Begin Year-Long Nonstop Prayer For Peace With Opening Of 1955

More Than 1,000 Church Congregations To Take Part, More Expected Join

NEW YORK (AP)—A year-long nonstop prayer for world peace begins at midnight tonight.

It starts in churches in 11 communities and will be taken up in relays on subsequent days in other churches across the country.

Not until the end of 1955 will the final "amen" be spoken.

The marathon "chain of prayer" was organized by the Board of Evangelism of the Methodist Church.

Dr. Harry Denman, of Nashville, Tenn., the board's executive secretary, said more than 1,000 congregations already are scheduled for participation at various times in the day-and-night vigil.

Other churches and denominations are expected to join the movement as it continues unbroken through 365 days. Special prayer periods also have been assigned to groups in hospitals and elsewhere.

"We hope prayer cells can be formed in every home and in every church," Dr. Denman said.

As church bells toll the new year tonight, the prayer begins at churches in Washington, D.C.; San Antonio, Tex.; Memphis, Tenn.; Ashland, Ky.; Minter City, Miss.; Phoenix, Ariz.; Springfield, Ore.; Centerville, Mo.; New York; and Chicago.

On Sunday, the scene shifts to churches in Deuceny, La., and Jackson, Tenn., for the second day of around-the-clock prayer.

Each day of the year, the prayer will go on in at least two churches, usually more. Clergymen, laymen, women and children take their turns at the altar.

It will be finished, after 8,760 hours of constant prayer, next Dec. 31 at churches in Ogden, Utah, and Boston.

Participants are asked to make "personal and specific prayers" rather than recite a common prayer. Besides the emphasis on peace, prayer is suggested for a world spiritual awakening for divine guidance for national leaders in easing tensions; for people behind the Iron Curtain; for the United Nations in seeking permanent peace; and for wisdom in solving social problems.

Coolley To Fight Firing Official

RALEIGH (AP)—If Horace Godfrey is ousted as administrative officer for North Carolina's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation program, top federal officials can figure on a congressional grilling.

That was the word yesterday from Rep. Harold D. Cooley of Nashville who will be chairman of the House Agriculture Committee when the new Congress convenes next week.

"In the event Godfrey is dismissed," declared Cooley, "I shall have someone from the department—perhaps Secretary Benson himself—to come before the committee and explain why."

Fred R. Keht of St. Paul, Republican-appointed chairman of the state ABC Committee, is admitted seeking the dismissal of Godfrey.

Godfrey, a Democrat who has been with the agency for more than 20 years, is under civil service. Keith claims Godfrey has failed to cooperate in carrying out policies laid down by the state committee.

Cooley termed Godfrey "one of the best advised men I know of in regard to farm programs." He said he had personally relied on Godfrey for several years to keep him informed on farm program operations in North Carolina.

EMPHASIS ON ATOM

MOSCOW (AP)—The army newspaper Red Star says the Soviet will place chief emphasis in 1955 on further development of atomic energy after having "victoriously completed" the fourth year of the second postwar five-year plan.

Night Spots Set Big Price For Celebrating New Year

By FRANCIS STILEY NEW YORK (AP)—Of course you can always stay home and watch television or listen to your wife.

Or, as many people do, you can go to church for the traditional and ever popular "Watch Night" services.

"You could even take in a movie or hold an intellectual roundtable discussion with a party of friends at home."

"But if you think you and the wife or girl friend just can't welcome the new year any place but some top night spot in the big city—brother!

Hold onto your wallet. The tab is going to be a dandy. At a conservative estimate the bill will range from $50 to $100 per couple. You'll be lucky to get off with $30 to $40 even in some of the less famous clubs.

Many Changes In Super-Carrier

WASHINGTON (AP)—More than 250 changes have been made in the supercarrier Forrestal since workmen started building the 60,000-ton island of steel 2 1/2 years ago.

But the Navy predicts the eventual total cost will remain close to the present estimated cost $197,850,000. Congress in 1951 earmarked $218,639,000 for building the first of the giant-size flatops.

"The cost will be way below the amount set aside by Congress, even with the changes," a spokesman said today. "There will be a substantial amount of money returned to Congress."

The revamping of equipment ranged from simplified supports for cables—which saved weight and money from original estimates—to the addition of steam catapults and an angled flight deck—which cost more money.

Some of the changes were made in the blueprint stage—that is, before work started on the parts of the ship involved. Others, however, necessitated tear out work already done.

One of the costlier changes has been the decision to move the "island" superstructure from its present location to a point farther outboard on the starboard (right) side. The Navy estimates this will cost about $300,000 to $400,000.

But, officials say, a large amount of money, perhaps offsetting the island location change, was realized earlier when the Navy decided against building a retractable or telescoping "island" which would have been lowered into the hull of the ship to make it a "flush deck" carrier while planes were being launched and landed.

The decision to build the "cantilever" deck, which juts out at an angle of about 10 degrees from the main flight deck and is located on the port side, aft, was made about a year and a half ago.

About two months ago the Navy found that some new types of carrier-based planes which it will procure later had wingspreads too great for easy moving to the bow launching positions on the main flight deck—if the present position of the island superstructure were retained.

So designers agreed the island should be moved outward 22 feet to give a 147-foot clearance on the main flight deck.

Red China Says Twelve To Die For Espionage

LONDON (AP)—Red China has sentenced 12 persons to death and two others to life imprisonment on charges of acting as "American Chiang Kai-shek agents," Moscow radio reported today. The broadcast indicated all were Chinese.

Peiping radio said on Nov. 24 Red China had killed 108 American and Chinese Nationalist espionage agents and had captured 124 since 1951. The broadcast said some had been turned over to People's Courts for prosecution. Whether the 14 mentioned by Moscow radio today were among the 124 could not be determined.

Moscow radio quoting a Singapore dispatch in an Anwei newspaper, said: "The People's Court in the province of Anhwei has sentenced two groups of American Chiang Kai-shek agents sent by airplanes to the territory of China. Twelve of them were sentenced to death by execution and two to life imprisonment."

"Most of these agents are officers in Chiang's army and are professional spies.

Conferees Settle On Relocation Of About 2 Miles Of Road

Bridge And By-Pass Work Delayed

Greenville's new bridge and by-pass project will be delayed at least 90 days because of a compromise worked out yesterday in a three and one-half hour meeting between highway and local officials and representatives of the Air Force and Serv-Air Aviation corporation of Kinston.

The compromise, which consists of the relocation of approximately two miles of the proposed bypass, is expected to obviate the possibility of an Air Force protest to the highway project.

It became apparent two weeks ago that the Air Force, through recommendation of its commanding officer at the Kinston air base, was prepared to protest to the CAA because of the proximity of the proposed highway to one of the runways at the Pitt-Greenville airport. Local officials felt such a protest to the CAA would tie up the project indefinitely because of the hearings and other legal matters involved. Col. Linkenfelter and Serv-Air

The Deputy Secretary of Defense Fleets forwarded a letter to the Civil Aeronautics Administration giving approval of the Defense Department to the construction of the Greenville bypass highway.

The approval was given provided the highway does not approach the north-east, south-west runway of the Pitt-Greenville airport nearer than 500 feet. The letter also gave approval for the highway construction with respect to the other runways of the airport.

Jack Spain of Greenville, administrative assistant to Senator Sam J. Ervin, was informed here by telephone late this morning that the Defense Department letter has been sent to the CAA.

President Truman Miller indicated to the group yesterday it would be recommended that the Air Force file its protest unless north-east, south-west runway at the airport, reached a usable length of 5,000 feet, and that the proposed highway be located at least 1,000 feet beyond the north-east end of the runway.

After a quick check of the approximate location which would be required to give the clearance at the end of the runway, highway officials said they felt the location change can be made. The highway officials explained, however, that the location which had been planned for the bypass was the location which the Civil Aeronautics Administration had said it would approve.

Highway officials explained that a detailed layout of the airport facilities and three proposed routes for the bypass were submitted to CAA. The CAA sent back a modification of the three proposals which was the line the highway officials laid out for the bypass.

Highway Commissioner Maynard Hicks told the group at the meeting he felt the preliminary work on the new location can be done and the necessary approvals obtained in order that the project may be let within 90 days. He said, however, it would be impossible to complete the necessary work on the new location in order that the project could be let as scheduled on January 25.

County Attorney W. W. Speight said this morning, "We feel optimistic over the outcome of the conference. I feel we have finally worked out something that will be favorable to the bypass and bridge and at the same time will preserve as much of the airport as we can. We are all determined to follow through on this and have an answer from CAA and other departments as quickly as possible." Local officials and Air Force and Serv-Air officials are expected to go to Washington early next week, possibly Monday, to seek clearance for the new highway location from both the Air Force and CAA. The new location of the highway will also have to be approved by the Bureau of Public Roads.

Hicks said yesterday he felt confident approval of the Bureau of Public Roads can be obtained if there is assurance the proposed new location will be approved by the Air Force and the CAA.

The proposed new location would alter about two miles of the bypass route from its northern junction with highway 11 to a point in line with the airport.

Serv-Air's lease on the Pitt-Greenville airport expires today and it remains a matter of conjecture today whether the lease will be renewed by local officials in view of the compromise worked out yesterday.

Soviet Satellite Bloc Raps West European Pact

BERLIN (AP)—Poland, Czechoslovakia and East Germany pledged today to work together against "German militarism," declaring the old martial Teutonic spirit is being awakened by the Paris treaties.

The three Communist-dominated states issued a joint declaration in Prague, assailing the West European pact and West German rearmament as containing the threat of a new war.

The statement was issued as a communiqué closing a three-day meeting of heads of the three parliaments.

Even though the French National Assembly has ratified the Western European Union with 12 German divisions included, the satellites declared, "this question is still not concluded."

"The peace loving nations and peoples will continue to oppose German militarism with all their might," the statement added.

The communiqué carried by the Communist news agency ADN declared:

"The people of Czechoslovakia and Poland, the first victims of Hitler's aggression, have the unusual right and unusual duty to warn the people of Europe of the dangers of the rebirth of aggressive forces in West Germany."

"They will strengthen their ties with the powerful Soviet Union, with China and other countries that believe in peace. Our three states (including East Germany) will not be inactive in exposing German militarism as the tool for new aggression."

