

Hodges To Seek New Tax Deadline

RALEIGH (AP) — If the Legislature gives quick approval to the recommendation of Gov. Hodges and Revenue Commissioner Eugene Shaw, Tar Heels will have until April 15 to file state income tax returns.

Gov. Hodges told his press conference yesterday he and Shaw have agreed to recommend that the March 15 filing date be extended to conform with changes in the federal law.

The change would apply to individuals and partnerships, but not corporations. It would not change quarterly payments, which would still be due June 15, Sept. 15, and Dec. 15.

The governor said he will talk over fiscal problems facing the state with representatives of the state's non-daily newspapers at a special news conference next Monday afternoon. Letters have gone out to some 200 weekly newspaper editors inviting them to the conference.

Hodges urged communities hard hit by Hurricane Hazel to move ahead with contracts for beach repair work and other rehabilitation projects. Applications from Onslow and Brunswick counties for federal storm aid funds were signed by the governor yesterday, and federal Civil Defense authorities have promised the remaining applications will be ready for his signature Monday, Hodges said.

Insurance Commissioner Charles F. Gold is requesting insurance companies to report on progress in settling storm damage claims, Hodges reported. Claims settlement in coastal areas is "necessarily slow," he added.

The governor released the fifth report from the Commission on Reorganization of State Government, dealing with agriculture, and industrial safety activities, and building regulation and inspection.

The report recommended that four minor agricultural agencies, none of them operating at present, be abolished. It suggested that the Board of Farm Crop Seed Improvement be reactivated with changes in membership.

The commission called state building laws "a confused maze." It proposed revamping the State Building Code Council with instructions for it to prepare a code including regulations of all state agencies. The council also would recommend changes in building laws and would serve as an appeals board.

Indemnities

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The U. N. General Assembly's Budgetary Committee voted last night to set up a fund to pay $175,420 in indemnities to 11 Americans discharged from the United Nations last year. The employees of the secretariat were fired after they refused to tell U. S. investigators whether they were Communists.

The committee at the same time threw out a U. S.-backed plan to provide a system of reviewing decisions by the U. N. Administrative Tribunal, which had made the indemnity awards.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.), the U. S. delegate, warned that the future of the U. N. secretariat and the international organization itself would be "jeopardized" if the Assembly went along with the committee's position that there should be no check on the tribunal.

The United States pays a third of the U. N. budget, and the award to the 11 Americans aroused considerable adverse sentiment in Congress.

Other Pitt Countyans elected to council posts were: Council members at large: H. R. Billica, Wyatt Brown, Ralph Hardee, Dr. Howard J. McGinnis, Charles O. Terpenning Jr. and Dr. Robert E. Wilfong.

A brief review of the Boy Scout work in the East Carolina Council for the past year was presented at the meeting by retiring president Watson.

During the ceremonies which recognized scouts from various parts of the Council for outstanding contributions to boys and to the Boy Scout program, Alton Johnston, Erskine Duff and J. D. Messick, all of Greenville, received Council Compass awards.

Demos Threaten To Hold Up FHA Scandals Report

By ROWLAND EVANS JR. WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic opposition threatened today to hold up a Senate Banking Committee report on alleged scandals in Federal Housing Administration operations.

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) said in an interview he was "greatly disturbed" because the report as now written "blankets in entirely too much and does not give an accurate picture of what really happened."

"I don't want to see a condemnation of the whole building industry just because it contains a few bad actors," Sparkman said.

The interim report on an eight-month investigation had been ticked for public release Dec. 15. Sparkman said he is "hopeful" Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.), chairman of the committee, would "not insist on filing the report until the 20th so as to give an opportunity toward working out major differences we have on what the report should say."

Capehart was not in Washington and could not be reached for comment. He has just returned from an official trip to South America.

Crosby's Million Dollar Suit Opens

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The trial of a $1,051,400 auto-injury damage suit against Bing Crosby has started in superior court and he says it's the first time he's played a role of litigant.

The crooner was present yesterday as selection of a jury began. In contrast with his usual casual sports clothes, he wore a conservative gray business suit.

Judge Thomas J. Cunningham, after preliminaries, excused prospective jurors until Monday and today will hear legal arguments on punitive damages sought.

Fireman Frank F. Verdugo, 33; his wife, Lucy, 29; and her brother, Eulalio Perez, 29, brought the suit after a collision between Crosby's sports car and Verdugo's sedan.

The fireman and his passengers were injured in the collision at 5:30 a.m. on Oct. 11 last year. Verdugo alleges Crosby's faculties were impaired "by reason of being without a reasonable amount of sleep for an unreasonably long period of time," asserts the crooner had been drinking, and charges he was driving "with utter disregard for the life and safety of others."

After the accident Crosby told police he had just taken actress Mona Freeman home after they had attended a party at the home of producer William Goetz. He denied accusations of negligence, said the accident was unavoidable, and asserted that Verdugo himself was weary from lack of sleep and had been drinking.

West Germans Balk At Terms Of Saar Treaty

BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germany's upper House of Parliament gave a preliminary vote of approval today to the Paris treaties granting sovereignty to the Bonn government and providing for its rearmament. But the Bundesrat refused to "Europeanize" the Saar. The treaties now go to the Bundestag, the lower house, for action, before coming back to the upper chamber for a final vote.

Both houses are expected to take final action on the pacts in January.

The treaties may face a stiff test in the upper house when they return next month. By then, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's present two-thirds majority is expected to be sharply reduced as a result of the formation of an anti-Adenauer coalition in the big state of Bavaria. Members of the Bundesrat sit as representatives of the nine German states and the governments of the states direct their voting.

Reports 'Radar' Soon For Blind

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dr. Thomas A. Benham, a blind assistant professor of physics at Haverford, says within two years America's blind may be depending on portable radar sets instead of dogs and canes.

Writing in the publication of the American Institute of Physics, Dr. Benham said he and Dr. Clifford M. Wichter, of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, are working on an improved model of such a set seeking to eliminate defects of earlier types.

No Thrills Over Public Proposal

BOYNE CITY, Mich. (AP) — Aviator Carl Demler, 40, proposed Wednesday to Mrs. Evelyn Brandt, a divorcee, by flying across the city lowering a banner that read: "Evelyn, I love you. Marry me, Carl." Yesterday Mrs. Brandt gave her answer: "No."

"Everyone was thrilled but me," she said.

Sparkman refused to divulge the "major differences" or discuss the contents of the report.

But sources in a position to know reported the document would put the committee on record as characterizing the housing "scandals" as "the biggest in history."

The alleged housing irregularities — which the White House first disclosed last April — involved a post-World War II apartment building program under the Truman administration and a home improvement program which still is in operation.

The Banking Committee's investigation centered largely on the apartment building program, now expired, which allegedly yielded builders and project sponsors millions in swollen profits through the device of obtaining government-insured loans bigger than actual costs. The term "windfall" was applied to the profits gained by pocketing the difference between cost and loan.

Parallel investigations have been conducted by the Housing and Home Finance Agency, parent of the FHA, and by the Justice Department. Ouster of a number of FHA officials and a number of prosecutions have resulted.

The housing "scandals" figured as one of the Republicans' talking points in the campaign leading up to the Nov. 2 election.

The Banking Committee report, as now written, reportedly puts the "windfall" total at one billion dollars — a figure Capehart has used repeatedly.

Democrats on the committee say they are not disposed to put an official stamp of approval on any charges they regard as not clearly provable.

Nobel Prizes Are Presented Today

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — King Gustaf Adolf VI presented 1954 Nobel prizes worth about $140,000 to five Americans and two Germans today at traditional ceremonies marked by royal pomp, musty academic rites and solemn music.

The seven shared four prizes. Of the Americans only Ernest Hemingway, this year's winner in literature, failed to show up. He is in Cuba still nursing injuries suffered in African plane crashes.

U. S. Ambassador J. Moors Cabot represented Hemingway. Anders Osterling, secretary of the Swedish Royal Academy of Literature, made the award and called Hemingway "one of the great authors of our time."

The Americans present included a trio recognized for their work in discovering new weapons in the fight against polio. The three, sharing the prize for medicine and physiology were Dr. John F. Enders, 67, of the Harvard Medical School; Dr. Thomas H. Weller, 39, of the Harvard School of Public Health, and Dr. Frederick C. Robbins, 38, their former associate now at Western Reserve Medical School in Cleveland.

The fourth American was Dr. Linus Pauling, 51, California Institute of Technology, this year's winner in chemistry.

Dr. Max Born, 73, and Dr. Walter Bothe, 63 Germans, shared the physics prize. Bothe, hospitalized in West Germany, could not attend. His two daughters, Miss Johanna Bothe and Mrs. Oswald Riedel represented him.

Financing Plans For Turnpike To Be Reconsidered

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Turnpike Authority will review an agreement with investment bankers to determine how to finance a survey to determine the feasibility of a tri-state super toll highway.

At a meeting here yesterday the authority instructed a committee to review the agreement and report before the end of the year.

Charles Jones of Durham, representing a group of investment bankers, said the bankers will provide $32,000 for the survey if the State Highway Commission will gather the data which will be processed and evaluated by an engineering firm.

