Women In The Church

The first Friday of Lent—this year February 25th—will be observed by Christian women around the world as the "World Day of Prayer." This year will mark the 89th annual observance of a "day" which was begun by Presbyterian women in Boston as a "day of prayer for missions." Through the years the observance has grown to embrace the whole Christian cause, in all the world, and especially for world peace. "Abide in Me" is the topic of this year's meditation for the day. Under the auspices of United Church Women, a National Council department, the day will be observed in about 20,000 communities in the United States.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service, Methodist Church, is urging that Methodist women in college and university centers open their homes to entertain some of the many thousands of students from overseas nations who are now in American schools. Eight hundred such students, half of them women, are in this country as Crusade Scholars, their education provided by Methodist Church funds. "They need our love, our time, and our Christian concern for them," says a statement from Mrs. T. Otto Nall of Chicago. She points out that many of these students, "lost in the bigness of our cities," are often invited to speak at church groups but seldom have opportunity to visit and know American homes and homelife.

A "literacy team," headed by the noted missionary, Dr. Frank C. Laubach, is now in Pakistan working with missionary and governmental leaders in developing methods and preparing texts for teaching people of that nation to read and write.

Mrs. Bartlett Gives Aries Club Program

The Aries Book Club held its first meeting of the New Year when it met at the home of Mrs. Harry Forbes on the evening of January 6th. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Marshall Starkey, who presided over a short business session.

Mrs. Forbes delighted the members and guests with her humorous short subject, entitled, "What We Eat and Why We Eat It."
Mrs. Steve Bartlett was in charge of the program and told many interesting facts about Winston-Salem. This true city of history was the outcome of consolidation of two cities in 1913. Salem, meaning "peace," was founded in 1766 and Winston in 1849. Winston was named for Major Joseph Winston, a Revolutionary War hero. Education has progressed constantly, and Wake Forest College will move into its new home there in 1955. Hospitals and medical courses are at their best with 928 beds at the four hospitals, including the North Carolina Baptist which is connected with the Bowman Gray School of Medicine.

Mrs. Bartlett called on Mrs. Marshall Starkey to tell more about this interesting city as Mrs. Starkey had lived there some time ago while teaching in a private school. The hostess served delicious ice cream and cookies, books were exchanged and the meeting adjourned. Guests for the evening were Mesdames C. M. Warren, Gladys Scoville and W. E. Redd.

"Five Ways To A Perfect Fit"

N. C. Bottlers Organizing To Fight Tax Proposal; See Discrimination

By C. A. UPCHURCH JR.
Raleigh, Jan. 10 — Soft-drink bottlers in North Carolina are mobilizing for a vigorous fight on the proposal by the Advisory Budget Commission and Governor Hodges to levy a tax of three-quarters of a cent on each bottled and fountain drink sold in the State.

They regard the proposed tax as discriminatory in that it singles out their industry for what they describe as a "high rate special sales tax" which would reduce sales and throw many bottlers out of business.

Only two states—South Carolina and West Virginia—now have such a tax, and it is likely that West Virginia will repeal its levy during the 1955 Legislature of that State.

Fred Bowman of Chapel Hill, executive secretary of the North Carolina Association of Bottlers, said today the fact that the proposed tax calls for a three-quarters of a cent, instead of one per cent, does not alter the bottlers' long-time opposition to any special tax on their products.

The bottlers realize, of course, that a full cent would have to be charged as tax on each drink giving them a quarter of a cent extra profit. But, Bowman said, the bottlers regard this as a "sop" intended to make the tax proposal palatable.

Regardless of the "sop," the bottlers will oppose any tax that singles them out for what they consider "special or punitive taxation."

"We ask no special favors and we seek no special exemptions," Bowman said. "No business has any right to expect to escape taxation, but every business has the right to expect that it alone will not be burdened with a special tax that would not apply to other products on the merchant's shelves."

The three-quarters of a cent tax would amount to a 15 per cent sales levy in addition to the three per cent sales tax now paid on soft drinks. The proposed tax would bring the State an estimated $7,125,000 in additional revenue each year.

Bowman pointed out that the bottling industry pays the same general taxes as other North Carolina businesses of a general nature, and is the only industry paying a privilege tax on its dispensing machines. The machine levies range from $100 to $2,200 per unit.

There are now 155 bottlers of soft drinks in North Carolina. The special tax, Bowman said, would force many of these out of business, reduce employment and slash the general revenue of the State.

During the past six years, the number of bottlers doing business in South Carolina has been cut nearly in half, and the per capita consumption of soft drinks is 25 per cent lower than in adjoining Georgia and North Carolina, which do not now have such a levy.

In 1934, Governor I. B. Blackwood of South Carolina termed his State's one-cent tax on soft drinks "extremely discriminatory and destructive of this business."

West Virginia, which also has a one-cent tax, put its levy into effect in 1951 and during the first year bottlers lost approximately 25 per cent of their business. A bill to repeal the tax received a favorable committee report in the 1953 House but was not acted on. Repeal is expected at the next session.

Pennsylvania passed a one-cent tax in 1947 and repealed it in 1951. While it was in effect, bottlers lost up to 35 per cent of their business and employment in the industry fell off 25 per cent. The industry enjoyed an immediate boom following repeal of the tax.

For a year, Ohio tried a half-cent per bottle soft drink tax. It was repealed after proving "unsatisfactory and impractical". Kentucky levied a one-cent tax on soft drinks in 1936 and repealed it a year later at a special legislative session called for that purpose by Governor Chandler. The Governor said "The tax did not bring in as much revenue as we thought it would, it was difficult to collect and highly unpopular with our people."

In 1951, Governor Langlie of Washington vetoed a special soft drink sales tax bill passed by the Legislature. He called it "onerous legislation."

The Supreme Court of New Hampshire ruled a proposal for such a tax was unconstitutional. The pioneer in the field of special soft drink taxes was the Federal government, which levied a special 10 per cent tax on "pop" during World War I. Many small producers were forced out of business and volume suffered a drastic slump.

In 1924, the House Ways and Means Committee recommended repeal of the soft drink tax and similar taxes on other products, saying:

"The inconvenience caused to the taxpayers and the burdens which special taxes place upon the industries affected justify their repeal and the Committee so recommends."

Never since then has a special Federal sales tax been levied on soft drinks.

At different times during the year other members of the Sunday School have received awards.

Climaxing the program of the Ballards Home Demonstration Club on Wednesday afternoon was a most interesting and informative talk by Mrs. James Moore, on Foods Eaten by the German People. Germany is the country the club is studying this year in connection with the International Relations program sponsored by H. D. Clubs throughout the country. At each meeting some phase of the life of the people of the country is studied.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. J. P. Burnette and opened with the group singing "God of Our Fathers" followed by a devotional given by Miss Mary Frances Hobbard.

The regular demonstration for the afternoon was "Newer Vegetables for the Garden" and Miss Josephine Cusick displayed and showed some interesting slides on these vegetables.

Mrs. Glenn Price, "Family Life Leader" had a display of magazines suitable for all age family groups and gave helpful information as to what each one had to offer in the home.

At the business sessions the group voted to make and sell Brunswick stew to raise money for the "March of Dimes" and also made plans for the meeting in February which will be in the evening with a covered dish supper to which the husbands are invited. At the social hour the hostesses, Mrs. Joe Moyer, Jr., and Mrs. Roy Bowling, served hot coffee, pudding made by a recipe used in Germany and eaten very much there during the holiday season, and roasted pecans. There was record attendance at this meeting with every member except one present.

On Saturday, January 1, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Tyson were hosts at a family reunion dinner, honoring their children and their families. Those present for this occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Tyson, Jr., of Wisconsin, Mr. and Mrs. James Fuller and children of near Knoxville, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Tyson and children of Greenville, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tyson and children of near the home, Miss Thelma Flanagan, and Mrs. Spicer Tyson of Princeton, N. ## Centenarians To Be Commonplace

DALLAS (AP)—A New Jersey specialist in problems of old age envisions a normal life expectancy of 100 years for Americans as the result of research.

