, have the fewest.

The number of firms in each state is closely related to the amount of income in the state. However, there are some variations because of differences in the average size of the firms, the population density, the proportion of people in cities, natural resources and the degree of industrialization and specialization. The fact that some market areas cross state lines also has an influence.

The greatest variation is in Florida, which has more businesses than might be expected from its income. This is partly due to the fact that there are a large number of vacation businesses in that state—much of the money spent there is listed as income in other states—and partly due to the fact that the last check was made in January, when the number of enterprises there is at a peak.

There were some shifts in the nature of businesses last year. There was a small increase in the number of wholesales, a little more than offset by a decrease in the number of wholesalers a little more than offset by a decrease in retailers. The number of manufacturers decreased by 5,000, with all sections except the Southwest showing in the decline. On the other hand, the number of construction firms increased by 14,000, with all sections having gains except the Northwest.

WHERE FIGURES LEAVE OFF AND HOPE BEGINS
The third step in evaluating a forecast is to note the basis for the estimate. If it is based on "reports from our district men," "our considered opinion," or "from where we stand," don't pay too much attention to it. It may be nothing more than a fervent wish.

If it is based on "a consensus of informed opinion" or "the general sentiment," then the prediction depends on how good a reporter the predictor is. If he gets out and talks to experts and carefully weighs what they have to say and keeps out his own bias, then the outlook may have validity.

The best predictions are those that are based on hard facts, that state what those facts are, and which define their terms. A forecast that is based on an analysis of unfilled orders, committed appropriations and an impartial analysis of long-term trends is likely to have real merit. And if it defines "boom" and "slump" in terms of percentage points, and says what it means by every other term then it is the work of a real economist.

Startling Prospects On Looking Ahead Next 50 Years

By ROGER W. BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — Part of our Fiftieth Anniversary, celebrated recently in Wellesley, Massachusetts, was spent looking ahead fifty years to the year 2004. Dr. E.F.W. Alexanderson, a disciple of Steinmetz and long-time engineer-researcher for General Electric and the Radio Corporation of America, made some startling statements. If he and the other speakers did not hold such very important positions today we would take these statements "with a grain of salt," but under the circumstances they deserve attention. Here's what we predict for fifty years from now.

ON OUR TREMENDOUS MATERIAL PROGRESS
Our offspring will look back on the 1954 era as one of primitive existence. Automation will have taken over completely, not only in the factory, but also in the home and on the farm. For example, Dr. Alexanderson predicts that the business executive will live in the country and commute to work by helicopter over a special-frequency airline channel which will pilot his plane automatically and safely to its destination. The busy business executive won't have to go to the office so often, for he will have private TV circuits between his home and his office and can go into conference or look in on any part of his factory by means of numerous television eyes. He will be able to go to his summer place in the mountains and, again by means of private TV circuits, see and talk with his children back home. By the same means, he can look in on his cattle or into his chicken house. A button pushed at his mountain house will carry an impulse via short wave to the chicken house which will carry an impulse via short wave to the chicken house back on the farm, and the chickens will be fed and the eggs collected, sized, and boxed, automatically.

Machines will be powered by atomic capsules, and by 2004 we will consume as much power in one year as we did in all the years from 1 A. D. to 1954! Homes and working establishments will all be air-conditioned. Electronic ovens will cook our food, in seconds. Foods will be wrapped and sealed in inexpensive plastics and will keep crisp, fresh, and deliciously palatable indefinitely. People will be healthier and happier. They will live to be a hundred with no debilitating effects. This age will be known as the atomic age—an era of unprecedented technological advancement and material prosperity.

ON GOVERNMENT AND BUSINESS
Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, Treasurer of the United States, predicts that one-half of our elective and appointive officials will be women in 2004—half of the House of Representatives, and a third of the Senate. The Secretary of State will be a woman. Through the efforts of women the world over, there will be an effective outlawing of war.

In predicting business trends of the future, considerably more emphasis will be given to sampling, market analysis, and discovering what people think and why they think that way. This kind of analysis will enable us to predict human behavior and business trends far more accurately than is now possible.

ON EDUCATION AND MAN
Both Miss Margaret Clapp, President of Wellesley College, and Dr. Alexanderson are concerned about the kind of civilization our technological advances will leave us with in 2004. Both fear that science, if pursued on a straight materialistic plane, will lead man into some real trouble. There is a serious fear in the minds of many educators lest education today is too concerned with teaching facts rather than developing thinking men and women of character and stature who know why as well as how.

A good climate for business and a soundly administered government do not just happen. They are the products of able leadership. And leadership, good or bad, is more closely tied to our religious and educational system than we may like to admit. Good leadership depends on excellence of instruction in church, school, and college. In the last analysis, what we do with our technological advances—whether we shall have peace or war, progress or decline in the art of living in 2004—may well depend on the kind of churches, schools, and colleges you and I want and on the financial support we give them today.

national trend of improved business conditions throughout the country during the past month or so and prospective continued improvement. Commenting on the revenue report Governor Hodges said he anticipated better business during the early part of 1955 than prevailed in early 1954 and added that "apparently the Democratic victory in the November elections did not cause any great devastation throughout the country."

A net decrease in highway revenue for November and a very small increase for the five months of the fiscal year, coupled with the conceded necessity for greater spending on the primary highways, would seem to preclude possibility of further diversion of highway revenue to general fund or non-highway purposes.

Small increases in November sales tax receipts, both the general sales and the beverage brackets, when compared with decreases in the five months period as compared with last year, would seem to indicate a change in trends sufficient to justify the optimism voiced by Governor Hodges and Revenue Commissioner Eugene Shaw.

There is still no probability that increased receipts on existing schedules will provide enough money to provide the State services demanded by the people without additional money from new tax sources. There is reason to believe the deficit may be less than seemed likely a few weeks ago.

TRAINING — The Institute of Government at the University of Chapel Hill conducts numerous training courses for highway patrolmen, city policemen, county and municipal officials in varied fields of activity. Cumulative evidence is that in addition to these conducted training programs, the Institute itself is recognized as an efficient training school for public servants.

When Governor Hodges announced the selection of Paul Johnston to be his administrative aide he said he had not known the young man until a few days ago, except by name as an assistant director of the Institute of Government. He had asked Director Albert Coates to recommend somebody who would reasonably fit the specifications the Governor had set out. Subsequently he discovered that Paul Johnston is from Johnston county, is married and lives in Chapel Hill—but even after announcing the selection Governor Hodges confessed he did not know whether Johnston is a Democrat or a Republican. (With a wide smile he suggested that "if he ain't a Democrat now, he will be in a short while.")

Not long before Governor Hodges raided the Institute staff for an administrative aide, Senator Kerr Scott had drafted William H. Cochrane, also an assistant director, to be his secretary in Washington. And it is no secret that many people feel a lot more confident about prospective activities in the offices of the new Governor and the new Senator because of the presence of these young men trained by the Institute of Government. They have an objective and impersonal non-partisan approach to questions and policies which can be very helpful to their chiefs in making important decisions, even though it is not expected that the chiefs' decision will be entirely non-partisan or impersonal.

FULL STAFFS — In that connection it is interesting to note that for the first time the offices of the two United States Senators from North Carolina and the Governor are all fully staffed to the limit of available appropriations.

Governor Umstead did not employ the extra aide authorized by

The Pajama Game Has Its Woes

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Guess what's the latest thing in men's pajamas.

Well, sir, it's the ladies. "Eighty-six per cent of the pajamas sold today are bought by women," said M.J. Lovell, director of the Men's Pajama Institute.