Since the bankers agreed several years ago to finance a survey a toll road through Piedmont North Carolina, plans for the project have expanded to project the highway through Virginia and West Virginia.

ANNISTON, Ala. (AP) — "A good deal of arsenic" was found in the body of Frank Harrelson, second husband of self-confessed poisoner Mrs. Nannie Doss. Sheriff A. A. Pate said today.

Harrelson, who died in 1945, was one of four husbands whom the chubby, temperamental grandmother admitted killing with rat poison. She is being held in Tulsa, Okla., where she made a detailed confession to officers.

Pate said Ernest Harrelson, a brother of the dead man would swear out a murder warrant during the day.

The bodies of Harrelson, a tiny grandson and a sister of Mrs. Doss, were exhumed at nearby Jacksonville Monday. Pate said autopsy reports probably would be available on the other two bodies tomorrow.

Earlier Alabama Bureau of Investigation Chief Joe Semelley had said that if arsenic was found in the bodies at Jacksonville, three other bodies would be exhumed in Alabama.

He listed them as those of another sister of Mrs. Doss, another grandchild, and a woman — no kin — whose identity was withheld.

Charlie Bragg of Alabama City, first husband and only man who survived a marriage with Mrs. Doss, has asked authorities to look into the deaths of two children by their marriage. They were divorced in the 1930s.

In addition to the husband poisonings admitted by Mrs. Doss, pathologists found arsenic in the body of Mrs. Doss' mother, Mrs. Louise H. Hazel, at Lexington, N. C.

The oft-times widow hotly denied poisoning — any blood relatives. A sister, Mrs. Annie Mae Higgins, of near Springfield, Ala., also said that the two sisters who died were cancer victims.

The two bodies exhumed at Jacksonville besides that of Harrelson were those of Robert Lee Higgins, 2-month-old grandson, and Mrs. Dovie Weaver. The man and baby died in 1945, and Mrs. Weaver in 1950.

The other sister whose death Smelley called suspicious was Mrs. Sula Bartlett, who died in 1953.

Smelley said Mrs. Doss was with all of the Alabama residents who died under suspicious circumstances at the time of their deaths, and had small insurance policies on most of them.

Elections Fraud Hearings Close; Committee To Prepare Report

Findings Will Be Passed Along To Tar Heels; Conflict Of Views On Worth

TAYLORSVILLE, N. C. (AP) — A five-member House Campaign Elections Committee wound up three days of hearings yesterday in North Carolina and made plans to prepare a report on its findings.

The committee, headed by Rep. Bishop (R-Ind.), chairman drove from here to Charlotte and flew to Washington. Bishop said the committee will complete details of its probe there and prepare its report which will be passed along to the people of North Carolina.

As the hearings closed the committee heard evidence of alleged "double voting" in Watauga County and vote buying in Alexander County.

An affidavit was introduced which stated that Charles Reuben Watts, Alexander clerk of court, paid an invalid woman $7 for her absentee vote. Watts denied the charge.

The on-the-scene probe of the Ninth District election began Tuesday in Statesville, moved to Boone Wednesday and on to Taylorsville yesterday. In the congressional race, Rep. Hugh Q. Alexander, Democratic incumbent won over Republican William E. Stevens Jr.

There were conflicting statements from Democrats and Republicans on what the committee had accomplished. A suggestion came from two of the committee's three Republican members that election laws in North Carolina should be overhauled.

Rep. Keating (R-N.Y.) said in a statement in which he was joined by Rep. Baker (R-Tenn.) that the probe turned up evidence of "stuffed ballot boxes," improper handling of absentee ballots, and evidence "money has passed and efforts made to pass money" in vote buying.

The committee's two Democrats, Rep. Boggs of Louisiana and Rep. Karsten of Missouri, issued a joint statement in which they said they opposed holding the hearing because it had not been requested by Stevens or Alexander.

Boggs said he felt before the probe began that "at the most, what was indicated in this case was a violation of the Legislative of North Carolina and not the Congress of the United States."

Keating and Baker said they felt it was "appropriate and proper" for the committee to hold its probe.

Delay Granted In Marketing Suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten firms and 71 individuals charged with monopolistic practices in the Wilson tobacco market have been given an extension of time until Jan. 18 in which to file answer to a Federal Trade Commission complaint.

The commission also has postponed until Feb. 1 a hearing previously set for Jan. 5 in Wilson before Examiner Everett F. Haycraft.

The FTC charged in a complaint issued last month that members of the Wilson Warehouse Assn. through domination of the Wilson Tobacco Board of Trade controlled the buying and selling of tobacco in the market. The Wilson market sold more than 91 million pounds of tobacco in 1953.

Peaceful Day

For the first time in at least 9 months, there were no arrests, or traffic accidents within the city limits of Greenville for an entire 24-hour period, Police Chief S. G. Gibbs reported this morning.

The 24-hour period referred to above was for Thursday, December 9.

If any traffic accidents occurred they were not reported to the city police department.

The last 24-hour period in which there were no arrests and no accidents was on April 7, 1954.

UN Aiming For Key Vote Today

By TOM HOGE UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The U. N. Assembly pushed for a vote today on demands by the United States and its 15 Korean War Allies that Red China yield up 11 American airmen held as spies. Western diplomats predicted at least 45 of the 60 member states would rally behind the call.

Weary delegates prepared to resume debate on the resolution after two meetings yesterday, the second lasting until nearly midnight. Hopeful of clearing up the item before the Assembly goes into its final scheduled week, they planned to remain in session until they reach a ballot on the 16-power resolution condemning imprisonment of the men and calling on Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld to work for their release.

Delegates anticipated the resolution would encounter opposition only from the five-nation Soviet bloc, which has fought it bitterly. A scattering of Arab-Asian states were expected to abstain.

Observers believed the resolution could have mustered 55 favorable votes if it had not included condemnation of Red China. This caused apprehension among Arab-Asian nations with little desire to go on record denouncing Peiping.

Syria reflected this feeling in yesterday's debate. Her chief delegate, Ahmed Shukairi, said that he favored the speedy release of the airmen but saw little point in denouncing the Chinese if the Assembly sincerely wanted to win the Americans freedom.

Russia's Jacob Malik spearheaded the bitter Soviet bloc attack, angrily denouncing the complaint as "shameful." He declared the Assembly had no right to try to intervene in Chinese justice. He hinted the Communists would ignore any action the United Nations might take.

U. S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. accused Malik of making hollow, misleading statements in charging the airmen were spies. He declared the plane was on a legitimate mission and that the men, as uniformed military personnel, should be handed over at once under the terms of the Korean armistice.

Both British Minister of State Anthony Nutting and France's Henri Hoppenot firmly backed Lodge's stand.

Nutting said he pitied Malik for having to come before the Assembly with such a weak case and for being placed in the position of having to read out a "tissue of palpable falsehoods."

The Western Big Three have been pounding hard at Russia's repeated attempts to throw out the case on the contention that only Chinese volunteers took part in the Korean conflict and therefore Peiping is not bound by the armistice. The Western Powers said an official Peiping representative signed the armistice agreement and China's Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En-lai represented the Chinese side at the Geneva conference last June.

Denies Charges Of Eye-Gouging

GREENSBORO (AP) — Stucky Mrs. Mae Atkins, 31, of Greensboro, charged with maiming her 12-year old stepdaughter, says she is innocent.

Mrs. Atkins, who took the stand here yesterday in Guilford Superior Court to declare her innocence, resumed her testimony today.

Mrs. Atkins is charged with deliberately and maliciously damaging the eyesight of Judy Atkins. The girl is completely blind in the right eye and can only distinguish light and darkness with the left eye.

The state has contended that Mrs. Atkins struck Judy and pressed her thumbs into the child's eyes. Mrs. Atkins is the mother of six children. In addition to Judy, she has two other stepchildren.

Mrs. Atkins testified yesterday that Judy came to her last year saying she had been hit with a ball while playing at school. Mrs. Atkins testified that the girl "rubbed her eye till it turned red. She said it 'itched.'"

Her attorney asked Mrs. Atkins if she is "guilty of the various charges made against her. To each question Mrs. Atkins replied "No."

Of her stepchildren Mrs. Atkins testified, "I love those children and I wouldn't want nobody to beat them or mistreat them unmercifully." She said she first knew of the charges against her when she was arrested at her home Feb. 13.

Dr. William Valiott of Duke Hospital said the injury to Judy's right eye was due to a "traumatic cataract." He and Dr. R. C. Keeler of Greensboro said that a cataract could result from pressure on the eye or from a blow.

Our Sixtieth Anniversary

Today The Daily Reflector joins the ranks of sexagenarians of Pitt County. It was sixty years ago today—December 10, 1894—that the first copy of The Daily Reflector came off the press. It was a tiny newspaper by modern standards, being only three columns wide and less than 11 inches long, but it served well the people of Greenville and Pitt County as it has endeavored to do in the six decades which have followed.

School Bus Safety Can't Be Over Emphasized

Too much emphasis can not be placed on the safety of transportation of North Carolina's school children to and from school every day. Although the state's school bus transportation system has maintained a commendable safety record over a period of years, education officials are placing a new emphasis on the safety program for school buses.