Dr. Edward Henderson, of Montclair, editor in chief of the Journal of the American Geriatrics Society, addressed the Texas Geriatric Society yesterday. Geriatrics is a branch of medicine dealing with old age and its diseases. "We aren't groping in the dark," he said. "It is not as hopeless as some believe. You don't die just because you're old."

He said between 1850 and 1950 the American's life expectancy increased from 38 to 68.

Near-$2 Million Year For New Construction In City

New construction in Greenville last year reached $1,914,200, the second highest year in the past nine years covered by a report issued by Building Inspector George Gardner. The only year in which new construction reached a higher total than 1954 was in 1950 when $1,984,200 in new construction was authorized.

Gardner's report showed that last year 120 new dwellings were authorized along with 13 apartments. Nineteen commercial buildings were also authorized by the building inspector last year.

In 1950, the best year since World War II as far as new construction is concerned, 229 dwellings were built and 23 commercial buildings were authorized.

For the entire nine-year period 1073 new dwellings were authorized, 78 apartments, 223 commercial buildings, and two churches costing a total of $12,862,300.

Gardner noted that the totals do not include construction in developments which took place before those developments were taken into the city limits, nor does it include city school construction and new construction at East Carolina College. Lowest year in the nine-year period was 1949 when only 73 dwellings and 10 commercial buildings were authorized. Estimated cost of the construction that year came to $616,800.

Value of the construction for each of the nine years was: 1946, $818,550; 1947, $1,464,850; 1948, $1,373,800; 1949, $616,800; 1950, $1,984,200; 1951, $1,509,000; 1952, $1,638,000;

1953, $1,543,200; 1954, $1,914,200.

Last year permits for 24 building alterations were issued costing a total of $82,500.

During December, permits for 16 dwellings and one duplex apartment were issued by the building inspector to cost $123,000.00. One commercial permit was issued valued at $700. Total new construction for last month came to $123,700.

Public Education Must Have Priority

The future of North Carolina—as every other state—depends to a large degree upon the public education system which the state offers for its youth. The welfare of the state's educational program and its service to the adult citizens of tomorrow is indeed a weighty problem upon the shoulders of the adults of today.

North Carolina cannot afford by hasty action to disrupt or allow a deterioration in its educational system. Neither can the state sit back and allow outside influences to invoke policies which are sure to cause serious deterioration of the state's educational system.

The state is faced with the problem of what to do by current legislation to cope with anticipated desegregation moves by the federal government. The state is not primarily, seekly to sidestep the issue of segregation in public schools by reverting to local school boards "complete authority" over enrollment and assignment of children in public schools and on school buses. So long as the school system of North Carolina remains largely a state system financed largely by the state government, the central government in Raleigh must exercise a certain amount of control over expenditures by local units. Expenditures are involved in enrollment and assignment of pupils and the operation of transportation systems.

The idea of more authority for local school boards has merit with or without the question of segregation entering the picture. If public school desegregation is ever to be worked out in North Carolina, it must be done on the local level where the feelings of the people involved are best understood and the problems more realistically appraised. The time necessary for such a transition can more realistically be measured in decades than in years.

If an attempt is made to thrust desegregation upon the public schools of the state at one blow or in a short span of time, it would, as the advisory commission report stated, "alienate public support of the schools to such an extent that they could not be operated successfully." It would take public education in North Carolina many years to recover from such a blow. It would take the state decades to recover from the effects.

In the long run, a good public school system is much more important to the people of both races in North Carolina than desegregation, notwithstanding the tirades of desegregation antagonists and leftists in other parts of the nation.

In short, North Carolina's General Assembly must take whatever steps necessary to preserve its public school system in the event federal officials, far removed from the reality of the situation, do not show sufficient wisdom in their decrees. In our opinion the plan outlined by the governor and the advisory commission to the General Assembly is, fundamentally, to protect and preserve the public school system of the state rather than an attempt to sidestep the segregation issue.

It is obvious that a good public education system and desegregation in public schools are not compatible in North Carolina as a whole. The former is of much greater importance to the welfare of the state in the long run than the latter, and therefore must be given the position of priority.

What About The Secrecy Law

What is the General Assembly going to do about the secrecy legislation which blocks from public view much important consideration on state money matters in the appropriations committees?

Apparently most members of the General Assembly think the law should be repealed. Most of the people of the state likewise feel that way. But there are some members of the General Assembly, Pitt's representative S. O. Worthington included, who apparently take the stand that what the appropriations committee does in its sessions is no business of the public, unless in its beneficence the committee wants to let the public know what the committee wants it to know. No more than that.

In the House a bill to repeal the despicable secrecy law has been shelved until after it completes its study of the appropriations bills sitting as a committee as a whole. In the Senate a resolution has been offered that a committee composed of three Senators, three representatives of the press and three public representatives be appointed to study the matter.

It should be clearly understood that the press is not interested in making any sort of "deal" or compromise with legislators for the repeal of the secrecy measure and in doing so to agree to withhold any information from the public. Should the press make such a move, it would be entering into the conspiracy of the 1953 General Assembly by which one of the avenues of public information which rightfully belongs to the people was arbitrarily cut off.

The secrecy question is not one to be compromised by the press and the legislators. The press is spearheading the fight for repeal of the infamous act, but is doing so in an effort to enable the people of North Carolina to keep channels of public information open.

Fortunately two of Pitt's three representatives in the General Assembly, Sen. Paul E. Jones and Rep. Walter Jones, recognize the fact that what the appropriations committees do is the people's business and the people have a right to full access to what goes on in the committee meetings. They have committed themselves to the repeal of the secrecy measure.

It is to be hoped that their efforts, coupled with the efforts of other fair minded members of the General Assembly will prevail and the secrecy legislation will be repealed with no strings attached.

Ambitious Men Pose Troubles

WASHINGTON—Labor troubles of unprecedented proportions may beset the nation and the Eisenhower Administration in 1955 because of rivalries and jealousies among top union leaders in their negotiations for merger of the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations. Labor will start a new march to obtain its share of expected 1955 prosperity.

Four ambitious and unfriendly leaders are involved in the struggle for supremacy, including the presidency of the proposed "one big union," which will enjoy vast political, economic and industrial power and resources. In order to establish a prior claim for this great honor, each will strive to obtain more benefits for his membership in the form of higher wages, shorter hours, a guaranteed annual pay scale, pensions and other fringe gains.

LABOR'S EXPECTED DEMANDS — Favorable business conditions will also inspire the new demands, especially as coal, steel and automobile contracts will be due for renegotiation this year. The unions settled for small or no increases during the 1953-1954 "recession" and the drop in employment of their members, only 4,000,000 in the CIO. But Reuther's group dominates such basic industries as steel and coal, at least nominally.

Reuther's authority over the steel union is only nominal because President McDonald has small use for his CIO associate. They have had open clashes at recent conventions.

LOGICAL HEAD?—Meany feels that he should be the logical head of the "one big union." His organization is the oldest and the strongest. It has a membership of 10,000,000, as against approximately only 4,000,000 in the CIO. But Reuther's group dominates such basic industries as steel and coal, at least nominally.

Reuther's authority over the steel union is only nominal because President McDonald has small use for his CIO associate. They have had open clashes at recent conventions.

Reply To Discounters

By ELMER ROESSNER
New York's Madison Square Garden is to be turned into a gigantic discount house for three dates late in February or early March.

The block-square building is being taken over for that time, not by a discount operator but by one of the oldest furniture chains in the city. It is being used as an answer to discount selling.

The chain will sell at discount prices and at the same time offer all of its regular services to customers.