Paris Treaties Face Many More Obstacles Before Final OK West German Arms Battle Rolls On

PARIS (AP)—The battle for West German rearmament thundered on throughout Europe today despite Premier Pierre Mendes-France's victory in the French National Assembly. The Paris treaties enlisting 500,000 German troops in Western defense face many more obstacles before final ratification.

Even without major holdups, it now appeared it might be summer before the Bonn government could begin organizing the 12 divisions of soldiers, the air force of about 1,200 planes and the small coastal navy the plan provides for.

The treaties topped what was generally believed their biggest hurdle yesterday when the French National Assembly approved 287-260 the last of the accords after nine days of bitter debate. But even in France, the ratification process was far from complete.

The Council of the Republic, Parliament's upper house, still must give its okay. Political obstacles predicted Mendes-France will have an easier time with the Council, which is expected to act sometime in February. But any changes or amendments it might adopt could take several months to iron out with the Assembly.

Ratification of the various treaties also remains to be completed in the United States, Canada, Belgium, Italy, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Greece and West Germany.

The roughest road is expected in West Germany, where the strength of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's governing coalition has been whittled down in recent state elections. The Socialists, chief gainers at the polls oppose the treaties—demanding further efforts to unite all Germany before going ahead with any rearmament or alliances.

Adenauer also is expected to have trouble with some of the parties in his coalition, which oppose the French-German agreement on the disputed Saar. This pact, placing the Saar under Western European Union control, is one of the Paris accords. The French have insisted it must be accepted along with the others.

The French Assembly vote yesterday came after the legislators had previously approved four other key provisions in the network of treaties—entry of West Germany into the North Atlantic Alliance, the Saar agreement, return of virtual sovereignty to West Germany and a companion convention on stationing foreign troops on West German soil.

But the WEU pact was the key issue for it actually spelled out the process of German rearmament. The Assembly voted it down 280-259 on its first appearance last Friday. But Mendes-France staked his government's life on the result.

The 287 votes for the treaty meant that only 45 per cent of the Assembly's 627 members supported the Premier. In addition to the 280 opposed, 74 abstained from voting.

Government officials in Britain, Italy, Canada, Norway, West Germany and many other nations expressed satisfaction with the vote, hailing it as a major step in building up the free world's defenses. President Eisenhower, vacationing in Augusta, Ga., expressed "great satisfaction." But he and other Western leaders warned that much still remained to be done before German rearmament became a reality.

There was no immediate official Soviet reaction to the assembly vote. Moscow warned two weeks ago that France would risk canceling the French-Soviet Friendship Treaty and lose any chance of a four-power meeting on international problems if the Paris treaties were ratified.

Child Mangled By Savage Dogs

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP)—Two big, savage bulldogs leaped on a 9-year-old boy yesterday and chewed his arms and legs "down to the bone." It took nearly 150 stitches to close the wounds.

Roger Stokely was in General Hospital today, and his mother Mrs. Thomas K. Stokely said doctors "don't give us much hope for one arm and leg." Doctors said the arm muscles were torn badly and that on the left leg both muscle and skin were "just gone."

Roger was attacked while on an errand to the home of a neighbor, Gene O'Sullivan, owner of the dogs. The families live at Wellford, nine miles west of here.

Mrs. Estell Gosnell, Roger's grandmother, said she heard the boy's screams and rushed to his aid, managing to beat off the dogs.

Police said they do not plan any charges against O'Sullivan pending the outcome of the boy's condition. The dogs, which have current rabies immunization, were ordered confined 10 days for observation.

Planning Board Meet Not Held; Lacked A Quorum

A scheduled meeting of Greenville's Planning Board was not held last night due to lack of a quorum. The board was scheduled to elect a new vice-chairman at the meeting. They were also to discuss a major street plan, location for a fire sub-station, recreation facility requirements in Sub-divisions, city limits extensions, and set-back lines.

Only three of the nine members showed up for the regular monthly meeting. Members who were present for last night's meet were Utilities Superintendent Leonard P. Bloxam, City Manager James S. Hughes, and Martin Swartz.

Other members of the Planning Board are: F. L. Little, Jr., chairman; Mayor W. L. Whedbee; Councilman A. C. Ruffin; Mrs. D. M. Clark; T. W. Rivers and L. S. Ficklin.

French Assembly Vote Called 'Good Augury' U. S. Officials Gratiified

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ambassadors of the nations mentioned "the narrow margin of victory," but expressed hope all will be well from now on.

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) told newsmen "the victory is another link" in traditional U.S.-French friendship. Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) said the French action "must be pleasing to all the free world." Both Mansfield and Sparkman serve on the Foreign Relations Committee.

In his statement yesterday, Dulles referred indirectly to the nagging French fear of putting guns into the hands of Germans who three times in a century had invaded France. Dulles said:

"A special tribute is due to those in France who saw that patriotism required the burying of age-old hostilities. That this could happen is a good augury for the years ahead."

Eisenhower too, spoke in this vein when he said:

"As decisive cooperation, supplies, age-old antagonism, so the prospect for a general and lasting peace will be definitely improved; add a measure of encouragement may therefore even now be felt by all who are earnestly striving to maintain and improve the unity and harmony of the free world."

Another Warrant Presented To Returned Trio

The trio arrested in Georgia and returned to Greenville shortly before Christmas to face false pretense charges in "raising" a check from $50 to $500, were presented at additional warrant yesterday in the same case, charging conspiracy to cheat and defraud.

The trio—Graham Craig, Offin Junior King and James Cosby—have been held in jail since their return from Georgia pending the posting of $1500 bond for each man.

They were originally arrested for allegedly "raising" a check received in payment for spraying a house for termites near Greenville.

The trio waived a preliminary hearing in magistrate's court and will be tried on the charges in the January term of Pitt Criminal Court.

Gov't Officials Keep Vigil On Soaring Stocks

By FRANK O'BRIEN WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal officials in Washington are keeping an ever closer watch on the stock market, as it continues to touch new highs.

Their vigil is concentrated on the use of credit. If borrowing to buy stocks grows to proportions that responsible officials here feel makes the market subject to a price collapse, credit controls enforced by the Federal Reserve Board would be stiffened.

There is as yet no indication that the situation has gone that far. But it could change swiftly. That is the consensus of talks with highly placed officials who asked that they not be quoted by name.

The Federal Reserve Board has authority to raise the margin requirements on stock market operations from the present 50 per cent cash requirements. The board in February 1953 reduced the cash requirements to 50 per cent from the 75 per cent imposed early in 1951 as an anti-inflationary measure.

The board could also act less directly by tightening up on the supply of money and credit in general. This would have the effect of raising interest rates, and of making loans harder and more expensive to get.

Loans to brokers in New York City Federal Reserve member banks stood at $1,915,000,000 on Dec. 29. That was an increase of $7 million dollars during the week, and was 219 million higher than a year earlier. Further sharp increases of that size could be a string factor in the thinking of the Federal Reserve Board.

Some factors appeared to indicate that for the present, at least, the stock market rise is largely based upon non-speculative elements. Officials said these factors included: credit buying of stocks has not increased alarmingly; buying has been concentrated on industrial stocks, and has been further concentrated on shares of firms with good earnings and growth records; pension and mutual investment funds, which favor such stocks, have been large buyers; for tax reasons, many persons may be waiting for the new year to sell and take a profit.

Officials emphasized that it is not the mission of the government to control stock prices. The law requires the reserve board to use its powers "to prevent excessive use of credit."

BURLINGTON, Wis. (AP)—A fib about jet-speed rabbits, nurtured in the Southland to the status of a fancy fable, has won the title World's Champion Liar for Shelton R. Day, Baton Rouge, La., in the 1954 parade of fabrication by the Burlington Liars' Club.

Shelton's tale was announced today as the big whopper of the year and he won custody for one year, of the club's "gold-plated diamond-studded medal." His story:

"The swamp rabbits down this way are so fast that we use high-powered rifles to hunt them instead of shotguns. Even then hunters never get any, unless they know the trick. To bag these rabbits on the rim you have to aim fast, shoot, and then let out a shrill whistle. When you whistle the rabbit stops—and the bullet has a chance to catch up with him."

Honorable mention went to these epics: J. E. Tingey of Elk, Wash. related, "Cyclones do funny things. Last year one came through my place. I had a sack of shelled corn hanging on a nail on the side of the house. The cyclone blew away the sack, and left that corn hanging from the nail like a swarm of bees."

'Champion Liar' Had Tale About Jet-Speed Rabbits

The Rev. Reinhard Kaufman of Watford City, N.D., said "In January of 1955 it was so warm in the blizzard state of North Dakota that potato bugs were waiting on fence posts for potatoes to come up. In January 1954 it was so cold that the magpies would circle around the chimney top for five minutes to get warm before swooping down to the back door to steal my dog's food."

O. C. Hulet president of the club, says that in honor of the club's silver-anniversary, the biggest lie of the past quarter century has been selected. He, the 1953 winner, Bruno Corea, who lived last year at Langloeth, Pa. His whopper:

"My grandfather had a clock so old that the shadow of the pendulum, swinging back and forth, had worn a hole in the back of the case!"

Officers Are Hostesses To Simpson H. D. Party

The Simpson Home Demonstration Club held its annual Christmas party on Tuesday evening, Dec. 17, in the Community Building before an open glowing fire and a unique mantle, which was attractively decorated with Christmas arrangements. The group sang "Joy To The World," after which Mrs. Lyman Mills gave the devotional.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and the roll called with 22 members present. The two visitors, Mrs. Meeks of Sweet Gum Grove Club and Miss Elizabeth Edwards were extended a cordial welcome. The club was sorry to be told that Mrs. Fred Wallace is moving near Grifton. The women made plans for taking food to a needy family for Christmas Day.

Mrs. Johnnie Hardee, the education leader, gave some interesting facts on the education of China, the country being studied by the club.

Mrs. Robert Little, the music leader, presented Miss Elizabeth Edwards, who gave some information on Chinese Folk Songs. Three folk songs were rendered on the piano by Miss Edwards.