In Pitt, as in other counties throughout the state, school principals, teachers and students who drive the school buses will receive a revised group of safety regulations before the Christmas holidays.

Although the safety record of North Carolina's school buses continues to rank among the best in the nation, state and local education officials are seeking to maintain and improve the good record. School bus accidents in Pitt and other counties are few and far between. Nevertheless, school officials realize the importance of exercising every precaution and every method for protecting the lives and well being of the thousands of youngsters who ride buses to and from school every day.

School bus accidents have not become numerous, but officials say the number of accidents have been on the increase in recent years. Thus the new emphasis on the safety program. It should be a source of comfort to parents to know the efforts to which school officials on all levels are going to insure the safety of youngsters who ride school buses.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
WILL THE CHURCH SURVIVE

A church leader was talking some time ago with a Christian Chinese refugee. "Will the church ever rise again in China?" asked the leader.

The Chinese Christian answered very quickly, "Of course the church will rise again. In fact it will never be destroyed, for we have the promise that the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. Most of our church buildings have been torn down. In one city the communists took down a church, stone by stone, filled the foundation, covered the area with soil, and sowed it down to grass. But churches will rise again."

Then after a moment's reflection he continued: "But they will begin in Phoebe's kitchen, in the back room of some man's store, in the cellar of some big home. Groups of people will meet in the fields. The church may go underground, but the church does not thereby go out of existence. It will be pressed closer together. Its spiritual potential will rise. The power of the Spirit will come in to supplement the weakness of the flesh. The church's one foundation has not been destroyed and will not be destroyed."

Nominal Christians scare easily; Communists do not. Nor do real Christians. People of real conviction—either right or wrong—do not easily give up hope.

Unworried Over Wall Street

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—Although the Administration's monetary and financial experts are keeping a bedside vigil on today's peak market in Wall Street, they profess no fear over the current or prospective state of the nation's economy. Due to conditions not present in 1929's stock speculation spree, they see no reason for clamping down by curtailing the supply of money or credit.

In their opinion, the current levels of stock market prices are warranted. They are based, according to this theory, on earnings and well-founded optimism for the future. The public has entered the market, it is true, but they are buying for long-term investment rather than for immediate speculative gain, as in 1929-1929.

With the exception of uranium stocks, they are putting their money into blue chip securities, not "cats and dogs." In fact, there are few sour or wildcat offerings available today.

FURTHER REASONS—The supply-and-demand equation furnishes another explanation for today's steadily rising stock prices. Most corporations are financing their operations and expansion by drawing on their reserves or by borrowing from banks, insurance companies, investment firms, pension funds, etc. Thus, there is a dearth of stock issues coincidental with a huge supply of money seeking a source of investment. This combination of factors creates an upward pressure on prices.

MARGIN REQUIREMENTS UNCHANGED—Since the cause of the market's upward trend is cash rather than credit, Federal Reserve officials have temporarily discarded proposals to raise margin requirements from the current 50 to 60 or 75 per cent. The Reserve has no responsibility or jurisdiction over stock prices. Its job is to prevent the misuse or over-extension of credit.

Nor does Treasury Secretary Humphrey favor a return to his "tight money" policy. Restriction or curtailment of borrowing might have a depressing psychological and pocketbook reaction on "Eisenhower prosperity."

wise takes note of the progress of Greenville and Pitt County.

For thirteen years prior to 1894, The Reflector had served the people of this area as a weekly newspaper. In 1894 the Daily was begun on a 30-day trial period to determine whether Greenville—a town of 2,000 people—could and would support a daily newspaper.

In the 60 years since the experiment began, Greenville and Pitt County have progressed more than the wildest dreamer of the 1890's would have guessed. Day by day The Reflector has recorded the growth of Pitt County for its citizens and for posterity. Then there was only one brick store in the business district of Greenville. Today a frame store building is an oddity. In 1894 Greenville's educational facilities consisted of two or three private schools while today the local educational facilities consist of half a dozen elementary schools, two high schools and East Carolina College which serves more than 2,500 students from all of Eastern Carolina.

When The Reflector became a daily, Greenville had little industry other than agriculture in the surrounding area. Today millions upon millions of dollars are invested in the industries and businesses which make up an important segment of the city.

A complete enumeration of the progress of Greenville and Pitt County would fill a volume. This newspaper through the years has not been satisfied merely to keep pace with the progress of the town and country, but it has endeavored to forge ahead in an effort to stimulate the community to greater achievement.

Through its sixty years as a daily newspaper, it has been the abiding policy of The Reflector to stand firmly for right and truth and to fight against every evil which threatened Pitt County and its people. Never has the newspaper willfully or intentionally wronged any person, and never has it sacrificed principle for personal gain. It has labored constantly to provide the people of this area a better newspaper and has expended its energy in seeking to further advance the community and its people.

On its sixtieth anniversary The Daily Reflector looks upon its own advancement and the advancement of this community with pride and humility. We are grateful to the people of Greenville and Pitt County for their loyal support and we pledge our continued service to the community in the years ahead.

Somebody Told Me

He Misses Daily Plane Flight

Last night I had occasion to have some questions answered by one of Greenville's amateur pilots, Buddy Harrington.

At present Buddy is grounded; Hazel wrecked his plane and he sold it. But he still has the same urge to fly and is looking forward to getting another plane.

Buddy is the Chevrolet dealer in Havelock and used the plane for commuting to and from work. It takes about half an hour to fly from Greenville to Havelock or Cherry Point.

Buddy lives on the corner of Elm and Sixth Streets, so you can see that he's quite a distance from the Greenville airport. Probably about three miles. So to drive from home to the airport takes about 15 minutes considering the slow-down for traffic, half as long as it takes him to fly the remaining 60 miles.

He readily admits that there isn't much time saved in short trips when you consider driving time to and from the airport. At Havelock Buddy has an air strip about two miles from his business.

Even on this short hop there's 15 to 20 minutes each way saved, which Buddy considers a minor factor compared with the break in the monotony of the day's routine and the advantage of not having to dodge the traffic.

"You're in the air and then you're in Greenville. That's how quick it seems," he says.

He misses the plane most when he has to go to Charlotte or points further on business. Driving to Charlotte is a six or seven hour grind through plenty of towns and traffic. To fly takes about an hour and a half or maybe a few minutes over that.

How much of a factor is the weather? When ordinary summer showers are in the air, it's a simple matter to fly around them. But when there's a steady, driving rain Buddy chose to drive.

Learning to fly? Buddy wouldn't admit it, but it wasn't much of a task for him. I was in the boat at Morehead when he learned how to water ski. Both sports take coordination and he has it.

I asked Buddy if the absence from the air hadn't made him lose interest. Not a chance. He's anxious to get back at the stick. Once the flying bug bites, it seems that you're well bit.

And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

FOR PURPOSE OF EVASION (Washington Daily News)

Ever so often in North Carolina and in other states as well a defendant will be brought to trial for his life on a charge that he committed a capital crime.

The selection of a jury to try the defendant is usually a difficult matter under the circumstances. Every juror must express a conviction that he favors capital punishment or death for the defendant if the evidence justifies such a verdict.

And right there many prospective jurors are excused. "I don't believe in capital punishment" is almost a household word if the prospective juror is really opposed to capital punishment or if he is just using that excuse as a reason for not serving on the jury. The court or judge cannot go behind a man's reasoning and say that he is using the excuse to evade jury service in such a serious case. Every man has a right to believe in whatever he wishes. We can try to control thinking, but to date we've never had much success in this country. We're a nation of individuals, and the individual has a special place in our system of democracy.

There are many cases in which we would not favor capital punishment. We've seen men go to their deaths when we felt that they should not have gone. And we've seen men go to prison when we honestly felt that they deserved capital punishment for

Savings In Records

By ELMER ROESSNER
Record management can save from 40 to 60 per cent of the typical company's paper work costs says a new leaflet by the Small Business Administration. The leaflet, "Records Management in Smaller Stores," is the first in a new series of "Small Business Aids," and was prepared by Robert A. Shiff and Arthur Barcan, top officers of the National Records Management Council.

Savings can result from buying fewer pieces of equipment, eliminating much equipment from expensive office space, reducing payrolls for paper work, saving supervisory time and increasing efficiency.

Record management, the leaflet says, consists in controlling the life span of every document from the moment it is created. And control is exercised by the application of common sense.

Application can consist of controlling new records, by not starting any new forms, etc., unless they will be of value; simplifying paper work, eliminating needless forms and streamlining the handling of records, and limiting the amount of correspondence filed.

One step toward the last point is to refuse to file unnecessary letters. Executives rarely file notes on phone calls, yet when the same information comes in by letter, they file it. By regarding letters like phone calls, many can be eliminated.

The authorities suggest dividing correspondence into four files: 1, 30-day file for letters that must be held until action on them is complete; 2, a 12-month file, for correspondence needed for action during the current year; 3, a permanent file, of correspondence setting policy and having other permanent values; and, 4, an indefinite file, in which to keep correspondence on leases, contracts and agreements as long as those basic documents are retained.