This is typical of the "fight back" idea which is spreading among merchants with whom discounters are competing.

The National Retail Dry Goods Association asked 42 stores in 42 key cities how they were dealing with discount-house competition. The most frequent answer was "meeting the price on the nose."

Other tactics reported by the merchants included: getting manufacturers to enforce established prices; offering liberal trade-ins on major appliances; granting generous credit terms; staging warehouse sales; discontinuing major appliance departments; discontinuing brands found in local bootlegger hands; and de-emphasis of cut-priced lines.

Among the proposals retailers said they would like to see this year were: closer co-operation with sympathetic manufacturers; direct purchases from manufacturers rather than through local distributors or jobbers; and appeals to Better Business Bureaus for greater watchfulness for retailers claiming to be wholesalers.

The consensus of replying stores was in favor of abolishing "fair trade" laws unless they were enforced by the manufacturer, the N.R.D.G.A. reported. Only three of the stores declared themselves in favor of fair trade and against its repeal.

Price competition with "bootleggers" was often suggested by the retailers questioned. One said that meeting discounters' prices might possibly triple the sales on cut-price items, and if selling expenses could be kept down the larger volume might result in no loss at worst and possibly a profit. This alternative was better, he said, than to have the business chewed away by price cutters, which is what is behind the planning for that Madison Square sale.

UNCLE SAM RECOGNIZES THE DANDELION GREEN
Dandelion greens are being an official U.S. standard, like eggs, concrete and beef. The standard goes into effect February 4.

All dandelion greens meeting certain specifications of the Department of Agriculture may thereafter be sold as "U.S. No. 1." There is no No. 2 grade; all the leaves that fail to meet the standard may be designated as "unclassified."

Interested parties can get details from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. As for your correspondent, he says "spinach and—oh, you know the joke?"

WAR OR PEACE ARMY HAS LOTS OF SURPLUS
About $900,000 worth of new and used women's apparel will be sold on bids January 13 by the Philadelphia Quartermaster Depot, 2800 E. 20th St., Philadelphia. Included are women's overcoats, skirts, slacks, sweaters, exercise suits, caps, underwear, nylon hosiery, bathing suits, overshoes and utility bags.

When World War II surplus was being disposed, people used to ask who guessed the war wrong by $20,000,000. So now, what colonel guessed the peace wrong by $900,000?

Those 'Worthless' Securities May Mean A Fortune

By ROGER W. BABSON
NEW YORK CITY — I have just been asked by a Wall Street banker to help him get some so-called "worthless" securities away from the readers of this column for a few cents a certificate (not per share).

"WORTHLESS" STOCKS MAY NOW BE VALUABLE

I mean that for every fifty certificates which this broker buys he finds that forty-nine are now worthless; but one is worth perhaps $1,000. This would be a certificate which some company needs in order to dissolve or consolidate without any outstanding obligations or commitments.

Of course, it would be unfair to my readers for me to advise them what to do. But I do urge you to throw nothing away which looks like a stock certificate even if your father or brother says it is "useless" and just cluttering up his desk or deposit box." Please do not send me any certificates to look at, but show them to your regular banker, if you wish.

URANIUM IS RECOVERING VALUES

Most of these "worthless" certificates in your attic or desk drawers are of old mining companies. They may never have been good, or are of mines which have completely "peetered out." The company did not have the money to dissolve legally, but some rancher has paid the taxes for the privilege of using the land for pasture. Hence, the company was forgotten after the stockholders were told it was no good.

The land is still useless for getting gold or silver, copper or lead; but uranium may have been found! As a result, the land could increase in value in one month to $50,000 per acre to $500,000 per acre! Some old-timer who remembers the old company

No Real Surprises For Legislators In Hodges' Address

By LYNN NISBET

REACTION — Legislators and others with whom your reporter has talked since delivery of Governor Hodges' budget message and introduction of the money bills have taken the recommendations in stride. Most of them had been expected. Perhaps the greatest surprise came in the recommendation to levy the same rate on insurance premiums paid by domestic companies as is charged against foreign carriers. Removal of limits on sales tax application, a crown tax on bottled soft drinks and comparable levy on fountain-dispensed drinks, the tax on tobacco products and some other minor levies had been anticipated to the extent that affected interests had already built up substantial information files for counter attacks. The proposal to up insurance premium taxes nearly a million and a quarter dollars apparently caught most people off guard.

On the appropriations side there were some disappointments, but no real surprises. It had been pretty generally accepted that there would be no permanent improvements authorized, and very little if any expansion of services. A hold-the-line policy had been predicted. The fact is that there was more surprise that the educational requests were so nearly met and more than half a million added for special industrial research for use of the University, mainly at State College.

The fact that the recommendations generally had been anticipated does not mean they will be accepted without vigorous protest—both from taxpayers who are socked with increased levies and from agencies and institutions which failed to get what they believe are minimum sums necessary for functioning. Beginning next week the lobbyist register will rapidly fill up with names of paid advocates against additional tax levies, and activities of officials who are working for their own agencies and do not have to register as lobbyists will be accelerated.

INCONSISTENCIES — There are several inconsistencies in the budget commission and the Governor's recommendations. Governor Hodges proposes a statewide referendum on liquor, which almost certainly would result in outlawing legal sale of alcoholic beverages. But the budget report contemplates not only retaining the nearly nine million derived from that source of revenue, but increasing the levy to bring in almost another million dollars.

In the budget proposed levy on tobacco products the suggestion is for taxing cigarettes and cigars on quantity basis, taxing smoking tobacco on ad valorem basis. The proposal is for 2 cents a package on cigarettes and 1 cent each cigar, with out regard to selling price, but for 1 cent on each 10 cents or major fraction thereof selling price of tobacco used in pipes or in home-made cigarettes. That means the fellow who pays 50 cents for a package of cigarettes pays two cents tax, the rich man who smokes a 50 cent cigar pays one cent, but the fellow who buys a 50 cent package of pipe tobacco pays five cents. Plug tobacco and snuff carry no tax.

(Personal note: As an inveterate pipe smoker, who doesn't care for cigarettes or cigars, your reporter herewith registers protest against this discrimination in tax base. If the tax is on quantity for cigarettes and cigars it ought to be on the basis for smoking tobacco; or if the price is to determine smoking tobacco tax the same rate of 10 per cent of the retail selling price ought to be put on the other items. Furthermore, if you gonna tax tobacco, why exempt the basis for smoking and dipping varieties? One might be pardoned for thinking that Gregg Cherry and—or Kerr Scott are still writing the tax laws for North Carolina.)

Other changes in the sales tax structure proposed by the budget commission are designed to equalize the impact of the sales and excise taxes. The liquor and tobacco taxes suggested, which increase the State levy on items already carrying exorbitant Federal taxes does not relieve existing inequities in these items.

FARMERS — Farm organizations have consistently opposed additional tobacco taxes, and North Carolina congressmen have fought every effort to increase Federal levies. The Farm Bureau and the Grange are on record as resisting against increased taxes on tobacco. But several large farmers and recognized leaders in the organizations have observed that if it comes to definite choice between a tobacco levy or extending sales taxes to fertilizers, fertilizers and basic foods—they might have to go along with the tobacco levy.

The farmers are much concerned, too, about the impact of removing the single article limitation in the sales tax schedule upon the prices of farm machinery and equipment. There is further fear that when the highway budget comes up for discussion there may be effort to remove the preferred status of farm trucks in the license tag brackets, and maybe the refund provisions for non-highway use gasoline taxes.

For many years tax legislation has tended to favor the farmer. Right now when mechanization is becoming more universal, when irrigation projects are growing popular calling for big investment in machinery and motor equipment; and when the export situation is cutting into tobacco production profits; and when the export situation is cutting into tobacco production profits; and when the Federal social security taxes are being made applicable to farms—when all these things are happening at once, is a bad time, they say, to think about increases in State taxes which hit so heavily upon the already reduced income of the farmer. It is contended on the other hand that these proposals are not unfair, that in fact they are designed to remove the preferential advantages previously enjoyed and put the farmer on equitable basis with other groups.