Following the recreation period led by Mrs. M. L. Tucker, the group sang a few Christmas carols. The hostesses, officers of the club, served Christmas cup cakes, ice cream, nuts and coffee from an attractively decorated table of the Yuletide season.

Last but not least was the annual exchanging of home-made gifts. Mrs. Little, the home agent, and Miss Edwards were remembered with gifts presented by the hostesses.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
December 31, 1924

With a large portion of Greenville's population reading outside the corporate limits of the city it would be well for the citizens to petition the coming session of the legislature to extend the charter of Greenville. While this large number of persons enjoy all the advantages of the city including the water and lights they are doing so at the expense of the population of the city proper as it is upon the latter that fall the town taxes. Those in charge of the city's affairs and all citizens interested in a greater Greenville would do well to get behind this movement to extend the city limits.

Janie Hunt And Edwin L. Clark Exchange Nuptial Vows

HENDERSON — The wedding of Miss Janie Farrar Hunt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cleveland Hunt Sr. of Henderson, and Edwin Lafayette Clark son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Clark of Greenville, was solemnized Tuesday afternoon, December 28, at half after four o'clock in the First Methodist Church here. Rev. A. S. Parker, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The vows were spoken before a background of woodwardia fern interspersed with candelabra holding burning cathedral tapers. On either side of the altar were baskets of white gladioli, pompons, carnations and lilies. The pews were marked with cascades of ivy and white chrysanthemums.

Miss Lillie Tapp Latta, soloist, and Mrs. George W. Holden, organist, provided the nuptial music. Miss Latta sang "Through the Years" and "O Promise Me" prior to the ceremony and for the benediction sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of magnolia slipper satin fashioned with a beige waist having a yoke of marquisette outlined with seed pearls and sleeves ending in points over the hands. The skirt was shirred very full over a petticoat of crinoline. A band of satin over the hips was trimmed with seed pearls and the skirt ended in a cathedral train. Her veil of marquisette fell from a Mary Queen of Scots hat.

She carried a white prayer book topped with a white purple-throated orchid showered with Stephanotis and satin streamers.

Mrs. Edward Hones Jr., sister of the bride, of Aiken, South Carolina, attended the bride as matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Miss Sylvia Ann Williams and Miss Harriet Young Cooper Junior bridesmaids were Miss Lina Ann Eyer of Elizabeth City and Miss Dorothy Carolyn Creech of Oxford, nieces of the bride.

All the attendants wore identical gowns of bridesmaid red taffeta with off-shoulder necklines, basque waists and full skirts worn over hoops. They wore matching head bands and carried bouquets of white poinsettias.

Joseph O. Clark, brother of the bridegroom, of Greenville served as best man.

Ushers were Larry James of Farmville, Charles Moye of Greenville, Leonard Creech of Oxford and William Hunt, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Hunt chose for her daughter's wedding an original of French blue satin trimmed with seed pearls and blue rhinestones. She wore a matching hat and a corsage of red roses.

The bridegroom's mother was attired in a dress of teal blue taffeta trimmed in blue sequins. Her hat was also teal blue and she wore a corsage of red roses.

Following the ceremony, the couple greeted their guests in the church vestibule.

For their wedding trip to an unannounced destination, the bride changed to a wisteria wool suit with matching accessories and the orchid from her prayer book pinned to her fur scarf.

Mrs. Clark is a graduate of Henderson High School and at present is a senior at East Carolina College, Greenville. Mr. Clark was graduated from Greenville High School and the University of North Carolina where he was a member of the Sigma Nu fraternity. He is now an agent for the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company in Greenville.

California dates and figs were served.

Guests invited in for dessert were Mrs. Burt Greene, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. F. F. Hendrix, mother of the groom, and Miss Estelle Greene, aunt of the honoree.

Following several progressions of bridge, high score prize was awarded Miss Helen Stokes and low score prize went to Mrs. Rudolf Scheller. Floating prize was won by Miss Barbara Batchelor.

News From Ballards

By MRS. G. S. NICHOLS

Members of the Women's Auxiliary of the Piney Grove Baptist Church met in the home of Mrs. Mildred Humbles for their December meeting which is the annual Christmas meeting. The home was beautifully decorated in keeping with the season.

The meeting opened by singing "Joy to the World," followed with prayer.

Mrs. Myrtle Ruth Tyson read the Bible lesson from 1st John 4: 7-20 and very inspiringly presented a program on "God's Love to the World through the Gift of His Son Jesus Christ." She closed with a prayer.

During a brief business session over which Mrs. Evelyn Nobles presided, officers were elected for the incoming year and the group voted to remember the sick and shut-ins of the community with Christmas cheer. There were 6 places reported for members from the Auxiliary to visit.

Following this session Mrs. Myrtle Ruth Tyson distributed the beautifully wrapped gifts among the 24 members present and each one found out who her Pollyanna Friend had been through out the year. Mrs. Humbles assisted by other members then served delicious refreshments of iced punch, cake, and roasted nuts.

On Wednesday evening Dec. 23 a very appropriate and inspirational Christmas program was presented by the Sunday School at Piney Grove Baptist Church to a church filled audience. Following the program gifts were presented to every member present from a beautifully decorated tree and upon leaving the church fruit was served in the vestibule.

On Sunday morning there were 170 present for Sunday School and officers and teachers were elected for the year of 1955.

Beginning on 2nd Sunday evening in January there will be preaching services at the church on each 2nd Sunday evening in addition to the regular 2nd Sunday morning service.

On 1st Sunday evening in January a young people's league will be organized at the church to which all young people in the community are invited to attend. Mrs. Frances Cassick will assist in this organization.

On Sunday December 12 Jack Tyson was honored at a birthday dinner at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Tyson. Mrs. Tyson and his aunt, Miss Thelma Flanagan were hostesses. The menu consisted of roasted chickens with all the supplements, a salad, and delicious home-made coconut cake with pineapple topped with whipped cream and cherries for dessert.

Guests included Mrs. Jack Tyson, Ronald Tyson and Mrs. Mamie R. Holloway, a nearby neighbor whose birthday was on the same day as Mr. Tyson's.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Reavis who have been making their home with Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Harris for the past year have moved in the house recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Batts.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Tyson Jr. and family of Wisconsin, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tyson of Princeton, New Jersey, Mr. and Mrs. James Fulfer and family of Knoxville, Tenn., Edwin Tyson of near Pensacola, Fla., and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Tyson and family of Greenville were visitors in the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Tyson during the Christmas holidays.

On Christmas day Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Dunn had as dinner guests members of their family and included Mr. and Mrs. William Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Clayton and children, Mr. and Mrs. Hudson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dunn and children of Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mercer of New Bern and

Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Sugg and Mr. and Mrs. Jodie Bailey and family of near the home.

Wills Crawford, student at Campbell College and Jimmie Earl Sutton, student at Lenoir College are spending the holidays at their homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Tyson of Winston-Salem were weekend visitors of Mrs. G. T. Tyson.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bowden of Norfolk, Va. were Saturday afternoon visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Barber.

Louis Holloway returned Thursday night from a visit to friends in Nashville, Tenn. and Eastland Mississippi.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Whitehurst of Conetoe and Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Hyman and children of Bethel were Sunday afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Crawford.

Mrs. Corrine Stokes and daughter Linda of Washington are spending the holidays with Mrs. Stokes' mother, Mrs. Mamie R. Holloway.

Mrs. Warren Reynolds and little son left by plane from Raleigh last week for their home at Fort Knox, Louisville, Kentucky. Mrs. Reynolds had been visiting her mother, Mrs. W. H. Elks who is ill at her home.

On Friday evening Dec. 24, Mr. and Mrs. Noah L. Edwards entertained at a family party honoring members of Mrs. Edwards' family. The home was decorated beautifully in keeping with the season and after gifts were distributed from a lovely decorated tree refreshments were served consisting of iced drinks, fruit cake, candies, and Christmas fruits. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. James E. Gatlin of Tarboro, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Hyman and sons of near Bethel, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Evans and sons of near Greenville and Johnnie and Willis Crawford from near the home.

Books by Peter Marshall also have places on both best-seller lists. "A Man Called Peter" was in 7th place last year, and now "The Prayers of Peter Marshall" is in 8th. So tastes remain the same, at least in some things.

Some of the differences: Last year's best sellers seem to have had much better staying power than this year's. For example, "The Robe" was still up there, on the list for the 188th time—some kind of a record, if we're not mistaken—and "Così fan tutti" had been on the list for over 48 weeks. The only other novel that has been on the list for over twenty weeks are "Mary Anne," by Daphne du Maurier, Igor Gouzenko's "The Fall of a Titan," and Steinbeck's "Sweet Thursday."

Noe of this year's best sellers has held up anywhere nearly as well as the ones we mentioned above that were on the lists last year.

Which of course doesn't mean that last year's were any better, necessarily, but only that people kept on reading them longer.

'Books and Stuff'

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG

The end of the year is always a time for looking back at how things were last year, so we've been examining the Best Seller lists for last week and last week a year ago—December 20, 1953, to be exact. We find that the lists have changed a lot—in fact, the only book that is on both of them in the Times Book Review version is Norman Vincent Peale's "The Power of Positive Thinking" which now is in the Number 1 spot for general reading for the stunning total of 111 times, almost two years.

There were some other similarities, though not such striking ones: There are novels on the best-seller lists in both 1953 and 1954 by two of the same authors, Ernest K. Gann and Frank Yerby. Last year, Yerby's "The Devil's Laughter" was in 15th place. This week his newest book, "Benton's Row," has hit the list for the first time and is Number 11. Does pretty well, this Yerby. And Gann's "The High and the Mighty" was in 4th place last year. This week his "Soldier of Fortune" occupies the same berth, having hit the list for the ninth time.

Books by Peter Marshall also have places on both best-seller lists. "A Man Called Peter" was in 7th place last year, and now "The Prayers of Peter Marshall" is in 8th. So tastes remain the same, at least in some things.

Message for today: Barbara Ward's article in this week's Times, "Real Religion—and False," which we hope you had a chance to read. Here's what she says about why Christianity is disturbing to the Russian bureaucrats: "Christianity at the deepest level of human experience in the imagination and will of the individual citizen, can set up a divided allegiance, and that division may in time prove a loophole of freedom, a small but widening rift in the absolute claims of the total state... Hope for the future—we hope..."