Dormant records, they say, should be stored in low-rent space.

The leaflet, which can be obtained free from field offices of the Department of Commerce or the SBA, offers many other suggestions for managing records. While it advises the consolidation of forms, it cautions that this can be carried too far.

It cited the case of a firm that a form for introducing a new employee to his supervisor. Some economy-minded genius had decided to use the back of the form for routine lay-off notices.

U.S. OIL BUYING BUILDS VENEZUELAN PUBLIC WORKS

The Marcos Perez Jimenez Government of Venezuela today is completing the dedication of $555,733.394 in public works completed during the last 12 months. The week-long dedication ceremonies marked the second anniversary of Col. Perez Jimenez's ascension to the Presidency.

Among projects dedicated have been the largest hospital in South America, 63 new schools, new housing for 8,000 families, and a vast amount of street, highway and canal work. The money comes largely from the government's levy on sales of oil to American companies.

Latent Tarzan-Types Fall Flat

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK — Does your office have a winter athlete?

It must have. No season brings out the latent Tarzan in the office nature boys, particularly the suburbanites, more than winter.

Typical of the office winter athletes is Ronald Halfacre, the empire builder. Ronald is a young enthusiast who firmly believes family life in America reached a peak the day he made the down payment on his small home in the suburbs.

This time of year he has an almost continuous verbal duel with "The Oldtimer," a fellow employee who claims he once lived in the suburbs but wouldn't live more than two blocks from a subway station now for a million dollars.

Each morning Ronald comes into the office with his cheeks glowing from the cold. "What's the matter, Halfacre?" asks the Oldtimer. "You look awful flushed. You got a fever?"

"Fever nothing," says Ronald, importantly. "I walked to the station from my house today. Boy, it was brisk. Nothing like fresh air and exercise to pep you up."

He rubs his hands vigorously and brags. "Yep, walked more than a mile. Now I feel like I could whip a barrel of wildcats."

"How do you keep the pump thawed out on your well?" inquires the Oldtimer. "It must be a real problem in this freezing weather."

"What do you mean—the pump on my well?" replies Ronald indignantly. "We don't have a well. We've got hot and cold water in the house, just like everybody else."

"Well," says the Oldtimer, "the suburbs certainly have gone sissified since I lived in 'em. Along about 10:30 a.m., all his fresh air and exercise begins to go to Ronald's head. He dozes at his desk. The Oldtimer first alerting everybody else in the office, then goes up to Ronald, shakes him and says in a loud voice:

"Wake up, Halfacre, it's time to start gathering your energy for lunch."

This annoys Ronald mightily. He is also annoyed because of the Oldtimer's habit of clipping out articles on pneumonia and putting them on his desk. It is a sore point with him that, for all his boasting about the healthful life of the suburbs, he comes down with at least three colds a winter. The Oldtimer never has one; says city life has immunized him.

Very sincerely yours,

Edgar W. Hirschberg

Public Forum

To The Editor:
On Tuesday, December 7, at approximately 5:55 p.m., the city of Greenville was buzzed by a jet airplane. For those who were in Greenville at that time, the experience of being buzzed was a terrifying and harrowing one indeed.

I feel that a public protest should be made to whatever authorities are charged with overseeing the activities of these airplanes. Admittedly their pilots need practice in war maneuvers, but practicing over a thickly populated area seems completely unnecessary and needlessly risky for the inhabitants.

Presumably these are military airplanes. Whether they are Marine, Army or Navy pilots, I feel that the personnel who have been directly responsible for buzzing Greenville—and yesterday was not the first time this has occurred—should be severely reprimanded by their superior officers, and forbidden to fly low over heavily populated areas under pain of the strictest possible punishment, in view of the unnecessary alarm and risk their activities cause to civilians.

Very sincerely yours,
Edgar W. Hirschberg

'Books and Stuff'

By DR. ED HIRSBERG
This is the season for looking back over the past year's accomplishments in book writing—and we think the book writers have had a pretty good year, all things considered. . . . Even the latest best-seller lists look very respectable, with leaders like "Love Is Eternal," by Irving Stone, based on the life of Mary Todd Lincoln, "The View From Pompey's Head," Hamilton Basso's novel about the Old South revisited, and Anya Seton's "Katherine," a fine historical novel about 15th century England.

And we also are reminded that such books as these came out during the past year, a truly impressive list: Two from William Faulkner, "A Fable," which seems to be selling remarkably well even though most of the reviewers think it's too difficult for the ordinary reader; and "The Faulkner Reader," containing some of his best short stories. . . . Out of the South also came Eudora Welty's "The Ponder Heart," and the concluding volume of what might become the definitive life of George Washington, by Douglas Southall Freeman. . . . To say nothing of a new novel about our own Manteo, called "Roanoke Renegade," by Don Tracy, soon to be reviewed in these columns. . . .

Turning to the future instead of the past, we have more news from the Literary Guild, who want us to let you know what the next few Literary Guild choices are going to be, so here they are: For January, "The Adventurers," by Ernest Haycox—not, we are told, one of his usual Westerns. . . . And for February, "The Four Winds," by David Beaty, about the operations of a large airline and the people who live by it. . . . And for March, a new novel by John P. Marquand, "Sincerely, Willis Wayde," about the rapid and destructive rise of a tycoon in the business world. . . . Another "Executive Suite," perhaps? . . . Some more of Harold Ickes: Volume III of his "Secret Diary," subtitled "The Lowering Clouds, 1938-1941," sounds like a weather report—has just come off the presses. . . . Jonathan Daniels writes the review in this week's New York Times, and treats the former Secretary of the Interior and his book with rare understanding. . . .

We've just received another pamphlet from the University of North Carolina Library Extension Service, called "The Ageless and Eternal Sea," by Emily Bröndgers. . . . It's designed for book clubs that are looking for good programs, and maps out an entire year of reading assignments. . . . Some of the program titles are "The All-Encircling Sea," "Seas the Sirens Sang," "Salt Sea Tollers," and so on. . . . Looks good, and if any book club wants a copy, just let this column know. . . .

On the local scene: Dr. Knox Hill of the Humanities Division of the University of Chicago has been on the East Carolina campus, working with the Religion in Education project currently going on. . . . And Religious Emphasis Week has just been announced at the college—dates are from January 23 to 27. . . . And speaking of religion, "The Messiah" is being sung this Sunday afternoon at Wright Auditorium—all are welcome. . . .

And at the Sheppard Library: Miss Copeland reports that many fine old rare editions of long-forgotten library books drifted back during Forgiveness Week. . . . Also, that she's sold all her subscriptions to the East Carolina Film Club's seven o'clock performances of famous foreign films during January, February, March and April, but that she has a few nine o'clock tickets left—better rush to get them. . . . And finally, that she is still looking for an apartment—suggestions, anybody?

Today's reviewer is Dr. Kelly Crockett of the College English Department, and he reviews something a little different from the ordinary run—a best seller, but one that is over 400 years old. . . .

THE LIFE OF LAZARILLO DE TORMES
Translated by J. Gerald Markley
New York: The Liberal Arts Press, 1954. 50c

Lovers of the novel should hail the recent publication of a new, reasonably priced translation by J. Gerald Markley, University of Illinois, of "Lazarillo de Tormes," famous and amusing story of a Spanish rascal. This makes available once more to English readers a work which has become increasingly difficult to secure, and Dr. Markley's sparkling translation of it into modern idiom renders that acquisition a pleasure. Classics, as we know, are too frequently left to gather dust on shelves. But this little novel has persistently escaped that fate. For nearly 300 years it averaged a new English translation every decade. Written around 1550 by a gifted but unknown Spanish author, the novel was a reaction against impossible romances of chivalry whose popularity had become a craze in Europe. In contrast to the romantic knightly hero, Lazarillo is almost painfully real. The development of similar rogue-heroes in England was to culminate in Fielding's "Tom Jones."

Lazarillo (Spanish for Lazarus) was born on the banks of the river Tormes. His father was whipped publicly and exiled for his knavery, and his mother rid herself of Lazarillo as soon as he was old enough to run errands, by making him a servant to a blind beggar. She remarked in farewell that she never expected to see him again. Soon after, Lazarillo was told by his new master to listen for the noise inside a stone bull, and when the boy put his ear next to the statue, the old beggar, with a clout from his fist, knocked his head against the horn with such force that Lazarillo reeled with pain. His evil master laughed loudly and said, "Stupid, learn this: a blindman's boy must be at least one point sharper than the devil."

Lazarillo learned the tricks and ruses of beggars from this sadistic master, and before he deserted him, he revenged himself thoroughly for all injuries. He serves seven masters, but only four of these services are given detailed development. These episodes, however, are just famous pictures of decaying Spanish society in the sixteenth century. The episode of service to the rascally pardoner was struck from the book by the Inquisition and, unfortunately, has been omitted from most English translations. Happily, Dr. Markley has restored it to its rightful place. In the early seventeenth century, Juan de Luna wrote an effective sequel to "Lazarillo de Tormes" from stories told him by his grandmother. Evidently Lazarillo had become a popular folk-hero in Spain similar to the English Robin Hood. De Luna carried the story to the death of Lazarillo on a dung-heap, the victim of his own cupidity and of clever female rogues. But the first author left Lazarillo comfortably situated as the complaisant mate of an archpriest's housekeeper who needed a husband to cloak her intimacies with her master. The beggar-days of Lazarillo had taught him that he could not afford so nice a concern for his honor as one who had never been forced to live by his wits. And so we too shall leave him.