The 125-million-dollar-a-year industry, now booming again, will market 30 million pairs of men's pajamas by the end of 1954, double the number of only five years ago.

"Can't figure out how many women buy pajamas for themselves," remarked Lovell. "Many wives have got into the habit of rolling up the cuffs and sleeves of their husband's pajamas and wearing them."

"A lot of single girls now buy small-sized men's pajamas for their own use, too. Only reason we can find is that they feel more comfortable—roomier in the seat and chest."

Be that as it may, Lovell is annoyed that an estimated 58 million American men still buy only half a pair of pajamas a year, although he contends that in dollar volume sleepwear has replaced neckties as the most popular Christmas gift.

The pajama industry has had more wrinkles—no pun intended—in its sales charts than the silhouette of a roller coaster.

An ancient war launched pajamas, but modern wars have cramped their popularity. Hollywood has both helped and hurt them.

No one can be sure just who invented pajamas, as the Russians have failed as yet to stake out their claim in this field. But they first achieved fame as a military uniform. About 100 A.D. Emperor Wau-Tie of China built up a cavalry brigade to stop the raids of mountain nomads. His cavalrymen found the draped garments of that day a nuisance in the saddle, and developed the pajama trouser so they could ride more easily.

"Pajamas became part of the clothing issue of the emperor's horsemen," said Lovell wryly, "and if they had been part of the government issue to 14 million American servicemen in the last world war our troubles would be over today."

But the war—plus the bragging of later Hollywood stars (actresses as well as actors) that they preferred sleeping in their birthday suits—cut pajama sales steeply.

"The idea got around that real he-men always slept raw," said Lovell sternly. "That's silly. All the U.S. athletes who will participate in the Pan-American games in Mexico City next spring will wear pajamas. Our athletes will also wear lounging pajamas in their quarters at the Olympic games in Australia in 1956."

"I also deny these stories that many Hollywood actresses sleep raw. I'd like to see some concrete proof. I'd like to investigate that rumor myself."

Who wouldn't, even if the job required late hours?

The pajama industry now is stressing the all-around livability of pajamas for lounging, beachwear, and TV viewing. It now markets them in 250 styles, patterns and colors (blue is still the favorite of men) suitable for everybody from the family from Grandpa down to babies still in diapers.

"Why, some men now even play golf in pajamas," said Lovell. "and why not?"

"Why not office pajamas, too, so people could be more comfortable on the job? I asked, carried away by his vision of a world relaxed."

"Please," said Lovell nervously. "Let's don't go into that now. One step at a time."

Navy Will Reply To Observations By Montgomery

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Reporter

WASHINGTON — Not since the War of 1812 has a British visit to American shores nettled the United States Navy as much as that of Field Marshal Montgomery.

For nearly a week the Navy has contemplated, with chill and austere silence, the latest public observations by Briton's famous warrior on the future of sea power—particularly aircraft carriers.

Today the Navy apparently decided it could maintain aloofness no longer. It announced that today Asst. Secretary of the Navy James Smith would hold a news conference to answer questions about the role of carrier aviation in the modern navy.

Montgomery, in a recent West Coast address on modern military power and North Atlantic Treaty Organization strategy, mentioned briefly that:

1. The day of the aircraft carrier is drawing to an end.
2. The time will come when control of the sea will be from the air.

These were harsh words for the Navy to hear. Next Saturday at Newport News, Va., the Navy realizes an ambition for which it fought bitterly, the launching of the first super-carrier, the 60,000-ton USS Forrestal.

The start of the supercarrier program began only after several years of sharp argument with the Air Force over the advantages and disadvantages of big carriers vs. long-range heavy bombers like the 536. When Montgomery came to the United States last month, the scuttlebutt in the Navy was that he had come under auspices of the Air Force — a point never denied formally.

Says Socialized Medicine Ahead

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Rep. Walter H. Judd (R-Minn.), a physician himself, says the country will turn to socialized medicine because of the high cost of private medical care, unless American medical associations "police" their member physicians better.

"If the doctors of the nation will cooperate by keeping fees down," he said, "socialized medicine will never be necessary. If they do not, the people will demand government-controlled medicine in an effort to gain more care for more people, even though such care would be mediocre."

BUENA VISTA, Va. (AP) — A retired clergyman and his banker son here have one of the top collections of canes in the country.

Dr. Edward A. Shugart, the minister, began the collection about 50 years ago. His son took it over after World War. It now numbers some 350 canes, most of them collector's items. Included is one made by a slave and used by President Andrew Johnson. The newest is from a cedar used as a Christmas tree at the last reunion of the seven Shugart sons and daughters at their home.

Scouters To Hold Annual Banquet

WILSON — Boy Scout officials of the East Carolina Council will hold their annual Scouters' Recognition banquet in Rocky Mount next Thursday according to a statement released by Penn T. Watson, Wilson, president of the Council.

The featured speaker for the affair will be John B. Turner of Miami. Mr. Turner, an English immigrant to this country in 1923, has made an enviable name for himself in his business as well as in the Scouting picture in the South. He has been a local Council president in Birmingham, Alabama, and in Miami, Florida. In recent years, he has been intimately and actively associated with the Scouting program in VI, comprised of the two Carolinas, Georgia and Florida. Mr. Turner is currently serving as a vice chairman of Region VI.

Ralph H. Mose, Scout Executive of the East Carolina Council, stated that in addition to the challenging opportunity of hearing Mr. Turner, there would be several and varied phases of recognition included in the program. Training certificates, merit awards, Council Compass awards, honorary Order of the Arrow recognition, and Silver Beaver citations will be presented.

Hendrix-Barnhill Company of Greenville has been notified that Sales Manager Norman Worthington of Winterville is one of more than 425 who will be guests of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company on an all-expense tour starting December 13.

Hendrix-Barnhill was one of the winners among Allis-Chalmers agricultural dealers in the United States and Canada in the company's factory tour sales contest which ran from June 1 to November. This is the second contest the company won this year. The winners will assemble in Springfield, Illinois, December 12, and they will be guests of the company at leading hotels. Visitation at the company's three plants will include a display of huge earth-moving machinery built by the company. The tour includes the LaPorte plants, where harvesting machinery will be displayed. Later the dealers representatives will be taken to the LaCrosse, Wisconsin, plant. From there they will go to Milwaukee and be housed at two hotels.

The Greenville farm machinery sales manager and the others will be guests the following day of Allis-Chalmers officials at the home office and the company's main plant to inspect large turbines, generators and other power equipment.

Highway Patrolmen In Speech Class

State highway patrolmen and other members of an East Carolina College Class in extemporaneous speaking get a few tips from their instructor, Dr. Meredith N. Posey (holding manuscript). The patrolmen's incentive in becoming students again was provided by their desire to make more effective public appeals for safety on the highways. Pictured are, left to right: front row, G. B. Berry, T. B. Brown, Dr. Posey, James Boykin, and B. B. Drum; back row, Frank Strawn, J. D. Higgins, and D. E. Perry.

Most North Carolina motorists have an idea that state highway patrolmen are skillful enough at expressing themselves. But six patrolmen in the area around Greenville believe differently and have recently been busy practicing the fine art of speaking.

No doubt they have had plenty of previous experience in speaking decisively and articulately and in getting the undivided attention of their audiences. Certainly their work at East Carolina should prove helpful in furthering the state program of safety on the highways.