The book being reviewed today also is appropriate for the Christmas Season—a history of Jerusalem. Our reviewer is Mrs. Madge Allen, art supervisor of the Greenville colored schools.

The Holy City By Albert Williams Boston: Duell, Sloan and Pearce—Little, Brown and Company, 1954. When Albert Williams wrote "The Holy City" he made possible in one volume the answers to a great many questions people have been asking about the origin of Jerusalem. He is a graduate of Yale, and has worked with various radio broadcasting services. While writing the book he was Director of Public Relations at the University of Denver.

Besides "The Holy City," Mr. Williams has done a collection of articles for the Saturday Review, a general history of Colorado titled "Rocky Mountain Country," and a recent history of the Bible "The Book by My Side." With his experience in research, Mr. Williams is well qualified to write a history of Jerusalem.

For more days than can be remembered the worshippers of Jehovah had been wanderers among the hills of Moab. Their burning desire was to have a permanent home. Around 1200 B.C. they began a conquest of Canaan. Across the history of these people run the names of all the great of Biblical times. Abraham, who fathered the tribes, Joseph, Joshua Gideon, and finally David, who captured the walled fortress of Uru-Salim. — Even today Jerusalem is known as David's City. It was Solomon who made the city great, and built the first Temple, not so much for the glory of Jehovah as for the glory of Solomon. Off and on for many generations the Hebrews lost and recaptured Jerusalem.

It became a symbol to them, for the desires to have a permanent home was more than they could give up. Because it took war to keep their home, the Hebrews looked for a militant leader. They are still looking for such a leader, and have never accepted Jesus.

There are three religious groups to whom Jerusalem is sacred, Judaism, Christianity, and Islam. They have their foundations in Moses. In our Modern world the Jew keeps himself a man apart. He has always held on to the fact that he belongs to the chosen people.

And now, under the Zionist movement, there is another journey back into the promised land. The ancient fight with the Arabs is still in force. As the sacred city of Israel, Jerusalem is the foundation stone of the present state. If the world would recognize that there could be no Israel without Jerusalem, there would be peace in the land of Palestine.

The Session has called a congregational meeting January 9 at 7:30 p.m. to be conducted in the Sanctuary for the purpose of discussing the Subject of the Union of the U. S. Presbyterian Church (Southern), the U.S.A. Presbyterian Church (Northern), and the United Presbyterian Church. A secret ballot vote on "For Union—"Against Union" will be taken at the conclusion of the meeting. You are urged to remember this meeting in your prayers that we may find and do God's will. You are also asked to inform yourself on the subject of Church Union by reading the pamphlet prepared by the General Assembly on the subject: "Statement on Issues Concerning Presbyterian Union."

The Session will meet Jan. 16 at 7:30 p.m. for the purpose of electing a representative to the meeting of Albemarle Presbytery (Jan. 18, 10 a.m., First Presbyterian Church, Washington, N. C.) which will vote on the subject.

Attend Funeral of Nephew Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Boykin have returned from Durham and Oxford where they were called on account of the critical illness and death of their nephew, Mr. John Watson Cannady.

Watch Night Service There will be a Watch Night Service at the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church tonight from 8:30 until 12:05 a.m. There will be readings, singing, three films will be shown. The titles are "All For Him" 28 minutes on Christian Stewardship; "Now I See," a 27 minute film on "Christie" Stewardship; and "Sent Forth," a 16 minute film or the importance of organized Church Visitation. There will be a fifteen minute drama on the subject, "The New Creation". Different objects of prayer will be used and an offering for the building fund will be received.

Watch Night Service St. James Methodist Church will hold a Watch Night Service tonight, beginning at 11:30, at Third Street School. This is the traditional observance of the coming of the New Year dating back to the days of John Wesley. The form of service he observed will be followed.

Migration Loss Is Drawing Attention

There appears to be a growing awareness of North Carolina's very real loss through migration. The most recent study, by Dr. Horace Hamilton of N. C. State College, shows a net loss of some 261,000 people over a ten-year period (1940-50).

If it is not, it should be, a matter of grave concern to North Carolinians; for it probably cost billions of dollars to raise

We're Still Moving Toward A Centralized State

Under Republican administrations and under Democratic administrations, the nation is moving more and more toward a centralized state where all authority is vested in the federal government.

The trend has advanced markedly in recent decades, and it appears that the trend will continue.

Just one example is sufficient to point out the trend. Federal aid to education is coming up again when Congress meets next year. Chances are the proposal will have more support this time than it has had in the past; although we hope it will not have sufficient support to be written into law.

Unless the grass roots citizens in the thousands of communities throughout the nation make up their minds they want education left to the individual states, sooner or later we will have federal aid for education. When it comes about, we shall likewise have federal control of education. It will mark another step in this country toward nation-wide regimented thought. It will leave the nation more vulnerable to dictatorship and many foreignisms than is now the case.

Will the people be able to withstand the temptation to accept the dollars and in turn give up another of their precious privileges?

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
FINDER A LESSON FROM THE PAST

Most right-minded people today are loyal to the United Nations. They recognize it as mankind's only hope for peace. They are not too sure as to the outcome. If they had to lay a wager, they probably would not give even money on the chances of victory. With communism and its devilry at work as leaven in the world, and with many of the nations—in fact some of the most important—believing that they can appease this evil force and stave off the evil day, the chances for peace sometimes look grim. This does not mean that war is inevitable. It certainly is not inevitable, but our position is not comfortable.

The huge modernistic building which houses the United Nations looks terrifyingly like the picture we have all seen of the ancient Tower of Babel and you recall what happened to that tower. In ancient times men believed that they could build a tower, the top of which would reach to heaven, and make themselves a name. And God came down and confounded their language and scattered them unto the ends of the earth.

Are we not attempting to find peace through economic advantage and military power instead of finding the true and eternal things of the Spirit upon which the soul of man subsists? There is a decided limit to what organization can do. Only the Spirit counts in a spiritual universe.

Wide Trade Law Violation

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Approximately one-third of the merchandise purchased during the year-end holiday season has been sold in acknowledged violation of the "Fair Trade Law," according to unofficial statistics here. It parallels the bootlegging of liquor under the unenforceable prohibition statutes.

The unprecedented buying before Christmas and New Year's has subjected this two-year-old law to its severest test. Discount houses have sprung up in almost every large city to undersell the prices which the law permits manufacturers to fix for their products. In order to meet this competition, regular stores have shaved prices below standards or offered unrealistic trade-in values.

The United States Chamber of Commerce estimates that 18 per cent, or $25 billion worth of goods, obtains an outlet through discount houses. But it says that the total reaches $50 billion, or 36 per cent, when the bargain rates of regular stores are included. LEGAL SNARL—The economic confusion has led to a legal snarl and squabbles among both retailers and manufacturers. Numerous labor and consumer groups have started a movement for repeal, denouncing the "manufacturers' lobby." Actually, it is the small retailers who want the law as protection against larger and more powerful price-cutters.

General Electric has announced that it will no longer fix prices for its products. But most of the appliance firms, headed by Westinghouse, insist that the law be retained and enforced. They are refusing to sell to those who flout the statute.

Many reputable retailers in New York, Washington, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis and elsewhere are meeting discount house competition in novel ways. When they do not cut prices outright, they open suburban warehouses for bootleg sales, offer generous trade-in bargains or produce their own lines. But only the big fellows can afford to resort to these devices. STORE ONLY SHOWROOM—Several manufacthese people to an age of productivity, and in addition the state loses the billions of dollars of income that might have been spent here at home.

To be sure, the state has shown a population increase of over 490,000 for the decade, due to a soaring birthrate and lowered death rate; but the fact remains that North Carolina is losing a valuable segment of its human resources.

How much are we losing? Well, we have lost the cost of rearing and educating the thousands of migrants who will provide population deficit areas with a young and productive labor supply. Many of the migrants will take with them their money and other personal property; some will hold title to or inherit real estate and other property which cannot be moved physically; thus adding to the volume of absentee ownership of our state's wealth. The cost of raising a person from birth to 18 years of age has been estimated between $7,766 to $16,337, depending on family income and standards of living.

Additionally we have lost the earning power of our migrants together with their corresponding expenditures and productivity.

The key to retaining this vast sum of resources does not lie in Raleigh. Rather it reposes within each county, each city and each community. For the real cause of migration is basically dissatisfaction; whether due to economic or social problems.

Each new industry, each new business, each stable and growing business that offers extra inducement to "stay home" in North Carolina is worthy of a fervent thanksgiving from all Tar Heels.

Whereas the State government can help, it is largely up to local communities to develop and build conditions that can absorb our population and save for North Carolina as a whole the wealth we "export".

Let it be assumed the aforementioned 260,000 migrants of the past decade represent at least an economic contribution of $15,000 per capita, which figures at $3,900,000,000, for the whole.

That is not buttons!

Selected Shorts

Probably the most important single influence in keeping the 1953-54 recession within moderate bounds, according to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, was the continued vigor of the building industry during that period.

BOSTON, MASS. JEWISH ADVOCATE: "It appears that the Soviet Government, as part of its co-existence theme, has now decided to slow down its campaign against religion. A new decree, signed by Mr. Khrushchev, the Party Secretary, orders all Soviet officials to avoid rudeness and violent language in their anti-religious propaganda. However, despite pious pronouncements, their real attitude toward religion continues to remain one of hostility, a point made clear in the very issue of Pravda in which the Secretary's pronouncement appeared. Other publications also continue to call religion the defender of all that is stagnant and old and seek zealous support of atheism. All of which indicates clearly that Soviet hostility towards religion remains as firm, ruthless and reprehensible as it was under Lenin and Stalin."

According to him, buyers visit Gimbel's, copy the model numbers and then buy at a cut-rate place. Reports tend to substantiate his complaint. They show that suburban "budget" stores are outselling their downtown headquarters in many cities. Traffic congestion also benefits the fringe outlets. RECALLS PROHIBITION DAYS—The problem of enforcement in the 45 states where the "Fair Trade Law" operates, recalls prohibition days. Although the McGuire Act is a Federal Statute, and violation could be regarded as "unfair practice," neither the Department of Justice nor the Federal Trade Commission have the personnel, the facilities or the funds to detect and prosecute.