Planning Summer Linotype Course

MURFREESBORO, N. C.—The Roy Parker School of Printing at Chowan College has announced that a six weeks' course in Linotype keyboard operation and maintenance will be offered this summer, giving young men with printing experience an opportunity to learn the operation of typesetting machines.

Another class in Teletypesetter perforator operation will be offered to experienced typists who have a speed of at least 60 words a minute. This offers young women the opportunity to prepare for well-paid positions on newspapers.

The idea for the summer school in Linotyping and Teletype operation originated with a committee of newspaper publishers who thought it could offer an opportunity for the apprentice backshop employee to secure this training and then work into a regular Linotype position in his employer's plant.

Classes begin on June 6, and will be held six hours daily through Friday for the six weeks' period. The cost will be $150 which will include sleeping quarters for male students on the campus. Meals can be obtained in excellent restaurants in Murfreesboro. Women students can find good accommodations nearby in private homes.

Old Horses Have Their Own Spa

TOKYO — In Japan they've got a spa where a horse gets a hot tub, a brisk rub-down, and a new lease on life.

The establishment is operated by the livestock section of the prefectural government of Shizuoka, south of Tokyo. It is intended for overworked race horses.

The spa can handle 10 horses at a time. They are driven into the bathroom, tied to bars and a shower turned on. This is followed by a steam treatment and rubdown.

The horses didn't like it at first. But now say the operators, they go for it in a big way.

Catawba Bringing Dreaded 'Keep' Style Against Bucs

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Writer

Coach Earl Ruth brings his tribe of Catawba Indians into Memorial Gym tonight to open East Carolina College's home basketball card.

Catawba has won two games and lost four in early season games. Ruth claims his team is the shortest in the conference. The tallest Indian stands six-two. Where height is a shortcoming, the Indians make it up in speed and possession. They occasionally like to run but mostly adopt a Maryland-like possession game.

The dreaded "keep" style of play has whittled more than one big dog down to size. With this in mind, Coach Ruth will bid for victory over the defending North State Conference champs, utilizing possession as much as possible.

Coaches Howard Porter and Earl Smith of the Pirates will stick to their running game. The fast break and single pivot is their old standby. It must be an allright system to keep the Bucs high in the national ranking of small colleges.

Both teams are reminiscent in that the respective squads are dominated by freshmen. East Carolina has seven yearlings on its traveling squad of 12. Catawba has six on its itinerant team.

East Carolina has played only one game, defeating Guilford last Saturday night 96-84. Coach Porter said yesterday that the starting line-up will remain the same. He'll go with Don Harris and Nick Nichols at the forwards, Guy (Bones) Mendenhall at center, and J. C. Thomas and Cecil Heath at the guards. Harris led the scoring in the Bucs' first game with 24 tallies. His cohort at the forwards, Nichols, got 22. The latter is only a freshman. Heath is the team's only senior member and captain.

The second five which was run in and out against Guilford and performed well include William McArthur and Waverly Akins, forwards; Marion Hales, center; Fred James and Waddell Solomon, guards. Jerry Bosquet, 6-5, 200-pound forward, also saw plenty of action.

The Catawba game tonight opens a big weekend of basketball for East Carolina. Lenor Rhyne, one of the league's favorites, comes here tomorrow night for a North State Conference battle.

Most Valuable Player Yogi Berra Ready To Play Outfield Next Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Yogi Berra, still expressing surprise at being named the American League's Most Valuable Player, said today he's willing to play the outfield for the New York Yankees in 1955.

"I'll play anywhere they want me," said Yogi, "third base, catcher, outfield. Just say the word. But I wouldn't mind the outfield a bit if this boy Howard comes along."

"This boy Howard" is Elston Howard, regarded as one of the hottest Yankee rookie prospects in years. Normally an outfielder, the young Negro spent the past year at Toronto learning to be a catcher.

"I know Bill (Dickey) will work hard with him," Yogi said. "Bill taught me an awful lot when I

All Cage Teams Busy Tonight In Pitt Conference

The Pitt County Basketball Conference has a full house scheduled tonight with all nine teams meeting opponents.

Tonight's games:

Ayden at Farmville
Belvoir at Stokes
Bethel at Winterville
Maury at Grifton
Chilcote at Grifton

The Ayden girls will be out for the first win at Farmville. They lost to Belvoir, Robersonville and Stokes their first three outings. Farmville's sextet is undefeated and hopes to add Ayden to the fold. The Ayden and Farmville boys have identical 2-1 records. Neither has met a common opponent, so a line of comparison can't be drawn. The game should be a lulu.

Belvoir's 5-2-1 aggregation hooks up with determined Stokes-Pactolus. Stokes girls have a 3-3 mark. They lost two tilts to Bethel but they were only practice games. The last common opponent these two teams met was Ayden. Belvoir beat them 62-37 and Stokes-Pactolus laced them 48-37. Belvoir's boys put a 5-3 mark on the line against Stokes' 4-3 mark. Belvoir beat Ayden 80-49 and Stokes lost to them 63-55.

League-leading Bethel travels to Winterville for two. The Bethel girls and boys boast 5-1 marks. The Winterville girls are playing 500 ball at 3-3 and the host boys have a 4-2 record. The Winterville boys have a four-game winning streak going and defeating Bethel would be like icing on the cake. Bethel's high-scoring girls outfit is expected to be too much for the home sextet.

Maury, a non-conference team, is at Grimesland. Coach G. F. Bailey's Grimesland girls have a 3-5 standing as does Coach Bob Williams' boys. Maury has penetrated into the league one other time, being beaten by Belvoir in a doubleheader.

Chilcote's girls go after victory number two at Grifton. The Chilcote boys, coached by Alton Burke, want win number one. So far they've dropped three straight games. The Grifton boys are just one step ahead of the Chilcote males with a poor 1-4 mark. The Grifton girls have an identical mark. It's quite possible for a Chilcote twin win, although the Grifton teams play good ball for losing clubs.

Anteche Awarded Heisman Trophy

NEW YORK (AP)—Alam Anteche of Wisconsin has joined the ranks of the Heisman Trophy winners as the 20th recipient of the coveted football honor.

Anteche, the four-year fullback whose 3,212 career rushing yardage is a new NCAA record, was presented the award as the outstanding college player of 1954 at the Downtown Athletic Club last night.

The All America battering ram nicknamed "The Horse" received the personal congratulations of the first Heisman winner, Jay Berwanger of the University of Chicago (1935), and the 11th Capt. Doc Blanchard, who won it as the Army fullback in 1945.

Former Pitcher Now Hits Homers

CINCINNATI (AP)—Bill Thompson is glad he quit pitching. Now he can hit homers instead of dishing them out.

The Redleg farmhand, playing first base, slammed three home runs in three consecutive times at bat to set a Colombian Winter League Mark.

Thompson started as a pitcher but an arm injury forced him to abandon his mound hopes.

Some Revision Of TV Football Rule Controls Indicated

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
NEW YORK (AP)—A swing toward the Big Ten plan for regional control of college football television, or toward some sort of loosening of the NCAA national controls, was indicated today by sports writers and broadcasters replying to the Associated Press post-season questionnaire.

But the cold figures don't show any nation-wide agreement as to what sort of change should be made.

Out of more than 100 replies to the questionnaire, 41 favored a switch to regional controls of some sort and only 22 unreservedly backed the NCAA game-a-week program. The other experts offered a wide variety of suggestions and opinions, ranging from unrestricted television to no football TV at all.

All but 11 agreed, however, that controls were necessary. Ten proposed wide open televising of games, at least for an experimental season to see what would happen, and one said it is up to the courts to decide whether control can be exercised legally.

Strongest support for the Big Ten plan came from the Big Ten area, about three or four votes favoring regional control coming from newspapers and radio and TV stations in the Midwest. The East and South gave the present NCAA program most of its backing.

As in previous years, the objectors to the NCAA program argued that fans want to see the games that are interesting and important to them. And proponents of the regional plan claimed that usually means the big games in their areas. Others simply asked for a more flexible programming system because some of the weekly games, chosen before the start of the season, turned out to be notably uninteresting to a large number of spectators.

Assorted proposals along this line included waiting until two or three weeks before each TV Saturday to decide which game was to be put on the air, listing two or three possible games for each week and then making a late selection, letting the fans vote on which game they wanted to see, removing all TV restrictions on sell out games and regional telecasts with "blackouts" in the immediate area of the games.

"I think all TV should be regional to be of any interest and then televised only on sellout games. TV is hurting major gates and killing small college games," said one Southern sports writer.

"Permit television on all games with assured sellouts," proposed a mid-Western expert. "NCAA has raised the question it would hurt small schools, which is ridiculous, as few or none of the smaller schools play on Saturday afternoons."