SOCIAL SECURITY BENEFITS LURING WOMEN TO JOBS

Many middle-aged and elderly women are now seeking jobs, a survey by Northwestern National Life shows.

Reason: Increased Social Security benefits last year make it attractive to qualify. Many of the women the survey showed, want only part-time work and want it only long enough to qualify, often for only a year and a half. Some women have husbands already qualified under Social Security but want to have two separate retirement incomes instead of one and one-half times the husband's pension, as provided when only the husband qualifies.

HAWK WATCH

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE
There was a moment till it landed, then I heard it bounding down the steep slope through the leaves. It got reactions.

"Luger, down here Quick!" The other light was stabbing at the trees below. I heard Luger take off the boulders and the ground running. I heard feet running, too.

The rocks were completely dark now and I started back, my Leica hanging from my neck, my raw hands groping and feeling every foot, but each foot was that much farther away from the sounds growing faint behind me.

After long enough it really was there—the end of the rocks, the path to the road, the Jaguar. I pulled myself in, started the engine and let it take me down the mountain.

Back in town I went directly to the courthouse.

At the foot of the stairs to the basement I found what I was looking for. One door said West Virginia, State Police, Private. The one to the left said West Virginia State Police, Entrance.

The room I stepped into was dark but I could see through an open door into the next one, fully lighted. There were two men in uniform sitting across a desk from each other. The one with the hat on was the corporal I'd seen at the inn. On the wall beyond him there was a bulletin board with a Snellen eye test card and a printed motto that said, "A man isn't a failure till he blames someone else."

When I stepped through the door the two stopped talking and the one without his hat looked up at me as though this was a lodge room I hadn't any business coming into.

"I'd like to talk to you as soon as I can," I said.

Neither of them spoke. The corporal got up and walked out past me as if the gun on his belt were too heavy. The sergeant pointed to the corporal's chair and I sat down.

"Have you found Purcell?" I asked.

He watched me with a tired expression and said, "No."

"I think I have something for you," I said.

He reached for a memo pad and dragged it to him.

"Last Saturday I saw a man up on—"

"What's your name?" He held his pencil ready.

"Graton. I'm a photographer from—"

"What's your full name?" he repeated without looking up.

We did the drill, everything in proper order including my date of birth, like checking in at a hospital.

Still without raising his head he said, "Last Saturday you saw a man."

I told him most of it, all the way through this afternoon and evening. It didn't excite him.

"Everybody's seen him," he said and looked at me for a change.

"With a man like Purcell it gets too important. They've seen Cadillac all over the county, they've seen a man walking along a road at night, they're all using their imaginations. But has anyone seen the car go over into the river?"

"I'm not imagining this," I showed him the back of my neck.

He looked at it and said, "Sure, an eagle hit you."

"But there's the connection with this Metcalf," I said, "Yoke Gairdner can give you that."

"We've heard from him, too, along with all the others, including Washington, D.C. It's not fully my fault, we're not getting anywhere. They can't blame me if everybody keeps dumping a lot of irrelevant material on top of me." He pushed the memo with my story away from him. "We'll get after it."

"I think if we went up to those rocks with enough men we could find him," I said.

He looked at me as if I'd suggested the Marines.

"We'll get after it," he said as if he were trying to control his temper. "The flash exposure, while I was about it, I made a print of my shot of Dana throwing off the sergeantine."

Back in the bedroom I laid the tiny, still-damp prints under the desk lamp and sat down.

The flash exposure had been good—a thin bareheaded man, I couldn't tell how tall in a belted coat showing breeches and boots below like an old hunting print, with a flashlight in one hand and a pick or mattock in the other. It was a nice candid shot with the subject unaware of the camera. It was the large aquiline nose and uncombed hair, black and long over the ears and neck that made me certain it was the same person as in the pictures up at the Metcalf place, but he looked old.

I'd thought of him as an arrogant kid only a few years older than Dana. Maybe it was Yoke Gairdner's speaking of him as Young Anson, maybe those pictures taken years ago. I remembered now that Gairdner had said Anson was past 17 when his mother married the second time. So he would have been past 18 when Dana was born. If she was less than 18 now, that would put him around 86. Something had cut deeper than that into the face I had in front of me.

More than the face or the feral attitude of an animal that has tripped a flash exposure white on the prowl, what chilled me was the idea of that mattock in his hand and what it had to do with me.

I turned to my picture of Dana. Under the magnifying glass she seemed very real, her bare arm thrown out, the motion of launching the hawk stretching her body under her clothes, lifting her to her toes like an adagio movement in ballet. I studied the up-turned eager face, ecstatically half-closed eyes, the parted lips drawn back in the wind, looking at that hawk.

I looked at my watch. It still wasn't midnight.

TV Hazards Upset Hallowed Tradition

By WAYNE OLIVER
NEW YORK (AP)—The hallowed tradition that the show must go on is taking a beating from television's occupational hazards. Or is it that the new breed isn't as hardy as the oldtimers.

In any event, illnesses and mishaps have caused TV performers to cancel out shows or call in substitutes in recent weeks at a rate that would make the trouper of old shake their heads.

Milton Berle returns tomorrow night after having missed his show two weeks ago due to a virus that caused him to collapse.

Liberace is sidelined until February because of what his doctor calls a mild heart strain caused by overwork.

Howdy Doody's pal Bob Smith has been out four months with a heart condition and will not be able to return until next week.

Martha Raye collapsed after her last show and Berle rushed for her at a scheduled personal appearance in Miami, but she hopes to do her next TV show on schedule.

Host Jan Murray, of Dollar a Second, collapsed last month and had to miss his scheduled performance because of an ulcer and only this week returns to fulltime participation on the show.

Red Skelton knocked himself out in rehearsal 45 minutes before show time several weeks ago and a sub had to take his place.

Red Buttons had to miss two of his fall programs because of a virus infection that sent him to the hospital. Gene Tierney had to cancel out as star on the opening CBS fall series of dramatics above Sunday nights for the same reason.

Jerry Lewis suffered a jaundice attack that forced him and Dean Martin to postpone their opening performance on Comedy Hour.

To go further back, there's Jackie Gleason who was a little too realistic in one of his famous falls and broke his leg last year. He was out almost three months.

Tonight's color spectacular on NBC-TV, "Yellow Jack," suffered two casualties between casting and telecasting. First, Victor Jory who was to play the role of Agramonte, had to drop out because of a heart ailment. Then late last week Broderick Crawford, scheduled for the starring role as Maj. Walter Reed, had to cancel because of a throat affliction and was replaced by Lorne Green.

Whether it's because they're

Oldsters With Cash Will Provide Housing Demand

By ED MORSE
NEW YORK (AP)—Are you discouraged at 40, or 45, or 50?

Take heart. You're a powerful groundswell in the housing market—statistically, that is.

This is something new. For years, "youth must be served" has been the virtual motto of the home-building industry. The returning veteran and his young bride formed the tidal wave of postwar housing demand.

Since V-J Day more than nine million Americans bought homes. About 3½ million GI loans have been granted. Before most of these GI privileges end July 25, 1957, it's estimated another five million will be used.

That's the big, brassy music of the housing bandwagon—but a new and significant overture has been added by a solid segment of demand by oldsters with cash in their jeans.

Home builders should sit up and take notice at this important fact: there are 57,414,100 folks over 40 with 47,682,900 between 20 and 40.

More than 20 years have been added to life expectancy since 1900, according to the National Office of Vital Statistics. Easier living, medical discoveries, steadier income from social security, pensions and annuities have made older people livelier customers.

Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York reports that even at 65 there are 34 persons working out of every 100.

If you're 40 you have a life expectancy of 33 more years. At 65 statistics say you'll probably hit 76. So, from the housing viewpoint, it seems worthwhile to make yourself comfortable for the big remainder of your years.

The National Assn. of Home Builders quoted recently from a survey of people over 40 conducted by the magazine Lifetime Living. This survey showed that 45.6 per cent of these people, even though more fortunate or more durable, many oldsters have escaped TV's mishaps and appeared regularly on schedule. They include Jack Benny, Jimmy Durante, George Burns and Gracie Allen and others of their era. An exception is Eddie Cantor who suffered a heart attack and has switched from live TV to film.

Maybe Medic should look into this whole situation.

Elon Breaks East Carolina's Win Streak

Christians Topple Pirates By 76-64

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Writer
Elon's Christians did what six other opponents had failed to do this year, when they upset the East Carolina Pirates Saturday night in Burlington by the score of 76-64.

The Christians first pulled away from the Pirates after six minutes of play when Tackard hit on a long set shot. That gave the Elon gang a 14-12 advantage, a lead they never lost until the last five minutes of the game.

more scoring sensation was hitting at his usual average but the Pirates lost the game off the backboards. Pirate Coach Howard Porter heaped praise on the huge Juratic, former freshman star at State, for his great rebounding work. Mattocks had 23 points, mostly from the outside, to pace the Elon attack. Juratic wound up with 15 points.

Tonight the Pirates continue their western trip with a loop contest in High Point. It will be the first meeting between the two teams this year.

All during the rest of the first half Ed Juratic commanded complete control of the backboards and Jim Mattocks, popped in the shots from the outside as the Christians rolled into a 40-33 halftime margin.

After the intermission the two teams battled on even terms with Elon leading 52-47 after nine minutes of play. The Pirates then made their move and slowly cut the margin down. Finally the Bucs caught up when Don Harris hooked one in from the outside to tie the score at 62-62.

Before the Pirates could increase their margin big Juratic had jumped in two goals for Elon to run the score to 66-62. Mattocks dropped two free throws and Stone hit a three point goal to put Elon out front again by 71-62.

Furman Cage Coach Claims 'All The Luck In The World'

GREENVILLE, S. C. — "We had all the luck in the world. We could have drop-kicked the ball and it would have gone into the basket."

With that, Furman Basketball Coach Lykes Alley summed up his team's astounding, record-breaking 154-67 victory over The Citadel Saturday night.

"We didn't want to beat anyone that bad, but we couldn't miss," Alley said of the game which set a new major and small college record. The old record was 149 points, set by Furman last year against little Newberry College.

Alley's prize product, Frank Selvy, now playing professionally with the Milwaukee Hawks, scored 100 points in the Newberry game. Saturday night against The Citadel, Alley turned up a new scoring star, Darrell Floyd, a six-foot forward who scored 50 points, boosting his season average to 34.7 in nine games.

Overall, Furman has a 5-4 record. The Paladins lost four of their first five games, then roared back to win four straight—over NYU, Miami, Erskine and The Citadel.

"We spend a lot of time on individual work at the first of the season and let the team work go," Alley said, explaining the early losses.

Floyd, a junior, still has another year of eligibility. Although the Southern Conference of which Furman is a member allows the use of freshmen, Alley is saving all of his. Alley also loses only one man off this year's squad by graduation, Sylvester Wright of Corbin, Ky., Selvy's hometown.

Furman set a new team scoring record two years ago, 90.2 points, then raised that to 91.7 last year by Alley averaging 41.7, another major college record. Alley's club apparently is bent on beating that, now boasting better than 101 points per game.

"We are averaging hitting about 42 per cent of our shots and are controlling the boards," the Furman coach said.

Floyd doesn't carry the entire load. Bobby Gaines, a forward from Old Hickory, Tenn., scored 34 points against The Citadel, hitting 10 of 11 free throws. He has hit 58 of 69 free throws this season.

"We don't have a lot of height," Alley sighed, "and we're too little to be a real threat to State. But if we hit our shots... well."

Good news from the Greenville camp is that Pat Sawyer's shoulder seems to be all right. The Phantom guard feared he had a dislocated shoulder but it has come around all right.

Tuesday's game will be played in the Greenville gym with the game starting at eight o'clock, following the 6:30 preliminary.

Two Candidates For Coach Post
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Texas Tech's DeWitt Weaver and Frank Broyles, Georgia Tech backfield coach, are among candidates for the head football coaching job at the University of Arkansas.

Those names were the only ones mentioned by Arkansas officials after they hurried more than two hours behind closed doors in Little Rock hotel yesterday mapping plans for the hunt for Bowden Wyatt's successor.

Wyatt, who lifted the Razorbacks from the depths of the Southwest Conference to the championship in two years, vacated the job Saturday to become head football coach and assistant athletic director at his alma mater, the University of Tennessee, where Harvey Robinson was fired after a poor season.

Athletic Director John Barnhill declined to comment after the meeting. But William Good, assistant to the university president, admitted that Weaver and Broyles are on the list of "six eight or ten" men who are considered "real prospects."

Phants In Third Loop Clash This Tuesday Evening

By WAYNE BISHOP
Reflector Sports Writer
With an undefeated record against conference brothers the Greenville Phantoms tangle with the Elizabeth City Yellow Jackets in the Greenville gym Tuesday night for their third loop battle of the season.

The G-men, who have downed New Bern and Washington in convincing fashion, will be taking dead aim for their third consecutive victory and their eighth of the year. Coach Bo Parley's boys have an overall record of seven wins and one loss.

The Yellow Jackets employ the slow moving type offense that Washington uses. They feature the outside shooting of returning starters Julius Hooker and Pete Smoak.

Washington's slow type offense did not do much on slowing down the Green Phantoms Friday night. Coach Parley's gang poured in 82 points in their third highest point total of the year. So far, for the entire season, the Greens are averaging 71.6 points per game. In the North-eastern Conference—the G-men score at an average rate of 78 points per game.

Good news from the Greenville camp is that Pat Sawyer's shoulder seems to be all right. The Phantom guard feared he had a dislocated shoulder but it has come around all right.

Tuesday's game will be played in the Greenville gym with the game starting at eight o'clock, following the 6:30 preliminary.

At Detroit, where he is visiting friends, Weaver said he has been "thinking plenty" about Arkansas, "but I haven't made up my mind what I'll do if they offer me the job."

PHILADELPHIA — Luther (Wimpy) Lassiter of Elizabeth City, N.C., will defend his world pocket billiard championship here during the week of Jan. 17.

Lassiter and Irving Crane of Binghamton, N.Y. will play a 1,800-point match at Allinger Billiard Academy. Crane was runner-up for the title last year.

Never Closed My Eyes All Night!
SAN JUAN — Willie Mays has had enough winter baseball and is quitting the Senators club of the Puerto Rican League after next Sunday's doubleheader.

Mays said yesterday in a television interview that he is tired and has found out that a whole year of playing baseball is too much for him. He plans to return to the U.S. Jan. 18.

The New York Giants' star centerfielder goes into his final week leading the league in batting, .395; runs, 59; triples, 6; tied for first in doubles 15 and tied for second in homers with 11.

Downfall Of Kentucky Termed 'Unbelievable'

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press
Bruised, battered and bewildered Kentucky, its proud string of 32 straight victories shattered by Georgia Tech, will try to pick up the pieces tonight against De Paul.

The almost unbelievable defeat of the Wildcats by a club that could not win a Southern Conference game last year was only a little more surprising than the defeat of mighty Duquesne by little St. Francis of Loretto, Pa. Kentucky's defeat, coupled with Cornell's victory over Dartmouth, left just one major unbeaten team in the country—Auburn.