Along with a dozen or more business and professional men from Greenville, Farmville, and Wilson they have been taking for the past several weeks a course in extemporaneous speaking taught in the adult education program at East Carolina College. Their objective is to make more effective public appeals for safety on the highways.

The course, begun in the fall quarter, has continued into the winter quarter, with Dr. Meredith N. Posey of the department of English as instructor. His six "pistol packing" pupils, who usually attend class meetings in uniform, and their classmates have done "most satisfactory work," he said recently.

Patrolmen enrolled in the class are T. B. Brown, James Boykin, D. E. Perry, J. S. Hackett, Carl Whitfield, and Reese Welch.

Opportunity to speak before a group and to receive criticism from the instructor and from classmates are among challenging and helpful features of the class. Speeches to inform and to entertain and speeches such as might be delivered in various community drives asking for action have been included among assignments.

Students have worked on enunciation and pronunciation, have heard recordings of their own voices, and have listened to "model" speeches recorded by professionals.

"Some of those enrolled," said Dr. Posey, "are in demand as speakers and during the course have made more talks out of class than in class." Several have recently appeared on television programs.

Unlike many undergraduates, he added, these competent and experienced men have no difficulty about subject matter for their talks, for they "have something to say." A chief difficulty among students has been keeping within the time limit set for each class talk.

"At least," Dr. Posey commented with a smile, "I haven't had to tell the patrolmen to 'speak up' and make themselves heard."

Huey Long Was Always 'For, Something; McCarthy, Against

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — There is a fundamental difference between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and the late Sen. Huey P. Long (D-La.). Long was always for, something, McCarthy has been steadily against something.

Both men, emerging into national prominence at a time when the people of the country were deeply troubled, made careers for themselves by latching onto the cause of the trouble.

Long, arising in the depression, was for sharing the wealth. McCarthy, coming out of obscurity when the country was vastly disturbed by fears of Communist infiltration, has been against communism.

Both men had a good-size, although minority, following. At the time he was killed by an assassin's bullet in 1935, Long's following was increasing. There is evidence McCarthy's support has declined before the senate condemned him last week for his conduct.

The contrast raises a question: Can an American politician get a majority following if his only theme is being against something? McCarthy and Long both operated under the handicap of not having a monopoly on their ideas at the time they were proclaiming them and trying to enlarge their following.

Long's cure-all for the country's economic sickness might have brought him more support, in spite of tactics others found offensive, if the masses hadn't seen the Roosevelt administration administering an easier-to-believe remedy with programs for more economic security and work projects, supported by taxes, which were a form of wealth sharing.

If Long had lived to 1936 and run for president his following might not then have been large enough to elect him. But it might have cost President Roosevelt enough votes to let the Republican nominee, Alf M. Landon, win. Postmaster General James Farley later said Long might have had the balance of power.

McCarthy, like Long in the depression days, had a ready audience when he made his first big bid for prominence with his February 1950 speech charging the State Department was infiltrated with Communists. It got instant attention. Piling charge upon charge has been his stock-in-trade ever since.

At the time McCarthy came along the country was bewildered, nervous and suspicious as a result of revelations and charges made in the late 1940s by congressional committees and two self-confessed ex-couriers for government spy rings, Whitaker Chambers and Elizabeth Bentley.

Although McCarthy now calls himself the symbol of anticommunism, he cannot claim he alone has looked for Communists or fought them.

The Truman administration had a loyalty program before McCarthy started. And the Eisenhower administration, with less sensationalism than McCarthy, has continued hunting Communists with a program of its own. Congressional committees poured reds during both administrations.

Just as Long's following might have caused trouble for Roosevelt in 1936, McCarthy's following, if he can hold on to it, may cause trouble for the Eisenhower wing of the Republican party in the 1956 elections.

McCarthy, disclaiming any presidential ambitions of his own, says he will continue searching for Communists in the government. This can hardly mean less than a Republican family fight, as it did this year.

But McCarthy's power in the Republican party depends upon the following he can hold. And unless he produces more results than he has in the first two years of the Republican administration, his concentration on the same theme and no other — anticommunism — may bore even his followers.

His stock no doubt would go up if he uncovered some Communist sensation—like an hitherto undiscovered spy ring—or if he shifted to some other program by being FOR something that attracted a mass following.

U.S. Determined Build Up Army For Viet Nam

By JOHN RODERICK

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Events have strengthened U. S. determination to help form a small but efficient national army which can maintain order in non-Communist South Viet Nam.

Last week's battle between a company of army troops and the police, virtually in the center of this capital, accentuated a worsening situation.

Five months after the end of the eight-year Indochina war these elements are implanted in the country, each a law unto itself:

1. The national army of some 200,000 troops.
2. The national surete, nominally responsible for law and order.
3. The Cao Dai army of about 20,000 men controlling two million Vietnamese in an area west of Saigon.
4. The Hoa Hao religious army of 15,000 which holds sway over a million persons southwest of Saigon.
5. The Binh Xuyen society, which controls the legal gambling dens and prostitution houses of Saigon and Cap St. Jacques on the coast.

The chief of the national surete is Lai Van Sang, one of the leaders of the Binh Xuyen.

Of these diverse groups the Cao Dai, a religion which claims to embody the best features of all the world's beliefs, is the most important. Excellently organized and well trained, its army rules much of Southern Viet Nam.

Because of the weakness of the national army the government is unable to control any of these groups or the populations under them. Although the Cao Dai and Hoa Hao are participating in the government clashes in which lives are lost occur between them and the army at intervals.

The American aim, in cooperation with the French and the government of Premier Ngo Dinh Diem, is believed to be the formation of an army smaller than the one now on paper, making it one of quality rather than quantity. The United States is anxious that it be loyal to the Diem government. Conversations aimed at getting American participation in training the army are making progress and a compromise plan is expected to be adopted soon.

The recent removal of the rebellious chief of staff, Gen. Nguyen Van Hinh, has cleared the way for the Premier to exert his influence not only on the army but in the country. Diem is listening to the army's problems calling on it to help in the work of reconstruction and promising to take steps to alleviate economic and political troubles.

One of his biggest jobs will be to eliminate the influence of the Communists in regions they occupied for nearly eight years. To do so he will have to shake up local as well as district and county organizations, putting loyal nationalists into positions of authority in cooperation with the army.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

Enid was sitting on the steps of her porch when a car drove up. Her mother had gone to Malone. "I prefer to go alone," she had told Enid. Aunt Jennie and Cindy were in their separate parts of the house. The car was a convertible of foreign make, pale green color with a cream-colored top. A young woman got out of it as smart in her appearance as was the car. Enid did not recognize her as one of her mother's friends—probably she had found herself on a wrong road and had stopped to ask directions. Enid went out to speak to her.

But closer, she stopped short, frozen in alarm. The lovely face, the dark-lashed, slightly-slanted green eyes, the curling lips—it was the face Gary had painted and then destroyed.

"Is this the Trevett farm?" The voice was cool, sweet.

"Yes," said Enid.

"I came to see Gary Norbeck. I was told at the post-office that he lived somewhere on the place. If you'll tell me how I can find him?" Enid said, "I don't think he'll want to see you!"

The young woman said coldly: "I'm Ursula Norbeck, his brother's wife. I'm on my way to join some friends on a yacht up in the St. Lawrence—I found I needed to make a little detour to hunt out Gary."

"He doesn't want to see you," repeated Enid.

"You seem to know Gary very well to say that with such positiveness!"

"I do," said Enid.

Ursula's smile was close to a sneer. "That surprises me, remembering Gary's weakness for beauty in women! He must have gone completely rustic!"