Said another writer: "It is obvious there is no big money sponsor interested in the present plan. Schools must go to regional telecasting or give up the idea of big revenue."

Some of the other suggestions were:

"Allow the sponsor to pick weekly 'The Game of the Week.' It will usually be a sellout."

"Suggest selection of TV game about two weeks early, so that best game can be on video regardless of how many times a particular team may be seen."

"TV will kill off football if you give it enough time. I'm in hope TV will be completely barred from football games in the future."

"TV stations ought to have the right to broadcast any game that the press covers."

"Status quo until some method can be developed to charge the home viewers."

"Cut the cables."

Bannister Hangs Up Track Shoes

LONDON (AP)—Roger Bannister, one of the two men who have run the mile under four minutes, has stepped off the cinder track at the peak of his great athletic career.

The London Physician announced his retirement last night at the annual banquet of the sports writers of Great Britain.

At the same time, in Australia, his friend and nearest rival, John Landy, talked glumly of quitting competitive running.

So 1954 nears an end with a vast void looming in the track and field world.

It was a year that saw Bannister, then Landy, crack the four-minute mile barrier. Then in a memorable race at Vancouver, Canada, Bannister vanquished his Australian rival in a race in which both were clocked under four minutes.

Bannister first lowered the mile mark to 3:59.4 at Oxford, England, May 6. A little over a month later in Finland Landy dropped the record to 3:58. At Vancouver, in the British Empire Games, Bannister won in 3:58.8 with Landy second in 3:59.6.

Bannister, who'll be 26 next March, hinted clearly after his European 1500-meter championship victory at Bern in August that he had run his last race. He said last night:

"I have to refer to something which contains a very sad note: namely, I shall now be compelled to give up international athletics."

He explained that his medical career has made training increasingly difficult.

Andrews Scoffs At Oddsmakers

NEW YORK (AP)—A Andrews scoffed at the 2-1 odds favoring Vince Martinez and predicted he would break the welterweight contender's victory streak in Madison Square Garden tonight.

NBC will broadcast and telecast the 10-rounder at 10 p.m., EST.

"His style is made for me," said Andrews, 23. "The way to beat Martinez is to keep the pressure on him and throw punches. He likes to lay back and call his shots."

Martinez's long-range style of fighting has carried him to 12 straight victories, a 39-3 record, and a No. 5 ranking among the welterweight contenders. The Paterson, N. J., boxer has won seven this year, four by knockouts.

But in Andrews he meets the most formidable opponent of his career. The ex-GI from the West will have about a six-pound weight edge—155 to 149—and he expects to throw the weight around if he forces Vince to a close-quarter battle.

A full-fledged middleweight now, and ranked as the No. 10 contender in the 160-pound class, Andrews has been facing heavier and tougher opposition than Martinez. In 11 fights this year he won six, lost four and drew in one with Joe Miceli. Three of the defeats were to middleweights—Ted Olla, Bub Scholz and Gil Turner. He kayaked Turner in the third round of a return. The other loss was to Carmen Basilio, No. 1 welter contender.

Phantom Quintet Takes Week Off

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer

After the close call in Goldsboro Tuesday night the Greenville Phantoms take a week off from active duty to regather their forces for the next game.

The Green Phantoms had by far their worst night of the young campaign in that game and will be out to even the score with the Earthquake gang. The Greenies play them in Greenville Tuesday night.

Although the Greenies are undefeated after their first three encounters they have not been what one could call impressive as yet. In the opener the Green Phantoms met Rocky Mount and both teams were ragged. The Greenies came out on top of that one by a 46-35 score. Since then Rocky Mount held highly - rated Kinston to a three point win.

In the second game the Phantoms had an "on" night shooting from the floor and outshot the Cyclones 65-55. In that one the Cycs experienced an awful second quarter when the Phantoms outscored them 16-4 to provide the difference in the game.

Then in the Goldsboro game the G-men were pathetic. They could not move the ball in and were slow moving around. They had only 18 points at the half but came back strong in the last period to sneak in with the win.

The main trouble with the team all year long has been its inability to cash in on the new bonus foul shot rule. So far the G-men have made only 28 out of 61 foul shot attempts. Every time a player misses a foul shot now, he misses a chance for two points. So far the Greenies are losing many valuable points to their sharper opponents.

After the first three games Harold Edwards has taken over as the team's leading scorer. The big center has poured in 40 points for a 13.3 average. Pat Sawyer has hit 30 points and a 10 point average.

Bob Howell and Tommie Saeed are hitting just under 10 points per game with 29 and 28 points respectively. The other starter, Edgar Moore, has canned 20 points.

In the three games the G-men have shown a ready defense, allowing their opponents an average of only 45.7 points per game. On offense the G-men have scored at a 52.7 points per game clip.

Maybe after this week's practice the Farley men will get the kinks out of their offense. If they don't, the Goldsboro team is just liable to spring a closer surprise.

Hot-Shot Irish Meet Indiana In Growing Rivalry

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Notre Dame, already clicking smoothly with two easy victories over Big Ten toughies takes on sputtering Indiana here tomorrow in what has become one of the Midwest's hottest basketball rivalries in the last two years.

The game is to be nationally televised (CBS).

Both clubs have been national powers in the last two seasons and currently the Hoosiers rank sixth and the Irish ninth in the AP national poll.

Indiana's stock may drop however, after a 64-61 upset loss to Missouri last Monday night.

A major scoring duel is indicated between Notre Dame's Jack Stephens, who had 33 points against Northwestern Wednesday, and All America Don Schlundt, Indiana's 6-10 center.

Teen-age Turnout

And
By MARY WILL LONG
FRANCES ADAMS

After the "small snow storm" Monday, Greenville High School students began to realize that winter is really here and that Christmas is just around the corner. The icy winds called for a large display of the many colored knee-so: worn by the fairer sex. So that there could be no danger of being "snowed in" at the high school, everyone was dismissed at noon. In spite of warnings to stay out of the cold, many of the gang ventured out and were seen hustling along to a rendezvous at the Mary Ann or The College Tavern.

Members of the high school glee club have tumbled out of their warm beds, bright and early during the past two weeks for early-morning practices at the high school. The glee club, under the direction of Miss Ona Shindler, will present its annual Christmas Concert Sunday night, December 12, at 7:30. The concert, to be given in the high school auditorium, will tell the story of Christmas in song. Soloists will be Kitty Collins, Lou Tilley, Jill Sutton, and Patsy Madry. Sue Tucker and Nina Overton will serve as accompanists. Patsy Baker will be narrator.

best dancers; Lou Cheatham and Bob Howell, most popular; Jill Sutton and Mitchell Johnson, best looking; Elizabeth Larkins and Joe Taft, best dressed; Shirley Holland and Wayne Bishop, most sincere; Alice Fyfe and Dennis Bullock, friendliest; Sue Tucker and Pat Sawyer, biggest flirt; Joy Jordan and Glen Briley, wittiest.

Band Mothers Play
Those who did not go to the basketball game in Wilson last Friday attended the game between the high school band mothers and the Greenville Beauty School girls in the high school gym. The game was sponsored by the band boosters' club to raise money for eight new band uniforms. During half-time Tommy Smith and his "Midnighters" played for three cake walks.

Congratulations Department
Congratulations are in order for three G.H.S. seniors who are very much in the spotlight these days. John Brock has captured the title of top ranking National Forensic League member in the nation with a total of 662 points in N.F.L. competition. Patsy Baker won the "Voice of America" contest for Pitt County with a five minute talk on democracy. She received a $50 government bond as winner over four other county high school winners. Jimmy Hendrix was declared one of eight national winners at the national 4-H congress in Chicago, November 28 to December 3. His beautification of home grounds project and livestock conservation demonstration won him the honors.

OPPORTUNITY TAMPED DOWN
GUTHRIE, Ky. (AP)—A vandal released a brake on an oil tank car which crashed into a passenger train and began leaking. A switch engine pulled the leaky car to the Front Street crossing. The street was badly in need of repair. Trucks began hauling and dumping gravel on the flowing oily mess. Workers tamped it down. Results: a smooth, dustless street.

JANE ABBOTT

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

Gary closed the cabin door behind him, came to her put his hands on her shoulders, held her a little away from him. "You thought I didn't mean it, when I told you I loved you that day that I asked you to marry me. You saw Cindy in my arms. You're remembering what Ursula said about my fatal weakness for beauty in women. You don't want to talk about it, but I do! I want you more than I've ever wanted anything—I want you with me through all my life. May be I'm a fool to think you love me—but I want you to believe what I am saying."

"Gary—yes, I do believe you." He drew her to him, close. Then his lips came to hers.

"You're trembling, girl! Are you cold?"

"No, no! Not now... Not ever again!"

He sat her down on the stool. "I want to see you there. I see you there sometimes when you're not here at the cabin. Don't move—I'll get us some food."

He went to the cupboard, got out cheese, bread, coffee. Enid sat very still, not thinking, only feeling, feeling this sudden great happiness that was flooding over her, bringing her alive as she had never felt alive before.