Kentucky's downfall by 59-58 in a last-minute goal by Joe Helms, was all the more amazing because: 1. The Wildcats had won 32 games in a row and 129 in a row on its home court.

2. Kentucky had not lost a Southern Conference game at home since 1939, running up a string of 70 victories.

3. Georgia Tech showed a less-than-mediocre 2-5 record this season.

"What is there to say but 'Wow,'" enthused John (Whack) Ryder, Tech coach. "We worked three days getting ready for Kentucky but it was no strategy we used. We were stronger than Kentucky throughout and our kids forced them on a lot of plays."

The Ducks' 82-72 defeat at the hands of St. Francis came from a team that had broken even in eight games this season and lost to Duquesne earlier in the season.

NEW YORK — The NCAA Football Rules Committee began its three-day session today and indications were that no important changes would be made.

The coaches' rules committee last week recommended three relatively minor changes in the football code and it was considered probable they would be accepted.

The coaches have asked that the substitution rule be relaxed somewhat. If their proposal is followed, the four-minute segment at the end of each half when players who have been removed from the game are allowed to re-enter, will be eliminated.

Instead a player who starts a quarter would be permitted to leave and re-enter once during that period. This would serve the dual purpose of permitting a player to get a breather or have an injury examined and allowing limited use of specialists such as conversion kickers.

However, a player who did not start the quarter would not be permitted to re-enter once he has been taken out.

"Otherwise I think we have a pretty good game now," said one member of the committee, "and I think the general idea is to leave the rules alone so that everybody has a chance to learn them."

Other notable weekend action included Cornell's 70-66 defeat of Dartmouth, and Furman's fantastic 154-67 victory over The Citadel to set a new college scoring record. Darrell Floyd, Frank Selvy's successor at Furman dropped in 50 points although he sat out most of the second half.

ACC Heads North State Conference Court Race
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The North State Conference rolls into another week of basketball action today with high scoring Atlantic Christian leading the pack with a perfect 6-0 record.

But tied with their percentage-wise is Elon, winner of its only conference start. Overall ACC is 9-3 and Elon 7-4.

The week's league action opens tonight in High Point where the Panthers face East Carolina, the defending champion which lost its first game of the season to Elon last week, 76-64.

Whether Elon will stay among the leaders will be decided tomorrow when the Christians meet ACC at Wilson. Elon has a full week, facing Guilford at home Thursday and Catawba Saturday. In all 15 games are scheduled with nine conference tilts.

Last week's action saw Lenoir Rhyne apparently begin to find itself with two decisive wins, 106-70 over Western Carolina and 90-79

Littler Captures Los Angeles Open

LOS ANGELES — Ex-sailor Gene Littler, completing his first year as a professional, won the $5,000 first prize in the $32,500 Los Angeles Open yesterday.

Refusing to be awed by the season's pros, the former U.S. amateur champion from San Diego, now playing out of Palm Springs, Calif., fired a 2-under-par 69 yesterday to card 8-under-par 276 for the 72 holes.

He chipped in a 35-footer on the 15th hole to practically clinch the victory. It followed a pattern he established the day before when he holed out chip shots of 35 and 60 feet on the last two holes.

"That's more than I chipped in all last year," said Littler, 24. The big check he banked was the largest he's won since turning pro last January. But his victory falls as no great surprise. As an amateur he beat the pros in the 1954 San Diego Open and he was second in four PGA events, including the United States Open.

Littler in the last threesome to finish, knew he had to beat the 278 posted earlier by the veteran Ted Kroll, who drew down the $2,780 second money. It didn't faze the young golfer. After a putt rolled around the cup and dropped in for a par on 14 and he sank his great pitching wedge shot on 15, Littler came on in regulation figures to post his 69, matching Kroll's final round.

Behind Kroll in the list of 102 pros and amateurs who survived the opening rounds came the veteran Johnny Bulla, of Pittsburgh, with a 72 for 279, good for $2,100. At 280 were Wally Ulrich with a 67 for the final day, and Johnny Palmer, and Doug Ford, both with 70s. Each collected $1,300.

Must Have Been An Outsider At Parley
By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK — Diligent inquiry failed to establish the identity of the character—presumably a football coach—who voted against spring training when the nation's college mentors meeting here last week called for a show of hands on the controversial subject.

Actually, what happened was that some 500 leading lights of the profession were asked to signify whether they favored extending the present 20-day training period permitted under NCAA regulations to 30 days. Only three hands were not raised, and the owners of two of those explained later that they wanted spring training, all right, but thought that 20 days were sufficient.

That left one voter who, supposedly, did not wish to conduct spring football training at all, and he seems to have melted into the crowd. None of his fellow coaches could, or would, identify the scamp. The suggestion was made that he had mistakenly wandered into the coaches' convocation which was being held on the same floor.

Among those who voted vociferously for the 30-day measure, which will be presented to the NCAA before next year's meeting, were a full complement of coaches from the eight-team Ivy League. They were forced to go into the past season cold, without even an hour of spring drill, and some of the things that happened to them were dreadful.

It is doubtful that the football maestros ever before were so united in any cause as they are in their determination to at least hold what they have in the way of spring practice against the rising tide of opinion against it on the part of the educators.

So far, the Ivy League is the only group of any importance to ban spring drills entirely, but the Pacific Coast Conference has been tossing the matter about in its mind and several smaller circuits also are known to be thinking it over in their search for means of de-emphasizing the fall mania. The coaches think they see a definite trend, and they are determined to head it off.

It is in the spring that the college coach, not to neglect his high school confederate, finds out what he has in the way of new material, builds the groundwork for his attack and generally whips his team into such shape that it needs only polishing in the short time at his disposal before the opening game in the fall.

Hired by Univ. of Tenn. — Bowden Wyatt, football coach at Arkansas, was hired by his alma mater, University of Tennessee, to be head grid coach (Jan. 8) succeeding Harvey Robinson who was fired (Dec. 2) by Tennessee U's athletic council. The long expected appointment of Wyatt to a five-year contract reportedly at $15,000 a year was announced by N. W. Dougherty, council chairman, after a meeting of the group. (AP Wirephoto).

REBEL PASS PLAY CLICKS: — Max Boydston, Oklahoma end leaps high to neatly snare pass thrown by Bobby Freeman which netted the South a 25-yard gain in Senior Bowl game at Mobile, Ala. (Jan. 8). Dick Goist (background) of Cincinnati, North's defensive back, fails to break up play. South rallied with two long touchdown drives in second half to win, 12-6. (AP Wirephoto).

South Team Did Things They Could Do 'Best'

MOBILE, Ala. — Coach Paul Brown said the South team "did the things they could do best" and they kept doing them in outscoring his Northerners 12-6 Saturday after three lean Rebel years in the Senior Bowl.

Brown, coach of the Cleveland Browns, told sports writers, "We did as well as we could."

His backs, led by quarterback Dave Leggett of Ohio State, pierced the powerful South line for an 80-yard touchdown drive in the second quarter of Saturday's game, with Leggett scoring from one foot out.

But the South, directed by longtime pro coach Steve Owen, charged back after the intermission and scored on a drive that followed the second half kickoff. Frank Eidom of Southern Methodist got the tying score on a two-yard drive.

The other south touchdown came on a 10-yard power play by fullback Dick Bielecki of Maryland in the fourth quarter. This followed a sustained drive of 63 yards.

Quarterback Bobby Freeman of Auburn, named outstanding player in the game, did a masterful job of directing the scoring drives and was leading total ground gainer. His fine efforts during the season in Auburn's 33-13 Gator Bowl victory over Baylor, and in the Senior Bowl earned him a contract to play with Winnipeg in the Canadian League.

He and teammate Jack Locklear, center, were signed by Al Sherman, Winnipeg coach who aided Owen in whipping the Southerners into a cohesive unit during their short work of practice.