A hot color ran up Enid's face. Her eyes went over Ursula's smart silk sports dress to the lovely sandals on Ursula's feet—ballet-type, woven of narrow, embroidered strips of suede, the green of the dress. She thought suddenly, "The creek."

She said: "Go down through the orchard. You'll see a path in the field. Follow that." She turned, walked back to the porch and sat down.

At last Ursula Norbeck reappeared, walking fast toward her car. Enid saw a tear in the skirt of the smart dress.

Ursula said: "You didn't tell me that I had to wade a horrible stream! Well, I didn't! I've ruined my dress, as it is, walking through that brush! And I have to join my friends, looking like this!" She got into the car. "You can tell Gary for me that I was only curiousity that brought me here, nothing more. Tell him I was only curious to see his hideaway!" She backed the car into the road, sped away.

Enid went around the house toward the orchard. "Hi!" called Cindy from the kitchen door. "Who was that who was here?"

"Just someone."

"Where're you going?"

But Enid went on without answering her.

Gary was in the cabin varnishing the canvas he was wanting to give her. He swung around, a broad smile on his face. "Hey, it isn't raining! But come in!"

Enid came through the door, but stopped there.

"We've something for us to celebrate, girl! I bought a car in the village this morning. At least it was a car once. Shall we have some coffee in honor of it?"

Enid shook her head. "I came to tell you—Ursula stopped at the farm."

"Ursula? How did she know I was here?"

"My mother wrote to a friend of hers in Salem. Mrs. Babbitt met Ursula."

"Oh, yes, that letter!" Gary dismissed it with a shrug. "But where's Ursula now?"

"She's gone. I told her where she'd find the path but I didn't tell her about the creek and the stones where we cross it."

Gary interrupted her with a burst of laughter. "You're wonderful girl!"

Enid made a full confession. "I deliberately didn't tell her—I didn't want you to see her! She had on a beautiful pair of sandals—I didn't think . . ."

Now Gary caught her hands, drew her into the room. "Your hunch was perfect! Ursula wouldn't ruin a pair of sandals to see me or anyone!"

"She told me to tell you it was only curiosity that brought her. She was nearby, on her way to the St. Lawrence—it was a chance, she said, to see your hideaway."

Gary laughed again. "And she didn't get to it, thanks to you!"

"Enid, I want you to know—I fell in love with Ursula before she was married to me. Perhaps she was as much as she could be with anyone. I went into the service. While I was gone she married Alec. I came back—she professed to still love me. I told myself Alec had stolen her from me. I didn't know her then. That she'd married him because he had the money. I'm not trying to excuse my self—but I want you to know, Enid, I loved her. You don't need to tell me."

"Another thing—that letter from Salem. It may have intimated that I killed my grandfather. My hand did strike him but it was because he came between me and my brother—God knows I cared too much for him to hurt him!"

"I didn't believe you killed him," said Enid.

Gary bent down, put his cheek against hers. "Why don't we get married? I need you. I need someone with a good head set squarely on her shoulders!"

Enid sprang to her feet. "You're only saying that because I didn't tell Ursula how to get across the creek!"

Gary caught her, swung her around and held her by the elbows. "What if I said I did mean it? That I love you, the girl you are? I never knew one like you before. Will you believe me, now—what I am saying?"

She pulled out of his hold. "I don't know! I'd like to," she added, and then ran out of the door, ran along the path across the creek over the fields.

Jennie heard Hester's outcry through the door closed between them. She went to the door, but it was bolted on Hester's side.

"Hester, what is it? Open the door!"

Hester drew back the bolt, which now she was keeping drawn, swung the door open. She was clutching a newspaper in her hand; her face was white.

"Look!" Hester thrust the paper out to her. "Our brother! Probably it's in every newspaper all over the country!"

"Tommy?" Jennie took the newspaper, saw his picture on the page, his name, "Thomas Todd, alias Richard Cornelius, one of the big gambling syndicate indicted by a midwest grand jury, committed suicide in his hotel room in St. Louis . . ."

"A gambler . . ." moaned Hester.

"Oh, Tommy!" whispered Jennie, tears pushing to her eyes, running down her cheeks.

Hester snatched the paper away from her. "Tommy nothing! He's never been any good! Indicted for

Davie's Pay Held Up Pending His Signature

By WARREN ROGERS JR.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department is holding up the final pay of former career diplomat John Paton Davies Jr., reportedly because he refuses to sign a document he fears may gag him from discussing his firing as a security risk.

Davies, a foreign service officer for half his 46 years, was dismissed Nov. 5 by Secretary of State Dulles. He has about $10,000 coming to him, but under conditions he appears reluctant to accept.

Dulles upheld a unanimous decision by five-member hearing board that Davies showed a "lack of judgment, discretion and reliability." Dulles said there was no finding that Davies was "disloyal in the sense of having any Communist affinity." But he agreed with the board that Davies' continued employment "is not clearly consistent with the interest of the national security."

Davies said he would not contest the secretary's decision. However, he labeled it a "melancholy outcome" after 23 years' service—and eight prior clearances of loyalty-security boards in the Truman administration. He suggested Dulles release "the whole record of my case."

It was learned that Davies' lawyer, Benjamin Shute of New York, was considering whether to press Dulles on this suggestion. The secretary, noting he had not closed the door finally on publication, said last month it seemed against the national interest to release the full record.

Department spokesmen said it was routine for persons leaving sensitive government agencies like the State Department to fill out a form certifying they have no government property or documents in their possession. Also, it was understood, there was some language in the form about promising not to reveal secret information.

Friends of Davies said this was "trial-disgracing us now by suicide! And you shedding tears!" Jennie's tears continued to run.

"Perhaps if we'd been closer to him . . ."

"I was close enough for him to borrow money from me he never paid back. And don't think I am going to any funeral. All I hope is that my friends in Buffalo do not think he's any relation of mine!" Jennie was aware of Enid in the door. Then she thought of Cindy. "We must tell Cindy! The poor, poor child!"

"I'll tell her!" said Hester. "We'll know then . . ."

"No no," protested Jennie. "Mother, no," cried Enid from the door.

But Hester pushed past them, went out through the kitchen to the back yard, Jennie and Enid following her.

Cindy was playing with her cats. She sprang to her feet when Hester appeared, caught up the cats, turned to go into her own door.

"Wait, young lady!" commanded Hester. "I've something to ask you." She held the newspaper out before Cindy. "Look at this. Look well at it. Tell me if it is your father!"

Jennie saw Cindy's eyes go over the picture, the headlines, saw her face whiten, her hands drop the cats, clutch together.

"Is that your father?" repeated Hester.

"No," said Cindy. "No, no, no." She ran away then away from them to the orchard through it.

Public Gets Break In Pricing Trends

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Prices of finished goods and raw materials are caught in a tug-of-war today—with consumers getting a break here and there.

Price weakness in some lines, going counter to the usual upward pull of advancing business activity, is being watched closely by businessmen planning next year's schedules.

Prices cutting by some of the big stores to meet the competition of the discount houses is giving many a Christmas shopper a break. But it's a headache to manufacturers who are trying to maintain a uniform price on their branded products.

Gasoline price wars, a recurring item in some states, is on the official carpet in New Jersey, where 12 major oil companies are accused of violating state laws by offering rebates and discounts. Retail prices of regular gasoline in that state range from 20 to 26 cents a gallon.

Prices on the new automobile models are pretty well scrambled this time. At the manufacturing level, interest centers on recent price weakness in some raw materials—at a time when rising industrial production schedules would seem to pull prices in the opposite direction.