The coffee over Gary came to her. He did not touch her; he stood in front of her, his eyes very sober. "Enid, you've talked about wanting to be free—you can be, I won't try to possess all of you! Just so long as you stick with me..."

"Gary, I—I feel free, now." He kissed the top of her head, straightened again. "Another thing—you should know, Enid, what it'll be like—the kind of a life you will have to live. I'm going on with my painting—and work. I've got to make up for these years I've wasted. I've written to Bressi to find a studio for me. We may have to live in it. Not for lack of money—I've enough to go on from a trust fund my mother left for me. I've been living on an allowance from it while I've been here. I get dividends from the Mills but I haven't touched that—it's in the bank in Salem. We could do very well—spread ourselves—go with the crowd, all that—but I don't want any of that. But maybe you do."

"I don't!" Enid laughed. She heard her utter happiness making it quick, gay. "I've hated it! I thought I was queer, not to enjoy it the way the other girls seemed to. Sometimes I thought I didn't because I was plain and dull."

"Stop talking like that!" said Gary. "You're beautiful, darling! And you're honest! Enid, can't we be married right away? Tomorrow? We can drive over into Vermont—I'm under the impression we can get married in short order there. Come back and live until Bressi finds something in Boston. Think you could take this for a few weeks?"

"I'd love it! To be here with you..."

She threw up her head then, in alarm. "Gary, the coffee's boiling over!"

He drove her back to the farm, late in the afternoon. "Tomorrow? I'll come for you around noon. We'll have lunch at that joint down there. It'd be as good as an announcement! He looked beyond her to the house. "You're not afraid, are you, my dearest?"

"Of my mother? No."

She felt no dread, no shrinking, as she went swiftly up the short path to the door of the north wing. As she went into the living-room she heard her mother moving in the bedroom. She went to the bedroom.

At the door she stopped short. Her mother's bags were on the bed open. Her mother was taking dressess down from the hooks behind the cretonne curtains with a blind heedlessness. She turned at Enid's step and Enid saw her mother's face drained of color, an awful blankness in her eyes.

"What are you doing, mother?" Hester looked at her as she did not see her. "Packing. I have to go back to Buffalo. At once..."

Her voice had something of the blankness that was in her eyes.

"What has happened?" "Nothing yet. That is why I must go immediately."

"Father—is he ill?" "Ill?" repeated Hester. She picked up a letter that lay on the bed. Enid noticed how her hand shook as she did so. "Read it!"

Enid drew back a step. "Not if it's from Mrs. Babitt!"

"Enid read!" "Dear Hester: 'Two weeks ago I was offered a position in the head office of the company in San Francisco. I have written and said I would accept it, for such a move fits in with a decision I have reached during the summer. That is that you and I should live separate lives. I have thought for a long time that you do not need me for more than to provide you with a good living—provision will continue. Enid is grown now, ready to make her own life."

"You may wish to go further and get a decree of divorce. That is for you to decide. There is no other woman in my mind, only the conviction that you and I, in straining towards goals of social and financial success have missed much in life that is worth more—a companionship between us such as we had when we were first married. I'd like to experience the enjoyment in a simpler, less complicated way of living. I doubt you would share my feeling about that, so I hesitate to ask you to take up with me this change I contemplate. In the event that you do not return before October first when I have to be in San Francisco, Drew will take care of the necessary legal steps."

Enid looked up from the letter. She said, simply, "Why don't you let him go, mother?"

Hester got to her feet, a spasm working in the muscles around her mouth. "Go! When I've lived with him, for him, 23 years? Made a lovely home for him, the right kind of friends—given all my thoughts to his interests? I don't know what he means!"

Suddenly Enid felt sick with compassion. If her mother only could see herself!

She said: "Mother, maybe—if you let dad plan things—do the things he wants to do—you've been with him just as you've always been with me—you never gave me any choice—you decided for me everything that I did. And it all—everything that you wanted—you never asked me. Father feels, I think, the way I did."

"Are you saying that I am a selfish, self-centered self-seeking woman?" Hester asked.

Enid could not say it, or deny it. With a sound like a moan Hester covered her face. Enid did not know whether it was to hide tears or anger.

After a moment, Hester let her hands fall. Enid saw only bewilderment on her face. And Enid never had seen her mother bewildered over anything. When she spoke it was mechanically. "This is between you and father and me—you will have to stay here until I send you word that it is settled. Jennie will be here. I'll leave a cheque for you." She picked up another dress to smooth it out.

Tell her about Gary. And now Enid shrank from it; it would be shock on shock for her mother. But she did say it.

"I'm going to marry Gary Norbeck, mother."

The dress slipped from Hester's hands. Her lips worked but no sound came from them for a mo-

Yearning for the Living God

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Psalms 42: 84; 102:25-27.

"As the hart panteth after the water brooks, so panteth my soul after Thee, O God. My tears have been my meat day and night, while they continually say to me, Where is thy God?"—Psalm 42:1, 3.

"I had gone with the multitude, I went with them to the house of God, with the voice of joy and praise, with a multitude that kept holiday. Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted in me?"—Psalm 42:4-5a.

"A day in Thy courts is better than a thousand. I had rather be a doorkeeper in the house of my God, than to dwell in the tents of wickedness. For the Lord God is a sun and shield."—Psalm 84:10, 11a.

"Of old Thou hast laid the foundation of the earth; and the heavens are the work of Thy hands. They shall perish, but Thou shalt endure. . . . Thy years shall have no end."—Psalm 102: 25, 26. MEMORY VERSE—Psalm 48:14.

Yearning for the Living God

THE HUMAN HEART FINDS SATISFACTION ONLY IN THE LORD

Scripture—Psalms 42: 84; 102:25-27

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

THE YEARNING of the human heart for God is universal. In the more primitive peoples, this yearning sometimes takes fantastic forms—grotesque idols sometimes in the form of a star (the sun) or of animals—the bull, the golden calf, the cow, the snake, the beetle, etc.

All, it seems to this writer, are really seeking God our Father, but in the search they feel the need for something to represent Him—something which they can see and to whom they may appeal for help.

Even the ancient Hebrews, who had such tangible evidences of God's blessings, could not be satisfied, but must turn to the worship of a Golden Calf. And Solomon, renowned for his wisdom, turned in the end to the worship of strange gods—and thereby almost lost his kingdom.

In infancy a child finds security only in the presence of his parents—particularly his mother who supplies his daily needs. Gradually, however, the presence of the higher power comes to him, and during life this invisible power becomes a living reality, and he turns to Him for help, strength and comfort.

In today's lesson this yearning for God the Father is beautifully expressed by the Psalmist—his searching in his grief and despair and his triumph and comfort in

Then he remembers (and how blessed are happy memories!) "for I had gone with the multitude, I went with them to the house of God, with the voice of joy and praise with the multitude that kept holiday."

"Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me? hope thou in God for I shall yet praise Him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God."

That is what we must strive for—all of us—and teach our children to have the same faith. Worry is a malady that affects most of us at times, children as well as adults. If we can but trust in God and soothe our fears with that most comforting thought, we shall be much happier and hence healthier in mind and body.

"Blessed are they that dwell in Thy house; they will be still praising Thee."

"Blessed is the man whose strength is in Thee; in whose heart are the ways of them."

"For a day in Thy courts is better than a thousand. I had rather be a doorkeeper in the house of my God, than to dwell in the tents of wickedness."

"For the Lord God is a sun and shield, the Lord doth give grace and glory; no good thing will He withhold from them that walk uprightly. O Lord of hosts, blessed is the man that trusteth knowing that he has found Him and He will help through all circumstances.

Few feel the close communion with God that Jesus felt during His brief life on earth. He knew God was His Father and was with Him always. As a man whose form He took He suffered earthly pangs, but He knew and tried to make His companions also feel, that their Father in Heaven was their strength and shield. We pray to both Father and Son for our blessings.

In the Forty-Second Psalm we hear a heartbroken cry, "As the hart panteth after the water brooks, so panteth my soul after Thee, O God."

"My soul thirsteth for God, for the living God; when shall I come and appear before God?"

"My tears have been my meat day and night, while they (his enemies) continually say unto me, Where is thy God?"

We do not know, exactly, the historical background of this beautiful Psalm, but the writer was forcibly held from leading worshippers to the great festivals or to worship in the temple.

in Thee."

The One-Hundred and Second Psalm is a "prayer of the afflicted when he is overwhelmed and poureth out his complaint before the Lord."

After pleading that the Lord would not hide His face from Him, the Psalmist's faith returns: "Of old hast Thou laid the foundation of the earth; and the heavens are the work of Thy hands. They shall perish, but Thou shalt endure; yea, all of them shall wax old like a garment; as a vesture shalt Thou change them, and they shall be changed."

"But Thou art the same, and Thy years shall have no end."

That is our comfort when sorrow seems about to overwhelm us. Wars, accidents, storms and illness may attack our loved ones or ourselves, so that we will despair, as did the writer of the Psalms, but though all else fail, let us look to God as our refuge and strength. We must trust in Him and His goodness and mercy, and pray with trust that we may "carry on," striving while we have life to do His will.