Each of the winning Rebels received $500 and expenses, and the North team members got $400 and expenses.

Snead Picks Up Extra Cash In Pro-Am Tourney

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — Sam Snead, $1,425 richer for 18 holes of golf in the MacNaughton program, says he hopes his back will continue to improve so he will be at his best for the Masters and the National Open this year.

The White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., veteran was forced out of the Miami open a month ago because his back, which has bothered him off and on for years, started acting up again.

But he didn't play golf like a man with an aching back in the one-day pro-am yesterday at Bayshore golf course.

Snead whipped a field of 50 pros by five strokes with a 7-under-par 65 and collected the $1,000 first prize. He also picked up another $425 for placing in the money with all three of his amateur partners in the two-ball best-ball competition.

GARBAGE IRKS BUSMEN
ALTOONA, Pa. (AP) — Bus drivers report they repeatedly discover paper-wrapped packages containing garbage left by passengers on their buses. This has caused The Altoona and Logan Valley traction company to issue a public warning that they'll prosecute anybody caught doing it.

Willie Mays To End Winter Play

SAN JUAN — Willie Mays has had enough winter baseball and is quitting the Senators club of the Puerto Rican League after next Sunday's doubleheader.

Mays said yesterday in a television interview that he is tired and has found out that a whole year of playing baseball is too much for him. He plans to return to the U.S. Jan. 18.

The New York Giants' star centerfielder goes into his final week leading the league in batting, .395; runs, 59; triples, 6; tied for first in doubles 15 and tied for second in homers with 11.

Billiard Champ To Defend Title

PHILADELPHIA — Luther (Wimpy) Lassiter of Elizabeth City, N.C., will defend his world pocket billiard championship here during the week of Jan. 17.

Lassiter and Irving Crane of Binghamton, N.Y. will play a 1,800-point match at Allinger Billiard Academy. Crane was runner-up for the title last year.

Ring Results

WASHINGTON — Eddie Erdelatz, Navy football coach, will accept a long-term contract to coach the Los Angeles Rams at nearly double his Navy salary, the Washington Post and Times Herald said today.

Shirley Povich, sports columnist for the newspaper, quoted General Manager Nick Kerby of the Detroit Lions as saying, "Erdelatz's shift to the Rams is in the works and will probably be announced before the week is out."

The newspaper said efforts to reach Erdelatz for comment were unavailing.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market rolled briskly ahead today in its second session of strong recovery.

Prices in the early afternoon were up between 4 and 5 points at the outside. There were no depressed spots.

Railroads again were featured leaders of the rally as they were on Friday. They had good backing today from the steels, a field in which business is expanding.

Trading was exceedingly heavy with the tape falling behind as much as four minutes throughout the first hour in reporting dealings on the floor of the stock exchange. That type of lag has been a commonplace in recent sessions.

Stocks displaying the greatest gains included New York Central, Atlantic Coast Line, Bethlehem Steel, Republic Steel, Lee Rubber, Goodrich, Caterpillar Tractor, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Kennecott Copper, General Electric, General Dynamics, Climax Molybdenum Standard Oil (N.J.), and Amerasia Petroleum.

New York Central, which topped the list of most active issues, advanced 3 1/2 points to 48 1/2. Other gains started today on a block of 25,000 shares up 2 1/2 at 39.

Vollite Douglas Aircraft opened on 2,500 shares up 5 1/2 at 128, and then advanced another notch before falling back from its best.

The start of trading brought out numerous large blocks including 15,000 shares of Pennsylvania Railroad up 1/2 at 26, Sunray Oil 10,000 shares up 1 at 25, Boeing 8,500 up 3/4 at 24, and Allegheny Corp. 11,000 up 1/4 at 9 1/4.

Marine Given Preliminary Hearing On Charge Of Rape

A Camp Lejeune Marine is to receive a preliminary hearing in Recorder's Court today on a charge of rape.

The marine, whose name was listed by the sheriff's department as Lemuel Francis Campbell, 17, was said to have picked up a 14-year-old girl at a local drive-in on the pretense of carrying her home, and instead, to have driven her to a spot on a rural dirt road where the alleged assault took place.

Sheriff Tyson stated that the assault was alleged to have taken place between 12 and 1 o'clock yesterday morning. Campbell was placed under arrest shortly after 1 a.m.

At the preliminary hearing today the marine can be freed if the evidence is not sufficient to warrant his being held on the charge or the case can be sent to the Grand Jury by Judge Whebees.

The judge also has the power to reduce the charge to assault on a female, a charge which can be tried in Recorder's Court.

The assault on the young girl was alleged to have taken place on a rural road north of Greenville.

She told police when questioned that Campbell was to take her home when she agreed to ride with him but instead drove out on the rural dirt road.

Police said Campbell's home is in Ohio.

Rape is a capital offense in North Carolina and carries a maximum sentence of death in the gas chamber.

The case was investigated jointly by local police and the sheriff's department.

Noted Negro Agriculture Leader Dies In Baltimore

WASHINGTON (AP)—John W. Mitchell Sr., a North Carolinian who became a top government man in teaching Negro farm people, has died at the age of 69.

He was one of the only three Negroes to be honored by Progressive Farmer magazine as Man of the Year in Southern agriculture.

The native of Morehead City, who rose to field supervisor of Negro extension work in the South, died Friday night at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.

Funeral services for the graduate of Fayetteville State Teachers College will be held tomorrow at Fayetteville where he was reared and where in 1910 he organized Cumberland County's first Negro rural high school. For six years after graduation he was assistant to the president of the Fayetteville college.

In 1917 he began his government service as an extension agent teaching Negro farm people how they could improve their living conditions by such things as developing year-round gardens, and keeping chickens, hogs or a cow or two. He covered three counties—Bladen, Columbus and Pasquotank—on a bicycle in good weather, or on horseback in bad weather.

In 1924 he was moved into the Extension Service district office at Greensboro A&T College with 15 to 20 counties under his jurisdiction.

He kept winning promotions. In 1939 he became state agent in charge of all Extension Service work among Negroes in North Carolina. In 1943 he was moved up to regional field agent supervising the Carolinas and seven other states.

He was brought into the Washington office of the Department of Agriculture in 1943 as supervisor of the extension program among Negroes in 17 states. In that year he was jointly honored with Dr. E. Evans of Prairie View (Tex.) A&M College as Progressive Farmer magazine's Man of the Year in Southern agriculture. Only one other Negro has been so honored, Dr. George Washington Carver of Tuskegee, Ala.

Mitchell leaves his widow, three sons and three daughters. One of his sons, Talmadge Mitchell, is following his father's footsteps as an extension agent in North Carolina.

Pensioner Killed During Quarrel Over His Boots

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A 74-year-old pensioner was stabbed to death in a downtown hotel lobby last night in what police said was a fight over criticism of his cowboy boots.

The victim was Andrew Jackson (Bugs) Staggs, a resident of the hotel. Officers arrested another hotel occupant, Oren Nettles, 56.

A witness said the fight developed when Staggs pulled a knife and challenged Nettles. Officers said Nettles then drew a pocket knife and handed it to the older man.

"It's hard to open," he said. "You open it for me so I can have an equal chance."

Staggs opened the knife, returned it to Nettles and the stabbing followed, police said. Nettles was not hurt.

Burglar Alarm Almost Worked

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Francis R. Applegate, owner of a sporting goods store, had an intercommunication system rigged up as a burglar alarm, and it worked—partly.

His father-in-law C. R. Perry, 72, lives in an apartment over the store. At 3 a.m. yesterday he was awakened by voices coming over the intercom. He went downstairs, looked in the store but didn't see anyone and went back to bed.

In the morning Applegate discovered $1,657 worth of shotguns and rifles missing and a 400-pound safe lying in the back yard. The thieves had rolled the safe out the back door and left it there.