The price of steel scrap, for example, has been taking the low road of late, although steel mills are increasing output and scrap prices usually rise at such a time. Some mills explain they laid in good supplies of scrap last fall. Others report they have been putting more pig iron and less scrap in their mix.

Copper scrap prices have been weak of late too, although the strike-caused shortage in refined copper still continues. But rising costs of labor and of some metals, like zinc, which it uses along with copper, are given by reasons for raising prices on some of its products.

Prices of titanium metal sponge, whose end product is used in the high-speed aircraft manufacturing industry, are being cut by Du Pont. Increased production gets the credit.

Synthetic rubber producers will also be getting the benefit of a price cut in monomer styrene by Dow Chemical and Koppers.

The tug-of-war team pulling at the other end of the price rope includes the rise in industrial production and operation of "fair trade" laws and other business practices. But even more important perhaps are government price supports and stockpiling programs which keep a free market from operating.

Write It Right For College Quiz

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The University of Tennessee decided that college students ought to be able to speak and write English—and that too many of them can't. Now instructors in every class—from agronomy to zoology—will grade their students not only on the subject at hand, but also on their ability to use English.

If two or more of the professors find a student deficient, he'll be required to attend a special, non-credit workshop.

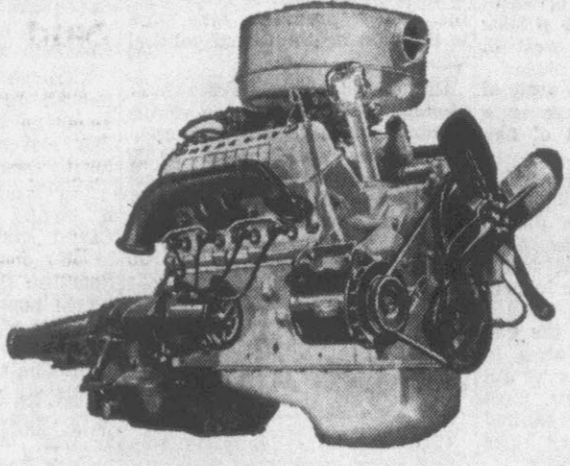

"It is a matter of national concern," says English Prof. Kenneth L. Knickerbocker.

Billy Graham's Movie Begins Showing Tonight

Evangelist Billy Graham, presents Redd Harper and Cindy Walker in "Mr. Texas," the world's first Christian Western movie, tonight at 7:30 in Austin Auditorium, Greenville. This sound-color picture, features Billy Graham and Song Leader Cliff Barrows, supported by Associate Evangelist Grady Wilson, Jerry Bevan, George Beverly Shea, Paul Michelson, and Tedd Smith. "Mr. Texas" is the second major Billy Graham movie to be shown locally. "Oiltown, U.S.A." was shown here by the Ministerial Association last year. Redd Harper and Cindy Walker, stars of both productions, are converts of the Graham crusade held in Los Angeles five years ago. As "Mr. Texas" comes to Greenville, Dr. Graham goes back to Texas to preach in a giant service in El Paso this week. Jerry Bevan, news reporter, with the Graham team, reported yesterday on "The Hour of Decision," weekly coast-to-coast radio broadcast of Billy Graham, that the Evangelist will preach next Sunday in Dallas. Now carried by two major networks, the "Hour of Decision" is heard in Pitt County over WRRF, Washington, and WFIC, Kinston, every Sunday afternoon at 3:30, from ABC, and over WGTC, Greenville, Sunday nights at 10 o'clock from Mutual. A story based on the Forth Worth Crusade, "Mr. Texas" gives one a new-eye-view of one of the great city-wide revival campaigns now being held by Billy Graham. A movie fitted for the whole family, "Mr. Texas" will be shown both tonight and Tuesday night at 7:30 in Austin Auditorium. No admission fee is charged for the film, sponsored here by interdenominational Pitt County Youth Crusade for Christ, with the cooperation of ministers in the various towns and communities of the County. Doors will be opened at 5:30.

Tornadoes Strike In Alabama And Eastern Georgia

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. —Tornadoes dipped suddenly out of leaden skies in eastern Alabama and western Georgia yesterday and killed one person injured at least 48 and wrecked scores of homes. Property losses ran into hundreds of thousands of dollars. Alabama counted 37 homes destroyed and 100 more damaged while Georgia reported 220 badly battered and some demolished.

Grim Alabama National Guard troops, under orders to shoot if necessary, guarded Wellington's shattered homes against looters while Red Cross and Salvation Army teams aided stricken residents. Elsewhere in the two-state area, emergency crews worked to replace utility poles and wires. The off-season tornadoes, spawned when a cold front collided with warm, moist air from the Gulf of Mexico struck along a 50-mile wide path on either side of the Alabama-Georgia line. Four violent twisters swirled across 13 rural communities in Alabama while Manchester and Richland bore the brunt of the storm's in Georgia. The only death reported occurred near Richland. The 8-year-old daughter of the Rev. James Jones was killed when a tornado demolished the Jones residence. Other members of the family escaped with minor injuries. At Wellington a little town 15 miles north of Anniston, and near Opelika, the greatest injury and damage was reported. Twenty-four persons were treated at Anniston Memorial Hospital for storm injuries. Fire broke out at Wellington after the winds passed, finishing the destruction of three homes. Tornadoes also were reported at Liberty City in Macon County and at Ansley 12 miles east of Troy. A hailstorm preceded the Wellington storm. Fourteen persons were treated at a hospital in Richland, but eight later was released. Redwood trees secrete a poison which kills insects on which many birds feed, so birds are rare in redwood forests.

Burglar Knew Hiding Places All Over Home

BALTIMORE —A burglar who knew what he wanted—and where to find it—took more than $800 from hiding places all over Edward Karst's home yesterday. Karst and his wife were out of the house between 4 a.m. and 7 a.m. delivering newspapers. Their 37-year-old daughter said she was asleep on the second floor and heard nothing. The thief took money from:

A basement chair, a basement desk, a first-floor china closet, a second-floor dressing table and a picture frame. Police said the house was not ransacked. Karst said $700 in cash and $40 in checks taken from one hiding place represented the bulk of his Saturday collections from his newspaper route.

Emergency Food And Shelter Is Said Adequate

DENVER —Civil defense officials in the northern Colorado farm belt were satisfied today that their area could provide food and shelter for 300,000 Denver residents for 30 days in case an enemy air attack smashed the city. They based their appraisal on yesterday's mock evacuation of Denver by hundreds of volunteers in a test of how well a rural area could receive a large number of refugees from a major city. Denver residents who took part assembled at Brighton, about 15 miles north of the Colorado capital. Then, in convoys of 15 to 25 family cars they traveled to reception centers in country schools. The exercise, dubbed Operation Welcome, ended when the city folks and their farm hosts sat down to old-fashioned Sunday dinners.

PHONE STOLEN ST. LOUIS — Josephine Schroder had to go to a neighbor's house to report a burglary yesterday. A thief had walked off with her telephone, the only thing missing.