It is obvious that the manufacturers, as some retailers demand, cannot police their prices. Enforcement costs would boost the price of everything they sell. In short, the law is unenforceable as was the Volstead Act and the states' anti-liquor decrees.

STUDYING WHAT CAN BE DONE—Both the D of J and the FTC are studying the confusing and baffling situation. There have been reports that the Brownell Committee might recommend repeal. It is more probable, however, that it will suggest a more logical and practical method of making the law applicable to retailers.

The present statute provides that if a single retailer signs a "Fair Trade" agreement with a manufacturer, the law then becomes binding on every other retailer in that same state.

Proposed revision would require that a certain percentage, possibly 50 per cent, of a state's retailers agree to abide by the law before it becomes effective in that selling area. As a result, there would be more people interested in seeing that the law was obeyed,

Don't Weep For Me

Somebody Told Me

Changes After Seven Years

Somebody asked me the contrast in a newly wed and an old married man. "Very interesting question," I said. "I can give you a general idea of the contrast after seven and a half years" and proceeded to do so.

After a period of time you get to know each other so well that you almost can't say before the other one is going to say before he says it. Is that good or bad? Good, if you act in accordance with the other's wishes. Bad if you know the wishes and still go against them.

The average husband doesn't open the car door for his wife as much after seven years. And you don't find the average husband grabbing coats and pulling out chairs as much. For this slacking off, there's no excuse.

I say that realizing that I'm as guilty as anybody.

Finances? After seven years the wife has learned that the husband will hold her finances down to nothing if possible. By this time she's learned to hold something out of the grocery money in order to get a frock now and then. And she's usually learned more angles to keep from being completely squelched financially. Admittedly, the average husband doesn't shower his wife with money. Instead, he usually tries to keep her spending at a minimum.

Arguments? By this time you've learned that it doesn't help. Flare ups? Impossible to eliminate them completely, but by this time they are almost a thing of the past.

Possessiveness? Not that love has lessened, but after the years go by husband and wife more often go separate ways without much ado. The wife goes to see her folks and the husband goes fishing without an act of congress. Of course the house is just as empty as ever with the family gone.

Progress? As years go by the husband-wife team grows more interested in progress for the family. Mainly in the children. Their appearance, opportunities for enjoyment, facilities for play. The house becomes a bigger factor; making improvements almost faster than the pocketbook will allow. Every step of progress is enjoyed by all.

And I thank you.

What Other Editors Are Thinking

NOT THE ANSWER (Wilson Times)

The appointments of one more special judge in North Carolina is not the answer to our court problems in this state. It has been proposed that Governor Hodges name another special judge. It is also pointed out that the court cases are piling up all over North Carolina now awaiting trials.

All of us will admit that one more special judge could help some, but what we need to do is to get at the bottom of the trouble and eliminate it there.

The main trouble lies in several factors, the main one of which rests with the present courts. They just waste too much time, and "do nothing" terms of court are costing our taxpayers a goodly sum each year. When a judge goes to a county to hold court on Monday, arriving about noon, and leaves on Wednesday or Thursday to go home, leaving most of the cases untried, then there is no way to clear the crowded dockets.

Before we go to the expense of appointing more special judges in North Carolina, we need to put those we have to work and stop this practice of continuing cases on any old excuse, of delaying and wasting time in court, and of adjourning courts in the middle of the week.

The civil courts in our state are particularly crowded because the judges seem to allow the lawyers to continue cases at will. Sometimes when all the cases which are called are continued, then there is nothing left for the judge to hear. As a result he stays only a short time in the court house.

Then this rotation system needs overhauling. So long as no particular judge is responsible for clearing the dockets, then we'll continue to have overcrowded dockets. When one judge can go to a county and feel no real responsibility for clearing the docket, then it is human nature to consider that in most instances he will not try to clear it.

Then our entire judicial system needs some reform. We are outmoded in several spots, and we need to do a little streamlining. Juries are called on Monday morning, and in so many places they just sit there and wait for the whims of the judge who is often late. And most of Monday is spent reviewing the calendar and doing nothing. It is a waste of time for the jurors who don't want to be in court in the first place.

So before we go out and spend more money hiring more judges, let us put those we have to work. The state has a right to expect a good week's work for a good week's pay.

If the judges would bear down in courts on matters pertaining to the procedures in court and stop the stalling practices, then we would do far better in clearing the dockets than we would in appointing more judges. In fact it could be that another appointed judge would be just another judge to waste more time for more people.

Let us overhaul our present system first.

Big Stories Of 1954 Were About Death And Weather

By LYNN NISBET

BIG STORIES—The big stories in North Carolina during 1954 were about death and the weather.

Editors of Associated Press newspapers in the Carolinas gave Hurricane Hazel top place and nearly all of them included the drought as another big story. The hurricane was spectacular and unique in the swiftness and extent of damage done. A few weeks ahead of Hazel, Hurricane Carol and Edna had wrought slight damage in North Carolina, but more in New England. The three storms combined wrote new weather history for the eastern part of the United States. In that respect the hurricane stories were bigger news than the drought.

Estimates of total losses occasioned by the drought exceed those due to the storms. Direct property damage and human injury were less spectacular, but the curtailed production of food and feed crops, the dried up pastures, the empty municipal water reservoirs with attendant discomfort and illness, put the drought throughout the whole southeast as a major event. Though less apparent on the surface the loss damage in greater and will require longer time to recoup than that caused by the hurricanes.

DEATHS—The same editors give place among the ten big stories in North Carolina to the deaths of Governor William Umstead and Senator Clyde Hoey. These two along with deaths of "Mr. Bob" Doughton, Forrest Shuford and Dr. Howard Odum combine to make activities of the Grim Reaper one of the biggest stories. The Governor's death was the most significant North Carolinians have become, unfortunately accustomed to Senators dying, and old men passing off the scene. It had been more than 63 years since a North Carolina Governor died in office. The impact of the Governor's death upon the State government may well make this the biggest story of 1954 when long range perspective is obtained.

OTHERS—Although the story originated in the District of Columbia instead of North Carolina, the anti-segregation decision of the Supreme Court is given high rating as an important story for this State.

The bomb explosion which injured the Edenton police chief and started an investigation that cleared up another bombing mystery at Mount Airy in 1951. Nannie Doss indictment for poisoning her husband in Nebraska and prior poisoning deaths in Davidson county, are rated high in crime news.

There will be more question about including the nomination of Kerr Scott over Alton Lennon to the United States Senate as "big news." That result had been expected by most political observers, and it would have been much bigger news if Lennon had won. The AP editors gave ninth place to the vote fraud charges and subsequent indictments in western counties. The thing that made this year's election fraud story bigger than those charged almost every election was the coming in of a congressional investigating committee.

Tenth place in the list was given to the riot at Woman's Prison after death of Negro convict Eleanor Rush. That pushed out such events as the Goldsboro explosion in which persons were killed, the crash of a plane into a mess hall at Fort Bragg and several other runners up.

OPINION—The rating of stories is the composite verdict of fifty or more men, among whom was wide divergence of opinion. In reaching decision they used the same kind of judgment they apply to placing stories on the front page or inside and the size of headlines. The fact that 22 editors gave first place to Hazel and 20 voted for the desegregation issue for that honor indicates the diversity of thinking.

Since it is wholly a matter of opinion, your reporter submits an observation or two on his own account. OVERPLAYED—Five of the ten big stories concerned death and three of these involved crime. Another was about illegal voting. There are two disaster stories, hurricane and drought. That leaves the Supreme Court decision which originated out of the State and the election of Senator Scott, which is questionable for big ten rating. The court decision, the

Business Today

Business Legislation

By ELMER ROESSNER
The incoming Congress may be slowed down a bit because it will have so much to do in re-enacting legislation that expires next year. And debates over extension of some laws may drag on considerably.

Some forty public laws expire during 1955, according to research by the legislative department of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. Some of them will be re-enacted as a matter of course. Others will be superseded by new legislative works. Some will be allowed to die quietly, including some surviving war emergency laws. But over others, old fights will be fought out again.

Many of the expiring laws have important bearing on business. Some of them are:

The law creating the Small Business Administration. The SBA is supposed to terminate on June 30, but the President has power to continue it until December 31. It is probable the new Congress will continue the SBA, in view of its successful work in the field.

Increases in excises on wines, liquors, cigarettes, gasoline and autos, expiring April 1. These are almost certain to be re-enacted, with major debate on for how long a period.

Increase of corporate taxes expiring June 30. They'll be continued for another year.

Authority of the President to enter into trade agreements. It expires June 12.

Suspension of certain duties on copper. Expires June 30.

Secretary of Agriculture's authority to make emergency loans to farms and stockmen. Expires June 30; almost sure to be extended.

Law creating the Foreign Operations Administration. Expires June 30. Will be continued, although changes may be made.

Home and farm purchase loan authority of the Veterans' Administration. Expires June 30. Continuation likely.

Various provisions of the Housing Act will expire July 1. Again, there may be extensive revisions.

Authority of the Secretary of Agriculture to make loans to producer, and feeders of livestock. Expires July 14.

Businessmen with strong views on the continuance or discontinuance of this and other legislation may find it easier to get in touch with their Congressional representatives before the legislators reconvene in January.

"CAPTIVE STORE" TEST—BLOCKED BY AGREEMENT

The Justice Department-Eastman Kodak agreement is pleasing to firms eager to get into the business of developing and printing color films. It is disappointing to a number of other large corporations.

Little noticed in the agreement is a provision by which Eastman agreed to discontinue the fixing of retail prices.

Eastman, like several other large manufacturing companies, owns a few retail stores. The Department of Justice had held that since it was also a retailer, Eastman could not use "fair trade" laws to fix prices. Other manufacturers have been hoping that Eastman would make a test case of the matter appealing to the Supreme Court if necessary. They were especially pleased over the idea of Eastman paying the legal bills for this. But now that Eastman has agreed to drop fixed prices, there won't be any test.

Incidentally, the Eastman capitulation means that some of its products may be appearing in discount houses.

OFFICES FURTHER AWAY BUT EASIER TO GET TO

The helicopter, it seems, may be an instrument for the further dispersal of business.