ABC Enforcers Arrested Three

ABC officer Saturday night arrested Ellis Ruth Blount and Evert Lane, Negroes, of 119 Clark Street and charged the pair with possession of non-tax-paid liquor.

Officer J. M. Ward said the two were pouring out a pitcher of the illegal booze as he and Officer H. B. Lilly entered the house.

Each was released under $200 bond. Their case was set for Recorder's Court this morning and was continued until next Monday.

Also Saturday night the officers arrested Cella Langley, Negro, at Snook's Place in Greenville. The ABC officers said they caught the woman with a glass of non-tax-paid liquor in her hand.

The case was also continued until next Monday.

Riding A Horse Coast-To-Coast

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Mrs. Annie Wilkens, 63, aims to ride from coast to coast on horseback. She left her home near Lewiston, Maine, Nov. 7 and reached Lexington yesterday. Destination: Los Angeles.

"I never had a vacation before," she explained.

Ranks Of Scout Council Show Big Gain During '54

WILSON—East Carolina Council, Boy Scouts of America, closed a banner year in 1954 with a grand total membership of 12,470 according to the latest release just made by Ralph H. Mozo, Scout Executive from the Council office in Wilson.

Mr. Mozo said that this past year has been the most active period of Scouting in the Council's history. Within one twelve month membership of boys alone rose from 6,906 to a sensational 9,092. At the same time boys were increasing in large numbers, adult membership went from 2,535 to an all-time high of 3,378 in 1954. These phenomenal gains were spread throughout the twenty-county area served by the East Carolina Council.

One of the highlights of the 1954 picture of Scouting in eastern North Carolina was the realization of a year with no dropped Scouting Units. The Council received a telegram from the Regional Boy Scout Council in Atlanta commending local Scout officials on achieving such an outstanding record. The telegram read in part: "...your is probably the largest Scout Council in the country ever to achieve a 'no dropped Unit' record."

Mr. Penn T. Watson, Wilson, retiring president of the East Carolina Council, said that the credit for the extremely successful year must go to the teamwork of the more than 3,000 volunteer Scout leaders and to the professional staff of the Council led by Mr. Mozo.

Erskine Duff, Greenville, 1954 chairman of the Organization and Extension committee, said that never before in the Council's history had so many boys been served through the Scouting programs as was the record during the past year. Ninety-nine new Cub Scout Packs, Boy Scout Troops and Explorer Units spread the opportunity for boys to enjoy Scouting throughout the far-flung East Carolina Council.

The 1955 administration of the Council, under the leadership of its new president, Dr. J. D. Messick, Greenville, will organize to continue the work this coming year.

Even The Author Hates Japan's New Hit Song

TOKYO (AP)—The author deplores it, the author abhors it and the singer thinks it stinks. But the song, "Oh, My Otoni-San" is sweeping Japan.

The despised tune has made rich everyone connected with it.

The record of "Oh, My Otoni-San" has sold 441,000 copies in just four months, by far a record for Japan.

Imitations flooded the market. The original blues forth from juke boxes, band stands and theater stages all over Japan.

"Oh, My Otoni-San" is a nonsense song set to a brisk melody with the tempo of a drinking song. It is the Japanese equivalent of those freakish American hits which once or twice every generation sweep the United States like "Come On a My House" or the war-time "Maisy-Doats"—or, for the older set—"Yes, We Have No Bananas."

It is a distinct switch from the ordinary Japanese hit, which tends to the tear-jerker.

Otoni-San, the girl in the song is the glamor element in a long-forgotten Kabuki drama. Neither the singer, the composer nor the author ever saw the play.

The crooner who introduced the song, Hachiro Kasuga, 30, has rocketed from cheap cabaret jobs to expensive theater bookings as the nation's favorite singer.

The composer, Masanobu Takuchi, of Okinawa, is swamped with orders for new songs and is rolling in royalties. Like Kasuga, he had been scratching out a precarious musical living since the war.

The poet who wrote the lyrics is also flush, but his artistic self-professes outrage.

"They turned my fine original work into this miserable thing," Tadaaki Yamazaki says.

"But," he concedes, "the miserable thing has made me rich."

His version takes admitted liberties with the original Kabuki theme.

Poet Yamazaki wrote an ode to Otoni-San and submitted it to the King Phonograph Co., where it gathered dust in a drawer for months.

"The composer Takuchi fished it out," Yamazaki said. "Together we completely ruined my poem against my better judgment, and the hit song was the result."

Crooner Kasuga was reluctant to sing what he called "this lousy hillbilly song," but he needed the money.

Music critics lavished only scorn on what they called the "silly song." It was a losing fight. Nothing could stop "Otoni-San."

Service Award To Be Made By Farmville JCs

FARMVILLE—The Junior Chamber of Commerce's "distinguished service award" will be made to some young man in the 21-35 age bracket at a meeting here January 18 at 7 o'clock at the High School Cafeteria.

The banquet is sponsored by the Jaycees, Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs.

The award is made annually to a young man for outstanding service in the community. In addition, a special civic award is made to some citizen who, because of age, is ineligible for the "distinguished service" award. Horton Rountree and John B. Lewis received the awards for 1953.

Any Farmville citizen may submit a nomination for the honor. Nominations will be obtained from Jaycee Chairman Dan Morgan or Secretary Edwards. Dallas F. Dally, chief development engineer for the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development, will be the principal speaker. He will arrive early in the afternoon and, with Chamber of Commerce Secretary Charles S. Edwards, will look over Farmville's industrial possibilities.

Home Garden Value Is Reviewed At HD Meet

The value of home gardens was brought out in a demonstration by Mrs. Lillie Little, county Home agent, at the Red Oak Home Demonstration Club's first meeting for the new year at the home of Mrs. Jarvis Tripp, Sr.

Assisting hostesses for the 18 members and one visitor present were Mrs. J. E. Joyner, Mrs. F. L. Allen and Mrs. Lizette Timberlake.

In giving the demonstration, Mrs. Little revealed the American food bill is $73,000,000,000 per year, but the family garden worth from $600 to $1,000 per year.

She stated that, according to a survey, not enough gardens are planted, and a greater variety of vegetables are needed in those that are planted.

Each club member present signified her intention of planting at least one new vegetable during the coming year. Mrs. Lena Manning, garden leader, was given a packet of seed to plant and was asked to make a report later on the results.

Scotland was the subject of an informative talk by Mrs. F. L. Allen, after which the group sang the Scottish folk song, "Loch Lomond." Scotland is the country the club selected to study during the coming year in connection with its international relations program.

Mrs. Rena Manning gave a report on the foods of the country, in addition to a report on magazines for the home in which she classified them into various groups. She stressed the importance of having in the home at least one magazine from the family, farm, church, news and children's groups.

The club decided to sponsor the

Following the business session, the hostesses served a sweet course of fruit cake, ambrosia and nuts with coffee.

No Hold-Up, He Was Winning Bet

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A passing motorist reported a service station was being robbed last night, and an off-duty officer, hearing the police broadcast rushed unarmed to the scene.

Seeing the attendant with his hands up, officer R.E. Albee hurried a brick through the window and ordered the bandit to surrender.

The cause of the surprise was the unarmed attendant said there was no robbery taking place.

"This fellow bet me I couldn't hold my hands straight up for 15 minutes," he said. "I was just trying to win a bet."

Adm. Radford To Report On Tour

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, leaves today for Washington, D.C., where he will report on his month-long inspection tour of the Far East.

The admiral and his wife arrived here yesterday aboard a Navy transport plane from Honolulu. He conferred with leaders in Indochina, the Philippines, Formosa, Korea and Japan.

Japan Outlines Military Needs

TOKYO (AP)—Japan plans a 162,100-man army, a 21,348-man navy and a 13,276-man air force in the fiscal year starting April 1. If the Diet (Parliament) approves the necessary budget, the National Defense Board announced today.