Peaceful 'Co-Existence' In Tenements Is Missing

By STANLEY JOHNSON
MOSCOW (AP)—The newspaper Evening Moscow has come out for peaceful coexistence—among families sharing kitchens and baths in Moscow tenements.

Train Robbery Of 1909 Is Re-Told As 'Loot' Found

LEWISTOWN Pa. (AP)—This central Pennsylvania community today buzzed with accounts of a robbery—a train robbery that took place more than 45 years ago.

The talk started Wednesday when three deer hunters reported they accidentally stumbled across what might be part of the loot taken from a Pennsylvania Railroad train near here in an early-morning holdup in 1909.

The uncovered "loot" consists of about 3,700 Lincoln head pennies which old-timers say the train robber mistook for pieces of gold.

Police said about a million dollars in gold bullion was being carried on the train from Washington to Cincinnati when it was derailed.

The gunman, however, got into the wrong car and ended up with several sacks of pennies.

John A. Dubendorf, Lewistown; his brother Albert, of Middletown; and Charles E. Bell, of Maitland, found the coins while scurrying through the woods last week in search of deer.

"We kept the find a secret until we could thoroughly search the area for the gold we thought might be hidden there," Albert told a newspaper.

The three men said they learned of the train robbery through reading an old newspaper account which mentioned the name of Merrill Davis, then a patrolman for the PRR.

They contacted Davis and he filled them in on the details of the robbery which took place near where the coins were found.

Davis surmised the gunman checked the loot in the woods and after going through most of the bags and finding nothing but pennies, left them there and fled. A bag of gold, he said, was found unopened.

The finders divided the coins equally and said they will hold onto them until they are given some definite legal orders to turn them in.

Declares People Are 'Very Good'

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—Retiring after 47 years of bus driving William N. Wall, 68, says, "On the whole, people are very good."

Wall has a specially good word for the early-morning commuter, but not for the woman automobile driver.

"I always preferred riding with people going to work to those who were shopping or going to a show," he says.

As for drivers—he considers men far superior.

"You're never sure," says Wall, "what most women will do."

His starting pay was 20 cents an hour for a nine-hour day, seven days a week, but he raised a family of nine children.

Judge Tells Pair 'Beehave' Selves

HAMPTON, Va. (AP)—Judge Macy M. Carmel surveyed the evidence and said Charles Woodward had not proven damages to his bees or shrubbery. He dismissed the case with these warnings:

To Woodward that he take care of his bees and see that no children are stung.

To Lt. Col. Harry E. Mercer to quit putting foreign substances in his carburetor to permeate the air with smoke.

Tax Listers For Pitt Announced

County Auditor Reginald Gray Thursday disclosed the names of tax listers for the 15 townships in Pitt County.

The annual job of listing property taxes starts on January 1st and lasts through Jan. 31st. The county auditor emphasized that Pitt residents should plan to list their property as early as possible in the month in order to avoid long lines and the last minute rush at the end of the month.

All of the tax listers appointed for the coming year also served in that capacity last year, with the exception of J. R. Bunting of Bethel.

The tax listers by township: Arthur - Jim W. Reavis; Ayden - Warren W. Kinlaw; Belvoir - Mack Alvin Turner; Bethel - J. R. Bunting; Chatham - Ralph McLawhorn; Falkland - Charlie Tyre; Farmville - L. P. Thomas; Fountain - A. C. Gay; Greenville - H. S. Ragdale and Harding Sugg; Grifton - Mrs. Kenneth Price; Grimesland - Grover Manning; Pictious - J. V. Barnhill; Stokes - Clifford S. Whichard; Swift Creek - Z. O. Whitford; and Winterville - A. D. McLawhorn, Jr.

Chordettes Striking 'Gold' With Record

By WAYNE OLIVER
NEW YORK (AP)—The Chordettes of radio and television are riding a crest of popularity in another field—phonograph records.

The Chordettes, once a fixture on the Arthur Godfrey programs, are leading most record popularity polls with their "Mr. Sandman." It has sold close to 800,000 copies in 12 weeks and seems to be a good bet for the charmed one million mark.

Another ex-Godfreyite, Archie Bleyer, who left the Godfrey shows in the same blowup that brought Julius La Rosa's exit, figures in the story. Bleyer, married to Janet Ertel of the Chordettes, picked the fest. Their big break came when they won on Godfrey's Talent Scouts, after which they were regulars on his shows for 3½ years. They started singing on the Robert Q. Lewis radio show while still with Godfrey and now are regulars both on Lewis' Saturday morning radio program and his Monday afternoon TV show on CBS.

Since the Godfrey days, Virginia Osborn and Dorothy Schwartz of the original group have dropped out, and Lynn Evans and Margie Needleham complete the present team. But they retain the same "barbershop quartet" style which Miss Ertel credits with first bringing them to public attention.

Sugar Industry Seeking Markets

HONOLULU (AP)—Hawaii's sugar industry has a new word—surochemistry—and the industry is hopeful it spells out new markets. Surochemistry was coined by Dr. Henry B. Hass, president of the Sugar Research Foundation Inc., to describe industrial organic chemistry in which the starting material is sugar and its by products. Experiments are going on for the production of such things as detergents, plastics, fibers, rubbers, solvents, insecticides and adhesives.

Capitol Square

(Continued from page four) air or water. Carrying the simile a bit farther, a two-party system is like feeding corn at one meal, wheat at another—and keeping books to see which affords the most food value; a bipartisan system is like mixing them up for one feeding; and a coalition is like grinding and blending them together into another substance like a loaf of bread, in which it is known that the several elements are present but it is impossible to separate or distinguish them without intricate and involved chemical processes.

All the indications are that Governor Hodges wants no part of a two-faction system, but a coalition is not yet clear whether he wants a bifunctional system, with the different distinguishable but contributing to the same objective; or a coalition administration into which all the previously contrasting elements are indistinguishably blended.

Audience Will Remember Concert By Igor Gorin

By GEORGE E. PERRY

Patrons of the East Carolina College Concert Series who, because of inclement weather or other reasons, did not hear the performance by Igor Gorin Thursday evening in Wright Auditorium, missed a great musical experience. It was a concert which will be long-remembered by the enthusiastic audience, who, with their sincere and prolonged applause, demanded a total of five encores.

Mr. Gorin belongs to that rare and infrequently-heard group of singers who sing in a wonderful old-school manner—with their whole body. His voice, which possesses a myriad of tonal qualities, seemed to have a deep origin, moving upward from his feet which were planted firmly on the stage, and as a result was rich, round, vibrant, and not the least breathy. His interpretation and feeling as well seemed to stem from the same source, and contributed to the complete singer he is. Certainly one could not help but notice the impressive use of his hands, his face; in fact, every part of him joined forces to produce not only an aural rendition of a song, but a visual one as well.

The first group was made up of the serenely peaceful "Art Thou Troubled" by Handel, the lovely "Dille ch'il viver mio" by Vivaldi, and Haydn's blustering "Sailor's Song." Then followed a group of lieder: the somewhat-Wagnerian "An die Leier" and the tenderly simple "Der Jüngling an der Quelle," both by Schubert, and two numbers by Hugo Wolf.

In the well-known "Di Provenza" from Verdi's "La Traviata," which concluded the first half of the program, Mr. Gorin made full use of his histrionic abilities; one could almost see the elder Germont as he firmly yet consolingly sings to his son in an effort to persuade him to come home. The "Largo al factotum" from Rossini's "Barber of Seville" followed as an encore, and even though it is bearded with moss from being much over-sung, Mr. Gorin's rendition was fresh and engaging.

A group of Russian songs, sung with a distinctive Slavic flavor, two unusual Indian folk songs, and three American numbers made up the second half of the program.

Harvey Hinshaw, the superb and very sympathetic accompanist, deserves much more than a review's final sentence. Throughout the concert he supported Mr. Gorin with extreme care, coordinating every dynamic and every phase with the singer's, being keenly tonal-conscious and playing his musically best up to the last note of every song. It was a pleasure indeed to see him hold the mood of each number for a few moments, even after its last tone had died away. His group of solo numbers proved that an excellent accompanist can also be a concert pianist, for he played with a positive pianism and a crystalline technique that made him, too, grant an encore.

The singer and accompanist were beautifully teamed, and with two such true musicians performing, what other result could there be but a memorable and musically satisfying evening?

Three Are Indicted For Phenix City's Murder

PHENIX CITY, Ala. (AP)—A prosecuting attorney and a former sheriff's deputy who rose to power during the racketeering heyday in Phenix City have been indicted as the killers of the man whose crusade against vice had won the approval of Alabama voters.

Circuit Solicitor Arch Ferrell and former Chief Deputy Sheriff Albert Fuller were held without bond on first-degree murder charges for the slaying June 18 of Atty. Gen.-nominee A. L. Patterson.

Neither indictment said which of the two men the state contends fired three .38-caliber shots into Patterson's body. Under Alabama law a murderer and an accomplice are equally guilty and can be put to death in the electric chair.

A third unidentified defendant was indicted with Ferrell and Fuller yesterday by the same grand jury which had smashed the vice empire that reigned here for many years.

An official source close to the grand jury said the third man was indicted as an accessory after the Patterson slaying.