Third Restful Night For Rallying Pontiff

VATICAN CITY —A Vatican source reported today that Pope Pius XII has passed his third fairly restful night in a row since he began rallying from the illness that has threatened his life. The source said the 75-year-old pontiff still appeared to be gaining strength in his battle to surmount the recurrence of gastritis and hiccups with which he suffered a severe collapse last Thursday. As evidence of his improvement, the leader of the world's Roman Catholics swallowed a little broth yesterday—the first food he had taken by mouth in a week—and later broadcast a few words to the people of Rome through a microphone held to his lips as he lay in bed. A Vatican press spokesman announced last night: "The Pope's gradual improvement continues." The Pope's voice was carried directly by loud-speaker to a throng of 50,000 worshipping in St. Peter's Basilica nearby and was broadcast by the Vatican radio. West European networks picked up the broadcast and a recording was made for American listeners. At one point, the voice of the Pope's faded slightly. But mostly he spoke firmly and in cadence, preceding his customary benediction with this brief message: "To our dear children of beloved Rome, whom we feel as close to us in prayer as we are close to the Divine Master in our suffering and in our fulfillment of His ever-good and benign will, we impart, with our heart turned to the Lord and the Immaculate Virgin, our paternal apostolic benediction."

Women In The Church

Women in the Church By MARY FOWLER

"Christian families can be expected to concern themselves with chronic long range needs as well as participating in emergency programs to meet dramatic crises recognizable by people without the Christian's insight into the importance of human welfare," says Mrs. Douglas Horton, church leader and educator. "Any community can be roused to action by thoroughly bad conditions somewhere, for instance in government. We have a right to expect Christian families to be on the alert to do the non-glamorous job of seeing that thoroughly bad conditions never develop."

United Church Women, who believe that "next to the churches the United Nations is the world's best hope for peace," recently gave a luncheon in New York to delegates from around the world to the Ninth General Assembly of the U.N. More than 1,000 church women were in attendance. The principal speakers were Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and U.C.W. national president, Mrs. James D. Wyker of Mount Vernon, Ohio. Among speakers on the role of the U.N. in the world scene were Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, U.S. representative in the U.N.; Mrs. Douglas Horton, former president of Wellesley College; Mrs. James M. Delbey, acting mayor of Cincinnati; Miss Dorothy Kahn, U.N. Social Welfare Division; Miss Eleanor Hinder of the Technical Assistance program; Miss Dorothy Robbins, Foreign Policy Association; Mrs. Clifford Cowin, U.C.W. Christian World Relations Committee; Mrs. Dorothy Lewis, U.N. Information Service; Miss Alicia Banos, of Mexico, of U.N. food and agriculture. Miss Elizabeth Wickenden, consultant on public welfare in New York, is telling the churches and welfare agencies of N.Y. State that their great challenge today is concern for the aged people of their communities. Too large a number of the older people in our society are frustrated and unhappy because of the failure of families, government, and society in general to offer them "opportunities for self-realization," she said. "America's abundant economy and unprecedented advances in medical science," she said, "have permitted more than 13,000,000 of our country-men to live beyond that arbitrary and somewhat mythical gateway to old age that we have made of the sixty-fifth birthday."

When he finished, a great cheer rang through the basilica. The crowd had gathered there for the veneration ceremony held for the Italian Benedictine monk Placido Riccardi, who died in 1915 and who was beatified earlier yesterday. It was the first such ceremony that the Pope had been unable to attend in the nearly 16 years of his pontificate. Vatican sources emphasized that the pontiff still is critically ill, but they were greatly heartened by his progress.

Disney To Portray 'The Human Animal'

By WAYNE OLIVER
 NEW YORK (AP)—Walt Disney is famous for his animal characters but there's one he hasn't done yet and plans to get around to on TV next season—The Human Animal.

"There's nothing funnier than the human animal," says the creator of Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck and other cartoon creatures that have become a part of American folklore.

Here on a trip from Hollywood to receive an award for his new ABC television show, Disney explained that while his new Human Animal character will be funny, the purpose is to teach children and grownups more of the mechanics of their own bodies.

"Here we are in an atomic age and we know least about ourselves," he declared.

Disney isn't idle on the atomic age either. He is working on that story for his TV series. Because "I have to learn about it myself first," he brought along a bundle of texts on the subject.

Despite all that has been written and said on atomic energy, Disney feels it's a subject about which most people, including himself, still don't have a basic understanding. So he will do one or two shows on atomic energy during the season starting next fall to explain it as simply as possible to both adults and youngsters.

"And too many people discount the kids," he said. "They're always reaching and often have a surprising knowledge on various subjects, while adults always are trying to catch up."

Despite the popularity of his TV shows among children, Disney insists he was not aiming at any specific age group but rather at "kids of all ages" on "things that I believe have a basic appeal."

There's one point on which he and the kids see eye to eye: "If you put a lot of kismet stuff in a show, the kids don't like it. I don't like a lot of this kismet stuff in a show myself."

Noted Scientist Foes Of Rearming Germany Plans Return To Medical Search

By RON EVANS
 Canadian Press Staff Writer
 LONDON (AP)—The silver-haired Scot who discovered penicillin has decided to pick up working threads he dropped a quarter of a century ago.

"I want to resume my research on immunity," Sir Alexander Fleming explains. "After penicillin we got sidetracked."

That was in 1929, soon after he became professor at St. Mary's Hospital medical school in London. Now the 74-year-old scientist has quit his post as head of the Wright-Fleming Institute of Microbiology at St. Mary's.

This will free him of administrative duties and the "countless interruptions" they cause.

"There's so much to do—so many problems left. I just want to sit here and work," he said, waving toward his office-laboratory desk.

"Take viruses for instance. We know very little about them. But I'd rather work with bacteria—something I can see."

"There's the problem of holla. Everyone carries the microbe that produces holla, but why do only some persons get them? It's a simple thing but a problem never solved."

Sir Alexander thinks most of the known microbes will be licked with vaccines before 2000 A.D. does that mean the world can look forward to immunity from disease?

"No," he replied. "I think we'll probably find new microbes and the old ones will find some way to dodge the vaccines. They're pretty good at that."

But he doesn't think penicillin will lose its effectiveness—"it's been in active use more than 10 years now and hasn't lost any."

Penicillin was discovered by accident, in a small, green-tiled lab at St. Mary's. A stray mould spore blew on a plate where a bacterial culture was growing. Sir Alexander found that the new substance was dissolving the bacteria and recognized the possibilities of the strange mould. Later other scientists developed and perfected the drug.

Foes Of Rearming Germany Win Majority Of One Vote

BERLIN (AP)—The anti-rearmament Socialists won a one-vote majority in West Berlin's parliament today but promised to govern the Soviet-encircled city in partnership with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democratic Union.

Municipal spokesmen of the two leading parties warmly agreed they must establish a strong new democratic coalition here under the shadow of the Russian army, regardless of their partisan quarrels in West Germany over foreign policy.

The mammoth turnout of 1,554,766 voters for yesterday's election—41.6 per cent of those eligible—gave the Socialists 64 seats, the Christian Democrats 44 and the Free Democrats 19. The lineup for the past four years had been 61 Socialists, 34 Christian Democrats and 32 Free Democrats.

Since the death last year of Socialist Mayor Ernst Reuter, Christian Democrat Walter Schreiber had headed a coalition administration from his party and the Free Democrats.

The Berliners stingily repudiated the Communists and the Nazi-tainted German party. Both extremist parties failed to win a seat. The Reds received only 2.7 per cent of the total vote and the German party 4.8 per cent.

Cries of "police terror" came from Communist propagandists to explain their party's debacle.

West Berlin police reported 34 Red provocateurs arrested in election disturbances yesterday and a total of 851 arrests in the last two weeks of the campaign. Of those briefly jailed, 688 were East Berliners ineligible to vote in the Allied sectors.

The campaign was fought largely on the prevailing West German issue of rearmament vs. speedy Big Four talks on Germany.