Reichhold Chemicals is concentrating administrative, sales, foreign and export departments in one building at White Plains, N.Y. It plans to establish a helicopter shuttle service between a nearby landing spot and airfields around New York City. Salesmen and executives can then be in company offices within minutes after their planes from distant cities land. In short, the White Plains office will be closer in time to San Francisco, St. Louis or Paris than would be offices in the heart of Manhattan.

You Too Can Pick Up A Coffin

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—You, too can win a coffin this weekend. Hundreds of Americans will. They always do on long holidays. Starting tonight, the harvest of death promises to be particularly heavy during the three-day period that rings out an old year and brings in a new. It may exceed the nation's shameful fatality toll during the Christmas weekend.

Millions of people will celebrate New Year's Eve quietly at home with family and friends. They'll wake up tomorrow, feeling about as usual, except maybe a bit excited about the prospects for 1955.

Few of them will earn a coffin this weekend. They're going about it all wrong. They want to live. They don't want to die.

If you want to earn a coffin fast on a holiday, you can't relax and take it easy and sensible. You gotta work hard at your play. You gotta be careless and take chances. Coffins aren't for cautious people.

To get a quick coffin you can't treat life as an investment. You have to enjoy it like you do Russian roulette, or a lottery that pays the winner with a black ticket.

Why should a real sport like you waste a holiday by spending another dull night at home? Kid, you're the torch — and the night's on fire.

Here are a few tried and time-tested ways to win that holiday coffin:

1. If you are middle-age and overweight, be sure to eat too much, drink too much, and keep on dancing hours after your heart is too tired even to whisper anymore. "Please stop."

2. If you are a young girl out with a pack of kids racing their fathers' cars, go along without protest. If you don't, the other kids will call you a "sissy." But if you do — think how pretty you'll be in a coffin, a prayer book or a flower in your hands, and everybody standing around looking at you crying.

3. Don't drink until you're blind drunk before you start driving home. . . . sep taking one for the road" until you're half-blind. Then you've got an even better chance to win that coffin — and maybe five more coffins for the family in the car you cre" into. But if you get "nd drunk you may not even have the strength to drive at all.

4. If you're a pedestrian walking home late at night, don't wait for the traffic lights to change. You can cross the street anytime you want to, can't you? Anyway, that guy in the car rocking from side to side as it speeds down the street can see you, can't he? . . . Can't he? . . . Can't he?"

5. Be the life of the party. When they throw open the windows to hear the midnight bells, bet 'em you can lean out farther than anybody. Keep on leaning . . . farther . . . farther . . . until they quit laughing and start screaming. Okay, you won. Now you're the death of the party.

These are only a few ways to win a coffin on a holiday. There are scores of other ways. Many of them are easy. This is a complex world and geared to steady performance. Just a moment of foolishness on your part and you are no longer a human being — but a bit of silent mortal flesh caught on the cog of a mechanical age.

Time will cure a New Year's hangover in the home; in the morgue there is no cure.

Anybody who wants a coffin on a holiday can win it. The next problem is how to live in it. And that hasn't been solved.

drought and the hurricanes affected other States even more seriously than they did North Carolina, and cannot be regarded as exclusive Tarheel stories. It would be interesting to see what these same editors would say about the most overplayed stories of the year. Your reporter nominates the McCarthy hear-

Unbeaten Phants In Action Tonight

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer

Greenville's undefeated Phantoms try for win number six tonight in Rocky Mount when they tangle with the AAA Blackbirds for the second time in the 1954-55 basketball campaign.

The Greenies have swept through five consecutive AAA Eastern Conference teams without a loss and finish up their non-conference schedule tonight. One of the wins in the string was a 46-35 win over the Rocky Mount club in the first game of the season.

So far this season the Blackbirds have had difficulty with AA Northeastern Conference teams. Besides the loss to Greenville, the Birds dropped two close games to Kinston. A win over the Greenies tonight might save a little face for the Birds.

In their early games the Birds have not shown a really high scoring offense but have looked much stronger on defense. The Greenies have shown tremendous offensive punch as is shown in their 71.8 points per game average. On defense the G-men have allowed their opponents to score at an average rate of 56.2 points per game.

Leading the terrific scoring drive of the Phantoms is Bob Howell and Harold Edwards. Howell and Edwards are the leading rebounders and the leading scorers in sparking the Greenies to their finest start in years. Howell has popped in the points at a 16 points per game rate while Edwards is hitting at 14.8. Pat Sawyer and Tommie Saleed, the two sharp shooting guards, both have identical 11.4 averages. The other starter, forward Edgar Moore, averages eight points per game.

Although the Phantoms laid off for several days during the Christmas holidays, Coach Farley has been working the group hard for the past several days. The team looked ragged when it first started practice again but now the Phantoms are beginning to find their old eye for the goal and are working the ball around better.

The contest should be a real thriller with the Birds having the advantage of the home court this time. Coach Bill Lundy's group held the Phantoms better in the Greenville gym than any other team has done this year. With the home court in their favor the Birds might make it a bad night for Phantom partisans.

The probable starters for the game:

Rocky Mount	F	Greenville
Moynon	F	Howell
Landen	F	Moore
Stallings	C	Edwards
Gilbert	G	Sawyer
Wimberly	G	Saleed

Two Minnesota Stars Get Honor

RALEIGH (AP)—Minnesota, which placed second in the Dixie Classic Wednesday night, today placed two men on the all-tournament basketball team while Wake Forest, North Carolina and tourney winner North Carolina State landed one each.

Wake Forest's Dick Hemric garnered the highest vote with 88 of a possible 90 points.

A total of 45 sports writers made the selections. They gave two points for a first team ballot and one point for a second team selection.

N.C. State's Ron Shavlik, voted the outstanding player of the tournament, was given 87 votes and was followed by Minnesota's Charles Mencil and Dick Garmaker who got 78 and 77 points respectively. North Carolina sophomore Lennie Rosenbluth rounded out the first team with 2.

On the second team were Rod Hundley, West Virginia, 57 votes; Ronnie Mayer, Duke, 54; John Sheehy, Cornell, 42; Phil Dinardo, N.C. State, 17; and John Maglio, N.C. State, 15.

Receiving honorable mention were: Lowell Davis, Wake Forest; Tony Paalis, Southern California; Charles Rolles, Cornell; Jerry Vayda, North Carolina; Joe Belmont, Duke; Dave Gotkin, N.C. State; Pete White, West Virginia; Bill Simonovich, Minnesota; Cliff Dwyer, N.C. State; Al Lifson, North Carolina; Vic Molodet, N.C. State; Ernie Wiggins, Wake Forest; Dick Nagal, Southern California; Ralph Psausig, Southern California; Roy Irvin, Southern California; Gerald Lindsley, Minnesota; and Dick Welsh, Southern California.

EGGZACT FIGURES
STORRS, Conn. (AP)—A University of Connecticut expert gives a simple explanation as to why the widely known Storrs egg-laying contest was established back in 1911. It came about, says Prof. Francis A. Ryan, because breeders in those days made extravagant claims about the egg-laying abilities of their hens.

Top Thoroughbred by Pap'

No thoroughbred of this generation has captured the fancy of the racing public as Native Dancer. The great grey galloper also captured the fancy of the Thoroughbred Racing Association Selection Board, made up of the racing secretaries at TRA tracks. The board voted Native Dancer as the American Champion for 1954. This despite the fact that the white faced colt made only three starts during the year.

This marked the second American Championship award for Native Dancer. In 1952, the great son of Polyanest-Gelsha earned the two-year-old championship as well as the over all title after he had reeled off nine consecutive impressive victories. It was the first time a juvenile had been so honored. In 1953,

Sports Memories That Will Linger

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK (AP)—When 1954 is gone, these memories will linger on:

Ted Williams slumped in the rear of a station wagon, grimly clutching his left shoulder, and fearing the worst while a doctor speeds him to a hospital for X-rays of a collarbone, broken in his first workout at the Red Sox camp at Sarasota, Fla. . . . Months later Casey Stengel wishing they would hurry up and take the pin out of Ted's shoulder "so I can stick it into some of my Yankees."

Hurricane Jackson huffing and puffing until he blew down Dan Bucecconi at the Eastern Parkway in Brooklyn and then blowing out to sea with inept performances against cute Jimmy Slade and big Nino Valdes. . . . The sour taste left after the Johnny Saxton-Kid Gavilan writer title "fight" in Philadelphia.

Willie Mays racing into the next county to take Vic Wertz's long smash over his head in the "big catch" of the World Series and Leo Durocher, the boss, saying "I've seen Willie catch so many things he does even fazes me." . . . Dusty Rhodes winning the opener with a 270-foot homer that bounced back on the field to renew the old arguments about the origin of the term "Chinese homer."

The boxing lesson Ezzard Charles was giving Rocky Marciano in the early rounds of their first fight until Rocky's heavy bombs left you wondering what was holding up Ezzie.

Ralph Guglielmi, Notre Dame's brilliant All-America quarterback staging a fine show against Penn and directing the Irish attack against Southern Methodist to win acclaim as one of Notre Dame's best. . . . Red Rolfe in his ivy-twined office at Dartmouth explaining how he'd still like to take another whack at managing in the big leagues, with the right club.

Halfback Ron Clark, the only physical question mark in the Cornhusker camp, appeared to have recovered fully from an ankle sprain and trainer Paul Schneller said he would be able to go against Duke. . . . Schneider said the Nebraska team "is as high as it was before the Colorado game, when we reached our season's peak."

Kickoff time is 2 p.m. (EST).

WHITE DEER IS FREAK
ROSCOMMON, Mich. (AP)—A small, snow-white animal caught near Roscommon has been identified as a freak deer. It is about two feet high, has legs only 10 inches long and is all white, except for its eyes and muzzle. Elsworth M. Harger, Conservation Department biologist, said it was a malformed fawn less than a year old and was not a true albino because of the color of its eyes and nose.

Plan Semi-Pro Baseball Team For Greenville

Although the chances of getting a professional baseball team back in Greenville next year are slim, there will be baseball in the city in the form of a semi-pro team in the Bright Belt League.