The Christian Democrats increased their vote from 24.6 per cent of the 1950 vote to 39 per cent this time. But the Socialists, traditionally dominant in Berlin, wound up with 44 per cent, just under their 44.7 per cent of four years ago.

Parliament's third party, the Adenauer-allied Free Democrats, suffered a drastic fall, from 23 per cent in 1950 to 12.7 per cent.

These were the final returns: Valid votes 1,544,443, Socialists 694,646, Christian Democrats 466,695, Free Democrats 199,848, German party 75,159, Communists 61,223, Refugee party 39,195, Middle Class Economic Assn. 26,868, Free Social Union (right-wing Socialists) 2,374, left-wing Socialists (USPD) 1,536.

Rhee Follower Denounces Party

SEOUL (AP)—President Syngman Rhee's Liberal party was denounced by one of its own members on the National Assembly floor today for having declared as passed the recent constitutional amendment authorizing Rhee to seek office for life.

The action was followed by a vote in which 10 possible defections in the normally solid Liberal voting strength turned up.

Liberal Sohn Kwon Bai said his party resorted to "outrageous procedures" in declaring the Rhee amendment passed after one Assembly official first declared it had failed to pass. Sohn said he was withdrawing from the party.

MOTHBALL FLEET

DALLAS (AP)—The Dallas post office will deliver its load of Christmas mail this year with the help of 75 World War II Army trucks, brought out of "mothballs" at the Red River Arsenal near Texarkana.

U.S. post offices handle about 54 billion items a year, or enough to equal 20 pieces of mail for every person on earth.

Rare Surgical Operation Shown

NEW YORK (AP)—A film of a delicate medical operation was shown to a nationwide television audience last night, with a group of skilled surgeons performing an arterial transplant through a new surgical technique.

The patient, George Chisum, 63-year-old worker of Orange, Tex., was placed in a "deep freeze." Then a section of his aorta (heart artery) was cut out and replaced by a nondiseased artery taken from a donor who had died a few hours before the operation took place.

The actual operation took place some days ago in Methodist Hospital in Houston, Tex.

Plan City To Be 'Energy Capital'

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP)—Two Texas millionaires say they plan to make this oil and uranium-rich western Colorado city the "energy capital" of the nation.

Lucien Cullen and Welborn Foreman of Houston, have announced plans for a 640-acre business development which they estimate will cost $7,225,000.

Included in the center they said, are:

- A six-story, $2,225,000 office building to be mounted on a circular base which will pivot 90 degrees with the movement of the sun.
- A building for offices of mine and oil equipment manufacturers and related mining ventures.
- An area to be set aside for use of research foundations engaged in atomic or oil studies.
- A swank hotel and apartment building.
- A housing development with homes ranging in price from $10,000 up.
- A restaurant and cocktail lounge, a community shopping center, a park and swimming pool, and a nine-hole golf course and country club.

Foreman said financing is being provided by "a syndicate of Texas oilmen."

Saving Bond Sale For Pitt Rises

J. H. Waldrop, U. S. Savings Bonds chairman for Pitt County, today announced that purchases of Series E & H U. S. Savings Bonds totaled $29,796.75 during the month of October. This brings the Savings Bonds total sales in Pitt County for the January-October period to $602,410.75.

A monthly sales report, released by North Carolina Savings Bonds Director, Walter P. Johnson, and State Chairman of the U. S. Savings Bonds Advisory Committee, W. H. Andrews, Jr., showed that for the entire State, Savings Bonds purchases amounted to $3,876,612.50. Total purchases for North Carolina for January-October totaled $39,057,561.00, which is an increase of 4.8 percent over the same period of a year ago.

for North Carolina, continues to set a nine-year record. Purchases during October of the Series E & H Bonds exceed redemptions of both matured and unmatured Series E & H Bonds by the greatest margin since 1944. At the end of October, the cash value of outstanding Series E & H Bonds hit a new high of almost $38 billion.

Fire Fatal To 4 Elderly Women

GERMANTOWN, Md.—Four elderly women died in a fire that broke out early today at a rest home in this town 25 miles northwest of Washington.

Volunteer fire fighters managed to evacuate most of the patients despite subfreezing weather and intermittent snowfall. Fifteen other persons were reported injured.

The Montgomery County Coroner's office listed these persons as dead in the fire at the Maryland Rest Home: Sally Turpin, 96, Mattida Kohler, 84, and Mrs. Yates Duke, 73, all of Washington, and Mrs. Dora Ward, 86, of Rockville, Md.

The fire, restricted to a small section of the building, broke out on a sleeping porch, which had been converted from a solarium and enclosed. Some of the patients were sleeping in the area when the flames first were reported.

An explosion in a small gas heater placed on the sleeping porch apparently set off the fire. The heater was being used to supplement the regular hot water heating facilities.

Eyewitnesses said the volunteer firemen extinguished the flames quickly but were hampered by thick smoke and the bitter cold weather. Bodies of the victims were found covered with snow flakes.

Rescue workers tried artificial respiration and quickly removed the injured to nearby hospitals. The four dead women were taken to the Garner Funeral home in Gaithersburg, Md.

Last Rites Held For Mrs. B. C. Peterson

Mrs. Annie Bland Peterson, 78, wife of B. C. Peterson, died at her home in Vanceboro at 1:45 o'clock Saturday afternoon following a long illness.

Funeral services were conducted at the Vanceboro Methodist Church at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon by the Rev. Alton Hill, Methodist minister of New Bern, assisted by Dr. E. D. Chambers, pastor. Burial was in Epworth Church cemetery near Vanceboro.

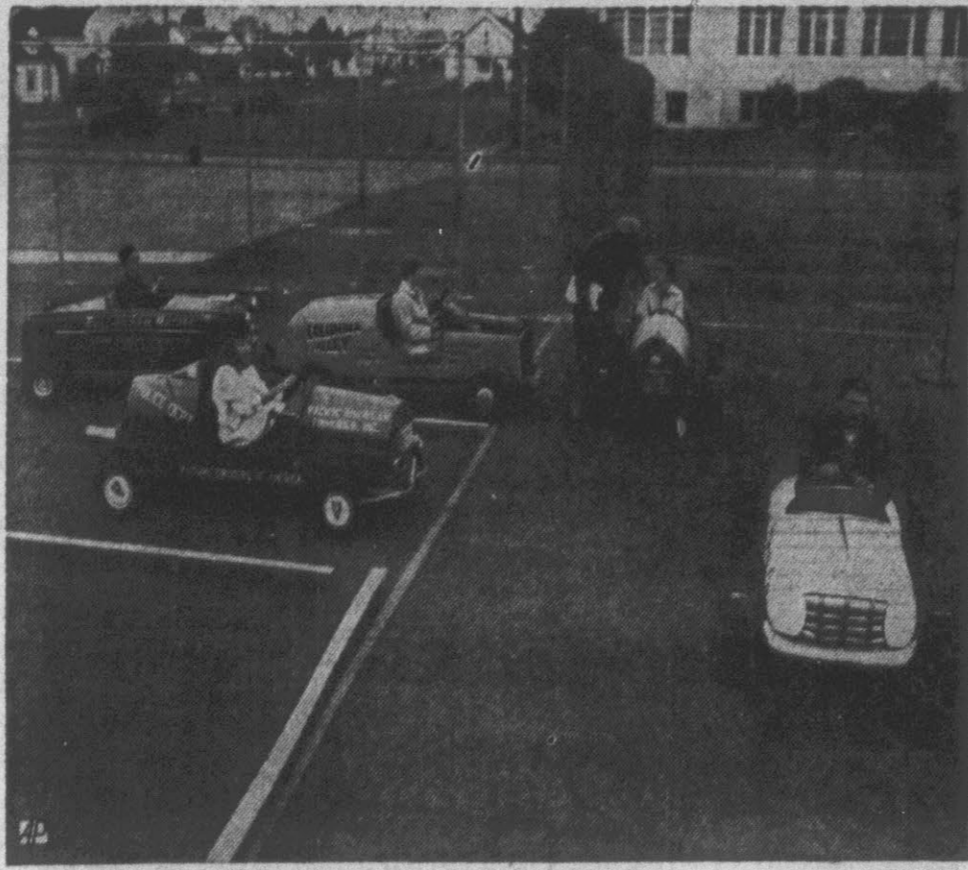

Mrs. Peterson was the daughter of the late Jack C. and Elizabeth Cannon Bland and lived most of her life in Craven County. She had lived in Vanceboro since 1916. She was a member of the Vanceboro Methodist Church.