Floyd Nichols announced yesterday that plans have been made to give the Greenies a semi-pro club. Already the entire catching equipment and all 19 of the uniforms have been purchased for the squad. Money is still needed to buy balls and bats and some surplus money is needed to help fix up Guy Smith Stadium.

Nichols said the team would be a member of the strong, eight team Bright Belt Loop. Pete Carraway will be the manager of the team.

All the plans have not been completed as yet but Nichols said there would be a meeting soon of the players and officials of the team. That meeting will be announced in the Daily Reflector.

It will be the first organized baseball in Greenville since the year the Robins lost their franchise in the Coastal Plain League. That same year a semi-pro team was started in Greenville but it flunked out too. This new team will be making a start in a town that used to be a rabid baseball town.

Navy, Ohio State, Duke And Georgia Tech Are Favorites

By RIP WATSON
The Associated Press

Navy, Ohio State, Georgia Tech and Duke held the favorites roles today as the teams and fans made final preparations for tomorrow's annual New Year's Day carnival of football bowl games.

Tickets were as scarce as an optimistic word from the various coaches, but no one had to worry too much about seeing any of the big classics, for all of the big ones will be available on television.

Navy, making its first bowl appearance in 30 years before an expected crowd of 82,000, was the thinnest sort of favorite thanks to a wave of injuries in the final week of training. The Middies (7-2-0), ranked fourth in the Associated Press' final poll of the season, met Mississippi's sixth-ranked Rebels (9-1-0) in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans. It's the only game involving two of the top 10 teams.

Mississippi won the Southeastern Conference title, while Navy was awarded the Lambert Trophy as the best team in the East.

The Rose Bowl can boast the No. 1 team in the nation in Ohio State (9-0-0), but a Pacific Coast Conference rule prevented a "dream game" — Ohio State vs. UCLA, No. 2. Because they appeared in the bowl last year, the Uclans are ineligible this year, so Southern California (8-3-0) will furnish the opposition.

UCLA whacked Southern Cal 34-0 during the season. Even so, Coach Woody Hayes of Ohio State declines comment on the outcome. His team will be favored by 13½ points against the Trojans before a crowd of 100,300. Duke (7-2-1) is a 13½-point choice over Nebraska (6-4-0) in Miami's Orange Bowl, where 68,000 are expected despite the total of six defeats and one tie on the two teams' records.

Georgia Tech (7-3-0), a virtually perennial bowl team, is a slight choice over Arkansas (8-2-0) in Dallas' Cotton Bowl. A capacity crowd of 75,504 is expected to see if All America guard Bud Brooks and his mates can recover the winning formula that carried Arkansas to the Southwest Conference title.

Some 60,000 are expected at the East-West game in San Francisco. The Gator Bowl gets the jump on the other bowls today with Auburn (7-3-0) favored over Baylor (7-3-0) before 34,000 at Jacksonville, Fla.

The rest of the bowl program tomorrow:

Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex. — Texas Western (7-3-0) vs. Florida State (8-3-0).
Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla. (night)—Omaha University (9-0-0) vs. Eastern Kentucky (8-1-0).
Salad Bowl at Phoenix, Ariz. — Skyline Conference all-stars vs. Border Conference all-stars.
Prairie Bowl at Houston—Prairie View College (8-0-1) vs. Texas Southern (3-2-3).
Shrimp Bowl at Galveston, Tex. — Ft. Ord, Calif. (11-1-1) vs. Ft. Hood, Tex. (10-3).

BRASS BUTTON FEVER
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia women apparently relish the idea of working for the police department. Commissioner Thomas Gibbons recently announced openings for 17 policewomen. Over 1,400 women applied for the posts.

Everything Is Ready For Sugar Bowl Except Navy

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Everything is in readiness for tomorrow's 21st annual Sugar Bowl football game — except the Navy team.

All 80,735 tickets have been sold. The weatherman has promised cloudy skies with mild temperatures. Mississippi's Southeastern Conference title team is at hand, hale and hearty.

But four Navy players — three regulars and the team's oft-injured captain — are question marks.

Coach Eddie Erietzat won't know until late today just how many of his feverish four will be on hand for tomorrow's 2 p.m. EST kickoff.

Latest addition to the Navy's growing hospital list is Bob Craig, right halfback and fastest man on the team. He was taken to a naval station hospital yesterday with what was described as acute tonsillitis.

Phil Monahan, captain and also a halfback, is wobbling about on a pair of injured knees. They have benched him for all but 30 minutes during the entire season but it had been expected he would be in shape for Navy's first bowl game in 30 years.

Jim Royer, 211-pound tackle, and John Weaver, halfback and extra point kicker, are troubled with a hip bruise and a sore right knee, respectively.

Erietzat is doubtful if Royer will be able to play but he holds hope for the other three. All four of the situations have developed since Navy arrived at the start of the week to complete its conditioning.

The Navy, whose 27-20 conquest of Army brought it a season's record of seven victories in nine starts, was an immediate three-point favorite when it accepted the Sugar Bowl bid. Now it is no better than an even choice.

Wind And Cold Damages Festive Rose Bowl Floats

PASADENA Calif. (AP)—A windstorm and cold snap has left southern California's chrysanthemums sulking—causing a crisis in the decoration of Tournament of Roses floats.

Virgil White, chairman of the parade float decoration committee said that 80 per cent of the flowers used are chrysanthemums.

"They won't open up," one decorator complained. "It got too cold for them."

Other flowers also were damaged by winds and Tuesday morning's frost. But the main troubles of Woody Kiersey, in charge of decorating eight floats, center around chrysanthemums.

"They got whipped by the wind and dried out," he said. "That makes the blooms fall off. Or else the buds won't open up because of the cold. Or when they do they're sort of bluish and off-color because they aren't really matured."

"Some of the float decorators who didn't order far enough ahead are terribly hurt," said John Dunn, who is directing the job of readying Burbank's float. "We've got plenty of flowers, but only about half of them are open."

Dunn said he was turning lights and artificial heat on his flowers to try to make them think things are balmy in southern California. The weatherman says otherwise: he predicts 35 to 45 degrees tomorrow.

White said that many outdoor flower crops were wiped out by the frost early this week. Flowers are being flown in from other states and Hawaii.

Of 34,700, who hunted deer in 1953 in Montana, 28,567, actually brought home a deer.

Light Drills For Shrine Bowlers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—East and West football squads round out their preparations for tomorrow's Shrine crippled children's benefit game with light warmup drills today with cold-stricken Ralph Guglielmi expected to be back in uniform.

Prospects brightened considerably in the East camp last night when Dr. Ed Amaral, who had ordered the Notre Dame All America quarterback to bed with a bad chest cold, said he definitely would be able to play.

Kickoff time was changed from 1:30 to 1:50 p.m. PST (4:50 EST) because of television and radio commitments. The game will be televised by DuMont and broadcast by Mutual.

'Despair Of Dior' Buys Insurance

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—General Motors has more money in the bank, but no Wall Street corporation can ever hope to match the capital structure of Tempest Storm, Inc.

Certainly, no other corporation has such well-rounded assets.

Tempest storm is a strip-tease dancer with the kind of figure that must give Dior frantic frustration. She has a 41-inch bust.

Draping a $7,500 mink coat on one arm and a press agent on the other, the red-haired Miss Storm breezed into the austere Boston Room of the Statler Hotel yesterday to sign up for one million dollars worth of body insurance with Lloyds of London.

Her press agent even produced a copy of the policy but none of the 50 male reporters bothered to look at it.

Miss Storm explained that she decided to take out the policy after breaking her ankle in a fall on stage some months ago at Minskys in Newark.

"I realize a 41-inch bust is a dime a dozen," she told a reporter. "But how many girls can have a 24-inch waist at the same time?"

Then her press agent announced she was opening New Year's Eve at the Follies for $2,000 a week.

"But," she added, "my managers will only allow me to keep $150 a week for myself. Now that I'm incorporated, I'm flat all the time."

Damage Suit By Lumber Company

The Burke Lumber Company has filed a damage suit charging Fernando C. Martin and Alfred Robertson with illegally cutting and removing timber from a parcel of land in Bethel Township.

The plaintiff seeks to collect $683.99 plus interest for the timber which was alleged to have been removed from the company property.

The plaintiff states that the cutting of the timber occurred on September 1, 1952.

Church To Hold 'Watch Night'

In observance of New Year's a Watch Night communion service will be held at 11:15 tonight at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

The service, which will be held in the sanctuary, will be led by the Rev. Robert McKenzie, Jr.

The public is invited.

Gov't Offices Close Tomorrow

All county, city and state offices will be closed on New Year's Day tomorrow. It has been announced by officials from those departments.

State offices are usually closed on Saturday, so this will be no additional holiday for those employees. All offices will reopen as usual Monday morning.

Six Fire Alarms Here Yesterday

Local firemen were called out six times yesterday, three times to extinguish grass fires and three runs for minor home blazes.

The department was called to the home of P. C. Kemp at 806 River Drive at 10:30 a.m. yesterday when an oil stove flooded. No damage was reported.

At 5:55 p.m. they were called to a home owned by Sam Underwood on Rock Spring Drive when an electric stove shorted out. Damage was minor.

A box alarm sent trucks to the home of Katherine Brown at 110 North Evans Street at 8:42 last night when an oil stove flooded. The blaze was reported to be out on arrival and no damage resulted.

A grass fire was extinguished at Smith and Skinner Streets at 2:40 p.m. yesterday.

At 5:45 a call came to a blaze on North Coast Street beside the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad tracks. The firemen also extinguished a grass fire behind Eppes High School at 3:20 p.m.

Resignation By Sam Worthington Effective Today

Local Attorney Sam O. Worthington's resignation from the State Utilities Commission becomes effective today.

Worthington gave up the $10,000-a-year job after being elected to the State House of Representatives in this year's general election. He was re-elected for the ninth consecutive time to the General Assembly this year.

The legislator said he submitted his resignation to Governor Hodges about a week ago to be effective December 31.

He was appointed to the State Utilities Commission in June, 1953, by the late Governor Umstead. His four-year term was not due to expire until February, 1957.

Temperatures In Abrupt Decline

The temperature in the Greenville area dropped to 34 last night, two degrees above freezing, after several days of spring weather.