Surviving are her husband; a daughter, Miss Grace Peterson of the home; a son, Jather L. Peterson of Vanceboro; two grandchildren; two brothers, John W. Bland of Dover, Ga., and Matt R. Bland of Vanceboro; a half-brother, Woodrow Bland of near Vanceboro; and a half-sister, Mrs. Laurie Pare of near Vanceboro.

Charge Assault On Father-In-Law

Police Sunday night arrested Ray Nichols of Greenville and formally charged him with assault on his father-in-law, George H. Harris at the latter's home near Pitt and Allen streets.

Harris was sent to the hospital with various bodily injuries. Nichols has been released on $500 bond pending investigation and ascertaining the extent and seriousness of injuries to Harris.

Seven Felons In Heavy To Light Snows Range Across Carolina

ASHEVILLE (AP)—Seven felons sawed through bars in a cellblock in the Haywood County Prison Camp at Hazelwood last night and fled into the rainy night.

Three were recaptured in Canton an hour later.

B. H. Freeman, supervisor of prisons, declined to release the names of the escaped prisoners or of those who were recaptured. A report has been made to the Prisons Department in Raleigh, he said.

Investigation was continuing today, Freeman said.

The break occurred sometime between 7:30 and 8 p.m. during a heavy rain storm, Freeman said.

The men slipped out without being observed, the supervisor said. The escape was discovered during a routine check.

Freeman said it was uncertain just how long the men had been gone before the break was discovered.

Road blocks were thrown up in Haywood last night but removed today.

Mopped Up The Spilled Liquor

COLUMBIA (AP)—Clarence Henderson, 42, drew a $100 fine in police court today after being caught by detectives in the act of mopping the floor at his place of business.

"The thing was," Detective Harry Snipes explained in court, "the mop bucket that Henderson poured on the floor had been full of moonshine whiskey."

Snipes mopped up enough evidence to get a conviction. The charge was a liquor law violation.

Mercury Rose To Mere '38 Below'

EDMONTON, Alta. (AP)—The weather man here got word today that the temperature at Snag, in the Yukon, got up to 38 below zero yesterday, after a low the night before of 52 below.

But to the 30 odd residents of Snag, that's not bad; the mercury got down to 82 below in February 1947, the lowest ever registered in North America. The lowest on record is 90 below recorded in Siberia in 1892.

H. H. Duncan Returns From Philadelphia

City Clerk H. H. Duncan represented Greenville at the American Municipal Congress in Philadelphia November 28. All municipal Leagues sent delegates to the convention.

After the convention, Mr. Duncan and Mrs. Duncan and his wife's mother, Mrs. J. W. Higgs, spent several days in New York City. They made the trip through the country and returned to Greenville last night.

EXECUTED HONG KONG (AP)—The Independent Chinese Kung Sheung Daily News reported today that 13 Chinese civilians were executed by a firing squad in Canton and 28 others were given prison terms after a people's court convicted them of spying, sabotage or trying to escape to Formosa.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter came with fury upon the Carolina scene today.

Hard winds scattered heavy to light snow across the western and northern areas of North Carolina. Upper South Carolina was spotted with sleet, snow and rain.

The weather man said temperatures tonight would plunge to the season's lowest. Simultaneously, he added, the skies would clear.

Mt. Mitchell, in the Black Mountains of North Carolina, lay beneath eight inches of snow. Two inches of snow lay across the Great Smokies. The snow extended across the northern tier of counties to the coast. Elizabeth City reported one inch of snow after a cold night of sleet and rain.

In South Carolina, rain mixed with sleet or snow fell in upper sections early today but later turned to rain. Dillon reported that no official temperature reading was available because wind blew over the small house containing weather instruments.

Four Ft. Gragg soldiers, passengers on a Queen City bus, were injured early today when the bus struck a truck, overran a sidewalk and struck a building in Fayetteville. The driver said his windshield had fogged over and he was unable to see clearly.

The Highway Patrol reported several minor traffic accidents due to slippery roads in the Elizabeth City section.

The deepening chill moved through Dixie today after its leading edge touched off a series of off-season tornadoes in Alabama and Georgia yesterday.

The great mass of cold air already had fanned over the Gulf of Mexico.

High winds and savage thunderstorms raked many communities, including southwest Atlanta.

The stormy night brought light snows through New England and around the Great Lakes and rains up to a half inch along the Pacific Coast above central California.

Shutdown

County schools were closed all day and city schools a half day today because of the freezing weather.

Due to the icy roads, County Superintendent D. H. Conley ordered the school buses to a standstill. City schools were ordered closed at 12:30 p.m. in order that buses might take children home before late afternoon when the temperature is expected to drop again. City Superintendent J. H. Rose reported.

Both city and county schools will reopen with their regular schedules tomorrow.

Snow Postpones Santa's Arrival

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP)—Santa Claus was to come to town tonight to turn on the lights and usher in the Christmas shopping season.

But two inches of snow fell last night and early today, and the merchants association announced that Santa's visit had been postponed—he's snowbound.

Protest Against Death Sentences

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Twenty-five thousand demonstrators paraded through Damascus today in protest against death sentences imposed on six leaders of the Moslem Brotherhood in Egypt.

A general strike was called here at the request of the Brotherhood, a political-religious organization accused in Cairo of plotting against Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser and his military regime.

Members of the Brotherhood and Communists and Socialists took part in the demonstration.

More than 15,000 Syrian students demonstrated in the streets yesterday for Syrian intervention to prevent execution of the sentences handed down by an Egyptian military court Saturday.

Protests developed also in some other Islamic countries. In Pakistan, the Karachi University Students' Union adopted a resolution denouncing the sentences as "a crime against Islam and humanity."

From Baghdad, Iraq, many religious, government and professional leaders cabled Nasser appeals on behalf of the condemned men.

The Syrian demonstrators carried anti-Egyptian slogans such as "Down with Nasser" and cheered the Brotherhood's supreme guide, Hassan El Hodeily, who has been condemned to life in prison at hard labor.

Told the six were scheduled to die tomorrow, some shouted: "Let them be killed! We shall continue their war against tyranny and for the liberation of the Arab States."

Bender Victory Margin Shrinks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio senatorial victory of Republican Rep. George H. Bender shrank to 2,918 votes in a recount, a compilation of unofficial figures by the secretary of state's office shows.

Sen. Thomas A. Burke (D-Ohio), who petitioned for the recount, gained 3,123 votes in the second tally. The official canvass showed Bender won by 6,041 votes.