Yesterday's highest temperature was 68 degrees. Lowest last night 34, and at 8 a.m. today it was 38. Heavy frost last night.

Yesterday a year ago, the highest temperature here was 58. Lowest that night 41, and at 8 a.m. next day it was 42. One-tenth of an inch of rain that day, the local U.S. Weather Station reported.

Jaycees Vote To Order New Rescue Truck; Need $1,000

Junior Chamber of Commerce members last night voted to place an order for a $9,000 Civil Defense approved emergency rescue truck after hearing a report by Co-Chairman of the drive for funds Ben Rouse.

Rouse told the group that $3,500 has been pledged so far by various governmental units in the county. He told the group that the federal government will pay $4,500 toward the cost of purchasing the truck leaving an additional $1,000 to be raised locally.

He said approximately five months would be required for delivery of the truck after an order is placed. The Jaycee committee appointed to handle the fund raising campaign recommended that the order be placed and plans be made to raise the remaining five months.

Club members voted unanimously to place an order for the truck. The $3,500 has been donated by governments of the county, Greenville and other towns in Pitt County. Rouse reported that every town contacted by the Jaycee committees had pledged the amount of money requested of them.

The county commissioners pledged $1,500 to the drive, Greenville pledged $1000, Ayden and Farmville $250 each, and Fountain, Bethel, Grimesland, Winterville and Grifton $100 each. In addition the committee plans to contact the Falkland town government and ask that they contribute $100 to the project.

The truck will give Pitt County one of the most completely equipped rescue trucks in the state. Included will be hundreds of items for rescue and other emergency work.

The vehicle is to be maintained and operated by the Greenville Fire Department and will be used in conjunction with the emergency ambulance now housed in the downtown Greenville fire station.

Rouse told the Junior Chamber of Commerce members last night that efforts to obtain a truck which would meet Civil Defense specifications but which could be obtained cheaper than the truck which will be purchased through them had proved futile.

Other Business

President Frank Dail, who presided over last night's meeting expressed appreciation to W.C. Taylor, Jr. for his work on the Jaycee-sponsored Santa Claus float in the Christmas parade. He also lauded Bill Corbett for his work on the "Voice of America" contest and Harry Douglas, who headed the Jaycee Christmas activities committee.

Reports on the annual bosses' night to be held at the Country Club next month were heard as well as a report by Dan Saleed on progress of the recently organized Ayden Jaycee club. J.B. Smith told the members of the National Convention to be held in Atlanta next Nov. 21, 22, 23.

Nick Samonovich was announced as a new member of the local club. Guests last night were Dave Gramis, Big Wrenn, Bruce Brown, and Jimmy Ward.

Some Utilities Trucks Now On Radio Hook-Up

A portion of the Greenville Utilities Commission's motorized equipment can now maintain constant contact with dispatchers at the commission's plant by means of a two-way radio system which was recently placed in operation.

Utilities Superintendent Leonard Bloxam said today the main radio transmitter located in Greenville, is in contact with six pieces of equipment operated by the commission. Eventually all utilities equipment will be outfitted with the two-way radio sets.

The system consists of a base station with its transmitter located at the water tank on North Greene Street and with control units at the dispatching office and power switchboard room at the power plant.

The trucks are controlled during the daylight hours from the dispatcher's office unit. When that office closes in the afternoon the vehicles will be dispatched from the unit located in the switchboard room.

Previously the utilities commission has had only two radio units installed on its equipment. Those two operated through the Greenville Police radio. Bloxam said the two units will be converted to the new frequency on which the utilities station operates giving a total of eight radio equipped vehicles operated by the commission.

The utilities superintendent declared that funds will be included in next year's budget for ten additional units in order that all equipment can be radio controlled. With the additional units and water trucks will also be radio equipped. At present only electrical trucks have been equipped with radios.

Bloxam said that field checks have shown contact can be maintained between utilities vehicles and the local plant as far away as Rocky Mount. The system is expected to give excellent coverage within the area served by the commission.

The short wave radio operates on a frequency of 47.90 megacycles. No interference by other stations on the same frequency has been encountered, according to Bloxam. It will not tie in with law enforcement radios in this area.

The equipment will operate 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

"We've already found a reduction in trips to the plant and better continuity of service to customers by having this equipment," the utilities superintendent declared.

Presently equipped with radios are two line trucks in Vanceboro and Greenville, a service truck at Vanceboro, the supervisor of electrical distribution's truck, the utilities superintendent's car, and three service trucks operating from the Greenville plant.

The cost of purchasing and installing the equipment was estimated at $4,900.

A tower, for the two-way radio system is located atop the water tank on North Greene Street and reaches an overall height of 27 feet. The transmitter is in a small brick building beneath the water tank and lines lead from the transmitter site to the power plant where the actual dispatching is done.

Negro 4-H Clubs Push Health Betterment Plan

By JULIA E. EVANS (Assistant Negro Home Demonstration Agent)

The main objective of the Negro 4-H Clubs of Pitt County is to raise the standard of living and to contribute to the improvement of the health of the citizens.

Early in 1954, the 4-H Clubs started the "Health Improvement Program," and there were monthly conferences and demonstrations. Last April, members of Pitt county 4-H Clubs were given health examinations through cooperation of Dr. Walter C. Humbert, health director of Pitt County Board of Health.

On the basis of results of these examinations, Florence McLawhorn was chosen senior queen of good health, and Lula Grace Younger, junior queen.

The health pageant, "The 4-H Club Road to Health," climaxed the year's activities when it was presented at G. M. Eppes High School last May. Pitt county kings and queens of health were crowned there. They represented the county's membership in the 4-H Clubs.

Last September, boys and girls, members of 4-H Clubs, reported that they had made improvements in health as a result of monthly classes and demonstrations.

Among the improvements in the health program during this year in homes, schools and communities, were: Bathrooms installed in rural homes, installation of numerous sanitary toilets, participation in community clean-up campaigns, rodent control campaigns, and general improvement on preserving food for family use and suggesting health-improving diets.

We believe that the 4-H Club health improvement program was carried out in Pitt county with a decided success. Information from the 4-H Club officers and members indicates that there now is renewed interest in the program.

Seeks $20,000 In Damage Suit

A Cherry Point Marine has filed a civil suit in the Pitt Superior Court Clerk's office seeking $20,000 damages as the result of injuries sustained in a two-car collision on N. C. 17 on December 21.

The plaintiff is Carlton A. Rowe, a native of Massachusetts, and the defendants are Javan H. Rogers of Martin County, N. C. and James N. Kennedy, also a Marine stationed at Cherry Point.

Rowe was a passenger in a car operated by Kennedy at the time of the wreck, and Rogers is the owner of the second car involved. The plaintiff states he sustained numerous cuts and bruises, a concussion of the brain, and permanent and serious injury to his throat.

He charges in his suit that Rogers failed to yield the right of way at an intersection, and that Kennedy failed to keep a proper look-out.

CAP Squadron To Meet Tuesday

The Greenville squadron of the Civil Air Patrol will meet Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at the Greenville airport.

Charles Steinmeyer, Jr., commander of the unit urged all cadets and senior members to attend.

Kirby Lee Wooten Funeral Set Sunday

Mr. Kirby Lee Wooten, 84, resident of Maury and Sheriff of Greene County, died at his home at 1:30 o'clock Friday morning following a heart attack suffered a few minutes earlier.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Ormondville Free Will Baptist Church Sunday afternoon at three o'clock by the pastor, the Rev. S. A. Smith. Burial will be in the Snow Hill Cemetery. The body will be carried to the church one hour prior to the time of services. Members of the Ruritan Club at Maury will be honorary pall bearers.

Mr. Wooten was a native of Greene County and spent most of his life in the Maury community. He was the son of the late J. J. and Louisa Cole Wooten, and was a farmer all his life until he moved to Maury four years ago. He was elected to the office of Sheriff and took office early this month. He was a member of the Ormondville Free Will Baptist Church and was Church Clerk, a deacon, a Sunday School teacher and choir member. He was president of the Maury Ruritan Club and was a member of the Junior Order of U.A.M. of Hookerton.

Surviving are his wife, the former Effie Hardison; two sons, Tech. Sgt. Kirby L. Wooten Jr. of the U. S. Air Force, now stationed at Newburgh, New York, and Sgt. Paul Wooten of the U. S. Army, now stationed at Devens, Mass.; seven daughters, Mrs. C. R. Hedgepeth of Walstonburg, Mrs. D. C. Dail of Grifton, Mrs. Ola Forrest of Greenville, Mrs. C. T. Council of Durham, Mrs. Quiny Flanders of Haywood, California, Mrs. Darrel Garris of the home, and Mrs. James Taylor of Farmville; 13 grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. L. W. Humbles of Greenville; and two brothers, the Rev. J. E. Wooten of Ayden and R. S. Wooten of Danville, Va.

Fire Dept. Cutting Off General Alarm Tonight

To discourage pranksters, the fire department's general outside alarm whistle will not sound tonight when a fire alarm is turned in. Fire Chief George Gardner revealed this morning.

Instead, this whistle will be cut off and the alarm will be heard only in the fire station. A truck will be sent out to the alarm area, and if a fire is found, these firemen will radio back to the station and the general alarm will then be sounded to summon volunteers.

Cutting off the outside whistle prevents the volunteers from responding to a number of false alarms, which are usually prevalent on New Year's Eve, Gardner said.

He also noted that not hearing the whistle discourages pranksters who turn in false alarms.

The fire chief also reported that one fireman, in addition to a policeman, will be on duty as usual at the late show at the Pitt Theatre tonight.

Funeral Saturday For P. G. Dennis

Mr. P. G. Dennis, 78, died at home, 308 Pitt Street, early Friday morning after two weeks of illness. Grave services will be held in Cherry Hill Cemetery Saturday afternoon at two o'clock by the Rev. L. W. Topping, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Bethany Manning Dennis; two sons, Thomas Dennis of Roanoke and Graham Dennis of the home; and a brother, C. J. Dennis of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Mr. Dennis was born and reared in Suffolk, Va. He was employed for a number of years in Pennsylvania and had been living in Greenville since 1948. He was a member of the Methodist Church of Suffolk.

The family request that no flowers be sent.
